Community Fund To Open Drive Oct. 15

Plymouth will kick-off its annual Community Fund Drive on Tuesday, October 15 and three weeks later should be nearing its goal of $31,549.

The $31,549 figure is the exact amount needed by the Community Fund to meet the needs of agencies which will share this year's donations. There will be nine local or semi-local organizations receiving 85 per cent of the money while 15 per cent will be divided among 21 United Health and Welfare Fund agencies administered through the United Foundation.

Richard Daniel and Mrs. L. B. Rice are general co-chairmen of the drive this year. This year's goal is slightly higher than last year's when $30,000 was asked.

Assisting Daniel and Mrs. Rice are the following committeemen: Industrial solicitations, Thomas Rossettie and Ralph Carter; commercial and professional solicitations, Mrs. L. B. Rice, Donald Rank and Dr. R. R. Barber; residential and school solicitations, Mrs. Claude Gebhardt, Mrs. R. J. Lorenz and Mrs. Eva Geller; treasurer, John Pint; publicity, John Gaffield.

None of the workers nor any of the Community Fund board members receive any pay for their services.

As in past years, business and industrial places will be called upon by solicitors after receiving pledge cards and fund information in the mail. This same mailing piece will be received by householders who will be asked to mail in their donations.

The American Red Cross has again combined its drive with that of the Community Fund. These are the local agencies:

Boy Scouts	$3,000
Girl Scouts	$2,620
Salvation Army	$6,000

Nazarenes Plan Homecoming and Dedication Day

A combination Homecoming Day and dedication of the new parsonage will be celebrated this Sunday by the Plymouth Church of the Nazarene on East Ann Arbor Trail.

Reverend Robert North, now of Pontiac and first pastor of the local church, will speak at the morning service at 10:45. He was pastor here from 1933-1945 and was instrumental in much of the early growth of the church.

He was followed by Rev. W. O. Welton, now of Flint who served here from 1945-1952. During this time, an addition was made to the church on Holbrook Ave. and three acres on Ann Arbor Trail were purchased. Rev. Welton will speak at the 2:30 p.m. service prior to the dedication service of the new parsonage.

Dr. W. M. McGuire will be present to dedicate the parsonage. Rev. David Reider of First Baptist church will represent the Plymouth Ministerial Association. Following dedication services, open house will be held until 5:30 with the public invited to view the home. Refreshments will be served in the recreation room. Rev. Bernard Gill, who was

After reviewing the 36-page engineering report on the future of Plymouth city's water supply, city commissioners voted Monday night to conform its existing policy of not providing any more water taps outside the city limits except where a water main already exists.

Commissioners met a week ago in a committee-of-the-whole session to discuss the engineering report. The report itself recommended that the commission "take a long look at its obligations to the taxpayers within the city limits" before supplying water to Plymouth township.

After taking their look, commissioners decided to follow the report's suggestion. With five of the seven commissioners present Monday, the vote was unanimous to continue the no-water policy for areas outside the city boundary. There is one exception. They decided to continue the policy of granting a one inch tap for properties outside the city if a water main already exists in front of the property.

Newcomer's Club Forms Here Tonight

Tonight marks the first meeting of Plymouth's newest organization—the Newcomer's Club.

The meeting, to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the home economics room of the high school, will be sponsored by the Theater Guild. They will feature a one-act play, "The Valiant," and an explanation of guild activities by president Russell Creel.

"The Valiant" was performed Monday night in the high school annex auditorium under the direction of Dr. Ford Sutherland. Cast members are Michael Toth, Jim Brown, Lioby Currier, Abe Kooiman and Dr. Sutherland.

Newcomer's Club co-sponsors, the Chamber of Commerce and the Adult Education Department, hope that the individual meetings will continue to be sponsored by clubs, organizations and merchants of Plymouth.

A program such as this will help introduce Plymouth to newcomers and reveal the activities available. Such organizational details will be discussed at tonight's meeting.

Old residents who would like to become better acquainted with Plymouth are also invited to attend.

Strike Stops Some Work Here

Plymouth and the rest of Michigan is suffering no ill effects from the strike of Western Electric Co. equipment installers, although it is directly affecting the installing of automatic dialing equipment here.

Near normal phone service was reported yesterday as the strike went into its third day. In communities where operators refused to cross picket lines, supervisory personnel manned the switch boards.

Since Plymouth still has switchboard operators, picketing here could bring some delays. Supervisory personnel would be rushed in if operators respected picket lines. But Plymouth was not among the 25 offices being picketed.

Michigan Bell's new equipment building on Ann Arbor road has been abandoned by installers. But a Michigan Bell spokesman said that unless the strike is a long one, the cut-over date to automatic phones by May 1 should not be seriously hampered.

STRIKE UP THE BAND! It's football time again in Plymouth and the colorful Plymouth High school band will again add to the excitement of the Friday night skirmishes. Leading the band this year is Drum Major Dennis Simpson, surrounded, from left, by lovely majorettes Kathy Yakley, Judy Forshee, Yvonne Millington and Marilyn Wilkinson. The first home game is Oct. 4.

Rocks Open Grid Season Against Northville There Tomorrow Night

The Plymouth Rocks, after three weeks of sweat, drill, and unglamorous practice, will officially open their 1957 grid season tomorrow night at Northville. Game time is 8 o'clock.

Northville, for years a traditional opening-season opponent in both football and basketball, is sporting a team of considerable size this year for a town of Northville's dimensions — one man in particular.

That man is Big Jeff Goodrich, a 6-foot 9-inch, 265 pound senior who will undoubtedly receive the nod for first string center duties when the kick-off whistle sounds. However, just how active this "mountain" is when needing to move after a runaway Plymouth back won't be known until the occasion arises and it surely will.

Exceptional over-all speed and team balance will be the key factors the locals will introduce to Northville fans tomorrow evening to counter against the heavy Mustang squad. However, as always, breaks will play a major part in the expected tooth-and-nail battle.

Tag Day Friday

The Plymouth Moms will be on the streets from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday selling tags. Contributions will aid veterans hospitals in Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids, Gaylord, Saginaw and Battle Creek. The U.S.O. Milk Fund in Detroit will also benefit.

Last year Plymouth edged the visiting Northville Eleven, 13-12, in the season's opener, and trumped them, 37-0, in '55. But this fast approaching contest should be one of the all time toppers in the age-old gridiron rivalry between the schools—and one not soon forgotten. The first Plymouth home game is against Allen Park on October 4.

Symphony to Open Membership Campaign

The week of September 22-28 has been proclaimed as "Plymouth Symphony Week" by Mayor Harold Guenther in honor of the annual membership drive sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony Society.

This drive will mark the beginning of the 12th consecutive concert season of the orchestra, with the opening concert of the series to be held at 4 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 13, in the Plymouth High school auditorium.

Mrs. Stahlr Edmunds, 1347 W. Ann Arbor Trail, heads the membership committee which this year has established a goal to broaden support for the orchestra and to establish a new membership record for the society. Detailed plans have been made to provide membership opportunities to those residents and business firms of Plymouth and the outlying areas. Personal contacts are also being planned as a part of the membership drive.

Several new features were found by music lovers in the concert series this past year, including a Pops Concert and a new orchestra shell at the high school. On of the outstanding programs was "Hansel and Gretel" which was repeated by popular demand for the Christmas concert. Details of the coming outstanding season will be announced during Plymouth Symphony Week.

The Plymouth Symphony is supported solely from memberships, contributions and other funds received by the society. The Symphony Ball, one of the social highlights of the Christmas season, is also sponsored as a fund-raising activity. Plymouth's Symphony is composed of about 90 musicians, many of whom are also members of other orchestras, including the Detroit Symphony. The Society also supports a Junior Symphony comprised of 20 school-age musicians from Plymouth and neighboring communities. The senior group plays six concerts each season and in the past has been assisted by the Civic Chorus in one concert each year.

Commission Explores Farmer St. Paving, Western Electric Problem

Plymouth's city commissioners are giving consideration to paving Farmer street in order to provide an additional route to work for employees of the future Western Electric Co. plant on Sheldon road.

But the company and city are faced with a new problem created by a Wayne County Road Commission's ruling that large trucks won't be able to travel on Sheldon road.

City Manager Albert Glassford told the commission Monday night that the road commission forbids heavy trucks to use Class B highways, such as Sheldon road. With Western Electric expecting to bring in a dozen or so truckloads of heavy material such as wire and cable each day, the problem is a serious one.

To make the road suitable for trucks, it would need to be concrete. Western Electric had hoped to bring in its trucks through Six Mile road and south on Sheldon. Concreting these roads would be extremely costly.

The city manager said that trucks could use Penniman avenue, but concreting of Sheldon from Penniman to the railroad would be necessary. Costing $65,000, the county said that it would pay half while the other half would be shared by Western Electric and the city. Routing the trucks downtown would not be desirable, he said.

If the city gets into some expense for helping to pave Sheldon road with concrete, it may not have enough funds to pave Farmer street from Blunk to Sheldon. Paving the section with concrete would cost an estimated $61,951.

The majority of property owners along Farmer have sided with facing the street. It has previously been the policy to assess sidewalk pavement at 70 percent of the cost. The manager recommended that assessment for sidewalks on the project be 50 percent, or about $9 per linear foot. The balance would be paid by the city.

Chamber of Commerce Launches World Travel Series October 27

A new program called the "World Travel Series of Plymouth" will make its debut here Sunday, October 27 under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce.

Six of the country's outstanding travel lecturers will appear at Plymouth High School with color films that they have taken themselves. Locale of the films will range from Africa and South America to the South Seas, Europe and an around-the-world adventure.

Similar travel lectures in Detroit and Ann Arbor have resulted in overflow crowds during recent years. Success of the series in Plymouth this season will mean a continuation of the program in future years.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the series with the cooperation of the Adult Education and Recreation Department of the schools. The Travel Center, managed by Kurt Thrun is underwriting the series and securing the speakers.

Here is the list of speakers and their subjects:

October 27 — John M. Goddard, "Bongos Down the Congo" (Africa);
Nov. 24 — Gordon Palmquist, "Norway, Sweden and Denmark" (Scandinavia).
Dec. 8 — Aria Parke Schawe,

"South American Summons" (S. America).
Jan. 19 — Col. John Craig "Adventure In Europe" (Europe).
Feb. 16 — Aubert Lavastide "South Sea Holiday" (South Seas).

Chamber has agreed to keep the admission cost as low as possible. Season tickets will be $4.50 for adults (or 75 cents per program), and students, $2.50 (about 41 cents per program). Single admission are 90 and 50 cents. Season ticket holders will have reserved seating. Season tickets are now available at the Chamber office and the Travel Centre. The films are being highly recommended for students. All programs are on Sunday and will start at 3 p.m. Chamber Manager J. H. Wilcox, in announcing the series, declared that "this is another of many cultural activities which help make Ply-

Attendants Don Autumn Colors For Schmidt-Woodworth Vows

Connie Lou Schmidt and Alan James Woodworth spoke their vows before Rev. Henry Walsh in a candlelight ceremony at First Presbyterian church.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William A. Schmidt of 171 Blunk street and the bridegroom is the son of Maurice Woodworth of 986 Church street.

Soloist Nat Sibbold sang "Still is the Night," "I Love Thee" and "The Lords Prayer."

The bride wore a white slipper satin gown with an empire waistline, chapel train, a scooped neckline outlined in Alencon lace appliques and accented by seed pearls. Her crown of orange blossoms held a fingertip veil of French illusion.

She carried a white bouquet of Fuji chrysanthemums, baby chrysanthemums and stephanotis. A single strand of pearls was at her neck.

Mrs. Marcia Bohl, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of bronze crystal with a floating panel of eggshell chiffon. The bodice was fashioned of softly shirred chiffon. A tiny bronze pillbox headpiece and eggshell accessories completed the costume. She carried yellow Fuji and baby chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids were Joan Birbeck of Belleville, Betty Lewis of Livonia, Gail Engel of Detroit and Mrs. Marilyn MacKellar of Rochester. They wore gowns styled identically to the matron of honors in apricot crystal with eggshell chiffon trim. Bronze and Fuji chrysanthemums and baby chrysanthemums were carried.

