

Symphony Ball To Add Glitter To Holidays

All the glitter of the holiday season will prevail even after Christmas when the Plymouth Symphony society puts on its annual Symphony Ball on Saturday, December 26, in the Plymouth high school auditorium. The society has extended an invitation to everyone wishing to join in the festivities of the annual dance, as membership is not a requisite.

General chairman of this year's event, Raiph Pocklington, has announced that the orchestra of Don Haas from Ann Arbor will provide the music for dancing. He added that the 1953 ball is shaping into one of the most outstanding affairs since the founding of the Symphony society.

Holiday finery and simple frocks will be just as much in order for the dance, as the committee has set the dress as optional.

Serving Pocklington as his committee are Symphony society members Harper Stevens, Mrs. R. E. Mills, Mrs. Wilson Augustine, Mrs. Margaret Hough, Mrs. Ann Sumner and William Sliger.

Decorations in the holiday mood will be handled by a committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fischer and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Law.

Mrs. R. E. Mills, heading up the ticket committee, has announced that tickets for the ball are currently on sale at many local establishments. They may be purchased at Beyer Drugs on Forest avenue, the Mayflower hotel, Cassady's, Dr. Herbold's office in the Professional building, Ellen's Beauty shop, Hillside Inn, the Plymouth Mail, or from any of the Symphony Board members.

Seeks Change In Zoning Map For Industry

A local contractor appeared before the planning commission last Thursday night seeking a change in zoning of Irvin and Karmada street properties so that the land can be sold for an industrial site.

The contractor, Daniel S. Mills, owns three properties on Irvin street (on the west side nearest the railroad) and five properties on Karmada street (on both sides of the street just south of Junction) which he wants rezoned from R-2 to M-2. He stated that a small factory would like to locate on the Irvin street land.

Mills was advised by the planners to bring in plans for the proposed building and a public hearing can be arranged, followed by a decision.

The planning commission also received a communication from Stadnik and Shekel a used car sales concern located at Main and Dodge streets, offering to sell their premises to the city. The planners discussed the proposal at length but could not think of any imperative need for the lot. They will send their opinion to the city commission.

Skating Truck Hits Car of Ex-Mayor

An ice rink constructed by the city last Thursday morning had a short existence when one of its first customers, a semi-trailer truck, failed to negotiate a turn, and crashed into a by-standing car.

It was a cold winter's morning last Thursday when a city worker turned on a hydrant in front of the Daisy Manufacturing company to flush the water main. The city has been flushing the mains the past two weeks in order to eliminate rust which forms in the mains.

Sure enough, the water quickly froze on the street and one of the first skaters to take to the pond was a truck owned by Famous Cleaners driven by William Harvey of Detroit. The truck was attempting the Union street turn but skidded onward into a large 1953 car parked in front of the plant. Victim of the skidding truck was a car belonging to Cass Hough, executive vice-president of Daisy and former mayor of Plymouth. The ice rink was hastily eliminated with salt.

O' Come all ye Faithful

"Unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given.—And His name shall be called — the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." Isaiah 9:6

Just two weeks ago a man who won world fame as a military genius paused in prayer before he addressed an earnest plea for the peaceful pooling of atomic power to the United Nations Assembly; and his humble gesture of piety was as much of an inspiration as his subsequent honest offer of peace.

Thereby President Eisenhower set a beautiful example for his people and the world to follow because, as a Christian, he knows:

PEACE CAN COME ONLY THROUGH THE PRINCE OF PEACE

Prayers of praise and hymns of gratitude will rise from happy congregations this Christmas for the end of the fighting, the suffering and the dying in Korea. Many a true heart will unite with that of our beloved president for the success of his peaceful proposal to the U.N.

As he pointed out, the use of the atom bomb by one nation will lead only to swift and terrible retaliation and the destruction of modern culture and civilization.

The world must find a way out of the dilemma; it must "seek peace, and pursue it." There must be a change of heart and attitude. There must be a determined will for peace. The battle is moral and spiritual, not military and material.

The way out lies through the Prince of Peace, the Child of Mary, the Son of God, Christ the Savior of the world. The peace which underlies all lasting political, economic and social peace has already been won by Him through His sacrifice of Himself on the Cross. Here "the chastisement for our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we are healed." Faith in Christ wins not only peace with God, but disposes a man toward peace in his entire makeup. Therein lies the world's only hope.

A man may possess this peace amid strife and carnage; but this peace in his heart will cause him to strive for peace with his fellowmen, he will become a 'peacemaker.'

To this, then, will we dedicate ourselves this Christmas: following our great president's example, we will seek the House of God to worship the Prince of Peace and to be renewed by Him in our hearts. And with God's help we will carry away from His House with us into our everyday life the will toward peace in a mighty surge that must, finally, overwhelm even our enemies and dispose them, too, toward peace. To that end may God bless us at this Christmas time. Amen.

E. L. Malone, president of Wall Wire Products company, was the principal speaker at the fifth annual service and supervisory dinner of the company last Saturday night. Here is his address in its entirety:

I would like to speak this evening about the world and our place in it. There are six main problems facing the world today.

1. The population problem. Most of the world lives in Asia. China has 460 millions of people, India, 360 million; USSR, 200 million; Japan, 85 million; Pakistan, 75 million; Indonesia, 75 million, for a total of 1,255,000,000. And whereas all the other 40 per cent which includes the population of the United States of America has a birth rate which soon will result in a declining population, most of the world has a birth rate which tends to increase their population.

2. Most of the world is non-white. Yet the whites exert a control far beyond their proportion numerically.

3. Most of the world is desperately poor. The average annual income is $1.00 (Continued on Page 3)

Chestmobile Arrives Here February 2

Because of an-out participation in industry, chest x-rays for the community of Plymouth and the township will begin on February 2, according to Sam Hudson, general chairman of the 1954 chest x-ray campaign. Hudson praised the various committee chairmen for the "tremendous amount of work" their committees have done in preparation for the program.

Reports received by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce indicated that more than 8,000 employees will have an opportunity to receive free chest x-rays at their place of business. This is the result of industry's active participation in the forthcoming chest x-ray campaign, solicited by L. P. McGuire, industrial chairman for the drive. Evans Products; Burroughs; Barnes, Gibson and Raymond; Whitman and Barnes; Daisy Manufacturing; Wall Wire; and Dunn Steel company will have the Wayne County chestmobile at their premises.

This was called "the most massive assault on tuberculosis in industry ever conducted in any Wayne county community," by the TB and Health Society, co-sponsor of the program with the Wayne County Health Department.

Mrs. Gladys Tillotson and Mrs. Ralph Lorenz, home-calls chairmen for the city and township respectively, agreed that their volunteer workers will use the slogan, "Let An X-ray Say Okay!" in visiting homes.

Home-calls captains who met at Mrs. Lorenz's home are: Mrs. Wilson Augustine; Mrs. Earl West; Mrs. Wallace Sweeten; Mrs. Martin Schomberger; and Mrs. Clarence Schand. Meeting at Mrs. Tillotson's home were: Mrs. Gertrude Simonetti, Mrs. Dorothy Lent, and Mrs. Harry Hotkin. Additional captains will be announced as soon as they are appointed.

Over 2,200 guests were present at the school for the event. The pageant is directed by Dr. Robert Haskell.

Combined Safety Committees Meet

Plans for cooperation between the traffic safety committees of the city of Plymouth and the Community School Planning Group of Plymouth township were discussed at a joint meeting at the city hall last Saturday morning, it was announced by chairmen of the two groups.

While the broad field of safety education and accident prevention work was discussed, it was emphasized that no action was taken but that reports would be issued from time to time so that the public can be fully informed and acquainted with the combined community function.

Thomas Rossettie is chairman of the city safety committee and Paul T. Bolinger is chairman of the school planning group committee.

Takes TV Set Then Loses It

The "TV Home" opened for public inspection here several months ago by the Garling Construction company is TV-less today. Thieves de-TVed it.

A beautiful console model television set had been installed in the Garling home through the courtesy of West Bros. Appliances—the same store where thieves broke in last week but were frightened away by the burglar alarm. Last Friday night's illegal entrance into the TV home was made through the back door.

Police claim that the intruders loaded the television set on a car, along with some smaller items such as two table lamps, a table and a magazine rack. While driving across a field, the trail apparently became too bumpy and the television set and two lamps fell off the car.

The thieves took no time to stop and pick up their lost load and West Bros. for the first time in their TV career received a call to pick up a television set in the middle of a field.

Probation Violator Gets Jail Sentence

For staying away from home later than 10 o'clock at night which was in violation of his probation, Arthur Secord, 17, of 671 Jener street, was given a 90-day sentence in the Wayne county jail this week.

Secord was arrested by police several weeks ago along with three other teen-age boys after they took two intertubes from the Stan Hawker service station on South Main street. In a hearing before Municipal Judge Nandino Perlongo, the four boys were placed on a year's probation and ordered to be home by 10 p.m. each night.

Judge Perlongo checked on Secord Friday night and found that he did not return home at all that night.

Calvary Baptist To Show Movie About Germany

"The Great Light," a story for today, told against the backdrop of bomb riddled Nuremberg, Germany, will be shown at Calvary Baptist church, Thursday night, December 31, at 8:30 p.m. The story is centered around the person of Karl Ludwig, in whose heart lay the frustrations faced by modern European youth.

Karl Ludwig was born the son of a wealthy family, but the war took nearly everything—the family's business, his mother's health and the life of his father. It was no wonder that such things as faith and hope lost all meaning to him.

While working at a humiliating job clearing away debris, Ludwig was accosted by an agent from an underground movement secreted in an abandoned medieval castle outside the city. The men at the castle make a strong bid for the allegiance of his soul. But two women pray for him—Frau Ludwig, his mother, and lovely Gretel, the girl close to his heart—and he cannot bring himself to taking the final vows demanded by the organization.

What happens makes a spine-tingling, soul-thrilling story you can never forget.

"The Great Light" features, in addition to its unusual setting and story, the songs of Helen McAlerny Barth. Together with her husband Reinhold Barth, veteran evangelist among the German people of Europe, she proclaims the message of salvation to those who sit in darkness. Helen Barth sings her song, "Precious Lord," plus a beautiful German hymn, "Er Hat Mich So Geliebt." Reinhold Barth lays bare the soul of young Karl Ludwig as the German youth, hungry for something to satisfy the deep longing of his soul, attends a Gospel tent meeting where Barth and his wife appear.

One year in production—filmed in Germany and at the Gospel Films' studios—"The Great Light" is one of the most significant productions recently offered to the American public. Authentic background, intrigue, and dramatic action, will hold the interest of all. The public is cordially invited to see this film.

Thrown from her luxurious limousine the fair girl had lain unconscious for many hours. Now, however, the operation was over, consciousness had returned and she spoke faintly in the darkened room.

"Yvonne."

"Yes, mademoiselle?" The maid bent over her.

"Yvonne, tell me—"

An anxiety almost sickening trembled in the low, weak voice. "—did I, or did I not, have on my new $8 nylons?"

Some Michigan Farmers Facing Two Tax Reports

Some Michigan farmers face two year-end tax reports, the familiar federal income tax and the new state business receipts tax, reminds Everett M. Elwood, Michigan State college agricultural economist.

Farmers with gross business receipts of more than $10,000 since July 1 must file the new business tax report, explained Elwood. Gross receipts are all taxable income before any expenses are deducted, he notes.

Farm operators are allowed to deduct 50 per cent of gross receipts as expenses; if higher actual expenses are used, wages, salaries, depreciation and capital asset purchases must not be included. Operators have $10,000-per-year personal exemption.

It works like this, explains Elwood: Say, a farmer's business income since July 1 was $20,000. The 50 per cent expense deduction would leave $10,000. The personal exemption—also on a six months basis—would leave $5,000 taxable at a $4 per $1,000 rate. The tax would be $20 for 1953.

Annual returns must be in by January 31 for farmers operating on a calendar year; for others, it is due within a month after the fiscal year ends. The business receipts tax is figured on the same accounting basis as the federal income tax, notes Elwood. A late return may be penalized 25 per cent and a fraudulent return may bring 100 per cent penalty plus interest and criminal prosecution.

Farmers need Form BA-10, available from Michigan department of revenue agents. The new law requires farmers to keep sufficient books; the M. S. C. income tax record book is available from county agricultural agents and from many local banks.

Boys Now Becoming Interested In Receiving Wearable Gifts

This year young men are taking a much greater interest in their appearance and, as a result, boys' wearables rank importantly as welcome Christmas gifts.

Gone is the era when it was smart for boys to look sloppy and disheveled. Instead, American boys are interested in their clothes and are learning to take real pride in a well-rounded wardrobe.

Consequently, the array of shirts, ties, sweaters, sport jackets, slacks, muffers, outer jackets, caps, gloves, socks, etc. for Christmas gift-giving is more smartly styled and richer in color than ever before.

Sport shirts are designed in styles "just like Dad's" and feature many tailored knit models. Many of them are smart, worsted jerseys in novel patterns and richly-hued colors.

White business shirts for school wear are offered in many of the new styles that are so popular with men. The rounded collar, introduced in boys' wear last spring, has achieved wide favor, along with the "button-down oxford cloth shirt."

Stripes and plaids are still favorites in ties, being shown in silk or rich-looking durable wool.

Warm wool sweaters are always a popular gift choice. This year's top models are the turtle-neck, button-front award sweaters, and the traditional pullover. Scandinavian designs, ski motifs, and shields are the most popular and the top favorite is the white ski sweater with neck, waist, and cuff striping.

Boys' sport jackets are offered in a wide range of stylings. Rich shetlands, durable tweeds, and soft flannels are stand-outs.

Wise gift shoppers who want to make a young man really proud of himself shouldn't overlook the tremendously popular contrasting vests. They're being offered this Christmas in many novelty styles.

Every boy needs a rugged outer jacket and what could be a better gift choice? The all-wool mackinaw, the lined storm coat, the pea jacket, and coats with removable linings all are tops.

