

Gardiner to Retire As DeHoCo Warden

A cottage along the shore of Lake Huron near Port Austin will be the new permanent address of Edward B. Gardiner, superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction, after he leaves his job May 16.

Although his retirement does not become effective until July 15, Gardiner has enough vacation time coming to give him a two-month early start on his retirement plans.

The Detroit House of Correction commission has already announced the appointment of Paul R. Brown, 62, to the DeHoCo superintendent's job. Brown, who is warden of New York's Westchester County Penitentiary, will begin his new job July 15.

Edward Gardiner

Gardiner was a guard at Leeds five years and was record clerk five and a half years before coming to the Detroit House of Correction in 1921. DeHoCo was located at Alford and Russell in Detroit at the time, although work had just started on dormitories at the Five Mile road site.

Not until 1931 was the entire House of Correction operation moved to Plymouth (it has a Plymouth mailing address). The Women's division had been here since 1928.

Gardiner's former boss at Leeds, Captain Edward Deniston, was superintendent of DeHoCo from 1923 to 1938. During most of these years, Gardiner worked as the institution's welfare department head and was record clerk. When Captain Deniston retired in August 1938, Blake Gilles became superintendent and Gardiner was made his deputy. Gilles retired in May 1953 and Gardiner was advanced to fill the vacancy.

Gardiner points out the surprising fact that population of the institution has not grown rapidly in recent years. A peak population of 1,677 set in 1929 was not met again until a few months ago. Last Saturday there were 1,019 men and 433 women registered, making a total of 1,452. The Detroit House of Correction is the only institution in Michigan.

Township Adds Second, Third Voting Precincts

There will be three voting precincts instead of one in Plymouth township starting with the next election, it was announced this week by Supervisor Roy Lindsay.

New state legislation which requires that there be no more than 1,400 registered voters to a precinct has brought about the addition of the two precincts. Plymouth township has had one precinct until now.

But although the township has been divided into three precincts, all voting will continue to take place at the township hall on Ann Arbor road, Lindsay declared.

In general terms, Precinct 1 will be located in the northeast section of the township; Precinct 2 will be the southeast and Precinct 3 will be the western portion.

Precinct 1 will be bounded on the north by Five Mile road, on the east by Ecola road, on the south by Ann Arbor trail and on the west by the city limits and a line north of the city which excludes Shearer drive and St. John's Seminary.

Precinct 2 will be bounded on the north by Ann Arbor trail, and city limits, the east by the township boundary, south by Joy road and west by Sheldon road.

Precinct 3 will be bounded on the north by Five Mile road, on the east by Shearer drive and St. John's Seminary, south by Joy road and west by Napier road (or township boundary).

There will be no immediate advantage in adding the new precincts, the supervisor said, until the population becomes heavy enough to warrant placing the polling places at widely separated locations. It is expected to place two of the precincts in the main hall of the township building and the other in the fire department. By adding the precincts two more sets of election workers will be needed and two more sets of books will be kept. The six voting machines will be divided equally among the three precincts.

Businesses to Close For 3-Hour Period

Following the Good Friday custom, most Plymouth business establishments will close tomorrow from noon until 3 p.m., according to the Chamber of Commerce.

Most churches will be holding Tre-Ore services during the three-hour period. Stores will be closed in order that employees may attend those services if they choose.

"Opportunity" Exhibit Receives First Entries

Eight industries have announced their intentions of entering exhibits of their products in the Chamber of Commerce's "Plymouth Opportunities Unlimited."

Thirty exhibit booths are planned for the high school auditorium show which is being sponsored to inform young people and the general public of the wide variety of careers existing in the community.

The exhibit will take place on Friday and Saturday, April 21 and 22. Chamber Manager Edward Hart states that T. C. Cobb, executive assistant of the Michigan Manufacturers' association, will attend the exhibit.

Hart added that the career show will also have representatives of the armed forces.

Car Pushed 2 Blocks Before It Learns the Awful Truth

When Fernie Olson, 545 North Harvey street, volunteered to give a distressed car a push during a recent snow, everything went fine for the first two blocks, but after that—it's difficult to believe.

It all began when Mrs. Louise Brinigar, occupant of an apartment in the Olson home, went into the basement to ask her landlord if he could give her car a push. Olson obliged by going to the garage, backing his car into the street and pulling up behind Mrs. Brinigar's car.

Snow covered the back window of the stalled car and alas—the good Samaritan could not see that Mrs. Brinigar was not in the car.

Heading south on Harvey street, the car was pushed smoothly away from the curb. A dozen yards away, it came to a halt for the Farmer street stop sign. Olson again started the push down Harvey street, hitting speeds up to 25 miles an hour. Cars were parked on both sides of the street. Two oncoming cars were met and passed uneventfully. Another car came from behind and passed.

Two blocks later, half way between Blanche and Williams streets, Mrs. Brinigar's car suddenly swerved to the left, jumped the curb, ran across the street and stopped within a foot of a tree in another lawn.

Olson suspected the worst. Perhaps Mrs. Brinigar had suffered a heart attack or something like that. He looked in her car. She was gone. He looked around the car. A woman resident of the home came out and asked what the trouble was. "I sure felt silly," Olson later explained, "trying to tell her that I was looking for a woman who I thought was driving the car."

"Well, I hope you find her," the woman replied as she returned inside her door.

Meanwhile, back at the house, Mrs. Brinigar was trying to solve a mystery of her own. All she had done was return to her apartment a minute and then went out to get into her car. It was gone!

MOST HOLY of the festivals of the Christian year—Easter—is commemorated this Sunday in churches around the world and stories of the church's symbol, the Cross, will again be re-told. Pictured is the crucifix at Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic church, before which an altar boy is lighting candles. He is Gale Harris, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Harris, 9395 Canton Center road.

Lily Sale Boosts Seal Fund $640

Crippled children will receive the benefits of $640 in proceeds from the Easter Lily sale held in the downtown Plymouth shopping area Saturday as booster to the Easter Seal campaign now entering its third week of a month-long appeal. The amount represents an increase of $85 over last year's Lily sale when $555 was collected for the seal fund.

Mrs. Russell Isbister, assisted by Mrs. Max Wachowiak and more than 50 boys and girls who distributed paper lilies throughout the day topped all other areas which conducted lily sales for the benefit of crippled children. It was reported. A total of 12 lily sales were held Saturday in various Western Wayne county communities which collected $2,706 for crippled children services rendered by the Wayne Out-County chapter, Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Goal for the 1956 Easter Seal campaign stands at $5,516 to be collected by April 10, closing date of the drive.

The Plymouth Rotary club is conducting the Easter Seal mailing campaign, headed by Charles Finlan, who is being assisted by Milton Orr, Albert Hubbs, Robert D. Willoughby, Earl West and Charles H. Bennett.

Funds contributed during this 23rd annual Easter Seal campaign bring the services of care, treatment, equipment, day camp and recreational programs to crippled children and adults throughout the area by the Wayne Out-County chapter, which has a registry of 2000 handicapped in need of these services.

Rotarians Entertain Farmers

Plymouth Rotarians entertained 115 neighboring farmers at their annual Rural-Urban dinner held last Thursday night.

Women of the Cherry Hill Methodist church served the dinner to a total of 144 people. Farmers invited came from Plymouth, Canton and Salem townships.

Chairman of the Rural-Urban committee was Robert Waldecker.

Plymouth ACS Launches Cancer Crusade Sunday

The Plymouth Cancer Crusade will be launched this Sunday in keeping with a nationwide, educational campaign to be conducted during April by the American Cancer society in an effort to win the battle against the dread disease.

The local drive is headed by Duane Sheldon who will be assisted by numerous volunteers and other workers from the Plymouth ACS headquarters at 821 Penniman.

Highlights of the crusade will

Young Folks Start Ten Day Vacation

It won't be news to the boys and girls of the community, but others may like to know that the young folks they see on the street all next week aren't playing hooky—they're on their spring vacation.

The annual vacation will start tonight (Thursday) after school and will end when classes begin Monday morning, April 9. For some, combination of Easter and spring vacation may mean a vacation trip for the entire family.

Insurance Agents Offer Scholarship

A $500 scholarship will be offered this spring in Plymouth high school by the Plymouth Association of Insurance Agents.

Applications are now being taken at the high school for the scholarship which is being offered to boys and girls who plan to attend college but who need financial assistance.

Winner of the scholarship will receive $250 of the amount during the freshman year in college and the other half during the sophomore year. If the student proves to be satisfactory in college, it is possible to extend the scholarship for the remaining two years.

To be eligible for the scholarship, the senior must be in the upper 25 per cent of his class and must show a need of financial assistance. The applicant can select any college program they desire. Members of the association's board of directors will make the decision.

It was announced that the first scholarship winner will probably be announced next month.

The scholarship fund is being established with most of the commission money which agents receive from policies carried by the school. Association members also carry the city's policies and last year, donated over $500 for emergency equipment for the fire department.

Observes 30th Year in Business

Plymouth's oldest shoe store, Willoughby Bros., 322 South Main street, is observing its 30th year in business this weekend.

Orchids for the ladies and gifts for the men and children are being offered to guests during the anniversary observance which starts today and ends Saturday.

It was in April 1926 that Robert D. Willoughby opened the shoe store at the location now occupied by the William Wood Insurance agency on South Main street. After six years there, the store was moved to its present location across from Kellogg park.

Although the store is called Willoughby Bros., Robert Willoughby has been the sole owner throughout the 30 years. He had, however, two brothers who preceded him in the shoe business with a store they opened in Ypsilanti in 1919. One brother, Jack, still operates the Ypsilanti store while the other brother, Earl, owns a store in Racine, Wisconsin.

Robert Willoughby, a graduate of Capac high school and Michigan State Normal college, started out to be a teacher and followed that career for one year. He then turned to the study of feet and corrective fitting and selected Plymouth as the site for his new business.

Church Services Marking Last Days of Holy Week

An Easter Sermon

I think it is significant that Jesus appeared first to Mary Magdalene after He had risen from the dead. It is notable that He did not appear to Pilate who had delivered Him to be crucified. Nor to the chief priests and the soldiers who had mocked Him as He hung upon the cross, saying, "He saved others, himself he cannot save. If He be the King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross and we will believe Him."

What human satisfaction there would have been to appear to these who had condemned and mocked Him. But Jesus did not appear to them.

He did not appear first to His disciples. Peter and John had preceded Mary back to the empty tomb after she had told them that He was not there. And John, looking in on the empty tomb, believed. But Jesus did not appear first to them, though this was John, the "Beloved Disciple"; the one who had stood by Him at the cross; the one who was caring for His mother; these two men with whom He had enjoyed such close fellowship during the past years. He did not appear first to the disciples as they gathered together. Though these were the men who would be the founders of the Church. Though these were the men who would be the builders of the Kingdom, Jesus did not appear first to them.

He did appear first to Mary Magdalene. She is made the first herald of the Gospel of a Risen Savior as she tells the disciples that she has seen the Lord. While we cannot know for sure why the Lord appeared first to Mary Magdalene it is apparent that her love for Him and her need of Him was great. Before Jesus came into her life she was practically an outcast of society; possessed of seven devils; unfit for association with the human race. Her life was one of blackness and night. Tormented, tortured and evil, until Jesus came. Her life was one of "hell on earth". But when Jesus came, He set her free. He banished all her darkness, cast out the demons, healed her of all infirmities, forgave all her sins. He brought sunshine into her life and love into her heart.

So when Jesus was crucified and buried in the tomb her sense of loss was overwhelming. Her mind and heart were numbed with grief. The clouds again moved in across the sky. Darkness and pain again swept across her pathway. So we see her standing at the door of the empty tomb. He is gone! Even the opportunity for this last loving service of anointing his body for burial has been denied. She weeps as she looks again for the body of her Lord. So great is her grief that even the sight of angels sitting there does not startle her. And when they say to her, "Woman, why weepst thou?" She saith unto them, "Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him."

Turning back then, she leaves the tomb and as she leaves she meets Jesus. So heavy is her heart that she does not recognize Him, and when He asks her why she is weeping she supposes that He is the gardener and asks again where she might find His body. Not until Jesus speaks her name, saying, "Mary", does she suddenly realize that it is the Lord. With a glad cry of "Master" she falls before Him and clings to His feet. Again the sun breaks through the clouds and darkness is dispelled. He is alive! He has come forth from the grave. This dearest Friend, the Savior, is not dead but has returned.

This perhaps is the reason why He appeared first to Mary. Her need of the Savior was so very great. Could it be that those who feel their need of Him most would find Him more quickly? Is it not true that today He appears first to those who long for His presence. If we are looking for Him we can find Him even today. If we want Him He will appear to us. Ought we not to sing with the writer:

"I need Thee every hour, most gracious Lord,
No tender voice like Thine, can peace afford,
I need Thee, Oh, I need Thee. Every hour I need Thee,
Oh, bless me now my Savior, I come to Thee."
E. T. Hadwin, Pastor Church of the Nazarene

Will Soon Start Spraying of Elms

Although some of this week's weather forces Plymouthites to stretch their imagination concerning the arrival of spring, the city is nevertheless hoping to start their elm spraying program within the next two weeks.

Last year was the first time that a city-wide spraying program was launched against the fatal Dutch elm disease. Results of that spraying will not be known until this summer. In the meantime, two more sprayings are being planned this year, one in April and another in July.

Hugh McAuley, head of the city's park program, will make an inspection this year of all elm trees. He hopes to find no more than 36 diseased trees.

All elm trees along the streets are city-owned and will be sprayed at no charge by the city. Those having elm on private property can have their trees sprayed at $1 each. Door-to-door calls will be made by the sprayers to ask if householders want their elms sprayed.

Plymouth Mayor Will Shuffle Off To New Buffalo

Mayor Russell M. Daane will need to do some long-distance traveling on May 21. That is the day during Michigan Week on which the state's cities and villages exchange their mayors.

In the drawing held Tuesday in Lansing, Plymouth's mayor was paired with the mayor of New Buffalo, Michigan. That community of 1,565 souls is about as close to Chicago as one can get without leaving Michigan. It is located a few miles from the Indiana border along Lake Michigan.

Although no official communications have yet gone between Plymouth and New Buffalo, records here show that the village has a village president, not a mayor. He is Arthur Boelke.

