Plymouth Beauties Draw Letters From Servicemen

Twenty-one Marines established a beachhead in Plymouth this week—all because of 21 Plymouth Mail pictures.

The pictures were all of girls, of course. They were the contestants in the Independence Day "Miss Plymouth" bathing beauty contest which occupied two pages of the July 1 edition.

A barrage of 21 air mail letters arrived at the Mail office Tuesday, each addressed to one of the contestants. Accompanying the batch of fat letters was one skinny one for The Mail itself.

Authors of the letters were members of the 1st Rifle Platoon, D Company, 2nd Battalion, 9th Marines. They are stationed at Sakai, Japan.

By coincidence, another letter was received the same day from an Air Force base in Korea. A battery of the airmen there turned bathing beauty contest judges and rendered a decision using the pictures printed in The Mail.

Among the Marines, it was Corporal W. H. Hamlin of Plymouth who received a copy of The Mail that started off the letter writing contest there. All letters were mailed from the Marine base at the same time and the Marine who receives the first reply is the winner of a contest.

It takes a month or more for a newspaper to reach the Far East, which accounts for the lag between July 1 and the arrival of the letters this week. A few of the girls who revealed the contents of their letter said that they were far from being the "orrid" type of letters.

Instead, the boys first apologized for writing without being introduced. All of them asked for replies "perhaps with a picture?" A few gave their physical descriptions and even hinted that they may even be around this part of Michigan when they get back to the states.

The Plymouth youth whose buddies judged the girls by their pictures at the Korean Air Force base, asked that his name not be used. The boys made their decision before the next issue of The Mail was received which had named the winner as Miss Pat Johnson (Miss D & C).

As might be expected when there are two different sets of judges, there was some difference between the first choice of the airmen and that of the actual contest judges.

They selected Carole Van Aken (Miss Graham's) as first choice; Pat Johnson as second; Mary Lou Foote (Miss Bill's Market) as third; and Connie Jewell (Miss Plymouth Mail) as fourth. Miss Jewell was also named as "the girl who reminds us most of the girl we left back home."

Here's what the letter said:

"It has been months and well over a year since any of us have spoken to a girl, so we consider ourselves as the finest of judges since we can more fully appreciate the pictures we have here and take more time in deciding upon the best. After many nights of discussion which consisted of agreements and disagreements, it has finally been voted and approved that we wish to take the honor and privilege of writing our final decisions to your paper.

"The decisions were very difficult to make because they were all so charming. Good luck to all of them and we are hoping we have the luck of seeing them some day.

"There's no room here for any Marilyn Monroe's; it's Miss Plymouth and we're anxiously waiting to hear who the winner is since everyone has his heart and mind on his favorite pin-up being the winner."

"P. S. Almost every girl received a large amount of votes but we had to stop with the first four. Everyone of them is now some G. I.'s personal pin-up girl. Thanks for some home spirit."

Plymouth to Join In Emergency Polio Fund Drive

Plymouth will join in the national drive for emergency polio funds next week. Sparking the campaign will be the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary, which will start the ball rolling with a movie at the Penn theatre on Thursday, August 19, at 2 p.m.

The film, dealing with polio, will be free of charge, announced theatre manager Margaret Wilson.

The campaign throughout the city will use as its keynote "tap on every door." Mrs. Marie Norman, V.F.W. auxiliary president, stated that volunteers are needed to make the house-to-house collections. Names of other organizations offering their services will be announced next week.

Mrs. Norman said that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, in an attempt to protect the youngsters from polio, used up funds on the development of the trial vaccine and gamma globulin. Some 66,000 persons afflicted with polio in 1953 still need patient aid, and many new cases this year will add to the unprecedented drain on funds, she pointed out.

Plymouth has already reported one case of polio, Mrs. Norman said, in Nancy Lou Young, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Young of Junction street. She emphasized that the March of Dimes pays the cost of treatment for any and all persons suffering from polio, and that local residents should be willing to lend their support in the emergency.

Plymouth Man Foiled by Loudspeaker; Guard Scares off Burglar at Drive-In

An attempted burglary in Livonia allegedly involving several Plymouth men, the shooting at a burglar at a Plymouth drive-in, another Plymouth burglary report, a bad check case and a drunk driving charge were some of the major items on the police blotters in Plymouth and Livonia this week.

Calvin McKinney, 30, of 304 South Mill street, is being held by Livonia police on a charge of attempting to break into Fred's Shaek, a hardware store located at 39300 Six Mile road. Also being sought for questioning are William R. McCants, 30, of 814 York street, and James F. Joyner, 30, of 40314 Joy road.

The latter two men are free on bond after allegedly breaking into the Plymouth Elks club July 18, taking about $82 in change.

Fred Kingon, 17300 Haggerty road, had a loudspeaker system rigged between his store and home over which he heard sounds of pounding early Tuesday morning. Livonia police closed in on two men who were using a hammer and chisel to break through the rear wall of the building.

Shots were fired at the fleeing men but only one of them, McKinney, was captured as he fled across an open field.

Meanwhile, Lawrence Bohl, owner of Bohl's Drive-in, Northville road near Five Mile, has literally declared war on burglars. Four times his establishment has been burglarized within the past month. Another attempt was made Monday night but a guard was waiting inside with a gun. Bohl reported that the guard "got a little nervous" and scared the intruder off before he got inside the building. Shots were fired over the man's head.

The fleeing man jumped into a car parked on Five Mile road and a description of the car was immediately given to Livonia, Plymouth and county police. No arrests have yet been made.

Plymouth police are investigating a minor theft at Blunk's warehouse at 326 North Main street. About $3.70 in change was reported missing.

A complaint has been filed with police to be on the lookout for John P. Lorey, Lake Orion, Michigan, who cashed two checks here without sufficient funds in the bank. Ralph Lorenz, Mayflower hotel manager, filed the complaint. Lorey, formerly a beer truck driver, cashed the checks last January 14 and 15, telling hotel personnel that he needed change for his route. One check was for $165 and another for $150.

A hearing is scheduled this week for Emil Umbricht, 56, Jackson, who was arrested Monday night on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was heard by Municipal Judge Nandino Perlongo Tuesday and pleaded not guilty. He was released on $100 bond until the next hearing.

Tornado Swirls Close To Cringing Editor

By Sterling Eaton

Though weather experts and radio newscasters opined that there was no tornado near Greenbush, Michigan Monday afternoon, some 100 people including the writer, his wife and son can testify entirely to the contrary.

Having delayed a return trip to Plymouth several hours because of the intensity of a beating rain throughout midday Monday, the storm became more frightening and intense as the afternoon wore on.

About 3:30 p.m., workmen at a neighboring cottage observed a hovering black cloud some three or four miles directly west of Lake Huron and called it to the attention of the people in the area. It was surrounded by a yellowish light, and it seemingly bounced up and down above the trees making no progress in any particular direction.

Close to 4 p.m. a downpour fell over the area which, when viewed from our cabin window, appeared like huge buckets of rain falling in the lake and over the sandy beach. Shortly thereafter, as we were watching the peculiar cloud in the west, large hailstones pelted the roof for some 20 or 25 minutes.

At precisely 4:35 lights went off and the clock on the fireplace stopped. Our son who was at the next door neighbors came running in our back door screaming for us to look at the tornado on the shore of the lake. From our lakeside windows we observed the most awesome sight we had ever seen.

The cloud that had apparently hovered over the woods behind us had suddenly moved across the land and settled on the water, raising a gushing fountain at least 200 feet high at its base and itself extending nearly a half a mile in the sky.

It swirled, it bent, it swooped and it danced as long arms swayed in all directions from its center. At first there was no definite movement in any direction, and it appeared as a giant funnel rolling crazily in the breeze.

An eighth of a mile south of our vantage point, noise from the tornado was weird as a squad of Jets or the pounding of the motors of a massed armada of ships fighting strong seas. It was terrifying. For the first time we encountered a situation where sound reasoning was beyond our grasp. Whether to run for our

Street Paving Projects Begin In Plymouth

Three street improvement projects moved ahead in Plymouth this week, the first of over a dozen by the city and county.

Mill street, from Ann Arbor trail to Main street, will be given a coat of bituminous blacktop over the present concrete surface. The Wayne County Road commission has jurisdiction over the street.

Preparations for the blacktop were completed last week when sewers were raised and damaged sections were patched. The street is one of the heaviest traveled thoroughfares in the city.

The road commission is also repairing Ann Arbor trail from Mill street to Hamilton. Broken sections are being dug up and refilled with asphalt. A bituminous mat will then be placed on the street.

West Liberty street is undergoing a complete rebuilding. A small parkway in the center of the street which had extended 135 feet west of Starkweather avenue has been removed. This parkway dates back to about 1926 when Mrs. Mary K. Hillmer, mother of Karl Starkweather, 711 Starkweather, donated 10 feet of land to the city from her property on the south side of Liberty. The gift was made with the provision that a park be constructed and maintained by the city.

Today, Mr. Starkweather agrees with the city that the park has very little use and so removed any objections by the family to its elimination. The extra land will be added to properties on both sides of the street. A sewer will be placed under the street before the pavement is laid.

The County Road commission recently completed the paving of three miles of the Edward Hines drive, commencing at Haggerty road and ending at Northville road near Phoenix lake. County workmen are also strengthening the dam located at Phoenix lake beside Northville road.

Injuries Slight In Detroit Mishap

A Plymouth area family, victims of a Detroit hit-skip driver, has returned home with a few minor cuts and bruises, despite reports from Detroit of serious injuries.

Mrs. Margaret Green, 54, of 6121 Lotz road, said that many of her friends became extremely worried when they read varied stories in Detroit newspapers that she had suffered skull, back or neck injuries. For their benefit, she told The Mail, she wants to report that she has no broken bones and was able to resume her normal activities last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Green and their daughter Elizabeth, 21, were involved in a collision Wednesday night of last week at Joseph Campau and East Grand River. Driver of the other car, Ronald Gabriel, 22, Detroit, left the scene despite the fact that his expecting wife was injured. Gabriel reported to police that his car was stolen, claiming that he had been with his uncle, Louis Dinvernok, Hamtramck.

Police checked Gabriel's story and the uncle denied it. Ronald later confessed, claiming he had left the scene because he was frightened since he did not have a driver's license.

St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran congregation will pass another milestone in its 98-year history this Sunday afternoon when ground is broken at Penniman and Garfield avenues for the construction of a $229,000 church.

