

Teachers and schools reject salary pacts

Salary proposals from both sides of the table have been submitted and turned down during the six months of contract negotiations between the Plymouth Education Association and administration officials.

So the yearly work schedule and the salary and fringe schedule for Plymouth teachers remain unresolved, according to a report submitted to the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education Monday evening by Superintendent of Schools Russell Isbister.

Isbister and William Harding, Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Secondary Education are the negotiating team for the school district.

They have met with Plymouth

Education Association bargaining representatives on 22 separate occasions since January 13. Salary negotiations with teachers have dominated the headlines in the metropolitan area in recent weeks with several suburban teacher groups going on strike to protest lack of progress.

Here in Plymouth, PEA negotiators submitted a proposed modified salary schedule for the 1966-67 school year that ranged from a low starting salary of $5,700 for a new teacher with a B.A. degree to a high of $11,075 after 10 years for a teacher with a M.A. degree plus 30 hours of post degree credit.

In addition, the teacher group called for unlimited accumulation of sick days.

Terminal and severance pay, including half pay for each unused accumulated sick day at the latest daily rate of the teacher. Increased payment for graduate hours earned above degrees to $18 per hour, beyond 10 hours.

A choice of fully subsidized health and medical benefits - either Blue Cross of Michigan Education Association.

And a total of 13 sick days per year, to include three personal business days - explanations for reasons of personal business not required if two days prior notice is given.

The teacher's association proposal ranged from an increase of July 4th plans near completion

Mettetal Airport will be the scene of the July 4th celebration as the arrangements are now being completed, according to Jerry Yohey, president of the Plymouth JayCees and general chairman of the July 4 program this year.

The day will begin with a parade through downtown Plymouth, with Governor George Romney and Robert Griffin expected.

Parade chairman Jim Jacka said Monday that there was still room for more bands and floats. Any club or organization that would like to participate may do so by calling Jacka at 453-0570.

At Mettetal airport, starting at 2:30, July 4, the Bill Barber air show will take place. An American flag demonstration, the Curtiss Aerobatics, a radio controlled model demonstration, comedy flying, a rope ladder change from car to air plane, a ribbon pickup from a rope ladder, Cub aerobatics, delayed parachute jump, and general flying by pilots in Cessna airplanes.

LARGE AUDIENCE: Over 200 people jammed the City Commission chambers to hear discussion of the proposed downtown urban renewal plan Monday night. Harry Deyo, A. K. Brocklehurst and Ed Van Loo in the second row led the well-organized opposition.

City kills urban renewal, faced with mass opposition

Amid cheers and applause from over 200 people, the City Commission Monday night voted 7-0 to drop the downtown urban renewal study at a special public hearing.

Virtually no support for the proposed southeast quadrant urban renewal was presented. Opposing forces were:

- (1) City Commissioner Arch Vallier, who drew several rounds of applause, particularly after he told those present he would try to get a vote on the matter.
- (2) A series of petitions with 823 signatures on them presented in behalf of the homeowners in the Wing, Deer, Maple and Kellogg Street area by ex-municipal judge Harry Deyo.
- (3) A recommendation from the Chamber of Commerce Board opposing and rejecting the proposed urban renewal project.

"We have 25 years of living equity in our home," Van Loo told the Commission. "We'd never be able to find a substitute for that... We don't want to move, nor do we want to have our homes taken away. And we don't want urban renewal."

In a lighter vein, Brocklehurst said he headed a group called "SPUR".

Earl J. Demel and Rev. David Strang headed a list of newcomers to the political scene as the June 14 deadline for filing for local and state offices was reached at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Filing on the Democratic ticket for the 14th District State Senate seat now held by Farrell Roberts was Demel, a veteran Plymouth attorney. Demel filed by fee at the Director of Elections office in Lansing.

Rev. David Strang, pastor of the Epiphany Lutheran Church on Five Mile Rd., and a resident of Lake Pointe, filed on the Democratic ticket for one of the two open posts on the Plymouth Township Board. Strang replaced John Miller last year at the church, and has shown interest in several community projects. He is a JayCee, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, and is active in the Plymouth Ministerial Association.

Other filing thus far in the 14th State senate race, Paul Livingston, Democrat, Birmingham.

Louis C. Odette, Democrat, Union Lake.

George W. Kuhn, Republican, ex-Berkley mayor who recently moved into the district to run.

Scott, Tripp, Moehle win school posts

Two newcomers to the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education and one incumbent were swept into office with sizeable margins Monday in the annual school election.

But the election was decided by a skimpy 16 per cent of the registered electors in the district.

Leading the field was Robert C. Tripp of 42531 Lakeland Ct., in Plymouth Township's Lake Pointe Subdivision. Tripp rolled up a total of 1,230 votes - leading in all four precincts.

He will be joined on the board by John W. Moehle of 1269 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, who finished second in the balloting for the two four-year vacancies with 869 votes.

In the three-year race, a definitive victory was hammered out by incumbent R. Bruce Scott of 8950 Ann Arbor Road who piled up 978 votes to opponent Richard Arlen's 635. Scott was appointed to the board early this year to replace Robert Jenkins who won a four-year slot just one year ago, but resigned to leave the area.

All three winners were editorially endorsed by The Plymouth Mail last week.

Incumbent Ernest L. Henry, who was running for re-election to a four-year post, ran third with 604 votes. He was followed by Gary E. Hall with 515 and Roscoe C. Walker who finished last with 170.

The other four-year opening was created by the expiration of board member Robert Soth's term. Soth did not run for re-election.

The victories of Moehle and Tripp are interpreted as an expression of some discontent by the voters - particularly in the newer sections of the district.

The defeat of Henry, a former Plymouth City Commission member who has always run well in local voting, is seen as a change in the complexion of district control - from long-time residents to the hands of newer, incoming homeowners in recently constructed subdivisions on the periphery of the City of Plymouth.

The three winners all bring impressive educational credentials to the posts. Moehle's degrees include a B.S. in mechanical engineering from Northwestern University, and a M.B.A. from

OK millage by slim margin

A narrow margin of 77 votes was all it took Monday to guarantee passage of the 77/100 of a mill that Schoolcraft Community College sought in a referendum in annual school elections throughout the five-community college district.

At several points during the evening, as voting results trickled in, it looked as though the vitally needed millage was doomed to defeat.

