Big Time Readied for 4th!

Name Miss Plymouth Wednesday

Miss Plymouth of 1959 will be selected this Wednesday night (July 1) preceding a dance sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the high school.

Twenty young ladies are competing in the annual Miss Plymouth contest this year with the first prize winner receiving a round trip for two on a Great Lakes passenger steamship to Buffalo.

Wednesday night's program will start at 8 o'clock and will take place in the high school gym. There will be an admission charge of 25 cents that will also entitle the contest spectators to remain for the dance.

In years past the Miss Plymouth pageantry took place on July 4th evening, but it has been changed this year so that the new queen can reign during the holiday and can lead the caravan of beauties in the afternoon parade.

Three judges will be brought into town to judge the contest based on poise, character and beauty.

Last year's Miss Plymouth, Miss Janet Spigarelli, will place the crown on the new queen and present her with a bouquet of roses. There will be five members on the queen's court this year and all six of the girls will be dinner guests at the Hillside Inn at a later date.

A band will play for the dance and there will be several name personalities, including Ollie's Caravan from WHRV radio.

Training School Escapee Has Busy Night

A young driver whom Ann Arbor police arrested early Saturday morning because he drove in an erratic manner may have been driving that way because he was tired out.

The youth was Joseph Wanez, 16, an escapee from the Wayne County Training School. Wanez traced his route thusly:

1. Left the school through brush. Spotted a car near the Thunderbird Inn with money bags inside but was chased away.
2. Walked down railroad tracks and wanted to hop a train, but was chased away by a switchman.
3. He stole a car (he does not remember where he was) by using tinfoil to cross the ignition.
4. After driving around, he broke into a grocery and stole $1.
5. After leaving the store, he ran out of gas near Plymouth.
6. He stole a girl's bicycle and rode it five blocks when (Continued on Page 8)

City Tax Bills Held Up By Assessment Appeals

While there could hardly be anyone eagerly awaiting the arrival of his city tax bill which ordinarily is received by this time, there may be some who have noticed that the bills are conspicuous by their absence.

In years past, city property owners get their bills in the mail during the first week in July. Right now, it looks like it will be at least two or three weeks before the bills arrive—and perhaps longer.

City Treasurer - Assessor Kenneth Way states that the bills must be held up because of five assessment appeals now pending before the Michigan State Tax Commission.

Largest of the appeals is from the Detroit Edison Company which believes its personal property tax assessment is nearly $100,000 too high.

There are also four other appeals, much smaller ones from individuals who claim the assessment on their real property is too high.

At present, Way declared, there is no indication from the State Tax Commission about when the appeals will be decided. But the city commission at its next meeting on July 6 could enact some legislation that would allow distribution of the tax bills.

Way said that the State Tax Commission will not allow tax bills to be issued until the appeals are decided—or those appealing are given official assurance that their money will be refunded if they win their appeals.

The treasurer - assessor said that city commissioners will probably be asked at the next meeting to approve some resolution that will guarantee the refund if the appeals are granted. After this is done, it will probably take two or three weeks to make out the bills. This job is done by the county in Detroit.

Detroit Edison last year was assessed $451,000 on its personal property. (This would include all poles, overhead lines, buildings and equipment.) This year the assessment has been boosted to $522,390.

Way said that the difference between the city's assessment and Detroit Edison's figure represents $1,475 in taxes.

Parade, Circus Show All Part of Holiday Festivities

Plymouth's observance of Independence Day again promises to be the community's biggest day of the year with a parade, circus acts, a carnival, talent show and fireworks all included in the holiday afternoon and evening program.

The nation's 183rd birthday is this Saturday, and making it possible for Plymouthites to have fun and keep off the busy highways will be a day loaded with activity that traditionally draws crowds of thousands.

Unlike years past when the parade starts in the morning, Saturday's parade will begin at 2 p.m. The crowds will then move to the grounds behind the high school where there will be a carnival-like atmosphere. Kiddy rides will be available along with refreshment stands and a Home Show tent with nearly 40 display spaces available to Plymouth merchants.

At 4 p.m. on the high school grounds, there will be a circus with repeat shows continuing until 7.

Starting at 7 p.m. in the grandstand will be a Chamber of Commerce show featuring TV's Harry Jarkey and some of his outstanding entertainers.

Concluding the day will be fireworks at 10:30 at the athletic field.

General planners for the events is the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Kawana and some of his outstanding entertainers.

Concluding the day will be fireworks at 10:30 at the athletic field.

Nearly 50 units have been scheduled for the parade that begins at 2 p.m. and will move down Main St. from Wing St. to Theodore St. (the C & O Railroad).

Parade chairman Gordon Bunn said that the parade units will begin forming at 1 p.m. on Forest Ave. and Wing St. and in the Grand Fair parking lot.

One of the most unusual traditions in the parade will be 20 cages of animals that will take part in the parade. There will also be two elephants.

Bunn said that 19 floats have been entered from industry, business, organizations and churches. There will also be many houses, antique cars, the Detroit Edison calopoe, and marching units. William Lyons is parade marshal.

Center of the remainder of the day's events will be on the athletic field behind the high school. While there will be no large commercial ex-

NEWS BEAT

Nearly every week someone either phones or comes into The Plymouth Mail office, believing that it is the Post Office. Some have even asked to buy stamps. But one lady came into the office last week, looked puzzled for a moment and finally threw two letters on the counter and walked out. If she eventually finds out that Her Mail isn't a place to mail things, we can assure her that her letters were deposited in the Post Office.

BIG SOUND: Plymouth Township's fire sirens that blew at 1 a.m. last Saturday awoke nearly the entire populace because of the still, hot night. But the fire wasn't as big as the sound. It is believed that vandals started an old barn fire on the Harold Douglas property, 51000 Ann Arbor Rd. Damage was confined to one corner of the structure.

A WARNING: Three cars collided at Penniman and Sheldon last week, causing only a bumped head. But police warn that this accident was the result of the flashing traffic lights there which flash at night after the regular lights go off. Those approaching the red flashing light seem to not realize that it means stop, even though there is no stop sign. Police want the lights to operate around the clock but the county, in charge of the intersecting of city taxes. Another intersection, doesn't want it.

MOTIVE: One could easily draw a false conclusion by scanning two of today's stories (Pg. 1 & 8). One tells about an appeal by Detroit Edison on its city tax assessment which is holding up collecting of city taxes. Another Confirmation was made Tuesday that Governor G. Mennen Williams will be in Plymouth to greet some of the Independence Day crowd. He is expected to be here at around 5:15 p.m. Appearing in the parade starting at 2 p.m. will be Lt. Governor John Swanson of Plymouth.

Probably the biggest of the attractions on the grounds will be the free circus acts starting at 4 p.m. Lions, tigers, elephants and other animals will be put through their paces. Between the acts, children 10 years of age or younger, if accompanied to the grounds by their parents, will be given rides on the two elephants.

Six acts will make up the circus performance. Besides the animal acts, there will be Eddie Frisco, a South American slack wire walker and clown acts from the Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Believe Dutch Elm Disease Hitting Hard

Dozens of trees suspected of suffering Dutch Elm disease in both the township and city of Plymouth are expected to soon receive an official inspection from the Department of Forestry of Michigan State University.

Township Clerk Fred L. Miller reported that his office has received many inquiries about the disease from people suspecting it in their elms.

City DPW Superintendent Joseph Bida also has checked on many suspected trees.

Representatives from the Department of Forestry are scheduled to arrive in the city sometime this week and it is believed that they will also make an inspection of Most noticeable sign of the disease is the wilting of one or more branches.

Miller said that township residents believing they have a tree on private property should call the State Forestry Department at Township 2557. If the tree is on public property, phone the Wayne County Forestry Department at Kenwood 2-2630.

Father William Guld, assistant pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church is hospitalized in Providence Hospital with a broken left leg and ankle. He is expected to be home by the weekend but will be on crutches for most of the summer. He was on an annual retreat at Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit when he stumbled and fell, sustaining the injuries.

As the temperature in the Plymouth area neared 90 and the humidity was running a close second, what most people, cars, dogs and other assorted inhabitants wanted were a cool breeze, a surge from the heat and a diverting music. Strangely enough, those folks with foresight enough to attend the Plymouth Colony Concert got every one.

Just as Wayne Duntap raised the curtain for the opening number, enormous clouds covered the sun, at least as if they were there part and were ready to do it. Some 500 people, and the rest of the various depending on the weather, were there to enjoy the first of two concerts. It was a timely occasion to commemorate the death of one of the giants of baroque music, George Frideric Handel.

There were a number of soloists as players at this concert. Many of Handel's orchestral music, whether for strings or for full symphonic forces, significantly were played, even if the soloists themselves are heard. At the first of two concerts, Wayne Duntap is doing only a string orchestra, but a big one, not the kind associated with chamber music.

Long-time concert goes in Plymouth recognized many local musicians or musicians that have played with the Symphony for many years. In addition, there were many promising youngsters and several new faces, especially in the bass section.

Emily Mutter Adams and Nathalie Dale, violinists and Douglas Marsh, cellist, lent their considerable talents to two concertos. Concerto in G Major, Opus 6, No. 1 and Concerto Grosso in G Minor, Opus 6, No. 6 for strings. (Emily Adams also played brilliantly during the vocal solo and many other times when the violin voice led the orchestra into a fresh dance with the dancing music of Handel. One begins to appreciate the competence of such musicians only when one realizes how foolishly simple they make it look.)

The final piece of the first half of the program was a Concert for Organ and Strings Gordon Wilson performed magnificently. His manner was humble, but his fingers unbelievably nimble. The electric organ with its own speaker was loaned to the Society for this concert. It was pitiable that Mr. Wilson's talents were so highly wasted. As the wind whipped about the platform and past the speaker, about the only impression the audience could take home was that of a circus kaleidoscope.

Um pa pa, um pa pa, um pa pa, um. Not only was Mr. Wilson degraded by the peculiarities of the acoustics, but Mr. Handel's lifting and pearly music was badly profaned too. We hope Mr. Wilson will be able to perform again under more favorable conditions.

During the second half of the program Robert Kerns sang. And how he sang! He would have been at home singing by himself without the aid of anything electrical or mechanical in Yankee Stadium, and not one person in the top deck would have missed one syllable. But Each piece was different in tone and in meaning. Each piece was taken from an oratorio or an opera, and therefore even different in how it would be staged. And each piece sent fresh thrills along the spine of this reviewer.

Hole-In-One, Record Score Highlight Pro-Am

A hole-in-one and a new official record score were some of the results of Monday's Pro-Am Tournament held at Fox Hills Country Club sponsored jointly by Fox Hills and the Plymouth Rotary Club.

Over 500 spectators roamed the course and enjoyed the barbecue served up by the Rotary Club for the benefit of their Crippled Children's Fund.

The day brought out some 60 teams with each team composed of a golfing professional and three amateurs.

Paul VanLoosen of the Edgewood Golf Course scored a 66 for the day's low score, six under par. It will be put in the record books as the lowest shot at Fox Hills. There had been no previous records kept.

Also highlighting the day was a hole-in-one shot by Reggie Miles, Jr., pro from the Western Golf Country Club in Redford. Miles aced the 13th hole of 189 yards. It was the first hole-in-one posted at Fox Hills this year.

One stroke behind VanLoosen with a 67 was Chick Harbert of Meadowbrook. There were six tied with a 69. Par on the 18-hole course is 72.

Besides the low ball competition, there was prize money awarded for team play. Each foursome used its best ball for each hole to add up its score. PGA officials have not yet announced how the prize money will be divided. Each player paid in a $10 entry fee and the Rotary Club also added $500.

Posting a 57 in the four-some play were Steve Isakov, pro at Lakeland (Brighton) and amateurs Rick and Nick Armitage and George McKain of Fox Hills.

Second were Larry Pen-tuck, a former Washtenaw pro, and amateurs Clark Greenstreet, Frank Felton and Vaughn Smith of Fox Hills. Their best ball was 59.

