THE OBSERVER NEWSPAPERS Are Delivered To 35,000 HOMES In Livonia, Redford Township and Plymouth

FACTS and OPINIONS by Paul Chandler

The announcement had been rumored for months; a few days ago a pair of long-sighted, tenacious developers and the chiefs of two big department store chains expected to get the green made it official.

This mushrooming, affluent, wonderful area in which we live is to be the site of another new giant "regional" shopping center.

The site is Seven Mile and Middlebelt roads in Livonia, almost equidistant between Redford Township and along to the City Commission Plymouth on the east-west axis, and halfway between Monday by City Manager Alcentral Livonia and Southfield-Farmington on the north- the City was "movig along" on south traverse.

Sears, the awesome mail-order, department store. The Commission plans to chain, will arrive in the Center to fight for customers lease two acres of land from with powerful Ward's, which has waged a successful the Training School Administracampaign for the past three years in Wonderland at tive Board which notified Plymouth and Middlebelt roads.

Crowley-Milner will be the smaller department lease arrangements be substore tenant elsewhere in the new center. It's counter- mitted to the Board of Auditors part at Wonderland today is Federal's.

Sears, with 250,000 square feet of area, and Crowlev's, with 125,000, each will be slightly larger than their careful consideration must be Ward-Federal rivals at Wonderland.

But, in general, the Seven Mile-Middlebelt development, will be just about the same size as the thriving Wonderland, and located four miles to the north.

One rather expensive difference is that the northerly center, when it opens late in 1964, will be completely enclosed, a roof covering all the mall areas, cooled by air-conditioning in the summer and heated in the winter. "It is a fact that 50 percent of all shopping days are too hot, too cold. or too wet." explained one of the developers. Wonderland, at the moment, has open malls, which explains some of the rival publicity men's enthusiasm

The Plymouth Community School District Monday decided to "go for broke" and request voters to approve a five mill proposal for operating funds on Monday, July 30. The proposal will go in a single package. Faced with the fact that it can't operate the schools on the present level with less than the amount from a five-mill levy, the Board, by a 6-1 vote, deeided to take the third proposal to voters in a four-month period.

Previous proposals for 7.5 mills and 5.5 were rejected, the last vote was on June 11.

Since that time the Board has received assurance of additional state aid, under the new nuisance tax package, that will account for almost a half-mill. So it decided to trim the third request to five with the hope. that it will receive an affirmalive vole.

Motion for the one package deal was made by Ernest Henry, who was making his first appearance on the Board, and seconded by Robert Ulter, Then in the voice vote, all members favored the motion except Peter Zylstra.

To those of us on the sidelines, and to shuddering surrounding the eateries and merchants currently in business here, the idea of a the Commission decided that second "regional" shopping center, so close to the first a fence ordinance was the one, is huge and disturbing.

"Can this area support another shopping giant, so close to the other? is the natural question.

This reporter is as awed as the reader over the new development, but suggests:

1. Something like 20 million dollars will be spent on this project, and the investors are prudent men. They have had experts survey and examine the market from humus, $2.926: Thompson- Mcevery conveivable angle, and they are proceeding with Culley, $2,8000. confidence.

3. As happened when Wonderland blasted into action, there will be many casualties among the smaller merchants; not to mention smaller shopping centers who located too close to the big tent.

4. The competition between the two Centers and between Sears and Wards is certain to intensify economic activity-some call it "action"-in Livonia. A sort of Macy vs. Gimbel's game is a-brewin'.

Approximately 2,000 jobs will be available in the new Center, about 1,000 of them at Sears alone. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will come forth in new taxes, many of them to flow into the Clarenceville school district.

They were almost dreamy-eyed at the luncheon tables as other speakers spun out the vital statistics of the big things to come.

Should Plymouth Township's annual meetings be abolished? The matter will go to voters on Aug. 7 as a result of petitions turned into the Township Clerk. The annual sessions draw few people and generally are considered as out-moded.

A Circuit Court judge (Neal Fitzgerald) ruled Monday that it was "constitutional" for Detroit to collect an income tax on suburban residents who work there . . . and the war continues, Mayor Moelke of Livonia is now suggesting an income tax on non-residents who work there. Plymouth has lots of Detroiters in its Burroughs plant and elsewhere. If such a tax is legal in Detroit, its legal in any other city, too.