Names of nearly 500 cities and villages were placed in a hopper and drawn by Governor Williams and other officials Tuesday. Last year Mayor Daane traveled to Hazel Park and two years ago it was St. Joseph.

Plan Extension Of Hines Drive

A donation of 410 acres of land by the Ford Motor company to the Wayne County Road Commission will make it possible in future years for Plymouthites to drive on Edward Hines drive nearly into Detroit.

Ford Motor company announced today that the 410 acres, located within Fair Lane, the Henry Ford estate, will permit construction of two and one-half more miles of scenic drive through the center of Dearborn.

In addition to facilitating the flow of traffic in areas served by the drive, the land will contribute to the road commission's flood damage control along the Rouge river.

To date, 15 and a quarter miles of Edward Hines drive has been completed from Seven Mile road in Northville to Telegraph road in Dearborn township. The road commission has acquired land which will link the present drive to the area donated by the Ford Motor company.

The Ford donation will permit construction of the scenic drive from north of Ford road to a temporary terminus at Michigan avenue. On completion around 1959, there will be about 20 miles of scenic highway, from which trucks are prohibited, between Dearborn and the northwest region of greater Detroit.

Overheated Furnaces Bring Out Firemen

Overheated furnaces caused fire alarms in both the city and township during the past week. Township firemen were called to the Barnes-Gibson-Raymond plant on Plymouth road at 4:20 a.m. Monday to stand by in case of a fire. Automatic shut-off equipment on the oil furnace had failed and the furnace became overheated. Oil had also run onto the floor.

An overheated oil stove in the front room of the Troy Jones home, 736 Penniman avenue, also caused no fire last Friday morning, but city firemen stood by until all danger was passed. Smoke had filled the home.

Final Concert to Feature Flutist, Harpist Solo Roles

A harpist and flutist will combine talents to entertain concertgoers at the final performance this season of the Plymouth Symphony orchestra Sunday, April 8.

Harpist Marilyn Martin, wife of a University of Michigan professor, is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music. Nelson Hauenstein, flutist, is a long-time member of the Plymouth Symphony orchestra. Also a graduate of Eastman, Hauenstein is a member of the faculty of the University of Michigan school of music.

The program of the sixth concert will consist of ballet music from "Cephalé and Procris" by Giétry-Mottl, "Concerto for Flute and Harp" by Mozart and "La Mer" by Debussy.

"La Mer (The Sea) is a set of three symphonic sketches written by the French impressionistic composer, who was always fascinated by the power and color of the sea. In these sketches he gives a graphic musical picture of the sea from dawn until midday, the play of the waves and the dialogue of the wind and the waves. Written in 1905, La Mer was considered for many years as the most difficult piece in the entire orchestral repertory.

The April 8 concert will be open to the public without charge. All concerts are held in the high school at 4:00 p.m.

Delores Eckstrom Becomes Bride at Lutheran Ceremony

Dolores Ann Eckstrom, daughter of Mrs. Molly Eckstrom of 9563 Gold Arbor, Plymouth, became the bride of John William Nachtweih, son of Mrs. Mary Lionberger, 35542 John street, Wayne, in a ceremony held on Saturday, March 3, at St. Peter's Lutheran church in Plymouth.

The bride chose a wedding gown of imported lace over satin and tulle, styled with Queen Ann collar and train of chapel length. Her fingertip veil of tulle was secured by a satin headpiece trimmed with seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was composed of white roses in colonial display.

At the altar of the church were baskets and vases of gladioli as setting for the nuptial rites. The bride was given in marriage by Ralph Rostow, a friend of the family. Reverend Edgar Hoencke performed the ceremony held at 7 o'clock that evening. Music was organ selections by Richard Scharf.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was Lois Vanderhoof, the bridegroom's sister as matron of honor. She was gowned in a floor-length dress of mint green shade, a bolero of lace over taffeta covering the strapless bodice, and styled with full skirt of lace over tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and carnations.

Bridesmaid Carolyn Eckstrom, sister of the bride, wore a yellow gown styled identically to Mrs. Vanderhoof's and carried a mint green, colonial bouquet of roses and carnations.

Mrs. Eckstrom wore a two-piece suit of navy shantung with navy and pink accessories. An egg shell dress of brocade with lavender accessories was the choice of the bridegroom's mother. Their flowers were shoulder bouquets of pink roses.

John Sayers assisted his brother-in-law as best man, Usher was Paul Nixon.

Two hundred and fifty guests attended the reception, held at the home of the bride, coming from Akron, Ohio, Battle Creek, Saginaw, Detroit, Centerline, Fenton, Belleville, Northville, Romulus, Livonia, Garden City, Ferndale, Ypsilanti, Wayne and Plymouth.

For a trip to Niagara Falls, the new Mrs. Nachtweih changed to a brown suit with beige accessories and corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The couple are residing at 35448 Columbia street in Wayne.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth high school, class of 1954, and is presently employed at Michigan Bell Telephone company. The bridegroom attended Wayne high school and served with the U. S. Navy from which he was discharged in 1955. He is now employed by the Village of Wayne.

We see where the Director for the National Institute for Human Relations claims that teachers are numbered among the best wives. He reports the schoolmarm is likable, easygoing and less addicted to "yakity-yakity" than most other women. It may be just that they get so tired from talking to some of the less enthusiastic students all day that it's a relief to be quiet.

The Director also says they have a deep affection for children. It might be interesting to get a reaction on this from the kid who was caught chewing gum in class today. Whether the Director is a good judge or not on this subject, he's on the right track. School teachers deserve a large helping of praise. They miss out on it sometimes. If a child gets good grades, we give him credit; if he gets poor ones... we blame the teacher!

Speaking of good things... we have something "special" for you girls. We now have a complete line of famous perfumes and toilet waters by LANVIN! Such favorite fragrances as ARPEGE, MY SIN, RUMEUR, SCANDAL, PRETEXTE. (See our LANVIN ad elsewhere on this page.)

In Irvington, N.J., a fellow tried to pay the fine on a traffic ticket with a home-made $10 bill. That's carrying "do-it-yourself" too far. Doing it yourself is something that doesn't carry over into prescription service. That's a job for a specialist... and we specialize in prompt, accurate prescription care. Bring us your doctor's prescription and have yourself a very happy Easter, too.

Livonians Going To Polls Monday

Livonia voters will go to the polls this Monday to settle once again a stormy election which has been carried on mainly between the two candidates for mayor, incumbent Elbert M. Hartom and Attorney William Brashear.

While Hartom has been waging his campaign independently, Brashear has been joined by four candidates for council who claim that their election will bring "harmonious government" to Livonia. Mayor Hartom has warned that his opponent is a "machine" candidate.

On the Brashear "team" are council candidates Austin Grant, Frank O'Neill, Dr. Oscar P. Rosbolt and Sydney Bagnall. Others running for the four vacancies are Peter Ventura, Michael Lyons, John Spanish and John Whitehead, the only incumbent.

Seeking re-election for city clerk is Mrs. Marie Clark, who is opposed by Rupert G. Otto. Carl Wagenschutz is unopposed for the office of treasurer. Seeking the two constable vacancies are Ellsworth Chase, Stanley Rudnicki, Bernard Cruse and Gerald Harris.

There are also three proposals on the ballot. One deals with a block system of promotions for firemen; a second asks for raising the city clerk's salary to $7,200 and the third wants council salaries raised from $660 annually to $1,200.

This is the time for all subscribers whose accounts are in arrears to come to the aid of the Plymouth Mail.

Head of Religious Education Project To Speak Here on Recent Advances

Dr. Ernest Ligon of the department of Psychology, Union College, Schenectady, New York, will address the local Character Research Project group at the Veterans' Memorial building on Thursday evening, April 5, at 8 o'clock. He will speak on latest developments and advancements made recently in the field of religious education.

He is being presented by the Plymouth Character Research Project group of which Fred Van Dyke is the local executive chairman. Dr. Ligon is the founder of a method of Christian education which has been adopted by many churches of all faiths. His beliefs, realized in the national Character Research Project, call upon adult participation in religious education. The meeting is open to anyone who is interested in the problem of religious education of any faith. In Plymouth an independent parents' group has used the Character Research materials, developed by Dr. Ligon, with its children for five years. The lessons are used by the families on weekdays and each family goes to the church of its choice on Sundays. Group meetings are open to anyone who is interested. The Easter season is a most appropriate time for Dr. Ligon to revisit Plymouth. More than a quarter of a century ago when everyone else was deploring the lack of church attendance and the general trend away from religion, Dr. Ligon set out to discover if the great ideas of Jesus could be used in a busy modern life. Dr. Ligon believed that service to others gives a man the greatest sense of personal satisfaction and the best opportunity for self-expression. He went on to discover psychologically sound ways in which this could be taught gradually to children. Gearing lesson materials and ideas to the needs and abilities of each age level from nursery through high school, he has shown parents and teachers how they may help their children to become emotionally mature adults trained to carry on leadership roles with consideration and understanding of the needs of other people.

Dr. Ligon has had the enthusiastic support of parents in some fifty churches and independent parent groups across the nation.

Dr. Ligon set up the Character Research staff to write early teaching conclusions into weekly lessons for eight different age levels. These lessons are being used directly by a number of churches in conjunction with their own curriculum and indirectly by others who have revised their denominational materials along the same lines.

Out of this have grown two new trends in religious education. Sunday is no longer a day in which to hear something very idealistic which has little to do with Monday's activities or those of the rest of the week. It has become a sort of conference day in the church schools when children get valuable help in solving successfully their weekday problems. Religious belief in action is now the keyword.

Secondly, Dr. Ligon has drawn the family as a whole back into the picture with his emphasis on the home as the single greatest influence on the child. Parents are asked to repeat at every opportunity during the week the lessons which were introduced on Sunday. Families in the Character Research Project cement home ties by working together, playing together and going to church together.

For the past few years Dr. Ligon's special research problem has been one of home dynamics. Again, he has the enthusiastic cooperation of parents who want to know what kind of home life will provide the most fertile ground in which to promote Christian ideas and actions.

This research also drew the attention of Mr. Ely Lilly, head of the Lilly Pharmaceutical Company of Indianapolis, Indiana. Through his interest Lilly Endowment, Incorporation has underwritten the research.

Dr. Ernest Ligon

News Features Local Girl

Mary Lou Hartwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hartwick, 14354 Northville road, was the subject of a fraternal news page feature story in last Sunday's Detroit News. The article dealt with Mary Lou's having become a "permanent queen" to the 200 residents (average age 72) at the Michigan Masonic Home for the Aged in Alma.

Mary Lou is a 21-year-old junior at Alma college and, the story pointed out, was chosen college campus queen when she was a freshman there. Following this she served on the queen's court and then last fall Mary Lou was elected queen of Alma's homecoming.

Quite by accident did Mary Lou become a queen to the residents of the Michigan Masonic Home for the Aged. It was the result of an Easter visit to the Home four years ago when she called on Mrs. Carrie Hillmer there with her grandmother, Mrs. Otto Beyer.

Soon Mary Lou, who entertained the residents with her beautiful singing voice, became a most popular hit with the old people. She was asked to return many times. Since then she has obtained the services of fellow students plus Alma college's Christian Association in providing further entertainment and pleasure for the Home's elderly guests.

Third Pease Colorama Scheduled for Tuesday

The third annual Pease Colorama will be held this Tuesday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the Plymouth high school auditorium, announced A. Gerald Pease, owner of Pease Paint and Wallpaper, 570 South Main. He is the sponsor of the yearly event.

The Pease Colorama, which has attracted hundreds of guests in its two previous appearances, offers free color consultation plus additional tips on decorating, color coordination and painting to the home owner.

He added that, although admission is free, guests must present a ticket before entering. These tickets may be obtained at Pease Paint and Wallpaper store and Terry's Bakery on Penniman avenue.

Sixty-three Attend Legion Birthday Celebration

Sixty-three Legionnaires and their guests gathered at the Veterans Community center Saturday evening, March 24, for the observance of the American Legion's 37th birthday by Passage-Gayde post and auxiliary members.

Following the 6:30 dinner, a testimonial program consisting of several awards was masterminded by 17th District Commander Irving Geer of Myron H. Beals Post No. 32, Livonia.

One of two featured testimonials of the evening was the presentation by Passage-Gayde Commander Albert Holcombe of a Citation of Meritorious Service to Vernon E. Miller for his work in organizing and serving as first commander of the Post in 1944 and for outstanding service to the community during his several years as Post Service and Welfare officer.

Auxiliary President Melva Gardner made the second featured presentation, a life membership pin to Adah Langmaid. Mrs. Langmaid was first president of the Auxiliary following its organization in 1946. She currently serves as president of the 17th District Auxiliary and has held various offices on both the local unit and district levels.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Evans were presented 35-year pins and certificates. Evans joined one of the first Legion posts in Michigan in 1919; year of the Legion's founding. Mrs. Evans joined the Auxiliary in 1921 and served as president of the Myron Beals unit in 1936-37.

Mr. and Mrs. Vito Simonetti and C. C. Wiltse were recipients of 25-year membership pins and certificates. Mrs. Simonetti served as unit president of the Myron Beals Auxiliary in 1950-51.

Thirty-five Post and Auxiliary members were also presented their respective 5 and 10-year membership pins. All past commanders and past presidents of the local Legion organization received tokens of honor for their past services.

Department of Michigan Adjutant Lisle and Mrs. Alexander were distinguished guests.

Junior High Dance Termed Huge Success

More than 125 students attended the first Plymouth junior high school dance under the direction of the local recreation department last Friday evening in the junior high gymnasium. The dance was termed as very successful.

The students danced to recorded music played by Jim Cutler. Refreshments were served.

Other such dances are scheduled to be held the evenings of April 13, May 4 and June 1. They will last from 7 to 9 p.m. and will be held in the junior high gymnasium.

The local recreation office this week expressed thanks to the junior high student council for its work in making the dance possible. Thanks were also tendered to the parents who chaperoned. They were Mr. and Mrs. Sackett, Mr. and Mrs. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Clear and Mr. Arnold.

Additional news from the recreation department takes form this week in the announcement by Director Herb Woolweaver that Dick Huebler has been added to the staff as supervisor of recreation here. Huebler will be in charge of all athletic events and additional competition. He will also be in charge of all dances and activities that are conducted by the recreation office.

