LOOKING AT a sample of the art goods to be offered at the Dec. 8-13 Christmas art sale of the Three Cities Art club are these members of the group — Walter Maurus of Livonia, left, Mrs. Ray Denison of Plymouth and Mrs. Stahl Edmunds of Plymouth.

Mrs. Denison is showing one of the puppets that will be for sale. Chairman of the sale is Stanley Hench, art teacher in Plymouth schools. It will be held at the store at 920 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, from 12 noon to 9 p.m. each day.

Everything in Readiness For Christmas Art Sale

Monday through Saturday, December 8-13th, Plymouth, Northville, and Livonia artist members of the Three Cities Art club will hold their first week-long Christmas Art Sale. It will be held in Plymouth in the store at 920 West Ann Arbor Trail, from 12 noon to 9 p.m. each day.

Those looking for an unusual gift will be pleased at the variety offered by the 20 artist members of the group, who have combined their wares and talents to present a wide assortment.

Those preferring the handcrafted and original to machine-made products and reproductions will appreciate the opportunity to browse among works in more than a dozen media.

Those looking for good art at bargain prices will be delighted with the $2 to $25 limit set on all items. A handsome piece of ceramic ware; a colorful, sensitive painting or print; a bit of handmade jewelry or some handwoven mats — what could be a better choice for the discriminating person on a Christmas list?

Five Mimrods Return With Five Deer!

Talk about hunting luck... or skill.

Clyde Smith, 8010 Newburgh Rd., and his two sons and two sons-in-law all went deer hunting south of Alpena and bagged five deer.

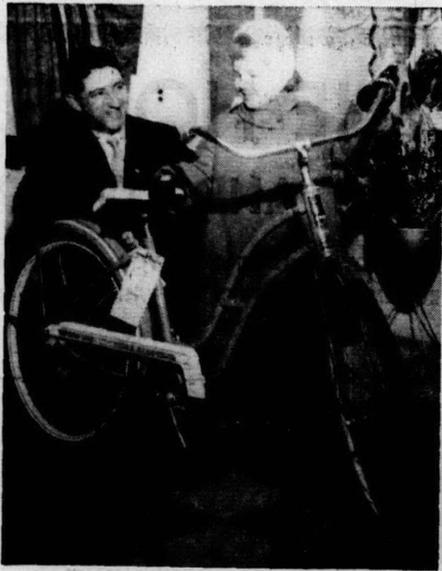

The five successful mimrods are members of the Black River Hunting Club.

Clyde Smith's deer was a 5-pointer at 120 pounds. Son David Smith got a 7-pointer at 125 pounds. Son Everett Smith shot a 5-pointer at 130 pounds.

Son-in-law Jimmy Tomlinson returned with an 8-pointer at 135 pounds. And son-in-law Ralph Gray got an 8-pointer at 162 pounds.

What's with all this deer meat?

Well, the hunters ate half of one deer at camp... admitting "that's the best I've tasted the best!" The others have families and deer meat will come in mighty handy.

MARGIE JOHNSON, 345 Pacific, was winner of a new bicycle given during the grand opening last weekend of the Pixie Shop, 930 West Ann Arbor Trail. Members decided to skip a December meeting and named January 26 as their first new year date.

Letters to The Editor

To the Editor:

The fire at the school in Chicago has brought a question to my mind. How safe is our Plymouth High School? Or most specifically the annex (former Junior High)?

I am sure our fire department keeps it under close supervision but there are architectural hazards that bother me. First and foremost are the stairways. They are so narrow they could be nothing but traps in case of fire. The hallways also are quite narrow.

My daughter, who is a student at the High School, tells me there have been more fire drills this year and that all the students were informed at the first of the semester how to leave the building from the various rooms. That is good and shows careful planning but is it enough? In case of fire panic would clog those narrow stairways so badly nobody could move.

I do not have the solution for this problem but I, as a parent, felt this question should be brought up.

Newcomers Plan Gay Yule Fete

Newcomers club members have a gala evening ahead on December 12.

That's the date of their Christmas dinner dance at Fox Hills Country club to which all newcomers are invited and may bring guests.

A cocktail pour will start off festivities at 6:30 p.m. A smorgasbord dinner will follow at 7 p.m.

Reservations must be made by December 6, party planners have announced. These will be taken by Mrs. Robert Fisher at GL 3-5557, Mrs. William Coons at GL 3-2394, or Mrs. Leander Rae at 540 Ross St.

Soroptomists Plan Yule Charity Gifts

When Soroptomists met at the home of Neva Lovewell on November 19, holiday charity plans were topmost in discussion.

Gifts for shut-ins of the Friendly Circle club will be distributed at a Christmas party.

Food baskets and clothings will also be distributed to several needy people in the Plymouth area.

A December 10 dinner meeting was also planned.

THE CHILDREN CAME OUT—Thousands of children, aged and infirm persons and refugees were flown out of Berlin by the airlift.

Brain-Storming
SKOKIE, Ill. — (UPI) — Almost every employee at the Rolled Steel Corp. here participates twice a month in a brain-storming session. Vice President Ralph C. Herdrich said that more than 200 suggestions have come out of the last eight meetings and that more than 10 per cent of them were put into effect. Company officials exclude themselves from the session so they can be as informal as possible. All suggestions are tape recorded and presented to management.

Gas Savers, Not Worth Buying, Says Magazine

Gas-saving gadgets, such as carburetor attachments, exhaust-pipe attachments, special spark plugs, crankcase drain plugs and others, if installed in your car, promise plenty of savings in your gasoline bill. Unfortunately, say the editors of "Changing Times," the Kiplinger Magazine, these devices have limited value or no value at all. Some can even damage your car.

In the November issue of "Changing Times," the editors emphasize these "don'ts" if you want to lengthen the life of your car.

1. Don't put any kind of pills in your engine cylinder, crankcase or gas tank.
2. Don't expect ignition boosters, intensifiers for special coils or spark plugs to significantly improve acceleration or gasoline mileage.
3. Don't use any carburetor attachment that admits additional air to the existing air-gasoline mixture.
4. Don't connect any device to the generator or its regulator to improve their performance.
5. Don't buy any make of oil filter other than one used at the factory by an automobile manufacturer or one sold by a reputable mail-order house.

The brine from a jar of sweet pickles makes a good substitute for vinegar in potato salad.

Debt-Hounded Mayflower II Will Be Comfy This Winter

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) — Though wallowing deep in debt, the Mayflower II will spend a much easier winter than the Pilgrims who traveled aboard the original Mayflower in 1620.

The Mayflower II, billed as a gift of friendship from the people of Britain to the United States when she sailed here in 1957, is still burdened by an estimated debt of $100,000.

David V. Freeman, a director of the reconstructed Pilgrim village here, said the size of debt has not yet been finally determined by British courts. He said it is still possible a few of the English merchant creditors would forgive some of the bills outstanding against the ship for building and supplying her.

The American co-sponsors of the trans-Atlantic project paid $15,000 toward the debt when the Mayflower II was officially turned over by her British builders. However, the ship's title was transferred "subject to the debts" which once amounted to more than a quarter million dollars.

More than 900,000 visitors have boarded the tiny square-rigged sailing ship since she reached the United States some 17 months ago. Though the visitors have paid a fee for the right to walk the decks of the 90-foot craft, soaring expenses accumulated on the ship's trip to Florida, New York and Washington virtually wiped out the income.

The Mayflower II spent last winter in Florida on tour. Freeman said this year she will be towed to New Bedford shortly after Thanksgiving and will be placed in storage for the winter. After the ship's bottom is refinished next spring, she will return to her State Pier mooring about the middle of April. Still facing Plymouth Plantation directors is the cost of establishing a permanent berth for the sailing ship on the Eel River. The craft will have to be removed from the water, hauled overland for several hundred feet, and the shallow stream dredged to permit her to be floated another several hundred feet to her eventual resting place.

Engineers are currently preparing estimates. But plans for the actual shift, expected to cost hundreds of thousands of dollars, won't be set until the British courts decide how deep is the river of red ink in which the Mayflower II is now floating.

Cattle Rustling Jet-Age Style Now Going Strong

SANTA FE — (UPI) — Cattle rustling survives in New Mexico today but not on the grand scale that stripped the plains of their bellowing herds in yesteryear.

The 20th century has added its touches — pickup trucks to speed the critters away from the corrals to cheap cateries that want the low-priced unsuspected beef.

And they don't hang rustlers anymore. In fact it's almost impossible even to catch them when they use these hit-and-run tactics.

R.C. Bishop, state cattle brand inspector for several counties, says the last organized ring was rounded up a few years ago but isolated rustling cases occur now and then — especially in the mountain country of northern New Mexico.

"They work fast," Bishop said, explaining why his enforcement agency hasn't been able to make many charges stick although it hauls in a few suspects for questioning now and then.

"They usually kill the cattle on the spot and 'hog dress' them there, dump the carcass in the truck and away they go," he said.

"I can't say how many rustling cases we find a year," Bishop continued. "We had only two or three this summer, but several last fall; we expect more business when cold weather arrives."

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

The Redford Township Board will receive sealed bids for the disposal of its garbage and rubbish under the following alternate plans:

1. Contractor to build, maintain and operate necessary transfer facilities upon land furnished by the Township so that garbage and rubbish may be transferred to the contractor's vehicles and disposed of by the contractor outside of the Township. Amount of garbage and rubbish to be disposed of consists of approximately eighty (80) tons per day, more or less. The Township of Redford will use its own equipment and personnel to pick up all of the garbage and rubbish and deliver it to the central transfer point. Contractor to furnish a Performance Bond in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000). Contractor must have or obtain the necessary approval of the State, County and Municipality involved, and also the approval of the Health Department concerned.
2. Contractor to furnish and maintain a dumping site only, for the disposal of rubbish and garbage which shall be adequate, available and sufficient for a period of not less than five (5) years. Use of this facility may be terminated at the option of the Township, at any time during the lease period, by the Township giving a ninety (90) day notice to that effect, and upon such termination there shall be no future liability on the part of the Township. Contractor shall furnish a Performance Bond in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000), guaranteeing the availability of a dumping site for both rubbish and garbage for the period. Contractor must have or obtain the necessary approval of the State, County and Municipality involved, and also the approval of the Health Department concerned.

All sealed bids should be mailed or delivered to the office of Margaret Peoples, Township Clerk, on or before Thursday, December 11, 1958, at 3:00 p.m. Bids are to be made on an annual basis. Bids must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check in an amount not less than five (5%) percent of the bid, which sum is to be retained by the Township as a good faith deposit.

The Township Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids, waive any informality in bids, and to accept the bid that, in the opinion of the Township Board, is to the best advantage and in the best interests of the Township of Redford.

Rock Cagers Open Season with Ypsi, Northville

Swimmers Open With Lincoln Park Tonight

The Plymouth high swimmers, defending champs of the Suburban 6 league, will meet their first and possibly their toughest opponent of the season - Lincoln Park - tonight at 7:30.

The meet with Lincoln Park should prove how strong a team Plymouth has this season. Swimming coach John McFall retained thirteen lettermen from last year. Along with capturing the Championship, McFall and swimmers won eight in thirteen starts.

The returning letter winners are Co-captains Jack Vincent and Byron Williams; Jim Carney, Don Cash, Allen Davis, Dick Gretzinger, Art Helm, Karl Melow (league champion), Dave Read, Beau Toll, Bruce Wood, Don Williams, and Scott Soth.

Watch these seven this season: Nick Herrick, Dave Scott, Robert and Ronald Daily, Douglas Bal-four, Dave Rank and Don Conover.

Seek Hockey League Players

An invitation for Plymouth to furnish several teams for two hockey leagues has been received and those interested are urged to contact the Recreation Department.

Two leagues, one for 18 and under and another 19 and over, are being formed at the Nankin Township artificial rink on Ford Rd., east of Wayne Rd. There will be local representation at a meeting tonight in Nankin.

Recreation Director Herb Woolweaver asks that anyone interested in joining a team to contact his office at the high school. The Optimist Club has agreed to sponsor one of the younger teams.

JV Squad Hopeful For Better Year

The JV's are hopeful for a better season this year when they meet Ypsilanti Friday night.

Last year they ended the season's play with a three-nine record. Out of the eleven players only four have seen action. Dave Palmer and John Spigarelli from the Freshmen team. The other two are Sam Hartloff and Mike Porter who played on last year's JV team.

Plymouth High school will open its '58-'59 basketball season at home against Ypsilanti on Friday night and travel to Northville on Saturday night.

Last season the Rocks won eight out of thirteen, for an overall 8-5 record. They won seven while only losing three to take 2nd place in the Suburban 6 league.

Although the first game is Friday night, basketball mentor Jim Doyle says he is still in the process of picking five starters. He has eight in mind to choose from, but adds that if the boys keep improving on their individual faults he may be faced with a larger selection.

Doyle reports that although his squad is small, only three of the twelve are six foot, they have a lot of "team harmony."

The 13th member of the squad, Wade Schultheiss will not see action until late in the season. Wade, a letter winner from last year, suffered a broken hand in football. The only other injury reported is a torn ligament which will sideline John Salan for a while.

Height will be a problem against Ypsilanti and with arch rival Northville on Saturday night. Northville is reported to have a 6'8" center that could spell trouble for shorter Plymouth.

Here is the team roster:
 Eddie LaRoche-center
 Ron Turkett-center
 Randy Egloff-center or forward
 Larry Wells-center
 Al Runge-guard
 Wayne Sparkman-guard
 Dick Hubert-guard
 Jimmy Ralson-guard
 Dave Mynatt-guard
 John Salan-guard
 Wade Schultheiss-guard
 Don Argo-forward
 Jim Thompson-forward

Football Contest Comes to Close

The Plymouth Mail's 1958 Football Contest closed last week with O. F. Lockwood, 328 Adams St., taking the first prize money of $15.

Both Lockwood and second place winner Mike Knapp, 497 Irvin, picked every one of the selections on the nose so it took the score guess of the Army-Navy game to break the tie.

Steve Hayskar, 1434 Penniman, an almost constant winner this season, made one bad guess and picked up the $3 third place.

Last week's contest ends the 1958 selections.

Chill candles in the refrigerator for 24 hours before using. They will burn evenly and will not drip.

'Trackdown' Star Views TV Westerns

NEW YORK — (UPI)—Robert Culp, the star of CBS-TV's "Trackdown" series, looks upon his acting seriously, his producer lightly and the future of TV Westerns sadly.

"The bottom will start falling out of this western jazz next season," said the leon-jawed, long legged actor during a recent visit to New York.

