

Churches Observe Holy Week With Special Services

Christianity's most holy week is being observed this week throughout the world, and Plymouth's churches representing most of the major denominations, are again expecting large crowds of worshippers.

Observances of various kinds are being held throughout the week, beginning with Palm Sunday and concluding with those on Easter Sunday.

Most of the special services are listed in advertisements and in news stories inside this issue.

Largest of the union-type services will be held Good Friday when Tre-Ore services begin at noon at First Methodist Church.

Most stores will be closed during the three hour period, including Dunning-Hough Library.

The Tre-Ore service, sponsored by the Plymouth Ministerial Assn. will have starting times at noon, 1 and 2 p.m. The public is asked to arrive and leave during the starting hours.

The first hour will be guided meditation led by the Rev. R.N. Raycroft of the Church of the Nazarene. The Rev. David L. Rieder of First Baptist Church will give the sermon during the second hour, while the third hour sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Edward Castner, assistant minister of First Presbyterian Church.

Other churches participating in the services are First Methodist, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Epiphany, Salvation Army, Calvary Baptist and Assembly of God.

Separate Tre-Ore services will be conducted at Our Lady of Good Counsel, St. John's Episcopal and St. Peter's Lutheran Churches.

Some of the churches will also have Maundy Thursday services on Thursday evening.

Sunday, of course, will be Easter and many special services or programs have been planned.

Easter time also means vacation time for many school children. Public schools will dismiss Thursday afternoon and will resume Monday, April 25.

Ask Mill for School Salary Hikes

Putting Levy On June 13 Ballot

Voters of the Plymouth Community School District going to the polls at the regular school election on June 13 will decide on a one mill operating levy that will be used for raising salaries of teachers and other school district employees.

The Board of Education voted Monday night to place the additional one-mill levy on the ballot.

The decision is the result of many months of meetings between the salary committees of the Board of Education and the Plymouth Education Assn. (teachers' organization). To provide any significant raise, it was decided by the Board that an increase in operating millage is needed.

Summer Program Coming Up

Reading, typewriting and arithmetic, plus Spanish, French, tennis, and a number of other subjects, will be offered students during the 1960 Summer School Program and some of them will be at half the price they were last year.

The Board of Education gave its okay Monday night to the Summer Program and at the same time sliced fees in half for the elementary subjects. There will also be credit given for all High School courses this year.

School Precincts Doubled

Doubling of the Plymouth Community School District voting precincts, from two to four, was given the nod Monday night by the Board of Education.

Up until two years ago, the only place of voting for school elections was at the High School. Addition of Gallimore School for those living in the southern portion of the district was then made.

Now, the Plymouth Township Hall and the Plymouth City Fire Station No. 2 will become additional precinct polling places.

The purpose of the additional precincts is to bring the polling places closer to the voters and to speed up the voting process. It is proposed to use only voting machines at future elections.

A breakdown of the new precincts will be like this: School Precinct 1 will be at the High School. It will include City Precincts 3, 4 and 5 (western half of the City).

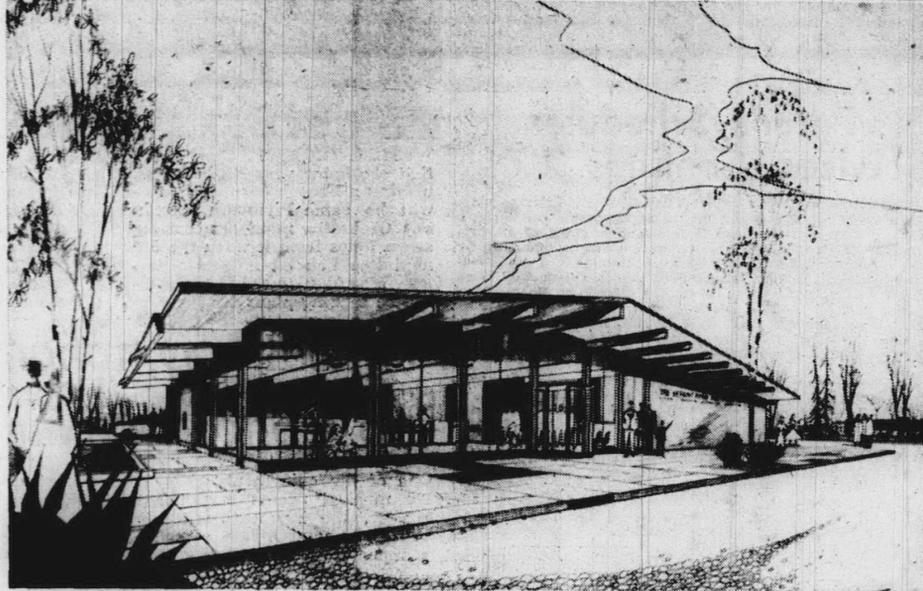

School Precinct 2 will be at Gallimore Elementary School. Voters will be from Plymouth Township Precinct 3 (western half of the Township) and all of Canton Township within the school district.

School Precinct 3 will be at the Plymouth Township Hall. Voting here will be those from Plymouth City Precinct 1 (the southeast quarter of the City) and Plymouth Township Precinct 2 (southeast section of the Township).

School Precinct 4 will be at the City Fire Station No. 2 (across from Starkweather School). This precinct includes voters living in Plymouth City Precinct 2 (northeast section), Plymouth Township Precinct 1 (northeast section) and all of those Northville Township voters living within the district.

There are about 8,242 registered voters living within the school district.

The new division would place 2,482 registered voters in Precinct 1; 1,757 in Precinct 2; 1,909 in Precinct 3; and 2,094 in Precinct 4.

NOW UNDER construction at the proposed Lake Pointe Shopping Plaza is this new branch of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co. Of contemporary design, the building will face Wilcox Rd. The bank is temporarily located in a house trailer in the area.

Start Work on Permanent Office For Detroit Bank & Trust Co.

Construction was started this week in Plymouth Township for a new permanent office building for the Detroit Bank & Trust Co.

Charles H. Hewitt, executive vice-president and board member of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co., announced this week that construction has now begun on the bank's permanent office building located on the site of the proposed Lake Pointe Shopping Plaza.

Annual Bicycle Rodeo Coming On April 23

An Evans bicycle will be the grand prize at the Plymouth Optimist Club's annual Bicycle Rodeo, being held this year on Saturday, April 23.

The program will include a bicycle inspection and various riding events. All grade school pupils are invited to participate. A trophy is presented to the school with the greatest number of entries. Last year's school winner was Our Lady of Good Counsel.

Police Chief Kenneth Fisher will supervise the bicycle inspection and reminds all children and their parents that this is the time to get that bicycle in A-1 condition.

The event will be held behind the Plymouth High School Saturday, April 23 at 1 p.m. Chairman Bill Baumgartner says that there will be many other fine prizes presented with the big winner riding home the new Plymouth-made bicycle.

by Louis C. Redstone Architects, Inc., and Avner Nagler Associate Architect, will be constructed by Berger Construction Co. of building project ever started in the Plymouth area. Part of the Greenspan plan is developed by the Fred Lake Pointe Shopping Plaza.

The branch office, first of many stores proposed for the site, will be located on Wilcox Rd., just west of the intersection of Schoolcraft Rd.

Hewitt said that the building will be of contemporary design, "featuring an attractive studio ceiling that, coupled with liberal use of glass, will give customers a warm, yet an open and inviting feeling."

Branch Manager Albert M. Robertson who has supervised operations in the bank's temporary quarters since Aug. 5 of last year, joined Hewitt by saying, "It is a pleasure to be a pioneer business and first on the scene to lead in the formative stages of a growing and dynamic community like Lake Pointe Village."

The temporary quarters now in operation are located in a house trailer off Schoolcraft Rd.

The new bank office will feature 10 teller windows, two of them drive-in windows on the west wall that are accessible from Wilcox Rd.

All other banking services will be available, including night depository and envelope drop, trust services and all types of personal and corporate loans.

Construction is expected to be complete by late summer or early fall.

The building was designed

Should the proposal not be approved, teachers would receive their usual step-up in salary (increments). Many teachers, however, are at the "top" of the salary schedule. This "top" is reached in 11 years by those holding bachelor degrees and in 12 years for those with master's degrees.

How much the proposed one mill increase will raise the total school millage is not yet determined. The Board still intends to place a new bond proposal on the ballot this Spring. How much millage this would require may be decided at a special meeting of the Board tonight.

Some other bonding millage is being retired.

The total cost of the proposed raise for teachers would be $58,200. Salary increases for the other employees are expected to be around $17,000, making a total of $75,000 worth of pay hikes anticipated. There are over 300 people employed in the school system.

One mill yields around $91,000. The difference between the $75,000 for salary increases and $91,000 will be used for meeting increasing operating expenses.

There are 205 teachers employed in the system. The proposed salary schedule would increase the salary of a beginning teacher by $100. Those having two years in the system would get a $200 increase. Five-year teachers would be due for a $300 increase, and those completing 10 years would receive $400 more.

There would be 11 teachers receiving the $100 increase; 67 due for $200; 53 teachers qualifying for $300; and 65 in the $400 class.

A starting teacher with an A.B. degree now receives $4,700. This would be raised to $4,700. At the start of the 11th year, the same teacher now gets $7,100. Proposed is $7,500.

A teacher with a master's degree (5 year level) now gets $4,900 to start. Proposed is $5,000. The same teacher at the start of the 12th year would be raised from $7,650 to $8,050.

If the holder of the master's degree has six years of education, he can earn a maximum of $8,600. There is also a schedule for those holding doctorates that could earn $9,050 in 14 years. There are no doctorate degree holders, however, in the system today.

In addition to the salary schedule, teachers are allowed some extra compensation for each hour of college credit earned toward a higher degree.

Working on the Board's salary committee have been Wesley Kaiser, President Esther Hulsing and Peter Zylstra.

Plymouth Education Assn. representatives are President John S. Canon, Miss Anne Welch and John N. Donegan. Kaiser has been chairman of the combined committee.

Kaiser told the Board Monday night that the PEA has "wholeheartedly" endorsed the proposal.

In other business before the Board, an estimated budget was approved for submission to the Tax Allocation Board. The budget is for a total of $2,268,200.

Bids will be taken on two new 60-passenger school buses that will be replacements for worn-out equipment.

NEWS BEAT

After Plymouth Township firemen put out three grass fires last Sunday, Chief Howard Holmes thinks it's not too soon to remind citizens that permits are needed to burn anything besides ordinary household rubbish. Permits are available from the fire hall at no cost. But even burning ordinary household rubbish is dangerous, especially during windy days. Chief-Holmes urges that someone stay with all fires until they are burned out. "Don't start them and then walk away," he asserted.

POLICE BEAT: A microphone was stolen from the lectern of First Presbyterian Church sometime between Sunday and Wednesday last week. An Allen Park man found the two front wheels of his car stolen while parked in the V.F.W. Hall lot Saturday night. Three youths were picked up by police for stealing wine from the Penman Market. In the school locker of one of the boys were found 12 books taken from Dunning-Hough Library and 30 pocket books taken from stores. Four hubcaps were stolen from a car in the East Central Parking Lot Friday night. Tools were taken from a truck parked Sunday night at Jim's Marathon Service. And sometime over the weekend, four vending machines were broken open at Bathey Manufacturing.

The same thing happened during the previous weekend. Money and merchandise were stolen.

LOOKING BACK: Mrs. Lillian Myers Pear, an artist and historian from Grosse Pointe Park, was in Plymouth last week to start gathering writings by local people concerning Plymouth's history. The writings will be combined with histories of other representative communities for publication by the University of Michigan. Plymouth Historical Society members are furnishing material.

OUTGOING: Plymouth used car dealer, Joe Stadnik and Shkel, was given a testimonial dinner by his friends in Wixom. He served as the village and city of Wixom's first mayor and did not seek re-election last week.

Sunshine Gives Hope That Walks To School Bus Will Soon End

With the sun showing his face a little more than usual this week, the muddy road situation is easing in the out-lying areas of the Plymouth Community School District and is making transportation director Robert Houghton a happier man.

Houghton this week praised the youngsters and their parents who live along the impassable roads. Many times during the past two weeks, buses have not tried going down certain sections of the muddy roads for fear of getting bogged down.

Some students have had to walk a mile and a half to reach the paved highways, Houghton said. Very few complaints have been heard from parents, he added.

Not only was there danger that buses could not get through the mud, but some roads are so rough that it was feared that the very young riders might be injured. "A high school student would know enough to hang on," Houghton declared, "but the feet of many of these younger children can't even touch the floor."

15,000 Hear Devotions in One Month

They Dial a Brighter Day

By JIM SPONSELLER

A lonely invalid reaches for his phone, makes a call, then sits back with a smile of satisfaction. A housewife, full of despair after finding "everything going wrong," also decides to make a telephone call. A minute later she hangs up and somehow her tension becomes eased.

These callers are but two of nearly 500 a day who dial a Plymouth number for a spiritual "lift."

Called "Dial-A-Devotion," the service is provided by a local pastor and his congregation through the use of two automatic telephone answering devices. After one month of operation, the service has been found successful beyond all hopes.

Since its start on March 9, "Dial-A-Devogram as non-denominational as possible, he would like to keep his name and that of his church anonymous.

Dial-A-Devotion has received very little publicity, except for a few newspaper advertisements and cards that were passed out. But word of the service soon got around. While it is not possible for the pastor to tell where the calls are coming from, many people have taken time to write cards to the Post Office box (Box 235) that Dial-A-Devotion holds.

These cards and letters have come from people living in Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Garden City, Northville, Belleville, South Lyon and other neighboring communities, as well as Plymouth.

Michigan Bell has installed counters on each of the answering devices which tell exactly how many calls the two machines receive. The Dial-A-Devotion pastor intercepted the 5,000th call several weeks ago and awarded the caller a plaque carrying a Bible verse.

ONE OF the many shut-ins who have expressed their appreciation for the Dial-A-Devotion is Harry G. Wiseman, 796 N. Mill St. Many of those writing their thanks express their regret that the message lasts only 55 seconds.

EVERY NIGHT the devotional message is changed on the two telephone recording devices. The pastor, who would like to remain anonymous, is shown reading from his source of material into the telephone.

MY LAN
MILAN, Minn. (UPI)—The folks of Milan want it known that their town's name is not pronounced like Milan, Italy. The accent in Minnesota is on the first syllable.
Mrs. Arnold Castren of Milan, Minn., said the town got its name when an early settler referred to his large real estate holdings on the town site as "my lan," omitting the "d" in "land." It's been called Milan ever since.

Group for Nervous and Former Mental Patients Forms Here

Recovery, Inc., a 20-year-old non-profit organization, was founded by the late Abraham A. Low, M.D., associate professor at the University of Illinois Medical School. It is a nation-wide organization with groups in 33 states. The national headquarters are located at 116 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago 3, Ill. Recovery, Inc. is a lay organization. It does not offer medical advice. It in no way supplants the physician.

Recovery's self-help method of after-care was developed by Dr. Low for the purpose of preventing relapses in former mental patients and chronicity in nervous patients. The method is based on Dr. Low's book, "Mental Health Through Will Training."