Each of the amateurs are granted a handicap.

There was a quartet of pros that scored a combined 69. It included Miles, who listed two eagles besides the hole-in-one. He had no birdies. Others on the team were Tommy Watrous, Ken Judd and Ralph Yankee.

The host pro, Doug Jetter, played in a foursome that finished in the money. Amateurs on the team, all from

Minister With Polio to Fill Local Pulpit

A pastor who has remained in the pulpit despite a crippling bout with polio will preach this summer to Plymouth's Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Epiphany.

The Rev. John W. Pfahler will deliver his first sermon at the church next Sunday, Epiphany, which is the Seventh Day Adventist building on Ann Arbor Trail at 11 a.m.

Rev. Pfahler is the summer replacement for Pastor Charles Holland, developer of the local mission who preached his farewell sermon this week. Pastor Holland has begun study to enter the hospital chaplaincy.

And also headed for hospital work is Rev. Pfahler. He recently resigned his post in Bauerstown, Pa., where he had served 12 years, to study this summer at the University of Michigan. Following training, he in September will become Director of Hospital Service for the Lutheran Service Society of Western Pennsylvania.

Grange Cleanings

Our Grange was fairly well represented at the Tri-County picnic Sunday. It was such a terribly hot day it was not surprising there were not as many as usual out for the annual affair.

There will be the usual potluck supper Thursday of this week July 2. It is hoped the weather cools off before that date.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lunn are entertaining Mr. Lunn's sister, Margaret Lunn from Kent, Ohio and a nephew and his wife and children from Florida this week.

Our Lecturer says we are going to have a float for the parade on July 4, which is, of course, pleasing to hear. Let us hope for a pleasant day.

Mr. and Mrs. Tritten and the boys will spend the week of the Fourth out of town attending a school reunion.

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Whenever Independence Day arrives, I'm glad that I'm not a history teacher. The Fourth of July, as any little shaver knows, is an auspicious day in American legend. And yet, why?

We Declared our Independence, to be sure. But our independence from what? And we exchanged that which we had for what else that was better? The standard answer is that we threw off the tyranny of the King of England so that we could worship as we wished and govern and tax ourselves according to our own beliefs and tastes. Prior to the writing of the document, the King had refused to permit these things to happen.

Such incidents are fairly logical when read within the fabric of early American history, and they are easy to admire as symbols demonstrating the courage of our forefathers.

Still, how is the real meaning transmitted between teacher and a young student today... at this very moment? Aren't we right now sending our President across the boundary to shake hands with the Queen of England over a project that both of them forged together with common funds? Aren't England and the United States now linked closer now than any two nations on earth?

It's hard for a teacher to tell a youngster today simply because so much has changed in the meantime.

England no longer represents tyranny personified within the family of nations. It now stands for tolerance, dignity and fair play in international affairs... at least in the eyes of Americans.

And we Americans have changed, too, which is the text of these remarks for today.

Independence Day is nothing if we go on believing that we are just as dedicated, fierce and courageous as were the founding fathers. We aren't.

We're kidding ourselves into absolute helplessness if we think we are a people still pursuing a simple cause, as were John Hancock, Ben Franklin and their colleagues in the 1770's. We have no such obvious cause.

Those battles were long since fought and won. Peace has been made with the enemy and we have become allies. We have had self-rule and self-taxation for two centuries, without interruption. Original objectives are dim milestones behind us.

So, if one is to re-capture the mood of 1775, how can he apply it to 1959?

First, we must find a cause which is real and current. America today, perhaps more than any other state in the world, is drifting without a cause, a purpose. Even though there are a few things we oppose in principal, such as "communism", there is no hunger to it, no anxiety, and scant conviction. The communists, on the other hand, are bursting with cause. To prevail with their philosophy and resources over the world is more important to them than anything else in existence. So it is with Germans (who want to unite) and Cubans (who want to throw off a given dictator), and Chinese, Africans, and many others with millions of souls behind the effort and the potential strength of a hundred United States of America.

Second, when we have arrived at a purpose, to go at it with the same fervor, fearlessness and selflessness as did the forefathers when they took on the King of England.

Third, we must forbid ourselves the temptation to believe that we are the same in spirit, depth, and character as our forefathers simply because of a line of genetic development. There are sickly Romans who descended from great Romans; so it must be with Americans. Only realists survive in this jungle of a world. Our forefathers were hacking at frontiers. Their descendants are hacking mostly at the Joneses.

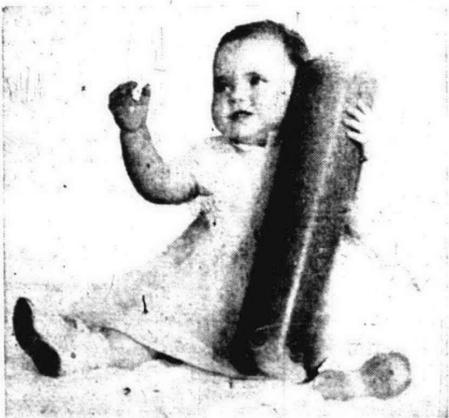

If you'll accept one reporter's opinion, the only goal which makes any sense for America today is to fight as strenuously against injustice meted to others as we did against injustice dished out to us in the 1770's.

If we do accept that, then we must realize that it essentially is the same cause Communism has taken for itself, too.

Our methods differ, but Independence Day doesn't particularly deal in methods. It is concerned with deepness of purpose, of willingness to sacrifice, whatever the risk, because of the inevitability of the cause.

If we do care about hunger, suffering, slavery, malnutrition, crime, and disease sufficiently to make it the nation's noblest cause—and if communism has the same objective—then the difference will be which power has the most sincerity, is willing to try the hardest, is best able to place selflessness above selfishness.

That, to me, is what Americans should be thinking about on this Independence Day.

LOOKING FORWARD TO THE FOURTH, along with hundreds of local residents, is Lisa Renee Webb, whose birthday happens to fall on Independence Day. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Webb, of Webb-Ad Productions, who are coordinating the Plymouth Fourth of July Sparkler Days for the City of Plymouth. Mrs. Webb gave birth to a boy, Richard Mark, last Friday.

OUR 75th YEAR Since 1884

First Federal Celebrates Sixth Birthday

On its sixth anniversary Tuesday, June 30, the Plymouth branch of First Federal Savings of Detroit, at 843 Penniman Avenue, reported that total assets had reached $8,800,000, representing the savings of 4,700 customers, according to Perry W. Richwine, First Federal vice president and manager of the Plymouth office.

First Federal's Plymouth branch was established June 30, 1953 by merger with the old Plymouth Federal Savings, which then had 530 savings customers whose savings totaled $1,160,000. So in six years, this office has shown an increase of more than 800 percent in its savings totals.

Savings customers at the Plymouth office shared June 30 in the semi-annual payment of earnings by First Federal at 3 percent annual rate. The association's customers, at 12 offices received a total of more than $3,450,000 in earnings for the six months' period ending June 30th. This brings First Federal's total earnings payments to customers, since organization in 1934, to $35,000,000.

"Effective July 1st, this earnings rate has now been increased to 3 1/2 percent," Richwine says. "And our savings plan is so flexible that it makes it easy for each savings customer to carry on his savings program with a minimum of effort, and still earn 3 1/2 percent on the entire amount. Any amount—even a dollar—will start his account, which earns 3 1/2 per-

PERRY RICHWINE

"We offer the convenience of a downtown Plymouth location right across the street from the post office, and the municipal parking lot is located directly to the rear of our building. This makes it easy for savings customers who come in personally to cash their paychecks, each payday, before doing their weekly shopping," Richwine remarks. "We are happy to extend this paycheck cashing service to savings customers without charge," he says. Assisting Richwine at the Plymouth branch are: Irene Lyke, Bonny Turnbow, Marilyn Burley, Cleo F. Inlin, Mary Richwine and Lurline Averitt.

Organized in 1934 with assets of less than $10,000, First Federal today is one of the largest among more than 6,000 savings associations in the nation.

"We are proud of the fact that since our organization, First Federal has made over 72,000 loans for the purchase, construction and improvement of homes and other properties.

"As Michigan's largest single source of home loans funds," Richwine reports, "First Federal now has over 215 million dollars outstanding in its mortgage portfolio—the largest of any Michigan financial institution. Most of the association's lending activity is for the purchase and construction of homes in the greater Detroit area, and we have financed a very large number of homes in Plymouth, Northville, and neighboring sections.

Newburg Baseball Team Now at Top of League

MRS. EMIL LAPOINTE
GA. 1-2029

William Skip Ranbo and Henry Mende, Jr. have been joining the pair on a recent vacation near Lewiston, Mich. weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mende, Sr., and daughter Beverly of Newburg road and Gordon Briggs and Madeline David and daughter Pat of Detroit.

Mrs. Henry Grimm and Mrs. Raymond Grimm of Wayne road, Livonia, have returned home after spending a week visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fugenschuh in Peckie, Michigan in the upper peninsula.

Mrs. Fugenschuh is the former Phyllis Grimm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grimm. Also accompanying the pair on their northern trip were Mrs. Virginia Gerst and daughters Linda, Margaret and Nora of Belleville.

Hip-hip-Hooray. Newburg did it again. Another victory for the Newburg Methodist church's baseball team. On Tuesday, June 23 they were victorious over Trinity church by a score of 8 to 7. Newburg's record now stands at four wins and one loss. Let's all get out and cheer the home team!

The Patchen Community club, formerly associated with the Patchen school on Newburg road, met on Thursday, June 18 at the home of Mrs. Henry Mende, on Newburg road for an evening of sociability and playing of bunco. Business of the evening took the form of the changing of this group's name. From henceforth they shall be known as the Good Neighbor Club, as each month they plan to give a sum of money to some worthy charity. Members of group present for the evening were Georgiana Pregitzer, Margaret Desmond, Lulu Westlake, Johnny Leveack, Edith Gennis, Stella Hocking, Eleanor Rucinski, Florence Peterson and Dorothy Blanton. This Good Neighbor group will meet at the tennis courts in the Edward Hines parkway on the third Thursday in July at 7 p.m. for a potluck picnic.

If you have ever been to an outdoor chicken barbecue, then you will be sure that you don't want to miss the one that the Men's club of the Newburg Methodist church is having on Saturday, July 11. If you have never been to one, then you will be more than ever sure that you want to be on hand on the appointed Saturday from 4 to 8 p.m. for the very best of outdoor eating and Christian fellowship. Prices for tickets are very nominal and within the reach of most every family pocket book, so come and bring your family and friends for the treat of a lifetime. If it should be raining, this event will be postponed until the following Saturday, July 18. See you there.

A very proud moment in the LaPointe household took place on Monday evening, June 22 at St. Michael's Catholic church fellowship hall when our oldest son Bruce, received the coveted Eagle award at the June Court of Honor of Boy Scout troop 271 of that church. He also received 10 more merit badges making him a grand total of 41 and our next oldest son, David, received his advancement to Life rank and received seven merit badges making him a grand total of 21. He only needs four more merit badges to be eligible for that high rank of Eagle. In celebration of this event, immediately following the court of honor, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Weiss, Sr., of Graham road, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred LaPointe and children Keith, Eric, Susan of Inkster road, Livonia; Mr. and Mrs. Ford Rea and children Sheila, Kathy Michael and Mary, returned to our home for refreshments and celebration. We are very proud of our two boys and wish to publicly thank the scoutmaster, Mr. Rea of the troop and all the committeemen for their time, patience and understanding to give ours, and other boys the benefit of good, sound boy scout training.

More than 100 people, friends and relatives, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Howden on Joy Rd. to honor the Howden's daughter, Donna on her graduation from Bentley High school. In the fall season, Miss Howden plans to attend Cleary business school in Ypsilanti and during the summer she is employed with the Jennings Real Estate company. Congratulations from Newburg friends and neighbors.