The bridegroom asked his brother-in-law, William H. Bohl, to be best man. The ushers were Hal Becker, Bob Samuels, Charles Birbeck and William G. Schmidt, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schmidt wore a sheath dress of dusty rose peau de soie with a full paneled back. She wore rose accessories and a corsage of pale pink sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil LaPointe and children Bruce, David, Mark and Nan of Joy road, along with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nida and children Robert, Gail and Jane of Dearborn spent Sunday, September 15, picnicking at beautiful Camp Dearborn.

Last Thursday, September 12, the bus of St. Michael's school was involved in an accident while loaded with children. A few of the children were shaken up and some had a few bumps and bruises but the most damaging blow was dealt to the bus, in that it was rendered useless and has caused no end of confusion to the school. All children have to be transported via automobile until bus repairs are completed. It is wonderful to see the marvelous cooperation among the parents as they form their own car pools to deal with the emergency. By the way boys and girls, please be careful on your way to school and obey all the rules so you won't get hurt and drivers, remember to be alert for the youngsters, too. Always expect the unexpected!

Mrs. Edward Fegan of Newburg road is home recuperating after a recent heart attack. However, her daughter, Mary Alice is now in Byers Memorial hospital in Ypsilanti and cards of good cheer and get well wishes would be most welcome at this time.

Half Century in Plymouth Passes for Beyer Drugs

Dusty glass containers with ground glass tops, still holding preparations of undetermined vintage, line the top of a prescription cabinet in the back room of Bob Beyer's drug store on Liberty street.

They summarize the story of Beyer Drugs, since they date back to the establishment of the store in 1907 by Beyer's father, Otto F. Beyer in 1907.

In 1907 those bottles stood in the windows of the building where Clover TV is now when Otto Beyer first opened shop. In today's store prescriptions dating back to the turn of the century can be found tucked away in the files.

He ran the store single-handed, a far cry from the 17 full time employees including 5 registered pharmacists, needed to operate two Beyer drug stores today. The first Christmas eve after the store opened, he took in $21, an amazing day's business in those times. Beyer and his wife counted it three times to make sure there was no mistake.

In 1920 he built the two-story brick building next door to the present site of Beyer Drugs at 165 Liberty. He moved the drug business to the first floor and lived with his family upstairs.

Pharmaceuticals were not the only merchandise in the old Beyer Pharmacy—a good business in Edison phonographs was also done.

The high stone curbs in front of the Liberty street stores are not remnants of another era, but a curiosity of city road paving. Once of average curb height, they gained their stature when the road was lowered for paving.

Mr. Beyer studied to be a doctor but switched to pharmacy to avoid the night riding and distant calls. He was called 'Doc' by all who came to his store for their ailments. The store prospered under 'Doc' Beyer until his death in 1941.

His wife and daughter, Marion ran the store until 1946 when his son Bob was discharged from the service. When he completed business college Bob Beyer bought the business from the family, built a store at 505 Forest in 1951 and plans another to open in November across from the A & P on Ann Arbor road.

The 50th anniversary of Beyer Drugs will be celebrated this Friday and Saturday. Bob Beyer is sure this is the anniversary, although the founding date has been hazy. It wasn't until recently that he discovered it was 1907, not 1906 as he had believed.

The original store affiliated with Rexall in 1911, and has since taken an active part in the company. Bob Beyer is the 1957 president of the Michigan Association of Retail Druggists of the Rexall Company.

Miss Judy Veresh of Clemons drive is attending the University of Michigan for her freshman year. Judy was one of the fortunate students to receive a Ford scholarship this year.

Plymouth High School
BY LIZ SARAH

As school convenes, resolutions for a more profitable school year are fervently being made by many farsighted students. With all these promises flying about, high school life is really a beehive of activity.
The "Council Kickoff" and Chess Club dance are the only dances that have been presented thus far. Judging from the number of students that flocked to the gymnasium for the first dance of the season, PHS students are certainly on their toes! John Small, 1956 graduate, did the disc spinning as the new orchestra shell was put into service thus adding to the tone quality of the record music.
The boys are not the only ones who are engaged in vigorous practice for the first football game. That vivacious group of five girls, known as the Varsity cheerleaders who are always bubbling over with pep and school spirit, are busily getting tuned up for the ensuing season.
Under the guidance of their adviser, Miss Shirley Kaczorowski, who is the new Girls' Physical Education Instructor, Jay Spigarelli, Jeanette Foreman, Mer Palmer, Bette Fargo, Janet West and Jeanette

Ridley are anxiously awaiting that kickoff.
Don't be alarmed if you see some starry eyed students wandering dazedly about the town; they are merely the Juniors who have received their class rings.
There is a certain thrill and feeling of additional maturity when a student slips "his class" ring on his finger. This is the final step which means that he is a full-fledged member of his prospective alma mater. The class ring establishes a bond between the students. Incidentally, if you run into one of these dazed people, (or they run in to you) take a look at those rings; the committee that chose the design did an excellent job.
Footlights, greasepaint, props and applause have lured a number of dramatically inclined students into organizing a Theater Club. A meeting was held at 11:30 Friday morning, September 13, to decide whether such a club would be desirable. Robert Southgate, teacher of speech and drama at the high school, has assumed the responsibilities of adviser for this project.

Plymouth Elks Win Lower Bracket Division of Inter-County League

The Plymouth Elks readily accepted a forfeit from the sadly lacking Chelsea squad last Sunday and consequently became champs of the lower division playoffs of the Inter-County League.

The Chelsea coach, unable to field a full team, called League President Levandowski and then notified Elks mentor Gar Evans of his inability to play the contest. The Elks are now the undefeated winners of the lower bracket.

In the upper division, Ken Kisabeth hurled a tight four-hitter as his Northville teammates recorded a 3-2 victory in their best two-of-three series with Romulus. The two squads, only ones still in contention for upper division honors, staged the battle at Romulus before an unhappy home crowd.

The Jay Cees opened the bottom of the first with three walks and a single which netted them their only tallies of the contest. Ken then scattered three harmless safeties over the remaining eight frames to chalk up the win.

Northville tied the score in the fifth on Newton's two-run double, and drove in the winner in the seventh.

Next Sunday, Romulus will challenge the Merchants at the Northville diamond, game time 2:30.

Play-off standings

Division	Team	Record
Upper Division	Northville	4 0
	Romulus	3 1
Lower Division	Plymouth Elks	4 0 winners
	Chelsea	2 2 eliminated

Still Time to Enter Golf Tourney

There is still time to register for the Plymouth City Golf Tournament to be held at Hilltop Golf Course this coming Saturday and Sunday, September 21 and 22. All male residents of Plymouth are eligible to enter the two day 36 hole tourney.

Applications may be obtained at Brae Burn Golf Course, Hilltop, or the Plymouth Country Club and must be mailed either to Hilltop Golf Course or to Davis and Lent Sports Department. The $8 registration fee must be included. Perhaps at this late date the transaction might better be handled in person.

Hopes are that a large turnout will be present for this event, which will become an annual affair if interest warrants it. The tournament is sponsored by The Plymouth Jr. Chamber of Commerce.

SPORTSEEN

by Bill Hubert

The two-week old practices of the 1957 cross country team are beginning to show dividends as boys are slowly becoming conditioned for their soon-to-come two mile jaunts through the wilds. This year's 18 member squad, led by Captain Tony Monte, is under the direction of Plymouth High Athletic Director John Sandmann, who last year coached his runners to an undefeated Suburban Six League Championship. The '56 squad also captured second place in the Regionals at Trenton and finished sixth in the Class A State Meet at Ann Arbor.

The first meet of the season is against Redford Union, September 27.

The Plymouth gridders gave a very commendable performance last Friday night in a pre-season scrimmage against Highland Park. Overall team balance was a noticeable Rock feature, a factor which was lacking somewhat in the 1956 Plymouth squad.

According to Coach Hoban the results of the 1 hour 45 minute session were those which had been anticipated by the entire coaching staff.

Forty-nine boys have reported for and are now working out on the PHS Junior Varsity football squad. Coach Robert Smithling is putting them through their paces in preparation for their opening contest against Northville next Wednesday night on the local field.

The grade schools of Plymouth have met and formed two leagues of boys' intramural touch football. There are five teams in each league one composed of fifth graders and the other of sixth graders.

The fifth grade schools in competition are Smith, Allen, Gallimore, Starkweather, and Bird. Sixth grade squads come from Allen, Catholic, Smith and Hamilton and Auburn, both of which are from the new Jr. High building but constitute two entirely different teams.

More information on the two leagues will be available next week.

Disc Jockey John Small from WHRV in Ann Arbor will be master of ceremonies at the F.H.A. dance Friday September 20. The dance, entitled "The Football Bounce," is sponsored by the Plymouth F.H.A. club.

Commission Explores Farmer St. Paving

The average roadway assessment would be $589 while the average front assessment would be $675. The city's share of the project would be $44,978.59 while the property owners' share would be $16,971.41.

Commissioners decided to hold off any action on the Farmer street paving proposal until the Sheldon road paving problem is studied further.

No Flashers for Farmer

It appears that there will be no flashers or gates installed at the Farmer street railroad crossing.

City Manager Glassford and Commissioner Carl Shear, reporting on a meeting they held with Donald Hughes of the Michigan Public Service Commission, and representatives of the C & O, said that Hughes definitely will not approve flashers for the crossing without gates. And gates would be impractical, they added, because trains switching in the area would have the gates lowered a great majority of the time. Hughes told the city officials that where there are multiple tracks, it is more dangerous to have flashers than not to have them. He noted that where there are flashers, cars tend to start to cross immediately after one train is past, only to collide with a train from the opposite direction. In the past 15 years that automatic gates have been used with flashers, Hughes said, such accidents are very few. If the state were to permit flashers without gates, Hughes added, the state would someday be in for a lawsuit should an accident happen at that crossing.

Commissioners then heard that gates operated by a watchman from a tower would be approved by the state, but such a thing would cost about $17,000 a year for operation alone.

They spent a few minutes talking about an underpass at the crossing, which some day would cost a quarter of a million dollars, not counting land acquisition.

Cemetery Board Appointed

A new member has been appointed to the Riverside Cemetery board of trustees. Appointed by Mayor Harold Guenther and approved by the commission was the appointment of Richard Daniel, 300 Adams. His term will end on July 1, 1958.

Re-appointed to the board were John Bickelstaff and Harry Mumby, with terms expiring July 1, 1959 and 1960 respectively. Appointments were made under terms of the new cemetery ordinance. There were no term expirations under the old ordinance. Daniel replaces E. C. Hough who decided not to serve again.

Zoning Change Read

First reading was given to an ordinance to amend the zoning ordinance. It asks that a lot at Amelia and Mill street containing two buildings be changed from C-1 to C-2. The request was made by Grayson Jones who wants to use the building formerly occupied by a car wash business for shipping white mice. Jones raises the mice for scientific research centers.

converted in the Plymouth church, will be preaching in the evening service with Ray Williams directing the 25-voice youth choir. The service starts at 7 o'clock.

Rev. E. T. Hadwin of Pomona, Calif., who served the church during construction of the present auditorium, was responsible for leading the church into the project. He was pastor from 1952-56. Substantial gains in all departments were made under his ministry.

The parsonage was started last April with the major part of the work done by the congregation. Rev. Charles D. Ide served as contractor.

The estimated value of the new parsonage is $30,000 and consists of four bedrooms, two baths, spacious living room, dining room and an all Frigidaire kitchen. The recreation room is to be equipped with a kitchen and can accommodate over 200 persons. This room will be used for all church social functions and especially for youth group meetings.

mouth different from other communities. Making such programs as this, the Theatre Guild and Plymouth Symphony available locally, we hope to attract fine people to the community and at the same time make this a better place to live."

The following are biographical sketches of the speakers:

John M. Goddard

A thriller, "Bongos Down the Congo," will open the series Oct. 27. John M. Goddard and a young British explorer, Jack Yowell, paddled native dugouts or "bongos" down almost 3,000 miles of the world's second largest river, the fabulous Congo.

