Citizens Protest Proposed M-14 Route

Representatives of the State Highway Department, who have charge of the proposed freeway system in Wayne County, learned Wednesday that residents of the western section of Plymouth Township are anything but happy over the proposed intersection of Schoolcraft and Haggerty Roads.

In fact, M. Tarik Ataman, assistant director of the route location division, learned he and his associates face bitter opposition if they try to follow the proposed route. As outlined by Ataman in an aerial photograph of that section of the Township involved in the proposed route, it would follow Schoolcraft Road, go across the lower end of Phoenix Lake, cross the eastern and southern end of St. John's Seminary property, wipe out Shearer Drive, go along the southern boundary of the Ford Motor Co. property, cross the C&O Railroad and take out four or five homes on Ridgewood. It would then swing south of the railroad to a point midway between Beck and N. Territorial where a large cloverleaf would be built. The route then follows a westerly and southerly route across the remainder of the Township into Washtenaw County.

The joint meeting, called by the Planning Commission to give the public a chance to learn of the highway department plans and a route proposed by the Commission, was attended by: Ataman, Charles Carroll and Stephen Kessler of the Highway Department; David Wilson and John Koehler of C&O; R.A. Lawson and W.G. Sutherland of the Wayne County Road Commission; Howard Miner of the Washtenaw County Road Commission; and members of the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees.

Irving Rozian, member of the Commission and chairman of its highway study committee, presented a route designed by Planning Consultant W.C. Johnson with the assistance of the Planning Board.

The route picks up at Phoenix Lake and follows the State Highway proposal to the edge of the Seminary property. Then it swings north and west across St. John's to a cloverleaf north of Shearer Drive, follows a line north of the Ford plant, using 200 feet of the Ford site, follows south of Five Mile Road and of Detroit House of Correction to a cloverleaf north of the railroad on Beck Road.

Then it slices across a triangle of land, termed "unbuildable" by the planning consultants, and goes south and west into Washtenaw County.

Rozian pointed out that it would involve displacing fewer homeowners in an area of moderately priced homes and would leave more of the western side of the Township for the home subdivisions.

"Plymouth Township has always been known as a community of homes," he said, "if we follow the highway department route, we'll have an area of industrial land but no homes to fill the schools that will be added tax wise by industry."

Ataman hit at the proposal to go across "unbuildable" land. "If land isn't suitable for homes," he pointed out, "it most certainly isn't suitable for highway construction. Our costs probably would mount to an astronomical figure if we went into such land. We wouldn't have any idea of what the problems would be but judging from the fact that the planning consultant terms land unsatisfactory, we would assume that there would be big problems."

Frank Millington, long time Civic Association leader in the Township, stated he was well aware of the highway department problems. "But," he said, "I would like to know who will benefit most by the proposed route of the planning commission. We know that our houses will go under that proposal but I'm wondering if some of the planners aren't suggesting a new route because their homes will be affected by the state highway plans."

Ataman told the gathering he hoped to have the route finalized within two months. That's when he learned that there is trouble ahead and perhaps some legal battles before anything is decided.

Expert Suggests 'Unique Fashion Plaza' for City

Komer Supports Mall Idea

Downtown Plymouth needs to create a "fashion plaza" as a unique attraction which would be competitive with shopping centers, a leading shopping center developer told citizens here Wednesday night.

Adolph Komer, who developed the first regional shopping center in the tri-state area, Eastgate in Roseville, spoke to the Central Business District committee and other citizens following reports from local sub-committees on remaking the downtown area.

"You need something unique, and you need to promote it if you're going to keep the downtown from shrinking," Komer said. "If you don't do this, some guy like me will go out by a highway interchange near here and build a mall, parking area, a couple of 250,000-square-foot stores and smaller specialty stores."

To head off such a development, Komer suggested that a medium-sized department store of 50,000 to 80,000 square feet be used as the core of the Plymouth Fashion Plaza. "A store about the size of, say, Demery's and which would carry the higher quality merchandise would make a good center for the fashion plaza," he said.

Around this store, Komer would like to see specialty stores, carrying both men's and women's clothing and accessories. "Together, these would be the fashion plaza, the unique drawing card for the Plymouth business district. Hard goods and other items would then be carried in stores on the perimeter of this area."

Most important to the success of the entire project, Komer said, would be the determination of the citizens and businessmen to get the job done. "You are the developers. You must do it or not. You can't rely upon your architects or planners—they are the technicians."

CARL PURSELL

Pursell Named Man of Year

Carl Pursell, dynamic Chamber of Commerce President, long a leader in community activities and head of the area Republican Party organization, Thursday was named "Young Man of the Year" and received the much coveted Distinguished Service Award, of the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Pursell, recently elected to a second term as Chamber President, was lured to the annual Bosses Night dinner by Wendell Smith, Michigan Jaycee President and chairman of the DSA selection committee, on the pretext that he was representing the Chamber.