Huebler is a junior at Michigan State Normal college and is majoring in recreation work there. Although only officially added to the staff March 1, Huebler has acted in a recreational supervisor capacity through the past winter. He requested that persons interested in local recreation make suggestions as to further fields of interest that might be added to the Plymouth program.

Off-Street Parking Series to Appear in Mail

If you have ever steered your car through a crowded parking lot, circled a block several times, watched while another motorist pulled into a parking spot you had been anxiously eyeing for half-a-block—you have a small idea of the frustration facing local retail merchants.

Cause of all this consternation is lack of adequate off-street parking. It's a condition that exists throughout the nation, a never-ending problem that requires constant attention.

An editorial by Publisher Sterling Eaton on March 15 pointing out the inroads on community business being made by shopping centers offering free parking brought instant response from local business. Because of this The Mail has prepared a series of three articles dealing with the parking problem, both nationwide and locally. The first of these articles will appear next week.

The series is particularly timely in Plymouth because of the number of proposed shopping centers looking towards our area. It is also significant that the same group of local businessmen who spearheaded the development of existing parking lots are again striving to expand facilities. They know that parking is the life-blood of their business and that it represents a "welcome mat" to every shopper in the area. They are also well aware of the fact, as pointed out in Publisher Eaton's editorial, that huge chain stores are turning to shopping centers where free parking makes the cash registers ring.

These businessmen also realize that the community has a stake in the welfare of its stores. They pay a huge share of the city's taxes and the value of their property reflects directly on the value of every home in the community.

Next week The Mail will look first at the parking problem as it exists throughout the country. Subsequent articles will deal with parking plans other communities have used and proposals for local parking facilities.

21 to Attend Rainbow Girls' State Assembly

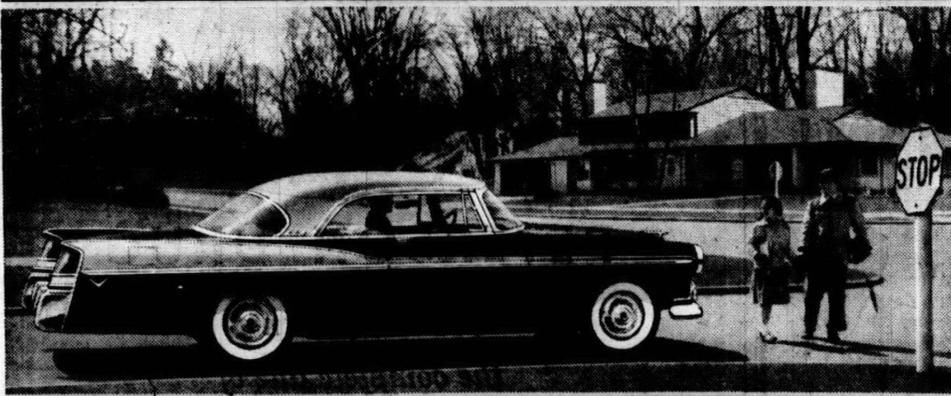

Twenty-one representatives of Plymouth Assembly No. 33, Order of Rainbow for Girls, will attend the 28th annual state grand assembly of Rainbow Girls to convene at Traverse City Thursday, April 5, and continue through Saturday, April 7.

Presiding over the sessions will be Dawn Huebler of Plymouth, grand worthy advisor for the state of Michigan and past worthy advisor of the local assembly. Janet Wickens will also attend as grand representative to Ohio and local worthy advisor.

Fourteen Plymouth Rainbow Girls will join the following officers of their assembly in attendance at the event: Theresa Carpenter, worthy advisor; Marion Braund, charity Carolyn Carpenter, hope; Marcia Weigand, recorder; and Mrs. Laveren Carpenter, mother advisor. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huebler will also attend with their son, Richard, who is past master councillor of Plymouth chapter, Order of DeMolay.

The state meeting, held in St. Francis auditorium on East 11th street, will be hosted by Traverse City Assembly No. 55. Presentation of distinguished guests, portrayal of the Grand Cross of Color degree, Grand Cross and family banquets and conferral of the Majority Service of the Rainbow Order are highlights of the event.

Likes Column On Schools

Plymouth Mich.
 747 So. Main
 Reading your column in our paper this morning, I couldn't help but think how right we are to add new rooms to our schools, instead of paying for plans for new ones which would add a hundred new taxes to our overburdened minds now trying to make ends meet.

I am all for the education of our boys and girls who live in this modern world and think money grows on a tree and will be a mental problem for the next generation who can't always have what they want. But sooner or later, they will break their own system of government. For sure the taxing system is getting out of hand.

Also on the new water system, why can't we set aside the taxes on the new Western Electric property to be used to pay for the bonds from the bonding company instead of letting this run for 20 years.

The old system as the health authorities say is so antiquated, "no wonder we all looked so caved in," this would pay off quicker. This all stems from the new company coming in and being annexed to Plymouth, which we all agree is marvelous for us, but Lindsay sure wants to retaliate and see that our health is good. So let's be patient and agree with him.

Mrs. Florence V. Davis

 The Plymouth Mail
 Dear Mr. Eaton:

An unusual feature preceded last Friday's presentation of One Hundred Years Ago at St. Peter's Lutheran church. A fragile and yellowed sheet from the Marion Weekly Chronicle, Indiana, was handed to each person coming in. Ours was dated Sept. 12, 1878.

We happened to find it an item of personal family interest that you might like. The editor, M. F. Tingley, recounting his trip up into Michigan, wrote:

"While in Mackinaw I paid a dollar for a little volume entitled 'Old and New Mackinaw' and coming up from Green Bay I began to glimpse through it and felt it lying on my berth to go on deck as we neared the port. When I hurriedly returned for my grip-sack to go ashore, I found my berth stripped of bedding and myself of my little volume. My loss will be that of the readers of the Chronicle too for I bought the book with the expectation of culling a letter from it rich in historical interest. I am therefore restricted to personal observation for whatever notes I may make."

"Old and New Mackinaw" was written by my daughter Mrs. Dean F. Saxton's grandfather, James Alvin Van Fleet. His parents, John and Margaret, pioneered from New Jersey to the Hamburg-Pineckey neighborhood and farmed for many years. A copy of the book is one of the treasures in the Saxton library.

Gardiner to Retire

 where women convicted of felonies can be sent.
 Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner, although they live on the grounds of the institution, have considered Plymouth their home. They plan to convert their lake cottage into a year-round home. They have one daughter, Mrs. Virginia Klopp of Detroit.
 The newly-appointed replacement, Brown, has had 20 years of penal experience. He is former president of the National Jail association and is a board member of the American Correctional association.
 Full retirement from the superintendent's job is possible at the age of 65 and retirement is compulsory at 69. Gardiner is retiring a year and a half before the compulsory age limit.
 The style changers sell women a lot of clothes each year they don't need and outdate a lot of clothes they do need.

Dentist Donates Books to College

A group of about 250 books was recently donated to the Madonna college library by Dr. Joseph Jablonski, a dentist in East Detroit. The books, purchased at an auction sale, include reference sets and copies of single editions.
 Among them are: Britannica, Smithsonian Scientific series, works of Theodore Roosevelt, works of James Fenimore Cooper, Robert Stevenson and many others.
 Dr. Jablonski has also donated about 450 books during the first part of December. Those include many famous history reference volumes plus more than 100 literary works.
 Recently, Fr. James Shannon, Madonna theology and philosophy instructor, has also given to the library several valuable issues of the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, published after the death of Pope Pius XI and upon the election of Pope Pius XII.

Tells Rotarians Of County Health Department Work

Functions of the Wayne County Department of Health were outlined Friday noon to Plymouth Rotarians by Morton S. Hilbert, director of the sanitation division.
 It was Hilbert's department which asked that the Gallimore school on Sheldon road not be started until sanitary sewers were assured. The sanitation division has also figured prominently in the several sewer and water system programs which are being carried on in both the city and Plymouth and Canton townships.
 Hilbert stated that it is now the policy of his department to ask subdivision builders to submit plans so that sanitary facilities can be first approved. Septic tanks, he asserted, are good for homes in the open countryside, but should be considered nothing but temporary in populated areas. He noted that there is not a stream in Wayne county that isn't polluted with sewerage.
 His talk also covered other phases of the health department's work. Inspections of food establishments, rodent problems, garbage and rubbish disposal, water pollution, air pollution, industrial inspections and home accident prevention are among the many areas of activity in the department's realm.
 Hilbert complimented the city of Plymouth for finding a suitable refuse disposal site. Located in a gravel pit in Salem township, the speaker said that Plymouth is fortunate in having a disposal site. He noted that Detroit is hauling its refuse as far as 25 miles.
 The speaker appeared in connection with Community Health Week.
 It was announced at the meeting that Evered Jolliffe, secretary of the club for seven years, has submitted his resignation from the job effective April 1. He was presented a television set from the membership.
 The club's pledge of $15,000 toward the crippled children's center was also given a $200 boost at the meeting. A kiddie Corvette, donated by Chevrolet dealer Frank Allison, was the prize in a contest and auction. Making the winning bid of $75 was Robert Willoughby, local shoe dealer.
 Private first class Chesney, of the Marine Corp, who returned to his base in Camp Lejeun, North Carolina, recently, after spending three months in Porto Rico, arrived Saturday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Kenneth Ramsyler and family on Morrison avenue. That evening they celebrated the occasion by having dinner at the Covered Wagon with dancing afterward.

School Quartette, 4th Time Winner Of State Festival

For the fourth consecutive year, a saxophone quartette from Plymouth high school received the first division (superior) rating in competition at state Solo and Ensemble festivals sponsored by the Michigan State Band and Orchestra association. The latest honor was won by the group Saturday, March 24, in Ann Arbor where the 1956 state festival was held.
 Quartette members are Gail Forman, Nancy Eaton, James Houk and Jack Taylor.
 Plymouth had three other entries in the state competition which was open only to winners of first-division rating on the district level. They were a saxophone duet composed of Gail Forman and Nancy Eaton, awarded first-division superior rating; a flute solo by Sally Williams which won the second-division (excellent) rating and William Taylor's sousaphone solo, also a second-division winner.
 Medals with blue ribbons will be awarded those in first-division and medals with red ribbons for second-division winners.

ADMIRING the trophy that will be awarded April 17 to the winner of the Teen-Age Road-E-O are two teen-agers, Don Manion, right, and Angie Ribar, left. Harold Evans, center, is treasurer of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the event. Teen-agers will compete for the rotating trophy and other prizes by going through a driving test judged by the Plymouth police department.

Mr. and Mrs. Rexford Purkey of Sheridan avenue, arrived home Monday from their vacation at Hollywood Beach, Florida.

SOCIAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Wileon of Pine street returned home Monday after visiting their daughter, Mrs. John Fry and family in Naperville, Illinois. They were present when their new grandchild arrived on March 11. Enroute from Naperville they visited with cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Bush in Quincy.
 Mr. and Mrs. George Stubbs of Detroit were dinner guests, Sunday, of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Brown on Mill street.

Burt Boyar IN NEW YORK

Ed Sullivan was given a fabulous testimonial dinner by the Friars Club Thursday night, at the Waldorf. Every celeb within a thousand miles was there and some came from ever further than that. Phil Silvers started the brawl rolling when he got up to introduce the toastmaster, Joe E. Lewis. "I'm not allowed to talk about Ed Sullivan," complained Silvers. "My job is only to introduce the toastmaster. That's all I'm supposed to do. I'm a bundle of frustration... Ed and I live in the same hotel. It's the only place in the world where you're awakened by telephone operators giving Sunday's 'Trendex'."

Joe E. then took over. Lewis turned to the guest of honor. "Ed is a wonderful man. He has a wonderful face. He can light up a whole room just by leaving it... Sullivan is a writer on a par with Runyon and Steinbeck, a producer like Ziegfeld. He'll go down in history with Jefferson, Franklin, Lincoln and Mercury."

Mitchum came in at the half way mark... Cyd Charisse wore a beautiful green gown which prompted Joe E. to remark, "Now I know what happened to my pool table!"... Teresa Brewer, the Oscar Hammersteins, Sol Hurok, Julia Mead (natch) helped add atmosphere. And, on the level, seated at Table 24 was Tax Cumings!

John Daly finally 'ot his chance. He looked around at the array of comedians, on the dais, Phil Silvers, Joe E. Lewis, Buddy Hackett, Red Buttons, Jan Murray, Henry Youngman and Fat Jack E. Leonard. He turned to the audience and said, "I'm a conformist. I feel called upon to tell a joke. But my mother told me, 'When you're in over your head keep your mouth shut.'" His tribute was short and sweet. Red Buttons got on, turned to Lewis and said, "You're drunk, but you're beautiful."

Lewis leaped to the mike, indignant, and said, "I resent you calling me a drunk. I don't deny it, but I resent it..." Buttons then told about his mother, "A great TV fan. She loves Ed Sullivan." He summed up, "and so does her son."

Edward R. Murrow had come over from his nightly work at CBS. Lewis introduced him as, "The only peeping Tom with a sponsor."

Mr. Murrow, one of the few wearing a business suit rather than black tie, apologized, "Excuse me for being out of uniform." He then eyed Sullivan for a moment and added, "There ARE those of us who can make a living and pay off the deficit on a farm by working only one night a week."

Murrow's tribute was as distinguished and elegant as you would expect it to be.

Joe E. returned to the scene... He introduced Carmine De Sapio who brought greetings from Governor Harriman.

Mr. de Sapio, intending well, but far less talented than his predecessors, made up the difference in verbosity. After the first 15 minutes of the eulogy the audience began to talk, too. Finally, he finished. Joe E. returned, paused, waited for silence and said, "You are so right!" He brought down the house.

Rise Stevens came next and addressed one song to Ed Sullivan, appropriately entitled, "One Night of Love."

Otto Harbach was introduced as "The dean of the librettists." "That's no compliment," he remarked, "all you have to do to become dean of something is live long enough."

Eddie Fisher got up and spoke a few words. Joe E. Lewis then called him back to sing, "I'm not prepared," apologized Fisher.