Readers call to ask: "How can the Plymouth Board of Education agree to pay $12.000 for landscaping a Junior High they say they won't even be able to open? Wouldn't that amount just about pay for three teachers at beginning salaries?'

Do you not agree every experience you have (good Livonia or bad) contributes to shaping viewpoints, basic principles, and even character? I don't think we ever stay status quo, we constantly change subject to our experiences. As we learn, so we grow. Good experiences, voluntary show of peoples' fidelity make us taller in spirit. Unhappy experiences perhaps add to our cynicism about human character.

Exposure to politics sometimes offers a short course in shaping the latter.

For instance, the recent expose to the public by and large of the "double-cross" by the GOP opponent of my boss, Paul Chandler, for the office of State Rep. in the 21st district, had me running the mental gamut from nausea to amazement with anger somewhere in the middle.

A week before the filing date a "politician" phoned P.M.C. and said to file for the office and he would withdraw in favor of him; that it was time the district Republicans stopped fighting among themselves, and he would like to support P.M.C. He asked Mr. Chandler to call the district Republicans with the "plan" and he would notify the local GOP watchdogs.

Three days later, amazingly, the "pro" called back and blandly said he had "changed his mind" and was filing anyway. The night before that, at a local GOP meeting in Redford Township, he told THEM he had never intended to withdraw in the first place, it merely was a hoax, a double cross of Chandler to "get fire under some Redford Republicans" because he wasn't getting their support. Whew!

And the absolute gall of the man is he expected to get his head patted. Do even the most hardened of politicians approve of deliberate deceit?

When the news of these sophisticated pranks got through to the Woman's Desk, my first instinct was to write indignant letters by the dozen about what had happened so the public could know the kind of thing which goes on.

Most people did seem to agree that anyone who found it expedient to "double cross" once to gain an end, would be fully capable of doing it again in some Lansing hotel room or whatever, and who was to know who might be the next target? Maybe you or me?

But boss P.M.C. told me to fan away the blue air, calm down, rip up the letters and let the voters decide on the basis of whatever word gets around in the natural course of events. "It doesn't get around fast enough," growled I.

On the brighter side, however, and one toward making politics for "people", is the delving into people and issues by the League of Women Voters. They are a dedicated, non-partisan, national organization whose purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government.

They do not endorse or oppose candidates or parties, but make a mountain-sized effort to obtain information on candidates and views and issues. The research is distributed to the public and to the 3,775 League members in Michigan.

It is a real service to the communities.

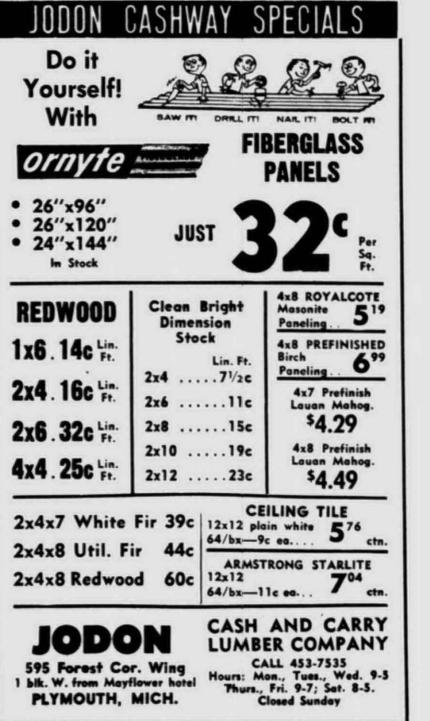

The League of Women Voters of Livonia, who recently received their charter, have sent a Questionnaire to all of the candidates running for state offices in the 17th Congressional, 18th State Senatorial, and 21st State Representative districts for the Aug. 7 primary election.

The Livonia League is asking two important questions besides routine information. (1) What course of action is needed to improve the financial situation of Michigan? (2) Do you feel the proposed Constitution should or should not be adopted? Why?

The Observer newspapers will publish a special voters guide containing the League of Women Voters information about the candidates.

They have absolutely no ulterior motive. The ladies want to become better informed citizens and to help their community to do the same.

This was pointed out to me as I was about to retire from the human race after the activity of the week. Guess I'll give the world another chance.