All in all, this promises to be quite a Christmas for the boys with gifts that will give their wardrobes a big boost in smartness!

Grange Cleanings

The Christmas party at the Grange hall on December 17 was certainly a success and the committee merits much praise for their efforts to make it so. There was a large crowd who enjoyed the songs and recitations given by the little folks. Carols were sung by the entire audience with Esther Jacobs as pianist.

Santa Claus flew in with his pack which contained gifts for the children, after which came the usual gift exchange for grown-ups. Candy and apples were passed, and everyone enjoyed the evening immensely. The tree looked very pretty. The committee consisted of Milly Rienas, Isabel Taylor, Loretta Wilson and Mr. Miltimore. Give them a big hand.

Mrs. Anne Johnson is at home from Bever hospital following a serious illness. She is improving slowly. Mrs. Johnson is the daughter of George Huebler.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Groth and Molly were in an automobile accident last Saturday night in Ann Arbor. They were bruised up some, but no serious injuries were received. They were given first aid at the hospital and came home.

We hope we may start the New Year right with a fine large crowd at our next meeting on January 7. Potluck supper as usual.

Remember the Lily club will be held on January 11 at the hall. Bring your friends and come.

Give Gift Money More Graciously

Comes Christmas time, you usually find that you have a second Christmas list: the elevator man, the cleaning woman, the maid, the postman—and all others who serve you faithfully and well throughout the year.

Here are some tips on giving money gifts with a flair:

Checks are difficult to cash, so give bills, whenever possible—and try to make them crisp, new bills! If coins are included, get new shiny ones, or wash old ones in a detergent. One of the best ways to present money to men on your list is in inexpensive, plastic wallets.

For the milkman: decorate a clean milk bottle with some ribbon, tie the money to a candy stick, and stand it in the bottle. Mail the postman his gift.

No prescribed amount can be recommended for everybody. Let your conscience—and the service you receive—be your guide. In general, five dollars for the elevator man and ten for the building superintendent should be about right.

Young and Old Should Take Part In Preparations For Holidays

Christmas, more than any other day, should be a time of creating family traditions and the warm memories that last a lifetime.

From the very beginning, Christmas has been a family day. It began with a mother, a father, and a child and has become the most precious day that a family can share.

Sharing is the key word in making your family Christmas a memorable occasion. Let each member of the family lend a helping hand in decorating the house with greens and red candles.

The pride of the little tots in their part of the Christmas decorating more than makes up for the not-quite-formal effect of the dramatic arrangement that was originally planned.

It's wonderful fun to set aside an evening to trim the tree and make it a family project. For a really old-fashioned Yuletide, let the children string popcorn and make sparkling ornaments for the tree.

After the tree is decorated and the twinkling lights are turned on for this first evening of your holiday season, make it a family party. While the children are proudly admiring their decorating job and their tree, serve hot cocoa and Christmas cookies or other refreshments.

Perhaps it will wind up in a songfest with everyone joining in singing all the family's best-loved Christmas carols.

Stretching out your Christmas season gives everyone a chance to enjoy each phase of the exciting preparations. Plan a special day for the children to help. All the Christmas treats will seem extra special if they have helped crack the nuts, cut up the candied fruits, or shape the cookies.

If there are little children in the family, allow a special day for the thrilling visit to Santa Claus in your local store. On this day, too, let them do their own Christmas gift shopping. They'll be prouder of the gifts they've picked out and bought on their own than any that were selected for them to give. These gifts will be the ones that will be remembered through the years, bringing heart-warming recollections of a child's imaginative choice of gifts!

A family evening of gift wrapping will help create happy memories of Christmas! What fun to recall the packages decorated with too many stickers, a bunchy bow, and marked with a carefully-printed card. The surprises, the giggles, and the secrecy are all part of this memory-making evening!

So, all it takes is a little extra time and lots of sharing to make a family Christmas that will be remembered—just as you remember those of your childhood! The holly wreath, like many favorite Christmas customs, came as a result of the early Christian practice of enhancing Druid customs with Christian significance. Thus the holly wreath became the crown of thorns, the red berries, the drops of Christ's blood.

Christmas Seals

The Christmas Seals which add cheery notes of color to our packages and letters were originated in Denmark in 1903 to help raise money for children's hospitals. Today, Seals help raise funds for worthy charities in almost every country.

"How did you come to give him such a name?"
"Fum studyin' the animal an' reading' the papers. Dat mule gets more blame an' abuse dan anythin' else in the township, an' goes ahead havin' his own way, jest de same."

4. Most of the world is ill fed. Two-thirds go to bed undernourished.

5. Most of the world is sick. Malaria claims 300 million a year. Tuberculosis, trachoma, and other ills are extensive among humans in most of the world. The average life in the USA is 68 years; that in India, 30 years.

6. Most of the world is illiterate. Now when most of the world is in a condition of that sort and some one nation is seen to have a relatively stable population, and is literate, healthy, flourishing and well-fed, wouldn't you think there might be a rush to adopt the policies of that nation and to copy all its ideas and workings? The United States of America is the most prosperous country on the face of the earth. But oddly enough, there is great reluctance and even resistance by other nations to the adoption of our ways. Why should this be? Democracy has been proved to our satisfaction; why should its advantages not be just as apparent to others?

Let us consider a few factors that attract people to our shores and helped make America the great country it is:
1. America offered opportunity for every person to receive an education and to earn a decent living with no caste or class restriction.

2. America promised equality to all men regardless of race, creed, color or country of origin.

3. America held the conviction that ours was the best way of life. Yet we would grant hearing to those whose thoughts differed from our own. We fought for the rights of those who would so speak. America offered liberty for social, political and economic expression.

These factors helped immeasurably to make America great in the eyes of the world. Not solely our guns and our ammunition but rather these majestic ideas which seized hold of men's minds and wielded more power than all the guns and ammunition then in existence. But these ideas seem now to have lost their magic of old. Perhaps this may be due to a difference in our approach to the world problems. Perhaps the world is not as receptive as once it was to our solutions. Perhaps we have failed to suggest any solutions at all and leadership is passing into other hands. Let us examine our attitude concerning the six major problems of the world.

We have a very low population density here in America only 50 persons per square mile. England has 600, France 180, Germany 350, Italy 360, The Netherlands 650, India 240 and Japan 500.

We could well afford to welcome hundreds of thousands of the dispossessed and homeless who long for a new homeland. Yet we place obstacles in the path of resettlement into America of refugees, displaced persons and ordinary immigrants. Our recent immigration measures told the world in no uncertain terms that we will accept only a few people of carefully selected ancestry and we were to be very choosy even of those few.

We are slow to realize that we must consider each nation as a respectful entity. The senator from the little State of Rhode Island is treated with the same respect as the senator from Texas. Why should not the country of Siam be as respectfully treated as France; or Angola as we treat Belgium? The size of a state does not determine the respect granted that state or its representatives. Why then should the U. S. of America, or Russia, or Great Britain, or France because of its huge size and wealth, ride roughshod and look down upon smaller nations? These smaller nations who predominate in number do not particularly relish that attitude of ours.

And when entire nations of people are considered to be second raters because of their non-white skin color, as our tourists and our G. I. emissaries have made known by their words and actions, the stock of America does not soar in the esteem of most of the world which is not white. To the Koreans, the Chinese, the Egyptians, the Arabs, the Pakistanians, the Africans and others, we attach belittling names which they do not quite like. We should not pursue this attitude if only because we whites are outnumbered and it isn't a safe attitude to maintain.

Most of the people of the world envy the results of our capitalistic production system, but they would not touch that system if it were the last system on earth, for they have seen that system exploit them terribly in their own countries; and they are told by our Mr. Reuther and our Mr. Lewis with our front page publicity in newspapers and magazines that go to every corner of the globe, that our capitalistic system and the laws of our country make slaves of our workmen. I cannot begin to give you the measure of the terrible damage done by our union spokesmen because of their insisting that the Taft-Hartley law was and is a "slave labor law", which is most certainly is not.

Here in America we look with pride upon a system which has brought a prosperity in which all citizens have participated. But Asia knows only the exploitative capitalism that has resulted in huge profits at the expense of their human and physical resources. Asia is very much interested in new methods for increasing production, but they will have none of the sorry phase of capitalism demonstrated in practice to them for a century. That is why our urging them to adopt our capitalistic system is like shouting into a hurricane.

Much of the world, ill fed, sick and illiterate though it is, is not conditioned to adopt the capitalistic system. But many countries of the world are on the road to change and they intend to try for a better life for themselves, even if it should mean going from bad to worse rather than from bad to better.

Communism which holds such terrors for us who live in comparative luxury, holds little or no terrors for those who do not have the freedom to eat what they want, or to live in health, or to gain an education. When it comes to changing political philosophies, there is no fine discrimination among the starving, sick and illiterate of the world.

When we insist that those who would espouse political "isms" which we abhor, must be scoundrels, leftists, subversives, or Reds, and enemies regardless of whatever name they may be called, they see us as betraying ignorance of their situation and refusing to progress with the times. To them we are hopelessly "Status Quo." Never fail to realize the Asiatic nations feel they progress toward democracy whatever the political systems they select. They call attention to our possible error in thinking a mountain top may be reached by but one trail, or a goal by but one path.

The gulf between the two approaches to a fuller life for mankind, America's and the Asiatic's, is wide indeed. But again I would point out that our fondest hopes are more likely to be fulfilled not by the expenditure of billions of dollars for armed might, but by the dissemination and practice of ideas that will prevail in men's minds.

We could make no greater advance into the hearts of mankind than by a rededication to those ideals for the world, which made us the nation we are and our belief in a progress and change, which will secure to citizens the same opportunities for life, liberty and happiness that we have had.

Let us not forget that there can be other conceptions of "liberty" than "political" liberty. There can be the liberty to earn a living, to gain an education, to receive medical attention, to have sufficient food and clothing; and after that the liberty for freedom of political expression. This concept needs our sympathy and understanding. And when liberation in Asiatic countries assumes a political mantle not to our liking, let us not sulk and retaliate revengefully by withdrawal of our advice and aid.

Our respect for the Bill of Rights here at home in America should not be lessened now or ever; yet in the eyes of many Americans and of the world we seem recently to have lost much of our respect for these provisions of our Constitution. At home we have been deprived of perspective, judgment and tolerance. We need these if we are to convince the world of our democratic intentions and enlist them in working for our ideals of freedom, fair play, justice and peace. The hate and suspicion recently let loose in floods in this country by what now is popularly known as "McCarthyism" has resulted in a great lessening of our moral authority throughout the world.

The rededication of America to its founders' ideals, and of us as its citizens to enactment of those ideals would furnish the spiritual strength the world needs to combat false political philosophies. Political systems which enslave men permanently can neither take root nor find sustenance in such an atmosphere. A rededication of that nature would be the much needed moral equivalent of war and would do more lasting good than hundreds of billions of dollars of armaments.

There is one last word I would leave with you, and it concerns the economy of the world which is tied up with business conditions here in America. If America should experience a catastrophic stock market crash and a depression, the monetary help that we give the world will be cut off and the world will go into a tailspin very much as it did in the 1930's.

We are in the throes of a business recession which will intensify during 1954. Do not get the idea from anything I say that it makes much difference whom you vote into the White House; we would have this recession whether Mr. Eisenhower, Mr. Stevenson, Mr. Taft or Mr. Truman were President.

One reason for a depression is the feeling that prices are too high and ought to come down before quantity purchasing is resumed. But prices are predicated upon wages paid, and if a manufacturer who once sold a refrigerator cabinet for $300 is compelled by his union to increase wages 100 per cent without his union employees turning out any additional quantity of product, other employees of other firms soon will learn of and receive their 100 per cent increase; raw material, labor, other expenses, all will be increased 100 per cent, and soon this manufacturer will be compelled to charge $600 for his cabinet.

I wish it were possible to have unions understand that a wage increase with no compensating increase in production only serves to increase prices of goods by that same amount—but this seems to be a lesson which is very difficult for employees and unions to understand.

America's basic economic precept was "more and more goods for more and more people at lower and lower prices." Unless we in America soon produce more goods to lower prices, then the recession of 1954 and 1955 with serious world-wide economic and political repercussions,

Toy Gun Hold-Up Foiled by Victim

A struggle with a man who attempted a hold-up with a toy gun, was the story related to police by a Plymouth man last Friday night.

The victim, an Elm street resident, name withheld on request, had just driven his car into his garage at 10 p.m. Friday night and stepped from the car when a man who was apparently hiding in the garage stepped up and ordered, "This is a hold-up. Turn around!"

The victim said that he turned around and saw immediately that the gun was not real but a toy. The man, dressed in overalls, wore a mask. He then grabbed the man and a struggle followed, during which the intruder broke loose, ran out of the garage and down the alley.

Police are still investigating the incident.

Business Women

The Business and Professional Women's club of Plymouth enjoyed their annual Christmas party Monday evening with a dinner at the Mayflower Hotel.

Games, singing of Christmas carols and the appearance of Santa Claus furnished the evening's entertainment.

"ON CUPID! ON COMET! AND MAYBE EVEN RUDOLPH! The familiar sleigh of old St. Nicholas is beginning to climb skyward over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rew of 1051 Harding. The Rews have made their home a glittering spectacle for all who pass by during the Christmas season, with the flying reindeer particularly catching the spectator's eye. (Ply-Mail photo)

Custom of Sending Christmas Cards Now Barely Century Old

At first we didn't believe it either; but we checked, and it's true: the custom of sending Christmas cards to friends is less than 100 years old!

The first publicly accepted card was sent out in 1862 by Charles Goodall & Sons, London publishers. And—to show how rapidly the custom has grown, this year the post offices of the land are flooded by a Niagara of two billion or more cheery (yule) greetings!

The first known card of its kind was designed in 1842 in London by William Maw Egle, a sixteen-year-old engraving apprentice. Illustrations on this card were scenes of a formal banquet, a party dance, and skaters. Underneath the illustrations appeared the legend: "A MERRY CHRISTMAS and a Happy New Year to You." Still the most popular Yuletide Greeting of all.