Later, Tony Martin was introduced and asked to sing. He turned to Fisher and asked, "Why didn't you sing, Eddie?" Martin, also unprepared, then unlimbered a few and no one loved him more than Cyd Charisse who didn't take her eyes off him.

The party went on and on, but unfortunately we couldn't stay. We weren't able to hear Ed Sullivan's own speech. After the masterful toastmastering of Joe E. Lewis, and the overwhelming, enviable tribute, it must have been a tough one to make.

Recreation Department Kept Busy Making Plans for Spring, Summer

No shortage of work is being endured by the local recreation office this week as the shift from winter to spring sports is being prepared, reported Recreation Director Herb Woolweaver Friday.

He explained that plans for the various softball leagues are being made while other activities which fall under the category of "recreation" are being made ready to put into action. Among these latter items is the summer playground, work on the multiple-purpose tennis courts behind the high school and also the fall adult education schedules.

Most immediate on the long adult and recreation work slate is the completion of final plans involving the elementary softball league, which will begin April 23 with opening games. Seven schools will each be represented in the conference, six of which are Smith, Bird, Allen, Starkweather, Catholic Day and Lutheran. The seventh team in the league is a combined contingent from the Canton-Cherry Hill-Tuesdale district which was recently consolidated. It will be called the Canton Hill squad.

Woolweaver said that already inquiries have been made about the "A" and "B" men's softball leagues which will get underway early in the summer. Both conferences should begin the week of June 4. A call for sponsors was issued by the department recently and a new such representative has shown interest. It is the Chevrolet spring and bumper plant on Eckles road.

Louise Cigile, who was playground director last year, is making arrangements for a high school girl's intra-mural softball league which will start when better weather arrives.

This girl's loop will be conducted after school until the scholastic year comes to an end.

In the meantime, the men's gym classes continue on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the Plymouth high school gymnasium from 8 to 10 p.m. under the direction of Dick Huebler, who recently closed his season as local recreation basketball league supervisor.

These moderate athletic workouts will last as long as the participants show sufficient interest to continue the set-up, said Woolweaver. He added that the Badminton gatherings on Monday nights from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. also will last as long as interest merits. Bill Baker is in charge of this recreation program.

With regard to the multiple purpose tennis courts which were constructed last year behind the high school, Woolweaver explained that the investment will begin to make itself realized this season.

In order to accommodate further sports on the courts, plans are being prepared to put up four basketball nets on the site for out-of-door summertime cagers. The area is used as a skating rink in the winter time. Handball courts may also be utilized on the area if sufficient reason for them is seen.

The recreation department recently let a contract to the Wayne Fence company to build a 12-foot link wire protective fence around the tennis courts, a move that was earlier okayed by the local board of education. Tennis will begin as soon as weather permits.

The recreation department has had its hands full in past weeks laying plans for an even more extensive summer playground program than the highly successful one conducted last year.

Special emphasis on leadership will be the by-word with the program this year, said Woolweaver. His department has already employed men from the local school system to supervise the various play areas.

At the Bird school location will be Mac Pierce; at Starkweather, Bill Foster; at Allen, Bill Harding; at Central, John Sandmann. Along with the Green Meadows area, these play sites will undertake a new schedule this year.

Each will remain open from June 18 to August 10 for eight weeks of recreation play. Instead of the 12-4 hours of last year, the playgrounds will this season open at noon and last until 8 p.m.

There also will be a travelling arts and crafts teacher who will stop at all of the various play sites. He is David McKay.

Several girls, of college or high school age, will be employed to assist the playground leaders in the coming summer program.

Other play areas are: Hamilton street, Auburn and Junction. Hough school, and the alternating Tuesdale and Cherry Hill location. Hours for these will be: Hough school, six-weeks program from noon to 4 p.m.

Woolweaver is waiting to learn the results from a questionnaire sent out by his department earlier which could result in the teaching of either French or Spanish at the playgrounds this summer.

The plan is to employ a language teacher who will instruct both children and parents in either French or Spanish depending on the preference of the persons who received this questionnaire. The teacher will travel around the various play areas each day, spending an hour at each.

A preferable age of the children who might enroll in such a course would be between the third and sixth grades. However, it was explained that other ages would be acceptable if parents desired. The mothers and fathers could also participate in this schooling if they wished.

Semi-Lull Settles Over Plymouth's Sports Scene

A semi-lull settles over the Plymouth high school athletic program this week as the coaching personnel contents itself with mild indoor workouts for both spring sports while awaiting the onset of the weather necessary for track and baseball season.

The Rock's find themselves between athletic campaigns during this two-week period which marks the transition from winter to spring competition.

Keith Baughman, aided by John McFall, is giving moderate indoor drills to his thinned hopefuls at the same time keeping his weather eye peeled for the arrival of more reasonable climate at which time he plans to move outdoors for normal track practices.

McFall heads up a sizable group of track aspirants during the last hour of school in the local gymnasium. When Baughman concludes his regular duties as shop instructor, he joins his cohort in administering thinned loosening up exercises.

In the meantime Charlie Ketterer, who closed his cage season two weeks ago, is preparing a schedule of practices for the Plymouth baseball team. Ketterer held an initial meeting of diamond players Monday intending to start drills sometime this week.

Plymouth high school Athletic Director John Sandmann once again takes over the duties of head golf coach and he, too, is forced to wait for better weather before he can begin links training in preparation for the coming battling.

Football Coach John "Mike" Hoben is reported to be in charge of the freshman baseball squad depending on the turnout for this sport as to whether or not there will be a ninth-grade team.

Opening dates for the three athletics this spring: track-April 12; golf-April 16; baseball-April 20.

Goodwill Tour Reveals Fascinating Industry

The PLYMOUTH MAIL

Thursday, March 29, 1956

IT'S NO TRICK to keep the S. S. (Jim) Blackman family of 127 South Mill amused when Pop can give a quick rendition on either accordion, guitar, saxophone or clarinet. Above listening to an impromptu performance are (from left) Petey, 3; Danny, 4; and Willie, 1. Mrs. Blackman, equally musical, studied voice and is now with the Plymouth Civic chorus. She also hopes to join her husband in membership with the local Theatre Guild. The couple met in Germany where both were stationed—she with the State department and he with the U. S. Army of occupation. Blackman is fifth grade teacher at Jefferson school, Livonia. The family moved here November 5 from Ann Arbor.

Ever wonder what happened to those old duds, pots, pans and other household items you earmarked for Goodwill after spring housecleaning?

Well, the Mail reporter got to wondering and so hitched a ride down to Goodwill headquarters at 6522 Brush in Detroit for a look-see.

One of 118 such centers throughout the U. S., Detroit's "Workshop for the Handicapped" ranks second to Los Angeles, largest Goodwill in the country. Here, in a four-story plant Detroit Goodwill's 400 handicapped employees renovate and repair your discarded items for sale in the five retail stores in various parts of the city or one adjacent to its main plant on Brush.

A non-profit, self-supporting organization, Goodwill last year grossed $1,193,000 and paid over $885,451 in wages to its workers—all through sale of renovated articles in its retail stores.

From its office staff of 20 down to plant employees and workers in the retail stores are handicapped individuals—the blind, deaf, aged, physically disabled, speech impaired and even tuberculosis recoveries unable to work full time jobs. Every race, color and creed is represented on the employee roster.

Available to workers in the main plant are health services, a chapel, lounge, recreation room and cafeteria offering such items as soup at 5 cents, bread at a penny and vegetables, 6 cents.

Time clocks everywhere, cleanliness of the building and its operations indicate an efficient and modern business enterprise. Plant hours are 8 to 4:30 weekdays. Retail stores are open from 9 to 5 six days a week.

Taking a tour of the plant it is not unusual to see a supervisor working from a wheel chair, an amputee head of another department or crutches beside an employee at one of the machines.

Discards collected by Goodwill's 24 trucks are brought by conveyor belt from the first-floor delivery entrance up to the second floor where they are sorted into minutely-classified bins. From this area, those out of season are stored for later use, the timely ones sent on to various departments.

Clothing is taken to be washed or dry-cleaned, pressed on one of seven or eight ironing boards, deposited in bins before rows of sewing machines for stitching, put on a hangar, labeled as to retail store and price marked.

In the contract department, irons for Detroit Edison customers pass through Goodwill for repair at the rate of approximately 1,000 a week. Supervisor is a Detroit Edison man, hired specifically for this purpose. Distribution transformers for Michigan Bell are also repaired, often as many as 250 a week. Salvage work on electrical parts, sorting and cleaning of construction bolts are other Goodwill jobs in addition to custom-work on fireplace screens for J. L. Hudson customers.

Up in furniture it's commonplace to find a seeing-eye dog seated beside a blind employee caning chairs, a 78-year-old cabinet maker sanding a table, another employee spray-painting a perambulator while next to him a worker drops a small chair into the finish-removing vat.

Radio and television workers are busy near shoe repair, a shop similar to any you might find in Plymouth.

Down in the retail shop the finished products go on display, antiques in a brick-walled area, clothing on J. L. Hudson mannequins or arranged on racks, shoes by the pair, household appliances, dishes and glassware. A toaster, hand-operated is tagged 75 cents, while automatics sell for $2 and $3. Floor heaters are $4. Near jewelry, old silver spoons, and three or four cases of books, stands a colonial chest at $3 with a pair of matching chairs at $5. A tea caddy, $20, and electric organ at $35 are close by children's toys, bicycles, dolls and wagons displayed in the front window.

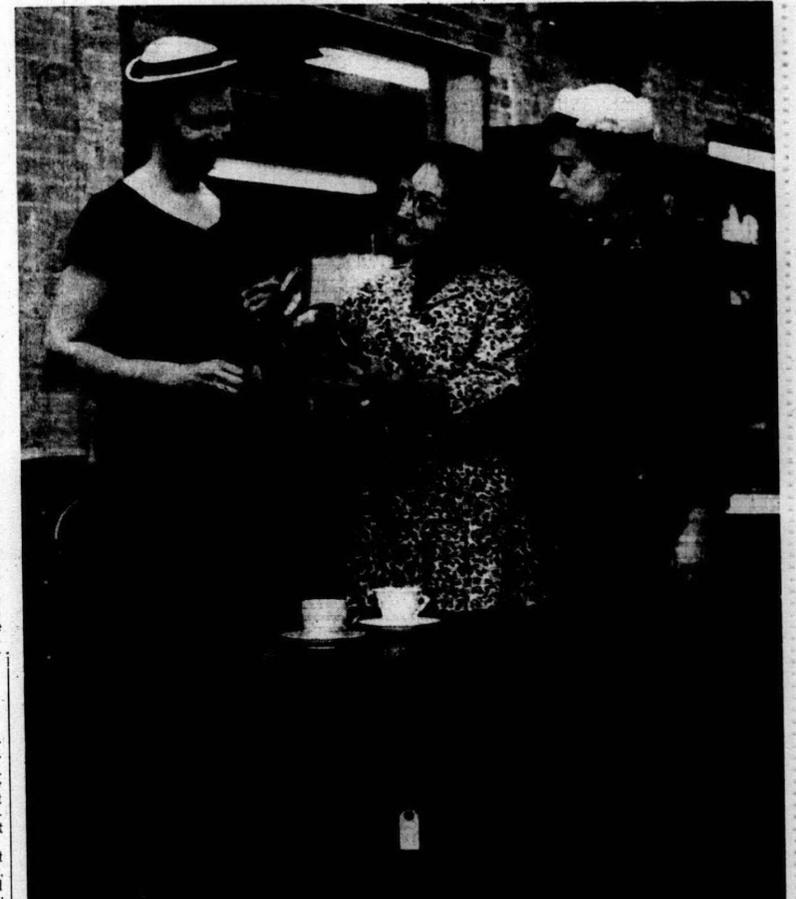

Goodwill seeks public support of its organization only through contribution of useable home discards and patronizing of its retail stores. Discards have been termed the "lifeline" of Goodwill for providing employment for the handicapped, their income and funds for maintenance of their plant. Goodwill trucks stop every other Monday in Plymouth, Miss Edith Sorenson at Northville 571 local telephone representative, will be glad to take your call.

Danol to Head VFW

Ray Danol was elected commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mayflower Post No. 6695, at a meeting Wednesday evening, March 21, at the post hall on Lilley road. William Norman becomes the immediate past commander.

Other new officers elected at the meeting were John Schwartz, senior vice commander; Edward Olson, junior vice commander; Gerald Krumm, quartermaster; and Jack Olsaver, chaplain. Installation will be held in mid-April.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kincaid of this city and Mrs. Dora K. Ellis of Detroit will be entertained at dinner, Sunday, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Orr in Farmington.

ADMIRING AN ITEM from the Antiques department of Goodwill's main retail store, 6522 Brush, Detroit, are Mrs. George Schmemman of North Territorial, left, member of Junior Goodwill volunteer organization, and Barbara Nos, reporter for The Mail at right. Mrs. Nettie Grate is the Goodwill employee. The Detroit branch of the national organization founded 1902 in Boston, marked its 35th anniversary of service to the handicapped this month.

Chips from the ROCK

March 19, 1956

Dear Sterling:

Just as I am leaving for a short vacation I have read your column about the threat of shopping centers to old established retail areas such as exist in Plymouth and Northville. It is one of the best articles of this nature I have seen and I hope our respective communities can be made to see what may lie ahead and take action soon enough to protect themselves.

Cordially,

Glenn H. Cummings,
Publisher, The Northville Record

Proof of the fact that there is a growing feeling about a complete re-evaluation of our present school building programs throughout the country was the subject of The Lapeer County Press' excellent feature, "The Farm Column." Editor Bob Meyers pinpoints some good clear thinking along the same lines we mentioned last week and we think it worthy of repeating here.

WE SPEND $400 a year to send our five-year-old to a private school—Kingsbury in Metamora Township. It's expensive, inconvenient and it separates her from the children of her own community with whom she might better be growing up.

SO, THE THREE reasons why we send her are, to us, important. They are:

(1) Kingsbury has fewer students per room than in the over-crowded Lapeer school system.

(2) The Kingsbury teachers are better than SOME of our public school teachers because it's easier to hire good teachers for an uncrowded school.

(3) Kingsbury places greater emphasis upon the teaching of responsibility and greater emphasis upon the three R's.

