FUTURE OF KIM SIGLER WILL SHINE FORTH OVER NATION!

austere, dignity. He never wisecracks, never makes a remark with the idea of showing off. Instead there is about him an intense seriousness. His voice is never strident, is always modulated. He is not given to flamboyant utterances.

LIKE THAT other Michigander, Tom Dewey, his genius is a capacity, for work. He prepares his cases with a deadly intensity and a tireless mastery of detail. That is why he was able to send 41 of the crooks in our State Government to the penitentiary and dragged confessions from 12 others. He did not accomplish this because the crooks were not well financed. The gang had the best legal talent that money could buy.

During the campaign the dopesters were pretty well agreed that Kim Sigler could not win because he did not have organization. I contended that if he DID win it would be because he did not have "organization."

His immediate appeal to the people was that he was NOT a politician in the generally accepted meaning of that word. He was the one who was fighting the politicians. For that reason they were for him.

"Dropped as special prosecutor, he did not retire from the arena as a beaten man. He accepted the challenge by announcing his candidacy for Governor and carrying the fight directly to the people. The results are now history.

When I said that I thought he would win I was looking back through American history—with Tom Dewey immediately in mind.

MAYOR JEFFRIES in one of his lighter moments during the campaign said that all Sigler had to recommend him was that he was "against sin." That has always been a good crack ever since Calvin Coolidge first pulled it.

But I was thinking of the crusades against "sin" launched by Charles Evans Hughes in New York that made him a national figure. Also Hiram Johnson of California, whose crusades against corruption in that state made him, unto his death, an unbeatable candidate. There was Grover Cleveland's crusades against Tammany Hall and Woodrow Wilson's battle against the corrupt gang of New Jersey. Above all, there were the wars against political iniquities waged by Theodore Roosevelt.

American history is full of the records of men who won the confidence of the people because they were willing to battle against crooks in office. That is the element in the American character which the dopesters overlooked.

But to be such a crusader the man has to have tireless energy, high ability and great courage. All these attributes Sigler seems to possess.

WEDDINGS

Evelyn Gorton Weds Albert Smith In Church Ceremony

The First Presbyterian church was the scene Thursday evening, June 20, of the marriage of Evelyn Fry Gorton, of Ypsilanti, and Albert James Smith, of Burroughs Farms, Brighton.

The ceremony, performed by Reverend Henry Walch, took place before an altar decorated with white gladioli, white snapdragons, lighted tapers and banks of palms.

Mrs. Maurice Woodworth rendered Wagner's "Lohengrin," Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" and other selections on the organ.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, of Detroit, brother and sister-in-law of the bride.

The bride, attired in a pale blue crepe dress with white accessories, wore a corsage of gardenias and stephanotis.

The maid of honor wore a pink dress with white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Following the ceremony, a reception for about thirty-five relatives and close friends was held in the church parlor.

Guests were present from Toledo, Rockwood, Brighton, Ann Arbor, Detroit, Dearborn and Plymouth.

After a week in New York City, the couple will reside at 11019 Melrose, Rosedale Gardens.

For the past fourteen years, Mrs. Smith has served as art instructor in the local high school. She resigned her position at the close of the school year.

Mr. Smith is foreman of the printing department in the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, where he has been employed for the past fifteen years.

Their many friends extend congratulations and best wishes.

Genevieve Cox and Stanley Saskowsky Are Wedded Here

The parlor of the First Presbyterian church of Plymouth was the scene on Friday, June 21, at four o'clock, of the marriage of Genevieve Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cox, of Middlebelt Road, to Stanley C. Saskowsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Saskowsky, of Dearborn.

Rev. Woodrow Wooley officiated in place of Rev. Walch, who was out of town. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride's gown was of white marquisette with a fingertip veil. Her bouquet was of white roses and stephanotis. The maid of honor, Norma J. Kennedy, wore a yellow gown and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

The groom's attendant was Paul Kennedy.

The mothers of the bride and groom wore white corsages.

The reception was held later in the home of the bride's aunt, Joe-Nell Mousseau, in Redford, with about fifty guests present. The wedding cake was a three tier cake topped with a bride and groom.

After their weekend trip, the couple will make their home on Middlebelt Road.

Church Wedding For Barbara Pace And Robert R. Varner Jr.

The Newburg Methodist church was the scene on Wednesday, June 26, of the marriage of Barbara Jean Pace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Pace, to Robert R. Varner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Varner of Ashboro, North Carolina.