The Plymouth group, established a month ago, meets each Tuesday evening at 8 in the basement of St. John's Episcopal Church, Maple and Harvey Streets. At present there are no other groups meeting in the Plymouth area. The leader is a former patient who has been trained in the Recovery panel technique. Regular attendance is urged for full benefit. There is no charge for attending meetings.

Several members of the group report marked improvement after practicing the Recovery technique. Recovery methods, aimed at acquiring self-control in the daily trivialities of life, have helped them to ease tensions and obtain relief from nervous symptoms.

Edward Palphreyman, a Plymouth resident for many years prior to moving to Detroit in 1947, died suddenly April 5 at Crittenton General Hospital. He was 96 and had lived at 7614 Dexter, Detroit.

Reverend Paul H. Clark officiated at funeral services held April 8 at the Schrader Funeral Home here. Interment was at Riverside Cemetery.

Born Oct. 10, 1863, in Hackney, England, Mr. Palphreyman was a cook. He was a member of the T.O.N.G.U.I.S. Lodge No. 32, I.O.O.F. of Plymouth and was the oldest living Oddfellow in Michigan at the time of his death.

Fellow lodge members were pallbearers.

R. Z. Millard
Born in Livonia but a Detroit resident since shortly after the turn of the century, Mr. R. Z. Millard, 89, of 5260 Larchmont, died April 8 at Ridgewood Hospital after a brief illness.

Funeral services were held April 12 at the Schrader Funeral Home here with Reverend George D. Jeffrey officiating. Interment was in Livonia cemetery.

Surviving are two sons, Oren W. Millard of Plymouth and Arthur D. Millard of Detroit; and five grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Born April 21, 1870, in Livonia, Mr. Millard was the son of Harmon and Marry Morris Millard. His wife, Gertrude, died in 1943.

A retired painter, Mr. Millard had lived in Detroit for the past 53 years. He was a member of Leovill Presbyterian Church.

The 1958-59 wheat crop harvest in Australia is expected to set an all-time high record.

Child Molestations Increase With Warmer Weather, State Police Warn

Now is the time to warn your children about talking with strangers, advises Sgt. Ellis Potter, commanding officer of the Detroit post of the Michigan State Police, who reminds that the season of warmer weather always brings an increase in child molestation cases.

Sex offenses against children reach their peak during the summer vacation period. A word of caution now could help your child from becoming involved in a degrading experience that could mar his life or even bring physical harm.

"The safest rule for children to follow," Sgt. Potter said, "is to have nothing to do with strangers and to tell their parents immediately if any strangers approach them and offer them candy or other things if they will go with them."

Child molestation cases investigated by the State Police increased 3.2 per cent last year, 18 more than the 538 reported the previous year. The highest incidence was in August with 76 as compared to 71 in July, the high month the year before. June last year was second with 73 cases and July next with 61.

April, as the previous year, showed a marked jump from 29 cases in March to 52. With the start of school in September, incidents dropped off, which is characteristic of the pattern each year according to State Police records.

One of the difficulties in coping with the child molestation problem, according to Sgt. Potter, is the reluctance of parents to report incidents to the police for fear of embarrassing publicity. For this reason, the problem is a larger menace than figures indicate.

The press, radio and television never use the names of children except in cases of murder, and if all incidents were reported police would have a much greater chance of apprehending offenders and offenses could be reduced considerably.

Another important factor which could lessen the problem, Sgt. Potter said, is to impress children that policemen are friends who want to help and protect them. They should be encouraged not to be afraid to notify police of any strangers seen loitering around playgrounds, neighborhoods, schools or at public comfort stations.

Because depraved men and women are often successful in enticing children to become victims of their immoral and criminal sex behavior, Sgt. Potter suggests several "don'ts" and "do's" for parents to tell their children to protect them:

1. When you meet strangers walking or in cars, do not stop to talk with them.
2. Always know the person you are with. If you don't, do not accept rides or go for walks with them.
3. Don't let strangers join you during play hours at school or around home.
4. If it is necessary for you to use public toilets, leave immediately after you are finished. These are danger spots.
5. Don't play or walk alone in alleys, deserted buildings and other secluded places. Always arrange to be with one or more playmates.

Salem School Asks Injunction Against 'Interfering' Parent

Attorneys for Salem No. 1 School district went to court in Ann Arbor last week to ask that Louis Wallenmaier of Salem refrain from visiting the school grounds unless authorized by the district.

Wallenmaier allegedly engaged in "conduct detrimental to the efficient operation of the school" during the past six months, the attorneys said. An injunction was asked. In October he allegedly demanded that a teacher show him her contract and on other occasions asked questions of the teacher concerning school improvements and costs.

Suburban Farm Bureau meets this Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Brummell of Six Mile Road. Meeting time 8:30 p.m.

A special meeting of the South Lyon School Board was held last week. The meeting was called to discuss the 1960-61 budget. A group of parents questioned the Board as to discipline in the Junior High. They told the board they felt the situation was perhaps more serious than realized. The parents said they understood four or five students were threatening and intimidating other pupils. The Board said they had only just been informed of the situation. The parents and offending youth were called in and talked to. Following this, appropriate punishment was administered with the full consent and cooperation of the parents. One of the offenders was suspended from school for a week. More supervision and control at the Junior High was promised so this type of incident will not happen again. Supt. Bartlett also told the Board and those present he had received a letter from James Hood, principal of the Junior High School, indicating that he does not wish to be considered for a contract for the 1960-61 school year.

Sandy Huguley was surprised Saturday evening when she was the guest of honor at the home of Marie Stoitianoff, for a birthday party. The guests enjoyed hot dogs, Kool-Aid, relish plate, ice cream and cake.

Mrs. Herbert Famuliner entertained the Rainbow Board of the Northville Rainbow Girls on Tuesday evening. The guests were served chop suey, hot rolls, relishes, cream puffs and coffee and tea, following the business meeting.

The Sunshine Club met on April 13 at the home of Mrs. Harlow Ingall for lunch at noon. Sewing was held in the afternoon.

The Salem Hobby Club meets April 18 at the home of Mrs. Richard McKinley of Seven Mile. Wood Fibre flowers will be the lesson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Forester and small son were callers at the Richard McKinley home last week.

The Walker-Womens Club met at the home of Mrs. George Kelly of Seven Mile Road with 14 present. Mrs. Kelly served strawberry shortcake coffee and tea.

Donald Lee McKinley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKinley of Seven Mile Rd., was baptized on Sunday, April 3 at The First United Presbyterian Church of South Lyon. A family dinner followed at the McKinley home with Mrs. O'Neil and Mrs. Russell Brown of Garden City as guests.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Shafer and family of Finley, O., were Sunday guests on April 3 at the Harlow Ingall home. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Ellenwood and family, of Woodland Beach on Lake Erie, Mr. and Mrs. David Ingall, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wells of Plymouth.

Janet Famuliner was the guest of honor Sunday, April 10 at the John Nagy home in South Lyon for a birthday dinner. Eleven guests were present.

Auto Crash Claims Life Of Plymouth Girl, 20

A Plymouth girl was among seven traffic fatalities recorded on Michigan highways last weekend.

Nancy Ellen Ingall, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Ingall, 10485 Joy Rd., died early Saturday afternoon as a result of injuries sustained in a two-car collision near Cedar Springs in Kent County.

A student at Ferris Institute in Big Rapids, Miss Ingall was en route to a wedding reception at Grand Rapids. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids.

A graduate of Berkeley High School, Berkley, Mich., she and her parents had moved to Plymouth last January. At Ferris, she was active in several college organizations, and was a member of Sigma Kappa Sigma sorority.

Funeral services were held here Tuesday at Schrader Funeral Home with Rev. P. Ray Norton officiating. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery.

Miss Ingall was born Dec. 20, 1939, in Northville, the daughter of Lawrence and Eleanor (Staub) Ingall. In addition to her parents, other survivors are her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Ingall of Plymouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jackson of St. Petersburg, Fla.

THE MAIL ATTITUDE

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Between snow flurries, we have been confronted by the usual two or three requests which arrive each Spring absolutely insisting that we analyze the forthcoming Detroit Tigers for local readers.

(There literally is one reader who waits for our annual review. Then he goes out and makes his bets, taking exactly the opposite conclusions reached here. He says he has records to support his theory.)

Anyway, we're swimming upstream again. This time we believe that our downtown metropolitan sports writing friends are selling the 1960 Tigers too short. (For the past several seasons we accused them of being too optimistic on the Detroit baseball team.)

This year about all we read from the Florida typewriters is sarcasm. "It's the same old team, a year older," seems to be the consensus of the palm tree prophets.

But the Tigers this year have an asset they haven't started a season with in years. It has a knowledgeable, smart, tough front office. The amateur spirit of management has been tried, found wanting, and sent on its way to the bushes.

And this is something one doesn't see when gazing only at nine human bodies toiling upon a ball field. It is reflected in spirit and attitude, which is not capable of measurement by camera or binoculars.

This is pertinent if you can accept the analysis that the Tigers of 1959 were a better team, potentially, than they finished in the standings.

They flopped for almost a third of the season (the early stages); they dropped a host of close ball games; they concentrated on leaving men on bases.

Pitchers gave many indications of fellows putting in their time in a routine way, rather than with the extra measure of zip and effort.

Well, anyhow, without analyzing the men on the field, this reporter predicts the Tigers are going to be a startlingly changed team as the days roll by.

They'll finish second, right behind the Yankees.

A neglected point in this community's thinking about high school smoking is that it is violation of a State law for anyone under 21 to smoke in a "public place"—likewise, it is a violation for a proprietor to permit smoking by minors in a public place.

We thoroughly realize that to enforce such a law won't stop youngsters from stealing their smokes somewhere, somehow.

But we do believe that from a simple standpoint of community appearance, it is much to be desired that Plymouth restaurants and lunch counters not be crowded at noon hour with cigarette-dragging teen-agers.

We wonder how many parents have dropped into the local eating places at noon hour? Might make an interesting guided tour some weekday!

Again, The Mail does not believe it is possible to curb smoking by law. But it could be made less stylish.

Everyone on this newspaper, in a most personal way, has been plunged this week into grim contemplation of the agonizing mystery of Life and Death.

Don Golem, advertising manager of The Mail, lost his young wife in a hospital Sunday, only 48 hours after she had given birth by Caesarian delivery to a husky, handsome, healthy boy.

We work in close contact in this business of ours, and the shock is heavy about our quarters today. In addition to his new son, Don has another who is still two years old.

What do we say? What do we do?

No outsider can help with the personal pain. About all he can do is remind Don, and himself, that we exist in a fantastically complicated universe, so vast and unexplained that man only recently has begun to realize how small a portion of it he has explored at all.

But there is a pattern, set in motion and overseen, and no accident. And to believe in the ultimate goodness of the pattern—somehow—is the test put to all human beings. It is what is known, for want of a better term, as "Faith."

It actually is the whole thing we're talking about at Easter time in our churches.

Junior High Pupils To See Gymnastics Show

U-M Gymnastics Coach Plymouth Junior High students — in two special assemblies April 14 — will catch a glimpse of some of the University of Michigan's best gymnasts, tumblers and trampoline artists.

Headed by U-M gymnastics coach Nevt Loken, the contingent of athletes will perform for Plymouth seventh graders from 1:45 to 2:30 p.m. and for eighth and ninth graders from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. on that date.

It will consist of a demonstration of gymnastics, tumbling and trampolining.

In addition to the students themselves, parents and the public are invited, a spokesman said.

Loken has been at the U-M since 1945 and has coached the gymnastics team since the sport was re-activated in 1947-48. He is a former Big Ten and NCAA All-Around gymnastics champion.

Salem Church Plans Special Easter Service

Salem Congregational Church, Dickerson St., Salem, will commemorate the resurrection of Christ with a special Easter Service, Sunday morning, April 17, at 10 o'clock.

Following the worship service will be the Sunday School hour during which a motion picture in color will be shown depicting the Easter story.

There will be an Easter egg hunt for the younger set preceded by an Easter party. The Youth Group will meet as usual at 6:30 p.m. with an evening service to follow at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to all services.

Play Ball Against Thurston

Coach Mike Hoben's 1960 baseball team opens the season today with a non-league game at Thurston. Weather permitting, the game will start at 4 p.m. Hoben named senior Randy Egloff as the probable starting pitcher. A husky left hander, Egloff was named to the All-

HOBEN HOLDS head while wading through another practice session during the dank, cold weather last week. Last season Coach Mike Hoben's team shared the Suburban Six League championship with Bentley. The Rocks open today with a non-league encounter at Thurston.

State football squad at quarterback and to the All League basketball team at forward.

Last season Hoben's nine won 13 and lost two and shared the Suburban Six League championship with Bentley. Thurston won 12 and lost five last season, losing two games to Plymouth.

Candidates for starting assignments in today's game include: Wayne Sparkman and Pete Lononaco, third base; Jim Ralston and Carey Black, short-stop; Art Nelson and Dave Fehlig, second base; and Jim Thompson, Mike Knapp and Chuck McElroy, first base.

Either Bob Monteith or Jared Stevens will catch and Dick Wells may see some action on the mound. In left field Dave Mynatt and Jim Lockwood have the inside track, while Chuck Holley and John Salan are likely to see action in centerfield.

Either Jim Herter or Jim Kaiser will start in rightfield. Egloff and Salan are co-captains of the 1960 Rock nine.

The junior varsity will also meet Thurston at 4 p.m. today. This game is at Plymouth.

SPORTSEEN

By BILL NELSON

Some people like to get a glimpse of the first robin. For some others a bright, sunny day will do the trick. If you've ever been exposed to it, the real magic for getting by a dank depressing day in late March or early April is a visit to any sports emporium.

It's like Oak Ridge; an exciting feeling of harnessed energy. There was such a dark day last week, and in wandering about Plymouth's High School one could find the tennis team under Coach Jim Doyle's direction busily banging balls against a temporary partition in the high school gym. It was wiser to stay inside while nature won one more battle by showering snow in open defiance of spring calendar dates.

Especially if you have good prospects, as apparently Mike Hoben has, baseball requires less confining space. So baseball Coach Hoben had to move outside as soon as ice skates weren't required. Muddled in parkas, hands in pockets, Hoben's helpers took to a soggy, cold diamond for practice.

Someone broke a bat with a solid drive and 15 people rubbed their hands. Keith Baumhann's thinclads were heavily clad as they charged against time and space with the cool, calculated purpose of generating enough warmth to survive practice. Later they assembled in the gym for a pep-talk thaw.

Golf Coach John Sandmann's speciality is greens, and this color was noticeably absent outside. He will be shooting at last season's state championship effort by his golf team, which was one point short.

John McFall, out of water after his team won 14 straight in swimming, talked of a banquet to honor his team in early May.

Everywhere there was nothing that could be done that would directly produce a win, but there were young, lithe athletes practicing, practicing. Soon they could produce—when weather walls break. Then, they would be ready to do the best they can.

