

UP GO THE WALLS of the James Gallimore elementary school on Sheldon road, although it is still not known if it will be able to open due to the lack of a sanitary sewer. Smith & Young are contractors for the building.

School Board Still Seeks Sewer for Gallimore School

Becoming highly concerned about a sanitary sewer for the James Gallimore elementary school now under construction, the Plymouth Community school board invited members of the Townships of Plymouth and Canton Water and Sewer Authorities to a meeting Monday night to tell of their construction schedule.

But according to Superintendent Russell Isbister, "we learned nothing definite."

Only one of the three authority members, Clark Finley, was able to attend the meeting. He was accompanied by Herald Hamill, engineer for the project.

The school board was informed that the authority still plans to go ahead with the project, but the "when" appeared to be indefinite. Construction of the sewer first depends on location of an adequate water supply. The school board was told that some water has been found in the northeast section of the township and a smaller amount near Joy and McClumpia roads.

Because of the "threat" of annexation of the Burroughs plant to the city, the school board was told that the sewer and water plans have been cut in scale. Burroughs accounts for nearly a third of the township's evaluation and the sewer and water authority state that bond buyers have taken that into consideration.

The superintendent was instructed by the board to ask Plymouth City Manager Albert Glassford about estimates for extending the city sewer to the school site on Sheldon road. The city has not started their sewer project for the southern section of the city as yet but have taken construction bids.

An estimate was made last year of $60,000 to extend a sewer from the city to the school. This figure, however, was for a sewer which would accommodate tap-ins along the way. It is believed that a sewer to handle only school sewage would cost much less.

Gallimore school is already supplied with water piped from the city limits. The school is scheduled for completion by December 31 but school officials are not counting on that date due to the steel strike and other delays that can be expected.

Board Looks At Another School Site

A look at a possible future elementary school site was taken by the board of education last week in the northeast section of the township.

The school board met on Wednesday night of last week with the Plymouth township planning commission to get an indication of where future population growths will come in the township. The most immediate anticipated growth will come in the Wilcox drive and Scholcraft road area where a builder, Fred Greenspan Building company, expects to erect 1,000 homes.

Greenspan was at the meeting and presented his proposed layout for a school site which he would sell to the board at prevailing land prices. He added that he expects to build 100 homes this year and the remaining 900 over the next four years.

The board, however, voiced an objection to the location of the school site because of the terrain. It was noted that the site was near a creek for one thing — and the creek which runs behind Bird and Smith schools has been a constant headache.

On Friday morning, Greenspan took the board on a walking tour of the building site and an area was located west and north of the former school site suggested by the builder.

Money for construction of another school was appropriated last year in a $3,000,000 bond issue approved by voters.

Unit I of W. S. C. S. recently met with Mrs. Moyer. The group went from there over to the Hanlon home to visit Mrs. Adella Johnston.

Estimates School Addition Costs

Additions can be constructed to the Bird, Smith and Allen elementary schools, according to an opinion received by the board of education from Eberle M. Smith, Detroit architect.

Smith, whose firm is responsible for architectural work on the new junior high, attended a special board of education meeting Monday night along with an associate.

The board has been exploring the possibilities of constructing additions to the three buildings for the past month and turned the question over to the architect. It is the belief of some board members that addition of rooms to the present schools would be much cheaper than constructing new schools.

Smith informed the board that an eight-room addition would cost about $200,000. This would be $175,000 in building costs and $25,000 in equipment. The eight rooms would be a kindergarten, one classroom for each of the six grades and one special room.

The James Gallimore elementary school now under construction will cost about $460,000 for 13 classrooms, plus all other special rooms. Cost of the site is not in this figure.

Believe Murder Trial Won't be Set Until Fall

Chances are that the first degree murder case involving Joseph Joyner, 26-year-old Plymouthite, will not come to trial until sometime this fall, or even later, according to Police Chief Kenneth Fisher.

Although there has been no word from circuit court about setting a trial date, there is hardly any chance that it will get to court this summer.

Now held in county jail, Joyner has been in custody since the day he fatally wounded Mrs. William Garrett on June 12. He cannot be released on bond because of the first degree murder charge.

Mediators Again Call Strike Talks

New Group to Seek Community Harmony

Finding a name, establishing an organization and determining the aims are the next steps being taken by a new group of citizens who met for the second time Tuesday night with the goal in mind of bringing harmony to the community.

Calling themselves a "self-starter" group, 26 people met in the high school auditorium to set up machinery for the organization. Most of those attending were representatives from local organizations.

George Bowles, township resident and chairman of the state Labor Mediation board, again served as temporary chairman of the meeting. Two committees were appointed during the course of the evening. One, the communications committee, will be responsible for contacting members, while the other, the organization committee, will suggest the name, aims and methods of operation.

Defined as a group which intends to "walk down the center of the road to gather and evaluate facts from both sides," there were at least two problems suggested for tackling first. One concerned the James Gallimore elementary school which is being built but for which there still is no assurance of a sewer. Sewer and water problems was another field which the group expects to work on.

"There have been all kinds of study groups," Frank Millington, president of the Plymouth Community Improvement Association of Plymouth Township, declared, "but this has to be a group that acts too."

It was pointed out by the chairman that the group should not have annexation as one of its interests, but should concentrate on

Nation's Second Largest Circus Heads for City

Hey! a circus is coming to town! It's been many years since a circus has been in Plymouth and perhaps many old-timers had given up hope that one would ever return, but the A. G. Kelly and Miller Bros. Circus is headed this way.

The big tent show will be here one day only, Monday, August 13. It will be located on a field across the road from the school bus parking lot along Lilley road.

A. G. Kelly and Miller Bros. advertises itself as the second largest circus in the country, second only to the famed Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey show. Ringling, however, closed down its show only two weeks ago.

There is no accurate record of how many years it has been since a circus played Plymouth. A circus representative states that it has been 17 years.

An advertising campaign, including those colorful posters, will soon make its appearance in the surrounding area. The circus also broadcasts its arrival from an airplane.

There will be a matinee and night performance of the show which is making its 36th annual tour.

The wild animal show boasts the world's only trained hippopotamus, a herd of 21 elephants and some 200 other animals, including lions, tigers, pumas, leopards, monkeys, bears, kangaroos, water buffalo, camels, giraffes, zebras, bison, seals, tropical reptiles, tropical birds and 127 head of horses.

Missing Gasoline Danger Passes, Mystery Lingers

There is still some mystery surrounding the strange disappearance of gasoline last week from the underground tanks at a downtown service station but there is no longer any danger of explosion, Fire Chief Robert McAllister stated yesterday.

An estimated 1,200 gallons of ethyl gasoline was believed to have leaked from one of the buried tanks as it was being filled on Tuesday evening of last week at Bob's Standard Service Ann Arbor Trail and South Main street were blocked off to traffic all night and part of the next day as workmen searched for the gasoline.

Although some of the gasoline was found in sand surrounding the tanks and on top of a layer of clay below the tank, it appears that there was considerably less than 1,200 gallons of gasoline lost, Chief McAllister added. The mystery lies in the fact that no leak has been found in the tanks.

Gasoline came up through a drain inside the station as the tank truck was filling the underground tank. Firemen used about 20,000 gallons of water flushing

Sees Desires of Both Sides To Reach Agreement Soon

Negotiations in the three-week-old Champion Containers, Inc., strike are expected to resume next Monday afternoon and a state labor mediator has declared that both labor and management appear eager to reach an agreement.

The mediator, Stanley Dobry, said that a meeting has been called for 2 p.m. Monday in the Detroit office of the State Labor Mediation board. Tuesday has also been set aside to continue talks.

Not since the first week of the strike which began July 5 has there been any negotiations. Meetings set for July 13 and July 18 both broke down before they started.

Dobry, who is taking the place of Leonard D. Bennett as state mediator, declared that "I think personally that both sides are determined to get down to settle their differences." Harry Caton, representing the Federal Mediation board, will also be in on the conferences.

Before the meeting starts, an assault and battery case will take place in Plymouth involving the union president, Robert Fennimore, who allegedly pulled a plant engineer from his car on July 6. The engineer, James Ryan, was supposedly stopped by pickets in belief that he was carrying printing dies from the Sheldon road plant.

It was because of this incident that the company fired Fennimore and the union's financial secretary, Jerry Olson. When the two appeared at the July 18 meeting as members of the union's negotiating team, management refused to sit down with them, claiming that they were no longer affiliated with the company.

Pickets are still on duty at the Sheldon road plant and at the offices on Ann Arbor road, but they are not nearly as numerous as during the opening days of the strike. It was reported that some of the employees have secured jobs elsewhere. There are 75 hourly employees on strike.

Jack McFalda, manager of the plant, said yesterday that the company has suffered financially due to the strike but is still adequately serving its customers. Champion is a division of the Ohio Boxboard company of Rittman, Ohio, and it is these other plants that are handling Champion's contracts. McFalda said, however, that the long-distance shipments from other plants make it economically unsound to continue such a practice. One of the local Champion customers is Dais Manufacturing.

Asked about the future of the two discharged union officials, McFalda said that only if the court orders them back on the job will the company consent to their re-hiring. He added that the two might sit in next week's negotiations as members of the international union, to which the company could not object.

The union is Local 1005, United Paper Workers of America, AFL-CIO.

Crash Fatally Injures Youth Soon to Marry

An accident that occurred while on his way to see his fiancée whom he was to marry July 30 took the life last Friday night of Rubin K. Caudle, 21, of 19404 Gerald street, Northville. He was a welder at Worden Specialty and Machine company in Plymouth.

The youth was driving west toward South Lyon at 10 p.m. on Six Mile road near Beck when the car skidded 215 feet along the edge of the ditch and struck a utility pole. Taken to University hospital in Ann Arbor, he died 18 minutes after admittance of head and chest injuries.

Mr. Caudle was enroute to see his bride-to-be, Miss Jeanne Gardner of South Lyon.

The body was removed from the Casterline Funeral home in Northville to his native Union City, Tennessee where funeral services were held Monday. Surviving are his parents in Union City, a sister in Arkansas and three brothers, residents of Northville.

Student Musicians to Play "Graduation" Concert

Some 200 youthful musicians who have spent the summer blowing, beating and bowing musical instruments will present their "graduation" concert this Friday morning at the high school auditorium.

Under the direction of Wayne Dunlap, the students will be heard by their parents and other guests at three separate concerts.

The violinists will present their concert from 8 to 9 a.m. Friday; the beginning woodwind and drum pupils will be heard from 9 to 10 a.m.; and all advanced players will perform from 10 to 11 a.m.

These Events Led Up to the $500,000 City Airport Bond Proposal

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Plymouth city voters will go to the polls on Tuesday, August 7 to vote on a $500,000 bond issue for the purchase and expansion of Mettetal airport. This article attempts to explain the history of the proposition while a final article next week will summarize arguments of supporters and opponents of the airport. With this background, we hope that voters will be able to vote more intelligently on the issue.)