This was the first expedition down the entire length of the river, from its source below Lake Tanganyika to its mouth at the Atlantic. Along its lush banks dwell the most colorful and primitive tribes of the Dark Continent. Yet, the fastest growing modern cities in Africa are found on its lower expanse.

Gordon Palmquist

The colorful Scandinavian countries of Norway, Sweden and Denmark were captured by the camera of Gordon Palmquist for the Nov. 24 program. Palmquist, a U of M graduate in history, archeology and geography, combines historical accuracy, artistic photography and perfect technique in his films.

His film will show the gay life of the three countries, the Hans Christian Andersen home, green cheese of Denmark, castles of Sweden, reindeer and the Lap people, the midnight sun, tulip fields and much more.

Aria Parke Schawe

The only female lecturer of the series, Miss Schawe traveled widely after graduating from Columbia University's school of journalism. A resident of Cincinnati, she presents films with intervals of synchronized music and a display of typical costumes of each country.

The Dec. 8 film, "South American Summons" shows an orchid farm in Columbia, volcanoes, primitive Indian life, the lost city of the Incas in Peru, famous resort spots, flying the Andes and other highlights of the continent.

Col. John Craig

Famous for his adventure films and author of the book, "Danger Is My Business", Col. Craig will take the Plymouth audience through Europe. He will cover Europe thoroughly and as interestingly as a camera possibly can.

He has shot films in 47 countries, across five continents and under four oceans. His underwater pictures have won him the coveted Academy Award. Col. Craig was in charge of the Air Force motion picture unit which photographed the Bikini Atom Bomb tests. Col. Craig is also widely known through his Sunday night network TV adventure films dealing mainly with underwater life.

Aubert Lavastide

In 1949, the University of Michigan established a Motion Picture Production unit in its Audio-Visual Center and Lavastide was appointed director. Since then he has produced over 30 documentary, educational and public relations films. His newest film is "South Seas Happiness Holiday", to be seen Feb. 16 here. It reveals life in present day Polynesia, including Pago Pago, Samoa, Tahiti and Hawaii.

Commends Police Action

A letter was read from Arthur F. Karnatz, 686 Kellogg, who commended the police department for their prompt capture of a prowler recently after his daughter saw the prowler at a window. Karnatz said that this was the first time he had had occasion to call police.

Betty Smith of Mayville spent two days last week with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Rutenbaker who reside on South Holbrook.

Activities Continue To Keep Circle Busy

Mrs. Robert Fitzner
Phone 495R

My very sincere apologies to Vicki Kuhns for neglecting to tell you about her party on August 30 when she celebrated her eighth birthday. Vicki, assisted by her parents and sisters, entertained at a luscious supper party for Terry Wilson, Wayne Upton, Rochelle and Bob Ruland, Debbie Cameron, Billy and Kent Penhalluric, Joane and Janet McGill and Cindy Kuhns.

Guess the Atkinsons on Parkview Drive believe in "share and share alike"! Esther is doing real fine after her surgery last month and now Earl, her husband, is taking his turn at New Grace Hospital in Detroit where he'll have some minor surgery done on Tuesday. Earl hopes to be home by the end of the week.

I sat in on a committee meeting last Tuesday evening out at Mrs. Laura Lickfeldts with Dot Wilson who heads the Country Store for the Carnival at Starkweather school. A couple very interesting ideas were brought up that you'll perhaps want to start working on right now.

Slip a couple of your outdoor or house plants and set in gaily painted frozen juice cans. They're a fast selling item and certainly no expense and a minimum of effort.

If any of you have some spare moments, whip up a couple of pot holders or some hot mitts out of stray pieces of bright material. It was noted that while rummage and white elephants are good sellers, they are a headache in many ways. So to avoid the last minute scramble on Carnival day please call Dot Wilson at 1836-J for a pick-up or take your usable discards to her now so that she can sort and price the articles as they come in.

Bud Wilson will help wife Dot in the Country Store and other part-time clerks pressed into service are Dee and Les Upton, Lee and Jack Ruland, Joyce and Al Trax and yours truly.

I was in error last week when I reported that Doris Kuhns would be chairman of the "Pie and Cake Walk". She and Helen Lake will assist in that event and you can call either one regarding information or donations.

Anne DeHaven Campbell, the infant daughter of Pat and Fred Campbell of Parkview Drive, was christened Sunday, September 15, at St. John's Episcopal Church with the Reverend David Davies officiating. The god-parents attending the services were Dr. and Mrs. Spottwood D. Bowers, Jr., of Grosse Pointe and godparents named but unable to attend were Mrs. James Neely of Plymouth and Pat's sister Mrs. Henry Solomon of Louisville, Ky.

Sunday afternoon the Campbells served champagne cocktails to the following guests, Mr. and Mrs. William Bovill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Curok, Mr. and Mrs. James Neely, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Huston, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinlan, Dr. and Mrs. Bowers, Jr., and Reverend and Mrs. Davies.

Mimi and Larry Brennan, over in the duplex apartments, are the proud new parents of another daughter. Kimberly Ann was born September 3 at 10:46 p.m. at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor and weighed exactly seven pounds. The Brennans have three other children; Jimmy, Kathy and Karen.

I've never won anything in my life except a cherry pie (at a cost of $2.00) so here's hoping my luck will change at the Fall Festival on September 29 at Our Lady of Good Counsel church. Bet that you'd gladly settle for the portable TV, the Westinghouse roaster, the tires, 100 gallons of fuel oil, war bonds, door chimes, gift certificates or any of the other twenty or more prizes. I'll cross my fingers, legs, eyes and toes at 8 p.m. when they start drawing the lucky winners.

The parcel post booth will be a pushover too for we who can't resist the lure of the unknown or unexpected. Members of the church have contacted friends in other states (or have done so themselves on trips) to mail packages here and they'll be sold unopened. I understand that all the packages are of one set value but there's no telling what's inside.

The ladies of the church will serve a real honest-to-goodness genuine Smorgasbord dinner from 1 to 5 p.m. with prices at $1.50 per adult and 75c per child.

Rita Munzer told me last night that they are working on an auction too so will tell you more about that next week and give you information regarding Circle folks who are taking part in the Fall Festival.

As members of the Couples Club of the Methodist Church, Doris and Ted Kuhns, Dot and Bud Wilson and we went on the hayride Saturday evening and later gorged ourselves on the hot dogs, corn roast and gallons of coffee.

Wood Gun Made By Charley Roe

(This is another in a series of light, historical remembrances by Edward C. Hough, who has lived in the Plymouth area for 85 years.)

By Edward C. Hough

Starting again on Main Street, we see the old Markham Factory. On this site Markham built a small shop about 1882 and made water tanks until 1884. It was then that Charley Roe made a wooden gun that shot a lead pellet by means of a coiled spring that was compressed by breaking down the hinged barrel. When the trigger was pulled, the spring pushed the plunger forward, compressing the air in the brass chamber and expelled the pellet with considerable force.

Markham started making this gun and when A. W. Chaffee took a sample to Chicago and came home with an order for 10,000, they decided to call the gun the Chicago and its manufacture soon gave employment to 50 people. Thus started the air rifle industry in the United States and which soon grew to considerable size and thus helped materially in building up our little city of today.

Mr. Markham formed the Markham Air Rifle Co., and E. W. Chaffee was made secretary and treasurer and A. W. Chaffee was employed as salesman. A two-story brick building was built there for their office on the second floor corner as it stands today with a three-story addition added later. All the sand and gravel used in these buildings was taken from two lots across the street where the new Chevrolet sales room now stands and which was a part of the Starkweather farm.

As the business grew, they found it necessary to have a stenographer. Carrie Short, man, who had taken a course in shorthand and typewriting at the Cleary Business College in Ypsilanti, was hired and a Caligraph was purchased. I believe this was the first typewriter in Plymouth.

When I graduated from Plymouth High School in '89, I was permitted to type my oration on this machine and I still have it somewhere among my keepsakes. Shortly after this I became the proud possessor of a Yost typewriter that inked the type from an ink pad and did excellent work in our office in the Elevator.

Both of these machines have been out of business for many years and have been succeeded by the noiseless type of today.

The success of the wooden Chicago quickly led to the invention of air rifles made from metal.

First was the "Plymouth"—made by Cy Pinckney with the help of his brother-in-law, William Burrows. The barrel of this gun was made from planished steel—the kind that was used in stove pipes at that time. Their business was started on the site of the Beam Wagon Shop located where the present Daisy warehouse now stands.

Ed Crosby, who had been successful selling pumps for the Goshen Pump Co., was hired as salesman and he did a good job for a year.

A year or so later, C. J. Hamilton invented the Daisy gun after being employed by Pinckney. The air gun fever started then and J. A. Dubnar who had a sawmill in Northville, started to make the Warrior air rifle and Merritt Stanley ran that branch of the business and Frank Parks of Plymouth did the selling.

A small factory was started in Wayne and another of considerable size in Saginaw which hired William Burrows of Plymouth to run the air rifle business.

Austin Wheeler, a salesman who lived in Plymouth and who married Anna Valentine, was instrumental in starting a factory in Grand Rapids.

Benton Harbor, Michigan started making the Upton and after a few years sold to Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago. The Atlas air rifle was made at Iliion, N. Y., and the Columbian in Philadelphia.

The first springless or pump up type was made in St. Louis, Mo., and prospered for several years. But one by one the makers folded up and the business is now centered in Plymouth.

After Clarence Hamilton sold his stock in the Daisy Co. he built a shop back of his residence on Hamilton Street and made a considerable number of cardboard toy buzz saws. At the same time he was working on a light wire stock, 22 caliber firearm which led to the building of a factory across the street and bringing his son, Coello who was working as a mechanic in Cleveland, into the business. Hamilton's gun was an immediate success and it met with a ready sale wherever it was introduced.

Across the alley from Markham's shop was the Plymouth Lumber Yard run successfully by C. A. Frisbee, our former School Supt. J. O. Eddy and others until Charles Mather acquired it. After his passing, his son David has continued the business which has been one of Plymouth's landmarks for as many years as I can recall.

Plymouth had a stroke of luck when the Jolliffes came here from Canada and started a cheese factory in what we called Cheese Town. Harry and Dan worked up a fine business and their cheese had a splendid reputation. Competition in their business was keen at the time and among other competitors was Fred Warner of Farmington who later became governor of Michigan. Another competitor in the business was a factory near the Elevator run by David Allen and Mat Powell who was often referred to as "Butter" and charged of the butter making.

The families of all of these good pioneers are still in Plymouth and are carrying on successfully.

THE READER SPEAKS UP

To the Editor:

Last week my five-year old son had his teeth checked and 13 cavities were found! This was in spite of good diet, few sweets and frequent brushings. I understand that it has been recommended jointly by the dentists in town that our city water be fluoridated to help prevent tooth decay. Such practice, I am told, could reduce tooth decay up to sixty-percent—meaning that my child quite possibly would have had only five cavities instead of thirteen.

It seems to me that it would be a boon to Plymouth youngsters to have the water of Plymouth treated in this manner. If dentists agree on this and research bears them out, why doesn't Plymouth adopt fluoridation?

If you want a room to have a quiet, restful effect, or if it is in the hot side of the house, use cool colors in large areas, with perhaps a warm color for contrast and accent. If your room is on the cool side of the house, or is a big oversized room, pull it together with large areas of warm color.

THE silver screen is really outdoing itself in presenting the battle of the bosom... Maudlyn started the brigade and now all of a sudden we have Mamie Van Doren, Jayne Mansfield, Diana Dors, Kim Novak, Anita Ekberg, Barbara Nichols, Sherree North, Sophia Loren and Gina Lollobrigida all in hot pursuit with tape measures and nothing more... certainly not talent... One thing we must say, the stock price on peroxide must be soaring these days.

Sorry to say, we can't see anything glamorous about these gals... There was a day when Greta Garbo could appear on the screen with a floor length gown and neckline up around her chin and cast an aura of glamour about her that has never been duplicated... She had no real figure to speak of, no platinum hair, people laughed at her big feet but she had a haunting beauty and mystery surrounding her that cast a spell on her audience and even today, 20 years after her last movie, when old clips are shown on TV, she scintillates through the old film.