"It'll be much harder to sell Westerns next season, and we all know how hard the new ones were to sell this year. There'll be a lot of axing, but the best ones will stay on, I guess."

What happens if "Trackdown" folds? "I couldn't care less. I'm an actor and this is another role for me. I've worked hard and shed a lot of blood over it, but still, it's just another role. I'm satisfied with the money I'm making for the show. That's all it's worth to me."

"Besides the money, I got an education out of it that's invaluable. I'm the youngest of the cats doing these shows—started it when I was 25 and I'm 27 now — so I have a lot of years left to put this knowledge to work."

Culp added that there are many things about "Trackdown" he doesn't like. "But Hoby Gilman (the hero he portrays) is not one of them. I built him my way over the protests of everyone, especially Vincent Fennelly, the producer.

"I've developed an individual rhythm for Hoby Gilman. It's distinctive — the way he walks and talks — and it's also a tremendous problem. Other actors in the show sometimes pick up this rhythm and that's not good. One actor, a very dear friend of mine, was dropped because he acquired my rhythm. The show is built on conflict and if everyone has the same rhythm, acts the same, conflict is destroyed," Culp explained.

A fanatic on learning all the details of the character he is portraying, Culp said the hat Gilman wears is vital to the show.

chanism arranged so a voter must vote for some candidate before the curtains open." He recommends that if people want to vote for the question only, that the text of the question be placed at the far right, where it now appears, but to put the yes and no vote in another column.

Commissioners were advised by the county election people to place a dummy key on the left side of the machine to push down (instead of a candidate's key) in case one wants to only vote for a question.

City commissioners were also concerned with the placement of local propositions on the machine. Clerk Kenneth Way said that state law gives preference of position over county and local proposals and that the county election officials tell him where proposals must be placed.

Some commissioners argued that the local proposals should be placed high where people can read them. Commissioner Marvin Terry indicated that even if people know what the proposition says they have a hard time finding the right key to push down.

Concluding the discussion was a motion to have Commissioner Richard Wernet, City Manager Glassford and Way to talk to county election officials to see if it is possible to place local propositions in a more favorable place on the voting machines.

In other business before the commission, Richard Lea, 102 North Holbrook, recommended to the commission that in their health report in Annual Report that more attention be given to presenting accurately the number of cases of major diseases such as tuberculosis. Lea, who is executive secretary of the Wayne County TB and Health Society, said that such statistics can be secured from the Wayne County Health Department.

A resignation from the city planning commission and three appointments were made during the meeting. Eber Readman, whose term expired December 1, resigned due to other pressing business. His resignation was accepted "with regret."

Charles Engstrom, 1381 Elm, was appointed to succeed Readman.

The two re-appointed for three years were Sidney Strong, chairman of the commission for many years, and Harry Larsen.

Cadillac

Even Newer from Behind the Wheel!

Odds are you've seen the new 1959 Cadillac by now—perhaps sweeping regally past you on the boulevard... perhaps making its majestic arrival at a fine club or hotel. And odds are, too, that you've wondered if this 1959 "car of cars" could be as superlative in performance as it is in appearance.

Well, once you've found out for yourself, we think the truth will very likely amaze you. For this Cadillac is even newer from behind the wheel!

You will sense it, in fact, the moment you hear the whisper-quiet response of its great new engine.

And your sentiment will grow to conviction as you discover the other wonders of Cadillac's new performance... responsiveness so immediate and so silken in every driving range that it is difficult to believe

... handling ease so remarkable that you follow the curves and corners with the lightest imaginable movement of hand and wheel

... a quality of ride so smooth and level and quiet that even the byways travel like boulevards.

Indeed, the evidence will be overwhelming—a journey at its wheel is the world's most glorious interval between start and stop.

And the proof of all this is no farther away than your nearest authorized Cadillac dealer.

He'll be delighted to make you his guest—to explain the virtues of each of Cadillac's thirteen new Fleetwood-crafted models, including the fabulous new Eldorado Brougham—and to let you take the wheel for yourself.

Every Window of Every Cadillac is Safety Plate Glass

HI FIDELITY fans are the John E. Murphys, of 9415 Southworth, Arbor Village. They have a turn-table unit in a special vented hall closet where shelves house their record collection. This is view in spacious livingroom near curved picture window where the "picture" is an antique punch bowl set.

TAKING COLOR slides is a hobby of John E. Murphy . . . and in panelled family room he and his wife Elise have all their gear to entertain friends with travel pictures. Besides shelves for books and souvenirs, there is special built-in storage for camera and office equipment. A window-wall opens to a future patio.

Here's the story of a house that dreams built. And it all started with a stay at picturesque Mayflower Hotel.

Or maybe we should say . . . Always the same story beginning and the same happy ending: The traveling-through glimpsed Plymouth . . . and made residence plans. But somehow the fill-in details . . . in their own words . . . are the nicest, boosting-est ammunition any Chamber of Commerce should like to have.

Take personable newcomers Mr. and Mrs. John E. Murphy, of Arbor Village, who call St. Louis, Mo., "home town." Since their marriage in St. Louis five years ago this past November 27, (Thanksgiving Day), they've traveled extensively and literally lived in hotels. Mr. Murphy's position with the general sales office of Ford Motor Company called for this busy traffic plan . . . and to quote Mrs. Murphy (Elise) . . . "I adore traveling and wouldn't be left behind!"

Some three years back the Mayflower Hotel was one of their "hotel homes" for a short stay. "We got to like the feeling of the town and decided to live here when we settled down."

So their first home is . . . in Plymouth . . . and what a dream home it is at 9415 Southworth! It sparkles with ideas picked up on their travels and their "Way of living" specifications.

Since they moved in this past August . . . their handsome double black doors have opened to a flow of guests.

One . . . John's mother from St. Louis, was like the "Man Who Came to Dinner." On the day she was leaving to catch a train for home a month ago, she fell . . . and finished mending at Ann Arbor hospital and their home. She just recently arrived in St. Louis!

Vivacious Elise, who prior to her marriage did publicity work for a St. Louis department store, has done a magnificent interior decorator's job.

Walls in the living room, dining room, hallway and two of the three bedrooms are champagne with white ceilings . . . fluffy gray carpeting lends to the spacious feeling in the living room where a cheery fireplace staves off wintry weather. Black and white vinyl adds drama to the entrance hall . . . with planter separator.

Antiques and contemporary furniture are fetchingly combined throughout the home.

Point of interest in the picture window is an antique punch bowl set with handpainted trim on the bowl and handled cups. This belonged to Elise's family . . . she has most of their heirloom furniture since their passing.

In fact, the third or "spare" bedroom is filled with ornate family furniture that this energetic couple plans to "redo."

Their High Fidelity console speaker is an attraction in the livingroom . . . turn-table is concealed in specially built, vented (against overheating) closet in the hallway. Here also are their albums . . . safe from dust and adventurous small fry!

Their "colonial bathroom" is a conversation-provoker. Maple fashions the cabinets and molding . . . red-checked paper trims the walls . . . all white formica covers double sinks and vanity.

Elise made up the gay red plaid bedspread and plaid drapers in the guest room from material brought back from Mexico by a cousin.

The kitchen is a dream itself. Features are "His" counter and cabinets (bar service) . . . and "Hers" (gourmet meals) in all-white formica.

Their built-in oven has its own rotisserie and they chuckle remembering what they initiated on it . . . "hot dogs!" Ideal is the built-in range fold-up feature that gives added counter space when range is not in use!

Favorite spot is a roomy panelled family room . . . with window-wall to future patio. Here's locale for their books, souvenirs, magazines, desk . . . and built-ins to accommodate all their hobby equipment. This room doubles as a "guest suite" when

John entertains male friends . . . as the handsome blue sofa converts to a bed and a full bath adjoins. "We like it because it's like a separate guest wing!"

John is affiliated with Our Lady of Good Counsel church here.

"Oh, we just love Plymouth . . . and are so happy here! In fact, we think we have some small animal guests . . . at the first snow fall . . . it looked like a dinosaur was in our back yard . . . so many little tracks!" Elise marveled to make this THEIR happy ending.

Another delighted Plymouthite is Mrs. Zdzislaw Majewski. A native of Liverpool, England, she has lived here just one year of her two years in the States.

Last Monday evening, November 24, she found herself an overjoyed guest of honor at an unexpected "welcome-to-baby" shower.

Mrs. Donald Urquhart was the charming hostess in her home, 265 Arthur, with Mrs. Joseph Calleja and Mrs. O. Clifford Wood assisting.

All fine gifts for little Daniel Peter Majewski, born November 4, were presented to Mrs. Majewski by the guests.

They were Sylvia Marie Majewski, Mrs. James Hughes, Mrs. Ralph Torrika, Mrs. Howard Hill, Mrs. Howard Salisbury, Mrs. Rose DeRosia, Mrs. John Battle, Mrs. James Griffith, Miss Verna of Germany, Joanne Wood, Mary Jane Calleja and Josephine Calleja.

As guests arrived, miniature baby rattles were pinned on them.

Dessert service was by candlelight . . . and Mrs. Wood had made cookies in the shape of baby bonnets in turquoise to which name tags were attached.

Fun games of the evening included drawing a baby in the dark (and as Mrs. Majewski said: "You should have seen where the eyes and noses ended up!"), a blow-out car game, and a jumbled-word contest. Pretty prizes were given to all winners by the hostess trio.

An appealing note crossed our desk this week:

"It happened in Plymouth . . . when we were walking down the street after church on Thanksgiving, we observed an elderly gentleman . . . very poorly dressed . . . and needing a haircut and shave."

"My 16-year-old daughter said: 'Mama, he doesn't look like he is going to have a very happy Thanksgiving . . . couldn't we invite him . . . or buy him a dinner.'"

"But before we could do either . . . he had entered a small restaurant where there were several elderly gentlemen . . . and he was ordering his dinner."

"As we looked in, we could see he was smiling and chatting with his buddies . . . and in some way . . . we could see in HIS own way . . . he looked very happy and contented."

"Only then . . . was my daughter contented to go home and enjoy OUR family dinner."

Make Holiday Candy Of Cranberry Juice

NEW YORK (UPI) — For light-textured candy for holiday serving or giving, try cranberry-lime chiffon squares. Sprinkle 3 tablespoons (3 envelopes) unflavored gelatin on ½ cup cold cranberry juice in large mixing bowl. Combine 2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons light corn syrup and ¼ cup reconstituted frozen limeade concentrate in 2-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches rolling boil, and boil 5 minutes without stirring.

Remove from heat, pour over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool at room temperature to consistency to thick syrup (45 to 60 minutes), stirring occasionally. Pour ½ cup ice water into mixing bowl, add ½ cup instant non-fat dry milk crystals and whip about 3-4 minutes, or until soft peaks form. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice and whip 3-4 minutes, or until very stiff.

Using same beater, beat into gelatin mixture until smooth, pour into buttered 9-inch square pan, chill 1 hour and cut into 49 pieces. Roll in flaked coconut.

Early Orders for Swags, Wreaths Taken Before Sale

Traditional "Greens Mart" of Plymouth branch, Woman's Farm and Garden club, is close at hand. It will be staged all-day Friday, Dec. 12, at the Old Telephone Building on Penniman St., from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

General co-chairmen Mrs. George J. Scherman and Mrs. Edwin Zipse, announce that fragrant swags, wreaths and centerpieces can be ordered in advance of the sale in the customers' own color preferences. Telephone orders will be taken by Mrs. Zipse or Mrs. Arthur Van Ornum, branch president.

For the past several weeks, members have been busy fashioning all the accoutrements to making Plymouthites holiday season especially festive.

Miniature Christmas trees will be available with a bag of moss in the middle to be used as gay table centerpieces.

A work-session is slated for all next week to insure a great variety of Christmas trimmings.

As usual, in connection with the Mart, a baked goods sale will be underway, too. All sorts of homemade Christmas cookies, bread, pies and cakes at popular prices will be available.

Proceeds of the Mart will be earmarked for the scholarship fund of the branch or for their civic work in Plymouth. This year's scholarship recipient is Marjorie Redman, a freshman at Michigan State University.

Music Is Personality Tonic For 'Off' Kids

CHICAGO (UPI) — If the little men and women in your house are out of tune with their playmates and elders — Give Them Music.

That's the prescription for several personality ills advanced by experts at the American Music Conference, Chicago.

The advice stems from what the AMC calls the "first controlled experiment" concerning the magic of music for slightly "shook up" kids. Ten students, ages 7 and 8, from the Keyport Elementary School, Keyport, N. J., helped in the study.

Salvation Army Faces Biggest Christmas Task

"Silver Bells... Silver Bells... Yes, it's Christmas time once again, and the Salvation Army in Plymouth is on the job again, helping those who are in need, to enjoy this Christmas.

Through the years, the Salvation Army has attempted to bring the joy of the Saviour's birth into needy homes with a cheery word and a hearty Christmas dinner. Starting with an obscure mission in the East End of London, the Salvation Army has spread throughout 86 countries in the 93 years of its existence, and has brought that ray of sunshine into millions of hearts.

As Christmas once again draws near, the familiar Salvation Army kettle dressed in holiday style can be seen on the streets. Due to the recent recession in the country's economy, more and more families are in need of aid this Christmas.

Last year The Salvation Army in Plymouth aided over 250 persons with a Christmas dinner, plus toys to brighten the day for the children. All this was made possible through the support of the people of Plymouth.

The local Salvation Army Citadel, located at 290 Fairground Avenue, serves all of northwest Wayne and western Oakland counties. This includes the towns of Milford, Walled Lake, Northville, South Lyon and their surrounding areas.

Lieutenant John Campbell, commanding officer, estimates the number of persons who will be helped this year will probably exceed 400, most of whom will come from Plymouth.

In addition to the traditional Christmas basket which has endeared "The Army" to the hearts of many, there is also The Toy Shop, where the children of the needy families may come to receive their Christmas toys.

Lieutenant Campbell said that "all this is possible only through an immediate response by the people of the city of Plymouth." Support The Salvation Army Christmas effort at the familiar kettle on the streets, through the sale of the Christmas War Cry Magazine, or by a personal contribution, direct to The Salvation Army, Post Office Box 374, Plymouth, Michigan.

Rent Goes Up For Northville's Use of Jail

City commissioners have decided to "raise the rent" for the use of its jail by the city of Northville.

At Monday night's meeting commissioners voted to charge Northville $3 a day plus the cost of meals for prisoners.

For over two years Northville has been without a jail. It had been condemned as being unfit for use and has been padlocked. It cannot even be used to detain prisoners.

