Symphony Festival
Honoring Handel
To Close Sunday

The Plymouth Symphony will present the second in its series of two concerts honoring the death of George Frideric Handel this Sunday, July 12 at 6 p.m. The concert will be given at the shore of the pond on the farm of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Pino, about two miles west of Plymouth off Joy Road.

Music-lovers looking for a sylvan setting to the accompaniment of fine music will find pleasure on both counts. The concert, under the direction of Wayne Dunlap, will be performed by 70 members of a string orchestra.

Mr. Dunlap will be assisted by Miss Virginia Person, soprano and Mrs. Joyce Begarian, harpsichordist, and by Emily Mutter Adams and Nathalie Dale, violinists, and Douglas Marsh, cellist. Starting at 6 p.m., when cool breezes blow through the willows, the concert is over by 8 p.m., giving the audience and performers the advantages of the late afternoon light plus the evening coolness, should the weather be warm.

Expect Opening
Of Sessions
Hospital Soon

Sessions Hospital will soon re-open following purchase of the building by two men.

Many Plymouth people used Sessions in years past but it has been virtually closed in recent months because it was without a maternity license and failed to make improvements as specified by state hospital inspectors.

New owners of the hospital are Dr. Howard L. Bergo of Northville, medical director of Maybury Grand Hospital in Detroit, and Abraham Faris of Detroit.

It is expected to have the institution re-opened by Aug. 1 following remodeling. Within three years, the 30-bed hospital may possibly be enlarged to 80 beds, the new owners said.

George Handel is most famous for his towering oratorio, the "Messiah," but during his long productive life, he wrote music for many kinds of audiences and a variety of texts. His church music, his chamber music, his organ and violin works and those written for full orchestra are all still regarded by both critics and music lovers as the finest flowering of the Baroque era.

Although a German by birth, Handel eventually settled permanently in England, after having absorbed the musical traditions of his native country and of Italy, then a leading musical nation. He was a famous and successful man during his life, living the life of a court gentleman and fine musician. The music being played the world over during this anniversary of his death 200 years ago gives some idea of the fondness which still surrounds his life and music, if only in memory.

The program will include a Suite from the opera "Serse"; Concerto in F Major, Op. 3, No. 6; for Harpsichord and strings; Concerto Grosso in E minor, Op. 3, No. 3; "Look Down, Harmonious Saint," a Cantata for Soprano and String Orchestra; and Concerto Grosso in D major, Op. 6, No. 5.

The opera "Serse" was not a successful production at its introduction, but over the years, some of the segments (those being performed here among them), have come to be loved as some of the most melodious music ever written. This work was written directly after Handel's stay in Italy and the influence of the lyricism of that country is clearly demonstrated in the music.

This work will be sung by a soloist of wide experience in the Detroit area, Miss Virginia Person. She has sung with the Detroit Symphony.

CHARGED with the job of expending over $2 million of tax money each year is this group of seven people, the Plymouth Community School District board of education. Two new members joined the board Monday night and new officers elected. From left, sitting, are Vice-President Robert Soth and President Esther Hulsing. Standing: Trustees Harold Niemi, Peter Zylstra, Jr., and Wesley Kaiser; Secretary Harold Fischer and Treasurer Charles Zoet. Niemi and Zylstra are the new members.

More High School Discussion

It's 'Madame President'
Now at the School Board

Plymouth Community School Board of Education members elected Mrs. Esther Hulsing as their new president Monday night and her first task was to preside over a three-hour session that involved the two newly-elected members who are far from in accord with former members over the high school situation.

How to fairly compare the costs of building a new high school with the cost of enlarging the present building were discussed at length by the newly re-organized board.

Officially taking their seats on the board Monday night were Harold Niemi and Peter Zylstra, Jr., elected by voters last month in an election that committed the two men to favor the high school additions rather than the new building.

First on the agenda was the election of officers. Elected with Mrs. Hulsing as president were Robert Soth as vice president; Harold Fischer as secretary; and Charles Zoet, treasurer.

This will leave Zylstra, Niemi and Wesley Kaiser as trustees.

During the past year, Mrs. Hulsing had been secretary, Fischer was treasurer and Soth and Zoet were trustees.

Pupils Interested In Community College

By PAUL CHANDLER

If a Community College were available today in northwestern Wayne County, 72 percent of the high school students "would be interested" in attending it after high school graduation.

Of the seniors who departed this June, 70 percent would have been interested in such a college.

Such a school isn't available yet, of course, but the statistics which were released this week will add impetus to a project which has been forming for many months.

The data came from survey questionnaires sent home with every student in grades 10 through 12 in Plymouth, Livonia, South Redford, Redford Union, Clarenceville and Garden City.

These six districts jointly have been exploring the community college subject. Their general aim has been to combine to build and finance such a college somewhere in the area, if the need for such an institution could be assured, the financing found feasible, and the legal machinery provided.

(A bill which would enable the six districts to bind together in a "community college district" passed the State Senate Tuesday night.)

(It previously had swept through the House by a unanimous vote, but the margin was 18-15 in the Senate. It had been resisted there by a Republican bloc on a couple of technical points.)

Now goes to the governor for signature. The bill was prepared by Lonnie Brashers, former Livonia school board member and was introduced by Rep. Harvey Beadle of Redford Township.)

"Would you be interested in attending a community college if one were located in northwestern Wayne County?" was a key question on the survey. Through the entire district, in all three grades, the answer was 2,596 "Yes" and 1,028 "No."

Taking the 1959 senior classes by themselves, the margin was 565 "Yes" and 257 "No."

"Community College" is a modern term to describe for such an institution could

Mrs. Hulsing, who lives at 1010 Church St., is the second woman to preside over a Plymouth school board, according to available knowledge. Mrs. Sidney Strong was a board president in the early 1940's. Women have served on the board almost constantly for decades but men have held the top job most of the time.

The new president was elected to the board in 1954, was re-elected in 1957 and her term will expire next June.

The mother of three daughters, Mrs. Hulsing is not the first in her family to head the school board. Her husband, Kenneth, was elected to the board in 1947 and was president in 1949-50. He was also treasurer and secretary of the board.

The new members, Zylstra and Niemi, have replaced James Mitchell and Austin Stecker.

One of the items on Monday night's short agenda was a report on negotiations to purchase a site for a new high school. The former board has been trying to negotiate for a 39-acre parcel along Ann Arbor Rd., west of the city near Canton Center Rd.

Administrative Assistant Melvin Blunk told the board that he had not heard from the property owners, Miss Pauline Peck and the estate of Charles Bennett.

It was at this point that the new members began their job of being "filled in" on the Kneeling on the dance floor with an open bottle of whiskey at their side, two masked gunmen hammered open a safe at the new Thunderbird Inn on Northville Rd. early Monday morning and escaped with $8,000 in cash.

Wayne County Road Patrol detectives are still working on the case.

Three night-time employees of the restaurant and cocktail lounge were locked up at gunpoint during the robbery and one of them was bound.

It was 3:15 a.m. Monday that Walter Kleinschmidt, 60, of 14680 Northville Rd., and James McGill, 60, of 15119 Northville Rd., were sitting in the kitchen having a coffee break from their clean-up job. A fellow employee, Frank Bowers, 4400 Beechmont, Detroit, was in the basement.

Suddenly two masked men, armed with snub-nosed revolvers and wearing gloves, appeared in the kitchen and used the usual wordage: "This is a stick-up." They had broken into the Thunderbird by prying off the lock on a glass door on the south side of the main dining room.

They found Bowers in the basement and herded the three men into the men's wash room upstairs. Warning the three employees not to leave the washroom, the bandits used a sledge to hammer open the office door.

They rolled a small safe down the hall and stopped in the wash room again. The youngest of the two pulled some cord and a piece of dog chain from his pocket and tied Bowers' hands behind his back. Running out of cord, they debated what to do next.

"I know what we'll do," Kleinschmidt quoted one as saying. "We'll lock them in the furnace room."

Kleinschmidt said that the older bandit did most of the talking, but seemed rather polite.

The three were put in the furnace room and a two-by-twelve plank was used to prop the door closed.

"They told us not to call police," Kleinschmidt declared, "and that they would call the police later to let us out. Of course, I didn't believe them."

The bandits apparently then went upstairs, wheeled the safe to the dance floor. There is a deep gouge in the floor where they worked. From the bar was taken a bottle of whiskey which they presumably partially consumed as they hammered with a sledge and punch.

It was around 5 p.m. that the three employees decided that the gunmen had left. McGill, a small man, crawled through a hole in the ceiling of the furnace room and dropped into a wash room next door. He then let the other two out.

Kleinschmidt then phoned Walter Smith, owner of the Thunderbird, while McGill phoned the Road Patrol.

Around $8,000 was taken by the bandits, detectives reported. Another $2,000 in cash boxes was missed. Insurance covers the loss to about $6,000.

Thunderbird Inn opened its doors in April. One of the bandits wore a red handkerchief over his face, was 5 foot 7 and weighed about 150 pounds. The other wore a blue stocking cap over his face, stood about six feet and weighed about 200 pounds.

Outdoor cooking, sometimes described as America's "fastest growing family sport," will be the subject of a unique "clinic" in the parking lot of Stop & Shop supermarket in Plymouth at 7 p.m. on Monday, July 13.

Stop & Shop is collaborating with Swift & Company in the "Mr. and Mrs. Patio Picnic Cook Book" edited by Martha Logan, home economist.

Miss Polly Cleland, a member of Miss Logan's staff and a Home Economics graduate of the University of Minnesota, will conduct the appetizing clinic here.

Installation of walk-wait signals at two downtown intersections has been started by the Wayne County Road Commission's Signals Division.

The signals, which will indicate to pedestrians when to cross the street, will be located on Main St. at the Peniman and Ann Arbor Trail intersections.

Posts are being erected on all four corners of the intersections for the lights. In addition, there will be two traffic lights at each intersection instead of one. The double lights will make it easier for motorists to see the lights, especially at Ann Arbor Trail where the road is quite wide.

'Twas a Big Day
For Plymouth
On the Fourth

Plymouth's "big day" is over and most of those who have witnessed July 4th celebrations in the past have agreed that last Saturday's was perhaps the biggest and best.

Uncounted thousands of people lined Main St. for the afternoon parade. There were also crowds at the carnival and for the evening entertainment.

Michigan's governor and lieutenant governor were both in town for the celebration.

Sponsors of the event, the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce, have termed their efforts as "highly successful." Except for the fireworks which went off earlier than planned (See News Beat), everything met up to expectations.

Plymouth Kiwanians were in charge of the parade and this event was especially praised by spectators as better than ever. It took almost an hour for the parade to pass. Starting promptly at 2 p.m., it moved north on Main St., led by a color guard and Lt. Governor and Mrs. John Swanson of Plymouth.

Floors, horses, antique cars, beauty queens, marchers by the hundred, musical groups, clowns, elephants, wild animals — all were part of the procession on the bright and warm afternoon.

It was the youngsters from the playgrounds that perhaps stole the show with their original themes such as "Battle of New Orleans" and two boys dressed as a mother pushing a baby in a buggy. Their sign read: "Wheels of the Future."

The 20 girls who competed in the Miss Plymouth contest rode in convertibles led by the contest winner, Roxanne Smith (Miss Cassidy's).

While the July 4th celebration as a whole was "better than ever," there were many youngsters disappointed because the fireworks were touched off at 9 p.m. instead of 10:30 as advertised last week in The Mail. General Chairman Jack Young explained that the fireworks had originally been scheduled for 9 p.m., but was changed to 10:30 a week before the Fourth. Somewhere along the line the word of the change failed to reach city firemen who were in charge of setting off the display. City Hall switchboard was flooded with calls and The Mail got some heated letters and calls Monday Young said that he wasn't on the grounds at 9 and no one was more shocked than he when rockets started to boom.

TREE REPORT: The State Forestry Dept. has completed its search for Dutch elm disease in the city and has ordered 18 trees destroyed. Samples of sev-

Roxanne Smith Named Miss Plymouth

New Queen Wears Crown

By Karla Herbold
"I had no idea... I was waiting for them to call up the next girl," admitted pretty Roxanne Smith, as she exchanged her title of Miss Cassidy's for that of Miss Plymouth.

She waited onstage calmly, certain that the attendants would number five. Actually, there are four in the court.

Betty Argo, Miss Herald's Cleaners; Kathy Morton, Miss Pizza Pete; Pat Blackburn, Miss Rexall Drugs and Sharon Budd, Miss Stop & Shop. "When Mayor Guenther said my name, I was really happy and surprised," Roxanne said. She was crowned by Miss Plymouth '58-'59, Janet Spigarelli.

For the July 1 evening section of the contest, the newest Plymouth beauty queen wore a white moire taffeta ball gown with a green cummerbund. In the afternoon section, she chose a black bathing suit with white-trimmed straps. Interviewed by WHRV announcer Don Mulally, she displayed her shy smile and poised manner.

The twenty girls were judged on four criteria, with five points per judge given. Bob Hitt, Livonia bowler, and two servicemen, Sgt. William Allen and Petty Officer John Park were judges, along with the radio announcer.

Roxanne, a dark-eyed blonde, will graduate from Plymouth High this coming spring. She plans on attending University of Michigan to study Elementary Education, minor in her favorite hobby of music. The French horn section of Plymouth band claimed Roxanne as a member (she doubles in piano and drums) and she has sung first soprano in the choir. To become a member of Triple Trios is her next goal.

Daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Wilson, Joan Wilson of Six Mile Rd., will be among the 2,000 teen-age delegates to the 1959 National Convention of Future Homemakers of America, July 13-17 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. Joan and 60 other FHA'ers were chosen by the State FHA association to represent Michigan at the National Convention. They will be accompanied by Miss Margaret Lofink, who is a member of the state home economics education supervisory staff. The five day convention planned and carried out by the teen-agers themselves, will give Michigan delegates opportunity to exchange ideas with FHA'ers from all states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Theme for the convention "Blueprint for Action," is planned to help delegates find ways to use their new individual program of work for 1959-60, through which they will emphasize developing their potential abilities, understanding family members, knowing the value of home economics education, and promoting good will at home and abroad.

Town Hall News

At the Monday night Board Meeting for Salem Township a resolution was made and supported as to the time of office for the Fire Chief and Assistant Fire Chief. Resolution was: "Be it resolved that the terms of office for the Salem Township Fire Chief and the Assistant Fire Chief run concurrently, for two years, with that of the regular Township Offices, and that the election of a Fire Chief and an Assistant Fire Chief, by the members of the Township Fire Dept., take place at the first regular meeting of the Township Board in April after the Township Biennial Election and that the results of such election be presented to the Township Board for their approval. Further be it resolved that the members of the Salem Fire Department meet with the Township Board at its regular meeting in August of 1959 to elect a Fire Chief and an Assistant Fire Chief to a term of office ending in April 1961. Further, be it resolved that if at any time the firemen feel dissatisfied or aggrieved with their choice of leadership, they may seek an interim election by a two-thirds of its membership petitioning the Township Board for such interim election."

Leon Holman will be the caretaker of the Township Hall starting in September.

Richard McKinley will be the new Civil Defense Director in Salem Township with Ferman Rohraff as Assistant Director.

The appointment was made of Roland Brengle, Sr. to finish the unexpired term of Office of Justice of the Peace in Salem Township.

A price of $2.00 was agreed upon for additional applications of salt brine on the road to reduce the dust, per home or business frontage. William Scheel will take care of this.

Building Permits issued by Building Inspector Frank Hugg Sr. were as follows:

May: Three permits for new homes were issued totaling $29,000. Two permits for new garages. One permit for new additions totaling $2,500.

June: One permit for barn $2,000; permit for repair of barn $500; permit for new foundation for home moved in, repair and improvement $4,000; two permits for additions total $1,800.

Washtenaw County Clerk Luella Smith and Washtenaw Treasurer William F. Verner, Chairmen of the Washtenaw County Tax Allocation Board, were informed last week that the Michigan State Tax Commission had accepted an appeal of the Tax Rate allocated to Salem Township.

Salem Township officials had previously announced they would appeal the final allocation of .59 mills it received. Edward W. Kane, secretary of the State Tax Commission, said the commission accepted the appeal from the final order of the Washtenaw County Tax Allocation Board pending an investigation to determine whether the allocation has "inherent in it a material mistake of fact, fraud or error of law."

He added if the commission finds such a mistake it will issue an order setting the final allocation after a hearing has been held for all interested parties. Salem Township was successful last year in appealing its allocation to the state commission. The Township is seeking at least one mill tax rate.