PLATTER CHATTER

MERCURY—David Carroll has come up with a double-barrelled disk that packs a wallop... Both instrumentals, one is the hauntingly beautiful "Fascination" backed by the exciting, lilting "Swinging Sweethearts"... Another instrumental is the beautiful ballad "Around the World in 80 Days" and Dick Contino gives it an excellent rendition on his accordion... The song occupies both sides of the platter and should go big for Dick.

Woman's Eye View

I don't know who's busier at the new Dunning-Hough library—the workmen or the librarians. My guess is, they're about even. The job of tending library has become a more tremendous task since school has opened.

So... a new addition. She is Ludean Earnest, who has joined the staff as children's librarian. Miss Earnest will work Wednesday afternoons, evenings and Saturdays, since her days are spent at University of Michigan studying the Japanese and Chinese languages and other Asian area subjects.

Her interest in Asia formed during the two years she spent at a naval base near Yokohama as a communications officer in the WAVES. Miss Earnest plans to return to Asia as a librarian after she has completed two more years of study.

Her original home is Washington, D.C. and her home is now Ann Arbor. Not new to the library system, Miss Earnest has a Masters in Library Science from U of M and recently spent 18 months with the Detroit Public Library. She received her BA in Psychology from the University of Nebraska.

The latest means of identification for an insurance policy is a noseprint—that is if you're a dog. The noseprint is as infallible for identifying dogs as the human being's fingerprint. A paw print won't do.

Pedigreed dogs who will cooperate with the ink pad routine can have their lives insured by an animal insurance company in New York.

F. Ann Finnegan, daughter of Mrs. Marian E. Finnegan, 402 North Harvey has begun her career as a flight stewardess with Mohawk Airlines. She recently graduated from McConnell Airline School, Minn. A graduate of Plymouth high school in 1956, she will be based in New York. Her specialized course included classroom instruction and practice of hostess-stewardess duties, procedure, theory of flight, history of air transportation, routes, schedules, ticketing and passenger relations.

Gayle Lietz Dons Chantilly Lace, Peau-de-Soie for Evening Rites

Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell

For her marriage to John E. Campbell, Gayle Ann Lietz chose a gown of imported chantilly lace with scalloped edges outlining the scooped neckline and the apron front of peau-de-soie.

Seed pearls and rhinestones decorated the neckline and back bows completed the apron effect. Panels of peau-de-soie with lace applique topped an extremely bouffant skirt, flowing into a full cathedral train. An empire veil of French illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls and lace. She carried white orchids and stephanotis arranged on a white Bible.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John Lietz, 1496 Sheridan, Plymouth. The bridegroom is the son of John M. Campbell, 9525 Wayne road, Livonia.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry Walsh at 8 p.m. September 7, at the Presbyterian church. Candelabra, palms and bouquets of chrysanthemums decorated the church. Each pew was marked with white satin bows and large white chrysanthemums.

“With this Ring I Thee Wed” and “The Lord's Prayer” were sung by Nat Sibbold, with Fred Nelson at the organ.

Attending the bride were her sisters, Mrs. Elaine Grote as matron of honor and Faye Lietz as maid of honor. They wore light green satin dresses shaded with darker green and matching accessories. Cascades of yellow and white Fuji chrysanthemums were carried.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lee Douglas, Mrs. Dawn Park, Judy Campbell, Sara Leet and Inez Enterline. Their gowns were identically styled in tangerine and hues of darker tangerine with matching accessories. They carried cascades of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was Darwin Grote, brother-in-law of the bride. Ushers were Jerry Campbell, brother of the groom; Duncan McIntyre; Ted Scrimger; Ray Douglas; Bill Park; and James Sterritt, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

A reception at Hawthorne Valley Country Club was attended by 350 guests from Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and Florida.

The new Mrs. Campbell wore a beige knit dress with brown accessories for a trip to Quebec, Canada. They will live at 791 Karmada.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth high school and attended Western Michigan College and the bridegroom is a graduate of Bentley high school and attended Wayne University.

Mr. and Mrs. George Diedrick, Louise Diedrick and Joe Haley of Plymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Diedrick of Dearborn were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hanley of Detroit.

Why Men Run for Office

Salary is not a major factor to candidates seeking posts as parttime councilmen in Michigan's cities, but nevertheless almost half say they feel they are underpaid for their services to the community.

These are the findings of a survey recently conducted in both mayor-council and council-manager cities above 4,000 population in the state by The University of Michigan Institute of Public Administration in the National Municipal Review.

Using scientific sampling methods, questionnaires were sent to 157 out of 467 councilmen in 80 Michigan cities. Replies were received from 80 per cent, or 125 of the councilmen, which amounts to about 27 per cent of the total in the cities sampled.

The survey was conducted by Lynn W. Eley, supervisor of the Lansing branch of the institute, and Ralph Desantis, formerly a research assistant at the institute.

Questioned on whether or not they thought salary an inducement for seeking office, only three per cent voiced agreement compared to 48 per cent who did not consider it a major factor.

What, then, does attract men to council posts?

About 90 per cent of those polled checked the desire to help people and to render a public service as primary motivating factors.

Other reasons: Persuasion from friends and neighbors (50 per cent); interest in politics (46 per cent); desire to support a specific program (34 per cent); and desire to bolster representation of their own attitudes or political parties on their councils (20 per cent).

The U-M researchers also found that very few persons considered political careers, business and social contacts, and prestige or self-expression as motivations for running for council.

The main reason for desiring an increase, according to the 51 council men (41 per cent of the total) who favored a raise, is because of the fact that their present salaries do not recognize time spent outside of regular meetings.

Percentage-wise, those favoring higher salaries suggested from 100 to 300 per cent hikes, the average amounting to 219 per cent. This would mean a jump from an average in the cities polled of $442 annually to $1,045.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

BY ELMER E. WHITE

'Non Partisan' Courts

Justice is undergoing subtle changes in Michigan.

Judges nominated by Democrats and elected in non-partisan contests will hold six of the eight seats on the Michigan Supreme Court Jan. 1.

That is the day when Thomas M. Kavanagh, now attorney general, will take his seat on the bench. In three years, the former Carson City lawyer and a state leader of the Knights of Columbus, has risen with other Democrats to take control of the state's highest court.

Republicans charge that the five justices with Democratic backgrounds already have changed the traditional conservative tone of the rulings to more liberal interpretations. The problem that is putting furrows in the brows of legal thinkers is whether the changes can be attributed to Democrats or a general evolution of philosophy in the courts.

An example is the changes in workmen's compensation cases. Workers hurt on the job receive weekly benefits—for life, if totally and permanently disabled. Until this year, the criterion was whether the condition existed previously.

The court, in recent decisions, has ruled that it makes no difference if the physical condition existed before an injury.

Republicans charged that when two candidates—John D. Voelker and Kavanagh—publicly campaigned as Democrats last year that the court lost some of its non-partisanship.

The charge was made despite the fact that John R. Dethmers, chief justice, was once Republican state chairman and Republican attorney general before his election to the court. Republicans said, however, that Dethmers never campaigned for the court as a partisan.

Justice George Edwards, also nominated by Democrats, objected strenuously to being connected with partisan campaign last year. He continues to insist on non-partisanship.

Incidentally, there will be three former attorneys general on the court Jan. 1. They will be Dethmers, Justice Eugene F. Black, who held the office as a Republican under former Gov. Kim Sigler, and Kavanagh. However, no one is prepared to say if this is good or bad.

'WHICH ROAD, SON?'

'Life Begins at Forty'

IT'S SAD BUT TRUE THAT a lot of older people go around with long faces complaining about the poor state of their retirement finances. But instead of complaining the Roy Simots of Eaton Rapids, Mich., have developed a profitable hobby that provides them with a good living.

Four years ago the Simots retired from farming and began wondering how they would get by. They were anxious to remain self-supporting and independent but they had very little education and lived on a farm quite a distance from town. Mr. Simot was too old to hold a regular job, and the prospects of increasing their $30 a month retirement income seemed very remote. But they found that even with these handicaps it was still possible to find a profitable hobby that would bring in additional income.

Roy's wife Dema came up with the idea of baking and selling homemade bread. She liked to bake and everyone who had ever tasted her bread said it was the best they'd ever eaten. So the Simots went to town, bought a big sack of flour, and set to work. They baked some fine, crusty sample loaves which they delivered to people in their vicinity, saying that if they liked the bread the Simots would supply them with bread regularly. As it turned out, just about everyone who tasted the bread seemed to fall in love with it, and the Simots soon had all the customers they could handle.

AS SOON AS I LEARNED about this enterprising couple I sat down and wrote them a letter asking for more information about their home business. Mrs. Simot has graciously replied as follows:

"Roy's 79 and I'm 63. We've been in the baking business for the past four years and have done real well. We've been baking 130 loaves of bread three times a week, in addition to several dozen rolls and doughnuts. Everything we bake seems to sell. Lately we've been taking it easy and are baking only 90 loaves of bread at a time. We could sell more, but this gives us all we need.

"It's a fine feeling knowing that even though we're along in years we can still make our own living. People seem to love our baked goods, and we enjoy making deliveries three times a week and visiting with our customers. We bake at night and then make deliveries the next morning. Sometimes folks are so anxious to get their bread that they drive for miles to pick it up while it's still warm. We bake from May til Christmas, and then take a vacation for a few months. I have several interests, including crocheting, knitting, raising turkeys, and gardening. But I like baking best of all."

If Your Name Is MAGDALENE

BY ANN REYNOLDS, PH.D.

Do you sign your name Magdalen, maybe Magda? No matter what your favorite spelling is, even if you prefer the French way which is Madeleine, it is the same name. It came to us from a famous woman mentioned in the New Testament, Mary of Magdala.

This earliest namesake of all girls called Magdalen was a beautiful woman hailing from Magdala, a village in Galilee near the Lake of Genesareth; and she was a sinner. When she met Jesus, she repented; she renounced her past, and became a follower of the Saviour.

Once when Jesus was in the house of Simon, the Pharisee, the girl from Magdala threw herself at Jesus' feet, soothed them with her tears, anointed them with precious balm, and dried them with her long flowing hair. The Pharisee was dumbfounded. If Jesus was a prophet he should have known what manner of woman she was! Jesus, of course, knew.

The Magdalen followed Jesus to Jerusalem; she witnessed the Crucifixion, and was one of the watchers at the tomb. And when she found it empty, she shed bitter tears.

Except for the Virgin Mary, Magdalen has been the most widely venerated saint. The great religious painters show her as a radiant beauty with rich golden hair long enough to envelope her from head to toe, and with a sorrowing countenance. Her eyes appear tearful; and because of this her name, formerly pronounced "maudlin" came to mean "mawkish," "tearful".

After the events recorded in the Gospel, Mary Magdalen came to Southern France, the vicinity of Marseilles, and did work as a missionary. That's why her name has endeared itself first to the French; from that country it spread to the British Isles and all over the European Continent, and to the Americas.

One Madeleine, a French woman chef, bestowed her name on a kind of special little cakes mostly baked in shell-form. If you wish to try these "madeleines" send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

(Interested in other names? Do you like or dislike your name? Why? Write to Dr. Reynolds in care of this paper.)

Combination Doors Enclose Porch

Enclosing a porch for year-around living usually is a job for a competent carpenter. But a new idea—doing the entire enclosure with combination storm and screen doors—brings the major home improvement project within the skills of the average home handyman.

Installed side by side around the perimeter of the porch, the combination doors of ponderosa pine serve as prefabricated wall units, complete with "windows" for winter which can be removed and replaced with screen inserts for summer.

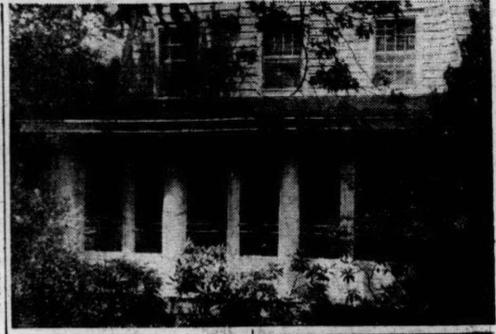

The finished product is a comfortable sunroom which can be used on all but the coldest days of winter, and breezy screened porch ideal for summer relaxing, dining, and sleeping.

