

Approve School Operation Millage by 400 Votes

The school millage issue passed Monday by about 400 'yes' votes in a special school election that saw an extremely light turnout.

A total of 2115 votes were cast — 1275 yes, 822 no and 18 spoiled ballots.

The vote was lighter than school officials had expected. They had placed their predictions at 3,000 votes.

Voters ok'd a 3 1/4 mill increase in operational millage to be assessed over the next five years. The first levy of the new millage will begin in December of this year.

SUPERINTENDENT of Schools Russell Isbister called the approval a "vote of confidence for the school board" and said it "reaffirmed what the finance study committee had recommended."

Voting was light in all precincts. The millage won its biggest margin in precinct four, which includes the Lake Pointe area. Here it passed by 238 votes, 448 to 207.

Official votes, certified by the board of canvassers late Monday night, went this way:

Precinct 1, 424 yes, 263 no, 7 spoiled for a 694 total; precinct two, 238 yes, 224 no, 3 spoiled and 465 total; precinct three, 165 yes, 128 no, 7 spoiled, 300 total; precinct four, 448 yes, 207 no, 1 spoiled, 656 total.

The close votes came in the precinct that covers most of the Township — precinct 2, and in precinct 3 that covers the area between Ann Arbor Road and Joy Road east of Sheldon.

In general, it was a victory for a school board that had come under fire recently, particularly from a disgruntled parents group from the Lake Pointe area.

The money voted will, for the most part, be used to operate new schools being constructed by money to be borrowed the next two years on the school's modified pay-as-you-go system. The rest will go for an across the board 3 per cent pay increase for school personnel, and capital and program improvements.

encing rapid growth in the last few years, had looked to him for leadership, and had found it at every turn. In a resolution signed by all members of the Township board, Lindsay was credited with the "orderly and rapid progress made in Plymouth Township over the past eleven years."

In addition to the Township board's tribute, others poured in this week, including one from the City of Plymouth and the School Board.

They are reprinted elsewhere on this page.

NY Opera Group Sings Saturday

Plymouth music lovers will be treated to a light opera this Saturday as the Turnau Opera Players of New York perform Puccini's "La Boheme" to the musical accompaniment of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

Curtain goes up at 8:15 in the High School gym for this, the sixth and last concert of the symphony's 19th season. The Symphony is conducted by well-known area director Wayne Dunlap.

The performance will be sung in English and will be complete with costumes and scenery.

"La Boheme" is the story of struggling young artists of the Latin quarter in Paris. The time of the setting is in 1830's. Much of the text is based on the experiences of Puccini as a music student.

THE TURNAU opera players originated in 1955 with a group of former students of the late Professor Josef Turnau. In Europe, Professor Turnau had been a leading stage director prior to the Nazis. His career in the United States was dedicated to the fostering of young operatic talent to the end that opera might become here, as in Europe, a widely enjoyed and practiced part of life.

Consisting of 6 young singers, stage manager and musical director, The Turnau Opera Players have staged over 450 performances of 40

Issue Tributes for Supervisor Lindsay

Tributes poured in this week for the late Roy R. Lindsay, including ones from the Plymouth City Commission, the Township Board and the School Board.

Following is the text of their tributes:

IN TRIBUTE TO ROY LINDSAY

Members of the Board of Education and the Staff of the Plymouth Community School District join the Community in mourning the loss of Roy Lindsay.

Sincere and willing in service and uncompromising in truth, Roy became a symbol of integrity in public office. His knowledge of and dedication to good government carried him into leadership on the local, county and state levels. He believed "that schools and the means of education should forever be encouraged" and used his personal influence as well as that of his office in the support of quality schools.

Motivated by high moral and spiritual values and an intense love of the Community, Roy fought consistently and determinedly all forces which he thought would bring moral decay.

Area voters will ballot next Monday, April 5, on two state senate candidates, Farrell E. Roberts, Republican and Edward H. McNamara, Democrat, to replace the late Paul M. Chandler, who died last December. His death left a vacancy in the 14th senatorial district, which includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Both Roberts and McNamara won their Feb. 15 primaries by big margins.

Voters in the city will be faced with extra choices in a city judge race pitting Edward Draugelis against J. Rusling Cutler, and a City Commission election, which has two incumbents and four newcomers seeking election.

A light turnout was predicted for the election.

IN THE City Commission race, James C. Houk and Robert L. Smith are seeking a return to the City Commission. Four new faces on the local political front — George Hudson, Arthur Shepard, Eldon W. Martin and James B.

The election will see the retirement of Mayor Richard Wernette, who has been on the City Commission for two terms. Under terms of the City Charter, he cannot run for three consecutive terms.

Voters from precincts one and four will cast ballots at the Plymouth Township Fire Department Hall located at 41235 Schoolcraft Rd.

Precinct two and three electors will vote at the Township Hall at 42350 Ann Arbor Road.

NO PRIMARY was held for the City Commission election. The Charter states that more than two candidates for each vacancy must be seeking of-ice before a primary can be held.

In the municipal judge primary, Edward Draugelis won a big victory, but his eligibility for the post were questioned. It wasn't until two weeks ago that a circuit court decision ruled him eligible.

In the senate race, Roberts of West Bloomfield Township is considered a slight favorite, but a big Democratic win in Livonia, McNamara's home town, could bring about an upset.

Beyer Drops Out of Commission Race

In an announcement made at a candidates' night meeting Tuesday, City Commissioner Robert Beyer said he did not wish to be elected to another term on the City of Plymouth's legislative body.

Beyer told Plymouth Kiwanis Club members his decision was not reached hastily. He said he made the announcement only after long hours of soul-searching.

He noted that his decision not to actively seek re-election came too late to have his name removed from the ballot.

He said he simply didn't have the desire to serve on the commission. Actively seeking election, in view of

Commission Hopefuls Discuss Local Issues

The Plymouth Mail asked the six City Commission candidates to express their views on local issues. Following are some of their comments.

his personal feelings, he said, would be less than honest.

THE 44-YEAR-old pharmacist, who is completing a four-year term on the city commission, said his announcement should not be interpreted as criticism of the commission or any of its members.

"I just think it would be unfair to the people of Plymouth and the city commission for me to seek election at this time," he commented. The only factor which entered into his change of heart, he said, was a personal conviction that he should not serve.

Who Are the City's Candidates?

A field of six active candidates, two incumbents and four newcomers, will seek election to Plymouth's city commission next Monday when local voters go to the polls.

Other local items on the ballot will see a two-man race for the post of municipal judge and an unopposed commissioner and Wayne County Supervisor, A. E. Vallier, Jr., seek re-election to the supervisor's position from the city.

The commission race, narrowed Tuesday by the withdrawal of Commissioner Robert Beyer from active candidacy, includes two incumbents, James C. Houk and Robert L. Smith, and four others. They are George A. Hudson, Eldon W. Martin, James B. McKeon and Arthur L. Shepard. Here are biographical sketches of the candidates:

Participate in City Hall Landscaping

The Municipal Building Authority of Plymouth has devised a plan which gives the public an opportunity to take part in the landscaping of the City Hall.

The plan calls for the cost of landscaping the City Hall with funds from local organizations and private individuals. Eleven trees have been set aside for the organizations, and their donations will be acknowledged by placing a small plaque at the base of each tree.

The cost of the tree would be borne by the organization indicated on the plaque. The rest of the landscaping would be paid for by individuals who desire to donate a minimum of $10 or more towards the plan. Their names would appear on a permanent plaque to be erected in the lobby of the City Hall.

The Municipal Building Authority emphasizes it is not out to raise funds, but is offering an opportunity for local people to help perpetuate local government. The names on the plaque would recognize the contributors by name only, not amounts.

According to a letter submitted to the City Commission recently, four Service Clubs have already indicated an interest in participating in the landscaping program.

WHAT A TV SET COST 25 YEARS AGO

If someone complained that a TV set costs more today than 25 years ago, you'd lift an eyebrow. 25 years ago there were no TV sets at any price.

For the same reason, it isn't logical to say, "Prescriptions cost more today than they used to." Most of today's drugs weren't available 25 years ago. In fact, over three quarters of the prescriptions written today, are for drugs that didn't exist ten years ago.

Today, Americans spend only one cent from every disposable dollar on drugs. This is no more than in 1939. Also today's drugs work faster. They are more efficient. They do much to reduce your total cost of illness. That's why we say, "Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history."

RESOLUTION IN MEMORIAM OF ROY R. LINDSAY (FROM TOWNSHIP BOARD)

As we stand in silent tribute to the memory of Roy R. Lindsay, or just 'Roy' as he preferred to be called by his friends and conferees, we glimpse the passing of an era that is dear to those amongst us who have our family roots planted deep in local lore.

For Roy was born 73 years ago on February 24, 1892, was raised in the village of Northville, and lived in this locale, including Ann Arbor and Detroit, until he moved to Plymouth Township in 1938, 27 years ago.

LaBonte Named Agency Developer for Hamilton

Jovite LaBonte, Jr., of Grosse Pointe, Michigan has been appointed Director of Agency Development for the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company of Plymouth. Appointment to the newly created office was announced by Robert O. Safford, Vice-President of Marketing.

Prior to his appointment, LaBonte was the Regional Director of Alexander Hamilton's second largest office, located in Grosse Pointe Woods. He has been with the company since its formation last year and was one of the founding Regional Directors.

In producing $14,453,237 through his office, he was instrumental in the company's setting new records in the sale of permanent life insurance for a new company. Alexander Hamilton has written in excess of $100 Million during the first eleven months of operation.

LaBonte is a 1956 honor graduate of Brown University. Prior to his affiliation with Alexander Hamilton, he served as an agent and assistant manager for the south-eastern region of New York Life.