As a result, Northville police have been bringing their prisoners to the Plymouth jail (Plymouth's two-cell jail was relocated and newly-built four years ago. It had been in the city hall basement and also was threatened with condemnation.)

City Manager Albert Glassford reported that he and Police Chief Kenneth Fisher met with Northville's City Manager John Robertson and Police Chief Joseph Denton to discuss the costs involved. Northville has been paying for meal costs, but Plymouth's police also must face other inconveniences and responsibilities when housing prisoners, Glassford said.

"It was felt that the spirit of cooperation between the two communities is a great asset and must continue," Glassford reported, "but the city of Plymouth would like to recover any out-of-pocket expenses."

He recommended that starting January 1, the city will accept the first five prisoners per year without any charge other than meal costs (this is the same agreement other communities have with each other.)

After the five prisoner limit of $3 a day plus meal costs has been reached, a charge will be made. Northville representatives said that the city contemplates construction of a jail in the near future, Glassford asserted.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — (UPI) A woman wrote election commissioner Henry A. Fisselbrand that she decided not to register to vote because the form required that she give her age. The commissioner said the Election Board would be satisfied if she merely replied "over 21" to the age question.

At least one Plymouth hunter was not afraid of the deep snow covering the upper peninsula. Ed Gollinger, night hall master at the House of Corrections, returned to Plymouth this week with one of the largest and finest deer ever brought back to Plymouth. Many hunters did not try their luck because of the very deep and drifting snow but Ed is mighty happy he tried it.

Announcement of retirement of Paul Hayward from business in Plymouth has been received with genuine regret not only by his business associates but all Plymouth residents where he has been so very active in community affairs. He will return to Ypsilanti. In the past six years his place of business has been the outstanding men's store in this area.

Spaghetti Museum Opened in Italy

PONTEPASSIO, Italy (UPI) — Italy has for ages been a land of museums and spaghetti. No wonder that one day someone should think of creating a spaghetti museum.

This is now done. A recent congress of humorists from all over the world officially inaugurated in this tiny northern village the "Spaghetti Historical Museum."

Political, municipal and church authorities attended the occasion together with humorists and cartoonists, who took the day off from their annual congress at nearby Bordighera.

On the initiative of a well-known spaghetti manufacturer who offered his home here, everything that tells the story of spaghetti-making has been collected for exhibition.

On exhibit are ancient and modern poems, paintings, etchings and photographs dealing with spaghetti; cook books with thousands of recipes for spaghetti, government decrees dating back to 1602 which fixed the price of spaghetti, and one decree providing up to 10 years in jail for anyone employing harmful ingredients for the manufacture of spaghetti.

Also exhibited is a perfect and functioning reproduction of a spaghetti factory dating back to 1850.

VFW Buys a Town

TENNANT, Calif. — (UPI) The Veterans of Foreign Wars has purchased this whole town as a retirement community for its older members.

Tennant, in the northern county of Siskiyou, once was a logging town built by the International Paper Co. As the timber thinned out, the place fell into disuse until the VFW bought it.

California VFW Commander B. C. Hesser said practically all of the more than 150 cottages and other buildings are in good shape, requiring only a "general cleaning and painting."

High School Study Committees To First Determine Their Aims

Fourteen sub-committees intent on digging into the educational needs of a proposed new high school began their tasks Wednesday night when the School Facilities Committee held an organizational meeting at the Junior High. Dr. Fred Foust, chairman of the committee, complimented the various committee chairmen on their ability to organize their groups so quickly and to get down to the business at hand. Suggestion guide sheets were handed out to each committee when they assembled. Board President Austin Siecker gave a welcome and said that the board of education eagerly awaits the recommendations and educational specifications that will come from the 14 lay groups. Each of the committees have elected a chairman with staff members from the high school assisting the chairman as a resource person. Suggested procedure for each one of the weekly meetings of the committee consisted of the following items:

1. Define the aims and purposes of the committee. Be sure everyone on the committee knows the exact curricular area being covered.
2. Arrange a detailed work schedule for time that the committee meets. A weekly agenda will mean that committees are making progress and will ease the report making sessions.
3. First job: analyze what we now have. Have your teacher resource person present an accurate picture of what is going on in your committee area.
4. Consider what we should have in your area in light of the most effective educational philosophy. It can be done by: a. use local people as resource material b. invite in consultants from nearby schools, universities, etc.; c. field trips to other schools; d. gather experiences from other educational services.
5. Make progress reports on December 10, January 14 and 28, February 11 and 25. As each of the sub-committees make their progress report, the highlights will be given to the Public Information Committee members. Through the services of the committee, the material will be published prior to the final report to be issued sometime late in March. A full, more detailed account of Wednesday's meeting, held as The Mail went to press, will be published next week.

Special Gifts Spur Garden City Hospital Drive

Alexander J. Kovach and Richard Sczodrowski, Garden City businessmen, have been designated by the Executive Committee of the Garden City Hospital Building Fund Campaign as Co-Chairmen of the Special Gifts Committee in the current drive for $500,000 with which to secure matching Federal funds of also $500,000 toward the total $1,750,000 cost of the building of the proposed 102 bed hospital.

In a joint statement, Mr. Kovach and Mr. Sczodrowski said, "The cost of the new hospital must be balanced against the much greater costs in terms of suffering and added expense that will arise should we not provide funds while we have the opportunity to secure a matching Federal grant of $500,000. It is to be hoped that no citizen living in the hospital's area of service will ever need to have the experience of a personal tragedy to convince him of the need for a hospital bed nearby and not far away... when it is really required to save a life.

"Our drive has raised $334,750 toward its goal of $500,000, leaving $165,250 to be obtained before we close the campaign on Saturday, December 13. This is a week later than first planned. It is justified by the response we are finding. For example, of the amount raised so far, $63,350 is in Donor pledges, payable over three years, in sums ranging from $180 to $468, sponsor pledges of from $500 to $2500 amounting to $122,400 and $149,000 in Memorial pledges of $3,000 and up. Mrs. Letha Calhoun of Plymouth was listed among those giving between $180 to $468.

A rash of surveys have hit PHS... two weeks ago the entire student body filled out a questionnaire dealing with their purchases in downtown stores... Tuesday a group of PHS'ers answered questions on cheating, dating, their ambitions, most desirable character traits in a survey circulated by the high school newspaper, "Pilgrim Prints." Junior Sharon Neal and yours truly made arrangements for the aforementioned.

Juniors and seniors will have an opportunity to take aptitude tests this Saturday morning at 8:30 (isn't that kinda early?) The tests will be free of charge and supervised by the guidance department of which Robert Smith is the head.

Looking ahead to graduation in June are the seniors, who are being measured for caps and gowns this week... paper yardsticks taped up against the wall in the room of Miss Elizabeth McDonald, senior adviser, are revealing measurements. Miss M. and Glyn Norton, senior class secretary and his cohorts are making sure all seniors are measured and accounted for.

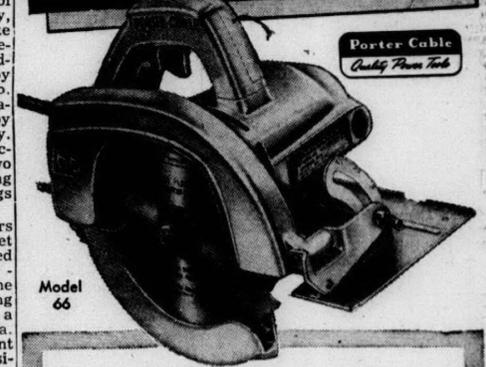

Got our second marking period report cards yesterday... need we say more? After a three week lull, the sports season will get back in full swing tonight when the swimmers meet the Lincoln Park water experts at the Plymouth pool. Tomorrow night will see the premiere of the 1958-59 version of the Rock Varsity and Junior Varsity basketball squads. The cagers will meet at the home court. The JV games begin at 7:00, the Varsity contest follows. Another basketball game will be played at Northville on Saturday night.

You can't win all the time... and the PHS debaters broke their winning streak by a loss. The occasion was a contest between the Plymouthites and a Trenton squad. Speaking for the Plymouth affirmative were freshman, Steve Bullington and senior Frank Smith; on the negative side were freshman Janet Graham and senior Bob Westover. The resolution discussed was: That the United States Educational Sys-

ATTENTION: Plymouth Township Residents
 I Would Like To Know Your Beliefs—Should I Run For Township Supervisor in February?

Orville Tungate

This is an unusual "political" advertisement. My name is Orville Tungate. I've been active in politics in the past, but that has nothing to do with my question today.

Like yourselves, I'm a resident of Plymouth Township. Many acquaintances have urged me to campaign for Supervisor next Spring because, they said, we desperately need a change in Township "climate" and they didn't know anyone else ready to run who might win.

I'm not going to run unless I really believe that there is a large, general desire for a change in our traditional Township way of thinking.

I have definite ideas about the office of Supervisor:

1. We absolutely must halt the petty, futile, destructive "cold war" with the City of Plymouth. The City long ago turned the other cheek, and for it has been rebuffed, ignored and insulted by our elected Township officials—at no gain whatever to ourselves.
2. We should preserve our Township form of government, but only on the basis that it exists to cooperate with, and join in big planning with, our neighbors, specifically, the City.
3. I believe we should have professional, college-trained Township management. If elected, I would make the office of Supervisor a policy-forming one, with most of the Supervisor's routine work and salary to go to a college-trained administrative assistant.
4. I believe we should combine services with the City wherever possible—for example, we should have a single, efficient, economical fire department serving us both, instead of the Township pretending to offer service it never could produce.
5. Both City and Township should plan together to bring in a solid industrial tax basis to help pay the big school bills which we both will face in future, and toward which we both must pay alike, irrespective of our individual form of government.

But, and THIS IS THE REASON FOR THIS ADVERTISEMENT, I only am interested in running if there are enough Township citizens who believe in the same thing—who sincerely and earnestly want a change in our presently unfriendly Township climate.

Instead of going blithely into a futile and expensive campaign, I am seeking an expression of opinion before I ever file for office.

It's cheaper for me to buy this one ad today than waste a dozen later. I would sincerely appreciate hearing from you, either by letter or phone, and on the basis of that response, I will make up my mind.

She Dangled in Air... Holding Pair Silk Stockings

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — Mrs. Oscar Williams will never forget the day she dangled 1,100 feet up by a pair of silk stockings, but she wishes her children would. "Why, if they ever tried such a stunt, I'd die," says the 52-year-old grandmother. "I think I would commit them."

However, she wouldn't give anything for the thrills she had. "When you get old, you need something to look back on," she said.

It was 30 years ago that Mrs. Williams answered a newspaper ad for a girl willing to hang by a pair of silk stockings from an airplane. "I was Mrs. Clyde Dawkins then, 22 years old, the mother of a small daughter.

"My husband and I needed the money, so I took the job." That started her on a career as a wing-walking, parachute-jumping daredevil. Her family was horrified when they learned what she planned to do. But when they saw they couldn't talk her out of it, they went to the airstrip to watch. Mrs. Williams' mother walked up to the pilot, and grabbed the plane. "She told him, 'Mr. Omiley, if you don't bring my daughter back like she is, you'd better not land on this field,'" Mrs. Williams recalled.

"I thought she was acting silly at the time. Now that I'm older, I realize I was taking a great chance with my life. But I didn't then."

Mrs. Williams said it "felt like those stockings stretched a yard" when a helper shoved her off the wing. "I never was afraid, not even when trying out a new stunt.

"Once, a fellow wing-walker offered me some nerve pills. I told him, 'I don't need them. I don't have any nerves.'

"I don't know why I never got afraid. I guess maybe something was wrong with me.

"Finally, the family put its foot down and told me: 'No more!' I began to wake up in the middle of dreams where I was falling through space."

However, it wasn't the dreams that stopped her. Mrs. Williams had taken up parachute jumping "just for fun."

One day a fellow parachutist broke his leg. "That was the first time I got scared," she said. So she switched to selling infants' wear.

Mrs. Williams re-married after her husband died, and she and her second husband had two sons.

"I was deathly afraid they might try to follow in my footsteps," she said. "I kept it secret for a long time."

When her oldest son was about 12, a family friend slipped and told him his mother was an ex-daredevil. Mrs. Williams hasn't been up in a plane since she quit stunting.

Would she try wire-walking again, if someone offered her a job? There was a long pause. "Well — yes, I would. If they offered me enough money. I feel safer up in the air than I do on the ground," she said. "You know, there are a thousand ways to die on the ground, and only one way to die in the air."

Christmas Party Plans Revealed

Mrs. Carl Caplin was hostess when Allen Home Economics Extension group sponsored by Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, met November 18.

Mrs. Caplin presented a lesson on civil defense. High lights were a suggested list of desirable foods for survival storage, tornado shelter plan for homes with basements, emergency action to save lives and home nursing, and how to stay healthy after an enemy attack.

A special guest at the session was Mrs. Frank Busha. Mrs. Stanley Travis is group chairman.

Articles which were made by members who attended the various Christmas Workshop classes on November 13 at the 4-H Fairground, Belleville, were on display, including holiday table favors, chicken wire novelties, feather wreaths, centerpiece from nature, felt tree skirt and card display strip. Plans were made for an annual Christmas party on December 10.

The South Pacific Railroad was incorporated in the 1880's in Kentucky, where its "corporate" home was a small white house until about 10 years ago, when it was shifted to Delaware.

Snuff was once used so widely by churchmen it was known as "The Holy Herbe."

Time, the great healer, has another attribute—it makes a memorable play, put on by a highly-talented group of high school actors, deeper etched into ones' mind than mere chemicals from the school chemistry lab. These haunting memories are the consequence of seeing and hearing a fine performance of Thornton Wilder's prize play, "Our Town".

Mr. Robert Southgate, drama director and faculty advisor for the high school Thespian group, has every right to be proud of his youthful charges. They followed his advice and did a most competent job in acting, stage lighting, costumes, and make-up.

Faced with the task of moving almost 30 thespians around on a high school stage notorious for its inadequacies did not dim Mr. Southgate's professional approach to this excellent play. He plunged in and executed some of the best staging seen this side of the great White Way.

"Our Town" is a scenery-less play that calls for many technical sound effects and lighting changes. This fact did not daunt the Plymouth Thespians. They allocated some money for dimmer equipment, built the involved electrical circuits with the help of Donn Kelly's dad, and installed it on their own.

Glyn Norton, playing the part of George Gibbs, gave every evidence of knowing the part inside out. His subtle changes of character throughout the play proved this point. His scene with Jeanette Ridley as Emily in the Drug Store was done with proper adolescent delicacy. Being able to project the feeling of falling in love on stage is not easy, but Glyn came through his assignment with professional acumen.

