Township Lands Another New Industry

Plymouth Township's industrial development is on its way. That became apparent this week with the announcement of a new plant in the Industrial Park on Ann Arbor Road, across from the Township Hall, and the ground breaking ceremonies for the new Ford Motor Company plant on N. Sheldon Road.

Loren 'Bud' Gould, developer of the 100-acre Industrial Park, appeared before the Township's Planning Commission to seek a hearing on a request to rezone 2.58 acres from single family residential to light manufacturing.

"Bud" told the Commission the land would be used by Metropolitan Imprinters of Detroit for a building of more than 2,000 square feet. The firm plans to build a production and office area and would have a payroll of more than 100 by 1967.

The property is east of Lilley

Road, south of the new Detroit Bank and Trust branch and directly behind the former Plymouth Tank plant.

Metropolitan Imprinters recently received a contract to publish a large circulation farm journal and found it necessary to expand from its present facilities in Detroit's lower east side.

Council Slates Budget Hearing for Monday

The proposed City Budget, which City Manager Richard Blodgett tried to present to the City Commission a week ago and was told "we don't have time to consider it tonight," will be brought to light in a public hearing Monday in the City Commission chambers at City Hall.

At the same time that the Commission couldn't "find time" to consider the budget, members devoted more than a half-hour to a discussion of whether the Police Department was issuing too many tickets or not. A rather minor issue in lieu of the fact that the budget will determine the city's operation for the next fiscal year.

Blodgett proposes an operating budget of $868,435 for the new fiscal year compared to the estimated $882,410 for this year.

In his message to the Commission on the budget, Blodgett reported the general fund for 1966-67 reflects a $96,000 increase over what was originally budgeted in 1965-66.

He points out that this is somewhat misleading in light of the fact that transfers from the budget contingency, in the amount of $54,000, and a windfall of $18,000 for lease of mineral rights should produce revenue for 1965-66, $14,000 in excess of the amount anticipated for the forthcoming budget year.

Blodgett is proposing no increase in the present tax rate of 14.6 mills. But he indicates that because of a $1.5 million increase in assessed valuation, property tax revenue is budgeted to produce $22,000 additional funds for the budget year.

Fees, permits and licenses are anticipated to increase $3,000 over the amount budgeted for the current year. Fines and penalties are estimated at $4,600 over the amount budgeted for the current year but $1,000 less than what is anticipated to be collected in 1965-66.

Receipts from other agencies reflect an anticipated $9,000 budget increase in gas and weight tax revenue, along with a $10,000 budget increase in sales tax revenues, based upon a continued growth in the economy. These anticipated increases are scheduled to reflect an increase of $5,000, compared with the amounts estimated to be received in the current year.

The 1966-67 administrative budget is proposed to exceed the current budget by $10,500. Major items include City Manager—office furniture and personnel physicals and advertising, $1,170; City Attorney for codification of ordinances, $4,700; and elections, $3,400.

Blodgett is recommending

FOND FAREWELLS are given retiring Plymouth Township Clerk C. Veach Sparks by members of his staff, Mrs. Rita Brehner (left) and Mrs. Janice Birkelbaw. Sparks resigned two weeks ago effective next Saturday. He ends 10 years service with the Township, nine as a Township Trustee and one as the Township Clerk.

Name Mrs. Richardson Successor to Sparks

Mrs. Helen Richardson, 9110 Morrison, longtime employee at the Township Hall and deputy clerk for the past year, has been named successor to C. Veach Sparks as Township Clerk. She will receive her official appointment at the May meeting of the Board of Trustees.

The decision was made Monday night by the Trustees after interviewing eight candidates for the position which Sparks resigned two weeks ago effective Saturday, April 30.

Mrs. Richardson will fill the unexpired term of Sparks. There is considerable conjecture as to the length of the term since Sparks began his term of office on April 1, 1965 but the legislature hasn't decided yet whether the Township should have an election this fall or wait until 1968. There is a bill before the legislature to extend the term to four years.

Mrs. Richardson, who has worked in the offices of Township Treasurer Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes most of the time during her six years employment, will assume her new duties Monday in the capacity of deputy clerk and then become clerk after the official action of the Board in a regular meeting.

She has been a resident of the Township for 12 years.

Plan Board Denies Apartment Request

Gerald Jennings, builder and developer who had ambitions of constructing an apartment complex on Schoolcraft near Five Mile Road in Plymouth Township, will have to wait at least another year for his plans to materialize if they ever do.

Jennings' request for rezoning of the site, located adjacent to the proposed professional office building planned by Richard Fritz, ran into a snag before the Planning Commission and was denied after Planning Consultant W. C. Johnson made a recommendation against the zoning change.

Jennings sought a change from single dwelling to multi-dwelling for garden apartments and had a beautiful sketch to present. But he walked out of the Township Hall with his sketch under his arm and his dream shattered at least for a year. The zoning ordinance provides that a request for rezoning the same acreage must be delayed a year after a denial.

In his opinion, Johnson said: "This parcel is located east of the area recently recommended for a P.O. zone. Two single family homes exist on the property. The parcel to the east contains a single family dwelling which lies in the path of Bradner Road. Brick homes are located on the north side of Schoolcraft across from the parcel in question."

"This parcel will be in the path of the Schoolcraft expressway if and when it goes through. Both Garland and Bradner dead-end and it would seem very desirable that a connection be made to Schoolcraft Road."

"This lot is virtually surrounded on three sides by single family residential area."

"There has been no change in the area indicating a change

Board of Ed Oks Additions To 3 Schools

The Plymouth School Board Monday approved plans for additions to the new elementary school No. 7, Bird and Allen Schools and authorized the architects to advertise bids for the projects which have estimated overall cost of $300,000.

Perhaps the one project which has more interest than the others is that of adding a multipurpose room to elementary school No. 7 for use at the start of the 1967-68 school term.

Earlier in the school year there was considerable agitation from parents in the area because the plans for the new school did not include the room.

The Board promised then that the room would be added to the school in the second year, a decision that had been made earlier on at least one other school.

Monday's action affirmed the promise of board members.

The room will have overall dimensions of 61 by 38 feet and will be added to the front of the building, along Five Mile Road.

The Board also approved the addition of a kindergarten room to Allen School and the addition of a classroom, storage room and expansion of the offices and library at Bird School.

The architects told of the plans for each of the projects but were expansive in telling of the work on Bird School.

"It will give the front an appearance of a new, modernistic building," they said. "We believe it will make Bird one of the most beautiful schools in the system."

DPW to Make Trash Pickup Starting May 8

City of Plymouth residents will have an opportunity to get rid of the winter accumulation of trash and rubbish during the week of May 8 through May 13 when Department of Public Works trucks will make curb pickups of all except building materials.

That was the announcement of Acting Supt. Ken Vogras as part of the annual Paint Up, Clean Up, Fix Up week program.

The DPW trucks will pick up rubbish at the curbs during the entire week but not on a set schedule. The leaf machine will take care of all that is placed between the sidewalk and the curb.

Vogras emphasized that the regular rubbish and garbage pickup will be handled as usual and that the DPW trucks will collect all other material left on the curb.

Residents are urged to take advantage of the week-long drive since it is the only time of the spring that the DPW provides such service.

Church Groups Join In Workshop Benefit

Church women of Plymouth, headed by Mrs. David Schlick and Mrs. Richard Doherty, have completed the list of churches participating in the mammoth bake sale for the benefit of the Community Opportunity Center for retarded adults.

The sale is scheduled for May 13 and 14 at all of the large super markets and shopping centers in the community. Churches joining in the project are: First Presbyterian, First Methodist, St. John's Episcopal, Our Lady of Good Counsel, Riverside Church of God, First Baptist, Evangelical Lutheran Church of Epiphany, Plymouth Assembly of God and the Re-Organized Church of Jesus Christ.

All workers have been invited to a coffee at the home of Mrs. Doherty, 1353 Elm Street, to meet with representatives of the sheltered workshop for additional information.

All church groups are seeking baked goods for the two-day sale. Chairmen stress that no cream filled items be brought in and each item must be wrapped in clear plastic.

All cookies, brownies and such should be packaged by the dozen so they are ready for sale.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF YEAR are discussed by officers and leaders of the Salvation Army prior to Monday's annual dinner meeting which attracted a gathering of more than 150. The group includes: (from left) Brigadier and

Mrs. Ernest Hammer, Irene Meyers of Indianapolis, who gave the principal address; Robert Willoughby, lifetime Board Member; and Frank Henderson, advisory board chairman and toastmaster at the program.

There's a Bit of Everything in Saturday's Pop Concert

Plymouth's most unusual concert of the year, the annual "Pops" program of the Plymouth Symphony, is a complete sellout already and more than 1,000 are expected to tax the capacity of the Plymouth High gym Saturday at 8 p.m.

Conductor Wayne Dunlap has arranged an unusual around the world theme this year with a Japanese singer, an Oak Park pianist and a mystery folk-singer from Texas dividing the spotlight with Soloist Fred Kendall.

As of Monday night, Dunlap refused to divulge the name of the mystery folk-singer but indicated it would be an interesting feature.

Kimiko Nagase, a Japanese student at Schoolcraft College where she is taking instruction from Dunlap, as a member of the college choir, will play the Japanese string instrument "Koto" and also sing two other numbers in her native language.

Gordon Goodman, 17-year-old pianist from Oak Park, will play Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue as one of the standouts in the second half of the program. Dunlap has devoted the first half to "Ports of Call" and the numbers include: Rumanian Rhapsody, Can Can from Orpheus, Londonerry Air, Espagna Rhapsody and Kendall will sing an Italian and an Irish song.

The second half will begin with a theme which could be called "Hues of Blue" and features the youthful Goodman.

It will close with selections from the musical hit "Oklahoma" with Kendall singing and finally with an audience sing-along of songs based on girls' names.

Mrs. George Spaniel and Mrs. Robert Vorech are general chairmen of the concert. Other committee chairmen include: tickets, Mrs. Leslie Gallagher; refreshments, Mrs. Henry Breneman; decorations, Mrs. G. W. Broome; tables, Mrs. James Randall; costumes, Mrs. Vincent Sullivan; and publicity, Mrs. Woodward Warrick, Jr.

Make Big Plans For Michigan Week

Following the tradition set several years ago when Michigan Week first saw the light of day, Plymouth is making plans for one of the state's most outstanding week long celebrations.

That was the announcement Monday by General Chairman Edward Sawusch through Publicity Director Staton Lorenz as he named the chairman for each of the daily programs during the week of May 15 through May 21.

Highspots of the week will be the Mayor Exchange Day on May 16 in which Mayor James Houk and entourage will visit North Branch and the Mayor from there will be the guest of the City of Plymouth, and the Livelihood Day program at which four standouts leaders of the community will be honored.

City Manager Richard Blodgett will be in charge of the Exchange Day program which will include a coffee klatch to greet the visiting Mayor at 10 a.m.; a tour of the City Hall; lunch with the department heads; a tour of the area industrial plants in the afternoon and a dinner with members of the City Commission in the evening.

Rev. Donald Williams, president of the Plymouth Ministerial Association, will have charge of the Sunday, May 15 program "Spiritual Day." He hasn't made his plans known as yet but he believes that he will appeal to all churches to base sermons for that day on Michigan Week.

Tuesday, "Our Heritage Day" will be in charge of Earl Gibson, principal of Bird School. He is working on a program in which teachers will visit the various industries during the afternoon.

Gibson also will direct activities for Education Day on Thursday during which each of the schools plans a program on some phases of Michigan Week.

Details of the Livelihood Day are still being worked out by Kamgo and his aides. But he plans a dinner in the evening at which four community leaders will be honored. A year ago, the dinner paid tribute to Floyd Kehrl, Dr. Hammond, J. D. McLaren and Douglas Bathey.

Frank Arlen is working on a joint meeting of the area service clubs for Friday as the feature of the Hospitality Day program. It is hoped to have all clubs meet with the Rotarians and the program will honor the area's new plants and industries of the past year. Joe Bida, president of the Plymouth Junior Baseball League and a longtime booster of sports activities for youngsters, has accepted the chairmanship of the Youth Day activities on Saturday, May 21. Additional details of all daily programs are expected to be ironed out in a meeting of Sawusch with the chairmen within a few days.

Lions Slate Annual White Cane Drive

Members of the Plymouth Lions Club will be on major street corners in Plymouth and Northville in their annual drive to aid the blind.

President Ray Barber announced that, in the 18 years since the Plymouth Lions Club has been chartered, over $50,000 has been distributed for the various projects of the Lions.

The major projects of the Lions Club are aid for the blind and sight conservation. To this end, the Plymouth Club makes donations to the Leader Dogs for the Blind School in Rochester, Mich.; the Welcome Home for the Blind in Grand Rapids; and to the Eye Bank at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

In addition, the club sponsors eye examinations and fitting of glasses, if prescribed for needy residents of the community.

The Plymouth Lions Club also participate in community projects by sponsoring Cub Scouts, Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops, attendance at Boys State, Junior Achievement and Youth projects of the YMCA.

To help finance these projects, members will be on local streets on Friday, April 29 and Saturday, April 30. They will be wearing yellow safari-type helmets and carrying white canes with canisters attached.

Kelley Seeks Agreement With PCHA

The Peoples Community Hospital Authority may soon come under the supervision of the State Attorney General if a proposed consent agreement is ratified tomorrow (Thursday) night by the PCHA Board of Directors.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has agreed to drop the civil suit against the PCHA in Ingham County Circuit Court providing the attorney general is giving lasting supervisory powers over the Hospital Authority.

The tentative agreement was reached between Kelley and attorneys of the Authority's legal firm of Cozadd, Shangel and Smith.

If the Board of Directors approves the consent agreement it would be submitted to Ingham County Circuit Court for final approval.

Some of the provisions of the proposed agreement would prohibit:

- Use of authority funds for private or personal use by PCHA board members, officers, agents or employees.
- Use of PCHA funds for travel, entertainment or other expense except in accordance with specific procedures to be outlined in the consent agreement.
- Board members, officers or employees of PCHA from doing business with the Authority.
- Any transfer of PCHA assets unless approved by the court after notice to the attorney general.
- The Board of Directors from delegating any of its authority.

The court would maintain jurisdiction over the Authority to enforce compliance to the agreement and to punish violations.

Although Kelley is taking steps to prevent a transfer of the PCHA to a private corporation, a bill has passed the State Senate which would make easier such action.

The bill, introduced by State Senator Terry Trout (D-Romulus), requires only a majority vote of the board of directors to transfer PCHA's assets to private enterprise.

A counter bill introduced in the House by Rep. Vicent Pettipren (D-Wayne) retains the 66% vote requirement presently in force to allow member communities to withdraw. Pettipren's bill passed the House 90-0 and was referred to the Senate.

Trout's bill passed the Senate after an unsuccessful attempt by Sen. Roger Craig (D-Dearborn) to recall the legislation after hearing reports of an investment firm being willing to provide $18 million to a private group to purchase the PCHA.

Both bills have been sent to a joint conference committee of the House and Senate and if a compromise is not reached by the middle of May both will die.

If the board of directors approves the consent agreement, however, neither bill will be necessary since any transfer of PCHA to a private corporation would have to receive the approval of the attorney general.

Such an agreement, in effect, would serve part of the intent of Pettipren's bill and would defeat part of the purpose of Trout's legislation.

High point of the three-day meeting will be the election of the 1966-67 District officers and board members a governor, secretary, treasurer and four lieutenant governors—on Sunday, May 1.

The gubernatorial incumbent is R. James Girardot, a student at Oakland University. He was elected to the post in the Midland convention a year ago and will preside over the Oakland sessions.

Physical Ed Teachers Are Much in Demand

ANN ARBOR—A chronic need for women physical education instructors exists in the nation today, say two members of the physical education department of The University of Michigan.

Assistant professors Shirley Howard and Evelyn Schurr explain that although there has been a substantial need for more women entering the field about the last 10 years, the problem has increased steadily the past several years. Today it is acute.

"To give some idea of the need," says Dr. Howard, "the Placement Bureau at the University reported more than 1,100 requests for women physical education teachers at the elementary and secondary levels. We had only 26 applicants for those positions."

Some indication of why there are not enough women entering the field, says Dr. Schurr, is the rigorous undergraduate training program women must complete for certification.

Contrary to popular belief, she points out, physical education majors do not spend four years "playing games." Women do have "physical education activities" as part of their studies, but they are in addition to other subjects.

"In science alone," say Dr. Schurr, "students must take such courses as zoology, psychology, anatomy, physiology, and kinesiology to gain a basic knowledge of the mechanism of the body."

Women physical education teachers need not have exceptional athletic ability, say the two U-M staff members, but rather an ability to teach the various skills to their students.

WILLIAM MARCUS, a resident of Redford Township and past manager of the Terrace Theatre in Livonia, received a golden Showmanship Trophy at the 47th annual convention of Michigan theatre owners of Detroit. The trophy was presented by Milton H. London, left, president of the Allied Theatres of Michigan. Marcus was selected for the state-wide honor by a panel of judges which considered showmanship campaigns submitted by theatremen from throughout the state. Marcus is presently circuit supervisor of the Suburban Detroit Theatres.

Post Offices Open Drive To Improve Mail Boxes

Seventeen million postal customers' mailboxes will be the target of a Post Office Department nationwide beautification drive next month, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said.

"Mailbox Improvement Week" will be held May 16-21 to promote the best possible appearance for about 10 million mailboxes on rural routes and seven million others on city residential "curbline" delivery routes, the Postmaster General announced. More than 1.8 million miles along the nation's highways and byways are dotted with the rural mail receptacles, served by approximately 32,000 rural carriers, O'Brien noted.

"If these boxes look their best, this can be an unusual and beneficial contribution to the natural beautification efforts of the President and the First Lady," O'Brien observed. The same applies, he said, for the seven million boxes mounted at curbline, generally in new residential sections. This service is provided by what are known in the Postal Service as "mounted routes," served by letter carriers in vehicles.

Mailbox Improvement Week has been observed annually in the past by the Post Office Department with the cooperation of postmasters' organizations and the National Rural Letter Carriers Association.

"This year, the program assumes even greater importance in view of the contribution it can make in supplementing other national and local efforts to improve scenery along the country's highways and the appearance of city areas," O'Brien said.

Except for minimal requirements, such as those to make boxes reasonably secure against weather and readily accessible to carriers, mailboxes and the posts on which they stand can be painted and decorated almost as extensively as the boxholder pleases.

O'Brien praised many customers who have painted their mail receptacles in decorative colors and provided ornamental decorations of dogs and other animals. Many have plants and flowers surrounding the box," he noted.

In addition to providing better appearance, Mailbox Improvement Week is designed to encourage repair of boxes that do not protect the mail against weather.

Postmasters are directed to survey delivery routes where service is provided through boxes and to leave notices calling attention to deficiencies.

Camp Scholarships Are Available from Audubon Society

The Detroit Audubon Society offers valuable scholarships to attend an Audubon Camp. Teachers, Scout Leaders, Junior Audubon Leaders, anyone who works with groups of children, or adults interested in nature, are eligible. There are two-week sessions at Audubon Camps in Connecticut, Maine, Wisconsin and Wyoming, as well as one-week sessions at the Conservation Scholarship School of Teachers at Higgins Lake.

The Audubon Camps are an important part of the National Audubon Society's educational program, whose major purpose is to advance public understanding of the value and need for conservation.

Persons interested in finding out more about these scholarships, should write a letter of application stating your reasons for wishing to attend a camp, your interest and hobbies, your activities with youth or adult groups, your employment. Upon receipt of your letter, you will receive application forms and descriptive brochures concerning dates, programs, etc. Mail your request to Miss Virginia Olmsted, 365 Joy Street, Plymouth, Mich. 48170. Deadline date for completed applications: May 15, 1966.

In Oakland County, 23,327 people are employed by Michigan's trucking industry. Their annual payroll is $142,574,624.

DISCUSSING PLANS for the coming election campaigns are four who have announced for various posts. The group met Friday at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth where Carl Pursell, candidate for the 35th district State Senator post, officially kicked off his drive. The quartet: (from left) Pursell, Supervisor Jack McDonald, of Redford Township, who has announced for the Congressional seat in that district; Louis Schmidt, Clarenceville School Supt., who is a candidate for the Livonia seat in the House; and Larry VanderMolen, of Schoolcraft College, who will oppose McDonald.

Carl Pursell Tosses Hat Into State Senator Race

Pledging firm support for the Romney legislative program, Carl D. Pursell, Plymouth businessman and civic leader, Friday announced his candidacy for the 14th Senatorial District seat.

The Republican candidate, who is generally considered the party favorite, has gained widespread support in all levels of the party in the state and district since unofficially announcing his candidacy for the seat late in January, pending the Supreme Court decision on final appointment.

The January announcement was made in conjunction with incumbent Farrell E. Roberts' decision to vacate the post to run for the Oakland County Circuit Court.

Pursell made his formal announcement at a press conference in the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth, which was attended by more than 200 friends, supporters and party dignitaries.

Three issues, cited by Pursell, as important problems facing residents of this district, were the need for a tax reform program designed to relieve the burden on home owners, an improved traffic safety program, and dedicated efforts for the improvement of the transit system between Detroit and the suburbs.

Elaborating on the tax reform issue, the 33-year-old candidate said he opposed amendment of the constitution to allow the possibility of the passage of a graduated income tax levy.

"One of the great economic problems of the day," Pursell said, "is that economic growth gives the Federal Government the revenues, while, along with population increase, it gives the states, and especially, the cities and townships the problems."

In calling for an improved traffic safety program, Pursell listed more stringent enforcement of traffic laws, stricter licensing regulations and improved state support, regulation and expansion of driver education programs, as three highly important factors needed in solving the traffic problem. This should not be a political issue.

Pursell stressed the need for a cooperative effort with Community leaders working with the City of Detroit on a transit system. There have been good starts and much effort in this area, but more of the suburban communities should be participating. State help and State leadership is needed to push this total plan.

Promising an aggressive and intensive campaign, designed to get to know the voters and their feelings on issues of interest to them, Pursell said plans called for personal appearances in each precinct between now and election day.

Stressing the importance of leadership and courage needed to meet the challenges of today's society, the Senatorial candidate said he felt his educational, business, civic and military experience, plus his proven dedication to the betterment of the community, would provide residents with a strong and effective voice in Lansing.

Owner of Western Office

Equipment, in Plymouth, Pursell is currently president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the Second Congressional District Wayne County Republican Party. He was the founder of the Plymouth Businessman's Forum.

Under his leadership, the Chamber of Commerce sponsored earlier this spring, a conference for city and township leaders, during which mutual problems were discussed and solutions sought. Held in Hillsdale, the conference, first of its kind, was hailed as being most successful and beneficial.

Senatorial Candidates At Benefit

Area residents, who attend the benefit dinner for the Community Opportunity Center on May 25 at Roma Hall in Livonia, will have an opportunity to study all three of the announced candidates for U.S. Senator.

That was the announcement Monday by Program Chairman Arthur Haeske, of Plymouth, who indicated confirmations had been received from Congressman Robert Griffin (R), and the two Democratic candidates, Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, of Detroit, and former Governor G. Mennen Williams.

Cavanagh will be one of the two principal speakers — the other two candidates will be introduced from the floor and given an opportunity for short talks.

Cavanagh and Mrs. Lenore Romney, wife of Gov. George Romney, are slated to head the program. The benefit is being staged to raise funds for the Center, which is the area's sheltered workshop for adult retarded.

There is a possibility that Williams may have to miss the event but he has indicated that if such is true that his wife and son Gary will be there to represent him.

The benefit, which has a price tag of $7 per ticket, is under the general supervision of Mrs. Rosalie Bales, of Plymouth.

Tickets are on sale in all four of the sponsoring communities which include: Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Township and Northville.

ASSOCIATE IN GENERAL STUDIES: Raymond Anthony Biernacki, Ronald David Garchow, Harrison Lees Grigsby, Jr., Karen Patricia Shay, James Wilson Simmons, Carol Anne Weymouth and Daniel John Zawacki.

Pupils to Get Safety Leaflets

May, June, and July have proved to be the most hazardous months for child casualties in the Detroit area. Over 300 youngsters, five through eight years of age, were struck as pedestrians last year.

Door stickers for the home with the safety message:

STOP—at the curb
LOOK—both ways
WAIT—until it's safe
WALK—across the street

will be distributed in the elementary schools of Wayne County through the cooperation of the Traffic Safety Association of Detroit, the Detroit Police Department, and the Wayne County public and parochial schools.

In addition to safety stickers in quantities for every first and second grade student, a safety leaflet will be distributed.

Distribution of this leaflet and the stickers has been approved by William A. Shunck, Superintendent, Wayne County Intermediate School District. Dr. Charles Wolfe, Assistant Superintendent, Detroit Public Schools, and the Very Rev. John B. Zwiers, Superintendent of Schools, Archdiocese of Detroit.

During May, more than 80,000 first and second grade children will have the door stickers to take home. Teachers in the kindergarten through third grades are to be given a copy of the traffic safety materials that are enclosed. Additional copies may be requested from the Intermediate Office of Education.

Garnett Griffin, Traffic Association of Detroit, indicates the teachers will use the information in the four page leaflet, "The Child in Detroit Area Traffic" as material for class participation, skits, posters, and other safety lessons presented at this critical time of the year.

The leaflet points out that 89 per cent of the small child casualties occurred when youngsters were at home — playing, going to the store or on another type of errand. The challenge is to reduce the casualties.

College Sees A Record Enrollment

Schoolcraft College's enrollment is expected to soar to the highest total in history for the 1966-67 school year, according to an announcement from College President Dr. Eric Bradner.

More than 1,200 new applications have been submitted thus far for the start of the fall semester and the number of returning students is expected to be 20 per cent higher than that of last fall.

Dr. Bradner emphasized that the college policy insures district residents of placement in courses and programs until May 2 of each year. After the deadline, all courses and programs are thrown open to non-resident applicants.

College district residents can't be assured of courses and programs of their choice after that date.

Thus those residing in the college district, which includes Livonia, Plymouth, Garden City, Clarenceville and Northville, should submit applications immediately. New applicants should plan to take the college placement tests on April 29 at 8 a.m. in the college library.

Dr. Bradner points out that the placement tests are a necessary part of each application. They must be completed before an application is accepted.

Seniors in high schools in the college district may obtain application material from their high school counselors. All other applicants may obtain the necessary information and blanks from the college admission office.

Meet Your Carrier

Larry Cook, of 26812 Glendale, Redford Township, has been a carrier boy for the Observer Newspaper group since August 1964. A son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cook, he is a seventh grader at Marshall Junior High.

Larry is a B student and has ambitions of attending Ferris State University after graduation from high school with plans of going into commercial art work.

His favorite subjects are art and gym. He likes to play basketball and to bowl which he does now as a member of the Junior Bowling League at Cloverlanes. He was a member of the first place team in his age group and was third in the individual averages.

Larry has won second and third place ribbons in track, and hopes to continue in that sport in high school.

ENJOYING THEIR VACATION were these four youngsters who poured through the doors at Sears Livonia Mall when it opened at 9 a.m. recently, scammed over the escalator, raced over to the television sets and plopped down on the floor as shown here. They watched shows throughout the morning as amused Sears officials looked on and checked in occasionally to see what the big attraction was—it was just the morning cartoons via television.

The Distaff Side...

