That was the news that was announced at last Tuesday's regular meeting of the Plymouth Township Board.

The master plan will be up for public hearings on Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., at the Township Hall on Ann Arbor Rd.

The large food distribution warehouse was brought to the attention of the Board by Harold Fischer, Plymouth Area Planning Director, whose job it is to seek industrial and commercial developments for the entire Plymouth Community. Fischer said the warehouse needed four items cleared up before a land deal could be closed: A sewer line, a soil tain weight restriction and a

ASSISTANT superintendent of schools William Harding was elected secretary, succeeding Margaret Wilson, owner of the Penn Theater and Melody House.

According to Fran Booth, Chamber of Commerce coordinator, the new officers' terms start in November.

However, the formal office taking ceremony is scheduled for Jan. 27 and the Annual Meeting. For the meeting, the Chamber has engaged Kenneth McFarland, noted speaker who recently drew over 2000 people into Roma Hall for a special speech sponsored by the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company of America.

In other action, the Board approved the planning commission's rezoning of land near Woodlore Subdivision to half-acre lots for the controversial JAR development company.

Pat Wiltse is back on a limited schedule at Community Pharmacy following surgery which has had him off his feet for some time.

The removal of fountains from Peterson's Drug Store and Community Pharmacy brings back that time-worn phrase, "the only thing constant is change".

The used car sales office at Bob Mallory's Chrysler-Plymouth, to be completed sometime in December, could easily serve as a plush emergency annex to the Mayflower Hotel upon a repeat performance of last winter's snow drop.

Many thanks goes to all those members who helped on the Feather party and made it such a grand success. Rehabilitation Chair man Fern Burleson announced that Passage-Gayde Unit No. 391 sent apples, oranges, cookies and cigarets for over 90 patients at Maybury for Veteran's Day. Members from the Plymouth Post, Fred Johnson and Jim Stein, helped distribute these items. The other Units in the 17th District also contributed.

Mrs. Burleson also stated that preparations have started for the Christmas project -the Gift Shop in the VA hospitals. A vast Christmas shopping project is under way by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary throughout the country in behalf of disabled war veterans. Gifts will be distributed through approximately 200 Christmas gift shops operated in hospitals of the Veteran's Administration and other hospitals where veterans are under care.

Plans for the gift shops are now being completed by state organizations of the Auxiliary.

EXPERT'S TESTIMONY AND THIS drawing prove that the bullet that went through a trailer at Oak Haven Trailer Park on Ridge Rd. The artist's conception bears this caption: "Assuming the trailer court was actually in line with the 200 yard shooting range backstop as pictured, at the highest point of its arc, the projectile would be approximately 500 yards above the trailer court, and would travel, a considerable amount of distance beyond the court, assuming, of course, it missed the 44 foot high backstop."

This year's Thanksgiving reading includes Jesus' wellknown injunction as recorded in Matthew: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto " and these lines from the Science and Health: "God is not moved by the breath of praise to do more than he has already done, nor can the infinite do less than bestow all good, since he is unchanging wisdom and Love."

No strong arguments against rezoning Wednesday, November 17, 1965

At last week's public hearing on a proposed zoning change on Plymouth's south Main street from C-2 (commercial) to PR-2 (professional-residential), it seems that both the concerned public and some of the city's commissioners lost sight of a few things.

It might be well to look at the proposed Finlan Apartment project in the harsh light of day, without emotion, and come to some reasoned conclusions.

First of all, the high-rise aspect: It's no secret that the City of Plymouth, for all practical purposes, is out of useable land to develop. Since we cannot expand outward it seems only reasonable that we expand upat all. High rise buildings are the only practical method of achieving this

One man testified that he objected to a five-story building because the tenants could look down and see what he was eating for breakfast. All it takes is a little geometry to show that a person could see more of the man's breakfast from a second floor level, than from a fifth floor.

Next, let's look at Plymouth's "traditional" atmosphere.

It is only in the past twenty or thirty years that the City of Plymouth has made it a point to stress a colonial architectural theme.

By no mean stretch of the imagination could the houses in the affected area of Main St. be considered in keeping with the ideal we strive for.