Then, as the highspot of the evening, Smith made a lengthy speech telling of the virtues of the one to be honored and wound up by asking Pursell to step to the podium to receive the plaque.

It was a surprised but happy Pursell who accepted. He had been nominated for the award a year ago and lost out to the equally dynamic Smith, who then went on to become State Jaycee President and recognized as one of Michigan's five "Young Men of the Year."

Pursell thus follows in the footsteps of previous winners who were: James Garber, George Lawton, James Jabara, Harvey Ziel and Smith.

"The DSA plaque is the highest award made by an area Junior Chamber Chapter and annually is the feature of Na-

Water Solution Closer?

The township - city conflict over water mains is heading toward a solution, but each step is a small one.

Monday night the City Commission approved a recommendation from City Manager Richard Blodgett to find out the cost of a financial analysis showing if the sale of mains would hurt the city's bond position.

Plymouth Township officials had indicated, Blodgett told the Commission, that they might pay the expense of such an analysis "if the cost is not prohibitive."

Cost would probably be under $150, Blodgett said Wednesday, after checking with the city's engineering consultants, Johnson and Anderson. Blodgett said he would immediately send the information on to the township offices.

The township has been negotiating with the city for more than a year, trying to agree on terms for the sale of certain city-owned mains to the township.

All of the mains which have been under discussion are outside the city and in the township. Residents had petitioned that the city turn its mains over to the township so that they might have City of Detroit water, which the township uses.

C & O Fined $5,065 Solace For Headaches

How many times have you whispered to yourself, "this is a real headache," when you were delayed at a railroad crossing in the City by a long freight train?

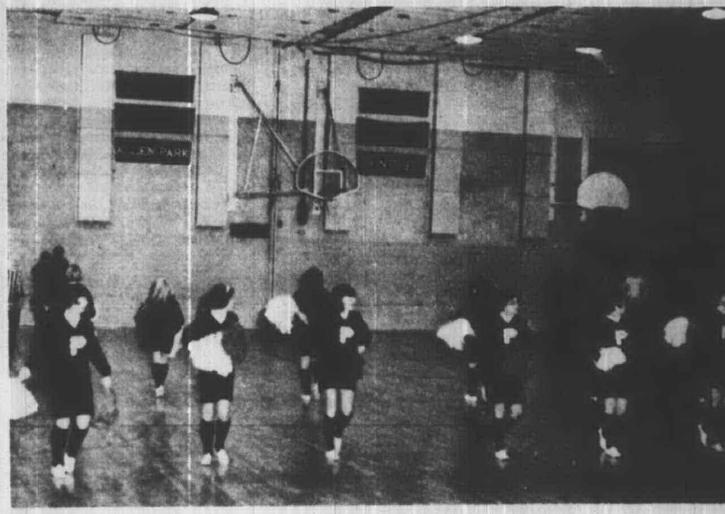

Well, here's some solace. Your waiting is helping to finance the services in the City.

This came to light during the past week when Municipal Judge Edward Draugelis let it be known that he has fined the C&O officials $5,065 during the past year on charges of blocking the crossings for more than five minutes permitted by ordinance.

Just a week ago he levied three $500 fines and the judge believes the railroad officials will take steps to clear the trouble.

The fines collected are placed in the general fund of the City of Plymouth.

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED: Even though the Plymouth High School basketball team is having a tough time of it, the enthusiasm of the students still is at a high pitch. This was proven a week ago when the girls took a hand in affairs and put on a "Pom-Pom Girls" show. It was something new and proved quite popular.

Plymouth YMCA Has First Regular Director

The Plymouth YMCA has its first full-time director.

Named this last week to the post was William Townsend, who is just graduating from Eastern Michigan University.

Bill Townsend

"Y" President John M. Hobben, who made the announcement, said Townsend will devote most of his time to working with boys in new programs and giving them assistance in problems.

Townsend, who starts at an annual salary of $7,500, will coordinate his work with Mrs. Johnnie Crosby in the operation of the young adult employment service.

A physical education major in college, Townsend is expected to expand the "Y" program with boys and teenagers. Tony Monti has been in charge of this work for the past year, and it is believed he will work with Townsend during the summer months.

Police Still Without Murder Clue

Wayne County law enforcement officers are still without a clue to the brutal murder of Thomas Gregory Genack.

He was found badly beaten, with a knife in his back at his home, 3650 Morton - Taylor, Canton Township, last Sunday and a thorough search is now being conducted.

His body was found by Nicholas Sedykh at 9:29 in the evening and there were no clues other than the knife in the victim's back and a pipe which had been used to beat him over the left temple.

Genack's locked car was found near the Moose Club on Ecorse Road shortly after the murder was uncovered.