The Fourth of July was welcomed with a great celebration in Plymouth. Many Lake Pointers viewed the spectacular fireworks from their front porches or back yard patios. The children with their sparklers and noisemakers lent a feeling of a real old fashioned Fourth. The majority of Lake Pointers stayed safely at home and celebrated the grand day with parties in their own backyards.
Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bretz of Robinwood Drive are feeling especially happy these days. Mrs. Bretz's son James Keith has recently returned home after spending two years in the Navy in Germany. Jim has many interesting stories and adventures to relate, and has slides and pictures of the many places he had an opportunity to visit during his weekend leaves. Jim will be busy entertaining his friends and relatives when he hasn't seen for such a long time. While Jim was in Germany he owned a Volkswagen with which he toured the countryside. On his return to this country Jim bought another Volkswagen, so if you see this little car passing through the Village you will know who its happy owner is! Jim is returning to Lawrence Institute of Technology this fall where he will continue his studies in the field of engineering.
Ken and Mary Jane Cook of Oxford Drive had a whirlwind weekend recently. Mary Jane's brother was to be married in South Dakota on Sunday. The Cooks had only the weekend to spare so they traveled 1,100 miles in 25 hours! They left on Friday and returned again on Monday in time to have Ken back at work. Mary Jane's brother, Donald Tellows was married to Helen Hembel and the wedding was beautiful, as

Pictorial Account of Plymouth's July 4th Festivities

PLYMOUTH'S MAIN STREET on Independence Day each year attracts crowds of thousands and most agreed that this year's parade was the best ever. Pictured are the Knights of Columbus, one of the many organizations taking part in the parade that lasted nearly an hour. It was a bright, sunny day.

Pete); Sharon Budd (Stop & Shop), Queen Roxanne; Pat Blackburn (Beyer's Rexall Drugs); Betty Argo (Herald's Cleaners); last year's Miss Plymouth, Janet Spigarelli; and Mayor Guenther. The other four contestants served on the court.

SOME YOUNG children thought this was a Santa Claus but he is Plymouth's Peter Kozol, 7425 Sheldon Rd., who each year appears with a horse in the July 4th parade. He is shown with a friend, Rene Terry, 642 Forest Ave.

HURRAH for the red, white and blue. This young miss waves her American flag as the parade moves down Main St.

PLYMOUTH Business and Professional Women's Club showed the various professions of a woman in their float. It included an organ (left), nursing, secretarial work and beauty shop operation.

SINGING "Battle of New Orleans," this group of Hough-Truesdell playground children marched down Main St. to delight the spectators. They are gathered around a canon.

A FAMILIAR FACE and a polka-dot tie make it easy for anyone to recognize G. Menen Williams, Michigan's governor who was a guest here Saturday. He addressed a crowd on the carnival grounds and dined at the Hotel Mayflower.

MICHIGAN'S NO. 2 public official, Lt. Governor John Swainson and his wife, Alice, were parade leaders following the color guard. The Swainsons are residents of Plymouth.

DELIGHTING the youngsters were two baby elephants which plodded down Main St. in the parade and later performed on the carnival grounds behind the high school. Many children had their pictures taken on the back of the elephants.

PLYMOUTH Theater Guild won first prize trophy with its "Toy Shoppe" float. It contained a toy maker and puppets, escorted by wooden soldiers. When the puppets and soldiers ran down, the toy maker would jump down and wind up the big key on the miniature car ahead. The Guild is an annual prize winner.

SECOND PLACE in the float competition was won by Charles Guideau, local plasterer, who each year presents an outstanding float. The Old North Church and the book opened to the Paul Revere ride story had the theme of "Freedom Lights." Shown are Donald, Chuck and Gayle Ann Guideau.

BELLES from beautiful Hawaii went into their dance in the parade. Actually the lovely young lassies were part of the Cherry Hill playground group.

DISTINGUISHED bandmen from the "Old Country" delighted the crowd with their German numbers. Decked out in old time band uniforms of all descriptions, the German Band played on a truck.

It Was a Big Holiday for Both Young and Old

LARGEST of the floats was the Our Lady of Good Counsel Teen Club float which depicted the past when there was war and the present when there is the teaching of God's word. It was constructed like a ship.

PLYMOUTH JUNIOR police told the parade audience of their program through a float showing archers and riflemen.

A THRILLING RIDE on a miniature roller-coaster was given children at the carnival. There were a half dozen kiddie rides offered.

Mileage Records Broken on Green Meadows Resident's Vacation Tours

By KATHLEEN DODDS
GL. 3-3085

We read recently that the average vacationer clocks some 1700 miles on a vacation. So when Mrs. Bench (the James Benches on S. Main) called to tell us about their vacation and said that Mr. Bench had clocked it at 3000 miles, we were all ready to put it down as something of a record-breaker. Until we heard from Mrs. Cunningham (the Russell Cunninghams of Ball St.) about their vacation. The Cunninghams, we hear, covered 3500 miles! We're sure that two such mileage marathons establish a real record — at least for the Green Meadows area.

The Benches, with son Jim, Jr., and daughter Kathy, started their trip the 15th of June and returned the 30th, covering the 3000 miles in 15 very pleasant days. Their first stop was in Traverse City, where they visited a cousin of Mrs. Bench's, Mr. and Mrs.

Tommy Hummel. They crossed to the Upper Peninsula via the Mackinac Bridge and on the UP side of Lake Michigan enjoyed a lakeside picnic. After an overnight stay in Green Bay, Wis., the Benches continued to Chicago for a visit with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Phillips. In Springfield, Ill., the family visited the home and tomb of Abraham Lincoln, and in Hannibal, Mo., visited his mother, Mrs. Mary Locke. Their return trip was made via the Indiana Turnpike. It was a very satisfying trip for Mr. and Mrs. Bench, she said, seeing, as they did, their old friends. And when we talked to her, Mrs. Bench, like most mothers, was suffering the aftermath — the family laundry! But happily so!

The Cunninghams, with their son Dale, made their two-week circuit in the other direction, ultimately Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada. Their first stop was in Montreal, and then to Quebec, where they arrived in a crush of people awaiting the arrival of the Queen and the President. From the plains high above Quebec, where they went on a guided tour, they were able to view the Seaway and saw the Queen's yacht, the Britannia, out in the river. They visited the Cathedral of St. Anne de Beaupre and had breakfast nearby in a French home that was 200 years old. From Quebec, where they had fun practicing their French, the Cunninghams continued to the Gaspe Peninsula, New Brunswick, which they especially liked, and finally to Halifax. To begin the return leg of their 3500-mile trip, they returned to St. John's, New Brunswick, and continued down through Maine, New Hampshire, and Connecticut. In Ridgewood, N. J., they visited a cousin of Mr. Cunningham's, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter and son Bob. This was a particularly happy reunion, since the two couples hadn't seen each other in 20 years! They returned home via the turnpikes, and Mrs. Cunningham told of the number of Howard Johnson restaurants that dotted the Pennsylvania 'pike. They began their trip June 20th and arrived home the 3rd of July, and to listen to Mrs. Cunningham tell about it was almost as good as taking the trip personally. She said they took about eight rolls of 35 mm. pictures, and are looking forward to seeing all the slides. Should provide happy moments on the long evenings this winter!

Mr. David Francis of Brookline celebrated his 65th birthday on the 29th — he and Mrs. Francis spent Sunday afternoon with their son, Mr. and Mrs. David Francis, Jr., at their home in Lake Pointe Village where they all enjoyed a lovely afternoon snack. On Tuesday, Mr. Francis retired from Barnes-Gibson-Raymond after 26 years of service, most recently as a grinder. At his retirement he was presented with a certificate of appreciation by the company. Mrs. Francis said he had no immediate plans made, except to rest for a while.

Mavis Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams of Brookline began work Friday at the Huron Mountain Country Club near Marquette in the Upper Peninsula. Mavis visited friends and relatives in Iron River, and stayed with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Pangrazi in Marquette, for two weeks prior to starting work. She will be counselor for three children from Detroit whose parents are vacationing at the club. Mavis returns to PHS this fall as a senior.

Guests Wednesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ackman at their home on Oakview were Mrs. Mabel Kelly from Chicago, Mr. Paul Hockenberry from Rogers, Ark., and Mrs. Harold Plant from Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer of S. Main were hosts Sunday afternoon to 88 people for the annual Paul J. Weidman Inc. potluck picnic. The employees and their families enjoyed various lawn games following dinner, with the children particularly interested in the swimming pool. Mrs. Palmer said there were 18 children in the pool at one time. On Saturday evening, the Palmers attended the wedding and reception of a friend in Livonia.

Mrs. Robert Cunningham of Marlowe returned last week from a two-month vacation, during which she visited her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis, in Rogers, Ark. On her trip, Mrs. Cunningham went to Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Bella Vista, Ark., the Boston Mountains, near the Ozarks, Eureka Springs, Ark., and many other points of interest. The Harold Davis' accompanied Mrs. Cunningham home from Rogers and while here, enjoyed many family activities. On Wednesday, the Davis', Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham and son Larry, and Miss Sandy Davis of Wayne drove to Niagara Falls, where they spent the day sight-seeing. On Friday, the Davis', the Cunninghams, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Nipp and children of Marlowe, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Nipp of Mill St., Mr. and Mrs. Glen Nipp of Inkster, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Nipp of Northville, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edelman of Sheldon Rd., enjoyed a family picnic in the park. The Davis' returned to Rogers Saturday morning.

Mr. Earl Fulton of Northern graduated from Eastern Michigan College at Ypsilanti on June 13th. He received his Bachelor of Science degree and teaching certificate. Mr. Fulton will teach seventh grade mathematics next year at Haston Junior High School in Dearborn.

Mr. and Mrs. Nile Gladstone of Brookline attended his PHS class of '49 reunion Saturday night. About half the original class attended the activities at the VFW Hall, and enjoyed the dancing, buffet lunch, and, of course, much reminiscing about high school days.

Lee Huber, of Columbus, Ohio, spent the weekend of the Fourth with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Huber at their home on S. Main.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Johnson of Marlowe spent the Fourth of July weekend with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Strachen at their home on Walled Lake. Joining them during the holiday weekend were the Johnson's son, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur White from Dearborn, daughter Mr. and Mrs. P. Miller of Dearborn, daughter-in-law Mrs. Rose White and sons Gaylord and Douglas from Detroit, and daughter Mrs. Camilla Stone from Long Island, N.Y., for a family gathering at the Lakeside.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kinghorn and son Donnie of Brookline enjoyed a bar-b-que Saturday afternoon in the backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Denski at their home in Lake Pointe Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Leader of Elmhurst took his wife and three children to Iron River last weekend. He returned last Sunday and Mrs. Williams and the children remained to visit her mother, Mrs. Rose Gurchinoff in Iron River for three weeks.

Midget Baseballers, 8-13, Start Six Week Season

The Midget baseball players, ages 8-13, rolled into high gear as they started their six week game schedule.

June 29th was the first game week as the little players spent the first four days in organization. Out of those first days came two age divisions, 8-10 and 11-13, and eight teams.

These eight teams break down into four squads for each age division. With high school boys serving as coaches. All eight of the coaches were chosen by supervisors Gus Gorguza and Mike Hoben to assist the younger ball players on the basis of baseball experience and leadership ability.

Each team has a name and a certain time to play, starting at 4 p.m. and lasting not more than five innings or an elapsed time of one hour and fifteen minutes.

At the game the coaches serve as the umpires. The teams were selected from a master list, with the team coaches bidding for the players wanted. Each coach was given 20,000 point credits to bid with, on the most desirable players. This bidding was done at a closed meeting with the two supervisors.

This is the same team selecting system used in the National Little League Association. Some adjustments were made in the system where needed to cover the Plymouth needs.

Errors, not the Teamsters' team, stopped the Plymouth Merchants from winning Sunday afternoon on the Northville diamond.

The Plymouth Merchants were forced to take the short end of an 11-2 score. As in the previous two games, Ken Kisabeth pitched Sunday he remained on the mound for the nine innings allowing ten hits, while striking out eleven and walking three.

Most of the local players were equipped with two left fielders. Not helping matters, was the hard ground that sent the balls bouncing as if they had been hit on cement.

On Friday, the regular practice night, the Merchants had looked good. But the curse of the Northville field remained. It was there that Stockwell received his broken leg, in the Redford game.

The first and sixth innings were the two major trouble spots with the Teamsters collecting three runs in the first and five in the sixth.

While Plymouth was tagged for ten errors, the Teamsters managed to chalk up only a zero in the same column, plus ten hits and eleven runs.

Teamster pitcher Hedger allowed Plymouth eight hits and the rest of the team held Plymouth to two runs.

The Teamsters are now under the management of Doyle Dodd, a former Wayne league manager.

Bouford was the local Merchants' leading hitter, collecting two triples for the afternoon's activities.

This Sunday, Plymouth will travel to River Rouge as they attempt to get back on the winning trail.

PLAYGROUND ACTIVITY
This summer vacation there are eleven supervised playgrounds where the children can find constructive, off-the-street play areas.

All the areas have a leader to organize the varied age youngsters for activities suited to their talents and limitations.

Last week the children reported to the playground to register. Allen, for example, had a registration of 174. Average attendance for the first week was 64.

Every week there are special activities, from pet shows to flying of model air planes. At Starkweather a softball team was formed.

Below is the Arts and Crafts schedule which may or may not be effective for the rest of the summer vacation. The duration of the program depends on the attendance.

You All Come -- to the Newburg Methodist Church Bar-B-Que

MRS. EMIL LAPOINTE
GA. 1-2029

Mr. and Mrs. Don Ryder of Ann Arbor Trail, Mrs. Henry Grimm and Mrs. Raymond Grimm, both of Wayne Road, attended the 50 wedding anniversary celebration of their brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ryder in LaGrange, Ill. on the weekend of Sunday, June 28. While in LaGrange, Donald Ryder suffered a heart attack and since arriving home has been advised by his physician to remain rather inactive for a while. Cards of good cheer would be most welcome at the Ryder residence at this time.

We did it again. I mean the Newburg Wonders, baseball team sponsored by the Newburg Methodist church's Men's club won their fifth ball game on Tuesday, June 30, by beating Rosedale Garden's Presbyterian church, 11 to 6. It was a real rough tussle all the way and it looked for a while that Newburg had met its match, but they emerged victorious again. Their next contest will be on Tuesday, July 14 at 6:30 p.m. with St. Paul's Presbyterian church at the Botsford school diamond, located at the end of Lathers street, north of Seven Mile road and east of Middlebelt. Let's all get out and cheer for the home team.

Back from their northern Michigan vacation are Mr. and Mrs. James Greenwood and children Denise, Debbie, Kim and Jamie of Newburg road. The Greenwood family spent two weeks vacationing at Rice's resort near Traverse City and while there, visited with many friends and relatives as well as watching the veteran's parade and viewing a pageant depicting the past history of colorful Traverse City.

Attention all you gals of the Joy road Canasta Clan, Tuesday, July 21 is the day and date for your next get-together and the meeting place is at the home of Mrs. C. A. Overmyer on Ravine drive. Please advise your hostess if you will not be able to be there so she may have ample time to secure a substitute. Time, 8 p.m.

On Thursday, July 16, the Good Neighbor club will meet for their annual potluck picnic at the tennis courts in the Edward Hines parkway, near Haggerty road. Time for meeting will be 7 p.m. Come and bring your friends. This is for ladies only and they plan a real festive time.

I can smell something "cookin'". Must be that delicious chicken bar-b-que at the Newburg Methodist church, Ann Arbor trail and Newburg road. Be sure to tell your friends and relatives and neighbors. Saturday, July 11 is the date and chicken will be served from 4 to 8 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 for adults for 1/2 of a chicken and for children 1/4 of a chicken at 75c per ticket. Included in the menu and price of ticket will be a vegetable, beverage and dessert. Sounds like a good time will be had by all. If the weather man should fail to cooperate with the folks at Newburg and it should rain before noon of the appointed day, the event will be postponed until the following Saturday, July 18. Either way, remember the good, old fashioned chicken bar-b-que and join in the fine fellowship afforded by the Men's club of this church.

Graham Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett of Stark road, has been spending the past week visiting in Oklahoma. The primary purpose for the trip Graham was to be best man at the wedding of one of his friends he met while serving his two year hitch in the Army.

Guests in our home on the evening of the fourth, were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Weiss, Sr. and Mrs. John Bennett. Like us, they spent the day working and then joined us in the evening for ice cream and refreshments. I'm being neglected and I feel awful bad. Newburg News is rather small this week, but that's because you haven't been calling me with your news. I can tell by all the sun-burned faces that some of you must have had some sort of outing over the Fourth of July weekend. Just twirl that old dial, GA. 1-2029 and let's hear all about your activities. See you next week?

State-wide competition of the Department of Michigan. The team consists of: Color Guards -- Jack Olsaver and Ed Olson; Color Bearers, Bud Krumm and Ray Dano. No one but the team and commanding officer, Hal Young, realize that practice and hard work that go into producing a winning team. We are proud of these boys and wish them the best of luck in future competition and in the National contest to be held in Detroit in 1961.

Newly elected Department of Michigan Post Officers were as follows: Fred McDaniel, Dept. Commander; H. L. Barr, Jr. Vice Commander; and Zigmund Cybulski, Jr. Vice Commander.

Our Auxiliary has the distinction of entering the first Ladies Auxiliary Drill Team in the Pageant of Drums competition and at present have the only Drill Team in the state of Michigan. They were presented with a beautiful trophy, which is on display in Linda Lee's window. Credit for organizing the team goes to Marion Krumm, who had always hoped our Auxiliary would someday sponsor a drill team. The team is also grateful to Dolly Bouterse who is their Drill Instructor. Without her training, they could not have been successful and earn the score of 90 points!