Rather, they are genuine George Babbitt, midwestern Early Ugly bungalow. Forty years ago they may have looked comparatively good. Now they do nothing for the appearance of South Main. Almost anything would be an improvement anything, that is, except some of the things that could be constructed there under present zoning.

Like a gas station, for instance. Or a greasy spoon drive-in. Or a garish, neon lit, high volume, low margin business.

But what about a reduction in space per living unit? That was proposed too.

Sure it was. The high cost of property dictates a reduction in the land space per unit. But let's look at it this way. If you build 40 units and put them on two floors of 20 units each, you're going to take up a heck of a lot more land than if you build 40 units on five floors of eight units each.

In fact, for the commissioner who's so concerned with dirt for juna ior to dig a hole in, he'd have far more in the high rise - even with reduced land area per unit.

There is one individual in the area who repeatedly emphasizes three key points when it comes to planning.

mental units should take into consid-

(1) The welfare of the developer in that he deserves a reasonable return on his land.

(2) The welfare of surrounding residents. They deserve to be heard, but not necessarily to dic-

(3) Probably most important. The welfare of the community as a whole.

In summation, we see no imperative reasons for denying the rezoning request. Nor do we see any strong arguments against reducing required land area per unit to some extent for high rise buildings. After all, the city itself expects to maintain only about 1,000 square feet per unit in its proposed senior citizen housing project.

Neither can we swallow arguments that Plymouth should be made as sleepy and backward as a turn-ofthe-century village.

But we do see developments of this type as a potentially profitable tax producer for the community without the attendant burden on the school system that three and four and five bedroom homes tend to bring.

That in itself is a strong argument as far as over all community welfare is concerned.

The Alymouth

The word "charisma" has been applied with increasing frequency lately to the Kennedy family in a few of the more erudite journals; so last Friday evening I groped through the rain and fog to see the youngest member of the clan at the Wayne II Democratic feed in Dundee.

Senator Edward F. Kennedy is impressive.

Good looks he's got. Personailty he's got.

A command of the language he's got.

Immense popularity he's obviously got. But charisma, which means a special divine endowment that prepares one for a certain task in life, I doubt if he has. Let me give a little of the evening's background though.

The occasion was the annual dinner of the Michigan Second Congressional District Democratic Organization; and the purpose was a testimonial to the district's articulate, crew-cut freshman Congressman, Weston E. Vivian of Ann Arbor.

The reason for the testimonial is, quite frankly, because Vivian may have a hard row to hoe in next year's Congressional election. If you will recall last fall's campaign, you'll remember that the Ann Arborite with the Ph.D. in engineering barely nosed out seven-term conservative Republican George Meader. Meader had won a primary race from former State Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Thayer of Ann Arbor. And already, the rumor mill is grinding about next year. To wit:

(1) Meader will run again.

(2) Thayer will run again. (3) Republican State Senator Gil Bursley will (4) A liberal Republican from the Monroe area

(5) The GOP will spend an astronomical sum to regain the Second District.

The Democrats are faced with a couple of alternatives. They can hope Thayer and Bursley and the other guy will run in the primary and cut each other to shreds - giving the nomination by default to Meader, a one-time loser going on two.

Or they can pull out the stops. So Friday evening there was Senator Patrick Mc-Namara, Senator Phil Hart, State Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas M. Kavanagh, Attorney General

Frank Kelley and Senator Kennedy. And there were laudatory telegrams from Lyndon B. Johnson, Hubert Humphrey, G. Mennen Williams and House Speaker McCormack. It was a blast.

The dinner was a good old-fashioned, ain't you glad you're a Democrat kind of affair in which everybody stood up and said yes they were and they didn't care if the other guys called them a rubber stamp Con-

What the heck, they said, the legislation that got passed has been kicking around for the past generation waiting and was long overdue. But most of the glory was reserved for Vivian.

"Here is a man," Senator Hart said, "who has demonstrated an appreciation of those qualities of intellect which can be developed through education. "He is the only doctor of philosophy in engineering in the Congress of the United States. "But," Hart concluded, "he's there by the skin of our teeth."

Vivian himself spoke about the challenges and do mands and excitement of the job. He expressed pride in the legislative record of the 89th Congress and noted that he was anxious to get back. Referring to the Pres-

'This is a Congress that is not arm-twisted to work with him. We are proud to work with him."

