

Surprise! He's a trustee

Gene Overholt was as surprised as anyone when he was appointed to the Plymouth Township Board.

"I was surprised when they asked me to come on the Board. 'Are you sure,' I asked. The first time they approached me I turned them down," Overholt said, in a recent interview.

Overholt was appointed in May 1965 in a vast change in Township government that began with the March 1965 death of Roy Lindsay, and culminated in the appointment of long-time clerk John D. McEwen as supervisor. C. V. Sparks was named clerk, and that left a vacancy on the Board — a vacancy Overholt took.

Observers line Overholt up with another newer member of the Board, trustee Dick Lauterbach. However, despite the behind-the-scenes talk of a power alignment with trustee Ralph Garber and Jack McEwen on one side, and Overholt and Lauterbach on the other, generally the Board has presented a united front to the public.

Another powerful figure, Elizabeth Holmes, treasurer, apparently acted as a peace maker when McEwen named Garber to the planning commission. Mrs. Holmes voted for the appointment "to keep peace in the family," she explained.

The internal power struggle has been overshadowed, however, by a long standing conflict with the City of Plymouth. Overholt, who in November will seek election to one of two seats along with Ralph Garber on the Republican ticket, and the Rev. David Strang, a Democrat, has definite opinions on relations with the City. Overholt commented:

"I worked in the annexation fights, and I did as much as anyone to prevent annexation. There was an invisible barrier between us, but now I believe that barrier should be torn down."

"Although we've made some gains with the City, consolidation is a word that should not be used for a few years. In the long run it is going to be the only way to save money," Overholt added.

"I can't envision two cities in the area, and I will do anything I can to improve the areas of cooperation."

Overholt also had some comments on the Plymouth Heights Charter.

"I think we could drop this whole ruse if we could be sure annexation attempts would be dropped," he said.

When the Board asked Overholt to join them

In a nutshell

★ Ho hum. Petitions have been filed for a new charter commission for the non-existent City of Plymouth Heights, better known as Plymouth Township. According to John D. McEwen, who gets double billing as Township Supervisor and Mayor de facto of the city, 390 signatures were secured of which 359 were bonified. Under statute, 300 were required. They were filed with the Wayne County Clerk on Thursday, Aug. 11. A waiting period will follow until the County Board of Supervisors determines an election date for this, the fourth charter commission. The charter is a ruse to avoid annexation proceedings by the City of Plymouth.

★ Vocal and dialogue tryouts for "The Desert Song" are being held by the Plymouth Theater Guild on Thursday and Friday, Aug. 18 and 19 at 7:30 p.m. at 853 Church St. Dancing tryouts for the same production will be held at the same location at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 25. The Sigmund Romberg musical will be produced in late October. For more information, call 453-3548.

★ A public budget hearing will be held next Monday, Aug. 22 on the Plymouth Community School District operating budget at 8 p.m. in the School Board offices on Mill St. The public is entitled to come, read the proposed budget and ask questions.

DAVID TROUTMAN:

It's 'upward bound' for MSU student

A Plymouth student is one of 16 college freshmen involved in a unique "learn as you earn" situation at Michigan State University this summer.

David L. Troutman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey D. Troutman of 1345 Carol St. is leading a teacher's life during the summer months.

From his Negro, white and Spanish-American students, he is learning about problems low-income families have, how minority races live and think, and how to get along with others. As a "tutor-counselor", Troutman is helping local high school students attending Upward Bound, a federally financed program of intensive training being conducted at MSU's Justin Morrill College.

Actually, the tutors — who attend Justin Morrill during the school year — are getting a lesson in intercultural living.

As one tutor pointed out, "I'm meeting more kinds of people than I ever thought existed."

Enrolled in Upward Bound are students from low-income families from nearby farming communities and the city of Lansing. They will enter their senior year in high school in September.

Tutors and students live, work and relax together under the same roof. The benefits derived are mutual.

Students are improving their ability to do senior-level high school work, and are making new friends.

Most tutors have become good friends with some of their charges, and find them more honest, open, even blunt about problems at home and in school than their college friends usually are.

But for Troutman, as for any teacher, this kind of job has its headaches, a kind not normally experienced at such an early age.

Can we reach these students? Can we help them? Can we change them? These are the questions that concern the young collegians involved with Upward Bound.

As one coed admitted, they

Wurst, kraut kick off festival

"Ach, du lieben," it'll be knockwurst time at Plymouth's Fall Festival again when the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club kick the event off on Thursday, Sept. 8 in Kellogg Park.

Knockwurst, sauerkraut, potato chips, homemade German chocolate cake, ice cream, coffee and soft drinks will be the fare served by BPW members from 4 to 9 p.m.

Soft drinks, chips, cake and ice cream will be available earlier — from noon on. Serving will take place in the center of the park, located in the heart of downtown Plymouth.

BPW INAUGURATED the "German Night" concept at last year's Fall Festival and found it successful under chairman Lois McAllister.

Chairmen this year are Daisy Proctor, Connie Aldrich and co-chairmen Shirley Perryman and Elizabeth Holmes. Last year the club showed a profit of more than $400.

Funds earned in 1965 went toward a scholarship fund, given to a Plymouth high school girl. Money also helped send a young lady to Girls' State and to the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

This year's funds will go for the same purposes.

Other activities that the Business and Professional Women's Club has helped in include Fourth of July fireworks, the Plymouth Christmas lighting fund, the Plymouth Symphony Society and others.

Director asks for 10 more men for Twp. Fire Dep't.

A sweeping series of improvements in the Plymouth Township Fire Department was recommended by Township Director of Public Service William Burr in a presentation to the Board of Trustees Tuesday evening.

Burr urged the addition of 10 fire fighters to the Township force, inauguration of a pension plan for firemen and installation of additional hydrants at danger areas in the township.

He appeared at the regular monthly meeting of the Board at the Township Hall.

The silver-haired director, clad in a dress blue uniform made his plea personally to board members. He submitted three letters to them on the recommendations.

Burr emphasized his feeling that additional manpower for the department was a serious and pressing need. He noted that formulation and implementation of a pension plan could do much in terms of morale and the sense of security needed among department members.

The board's response, however, was anything but enthusiastic. In fact, some seemed incredulous, noting that they felt insufficient money was available for the addition of one man — let alone 10.

Trustee Ralph Garber asked Burr how he arrived at a need for 10 men. Burr explained that the addition of 10 would permit manning all apparatus with two persons, instead of just one.

"I know this may sound outrageous to you," Burr commented to the board. "But you're going to have to adjust your thinking to it. It's coming."

Burr also noted that the department, in his opinion, was short of volunteers — about 75 per cent short. He said he felt the volunteer force should be increased to 35 men.

"Is your aim 35 men?" Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes asked.

"Yes, it is," Burr replied.

"I doubt very much if we have money to handle 35 volunteers," Mrs. Holmes responded.

In response to Burr's request for a pension plan for full-time firemen, Supervisor John D. McEwen noted that such a plan had been discussed at budget hearings. He said a plan was on file "for study and consideration" at the present time.

Burr underlined the hazards he felt existed with the department at its present strength. In his statement to the board he wrote:

"THE CURRENT concept of one man responding with an apparatus to a fire, hoping that a volunteer will show up eventually, has inherent in it the element of chance, uncertainty and risk."

"It would be idle to pretend that the undermanned condition of this department can be solved by the calculated disregard of these important factors."

"... The present growth of the Township, and the anticipated growth, heightens the fire frequency as well as the fire risk for the people and industry of the Township."

"This consequently creates what is known in the trade as FPG (Fire Prevention Gap.)"

"To rephrase this — we are negligent in our responsibility for this protection in that we are providing only a very minimum standard of fire protection."

Two men responding to a call, Burr noted, could put firefighting equipment into operation more quickly — gaining precious minutes that might save a life in some cases.

PRESENT staffing, Burr pointed out, leave no one to man the second station in the Township, located near Lake Pointe Subdivision, when a man

Bd. slaps down appointments for second time

Obviously irked because their recommendations were given no apparent consideration, the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees Tuesday evening slapped down two of Supervisor John D. McEwen's nominations for the Township Planning Commission for the second month in a row.

Trustees denied McEwen's personal recommendations by a 4-2 vote.

For the second month running, the supervisor submitted the names of C. Veach Sparks, former Township Clerk and planning commissioner, and Martin Fleming to serve on the planning group.

Sparks was recommended to take the vacancy created by the resignation of commissioner Tivadar Balogh and Fleming was nominated to replace John Welsher who resigned.

Last month, trustees approved the reappointment of Austin Stecker and Maurice Breen to the planning group for three year terms.

DISAGREEMENT on the other two openings, however, apparently goes back nearly two months. Trustees say McEwen approached them and asked for recommendations for the two vacancies.

Trustee Gene Overholt agreed to contact several people to see if they were interested in serving.

But at last month's Township Board meeting, before Overholt could submit the names of people he had contacted, McEwen submitted a written recommendation for the appointments.

They were deferred for a month by Trustees so others could be considered for the posts.