Rubbish, Garbage Burning Raising Neighborhood Ire

Plymouth householders who burn their garbage or create obnoxious odors with burning rubbish are letting themselves in for trouble with their neighbors and the city.

That was the opinion today of City Manager Albert Glassford as more complaints than usual were filed with the police department by persons "burned up" about things which their neighbors are burning.

Though the city offers a garbage collection service, a few householders seem to prefer burning their garbage along with their rubbish. This often creates an odor which hovers over the neighborhood and raises the ire of area residents. Often, the garbage fails to burn and provides a dinner for rats.

One neighborhood in particular is complaining about the rats which one home attracts because of the garbage.

The city manager also is warning persons who burn their rubbish in cans along the street. He pointed out that this is a practice followed in even one of the newer neighborhoods where there is no alley and that warnings have been sent. Action will follow, he said, unless these homeowners find another place to burn rubbish.

It is perfectly legal for persons to burn waste materials on their own property, Glassford added. Everyone must dispose of old newspapers and similar waste materials, he said, but some consideration should be given the neighbors. Constantly turning the burning material with a pole or rake will cause an even burning of the waste and will keep smoke at a minimum. Persons who ignite a pile of wastepaper and walk away, usually leave a fire which will smolder an hour or longer.

'Walk on Green' Program Tried

A plan to teach pedestrians to walk within crosswalks with the proper traffic signal is being tested here this week. It is called the "walk on green" program.

The crosswalk on Penniman avenue from Cassady's to the National Bank of Detroit office is being painted green by the city this week to give the idea a trial. Similar "walk on green" programs have been successful in dozens of other cities across the nation.

Purpose of the plan is to remind pedestrians to walk only on the green crosswalk when they have a green light.

Michigan City, Indiana was the first city in the country to try the idea. They appropriately started the walk on green program on St. Patrick's day.

Fire Chief Robert McAllister is in charge of the local program. He was authorized to give the plan a test by the Traffic Safety committee. If the plan proves a success, the chief stated, other crosswalks at busy intersections will be painted green.

Vacancy Filled On Zoning Board

Harold Belch, 14100 Ridge road, has been approved by the Plymouth township board to fill a vacancy on the township zoning board.

The vacancy was created last month when Joe Merritt, local insurance agency owner, offered his resignation. Other business, he explained, is keeping him too busy to efficiently handle the zoning job.

Belch's appointment will become final when his nomination is given the approval of all the probate judges in Wayne county. Since the approval by the judges is only a formality, his appointment appears assured.

Six persons will break ground below the spot where the church altar will be located. Taking the first shovel of ground and serving as master of ceremonies for the occasion will be Reverend Edgar Hoenecke, pastor of the congregation for the past quarter of a century.

Bringing greetings to the gathering will be Reverend Gerhard Press, president of the Michigan district, Wisconsin Synod; Sterling Eaton, publisher of the Plymouth Mail; and a representative of the city government.

The ceremony, open to the public, will begin at 3 o'clock. The church choir under the direction of Richard Scharf will also participate in the half-hour program.

Turning spades of ground with the pastor will be Walter Schultz, president of the congregation; Leonard Arnison, chairman of the building committee; Jake Brinks, chairman of the building fund committee; a person representing the men of the church and another representing the women of the church.

Light refreshments will be served in St. Peter's school following the ceremony. Pictures taken of the audience, societies and groups during the afternoon will be placed within the cornerstone of the new sanctuary.

Excavation for the new church building was started this week. The contract calls for its completion by next May.

Erection of the new church is the final step in a long range plan which began 14 years ago. This plan called for the building of a church and school center. The day school was completed in 1945 and the last mortgage was burned last February. Immediate steps were then taken to finance the construction of the adjoining church.

The sanctuary, when completed, will seat 550 people, which is the present communicant membership. The basement floor will include a large auditorium for social functions, Sunday school rooms, a kitchen, and offices. A large parking lot will be developed behind the church-school unit.

In keeping with the Chamber of Commerce plan to colonize Plymouth as much as possible, the new church will be of red brick, colonial design.

Two Small Polio Victims Improved

Two small girls, victims of polio, are reported improving at University hospital in Ann Arbor. One of them, Nancy Lou Young, 7, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Young, 1270 Junction. She contracted the illness two weeks ago. The other is Ann McCullough, 3½, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlan McCullough, 701 Beck road.

Ann was taken to the hospital two months ago after returning with her parents from Mississippi where she is believed to have contracted the illness. After becoming seriously ill, Ann has now greatly improved. Her paralysis has been centered in her ankles.

Nancy Lou is also reported by her parents as greatly improved. Paralysis had struck her left leg. She is to be a second grade pupil at the Lutheran Day school this fall.

Nancy Lou is the first polio case in Plymouth city this year. There were three cases during 1953, all of them during the last six months.

Smith Home Sold

The Latture Real Estate company announced the sale of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bev Smith on Territorial road Tuesday of this week. Purchasers of the beautiful farm home and its ten acre site were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Merideth of Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith now reside in West Palm Beach, Florida. The new owners will move to their new home sometime next week. Mr. Merideth is interested in several oil developments in this area.

Parcel Post Window Speeds Up Service with New Postage Meter

Parcel post service in Plymouth is being mechanized by replacing postage stamps with postage meters, it was announced this week by Postmaster George Timpona.

The new service cuts down waiting-in-line time at parcel post windows and speeds packages on their way without so much as the lick of a stamp.

The installation is part of a new contract which the Post Office department has awarded Pitney-Bowes, Inc., makers of mailing machines for business and government. One hundred and fifty machines will be installed in some 99 cities and towns, 54 of them getting the service for the first time.

Here is how the system works: the window clerk, after weighing your package and computing the fee, takes your money and touches levers on the electrically-operated postage meter machine. Out pops a small printed label, gummed and automatically moistened and complete with postage of the exact value, plus the city postmark and date of mailing. It is slapped on your package and the transaction is over. Time spent waiting in line is halved and stamp-licking is abolished.

Similar machines are used by business firms under government license. The new post office model produces metered stamps from one cent to $10. In a test installation in a large Eastern post office a group, of 80 parcel-laden people was served in exactly 10 minutes.

The metered mail system, originated 34 years ago, now accounts for 42 per cent of all postage paid on U. S. mail.

QUICKER SERVICE at Plymouth's parcel post window is now afforded with the machine being examined by Martin Kregor (left), postal clerk; Ernest Henry, superintendent of mails; and Postmaster George Timpona. A small printed label is printed by the machine and is pasted on parcel post packages within a few seconds after the package is weighed.

FIRST LESSONS IN BASEBALL are being given to brother Tommy by Jerry Drews, who plays on the Davis and Lent team. Interested spectators are Mr. and Mrs. George Drews, Gloria Jean and Denny. The Drews, who reside at 623 Jener, came to Plymouth from Livonia about a year ago. Drews is employed at the Ford Motor company Transmission plant in Livonia. Both Jerry and Denny are enrolled at Plymouth high school, while Tommy and Gloria Jean go to Smith elementary school. The family attends Our Lady of Good Counsel church.

Three Local Store Hold Sales Events

Plymouth shoppers will save dollars this weekend at the sales going on at three local stores, Cassady's, Davis & Lent, and Dunning's. All are store-wide sales offering a large array of bargains. Other Plymouth stores held their summer sales in July.

The Dunning's sale, which is in its second week, is in celebration of the seventh anniversary in local business. Miss Margaret Dunning, owner, reported that results of the sale last week were very good.

Davis & Lent's and Cassady's annual clearance events begin today.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brown and two sons, of Amelia street, spent the weekend sightseeing at Niagara Falls, New York.

Duane Bowermans Return from North

In a double-ring candlelight ceremony in the Newburg Methodist church, Nancy McKellar became the bride of Duane Bowerman. Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie McKellar of Wayne road, Livonia, and the Marcus Bowermans of Newburg road are the bridegroom's parents.

The Reverend Robert Richards officiated at the 7:30 o'clock ceremony on the evening of July 24. Bouquets of white flowers and candelabra enhanced the chancel of the church.

Nancy was given in marriage by her brother, Elwin McKellar. She wore a gown of white satin and imported Swiss lace. The bodice featured a high neckline with a bib of the lace and long fitted sleeves. Her skirt had a bustle and extended into a chapel train with scalloped hemline. Her fingertip length veil of illusion fell from a bonnet of pleated satin and she carried a nosegay of white and red rosebuds.

Sylvia Bowerman, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor. She wore a strapless ballerina length gown of yellow net over taffeta with matching stole and carried a nosegay of salmon pink rosebuds. Lois McKellar, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a blue net gown fashioned like that of the matron of honor. Her nosegay was of yellow rosebuds.

Dale Bowerman served his brother as best man and seating the guests was Frederick McKellar, brother of the bride.

Mrs. McKellar selected a navy sheer dotted Swiss dress with white accessories. Mrs. Bowerman wore a coin-dotted light blue sheer with white accessories. Both mothers complimented their ensembles with corsages of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's brother, Elwin McKellar, in Wayne.

Nancy was graduated from Bentley high school. Duane is serving with the United States Navy and is stationed in Charleston, South Carolina. His bride will remain in Plymouth until she is able to join her husband.

The young couple spent their honeymoon in northern Michigan.

Boys' State Work Told Rotarians

Members of the Rotary club heard of the experiences of Plymouth's three representatives at Boy's State at its regular meeting last Friday. The three local youths that participated in the Wolverine Boy's State were Tom Sawyer, Foster Brown and David Beagle.

Summing up the worth of the Legion program Foster Brown had the following statement to make to the members of the club: "I learned more in one week about government and its inner workings, than I could learn in two years in school."

This Friday the club will hear about the Social Security Administration from field worker Mary Jackson. The program is under the auspices of the Club Service Committee of which Gerald Pease is chairman.

Kenneth M. Lloyd Gets Appointment From President

Kenneth Lloyd

Recently appointed to serve on the five-member advisory board of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development corporation is Kenneth M. Lloyd, son-in-law of Plymouth's Dr. and Mrs. Luther Peck and frequent visitor to Plymouth. Lloyd received his appointment from President Eisenhower to serve as one of two Democrats on the board.

Lloyd, who is married to Thelma Peck Lloyd, resides in Youngstown, Ohio. He was chosen for the board because of his knowledge and experience in water resource problems. He has long been an advocate of water conservation and is familiar with the water potential and problems of the Ohio river and the Great Lakes.