- By George Maskin-

A SPORTS COLUMN IN SHORT PANTS: To the mother who wrote to complain that we didn't mention ALL the boys who contributed to the victory scored by a Little League baseball team. Were it possible and were the space available, this paper gladly would report every name of every player who performs in this area. But it's pretty much of an impossibility.

We might also add that in sports writing-be it a good or bad policy-the pattern of approaching a game report centers around telling and describing what the standout members contributed.

When Hank Aguirre pitched his brilliant effort the other night against Baltimore, the headlines rightfully belonged to him. We could find nothing in the papers to herald the work of his catcher Dick Brown, who did a masterful job behind the plate. Just ask Aguirre.

During the football season, the big spread goes to the gent who scores the winning touchdown. But who hears anything about the fellows who set up the blocks winch made the score possible

In hockey often the big check by a defensiveman goes unnoticed in the newspapers. The perfect pass for a vital two-pointer many times is ignored in reports on basketball games.

We site these, hopeful that the Little League mothers and dads will understand how a sports writer must approach his chores. The last person we ever want to slight is a youngster.

Speaking of letters, another arrived from a gent who described himself as "Fat and 40."

"Now you have had a lot to say about physical fitness for youngsters and what the area recreation and school officials are doing to help the kids. What about the President and Physical Fitness for us older guys with growing stomachs?"

While it's true the big emphasis is directed by the President's program toward the youngsters, the adults haven't been ignored.

Those "in" on the physical fitness program realize the best place to get started is with the kids. Train 'em right from the beginning and they may carry the good habit the rest of their lives.

As for those of us beyond the kid's stage and those of us who have let our shapes grow slightly out of proportion, we can help ourselves if we'll just get off our rears and get away from the television set a couple nights a week the year around.

In an adjacent column on this paper today, we tell the story of a church league softball team made up for the most part of men their '30's and '40's.

Three Plymouth teams came We could add that these fellows not only have a barrel of fun in the warm months on the softball field, but when the through with victories last winter rolls around you'll find them operating as a unit in volleyball.

The slowed-up version of softball now makes it possible for every man to play and enjoy himself, even when he's reached the age of 45 or 50. Volleyball is another easy game on the system what about golf and swimming? They won't kill you And either.

We could mention roller skating and ice skating . . . skiing, bowling and some daily calisthenics!

Many of these events require next to nobody else, besides yourself.

But if you're looking for "somebody else" and the guy next door is non-cooperative, just contact your nearest recreation office. You'd be surprised that they have the interest of the adults high on their list.

If you're an office worker, who spends the greatest part of your day blessed by an air-cooled room during the summer, try walking to the drugstore for your cigarettes or late paper in the evening. Forget that you have an auto for that two-block hike down the street. .

That was the opening reing at Township Hall, Thursmark by leasing agent Louis Schostak as he told a press luncheon last week of a new giant shopping center which would be opening in Detroit late in 1964.

Anchored by a Sears store of 250,000 square feet and a Crowley Milner store of 125,000 square feet, the new facility will employ 2,000 people.

It will include some 50 different stores and services and will have a total cost of approximately $20 million. All the shopping will be done "indoors". The pedestrian malls will be covered and the interior air-conditioned and heated.

George R. Klein and Jack Shenkman are the developers, and it's been more than three years since they first started the long road which required signing tenants, arranging financing, obtaining proper zoning for the area, being sure of sewer and water facilities, and much else.

Mayor Moelke said that "Livonia's average home income is the largest of any similar community in Wayne County." He also disclosed that Wayne County had approved a project to widen Middlebelt road from Five Mile to Eight Mile road, the work to start early in 1963. The wider road is a necessary facility for the shopping center.

E. S. Janes, Group Manager for Sears, said the Livonia store would compare in size to the highly-successful Sears outlet in Lincoln Park.

"Getting To Know You" By Handwriting Analysis

(Mrs. Andler is a certified Grapho Analyst, a lecturer and teacher of handwriting analysis. Through this column she will tell you things you didn't know about your own character and personality. Address the letters to this paper, you do not have to sign your name. Answers will appear in this column. Remember this is a recognized science, not an advice column. Because of the ter-rific response to this column it may take several weeks before your letter is answered. Be patient, it will be.)
