THE PLANNERS are recommending the boundaries of the urban renewal area be changed. The area in question is the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Main St. Blodgett reported on the change: "The first program took in too many good buildings. The frontage along Main St. and Ann Arbor Trail could not meet the requirements for a substandard structure." Commissioner George Hudson said the plan was "marginal" before and wouldn't 'sneak by."

"Now the plan is marginal and it will sneak by," he said. Hudson urged the second half of the study be made, so all the data needed to make initial determinations would be on hand.

Commissioner James Mc-Keon expressed some concern about the project. "My biggest concern is what takes place when they (buildings) come down. I'm not satisfied with what has happened on Mill St." Commissioner George Law-

Wednesday, October 20, 1965

An interesting impasse has developed recently in City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township relations over a few hundred feet of water line.

The Township in July asked the City if they would transfer the Plymouth Colony water system over to Township control. Plymouth Colony is just west of Sheldon Road between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail. The City, meeting in a committee-of-the-whole session, and therefore not taking a formal vote, instructed Mayor James Houk to tell the Township that the City was not interested in such a transfer.

Both Houk, and Township supervisor John McEwen met and discussed the matter. Houk told the Plymouth Mail recently: "They know what our offer was. I told them . . . you can get the figures from them if they want to give them out."

Then last Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Township Board of Trustees, Township treasurer and water department head Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes asked for a formal answer from the City - something in writing that the whole Township Board could review. Supervisor John McEwen agreed, and noted that his fellow residents in Plymouth Colony were about to get another petition together on the matter.

Township officials are apparently miffed because they were not granted a formal reply. They are also unhappy because at the committee-ofthe-whole session, superintendent of public works Joseph Bida said the Township had failed to live up to their part of the agreement in a similar situation when the Green Meadows system was transferred. Bida reported the City had been left with stub mains on the wrong side of the street. Herald Hamill, Township engineer, and Mrs. Holmes, point out that the Township did exactly what they were asked to do, and that Bida, if you'll pardon the allusion to the subject, was all wet.

Township officials are also quick to point out that in many places an easy hook-up of Township-City lines has been assured, in case of emergencies, or a switch-over.

It is time to take this matter out into the open.

The following business-like steps should be taken:

(1) The City could give a formal reply to the Township request; a letter outlining their stand could easily be drafted.

(2) By the same token, the Township, as the prospective buyer, ought to make an offer, in writing, to the City, for the system.

(3) The City should rightfully expect full value out of the water lines, which were dedicated to the City by the developer. It is not fair to expect City fathers to give away valuable water lines. That would be unfair to City taxpayers, who, in effect, own the system; it is not feasible to think the Township would transfer similarly dedicated subdivision lines to the City, if the situation were reversed.

In any event, co-operative moves cannot be made if the governments involved have to get each other's views informally and secondhand.

Forthright and public communications are needed.

IT WAS DAD'S big day for the John Mulligan family last week as Mulligan was sworn in as Plymouth's new postmaster. W. A. Mahaffy, postal inspector, did the honors while Mulligan's wife Catherine, and two sons, Pat, 3, and John 7, looked on. Mulligan came to the job from a post at Junior High East. He holds a masters degree from Eastern Michigan, is a four-year navy veteran (Korea) and belongs to Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

ship water. Plymouth Colony, where McEwen makes his home, is ju st west of Sheldon Road between Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail. The lines were put in several years ago by the developer, and dedicated to the City, who supplied the water.

Now with Detroit and Township water lines able to service the area, the Board is seeking action. No figures as to what the Township would pay for the system have been disclosed. Mayor Houk informally told the Mail that figures have been given to Mc-Ewen. Neither Hous McEwen would reveal what the proposed selling price might be.

Most young people, brimming with idealism, ap proach a lifetime in journalism with the idea that publication of a good newspaper is pretty much its own reward.

"Put out a newspaper," the reasoning goes, "that reports the news as objectively as possible, has guts enough to take editorial stands on truly local issues, and offers the advertiser a potent medium for his message, and you will be overwhelmed with success both intangible and tangible."

Conversely, if you fail to live up to the heritage which is yours, it is thought that fate will fix your wagon.

Sometimes, however, in a highly competitive situation, it becomes necessary for one side to point to the shortcomings of its competition - things which are not necessarily apparent to the general reader.

That's what this column is all about: The Plymouth Mail and its competitor, the Plymouth edition of The Observer. What I am about to say is purely personal opinion; but I trust the value judgements will be made without recourse to pettiness or personalities.

I simply want to point out the status quo; and emphasize some of the basic inconsistencies I feel are inherent in The Observer's operation.

First of all, where did The Observer come from? The Plymouth edition of The Observer made its initial appearance in November 1961 after its publisher, who had purchased both The Mail and The Livonian from Plymouth publisher Sterling Eaton, defaulted on the purchase contract on The Plymouth Mail and let it go back to Eaton's control.