The girls have worked on various social functions to earn the money for their new uniforms and they are grateful to the people of Plymouth who attended these functions. The team is comprised of the following girls: Gertrude Dano, Marion Krumm, Dolly Bouterse, Marion Skoglund, Loretta Young, Betty Krumm, Le May Smith, Bernice Kopenski, Aileen Williams, Beverly Brown, Pat Mecklenburg, Dolores Olsaver, Mary Jane Schwartz, Marion Warner, Bette Neale, Geraldine Olson and Aileen Williams. New classes are forming for any Auxiliary members who wish to join the team. Please contact, Chairman, Marion Krumm.

The new Dept. Auxiliary President is Alice Roach with her Senior Vice President, Dorothy Sterling, and Jr. Vice President, Ruth Gallagher.

Those attending the convention enjoyed the week-end and look forward to 1960 Encampment in Saginaw.

Summer is vacation time, but please don't forget regular attendance at Post and Auxiliary meetings! We need your support!

Plymouth admirers of green grass can sprinkle their lawns to their heart's content for there is no shortage of water in the city. Audrey Neale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Neale of Plymouth, was recently chosen as "Miss Champagne Music of Detroit" by orchestra leader Lawrence Welk.

Russell Ammerman, superintendent of the Northville Public schools has gone gold hunting again. With a group of "prospectors" the educator is now up in the mountains of Montana where he went last summer trying to pick up the trail of numerous bags of gold believed to have been stolen and hidden a half century ago by bandits that never returned to get their loot.

Three Plymouth students, Louis Vargha, oboe; Jerry Corey, bassoon; and Marilyn Walsh, alto clarinet, were awarded first chairs at the Baldwin-Wallace band clinic in Berea, Ohio, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jariett of Las Vegas, Nevada, are spending the summer months as the guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. William Farley on Adams St.

A resident of Plymouth, Mrs. James Hunt is the only lady driver at the Jackson Raceway in Jackson, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harlow and children, Hilda and Jimmy, visited their parents in Glasgow, Kentucky, over the holiday weekend.

Miss Thuan Chen, who received her masters degree from the University of Michigan in June was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Johnson of Church St. St.

Mrs. Hazel Stitt of Spring St. and her granddaughter, Brenda Jewell are spending a week at Traverse City.

The water battle between the Plymouth and Northville fire department was by far the most exciting event of the July 4th celebration. Northville was delayed by a couple of minutes in getting a stream of water upon their adversaries, but were game to the end. Both sides were all in when the order to lay off was given and the feat was declared a tie. On Plymouth's team were: Roy Lane, Albert Stanible, Meritt Hanchett, Lee Passage, Ed Bolton and Fred Wagenschutz.

The shirt tail race was won by Roy Lane, first; Charley Stevens, second and Asa Lyon, third. The quarter mile race was won by Stevens first, Goodale, second and Lyon third. The egg race afforded plenty of excitement and was won by Goodale. Lane came in second and Stevens third.

Mrs. L. C. Schroder was pleasantly surprised last week when she was invited to come from her home in Farmington for a visit with Miss Grace McGraw. Upon arriving she found a group of her friends there who gave her a surprise linen shower.

Not much of any business was transacted by the village council at their meeting on Tuesday evening. A few more crosswalks were ordered put down, a retaining wall was ordered in front of the Ed Chase property on Main Street and the matter of approving the water tax roll was put off until a special meeting to be held tonight.

phony, the Detroit Little Symphony and in productions of operas at the University of Michigan and elsewhere in Detroit. Her most recent appearance was in the premier of "Eastward in Eden" by Jan Meyerowitz.

Joyce Beglarian, harpsichordist, will appear in the Concerto for Harpsichord and Orchestra, Op. 4, No. 6. Mrs. Beglarian is a resident of Plymouth and a musician of wide training both on this wonderful old instrument and on the organ, flute and piano. There are few works that gave the listener more of a feeling of the musical life of a period than those which she played on the forerunner of the piano, the harpsichord, and Handel's music for this instrument is among the liveliest in all musical literature.

The two other works on the program, both from Opus 6, will feature the solo appearances of Emily Mutter Adams, Nathalie Dale and Douglas Marsh. These soloists are regular members of the Plymouth Symphony and artists of wide training, both in the United States and Europe, and are greatly admired by followers of the Plymouth Symphony. Of the Concerti Grossi (twelve) included in Opus 6, one noted critic of Baroque music, Manfred Bukofzer, has pointed out, these works represent "the highest level of baroque entertainment."

There were cash prizes given for playground participation. Hough and Truesdell's Battle of New Orleans theme won an $8 prize. Second of $5 went to Auburn and Hamilton; $3 third to Bird and $1 honorable mentions to Smith, Cherry Hill, Allen, Central, Gallimore, Starkweather and Farrand playgrounds.

Prizes were also given for the most children in the parade in costume. They were: first, Gallimore; second, Bird; third, Farrand.

On the carnival grounds behind the high school, there were many attractions to keep children and adults busy. A huge tent displaying the wares of local merchants attracted throngs.

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Plymouth Township's hopes for a major water supply have taken a turn, the events hinging on developments in downtown Detroit, where many things happen which affect our local lives.

Until recently, the Township has been thoroughly encouraging Wayne County in its project to provide a new, independent water system apart from the City of Detroit's.

This is the one which would have its inlet down-river near Trenton, and upon which work started months ago. (It got into the papers this week when a big underground tunnel caved in at the Lincoln Park area.)

Now, however, the County and City have reached a sort of peace, and the plan is for the City to take over the separate County system, even before it's finished. The legal papers haven't been signed, and there's a lot of political swaps being made on other matters, but the deal seems to be set.

Those who a year ago were furiously insisting that the County "go it alone" now have swung to "Detroit can handle the job quite well."

What it means, however, is that water could arrive in the Township much earlier than it would have under the old separate County plan.

If nobody disturbs the appellation, the City of Detroit appears ready to run two giant mains east to west across Livonia into Plymouth Township in 1960. This would furnish water to mushrooming Livonia, and also bring it into our locality.

Detroit says it has plenty of capacity on its present system to make this extension, without waiting for any new system to begin pumping.

All of which has some local political implications, too, which are a little too complicated for me to want to ravel through on this hot day.

What do you think of the political mess in Lansing?

There's a question which is put to the Editor several times a day, the subject being extremely stylish in inner political circles.

Aside from everything else which has been written by the pundits, the thought which captivates me is the downright strange political "strategy" which is involved.

Here are rival political parties battling in the streets and gutters for the "privilege" of getting credit for a new tax which could mean either the political suicide.

If the Democrats prevail, then we'll have a new income tax. There is no human way this could be anything but despised by the voters, and the GOP foes would not miss the opportunity to point out which party was to blame for it.

And on the other hand, if a new sales tax is dropped upon the good citizens, the Democrats would have a megaton of ammunition to use in pointing out that their Republican foemen had succeeded in stealing tax money from the common man.

Yet they fight for the privilege of "winning" this contest.

We do have some late "inside" information. It is that a compromise is being shaped in Lansing along these lines—

The Democrats will settle for a higher sales tax rate.

But the sales tax will be removed from all food items.

New excise taxes are being drafted to cover such items as industrial processing, agricultural processing, radio and TV, commercial advertising, hotels, and a few other items.

One of the proposals, perish the thought, is a new 4 mill levy against "newspapers."

And then, the GOP will agree to a small state income tax.

It's a long way from the cup to the lip, but some significant progress was made this week toward a Community College for our area. The college is a vital plank in this newspaper's editorial platform.

Aside from all the other matters touched upon in the survey, there is a phase to this potential college which we regard as important from many points of appraisal.

There is a growing realization in this country that we are short of experts in electronics and that our facilities for training men in that field are sorely limited.

Likewise, it is known that Michigan absolutely must find another field of production and interest other than automobiles. Electronics is the growing, obvious place to spread into.

Hence, our citizens could do worse than insist that the western Wayne County Community College—if it's built—stress the subject and try to gather a reputation as the finest electronic preparatory school in the midwest.

Pastor Scheffer officiated at the double ring nuptials in Zion Lutheran Church, Ann Arbor, before an altar graced with white mums, daisies and pale blue delphinium and ferns. Soloist, Charles Burr of Ann Arbor sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gown in a bouffant peau de soie with a chapel train. Pearl and sequins on lace were inserted at her sash neckline. A matching cap held her fingertip veil. Her cascade of white roses, orchids, stephanotis and blue delphiniums.

Mrs. James Nelson of Gary, Indiana, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in white dotted swiss over blue taffeta. She wore a small blue flowered hat and carried Talisman roses and daisies. Pat Williams of Pontiac, Janet Britsch of Munson, Michigan were bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses, white with a blue sash and carried yellow roses with daisy chains and ivy.

Brother of the groom, James Nelson, was best man and Bob Chamberlain of Newago; Bill Borden, Pontiac; and Walter Wilczewski of Plymouth ushered for the groom.

Mrs. Robinson greeted guests in the church parlors after the ceremony. She was in a blue lace, wearing white accessories and a corsage of white roses and stephanotis. She was assisted by the groom's mother gown in a blue organza with marching accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations and rose buds. Guests were from Plymouth, Northville, Grosse Pointe, Clawson and Lincoln Park.

After a wedding trip to Wisconsin, Minnesota and a stop at Grand Rapids, the

Former Plymouth High Graduate Wed in Wayne

United in marriage in the First Baptist Church, Wayne, Judy W. Smith and Archie W. Wynne will reside in Goodland, Kansas.

The bride, a 1958 graduate of Plymouth high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Smith of Wayne. Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wynne of Trenton, Missouri.

A flowered archway fashioned of white gladioli and greenery formed the setting for the candlelight double ring service. Organist Miss Lois Ardelean accompanied soloist Stuart Meissner who sang "Christian Wedding Song" and the "Wedding Prayer" for the young couple.

The bride was becomingly gown in white Chantilly lace designed with a scalloped square neckline on the fitted bodice, with wrist-pointe sleeves. Her floor length skirt was made with a straight front panel with side effects of tiered ruffles and ended in a chapel train emphasized by a double tulle, back bustle. A royal princess tiara held the fingertip veil of French illusion and she carried a cascade arrangement of white and pink roses. Her only jewelry was the groom's gift, a pearl necklace and matching ear rings.

Serving as honor attendant for the bride, Mrs. James Smith of Ypsilanti wore a gown of turquoise silk organza and white lace with a cummerbund of matching silk organza. A matching tulle picture hat, the bride's gift of pearl necklace and earrings and a cascade bouquet of yellow daisies completed the ensemble.

Mrs. Dixie Monroe of Wayne, sister of the bride,

Mr. and Mrs. Arche W. Wynne

Miss Nancy Jo Noss of Ypsilanti, Miss Joan Johnson of Plymouth and Miss Janet Campbell of Wayne were bridesmaids in identically styled gowns to that of the honor attendant. The colors of their gowns were aqua and frosty pink and they also wore matching picture hats, contrasting bouquets of aqua and pink daisies and the bride's gift of pearl earrings and necklace.

Flower girl, Terry Lynn Benson of Garden City, niece of the bride, was a tiny replica of the senior attendant in her aqua ensemble. She carried a basket of yellow daisies and wore the pearls that were presented to her by the bride. Carrying the rings for the ceremony on a heart-shaped pillow was young Michael Monroe, nephew of the bride. Robert Burkeybile of Trenton, Missouri was best man. Ushers for the wedding were Charles Smith of Wayne, brother of the bride; George Smith of Fort Wayne, Indiana, another brother; Benny Wynne, brother of the groom; and James Smith of Plymouth.

Mrs. Smith greeted guests in the church parlors following her daughter's wedding ceremony in a dusty rose crepe with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Wynne wore a light blue street-length dress with white accessories. A corsage of pink roses completed her outfit.

DECISIONS, decisions, decisions. One thing is certain—all three of the young ladies above are going to college. Joy Kalmbach, Sally Jo Mathias, and Lois Austin have been awarded scholarships and are making fall plans. Lois received the Jerry McCarthy Scholarship to Cleary Business College in Ypsilanti. This is the third year in a row that a Plymouth High student has received this scholarship. Sally Jo was granted the Plymouth Student Nurse Scholarship Fund for use at Wayne University—the three year course is through Grace Hospital. Joy Ann Kalmbach was chosen by the Business and Professional Women's Club for their grant because of "her interest and determination to be dedicated to serving humanity". To equip herself for this aim she will attend the Providence Barrington Bible College in Rhode Island and continue another three years in nurses' training to become a Medical Missionary.

To Women It May Concern

By Myra Cox, Women's Editor

No doubt each of us from time to time have some highlight experiences that make the daily humdrum of "toting that barge, and lifting that bale" worthwhile.

Way over in England Allyn Highfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O.H. Williams, Ann Arbor Trail, won the doubles championship at the United Kingdom Women's International Bowling Tourney at RAF Station, Mildenhall which is a U.S. Air Force Base. This tournament was open to all wives or dependents of military personnel stationed in England. The tourney consisted of three events, singles, doubles, and teams and lasted three days. Allyn, the wife of Raymond Highfield, Captain in the USAF had fun being a good Plymouth Ambassador, ex-ficio I would say.

Still on the subject of England, Plymouth, Michigan was again remembered by Plymouth, England. Thursday, July 2 Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Evans and family spent an enchanting day in the company of their nephew and cousin, Leading Writer to the Admiral of the Royal Yacht, Britannia, Mr. Bernard Pilbrow. He escorted the Plymouth family over the Britannia docked in Windsor, Canada. He was granted leave for the afternoon and was their guest for dinner at Thunderbird Inn. He rejoined his ship later that evening. A real pleasure and highlight for the Evans family.

All of us might share in the highlight of two local artists that have won recognition abroad of Plymouth. Mabel Bacon's abstract impression "Nuclear Fission" won first honors in the oil-painting division at the recent Kessler-Buick Regional Art Show in Detroit, and Mrs. Jessie Hudson, Scottish born Plymouth resident for her mosaic "Sea Fossils" is on exhibit in the Student Show at Eastern Michigan University Galleries in Ypsilanti. Both of these local ladies plus other artists of the Three Cities Art Club have paintings available to see and to buy at the Early American Shop, 621 S. Main which is a most delightful place to browse—second best to a trip through Greenfield Village with less walking mileage. I stopped in to "look around" and stayed right through a dentist appointment without realizing it (I think).

Long to be remembered by three young Plymouth Misses Sally JoAnn Mathias, Joy Ann Kalmbach, and Lois Austin will be the letters they received awarding them college scholarships. Their respective benefactors, no doubt, received a thrill that may be realized only by the pure joy of giving. They are the Northville and Plymouth Student Nurse Scholarship Fund; the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club; and the Jerry McCarthy Scholarship Fund.

Congratulations to Roxanne Smith (Miss Cassidy's) on one of the highlights of her life, being selected Miss Plymouth for the festivities over the past weekend. Her attractive, demure attire, as well as that of the other contestants in complete good taste won them a BOUQUET this week from Rev. Francis C. Byrne, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel, and we quote:

"My sincere congratulations to those in charge of the Fourth of July Parade last Saturday. For the first time in the last six years I was able to view the parade without embarrassment. In my opinion and, I think, in the opinion of the majority of decent citizens of our community, a beauty queen should be dressed as a queen, and not as a swimmer or diver."

Engaged

Karen Ellen Stevens

MR. AND MRS. Harold W. Stevens, 473 Adams, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter Karen Ellen to Otto W. Bufo, U.S.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto M. Bufo of 625 Irvin, Plymouth.

Karen is a '59 graduate of Plymouth. Otto, a 1958 Plymouth graduate and is now stationed at M.A.S. Pensacola, Florida. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

TO SAVE INDIAN CHURCH
MASHPEE, Mass. (UPI)—A 275-year-old Indian church, now in dilapidated condition, may be preserved as a historical shrine.
Civic leaders and Chief Flying Eagle of the Mashpee have joined in a campaign to raise $20,000 to restore the 27-pew church. The structure was built in 1684 with lumber hauled through the Cape Cod Wilderness from the Plymouth Colony.

Plymouth Bride To Reside In Chicago

Mr. and Mrs. David N. Weiss

In a double-ring ceremony, Sharon Jo Smith became the bride of David Norman Weiss on June 27 at 7:30 in the evening at the Calvary Baptist Church. Rev. P. O. Clifford and Rev. Norman Weiss, father of the groom, officiated.

Parents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Smith, 11676 Butternut Ave., Plymouth, and Rev. and Mrs. Norman Weiss of Buffalo, New York, greeted reception guests from Toronto, and London, Ontario, Florida, Buffalo, New York, Detroit and surrounding area of Plymouth.

The bride chose a lovely gown of imported Chantilly lace which cascaded into a chapel train while the groom's dress was in tiers of tulle ruffles. Her sapphire necklace was lightly covered with pearls and sequins while her pointed sleeves extended over her wrists. A cascading bouquet of pink and white roses with some stephanotis and a white orchid in the center made up her bouquet. A crown of pearls and sequins with a fingertip veil of illusion completed her outfit.

Mrs. Charles Blackwell of Chicago, the former Ann Knipschild, was the matron of honor. She was gowned in a rosebud pink silk organza dress with an empire satin sash and bow. Her cascading bouquet was of blue carnations, while her short gloves and eyebrow veil matched the color of her dress.

Identically gowned were the bridesmaids, Seneth Thompson and Connie Stenzel, in Paris Evening Blue gowns with cascading bouquets of pink carnations.

Emily Weiss, cousin of the groom, was the little flower girl. Her dress was of rose-pink also with a miniature bouquet of blue carnations.