The bride wore a nylon taffeta gown with a full length veil of Irish lace. The gown had a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves coming to a point at the wrists.

The bride carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white rosebuds. Her attendant, Mary Kathryn Harper of Keego Harbor, wore a gown of blue marquisette and carried a colonial bouquet of the groom's attendant was Stanley Pace, uncle of the bride. Glenn Pace and Neal Pierce acted as ushers.

The reception was held in the church hall with 150 guests from Detroit, Trenton, Pontiac, Auburn Heights, Keego Harbor, Commerce, Rosedale Gardens and Plymouth.

After their honeymoon to North Carolina, the couple will make their home here in Plymouth.

Plymouth High School Student Says "Emergency Bread" is O. K.

Who says that the public schools are not right up in the front line when it comes to teaching boys and girls the important subjects about important things in these important times?

By chance, The Plymouth Mail discovered a few days ago that the English class students in the high school taught by Miss Irene Waldorf, had been required to write an article on some subject of their own selection, and that each student was required to select their own subject and do all the research work in securing necessary data for the article they prepared.

Alert to the importance of the wheat and bread subject these days when people can't purchase a sufficient bread supply for the family, Miss Sally Gustafson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knut Gustafson of 472 Adams street, selected as her subject, "Bread, The Staff of Life."

This youthful high school miss, who plans to become a dietitian, interestingly discussed the new emergency flour problem declaring that even the most expert has difficulty in telling the difference between regular white flour and "emergency" flour.

The article follows in part: There has been a great deal of controversy about the new emergency or dark flour. In the days before the food emergency, millers got seventy-two pounds of flour from one hundred lbs of wheat, the other twenty-eight pounds being waste. To make the extra fine patent flours only sixty-four to sixty-eight pounds of flour were obtained from one hundred pounds of wheat. The best, most nutritious parts of the wheat, were either thrown away or used as cattle feed. To make emergency flour, from every one hundred pounds of grain, eighty pounds of flour must be obtained. This emergency flour has more wholesome food values than pre-war flour. It contains more riboflavin, iron, niacin, and protein than plain white flour. Though the protein is good nutritionally, it may interfere slightly with baking by weakening the gluten structure. This interference may be so slight that most housewives will not notice it.

The appearance of emergency flour is not greatly different from regular flour. Since it contains more pigment or parts of the wheat kernel, emergency flour is off-white or creamy grey. Many people have been tested to see if they can distinguish em-

Edison Mails All Refund Checks

The last of 1,122,742 Detroit Edison Company refund checks for a grand total of more than $16,000,000 was to be mailed a few days ago to East China School No. 3, RFD No. 1, St. Clair, Mich. It was for $12.10. The first check was mailed on Feb. 5 to Jessie E. Tobin, 5897 Begole avenue, Detroit.

Announcement of the completion of the major of the refund operation was made by George C. Dean, of Hastings, trustee in charge by appointment of the Ingham County Circuit Court.

Approximately 125,000 checks for a total of $850,000 are still uncashed and in the hands of Edison customers, and 25,000 more have been returned by postal authorities as undeliverable. Dean will remain in charge of the refund until Jan. 1, 1947, after which the effort to locate those remaining customers whose checks are uncashed or undeliverable will be turned to the Detroit Edison company. At the end of six years the money represented by such checks as are still uncashed will be escheated to the State.

The refund, ordered by the Michigan Public Service Commission and approved by the Circuit Court last Dec. 31, involved a total of $16,450,000 collected in 1944 and 1945 which otherwise would have been paid to the Federal Government as war time excess profits taxes. At the same time, Jan. 1, 1946, a rate reduction to all electric customers of $3,000,000 a year became effective.

The cost of the refund operation, deducted from the $16,450,000 total, was $320,000. The actual work was done by Detroit Edison under Dean's supervision. The staff of 84 employees which began the operation grew to a maximum of 153 in March and today is reduced to 56. The task required 103 working days and every check was mailed on scheduled time.

Of the 1,122,000 customers receiving checks, 1,309 persons telephoned refund headquarters to complain that their checks were too small. However, 56 persons called to state that, in their opinion, theirs were too large, and one customer endorsed his check and returned it to Detroit Edison with the statement that he did not think he was entitled to a refund.

FACTS ON 1946 FORD DELIVERIES

Perhaps you are among the thousands who are eagerly awaiting the delivery of your new 1946 Ford. We . . . the Ford Dealers . . . know and understand your feelings . . . your needs. Each day brings us hundreds of letters, telephone calls and personal visits from the folks on our waiting lists.