Last week Detroit dailies told of the death of Charles P. Ward, a sportswriter for a long time and recently a racing writer for the Detroit Times.

It was our good fortune to have known Mr. Ward in a very small way for three years. Detroit writers who probably knew him much better have written about his great ability to see through anything phony and his talent for cynicism.

The eulogies are surprising. To a young college student working his way through school at a race track Mr. Ward was the epitome of decency, kindness and education — traits not generally associated with a cynic.

He was outstanding for some other traits. He was quiet, industrious and helpful. A man in his middle fifties is never exactly the personification of energy, but even then Charlie's furrowed brow and nervous excitement at getting a story were electrifying.

They will miss him at the Detroit Race Course in Livonia this May. And, come to think of it, they ought to have conducted tours to meet Charlie.

While, I'm sure that he would have had none of it, it would have done your heart good.

Especially in late March or early April.

Little League Try-Out Schedule for April 23

More than 400 persons, including 250 potential Little League players, attended an open meeting at the VFW hall here last Saturday to learn more of the league's forth-coming plans.

Among the announcements made during the meeting was that initial player try-outs will be held Saturday, April 23, at the Plymouth Junior High school.

Boys eight and nine years old will try-out at 10 a.m. on that date and youngsters 10 to 12 will try-out at 2 p.m.

Several Little League candidates registered during the Saturday meeting. One of the first to sign up was Allen Pardon, 11, of 1557 Maxwell Street.

In all, there will be more than 500 boys between eight and 12 participating in the Plymouth baseball Little League when it gets underway early this summer.

There will be eight teams comprising a National Division and an American Division of the league. Already, more than $1,700 has been pledged or donated toward a Little League goal of $2,500. Further contributions are being received daily.

Runners Meet Belleville at Home

Eighty-five candidates turned out for Coach Keith Baumhann's Plymouth track team that will stage its home opener today against Belleville.

Among those expected to perform today are 11 returning letter winners, but a mighty important name will be missing.

Plymouth's top sprinter of 1959, Ed LaRoche, has graduated to the University of Idaho. Last season he held the league's top time of 22.3 in the 220 yard dash and 10.5 in the one hundred.

Among those who lettered last season are Dick Alsbro and Bill Hall. They own shares of the league and school medley mark of 2:34.7. The medley is an event that Hondorp, high and low hurdles; John Stephenson, hurdles and Dave Westover, 880 run.

Westover is 1960 captain. Graduated from last year's squad, which placed second in the Suburban Six League, are: Myron Hopper, Ron Turkett, Mike Kelley and Bruce Wood in addition to

Other returning letterwinners include Bill Brown, pole vault; Allen Davies, 880 yard run; Lee Feldkamp, 100 and 220 yard sprints; Dave Hawk, 440 yard dash; Gary

Golfers Tee Off With RU Today

A club will whip through the air at 4 p.m. today and send a little white ball sailing up over a fairway at Western Country Club.

Plymouth will begin a drive to shave one key stroke off its golf score over last season.

The Rocks, you see, lost the state championship to Ann Arbor in the state meet last year 331-330. Today's meet will be the first of 1960 and will pit Coach John Sandmann's Plymouth team against Redford Union.

Ex-Rock Star Pitches Chips To Victory

In the middle of a spring tour that will cause the Chippewas to play eleven games in eleven days, Central Michigan apparently is banking heavily on the performance of a Plymouth High grad.

Pitcher Ken Knipschild has already tucked one win away, winning over Ball State last week. In addition, the Central publicity office says that Knipschild was scheduled to go again last Saturday in the second game of a double header against Franklin College (Ind.).

The Chips conclude their eleven game tour with a game at Ann Arbor with the University of Michigan on Tuesday, April 19.

Rock Tankers Named 8th In Michigan

Plymouth has been named the eighth best dual meet team in the state by Michigan Swimming News, the authoritative source on high school swimming in Michigan.

John McFall's undefeated dual meet aggregation is listed below seventh-ranked Ann Arbor, a team which Plymouth beat at Ann Arbor.

In addition to the team honor, five Plymouth individuals were named to the Swimming News All-State team. Ranked eighth in the state was Plymouth's 200 yard medley relay team.

The following Rocks were named to the All-State team:

- Dick Gretzinger (twice)
- Beau Toll
- Robert Daley
- Ronald Daley
- Allen Davies

Gretzinger was seventh best in the state in the 200 yard individual medley (2:21.0) and tied for eighth in the 100 yard butterfly (58.5).

Northville Downs Tries Big Experiment in '60

An unusual experiment will be tried this year by Northville Downs, Michigan pioneer parimutuel harness racing spot in nearby Northville.

The downs will pioneer a stakeless program on the local level.

In place of the track's traditional stakes, the Downs has scheduled a series of six $5,000 Invitational Exchange paces and trots. The six features will be held on Friday nights.

The Northville oval opens its meeting Monday, June 20. It will continue 39 nights through Wednesday, August 3.

This exchange series will match the fastest trotters and pacers from Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago against the best at Northville. It should prove to be some of the finest racing in Northville in many seasons.

It is designed for the regular owners and drivers at the Northville track.

"In the past we have had stakes where outside owners would ship in horses, win large purses and then leave to perform at tracks outside the state," explained Downs' general manager John Carlo. This meant that regular horsemen at Northville had no chance to compete for larger purses.

"We decided to eliminate the stakes this year and reward our regulars with a chance to compete for $5,000 weekly without paying nomination fees or nominating horses during the winter," added Carlo.

Under the new Northville Downs "stakeless" program, the track will be increasing the total purses by $5,000 for the seven feature events. Last year the winners of the seven stakes collected $35,000. This year the six $5,000 Exchange paces and trots plus a $10,000 trot will bring the total to $40,000.

Dates for Northville's Exchange events are: trot, June 24; pace, July 1; trot, July 8; pace, July 15; trot, July 22; and pace, July 29.

Northville Downs, a member of the Harness Tracks of America, will continue with the HTA program and sponsor one leg of the HTA trot which has a value of $10,000 added at Northville and a $50,000 finale at New York in late September.

Most of the bad roads have been around the Canton Township out-lying schools. Houghton said that the mud this year was the worst he had seen in his seven years as transportation director. It was the first year that he has forbidden buses to go down roads. Frost which remained under the surface prohibited the water from penetrating. Fire departments have also worried about the mud, fearing their heavy trucks would bog down in some spots. There were signs this week that the big thaw was easing up and that the mud would soon turn to dust.

They Dial
ter part of the week and it built up toward Sunday. But now just as many come in earlier in the week. There are times of the day when calls are heavier. From 4 to 7 p.m. the answering devices are quite busy. After a two-hour lull, they are going strong again from 9 until 10:30.

On a recent Saturday night, the pastor was in his church office until 1 a.m. and counted a dozen calls from midnight until 1. It is assumed that there are many calls throughout the night.

Michigan Bell requires two answering devices because of the jam-up that would result if there were but one. Even then, the Michigan Bell office recorded 296 busy signals for the two machines on one week end.

Cost of leasing the equipment is around $40 a month. "The expense seems high, but not when you figure out the number of people you are reaching," the Dial-A-Devotion pastor pointed out. Certainly no other pastor in Plymouth is able to reach 15,000 people a month. The minister himself records the new devotional message each night. The poems are those that he has accumulated over the past 25 years.

Through letters and cards, it has been learned that those who are confined to their homes with illness are especially grateful for the 55-second daily message. Many of those writing express regret that the call is so short.

One letter from Northville read: "I just received my daily devotion over the phone. I do hope they can be continued. I was in the hospital for 10 days and I am recuperating now. The daily devotion has been an inspiration to me."

The letters also seem to indicate that the callers belong to a wide variety of denominations. Many of the writers express hope that Dial-A-Devotion will continue.

But, according to the pastor, the callers need not fear that it will be discontinued. "My congregation has given its enthusiastic support," the pastor asserted. "And even if they didn't, I'd be glad to pay for it out of my own pocket."

Enthusiasm for the service is renewed each day when cards are received, such as one written last week by a Garden City woman: "Just a line to say how much a blessing your devotional recordings have been to me. They have helped me more than you'll ever know to overcome a very depressing time and to feel much closer to the Lord." And making a caller "closer to the Lord" is just what the Dial-A-Devotion is intended to do.

Global TV Can Become Reality Using Satellites
NEW YORK (UPI) — A global television system may become a reality within the next decade. Aircraft and Missiles Magazine reports that the world could have global TV almost immediately if satellites could be placed over the equator. Satellites which could relay TV signals would need weigh only 50 pounds. Each would carry three lenses, one for ground control and two for relaying impulses to other satellites. Each would also have a one-square-meter antenna and a small nuclear power generator. Scientists estimate that very little power would be needed — only a few watts of satellite-based power for relaying. Ground stations would transmit TV (and radio) through the earth's dense atmosphere in the 2,000-5,000 megacycle frequency range. Most experts regard this "active" satellite system as the most feasible for world TV and radio. A "passive" system would require such tremendous amounts of ground-based power so as to be virtually impracticable. An antenna similar to a fringe area TV antenna would be sufficient in most homes to receive a broadcast originating on another continent. Such an antenna has a suitable power gain and can be inexpensively directed towards the satellite. The United States has not as yet awarded a global TV system contract, although a number of related research contracts have been awarded. Present program plans — called NOTUS — are contingent upon accomplishment of another program, TASK DECREE, which would place several communications satellites over the equator.

Boat License Buying Jumps

With melting snows and the promise of warmer weather in the air, the Michigan Department of State reports that boat registrations in all categories are increasingly sharply.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, each day 450 or more motor boat owners register their watercraft. The fee is $2 and is valid for three years. Inland boats registered in Michigan before the Federal numbering system was adopted are being re-registered free, Hare pointed out.

Watercraft 16 feet or over using the Great Lakes or connecting waterways pay a higher fee and get a 3 by 5 inch black and white license plate.

The motor license costs $5 for power craft 16 to 20 feet in length and scale upward to more than a thousand dollars. A yacht, for example, more than 65 feet in length pays $1 per foot plus $1 per ton.

License sales for these longer craft have also jumped sharply. At this time last year the State had issued licenses for 349 yachts and similar craft. This year it has already registered 593 and the number is increasing every week.

Charles Hanlon

Charles B. Hanlon, hospital corpsman first class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hanlon of 628 Adams St., took part in a huge amphibious landing exercise, March 22, on Formosa's southern coast while serving aboard the destroyer USS Morton.

The exercise, termed "Operation Blue Star", called for all participating units to assemble in the area on March 20 along with Marine units based in the Far East and U. S. - Republic of China navy, marine and air force elements.

Purpose of the operation, which comprised over 18,000 Marines and 70 Navy ships, was to promote closer working relations between U. S. and Republic of China forces in practicing the conventional and vertical assault type amphibious landings.

William H. Klenke, Jr., Chrysler Corp., chairman of the Ticket Sales Committee, said that each community in the Greater Detroit Area, will be represented at the April 12 meeting.

Special ticket packs will be issued to community ticket sales chairmen for distribution to each pack, troop and post in the Detroit Area Council.

"Our goal," said Klenke, "is to sell over 300,000 tickets to parents, relatives and friends of the Scouts who will participate in the Jubilee Scouting Exposition." The Exposition will feature hundreds of colorful booth displays, thrilling outdoor shows, and special activities presented by Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers.

TIPS for TEENS

ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q. — "Dear Elinor: I am 13 and I have a sister who is 15. Whenever I have something in my room that she likes, she just takes it without asking. When she puts on her makeup, she always has to take some of it off and she uses my clothes to take it off. When I tell my mother and father, they tell her not to do it. But she does. What can I do to make her stop?"

Ans. — Instead of telling your parents what your sister does with your things, show them. Keep on showing them, every time she does it. If they don't make her stop, try to find some way to make her keep "hands off" your belongings. Keep your things put away in the closet and drawers, out of sight, where she won't see them easily. Try to keep a box of tissues handy, so she'll use them for her makeup. If nothing else works, it sometimes takes drastic action to make selfish people get the message — like doing the same to HER things until she stops taking liberties with yours. People who help themselves to others' possessions usually scream the loudest when someone touches theirs.

Q. — "Dear Miss Williams: I am 12 and I go to girl-and-boy parties. I have also been to an amusement park with a group of boys and girls. Now I have been invited to a movie with a boy, but my parents won't let me go. It doesn't seem fair to me. What do you think?"

Ans. — Your parents see possibilities in the movie-date question that you cannot see. It's this: — Sitting in the dark — perhaps in the back of the balcony, as some boys and girls do — is much different from going to an amusement park where there are bright lights and no privacy. Being seen at the amusement park with a boy or with a group is usually harmless. Being seen (at 12 years old) on a date in a movie with a boy could give the impression of "too much too soon" in the date-department. So, for your own sake, be smart and let movie dates wait until later when you've had time to acquire the dating know-how and good judgment that you need for them.

Census 'Mop Up' Starts

The 1960 Census of Population and Housing enters its final stage on April 16 when a picked group of interviewers begins a "mopping up" operation to complete the ten-year inventory of the nation's district office. Also, some of the report forms which have not been completely filled out.

The "clean up" interviewers will make personal visits to the households from which report forms have not been received and obtain the answers to the Census questions. They will also seek, by telephone and personal visits, the answers to questions left blank or incorrectly answered in the report forms already sent to the census office.

WHAT'S NEW

For the home craftsman, Delta Power Tool (Division of Rockwell Manufacturing, Pittsburgh) has introduced a radial drill press, previously available only in expensive industrial models. Large capacity, adaptability to all types of drilling and versatility which makes it useful for sanding, shaping, routing and other operations are claimed as major advantages.

The drill head, mounted on a horizontal ram, can be moved outward to reach the center of a 32-inch panel. The head also tilts for drilling at any angle and swivels on the supporting column so that the drill bit rather than the work is positioned. It has four speeds and is mounted on a sturdy table.

A remedy for squeaky floors is available in Steel-X automatic bridging, manufactured by Taber-Bushnell Co., Minneapolis. Installed between two joists, downpull action wedges bridging into locked position, is said to eliminate any floor squeak resulting from loose wood joists.

Sixties Should Bring Huge Home-Building Boom

Shortly after the end of World War II and through the fifties, economists and sociologists pointed an optimistic finger toward the 1960's and predicted that this decade would usher in the biggest building boom in this country's history. We have just entered the sixties. If facts, figures and history are any criteria, these predictions are destined to come true.

The forecasts were based on population trends during and after the war. A marked increase in births from 1940 indicates that children born at that time would come of marriageable age in this present decade.

It is interesting to note, to uphold this point conversely, that a declining birth trend in the depression days caused a decrease in the marriage rate in the late fifties. In 1957, for example, there were slightly over one and a half million marriages or a decrease of 5 percent from 1956.

In 1958 a further decrease of almost 7 percent from 1957 was further evidence of the direct ratio between economic conditions, births and subsequent marriages. Estimated 1959 marriage statistics show the stemming of this decline and the rate is certain to rise quickly in the 1960's.