When city voters go to the polls August 7 to decide on a $500,000 airport bond issue, their decision—yes or no—may be condemned for years to come. If they turn it down, the day may come when an airport will be as vital as a parking lot and land will need to be purchased at exorbitant prices. Someone will then be blamed for short-sightedness. If the airport is approved, more airplanes will fill the skies above our community and complaints about noise and danger will undoubtedly mount.

These are a few of the points to be considered by voters, according to supporters and opponents of the airport. Both have had their say at meetings held during recent months. But the airport expansion idea goes back much further.

Although public announcement of a proposed plan to purchase and expand Mettetal airport in Canton township was not made until the May 3 issue of The Mail, discussions took place as far back as May 1954 when the Chamber of Commerce board of directors wrote the Michigan Department of Aeronautics about their interest in the project.

A year and a half then went by without more serious consideration. But then came the sewer and water authority which proposed to offer the two services to portions of Plymouth and Canton townships, including the airport area. Farm land was quickly optioned and much of it purchased by speculators and subdividers. To the airport manager-owner, Robert Mettetal, this was the beginning of the end. Few are the people who like airports in their back yards. Mettetal had only to look at other private airports in Wayne county. Nearly all have been forced out of business because of new homes and zoning.

But if it was a municipal airport, it could be a different story. A municipal airport can not only seek zoning powers necessary to control height and placement of structures, but it can also obtain federal and state matching funds not available to private airports.

It was the work of three men who were mainly responsible for presenting the proposition to the city. They were Mettetal, Robert Nulty, president of Great Lakes Airmotive, Inc.; and Frank Lodge, owner of Clark Aerial Survey company. The city commission sounded interested, so the group, which gradually grew in size, started to work. Using their own money, they obtained options on property needed for the airport (with the exception of one parcel which it is believed the city must obtain through condemnation). General Lester J. Maitland, director of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, gave his blessing to the project and his men made a complete study and report on the field.

Convinced that the airport would be an investment in the future, the city commission officially went on record last May as being in favor of its purchase and expansion. Their first problem, however, was to find $500,000 to buy the land. Since they expect to attract business-type aircraft to the airport, an appeal was made to sell bonds to area industry. Bonding companies would not purchase the bonds because airports still have not proved themselves as strictly profitable enterprises.

It was at several of these meetings with industry and business representatives that some citizens of Canton and Plymouth townships got in their "licks" against the airport. The first blast came at a May 24 meeting at city hall. Calling the airport "dangerous and a menace," opponents learned that there will be no public hearings at which they could voice their objections. But they voiced their objections anyway. It has been no secret that those living in the vicinity of the airport, plus Canton and Plymouth township officials, are unhappy with the idea.

The "big" meeting took place on June 5 at the high school. Invitations were sent out to industrialists for miles around and many came. Among the scheduled speakers were Lester Andrews, chief engineer of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, and L. D. Hale, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. Both stressed the need for an airport near Plymouth. But half of the evening was devoted to questions asked by unscheduled speakers—the airport neighbors. As a windup of the meeting, the guests were asked to consider purchasing airport bonds!

Industrialists sounded interested but apparently too few found the sales talk convincing enough. Only a fraction of the half million dollars was pledged. After a few weeks, the city commission gave up hope for private subscriptions and decided to turn their appeal to citizens in the form of a general obligation bond issue. They decided to check once more about the possible income from such an airport so they sent City Manager Albert Glassford to municipal airports at Pontiac and Flint. Glassford reported back that managers of those airports were convinced that a field in Plymouth could make money. The manager of the Detroit City airport was also contacted and pointed out the serious need of hangar space in the area.

These reports, supplemented with anticipated income figures, gave the city commission the encouragement it wanted. A motion to place the $500,000 bond issue on the ballot was approved at a meeting on June 18.

Linda Fulton Becomes Bride At Methodist Church Rites

Linda Lee Fulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gwynne Fulton of 174 Hamilton street, and Harold Richard Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leo Davis of Germantown, Pennsylvania, were united in marriage on Saturday, June 30, at a ceremony performed in the First Methodist church of Plymouth by the Reverend Melbourne I. Johnson.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a long-sleeved gown of chantilly lace over satin with ruffled train and carried a semi-colonial bouquet of white roses with white rose corsage at the center. Lighted tapers, and vases of gladioli, majestic daisies and stock at the church altar formed the setting for the wedding rites. Selections of "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because" were sung by Judy Richwine for the wedding ceremony.

The attendants wore semi-formal gowns of crystalet in pastel shades which were styled with v-neckline and quarter-length sleeves. Their headpieces matched the shade of their floral bouquets.

Mary Goebel, maid of honor, wore a blue gown and carried pink roses. Bridesmaids were Gwendolyn Fulton, Gertrude Alberts, Dorothy Karler, Marie Davis, Jacqueline Fulton and Geraldine Hassen. Their gowns were in shades of green, lilac, shrimp, yellow, blue and turquoise, respectively, with complimentary bouquets of yellow, pink, talisman and yellow roses. Gerrison Karler, flower girl, was dressed in a pink frock and carried pink and white nosegays.

Mrs. Fulton wore a green dress of princess-styled with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a pink dress fashioned with full skirt, white accessories accenting her ensemble. Each wore a pink carnation corsage.

Best man for the ceremony was Lester Davis. Ushers were Kenneth McDonald, Paul Alberts, Kenneth Karler, Dennis Baldwin, Sheldon Fulton and Samuel Hassen. The latter's son was ring-bearer.

The reception was held in the Grange hall with 200 guests attending including friends and relatives from Pennsylvania as well as those from Michigan.

For going-away, the bride wore a blue, princess-styled dress with white accessories. Planned for the honeymoon was a trip to Northern Michigan and Pennsylvania.

The bride graduated from Plymouth high school, while the bridegroom attended school in Pennsylvania.

Niece of Plymouthites Appears as CoverGirl

A cover girl in her own right is Patricia Hochlowski, six-year-old niece of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hochlowski of 151 Amelia street.

Patty, who resides in West Covina, California, was chosen as subject for a recent cover and editorial of "The Rotarian," Rotary club's international magazine. Her photo has found its way into some 375,000 homes in Sweden, Holland, Pakistan, Ruanda Urundi, Swaziland, Indonesia and 91 other countries represented on the Rotarian's circulation list.

Plymouthites vacationing in California may also view Patty's photo as a billboard advertisement for commercially-prepared lemonade on the free-way to Los Angeles. Her picture will again appear on nationwide calendars in 1957.

Patty's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hochlowski, of 1824 Holly Oak drive in West Covina.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Moyer

Lutheran Church, Setting For Moyer-Bogenschutz Rites

Ruth H. Bogenschutz, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Bogenschutz of 15780 Maxwell, became the bride of Donald Clare Moyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alger Moyer of 15525 Marilyn, at a candlelight ceremony read by the Reverend Edgar Hoenecke at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, July 14, in St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Roger Bogenschutz, and approached an altar graced with vases of white gladioli, snapdragons and chrysanthemums for the nuptial rites. Preceding the ceremony "O Perfect Love" was heard on the church chimes followed by the wedding march from the organ.

The bridal gown was styled with short-sleeved bodice of lace over satin from which a four-tiered skirt of chantilly lace over tulle and satin fell gracefully to the floor. Her fingertip veil of French illusion with scalloped edging was caught by a half crown of seed pearls and sequins. White rosebuds and stephanotis centered with a white orchid composed the bridal bouquet.

Louetta Coonce, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of white embroidered nylon over pink ruffled net and taffeta with headband to match the pink daisies carried as her bouquet. Shirley Saner and Sandra Davis, the bridesmaids, wore aqua gowns styled identically to the maid of honor's with headbands matching their bouquets of aqua daisies.

The bride's mother wore a street-length dress of blue lace over taffeta with white accessories while Mrs. Moyer selected an aqua print dress with white accessories. Both wore pink corsages as accent to their ensembles.

The services of best man were performed by Douglas Stevens. Emmet Moyer, brother of the bridegroom, and David Bogenschutz, brother of the bride, were ushers for the wedding ceremony.

A reception in the church hall for 150 guests followed the nuptial rites. From out of town were friends and relatives from Detroit, Walled Lake, Dexter, Flint, Royal Oak and Lafayette, Indiana. For traveling to Northern Michigan on a two-weeks honeymoon, the bride selected a black and white check sheath dress with black duster, pink accessories and the orchid corsage from her bouquet. The couple will reside at 350 South Harvey upon their return.

The bride is a credit investigator at the Plymouth branch, National Bank of Detroit, while the bridegroom works in the tool department at Burroughs corporation.

Specialists

By C. C. Wiltse
Registered Pharmacist

Last year, there were 84,000 specialists in the medical profession.

These men are called specialists because they concentrate most of their time and attention on a single phase of medicine. They either devote themselves exclusively to one disease, like cancer, or they direct their efforts entirely to a single part of the body, like the heart.

Because of this concentrated devotion, the medical specialist acquires a fund of knowledge concerning a particular field. Knowledge so vast and varied, yet detailed, that his judgment is frequently sought by general practitioners.

Like his brother-in-medicine, the pharmacist is also a specialist. In fact, the pharmacist's special knowledge of drugs and dosages and compounding is considered so vital that, by law, none but a man who has earned a special license is permitted to do a pharmacist's work!

Bride Wears Lace, Net Gown For Methodist Ceremony

Wearing a gown of nylon net and lace over satin, Arlene Mae Burden, approached the altar of the First Methodist church on Saturday evening, July 21, where she repeated the marriage vows with Har Powell Cranford in a ceremony performed at 7:30 o'clock by the Reverend Robert Richards.

Flower girl for the ceremony was Sandra Burden. She wore a floor-length frock of pink net over taffeta with cummerbund fastened at each side of the waist by sprays of pink flowers. She carried a miniature bouquet of pink rosebuds and daisies.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Burden of 143 South Union street, was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cranford of Fulton, Kentucky.

Mrs. Burden chose a pink linen dress with white accessories and orchid corsage for her daughter's wedding.

Pearls and rhinestones embroidered the lace bodice of the bridal gown which was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. A chapel train fell from the waistline in tiers of nylon and lace covering a skirt of net which was pleated at the front. The fingertip veil, sprinkled with rhinestones, was secured by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of white rosebuds, stephanotis and ivy centered with an amazon lily corsage.

Gale Jimerson assisted the bridegroom as best man, while guests were seated by Ronald Burden and Clifford Napier. Mary Lou Hartwick was soloist for the selections of "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" preceding the wedding ceremony.

Two hundred guests attended the reception held in the dining room of the church. Those from out of town included residents of Pontiac, Wayne and Garden City. For going-away, the bride chose a brown checked suit with avocado accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet. The couple are touring Kentucky and Tennessee on their honeymoon and plan to visit friends in Heroin, Illinois on their return trip. They will reside at 875 Wing street.