By Jerry Wendt Women's Editor

She was 14 years old. The gay glittering world of Monte Carlo stretched before her, but she knew nothing of that. A member of the company of the great ballet master Diaghilev, her life was one of grinding hard work, 16 hour days, dedication beyond belief. But always there was the one goal. Not only to receive the homage of the world, but for one bright and beautiful moment, one might transcend ordinary boundaries, and stand with the group who had achieved immortality among artists.

And the tiny girl with the black bangs practicing so earnestly did just that. Dame Alicia Markova took the Town Hall Audience with her, Thursday, into the world of the ballet when she urged them from the platform, "Come with me for a moment, into my world."

Vibrant in action and in her striking coloring, Dame Alicia held the audience as enchanted with her soft cultured voice, and stage presence as she had with her dancing.

"The world of the ballet is exciting, glamorous, yet frustrating and tough at times," she said, then added, "I guess you could say, it is just like life."

Diaghilev was the great ballet master and you lived with the troupe when Dame Alicia was a girl. So the tiny girl from England journeyed to where Diaghilev held his classes in the casino at Monte Carlo. Rehearsals began at 9 a.m. They practiced until one o'clock, stopping only for 10 minute breaks to change their clothes when they were wringing wet from head to toe.

From one to three o'clock they lunched in the European manner. A complete meal, beautifully served, then back again until six o'clock. Each night there was a performance at nine o'clock or if there was no performance, there was rehearsals. Afterwards the choreographers might have an idea, and there was an unwritten law that no one interrupted when one of the masters was inspired.

with swatches of chiffon which floated gracefully in the dance numbers.

Dame Alicia became an artist, too, and danced before kings and queens. Queen Elizabeth bestowed her title of "Dame" upon her in 1963. Among her many honors was being chosen the first ballerina ever to be televised and the first ballerina of the old Vic's Sadler Wells Ballet. Today she is the Director of Ballet for the Metropolitan Opera Company.

LOOKING AHEAD TO next years gala program are Mrs. Ruth Knapp and Mrs. William Boellner.

Later at Meadowbrook Country Club, the group of women were enchanted with the gardenia skinned, dark-haired Dame Alicia. Questions asked her were "Where did you get your turban?" Dressed in a beige sheath, Dame Alicia had an elegant matching turban of beige chiffon.

"What do you consider the primary requisite for success?" "Find something you love and that interests you completely and then lose yourself in it," was the answer.

And lastly, "I want to thank you for my most treasured memory. You see, I saw you dance 'Swan Lake.'"

Dame Alicia in manner, appearance and performance is an artist in the grand tradition.

Buxom Belles Aid Lagging Dieters

Have you looked in the mirror at your figure lately and said, "I simply must go on a diet?" But even though you meant what you said you knew you didn't have the will power to stick to it until you reached your goal. Well, ladies you are not alone. Many women who have almost given up hope of losing weight and keeping it off are grateful to the Buxom Belles.

They have no magic formula because the only known way to lose weight is by eating fewer calories than burn up in energy.

There are no expensive machines to wear the fat away. In fact they do not even exercise at meetings.

What do the Buxom Belles do then to help you lose weight? Well, they operate on the theory of group therapy. It gives women the opportunity to meet women who have the same weight problems. You try to learn new methods of how to control the compulsion to eat because you are tired, bored, anger or whatever reason you eat when you know you are not hungry.

There is no one who can promise you that you will lose 50 lbs. this year but many of the members have lost that much or more in a year.

If you have a problem, why not come to a meeting or two just as a guest. You have nothing to lose except fat and who needs that!

Let the Buxom Belles help you help yourself. Phone Lorraine Ashley, 474-2893.

You'll see the Fast-back Volkswagen with a little more space and a little more power that doesn't look like a VW, but is. Imagine all the VW quality and economy for only $2,363.48 (plus license and tax).

And the Square-back — it's a great traveling car — holds five people and a lot of luggage. The 65-horsepower engine gives a lot of go-power on about 28 miles to the gallon of regular gas. It's priced at $2,414.48 (plus license and tax).

Maybe you already know the Bug pretty well. Lots of people do — 8 million, in fact. But did you know that can own it for only $1,706.48 (plus tax and license).

Queen of Hearts Lifts Her Morale While in New York

By FAITH GILLESPIE

The general well-being of the housewife depends upon several things.

She needs some sunshine, a good floor wax, a potato peeler, a dependable detergent, a ring mold, a second cup of coffee in the morning, a useful pot to put things in, and an occasional word of appreciation from the King of the House.

A full jar of peanut butter, a steam iron, and a book of light verse can contribute a great deal. A few moments of solitude in a day are precious. A stand of red tulips in the spring does wonders for the morale.

But the thing that makes a housewife feel most like a lady is to put on white gloves and go out to lunch, preferably with a friend.

It doesn't happen often, goodness knows, what with all it takes to make arrangements, particularly if there are small children about the house. But it is always worth it.

It happened that I was able to go out to lunch not long ago, and to make me feel even more lady-like, we happened to be in New York.

If you should happen to be in New York for lunch, you must have an omelette at a little place called Madame Romaine de Lyon, on E. 61st street. She serves only omelettes . . . cheese omelettes, meat omelettes, vegetable omelettes, something like 243 varieties of omelettes . . . with french wines, green salad, brioches and corisants, pastries, and coffee. Perfect lunch for a lady and friend.

If you feel the urge to splurge, go to lunch at the Chateau de Richelieu, on E. 52nd street, and have a salad. We were there after most of the rush was over, so I managed to get into the kitchen and peer into the sauce pots. I couldn't persuade them to give me the chocolate mousse recipe, the eating of which is an ecstatic experience, but I got some salad recipes, just in case you can't get there soon.

Richelieu's Special Salad
Toss together: 4 cups cleaned young spinach (raw, finely chopped), 4 hardcooked eggs (coarsely sieved), 1 small can chopped anchovy filets, 3 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon white vinegar (or wine vinegar), and some freshly ground black pepper.

Garnish with tomato wedges and quartered hard-cooked eggs. Serve with french bread or hot rolls.

Or make the chef salad, a true feast, with shredded lettuce, julienne strips of ham, swiss cheese, and cooked chicken (or turkey) with freshly ground black pepper and this roquefort dressing:

Roquefort Dressing Richelieu Mash with a fork till smooth: 3 ounces roquefort cheese.

Beat till thick ½ cup olive oil (or salad oil), ¼ cup white vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, and a pinch of paprika. Blend roquefort in thoroughly, and mix well with salad ingredients. Serve with hard rolls or hot buttered toast.

If you simply cannot get out of your house at lunch time, and you have been yearning for that lady-like feeling, get the kids back to school, put the baby down for his nap, and invite a friend in for lunch. It might do the trick for you, and even if it doesn't, your friend will feel like a lady.

Tell her to wear white gloves.

C. W. Allens Celebrate Their Ruby Anniversary

The 40th wedding anniversary of the C. W. Allen, Sr.s, of Livonia, was a gala occasion.

Their son, C. W. Allen Jr., gave them an open house in his home in Rosedale Gardens. Also present were the C. W. Allen Sr.'s other child, Sister Mary Carla, of the Felician Order, who had flown in from Jackson to be with them.

The senior Allens moved to Livonia in 1946. They started the Lone Pine Inn and when that was sold founded the C. W. Allen Realty Co., of which Allen Sr. is president.

They reside at 15450 Coventry Gardens. Many of their friends and well-wishers presented them with attractive gifts of ruby red cut glass to remember the happy occasion.

Mother, The Picture-Taker

Why not make this year's Mother's Day memories the clearest and best ever—by saving them in pictures! You can—by giving Mom a camera of her own.

A gift camera for Mom is only good if she uses it. And she won't use it if it's too complicated, or if she has to hide in a closet to load it. This year, Mom's ready to snap pictures instantly—because there's a whole family of cameras that have done away with the mechanical details of picture-taking. They're called KODAK INSTAMATIC Cameras.

We have KODAK INSTAMATIC Cameras that make great snapshots and slides easier than ever to take. Drop a film cartridge into any INSTAMATIC Camera and it's ready to go. The inexpensive "304" model has an electric eye that automatically sets daylight exposures for you. It makes picture-taking aim-and-shoot simple. Indoors, just pop a flashcube on the "304," and take four pictures in a row without changing bulbs. You could teach Mom to master this new camera in the time it takes to share a cup of coffee.

The other INSTAMATIC Camera models are equally easy to use. And they offer you a choice of features like spring-motor film advance, reminder flash signals, and even built-in computers that "program" better pictures for you. Why not have a look at all of them—before Mother's Day?

New Plant for Twp.

soon as possible with the anticipation that it would be in the new quarters by the end of the summer or early fall.

He indicated Metropolitan Imprinters would install printing facilities as soon as possible.

The Planning Commission approved the request and set a public hearing on the rezoning for the May meeting.

While this was going on in the Township Hall, Ford Motor Company was entertaining city and township officials at an official ground breaking for the new plant on N. Sheldon Road. The ceremonies took place Wednesday morning and definitely proved to all skeptics that Ford will be in operation by mid-1967 as promised when it announced acquisition of the site.

Ford officials stated the new facility, which is being constructed to ease a crowded situation at Ypsilanti and also to allow that plant to expand its operations, will have a payroll of more than 1,000 at the start with an anticipated 2,200 employees within a relatively short time.

And in typical Ford fashion, no time has been wasted in getting the 168-acre site ready for the start of construction. Huge earth removers have been in operation for several weeks and have practically leveled the land.

This was noted at the ground breaking ceremonies where there was nothing but bare land as far as one could see.

Coincidental with his announcement of the shift of Metropolitan Imprinters to the Township, Gould also made known plans for the development of his Industrial Park.

Gould holds options for the entire 100 acres and believes it will become one of the prime industrial sites in the entire area.

He already has plans for a class "A" road to wind through the site from Ann Arbor Road to Joy Road, assuring all prospective buyers of truck travel throughout the year.

The land bounds the C&O Railroad on the east, giving the larger plants an opportunity to install siding for that type of transportation. Water and sewers have been assured for the area through the efforts of the Township Board.

"And" smiled Gould, "We have been in contact with several prospects through the efforts of Harold Fischer, director of the Plymouth Community Area Planning Commission, and believe there will be additional announcements within a short time."

Just to bring those interested up to date, Spartan Stores, which secured land near the intersection of Joy and Haggerty Roads for a huge warehouse, expects to start work within a few weeks.

That makes three new industrial facilities in the Township since the first of the year with more to come.

"NEVER AGAIN" was the comment of the owner of this house—that was moved down Arthur, alongside the new Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, tearing branches off trees, destroying some trees and generally disturbing homeowners along the route. The City Commission heard two complaints but decided it was a matter for the homeowner and the moving company to iron out with the individual property owners who claimed damage to trees.

Rotary Club To Hear U-M Program Chief

Donald Morris, manager of Special Programs at the University of Michigan, will talk on "Report from Ann Arbor" at the meeting of the Plymouth Rotary Club Friday noon in the Mayflower Hotel.

Morris has been manager of Special Programs at the University since May 1964. Prior to that he was managing editor of the University News Service from July 1962 to April 1964.

As manager of Special Programs, Morris sets up conferences involving University officials with alumni and civic leaders throughout Michigan.

Area Residents Told Postal Savings Ended

Residents of the Plymouth community, who have postal savings certificates, are urged by Postmaster John A. Mulligan to withdraw the accounts from Post Offices as soon as possible or as soon as the anniversary dates of the certificates are reached.

Mulligan noted that as of June 30, 1965, there were 997,029 depositors holding certificates in 3,130 post offices. This number has been declining at the rate of about 6,500 per month.

He said that unpaid deposits remaining in the Post Office beyond June 30, 1967 will be transferred to the Treasury Department in a trust fund and would be available for payment without time limitation whenever proper claims are received.

All certificates held by a depositor may be cashed at the same time and interest will be paid for each full month outstanding beyond three months from the interest date.

The Postal Savings System was established Jan. 1, 1911, to get money out of hiding and to attract savings of a large number of immigrants who were accustomed to saving at Post Offices in their homeland. It also served as a safe depository for people who had lost confidence in private banks.

However, with the growth of the addition of two policemen at a cost of $12,000; one fireman, $6,000; and a building safety inspector, $6,700. He estimates Police salary increases at $4,750; Fire salary boosts at $900; and Public Safety increase at $350.

In addition, he is asking for an estimated police cruiser; increase in the uniform allowance for equipment for the aerial ladder truck.

He points out that the Department of Public Works operated about three men short during the fiscal year because of labor turnover. He proposes to keep the authorized manpower at the same level for the past year at 13 men.

He states that three additional men are assigned to the water department, plus the Firemen, Director and Secretary for a total of 19 employees.

The proposed Public Works budget calls for $194,570, a reduction of $33,000 from the present budget and $31,400 below the estimated expenditures for the current year. This is a result of a $54,000 reduction in street paving along with a $20,000 increase to other DPW programs.

All of the items and the many other phases of the budget will be up for discussion at the public hearing. The Commission has held several meetings during the past week and plans to be in a position where it can adopt the budget following the hearing even though it has had only two weeks to study Blodgett's proposals.

as a single family area as it is now zoned."

In other actions, the Commission:

Tabled a request from Richard Kirchoff for rezoning for an apartment complex on Northville Road, north of Clemons Drive, pending additional information and a detailed sketch.

Tabled a request from Dr. Leo Speer for rezoning of 24.72 acres, near Detroit House of Correction from agriculture to R-3 for the purpose of establishing a mobile home trailer court, for additional information.

Referred a request of C. W. Good, for consideration of a building permit for construction of a house on a portion of his property, to the planning consultant for a recommendation at the May meeting.

Authorized the building inspector to issue a building permit to John Linders for construction of a new home at his property on Beck Road near Phoenix Road.

Hare Offers State Flag To Overseas Servicemen

LANSING—Groups of Michigan servicemen serving in Vietnam and other overseas bases may obtain a large Michigan flag, compliments of Secretary of State James M. Hare who is purchasing the state banners out of his own private funds.

Offer is open only to groups of Michigan armed forces stationed overseas, Hare said.

To be eligible for flags, the Michigan servicemen must be part of units of battalion size or larger with comparable sized units for naval units. Every request must be signed by the commanding officer of the units who apply for the flags, and the request should specify that there are a group of Michigan men in the unit, Hare said.

Hare added that he could not honor requests made by relatives on behalf of their servicemen overseas. "If we did permit this, we would be deluged with requests and we could not begin to fill them all," he said. "However, I would appreciate these persons letting their servicemen know about the offer and how to avail themselves of it."

The 3 by 5 foot cotton flags have flown over the state capitol in Lansing. Offer is open through Michigan Week, May 15-21, and is a project of this annual program.

Hare said he decided to

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON Vivian Explains 'Packaging' Bill

By Rep. Wes Vivian

There is a lady in Washington who represents 190 million Americans, including everyone in the Second District of Michigan.

She is Mrs. Esther Peterson, who, as special assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, speaks for the entire American buying public — and that is everyone in the country.

Last week I visited Mrs. Peterson in her office, across the street from the White House, to discuss my "Truth-in-Packaging" bill, which, as you know, I co-sponsored with Senator Phil Hart.

We talked about the "jumbo" size detergent box with a hefty percentage of air and about the spray can labeled "improved" — when the "improvement" really means only a decrease in the net weight from 15 to 14 ounces.

We discussed the "cents-off" label on a can of coffee — "cents-off" what? Even the most careful shoppers fall victim to deception and hidden price increases.

Here is what Mrs. Peterson said:

"Fractionalized ounces, deceptive package sizes and shapes, meaningless 'cents-off' deals, and such terms as 'jumbo quart' are only a smokescreen. The purpose is to keep the consumer from comparing prices. Gradually, he will wind up paying more and more for less and less."

"There is only one way to lift the smokescreen. The Fair Packaging and Labeling Bill must be passed."

The opponents of fair packaging — and there are many powerful interests who oppose any move to clear up confusion in the marketplace — say that legislation is not needed because consumers are intelligent and don't need more information.

I fully agree with the first part of the statement: consumers are intelligent. That is why they want more information. That is why they want the bill passed.

People who think that the consumer can always figure out the best buy in grocery items such as detergents, for example, should ask Mrs. Peterson.

She told me that she heard from one mathematics teacher who won't do her marketing without a slide rule! She had to teach all her non-mathematical friends to use one, too.

One of the most impressive pieces of evidence on the need for this legislation comes from the campus of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. Researchers there proved last year how difficult and expensive it is to shop today.

Thirty-three college-educated housewives were sent out to buy 20 common household items. They had ample time to select the best buys in the supermarket. But they made correct decisions only 57 per cent of the time. On an average they paid nine per cent more than they had to.

My Truth-in-Packaging bill does not, of course, suggest that everyone should buy the lowest priced goods. It simply intends to help the housewife find out how much she is paying so she can compare prices.

In these days of rising prices, when it is becoming more and more difficult to make the dollar stretch, we need more truth in the marketplace. We can have it—if we support Truth in Packaging.

CONGRESSMAN WES VIVIAN points out to Mrs. Esther Peterson, special assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, that many food packages provide the consumer with the needed information to make adequate price comparisons. Vivian's Truth-in-Packaging Bill, co-sponsored with Senator Philip Hart, aims to provide this kind of information on all consumer packages.

Veterans Are Eligible for Home Loans Under New GI Bill

Many Michigan ex-servicemen have recently become eligible for liberal home loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration under a new law which terms have received relatively little attention. Everett J. Wilson, president of the United Northwestern Realty Association—Western Wayne-Oakland County Board of Realtors, said Monday.

Wilson was referring to the new GI bill signed into law last month, which—among other points—makes between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000 post-Korean War veterans eligible for VA home-loan guarantees.

The new law provides that veterans with more than 180 days of active military duty who were discharged from the service after Jan. 31, 1955, have at least until March 3, 1976, to complete a GI home loan, Wilson explained.

Realtors—professionals in real estate who subscribe to a strict code of ethics as members of the local board and of the National Association of Real Estate Boards—have homes listed which may be purchased with the new liberal terms and are prepared to help veterans in their housing search, Wilson pointed out.

“For a post-Korean veteran or serviceman, VA may guarantee a home loan made by a private lender up to $7,500 or 60 per cent of the loan, whichever is less,” Wilson said.

“This means that a lending institution will receive the government’s guarantee which is intended to be in lieu of a down payment or to reduce the down payment which the lender normally requires.”

Wilson added that loans are not limited to the purchase of homes but may be approved also for alterations, repairs, or improvements in homes already owned and occupied.

There is no maximum on the amount of a guaranteed loan, and all loans made or guaranteed by VA will bear interest at 5 1/2 per cent.

Although the new GI bill offers many of the benefits the previous bill made available to World War II and Korean veterans, there are some benefits which it does not include, the board president said. For example, business loans are not authorized for individuals who qualify under the new GI bill. Wilson noted that VA direct home loans will be available only for the purchase of homes in areas where such loans have been authorized, and that the maximum direct loan ceiling had been raised from $15,000 to $17,500.

Veterans who have the required length of service and who were discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable may apply for VA loans. If released because of a service-connected disability, the service time may be less than the stipulated 180-plus days period, he added.

Uninsured Drivers Total Low

LANSING—Number of uninsured drivers . . . at least those paying the $35 uninsured fee while obtaining new 1966 license plates . . . was much lower than had been anticipated. As of March 9 through the “rush” period of purchasing plates, the number of uninsured stood at 94,468.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, there were three vital factors involved in the “lower” than anticipated figure.

“First of all,” says Hare, “the high-side $35 fee prompted many drivers to purchase liability insurance rather than toss away the $35 and have no insurance coverage to show for it.”

“Secondly, there are a ‘sizeable’ number of motorists who were driving ‘junks’ . . . old cars, in poor shape and worth next to nothing on the market . . . who just abandoned them rather than pay the uninsured fee.”

“Thirdly, there are many drivers who signed up for insurance, obtained plates and have since cancelled by permitting the policies to lapse or who will be refused coverage by the companies when they come up for final approval.”

Based on the third reason, Hare figures there are more uninsured drivers in Michigan than the figures reveal.

Hare reminded these persons that they must pay the $35 fee or face prosecution.

“Failure could result in drivers losing both their driver’s license and/or license plates for up to a year,” he cautioned.

The 94,468 uninsured are a mere 2.75 percent of the motor vehicles registered as of March 9 with $6,640,199 paid into the Fund, Hare said.

Name Bergmoser Ford’s General Purchasing Head

J. Paul Bergmoser has been appointed general purchasing agent for Ford Division of Ford Motor Company, replacing Charles E. Bosworth who has announced his retirement.

Bergmoser has been executive director of the company’s purchasing staff since September, 1964. He joined Ford in 1946 as an administrative supervisor on the purchasing staff at Ford’s Rouge Plant. He served in several supervisory capacities until 1958, when he was named purchasing agent for Ford’s Transmission and Chassis Division.

He was appointed assistant plant manager at the Livonia Transmission Plant in 1961 and in 1963 was named general purchasing agent for the Ford Tractor Division, a position he held until 1964.

Michigan’s fourth largest industry, trucking, spent $182 million for 56,000 new trucks during 1964.

Medical Lab Fills Need For Area

A long sought ambition of Plymouth Community doctors, for a medical laboratory for tests that have forced residents to go to hospitals in Ann Arbor, Livonia and Detroit, has been answered with the opening of the Professional Village Medical Laboratory at 9430 S. Main, just south of Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township.

The laboratory has been opened by Dr. E. G. Pear, medical director of the Professional Village Medical Laboratory in Livonia, and his partners and co-workers Jack McKenna and Dan Slabaugh.

The laboratory is expected to take a great deal of pressure off area doctors who have been making the tests themselves or sending patients to nearby hospitals or medical labs.

McKenna, who has been a medical technologist for 10 years, is a graduate of Ferris State University and had additional training at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Slabaugh, a graduate of Goshen College in Indiana, has been a medical technologist for 15 years. He has had experience in the laboratories at Northville State Hospital, Detroit Osteopathic Hospital and Maybury Sanitarium.

McKenna and Slabaugh have been partners with Dr. Pear in the Livonia Center for six years. All three agreed to expand their operations to take care of the demand for a laboratory in the Plymouth Community.

WANT AN EVENING OF Fun—then attend the Plymouth High School play "You Can't Take It With You" on April 29 and 30. The lead role of Penelope Sycamore is portrayed by Nancy Newton.

She is the mother of the clan all of whom pursue only the activities they enjoy and really bring to life the role of the happy mother.

Steve Ott as Mr. Sycamore presents his share of the hilarious episodes as well as the good basic philosophies that are found in the three-act play.

National Sorority members are invited to the Plymouth City Panhellenic meeting at the home of Mrs. Wendell Hough on 47249 Stonecrest (Woodlore) in Plymouth on Monday, May 2, at 12:30 p.m. Make reservations by calling Jane Clarke at 453-4595 or Monnie Goddard at 453-4716 for reservations. HELEN DES JARDINS, Methodist missionary was guest speaker at the Plymouth Study Club Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Carl Caplin on Joy Rd. Miss Des Jardins, retired since 1962 after 45 years as a missionary teacher in China and Malaysia, related many interesting stories. Having taught in Malaysia and Singapore her colored slides of the Anglo-Chinese schools and their customs were the highlight of the evening. The club, which meets monthly, will end its winter season with dinner at the Rotunda Inn.

REBEKAH LADIES have set aside Saturday, May 7, for their spring rummage and bake sale at the Plymouth Credit Union on Harvey St. For donations or pick ups call 453-3335 or 453-0808.

DPW News And Notes

By Supt. Ken Vogras
Plymouth Public Works Dept.
Plymouth residents should take heed of the fact that the regular alley pickups of rubbish and garbage will be resumed on May 3 and the annual spring rubbish pickup, for items over and above the weekly collections of rubbish and garbage, has been set for the week of May 8 through May 13.

We wish to thank all homeowners for their fine co-operation during the period when alley pickups were not permitted due to the spring thaw. During the past week, DPW crews cold patched streets from Main to Mill, Main to Sheldon Road and Ann Arbor Trail to Ann Arbor Road.

Workmen were busy sweeping streets and spraying was continued on city-owned Elm trees. The department handled five funerals at Riverside Cemetery.

The piles of dirt at the DPW yards were leveled. City parks and playgrounds were cleared of winter debris and flat sewers and catch basins checked. A sanitary sewer was unplugged at the south end of Industrial Drive and the water gates checked at Ross and McKinley streets.

LCBHR Sponsoring Panel of Legislators on Education

New Tax Methods, To Be Discussed

As the May 9 voting nears and Livonia citizens face the decision whether to increase taxes to support their schools or maintain the present tax level and incur a decrease in school services and programs, the whole question of whether property tax money can continue to be the main support of schools comes in for closer scrutiny.

Whether the property tax method of financing schools creates unequal educational opportunities throughout the state will be discussed by a panel of state legislators at a meeting co-sponsored by the Livonia Citizens for Better Human Relations and the League of Women Voters. The meeting will be held Sunday, May 1, at 9 p.m. at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile Road, Livonia.

Participating on the panel will be two legislators representing most of Livonia: Senator Farrell Roberts (R) and Representative Marvin Stempien (D). Two legislators from neighboring districts will be Senator Edward Robinson (D) representing most of the Redford and Dearborn areas, and Representative Raymond Baker (R) elected by Oakland County residents including those in the Farmington area.

Many communities, such as Livonia, feel some solution must be found, perhaps on a state level, for the dilemma which many Michigan school districts face. There seems to be unequal educational opportunity for students who live in a district which wants good schools, but has a booming school population, a moderate industrial base, and citizens who feel they are already taxed beyond their means and are unable to cope with higher property taxes necessary to support the schools. Other communities, industrially much richer, may have a smaller proportionate school population and are able to support good schools with much less burden to the property owners.

Several of the legislators participating in the discussion have particular interest in education. Representative Stempien is a member of the House Education Committee. Senator Robinson recently proposed legislation that would have the state levy a 23 mill tax for all residents to be used for education, eliminating the inequities that now exist as each community must meet its own needs by whatever methods it can.

The Livonia Citizens for Better Human Relations, like most other human relations groups, has in the past been concerned primarily with questions regarding racial equality. Increasingly, however, those interested in human relations realize how the complex interplay of forces in a community—political, cultural, educational, economic, etc.—all contribute to making a dynamic, enlightened community. An adequate progressive school system helps assure intelligent-fair-minded residents.

As one human relations spokesman stated recently, "We are concerned with justice, whether it be for the Negro or the school child." Within the past few weeks the Detroit Commission on Community Relations has publicly given support to the millage increase in Detroit taxes for educational purposes. At its March 27 meeting, the LCBHR passed a resolution supporting any millage increase necessary to maintain the current educational quality of Livonia schools, with the intent of studying "legislation that will create the greatest financial equality among all school districts in the State."

Although the panel discussion will begin at 9 p.m., all members of the LCBHR are asked to meet at 8:15 for an important business meeting.

Livonia Pioneer Dies at 84

Livonia lost one of its greatest boosters with the death of Thomas F. O'Connor, veteran real estate developer, during the past week.

The "Smiling Irishman" who conceived the idea of the "model home" in the development and sale of real estate, was a name to behold for more than three decades and he played a large part in the transition of Livonia from a township to a city in the early days of incorporation.

He served as a member of the Mayor's Committee during the regime of Jesse Zeigler, Livonia's first mayor, and was largely responsible for the growth of the eastern sections of the city, in the area of Six Mile and Inkster Road.