But back to Senator Kennedy.

He drew his largest burst of applause when he commented on the recent mayoralty election in New York. "Some people are saying," he noted, "that this man is a Republican Kennedy.

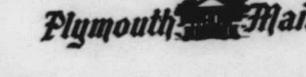

"And I'm here to tell you that THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS A REPUBLICAN KENNEDY!"

When the applause had died, however, you realized that here was a man faced with a tremendous hurdle in the classical heroic myth which has grown up about his late brother.

A quip he made after his introduction is illustrative. "When I entered politics," he said, "I wanted to be judged on my own. I even considered changing my name - from Teddy Kennedy to Teddy Roosevelt." Funny?

Maybe. But touching too, for it points up Edward F. Kennedy's struggle to make it on his own. One wonders if the nation and the world will let him do it. Plymouth Mail

CAN WE WAVE THE FLAG TOO MUCH?

by William Cadaret, Commander, Mayflower Post 6695, Veterans of Foreign Wars

I would like to quote Dr. S. L. DeLove's answer to a listener of his radio broadcast, "Know Your History Hour."

The listener stated, "you are waving the flag too much."

I would like to quote a portion of

Dr. DeLove's reply. Is it possible to wave the flag too much? Provided of course, that you wave it with integrity? Is it possible to study Lincoln or Shakespeare too much? Is it possible to read the Bible too much? "The great, the good, the true, are inexhaustible for inspiration, example and strength. I believe that wo are not waving our flag enough, not nearly enough. "It seems to me that we are developing a tendency to be timid or even apologetic about waving the Stars and Stripes. Walk up and down the streets on July 4th and count the flags. It is our nation's birthday, a sacred day in world history, the most important day in America. Why isn't the flag flying on every rooftop and from every home and building? This complacent attitude is strong evidence of cancerous patriotic decay. The flag is a symbol of our national unity. It is the spirit of our undying devotion to our country. It stands for the best that is in us . . . for loyalty, character, and faith in democracy.

"Isn't our flag a synonym of the United States of America? Does it not represent man's greatest, noblest, most sublime dream? Is it not the zenith of achievement, the goal to which generations have aspired?

'Ladies and gentlemen, I believe it is time for us . . . for the mad, rushing Twentieth Century American . . . to stop for a moment and think. Let us arrest our near reverential admiration of material success and return to the spiritual and ethical values. Let us imbue and rekindle in ourselves and our children the so-called oldfashioned way of patriotism, a burning devotion to the principles and ideals upon which our country was founded.'

It would seem presumptuous for me to try to improve Dr. DeLove's answer. With your permission I would like to say this. You and I, as Americans, have seen many instances of disrespect to our flag. In foreign countries, yes, this can be expected. In our own country, we have been seeing far too many country-men showing disrespect for, not only our flag, but also their's. This has become very prevalent at our football games, public meetings, and parades. Today, it seems, to be patriotic is to be old-fashioned or square. How many of us quiet down, stand at attention or salute when QUR FLAG goes by? In these times, when our young men are fighting and dying under this flag, I ask all of you, young and old, to stand up and be counted as oldfashioned Americans by renewing our faith in our flag, country and God. I will leave it up to you. What statement would you rather hear, "The Stars and Stripes that's My Flag" or "That's Your Flag, Baby, not mine!"

THE MAGIC NAME of 'Kennedy' graced a dinner honoring Weston E. Vivian, who is a U.S. Congressman from the Second Congressional District, which includes Plymouth, Friday night at Dundee High School. It was the annual dinner of the District's Democratic organization, and honored guest and key speaker was Senator Edward M. Kennedy. Kennedy, and other top Michigan Democrats, including Senator Phil Hart, Senator Patrick V. McNamara, Thomas Kavanagh, chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Stabler spoke on behalf of Vivian. The fund raising affair drew almost 1000 people, who honored the freshman member of the U.S. House of Representatives, who at last year's election unseated a seven term Republican, George Meader.

Things not always bad

Doug Johnson

Setting the record straight on this year's disaster in football at Plymouth High School is hard to do. A couple of the coaches reviewed the past performances of the Rocks, and covered their season records back to the time they joined the Suburban Six league. It was 40 wins, 23 losses, and four ties, or something like that.