THE THIRD REASON is one we can't do much about at the local level. What and how our children are taught is decided upon at the colleges which train our teachers and school administrators. But the first two reasons—overcrowding and teacher quality—are our own local responsibility.

WE BELIEVE they are basic—the very first requirements we must fulfill in providing an adequate school system.

WE CANNOT AGREE with any school system which sends out a bus to save children a walk of half a mile, then dumps 43 of them in front of one teacher. We think it wrong to operate a summer camp and station wagons, and talk about swimming pools and 60-acre campuses, as long as we have a single poor teacher or a single classroom with more than 30 students.

KINGSBURY is an abandoned century-old country school. A low-cost frame addition has been added. Floors are asphalt tile, not terrazzo. There is no playground equipment. There is no cafeteria; the children carry their lunches. There is no gymnasium, no principal's office—not a single frill unless you can say that of a gaily-painted wall. Total investment, including sewage and water systems and equipment, is $30,000. The size is the equivalent of a normal two-room school.

It's not that Kingsbury doesn't want some of the luxuries. The trustees are planning now to add a few of them as they can accumulate the money. But the point is, Kingsbury trustees made sure the brains were taken care of before they worried about the bricks.

ALTHOUGH KINGSBURY offers none of the luxuries, parents of modest means are pinching pennies to send their children there. And millionaires are sending their children too, even though brick and marble educational monuments are available to them.

WE LIVE in a materialistic country. We judge success by what we can see—and generally all we can see is the paycheck, the Cadillac and the number of bathrooms. We've fallen into the habit of judging our schools that way. If we get limed oak woodwork and the latest in foot-controlled laboratories, we're satisfied we've done right by the kids.

WE DON'T STAY to see how many are jammed into each room. Nor do we note that the teachers are hard to hire because they dislike crowded classrooms, and that wages are only high enough to get teachers—any teachers.

A swimming pool? Nothing's too good for the kids, we say, and we're so busy congratulating ourselves on our generosity that we neglect to learn whether a swimming pool means a dozen less classrooms.

WE HAVE no quarrel with the grandest dreams of the most starry-eyed of our school planners. We only want to get first things first. For even though we're given a swimming pool on every floor and a private bath for every child, we will still keep right on shelling out $400 a year to Kingsbury.

WE WILL keep it up until we get a school system that recognizes that the first function of a school is to teach. A school system that recognizes the two prime requirements of a good school—a good teacher and a load she can handle.

THE TRUE MESSAGE OF EASTER

State's "Service" Budget Hits 325 Millions

It will take $325,000,000 to meet the general fund budget for state government next year, and that isn't all.

Restricted funds for 1956-57—like the automatic two-thirds of the sales tax which goes to schools—will run the total figure up to something like $750,000,000.

The smaller figure is the state's "working capital" which pays for the work-a-day services the state provides for its citizens.

Governor Williams asked for $369,000,000, and Republican finance leaders in the legislature first figured they could cut the governor's request to $310,000,000.

As the session heads into the last stages, the budget is being bloated by last-minute necessities and it is pointing toward the $325,000,000 figure.

Republicans, with that size of budget, will be releasing a record amount to run state government, despite the cuts in requests submitted by Williams.

"We will continue to pay for government, but without frills," said Senator Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield).

The $2,000,000 for purchase of Salk vaccine inoculations in the state's anti-polio program is still intact.

Governor Williams has signed a legislative bill extending the deadline for spending the money from Feb. 29 of this year to June 30, 1957.

At the same time state money made available last spring, the federal government announced subsidies.

The shots, already given free to thousands of school children, were financed from federal funds. So, Michigan money can handle the program for the next year or so.

Legislators have virtually dropped any idea of providing themselves a pension.

The bill was approved by the House, 83 to 22, but it ran into trouble immediately in the Senate where it was condemned almost immediately by the appropriations committee.

It would provide a legislator a pension after serving for four years, up to a maximum of $2,000 after 16 years of service. Wives could get the same rate if lawmakers paid an additional two per cent as their contributions.

The bill would cost the state up to $200,000 a year until the pension system was actually sound. Republicans in the senate turned thumbs down on the idea.

"We just can't abuse taxpayers this way," said Senator Lewis G. Christman (R-Ann Arbor).

Pressure for pay raises and pension systems started after 1949 when voters approved a proposition on the ballot to empower legislators to fix their own salaries. They were getting $3 a day then.

Now the pay is $4,000 a year in addition to a $1,000 a year expense account.

In addition to the proposed pension plan, there was a bill in the House to raise the salary to $5,000. With expenses, this would give legislators $6,000 a year.

That proposal is dead.

Legislators are still discussing whether to restore discretionary powers over the deer herd to the state department of conservation.

Only, now the controversy is in a conference committee of House and Senate members—the last stages of legislative battle.

The powers ran out last year after three years and a complaint among some sportsmen's groups that an "any-day" season to deplete the deer herd to fit its food supply was "slaughter."

The proposal to restore the powers came back this year with the same arguments—to turn the management of the deer herd back to the experts in the state department of conservation.

It was killed in a House committee, but the Senate revived the idea with an amendment to another game bill. The House tacked on a series of amendments that made the issue just one of many.

Back in the Senate, the bill brought new objections and it was sent to a conference committee. This technique narrows the controversy to three members of each chamber.

Senator Charles T. Prescott (R-Prescott) said it was all right with him. He believes that "some sort of compromise" can come out of the conference committee.

So, whether the conservation department gets its powers back is still a major legislative question.

It will be decided in the last week of the session, and it may not be decided at all this session.

Sees Benefit to Industry in Shortweek

Babson Park, Mass. Today's news features on automatic factories, cheap atomic power, and political uncertainties are grist for the labor unions. Their leaders are saying these things will cause unemployment and that the only cure for unemployment is a shorter workweek. Talk is of a 30-hour week; but my guess is the first move will be to a 36-hour week—then a 32-hour week.

WHAT ABOUT AUTOMATIC FACTORIES?

Factories have constantly become more automatic for the past fifty years. The great advance, however, has come with the development of electronics. Some industries, such as the oil-refining industry, have already become eighty per cent automatic; it has had no unemployment and is paying the highest wages ever. Union labor leaders cannot yet show that the automatic factory is causing unemployment.

In the long run, automation may bring a shorter work-week; but the change will be slow. The rebuilding of a manufacturing plant to be self-operating is very expensive. Thousands of consolidations must take place before such revolutionary changes will come about. There, however, will be more opportunities for new companies which can start from the ground up with the very latest automatic machinery. However, my chief purpose this week is to suggest certain industries which should definitely benefit from a shorter work-week.

LEISURE BENEFICIARIES

Best known is Spalding (A. G.) & Bros., one of the largest manufacturers of baseball, basketball, football, golf, tennis, and skiing products. Headquarters in Chicopee, Massachusetts. Last year their stock paid $0.50 (and 5% stock) and now sells at about $19. Brunswick - Balke - Collender, largest manufacturer of bowling alleys, billiard tables, and gymnasium equipment. Main office in Chicago. Common paid $0.25 (plus 5% stock) last year and sells around $28.

Stanley Warner Corp., one of the best movie theatre companies, interested in Cinema. Subsidiary manufacturers latex products. Offices are at 1585 Broadway, New York City. It paid $1.00 last year and sells around $16.

Manhattan Shirt Co., one of the largest manufacturers of shirts, for both men and women, and of other forms of clothing such as pajamas, neckwear, and sportswear. Head office is at 444 Madison Avenue, New York. Stock paid $1.85 last year and sells around $37.

McCall Corp., one of the leading publishers of fashion magazines; also controls REDBOOK. It operates a large dress-pattern business and does a large amount of printing for READER'S DIGEST, NEWSWEEK, U. S. NEWS, etc. McCall should benefit from a shorter work-week for women. It paid $1.20 last year and sells at about $21.

American News Company,

large distributor of magazines, newspapers, and paper-covered books. It has valuable concessions at railroad, airplane, and bus terminals, serving tourists. Reading will increase with the shorter work-week. Headquarters are at 131 Varick Street, New York City. It paid $1.50 last year and sells at about $32.

THE "DO-IT-YOURSELF" BUSINESS

All companies catering to the "do-it-yourself" trade should benefit from the shorter work-week. I especially have in mind the American Machine & Foundry Company, 261 Madison Avenue, New York City, and the Black & Decker Manufacturing Company, of Towson, Maryland.

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

One question, sometimes controversial, sometimes personal is asked each week by The Mail of four pedestrians along Plymouth's downtown streets. This week's guests are "thinking out loud" on the question:

"A few months ago, a 12-year-old boy won $100,000 on a television quiz show. After taxes, he had about $35,000. What would you do with $35,000 if you had won it?"

JERRY KOLAK, 47035 Territorial Road (9th grade): "Well, I'd save some of it. I'd like to spend some on camping equipment and get a motor scooter. And I would use some to go to college. I would go to the U of M and take up veterinary medicine or teaching."

DOUG STEELE, 1150 Dewey (8th grade): "I'd give some to my grandma and grandfather. I'd put most of it in the bank for college. And I would like to buy some sports equipment like balls and a skin diving suit. But most of it I would save."

GALE DEACE, 946 Wing (10th grade): "I would save some for my future plans after high school. Then I would buy some new clothes."

CAROLYN CROWELL, 848 South Harvey (10th grade): "I would save some for my future education. Either I would give some to needy cases or save it all until I needed it."

FIRE POLICY - EXTENDED COVERAGE

Note: The following is a continuation of the Basic Fire Policy explained in the first and third installments of this series of advertisements.

EXTENDED COVERAGE ENDORSEMENT MEANS the following perils are covered: WINDSTORM, HAIL, EXPLOSION, RIOT, RIOT ATTENDING A STRIKE, CIVIL COMMOOTION, AIRCRAFT, VEHICLES, SMOKE. Under this endorsement, nine perils are added to the basic policy. The named perils above are substituted for the word "FIRE" in the policy.

This endorsement merely extends the coverage to include the above perils, it does not increase the face amount of the policy in any way and has to be written on the same face amount of the fire insurance coverage. It can be added to the policy at any time, but never cancelled unless the whole policy is cancelled. The policy should show a separate premium charged for this coverage.

WINDSTORM—Loss or damage due to high wind is covered including tornado, cyclone, etc. EXPLOSION—The company is liable for all explosion losses except the explosion, rupture, or bursting of steam boilers, and other steam equipment owned, operated or controlled by an insured or located in the described building. RIOT, RIOT ATTENDING A STRIKE, CIVIL COMMOOTION—In the basic Fire Policy, Riot is excluded except if fire ensues, under this endorsement, the policy is extended to cover direct damage caused by riot or civil commotion. AIRCRAFT AND VEHICLES—Covers loss or damage caused by actual physical contact of an aircraft or vehicle with the property insured under the policy or with the building containing the property. Excluded is any loss caused by a vehicle owned or operated by an insured or a tenant. SMOKE—Only a specified kind of "smoke" is covered. Only smoke due to a sudden, unusual, and faulty operation of a heating or cooking unit when such unit is connected to a chimney by a smoke pipe, and while in or on the described premises. Smoke from fireplaces or industrial appliances is NOT covered. Smoke from a hostile fire is covered under the basic Fire insurance policy.

The foregoing is subject to all individual policy provisions.

IN THE COURTS
Question: Where no notice was given either company of trade of cars by boys, each of whom was buying a car in his mother's name, and no notice of subsequent accident was given for six months, would company be liable?
Answer: Two boys, each buying his car in his mother's name and each being insured, traded cars. They interchanged the license plates on the cars, but no notice of the exchange was given either insurance company.

Later one of the cars was involved in an accident. A personal injury action was filed against the minor driver and owner and against the mother of the former owner of the car.

The policy required the insured to give immediate notice of an accident and, if this wasn't possible, to give notice as soon as reasonably possible. In this case, no notice was given the company for more than six months. The court pointed out that it had previously decided that notice given more than a month after an accident was not reasonable, and that the provision for immediate notice in the policy meant notice should be given within a reasonable time under the circumstances of each case.

Since notice was not given within a reasonable time, declaratory judgment was entered in favor of the company holding it not liable for the accident.

Note: If any of our readers have any questions on insurance problems, we will be glad to answer them in this article or by direct letter if you so indicate. Address all questions to The Plymouth Mail, attn: Editorial page Editor, Plymouth, Mich.

DAR Hear Congressman, Australian at State Conference

Six members of the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, heard Alven M. Bentley, congressman from the eighth district, and Dr. Fred F. Schwarz of Australia as principal speakers for the DAR state conference held recently in Jackson.

Local DAR attending were Mrs. Claude A. Crusoe, regent, and Mrs. A. W. Hahn of Northville, Plymouth residents Mrs. Robert B. Willoughby, Mrs. Harry Deyo, Mrs. Walter C. Gemperline, Mrs. Earl Mastick of Milford and Mrs. Dwight Randall of Detroit. Mrs. Frazier Carmichael, Good Citizens chairman, escorted the five Good Citizens from this area to the conference program and luncheon held in their honor.

Bentley spoke on "National Legislation of Importance," discussing the Bricker amendment, Status of Forces treaty and McCarran-Walters Immigration act. In his topic of communism, Schwarz stressed the steady impact of communist literature on this and other countries of the Free World. Beautifully-illustrated primers and comic books are available at low cost, he pointed out, at nearly every port of entry in the U. S. and in midwestern cities such as Detroit. Schwarz emphasized the need for the Free World to be as equally adept in spreading democracy as the Russians are in their creed.

Current project of the local DAR is to sell an American flag to every home for display on national patriotic days. Mrs. Harry Deyo is chairman of this project.

Honored guests at the state meeting were Mrs. Frederick A. Groves of Missouri, candidate for president general in the April 15-19 DAR national election; Faustine Dennis of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Lowell E. Burnelle, Ohio; and Mrs. Leroy Hufey, Maine.

Miss Sharon Weike of Jackson, one of 300 candidates for the title, received the state DAR Good Citizenship award at the meeting.