ON TUESDAY evening, McEwen submitted the names of Sparks and Fleming again and called for action.

"I have not altered my requests," he said.

"It was embarrassing last

HONEST MAN:

Fireman turns over $1200 to Township

If you had $1,246.39 that really wasn't yours, but nobody knew you had it and nobody would find out, would you give it away?

That's the question that confronted a Plymouth Township fireman recently — but he didn't hesitate a minute.

Fritz Honke turned the money over to the Township, where it rightfully belonged.

It all started when Honke, a full-time fire fighter at the Township, injured his back at work about a year ago.

The injury led to his being off work from March 13 through May 10. During this time, Plymouth Township paid him his full pay of $1,077.09.

In addition, however, insurance checks began arriving at Honke's. Before it was all over, he had received $614.24 from one insurance company and $ 632.15 from another.

Because he had continued to receive his pay, the fire fighter felt he was not entitled to the insurance checks. So he turned them over to the Township.

At last Tuesday's Township Board meeting, Trustees decided to give him back the sick days he had lost during his absence because the time off was due to a work-incurred injury and because he was so honest in turning over the money he had received from the insurance firms.

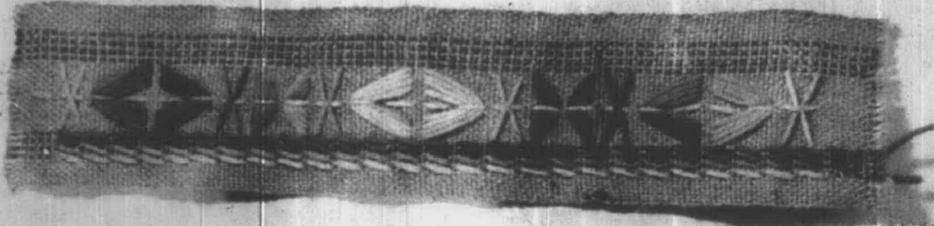

"A good man," so the song goes, "nowadays, is hard to find."

That seems to be the happy feeling that the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees holds for Honke.

THERE GOES more than $1,200! Plymouth Township Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes looks on as firefighter Fritz Honke signs checks over to the Township.

This picture of an individual strip shows the details of the stitches.

Colorful tote bags are easy to make

A striking tote bag can be made for $1.50 according to Mrs. Edwin Ash of Pacific St. If you make the bag a little larger it can be used as a knitting bag, lined in plastic it becomes a beach bag.

Mrs. Ash explains these bags are very simple to make once you get started, and can easily be done in a week's time. She has shown many of her friends how to do them and they have gone on and made their own variations on the pattern.

ing strips used for upholstering make a tote bag that is 14 inches wide at the top. Mrs. Ash recommends the webbing from Sears.

Also needed is one skein of variegated 4 ply knitting worsted in any color you want, carpet thread, and material for the lining.

Cut the webbing so there are three 30 inch strips for the sides, one 17 inch strip for the handle, and a 13 inch strip for the bottom.

Machine stitch along the cut ends of the webbing so it won't ravel.

Now crease lengthwise along the center of one of the webbing strips.

The next step is to make a running stitch down this center fold with your yarn. This is the base for your pattern, and very important.

While making the running stitch keep the yarn on top of the material for five horizontal threads of the stripping, then take the yarn underneath for two threads of the stripping. It is not necessary to have this absolutely accurate, but try to keep the running stitch as close to these proportions as possible so your pattern will come out even.

Now you are ready to work the pattern. The stitches Mrs. Ash uses are a chevron, a cross, a butterfly stitch, a cross again, and then this sequence is repeated to the end of the strip. However, she says that it is easy to experiment and make variations on this pattern.

The stitches can be copied pretty well from the picture. The chevron takes up two of the running stitches and goes all the way out to the red dots at the side of the stripping.

The cross takes up one running stitch and also goes out to the red dots. Be careful to knot the cross in the middle or the yarn will catch on things.

The butterfly is a smaller backwards chevron. It only takes up one running stitch, but goes out to the red dots. Be sure that before and after each pattern stitch you knot the thread on the back of the material.

When you are finished with the center pattern cover the red dots at the edges of the strips with small running stitches.

When all the strips are finished the next step is to sew them together for the sides of the bag. If you have a zig zag machine you can simply lay two strips side by side and use a zig zag stitch to sew them together. Then attach the third strip in the same way.

If you don't have this kind of machine take two strips and place them on top of each other, outside facing, and overcast the edges with the carpet thread. This should be done loosely enough so you can lay the two strips flat when finished and tight enough so strips stay together evenly.

After the strips are sewn together overcast them where sewn, with the yarn so the thread doesn't show.

At this point it is wise to measure and cut your lining. Lay the strips out flat. The lining should be about one inch longer so it can be seamed. At the top it should also be roughly an inch bigger so the material can be turned under when sewn to the bag.

At the bottom the amount of extra material in the lining should be half the width of the bottom strip of webbing, plus again the inch for seam allowance.

Now all that is left to do for the purse itself is to seam the side and put on the bottom and the handle.

For the side seam simply sew a regular seam down the side of the bag.

Next take the piece of stripping for the bottom and attach it so the side with blind stitches done with the carpet thread.

Again overcast with the yarn where the bottom and sides are sewn.

Cut a piece of cardboard to fit the bottom and place it inside on the bottom.

Cut a lining to fit the handle. Turn the edges under and sew it to the handle.

Whip stitch the edge of the handle with yarn to cover any stitches that might show.

Then sew the handle to the top of the bag. This should be done with a machine so it will be secure.

Now sew up the side and bottom of the lining. Place this inside the bag and turning under the raw edge at the top sew it to the bag.

Now your tote back bag is finished and you are all set to take it out shopping.

This is the tote bag that many Plymouth women have made, following the directions of Mrs. Ash.

Gene Overholt

to get a full time fireman named captain of the department.

Overholt approves of various community cooperation moves.

"I see the Area Planning Commission as a proper area to be involved in. We should go out and sell ourselves. With a growing community and everybody tied up with our own concern, there are other duties we often don't find time to do," he commented, referring to the group that was formed by the City of Plymouth and Plymouth and Canton Townships to seek commercial and industrial development for the school district.

Overholt further commends the Chamber of Commerce and their effort in "getting the ball rolling" with the Hillsdale conference. That meeting held last spring involved 70 community leaders, meeting to discuss problems affecting the Plymouth Community.

Police protection, another issue being pushed by the Hillsdale group, is another problem for the Board.

"I support McEwen's theory. We haven't had any public criticism about police protection. I am for the most economical way to get police protection, whether it means with the City or Wayne County," Overholt said.

"I can't support identity for identity's sake. The influx of people is going to bring new demands, and this is why we think we'd better get busy."

The knotty problem of reassessment also faces the Board and Overholt.

"Here, the road is made for us. We are going to have to reassess the land as prescribed by Morley," Overholt added, referring to Charles Morley of the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation.

"I have many people approach me, and I have to say that I hope equalization will be straightened out so some people will have a decrease."

Overholt at a meeting asks lots of questions and gives the impression of having all the time in the world.

He takes his job seriously, and takes extra time to do his homework before he votes on an issue. He feels expansion of the Township's sewer and water projects are the first step that may lead to modernization of government.

While the community struggles to outgrow an old feud between the City and the Township, Overholt appears unruffled.

He has lived here since 1946 when he joined Bell, and he has personally taken part in many community advancements, all the way from school committee studies to a pay raise for Plymouth Township firemen.

It is for that reason his appointment really was no surprise to those who know him. He told them he was not a yes man. He has felt his way carefully, reserving judgements until all the evidence is in.

But he has not been inactive. Among other things since he has been on the Board, he:

- (1) drafted the Township's personnel policy, and put it in writing, something that had never been done.
 - (2) Wrote and saw through adoption of a Township legal counsel policy, ending months of internal struggle after Earl Demel nearly quit as Township Attorney over questioning of a bill he submitted.
 - (3) Headed a committee of Board members that met with Township firemen, and helped in drafting provisions for a substantial pay raise.
- Overholt found written policy right up his alley, and something that was lacking in Township government.
- Overholt, who lives at 41201 Marlin with his wife Jane, and three daughters, Carole, 17, Barbara, 14, and Jodi, 8, is employed by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. as a systems and research analyst. His main job is to find solutions to problems.
- Before moving up to the Board, he was active in school work. Later he was appointed as the firemen's representative on the Civil Service Commission.
- At that time he was involved in a struggle

Long hearing marks three hour City Commission meeting

Aiming for what looked like another record in verbosity and long-windedness, Plymouth City Commissioners parlayed a routine meeting agenda Monday evening into a marathon that exceeded three and a half hours.

More than an hour and 35 minutes of the endurance contest was devoted to two public hearings that featured only a handful of citizens - none of them protesting the proposed actions.

The hearings were held on proposals to install curb and gutter and pave portions of Hartsough St., east of S. Main, and Sutherland St., west of Main. Both seemed routine items that would take little time.