The bride graduated from Plymouth high school in June and is presently employed as a telephone operator at the local office of Michigan Bell. The bridegroom is employed at the Standard Tube company.

The bridesmaids, Hazel Jimerson and Ardith Burden, wore gowns fashioned identically to Mrs. Leeds' but in yellow and

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCall and son, Leonard Oliver, 9905 Fairfield, spent last week with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Bloss, at their summer home on the AuSable Lake. The weather was a little chilly which curtailed swimming but they still managed to do some fishing and just enjoy being lazy.

Welcome to the new residents at 9906 Berwick. Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Kendall and children, Tod, Mark, Susan and Jeffrey, moved to Rosedale Gardens from Dearborn last week.

Attention all young marrieds with small children! This is about the time of summer when it seems that the children have had almost enough vacation. The novelty of playing all day with their friends has worn off and there seems to be more scraps and frayed nerves among parents and children. We know of two couples who had the solution to just such a problem. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lorion and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gamber left their children in very capable hands and then the four took off Friday noon to spend the week-end up north, returning home Monday. Both children and parents appreciated each other more upon their return.

We would like to wish a happy birthday to Marion Rupp who is celebrating the event on July 29, and Liz Page who is celebrating hers on July 30.

Mrs. Harry Barter, 9900 Ingram, has her grandson, David, visiting her for a couple of days. Like all grandchildren, David loves to visit "Grandma." He can do all the little things that his busy mother with other children just doesn't have time to do.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John Ohanian, 11400 Mayfield, on the birth of their son, John Michael.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins and children, Debbie, Cilla, Robin and Cindy, recently returned from two weeks vacation in northern Michigan. What made the vacation more enjoyable was that Mrs. Jenkins' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Kennard from Washington, D. C., were able to join them for the two weeks. Olson.

200 ANN ARBOR ROAD, PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN, PHONE 263

July 20, 1956

Dear Customer:

Here is some good news about your 1952-53- or 54 Buick--- something we have been asked to do for it, and absolutely free!

Buick Motor Division has developed, and made available to us, new equipment for testing and inspecting Buick automobiles. Buick has asked that we check every 1952-53- or 54 model in our area and compile reports as to its mileage, condition, etc.

During the period of July 30-August 10, we will operate a clinic for 1952-53- or 54 Buicks. Your car will be inspected from bumper to bumper -- examining every point, and we will furnish you with a complete written report as to its condition.

We believe we are fortunate in being selected as one of the points to make these tests, and sincerely hope that you will take advantage of this service.

No attempt will be made to sell you any repair work or replacement parts. We and Buick want to do this diagnosis to see that you get the most miles and pleasure from your car. We want you to be happy with it and reassured about its condition.

Won't you drive in during this period, and if you want to be sure of not having to wait your turn, telephone us at 263 or 525 and we'll reserve a time for you. For our customers in Detroit we have a direct line, WO. 3-3304 for your convenience.

Beglinger Still Failing VFW Continues To Win

It looks as though Beglinger's seven week reign over the "A" softball league may finally come to an end with the rest of the league seeming to close in. Beglinger snapped their two game losing streak with a 9-1 decision over second running Livonia Office, only to have another start as the squad from Chevrolet Spr. & B. tripped the league leaders 9-2.

Coasting along atop the "B" league with seven wins and no losses is the V.F.W. team from Northville. King Furniture remained in second with a 9-4 triumph over Main & Mill. Daisy Mfg. moved into a tie for third with Wall Wire on an 18-1 run-away over Price Bros.

Thibodeau struck out nine batters in his two-hit victory over the visitors from Livonia. Beglinger made nine hits, enough for nine runs. Beglinger shoved across three runs in the first and final innings with single tallies coming in every other inning but the fifth. Lowe was charged with the loss.

Willie's three straight hits was not enough for Beglingers ninth victory of the season as Chevy held the pace setters to two runs as against their nine. Chevy started the first inning with three runs on Tierney's home run and scored two more in the second with four scoring across in the fourth. Tilliski got the nod over Thibodeau, who was replaced in the fourth. Carroll and Murphy got three hits along with Tierney's big blow. Wilkie got three for three for the losers.

Livonia slipped by Evans 1-0 for their second win of the week. Evans' pitcher Stevens allowed the visitors only three hits but two of them came in the fifth inning for the winning run. Londeau led off the inning with a triple, the next batter was retired and then Pierce knocked out the game winning single to score the lone run. Evans was able to get only scattered singles off Wellman, who got credit for the win.

Chevy squeaked out a 1-0 triumph over last place Box Bar. Tilliski held the losers to one hit as he picked up his second straight win this week. Tilliski provided the punch at the plate as well as twirling from the mound with a double that chased home the winning run. Veracrusy collected the three other hits the winners were able to rap off Caldwell, who was charged with the loss.

Evans scored three times in the last two innings to snatch a victory from Cavalcade 4-3. Lack of control on the part of the Cavalcade pitcher allowed Evans to score the deciding tally. Each team collected five hits off the opposing pitcher. Stevens got credit for the win.

Cavalcade turned the tables as they managed a 4-3 squeeze over the Box Bar nine. Cavalcade rallied for three runs in the bottom half of the fourth to hold their win. Stevens was awarded the victory as Kearney was charged with the loss. Greenwood had two singles in three times at the plate. Hees and Case led the losers at-bat with two hits apiece.

"B" League

All but one garnered at least one hit to aid the V.F.W. team from Northville continue their undefeated streak with a 11-3 trouncing of Chevy. LaRue paced the conquerors with four hits in four trips. Robinson clouted a four bagger for the winners. McNamara allowed the victors seventeen hits. Atchinson got credit for the win.

King Furniture dumped Main & Mill 9-4 to remain in the second slot in the league. Hitting was well divided among the winners, to give Riblett the edge. Schwartz, Stansbury and Miller made three hits apiece to lead the losers.

Daisy bombarded Price Bros. 18-1 to move into a two-way tie for third. Milz collected three hits in as many times to the plate to lead the Daisy spree. Williams and Spotts allowed Price Bros. only one hit between them. Fulton was charged with the loss.

Knapf claimed two circuit blows in two official times to the plate to pace the visitors from Garden City to a 6-3 romp over Evans Products. Evan's Marsh made three of their four hits off pitcher Cier. The victory squared Garden City at three wins and three losses.

The game between Wall Wire and Whitman & Barnes was called because of rain.

Merchants Make It Three Straight

The Plymouth Merchants added another victory to their record last Sunday, with an 8-1 trouncing of second place Lincoln Park. The victory kept the locals winning, and stretched their winning streak to three straight.

Eddie Hoch went the distance, striking out 14 to gain his fifth win against Inter-County competition. The visitors greeted Hoch with two hits, good for one run to take an early lead in the first inning. Eddie then pitched the eight remaining innings with only a lone single marring his effort.

Hoch struck out the side in the fourth and fanned the first two batters to face him in the fifth.

Marley lead off the fourth with a single, Jack Dobbs then laid down the perfect sacrifice to advance him to second, where he scored off Fairbanks clean single.

In the sixth inning the locals went way out front on four runs. Two walks, a sacrifice, and two singles combined with errors allowed the four tallies.

In the eighth inning Fairbanks, who was on with a double, scored on a sacrifice fly off the bat of Bob Anderson. The Plymouth team scored two times in the final inning. Hoch, the pitcher, lead off with a single, the next two men were retired in order, then Ron Benet laced out a triple to score Hoch, and came home on a wild pitch. Banoch was charged with the loss.

The run down on the game is as follows: Plymouth had eight runs on nine hits and one error; Lincoln Park scored one run on three hits and four errors.

The Merchants will play the Pressler Club next Sunday, at Bell Creek diamond. The field is located at Five Mile and Inkster.

STARKWEATHER PLAYGROUND

Basket-weaving and mobiles are the newest projects in the arts and crafts department at the Starkweather playground. Beginning their baskets two weeks ago, some of the children are already on their third or fourth one. Inga Dietrich has been assisting her fellow playmates with their baskets. At the present time Inga has completed five baskets. The children's baskets range in size and shape from pen and pencil holders to bread and fruit containers.

An interest for making mobiles has finally caught on at the playground. Bonnie McMullen, first to try her hand at the project, began by cutting out odd shapes of paper and coloring them. Next Bonnie tied the objects to a straight reed and her mobile started to progress, from the bottom up. Balance was one of the most important points Bonnie learned in the art of "mobile-building."

Weaving pot-holders continues to hold a high interest in the art room. The children are turning these out in large numbers and are either saving them for Christ-

These days you can buy almost anything on credit - from home appliances to trips around the world. This has been a big help to both buyers and sellers. But now various organizations around the country are offering matrimony on the finance plan. For couples who are short on ready cash, these outfits will bankroll the entire wedding - from the bridegroom settles for the ceremony in 12 easy payments.

Sounds like a fine idea, but it brings up the question as to whether folks who can't pay the parson should go on the cuff for the big affair. Suppose the little woman goes home to mother before the year is up. Does the groom get a rebate? Or if he can't meet the 12 easy installments, does he have to return the bride to the finance company?

We see where Senator Landon Johnson has a sign in his office that says, "You ain't learnin' nothin' when you're talkin'." Guess we'd better shut up - but not before we find a word for the day about our delicious selections of Fannie May frozen candies - kept frozen until sold in our special freezer-display case. Local Witnesses Attending Lansing Bible Conference

Sixty-five delegates from the Plymouth congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are participating in a four-day major Bible conference at Lansing, July 26-29, it was reported by C. Harold Coonce, presiding minister here.

Upwards of 10,000 persons were expected for the event being held in the Civic Center in Lansing. Although convention officials had designated the meeting as a tri-state affair, requests for accommodations have been received from 18 states. To augment restaurant facilities, the Witnesses have in operation a cafeteria where some 20,000 meals will be served during the four-day stay in Lansing.

Purpose of the meeting, said Coonce, is to aid all Jehovah's Witnesses and those attending in becoming adequately qualified for the ministry of announcing Jehovah's (God's) Kingdom. Emphasis will be placed on obtaining and properly evaluating accurate Bible knowledge.

R. L. Anderson, principal speaker at the conference, will deliver the main public address, "Why Permanent Peace Will Come in Our Day," Sunday, July 29, at 3 p.m. The convention is sponsored by the Watchtower Bible society of New York and is but one of 34 such conferences being held throughout the U. S. and Canada this summer.

Average egg consumption per person in the United States rose from 295 a year in 1920 to 417 last year.

Release Information on Death Claims

Four suggestions to aid Michigan survivors of deceased veterans in filing claims for death compensation and pension were offered today by Lloyd H. Jameson, manager of the Detroit Veterans Administration Regional office.

Jameson said the Detroit Regional office now processes new claims for death benefits under a recent VA decentralization program. Formerly, these claims had to be sent to St. Paul, Minnesota, or Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, District Offices for processing.

By following these four suggestions, survivors will expedite the payment or rejection of claims, Mr. Jameson said.