Bill Black gave his usual top comedy performance. As Howie Newsome the meandering milkman, Bill drew laughs out of commonplace lines. It's time that Mr. Southgate found a vehicle for this lad before he graduates. Talent like this only appears every now and then.

The long, large, and all-important part of the Stage Manager was thrust into the hands of Paul Rawley. The philosophic sequences were difficult for Paul. It might have been better to cut some of this or transferred some of the lines to more mature individuals in the cast. Paul did well with his big assignment—keep the show moving, don't let it drag. And it didn't.

Henry Naasko provided many laughs in his role as the church choir director. His biggest laugh came when he

All set for an international time of it this week? The productions locally and in the New York area have taken on a slightly foreign flavor. On the great White Way the first big musical hit of the season is a revue type show from France, the Old Vic company from London has been in town, and "Lil Abner" has arrived at the Riviera Theater straight from Lower Slobbovia.

"La Plume de ma Tante" blew into New York city from Paris, France where it has enjoyed unprecedented success for the past three years. In case you've forgotten your French lessons, let me translate the title—it means "the pen of my aunt".

The show has no reference to the actual play. The performers just picked a zany title that had little rhyme or reason. That's the type of show it is. All fun and frolic.

Contrary to the usual interpretation of a production from saucy Paris, it is not loaded with undressed models or smutty jokes. It hides under no cloak of Paris posh. The revue is strictly a delight with a right amount of gaiety for all members of the family.

While we are on the subject of musical revues let me for once and for all of posterity clear up the misunderstanding between the word "review" and the term "revue". "Review" is applied to that work of prose to which drama critics labor over. A "revue" is a loose-jointed series of satirical, dance numbers, and musical numbers put on the stage by an energetic number of people.

I've seen musical revues with as low as five people participating to as high as seventy or eighty. The old "Ziegfeld Follies" and "George White's Scandals" were revues that came out every year. The musical revue form has not been as popular of late since it is more difficult to put such a show together.

The musical comedy with a story to hold the songs and dance numbers together is a far more popular show mold these days. Reason for my talking on so about the difference in these two show terms is that invariably performers confuse the two. My sermon on this subject is concluded and let's hope that we use the "revue" form of revue when we talk about variety show musicals. Incidentally, the Ed Sullivan show on TV would be an excellent example of what we have been chatting about.

Speaking of TV, reminds me that I forgot to inform you about "Roz" Russell's "Wonderful Town" TV show on the 29th of November. I'm sure that if you caught the show that if you caught the plot. The Plymouth Theater Guild did the play version "My Sister Eileen" last season. The TV version cost the sponsor a cool half-million bucks. It was worth it though to see Miss Russell enact her role so convincingly.

The Old Vic company doing "Hamlet" in Detroit was an event of rare happenstance. As all the critics, with more experience than old George, said it was brilliant. Young George and I were spellbound by this terrific example of Shakespearean acting. Let's hope they come back again next year. The show played three and one-half hours, but you felt like it had been on the stage for only an hour. A real test of great acting.

The Children's Theater Workshop has rung down the curtain for this present semester. We had about 35 children attending the class every Saturday morning. Miss Judy Bullington assisted old George with these young thespians and did a fine job of giving the youngsters many fine pointers about the art of acting. Hope we can find someone in the community that might be willing to continue the class next semester.

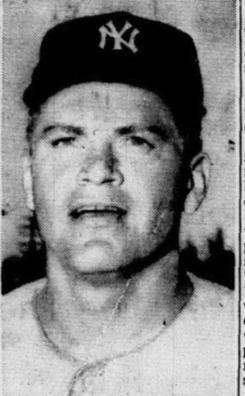

was chiding the choral members about their tones, "Leave the loudness for the Methodists".

With so many characters having only bit parts, it must have been a temptation on the part of Mr. Southgate not to let many of us actors do two or three parts in the different acts. Wisely, he refrained. Bob Wall had the lone responsibility for two roles. We saw him first as a newsboy delivering papers with the toss of an expert clearly indicating he must have done this for monetary gain at one time. Later, in city boy back for a funeral. He had the dubious distinction of being able to read his own epitaph while he talked with town undertaker. Bob applied the same polish and care to his two small roles that all 28 of the thespians did in their wonderful treatment of Wilder's "Our Town".

Some 60 members of Plymouth's Thespian Society were involved in this production either on-stage, backstage, or in the planning stages and without the guiding touch of Mr. Southgate, their director, it might well have never reached the cohesive, competent performance that it did.

Let's without further comment shine the spotlight in his direction and let him bask in his ruddy glow as he cogitates carefully about his spring production. We know it will be something to watch for after seeing this magnificent show.

Pedestrian Hit By Car Remains In Hospital

Cuts and bruises were suffered by Mrs. Marion Bernash, 125 South Harvey St., when she was struck by a car last Thursday night while crossing Main St.

Carl Shear, 795 South Main, was driving his car north on Main St. at Penniman when the vehicle struck Mrs. Bernash.

Mrs. Bernash's daughter, Mrs. Katherine Nyhas, said that she and her mother were half way across the street when the light turned green. Her mother continued on across while Mrs. Nyhas waited for the oncoming car. When the car had passed, she saw her mother lying in the street.

Shear told police that he started up after waiting for a red light and noticed the two women. He said that he went slow until he thought the one woman (Mrs. Bernash) had crossed. He theorized that Mrs. Bernash had fallen from the curb and hit the car.

Police had not obtained a statement yet from Mrs. Bernash who is still confined to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. She had suffered a deep head cut. She works at the Junior High School cafeteria.

Four Explorer scouts, representing boy scout troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic church, along with 96 other explorers, representing District Seven, were the guests of the U.S. Navy at their naval air station on Grosse Isle on the weekend of November 22.

Highlight of the weekend's activities was an airplane ride in one of the Navy's transport planes. Navy chow was, "the most," to quote the boys, and a movie at the base's theater on Saturday night, made the event a most enjoyable one. The four boys from troop 271 were Steve Curry, Mike West, Paul Belfy and Bruce LaPointe. I had the pleasure of driving the boys out on Saturday morning and on Sunday, Mr. LaPointe and I along with David, Mark and Nan brought the foursome home.

Simple Pull Toy Is Easily Built by Home Shop 'Santa'

Simple toys always have the greatest attraction for small tots; particularly so on Christmas morning. The simplicity of most toys for youngsters enables many parents to make a large number of playthings.

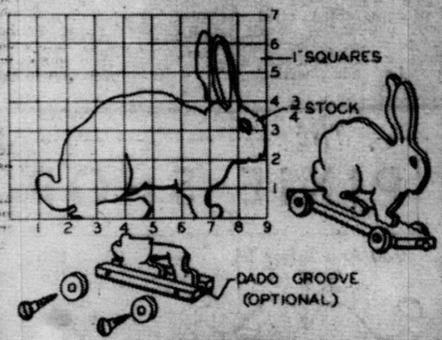

The simple pull toy in the diagram should delight any youngster. More important, it does not require any investment for materials since all stock for the toy can be found about the workshop. All stock for the toy parts should be 3/4 inches wide.

The only tools and materials necessary for making the toy are a scroll saw, hammer, screw driver and nails.

Note the base of the pull toy which can be made two ways. The animal body of the toy either can be nailed to the base, or it can fit into a groove. The groove can be made by making two saw cuts, about a half-inch deep, and chiseling out the center.

Drawing the designs is done by using the square method. This is done by laying out the stock in one-inch squares, and making dots on the lines where the design crosses them. Then, connect the dots following the pattern.

Finishing the toys calls for bright colors; a non-toxic enamel is recommended. Feature lines such as eyes, ears, and others are drawn in with black flat paint.

SAFETY FIRST in holiday lighting includes making sure there's a washer in every socket.

Outdoors, this prevents water from seeping in.

Safety Check List Given Here For Stringing Up Yule Lights

Budget - Minded

RANDOLPH, N.Y. — (UPI) Randolph village trustees agreed — but only after considerable debate — to buy a brick schoolhouse with 11 classrooms, and auditorium, cafeteria and playroom. The total cost was $1.

Blind beggars often receive from five to six dollars an hour, according to the American Foundation for the Blind.

Rum is colorless immediately after it is distilled and acquires its brown or golden look only after aging in wooden casks.

Decorative lighting during the holidays has become a family affair with a great deal of originality expressed. To make the installation efficient and more important—safe, there are a few steps to follow.

Before putting up Christmas lights, make sure that each lamp is screwed firmly into its socket. This will permit easy spotting of burned-out lamps before the string of lights is placed out of reach. One way to eliminate the irksome chore of replacing burned-out lamps after the lights have been installed is to use only new lamps in sockets that are in hard-to-reach places.

If this is the first season for decorating outdoors, make sure that the light set is weatherproofed. This means that the wires should be completely insulated, and sockets and plugs covered with a resistant to water and weather.

After a few seasons' use of outdoor lights, the sealing compound around sockets and plugs may become damaged. This condition should be checked. If there is damage, rubber cement can be brushed onto wires and sockets.

When stringing Christmas lights along the frame of the front door or other outdoor areas, make certain that they are fastened securely so a quick gust of wind cannot blow them down or make them sway and thus cause bulb breakage. Do not place bulbs in contact with combustible material such as dry evergreens.

To keep the strings firm and in place, cup hooks screwed into the wood make excellent holdings. Friction tape wrapped around the cup hook and the socket is the best way to secure this installation.

Whether installing lights indoors or out, it is important that all wires be closely inspected for frays. Such a condition can cause a short circuit and lead to a fire.

Years ago, decorative holiday lighting was confined solely to the indoors. Today, thanks to the development of outdoor lighting for the consumer, homeowners can install inexpensive strings of lights around their favorite outdoor evergreen, front entrance or along the front eaves of the roof. Decorative lighting is an attractive and cheerful way of celebrating the holiday season.

Home troubles, quarrels, financial worries, serious illness in the family and personal fears can cause a driver to have an accident. These problems can make a driver accident prone. Strong emotional problems work very much in the same manner.

If a housewife has a violent quarrel with her husband, the children or other person, she needs a cooling off period before jumping into a car and driving off. Taking it out behind the wheel on streets or highways is poor judgment and can lead to a sad ending.

The next few weeks mean hectic schedules, hasty decisions, parties, shopping and many other activities. Too much of any one of these can tire members of a family. It's at this time when driving a car can be dangerous. One good plan to eliminate any driving trouble is to schedule work chores for each person in the family, including driving responsibilities.

Beef-Cow Program Can Be Rewarding

Semi-retired and part-time farmers can gross over $1800 a year from a beef cow program.

N.A. Smith, Wayne County Agricultural Agent, says that their livestock specialist at Michigan State University has tailored a program for limited acreage.

Twenty brood cows and a bull will need 45 acres of pasture and some other feed. One hour of time per day should care for this herd except at calving time.

If all feed is produced on the farm, an investment of $3600 with $125 for current expenses would gross the $1800.

A special pamphlet outlines the requirements and materials with a month by month calendar of activities. Copies of this leaflet are available free of charge from the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service office, Box 552, Wayne, Michigan. Ask for bulletin Number A H 40.

Somerset Bridge, which joins Somerset Island to mainland Bermuda, is believed to be the smallest drawbridge in the world. Its draw is only large enough to permit passage of a sailboat mast.

Guard Against Car Fatigue During Holidays

Pre-holiday shopping, house cleaning and hundreds of other chores can tire even the strongest housewife.

When fatigue comes, a driver can become incompetent. This incompetence is the cause of many accidents.

A woman driver who is overtired becomes less vigilant on the road. Also, she may lose judgment as to the speed and distance of other cars. Further, reaction time is likely to be slowed down, and a person who is fatigued cannot resist glare of other headlights.

What is the answer for safe driving when fatigued? Simply, a woman who is overtired shouldn't get behind the wheel of the family car. Many times, however, driving to the store or picking up children at school must be done. If these driving chores can't be turned over to someone else, there are certain steps a woman can take to keep herself alert.

Now that colder weather is here, one or two open windows will admit plenty of fresh, cold air into the car. This air is "chippier" enough to keep an overtired driver awake and more alert.

Another good way to keep awake is to drink a cup of coffee or tea before getting behind the wheel, the stronger the better.

Sometimes fatigue can be so severe that the sufferer can become sick. A sick person also makes a bad driver. An upset stomach, heavy cold, bad headache and other temporary illnesses can make what otherwise would be a good driver a very bad one.

Physical illness or fatigue is not the only time a woman driver should stay away from the car. Worry, distraction, and preoccupation of mind are other good reasons for not driving since it's next to impossible to concentrate on being sufficiently alert to drive safely.

Home troubles, quarrels, financial worries, serious illness in the family and personal fears can cause a driver to have an accident. These problems can make a driver accident prone. Strong emotional problems work very much in the same manner.

If a housewife has a violent quarrel with her husband, the children or other person, she needs a cooling off period before jumping into a car and driving off. Taking it out behind the wheel on streets or highways is poor judgment and can lead to a sad ending.

Plan Yule Photos Ahead: You'll Improve Results

Christmas is a time for taking pictures indoors, of the tree and of the children around it. Movies will give a memorable record of the family celebration from caroling on Christmas Eve through opening presents and the family dinner on Christmas Day. The camera, whether with black and white or color film, can provide some worthwhile stills — plus a lot of bad pictures.

To be sure of good Christmas pictures, the family photographer needs to make some advance preparation. There's only about a week during which the Christmas trees can be photographed. Also, those appealing pictures of youngsters about the tree are only snapped on a split-second timing, which results from advance planning.

The youngest children will be fascinated by the glittering tree anytime it is lighted. But to catch the peak of children's excitement over tree and presents, there's no better time than early Christmas morning. This means the photographer must be up as early as the children and have his cameras loaded and ready.

If two cameras are available, load one with black-and-white film, the other with color film. Color film will be preferred for the movie camera. Since artificial light from a flash gun or strobe light will be necessary indoors, make certain beforehand that the flash gun is working and has new batteries or that the strobe lights are in good working order.

It may help to get the best picture of all, if the still camera is attached to its tripod the night before. In fact, the camera might even be preset for good focus. The light meter should be close at hand, too. Read the meter about 6 inches away from the tree, not against the background wall. If no light meter is available, read the instructions on the film circular for the placing of photographer's lights for a Christmas tree picture.

A color photograph of the Christmas tree requires photoflood lighting with at least two bulbs. Keep the light behind and as close to the camera as possible in order to keep shadows to a minimum.

It's best to photograph the tree in the daytime for more even light. It's preferable to have the tree lights on, but leave them for only part of the exposure. Otherwise, the lights will be so glaring that they will dominate the scene. Substitute brighter bulbs for some of the dark ones to keep the tree from having dead spots.