Home-Owner Does It
One home-owner who enclosed his porch with the combination doors is N. F. Schumaker, of Maplewood, N.J., who says he's no more skilled with tools than the average home handyman.

Schumaker obtained 12 stock doors of ponderosa pine from his neighborhood building materials dealer. He chose doors three feet wide by 85 inches tall for his 10- by 20-foot porch.

Working in his spare time, Schumaker fitted the doors together with 1 by 2-inch strips of lumber covering the vertical joints on the outside. The doors were nailed at the top to an existing beam, and toe-nailed at floor level with molding inside.

Eleven of Schumaker's doors were used for the new "walls," while the 12th door was hinged to provide a direct entrance to the porch from the back yard. Schumaker chose combination doors of ponderosa pine because the wood is easy to work with, has been chemically treated to resist weather, and could be painted on the outside to match the exterior of the house, and stained inside for soft, natural wood tones.

After the doors were in place, Schumaker put down a new floor, and finished the wall common to the house with knotty pine plywood. Striated plywood squares were used for a new ceiling.

As an added touch, knotty pine was used to cover the solid portion of the doors at top and bottom. The lower panel, about two feet high, was capped with a 1 by 4-inch ledge as a shelf for plants and knick-knacks.

Modeling Know-How Shows How

Old Neighborhood Eyesore Becomes 'Pride and Joy'

"Operation Demonstrate" in Cleveland has shown how modern materials and the "magic" of remodeling can turn an old house into a virtually new home.

A remodeling contractor, an architect, a decorator, and a landscape designer teamed up under the sponsorship of American Home magazine to work their skills on a tall, boxy house about 40 years old.

The finished product was an up-to-date home, attractive on the outside and comfortable, convenient and modern inside. Total cost of labor and materials was $7,930.

As described in Practical Builder magazine, principal exterior renovating consisted, as the photographs show, of a new, light-color roof of asphalt shingles applied over the old roofing material, large, modern windows of ponderosa pine, new pine panel doors, removal of an ugly old porch, and new paint.

Design of the exterior color scheme did a great deal to take away the high, awkward look. Using light color shingles on the roof made it possible to paint the third floor dormer a dark color, breaking up height.

The upper half of the house was painted in a dark color and the lower half white. White on the wide upstairs windows adds an illusion of length.

Inside, the first step toward modern comfort was installation of thick mineral wool insulation in walls and ceilings. This makes it easier and more economical to heat the house in winter, and helps keep it cooler in summer.

"New" house, top, was a shabby, old house, bottom, until "Operation Demonstrate" tackled it. Colorful, modern exterior is due to new asphalt shingle roof, modern wood windows, and skillful painting.

The kitchen was made more convenient with a U-shaped counter and equipment arrangement. The living room was brightened with light and air by putting a wide picture window flanked with opening casements in place of a small fireplace. These same windows, and stock units of ponderosa pine, were used in the upstairs bedrooms.

Other interior improvements included new bath fixtures, a rearrangement of closet space, new plaster, paint, and new wood and tile floors.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q—Our new home was advertised as "completely insulated." But we've discovered blankets of insulation about two inches thick in the attic floors and presume this is the thickness throughout. Is this enough insulation?

A—A good rule to remember about insulation is: The thicker it is, the more comfort it gives. Most insulation engineers agree that two inches is not enough for year-around comfort and economy. Current recommendations are that the walls be filled with mineral wool—just under four inches—and that the ceilings have thicknesses of four inches or more, six inches if the house is air conditioned. In your case, a specialist who installs mineral wool in walls and ceilings under pneumatic pressure could add greatly to your comfort and economy.

Q—We'd like to fasten wood paneling for our basement recreation room directly to steel columns supporting the floor above. Is there any special technique for doing this?

A—A quick, easy and reliable method is to use hardened threaded nails driven through paneling into small holes drilled in the steel columns. Make the holes slightly smaller than the diameter of the nail.

Q—Strong detergents and abrasive cleaners have failed to remove smoke stain from brickwork on our fireplace. What can we use to get the stain off?

A—Make a smooth thick paste of tri-chlorethylene and talcum powder. Apply with a towel, allow to dry, then scrape off. Repeat until stain has disappeared, then wash area thoroughly with clear water.

Wind Storms Challenging U.S. Builders

Anyone who has lived through a hurricane destruction knows that it's a big order when the home-building industry receives a challenge for more wind-resistant construction.

Yet, because of damaging blows to homes by hurricanes and other destructive wind storms across the nation in recent years, the public is demanding homes that will successfully resist the impact when a severe blow strikes.

One group of manufacturers that has met this challenge is the asphalt roofing industry. Thanks to years of scientific research, home-owners can have roofs of asphalt shingles which will resist even winds of hurricane velocity.

Winds Recorded
This is important not only to home-owners in the East Coast's hurricane belt but to the rest of the nation as well. Winds of hurricane force—75 miles per hour and higher—have been recorded in at least 37 states by the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Roofers in all parts of the country use three principal methods of applying asphalt shingles to resist winds:

1. Self-sealing method. Strip shingles with factory-applied backing of adhesive are applied with roofing nails in the conventional manner. Under the heat of the sun the self-sealing adhesive bonds each shingle tab firmly to the underlying shingle.

2. Interlocking method. Using asphalt shingles with a special locking device—usually tabs which slide into slots—the roofer locks each shingle to adjacent shingles in the course next below. This makes a highly resistant to high winds, and a roof which retains good appearance.

3. Hand-application. After three-tab, square butt strip shingles, the most popular of all asphalt shingles, are applied, a spot of quick-setting asphalt cement is placed under each tab which is then pressed firmly against the underlying shingle. The cement makes a firm wind-resistant bond.

Wind-resistant applications of asphalt shingles have undergone rigid tests in wind tunnels and in actual use, and have withstood the severest blows from hurricanes and other storms. Often entire roof assemblies which have been blown down have been found with their asphalt shingles still in place.

A good cutting oil makes it easier to do a good job of cutting threads on pipe, bolts or rods. Here's one: Thin a little white lead with sulfur base, black cutting oil. This combination of the two lubricants works well on either hand or machine threading.

Maintenance is never a problem with cedar-lined clothes closets since cedar lining never needs paint or varnish.

Canned Pork and Beans

Pork and Beans are satisfying and tasty for meals and snack-time pick-ups. Accompany the beans with such teenage favorites as hamburgers, hotdogs or grilled cheese sandwiches.

Packed in a perfect tomato sauce, spiced just right, there's little work to a hearty casserole, quickly popped into the oven or heated on the top of the stove.

Add a salad or colorful crisp relishes. To complete the menu, scoops of different flavored ice cream and a beverage.

Teens Bean Pot
1 slice bacon
1 tablespoon peanut butter
1 can (1 pound) pork and beans with tomato sauce

Cut bacon into 1-inch pieces; cook until crisp. Blend peanut butter with bacon; stir in beans. Heat. Makes 2 generous servings.

Peppy beans
1 medium chopped onion

1/2 medium green pepper chopped

1 can (1 pound) pork and beans with tomato sauce

1/4 teaspoon salt

Cook onion and green pepper in butter. Stir in beans and salt; heat. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Easy and delicious picnic coffee is so-called "boiled" coffee. Just measure the coffee (2 level measuring tablespoons per cup of water) into a square of cheese cloth. Tie loosely with a string, leaving a long loop attached so you can fish it out. Put the bag in water; let it come to a boil and then simmer for five minutes. Add a little cold water and remove to a cooler place on the grill to settle. For especially clear coffee, mix an egg with the grounds.

The average American eats about five pounds of potato chips each year, including about two pounds of vegetable oil in which chips are fried.

Family Room-a Haven For Comfort, Hobbies

Doing things together brings a family closer to each other. It is very fine if one room in your house can be set aside as a family room, where all members of the family can gather to enjoy their hobbies and to be comfortable.

The family room can be more than just an extra room in the house. It should be furnished comfortably and with durable furnishings so that everyone can enjoy using the room without worrying about marring the furniture.

Perfect for family rooms are sofas covered with soil resistant fabrics. These fabrics are treated to resist dirt and stains. Spills can be quickly and easily wiped away without leaving any trace.

Wooden furniture for this room, too, should have mar-proof tops. Children cannot enjoy the family room if they are constantly told to beware of scratching the furniture. The new abuse-resistant tops are given a special finish which makes them impervious to spills, scratches, stains and cigarette burns.

Your family room as well as the rest of your house, should be furnished in accordance with your family's likes and dislikes, and to suit their particular interests and hobbies. It can be the room where you have your television set and your phonograph. There should be storage room for books and games. A game table should be included for the family bridge, scrabble or monopoly tournament.

'Poor Boy' Sandwiches

The sandwich rates a high place on the popularity poll of American menu choices. It vies with other luncheon meal suggestions because of its versatility, economy and time-saving qualities.

The types of sandwiches vary greatly . . . from the dainty finger sandwich to the triple decker-he-man special.

The "Poor Boy" sandwich is one of the he-man variety. It combines "boiled" ham, cheese, tomato, lettuce and bacon in one sandwich. A hard roll, split in half, holds the sandwich filling. It takes just minutes. This sandwich is a perfect luncheon specialty for children or as a late evening snack for Dad.

Budget Meal Buying Tips

If your food budget is limited, learn what affects costs of food and then plan accordingly. First, learn the current costs for foods you buy regularly. This will help you modify your choices as prices change and to keep in line with your budget.

Second, know the number of servings in a market unit of food. Some things may appear low-cost but provide only one or two servings. This could be expensive for family-size meals.

Know the kinds of foods which are consistent with your budget. A low-cost budget in the first part of 1957 allows about 75 cents per day for each person. Keeping this in mind, meat choices should not be over about 15 cents per person per day. When you learn the choices available to you, you can sometimes overspend for one food to make it up in another.

Remember food costs vary with grade or quality. Although many people are willing to pay the higher prices for the top grades, the average grades are very acceptable for most uses. Processed foods such as dried milk, canned fruits and vegetables are often less costly than the fresh products. Frozen fruits and vegetables may be more or less costly, depending on the season.

Size of package can also effect cost. The smaller the package, the more you pay per unit. For example a pound of flour bought in a two-pound bag costs more than one bought in a 25-pound bag.

You should also know how much your budget allows for service. Convenience and quick mix foods save time, but can be very costly. If your time is limited for these "service" foods.

Ice cream is a morale booster when used moderately in weight reduction diets. It contributes more needed nutrients per calorie than many other desserts. Serve it, but don't forget to include it in the total calorie count.

In July, 31 different fresh fruits and vegetables are in their peak seasons—more than in any other month.

Deep-dyed plot for flattery is seen in black-dyed fur trims for black fabric coats.

The key word for this room should be comfort. It should be a room in which the entire family can relax and in which they can share their interests with each other.

The family room can serve another purpose too. It will give the teenagers in the family a good place to entertain their young friends. Also, it will give the teenagers a spot in which to entertain themselves when adults have guests in the more formal living room.

4 slices baked or "boiled" ham
4 large hard rolls
4 slices American cheese
4 slices tomato
4 slices bacon
Butter or margarine
Lettuce leaves

Split hard rolls and spread cut surface with butter or margarine. Panbroil or broil bacon slices until brown and crisp. On bottom half of each roll arrange in the following order: a lettuce leaf, cheese slice, ham slice, tomato slice, and a slice of bacon which has been cut in half. Cover with top half of hard roll. Yield: 4 servings.

Collar Discoloration
Have you ever faced the problem of how to keep collars and cuffs on men's nylon shirts from turning yellow? To prevent this discoloration, pre-treat the collar and cuffs by applying a "paste" made of soap or detergent mixed with a little water. This loosens the body grease and dirt — which cause the discoloration — so they will wash out during the regular sudsing and rinsing process.