1. If the veteran's death certificate does not contain a statement as to the cause of death, it should be accompanied by a certificate from the attending physician showing the dates of treatment and cause of death.

2. A widow filing a claim should furnish the record of her marriage to the veteran. If she or the veteran were previously married, she should furnish copies of death or divorce certificates to establish that previous marriages were dissolved.

3. If minor children are among the survivors, birth or baptismal records are required, containing the names of both parents and date of birth. If the children were adopted, a copy of the court order of adoption is needed.

4. Parents filing a claim must establish their relationship to the veteran by furnishing VA with a certified copy of the veteran's birth or baptismal certificate containing the names of both parents and evidence of their dependency.

Mr. Jameson said this evidence is required by the laws governing compensation and pension payments.

The best course of action, in many situations, cannot be followed.

Auxiliary Offers Educational Aid

Helping and encouraging qualified high school graduates to continue their education is one of the activities in which women of the American Legion auxiliary throughout the nation are engaged in this summer, according to Miss Carol Langmaid, Education and Scholarship chairman of Passage-Gayde Auxiliary unit.

The Auxiliary has scholarships and educational loan funds of its own to aid children of veterans seeking higher education, she pointed out, and has extensive information about other scholarships. It also has access to full information about requirements and opportunities in various fields of endeavor open to young men and women who prepare themselves by specialized study.

"Our American Legion Auxiliary is especially interested in attracting young people to fields in which shortages of trained workers exist," Miss Langmaid added. "A college degree is essential for entrance into most of these fields, and we urge high school students to select their field as early as possible so their studies can be directed toward the required degree."

"Educational aid in some form usually can be found by qualified students earnestly desiring higher education. It is most important that they have the necessary requirements for admission to the college courses they desire, and high school students can spend very profitable hours this summer studying opportunities and requirements of the fields in which they are interested."

Lions Install Officers At Party Saturday Night

Robert Erdelyi will become president of the Plymouth Lions club this Saturday night when the service organization holds its ninth annual installation party.

The speaker will be Charles W. Brown, director of the Michigan district of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Music for the affair will be furnished by Ray DeMichele and his orchestra. The party will be at Arbor Lill.

Taking office with Erdelyi will be William G. Fehlig, first vice-president; Cameron Lodge, second vice-president; Richard Fritz, third vice-president; Clifford Manwaring, secretary; Dr. Ralph Snoke, treasurer; and Thomas Notebaert, tailtwister.

D. Galin & Son Opens Warehouse on South Mill

D. Galin and Son, local appliance and furniture dealer, has opened a new warehouse at 1150 South Mill street.

Located east of the new junior high site, the building measures 30 by 50 feet. Owner David Galin states that the new building will allow the store to stock a larger variety of merchandise and will eliminate waiting for special customer orders from wholesalers.

Galin added the furniture line to his appliance business earlier this year.

FRANKLYN P. SMITH, son of Myron R. Smith, 1332 Sheridan, is attending the 55th session of the Culver summer schools on the campus of Culver Military Academy. A midshipman in the Culver Summer Naval school, he is among more than 1,400 boys attending the eight-week session which closes on August 18.

GREAT LAKES STEEL corporation recently announced a series of promotions, one being new Plymouth area resident, Lester R. Naragon, 41150 Ford road. He was promoted to assistant comptroller and to also augment the Detroit firm's existing staff as an assistant treasurer.

MANY PLYMOUTHITES are taking advantage of the opportunity to see some outstanding plays and musicals at the area's summer playhouses. The "Plymouth Night" performance at Melody Circus last week was the first experience for many at a summer stock presentation. Nearly 1,300 attended the Rotary club-sponsored production of "Annie Get Your Gun."

For those interested in current and coming attractions, Melody Circus now has "Guys and Dolls" through August 4, followed by "Paint Your Wagon"; Will-O-Way Playhouse is now playing "The Happy Time" through July 29 and "For Love or Money" is opening July 31; and the new Northland Playhouse, now featuring Cesar Romero in "Strictly Dishonorable," will have Margaret O'Brien in "Gigi" starting July 31.

Doctor's Life Hard Behind Iron Curtain

One of Europe's best surgeons says that Russia's most recent new look is not a change of heart. He calls it "Smiling Politics."

Dr. Rene Fontaine, professor of surgery and dean of the medical faculty at France's University of Strasbourg, said while visiting the University of Michigan Medical School recently that the Soviet's latest tactic is more treacherous than the blunt, open policy of domination which preceded it. "The Soviet's goals have not changed, and I do not believe they will," he stated.

He emphasized his point by stating, "I would rather die than have to practice medicine and teach under the communists."

Commenting on medical education behind the Iron Curtain, Dr. Fontaine said that considering the lack of freedom and shortage of medical faculty, satellite countries were producing some pretty fair surgeons. "They are generally well-trained," he stated, adding "and are performing operations, such as those of heart, with admirable skill."

He pointed out, however, that there are many drawbacks.

To become a surgeon one has to have a good standing in the Communist party. Medical men who are not party members are permitted to practice, but are cut off from all contacts with medical students, he stated.

Medical practice in satellite countries is suffering, Dr. Fontaine stated. Poland is suffering the most. Most medical school teachers are in their 70's, while the next age level of new doctors and students is below 35 years. The vacuum of men in the "prime" ages between 35 and 70 is a result of Poland's involvement in the second world war, which took a great toll of lives, he said.

To make up for the doctor shortage in Poland, the Communist government is now permitting persons to practice the more routine forms of medicine, and simple surgery, after studying only one year and this can be right after high school, he said.

Satellite countries are placing a great emphasis on research. Dr. Fontaine stated. The doctors seem to be eager to do research and are doing some good work. A great deal of money is being poured into research, and some modern research centers are being built.

Research is hampered, however, by the communist regime, he said. Physiologists, for example, cannot perform any experiments the nature of which may be contrary to the teachings of the Russian physiologists, Pavlov, who is famous for his experiments with dog reflexes.

Noncommunists researchers have a very difficult time getting their work published, as all of the medical journals behind the iron curtain have communist party members as editors. Their red pencils are aimed continuously at the noncommunist doctors, he added.

OUTDOOR NOTES

From The MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION

Further proof of the heavy demand on Michigan's game and fish resources was indicated by 1955 license sales totals, released this week. More than 2,300,000 hunting and fishing licenses were issued for that calendar year. Impressive as the figure may seem, it is not completely accurate because many more thousands enjoy fishing each year and are not required to purchase licenses. Wives of resident fishermen and children under 17 years of age do not need fishing permits. Also, no license is needed for sport fishing on the Great Lakes.

Fishing licenses accounted for approximately 1,150,000 of the total sales and another 226,000 trout stamps were purchased by fishermen.

The biggest jump in numbers, however, was among hunters as more than 1,218,000 went afield last year—an increase of about 32,000 over the preceding year. Resident hunters made up 1,197,000 of the total while Michigan was host to about 21,000 nonresident hunters.

A new "Directory of Michigan Sawmills" is available. The new Conservation Department publication contains information about all major sawmills in the state and is a revision of the 1951 directory.

Separated by county sections, the directory indicates principal species cut, names of mill operators, locations of sawmills and where special types of work or products are available.

The directory was compiled to facilitate the use of Michigan forest products. A free copy may be obtained from any district forester or by post card request to the Conservation Department's forestry division at Lansing, 26.

Oak wilt, a forest disease trying to get a foothold in southern Michigan woodlots, is in for a struggle with the state departments of Agriculture and Conservation.

Twenty-eight counties in the south half of the lower peninsula are being surveyed from Conservation Department planes to determine location of trees infected with oak wilt. Department of Agriculture ground crews will use results of the survey to find and kill these trees before the disease becomes widespread.

Conservation foresters point out that oak wilt is spotty in Michigan; not as prevalent as in neighboring states. But it is persistently taking two or three trees each year from many woodlots in southern counties. Primary, the disease attacks red, black and pin oaks and kills them within two weeks.

Department of Agriculture workers, with consent of wood-lot owners, girdle infected trees and treat them chemically to speed death and prevent roots from sprouting. Red, black and pin oaks within 50 feet of infected trees also are girdled and treated to break the chain of infection.

Two Michigan residents recently paid $10 fines for operating noisy motorboats.

According to state law, all motorboat engines must be "adequately muffled" when boats are operated on inland waters of Michigan, or within one-quarter mile of the shoreline on the Great Lakes. Special exceptions to this law are made for regulated races, regattas and speed trials.

An Adrian justice also ordered the two men, from Adrian and Onsted, to pay $7 each in court costs.

The two were listed among the 97 violators on the latest convictions report. The group paid a total of $738 in fines and $705 in court costs. Justices throughout the state also handed down jail sentences totaling 55 days.

Recent reports on two ducks banded in Michigan a few years ago give an indication of the distances sometimes covered by migrating waterfowl.

The two birds were lesser scaup, commonly called "blue-bills."

The first was banded March 28, 1952 on the Detroit River and was killed January 26, 1956 near Camaguey, Cuba.

The second duck was banded

March 26, 1953 near the mouth of the Detroit River and its flights carried it all the way to Venezuela, where it was bagged on March 4 of this year.

State and federal conservation workers band waterfowl and tabulate recovery information in order to study the birds' migration and nesting habits. This information is particularly helpful in setting waterfowl hunting regulations.

With Michigan's summer season in full swing, fishermen and others using small boats are reminded that safety precautions should be observed.

One of the surest ways to court disaster is to stand or walk in a small boat. Boating experts agree that passengers in a small craft should change positions only in shallow water where a sudden mishap will not be tragic.

Some other safety tips from boating experts: Do not stand when you raise or lower an anchor, for you are overbalanced when doing so and may tip the boat. For fishing and casting, it isn't necessary to stand.

If an accident occurs and the boat does capsize, don't leave it. A floating boat will support many persons clinging to the sides. It's your only link to life, so stay with the boat and wait for help.

Preparing "Lemon Fluff," a favorite warm-weather dessert, is Mrs. Gustaf Lundquist of 348 Auburn.

Mrs. Lundquist Recommends Gelatin Dessert

Mrs. Gustaf Lundquist of 348 Auburn comes up this week with a refreshing suggestion for a warm-weather dessert—one that requires no baking and very little effort on the part of the cook in its preparation.

"Lemon Fluff" is the recommendation, a variation on the popular gelatin desserts. You'll find the dish dressy enough to serve the afternoon bridge club or as a nice finishing touch to a heavy meal. An added attraction for the hostess is that the dessert may be prepared the day before.

Procedure is as follows:

Lemon Fluff
1 large can evaporated milk
1 package lemon jello
1-3/4 cups hot water
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 cup sugar
2 1/2 cups crushed vanilla wafer cookies to line 9 x 13-inch pan.

Place can of milk in refrigerator overnight or longer. Dissolve jello in 1-3/4 cups hot water. Let stand until practically set, then whip until fluffy. Whip milk and add cup of sugar. Fold into jello mixture. Pour over crumbed wafers, saving some to be used for topping just before serving (whipped cream may be used as topping substitute). Recipe makes 12 generous portions.