E.L. Merchant, of the Merchant Machine Tool Co., 43999 Shearer Drive, questioned Ataman about the future of his plant which has been in operation for six years.

"It would be removed along with all of the homes in that area," was the answer.

Merchant then asked, "Why can't you lower the line south of Five Mile Road and follow that route? Is it because Ford is planning to expand?"

Ataman answered, "Yes, that is basically the reason."

The meeting ended a few moments later.

The last question and answer seemed to reflect the thinking of the audience and give credence to the conjectures that there is trouble ahead for the Highway Department.

Tarantino Gets Top Centennial Post

Joseph Tarantino, who has been serving as Chairman of the Steering Committee for the Plymouth Centennial, now has been given a bigger job.

At the suggestion of the Steering Committee, he will take over the entire project as the general chairman.

Along with this appointment the City Commission also approved a loan of $1,000 to the Centennial group and voted to have an official history of the Plymouth Community printed for the occasion.

PCF Elects 2 New Men

Two new directors were elected to the board of the Plymouth Community Fund at the fund's annual meeting Tuesday night. Named were Edward Schening, general manager of Burroughs Corporation's Plymouth plant, and Kal Jabara, a partner in Plymouth Tank Co.

Schening served as general chairman of this past year's successful campaign.

Re-elected to the board were Reva Barber and John Herb. All four were elected to three-year terms.

Isbister Reaches Goal

When Russell Isbister, retiring superintendent of the Plymouth Community schools, takes over his new position at Eastern Michigan University next September he will be fulfilling an ambition he has cherished for years.

"I have always looked forward to a day when I might be a professor and a member of a University faculty," he explained, "and the fact that I am going back to my Alma Mater in the role I wanted makes it a happy experience."

The man who has guided the Plymouth Community schools since 1951 was quick to point out that not only was he going to become a professor, but that, in a way, he was going to gain more professional experience.

"In my letter of resignation to the Plymouth school officials, I pointed out," he stated, "that I was hopeful of gaining more experience and moving into a position where I could help others, especially the young fellows coming along in my own profession."

In his new role he will hold the official title of Graduate Professor of School Administration. In making the announcement of appointment, Harold E. Sponberg, President of Eastern Michigan, emphasized, "Eastern Michigan is most pleased to have Superintendent Isbister join the faculty of the University. His distinguished record as one of the outstanding superintendents in Michigan brings great prestige and experienced competence to the University."

The EMU president explained that Isbister's new duties will consist of teaching school administration to graduate classes composed of school superintendents and principals.

"I am looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to my new duties," Isbister confided, "and it will be rather thrilling to call on my years of experience and attempt to impart some of my knowledge to others."

It is a rich experience, too, that he will take to his new place in the academic world.

A native of Goodells, Michigan, he is married and is the father of two sons. After graduating from Eastern Michigan he received his life teaching certificate in 1927 and a bachelor of science degree in 1932. Following that he received a master of arts degree from the University of Michigan in 1937. He also has done

Starting his teaching career in Center Line in 1927 he later went to River Rouge and came back to Center Line as superintendent of schools. He served in that capacity from 1948 to 1951 when he assumed his present position in Plymouth.

Aside from his outstanding work in the Plymouth school system he also has been an active civic leader and was chairman of the Plymouth Community Fund Drive in 1961-62. He also served as a member of the Citizens of Michigan Tax Study Committee.

His list of professional affiliations reads like a "Who's Who", but he is looking forward now to what he feels is his greatest—being a member of the faculty at his Alma Mater and helping others to follow the path he has traveled.

"And don't forget", he concluded, "I'll still be around to lend my assistance wherever I can."

Financing, Komer said, should come first, before elaborate plans are drawn. "Once you know what federal or private funds you have, and private money might come from a corporation set up to develop the area, then approach your planners. And then see an architect. You should be able to do this in six months."

Much of what Komer said agreed with the reports given by the local subcommittees. The land development committee, chaired by Harold Fischer, urged an increase in the number of city-owned parking spaces and the formation of a parking authority to do this. The committee also endorsed the building of a loop road around the downtown area.

Ralph Lorenz's parking committee also supported the idea of a parking authority. "A parking authority would have longevity," Lorenz said, "and would not change with every election."

A possible plan, he said, would be for the city and the merchants to provide matching funds to support the parking operation. A committee survey showed that more than 1,000 employees park in the area each day, Lorenz said. An assessment of $1-$1.50 per month per employee might be a method of raising funds from the merchants. "We want to make it equitable—we haven't checked yet to see if it's legal," he said. A sliding scale would make it possible to take into account parking provided by businesses themselves. Employers who provide no parking could be assessed $2 per month per employee, those who provide customer parking $1.50, and those who provide both customer and employee parking $1.