Below are some facts which we think will help you realize why your new Ford has not yet arrived . . . "reasons why" that go beyond the control of the Ford Motor Company and us . . . its dealers.

HOW DO FORD DELIVERIES TODAY COMPARE WITH 1941?

100% Actual deliveries first 5 months of 1941

32.7% Actual deliveries first 5 months of 1946

The demand for 1946 Ford Cars is many times greater than in 1941. Yet, through May, dealers had received only 1/3 as many cars. The June delivery schedule is even smaller due to suppliers' labor difficulties.

WHY HAVE DELIVERIES DURING THE 1st 5 MONTHS OF 1946 FALLEN BEHIND DELIVERIES FOR THE SAME PERIOD IN 1941?

Month	Production Days	Days Worked	Days Lost
January	22	22	0
February	20	20	0
March	21	15	6
April	22	18	4
May	22	13	9

During the first five months of 1946 there were 107 days on which production would normally be carried on. However due to material shortages and strikes in suppliers plants 39 of these days, representing 36% of the working potential were "lost" by Ford workers. Not one day was "lost" due to a strike by Ford employees. Today there are still strikes among suppliers effecting production and delaying delivery of 1946 Ford cars and trucks. According to estimates, Ford assembly lines will operate but 5 days in June—only 1/4 of the working potential.

HOW DOES THE NUMBER OF ORDERS FOR 1946 FORD CARS ON HAND TODAY COMPARE WITH ORDERS AS OF JANUARY 1st?

100% ORDERS Jan. 1, 1946

103% ORDERS TODAY 3% greater than on Jan. 1

Deliveries since "V-8 Day" (Oct. 26, 1945) have failed to keep pace with orders received. However this situation can change once production shortages are overcome.

IS A "TRADE-IN" NECESSARY FOR THE PURCHASE OF A NEW FORD?

No "TRADE-IN" on 67% of deals

"TRADE-INS" on 33%

Approximately two of every three 1946 Fords sold to date have been without a "Trade-In".

WHAT PER CENT OF NEW 1946 FORDS HAVE BEEN DELIVERED TO VETERANS AND OTHER PRIORITY GROUPS?

Group	Percentage
Veterans	32.1
Doctors and Nurses	6.9
City, State and Federal Agencies	10.5
Business Institutions	19.1
Essential Workers	17.3
Miscellaneous	14.1

Ford dealers appreciate your patience and understanding. So long as the current shortage exists, we shall adhere to the emergency delivery policies we have adopted in the public interest. But we, too, look forward to the day when "The Ford In Your Future" will be your proud possession. You'll find your new Ford well worth waiting for!

BLACK MARKET: Ford Dealers are pledged to resist the "Black Market" and its unscrupulous operators. They are making every possible effort to prevent 1946 Ford cars now being delivered from falling in the hands of people who buy for "resale".

FORD DEALERS OF DEARBORN BRANCH

DEALER ADV. D-3A

"Why did my neighbor get a telephone before me?"

That's a perfectly reasonable question, and we want everyone to know the order in which we are installing telephones today. For we still follow a priorities schedule established by the Government.

Telephones essential to Government, public health and welfare come first. Next, business customers moving to new locations within the same area. Then, new business service for returned veterans. All other new or additional business service follows. And, after that, temporary residence service in cases of illness or disability. Next in line are folks who move to a new residence within the same area. Residence service essential to military production, reconversion, employment, and food production follow. Then, residence service for returned veterans and the wives of service men. And, finally, all other applications for main residence service.

Remember this: within each of these groups, as facilities become available, those who have waited longest get their telephones first.

We'd like to fill every order on our books right now. But material shortages and strikes in many industries have dashed our hope of ending all waiting lists in Michigan by late fall. We now hope to get enough materials so that most of the orders for service received before January 1, 1946, will be filled by the end of the year. In areas where sufficient facilities become available, we expect to fill many orders received this year, but it may be late in 1947 before we can return to a "ready-to-serve" basis everywhere. We shall spare no effort to fill each order just as soon as we can.

Streamliners For Plymouth in Service Soon

It will not be long before Plymouth residents who are patrons of the Pere Marquette will be enjoying rides on some of the finest and most luxurious trains operated in the entire country. The Railway has just taken delivery of the two new Diesel locomotives which will power the "Pere Marquettes", Michigan's first diesel-drawn trains and the country's first post-war streamliners which are to be commissioned into service this summer. The Diesels are of the type used on the nation's fastest scheduled passenger trains, Pere Marquette officials asserted.