Looking at Department of Commerce statistics as published in the "Statistical Abstract of the U.S.—1959," we see that in 1935, in the depths of the depression, there was a low of 16.9 births per one thousand population. By 1940 the rate had increased to 17.9 and to 25.8 per thousand marriages by 1947.

Numerically, there were 2,155,000 births in 1935, 3,700,000 in '47, an increase of 1,545,000 or 70 percent. The effect of this increase in births and its subsequent increase in marriages upon the new construction market is obvious. The more family formations, the greater the need for housing. Thus, the babies born in the early forties are marrying in increasing numbers now and will be seeking new homes shortly.

Further analysis of this boom in new construction shows that America is becoming more and more "home" conscious. The desire of the young American family to own their home rather than rent is becoming more prevalent.

It is for this reason that in the coming expansion of new home construction, the builder looks for his greatest market among the younger family and is gearing his building plans around the budget-priced low cost home.

Building materials that can provide more home for the given building dollar will enjoy even greater popularity and usage. One such material is insulating siding, a low cost, high quality exterior wall product which is factory finished to eliminate initial and periodic painting and which provides high insulation value, durability and vermin and termite protection.

How long will this boom last? Using the birth rate figures again as a basis for prediction, the future is most encouraging. Since 1947, the birth rate per one thousand persons remains at a high average of about 24. There have been more than four million babies born in each of the last five years! Further "Statistical Abstract of the U.S." figures show that the median age of marriage is decreasing steadily. Where in 1930 the average age at marriage for men was 24.3, it is now 22.4. Similarly the age for women has declined from 21.3 to 20.2 in this period.

This trend, of course, will not go on indefinitely, but it does indicate earlier marriages and a faster cycle of family formations. As of now, then, the need for more homes will expand greatly in the 1960's and will continue indefinitely.

FHA Head Describes Minimum Standards

By JULIAN H. ZIMMERMAN
Commissioner
Federal Housing Administration

One of the chief goals of FHA is to help provide the American public with good housing that is comfortable and durable.

To achieve this goal, FHA has set up minimum property standards for building materials and construction methods used in houses to be sold under an FHA-insured mortgage.

These standards, which went into effect throughout the nation on July 1, are in general more flexible than were FHA's former minimum property requirements.

They cover all sorts of things from the shingles on the roof down to the concrete in the foundation and even include design, drainage, and grading.

They define the minimum level of quality acceptable to FHA and to the Veterans Administration, keeping in mind the objective of reaching the needs of purchasers in low-level income brackets and at the same time insuring full value for every dollar expended.

I am often asked how FHA arrived at these standards. The best answer is that generally accepted standards developed by nationally recognized authorities were relied on to determine if materials were suitable, how they should be tested and assembled, and how they should be expected to hold up when in use.

Spring Tune-Up Aids Winter-Weary Autos

By David Allen

It's time again for all cars to have their usual spring checkup. April is a good month to find out how to get rid of winter's debris and get the car ready for spring and summer driving fun.

Most cars that are driven through the winter are a mess by the time spring comes. There is usually a good accumulation of mud, salt and sand underneath the exterior.

Hose the undersides of the fenders and any metal parts, using the full force of the water pressure. This will remove rust-causing dirt and road salt.

Drain the radiator, removing all the old anti-freeze. Then fill the cooling system with fresh water, adding a rust inhibitor for the summer. All hose connections on the car should be tested to make sure there are no leaks.

The small drain holes underneath the doors and body panels should be opened up to allow rain water to drain off properly. Weatherstripping that has worked loose should be re-cemented. Look inside the trunk for this, too.

The wheels should be rotated including the spare tire. This will prolong the life of the tires. Wheels should be checked for proper alignment.

The battery and electrical system should be inspected. If horn, headlights, directional signals or any other lights are not in proper working order, now is the time to have them repaired.

Engine oil should be drained out and a new grade of summer oil put in. The chassis must be lubricated, including door locks and latches.

Inspect the fan belt for wear and tension, check the exhaust system for leaks, test the spark plugs and points and tune up the motor. This will put the car in top shape for the summer months.

Played Any Marbles Lately . . .

By F. H. Romley

Seen anyone playing marbles yet? Or do the young boys in town ride the bus to school and head for home afterward without stopping to "shoot a few" in the mudiest spot along the way?

Some boys and girls somewhere must still play marbles, the game that has always been as much a part of spring as the circus coming to town. Somebody buys those 500,000,000 marbles that are manufactured in the United States every year.

One West Virginia firm alone produces 100,000,000 glass marbles annually.

Marbles is a serious game and, whether it's boys or boys and girls playing, it's played for keeps. It's a competitive game, too, for the whole idea is to end the spring day with more marbles in your pocket than you had when you left home in the morning.

Whichever of the many versions of this old game is played, it takes skill, a keen eye and steady nerves to get the other fellow's aggie. Remember the boys who used to shoot from a standing position and win?

The most standardized marbles, game today is "ringer," which is played at the National Marble Tournament every year in Asbury Park, N.J. Local civic or service organizations usually sponsor contests to find a candidate to send to this competition. This game has rules and penalties galore, but basically the idea is to knock marbles out of the 10-foot circle with a shooter. Each marble knocked out counts one point.

Long ago, marbles actually were made out of marble. They've also been made of clay in which case they were properly called migs, of crockery and steel (ball bearings).

Note to adults who no longer play marbles: You might collect old ones. Migs sometimes are found at antique shops where the price for one may be as much as the price for a bagful fifty years ago. Steeles, cockies (shiny brown or blue glaze) and real aggies could be other finds.

Wives Spending Third of Their Time in Kitchen

CHICAGO (UPI) — The housewife spends about one-third of her life in the kitchen, says an appliance manufacturer, and 30 million of these kitchens are badly planned.

The kitchen should be at least 100 feet square, specialists say, patterned in one of four basic types, U-shaped, L-shaped, corridor or one-wall.

The U shape is most popular because it has the shortest work triangle — the distance from the refrigerator to the sink to the electric range and back to the refrigerator. The sink is in the middle of the U, with the stove on one side and the refrigerator on the other.

The L-shape is second favorite among housewives, possibly because it is adaptable to almost any space and is planned for step-saving. The sink and refrigerator are placed against one wall, the stove against the other.

The corridor kitchen — in which sink and refrigerator are against one wall, the stove against the facing wall — has all the virtues of the other two except that it cannot be used as a family room.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS ... UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you—at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.

Only 38 Percent of Americans Have Salk Polio Vaccinations

Five years ago — April 12, 1955 — the Salk polio vaccine was pronounced "safe, effective and potent," according to Richard T. Kelly, Chairman of the Wayne County Chapter of The National Foundation.

"We of the Wayne County Chapter remember this day with great pride," Kelly said. "It meant that 15 years of effort was rewarded with success — an effective preventive of paralytic polio."

The findings of the historic Francis Report were flashed around the world, heralding release from the haunting fears of every father and mother. The Francis Report was promptly hailed as a medical classic and a milestone.

The Francis pronouncement was based on an evaluation of the famed field trials of the year before (1954). These mammoth-scale trials, financed by the March of Dimes at a cost of about $7,500,000, involved 1,830,000 child "polio pioneers", aged five to nine.

These children represented 44 states. A total of 440,000 of them received Salk vaccine shots and another 210,000 were given innocuous dummy shots. This latter group, together with 1,180,000 children who received no shots of any kind, served as "controls" for comparison purposes.

Aside from these small-fry more than 300,000 volunteer adults, doctors, nurses, teachers and others, sparked by thousands of volunteers from National Foundation chapters, worked on the field trials.

A few hours after the reading of the Francis Report, the United States Public Health Service licensed the vaccine for mass production. Much earlier, The National Foundation had guaranteed in advance enough Salk vaccine for nine million children (three shots each) if the Francis Report proved favorable. The National Foundation thus committed $9,000,000 of March of Dimes contributions for vaccine production before the results of the field trials were known so that vaccine would be available against the next "polio season." Tragically, just because a polio preventive had been developed, millions of people in the United States became complacent. They told themselves that if "the other fellow" received his Salk shots, they need not trouble to get theirs.

These indifferent millions couldn't have been more mistaken.

True, paralytic polio did begin to decrease. In 1955, the crippling disease struck at 13,850; in 1956, the total dropped to 7,911; in 1957, to 2,499. And in 1958, to 3,697, with Detroit having the worst epidemic in the nation.

But for 1959, the provisional figure for paralytic polio is 5,694, which is a substantial and ominous upturn. The National Foundation since 1955 has vigorously combatted this apathy and indifference with nationwide educational campaigns in which all 3,100 chapters have valiantly joined.

One urgent reason for redoubling efforts is that today, almost on the eve of the "polio season," almost 91 millions in the United States were without any Salk vaccination (of an estimated population of 178 millions). Included in this total, which represents 51 per cent of the population, were nearly five million children under age five, the most vulnerable period for infantile paralysis.

And only 38 per cent of the population have had the prescribed three shots, a situation which Basil O'Connor, president of The National Foundation, describes as "a national tragedy."

Pity Poor Chamber that Must Promote 'Worthless City'

NEWARK, N. J. (UPI) — What does a Chamber of Commerce do when its home base has a handle like Worthless City?

The answer to that is — look around for company, the kind misery loves. And in the New Jersey of Revolutionary days, there were plenty of odd-ball names implanted on the map.

Hog Wallow was one of them and it was not too far from Worthless City. Nestled in the midst of about 75,000 acres of barren swamp, Hog Wallow got its name as a matter of course. It was a haven for runaway hogs.

And down around southern New Jersey, where most of these places were located, you could also spit in Ong's Hat — if you could find it.

The now - deserted town got its name from a man named Ong. Legend has it that Ong liked to tie one on occasionally. Well, one Saturday night he was feeling no pain and tossed his high, black silk hat into a tree — and it stayed there.

Witness the birth of a town — Ong's Hat. For more appetizing names, try Apple Pie Hill right close by Bread and Cheese Run. But don't look for explanations. There aren't any.

Coming into central Jersey, in Monmouth County you can find Bedbug Hill by trotting down to Alligator Ridge, turning right at Dog Corner and moving on a ways to Rattlesnake Crossing. The hill is just ahead.

Still in Monmouth, but only 12 miles from Trenton, is a cluster of crumbling brick and frame buildings that used to be the borough of Cabagetown. Once sprinkled with cabbage patches, the area now gets its cabbages from supermarkets.

Then there was Chew Town, Cream Ridge, Caviar, Chicken Bone, and La-Ha-Way, Pimple Hill, Nummytown, Loveladies, Hospitality and Success.

Not to be outdone were the burghers of Fooltown, Mount Misery, Recklesstown and Double Trouble.

You won't find any of these towns on current road maps. But, for those who collect such things, grab a map from the early 1800's and good hunting.

New Strawberry Plant Not Tested

Michigan gardeners have little to gain from raising a highly - advertised climbing strawberry plant, according to Harry Bell, horticulturist at Michigan State University.

This plant hasn't been tested for adaptability in Michigan. It comes from Europe, and very few European varieties have succeeded in America.

"There's no proof," adds Bell, "that the novelty strawberry is free of virus disease. This disease can spread to other plants."

The strawberry isn't a true climbing plant like certain climbing beans, peas and ornamental vines. One must tie up the runners to make the new plant climb, and this works with most Michigan strawberry varieties.

"Gardeners who wish to grow a climbing strawberry should try one of three vigorous everbearing varieties," Bell points out. "These include Gem, Superfection, and Brilliant, and they are available at much lower prices than the European plant."

What You Don't Know About Voting Process

Why don't more people take an active part in politics—or vote? It doesn't seem logical, but part of the answer is that they don't know they can. Party rules, customs and state laws so regulate and restrict the activity of both citizens and political parties that many people are left out.

In Michigan, for instance, the method of choosing delegates to the national political conventions effectively prevents all but a handful of people from sharing in the nomination of a presidential candidate.

And Michigan's laws governing the registration of voters, liberal as they are, keep some people from voting.

Even the direct, open primary—designed to give everyone a share in the nomination of candidates—doesn't actually have that result.

Only some of the candidates for public office are nominated in the primary where everyone can vote. Others are nominated at the state conventions of the political parties. And at the conventions only delegates vote on nominations.

If you vote in the August primary, you can help nominate the state's United States senators and representatives; the governor and lieutenant governor; state senators and representatives; circuit court judges and commissioners; probate judges; and county officers.

But you must be a delegate to your party's state convention if you want to help nominate these state officials.

Secretary of state, attorney general, auditor general, superintendent of public instruction, highway commissioner, justice of the state supreme court, members of the governing bodies of the three major state universities, and the members of the state board of education.

In some states, Wisconsin for instance, all local and state officials, are nominated in the primary. Wisconsin goes even farther and holds a presidential preference primary.

But in Michigan the average voter has very little say in nominating a presidential candidate.

Delegates to the national convention of both parties will be elected by a special state convention later this spring. The delegates to the state convention will be selected by the delegates to each county convention. And these delegates were named in the August primary in 1958—almost two years ago.

State law, and probably lack of interest on the part of the voter, prevent many persons from even voting for these county convention delegates. In the first place the names of the candidates for delegate to the county convention don't appear on all ballots. If you vote on a voting machine as a growing number do, you have to vote a separate printed ballot for this office.

In any case, you have to write in the candidate's name or use a sticker obtained from your party or the candidate. Most people don't know who the candidates are or don't bother to vote for party precinct delegates.

In one precinct of a medium-size Michigan city in 1958, only 27 people voted for their precinct delegates. Twenty of these were Republicans and seven were Democrats. Yet in the November election in the same precinct 687 persons voted for governor.

So in that precinct only 27 persons had a hand in shaping party affairs—or even indirectly will help nominate a presidential candidate this summer.

Registration laws also act to keep people from taking part in politics. You can't sign a nominating petition, or a referendum petition, or vote unless you are a registered voter.

Essential requirements for registration are that you be 21 years of age and a resident of Michigan. But you must vote or your name may be stricken from the registration list. State law says your name can be removed from the registration list after four years if you don't vote. The law also permits cities and townships to remove names after two years if they so desire. While this permits clerks to rid voting records of deadwood, it can frustrate one who wishes to renew his interest in voting.

And you will have to register at least 30 days prior to the election in which you want to vote. For instance, final registration date for the August 2 primary is July 5. Final registration date for the Nov. 8 election is October 10.

If you move you'll have to change your registration if you want to vote.

More people should take an interest in politics—ask any candidate as election day nears. And many citizens could do more if they knew more about the rules of the game.

One of the best studies of Michigan politics is a little paper-back called "Guide to Michigan Politics" written by Joseph G. LaPolombara of Michigan State University. A new edition of this pamphlet is coming off the press soon. It's available by writing Bureau of Social and Political Research, Morrill Hall, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich. Price is $1.

How's Business?

March Trade Wasn't Bad

By Roger W. Babson

Despite reports of disappointing business and a rash of more conservative 1960 business projections, results of March activity were satisfactory. Industrial production held within 2 percent of the January 1960 all-time high.

Nevertheless, since business fell below seasonal standards, the Babson Composite Business Chart receded to the 126 mark.