The advisory board will determine "Policies in connection with design and construction of facilities and the establishment of rules of measurement for vessels and cargo and rates of charges or tolls and shall advise the administrator with respect thereto."

Lloyd received his A. B. and LL.B. degree from the University of Michigan. After practicing law for a short time he became counsel and secretary of the Mahoning Valley Industrial Council. He has served on water resources boards, the sanitation commission, on the water resources committee of the Youngstown Chamber of Commerce, and many others.

The Lloyds have four children, Luther Richard, now serving as second lieutenant with the U.S. Army; Kenneth, currently studying medicine at the University of Michigan; Jean Ann and Mary Margaret.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ralph Miller of East Ann Arbor road attended the second annual Shakespearean Festival at Stratford, Ontario, last week and saw the performances of "Measure for Measure," "Taming of the Shrew" and "Oedipus Rex."

It's a Tough Job Starting a Fire

Plymouth's fire chief burned down a building last week and admits he had a hard time doing it.

An old garage which had been moved to a field north of the football field for the Independence day fire demonstration was ignited Thursday night to give city foremen a chance to try out their new truck. But while firemen stood ready at the North Side fire station for the alarm, Fire Chief Robert McAllister was having a tough time getting the fire going.

Gasoline poured around the base of the building several times only burned off the grass. Then he tried throwing gasoline on the walls. One cup, two cups, three cups. The sixth cup seemed to do it. The building burst into flames, the alarm was sent and the truck came at full speed.

Clouds of black smoke attracted dozens of sightseers, some of whom wondered why the firemen seemed to have the fire well under control, and then let the building burn down. The city felt it much easier to burn it up completely than to haul away a few remaining charred timbers.

"You know, it's a darn sight easier to put out a fire than to start one," the chief told his men as he apologized for the delay.

PLYMOUTH NOW USES the "land fill" method of disposing of its garbage, a method becoming widely used after many states, including Michigan, passed laws forbidding the feeding of garbage to hogs. The $11,100 tractor shown here was purchased last month. It digs a trench and buries the garbage soon after it is dumped. Housewives can now follow the previously forbidden practice of wrapping garbage. The land fill site is located at the city garage at the north end of Arthur street.

Approximately 40 Plymouth Kiwanis club members and wives attended the Detroit Tiger-Cleveland Indian baseball game Tuesday evening, which happily ended in a 4 to 0 victory for the Tigers.

They Ain't That Good

Whenever he listens intently at funny stories I'm telling. And laughs and laughs and laughs, and laughs, I wonder what he's selling.

Tornado Swirls

car and attempt to flee to safety or what move to make were beyond determination.

As we watched the ghost-like display it seemingly moved out further into the lake then took a turn back toward the shore. We, like others who watched the terrorizing sight, were frozen in our tracks. Seconds which seemed like hours passed. And then it danced and swirled further out and up the lake giving us a fleeting view of a long wafting cloud stretching from the water to the sky at a 45 degree angle and flying a horizontal tail at its top. It then moved from our view and disappeared in the storm.

Realizing that if the ghostly sight we had just seen had been a tornado, it had come from the place we had observed it earlier. So we got into our car to see if it had caused damage in its path.

Car Sales Reach All Time Record

Plymouthites are buying 50 per cent more new cars this year, at least during the months of July and August, records at the Secretary of State's Branch office reveal. According to manager Alice Rambo, new car sales have set an all-time high for this community and used car sales are not far behind.

She attributes some of the sales to the local increase in population as states that all local dealers are actually selling more of their products this year than they did last.

Dealers agree for the most part that their sales are up but point to the National Automobile Dealers Association fact book that increased sales haven't meant that there are more dollars rung up in their cash registers.

One dealer said his particular national classification showed a major increase the first six months in sales this year but that dealers suffered a 4 per cent loss on their overall operation. The main reason given for the profit differential by the N.A.D.A. is the determination of some companies to lead the field which forces dealers to make sales to unload inventories which cost dollars from the dealers net. "There is no doubt but this is the greatest buyers-market I have ever seen," the dealer said.

Proof that our experience was real was immediately visible as we drove an eighth of a mile down the highway where stately pine and scrub oak were twisted and thrown in all directions by the fury of the winds.

Fortunately the path of the tornado from the woods to the lake had been over a sparsely populated area and damage was slight in comparison to what it might have been had it struck in a more densely populated section.

Most seriously shaken was the Cullen family, mother, father and three children, who had arrived for a three weeks' vacation the night before. When the storm hit their summer home all were thrown to the floor and bounced up and down like rubber balls for several minutes while the storm was at its peak. Their home was turned several feet sideways on its foundation. Their 16 foot row boat was snatched from the beach, battered into the cottage porch next door then deposited in the rear of another cottage smashed to bits. Their car, too, was badly smashed as several large pines were felled directly across its body.

The only other summer cottage to receive serious damage was directly across the street where two large pines caved in the roof and the storm ripped off a corner of the house to snatch up their oil burner and deposit it 100 feet away in the woods. The lady of the house was sweeping the kitchen when the storm hit and was blown into a corner of her bedroom where she was found shortly thereafter in a slightly dazed condition.

An area two city blocks wide and probably a mile or more in length on the land felt the force of this blow. From what we saw of the fantastic antics, it is not hard to comprehend the destruction at Flint and we hope and pray that no one shall ever again have to encounter, in any section of this land, an experience such as this.

She—She does? She's always dropping a few.

That true happiness is to be found through understanding the spiritual laws which govern the universe including man will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul."

The spiritual nature of happiness is set forth in the following passage which will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (60:29-2):

"Soul has infinite resources with which to bless mankind, and happiness would be more readily attained and would be more secure in our keeping, if sought in Soul. Higher enjoyments alone can satisfy the cravings of immortal man. We cannot circumscribe happiness within the limits of personal sense."

The prophet Isaiah's promise of peace and joy to those who spiritually understand God will be included in the readings from the Bible (Isaiah 55:12): "For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands."

THREE HUNDRED YOUNGSTERS from four years of age to high school registered for the five-day Vacation Bible School held last week at Calvary Baptist church. Here, the group is about to march into the school following the American and Christian flags. Reverend Patrick Clifford started the Bible school when he came to Plymouth five years ago. Several children who have attended the school during each of the five years received Bibles at a program Sunday night. Reverend Earl Gillmore, county missionary, headed the program assisted by 22 teachers. Many of the children were brought to the church by two busses. Children of nearly every denomination attended.

A Layman Says...

The trial of your faith. 1 Pet. 1:7.

Trials test the reality of our faith and make it stronger. Some of the best ship timbers are taken from the storm-swept mountains of Norway, where the fury of the north wind has caused the fibers of the trees to strengthen and their roots to more firmly grip the rocks. So trials strengthen the fiber of the soul. Resistance to evil produces greater power of resistance. (G.M.L.) Go, then(earthly fame and treasure!

Come, disaster, scorn and pain!
In thy service pain is pleasure,
With Thy favor, loss is gain. (H.F.L.)

Chips from the Rock

Forrest White found one honest stranger in Plymouth over the weekend. After a cooling glass of beer in the Box Bar he went to the phone booth to phone his daughter in Detroit to tell her he was driving into the city for an evening's visit. Finishing his call he returned to a table where he chatted with friends only to have the bartender tell him 45 minutes later that a strange gentleman had just presented him with White's billfold which he had left in the phone booth. Intact was some $150.00 and other incidental cards, etc. The stranger wouldn't give his name or wait to be thanked.

Moving vans carried to West Springfield, Massachusetts the household belongings of the Alvah Elzerman's last weekend where they will move into their newly finished home on the foothills of the Berkshire mountains. Plymouth can be proud of the head of the Elzerman household who now enters his 18th year with the Stanley Home Products Company. Starting as a door to door salesman with the company when it did a gross yearly business of about $200,000, Elzerman was appointed Promotional Sales Manager last week of the company which in the last two years has grossed over 100 million dollars yearly.

Whiling away an evening in a Traverse City tourist cabin, awaiting the next day so they could move into a rented vacation cabin, the James Latures took an evening drive, longed for someone to talk to, finally read and went early to bed. Packing early the next morning and ready to leave for their vacation headquarters, Mr. Lature removed his luggage to his car to find Earl Russell standing at the car parked next to his. Both the Russells and the Latures had occupied adjoining cabins throughout the night and both had been longing for someone to do something with the previous evening.

One tired vacationer, ready to come home after two weeks at the lake, was city commissioner Ernest Henry. An inveterate fisherman, Henry filled his own ice box his first day away with Perch, his northern neighbors' the next two days, several of his Plymouth friends' when he returned home twice to keep up his Kiwanis attendance each week and finally ran out of people to accept his catches. After he filled his deep freeze and his hands were sore from cleaning (he never gives away a fish unless it's ready for the pan) his vacation was over as far as he was concerned so he fretted away his last four days making plans to build a couple of bedrooms on his cabin.

Former Plymouthite, Elton Roe, was named branch manager of The Detroit Bank's newest office opened last week at the corner of Schoolcraft and Dale avenue in Detroit. Roe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Roe of Plymouth and started his banking career with the Detroit institution in 1925. "Slowly but surely I'm moving closer to home," he says, because from the downtown office he was moved in 1942 to the Grand River-Trumbull branch and now westward about two-thirds the distance from his former office to Plymouth.

Proof that Fire Chief Bob McAllister's main interest is fire fighting and not window dressing was proved last week when two identical new fire trucks arrived for Plymouth and Livonia. Only difference between the two was the fact that Plymouth's truck didn't have a cab over the driver. When asked why McAllister was quick to answer that for the $600.00 difference he preferred to have additional fire fighting equipment in the hands of his men rather than a cab over their heads.

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

"The wave of hoodlum activities in Detroit has brought forth many opinions as to the cause. What or who do you think is to blame for this situation?"

MRS. JOHN CUMMING, 906 Rucker: "I think generally everyone is to blame. They need some sort of recreation program to occupy their minds and keep them out of trouble. They don't seem to have enough guidance."

L. W. BRIDGE, 334 Blunk: "The biggest part of the trouble is their parents. They're not stern enough with their children. A kid needs a firm hand on them once in a while to make them grow. Some parents just let their children roam."

MRS. WILMA POSSTA, Inkster (former Plymouthite): "Law enforcement agencies are to blame. These gangs seem to get out of hand before police realize it. I believe the hoodlums should be tried in court as adults."