A teaspoonful of a household detergent added to a quart of water is a reliable formula for reviving partly wilted cut flowers.

Homemakers Rival Chemists
A chemist in a laboratory has nothing on you in your kitchen. You deal with chemical changes every day as you cook for your family.

You've heard all about "how" to cook meat; for instance, broil or roast tender cuts and braise tougher cuts. But do you know "why?" do you know what happens to meat as it cooks?

As you heat, the color changes from red to brown. The flavor of the meat also changes as the fat melts and blends with liquids from the muscle tissue. Of most concern to you as chief cook in your home are the last two changes that take place.

You probably know that meat is largely protein, but did you know that as protein heats, it coagulates? It is this coagulation that causes meat to shrink; the more it shrinks, the tougher it gets.

Connective tissue undergoes still a fourth change. It is already tough, but if you heat it in the presence of a liquid, it will change to gelatin and the meat will be more tender.

You can see that you have two opposing actions taking place as you cook meat; the protein is coagulating and toughening the meat. At the same time, the connective tissue is changing to gelatin and tenderizing the meat. The kind of cut you have will determine which of these is most likely to happen.

A cut of meat which you consider tough, a chuck roast, for instance, is tough because it contains so much connective tissue. This connective must gelatinize before the meat will become tender. So you have to braise the roast; or cook it slowly in a covered pan in the presence of moisture.

A tender cut, such as a steak, has little connective tissue so you don't have to worry about tenderizing it. It will be tough only if the protein coagulates too much. To prevent this, you broil it, or cook it just long enough for the color and flavor to change.

Swedish Weaving

Swedish weaving is a type of embroidery that is done by weaving colorful embroidery floss through the vertical or horizontal loops of huck toweling. It is easy and fun and the result is many beautiful items for gifts or for your home. Examples of its versatility are seen above in the border designs on an apron, tea towels, place mats and in the diagonally striped pillow cover. A three-page leaflet of diagrams and instructions for weaving these six designs may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of the Plymouth Mail, requesting the Swedish Weaving leaflet.

Dear Jean:
I find your column very interesting. Please analyze my handwriting also. DAHL

Dear DAHL:
You are interested in people but limit yourself in the expressing of your feelings toward them. You are broad-minded and take a liberal view of their opinions. You have a mind of your own and like to follow your own inclinations, at times being "just a little bit different". You are self-reliant but are prone to be self-conscious.

Dear Jean:
I sure wish you could tell me some of the things other people see wrong with me—that I fail to. E.I.J.

Dear E. I. J.:
You have a changeable disposition, sometimes expressing yourself openly while at other times reluctant to do so. You are a logical, practical person who is quick to grasp ideas and adjust to situations. You are generous but not extravagant. You show some resentment when you feel you are being imposed upon.

Dear Jean:
Please analyze my handwriting. I'm a very high strung person. H.M.W.

Dear H.M.W.:
You have so many fingers in so many pies that most of the time you don't know what to do first. This makes you very easily irritated. You want to do the right thing at the right time but because of the confusion you find this hard to accomplish.

Dear Jean:
I have been reading your column in our local paper and find it most interesting. I have a problem that I would like you to help me solve through Grapho Analysis but I would rather not have it published in the paper. How can I receive a private reply? Thank you. MAC

Dear MAC:
For further information regarding a private analysis will you please send me a self-addressed stamped envelope?

You are fond of change and travel—new things and new places. You are impulsive by nature, leaping into action before considering the consequences then wishing you hadn't been so hasty.

Dear J.J. RACCOON:
You like color and sound, also enjoy tasty food. You pay close attention to details and have a good memory. You like to develop new ideas and ways of doing things. You are loyal to what you think is right.

Still No Good Way to Startle Pesky Starlings

By Nancy Rigney
Flocks of bustling black birds descend on the lawns and vacant lots of Plymouth about supper time in search of food before returning to their resting places.

These are the Starlings, who can be seen daily rummaging for insects, berries and seeds and sounding their "screal." The "screal" is a cross between a scream and a squeal, which occurs when the Starling strains to sing his note too loudly.

There is no let up in sight— for this feathered friend doesn't take to wintering in Florida. In early Autumn big flocks grow even bigger as others join them from Canada.

Winter sleeping accommodations include old barns, sheds and dense evergreens. After spending the day in the country to feed on the fields, many flock to towns every night and sleep among the huibs of electric signs, on branches over street lamps and atop chimneys. The flock returns to the country in the morning, but not without a light breakfast on the lawn to tide them over for bigger pickings.

They eat their share of harmful insects, but also plague farmer's cherries, strawberries and freshly-sown seeds.

Starlings are just natural joiners. The flocks begin forming in June when young families band together, until the membership reaches 1,000 or more. In August the young Starlings lose their gray feathers in favor of a new coat of glossy black with reflections of purple, green and blue. The older birds also shed their feathers at this time for a new coat.

The first Starlings were released in New York City's Central Park in 1890 to help remedy the wormy crop situation. Now they gather in great droves from ocean to ocean — but not always in northern climes. Many do go south, a trick learned from Grackles, Redwings and other black-birds.

In the cities, every imaginable device has been used to discourage the Starlings. Spikes, noisemakers and traps of all kinds on roofs and eaves have failed. Here in Plymouth last year some Adams street neighbors tried playing a recording of the Starling distress call. This method has worked with some success in other localities, according to reports, but Plymouth is still stuck with its flock.

September 26th is the first business meeting for the Auxiliary, so let's have a good attendance for our new president, Gwen Holcombe. At the committee meeting on September 12th the appointment of committee chairman to lead patriotic service activities during the coming year was announced by Mrs. Holcombe.

Charles Kibbee, 64, of Bagley, Minn., holder of the No. 1 membership card in the American Legion, died in a Bemidji Hospital on August 18. He was a long-time resident of Bagley. Kibbee received Card No. 1 of the American Legion in Paris, France. It was there that the Legion was founded at the caucus of the First ARF on March 15 to 17 in 1919. Burial was in a Fort Snelling Cemetery.

Through the efforts of the rehabilitation department of the Illinois American Legion, a World War II veteran's widow has been awarded the largest death compensation ever paid by the VA. Mrs. Emma Joyce of Chicago, whose husband died in 1943 from service-connected causes, received a VA check for $9,648 plus $122 monthly compensation according to Lester R. Benston, director of rehabilitation for the Illinois American Legion.

Mrs. J. Pat Kelley of Atlanta, Ga., will be unanimously elected to lead the one million women of the American Legion Auxiliary as national president during the coming year, Mrs. Gwen Holcombe, president of the Illinois American Legion, predicted as the organization prepared for its national convention in Atlantic City, N. J., September 16-19. Mrs. Kelly is the only announced candidate for the auxiliary's highest office and is expected to be elected without opposition when the delegates vote for new national officers on the convention's closing day. She is a former vice president, former national chaplain and has served in important national chairmanships for a number of years.

Our "Booster Night" was quite a success and an enjoyable evening. An unusually large crowd came, including guests. The program featured two duets by the little Mecklenburg girls, an exhibition of ballet dancing and two skits. The Mecklenburg girls' voices are very sweet and blend together beautifully. The following women of Grange played in the skit: Isabel Taylor, Evelyn Fischer, Esther Jacobs, Vivian Wise, Adeline Nairn, Minnie McCannel, Edythe Hadley, Alice O'Meara, Molly Tracey, Bessie Salow and Emma Schaufle. They received a hearty applause. Molly Tracy played a dentist, with Bessie Salow as her unwilling patient, Vivian Wise as the nurse and Helen Echo as the patient's husband in the second skit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rienas and Mrs. Louise Hutton are vacationing up north for a few days. The women of the Grange are going to serve lunches at the Feese Motor Sales Auction today, starting at 10 a.m. It is on Ann Arbor road just east of the viaduct.

The MAIL Attitude

BY PAUL CHANDLER

To all City officials and other local planners, we refer today to words uttered just this week by the State Highway Commissioner--

"It is safe to say that twice as much money will be allocated by the State Highway Department in the next five years for highway improvements in cities and urban areas as has been spent in the last five years.

"The extent of our success in meeting trunkline needs serving cities will depend on the cooperation of municipal officials.

"I am amazed to find that a majority of Michigan cities have not yet adopted a master plan of street and trunkline improvements in cooperation with the State Highway Department. Every Michigan city should develop such a plan."

I lost the clipping, but it was in one of the metropolitan papers. It told how the officials and businessmen of Royal Oak are deep in serious meetings to consider plans for closing off their downtown shopping area and turning it into a "shopping center" with pedestrian malls, parking all around the edges, etc.

Plymouth today is not a great deal different in many ways (commercial and business, I mean) from Royal Oak of 12 years ago.

Plymouth's adult education program takes a back seat to none we've ever known personally, and is far ahead of many. I wanted to say that, just because it's true and it does good to count our local blessings from time to time.

One of the new courses this year is Knitting—advanced and elementary. The beginners will learn to chart, the difference between stitches, and so on. The advanced ones will fashion knit dresses, and so on. The time (changed since the catalogues were issued, incidentally) is Tuesday evening—7 to 8:30 for beginners; 8:30 to 10 for the advanced. The cost is $6 for eight weeks.

Since the course is new, we were asked to give it a little plug this week. It's just typical of many wholesome pursuits available.

As with all good things, there always is a danger that the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will be taken for granted by the same people it most delights.

That thought is brought to the surface this week, because it's almost enrolling time in the Symphony Society again. The Symphony survives by those who buy memberships.

Plymouth derives unique prestige from the symphony. The orchestra affords an outlet for musically talented people in a wide area. Local youngsters are given an appreciation of good music by the Symphony in several ways, among them the special children's concerts and by the participation of choirs and choruses. The Symphony Society provides two Interlochen scholarships; it also takes 160 children annually to hear the Detroit Symphony's children's concert.

The Symphony works on an annual budget of $7,500, but the greatest contributions are those of time by the musicians and the organizers—and the bulk of all that is without any compensation.

Most citizens realize all of the foregoing, of course. This is just a refresher.

The biggest sunflower we've heard of this season (it grew upstate in Michigan) was nourished daily by dirty dishwasher.

Since The Mail announced its contest here for the tallest sunflower we've heard of lots of rapid-gro being applied, but the dishwasher trick is a new one.

One of our office ladies wonders if dishwasher would work if it contains detergent. She believes it would kill the plant.

The grower upstate believes the fertilizing comes from particles of food and waste in her dirty dishwasher. The account didn't say if she used soap flakes or detergent.

If things had worked out a little differently we might have been building camelpower into our cars instead of horsepower. A British professor claims the ancient Egyptians discovered America about 2000 B.C. If this is true, it puts Columbus and the Norsemen in the minor leagues. It would also make the history books about as confused as Siamese twins at a three-way intersection.

If the lads from the shores of the Nile did discover America almost 3,500 years before Columbus, how did the family jewels to launch Chris, why didn't they say something about it? Even before we developed the A-bomb, America must have made some impression. Anyway, the important thing isn't who discovered us... it's where do we go from here?

Offhand we would say that the best place to go around the noon hour is our lunch counter where you'll discover the best quality food that it is possible to serve.

At the policemen's annual picnic in Ohio, a counterfeit $20 bill turned up in the day's receipts. Somebody ought to call a cop... Included in our daily rewards (and it's nothing counterfeit!) is the gratifying knowledge that we have a role in the improvement and protection of your health. Your physician, of course, has the leading role... our skillful pharmacists assist him through careful, accurate compounding of the prescription he writes for you.

James Blanton, Joan Bates Wed In Wyandotte

Before an altar adorned with candles and white gladioli, Dr. Warren E. Hall, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, performed the double ring ceremony, which united in wedlock Joan Carol Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton M. Bates of 602 Kings Highway, Wyandotte and James Robert Blanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfred T. Blanton of 6603 Newburg Road September 7.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a gown of lustrous silk taffeta in delicate cameo ivory. Tiny pearls frosted the embroidered Alencon lace which etched its rose pattern over the entire short-sleeved bodice and framed the deeply curved neckline in petal pointed medallions. Garlands and sprays of the jeweled lace encircled the full skirt which flared from the molded waistline and spread to a wide cathedral train. A princess cap of matching pearl embroidered lace clasped her tiered veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white roses centered with a white orchid.