Fete McNamara At Thunderbird

More than 300 people jammed into the Thunderbird Inn in Plymouth, last night, to dine and dance at the First Annual Ed McNamara Dinner Dance.

McNamara is currently sitting for his third year on the Livonia City Council, and is the Democratic candidate for the State Senate in the April 5 special election.

"We advertised this as a non-political dinner, and we held to our promise of no speeches, political or otherwise," McNamara stated. "This was merely an excuse to have an evening out, to socialize."

The dinner was attended by many members of City government, members of the Democratic party, and many supporters of McNamara.

Gastronomes To Meet at Mayflower

Eighty suburban gastronomes will gather next Monday at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth for an epicurean evening replete with gourmet foods and bovine vintages.

The banquet will mark the culmination of a series of gourmet foods and wine evenings which forty suburban wives and husbands have been enjoying during the past two months.

The dinner, which will be a leisurely affair lasting 3 1/2 hours, will start at 7 p.m. in the Miles Standish room of the Mayflower with New York State champagne cocktails and hot hors d'oeuvres and canapes.

C. H. Dykeman and his wife will be the guests of honor at the affair. Dykeman is the editor of the Ford Times magazine and tours the world to write for his publication. He is also an officer of the Chaine de Rotisseurs, world renown food and wine society founded in the 13th century.

An advance review of the menu, shows that the turtle soup will be followed by Rocky Mountain brook trout, petite breast of poulet stuffed with cognac, marinated chicken livers, filet of beef with sliced champignons, a special salad surprise and an original Mayflower dessert of scooped out honeydew melon filled with out-of-season watermelon topped off with a special grape, inasmuch as the juice of grapes sets the mood for the entire affair.

Each course will feature an Italian, French, German, or American wine. Knowledgeable wine experts who specialize in the vineyards of the geographical areas represented will tell of the vintages being tasted and delineate the reasons why they are appreciated by wine connoisseurs throughout the world.

According to Staton Lorenz, the Mayflower foods manager and wine expert who has guided his suburban students through Bacchusville during the past weeks, the dinner will be an "experience" and should set a landmark for the 1965 gastronomical season.

THE IDEA for holding a series of meetings to taste and discuss wines grew out of a gourmet course taught by Robert Wall, of Plymouth, last winter. The food-lovers who came from many suburban towns, signed up for a Livonia evening school course which toured German, Chinese, and other nationality restaurants throughout the metropolitan area.

After a semester of this, the adult students knowing that they needed a great deal more information about wines, asked Robert Wall and Paul Lutzner who became wine-knowledgeable while on a seven years overseas cultural assignment after the war, to set up a series of wine tasting talks covering the vintages of Spain, Portugal, Germany, France, Italy, and the Ohio, New York, and California producing areas of the United States.

These talks, given by wine experts and coordinated by Staton Lorenz, were held in Plymouth. Colored pictures of the Rhineland, the Finger Lakes, and other producing areas in Europe and the United States were also shown.

The banquet, set up as a "graduation exercise and final examination" for those who were involved in the wine tasting discussions, is limited to 80 persons. Other epicures may arrange an invitation out of Innkeeper Lorenz.

Town Crier Finds New World In Ladies Day Out

By Jacquie Town

Last fall, a new world of adult education was opened to me through the Northwest Branch of the Y.W.C.A. For quite some time previous to my initiation as a "Ladies Day Out" participant, I had heard the praises of this organization sung by many wives and mothers who had enjoyed the various facilities at the "Y". Not until I signed up and saw for myself was I as enthusiastic as my fellow stay-at-homes.

But after joining two classes, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, enjoying the pre-class coffee hour, the luncheon programs, and the complete nursery care for the toddlers, I was convinced that the Y.W.C.A. is more than a place to swim.

The Ladies Day Out program is held on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Cost for two classes is ten dollars for ten weeks. Nursery care, including teacher; a hot lunch; and every conceivable activity to stimulate active youngsters, is seven dollars for ten weeks.

They offer classes in everything from psychology to sketching. I was amazed at the building that houses all this. It's modern, clean, and big! The women who enjoy this program come in all sizes and ages and it's fun as well as educational. The topics of conversation very seldom slip into the usual pattern of house, husbands, and children.

It takes less than thirty minutes to drive there from Plymouth, and the classes don't begin until 10 or 10:30, so you have ample time to send the older kids off to school, fix your face, and be off for a day to yourself.

The program is scheduled to end in time for the mothers to be home when the older children arrive from their school day.

At the last term I attended, a group of us took a course in charm. For most of us it would take a good deal longer than ten weeks to make us charming, but we picked up a few things to help us in the right direction.

Some of the other courses offered include, fur craft; ceramics; oil painting; marriage; self analysis; entertaining for fun; and many, many others. During the year, there are added programs such as fashion shows, speakers, and movies. If anyone is interested in learning more about the Y.W.C.A.'S, excellent activities, just phone KE 7-8500.

One thing that continues to puzzle me about women's clubs is the inevitability of a cliché forming and running the entire organization. This is hardly true of all groups, but quite a number are guilty as charged.

When a comparatively new member questions the organization about procedure, or a change in policy, the usual reply is "We've already discussed that in committee," therefore leaving the member as uninformed as before and many times harboring the feeling "Why bother". I'm not quite sure how one goes about becoming a member of the committee that discusses all these things.

Officers are often placed in their positions through courtesy or popularity, and many well qualified people are neglected because it's not considered good practice to buck the cliché, or run against a friend, whichever the case may be. Even though the entire organization may suffer due to a lack of good leadership, the practice often continues to raise one officer to the next step on the ladder as a matter of courtesy.

It boils down to one fundamental question. Are we members of organizations because of the personalities involved, or because we sincerely believe in what the organization stands for? There comes a time when new ideas should be entertained and acted upon for the benefit of all members. Otherwise one sometimes gets to the point of feeling that her only function is to fill the hall, and in a sense is told "Leave the driving to us."

You Can Find It at Thrift Shop

Clothing — for children, men and women — shoes, hats, purses, games, puzzles, books, irons, dishes and nicknacks are among the items for sale in the Thrift Shop, 383 N. Main St.

Founded in the Fall of 1949 by the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church, the store has merchandise priced from five cents to five dollars.

All items for sale in the shop have been donated, mostly by Presbyterians, but also by other community residents. Goods which are not sold within a certain period of time are donated to the Salvation Army for distribution.

Open Thursday and Friday afternoons each week from 1 until 5 p.m., the shop's patrons include antique collectors, persons with hobbies and children in addition to women looking for clothing.

The largest selling item in the store is children's clothing.

"It's one of the most lucrative money makers for the Women's Association," Mrs. Robert D. Nesbitt, who is chairman of the shop, said. Chairman for the past three years, Mrs. Nesbitt gained experience in retailing by helping her husband operate two Detroit area men's clothing stores.

Members of the committee are Mrs. O. H. Williams, Mrs. Leon Scharman and Mrs. John Storrie. Mrs. Lauren Wells is treasurer.

Mrs. Nesbitt's husband also helps out when needed. According to his wife, he repairs jewelry for the shop, shovels walks and acts as general handyman.

The profits of the shop, after the rent and other expenses are paid, are turned over to the Women's Association which donates them to the Presbyterian missions — national, foreign and Christian Education.

Plans for a resale shop were first suggested in a circle meeting in late 1949 by Mrs. Frank Newell formerly of Livonia and now of Tulsa, Oklahoma, according to Mrs. David Wood one of the original workers.

It took quite a selling job in the Women's Association to get the women to accept the idea of the church entering into a business, Mrs. Wood reminisced. They were finally convinced, however, of the worthwhileness of the project which would benefit both the church and the community, Mrs. Wood said, adding the shop opened in the Spring of 1950, on Penniman Ave.

The Resale Shop as it was originally named moved into several locations around Plymouth before locating in their present facility in April 1963. Other locations were on Wing St., between Maple and Main St., in a building located where the central parking lot now is, and another building on Main St., where the City Hall now stands, Mrs. Wood said.

The first chairman of the Thrift Shop was Mrs. Elvin Taylor. Assisting her were Mrs. Walter Hall, Mrs. Eugene Crosby and Mrs. Wood.

The store has grown into a very orderly retail store, from its first beginnings according to Mrs. Wood.

Goods for sale are refurbished each week, according to Mrs. Nesbitt. She explained that four women come into the shop every Tuesday morning to make new items that will be placed in circulation for Thursday's opening. Then when the shop is open two volunteer women from the church operate the store each afternoon.

ADDING AN ash tray to the display of dishes and glasses, jewelry, books and puzzles for sale at the Thrift Shop, the shop sponsored by the Presbyterian Church's Women's Association, is shop chairman Mrs. Robert Nesbitt. The store also has a large selection of clothing for men, women and children for sale.

American Legion Auxiliary

As April begins, the American Legion Auxiliary continues to face the situation created by the Veterans Administration's announcement of its decision to close 11 hospitals, four domiciliarys and 6 regional offices. The closings were delayed until after May 1 by action of Congress, giving one more month for American Legion and Auxiliary endeavors to protect disabled veterans against curtailment of facilities and services.

On the Auxiliary's calendar of activities, April is Child Welfare Month and also the month for emphasis on Foreign Affairs. In Foreign Relations, the study country this year is Costa Rica, and pennies are being collected to buy tools for vocational schools in this little Central American republic.

April 14 is Pan American Day, and this year marking the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Pan American Union.

Radio-TV Chairman Lillian Kinghorn requests all Unit members to fill out the "Golden Mike" ballot and give it to her.

TREFOIL DOINGS

The second patrol from the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is known as the "Bridge Spanners."