PAUL CUMMINGS, 5837 Newburg road (high school student): "I think that if parents paid more attention to their children, kids would keep out of trouble. A lot of parents don't stay home themselves. In Detroit, many parents both work and leave the kids by themselves."

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Gene Alleman
Secy. Mich. Press Ass'n.

One of the world's most elaborate birthday parties is being planned to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Michigan State College. "Centennial fever" is a common disease affecting faculty, students and staff. For nearly a year a special office has been laying groundwork for the impressive program which will last from February to December in 1955.

"If the education world doesn't become more conscious of Michigan State as an outstanding university, it will be because they are unable to observe the quality of work being done here in teaching, research and extension," says James H. Denison, chairman of the Centennial committee. And if everyone in the state doesn't hear about Michigan State College next year, it will be because reams of newspapers, hours of radio time, stacks of letters, and millions of words never reached an audience. "We expect about a half-million people more than usual to visit the campus during the celebration," states Alvie Smith, Centennial director.

There will be ample opportunity for both public and academic figures to become more familiar with the college. Nationally prominent people will be on hand to take part in various programs and conferences. There is reason to believe that President Eisenhower will be the speaker at one of the most impressive attractions of the year. He is expected to be the honored guest at the October Convocation when college authorities are planning for 50,000 visitors. President Theodore Roosevelt visited MSC back in 1905, when the institution was celebrating its 50th birthday, and college authorities would like to see the President come for the 100th birthday.

"BEST CHANCE TO SURVIVE"

A single common word, survival, covers the most awesome problem that this nation has ever faced. It is almost impossible to visualize the destructive power of the weapons that exist today, and the even more terrible ones that will probably come into existence in the relatively near future. A vast literature has been written on what we must do if we are to continue to exist as a nation. A very distinguished authority, Charles A. Lindbergh, makes an impressive contribution to it in a brief article appearing in a recent national magazine, entitled "Our Best Chance to Survive."

General Lindbergh begins by pointing out that, in atomic war, an initial attack made without warning could kill millions and destroy all the great cities. Thus, unless the nation possessed military forces which were both extensively decentralized as well as extraordinarily powerful, its ability to retaliate in kind might be destroyed too. He writes, "the hydrogen bomb and the supersonic missile have eliminated defensive security on the surface of the earth. The most elaborate defensive network we can devise would intercept only a fraction of modern enemy aircraft launched in a determined attack on this country. Atomic bombs can also be delivered by submarines, ships or saboteurs, and one bomb will erase one city."

Here General Lindbergh observes that to strike without warning is against our traditions. So, of course, is capitulation. The one alternative is vast military strength: "We must maintain an inexpugnable means of retaliation—a method of delivering our bombs in the event a surprise attack is made upon this country, and after we have absorbed the first terrific blow."

This means, he goes on, that we must have great numbers of air bases, so many that our retaliatory power could not be paralyzed in that initial enemy attack, no matter how great its scale. It further means "research, development and industrial-decentralization programs that will improve the effectiveness of our future weapons and reduce our vulnerability." So far as possible, he believes, important war establishments of all kinds should be located outside the major target areas.

General Lindbergh also emphasizes the human element in the military forces. In this element, he writes, "lies an extraordinary opportunity to increase our power and reduce our costs... Our ingenuity in the use of man has not kept pace with our ingenuity in the use of the machines man manufactures. Economy itself demands that... long years of expensive training should be followed by opportunities, pay and conditions which encourage people to remain in the careers they were trained for."

Finally, General Lindbergh advocates "a prodigious Air Force, a strong Army, a strong Navy and strong allies." The task is a formidable one, but he is convinced that it is within our capabilities, and that it is absolutely essential to survival. To quote him once again, "As long as a dangerous enemy exists, our security will lie in the indestructible power to destroy."

YOUR KITCHEN — AND FARM MACHINERY

The modern American kitchen is a miracle of labor-saving convenience. Electric ranges, refrigerators, washers and all manner of other appliances have transformed both the urban and rural home.

That kitchen, strange as the idea may seem, wouldn't be possible if it weren't for farm machinery—tractors and harvesters and all the rest!

Here's the reason. In this nation's early days, it took 85 farm workers to produce enough food for themselves and 15 others—now 15 farmers produce enough for themselves and 85 others. To come down to modern times, in the past 40 years farm output has doubled—while the number of man-hours needed to achieve the enormous production has steadily declined. That means that vast armies of people have been able to take jobs in industry. They produce automobiles, stoves, TV sets and all the thousand and one other things that make for better living. To take one example, a modern combine saves in a single day enough manpower to manufacture a refrigerator. There would be only a comparative handful of people available to man the factories if we were still dependent on human and animal labor to do the jobs of the farm.

Farm output must be much greater still in the future—our soaring population makes that certain. And again machinery will make the task possible and at the same time leave plenty of workers for our other needs.

ROGER BABSON SAYS:

BABSON DISCUSSES VACATIONS AND INVESTMENTS

Babson Park, Massachusetts. Manufacturers, merchants, and job seekers should always be looking for new industries. Habits control buying; and buying habits are constantly changing.

WHAT ABOUT AUTO TRIPS

Vacations have been on the increase ever since my boyhood. Vacationing is not a new industry. Since World War II, however, it has become a big industry, primarily because of the vacations which almost all employers give their wage workers. Vacations have become a MUST.

Automobiles have been the factor booming vacations. If your automobile helps you to relax, then an automobile trip is beneficial. If, however, it is tiring and not relaxing, then it is harmful. It does the postman no good to "take a walk" on Sundays! Do something different when on your vacation—something you don't have the time to do ordinarily.

VACATIONS AT HOME

The best vacation is to be able to do as you want to do for two weeks. Get up when you want to, go where you want to, and take a real rest. Give your wife a rest from cooking and washing dishes. Buy things which do not need cooking. Cooking is a bad habit in summer, — and dishwashing is worse! Use paper plates in summer!

A real rest includes resting our stomachs. Doctors agree we should give our digestive organs a good vacation each year, spending money for fruits rather than for meats; and drinking lots of milk and water. In winter we must eat for two reasons: (1) to gain physical strength, and (2) to keep warm. In summer we do not need to eat to keep warm. I forecast that in years ahead people will give much more attention to eating less in the summer. In fact, experts tell me that each season of the year requires a different diet, both as to quantity and quality.

RECREATION ON THE INCREASE

Whatever your business or job, do not forget that "working hours" will be shorter rather than longer. This means that everyone will have more leisure time. This is the reason for the boom in "Do-It-Yourself" industries, which are hurting some trades, but helping others. See your local public library for one of the home-craft magazines which describe such work, or visit one of the many shows which the Orkin people of 19 West 44th St., New York City, are putting on to help merchants.

All the above means that your real pay in future years will be in money plus hours of leisure. Hence, it is of great importance for us to "cash in" on these extra leisure hours by using them in worthwhile ways, — not for "hammock swinging." If you are not now a carpenter, mason, or electrician, you should attend night school or subscribe to a correspondence course which will teach you how to profitably use these extra leisure hours.

WHEN SELECTING INVESTMENTS

The older conservative investors do not approve of shorter hours, higher wages, etc., but this change is coming. It is foolish to buck it. Most people don't like physical work. This explains why coal stocks have been going down in price, while oil stocks have been going up in price. We prefer a thermostat to a coal shovel or ash sifter!

Stocks of electric refrigerator manufacturers have doubled in value, while the manufacturers of ice boxes have gone into bankruptcy. The tremendous growth of the frozen-food industry—including fruit juices — illustrates my warning: When making an investment—however small — be sure that it is in a company which saves labor. Make money by catering to the lazy streak in us all. This is why we telephone instead of write. I forecast higher prices for "lazy stocks."

WATCH YOUR CHANGE!

Many merchants are complaining about the "dishonesty" of sales clerks in retail stores when giving back change from a cash register. A study of over 400 stores indicates all these mistakes in change are not due to dishonesty. They are due to the mental laziness of clerks and customers in not counting their change!

Thinking requires energy, the same as does manual labor. Most "white-collar" help hate to think and concentrate. Hence, they make careless mistakes. My father, who had a successful store in Gloucester, Massachusetts, taught me always to count my change, and always tear a little paper off the wrapping of my purchase to be sure I have the right package.

Trying to pass the car ahead which is going 60 miles per hour is like tearing around a one mile race track at 70 or 75 miles per hour. If there is an oncoming car going 60 and you pull up to 70 you will need 4480 feet — almost a mile to complete your pass and duck back into the right-hand lane ahead of the car coming toward you.

Just so you won't try it unless conditions are ideal — which they seldom are — remember that this 4480 feet is about as long as:

15 football fields laid end to end.

The longest runways at most airports.

1/4 of the length of the "Kentucky Derby" race.

Favorite Recipes
From
Plymouth's Kitchens

An afternoon snack of "oatmeal rocks" is being enjoyed by Thayne and Dianne Stroschein, while Mrs. Max Stroschein is busy seeing that they don't take too many.

Try Oatmeal Rocks for An Afternoon Snack

It's a full-time job for Mrs. Max Stroschein of 15563 LaSalle road to keep the family cookie jar filled to capacity for afternoon snacks for her two children, Thayne 3, and Dianne, 5. One of her favorite cookie recipes is "Oatmeal Rocks," and you can be sure the "Rocks" don't last long around her household!

Oatmeal Rocks
1 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups white sugar
3 eggs
1/2 cup sour milk or cream
1 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. each of cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg
1/2 cup walnuts (chopped)

1 cup raisins
2 cups flour
1 tsp. baking powder
2 cups oatmeal
Cream shortening and sugar, add eggs whole. Add soda to cream in separate bowl and then add to mixture. Next add cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, nuts and raisins. Mix well. Add flour and baking powder, mix well. Add oatmeal, mix well. Drop on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for about 12 minutes.

Not only is Bombay memorable to Mrs. Bucon for this occasion, but, most important, it was here that she met Harry Bucon. Also serving on Mountbatten's staff as a naval technician, Harry was an American civilian who had worked for General Motors and was consequently loaned to the British Navy as a technician during the war. As soon as Harry's immediate commanding officer learned of the romance he sent Harry to a jungle outpost in Ceylon. From that time Harry and Rita started a correspondence which lasted throughout the remainder of the war.