Born of immigrant parents on June 4, 1882, he was forced to go to work early in his youth and at the age of 17 he already graduated to the rank of a foreman with the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co. He helped assemble the first Cadillac automobile and made many trial runs with it around the Grand Boulevard area in Detroit.

This type of work was not for him. With "a gift of gab" inherent in most Irishmen, he sought other fields and in 1916 joined the Frischkorn Real Estate Company and quickly rose to the office of Vice President and Sales Manager. In this role he helped develop the area on Plymouth Road near Rouge Park and it was then that he conceived the idea of the "model" home.

He attempted to retire in 1932 at the age of 50, but his keen mind and ambitious spirit would have none of the life of ease. In 1937 he turned to real estate and his foresight took him to Livonia where he became known as the "Little Farm Specialist."

One of the real boosters for incorporation of Livonia he took an active part in the civic life of the young city. He was one of the original members of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and offered a helping hand to any civic venture until his final retirement in 1955.

He is survived by his widow,

Leola, whom he married 47 years ago, and who resides at the family home, 30145 West Seven Mile Road, Livonia.

Interment was made in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Licenses Revoked

The driving license of Louis R. Walter, 21, of 34930 Munger, Livonia, has been revoked by the Michigan Department of State because of an unsatisfactory driving record.

Thomas A. Miller, 21, of 9837 Woodring, Livonia, had his license suspended for the same reason until August 19.

Rules Do Apply to Politics

We're happy to see that the incorporation campaign is picking up its pace in Farmington Township.

We aren't happy to see some of the tactics and attitudes, however.

Three fast examples:

● The fact that the Holly Hills Farms Civic Association scheduled a discussion on the matter, but neglected to invite any of the proponents of the issue. Representatives of the Committee for the Preservation of Farmington Township, Inc. reportedly made their points and added to their sum score. Why not hear both sides of the question?

● The fact that representatives of the Committee refused to speak at the Briar Hills Civic Association on the theory that there would be many open meetings on the subject.

● The fact that the Vote No on incorporation signs carries the slogan "Save Our Schools."

We don't like the innuendos from both sides that financial gain is the only reason for the other side's position, either. If they think this is so, then prove it.

Holly Hills doesn't deserve any bouquets for its handling of the discussion. But why would the committee consent to speak to that group and not to the residents of Briar Hills? Don't both have an equally important interest and stake in the election?

As for the "Save Our Schools" slogan it must be pointed out again that the Farmington School District is completely separate from the local government units. Its finances and elections are separate.

In addition to that the school district includes the City, part of the Township (excepting the southeastern corner), and a portion of West Bloomfield. So whether or not Farmington Township is incorporated into a home rule city is academic as far as affecting the schools.

We know that the answer to this is "That's politics." We don't agree.

SUE SHAUGHNESSY

Public Property, Keep Out!

Who owns public records?
The public, naturally.

Does a hired superintendent, city manager, township supervisor, or mayor own certain records?

Yes, if they pay for them out of their own pockets.

Does the city council, the township board, or the school board own certain records?

Yes, if board members pay for them with their own funds.

Do citizens own public records?

Yes, if they pay for them out of their own pockets which they do through their taxes.

These questions are raised because there is a strong tendency for public agencies to consider many public documents not available for public scrutiny.

Two examples of this have shown up in the past several weeks.

Supt. Ben Yates of the Livonia Public Schools refused to supply a copy of a legal opinion prepared for the school district by the school's attorney.

Did Yates pay for this opinion himself? Did the school board?

In Redford Township, the board obtained an appraisal of a site it wants to sell. Supervisor Jack H. McDonald declared the appraisal would not be made public and his board concurred by maintaining silence.

Did McDonald, himself, pay for this appraisal? Did each trustee pay for this appraisal?

In both of these cases, you and I, Mr. Taxpayer of Suburbia, paid for these documents.

When our present officials and boards leave their posts, we trust they will leave these records, entrusted to their care, for their successors.

Any documents acquired with public funds should remain in the files.

This is what happens to records of births, deaths, marriages, transfers of deeds, court decisions. They are open for inspection by any citizen who wants to see them, except for a few that may be kept sealed by court order.

Whenever public officials try to hold back public records, aggrieved citizens should make a large outcry against such practices.

And that is the purpose of this bit of writing: one big squawk!

Please take heed, all public servants.

Win or Lose—Thanks

Editor:

Regardless of the outcome of Monday's balloting, I want to offer my sincere thanks for the tremendous job The Nankin Observer Editor, Emory Daniels, did in helping to inform the voters.

I thought your series on the charter made complicated and misunderstood provisions much more meaningful to your readers. Your editorial reasoning in supporting a "yes" vote was sound and very much to the point.

Thank you again for all your extra effort.

The Reader Speaks Up: Points for Incorporation

Editor:

Several, probably well-meaning but, nevertheless, misguided individuals have recently formed a propaganda organization called the "Committee for the Preservation of Farmington Township, Inc.," which somehow immediately found enough money to print and circulate letters to the residents of Farmington Township attempting to scare them away from voting in favor of considering becoming a home rule city.

These people are misguided by two officers and one director who are probably concerned about losing income from jobs that they, or their spouses hold with two villages that are included in the incorporation movement. Is it little wonder then why these scare tactics are being used? Is it any wonder that in this propaganda letter they stated, and I quote:

"Unlike the promoters of incorporation we will not pretend to be objective. We stand to lose too much."

I think it is time that these people are unmasked and some very basic truths are made known so that the people of Farmington Township can decide the issue of home rule intelligently, and without the scare tactics, (such as—"look what happened to taxes in Livonia when they incorporated"—type of false reasoning).

First of all, these are basic facts about incorporation.

1. If the vote is "YES" for incorporation, this does not mean that a city is formed. It only means that the charter commission members, (who are elected at the same time), draft a charter and present it to the people for approval. A city is not formed until a charter is approved by a majority vote of the people at another election.

2. Tax limitations must be included in any city charter. This means that all the people will have the right to say what the tax limit will be in any new city.

3. The charter can also limit the amount and type of services that the city can give and can be drafted to preserve the rural type atmosphere which has brought, and is continually attracting high class people, businesses and light industry to our area.

4. Only a city can protect its territory from being grabbed piecemeal by other cities, or from being cut up from within by small special interest groups. When an area is not a city, only the people who live in the area to be annexed or incorporated get to vote on that question. When it is a city, all the people must vote their approval.

One of the members of this committee, (David Mills), has been publicly misleading our citizenry by claiming that people in the Township have voted against annexation to the City of Farmington "at every such annexation election in the past." The truth is that two of four such elections have succeeded, and the last one that failed, (November 1965), did so by only 25 votes.

Even the title of this group, the "Committee for the Preservation of Farmington Township, Inc." is most misleading. There are only two things that voting against a home rule city can preserve—they are:

1. The vulnerability of our area to becoming another Nankin Township where surrounding tax producing industrial areas have absorbed the good and left it looking like a gerrymandered fugitive from the poor house.

2. The vulnerability of our area to becoming another Royal Oak Township where total incorporation failed and then small incorporations resulted in a hodge podge of nine small cities with inefficient duplicating services and unmanageable problems of zoning, water, police and fire protection, sewers, drainage and, most recently, expressway construction.

There are some who might say that referring to these two disastrous examples of failure to timely incorporate is also a scare tactic; however, I hasten to point out again that a "YES" vote is not in fact an incorporation vote, it is only a vote to permit the charter commission to present a charter to the people for their approval. Until a charter is approved, there is no city.

An understanding of the foregoing will readily cause the objective thinking person to realize that the way to intelligently decide whether or not to become a home rule city is to vote "YES" so that such a commission may draft a proposed charter and submit it to all the people for approval.

In view of the true facts governing home rule procedure, it is inescapable that such a person does not stop there however. He must, at the same time that he votes "YES", elect nine charter commissioners who will draft the kind of a charter which will preserve Farmington Township as the high-class, rural-type atmosphere community which attracted us here in the first place. Only by studying a charter, which has been drafted and presented, can a person honestly and intelligently decide whether a city will best preserve our community as we want it.

If the people who formed this committee to "preserve" the township were really interested in preserving the quality of the area and lower taxes that we enjoy, (and can continue to enjoy only if we protect our boundaries), if they were not interested in only preserving their own income and other special interests, they would be using their seemingly well-financed organization to obtain a "YES" vote for incorporation, and to elect the kind of experienced civic-minded and forward-looking charter commissioners that can truly preserve our community. I sincerely hope that the well-intentioned members of this committee will review their position and objectively determine what action true preservation of our community really requires. If they do this, I am sure they can come to only one conclusion and will then direct their energies to see that a "YES" vote is obtained, and that good, qualified charter commissioners are elected who will draft a charter which will not only preserve our boundaries, but also preserve the high quality of the area in which we live. We must have a charter commissioners who are dedicated to preserving our tax base, our master plans for zoning, water, sewers, drainage, police and fire protection, and the rural atmosphere we enjoy.

A vote for incorporation will give us the opportunity to draft a charter which can then be either accepted or rejected by the people. A vote against incorporation will, however, be a signal to adjoining cities to grab for our best areas and for special interest groups to incorporate such areas and leave the other areas to swim for themselves. Since state law prevents either of these from happening while a charter is being drafted, how can a "YES" vote possibly hurt preservation of boundaries. All that it will do is give us time to decide the issue of incorporation fairly, honestly and objectively.

In summation, we should all realize that the way to truly preserve the things we enjoy in Farmington Township requires active participation to see that all of the following matters are accomplished, and without fail:

1. Vote "YES" for home rule (incorporation).

2. At the same election, (June 6, 1966), elect charter commissioners who are experienced, proven, qualified and dedicated to preserve the high qualities of our area, our tax base and our rural atmosphere. Learn who these people are and support them.

3. When the charter is presented to all the people for a vote, approve only a charter which will preserve our community as we want it, and place a reasonable limit on our tax base.

4. Elect city officials who will continue to maintain and improve the high qualities of our community.

All of these things have to be done to truly unite and preserve our community. People who honestly want to do this should direct their efforts to accomplishing all of these things. Our community cannot be preserved or developed the way we want it unless we first protect our boundaries and then with deliberate thought, study, and dedication follow through to see that within those boundaries we develop the community which I am sure practically all of us really want. If we do look at this issue objectively, and not out of self interest, we can all accomplish that result. I believe that the majority of the people on the "preservation" committee have been innocently misled on the procedure of how to obtain this result. I urge them to reconsider. I hope they have not gone too far out on the limb to gracefully climb back and direct their energies in the right way to our common goal.

Let's unite Farmington Township, including the beautiful villages of Quakertown and Wood Creek Farms, into one protected city so that we can together build for the future. Let's not be misled into fearing a change in form of government so much that we miss the opportunity that we now have to make "Farmington Hills" the envy of some of our neighbors who failed in one or more of the steps that we must take without hesitation, and with intelligence and unselfish purpose.

Student's Plea

Editor:

In regard to the proposed millage increase, I would like to take the opportunity to express my opinions as a student interested in higher education. A five mill increase would permit us, and future students, to keep the present high standard of education we have in Livonia.

The defeat would mean half days for elementary schools, no drivers' education, no summer school, no sponsored activities for any child from high school to elementary.

I would like to point out that if a child has to walk to school isn't that dangerous? Isn't it worth a few dollars to prevent the loss of one life?

JAN DRISCOLL
Livonia

Observing the Scene...

By MYRA CHANDLER

Never in the history of a school election have so many high-powered groups been behind an increase in school millage. The Livonia Chamber of Commerce, City Council, Human Relations Council, League of Women Voters—have all passed resolutions acknowledging the fact to continue properly educating Livonia School District's 30,145 kids, an additional five mills is needed now.

All of these groups—and more. But what about the parents? I have had more arguments with friends who are parents and are against the millage. They don't want to pay any more taxes—not another cent, let alone 35 or 40 dollars a year—no matter how many in their family.

There is one active couple I know—intelligent, interested in their community, with two bright young children. They have fly-specked the budget right out the window.

They want the school district to get along on the money it has, regardless of what has to be cut—and they are highly suspicious about careless spending—but without fact. One thing they do not want is to be repudiated with facts.

The hard fact is they have two children the law says they must educate and it costs money to do it.

My sympathy is with them in the fact they are young, are broke, want vacations, maintain two cars, have a nice home and garden, want to go out to dinner, enjoy nice clothes and position in the community. All of this costs money—but the responsibility of educating their child is an obligation—real—like time and tide.

The time has come for legislators in Lansing to face the crisis that is upon us in the suburbs—stop playing expedient politics and support some revised ways of earning school money—fiscal reform.

The only legislator to come up with a concrete plan is Senator William Robinson from Dearborn. He has received little support for his 23 dollars over the State tax bill. So it may not be the key to the gate of heaven—but just who in Lansing has suggested anything lately for relief—not one. Personally I think Senator Robinson should be commended, particularly in view of the fact his own district would be one that would be paying more than they do now. But he saw the problem and tried to do something about it.

The Human Relations Council in Livonia is sponsoring a panel this Sunday night at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church at 9 p.m. with legislators to discuss a change in taxation in Lansing and what the prospect may be. It should be an interesting place to ask questions. Besides Senator Robinson, Representative Marvin Stempfen from Livonia and State Representative Raymond Baker from Farmington will be present.

In addition to tax reform, it behooves all school boards in the suburban area to think about changing their way of life. It doesn't say anything in the Bible or in the Constitution of the United States that schools can't continue on a 12 months basis—it doesn't say schools can't be run on a 15 hour swing shift day—WE MUST USE OUR SCHOOLS MORE EFFECTIVELY. People with young families might jump on this band wagon and help change the habits of the old thinking. They can do it.

Tribute should be paid this week to the most unique endorsement ever to come down the pike. When the businessmen of the City of Livonia—most of whom do not live there to reap the benefits, but do pay taxes—when these men, through their Chamber of Commerce, say we need the additional five mills—this is a miracle.

This must call for recognition.

Remember they are not looking at 40 dollars a year like most of us, but thousands of dollars. Their feeling is summed up in part of their statement: "We cannot as (business) citizens refuse to accept the responsibility for maintaining the level of service required by the only means currently at our disposal. We must provide the means to maintain this service in the community."

Can we as parents do less?

Let's Get Going With I-96

Editor:

After reviewing the Observer's news article concerning the proposed I-96 Freeway route, I've concluded that we stop haggling and proceed with the State Highway Department's recommendation to route the Freeway along the eastern boundary of Schoolcraft College.

This route will cost $6.5 million less, will not affect Schoolcraft's present plant, and allows the college to proceed with its planned expansion program.

The City's argument that the freeway route, east of the college campus, would separate a portion of the city, seems picayune. Does the same argument hold true for the freeway's east-west route which separates the northern and southern portions of the city? Actually, Hines Drive which is similar, also dismembers a portion of Livonia with no adverse effects, that I am aware of.

Our city officials also suggest it is a disadvantage having the proposed route going through a future development of custom-built homes. On the contrary, this appears to be a blessing. It provides some of the "open space" that so many of our recent candidates advocated.

Perhaps additional letters from Livonia citizens, or a poll taken by this newspaper, would provide our Mayor and Councilmen with some further direction in this matter.

J. LEVINE
Livonia

Ed. Note: Will take a poll in next week's issue.

ST. AGATHA ACCENTS

Ballet Sparks 'Kings'

BY MARY LOU MANGOLD
One of the most spectacular scenes in the St. Agatha production of The King and I is the ballet "The Small House of Uncle Thomas."

Cathy Boyle portrays the miserable slave Eliza, who flees from her master, King Simon of Legree, with the aid of Buddha's angel, Timothy Rourke. Simon, James Sweeney, and his guards, Arthur Michelini and Douglas Behrend, pursue Eliza, but she escapes by Buddha's miracles, snow and ice, and the king drowns.

On her journey Eliza also meets a rainstorm (personified by Karen Sova), forest (Sharon Hall and Peggy Griffin) and sun (Denise Allgeyer). Upon reaching the happy kingdom of Canada, Eliza comes to a small house inhabited by Uncle Thomas (Douglas Behrend), Topsy (Donna Kovarik), Little Eva (Marilyn Forrest) and Eliza's lover George (Nancy Berger).

The tale ends on a sad note however, for Buddha in return for his favor, requires a sacrifice and sends his angel to carry off poor Eva to heaven.

The narration is presented by Christine Olinzock aided by the choral speaking of Paula Dow, Maureen Oyer, Deborah Voskuhl, Linda Urban, Colleen Kelly, Colette Beausoliel, Colleen Brazzil, Kathleen Burgur, and Suzanne Falke.

WINNERS, of the district eliminations of the annual Michigan High School Forensics Spring Festival several weeks ago at St. Agatha's competed April 20, in the regional contest at Wayne State University.

Representing St. Agatha's were Susan Behrend and Jessie Garden (serious prose), Ruth Brown (radio commentary), Paula Dow (declamation), Thomas Flamboe (humorous prose) and Edward Gille (extemporaneous speaking). Ruth took second place and will compete in the state finals at the University of Michigan next Saturday.

The Latin I and II classes have extended an invitation to attend the Roman banquet to all juniors and seniors who are enrolled in the Junior Classical League. Admission to the banquet on May 3 is $1.50.

The "Centaur Post"

A column that will appear every week and then in this space to let you know what's going on at Centaur Farm Stables.

DRESSAGE

Do you know what it means? "Dressage" is the execution by a horse of complex maneuvers in response to barely perceptible movements of a rider's hands, legs and weight.

ROBERT N. HALL, ESQ.

If you belong to the equestrian group to whom dressage means something, or if you would like to learn more about it, plan right now to attend the Dressage Clinic at Centaur Farm Stables, 5600 Drake Road at the crossroads with Walnut Lake Road, in West Bloomfield Township, April 29th and 30th.

"Star" of the Clinic will be noted dressage specialist Robert N. Hall, guest instructor and lecturer, from Buckinghamshire, England. Founder of the internationally famous Fulmer School of Equestrianism in Fulmer, Buckinghamshire, Mr. Hall is such a specialist in dressage that many top professional trainers and instructors go to him. He has given courses all over England, both live and on TV, as well as in Rhodesia and Ireland, and following his spring trip to America he will go to Australia for the summer.

THE SPANISH RIDING SCHOOL

Robert N. Hall became most interested in dressage when he attended The Spanish Riding School in Austria. Walt Disney made the school familiar to millions with his film "The Flight of the White Stallions" which told how the war dislocated the school from Vienna. After the war, Mr. Hall was able to attend the school because it had not yet returned to Vienna and was accepting a few paying students while its chief source of income, that of demonstrations, was stopped. In spite of the fact he had been riding, teaching and training horses for some 25 years, Robert Hall says that not until he attended this school did he feel he was "riding" a horse instead of just sitting on one. When he returned to Fulmer from Austria, he brought with him his famous Lippizaner stallion, named Converso Caprice, which has been ridden by Mrs. Hall with great success in many leading dressage contests, including winning the Hamburg Dressage Derby in 1965.

Robert N. Hall's appearances at Centaur Farm Stables are the only ones he'll make in or near Michigan. He will give a Dressage Demonstration and Lecture at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, April 29th and on Saturday, April 30th. Tickets are $5 each. He will also hold a special Dressage Clinic for Juniors from 10:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday, April 30th, with tickets priced at $3 each. Tickets are available at Centaur.

Keep an eye on this space regularly. We'll be back again soon with some more news from Centaur.

The In-Come Dance, co-sponsored by the Exchange Club and the Senior Class, was held on April 15. There was a large turnout for the dance, open to NF, Farmington, and Sorrows students, which featured a "Battle of the Bands."

Petitions have been turned in and campaigns for the Student Council elections, to be held on the 28th, are underway.

On April 20, forty NF students, supervised by Miss Patricia Moore and Bill Bupp, attended a performance of Shaw's "St. Joan" at the Hillberry Classic Theater.

The cafeteria was the scene of the annual Latin Club Banquet last Thursday evening.

12 Delegates Chosen

By MADGE HILDEBRANDT

Twelve Farmington Senior High juniors were selected to attend the democracy conferences sponsored by the American Legion. There are two week-long conferences held in the summer, one for boys at Michigan State University and the other for girls at the University of Michigan.

Craig Anderson, Bob Charles, George Grimala, and Jim Hosler were delegated to attend Boys' State, the MSU convention. Alternates are Rale Casper, Gerf Dunn, John Kent, and Jerry Tinkle.

Two girls, Peg Brown and Terry Osborne were chosen to represent FHS at Girls' State. Their alternates are Carol Cox and Ann Scott.

Girls' and Boys' State will be held in mid-June this year. Twelve hundred boys and 463 girls will attend the conventions. They will be divided into cities, two of which will comprise a county. The delegates, divided into two political parties, the Federalists and the Nationalists, will elect city, county, and state officials. Activities will also include attending lectures by various governmental officials and those associated with public office.

Contemporary American plays are the current topic of study in Mrs. Carolyn Wilk's fourth and fifth hour English III classes.

To begin the students' drama study, Mrs. Anita Crust, also an FHS English teacher, was asked to offer stage tips and other comments concerning the production of Thornton Wilder's

"Our Town." Following this introduction to the American Theater, the students read three or four plays of their choice.

Five plays, "Green Pastures," "Mr. Roberts," "Mrs. McThing," "The Miracle Worker," and "The Matchmaker," were chosen by pupils for dramatization. A scene from each will be presented to the two classes.

Lady of Mercy

Latin Holds Spotlight

BY LINDA OEHLE

Commemorating the Latin language, students and faculty participated in Latin week, April 18-22.

Latin students made posters and projects, and each corridor of the school was temporarily named a Latin road.

Among the projects created by the students was a Roman litter, standing over five feet tall. A canopy or red silk covered the litter which was cushioned in gold.

A 30-square foot map of the wanderings of Aeneas, legendary Greek hero and founder of Rome, was made by Latin III students.

Latin students also voted on colors, insignia and name for their club.

Olive green and baby blue were decided on for the colors and the name Scholasticae Linguae Latinae, Scholars of a Latin Language, was chosen.

An Ionic column is the main feature of the new insignia. Imposed upon the column is a laurel wreath, through which a key passes.

OUR LADY OF MERCY received the French Trophy for the highest achievements in contests in a modern language festival at Mercy College of Detroit April 16.

Competing in the reading competition for French I students, Junior Mary Stassen placed first. Junior Anne Pattenew placed first in speaking competition for French I students.

$30 Million Order Keeps Evans Plant Booming

An order for $30 million, largest in the company's history, has been received by Evans Products Company's United States Railway Equipment subsidiary in Chicago from the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and the Denver and Rio Grande Railroads.

That was the announcement Monday by company officials who stated the order is for new and reconditioned freight cars. More than half of the new cars will be built at the Plymouth car-building facility and the remainder at the United States Railway Equipment's Blue Island, Ill. plant.

The $30 million lease orders include 1,400 new cars, 1,550 reconditioned cars and 25 cabooses. The Katy order includes 800 new 79-ton box cars, 600 of these are 50-foot and 200 are 60-foot in length. Of these 225 will be equipped with Evans DF Loader damage-prevention devices; 225 will be equipped with Evans DFB bulkhead bracing device. All of the 800 cars will be equipped with Evans-Superior freight car doors, Evans-Creco brake beams and Hydra-Cushion shock-absorbing under-frame. The Katy order also includes 600 open top hopper cars, 100-ton capacity with roller bearings and Evans-Creco brake beams and 600 reconditioned box cars also to be leased to MKT.

Delivery of the leased cars is to start in May on the D&RGW and the CB&Q cars. Delivery of the new cars will start in the latter part of the year. The new car order is expected to keep the Plymouth Railway Equipment Division at peak employment for several months — officials there expect to manufacture more than half of the new cars. At the same time, the division management announced that it has added to its line of DFB adjustable bulkheads a non-rotating version which moves back and forth inside a freight car but, unlike other bulkheads in the Evans DFB line, does not swivel.

The new, non-pivoting bulkhead remains parallel to the face of the lading at all times. The locking pins and operating handle of the device are always under tension, assuring positive locking when the operator releases the handle. The bulkhead thus is always in a locked position when not being operated.

Aside from the non-pivoting feature, Evans says the new bulkhead is similar to the standard DFB bulkhead and that it has all of its features, including one-man operation, comparatively few working parts which makes for easy maintenance, one-lever operation which helps speed loading, and positive locking at four points to prevent shifting of the lading and possible damage in transit.

Red Cross Offers Youth Job Chances

Have you always wanted a job that was just a little bit different? A job that offers a sense of accomplishment, an opportunity to travel and a chance of a life-long career? Then according to T. H. Hoffman, Southeastern Michigan Chapter manager, the Red Cross may have the answer for you.

Here are the basic qualifications outlined by Hoffman; ability to work with people, willingness to serve anywhere in the world, good health, and a college education, preferably with major study in the social sciences. The foregoing apply to both men and women applicants for positions as welfare workers assigned to work with armed forces personnel wherever they may be stationed, but the first assignment is in the United States.

The Red Cross is also interested, Hoffman said, in young, single women who are college graduates, or graduating students, who have aptitudes for music, art, recreation, entertainment or handicrafts. Such young women may qualify for an immediate assignment to Korea to serve as recreation workers in the clubmobile program, or to work in military hospitals where they are stationed first in this country before transfer overseas.

Young men and women selected for positions with the Red Cross are eligible for participation in a retirement program, group insurance, Social Security and annual and sick leave benefits. In addition, those serving overseas receive quarters and maintenance allowances.

After the completion of one year of satisfactory service, employees may qualify for an educational incentive plan which provides further professional education and training for advancement and/or transfer to other branches of Red Cross services.

A recruiting team will be available for interviews May 9 and 10 at 153 E. Elizabeth St., Detroit. For an appointment and further information call Southeastern Michigan Chapter, 961-3900.

Senate Bill To Control Cemeteries

The State Senate has taken action to place all cemeteries in Michigan under the supervision of a state cemetery commission and to insure the stability of "perpetual care funds."

The bills that were adopted in the Senate and sent to the House of Representatives, were introduced by Senate Majority Leader Raymond D. Dziedzic, (D-Detroit).

Dziedzic is also Chairman of the Senate Corporations Committee which conducted a lengthy investigation of Brookdale Cemetery in Livonia, last year. Certain phases of the investigation are still pending.

Dziedzic said the facts revealed during the Brookdale investigation "clearly demonstrated the necessity for strict regulations governing cemetery operations in Michigan."

Many other cemeteries have been operating in a legal vacuum, as well as Brookdale. The legislation that has just been adopted by the Senate will close that vacuum and insure the observance of the public trust in cemeteries.

The Cemetery Commission would be composed of seven members, to be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, and would be responsible for promulgating rules and regulations, licensing all cemeteries except those operated under the auspices of a religious organization, license all cemetery lot salesmen, and conduct annual inspections of all cemeteries.

The operating expenses of the Commission would be paid for with the inspection fees to be paid by the cemeteries. Other legislation increases the amount of money to be placed into the cemetery perpetual care fund, from 10 per cent of the grave sales price, to 15 per cent, and requires cemeteries to file annual reports with the state.

Driver Safety State Records

LANSING — Monthly and quarterly records for driver improvement work were shattered by the Michigan Department of State through the first quarter of 1966.

Secretary of State James M. Hare reported that 6,385 hearings held in March represented the largest single month's work in LI history. It sparked the three-month totals to 13,982, a new quarterly high.