On Thursday, June 25, at the Plymouth High school auditorium, Edith Stamtitz of Ann Arbor Trail, presented her dance students in their annual recital before a crowded auditorium of proud parents and friends. Those from the Newburg area performing were our own daughter, Nan and also, Linda Stamtitz and Connie Mae Stamtitz; Noel Appleberry, Patty and Gail Kraft, Melody and Joy McClelland, Susan Daniels, Jill Foreman, Karen English, Jeannine and Karen Nantau, Kathy Eastlake, Patty, Betsy and Mary Jane Dickie and Emily Peterson. Others, not in the Newburg area were, Barbara Shannon, Diann Fry, Gail Barnes, Kathy Sibbold, Janet Heidenrich, Jean Pymale, Barbara Jones, Linda Wilkie, Melanie Cole, Wendy Morris, Melinda Bidwell, Carol Otwell, Nannette Muzzy, Jennifer Bidwell, Sharon Little, Debbie Sands, Joy Sands, Charlotte Heidenrich, Anne Wehmeyer, Nancy Fowlkes, Patty Danna, Barbara Noel, Mary E. Hurlik and Valerie Arden at the piano. Act one was centered around the months of the year; act two a Hawaiian Fantasy and act three, Excerpts from act three of the Nutcracker suite. Congratulations to the Stamtitz studio for an evening of very professional entertainment.

On Thursday evening, June 25, immediately following our daughter's dance recital we had guests in for refreshments and also in celebration of my birthday. Guests for the occasion were Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. C. E. Brown and Douglas of Dearborn; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Weiss Sr. of Graham road, Detroit and Mrs. Yvette Gillilan and daughter Linda of Joy road, Plymouth.

Local Realtor Wins Court Suit

A judgment against Ralph and Helen C. Garber, 42685 N. Territorial Rd. and in favor of a neighboring realtor, William Cunningham, 46850 N. Territorial, has been made in circuit court. Circuit Judge Chester O'Hara has awarded Cunningham $9,275 in a suit he filed against the Garbers. The case was heard before a jury. Cunningham claimed that the defendants had broken an agreement with prospective buyers of acreage from the Garber farm in which Cunningham served as the agent. He said that defendants broke a purchase agreement made with Joseph and Jean LeBlanc in which he was to receive a 5 per cent commission from the $185,000 sale price. The defendants argued that the LeBlancs did not comply with the payment requirements and forfeited a $2,000 deposit. The jury, however, found in favor of the plaintiff.

Mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the noonday sun. This pretty well expresses our thoughts on the kind of weather we have been enjoying? Hot and Dusty! Well, you can settle the dust in the drive anyway with a sack of Calcium Chloride and sit back in your lawn chair and relax.

If you need a jardiniere for hanging basket type begonias the Bo-Kay unit is quite attractive. They come in pastels and solid colors. They will accommodate from one to three plants. Jardiniere and hanger run only $3.75.

If you have a freezer top in and see the new plastic freeze boxes we are now showing. Buying in large quantity direct from the factory has enabled us to sell them at 10 for $1.69. They are a space saving square size which stack easily.

Crabgrass is showing up all over now. We were able to check the effectiveness of Halts Crabgrass Control. Most reports have been excellent so far. One case where we have run into some is where the material was applied in the winter rather than early spring. Perhaps the recommended time to apply it will be delayed so as to get maximum benefit. Phenyl Mercuric Acetate (Scull) is good on immature crabgrass while Di-Sodium Methyl Arsonate (Clout, Sodar, etc.) are best for more mature grass.

If you need containers such as paper or wood pecks, berry quarts and pints, halves or bushel baskets or paper sacks we have a large supply of them.

Stockwell Back At Game Sunday

The Plymouth Merchants extended their winning to two games in as many starts, defeating South Lyon Seamless Tube 11-5 Sunday afternoon.

This Sunday the Merchants will travel to Northville as they attempt to extend the winning even farther.

Again this week, Ken Kisabeth pitched the entire game, walking three and striking out seven. Ken kept the game under his control up into the ninth inning, then ran into some trouble.

Ken was tapped for three runs before he was able to take the upper hand. But the three runs were of minor importance as far as the final result was concerned.

Al Noren was the leading hitter for the afternoon with a home run and two singles. But Sunday was a big day as most of the team collected a hit of some sort.

Jerry Stockwell, the injured first baseman, was on hand this week to see his teammates score their win. Jerry was on hand but made no attempt to play ball on his crutches. Next season.

Dick "Little Richard" Simmons has been a busy man at Flat Rock Speedway this year. Not only is he leading the other drivers point wise for main events this season, but he took a second place in the Destruction Derby held last Sunday night.

Maybe it would be best to define the term Destruction Derby. It's like Detroit city driving, without police cars. It sounds like mass murder but is not.

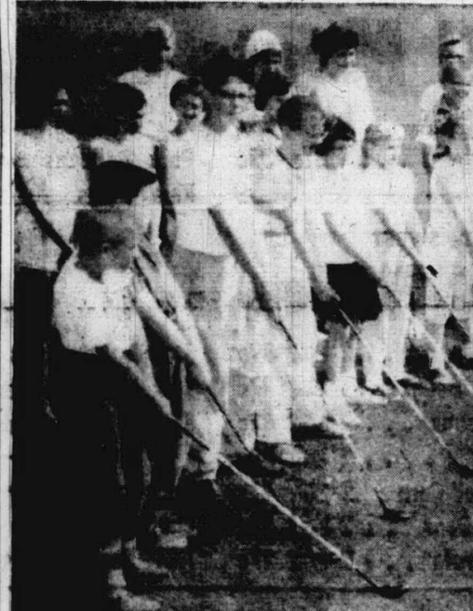

Dick placed second in a '50 Chevy, donated by Allison's. The first place winner, Jim Barker of Trenton, was also driving a Chevy. Sounds like the Chevys can take a beating and still keep going.

According to the schedule set up for the weekend, Flat Rock is going to run another Destruction Derby July fifth. If that day is free, why not take the kids down. Race time is 8:30, every Saturday and Sunday night.

Understand the high school varsity club will sponsor a basketball shooting contest as a fourth of July concession. Prizes are going to be awarded.

Junior Golfers Learning, Practicing - - Scoring!

Registration for both Advanced and Beginners Junior Golf League will be open one more week. The application form and fee of 50 cents must be in the hands of the division chairmen at Hilltop before July 3.

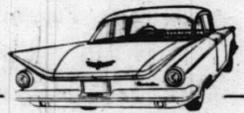

In the Beginner's Division, headed by Mrs. Howard Beck, 32 young people turned out for Friday's lesson. Chris Burghardt, Hilltop pro, will instruct the boys and girls for the next two weeks, then play will begin on July 17. This division is composed of fourth graders and up who have not played league golf previously.

Mrs. John Izett and Mrs. Bill Augustine, in charge of the Advanced Division, announced scores in the tournament qualification matches held for last week's 34 boys and girls.

Boys tallying three points for winning both match-medal play were Jeff Griswold, Joe Light, Bill Resch, Doug Graham, Kirk Rowland, Ron Becker, Anthony Garner, Jim Ralston and Doug Breed. The girls were Joanie Reas, Linda Griswold, Sue Reas and Susan Tichy. Two points went to Jim Jensen, Gerry Scott, and Judy Izett while 1 1/2 pointers were John Augustine, Bucky Zornow, Jim Eder and Bob Fisher. Bob Penland, John Parks and Sandy Fogo were happy to add one point toward their season total.

The first weeks of play see handicaps drop, but a drop of eight points is worthy of note. Susan Tichy carded a 68 in last week's round. Handicaps are figured on the five lowest scores at 74 percent of par.

$5000 Pot Friday At Northville Downs

Michigan's harness racing enthusiasts will have their second chance in as many weeks to see the nation's top four-year-old pacers in action at Northville Downs when a field of 10 goes in the $5,000 International on Friday (July 3) night.

It will be the same field that competed in the fabled HTA stake a week ago. In fact it was the HTA that brought the stars here and it was an open date in the series, prior to $50,000 finale week in New York City, that held them here.

But regardless of the reasons, the finest and fastest four-year-olds now in competition will battle it out for the winner's share of the $5,000 pot Friday.

Heading the field is Esquire Direct, currently leading the HTA point standings and considered as one of the early favorites to grab the top prize in the rich finale.

Then there's 52nd Street, the one-eyed star owned by Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Mayer of Springfield, Ohio, who has been the leading performer in recent HTA events.

The remainder of the starters will include: Linda's Indian, the speedy Indian Land horse owned by Bill Stevenson of Adrian; Lynda Spangler, Golden Monarch, the stablemate of 52nd Street, Tar Boy, Elma B. Raider Frost, O.F. Brady and Rhythm Time.

Local Driver Leads Track

Dick (Lil' Richard) Simmons, the leading semi-tate model stock car driver at the Flat Rock Speedway, ran out of racing luck Saturday night.

He was in third place, with a striking distance of first, in Saturday's 25-lap main event when another car ran into his after the red light had flashed on. The collision didn't put him out of the race, but reduced his car's speed so that he had to settle for eighth place.

Bill Douglas, the Estral Beach veteran, captured the main event with Jack Bucholtz second and Marc Davis third.

Despite the events of Saturday night, Simmons is still on top in the point standings. The Plymouth ace is out in front with 612 points to Douglas's 573.

Johnny Toth, an ex-Marine from Wyandotte, beat Bruce Ferrell by a quarter of a lap in the 25-lap six-cylinder modified feature race Sunday night. Toth sped the distance in 6:54.27 to gain his first victory of the season. Bob Frederick finished third and Bill Townsley fourth.

Jim Baker, rugged Trenton daredevil, won the slam-bang Destruction Derby Sunday night, with Little Richard taking the second place spot. Dick's wife, Joan, drove in the Derby and was still running when it ended.

As one spectator put it, "she was still after a car on the back stretch when it (Derby) ended".

This season has seen changes in the Western Wayne County baseball league standings, with the Plymouth teams not being on the top as they have in the past year.

One observer summed it up this way. "Either the Plymouth teams are getting weaker or the other league teams have improved a great deal."

But whatever the reason, the year is still young and leaves much room and time for changes. Willow Run is the team to be reckoned with from now until the ball is pitched.

Their team seems to work as a solid unit instead of individual players. This coupled with speed has made them the top team in the league.

Lake Pointers Enjoy Holidays On the Water

By MARCY BARTSON
GL. 9-6729

Gliding through the beautiful blue waters of the Great Lakes aboard the luxury liner "South American" was the order of the day for young Les Barton last week. He and his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Frans DeVieschow boarded the "South" last Saturday morning and began their merry cruise. This particular one was called the "Martyr's Shrine Cruise." Since it took the route to Midland Ontario where the passengers all disembarked to tour the city and make a pilgrimage to the famous Martyr's Shrine. Another wonderful stop-over was at Mackinac Island where Les and his grandparents toured the island by horse and buggy. Les was fascinated by the fact that not a car or mechanically powered vehicle may be seen there. Just bicycles and horses! He said, "It's such a quaint and beautiful place!"

The last night aboard ship everyone attended the "Captain's Dinner" after which a party was held and everyone joined in, having a marvelous time. Les and his grandparents came home loaded with pictures, post cards, souvenirs, and a beautiful plan. They are already planning their itinerary for next year's cruise!

Also in the nautical vein was the recent pleasurable evening of Verne and Evelyn Taylor of Brentwood Drive. They went aboard the magnificent day cruise ship "Aquarama" for a formal party sponsored by the Navy League, which was attended by many famous naval dignitaries. The guest list included the Secretary of the Navy, Admiral and Mrs. Forrestal (he's the one after whom the Navy's new super carrier was named), and two other admirals. Various Coast Guard boats escorted the great ship — whose lovely green hull, gleaming white superstructure, and colorful deck fittings lend her the appearance of a giant yacht — as she steamed down the River and set her course for Port Huron. Further glamour was added to the event as the City Fireboat shot streams of sparkling water into the air as a final salute.