The locomotives, built by General Motors, are of 2,000 horsepower. The power plant of each consists of two 1,000-horsepower, 12 cylinder, v-type, 2-cycle Diesel engines, each directly connected to an electric generator.

Current is led through control apparatus in the engineer's cab to the four traction motors, located two in each 6-wheel truck. Each traction motor is geared directly to a driving axle, resulting in power at the rail at eight wheel points. Each locomotive weighs, fully loaded, 315,000 pounds, is 71 feet long, 14 ft. 10 in. in height, overall, 9 ft. 6 in. wide and carries 1,200 gallons of fuel oil and 1,200 gallons of train-heating boiler water.

The Pere Marquette Diesel is the exact reverse of the traditional steam locomotive. It has no boiler; the operating cab is "up front", the power plant is behind the engineer. The revolutionary type cab is high up in the nose of the locomotive. The view through an automobile-like windshield is unobstructed. The cab, painted in a light gray tone, is separated from the engine room by an insulated partition and door, is roofed with sound absorbing material, has adjustable roll-down "no-draft" side windows for summer ventilation, is heated in winter, and is equipped with automatic windshield wipers, defrosters, sun visors and pneumatic horns (one for town and one for country operation).

Engineer and fireman sit in deeply upholstered swivel armchairs, intended to lessen fatigue and hence aid alertness, and in the sound-proofed cab can converse in ordinary tones, facilitating exchange of signal observations. Before them are the controls, located for most natural accessibility, and similar to those on steam locomotives—throttle, reverse lever, train and locomotive brake levers; a sander, and such operating aids as air pressure indicator, warning devices, speedometer, and fuel gage.

Among the controls is an emergency foot pedal which the engineer must keep depressed while the train is in motion. If for any reason this pressure is released, power is shut off and the brakes are automatically applied.

The Plymouth Mail has been advised that this city will be a stop for these trains on both east and west runs.

God is Father, infinite, and this great truth, when understood in its divine metaphysics, will establish the brotherhood of man, end wars, and demonstrate "on earth peace, good will toward men."

Masons Visit Washington

Remember back in the good-old-days when special excursions were so popular with the people of this country?

Yes, folks who went no them did thoroughly enjoy the delightful affairs in the long ago.

But the people of the yesterdays didn't enjoy these excursions any more than did the 130 Plymouth members of the Masonic lodge, their wives and friends who left here Friday, for Washington, returning Monday.

Oscar Alsbro, who arranged the trip, received the thanks of every one who went to Washington. They declared it was one of the most enjoyable events enjoyed in sometime.

Complaint Made of Flood Damage

A communication signed "residents of Harvey street," has been sent to the city clerk as well as The Plymouth Mail, protesting because the Tonquish storm sewer backs up during heavy rain storms and floods basements along Harvey street south of Penniman avenue.

This storm sewer was constructed by the county drain commissioner and is under the control of the county. When it was constructed steel grates were placed across it to prevent obstructions from getting into the big pipe. Later part of them were removed, but some three or four years ago were replaced by the county.

During the storm last week, flood wood backed up against the grates and flooded basements of a number of homes in that vicinity.

The Harvey street residents are asking that the proper authorities see to it that the water does not back up and do damage to their property. They also ask that people living along the south side of Penniman avenue be prohibited from dumping rubbish into the creek.

Unfortunately those who sent the letter to the city did not sign names. It is not known whether an unsigned communication will get official consideration. It may, however, be referred to the county drain commissioner, who has control of this big drain.

Fish Stories Become Whoppers

Tuesday was the big day. But Wednesday, Thursday and Friday have been bigger days—that is, bigger days for bigger fish stories.

"Ye Fishing Editor" has decided that because of the wide discrepancies in nearly all the fish stories he has heard, that it will not be advisable to publish any of them.

Some say they caught the limit in five minutes, others say they caught so many big fish they had to have help to pull them in the boat, and others declare that they didn't have to do any fishing at all, because the fish just jumped right into their boats.

At any rate, there wasn't a boat to be reeled on a lake within 50 miles of Plymouth and if you hadn't arranged for your boats before Tuesday, you just fished off the bank of the lake or from some bridge.

There is this much that can be said about the opening day, knowing that it bears some semblance to the truth, nearly all of the fishermen did have good luck.