In 1846, Sir Henry Cole asked his artist friend, J. C. Horsely to design a card for him, showing a family toasting Christmas with glasses of wine. Temperance groups took a meager view of these cards, and Sir Henry never again sent another card.

In 1874, in Boston, Louis Prang printed his first cards from his lithograph shop. Famous for their beauty and fine craftsmanship, they were sold all over the United States. Since that time, the custom of sending Christmas cards has become a fundamental, popular holiday tradition.

If you doubt it, just ask your postman!

Different Churches

A caption with pictures on the Riverside Church of God article in the series of "Churches of Our Area" recently pointed out that Assembly of God members hope to build a church someday as pictured. The caption should have read that it was the Church of God since the two groups are entirely separate denominations.

The Reverend E. B. Jones is pastor of the Riverside Church of God which is located at Plymouth.

Serving Tricks Make Meal More Appetizing

The attractiveness of a meat dish depends to a great extent upon its being cooked correctly. However, the serving of the dish must not be under emphasized. Seasonal fruits and vegetables can always add a cheery touch. And this time of year apples might be that addition.

Of course, apples combine well with pork. Let chopped apple be the stuffing for double thick pork chops. Also, apple added to a regular bread stuffing makes a fine filling for racks of spare-ribs. A pork shoulder boned and made into a cushion-style roast also may be tempting stuffed with an apple mixture.

Fried apple rings or wedges presented with pork sausage links or sausage patties make a serving you'll proudly present at breakfast time or at lunch time.

Scholarships Made Available To Class of 1954 Seniors

By Thalia Bairas
Scholarship, scholarships, and more scholarships are available to each succeeding graduating class of Plymouth high school. Numerous colleges and various companies offer financial aid to students who excel in academic subjects and are genuinely interested in acquiring a college education.

Each year Carvel Bentley, principal, and Ruth Butts, guidance counselor, receive material concerning scholarship opportunities which they discuss with students who wish to be candidates for the competition.

A number of seniors have applied this year for the Ford Scholarship which is for sons and daughters of Ford Motor company employees. These students, to be eligible, must have ranked in the upper third of the class at the end of their junior year. In previous years, a surprising number of Plymouth students have had the distinction of winning this scholarship, and attending the college of their choice. Westinghouse also offers scholarships to Carnegie Institute of Technology for outstanding young men whose grades placed them in the upper third of their class.

The University of Michigan, Michigan State college, Michigan State Normal college, Western Michigan College of Education, Denison university, Olivet college, Claremont, Western College for Women and several New England colleges are only some of the many schools which offer graduates financial assistance.

Still another opportunity is found in the Student Aid Foundation, which administers funds for scholarships that individuals or organizations desire to promote to help needy students receive college educations. The group selects and counsels these students who usually attend college near Detroit.

Student Council Buys Hall Christmas Tree

A Christmas tree was purchased by the Student Council and placed in the front hall of the high school. Jack Carter, Kay Porter, Virginia Hart, Betty Bowden, Laura Puckett and Gail Foreman were appointed to decorate the tree and Tom Sawyer and Pieter Schipper were chosen to secure the tree.

At the last Student Council meeting Dick Root reported on the student teacher and education day evaluation sheet. The sheet will tell how effective education day and student day was.

The student council is placing a suggestion box in the school so students may drop in suggestions which they think will benefit the school.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry C. Balfour and family of Penniman avenue will spend Christmas day visiting relatives in Windsor, Ontario.

Girls Participate In Basketball Clinic at Normal

Michigan State Normal college in Ypsilanti was the meeting place of the Basketball Clinic Saturday, December 12. The purpose of this clinic was to demonstrate methods of coaching high school girls in zone defense, offense against zone defense, refereeing in action, double-refereeing and new signals, and coaching methods put into the game situation. The coaches were Miss Katz and Miss Mary Allen of Detroit. The discussion leader was Miss Betty Jane Wilhelm.

The teams participating were from University high school; Ann Arbor, Roosevelt high school and Ypsilanti. The referees for the games were Miss Ruth Harris and Miss Jean Stanicek, the narrator was Miss Joan Farrell. Those attending from Plymouth were Inez Enterline and Norma Leslie for Leaders' club and Shirley Carter from G. A. A. They reported the new basic rules to the other members of the club.

A student basketball clinic will be held on March 7 at 4 p.m. at Michigan State Normal college in Ypsilanti.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ash of Haggerty highway will entertain at a family dinner on Christmas Eve. Plymouth—guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ash and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Merryfield and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. LeFever, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ash and sons and Charles Ash and son, Arnold. Other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ash and family from Redford and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Urton and family of Ypsilanti.

Concludes Worth Of Lab Testing For Intoxication

Conclusive results about the worth of lab tests to measure intoxication have been obtained in research at Michigan State college.

An important finding of the researchers is that closer definitions can be established—based on lab tests—between persons "possibly" or "probably" under the influence of alcohol and those definitely under the influence.

Under carefully controlled conditions approximately 1,700 analyses were obtained from 127 human subjects, none of them students. The research was conducted by a staff under the direction of Professor Ralph F. Turner of M.S.C.'s Police Administration department. A grant was provided by the National Safety Council's Committee on Chemical Tests.

Conclusions reached by the research team included these: 1. "Current literature delineates three zones of blood alcohol concentration for the guidance of law enforcement officials: 0.00—0.05 per cent, safe; 0.05—0.15 per cent, questionable; above 0.15 per cent, definitely under the influence. It is recommended that these lines of demarcation be amplified in the following manner: 0.00—0.05 per cent, safe; 0.05—0.10 per cent, possibly under the influence; 0.10—0.15 per cent, probably under the influence; above 0.15 per cent, definitely under the influence."

2. "In 127 subjects tested, when the concentration of alcohol had reached or exceeded 0.15 per cent in the blood, as indicated by analysis of either the blood or the breath, impairment of some type was noted in every case. In most cases, impairment was evident far below this 0.15 per cent mark."

3. "Three methods of blood alcohol determination by analysis of the breath were studied—Drunkometer, Intoximeter and Alcometer. When these devices were used in the manner recommended by their manufacturers the results obtained were in close agreement with results obtained by direct analysis of the blood."

4. "The methods of blood analysis and breath analysis by Drunkometer, Intoximeter and Alcometer may be used with confidence and the results so obtained will be reliable."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gage and son, Jim, of Clemons drive and Lieutenant and Mrs. Jack Gage of Eatontown, New Jersey, spent Sunday with Mrs. Gage's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Horan of Maceday lake. Mrs. Horan, who has been confined to Pontiac hospital for the past several weeks, has improved enough to return to her home.

Doctor Stresses Careful Use of Thermometer

"It would probably be better for a mother not to have a thermometer unless she understands the fluctuations of 'normal' temperature."

So states Dr. Ernest H. Watson, associate professor of pediatrics and communicable diseases in the University of Michigan Medical school, in outlining some helpful common sense information on the use of the clinical thermometer in the home.

First of all variations of a degree from the 'normal' of 98.6 are regularly found in healthy people.

As a matter of fact, "There is a tendency for the body temperature to be low (below 98 degrees) on awaking in the morning, and a tendency to be higher (99 degrees) in the later afternoon and evening," Dr. Watson says.

Keeping this in mind the mother may save herself undue anxiety.

"If mother takes the child's temperature only when he seems unduly warm, or has some sign of illness, the thermometer becomes a valuable aid to the physician," the doctor advises.

Specifically, Dr. Watson enumerates three "musts" for users of the home clinical thermometer:

1. Always check the thermometer reading the last thing before taking the temperature. The frantic discovery of a high reading may result from having held the thermometer under the hot water tap.
 2. Grasp the thermometer firmly when shaking it.
 3. Use a rectal thermometer on young or very sick children, to eliminate the possibility of biting or swallowing.
- Dr. Watson says that the thermometer, an invaluable instrument in diagnosing and charting the course of disease, can trace its ancestry back to Galileo, the famous astronomer of the early 17th century.

Entitled "The Flame," the film stars Georgia Lee, Robert Clarke and Eva Pearson.

U. of M. Looks for More Students Plus More Buildings During 1954

The University of Michigan heads into 1954 with expectations that by next fall the enrollment will climb to at least 18,500 resident credit students.

There are many signs that the prediction of an increase of 1,000 from this fall's enrollment is a conservative one. Freshmen enrollments have been setting records for the past two Septembers and the surge in the undergraduate ranks pushed the total enrollment higher this fall than for the previous year for the first time since 1948.

Freshmen applications for next fall already are piling up at a slightly higher rate than at a comparable period a year ago. More transfer students from Michigan's expanding junior college program also should help to send the University enrollment curve to higher levels.

With enrollments already higher and promising to continue upward for the next ten years or so, the question of housing has been getting plenty of study from the University's administrative officers and the Regents. From this study has emerged a confident feeling that the housing problem will be met with the cooperation of the Ann Arbor community which will have to provide much of the additional housing for students for the next two or three years at least.

As is usual, many of the developments in 1954 will hinge on the success the University has with its requests to the Legislature. An appropriation of $21,688,000 is sought for University operations and $14,337,200 for capital outlay to permit addition of new buildings and modernization of existing facilities. University officials point out that delay in construction will mean critical overcrowding in a few years.

The year will bring further development of the 377-acre North Campus, across the Huron River from the Medical Center. In October of this year, a $1,130,000 Cooley Memorial Laboratory was dedicated to house Engineering Research Institute activities.

The spring of 1954 should see construction start on two other buildings on the North Campus; a $1,200,000 Phoenix Memorial Laboratory to house specialized facilities for the University's war memorial program dedicated to peaceful uses of atomic energy; and a library stack and service unit to house books and periodicals not in every-day use at the General Library on the main campus. The library unit will be the first structure on the North Campus to be built with funds provided by the Legislature.

Aviation Displays Given by Children At Geer School

In observance of the 50th anniversary of aviation the children at the Geer school put on special displays concerning the history of aviation. Included among these were a bulletin board showing the history from 1903 to 1953, a huge shadow box display of the various stages of development from the Wright brothers on through the planes of today, pictures and stories of planes made by the youngsters, a miniature airport with planes, people and fire trucks, and an information desk with reference material gathered by the children.

The children also listened to special programs on aviation over radio station WUOM. An open house was held for parents on December 17, the anniversary of the day the Wright brothers made their first flight.

Children in the fourth through seventh grades participated in the project, which was under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Bean.

Plans are underway for the Plymouth School's annual Band Carnival which will be held on Friday, January 22. Proceeds from the event go into the band fund which benefits the high school band as well as elementary school organizations.

Chairmen of committees recently appointed are: attic treasures, Mrs. Harold Paulger; pie walk, Mrs. Alfred Houghton; cake walk, Mrs. Allen Bernash; fish pond, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Ebersole; variety show, Fred Nelson; dance, Mrs. William Morgan; snack bar, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Eaton; and movie, Mrs. Sven Eklund.

Volunteer Work For Hospital Fund Commended

"The hundreds of volunteer workers in the St. Mary Hospital Campaign deserve the utmost in respect and gratitude from the people of our community," James J. Gallimore, associate campaign chairman, said today. He added, "If we didn't have folks unselfish and thoughtful enough to expend time and effort, as they are doing during this campaign, we would never have the hospital which we've been talking about for years."

Mr. Gallimore further pointed out that on January 11, the workers will begin visiting the homes throughout the area, soliciting financial contributions. "They have a big job ahead," he stated, "and I am certain that the people of this fine community will make their task easier by contributing the few cents each day which will be required to build this hospital."

There can never be too many workers in this campaign. Anyone who has not as yet volunteered to help may do so by calling campaign headquarters at Plymouth 2241. If you want to take an active part in this most important project, he added, by all means volunteer.

"Buy at Home" Theme Bounces

"If you expect people to buy at home, why don't you practice what you preach?" asked an anonymous Plymouth citizen in a letter to Chamber of Commerce Secretary Nat Sibbold. The letter referred to the tickets for the "Buy in Plymouth" campaign which were not printed in Plymouth, but in Arkansas.

Sibbold laughingly admits that it looks strange to promote "Buy in Plymouth" with tickets printed by an out-of-state firm, but that's the way it had to be. He had many folks stop him on the street to ask him the same question as the letter did.

As far as can be determined, there is no printing firm in Michigan, let alone Plymouth, which prints such tickets. Several Michigan firms print tickets in rolls such as used by theatres, but the tickets in flat strings as desired by the merchants are printed in Chicago, Arkansas and Kansas—those are the closest places.

It takes special printing machinery to print such tickets and since the profit is so low, very few firms compete in the ticket printing business, it was learned.

The Chamber secretary looked with delight upon the interest taken in the situation since it indicates that many people are eager to buy in their hometown first.

V.F.W. News

A Christmas party held December 14 at the post home had all the aura of an old-fashioned "Christmas" get-together. Despite the inclement weather, a goodly crowd was on hand to exchange gifts and have a luncheon, highlighted with many candles and a decorated room. Loretta Young spearheaded the plans for the party with the help of Madolyn Hartford and Marie Norman. Delinquent chairman, Carolyn Darnell and membership chairman, Delores Olsaver also assisted in making the party a seasonal success.

The best of belated good wishes and a hearty get-well wish go to Dan Grubessich's wife, Mary. Better nurry and get those New Year's Eve party tickets. Remember, there will be dancing to the music of Tom Houghton and his orchestra, a buffet luncheon, and all that goes with it. Get a party together: friends, relatives, anyone who would like to have fun. Why drive so far from home? It's much more convenient to celebrate at the post home. Phone Jack Olsaver, 6W, for reservations.

Collision Injures Two Plymouthites

Two Plymouth men were injured last Thursday morning when the car in which they were riding rolled over into a ditch after colliding with another car at Ann Arbor and Lilly roads.