BUT THE city fathers seized upon the opportunity to turn the hearings into a semantic tug of war in which they haggled about:

- (1) The width of right of ways at the rites.
 - (2) How wide a street should be placed on a right of way of a given width.
 - (3) Whether owners of a majority of the property footage were in favor of the paving.
- On the Hartsough project, Arthur Shepard of 505 Hartsough spoke in favor of the paving, but urged street width of 27 feet instead of the recommended 31 and called for asphalt paving and curbing instead of the recommended concrete.
- In the end, commissioners voted for 27 foot asphalt paving with concrete curb and gutter. Neil Davidson who lives on the corner of Hartsough and Roosevelt Sts. supported Shepard's comments.
- Letters from protesting property owners in both areas were read. They argued that pavement would turn the streets into drag strips for youthful drivers.

PUBLIC hearings were set for the night of Monday, Sept. 19 concerning planning commission recommendations on the Harvey St. setback in the downtown area between Penniman and Ann Arbor Tr., and vacation of two alleys, one bordered by Burroughs, Harding, Hartsough and Coolidge and the other by Auburn, Blanche, Farmer and Evergreen. Authorization was given to advertise for bids on the Hartsough and Sutherland St. pav-

Bouquet for the School Board

Serving as a member of a local governmental or legislative body is, by and large, a thankless task. The pay is poor, the hours — in light of area growth — are long, and the work is painstaking.

One can look forward to criticism from taxpayers and other constituents and, often, from the press. Seldom, it seems, does anyone take time to applaud when things are well done.

But the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education has done several things well lately, and a few bouquets seem to be in order.

First, and most conspicuous, the board has reached agreement with all employees of the district on new salary and pay schedules.

They have done this in the face of disturbance and turmoil in other districts that resulted in walkouts, absences and strikes.

Also to their credit, the pay schedules are fair and competitive and reasonable. The time has long since passed when educational personnel could be given short fiscal shrift.

Teachers are no longer willing to educate children for the sheer glory of it. For years, like the clergyman, they had been expected to lay up their treasure elsewhere than here on earth.

By the same token, if instructors are not going to accept less than adequate remuneration, it follows that administrators should not be.

Plymouth School Board members recognized this and made sure that district administrators would be compensated fairly, in keeping with their background, professional experience and performance.

Fortunately, an increase in district valuation made it possible to reach these ends without penalizing the quality of education offered.

School Board members deserve the gratitude of district residents for their achievements in this area.

Secondly, the board and administration should be congratulated for their adoption of the Citizens' Facility Study Committee's recommendation of a 5-3-4 school organization.

It seems obvious to us that the disadvantages have outweighed the advantages of placing seventh graders in the same school with ninth graders.

Now, as facilities are built, the Plymouth School District will move away from this situation and into intermediate schools housing sixth, seventh and eighth grade students.

Younger students will no longer be subjected to the pressures of over accelerated maturation and social orientation.

These two steps, the pay agreements and the projected school organization plan, are indicative of the effort, thought and concern that School Board members are devoting to the tasks that lie before them.

The district is indeed fortunate to have such attributes brought to its Board of Education.

HELPING OTHERS — Planning tutoring sessions for high school students from low-income families are Dr. Alex J. Cade, left, Michigan State University program director for Upward Bound, and "tutor-counselor" David L. Troutman of Plymouth, a MSU student at Justin Morrill College.

'Upward bound'

never get away from their responsibility, not even on informal coke dates with other tutors.

Hopefully, 10 weeks of communal living and group counseling will inspire the Upward Bounders to enter college or pursue some kind of post-high school training.

According to Dr. Alex J. Cade, program director, many of the students have been making poor grades in high school classes and lack the motivation to improve.

Some have never considered going on to college, but others have already rejected the idea as economically impossible.

Though similar programs are being conducted at about 200 other colleges and universities, MSU's program is unique because it ties in with both the curriculum and philosophy of new Justin Morrill College.

This small, semi-autonomous college, founded in 1965, offers a liberal education with emphasis on intercultural understanding.

This is the first opportunity JMC students have had for "field service", a new curricular (option) that stresses active involvement as a learning tool.

"This is what today's youth wants," says D. Gordon Rohman, dean of Justin Morrill.

"Though we continue to offer the library and the laboratory we literally can offer the streets of Detroit too," he explained.

After Sept. 2, when the 10-week program on campus ends, the tutors who continue to work with the high schoolers will stop earning dollars and start earning college credits.

How do JMC students feel about their "field service" experience?

Some typical but revealing comments from them include: "It is enriching me as a person. I'm getting to know people on other than a superficial basis."

"I'm getting a lot out of it. Now I realize how important the academics are for getting these kids out of the problem ruts they're in."

"I feel 100 per cent more well-rounded because of this experience."

Several feel their involvement in Upward Bound has clarified their thinking about the future, what they want to be.

"This is what I want to do for my life's work," one coed confided, "counseling and teaching."

As a teacher I find much merit

Another, who hopes to be a doctor, decided, "This is probably the best preparation I could have."

Perhaps the comment of one tutor who gave up another position to work in Upward Bound best expresses the regards of such a job:

"It really isn't like working at all. It's like just living with people and being friends."

FOR REZONING:

Twp. board denies Mangogna request

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees turned thumbs down last Tuesday evening on a petition to rezone the Mangogna property at 47660 Ann Arbor Road.

The Plymouth law firm of Draugellis and Ashton, representing the owners of the property, had sought to get permission to rezone the property from R-1-E, residential, to commercial.

Over the past several years, the Township Planning Commission and Board of Trustees has repeatedly refused to take such action regarding the property.

The Township has claimed the property is a non-conforming usage (a commercial business in a residential area).

But Frank and Julia Mangogna, the owners, have argued that the property was zoned commercial at one time, had a commercial business on it when they purchased the land and that they deserve a chance to expand and improve their business.

The Mangognas operate a restaurant at the location. The Board's refusal to grant the request may lead to a lawsuit on the part of the Mangognas.

FOLLOWING Tuesday evening's action, taken at the board's meeting at the Township Hall, Supervisor John D. McEwen commented:

"Well, I guess that solves Mango's problem for now," Township Trustee Richard Lauterbach who cast a negative vote against denial, explained his action this way:

"I'd like this board to understand that in this particular situation I'm not pro-Mango," he said. "But I believe in compromise to avoid lawsuits."

"One thing bothers me a little bit. This establishment has been there a good number of years. It's been a commercial establishment."

"I think we have to realize there is going to be some commercial development west of Sheldon Road."

"Will we always get this re-jection when commercial is proposed?"

McEwen answered Lauterbach by pointing out that no commercial development is in the township's master plan. He said planners say they will provide corner development when the population demands it.

Does smut sell more newspapers?

Dear Editor:

I find your headline of Aug. 10, "Falsies, tight pants to exit Jr. Highs with new system," most unnecessary.

I must reach one of two conclusions. Either you hold this new approach up to ridicule or you believe smut sells newspapers.

As a teacher I find much merit in the planned division and believe it would solve some problems. I hope people will read beyond the headline.

I have consistently disliked the flippant tone of the editorials. There is still a place for sincerity and many sincere people in this place.

Planning appointments time," the supervisor continued, "at the last planning commission meeting. We don't know if we would have a quorum or not. I would like to have action."

When McEwen finished speaking, Township Clerk Helen Richardson noted that other names had been mentioned for the posts and Overholt commented that persons he had contacted expressed a desire to serve.

"Do you wish that I withdraw these names?" McEwen asked. After the supervisor reaffirmed his recommendations again, Turstee Ralph Garber, seconded by Mrs. Richardson moved approval of them.

The motion lost 4-2, with Trustees Overholt, Lauterbach, Norman and Township Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes voting no.

ON WEDNESDAY, three of the four were contacted to comment on their negative votes.

Trustees Norman and Overholt and Mrs. Holmes all said they felt the names submitted by trustees should have been given some apparent consideration by McEwen. Lauterbach was unavailable for comment.

Following the defeated motion to approve McEwen's appointments, Overholt moved the appointment of Melvin Troyer to the planning commission.

"He's out of order to make such a motion," Garber interjected. Garber pointed out that it was the supervisor's prerogative, and his alone, to make appointments.

Mrs. Holmes moved that the matter be tabled for another month, pending further recommendations from McEwen.

HER MOTION won unanimous approval, meaning that the planning commission, faced with a huge workload as development continues to skyrocket in the Township, will be forced to operate two men short for at least another month.

In other action at the meeting, the board of trustees:

(1) Denied a request for reconsideration of a petition to rezone property owned by Frank and Julia Mangogna at 47660 Ann Arbor Road to C-2 or issuance of a non-conforming building permit.

(2) Tabled action on a letter from Deloy Kelly, 41218 Russet Lane requesting action by Lake Pointe Subdivision developer Fred Greenspan or the Township to repair a hole on Township property.

(3) Approved a planning commission recommendation for rezoning property behind Post-tiff Drive, across from the Township Hall from R-1, one family residential, to M-1, light manufacturing.