Repeat Performance Apartment Plan Rejected

The Plymouth Township Planning Commission hasn't changed its mind about rezoning the 8.5 acres Louissell property at the intersection of Five Mile and Bradner Roads for multiple dwellings.

The Commission turned thumbs down on the proposal more than a year ago. When it was presented in an application for hearing on a request to change the zoning from R-1 (single dwelling) to R-3 (multiple dwelling).

The Township code provides that a year must elapse before a new rezoning request can be made on the same property after a denial. Developer George Rubin made the presentation this time, telling of plans for an 128-unit complex with 24 one-bed apartments and 104 with two-bedrooms. Rubin presented a lengthy appeal for the rezoning hearing, telling of the heavy traffic on Five Mile Road that made single dwellings facing the highway a risky venture.

He told the planners that there had been a change on zoning across the road, in Northville Township, where

Plymouth Township Minutes

REGULAR MEETING PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP BOARD OF TRUSTEES January 10, 1967

The meeting was called to order by the Supervisor at 8:00 p.m. All members were present.

Mr. Lauterbach moved that the minutes of the Regular Meeting, Dec. 13, 1966, be accepted as submitted. Seconded by Mr. Overholt and carried unanimously.

Mr. Overholt moved that the minutes of the Special Meeting of Dec. 27, 1966, be accepted as submitted. Supported by Mr. Garber and carried unanimously.

Following a short discussion on items shown as typing ribbons, the Director calling a doctor for firemen who are ill, repair of the Ball Street sewer, and the amount of $664.00 for a generator shown under the Water Operating Account and should be General Fund; Mr. Norman moved that the bills with the corrections as stated (Grand Total of $16,228.89) be paid, supported by D. Lauterbach and carried unanimously.

DISPOSITION OF TABLED AND ADJOURNED BUSINESS

1967 Sewer and Water Program presented by Herald Hamill

Mr. Hamill, Engineer, came before the Board with maps showing a proposed sewer improvement plan, e.g., extension of the Byron Creek Sanitary sewer; servicing of the Plymouth Hills area; a proportion of the Tyler Trunk going up to serve the Junior High School; a sewer on Clemons Avenue, etc., at a total estimated cost of $514,000.00. Mr. Hamill asked that he be given approval by the Board to proceed with tentative surveys and plans for the purpose of securing rights-of-way and formulating a project.

Mr. Hamill stated that it was his opinion that the water and sewer programs could be financed by using revenues from the systems and without increasing the millage. Mr. McEwen concurred in this statement and advised that the financial consultant would confirm it also.

Following this discussion, Mrs. Holmes moved that the Board give the Engineer tentative approval to proceed with the acquiring of rights-of-way and drawing of plans for the sewer project as presented. Supported by Mr. Norman and carried unanimously.

Plymouth Township Drains - No. 1 and No. 2

In response to a question by the Supervisor, Mr. Hamill advised that another petition was being drawn for the Sheldon Road Drain (No. 2), and Mr. McEwen advised the Board that a public hearing would be held February 9, 1967, on the Koss Drain (No. 1). There being no action necessary, this matter was tabled.

Report on M-14 Committee by Irving Rozian, a member of the Plymouth Planning Commission. A very competent and thorough report of the proposed expressway through the Township to be constructed by the Michigan Highway Department, and the location of two possible alternate routes to be recommended to the Highway Department, was given by Mr. Rozian. He detailed the location of all three routes, pointing out the residential and industrial areas that would be affected, and showed the areas wherein new zoning would be necessary.

Mr. William B. Burr, Director of Public Service, presented to the Board for its approval, a 56 hour program, or Three Platoon System, to become effective in July, 1967. He stated that the only difference in this schedule was "one extra day." After examination of this schedule by the Board, Mr. Overholt commented that he believed that it was a workable plan administratively. Mrs. Richardson commented that the Board should have more time to study the schedule, and suggested that it be considered at the budget hearing. Mr. McEwen tabled this matter for the budget hearing in February and Mr. Burr stated that he would submit his budget and the Three Platoon System would be a part of it.

Mr. Norman presented to the Board a drawing showing two sketches of proposed additions to the present garage. He stated that present equipment, and additional equipment that will be needed in the future, plus storage space for the voting machines, etc., necessitated this addition. Following discussion on the necessity for storage space, additional office space needed, a new meeting room for the Board, and the merit of waiting for a new permanent structure, Mrs. Holmes moved that the Board authorize Mr. Norman to obtain architectural drawings of plans and an estimated cost of an addition to the present D.P.W. Building, containing stall and storage room; this information to be obtained preferably for the February meeting. Supported by Mrs. Richardson and carried unanimously.