Actions taken against errant drivers in cancellations, revocations, point suspensions, and other restrictions were also at a record level. Hare reported, The 4,267 such actions taken in March shot the quarterly total up to 9,721, still another peak level.

While "tougher" enforcement was the single more important factor stimulating increased actions under the Michigan point system, mandatory suspensions resulting from accidents and unsatisfied judgments swept to a three-year high total of 4,929 for the first quarter of 1966.

March figures in this area were 1,877, the highest monthly totals since September of last year.

Can't Keep 'Em Down on Farm

LANSING — "How 'ya gonna keep 'em down on the farm" is the way the old refrain starts out. And if motor vehicle registrations are any indication, the answer is . . . you aren't.

In 1965, a total of 38,267 farm vehicles were registered, Secretary of State James M. Hare said, a downward trend of more than 500 from 1964 totals. But even more startling is that in 1953 . . . only 12 years before . . . a record 78,161 farm vehicles were registered in Michigan.

Just Chattin'

Battle between Jerry and Soapy for Senate nomination reminder of real old fashioned donny-brooks.

by W. W. Edgar

It's been a long time since Michigan had a real old-fashioned slam-bang election campaign in which no holds were barred and one in which the rival candidates reached the oratorical and emotional heights.

But, from all appearances, G. Mennan (Soapy) Williams and Jerry Cavanagh, the youthful Detroit Mayor, will make up for lost time when they get down to real campaigning in their battle for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

The voters were given an idea of what will happen when Cavanagh demanded that Williams' picture be taken off the ballot and "Soapy" countered with the request that the Detroit mayor resign in all fairness to the people who just recently elected him to another four year term. Williams let it be known that Cavanagh stated during the Detroit campaign that he had no lofty ambition other than being a good mayor.

Before the primary campaign ends on August 2 it is a safe bet that the air will be filled with charges and counter-charges the like of which the voters haven't heard for a long time. And you can be just as certain that every political trick in the book will be employed by both sides.

It is no secret that "Soapy" was the "darling" of the unions during his 12-year reign as Michigan's governor. It also is true that these same unions played a major role in getting Cavanagh elected to the Detroit's mayor's chair. And it is no secret that these unions urged Cavanagh to make a bid for the state governorship against George Romney instead of battling Williams.

When this happened Cavanagh set the pace for the campaign when he refused the unions and stated that he was interested in the senate seat regardless of what the unions wanted.

This one statement gave evidence that Cavanagh intended to fight even his old pals—if it became necessary.

The Williams-Cavanagh battle will inject some real interest into the campaign and live up to what has become, for the most part, dull, uninteresting campaigns for public office.

With Jerry and "Soapy" going at it, hammer and tongs, it will be a reminder of the knock down, drag-out affairs they used to have back in the hard coal regions of Pennsylvania, back in my old home town.

I recall a campaign in the early 20's when a fellow named "Butch" McDevitt, whom no one ever had heard of, ran for the office of sheriff. And he conducted a campaign that was a charm for simplicity.

In those days most of the campaigning consisted of visiting the various beer saloons and buying the boys a drink. This is just what McDevitt did — but with a new twist.

He visited the saloons and talked with these hard working coal miners. When he finished speaking he would pass out the cards of his opponent and walk out.

"Why that cheap so-and-so," they'd chant. We won't vote for him. And they didn't.

As a result of the trick McDevitt was swept into office as sheriff—an office not very high on the totem pole. But that didn't bother "Butch" McDevitt. He made the folks sit up and take notice.

The zenith of his career came when he had a statue made of himself and then chartered a special train to take the statue and a number of friends to Washington where he hoped to have the statue erected to his memory.

You can imagine what happened. Washington had never seen anything like this—before or since. McDevitt and his statue were asked to leave the nation's capital—and quick.

The statute now is standing somewhere in the coal regions as a tribute to a man who out-tricked his rival with his own campaign cards to gain public office.

But the one campaign I never will forget was for the office of county clerk back in the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

On the eve of the election the rival candidates met at the same rally and the challenger made a plea that the incumbent had been in office long enough and that it was time for a change.

When the incumbent, a real Dutchman named Harry Cange-ware, got his chance to speak he rose to emotional heights and closed with this never to be forgotten remark:

"There is no substitute for experience—not even honesty." He didn't win, but we had a lot of fun.

Farmington Vaulters Shoots to Eclipse 14-Foot Mark

A 14-foot effort by star Farmington High School pole vaulter Ron Shortt appears to be in the very immediate offing.

Shortt set a new school record of 13 feet, six inches in the Mansfield (Ohio) relays and just missed clearing the bar at 14 feet, two inches.

The old school mark held by Shortt had stood at 13 feet, three inches.

"Ron is a cinch to make 14 feet one of these days soon," declared Farmington coach Doug Race.

"Just wait for a nice day to come. Ron will hit the mark."

Farmington won over Berkley, 58½-51½, in its only dual-meet action last week.

Shortt won his "pet" event in 13 feet. The other winners for Farmington:

100-yard dash — Chris Brown. Time: 10.4 seconds.
440-yard dash — Joe Watson. Time: 51.5 seconds.
880-yard run — Don Shires. Time: 2:07.

BUT ROCKS LOSE TRACK DEBUT

Bentley, RU Triumph

Bentley and Redford Union jumped off to winning starts last Friday in Suburban Six League dual-meet track action, but Plymouth was nipped in a thriller against Allen Park.

Bentley showed plenty of strength and power in ripping apart Trenton, 79-30, two days after the Livonians had edged Inkster Robichaud, 56-53, in a non-leaguer.

Redford Union swept past Belleville, 65-44. However, Plymouth fell just a trifle short in falling before Allen Park, 55-53½.

Ken Jackson with victories in both the hurdles and Doug

Thomas with triumphs in the two dashes along with carrying the baton on the anchor leg of the winning 880-yard relay started for Bentley against Trenton.

The Livonians emerged with victories in 11 of the events.

Jackson also scored wins in both hurdles against Robichaud as Frank Miller of Bentley fired the shot put to a new school record. Miller unloaded a toss of 51 feet, 8½ inches, to erase the old school standard of 50 feet, 4 inches.

Charles Fifeled scored the only double victory for Redford Union as he took the high and the low hurdles. The Townships placed first in nine events.

Allen Park had to wait until the second last race—the 220-yard dash—to clinch its win over Plymouth. The Parkers finished one-three in the dash to pile up a lead the Rocks couldn't erase.

The winners for the area schools:

Franklin Streak Ends in Baseball

The bubble had to break.

After winning 19 straight in baseball, Franklin High School came to the end of the victory trail last Thursday when belted by Dearborn Edsel Ford, 6-1.

The next afternoon Franklin lost again, this time to Wayne High, 3-2.

Coach John Hartsig had no alibis.

"We were just out hit," said Hartsig whose 1965 team lost its first two, then won 17 in a row. This year Franklin won its first two before running into Edsel Ford.

Against Ford, Franklin made only four hits. Two came in the fourth inning when Rom Ross doubled and Bruce Berger singled for the Livonians' lone run. Gary Birkett and Dave Kosteva each picked up singles for the losers.

Fred Davies hurled the route for the Franklin team and was tagged for the six Ford runs.

In the Wayne game, single runs in the second, third and sixth innings decided the contest.

Franklin got both its runs in the fourth when Steve Atkinson was safe on an error. He was forced by Tom Moersch after which Dave Paden was safe on an error. Kosteva singled in Moersch and Birkett walked to load the bases.

A sacrifice fly by Dave Stott admitted Paden, but Franklin could score no more although loading the sacks again in the sixth.

Franklin was to begin the defense of its Northwest Suburban League title this week.

Meantime, Bentley high and Stevenson, both idle last week, were to plunge back into action. Bentley will be going after honors in the Suburban Six League.

Late Rush Nets West Track Win

A sweep in the low hurdles, a victory in the 220-yard dash and a win in the mile relay—the final three events of the meet—enabled Garden City West to down Schafer, 61-48, in a Tri-Rivers League dual track encounter.

Bill Murphy led the West sweep in the low hurdles, while Mike Alexander copped the 220-yard sprint. Chuck Sullivan, Larry Sharp, Mark McGrath and Mike Sinta combined to win for West in the mile relay.

The West 880-yard relay of Chris Brown, Ron Wolf, Bill Fodor and Alexander also turned in a fine victory.

Mike Taft won the high jump, Jim Robertson the high hurdles, Wolff the quarter-mile and Sullivan the pole vault to wrap up the meet for the West team.

Garden City East, meantime, proved no match for higher-powered Inkster as the latter team won, 74-35.

East engineered only three victories — Doug Norris in the mile, Lynn Thompson in the half-mile and Larry Grabowski in the pole vault.

Glenn Baseball Record Is Tied

A record for victories loomed this week for John Glenn High School's baseball team.

A year ago in the school's first crack at varsity competition, Glenn won seven and dropped 10.

This season, it took just two weeks to equal the 1965 victory output. In fact, it's possible that Glenn already may have scored victory No. 8 because of ineligible player used by an opponent.

Glenn, which won five games in as many days during the first week of the current campaign, made it six for six by clubbing Erie Mason, 13-2.

Nelson Ellison hurled for the victors and allowed only one hit. John Wood lashed out three hits — a double and two singles — and batted in three runs to lead the Glenn attack.

Then came the first defeat for Glenn, a 4-3 loss to Gibraltar Carlson. But Carlson officials have reported the use of an ineligible player and it's likely the game will have to be forfeited to Glenn.

Len Wells clubbed a triple and a single for Glenn while Ron Kinunen, who started the season with a no-hitter, was touched for six safeties in this time.

Glenn quickly rebounded to belt Huron, 7-1, behind a two-hit pitching effort by Mike McMaster. The Glenn team sewed up the game with four runs in the third inning on one hit — a single by Rick Snow.

Two walks, a fielder's choice, an error and a sacrifice helped swell the Glenn total.

Glenn's trackmen, meantime, went down to a pair of defeats. Groves of Birmingham crushed Glenn 73-36, in a dual meet.

Thurston Powerful On Track

The Thurston high school track team showed its power twice last week.

Coach Dan Bennett's forces rolled over Redford Union and Walled Lake in a triangular meet and then struck to beat Franklin in a Northwest League dual encounter.

Thurston chalked up 77½ points to RU's 30½ and Walled Lake's 28½. In the meet with Franklin, it was 64-45 in favor of the Townshippers.

Al Phillips was the big star for Thurston. In both meets, he came through with victories in the long jump and the high jump.

Another standout for Thurston was half-miler Bob Grimm who won in each meet. Against Franklin, Grimm nipped Dan Ryan in one of the fastest races in the state this year. Grimm was timed in 1:58.4, Ryan in 1:58.8.

John Saven of Franklin and Leonard Cyr also emerged as double victors in the dual meet. Saven copped the 100 and 220-yard dashes and anchored the winning 880-yard relay team. Cyr took the high and low hurdles.

The winners in the two meets:

Shot Put — Roger Steffen (T). Distance: 46 feet, 6 inches.
Long Jump — Al Phillips (T). Distance: 21 feet, 8½ inches.
High Jump — Phillips (T). Height: 6 feet, 2 inches.
880-Yard Relay — Thurston. Time: 1:37.
High Hurdles — Charles Fifeled (RU). Time: 16.8 seconds.
220-Yard Dash — Grimm (T). Time: 2:03.5.

THURSTON-FRANKLIN
Shot Put — Larry Nalfeh (F). Distance: 47 feet, 1 inch.
Pole Vault — Jim McGewen (T). Height: 11 feet, 3 inches.
Long Jump — Phillips (T). Distance: 20 feet, 2 inches.
High Jump — Phillips (T). Height: 5 feet, 10 inches.
880-Yard Relay — Franklin (Keith Isler, Gary Rogalski, Ross Richardson, John Saven). Time: 1:34.4.
Mile — Reg Naisol (F). Time: 4:52.8.

High Hurdles — Cyr (T). Time: 15.7 seconds.
880-Yard Relay — Grimm (T). Time: 1:34.4.
100-Yard Dash — Jerry Butler (T). Time: 53.4 seconds.
100-Yard Dash — Saven (F). Time: 1:01 seconds.
Low Hurdles — Cyr (T). Time: 20.7 seconds.
220-Yard Dash — Saven (F). Time: 2:04 seconds.
Mile Relay — Thurston (Vic Buchette, Neal Currie, Butler, Grimm). Time: 3:27.3.

Wayne State University tennis Coach Fred Mulhauser has a 12-year career coaching record of 87 wins and 48 losses at WSU.

OBSERVING SPORTS

By George Maskin

Any participant or follower of sports can tell stories about "Game Athletes."

We've all seen them . . . the badly beaten boxer who hangs on desperately to avert a knockout . . . the hockey player with 20 stitches who rushes back into the fracas . . . the sore-armed pitcher who defies pain to save the day for his team.

Heroes all . . . but in our book the gamest of all have to be the gents who stagger the 26 miles to reach the final barrier in the annual Boston Marathon race held each Patriot's Day in Beantown.

Over the years we have heard a lot about the Marathon. We never had a chance to fully appreciate the event until last week while we were in Boston to represent the Pistons at the National Basketball Association world series between the Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers.

The Marathon drew about as much attention as the Celtics-Lakers series and the appointment of Bill Russell as new coach of Boston to succeed the retiring Red Auerbach.

The day before the race we drove most of the "course" on our return trip from Worcester to Boston. It wasn't the easiest kind of a drive.

The road goes up and down and is full of curves. Not only must the marathoners contend with the road problems, they also have to duck the automobiles that keep whizzing along throughout the race.

The Japanese dominated the Marathon. They placed one-two-three-four before an American came storming across.

The leaders made splendid time. They shot past the finish mark in just over two hours and ten minutes.

We weren't there to see them cross the line, because we thought much more of trying to root the Tigers to a doubleheader sweep against the Red Sox in Fenway Park. Besides it was most comfortable occupying a spot next to Ernie Harwell and Gene Osborn.

When we decided that we had seen enough baseball, we headed back for the hotel which happened to be a block from where the Marathon concluded.

It was our thought that the runners all had completed their chores, since it was now almost two hours and a half after the first men had finished in the Marathon.

But we noted a crowd around the finish. Being nosey, we wandered over and found out that several starters still were out someplace.

"Here comes one," an old lady shouted. The runner, giving everything he had as if he were just dashing 100 yards, streaked to the last line.

There were a few hand claps.

Only Five Weekends Remain for Bowlers to Enter

1361 Leads Mixed Doubles Action, Scoring Soars

With five weeks remaining before the May 29 finale, interest in the fourth annual Observer Newspapers-Merrill Bowl Lanes mixed doubles tournament has soared to the greatest heights in history, especially since the $2,500 first prize and all major prizes are guaranteed. This was shown over the weekend when three duos fired 1300 counts, revising the list of leaders.

The team of Kerry Davis, of Highland Park, and Jim Owens, of Detroit, zoomed to the lead with a tremendous 1361, holding a 31 pin edge over the second place duo of Carmel and Vince Pedrie of Detroit.

Irene Eichman and Art Johnston, who fired the first fat score of 1309, had to be content with third place in the standings. A score of 1307 by Margaret McKnight, of Detroit, and Harry Gable, of Livonia, is now in the fourth spot.

With the 1300 counts coming in, Tournament Director Mac Goldman is looking forward to full squads during the remaining five weeks. Bowling is on Saturdays and Sundays with the final squad taking the lanes on May 29 at 11 p.m.

"We have plenty of openings every weekend for the remainder of the tourney," said Goldman. "But the choice times and dates are being grabbed and we urge all interested to get their entries in as soon as possible."

"Under this year's rules, individuals can only enter once, so we are looking for plenty of high scoring in the remaining time."

The entry fee of $10 covers the cost of bowling, prize money and expenses involved in scorers and other matters directly concerned with the tournament.

Trip East for 'Title':

Hail to Garden City West '9'

The baseball season hardly started, but already Garden City West has won a title.

West reigns as Garden City's public school champs after making it two straight over Garden City East, 6-1. The win followed on the heels of a 4-0 West triumph against East.

Dan Seiger was the hero for West in the second tussle of the Garden City series. Besides pitching a seven-hitter and fanning six, Seiger knocked out two hits in three trips to the plate and drove in three runs.

A four-run uprising in the fourth inning settled matters for West. Bo Ardell started the assault with a double. After Jerry Domanski was safe on a fielder's choice, Ben Shoemaker singled in a run. Then Terry Thompson was safe on an error, allowing another run to cash. Seiger followed with a two-run single.

The triumph over East sent West on its way to a 15-0 blasting off Southgate in its Tri Rivers League debut.

Ardell was the pitching hero as he allowed just one hit—a single in the fifth inning. He struck out ten and walked three.

West put the game out of reach in the third inning with four runs on hits by Ardell, Ford, Simpson and Domanski, along with two errors.

Then in the sixth inning, West added seven runs, helped along with three walks, a hit base-man, four hits and an error.

A triple by Gary Slade was the big hit of the inning. Slade along with Simpson each picked up two safeties in the game.

East rebounded from its loss to West to knock off Redford Union, 4-1, as Joe Huber turned in a five-hit masterpiece. He fanned 11 of the Township batters.

Huber also stroked a big bat. In the fourth inning he cleaned the bases with a double after Don Smith's single, George Dobozy doubled and Dave Ventura walked.

In the sixth, Dobozy singled across Dick Saylor, who had opened the inning with a single. Tom Booker hurled for the losers who notched their only run in the first inning when Jim Johnston walked, stole second and came around on

Fred Londo's single. Redford Union had started the week with a 2-1 decision over Thurston as Kevin Fox outthured Vic Pilar. Fox allowed five hits while Pilar fanned 10 and saw the winning run score on an error.

A triple by George Little and single by Londo produced RU's first run. Dick Becker leg singled and scored on two errors for RU's payoff tally.

Pilar singled in Bob Holmes with the lone Thurston run.

Thurston took the measure of Windsor's Assumption school, 3-2, on Friday as Bob Durand turned in a three-hitter and fanned nine.

Thurston tallied twice in the first inning on doubles by Bob Holmes and Paul Santangelo and a sacrifice fly by Pilar.

In the third inning, Santangelo singled, took second on a passed ball and scored on a single by Dan Harris.

Twin Double Cap Tops Hazel Park Program

The $25,000 added Twin Double Handicap will top an outstanding ten-race program Saturday, April 30, at the Hazel Park Race Track. Post for the first race is 2:10 p.m.

The Twin Double Handicap is open to three-year-olds and up at a distance of a mile and a sixteenth. The event is likely to bring out one of the classiest fields ever seen at Hazel Park for the quality of the stables on the grounds is higher than at any other time in the track's 18-year history.

In addition, an invasion of notable handicap horses from other tracks is expected to challenge the local favorites. The Twin Double Handicap is the first major event in an unprecedented schedule which offers approximately $750,000 this year for stakes, features and handicaps. This is the richest purse program of its kind in Michigan annals.

Racing will continue daily (except Sundays) through Saturday, July 30. According to present plans, 10 races will be offered on Saturdays and holidays and nine races on weekdays. Post parade on weekdays will begin at 3:20 p.m.

The Hazel Park Race Track will have the optional twin double this season. This is a variation of the form of wagering which proved so popular last year. Races included in the optional twin will be the fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth on weekdays, and the sixth, seventh, ninth and tenth on Saturdays and holidays.

A bettor will make his selections for the first two races of the twin. If both horses win, he has the option of cashing the ticket in at that point or of making the next two selections to complete the twin double.

The straight twin double, in operation at the track last year, produced some fantastic pay-offs.

The all-time record was set on July 5 when one fortunate handicapper cashed the lone valid twin-double ticket—which had cost him $2—for $103,987.20. The second highest return was $63,277.40 for a two-dollar investment on July 26.

Seek Class 'A' Teams

Managers of prospective Class A baseball teams are invited to call the Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation for information regarding the formation of a league under the Michigan Amateur Baseball Association specifications. Included are teams of the Greater Livonia area.

Raiders Whip Farmington, 6-4

Round one in the battle for the Farmington city prep baseball championship belongs to North Farmington.

With ace pitcher Chuck Viane checking in with a three-hitter, North Farmington registered a three-hitter, North Farmington registered a 6-4 verdict over Farmington last Friday.

The duo picked up 186 pins handicap to boost their aggregate to the 1361.

The Pedries made a gallant bid for the top spot but couldn't maintain their tremendous 438 opening game, dropping to 368 in the second and 382 in the third drove across Farmington's first run of the game in the second inning.

North Farmington's win followed on the heels of a 5-1 loss to Walled Lake in which Butler and Viane accounted for the Raiders' only two hits.

The lone North Farmington run was scored by Viane in the second inning when Norton dropped a neat, squeeze bunt.

A passed ball in the bottom of the seventh (and final) inning cost Farmington a 3-2 duel to Royal Oak Kimball.

Tim Patrick went the route for Farmington, giving up six hits and fanning four. He walked only two.

Both Farmington runs were scored in the third inning when Ed Rice tripled across Doug LeFevre, who had walked, and Patrick, who had singled.

St. Agatha Falls In Year's Debut

St. Agatha high's baseball team got off on the wrong foot under new coach Art Kohn last Friday in losing to Ann Arbor St. Thomas in a Catholic League game.

Our Lady of Sorrows was rained out of two games and will attempt to make up the washouts this week along with two regularly-scheduled tilts.

heading for home, came three more marathoners. One was a man in his 60's. Another in his 30's.

As the latter neared the finish, a boy of three broke loose from his mother and started to run stride by stride with the man at his side. It turned out to be his dad.

Mom, carrying an infant in her arms, rushed up to give dad a great big hug. Both smiled.

The popcorn man was enjoying a brisk business. He offered the only food for the starving faithful who stuck it out.

By now most of the police had departed. So had the marathon officials.

Other stragglers came puffing down the street.

Darkness was falling over Boston and with business awaiting us at the Boston Garden we took leave of the Marathon scene only to read later that the last finisher didn't reach the home port until something like five hours after the winner crossed.

Hearty folks, these runners... one of whom happened to be a new bride who had to show her husband she knew something else in addition to cooking.

The Marathon certainly proves again that most athletes refuse to quit or throw-in the sponge.

They go on and on... and on.

GOING 'CURTAIN'

A quick zip down the Ohio Turnpike, turn off at either Exit 10 or 11, and before you know it you are in front of the Cleveland Playhouse executive offices on East 86th Street and Euclid in Cleveland.

The headquarters at East 86th houses two theaters, a production workroom, a rehearsal room, and the official office of the Cleveland Playhouse organization. And what an organization it is!

For the past fifty years they have been busy producing some 800 productions. Their present season boast some 15 plays of all types. Their only criteria is to do the finest in dramatic literature and keep theater alive, breathing, and vibrant.

The excellent production of "The Amorous Flea" that old Wally saw did just that and more. It was well-cast, played excellently by the professional actors, and had the audience literally rolling in the aisles. No mean accomplishment when one reflects that this play (The Amorous Flea) was a musical version of Moliere's French farce "School for Wives."

In fact, I've seen this play on two other occasions and enjoyed it only mildly. The Cleveland Playhouse version was a "Smash," a real rave production. It was a sheer delight in every aspect!

Cleveland is justly proud of the Playhouse and its many activities. They subscribe in large numbers to their season (15,000 this year). Adding up the audience for an entire year, you will find that almost 150,000 people pay a moderate admission charge $2 to $3 for plays performed in their three auditoriums.

While we visited them, the Brooks Theater (160 seats) was preparing a Children's Theater play, "Winnie-the-Pooh." The Drury Theater (530 seats) was holding nightly performances of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe." Rice Hersery, their highly efficient PR man, showed me the set of this play the morning after our visit to the "Amorous Flea." I was impressed with the workmanship and excellent detail.

The third theater owned by the Cleveland Playhouse organization is down Euclid Avenue about a mile at 77th Street. In 1949 the increasing demand for tickets made it apparent another playhouse was needed. The 77th street Theater handles 550 patrons and has a "space" stage. The stage thrusts out into the audience and gives an added dimension of excitement since you are within touching distance of the actors.

K. Elmo Lowe is the current director of the Cleveland Playhouse. He became Executive Director following the retirement of Frederic McConnell who arrived on the Cleveland scene in 1921 when the group went professional.

Over its fifty year span of productions the Cleveland Playhouse has weathered the ravages of the depression, two World Wars, sound pictures, radio and even color TV. My prediction is that it will surely celebrate its 100th anniversary. An organization this competent and putting on such high quality productions need never worry about its existence.

My only gripe is that we don't have such an organization in active operation for Detroit. Where did we miss the boat? Maybe some of our civic leaders need to spend a few days in Cleveland as I did and get some of the facts. It's not too late for us to think about such a Playhouse.

Other cities around the U.S. are getting repertory companies into operation. Seattle, San Diego, Baltimore, and Philadelphia have taken the challenge and done something about it. Let's get busy, Detroit and suburbs!

I'd advise all my readers to put the Cleveland Playhouse on your visiting schedule. You can always find out what their schedule is by dropping them a card. In fact, old Wally intends to announce their season every year from now on. They are only three hours away from us.

AT LIVONIA MALL
Good Acting But Won't Films Lay Off Message?

By SUE SHAUGHNESSY

"A Patch of Blue," which opens tonight at the Livonia Cinema for a three week engagement Theatre almost makes it as a classic film.

It's too bad it doesn't because all of the ingredients are there. The only problem is that the message is reiterated just a bit too often.

The story line concerns an 18 year old blind girl, Selina, portrayed by Elizabeth Hartmann, and her days in the park where she meets her second friend in life, Gordon Rolph, who is Sidney Poitier in real life.

As far as acting goes it's excellent. Miss Hartmann, Mr. Poitier, Shelley Winters (who won an Oscar for her role as the girl's mother) and Wallace Ford are all superb. The camera work and photography is excellent and the use of black and white further serves to emphasize the drugery of the protagonists lives.

However, Selina's mother and grandfather, are painted as wicked and inept respectively.

Along comes Gordon, who happens to be a Negro, and he is the one decent individual Selina has met.

At lunch one day Selina tells Gordon that he is her second friend. Her first was Pearl, but her mother, Roseanne, wouldn't let Pearl and Selina play together when she discovered that Pearl was a Negro. Now really.

Add Gordon's brother, Mark, spends his two scenes trying to "reason" with his brother about this relationship and... well you get the picture.

The American viewing public is not stupid and at times the film with its "message" is an insult to the public's intelligence. The sooner Hollywood learns this the happier we will all be.

It's quite natural and normal for two people—such as Selina and Gordon—to fall in love. They are both lonely and each fulfills a need in the other.

The message is also very clear. It happens to be a very good point and one well worth Residents of Farmington, Livonia and Garden City are currently appearing in the Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater production of "Carousel" week-ends through May 8.

They are:

- FARMINGTON: Jeff Currie, 22223 N. Brandon; Randi Smith, 28211 Wildwood Trail;
- and Bob Heinzen, 26319 Dundalls Lane;
- Doris Meadows, 7500 August, Garden City; and
- Pat Nicol, 11082 Garden, Livonia.

Reservations for tickets may be made by calling the theater at MI. 4-4418. A limited number will be available at the door.

Tickets Now On Sale for Theatre Guild Play

Tickets for the upcoming Livonia Redford Theater Guild production of the Kaufman-Hart comedy hit "You Can't Take It With You" are now on sale. They may be obtained for any of the two performances at Franklin High School in Livonia — May 6 or 7 — by calling 422-4921.

under the philosophy of "Why not do what you want to do? — After all — you can't take it with you!"