Verne and Evelyn said the food and cocktails were excellent. The luxurious interior of the "Aquarama", with its winding stairways, escalators, elevators, ballrooms, and cocktail lounges gave the impression of a night club of a large metropolitan hotel. This along with the beautifully attired women and their escorts in impressive naval uniforms, combined to make a perfect and unforgettable evening for the Taylors.

A baby shower was held for Peggy Mogle at Evelyn Taylor's residence recently. The event was a pleasant surprise for Peggy. Attending the party were Betty Maher, Norma Stringham, Norma Richards, Nora Jaskierney, and Kay Braun. Everyone said they had an enjoyable afternoon, including Peggy, the surprised guest of honor.

Another new name to add to the ever-increasing population of Lake Pointe is the Stringham family. Al and Norma love their new home on Brentwood Drive. The Mrs. Fred Stringham. They careful planning and work they have already done will show this fact. Norma is busily refinishing some beautiful pieces of furniture for their daughter's bedroom. Little Sue Ann, who is six years old, has the longest and prettiest pigtail we've seen in a long time. She has a little brother, Jeff, to keep her company.

The Stringhams are originally from Lansing and selected Lake Pointe as their new place of residence when Al was transferred to this part of Michigan by the Bell Telephone Company. He is in the Directory Advertising Department. Al is an avid hunter and fisherman, and usually devotes one week every fall to this sport. The children love it when Al and Norma take them to visit their grandparents, Mr. and can go swimming in their beautiful pool, and play in two acres of backyard!

Just had a last minute news flash — Joe Mogle reports that he and Peggy are now the proud parents of a brand new baby boy — he was born Saturday morning and weighed in at six pounds, 12 ounces. Joe said they haven't picked a name as yet. Congratulations to the Mogies and welcome to "the little fellow!"

Also — Joann Cooksey has found a little gray striped kitten which seems to have lost its way. She and Art have been feeding and caring for it but Joann has now taken it to the Lickfield Veterinary Clinic where it will be for a week. Please phone there if this little kitten is yours. Joann says it's an adorable and pretty kitten.

State Hospital Chaplain To Teach at St. John's

Fr. Edward T. Cope, who has been the Catholic chaplain at Northville State Hospital, was transferred last week to St. John's Seminary, Phoenix Road, Plymouth, where he will teach theology and philosophy.

Ordained in 1937, Father Cope has taught in seminaries for 15 years. During World War II, he served in the United States Navy as a Chaplain for four years and before coming to Northville State Hospital last October, he had spent six months as the Chaplain at Carmel Hall in Detroit.

In addition to his duties at the hospital, he also served as Chaplain at Our Lady of Providence School, Northville, and as a visiting lecturer at Detroit Mercy College. A farewell luncheon was given at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Seefeldt, 15505 Bainbridge, Livonia, who is Director of Social Service at Northville State Hospital. Guests included ten of the hospital's patients who had assisted Father Cope; Reverend George P. Jerome of Northville, Protestant Chaplain; Reverend Clarence H. Sless of Livonia, Lutheran Chaplain; Sherry Meyer of Northville, Hospital Volunteer Assistant to Reverend Jerome, and Miss Selma Schulte of Northville, Secretary to Mrs. Seefeldt. Also present was Mr. Ray Hinz, Department of Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor at the hospital.

Last Saturday, Father Cope left for Idaho, where he will vacation for the summer, before he resumes his teaching at the seminary.

He will be succeeded at the hospital by Father Paul E. Lederman, who was transferred from Dominican High School in Detroit. Father Lederman will also serve as Chaplain at the Our Lady of Providence School.

The PLYMOUTH MAIL

JUST THE TICKET for a clubhouse, these two young fellows are thinking as they try out for size the miniature building that the Jaycees are giving away on July 4th. Tommy Case, 10, of 9303 Morrison, left, and Randy Blackford, 11, of 8831 Rocker, will be among the boys and girls hoping their parents will win the house. Girls can use it for a playhouse, with its dutch doors and all. Donations will be used by the Jaycees to sponsor the July 4th activities. Howard Green Builders constructed the house, now on display at Bob's Standard Service. It will be in the parade on the high school grounds Saturday. The winner will be named during the evening program.

Big Time Readied

Young said that all fireworks, except for the finale will be in the air so that people over a wide area can see them. There will be no charge to sit in the grandstand during the fireworks.

Two Board Members Say Farewells

One of the knotty problems that often face the school board occupied the major portion of a special meeting Monday night as the two retiring board members said their farewells and greeted the two newly-elected members.

Board President Austin Stecker and Vice-President James Mitchell ended their three-year term on the board as of Tuesday and coming in will be Peter Zylstra, Jr. and Harold Niemi. Both of the members-elect were at the meeting.

The problem involved the construction of the high school building and the annex. The tower is now being carried on by D. S. Mills & Sons, as general contractors. The contractor and his attorney appeared at the meeting to point out that in the rush to submit the bid, the firm had neglected to include the price of finish hardware. This would amount to $1,768.

Mills has already been working on the stair tower being erected between the main high school building and the annex. The tower is one of the recommendations made by the state fire marshal's office and will cost about $177,000.

The board's attorney, Nandino Perlongo, was also at the meeting. The attorneys agreed that the contractor could not legally collect the amount, even though he has not signed the contract.

Mills, a Plymouth contractor, had submitted a bid $9,000 lower than the next lowest bidder.

Ending a lengthy discussion on the case and how the error happened, the two parties agreed to "split the difference." The board will pay an additional $884 while Mills will stand the loss of the other $884.

In other business before the board, Administrative Assistant Melvin Blunk said that the board's offer to purchase acreage in Plymouth Township for a high school site is now being considered by the executor of the Charles Bennett estate. It is expected to take a week or two for consideration, he said.

The board is trying to negotiate the purchase of nearly 40 acres of land west of the city for a site. Part is owned by the estate and part by Miss Pauline Peck.

It was reported that work on the high school alterations is "on schedule" while the administration building may be somewhat behind schedule but should be open by mid-August.

JUNK TO AID ANGLERS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California hopes to improve sport fishing in the Salton Sea by creating artificial reefs out of old automobile bodies.

Staff members of the Wildlife Conservation Board said corvina abound in the 345-square-mile inland sea but that they are difficult to catch, except near the wreckage of an old Navy piling. So old auto bodies will be used to create other such artificial reefs.

Blame John Adams For Fireworks on the Fourth

Who put the fireworks in that invariably accompany the Fourth of July?

When firemen ignite the rockets and bombs this Saturday night in Plymouth, they can probably blame their unusual task on John Adams. The Founding Father declared that Independence Day "ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forevermore."

So, from that time forward, the birthday of the U.S. has been marked by brilliant explosion of color and noise and the deaths and accidents that invariably accompany Americans, however, got the idea for fireworks from Europeans, who got the idea from the Arabs, who merely copied the Chinese.

In 1232 A.D., when a Chinese city was besieged by Mongols, the defenders cooked up a batch of saltpeter, sulfur and charcoal and frightened their attackers with "arrows of flying fire."

Arabs were quick to copy these weapons, which probably were rockets. The Crusaders brought them back to Europe, where the Italians discovered that they made fancy exhibitions as well as formidable weapons.

Generator Now Serves City Hall For Emergencies

A power generator that will supply electricity for Plymouth city hall during emergencies was put into operation last week.

Installed in the garage behind city hall, the 35 kilowatt generator was purchased a year and a half ago from the Civil Defense warehouse at Jackson. Worth several thousand dollars originally, it was bought for a price of $100.

City hall will be used as headquarters for Civil Defense in case of emergency. At any time when there is a power failure a switch is thrown that diverts the power source from Detroit Edison lines to the generator.

The generator can be supplying the emergency power within two minutes after a failure, according to Charles Thompson, city building inspector.

It will not, however, operate the fire siren because this requires 220 volt power.

One of the worst recorded earthquakes in history leveled Lisbon, Portugal, on Nov. 1, 1755, killing 10,000 to 20,000 persons in the city alone.

FORMER DIME NOVEL MONTEREY, Mass. (UP)

One of the numerous writers of the Nick Carter detective stories of dime novel days is still living here—the Rev. Samuel C. Spalding, 80.

He wrote Nic Carter from 1910 to 1916, a total more than 100. A native Kansan, he entered the Unitarian ministry in 1903.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Montrose

Plymouth Bride To Make Home in Canada

Weston, Ontario, Canada will be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Montrose after they return from their Northern Michigan wedding trip.

They were united in marriage June 27 at a candle-light ceremony in St. John's Episcopal Church with Rev. David Davies officiating. Mrs. Montrose, the former Shirley Ann Thom, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Thom, 565 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth. The groom, Harry A. Montrose is a resident of Ontario.

"The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love" were sung by Shirley Ann of Plymouth for Shirley Ann, who was gowned in a princess style ballerina length silk organza trimmed in satin with a satin bow down the front of the gown. She carried stephanotis and a white orchid on a prayer book.

Sue Anthony of Plymouth was maid of honor in blue silk organza ballerina bouffant style gown and she carried an orchid and pink sweetheart rose bouquet.

A. L. Flood of Ottawa, Canada was best man for the groom and L. Iton of Simcoe, Canada and Kenneth Swales of Georgetown, Canada were ushers.

The bride's mother greeted guests at a reception following the ceremony gowned in a navy blue sheath with an orchid corsage pinned to her shoulder.

For her going away outfit the new Mrs. Montrose wore a two-tone brown silk and rayon suit with matching accessories.

Batts-Mills Wedding In Calvary Baptist Church

Joyce Ann Batts, daughter of Mr. James Batts and the late Mrs. Batts of Maple Avenue, became the bride of Ferris E. Mills in a candle light ceremony, Saturday evening, June 6 at 8:00 p.m.

The bride entered the sanctuary in the arms of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attired in a floor length gown of net over silk satin with a charming lace bodice, which featured a standup collar and long sleeves ending in points at the wrists. The full skirt had an overlay of lace falling in points from the waist to finger tip length. Her circular veil of silk illusion was edged in lace and secured by a crown of seedpearls and iridescent sequins. Her flowers were fashioned in a lovely cascade arrangement of lacy carnations and Stephanotis with trailing ivy on white streamers.

Following the bride down the aisle were three bridesmaids Mrs. Sylvia Brightbill, Mrs. Barbara Knupp and Bernice Kahler, identically gowned in ballerina length crystallette, featuring V-neck and empire waists. Each wore matching crowns with a small veil. The colors were mint green, petal pink and powder blue respectively. Each carried a bouquet of carnations matching their gowns. Linda Ford, maid of honor, donned a yellow crystallette gown and carried a matching bouquet. Her gown and headpiece were identical to that of the bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Mills of Main Street, was attended by his brother, Gale Mills, as best man. Guests were seated by Hoyt Mills, Robert Stout and Warren Hicks, who

To Women It May Concern

By Myra Cox, Women's Editor

Oblivious of the stern eye of the boss, my colleague from Livonia and I attended a delightful press party at Meadowbrook Golf and Country Club last Wednesday afternoon (On Wednesday all paper people are shackled.)

The occasion was to publicize the Motor City Open that will be held this year at Meadowbrook Golf Club in August. Many interesting events are planned in connection with the annual tournament to make it equally interesting to golfers, non-golfers, men and women.

To begin with they selected Wednesday a Miss Sandtrap of 1959 to reign as queen of all events in connection with the tournament. The finalists were all little beauties and had to prove their prowess with a golf club in order to be selected, by blasting out of a sandtrap. The contestant nearest the flag was "The One." Mary Ann Mehaffey of St. Clair Shores was an easy win. The contestants had one or two previous practices under the eye of Meadowbrook Pro, Chick Harbert and Assistant Pro, Nick Burson, who hails from Plymouth.