Undaunted by the rapid build-up of dealers' new-car supplies, auto producers maintained a

Crash Victims Usually Have Basic Injuries

CHICAGO (UPI) — The physician, by necessity, takes a pretty good look at the driver - victims of automobile accidents, according to four Detroit doctors.

The Detroit doctors, writing in the "Journal of the International College of Surgeons," said the average driver-victim of a car crash usually has some, and in some cases all, of seven basic injuries.

The physicians, Drs. James D. Fryfogle, Robert H. Orbeck, Donald Mehan, and Walter Stenberg, said the injuries and their causes were:

- 1—Cuts or fractures of the head from slamming against the windshield.
- 2—Injuries to the spine from bouncing back after the impact.
- 3—Crushed chest and broken ribs from being "compressed" into the steering column.
- 4—A hole in the diaphragm through which the intestines are forced into the chest from being thrust into the steering column.
- 5—Ruptured spleen, liver and/or kidney and tears in the bowel from the steering column.
- 6—Injuries to the kneecaps from smashing into the dashboard.
- 7—Sprained thumbs, from gripping the steering wheel at collision.

"Since the 'great American killer,' the automobile, continues to exact its toll of human life," the doctors said, "the medical profession must be prepared to recognize and treat the bizarre pathological conditions presented by the victims."

They said it has been found that the immediate aim of surgery in accident cases is to stop severe bleeding, repair tears and restore the patient's ability to breathe normally.

They said, however, that in some cases it is better to treat shock before attempting surgery and "the decision to intervene surgically in the case of a person who has suffered maximal stress and appears to be an extremely poor surgical risk is a difficult one."

They cited five recent cases in which the patients lived because they did undergo immediate surgery and said that all five of the victims suffered the combined effects of four of the major seven accident injuries and that they all had at least two others.

Indigence among Americans more than 65 years old has dropped in the past ten years from an average of three persons out of ten to less than one in ten.

high rate of output in March. Sustained demand for steel from this source enabled the steel industry to operate close to 90 percent of capacity. With most other sectors of industry running at a good clip, employment and income conditions bolstered general sentiment.

The consensus at the turn of the year was that the post-steel-strike catch-up and inventory rebuilding would carry business steadily upward until later this spring. However, the swiftness of the restoration of normal flow of supplies and the succession of sales - hampering blizzards forced business to top-off prematurely. Assured of adequate supplies of goods and a relatively stable price structure, businessmen restricted forward buying, particularly when sales lagged.

The spring revival in consumer spending, and more cheerful weather conditions, should dispel some of the winter blues. Nevertheless, the steady build-up of inventories foreshadows further declines in general business in the months ahead.

Unless new car sales catapult upward, the industry may be forced to curb production of 1960 models earlier than usual. In this event, adverse effects upon demand for steel, auto parts, etc., could force a further slackening in business through the summer. But an early introduction of 1961 auto models could stimulate fall activity.

Certain strong bolstering influences will tend to keep the business led down from getting out of hand. Chief among these is the upward trend in capital expenditures. Supplementing this strong business stimulus is the effective spur to consumer buying impatience afforded by record personal incomes and full employment conditions.

'If Your Name Is Andy'

By ANN REYNOLDS

How do parents pick names for their babies? One way is to do as Queen Elizabeth II of England did. "Andrew" and the other names she selected for her new son were those of his grand and great-grandfathers. Another way is to choose appellations of someone in the news. Most likely some mothers are singling out one of the names of the infant prince for their own use. "Andrew" for instance, or its familiar form, "Andy."

Originally this was "Andreas" - it is a Greek name and means "manly," from the Greek word "andros." There was one Andrew among the disciples of Jesus. Could be that his real name was something else, and Andreas a translation of it into Greek.

The biblical Andrew was the son of a fisherman of Bethsaida in Galilee; first he was a disciple of John the Baptist. Then once, when Jesus happened to pass by, John exclaimed, "Behold the Lamb of God," and on hearing these words, Andrew followed Jesus. Of his life after the Crucifixion we have no reliable report. It was said that he did missionary work in Asia and Eastern Europe. About 70 A.D. he suffered martyrdom by crucifixion on an X-shaped cross, since then called St. Andrew's Cross.

St. Andrew is regarded as the patron of Scotland; according to legend, St. Rule or Regulus carried his remains to Scotland in the fourth century, having been admonished to do so by a dream. The boat he traveled on was wrecked on the Scottish Coast, where a church and the town of St. Andrews were later built.

The feast of St. Andrew is an occasion for Scots living abroad to hold reunions. On that day, Nov. 30, Scotchmen stick St. Andrew's Crosses in their hats, consisting of blue and white ribbons arranged in an X-shaped cross, or, to use an expression from heraldry, in a "saltire." Incidentally, in the Union-Jack of Great Britain Scotland is represented by a white St.

Andrew's Cross in a blue field.

The name of one Andrew or Andreas is remembered among the pioneers of medicine. Andreas Vesalius is often called the father of anatomy; with the publication of his masterpiece, "About the Structure of the Human Body" he established anatomy based on observation and research. Its illustrations, by the way, are said to have come from the workshop of the great Renaissance painter, the Venetian Titian.

From where I sit, most of us are people of habit—new things take some getting used to. And, too, most of us have "favorites" for which there'll never be a substitute. #### Control of Dutch Elm Disease

Once again we are nearing the season of the year when our Department of Public Works begins spraying our shade trees. The main object in spraying trees is to prevent the spread of Dutch elm disease. This is an expensive program, but in the long run it is less expensive than the cost of removing and replacing dead trees.

Unfortunately, there is no known cure for this destroyer of trees, so it is important that each community does its part to help control the spread of the disease. The Plant Industry Division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture began a Dutch elm disease control program in 1951. Since that time, many communities have assumed the responsibility of the spraying and sanitation phase of the overall program.

Dutch elm disease was first discovered in Michigan in 1950 when nine trees in Wayne County were found to be infected. Since then, the disease has spread into 36 counties in the lower peninsula, with approximately 7-132 trees being infected with the disease in 1959.

Because of the nature of Dutch elm disease, its existence is not apparent to the naked eye. If a dying tree is infected with the disease, the damage has already been done, and there is a good possibility that nearby trees are infected as well. The only way to be certain if a suspected tree is infected with the disease is to submit a wood sample to laboratory analysis. This analysis is conducted by a pathologist in the Plant Industry Division.

A wood slip is taken from the suspected tree and sent to Lansing. There it is incubated for several days and the resulting growth is studied under a microscope to see if the Dutch elm disease fungus is present. If the sample is diseased, the owner of the tree from which the sample was taken is sent a condemnation notice requiring him to remove the tree within ten days. The tree must then be destroyed to prevent further spread of the disease.

Although a control program of spraying, sanitation and diseased tree eradication is costly, foresters generally agree that the elm tree, as a shade tree, is worthy of a long range control program. It has been found that communities having a sound control program are noticing a decrease in the number of diseased trees, or at least a decrease in the spread of the disease to healthy trees. Thus, in 1959, there were 1,449 fewer diseased trees in the state than in the previous year.

Each spring the Department of Public Works sprays our trees with a special D.D.T. compound. As a result, in 1959, there were eight trees within the city suspected of being infected with Dutch elm disease. Laboratory tests showed that seven of them were diseased. In addition, 25 dead elm trees were condemned and destroyed. In 1959, there were nine trees suspected of being infected and eight of them were found to have the disease.

Only 18 dead elm trees were condemned, however. Most of the dead trees which were condemned came from wooded areas within our city and could not be classified as shade trees. In other words, we had a net decrease of six diseased trees. We feel that a continued program of spraying and dead tree removal will eventually control the disease in our community.

Jr. Achievement Has Nationwide Boom in Sales

All across the continental United States and as far west as Hawaii, junior industrialists seem to be hitting their stride in getting John Q. Public in a buying mood, buying Junior Achievement products that is.

The JA sales boom throughout southeastern Michigan, already surpassing last year's total with little more than a month to go before JA firms liquidate early in May, has continued without let up since December.

Junior Achievement officials predict that total sales figures will pass $130,000, a record which was set last year in southeastern Michigan. Sales for the area will be increased by ten or even fifteen thousand dollars.

In Plymouth some $2,006 worth of goods have been sold by Junior Achievement company salesmen since October. With a month to go, eight Plymouth Junior Achievement companies are increasing their efforts to sell all their merchandise on hand before liquidating.

Tops in the sales department among all local Junior Achievement companies is Ben Ply Co., counselled in business by Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Ben Ply Co. sells night light telephones. Latest figures show this small teenage company has sold $1,132 worth of goods to date. President of the firm is Mary Elden Dart, 17, of 760 Burroughs, Plymouth.

The national 'learn by doing' business organization predicts that over two million dollars worth of JA products will be consumed by the American public this year. High on the consumer sales list are such JA items as household cleaners, aluminum and steel products such as ashtrays and mail boxes, TV lamp and snack trays. Novelty items like children's clothes racks, night lights, clothes lint removers and the like are also proving popular with the buying public.

Research Saves Western Electric Millions Yearly

The application of mathematical tools to the problems of the communications business is saving the Western Electric Company and the Bell System as much as $13 million a year.

Robert E. Johnson, economist and actuary, announced this estimate here last week at a company-wide symposium on "operations research" — the new field of scientific management concerned with evaluating data by mathematical methods once confined largely to the academic classroom. Recent developments in electronic computers have accelerated the art by making it possible to solve equations too lengthy and complex for manual solution.

The symposium, believed to be the first of its kind held by any one company, was attended by nearly 100 men and women from some 20 locations across the country. Western Electric is the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System.

Johnson pointed out that over the past five years operations research has been applied to 200 company projects ranging over a wide variety of problems with the resultant savings now averaging $13 million annually.

Among the diverse examples of individual projects cited were the developing of an inventory system covering 215 different "codes" of telephone handsets at an annual savings of $250,000, determining the optimum location of a new manufacturing plant from the standpoint of material and distribution costs, improving plant safety through the development of a program of employee awards, and solving a variety of problems associated with purchasing supplies and materials. In the latter case, operations research saved an estimated 2 1/2 million dollars in procurement and distribution costs on some 20 products over the five year period.

John L. Lewis was born in 1880.

" - " THE CHURCH OF CHRIST " - "

How Did It All Start ?

The church of Christ was established on the first Pentecost after Christ arose from the dead. This church belonged to Christ. Surely, all of us want the church today to be exactly like it was in the beginning. We are not interested in churches that men have established, churches that are not following the Bible pattern. Christ tells us in Matthew, chapter 15, verse 13, that "Every plant which my heavenly Father planted not, shall be rooted up." We cannot follow the ideas of men and be right in the sight of God. We need the New Testament church. The world needs it. It is the only fold of safety, and we need it today as we have never needed it before.

Though there were many reformers before the Reformation movement, the beginning of that movement is rightly associated with Martin Luther. However, John Wycliffe and John Huss both worked at trying to reform the Roman Catholic church before Martin Luther was born. Luther began his work about 1517 A.D. when he posted the ninety-five theses. This was probably the real beginning of the great Protestant movement known as the Reformation. This movement was continued in later times by John Calvin, John Wesley and many others.

The efforts of these men gave birth to "Protestant" denominationalism. They had good intentions, but this movement became a great evil which has been the greatest hindrance to true religion. The result of the Reformation was that a multitude of religious organizations came into existence. These denominations were not governed by the Bible, but by different creeds written by men. In spite of their sincere efforts at reformation, the differences between these religious bodies became great. Besides all of this, the Roman Catholic church was not reformed. The reformers had failed to reach their goal.

Confusion and Chaos In The 19th Century

At the beginning of the nineteenth century there was still much confusion and chaos in the religious world. Division, denominationalism and discord were found on every hand. The Reformation had failed to reach its goal. Men who realized this, were convinced that the only way for mankind to enjoy purity of religion was to go back to the original grounds and restore the "church of the New Testament." Hence, the work of these men was not that of REFORMATION, BUT OF RESTORATION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH AND THE TEACHING OF CHRIST. This method gave the restorers a great advantage over the reformers. The efforts of the reformers failed because their method was wrong. Every religious organization had aimed to get closer to the New Testament by offering people a more Scriptural creed than any that had been tried before; and instead of getting closer to the Bible the creed only made a denomination. In order to get back to the New Testament, all will have to put an end to all creed making. Instead of trying to make better creeds, all must get rid of their human creeds. The creeds must all be laid aside, and all must unite upon the Bible.

Our Goal Today !

Our aim is to restore the Apostolic church to the world. It means the rejecting of all human creeds and a complete return to Christ and His teaching.

In other words, it means taking up Christianity as the Apostles taught it. It means the rejecting of all man-made churches. It means that all must lay down a new idea which is foreign to the Bible, and that all must unite upon the New Testament.

Now to illustrate what we mean. Suppose that there would be a great atom war which would kill all but a few of the people on this earth, and as a result the game of football would be completely forgotten. Then after four or five hundred years some man finds a football rule book. He then studies the rule book very carefully, and restores football. He did not create football, but only restores that which had been before. That is what the church of Christ is ever doing. The New Testament is the rule book. By following the New Testament only, we have only restored the Apostolic church.

The Beginning of Reformation

During the sixteenth century men sought to reform religious corruption.

1900 Years of Faith —
Today the Same Teachings

Many will ask, "Is the restoration of the Apostolic church possible today?" I believe that it is. In fact, I am sure that the Apostolic church exists today. The church of Christ is the New Testament church restored to the world as it was in the days of the Apostles. It is made up of people who have believed, repented, confessed Christ as the Son of God, and been buried in baptism, into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit and that for the remission of sins. This is what the rule book or the New Testament requires. Therefore, 1900 years ago the church of Christ was established and today has the same organization, worship, and doctrine, because we are only following the New Testament teaching.

Mrs. James Dingelley

Linda Truesdell Wed To James Dingelley

Linda Truesdell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Truesdell, 42863 Cherry Hill, became Mrs. James Dingelley in an evening wedding ceremony March 26 at the Sheldon Road Methodist Church.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dingelley, 819 Haggerty.

Given in marriage by her father, Linda was lovely in a gown of white net over satin. Her dress was full-skirted with a lace bodice. A fingertip veil was held in place by a pearl tiara and red roses centered by a white orchid formed her bouquet.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Louie Cain. Matron of honor was Mrs. Judy Winn, who wore a light blue ballerina-length gown with a large blue picture hat. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Jake Dingelley, brother of the groom, was the best man.

Both mothers, Mrs. Truesdell and Mrs. Dingelley, were outfitted in identical floral print street length dresses. Mrs. Truesdell's gown was green and was complimented by a white hat and matching gloves.

Mrs. Dingelley's dress was blue. She wore a blue hat and white gloves. Both wore white and pink carnation corsages.

Linda, for her going away outfit, wore a blue walking suit accented with a white orchid.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Linda's parents. A wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Dingelley, had been beautifully decorated by Mrs. Jeanette Campbell.

The ceremony and reception were attended by the immediate families of the bride and groom.