Approval to D.P.W. Building for Storage

Mr. Norman presented to the Board a drawing showing two sketches of proposed additions to the present garage. He stated that present equipment, and additional equipment that will be needed in the future, plus storage space for the voting machines, etc., necessitated this addition. Following discussion on the necessity for storage space, additional office space needed, a new meeting room for the Board, and the merit of waiting for a new permanent structure, Mrs. Holmes moved that the Board authorize Mr. Norman to obtain architectural drawings of plans and an estimated cost of an addition to the present D.P.W. Building, containing stall and storage room; this information to be obtained preferably for the February meeting. Supported by Mrs. Richardson and carried unanimously.

NEW BUSINESS

Request from O'Hara Catering, Melvin White and others to be heard regarding the Itinerant Vendors License.

Mrs. Richardson advised the Board that in December she had notified approximately ten people, having purchased food licenses last year, that the Township Ordinance stated that an itinerant vendors license was $100 and a restaurant license was $500. She further advised that a communication had been received from Florence Mora, who presently caters to the Ford Motor Company, protesting the $100 fee; also that Mr. O'Hara and Mr. White were present and were requesting an opportunity to be heard by the Board regarding this matter. Mr. White spoke first, stating that he believed the $100 fee was excessive, and called the Board's attention to a possible exemption for veterans. Mr. O'Hara and his attorney appeared before the Board to protest the fee, and the attorney questioned whether their company, a catering company, came under the itinerant vendors ordinance. Mr. O'Hara discussed his company's function and history, and stated that he was not protesting the necessity for a license, but just the fee. He also asked the Board to consider a special classification for caterers. There being no action by the Board, Mr. McEwen advised the visitors there would be no change in the ordinance.

Discussion on dedication of new hydrants - William Burr

Mr. Burr came before the Board, stating that in the Township there were approximately 15 to 18 fire hydrants on private property, and as such out of control of the Township. This he considered a serious situation and suggested that they should be dedicated to the Township to assure proper surveillance and maintenance. In the discussion that followed, Mrs. Holmes suggested that the building department not issue a certificate of occupancy prior to sewer and water lines being dedicated. Following this discussion, Mr. Overholt moved that the Board request the Supervisor to instruct the Public Service Director to communicate with these owners of fire hydrants about proper care and maintenance of their fire hydrants until such time as they were dedicated to the Township. Supported by D. Lauterbach and carried unanimously. A motion was made by R. Garber, supported by G. Overholt that the Clerk write letters notifying those people who have fire hydrants on private property that they must be responsible for the care and maintenance of those fire hydrants until such time as they are dedicated to the Township of Plymouth. Carried unanimously.

Appointment of Richard Groth as regular Fire Fighter (William Burr's letter recommending his appointment as he had completed his six months service as Trial Fire Fighter on December 31, 1966)

Mr. Burr informed the Board that Mr. Groth's work record and demeanor were acceptable to the Fire Department. Mr. Garber stated that he did not have his residential requirement, so could not have Civil Service status, but would be entitled to the $100 financial benefit.

Following discussion, Mr. McEwen tabled this matter stating that Mr. Groth would continue on probation until his Civil Service status was determined.

Ted Malik

Re: Six months leave of absence
A communication was received from Mr. McEwen asking that Mr. Malik's request for leave be approved and that Mr. Carl Malik be appointed Heating Inspector during the leave of absence period.

Following discussion, Mr. Lauterbach moved that the Board grant the leave of absence to Ted Malik for six months. Supported by Mrs. Holmes and carried unanimously. Mr. Overholt moved that the Board temporarily appoint Mr. Carl Malik as Heating Inspector in the Township. Supported by Mr. Norman and carried unanimously.

RESOLUTIONS

Resolution between the Township of Plymouth and the National Bank of Detroit regarding the collection of water bills (This Resolution was re-drafted by the National Bank).

Mrs. Richardson moved that the Board adopt the resolution as re-drafted by the National Bank. Supported by Mr. Overholt and carried unanimously. On the motion of Mr. Norman, supported by Mrs. Richardson, the meeting was adjourned at 12:30 a.m. Respectfully submitted, Helen Richardson, Twp. Clerk

Centennial Certain To Boost Entire Area

Few persons may realize it at the moment, but the centennial now being planned to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of Plymouth will make a terrific impact on the entire area and the benefits will reverberate down through the years.

Despite the late start, the Steering Committee has made considerable headway and the tempo will be speeded as the actual centennial date nears in March. But this isn't going to be a one-day affair. Nor is it a one-community affair. This will be an epoch-making event in which every citizen should play his or her part.

It matters little which of three projects now being studied will be chosen as the permanent memorial of the centennial. It matters little what sort of individual events are sponsored during the year, though there will, or should, be concentrated activities that will attract the multitudes.

What does matter is the fact that the centennial provides the opportunity for all citizens to join hands in making it an outstanding success and something that long will be remembered.