If the entire family is looking forward to a picture or movie record of this year's celebration, then the photographer should be allowed to voice his opinion. Pictures will be better, for example, if the tree stands against a plain background which has no pattern of wallpaper or draperies.

Then, when the camera is being focused on youngsters near the tree, check to be certain no ornaments are in front of the lens. Check also to be sure part of the tree isn't "growing" out of the head of the child. If a close-up is preferred, focus only on the child and forget the tree in the background. A fast exposure will catch the youngster's happy expression with part of the tree in the background to identify the day the picture was taken.

Why Not Make Your Own Christmas Candles This Year?

WHY NOT make your own Christmas candles this year. It's fun, it's practical. Use up all old candle stubs and give glamour to your "originals." Colored tape and sprayed "snow" dressed these candles up.

Discarded Milk Cartons Make Good Candle Forms

Interested in making your own Christmas candles this year to lend a festive air to your holiday household?

It's real easy.

Melt down old pieces of candles and make large new ones by pouring the wax into forms.

Empty cream or milk bottle cartons with top and bottom cut off are good forms for new large, square candles.

Hold a length of thick white cord in the center for a wick while the liquid wax is being poured. When wax has hardened, merely cut the carton away.

Sequins, beads, pearls, tiny bells and Christmas tree balls, small cones in natural color or gilded turn these homemade candles into elegant beauties!

Try your own imagination in trimming. Sprigs of real or artificial holly, mistletoe and evergreens might be tied on with bits of ribbon left over from wrapping packages.

Pressurized cans of "snow" or of metallic or solid colors can be sprayed for interesting effects.

New Book Rakes 'Wine Snobs' Over the Coals

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Wine snobs" and restaurateurs come in for a raking over the coals in "The Commonsense Book of Wine," written by Leon D. Adams and published today (by David McKay Co., Inc.).

Adams, a writer from Sausalito, Calif., for years was secretary of the Wine Institute in San Francisco. He took off against American hotels and restaurants for what he alleged to be "extortion" in the prices they charge for wine with meals, "bungling" in letting vintages spoil in their storerooms, and clumsy, inefficient wine service.

He charged that eating establishments in New York and other cities mark up their prices as much as 800 per cent on cheap foreign wines and, "hesitating to try extorting more than 400 per cent on the American vintages" with whose prices patrons are more familiar, often refuse to stock the native product.

The average "candle-lit New York restaurant" pays between 60 cents and $1 for some of the cheaper French and Italian wines and "credulous customers are being charged from $4 to $5 for the very same bottles," Adams said.

The Californian described his book as "a new effort to unscramble the wine crazy-quilt — an attempt to simplify a subject still entangled by taboos, stilted notions of correctness, and a foggy maze of perplexing labels and general misinformation."

Adams claimed that "by and large, American wines are now better and more reliable than the wines of the Old World." "Drink the wine — not the label," he said.

Here's the Latest on Families:

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Big families — the kind they had in grandmother's day — have come back in style."

"It's the poor families who have the most children." The next time these venerable chestnuts are passed to you in a conversation, you can smile at the speaker and say, "baloney."

Research by the Population Reference Bureau shows there is no basis for either widely-held belief.

Using census bureau reports as raw material, the Bureau made a comparative study of the size of U.S. families in 1910 (grandmother's day), 1940 (before the war), and 1957 (the last year for which figures are available.)

Here's what the study showed: The percentage of American families with five or more children declined from 32.1 per cent in 1910 to 15.3 per cent in 1940 to 13.7 per cent last year.

If you define a big family as one with seven or more children, the decline is even sharper. In 1910, 15.4 per cent of the families were of that size. By 1940, the percentage was down to 6.3, and last year it was only 4.1.

On the other hand, if you're willing to settle for four children as a "big" family, you can say that 1957 is on a par with 1910. The figures are 11.5 per cent and 11.4 per cent respectively.

The really big jump since World War II has been in families with two and three children. In 1940, 35.8 per cent of America's families were in that category. Now nearly half of them — 46.5 per cent are that size.

There has been a corresponding decrease in the number of families with one child or more. In 1940, one-child households constituted 20.5 per cent of the total. Last year, 15.8 per cent. The percentage of childless marriages dropped from 20 per cent to 12 per cent over the same period.

As for the notion that poor families tend to beget more offspring than the well-to-do, this no longer is true. The birth rate in lower income groups has declined for several decades — a common phenomenon in an industrial society.

The birth rate in middle and higher income brackets which rose sharply, after World War II, has remained high in spite of predictions by population experts that the upswing would be temporary.

The most recent study of the income-family size correlation was completed by the census bureau last August. It showed that families with incomes of less than $2,000 a year averaged 3.2 children. Families with incomes between $2,000 and $4,500 a year averaged 3.5 children.

Families with incomes between $4,500 and $7,000 a year averaged 3.7 children. Families with incomes over $7,000 a year averaged 3.8 children.

Through research and study, it has been shown that (1) smoked meats are best stored tightly wrapped in the refrigerator; (2) steaks and chops should be salted after browning; (3) all meats should be cooked at low temperatures; (4) frozen meats should not be refrozen after they are completely defrosted; (5) meat should be carved across the grain.

Ordinary soda straws and a bowl of liquid detergent — that's all you need for a "soap bubble party" for the small youngsters in your house. Use it in the kitchen or bathroom or better still out-of-doors. Besides making bubbles, it may satisfy little children who insist on getting into water, suggests Lennah Backus, extension specialist in parent education and child development at Michigan State University.

Holiday Decorative Lighting Can Be Family Enterprise

Planning decorative lighting about the home for the holiday season can be fun for the entire family. A little imagination and originality can transform a home into cheerful surroundings for visiting friends and the neighborhood.

Planning and installing decorative lighting needn't require a large outlay in money. It can begin with the simple outlining of a home's entranceway, bay window, front eaves or other areas.

One of the least expensive yet attractive decorations for an entranceway is outlining the front door with colorful lights and roping of ground pine or evergreens. At night, the shining lights upon the evergreen show up beautifully.

For those who have them, a lamp post with decorative lights strung around the post from the bottom to the top in candy-cane fashion is attractive. Here again, evergreen rope wrapped around the post with the lights is a good idea.

Lighting designs are a favorite with many homeowners through-out the country. Actually, this is called strip lighting which many big stores and shops do to fashion candles, stars, angels, and many other designs.

Strip lighting is done simply with lightweight metal strips to which a string of lights is affixed. Each lamp is attached so it faces up. After the complete string of lights is attached to the metal, the strip can be bent to meet any design desired.

This type of decorative lighting is most effective in a home's picture window. Also, strip lighting permits circles which can be used to highlight door wreaths and other subjects on the outside, or mantels, Nativity scenes and ornaments inside.

Many cut-outs, such as Santa Claus, candles and others, take time to complete. However, there are patterns available at local hardware stores and hobby shops. Lighting these cut-outs can be fun and dramatic.

Actually, simple floodlights shining on the cut-out provide the best results. Floodlights should be placed so that the lamp is hidden behind a bush, column or other object. The light's rays are concentrated on the cut-out; to do this effectively, it may be necessary to shine the floodlight from several angles until the best results are given.

Should this be the first year a family decorates with lights, there's no reason for investing in every decoration available. A family should start with a modest plan, and add lights and cut-outs each year until there is enough to do just what is desired.

Ordinary soda straws and a bowl of liquid detergent — that's all you need for a "soap bubble party" for the small youngsters in your house. Use it in the kitchen or bathroom or better still out-of-doors. Besides making bubbles, it may satisfy little children who insist on getting into water, suggests Lennah Backus, extension specialist in parent education and child development at Michigan State University.

DECORATIVE lighting at Christmas may consist of a string of lights or a floodlight on cheerful cutout.

Color Hit: Blues, Greens Combine for Relaxing Effect

Blues and greens have long been on good terms in nature, says Rosella Bannister, Wayne County Extension Agent in Home Economics. Take for example the color of the sky on a day in June blended with the color of the leaves.

In 1959, you can expect to see more of the blue plus green combination both on the backs of well-dressed women and on sofas and draperies in the prettiest of homes.

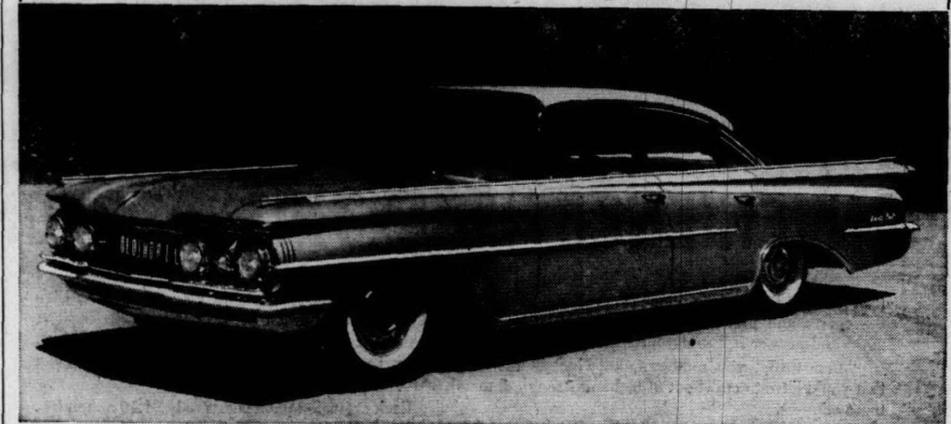

Calm muted blues and greens lend themselves to rooms for relaxing. More vibrant blues and greens give vitality to family rooms. Either mood is easy to produce in a dining room with a change of table accessories.

White has a sharpening effect on these colors. Intense shades of blues and greens are dramatic against white walls. Blue plus green makes an ideal theme for rooms that open into each other. Accent one room with blue, another with green, then combine the two in the next.

Since even blues and greens can get out of hand if you don't have a color plan, take a tip from Mother Nature and use more of one color than the other. Use less of the vivid tones and more of the calm tones. Vary the patterns and textures for interest.

Keep Silver Beautiful by Special Care

Do you give your silver the special care that it deserves? Rosella Bannister, Wayne County Extension Agent in Home Economics, lists pointers which you should know about the care of silver especially with holiday entertaining ahead.

Always wash silver immediately after use in hot, soapy water. Never leave silver overnight before cleaning. Make sure all food and grease is removed.

When washing silver, wash one piece at a time. If you jumble several pieces together, you're apt to scratch the surfaces.

After washing, rinse thoroughly in hot, clean water and dry with a soft cloth. Never allow silver to drain dry. Do not put silver away until it is completely dry and cool.

Store silver in a clean dry place in tarnish-proof bags, chests or drawers. Do not use a rubber band around a cloth containing silver, for rubber causes rapid tarnishing.

No trick has been devised to take the place of silver polish, says Mrs. Bannister. The chemical cleaning of silver is not recommended. This process, in which soda and a piece of aluminum are used, removes tarnish but takes away the "aging" tones—the important gray finish of the silver.

Tarnished silver should be cleaned with a cream or liquid polish prepared especially for silver. A clean flannel cloth makes an excellent applicator. Rub up and down in long, straight strokes, rather than in circles.

If you are shining hollowware, rub with the contour. Never twist a candlestick or vase as you polish it, for it might twist apart.

Clean ornate designs by dipping a small brush into the polish and rubbing into the crevices of the design. Wash the silver in hot, soapy water, then rinse and dry immediately with a soft cloth.

Cottage cheese, made from pasteurized skim milk, is high in protein value and low in calories. It combines well with other foods and adds real taste appeal to summer salads, say food specialists at Michigan State University.

You probably will never forget those famous fritters made by your mother or grandmother. Next time you're planning menus, be sure to include a luncheon meal of pan-fried slices of Canadian-style bacon accompanied by either banana or pineapple fritters.

Popover for Holiday Soup Beverages

OCCASIONS for spontaneous holiday entertainment are numerous—the night you invite neighbors to see the freshly trimmed tree—a social hour after church—a muster of teenagers and others mean many a snack time during the holidays. Entertaining can be surprisingly original by simply serving a delicious new drink made of blending two soups—with tempting little finger sandwiches, popcorn, pretzels, potato chips or, for a very special treat, popovers.

Canton Township: George Daubresse III Celebrates Seventh Birthday at Party

BY ESTHER SPRENGEL GL 3-0194

Now that we have wound up our Thanksgiving festivities, we can start on our Christmas chatter. I still have some Thanksgiving get-togethers to report and certainly welcome any you might still want us to know about. Deer hunters are in the news this week, at least those who got their deer ear, so here goes—

Celebrating his seventh birthday was George Daubresse, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Daubresse of Lotz Rd., George, the third in the Daubresse line, celebrated with games, birthday cake, and lots of his young friends helping in the celebration.

Present were Harry Harrison, Harold Kleiss, David Dickerson, Tommy Campbell, David Bonga, Mike Ketchum, Dale Evans, Kyle Evans, Bob Sheppy and Danny Markiewicz. The young men enjoyed games of "pin the tail on the donkey", spoon game, "drop the clothespin" in the bottle. Prizes were awarded to winners of each game. Many more happy birthdays, George III.

One of those more lucky hunters is Kay Gullekson, of 2006 Lilley Rd. Mr. Gullekson shot a six point buck at Mesick.

On Nov. 21, 1958, we received the news of the death of Mrs. Martha Ketchum, our township treasurer. Mrs. Ketchum served as our treasurer since the death of her husband who was the former township treasurer. The township has not only lost a fine official, but many of you have lost a neighbor and friend. I wish to convey my sympathies to Mrs. Ketchum's family.

Two of our township mothers spent Thanksgiving away from home — Mrs. Isabelle Spigarelli and her neighbor, Mrs. Doris O'Donnell.

Both ladies are formerly of Kansas and both were returning to spend the holiday with their families. Each was surprised to find the other planning the trip, so they decided to go together as far as Kansas. They left by train last Wednesday.

Mrs. A.E. Larson of Joy Rd., called to tell me about their recent trip to Tucson, Ariz. They visited with friends on the way in Illinois and Texas. The Larsons went to Arizona to visit their son Alvin and his wife. The couple took a jaunt to old Mexico and found it a colorful place.

One of the outstanding features of the Larson's trip, was a visit to the Boot Hill Cemetery in Tucson. Mrs. Larson said that they got to the cemetery quite late in the evening so they took pictures of some of the tomb stones with flash cameras. Some of the epitaphs on these stones were: "Legally Hanged" — another "Hanged by Mistake".