Ted Shurtleff, from the advertising firm Clark and Bobertz, was our host for the afternoon and is publicist for the event. He and Wally Burkemo, Chuck Bergerson from WXYZ and a committee took us on a tour of the course, wine and dined us, and gave us some interesting facts concerning the Motor City Open which was originated by Meadowbrook in 1948. The tournament returned to Meadowbrook in 1954. Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Bob Hamilton and Dr. Cary Middlecoff have fired some of their best shots at Meadowbrook. Nelson and Hamilton hold the course record of 63, which is eight under par for the 6,616 yard layout. Ben Hogan came to Meadowbrook in 1948 to win the first Motor City Open. This is perhaps the first year many other events are planned in connection with the main tournament.

We enjoyed a driving exhibition by the one and only Wally Burkemo, but the real highlight of the day, for me, was the putting tournament for ladies of the press because I won it and received a lovely beach hat for my talents, presented by Chuck Bergerson. I just putted away in my best croquet manner which I always knew some day would pay off and it did.

Be sure and watch the paper for the forthcoming events of this year's Motor City. Get a good pair of walking shoes and plan to join the gallery—it's fun and exciting and so close to home.

Had a refreshing coffee break the other morning with Helen Gilbert of Plymouth and we talked about her fascinating hobby of genealogy. Her interest in the subject began when she discovered some letters dating back to the 1880's in an old trunk. This was in 1939 and since she has been able to trace her Scotch ancestry back many generations. She promised to help me with mine. I can't decide whether Captain Kid or Robin Hood would be the most fascinating ancestor. Either would be the perfect scapegoat to blame for the larceny in me that pops out ever so often. Incidentally BOUQUETS to Helen Gilbert, her mother, Mrs. Leticia Gilbert, as well as Miss Margaret Roberts and Mrs. Helen Goodman for their thoughtful donation to the Dunning-Hough Library, enabling them to purchase the lovely set of dishes used for teas and serving refreshments.

Mrs. Robert S. Southgate

Plant-Southgate Married Sunday

Miss Shirley Ann Plant and Robert Sherwood Southgate were married in the First Methodist Church on Sunday, June 28 at 4:00. The Reverend Melbourne Johnson officiated.

The bride's wedding was fashioned by her mother, Mrs. Robert S. Southgate, of 4166 1/2 W. 14th St. Applied handpicked chintilly lace and seed pearls enriched the scalloped Sabrina neckline and bodice, cascading down the full length of the gown. Soft pleats from the waist fell into a chapel train. A regal tiara of chintilly lace and seed pearls held in place her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascading bouquet of stephanotis and English ivy, centered with a corsage of Amazon lilies.

Maid of honor, Miss Ella Brand, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Dale Nicholas, sister of the groom, Miss Anne Vincent, Mrs. Richard Haight and Miss Nell Kirby, wore full-skirted, white silk organdy gowns of a delicate blue and green print. Their bouquets were of painted daisies and English ivy.

Dale Nicholas, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Don Marsh and William Hawes, both of Ypsilanti, Richard Haight of Jackson and Glen Bryant of Cleveland. Violinist William Mihalyi of Milan played "Wedding Hymn" and "Still As the Night."

Mrs. Southgate wore blue chiffon over taffeta. Mrs. Plant wore soft blue peau de soie with matching hat. Both mothers wore corsages of phalaenopsis orchids.

The reception, held following the ceremony in the church fellowship hall, was attended by 300 guests from Ontario, Cleveland, New York, Ypsilanti, Milan, Ann Arbor, Detroit and Plymouth. The couple's wedding trip will be a month stay in the Hawaiian Islands.

FULBRIGHT scholar Barry J. Garner, visiting in Plymouth this week, giving an interview to Mail correspondent Karla Herbold.

Londoner Says America "Science Fiction World"

By Karla Herbold

"I can understand Americans having faith in the future but I'll never see why they put their tea in little bags," smiled Barry J. Garner, young Londoner, studying in the U.S. on a Fulbright scholarship. "When I saw my first super-highway cloverleaf, I was convinced that here was the world of science fiction."

Garner, a graduate student and instructor in the Geography Department of Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, came to this country in September of 1958 and will not return home for a visit before he receives his Ph.D. Though he is becoming acclimated to America's ways, his future plans include a position as university lecturer in either Canada or Australia.

He was a visitor in Plymouth recently.

Graduate school here to one used to the slow and sure pace of England's universities—is "like working inside a pressure cooker" but Garner finds America's educational system well-suited to the country's needs. The custom of term and mid-term exams has impressed him. In England, a student takes groups of exams in his major field at four or five year periods.

One of the Englishman's favorite destroyed illusions was that America was the land of milk and honey. "A trip through Chicago's South Side showed me otherwise. I was glad, though, to see that this country had its problems and was human." He finds the distances of the land overwhelming—all of England would fit with room left over into Michigan—and, as a geographer, is fascinated by the varied examples at hand for study.

Understanding people of other countries is a product of living in that country and meeting its people, Garner explained. "Most Europeans feel the summer clothes of Americans are showy and in poor taste. One summer would convince them, as it has me, light-weight suits and shoes are utter necessities. I haven't accepted Bermuda shorts yet."

He cites America's food for its variety and taste, admitting "it's far better than at home." The Englishman is a fan of popcorn, frozen fruit juices, crisp salads and ice-cubes—rare foods in his little refrigerated homeland. Phrasology has him confused, for when an American eats French fries, an Englishman eats "potato chips" and our potato chips are called "crisps" across the ocean.

Garner has found that in place of the usual language barrier for foreign students, English speakers studying here have really an accent barrier. Nevertheless, he insists "Americans have welcomed me with sincere hospitality—even though they couldn't understand me."

This may have well been a series of human errors but in view of this same board's past action it only serves to point out that the voters of the Plymouth community School District could do well in remedying this situation at the polls as soon as the election laws permit.

Mrs. Doris Wick of 745 Karmada was hospitalized at the Methodist Hospital at Gary, Ind. recently following an accident on the Toll Road to Chicago. Her car was a total wreck. Millikin Takes Part In Course at MSU

Donald D. Millikin, Manager of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, participated in the 36th annual National Institute for Organization Management at Michigan State University June 21, 27.

More than 400 local chamber of commerce managers and trade association executives from 27 states and Canada are studying to increase professional competency and provide better service to their respective organizations and to their communities. The organization men and women were reminded at an early session that "education comes mainly from tough experience and rarely through sudden flashes of inspiration" by Samuel B. Shapiro, secretary of the Linen Supply Association of America, Chicago, Ill.

"Experience here, at the Institute means not merely listening to your able faculty, but comparing what they say with what you have observed and done," he added. "Most of all," he said, "I hope that, if you are not already on fire for organizational management, this Institute will breathe on the sparks already in you and enkindle an enduring flame of love for your career in organizational management."

It's Summer - Take-It-Easy Ways To Get Those Weeds

On summer days, the hammock is a much more inviting spot than the garden where there probably are weeds to hoe and insects to spray. The planting that was done so enthusiastically last spring doesn't take care of itself but, fortunately, there are many ways in which the upkeep of a garden or property can be reduced.

The greatest time and energy-saver is mulching. A mulch is any clean material—peat moss, ground corn-cobs, buckwheat hulls, salt hay, black polyethylene film—which is spread over the ground under and around plants. In summer a mulch prevents weeds from growing and so does away with any need to cultivate or hoe the soil.

If the rose bed, shrubs, vegetable plot, perennial or flower border is cultivated after the next rain, it will be ready for a mulch to be spread 2 or 3 inches thick over the earth. After this, no more hoeing or weeding.

A mulch's insulation for the soil. Therefore, the sun can't draw moisture out and so, if rainfall is sparse, the mulch also reduces the need for frequent watering.

For any chore that needs to be done repeatedly, a power tool is a worthwhile investment. Since a lawn must be cut on an average of once a week, that puts a power mower at the top of the list.

There are other ways of cutting down the amount of time that must be spent cutting the lawn every week. Little strips of grass between a flower bed and a walk, specimen shrubs and trees dotted around the lawn consume time. They may even necessitate a change of mowers, since the power one will be too large to maneuver.

The clipping along walks, driveway and flower beds that inevitably follows mowing can be almost dispensed with by installing an edging. Corrugated strips of aluminum or galvanized metal stuck into the ground is a simple edging to install and requires almost no upkeep. Laying bricks lengthwise along the edge of the walk or flower border will permit the mower to be run over the edge of the grass, thus eliminating clipping.

A row of bricks laid lengthwise, another row laid at right angles and then another row lengthwise is not only a sturdy edging but also a drain where such may be needed.

The labor of mowing is reduced by planting ground covers where it would be difficult to cut grass or establish it. An embankment, for example, isn't easy to cut even with a power mower. Pachysandra or myrtle (Vinca minor) or vines such as honeysuckle or climbing roses cover bare ground quickly. They need no care except possibly fertilizing once a year or trimming back if they start to grow out of bounds.

Sparse use of plants—that is under instead of over planting any area—makes maintenance a lot easier. Rosebushes and shrubs will be a lot easier to mulch if they weren't planted so closely that they grow together. Small as the zinnia or marigold seedlings may be, planting them 18 to 24 inches apart is essential to mulching, feeding or cutting the flowers.

The property owner who isn't a gardener at heart is certain to find other shortcuts for summer upkeep. The true gardener can, too, for the less arduous his chores the more time there will be to enjoy the garden.

SUMMER TIMESAVER: Three lines of brick make an edge that reduces lawn clipping and drains.

A MULCH keeps weeds from sprouting and conserves moisture in the soil. Salt hay is fine between rows of vegetables; more decorative, clean material is preferred for ornamental plantings.

Waistline Woes Worry One in Five Americans, But Men Have Weightier Problem Than Women

The figures don't lie. In our statistics and in our drobes, the expansion of the national waistline shows that overweight is why some of us gain pounds and some of us don't, what obesity means in terms of general health—all these are examined in the following series of four dispatches. They are based on talks with physicians, scientists, nutritionists and anthropologists, and on studies conducted by the American Medical Association, the American Heart Association and others.

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—The fat of the land stands accused of sitting too much—and eating too much.

Overweight looms as a major problem for more than 34 million Americans, men and women. Men, recent studies show, are twice as likely as women to become overweight.

As the American Medical Association figures it, you're a "fatty" if you weigh ten to 15 per cent more than you should.

Fatties eat their cake and keep it too. They stash it away in the form of stored calories—3,500 of them to one pound of fat.

The excess is stored under chins, around the middle, around the hips. It makes cheekbones disappear.

On upper parts of the arm, it settles down to a gelatin-like sheath. It makes you puff and puff when you have to rush.

It makes shorts, dresses and skirts too tight. Buttons pop. The view, fore and aft, is depressing.

The fat will stay just where it's stored until you eat less than you need, drawing on the stockpile for energy.

When that starts happening, you'll start to lose weight.

But there's more than beauty to consider.

In some cases, reports the AMA, staying plump is one way of disabling or killing yourself—before your time.

High blood pressure is found twice as frequently in fatties; hardening of the arteries, three times as much; diabetes and arthritis, a slightly more common ailment; the pump; extra weight makes a patient a poorer surgical risk.

More prevalent among the obese, too, are serious heart ills and crippling and killing strokes.

Except for special emergency situations when methods such as intravenous feeding are used, there's only one portal of entry for energy into the human body. That is—the mouth.

Cutting down the quantity that goes into the mouth is at the crux of the overweight problem. Sounds easy to solve, doesn't it?

The trouble is that dieting depression hampers the process of up to 54 per cent of those who try to take it off. Other symptoms: irritability, fatigue and nausea.

The tense, anxious and insecure personalities usually have the worst luck when they try to reduce. Reasonably stable persons do the best.

The hard part is this: once you reform your eating habits enough to shed the extra weight, you've got to make up your mind to stick by the new habits. If not, it won't be long 'til you're right back where you started from.

I Hate African Violet

By BETTY SANDERS

It was obvious, when our new neighbor came to call, she wasn't the least interested in me: all she wanted to see and talk about was the african violet she had seen in my living room window.