Strawberry jello with two small boxes of frozen berries (or box of fresh) may be used as substitute for the lemon flavoring in this recipe. With frozen berries use 1 1/2 cups hot water, omitting lemon juice.

MISTAKES . . .

- When the butcher miscalculates and adds an extra pound of meat to your order, no real harm is done.
- When the grocer sends over a brand of breakfast cereal different from the one you specified, again no real harm is done.
- When the hardware man absent-mindedly wraps up a 100-watt bulb instead of the 60-watt bulb you really wanted, once more there's no real harm.
- In fact, all these mistakes can easily be corrected — with no injury to anyone.
- Not so when it comes to a prescription. A mistake in filling a prescription can result in grave consequences. Nor can it be easily corrected.
- That is why the pharmacist checks and rechecks and triple-checks every prescription he handles — over and over and over.
- The butcher, the baker, and the candlestick-maker may be permitted their mistakes. But not the pharmacist!

Here's Host of "Cool" Ideas For Summer Drinks, Desserts

Cool and beautiful, that's what you should aim for when you plan desserts and beverages for meals on hot summer days. A Wayne County Home Demonstration agent makes some suggestions on how to do it:

LIGHT DESSERTS
A light dessert is the best choice in summer, advises the specialists, in order to avoid that uncomfortable, overstuffed feeling. Fresh chilled fruit in season can be tempting, and cracker and cheese lovers like to combine these with the fruit. When you have pudding in mind, prepare it early in the day. And at meal time why don't you try a topping of fruit, canned or fresh, shaved chocolate, or a spoonful of bright jelly. Homemade sundae and parfaits delight children. Many families like chilled canned fruit cocktail over a scoop of sherbert. Two other favorites are fresh or frozen fruit ice cream or parfaits, and melon wedges.

Homemade ice cream is a treat in the hot summertime. Even if you haven't got a crank freezer, you can make ice cream in the refrigerator. Such ice cream, if for some reason is left too long in the freezing compartment, will become icy. When this is the case, the ice cream will improve when held at room temperature a few minutes just before serving.

FOR THAT MINT FLAVOR
Mint is a delicious flavor to add to a dessert. For a refreshing summer treat, you might like to try using mint in lemon ice as the specialists suggest. This recipe idea consists of cooking mint with lemon juice, sugar and water. Strain and cool. Then combine it with stiffly beaten egg-whites and put into a freezer tray. Such a lemon-mint ice makes a cooling finish to a summer meal.

Mint blends well with pineapple juice, too. Or, if you like fresh pineapple, use mint for flavoring in this way: Coat fresh pineapple with powdered sugar to which chopped mint has been added. Allow this to stand until the sugar has melted. This makes a perfect light dessert for a heavy dinner.

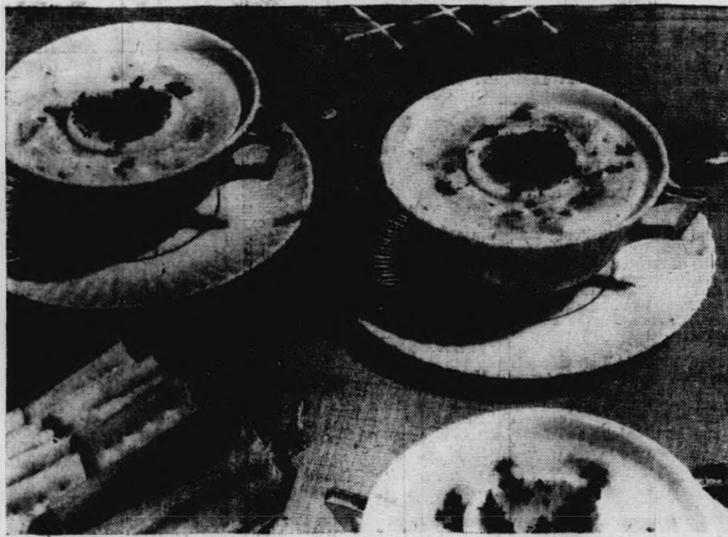

SURE "COOLERS"
The county agent agrees that iced beverages are sure "coolers." Fruit punch is a certain remedy when the crowd begins to wilt. Do you include gingerale in yours? The electric mixer whips up tasty milk shakes. And ice cream blended with soft drinks in the mixer is delicious... such as gingerale, ice cream and chocolate syrup in combination. Crushed pineapple is refreshing used in the same way with ice cream and gingerale topped with whipped cream and a year or two of fresh pineapple. Then settle back for the compliments.

In making large quantities of fruit drink, it is always better to prepare a syrup. Just dissolve sugar in heated water or fruit juice to cover. Cool before adding to the mixture.

The expert suggests you use your imagination as a guide in blending juices because the combinations of fruit juices are almost unlimited. But, when you do combine two or more juices, it is best to have one predominating flavor. All ingredients should be well blended. A little salt improves the flavor. A final suggestion for zesty, refreshing fruit drinks is to serve all fruit drinks thoroughly chilled.

DECORATIVE CUBES
Ice cubes made of frozen juices with a sprig of mint and a maraschino cherry frozen inside, flavor an otherwise ordinary glass of iced tea or gingerale. Why not try a frosted fruit sherbert? Just add a scoop of cool sherbert to any of the juices you might have on hand. Place it in a frosted glass for serving. Try some of these ideas to help keep the members of your family cool this summer.

Chilled Crab Bisque Headlines Lunch Menu on Hot Summer Day

Chilled crab bisque is wonderful for a hot summer day. Ideal for the sea-food minded, it's filling and fits in perfectly as the main course for lunch.

CHILLED CRAB BISQUE
4-6 servings
2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
3/4 teaspoon pepper
3/4 teaspoon paprika

1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon minced onion
3 cups milk
1 cup light cream
1 cup (6 1/2 oz. can) crab meat, drained and cut into chunks
2 tablespoons butter

Combine tapioca, salt, pepper, paprika, dry mustard, onion, milk, and cream in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 10 to 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Add crab meat and butter and mix. Keep over hot water 15 to 20 minutes, to heat thoroughly and blend flavors. Cool about 20 minutes, stir, and chill thoroughly — 2 to 3 hours or overnight. Before serving, thin to desired consistency with milk or cream. Garnish with thin slices of lemon and finely chopped parsley.

You Can Get Pies Ready in a Jiffy With this Versatile Pastry Mix

Pie is a great American dessert! Passed down from mother to daughter, it has become a century old favorite. Fillings are numerous and add the final touch, but it takes a superb pastry to make a perfect pie.

A light hand and the right shortening spell success in pie making, says a well-known home economist.

Lard has the greatest shortening value of any plastic fat and so is the logical choice of homemakers who pride themselves on the excellence of their pies.

As a short cut for every homemaker, especially during the summer months, it will be to her advantage to keep a supply of homemade pastry mix on hand. It stores easily and with half the measuring done ahead of time, the pie will be a frequent dessert in many homes.

Homemade Pastry Mix
7 cups sifted enriched flour
4 teaspoons salt
1 1/4 cups lard for soft wheat flour or 2 cups for hard wheat flour

Add salt to flour. Cut lard into flour and salt with a fork or pastry blender until the crumbs are about the size of small peas. Cover and store in the refrigerator until ready to use. Mix will keep at least a month in the refrigerator. Yield: 8 single pie crusts.

For single pie crust, add 2 to 4 tablespoons cold water to 1/2 cups Homemade Pastry Mix, and for double pie crusts 4 to 6 tablespoons cold water to 2 cups Homemade Pastry Mix.

It's "Slim Look" For Autumn

While we are busy with our summer wardrobes, and planning and taking our vacations, designers have already decided on what the well-dressed lady will be wearing for fall and winter.

Slim lines will be the thing. The oriental look that was popular for spring will carry over into fall and winter. Winter coats will be straight and many will feature a slit at the hem line. Sleeves will be the type that can be pushed up and worn with eight-inch gloves when desired. For this reason gloves will be an important fashion note.

Hats will continue to be larger. Most hats will come with a trick comb fitted into the band to help keep it on the head on a windy day.

Full-length coats with dresses to match in a sheer wool fabric will be popular. The three-piece suit will once again be a favorite. Hats to match will give way to a contrasting color and fabric. A welcome change to most of us.

Try This Tasty Fruit Dessert!

Fresh Pear Betty (Serves 6-8)

6 cups peeled, sliced fresh pears
1/4 cup dark brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/3 cup dark brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter

Parboil pears in hot water in covered saucepan 5 minutes over medium heat. Add the 1/4 cup sugar, lemon rind and juice to pears. Pour half into a casserole. Mix remaining sugar, salt, ginger and bread crumbs. Sprinkle half over pears. Repeat with remaining ingredients. Bake 20 minutes or until pears are soft in a moderately hot (375° F.) oven.

Make TV Boon, Not Bomb To Family Life, Warns Expert

Television can be a boon or a bomb to your family life.

Before you decide which it is in your family, consider the amount of reading being done by each family member, the quality of work done by the children when at school, the play and sleep habits of the family and the amount of time the family spends talking together, suggests a family life specialist at Michigan State university.

The specialist goes on to say that television can help your family unity if you work with it. She tells of six ways this can be done:

First, study the programs that your children like best and notice how they react to them. There may be clues to their needs that parents can help fill. Share some of the programs with your children. Discuss the stories and help them realize the difference between phoney and real-life situations.

Notice whether your children seem to fall back on television because there is nothing better to do.

Guard against radio and television being a child's only outlet for a natural tendency toward aggressiveness.

Encourage children to choose programs that sharpen their curiosity about important things such as science, travel and the lives of worth-while people.

Consider Size, Types and Grades of Lumber When Selecting for House Construction Needs

(This is the third of three articles to appear on these Building Pages concerning the problem of selecting lumber for house construction needs.)

Softwood is usually sold in lengths which are multiples of two feet. It is necessary to cut boards to odd-foot lengths.

Lumber is priced and sold by the board-foot unit—that is, a piece which is nominally 1 inch thick by 12 inches wide by 1 foot long. Mouldings are usually sold by the lineal foot.

To determine the board-foot volume of a piece of lumber, use the following equation:

$$\text{Thickness} \times \text{Width} \times \text{Length} \div 12$$

(in inches (in inches) x (in feet) div. 12)

A 2" x 4" board that is 12 feet long contains 8 board feet: 2x4x12 div. 12 equals 8.

Softwood lumber is usually sold in multiples of two-foot lengths, ranging from 6 to 16 feet for white pine, and 8 to 24 feet for Douglas fir. To get a 9-foot board, the purchaser must often pay for a 10-foot length and have it cut. (Hardwood lumber is usually sold by odd-and-even-foot lengths.)

Some lumber dealers permit the purchaser to select a few boards from a given grade, but there is often an extra charge for such selection.