What happens in the madcap household on the night that daughter tries to create a good impression entertaining the stuffy parents of her fiancé provides one of the high spots in a comedy called "an evening of tickling fun" by the N.Y. Times critic.

Under the direction of Tony Mattar, the production features Jim Wotring as Grandpa Vanderhof; Shirley Hulet as Penelope; Joseph Mattar as Boris; and Lindy Van as Essie.

U of D Schedules Open Readings

Open readings for the University of Detroit Theater summer production of "Dark of the Moon" will be held Monday through Friday, May 2-6, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. each evening.

Readings will be in the third floor of the McNicholas Campus Main Library. Members of the community as well as U. of D. alumni and students, are invited to try out for roles in the play by Howard Richardson.

"Dark of the Moon," said director Alan Jorgensen, "is a poetic folk musical set in the isolated Smokey Mountains with a conflict between love and black magic."

Other presentations on the repertory schedule, July 7 through 31, include a revival of this past season's "Oh Dad, Poor Dad" by Arthur Kopit, and "Don Juan in Hell," by G. B. Shaw. The latter two plays have already been cast.

Eliminates Sales Tax

Hugh Gedrich, host at the Livonia Penthouse on Plymouth Rd., has announced that since Easter he no longer adds the sales tax to the customer's bill. He explained that the time saved, plus the resultant lessening of errors along with the elimination of pennies from the operation will compensate for the lack of revenue.

Gedrich, who terms the response to this new concept "tremendous," said that he picked up the idea, among others, at the Restaurant Short Course he recently attended at MSU.

Cubs Plant Trees

Members of Cub Scout Pack 168 in Farmington took time last Saturday to visit the Ten Mile School to plant two trees. The cubs donated the trees to their school as their observance of Arbor Week.

Gedrich, who terms the response to this new concept "tremendous," said that he picked up the idea, among others, at the Restaurant Short Course he recently attended at MSU.

'Religious Themes by Old Masters' On Exhibit Now Through May 8

On display now through May 8 at Christ Episcopal Church in Dearborn are 42 reproductions of religious art on loan from the Smithsonian Institution.

Exhibited as "Religious Themes by Old Masters" as a part of Christ Church's Arts Festival '66, the collection contains excellent German-published color reproductions of works painted during the 14th through 17th centuries in France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Russia, and Spain.

The main subjects of religious art, the Nativity, the Annunciation, and the Crucifixion, as well as Saints and Prophets, are represented.

The evolution of Dutch art is exemplified by the crystalline clarity and tranquility of the "Lucea Madonna" by Jan van Eyck (1390-1441) and the dark, dramatic interpretation of "Jacob Blessing His Grandsons" by Rembrandt (1606-1669).

Paintings by German masters include the "Garden of Paradise" from the Upper Rhine School (ca. 1400), a joyful scene amidst an abundance of flowers and animals, Durer's paintings of the Apostles, and the tormented and visionary "Crucifixion" from the Isenheim Altar by Matthias Grunewald (ca. 1480-1528).

The large selection of Italian art includes the "Annunciation" by Fra Angelico (1387-1455) and Michelangelo's powerful "Prophet Isaiah" from the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel.

From the School of Avignon, the important center of 15th century art in Southern France, comes the famous "Pieta" of ca. 1475. Equally important reproductions of masterworks of Spanish painting and Russian icons are also included.

The exhibition is sponsored by Inter Nations, Bonn and the German Embassy in Washington and will tour nationally under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution.

'The Vatican Declaration On Religious Liberty'

John Courtney Murray, S.J., will speak on the recent Ecumenical Council Vatican II on Sunday, May 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Southfield High School Auditorium. His topic is "The Vatican Declaration on Religious Liberty."

Fr. Murray, 61, professor of theology at Woodstock College in Maryland, served as a theological expert to the Ecumenical Council and was responsible for the drafting of a major portion of the Document on Religious Liberty.

His visit to the area is under the sponsorship of St. Alexander's Roman Catholic Church in Farmington in conjunction with its fifth anniversary celebration.

Tickets for this "Ecumenical Evening with John Courtney Murray" may be obtained by calling 467-7535 or 474-0808.

In 1951 Fr. Murray was named the first Jesuit professor at a large non-Catholic University when he assumed the post of professor of philosophy at Yale.

The author of numerous books, articles and criticisms and editor of the quarterly "Theological Studies," he is also well known for his theories on church state relations in America.

Time Magazine observed about Fr. Murray in 1960 that "His lifelong subject of study has been the interaction of America and Catholicism; some critics in his own faith have occasionally held him to be more American than Catholic. Without representing an official position — and without running counter to it — he is now teaching his fellow Catholics that they must become more intellectually aware of their 'coexistence' in a pluralist, heavily Protestant society."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harrison are general chairmen of the anniversary celebration. Fr. Joseph Ryder is the pastor of St. Alexander's.

NO GIMMICKS - NO LOW BALLS - NO HIGH BALLS - NO COUPONS - JUST PLAIN FACTS

Ever been quoted a price on the model of your choice and then when you came back to the dealer to sit down and write the deal . . . he added the sales tax . . . or the radio he FORGOT to mention wasn't included before . . . or sometimes even the excise tax (which amounts to a goodly sum)??? Well, Leo Calhoun Ford doesn't believe this is the way you want to be treated as a customer. When you ask one of our salesmen the price of a new Ford, you get a price that lists everything included on the car. We'll even break down your payments for you. We believe you want and need to know how your money is being spent. Come in and try our "sharp pencil" deal today. We think you will like the way we give you FACTS!

Change Night School For Credit Program

High school dropouts and GIs Plymouth High beginning next fall.

The program, which is conducted by the adult education department under the direction of Herbert Woolweaver, will consist of two semesters instead of the present three quarters, according to School Supt. Russell Isbister.

Present plans call for the fall semester to start in mid-September and continue through mid-January when the second semester will begin and conclude in mid-June.

The revised program calls for two classes nightly with the first starting at 6:30 p.m. and the second at 8:30 p.m. Under the present system courses are taught on a three-hour nightly schedule.

Under the new plan, it will be possible to take two classes nightly on Monday and Wednesday and two other courses on Tuesdays and Thursdays. This makes it possible for students to take double the number of subjects.

Woolweaver hopes to arrange four teaching hours weekly with eight teaching stations. It will be possible for a student to pick up as many as five credits per semester counting a credit for work experience.

There are three ways to pick up credits towards a high school diploma:

- 1—Credits may be accumulated by those who served in the armed services. A GI may accumulate as many as four credits for service duties.
- 2—An individual may earn as many as four credits by taking an approved correspondence course. The correspondence schools must have the approval of Plymouth High officials.
- 3—Through a working experience. One credit may be earned this way.

Woolweaver emphasized that all night school courses must have a minimum of 10 students enrolled. He stressed that there is a great need for welders by industries in the area and those interested in this type of employment should register for the course at the start of the fall term.

Other areas are in drafting, business machine training, secretarial training and bookkeeping.

Those interested should call the Guidance office at Plymouth High—453-3100 for additional information.

Resume Alley Collections Next Tuesday

Normal pickup of rubbish and garbage in the City of Plymouth will be resumed on Tuesday, May 3, when trucks will again make regular stops in the alleys. This service was halted several weeks ago because of the annual spring thaws.

The Department of Public Works Thursday (April 28) will start the task of flushing all fire hydrants on Thursdays and Fridays between the hours of 10 p.m. and 1 a.m. The work will continue until all hydrants throughout the city have been flushed out.

Skirmishing Ends as City Goes to Court

The initial skirmishing is over for the City of Plymouth in two of the court actions it faces.

In the suit filed by Attorney Earl Demel, protesting the vacating of Maple Street and the failure of the City Commission to sell him land in the George Shafer plat on Ann Arbor Trail, Circuit Court Judge George Bowles denied a request for a restraining order on the Maple Street action and received a dismissal petition from City Attorney Thomas Healy.

Hearing on the case will be resumed before Judge Bowles on Friday, May 6 at 2 p.m.

In the suit filed by Ralph Dehnhostel, of Chubb Road, Salem Township, against the City's use of the Salem refuse dump, City Attorney Thomas Healy filed an answer to the charges and then the counsel for the plaintiff filed an amending complaint.

The final pre-trial record hearing has been set for June 1 in Washtenaw County Circuit Court.

Optimists to Hold Postponed Bike Rodeo Saturday Morning

The heavy rains of last Saturday washed out the annual bicycle safety rodeo of the Plymouth Optimist Club and it has been rescheduled for Saturday morning at 10 in the rear of Plymouth High School.

The rodeo includes events designed to test bicycle riding skill with suitable prizes for the winners.

Members of Mayflower Post 6695, VFW, will be on hand to place reflectorized strips on the rear of each bike that passes all tests.

Remember, kids, this is your chance to have your bike tested and for you to compete for prizes at the same time.

BPW Gets Story Courses

The Plymouth School system's new "Human Growth and Development" program, taught in grades one through seven, was explained to members of the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club by Assistant Supt. William Harding, who has charge of the secondary schools.

The club's Civic Participation committee, assisted by Coordinator Daisy Proctor, invited Harding to give detailed information about the subject that has brought considerable comment from parents.

Harding explained the objectives of the program are:

1. To increase self understanding and the understanding of others (including the physical and emotional changes as maturity is approached).
2. To develop attitudes that will assist boys and girls in becoming healthy, wholesome men and women.
3. To understand and appreciate life situations involving relationships with family, peers, and society (limits, authority, responsibility).
4. To evolve a personal code of conduct and values conducive to the welfare of the individual and society.
5. To supply students with scientific terminology relating to the body and develop a wholesome attitude toward natural functions.

West Jr. Music Groups Join in Spring Concert

Parents of students at West Junior will have a chance to see their musically inclined offspring perform Monday, May 2, in the annual spring concert that highlights the final PTSA meeting of the school year.

The program will open at 7:30 p.m. with a short business meeting under the direction of President Betsy Gibson.

Then the musicians will present an hour and a half program under the supervision of Band Director James Griffith, Choral Directors Knight Vernon and Kaye Swartzendruber and the string orchestra under the direction of Michael Endres.

Griffith will present the sixth grade, seventh grade and all-star bands. Vernon has charge of the seventh grade choral groups and Miss Swartzendruber of the sixth grade singers.

Endres will present his combined group from the two grades.

Of special interest will be a number composed by Endres which first was written in Haiku poetry by seventh graders Sharon Kivisto, Eric Beutter, Marjorie Van Atta, Joy Sand and Catherine Trinka.

There is no admission charge to the program.

6. To promote wholesome understanding and attitudes towards sexual development, marriage, and family living.

He explained that the program was designed after lengthy sessions with representatives of the Administration, science, physical education, counseling and nursing departments, community representatives, the clergy, medical profession and the Y.M.C.A.

All agreed that the program should become a natural outgrowth of class study and the course was designed with that in mind.

Harding stressed that the program will expand and improve through teacher participation and evaluation. He presented the brochure which was compiled by the committee to enable the classroom teachers to study it carefully and make recommendations back to the Administration.

Mrs. Dorothy Sincok, chairman of the program, thanked Harding for his efforts in keeping parents informed on educational matters affecting the children.

Water Is Not Quite Free But Cheaper By Using Softner

Have you received a water bill lately? If you have, you know that water — one of the best things in life — is not quite free. Every time you turn on a faucet, you are spending money. Dollar for dollar, are you getting your money's worth?

"You are only if the water has been fully softened," states J. L. Bruner, president of the Water Conditioning Foundation. "People are apt to forget there are many grades of water," he adds. "Everybody knows there is a vast difference between distilled water and sea water. But there are many who do not realize that water supplies adequate for fire fighting or lawn sprinkling will not necessarily do justice to the laundry, the dishes and many other home-making chores."

Many laundries, car washes, restaurants, motels and beauty shops install water softeners in order to get water of the right quality (free of hardness) for their needs.

Bruner urges homemakers here to take a tip from these commercial users of softeners. "Because the water conditioning industry can provide water of any desired quality it is now true economy to upgrade water quality for home use as well."

Fully soft water permits cutting down on soaps and detergents. A coffee measure full rather than a cup full will do the job on dirty clothes. Soft water and a minimum of cleaning agent will cut grease and put a new sparkle on dishes.

And soft water will protect water using appliances. Often overlooked is the fact that hard water scale and sludge can cause appliance failures. Soft water tends to keep repairs to a minimum.

Bruner cautions against evaluating a softener appliance merely in terms of dollar savings.

"There is no price tag on satisfaction. When laundry comes out color bright; when dishes sparkle; when mirrors gleam and bathtubs stay spotless all the time, the homemaker has the satisfaction of knowing her work is well done."

Consumer studies show that the modern homemaker and her family are most pleased with soft water for bathing, showers and shampoos. Time and again people report, "With soft water I feel clean, really clean. It's wonderful!"

In all but a few areas of our country water supplies are so hard, water softening is essential for modern homemaking.

"Today 5½ million homes are equipped with softeners. And the number is increasing. With better use of water supplies a must, our industry is urging homeowners everywhere to investigate the advantages and personal satisfaction possible with quality water for home-making," Bruner further adds.

The investment in a softener appliance can be geared to the budget in almost all cases. Homeowners can buy a unit outright and extend payments over five years in many instances. If you prefer, you can rent a unit or obtain a soft water service. Many dealers offer several options.

For more information on soft water for your need contact a local water conditioning dealer. Or if you prefer you can obtain a booklet QUALITY WATER AT THE TAP. Send your name, address and 50c to the Water Conditioning Foundation, 1201 Waukegan Road, Glenview, Illinois 60025 for a copy. It will be sent to you by return mail.

10 Tips On Buying A Better Mattress

There's probably no one single item of home furnishings that causes more consternation in buying than a mattress. After all, in a mattress it's what's inside that counts, but what's outside that shows! So if you are planning a shopping trip in search of a new mattress, you'll be interested in some buying tips.

These ten tips are:
1. Do your shopping only in reputable stores, whose bedding departments are staffed by knowledgeable salespeople equipped to answer the many questions you'll have. If your salesperson appears unfamiliar with his merchandise, and lacking in the kind of information you need to make an intelligent selection, go to another store.

2. Buy the very best quality mattress you can afford—save your bargain hunting for the ready-to-wear sale racks! A mattress is a major purchase which should last you ten years, and you owe it to yourself and your family to buy top quality.

3. Don't buy orthopedic bedding unless your doctor recommends that you do. There's been so much talk about the importance of firm mattresses, about the dangers of a too-soft mattress, that we've had a tendency to go the other way.

4. Don't be confused by coil counts. Actually, the total number of coils the mattress contains really has nothing at all to do with your sleep comfort—but the design of the coil does. Ask your salesperson to show you a cut-away sample of the mattress you are interested in, and to explain the type of coil it has.

5. Avoid mattresses with dust-catching buttons and tufts — these date back to the days before modern advances eliminated the need for them. A mattress held together by tufts and buttons will start to deteriorate as soon as one breaks.

6. Look for an attractive fabric covering that you will not easily tire of, one that will wear well and clean easily. Check the way the ticking is sewn for signs of quality—careful stitching, smooth, neat corners.

7. Don't buy a mattress without trying it out! Sit on the side, just as you would do in your bedroom. Does it sag beneath your weight? If so, it will probably begin to "break down" at the edges long before the rest of the mattress is worn out. Choose only a mattress that has firm edge support. Lie down on it, too. Is it comfortable as well as firm? Check to make sure that if you lie near the edge, you won't roll off!

Buy a mattress big enough for your needs—wider king and queen sizes, as well as extra-length mattress for taller people, are becoming increasingly popular. Ideally, a mattress should be six to eight inches longer than the sleeper.

9. Be sure to buy the matching box spring with your new mattress—the two are designed by the manufacturer to go together, to work together to give you the proper support. Buying a new mattress to put on an old box spring is false economy.

10. Don't rush your mattress purchase. Take plenty of time, make more than one shopping trip if you feel you need it. Never shop for a mattress at the end of a long shopping day, when you're tired and likely to settle for the first thing you see!

Rules for Planting New Trees

Transplanting trees or shrubs this spring? See how it is done properly at the second annual free Lawn and Garden Fair at the Michigan State Fairgrounds at Eight Mile and Woodward, on Saturday, April 30, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Here are some principles that will be observed: Dig a hole twice the size and depth of the "ball" of dirt and roots. Then you can put in good soil, peat moss or perhaps spread out the roots. Do not apply fertilizer in contact with the roots.

Pack carefully by watering and fill hole to the ground level. Then let the water hose run until water no longer runs in. Build up a dam in a circle around the bush or tree and fill it full of water.

Water often for a few days before filling in and leveling soil. If shrubs or bushes are bagged or in tarpaper pots, slit the wrapper so roots can get through. Remove bag or pot if you can without disturbing roots. Be sure and pack soil firmly around new plantings.

There are "good" and "poor" trees, shrubs and evergreens for each area. Ask the garden authorities at the demonstration. Your local nurseryman can tell you which plants are best.

Avoid the itinerant with the "miracle tree"—it may not be for you. Some trees that grow very fast may have brittle or weak wood and subject to damage in storms. Remember to give new plantings room to grow. They may look "thin" for a few years, but you'll be sorry in 5 to 10 years if you planted them too close; and removal is either expensive or lots of hard work.

Trailers Popular

LANSING—Trailers and trailer coaches are gaining in popularity here in Michigan. Annual report issued by the Michigan Department of State, showed increases of around 6,000 trailers to 367,800, and a like hike in coaches from 35,900 to 41,900.

Consumers Power Company's gas business is one of Michigan's most rapidly growing industries. Twenty years ago, Consumers Power had 200,000 gas customers. At the beginning of 1966, it served 700,000.

There's Something About Suburbia That Is Enjoyable

By Jimmy Wendt

You may dwell in a tri-level, ranch or Colonial house; you may drive a station wagon or a jeep; but your life pattern will be the same if you live in suburbia.

Moving from the cities to the suburbs, you will find yourself undergoing many changes, and most people feel they are for the better as the trend is not from suburbia.

Your pattern of living becomes more casual, your interest in politics more intense, and your neighbors become an integral part of your life.

Back in the city, when you entertained it was more or less formal, people were invited guests, you nearly always dressed for the occasion, and your best china and silverware were brought into use.

In the suburbs, the favorite form of entertainment is "open house" or buffet. The almost non-existent domestic help and the distances that people travel prevent a rigid schedule for entertaining.

The new styled family rooms and the ever welcome patio are the favorite sites for dining.

Liquor is placed on a table with "mixes" and guests are invited to "help themselves" instead of being served.

Dining on the patio is a delight and more people have moved into the suburbs after visiting someone there than for any other reason. Casseroles that keep food warm, portable tables, bars and equipment all help the hosts. Tiny lights that twinkle on the shrubbery and gardens and the dozens of candles for outdoor use make an inviting scene.

Also in suburbia, by choice or otherwise, the men are the chefs and the males traditionally gather around the grill to offer help and suggestions to the host instead of huddling in one corner of the living room. In fact, on a dim summer evening, the back lawns of the homes look like a gypsy camp from the opera "Carmen" with the glowing grills in every yard.

Politics in the city were something unreal and "downtown" but in the suburbs they affect your very life and scarcely are the moving vans out of sight before the committees are forming to protect the subdivision restrictions or to visit Town Hall to "protest" their grievances.

People who frequently couldn't have told who the members of the City Council were if someone had held a loaded gun to their head attend every meeting and hold constant sessions to bring about better government. In the suburbs you are directly affected by the laws passed and people feel the only way to get something done is to be an active participant.

Your social structure is in for a change and a more democratic type of life is in order. Neighbors were not always a part of one's inner circle in city living but in the suburbs, several things combine to make one more close to one's neighbor.

One thing is the distance from the city. Most men after driving home, love to climb into relaxed garb and socialize right around the house rather than face a drive back into the city traffic. For another common suffering is a great denominator. When water is shut off for a few days, and you have to share a few fortunate neighbor's bathtub for bathing children, and fill jars full of water for drinking, stronger bonds of friendship are formed than years of country club association.

Fighting together for a common cause such as better roads, better schools, etc. are also a great welder. People become more dependent of each other. With larger back yards and no fences women become more interested in who grows the latest rose, or who knows the best way to rid the flowers of beetles than who is the best dressed, etc.

For the men, the standard form of dress, trousers cut off at the knees and a tee-shirt prove a great leveler. It is hard to distinguish an advertising executive from engineer, from foreman, thus costumed and no one seems to care anyway.

Homeowners Urged to Plant Right Tree in Right Place

Plan now to plant a tree or two this spring. You and your family, you and your community, you and your state will be the long time beneficiaries of the beauty of the trees that you plant this spring.

Tree-shaded lawn and patios are delightful places to enjoy pleasant hours with the family and friends. Have you ever thought, "Who planted the trees that provide the shaded areas that I enjoy?" "Will there be similar places for my children and grandchildren to enjoy?" The answers to both of these questions depend on you. There can be life-long beauty in your community if you plant trees today.

Tree-shaded streets are beautiful to see and they make a city, town, or shopping plaza a delightful place. Who planted the trees in these areas? The city? The developer? — Maybe!

Regardless of who planted them, however, it did take someone with vision to initiate an active program. Perhaps you should start a neighborhood program to plant trees along the city streets. Yes, you can even generate the action needed to have trees planted in the asphalt deserts that surround some shopping centers.

If you plant, be sure to plant the right tree in the right place. The choice of the tree is very important. Plant trees to accomplish an objective. If this objective is shade, plant trees that will grow into large massive giants of shade.

But, don't plant them in a space that will only support a dwarf, and don't plant large shade trees where they will soon grow into electric or telephone wires. If trees must be planted close to overhead wires, select a small type tree.

When planting be sure to plant a tree that has a long life expectancy and is of good sound structure. Fast growing trees, like the silver maple, generally should not be planted in fine landscapes.

Trees grow best in a good garden soil. Avoid clay sites if possible. If trees must be planted in clay soils be sure to provide good drainage. Otherwise, the roots may suffocate from the lack of air if there is a long wet period or if the tree is overwatered.

In most soils, little or no fertilizer need be applied at planting time. As the trees get older, those in most good soils need to be fertilized only occasionally with a good, standard fertilizer that contains nitrogen and potassium.

Turf, Trees Need Added Nutrients

Don't forget the shade trees when fertilizing your yard this spring. Many home owners fail to realize that little of the fertilizer applied on the lawn reaches the roots of shade trees. The turf receives most of these nutrients before they can reach the tree roots.

Use one pound of well-balanced fertilizer (10-10-10) for each one inch of trunk diameter four feet above the ground. Older trees more than six inches in diameter should get three pounds per inch of diameter. However, the amount of fertilizer should be decreased accordingly when part of the soil is covered by sidewalks.

Soak the soil thoroughly under the tree for two hours before fertilizing. Make imaginary circles surrounding the tree two feet apart until the circles extend just beyond the spread of the branches of the tree.

With a heavy bar, make holes about 24 inches apart in each of the circles. The holes should be about 18 inches deep. Using a small frozen fruit juice can, put about one-half can of fertilizer in each hole. Keep adding fertilizer until it is used up and evenly divided. Water again and leave the holes open to allow air to penetrate down to the roots after fertilizing.

A specially designed hollow rod, which can be attached to the end of a garden hose, can be used instead of the bar for making the holes. It penetrates easily and uses special fertilizer cartridges which are dissolved by the water flowing through the hose.

Home owners should let the local garden store, nursery or landscape nurseryman help in selecting the proper fertilizer. Many tree experts and landscape nurserymen also have specialized machinery to quickly complete the tree fertilization if you are not the "do-it-yourself" type.

Nurseryman Guilty in Tree Charge

A Troy tree nurseryman was convicted of carrying uninspected nursery stock recently and fined $20 plus $5 costs in justice court in Lapeer.

In addition to the fine, Theodore Wreesman of Woody Acres Nursery agreed to remove five insect-infested trees which were planted March 8 on a Bloomfield Hills property. Wreesman pleaded guilty before Justice C. L. Burton, Lapeer, on March 15.

Dale A. Butler, plant specialist with the Michigan Department of Agriculture, made the investigation leading to Wreesman's conviction. According to Butler's report, 29 trees were removed from land near Dryden, without the necessary inspection for insects and diseases.

Of the 20 large spruce, pine and maple trees planted by Wreesman, five were infected with a serious plant pest, the spruce gall aphid. According to the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division, responsible for enforcing nursery laws, the infection could have caused the new owner and neighboring property owners considerable trouble in years to come.

The infected trees are being removed and replaced at considerable added expense to the convicted nurseryman.

New Paint Rollers Make Job Easy

New York—One of the simplest means of rousing the spirits and cheering the senses is a fresh paint job. It cleans, brightens, renews and even the air conveys the promise of good things to appear. A little paint-it-yourself magic can color a home happily with considerably less labor than might be expected.

Like waving a wand, an afternoon of waving a paint roller in the children's bedroom can actually do much to sharpen the youngsters' self-respect as well as the room's outlook. And the same treatment in the playroom can return that fun-torn area (for a time anyhow) to its original gay look.

In working up the proper frame of mind to get started, it may help to learn, if one suffers uncertainty on ladders, that the need for that painter's prop has been eliminated by the innovation of an extension pole threaded to the handle of a paint roller. Now the paint-it-yourself can stand on the floor and paint the ceiling.

Improved paint rollers, such as those of Dynel Modacrylic fiber, are made to order for the amateur; they are easier to handle, take on more paint than a brush, cover more than twice the area per stroke, and no dripping on mom's colifore.

With the roller as the basic tool and the paint to be spread, there is little else required. Newspapers will serve as drop cloths for the floor and the furniture can be covered, too, with papers and remain in the room during the operation. Unless the walls are badly soiled or glossy surfaced, a thorough dusting of the sections to be painted is usually adequate. In the case of extra grime a chemical remover is the easiest to work with. A solution of trisodium phosphate, or a commercial remover, will effortlessly wash away dirt and grease and dull the surface.

A word for the beginner on selecting the right paint — it should not be regarded as merely a matter of color determination. Haphazard choice of paint may provide unwelcome education for the amateur who will find out the hard way about bad sag properties and improper leveling qualities.

These two features of paint, which refer to unchecked running down vertical surfaces, and retention of roller or brush marks after application, are discovered in inferior products. And as with other home products whose virtues are not visible before purchase, one should rely on reputable brand names, recommendations of a trustworthy retailer or the testimony of friends.

Having satisfied one or more of these criteria in obtaining a good quality paint, and with the room in order, equipment at hand, surfaces prepared, the actual painting can begin. Pay heed to the old painter's maxim, "Begin at the top and work down." The order goes:—first the ceiling, then the walls, then wood trim and floors. Use slow smooth strokes on overhead work. It will go swiftly by roller.

Use a special edging tool now available. If the ceiling is painted in two or three-foot strips across the shortest dimension, it will enable consecutive strips to be painted before the last edge is dry—an important advantage because joining on a dry edge sometimes leaves a lap mark that will appear later as uneven coloration. Also, light strokes help to prevent lapping.

Ceiling done, the paint-it-yourself "cut-in" edges by painting a narrow strip around doors, windows and along baseboards, using a brush and a short roller for smoothing out. If a paint-pal in the form of a husband or a good neighbor cooperating in an exchange painters program is bringing teamwork to the job, then one can fill in the large wall sections with the broad seven-inch roller at the same time as the other deals with the trim-work. The undertaking is speeded up in this way, and too, those moments yielded to stepping back and admiring the effect are best shared with another.