(4) Proved authorization for a contract signing with Ford Motor Co. on a matter pertaining to the new plant site on Sheldon Rd.

(5) Tabled action on approval of the building code and Township Attorney Ralph Cole's recommendation on adoption of a fire prevention code.

(6) Tabled the appointment of a member to the Area Planning Commission.

(7) Agreed to restore fire fighter Fred Honke's sick days because he was off due to a work incurred injury and because insurance covered his absence.

(8) Authorized signing an agreement with C & O Railroad for right of way for the Tramp Hollow sanitary sewer.

(9) Authorized advertisement for bids on purchase of water meters.

(10) O.K.'d the rental of space for storage of voting machines and granted permission to hire another girl in the sewer and water department.

(11) Adopted several routine resolutions and authorized pay for a public stenographer at Township Board and Planning Commission meetings.

WIN MONEY. It'll cheer you up even if you've got a broken arm like Jerry Hoelscher, left. Hoelscher and Mrs. Fred Holly of 632 N. Harvey St. both won the accumulated prize in The Plymouth Mail's newspaper Bingo game. They divided the prize money of $250, taking home checks of $125 each. Mrs. Holly, mother of six, noted that the cash would come in handy for school clothing. Hoelscher just smiled from behind the heavy cast his arm is in. He owns and operates Jerry's Accordion Studio at 392 S. Harvey St. Mrs. Holly's husband works for Vogel Ritt, a Detroit pest control firm. Next week, the prize in the newspaper Bingo will be $50 to win. Winners must completely cover their cards with numbers from that week's paper. For more details see Page B-4 and B-5. Mrs. Holly's winning card came from Willoughby Shoes. Hoelscher's was given out by The Photographic Center.

The Grim Pilgrim

By DAVE WILEY

Next week will be good bye time for me here at The Plymouth Mail.

I point this out, not so you will get tears in your eyes — stop laughing — but simply because Doug Johnson is away on vacation this week and I've been busy enough so that I'm at a loss for something to write about.

And while I detest poignant farewells, it seems fitting that after two years of afflicting you with my weekly views that I mention my leaving.

Perhaps it would be germane to detail some of those things that did NOT enter into my decision.

I am not departing The Plymouth Mail because Plymouth is a smug, provincial little town. In fact, I will continue to live here because I've fallen in love with the place.

This community has an intangible something that you can't quite ferret and define. And I'm hooked on it. If there is a modicum of smugness and provincialism it is equally balanced by those people who know the place, love it for its faults and work like heck to help keep Plymouth going.

Besides I owe the blood in my very veins to local financial institutions and I couldn't move if I wanted to.

No, Phil Power didn't can me because I wrote a smart headline about falsies and tight pants at Junior High East.

The first thing I asked Power when he purchased this newspaper was what the editorial tabus and limitations would be.

For tabus and limitations are what make community newspapers moribund and colorless and bland and totally devoid of character and interest.

He answered me in three words. "There are none," he said.

I know that, as a publisher, he will raise The Plymouth Mail to new and delightful heights of editorial incisiveness and penetration.

This man knows that newspapers have a mission in life. And I don't think he views that mission as a mushy, wishy-washy receptacle for undistinguished community gossip.

Watch this newspaper and its sister publications in The Observer Group. They're going places.

No, I didn't decide to quit because I'm tired of the Republicans accusing me of being a Democrat and the Democrats accusing me of being a Republican.

I've secretly enjoyed seeing the political party organizations in this area mumble about some of the criticism this newspaper has levelled at them during my time.

I kept telling them I was an unreconstructed radical and, now that I'm leaving newspaper work, maybe we'll find out whether that means I subscribe to the tenets of one party or the other.

I'm not leaving because people call and write letters taking issue with the paper and inquiring what in heaven's name we think we're doing.

I wish there were more of them. For discourse and discussion should go on about a newspaper. If anything, I am amazed that more aren't interested enough to shake off their lethargy and take a swipe at The Plymouth Mail or something in the community that bugs them.

This is probably Plymouth's, the whole country's biggest fault. Nobody cares. No one gives a darn.

Few persons vote, few work and almost nobody has guts enough to take a definite stand on any question of import and controversy.

We are an awfully weak people sometimes.

Since I've shared my views, personal and otherwise, with you for a long time — you might as well know why I'm giving up the editorship of this newspaper when it's on the brink of what probably will prove to be its greatest period of growth and improvement.

I simply received an offer that I couldn't turn down and, in my own way, I made my own decision to leave.

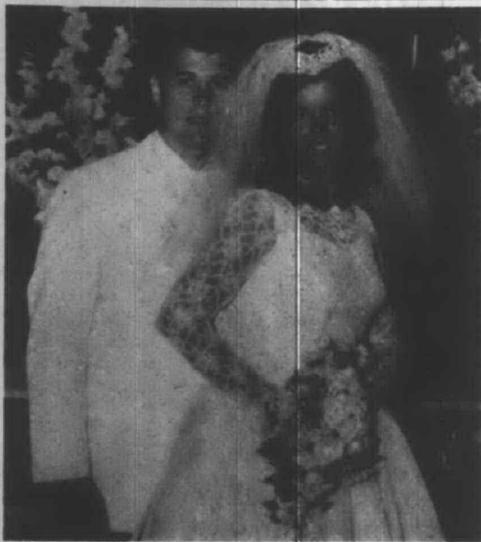

Editor Jim Fitzgerald of The Lapeer County Press has a pet expression he salts his column with regularly.

It's apt. Onward and upward. So next week, we'll say goodbye here.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carless

Miss Bender weds Donald Carless

The first Presbyterian Church was the scene of the afternoon wedding of Miss Barbara Bender of Plymouth to Donald Martin Carless of Grosse Pointe Woods on July 30.

The former Miss Bender is the daughter of the Philip Benders of Sheldon Rd. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Carless of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Dr. Henry Walch officiated at the ceremony.

The bride's dress was a floor length gown of organza and lace, trimmed with pearls and sequins. The shoulder length veil was attached to a heart shaped crown. She carried a bouquet of large white mums, roses and ivy.

Miss Lynn Bender, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Mrs. Donna Martin the bridegroom's twin sister was the bridesmaid.

Both attendants wore full length gowns of mint green crepe with empire waists and brocade tops, and matching headpieces. They carried bouquets of light green and white mums.

The bridegroom's brother, Gary Carless was best man. Ushers were Philip Bender Jr., the bride's brother, and Michael Tarsney of Farmington.

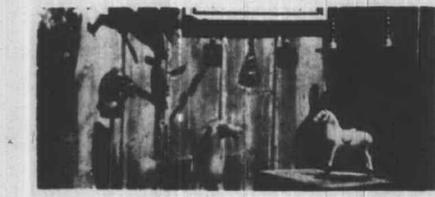

Mrs. Bender wore a raspberry linen ensemble, and Mrs. Carless wore a yellow linen and lace ensemble.

After a reception for 150 guests in the church parlor the young couple left for a honeymoon in northern Michigan.

They are now at home in Plymouth, where Mr. Carless is the Marathon distributor.

Speaking of Women

One of the dealers for the Antique Mart will be June McNamara, Ann Arbor. Some of her collection is pictured.

Mrs. Wilson Augustine chairman of the steering committee for the Antique Mart is seated in the old rocking chair holding an antique pitcher. Surrounding her are some of her committee members. In the back row from left are

Women work at Fall Festival

The Plymouth Fall Festival is drawing near, and women's groups are making plans for their part in the festivities.

By Thursday when the festival starts the Plymouth Women's Club will have decorated all the store windows.

Mrs. Walter Beglinger is scouring the town to find antiques she can use in all the different windows.

Each store is going to be done in keeping with what it sells. For instance Mrs. Beglinger plans to use antique jewelry in jewelry store windows, and old school desks will be in Kresge's window.

Thursday, September 8, will see the Business and Professional Women serving knockwurst, sauerkraut, and homemade German chocolate cake. A complete dinner will cost $1.25, but individual items can be bought separately.

They will start serving the dinners at 4 p.m., but people can drop by their stand in the middle of Kellogg Park all afternoon for snacks of potato chips, root beer and ice cream.

Mrs. Robert Proctor who is in charge of this event has also arranged for a German band to play.

Mrs. Carl Caplin president of the Soroptomist Club says that her group is going to be serving cider and doughnuts starting at 3 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Antique Mart, now in its fourth year will be at the Grange Hall and The Chip from 12 to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 12 to 7 p.m. on Sunday.

The idea for the mart was conceived by Wayne Dunlap as a way to raise money for the symphony. And it has grown so that now it is the second largest contributor to the Fall Festival.

Mrs. Wilson Augustine, who is the general chairman, has been working with her committee on this project for most of the year.

It is so successful that there is a waiting list of dealers who want to take part.

The antiques run a wide range from stoneware and crocks, to handmade quilts, to Shaker furniture, and even an elaborate parrot cage decorated with eagles from the old Navin estate.