When the war was over, Harry was given orders to return to the United States via Australia, which was a far cry from Bombay. At the last moment, however, his commanding officer had a change of heart and revised his travel orders to read through India, thus enabling him to see Rita in Bombay. With only 24 hours in India due to the travel orders Rita and Harry tried desperately to be married, but were confronted by some 14 British laws governing marriage of British subjects to foreigners. This made it impossible for them to be married before Harry had to leave. Their last resort was to be married by some obscure Indian

Journey to Altar Is 15,000 Miles

It isn't every woman who waits 14 months and travels 15,000 miles to marry the one she loves, but Mrs. Harry Bucon of 42550 Clemons drive did just that. A World War and laws governing the marriage of British subjects to American citizens presented tremendous obstacles to the marriage of Rita Gomez and Harry Bucon.

Rita Gomez Bucon, whose father is Portuguese and whose mother is English, was born in Sitapur, India, located in the Central Provinces. Since her father was a British Army doctor stationed at the various hospitals throughout India, Rita's earliest recollections were those of traveling to and from the widely-scattered army posts. Later on Rita was enrolled at the Sacred Heart Convent in Bangalore in Southern India where she received her education. Following her graduation from the Convent, she took a position as secretary with one of the British mercantile firms in Bombay.

During World War II, Rita joined the Navy as a member of the Temporary Women's Assistants, the Indian equivalent of the British WRENS. While in the TWA, which was under the command of Lord Louis Mountbatten, Mrs. Bucon recalls that she had the privilege of shaking hands and chatting for a few moments with "Lord Louis."

religion, but even this failed when they learned they would have to give up Christianity to do so. Much to their disappointment they were forced to postpone their marriage and Harry returned to the United States.

Fourteen months and 15,000 miles later, in 1946, Rita arrived at Norfolk where she had come on a visitor's visa to the United States in custody of the captain of a small freighter from India. Before the captain's ship could leave, Harry had to post bond in order to release the captain from his custodianship of Rita. Then it was a matter of confronting the laws which still stood in the way of their marriage, but finally they straightened everything out and exchanged vows in Norfolk.

Living in Baltimore for about six months, the Bucons then moved to Detroit, where they have lived for the past seven years. A native Detroit, Harry is now employed by Jack Selle's, Buick, and the Bucons moved to Plymouth about three months ago. Mrs. Bucon is very much impressed with Plymouth and appreciates the friendliness of Plymouthites.

According to Mrs. Bucon, she has "fallen in love with America," but feels that most Americans don't appreciate the wonderful things they have, such as dime stores and super markets, which are unknown in India. She remarked that the quality of American food is so much better, and that it is extremely difficult to get good fruits and vegetables in India once you travel outside the large cities. The latter, of course, are quite cosmopolitan. In comparing American with Indian dishes, Mrs. Bucon notes a basic difference in that the dishes prepared in India are more highly spiced, and she does miss some of the curry dishes native to her India.

In addition to her mother and father now living in India, Mrs. Bucon has two brothers in England, one a doctor and the other with Scotland Yard. Although she has no desire to return to India to live, Mrs. Bucon would like to go back to visit her parents. However, the possibility of making such a visit is quite remote for her when you consider that it is a 28-day trip by boat or four days and $3,000 to make the trip by plane.

Plastic bags, large and small, will be helpful during your vacation travel and handy for home use, too. One yard of plastic will make any number of small bags. Simply cut plastic in sizes you want and fuse edges together with an iron — no stitching necessary.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY BUCON put Katrinka through her paces in the living-room of their home at 42550 Clemons drive.

New Kits Aid Picnic-Planning

Some like it hot, some like it cold—and there's no reason why everybody can't be happy on the modern picnic. Certain things are just meant to be that way. The pop should be cold, the hot dogs hot. Even if the temperature is soaring, a hot sandwich or a cup of coffee tastes good in the shade of the picnic ground.

Time was when coffee or other liquids were the only picnic delicacies which could be kept hot or cold through the use of vacuum bottles. These too have been improved with the developments of modern science and chemistry, but with the thermo-bags of outing kits which today's manufacturers offer the picnicker, sandwiches, hot dishes, pies, cakes, bread, rolls, or almost any food can be kept either hot or cold for up to 20 hours. A hot toasted sandwich or a bottle of pop will be kept to the height of its flavor and pleasure by these bags of modern plastic coverings with their fibreglass insulation.

Few family tables offer more attractive meals than now can be taken out for enjoyment in the forests, at the beach or mountains. Salads stay crisp and fresh, bread and rolls are just as hot as when they were taken from the warmer hours before. The beverages and milk are cold and fresh, all of which go to make it easy to eat outdoors in luxury with a minimum of trouble.

Picnic kits offer an amazing array of equipment for carrying everything a picnic needs to whatever place you choose. The compact cases contain a supply of non-breakable plastic plates, knives, forks, spoons and cups, in addition to large size vacuum bottles for a choice of hot or cold beverages.

One of these sturdy cases comes equipped with legs and can be used as a table.

If the outlet on your electric range doesn't work, it probably needs a new fuse. This fuse is usually found near one of the upper corners of the oven opening and can be seen when the door is open, say equipment specialists at M.S.C.

Older Citizen Stays Young On This Diet

Each senior citizen can control to a large extent his own aging process by persistent good or bad habits of eating and other activities. Such is the wonderful resilience of the human body, it is practically never too late to make a change to the good habits and to physical improvement.

In this business of staying young via food, it is important that persons over 60 years of age get maintenance and repair food, or an ample daily supply of protein, just as the younger person. Protein is a part of every living cell in the body, and a person really becomes aware of feeling old when he or she has not been maintaining the very body structure. Many doctors are also of the opinion that older people need more protein than when they were young.

Protein is made up of some 23 amino acids or building blocks. Eight of these are necessary to live, grow and be vigorous. Without them, tissues are not repaired; blood plasma and hemoglobin are not replaced.

These eight essential amino acids are from animal sources of protein: meat, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese and milk. There are other sources of protein: cereals, bread, dry beans and peas and nuts, but these are not complete with the eight essential building blocks and must be supplemented with a complete protein, with milk or eggs for example. Unflavored gelatine is a protein food and it contains seven of the eight essential amino acids.

A good way for the senior citizen to assure a daily supply of protein is to eat a variety of the protein sources and to supplement his diet with unflavored gelatine. A simple way is to drink an envelope of unflavored gelatine softened in a glass of water or fruit juice as a mid-morning or mid-afternoon snack.

Why Not Plan on An Outdoor Picnic Buffet?

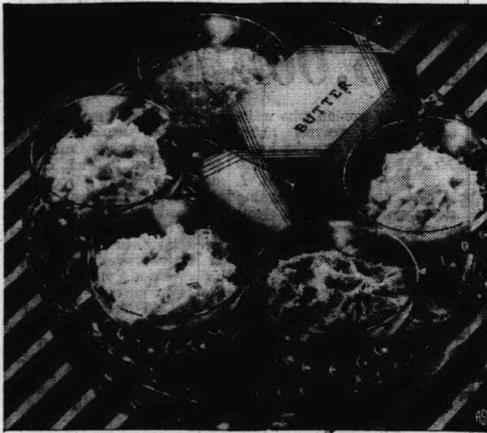

Whether your picnic is served in the backyard or miles from home, the traditional and tempting assortment of cold cuts, breads, relishes and cold drinks is always a top-favorite. Simple as it may sound, this easy menu can be served with smart informality by setting up a picnic table and arranging the food on colorful paper plates.

Here are some suggestions you may want to follow:

COLD CUTS—On a round paper plate, place alternating slices of salami and liverwurst to form a pinwheel arrangement. On a second plate, place cooked frankfurters, if the meal is served indoors at home—or uncooked frankfurters, if the meal is served outdoors and a grill is available. On a third plate, alternate slices of Swiss cheese and baked ham.

SALADS—Pack your choice of

Butter Spreads Add Flavor

Butter spreads are fun to have on hand to make breads, vegetables and casseroles taste just a little different and just a little better. Butter's creamy texture makes the mixing easy, and butter's fresh flavor remains to give that rich taste we like so much. Always buy butter protected in a paraffined carton to keep it safe from exposure to light, off-odors and physical damage.

Here are five delicious spreads:

Butter and Honey: Blend softened butter with honey, half and half, and serve it over hot cooked carrots and sweet potatoes, or serve on pancakes, waffles or hot muffins.

Butter, Mayonnaise and Lime Juice: Blend 1 tablespoon softened butter with 1 tablespoon mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon lime juice and a dash of salt. Good with hot cooked peas, celery, artichokes, asparagus, green beans, broccoli and spinach.

Butter, Creamed Cheese and Minced Onion: Blend 1 tablespoon softened butter with 2 tablespoons cream cheese and ½ teaspoon finely minced onion. Dot over scalloped potatoes or a vegetable casserole before baking, or use as a spread for crisp potato chips for an hors d'oeuvre.

Butter, Deviled Ham and Mustard: Blend 1 tablespoon softened butter with 1 teaspoon prepared mustard and 2 tablespoons deviled ham. Serve on canned corn, broiled tomatoes or crisp melba toast.

Butter and Grated American Cheese: Blend softened butter and grated American cheese half and half and add a little mayonnaise to make an ideal spread for broiled sandwiches, a casserole topping or to spread over broiled hamburgers.

Those popular fiber rugs are apt to curl at the corners. If this is a problem in your home, turn the rug upside down and brush on a thin coat of fresh shellac. A second coat at the corners will help prevent the curling for a longer time.

cole slaw, macaroni salad or potato salad into individual paper cartons. Be sure that the salads are well-seasoned, thoroughly chilled and brightly garnished with a sprig of parsley, radish slices or a tomato wedge before serving.

BREADS—Provide a variety of breads, placing each kind on a separate plate. You might include split, buttered frankfurter buns, caraway rye bread slices and thinly sliced pumpkin-nickel.

RELISHES—In small paper cartons, place your choice of dill pickle strips, stuffed olives, black olives or pickle relish. If you like, provide light and dark mustards and chili sauce or catsup.

BEVERAGES—Add a gala air to the picnic buffet by serving the beverage in party glasses. For the youngsters, serve cold milk in crystal or ceramic mugs.

Try Chewy Gives Ideas for Using "Blondies"

It looks as if the leprechauns worked in the night, turning a platter of Blondies to gold. But no. These are real, honest-to-goodness Blondies. Although nothing could oust old Blondies from our affections, we predict a great future for these, their fair cousins. A rich, sharp apricot-butterscotch flavor accompanies a "chewy inside, crunchy outside" texture.