Plymouth voters approved the issue by a five to three margin as they cast 1,046 yes votes and 650 negative ballots.

Garden City approved the millage 607 to 479 and Clarenceville electors barely passed the issue 229 to 201.

Then the Livonia vote came in. Voters in the sprawling, growing community to Plymouth's east - weary of higher taxes - slapped down the millage with 2,060 no votes to only 1,221 yes.

That left the millage request trailing by a 287-vote margin in district-wide balloting with only Northville left to report.

Northville electors were voting local millage issue and pre-election observers were forecasting defeat for the Schoolcraft proposal in that community.

But Northville voters came through with 899 yes votes and 535 no ballots - enough of a margin to squeak the Schoolcraft proposal through on an over-all district basis.

Livonia had considerable opposition to the college request because members of the Livonia City Council had asked the City

C&O pays stiff fines for road blocking

A total of $1455 in fines has been levied since January by the Plymouth municipal court against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad for tying up traffic.

"We try to set the fine to match the length of time the train holds up motorists", Judge Edward Draugelis explained.

Court records show that fines have been levied as follows: January, $55; April, $100; May, $200; and June, $1,100. The June fines were pending as of Friday.

The railroad thus far has pleaded guilty to the charges and paid fines as set.

A City ordinance prohibits trains from blocking traffic for more than five minutes. Any one can file a complaint with the City police at City Hall, provided they note how long the train took in crossing the intersection, and either the engine or caboose number.

Both citizens and policemen have filed complaints, according to the court clerk.

WORKS ON VACATION

'Viva La Dentista' say Mexicans seeing Dr. Fitch

While most vacationers visit popular tourists spots, one Plymouth couple this summer, as in summer's past, journeyed to remote Mexican villages to offer their medical assistance.

Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Fitch, 15562 Lakeside Dr. left Plymouth from Mettetal Airport May 20 in their single engine aircraft for Saltillo, Coahuila, Mexico.

There, Fitch, a dentist, and his wife, as part of a mission from the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, set up a clinic with portable dental equipment brought in the plane.

Saltillo, located 175 miles south of the Texas border near Monterrey, is the home a student center. There, Dr. Fitch and his wife, who acts as a dental assistant, conducted a clinic for two weeks, completing work on thirty patients.

"Then, to add variety to our experience, we accompanied Rev. Northrup of the Christian Church on a 160 mile trip into the mountains to several primitive villages where dentistry had never been available,"

Dr. Fitch related in an interview last week. Sterilizing instruments over an open fire, and setting up office out in the open with a minimum of tools and a single old chair under a tree, the Fitches saw 50 and extracted 96 teeth.

"Through one afternoon and the following morning we saw 50 people ranging from six months old to over 80," Dr. Fitch said.

"We slept in a newly built one room schoolhouse. We took a van truck in, and the $400 the lowest level of the schedule to more than 29 per cent over the present 10 year maximum of $8,525 per year.

The administration bargaining team countered with a proposal that included an across-the-board five per cent increase with the addition of five professional days to the present 188 day school year.

Their proposal, which was refused by PEA negotiators, ranged from $5,704.13 to start to $9,175.03 at the 10-year level with a M.A. degree plus 30 hours. It progressed to $10,708.65 maximum after 12 years with the same degree requirements.

It provided for payment of $10 an hour per year up to a maximum of 20 hours for each hour of college or university graduate credit earned beyond 10 hours, for bachelors degree teachers.

Teachers with master's degrees would earn the same amount per hour of credit up to a maximum of 30.

The administration proposal would have provided for increased insurance payments from the present level of 50 per cent to 70 per cent.

In the statement given to board members and the press, Superintendent Isbister noted:

"Many strong points of disagreement were resolved on a give and take basis and for the most part the master contract for 1966-67 has been negotiated."

"Your team took the position that teachers were entitled to and should receive a cost of living increase commensurate with the rising costs of Metropolitan Detroit. This was established at a five per cent level to include an increase from 50% to 70% of the Blue Cross Hospital-Surgical-insurance subsidy. Later the insurance subsidy was offered outside the five per cent cost of living.

"From that point on your team took the position that added dollars to teachers would come from added days of professional service over and above the 188 days in the 1965-66 school calendar. With these guidelines the attached schedule based on 193 days of professional service was developed and offered at the bargaining table. It was rejected by the other (PEA) team.

"The proposed salary schedule of the Plymouth Education Association offered at the bargaining table is attached. It is based on the 188 days of professional service. This schedule was rejected by your negotiating team."

The two teams are expected to continue negotiations sessions on a regular basis, unless a serious impasse develops.

Throughout the metropolitan area, teachers are represented in large measure by Michigan Education Association affiliated local teacher associations.

In some areas, however, the American Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) has won bargaining rights for teachers.

Plymouth teachers are represented at the bargaining table by the Plymouth Education Association - affiliated with MEA and NEA, the National Education Association.

In other matters at the regular monthly meeting, held Monday evening at school district offices, board members heard regular committee reports and approved reimbursement requests for Federal Funds - available on a matching basis for vocational education equipment purchased and educational materials in use under the National Defense Education Act.

They heard a plea from Northwest Wayne County Guidance Clinic board president John Boyle for funds to help the clinic meet its $120,000 budget for next year.

Mrs. Frances DeMott is the Plymouth representative on the Clinic's board.

The clinic, which is devoted to helping emotionally disturbed children referred to it, has handled 48 referrals from the Plymouth School District since its inception in 1963.

Its staff includes a psychiatrist, a psychologist, a director and a social worker.

Boyle told board members the group needed financial assistance in expanding its staff to meet demands. The Northwest Wayne County Child Guidance Clinic is located in a house it has purchased and renovated in Garden City.

Other business at the meeting included approval of two leave of absence requests, four resignations and the appointment of 18 new teachers for the coming school year.

Prevention of Urban Renewal. We are the ones who live in that area. I bet we could have gotten signatures of 90 per cent of the home owners in town if we'd worked at it," he said.

Commission reaction to several questions and statements were varied, but they all appeared to not favor the urban renewal in the face of such complete opposition. George Lawton commented on the need for continued actions and development:

Urban renewal killed

It's been eight years since the City has had a tax increase; this is because the City has taken action to improve its non-residential tax base.