Rites Read In Cherry Hill

A waltz-length gown of imported chantilly lace was the selection of Joyce Louise Buchner for her marriage to Raymond E. Schultz on Saturday evening, March 24, at the Cherry Hill Methodist church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Buchner of 50378 Cherry Hill road and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schultz of 48825 Proctor road. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

An altar graced with baskets of white gladioli, snapdragons and candelabra formed the setting for the nuptial rites, read at 7:30 by the Reverend George T. Nevin. The bridal gown was styled with fitted, pointed basque bodice, V-neckline edged with scallop of lace and long sleeves. The skirt fell gracefully in unpressed pleats and was finished at the hemline with self scallops. The bride's fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a coronet of beading. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses centered with detachable corsage of pink roses.

Joan Buchner, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore an embroidered, waltz-length gown of maize crystalette. She carried a colonial bouquet of chrysanthemums and carnations with detachable corsage.

Mrs. Donald Faust, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Robert Richards were bridesmaids. Their gowns were styled identically to the maid of honor's but were aqua in shade.

A steel-blue taffeta dress with pink accessories was selected by Mrs. Buchner for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue, boucle dress with white accessories. Each wore a corsage of pink roses.

George Schweigert, performed the services of best man. Ushers were Elba Trowbridge, the bride's uncle, and Ross Hauk, uncle of the bridegroom.

Miss Nancy West, organist, accompanied Nancy Trowbridge in the selections of "Always" and "I Love You Truly" at the wedding ceremony.

Two hundred guests were in attendance at the reception held in the church parlors. Represented were those from Plymouth, Ypsilanti, Detroit, Adrian, Gibraltar, Milaa, South Lyons and Dearborn.

For going-away the bride wore a light blue suit with pink and beige accessories and the corsage from her bouquet. A tour of the southern states was planned as the wedding trip.

The couple will reside at 10090 Martz road in Ypsilanti. Both are graduates of Ypsilanti high school. The bride is employed at Burroughs corporation in Plymouth and the bridegroom at Trilex in Wayne.

Serve Guests Easy Fruit Pie

Delicious is the word for this fruit pie—a variation on a favorite gelatin dessert. Winter or summer it's the perfect choice for a delightful closing to any meal.

Mrs. Roy Clark of 236 Union gives us the recipe and endorses the fact that the dessert justly comes by its name, "Easy Fruit Pie." It's a snap to whip up and a real boon to busy homemakers. Although the choice below is strawberries, other fruits do equally well as substitutes.

Here's the recipe:

- Easy Fruit Pie
- 1 nine-inch pie shell
 - 1 package lemon jello
 - 1 1/4 cups boiling water
 - 1 pint vanilla ice cream
 - 1 cup frozen or fresh strawberries, sliced
- Dissolve jello in boiling water. Stir in ice cream while jello is hot. After this is dissolved, place in refrigerator until mixture begins to thicken but not set. Remove and add strawberries. When slightly thickened, pour into cool pie-shell.

Enjoying an afternoon's visit with her granddaughter, four-year-old Debbie Clark, is Mrs. Roy Clark of South Union. Preparations for "Easy Fruit Pie" are underway.

Lamb Adds Zest to Easter Brunch

Gay and perky as a spring bonnet is this Easter breakfast or brunch, served before or after church, as you choose. The menu—savory little lamb balls, made yesterday, to be heated in a mushroom-sourcream sauce, garnished with butter-browned pineapple slices and watercress, and partnered with piping hot coffee ring and a beverage.

- Savory Lamb Balls
Yield: 24 balls, 1 1/4 inches in diameter, for 6 servings.
- 1 pound ground lamb
 - 2 slices bread
 - 1/4 cup minced onion
 - 1 egg
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1/2 teaspoon thyme seasoning powder
 - 1 teaspoon cornstarch
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - butter or drippings for browning

Hold bread (dry if you have it) under running water long enough to moisten it. Squeeze out excess water. Whip it with a fork. Cook onion briefly in butter. Add to bread along with lamb and other ingredients. Mix until thoroughly combined.

Shape mixture in balls about the size of a large walnut, easier done if the hands are wet and a teaspoon is used for rounding up a scoop of the lamb. There should be 20 to 24 balls.

Brown in butter or drippings in skillet over moderate heat, turning balls carefully to have all sides browned evenly. Don't crowd. Remove the balls to a heavy saucpan as they are browned. Make sauce in skillet.

Sour Cream Sauce:

Add 2 tablespoons flour to 2 tablespoons drippings left from browning the lamb balls. Stir in well, then add 1 cup water or milk. Cook until thickened. Reduce heat. Stir in 1 cup dairy-sour cream, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt, and 1 teaspoon paprika. Add lamb balls and canned mushrooms, and simmer about 10 minutes. Serve hot.

For an unusual flavor, stir in 2 to 3 teaspoons curry powder along with the flour, omitting the paprika and mushrooms.

Low-Cost Tips For Remodeling Your Kitchen

A new season brings new ideas to many homemakers about remodeling their kitchens. Perhaps you have your heart set on a new range or refrigerator, or even new cabinets, but unless you have really set aside a savings for these things, an expert explains they often cost more than you plan. She suggests you take a good look at your kitchen and see how you can improve what you have. Here's a check list of see how your kitchen rates:

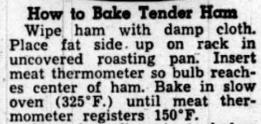

Could you provide for different work heights by using service carts, pull-out boards or reinforcing a drawer for mixing height? Being able to sit at your work does a lot for aching feet and backs and improves the disposition too, declares the specialist.

Could you rearrange your mixing, sink and range centers or equipment within these areas for greater working ease? Put food and equipment where they are used and those things used more often within the convenient reach area.

Maybe you could improve storage by adding shelves, racks, files and peg boards, and often additional lighting is needed in areas such as over the kitchen sink. Pin-up lamps and portable fluorescent strips serve well. While you are checking the lighting, you might also investigate the wiring in the whole house. With an improved wiring system, you may have fewer fuses to change and be able to use equipment in more convenient places.

POPULAR EASTER HAM

Baked ham goes with Easter the way turkey fits Thanksgiving. Served with sweet potatoes, it's a treat that's hard to beat.

How to Bake Tender Ham
Wipe ham with damp cloth. Place fat side up on rack in uncovered roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb reaches center of ham. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) until meat thermometer registers 150°F.

About forty-five minutes before ham is done, remove from oven. Skin and score fat diagonally. Glaze. Return to oven and finish baking.

Time Table for Baking Ham	Cut of Meat	Minutes per Pound
Whole tender ham

FASHION SUCCESSORIES—
The fashion pet of the year is the collar and belt set that adds glamour to simple frocks. This collar, when paired with a matching belt, is a shining example of the style trend. Both pieces are made of lacy crocheted scrolls joined together to perform wardrobe magic. Either plain crocheted cotton or spangled cotton does the trick. Shiny silver buttons are tacked in the center of each scroll for added appeal. The crocheting directions are available to you through the Needlework Department of this paper. To obtain a copy, simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for COLLAR AND BELT SET, Leaflet No. 114-07.

Spring Toppers Take Design From Slender Fashion Trend

What's new in topwear fashion this spring? Cropped jackets and slender coats in colors of navy blue and lively beige seem to be taking the spotlight, declares a clothing specialist at Michigan State university.

Coats, cut easy and straight, are really quite different from the short and finger-tip length coats we've been wearing the past few years. Some have tuxedo fronts with no fastening at all and some are buttoned. Although some coats are full, most are designed with a slim look to be worn over sheath dresses.

Interest in the coats may come from the fabric design, a Martingale belt or Empire closing or a large shawl collar or cape. Some of the summer coats, describes the specialist, are practically sleeveless—very light and airy. Fabrics range from silk to rayon to cotton and linen.

Cropped jackets are newest, but jackets range in length from a very brief bolero ending close under the bustline to the hip-bone length. The snug little bolero may cover a sleeveless scoop neckline type of dress or a slim dress with either cap or set-in sleeves. Boxy jackets, according to the expert, like slim or nipped-waist jackets, are equally popular and easy to wear. Bloused jackets and jacket dresses seem to be a part of the spring picture, too.

Navy and beige are the big basic colors this spring but all variations of these will be good.

BUILT-IN LININGS

Have you ever had a dress that cleans beautifully but looks horrible after it is pressed? Frequently the trouble lies with the built-in lining fabric—and this season there are many dresses designed with the built-in lining.

The National Institute of Drycleaning, Silver Spring, Maryland explains it this way. The dresses are made of a variety of fabrics—satin, taffeta, peau de soie, silk, baratheta. The lining fabric, usually a rayon marquisette or a marquisette made of rayon and nylon, is built into every seam of the garment. The dress fabrics used in these dresses are dimensionally stable—they do not shrink or stretch in drycleaning. But the lining fabric does shrink when it is drycleaned, causing the dress fabric to pucker at the seam lines. There is no way to press or finish the dress properly unless the entire garment is ripped apart and made over.

You may ask, "Who is responsible for such a problem?" Certainly the complaint cannot be leveled against the method of cleaning, because both fabrics are cleaned together, in the identical manner. The dress fabrics perform satisfactorily, the lining fabrics unsatisfactorily. The problem goes back to the dress manufacturer and the fabric manufacturer. Control of the shrinkage problem rests with the fabric manufacturer.

Timely Tips
If you use rubber gloves to protect your hands during spring housecleaning, here's a tip to help slip them on easily... blow into them, as you would a balloon, then sprinkle the insides with talcum powder and shake the gloves before putting them on. Keep Home Freezers Full For Economy of Operation

There's no economy in an empty or part-empty freezer. The more turnover of frozen foods in your home freezer, the greater the economy in using this appliance. It costs more than twice as much per pound to store 300 pounds of food for a year in a home freezer than to store and use 900 pounds from the same freezer during the year. This excludes the cost of the food itself. As more food is used and replaced in a freezer, storage costs are spread over a larger number of pounds, and cost per pound decreases. Certain fixed costs of freezer operation are relatively large compared to other costs, such as that for wrapping which vary with the amount of food handled by the freezer. Whether the freezer is empty or full, researchers have found that the electricity required to hold zero F. remains the same.

Besides amount of frozen food, the cost of electrical energy to operate a home freezer depends on the amount and effectiveness of its insulation, room temperature, size of the unit, temperature at which the freezer is operated, and of course, the cost of electricity.

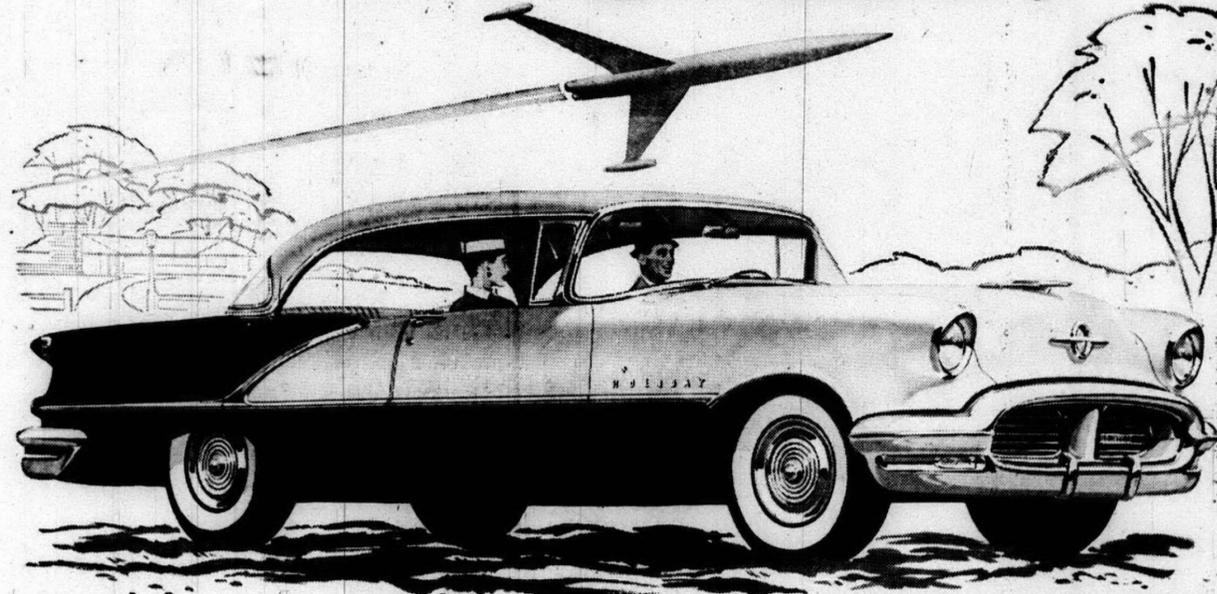

For the price of a dozen eggs you can cook twenty-four meals for a family of four on your electric range. And don't forget, only an electric range is "white-glove" clean. No wonder smart homemakers say:

"You can Live Better...Electrically"

ABOUT YOUR LAWN AND GARDEN

Gardening Qualifies as Top Family Hobby

Most new homes which have been built by the million in outlying sections of American cities are occupied by city-bred families who for the first time in their lives possess land on which they can grow gardens.

Their homes are built by professionals and delivered reasonably complete, but the grounds surrounding them, for which the new owners become responsible are usually in a sad state of dirt and disorder.

It may appall a city couple to look at this dirt and wonder how they can ever transform it into a lawn and garden.

But their discouragement will be short-lived if, on the first warm day of spring, they don working clothes, take up a rake, hoe or spade, and go out to become acquainted with their land, and make it beautiful and productive.

They will realize that what they feared would be a troublesome problem could become a rewarding adventure, and lead to a way of life more deeply satisfying than they had known before.

A love for the soil, and enjoyment of gardening, is born in man. The first do-it-yourself hobby of which there is a record was gardening. The Persian emperor Cyrus laid out a park in front of his palace at Sardis and proudly told Lysander, the Spartan, that his own hands had planted many of the trees. He was one of many do-it-yourself gardeners of high rank mentioned in history.

There is a vast difference between growing a garden, and admiring those grown by others. Many garden clubs require that their members be "dirt gardeners," who plant seeds with their own hands, and bring them to maturity by their own skill.

Experienced gardeners will agree that the keenest thrill from this hobby is felt when flowers bloom, or vegetables mature, on plants which grew from seeds sown by your own hands.

Whether this is a man's hobby or a woman's may sometimes be debated. The truth is that the pleasures, and work, of the garden can be shared by every member of the family.