BLONDIES
½ cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar, firmly packed
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1¾ cups sifted, enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup broken nuts
½ cup chopped dried apricots

Cream shortening and sugar. Add remaining ingredients in order given, mixing well after each addition. Spread in shallow greased pan (batter should fill pan to a depth of about ¼ inch).

Bake in moderate oven 18-20 minutes or until golden brown. Be careful not to overbake. Take them out of oven while still soft if "chewiness" is desired. Makes about sixteen squares.

Cheese, an important protein food fits especially well into summertime menus, say home economists at M.S.C. As you know, it can be used without cooking—or even if you do use it in cooked meals, it never needs to be cooked long nor at high temperatures. Chunks of cheese make a good addition to vegetable salads, too, the home economists remind you.

Everyone enjoys a good fried chicken dinner—except, perhaps, the budget-minded homemaker who wonders how she is going to use up all those bony chicken pieces.

Plan in advance to use them in main dishes for some other meal. And when you clean the chicken for frying, drain the backs, wings and necks and wrap them in moisture-proof paper to hold in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator or freezer until you are ready for them.

The next time you want to serve a chicken dish, stew these bony pieces in just enough water to keep them covered until the meat can be removed from the bones easily. Discard the excess skin and use the meat to create a special chicken dish.

For a delicately flavored molded chicken salad, Miss Kelly suggests that you cook the chicken pieces with one or two bay leaves. When the meat has been removed from the bone, pour the cooking liquid and chicken pieces into a flat pan or mold and allow them to cool.

Place the mold in the refrigerator for several hours. There should be enough jelling substance from the bones and cartilage of the young chicken to jell the salad without additional gelatin.

Instead of salad, the meat from those bony pieces might be used for a chicken casserole, combined with rice or noodles. Or plan sandwiches, croquettes or pies from the meat on those pieces.

The season for eating at its best from midwest gardens and fields is introduced by National Vegetable Week, beginning July 29.

Dress Up Ordinary Foods to Give Family A New Taste Treat

Have you tried dressing up perfectly ordinary foods for a new taste treat? Here are some suggestions which you'll find easy to use and quick to fix:

Have some fish leftover? Marinate in french dressing, then season with lemon juice and mix with other salad ingredients. Crumbled hard-cooked eggs do a great deal for this type of salad.

Apple sauce is an old favorite which can be improved simply by dusting with cinnamon. Use for French toast, waffles, or pancakes.

Next time you fry leftover potatoes in the skillet, add some diced bacon while cooking and then sprinkle the potatoes with chopped parsley before serving.

Can of peach halves on the shelf? Serve them as dessert with a scoop of ice cream rolled in shredded coconut and top with thawed frozen raspberries.

Like a good sandwich, just a bit different? Toast white bread, top with broiled bacon, lettuce and sliced tomato. Serve with cheese sauce.

You'll like omelets with herbs in them. Sweet marjoram, tarragon or basil will give a simple omelet a real gourmet touch.

AN INNOVATION in modern interior design is exemplified by the kitchen and breakfast bar at "Cliffside," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce H. McAllister, 47033 Timberlane, in Northville Hills. The original designing of the home and the decorating were done by the McAllisters. The L-shaped bar is made of gray Weldtex wood panelling. The walls are green with yellow-gold kitchen cupboards and kitchen curtains. Spatter linoleum for the floor and Coral counter topping were installed by Eger-Jackson, Inc., Plymouth. Note the striking chandelier at the left. All individual colors were custom-mixed and adapted for this home by Pease Paint & Wallpaper Co., of Plymouth.

Lumber, Construction, Framing Require Careful Planning

Editor's Note: This is the second of three installments on the subjects, Wood Framing, Lumber and Construction, reprinted here in part from information supplied by the Small Homes Council, U. of Illinois.

The exact size, spacing, and grade of lumber required to give each framing member its necessary strength and stiffness are engineering problems, and should be determined by an architect, engineer, or builder who is qualified.

Lumber most commonly used for residential framing is that known as "No. 2 and better." The best assurance of uniform quality and adequate inspection is the mill stamp which is placed on the lumber. Use of "green" or unseasoned lumber is not recommended since it presents more problems than lumber which has been dried (maximum moisture content of 19 per cent). Moisture changes during seasoning usually cause lumber to shrink, thus affecting the width and thickness of each piece. Buildings should be framed so that the shrinkage will be equal at each major support.

Carefully drafted working drawings, details, specifications, and supervision all help to insure compliance with the structural requirements. The common sense and judgment of workmen must be relied on to prevent use of an occasionally unsound piece, the severe splitting of nailed joints, and similar structural weaknesses. Patching or reinforcing of damaged or sub-standard structural members is rarely adequate; these should be replaced.

Since the load that a member can carry is proportional to the area of the member, notching and drilling should be kept at a minimum.

In addition to load factors, the choice of a framing system is influenced by: 1) architectural considerations—over-all shape, roof type, interior plan of the house, and location of door and window openings; 2) installation of insulation, vapor barrier, utility lines, and heating pipes or ducts; 3) requirements of local building codes; and 4) costs of construction (see page 7).

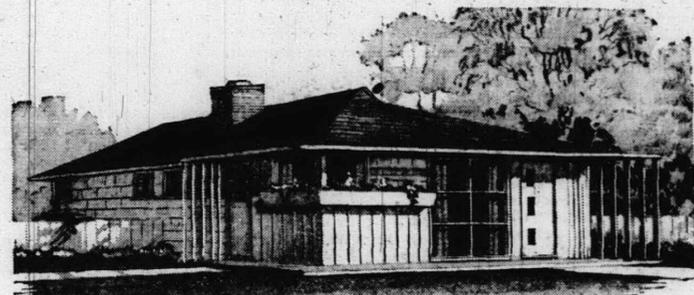

Design of House: The architectural design and structural design of a house are interrelated. Usually the simpler the over-all shape of the house, the simpler is the framing system. The most economical shape is the rectangle. Ells, bays, and recesses add to the complexity of framing to some degree, as do breaks in the plane of the roof and floor.

Framing systems that require load-bearing partitions to help support the roof place the most severe limitations on planning. Roof frames which span the entire width of the house make for greater freedom in planning and arranging the house interior and for greater flexibility in its use.

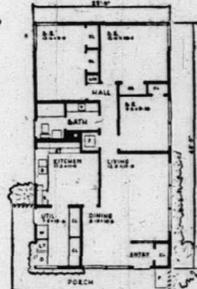

Window and Door Openings: Wall construction having windows and doors must be modified so that the framing around the opening is strong enough to carry all loads to the foundation.

Framing Depth: The framing must be deep enough to accom-

A very handy gadget which recently came out is the "peg board," made out of masonite, the pressed wood they use for imitation tile. With holes already drilled in the board, all you have to do is stick different hooks into the holes and there you have a compact "catchall" serving a variety of uses.

Homemakers will find it handy to hook their pots and pans on. You might want to stick a peg board up on the back of a closet door near the kitchen as a catch-all for whisk brooms, dust pans, etc. The men of the household will want to put one up near the workbench for their tools and other supplies. This way you'll have all your equipment within easy reach and neatly stored, out of the way.

Roe's Lumber company on Amelia street carries these boards, and they tell me the peg boards come either in the plain brown masonite or in blue, yellow and green for those who want them to match or contrast with prevailing color schemes. Two sizes are available to you, a four by four foot, and a two by four foot, but there's absolutely no reason why you couldn't cut the boards down to a certain size if it suited your purpose better. The four by four peg board in the natural brown would run you about $4.15, and the two by four, $2.10. The hooks, which you can get in almost any size and shape, would cost you about $12 a piece.

For those of you who are building clothes closets, or want to add more poles to the ones you've got, you'll be especially interested in the wooden pole sockets down at Roe's. Costing about $18 a pair, the sockets are already bored and come unpainted.

Cabinets Fill Special Needs

Literally dozens of special-purpose wood kitchen cabinets have been designed in standard sizes and appropriate materials are carried in stock by retail building material dealers in Plymouth. Shown above is a ponderosa pine sink front with a tiltout metal soap tray at top, center, and a slide-out towel rack at each side. Storage shelves lie behind the doors below the soap tray. The louvers across the top allow air to enter so that towels will dry. Other special-purpose ponderosa pine cabinets include units with shelves, racks, and bins designed for storage of cutlery, linens, pots and pans, fruits and vegetables, spices, trays, bread, and casseroles, toasters, and other equipment of similar size. The cabinet wood can be painted, stained, or given a natural finish.

moderate insulation and also, in some cases, the passage of utility and heating lines. It must also provide a nailing base for coverings, insulation, vapor barrier and trim.

Building Codes: The wood framing systems described in this circular are the most common ones in use for houses today and are acceptable under most building codes.

Steel Kitchen Cabinets Moisture Resistant

One of the reasons for the increased popularity of steel kitchen cabinets is the fact they are moisture resistant, assuring always smooth door and drawer operation and long life without warping.

The sturdy steel cabinets also are insect-proof, won't absorb kitchen odors, and are easily cleaned, because of their baked enamel finish, simply by wiping with a slightly damp cloth.

Store Trays Upright

Storage of large trays is simplified by a special steel kitchen base cabinet which is divided into from one to four sections, depending upon the cabinet's width. Vertical chrome rods or solid metal dividers within the cabinet permit storage of trays in an upright, easy-to-remove position.

zine gives this tip for laying hardwood flooring: Drive nails through the tongue side of each piece of flooring at an angle of 45 to 55 degrees, as shown in the drawing. Do not drive nails home with the hammer head, but sink them with a nail-set to avoid marring the edges of the boards.

Lots of Color

The most popular bathroom and kitchen colors—white, red, yellow, green, and black—are available in a new line of plastic accessories for the home. Known as Selfix, the accessories include hooks, towel bars, soap dishes, tumbler holders, toothbrush and toilet tissue holders.

Fisher's Shoe store was cited recently in a full page advertisement in a national publication for its outstanding sales record in 1953, since the remodeling of the store in late 1952. Pictures of the store and a background story appeared in an ad sponsored by the Brown Shoe company in the July 30 issue of Footwear News, national weekly trade publication of the shoe industry. James Houk of Fisher's stated that the expanded and modernized store facilities plus the adoption of the Brown franchise program were the primary factors which accounted for the firm's merchandising record.