"I'd like this group's reaction on the one-way loop plan. I'd like to see work on that a comprehensive parking study, then see what happens in the way of development with private funds," James McKeon said.

The meeting opened with Jay Eldridge of Vilcan and Leman pointing to several general concepts about the proposed study:

- (1) The study was for economic feasibility and analysis of the demand for land.
- (2) The study would also see if the City could afford its one-quarter share of the costs.
- (3) The study would see if the project qualified as a substandard area?
- (4) Relocation and site acquisition problems would also be studied.

Eldridge said he felt all such information would come from the $100,000 survey.

"Does the project make sense to perpetuate the business district? That's what the survey would answer," he said.

The Chamber of Commerce, represented by president Carl Pursell and Harold Fischer, made several proposals, the key ones being rejection of the urban renewal plan and formulation of several groups to further plan the Central Business District.

Among the recommendations:

- (1) Adoption of the general concept of the CBD peripheral drive. Also, a trial use of the one way loop.
- (2) Exploration of 41 non-commercial land uses in the CBD and a study to see if they can't be turned to business purposes.
- (3) Make a land marketability study.
- (4) Establish a capital improvements program.
- (5) Establish a parking authority.
- (6) Form a Downtown Business Corporation.

The detailed proposal was presented by Pursell and Fischer, and had the backing of the 12-man Chamber Board. The Chamber represents Plymouth business and industrial interests.

Pursell also pointed to downtown Plymouth as the center of the Plymouth Community's identity.

"Identity is very important. Right now Livonia would like to have a central core," he noted.

"There are 66 land uses in the CBD that do not conform to what you would normally call a CBD," Fischer explained.

"Our contention is that we must make sure we use and completely develop the core area, before we use residential land outside of the core," Fischer said.

Pursell and Eldridge fielded questions on the aspects of their individual plans.

Pursell said his group was pushing for direction and a decision from the City on many proposals. Jim McKeon agreed in part that it was necessary to make some determinations, and asked if resistance on the loop would be as strong as the urban renewal opposition.

Comments from Commissioner Robert Smith ended the debate on the matter.

Smith charged that the City was relying too heavily on Federal funds.

"It's a disease in this community. We do the things for which we can get federal aid, and we let those things die for which we cannot."

In other action at the City Commission public hearing, the City fathers:

- * Agreed to engage Johnson and Anderson engineers to work out details of the relocation of the Sheldon Rd. water main. Sheldon Rd. is in the process of being widened north of the C&O tracks.
- * Approved an agreement with the City of Northville for a joint police and fire communications set up after receiving the request from Northville City Manager, Frank Allendorf. It will be started on weekends only, at first.
- * Heard a report from City Manager Richard Blodgett that the water problem for the convalescent home in the City's Industrial Park had been straightened out. The question of lines for fire hydrants was raised two weeks ago by City fire chief George Schoeneman. Blodgett said the developer John Henry had agreed to go along with whatever his engineer and the State Fire Marshall's office suggested.

Christian minister even drove down creek beds," he added.

Fitch related that the primitive Mexican villages were made up of homes constructed out of cedar trees set in the ground side by side.

"The people there had explicit faith in the dentista," Mrs. Fitch said. "None of them had ever seen a dentist. There must be some natural flouride in the water because some older people had perfect teeth. And there were children 18 and 19 with no cavities."

Dr. Fitch said that most dental problems there stem from gum diseases.

"Gum diseases, and opening Coke bottles with their teeth. Many people had their lower right first molar broken," he said.

Fitch used disposable needles and standard nerve gas on all patients.

Fitch estimates the work in the United States would have amounted to about $1500. In Mexico, each patient was charged a peso, on the assumption that no one likes or trusts something free. A peso brings about 8 cents.

The Fitches have made 12 trips to Mexico, and plan to travel to Honduras in August. Both he and his wife speak broken Spanish and Mexican, "enough to get by."

"It was a real interesting and exciting vacation, even though we worked," Dr. Fitch. Fitch has been a Plymouth dentist for 16 years; he is active in Kiwanis Club activities, and took several reams of paper and pencils to Mexican students from the Club. Both items are rare and expensive there.

Also, at the student center, Fitch left a portable drill, in case he or another dentist visits there. Each student at the student center was given tooth paste and a tooth brush, and treated to a ride in the Fitch airplane.

At the student center, run by the Reorganized Church of the Latter Day Saints, the doctor and his wife were treated to a feast and a party for all their work.

While most people are relaxing on vacations, Dr. and Mrs. Fitch were giving their time in an area of great need.

James Tierney, Garden City Democrat, and John Tripp, Plymouth Republican.

In the Second U.S. Congressional race, Weston Vivian, Democrat from Ann Arbor, filed Friday; he is the incumbent.

He will be opposed by either Marvin Esch or George Meader who will battle for the Republican nomination in the August Primary. Esch is currently a State Representative.

In Plymouth Township elections, as of 1 p.m. Tuesday afternoon, the following had filed on the Republican ticket:

Gene Leader, constable.
Phil Turesdell, constable.
Donald King, constable.
Ralph Garber, trustee.
Elizabeth Holmes, treasurer.
Helen Richardson, clerk.
Eugene Overholt, trustee.
John D. McEwen, supervisor.

Should the proposed charter for the City of Plymouth Heights pass for the incorporation of all Township land east of McCumpha Road - several people would be elected. Those filing: Garber, municipal judge.
Dick Lauterbach, councilman.
Mrs. Holmes, treasurer.
Helen Richardson, clerk.
Overholt, councilman.
John D. McEwen, mayor.

All are filing on the Republican ticket. It is felt the Heights charter, which has been beaten badly twice, is merely a holding action against annexation threats from surrounding communities such as Plymouth and Livonia.

It is not given much of a chance of passage.

In the Township election, two men are up - Garber and Overholt. Also, the supervisor, John D. McEwen, the treasurer, Mrs. Holmes, and the clerk, Mrs. Richardson, must run for office.

Rev. Strang remained late Tuesday the only Democrat to file in the Township.

opposing the site because of its use of "prime commercial land."

THE SITE fronts on Penniman Ave. and apparently has caught the eye of the City Planning Commission and the professional planners, Vilcan Leman Associates. This group, which operates apart from both the City Commission and the Housing Commission, proposed a large department store for the site in a recent drawing for a downtown mall and one-way traffic loop. Their proposal was unveiled several weeks ago before a meeting of community leaders at the Mayflower Meeting House.