In a state of ecstasy, she said she wanted a piece of my violet in exchange for a piece of one of her ninth-year ficuses.

I must, she informed me, join her in collecting violets. Why the thunder, I wondered, as I mumbled something about of course she could have some of my violet, anybody would think I wanted ninety kinds of violets. I didn't even want the one I have.

I am fed up with being owned and dominated by an african violet. Unlike a dog or cat, which returns affection, a violet is completely conceited and domineering. Violets are intensely selfish. All they want to do is to occupy the most prominent spot in a living room, in regal fashion, and sit and pose in the manner of a fashion model preparing for a magazine cover photograph. Violets dote on sugary praise of visiting females who hover admiringly over them. Violets are no good at conversation and cannot go anywhere with you. You can't take a violet on a trip in a car with you, the way you can a dog.

ied horticulture. I don't have a green thumb. Whenever I do what somebody tells me is the right thing to do with violets, this plant doesn't do anything but sit in its pot and sulk. It doesn't grow or bloom or even act as though it cares whether it lives or not. Frankly, I wish it wouldn't, although I'd get the blame if anything happened to it.

However, just let me ignore that violet, or forget to water it, or move it around out of my way, it promptly starts growing, or squirts blossoms out in all directions. When I'm not looking, the creature has babies. I can practically hear it laughing at me.

Turkey for Bar-B-Que

Turkey fits nicely in the picnic plans of Mr. and Mrs. American Family. Among the many favorite outdoor eating items are cold turkey sandwiches or salad dishes leisurely prepared ahead of time.

Another idea is a turkey barbecue on the patio or back lawn—a wonderful stimulant to drooping spirits and jaded appetites after a frustrating day at shop or office. And best of all—you can stay home to enjoy it.

Thanks to new production and processing methods, completely eviscerated, frozen, oven-ready turkeys now are available the year 'round.

How to Cook

Let it cook this way about 15 minutes, then turn the skin side to the fire. Baste and allow it to cook on that side about 10 minutes before turning and basting again. Keep turning it at intervals of about 5 minutes until the bird is cooked through—but not dry.

The important thing is to baste with butter each time. But be careful not to puncture the skin or juices will escape.

One labor-saving idea is to buy a large oven-ready turkey weighing 2 pounds or more and cook it ahead of time for use in sandwiches and other dishes.

While the turkey is roasting, the housewife can go about her other work. Then the idea is to cut and strip the meat from the bones and freezer-wrap in packages, each with enough meat for one family serving. Packages should be quick-frozen and put in the home freezer locker, or refrigerator freezer compartments.

Turkey Roasts

Turkey quarter and half roasts, one of the newest products in the food field, now are widely available over the nation. Many housewives appreciate the convenience of this item.

Turkeys can be barbecued split or whole—and on the family charcoal brazier or in your own do-it-yourself pit. A portable brazier can be made of cut-down steel barrel with heavy mesh wire mounted several inches above the charcoal.

Ideal for barbecues are young fryer-roaster turkeys (4-7 pounds) halved or quartered. A 4 or 5 pound bird is ample for 5 or 6 persons.

Here is one way to prepare barbecued turkey:

Cream 1 cup of butter with paprika, black pepper, lemon juice and tarragon. Then spread this well over the surface of the turkey and place the bird, bone side down, over the fire. Don't let the fire get too hot.

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

The CITY MANAGER'S CORNER

By Al Glassford

The purpose of municipal government is to render service to the citizens of the community. Therefore, the best possible service should be supplied.

The people who provide this service are municipal employees who have been selected, hired, trained, and who work under the personnel rules of the City. In Plymouth, according to the Charter, the City Manager is responsible for all personnel activities. He may appoint a personnel director, or he may assume the duties himself.

Part of the administrative task of the personnel director is setting the hours for work of the employees. The City Manager, with the consent and endorsement of the City Commissioner has established a policy whereby the City Hall is kept open one night each week so that the city offices are available to those people who cannot transact their business with the city during normal daily working hours. Until now, the working hours at the City Hall have been Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., and Friday from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

A study was made recently concerning the hours of operation of other municipalities in the general area of Plymouth. Most of these communities had no evening hours at all, while some had Saturday morning hours instead of being open some evening. Other communities had regular evening hours one night a week, but the night of operations varied from community to community.

Coupled with this survey, a closer look was taken at our City Hall operations on Friday nights. This examination showed that with the exception of registration time, almost no city business is transacted on Friday evenings. Further, what little city business is transacted usually is clustered around 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

The City Manager and the City Commission are still of the opinion that the offices should be kept open at least one night a week. However, we probably are not being of too much service to the citizens by keeping the city offices open on Friday evenings. As a result, beginning with the first of July, the City Hall will remain open for business on Monday nights rather than Friday nights. The hours of operation at the City Hall will then be Tuesday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. On Monday, the hours will be from 8 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. This change will enable more people to take advantage of the evening working hours than has been possible under our present work schedule.

None of the female employees will be working evenings, except where summer vacation schedules call for one of them to be present to adequately represent the department. A skeleton crew of three men will be scheduled to work each Monday evening as has been our practice in the past. Consequently, there will be at least one person to handle the business downstairs, in the treasurer's office or the manager's office, one person to help with the business upstairs in the Clerk's office, the building department, and so on.

The Police Department and the Fire Department will not be affected by this change, for their work continues 24 hours each day throughout the year. Our department heads, or myself, if a citizen has a problem which cannot be handled during regular hours, will arrange a meeting time any other evening at a time agreed upon.

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—"Dear Miss Williams: I am a 16-year-old high school girl with lovely parents who have given me all the love and advantages possible. But my father refuses to let me date or have the companionship of boys in any way, not even in a church group. I am often asked for dates, and am embarrassed to say I am not allowed to have dates. I can't invite a group to my house, so don't suggest that I am allowed to to 'mixed' parties sometimes after fighting with Daddy about it."

Ans.—It's time for you to have social life of your own . . . within the rules set by your parents for your own safety . . . parties, school activities, church groups, dates (with another couple or a group at first, with a parent at the wheel, if your father prefers), and friends at your home occasionally in "four some" or small group. Since you can't convince your father that his little girl is growing up, perhaps another adult whom he respects can make him see that he is over-restricting you . . . that it is possible for you to begin to have dates and participate in high school life gradually and sensibly, not "too much, too soon."

er that his little girl is growing up, perhaps another adult whom he respects can make him see that he is over-restricting you . . . that it is possible for you to begin to have dates and participate in high school life gradually and sensibly, not "too much, too soon."

"Dear Elinor:—I have had one date with a certain boy and like him. He has asked for dates several times since then, but I have refused, because he was too 'forward' on our first date. How can I let him know this?"

Ans.—Next time he asks for a date, tell him how you feel . . . that you had fun on your first date and would like to plan on another except for one thing . . . If he really likes you, he'll follow your wishes about it. If he stops calling you, it's because he's more interested in necking than in you.

Happy Birthday to Irma in Canton Township

By ESTHER SPRENGEL, GL. 3-0194

As I have said before, "What in the Township is going on?" One thing for sure I don't know, at least I don't know much. But as long as we do have some news, here we go.

A very surprised Mrs. in the Township was Mrs. Delbert Larrick (Irma). Irma was the surprised guest of honor at a birthday party given for her by her sister, Mrs. McTurner and her mother, Mrs. Ora Glass. When Mrs. Larrick related the details of her party, she still sounded breathless. The guest list included her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Glass, Mrs. McTurner, Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Kee, Mrs. Rosie Horay, Sirley Lee, Camella Jayska, Mrs. Donna White, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace, Mrs. D. Walbridge, Mr. Delbert Larrick and Dale and Lynda Larrick. Besides the lovely gifts received by Mrs. Larrick, a beautiful birthday cake was served as a highlight to the refreshments served the guests.

Mrs. W.C. McTurner of Elmhurst Ave., was hostess to their Luncheon Club, June 19, with 12 ladies in attendance. Besides an evening of fun, refreshments were enjoyed by the ladies, served by their hostess.

Mrs. Delbert Larrick and family and Mrs. W.C. McTurner and family (husband and work), are on their way to the Larricks' summer home in the Irish Hills for the summer. Have fun, ladies.

It was a night out for the Clayton Kops of Beck Rd. Mr. and Mrs. Kops attended a play at the Northland Playhouse, entitled "Loud Red Patrick." Mrs. Kops said it was a wonderful play, entertainment that would be wonderful for the whole family. They say we learn something every day, and to my surprise I just found we have a new television repairman right in the neighborhood. Mr. Kops has entered the field of television repair and we want to wish him success in his new venture.

Mrs. Eugene Ferrari of Ford Rd. described what must have been a very beautiful trip, taken by Mr. and Mrs. Ferrari and their son Alan, along with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walter of Ann Arbor. The group took a trip to Baldwin, Michigan to the Shrine of the Pines. Mrs. Ferrari showed me some impressive pictures of the shrine. The Shrine and all the furnishings inside were made by Mr. Overholtz by hand. Mrs. Ferrari stated that the dining table and chairs had been valued at $10,000. It is impossible to describe the wonders done with the roots of the pines, but made it seem like a worthwhile trip to take. Mrs. Ferrari stated that the builder and owner of the shrine has passed away and his widow just passed away at the age of 94, and donated the shrine to Boys' Town and all proceeds realized from visitors to the shrine is given to Boys' Town. Before returning home, the Ferraris and guests visited with Mrs. Ferrari's uncle in White Cloud, Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ainslie. Before finishing our interview, Mrs.

Ferrari proudly showed me a picture of their young son Alan holding an award presented him by the school he attends—"Our Lady of Good Counsel." The award was for perfect attendance and prompt attendance to all his classes for two years without one miss. To this we want to add our congratulations, Alan.

Another surprise party in the Township was held for Mrs. Helen Stauffer of Saltz Rd. The party was given for her by her husband Ken. The party was a little attended by friends and relatives of the couple Saturday, June 2. The traditional birthday cake was on hand to mark the event. Mrs. Stauffer received some very lovely gifts. The Willard Bowmans of Beck Rd. and their two sons, Bob and Dick were host to Mrs. Sheldon Baker and son Dennis of Arkansas. Dennis is on summer vacation from Michigan State University in Lansing. Mrs. Richard Hoffman of Ford Rd. asked me to thank all the wonderful people who helped her and the children during their grief, at the death of her husband Dick. She felt perhaps, although she wouldn't get a chance to thank each individually, they would know from our column that they all helped a great deal.

I have heard rumors of showers, trips and cook-outs, how about letting us all know about them. Just to give you an idea when to call, I'm up at 6:30 a.m. and rarely go to bed until midnight, so now why don't I hear from you? Maybe we should take a vacation and see if anyone misses us. Be seeing you next week.

A last minute news item of interest was the turnout of the Canton Community Club Strawberry festival. Mrs. J. Wiles of Cherry Hill, secretary of the club, reports a fine turnout and gave us the names of the winners of the door prizes. First prize, a clock radio, Mr. Kenneth Chliss of Detroit; 2nd prize, a toaster, Mrs. Ina Williams of Ypsilanti; 3rd prize, deep fryer, Mrs. Leo Kubik (a new cub scout's mother) of Plymouth. The proceeds of the affair all go to the Scouts of troop No. 298.

Bible Comment:
Gospel of John Reveals Humanity Of Jesus

It is noteworthy that the Gospel of John which proclaims the divine nature of Jesus of Nazareth as the Eternal Christ, the Word which was in the beginning with God, and which was God—doctrinal facts which it is hard for the human mind to comprehend—presents the human Jesus, the man among men, in incidents as vivid as and even more revealing than anything in the former three synoptic Gospels.

Perhaps the most striking incident in the human contacts of Jesus, recorded only in John's Gospel, is the long story of the meeting of Jesus with the Woman of Samaria.

The most significant point of the story is in what Jesus said concerning true worship—words that unfortunately are all too much neglected in emphasis upon places:

"Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, or yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father. God is a Spirit; and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." That is a very high point of all that the New Testament contains.