Do as the pros do and finish an entire unit, one complete wall, before proceeding to the next. In paint-rollering the walls, generally the same counsel applies as did for the ceiling work—paint in slow, smooth strokes, working first in one direction then another. Move the roller from top to bottom, taking care to resist pressures which may cause bubbles or spatters.

Lumps and drips can mar the even distribution of pigment only if the roller is carelessly "dipped." Remember how precisely the old-fashioned brush painter dips and drains his brush—with similar attention a roller of Dynel should take up paint from the deep end or "reservoir" of the tray, then be rolled back and forth up the tray's drier sloping surface until paint is nicely worked in.

A grand feature of roller painting is its continuous gratification. The gliding rhythm of application seems to soothe the disposition while it smooths out the paint, and the second half of the room is just as much fun doing as the first half.

Furthermore, cleaning up is not an ordeal. With the use of popular quick-drying, water-based paints, the roller of Dynel can be washed with water in the kitchen sink. Best of all, there are no lingering odors to prevent that fresh-as-paint nursery from being occupied the same night.

The modern "can opener" is unashamedly—and continually—searching for faster working can openers.

Mrs. Marjorie Gibbs, District Marketing Agent, Cooperative Extension Service, Michigan State University, says that 25 million women who work outside the home from 8 to 5, and become efficient homemakers after 5:15, have no lack of money for foods. They have high standards of quality, and little precious time for preparation of family meals.

These busy women don't want to spend their time at home working in a kitchen. Three out of five career women are married. It is no wonder then, that the typical week day dinner features many a convenience foods.

Convenience foods are the regular foods with at least some of the kitchen work already done. Mrs. Gibbs says the cleaning, scraping, grating, peeling, squeezing, chopping, and measuring has been done for the modern cook. Mrs. Average American Homemaker votes for new convenience foods by buying them, Mrs. Gibbs notes. The growth in acceptance of frozen prepared dinners is an example.

In one year she bought 30 per cent more frozen foods than in the previous year. This is a good example of her enthusiasm. And—she's continuing to buy convenience.

Most housewives use convenience foods to a great extent, however. The cello-pack of carrots is a convenience food. The cleaning, topping, sorting has already been done. The packaging makes a clean, uniform, convenient and easy to use products.

Taking the hand-labor-chores of food preparation out of the kitchen and putting them into food processing factories, is a relatively recent occurrence. Nicholas Appert invented the food canning method for Napoleon, in answer to the need for movable military foods. Only recently—actually 150 years ago—the tin can was invented.

Convenience foods really began to come into their own when processors gave Mrs. Homemaker an opportunity to serve fruits and vegetables when the fresh products were not in season. This created the opportunity for someone else to do some of the home cooking chores.

Less working hours are required to earn money for food purchases in America than in any other nation in the world.

A Schedule Is a Timesaver for Every Busy Housewife

"If only I had more time..." Heard that line before? More likely it's a favorite of your own, often muttered as you watch your neighbor or fellow worker accomplish all that you do—and then some! The real reason you never have more time for the "and then some" is that something's probably askew in your timetable.

Actually, it isn't more time we need, but less waste of it. There are exactly 1,440 minutes a day, no more, no less. Start whittling down the ones you waste until they add up to something significant.

"What better place to begin than when you first peek out of sleep-filled eyes in the morning. Rule number one: Get up when scheduled to wake up! Or if you're not the bound-out-of-bed type, you can try to learn to be a successful stay-in-bed like Sir Winston Churchill who dictated letters, went through mail and otherwise worked in bed until noon. If you can use this time to schedule your day, or solve a family problem, you may make a success of the extra 20 minutes or so you steal in bed in the morning.

Above all, put yourself on schedule. This may sound regimented, but sitting down every morning, perhaps over that second cup of coffee, and writing out the day's activities can mean the difference between that satisfying sense of accomplishment at day's end versus the I-ran-around-all-day-and-didn't-accomplish-a-thing syndrome.

It may even be a good idea to "diet" your schedule if it's overweight with too many household errands and civic and social activities outside the home. Realistically figure what you can do... forget the rest.

Time analysts at Westclox, one company that has kept Americans on time for nearly 80 years, have found through surveys that women with families should limit themselves to no more than three outside activities. Once they sign up for P.T.A., Symphony Association and Church Bazaar, for instance, that's enough.

When you make your list of activities, post it where you can keep an eye on it. Ideal spots are the kitchen bulletin board or on the dresser mirror. Now consider these time-saving tips:

A breakfast table set the night before saves time in morning's usually frantic pace. And, speaking of serving meals, use a tray when setting or clearing the table of dishes, silverware or condiments.

If you're spending the day around the house, have a pad and pencil handy for on-the-spot recording of chores that need doing and items that need buying. Also a clock in every room—is important especially in the kitchen, bedroom, and bathroom.

Particularly useful are timers. Keep a couple in strategic places around the house, and you'll be saved by the bell many times—when the school bus arrives, children's bedtime, study time, when dinner's ready. In the kitchen, gadgets like onion choppers, egg slicers, strawberry hullers and apple corers are indispensable when preparing meals and snacks. Stock up on them. Blender cooking in a new gourmet are, but it's also time saving for the cook.

Instead of storing leftover foods in containers or on plates which need washing, store them in seal-proof plastic bags which you simply throw away. As for washing dishes, you're two steps ahead of the game if you own a dishwasher. If you don't, let the dishes dry themselves on the drainboard. And have you ever tried cooking double or triple recipes for meals all at once—then freezing the extra for quick dinners in the future?

When cleaning, avoid frustration and back-tracking by organizing equipment in advance. A piece of plywood mounted on casters makes a good cart for moving around pails of water, or other heavy items. A basket is handy for carrying small cleaning accessories from room to room. As a matter of fact, keep these supplies stored right in the basket.

If you're the elected window washer, avoid the frantic running back and forth to find which side of the window the stubborn streak is on. You'll know at first glance if you clean with vertical strokes on the inside, horizontal strokes on the outside.

While you're at the window, clean venetian blinds on the double. Use a pair of old cotton gloves—one soaked in cleaner, the other dry. Then try using shoe polish to brighten tapes and cords. Forget the bathtub soaking routine for blinds.

Here's an amazing time saver for cleaning tarnished silver: line the bottom of a large plastic or enamel pan with foil, pour in about two quarts of warm water, and add two tablespoons each of salt and baking soda. Make sure each piece of silver touches the foil, and within minutes, your silver is sparkling.

Both at home and at business, leave tough jobs for your best hours. These are usually later in the morning or early in the afternoon, Westclox time experts advise. Breadwinners at work can profit by a time saving trick or two like one of movie magnate Samuel Goldwyn. He makes lunch dates for 1 p.m., then announces an unbreakable appointment for 2:30. Get in the habit of listing the following day's schedule before leaving business at night. And time saving executives should try this trick when on the move: use 3x5 file cards for note juggling—yellow cards for telephone calls, green for letters to be written.

"Time is the stuff life is made of," Ben Franklin who originated the idea of daylight saving time, once said. The old expert, who found time in his life to tinker with kites and stoves, to run his own enterprises as well as help found a new kind of government, proved himself correct. Don't you think it's about time you saved some and used it to your best advantage?

Wall Covering Gives Home A Colonial Look

Elegance, plus the hearthside warmth of brick, can now be brought inside every modern American home as wall covering. With inherent three dimensional qualities, it leaves walls with the authentic appearance and feel of Early Colonial brick work.

About an eighth of an inch thick, each piece includes its own "mortar" and is 8-7/16 inches long, 2-3/16 inches wide. Pieces can be cut with tin shears or nailed without splitting.

Made of a high-impact material, butadiene/styrene copolymer, this brick work is highly resistant to wear, household acids and stains, and requires practically no maintenance.

Due to its light weight it can be applied to any sound, dry wall without extra support. Tools required for installation are a carpenter's level, saw-tooth trowel, cement and tin shears.

Either a "soldier" course or staggered brick pattern can be followed when applying, but the latter is recommended to best complement the sculptured "old" brick effect possible with this wall covering.

For decorating consistency in any given room, this "brick work" is offered in three colors —terra Cotta, Antique White and Sand—each one having its own characteristic shade variations.

PROMISING the hearthside warmth of Early Colonial brickwork, this lightweight yet high impact resistant interior wall covering installs on any sound, dry wall. Leaving walls with an authentic appearance and feel of brick due to 3-D qualities, the covering is available in three colors with varied shading.

Triple Safe Washer Aids Housewife

Although a wringer-washer is bought primarily to wash clothes clean, it is certainly to the housewife's advantage to select one that is not simply safe—but "triple-safe".

Due to its special inherent design, a new wringer washer releases roller pressure instantly and completely when as little as 20 pounds of pressure is applied to the release bar, apron or the laundry engaged in the wringer.

Leaving one hand free at all times for handling the wash, the appliance permits single-handed resetting of roller pressure or adjustment of the wringers to any of 28 positions.

Cushioned wringer rollers adjust automatically to any fabric thickness while a "Visi-Matic" open-top principle assures complete visibility, letting the operator stop the rollers immediately to eliminate tangling of clothes.

The water hose connects to the lint filter through the side of the tub, rather than through the lid, eliminating the need of removing the hose to take off the lid.

Called the "Lady Kenmore Triple-Safe Wringer Washer", it is available exclusively at Sears.

Appliance Sales Soar in 5 Years

A 132 percent increase in the sale of automatic dishwashers over the past five years has been reported by the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

Sales in 1965 totaled 1,290,000 as compared to 555,000 in 1960.

Outdoor Living Involves Hard Work But Is Rewarding

Outdoor living! Sounds great, doesn't it? It is great! Even though there's plenty of hard work involved, the rewards of outdoor living are unlimited.

There's nothing better than enjoying a quick swim in an above-the-ground swimming pool, lounging in a comfortable redwood padded chaise lounge, and eating a meal cooked on your barbecue grill . . . all in your own backyard. It's the trend, and it's fun . . . complete outdoor living. It all starts with a backyard!

This year hundreds of new homes have been built in new subdivisions in the entire south-eastern Michigan area. Many thousands of families will be encountering a bare backyard. These people who have just moved to new homes or have moved in during the winter months are faced with many decisions about landscaping.

At the same time, homeowners who have been in their homes for a few years are deciding on ways to improve their backyards. There are exciting new ideas that everyone can use, and with the vast supplies of tools, shrubbery, trees, and flowers available, families can do most anything with their homes.

Many types of trees, shrubbery and flowers can be purchased now with the assurance that they can be planted easily and properly. With new formula fertilizers and plant foods, one makes our plants healthy and thriving. At the same time, garden tools are becoming more simplified, more durable and more convenient to use.

A few examples are new and better types of lawn sprinklers that cover more area, cutting watering time tremendously. There's huge selection of lawn mowers waiting at all stores. These mowers come in easier-to-push-than-ever - before self mowers, simple power mowers, and luxurious rider mowers that cut time as well as the lawn.

With a little imagination, landscaping can be something exciting . . . something different. The use of patio stones, poured cement, railroad ties, pure white stones, big odd-shaped rocks, assorted bricks and unusual-shaped shrubs can add up to something special. Don't forget a fence to surround this beauty.

Choose a fence that's attractive as well as durable. There are so many to select, all well within the budget. Montgomery Ward, for example, take pride in its line of fences: chain link, aluminum, stockade or redwood. It will completely install them, and convenient credit terms are available.

After the planning, the planting, the weeding, the mowing, and the watering is done, it's time for "the relaxing" on the patio. It's fun to sit in a softly padded aluminum chaise lounge or have a cool drink under the shade of a gay floral printed umbrella. The family can sit down to a meal on a sturdy redwood table with matching benches. Redwood and aluminum aren't the only types of lawn furniture.

The department stores today carry such beautiful lines of webbed furniture, wrought iron and wicker . . . all priced to fit within everyone's budget. Each of these types of lawn furniture add that "something extra" that makes outdoor living so comfortable.

Almost everyone loves sitting on the patio in the warm weather, enjoying the cool breezes of the evening and also enjoying the company of friends and family. Lounging in the backyard is something both Mom and Dad look forward to after their respective hard days in the home and the office. So, it is important to get the best value for your money and invest in good lawn furniture.

The ads in this section show quite a selection of some available in this area.

Charbroiled steaks, hot dogs and spare-ribs are just three types of foods that can be prepared on an outside barbecue. Nothing perks up weather-wilted people than an outdoor barbecue dinner. Cook a small dinner for two on a portable hibachi or a feast for 20 on a large brazier with oven and rotisserie.

Why not experiment with outdoor cooking this year? Season some cut-up chicken parts, put them directly on the barbecue grill and baste them with the favorite barbecue sauce.

Or, salt and pepper some pork chops and grill vegetables. are fun to cook on a grill, too. Throw some foil-wrapped cobs of corn or whole potatoes in with the charcoal, and when the meat is done, so are the vegetables.

These ideas and more make a barbecue dinner a special occasion . . . especially for Mom, who isn't stuck in the kitchen all day. All she has to do is toss a salad or make a gelatin mold earlier in the day.

But, the first step in the right direction to outdoor eating fun is to purchase a barbecue grill. Look for one with sturdy legs, a large diameter turning grill, large exhaust holes in the oven hood and a big-capacity charcoal holder. Again, Montgomery Ward has quite a selection of all different types and sizes . . . designed to fit any family's need and pocketbook.

Another favorite this year is the screened-in porch-patio or a new idea. This new item is called the "Puirdome." It's a completely portable 10'x10' screened-in porch with 10 wall panels, snap-in windows and a reinforced nylon top that can be folded down and stored and is easy to assemble and put up.

The "Puirdome" is circular shaped and completely screened. It's an ideal porch to take to the cottage and the lake as well as have in the patio. Go to rotisserie.

Modern Siding Sets Style Pace

House siding can be a style-setter.

Because it's viewed immediately by any passer-by, attractive and colorful siding lends an impressive tone to every house in the neighborhood. On the other hand, homes that are badly in need of painting or have worn or discolored siding can be a serious community eyesore.

Modern siding material like mineral fiber boards and shingles comes in a variety of high-style textures including wood-grain and striated. Because the color is baked into a tough acrylic finish, it will not fade, and the siding requires no painting.

Wards Wonderland store and ask about the "Puirdome."

Last, don't forget the luxury that every year is becoming something that thousands of people purchase and enjoy during their outdoor living. It's the above-the-ground swimming pool that comes in a variety of sizes . . . designed to fit in any backyard.

The best thing about this type of swimming pool is that it can easily be assembled or taken down and stored during the winter months. It's like having your own summer resort at home. All the above-the-ground pools have heavy-duty steel framework that is weather and rust-resistant, and tough vinyl liners that won't shrink, stretch, crack or fade.

Swimming pools today are more safe than ever, for a complete line of filters and chemicals are sold to keep pool water fresh and sanitary. Large vinyl pool covers, safety steel slides and steel ladders are also available.

Outdoor living is not something to envy or dream about. It's yours today! The stores make it possible to enjoy it to the greatest extent. Everything is available, from the newly-designed gardening tools to the large home swimming pools. Take advantage of the pleasures of outdoor living!

Compact Camping Gear Gives Outdoor Comfort

The springtime migration of American families to the nation's campsites is becoming easier each year because of the increasing appearance of new lightweight camping gear.

There was a time when a camping trip meant grappling with an unwieldy, hard-to-erect canvas tent, heavy metal cookware, and perhaps a ponderous wooden row boat that required the entire family to carry.

It all tended to make camping a weighty problem.

Today, however, gear made of lighter yet more durable materials is making camping the totally light-hearted activity it should be, according to the Aluminum Association.

Compact fold-out camping trailers; umbrella tents that can be set up in minutes; lightweight aluminum boats; handy, rust-proof cooking equipment — these and other modern camping items can make living in the woods or by the lakeside nearly as comfortable as life at home.

When looking for camping equipment, these four basic qualities should serve as your guide: compactness, lightness, durability and ease of maintenance. Such equipment is easy to find in today's well-stocked camping and department stores.

Among the most useful outdoor items available are compact aluminum camping trailers that convert into tented sleeping units. Some of the latest models almost instantaneously open up into shelter containing two double beds and a dining nook complete with full-size table, refrigerator, stove and a sink with running water.

For the less ambitious camper, simpler trailers and tents of lightweight canvas also have the advantages of compactness and durability.

Campsite cooking has been improved by the development of more versatile, portable gas burners. They range from simple double burners to a new all-aluminum two-piece units that serve as an oven, toaster, fryer, hot water heater. With attachments it converts into a lighting fixture, drink dispenser, tent heater or shower.

Non-stick, aluminum utensils enable the modern camper to cook and serve with a minimum of clean-up bother, which is a major consideration away from a fully equipped kitchen.

FATHER and son are all set for a weekend of "comfort" with new lightweight camping gear.

U.S. Families Love Their Dishwashers

Are you a modern homemaker? Not if you're still washing dishes by hand.

Eight million American women already have switched to doing dishes automatically.

Engineering and design advances have made today's automatic dishwashers the most efficient time- and labor-saving kitchen appliance available.

A housewife who still clings to the dreary three-times-a-day washing-dishes-by-hand routine is not only behind the times, she's also squandering hours that could be spent in more satisfying family pursuits.

Studies show that electric dishwashers free the average homemaker of about 30 minutes of messy cleanups daily — more if she has a large family or entertains a great deal.

Tableware that would ordinarily be stacked on the counters or sink, or washed after every meal, can be placed right in the dishwasher and washed all at once at the end of the day.

New models handle large capacities, require no pre-rinsing of dishes and deliver tableware that's hygienically clean, bone-dry and ready to be stacked away on the shelves. There's no kitchen clutter and no extra dishcloths to add to washday chores.

Modern dishwashers are also easier than ever to operate and load, and are equipped with a host of automatic features.

Most models have pushbutton controls and a variety of cycles that can handle anything from fragile glassware to heavy-soiled cooking utensils.

Big glide-out racks permit random loading, and you even load odd-sized platters and large pans with ease. Automatic dispensers release detergents and rinsing agents during the proper washing cycle.

Many models have hot water boosters to assure the correct water temperature to provide sanitation and effective washing action.

There are several types of dishwashers from which to choose depending on the size and style of your kitchen, your need for countertop space and your preference for top- or front-loading.

Free-standing models are separate cabinet units that can be permanently installed at the end of a counter or anywhere in the kitchen. These front-loaders are available in a variety of countertops including wood cutting blocks and laminated plastic to match kitchen counters.

Undercounter models, also known as built-ins, are front-loaders that are permanently installed under a counter.

Portable dishwashers can be rolled to and from the sink or even to the table for easier loading. These are especially convenient for kitchens too small to accommodate a permanently-installed model.

When not in use they can be rolled into a hallway or another room.

Front-loading convertible portables can be used as portables immediately and permanently installed as built-ins later.

They are especially popular with families that plan a future move or kitchen remodeling but want the convenience of a dishwasher now.

They provide an extra work surface, and many have optional wood cutting board tops.

Dishwasher - sink combinations are space saving and economical to install.

Dishwasher, sink and disposer can be located in one functional compact unit.

A variety of sink tops or countertops is available.

To suit the modern housewife's up-to-date kitchen decorating tastes, dishwashers are available in a variety of colors as well as white, and many have decorator fronts or optional trim and panels to match other kitchen appliances or cabinets.

SEAWORTHY HARDWARE

A popular hardware for small boats is made of nickel stainless steel because the material is strong, tough, and resists corrosion and abrasion.

with Porta Shop, no!

Our homes are the truest expression of our personalities and have the greatest influence on our feelings of well being in our daily lives. How we furnish our homes, no matter how important they are to us, is largely determined by what we can afford to pay. Now a new invention opens the door to a better, more attractive, more satisfying home environment for anyone who has the desire. You can now furnish a complete home for a fraction of the cost you would normally pay for the type of furniture you yourself want and aspire to. You can do it with Porta Shop.

Have you seen a Porta Shop demonstration? Probably not or you would now be well on your way to fulfilling all your dreams and hopes of a beautiful home, distinctively yours. But you can start. Call Porta Shop, or better still stop in and arrange for a demonstration in creativity. No obligation, of course, but much to gain. You'll be amazed by what you see and thrilled by what is suddenly really possible for you to do yourself at a low cost and have the kind of home you've always wanted.

Easy Way To Keep Tub Clean

What is the easiest and surest way of avoiding that scum ring around the bathtub? Take showers!

This is a clever answer to the question... but not to the problem. It may keep the tub clean, but it won't keep your skin and hair free of the same dulling film that makes for a bathtub ring.

If the water you use does cause a ring, you are using hard water with chemical impurities. These combine with soaps and detergents to leave a film or deposit on yourself even when you shower, on your hair when you shampoo and on your face when you wash it.

Great-grandmother knew what she was doing when she caught rainwater in a barrel to wash her hair. That water had no mineral impurities that would combine with soap to leave a dulling film on her skin and hair. She knew that it was rinsing that determined whether results would be bright or dull; soft and fluffy or hard; totally clean or anything.

While great-grandmother's efforts to collect rainwater in a barrel were well worth the efforts, no one suggests that modern homemakers hunt up a barrel to put by the downspout.

Still we can take a hint from great-grandmother who realized that rainwater was close to ideal for personal grooming. Plenty of pure, soft water, moderately hot and a little mild soap—the cleaner the water, the less soap is required and the water need not be uncomfortably hot or irritating. This is the closest thing today to her way to a beauty treatment with water.

Water conditioning equipment manufacturers who provide quality water the modern way point out that this equipment provides fully soft water far more readily, in greater amounts and with even greater cleansing action than water from the rain barrel.

LEADING FOUNDRIES

Foundries in the United States are the world's leading producers of ductile iron castings. In 1965 they produced a record 825,000 tons of ductile iron while annual free world production reached 1,825,000 tons, according to International Nickel in whose laboratories the tough, strong cast iron was developed.

Growth in Boating Takes Suburbanites to Water

Pleasure boating, a sport that once limited to an occasional row in the park, today has come into its own as one of the most popular forms of American recreation. This year, for example, the sport will:

Put more than 8,000,000

boats on rivers, lakes and oceans.

Consume nearly 1,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

Result in enthusiasts traveling about 13,500,000 miles to get boat, water and boaters together.

Provide recreation and relaxation for some 40,000,000 U.S. citizens of all ages from all walks of life.

And the boats, motors, trailers and other marine equipment offered to this group will be as varied as the enthusiasts themselves. Every type of boating for every range of budget is covered in the vast array of models offered this year.

At least 25 different models of boats and 11 outboard motors are being offered by one national distributor. Included in the group are a new registered red-class sailboat and two new 15-foot runabouts.

Half-sportster, half-pleasure boat, the "Whirlwind" Sailing Sportster a 14-foot sailboat designed for formal or informal racing, sports a 95-square foot swivel-gaff rig for sailing efficiency and stability.

A patented steering system ends the need for large tiller sweeps when making port or starboard tacks and adjusts to clear the knees as well as the cockpit area.

Two 15-foot runabouts, bearing sleek, auto-like designs to reduce wind resistance, feature bright deck-and-hull colors and back-to-back seats in Deluxe and Custom models. The "Custom" includes sleeper seats and a top.

Be it speed, cruising or fishing, or just putting around together as a family, a 17-foot Cabin Cruiser with two berths, loads of storage space and an open cockpit for deck chairs (found in the outboard version), may prove to be the answer.

Made of molded fiber glass with a glass-enclosed cabin, this cruiser, in both an outboard and an inboard-outboard version, sports a 110 HP Volvo motor.

Eight 14 to 17-foot runabouts, a fiber-glass dinghy, three canoes and a fleet of aluminum fishing boats are among the entries in the Sears line.

Eleven outboard motors range from two trollers to 28, 45 and 75 HP models. Starter generators, remote fuel tanks, surface-gap ignition, alternator-generators and auto-bail pumps are among the highlights of various models.

Among outboard motors, new 7.5 and 9 HP models are complete with electric start generators for 1966. A 3.5 and 14 HP size are additional models in the line.

A complete line of boats, motors, trailers and marine accessories are available exclusively at Sears.

HEAVO HO into a weekend of boating fun with a wide variety of models as unlimited as the thrills. The 15-foot runabout boasts new colors and back to back seats while the 17-foot cabin cruiser in the background has everything including a built-in table for snacking. These are familiar sights on are lakes as suburbanites take to the water on the weekends and every other possible time.

Nation's Costliest Pest? $500 Million Litterbug

Every taxpayer helps support a $500 million industry that nobody wants!

That's how much it costs to pick up the litter in public streets, highways and parks. Last year, the cost of cleaning city streets reached $300 million. Another $100 million was spent for picking litter off national highways. The remaining $100 million went for cleaning city parks, beaches and other public places.

This gigantic expenditure of tax dollars can be cut down. The nation's worst litter habit is throwing paper from automobiles onto highways and streets.

Yet it's an easy habit to break with the help of an in-car litter basket.

One handy combination unit collects litter on one side and dispenses junior size tissues from the other. The dispenser-disposer, which fits over the floor tunnel of the car, is available from Anti-Litter, Box 345-1, Southfield, and two premium seals from any size Kleenex tissue box.

The handy, tip-proof basket, in black, blue, red, green, gold, silver or beige, is made of durable plastic and weighted to keep it in place.

Keep litter in its place — not on the road!

Bacon rates high as a family favorite meat. But don't buy more than you will use in five to seven days. The fine flavor and color of bacon fades with age.

Michigan is among the top three states in the Union in the use of underground natural gas storage fields. By using old gas fields as "warehouses" for supplies of gas, the company not only has gas on hand for sudden cold snaps, but is helping to preserve a great natural resource—the gas field areas—for economic benefit to many communities.

Consumption of nickel in the free world is estimated at a record 730 million pounds in 1965, exceeding consumption of the metal in 1964 by 60 million pounds.

Bedroom Shows Interests

Spreads Adds Color

Remember when you first got your own room to fix up the way you wanted? For a boy it was as sure a sign of growing up as fuzz on his cheeks. For a girl it was a place to express some of her own preferences in color and design. For both it meant much desired privacy, even if parents still had the final say on what went into the room.

Today's young people — whether they're off to college, or just starting high school — no longer depend on what their elders choose for dorm or bedroom. Even boys and young men know what they want in the way of room accessories.

A few items are as basic as the ABCs in every student's room. Whether boy or girl, at home or on the campus, each room needs a mirror. For the young woman, it's the full-length kind on a closet door so she can tell if her skirt is short enough. For a boy, it's a shaving mirror which he can use to save precious minutes before morning classes.

A clock, a radio (or combination), bookshelves, a desk and reading lamp are other musts. Here, too, the choice is usually highly individual. The lamp can be a starkly modern floor model or a currently fashionable Tiffany lamp suspended from the ceiling.

Even a wastebasket can reflect its owner's taste. Covered in chintz, it becomes as feminine as a petticoat. Coated in old maps or leather, it's as comfortable as a pipe in a young man's room. A shelf displaying a girl's collection of stuffed animals or a boy's basketball trophies, can turn a room into home. Travel posters or a collection of prints make cold walls reflect the warmth of its occupant's personality. A bulletin board with snapshots, pennants and notes is a valuable, as well as decorative addition to a room.

Students who live at home can obviously use their decorating ideas to the hilt. Walls can be papered or painted, or perhaps a combination of both. For a striking effect in a girl's room, two walls can be papered in a floral pattern and the other two papered in a stripe of a matching color. A variation of this theme is to paint all the walls and add a decorative border of wallpaper. The boy in the family may prefer the spartan look of a single "brick" or paneled wall in his room.