The background on the issue:

1. June, 1965, the U.S. Housing Administration approved a $888,906 Federal grant, capping work which began in January, 1964 by the Housing Commission.
2. In July, then City Clerk Richard Shafer said the project would take two years to complete, and that 60 units had been proposed. Architects Harley, Ellington, Cowin and Stirton, Inc. had been commissioned to draft plans.
3. During the ensuing months, the site location was kept secret, despite rumors that it was going on the Wilcox property.
4. Then on November 15, Wilcox charged secrecy in the matter, and said he would not sell the site.
5. In December, the joint City Commission-Housing Commission meeting was held, with Commissioners Lawton, James McKeon and Arch Vallier all urging a look at other sites.

The appraisal came in several weeks ago, and was questioned by the Housing Commission. Kenneth Fisher noted at that time the entire matter was in the hands of the Public Housing Administration in Chicago.

Then, last week, word was received from Chicago that another search for a site was in order, due to the high appraisal.

Attorney to get an opinion on whether the College Board could legally assess taxpayers without a vote.

This came after the Trustees had taken action in December to add a half-mill to the millage without a vote. They made the move after receiving an opinion from counsel in Lansing that under the present Constitution such action was legal.

Then five weeks ago, the same counsel advised the Board that there was some question about the legality of the move. With that opinion hanging over their heads, the Trustees decided to take the matter to the electors and have them make the decision.

All in all, it was a day of victories for the Schoolcraft College Board which learned later in the evening that its stand on the proposed freeway along Haggerty Road had also won.

Mayor Pro-Tem Peter Ventura, of Livonia, indicated Monday night that an agreement had been reached with the State Highway Department. It called for improvements along Plymouth Road - a point the Council wanted to win - and in turn the Council had agreed to allow the highway to go around the easterly border of the college.

Up to the announcement of the agreement, the College Board had stood firm that it wouldn't allow the Highway to go along Haggerty Road and disrupt that portion of the campus.

It appears as if they won the confidence of the voters and the confidence of the Livonia City Council at the same time.

Both Tripp and Moehle have vocational backgrounds that tie in closely with the problems that confront the school district in the years ahead.

Moehle's field is construction supervision and cost control. The Plymouth District is faced with construction of seven new schools in the next six years, including a new high school.

Twp. hears expert on reassessment question

A tax expert from the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation spoke before the Plymouth Township Board last Thursday night.

The meeting came in the wake of charges from City of Plymouth City Commissioner and Wayne County Board of Supervisors member Arch Vallier that Plymouth Township was doing a poor job of assessing for tax purposes.

Vallier spoke before a Chamber of Commerce meeting June 2 and outlined increases in County Equalized valuations for the municipalities that make up the Plymouth Community School District. At that time he said Plymouth Township "needed to get their house cleaned up". Vallier is a member of the County committee that sets equalization figures.

Charles Morley, acting director of the County tax bureau, told them that even if they started now it would be 1968 before any reassessing could be effected.

"Morley came at my request," explained Township supervisor Jack McEwen Monday. "And I had called him before the Chamber meeting took place."

McEwen further agreed there were inequities in the Township's assessing.

"There are some inequities, especially on land. After going through the assessments this year for the first time, I found some inequities which I expect to eliminate next year," McEwen said.

As Township supervisor, McEwen is the assessor.

McEwen declined to comment directly on how he felt on a total and noted he was still filling out Roy Lindsay's term of office.

Minutes of the meeting show Morley stated that according to the state constitution, the Township must bring assessments up to the figure set by the State.

Morley also cited Public Act 409, No. 2209, which implements a constitution provision that assessing should be at 50 per cent of market value.

Morley further recommended that land be re-assessed first, then buildings and personal property, according to the minutes.

Morley explained that the county equalization factor would be a 1.83; that means the factor would be applied against the base assessment, before equalization. In dollars and cents it means about $73.85 for every thousand dollars in valuation.

Comments from Commissioner Robert Smith ended the debate on the matter.

Smith charged that the City was relying too heavily on Federal funds.

"It's a disease in this community. We do the things for which we can get federal aid, and we let those things die for which we cannot."

In other action at the City Commission public hearing, the City fathers:

- * Agreed to engage Johnson and Anderson engineers to work out details of the relocation of the Sheldon Rd. water main. Sheldon Rd. is in the process of being widened north of the C&O tracks.
- * Approved an agreement with the City of Northville for a joint police and fire communications set up after receiving the request from Northville City Manager, Frank Allendorf. It will be started on weekends only, at first.
- * Heard a report from City Manager Richard Blodgett that the water problem for the convalescent home in the City's Industrial Park had been straightened out. The question of lines for fire hydrants was raised two weeks ago by City fire chief George Schoeneman. Blodgett said the developer John Henry had agreed to go along with whatever his engineer and the State Fire Marshall's office suggested.

Senior home languishes

Plymouth's plan for a senior citizen housing unit languishes in the hands of the Plymouth Housing Commission and the Federal office handling the project in Chicago.

Announced exactly one year ago, the plan for low-cost housing for the elderly now struggles for its very survival.

Currently, the plans are worked on for 30 months since January, 1964, appear headed for trouble. The problems:

(1) The proposed site, known as the Wilcox property, is not for sale through normal channels. In November, Jack Wilcox, owner of the huge house now called The Wilcox Apartments, 676 Penniman, vowed he would not sell to the City. Wilcox also charged the matter had been "wrapped in secrecy."

(2) The City Commission, the City's chief governing body, appears divided on not only the site, but what to do about the entire project. In a committee-of-the-whole meeting in late November, they agreed to wait for the land appraisal.

(3) The original plans of the architects were not approved by Federal officials because of the way the building sat on the Wilcox site.

(4) The appraisal was too high. City officials according to administrative aid Kenneth Fisher, felt the site was worth about $70,000. The appraiser felt it was worth about $100,000.

(5) Over the past few weeks, correspondence between the Chicago office and Plymouth has resulted in an agreement of sorts — the price is too high. This was the report out of City Clerk Eugene Slider's office Monday.