Injured were Wesley Rathburn, 592 South Harvey street, and Claude Roker, 565 Ann Arbor road. Rathburn was taken by ambulance to the Wayne County General hospital where he was treated for head injuries, while Roker suffered injuries to the forehead and left leg.

Roker was driving east on Ann Arbor road when a car driven by Dexter Smith, 409 Plymouth road, allegedly failed to stop for a stop sign while traveling south on Lilly road and crashed into the rear right side of the Roker car. Roker's car was rolled over and demolished.

Smith was cited by the Wayne county sheriff's department with reckless driving and will appear before Municipal Judge Nandipio Perlongo today. He told authorities he did not see the stop sign.

The Carol Choir of St. James Methodist church, under the direction of Mrs. Edna O'Conner of Palmer avenue will appear on Channel 7 on Thursday afternoon, beginning at 1:45 p.m.

Claims Cutting Yule Tree Good For The Forest

According to the American Forest Products Industries, it's just not so that the annual harvest of young evergreen trees (for the use as Christmas trees) is a wasteful practice.

This organization explains further that nearly half of the 21-million evergreens that make up the American Christmas tree harvest are farm-produced.

Nearly nine-tenths of the entire Christmas tree crop is cut on privately-owned timberland. In addition, about five million evergreens are imported annually—most of them from Canada.

In any case, most of the American crop of Christmas trees are thinned from natural-growth forests. An original stand of from five to ten thousand trees will actually mature only a few hundred saw-log size trees.

Most of the trees cut at Christmas eventually would have been eliminated in the life-and-death struggle for forest space.

Americans have definite preference in Christmas trees, with the best seller being the balsam fir, a product of the Northeast. Six and one-half million of these are sold each year. Second most popular is the Douglas fir, with black spruce, red cedar and white spruce, following in that order, as America's favorites.

Poor Condition of Municipal Parking Lots Discussed by City Commission; City Exchanges Lots With Garling

Mud holes and water standing in some of the city's parking lots were the subjects of criticism by city commissioners at their regular meeting Monday night, as well as a reaffirming of their stand to refuse paying $1 per square foot for property the city wants to buy for off-street parking facilities.

It was Commissioner Marvin Terry who first spoke out against the muddy condition of some of the parking lots under operation of the city. He asked if the city couldn't place stone on the lots but his request appeared to be in vain when City Manager Albert Glassford reported that the parking fund already had a deficit of some $5,000. It thus appeared that it would be at least next year before the commission might appropriate some money to repair the lots.

Commissioner George T. Bauer then took the floor with a complaint about the Central lot which was recently completed. He pointed out that water stands on the blacktop so deep that a person almost has to wear boots in order to get out of his car. Only part of the lot is therefore useful, he added.

Glassford replied by agreeing that the lot was partially under water and that a thin cap of blacktop had to be applied where the land had settled. Blacktopping was completed late this fall and the concern doing the work left town shortly afterward.

While still on the subject of parking, Commissioner Terry asked Ralph Lorenz, president of the Chamber of Commerce, if something could be done about merchants and their employees who use valuable parking lot space throughout the day. Terry pointed out that some employees' cars fill some of the parking lots.

Lorenz agreed with the commissioner, but added that it is difficult to order an employee to park his car several blocks from his work; that he has even had an employee quit because he had to walk from a parking spot several blocks to the hotel. Glassford added that people who live in residential areas near downtown would not like cars parked in front of their homes all day long either.

The commission had discussed earlier in the evening the subject of an addition of the East Central lot located behind The Plymouth Mail. Negotiations have been underway for some time to purchase land from the East Central lot to Dodge street, but several property owners have been asking $1 per square foot. The city has been paying no more than 50 cents per square foot.

Work has already begun behind the library and the Chamber of Commerce building to construct a parking area, but it was learned Monday that at least one property owner is still wanting $1 per foot. Commissioners reaffirmed that they will not pay that much.

The commission had another land deal under consideration Monday night. It concerned the trade of six city-owned lots on Jener street for six lots owned by the Garling Construction company on Herald street. Commissioners approved the trade and the city will receive additional compensation for the improvements already made on Jener street. The lots were being held by the city for future playground use but commissioners agreed that a playground on Herald street would be more advantageous and the building of homes on Jener street would be an improvement in the city.

In other business conducted by the commission, the group went along with two recommendations of the planning commission. One called for a rejection of an offer by Stadnik & Shekell to sell the city the land on which their used car lot is now situated. The other was approval to extend a proposed alley between Forest avenue and Harvey street. The alley is now on the master thoroughfare plan as a T-shape but will now be designated to run through to Ann Arbor trail.

Henry Penhale was reappointed by Mayor Russell Daane to the Board of Review. His term will expire in January 1957.

The Fountaine Fence company of Detroit was approved as the best bidder among four bids received for cyclone fencing which is to be placed around the Byron street water tower. Their bid was $700.

After lengthy discussion about purchase of insurance with an out-of-town mutual company, commissioners decided to continue their workmen's compensation insurance with the Traveler's Insurance company through C. L. Finlan & Son.

Permission was given the Seventh Day Adventist church to operate a sounce car Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week which they will use in connection with the collection of clothing and other items for mission work. A sound car permit was also given to the St. Mary Hospital campaign to be used next month.

A public hearing was held on the Cherry street sanitary sewer. Because of no objections, the assessment roll was approved for the sewer situated between Pearl and Hardenberg streets and will cost $2,194.89 for the assessed portion.

Mayor Daane complimented the police department following the reading of their monthly report. He pointed out that there had been increased arrests of speeders, stop sign and traffic light violators and for improper parking. There were 443 arrests made last month.

Young Hunter Injured Saturday

Injuries in a hunting accident sent 14-year-old Jerry Stace to St. Joseph's hospital in Ann Arbor Saturday. Jerry, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Stace of 9244 Corrine, was not seriously injured, but was sent to the hospital for observation.

Jerry was rabbit hunting with his friend, Jim Angevine, on a farm on Ann Arbor road. He was walking about 15 feet behind Angevine when the latter scared a rabbit toward him. Angevine hollered to Jerry to back up so he could shoot. In his haste, however, Jerry backed into a tree and fell forward into the line of fire.

Shot from Angevine's 12 gauge shotgun hit Jerry in the stomach, leg and arm.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sponseller will spend Christmas weekend with relatives in Bucyrus, Ohio.

Miss Nancy Worth, a student at Michigan State College, is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Worth of North Territorial road.

Is There A Santa Claus?

This Christmas we're reprinting this famous editorial written in 1897 by the editor of the old New York Sun in reply to a letter from eight-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon.

We hope you'll take time this Christmas Eve to read it to your children . . . and as you read perhaps you, too will appreciate the significance of its message.

DAVIS & LENT

"Dear Editor—I am 8 years old.

"Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

"Papa says, 'If you see it in The Sun it's so.'

"Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

"Virginia O'Hanlon
"115 West Ninety-fifth Street."

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view the supernal beauty and glorious beyond. Is it real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Our Best Wishes For A Merry Christmas And A Happy New Year!

clerk; Postmaster George Timpona; Roswell Tanger, clerk; and Ernest Henry, superintendent of mails. The postmaster has expressed gratitude to citizens for tying their mail into bundles and sending their packages and cards early. (Ply-Mail photo)

Christmas Date Still Not Known

The exact date of the birth of Christ is shrouded in confusion and, as a result, the celebration of Christmas occurs on many different dates throughout the Christian world.

In an old manuscript, the Calendar of Philocalus which appeared in the year 354 A. D., it states: "In the Year One After Christ, the Lord Jesus was born on December 25, a Friday, and the 15th day of the New Moon."

Another ancient book written by Tipholytus in 202 A. D. tells us that Jesus was born in Bethlehem "on Wednesday, December 25th, in the 42nd year of Augustus."

However, according to astronomy, December 25th, A. D. 1, fell on Sunday.

In terms of our American Christmas, the holiday is celebrated from six to 10 days later in some countries, and in others—it is observed earlier. December 6th is the date of Christmas in most Western European countries and is the beginning of a long holiday season.

The Armenians were the first people to set up a Christian state and their Christmas Eve is January 6th.

Post Office Battles Biggest Mail Flood In Its History

A crew of 40 additional workers has been hired to handle mail at the Plymouth post office where all previous records are being shattered this year for Christmas mailing.

To say that business is good would be a gross understatement, according to Postmaster George Timpona who looks for the incoming mail peak to be reached by today.

A customer looking into the "back room" of the post office through the stamp window could easily grasp the situation. Additional cases have been brought in to aid in the sorting of the mail. Workers no sooner sort their way through one carload of mail sacks when several more loads appear.

"We've had a record sale of stamps," the postmaster stated, "and this has been without the business of Livonia which used the local facilities in past seasons. Without the renting of the warehouse to sort incoming parcel post packages, the post office would have been in almost hopeless confusion."

A night crew has been hired to work until midnight to sort and sack mail. The regular crew and the 40 additional helpers have thus far been able to keep up with the pace. The peak in outgoing mail was reached last Friday and Saturday. Not counting factory cancelled mail, hand stamped mail or parcel post, there were 46,801 pieces of mail processed December 15; 62,165 on December 16 and about 80,000 December 17.

Letters go out to every state in the union, Timpona explains, but the majority of out-of-state mail goes into Ohio, Indiana and New York.

U. of M. Ranks Fourth Among U. S. Colleges

Michigan's three largest educational institutions—University of Michigan, Michigan State college, and Wayne University showed an increase of 2.2 per cent in full-time enrollments this fall.

In terms of full-time enrollment, the University of Michigan stands as the fourth largest college in the U.S., with an enrollment of 17,500; and Michigan State college is ninth with 12,980. No other Michigan colleges are listed among the top 25 schools in full-time enrollment.

In total enrollment, including part-time students, the University of Michigan ranks eighth with 20,866; Wayne University is 11th with 17,644 and M.S.C. is 17th with 15,065.

In full-time totals, the 10 largest institutions reporting are: 1. California, 33,382; 2. New York State University, 21,268; 3. Minnesota, 19,074; 4. University of Michigan, 17,500; 5. Ohio State 17,397; 6. Wisconsin, 15,432; 7. New York University, 14,289; 8. Texas (main campus only), 14,020; 9. Michigan State college, 12,980; 10. Columbia, 11,785. (The University of Illinois did not report its full-time figure.)

A Scandinavian Tale

The original of the little elf who helps Santa Claus is said to be white-bearded JUL TOMTEN, who lives in Scandinavian legends. It was he who left gifts for good boys and girls who would set out a bowl of porridge and milk for him.

Yule Once Forbidden

Seventeenth century Puritans passed a law forbidding anyone to celebrate Christmas by "forebearing of labour or feasting in any other way," on the grounds that such celebration was "pagan." Christmas has been a Legal Holiday for little more than 100 years.

This question is answered in the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, December 27, under the title "Christian Science." The Golden Text is from Isaiah (52:9,10): "Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem; for the Lord hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem. The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations." Among the Bible citations is this passage. (John 14:16): "And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever." Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "Divine Science derives its sanction from the Bible, and the divine origin of Science is demonstrated through the holy influence of Truth in healing sickness and sin." (p. 146).

Memberships Open to All In Athletic Club

At a recent meeting of the newly-formed Plymouth High School Athletic Alumni Association it was decided to open the membership to anyone interested in encouraging boys to participate in an athletic program. Originally it was intended for letter-winners only, but those present at the first meeting felt that anyone interested in athletics should be eligible for membership.

A committee was chosen to propose by-laws for the next meeting, which is scheduled for Sunday, January 17. It is important that anyone interested in becoming a member of this group be at this meeting. More information will be forthcoming in a later article.

At the December meeting several possible functions of such an organization were discussed. Included were: (1) to set-up a cash aid, or scholarship, for needy boys going to college; (2) An annual reunion outing; (3) An annual reunion dance; (4) Help in the running of athletic contests; (5) Help needy boys procure necessary equipment to go out for athletic teams; (6) Sponsor an All-Sports Banquet; (7) Award a trophy to the best all-around student and athlete; (8) Seek a representative on the School - Community Planning Group.

At the first meeting around 40 former athletes were present and were most enthusiastic about the possibilities of such an organization. A large number of former athletes are home from college now for the holidays, and it is hoped that they will contact Charles Ketterer or John Sandmann at the high school on particulars in joining this organization.

A magazine contributor, being hard pressed by his creditors, recently wrote to his editor: "Please send check at once, as my gas bill is due." The candid editor replied in this brief fashion: "So is mine. God help us all."

Keep Trees Moist

Keep your tree fresh and moist by placing it firmly in a bucket of sand. Wet the sand generously and water every day. This reduces the hazards of fire and keeps the needles fresh.

Garden City, Redford Fall To Local 5

The high school cagers came back strong after the humiliating loss at Trenton and defeated Garden City and Redford Union with ease. Although not as sharp as in the opening Northville game, the boys had enough to win with ease. In the first game 13 of the 14 men on the squad scored points, while in the later contest 11 men counted. The Rocks beat Garden City 61 to 34 and smothered Redford Union 57 to 32—the latter team edged the Rocks twice last year, but most of their stars from last year are missing this year, and the outfit didn't look too good.

In the Garden City game the Rocks led all the way and had a comfortable 31 to 15 lead at halftime. Everyone got into the game, and Kenneth Kisabeth and Bob Middleton were high scorers with 15 and 14 respectively. Lee Juve had 7, Dick Day 5, Dick Davidson 4, Jerry Kelly and John Agnew 3 each, Pagenkopf, Caplin, Wilhelm and Clifford each had 2, while Sorenson and Gotard rounded out the scoring with one each. Steller had 11 points for Garden City.

Plymouth made 15 of 32 free throws good, while their opponents had 15 of 27.

The Rocks toyed with Redford Union, who didn't seem to have any kind of an offense. Plymouth led at halftime 23 to 11, got 11 more in the third quarter and finished with a flourish with 23 in the last quarter. Ken Kisabeth, who didn't start the game, was high with 18 points—made on 7 baskets and 4 charity tosses.