The campus-bound crowd is limited to working with an existing wall and furniture scheme. Thus the bedspread assumes special importance because it can dramatically alter the room's appearance and take attention away from monotone walls.

To the college student or the young person at home, the bed is the room's decorative focal point. It is the largest flat surface, aside from the floor, so the bedspread is studied on, sat on, eaten on and napped on. This means a bedspread has to be sturdy and washable, as well as decorative. With this in mind, Bates has designed a line of bedspreads that will pass the usage test semester after semester. As the decorating authority for student rooms throughout the country, Bates knows how to bring color into the room without breaking a young budget.

At the end of the collection is "Disco-tech," an asymmetric plaid in bold colors of red, green, blue and tangerine. At the other is "Embroidery," a softly feminine floral pattern in dramatic or pastel colors. For the tailored look, there is "Piping Rock," a rugged ribbed solid available in 18 colors to match any school's emblem.

A few throw pillows or bolsters to accent or contrast with the spread will carry out the color theme. To give a dramatic accent, paint a chair or wall shelf in a bright shade. A colorful live plant brings the outdoors in and adds an oasis of color, too.

Many of the bedspreads from the Bates' collection have matching draperies. Besides their use on windows, they can be adapted to give a decorator's touch. One idea is to attach a pair of draperies to the wall under a wood valance in place of a headboard. This gives a regal look to a girl's room.

To complete the picture, there are available companion blankets for many of the patterns. The "Piping Rock" blanket, for example, has a contrasting binding which matches the bedspread's color.

Decorating dilemmas need no longer take up a student's valuable time. To help select the right items for a particular room, Bates has established a College Board of Selections, made up of coeds. Like their counterparts in college fashion shops, these elected Bates Dream Queens are available in stores throughout the country to give advice on decorating student rooms.

As one decorating authority

20 Percent of Budget Is for Food

It takes a lot of "dough" to feed a family. In fact, Michigan State University food specialists report that money spent for food takes almost one-fifth of the total consumer income in the United States.

Dr. Portia Morris, extension specialist in foods and nutrition, says that money spent for food at home and for meals away from home is generally the largest recurring item of expense in the budget of most families.

The proportion of the budget spent for food varies from family to family less than might be expected. Those families with higher incomes tend to buy expensive foods; larger amounts of some foods, such as baked goods and less flour and cereals; more services and more foods that add variety to meals.

Because food is a basic necessity, families with low incomes and those with several children tend to spend a larger part of their income on food than those with higher incomes and fewer children. Although each family member adds to the total family budget, expenditures per person in larger families tend to be less.

Dr. Morris reports that farm families pay out only half as much for food as urban families. Rural non-farm families also spend less than urban families. However, as these groups have lower incomes, the share of total income going for food is not greatly different from urban groups.

Projections for 1980 show that some kind of food stamp plan will probably be in effect. This will allow low income families to have consumption patterns similar to those of families who have incomes of $3,000 a year at present price levels.

DEEPEST MINE SHAFT

The deepest continuous mine shaft in the Western Hemisphere is currently being sunk at International Nickel's Creighton Mine in the Sudbury District of Ontario. Reaching 7,150 feet below ground level, the shaft will permit single-stage hoisting of men, ore and supplies from depth directly to the surface.

Junipers Popular In Michigan

By Wayne Jones

The Junipers are probably the most important family of evergreens in the United States. They are popular in Michigan because they are very hardy, easy to grow, and may be found in almost any desired shape.

Junipers have a wide range of colors; greens, blues, and all shades between. Many have a silvery cast or reddish tinge or tipped with yellow. The common Andorra turns a reddish color in the winter months.

Junipers grow best in full sun but will tolerate light shade. They seem to thrive in any well drained soil and do especially well on poor sandy soils. Spider mites can be a problem particularly in hot dry weather but are easily controlled by spraying with Malathion.

The spreading junipers are very common and very fast-growing. The Pfitzer, green color, and the Hetz, blue-gray color, are disliked by some because they grow so rapidly. However, when sheared regularly they can be very attractive. The Compact Pfitzer and Armstrong Juniper are much slower growing and so can be more easily used in smaller areas.

The Andorra is the best-known of the creeping Junipers. This group includes many varieties that obtain 12 inches in height or less. There are many good varieties in this group which should be more widely used, all making excellent ground covers.

The upright and pyramidal forms also include a long list and are mostly used for screening. Check with your Nurseryman for the variety that will look best in your garden.

When Planning Your Kitchen Place Freezer Away From Sun

When planning your kitchen, place major appliances in areas where they can operate at maximum efficiency.

Don't, for instance, locate a refrigerator-freezer next to a clothes dryer or where it will be hit by direct sunlight for long periods of time. By exposing it to heat, you may be forcing the appliance to work extra hard to keep foods at their prescribed degree of coldness.

In the days before no-frost refrigerator-freezers, other efficiency drains could occur. Excess frost on manually-defrosted units often made the appliance work hard to stay cold. With no-frost models, which do not permit frost to form in either the freezer or refrigerator compartments, this is never a problem.

Absence of frost, together with precise temperature controls and improved thin-wall foam insulation, make it easier for modern refrigerator-freezers to operate at peak efficiency. Ease of operation means that power consumption — and costs are also kept down.

The amount of frozen food packaged in one day in our nation weighs more than 30 Empire State Buildings.

Right Containers Important to Good Flower Arranging

New York—As an art, flower arrangements most closely resemble painting, adhering to the same principles of scale, color rhythm, and composition to achieve beauty.

The side triangle, crescent, half-circle, S-curve, perpendicular, oval, and triangle are basic forms, which have appeared consistently through the history of flower arrangement. These compositions, or eight basic plans, are your simple guide to turning flower arrangements into living paintings.

Flowers are lovely in any circumstance, but to bring out all their natural beauty they should be arranged in containers, which complement their colors and contours. The container's suitability, not its intrinsic value, is really what matters here.

Since experts agree that over-decorated, highly colored vases detract from the beauty of the flowers themselves, any container made of clear light-tinted glass is a good choice. Many unique and original compositions—formal or informal—can be made with such standard pieces as the bases and bowls every household owns.

Tumblers, stemmed or footed goblets, brand inhalers (miniature or mammoth), cocktail mixers, candy dishes, beer stein or tall Pilsner glasses, apothecary jars or jars that once held bath salts—these are but a few examples of the household glassware that you can borrow to make sparkling flower arrangements. Small rose bowls, nut dishes, even relish dishes make perfect containers for tiny compositions.

No matter what piece of glassware you choose, nor which of the eight basic plans is most appropriate to it—you'll start by deciding on the scale of the arrangement. Scale is the relationship of the flowers to the size and shape of the container. Most visually satisfying is an arrangement whose proportions are at least 1½ times a tall container's height—or about 1½ times a low container's width.

Color rules are simple. Since dark or heavy flowers tend to give the feeling of weight, they look least heavy when used at the bottom of the arrangement. Buds and lighter, smaller blossoms may be placed at the top and outer sides. Try to use color in groups—"family" colors like pinks and reds together—to lend coherence and harmony to the over-all effect.

Flowers should be arranged so that the eye is led to a natural center of interest. This is where you call upon graceful foliage to give a feeling of rhythmic motion and direction to the composition.

Let's start with a footed candy dish as the container you've chosen—the "half-circle" might be the most compatible among the basic plans. Or if you've selected an over-sized brandy glass as your holder, you may find either the "crescent" or the "oval" most suitable.

You can see how charming a nosegay may be fashioned from purple violets or gold pansies in a mauve-tinted or clear glass sherbet dish—and how a cut glass goblet with tiny garnet roses and baby's breath will pay gracious compliments to a hostess or make an unforgettable birthday remembrance.

Important tip! Keep your containers sparkling to show your arrangements to best advantage. Glass vases and bowls are the easiest to clean of all materials, and if slight discolorations appear after use, a mild chlorine bleach will remove them.

Glass casseroles salad bowls, even mixing bowls lend themselves to interesting arrangements, so the next time you open your kitchen cupboard, think of what amusing things you can do with ordinary everyday objects as containers for your own creations.

Consumers Promotes "Gas Comfort" Home

Consumers Power Company's strenuous efforts to upgrade and refine the image of natural gas as more than a tool for heating houses and cooking chicken dinners are catching on.

The company's program, called the "Gas Comfort Conditioned Home," is not a year old, with only one fully-completed model actually occupied by December 1, but the company's marketing department has enlisted more than a half dozen builders in the program, and in 1966 many such houses will be built in the company's service area.

The first Gas Comfort Conditioned Home was opened to the public in Lapeer, just east of Flint, on October 1, and received an enthusiastic response from the community.

American Gas Association Spokeswoman Jinx Falkenburg's appearance at the ribbon-cutting ceremony helped considerably. The public liked the idea of a quality approach to gas home use.

Consumers list of qualifications for the "Gas Comfort Conditioned Home" label are stringent. They involve high insulation standards, quality air handling equipment, gas appliances for heating, air conditioning, water heating and cooking, and, of course, quality home construction from slab to roof.

Consumers, with 680,000 natural gas customers throughout Michigan's Lower Peninsula, except Detroit proper, naturally has listed Gas Comfort Conditioned Home specifications to conform to climate problems peculiar to its northern service area.

A specific list of these would be meaningless in much of the country, but in general they include:

- Ceiling and wall cavity insulation
- Duct insulation on ducts outside space being heated and cooled
- Humidity control
- Air filterization

The company says that when design and insulation qualifications of the Gas Comfort Conditioned Home are met, comfort levels within the home are equal to any system, regardless of the heat source. The additional benefit of using gas is the economy in both the original equipment costs and the energy costs.

In the Consumers Michigan environment, the company says, heating and cooling costs for a FHA minimum standard home of 1,250 square feet would be $204 for heating and $36 for cooling; the Gas Comfort Conditioned Home of 1,250 square feet would cost $110 for heating and $22 for cooling, for a total cost of $132.

Placed on a 20-year basis, this $108 per year savings would allow $2,160 in savings to pay for additional insulation, the cost of air conditioning equipment and finance charges.

But best of all, the company says, you have a good gas customer for life, and one who, being "gas conscious," might well sell himself on using yard lights, barbecues and other extra gas appliances which further build load.

Napkin Art Keeps Tots Contented

Napkin art can keep preschool youngsters occupied indoors for hours on a rainy spring day. Blunt-end scissors, paste, a box of dinner napkins, and active imaginations are all they need to cut and fold birds and animals, stars and flowers, boats or hats.

Hold a contest to see who can make the best rabbit or tulip. When the youngsters have enough creations, let each choose his favorite one, and award him a gold star to put on it.

Tips on Building a Ventilated Patio Roof, That Will Work

Building a patio roof, to add beauty and comfort to the home, can be fun and easy to do. All it requires is ordinary hand tools—and thorough planning before you begin!

The first and most important consideration is assuring maximum comfort. Any single-layer roof needs proper ventilation to provide coolness and control condensation.

Constructing a translucent patio or porch can be mostly a one-man job, completed in a week-end. A wife's helping hand is valued at some stages of the project, and certainly helps make the work go faster.

Considering how to properly ventilate any roof, first examine the basic steps in constructing the roof.

First step is to install the front header support posts. The average patio needs but two.

These can be secured with angle irons or a rod in the cement footing. Atop these, a four by four, used as the front header, is secured with framing anchors.

Two, working together in securing the headers, is better than one. The length of the headers make it unwieldy for one man alone. The back header, is a two by six, and is fastened to the house wall.

As a first step in insuring proper ventilation, both headers should be raised to the greatest height possible while allowing for recommended pitch.

Once the headers are installed, the man of the house can start putting in the two by fours as rafters. Meanwhile, the lady of the house can (if she will) be cutting translucent fiberglass roofing panels to size. This material is available in sheets and in rolls, and is easily cut with an ordinary hand saw.

Finally, cross braces and moulding strips, which also serve to provide a handsome lattice effect, complete the installation of supporting lumber. All lumber may be purchased pre-cut, if desired, to speed the job and eliminate much of the sawing and cutting.

At this point, you are ready to install the fiberglass roof panels. These are lapped over the rafters—but note that it is here that you take the important step for ventilation in a normal installation.

Allow from four to six feet of space between the house wall and the roof panels. The panels should be that distance from the building and six to eight feet below the roof overhanging. It is this separation that makes for the air sweep from under the patio roof.

Overlapped one corrugation where they meet, should be nailed to the framework with aluminum weather-proof nails having a built-in Neoprene washer.

An ordinary drill with a one-eighth inch bit is used.

And so, with a hammer, saw, drill, and nails, the patio roof is completed. For a final professional and decorative touch, nail a valance or fascia board to the front end of the rafters.

Never too fast to grab at an opportunity—it might turn out to be a hot potato.

CASUAL, COOL outdoor living means a well-ventilated patio. Tests have shown that a patio which is open on three sides and has roof ventilation as well, is cooler than its surrounding area. Building information is available in a pamphlet by Filon Corporation "How to build translucent patios," plan No. 504. It's free from lumber dealers.

Carpeting Now Used Widely

A whole new world of rugs and carpets, in store for spring, features thick furry piles, sculptured surfaces, bold patterns, new colors and fibers.

Some floor coverings look as if they should really be hung on the wall, thanks to designs taken from paintings.

The range extends from the finest Aubusson types in muted colors to abstract colors in lively tones.

New colors appear as opposite extremes, with brilliant yellows and reds and winey maroons and earth tones.

Pattern makes news, as mills now make patterned wall-to-wall carpet at moderate prices. (Formerly, most patterns were used in area rugs.)

Some beautiful floral and geometric patterns are available at comparable low prices. Synthetic figures such as rayon, nylon, acrylic and polypropylene are more common than ever. They offer excellent colors, wearing properties, stain and crush resistance.

With such floor coverings, dealers often recommended the use of latex foam rubber or sponge rubber carpet underlays, to give them a luxurious "deep" feeling.

Carpeting is no longer used exclusively in the living room and dining room. Special construction carpets are available for bedrooms, bathrooms, kitchens, basements, and even for patios and outdoor areas.

New Lighting: Sophisticated

Current trends in lighting fixtures tie in with current trends in all home furnishings.

"Early American, which has been consistently popular, is now appearing in a more sophisticated way, with more formal styles and elegant adaptations," reports Julius Friedman, vice president, Progress Manufacturing Co.

"Some 19th century designs of France and England are much in evidence. The Spanish influence, so strong for several seasons, is now more prominent than ever."

Lighting fixtures reflect all these trends, and thus serve to accent home furnishings more effectively.

Among the new lighting fixture designs for spring '66 are dramatic crystal chandeliers, star-cut beveled glass panels in lanterns, and pendants, cast chandeliers and matching wall and ceiling fixtures, with rich amber or smoke glass globes.

Art of Buying Home Comes With Experience

If you're an experienced homeowner looking for a new house, chances are you know exactly what you want.

But if you're building or buying your first home, inexperience can cost you time, trouble and money.

One way to avoid mistakes is to profit by the experience of your home-owning friends. But relying too heavily on their advice could be your first mistake.

Only you can decide what kind of house best meets your own needs. The size of your family, the ages of its members, family interests, and the amount of entertaining you do will help determine your choice.

If you have a young and growing family, for example, you might outgrow a small house in a few years. An older couple, on the other hand, must reckon with the day their children will leave home. Too big a house can be a burden in later years.

If you're used to having repair and maintenance handled by a landlord, you may be surprised at the time and money required to keep up some houses. Your best safe guard against upkeep problems is to be sure the building materials in your home offer high quality, durability and low maintenance.

A roof covered with heavy-weight asphalt shingles will last longer without repairs or replacement than ordinary roofs. These shingles are available with guarantees up to 25 years against defects.

Frequent painting of exteriors can be expensive and burdensome. The cost of having a house painted professionally varies in different parts of the country.

It's a good idea to check the exterior closely to determine what kind of maintenance will be required. Some exterior materials, such as mineral fibre shingles or brick, do not need to be painted and can be kept clean with an occasional washing.

The overall appearance of your house is of prime importance. Changing an architectural style can be extremely expensive, so be sure you're getting a style you'll be happy with. Like everything else in the house you buy, you'll have to live with it a long time.

Kitchen Plans Favor Built-Ins

Most people now include an automatic dishwasher in their kitchen remodeling plans, and choose a built-in model.

Designed for permanent installation under a counter, a built-in dishwasher eliminates the need for a double sink. It also lowers cabinet costs because it occupies the space that's otherwise used for an extra base cabinet.

A Look Ahead Is MSU Project

The family breadwinners of the future will probably have easier jobs, more leisure time and more money to spend.

This somewhat rosy picture of the future was painted by Michigan State University scientists involved in Project '80, a futuristic look at Michigan's lars, in terms of today's prices — enough to provide the population with an income after taxes of $3,000 per capita. And this means that every man, woman and child in the country will have nearly $1,000 more to spend than he or she has now. Since most people will have provided themselves with the basic necessities, additional spending will go for luxury goods and nonessentials.

Best Choice for Buyers of Better Homes

Of the additional $1,000 in disposable income, only about $100 will be spent on food. Most of this will go for processing and for other marketing services rather than the farmer. But, of course, the rising population will enlarge the farmer's gross income.

People will have more leisure time to spend this money. Most will be on a four-day work-week and will also enjoy another week of paid vacation time. More will retire at earlier ages.

There will be more women in the labor force, and families will take advantage of an improved technology and more convenience foods. But the working man and women of the future will expend less energy in their jobs. A higher proportion will be at desk jobs rather than on production lines which will likely reduce the amount of calories needed for each worker to perform these duties.

The total population will be around 245 million by 1980. Michigan should have around 10.2 million.

And there will be striking population shifts off the farm. Looking back to 1960, there were about 441,000 people — making up 5.6 per cent of Michigan's population — that were considered in the "rural farm" category in 1960. This compared with 21 per cent rural nonfarm and 73 per cent urban.

By 1980, only two per cent of the state's population is expected to be classified as rural farm. Rural nonfarm will jump to 23 per cent; urban to 75 per cent.

Along with shifts in population will come shifts in land usage. About 30 per cent of the land that was in farms in 1959 will be diverted to other uses by 1980. Some of this acreage will be used for urban purposes and for highways. The bulk of the disappearing farm area, however, will shift to the forest and recreation classification.

Farm numbers in 1980 will probably drop to 35,000 from 112,000 in 1959. Most of the decline will be in farms grossing less than $10,000. Farms grossing over $20,000 will more than double.

Even so, there will still be a place for the small sized farm and the part-time farm. By 1980, a third of the commercial farmers will still be grossing under $10,000 and about four out of 10 of all farmers will be in the part-time or part-retirement classification.

These estimates of the status of 1980 Michigan are projections, not predictions. They are based upon analyses, assumptions and judgments. The MSU scientists say, many things, including the reaction of people in rural Michigan to Project '80 itself, could change the projections.

The two-year Project '80 research has now been completed and is being turned over to Michigan's rural leaders and industries for their consideration and use. They will examine the projections and determine what can be done — and what should be done — to make rural Michigan what they want it to be in the future.

Banker Explains Kitchen Planning

"A new paint job or a trip to the local department store is often all that's needed to redo the living room. But kitchen remodeling — well, that takes planning."

The man who says this ought to know. Robert W. Stober is assistant vice president of the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn, which for the past 18 years has housed a unique home and remodeling display.

Every month, about 5,000 people — many of them out-of-staters — visit the bank's home buyers' exhibition to see what's new in home design, building products and remodeling. The prime interest of men and women alike seems to be the kitchen displays.

"Built-in kitchen appliances are the going thing," says Stober "both as new home features and in remodeling.

It's what the public wants, so that's what builders are offering."

An indication of the consumers' demand for built-in kitchen convenience, he says, is the fact that a majority of builders displaying at the bank now offer built-in automatic dishwashers as standard kitchen equipment.

The bank's home buyer's consultant, Mrs. Letty Patti, agrees. A consistent question among women visitors to the exhibit is whether the homes include a dishwasher. "They've come to expect it in homes of all price levels," she says.

Of the exhibit's two types of visitors — young marrieds and families shopping for a second or third home — interest in dishwashers is somewhat high among the second group. Stober thinks he knows why.

"It happened in my own family," he says. "Our old house didn't have a dishwasher, but our new house did. And, at first, my wife was not very enthusiastic about this added attraction."

She had the idea that pre-rinsing was required and loading would take as much time and trouble as washing dishes by hand.

Then after she'd used the new dishwasher for a while, she couldn't understand how she'd ever gotten along without one!

He considers it a matter of awareness. Once homeowners learn that an appliance or a building product is worth having, they insist on having it in their new or updated homes.

Showing what it worthwhile is a major purpose of the exhibit. Strictly an advisory service to present and potential homeowners, the exhibits offers no endorsement of any products or building firms.

It is, however, selective of quality products and changes the displays every six months to give visitors the widest scope possible.

Launch Outer Space Program for Storage

Crowded for inside storage space? Maybe you should launch an "outer space" program.

One way to do it is by constructing a simple backyard box shed for tools, paints, house repair and lawn equipment. Two-by-fours make a solid shed frame that can be easily closed over with unfinished mineral fiber sheets.

Woman Competes With Men Atop Roofs Armed With Hammer, Nails

When most people need a new roof, they call a roofing man.

In Grand Rapids, Mich., they call a roofing lady.

The lady who answers the call is Marjorie Simmons, secretary-treasurer and star "salesman" of the Simmons Roofing Co., who can climb up a roof and make estimates as well as any of her male colleagues. She can also nail shingles, when she has to.

Marjorie was literally born into the roofing business, but it was a long time before people got used to dealing with a lady roofer.

"When I first started going out on estimates, some customers didn't want to talk to a woman," Marjorie explained. "Now, when my brother, Dick, goes out instead, these same people may say, 'I was expecting a lady.'"

As children, Marjorie and her brother performed chores around the shop of the family's roofing business. But during World War II, with her brother in the Navy, Marjorie's father suffered a heart attack which forced her into the roofing business.

"I was only in high school at the time, but I started going out on estimates. Even though father recovered, I realized I should learn more about the business, and so I stayed."

Today, her father, F. O. Simmons, founder and president of the firm, is semi-retired. Dick is vice-president. And Marjorie, who runs the business end, is a well-established and respected member of the roofing fraternity who takes an active interest in statewide and national industry programs.

The company has grown to a point where today it has eight trucks and employs 25 roofers.

The firm's best-known job was the 1964 re-roofing of the famous Grand Hotel on Michigan's Mackinac Island. The hotel, whose 880-foot front porch is the world's longest, was re-roofed with fire-retardant heavy weight asphalt shingles, which had to be ferried to the island by barge and then transported to the hotel by horse-drawn wagons because motor vehicles are forbidden on the island.

Marjorie's mettle as roofing estimator was tested when she had to estimate how many horse-and-wagon trips would be required to haul 60,000 square feet of heavy weight asphalt shingles. Heavy weight shingles, which last longer than standard grades, also weigh considerably more; hence, they required more trips.

The Simmons firm was awarded the job based on Marjorie's estimate, and the job was completed at the end of the 1964 summer season. It took the roofing crew almost a month just to rip off the old roof.

Daisies and Geometry Tell Wallpaper Story

Daisies are telling a home fashion story for spring. When it comes to daisies in wallpaper patterns, there have rarely been so many different kinds and color combinations.

Here's a rundown on part of the wide variety available.

A modern interpretation of daisies called "Love Me Not" has a geometric feeling and comes in two color combinations—orange, yellow and green, or blue and green.

Another wallpaper pattern, "Daisy Drifts," suggests tiny bouquets in an over-all pattern and in three color combinations—pink and silver, mustard and silver, blue and gold.

Like daisies, ticking stripes are popular in wallpaper patterns, and "Peppermint Daisies" combines the two. Here, striped daisies appear in undulating horizontal stripes upon the ticking ground.

Look for the "Gingham Daisy," in white with black, yellow, pink or blue. A plain "Gingham" fabric without the daisies is available in matching colors.

The wallpaper pattern for "Daisy Quilt" is adapted from an early copperplate chintz. Lively colors include blue and green, pink and green, orange and brown or gold and blue.

"Holiday Daisy" has a dainty look, in yellow, blue or pink. "Daisy Dell" features random daisy bunches and comes with an attractively matched screen printed chintz.

"Fleurs Volantes" also has a matching fabric. As the name implies, there is a "French look" to this soft floral wallpaper pattern.

Current fashion for flocks is reflected in a wallpaper pattern with a tone-on-tone flocked daisy in geometric squares. Red, green, cream and white are the color choices.

Backyard Pools Add Family Fun

If the memory of summer weekends conjures up fighting traffic jams to and from crowded beaches, you can still provide your family with the health, recreation and relaxation that swimming affords and stay comfortably at home. In three days you can be taking a dip in your own pool.

Last year 56,700 residential pools were installed across the U.S., according to the Swimming Pool Industry Market Report, and if the present trend continues, by 1970, one out of every 32 homeowners will have a backyard pool. In 1948, there were only 2,500 residential pools in the nation.

You can have a pool installed in your backyard in three days, thanks to the development of a prefabricated in-the-ground steel swimming pool with a vinyl liner. A 16 by 32 foot pool complete with filter is available for less than $1,500. Other sizes range from 8½ by 17 feet to 25½ by 50 feet.

Here's how it's installed. An excavation is dug, usually with a power shovel. Walls of corrosion-resistant galvanized steel are set in place. The bottom is leveled and covered with fine tamped-down sand two inches thick.

A pre-shaped vinyl liner is then fastened to the corners of the pool walls and carefully spread out. A vacuum pump exhausts the air between the liner and the sand bottom to insure a snug tight fit.

When the pipes to and from the pool and filter system have been installed, landscaping completed and the pool filled, you're all set.

Also available for the home installation are stainless steel pools with porcelain enamel—which is the same glass-smooth material used in household appliances. They too require minimum surface maintenance. Of course, porcelain enamel provides permanent glistening color.

Besides the enjoyment your family will derive from a swimming pool, residential pools are regarded as home improvements and most banks will lend money to build them. In fact, statistics show that installing a swimming pool has frequently helped the sale of a home.

Local ordinances often require fencing around a pool. The barrier should be of sufficient height to prevent trespassing by small children and prevent non-swimmers from accidentally falling into an unattended pool.

One of the least expensive and most practical types of pool protection is steel link fencing. Available in all heights, gauges, patterns, colors, and price ranges, steel fencing requires little maintenance and can be extremely attractive as well.

Here's Mower That Eases Problems

Now there's a rotary power mower which is new because of the features that it doesn't have. The new mower does not have controls on the handle and does not have a carburetor, due to its use of a venturi-type fuel system.

The lightweight 20-inch wide push-type mower provides more trouble-free performance over extended use by ending the need for carburetor adjustment.

Also featured on this Craftsman push-type rotary mower is a built-in automatic cam which makes for up to 50 per cent less starting effort. Since it operates only during initial starting, full compression is developed when the engine starts.

The Craftsman push-type rotary mower with its venturi-type fuel system and automatic cam release is available exclusively at Sears.

Invest Wisely When Buying

You don't have to spend a lot of money to increase the value of your home. The important thing is to spend it wisely.

Money spent on improvements that will enhance the appearance of your property, reduce upkeep time and expense and make your home more marketable is money well spent.