The girls in this patrol are Mary Ronk and Pamela Lennox from Plymouth, Pamela Sekaros, assistant patrol leader, from Ann Arbor, Kathy Foster from Chelsea, Patty Higgins from La Grange, Ill., Mary Horsfall from Northville, Margaret Beal, patrol leader, from Saline, and Dianne Rogers from Wayne.

For their demonstration they are going to make corn husk mats. To begin, the husks are dried and then stained. Then the mats are made by a process similar to weaving.

The girls also are going to wear Indian costumes and moccasins which they have made. For background music they are using drums made from wooden kegs with skins stretched over both ends and maracas made from cords.

The third patrol is known as the "Water Moccasins."

The girls in this patrol are Sally MacKenzie from Plymouth, Nancy Kelley, Laurie Pearlman, patrol leader, and Pamela Warren from Ann Arbor, Lindsay Adams from Brighton, Charlene Deasy from Saline, Joan Shackelford from Wayne and Sandra Herald from Ypsilanti.

For their demonstration they are going to play an old Indian game, LaCrosse. This game is played on a large field, and each player has a stick with a small basket on the end. There will be four on each team. The object of the game is to get the ball through the goal of the other team by passing it back and forth among your own teammates. From this game we derived football, basketball and soccer games. The girls also will wear Indian costumes which they have made.

Band to Play April 4 at PHS

The Plymouth Community Band will play its spring concert this Sunday, April 4, at the High School at 4 in the afternoon.

The band is directed by James Griffith.

Variety and appeal to many musical tastes are the keynotes of a program that ranges from Bach and Haydn to the modern "American Overture for Band" by Joseph Jenkins.

The regular members of the band will be featured soloists. James O'Day will perform the Von Weber "Concertino" for Clarinet and Richard Sorensen will be accompanied by the band as he plays the Haydn "Concerto for Trumpet."

The highlight of the Bands performance will be the Tschickowsky Symphony No. 4, "Finale." However in keeping with the bands normal idiom, Director Griffith has selected some familiar marches and some program numbers in a lighter vein.

Band officials reminded the people of the area that the Band is open to any interested adult instrumental musician who would like to join, particularly woodwind players. High school musicians are welcome under adult sponsorship and with the director's approval.

The band rehearses Wednesday nights 8-10 p.m. Call Jim Griffith — GL 3-1416 or the High School for further particulars.

TREASURES FROM Plymouth Pantries

"I've never eaten anything like it before; you don't have to frost the cake and its so moist it actually feels wet," was the way Mrs. Harold C. Swan, 624 Pacific Ave., described her "Heath Bar Cake."

Mrs. Swan lists gardening as her only hobby and said she likes to spend the entire day outside working in her yard. She explained that digging in the dirt relaxes her.

The recipe for the cake is one that a friend gave her a short time ago. She said everyone she serves the cake to wants the recipe for it.

MIXING up her Heath Bar Cake is Mrs. Harold C. Swan of Pacific Ave. The cake, which is so moist that it feels wet, does not need frosting, according to Mrs. Swan.

The Good Old Days
 TAKEN FROM THE FILES OF THE PLYMOUTH MAIL
 25 YEARS AGO
 Steps are being taken in Plymouth to form a University club to be made up of graduates of the University of Michigan. There are about 170 in the city and vicinity who have been graduated from the U. of M.
 Probably never before in the city has there ever been a more cut and dried opinion concerning an election issue than there is this year in the liquor by the glass question. Residents Monday at the general spring election will vote as to whether or not they shall allow the sale of spirits in addition to beer and wine in the city. A close vote is expected.
 Census enumerators will begin taking the 1940 census in Plymouth Tuesday morning. Plymouth residents are requested to cooperate with the enumerators by receiving them cordially and answering questions that they might ask.
 The annual meeting of the Western Wayne County Conservation association will be held Monday evening at the Mayflower hotel, starting at 8:00 o'clock. Officers of the association will be elected and also five members to the board.
 March 27 will be remembered for quite some time hereabouts as the day of the biggest snowstorm of the 1939-40 winter season. When Plymouth residents awoke Wednesday morning they discovered the heaviest blanket of snow of the entire year covering the earth. Estimates show that there were nearly four inches of snow that fell during the night.
 According to Chief of Police Vaughan Smith, the police department order pertaining to public bingo parties will apply to local organizations as well as similar events sponsored by outside groups. There will be no difference in the ruling, it is stated. All will be treated just alike. The objection throughout the state has been to the big public bingo parties that flourished for some time until police officers took action against them. There has been no intent on the part of the state police or local police to interfere with small, private kenos parties to which there have been no objections.
 Approximately 400 Marines report each month to the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tennessee.

G.O.P. Supports Houk, Hudson, McKeon & Smith

Plymouth Republicans in a meeting held last Thursday evening agreed to support James Houk, George Hudson, Jim McKeon, and Robert Smith in the city commission race, which will be decided on April 5.

Support was voted on the basis of study of city commission minutes for the last two years, record of service to the community, and positions taken by the candidates in an open forum held March 18 on such issues as: future growth of the city and township; relationship between city and township; water problem; downtown shopping area; human relations; senior citizen housing; youth activities.

Criteria for evaluating the candidates included:

1. Education, formal and special type training.
2. Experience.
3. Service in the community thru organization, projects, etc.
4. Desire and interest in serving as an elected official.

A BRIEF summary of some of the major qualifications of the candidates receiving support of the Plymouth Republican Club is listed below, in alphabetical order.

James Houk — Currently serving as Mayor pro tem, he has served the city for some time and favors an orderly growth of the city. Also interested in the improvement of city and township relationship.

George Hudson — Has shown interest in commission work as he has attended meetings regularly for the last three years. Member of the City Planning Board. Has a frank sincere approach to problems and a real desire to serve.

Jim McKeon — A civil engineer with a broad background in several areas of business, including major purchasing. Has an outstanding record of community service including work in the Junior Achievement Program, Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis, Boy Scouts, Community Fund, and active member of the Suburban Employers Association.

Robert Smith — Principal of Junior High West, and is currently serving on the commission. Has a special interest in the problems of youth a sincere desire to help Plymouth continue to be a fine community.

Commission Hopetuls

(Continued from Page 1) must plan to expand into a coordinated shopping area with adequate parking, allow for access to the proposed new highways, and find a solution to traffic tie-ups."

Arthur L. Shepard

In a recent interview Shepard said he favored open executive sessions of the City Commission:

"Quite frankly, I don't see any reason for a closed meeting as such. I see a need for study meetings or discussion sessions to which the public would not be invited but from which they should not be barred. Some matters should be committee assignments."

On the subject of Township-City relationships, he felt that the instances of cooperation outweighed those of conflict, and that even further cooperative efforts could be made without trying to annex or incorporate the township.

CONTINUING, he said: "I think the only conflict between the city and township in the past while I've been here has been a matter of personalities."

"With townships as strong as they are in Michigan, there's no point in bucking them. They're a part of our political organization and we might as well work with them as closely as possible."

Concerning the question of County home rule, he said that it should work to provide a more efficient government than we have; but the dangers of political manipulation are so great that the supervisors from all the small communities in the county should watch all proposals very carefully in the interests of the cities.

He felt, in conclusion, that present legislation may not provide for a joint community effort for fire and police protection, and that we should strive for legislation that would permit local governments to

Eldon W. Martin

Martin called for better communications in his campaign statements. "We aren't getting down to the people level," he said.

He felt that closed-door City Commission sessions were keeping opinions of individuals from the people.

participate on an active and financial basis.

Martin also said that he felt the acting City Manager was overworked, and thus not able to pay proper attention to police and fire duties.

"When you spread yourself out, none of the jobs get done."

He further felt that the police department was understaffed, and that City money was not always being spent wisely. He concluded that spending $16,000 for snow removal when it appears we need better fire equipment and more police personnel was a mistake.

George Hudson

Hudson expressed his views at a non partisan candidates meeting two weeks ago and then said he felt himself qualified. He pointed out that he had attended Commission meetings on a regular basis for several years.

THEN HE said he thought that Plymouth was a fine area and that "it shouldn't change too fast."

James Houk

Houk's and the other incumbent Robert Smith's opinions were printed at some length two weeks ago. Here's a brief resume of Houk's views:

He felt the senior citizen's proposed housing and the City's youth activities were notable achievements.

Lengthy study of the water problem had convinced him Detroit water was not the answer.

While admitting that some differences have existed in the past between the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Houk said the present commission is composed of people who were not involved.

"This is good," he said "We look at things with new eyes, as one community." Houk pointed to advances in inter-community co-operation and cited a recently approved reciprocal sewage agreement as an example.

He said he felt his term on the commission had been a part of training him for better work for the City of Plymouth.

Robert Smith

Smith felt at the non partisan meeting two weeks ago that the wounds between the City and the Township were still deep and that problems had become even more obvious.

He said a high, impenetrable wall exists between the two units of government.

He criticized the city's water program, referring to the water supply as "terrible." Smith contended that the main reason for the city's pursuing its own program was to maintain its independence.

"We can't be independent," he claimed.

He expressed misgivings about the effect of encroaching shopping centers on the downtown area and — in reference to local cultural aspirations — said:

"Culture gives no tax base."

Seek Vocational School For Wayne County Area

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of five articles on "Vocational Education - Its Importance and Value for All Youth" as prepared by the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

Should area vocational and technical schools be constructed in various parts of Wayne County to service the growing demand for additional vocational education? These area vocational schools could offer at least twenty to thirty vocational and technical courses, giving boys and girls a wide occupational choice.

At least five of these vocational-technical high schools should be established throughout Wayne County and in the City of Detroit. A student wishing to obtain job skills at any of these locations would attend the area vocational school nearest him on a half-day basis and return to his home high school to attend other classes.