Marlene Marlow, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Charles Thibideau. Mrs. Jack Kesterson attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of beige taffeta and matching beige shoes and gloves. Her headpiece was a circlet of tiny yellow sweet-heart roses edged with nylon net. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white roses.

Bridesmaids were Sharon Hampton and Mrs. James Docherty. Their gowns were identical to the matron of honor's, and they carried cascade bouquets of yellow roses.

Arthur W. Welch of Chicago, Ill., fraternity brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Robert F. Bates, brother of the bride, and Stanley

Mrs. James R. Blanton

Hart of Royal Oak, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore an aqua Alencon lace gown with pale pink sequin hat and gloves. She wore a pink cymbidium orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a ring blue gown and matching hat. She wore a yellow cymbidium orchid.

Following the ceremony a dinner and reception for 200 guests was held at the Wabek Tea Room. There were many out of town guests including relatives from Florida and Missouri.

Following a honeymoon in the East the newlyweds will reside in Houghton, Michigan, where James is undertaking graduate study at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology.

James received his bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering in June. He is affiliated with Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity and Phi Lambda Upsilon and Tau Beta Pi, honorary chemical and engineering societies.

Kenneth Diedrick, Bride to Live in Wilmington

Beverly Ann Widmer and former Plymouth resident, A3C Kenneth Diedrick were wed in a recent double-ring ceremony performed at St. Andrew Methodist church in Detroit.

Rev. William Mercer officiated at the candlelight service before an altar decorated with white garden flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, William Widmer, the bride chose a ballerina gown of tulle over satin, fashioned with a chantilly lace bodice, sweet-heart neckline and long lace sleeves. Her veil was held by a tiara of pearls. She carried white roses.

Mrs. Beverly Feur, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a mint green gown with a draped neckline which tied in the back, flowing into a hem-length panel, while Mrs. Betty Hanley, sister of the bridegroom and Jean Jackson wore identical gowns in pink chiffon. Flowered bandeaux with tiny veils circled their heads. They carried bouquets of red roses.

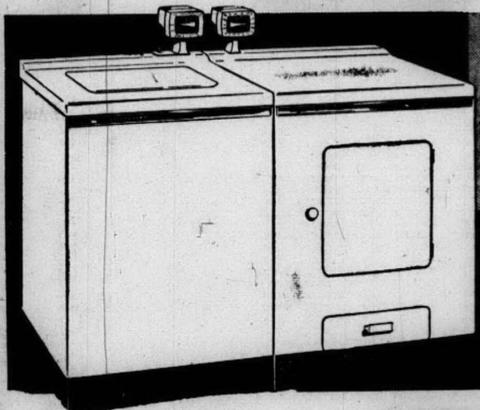

Ralph Diedrick of Plymouth, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. David Berdsh and John Feur ushered.

The bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother wore blue and white dresses with white accessories and orchid corsages. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Diedrick, formerly of Plymouth and now of Dearborn, are the parents of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. William Widmer are parents of the bride.

The newlyweds are residing in Wilmington, Del. where the bridegroom is stationed with the Air Force, following a honeymoon in Missouri.

English Revival At Church of God

The London Revival Crusade Party from England will appear Tuesday, September 24 at 7:30 at the Riverside Park Church of God, Newburg and Plymouth roads.

Rev. Owen Murphy, evangelist, will be accompanied by Glenys Ruth Murphy, an English teenager whose musical gifts and voice has thrilled thousands across America and Europe and Mrs. Gladys Murphy, a dynamic preacher and radio vocalist.

A color picture, "Where the Fires Have Burned" will also be a feature of the program. This film illustrates 50,000 miles of travel thru the British Isles, Germany, France, Switzerland, Egypt and Palestine.

Rev. Murphy has served on the staff for Billy Graham's work in England and recently in New York City. He comes to us highly recommended by Mr. Graham and others whom he has served.

The Churches of God in the Detroit area are joining in this cooperative campaign and invite all to attend.

Part of frozen Alaska is as far west as tropical Hawaii.

Air Express Observes 30th Birthday in U.S.

Air Express, the nation's first commercial coast-to-coast package-carrying air service, marked its 30th year of operations on September 1.

Facing widespread public skepticism, the American Railway Express Co., now Railway Express Agency, contracted with four pioneer airlines to provide the first regular scheduled package hauling air service for the general public. Following the epic flights of Lindbergh, Byrd, Champerlain and others in 1927, the airplane emerged from obscurity of an adventurous hobby to the status of a potential industrial giant.

In the first year, Air Express made 17,000 shipments producing revenues of $13,000. Last year there were 5.6 million shipments with revenue of $42 million.

The oleander plant, flourishing in southern United States with its pink, red and white blossoms, originally came from the Mediterranean.

Highest point in Quebec City's upper town, the crest of Cape Diamond, is 333 feet above the St. Lawrence River.

Bible Lectures Start Tonight at Calvary Baptist

Dr. Lehman Strauss, Bible teacher and author, will begin a series of Bible studies on prophetic subjects tonight at 7:45 in Calvary Baptist church, 496 West Ann Arbor Trail.

Classes will be held every Thursday night, concluding on October 31. The theme of the lectures will be prophetic truths—the first subject being, "Thinking Prophetically in Our Day."

Born in Pennsylvania, a lifelong resident of that state, Dr. Strauss received his training for the ministry at Philadelphia Bible Institute and King's College. For eighteen years he was pastor at Calvary Baptist Church, of Bristol, Pennsylvania. For eight years of this time he was an instructor in the Philadelphia Bible Institute. As a Bible teacher his ministry is in demand by many of this nation's Bible conferences. He is the author of six books on practical expositions of the scripture. As successor to the late Dr. William Colman, of Highland Park Baptist Church, Dr. Strauss began his ministry in Highland Park in March of 1957. Evidence of the Lord's blessing is already being experienced through his ministry in the Detroit area.

Rev. Henry Campbell, of Dexter, Michigan, will lead singing and provide special music for this service.

The Plymouth Bible Class invites you to enjoy the ministry of this able teacher of the Word of God.

Red Cross Begins Canteen Training

Detroit Red Cross chapter canteen chairman, Mrs. John P. Hering, announces the scheduling of a training course for volunteers in that Service which starts on Tuesday, September 24. The course, which will be held in the chapter nutrition classroom, 153 Elizabeth East, will continue for four weeks, October 1, 8, 15, with sessions from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., luncheon providing an opportunity for informal discussions.

"Red Cross canteen volunteers are called on to assist at any time or place where food is served," Mrs. Hering explained. "This includes the 'snack' for blood donors both at the blood center and on mobile installations; the chapter canteen where other volunteers and staff are served tasty at-cost lunches; dinners for patients from veterans hospitals who are brought to Detroit for basebal games and other entertainment; and of course in time of community emergency, such as disaster. We always need new recruits either to replace women whose personal responsibilities force them to become less active, or to expand our service."

The class is offered free of charge. Volunteers are asked to purchase Red Cross uniforms when they begin their active duties. Mrs. Hering or one of the volunteers will accept registration by telephone, WO 1-3900, between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday, or class members may register the first day of the course.

Pointer Signs To Plymouth Denied

A request by City Manager Albert Glassford to have road signs along the Expressway and Michigan pointing to Plymouth has been turned down by the Michigan State Highway Department.

Glassford wrote that there are difficulties arising because of the change in location of U. S. 12 to the Expressway. Formerly it ran through Plymouth.

He asked that signs be erected at the Expressway and Belleville road and Michigan Avenue and Canton Center Road pointing the route to Plymouth.

Samuel J. Levine, metropolitan district traffic manager for the Highway Department, said that it is the policy to place directional signs on the Expressway to cities that are located on trunk line highways, or to a city or village that is within a short distance of the Expressway. He noted that there is a sign at the junction of U.S. 12 and M-14 west of Ann Arbor advising motorists the direction of Plymouth. This sign was erected early this year through the efforts of State Rep. Sterling Eaton.

Couple Surprised by Housewarming

The Champes, Jean and Bob, who recently moved from Arden to Cranston were surprised couple of the year Saturday night, September 7, when Dagne and Ralph Peterson, also of Cranston, organized a supper party-housewarming for them. About 25 persons attended and those from Rosedale Gardens were: Bob and Ellie Button, Dorothy and Don Clark, Edith and Dick Hansz, and Elva and Marv Rodden. Some of the others who attended were Lorna and Lee Smith, formerly of the Gardens but now living in Rochester, Bob's mother, Mrs. Hildegarde Champe of Plymouth and Erving Bruder. The Champes received a formica table and chairs set from the crowd.

Johnny Dana, Vermont, is the fellow to look out for, from now on! John celebrated his fourth birthday with a patio party and received, among other things, a total of six guns! Small fry attending the party were Diane Forest, Hugh Heagan, Kevin Gilday, Jean Bujewski, Benny Hearon, Leslie Pomroy and John's sisters Kristy and Laurie.

Terry Bonk, Brookfield, and Thomas LaPointe, Hubbard, have left for St. Bernard's Seminary in Dearborn where Terry is a ninth grade student and Tom is a tenth grader.

We're losing some neighbors here on Vermont—Mary and Dick Hunter and children Bobby, Susan and Jennifer will be moving to Grand Rapids just as soon as they sell their house.

Ariene Fenolio, Mayfield, celebrated her sixteenth birthday on that well-known day, Friday 13 with a "Bad Luck" party. Such decorations as split salt, broken mirrors, a ladder to walk under, etc., showed that the kids weren't really worrying much about the superstitions. The kids came attired in rags and part of the evening's entertainment included telling how they lost all of their money. Teens attending were Bob Wilson, Janet Ringle, Jim Wilson, Ann Young, Virginia Bonk, Roseann Drnek, John Peterson, Don Pomroy, and Tom Kessler.

Local lasses attending Ladywood High School this year are Judy Breilmair and Dorothy Higgins, Melrose, and Dianne McNulty, Ingram.

Speaking of Melrose, I hear that the whole street has been busy taking the rest of the Garden's turns with the flu and that it has really been Plague Row. More people leaving Rosedale Gardens! The way people are always moving away out here, you'd think that this was a mighty unpopular place, except that people keep moving in so fast. The Adolph Urbas and children Bobby and Susan are moving to Chicago around the first of October. The Urbas live on Melrose.

Rosedale Gardens Co-operative Nursery school will hold its first general meeting October 7 at the civic clubhouse on Hubbard at 8 p.m. with a panel of a clergyman, psychiatrist, doctor and sociologist speaking on "Father's Role in the Home." This program is open to the parents of nursery school children and everyone else who is interested. Also included on the program will be a humorous chalk talk on the nursery school father given by Mrs. C. A. Hall, graduate of Cranbrook.

Mothers are going back to school, too, this year! Mrs. Alice Gauthier, Melrose, has started as a freshman at the U. of D. where she will take a two year course in Secretarial Science.

Dianne McNulty, Ingram, celebrated her 15th birthday Tuesday evening, September 10 and had as well-wishers her grand-parents Mr. and Mrs. John Holman and her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hall and their five children.

Dianne celebrated some more Wednesday evening when she was hostess at the park to her friends for a cook out when they enjoyed such things as hot dogs, hamburgers, roast corn on the cob and baked potatoes, and of course birthday cake. Those present were Frances Koteles, Jeri Kay Cowden, Gail Grindler, Linda Scussel, Janie Hall, Joey Masse, zrother Freddy and Dianne's parents.

There was excitement in the form of a fire Friday, when the Curtis garage on Brookfield burned. No one seemed to know the cause.

The Gordon Danas, Vermont, and their three children spent Sunday visiting great-grandma Wescott at Imlay City and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dana and their five children near Romeo.

Pat and Ken Luch and their three sons Kenny, Tommy and Danny attended the wedding and wedding breakfast of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Peterson Saturday morning, at St. Cyril's church in Detroit. In the evening the Luchs attended the reception at a hall in Detroit.

Bob McGrath, Melrose, is now a freshman at the U. of D.