Thus, after two and a half years of work, it appears the entire process must be re-cycled. Meanwhile, nearly $900,000 in federal grants lies idle, building costs go up, and the need for housing in Plymouth remains.

When the appraisal came in, housing commission members, as well as administrators like Fisher, questioned its validity.

Then, a recent presentation of a Central Business District plan by the City planning commission and the City's professional planners, Vilcan Leman Associates, showed a proposal for a large department store on the Wilcox property.

It appears that the City's planners were already operating on the assumption the site would not be used for senior housing.

It seems a fresh start is needed. And those who criticize "Federal intervention" in local affairs might take a look at two and a half years of fruitless work in Plymouth on the senior housing project.

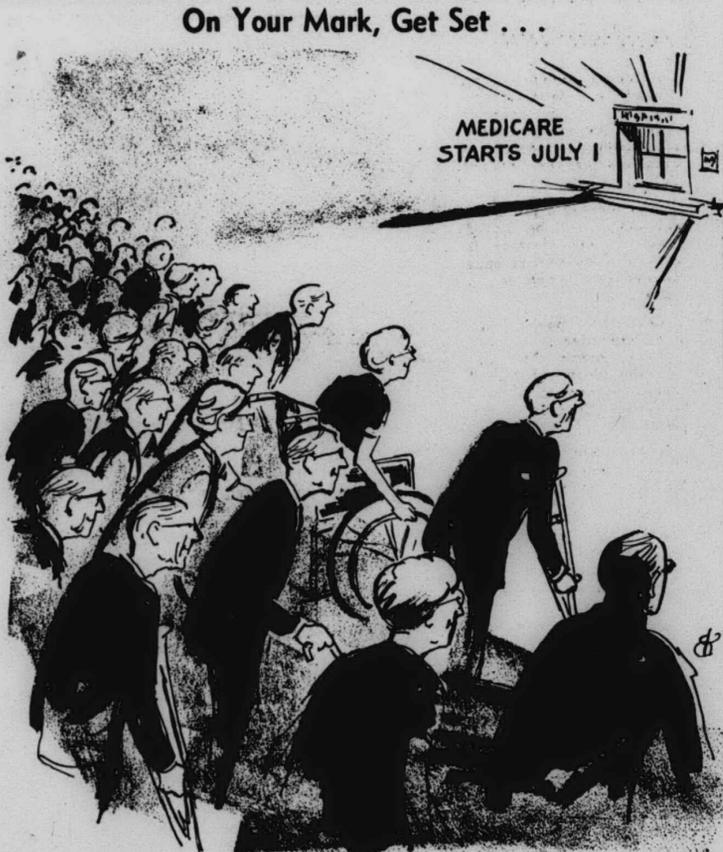

The money is there. All it takes is local leadership to determine how and where it should be spent. It seems three lessons have been learned:

(1) The owner of any site should be approached to see if he would sell at a reasonable price. Wilcox's objection was that he had never been contacted until the plans had been drawn. Surely there are sites available — and not at an inflated price.

(2) The City Commission and City Planning Commission should be sounded out before a second project is begun, not after problems develop.

(3) Progress should be made public.

At stake is senior citizen's welfare and Plymouth's reputation for locally-effective progress, backed by sound thinking and action.

Forecasts end to tight money market

Prospective home buyers, presently unable to get home mortgages due to the tight money market, were given reason for optimism by Hans Gehrke, president of First Federal Savings of Detroit, in recently made statements.

Speaking before the United Northwestern Realty Association — Western Wayne-Oakland County Board of Realtors at their luncheon meeting at Cregar's restaurant, Gehrke said "I personally feel the majority of savings and loan associations will be back in the home mortgage market by this summer."

Gehrke, addressing the Realtor group on "The Mortgage Market," reviewed the reasons for the present tight money market.

He explained that income after taxes is up, with people consequently spending more and saving less. Money is thus diverted from savings institutions.

"Money is a commodity and there is more demand for it than credit can supply," he said. "The result is that savings and loan associations, in an effort to keep a balance between their savings and loans ratio, had to pull out of the home mortgage market."

Gehrke explained that credit has thus gone to the highest bidder for investment, like expanding industries and government financing.

"But savings and loan associations are doing all in their power to get back into the home mortgage field, and a balance seems to be coming about," he said.

Gehrke concluded that he foresees no liberalization in rates

The good life

Overindulgence

—Doug Johnson

Barely out of my teens, I have developed a middle age spread. The curse of the over-40 group, a noticeable bulge of the stomach is considered one of the first signs of decline.

Out of college I lived on a diet of Plymouth restaurant food. That, on top of my recent acquisition of a blond, blue-eyed cook from Grand Rapids, has apparently sealed my fate as a pudgy 6'5" newsman.

After several disparaging remarks from store clerks, friends and daily contacts about the noticeable, "little-too-much-beer, hey-tiger" paunch about the old midsection, I embarked on a diet and exercise program.

I bought a scale, and after noticing I tipped in at 245, some 20 pounds too much, I began a morning routine of exercise. That lasted through April and most of May without too much success. And still the raps in the stomach come, with grins and gleeful comments from the middle-aged back yard badminton set that I was "putting a little on."

Then last week I bought a set of ropes and a pulley affair known as an Exer-Geni. Designed for isotonic and isometric exercises, the thing is merely some ropes, handles and a pulley for pounds and pressures.

"Never before in the history of mankind has there been such a profound need for a "break-through" in the field of physical fitness," intones the booklet that comes with this little compact torture chamber.

"Break-through" is written with tongue in cheek. You see, one of the "Break-through" exercises is a sit up where you put your hands behind your head and everything starts going blank as you start to sit up.

After three "situps" you feel like you've been on the stretching wrack in the dungeon of Von Baron McNasty's castle for three weeks.

All those old exercises seem like little league stuff. "Exer-Geni combines the latest theories in resistive exercises," the book says. Which is to say three sit ups with this little baby will rip you sideways.

Plymouth High School's coaches which range from the ridiculous to the sublime, weight-wise, discovered this great man-killer. They got it from Jack Cassini,

This house has stood at 1034 York St. for 137 years. Neat and well kept by owners, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Norgrove, it has weathered the years well.

Side view of the house that old timers in Plymouth still call the Gentz home, remembering the family that lived in it for forty years. A tombstone was found by the present owners when they replaced the old foundation.