Gardening has its artistic side, in the design of the garden, and the arrangement of flowers in its beds and borders, and in bouquets. It provides healthful, not too strenuous exercise in the sunshine and fresh air, not at a distant beach, but right in your own home grounds.

Children will share both the work and pleasure of the garden.

On a small plot most of the vegetables needed by the average family can be grown in less hours of work than it would take to shop for them in the market. These vegetables can be of a tenderness and flavor impossible to buy, because they can be served within minutes after they have been harvested.

Children need no coaxing to eat such vegetables, which when fresh are rich in the vitamins that are often lost on the way to market.

Decorative gardening not only rewards the gardener but adds substantially to the value of the home, and to the standing of the whole community. The social contacts which develop from activity in gardening are not the least of its rewards. The rapid expansion of the garden club movement among both men and women is based upon the spreading interest in this hobby.

Of the many advantages in the new life now enjoyed by so many American families, the opportunity to practice gardening qualifies as one of the greatest.

MSU Professors Seek to Develop Tastier Tobacco Without Nicotine

Cigarette smokers may soon get both the treat and the treatment—to borrow the ad man's language.

Research by two Michigan State university chemistry professors may result in pleasant tasting cigarettes with little or no dangerous nicotine.

Professors Richard U. Byerrum and Charles D. Hall are "smoking" an Indian tobacco grown at M.S.U. which has up to four times the amount of nicotine found in the usual American cigarette tobacco.

Actually the potent tobacco goes into test tubes for chemical analysis. What the scientists want to learn is the secret of what causes poisonous nicotine to develop in the tobacco plant.

With this secret unlocked they may be well on the way to developing a nicotine-free tobacco which still tastes good.

Other scientists already have been somewhat successful in breeding a tobacco plant low in nicotine and in destroying existing nicotine by chemical means.

Smokers did not like the taste of chemically-treated tobacco and the plant breeding methods are slow and costly, even though they recently produced an experimental tobacco only one-tenth as strong in nicotine as ordinary tobaccos.

Byerrum and Hall are using modern radioactive tracer techniques. They tag each oxygen, nitrogen and carbon atom in food and water given the Indian tobacco plants and then use a geiger counter to follow each substance as it is absorbed into the plant and turned into sugars, proteins and nicotine.

If the research is successful it may give an answer to those who seek a good tasting tobacco without poisons.

When it comes to buying a home tape recorder that is operated with ease by the youngest school-ager or the oldest adult in the family, more and more persons are turning to the new Ekotape recorder. It takes only a few minutes study of the clearly-marked control position, arranged conveniently on top of the unit, to master the speed control switch as well as the amplifier system.

New Stamp Soon on Sale

The new three-cent Booker T. Washington Centennial stamp will be placed on sale at the Plymouth post office about April 6, it was announced by Postmaster George Timpona.

Central design of the stamp portrays a cabin similar to the one in which Washington was born.

The weather is still one of life's greatest mysteries, and the experts still do not understand much that goes on above the earth's surface up to 50,000 feet, where weather ends.

Smelt catches in Michigan often reach unbelievable sizes. In one case 15 tons of the small fish were hand-dipped from a Michigan stream in 10 minutes.

Handy Jim's FIX-UP TIPS For the Home

To Remove Broken Handle...

THERE'S a simple, effective way to remove the broken off stub of a hammer, ax or hatchet handle. As described in Popular Mechanics, just cut off the remaining portion of the handle next to the head and drive out the balance with a pin punch. First, clamp the head in a vise. Then drive the punch into the wood at the cut end, making sure to locate it so that the steel wedges will be driven out first. This will loosen the wood, which then can be driven out in fragments.

This method is easier than trying to remove the entire section at one time with a large punch or by burning. The latter method will ruin a tempered hammer or ax head.

Cedar-Line Drawers

Moth-proof dresser drawers by lining them with aromatic red cedar closet lining. The fragrant cedar aroma keeps moths away from woollens and other items stored in the drawers. Readily available tongued grooves and grooved pieces of cedar make the job an easy one.

Families which live in apartments and have a woollen storage problem may find the solution in lining one or more dresser drawers with aromatic red cedar closet lining. The red cedar aroma protects woollens by repelling moths.

Aromatic red cedar is available at lumber yards in packages containing enough pieces of the wood to cover at least 32 square feet of the area. Each of the pieces is tongued and grooved for easy installation and tighter protection against moths and their larvae.

Lining a dresser drawer with red cedar is quite simple. Start with the bottom and finish with the sides. Place the first piece of the attractive wood lengthwise in the drawer, with the grooved end and side against the sides of the drawer. This procedure will make it easier to fit other pieces into place with a minimum of sawing. Use the same system on the sides. Nail each piece to the drawer with small finishing nails to secure them.

When the drawer lining is completed, it is ready for use. Do not paint or varnish the wood, since that would seal in the aroma which people enjoy but which is fatal to moths. Blankets, sweaters, fur coats and suits are just a few of the articles which can be protected in this manner.

Monthly Payment Plan Helps Ease Strain On Purse for Spring Painting Project

Do you know that you can buy paint—or have painting done—and pay for it monthly, out of your income? If you are aware of this fact, you're in a small and select company. A survey conducted by the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association showed that only 19% of the people interviewed knew that paint and painting could be purchased on a deferred payment plan.

Yet it's a simple matter to make such an arrangement. There are several means of doing it. How can you tell whether you're eligible to become a borrower? The answer is that you can apply for a loan, if you own the property which is to be improved. If you are not the holder of the title in fee, you must have an equity interest in the property under an instrument of trust or a purchase contract. Or, you must have a lease with a fixed term that expires not less than six calendar months after the loan matures.

You must, of course, be able to repay your loan in monthly installments—within thirty-six months or less. If you live in the country and are dependent upon your crops for your income, you can sometimes arrange to repay your loan at seasonal intervals.

What's an "approved dealer?" He's a dealer in building materials—and that includes paint, of course—and has filed an application with—and has been approved by—an insured lending institution. When he is thus established, he can finance sales under F. H. A.'s Title I. Once he is approved, the lending institution will supply him with the necessary forms which would include: (1) credit application; (2) note; (3) completion certificate and (4) gross charge and discount tables.

By contacting such an approved dealer and filling out the necessary forms, an eligible borrower can make arrangements for monthly payments without going near a lending institution.

The average voter knows little about the issues and less about the candidates.

Plymouth Chamber of Commerce Director Gives Spring Home Improvement Pointers

With spring around the corner, prudent home owners soon will be examining their homes critically, with a view toward repairing winter damage and getting started on planned improvements. Special emphasis is being placed upon making "56—The Year To Fix" through a year-long Operation Home Improvement which is sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the American building industry.

Citing a bulletin from the National Better Business Bureau, Edward Hart, Director of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, gave some pointers to home owners on how to deal with confidence with the reputable industry, and to secure full satisfaction in home improvement undertakings. The text of Mr. Hart's statement follows:

"Choosing a contractor of known reliability—one with whose reputation you are personally familiar; if at all possible, is of paramount importance. If you are personally unfamiliar with a contractor and his work, you should secure the names of a number of people in the immediate area who have availed themselves of the contractor's services, and whose work has now been completed for a reasonable period of time. A check should be made with these people to see if the contractor's work has held up satisfactorily. A reliable contractor is proud of his customer satisfaction. A check with the Chamber of Commerce should also be made.

"In addition, home owners might well proceed with caution in dealing with any salesman, dealer or contractor who does any of the following things:

- (1) Employs high pressure tactics, urging rapid or immediate decisions, and stating that there is some sort of urgent time limit on the offer being made.
- (2) Makes guarantees for periods of time exceeding those given by the manufacturers of the materials.
- (3) Overstates the merits of the product.
- (4) Inflates the price.
- (5) Uses the "bait and switch" technique.
- (6) Uses the "display house" pitch deceptively.
- (7) Fails to disclose that the figure which he quotes for the work does not include the cost of financing it.
- (8) "Knocks" or disparages his competitors.

"Homeowners wishing to make FHA-insured loans to undertake improvements on their homes should be sure that they understand the relation between their contractor, the bank and FHA. A clear understanding of this relationship will help to insure customer satisfaction, and will protect homeowners and the reputable industry alike from the unscrupulous activities of a few promoters in the field.

"To begin with, FHA does not provide the actual money. FHA's role is to provide insurance on your loan, to the lending institution which makes the money available to you. This makes it easier for home owners to obtain needed credit for making property improvements.

"FHA regulations require that, before an FHA-insured Title I Loan can be granted by a lending institution, that institution shall have "approved" the dealer or contractor involved in the operation. This approval shall be granted after such investigation as the lending institution considers necessary to establish that the dealer is reliable, financially responsible and qualified to perform satisfactorily work to be financed and to extend proper service to the customer.

"Several important points should be noted with regard to these regulations and arrangements.

"First, FHA does not inspect the work done by the contractor, nor does it guarantee in any way materials or workmanship. Many of the most prevalent schemes in the building field are built around the promoter's assurance that "the whole deal is backed by FHA." "FHA guarantees the work" or "You don't have to worry—this is a FHA job."

"Second, the home owner should also understand that the bank itself cannot guarantee the materials or workmanship, nor does it inspect the work performed.

"Third, it is clearly important for home owners to report unfavorable experiences with approved builders and contractors to the bank or lending institution from whom the money has been secured. This information can become part of the file which FHA regulations require the bank to maintain, and can be a significant factor in future evaluations of the contractor's eligibility for FHA-insured work.

Concluding his statement, Mr. Hart added, "The overwhelming majority of the American building industry, which is sponsoring Operation Home Improvement, can be relied upon to serve the public with honest values. The building few will attempt to exploit the inexperienced and the glib in their home remodeling and repair operations, can be successfully avoided if home owners will exercise caution in dealing with unknown contractors, and with unfamiliar business arrangements. Informed home owners will find that they can deal in confidence with the reputable industry in improving the utility and beauty of their homes."

MORE BATHROOM ROOM

Dividing your bathroom into several compartments is an expensive way to double its utility. All that is necessary is to enclose the toilet in one compartment and the bathtub in another says the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers' Association. Addition of twin lavatories equipped with countertops and cabinets plus sufficiently large mirrors are other essentials in getting the most out of the bathroom.

BUILDING AND REMODELING NEWS FOR EVERY HOME

What's Your Home's Electrical Power Inventory Are the Appliances and Wiring Up-to-Date?

Each time you touch a light switch or start an appliance, you buy and use electricity. It is sent to your home by way of power lines built, owned and maintained by the particular organization which supplies electricity in your community. You have your own electrical organization, too. This is the wiring system in your home which carries the power you "buy." It is your responsibility to see that it serves you well. Homeowners installing new bathrooms provide for pipes large enough to carry plenty of water—yet purchase and use additional electrical equipment without a single thought as to whether the electrical system in the home has the capacity to carry the "full load." Houses built during the last 20 years (and of course, those built earlier), rarely have the full benefit of adequate electrical wiring and generally are lacking the power to take care of today's irons, mixers, portable heaters, home appliances. In addition to your home's ceiling and wall lighting units, there are also floor lamps, table lamps and pin-up lamps normally connected to your existing electrical circuits... and many, many appliances. Some of the many appliances, now in use in modern homes, each of which employs valuable wattage, are listed here... How many of these do you have in your home today? Sun lamp? baker, bottle warmer, broiler-rotisserie? Clock, coffee maker, corn popper? Deep fat fryer, electric blanket, portable fan? Roaster, food blender, hair dryer? Steam or dry iron? And there are heating pads, irons, mixers, portable heaters, radios, record players, refrigerators, sandwich grills, toasters, waffle irons, sewing machines, shavers, T. V. sets, vacuum cleaners, waxer-polishers, and many others. Just think how many of these you may use at one and the same time! You can recognize the symptoms of overloaded circuits when you see your lights "blink" when the refrigerator or other appliance starts, when fuses blow when irons, toasters and other small appliances are slow in heating up, when motors seem sluggish... yes, when too many appliances draw from the same circuit, you can only draw a "trickle" of electrical power from them. Remember, you pay for electricity according to the length of time you use it... if appliances are slowed down, they must work "overtime"—and you pay "time and a half" for an overloaded wiring system when your bill is due. Whether you are planning to build or buy a new home, buying an older one, or remodeling the one you live in—check the wiring needs first. A reliable electrical contractor can tell you quickly the capacities of existing wiring. Adequate wiring in your home can help you secure a better mortgage... is a wise investment in safety... and in the long run an economy move... saving you extra money each year on your utility bills. But, don't fool with electricity yourself! You may be burned more ways than one.

HERE'S HOW...

BUILD A CLOSET

It is easy to build a closet with modern sliding doors for a room lacking closet space. Vary dimensions shown to meet individual needs, and to permit nailing of studs and top plates to wall studs and ceiling joists. Remove baseboard where closet will fit. Cut framing from 2 by 4-inch lumber and use 16-penny common nails to assemble framing and make attachments to wall. Bore pilot holes in top plates and ceiling to prevent cracking of plaster. Attach plates to floor and ceiling. Notch front studs full width, 1 3/4-inches deep, as shown, for front header. Toenail studs to plates. Toenail braces and header to studs, as shown. Use 6-penny finishing nails to attach shelves, paneling, moulding and apron. Make shelf from 1-inch boards, notching front and rear boards to fit around studs. Cut and attach 1-inch tongue-and-groove paneling on left side. Install baseboard from right wall at bottom of paneling. Cut apron from 1 by 5-inch boards, miter top corners, and install on front of framing. Buy sliding doors and hardware and install according to directions. Set nails and fill holes. Finish to match woodwork.

POINTERS

When you are shopping for an older home, a quick inspection of the kitchen and the bathrooms can often tell you whether it is the home for you or not. Check the baths to see that they are finished with ceramic tile, which is waterproof and will last the life of the building. A shower over the tub is a necessity today, and the entire tub area should be finished with ceramic tile, of course. An old-fashioned kitchen will undoubtedly require a good deal of remodeling. Investigate what the work will cost, as that figure, plus the cost of the home, may make the house in question a bad buy.