Bob Middleton counted 11 points, Lee Juve 5, Clifford, Caplin and Pagenkopf 4 each, Gotard 3, and Agnew, Wilhelm, Sorenson and Kelly 2 points each. Gores was high for the losers with 8 points.

The Rocks made 15 out of 30 foul tosses good, while Redford Union made good on 4 out of 9 free throws.

These two games wound up court play until after the holidays. The next game is with Allen Park here the evening of Friday, January 8. Allen Park, who didn't start the game, yet, having defeated Redford Union and Belleville by low scores.

Form Grade Cage League

Plymouth's grade schools will be taking part in a grade school basketball league sponsored by the Recreation Department. The games will start the week of January 11, 1954.

Teams and coaches are as follows: Lutheran Day school—Richard Scharf; Our Lady of Good Counsel School—Mike Spitz; Bird-Earl Lucas; Smith-Phil Barnes; Allen-Earl Gibson; and Stark-weather-Bill Foster. Games will be played at the Gymnasiums of Smith, Allen and Bird schools. Each team will be scheduled for 10 games.

At the end of the season the champions will be presented with a trophy.

Henceforth I learn that to obey is best,
And love with fear the only God.

Sport Glances

by "Professor" Edgar Brown

The big professional football game of the year is being played this coming Sunday—that being the Detroit Lions against the Cleveland Browns. I'm sticking my neck out by picking the Lions to triumph by 3 points or more, but the Lions, as I figured them, are a pressure team—they have had more pressure games this year than the Browns, and they have come through when the chips were down. The Browns have more, or less, coasted along and won as they wanted to; then again, the Lions have beaten the Browns when the chips were down before—it just adds up to a Lion victory, even though on paper it should be a Brown win. I'll also take the Michigan State team to win the Rose Bowl game against UCLA. More power, more depth, and a great desire to win in their first representation of the Big-Ten will be the difference.

The high school basketballers won two games last week—both by decisive wins over Garden City and Redford Union, and I still think they could be the 6-B league champions if they play like they are capable of playing. In both of the wins this week—against weak opposition—they won, but still didn't look like they did against Northville—the boys still missed a good percentage of their shots. At least they did the last three quarters—I was to a Cub Scout Pack meeting the early part of the evening, and missed the first quarter. I will say that Plymouth should, or could, win the 6-B league this year—and I saw that 19 point defeat over at Trenton.

The holiday season is upon us, and another year is about to draw to a close. Many will reflect back and try to see what has been accomplished of value—to some it will just be another year added to many others; a few others probably just began to live—we humans are funny; we go on year after year living and suddenly someday realize it was just existing.

The year brought the end of the Korean struggle, which meant so much in many homes. If people only could get along—if most of us had a higher spiritual value; one that we could feel each day in our daily lives, people would get along better. I know that I am personally going to begin the new year with a much different prospectus.

"What makes the parrot so profane?"
"Well mum," answered the sailor man, "I s-pose its' part my fault. Every time I hear him speak a bad word it makes me so mad that he gets a chance to learn a lot of new ones."

Polish American Historians Meet

Several hundred members and friends of the Polish American Historical Association will assemble for the organization's 10th annual meeting to honor five Polish candidates for beatification. The two-day program which will unfold on December 29 and 30 at Madonna College includes lecture sessions, exhibits, and inspirational exchange of views on kindred interests.

The five religious leaders to whom scholarly tributes will be paid include: Archbishop John Cieplak, a victim of Bolshevik persecution after the first world war, and four foundresses of Polish American Sisterhoods—M. Angela Truskowska (Felician), M. Frances Siedliska (Nazareth), M. Celina and M. Hedwig Borzecka (Resurrection).

Papers about each will be read during two sessions by the following biographers: Rev. F. Domanski, S. J. (Chicago), S. M. Liguori, CSFN (Chicago), S. M. Catherine, C. R. (Chicago), S. M. Ligoria, C. R. (Livonia), and S. M. Tullia, CSSF (Chicago).

Six other papers, dealing with various aspects of Polish American life, will also be presented for discussion. They include: "Polish Language and Other Studies in the U. S. through 1953" (Dr. S. Sluska, New York), "Noble Street in Chicago" (S. M. Inviolata, SSJ, Chicago), "Polonian Military Contributions" (G. Walter, Chicago), "Sienkiewicz in America" (Z. Peszkowski, Orchard Lake), "The Founding of the Polish Seminary in Detroit" (Rev. J. Swastek, Orchard Lake), "Exsul Familia and the Second and Third Polonian Generation" (Rev. V. Jasinski, Orchard Lake).

The chairmen of the respective sessions include: Rev. J. Przygoda (Orchard Lake), Rev. J. Cibor (Notre Dame), Rev. S. Borucki (Detroit), M. Neomisia, CSEN (Philadelphia), and S. M. Edwina, FSSJ (Bridgeport).

Special solemnity will be given to the meeting by the presence of auxiliary-bishop A. Babcock of Detroit and Rt. Rev. Msgr. Szumal, rector of the Polish Seminary. Both will celebrate Masses on respective days and address the participants.

Added attractions at the meeting will consist of special exhibits of historical documents bearing the signatures of the last thirteen Polish kings and of recent important historical works dealing with Polish history. These will be shown in the library of Madonna College, the first collegiate institution for women under Polish American auspices.

The final session of the meeting will be devoted to business matters. It will also elect new officers to head the Association in 1954. The Polish American Historical Association was founded eleven years ago as a part of the Polish Institute of Arts and Sciences in America. Among the

March of Dimes Plans Contest For Schools

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will present special certificates of appreciation for the three best editorials on the subject of Polio Prevention published in high school papers for the March of Dimes.

Judging will be based entirely on the quality of the editorial apart from its fund raising implications. The format and frequency of the publication do not matter.

This contest is of vital significance for high school students because four out of every five persons stricken with polio are under 21 years of age.

The massive field trials about to be launched to test the effectiveness of a vaccine to prevent polio and the dramatic stepping up of the volume of gamma globulin available in 1954 will give the high school papers some thrilling developments to present to their readers.

Each high school has received a Press Sheet to help the editors to meet the challenge of telling one of the greatest stories ever unfolded in the fight against diseases.

Winning editorials will be selected by a committee of high school journalism teachers. School papers containing the editorials should be sent to the Publicity Department, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, 120 Broadway, New York 5, New York.

BIGGEST HURDLE so far in the long struggle to build the Mackinac Bridge was successfully completed Dec. 17 when the State Administrative Board unanimously approved sale of bonds to finance the $99,800,000 structure.

The board consists of the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer, auditor general, superintendent of public instruction and the highway commissioner.

The board also let contracts for work to begin at the same meeting. One for $44,535,000 went to the American Bridge Co.; one for $25,735,000 to Merritt, Chapman and Scott Co. for foundation installations.

ONE MORE OBSTACLE remains: approval of the Michigan Supreme court. The board is under order to hold the bonds until the court hears arguments and decides whether or not the transaction is Constitutional.

Hearings are scheduled to start Dec. 22; the decision is expected by Feb. 15.

If the court finds the sale constitutional, work can begin; if not, the efforts and dreams of many who worked to secure the bridge will go up in smoke. A new effort will take several years to regain wasted accomplishment.

Complications and confusion arose in the final days before the board meeting. D. Hale Brake, state treasurer and a man respected for his knowledge of state finance, criticized the method of raising the money. After making clear his position that he did not oppose the bridge, he pointed out that bonds with only bridge tolls as security commanded a higher rate of interest than those backed by the state and its assets. He figured that the method being used will cost users of the bridge a total of $193,882,000 (interest is now approximately 4.2%); that if the people would vote approval of the bonds, the total cost of taxpayers could be lowered to $129,195,000—a savings of $64 million otherwise to be paid in bridge tolls.

No reason exists why the second course cannot be followed later, and it seemed generally agreed by board members that the bonds would be refinanced at the lower interest rate any time a public referendum permits.

Big question mark now was supplied by Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson) who sought an injunction hours before the bond agreement was made. He sought to prohibit the action. The court would not issue such an injunction but did order a delay in the actual transaction until the question was settled.

Bonding and construction representatives were more than agreeable that the court pass on the case; they were anxious, for if approved, they will feel more confident of their position in the whole matter.

As pressure grows for relief to overcrowded schools, the likelihood will increase that the present "temporary" business receipts tax will become permanent. The legislature turned to the levy as the main source of revenue to wipe out a $65 million deficit. The deficit, in turn, was caused directly by the voters' constitutional diversion of sales tax funds to local governments of which public schools are the principal beneficiary.

If current educational needs are to be met, all available state funds—and even more property taxes locally—will be necessary.

Hence there is growing skepticism at Lansing at the prospects for repeal of the state sales diversion amendment, such as is sought in some quarters. Educational demands are mounting. Here are some facts:

Since July 1, 1952 a total of 481 new schools or major additions have been approved by the state for public education; 70 more for parochial systems.

Enrollment in Michigan colleges and universities was nearly 100,000 in 1953; 12.7% more than 1952.

"War baby" population increase will reach college levels about 1958.

Present high school enrollment is one third higher than the systems were built to accommodate.

Specialties such as medicine, dentistry are already unable to educate those eligible for training. Applications for medical school are accepted at a 9 to 1 ratio; dentistry at 5 to 1.

Fifth fastest growing state in the country is Michigan according to recent reports of the U. S. Census bureau.

From 1950 to July 2, 1953, the bureau estimates the Wolverine state gained 319,000 in population.

States ahead of Michigan in the population race are California, Texas, Florida and Ohio.

Simple Method of Carving Turkey

If you're a holiday host and carving the Christmas turkey is the only dismal spot in an otherwise joyous holiday—take heart! It isn't as difficult as it may seem.

The following simple directions for properly disjointing and slicing the holiday bird can help the inexperienced carver:

Naturally you must have a good sharp carving knife! The job will prove easier if you stand up to carve and always carve the side of the turkey that's away from you. If the carver is right-handed, place the legs of the bird to the right; if left-handed, to the left.

First, remove a leg by holding the drumstick firmly with the thumb and forefinger. Cut through the skin by drawing the knife back and forth, and sever joint. Press leg away from the body with the flat side of the knife, then cut remaining skin on the back. Place leg on a service plate.

Disjoint drumstick and thigh by holding leg at almost right angles to the plate and cutting through meat to the bone. Hold thigh with knife and press down on drumstick until bone snaps.

Slice leg meat by holding drumstick perpendicular and cut down, turning leg to get uniform slices. To slice thigh meat, straddle the bone with fork and cut meat in lengthwise strips.

Next, remove the wing by inserting knife at right angles to breast about 1½ inches above wing and cutting straight down through wing joint.

To slice white meat, insert knife in rib section on opposite side. Hold knife parallel to breast and cut with a sawing motion. Start first slice just above place where wing was removed and cut slices about ¾" thick.

Cut skin away from cavity to facilitate removal of dressing. In serving, give each person a slice of white and dark meat and a portion of dressing.

Old Tom Turkey Ain't What He Used to Be . . .

It is no longer necessary for the small family to forego the Christmas turkey or eat turkey leftovers for days after Christmas. Turkeys have changed!

Through new methods of turkey raising, it is now possible to buy a smaller, meatier, and broader-breasted turkey. They can be stuffed with the family's favorite dressing and roasted like the heavier birds. Some smaller families may want to have two of these small turkeys, each with a different kind of dressing, instead of one larger bird. They can be cooked much more quickly than a large turkey of comparable total weight.

Everyone Has Favorite Tree Trimming Ideas

When it comes to trimming the Christmas tree—you, like many others, probably have some very definite ideas of your own. If you haven't, the following suggestions may prove welcome as well as practical.

The trend seems to be, as always, toward as large a Christmas tree as the room will permit. The old-fashioned, floor-to-ceiling tree is still the standby in many homes, and, where space is available, a big tree is always most cheerful and "Christmas-y."

You may be one of those fortunates who remembers the tree trimmed with garlands of popcorn, or lots of cranberries, or both. Maybe you still find a tree "bare" without a manger or ice skating scene beneath it to simply amplify your feeling of Christmas.

To some extent the type and size of tree used depends on the section of the country. People in the Northeast and East favor the big, long-needed balsam, while the South and West prefer the Southern and the Douglas fir.

Many families like happily-lighted trees, decorated with multi-colored glass ornaments of all sizes, shapes, and colors topped with a gaily large gold or silver star.

Greetings

May the joys of the Season and all its friendly cheer brighten your home at Christmas and abide with you all through the year... This is our warm Holiday wish for you and yours.

Select Puppies For Gift-Giving Most Carefully

When buying a puppy for gift giving remember that, barring sickness or accident, your dog will live 10 or 12 years, perhaps longer. Be sure to select a type or breed compatible with the receiver's environment and personal temperament. Buy from a reputable breeder or kennel. Get a pedigreed dog—if possible. It costs money to raise a healthy pup, so be prepared to pay a fair price. Puppies make cute gifts, so be sure that your gift looks "Christmas-y"—tie a red or other colored ribbon around his neck with a bell or two. To add a real Xmas touch, try sprinkling artificial snow in its coat!

A teacher in the factory district of a New Jersey town had been giving the children earnest lectures upon the poisonousness of dirt.

One day a little girl raised her hand excitedly and pointed to a boy who seldom had clean hands. "Teacher," she said, look quick! Jimmie's committin' suicide! He's suckin' his thumb."

Historic Trains Inspire New Toys

New thrill for kid collectors is a line of miniatures of famous Civil War trains featured in an all plastic hobby kit group. The General, famous locomotives, designed to fit O gauge track, has 60 all plastic pieces each numbered for easy assembly.

Sergeant Robert L. Grieve, whose wife, Joyce, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stirling Kennedy, live at 174 Rose street, Plymouth, spent a seven-day rest and recuperation leave in Kokura, Japan.

Normally stationed in Korea with Headquarters Battery of the 980th Field Artillery Battalion, Sergeant Grieve stayed at one of Japan's best resort hotels and enjoyed many luxuries unobtainable on the war-torn peninsula.