In the downriver area, fourteen school districts (River Rouge, Lincoln Park, Melvindale, Heintzen, Southgate, Ecorse, Allen Park, Taylor, Wyandotte, Grosse Ile, Riverview, Gibraltar, Flat Rock, and Trenton) have been meeting with Wayne County's Vocational Education Consultant, Douglas Selby, to plan an area vocational school. Selby has discussed the types of vocational and technical programs possible in such an area vocational school and the necessary steps to be taken for its establishment.

THREE OF the school districts in the downriver area (Gibraltar, Flat Rock and Grosse Ile) have decided not to wait for the construction of such a new facility. Under the guidance of Selby, they have gone ahead and established a vocational educational program in each of their three schools. A vocational director, Don Leverenz, has been hired. Their business community is presently being surveyed which will pinpoint the jobs available to high school graduates.

How does this three-way vocational education program operate? At each downriver school one or two specific vocational fields will be featured. Gibraltar will specialize in auto mechanics courses; Flat Rock, welding; and Grosse Ile, drafting. Other courses will be added as the program grows. Related vocational and technical courses will be taught at all three of the schools.

Students will be transported to their area of specialization for a half-day and they will return for their regular classes at the conclusion of their vocational education classes. The drafting, welding, and auto mechanics courses will be from 2 to 3 hours in duration. Related courses such as metallurgy, planning and layout, shop mathematics, applied science, blueprint reading, and shop drawing will be one hour in length.

This area cooperative vocational school program of the three school districts in the downriver county area is not as extensive as having a separate, new facility, but at least the youth of the area are being given additional vocational education immediately.

Each student in the three districts will have an opportunity to select one of the six vocational fields (three more fields will be added after tabulating business and industry survey) as his area of job preparation.

FIVE separate vocational and technical schools throughout Wayne County would be an ideal goal for the immediate future.

Until these schools become a reality, the Gibraltar-Grosse Ile-Flat Rock plan of organizing the resources of several schools is at least answering some "world of work" needs of the youth in the downriver area.

Serving Plymouth 55 Years

A New Form of Pop Art?

4 for commission

In the race for Plymouth's City Commission next Monday, two incumbents and four newcomers to the political scene are actively seeking election.

Another name, that of Commissioner Robert Beyer, will appear on the ballot. But Beyer announced this week that he did not wish to serve another term.

His decision leaves in active contention incumbent commissioners James C. Houk and Robert L. Smith and candidates George A. Hudson, Eldon W. Martin, James B. McKeon and Arthur L. Shepard.

The Plymouth Mail thinks four of the hopefuls are eminently well-qualified for the four openings on the city's legislative body.

Of the incumbents, we feel Commissioner James C. Houk has shown himself to be a devoted, capable and competent commissioner. During his time in office, Commissioner Houk has displayed a tireless dedication to city activities. He has conducted personal investigations of questions under consideration, he has contributed thoughtful comment on issues at commission meetings and he has consistently voted for the best interests of the city and the community as a whole.

Among the other hopefuls, we endorse the candidacy of Arthur L. Shepard, James B. McKeon and Eldon W. Martin.

Shepard, a member of the city planning commission, brings impressive credentials to the job. He holds A.B. and M.A. degrees from the University of Michigan in municipal administration. In addition, he holds an M.A. degree in international administration from Columbia University. His attitude toward inter-community co-operation seems solid and well-reasoned.

Martin, a graduate of Plymouth High School and the Detroit Institute of Technology, has been a resident of Plymouth since 1928. He has pledged himself to better utilization of city manpower and facilities and better communication within city government.

McKeon, chief engineer with Plymouth's DSI Corporation, is a graduate of Michigan State University with a B.S. in mechanical engineering. His experience includes civil engineering, purchasing, industrial and labor relations and product planning and programming — all fields valuable to city government.

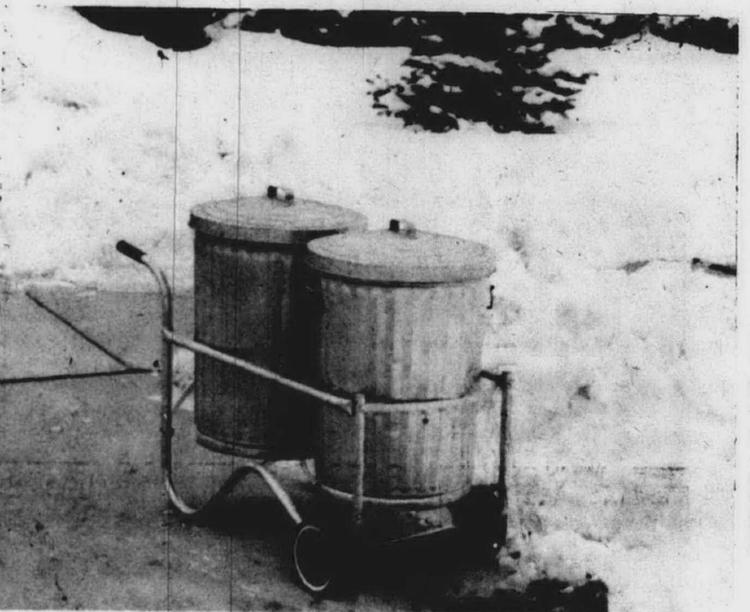

We do not endorse the candidacy of Hudson and Commissioner Smith. While Hudson has consistently attended meetings of the commission, he showed little insight into city problems at a public appearance session held recently.

Commissioner Smith, we feel, has contributed little during his two years on the governing group. His voting has been erratic and he has displayed emotionalism and a lack of restraint and calmness on several occasions.

In summation, The Plymouth Mail feels local electors can ensure the best possible local government by casting their ballots next Monday for James C. Houk, Eldon W. Martin, James B. McKeon and Arthur L. Shepard.

THE CITY of Plymouth is conducting a campaign to get homeowners to use proper refuse containers. The ones above are not, for obvious reasons. A brisk wind or a frisky dog can upset them. The ones below are proper, according to Superintendent of Public Works Joe Bida. They are 30-gallon metal garbage cans with tight covers. Improper ones are being tagged by garbage collectors.

Half a Story Makes Sensational Reading

Dear Editor: March 26, 1965

The voting practices of a group of Farrand school parents have been of considerable interest to your paper of late. We are referring to the group of 36 parents from the Farrand school area who signed a letter to interested community residents. This Lousy Reporting Or Snow Job?

Dear Editor: March 28, 1965

The headline "IMPROVEMENTS TO EASE CROSSING SNAGS - C & O" appeared on the front page of last week's issue.

I have a question! Just what are these $1.5 million improvements the C & O is going to make? Your article did not mention one single improvement.

I think you have been given the world's greatest snow job or are just plain guilty of lousy reporting. All the article contained was items about how thoughtful the RR was, the government is picking on the RR, and everybody had a grand time.

The headline reminds me of a cheap confession magazine where the article has little or nothing to do with the title.

Pretty lousy reporting, but I guess when the C & O puts on a feed, you have to show your appreciation.

Sincerely,
Richard E. Allen
35852 Leon
Livonia

EDITOR'S NOTE: A Plymouth Mail reporter questioned a C & O official on the $1.5 million improvements. He refused to elaborate on their nature or extent, terming them "yard improvements."

letter outlined the poor school conditions existing at that school.

In one of your recent editorials you quoted an anonymous member of the Citizens Advisory Committee on School Finance as saying that in the last school election 22 of the 36 parents did not vote. Last week, the "Town Crier" had this to say about our group:

"The people of Selma are marching 50 miles simply to express their desire to vote. A group of Farrand school parents protested the school's conditions, and yet many of them failed to vote during the last school election. They are responsible parents, interested in their children's welfare and education. I only hope they will express their responsibility at the voting machines."

Evidently, your policy is that half a story makes the most sensational reading. Let us examine the voting records of those people more closely. The school election referred to by your anonymous citizen was merely a rubber stamp election. At that time Mrs. Esther Hulsing and Mr. Gerald Fischer ran unopposed for re-election to the school board.

UNDOUBTEDLY, the vote was light in all the precincts in the school district. The previous election concerned a millage issue. Of the 36 parents under fire, 32 were eligible to vote at that time. Twenty-four of these 32 exercised their privilege to vote. Four of the 36 parents either did not reside in their present homes or had not been here long enough to qualify for registration.

This leaves eight people who did not vote. We feel that most reasonable people would agree that there are unavoidable circumstances which would prevent some their responsibility at the voting machine."

The members of this group went to the school board as "responsible parents, interested in their children's welfare and education." We had no ax to grind with the school board. We attempted to show ourselves quite willing to cooperate with the school board in any way which would improve school conditions in the Plymouth Community School District. We strongly resent the irresponsible image that has been projected by your paper.

It has been the policy of the Plymouth Mail not to print unsigned letters to the editor. We wholeheartedly agree with this policy. We think it would also be wise if you did not hide behind anonymity in your editorial column. Doesn't this resemble the tactics of the malicious gossip who says, "They say that . . .?"

Very truly yours,

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the June 8 "rubber stamp" school election last year, Fischer and Mrs. Hulsing were opposed by Mrs. Harland B. Smith of Plymouth in the race for two seats on the school board. Fischer polled 715 votes, Mrs. Hulsing drew 628 votes and Mrs. Smith received 315.

The Grim Pilgrim

By DAVE WILEY

Among the things that Plymouth Township Supervisor Roy R. Lindsay lost little love on, were newspapers. In fact, the strongest language I ever heard Roy use came one afternoon when I was questioning him about something he said at a meeting.

"Darn it," he lamented, "I don't want to say any more than I've already said."

"It never looks right when it gets in the paper." He looked at newspapers, I think, as necessary evils which must be tolerated but not enthusiastically enjoyed.

On the whole, though, the venerable supervisor and I got on famously. When I came to this area, he took me under a fatherly wing and attempted to coach me on some of the things he thought I should know.