INTERESTING OLD HOUSES

Here is old Plymouth

Benajah Holbrook would still be proud of the house at 1034 York St. if he could see it now.

With innumerable coats of paint and much loving care, it has weathered the years well.

Asbestos siding now covers the old wood shingles and some modernizing has changed the interior; but much of the original structure remains as it was when it was built 137 years ago.

The tract of land was acquired from the United States government in 1824 by a man named Abraham Spear who sold it to John Westfall in 1827. Westfall sold the 320 acres to Benajah Holbrook in 1829 and he built the house the same year.

It stands nestled among trees and shrubs on the sloping lot that dips down to the river below.

After Holbrook's death over a century ago, the old house changed hands many times. Parcels of the 320 acres were sold through the years to various people until all that remained was the city lot on which the house now stands.

In 1882 a man named Charles Gentz bought the house and lived in it with his family until he died forty years later. Some of Plymouth's oldtimers still call it the old Gentz home and well remember its owner, a hard working immigrant from Germany. They also remember a little Gentz boy (only 10 years old) named Frankie who was drowned in the river at the back of the lot. When the present owners, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Norgrove, bought the home 21 years ago, they did some remodeling. When they were replacing some of the original foundation, they discovered an old tombstone among the other stones. Inscribed in it were the words "Frankie - drowned - age 10".

In 1929 when Charles Gentz died, the estate was left to Caroline Neuman. It was still in the Neuman family when Herbert and Leora Norgrove bought it in 1945. Though the interior of the house has changed considerably, the original woodwork has been retained with ornate baseboards two feet wide. The once dark woodwork and doors have been painted a sparkling white.

The Norgrove children, Lynda, 18, and Herbert Ronald, 24, came to love the old house and its surroundings while they were growing up. In view of the back yard is an old cemetery unused for a quarter of a century. Dates on the markers go back will over a century.

A tour of the grounds of the York St. house is a walk through the past. Here is Plymouth as it was.

There are 20 sewing groups in Plymouth that assist in preparing cancer pads for free distribution to patients convalescing at home. 100,000 dressings are made each year during the ten months the sewing group meet.

The film "Out of the Shadows" shown by Tom December completed the program.

Those honored were: Pearl King, Ruth Krump, Marion Barnes, Leona Schomberger, Mildred Dely, Louise Gilles, Eva Farquahar, Anna Dowling, LeMay Smith, Mary Schwartz 100 hour pins and Gladys L. Nesbitt, 5 Year.

Mrs. Harry Gettgey's home at 3995 Berry Road will set the scene for the annual picnic of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Members are asked to bring the recipe for the dish that they bring to the potluck dinner. Children of the American Revolution are invited to this event.

Used clothing and household goods may also be brought to the picnic for the Kate Duncan Smith School - a mountain school in Alabama sponsored by the DAR.

Another event sponsored by DAR that benefits The Kate Duncan Smith School is the luncheon- round robin bridge that was held at Meadowbrook Country Club June 10.

Doubles winners for the day were Mrs. Claude Crusoe and Mrs. Leonard Howard; and singles winner was Mrs. Harry Gettgey.

Paris invades a gourmet party

Paris invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Briggs Saturday night when they were hosts for the gourmet interest group of Newcomers Club.

A bright red canopy greeted guests over the front entrance of the Palmer Street house, along with a topiary tree, and caberet table.

Out in back on the patio, red and white check tablecloths covered the small table with their wine-bottle candle centerpieces. Bouquets of red glads and white mums and carnations provided a background for the French scene.

Paint brush in hand, Jim had also sprouted a mustach and wore a beret. Mrs. Henley wore red lace stockings and red shoes with her long artist's shirt and plaid beret.

The scene became more Parisian by the minute as each of the 22 guests arrived. Of special interest were the John Tvietaaras and the Dave Mohrhardt's as both couples are moving from Plymouth next week.

for Colorado and Indiana respectively. Menu for the gourmet dinner was Beef Bourgoinne with cheeses French breads, salad, and napoleon for dessert.

The group began meeting once a month four years ago and have used a wide variety of themes for their gourmet dinners including Oriental, Mexican, German, Irish, English, Hawaiian, and Arabian.

Dressed as Parisian artists, James Henley, Mrs. Tom Powell, hostess, Mrs. Frank Briggs, Mrs. Henley, and Tom Powell, seated, add to the French atmosphere for the gourmet dinner at the Henley home on Palmer St.

CHAMPION: Tops in his class in drag racing across the country is Bill Coon of Plymouth.

FASTEST T-BIRD

Coon tops in his class in drag racing nationals

Bill Coon, lifetime Plymouth resident, capped a career as a drag race artist over Memorial Day weekend as he won his class at the "NASCAR Nationals" in Richmond, Va. What began as a hobby six years ago has turned into a profitable pastime for Coon. With steady backing from his employer, Ford Motor Co., and increased earnings he has become a well-known drag racing figure.

At Richmond, Coon won his class (B-modified, sports) and top street eliminator, bringing home $500 in cash and $250 in prizes. He also set several records at the meet.

In February he traveled to Pomona, California to compete in the NHRA "Internationals". After several trials with engine trouble plaguing him, Coon took second in his class, losing to a millionaire drag racing buff, Pete Arend, owner of the 'Mongoose'.

Coon later at the Tennessee "Spring Nationals" on June 2 took the title away from Arend and the 'Mongoose', taking first for the upset of the meet. Coon received cash and prizes, and the story of his upset will appear in several national magazines very soon.

Also, Ford Motor Co. will place an article in the 1966 annual on his track exploits. Coon drives a 1957 T-Bird that has been modified to suit the B/M/SP Class (B modified sports). This year Ford gave him a 1966, single overhead cam Hemi engine to run his car.

The engine, soon to be released on the market, has 427 cu. inches with unlimited horsepower. The car is sponsored by Bill's Speed Shop, which Coon himself owns and runs as a part time job. The fastest time turned by the T-Bird is 10.40 seconds at 133 MPH...the fastest Thunderbird in the country.

Coon lives at 14655 Eckles Rd.; his speed shop is also located there.

He works for Ford in the Research Division at Dearborn as a mechanical technician in the chassis lab.

To host state tennis tourney

Michigan regional Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournaments are now being conducted all over the state to determine participants in the State tournament. Plymouth again will host the State JayCee tournament June 23 through June 26, at three different court sites.