Hunting Doesn't Cut Population Of Ruffed Grouse

Conservationists have long been interested in whether or not a long hunting season has any lasting effect on the total ruffed grouse population.
A recent progress report of a continuing conservation department study indicates that intensive hunting does not, in the long run, cut into total grouse populations.
The study is being carried out on two square-mile study units, one located in the Rifle River area, the other in the Gladwin Refuge.
The Rifle River unit has been subjected to heavy hunting pressure, especially during the last two years. An average of 1000 persons hunted a total of 3000 hours on the area in 1952 and again in 1953.
In the meantime, the Gladwin Refuge unit was closed to hunting.
The grouse population on both plots has been carefully checked at intervals during the four years the study has been in progress, and game workers now report that little difference is evidenced in continuing populations. At different times, the Rifle River population has been above or below the Gladwin Refuge population, but both areas show a low total number of birds each spring.
"It thus appears," states a summary of the work, "that regardless of whether there is a high kill by hunters or whether the season is closed, a grouse population still drops to a comparatively low level in the spring—illustrating the futility of trying to 'save' birds for the future through unnecessary restriction of hunting seasons."

Olds Wins

A three-run fifth inning enabled Beglier Olds to down Champion Corrugated 3 to 0 last week in the Men's league and remain tied for the league leadership. Gabby Street allowed three scattered singles, struck out 7 men and walked one in earning the win. Jack Scheel tossed until the fifth and was then relieved by Pat Kearney with one man down.

Scheel got into trouble in the fifth after the first man had been retired when Street doubled and Lacy singled; Scheel then walked Wilkie and Schultz to bring in Kearney who got the next two men on fly outs to the infield.

Lacy had two singles for Olds with Egloff, Street and Stout each getting one hit apiece. Koffman had two hits and Scheel one for the losers.

Plan Horseshoe Pitching Tourney For August 28

Who is the amateur horseshoe pitching champion of Plymouth? That is what the Recreation Department is trying to find out by conducting a local tourney August 28-29 with the winner going on to the Michigan State Fair to compete against winners from 60 other statewide local tournaments.

The local tourney will be run on a best two-out-of-three game basis with game at 21 points. All equipment will be furnished according to Recreation Director Herbert Woolweaver. Shoes will weigh 2½ pounds while courts will measure the official 40 feet from stake to stake.

The local tourney will be held on the courts in Riverside Park near the C & O railroad tracks on Edward Hines Drive. Entries close on August 22, and all one must do is call the recreation office at the high school and register with Mr. Woolweaver, or go there in person and fill out an entry blank. There is no age limit or expense involved in competing in this state tourney. The winner will compete in the state finals at the Michigan State Fair on September 4 and 5, where trophies will be presented to the champion and runnerup.

Professional horseshoe pitchers are barred from this tourney.

A few years ago Plymouth had a state champion in the person of Bob Hitt, who won the state title three years running, the first time as a lad of 14 years.

Pool supervisor John McFall states that the Red Cross is bringing this canoe exhibition here because of the numerous boat accidents in Wayne County recently.

This is free to the public and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

E Crown Goes To Davis & Lent

The Davis & Lent team lost the first game of the season in Class E ball last week, but emerged the league champion by two games over Wilcox. Plymouth won 13 and lost only 1 game, while Wilcox had a record of 11 wins and 3 losses.

Last week the Wilcox team turned the tables on the local nine and won a 3 to 1 ball game. Each team had 4 hits with Dick Day getting two of them for Plymouth and Ken Calhoun and Cliff Tait one each. Dews pitched for Davis & Lent and also allowed only four hits.

In the final game of the season, Plymouth walloped Rosedale 16 to 0 as Jack Carter tossed a two-hit shutout.

This week the league winners play a team of all-stars selected from the other seven teams, and Tuesday the winners entered the state Class E tourney with Hamtramck as a first round opponent. If Davis & Lent won that game they will play Dearborn today at the diamond on Michigan and Oakland in Detroit.

Misses No-Hitter

Joe Wicker nearly had his second no-hitter of the summer last Thursday night, but fate went against him with two out in the last inning to spoil his chances. With two gone in that inning George Carr hit a sharp single over the infield for his team's only hit—Wicker had pitched his first no-hitter against this same team. LaFontaine won 3 to 2 over Plymouth Merchants, who scored once in the first inning on errors, and once again in the last inning on Carr's single after Brown had walked.

LaFontaine had a total of 8 hits off Second and scored one run in the fourth inning to tie up the game, and two more in the fifth on two singles and an out.

Gene DeWulf had two singles for the winners with Scriver, Ketchum and Hartsgrove each having one.

Wicker struck out 6 and walked 2 men; Second struck out 2 and walked 4 batters.

Daisy-Northville Teams Begin Class B Playoffs Next Week

Only one game was played in the Class B softball league last week; that being a 22 to 5 victory for Northville VFW over the Plymouth Stamping team. The game between the Daisy team and the Carr's Plumbing outfit was called off on account of rain.

Last night this league ended the regular season, and only two teams are at the necessary .500 mark to gain the playoffs for the old milk can, which traditionally goes to the winner. Daisy and Northville are tied for first place with 5 wins and 1 loss each, and will begin the playoffs next week Wednesday night in a best two out of three series.

The one game that was played last week resulted in the Northville team's power being too much for the Plymouth Stamping men to match. The VFW team scored in every inning to run up the football size score.

Robinson and McArthur led the attack with three safeties apiece with the former having two doubles and a triple. L. Bennett socked a home run for the losers.

Perry tossed for Northville and allowed 9 hits; B. Patrick was the losing hurler and was touched for 18 bingos.

The standings in this league not counting last night's game are as follows:

Team	W	L
Daisy	5	1
Northville	5	1
Wall Wire	2	4
Plymouth St.	2	5
Carr's	1	4

Londeau Remains Leading Hitter In Men's League

Cavalcade's Londeau continued to average better than one hit in each two times at bat last week to lead the sluggers in the Men's league in the final stretch with a prodigious .521 average. The slugging first baseman also walloped another home run to run his total to six in this department to lead Hunt of Olds by two. Cavalcade's 18-hit attack against Champion Corrugated enabled them to lead Olds by one point in team batting.

Wallace of the Northville VFW team bounced back to lead the Class B batters with a minimum number of times at bat of 13.

The highest ten leading batters in each section will be given next week after the season ends.

With those who have been at bat 20 or more times in the Men's league the leaders are as follows:

Player	AB	H	Pct.
Londeau, Cav.	48	25	.521
Doolin, Cav.	25	11	.440
Slessor, Olds	47	15	.366
Street, Olds	36	13	.361
Stout, Olds	49	17	.347
Team, Cav.	445	131	.294

The leaders of those who have been to bat 13 or more times in the Class B league are as follows:

Player	AB	H	Pct.
Wallace, VFW	13	9	.692
J. Williams, Daisy	19	12	.632
Papini, Daisy	16	10	.625
Robinson, VFW	17	10	.588
Thomas, Ply. St.	18	9	.500
Team, VFW	198	85	.429

Thibadeau Hurls No-Hit Game

Joe Thibadeau became the third pitcher to hurl a no-hit game in the Men's league this year when he set the Champion Corrugated nine down without a bing last Thursday night—Gabby Street and Joe Wicker had previously tossed no-hitters. Cavalcade won easily 15 to 0 by counting runs in each inning.

Thibadeau had his strikeout ball working perfectly as he set 13 opponents down on strikes, and walked only two men. Only five men reached first base, two on errors, two on walks and one by being hit by a pitched ball.

Cavalcade launched a 15 hit attack with Londeau and Valmasi leading the way with three hits apiece and each blasting out a home run; Dick Farwell had two doubles.

In a second game, Cavalcade won handily over Barnes, Gibson and Raymond by a 12 to 2 score. The winners counted 5 runs in each the second and third innings. Dunn and Beutel led the way with a single and a triple apiece; Farwell and Doolin contributed doubles. Thibadeau allowed 5 hits in striking out 10 men.

The Sporting News by J. G. Taylor Spink

Sport Glances . . .

The Tigers dealt the Yankees a severe blow last weekend when they captured two out of three games from the champs, and nearly copped the third but for a bases-loaded homer in the eighth inning by Yankee Joe McDougald. Cleveland won a double-header Sunday to stretch the lead over the Yankees to four games, a big margin at this stage of the race. I'll still stick to my earlier prediction that the Yankees will fade and finish third behind the Indians and White Sox.

The Giants and Dodgers are waging the same kind of a race in the National League, but the Milwaukee Braves are playing the best ball at present and have crept up to 7 games of the league leaders. The Braves were 13 games back a few weeks ago.

Robin Roberts goes along winning games at a steady pace. Roberts has won 20 games, or more, a season since leaving the Michigan State campus to enter the Philly organization and is a cinch to become one of the really great pitchers in baseball before he closes out his playing days. He has not hit his peak yet.

The youthful Plymouth Merchants team in the city softball league has only won 7 games this summer, but two of those wins were over the first-place Olds team. This team of hustling lads will be a top-notch contender if they stay together a few years—only 4 players have had previous softball experience, and young Harold Secord, in his first year as pitcher, is doing alright, and should develop into a first-class hurler in a few years.

Rain Halts Games

All games in the Inter-County League were rained out Sunday. This is the second time this season that all games were rained out. The Plymouth Merchants who have an 8 won and 7 lost record have three more games to play, and will have to obtain an average of .500 for season play to gain the championship playoffs starting in September.

Sunday the Merchants play the Dearborn Vagabond Kings, a new team that took the place of Local 49, who dropped out of the league a month ago. The game, as all the remaining games on the local schedule, will be played at Riverside Park at 3:30 p.m.

Hustle, bunts, stolen bases, etc., have dominated the play of this team of former high school players, who never give up until the final out of any game.

Just returned from a trip around Lake Erie by Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Canada, and I'll still take Michigan. Niagara Falls is one of the wonders of the American Continent, but I think the resorts and accommodations of our own state top all that I saw. Many out-of-state people must think the same for one can see just about every state in the union represented on the streets of our northern cities in the summer.

The state motto, "If you seek a beautiful peninsula, look about you," is very appropriate, and we all should be proud that we live in such a lovely state.

So far only two entries have been turned in for the local horseshoe tournament to determine a winner to represent Plymouth at the Michigan State Fair in September, and both entrants are from out of town. Aren't there any local horseshoe pitchers who are interested in trying out for this unique tourney? It costs nothing, and all one must do is call Herb Woolweaver at the high school recreation office and enter the local tourney. Entries must be in before August 22. Do it now.