"I don't like all this community crap," he told me one day after I'd run two pages of legal advertising from Plymouth and Canton Townships and the City of Plymouth under a "Legal Notices from the Plymouth Community" heading.

And out of it all, I developed an affectionate respect for the man who, above everything, put Plymouth Township first.

Roy would probably dismiss the term with some irritation; but he was a true non-conformist.

He neither smoked nor drank and was proud of the fact.

A candid man, he said what he thought regardless of whose feathers it might ruffle.

The supervisor, in short, was not a gray-flannel organization man. He had no compunctions about articulating the things he thought were best for his first love — Plymouth Township.

In recent years, for example, Roy developed a vigorous antipathy toward apartment construction because he thought it wasn't best for the Township.

He criticized Michigan Bell Telephone Company's microwave tower project because he felt it would add nothing to the area.

By the same token, he saw to it that capable, competent men were named to represent Plymouth Township in the growing number of community-wide efforts that were launched.

High caliber appointments were made by the supervisor to the Plymouth Community Human Relations Commission, the Plymouth Area Planning Commission and — most recently — to the recreation site study group.

At the time of his death, he was considering the question of appointments to a committee that would study joint police protection with the City of Plymouth and Northville Township.

In short, I think Roy Lindsay's actions prove his belief in The Plymouth Community insofar as it didn't threaten his beloved Township and the character and quality he'd fought so hard to see it achieve.

Overconfidence was not one of Roy's traits.

Last Fall, the week before general election, he wore an air of desperate gloom.

In spite of large campaign ads placed by friends, opposition that — at best — was token, and a pre-election newspaper endorsement, his brow was furrowed with worry as he alighted from his car in the Township Hall parking lot.

"Ha," I kidded him, "you should look worried! Most politicians would welcome an outlook like you've got."

Roy refused to admit victory, however, and he stayed concerned until after his reelection by a lopsided margin, concrete proof that he was still king of township politics.

But he was destined not to complete his term.

Last Friday evening, in his sleep, the king quietly passed on — leaving behind him the most impressive legacy of growth and progress in Plymouth Township history.

And it is fitting that flags fly at half-mast throughout the community in memory of this man who fought so long and so hard and so sincerely.

I'll always remember Roy Lindsay and the chats we had, seated in his office in the Township Hall, the shades drawn against the blinding glare of the afternoon sun.

I can hear his voice as he dreamed about Plymouth Township and its golden future and looked, with misgivings, at the problems of growth.

And I know if Roy could read this, he'd pitch it back at me with a derisive snort and the comment:

"It won't look right when it gets in the paper."

Let the Coffee Grounds Settle

March 25, 1965

Dear Editor:

I have never written anything to The Plymouth Mail before, and it would be easier for me to just forget it now, but maybe if I get it off my chest I'll feel better.

I can't for the life of me understand why people feel they have to keep writing to you on the race problem, when I feel we don't have one here in Plymouth.

We have colored people shop in our stores, and many work in our town, and I have never heard of them being mistreated by anyone here in Plymouth.

Young Master Ross's column this past week could have been forgotten as far as I am concerned. Not only are some people keeping the pot boiling, but now they are in essence trying to divide our town, as to the feelings of North and West.

EVIDENTLY some of our newer people don't remember when we had a colored family living in our town, and the children went here to high school, this family wasn't thought of as "nigger's." This family was just as much a part of Plymouth as any of the rest.

The big difference was that they were not pushed down our throats as some people want to do now. When you keep telling people that they don't have the right to feel or think the way they wish there is bound to be rebellion against these groups.

Why not leave it alone and let things take their natural course and everyone would be better off for it.

I think by and large the Majority of people are getting very tired of every news cast and every newspaper, all we can hear or read is how bad the racial problems are.

Let's let the coffee grounds settle for a while, I think it would taste a lot better.

Roberts for senate

Two men whose differences are few and small will meet politically next Monday when voters make their choice in the race for State Senator in the 14th district which includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

They are former State Senator Farrell E. Roberts of W. Bloomfield Township, a Republican, and Livonia City Councilman Edward H. McNamara, a Democrat.

Roberts, a 43-year-old attorney, is a veteran of two terms in the Michigan House of Representatives and two terms in the State Senate. He holds a B.S. degree from the U.S. Naval Academy and an LL.B. from the University of Michigan.

McNamara, 38, is a former member of the Dearborn Township School Board. Serving his second term as a council member in Livonia, he holds an A.B. degree from the University of Detroit.

The main issue that seems to separate the two men is whether a state income tax, necessary to fiscal reform, should be flat rate or graduated. Roberts subscribes to the flat rate and McNamara prefers the latter method.

Roberts has been rated "preferred and well-qualified" by the non-partisan Civic Searchlight group. McNamara has received a "well-qualified" rating.

We feel that Roberts should be elected for three reasons.

- (1) His experience and record in legislative affairs at the state level.
- (2) The fact that the legislature is already drastically out of balance from a partisan standpoint and election of another Republican would, although to a small extent, alleviate the lopsided Democratic margin.
- (3) It would be in the best interests of the district as a whole, we think, for the State Senate seat to move out of the City of Livonia.

The Plymouth Mail therefore endorses the candidacy of Farrell E. Roberts and urges local voters to cast their ballots for him.

Beyer for honesty

Plymouth Commissioner Robert Beyer's decision not to run for office again, in spite of the fact that it's too late to have his name removed from the ballot, took courage.

The smart thing to do, he was told, would be to run and, if elected, resign. Beyer, however, adhered to the dictates of his conscience and did the honest thing.

He should be commended for his decision. The Plymouth Mail salutes Commissioner Beyer for announcing that he does not wish to be elected to another term on the city's governing body.

It's refreshing to see a man chart his course on the basis of personal convictions, not political expediency.

Facts of Life Concern More Than Just Sex

We seem to be the only people in the world who reach automatically for the pill of education to cure every social ill from race tension to illegitimate births.

Is education, unlike law, social work, public health the family and the church compelled to carry such a burden of responsibility?

The answer, unfortunately, here in Plymouth, like everywhere else, is "yes."

And perhaps in the area of the physiology and psychology of man himself, in the area of human values, in the area of bodily functions, in the area growth and development - in short, in the area of man himself more than anywhere else - education as an institution has borne the brunt of a whole society's duty.

The Plymouth Schools, faced with this commission, have over the past few months, evolved a program that will help answer questions about man himself.

Originally organized as a committee on sex education in the schools, to those responsible for the new program it soon became apparent that much more was needed than a cursory discussion physiological topics. It was also apparent that the 'Facts of Life' necessarily needed to include more than an explanation of where babies came from.

William Harding, Assistant Superintendent of Schools responsible for secondary curriculum spearheads the effort to get the program operational. The 47-man committee met this week to edit and review the final draft of the new program.

Harding said in an interview last week:

"Values should be taught at home. But society points to the school when there is a breakdown, and it is a reflection on the schools.

"What the boy did at the Northwestern basketball game was a reflection of a home. It became the place of the school to raise the questions of values. And we have the right to raise the questions, because we get the criticism when things are not correct."

Harding further explained what he meant about values and education:

"When you turn on TV and see somebody being smashed with clubs, we had better do something about values."

"We also," Harding added, "want to be able to tell our students about life situations that involve restrictions, authority, and responsibility. We can't talk any more; we've got to demonstrate. This is not right!"

Harding and his committee call their program "Human Growth and Development." They state that the title is not meant to whitewash a sex education course; it is meant to indicate the program includes more than just the 'birds and the bees.'

Still, one of the primary concerns of the committee has been sex education, or the lack of it.

Working with figures such as those produced by the Purdue survey of teenagers which showed about 50% of the kids interviewed received their information on sex from their friends, the committee has moved ahead to integrate more formal information on the subject into ALL levels of the school, K-12.

The local schools, again, have taken a close look at their role and have agreed they have the right to at least raise the questions.

They have felt that some homes failed to some extent, and that the church is limited in that many youngsters have no church connections. They have concluded that the school has to be part of this, despite longstanding and traditional opposition to the schools even mentioning sex. A state law still prohibits the schools from discussing birth control methods in the classrooms.

At the outset, the committee agreed to place the program throughout the whole curriculum. That is, to integrate it into existing classes. For instance some schools merely have a health specialist come in once a week, but not rapport can be established using this method, it was felt.

Thus, according to Harding, the program needed to be spread throughout all classes at all levels. And, the program needed to go beyond sex education into the areas of reasoning and judgement, morals and attitudes.

Tentative curriculum inclusions go like this: At the kindergarten level, discussion of care and feeding of pets.

In the first grade care of plants and animals, introduction of the idea that like produces like, and demonstration of the incubation of eggs. Also, in this grade, emphasis would be placed on the proper vocabulary, attempting to avoid the early establishment of a four-letter word slang vocabulary.

In the second grade, again emphasis on the right words, relationships between boy-boy, girl-boy and girl-girl, the duties of mother and father, introduction of the concept that some young, like the quail ducklings, must shift for themselves, and that other young, such as kittens and humans are helpless.

A discussion of feelings, life span, difference between egg and live-bearing animals, and the elementary facts of life, including the idea that all life produces its own kind and that a seed or an egg produces an organism, is scheduled for the third grade.

In the critical 4th, 5th and 6th grades, new things are included, and the old reinforced. The value of a regular physical exam, the value of first aid, a general knowledge of systems of the body and the importance of personal health are added. An understanding that people are emotionally different is also planned, and outline of how life begins.

In the fifth grade the emphasis shifts from systems to organs, from personal health to community health, from an understanding of why other people are emotionally different to a look at an individual's fears, hates and motivations.

Also, the first explanations of animal reproduction are included.