No. 8: Watch Out For That Umbrella

Motorists riding around in nice comfortable waterproof cars sometimes fail to appreciate what it's like to be a pedestrian walking on a wet street with the rain coming down. Holding an umbrella in the position where it will do the most good seems the most important thing to do at the time. The fact that the umbrella makes it impossible for the pedestrian to see oncoming traffic is lost sight of in the urge to keep out of the rain. And if there is a high wind, keeping the umbrella from turning inside out is a full time job.

So on rainy days motorists can hardly expect pedestrians to do as good a job of looking out for themselves.

When U.C.L.A. rooters jam the Rose Bowl stadium in Pasadena January 1, they will be singing the words of the rousing fight song written by Mrs. LeeAnna Benjamin, sister of Edward Gardiner, superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction. The song, "Fight, Fight, Fight, Bruins, Fight" written this year, gave U.C.L.A. the truly stirring fight song they had long wanted.

Mrs. Benjamin resides in Santa Monica, California, and her son, Warner, is a reserve tackle on the college's renowned football team. In writing the words and music to the song she threw all of her strong rooting interest in the team into it. In an interview with the Santa Monica Evening Outlook she stated "I've merely expressed in music the thought that is in the heart of any mother who has a son on the U.C.L.A. varsity."

Sports Items Make Excellent Gifts

Time was when women threw up their hands with a cry that went something like this: "I don't know what to get Jim for Christmas—he has everything!"

That little problem no longer exists in this streamlined year of fascinating gift merchandise.

For the golf enthusiast there are newer, brighter golf bags... golf balls (he'll never have enough of these!)... free-wheeling golf carts... and sets of woods and irons to drive a man fey with ecstasy.

For the tennis star whose racket may have seen its best forehand drives, there are new ones available in fancy woods and Nylon stringing. Or, he may need a new cover for his old racket, in which case there is a very wide selection in all patterns from conservative to shrieking. (And, did you ever see a net fan who had enough tennis balls...?)

Gone are the days when a bamboo pole and a can of "tired" nightcrawlers satisfied the average fisherman. Today, everything is more "atomic," with boats, outboard motors and complete sets of fly casting or spinning outfits.

Many families find it practical—and man-satisfyin'—to pool their gift money for a really big gift: a boat, an outboard motor, complete sets of equipment, or a build-it-yourself boat kit. This idea is really catching on!

Other gifts for the fisherman: rubber hip boots, a metal tackle box or creel, minnow traps, nets, lines, baits, lures and flies.

Gifts for the Nimrod include rifles and shotguns (surprisingly low-priced this year), telescopic sights, gun-cleaning kits, leather hunting boots, hunting jackets or parkas, and a hunting knife. Bigger items, like tents and sleeping bags, can be purchased on the family "pool" plan.

The gadgeteer will jump for joy at the variety in the new model-building kits—especially reproductions of old-time railroad equipment and autos. Stamp albums, woodworking tools and metalcraft equipment come bigger, better and more diversified this year.

Power, like desolating pestilence,

For home workshop jacks-of-all-trades, a tool chest or work bench is an ideal gift, as are power tools in every category: circular saws, lathes, sanders, drill presses, and so on.

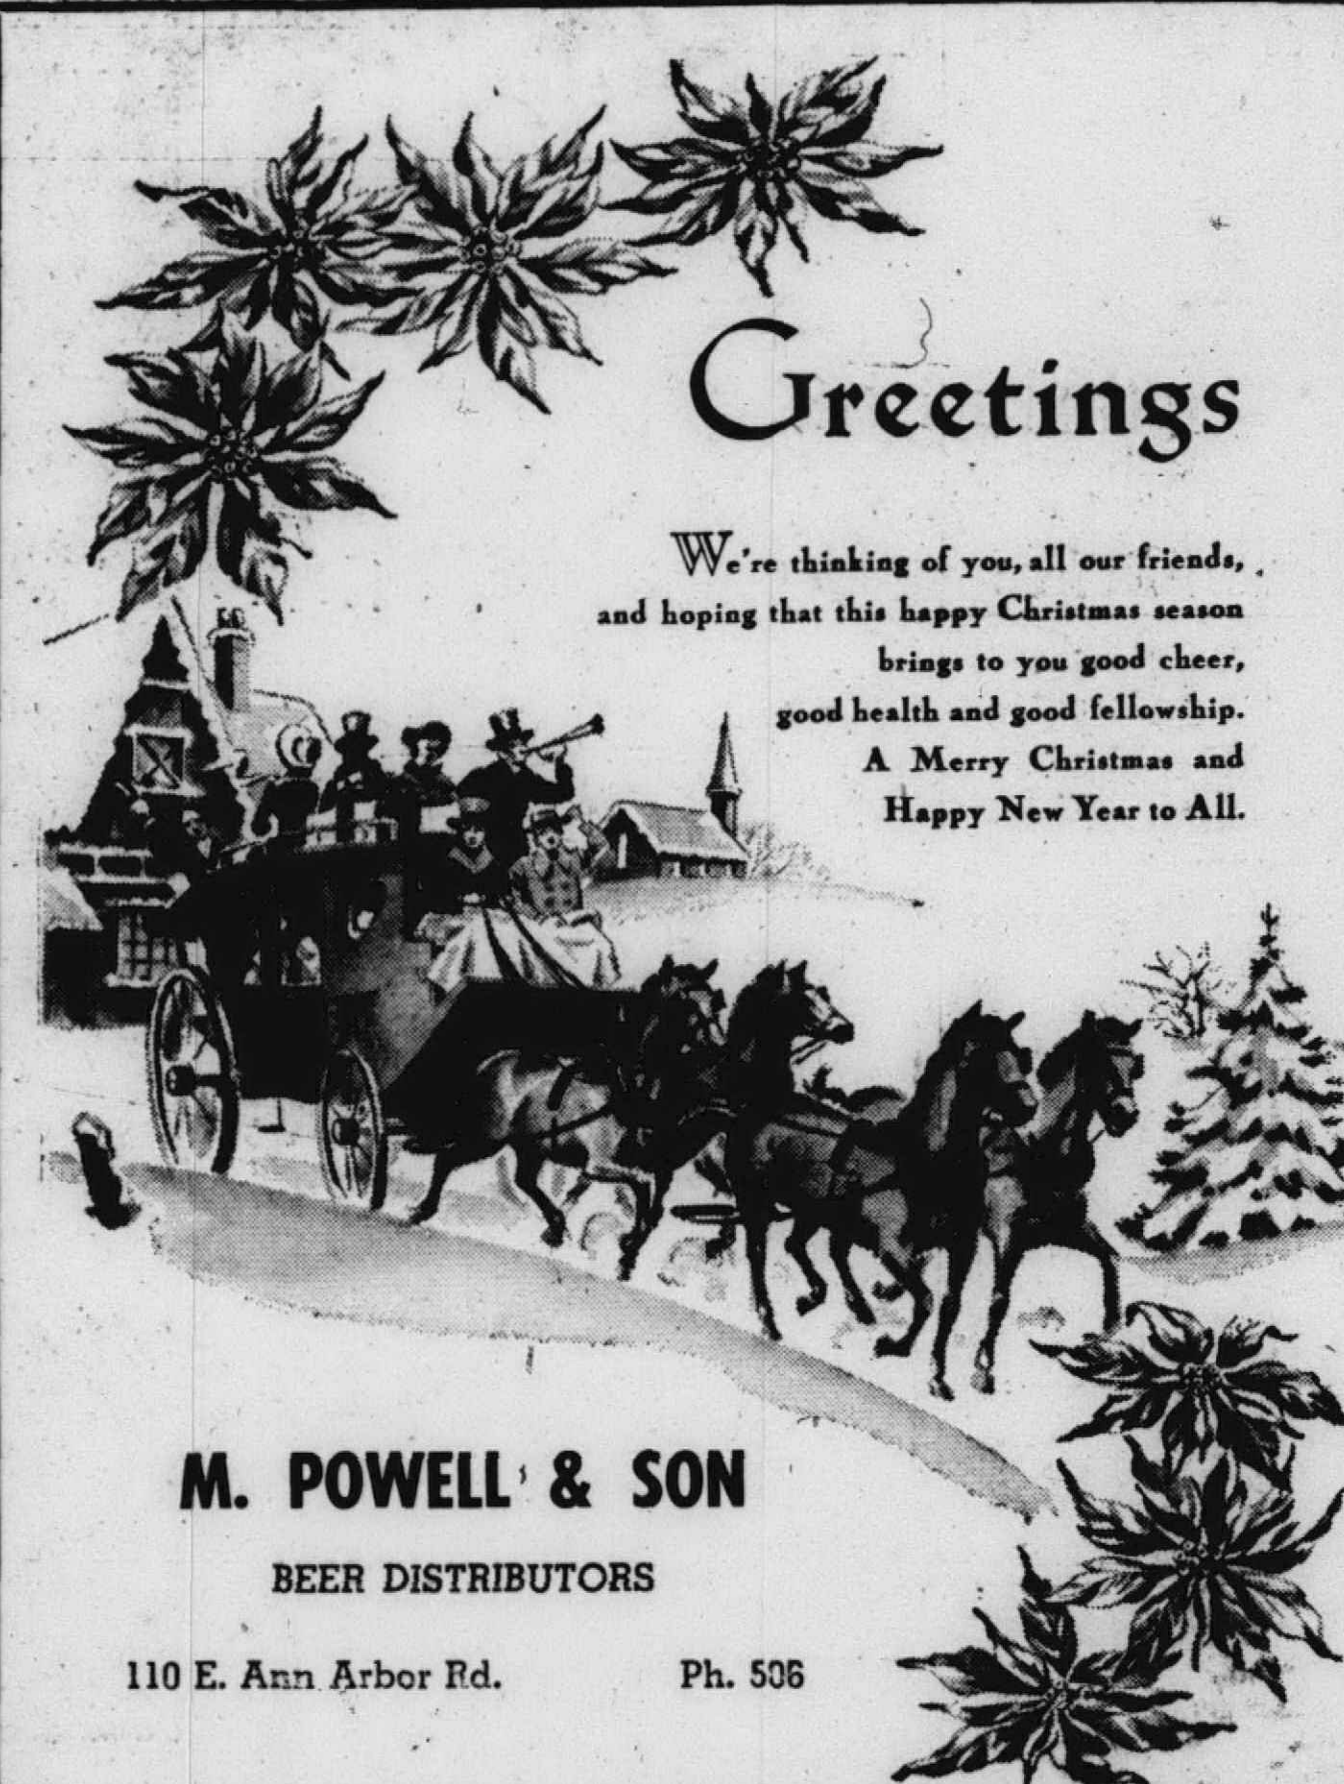

Speciality Foods Please Gourmet

Let's face it: it's a gourmet's world. If you don't believe it, just ask the food specialty stores that every year are selling more and more gaily packaged food delicacies to more and more people as Christmas gifts.

One of the top buyers of food specialties around today, says: "The most popular gift items are fancy biscuits from England, the U.S., Holland, France, Italy and Denmark, dried figs from Turkey and raisins from California. Natural and dried fruits are enjoying a booming business, too."

He finds that French glace fruits, melon glace, pate de foie gras in attractive earthenware terrines, iebkuchen from Germany, French and Italian hors d'oeuvres are getting to be almost "de rigeuer" for Yuletide gifts.

Greetings

We're thinking of you, all our friends, and hoping that this happy Christmas season brings to you good cheer, good health and good fellowship. A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All.

Chips from the ROCK

Holiday tradition and the various things people do in celebration of these events is a most interesting study. Our particular household has had its Christmas cleaning from top to bottom and all is in readiness for the annual visit from old St. Nick. Querying my wife on the extensiveness of her cleaning brought forth the comment that along with the joys and headaches of the holiday her mind was constantly filled with a Christmas story she learned in college. She informed me that all of the years she taught school she had passed it on to hundreds of children and has told it in our home many times during the last 20 years to our children.

Because it is a different kind of a Christmas story and because it has so much influence in our particular home we thought you might like to tell it to your children one of the nights before Christmas as they gather around the Christmas tree before going to bed. Written by Sara Cone Bryant, the story is named "The Golden Cobwebs."

"This is about something wonderful that happened to a Christmas tree ever and ever so long ago, when it was once upon a time."

"It was before Christmas, and the tree was all trimmed with popcorn and silver nuts and (name the trimming of the tree before you), and stood safely out of sight in a room where the doors were locked, so that the children should not see it before it was time. But ever so many other little house-people had seen it. The big black pussy saw it with her great green eyes; the little gray kitty saw it with her little blue eyes; the kind house-dog saw it with his steady brown eyes; the yellow canary saw it with his wise, bright eyes. Even the wee, wee mice that were so afraid of the cat had peeked one peek when no one was by."

"But there was some one who hadn't seen the Christmas tree. It was the little gray spider!"

"You see, the spiders lived in the corners,—the warm corners of the sunny attic and the dark corners of the nice cellar. And they were expecting to see the Christmas tree as much as anybody. But just before Christmas a great cleaning-up began in the house. The house-mother came sweeping and dusting and wiping and scrubbing, to make everything grand and clean for the Christ-child's birthday. Her broom went into all the corners, poke, poke,—and of course the spiders had to run. Dear, dear, how the spiders had to run! Not one could stay in the house while the Christmas cleanness lasted. So, you see, they couldn't see the Christmas tree."

"Spiders like to know all about everything, and see all there is to see, and they were very sad. So at last they went to the Christ-child and told Him all about it."

"All the others see the Christmas tree, dear Christ-child," they said, "but we who are so domestic and so fond of beautiful things, we are cleaned up! We cannot see it, at all."

"The Christ-child was sorry for the little spiders when He heard this, and He said they should see the Christmas tree."

"The day before Christmas, when nobody was noticing, He let them all go in, to look as long as ever they liked."