Rev. Sanders Moves to Owosso

Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Sanders are today moving to Owosso, where he becomes pastor of the First Methodist church of that city, and the newly assigned pastor to Plymouth, Rev. Clifford Doty, who has been serving the church in Owosso, today moves his family to the Methodist parsonage in Plymouth.

Each of the pastors filled the pulpits in their new assignments last Sunday, meeting members of their congregations and becoming acquainted with their new fields of endeavor.

Rev. and Mrs. Sanders will take their annual vacation in August, spending it at their summer cottage on Lake Huron in Harrisville.

If you have any items of interest about your family or friends please call Plymouth 6.

BY • ELTON R. EATON

What are they, game hogs or conservationists? We'd like to know. The other day there came to the writer's desk a copy of The Wayne County Sportsman, a new publication being issued by the Wayne County Sportsman's Club, with headquarters down in River Rouge.

There was a heading, which read, "Oppose Cut in Duck Season, Bag Limit."

Then it reported that at "A meeting of chairmen of the migratory bird committees of all the MUCC clubs in the state—went on record as opposing any curtailment of the duck hunting season or bag limit until more information on the alleged decrease in the duck population was on hand."

Isn't that something! The writer didn't go duck hunting last fall—but we talk frequently with local duck hunters who spend nearly the entire duck hunting season at their shacks along Saginaw bay, regarded as one of the largest "wild duck ponds" in America.

They know what they are talking about—and two of the most observing of these duck hunters say that during the past three or four years there has been a most alarming decrease in duck flights as well as decreases in the sizes of duck flocks.

Russell Powell has for years made it a practice to spend most of the duck hunting season at his cabin on Saginaw bay near Sebawaing. He is one of the observing duck hunters who three years ago noted that there were not as many duck flights or as many ducks on the bay as usual.

The following season he noted a little increase but last year he said there were fewer ducks on the bay than there had been in years. "There's no question but what not so many ducks are flying as in past years and when they are not flying south in the fall you can make up your mind that there are less ducks than there used to be," said Mr. Powell.

But Saginaw bay is not the only place where this condition has been noted. The same is true in northern Michigan. Recently the writer talked with an old duck hunter who has hunted duck on the Maple bay arm of Burt lake near where the Crooked river flows into the lake.

He, too, reported a yearly decrease in the number of ducks to be found on and around Burt lake. William Rambo who for more years than one can remember has hunted on Saginaw bay every fall, declares there is a decided decrease in the number of ducks.

"Two years ago we did note an increase over the previous year, but that was just one year. There are few blue-bills, red-heads and not very many pin-tails or baldpate American widgeons to be found during the fall hunting season. Years ago there used to be lots of them," said this duck hunter.

Not so long ago we heard the retiring president of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association declare that he wasn't so sure but what a lot of fellows who belong to various sportsmen's organizations are sportsmen or just plain "armed city marauders" searching the country fields and by-ways for something to kill, no matter what it is.

"The Sportsman" adds that it was the "meeting's opinion that if the government agencies were basing their findings on figures such as are compiled by the Michigan Department of Conservation they are not worth very much" etc., claiming that only a small per cent of the hunters made reports of their kill as required by law.

Even scattering reports are valuable when considered with the observations of people who are in a position to watch and study duck flights during the entire season.

That's right—we sometimes wonder whether a lot of these so-called enthusiastic conservation club members are true conservationists or just plain, out-right game hogs.

Some one told you they saw a sea serpent last year in one of Michigan's lakes? Maybe.

But what they really saw was one of the big sturgeons that can be found in some of the big inland lakes as well as the Great Lakes.

Early each summer when the vacation population of Michigan is high and more than the usual number of eyes are scanning lake and stream waters, the conservation department's fish division gets reports of sea serpents, sea monsters and whales. Swimmers from coastal states swear they saw shark fins cutting the water.

The division is happy to get the reports, for every report, reduced from fantastic to everyday language, is one more encouraging bit of evidence that sturgeon are making progress in their long come-back from near extermination.

June is sturgeon spawning time, and early vacationers sometimes see in shallow waters the big fish that will spend the rest of the season foraging deep on the lake bottoms. The frightening commotion sturgeon make when they beat the water to foam with their rolling, fisheries men explain, is a simple maneuver the big fish have for shaking off parasitic sea lampreys.