SHOE STORY: SPRING 1960

By Chinese calendars this is the Year of the Mouse. Fashion says it is the Year of the Leg. Hemlines are staying up. New top width demands a long-legged look for balance. A long sweep of leg directs eyes toward shoes. 1960 shoes welcome glances.

Newest shoe news is the return of the opened up look, via halters, slings, open toes and cut-outs, in every type of shoe from high fashion dress models to casual sandals.

But in this spring of "free fashion choice" the closed shoe is equally smart. Pointed toes — better than ever — and longer, narrower vamp give slippers, particularly, a slender feminine look.

Incidentally, both the pointed toe, and criticism of it, originated in the twelfth century. Count Faulk of Anjou, wore pointed toes to disguise his misshapen feet. His novel method of concealment became a fashion.

Despite being condemned as an exaggeration against good manners, a scoffing against God and the church and a worldly vanity, the fashion lasted nearly three centuries.

Eventually pointed toes reached a fantastic length of 12 inches beyond the foot and were stuffed with moss or hay and shaped with whalebone. These exaggerated toe caps, called "pointines" were elongated into strange shapes such as eagle beaks or lion's claws.

Today's less startling variations of the pointed toe include the "nipped point" (squared off at the tip) and the "round peg" (a long flattened oval).

Heels come in an endless variety of heights and shapes. The stiletto heel is smartest for evening. Dress heels, in general, are high and graceful in keeping with the new accent on femininity. But all important fashion trends are reflected in low heel types as well.

An important item in the new attractiveness of low heel shoes is the stacked heel, which flatters the shoe and its wearer. Stacked heels (an American invention) consist of thin layers of leather, differing in color tones, sealed together under pressure.

New spectator and sport shoes have smartly stacked heels in heights from nearly-flat to almost-high, and in strictly 1960 diamond, prism and spool shapes.

Kid, patent leather, suede and reptile — alone or teamed for texture variation — have equal fashion importance. Fabrics are coming in — strong. Linens, crepes, nubby weaves, mesh and hop-sacking (newest fabric for casuals) are dyed in an infinite range of color. Straws, natural colored, or dyed are found in all but the dressiest styles.

Beiges, from palest buff through taupe and honey-brown to deep russet, are wonderful with city-country clothes.

White, working overtime this spring, has powdered the pastels and frosted the deeper tones of all shoe fabrics. Tones are gentle, muted, softened. Even vivid colors have a muted air without harshness. There are marbled blends in grey-green, milky-blue, creamy-yellow and hazy-gray.

The dark sparkle of black patent remains undimmed by new color trends. Its basic importance can underscore any spring or summer look. More spectacular, and newer-than-new for summer, the smashingly beautiful black and white combinations.

Darlene King Now Mrs. Ray Anthony

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Anthony

In an afternoon ceremony, Darlene King and Raymond Anthony, both Plymouth High graduates, were united in marriage March 26 at Our Lady of Good Counsel rectory here.

Darlene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald King, is a 1956 Plymouth graduate, while her husband was a member of the class of 1955. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anthony.

Following a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula, where they stayed at Hancock, Mich., the couple traveled to Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, where Raymond is stationed with the U. S. Army. Father Frances C. Byrne, of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, performed the marriage ceremony.

Darlene was dressed in a ballerina-length gown of white sheer silk over taffeta. The gown included a sabrina neck-line. She held white orchids. Her fingertip veil was crowned with pearls.

She was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor was Barbara Muir, who wore a gown of champagne beige silk over taffeta. It, too, was ballerina length. Her outfit was crowned with a small matching veil.

Best man was Edward Thompson.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. King wore a light green two-piece dress with a pink flowered hat and light green accessories. Mrs. Anthony, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue suit and hat with a beige coat.

A reception was held at the VFW Hall that evening for 250 guests. The friends and relatives attending came from Detroit, Tecumseh, Plymouth, South Lyon and other communities within the suburban area.

Grange Cleanings

The April 7 meeting of Plymouth Grange was well attended with nearly all of our winter vacationing members back home again. A pot-luck supper was served at 6:30 p.m., followed by our regular meeting. Besides our business meeting, the program of the evening took the form of a short play which proved very amusing.

This is a busy week on the Plymouth Grange Calendar. Monday night, April 11, was the meeting of our Grange-sponsored 4-H Club. This was an important meeting for our 4-Hers, with preparation for County Achievement Day commanding top attention.

The Achievement Day activities will take place at the Plymouth Junior High School, Saturday, April 16. It is hoped many of our Grange members will attend some of the day's activities and become more familiar with 4-H.

Tuesday afternoon Grange members and friends met at the hall to sew cancer pads. The next meeting for this purpose will be the afternoon of April 26. Mark this date on your calendar and come out to help in this worthy cause.

Tuesday evening Plymouth Grange was host to the Washenaw - Wayne Pomona Grange. Following the usual meeting and program, pot luck refreshments were served.

Tomorrow, April 14, the Plymouth Grange will serve a luncheon to a group of Farm Bureau Ladies holding a district meeting in our hall. The speaker for the afternoon meeting of the Farm Bureau Ladies is to be Judge Nathan Kaufman.

Sisters Flora Rathburn and Mabel Mott are confined to their homes as is brother Jack-Miller. Cards would help to brighten their shut-in days.

Plymouth Woman In Detroit Opera

A Plymouth woman, Mrs. Robert McGregor, 645 Simpson, will make her first important operatic appearance April 27 when she portrays Lola in "Cavalleria Rusticana" at the Hotel Fort Wayne ballroom in Detroit.

The opera is a part of Showcase No. 2 and is presented by the Detroit Theatre Arts. Mrs. McGewoe is a mezzo soprano.

She studied music here under Mrs. Edna O'Connor in the 1940's, attended Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti and also studied music under Stuart Higgins of Detroit. Higgins is the producer of "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Mrs. McGregor, mother of four children, is the former Barbara Johnson.

Traveling With Choir

Miss Betsy L. Edgar of Plymouth will be one of 70 choir members at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, who will travel to five communities for concerts on April 11 and 12. The choir will sing at high schools in Montague, Whitehall, Muskegon, Coopersville and Wyoming Park.

Miss Edgar is the daughter of Mr. William J. Edgar, 12350 Ridge Rd., Plymouth. She graduated from Plymouth High School.

DEER ME, I SHINE

PIERRE, S.D. (UPI) — Should you be hunting in South Dakota's Black Hills and come across a deer that's reflectorized, the Department of Game, Fish and Parks says it's no joke.

About 40 deer, adorned with reflectorized ear tags and neck collars are roaming the hills as part of a herd management study.

Our Lady of Good Counsel Holy Week Services Set

Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church will conduct liturgical services Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Holy Week. Thursday's services will include low Masses at 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., with the solemn ceremony in the evening at 7:30. At that time there will be High Mass in commemoration of the institution of the Holy Eucharist at the Last Supper.

A procession of the Blessed Sacrament, preceded by priests and altar boys will follow the Mass. Rev. Kenneth McKinnon will deliver his final Lenten series sermon. His subject will be "The Sacrament of the Eucharist."

Commencing at 9 p.m. and continuing until noon of Good Friday, there will be constant adoration of the Eucharist. Throughout all hours of night and day, members of the congregation will be present in church. This is the one time of the year for nocturnal adoration.

For Good Friday services from noon until three, the main altar of the church is stripped of its coverings to emphasize the life-size cross and corpus hanging above the altar. With contemplation on the suffering of Christ, the Tre Ore services will begin, consisting of various readings from the Bible, a sermon delivered by a missionary from the Passionist Monastery, and the solemn chanting of the Passion taken from St. John.

Pastor Rev. Francis Byrne and Rev. William Child will sing the Latin version of this Passion. Adoration of the cross will continue during the remainder of the day, and the "Way of the Cross" will be repeated at 7:30 p.m. that night.

Holy Saturday's liturgy has been consigned to an evening vigil service in recent years. The purpose of this vigil service is to coincide with the first moment of Easter day, so as to celebrate at midnight the Easter Mass. Beginning at 11 p.m. Saturday, the Lumen Christi Procession will make its way from the rear of the church to the main altar in total darkness, excepting the lighted Easter candle which will burn alone, demonstrating Christ, the Light of the World.

The Exsultet, considered by many to be the most beautiful of church songs, will then be intoned, followed by chants from the books of Genesis and Exodus. Midnight sounds, and the Resurrection Mass begins.

Easter Sunday's Masses will be at 6, 8, 9:30, 11, and 12:15. The 8 a.m. Mass will be in dialogue; there will be two 11 a.m. Masses simultaneously, one in the main church, the other in the auditorium. At the 9:30 Mass the choir, under the direction of William Griener, will sing the Polyphonic Mass Number 9 by Begezzi, along with the hymns Resurrexit, Terra Tremuit, and Ubi Caritas. David Conrad is organist.

The priests of the parish remind all of the confession schedule: Wednesday, from 4 to 5:30; Thursday, after evening Mass; Friday, from 3:30 to 5:30 and after the Way of the Cross in the evening; Saturday, from 3:30 to 5:30 and 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Salem Church Plans Sunrise Easter Service

Good Friday Services at the Salem Federated Church will be held at 1:30 p.m. The service will consist of congregational singing, special musical numbers, and a message by the Pastor, Rev. Richard Burgess.

The services on Easter Sunday will begin at 6:30 a.m. with a Sunrise Service which will be held in the Salem school yard. Following this, a breakfast will be served in the church basement.

The Worship Service and Sunday School will be held at the regular hours. A special feature for the Sunday evening service at 7:30 p.m. will be the showing of the film "King of Kings." The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

FARMERS GET 2 FOR 1
BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Dr. Thurston Adams, chairman of the University of Vermont agricultural economics department, said, "Vermont farmers literally are growing two blades of grass where one grew before."

He said "the output per worker on Vermont farms has doubled since the 1930's. Less than 14 hours is required to produce 100 pounds of Vermont milk."

What Do You Do With These Easter Lilies?

What should you look for when you buy your Easter Lily plant? Here are a few tips:

- (1) Choose a plant that is short, with a good green color.
- (2) If possible, choose a plant that does not have all the blossoms open; if there is one blossom open and the rest are ready to open, that is the ideal situation.
- (3) Choose a plant that is apparently free from diseases and insects if you plan to plant the bulb again.
- (4) Do not place the plant in the bright sun.
- (5) Pinch out the yellow anthers as the flowers open to make the flower's last longer.

Had it in the back of my mind to take a vacation this week due to the lack of news, when it came to our attention a very special occasion.

Evangelist Billy Walker Speaking at Calvary Baptist

Evangelist Billy Walker, dynamic speaker of Wyandotte, Mich., will be holding a series of evangelistic meetings in Calvary Baptist Church, 496 W. Ann Arbor Tr., April 17 through April 24, every evening at 7:30 p.m. Sunday services are at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Having conducted successful campaigns in some of the largest churches in the state of Michigan, Evangelist Walker comes to us with a wealth of experience. His first evangelistic campaign was conducted when he was but 17 years of age. Most recently a successful crusade, with over 100 first time decisions, was conducted in the First Baptist Church of Pontiac, where Dr. H. H. Savage is the pastor. Following that campaign Dr. Savage wrote: "Billy Walker is supremely qualified in his knowledge of the Bible. His literary ability is superb. His physical appearance is beyond criticism. His passion for soul is very manifest."

Evangelist Billy Walker

After your lily stops blooming, you can do this:

- (1) Throw it out or plan to plant it in the yard.
- (2) If you want to plant it, allow it to stay in the house until the leaves begin to turn yellow; keep watering it until it stops growing.
- (3) Put it outside in the pot, after the last frost is past (about May 15 or so) and keep it watered; after it starts growing again, fertilize it with a complete fertilizer at the rate of 1 teaspoon to a gallon of water; it may bloom for you again during the late summer.
- (4) Bring it into the house before the first frost in the fall, and put it where it will be cool and somewhat dark for about three weeks; then bring it out and keep it at the regular house temperature until it blooms.

How Christian Science Heals

The public is invited to attend and hear Billy Walker at any or all of the meetings during the present crusade.

Veterans of Foreign Wars

The Mayflower post is continuing its interest in Youth Activities here with a recent decision to sponsor Boy Scout Troop No. 862.

Now with the formation of a local Little League, the post has voted to sponsor three players in this worthy project.

An urgent appeal is also being made in connection with our policy of sending two boys to the VFW summer camp, Camp Woodbury, near Dexter, Mich.

All members who have sons eligible are urged to present their names at the next meeting, Wednesday, April 20, for consideration at that time.

The boys must be between the ages of 9 and 14. The camp is two-weeks in duration during the months of June and July. Reservations are coming in rapidly.

Commander Hal Young and Adjutant Art Mulligan recently attended an officers' school at the Ford Dearborn post. Commander Young has scheduled a meeting of all new officers for Wednesday, April 13, at 8 p.m. at the post home.

All officers and chairmen are urged to attend this meeting at which time policies and projects for the coming year will be formulated.

Additional new officers are Duane Johnson, public relations officer; Patriotic Instructor Ken Gust; Sergeant-Major, Bill Challas; and National Home Representative, Beryl Smith.

A local disabled veteran of World War II, Rober MacNabb, was voted into the post on April 6. He formerly belonged to the Graf-O'Hara post in Ann Arbor. He is most welcome.

Comrade Gerry Olson, parade marshal for Memorial Day, reports that he has already started arrangements for this year's program. A prominent speaker is being sought. More details will be forth-coming.

Dates to keep in mind: Meeting of all new officers and chairmen on April 13 at 8 p.m.; and the regular social meeting on April 20.

Eta Psi Club To Conduct Spring Dance

Plymouth Eta Psi members at a meeting April 5 learned from Ways and Means chairman Mrs. Gerald Eueling and social chairman Mrs. Lee Rehbein that all tickets for the "Spring Frolic" on April 23 are sold. The affair will be held at the Fox Hills Country Club and should prove to be a gala social event, according to club spokesmen.

Mrs. Bruce Milroy, of Byron St., hosted the business meeting.

A recipe shower is being planned for Mrs. Richard Key, who recently moved to Connecticut. A book will be compiled with each member submitting a select recipe.

On May 3, new club officers will be installed for the coming year which begins with the month of June. Mrs. Lee Rehbein, of McClumpha Rd., will host that event.

It was also announced at the recent business meeting that this year's state convention will be held in Detroit at the new Civic Center on Oct. 21, 22 and 23. Headquarters for the gathering will be the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

Mrs. Donald Holt presented the program "The Artist's Landscape," found highly enlightening by the guests. Following the program, hostess Mrs. Milroy served refreshments.

Hospital Auxiliary Plans Rummage Sale

Garden City-Ridgewood Hospital Auxiliary held its monthly meeting last week and made plans for a May Rummage Sale as the spring project.

Heading the event as general chairman is Mrs. L.J. Machovec of Wayne. Mrs. John Simmer of Plymouth and Mrs. R.P. Ogden of Wayne were appointed committee heads.

The proceeds from the sale will be used to equip a visitor's coffee shop in the new Garden City Hospital which is now under construction.