But, the minor incidents of the story also are interesting and revealing in a very human way. The Divine Man is revealed in all the wonderment of His life among men.

They give us true insight into the earthly life of Jesus.

AT A COURT OF honor for Boy Scout Troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic Church, Bruce LaPointe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil LaPointe of 36830 Joy Road was awarded the coveted Eagle, highest rank in scouting. Bruce also holds the distinction of having the most merit badges in his troop, totaling 41. L-r Chairman of the Committee, William Davis; Ford Rea, Scoutmaster; Bruce LaPointe, Eagle Scout, Mrs. Emil LaPointe, Mr. LaPointe, parents of Eagle recipient.

Eagle Scout Award Made at Court of Honor

Before a goodly number of assembled parents and friends, boy scout troop 271 of St. Michael's Catholic church held their summer Court of Honor on Monday evening, June 22 at St. Michael's school hall. Over 100 awards were given out to the scouts, indicative of fine scout spirit and participation.

After the presentation of colors, the pledge to the flag and the reciting of the scout law, Ford Rea, scoutmaster of the troop, invested five tenderfoot scouts, each vouchered for by his patrol leader, then lighting a candle at the campfire, symbolic of his willingness to participate to the fullest in all scout activities.

Tenderfoot rank was conferred on Robert Bennett, Patrick White, George Bachelor, Richard Miller and Daniel Szuba. Second class advancements were presented by Jack Schickel to David Kuczynski, David St. Amour, Clifford Symaps, Robert White, Norman Kociela and James Nowacki and committeeman, James McHugh presented the first class advancement to Robert McHugh, Rickey Ott, Clifford Symaps, Michael Brady and Robert White.

The merit badge program is large in troop 271 and many boys actively participate in this, for it means a higher advancement with the goal of Eagle rank ever before them. These are the merit badge presentations which were handled by Robert Bennett, Bruce LaPointe received seven; as did William Davis; Robert Christensen received six; Robert McHugh and Richard Powell both received five; three were presented to Dennis Swain, Daniel Darrah and Brent Egleson and each receiving one were Edward Nowacki, William White and Tom Petter.

The advancement to Life scout rank was presented by John Krygier, institutional representative, to David LaPointe, Robert Christensen and William Davis. Awards of troop service were given to Norman Kociela, Joseph Masse and Peter Lynch for one year; Brent Egleson, Daniel Darrah and Edward Nowacki for two years; Robert Curry for four years. Perfect attendance awards were given to Tom Gamber, William Davis, Bruce LaPointe, Daniel Darrah, Michael Rea, Tom Petter, Robert McHugh and Steve Curry for one year perfect attendance; to David LaPointe, Edward Nowacki and Richard Powell for two year perfect attendance and to Robert Curry for four years of perfect attendance. These service awards were presented by Mr. Egleson. Scoutmaster Rea then conferred upon scouts Ed Nowacki and Bill Davis, awards of folding reflector ovens for outstanding patrol leader and outstanding scout, respectively. John Krygier introduced the guest of the evening, Edward M. Zopf who presented scout Bruce LaPointe with the Eagle award. Mr. and Mrs. Emil LaPointe, parents of the boy were given the opportunity of pinning on the badge and Mrs. LaPointe was presented with an eagle pendant and an orchid corsage.

Michigan Men Quickly Answered Civil War Call

ANN ARBOR — Michigan men responded quickly to the outbreak of the Civil War, according to Ida C. Brown, librarian at the University of Michigan Historical Collections.

In a free 32-page booklet "Michigan Men in the Civil War," recently published at the U-M, Miss Brown writes: "Michigan offered for Federal service its entire military force of 28 companies of militia. The new recruits came from farms and shops, schools and offices. A highwayman testified: 'I always feel sad at the approach of battle, but at the same time there is an impulse which drives me on with ever increasing eagerness as the hour approaches. It was thus when I enlisted. I hated to go yet nothing could have prevented my going at the first call.'"

"Each appeal of the President for troops was fully met in Michigan. But as the first year passed with the end of the war not in sight, and the Northern armies were repulsed in almost every major engagement, people became discouraged, and as one soldier expressed it, 'angry at somebody they don't know who.'"

"Early in 1863 a draft act was passed to assist counties having difficulties in filling their quotas. The draft was not popular in Michigan. The men seemed to feel that being drafted 'robbed them of their patriotism and branded them as unwilling defenders of the nation.'"

"Veterans, on the other hand, re-enlisted with great alacrity. I cannot see why it is that this rude, half-savage and seemingly comfortless life has such attractions," said a former lawyer, who, after recovering from a severe wound, returned to his regiment to stay until the end of the war.

As the war dragged on, many felt like one officer who wrote: "All think if we had been better and more promptly supported by everybody we would have long since finished our task."

A humorous exchange between opposing pickets expresses a sentiment both sides were beginning to feel: "Say Reb, what are you fighting about? 'I don't know.' 'Let's throw our guns into the river and end the d-d war.'"

Says Miss Brown, "When the war was over, Michigan felt she had done her whole duty. Her cavalry was so celebrated in the Union armies that she had been allowed a larger proportion of her troops in cavalry than any other state. The Fourth Michigan had spectacularly distinguished itself in capturing the President of the Confederacy, Jefferson Davis."

The booklet "Men in the Civil War," is a descriptive bibliography of letters and diaries by Michigan soldiers in the U-M Historical Collections.

Declaration Concerned About God Men In Service

An interesting approach to the Declaration of Independence by the Religion In American Life movement sheds some light on the inner thinking of the men who accepted the document in 1776.

God in the Declaration of Independence. "It is good to be reminded of them as we celebrate our independence this July 4," the Movement said.

These are the references to God found in the Declaration: "... the laws of nature and nature's God entitle them..." "... all men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights..."

to the Supreme of the world..." with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence." The Religion In American Life movement asks each of us to re-read the Declaration of Independence this Independence Day, and to note there how our brave forebears spelled out that this nation owes its freedom to the Father of us all.

'Independent' of What?

If we are to be loyal to the Independence Day concept, we must soon find a way to insure the continued development of individual freedom in a country increasingly inhibited by the problems of bigness.

Big government, big military machines, big labor unions and big corporations organized with a view to encouraging the growth of the individual can, in theory, do the job, but unhappily the trend is all towards conformity.

Where, for example, is the politician who will criticize his own party? Where is the General who will openly stand against the President's budget (if that is his belief)? Where is the unionist who will admit that occasionally the unions have gone too far, and where is the business man who will agree that the pursuit of production for production's sake is a little phony as a goal?

The answer to these questions is that today we rarely find independent thought, an expression of honest, individual dual thinking.

The pressure is to conform, to submit to your king — an alternative present also in 1776. The setting changes but there always are little Bunker Hills in every organization and personal freedom loses many fights.

"Security," of course, is the big rationalization of our age. Every decision is made in the name of security. It is the A-No. 1, perfect excuse for relinquishing personal independence.

No one can quibble with security as a factor in any decision, but too many people surrender to the "security" of bigness and blandly assume that the great organization will take care of them, physically, spiritually and morally. It's not true.

To the degree that a man feels he must shut up when he knows he should speak out, freedom is lost in our big organizations.

The test for a community steeped in a history of "Independence" is to acknowledge the benefits of bigness, but to build in safeguards to insure individual freedom of action, as well as material well-being.

And with privileges and safeguards there, the common man is duty-bound to proceed in the manner of his forefathers. If he is a good American, that is.

A New Slant

George Romney's efforts to create a third major political force in the Michigan arena—if that is what he is doing—have the good wishes of some of us, and probably the admiration of all.

Every thinking citizen has seen cracks in the pictures presented by both the Republicans and Democrats of Michigan for some time. It has taken the financial question to bring action from some interest outside the traditional political channels.

Romney, the American Motors' Miracle Man, approaches the job in the self-proclaimed role of private citizen. It is in that role that he has his appeal.

He is the embodiment of the ideal that the private citizen can have some effect on the workings of government. It is largely because of this that many people hope he succeeds.

Experience at most levels of political activity shows that a private citizen can only be an apprentice at politics, if that is not his main interest in life.

If Romney succeeds, he will have turned around the old concepts that the best political service can be obtained by working through the party of your choice and then effecting changes from within.

Realistically, it doesn't seem possible that Romney could hope to succeed. In the long run his success may best be judged by the adjustments that the Democrats and Republicans make in fear of his Citizen's For Michigan committee.

Romney will have to be meticulous in his attitude of non-partisanship and it's hard to find an issue these days on which you are not found on one political side or the other.

He has taken on another impossible task. A short time ago many said Americans would never drive a small car, but Romney handled that one okay. The question is whether his political acumen is as great as his business ability.

A great many people hope it is.

'THE OLD-FASHIONED FOURTH'... will come alive for visitors to the International Freedom Festival, scheduled in Detroit and Windsor June 28 to July 4. Two of the highlights of the week-long festival will be the unfurling of The J. L. Hudson Company's world's largest flag on July 4 as the official start of Detroit's huge Independence Day parade and the fireworks spectacular on the Detroit River the evening of July 3. The fireworks display, sponsored by Hudson's as a gift to the Freedom Festival, will be the single largest aerial show to be seen in the nation this year.

Handwriting Analysis By Lucille Williams

Dear Miss Williams:

Would you please analyze my writing. Maybe you could direct me as to the line of work I should enter after I finish school. I hope this is enough writing for you.

Sincerely, Lois W.

You have good concentration ability and are a sharp thinker. You think quickly and do not express yourself emotionally. There is good organization ability and you are capable of efficiency.

There is some sensitivity and you don't always appreciate criticism. You're very practical minded with no apparent desire for much physical action. You want to go forward, sometimes lacking a little in self confidence but you're practical and conservative. You can keep personal things to yourself and do not talk about others.

You have a good memory when you want to and retain all you've learned. Your qualifications sound like a good office worker.

Dear Lucille:

Would you please send me an analysis of my handwriting. I have always wanted to have one so could not resist your advertisement in the paper.

Thank you very much, Angela K.

Dear Angela: You are emotionally expressive with occasional day dreaming tendencies. You like lots of variety and enjoy much activity. You like physical activity and will accept responsibility in a small way. You have many irons in the fire so to speak.

There's sensitivity and some resentment, also a very good imagination. You're materially minded and not very conservative. In fact, there's a spendthrift tendency here. You're capable of enthusiasm and have some creative ability. There is a desire to acquire material things.

Dear Lucille: Please tell me what you see in my writing. I read your article in the paper every week and enjoy it very much. I have studied handwriting and have done my own writing many times and would like to compare your findings.

Thank you Ethel L.

Dear Ethel:

Your findings should be alike. You have rhythm in your writing and like music and the cultural things. There is some literary ability here too.

You have an exploratory and analytical mind — you delve into, tear apart, sift out and find out all you can on a subject.

There is sensitivity, some resentment and you don't like interruptions.

You are diplomatic in handling others and take pride in your work.

You have a better than average memory, ability to talk and are practical. The determination you have is flexible and can be used to your advantage in any way you wish. You apply it whenever you wish.

"When You Retire"

By JOHN BAY

HOOVER DAM: A SIGHT WORTH SEEING

LAS VEGAS, NEV. When visitors here tire of the gambling and glitter they pile into autos and buses and head for Hoover Dam. The day I joined this caravan nearly a 11 my fellow travelers appeared to be senior citizens out for a long-awaited look at the sights of our continent. It was midday and the middle of the week, and apparently just about everyone else under sixty was chained to the chores of earning a living.

Enroute folks generally stop for coffee at the town of Boulder to fortify themselves after all that sunshine and fresh air. Then they proceeded north into a terrain which becomes increasingly harsh. The ravines and crevasses look like tiny replicas of Grand Canyon — which lies some two hundred miles to the east — and the ground is so rocky and parched that even cacti and rattlers spurn it.