One need only look to Detroit to realize the benefits that can be derived from a cooperative effort.

The beautiful civic center which contains such things as the City-County Building, Veterans Memorial and mammoth Cobo Hall at one time were only dreams. But they came to fruition when an army of citizens banded together to celebrate the city's 250th birthday.

The dream of an outstanding civic center on an international boundary awakened the pride of these folks and it wasn't long until the dreams were realized. But that was just the start.

Look at what happened since. Not only has the Civic Center been built, but it attracted much more. The Consolidated Gas Company building, a thing of beauty in itself, and the Ponchartrain Hotel, one of the most modern hosteleries in the country, have added to the beauty of the area and the end is not yet in sight. They are all off-shoots of Detroit's 250th birthday celebration and stand as monuments to those dreamers who envisioned a great civic center.

The Plymouth Community is in the same position today. It is about to tell the world that it is 100 years old . . . that it has lived and prospered through wars, panics and other crises . . . and that it has dreams, too.

There can be a great future for the community, situated as it is between the research corridor extending from the University of Michigan and the sprawling metropolitan area of Detroit.

That's why the centennial is so important. There is no telling who, among the many visitors who are certain to attend, may take a liking to the area, decide to move here, or transfer a major industry to this locality. Such things have happened before. They can happen again.

So, let's all put our shoulders to the wheel and make certain that the centennial, itself, will long be remembered.

"Has anyone requested U.S. military advisors yet. . .?"

Facts You Should Know About Your Income Tax

In cooperation with the Department of Internal Revenue, The Mail is offering a series of articles dealing with income tax and all of its ramifications. These articles, which begin today and will follow for the next several weeks, have been prepared by Internal Revenue Department experts and can be taken as the last word: Ed. Note . . .

WHO MUST FILE

Everyone under 65 years old, whether single or married, who is a citizen or resident of the United States and had gross income of $600 or more during the year must file a Federal Income Tax Return.

If you are 65 or older on the last day of your tax year, no return is required unless gross income was $1,200 or more. If your income is under the above figures, you should file a return to obtain any refund due you of income tax withheld from salaries or wages.

Minor children are subject to the same filing requirements as all other taxpayers. A person under 21 years of age must file an income tax return if his gross income for the year amounted to $600 or more. Businessmen, farmers and other self-employed persons must file a return if net earnings from self-employment were $400 or more.

If in doubt about the filing requirements, telephone your local Internal Revenue Service Office.

WHICH TAX FORM TO USE

Two income tax returns—form 1040A and form 1040—are provided for the filing of federal individual income tax returns.

Taxpayers whose incomes were less than $10,000 and who had no more than $200 of income from dividends, interest and other wages not supported by a form W-2, may use the Short 1040A Form.

A joint return on Form 1040A may be filed by a husband and wife if their combined income was less than $10,000 and other requirements were met.

Form 1040 must be used to (1) claim status as "Head of Household" or "Surviving Spouse"; (2) claim a credit for retirement income; (3) claim an exclusion for "Sick Pay"; (4) claim credit for estimated tax payments paid during the year; (5) claim travel, transportation, moving or other expenses; (6) claim exemptions for dependents based on multiple support agreements; (7) itemize deductions; (8) pay self-employment tax; or (9) claim credit for taxes paid on gasoline and lubrication oil not used on highways.

The instructions which accompany the form you are required to file gives all the "do's and don'ts" on its preparation. Read the instructions and if you still have a question, telephone your local Internal Revenue Service Office.

SURVIVING SPOUSE

Under certain conditions, a surviving spouse may have the advantage of using the tax rates under schedule 11 which are the same as those used by persons filing a joint return.

There are five requirements to qualify:

- (1) Your spouse must have died in either of the two years preceding 1966; and
- (2) You must have been entitled to file a joint return with your spouse in the year of death. It is not required that you actually did file jointly,

- (3) You have not remarried; and
- (4) You have a child or stepchild who qualified as your dependent; and
- (5) You furnish over half the cost of maintenance of your home which is the principal abode for your dependent child or stepchild.

When claiming the surviving spouse computation, you must use the form 1040. You may not compute your tax as head of household as long as you are entitled to the benefits of surviving spouse.

A surviving spouse may file a joint return in the year of death. For the next two years, he or she may use the joint return rates as surviving spouse if the above conditions are met. However, the exemption for the deceased spouse may be claimed only for the year of death.

Roads Crowded

The State Highway Commission reports there are more than 40 cars and trucks in Michigan for every mile of road and street in the state.

A Challenge

It's a Thrill to Meet It

When our enterprising young publisher — Philip Power — called me into his office and offered me the editorship of The Mail he couldn't possibly have realized that my acceptance was both a thrill and a challenge. But that is exactly what it was.