Scholastic Honors

Donald E. Alsbro has been cited for his high academic attainment by being placed on the high scholarship list at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, for the fall semester.

To win a place a student must carry at least 14 hours of work, have no more than five hours of B work and with only one grade of B. Alsbro, a graduate of Plymouth High School is the son of Mrs. Alice Alsbro, 999 Penniman.

GARDEN NOTES

The most important lawn problem at this time is CRABGRASS. Control this pest NOW rather than AFTER good grass has been crowded out. It costs no more and there are "fringe benefits" if you choose a remedy that will also control grubs and moles. Ask us.

If you have a few high or low spots in your lawn now is a good time to correct this as sod can be lifted and replaced without danger of dying out. Remove the sod, correct the grade, replace and tamp down the sod. It is a popular belief that rolling a lawn will correct a poor grade. It WON'T. Rolling a lawn will merely establish contact again where freezing has lifted the sod. It will never correct a faulty grade.

According to the calendar it should now be safe to unhill roses. This should be done before spraying to get complete cover. The weathermen seem a bit confused this year so it might be wise to leave the mulching material right in the bed so the roses can be protected should another cold snap come along.

It is certainly time to prune fruit trees now and Grape Vines should have been pruned long since to avoid "bleeding."

If you failed to fertilize the bulbs last fall apply some special bulb food or some 5-10-5 now.

by George Spelvin

Oscar time is over for another year. If you recall old George went out on a limb and made some predictions as to who would get the awards. Paul Muni didn't get the best actor award, but along with most of the critics in the country I feel Paul deserved the honor. When Charlton Heston does more than drive a chariot and row in a galley, I'll be willing to admit he's a top-flight actor. Go to see "Ben-Hur" at the United Artists and decide for yourself about this award.

You have an opportunity to see a real Academy Award winner at the Trans-Lux Krim Theater for the next few weeks in a new comedy, "Our Man in Havana." Alec Guinness is the gentleman I have in mind.

This exciting screenplay gives Guinness a role that offers him ample latitude to demonstrate his gifts as a more familiar comic style. Ernie Kovacs and Noel Coward help confuse the action in this rollicking comedy. Take a trip toward Woodward Ave. and Six Mile Rd. to the Trans-Lux Krim.

Drawing room fun or Parlor comedy at its best will be on view at the Shubert Theater for the next two weeks in the form of "The Pleasure of His Company." You can hear Cyril Ritchard and Cornelia Otis Skinner exchange quips like the following:

KATE: Did you bring your wife?

POOLE: I have no wife.

KATE: Again?

POOLE: I'm not very retentive, am I?

KATE: A bit slipshod. I take it she's divorced, not dead. And that makes...

POOLE: Only three. Counting you.

This short sample from Act I gives you an idea of the zany goings-on that take place when a first husband arrives 15 years later to prevent the marriage of his daughter to a stuffy cattle grower. This production played on Broadway for a season and has retained many of the original stars for this Detroit presentation. By the way, "Flower Drum Song," the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical that centers about Frisco's famous Chinatown, plans to settle down at the Riviera as the next attraction some time early in the month of May. Save your loose yen or Canadian coins for a seat close up to the front of this huge theater.

Easter Sunday with its annual fashion parade and our crowded churches hovers on the immediate horizon. The Penn has scheduled in "Solomon and Sheba" for the Easter week vacation period. My kindest word to those of you contemplating the viewing of this pageantry from the Old Testament done up in true Hollywood revival style, complete with orgy, wooden acting, and garish colors giving the sets a genuine note of insincerity... is to stay at home and read your Bible.

"S and S" has been a loser from the day the producer bumped into the Queen of Sheba, cinematically speaking. In short, if you do go, don't kid yourself into thinking that you will be seeing "Ben-Hur."

N.B.C. has a number of interesting shows planned for the next few weeks. Tune in to Channel 4 for some of these: "The Jerry Lewis Show" at 8:30 p.m. on the 15th of April; "The Way of the Cross"—a re-tracing of the steps of Jesus as He walked to His crucifixion—at 9:30 p.m. on the 16th; "Well, What About You?"—a special nonpartisan program to "get the vote"—at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, the 19th.

The way I've been tossing caustic words about Biblical spectacles made by Hollywood, you might think I've something against movie stories that feature the Bible. Nothing of the sort. In fact, old George has written several Biblical pageants that he is quite proud of. One production entitled "I Am With You Always" has been performed in churches and schools at least six times.

No, my quarrel is with Hollywood and the artificial way they handle material that could and should be presented in a moving, beautiful manner. Next week in my column... old George is featuring a poem by Paul Engle that definitely has a religious theme. Stay tuned in for this fine poem.

Let me close shop this week with a special plea. Take the kids down to the Music Hall if the vacation period begins to wear a bit on you. The latest and best Cinerama effort, "Windjammer," shows the exuberance of youth as they work and play on a Norwegian sailing ship. Your children will enjoy the music, the songs, and the many thrills these 50 Norwegian boys experienced. With all the emphasis on crime and violence... it's a treat to recommend a two hour trip filled with fun and excitement built around the good things of life.

Most of the mail writers about-high-fidelity get from readers concerns equipment buying.

And this mail generally falls into two categories: —Mail from people who already have high fidelity equipment and want advice on buying a new component. —Mail from people who don't have equipment, but who want to put together a rig without getting stung. And generally as cheaply as possible.

This is written for the second category. Since this is the age of stereophonic sound, let's make it clear from the outset that "stereo" and "high fidelity" are not synonymous terms.

"Stereo" means sound from at least two separate sources; generally it is two. "High fidelity" means that the sound from each source has a range of at least 30 to 15,000 cycles per second.

Promoters of cheap stereo phonographs have undertaken to mislead successfully to spread the idea that "high fidelity" and "stereo" are roughly the same thing, but that "stereo" has replaced "high fidelity."

Nearly everybody who wants high quality sound nowadays wants it to be stereo. But it should be high fidelity stereo. Actually, high fidelity stereo is no more expensive than some of the junk double-talking promoters foist off on the public.

It is not a good idea to buy a complete rig of the cheapest high fidelity equipment. The buyer, unless it is strictly a short-term hobby with him, will soon get dissatisfied with the cheapest components that meet "high fidelity" standards.

Then he will take a beating when he tries to sell the components second hand or trade them to a dealer on better equipment.

If a person has a limited amount to spend at first, it is far better to get a good stereo amplifier, a turntable or a changer with a stereo cartridge and one speaker.

The buyer of such a basic outfit can play stereo records monophonically through one speaker. Then, when he gets more money ahead, all he has to do is add another speaker and he has a stereo rig that he won't have to apologize for.

Exchange Student Explains Germany's Position, Goals

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles written by Ursula Kell, a German exchange student attending Plymouth High School.)

By URSULA KELL

Perhaps I should not write this, especially because I don't know much about politics. But I think I have to say something about it, at least I'll tell you how I understand it. Well, you don't know yet what this "it" is I'm speaking about.

I was watching television last week and saw all about Khrushchev's visit in France. This was not really pleasant for me to watch, especially the friendly remarks uttered about Germany. He tried to stir up the old enemies, France and Germany. It is not very surprising to hear something like this out of Khrushchev's mouth, it is something you expected to hear.

The only thing that depressed me a little was the attitude of some French people. They spoke about a new militaristic Germany, and if reunited under freedom, it would become dangerous and power-hungry as the world experienced before.

There was even brought up the question: who would be more dangerous: Germany or Russia? (This question is a kind of ridiculous, though).

I was surprised (and I am a little sorry) but I heard opinions similar to this also in the United States. I don't know why, but perhaps the past of our history is more vivid in the mind of the people than our presence or future. I can understand this in a way. It is perhaps hard for some people, but it would be greater, not to overlook the past, but try to see first our presence and the changes that took place within the last 10 and 15 years.

We don't have many reasons to be proud of our recent past. The people experienced hard things and it would not be very likely that they would take a chance and might let happen something like that again. The following paragraphs are part of an essay: "Germany Today and Tomorrow" by Konrad Adenauer, the chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany. He speaks about our situation in the present and future.

"First of all, from the time of its establishment in 1949, we have always been aware, and we will continue to face the fact, that our state is only provisional. The Federal Republic is that part of Germany in which the people, with a guarantee of civil liberties, are in a position to express their political will through free elections. Therefore, the Federal Republic claims the right to represent politically the whole German people. The Free World has acknowledged this right. However, we cannot forget that in the Soviet-occupied zone of Germany 17 million Germans have been denied all freedom. The preservation of our freedom and the re-establishment of German unity in peace and liberty is the supreme goal of our policy. Only reunification will secure stability for all Europe.

"We are striving for reunification in freedom. This implies that free elections in the whole of Germany are the first step in the process of reunification and that the all-German Parliament chosen by these elections can then freely decide the future constitutional and international status of our country. On these points we cannot make concessions; to do so would be to give up the principle of reunification in freedom.

which has characterized the development of the European political structure in the past hundred years. We must supersede the concept of the nation-state if Europe is to become again an organic whole and to exert the political influence it deserves in the light of its history, traditions, and achievements. For that reason we have gladly accepted the proposals made by other countries for the integration of Europe and have done whatever we could toward their realization. This is especially true for the Coal and Steel Community and for the European Defense Community. In both cases the intention was to take the first steps toward broader European co-operation.

"EDC was to be developed into a European political community, the Coal and Steel Community into an over-all economic union. In both cases we were convinced that the number of participating countries would have to be increased. Then the European Defense Community was replaced by the Western European Union (WEU)—an expansion of the international organization set up under the Brussels Treaty of 1948—and by the direct Republic into NATO. Only recently we have been making special efforts to extend the activities of the Coal and Steel Community through proposals to include more types of goods in the common market among the signatory states. We heartily welcome the indicated readiness of Great Britain to join such a common market by setting up a free-trade area.

"Postwar developments and political changes compel us to regard the integration of Europe not only in its intra-European but also in its world-wide political and economic ramifications. The political and economic hegemony of Europe is a thing of the past. European civilization will maintain its position only if we activate it so as to meet prevailing conditions if we are ready to defend it.

"The realization of European integration must not be hindered by excessive perfectionism. We must not proceed too rigidly, but with the utmost flexibility. The institutions to be created within the framework of European co-operation need not necessarily, in a every single case, have a supernatural character. These institutions must be so shaped that they do not deter any nation from participation.

"Nor should the number of member states in such a European federation be limited. Its field of activities should be as comprehensive as possible. Initial goals should not be too ambitious, however, for this could so complicate the proceedings as to jeopardize our efforts. Such a European federation will have no negative impact upon NATO, which is more than a European federation. NATO is intended to protect certain Atlantic interests, not merely common European interests.

"I am convinced that our goals are essentially identical with those of the United States. John Foster Dulles as early as 1948 declared it necessary that Europe unite and develop a strength of its own. That is also our goal. I hope from the bottom of my heart that the Germany of tomorrow will be unified and free Germany, able to perform important functions within the European union and making its full contribution to the peace and welfare of the whole world.

I hope that this reading helped you a little to see our country in a different way and to have better understanding.

Says $200 Million Daily Stolen by Employees

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—American business men, organizations and industry are being swindled of more than $200 million each working day by their employees, according to a top insurance executive.

John S. Mee, Los Angeles manager of Maryland Casualty Co., said this figure is supported by findings of the Insurance Information Institute. He said it might be higher.

"Business men and organizations are frequently loath to admit that they have been victimized for fear of damage to their own group's reputation," Mee said. "And perhaps they know that many of the losses could have been prevented by proper precaution."

Mee said accurate figures on the amount of money and merchandise stolen by employees is not available because many companies do not require their workers to be bonded. He said in these cases insurance companies have no way of compiling these losses.

Mee said the old story about the man who stole everything but the kitchen stove is not far off. He said an insurance company was called upon to pay off a loss where an employee of a firm that made stoves had carted several stoves away, piece by piece. He then assembled them and sold them at a reduced price.

The insurance man said no business is immune from pilfering, from small businesses to large corporations.

He said an old story in the liquor business is the bottles of whisky placed in the garbage can and picked up later.

He said many of the major thefts are traced to persons described by their bosses as "old and trusted employes, almost like a member of the family."

Mee also warned that it's a good idea to keep an eye on relatives, too.

"Many firms have been forced to the brink of bankruptcy and over by the cumulative effect of pilfering by dishonest employes," he said.

Mee listed the most common methods of embezzlement used by employes as:

- Paying bills to non-existent companies and cashing the checks with fake signatures.
- Invoicing goods below established prices and getting a cash bribe.
- Raising the amount on checks, invoices and vouchers after they have been approved.
- Issuing and cashing checks for "returned goods" not returned.
- Pocketing the proceeds from cash sales and not recording the sales.
- Collecting doubtful bills and reporting them non-collectable.
- Padding payrolls, time and production records.
- Extraordinarily ingenious methods beyond the minds of anyone but a thief or a good investigator—such as meat workers strapping expensive steaks to the waist under the shirt and taking them home to dinner.

Mee urged all employers to carefully screen all present and future employes, consult an accountant about internal control systems and provide regular audits by outside firms.

PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL

Finally... a vacation! That is the sigh of relief breathed by every Plymouth High School student, as he anticipates the Easter recess.

Students will be dismissed tomorrow, Thursday, at 3:30. School will convene on April 25.

Several are planning travel during the vacation. Senior Jim McCabe, who aspires to a career in the Foreign Service, will be seen in Washington, D.C. visiting diplomats there... Susan and Mary Hulsing and Sally Sawyer are all going to Florida... Jim Stout is headed for Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, Va... Susan and Steve Hayskar are going to New Orleans... Sharon and Susie Neal are traveling to New York and Boston.

While these lucky ones are vacationing, a hard-working group of seniors will be making preparations for the Prom, only 17 days away... "Mardi Gras" is the theme... and Barb Browne and Geralee Rehbein, co-chairmen for the dance and Judy Herrick, decorations chairman, are supervising the work.

The prom comes only five days after school re-convenes, but the third and last senior mixer will precede it. Scheduled for Tuesday, April 26, its co-chairmen are Linda Leet and Jim Herter.

Next on the agenda... after these senior events... are ELECTIONS!

PHS elections are May 10—the same day as the West Virginia primary, incidentally. Final slates were drawn up too late for press time... candidates for the All-School offices were nominated at a meeting last Thursday, but students not originally on the slate may petition for those posts.

Class caucuses—to finalize class slates—were held yesterday, Tuesday, April 12.

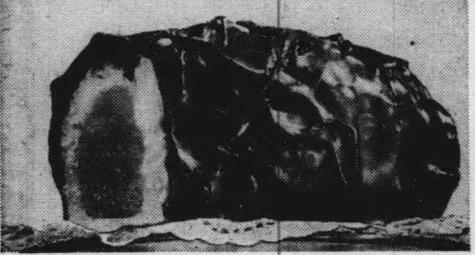

Plymouthites took top honors at the spring forensic contest, held April 5.