The sixth grade, probably the most critical, will be slated to discuss the cell, heredity, and Chromosomes - and mammal reproduction. Ethnic, cultural and economic differences are also planned as part of the program at this level.

In the junior high, the board long ago approved more sex education in the science classes. The new plan calls for a stepped up discussion of narcotics, tobacco and alcohol, which is based on the schools right to "challenge adult standards," according to curriculum chief Harding.

In the eighth grade, topics might include the zygote, the sperm and the ovary, the nervous system and how it works.

In the upper grades, 9-12 special classes can concentrate on certain areas. It would be expected that the biology classes would be permitted to teach the anatomy and physiology, of the male and female the functions of hormones, and the occurrence of puberty, a human genetics a way or ways to work out rules to live by.

All these ambitious plans are still in the final planning stages, but if work moves fast enough, they will be in the curriculum this next fall. The ninth grade curriculum, as parts of the rest, may come under some fire because of their nature and long standing taboos. But the committee feels the barriers are slight.

Harding emphasizes that the changes aren't radical, but that they reflect a new and, perhaps, a slightly visionary conception of the local schools involvement in critical moral and social issues.

Local efforts in these directions reflect once more the everchanging nature of a society and a culture long determined to perpetuate itself through a progressive and formal education system.

Schoolcraft Enrollment To Hit 1500

The applications for the freshmen entering Schoolcraft College in August 1965 now number approximately 725. With the return of the present freshman class, the total day enrollment is expected to reach 1500.

Residents of the College District who plan to make applications to Schoolcraft College are advised that this should be done immediately, since residents are given priority only until May 1, a date which was set by agreement of the College administration and the high school principals.

A large evening enrollment also is anticipated. Residents employed during the day who wish to attend evening classes should contact the Office of Student Affairs of the College, telephone 591-6400, and arrange for an evening appointment. The counseling of-office is open Monday through Thursday evenings, from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Looking for Livonia Vote

Edward H. McNamara, veteran of several minor political battles in area government including the Livonia City Council goes for bigger things this week as he seeks election to the Michigan Senate.

McNamara, a Democrat, is running against Farrell E. Roberts, a Republican, for a State Senate seat from the 14th senatorial district — a seat left empty by the December death of Paul M. Chandler.

Past member of the Dearborn Township School Board and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, McNamara is now on the Wayne County Board of Supervisors and the Livonia Council.

An in-fighter from his days on the Dearborn school board, McNamara has been on the minority side more than once. In Dearborn, he worked with a disgruntled citizens group that moved to defeat a school proposal, then fought for and won, a seat on the school board.

TODAY, he's proud of the fact that he is the only elected Livonia official that is an active member of the

"Livonia Citizens for Better Human Relations."

"It doesn't make me friends," McNamara said in an interview Friday. "Whenever the fact appears in print, I usually get three letters and phone calls from well-meaning friends advising me to quit the group."

A proven vote-getter, McNamara won his primary handily, netting 3,000 more votes than his closest contender. He also pulled a record number of votes when he won his City Council post.

He has a "slew of kids," in his words. His wife, Lucille, and he have five children.

He pulls no punches, and talked freely Friday.

"Farrell Roberts talks like a Democrat, but never acted like one. He advocates fiscal reform, but helped kill fiscal reform in '62. He's not a leader. Leaders would be more controversial; take Joe Kowalsky. He has 20% of the people that hate him."

McNAMARA expressed approval of the idea of a boundary commission that would rule on annexation matters. As the law stands now, an annexation move could cut the core of the tax base out and leave the undesirable part of a proposed annexation.

The boundary commission is a hot issue to the insiders in this district that includes several townships adjacent to bulging incorporated cities.

The Governor's announcement on the Mackinaw Bridge should be made part and parcel of fiscal reform, McNamara feels.

"My objection is that the Governor lambasts the Democrats for jumping the gun on senior citizens when he's done the same thing on the bridge."

The question of fiscal reform, the stickiest subject in the State, drew some sharp comments from the senatorial hopeful. He advocates an end to the Business Activities Tax and sales tax on food and drugs. The BAT is a tax on the gross receipts of a business. Fiscal reform would change that to a tax on net profit receipts.

McNAMARA opposes flat rate income tax allowed by the new constitution, but would be willing to go along with a flat rate tax that allowed deductions and exemptions, which would, in effect, make it a progressive income tax.

BUT, he said, "If you really want to win an election, you come out against a state income tax."

Turning to local issues, McNamara commented on Mayor Hubbard of Dearborn: "It's politically astute at this time to take the stand he's taking. I defy you to spend 15 minutes with him and not come away charmed."

Turning again to his opponent, Roberts, McNamara said that during the eight years Roberts has been in office, "we've gotten nothing constructive from him. He's a nice guy, but he's had his eight years."

McNamara figures he will have to win big in Livonia to take the election. He concludes he'll lose in the Plymouth-Northville area.

McNamara, a Michigan Bell executive, is in the fight to win, and if his popularity in Livonia is any gauge, an upset might be in the offing.

Plugs For His Experience

Farrell Roberts' campaigners undoubtedly are concentrating their efforts on Livonia, stronghold of Roberts' Democratic opponent Edward McNamara, as the April 5 election for a state senator to replace Paul Chandler nears.

That's where Roberts thinks he could feasibly lose the election. "We're working to beat him in M-

Self Service Post Office In the Future

More service facilities for the postal customer are receiving new emphasis in the postal system, Acting Postmaster James C. Grater commented today after receiving word from Postmaster General John A. Gronouski in Washington, D.C., of a new improved "self-service post office."

The new experimental 24-hour self-service unit — the second — opened in mid-March just outside Los Angeles, to meet after-hours postage and mailing needs of suburbanites.

The first unit was installed recently at a shopping center just outside Washington, D.C. It offers around-the-clock facilities for buying stamps, postal cards and envelopes at cost, mailing letters and weighing and mailing parcels.

In the new model, the vending machines dispensing cards, envelopes, etc., have five times as much capacity, and a larger roof over the vending devices and parcel post drops for better protection of the public.

The self-service units are designed as a supplement to service, and not as a replacement for central postal facilities or personnel.

"While there has been no determination yet of how far this program will be expanded, it has a potential for helping to meet the tremendous increases in suburban service demands more efficiently, while providing even better service," Grater added.

livonia. If he can win, he'll win by taking Livonia heavily," he said Friday.

Roberts, like McNamara, won the primary without too much trouble. Both have strong areas. McNamara's is in the heavily populated Livonia area, and Roberts' is in the Plymouth-Northville and upper townships areas.

Roberts, with eight years experience under his belt, appears to be a slight favorite in the contest. He has been both a state senator and a state representative, and has the endorsement of Governor George Romney. He has been one of Romney's "right-hand men" in the legislature.

ROBERTS answered McNamara's comments Friday, and when asked if he thought he was like McNamara and talked like a Democrat he said:

"No. I'd say I was a little more worried about where the money is coming from. Also, it's important to remember, whoever gets elected needs to be ready to start studying the bills now before congress. I'm ready. He's not."

Roberts, like McNamara, is a proven election winner. He has won his last 13 elections in a row, 11 of them partisan. He is one of the senate moderates elected four years ago, who, along with several others, took over the senate from old timers and reorganized it.

He has been close to Romney as an advisor: "We go to him and say if you want the bill to pass you're going to have to amend it here, here and here."

Roberts looks at his role calmly, and notes getting something passed is "10% inspiration and 90% perspiration." He has had success with his bills, ranking as one of the top producers in the legislature.

Roberts has rapped his opponent's tax stand and coined a phrase to make his point — "Soak the Suburbs." He has come out against a progressive income tax, feeling it would hit high-income groups in suburbs the worst.

"If we don't hold to a flat rate income tax, we lose our shirts."

He concluded: "The 14th district needs a progressive tax like a hole in the head."

City DPW Activities

By Joseph Bida, Sup't.

The department cleaned the mausoleum and held services for three funerals.

The streets were cold patched throughout the city. Street and traffic control signs were straightened or repaired. Many of these had been bent during the cleaning of the sidewalks and some had been damaged by cars sliding into them.

All rubbish barrels have been repainted and are now placed in the parks at the playgrounds and at various places in the business district. It is hoped that people will cooperate and put refuse into these instead of throwing

ON partisan issues, Roberts felt that he was being backed by a cross section of the area. McNamara, he feels, is getting support from the UAW and "when pro-union issues come up, he'll vote that way."

On other partisan questions, he said: "There is a feeling on the part of some Democrats that they would like to put the state back in the red and blame it on Romney."

Roberts also felt that fiscal reform was about three years away. Yet, he is optimistic about bi-partisan compromises paving the way to a possible early passage.

The election will be watched from all over the state, because of the "severe morale problem the G.O.P. faced after the fall."

County home rule is on its way to being passed, Roberts feels. That issue, and school aid, workmen's and unemployment compensation bills, along with the ever present fiscal reform issue, will be the hot items to face this year's state legislature, Roberts thinks.

With less than a week to go in the grueling campaign, Roberts and his campaign manager, Carl Pursell of Plymouth, are getting road weary. But they look for a Roberts victory Monday, April 5, based mostly on Roberts' stature as an experienced legislator.

Tidwell to Lead Tennis Team

Plymouth will field one of the best tennis teams in the area this spring behind Senior standout David Tidwell, regional singles champ last year.

Backing him up in the doubles will be a pair of veterans — Jim Bruff and Clark Raven. They were runners-up in the regionals last year.

The Plymouth tennis team finished second in the league behind Trenton, but won the regional championship.

Coach Jim Stevens only lost two lettermen last year, and has nine returning. He also plans to lean heavily upon a pair of sophomores, Steve Hulce and William Wolfe. Hulce is expected to play number 2 behind Tidwell in the singles. He was JV quarterback this fall, and a JV basketballer this winter. Wolf was a swimmer this winter.