The groom asked his brother, Bruce Gordon Weiss, to be his best man.

Kenny Weiss, cousin of the groom, Richard Weiss, brother of the bride and Charles Blackwell, served as ushers.

The mother of the bride chose an ashen of roses lace dress for the wedding while the groom's mother wore a blue flowered chiffon dress. Both wore white accessories and their corsages were white carnations and pink roses.

The new Mrs. Weiss chose for her going away outfit a white linen sheath dress with a pink satin cummerbund and pink accessories. For her corsage she wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Following their honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls the newlyweds will reside at 5339 N. Winthrop in Chicago.

Christopher Course

Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church recently completed the second Christopher Course given for parishioners. The purpose of this course is to train speakers over a nine week period, so that at the conclusion of the training period, the men and women are able to express themselves on Christian subjects without the fear of making mistakes.

At the conclusion of this last session, Mrs. Edna Herig was sent to the speech finals in Detroit, and returned with an award as an outstanding speaker. Her topic for consideration was "speaking with an object".

San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge was dedicated in 1937.

A COFFEE PARTY WAS held at the home of Mrs. Betty Packard on Penniman Avenue last week for the Plymouth Membership Committee of St. Mary Hospital Guild. The committee and their guests discussed the current membership drive. Charter memberships were available until July 1, 1959. Plans were discussed for the big Rodeo that is to be sponsored at the MRA Race Track by five Guild areas—Plymouth, Livonia, Farmington, Redford and Northville. It will take place September 26 and 27 and tickets will be available soon. The Guild has aspirations of earning the main part of the money at this event to purchase the dishes, silver and linens for the St. Mary Hospital that will be opened in November in Livonia, serving the above areas. ## Barbara Jean Decker, Donald Brown United Escorted down the aisle on the arm of her father, Barbara Jean Decker became the bride of Donald Brown Saturday, June 27.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Decker of Warren Road, Plymouth, chose a floor length nylon tulle over white organza with a sweetheart neckline accented with seed pearls on the front and back panels. A charming lace waist-length veil matching the gown was caught by a crown head piece trimmed with seed pearls. Her illusion sleeves were banded at the elbow by matching lace that was repeated at the hem and neck edge of her gown.

Peacock blue and petal pink were the colors chosen by Barbara Jean for her honor attendant Miss Merry Eve Grady and bridesmaid Miss Marge Hines. Miss Judy Ann Brown, sister of the groom, fulfilled her duties of flower girl in a peacock blue floor length organza dress with matching crown and veil. She carried a basket of white carnations and pink rosebuds.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brown of Adams St., Plymouth, chose his brother Bernard as his best man. Paul Decker, Jr. and Gerald Grady served as ushers.

Guests from Ohio, Indiana, Port Austin, Fremont, Plymouth, Garden City and Wayne honored the young couple at a reception in Canton Township Hall following the ceremony at General Baptist Church.

After a honeymoon in northern Michigan the young couple will make their home in Plymouth. Both are graduates of Plymouth High School.

Madam President

MARGARET FRENCH

Newly elected President of the Vivians Club, Mrs. Margaret French is married and has four grown children. She has lived in Plymouth since 1943 and although has only been a member of the Vivians for two years, is thoroughly dedicated to this auxiliary unit of the Lodge of Elks, No. 1780.

Lending assistance to activities of the Elks, the Vivians (wives) have been organized in Plymouth since March of 1952. They are a charitable and social club. There were 38 charter members and today they have a membership of 115. One of the first projects planned by the new president is to have a membership drive because there are 800 eligible members, (membership of Elks).

Their meetings are held the second Thursday of each month in the beautiful Elks Hall on Ann Arbor Road. The charities they support from funds raised through dances, card parties, and auctions are the Community Fund, Muscular Dystrophy Drive, March of Dimes, supplying wheel chairs for local crippled children; giving two local scholarships for music students for Interlochen Music Camp, and lending support to the Elks major project for handicapped children; they supply volunteers to work at Maybury Sanatorium and assist at Elk functions. They also sponsor a Girl Scout Troop. One of the highlights of their season is the Harvest Moon Ball which will be their first social function for the fall season.

North To Adventure

Many Delights On Great Lakes Cruise

By LESTER BARTSON III

"All ashore who are going ashore! The S.S. SOUTH AMERICAN will sail in five minutes for Midland, Ontario." Thus began an exciting Great Lakes trip for the writer and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frans DeVleeschouwer of Plymouth, on the gleaming white cruise ship SOUTH AMERICAN of the Georgian Bay Line.

We might easily have been sailing for Hawaii instead of the cool pine forests of the North as the ship pulled gracefully away from her Detroit dock. With whistles blowing and band playing gaily happy passengers lined the rails, showering the well-wishers on the pier below with confetti and colorful streamers.

After a delightful sail of Lake St. Claire the ship glided slowly down the river of the same name, passing St. Clair Flats, a resort area where the many boat canals giving access to fine summer homes have earned for it the nickname "The Venice of America."

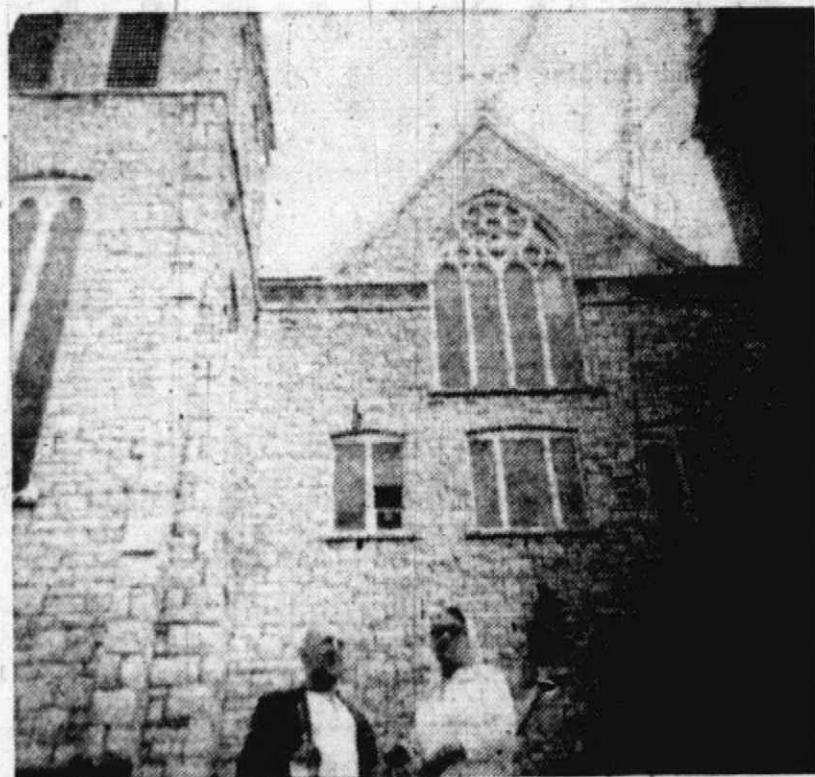

Towards evening the Blue Water Bridge connecting Port Huron and Sarnia rounded into view—a shining gateway to the vast expanse of Lake Huron. After a brief stop for oil at Sarnia to satisfy the ever hungry furnaces—the "SOUTH" has a room for 70,000 gallons—we proceeded out into the steadily darkening swells of the Lake.

As the sun went down it became increasingly cooler on the open decks and most passengers, except for a few who were too captivated by the mesmerizing effect of the moonlight on the glistening waves, gathered in the grand salon for entertainment by the ship's fine orchestra.

Later, after all the excitement and wonderful events of the day, the comforts of the cosy, homelike staterooms were especially inviting. While her hundreds of passengers dreamed peacefully, the SOUTH AMERICAN sped on through the night, faithfully carrying them to their destinations of pleasure.

As Sunday morning dawned the "SOUTH" was steaming majestically through the entrance to Georgian Bay, a vast body of water surrounded by the wilderness of northern Canada. After cruising through the fascinating Thirty Thousand Island area we arrived at Midland, one of the small towns which dot the countryside and is only a short distance from one of the most anticipated features of the itinerary—the hallowed Martyr's Shrine.

A large number of sightseeing buses were on hand to accommodate the crowds of passengers streaming forth from the ship. After a short ride the Shrine church came into view. This majestic edifice, erected at the foot of a lovely hill in a rustic interpretation of the French Gothic style is a fitting memorial to the Jesuit missionaries who labored among the Huron Indians during the middle 1600's, tragically meeting martyr's death at their hands.

Inside the magnificent church are many relics of the saints while the graves of some are on the grounds. A number of cures are thought to have been worked through pilgrimages to the shrine and the intercession of the martyr saints, a fact which is attested by the many crutches placed in gratitude near the altar.

Adjacent to the church is a replica of the famous Lourdes Grotto where pilgrims may light candles and pray for special intentions. The Grotto is at the beginning of a beautiful stone walk leading uphill past the outdoor stations of the cross—fourteen bronze statue groupings depicting the passion of Our Lord. At the twelfth station, on top of the hill, one has a view of the surrounding country for miles. It was truly inspiring to view the church below, seen against the lake studded forest that has changed little since the missionaries were there, while its lovely chimneys rang out across the hills reminding all that this is truly "an abode of peace and prayer."

Returning to the ship after a scenic drive through the area surrounding Midland, we again experienced the thrill of sailing. Rarely do big passenger liners call at Midland, and hundreds of townspeople were on hand to see the glamorous white leviathan make her departure.

Soon Midland faded from view and activities aboard ship again commenced. Dinner was an eagerly anticipated occasion, for the popularity of Georgian Bay Line cruises is probably due to the delectable cuisine more than any other factor. The superb culinary creations and the gigantic portions in which they are served never fail to impress even the most experienced traveler. All pastries are prepared in the ship's own bakery and are hurried to the table right from the oven. A surprising variety of meats and fish are on the ever-changing menu as well as an array of than one realizes, as we observed when treated to a close look as the birds glided near the ship.

On our last evening out we attended the festive Captain's Dinner in the gayly decorated dining room. Party hats of all colors awaited us at the tables, as did the particularly extravagant menu. The ship's photographer took pictures of the groups at each table, so that they could have a permanent record of their good time.

Even the elements joined in the spirit of gaiety as the sun dropped into the limitless expanse of lake, bathing a few slender clouds in absolutely indescribable colors of purple, rose, orange, red and lavender, while the water took on a hue of deep blue and violet. A few hours later the heavens again outdid themselves with a magnificent yellow full moon and myriads of silver stars shining down on the lake, where glassy waves resembled black patent leather.

That evening there were more activities in the grand salon—this time in the form of a carefully planned treasure hunt. Seventeen of the passengers were wearing some peculiarity such as a mis-matched shoe, a man with a painted fingernail or earrings, a woman with no nose and a painted seam, and many others. Searching for these people, who had mingled with the crowd, involved much hilarity. When a hunter found a person with one of the oddities on the list issued beforehand, he asked his name and placed it after that item. Prizes were awarded to the first group of people to have correctly completed lists.

Breakfast the next morning was our last meal aboard, after which we went up to the promenade deck to watch the entry into Detroit harbor, and the docking.

All too soon the time had come to bid farewell to friends made during the voyage, and everywhere people were saying goodbye before disembarking. Yet there was no sense of finality to the event. There seems to be a magnetic charm about the lakes, as well as the SOUTH AMERICAN herself, whom we had all come to know so well. Few people who have sailed with the Georgian Bay Line and have experienced the joys of its cruises fail to return. As I walked around the deck for the last time I heard said many times "Maybe we'll see you again next year."

With regret we bade goodbye to the SOUTH AMERICAN. She had carried us over sparkling waters to the holiness of the Martyr's Shrine, evoking thoughts sublime, to the quaintness of Mackinac Island, and had welcomed us to her own wonderful gaiety, instilling in all of us something of her warm spirit. She was our good friend and we could never forget her.

An Efficient Kitchen Is The Answer To A Happy - Homemaker

By ELEANOR CARROLL

Are you daydreaming these days about a new home? Have you been out on Sunday tours looking at the lovely models available, the level, the ranch style, and the "ever popular" colonial?

A great deal of interest and clever planning by professional designers has gone into planning the family room, just delightful. So nice to "save" the living room—have it nice looking when company drops in, a real time saver for the lady-of-the-house. Yes, the family room is an asset—children may relax, and enjoy reading, watching TV, cutting out pictures and all within eyesight of mama—they do not feel cut-off as they often do in recreation rooms in basements (which are still ideal for parties). It's nice for papa too—to kick off his shoes, enjoy relaxing with his paper and perhaps refreshment in a disreputable but most comfortable easy chair—in the winter months a cozy fire completes the picture of father and children enjoying the atmosphere of the architect's latest triumph.

But where is mother? Mother, oh she is still in the kitchen, most neglected, antique place in the house—true they have painted them attractive colors, wallpapered them, have glossy surfaces on cupboards and sinks, and have put in many push button ideas for convenience—but the lay-out and planning of efficient kitchens has still been sadly neglected considering the giant steps taken in other rooms of the nest.

Some are beautifully planned. In the custom built home efficiency in the kitchen may be the key-note. However, in the millions of homes across the nation the kitchen is sadly neglected. A place for stove, refrigerator, cupboards, sink—all placed in the most advantageous spot—to save the most money for construction—that is phooey from the standpoint of the little women that have to get the meals—(we still have to eat—the age of pills for food has not yet arrived) this is still where the little woman spends the bulk of her time.

Statistics from home economists say 3 million kitchens are badly planned. They should be at least 100 feet square, patterned in one of four basic types: U-shaped, L-shaped, corridor or one-wall.

The most popular for the sake of efficiency is the U-shaped. The U-shaped is the most popular with the experts because it has the shortest work triangle—the distance from the refrigerator to the sink to the electric range and back to the refrigerator. The sink is in the middle of the U with the stove on one side and the refrigerator on the other.

Another advantage of the U-shaped kitchen is its adaptability to an eating area in the kitchen, a must for every family. The eating area primarily by a window is ideal, but not always possible. A wonderful substitute, if not sometimes an improvement, are the picturesque murals now available of beautiful spring days, snow-covered mountains, or mysterious ocean scenes—all large and lifelike—and an ideal view with your meals depending on your desires.

One homemaker expressed her reason for selecting a sun-drenched sandy beach that stretched for miles, seeming somewhat less than desirable for one's kitchen, as being perfect for her because she came from Florida, married a New Yorker and was a "cave-dweller"—only going to Florida for two weeks in the winter to enjoy what she had been used to all of her life—and seeing only a small patch of sand occasionally at Coney Island. When asked if this mural made her homesick she denied this and said it had just the opposite effect—it gave her the feeling of having her cake and eating it too, because many things about New York she had come to love and the sandy beach of Florida (her first love) was where she managed to spend one-third of her day—in her kitchen. Of course Mrs. Young - Married - Living - In - New York did have a sweet disposition and a vivid imagination.

If you're thinking of redoing your domain or building a new home, cut out pictures of kitchens and pieces of furniture of those that intrigue you, scale them down, arrange and re-arrange and imagine yourself cooking, planning meals, doing dishes, cleaning out your refrigerator, cleaning your cupboards, baking, putting away the groceries, serving a family meal, getting ready for a party, fixing a snack, and all the other things you do in the kitchen. You'll come up with the ideal arrangement and be in the small percent that does have the ideal kitchen.

Seeds Still To Be Sown This Summer

The most important seeds to sow in summer are those of biennial and perennial plants. Fresh seed is available in July. It can be sown then or postponed until after vacation so that the delicate seedlings won't be neglected.

Pansies, sweet william, English daisies, Canterbury bells and Iceland poppies will flower late next spring or early summer from seed sown this summer. The tall hollyhocks and foxgloves probably won't bloom until the second spring. Most of the biennials are finished after their one season of bloom, so it's desirable to sow seeds every year to maintain these favorites.

All of the perennials that are easy to grow from seed wait until the second summer to flower, but then they go on year after year. For those that are reasonably easy to grow, certainly a packet of seeds is the least expensive way to obtain a good supply of plants.

Delphinium, columbine and lupine are perhaps easiest of all perennials to grow from seed. But pinks or carnations, perennial candy-tuft Alyssum saxatile, Shasta daisies and painted daisies (pyrethrum), Oriental poppies, gaillardia and baby's breath are others worth trying. Only one kind of phlox, Beltsville Beauty, is successfully started from seed.

Sow one packet or one kind of seed to a pot and keep it in the coldframe or in a part of the garden which is sheltered from wind and sun and is convenient for watering. It may take some perennials as long as three weeks to germinate, seeds of biennials are more prompt. Fill each pot with a mixture of sifted soil and sharp sand, press seeds into the soil or cover lightly with vermiculite, which is sterile, and label.

The coldframe is an ideal incubator for both seeds and seedlings. There they will have protection from drying sun and wind. Soil in the pots should be kept constantly moist, but not soggy.

When seedlings have developed their second pair of leaves, they need more room to grow. It's time to transplant. Enrich the soil with a 5-5-5 fertilizer in part of the coldframe or mix a pile of garden soil, compost or leaf-mold plus a little sand and fertilizer and sift to fill small individual pots for each seedling or flats in which they can be spaced two to three inches apart.