Women only—golf at Hilltop

Women who golf — both beginners and experienced players — are invited to join a new group, the Women's Golf League, which tees off at Hilltop Golf Club on Tuesday mornings.

The first session is scheduled for nine a.m., June 21 rain or shine. All profits from the League's play will be given to the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. Members of the committee in charge have long supported various charities for the benefit of the Plymouth Symphony.

Chairman of the group, Miss Helen Gilbert, has named Mrs. Shirley Spaniel, executive secretary; Mrs. Charlotte Winterhalter, head of social committee for the luncheon; Doe Day will be conducted by Mrs. Marian Sullivan and Mrs. Virginia Brennan. Mrs. Virginia Baldwin was named treasurer, and Mrs. Jane Watts will serve as tournament manager and head coach. Mrs. Watts, a low handicap player with considerable golf know-how will be assisted by Miss Gilbert who is also an experienced golfer playing regularly with the Womens Metropolitan Golf Association, the Womens Suburban Golf Association and Fox Hill Country Club.

Scheduled for ten weeks, the new league has planned several special features which will be included in the fun at no extra cost. Among these are a free playing lesson and golf tips for those who wish them, a Doe Day with special prizes, a Dutch Treat luncheon with trophy awards, and a weekly drawing for free golf balls.

While USGA rules will be followed, handicaps will not be defined or flights set up until after the first five weeks of play. Trophies will be awarded on a point basis which will be explained at the business meeting scheduled for 8:30 preceding play on June 21.

A substitute list will be maintained for the benefit of vacationing golfers who cannot participate in the full ten week schedule. A provision has also been made for rain checks if play has not extended beyond the fourth hole.

Hilltop, an ideal course for players of average ability or beginners, will reserve Tuesdays for the exclusive use of the group if a sufficient number participate. Tee off times may be arranged at member's convenience providing they begin before noon. Any woman golfer in the area is most cordially welcomed by this hospitable group. For more information, call daytimes: Mrs. Winterhalter at 453-2092, or Mrs. Spaniel at GL 3-8118, or evenings during the week, Miss Gilbert, GL 3-2630.

Jr. High ends season with 5-2 diamond record

Bob Kellman was the winning pitcher as Junior High East defeated Marshall, 4-2, in a recent extra-inning game.

This was the third straight extra inning game for East; they won two of the contests.

The victory was the fifth of the season against two losses; the Marshall games ended the season.

Key base hits by Brian Shaw and Doug Parks sparked the come-from-behind win. Plymouth tied the game with one run in the seventh, and scored twice in the eighth to win.

This was the first season for inter-scholastic competition in baseball for the Junior High. Walter Lee was the team's leading batter with a .545 average. Lee had 12 hits, including two doubles, four triples and one home run.

According to coach Karl Cotton, a number of boys contributed to the team's success. Dale Rumberger caught in all the games and infielders Don Gullekson, Craig Riblett, Denny Becker, Mark McGraw, Dave Schantz and Steve Fairham played heads-up ball.

The outfielders included Kellman, Lee Allan Pardon, Doug Parks and Brian Shaw.

Bob Kellman, Nick Valenti and Kevin Campbell handled the pitching chores.

Other squad members included Gary Lloyd, Don Hudson, Ward Nixon, Bob Jackson, Bruce Hargrove and Ed Cooper.

Newborn filly saved from shooting by girl's plea to her father

Running a horse ranch is a business. And business sense would tell you to shoot a newborn foal with a broken leg.

But, then you have to reckon with a daughter who loves animals.

William Campbell, who runs a 200-acre horse ranch at 39740 Warren Rd., was faced with a newborn foal with a broken leg.

THE CAST enables the foal to walk normally. X-rays show the leg will heal perfectly.

His twenty-year old daughter, Lauren, a student at Eastern Michigan University, asked that something be done to save the horse.

"So we've tried to save it," Campbell said Saturday. "But we may feel its a mistake when we get the vet's bill."

The filly was hurt in an as primitive drama as can be found in any fiction about horse and young people.

Born in the field too soon, the foal got caught in a fight between its mother and another mare who had had her filly taken away.

A newborn horse will stay near its mother. In the fight, the foal was kicked in the rear leg.

The mare, known as Cream Puff, is a buckskin quarter horse.

The foal was found in the field with its leg snapped completely in two.

"Doc Rick Thompson tranquilized the colt so we could put the bone back and fix a temporary splint. We loaded it in the feed truck after we had tranquilized the mare," Campbell relates.

The mare was placed in her stall where she slept for five hours while her foal was taken to an animal hospital.

"If we'd hadn't tranquilized her, she'd have kicked the barn down," Campbell said.

A mare will stay by her newborn no matter what.

The bone and set it with pins. X-rays taken Saturday showed it was healing perfectly.

Often, particularly with expensive race horses, the animal would be shot. Insurance is only good on dead horses, not on injured horses.

"Lauren asked to save the filly, so we did," Campbell said. "She seems to have a special way with animals."

Campbell, a retired Burroughs employee, operates Silver Stables on Warren Rd. He rents horses to ride along the Tonquish Creek Valley. He also gives riding lessons, boards horses, and trains them year around in an indoor arena.

Horses are rented in all but the worst months of winter.

About 50 horses are on his land. Campbell has put on horse shows at July 4th celebrations in Plymouth, and rides in the traditional July 4 parade.

"I was at the Plymouth plant for Burroughs from 1950 on. But I liked horses and the work was beyond what I could hire done," Campbell related Saturday, explaining his retirement.

HORSEMAN Campbell: Bill Campbell, 39740 Warren Rd., shows a camera shy mare and foal with broken leg. Setting a newborn horse's leg is unusual because of the expense.

TRANQUILIZED: The new born foal was tranquilized using modern methods, and a temporary splint put on its leg out in the field. The leg was broken in a fight between the mare and another horse. Lauren Campbell, who urged that the foal be saved, comforts the stricken horse.

Two PHS'ers take second in auto trouble shooting contest

Two teams of two boys each today won division championships by finding and fixing 14 mechanical malfunctions beneath the hood of a car in the annual Southeastern Michigan Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest at Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn.