Sturgeon have been protected 17 years in Michigan, since 1929, but one starting from the egg at that time would still be a mere youth, with three to eight years to go before his first spawning and the prospect of 80 or more years of life ahead of him. Prize recent specimen taken was one injured by a boat propeller off the mouth of St. Joseph river in Lake Michigan in 1943. It weighed 310 pounds, measured 7 feet 11 inches.

Before their value for steaks and caviar was realized, sturgeon were stacked on beaches like cordwood and burned, because of the damage they did to nets. From 1880 to 1900 Michigan commercial fishermen took a million pounds of sturgeon annually. By 1929 this catch was down to 7,000 pounds. Now only Ontario, among the states bordering the Great Lakes, permits the taking of this odd species, which is a carryover from prehistoric times.

Among encouraging signs of the slow sturgeon come-back are the numbers taken in commercial fishermen's nets, particularly at the south end of Lake Huron, and the number of young ones taken at dams when game fish are transferred by dipnetting. The few kept in fish hatchery ponds to keep the bottoms clean and for display purposes are changed occasionally, as they grow excessively thin on the pond bottom diet.

below normal and spring didn't go out like the lamb it was when it came in. It went out in one of the longest, heaviest and coldest rains this section has had in years.

When the sun came up on the morning of June 21 it blazed down on fields of corn and potatoes covered with water.

Farmers declare that the big rain storm of last week did much more damage than good. Anyway summer is officially here but the weather and Washington New Dealers have certainly left a bad taste in the mouths of every one.

Wisdom is the right use of knowledge. To know is not to be wise... But to know how to use knowledge is to have wisdom.—Spurgeon

Summer Arrives On a Cold Wave

Summer arrived in Plymouth right on time last Friday morning, June 21, at 6 o'clock with the mercury standing at 51 degrees. (That's March weather.)

But the sun was shining, even though March breezes were blowing, and the big rain storm, seemed to be over.

Harry Robinson, who has watched more summers come and go than the average man, said the arrival of the 1946 summer was just like the coming of any other summer to him.

"They're all the same. Sometimes it's hot. Sometimes it's cold. Sometimes it is wet. There isn't a thing you can do about it, so I never kick about the weather any more," he told the weather editor of The Plymouth Mail.

At any rate June temperature averages have been 7 degrees

Who Did It-That's The Big Question In Fire Department Discussion

Who was it that called up Detroit papers a few days ago and told them that the Plymouth fire department had "gone on strike" or was going to resign "en masse" which is the same thing as striking?

Who was it that gave them the information that an "investigation" had been made of the department by the city commission, when as a matter of fact no such investigation was ever made or considered?

Plymouth folks would like to know who it was that is so anxious to create a mess up at the city hall that outsiders were under the impression that Plymouth had a fire department so disloyal to its own city that it would leave the property of the community without fire protection.

Some members of the fire department say they did not strike—that they simply intended to resign.

It will be recalled that last summer during a discussion of the fire department problems, city commissioner Stanley Corbett suggested that he thought it would be a good idea for the commission to name a group of local property owners to make a study of the fire department and after its review to make such recommendations to the city commission as the study committee felt advisable.

There was no ill-will, no criticism of anybody, only a desire to try and improve the fire department if it needed improving to provide the city with better fire protection. There was nothing said by Mr. Corbett at the time or since about an "investigation" of the fire department. The committee named was simply a study group.

Most people in Plymouth have felt that the fire department, with its limited facilities, has done a pretty good job.

But there has been a belief on the part of many citizens that Plymouth is a fast growing city, that the problems of today are much different than those of 15 or 20 years ago when this place was a mere village with only one important industry. Plymouth now has many industries, its population has more than doubled in 20 years and the needs of expanded city services have long been felt.

Then too, those who are familiar with the city government have felt that the fire department should be on the same basis as any other city department, just like the police department, the treasurer's department or the health department.

The study committee's report was published in full in the June 14th issue of The Plymouth Mail.

The city commission accepted the report of the committee and is now studying it and expects to pass only such regulations as will give the city better fire protection.

The committee was composed of three citizens who, like nearly all residents of Plymouth, are vitally interested in an outstanding fire department. Colonel Cass S. Hough was chairman and John Blyton of the Taylor & Blyton stores, and Robert Lidgard of the Lidgard Brothers grocery store and meat market on the north side of the city, were the other members of the committee. The committee, as every one knows, was motivated only by its keen interest in the welfare and protection of a fast growing city.