If there's no coldframe, prepare a sheltered place in the garden in which to space cut the seedlings or to line up flats or pots. Wherever they are, they'll need to be watered and weeded regularly.

By late September or early October, you'll have to decide whether the seedlings stay where they are until next spring or are to be transplanted this fall to the places where they are to flower.

NOW IS THE TIME to sow seeds of biennial foxglove and perennial columbine for bloom next year.

HOW DO YOUR ROSES GROW?

Some gardeners miss the fun of growing roses because they've heard roses are too much trouble. Actually, they demand surprisingly little attention in exchange for a garden and house-full of blooms from June through October. Once planted, they are as permanent as shrubbery and their wants are quite modest.

For perfect blooms, a rosebush needs only four things: a mulch of peat moss to keep root temperature constant, water as required by the weather, a plant food treatment in mid-summer and dusting or spraying once a week or after each rain.

Dusting against insects and diseases is no longer a chore. It takes only a minute to treat a rose bush with an insect-killing powder, or spray infected areas with a handy aerosol insecticide. Regular treatments are important if you want to ward off insects before they make headway. Japanese beetles, chafers and leafhoppers are the most common insects that attack roses.

Fungus diseases get their start when foliage is wet. They disfigure blooms or foliage and stunt plant growth. Danger signals are white, powdery mildew or round, black spots on rose leaves. If you see these signs, remove the infected parts and spray or dust every few days until the disease is under control.

SUPPER SALAD SPECIALTY

Succulent lobster and rice, always a favorite combination, can be custom-tailored to summer eating. They are featured in this Lobster Rice Salad, a cool and refreshing main dish. A dressing spiked with anchovy paste adds an unusual touch which contributes to its delightful flavor.

To save precious time, cook the rice early in the day so it will be chilled when you need it. If you cook an extra amount, try it as a cereal for breakfast. Or store the extra rice in the refrigerator to use in a casserole, soup or other mixed dish at another meal. Heating in a little water will restore the rice to its original light and fluffy texture.

To serve the Lobster Rice Salad, arrange it in a bowl garnished with wedges of hard-cooked egg and crisp bunches of greens. Crisp snacks, large frosty glasses of iced tea and dessert complete this warm weather menu.

Will Ride and Guide Food Mart Shopper Bump-proof Cartmobile

CHICAGO (UPI)—A storewife to the desired level, he architect predicts that the housewife in 1975 will travel to the food market by helicopter, tour the aisles in a radar-equipped cartmobile, and buy pre-shelled eggs in tear open plastic boxes.

She will turn her helicopter over to an automatic parking elevator, ride a sidewalkveyor into the store, and ascend to the selling area by rampveyor or circular tube lite.

If she wishes, she will be able to prepare the evening dinner in an electronic oven in the market's delicatessen department, stick it in an automatic thermal wrapper and arrive home with a piping hot meal all ready for Dad and the kids.

This view of grocery shopping, 1975 style, comes from Ralph Ernst, store engineer and consulting architect of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States.

"I'm not just pulling dreams out of the air," Ernst said. "Maybe my tongue's in cheek a bit, but what I'm talking about either is available today somewhere in industry or in some stage of development."

One thing will remain unchanged, Ernst said. That is the "horse trading instinct that's in every housewife"—her insistence that she have a chance to look, compare and select.

"Food stores definitely are getting larger and larger," he said, "so we're going to need revolutionary conveniences to make it easy for women to shop."

The store architect said high land costs will force construction of multiple-deck pigeon-stall parking lots. The shopper will drive her helicopter onto a ramp where an automatic mechanism will issue a coded card and store the vehicle.

The housewife, Ernst said, will step into a sidewalkveyor, or enclosed in a tunnel of clear plastic with a controlled temperature of 75 degrees. The moving belt will carry her, at six to 12 miles an hour, into the supermarket—probably a huge circular dome.

To get from the ground floor service area to the selling floor, the shopper will board a rampveyor or a smooth, plastic circular tube like in which the floor will

How Safe Is Your T. V. Antenna?

Your TV antenna can be a hazard, says a safety leader with the Florida agricultural extension service. The first danger associated with an antenna is the installation. A. M. Pettis said. In this age of "do it yourselfers," many home owners install their own antennas.

They do not realize the antenna may fall and strike electric lines. The 230-volt lines coming to the house can give a fatal shock, to say nothing of higher voltage lines often located near homes, Pettis said.

A person holding the metal mast or guy wire when it strikes a power line is likely to be injured or killed.

Some antennas are poorly installed and are not prepared to withstand wind. To avoid this danger, the metal mast should be fastened securely at the base and should have sufficient guy wires. Every antenna needs at least three guy wires equally spaced around the mast. Tall antennas will need more.

The television antenna can be a source of danger from the lightning. Be certain the metal mast is properly grounded by bolting a bare No. 6 copper wire to the mast and fastening the other end to a ground rod eight feet long, or long enough to reach permanently moist earth. The lead-in wire to the set should have a lightning arrester.

Pettis said that if a person uses common sense and takes reasonable precautions, his TV antenna should cause no trouble.

Baking Soda Is Handy Travel Accessory

If the family vacation this year takes the form of a motor trip, use the car's glove compartment space for the storage of travel aids.

Items that are handy to have within reach are a flashlight, supply of paper cups, napkins, a small thermos of water, band-aids, aspirin and a box of baking soda.

Soda has many vacation uses. Dry soda mixed in the palm of the hand with a few drops of water from the thermos forms a paste...to dab on a bee bite or to smooth out poison ivy, oak or sumac rash. It relieves stinging and itching.

Baking soda can clear the bug-smeared windshield. Apply it dry with a damp sponge. The windshield wipers should be cleaned in the same way from time to time. Coated with oil kicked up from the highway, the wipers will spread film over the glass; and if driving on a rainy night, lights from oncoming cars are turned into a dangerous blur.

Spills or grease stains on plastic-type car upholstery can be speedily sponge away with soda.

Stow a box of soda in your suitcase, too, for a bad dose of sunburn. Soak in a tepid tub of water with a half pound of baking soda added, before bedtime. It will relieve the soreness. Don't scrub tender skin...since soda's a mild detergent, dirt will drift away.

Canton Township Resident Recipient Of Unusual Anniversary Present

By ESTHER SPRENGEL
GL. 3-0194

The weather-man co-operated just fine over the fourth week-end and helped make everyone's holiday plans a success. Saw many of our folks at the parade, and many familiar faces taking part in the event.

I have some new-comers to the column and very happy too. So here we go, but must remind you, we need news. The John Dozier's of Beck Rd., held a family get-together over the fourth at their home. They also had two young houseguests for the week-end, Miss Janet and Betty Walters. In the very near future, the Doziers will be leaving us and moving to West Palm Beach Florida. We will hate to see them go; however, Mrs. Dozier assured us that we will be getting some very nice neighbors when Mr. and Mrs. Louis Witherby move in. We hope Mr. and Mrs. Dozier find every happiness in their new home, and will let us hear from them from time to time.

The William Russell's of Cherry Hill Rd., just returned from a visit to Mrs. Russell's parents in Atlanta, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Fulton, formerly of the Plymouth area. Their visit was not all pleasure, as Mrs. Russell's mother, Mrs. Fulton, fell recently and broke her hip and arm and is in Otsego Memorial Hospital in Gaylord, Michigan. She will be there for six weeks. Mrs. Russell expressed a hope that her friends here would write Mrs. Fulton to help shorten her stay in the hospital.

We would like to express our sympathies to the family of Doss Peer. Mr. Peer passed away recently at the St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor. Mrs. Peer and their children reside on Brookline in the Township.

Mr. Milton Lehnhardt of Saltz Rd. just returned from a three and a half weeks business trip to Mexico City. Mrs. Lehnhardt stated that her husband enjoyed his trip and his only wish was that his family could have shared in his experience. Mr. Lehnhardt flew to and from Mexico and returned home with souvenirs for everyone.

Mrs. Laverne Olds of 47320 Maben Rd. called to relate the visit of her sister Marge Sorrels and four children, formerly of this area, now of Chicago. A family re-union was held so as Mrs. Sorrels could visit with everyone. Present, were her father, Mr. Ernie Rea of Ford Rd., and sister, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rea, and Mr. John Rea and family of Wayne. Mrs. Sorrel hadn't been home in four years so she had many visits to make with friends. Mrs. Olds stated that Mr. Olds came for the family and they were returning to their home in Chicago.

It's a happy birthday to Donita Sullivan, three years old. Donita's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sullivan gave a birthday party for the young Miss and the guest list included her cousin, Elizabeth Pate of Wayne and friends, Debbie Longwish, Becky and Kitty Tillotson, and Darrel Clark, all of Plymouth. The guests were surprised with balloons hanging about the room and hats placed at each place at the table which held a surprise underneath them. A Popeye cake drew the attention of the young guests to the center of the table and ice cream was served to all. Mom and Dad planned to help Donita remember the day by taking pictures of the festivities. Happy birthday, Donita.

Well that just about does it for the week, how about about your fourth of July celebration. The Sprengel's spent a quiet day at home with relatives helping us celebrate with a picnic. On hand to help in the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Zabel, Jr. and son Kurt of Livonia; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hilving and son Kenny and daughter Karen of Nankin Twsp; and Mrs. Ella Cross of Canton. After the picnic lunch the group went to Plymouth to view the parade and later returned to the carnival in Plymouth.

Recently the Roger Bordines of Saltz Rd. celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary. I casually asked Mrs. Bordine (Florence) what she got for an anniversary present and she said I wouldn't believe her if she told me. Now I know the reason why. The Bordines have added a new member to their family, Jack, which I quickly add is a mule. So any of you in the area that have been hearing a weird noise, it is Jack (the Mule). Anyway, Happy Anniversary Florence and Roger.

Mr. and Mrs. William Plymale of Beck Rd. and family, Linda, Jeanny and Billy, just returned from a trip to Tennessee and Arkansas, where they visited with relatives and friends. A highlight to their trip was a visit with Mr. Plymale's grandfather, Mr. Kelley of Arkansas. Linda Plymale added, that they have added some new members to their family, some baby chicks (Banty) all the way from Arkansas. We're glad to see them all home again.

We attended the very impressive wedding ceremony of the former Shirely Plant to Mr. Robert Southgate on June 28. Following the reception at the church, the guests were invited to the bride's parents' home, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Plant of Ford Rd., to view the wedding gifts. We want to add our wish for every happiness to the new Mr. and Mrs. Southgate.

After the picnic lunch the group went to Plymouth to view the parade and later returned to the carnival in Plymouth.

Recently the Roger Bordines of Saltz Rd. celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary. I casually asked Mrs. Bordine (Florence) what she got for an anniversary present and she said I wouldn't believe her if she told me. Now I know the reason why. The Bordines have added a new member to their family, Jack, which I quickly add is a mule. So any of you in the area that have been hearing a weird noise, it is Jack (the Mule). Anyway, Happy Anniversary Florence and Roger.

Mr. and Mrs. William Plymale of Beck Rd. and family, Linda, Jeanny and Billy, just returned from a trip to Tennessee and Arkansas, where they visited with relatives and friends. A highlight to their trip was a visit with Mr. Plymale's grandfather, Mr. Kelley of Arkansas. Linda Plymale added, that they have added some new members to their family, some baby chicks (Banty) all the way from Arkansas. We're glad to see them all home again.

We attended the very impressive wedding ceremony of the former Shirely Plant to Mr. Robert Southgate on June 28. Following the reception at the church, the guests were invited to the bride's parents' home, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Plant of Ford Rd., to view the wedding gifts. We want to add our wish for every happiness to the new Mr. and Mrs. Southgate.

Well that just about does it for the week, how about about your fourth of July celebration. The Sprengel's spent a quiet day at home with relatives helping us celebrate with a picnic. On hand to help in the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Zabel, Jr. and son Kurt of Livonia; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hilving and son Kenny and daughter Karen of Nankin Twsp; and Mrs. Ella Cross of Canton. After the picnic lunch the group went to Plymouth to view the parade and later returned to the carnival in Plymouth.

What are the advantages of a component high fidelity music system over a "packaged" set or console? What are the advantages of a "package" of a component system?

These questions were put to one of the biggest manufacturers of components and one of the biggest manufacturers of packaged units in the country.

The case for the high fidelity "package" will be carried here later. Joseph N. Benjamin, president of the Institute of High Fidelity and the Bogen-Fresco Division of Siegler Corporation, presents this case for components.

"Only with components do you get highest quality performance plus the freedom to exercise your personal preferences. High fidelity is a highly individualistic matter, depending on your listening tastes, your needs and your pocketbook.

"When you buy components, you get precisely what you pay for. Dollar for dollar of 'sound' value, components are the better buy. Mass-produced 'packaged' sets may be all right if it's wood, not sound, you are interested in.

"Obviously, you cannot have the same performance quality and fancy cabinetry for the same price that you would pay for top performance quality alone. If you want your custom high fidelity components in a cabinet, you can have them installed at relatively small cost.

"But the discriminating buyer will want to know what he is paying for; how much for performance quality, how much for cabinetry, how much for bulky shipment costs.

"Flexibility is another important advantage of component high fidelity. Unlike most 'packaged' sets, components are designed for the future as well as for the present. There is no built-in obsolescence in components.

"For the owners of monophonic component systems, conversion to stereo presents no problems. Basically, it simply means the addition of a stereo cartridge, a second amplifier and another loudspeaker, all of which can be easily connected into the existing system in a matter of minutes.

"For the owner of a 'packaged' set, however, conversion to stereo is considerably more involved and costly and may mean scrapping the entire set.

"Another point to remember about component flexibility is adaptability to fit your own space and needs. Most components will easily fit on any bookshelf, room divider or table top and do not consume huge chunks of valuable floor space. Today's high fidelity components, styled by leading designers, are clean, compact units whose eye appeal match their ear appeal.

"Also, component producers in general are small, highly specialized companies dedicated to the proposition that it is better to make limited quantities of a product of which they can be proud rather than to flood the market with equipment that is all shell and little substance.

It is no accident that professional studio equipment, specified by engineers and musicians, is supplied by manufacturers of high fidelity components.

"And of course components are equipped with a variety of controls which enable you to adjust to any situation and suit your own listening taste.

Twenty-three members of the Plymouth Mighty 4-H Club attended a Detroit Tiger baseball game Wednesday, July 1 and enjoyed watching the Tigers defeat the Kansas City Athletics. The Detroit Kiwanis sponsored the game for Wayne County 4-H Clubs. The game was held up for half an hour because of rain with the score tied and made the afternoon very suspenseful. The summer projects of the club are well under way.

'AVERAGE' BUDGETS DON'T WORK
ITHACA, N. Y. (UPI) - "Average budgets made for average families don't work," says Dean Helen Canover of the New York State College of Home Economics.
"If there were a formula for budgeting family expenditures, and if we at the college had such a formula, we'd have a line at our door as long as the line of family budgets which have been tried and discarded," she said.
Dean Canover recommended that each family make its own individual plan for the use of its income.

Letters Argue Pros, Cons Of Flowers for Funerals

Should flowers be used at Christian funerals? A few months ago the Methodist family magazine "Together" printed an advertisement in which was reprinted a newspaper column by Dr. George W. Crane, a physician, psychologist, and Methodist church - school teacher. He urged the use of flowers for solace and beauty at the time of bereavement. The ad drew so many letters that in the August issue the editors devote their three forum pages to letters pro and con.

"It surely is way past time for Christians to rise up and end the pagan ritual that has so long gripped the people and their pocketbooks all in the name of doing the right thing at the time death strikes," writes Amos Jones of Seattle.

"Our ministers and laymen have known that only the body of the departed one is laid away to return to dust. Most of us realize that the only ride we will ever have in a Cadillac is the final one, when obviously we will not enjoy it. The whole show is as wrong from a Christian standpoint as anything can possibly be."

Mrs. J.B. Nichols of Pensacola, Fla., concedes that flowers are symbolic of life, of resurrection, and that some flowers at a church service are a necessary part of the experience of worship.

"But I know of nothing so depressing," she writes, "as the masses of dead flowers, discolored ribbon, and rusted metal to be seen in a cemetery the day after a funeral. These accentuate the concept of death as destruction and decay."

Mr. and Mrs. M.H. Kilton of Sheboygan, Wis., are among those who believe that funeral - flower money would be better spent on a more lasting memorial. "The chimes on our church organ are a memorial to a dear friend. Through the intervening years those beautiful tones have made us keenly aware of her presence each time we've heard them."

John Dalton, a florist from St. Louis, Mo., approaches the subject from an entirely different angle.

"It is difficult," he writes, "to understand why religious leaders select the flower business as the one to be displaced for memorials. Why not talk against expensive caskets, expensive grave clothes, elaborate funeral coaches, and expensive burying grounds? ... To be sure, churches need funds for buildings, carpets, stained-glass windows, and organs, but let us search out a better way of obtaining the necessary funds than seeking them among the dead."

Rev. Allen R. Reesor, minister of education at St. Paul's Methodist church in San Bernadino, Calif., writes from the experience of a death in his own family within recent months.

"Last November I was called home by the death of my father and got there before the memorial flowers had begun to arrive. I was shocked at the coldness of the room, in spite of soft lights, an expensive casket, and beautiful furniture and surroundings. I vowed then I would never again criticize the extensive use of flowers at funerals."