It was a thrill to know that after close to a half century in "The Fourth Estate" I was going to be an editor again. The very thought of it carried me back to my debut in the newspaper business as a reporter on a small town (pop. 3500) weekly . . . The Catsauqua (Pa.) Dispatch.

And it was a challenge to follow in the footsteps of the late Elton Eaton, who had made of The Mail not only a force for good in the community, but one of the most respected papers, weekly or otherwise, in the state of Michigan.

I recall, as a young lad, when I first set foot in Michigan and began my chores in the sports department of the Detroit Free Press, I was told of Elton Eaton. Never did I think, in those days, that the time would come when I would be trying to fill his shoes.

During my career I have worked for, and with, some of the finest editors of the time. There was Charles W. Weiser, one of the most able editors in the east who gave me my start. Later I had the rich experience of working with the celebrated Malcolm W. Bingay, on the staff of the Detroit Free Press.

To them, I was always told to add the name of Elton Eaton for he, too, was outstanding. I never had the pleasure of working with him, but thoroughly enjoyed his forceful writing. He made of The Plymouth Mail a beacon that glowed in the darkness. And he set the pattern for his son, Sterling, and the late Paul Chandler, who followed him.

Now, by one of those twists of fate that make life so interesting, I find myself in his place.

It is a challenge of the highest order.

But if enthusiasm and determination can do the job, The Plymouth Mail will be the interesting force for good that Elton Eaton always wanted it to be.

That's a promise.

The Stroller . . .

Strolling around Plymouth, especially at lunch time, any day — you'll learn some amazing things and meet a lot of interesting people — if you keep your eyes and ears open.

For instance, it was most surprising the other day to learn that Dr. William Herhold, who works out of the same office as "Doc" Williams, one of the city's interesting personages, is a coin collector.

With considerable pride he took from his pocket a jewel case, and placed it on the table, asking, "What do you think of them?"

He asked no one in particular, but everyone looked at the coins and admitted they were fine. But you could note that they did not have too much enthusiasm for coin collecting.

"This looks like a moment of the world's fair in 1893," the good doctor explained. "That's the year they had a big world's fair. But it is a Queen Isabella piece, too — and that's what makes it interesting."

Looking at some of the others one noticed that there was a shiny new one, about the size of a silver dollar and dated 1966. It was a coin to honor Princess Grace, of Monaco.

"What's this all about?" he was asked, and he smiled.

"I don't know what the occasion was, but I was interested in the fact that marriage was spelled with one "R" and I figured it might be a collector's item."

"I was all enthused until I learned that over there in Monaco they spell it with only one "R"."

It's nuggets of information like this you can learn at lunch time.

And Tom Notebaert, the realtor, was bemoaning the fact that he has a problem at his home on Beacon Hill Drive.

"We've had the darndest scratching noise and pecking going on in our garage and I just can't find out what it is — and I'm almost afraid to look."

Seems that several years ago there was much the same type of noise — he confided — and it turned out to be a sort of muskrat.

So, if you see him looking rather pale-faced you can almost guess what has happened.

Thoughts while strolling: — Norma Cassidy, who conducted the dress shop at the corner of Main Street and Penniman Avenue until about a year ago, has a fine idea for beautifying Kellogg Park.

"I would like to see the walks widened," she explained, "and make a real promenade around the triangle. You could place chairs and benches at intervals and folks, especially the senior citizens, could really enjoy it."

You know, a nice fountain, with colored lights playing on it at night, wouldn't be a bad idea, either.

When you see Joe Tarantino, Chairman of the Steering Committee for the Plymouth Centennial, in action you'd never guess he was a native of the "Deep South."

He is. He was born right in the heart of the French Quarter in New Orleans.

There used to be a popular program on both radio and television called the "Hit Parade." Each week they'd sing the top ten songs of the week.

But you'd never guess what the top favorites are this week in the music world.

Inquired at the Melody House, just out of curiosity, and here are the ratings:

RECORDS (Singles) 45's

- 1 - I Am A Believer — Monkees
- 2 - Snoopy vs. Red Baron — Royal Guardsmen
- 3 - Good Thing — Paul Revere and Raiders
- 4 - Nashville Cats — Lovin' Spoonfuls
- 5 - I'm Going To Miss You — Artistics.

ALBUMS

- Herb Alpert's Tijuana Brass
- Sound of Music — top sound track with original cast.
- Mame — Broadway sound track with original cast.

Thought for the Day:
 O' Satchel Paige, the ageless baseball pitcher, said it best when he cautioned — "Don't look back — you might find someone chasing you."

Deserved Toast Due To School Officials

Too often men in high public office are criticized — often unjustly — and it seems that those who serve in the area of education and the administering of a school system are most often chosen as the targets.