But out of the effort to make better one of the city's departments, came a lot of unfavorable publicity in Detroit for Plymouth and a slur upon members of the fire department, who resent the implication that they had gone on strike or were going to strike.

A lot of people around town who have known the members of the fire department for years just couldn't believe the headlines in the Detroit papers—and they will be relieved to know that some citizens of Plymouth who are hired to protect the property of the other citizens of Plymouth didn't intend to strike against their neighbors and friends.

Who did the "dirty work" will probably remain a mystery—but it did put a lot of decent people in a mighty false light.

Meanwhile Mayor Robert Lidgard and members of the city commission and firemen plan to have a discussion of the fire department problems, which will be worked out satisfactorily.

Are you really one of the best drivers in YOUR COMMUNITY?

Here's a way to rate yourself in the POLICE TRAFFIC SAFETY CHECK

Let's be honest, now . . . remember, your own safety and that of your family depend on the way you drive.

10 "YES" answers—Are you really that good?
8 to 10 "YES" answers—Good driving. We need more of you!
6 to 8 "YES" answers—Fair driving. You must improve.
Less than 6 "YES" answers—Poor driving. You're headed for trouble; possibly injury and serious financial loss!

P. S. Take another look at your score. Would your family and friends rate you the same?

Urge Purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds

Although both Plymouth banks and Assistant Postmistress Bernice Schultz highly recommend the investment of surplus dollars in U. S. Savings bonds, they all report that the purchase of these bonds by Plymouth residents has been exceedingly slow in recent weeks.

The treasury department is anxious to push this type of investment, believing that it will do much to help hold off both threatened inflation and a depression.

Randall Penhale, former Plymouth high school principal, who has just assumed a position as deputy director of the educational department of the U. S. savings bonds committee in Michigan, adds his high endorsement to this type of investment.

Robert C. Douglass, State Director for the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury, points out that in 1946 American consumers will have at least $20 billions of income over and above what they can spend at legitimate prices on all the consumer goods and services available this year.

To get as much as possible of this surplus money out of the market for scarce goods and into savings bonds is the aim of a publicity campaign launched by the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury, Mr. Douglass explained. This will run through July 4. It is not a bond drive in the wartime sense, with quotas and patriotic appeals to "back the attack". This time the appeal is to "back your own future" by putting away every possible spare dollar in U. S. Savings Bonds.

"Spending money recklessly, buying scarce goods at inflated prices," Mr. Douglass concluded, "is like cutting down the tree to get at a few green apples. The thing to do is wait until the apples are ripe before you eat them. Leave the tree to bear fruit in years to come. Any child can see the sense of that, yet a lot of grown folks don't apply it to their money."

Sales of all U. S. Savings Bonds in the first five months of 1946 in the nation totalled almost $3 1/2 billions; nationally, sales exceeded redemptions by $629, 000, 000.

"Inflation is our Number One domestic problem." That statement was made by Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson on the eve of his nomination to be Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.

"The people of America," Mr. Vinson continued, "have developed a tremendous demand for consumer goods, backed up by many billions of dollars in savings. Although we are well on our way into peacetime production, we cannot produce enough tomorrow or the next day to meet this accumulated demand. Here lies the danger of spiralling prices or inflation."

"A bad case of inflation would be a national catastrophe, affecting each and every one of us. It would distort every economic value, private and public. And so I say to you: One of the best ways to combat inflation is to take as few of our dollars as possible to market until production shall match demand."

"If you desire to help your country and yourself to win the economic phase of World War II, you will not only hold every war bond that you have, but you will continue to buy as many U. S. Savings Bonds as you can. Thus you will help yourself and help to control inflation."

Two suggestions to bathers for preventing the skin infection known as "swimmer's itch" come from the Michigan Department of Health. (1) Swim in deep water; it's the paddlers in shallow water who are infected. (2) Rub the skin briskly with a rough towel immediately after leaving the water.

The only liberty that is valuable, is a liberty connected with order; that not only exists with order and virtue, but which cannot exist at all without them. —Burke

Bread and Cake are Made From Different Type Flour

The flour we use in making cake is not the same type of flour we use in making bread. Cake flour would not make a loaf of bread you'd enjoy eating. The loaf would be heavy because cake flour is known as a soft flour and could not stand up under the mixing, moulding, etc., which bread doughs undergo. Neither would bread flour make good cake.

Each of these flours comes from a different kind of wheat. Each of them has entirely different characteristics, although they are both flour. In commercial baking, bread and cake flour cannot be used interchangeably.