Things have not always been bad. "But they'll never put that in," said one. Ok. So I put it in.

The high school newspaper sports columnist Mike Manley was less complimentary. He writes for the Pilgrim Prints:

"Somewhere, somehow, something has gone mighty wrong this fall. They aren't that bad. They can't be that bad. It's hard to comprehend how a team like Plymouth, with potentially good players can be outscored 156-15 in its first five games. A person looking for alibis could blame the backs, or the line, or maybe even the . . . no, that's impossible, not the . . .

Columnist Manley might as well have filled in the words 'coach.'

I'm glad he has been given enough freedom to write as he does.

But it was not the coach. Not entirely. As Dave Strack, U of M's basketball mentor, said before the Chamber of Commerce Businessmen's Forum recently, "my coaching improved tremendously when Cassie Russell came along.

It takes a coach, AND players to make a season go. And head football coach John McFall has proven it can be done with his championship swimming teams.

Robert Dwyer, head of the local Secretary of State's office, last week dropped off a pamphlet on

The blackout in the New England states came at about the same time, and it's enough to chill your

The blackout was the gigantic power failure that could never happen, but did. And the phamphlet arrived with scary coincidence.

Dwyer will deny this, but among the signs put out along the highways in the event of a national disaster is one, in highly radioactive areas, that permits "top safe speed limit," and implys that speeds over 70 mph would be allowed because of the danger.

One would think that national disaster strikes the country just about every weekend.

Other survival signs point to "decontamination centers, for the motorist's safety and comfort."

Last weekend I saw one poor guy rushing at about a 110 mph through what must have been a terribly dangerous zone. Later I saw him stopped at a decontamination center.

The center was called "Marty's Tavern".

Schoolcraft begins new soccer club

Former Plymouth High athletes Tom Von Glahn and John (Ben) Daniel played major roles in helping the Schoolcraft College Soccer Club enjoy a successful week. Both men are starters on the squad that has built up a record of two wins against one loss and a tie. Last Thursday night

Schoolcraft played Oakland University at Livonia's Ford Field. When the dust had cleared, Schoolcraft had played the more experienced Oakland squad to a 3-3 standoff. Scorers for Schoolcraft were Tom Van Glahn and Paul Hartke who scored a pair of goals.

Saturday afternoon at the Delta College field in Bay City, Schoolcraft evened its season record with Delta by kicking out a 5-4 win on a wet and windy field. Von Glahn picked up the initial Schoolcraft goal when he beat the Delta goalkeeper on a short shot from the left side of the goal. It was an uphill victory for Schoolcraft who trailed 3-2 at half time.

Other scorers in the game were Bob Tolstyka, Mac Graham, and team captain, Frank Ferrari, who scored Delta had won the earlier game in the series, 2-1. Two games remain on the Schoolcraft schedule; Concordia Lutheran College and Western Ontario Institute. The game with Western Ontario is expected to provide Schoolcraft with its most experienced and toughest opposition. It will be played Saturday afternoon at Windsor's Waggle Stadium.

Older boys needed for basketball

Boys age 13-15 interested in Jr. League basketball are urgently needed to round out teams for the coming season, according to John VanWagoner, head of the Plymouth Community Junior Basketball league.

He said Monday that not nearly enough boys were available for the 13-15 age group. He urged them to contact him, or Howard Oldford.

About 235 registered during the last two Saturdays. Last Saturday, tryouts were held following registration.

Ten teams will comprise both class A and B, and practice sessions will begin this week. Each team will practice one day a week, and on Saturdays before the season

VanWagoner reported Monday that registration was still

The season begins Dec. 4. and will go for 12 games this year.

Mr. Elzie Wheelock, Consultant for the Wayne County Intermediate School District, read a report of the transportation study which he had been requested to make regarding the transportation services now being provided to the students in the Plymouth Community School District. Mr. Wheelock noted in his report

Mr. Wheelock noted in his report the following minimum safety stan-dards which a community wide ac-tion program should achieve: 1. Sidewalks, or suitable sub-stitutes therefore, wherever children are required to walk with backs to traffic on the shoulders of main roads.