The Welcome Wagon Bridge club met last week at the home of Isobel Saelzler with twelve present. First prize was won by Jean Puls, second by Virginia Eiler and booby prize went to Mary Kraft.

Evan and Audrey Lonsbury and children Bob and Jane, Farmington Road, spent a month long vacation and really made the rounds. They visited Evan's mother, Mrs. Phelps at her cottage in northern Wisconsin on Long lake and Sand lake, visited Mrs. Roger Marriott in Rockford, Ill., and Audrey's folks, Mr. and Mrs. Willets in Milwaukee. By the way, Evan, who has been trying to catch a muskie for years finally landed a seven pounder!

Tony and Kathy Pons, Woodring, returned recently from their cottage at Lake Simco, Canada.

Jean Stewart, her mother Mrs. Shaffer of Grosse Isle, and the two Stewart girls, Sherry and Sandy drove to Buffalo over the Labor Day holiday. Bobby Stewart stayed with his other grand-ma.

If you have an old piano in good useable condition, looking for a home, Civic still wants one. Linda and Mike Thomas from Farmington Township spent September 4 with Nancy Snowberger on Oregon when their mother had to go to Chicago. Saturday night Sept. 7 the Snowbergers entertained their bridge club. Couples present were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Shepherd, Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Beer-bower, Northville, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Culver of Plymouth. Dick's birthday happened to be that evening, too, and was duly celebrated.

Welcome Wagon will hold its first regular monthly meeting of the season Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. at First Federal bank building, Sheldon Center (rear entrance). Mayor William Brasher and Director of Public Works, David Meininger will be the speakers of the evening and there will be a question and answer period on things pertaining to Livonia. All newcomers to Livonia are welcome and it is a marvelous chance to get acquainted. If you would like transportation, call Betty Cox, Ga. 2-8089. I see young Gilbert Howard is sporting a broken arm in a sling these days. Hear he fell out of a tree.

Registration for Dancing School will be Saturday, September 21 from 10 to 12 a.m. You must be a civic member to enroll your children, and cost of lessons will be reasonable. Jimmy Pagonas and Miss Pat Lynch, under the direction of Jimmy, will teach. The committee is: Peggy Miquelon, Ga. 1-6132, Corretta Randall, Ga. 1-5573 and Pat Milliman, Ga. 1-1824 for toe, tap and ballet, and Fran Ohs, Ga. 2-3506 for ball room dancing.

Parents at Grant school will be interested to know that the principal, Mrs. Sperry, is going to participate in a training program for the Livonia council of PTA's officers and chairmen Monday night, September 23 at Lincoln school at which time she will be one of the panel.

The Smiths, Dorothea and Fred of Virginia avenue, entertained friends Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmauch and their children Vicky and Sharon of Cleveland over the Labor Day holiday.

Bob Wilson, Hubbard, threw a party Saturday night, to celebrate the fact that it was the first weekend of the school season and his friends had survived one whole day of school! Kids still breathing were Jerry Jorden, Mary Finch, Carl Hansen, Janet Ringle, Janet Eidt, Bonnie But-ton, Leslie Borgia, John Peterson, and Jim Wilson. Our Don was the first day so well, and had to go to the doctor right after school for a shot of penicillin and then go to bed. School sure doesn't agree with everybody!

Isobel Reid, Brookfield, had her mother, Mrs. George Fallet and her sister Mrs. Armeda Conrad for a visit last week from Houghton Lake.

Beth Hierzel, Brookfield, had a toy demonstration at her home Wednesday evening. Early Christmas shoppers present were Frances Golasa, Helen Bujewski, Margaret Briggs, Lillian Forest, Jean Snyder, Jeanette Cihon, Mary Wilson and Doris Chapin.

Hope Dolores Schei, Virginia, is home from the hospital and on the road to health by the time you read this!

Little Judy Wickman, Virginia, celebrated her third birthday Wednesday, September 11 with a family party.

Gene and Anita Griffith and little Gary, Louisiana, recently returned from a two week vacation. They visited Anita's mother, Mrs. Nelson in Chicago, Gene's folks, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Griffith in Galesburg, Ill., and also visited Omaha, Neb., and the Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri.

A farewell party was held for Jean Arlen, who has moved away, Wednesday afternoon, September 4 at the home of Ginny Klenk on Vermont. Neighbors present were Norma Kumbier, Tig Tarbuton, Celia Hearon, Marion Yadosky, Margaret Duncan, Jeanette Guber and Betty Johnston. Jean, Bob and small Debby have moved to Indianapolis and new neighbors in their home are Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their children, one girl and three boys, from Denver.

A local bridge club met last week at the home of Pat Huntington, Mayfield. Present were Tig Tarbuton, Celia Hearon, Jeanette Oliver, Gladys Randolph, Lillian Wolverson, Edna Dunn, and Carolyn Gonvick.

Stanley Krogulecki, Melrose, left Labor Day for the boy's Catholic seminary at Orchard Lake to begin his ninth grade term.

Happy birthday to little Ricky Briggs, who was one year old September fifth!

"Certainly I know what the name 'George Spelvin' means," stated C. V. Sparks the other evening at a Theater Guild Board meeting.

"Tell us, Sparky," replied Jean Fronk, who was sitting comfortably in an over-stuffed chair. Board meetings are usually held in homes that provide only the best of seating arrangements.

"Well, it's a theatrical tradition. Started back as far as old Bill Shakespeare."

"You mean that this was another name for Bill Shakespeare?" interjected the ever-witty Warren Worth.

"No, it wasn't Warren. No, if everyone will just stop thinking out loud, I'll tell you." Murmurs of assent were heard all around.

Even Jim Blackman was quiet. This was unusual since Jim's wife was in hospital and their fourth boy had just been brought on stage after being in the wings for many a month.

"This George Spelvin is just a theatrical term that stage managers used when they wanted to use an actor two or three times to save money. In other words, George Spelvin is really a pseudonym."

"Please, Sparky, the children may hear you," cautioned Effie Kuisel. After all she was the host and such a warning was in keeping with the situation.

"Well, you wanted me to explain about George Spelvin. He's really a front name for someone else. If you ask me, our George Spelvin must be a local Theater Guild member. He always seems to have plenty of news about our fine organization."

Hal Young bestirred himself and gave a sigh, "You're so right."

Russ Creel, Theater Guild president, was last to speak. "Okay, now that we know that George Spelvin is a ghost writer, let's get back to the business at hand. We've got some plays to decide, worry about season tickets, and a whole lot more of uncharted dialogue. I'm satisfied that George is one of us — who he is and why he reacts like he does — that's a case for the nearest —"

"Don't say the nearest doctor," interrupted Dr. Ford Sutherland. "We couldn't do anything with him."

"Okay, I yield to the Doctor from the Mayo Clinic," agreed Russ. "let's hear from Phyllis Kelly. She's here tonight to give us a report from the script committee."

And so the Theater Guild meeting settled down to less serious matters such as the paying of bills, picking the season's playbill, charting the course of action for the next nine months, making arrangements for a membership letter, working out arrangements to canvass the town for the sale of season tickets, and choosing directors for the coming three plays.

Yes, old George was there. He felt a little embarrassed while they talked about him, but his ears returned to their normal shade of green after a few minutes.

Let me just report a few of the important items. The three plays for next season will be as follows: "The Desk Set", "Double Door", and "My Sister Eileen."

With a line-up like this you will want to be sure and purchase your season ticket. They will go on sale September 20th. Cost will be a mere three dollars. You save a dollar and a half by buying your ticket ahead of time. Also you're sure of getting a choice seat. Plan now to get your season ticket. We'll tell you more about this next week.

Item No. 2: The Theater Guild Directors were most disappointed when Bob Wall couldn't give a complete report on the renting of a rental plan. Board authorized Bob to go ahead with a second letter. Hope if anyone knows either Mr. Hohler or Mr. Rubin by sight or sound that they will tell them we'd like to have an answer soon.

Item No. 3: Phyllis Kelly was named the Membership chairman. A few columns back Jack Wilcox was given the job in error. Old George is sorry, Jack.

By the way, in an adjoining column the first production of the Jester Players has been given a review of its efforts. We hope to continue this activity if we don't run out typewriter ribbon and time to attend these community plays. We feel that a review of the plays will help the actors evaluate their work, give the play a niche in history, and let everyone know that missed the show just what they missed. And of course, if you went you can agree or disagree with the critic — that's the real fun.

Well, we didn't get too much time to talk about Broadway this issue. Maybe by next week we can clear the stage a bit. Local scenery seemed to clutter up the place this week. And here's the final note about a yearly production in Plymouth.

Like to warn all of you that the Plymouth evening school is just about the next act on the school bill. The head juggler, Herb Woolweaver, is in the process this week and next signing up eager citizens for the many, many classes. Give Herb a call at 895 and ask him to send you a program.

It's like his girl Friday, Irene Graham says. "You can't tell about these classes until after you read the pamphlet describing all courses. There's something in this book for everyone."

The evening school is the one place you can really get into the act. Make plans now to enroll. For those people interested in show biz you might note the following courses: "Makeup Workshop", "Curtain Going Up", and "Theater Guild."

Time to "strike the set" until next week. See you then.

The movie was shown continuously in a converted house trailer throughout the 10 days of the State Fair. Free educational literature on the cure and control of cancer was provided by women volunteers who served as hostesses.

Staffing the "movie mobile" unit from Plymouth were Mrs. S. C. LeFever, Mrs. C. W. Schuler, Mrs. C. Caldwell, Mrs. P. Tonkovich, Mrs. R. Chisnell and Mrs. H. Bartel.

Audiences that attended the opening performances of the Jester Players, a new drama group under the direction of Charles Gray, thoroughly enjoyed their initial presentation. The right amount of pathos, comedy and drama was packed into an evening of theater.

Mr. Gray has taken a group of high school and college people and worked with them until a fairly finished performance has been the result. Both of these one-act plays showed their acting ability off in fine fashion.

"Home Life of a Buffalo" had nothing to do with a Wild West show or did it take place in a Detroit Zoo. The "Buffalo" referred to in this play is a vaudeville performer who won't believe is a vanishing American. He refuses to accept the notion that vaudeville has gone underground to the supper clubs and to Ed Sullivan's potpourri on Sunday nights.

Mr. Muldoon, as the vaudeville, had a tough role as it asked for everything from slapstick comedy to high drama. He handled his assignment well. The hilarious scene with his wife as they do a baby Snooks routine was excellent. Jean Spencer, his ever-suffering wife, shows great promise. Her scenes with Dave were done with professional competence. Jan Campbell, Marlene Watchko, and Dick Thompson provided able support for the antics of Mr. and Mrs. Quinn.

Always difficult to portray the off-stage life of theatrical folks has been the rule in the past. The Jester players disproved this theory with their sensitive acting in "Home Life of a Buffalo."

"Gone Tomorrow", the final piece of the evening, was somewhat similar to Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock." In short, the second play was an Irish comedy filled with the lilt of brogue and pickle-like quality of the "wee" folks.

The Muldoon family and their worries about who Granddad Muldoon will leave all his money to when he passes on gives this one-act play its theme. Old man Muldoon is never seen, however, he is heard. His vociferous pounding and pot heaving gives this play many comic moments.

Lou-Anne Hembree, the nosy neighbor triggered many a laugh with her sudden spells or visions. Don Vandersloot as Mr. Muldoon had the choice part of the Irish father beset with troubles of a domestic nature. His sense of timing was excellent.

Some of the best moments in the play came when Mr. Muldoon's pal, Jerry, played by Dick Noble, tried to convince the family which funeral parlor should get the "old one's" funeral. Dick's reactions were priceless. His facial gestures made his characterization a comic gem. Dick is going to University of Michigan. We'll be looking for him in subsequent University Drama production.

Lilly Prine, as the daughter in the Muldoon family, had a cute part that almost broke up the actors. Nancy Streeter, Mrs. Muldoon, kept her family in line with her long Irish finger waving under her noses. John Hruska gave the show the proper restraint and showed he had observed lawyers. His professional manner gave the show just the right touch.

All in all, it was a good beginning for this ambitious group.

—George Spelvin