Items start as low as one dollar. There also will be homemade sloppy joes, cookies, and pies sold by the women of the Plymouth Grange at the Antique Mart.

Admission to the mart is 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

The Sweet Adelines singing group with members from Plymouth and other communities will be providing entertainment on both Saturday and Sunday.

Sunday there will be several women's groups taking part in the Festival. Rotary Anns under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frank Allison and Mrs. Robert Beyer, will be having their yearly sale of goods made by handicapped people.

There is no admission to these booths, which are set up in Kellogg Park, all the money goes to the handicapped people.

Mrs. Millah Nikkel, from the Easter Seal Society, who teaches handicapped people how to make the items will be on hand to help sell the items.

There will be rugs, and Christmas cards painted by a man who holds the paintbrush in his teeth because he has no hands.

There are children's toys from cuddly raggedy Ann dolls to wooden cradles and doll beds, and a magnificent red wooden barn and silo.

The Garden Club is planning to have a show at Leo Calhoun Ford on Sunday with Mrs. Paul Wiedman, chairman. They will have demonstrations at 11 a.m., one, three and five p.m. The demonstrations will be on such things as how to make ribbon roses, straw objects, bows, and feather flowers.

Besides the demonstrations there will be attractive ideas for table settings.

There will be a special Christmas table with Christmas items, such as Nativity figures and Christmas eggs for sale.

Also on Sunday AAUW will have a display table in the park. Mrs. W. A. Warrick is in charge of the display which will emphasize AAUW's Children's Adventure Series planned for the fall.

An evening in Ypsilanti

by MARGARET MURAWSKI
The thought of doing something culturally worthwhile somehow seems a little dull. So when I planned to attend an evening at the Ypsilanti Greek Theater seeing Bert Lahr in "The Birds" I thought of it as something that would be good for me, rather than something I would enjoy.

Also it was hard to hear from some of the seats.

I understand that the theater is in trouble financially. It is worth supporting.

It is culturally worthwhile - and more.

Strictly social

It turned out to be much more than I had expected.

In the first place, I heard it would be at a football stadium and half expected to see the football lines still marked on the field.

Instead the setting was breathtaking. I have never been to Greece, but what is done in Ypsilanti has to be a marvelous adaptation of the real thing.

There were all the pillars, anyone could want. There were stones surrounding the circular stage, with letters on them, which I can best describe as half Greek, half English.

The staging and the music were marvelous.

The chorus - well I remember choral speaking from when I was in high school. When I was a senior we gave an evening of choral speaking about the diamond jubilee of the school.

All of us thought it was pretty bad, but we knew for sure when we saw one of the honored guests sleeping in the front row.

Since then I have had quite a prejudice against choral speaking. So it means a lot when I say I really enjoyed this chorus. They were terrific.

My main criticism is that I wish I had brushed up on my Greek theatrical history, or that there were more complete program notes.

It is long time since those days when men, and gods, and birds could intermingle without causing confusion in the minds of the spectators.

It was a little hard to get acclimated to this. Therefore, I missed important parts of the play.

The Reverend and Mrs. David Strang entertained Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery as house-guests this past week. The Montgomerys have just returned from a year's stay in St. Croix, U. S. Virgin Islands where Mr. Montgomery was in training at a 250 year old Lutheran church. The Montgomerys are on their way to Chicago for Mr. Montgomery's senior year in the Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary.

MRS. HELEN PFISTER of Racine, Wisconsin and her friend Mrs. William MacVain visited Mrs. Pfister's daughter, Mrs. Betty Chobanian, and granddaughter, Sally, at the Lake Pointe Village apartments last weekend.

MR. AND MRS. DON CARLSON of Burroughs St. are enjoying a visit from her parents, the C. K. Dyers, and sister, Susanne, of Camp Hill, Pa. While here they are planning to visit Meadowbrook, and the Ypsilanti Greek Theater.

LOTS OF PLYMOUTH PEOPLE have been going over to the Greek Theater. The Kenneth Hulsings and the George Bauers were there Friday night seeing The Birds by Aristophanes.

ANOTHER GROUP FROM PLYMOUTH who were seen watching The Birds on Friday night from their front row seats were the George Spaniels, the Stan Webers, and the James Knowles.

THE CHARLES FIELDS have just returned from a trip to California where they visited her two sisters and their families.

THE LAWRENCE BECKER family has also returned from their vacation. They went up to Drummond Island in northern Michigan for a couple of weeks, as they have been doing for several years.

Mrs. Daniel Fox

Miss Frank wed in Ann Arbor

Miss Mary Alicia Frank, daughter of the Anthony Franks of Oberlin, Ohio, formerly of Plymouth, became the bride of Daniel Joseph Fox, son of the Marion J. Foxes of Birmingham, on Saturday, August 13 at high noon.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by Monsignor Bradley at St. Mary's Chapel in Ann Arbor, where the couple attend school.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white eyellet embroidered organza coat trimmed with lace over a full length gown.

Her mantilla was specially designed and trimmed with lace to match the dress.

She carried a Dutch colonial bouquet with white gaidiola petals, sweetheart roses, carnations and stephanitis, adorned with ivy and long white streamers.

Miss Julie Anne Frank acted as maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Cusma, of Akron, Ohio, and Misses Kathleen Voss and Kathryn Osebold of Plymouth. Margaret Leipsitz a cousin of the bride was the flower girl.

The bridesmaids all wore aqua gowns with lace trim. Their headpieces were garlands of ivy and yellow sweetheart roses. They carried nosegays of yellow roses and carnations with long aqua streamers.

The flower girl wore an ankle length frock of white organza over aqua taffeta. She carried a basket of daisies.

Richard Munt of Mt. Clemens served as best man. Ushers were Steven De Orlow and Michael Fox of Birmingham, and David Martin of Pontiac. John Fox was the ringbearer.

Mrs. Frank wore a pink suit. Mrs. Fox wore an aqua gown.

A garden reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the Stanton Schaefer of Northville.

After returning from a honeymoon in New England the couple will live in Ann Arbor. Mr. Fox is a graduate student in the school of Business Administration at the University of Michigan. Mrs. Fox will complete her senior year in sociology.

colors come through," says Mrs. Hellman. Another idea of hers is to take white manilla paper and make a drawing or design on it, pressing very heavily in some spots and lighter in others.

"Everyone has crayons at home, and there are lots of different things they can be used for. First," she states, "you should peel them so that the sides as well as the points can be used."

Then take watercolor and go over the whole picture. This will give the picture an interesting texture, as the watercolor will have a different affect on each of the thicknesses of crayon.

Her first idea is to take shirt cardboard and crayon all over it with light and bright colors, completely covering the board. This in turn should be completely covered with black liquid shoe polish, black poster paint, or black powder paint with a little liquid detergent added to the paint to make it stick.

Younger children in particular enjoy this project. Shaving crayons onto a piece of wax paper is another idea. Then put another piece of wax paper over the first. Iron the papers together, so the crayons will stick to them. Then all kinds of interesting designs can be cut out of the paper.

The children will then have fun scratching through the black covering with an old pen point or similar instrument to make drawings. They can use their imagination and either make line drawings or scratch through whole areas of the bright color.

Twp. Fire Department

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bloom of Freeport, Long Island, New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter Linda Ruth to Bert Richard Oliver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand J. Oliver of 14953 Dogwood Drive, Plymouth.

is on vacation or sick and another is taking his regular day off.

A man must be called in on his day off in such situations, Burr noted.

"A situation such as this," he said, "does not engender harmony to say the least. On the contrary it is depriving the men of their rightful time off given to them by State law.

Miss Bloom will enter her senior year at the Pennsylvania State University in the fall. She is a fine arts major and is a member of Pi Gamma Alpha, National Art Honorary Fraternity.

"I feel also that we must pursue the course of expansion to a better rating by the National Board of Fire Underwriters," Burr said, "so that we can in due time lower our insurance rates."

"I WANT AT THIS time to proclaim my steadfast concern for the safety of the people and property of the Township. I do not feel that the tragedy of fire or loss of life should be accepted as one of those usual or inevitable happenings, something that can not be lessened or avoided and must be endured."

An engagement party and reception was held at Guy Lombardo's East Point House, Freeport, New York, on June 19, 1966.

In his statement on the requested pension plan, Burr said: "Successful fire departments are built on the individual performance as a team, happy men, satisfied men, men who are mentally free from the annoying distractions of doubt and uncertainty, and get the job done."

Irene A. Nelson Funeral services were held Tuesday, Aug. 9 at 9:30 a.m. at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church for Irene A. Nelson, 75, of 725 Arthur St., the Rev. Fr. Francis Byrne officiating. Mrs. Nelson died Aug. 6 at Lauries Convalescent Home after an illness of about a year.

WHEN HYDRANTS are located a long distance from the scene, he explained, water must be relayed through two or more pumps - a time consuming and costly operation.

Mrs. Wilcox wanted to move into town so they bought the house on Penniman Ave., where Jack and his two sisters grew up.