First place in the Industrial Arts Division went to Marshall Belleperche, 18, and Bob Rockwell, 18, students at Bentley High in Livonia. They required only 35 minutes to locate and repair all the hidden problems. Top winners in the Vocational Arts Division were Mike Stampfer, 17, and George Arning, 17, of Ypsilanti High. They found and fixed the problems in 40 minutes.

SECOND and third place winners in the division, respectively, were Terry Whittaker, 17, and Mike Newport, 18, of Plymouth High and Fred DeCaen, 18, and John Kolakowski, 18, of Pershing High. Runners up in the Industrial Arts Division were Bob Hornberger, 17, and Donald Patterson, 17, of Roseville High. Third place went to John Henning, 18, and Greg Gower, 18, of Lakeview High, St Clair Shores.

Working against the clock and other teams and with a minimum of tools under the watchful eye of trained technician observers, the contending teams competed simultaneously, analyzing, detecting and correcting the hidden "bugs" in a row of 33 new 1966 Plymouth cars provided for the contest by Plymouth dealers throughout the area.

Identical problems were concealed in all the cars. The contest was one of 59 similar events being held across the country this Spring, sponsored by the Chrysler-Plymouth Division and sanctioned by vocational and high school educators in the contest areas.

Approximately 60,000 teen-age mechanics students from more than 1,700 schools are taking part in the contest nationally.

Purpose of the Trouble Shooting

Contest program is to bring recognition and honor to outstanding young auto mechanics students and encourage them to make a career as automobile technicians.

The local champion auto mechanics won for their school a handsome trophy. In addition, the boys were awarded individual prizes.

The champions will go to Michigan State Fairgrounds June 21 to compete in the National Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest finals to select the country's most talented schoolboy auto mechanics. In the finals they will have a chance at $75,000 in scholarships, prizes, tools and equipment.

Register June 20-23 for College summer school

Norman Dunn, Schoolcraft College Registrar, has announced that registration for the eight-week summer session at the College will begin June 20.

The Registrar explained that except for guest students from other colleges, no one can be registered for the summer session, day or evening, who has not completed the counseling tests.

An additional registration period will be conducted at the College on June 30 from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 7:00 to 9 p.m.

June 18 is the last day for taking the counseling tests; these are held in the College Library beginning promptly at 8 a.m. They take the entire day.

Though guest students are not required to take the counseling tests, they should be counseled prior to registration. The counseling offices of the College are open from 6:00 to 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday evenings.

Those wishing to discuss these programs are requested to call the Office of Student Affairs, 591-6400, and make appointments so that there will be no delay in arranging for the selection of courses.

Dunn stated that more than 450 students have already been counseled for the summer session which begins July 1 and that applications are being processed daily for the eight-weeks session. He said the summer program offers special advantages to students just now graduating from high school.

In addition to the regular technical-vocational and transfer courses, basic courses in English, mathematics, drafting, the sciences, and electronics are offered those students who must remove deficiencies before entering their selected programs.

Plymouth Hi-Lites

By Judi King

Well, the ordeal is over! School is out for the summer.

The sophomores can go home and just be proud they made it through their first year at the big High School. It really wasn't so bad after all, was it?

The juniors can go home and spend all summer practicing to be seniors by swatting their brothers and sisters and strutting around with a look of sophisticated superiority.

And the seniors . . . they'll receive their diplomas tomorrow night on the football field (weather permitting) and they can go off into the big world of business and college a little sadder, a little scared . . . and just a bit wiser.

But high school was fun for all of us . . . much as we hate to admit it.

The seniors, in one of their last get-togethers as a class, held their Senior Banquet at Roma Hall in Livonia last Wednesday night. Dinner was served, the class will be read, and the mock awards were presented.

Winners of the mock awards were: Most popular - Tom Chandler and Pam McAllister; handsomest and prettiest - Jon Adams and Katie Wall; best personality - Randy Williams and Judi King; best build and figure - Rick Jones and Pam Wyman; most likely to succeed - Tom Chandler and Mary Fink; most intelligent - Tom Chandler and Mary Fink; Class clowns - Jeff Gustafson and Belinda Pate; best punsters - Steve Ott and Belinda Pate; loudest - Jeff Gustafson and Lynn Cantrell;

Quietest - Dale Laycock, Bill Aluia, Don Rice, Robin Wideman, Rowena Innes, and Ellen Moiso; biggest appetites - Jim F. Nelson and Sherada Erdelyi; most reliable - Tom Chandler, Mary Theeke, and Pat Turrentine; biggest flirts - Jim Lent and Donna Cook; Cutest couple - Steve Stribley and Katie Wall; best dancers - Jim Lent and Donna Cook; friendliest - Dick Wagar and Sue Holland; best dressed -

Jim Lent and Ruth Sheldon; most athletic - Curt Irish and Belinda Pate; and most talented - Torb Guenther and Mary Jo Arnold. Voted the biggest success of the year - "An Affair to Remember", the Senior Prom; the biggest botch - the PHS football team; the fads of the year - Batman and pierced ears; the most over-used phrase - "Wouldya believe

. . .", the surprises of the year - We graduated (!) and the Model United Nations put on by the International Relations classes; and the teacher of the year - Mr. Dudley Barlow.

After the awards, Mr. James Doyle, class adviser, was presented with a movie camera as a gift from the class for his hard work throughout the past three years.

So, tomorrow is Commencement, and some 390 seniors will walk away from PHS as alumni instead of students. Some will go on to college . . . some to the service . . . some to employment. Many I will not see again. But to all I wish the best of luck in everything they may endeavor,

Moving Story Joseph Mourai, of London, England, became riled at the sight of an abandoned car left undisturbed outside of his house for six months. He retaliated, towing the vehicle to the steps of the office of Transport Minister Mrs. Barbara Castle. He painted a message on the vehicle: "Dear Mrs. Castle, this wreck has been outside my house. Now you have it outside yours."

Tips from the STOP & SHOP CHEF Questions & Answers

Is there any way to determine how much more or less honey than sugar should be used to achieve the same degree of sweetness?

Yes. Just bear in mind that honey is almost twice as sweet as sugar. One cup of honey will provide the same degree of sweetness as one and two-thirds cups of granulated sugar. By weight, though, use almost pound for pound of honey and sugar. To be exact, sixteen ounces of honey will provide the same amount of sweetness as fifteen and one-quarter ounces of granulated sugar.