Dimensions of milled lumber are always scant since the wood must be seasoned and smoothed after it is measured and cut. For instance, a board nominally 1-inch thick is actually 3/4-inch thick, while a 2" x 4" measures about 3/8-inch less each way (1 3/8" x 3 3/8"). Boards nominally 6 inches or more wide lose as much as 1/2 inch in seasoning and milling.

The table shows nominal and actual sizes for commonly used softwood boards and dimension lumber as established by the American Lumber Standards.

Hardwood lumber generally is sold unplaned; thus, nominal and actual sizes are about the same.

In buying lumber, the purchaser should specify the nominal thickness and width which represent the actual dimensions needed.

Softwood logs are cut into several types of lumber. Dimension lumber, common boards, finish lumber and pattern lumber are ordinarily used in house construction.

Dimension lumber is 2 or more inches thick. It must be strong, stiff and uniform in size since it is used for framing—for joists, rafters, studs. In grading, this type of lumber is classified on the basis of strength as either common dimension lumber or structural dimension lumber. The latter is always four or more inches wide.

Common boards (or merely "boards") are less than 2 inches thick. They have square edges and are planed on one or more sides and edges. Common boards are for general use.

Finish lumber is lumber of select quality. The lowest grades include pieces whose defects normally can be hidden with a coat of paint.

Pattern lumber is special-purpose lumber machined from common boards or finish lumber. The most used patterns are described below.

To indicate quality, lumber is graded and assigned to grades. The poorest quality board permitted in each grade is specified by the grading rules. As assurance to the purchaser, many manufacturers of softwood lumber stamp the grade on the board—usually near one end.

Dimension lumber is judged primarily on the basis of strength. There are two grade groups—common dimension and structural dimension. In structural dimension grades, the grade-stamp includes a number which is an index of the strength of lumber expressed in terms of pounds per square inch.

Boards and finish lumber are graded on the basis of appearance. Hardwood lumber is graded on the amount of usable material in each board.

Grading terms and standards vary for softwoods because the grading rules are established by various lumber manufacturing associations, the rules are constantly being revised, and a certain species of wood is frequently graded by more than one association. (Most of the hardwood is graded by National Hardwood Lumber Association rules.) In the chart, grades of lumber most used for homes and described in general terms. For details on grades for a specific wood, write to the lumber association whose grade rules include the species.

To order lumber, determine the requirements of the job. Write down the thickness, width and length of each piece needed, and the number of pieces of each size. Check the chart to determine the minimum grade recommended, and the kinds of woods that are best for each purpose. Better grades than those suggested may be used, but little is gained in efficiency for the added cost. Where several species have the same rating, choose the cheapest. Species listed are the ones commonly used in house construction. All may not be available in your locality.

Paintability is not considered in the grading of lumber. Since some woods, however, hold paint better than others, the chart includes a paintability rating for exterior paints.

Window Seat Makes Good Cedar Storage

Although many older homes are spacious, it's a rare one which has enough closet space. Quite a few, however, have window seats with hinged lids which can easily be converted into a moth-free storage space for furs and woollens.

When lined with aromatic red cedar closet lining, the window seats make dry storage spaces which are readily accessible, yet out of the sight of visitors.

Lining the window seats with red cedar is a job any handy-man can do in a few hours of spare time.

Aromatic red cedar closet lining is available in handy packages at most lumber dealers. Each package contains enough of the pieces to cover at least 32 square feet of area. The cedar strips are tongued and grooved for close fit and easy installation.

When lining the window seats, cover the floor or bottom first then the sides and finally the lid. Place the grooved edge of the first pieces of cedar against one of the sides and the grooved end against the adjoining side. This will make it easier to fit other pieces to the first strip. The lid also should be lined for complete moth protection.

Humidity Out, Comfort In

It's not the heat, it's the degree of water vapor saturation in the air—otherwise known as humidity.

The truth in the old saying is a chief reason for the popularity of air conditioning, even in areas where summer temperatures are not extremely high.

Air conditioning equipment dehumidifies air as well as cools it. Engineers of the Coleman Company, Wichita, Kan., recommend keeping a house at 76 degrees Fahrenheit and 50 percent relative humidity, conditions at which practically everyone will be comfortable.

In the air-conditioning process, air is passed over a cooling coil. As the temperature of the air is reduced, its power to hold moisture decreases, and the moisture condenses on the coil, from which the water is drained away. The cooled, dehumidified, crisp air then is circulated to the rooms.

The greatest amount of moisture is removed by a blend-air system developed by Coleman. In this, the air at the cooling coil is cooled to a lower temperature than in conventional air conditioning. Up to twice as much moisture is removed.

Paintability is not considered in the grading of lumber. Since some woods, however, hold paint better than others, the chart includes a paintability rating for exterior paints.

A well-styled playhouse, built in sections and put together on the site, can be dismantled and brought inside until the next outdoors season.

How to build such a playhouse is explained and illustrated by Popular Mechanics in its June, 1956, issue. The walls and roof are made of pre-assembled panel units consisting of a lumber framework that is covered with Masonite 3/16" Tempered Presdwood.

Advantages of the Tempered Presdwood are its splinter-free qualities which safeguard youngsters, its durability in all kinds of weather, its easy paintability and its economy.

A detailed diagram showing how to build this playhouse may be seen in the magazine, or you may obtain a free copy by writing the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting Plan No. AE-313.

LAYING DOWN THE COTTON CARPET SQUARES they won in the Plymouth Community stamp contest are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Scott of 9234 Lamont street in Livonia. The sandal wood and light green squares was the gift of the Blunk Furniture Company. The 290 squares which are valued at $507, can be laid merely by peeling off the protective covering and pressing to the floor.

Hardwood Plywood Tops for Attic Built-ins and Walls

Don't overlook the crevices and corners if you are tackling an unfinished attic as your big project during this year of the "Operation Home Improvement" campaign. The inches created by attic dormers, sloping roofs, and knee-walls offer room for your imagination in devising built-ins.

Hardwood plywood is an excellent material to use for the built-ins, whether they be cabinets, bookshelves, a vanity or storage space. The material is easy to work with, and it combines the beauty of hardwood with the strength of plywood.

Choose a hardwood to match your furnishings. Most home owners turn the attic into one or more bedrooms, and hardwood plywood is available in maple, birch, oak, mahogany and walnut

Home craftsman's helper works on built-in shelves of hardwood plywood which make ingenious use of offset in attic wall. Slope above is original roof line, and dormer is to left. Wall is paneled in random-plank birch plywood as an accent wall to match built-in, which will serve as bookshelf and night stand.

Hardwood Plywood Shelves Mounted Easy Way

A surprisingly easy method of mounting bookshelves to best show off both your home library and an attractive wall area may come in handy if you are planning to modernize your home in line with the nationwide 1956 "Operation Home Improvement" campaign.

The lumber yard where the plywood is obtained generally will cut the panel for you. The built-in cabinet below the bookshelves is an attractive and important part of the structure.

The frame of the cabinet essentially is a box made of 2 x 2-inch lumber, covered with a top, side and doors cut to size from panels of 3/4-inch-thick hardwood plywood.

NEW TECHNIQUE FOR BUILT-INS

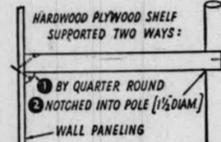

As shown in the accompanying photo and sketch, the shelves are supported in two ways—by quarter rounds along the wall and by means of inserting the opposite side of the shelves into notches cut in a length of clothes pole.

The method has two advantages. The first is that the shelves have an open, light look about them with no need for cumbersome side supports and a top valance. As little as possible of the beautiful hardwood plywood wall paneling back of the shelves is covered. The paneling is elm plywood. Shelves and cabinet are of oak plywood.

The second advantage is that the arrangement instills a note of modern design in the home. The strong verticals of the pole and random plank paneling are countered by the horizontal lines of the shelves and counter-top, yet the arrangement is not symmetrical because the pole is set off-center. This is done for structural as well as decorative reasons. Note that shelves are unsupported at one end, while short pieces of quarter round are used at the other end. The pole is set two feet from the open end to provide cantilever action support.

The four shelves are eight feet long and ten inches wide, meaning that they can be cut from one 4 x 8-foot panel of lumber core hardwood plywood, 3/4-inch thick, with a minimum of waste.

The attractive built-in setting above will enhance any home, offering room for several hundred books and cabinet storage beneath. The method of supporting the shelves gives the unit a free, open design, allowing some of the beautiful elm plywood wall paneling behind to be seen. Shelves, eight feet long and ten inches wide, and cabinet are made of 3/4-inch-thick lumber core hardwood plywood. As shown in detail at right, shelves are supported by a combination of quarter rounds at the wall line, and by being notched into a pole set two feet from the end.

Consumers Get 'Break' In New Door Standard

Among the marks of quality construction in a home, authorities of building point out, are sturdy, precision-made doors that not only will perform their utilitarian function properly but which also will enhance the attractiveness of rooms.

Thanks to a recent industry development, persons planning to build or remodel now have a reliable "quality guide" to follow in selecting hardwood veneered hollow-core flush doors, the kind used in many new homes today.

The guide, equally valuable to the builders and architects, consists of a uniform grade marking system in conformity with the new commercial standard for the doors recently promulgated by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

"Home builders and other specifiers of such doors now will be able to identify assured levels of quality more precisely than ever before," said Ormie C. Lance, manager of the National Woodwork Manufacturers Association, licensing agent for the grade labeling system. Members of the association are among the major producers of the doors.

"Development of the new standard, called CS 200-55, and adoption of the grade labeling system by many leading manufacturers," said Lance, "is especially timely because of the growing demand for high quality in hollow-core hardwood veneered flush doors."

He emphasized that only manufacturers certifying that their doors comply with all the new standard's provisions are authorized to use the NWMA labels.

In addition to setting up basic requirements for the doors, CS 200-55 covers regulations regarding inspection, methods of testing, nomenclature and definitions of terms applied to various parts and characteristics of the doors.

Construction requirements embrace such factors as materials, adhesives, sanding, tolerances, thickness, cores, edge strips, face panels and other features.

Prospective purchasers of doors would be wise, Lance said, to familiarize themselves with a few of the standard's major provisions, especially the grade marking system, which enables customers to identify the doors readily as to type and grade.

Labels are affixed to the top or bottom edges of the doors. On doors designed for exterior use the labels are red. Interior doors carry green labels. The words "exterior" and "interior" appear prominently, as do the grade names and the letters "NWMA." Each door also is clearly identified as a hardwood flush door with hollow-core.

In descending order, the grades are designated as Premium, Good and Paint. The difference in grades is principally in appearance.

The standard provides that the face veneer of a Premium grade door must be tight and smoothly cut. When the face veneer consists of more than one piece, it must be matched for color and grain at the joints. Such characteristics as knots, wormholes, splits and torn grain are not permitted.