"They came creepy, creepy, down the attic stairs, creepy, creepy, up the cellar stairs, creepy, creepy, along the halls,—and into the beautiful room. The fat mother spiders and the old papa spiders were there, and all the little teeny, tonty, curly spiders, the baby ones. And then they looked! Round and round the tree they crawled, and looked and looked and looked. Oh, what a good time they had! They thought it was perfectly beautiful. And when they had looked at everything they could see from the floor, they started up the tree to see more. All over the tree they ran, creepy, crawly, looking at every single thing. Up and down, in and out, over every branch and twig, the little spiders ran, and saw every one of the pretty things right up close."

"They stayed till they had seen all there was to see, you may be sure, and then they went away at last, quite happy."

"Then, in the still, dark night before Christmas day, the dear Christ-child came, to bless the tree for the children. But when He looked at it—what do you suppose?—it was covered with cobwebs! Everywhere the little spiders had been they had left a spider-web; and you know they had been just everywhere. So the tree was covered from its trunk to its tip with spider-webs, all hanging from the branches and looped around the twigs; it was a strange sight."

"What could the Christ-child do? He knew that house-mothers do not like cobwebs; it would never, never do to have a Christmas tree covered with those. No, indeed."

"So the dear Christ-child touched the spiders' webs, and turned them all to gold! Wasn't that a lovely trimming? They shone and shone, all over the beautiful tree. And that is the way the Christmas tree came to have golden cobwebs on it."

Peace on earth... good will toward men.

Babson's Outlook To Appear in Mail

Roger W. Babson

American business has no more inspiring personality than Roger W. Babson, internationally-known business commentator and investment adviser. An outstanding feature of his philosophy has been his life-long insistence on the importance of religion in business.

Born and reared in an old-fashioned atmosphere of hard work and hustle on a farm in Gloucester, Babson went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Upon graduating, he returned instinctively to financial and business activities.

His exertions, however, undermined his health; he contracted tuberculosis and he was sent West "as good as dead"! It was while he was convalescing from this dread malady that he worked out some of the possibilities and problems of business forecasting. His weekly releases are used by over 400 newspapers and his financial reports by 20,000 corporations and estates. His research work is carried on by a large staff of workers.

Babson founded Babson Institute for Men; and, in co-operation with Mrs. Babson, developed Webber College for Women—both nationally-known educational institutions. Here young men and women may concentrate on the fundamentals of business administration. Later, he founded Utopia College, located in Eureka, Kansas, the center of the United States. Recently, he has been active in the establishment of another medium of service to the public, the Gravity Research Foundation, located at New Boston, New Hampshire.

Babson has probably done more than any other man to create among his millions of newspaper readers an interest in simple business problems, and to instill a broader vision in businessmen, enabling them to meet the ups-and-downs of the business cycle.

His BUSINESS and FINANCIAL OUTLOOK for 1954 will appear in The Mail next week.

Babson—pioneer in the field of business and financial statistics—enjoys an unusual record of accuracy in his Annual Forecasts. His score for 1953 was 84 percent accurate.

On December 31, 1952, he predicted: (1) that World War III would not start during 1953; (2) that the supply of raw materials would be ample in 1953 and there would be less Government control; (3) that disposable income and demand for goods would hold up in 1953 due to full employment; (4) that rent controls would be a thing of the past in most areas in 1953; (5) that the cost of mortgage money would increase; and (6) He Definitely Forecast Lower Stock Prices.

Delicious Hot Sandwich

A very simple recipe which will never-the-less make the youngsters sit up and take notice is the one prepared by Mrs. Gerald Hondorp of 1317 Park Place. On these cold winter days a hot sandwich goes a long way toward warming up a chilled little body. The sandwich, of course, has great appeal for the parents as well as the children, Mrs. Hondorp explained.

Her son Gary, 11, particularly is fond of the dish, she said, although two-year-old Craig gets excited watching her prepare it. It takes little work and gives you something a little different to serve at lunchtime.

Hot Sandwich
6 slices bread
3 slices boiled ham.
Old English strong cheese
Tomato soup

Place slices of bread in a baking pan and spread with butter. On each slice of bread place one-half slice of boiled ham. Cover this with a slice of strong cheese. Dilute the can of tomato soup with a little milk and pour it over the sandwich. Place the pan of sandwiches under the broiler and leave until the cheese melts. Serve.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

"Oh, Doctor, I'm so tired all the time," complained a miserable looking woman as she sat all slumped down in her chair. "I sleep poorly and am not refreshed when I arise in the morning. Can't you give me some medicine to get me over this?"

"You must help yourself," advises the physician. "I have made a most careful examination and find no trace of any organic or serious disease. Your weariness is caused by your method of living. For example, you are always on the go? After a hard day's work, instead of remaining quietly at home, for at least two or three evenings a week you go out either for pleasure, business, or some social work. You keep yourself in a state of chronic excitement and activity. You do not take time to rest to relax, to invite your soul."

"I admit that what you say about my going so much is true, but you know the old saying that it is better to wear out than to rust out."

"You are doing both," was the paradoxical reply. And finally the lady was dismissed with a prescription after much wholesome advice.

When the last patient had gone, the doctor sat down alone and wrote a short article for his paper as follows:

Human beings are going about in a chronic state of fatigue because they apparently have no common sense. They rush from place to place in search of that will-o-the-wisp, pleasure. Some of them sit in a smoke filled room playing cards and drinking cocktails until the wee small hours of the morning. Then go to bed with their brains in a foggy whirl, and do not sleep well. If they have to go to work, they are neither mentally nor physically fit to discharge their duties of the day.

There are others, especially women, who seldom give themselves a moment's rest or relaxation. They are restless and nervous. They belong to so many clubs that they do not find time to read and enjoy good literature. Instead they snatch up the latest fiction which is frequently of a vile character. They do not seem to realize that they are making sewers of their minds as channels for mental filth. The reading of such slush is lowering the moral standard of our population.

The craving for excitement is driving men and women to greater speed on the highways. They seldom are content to remain quietly at home for an afternoon. If they can think of no other amusement, they go to the movies no matter what the picture chances to be. Coming out, they are often heard to exclaim, "I'm all unnerved. That was a gruesome picture, nothing but horrors from beginning to end. If I'd known the nature of it, I'd have stayed away and waited for something better." That shows the folly of not even taking time to inform one's self before spending one's money.

Some people are born of restless and emotional parents whose bickerings keep the children in a constant state of unrest and unhappiness. Such children lack the calmness and poise of those who come from well-balanced parents, who were wise and kind in their dealings with their offspring.

Heredity and environment play a large part in the lives of all human beings; but though one has had a bad start in life, many disadvantages and bad habits can be overcome by persistent self-straining of the mind and body.

Overcome, if possible, physical defects and form the habit of calm, undisturbed thinking. There are wells of reserve power in all human beings which can be drawn upon for the control of behavior and emotions. The body and the mind must be trained by the substitution of good mental and physical habits in place of bad ones.

Mrs. Walch Tells Club About Trip

The Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women held its December meeting on Thursday, December 17, at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing on Church street. Mrs. Henry Walsh entertained the members with amusing anecdotes of her trip last summer and brought with her many of the items she purchased in the various countries, demonstrating the exquisite workmanship and fine hand work employed in producing articles to be sold to the tourist trade.

The members were served lovely, traditional Christmas refreshments. Mrs. Austin Pino poured tea and coffee in a dining room which carried out the beautiful seasonal decorating theme seen throughout the house. Mrs. John Barnes and Mrs. C. C. Wiltse assisted Mrs. Hulsing as co-hostesses.

Teen-Age Gift Wants Change

To assist parents in coping with the gift problem of teenagers making the transition from toys to practical gifts, these suggestions are helpful:

To the boy or girl old enough to receive his or her first private key to the front door, make the presentation a Christmas gift, and turn it into a special occasion by enclosing the key in a monogrammed key case. Hang the gaily wrapped box prominently on the tree, or give it formally at dinner.

The gift of a trip is excellent, even for a short distance from home if the teenager can go alone for the first time. Enclose the transportation tickets in a box with a set of luggage tags marked for the destination.

An increased allowance is a welcome gift; put an I.O.U. for the added amount in a billfold, and place the package in a conspicuous spot under the tree.

Ground beef patties are the teenager's favorite, but dressed up, they are an economical addition to the dinner menu. Try adding grated raw potato or grated raw apple to the ground beef mixture for a flavor change. For a gourmet touch, place two thin beef patties together with a stuffing of blue cheese, dry mustard, Worcester sauce and mayonnaise, pressing the edges of the patties securely together.

Variety meats are rich sources of vitamins and minerals, particularly vitamin A, and the B vitamins. It is a nutritionwise home-maker who includes a serving of liver or tongue in her weekly menu. Beef liver, particularly, can be prepared in many appetizing dishes. French fried liver is a favorite with the younger generation, but liver and bacon, liver loaves, and braised liver with vegetables are other suggestions.

Glazed Half Ham Glamorizes Your Christmas Buffet Table

Highlight your Christmas buffet table with a handsome roast half of ham. A honey glaze adds a shiny touch to the scored fat surface of this ham. A big paper frill is slipped over the shank bone. In roasting make sure to use a constant low temperature (300° F.) so the ham will be evenly done and attractive.

Christmas dinner and holiday entertaining (which often turns into a dinner) are in the near future. With some folks a buffet dinner is a favorite way of serving this season of the year. And for the buffet table what could be more appealing than a smoked ham or half ham scored and gleamingly glazed.

For a buffet serving it is so important that the ham be cooked perfectly. This means you cannot rush the ham cooking, resulting in meat that is charred and unattractive. Rather it must be cooked slowly and correctly. Here are the steps to follow. First, use a shallow roasting pan—one that has a rack to fit it. Then place the ham or half ham on the rack so that the fat surface is uppermost.

If you have a roast meat thermometer, insert it into the ham so that the bulb reaches the center of the thickest section. Make sure that it is not on bone or in fat. Simply by noting when the thermometer has reached 160° F. you will know the smoked ham is ready to remove from the oven.

In roasting smoked ham the same as beef, veal or lamb, set the oven regulator at 300° F. and cook the meat at this constant temperature. You can estimate cooking time by allowing 13 to 20 minutes per pound for a whole smoked ham, 22 to 25 minutes per pound for a half ham.

For the glaze that adds such an appealing touch to a ham or half ham, remove the meat from the oven 45 minutes before the scheduled end of cooking. Score the fat surface, then top with strained honey or strained honey to which you have added chopped maraschino cherries. Then return the ham to the oven to finish cooking and to set the glaze.

A perfect appetizer for the dinner is hot mulled apple cider, served to guests and family in the living room. Include in your main course scalloped potatoes, hot buttered peas to which you have added sautéed mushrooms, a colorful relish tray filled with olives, pickle fans, radish roses, celery sticks, etc. Date-nut torte provides an appealing dessert.

Give Tips On Canapes And Appetizers for Holiday

Those holiday meals you prepare deserve a good start. And good starters run the gamut of appetite provoking foods, from oysters on the half shell to various high flavor preparations of meat, fish, vegetables and cheese.

When preparing canapes keep them quite small, just large enough to be eaten in one or two bites. Since long standing spoils most of them you will want to prepare them not more than 30 minutes before serving.

A true canape always has a base for the savory morsel of food. The bases may vary from bread to puff paste. Crackers and pastry bases should be crisp.

When toast is used, select day-old close textured bread. Swedish rye bread or pumpernickel are excellent for this purpose. Slice the bread very thin and cut it into desired shapes with cookie cutters. Toast it on one side only by sauteing it in a little butter in a hot skillet over low heat, until it is nicely browned. Spread the topping on the untoasted side.

With melba toast, dip each piece in the white of an egg and place it in a 150 degree oven for drying. This forms a resistant coating and makes it less absorbent.

You can choose from various canape butters such as anchovy, chutney, lobster, shrimp, garlic, pepper, sardine and mushroom.

Easy-to-fix spreads include cucumber, chipped beef, peanut and bacon, deviled ham, liver paste and finely chopped lobster or crabmeat blended with chopped celery and moistened with mayonnaise.

Hot canapes of ham, chicken or crabmeat spreads (with or without cheese) are heated under a slow broiler.

Hors d'oeuvres is the term used to describe savory little appetizers or relishes other than canapes. Unlike canapes, they are not served on bases of toast, bread or crackers.

Marinated cauliflower, artichoke, celery cubes, mushrooms or asparagus tips are possibilities for the hors d'oeuvre tray. Whole shrimp with tails left on, served with cocktail sauce are always a good choice. Tiny croquettes, tartlets, small pasties or miniature turnovers must be served hot.

Broiled oysters or stuffed mushrooms add a subtle piquancy to an appetizer assortment. Tiny frankfurters and sausages may be browned to a turn and mounted on toothpicks. Or dip small frankfurters in cornmeal batter and fry in deep fat.

You have to give the right kind of care to the new man-made fibers and finishes in order to get good service. So make it a habit to look for the label and to ask for washing or cleaning instructions before buying.

Prices for clothes are expected to average a little lower over the year in 1954. But perhaps your greatest saving can come through careful shopping — and through getting as much information as you can about what is on the market before you shop.

Helpful Hints Concerning Building, Remodeling, Repairing & Redecorating

BUILD or REMODEL

THE EARLY AMERICAN THEME is closely adhered to throughout the home of Mr. and Mrs. Duncombe A. MacInnes of 41801 Eight Mile road, as shown in this picture of the fireplace corner. The home features one large room, with a kitchen area in one end, and this living room portion in the other. The furniture in the house is antique, conforming with the colonial-style fireplace of multi-colored brick. The bookcase is of knotty pine, with a knotty pine backing, and floors are prefinished with wooden pegs. The wallpaper, supplied by Pease Paint and Wallpaper, carries out the motif with an early American provincial pattern. No curtains are used in the house, as inside shutters meet this need. (Ply-Mail photo)

Intelligent Remodeling With Color Helps Modernize Boxy Old House

Intelligent remodeling with color can make an awkwardly high old house appear lower and better proportioned. Improvement in appearance is accomplished by taking advantage of the ways in which color can be used to create visual illusions. Dark colors, in general, will make a house seem smaller than it actually is.