"As friends and relatives came to pay their final respects, flowers began to pile up around the room. Just as the heartache of my family was made easier to bear by warm handclaps, so were we inspired by the flowers."

As for being a waste, he doesn't think they are. "The flowers were of untold value in terms of inspiration to the family. The funeral coach carried only the family flowers. But we were able to send 150 baskets and bouquets to a cancer clinic and a veterans' hospital. Thus these had a second ministry as they brought their fragrance and beauty into rooms of pain and misery."

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—"Dear Miss Williams, I am 13 and am just starting to have dates (I come home early). Every time I go out, my sisters are waiting for me when I get home and they tease me until I cry. My mother tells me not to pay any attention to them, but it hurts me. Can you give me some advice so they'll stop?"

Ans.—Only two things will make them stop teasing you. Your parents and your own indifference to what they say. If your parents won't make them stop, you can do it yourself by ignoring them. Now that you're a big girl—big enough to start dating—it's time to learn to take teasing without anger or tears. People who tease you will stop doing it if you don't show that it bothers you. So ignore your sisters' teasing or laugh at them and give them a teasing reply. For example, if they ask about your date or boyfriend, smile and answer "Wouldn't you like to know?" then go to bed as if they weren't talking. Or smile at them and remark, "How childish can you get."

Q.—"Dear Elinor: I am 14 and I like a boy who is 17. But his father doesn't approve of his dating me because of the difference in our ages. I am not in high school yet. What should I do?"

Ans.—His father has a point, because when you're a freshman in high school, this boy will be a senior and will graduate, going on to new interests while you're just getting started in high school. So you'll be happier, in the long run, if you don't have dates with other boys. How about house-dates with his father wouldn't object if he comes to see you at your home until you are older.

Freedom Requires Effort

Is there any inherent value in the American ideas of freedom, justice and independence which is superior to the communist idea of freedom, justice and independence? Both sides use the same words.

Such a question may seem to have an obvious answer to Americans or to Russians, but to someone raised in neither sphere of influence it becomes a matter of choice. Who is lying, who is sincere?

The communists offer the freedom that a filled stomach has and the justice involved in three square meals a day. The appeal is something which is unmatched by American efforts to transplant our Bill of Rights into a given feudal situation of oxen, a bowl of rice and local power politics.

The amazing success of the communist bloc is due in large measure to the fact that they appreciate the appeal to the stomach. Their banner of freedom carries a promise of more rice. Our banner of freedom often carries a picture of Washington crossing the Delaware.

Perhaps, the cynics are right who maintain that we can't compete economically with a force as dedicated as the communists. We don't have the team spirit anymore.

Maybe we need all our gadgets to such an extent that little is worth sacrificing. Maybe the machines have beaten us after all.

Finally, can a government organized as loosely as the United States compete with a government that has the powerful central control of a military organization?

Happily the answer before has been favorable on many perilous occasions. The world moves on faster, however, and it is impossible to rest at the false bastion of prior accomplishments.

The inherent value of the American ideal is not a static thing. It depends for its validity on the continuing effort of Americans to see that human values, after all, are more important even than a full stomach—that personal dignity and courage must never be sacrificed for a second bathroom or television set.

Wayne Misses Him

Almost every Wayne University graduate living in our community will remember the name of Joe Truskowski. He was a baseball coach and he died last week of a heart attack at age 52.

He changed his name in latter years to Joe Truske, probably because most people who knew him were calling him "Truck" anyway.

He was a big strapping red-faced man with an infectious sense of humor who played football and baseball in his youth at Michigan. He was a Lieutenant Commander in the Navy in World War II.

"Truck" coached at Wayne where the athletic program for years has been back-seated to the school's educational needs. The school had little money for sports and baseball was not emphasized.

It is some tribute to his coaching ability, but more to his ways with the young men that the team finished with a 6-0 record this year and won the President's Athletic Conference championship. Truck liked young men, and in his job at Wayne he wouldn't quit even in a "small" program.

The lesson of "Truck" is one of not quitting under unpleasant conditions. Many of our citizens learned it from him and we are better because we once rubbed shoulders with this man. That kind of man is all too rare.

Handwriting Analysis . . . . By Lucille Williams

Dear Lucille:

Enclosed is a sample of my boyfriend's writing, we are going steady and may get married some day. I think I know him pretty well, can you tell me anything about him from his writing?

Thank you,
Mary M.

Dear Mary:

Your boyfriend has a sincere desire to stand out and be noticed. He has a flair for showmanship and walks with his head high. He likes to daydream and thinks way off in the future. He has a penetrating mind, is a deep thinker and has a good memory.

This boy spends lavishly when he has it and has a rich taste in foods, life and color. He has no temper, goes in for variety, activity and fun in general. He likes to talk.

Dear Miss Williams:

I enjoy your column very much and would be interested in knowing what my handwriting might reveal.

Sincerely,
A. R. P.

Dear A.R.P.:

You are emotionally expressive with a sensitivity to criticism. You are conservative in all you do and very efficient.

You are emphatic in your decisions and do not change your mind or your opinions once they're made up.

You have creative ability with your hands. Not much imagination but you can shape an idea into a living idea.

You concentrate best when alone and do not mind being by yourself at times.

You have a good memory and can hold on to all you've learned.

Your thinking is more philosophical than material. You give close attention to details, are very loyal to your own ideals—in fact sometimes stubborn.

You're very visionary and look towards the future.

Dear Miss Williams:

I have been following your column regularly. I think it is fascinating that you can tell a person's personality just by their handwriting.

I would appreciate your analysis of my handwriting.

Thank you,
Linda

Toxicodendron Can Cause Vacation Itch

A three-leaved weed called poison ivy by those Americans not allergic to it, and a variety of unprintable names by those who are, probably causes more vacation-time misery than most other allergic ills combined.

Poison ivy is found in every section of the United States. It grows in the form of clinging vines, trailing shrubs and upright shrubs, and can usually be found just where you've set down the picnic basket: in the woods to the left of the fairway if you hook, or to the right if you slice; and on the bank of the stream where you've just caught a three pound trout.

The leaves of toxicodendron vary in length from one to four inches. They are green and glossy in summer-time, red or russet in spring and fall. The fruit is white and waxy looking and resembles mistletoe.

If you do accidentally contract ivy poisoning and break out with large blisters or severe inflammation, or develop a rash on your face or other sensitive body area, you should see a physician.

But the best treatment of all, advises the HNI, is to avoid poison ivy like poison. In the words of the old jingle, "leaflets three, let it be."

Slim Pickins-Up!

Slim Thomas' wife thought up a pretty slick way to get Slim to clean up their front porch.

Slim had a habit of leaving his tools there before coming into the house. And he'd always tell his Missus he'd get around to tidying up later.

So Mrs. T. nailed a large sign to the porch for all passers-by to see: "THOMAS' JUNK PILE, DUMP YOUR OLD EQUIPMENT HERE!" When Slim saw the sign he cleaned that porch so fast he was through before any junk depositors turned up. Threw the sign out, too.

From where I sit, sometimes it takes the "dramatic" to show folks they're wrong. But usually you can solve things by talking them out. For instance, my neighbor once objected to my preference for an occasional glass of beer. But after discussing it with him, he realized he was just plain intolerant. Now he accepts my choice as I accept his. What do you say we "clean up" all intolerant thinking?

Best Short-Order Cook I've Ever Had

"Life Begins at Forty"

By ROBERT PETERSON

REDLANDS, CAL. It was Charles Lavin of Miami, Fla., who conceived the ingenious idea of taking over old hotels which weren't paying their way, and of converting them into low cost retirement hotels.

One of the hostleries in Lavin's chain is the Wisakickon Inn here. Until three years ago it ranked as one of the finest hotels in this area. But it was old and needed considerable renovation so the management put it up for sale. A Lavin representative bought it, financed the improvements, eliminated many frills and services, and opened it as a retirement hotel for seventy guests with rates starting at a rockbottom $65 monthly including room and meals.

The first guests I met when I stopped at this neat, well-kept inn were the Percy Reeves of Highland Park, Ill. "My wife and I came here two years ago," said Reeves, a retired commercial artist. "We had been living in an apartment, but didn't like having to fix our own meals and being so isolated."

He invited me up to their second floor room which had twin beds and large windows overlooking a garden which sported orange trees heavily laden with fruit. "I spend two or three hours a day painting," he said showing me some of his excellent watercolors of pioneer scenes, "and I'm in charge of the rose bushes in the flower garden. My wife is an expert dressmaker and passes her time sewing."

How did they like living at a retirement hotel?

"It's just right for us," replied Mrs. Reeves. "It's much pleasanter than living by ourselves. We look forward to our meals with other guests down in the dining room, and it costs us less to live here than in an apartment."

Later I talked with the hotel manager. "Thanks to year-round occupancy and minimum services," he said, "we can offer this bargain and still make a little money. Most of our guests are in

Babson Reports

It's True... June Business Boomed

By Roger W. Babson's Staff

As 1959 passed the mid-year mark, the Babson Composite Business Chart reflected the remarkable vitality of economic activity in the United States. This business index continued its upswing and reached a point nearly 30 percent above the normal line.

During June industrial production rose to another new all-time high. Production of durable goods continued to spearhead the upsurge in business, motivated in part by strike-hedge inventory accumulation programs.

Of a more fundamental nature, however, is the fact that output of farm machinery, industrial and construction equipment, furniture, and other household durables rose, thus providing a healthier base for business than would be the case if the economic stimulus were primarily in the form of strike-hedge inventory accumulations.

The most encouraging aspect of the current upswing in business is the wide range of industries which are participating.

Production of lumber, glass, concrete, and other building materials has been lifted upward by the boom in the building and construction industry. Activity in food processing continues to reflect expanding consumer requirements resulting from the growth in population, the larger number of teen-agers, and the rise in incomes. Even the textile and apparel chemical, and paper industries, which had been having tough sledding in recent years because of excess productive capacities, made additional headway. Retail sales were maintained at record heights, as factory employment and personal incomes supported consumer confidence. Barring crippling labor strikes, business is likely to remain at good levels in the months ahead. Though the stimulus of inventory buildups may lessen, fears of price increases due to rising labor costs could result in additional forward buying. The primary bolstering influences will probably come from the momentum generated by the strong demand for durable goods and new construction initiated in the past few months.

If Your Name Is 'Thecla'

By Ann Reynolds, Ph.D.

This is a girl's name from ancient Greece. It used to be Theocleia, and was streamlined to Thecla. Literally translated it is "God-famed," or something like "famed for her love of god." This rare name remained confined to Eastern Europe until modern times. In Germany it's spreading was due to Friedrich Schiller, the great 18th century poet and dramatist who gave this name to a female character in his trilogy laid in the time of the 30 years war.

One Thecla in ancient Greece was a priestess at Delphi, famous for its oracles, and the philosopher Pythagoras was a pupil of hers (Pythagoras is now best known for his geometrical theorem regarding a right triangle).

One Thecla of the first century A.D. has the distinction of having been converted by St. Paul. She was born at Iconium, today a Turkish city called Konya, in Asia Minor. Engaged to marry a young man, Thamyris, she once was sitting by the window in her parents' house who were heathen, when she heard the apostle Paul preach. His sermon moved her so deeply that she forgot about Thamyris, ran away from home, and took up the Christian Faith.

Dressed in boys clothes, she followed the apostle on his missionary travels. After Paul's death she returned to her native city, went then to Seleucia, an ancient town in Syria, and at last retired to a cell on top of a nearby mountain. She lived there, devoting her days to the service of the Lord, until her death at 80.

These are the factual outlines of Thecla's life, but not the way legend and a Christian romance written in the 2nd century remember her. This novel, entitled "The acts of Paul and Thecla" and other accounts of her tribulations, relate that her own mother denounced her to the pagan authorities; that she was sentenced to die at the stake, led to the burning faggots where she, making the sign of the cross, threw herself in the flames.

But a miracle occurred. A heavy down-pour put out the fire. After this failure to kill her, her executioners threw her to starved wild beasts in the arena, only to have the animals gently lick her feet. And when she was tied to wild bulls so they should drag her to death, the cords broke, and again she remained unhurt.

One source charges, not her mother, but a man who tried to kiss her, and whose attention she refused by tearing the clothes off his back, with having denounced her to the pagan governor.

How Thecla avoided further persecution, is not known. For her suffering she is considered the first woman martyr.

(Want to know about your own and other names? Write to Dr. Reynolds, care of this paper. For a personal reply please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Village of Waterford Once Thrived North of Plymouth

(This is the sixth in a series on the history of Plymouth written for the Plymouth Historical Society in 1930-31 by the late Mrs. Nettie Dibble. It is probably the only attempt made at writing a complete history of the community.)

Between Plymouth and Northville, there was a settlement called Waterford, or Mead's Mills. This settlement dates from 1827 when Dryer Ramsdell built a mill there, and in 1834 J. Abish

Mead built another mill. In 1837 the Ramsdell brothers laid out and recorded the village under the name of Waterford, but for many years the Post Office name was that of Mead's Mills.

It was planned to make Waterford an ideal place for working men. It was laid out with wide streets and parks; there was a school, a large general store and a chair factory, but there was no church.

There was a large flour mill run by three brothers by the name of Mead; this mill turned out two hundred barrels of flour a day. All transportation was by wagon.

There were three cooper shops where the barrels were made and with these shops and the farmers bringing wheat to the mill, the village of Waterford was a very busy place.

Then one of the saw-mills run by water power was built. Industry grew to large proportions and Waterford promised to be one of the largest towns in Michigan, but calamity struck it. The mill caught fire and burned.

After about six years, with all its contents, including several thousand bushels of wheat and considerable flour. After this a much larger mill was built, the largest in the state at that time, propelled by an immense wheel 18 feet in diameter.

The completion of this mill was celebrated with a grand ball, given in the packing room which was very large.

It was attended by several hundred people and was an event long to be remembered. After about six years, with all its contents, including several thousand bushels of wheat and considerable flour.

South with their stories created a general sympathy and when slave hunters pursued these fugitives, the Detroiters did what they could to help the blacks to escape.

In 1837 an anti-slavery society was formed and an institution known as the "Underground Railroad" was instituted for helping the slaves to liberty. Agents were stationed at many points between Canada and the slave states, and refugees could find shelter and assistance.

The Station Masters, as they were called, passed them on to the next station, generally under the cover of night until they finally reached a terminus on the Border of Canada, like Detroit, where they crossed into Canada. There was a station of this sort at Waterford. Between Plymouth and Waterford, another village bearing the name of Phoenix was laid out and the plat recorded January 14, 1837, or about two months earlier than Waterford.

Its founder was J. A. Austin, who built a flour mill and some houses for his employees. Mr. Austin was unfortunate in his financial affairs and in a spell of despondency over the prospect of losing his property drowned himself in the Detroit River.

The mill then became the property of a man by the name of Mathews, who built a distillery. The mill burned down and the distillery was not a success.

Mr. Mathews built a new mill which was in operation in 1839. One of the owners of this mill was G. P. Benton and another was H. W. Holcomb.

Phoenix never attained to the dignity of a real village. Perhaps there were a dozen houses. Henry Ford now owns the site and is operating a factory.

A short history of one of the pioneer families is typical of the hardships of the pioneers. Jared Fairman and family came from New York in the spring of 1825 and took up 160 acres of land at $1.25 per acre in township two north as it was known till April, 1827, when it was called South Plymouth until separately organized on March 7, 1834, under the name of Canton Township. The government deed of this land was signed by President John Quincy Adams. The family consisted of the father, mother and six children, and a grand-mother. The youngest child was six months old - Mrs. Carmen Root's mother.

They came by boat from Buffalo to Detroit, being two weeks enroute. In Detroit, they bought an ox team and wagon and drove the rest of the way. The roads were frightful and the wheels often had to be pried out of the ruts and mud. It took three days to come from Detroit to their destination.

They had no home till one could be built. They were taken in by a family of man and wife with six children who lived in a one-room log house; there were altogether five grown people and twelve children living in one room until trees were cut and made into logs and the logs laid into the four walls. They moved in and it was two weeks before the roof was on, but luckily no rain fell during that time.

Among the household goods were three chairs, one for the grandmother and one each for the father and mother. The mother's was a strong straight-backed rocker, which also served as a cradle. The children stood at the table to eat but there was a bench made for them to sit on in front of the fireplace.

The fire lit the room very well, and although they had candles made from deer tallow, they were not plentiful so they were used sparingly.

They made maple syrup in the spring and the maple sugar was about the only sugar they had. This sugar made in the spring had to last them through the year. They raised and spun flax, and wove it into the necessary cloth for bedding, table linens, etc. They also spun and wove their wool into the roll call for the number cloth for all the warm cloth of children of his family that they had.

The families were large, would call family as: Cady, and in the school the oldest answer 5; Root, answer 6, child of the family answered and so on.

most miles per gallon

ONE OF THE 7 BIG BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Take it, not from us, but from official results of this year's Mobilgas Economy Run: Chevy's pennypinching 6 delivers the most miles per gallon in its field. For a pair of these Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class, getting the best mpg figure—a whopping 22.38—of any full-size car. And here are more expert, impartial opinions and on-the-record facts backing us up on Chevy's other six bests:

BEST, TRADE-IN

Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST STYLE

It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES

In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR, Chevrolet out-stopped both of the other leading low-priced cars—and why not? Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings, to help lengthen brake life by as much as 66%.