2. Warning signs properly placed at all school crossing Uniformed and deputized adult crossing guards supervised by the local police department and assisted by school safety patrol boys. Crossing guards and bus drivers should coordin-ate their efforts whenever feas-

4. The utilization of every opportunity to teach traffic safety to both school children and the general public. Rules for riding picycles need particular emphasis here. Until the minimum safety standards are met Mr. Wheelock re-commended the implementation by the Board of Education of the following secondary procedures:

1. The fullest possible employment of available school bus transportation facilities in these critical areas.

2. The immediate purchase of additional transportation equipment if needed and if this can be done without impairing educational programs. This would envision busing all elementary children in hazardous areas as a temporary measure until such time as minimum safety stan-time as minimum safety standards are met.

3. Frequent studies in each of the critical areas, to review walking routes and safety conditions at crossing points. Participation in these studies by parents' groups such as a PTA safety committee is suggested.

4. A long range study by the board of education of future transportation needs and ways of financing them. Current

Board members and the citizens who were in attendance President Fischer stated that the recommendations would be taken under advisement and that a special meeting would be held on Monday, October 25, 1965, at which time decisions would be made on what changes, if any, would be made in the transportation policy.

Mr. Wheelock was complimented for the time and thought which he put into the transportation study.

Member Henry, Chairman of the Community Relations Committee, noted the student and community interest in the expanded vocational program at Plymouth High School and stated that a community night was being planned during American Education Week for the purpose of providing the public an opportunity providing the public an opportunity to inspect the new Industrial Arts-Vocational Building. He reported further progress on a newsletter which will be published and mailed to citizens in the early part of November.

Member Hulsing, Chairman of the Curriculum Committee, described the reading instruction programs in each of the elementary schools. She stated that the elementary principals recommended, and that she concurs in the recommendation, the employment of a reading specialist for each of the elementary schools.

Member Schultheiss, Chairman of the Employee Relations Committee, discussed the Amendments to State Labor Mediation Act and the Hutchinson Act passed in the last session of the Legislation and the implications of these changes on negopications of these changes on negopications with the school employee

New automatic payroll processing plan

computes and completes your entire payroll

(about all you do is pass out the checks)

If you employ more than 25 people and are interested in cutting your per-paycheck cost, here is a new service you'll want to know more about. It's the Automatic Payroll Processing Plan . . . developed especially for the complex, highly industrialized Detroit area by the National Bank of

This Plan applies the speed and accuracy of electronic computers to payroll processing. Regardless of how your employees are paid-salary, hourly rate, commission or bonus - all can be covered. Overtime pay, deductions and contributions are computed. Checks are automatically prepared each pay period. You will receive a payroll register showing who was paid and how much. Your W-2 and 941-A forms, as well as Unemployment Compensation reports, will be prepared automatically. We even handle the time-consuming job of payroll reconciliation. And, of course, the entire operation is conducted in strict confidence.

An NBD Payroll Specialist works with your people to set up the plan and make certain it works smoothly. Our extensive network of branch offices helps speed the transfer of information and checks and can be especially convenient to both you and

HE WILL BE 100 years old Nov. 23 and Thursday Plymouth Symphony, will the Plymouth Historical Society honored him with a perform the 622 Prokofiev dinner at the Credit Union. Clarence Stevens was given this card, which another Plymouth old-timer, Karl Starkweather, looks at with him. Born on his father's farm on Canton Center Road, Stevens spent many years as a piano tuner. He is a vigorous man, who speaks with a deep voice and shakes hands with a firm clasp. He keeps his own house, and comes from a family noted for longevity; his father, a Civil War veteran,

"He was very formal and very short and didn't seem to listen to my arguments," Wilcox said. He noted that appraisers have been hired and he has shown them the properties and opened his books to them.

He said he has engaged two Detroit law firms to represent him in the matter.

"They'll make an offer," he commented, "which I probably won't accept because Mayor Houk indicated it would be based on the price of property sold in the area and not on future potential value

A proposed ordinance to amend Ordinance No. 183, Traffic Ordinance, prohibiting parking of vehicles on the streets between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m., was read.

Moved by Comm. Jabara and supported by Comm. Lawton that the proposed ordinance to amend Ordinance No. 183, Traffic Ordinance, be passed its first reading. neth Fisher corroborated this viewpoint.