The color of the roof is of primary importance. A dark asphalt shingle roof will minimize the height of a dwelling. This is especially true when there is a brightly colored door, or other area of light color near ground level, to attract the eye.

Remodeling with color is economical because, building materials cost about the same regardless of the color selected and because color is built into many modern materials at the factory, obviating the need for painting later. For instance, asphalt shingles, which are widely used for reroofing, are available in pastel and conventional colors covering the entire spectrum.

Emphasis on horizontal lines also will make a house seem lower and broader. This can be done by appropriate selection of siding material and by proper arrangement of window boxes and other decorative accessories. If a house has window shutters, height can be de-emphasized by painting first-floor shutters in a color that contrasts to the sidewalls and painting second-floor shutters to match the body color of the house. This draws the viewer's eye to the lower level.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. B-254

DESIGN B-254. A compact and exceptionally livable plan. The kitchen and living room are in front, and two bedrooms and bath in the rear. The kitchen is well lighted by windows on two walls. There are cabinets on the front wall. Ample dining space is provided. There are wardrobe closets in the bedrooms; also a coat closet and linen cabinet. The exterior is finished with asbestos siding, vertical siding in the gables, asphalt shingles, shutters, picture window and flower box. Floor area is 720 sq. ft., cubage, 13,680 cu. ft. For further information about DESIGN B-254, write the Building Editor, The Plymouth Mail.

Cut flowers will last longer if they are kept out of drafts. A drafts draws moisture out of leaves and petals.

Window Shopping With Sue

With winter pretty well entrenched in Plymouth, the problem of heating has again presented itself. One of the ways around the problem has been offered by Bill Otwell of Otwell Plumbing and Heating. It's the Winkler gas or oil fired wall furnace which assures better heat distribution.

The furnace fits snugly into the wall, and thus doesn't waste an inch of your living space. Centrally located, it can send heat throughout your house, keeping even the floors warm. The radiant rays are directed downward through the grille and re-radiated up from the floor for added comfort.

The furnace has a large front grille reaching the entire length of the furnace unit. Besides this a side grille can be directed out another wall for more thorough heating. A fan adds to the efficiency of heat utilization by circulating the heat through the grilles. The fan can be used for summer comfort as well.

This heating unit also is thermostatically controlled, making it possible to keep your rooms at a uniformly comfortable heat. Why not look into this type if you're having heating troubles? It looks like a hard winter.

On a completely different level, but still something new in the home field are some metal food drawers I heard about over at Roberts Supply. They're finished in gleaming white baked enamel, and are perfect for storing bread, flour or sugar. You see, the lid secures to the inside of your cabinet and thus forms the runners for the drawer itself. The rounded corners make cleaning of the drawer very simple, too.

There are also fruit and vegetable storage bins which can be easily installed in any kitchen, new or old. Steel channels are merely screwed to the side of the cabinet and the enamel drawer is shoved in. For a three-drawer unit a channeled frame is screwed to the bottom of a cabinet. In all it makes a very handy arrangement.

IT'S COLD OUTSIDE but there's plenty of sunny warmth inside from where mom and dad can keep a watchful eye on their youngsters at play. A spirited fire in the decorative high-hearth fireplace adds a cozy note in striking contrast to the snow-chilled evergreens and fields. Thermopane insulating glass in the big windows lets in the wintry scene yet helps to block out the cold and hold in the heat.

Title I Loans Near Record

During the first eight months of 1953, the Federal Housing Administration insured more than $735,000,000 worth of property improvement loans, making certain that the year will be the biggest ever for the Title I program.

The eight-month total is already larger than any other full year except 1952, and the 1952 figure of $848,000,000 is expected to be exceeded by the time October loans have been compiled. Under the Title I program, a home-owner borrows money from a bank or other private lending institution and the government insures repayment. No down payment is necessary for such improvements as reroofing a home with asphalt shingles.

Repayment of a loan can be spread over a three-year period. The maximum amount the FHA will insure is $2,500.

Credit Plywoods For Streamlined Stores, Offices

Hardwood plywood is playing an important role in the streamlining of stores and offices as well as in home building, according to a recent report of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The transition from the heavy, baroque styles of past generations to today's trim, space-saving furnishings was made possible largely through the hardwood plywood panel's flexibility of design, the department says. Wall cases, counters, floor tables, fitting rooms and restaurant and cafe tables made of hardwood plywood, it points out, are better looking and far more durable than their massive predecessors.

Because plywood has strength in all directions and unusual ability to hold fastenings, it can be used to build fixtures in sections which can be assembled or taken down with a minimum of effort. This permits store layouts to be changed or rearranged at little cost.

Paint Woodwork Darker Where It Soils Easily

Woodwork around door knobs becomes soiled frequently when there are children in the house, but dirt marks can be minimized by painting a small area of the woodwork a darker color.

To do this, remove the door hardware and mark off the outer limits of the area with masking tape before painting.

Outmoded House Bigger, Better After Remodeling

Remodeling can make an old house both bigger and better. The smart-looking contemporary dwelling, top, was built by first modernizing a run-down house, bottom, and then adding a new wing of matching design to it.

This project, which was planned by the Builders Planning Service, Peoria, Ill., illustrates what can be done with an old home when it is both too small and outmoded. Remodeling is always possible if the basic structure is sound.

Much of the success of this modernization is due to new roofing and siding materials, which give the dwelling its handsome appearance. The fire-resistant asphalt shingles that were selected are a light, blended color that harmonizes with the medium-dark siding. White trim accentuates the pleasing architectural lines.

Modular coordination of building material sizes saves money because it reduces cutting and waste.

To everyone at Christmas time comes the joy of giving and receiving. It is our pleasure now to offer our sincerest wishes for a very cheerful Holiday to all our friends.

keeping in touch

ATTORNEY ROGER VAUGHN stopped in at a Kiwanis meeting recently to say hello to old friends. A former resident of Plymouth, Vaughn now lives in Flint.

PLYMOUTH'S FIRST PRESBYTERIAN church choir will appear on television this Thursday over WJBK, channel 2. The group will be on the Ladies' Day program between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m.

PHIL BARNES, 1948 graduate of Plymouth high school, is planning to drive to California hoping to attend the Rose Bowl game. Phil says he doesn't have a ticket—yet! He's leaving on the 26th. Anybody got a ticket? If so, phone Phil at Livonia 3664.

HAVE YOU NOTICED the Christmas house decorations in and around Plymouth. Dr. Robinson on Penniman, Roy Rew on Harding, Carl Hartwick and Floyd Burgett on Northville road, and Donald Melow of Spring street are just a few of the people having outstanding holiday decorations.

"Keeping in Touch" wishes all its readers a very merry Christmas and would like to leave you with this THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: The earth has grown old with its burden of care, but at Christmas it always is young.—Phillips Brooks.

New Shipment Of Books Arrives At Local Library

The library's Christmas present to the many Plymouth residents is a whole shipment of new novels to suit their literary tastes. The new books, which arrived late last week, are on display this week for readers' inspection.

Heading the list is Theodore H. White's "Fire in the Ashes". It is a story of a new Europe rising from the ashes of despair and America's great adventure as a leader of the Western World. It has been stated that the story will deepen your pride in being an American.

Frank Yerby's latest novel, "The Devil's Laughter," is also included among the new books. This time his historical treatment is given to the French revolution. Another book, "Elizabeth and the Prince of Spain" by Margaret Irwin keynotes historical background, giving the early years of Elizabeth I. Margaret Irwin is also the author of "Young Bess."

More books in the shipment are "Homecoming" by Borghild Dahl, "Thurber Country" by James Thurber, James T. Farrell's "The Face of Time," and "The Undaunted" by John Harris. "The Undaunted" is a gripping novel of men and the sea, and though fiction, it has a relentless surge of truth.

Others are "Ratoons" by Daphne Rooke, "Bride the Wind" by Julia Davis, "The Only Sin" by Anne Powers, Burton Stevenson's "The Standard Book of Shakespeare Quotations," "The Home Builder's Handbook" by Kenneth Duncan, "Best Cartoons of the Year 1953" edited by Lawrence Lariat and "Journey by Junk" by Willard Price.

The list continues with "The Time of the Gringo" by Elliott Arnold, "Detroit In Its World Setting," a 200-year chronology, and "Some Enchanted Evenings" by Deems Taylor, the story of Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Governor Glasscock of West Virginia, while traveling through Arizona, noticed the dry, dusty appearance of the country.

"Doesn't it ever rain around here?" he asked one of the natives.

"Rain?" the native spat. "Rain? Why, say, pardner, there's bullfrogs in this yere town over five years old that hain't learned to swim yet."

OUTDOOR NOTES From The MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Four sharp-tailed grouse were seen recently four miles south of Leland in Leelanau county, the conservation department reports.

The birds were reported by Robert Kroupa and Arvid Tesaker of the Soil Conservation Service.

The spot where the birds were seen is at least 25 miles from the nearest recorded planting of sharp-tails, made in Benzie county three years ago by conservation field workers.

These are the first sharp-tails reported in the Leland area, and game men say the report indicates the birds are continuing to spread their range in the northern lower peninsula.

Sharp-tailed grouse were not native to Michigan. They were first reported drifting into the upper peninsula from the west in the years 1915-20.

In the lower peninsula, the first sharp-tails were planted by conservation department workers in Cheboygan county in the winter of 1937-38. Since then, at least 20 others have been made in select areas of the upper and northern lower peninsulas.

At present, colonies are found and hunted in at least 11 scattered counties of the northern lower peninsula and at various points in the upper peninsula. The range of the birds has been spreading during recent years.

A tagged doe deer, 10½ years old, was shot during the special deer season this year in southern Crawford county, the conservation department reports.

George S. Jaques, Toledo, Ohio, reported he was hunting near the intersection of routes 27 and 18 south of Grayling when he bagged the deer, bearing ear tag Number 3540.

She had been captured and tagged as a fawn in February, 1942, in the Hanson Refuge, only a few miles from where shot. Conservation department records contain several instances of deer 10-15 years old.

That ruffed grouse can stand terrific hunting pressure and still bounce back strongly the following year is pointed up by an informal, small-area hunting experiment being carried on by former conservation commissioner Harold W. Glassen of Lansing and several of his hunting companions.

Last year, Glassen and companions chose a small, isolated area of good grouse cover and hunted it hard throughout the season.

Opening day, they flushed 25 birds and during the entire season bagged 20 from the area. By the last day of the season, using experienced grouse dogs, they were unable to flush a single bird from the area.

The hunters returned to the same spot this year and on opening day flushed 35 birds. Continuing their hunting, they bagged 22 birds before the end of the season in November.

Field checks in the past have shown that ruffed grouse can withstand long hunting seasons and liberal bag limits without harm to the basic population. In recent years, conservation workers have plugged for more liberal seasons in order that more sport and recreation can be gained in harvesting the grouse crop.

Grouse, like water, apparently seek their own level. If one area is shot out during a season, other birds move over to fill in gaps and equalize the population. Game men point out that under present conditions in Michigan, it would be practically impossible to shoot out such game species as cottontail rabbits, snowshoe hares and ruffed grouse.

Rope ski tows from Porcupine Mountains state park have been moved to new locations at Bald Mountain and Pinckney recreation areas, the conservation department reports.

The tow at Bald Mountain will be located near Graham Lake; the Pinckney tow will be in the southeastern part of the area, near Silver Lake.

Somewhat more permanent equipment, including an improved power plant, has been set up at the popular upper peninsula

Porcupine Mountains park. The tows at the two lower peninsula recreation areas have been set up and will be available for public use as soon as snow conditions permit skiing.

The department also sanctions and helps maintain four tows at Highland recreation area. These are owned by the Pontiac Ski club, but are open to public use at a nominal fee.

The Rifle River area in Ogemaw county was popular during the recent deer seasons, with more than three times as many hunters making use of the tract as did last year, the conservation department reports.

Also, about 20 per cent more hunters used the area during the one-day special season, December 1, with 590 checked in during the day.

The single road entryway makes it possible to keep a close check on the number of hunters who use the area and also on the game they bag.

The total kill also went up considerably from past years, game men say. Sixty-two legal bucks were taken during the regular season where 24 had been taken last year.

Also, during the special season, 79 bucks, does and fawns were bagged in one day this year where 36 were taken during the three-day season last year.

Drummond and Bois Blanc Islands also registered increases in both kill and hunting pressure this year compared to last year, while on Beaver Island the success figure dropped somewhat from last year.

Power Steering

New Dodge Royal V-8 Sport Coupe

The Dodge With More Than Ever Before More To It . . . More In It . . . More Of It!

- New color-harmonized interiors with elegant Jacquard fabrics.
- More massive length—up to 5 inches longer from bumper to bumper.
- More flashing style—with bold, massive grille and gleaming chrome.
- 3 great Series: Royal V-8, Coronet V-8 and 6, Meadowbrook V-8 and 6.

PowerFlite and full-time Power Steering are optional equipment. Their moderate extra cost brings lasting rewards in driving pleasure. Specifications, equipment and prices subject to change without notice.

Now stepped up to 150 horsepower.

The most efficient engine in any American car! This is the Red Ram V-8 that topped all other 8's in the Mobilgas Economy Run—shattered 196 official AAA records for performance, stamina and endurance on the Bonneville Salt Flats. No other power plant in any American car can match this record.

Fully-Automatic—and fully-proved!

You take off so smoothly, so effortlessly that you can hardly believe how swiftly you reach cruising speed! There's no clutch, no hesitation, no jolt or jerk—just a velvet flow of uninterrupted power. Unmatched breakaway acceleration. In official AAA tests, PowerFlite set 65 performance and endurance records.

Takes the work out of driving!

Takes more of the work out—leaves all the pleasure in! You park, take turns with less effort and less movement of the wheel. You keep the "feel of the wheel" at all times because Dodge Power Steering is full-time. Control is more complete—for this is the latest, greatest development in Power Steering.