Since that time it has circulated in The Plymouth Community on a free circulation basis. Essentially, it is The Livonian Observer with from two to four or five pages re-made each week for distribution in Plymouth.

Why does The Observer distribute in The Plymouth

Community? In my opinion, The Observer is here because several large-volume advertisers are interested in ;a bulk circulation package. For example, some firms buy space in The Observer because they can buy an advertised circulation total in excess of 85,000 in several different communities.

The package rate structure for the Observer newspaper chain is set up in such a way that large-volume, outside advertisers pay less for the Observer of Plymouth in combination than the local advertiser pays for the Plymouth edition alone.

Because The Observer's primary advertising, appeal is directed at the big ticket chain operation, it follows - again in my opinion - that their main effect is to weaken the local economic picture, not strengthen it. They get a lot of advertising inches that way, however, and consequently their newspaper is larger and more bulky than The Plymouth How many Plymouth businesses actually buy ad-Mail. vertising space in The Observer of Plymouth? It's hard to tell. For many years, from 1940 when The Livonian was founded until 1961 when the relationship between it and The Plymouth Mail was broken, local advertisers could purchase the two newspapers in combination. One Plymouth advertiser has told me that he purchases advertising space in The Livonian Observer and is given the same space in The Observer at no additional charge. In effect, he gets Plymouth free something which seems less than fair to other local advertisers who pay for advertising only in the Plymouth edition of The Observer.

Deeds larger than life

Of all the public occasions this newspaper has attended in the past year or so, none has pleased us quite so much as the observance of Sidney D. Strong Day last Friday.

For this man, in his quiet way, has probably contributed more to the City of Plymouth in the past 45 years than any other.

It would be enough for most mortals to have served as one of the village's early city managers, to have designed its flag and seal, to have devoted the best part of a lifetime to its planning program.

It would be more than enough for many to top all these achievements by establishing their own surveying and engineering practice, to retire after serving the Wayne County Road Commission's road division after 10 years and to operate a full-time office since then.

But all of these things were not enough for Sid Strong.

Indeed, his professional achievements may hold secondary ranking in the totality of his life. Group goals significant

For it is in the areas of youth and church work and service to mankind that this man has shown himself to excel - far and above the norm. Countless grown men in Plymouth will tell you of the effect Sid Strong had on their life as a scout leader. Others will detail the inspiration he has provided through his dedication to the welfare of St. John's Episcopal Church. Still others will chronicle the unstinting service that Sidney Davis Strong has given to Plymouth Rotary and its legion projects.

Last Friday's ceremonies were impressive and touching. Not a few had lumps in their throats.

But, in a sense, it is presumptuous to assume that we can adequately pay tribute to a man like Sid Strong.

Though his works have been quiet and his intention has been to avoid glory and praise, the accomplishments of the silver-haired Strong have been larger than life; and, ultimately, so will be his recognition and reward.

In other action, the Board agreed to set a special meeting to study recommendations from the Fire Administration Board on the proposed public safety director for the Township. The Board submitted a list of qualifications, and proposed that his title be expanded to include director of public services.

The title "public safety director" might be too narrow, the report said. The new job might also entail the supervision of water and sewer lines and electrical and trade codes.

"We need to study a division of the election precincts in Lake Pointe because all of the eastern part of the Township is subdivided, or will be soon."

McEwen called for a study of costs, and said it has to be done by April 4, 1966.

Township treasurer Elizabeth Holmes urged that it be done for the whole township. The Board expects some help from the work of its professional planning consultants, Waring and Johnson.

The re-districting is required by state statute. Whenever a precinct gets over 1300 voters, new precincts must be created.

Does The Observer publish more Plymouth news? No. In the month of August, for example, The Plymouth Mail led by more than a three to one margin. See the full page ad on Page Ten for detailed statistics.

From time to time, however, The Mail inadvertently is forced to leave news out of its pages because of an insufficient volume of advertising. In at least two cases I can recall, news from local organizations was omitted - groups that The Mail had published items for over a period of years.

Members of these organizations contacted The Observer and received a large volume of news coverage, some of it on the front page. This is a practice which Plymouth Mail staffers have come to jokingly refer to as a "putty job." In other words, people try to play The Observer and The Plymouth Mail off against each other and The Observer willingly tries to putty in the cracks left when The Mail unintentionally slights a group or organization.

A look at The Observer's average news volume shows that they cannot give consistent news coverage to local groups in the depth that The Plymouh Mail

Does The Observer have a consistent local editorial

Well, in my opinion, it's hard to tell. And this is policy? where I must make my charge of inconsistency.

On June 2 of this year, The Observer carried an editorial signed by their eastorial staff which said:

"Editorials belong on the editorial page, or if appearing on a general news page, should be clearly indicated as such.