"The appraisers consider everything," he said. "They don't appraise just from the standpoint of what's there now. They appraise based on future use." Fisher noted that the appraisal must be based on fact and stand up in court. "They can't just come up with a figure out of the air, he commented.

Fisher admitted that Wilcox had not been notified until August that his property was under consideration, but he said this was in keeping with Federal regulations. Mayor Houk and City Manager Richard Blodgett agreed.

"After all," said Blodgett, until we could get Federal approval of the proposed site, there was no sense in contacting him and getting him all hot and bothered.

"We let him know ahead of what most communities would have," Mayor Houk remarked. And he pointed out that nothing is definite yet. Both he and Fisher agreed property and a promise to that the appraisal might be subsidize the project if rents too high and the Federal do not support it completely, Government would suggest Fisher said.

site. Houk noted that the housing commission had to settle on three proposed sites, get concurrence from the planning and city commissions and then seek Federal approval of one of the sites.

He emphasized what he felt was a local obligation to provide for senior citizen housing, pointing out that surrounding communities have already done so.

Both the city manager and Fisher questioned Wilcox's claim of long-range development plans for the site.

"Has he ever made an attempt to change the high rise limitation?" Blodgett asked. "As far as I know, he's never made his dreams known to the planning commission."

Wilcox said he didn't feel time was right. "I'm going to let someone else make the attempt," he said. But he noted that he would make it at the "appropriate time."

One of the properties in question has been a Plymouth landmark since the turn of the century. Built by the Markham family who founded the firm that preceded the Daisy Air Rifle Co., the house was acquired by Wilcox's father, George, in October of 1911. Fisher noted that the senior citizens project has been under consideration for a year and a half. Over 100 favorable responses were returned about a year ago when the city queried area oldsters about the project.

Mayor Houk pointed out that the city is receiving calls regularly from senior citizens who want to see the project started.

KONTOS agreed that he was unwilling to make changes. "I am not only unwilling to make modifications in the script, but am unable to, without violating the copyright laws," Kontos said. The plays have been in rehearsals several weeks but the matter came to a head recently when Bentley, and the assistant principal Gustav Gorguze casually listened to parts of the play being practiced. They determined at that time certain passages might be objectionable and called for a parental review of both plays, in their entirety.

Such a review was given Friday after school, before parents of all the cast members. They, according to Bentley, agreed there were objectionable passages.

Kontos said that the two plays contained some swear words, and one or two references that might be termed "objectionable." He said he did not feel the plays couldn't be given on the high school

KONTOS said Monday afternoon that he was willing to put his job as drama tea cher on the line to make his point. He said he will take the matter up with the faculty advisory committee first, then go further, to the Plymouth Education Association and the Michigan Education Association, if need be.

"I knew what I was doing eight months ago," Kontos commented. "But I had a feeling that it would go because of the quality of the work."

"Under the conditions of censorship as shown by the present administration, Mr. Bentley as high school principal, and superintendent Questioned on this point, Russell Isbister, I cannot, I am unwilling to work as dramatic director at PHS," Kontos commented.

Kontos said he would remain as reading teacher at the High School. Bentley commented on his

"I've never heard of a high school play where these things weren't smoothed out a bit for a high school audience." Isbister also commented on the cancellation, and gave Bentley his "unqualified support" for the action.

Kontos said he feels the administration waited rather a long time to determine the plays unfit.

"I had a meeting earlier in the week with Mr. Bentley. That meeting was a farce; it was loaded; it was funny. The parents who saw the play Friday merely re-inforced what had already been decided," Kontos asserted, Albee is considered one of the modern dramatic giants, gaining wide fame with his 'Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe," the bitter story of a marriage that is tearing two individuals apart. His most recent effort has been the rewriting of a work by Carson McCullers, which he is calling the "Ballad of the Sad Cafe." "Tiny Alice," Albee's attack on the clergy, is still being produced after a first-terview between Albee's director, Alan Schneider and Albee himself, written by John Booth for the Theatre Arts Magazine. Albee says: "No compromises. I'm always willing to change things if I don't think they are right. You know, if it seems to be an error, I'm delighted to change something. But I've not had any experience with the Broadway Theater and I don't know. I hear awful, dreadful stories about what goes on out of town - the awful rewriting that has to go