Burr pointed to three critical areas in the Township: (1) Old Northville Road between the C & O Railroad and Five Mile Road.

Mrs. Wilcox helped bring the first Episcopal Church to Plymouth. It is the small grey building which stands next to the Wilcox property on Union Street. It is now owned by Jehovah's Witnesses.

The south and west side of Burroughs, according to Burr, has no fire protection water at all.

The original barn for the house is now the Grange Hall. The property went back in an L shape to Elizabeth St., and there were originally deer kept in the back.

The Specialty Feed Mill at the intersection of Haggerty and the C & O railroad is 1,600 feet from the closest hydrant.

While the Wilcox children were growing up the house still had its stained glass windows, a conservatory, and a large porch that went all the way around.

Burr also recommended the installation in hazardous areas of two outlet hydrants instead of single outlet. He urged installation of water mains of ample size in areas of hard-earned occupancy for more adequate fire protection.

By the time the second world war came along Mr. Wilcox was dead, Jack was in the service, and Mrs. Wilcox was having a hard time keeping up the house. Mr. Wilcox explains what happened next: "The government asked us if they could make it into apartments for war workers. We agreed and leased it to the government. After the war I bought back the lease, and have operated it as an apartment house ever since."

Trustees received all three of Burr's reports for study and consideration.

Little enough is left of the grandeur of this house, and even that may not last long.

Mrs. John Murphy adds more chicken to the frying pan as she prepares chicken asopoa, a Puerto Rican dish.

Specialty of the house Chicken asopoa makes good company dish

Mrs. John Murphy of Southworth recommends chicken asopoa as a colorful one dish meal that is especially good to serve for company.

Take cup up chicken pieces of your choice weighing 2 1/2 to 3 lbs. Wash, drain and dust the pieces in a mixture of four tablespoons flour, two teaspoons salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Sauté in 1/4 cup butter or margarine until golden brown and then drain. Transfer to a deep heavy pan. Add three cups canned chicken broth. Cover and simmer until the chicken is almost tender (30 to 40 minutes).

She also suggests serving this with a vinegar and oil salad, hard garlic bread, a fruit dessert, and for an extra special meal, a dry white wine.

Add one cup raw rice, a four ounce can of pimientos drained and cut into quarters, and 10 large stuffed green olives sliced. Now add one package frozen asparagus and 1/2 package frozen peas. Simmer about

This summer Mrs. Murphy has her nephew Kenneth McKee as a house guest. He will be a senior at Central Missouri State College and is working in at a summer job in this area.

They were married at a morning wedding at St. Robert Belarmine Church in Detroit with Father Stromske officiating.

After the wedding ceremony a breakfast was held at the Hillside Inn for the wedding party and the immediate families.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Harry Wagenschutz of Northville, the bride wore a full length A-line gown of nylon and lace. Her shoulder length veil was of Brussels lace and was attached to a pillbox hat made of pearls by the groom's mother. She carried a cascade of white mums and yellow roses.

In the evening a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Plymouth for over 200 guests.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of varying shades of blue. They all carried cascades of yellow daisies.

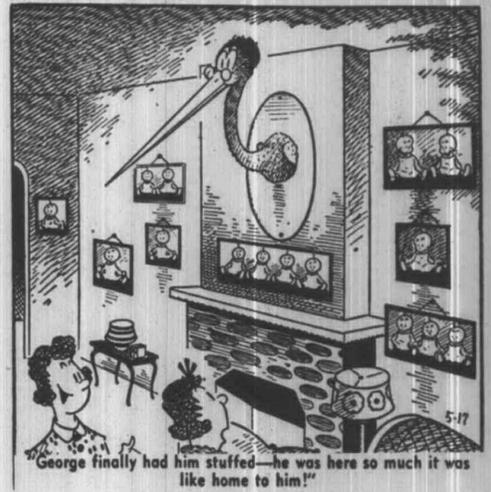

After the wedding trip to Gettysburg, Washington and New York the young couple are living in the Crestwood Apartments on Sheldon Road.

Start orientation at Schoolcraft this week

Orientation sessions for freshman students began this week on the Schoolcraft College campus as college officials set in motion procedures leading to the registration of an expected 2,800 students beginning Monday, Aug. 29, and the start of classes for the fall semester on Thursday, Sept. 1.

Divided into groups of approximately 200 each, freshmen were assigned to one of six orientation sessions scheduled for Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings and afternoons.

According to Registrar Norman E. Dunn, a pre-registration information packet has been mailed to all Schoolcraft students, including freshmen who have been tested and counseled. The packet includes a schedule of fall semester classes explaining registration procedures, the name of the student's faculty advisor and a pre-registration appointment time and date with the advisor.

A page is provided in the class schedule to permit the student to prepare a tentative weekly class schedule.

Registration will start on the campus at 1 p.m. Monday, Aug. 29, and continue through Wednesday, Aug. 31. Students enrolling in the day classes or planning a combined day and evening program must register in person, Dunn explained.

Students enrolling in evening classes may register either in person or by mail. Evening class students who have been counseled will receive in the mail information on how to register, Dunn said.

The registrar added he anticipated a fall term enrollment of approximately 1,800 day college students, an increase of about 300 from last fall, and about 1,000 evening college students.

Admission of students to day college courses closed last week, according to Director of Admissions Barbara Geil. The last group of students applying for admission were given pre-counseling tests on Aug. 9.

He enjoys all aspects of sports, particularly swimming, boating and fishing. Should he become an engineer in mechanics, he will follow in his father's footsteps. He's a manager of machine services at Burroughs Corporation.

"Richard has handled the route well since he took it over," circulation manager Fred Wright commented. "He has learned to meet people and handle the money involved. I've been pleased to have him as a Plymouth Mail carrier."

MRS. DIXON FORECASTS

See end to gas age in cars of 2016

The motorist of 2016 will ride on air, and gasoline will be obsolete as car fuel.

This is the forecast of the nation's Big Four auto heads and noted seersess Jean Dixon, as reported in "Motor News," Automobile Club of Michigan's official publication.

"Motor News" went a "step beyond" in giving Michiganians a preview of what they might be driving in another 50 years.

By 2061 as far as auto designers can foretell by means of present technology and scientific knowledge, cars will travel on new types of fuel, suspended on a cushion of air over roads with automated guidance systems. They will resemble today's vehicles with a Buck Rogers twist.

Mrs. Dixon, who predicted President Kennedy's assassination and who authored the best selling book "A Gift of Prophecy," sees in her crystal ball what auto makers speculate.

"I foresee that the most popular car in 2016 will utilize tubeless wheels that retract... While underway the vehicle seems to move on air and automatically compensate for draft caused by the elements. It can turn on its own axis at reasonable speeds."

MRS. DIXON also says that future lubrication-free autos will resemble today's cars rather than airplanes. They will be computer guided on long trips. Rear engines will be featured along with a radar-like collision preventer.

Many other features were foreseen by Mrs. Dixon such as a stripe of light on the roof, three exhaust holes in the rear of the car and two distinct shafts of light underneath the front and rear wheels. But she revealed no practical use for these innovations.

Auto company heads are less speculative and state that it is impossible to tell exactly what cars of tomorrow will be like. Breakthroughs in metals, plastics, designs, fuels and electronic-guidance systems could radically change concepts on drawing boards.

Motorists can expect the following by the turn of the century:

* Gasoline will no longer be used for fuel.

* Automatic pilots and computerized trips will be used.

* Built-in safety features will reduce highway accidents.

* Cars will travel off the ground on a cushion of air.

* Cars will be used in conjunction with a mass transit system.

* Speeds on major roads will be at least 100 miles per hour.

General Motors President James Rochetold "Motor News" readers: "Although the outline of the car of the future isn't clearly defined, it is reasonable to assume that styling will continue to emphasize clear designs of motion, stressing maximum visibility and increasing safety and comfort."

"Research work continues on gas turbine cars, fuel cells and other possibly new sources of motive power... We don't know which source of power will be the favorite 10 or 15 years from now," Rochetold stated.

"The latest GM Futurama, which closed with the 1964-65 World's Fair last fall, presented a number of possibilities... One of the several broad possible advances in highway travel was the GM Auto-Control System in which high performance electro-hydraulic devices automatically and safely steer, brake and accelerate cars and control the spacing between vehicles on the highway."

"Numerous other approaches will be developed in the next few years... For despite the great strides that have been made in a relatively short time, we have only scratched the surface."

FORD MOTOR Company President Arjay Miller agrees when he states that a "specific concept that could well be developed in coming years is an electronically programmed vehicle. It could, for example, pickup children at school and deliver them safely home or run pickup and delivery errands while the driver remained at home."

"Considerable attention will be given to free vehicles from the confines of earth - even if by only a few inches," Miller added. "We visualize a vehicle in the wheels-up position flying at near-ground level over land or water on a cushion of air at speeds up to 100 miles an hour in complete safety and comfort."