"Editorializing does not belong in a general news story or in the headlines."

These statements were, and are, highly inconsist-

Prior to last Spring's City Commission election, The Observer endorsed candidates in a front-page article which gave every appearance of being a news story.

In the March 24 edition of The Observer of Plymouth, on the front page, a news story on the upcoming school millage election bore the overline, "Get Out and Vote Yes," and the story - completely unlabeled as an editorial - noted, "... A group with a pretentious title -Committee of One Hundred - and with a formidable goal - a co-operation among the 404 governments that serve all of southeastern Michigan has attracted two leading Plymouthites. Russell Isbister, superintendent of schools and John McEwen, Plymouth Township supervisor, were named to a special sub-committee of this ambitious group.

The Committee of One Hundred is an outgrowth of the Metropolitan Fund, Inc., an urban affairs foundation conceived to develop research and action on metropolitan problems in southeastern Michigan.

And if that doesn't impress you, maybe some of the organization's members will: Jerome Cavanagh, Detroit's mayor, William Day, president of Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and A. R. Miller, president of Ford Motor Co.

The Fund itself is a non-profit organization generated by the top public and private leadership in the Macomb-Monroe-Oakland-St. Clair-Washtenaw and Wayne County area.

The functions of the Committee will be determined by five basic proposals from a Policy Committee, which reported its findings in June of this year. That committee made five recommendations: (1) The creation of a boundry commission, with its purpose of stopping "further fragmentation and proliferation of governments and insuring that future incorporations and annexations will not result in governmental units too small in size, or too inadequate in tax base, to be able to carry out their governmental responsibilities."

(2) Use of authorities and special districts when a need was shown. The Lower Huron Metropolitan Park Authority is an example. (3) Enactment of county home rule legislation.

(4) Expansion of existing cooperative agreements among local governmental units. One possibility might be the mass purchase of supplies all governments use.

(5) Finally, the formation of a metropolitan council, which would give all the area governments a forum in which to air mutual problems, and hopefully, arrive at some solutions.

It is a monumental undertaking.

The Plymouth Community is involved because this area is no longer an isolated community on the western edge of Wayne County. Like it or not it is part of the vast amorphous urban and suburban sprawl that is the Detroit Metropolitan area.

Plymouth has urban problems. If you find it hard to believe, take a look at the one-way streets AAA recently recommended to straighten out downtown traffic snarls.

It is important that The Plymouth Community's representation on the Committee of One Hundred be given the backing they need in this matter. If Plymouth can profit by farsighted involvement in the group's work, still retaining its unique identity, the time McEwen and Isbister spend will not be wasted. The organization's ultimate goal is to save the beleagured taxpayer some money. It is an honorable intention, and one, if it is successful, that has significance not only for Plymouth, but for the area, for the state, and the entire country.

Cooking with wine is not only an art, but guite a challenge, too.

Mrs. David Johnson of Mc Kinley St. has discovered it's fun to try wine cookery. One unusual dish that turned out especially delicious for her was broiled leg of lamb.

Treasures from

Mrs. Johnson and her husband both attended elementary and high school in Plymouth. A Home Economics graduate of Michigan State University, she is the former Jacquelyn Dalton.

The Johnson children are Ann, 7, Margaret, 12, Matt, 13, and David, 15.

As outdoor enthusiasts, the Johnsons are eagerly waiting for the snow to arrive so they can again enjoy skiing. They also enjoy legitimate theater productions.

Mrs. Johnson is presently keeping busy as one of the primary superintendents of the Sunday School at the First Presbyterian Church.

With the broiled lamb she suggests a menu of baked potatoes, tomato and cucumber salad, green beans, and angel food cake.

BROILED LEG OF LAMB First ask your butcher to bone a 6 or 7 pound leg of lamb and have him butterfly it so that the meat lies flat. Separate the thickest clumps of meat with the point of a knife so that it lies very flat. One day before you plan to broil it, steep the leg in a marinade of

1/2 C olive oil % C dry red or white wine Tbls. lemon juice 2 Tbls. chopped parsley

tsp. oregano 3 crumbled bay leaves C thinly sliced onions sliced cloves garlic few grindings of black pepper Turn the lamb over in this marinade every few hours. Don't refrigerate if you can help it. Six hours of steeping is a minimum.

Broil the lamb either on a rack in a broiler or over charcoal, starting it fat side down and basting it from time to time with the mar-

MRS. DAVID JOHNSON is mixing the marinade for the broiled leg of lamb she has suggested this week. The lamb should be marinated at least a day before broiling.

The story, about a panel discussion by members of the three local governing units, carried the headline. "Consolidation A Dream, Not A Reality," a little editorializing in itself.