Olds Downs Cavalcade On Street's One-Hitter

Two equally brilliant softball teams collided Monday night to determine which one was to be the winner of the Plymouth Men's Softball League championship. Beglinger Olds was pitted against Cavalcade, the defending champion, and the Olds men came out on top 2 to 0 by scoring two runs in the fifth inning. These two teams were deadlocked for first place even though Olds had beaten Cavalcade two times previous to this game. Olds has been beaten by the Plymouth Merchants' team twice to create the deadlock for first place.

In the fifth inning Mugs Hunt led off with a double by sliding safely into second base. Egloff sacrificed and was safe on an error with Hunt scoring. Leitchweiss struck out and then Carl Pursell hit a clean single to centerfield to score Egloff. These two runs were all that Gabby Street needed to register the win. Gabby pitched excellent ball, and allowed only one hit—that being a double by the league's leading hitter, Walter Londeau.

In hurling his one-hitter, Street struck out five and walked one. Thibadeau, the opposing hurler, allowed seven hits, struck out five and walked one man.

Pursell with two singles and a double in three times at bat led the attack.

Beglinger Olds still must beat the Evans team tonight in order to gain the title outright. If the team does defeat Evans it will automatically qualify for the right to enter state recreation tournament play against the winner of the Ann Arbor-Jackson game, which is being played Friday night. Plymouth will play the winner of that game on Saturday night at the Recreation Park in Ypsilanti.

When the All-Star game was played in Cleveland, sitting in the stands with his wife and two sons was Robert William Andrew Feller. Countless numbers of fans, had hoped that he would be wearing a uniform that day instead. For to those countless thousands there is none greater than Bobby Feller, whose fabulous feats long since assured him baseball immortality. And to this day Feller is a powerful factor in the Indians' drive to knock the New York Yankees out of the American League's throne room.

Feller's name, in the years to come, will be synonymous with speed and strikeouts. And the amazing thing about him is that there are no indications that he is yet ready to hang up his glove. Early this year he chalked up his 250th major league victory. Then, in June, when Cleveland's pitching sagged, he was called upon for important assignments. He responded by winning seven games in a row.

Only two other pitchers in Cleveland history ever won 200 or more games. One was the fabulous Cy Young, who won a total of 510 throughout his long career. The other was Mel Harder, who had won 223 when he quit in 1947. And it must be remembered that Feller took four years off at the peak of his career for service in the Navy. Had he

Elks Win Title In Class D Play

The Western Wayne County Elks D championship Plymouth Elks team closed out its season with three wins over the other three teams in the league, and Tuesday played Lincoln Park in the first round of state class D play. If successful there, the team will enter the state tourney at Saginaw later in the month.

Last week Plymouth defeated Dearborn and Livonia and Monday won on a forfeit from Inkster to complete an undefeated season. However, the local nine played three tie games.

The final standings in the D league were as follows:

Plymouth	8	0	3
Dearborn	6	4	1
Livonia	5	5	1
Inkster	0	10	1

Evans Takes Two

The improved Evans team won two more games last week as it climbed to the 500 mark by scoring wins over the Plymouth Merchants 7 to 1, and Barnes, Gibson & Raymond 8 to 6.

Stevens tossed a one-hitter in pitching his best game of the year against the Plymouth Merchants—the one hit was a single by Harold Secord in the fifth inning. Stevens struck out 8 men and walked 5 in recording the win; Barney Maas was the loser with Secord relieving in the last inning when Evans scored 5 runs to insure victory.

Five hits combined with two errors and a base on balls provided the big last inning for Evans; a triple by Marsh was the most damaging blow. Stout and Marsh each had two hits for the winners.

In the second game most of the scoring was confined to the last inning as Evans came up with 4 runs to win after which B-G-R came back with 3, but fell short by two counters. Stevens also tossed this game and allowed 5 hits; Ward was the loser and allowed 11 safeties. Barlow had a single, double and triple to lead the attack. Ward and Lemanski each had triples for the losers.

Hawks, Owls To Be Protected By State Law

Hawks and owls will be protected after August 12 under a law passed during a recent session of the state Legislature, the conservation department emphasizes.

The law reads as follows: "Any person who shall molest or kill any species of hawk or owl or eagle, or who shall remove or destroy the nest, eggs, or young of any species of hawk or owl or eagle, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished as provided by the laws of this state. Provided, That a farmer or landowner may destroy hawks or owls on the land he owns or occupies which are doing real damage to poultry or other domestic animals."

Conservationists in general regard these bird species as simply a single part of the total wildlife picture, worthy of protection on that basis alone.

The birds live on a variety of prey. They will eat nuisance species as well as occasional game animals. In general, their diet includes insects, carrion, barn rats and field mice, ground squirrels, rabbits and other small birds and animals.

Hawks and owls have long been condemned as barnyard raiders, but Audubon Society members and conservationists in general point out that only seldom does one of these birds venture on a destructive raid to the farmer's yard. For the most part, the birds keep to woodlands and open prairies.

The law, when passed, was slated to take effect 90 days after the Legislature adjourned. The ninety-day period expires August 12.

Local Guardsmen Head for Grayling

Several Plymouth men are among the thousands of Michigan National Guardsmen who began their annual summer training camp at Camp Grayling last Saturday. The Michigan Guard, numbering 10,845, is at its greatest strength in history.

Leaving last Wednesday with an advance unit was First Lieutenant Lee BeGole, Plymouth's city clerk. He is in charge of a transportation unit which moves into the camp several days early to ready the training site for the 46th Infantry Division and several attached units. Attendance during the two weeks is expected to be 8,700 officers and men.

Major General Gordon A. MacDonald, Detroit, is attending his first training as commanding general of the 46th Division.

OUTDOOR NOTES

From The
MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

In the pheasant and deer seasons last year Michigan hunters enjoyed a total of more than 12,000 years' worth of hunter days of recreation, the conservation department reports.

Quite apart from any game that was bagged and taken home, Michigan hunters went afield, enjoyed sunshine and woodlands, shivered in cold weather, cussed at cantankerous dogs or passed the day with hunting companions to an extent never before experienced in the state.

During all of this, the tedium of office and factory was forgotten, dollar dilemmas and political haggling were pushed aside and, in general, the purposes of recreation were served.

The "12,000 years' worth of hunter days of recreation" was computed from the following figures: During the regular deer season about 445,000 persons went afield. Each hunted an average of about 5.5 days. During the special deer season another 100,000 persons hunted. In pheasant season an estimated 530,000 persons hunted. In deer season an estimated 530,000 persons hunted. Each hunted an estimated 3.5 days.

The figures were gleaned from the polls of hunting information obtained from the hunters themselves through a post-card survey.

About 150 acres in southern Michigan game areas have been test sprayed with plant-killing chemicals to provide openings for small game, the conservation department reports.

Most upland game birds and animals in Michigan are creatures of the forest edges—species that need both forest and open country for survival.

Where the forest grows up densely and leaves no openings the game species die out.

Game workers are using the chemicals to provide a number of small openings in densely-covered areas to encourage game production.

This summer, spraying has been completed on about 20 acres at Lake wildlife station near Lansing, on about 60 acres at Lapeer game area, and on about 70 acres at Gratiot-Saginaw game area. Game workers also plan to spray about 80 acres in each of the Tuscola and Deford game areas within the next few weeks.

Blooming green algae is a nuisance problem in many of Michigan's lakes and streams, state fisheries workers say, but is nothing to be too concerned about.

The stuff that sometimes turns lakes and streams soupy green is composed of tiny plant and animal life, caused when water conditions become just right for them to multiply.

At present, these "blooms" of algae are reported in Kent and Gallagher Lakes and in a portion of the Huron River in southeastern Michigan.

Fisheries workers say the bloom has diminished somewhat from two years ago, that it will probably continue to decrease within the next few years, but that it may persist in a lesser form indefinitely. Usually, they say, the blooms are largely gone after a six- or eight-year period. Algae blooms help fish production but make swimming unpleasant. Chemical controls have checked the spread of algae under proper conditions, but are unworkable in any stream having artificial impoundments.

A record 68,000 acres of privately-owned forest lands in Michigan may be placed under the Commercial Forest Reserve Act if conservation department officials approve present applications, lands workers report.

The state legislature passed the Act in 1925 "to encourage reforestation and proper forest management," but to date only 146,000 acres have been "listed" under its provisions.

The act in general provides a benefit for land owners by deferring most of the yearly land tax on forest lands until the time the timber is cut. In return, the land owner must agree to develop and keep his land reserved primarily for timber production.

Lands now being considered for inclusion under the Act are located mostly in eight western upper peninsula counties. Only 320 acres—in Kalamazoo county—are below the Straits.

Lansing, August—Deer regulations for 1954 will be discussed during the August 12-13 conservation commission meeting here, state officials report.

The meeting will start Thursday afternoon, probably at 3 p.m., in a first-floor conference room of the Mason building.

The hit that's changing the sales standings puts you way ahead 3 ways

THIS year Buick has done what no other car has done in more than a generation. This year Buick has moved into the lofty circle of America's three top sales leaders—a circle once dominated only by the so-called "low-price three." For today, Buick is out-selling all other cars in the nation except two of these "low-price three." And each new month's sales figures strengthen Buick's new sales leadership.

You can't do better—if you want the best buy for your new-car money—than to look into the soaring success that is Buick today. You'll find this glamorous new-day beauty puts you way ahead in three important ways—that's for sure. So drop in on us—tomorrow at the latest—and see for yourself that Buick is the buy of the year, hands down.

- 1. More new car for your money

Buick prices start close to the lowest—just a few dollars above those of the traditional "low-price three." But those few more dollars for a Buick get you a lot more automobile—more room, more comfort, more V8 power, more ride steadiness, more solid durability—plus the advanced "tomorrow" styling that has taken the country by storm.
- 2. More money for your present car

With our great and growing sales volume, we can offer you a bigger trade-in allowance on your present car when you buy a new Buick. After all, the more new cars we sell, the better deal we can make with you. So you get the benefit of our great success in the form of a higher trade-in allowance.
- 3. More dollars when you trade

Because Buick's broad panoramic windshield has started a whole new styling trend, you can be sure that today's Buick will keep its modern look for years to come. So you are assured of a higher resale figure when you trade it in later on.

Come see for yourself why—

Buick Sales are Soaring!