"Conveniences and safety features can be expected to keep pace with the basic advancement of future vehicles. For instance, we may have television scanners that provide the driver with an unobstructed, 360-degree view," Miller said. Chrysler Corporation Vice President of Productive Planning and Development Division Harry E. Cheesebrough says of tomorrow's cars: "Imagine a vehicle capable of carrying four persons and able to operate under driver control on ordinary streets as we know them today."

"The car could be powered by an energy-converting device, possibly electric drive. The source of energy could be either storage batteries, fuel cells or some other electric-generating device," he stated.

"Now envision a roadway completely enclosed... by tubes... resting on or extending above the surface."

"It is conceivable that automatic control would be accomplished by a center guide built into the roadway. Propulsion power could be externally supplied, thus making electrical propulsion seem attractive."

"Interval spacing of one foot or less seems possible, and speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour should be attained. American Motors President Roy Abernathy said: "The most dramatic change in our view, will come in the way automobiles will be powered."

We are just beginning to see in our space program how effective the fuel cell can be. With further development in this area, and the rapid strides being made in nuclear energy, it is possible that by the turn of the century automobiles will be powered by electrical energy."

"If this does occur," Abernathy said, "we can envision electric driving motors or components which would have high torque at all speeds... The driving motors will be small, and space requirements will be relatively minor considerations."

"Cars are bound to become smaller if this is realized," he noted. "Space previously devoted to a large engine, transmission, driveshaft, gasoline tank, etc., will be freed for passenger use - almost dictating an overall vehicle that is smaller in every dimension, which still will provide more interior passenger room."

AUTO CLUB made a conservative prediction of its own by stating that in the year 2016 there would be at least 120 million cars in use, compared with 80 million today.

Comments by auto executives indicate that a mass transit system will supplement the use of cars for intra-city travel but will not eliminate the family automobile.

The individual passenger car will play a major role in moving the population since they will have to take persons from their homes to mass transit pickup stations and from mass transit destinations to offices and stores.

Neither Auto Club or manufacturers mentioned the cost of cars in the future. But if Mrs. Dixon reads her crystal ball correctly, the grandchildren of this generation's motorists will still find them expensive despite increased automation.

PCF SUPPORTED:

Women take credit for Red Cross

The men can't take credit for this development:

It was Clara Barton, "Angel of the Civil War Battlefields", who, in 1881 initiated disaster relief operations in behalf of victims of Michigan forest fires, and became founder of the American Red Cross.

Today, there are numerous volunteers in Plymouth who are lengthening the shadow of Clara Barton through services to members of the Armed Forces and victims of disaster, and through blood collection programs.

Plymouth's Community Fund is supporting the 1967 program of the Red Cross with a $4,750 allocation from the $88,543 quota it will raise in a united-giving campaign between the dates of October 10 and November 4. Edward W. Schenning, plant manager of the Burroughs Corporation in Plymouth, will serve as general chairman of the drive.

AFTER TWO decades of disaster relief work, the Red Cross, in 1905 was designated by Act of Congress as responsible for aiding victims of natural disasters and giving assistance to the Armed Forces.

A strong post World War II influence on the Red Cross was the decision to reestablish the Blood Program so that blood and its derivatives would be available to civilians as well as military personnel.

In addition to blood collection, disaster aid and service to the military, Plymouth Red Cross activities now include first aid classes, home nursing instruction, water safety programs, food service, transportation, and social welfare aid.

Last year some 33 Plymouth volunteers worked on five blood collections which netted 428 pints at two community locations and in three industries. They handled ten additional assignments for blood collection and helped organize 14 classes in first aid and water safety. Many of the 1,178 total hours donated were spent in service at the Chapter House in Detroit.

TWENTY-ONE Plymouth families received assistance from the Red Cross Service to Military Families in such matters as financial aid, hardship discharges and emergency leaves. Forty Plymouth families of servicemen were counseled on government benefits, medical care and allotments.

Heading up the Red Cross volunteer activities in Plymouth are Mrs. C. Blaine Lytle, 1049 Dewey, chapter representative; Mrs. Henry R. Penhale, 985 Roosevelt and Mrs. Clarence Schuler, 340 Blunk, blood program; Mrs. C. C. Wiltse, 988 Roosevelt, food service; and Cecil L. Sharrard, 4474 Clare Blvd., disaster team.

In cooperation with the Plymouth Recreation and Adult Education Department, a "Care of the Sick and Injured" class will form on September 28. Mrs. Herbert Spring, R.N., will serve as instructor. Also, a standard First Aid class is being formed, and registrations for these courses are being taken at the Recreation office, phone 453-3100.

The Red Cross has an urgent need for volunteers from the Plymouth-Livonia community for such activities as:

Delivering blood to hospitals in the area; staffing daily bloodmobile sites; assisting families of servicemen in making "talking letters" to be sent free of charge to members of the Armed Forces overseas or hospitalized in the States.

Anyone wishing additional information about these varied volunteer activities may contact the Plymouth chairmen named above or the Red Cross office at 31228 Five-Mile, Livonia, phone 422-2787.

RED CROSS swimming, life saving and water safety classes have been popular in Plymouth. This action shows John McFall, 1078 Simpson, explaining to a swimming class the additional water safety courses for which they become eligible. In the water, Kay Zoet, 380 W.

Liberty, and Ed Kleinsmith, 290 Parkview Dr., are ready to offer the lesson for the day. Last year, some 275 Plymouthites received certificates in Water Safety at 11 classes conducted by the Red Cross. The local activities are financed by the Community Fund.

Local couple complete natural history course

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Edgar, 12350 Ridge Road, have recently completed a two-week course of natural history at the Audubon Camp of Maine, located on the Todd Wildlife Sanctuary, a forested island

POLICE CHIEF Kenneth Fisher of Plymouth, left, accepted a three-year Pedestrian Safety Citation from Automobile Club of Michigan branch manager Tom O'Hara last week. The City of Plymouth was given the award by AAA for having no pedestrian deaths for the third consecutive year.

Plymouth one of 34 cities to get safety award Plymouth gets $14,482 from Highway fund

Plymouth is announced as one of 34 Michigan communities receiving a special safety citation in the 27th annual AAA National Pedestrian Safety Program.

The citation is awarded to those cities competing in the program which record no fatalities for at least one year, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

In addition to the no death requirement, cities must have an effective pedestrian education program.

AUTO CLUB presented Plymouth's citation to city and police officials on August 11 for going three years without a pedestrian death.

Among cities in Michigan which entered the AAA Pedestrian Safety Program in 1966, 13 were cited for going a year without a pedestrian fatality; eight for two-year periods without deaths; three for three year-periods without deaths, six for four-year periods without deaths, one for a five-year period without a death, two for six year periods without deaths, and one for an eight year period without a death.

The City of Plymouth was among Michigan cities and counties that shared $28.9 million from second quarter Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections.

The Department of State Highways distributed $14,482 to the city.

Howard E. Hill, State Highway Director, said net receipts of the Highway Fund during April, May and June of 1966, amounted to $54,516,824, an increase of $1,968,451, or 3.7 percent, compared to the same period of 1965.

After deduction of collection costs and the Waterways Commission's share, the money is distributed under provisions of state law which provide that 47 percent goes to the Department of State Highways for use on state highways, 35 percent to the State's 83 counties for use on county roads and 18 percent to incorporated cities and villages for their roads and streets.

Under this formula, the Department of State Highways will receive $25,622,907 as its share of the second quarter collections.

Why do some people traditionally choose August to buy their new Chevrolet?

Malibu Sport Coupe and Malibu 4-Door Station Wagon. Both with 8 standard safety features.

To save money and, quite often, lots of it.

They know that prices will never be better at their Chevrolet dealer's than they are in August. They know their present cars will never be worth more in trade than they are right now. And they know a good value when they see one, like a Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe—the most popular model of America's most popular mid-size car. It comes with thick foam-cushioned seats, deep-twist carpeting, vinyl up one door and down the other, padded instrument panel and sun visors for added safety. And all those Body by Fisher niceties sit solidly over some of the surest handling features a car can have: Ball-Race steering. Full Coil suspension. Wide-stance wheel design for steady cornering.

So you see, "Chevrolet in August" makes a lot of sense. Fine cars. Exceptionally good buys and all those beautiful driving days left. Real Malibu weather. Act, my friend.

Brubeck to swing at Oakland

Dave Brubeck, internationally acclaimed jazz artist, will open Oakland University's Meadow Brook Series, 1966 with a September 10 appearance in the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion. The jazz concert by the Brubeck Quartet is set for 8 p.m. in the outdoor pavilion, home of the Meadow Brook Music Festival.

One of the most exciting groups in the history of jazz, the Dave Brubeck Quartet, which includes Brubeck, Paul Desmond, Joe Morello and Gene Wright, has won countless polls and awards in jazz during the past 12 years. It will be the first jazz group to perform in the University's pavilion.

Planned to bring a variety of top artists to the OU campus for students and the public, the fall series includes five other attractions, all to be staged in the auditorium of the University's new Matilda R. Wilson Hall.