STEVENS expects to have about 15 boys on his team. Returning lettermen other than Tidwell, Bruff and Raven are Tom Chandler, Bob Waters, Robin Wiedman, Gary Fuelling, Jay Reynolds and Plymouth basketball stalwart Rick Jones.

A special education teacher and ex college buddy of Stevens, Claude Wilbanks, will assist as junior varsity tennis coach. He will coach at the junior high level.

They indicated that about 50 youngsters are out from the junior highs, and add that some of them are top prospects. The junior high team was undefeated last year.

The tennis team was to open with a practice match with Walled Lake, but weather cancelled it. A regular season opener is slated with Bentley, there, April 6. Weather has stymied practice and only six or seven sessions have been held to date.

Plymouth will host the Jay-Cee state tennis champions in late June this year for the first time.

It's a rare privilege that normally goes to a big city like Detroit. Chairman of the event is Plymouth's varsity tennis coach Jim Stevens.

The four-day tourney will be held June 24-27, and is expected to draw over 200 entries from all over the state.

National Championships are held in Houston, Texas.

Gals To Hook And Dribble

The GAA at Plymouth High School will hold a basketball game on Wednesday, March 31 at 3 p.m. to raise funds for GAA activities in the gym.

The girls of GAA will play the women faculty. The men faculty and Varsity will be cheer leaders.

There will be one student referee, and one teacher referee.

The admission charge is 10 cents.

appearance of Scott capped a day of activities saluting the 140 youngsters who took part in the community's first junior league basketball effort this year.

CLASS 'A' champion Lakers from the Plymouth Community Junior Basketball League are first row, Mark Robinson, John Sullivan, Phil Cruce, Joe Jacoboni, Steve Reed; second row

Diamond Briefs

A meeting of those interested in playing softball this year will be held April 1 at the High School at 7:30 p.m. in room 110.

All teams from last year and anyone interested in a team this year are requested to be at this meeting.

For further information contact Earl G. Gray, GL 3-0477, supervisor for the league, or the Recreation Office at the High School.

The teams are normally sponsored by certain organizations, such as Evans Products or Western Electric. Last year the league had 11 teams. They expect to begin their 14 game schedule sometime in the middle of May.

Boys too old to play baseball in the Plymouth Community Junior Baseball League may play in the recreation leagues. Boys who are 13 can play in the "F" league, boys 14-15 can play in the "E" league, boys 16, 17 or 18 can play in the "D" league.

Anyone interested may sign up at the Recreation Office at the High School.

The "F" league has four teams from Plymouth, four from outside the area.

Of the 10 teams in "E" league, four are from Plymouth.

Only two teams — the Elks and the Optimists — are in the "D" league from Plymouth.

A final registration for Plymouth Community Junior Baseball League has been set for April 3. Registration is held in the American Legion Hall on Sheldon Road at 10 in the morning.

Tryouts have been rescheduled for the week of April 12 — for the American League at the High School, for the National League at Junior High East. They will be held after school.

Each league has six teams in the majors, six teams in the minors. Rules require a manager to have a certain age span in his team. Each team can have only seven boys who are 12 and must have not less than two who are nine or ten.

The first game will be played May 15. Any boy between the ages of eight and 12 can play.

USN to Visit PHS

Representatives from the Grosse Ile, Mich. Naval Air Station will visit Plymouth High School, Tuesday, March 30, to acquaint local students with the Navy's "Two by Six" Program.

This plan allows young men nearing draft age to complete their military obligation in two years with four in the Selected Reserve.

Praise and Man's Expensive Friend

Doug Johnson

I may be repeating myself, but I wish to lodge more praise upon the heads of the gentlemen who made the Plymouth Community Junior Basketball league such a success.

Once more their ingenuity was apparent as more than 400 screaming youngsters, and their more reserved parents crammed into Elks Lodge Saturday to feast and hear basketball standout Ray Scott of the Pistons.

Scott, a Negro, received a standing ovation from the crowd following his brief speech. Scott didn't fill the stereotype of a dumbhead pro ball player. He was articulate, and at ease before the crowd. And I suspect his few words to the local youth made a lasting impression.

Several certificates of appreciation were handed out and trophies were given to the champs in each class. Earlier in the day, the all star teams proved too much for the champions, as both fell, the 'B' Celtics by a 18-11 score, the 'A' Lakers, 8-36.

Local notables were on hand including Richard Wernette, Russell Isbister, John Sandmann, Charles Ketterer, Robert Smith, and Joseph Fletcher.

The Board of Directors of the group — Joe Bida, Tony Monte, Howard Oldford, John Van Wagoner, Hank Wassman deserve praise for their work in the league.

Dog business is big business these days. Recently, I went with a friend to a posh kennel to buy a doggie for his youngster. We approached the kennel master an dsaid:

"Hey, kennel master, how much for that sagging hound over there?" pointing to a bleary eyed pooch at the far corner of an enclosure.

"That", he said "Is an A.K.C. registered Ferringham weinmanner, and he sells for $500".

"Gleep," we said, and asked to see something cheaper.

"I have here a winning item," said the kennel-curator. "It's a used Bedlington terrier that was only walked by a little 'ol lady from Newark — $79.95."

We coughed, and my friend said. "That's more like it, but I was thinking of something more, . . . er, . . . a, common, or proletariat. You know, something the kids can love and teach to eat the neighbor's cat."

"You mean," said the kennel chief, "something cheap."

"Yeah, yeah," we said.

He then showed us a fierce wolf-like hound that looked like he'd just been to Viet Nam teaching them how to fight dirty. He was mangy, and we said so.

"How can my kids love him," my friend said.

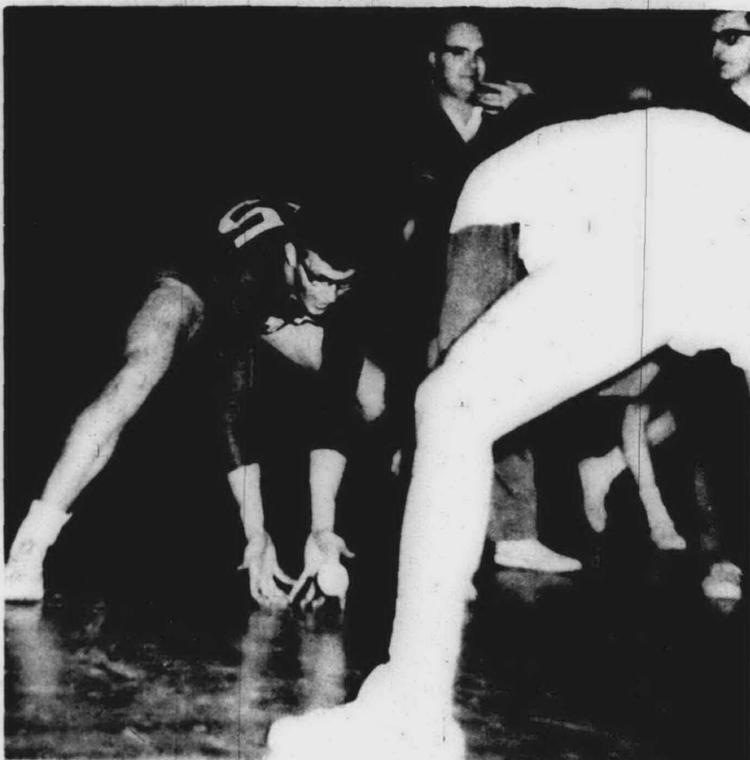

"He's mangy."

"That's all I got," said the kennel boss, "in your price range."

We left, and went to a local pet shop. My friend had decided to buy a parakeet. As luck would have it, he got a 'used' one.

The ancient and senile bird flew from an open cage last week and landed upside down in some jello in the kitchen. The kids don't like him. Who ever heard of a bird that couldn't fly. They are ashamed to say they have a pet.

Oh well, into every life some rain must fall.

BASKETBALLER Jim Lake was out for baseball last week and may add needed power to the lineup. He ran track last spring. Here he and a teammate practice inside, executing a coordination exercise.

NEW head baseball coach Brian Boring tosses a ball for fielding practice in the High School gym. Snow bound baseballers have been practicing inside for an April 7th opener.

With an eye on the snow-covered ground, new head baseball coach Brian Boring ran his baseball team through pre-season workouts in the High School gym this week.

The Rocks open their season with non-league foe Dearborn, at Dearborn on April 7. With less than a week to go chances that snow might postpone opening day were good.

Boring takes over for John Hoben, veteran football and baseball coach who resigned to take an administrative post last year.

Boring, who chairs the High School math department, graduated from Michigan State University. He holds a Masters degree.

Paul Cummings, who recently piled up a good record as a Junior High swimming coach, will assist Boring.

THE TEAM will be bolstered by 7 returning lettermen, two Rock basketball standouts, a transfer student from Texas and a handful of JV's from last year.

Last year's varsity posted a 8-7 record; returning letter winners include Terry Cosgrove, who hasn't seen much action to date; pitchers Dave Troutman, John Daniel and Fred Higgs; Curt Irish, second baseman; Ron White, first baseman; Bob Gotro, the team's captain and catcher.

A transfer student from Dallas, Texas, is also expected to add to the team's potential. He's Marlan Sutton and reportedly has played on championship teams from the Texas area.

A pair of basketballers also showed up for practice this week — Jim Lake and Don Cranford. Lake will probably play in the outfield, Cranford's position is at yet undetermined.

LAKE played baseball as a sophomore, including some action at the varsity level, but quit to go out for track in his junior year to help build up speed for football. Lake's an all-around athlete and a powerful youngster. Boring expects to put his power to good use at the plate.