BEST ROOM

Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.I. make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST ENGINE

Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette

V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST RIDE

MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy "the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. And your Chevrolet dealer can tell you about a long list of other advantages besides these 7 big ones!

"I Have Served My Sentence"

—and "I'm Moving Back To The City," says Jerome Weidman, the man who has kept a generation of Americans laughing—and thinking—in such books as The Enemy Camp, What's In It For Me?, and The Horse That Could Whistle "Dixie." Mr. Weidman has had his fill of country life, and is getting out. Read his story and see whether you think he's right this time.

Marinas For The Millions

The recent tremendous rise in the popularity of boating as a sport has resulted in a furious scramble to provide adequate mooring facilities for the millions of pleasure craft taking to the water this summer. Cast off with us this month and tour the country's waterways, from Flamingo, Florida, to Seattle, Washington, and examine the marina—that modern dock-side marvel designed and built for those who enjoy living afloat.

Cool, Exquisite Salads

Here are salads—light, crisp, green, and varied—to brighten the outlook for all mid-July cooks. Crab Louis and Garden Court Salad are hearty enough dishes to provide a refreshing main course; molded Pineapple-Cheese Salad, Empress Salad, and Cucumber Mold could be deliciously chilly luncheon treats.

What? Live In A Round House?

Before you quickly reply, "Not on your life," have a look at the one we found. Another in our Unusual Suburban Home series, the Round House at Sausalito was built by a young couple who like to entertain, who have a large art collection, who enjoy magnificent views, and who have found that for them, "going in circles" is the best way to go.

John Pike

Our cover artist this month is no stranger to the water, having grown up in a sea-side suburb outside of Boston. He now lives in Woodstock, New York, with his wife Zillah and their son, Peter. He is a member of the National Academy of Design, has been a town Senior Councilman for seven years, has just completed his 25th one-man show, and was named Woodstock's "Citizen of the Year" for 1959.

Cranbrook — Suburban

"The way to learn about art," said a very honest critic, "is to look—and live with it." Around Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills the fortunate neighbors of the Cranbrook Institutions can look and live with the beautiful balance and simplicity of Saarinen's buildings, the sweep of landscaped gardens and the magic of Carl Milles' watery world of nymphs and dolphins. Typically, Cranbrook started in 1918 as a Meeting House, put up by its founders, George Booth and Ellen Scripps Booth, to serve the community's needs, and those needs are still being served now that the Booth's cultural and educational foundation has become internationally famous. Art center and educational foundation, yes—and also summer day camp, summer drama school in the Greek Theatre for the young people of the neighborhood, local music and drama center, beautiful park, open to all. The community's pride—and also the community's joy.

EXQUISITE CUCUMBER MOLD

To Prepare: 30 MIN. To Chill: 3 TO 4 HRS.

- 4 to 5 medium-sized cucumbers
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 2 tablespoons (2 env.) unflavored gelatin
- 1 1/2 cups mayonnaise
- 2 1/2 tablespoons prepared horse-radish
- 2 tablespoons grated onion
- 10 to 15 drops green food coloring
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon white pepper
- 1 cup chilled whipping cream

- Chill a bowl and rotary beater.
- Rinse cucumbers, cut lengthwise into halves; remove and discard seeds, and pare. Finely grind enough cucumbers in an electric blender to make 3 cups of cucumber pulp. (If cucumbers are put through a food chopper using fine blade, pulp will be coarser and texture of mold less smooth.) Set aside.
- Pour the cold water into a small bowl. Sprinkle the gelatin evenly over the water. Let stand about 5 min. to soften. Dissolve gelatin completely by placing bowl over very hot water.

- Mix together the mayonnaise, horse-radish, onion, food coloring, and a mixture of salt and white pepper. Add the dissolved gelatin gradually, stirring until thoroughly mixed. Blend in the cucumber pulp.
- Chill gelatin mixture in refrigerator or over ice and water until mixture begins to gel (gets slightly thicker). If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.
- Lightly oil a 1 1/2-qt. mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.
- When gelatin mixture begins to gel, using the chilled bowl and beater, beat whipping cream until cream is of medium consistency (plies softly). Fold whipped cream into gelatin mixture. Turn into mold. Chill until firm, 3 to 4 hrs.
- Unmold (see Molded Pineapple-Cheese Salad). Set cucumber cups filled with salted pecans at equal intervals around the mold. Tuck in sprigs of water cress between the cucumber cups. (For cups, hollow out 2 in. slices of unpared cucumber to form cups. Scallop edges if desired, allowing base to remain flat.) About 8 servings

FRESH FLAVOR GUARANTEED BY GENERAL FOODS KITCHENS

Prospect from a country arbor—Jerome Weidman, contemplating his return to the city.

AFTER a dozen years as a commuter I am leaving the suburbs. My reason? The same reason that caused Edmond Dantes to leave his dungeon in the Chateau D'If and return to Paris: I have finished serving my sentence.

The fact that my incarceration was self-imposed made it no less onerous than the imprisonment to which the hero of The Count Of Monte Cristo was subjected by his implacable enemies. I did not realize, of course, when I forsook the city pavements on which I had been born, raised, educated, married, and inducted into parenthood, that I was turning my back on all the things that make life worth living. On the contrary.

I thought I was embarking on a way of life that would be to my previous existence what the Koh-i-noor is to the rhinestone. My horizons, I was told, like those of Columbus when he set his course due west, were about to be enlarged beyond recognition. Life, which I was told in my teens began at forty, I was told in my thirties began in suburbia.

What nobody told me is that it never gets very far beyond that beginning. Applying the word living to existence in the suburbs is like applying the word chilly to the Arctic Circle. It's true enough, but it hardly tells the whole story.

My story, like that of most suburbanites, begins with parenthood. Until that hit me, I seem to recall that I was a creature of average intelligence and reasonable courage. As soon as I became a father, I became as well a fool and a coward. Instead of paying attention to the evidence of my own experience, which indicated clearly that it was possible to enjoy as I had a healthy and happy childhood in the city, I listened worriedly and guiltily to the child guidance counselors, a surprisingly noisy crew. They insisted that any parent who could afford to, but did not provide, his offspring during the years of growth with the benefits of country life, deserved to be shot and, when his resentful children reached the trigger-pulling age, probably would be.

Like most fools and cowards, I sought and of course found reasons to demonstrate to my own satisfaction that my foolishness was wisdom and my cowardice bravery. It wasn't only for the children that I was moving to the suburbs. Oh, no. Look what it would do for me and my wife as well. After a dozen years of looking, a number of things began to come into focus. They all added up to reasons for going back where I came from.

THE most important reason, of course, is that whatever advantages suburbia may have for the growing child, or for the parent of the growing child, become disadvantages when the child grows up. Our children were infants when we brought them to the country. They could not fight back. They are now twelve years older. I can no longer get away with telling them, for example, that our local baseball games are as exciting as anything that takes place in the Yankee Stadium. They have reached the age of the Yankee Stadium. They know better. They want to go to the Yankee Stadium. As a matter of strict accuracy, so do I, but that's a minor point.

The main point is that for the last few years the amount of time I have been able to devote to earning a living is a mere fraction of the time I have been forced to devote to driving back and forth between our home in the suburbs and the Yankee Stadium; the American Museum of Natural History (like any city museum, it is bigger and better than our local suburban museums); Radio City Music Hall (like any city movie theatre, it is bigger and better than etc.); Madison Square Garden (like any city sports arena, it is etc.); the Bronx Zoo (like any big city zoo, etc.); and a list of other attractions as long as my doleful countenance, all of which are available only in the city, and all of which my children (who I was told a dozen years ago wanted nothing from life but fresh air and sunlight) feel they cannot live without.

I feel the same way. I have nothing against fresh air and sunlight. I am an average man who likes to live near the things he likes, and the things his children like, and getting to the things we like from where we now live is a quicker road to bankruptcy than anything thought up by Mr. Micawber. The time

SHAKE HANDS WITH THE DEVIL—The violence of the final days of the Irish Rebellion is dramatically captured, with James Cagney as one of the leaders. Don Murray, an American, gets drawn into the struggle against his will.

SPRAY EVERGREENS AND SHRUBS NOW

Protect your valuable plantings from spider mites, aphids and other destructive insects

"Scorched" branches on evergreens; curled, misshapen foliage on shrubs are signs that mites and aphids are active. These tiny pests, often no bigger than the period at the end of this sentence, can do a great deal of damage to a valuable plant. F. Van Wyck Mason's latest novel, THE YOUNG TITAN, is a panorama of the colonists' struggle in America.

BOOKS

THE YOUNG TITAN by F. Van Wyck Mason is a powerful historical novel of colonial America, and of the settlers who fought in the French and Indian wars. The first unified military action by the colonists was the victorious siege of Fort Louisburg in Canada. (Doubleday, $5.95)

THE LION—A story of an uncanny little girl living on an African game preserve, whose playmates are wild animals, especially King, the young lion. By Joseph Kessel. (Knopf, $3.75)

VIP TOSSES A PARTY—Along with a hundred and fifty new rip-roaring cartoons, Virgil Parich has new ideas on party dishes, favorite drinks and cures for hangovers. (Simon & Schuster, $2.95)

DESIGNS FOR OUTDOOR LIVING—A how-to-do-it book that is easy to follow. Designs for fences, walks, trellises, utility areas and terraces are diagrammed step-by-step. John Burton Brimer's designs are in good taste and functional. (Doubleday, $3.95)

What's New In Books, Movies

MEMOIRS OF A DUTIFUL DAUGHTER—An absorbing autobiography by Simone de Beauvoir dealing with several periods from lonely childhood and insecure adolescence, through years of study that brought her a sense of direction and purpose. A stimulating story of an extraordinary woman. (World, $5.00)

HIGH TENSION—One of the greatest living ace reporters recalls his front page stories. Hugh Baillie covered them all—Darrow's court case, Wilson's fight, Roosevelt's New Deal, the Perón fiasco, and every other big story from 1910 to date. International interest. (Harper, $4.50)

THE SILENT SERVICE—True, hair-raising stories of the submarine fighters of World War II, their perilous missions and hard-won victories. (Signet, 35c)

SPORTS SHORTS—A collection of over 300 fascinating anecdotes and incidents from the wonderful world of sports. By Mac Davis. (Bantam, 30c)

THE ETRUSCAN—Mika Waltari's story sweeps through ancient Greece, Sicily and Etruria following the adventures of The Etruscan, a hero, warrior, pirate and lover. (Cardinal, 35c)

THE POCKET BOOK OF HOUSEHOLD HINTS—Modest in size, but tightly packed with hundreds of useful time-and-money-saving ideas . . . when scrubbing the floor, for instance, protect your knees by wearing falseies; orange juice rubbed on a patent leather purse will keep it sparkling; to prevent a ladder from slipping, set it in a pair of old tennis shoes. (Perma, 35c)

TWELFTH NIGHT and MACBETH are the latest addition to Dell's Shakespeare series. Also added to their poetry series are works of COLERIDGE, POE, WORDSWORTH, and WHITMAN. Included are helpful notes. (35c)

by Frank G. Slaughter. A courageous doctor is determined to find an alternative to the lobotomy which would restore the sanity of his patient, but at the same time destroy her artistic talents. (Perma, 35c)

PECK'S BAD BOY AND HIS PA—An endless array of Henery's pranks played on his Pa, and the neighbors—just as funny today as they were back in the 80's. (Dover, $1.35)

RECORDS

RENATA TEBALDI has given the world her great talents without the usual displays of prima donna temperament. London records have captured her magnificent voice again, this time in MADAMA BUTTERFLY and GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST.

MICHAEL RABIN is to the violin what Cliburn is to the piano. At 23, one of the foremost interpreters of the romantic composers, he comes out this summer with a new album, PAGANINI CAPRICES. (Capitol)

With enthusiasm, energy and wit, Villa-Lobos conducts two of his own compositions. BACHIANAS BRASILEIRAS NOS. 4 & 7 are each four-part pieces with the folklore and color of Brazil running through them. (Angel)

Joseph Schuster and Friedrich Wuehrer have joined with Vox's engineers to produce Beethoven's complete MUSIC FOR CELLO AND PIANO. This unique album may become the prize of your collection. Another beautiful new recording features the horn: one side is MOZART'S QUINTET IN E FLAT MAJOR for oboe, clarinet, bassoon and horn, and is done by the Dennis Brain Wind Ensemble. The other side is the BERKELEY TRIO FOR VIOLIN, HORN AND PIANO played by Brain, Horsley and Parikian. (Capitol)

KHATCHATURIAN: SYMPHONY NO. 2, Stokowski conducting the Symphony of the Air—bold, emotional music. It was first performed in 1945, and gained immediate popularity. Recorded by United Artists.

The musicianship of Wilhelm Backhaus needs no introduction. On a London release, BRAHMS PIANO RECITAL, he plays intermezzos, ballads, a romance, a rhapsody and a capriccio in a kaleidoscope of piano music.

Veterans of show biz, El Bingo and Sinatra both have new discs this month. Crosby's record (Decca) IN A LITTLE SPANISH TOWN is smooth and Latin in the best of the old groaner's style. Frankie's is entitled LOOK TO YOUR HEART (Capitol), a dozen love ballads in the relaxed Sinatra mood.

For these hot summer nights when you can take the portable outside, pick up a record of SING ALONG WITH MITCH: FOLKSONGS. Several copies of the songs are included so people can sing all the words "along with Mitch." (Columbia)

Three gems of progressive jazz, that gentle, mellow West Coast sound . . . HOLIDAY IN BRAZIL features the talents of Bud Shank, and is a fascinating demonstration of saxophone technique. (World Pacific) . . . THE MATSUDOS is a swinging jazz quartet of bass, vibes, piano and drums. The record is ballads and blues, deep reverberating sounds like boats blowing in the night. (World Pacific) . . . EVERYBODY DIGS BILL EVANS is endorsed on the jacket by four of the greatest jazzmen today. Pianist Evans has an inventive mind and a sparkling technique. Riverside has given it the full treatment.

BAGELS AND BONGOS (yes, that's the title) is a group of rhythms by the Irving Fields Trio. Using some old familiar Mediterranean folk tunes, piano, bass and drum beat out the cha-cha, bolero and rumba. (Decca)

Renata Tebaldi as Cio-Cio-San in one of London's summer releases, MADAMA BUTTERFLY.

The camera catches Mr. Weidman in a typical suburban pose. There will be other problems, he admits, when the family moves to their city apartment but HE won't be the one to dump the trash or put up the screens. And no more bills for sheep manure!

Leaving the Suburbs
by Jerome Weidman

Not all the passengers. Some, like this correspondent, have begun to ask themselves why they are putting up with this.

Certainly not for the social life of suburbia, which is conducted in public and consists of being imbedded like a raisin in a rice pudding in a single set of people who spend their time discussing the outrageous cost of artifacts they purchase and events they attend in the city they have fled. The city with its endless variety of social groups or sets, in any number of which a man can function without his neighbors' staring over his shoulder, provides something that does not exist in suburbia: privacy.

It also provides a lesson in economics: the notion that it is cheaper to live in your own suburban home (yours and the mortgage company's, that is) than in a city apartment is as fiscally sound as the belief that business cycles are caused by sun spots.

In the city you write one check for a large sum once a month to a faceless man or a soulless corporation you think is balking you: your landlord.

In the country you write thirty-seven checks for small sums every day of the week, and often every hour of the day, to a host of sunny-visaged hayseeds in pick-up trucks whose clear blue eyes are so full of the milk of human kindness that you are not aware, until they are gone and you have added up all those checks, that they are all lineal descendants of Jesse James and the reason you suddenly feel that draft is because they have taken not only your money and your eye teeth, but your pants as well.

They are welcome to mine. As the laborer is worthy of his hire, the teacher is worthy of his fee, and these larcenous yokels, to whom for a dozen years I have been a legitimate prey, have earned a stiff one for reminding me of a basic truth: from the very dawn of time, man's march upward out of the primeval ooze has moved inexorably from the forest to the cave, from the veldt to the settlement, from the prairie to the town.

I did not realize, all those years ago when I bowed to the dictates of the child guidance counselors and cocked an attentive ear to the siren song of the suburban realtor, that I was moving against the current of civilization, that I was embarking on an activity as unnatural to the normal man, and therefore wasted in traveling back and forth between suburbia and a decent ball game, or a Broadway play (when you find anything as good as "My Fair Lady" in West Moriches, let me know), is as nothing by comparison with the expense, especially if you are playing host to your own children.

When as a city boy I went to a ball game, or to any other of the many exciting events that the march of civilization has decreed can take place only in a large city; my mother gave me my lunch, subway fare, the price of a bleachers seat, and instructions to get home before dark. When as a suburban father I take my brood to, let us say, a meeting of the UN Council (which they have been told by their suburban school teacher they MUST NOT MISS), I feel as though I were lifting the check for one of Diamond Jim Brady's more elaborate entertainments. Between ten-thirty in the morning when we set out, and ten-thirty at night when—as my suburban neighbors ("cards," every one of them) put it—we return to the stables, the family exchequer—or, as daddy puts it, his bankroll—takes a beating.