The Meadow Brook Chamber Orchestra of 16 members, with Albert Tipton conducting, will present concerts on September 21 and November 18. The Detroit Severo Ballet Company will perform "Madeline" on September 30 for students and on October 1 for the public.

On October 12 pianist Eugene Pridonoff, sponsored by the Edgar M. Leventritt Foundation, will appear in concert. He will be followed in the series by the National Shakespeare Company, presenting "Much Ado About Nothing" for the public on November 5, and "Hamlet" for the campus audience on November 7. Curtain time for each of the Wilson Hall attractions will be 8:30 p.m.

According to University series planners, only 500 season tickets will be sold for the complete series, with a limited number available to the public. Tickets are now available for the series at the Meadow Brook Festival Ticket Office, Oakland University, Rochester. Telephone 338-7211, ext. 2301.

Single tickets may now be purchased for the Dave Brubeck Quartet concert.

Local girl in MSU music workshop

Elizabeth Wooll, 9343 Morrison, Plymouth, is among 690 high school musicians from 14 states and Quebec who are participating in Michigan State University's summer Youth Music Workshop, Aug. 1-20.

The program provides private and group instruction in music, music theory, music literature and conducting. Each student has the opportunity to take part in a variety of musical groups - festival bands, symphonic band, concert band, jazz bands, orchestra, mixed chorus, girls chorus and ensembles.

Instruction is by MSU and visiting university faculty and top high school teachers. Guest conductors from six cities head the major musical aggregations.

The students use their own instruments. They are housed in university dormitories and have access to university musical, recreational and cultural facilities. They appear on radio and television. Their music

The second slot in the senior division was taken by Ron Farmer and Ed Daniels with an elapsed time of 10 minutes and two seconds.

Bill Kelly and Mark Finley finished third in 10 minutes and four seconds. Fourth place winners were Gary Viazanko and Don Lynch with a time of 10 minutes and 34 seconds.

Softball title still in air, 2 games left

The closest race in at least six years in the softball recreation league drew to a close Monday evening the Tait's team battled Perfection and Perfection played Evans Product on the diamond behind Plymouth High School.

Going into the games, Tait's was leading the league with 12 wins and one loss. Perfection had a 10 and two record and Evans trailed behind in sixth place with a six and seven total.

If Perfection were to beat Tait's in the first game and go on to defeat Evans in the second, it would result in a first place tie and playoff game between Tait's and Perfection.

Last week's action in the league was marked by an upset when lowly, eleventh place RCA rolled over fifth place Walton's by a score of 13 to 12.

Other games during the week saw Evans down Lutheran seven to six; Perfection wallop Bathey 11 to one; Eckles roll over Paragon 14 to seven and Arbor View defeat Paragon seven to four.

Supervisor of softball recreation, Earl Gray said this season is the closest finish during his six years with the league. Standings after last week's games were:

Table with 2 columns: TEAM, W L. Rows: Tait's (12 1), Perfection (10 2)

Table with 2 columns: TEAM, W L. Rows: Arbor View (11 3), Eckles (9 5), Walton's (8 5), Evans (6 7), Bathey (6 8), DeHoCo (6 8), Lutheran (5 9), Vico (5 9), RCA (2 12), Paragon (1 13)

Fighting Irish

Curt Irish, graduate of Plymouth High School, has been invited to football practice at Wisconsin State University-Superior according to athletic director and head football coach Americo "Meriz" Mortorelli.

Irish, an outstanding football player at Plymouth, is expected to add greatly to the fortunes of the Yellowjackets this year as Mortorelli looks for a banner year at Superior. Practice begins September 1 with two-a-day practices scheduled, until school begins September 12.

The Jackets opening game is September 17 with Stout the WSC defending champions.

Pam Kloote takes 3rd in swim meet

A third place medal was awarded to a Plymouth girl in the sixth annual age group swimming meet held at Lower Huron Metropolitan Park near Belleville last Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Pam Kloote, 13, of 629 Herald took third place in the 80-yard free style event for 13 and 14-year-old girls.

A member of the Garden City Swimming Club, Pam's time for the event was 48.8 seconds.

She was one of a record number of 1200 boys and girls, aged 9 through 17, who competed in the meet.

Optimists win two more

It's off to Jackson for the Plymouth Optimist baseball team next week, after victories over the Livonia Giants and St. John's last week.

Saturday night the Optimists shut out the Giants 1-0 in a thriller that saw their pitcher strike out 13 and the Giant pitcher fan 10 men.

The Optimists' lone run came on an error in the seventh inning.

On Sunday, they won over St. John's by a score of three to one.

They will travel to Jackson Wednesday for area playoffs and, if successful, will go back for the state playoffs.

After a season in which they only finished in a third place tie with the Giants, the Optimists have run their playoff record to five straight victories.

They are the only undefeated team in the playoffs.

Losers win

You'd think 20-time losers would give up.

But not the Burroughs Printers team in Engineering League softball at Burroughs Corp.

After losing 20 games in a row, the team - managed by Frank Marshall - finally hammered out a win last week. By a lop-sided score, yet. Would you believe 17 to 7?

COACH HAS PLANS:

PHS 11 to gird for grid season

With the initial football practice scheduled for Monday, Aug. 29, vacationing Plymouth High School Coach John McFall already has plans completed, uniforms issued and will even hold a pre-practice session with his assistant coaches on the eve of the workout.

McFall arranged all of that prior to taking off Sunday for two weeks vacation, after handling the swimming recreation program at the senior high during the summer. He plans to be back in town on Sunday, Aug. 28 for a meeting with the coaches and then will start cracking the whip Monday.

"We have only one way to go," quipped McFall, as he started the task of issuing uniforms to more than 75 hopefuls a week ago. "We didn't win a game last fall but I'll guarantee that things will be different this time."

Micol, Dave Prochazka and Steve Hulce.

McFall issued a letter of instructions for the candidates, urging them to start a conditioning program immediately if they haven't been on one all summer. He urged footballers to run a mile daily, 25 push ups, 30 situps, spend a minute daily in bridging, take 20 20-yard wind sprints and mainly to get in top shape for the season.

Fisher's dropped in playoff

After a virtually letter perfect season in which they blasted their way to 12 wins and one tie, Fisher's Class E baseball team dropped their first playoff game.

But not without a struggle. Last Wednesday evening, in their encounter with the Livonia-Nankin Club, Fisher's led 8-7 in the bottom of the fifth when the game was called because of rain.

The playoff was held Friday at Ford Field. There, Fisher's lost the first game of the state finals to Livonia-Nankin by a score of 11 to 5.

Planning Ahead Eases Tensions

Some seven million mothers this Fall will suffer the headaches (and heartaches) involved in helping their children begin school careers.

According to government estimates, 4.1 million six-year-olds will be attending first grade for the first time, and an additional three million five-year-olds will be starting kindergarten.

Going out into a vast unknown world without mother's presence for protection, can be a trying experience for a child. And it's no less a strain on mother, what with the bustle of getting the little one prepared emotionally and in other ways.

There is also the worry, usually unexpressed, of how the child will do in school, and how he will get along with the teacher and other children. A mother may be unaware of her own tensions during this period. She should try not to transmit her own anxieties to the child, but express confidence in his ability to handle a new and wonderful adventure.

Of course, this is sometimes difficult to do if you're suffering from inner tension and an excruciating headache... both likely to happen during the pre-school days. Medical researchers tell us that the most often suffered headache is the vascular type, which is triggered by tensed muscles in the neck, shoulders and upper back resulting from anxiety, fatigue and nervous strain.

What actually causes a vascular headache is a flooding of the vessels in the head with excess blood, which press against extra sensitive nerves.

Be Wise... Choose Career Realistically

"Watch your reasons in choosing your future life's work," caution the vocational experts. "Too many wrong reasons can create unrealistic goals."

They point out that many times a student will aim himself at a glamour or prestige career, when in all actuality his abilities indicate another direction that will leave him more fulfilled.

Experts cite the young man who was sent by his parents to take a battery of vocational and aptitude tests.

At the final interview with the vocational counselor he said, "I want it firmly understood that no matter what you tell me I'm going to be an engineer."

He may have arrived at this choice because he wishes to emulate someone he admires.

If he is bright and industrious he may indeed become a successful engineer but never be completely happy because his real pattern of interests is more suited to another line of work.

Sometimes a college freshman chooses a certain professional field through parental pressures.

In many cases this ambition may exceed the aspirant's ability and cause him to either fail or become with great effort, only a moderate success.

He would have in all probability been happier to become a technician in his field of interest rather than shooting for a prestige position.

Tips from the STOP & SHOP CHEF Questions & Answers

Approximately how long should various cheeses be out of the refrigerator to achieve the proper serving temperature?

The length of time depends on the type of cheese and the heat of the room. In a hot kitchen, about half an hour will be sufficient for medium-firm cheeses; in a moderately warm room, about an hour will be needed; in a cool pantry, about two hours should be allowed. Soft cheeses — Camembert, for example — reach room temperature much more rapidly than harder varieties such as Cheddar. Allow half the time indicated for soft cheeses and half again as long for hard ones.