The improved design and quality of modern building materials can make your improvement program succeed. Consider what's happened to house sidings. Some of the new ones offer high-quality protection, low maintenance and a variety of colors and textures from which to choose.

Mineral fiber siding, for example has an acrylic plastic color coating that provides an almost indestructible exterior surface. The siding is weather-proof and termiteproof. It won't burn, warp, rot or dent, and the sealed-in color will last for many years.

Colors range from soft pastels to deep hues, and there is a suitable texture for every architectural scheme.

Danish Modern Has Big Appeal

The traditional line of furniture has remained the same for a long time. Period furniture cannot be changed and the same holds for Early American and Colonial.

Contemporary can and has made a drastic change in the past 10 years.

Gone are the hard and solid foam cushions, seat and back, and wooden arms.

Now there is an entirely new concept in furniture varying from the two cushion, wooden arm, too soft, plush, seamless cushions, decor or down-packed, luxury seating that is informal yet formal. It's commonly called the Danish modern style.

The Motor City Speakeasy Toastmasters Club was chartered in 1954.

GOOD LANDSCAPING for more enjoyable outdoor living begins with a plan — and then can be added to as time and money permit. Tasteful arrangements of low-cost plants, combined with chairs and grills, offer outdoor pleasure for family and friends. Landscaping not only increases home beauty and comfort, but also, it often adds considerably to home value, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

Don't Save Attic Trash

A little elbow grease now may save a lot of grief from fire later.

Best prescription for Spring Clean-Up is a good, vigorous clean-out of trash — one of the smartest things you can do to keep your home and your family safe from fire.

It's smarter still if you repeat the job at regular intervals throughout the year.

Almost everyone's attic, closets and basement get to be the final resting place for clothing, or draperies, or lamp shades, or mattresses—the list is a long one—which seem to be too valuable at the moment to be thrown away. Every bit of it is fuel for destructive fire.

So add a trash can to the three tools you probably are using this Spring—broom, rake and paint brush.

Remember, about one of every twelve fires starts in rubbish, according to National Fire Protection Association records.

Improvements Boost Comfort, Value

"Repair, renovate, remodel—and expand!" In more and more homes, that's the slogan nowadays, as homeowners prepare to embark on home improvement activities that range from modernizing the kitchen and bath to adding a bedroom or a family room, from replanting the lawn and garden to re-roofing and re-siding the house.

Naturally enough, the first goal of all these projects is to enhance family comfort convenience and pleasure. But increasingly, a bonus benefit is getting attention: the boost in property values that stems from home improvement.

For owners of older homes, this increased value may well be the deciding factor when the question is, "should we move or should we improve?" To families cramped for space or impatient with antiquated facilities, moving often seems the only solution. Yet in many instances they would really prefer to remain in their present homes and neighborhoods. When, by improving comfort, they can also improve the ultimate resale value of the property, investment in improvement becomes an attractive alternative.

Even relatively new homes are candidates for improvement, too. Living in a new home, for a few months or years, often reveals family needs that were not apparent at the time of purchase. Changing trends in home life are another factor. The more elegant family room, for instance, is gaining in importance and often calls for additional space. Growing use of king-size or queen-size beds points up the need for larger bedrooms or more bedrooms. Outdoor improvements, from patios to swimming pools, attract the interest of many homeowners, whether the home be almost-ancient or almost-new.

In both newer and older homes, more space is likely to be the immediate improvement objective, to be achieved in one—or both—of two ways: remodeling and modernizing existing space, or expanding space with room additions. A survey conducted for the National Home Improvement Council reveals that, among homeowners intending to solve their space problems with additions, family rooms and bedrooms are first on the "most wanted" list. For those who plan to remodel existing space, kitchens and bathrooms take priority, the same survey shows.

Better storage facilities are stated as specific space needs for kitchens and bathrooms, and new appliances and plumbing fixtures play a significant role in expanding both the space and the convenience of these rooms.

As indoor family rooms grow more elegant, so does the outdoor, or garden, living room. Homeowners surveyed include a high proportion who intend to build a patio, for informal entertaining and to provide a play area for the children.

Comfort and practicality play a strong role in home improvement plans, as evidenced by the Council survey. Some features preferred by 69 per cent of the responders were: insulation added to walls, sound conditioned ceilings in the recreation room and wall-to-wall carpeting over wood floors.

Man-made and other materials still face strong competition from wood, the survey shows. Sixty per cent preferred wood paneling, as opposed to plaster and other types of wall coverings for interior walls, while 88 per cent voted for wood as the favorite material for kitchen cabinets. And local craftsmen can have cause for pride, since the survey indicates that 59 per cent of those questioned choose locally-built wood cabinets over the factory-built variety.

One Stop Centers Serve Needs of All

Women actually make many of the major decisions involving home improvements projects, and are often out buying supplies while their husbands are busy at home on household projects.

So reports Building Supply News, trade journal for the industry.

Often, that excursion in search of supplies will be a one-stop shopping trip, the journal further states.

There was a time, not long ago, when a homeowner who needed lumber, nails, lighting fixtures, an air conditioner, plumbing supplies and floor tiles would have had to go to six different stores.

Under the same roof, the customer is likely to find paints, power tools, fertilizers, ceiling tile, swimming pools, roofing, wallpaper and mailboxes—along with many other products.

Increase in home ownership and the do-it-yourself trend have caused yesterday's lumber yard to expand into a one-stop "supermarket" for building supplies.

Time For Remodeling? Be Careful of Builder

Remodeling can be a rewarding experience for a homeowner if he feels he has received a good job at a fair price.

There are more good remodelers today than ever before, with inventive ideas, skilled workmen and exciting new materials. But to guard against the few questionable firms, The Aluminum Association offers these tips:

The remodeling contractor should be chosen with the same care as a family physician. Look through the phone book for names that are well known, or check with your local Better Business Bureau of Chamber of Commerce.

In the case of aluminum siding, as an example, you should ask friends who have had good jobs done for the name of their contractor.

Ask the contractor to show you recent jobs. Talk with these homeowners. Make certain that the applicator you are considering is the same who actually did their work.

Get a total of two or more bids on your job, specifying what is wanted and spelling out exactly how much siding is to be installed. Be certain the quote includes all materials, accessories and labor.

Never make a deal without a written contract. Lack of a written agreement can lead to misunderstandings, hard feelings and loss of money.

If you ask the contractor to make changes while the work is in progress, request that he put the costs for the changes in writing. You will be asked to sign this agreement and attach your copy to the original contract.

Be sure the contract includes a detailed cost estimate and the total price. It also should include terms of payment and a statement that the premises will be clean upon completion of the job.

Of course, it's always wise to have an attorney check the document for more protection. Sign the completion certificate only when the job has been completed in accordance with the contract or sales agreement.

Pebble Gardens Answer for Problem Yards

The shrubs shade it, it's too close to a walk, too near a tree, and the grass either won't grow well or can't be cut conveniently. A problem area like this is really no problem at all, and can be the most striking area around the home with the help of pebbles and clay potted plants.

Once it is decided that the area is just too difficult to handle as a lawn, clear it of weeds and other debris. Shovel and hoe the soil one foot deep, and rake it level.

Next, border the area with old bricks, new bricks, Belgian blocks or aluminum garden edging. Then, add two inches of uniform size pebbles or crushed rock to cover the soil completely.

Set plants in porous clay pots on top of the pebble layer. But be certain that the plants you selected are those suitable for the prevailing light conditions in that spot.

If the pebble garden gets a lot of open sunlight, then the plants should be double potted.

This involves placing them in clay pots one size larger and filling the space between the two pots with sphagnum or peat moss and keeping it damp.

When selecting plants for your pebble garden, it's wise to seek the advice of a local florist or garden center.

THIS MODERNISTIC SETTING is the showroom of the new Heide's Florist building at the intersection of N. Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth. The longtime area florists moved into the new quarters last week. Heide's was founded by Cary Heide in 1899 and was sold to Reinhold Ruehr in 1939, who turned it over to his son Norman four years ago. Now Papa Ruehr works for Norman in the new florist shop while another son, operates the greenhouse on N. Mill Street.

Softness, Youth Prevail in '66

Traveling back through the space age, sportswear fashions capsule the greats of the past—the look of Garbo, the exotic tones of Gauguin's canvases, the geometry of Mondrian—and splash them into the soft, young world that's spring '66. Softness and youth reign everywhere: in cut, and especially in fabric and color combinations.

Costume is the by-word in spring fashions, and sportswear is no exception. Skirts swing under longer jackets, sometimes sleeveless and supplemented by a little blouse. T-shirt, tops, tank tops, ruffled blouses use fabrics as linen to combine with swaying silk skirts. Wildly striped, knitted polo shirts wildly match short, short skirts.

Jackets coordinate with the plaid skirt of a dress or turn into sweaters atop spring dresses. And what could be more womanly than coordinating a shocking pink hipster skirt, belted in wild orange to a blue bra and orange jacket?

Bells are ringing for action women in bell-bottomed, hipster trousers: pants that slightly flare or widely flare to Garbo proportions. Soft crepes, heated colors, Tahitian prints paint bell-bottoms and matching tops in imitation of Gauguin and Mondrian, for boating, lounging or most anything.

Pants carry the youth message for spring: the salty, British-buttoned sailor bells; the straight, slightly widened hem of elephant pants; the above- and -below- the-knee railroad "jams," chugging merrily along in stripes, brass buckles and contrast stitching; the ankle-ruffled "jellies."

Keeping the pants non-masculine property are the pretty, flowered shirts; stitched sweaters; deely V'd pullovers, stopped at the midriff; and black vinyl halter tops.

Youthful, wide, knee-length pants and britches are suited to smock tops in shocking colors or striped jackets.

Other pants reflect the look of the Thirties, with the longer hunting jacket in white cotton twill and pique, or the three-quarter, belted camel-hair coat.

"Go West" means "Go Soft" in bell-bottomed, hipster jeans, colored, blooming with flowers, eased through the leg. Even leather jeans are painted in luscious hues for spring, and the rugged look of suede is transformed into the gentility of a full skirt in such hues as clover, lettuce, raspberry.

Maverick cowgirls prefer shorty skirts riding the hipbone, fringed in mock leather and matched to gaiters. The really feminine and youthful cowgirl prefers calico for a low-slung skirt, jacket and Stetson hat.

Cowpoke shirts wear delicate prairie flower plants, are softened in voile, yoked, sleeveless and cut off at the midriff. Lengthened they grow into soft dresses.

Casual dresses, jumpers bespeak the little girl look with lots of tucks, smocking, puffed sleeves, skimp shaping; short, short skirts. Softening shows up

Everblooming Roses Serve Every Purpose

There are roses for every purpose—from the "living fence" to the lovely exhibition roses and climbers that beautify porches, garages and arbors.

All modern roses are "everblooming," that is, they have a burst of bloom in spring, quite a few bloom all summer and then a big bursting of bloom again in the fall until heavy frost.

Insist on "ever-blooming" roses, suggests the American Association of Nurserymen.

The different types of roses include:

1. Hybrid teas. These generally offer the most perfectly-formed blooms for the formal garden or for cut flowers to decorate the home. The colors are magnificent.

2. Floribunda roses offer many blooms on a single plant. If you are most interested in the quantity of blooms, many of which also are of good quality, these plants are for you. They are excellent as living fences and landscape decoration.

3. Climbing roses grow vigorously against a post, fence, arbor, porch, garage, and similar supporting structures.

4. Polyanthas are known as ramblers. They bear clusters of small flowers and they bloom profusely. They are colorful when massed in beds.

5. Tree roses are usually specimen plants used to set off a walk, porch, or some particular spot on the home grounds that may need a little "dressing up." They usually are around four to five feet in height, giving the effect of bouquets of lovely roses as guests walk between them.

6. Grandiflora rose is named because of its large size and wealth of blooms. It makes a fine accent plant, either in gardens or singly to add color where needed.

Flowers Have Growing Role In Homes and Offices Today

There is a growing "revolution" going on now in homes, offices and stores across the country. Men and women in all walks of life are striving to add color to their lives. They don't talk about it much but they are changing things, and the changes are evident.

Bold, dramatic colors are being used in home decorating outside as well as inside.

Modern offices—once grey, buff or "office green"—are now sporting decorator colors with bright accents. Architects are beginning now to consider the matter of color in a building as much as form.

Those in the floral industry have been keenly aware of this quiet "revolution" because they have noted a steadily increasing use of flowers for other than traditional purposes.

Colorful flowers and plants have traditionally played prominent roles at Valentine's Day, Easter, Mother's Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas, at weddings and other special events and holidays. They have long been used to express friendship, love and sympathy . . . and, as a remembrance of the birthdays and wedding anniversaries of relatives and friends.

But now, an increasing number of people and businesses are making flowers a colorful part of their modern everyday living and activities. More and more women are finding that flowers are smart and fashionable and have a place in their busy social lives, as well as in their family's day-to-day activities at home. They find that flowers add just the right accent to keep pace with modern living.

These women wear flowers as accessories when they go visiting or attend informal as well as social events. The use of flowers, as accessories, they find, is limited only by their own imagination.

The modern woman is striving for a look of individuality and doesn't limit her use of flowers to her apparel. She is finding and using seemingly infinite variations of the shoulder corsage. She now is wearing flowers on cuffs, tucked into pockets of soft belts. She pins them to her purse or umbrella. She ties them to a bracelet. The younger set is wearing flowers at the hemline of the dress.

In the home, women are inclined more than ever before to use flowers in their decorating scheme to the delight of themselves and their families.

Flowers not only brighten a room, but they also provide a relaxed feeling. They break the hard and fixed lines of furniture and help to bring the outdoors inside.

At the dinner table, a floral centerpiece, no matter how simple, adds a certain touch of elegance to a family dinner that helps make dining at home an event to look forward to. This is especially important to the husband. When he comes home from work on the dull, grey, cold days of winter, a cheerful floral table decoration brings color right back to his life. Outside can be colorless, but the warmth of home is increased many times through the fresh feeling provided by colorful flowers.

Businesses, too, have come to realize the importance of flowers. They know that when a person goes into an office or a store where there's an attractive flower or plant arrangement . . . whether it's large or small . . . he gets a feeling that this is a friendly place . . . a good place to do business.

Many businesses today have arrangements with their local florist on a contract basis to supply, maintain and when necessary, replace office flowers and plants.

Realtors Plan Wire Circuit To Big Cities

A teletype hookup of cities in the East and Midwest, including Detroit, for rapid exchange of information in the marketing of residential properties, is planned by a group of the country's leading Realtor firms.

Announcement of the plan was made by Gordon Williamson, president of the firm bearing his name at 19180 Grand River in Detroit. The company also has branches in Dearborn, Farmington, Birmingham and Livonia.

Williamson attended a meeting of national network operators of the ASK computer in Baltimore last week. Purpose of the meeting was to discuss operation of the computer, installed by Williamson March 1, with the manufacturer and distributor, Donald E. Grempler of Baltimore.

Williamson reported that the computer had proved itself already in his firm's operations. In one weekend in April, the computer found homes for seven families, most of them transferencees moving to Detroit from distant cities and needing housing immediately.

Cities represented in the meetings in Baltimore included, besides Detroit, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Pittsburgh, Glencoe, Ill., Baltimore and Alexandria, Va.

Other subjects discussed by the computer users, said Williamson, were greater efficiency in advertising, modern methods of bookkeeping and departmentalizing of real-estate offices made necessary by automatic home-finding services and the growing market in metropolitan areas like Detroit for homes in all price categories starting at $15,000.

THIS IS THE basic planting which will soften the front of the new home. It places the shrubs so that they can be used for a privacy screen for the porch and patio. The shade trees are planted first to give them extra time for growth. Evergreens give the permanent look during the winter while the deciduous shrubs give color and variety. The growth and development of the landscaping will be described in additional drawings during the next two weeks.

Does Your Soil Need Lime? Get Answer At Garden Fair

Visitors at the Lawn and Garden Fair at the State Fairgrounds on April 30 may have their garden or lawn soil checked free of charge by experts, to determine whether or not lime would benefit the crop to be grown.

A local fertilizer manufacturer is sending a representative, complete with laboratory equipment, to the Fair to test visitors' soil for acidity level. Those who would like to take advantage of this offer are asked to bring about a half-cup of representative soil with them, track down the testing station and get an almost instantaneous electronic analysis of the soil pH.

This test will not determine fertilizer needs, but will simply show whether or not the addition of a liming material would be wise.

This soil testing activity is but one of about 200 demonstrations or exhibits being planned for the Lawn and Garden Fair. Other topics are designed to answer questions concerning all phases of lawn, vegetable, flower, fruit, insect, pesticide, fertility and many other problems.

In addition, a large commercial display of supplies and equipment will be shown in another area of this second horticultural field day for Detroit area homeowners.

Most heart attack sufferers now recover from first attacks. Of those who do, three out of four return to work, the Michigan Heart Association, a Michigan United Fund agency, says.

Garden Can Be A Real Challenge

Backyard gardening can be a challenge to any person and add a great deal of pleasure. It is a challenge to produce the first ripe tomato, the largest cucumber, or even a quart of large sparkling red strawberries. It is fun to compare produce with your neighbor, best friend, or even your foreman at the shop.

This can be done on a very small plot of soil, or include it along with your landscape. Two tomato plants can be grown on eight square feet of space on the south side of the house, or in the border of the landscape. Plant early between April 20 and May 1.

Cover with a large plastic bag to protect from cold nights. Use wire hoops to hold the bag away from the plant. Cut two openings about 2 square inches each to provide ventilation. Anchor at the base with soil.

Plant one hill of gynoecious cucumbers and raise enough for your table and give to your friends. A fresh cucumber adds zest to a salad on a hot August day.

Red ripe strawberries from your own garden will add color and a delicacy to any table dessert. Plant a few plants in the landscape border this year and harvest one quart from each plant. This sure can make your boss green with envy when you show him your large red strawberries.

Two or three crowns of asparagus planted along with the landscape layout can add another delicacy to the table. Plant one or two year old crowns in rich soil eight inches deep. After three years, you can harvest enough from three crowns to supply the table.

These are a few of the ideas that will be demonstrated at the Second Annual Free Lawn and Garden Fair, April 30, at the Michigan State Fairgrounds. Come out and visit with the horticultural specialists and learn how to Garden for Fun.

Stress Use of Herbicide To Eliminate Quackgrass

Reports from the University of Wisconsin indicate that while quackgrass is tougher to eliminate than most other weeds, the answer to its control lies in a split application of a herbicide this Spring.

The careful selection and application of the proper herbicide is all important to the success of this program. Dr. K. P. Buchholz of the University's Agronomy staff states that while many weed killers check growth in quackgrass, they do not fully destroy the root reserves which support new growth and thus do not really eliminate the problem.

In states where persistent quackgrass is a problem—Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, northern Indiana and northern Illinois—it can be effectively controlled with Atrazine. He recommends a split application of the herbicide during the early spring months, first as a pre-plow application and followed by a planting-time treatment.

A three-step program should be followed.

1. As early as it's possible to get on the land this Spring, apply a broadcast spray of 2½ pounds of Atrazine 80W in 20 gallons of water per acre. Dr. Buchholz recommends that application be made prior to April 1 if possible.
2. Wait about a month after the application before plowing. Then plow and prepare the seedbed in the normal manner.
3. At corn planting time (or after planting until weeds are 1½" high) apply another broadcast spray of 2½ pounds of Atrazine 80W. Dr. Buchholz likes to aim for no later than a May 10 planting date in his area.

This split application not only gives top-notch control of the quack but also gives control of most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses through the growing season.

Dr. Buchholz points out that it's important to get plenty of water on per acre. He says that it has been his experience that between 20 and 30 gallons per acre have given the most consistent results.

It is also important to remember that on corn land that has received this split application totaling 5 pounds of Atrazine 80W, the land should again go into corn the following year.

If the farmer is going onto land that has not been cropped for several years—soil bank land, for instance—the agronomist stated that a heavy litter may have accumulated. Under these conditions, it is especially important that there be sufficient rainfall to carry the herbicide down through the trash to the weed germinating zone. The same conditions exist when the soil contains a high concentration of organic matter or has a heavy manure cover.

Some farmers, particularly those who fall plow, have had excellent results with applying the first Atrazine spray before the fall plowing and the rest at planting time the following spring. Dr. Buchholz says, however, that the two spring applications of Atrazine provide just as good quackgrass control. "You can't see any difference at all," he stated. "For most effective control, the first application of the Atrazine should be made about a month in advance of plowing to weaken and kill the quack before planting time."

Check Banks For Financing of Landscaping

Anyone who owns a home can finance landscaping of the grounds by applying for a loan at a bank. Under Title I, of the Federal Housing Act, government-insured loans can be made up to $3,500 for landscaping.

Most large nurserymen will arrange for financing at local banks if the home owner desires it.

The best procedure is to find out how much the cost of landscaping will be from a nurseryman or landscape architect, then apply to a bank for a loan.

It is preferable to have a plan for the landscaping, if any considerable sum is to be spent.

As a rule of thumb, a first-rate landscaping job should not cost less than five percent of the value of the home.

Landscaping costs can be added to a mortgage in many cases if the same bank handles both the loan and the mortgage. This holds true generally for Savings and Loan Associations as well.

Know How to Buy to Save

Ever wonder about the amount of meat to plan for different cuts? In general, a one-quarter pound serving of boneless meat—ground meat, rolled roast, boned roasts, stew meat and liver—should be adequate. Better allow one-half pound per serving of bone-in meat, that is, bone-in roasts, steaks, chops, and ham. And, plan on three-quarters to one pound per serving of boney meat—short ribs, spare ribs, and lamb shanks.

Front View Starting Point For Landscaping

What does your home look like to your neighbors? In a recent survey of areas where homes are well landscaped, most residents felt that even one neglected home could spoil a whole neighborhood.

It is not difficult to landscape the entrance to a home, providing the homeowner will continuously look at it from the curb and see what needs to be planted, in accordance with his own creative instincts, or what other neighbors have done in the area.

In some areas, a homeowner will have a lawn facing the street, perhaps a low hedge along the sidewalk and a driveway to the garage.

In such an "average planting," one should stand on the sidewalk in the exact middle of the property and face his house.

All large trees should be planted outside of imaginary lines to the corners of the house. This prevents the house from being dwarfed or obscured by large trees.

Smaller trees such as dogwood or crape myrtle may be planted inside such lines, close to the house.

Shrubs usually are planted in curved beds close to the house, with taller shrubs at house corners.

Flowering and evergreen shrubs should be intermingled to provide contrast.

Foliages likewise should provide contrast. Taxus, or yew, is the deepest green of all coniferous evergreen shrubs; junipers may have a bluish cast; while arbor vitae may be lighter green or golden.

Some excellent flowering evergreens for entrance plantings include the rhododendrons and azaleas, although there are many more such as the hollies and pyracanthias and coloneasters.

The southern climates abound in lovely camellias, hibiscus and oleanders.

Beds of annual plants often are used near entrances. These include the pelargoniums, or geraniums, petunias, dwarf snapdragons, marigolds, and numerous other plants.

As with all landscaping, good taste is required. It is recommended by the American Association of Nurserymen that a plan be prepared to make the home entrance most attractive.

Nurserymen, neighbors, landscape architects and others may be consulted if need be. One should strive for color, both in warm weather and winter as well, and low maintenance.

Name 3 Ways To Beautify Community

that will attract attention from the largest audience.

groups cooperate by contacting service clubs, garden clubs, others.

H. P. Quadland, beautification expert for the American Association of Nurserymen, makes the following suggestions:

"Beautification, to be most valuable, should be planned. Whether you are beautifying your home grounds, neighborhood, a street, or a whole community, the best thing to do is to make a preliminary survey.

"Where, for example, are your home grounds or community ugly? They actually may not be exceptionally ugly. Your goal may simply be to make the area more beautiful."

The steps to achieve this include:

1. A survey of the area. Check locations where a flowering tree or shrub that has lovely flowers may "set off" the location and help to beautify the whole area.

Not only flowers but leaves, barks and berries are beautiful at various times of the year.

Plantings should provide for an attractive effect at all seasons.

2. Select the best sites to be beautified, especially those

Elegance Is Mode in Bedding

Once upon a time, mattresses came covered in cotton ticking, patterned with dull grey and white stripes, and were, generally speaking, objects to be covered as quickly as possible with pads and sheets and hidden from view.

But today, mattresses are a thing of beauty — so much so that it seems almost a shame to cover them!

A case in point is Serta's new Perfect Sleeper mattress and box spring — for here, elegance is the keynote.

The Perfect Sleeper is covered in a shimmering brocaded damask, with a beautifully textured woven floral pattern similar to fine dress fabrics. Its color is celery green, and the silver underthreads of the brocade give a luxurious sheen.

The fabric is 100 percent rayon, a fiber that is easily kept clean. Thus despite its elegant appearance, the Perfect Sleeper cover is long wearing and always stays as beautiful as when it was purchased.

It was specially designed for Serta's use by one of the largest fabric manufacturers in the world, Burlington Mills. The fabric and its design are exclusively produced for Serta.

The mattress cover is quilted in an unusual pattern, which accents the dimensional fabric design.

Surveys have shown that today's homemaker by far prefers pastel shades for her mattress covers — and that how the mattress looks is becoming increasingly important. For these reasons, Serta put special emphasis on the choice of fabric to cover the Perfect Sleeper — a fabric designed to put elegance in the bedroom.

Help Teens Keep Neat With Cutouts

Closet and drawer brighteners are pretty and practical additions to a feminine bedroom. They can help young girls learn to organize storage space and clothes as well.

A huge flower made of Marvalon adhesive covering on the inside of a closet door, with a hook at the tip of each petal, may encourage fashion-conscious daughters to hang up their clothes. Shapes of slips, hose, and lingerie on the bottom of dresser drawers will help organize smaller items.

Boxes for jewelry, cosmetics and hair rollers — covered with Marvalon and decorated with cut-outs of necklaces and bracelets, bottles, jars and rollers — are attractive dresser accessories.

Try the same idea for boys, using baseballs and pennants in their school colors, as backdrops for hooks on the closet and shapes of socks and underwear in dresser drawers.

This "subliminal advertising" for neatness can work wonders, without the need for a nagging word.

Wipe Spots And Splashes Immediately

When spring cleaning includes painting, extra care to protect furniture and floors is in order. All it takes is one drop of paint on the wall or floor, and there's a potential clean-up problem.

Protect the floor by spreading newspapers around before opening a single paint can.

To guard the surface of furniture and walls, keep a roll of paper towels handy, along with paint solvents — turpentine for oil base paint and water for plastic or latex paint. With these at hand, spills and drips can be wiped up as soon as they fall. Spots and splashes are easy to remove when they're fresh, but a real problem once the paint sets.

Whether it's a big spill from a can or a little drip from a brush, blot it up immediately with paper towels. When most of the paint is wiped up, fold another towel into a pad, put turpentine or water on it, and use that to remove additional paint from appliances, woodwork or fixtures. Dry the surface with a clean towel.

Panels Match Kitchen Decor

No matter what your kitchen style or decor, a modern automatic dishwasher will fit right in.

The new electric dishwashers come in a variety of colors, including pastels, and in wood-grain or metal finishes such as stainless steel, brushed chrome and copper-tone to match other appliances.

Optional trim kits available with some models let you "customize" the front panel of the dishwasher to match the wood cabinets, countertops or even the curtains and wallpaper.

Peanuts not only rate high in protein, they are ranked among the nation's six basic crops — wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice.