Gasoline, highway tolls, parking fees in the city, taxis from the city garage to the place in town we have come to visit, at least two restaurant meals, I don't know how many in-between snacks—it doesn't matter whether we have come in to see "The Music Man" from orchestra seats or take a ride on the Staten Island Ferry, the day's expenses always seem to add up to $60.00.

There are suburbanites who claim they manage to reduce this figure by leaving the car at home and going into town by train. I claim they either never learned how to add, or they don't know the meaning of the word fear. I do. I learned it as a commuter.

When I first moved to the suburbs, our local railroad was a means of transportation. Today as I write (with a nervously shaking hand) our local railroad has become either a bad joke or a daily invitation to violent death, and I gather from the public prints that the same is true of almost every commuters' railroad in the country: the seats are filthy, the washrooms detestable, the conductors sullen, the fares outrageous, the schedules lies, and the passengers helpless victims of the whole miserable system.

doomed to failure, as was Icarus when he panted on those waxen wings.

City rents are high, of course. But not nearly so high as the excitement of rejoining the human race. There will be problems on East Eighty-Second Street. After all, as Edmond Dantes discreetly put it, I have been away for a while.

But at least there won't be any bills for sheep manure.

The Weidman family by the brook where they have finished—and we quote—"serving their sentence."

More and More Marinas

TIME was, when a son was born, his father rushed right out and enrolled him at Harvard. These days—and we have this on good authority—the thing to do on the day your son is born is to run right down to the local yacht basin and place his name on the waiting list for a berth for the boat he will one day have. Chances are that there will be adequate facilities for the boating millions by the time your son needs it.

As it is, there are almost three million Americans who want boats of their own this summer, but won't be getting them because there aren't enough moorings to be had. The three million or so who already own sloops, canoes, houseboats, and cabin cruisers are swamping all available facilities at the choice dockside marvels that line our waterways from coast to coast—the multi-million-dollar marinas.

What Is a Marina?

And what, exactly, is a marina? It is, we are told, a "boat basin with facilities for berthing, securing, and servicing of all types of recreational craft, as well as providing adequate supplies, provisions, storage, and fueling facilities." This is the "textbook" definition, which only hints at the great variety of goods and services available to the weary skipper who puts in at one of them. Today's marina is practically a suburb on its own, laid out and fully equipped to satisfy the least wish of those who like to live afloat.

A complete marina, 1959 version, furnishes not only well-planned slips, launching ramps, winter storage, marine railways, marine repair and supply shops, and auto parking space, but boats for charter, first-aid stations, auto rental service, restaurants, showers, brokerage offices, clubhouses, swimming pools and other recreational facilities, complete shopping center, waterway travel bureaus, and boatels (marine motels).

In addition, from the moment you tie up, here are some of the other features of a marina that are becoming almost commonplace. There are marinas that have classes in sailor's English for that landlubber guest of yours. At some, you need only pick up the phone in that conveniently located booth up the pier and find baby sitters, hairdressers, barbers, tailors, photographers, as well as pick-up boys to handle

SALADS

Special and Satisfying

Here are salads to start putting together in the cool of the morning... some of them hearty enough for a tempting main dish... all of them ideal for midsummer appetites.

MOLDED PINEAPPLE-CHEESE SALAD

To Prepare: 30 MIN. To Chill: 2 TO 3 HRS.

- 1 No. 2½ can crushed pineapple, drained (reserve sirup)
- 2 tablespoons (2 env.) unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 or 3 drops yellow food coloring
- 1 lb. cream cheese, softened
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice

1. Pour ½ cup of the reserved pineapple sirup into a small bowl. Sprinkle gelatin evenly over sirup. Let stand about 5 min. to soften.

2. Add enough water to remaining sirup to measure 1 cup liquid. Heat until very hot. Remove from heat and immediately stir in the softened gelatin until gelatin is completely dissolved. Add sugar and salt; stir until dissolved. Mix in pineapple juice, orange juice, and food coloring.

3. Cool; chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.

4. Lightly oil a 2-qt. ring mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); drain.

5. Beat cream cheese until fluffy. Add lemon peel and juice gradually, beating well. When gelatin mixture is about the same consistency as the cheese mixture, stir several tablespoonsfuls into cheese mixture. Continue to add gelatin mixture slowly, beating constantly, until well blended. Blend in the crushed pineapple. Turn into mold and chill until firm, 2 to 3 hrs.

6. To unmold, run tip of knife gently around edges of mold. Invert onto a chilled serving plate and remove mold. (If necessary, wet a clean towel in hot water and wring it almost dry; wrap hot towel around mold for a few seconds. If mold does not loosen, repeat.) Arrange clusters of frosted grapes and mint leaves around the mold. Fill center of ring with cantaloupe or honeydew melon balls and top with a spray of mint leaves. Serve with Pineapple Salad Dressing. 10 to 12 servings

PINEAPPLE SALAD DRESSING

To Prepare: 35 MIN.

- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- ½ cup unsweetened pineapple juice
- 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 2 egg whites
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ¼ cup chilled whipping cream

1. Mix the sugar, cornstarch, and salt together in the top of a double boiler. Stir in ½ cup pineapple juice. Stirring gently and constantly, bring mixture rapidly to boiling over direct heat; cook for 3 min.

2. Place over simmering water. Vigorously stir about 3 tablespoons of the hot mixture into the egg yolks. Immediately blend into mixture in double boiler. Cook over simmering water about 5 min. Stir slowly to keep mixture cooking evenly. Remove double boiler from heat.

3. Beat the egg whites until frothy. Add the 2 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Beat until rounded peaks are formed. Gently blend into mixture in top of double boiler.

4. Heat the 1 cup pineapple juice to lukewarm. Stirring constantly, gradually add to egg-white mixture. Cook over simmering water until thick and smooth, about 10 min., stirring constantly. Add the butter and stir until melted. Remove from heat. Cool; chill.

5. Meanwhile, chill a bowl and rotary beater.

6. When pineapple mixture is chilled, using the chilled bowl and beater, beat the cream until cream is of medium consistency (piles softly). Gently fold into pineapple mixture.

Note: This salad dressing, with or without the whipped cream, is equally delicious.

CRAB LOUIS

To Prepare: 15 MIN.

- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped green olives
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Shredded lettuce
- Crab meat

1. Blend together all ingredients except lettuce and crab meat.

2. Prepare enough shredded lettuce and crab meat for as many servings as desired. Arrange crab meat on a bed of shredded lettuce on each chilled salad plate. Spoon a generous amount of dressing over each serving. Garnish with ripe olives, wedges of hard-cooked egg, tomato, and lemon.

Note: For an interesting variation, stir ¼ cup sparkling white grape juice into dressing.

GARDEN COURT SALAD

For each serving, arrange a flat bed of shredded lettuce on a chilled salad plate. Top in the following order with: 3 crosswise slices avocado brushed with lemon juice, a large thick slice of tomato, and ¼ cup shrimp, crab meat, or chicken salad. Garnish with a ring of sieved hard-cooked egg yolk, spiced peach, ripe olives, and parsley (see photo). Serve with Thousand Island Dressing.

GREEN GODDESS SALAD DRESSING WITH RIPE OLIVES

Follow recipe for Green Goddess Salad Dressing. Mix ½ cup chopped ripe olives with the dressing before chilling.

Note: For a heartier salad, mix about 3 cups devine cooked shrimp which have been thoroughly chilled with about 2 qts. salad greens before blending with salad dressing. Chicken or crab meat may be substituted for the shrimp.

EMPRESS SALAD

Wash and thoroughly chill salad ingredients before preparing salad. Prepare, using as much of each as desired, watermelon chunks, pear cubes (unpared), and cucumber cubes (pared). Toss the fruit and cucumber cubes in the salad bowl with escarole and slightly sweet French dressing (made with lemon juice) to coat evenly. Serve immediately.

3,000,000 visiting skippers will tie up this summer at these wonders of the waterways—for everything from gas and moorings to laundry service and baby sitters laundry, groceries, and mail; and, for the weary businessman who can't bear to get away from it all—a dockside secretary!

If you're hungry, at certain marinas you may have a five-course buffet supper impeccably served aboard the family cruiser by an expert steward, and if you don't like to make up bunks, swab decks, and handle other boat chores, just notify mate service. If you're tired of the galley curtains or want the main cabin done over, the marina's interior decorators and upholsterers will do it. A number of marinas will rebuild your entire boat and repair your sails. And while they are about it, you can check into the boatel, take a dip in the pool, and enjoy "Skipper Steak Deluxe," "Sailorette Salad," and "Nautical Noodles" at the marina restaurant.

East Side, West Side Although there are now marinas in every part of the country, the most famous, and most luxurious so far are still around our classic "sun spots."

The first of the big, modern, super-marinas is Bahia Mar, on the Intercoastal Waterways at Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Built in 1949, Bahia Mar is on a man-made island which centers three miles of concrete piers, and is a perfect example of how swamp lands are being reclaimed for marina sites. A visit to Bahia Mar is like a visit to a complete little waterways community. The shopping center is made up of 28 stores, plus a U. S. Weather Recording Station and a branch of the U. S. Post Office. The recreation center has a game area and swimming pool, and the yacht club offers outdoor movies and music for dancing. A fleet of 27 boats is available for charter; seven sight-seeing passenger ships visit nearby points of interest daily; and there are water taxis to hail if you're in a hurry. Last year, this 450-boat marina logged in 1,240 yachts.

Some other Florida pleasure-boating centers are particularly interesting because of their colorful history. Flamingo, once the hideaway and escape route for desperados who travelled the alligator-infested mangrove swamps to reach their boats is now the home of a new 200-boat marina and visitor's center. Another interesting spot is Apalachicola. At one time it was a sleepy little fishing town where it was difficult to earn a living. Thanks largely to its modern marina, it is now a booming resort area for those who like to fish in the Gulf of Mexico and Apalachicola Bay exclusive Villa Marina. The Villa's patio cottages for permanent and transient guests and other deluxe accommodations and services have kept some guests tied up at docksides for the past twelve years. On a bright night you might see, in the harbor, the yachts of visiting royalty, the cruiser of a South American President, the houseboat of a college professor and, in the section designed for small craft, the dugout canoe of an American Indian.

In the southernmost part of the state one of the country's most impressive city projects—Mission Bay Aquatic Park—is being rushed to completion. A twenty-five-year development, this mammoth $27,200,000 boat hotel will accommodate 10,000 boat owners. There will be features unusual even to marinas, such as a showboat, an aquatic sports arena, an aquarium, a drive-in water restaurant, and a service station canning the deep-sea fish you catch.

Wherever There's Water

What promises to be one of the finest installations in the east is Yacht Haven, situated on three islands just off Stamford, Conn. The project, begun in mid-1957, is unique in that it is the first marina known to offer a public issue of shares of common and preferred stock. Another Eastern boat mecca is Gloucester Gateway on Rust Island, Gloucester, Massachusetts. When complete it will have an amphitheater, an apartment building, and a hotel designed along the lines of the Caribe Hilton. Even Boston now has its first marina, an 800-boat accommodation at the former Squantum Air Base on Boston Harbor.

Naturally, the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway is inspiring our Great Lakes cities and towns to go full speed ahead into the building of waterway accommodations for pleasure boats. Toledo's Port Authority is hurrying completion of its Seaway Marina on Kelley's Island, Lake Erie; and other facilities are being developed all along the southern shore of the lake to Erie, Pennsylvania, where a 2,500-boat harbor is nearing completion. Cleveland has created public harbor facilities for 700 pleasure craft in the metropolitan area. At Detroit's Roostertails Marina there will soon be an amphitheater for viewing racing events. In the same category is the waterside park and launching facility on Lake Washington, Seattle.

The Marina's Future

What is the future of the marina? More than one hundred million dollars will be spent this year throughout the nation to produce housing for pleasure craft, but the money will not even begin to fill the needs of boat-happy Americans. "Sorry, no space," are familiar words to the 1,825,000 who filed applications in their local areas last year and who were turned away. Boat dealers find that they have no difficulty selling the boat, if they can also supply the mooring.

The nation's waterways, from ocean-side to inland rivers and lakes, have, indeed, become another "new frontier." Plenty of water, millions of people who long to be on it—we need now are more and more marinas.

Would you live in a circular house?

The Bensons do, and for the best of reasons

Here is the round house, seen from below. Framed in eucalyptus trees, it stands on the highest point of this mountain ridge, flanked by huge walls of concrete blocks which protect it from the frequent high winds and rains driving in from the Pacific.

The kitchen (see Floor Plan) is a corridor adjoining the dining area. The sink, the space for basic small appliances, and the stove form a continuous, convenient line. Next to the refrigerator at right is a long working area which also serves for informal dining. Here Mrs. Benson prepares canapés for her guests as a friend looks on.

Mrs. Benson sits on the front terrace and looks out over San Francisco Bay. Angle Island is on her right. On her left is Belvedere Island and the Tiburon Peninsula. The body of water between them is Raccoon Strait. Note the pool, which carries out the circular motif found throughout the house, and the elliptical dining table, seen through glass doors leading into the living room.

SAUSALITO ROUND HOUSE

The Bensons entertain as a sunny afternoon changes to a soft, foggy evening that drifts across the bay.

THE Walter Bensons wanted their house to be round so that they could get maximum exposure to their magnificent views.

To live way, way up on the top of a mountain in a house that seems to melt in with its surroundings; to look freely all about you and see the mountain ridges to the side, the bay and ocean below, and the teeming city across that you must be a part of and yet can turn away from at will—this was the dream of the Bensons, of suburban Sausalito, California. They built their turret in the sky—a round house in redwood and glass in which every slightest turn of the head brings a new, breathtaking view. Surrounded by mountains, sea, islands, trees, and sky, the house that embraces all these majesties is a tribute to the architect, Mario Corbett, A.I.A., and to the owner's eye for beauty.

How To Crash A Party

By Frank Jacobs

Chin up, eyes front... and the rest is easy

It's 10 p.m. on a Saturday evening and you, the man of the house, are bored. The wife and kids are away visiting in-laws. The TV fare is tasteless and you've read every book and magazine in the house. You've just about decided to turn in when suddenly your ears pick up the semi-distant sounds of revelry. You listen closely. Can it be? Yes, it's true. That new couple next door is throwing a party. You're sure it's a party (and a pretty big one at that) because you hear a number of key party noises. The shriek of a spilled ice cube bouncing off a surprised bare shoulder. The roar of an Impala reversing out of a petunia bed. The blare of a dance record played at the wrong speed with a blunt needle. Yes, indeed. This is a party. Now comes your crucial moment of decision—to crash or not to crash. You decide to crash, but hesitate. After all, what can you lose? But—how can you invade the gathering when you don't even know the host? How, indeed! You only have to approach your objective with the right attitude, and you are sure to succeed. There are any number of time-tested party-crashing methods to choose from. Here are several which have proven exceptionally successful:

The Concerned Method
"I've been expecting an important letter and I wonder if the postman left it in your box by mistake . . . oh, I didn't know you were entertaining."

The Parental Method
"My son, Tommy, tells me that he attends the same school as your boy. Be great if we could work out a car-pool for them . . . oh, you have company!"

The Musical Method
"I'm a record collector, and I sure would like to know where you got that dance music you're playing . . . is that Scotch?"

The Needy Method
"Pardon me, but I wonder if you own a set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica? I'm trying to settle an argument on the drainage area of the Orinoco River . . . am I interrupting something?"

The Man's Best Friend Method
"Our spaniel, Fred, cut his paw in the rock garden and we're fresh out of adhesive tape . . . oh, I see you're having a party."

The Togetherness Method
"Heard some singing over here and thought now's as good a time as any to organize a neighborhood group to sing Christmas carols . . . gee, looks like you've got a houseful!"

The Reverse Approach
"The wife and I are throwing a little shindig soon and we'd like to invite you and your . . . oh, no, I really couldn't! Well, all right, but just one drink!"

COLLECTION MR. AND MRS. JOHN MAY WHITNEY, NEW YORK

COLLECTION MR. AND MRS. HARRY BARNES, NEW YORK

UTRILLO — Windmills of Montmartre
To look at this painting is like a visit to Paris. Utrillo has preserved for all time these famous windmills, their sails turning against a blue sky, above brightly colored roofs and tiny gardens. Our eye follows the street into a world of enchantment. (ST105—Print 20¾ x 26 inches)

TOULOUSE-LAUTREC — Chilperic
This is a scene from an operetta favored in the "gay nineties." It is rendered in lively greenish hues which contrast with cool blue-greens and dramatic blacks. A truly stunning painting. (ST103—Print 20¾ x 26 inches)

MODIGLIANI — Girl with Braids
In this 20th-century masterpiece, Modigliani, prince of bohemians, has created the most tender and beautiful of all evocations of young girlhood. (ST104—Print 20¾ x 26 inches)

VAN GOGH — White Roses
This is surely one of the most lovely and spirited flower-pieces ever painted. Van Gogh has caught the wild beauty and profusion of the flowers in a composition which suggests that these blossoms are the product of a well-loved garden, where sun and rain and wind have done their work. (ST101—Print 20¾ x 26 inches)

PICASSO — Boy with Pipe
In this beautiful portrait, the background of painted flowers throws into bold relief this blue poetic figure of a boy, himself crowned with a garland of pink flowers. (ST102—Print 20¾ x 26 inches)