The lead paragraph drew this editorial conclusion:

"There isn't any question but that the matter of consolidation of Plymouth Township and the City of Plymouh into a City of Greater Plymouth will have to come to the attention of residents at some future time - but after sitting in on a panel discussion of the subject in a meeting of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club a week ago, one just has to believe that such talks are a long time away." The story was continued on an inside page with the headline "Talks are Premature."

Lately, in editorials and the publisher's personal column, The Observer has been crying out against closed meetings of governmental bodies.

Here in Plymouth, however, its staff has steadfastly refused to cover Plymouth City Commission committee meetings even though a resolution was passed permitting press attendance.

"A good newspaper rocks the boat," The Observer has commented; but, it seems to me they have been less than anxious to rock Plymouth's municipal boat, since they knew some members of the commission opposed press coverage of committee meetings. Since that time, the commission has seen fit to modify its original resolution - permitting itself the option of closing meetings to the press by vote at any Lawton urged that a presentation of the City's water position be made at the dedication.

Among the provisions asked for on the contract the City drafted was the right to fill cumstances. Detroit water officiials have said that use of the reservoir in that matter was impossible, Lawton said.

Commissioner Robert Smith noted that a review of the City's position might be in "What is our position?" Smith said. "We are going to have to face up to improving the water quality around here someday."

ABOUT $300,000 in federal funds was used to build the reservoir and it was started earlier this year. The City uses about 1.6 million gallons a day, according to Bida.

Place sponges or towel in dryer before putting in clothing to build up steam. Use medium heat setting. Bath towels leave lint on dark cottons, so damp, colorfast sponges are best. There must be moisture to release wrinkles and prevent shrinkage. Remove garments before completely dry and hang on wooden or plastic hangers until completely dry.

Old women once held curative powers-or so folks believed. Their wrinkled hands laid on feverish brows were thought to cool the fever. Now, in this golden era of modern medicine, we have more reliable methods of reducing temperatures. But, remember, a temperature is only a symptom . . . not an illness in itself. Fevers have many causes . . . some minor . . . us. So, be sensible. When you or a member of your family is ill, let your doctor do the diagnosing and prescribing. Then, if medication is necessary, let us fill his prescription promptly and accurately.

That's a simple question, and there's only one answer.

Any comparison, hurried or detailed, between The Plymouth Mail and the Livonia-based Observer of Plymouth leads to a sole, outstanding conclusion.

Only The Plymouth Mail cares enough to devote itself exclusively to The Plymouth Community. If you haven't been receiving the complete Plymouth Mail, or if you haven't looked at it closely lately, compare these statistics for the month

The Mail consists of two sections each week. The Colonial Community Section is delivered into each home in The Plymouth Community - more than 10,500 circulation. The main news section of the newspaper goes to paid subscribers only, over 6,500 of them.

So, you say, what's in it for me?

Simply this:

(1) In depth coverage of local news. The Plymouth Mail is here when things happen. Not in Detroit getting its paper printed or in Livonia, Redford, Farmington, Garden City or Nankin worrying about events of little concern to Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents. (2) Editorial comment. The Mail is the only newspaper that has guts enough to consistently comment editorially on the local scene. We care about local government and business and people.

(3) Local advertising. Plymouth business is important to you. It provides tax base and your residential taxes are consequently lower. It provides friendly, competent service. The Plymouth Mail offers the best medium for the local advertiser and the place for you to look for local values. We circulate in Plymouth, not because large, metropolitan shopping complexes demand that we do so. We're here because we live here and pay taxes here. And our primary aim is to build Plymouth business, not siphon it out of the area.

A final word about the Observer . . .

Basically, The Observer you find on your doorstep each week is a Livonia paper with a few pages re-made for circulation in Plymouth. It is delivered to you without charge and you get what you pay for in terms of Plymouth news.

Travel in the western por-tion of Cameroun provided m a ny unexpected experi-ences. The day and a half we spent in that corner of Africa was completely different than any other part of our trip. We started the episode by walking three miles to the outskirts of Douala. Hitch-hiking is usually easy once you are outside of the ma-jor towns. But here nobody would stop for us. So we had to settle for an over-crowded mammy w a go n which we could have just as easily boarded in the center of town. stern por-provided taxi any, many niles, howtree a At the last stop vari people grabbed at our lugg in an attempt to lure us their respective vehicles we could continue our je ney. Peace was eventu-established, and we selec an attractive looking cab. ES We travelled for 40 b ful miles through an dominated by vast p tions. DURING this leg of the journey we crossed into the former British trusteeship of Cameroon. In 1961 this section of the country voted to join with the former French colory to form the Cameroun Federal Republic. At the same time the northern section of the trusteeship elected to become part of Nigeria. When we got out of the taxi, we sat beside the road for an hour before any vehicle passed us. The first mode of transport was another overcrowded mammy wagon which we hesitantly boarded. A couple of miles later it developed engine trouble. So we retrieved our bags from the luggage rack and sat down to wait for different transport.