A Good grade door also must have a tight, smoothly cut face veneer. If the veneer is made up of more than one piece, it must be matched at joints to avoid sharp contrasts in color and grain. Occasional pin knots are permitted.

Doors of Paint grade must contain no face veneer defects that would be visible after application of two coats of paint.

While the same grade nomenclature applies to both exterior and interior doors, specifications for the two types vary. The standard requires that exterior doors be bonded with waterproof adhesives which will withstand full weather exposure when the doors have been properly painted or varnished prior to exposure. The bond for interior doors must be water-resistant—that is, able to retain practically all its strength when subjected occasionally to thorough wetting and drying.

Light Plays A Leading Role In Effective Modern Decor

Public recognition of the magical properties of light in home decoration has been growing for a number of years. As a result, and because of the constantly increasing use of smooth surface resilient floorings, the light reflectancy of modern floor coverings has become a factor that today's home owners should consider carefully when planning a decor.

The light reflective qualities of the floor, usually the most important single interior surface of a room, are important when decisions concerning decorative color values are made. This is because the human eye sees color as the result of the fact that all materials reflect light, notes the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Combined with color, light can alter dimensions, expand or contract space, make for gaiety or coziness, and completely change the mood of family members by its subtle influence.

Recognizing that human eyes are more sensitive to some colors than to others, Kentile engineers have made extensive light reflectance tests of all their resilient tile floorings. Results of these tests show that light reflectance values of Kentile resilient tile range from 5% to 60%. Thus, light can be introduced into a dark room, or the quality and amount of reflected light can be reduced in a bright room by the choice of colors in flooring.

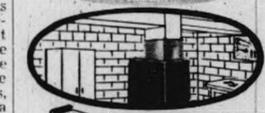

It is interesting to note the comparative reflectance properties of various colors. Jonquil yellow vinyl tile, for example, will reflect approximately 50% more light than Mocha brown or Tuxedo black vinyl tile, as sensitivity of the eyes decreases toward each end of the spectrum. The hues in a high-gloss waxed and polished flooring also appear darker than the same colors in articles which have a dull finish.

Lime green, willow green, Pilgrim gray and the warm desert tones of Adobe tan tiles increase the incidence of reflected light from 25% to 30%.

By careful selection of resilient tile flooring colors, and color combinations, the home owner can work out a color scheme and a lighting system that is most effective for the particular purpose for which each room is used.

Air Conditioning Costs Much Less In Insulated House

Insulation of your home—or lack of it—has a lot to do with the initial cost of the air-conditioning equipment you may be buying. And it means even more in terms of lower operating cost.

Tests conducted by the University of Illinois on a 4 1/2-room house showed that 6-ton air-conditioning equipment would be needed in a house that is not insulated. But with a minimum of 3 inches of mineral wool insulation in walls and ceiling joists, 2-ton equipment would do the job.

The cost of insulating the house with mineral wool was estimated to be less than $240, and this would result in reducing the initial cost of air-conditioning equipment by $840. The expense of operating the equipment also would be reduced more than half year after year.

ABOUT YOUR LAWN AND GARDEN

In small gardens, make every plant climb that can do so.

Plants Thrive In Garden's "Air Rights"

Garden fresh vegetables, say the experts, are so delicious that unless you have eaten them you cannot believe they actually exist. You can grow all the average family of four can eat during the summer, on an area 20 x 40 feet, provided you make use of your garden air rights, something which you may not have realized that you own.

The smaller the vegetable plot, the more important it is that plants which climb be required to do so, leaving more ground space for other crops.

Tomatoes, cucumbers, melons, pole snap and lima beans and tall peas, all thrive up in the air if they are given correct support. One way to provide for climbers, is with a picket fence built on the east, west and north sides of the vegetable area. To a garden 20 x 40 feet in area, a 5-foot fence will add the equivalent of 400 square feet for climbing crops.

A picket fence allows air to pass freely through plant leaves, preventing mildew. The climbers are rooted in a row at the foot of the fence and take no more ground space than a single row of carrots.

Fruits and pods borne by climbers are held above the dirt and cannot be reached by animals. It is easy to spray or dust them when necessary. While not early yielders, once vines continue to bear the rest of the summer.

Tomatoes grown on a fence, or staked, will outyield all other crops for the ground space occupied. When pruned to a single stem, plants may be set 12 inches apart; with two stems, 21 inches. Tests have been made that show single stem plants give earlier fruit and a heavier total yield.

A tomato plant naturally starts with one central stem, or leader. As soon as the first blossoms have appeared, at each joint (axil) where a leaf joins the main stem, a branch begins to grow. If these are allowed to mature, branches grow from them, and the typical mass of tangled stems will result.

To prune the plant, the side branches are removed before they are 4 inches long. If the plant is to be pruned to two stems, the central stem and one of its side branches are allowed to grow, all branches developing from these two being removed.

Tomato plants should be tied to the fence at intervals, using a loop around the stem with soft material which will not cut the stem. Cucumbers will cling to the fence, when they are started in the right direction. Beans and peas support their own growth.

Only melons bear fruit so large that it may sometimes require support to prevent it falling from the vine. A net bag such as markets use for nuts and oranges serves this purpose.

Guinea-Pig

The newlywed Mrs. Tucker was out in the yard, working on her flowerbeds, when a neighbor passed and glimpsed Mr. Tucker occupied in cleaning up the living room.

"Well Mary," the passerby remarked, "I see you're getting him started off right."

"Oh, it's just an experiment," the newly-wed rejoined. "I'm trying to find out if it's true that a new groom sweeps clean."

Not To Far

Little Old Lady—Oh, dear, I hope it won't go too far.

Garden Cultivation's Easy If You Follow Expert Method

Science has abolished aching backs and sore muscles for home gardeners. Researchers have reduced garden cultivation to a job as easy as sweeping the floor.

They have proved that deep stirring of the soil near growing plants does more harm than good, because it disturbs plant roots. While loose soil on the surface is important to avoid a crust that shuts out air, deep cultivation dries out surface soil instead of conserving moisture.

This makes a lot of difference to home gardeners, especially the feminine group. With a sharp hoe they can cultivate the garden in a jiffy, freeing their men folk to handle more difficult tasks. Present day practice is influenced by studies of the part that air plays in the soil. Every hour soil air should completely change to a depth of eight inches, if maximum plant growth is to be had. This change is favored when the soil is granular (or coarse) and porous. Pores are the spaces between the soil particles. When the soil is too compact or forms a crust, free exchange of air is prevented. When the soil is flooded, air is driven from the soil, and if this condition continues long, plants die for lack of air.

All this supports experienced gardeners in their contention that when they stir the soil around their plants just deep enough to break up the surface crust, the plants immediately show improved growth.

Deep stirring may cause harm, but shallow stirring after every rain, when the soil has dried out enough to crumble, will kill weeds in the sprout stage, and keep the dangerous surface crust from forming.

Use the hoe to cut off weeds and break soil crust.

For this, a sharp hoe blade is superior to cultivator teeth. The hoe should be used as a cutting tool, not as a digger. It can be drawn in a slicing motion just below the soil surface, so that it uproots weed seedlings in the sprout stage and cuts off the larger ones. It will break up the soil crust so that both air and water may have a free entry into the soil, while the roots of the crops remain undisturbed.

Grange Gleanings

Quite a nice crowd turned out for the second Grange picnic last Thursday. The evening was pleasantly spent in visiting, Oh yes, and eating, which is what picnics are for you know.

The next one will be on August 2 and will be a bit different. The plan is: the Grange is invited to go up to Willoughby Wisely's for a sweet corn feed. Here's hoping the corn will be ready. We are advised all who can to leave from the Grange hall at 5:30 together. We know that will be impossible for many of those who work unless they may be able to leave an hour early. It is about 25 miles up there so that should not take long. Directions may be had by calling Mrs. Paul Nash.

The community was shocked to learn of the very sudden passing of John Jacobs on Sunday morning. He was a member of the Grange and has always taken a helpful interest in the order. We shall miss him. Our sympathy goes out to his wife and family.

Our Circus Still is Alive, Anyway

About the time the advance man was coming into The Mail office to announce that a circus was coming to our community next month, we were reading about the troubles of Ringling Brothers-Bar-num & Bailey shows.

Several of the few remaining circuses have gone on the rocks in the United States in recent years. Ringling has stopped his 1956 summer tour and has some kind of plan about operating indoors in future years. It is said that the day of carrying along tents, for huge shows, is at an end.

If this is true, it could presage the end of the big top, as many Americans have known it for decades. Television has hurt some; the culture and habits of the people are different than a generation ago when the arrival of a circus in town was perhaps the biggest day of the whole summer.

But Plymouth is going to be visited by a circus — maybe two of them, this year. We're feeling kind 'a sentimental this morning, and we'll be glad to see the elephants when they plod down from their trailer.

Back to Basic Government Ideas

Last week this newspaper carried a small story about a meeting of citizens from this community, their purpose being "to study area problems."

It was really only a preliminary meeting, to get an organization formed, and there hasn't been time to determine just where and how it will operate, but The Mail wishes the group the best of success.

Undoubtedly one of the strong factors that brought about the meeting was concern over the city vs. township annexation contest. The citizens didn't mention this particular subject, however—in fact, stayed rather conspicuously away from it in their early discussions. The membership, incidentally, is composed of good citizens from both the city and township.

The real significance of the gathering was that it showed a genuine concern and interest over matters of government in this swiftly-growing community. It was a spontaneous gathering; these people gave up leisure hours at home to sit in straight-back chairs and hash over area problems.

Their plan is to take an active interest in all kinds of community matters henceforth. They want to have delegations really sitting in the council chambers and watching the performance of elected officials.

That, of course, is the way our local government is supposed to work. Officials aren't supposed to be elected and forgotten 24 hours after the votes are counted. Officials want and need public opinion as a guide on all issues as they arrive. And the public has the responsibility of seeing that its opinion is considered by its elected representatives. Civic trouble anywhere almost invariably can be traced to the time when the citizens grow lazy and indifferent and allow their representatives to proceed without inspection or guidance.

Any interested stirring among the electors is a good sign. These "citizens meetings" are open to everyone.

Rotarians Hear About GA W

EDITOR'S NOTE: Plymouth Rotary Club heard discussion last week on the "guaranteed annual wage" by John J. DeMott, a resident of Plymouth who is supervisor of the Industrial Relations Staff of the Ford Motor Company. The Mail prints here a synopsis of Mr. DeMott's remarks.

"It was quite apparent to Ford early last year that ours was the key bargaining table in the automobile industry in 1955; and, of course, a key economic issue at our bargaining table was the so-called guaranteed annual wage demand."

"Our analysis confirmed a conclusion which did not, of course, surprise us; that in our Company, and our industry, a true guaranteed annual wage, such as the UAW had officially adopted as its objective in its conventions, was simply unthinkable."

"There are many objections to a guaranteed annual wage, but the most vital ones can perhaps be summed up as follows:

1. A true guaranteed annual wage makes labor a fixed, rather than a variable cost.
2. It embodies the concept, that the employer who once hires an employee (or keeps him employed for some stated period) has an obligation to keep him paid, regardless of the need for his services and of the availability of other employment.