Edward Bretzlaff on Canton Center to check on a former neighbor of mine, Mrs. Victoria Kowalski. I had heard that Mrs. Kowalski hadn't been feeling well, but was glad to find she was much better now. I asked Mrs. Bretzlaff (Marge) about their Thanksgiving plans and she said they planned to remain at home and have the traditional turkey and trimmings. The men of her family, Mr. Bretzlaff (Ed) and her two sons, Eddie and Tommy are planning a hunting trip at Harrison.

I called Mrs. Mary Data of 1512 Beck Rd. to find out about their holiday plans. Mrs. Data's son-in-law and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Seppi and their two daughters Mary and Nancy, planned to have dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Data. Following their dinner, Mrs. Data and daughter were to visit with Mrs. Data's sister, Mrs. Clara Olmstead of Detroit, who just returned from the hospital. Mrs. Data plans to remain in Detroit to care for her sister, until she is on her feet again.

Brownies of troop no. 270 started a trail hike from the home of Nancy Spigarelli, of Beck Rd. Taking part in the hike were Shirley Kava, Giny Bittermore, Sue Roberts, Mary Ellen Ferguson, Roseanne Kelley, Linda Cather, Gretchen Steiner, Linda Aulther and Ruth Sparring. After their hike, the Brownies returned to Nancy's home for a feast and brownie cookies in the back yard.

Another of our long time residents passed away this past week, Mrs. Louisa West, better known to many of the Cherry Hill residents as "Grandma West". Our sympathies to the West family.

The Willard Bownmans of Ford Rd. and two sons, Dick and Bob, enjoyed Thanksgiving feast at their home with the George Burdens and family.

It was "off to grandmother and grandfather's farm" for Thanksgiving for three of our township families. Grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Orr of Hudson, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Tom St. Louis and sons, Bob and Gerry; Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson and daughter Mary Alice and son Jimmy, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Combs and two sons, Chucky and Johnny.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dozier of Beck Rd. had as Thanksgiving guests Mr. and Mrs. George Shook and daughter Elizabeth.

I haven't had a chance to speak with Mrs. Edward Bosman (Dorothy) of Hanford Rd. for quite some time, so I decided to give a call and see what she has been up to. I wasn't quite prepared for the very breathless lady who answered the phone. Dorothy said the fire department was in back of her home, putting out a wood pile fire. Mrs. Bosman had gone to see the play being put on at the Gallimore school by Mr. Toth's fifth grade students, and upon her return found their wood pile in a blaze. Before we hung up though, everything was under control and Dorothy was starting to relax, as she had been helping firemen. After she got her breath back, I asked what their plans were for Thanksgiving and she said Mr. Bosman's mother would be joining them for dinner and later in the afternoon they were going to Wyandotte to visit relatives.

Mrs. Bosman and Mrs. Theresa Moyer are helping organize a new 4-H group. Mrs. Bosman will supervise the sewing group and Mrs. Moyer the cooking group. The girls met last Saturday at the home of Mrs. Bosman to organize and those attending were: Diane Bosman, Carol Bosman, Carol Clark, Marilyn Moyer, Judy Taylor, Kathy Dunham and Janice Ney. Much success in your new group girls.

Last Tuesday, the Gallimore P.T.A. had a meeting with Dr. Solomon as their speaker. Also at their meeting the group sold candy, packaged in very attractive metal containers and a scoring pad, called Danny Duzits. The operation being headed by Mrs. Virginia Benoit. Their endeavor started off with a bang, and we hope it will continue to be a success.

Billy McTurner of Elmhurst Ave., son of Mr. and Mrs. W.C. McTurner, celebrated his sixth birthday, with cake, ice cream, and a large number of friends and relatives.

On his guest list, were Margie Goote, Dicky, Bonnie and Mona Jean Larick, Connie and Audrie Newport, Pete Murdock, Charles Mills, Carl and Gary Glass, Maurice and Sheryl White, Donna and Darwin Glass, Johnny and Mary Thomas, Roxann, Judy and Jacklyn McTurner and Shirley and Mary Margaret Lee. The boys and girls played games and the winners were awarded prizes, with everyone having great fun.

Let it snow... let it snow... besides who can stop it? Last Friday morning with the ground covered with the white stuff, the coming holidays and festivities came to mind. I hope that our column will grow by leaps and bounds with your holiday plans. Everyone will be planning something and I want to hear about it on GL 3-0194.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The beat of piped-in music has production humming in 20,000 plants and offices across the nation.

But workers aren't the only ones being swayed by the melodious rhythms.

At McKeesport, Pa., experimenters found that music in the cow barn increased the yield of milk.

In the Springfield, Mass., Animal Hospital, dogs and cats took to fighting when the hospital's music-making apparatus went on the blink.

Soon after music drifted into the roosts of a Dayton, O., chicken farm, egg-laying went up 14 per cent.

And on a poultry farm in Fairfield, Conn., Rock Cornish hens have been putting on more weight despite a reduction in rations — since lifting times have invaded the hen house.

But with human chicks, music, apparently, has just the opposite effect. It is used by two nationwide chains of reducing salons.

To prove that music has an effect on the senses, medical science has run some strange experiments.

Dr. Charles M. Dizerins, of the University of Cincinnati, tested 10 men for strength of grip. Six of them were stronger when music was played.

Another experimenter played the "National Emblem March" and measured physiological response to the beat. Just about every body function was stimulated, including the cardiovascular system, muscular activity, lowering lower, digestion and secretions.

In a six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, riders who pedaled to music averaged 19.6 miles per hour; those without, 17.1 miles per hour.

Scientists first analyzed the power of music in industry in 1938, charting the effect of melody on girls in a chocolate factory. Output improved from 6.2 to 10.2 per cent when music was played.

From coast to coast, it is estimated that 50 million persons work or play each day to piped-in music.

'Tasting Parties' Part Of Toddlers' Education

By JEANNE LESEM UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL GREAT NECK, N. Y.

(UPI)—The art of gourmetship begins at age 5 at Kensington School. Tasting parties for grades from kindergarten through sixth grade are persuading moppets to eat—and like—many foods they've refused to sample at home.

It's part of the public school system's home and family program, said Mrs. Janne Spieker, Kensington's home economics consultant.

Shish kabob and smoragbord, papayas, persimmons, and avocados are served to the toddler set with equal success.

"I'm afraid we've raised a hamburger and hot dog generation," Mrs. Spieker said. "But we've found that children in groups will try new things."

Often, the lip-smacking approval of a classmate will induce a reluctant child to sample a dish.

"Children hate to lose out on anything," Mrs. Spieker said. "But they're very honest. They will taste almost anything if they see a classmate obviously enjoys it. Sometimes they'll say, 'It tastes good.' They're fascinated by the smell of baking bread. Sometimes we cook vegetable soup on a portable stove in class and, after a morning of smelling that aroma, their appetites are ravenous."

Emphasis on the pleasures of eating make these sessions seem more like play than work, although there are many hidden benefits apart from good nutrition and good manners.

Actual tasting preceded by visits to the economics room where the smallest tots are helped by teachers to clean, scrape or peel fruits and vegetables they've previously discussed and had inherited a run-down ranch and we needed some extra money to put it ship-shape."

Presto has sent $50,000 home to his brother to invest in the ranch during the past 11 years — but he has worked hard for every cent of it.

"Many of the usually unfamiliar foods become so popular," Mrs. Spieker added in an interview, "that I find mothers stopping me on the street to see how to make certain dishes that their children have requested at home. So now we give the children recipes to take home."

But how do you persuade children to taste at school foods that they scorn at the family dinner table? One grounds of strangeness? By making a game of the new taste experiences, the consultant explained.

"I'm afraid we've raised a hamburger and hot dog generation," Mrs. Spieker said. "But we've found that children in groups will try new things."

In the winter, he tends bar. The Alaska union scale for bartenders is $30 a day. Most of them work six days a week. In addition, tips may run from $5 to $15 a day.

Alaska's Not A Place for Quick Riches

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — (UPI) — There's money to be made in Alaska, these days — but only if you work.

None of that get-rich-quick stuff in a couple of years. But if a man will stick it out for a decade, he has a good chance to become moderately well fixed.

Take the case of Frank Presto, 40, who came here from Omak, in eastern Washington, in 1946.

A single man, Presto is half Indian — and he still retains a great love for the outdoors.

"I came up here so I could hunt and fish to good hunting and fishing. Besides, my brother and I had inherited a run-down ranch and we needed some extra money to put it ship-shape."

Presto has sent $50,000 home to his brother to invest in the ranch during the past 11 years — but he has worked hard for every cent of it.

In the summer, he works as a jack-hammer operator for construction firms, making $5 an hour. His pay runs from $40 to $75 and occasionally as much as $140 a day.

But due to the weather, there are only three or four months of construction work available.

The space age is a great help in building appetites for dried soups and other precooked, pre-packaged foods, Mrs. Spieker explained.

"We try to show the children the role such foods will play in space travel," she said. "This gives us a chance to introduce them to new textures."

Kensington School tasting parties are part of a program, now 10 years old, that includes special sessions devoted to sewing, grooming and costume-making. The project was launched as a series of regular classes, but was changed to a series of irregularly scheduled parties which teachers found they got better results from a flexible program.

In a dull period of the work season, he sometimes takes on a job as a fire fighter in the forests. For this he makes about $40 a day — and gets a good chance to commune with nature, besides.

"If you ever eat a grayling," said Presto, "you'll throw trout back into the river."

An amateur philosopher, Frank doesn't worry too much about the rest of the world. He does buy Fairbanks and Seattle newspapers, but mostly because he wants to look at the sports pages.

New Income Tax Not As Bad As It Sounds

With all the anguish which Michigan citizens are certain to encounter during future months over taxes, we hope they somehow will be able to keep an open mind on the general matter of a "state income tax."

Another "income tax" sounds terrible, we know. The annual wallop of the federal income tax isn't something for which anyone would willingly ask a repeat performance.

But the "state income tax" wouldn't be exactly like that.

No plan has yet been proposed which wouldn't be accompanied by relief in some other sensitive places. One plan would contain a rebate on sales tax paid on food. Another plan would let the state, through its income tax, ease some of the powerful real estate and personal property taxes which are growing like Frankenstein, larger and more horrible every time we look around.

A state income tax conceivably could rid us of our current spiral of larger and larger property assessments, which in the final analysis are determined in Lansing, rather than a local ground, anyway.

And another way of looking at a state income tax is that it would come out "ahead" of federal taxes — it should be deductible from the federal return. In that sense, we would be shifting certain funds from a federal tax pocket to a state pants pocket, which brings them closer to home and our personal control.

Transcendent in every citizen's mind should be the knowledge that "well enough" cannot be left alone. Some changes must be made; our schools, if nothing else, simply are going to become more numerous. The youngsters have to be taught SOMEWHERE, while they're still youngsters.

And today the red ink in Lansing is splattered broadly over the entire budget. Nobody is certain whether the total deficit at fiscal year's end will be $50 million or $100 million, but everyone anticipates the worst. It's a plain fact of mathematics and no one can hide from it, neither Republican nor Democrat.

To ourselves, the state income tax (in some form) is the best solution we've encountered in two years of study of the subject. It merits cool and sane consideration by every taxpayer.

It isn't as bad as it sounds on first gasp.

Legislators Fear Chaos

By ELMER E. WHITE

LANSING — Special session jitters — have attacked the Michigan politicians who fear chaos in 1959.

With the House evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats, 55 to 55, groups with immediate problems are predicting a squabble that will last until spring. They worry that a continued instability will prevent constructive legislation which can solve their problems.

Technically, the legislature for 1959 will convene at 12 noon January 14.

If tradition holds, most of the controversial and important decisions — the budget, taxes and major policy matters — will be bypassed until the jam up in the dying days of the session.

Agencies and special interest groups are afraid that their causes will be lost in the bickering of the early parts of the session and disregarded in the log-jam at the end.

There are problems that need immediate action, some of them urgently. Probate judges want something done quickly about the juveniles in trouble because of mental illnesses and who cannot receive treatment because state institutions are overcrowded.

Schoolmen are worried that the education provided by financially distressed local schools will fall far below minimum standards. They want money problems settled now.

There is pressure to get started early on a program to obtain new sources of revenue, possibly a state income tax.

Gov. Williams has informally rejected all attempts to get the legislature back before 1959.

Most of the items suggested were before the 1958 legislature and he can see little point in a repeat performance in which the same men who failed to act in three or four months will be asked to settle everything in three or four days.

Then too, a special session would bring back the Republican majority in the House; the 1959 session will give him a better chance to get the Democratic version of the solutions.

Another factor is that at least 15 members of the 1958 legislature will not be in the same status when the 1959 session begins. Six Republican House members will not be back in 1959, five Senators will have retired or moved to other arenas.

ONE QUESTION IN Williams' political future is already settled.

The governor, whose vote was third in the Democratic races this year, was considered an even-money bet to try for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Patrick V. McNamara in 1960.

It was assumed by observers that his relatively poor showing would hurt his chances for the presidential nomination.

But Williams announced he would support McNamara in the 1960 primary. This leaves the same observers guessing what he does plan. When they recall the background picture, they can find no real indication what the governor has in his mind.

McNamara was almost an interloper in 1952 when he entered the primary against Blair Moody, the choice of Williams, for the Senate seat then held by Homer E. Ferguson.

Williams had appointed Moody, a Detroit newspaperman, to the seat in the Senate vacated with the death of Senator Arthur E. Vandenberg. Moody was later defeated by Republican Charles E. Potter.

So, this was to be the comeback of Moody with Williams' blessing and vote-getting power. Moody died tragically just before the spring primary and, though he received a sizeable "memorial vote," McNamara, of course, was elected as the Democratic candidate.

Democrats were forced to shift gears and support McNamara, and most will agree that Williams' popularity meant the difference in the vote which elected McNamara.

There has not been the rapport between Williams and McNamara that there was between Williams and Moody. Now, Williams is wholeheartedly, at least publicly, supporting McNamara for reelection.

Few expect the governor to try for a seventh consecutive two-year term in Michigan. He has now held office longer than any other governor.

But like most things in politics, the voter will have to wait and see, and vote in 1960.

HANDWRITING Tells About Yourself

By LUCILLE WILLIAMS

Dear Lucille: Would you analyze my handwriting? I am very anxious to hear what it reveals. Thank you.

Dear Sue: You're a very determined person with a practical viewpoint in mind. What ever you set out to do is usually accomplished.

There is a variety of conflicting interests that keeps you on the move. Though you're broadminded you are subject to being disturbed by interruptions and capable of a temper.