BARBSON

BARBSON DISCUSSES STARTING NEW BUSINESSES

NEW YORK CITY, June 28. Many returning Servicemen are asking me about the possibilities of entering or starting a new business of their own. Let me first say that 400,000 of these have already been started during the past year bringing the total to 3,235,000.

Warning to Veterans

These men are very leery of advising returning Servicemen to start a new business at this time. They offer various reasons why this is unwise. Among these reasons are the astonishing failure statistics which are now being published. Based on all previous history, it is generally recognized that the time to start a new business is when failures are very many, rather than when they are few.

A simple illustration is that it is much better to take on a load when you are at the top of a hill and coast downward than when you are at the bottom of the hill and must pull upwards. Things look too rosy today; it is too easy now to sell goods or borrow money. Wait until competition is again normal.

What Failures Teach

From 1900-1910 failures averaged over 11,000 a year. From 1910-1920 they averaged over 15,000. Then, at the close of World War I, they immediately dropped to about 7,000. That year of 1920 compares with the year 1947 which we are about to enter. But here is the important fact: In 1922 failures shot up to nearly 24,000 and these failures continued to increase until a maximum of 31,822 was reached in 1932. Since then, failures gradually decreased to an all-time low of 810 in 1945.

Today failures are running even less. Based on all previous history there should be a tremendous increase in failures during the next few years, and, as heretofore, the people starting new businesses now will be the greatest sufferers, including many Servicemen. This means that veterans should spend the next two years at a School of Business Administration or else working for someone else in their chosen line, rather than now start a new business.

Buying Existing Businesses

There is one exception to the above advice, namely, the possibility of buying an existing business at a reasonable price. Every year men who own small and successful businesses are getting older and some every year die. Often these businesses are for sale cheap. In some cases there are no children to carry on; while in other cases the business must be sold to pay the estate taxes. Hence, bargains appear now and then which can be considered notwithstanding the coming inevitable failures.

The question will arise as to how much to pay for an existing business. A very good rule is five times the average annual net earnings after taxes, certainly ten times would be a maximum price to pay. There also are other considerations such as location, competition and the general character of the business. As a check, one should consider the average earnings for ten years, as the last five years earnings may have been largely influenced by war business.

Locating Businesses For Sale

Returning Servicemen who are serious in their desire to purchase an existing business should go at it systematically as about 300,000 were sold the past year. This can best be done by carefully reading the advertisements in the newspapers of larger cities of the state in which one desires to settle. It also might be well to write the chambers of commerce, banks, or law firms where one cares to locate. It usually is wise to buy a good business in a small community rather than in a large city. At any rate, the wise veteran will take at least a year looking over the field before purchasing even an existing business.

One other suggestion: The main value of an existing business consists of the name, accounts and goodwill. This means that often the business has assets which can be liquidated by reducing the price which the purchaser must pay. These assets may include real estate, buildings and old machinery which the purchaser does not need but which can now be sold at favorable prices. Frankly, I advise returning Servicemen, who desire to someday have a business of their own, to start in now and lay up cash which will be ready to use when the next crash comes and failures again jump to over 30,000 a year.

25 YEARS AGO

25 yrs. ago from the boom of the first gun on the morning of July 4th, until the shooting of the last skyrocket in the evening, there will be something going in Plymouth. In fact the coming celebration promises to be the best that has been pulled off in Plymouth in many years. Invite your friends to come to Plymouth to celebrate the Fourth with us. Here is the program: ladie's ball throwing contest, little girl's race, sack race, girl's race (under 15 yrs.), three-legged race, greased pole, 100 yard dash for Odd Fellows only, two baseball games, grand vehicle parade, address, and dancing. One of the big features of the celebration will be the fireworks display in the evening. This display has been secured at a large outlay of money, and without a doubt it will eclipse anything along this line ever seen in Plymouth. Several beautiful set pieces will be the features of the display. An aviator has been secured to give airplane flights during the day. He will give a thrilling exhibition of flying stunts.

About two o'clock Monday morning, four armed bandits in an automobile held up the Dye restaurant near the Pere Marquette depot in the north village, and escaped with $90. The bandits drove up to the restaurant in a large car, and while one of them remained with the car, three of them entered the restaurant and at the point of a gun ordered George Hance, who was in charge, to hand over the cash in the cash register. Chief of Police Springer was notified of the robbery and although he called up the Detroit police and officers in the neighboring towns, no trace of the bandits has been discovered.