"On the other hand, we had no great desire to take a long costly strike if we could develop a sound counterproposal that avoided any problems which might imperil the future health, growth and well-being either of our own Company or of the free private enterprise system of which we are a part."

"Our Company, like most companies, has accepted and endorses the general principles embodied in properly drawn and administered state unemployment insurance systems. We were convinced that state benefits generally were not high enough in relation to current pay levels."

"We are convinced that state systems provide the best and soundest means of providing for and administering unemployment insurance benefits. It did not appear to us, however, that in the immediate future a majority of the states in which we operate were likely to raise their benefit structures to the levels we were prepared to accept."

"We concluded that if we could devise a plan for supplementing state unemployment benefits, a plan which met certain basic and essential criteria, we would be willing to devote a portion of the economic package to it."

"The Ford Plan supplements, by private means, the State Unemployment Compensation payments received by Ford hourly-rated employees during layoffs. The State Unemployment Compensation systems, paid for in full by companies, have been in effect for many years."

"As to benefits to laid-off employees under the Plan, an eligible employee can receive cash benefits ranging up to a maximum of $25 a week to supplement his state Unemployment Compensation benefit. Eventually these payments can extend to a maximum of 26 weeks during any layoff. The number of weeks for which benefits may actually be paid depends on the amount of money in the applicable Trust Fund, and the employee's individual status under the Plan.

"Employees must have one year's seniority to participate in the Plan. Benefits are paid only when an employee is laid off through no fault of his own."

"Within the $25 maximum limitation, the benefits when added to State Unemployment Compensation — give a laid-off Ford employee 65% of his weekly after-tax straight time wages (that is, base rate plus cost-of-living allowance for forty hours) for each of the first four weeks of a lay-off. This is after an annual 'waiting week' as in U. C. These 65% benefits are called 'Special Benefits.'"

"After an employee has exhausted his Special Benefits, the 'Regular Benefits' are 60%, including State U. C. payments, instead of 65% as before. They can last for an additional 22 weeks."

"Benefit payments are made only from two Trust Funds (a General Fund and a separate Defense Fund to cover those on defense work.) The Company contributes 5 cents per hour compensated to these Funds. The Company's contributions to these Funds constitute its sole liability under the Plan. Thus, the cost to the Company is related to production and work performed by employees — and not to the amount or time of layoffs."

"A limitation called 'Maximum Funding' has been placed on the total amount of money to be built up in the Funds. This is the frequently quoted figure of $55,000,000."

"Ford Motor Company does not advocate our Plan for any other company or industry, nor do we recommend against it. We think that each business should evaluate its own situation."

"A major misinterpretation which has been widely circulated is that Ford, with its plan, does not intend for its laid-off workers to seek other jobs. Nothing could be further from the truth. We went through a lot of hard bargaining on this very point, insisting that total unemployment benefit levels must be far enough below a man's regular Ford earnings to give him a financial incentive to find other work when he is laid off."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Confused "Sit"-uation

Been meaning all week to tell you about Curley Lawson's "baby-sitting" experience.

His Mrs. left him in charge, about seven p.m., with instructions not to let the children come downstairs. So Curley read his paper and whenever he heard footsteps on the staircase he ordered the culprit back to bed. Happened three or four times.

Little while later, Mrs. Miller from next door came over to inquire if Curley had seen her Sonny. "Here I am, Mom" came a voice from upstairs, "But Mr.

Lawson won't let me go home." From where I sit, jumping to conclusions like Curley did, doesn't always make for an amusing story. I'm reminded of the people who—without due consideration—have concluded that I'm wrong to like an occasional glass of beer. Well, to my way of thinking, that's not only intolerant... but, what's more, "minding" the other fellow's business is not the American way.

Joe Marsh

★ THINKING OUT LOUD ★

One question, sometimes controversial, sometimes personal is asked each week by The Mail of four pedestrians along Plymouth's downtown streets. This week's guests are "thinking out loud" on the question:

"City taxpayers will be voting August 7 on a $500,000 bond issue for the purchase and expansion of Mettetal airport. Do you think that Plymouth now needs or will ever need an airport?"

ELWOOD RUSSELL, 9268 Marlowe: "I believe that if I could vote on it I would vote 'yes.' This area will expand at such a pace that I firmly believe that we could use an airport. Maybe we don't need one now so much, but we will later on. I still think it's the safest way to travel."

JIM SMITH, 9245 Northern: "I think it's a good idea. Airplanes are on the increase. They are just as safe as driving your own car. I fly but I don't have my own plane."

Russell Smith Melow Speer

CHARLES MELOW, 14353 Haggerty: "I don't think we do need one. The airports at Willow Run and Wayne Major should be able to serve us. I can't see where it would be a benefit. So if I were voting, I would vote against it."

DR. LEO SPEER, 747 West Ann Arbor Trail: "Yes, I think an airport for this town will be a good thing. If they buy it now they will save a lot on the purchase price later. People who look ahead save money. As far as I can see, airplanes are here to stay."

Points of Interest

A GENERALLY FAVORABLE industrial climate for the rest of 1956 has been forecast by the Commerce Department, which also noted that some soft spots are evident. Prospects for construction and aircraft industries are reported brighter and sales of consumer durable goods are expected to hold at last year's high level. An easing of activity in the steel, farm machinery and textile industries is predicted.

THE TRAFFIC TOLL for the first five months of 1956 amounted to 14,720, a nine per cent increase over the corresponding period of 1955, and a new record. May was the 15th straight month that traffic deaths showed an increase in comparison to corresponding months of the previous years. For the first four months of 1956, there was a six per cent increase in travel and a ten per cent increase in fatalities.

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT started the new 1957 fiscal year with a national debt of $272,750,813-649. This is $1,623,409,153 below the debt outstanding on July 1, 1955. It still amounts to about $1,623 for each of the 168,000,000 men, women and children in the nation.

THE NATION'S DOMESTIC AIRLINES, apparently anticipating Congressional action, have agreed to limit the serving of alcoholic beverages on domestic flights. They agreed that no airline will promote the availability of alcoholic beverages; no more than two drinks will be served to a passenger, and no drink will contain more than 1.6 ounces of any alcoholic beverage. The agreement does not include serving of beer or wine.

STATISTICIANS REVEAL THAT almost 70 per cent of the population 15 years old and older is married, about ten per cent above the figure fifteen years ago. The nation's married population now totals 81,750,000, which compares with 75,000,000 in 1950 and 60,250,000 in 1940. At present about half the men who marry do so before age 23, while for women the median age at first marriage is about 20.

(Editor's Note: The Mail is eager to print readers' letters at all times. In order to have space for everyone, however, it is necessary in the future that letters be confined to no more than 400 words in length. The following letter exceeds that limit but is being published because it was received prior to the imposition of the 400 word limit.)

EDITOR:

The honorable supervisor has repeatedly asserted, or at least he has implied, that for the city of Plymouth to annex further portions of Plymouth township would constitute nothing more or less than a selfishly malicious "grab" and the word "grab" is the word which has been repeatedly used by Eugene Wagnall New College Standard Dictionary defines the word in the following manner: "GRAB: To grasp rudely; clutch or snatch; seize suddenly, violently, or dishonestly; a dishonest or unlawful taking possession or acquisition."

To the best of this writer's knowledge or belief there has never been the remotest evidence that the government of the city of Plymouth, nor any of her citizens, has ever wished to gain city expansion through dishonest, dishonorable or unlawful means. The city government, as well as the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, have supported area expansion, but only through democratic rights already long established by law.

It is entirely normal and regular for any live American city to wish to develop, grow and expand.

But right here some degree of the inconsistency seems to crop up. That is, the same elements who now shout "grab" are themselves in process of putting the squeeze on their would-be friends and neighbors. That is, they have caused a petition to be brought forth which, if put into effect, would place a restrictive girdle around the present city's lifeline.

It seems that a large number of the good citizens of the township voted against annexation in the belief that, should they become a part of the city, their taxes would immediately increase. Maybe so — maybe not — for nobody knows. But the point is this — that these same people have petitioned for a new and separate city anyway, and that should the proposed new city come into being there would most certainly come a change in their tax situation.

"But," someone in the township asked, "if annexation took place wouldn't the present city of Plymouth government try to run our own affairs? We have always run our own affairs and we're content to keep right on doing so." The answer to that is certainly the present city of Plymouth would NOT be running present township affairs — at least not any more than present township people would be running present city affairs.

Let us reason together. The present township area covers a much greater area than does the present city area. And, considering only the east half of the township, this fact still remains. And the township area is growing tremendously fast.

So what! Well, if the township and the city, or the east half of the township and the city, should become one unified whole — all one city government, that is — then each and every citizen living throughout the entire present township area, would have equal right and voice with those now living within the present city area. It is conceivable, and it is reasonably possible, that should the city and the township combine into one finer and greater city of Plymouth, that citizens now living within present township territory could, and might, capture all the offices within the enlarged and greater city.

Commodity Prices Important

Babson Park, Mass. The whole world has been upset economically and politically by World War II and its aftermath. In the midst of our own long postwar boom — only recently showing signs of decline — it is hard to believe there are many areas where serious losses and widespread suffering have resulted. Prices here have been so stable that we have forgotten the importance of commodity market trends.

PRICES SHOULD BE WATCHED CLOSELY

For more than 50 years, I have been keeping tabs on commodity price swings. The Babson Organization has been publishing a Business Inventory - Commodity Price Forecast over this long period, primarily because I believe that a knowledge of month-to-month developments in the major cash commodity markets will benefit all businessmen. Commodity prices should be watched closely, especially in these uncertain times.

The so-called "built-in stabilizers" of our post-depression American economy have helped us forget the basic principle that the price of each commodity is finally determined by the supply relative to the effective demand. A surplus of a commodity brings lower prices and vice versa. The many attempts of governments and individuals to control prices have all ended disastrously.

SWINGS IN PRICES

Years of study have shown that commodity prices move in definite cycles. I have proved to my own satisfaction that individual commodity prices, as well as groups, follow distinct — though not regular — periodic fluctuations. Of course, one must distinguish clearly between the major cyclical or long swing movement and the minor or shorter swing movement. When both trends are in the same direction, the price movement is accentuated. Other-

COMMODITIES AND INVESTMENTS

From my readers' mail, I notice that there are comparatively few questions on commodities. Most people are interested only in individual securities or groups of securities. They simply do not realize that supply-demand trends and prices in the commodity markets determine, to a considerable extent, the return they get on their stocks.

I never buy stocks without giving consideration to price trends in the products made or heavily used by the company in which I plan to invest. I recommend this policy to others and I caution against speculating in the commodity futures market. You can make money fast in commodity futures, but you can lose it twice as fast! The fluctuations of the stock market are great enough; but commodity prices fluctuate even more.