Suddenly you round a turn and behold a valley filled with dazzling blue waters sparkling in the sunshine and dotted with sail boats and power craft. This is no mere puddle. This is Lake Mead with a shoreline of better than five hundred miles.

The road follows the lake for awhile and then, after winding around brown, bulky boulders big as buildings you come upon the spectacle of Hoover Dam.

It's a great slab of cement plunked into a deep and narrow gorge cut by the Colorado River. As you draw closer the vastness of this dam — highest in the hemisphere and with a two lane road across the top — overwhelms you. I strolled to the center of the dam and felt pimples rise on the back of my neck as I peered over the slender railing at the acres of perpendicular concrete which slope downwards some 700 feet and hold back the immense waters of Lake Mead.

You can take an elevator to the base of the dam and thence a tour of the innards which are faced with corridors and tunnels — all spotlessly clean. The turbines and generators hum happily spun by waters which spurt past them from the lake above.

The dam provides many benefits — it eliminates flood problems along the Colorado River, it generates electricity for several million people, it assures water for irrigating nearly a million acres of very thirsty soil, and it has created out of desert nothingness a recreation area enjoyed by several million visitors a year.

When you consider that this entire project with its many-splendored benefits cost a mere $174 million when built back in the 30's — about the price of a good aircraft carrier today — it makes one ponder the magnificent things man could do in developing this continent if he didn't have to pour most of his tax money into armaments.

Symbols, rather than worded signs, were used when the populace of a country was largely illiterate. In many countries, to this day, a pretzel indicates a bakery; a teapot a room; a golden horn, a post office; from days when postmen used such a horn to announce arrival of the mail courier or wagon.

U.S. Outflow

Gold Causes Concern

By Roger W. Babson's Staff

During the past few months, there has been considerable concern over the outflow of gold from the United States. Monetary authorities advocate the swift solution of this problem through an increase in the price of gold, such a move may not be wise right now. Moreover, the primary reason for the shift in gold totals has been largely the change in the foreign trade pattern.

Throughout the long period since World War II, American exports of goods and services had exceeded imports by a substantial margin. The difference was paid for largely through the transfer of gold to the United States. This, however, was an abnormal era in world trade.

The Free World nations had no recourse but to rely upon the vast productive capacity of America for the materials necessary for defense, and for the food, machinery, and equipment for reconstruction.

Conditions have changed in the past year or so. Most of the leading countries of the world, especially Japan, Great Britain, France, and West Germany, have built up their economies to a point where they are looking to world markets for further growth.

Consequently, exports of the United States fell sharply in 1958, down 15 percent below the 1957 volume. On the other hand, U.S. imports were sustained at near-record levels. That pattern continued through the first quarter of 1959. This drastic shift in our balance of trade largely accounts for the drain on our gold supply.

Furthermore, the more highly developed nations have become net exporters to the U.S., being paid by us in gold; while the under developed countries receive U.S. goods largely on a loan and-or barter basis, for which we receive no gold.

In recent weeks, however, U.S. exports have commenced to pick up again. This favorable development could continue, as some of the major nations have increased their gold and dollar reserves in the past year or two. This suggests that a reversal in the downward trend of exports may be at hand which will help to ease the drain on American gold supplies.

'If Your Name Is Susan'

By ANN REYNOLDS

Susan or Sue, Susy and Susie are all names shortened from Susannah. Like many of our most cherished appellations this one came to us from biblical times. Susannah, in ancient Hebrew, means a lily. In religion and art the lily is the symbol of purity, and perhaps it is no mere chance that the story of the first Susannah is the tale of a woman falsely accused of unchastity.

Her story is recorded in a book connected with the story of Daniel, but not included in the Old Testament. It belongs to the collection called The Apocrypha. According to this Susannah was "a very fair woman" brought up strictly by god-fearing parents, and married to one Joachim, a very rich man in Babylon.

His house and garden was the social center of the best people in the city. Among the daily visitors were two recently appointed judges who held court there. These two oldsters were wicked men; they had taken on too much of the Babylonian ways. Susannah's great beauty inflamed them with violent passion, and each looked eagerly for an opportunity to meet with her alone.

It seemed best to surprise her in the garden; she used to spend there some time every day. Once when all the other guests left, the two judges hid among the bushes. Discovering each other's presence, they decided on a common strategy.

The day was teeming with heat. They watched Susannah sending her two maids away to fetch her bathing things — oil and washing balls — and to lock the garden door. While the maids were absent, all of a sudden, Susannah was faced with the two old men. Should she not submit to their wishes, they threatened, they'd accuse her of having kept company with a young man.

Trusting in the Lord to save her, Susannah refused their offer. And so on the mere words of the judges she was condemned to suffer according to the law provided for a guilty woman. The Lord heard her prayer, and inspired young Daniel as the means of bringing help to her. He reproached the people for their folly of permitting her to be sentenced without thorough investigation, and proceeded to cross-examine the two old men. Where was it that Susannah had her first with the unknown young man? Under a mastic tree, said one. Under a holm tree, said the other. Now Daniel knew they had been lying. Susannah was saved, and the two false witnesses were put to death.

Susannah's dramatic plight was one of the most often depicted subjects of the great masters. Rembrandt, Rubens, Tintoretto, Murillo and others recorded the story of that voluptuous beauty with their brushes. (Want to know about your own and other names? FOR SAFER MOWING

NEW YORK (UPI)—Warning that modern high-speed power lawn mowers can be dangerous, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness offers these suggestions for home gardeners using them:

Wear safety glasses; remove stones, sticks, wire or other loose debris before mowing; see that children, other onlookers and pets remain at a safe distance; do not remove any object from the mower until the power is turned off and the blade has stopped.

Oil Lamps Lighted Plymouth Streets Starting in 1880

Thursday, July 2, 1959

THE PLYMOUTH MAIL

(This is the fifth in a series on the history of Plymouth written for the Plymouth Historical Society in 1930-31 by the late Mrs. Nettie Dibble)

By Mrs. Nettie Dibble
The first committee to investigate street lights in Plymouth was appointed January 4, 1880. On June 30, 1880 the first purchase of 15 oil lamps and posts was authorized and a man by the name of Knapp went around with a step ladder every night and lighted the lamps.

The electric lighting plant was built in 1903, located on the F. & P.M. near the Daisy Mfg. Company, and began operations in January, 1904, with one consumer.
The Detroit Edison Company purchased the old electric plant in the summer of 1916, when there were sixty-five street lights. Boulevard lights were installed from Mill Street down Main and South Main Street, on Penniman Avenue to Harvey Street, around the park in front of the school house and on Liberty Street from Starkweather to Mill in the fall of 1914; South Main Street from Ann Arbor Street to the village limits in the summer of 1922.

The monument in Kellogg Park facing Main Street was the gift of H.E. Bradner in July, 1917, and was unveiled Sunday, September 9, 1917.
The Post Office was built on 2nd class on July 1, 1914. City Carrier Service started October of 1917.

Riverside Cemetery was established by ordinance February 3, 1880. It consisted of twenty acres and cost $1,000. Several more acres have been added.
The old Presbyterian Cemetery was opened in 1828. The church lot and cemetery were donated by William Starkweather.

The question of a cemetery in North Village came up in 1844. A cemetery society was formed and a constitution adopted. About one acre of land was purchased July 30, 1845 for $75. The first twelve members of the Society gave their joint deed for the land. The Society was known as the Plymouth Village Cemetery Society and anyone buying a lot became a member of the Society. The first twelve were A. Green, J. Brearley, J.J. Lyon, L. Hudson, A. Bradner, J. Miller, Second, W. McKay, W. Lockhead, M. Newman, Wm. Markham, Alfred Shattuck, and Henry Colton, who was the first sexton.
The lowest price of lots was $2 and there were 120 in all.

On June 20, 1891, it was voted to turn the grounds over to the Common Council of the village of Plymouth. The Society could no longer maintain itself. Most of the bodies have been removed to Riverside, as also were the bodies from the Presbyterian Cemetery.

On a map of 1860 of Plymouth is shown a plank road from Church Street down Main to Mill Street and then down Plymouth road toward Detroit, and a plank road from Mill and then down that street to Northville. A Toll Gate was kept by J.J. Covert at the corner of Main and Mill Street. It was voted July 10, 1872, to do away with this Toll Gate.

The blockade plan does not include the Upper Peninsula because the area has relatively few highways over which escape can be attempted.

The agencies decided to draft the plan following escapes by criminals who were able to cross the state border ahead of the blockades set up on spur-of-the-moment decisions.

Michigan's First, Second, Third and Fourth Regiments had more than 4,000 troops in the battle area, according to a report by the Michigan Historical Commission.

At least 30 Michigan National Guard troops are expected to represent the state in the re-enactment that will be the start of a four-year Civil War centennial observance.

Floyd Haight, chairman of the Michigan Civil War Centennial Commission, said the uniforms will be provided by Ladies' auxiliaries of state guard units.

"Mr. Haight and his commission have been promised the full cooperation of state agencies and I am confident that an equal degree of support will be forthcoming from civic-minded groups in all parts of our two peninsulas," Williams said in a letter to the Virginia governor.

The Michigan troops participating in the original battle came from throughout the southern half of the Lower Peninsula.

The Second and Third Regiments, which were assigned to cover the retreat, came from Detroit, Hudson, Battle Creek, Adrian, Niles, Flint, Constantine, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Saranac, Lansing, Lyons and Muskegon.

The First Regiment, which had heavy losses in the battle, had units from Jackson, Coldwater, Manchester, Ann Arbor, Burr, Ypsilanti and Marshall.

The Fourth Regiment had men from Monroe, Adrian, Sturgis, Ann Arbor, Hillsdale, Hudson, Tecumseh, Jonesville, Trenton and Dexter.

STATE OFFICIALS are turning their attention back to another war—World War I.
A bill has been introduced in the legislature by Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson) to allow a World War I infantryman to collect a $100 service bonus that has been denied to him 42 years.

Ross M. Hall, 58-year-old Brooklyn, Mich. factory worker, lied about his age and signed up for service in 1917 at the age of 16.

The Army didn't get around to giving him his discharge papers until 1946, which was well past the deadline for applying for the service bonus.

Now Nichols is asking the state to give Hall special consideration.
A NEW DEVELOPMENT in Michigan's modern day war against criminals is now in use.
A new Michigan law enforcement blockade plan was put in effect June 25 following a study by the Michigan State Police, the Michigan Sheriffs Association and the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police.

"It marks a distinct advance in the methods formerly used to apprehend fleeing criminals and is believed to be the only plan of its kind patterned on a statewide basis," a joint announcement by the enforcement agencies said.

Under the plan, 253 agencies were given a predetermined schedule of blockade points to cover.
"More than 50 additional agencies will free lance" on the roads when needed to assist or relieve at control points in their areas.
The minutes saved as well as the improved coverage is expected to result in many apprehensions which formerly were frustrated, the joint announcement said.

Michigan Men to Re-enact The Battle of Bull Run

BY ELMER E. WHITE
MICHIGAN BLUECOATS will be on hand for the centennial observance of the Battle of Bull Run.

Gov. G. Mullen Williams has announced plans to send a contingent to help re-enact the Civil War battle that ended in a disastrous rout of the Northern forces.

Michigan and 23 other states were invited by Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond to send troops to Virginia in July, 1961, to re-enact the battle known in the South as the First Battle of Manassas Junction.

Although the battle ended with Northern forces in a rout, the fighting men of Michigan distinguished themselves in covering the retreat.

Michigan's First, Second, Third and Fourth Regiments had more than 4,000 troops in the battle area, according to a report by the Michigan Historical Commission.

Don't "Check" With Red!
Red Johnson, owner of the local hardware store, likes to keep business simple—"pay as you go," says Red.
Recently, to emphasize the point, Red had a sign painted for the store window in big red letters, it read: "Please—absolutely no checks accepted—pay in cash only."
When the sign painter had finished the sign, he delivered it to Red and named his price—ten dollars. "Very reasonable," said Red. And the next thing you know he was handing the