You are critical in judging others, but do not show any sarcasm.

You are a good thinker and have a good memory.

Dear Lucille: I am also one of Marsha Ellen's Koffee Klatch buddies. Have been meaning to write for ever so long, but with one thing and another—I'm rapidly running out of clever thoughts. Thank you.

Dear Robert: You are inclined to be overly sensitive and take things to heart easily. There is a self interest tendency regarding everything in terms of how it will affect or benefit you.

You're quick to grasp ideas and like to penetrate a subject to your complete satisfaction.

I have had several opinions of the type of person I am. From my handwriting would you please give your opinion of my type of personality. Thank you. Jenny

Dear Jenny: You're a very energetic person who loves variety. You're active and like to be involved as much as you can handle.

There isn't a bit of sensitivity here so you would be one to profit and grow on criticism.

You have a retentive memory and use it to best advantage. There's some air of secrecy here, off-hand you aren't a real gabby type.

You have some creative ability and show a rhythm to your writing. One little spark of resentment—can you think what it would be?

I am another member of Marsha Ellen's coffee club and she has been after me to get this letter to you. I hope that this is enough of an example for you. Steve Daniels Emotionally you are very expressive. In fact, when you don't care to do something you could almost be defiant. A wee bit stubborn—yes?

You are a probing thinker and very open minded. Practical too.

You like to be active but would rather follow someone else than be a leader yourself. Being quite sensitive you naturally are hurt easily and will get quite upset emotionally. Your imagination runs in a spiritual sense, to be used when needed.

GOP's Van Peurseem Puts Blame On Williams for State Crisis

By George M. Van Peurseem House of Representatives (Republican Speaker)

Perhaps you noted, as did many Michigan citizens, that the Governor made no mention of the state's financial condition or its taxation problems during the course of the recent campaign.

On September 8 I wrote the Governor a letter in which I asked how the anticipated $60 - 80 million deficit is going to be met, and how the many millions of additional dollars outlined in the Democrat platform are going to be raised. There was no answer.

At that time I predicted the Governor would not discuss the issues of deficit financing, cash shortages, and the need for increased taxes. This proved correct in spite of intense efforts by the Republican gubernatorial candidate and others to discuss these vital issues.

Republicans who tried to warn the people that the state was in a financial jam with cash running out and more tax dollars desperately needed were branded by Democrats as "prophets of gloom and doom."

Even now, Democrat State Treasurer Brown is saying we shouldn't talk about the seriousness of the situation because it hurts the sale of state bonds.

On this, as well as the jobs - leaving - Michigan issue, Democrats urge us to put our heads in the sand hoping the problem will go away.

On November 7, three days after his re-election, the Governor told the voters that the state's cash situation was "acute."

A week later it was reported that a new low had been reached with only $7,700,000 in ready cash available in the state's general fund.

But $12 million is owed to the three major state universities, and in addition local school districts have had to borrow between $35 and $40 million against next year's revenues.

At that time, the Governor said the universities could operate on student fees until the money could be paid. Last week at least one major university reported it would have to borrow money in order to meet its November and December payrolls.

Others were expected to do the same.

Not only are we expected to believe that this serious financial condition didn't exist before election day, but Democrats are also telling the people that Republican Legislators are to blame.

The facts are these: 1. The budget for 1958-59 passed by a Republican Legislature was a balanced one when measured against the Governor's own estimates of revenues. He now criticizes us for accepting them.

2. If Republicans hadn't cut his budget requests by some $17 million we would be that much farther in the red.

3. The 1958 Legislature was adjourned before this fiscal year began — the critical financial condition developed since that time. There was nothing the Legislature could do unless the Governor called us into special session. If things are as bad as he says then we should have been called a long time ago — before the election.

What solutions does the Governor offer the people of this state?

"We'll just have to wait until the Legislature meets in January to determine where we go from here," Williams is quoted as saying on November 14.

Perhaps the Governor will dismiss this problem in the same manner he does so many others — by appointing a study committee. He could call it COMTEFC (Committee on Michigan's Terrible Financial Condition).

It wouldn't find any answers — but it would get plenty of publicity.

It looks as though the whole problem is to be dumped in Legislator's laps — with no gubernatorial recommendations for Michigan citizens and their Legislators to examine between now and January.

Now is the time for the Governor to exercise some leadership — but it doesn't look as though we are about to get any.

Joseph, as we remember, made good in Egypt, but not before another garment spelled trouble for him. His upper coat remained in the hands of Potiphar's wife as she tried in vain to win Joseph's love, and he fled. The garment was used by her as a proof for her false accusation against the young man, and he was cast into a dungeon. But his gift for explaining the hidden meaning of the pharaoh's dream about the seven lean and the seven fat kine (kine is an old word for cows) gave him an opportunity to show his ability for a smart agricultural policy, and it is to this the meaning of the name "Joseph" refers. Joseph knew how to increase the abundance of his adopted country. When his brothers, riven by famine, reached Egypt in search of food, he forgave them, having become meanwhile governor of Egypt.

In the New Testament the name "Joseph" occurs several times. There is St. Joseph, the chaste husband of Mary; he was a carpenter of Nazareth and the foster father of Jesus. There is St. Joseph of Arimathea who helped take the body of Jesus off the Cross, and laid it into his own burial place hewn out of rocks. A lesser known personality by the same name is Joseph Barsabas, surnamed "Justus"; he was the rival of Matthias for the place among the disciples of Jesus vacated by Judas Iscariot; the lot, however, chose Matthias.

A famous American Indian chief bore the name Joseph. He was the leader of the Nez Perce tribe (meaning the pierced nose tribe in French; a name the French hung on them). This Joseph was one of the greatest and most gifted Indian chiefs.

Because "Joseph" was a popular name for a long time, its familiar form "Joe" is often applied to the "average guy." We say, for instance, "a good Joe," meaning a good guy.

Female Financial Wizard Runs Investment Business

CHICAGO (UPI) — A female financial wizard, who runs the only all-woman investment house in the United States, says there's definitely a place for young women in the financial world — if they're not afraid of hard work.

Lorraine Blair, an attractive 5-foot-4 bundle of energy, plunged into a maelstrom of speculation on a "fluke." When her husband died several years ago, leaving her with two young daughters, she knew she had to do something besides nurse an ambition to be a concert pianist.

"Through long hours and undivided attention to business," she said, "I found my way to the top. But what I learned was from experience. If I could do it, other women can, too."

For 23 years, Mrs. Blair has opened doors of Chicago's La Salle Street financial canyon to women. She does it through the non-profit Women's Finance Forum which she founded to teach women the economic facts of life.

"Doctor Blair" also runs a broker-dealer office where an all-woman staff helps her diagnose the financial "ills" of both male and female "patients."

"It's exacting, brain-wracking work," said Mrs. Blair, "and no nine-to-five pushover."

"But it's also very rewarding to cure my patients of maladies such as sick bank accounts and very flat wallets."

Hanging 'Unbearable' To Executioner of 78

TOKYO — (UPI) — Watching an execution is "unbearable," according to Fumino Hiranuma, and he ought to know. He has executed 78 prisoners in his lifetime.

But, while Hiranuma insists he could never get used to hangings, he has no regrets about his career, and he says emphatically that capital punishment is necessary as a deterrent to crime.

Today, the graying, husky 55-year-old Hiranuma is chief of a juvenile reformatory at Odawara, 50 miles southwest of Tokyo. But from 1937 until the end of World War II, he served as hangman at a number of prisons around the nation.

Hiranuma still remembers his first execution. It took place at Ichigaya prison in Tokyo. The condemned man was 27-year-old Takeyoshi Unou, who was convicted of killing a school principal for $660.

"The trapdoor was sprung as he was about to say something," Hiranuma recalled. He also remembers what it was like before a hanging. When the time for an execution was set, the hangmen would call the prisoner to his room.

"There, I would serve him tea and break the news to him," Hiranuma said. "However, most prisoners knew why they had been brought to my room before I told them."

"They would begin to tremble and, as the minutes ticked by, the tremors would increase in intensity. Finally, you would hear their teeth chattering. Some would shake their whole bodies in a fit of agony."

"It was unbearable to face them and, even after doing it 78 times, I could never be constructive action is taken to meet those problems, I will feel that the public interest was well served."

This is the great function of political parties in our free society — to discuss public programs and offer constructive solutions. Once the people have made their decision, we all abide by it and work together for the common good of the state.

To all those who worked for and voted for me, I can express only my heartfelt gratitude. Personally, I feel richly rewarded by your friendship and expression of confidence.

Sincerely, Paul D. Bagwell

To The Editor

Editor, I would like the opportunity, through the public letter box, to thank all those who worked in my behalf and who voted for me in the past election.

While I would have liked the opportunity to show our citizens what I could accomplish as governor of this great state, I am grateful for the experiences of the campaign and the friendly reception given my wife and me wherever we went.

I thought it was a good campaign which focused attention on some of the major problems facing our state. If, as a result, wise and constructive action is taken to meet those problems, I will feel that the public interest was well served.

Co-Eds Swing and Fling To Lend Man Modern Way

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (UPI) — College cuties are learning a new twist in the age-old art of how to land a man.

Now they are taught that a golf club or tennis racket may provide a quicker route to a man's heart than a well-stacked dinner plate.

"Tennis and golf do wonders for the figure—and besides, they are games a girl can play with a boy friend or husband," says Madelyn Richardson.

A hazel-eyed beauty, Miss Richardson looks more like a model than what she really is — director of women's physical education at Southwestern College here.

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

By ELINOR WILLIAMS Q.—"Dear Miss Williams: What is the proper way to tell your girlfriends parents that we wish to become engaged? Is there anything wrong, socially, with marrying someone you have known for six months?"

Ans.—Now that it's not the custom for a young man to ask a girl's father for "her hand in marriage," it's not considered necessary for a young man about to be engaged to "have a talk" with her father beforehand.

It's usually easier for the girl to break the news to her parents first — alone. After that, it would be proper for you and your girlfriend to discuss your future plans and hopes with her parents together, so they'll feel a part of it, all, not ignored or left out.

They might have helpful suggestions, too, gained from their own experience. Anyway, be polite and listen; they can be good friends if you give them a chance.

No there's nothing wrong, socially, with a young man someone you've known six months. The important thing about how long you've known each other is this: Is it long enough for you to know each other really well? "Going out" dressed in your best clothes and on your best behavior isn't enough. Take time to find out if you enjoy quiet evenings at home together; you can "get along" with each other's favorite pastimes, hobby, interests.

Do you share various interests and want the same kind of life — or does one love bright-lights fun while the other prefers reading or fishing? Know each other as friends and companions — that's what a life-time partnership is. A good dancer is a good date-mate, but somebody you can talk to is a better marriage-partner.

[For free printed tips on "Date Manners for Boys," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams at this paper.]

Q. — "Dear Elinor: I am 13, a girl, and my problem concerns my mother. I told her I was going to watch the skating, but a girl-friend asked me to skate with her and lent me the money, so I accepted. My parents came to the rink and saw me skating; they said I'd lied and told me I couldn't go anywhere for a while. Do you think this is right?"

Ans. — Whenever there's a change of plans while you're out (no matter how trivial it seems to you) — or if you want to do something different from what you told your parents you were going to do — avoid trouble and misunderstanding by telephoning them. Call them and explain the situation and get their permission before you do anything different or additional. Always have a dime for a call with you as "insurance" against future family troubles.

This doesn't have to embarrass you with your friends. Just say you're going to make a telephone call.

Q. — "Dear Miss Williams: I am 17 years old and go with a boy 18. He has finished school. We feel that we are in love and he has given me his ring, but I can't wear it because my parents don't approve of our going together. We have different religions and my parents think this will cause trouble. But I believe that if he likes me enough, he will go to church with me. What help can you offer?"

Ans. — Your parents know that it isn't always so easy to solve the problems of religious differences. Perhaps you'll find that this boy feels the same way about you... if you really care for him, you'll go to his church. Maybe his parents disapprove like yours do. That's why it's better to choose a boy of similar religion when you're old enough for a "serious" romance that could lead to marriage. There are enough adjustments and problems in every marriage without the big one of different religions. Avoid it if possible.

Policewomen Fill Protective Need, Become Crack Shots

CHICAGO — (UPI) — The hand that rocks the cradle also can shoot a .38 says a leading policewoman.

She believes women can be better utilized to fight and prevent crime.

"Policewomen fill a more protective than a detective need. Their intuitive and maternal instincts, their natural curiosity and attention to detail make them invaluable in the fields of crime prevention and delinquency," said Dr. Lois Higgins, president of the International Policewomen and chief of the Crime Prevention Bureau in Chicago.

"Intuition comes in especially handy when they're dealing with women criminals," she added.

Policing also is a career for ladies who like to live dangerously. Women often are used as decoys. For example, one woman posed as a countess to nab an extortionist, and another as a dope peddler to smash a narcotics ring.

But these heroines remain unsung. They would lose their value if their identities were revealed.

Women who are interested in working with young people might well consider this career. All over the world, policewomen rate youth as their first interest. Dr. Higgins reported. The women also become crack shots and expert interrogators. One policewoman, Momi Lum of Hawaii, recently solved a murder 20 years after the crime.

"A woman's femininity should be her most powerful and useful weapon in police work. Men are the mind; women should be the heart," said Dr. Higgins.

"Everyone is amazed to find that the lady is a cop. But what pleases us most is when they find that the cop is a lady," she said.

Figures issued by the U.S. Treasury Department show that 3,334,478 pounds of snuff 805,311 pounds in 1900 and were consumed in 1875, 13-36,206,726 pounds in 1957.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh One Man's Hen is Another Man's Rooster My last column was about Whitey Fisher and his chicken farm—and now Whitey has made news again. Whitey entertained some folks from the city last weekend and they toured his modern barn. The visitors asked all sorts of questions. The best was: "How do you tell if the two-day-old chicks are hens or roosters?" "Easy," answered Whitey. "Just take the chicks one at a time. Place some corn meal in front of it. If she eats it, she's a hen. If he eats it, he's a rooster."

Thanksgiving has come and gone, but the happy memories of family gatherings still linger on. The cold crisp weather and light snow flurries with a promise of heavier snows to come gave everyone that "old-fashioned" holiday feeling.

For many families in the Village it was a trip to "Grandmother's house" for dinner. Many others entertained their friends and family at home.

Yours truly and her little family traveled to the east side of Detroit to have the traditional feast at Grandmother's house. My mother, Mrs. Frans DeVleeschouwer had all the traditional American foods done up with the flavor of "old Belgian cooking." The table was overflowing with mouth watering foods and the grand finale was the pumpkin pie (with whipped cream) and mince meat pie too! My aunt Mrs. Elaine Leruth of Toledo, O., was also there to help celebrate the happy occasion.