ALL THAT GLITTERS

When inspecting a new home, pay special attention to the kitchen. Look beyond the shine and glitter, though, for real efficiency and convenience. Are the shelves within easy reach for someone of your height? Is there storage space near each major appliance—sink, range refrigerator? Work counters should measure at least five or six feet in all. Is there an easily cleaned, durable material like ceramic tile on work counters, splashbacks, and floors? Remember, a kitchen should be large enough for at least three people to work in.

We have never run into anyone who offered to pay our taxes.

Fluorescent Lighting Gains In Home Usage

Present-day fashions in interior decoration and design owe much of their eye-appeal to fluorescent lighting. The influence of fluorescent lighting on home fashions is found from the living room to the kitchen and is doubly dramatic when carefully combined with traditional incandescent home lighting. Colorful draperies and wall areas remain a center of interest attention from a fluorescent incandescent tubes behind window valances and cornices or in coves. A well-designed fireplace gains attention from a fluorescent installation under the mantel. A similar treatment in book-cases, wall shelves and cabinets highlights book-bindings, cherished accessories and Sunday-best china and glassware. New colors and new shapes now highlight the fluorescent lamps for home decor. Both fluorescent and incandescent types of light source make a definite contribution to home lighting; today a pleasing combination of the two is found in most living rooms, dining rooms and bedrooms and only kitchens, bathrooms and utility rooms, for the most part, have gone 100 per cent fluorescent. While it may not be wise to shut your children indoors at the first sign of a sniffle, the Michigan Department of Health today cautioned that an illness starting out like a cold may turn out to be scarlet fever or strep throat, which can result in serious damage.

Dr. F. S. Leeder, director of disease control for the state health department, reports that as of the end of February, the state's score was 1,616 new cases of strep throat and scarlet fever, compared with 1,058 cases in the same two months last year.

"All we can do," Dr. Leeder said, "is to repeat the same advice we've been giving every time a parent calls us on this. If your child has an illness which hangs on for more than 48 hours, or seems to be particularly severe, with a pronounced sore throat, get in touch with your doctor immediately."

Dr. Leeder said strep throat is among the more dangerous forms of upper-respiratory infection, since it may ignite an attack of rheumatic fever, a leading cause of heart damage in children.

"It's not always possible," he said, "to stop the development of a strep throat or its complications, but if good medical care is given and the advice of the doctor is followed, then parents can be assured that they're doing everything in their power to protect their children. We don't recommend that a child be shut in at the first sniffle, but we do strongly urge parents to seek and accept medical advice for any illness which doesn't respond promptly to bed rest and other medically approved home-care techniques."

The health department specialist added that the current wave

Health Department Doctor Warns Of Scarlet Fever, Strep Throat

of sore throats can be expected to "get worse before it gets better, since infections of this type always rise in March and April."

A missionary to foreign lands deserves the greatest respect.

INCOME TAX FACTS No. 7
Deductions Reduce Your Income Tax

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Michigan Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

"Deduction" is the taxpayer's favorite word. Every dollar you can deduct in figuring your tax puts twenty cents to ninety-one cents in your pocket, depending upon the tax bracket you're in. Medical deductions were discussed in a previous article. Here are some of the other deductions you may be able to take if you itemize them instead of using the short 1040A form or the standard 10% deduction.

Contributions
You can deduct your contributions to religious, charitable, scientific, literary and educational organizations, and to non-profit cemeteries.

Includes contributions of goods at their fair value, as well as cash, but not your personal services (blood donations are regarded as a personal service and not deductible). If you contribute stock, real estate or other property, you can deduct their value at the time of the gift, even if it is considerably more than the original cost to you.

You are ordinarily not permitted to deduct a contribution which you have only pledged and not paid during the tax year.

You can deduct up to 20% of your income for any eligible charitable contributions, and up to 30% if at least 10% was in gifts to religious organizations, schools or hospitals.

Interest and Taxes
Interest you pay on personal loans and other indebtedness is deductible.

If there is a mortgage on your home, be sure to find out what part of your payments is interest and deduct it on your tax return. The same applies to automobile financing and installment purchases.

If some of your credit buying involves "carrying charges" instead of specified interest, you are allowed to deduct such charges up to 6% of the average monthly unpaid balance if they are listed separately in your contract or bills.

Internal Revenue Director List Income Tax Benefits

Tax benefits could cut your income and save you money. A. M. Menninger, District Director of the Internal Revenue Service, stated that every taxpayer should check to see if he is entitled to certain exclusions or tax credits which will help reduce his taxes.

Excludable Sick Pay
A taxpayer is entitled to exclude amounts which his employer pays him while he is away from work because of sickness or injury provided these payments are included in the taxpayer's earnings statement. He can subtract them out again on line 6 of page 1 of the return (Form 1040). However, in no case may the exclusion exceed $100 a week and if your absence was for illness only (not injury) your pay for the first seven days absence is not excludable unless you were hospitalized at least one day during such illness.

Employee Pensions
1. If you did not contribute toward the pension, then the payments are taxable as they are received.
2. If you did contribute and you will recover your cost within three years, the full amount received is excluded until after your cost is recovered. Thereafter, the full amount received is included in income.

Dividends Excluded
The first $50 received as dividends from domestic corporations (U. S. Corporations) is excludable from income. If husband and wife jointly own stock, then both may claim the exclusion up to $50 each for a possible total of $100. Dividends received from Federal credit unions or Federal savings and loan associations are considered interest income and not dividends, and therefore, do not come under the exclusion rules.

Dividend Credits
Individuals receiving dividends (in excess of the exclusion) from domestic corporations are entitled to a tax credit of 4% of such dividends. Schedule J on page 4 of the income tax return helps you compute this credit.

Retirement Income Credit
This credit is available generally to persons 65 years of age or older who have retirement income. It is also available to persons under 65 years of age who receive pensions under public retirement systems such as city, state or federal employees. Retirement income is pensions, annuities, dividends, interest or rents. When you are computing the tax credit, it is necessary to make adjustments for amounts you have received from Social Security benefits or for any pay in excess of $900 that you receive as compensation for personal services. These factors serve to reduce the credit. The maximum retirement income credit allowed is $1,200.

Here is how it works: Take the figure $1,200 and subtract from that your Social Security benefits and compensation you receive in excess of $900. Compare this result with your actual retirement income. Then take 20% of the smaller figure. This is your tax credit and should be shown on line 13b of page 1 of the return.

U-M Accreditation Team Inspects Plymouth High School Program

An accreditation team from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor recently visited Plymouth high school for study of the local secondary school program.

Heading the group, composed of individuals from various departments at the U. of M. was Kenneth E. Vance of the University's Bureau of school services.

The accreditation team arrived at the high school at 9 a.m. and were welcomed by Principal Carvel Bentley, who briefly orientated them to the school, instructional program, student body and faculty. The visitors spent most of the day with the teachers and classes in the instructional areas with which they had a particular interest.

At the close of the school day, the accreditation team met informally with the high school teachers, as it has been proved in past years that interaction between university representatives and secondary school teachers is of value to both groups. After their day the U-M team wrote a short summary of their observations. These were compiled and sent to the high school administrator in the form of an accreditation letter.

Members of the visiting team were Dr. R. A. Wolfe, physicist; Dr. Ross Pearson, social studies; Miss Fritzie Gareis, girls physical education; Dr. Frank Lanham, commercial; Hugh Pierce, shop; Alexander Pickens, art.

The meeting of Tuesday, March 20, was held as usual with a good number of Brothers in attendance. Those reported on the sick list were Brothers Jay Pinckney, Charles Robinson and John Maxwell. Please try to remember them with cards or calls.

The meeting was held as quickly as possible so those who liked could go over to Belleville to Galaxy lodge No. 384 for visitation. Seven members went over and all reported a fine time and an equally fine lunch.

Remember our pancake supper on April 12. Serving will be from 5 to 8 or until all are served. Tickets can be purchased from Brothers John Mastie, Ralph Diedrick, Dale Campbell, Louis Westfall or Melvin Krumm. Invite your neighbors and friends and lets have a good crowd.

Flash bulletin from Mobilgas Economy Run

FORD WINS IN ECONOMY TOO!

V-8 WINS CLASS A

In this year's Economy Run a new Ford V-8, with Fordomatic was the official victor over every car in its field, with a winning average of 47.7643 ton-miles per gallon. This means that the sturdier, heavier Ford carried more weight, with greater gas economy per pound, than any car in its field.

This latest Ford victory was scored over a rough and rigorous 1,468.8-mile route running from Los Angeles to Colorado Springs. The winning Ford threaded its way over the tough and twisting course averaging better than 40 mph. Through the heat of Death Valley and over the chilling height of an 11,000-foot mountain peak... through the gas-eating stop-and-go of city traffic and over the straight-line open road... Ford proved anew its traditional reputation for economical performance.

The winning Ford was a regular-production model taken right from the assembly line and officially impounded until the starter's gun sounded. It was no different than thousands of '56 Fords you see on the road and in dealers' showrooms. This proves that Ford, the Performance, Style and Safety leader, leads in Economy, too! That adds up to four big reasons why the '56 Ford is worth more when you buy it, while you drive it, and when you sell it, too!

The "ton-mile" formula to use by contest officials to insure equal chance for all cars in each class regardless of size or weight. Ton-miles per gallon equals the car weight (including passengers) in tons, multiplied by the number of miles traveled, divided by number of gallons of gasoline consumed.

TWO FORMER Plymouthites, Professor and Mrs. James T. Lendrum of Champaign, Illinois, were recently subjects of a column in the Champaign News-Gazette following their trip to Columbia, South America. Professor Lendrum heads the University of Illinois Small Homes Council and visited South America to study the Council's activities in that area. Professor Lendrum is the son of the Reverend Lendrum, now of Dansville, Michigan, and formerly pastor of the First Methodist church here for six years. Mrs. Lendrum is the daughter of Mrs. W. B. TOM CALDWELL, 285 East Ann Arbor trail, recently received his certificate for completing the Dale Carnegie public speaking course. Tom is one of 40 Junior Achievers in Southeastern Michigan to receive a scholarship to the course through their activities in Junior Achievement.

TWO STUDENTS from Plymouth finished among the top 10 in their respective colleges of study at Michigan State university. The records are based on grade averages through the fall term of 1955. The Plymouthites are: Donald C. Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Davidson of Ford road; and Lawrence G. Kemp, son of George Kemp of Territorial road.

ELECTED recording secretary of Kappa Phi at Miami university in Oxford, Ohio recently was Suzanne Daniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Daniel of 11401 Melrose. Suzanne is majoring in home economics and education.

OUTDOOR NOTES

From The MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

A project which will attempt to establish Montana grayling trout in certain Michigan waters has been approved by the Conservation Commission.

The project was initiated by a Detroit News offer of $1,000 toward the re-establishment of grayling, which have been extinct in Michigan for more than 20 years.

Conservation Department fish specialists strongly doubt that fishable populations of grayling will ever exist again in state waters, but think a small stock can be maintained for historical purposes.

The State of Montana has agreed to sell grayling eggs to Michigan for the project. Fish division workers will study various northern lakes to determine the most suitable location for grayling plantings.

In other action, the Commission approved timber sales from five state forests totaling $38,700. The sales include 12,000 cords of pulpwood and 316,000 boardfeet of sawlogs, in addition to posts and ties.

Michigan's wild turkey restoration program will continue this year with new releases of the big birds planned for this summer.

Some 400 turkey eggs will be shipped from Pennsylvania for hatching at the Conservation Department's game farm at Mason. The birds will be released in wild areas when they are 12 to 14 weeks old. A site for the new release has not been selected.

The current restoration program was initiated with wild turkey releases in Allegan state forest in 1954 and in Lake and Newaygo counties last year.

A January census of the birds showed 118 turkeys in Allegan county, with 16 individual flocks reported. Best results were recorded in Newaygo county where 35 of the 79 originally-released turkeys were counted in January. Success in Lake county has been lower, with only 13 of 73 released birds sighted.

The Newaygo birds were in four groups, numbering from two to 19 birds. The largest flock was isolated and wild and was considered to have the best chance for survival.

Seven tracts of land—totaling 368 acres—were added to public hunting areas by the Conservation Commission at its March 15-16 meeting in Lansing.

The Commission agreed to purchase lands for the following additions:

- 120 acres at Rouge River state game area, 80 acres at Deford state game area, 41 acres at Middleville state game area, 40 acres at Gratiot-Saginaw state game area, 40 acres at Nayanquing Pointe wildlife area, 37 acres at Dansville state game area and 10 acres at Gregory state game area.

The Gregory game area purchase will be financed by the Game Protection fund, while the other purchases will be made under the federal Pittman-Robertson program.

Of course everybody is planning to be on hand for that trip to Hawaii on April 5. At least we hope all of our members will make a special effort to be there. We know you will enjoy it all. Pot luck supper too. Wouldn't it be wonderful if every one of our members were there? Mrs. Wilson and her daughter will give us a "travelogue" of their lovely trip last summer to Hawaii.

And on April 19 we are to have that auction sale of aprons so will each lady member make and bring an apron and their own sandwiches. If you can't make an apron come anyway and buy one. We hope the men will turn out well for this meeting. Coffee will be served.

American Legion News

Results of the state Legion bowling tournament should soon be in the hands of our post bowling chairman. At the last official report, our doubles team of Harold (Red) Wilson and Bert Morgan were leading in the doubles event. We're hoping that they are still in that position.

Congratulations are in order for our post chaplain and Mrs. Walter Hochlowski on the arrival of a new baby daughter during the past week.

District Commander Irving Geer was the guest at the post's regular business meeting on March 21. He reported on the recent annual Spring conference held in Detroit. The next regular meeting of the post is April 4 at 8 p.m. at the Veterans Community center.

Auxiliary Americanism Chairman Fern Burleson reports that the essay contest which is sponsored by the Auxiliary each year in the local schools ended March 23. Judging of essays will take place at an early date, and the winners will be announced. Winning essays will be forwarded to district for further judging. It is hoped that we have another winner such as Lea Crane last year.

Kenneth Krezel of Northville, winner of the American Legion's 17th district oratorical contest on March 2, placed second in the zone contest held recently in Mason, Michigan, it was announced this week.

Subject of orations for both contests was "The Constitution of the United States." The district competition had been won by Krezel for the second consecutive year. A national contest will be held April 16 in Columbia, South Carolina when a $4,000 scholarship will be awarded the winner.