Donald Scharman took fourth place in humorous reading with "The Night the Bed Fell" by James Thurber. Dave Raafaub captured first place in extemporaneous speaking with a talk on the United Nations' role in space control and exploration... in original oratory, Janet Graham was rated second with "Grace Under Pressure," and Linda Cutwright, with "Silence," by Edgar Lee Masters, took fourth in interpretive reading. Janice Rafe's declamation speech earned her a first. She did "Riding the Wheelbarrow."

The power of a letter-to-the-editor was illustrated recently: juniors Kathy White and Lester Bartson, commenting on the stick-out-like-a-sore-thumb facade of the proposed new facade to the high school, attracted the attention of the School Board. The Board, partly on the strength of that influence, asked architects for new sketches.

'Hold On There, Neighbor: Who Needs a Fence?'

BY CONROY ERICKSON

Problems like muddy roads and floods aren't the only ones that accompany the delightful balmy breezes of spring into the suburbs. There are also bitter feuds between neighbors over fences.

The script may read something like this:

Neighbor Jones (or more likely his wife) seeing the snow melt away, decides that it would be nice to have the back yard closed in this summer to keep the kids from wandering out and the neighbors' dogs and kids from wandering in—via the zinnia beds.

So, neighbor Jones strolls over to neighbor Smith's and declares amiably, "I'm going to put up a fence. Your share will be $200."

Very likely this will appeal to Smith about as much as a raise in taxes.

He's probably just started making payments on a new car, has signed a contract to build a garage (with breezeway) and is holding in his hand the bill from Zumforth's for m'lady's new spring outfit.

In short, he doesn't really feel he needs the neighbors' help in spending his money. Besides, he has neither kids nor zinnia beds.

"In the first place," he'll tell Jones, "I don't want a fence and if I did want one, I wouldn't want the kind you're going to build. You want a fence, you pay for it."

(What he means is the only way he could dig up $200 would be to rob a bank or strangle a rich aunt.)

"It's the law," Jones will declare righteously, "you have to pay your share of the fence."

Most curbside lawyers will agree with Jones—and they might be partly right. If Jones follows the procedures set down by law he might end up with a fence partially paid for by his neighbors. It might not be the kind he wanted originally and he'll probably make bitter enemies of a neighbor or two when he hauls them into court in a lawsuit, but he'll have a fence.

Few people, however, know the legal procedures. And if they lose their tempers and slap the fence up and send the neighbors a bill, they'll find themselves "out of money."

Here are the steps Jones will have to follow if he wants Smith to help pay for his fence.

First, he'll have to talk it over with Smith and try to reach agreement on the type of fence and the cost involved.

If they can't agree, then he'll have to mail Smith a registered letter, return receipt requested, in which he advises Smith that he wants to build a fence of a certain type, breaking down the cost, and asking Smith's agreement.

If they still can't agree, then Jones must call in the building inspector who acts as a "referee" in determining what kind of fence will be built and the share of the cost to be borne by each party.

The building inspector's determination is supposed to be final.

If Smith still refuses to go along, then Jones must sue him in court in hopes of getting a court order forcing Smith to pay.

City attorneys can represent Jones in carrying his complaint into court, but they're reluctant to do so.

"This is something that should be settled between neighbors, out of court," they say. They describe the County ordinance as "unworkable" and said their office and the building inspectors get "caught in the middle" in the neighborhood feuds.

Unlike some area communities, Livonia has no ordinance that would allow the city to act as a "Collection agency" for fence costs by putting a special assessment on Smith's tax bill.

With many home lots running several hundred feet in depth in Livonia, it would be possible that a family could be literally bankrupted if they were forced to pay for half of a neighbor's fence, they said.

Maybe "good fences make good neighbors" as the poet says, but they can also make undying enemies.

The only really satisfactory solution is for neighbors to rely less on "the law," which in this situation is cumbersome and vague, and more on diplomatic negotiation.

Sermons to Deaf Surpass Words

By PATRICIA CONNOR
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When a deaf congregation "listens" to a silent sermon they're seeing more than words can say.

Signs for a word often are a "motion picture" of the word's connotation.

When a minister signs the word "forgive" he goes through the motions of wiping a slate clean. He holds one palm up and draws the other hand across it, then he reverses the action.

The trained deaf person can recognize ideas in word signs just as the student of Biblical history and language can trace meanings of the written words.

Roy L. Cissna, a Baptist missionary, compiled some examples of these signs as part of his church's work with the deaf. Some churches hold "silent" classes and use interpreters to explain the regular sermon in signs for deaf members of the congregation.

A minister or interpreter may sign "temptation" by a motion pecking at the elbow, the familiar idea of evil always present, coaxing man to give in.

For "saved" he holds his arms together as if bound, then frees them, signifying escape from the bondage of sin.

"Love" is signified by pressing the chest with arms crossed at the wrists—an embracing love. And the name of Jesus is signed by pinching the left palm with fingers of the right hand, representing the nail prints of the crucifixion.

Signs for two words can combine to make an entirely different word, like Jesus added to the sign for book—placing palms together then opening them—means the Bible.

To say "confess" the hands are placed, fingers down, over the heart, slowly moved upwards and placed palm up as if holding something. This means taking the sins from the heart and showing them to God.

To the deaf congregation much can be said in a few words.

Episcopal Bishop Says . . . . . Easter Is Time to Rejoice

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following dispatch is an Easter message prepared by the Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, D.C., and one of the nation's most prominent churchmen.)

It is a commonplace that many come to church on Easter who come no other day. We might say that through the year the church is slowly reciting her faith, and many come late.

They are not on hand for the stupendous opening: "I believe in God, the Father Almighty."

They are not on hand for the second movement: "I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ."

They are not here for the third testimony: "I believe in the Holy Ghost, the Lord and Giver of Life."

They arrive only for the last phrase: "I believe in the life of the world to come."

This is not said in reproach. Easter is no day for reproach. It is a day for rejoicing. And we rejoice for all who come, early or late.

There is a parable of our Lord which is always shocking to those who think of themselves as the faithful. It tells us that those who really turn to God, even late, are welcomed by Him and receive all He has to give. What matters is a true turning to God.

But having said that we must also say that Easter cannot stand alone. We cannot separate what we shall be from what we are now. We cannot face death with faith unless we have learned to face life with faith.

This is plainly true in the life and teaching of Him who is at the center of all that we say and do here, the Lord Jesus Christ. He comes to us speaking of today's tasks and relationships. He speaks to us of the truth about life today, in every day.

"Blessed are the pure in heart."

"Blessed are the meek."
"Blessed are the makers of peace."

He tells us that there is a just and loving purpose in life to be trusted and served and followed now; that there is a holy and good companion ever seeking us and not turned back by our meanness and uncleanness and dishonesty; that there is forgiveness for the forgiving now; that the least of our brethren are always to be treated with justice and mercy; that the deepest failure and the utmost in loss is to be shut away in self-inclosedness from the Good Companion and the brethren; that all the loveliest and most loving experiences of this passing world bring their intimations and foretastes of what is forever. He bids us seek and find in today the things that tomorrow cannot take away.

Again, what is true of life and teaching of the Lord Himself is true also of the testimony of those who speak to us here of Him and His resurrection.

The first believers, whose witness comes echoing down to us across the years, did not go into the world preaching first their own "future life," or that of their hearer. What we hear them saying is not chiefly "We shall live" or "You shall live," but "Jesus lives," now.

The theme of Easter is the living presence and sovereignty of the Lord Jesus Christ.

This is what is being said to you in every hymn and anthem, in the lessons out of Holy Scriptures, in the sound of trumpets, in our prayers, and in the sacramental action of this Holy Communion.

This Jesus, Whom men crucified, this One broken by our human wrong, has been lifted up by God and made accessible to us with power in the here and now. He speaks to us. He companions us. He strengthens us. He draws us together across our human differences. He is made known to us in the breaking of bread. When we turn to Him He conquers little by little our selfishness and vanity and fear. He is the center of the new life we have found together. He is the living head of the body and we are the members. He is the vine and we are the branches. He lends new beauty to all the fair things in our world and redeems even the bitter things. We dare with Him to believe in the future religiously because He helps us to see the present religiously.

To all who come early or late He says "Now is the accepted time."

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that when He shall appear, we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is."

Easter Worship In Jerusalem to Center at Shrine

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Protestants, Roman Catholics and churches of the Eastern Orthodox communities will celebrate the "Resurrection of Christ" on the same day—April 17—this year.

In many years the dates for western and eastern denominations are as much as two or three weeks apart, because of differences in reckoning the date of Easter.

Focal points to which all Christians are drawn on Easter is the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in the Old City of Jerusalem. This most sacred shrine in Christendom houses the tomb of Jesus.

Services for Catholics are held in the morning at the Holy Sepulchre.

This is because the church is shared by Roman Catholics, Greek Orthodox, American Orthodox, and Syrian and Abyssinian Christian to a lesser degree. Times for services of each group are carefully fixed by traditions generations old, and are rigidly observed.

The services will be held this Easter in a completely renovated basilica which had been damaged by an earthquake in 1947 and a fire in 1949.

The Roman Catholic service begins at 8:30 a.m. with a Pontifical Mass and a solemn procession. The traditional Kawas, a guide carrying a silver staff which he will tap on the cobblestones to clear the way, will lead the procession.

The Roman Catholic Patriarch, Msgr. Alberto Gori, will head the march from the Patriarchate to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. He will be followed by priests and members of the foreign consular and diplomatic corps in full regalia.

New Products

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's a new Volkswagen on the market—not another model to compete in the small car race but a 17-foot inboard boat that its makers say brings the luxury of inboard boating within the range of the average automobile owner.

The "Volks-Liner" is a six-passenger runabout with plastic impregnated wood laminate hull powered by a 36 horsepower Volkswagen air-cooled marine engine installed in the rear of the craft. The design gives the craft enough pull for two water skiers. The manufacturers, the Inboard Marine Co., say a lower purchase price is further enhanced by operating and maintenance economies.

Also new in the boating line is the collapsible "Totem," product of Totem Foldable Boats, San Francisco, which from a suitcase size, 175-pound package of boards grows in a few minutes to a 12-foot boat with a load capacity of 800 pounds and passenger capacity of four. So seaworthy that Coast Guard units have recommended it, the boat is built of three-ply marine plywood with plastic skin and will accommodate a 25-horsepower motor.

A new sailing classification, "Flying Feather," is introduced with a new all-aluminum 20-foot day sailer manufactured by General Boat Corp., Grand Prairie, Texas. The hull of welded aluminum sheet weighs 500 pounds, daggerboard of 1/4-inch plate weighs 28 pounds and 25-foot mast of extruded aluminum is hollow to contain running rigging.

Maundy Thursday: A Day Of Humbleness

By JOHN NEWBERG

Tomorrow, the Christian Church celebrates Maundy Thursday. On this day, the eve of Good Friday, Jesus went to the upper room with His disciples, where they were to eat the Last Supper. After they ate together, they went to the garden of Gethsemane, where Christ prayed. Here, also, Judas came to betray Jesus with his fatal kiss. Then the soldiers came and He was arrested.

twelve people, symbolic of the twelve disciples. In other cases the number of people equaled the age of the ruler.

Queen Elizabeth I performed the ceremony many times. She was accompanied by as many ladies in waiting as she was years old. The poor men's feet were first washed by yeomen, then by the grand almoner. Finally, the queen washed their feet, and as she set aside the bowl of warm water and fragrant herbs, she kissed their feet and made the sign of the cross on them. Then the poor men were given food, money, and clothing as they left.

Some say the word, "maundy," comes from the word for the basket in which they carried away the food that was given to them. King James II was the last English monarch to perform the foot washing ceremony. However, Queen Victoria did continue to give maundy money which was especially coined for the occasion.

This ceremony of foot washing, in remembrance of Christ washing the disciples' feet, is symbolic of the love which Christ commanded us to have for one another.

'Lansing Observer'

By FRANK G. MORRIS LANSING—If you were driven to frantic confusion by political experts analyzing the meaningless presidential primary election in Wisconsin last week, hold tight while we hit another dizzy curve, to wit:

Senator Kennedy believes that if Republican voters had kept to their own backyard, Vice President Nixon would have scored a triumph unprecedented in the annals of the crazy Wisconsin primary. Both Kennedy and Senator Humphrey would have been squelched, squashed and squeezed.

You haven't read this before because it never has been printed before. It seems that everyone except Kennedy—even the mesmerized press agents of the Republican National Committee—missed the point.

Senator Kennedy brought the truth to the surface two days after the primary when he held a press conference in Washington and issued an analysis he called a "fact sheet."

"Both Kennedy and Humphrey drew voters away from Nixon, the Democratic candidate's fact sheet stated. "The average crossover in Kennedy districts was 28 per cent. The average crossover in Humphrey districts was 27 per cent."

His statement means that he got 133,000 Republican votes and that Humphrey got 100,000. With Nixon unopposed, Republicans had no reason to stay with their own party. It is amazing that 341,000 Wisconsin citizens went to the polls merely to vote for the lonely Vice President.

On the basis of Kennedy's figures, then, he should have had a total of 345,000; Humphrey should have had 272,000, and Nixon should have had 574,000.

If Kennedy is right, Nixon will be safe next November. Political writers participated in a gigantic hoax when they built up the Wisconsin primary as if it would have important bearing on the forthcoming presidential contest.

Excited newspaper readers must have felt they had been double-crossed when, the day after the primary, all experts were writing:

"The Wisconsin primary doesn't mean a thing."

With that statement, they told the truth at last. Like when Michigan had presidential preferential primaries and assigned the state's convention delegates to vote for Henry Ford on two occasions.

But the Michigan delegates paid no attention. Republicans voted for Charles Evans Hughes in 1916 when they were committed to vote for Ford, and Democrats ignored Ford in 1924 after he was victorious in the Democratic primary.

By 1931, both parties agreed presidential primaries are a waste of time, money and politics. So the system was abolished.

The system was one of the reforms sponsored by the late Gov. Chase Osborn in 1912. Osborn inaugurated the primary for various offices, hoping to abolish political conventions. If Osborn had his way, even laws would have been passed by direct vote of the people.

The first year of the Michigan presidential primary, 1916, Henry Ford won on the Republican ballot by 63,052 votes against 77,872 for the late U.S. Senator William Alden Smith, of Grand Rapids. Woodrow Wilson won the Democratic primary unopposed.

In 1920, Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, won over Leonard Wood, Herbert Hoover, Gen. John J. Pershing and Gov. Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, on the GOP ballot. Wood was runner-up and Pershing trailed the troops.

At the conventions that year, the Michigan delegates forgot the primary outcome. Republicans supported Wood and finally swung to Warren G. Harding. Democrats supported William Gibbs McAdoo, son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson.

In 1924, President Coolidge carried the Michigan Republican primary over Hiram Johnson.

The winner on the Democratic ballot was Henry Ford, who had won on the Republican ticket eight years earlier!

That kind of business just about ended the whole silly system. The last Michigan Presidential primary, in 1928, was a walk-away for Hoover on one ticket and Al Smith on the other.

No one objected in 1931 when the legislature repealed the law.