Al and Jane Bowman and their children left on Wednesday afternoon and traveled to Defiance, O., which is about 130 miles from here. Jane has six sisters, so every Thanksgiving the girls gather in groups at their respective homes. This year the Bowmans went to James' sister's, Mrs. Romain Loeffler's home for the feast. Jane's mother, Mrs. Rene Girard of Toledo spent a week visiting with her recently. Mrs. Girard is probably preparing right now for the Christmas dinner she has every year at her home. With seven daughters and all their families it really must be quite a marvelous reunion. Jane tells me there are 22 grandchildren!

Pat and Ilene Herriman entertained at their home this year. Pat's mother and father were there with Pat's four aunts and uncles also present. The children numbered 10, and were placed at a large picnic table while the adults sat at the large dining room table. Ilene says everyone brought part of their dinner and Pat's mother brought the 20-pound turkey. This really made things easy for everyone!

Ralph and Nadine Heid traveled to Saginaw to spend the day with Ralph's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Heid. Ralph is the only child, so it's always great fun for his parents to see their nine wonderful grandchildren. Two of the little Heids stayed behind at Grandma's to do their Christmas shopping. They will return home this Sunday when their grandparents come to the Village for a visit. Ralph and Nadine are celebrating their 14th wedding anniversary on that day. They will entertain their parents as well as some friends from Grand Rapids for that occasion.

Nadine is starting her annual Christmas cookie baking very soon. She has all sorts of heirloom recipes which she uses. They are from her Norwegian, Swedish and German sides of the family. The children all help to decorate the dozens and dozens of cookies that Mama bakes while they are fast asleep. Sounds like a wonderful time is had at the Heid residence this time of year.

David and Jackie Sechlin decided it would be easier to stay at home with their two little daughters Cindy and Lori. The turkey dinner was enjoyed by all present which included Jackie's mother, Mrs. Phelan, David's father, Mr. Elton Sechlin, and David's sister and husband Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cary of Flint.

Jackie is one of those lucky people who have most of their Christmas shopping finished. She has the cards ready for mailing too!

John and Joyce Close spent the day of festivities at the home of Joyce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hardin of Wyandotte. Also there for the occasion was Joyce's brother who was home on leave from Texas. Jim is in the Army Medical Corps. The closes had a double feast on Thanksgiving, because later in the day they were entertained at John's sister's home.

Home for the holidays was Reba O'Bryan of Shadywood Drive. The O'Bryans can well be proud of their fine daughter. Reba has been chosen as a delegate for the Central Michigan College at the Twelfth Annual Bradley University Speech Tournament, in Peoria, Illinois.

This event is sponsored by the Pi Kappa Delta. Reba is a member of Pi Kappa Sigma and also Alpha Psi Omega, Dramatic Fraternity, and Sigma Tau Delta, English honorary fraternity. She is working towards a master's degree in teaching so that she can go into the work of guidance and counseling after graduation.

Harry and June Geist of Clemons had their first Thanksgiving in their new home by entertaining all of their sisters and their husbands and children. They came to Lake Pointe from Detroit and Royal Oak for the occasion.

June's mother, Mrs. Perry who resides with the Geists, also entertained one of her friends, Mrs. E. Woolf of Greenway, Ark. The day Mrs. Perry called me, it was snowing a blizzard and she said it looked beautiful on Clemons. The huge piles of dirt left there from the excavations for new homes were completely covered with snow, giving them the appearance of solid mounds of sparkling snow. Everyone I talked to was thrilled a sight of the pretty white stuff. It has put everyone into the Christmas shopping spirit and Ethel White tells me she has just about completed hers — she's another one who has all her cards addressed too.

Joe and Peggy Mogle have guests from Indiana. They arrived here in time to celebrate Thanksgiving with the Mogles. Joe's sister, Mrs. Fayma Pownall and her children will spend the rest of the week here and will return to probably an even colder climate next week.

Mrs. Fritz treats her husband to Christmas cookies.

One Recipe Gives Wide Variety
Of Delicious Christmas Cookies

Seeking a nice delicacy to serve with a hospitable pot of coffee when neighbors and friends drop in for a visit during the Christmas season? Then try a family-favorite of Mrs. R. W. Fritz, of 160 Amelia, called "Christmas Cookies" that are made in molds of Santa and gay animal figures.

This is a cookie that only the cook's imagination can limit in scope. It may be iced with white frosting and trimmed with multi-color sprinkles... or decorated with tinted frosting, nuts, raisins, coconut, ad infinitum.

It was given to Mrs. Fritz by her mother, Mrs. Russell S. Hilbert of Redford, who in turn used to watch her own mother bake the cookies.

Mrs. Fritz is also sharing a n o t h e r holiday-minded cookie with Plymouthites this week. It is a dainty "Butter Cookie," a recipe given by her mother-in-law, Mrs. R. C. Fritz of Redford. This one features grated English walnuts on top for added flavor interest.

Sampling some of these cookies on December 18 will be members of Plymouth branch, American Association of University Women, when they attend their Christmas program in Dunning-Hough library. As one of the hostesses for the occasion, Mrs. Fritz will be baking up a batch.

Mrs. Fritz (Mary) is one who successfully combines homemaking with a career. She is teaching third grade at Starkweather for the sixth year, yet keeps an immaculate apartment home in the "Colonial Apartments" that she and her husband own on Amelia.

They also own two other similar apartment buildings — one on Maple, built in 1957 as was the Amelia one, and a third on Blanche St., built in 1955. Mr. Fritz is a manufacturer's representative here in Plymouth.

Water skiing at Walloon lake at the Hemlock Point resort is one of the couple's hobbies, along with dancing and bridge. They are enthusiastic members of the Evergreen Dance club of which Mr. Fritz is treasurer. Both are looking forward to the club's holiday party on December 17 at Western Golf and Country Club, Redford Township. They both also call Redford their "home town."

Mrs. Fritz is an alumna of Michigan State University. She previously taught school in Livonia and Grand Rapids. This year she is serving as publicity co-chairman for A.A.U.W.

Now for those tempting holiday cookie recipes:

THE WORKING DOLLAR

Which end of your paycheck do you save? So often at the end of the year we look back and find that the only part of our paychecks we have saved is the stub. We pay everyone each month, from the newsboy to the tax collectors. Everybody, that is, except ourselves. We religiously plan each pay to save what's left after bills but when we reach the bottom of each pay... that's right!... there's nothing left.

The Plymouth Credit Union is successfully operating a new way of saving. They refer to it as "Saving off the Top of the Paycheck." It's simple, and it's working wonders. You pay only .25c to join the Credit Union, then you start paying yourself, each week, by depositing a set amount in your account. The Credit Union is as happy to receive dollar deposits as they are with much larger deposits.

Then your money goes to work for you right in Plymouth, buying cars for your neighbors, paying medical expenses, and financing the thousand and one other important things folks in Plymouth find reason to borrow for.

The interest these loans earn goes for paying expenses; buying life insurance to match members savings, as well as loan insurance, plus an extra attractive dividend. If the growth of the Plymouth Credit Union (one of 1100 in the state) is any indication, this new savings plan really works!

Remember, when you get ready to put YOU in your budget that Credit Union membership is limited to folks with a Plymouth mailing address.

United Press International Is the stereo ear, which requires two of nearly all components for a complete high fidelity system, going to proceed at the expense of the super amplifiers?

Let's use the McIntosh 60 and the Marantz, both single-channel jobs, as example of the super amplifiers. Owners of McIntoshes and Marantzes are wont to stroke their gleaming sides, as if they were fine saddle horses.

The transformers on McIntoshes and Marantzes are so substantial that it is possible to do this comfortably, so long as the owner avoids the tubes.

The power and output transformers are the main reasons these two amplifiers weigh about 40 pounds each and cost as much as they do. Most of the new two-channel jobs can be picked up in one hand.

A listener can buy a two-channel amplifier with 15 watts on either side and a very respectable brand for around $170. This probably will include preamplifier and controls on the same chassis.

Two of the super amplifiers will cost about $400. For this, a buyer gets separate 60-watt channels with McIntosh 60's and separate 40-watt channels in the Marantz. He must buy preamplifier and controls separately.

Taking these factors into consideration, then, which way is a buyer of stereo going to go?

The feeling among components dealers is that listeners who want the ultimate are going to buy the McIntoshes and Marantzes. Others will content themselves with more modest equipment, and expenditures.

Actually, amplifiers are already the most highly developed of high fidelity components. No human being can hope to hear all the sounds they are capable of amplifying.

So, if there has to be a compromise anywhere for sake of price, this may be the best place to make it, without the end result being too obvious in the loudspeakers.

Some authorities feel that the power of the big amplifiers has been carried further than necessary, even for watt-eating speakers like the Bozaks and AR's.

On the other hand, these authorities don't hold with the 10-watts is-enough-for anybody school. While program material may take an average of three watts, there may be transients in it requiring momentary peaks of 40.

Engineers don't think there has been much, if any, skimping in the materials used in the comparatively light, two-channel amplifiers, if they are produced by well-known manufacturers.

Space limitations do restrict the amount of materials that can be used on a chassis, and, in turn, power is 'way down, compared with the big, single-channel amplifiers.

Listeners, in buying two-channel amplifiers, probably won't get hurt if they stick to good brands and are sure they have enough power to drive their speakers, with room for the peaks.

Ice Skating Boom In The Middle West

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ice skating, a popular sport before the days of radio and television, is staging a remarkable comeback in the Middle West.

Warmer winters, a lack of suitable rinks and intense competition from other forms of entertainment have failed to squelch the boom in skate sales, which this year may be the highest in history.

The sport has become so popular again that a city planning committee, which recently proposed a multi-million-dollar government center in the heart of Chicago's Loop, also suggested including an ice rink similar to the one in New York's Rockefeller Center.

Howard Shore, business manager of Mages Sport Stores, one of Chicago's largest, said ice skating now ranks second in popularity as a winter sport only to skiing, which is also enjoying a boom.

He attributes this to a general step-up of interest among Americans in outdoor living of all sorts.

A spokesman for the Johnson Skating Co. of Chicago, the largest manufacturer specializing in ice skates, said: "One reason more people are skating is that there are far more youngsters per percentage of population. But we've also found that a great many adults are starting to skate because their kids are doing so."

No Reason to Avoid Cuba, Traveler Says

Travel Centre owner Kurt Thrun spent last week in Cuba as guest of the government along with other travel agents and reports that there are only a few signs of unrest there and that now is the time for tourists to visit the country.

Because de Castro and his rebels have been periodically active in the island, all public buildings, especially the presidential palace are heavily guarded. Suspicious-looking characters are stopped and searched for weapons on the streets and air patrols fly daily along the Cuban coast. Navy patrols also guard the harbor closely.

But this is the only sign of unrest and American tourists are avoiding the country. Most of the large hotels are scarcely occupied, Thrun said. There is no reason for Americans to stay away because the weather is delightful, the food good and accommodations plentiful.

"Compared with my last visit to Cuba two years ago, I can say that the tourist is treated better today and handled with more courtesy and care by Cubans because they are feeling the results of Cuba's political unrest. "You ask the man on the street whom he likes, Batista or de Castro, and he will undoubtedly reply de Castro."

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout troops 238 and 251 are sponsoring a mitten tree again this year. The tree will be found in the First National Bank of Detroit at the corner of Main Street and Penniman December 3-17. We hope everyone will bring some mittens in and place them on the tree. The girls plan to give the mittens to the Goodfellows for distribution in their Christmas baskets.

This fall Troop 238 went on an overnight to Bishop Lake. It was chilly but all enjoyed the out-door cooking. We have as new officers: Diana Lewis, pres.; Jeri Gulbransen, vice pres.; Nancy North, sec.; Cynthia McLaren, vice sec.; Mary Jane Callieja, treas. and Sally Gilles, vice treas.

Miss Carole Ann North showed her slides on the chalet to our troop and their mothers at the birthday tea and Halloween party in October.

We have made bird feeders and will put them to use soon. Our troop and troop 251 are sponsoring the mitten tree in the National Bank of Detroit and hope you all will hang a pair on the tree. They will be used in the Goodfellow's baskets and would certainly make some boy or girl happy at Christmastime. The leaders of this troop are Mrs. Doris Curtis and Mrs. Alberta Luckey.

The CITY MANAGER'S CORNER

By Al Glassford

The paving of S. Main Street is almost complete. A conspicuous incongruity in the location of the poles which seem to be in the middle of the sidewalk on the east side of the street. Unfortunately, we could not move these poles nearer to the curb, because immediately along side the curb is a gas main. If we put the new ornamental lighting poles up beginning next July, the telephone company must maintain a 3 foot clearance of the electric light poles. At most, the telephone poles could be moved 6 inches nearer to the curb. This difference scarcely would be noticeable and not worth the expense of moving.

It was decided that it would be best not to move the poles at all, but to wait for a year or two until the telephone company has a chance to run all the wires underground and then to remove the poles.

The contractor will not put on the bituminous surfacing on the residential streets before next spring. It is the opinion of Mr. Hamill that it is a better practice to allow the city to shed slag and gravel to the curb over winter, in order to provide a more firm base. This will not hamper street ingress or egress.

The Municipal Finance Commission advises that it has received our request to issue bonds in payment of the paving projects. According to the director, the application approval will take 12 weeks to process, because of the lack of personnel to handle the program.

We've had our siege of illness at the City Hall. On one bad day we had 9 people away, either because of illness or vacation of a total employment of 55. When the city tries to maintain around the clock service in the police and fire departments and adequate service at the City Hall during the day time, a few problems in shifting personnel arise. Fortunately, our personnel is mobile in changing jobs and providing services, so that the public service didn't suffer.

The price of bulk salt (for ice control) was reduced from $8.90 per ton to $6.90 per ton. Heretofore, there

Part-Time Sheep Caring Needs 10 Acres Pasture

Ten acres of good pasture is sufficient for part-time income-producing sheep enterprise. N.A. Smith, Wayne County Agricultural Agent, says that their livestock specialist at Michigan State University has outlined this program using 40 ewes and one ram. Older farmers and in-the-country dwellers can take care of sheep easier than beef or dairy cattle. An investment of $1250 and $250 for operating expenses can produce an annual gross income of over $1000. Hints for getting started, necessary equipment and supplies, and a month-by-month guide is available upon request from the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service office, Box 552, Wayne, Michigan. Ask for "Opportunities for Added Income with a Commercial Ewe Flock" - pamphlet AH 41.