Twelve men are back from the JV squad, which had a 7-5 mark last year. Two of them, Mike Manley and Jim Arnold, hit over the .300 mark last year — Manley .364, Arnold .310. The JV's were a red-hot club at the season's close, winning their last five games.

Other JV's include Dave Eisenlord, Damen Cruse, Glen Heinrich, Dave Nunez, Steve Stribley, Randy Williams, Jack Robertson, John Adams, Mike Lockwood and Jerry Norquist.

The team will play a 13 game schedule, then go into the Livonia tourney on three successive weekends in May — May 15, 22, and 29. The first home game is with Northville on April 14.

Four Seniors Lead Golfers

Plymouth High School's golf team, boasting a 11-4 record from last year, will take to the greens soon with a better-than-even chance at finishing the same or better.

High School Athletic Director John Sandmann's team will play 13 dual matches, a league match and participate in the regionals.

Their first match is scheduled for April 6 with Redford Union here. Sandmann, like all the other spring coaches, has his fingers crossed, hoping the weather will break soon.

If not, the match and other early season events will be rescheduled.

Sandmann's golfers have four letterwinning seniors to lead the squad — Dave Wall, team captain and consistent 70-shooter, Jeff Hoffman, Jeff Griswold and Robert Beck.

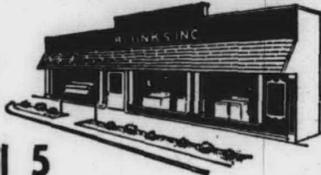

Others from last year's squad include Bob McCall, Tom Janicki and Dick Wolfman.

Sandmann said last week that there are several other hopefuls for the team. He expects to limit his crew to 10 or 12.

SANDMANN, who has been coaching the golf team for several years, has piled up an impressive record. Last year, his team missed the league championship by one stroke. They won the league in 1963, and lost the championship by one stroke in '62.

Sandmann feels his chances "should be pretty fair" this year.

April 7 will be our annual "Luncheon is Served." Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. James McKindles, the chairman, or from any auxiliary member. The price is $1.00 a person. The luncheon will begin at noon.

Remember that the April meeting will be the election of next year's officers. It is your duty to be there.

Remember to set aside all of those usable items for our April 21 rummage sale. If you have things to pick up call Mrs. Charles Skogund, GA 7-9491.

On April 10 the Post will hold its 19th anniversary dinner party. This is open to members of the Post and Auxiliary and to their guests. There will be a cocktail hour from 6-7 p.m., family style dinner next, and then dancing to the Sun-Tones from 9:30 p.m.-1:30 a.m. The tickets will cost $3.50 per person and may be purchased from Ed Kopenski and Lou Dely. ticket entitles you to two cocktails, your meal and the dancing. There also will be surprise entertainment.

I talked to our Youth Activities Chairman, Mrs. Bob Smith, and obtained from her a list of many of her community youth activities. The Mayflower Auxiliary sponsors two scout troops (56 girls are in these two troops). We sent three girls to camp last year. At Halloween treats were taken to Our Lady of Providence; and Mrs. Smith tries to make a trip each month to Our Lady of Providence, and each time takes out something for the children. We have had speakers on youth and their problems, such as Dr. Wright from Hawthorne Center. We donated money to the swimming pool fund for the Plymouth State Home and for music to the Chip. Over 200 Easter baskets have been assembled for the Training School, and some additional baskets have been made for Our Lady of Providence, plus a donation of money to use as they need. Other smaller things are done for youths, such as working on drives for Easter Seal campaigns. Mrs. Smith last year won the State Youth Activities Trophy for her work with the youth of Plymouth and a personal citation.

Missionary Medic To Speak at First Methodist Church

Dr. Glen J. R. Eschtruth, a medical missionary in the Congo will speak about his adventures at the First Methodist Church, Thursday, April 1, at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary. During the four years Eschtruth was stationed in Piper Memorial Hospital at Kapanaga in the Southern Congo, he was the only medical doctor in an area approximately the size of Michigan and Indiana. The hospital has 225 beds, nine rural clinics, one leper-sanitarium, one tuberculosis sanitarium and a mobile medical clinic.

While in the Congo, he has been cut off from the outside world several times because of tribal wars and political unrest. One of the adjuncts to his medical work is a "ham radio", and he has built radio equipment and installed it at all of the Southern Congo mission stations to establish a lifeline.

He and his family will return to their hospital station in the Congo following their furlough.

Congressman Outlines Aid to Education Bill

By Congressman Weston Vivian

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column, written by Plymouth's representative, U.S. Congressman Weston E. Vivian (D) of Ann Arbor, will appear twice each month. Any opinions expressed are those of the Congressman and do not necessarily reflect the editorial position of The Plymouth Mail.

Last week the House of Representatives passed the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965; it will now go to the Senate. This Bill authorizes the grant of Federal funds to supplement existing tax funds.

Title I of the Bill will provide funds to local school districts, through the State Board of Education of each state, to enable its districts to provide programs designed to give special assistance to educationally deprived children. The funds will be allocated in proportion to the number of children in each district from families with incomes of $2,000 a year or less. The local public school board of each district will control expenditure of the funds.

Other titles of the act provide complementary funds for library and instructional materials; for special-purpose educational centers, providing services not normally within the school curriculum, such as remedial tutoring and cultural programs; for research and development efforts designed to improve teacher education, the quality of education materials; and finally, funds to State Departments of Education in order that they may more effectively perform their roles.

Michigan is authorized to receive a total of $32,700,000 for the fiscal year running from July 1, 1965 to June 30, 1966. In the Second District, Lenawee County will receive almost $350,000; Livingston County almost $200,000; Monroe County over $400,000; Washtenaw County will receive over $450,000. The share for the Northville-Plymouth part of Wayne County has not yet been determined.

PRESIDENT Johnson made an historic voter rights speech before the joint session of Congress the previous week. There is no doubt that the President spoke for the vast majority of Americans, when he made it absolutely clear that the ballot must and will no longer be denied to qualified citizens. I have received many letters in support of the President's voter rights legislative proposal. In addition I received a resolution from the Livingston County Board of Supervisors and telegrams from the Adrian, Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor Human Rights Commissions in support of this legislation. I am proud of the fact that people in the Second District are so strongly supporting legislation to guarantee all Americans a right that we take for granted in Michigan.

Recently I received a letter from Sargent Shriver, Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, stating there is still time for local communities to submit a request to participate in Project Head-start this summer.

Project Head-start is a national two-month summer pre-school program to prepare culturally deprived children for school in the fall. Project Head-start programs will be initiated and operated locally, but 90% of the cost will be financed by Federal anti-poverty funds. The local school districts in our state are among the finest in the nation. But there are always ways to improve these local programs.

PROJECT Head-start may be one such way for your district. If you are interested in such a program for your community, please contact me: Congressman Weston E. Vivian, 118 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C., at once. The deadline for application is fast approaching.

2 Boys Named To Eagle Scout Rank

Two boys from Plymouth were honored on Monday, March 22, when they were guests at the annual Eagle Scout Recognition Dinner at Masonic Temple in Detroit.

A small group of unit leaders, the Scouters that the boys know, are guided by a Neighborhood Commissioner. A Community Commissioner meets with the respective Neighborhood Commissioners to plan the local Scout program.

Army ROTC Sets Scholarship Program

A college Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) scholarship program, beginning in September 1965, will provide financial assistance to 1,000 qualified students in the United States.

The Army ROTC program is conducted in 247 colleges and universities throughout the country, seven of them in Michigan, and produces a total of over 10,000 officers each year for the Army.

Authorized by the recently enacted Public Law 88-647, the ROTC Vitalization Act of 1964, four year scholarships will be awarded to 400 students entering college this fall and two-year scholarships to 600 students completing two years of the four year ROTC program.

The Army will pay these students $50 a month plus their tuition, textbooks and laboratory fees for attendance at colleges with four-year ROTC programs. Payments will be made from the date the scholarships begin until graduation and will include summer months.

Deadline for applying for the aid is May 1, 1965. Students applying for the two-year scholarship program will do so with the Professor of Military Science at their present college or university.

Those applying for the four-year scholarship program will do so with the Commanding General of the Army area in which they reside. Final selections will be made by the Department of the Army and applicants will be notified during July as to whether or not they have been selected.

Upon graduation from college and the successful completion of their Army ROTC studies, the scholarship students are required to accept, if offered, either a regular or reserve commission as a second lieutenant, and to serve at least four years on active duty with the Army.

To be eligible for these scholarships, an applicant must be a male U.S. citizen who meets the prescribed physical standards. He must also enlist in the Army Reserve for six years at the time he accepts the scholarship.

The four-year applicant must be between 17 and 21 years of age on June 30, 1965. The two-year applicant must be under 23 years of age on June 30, 1965, and must be a cadet in good standing in the second year of his Army ROTC training.

Hart for McNamara

Senator Philip A. Hart, in a statement Monday at the Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills, said, "I back Mac!"

Strongly urging the election of Edward H. McNamara to the State Senate from the 14th District, Hart stated that Michigan needs the wisdom and experience of McNamara.

"His community activity and first-hand knowledge of local problems give him the background necessary to help implement the federal programs now coming into Michigan," Hart said.

"We need another McNamara with Senatorial status," Hart concluded.

Come to Church Sunday

When A FELLOW NEEDS A FRIEND

A perfect picture of dejection! Perhaps it's another rainy day. Even little children have their serious moments. "What is there to do next?" "Mommy, where did I come from?" Or, "Daddy, is God up in the sky?" Little questions of little children grow into big questions by big people. Sometimes the bigger the man, the more humble the question, and of course... directed to God.

The place for such questions is the Church. In church, ponder the imponderables, ask the old, old questions: receive the gentle answers. Church, too, is God's Home. He's waiting for you there.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