At the first sign of a school bond, regardless of how badly it is needed you'll hear the hue and cry of the taxpayer that there are too many frills in today's education . . . that the buildings themselves, are over-run with needless luxury, and that many of the things are not necessary.

You'll hear them shout, "they didn't have things like this in my day — and we got educated. So, they don't need them now."

That's why it is appropriate right now to tip our toppers in praise of such men as Gerald Fischer, Chairman of the Board of Education, and Russell Isbister, the noted Superintendent of Schools and his able assistant, Melvin Blunk, who, jointly, have just done a remarkable job.

Through their efforts, the tycoons in the money markets of the world are reported to be looking favorably upon the Plymouth Community School system. This favorable look could bring a lowering of interest rates on future bond sales and thus save the taxpayer thousands upon thousands of dollars.

While no official action has yet been taken it is needless to bandy figures and attempt to figure just how much could be saved. Let it suffice that the favorable look will mean favorable action and the result will be vast savings through the years.

To accomplish such a thing is a tremendous job and it is to the everlasting credit of the Plymouth school officials that the men in high places who handle the purse strings look with favor upon our area.

Their outstanding work — and alertness to the opportunity — proves that there is more to the world of education than seeing that little Johnny or Sarah are handled with velvet gloves in the class room or that the proper subjects are being taught to prepare the students for the whirl in the outside world.

This is the area from which most of the criticism comes and little is said about the outstanding jobs being done in other areas.

So, let's tip our toppers again to Gerald Fischer, Russell Isbister, and Melvin Blunk.

The Plymouth Community is fortunate to have three men of their caliber in its midst.

Players Mere Pawns In Television Battle

To the countless millions who had their eyes glued to the nation's television screens last Sunday the meeting between the Green Bay Packers and the Kansas City Chiefs was to decide the professional football championship of the world.

They were right in this belief, too, but there was a much bigger battle being waged behind the scenes — a battle in which the players were mere pawns.

It was the struggle between the nation's two major networks — NBC and CBS — for control of the nation's air waves and a stake that can run into millions and millions of dollars.

Both networks televised the game — that is, the same pictures were shown on both networks, but each side had its own announcers, analysts and experts, doing a selling job and bidding for the nation's viewers.

This battle was recorded on the big scoreboard in the Los Angeles Coliseum — and the fans and spectators were not abreast of its progress. But you can bet the firms that determine the ratings were on the job and not a listener was lost.

Ever since the TV cameras have been focused on sports there has been a battle for the big events. The two major networks, along with ABC, had to bid on the world series, the big fights, and the college football games. And the bidding ran high. For instance CBS has contracted with the National Football League to exclusive showing for a two year period for a mere $28 million dollars.

To try to even matters NBC hooked up with the American Football League for an almost like amount — and the battle was on. To get their money back, it was easy to see that the football season would have to be lengthened — and a rivalry — real or fancied — would have to be developed. So look at what happened.

Rivalry between the leagues was built to a peak, then the leagues merged and a championship game arranged to decide which was the best league. More than that, each league had to re-arrange a schedule to determine its own champions

Considering all of these things it is easy to see that last Sunday's game was not only for the professional football championship — but for the right to rule the air waves.

Joan Voytas Wins DSA

Mrs. Joseph Voytas, a Plymouth mother of five, is this year's recipient of the Jay-C-Ette Distinguished Service Award. A panel of past presidents and last year's winner of the award selected Mrs. Voytas. "I'm very pleased and honored," she said. She and her husband are co-chairmen of the Christian Family Movement at the Catholic Church. CFM is a family organization which concentrates on Christian action. "My feeling is that the family as a basic unit of society has an obligation to influence society," said Mrs. Voytas.

Her activities have spread out from CGM into other areas. She is a precinct delegate and on the executive board for the Democratic party in Plymouth. She is also publicity chairman for the Human Relations Assembly, has worked for the Plymouth Community Fund and the Red Cross, and is an assistant Girl Scout Leader. This is the second year for the Jay-C-Ettes to give the DSA award. As this year's winner, Mrs. Voytas will be entered in a statewide Jay-C-Ette competition.

Art Club Holds Exhibit

The Three Cities Art Club has a display from now until March at the Dunning Hough Library in Plymouth. The works include oils, weaving, pottery and other media.

Participating artists are; Kate Edgerton, Stewart Ashlee, Faye Nieman, Marie Bonami, Mitzi Hale, Beverly Shankwiler, Fran Petre and Penny Wright. The club also announces that two of its members, Mabel Bacon and Jessie Hudson have been invited to exhibit this month, five works each at the Rackham Building in Detroit, (an extension of the University of Michigan.)

Mrs. Hudson teaches art at Plymouth High School. Both artists have exhibited on invitation in Ann Arbor and have participated in many other exhibits.

Girls Sell Candy

The Plymouth Campfire Girls will be selling candy door-to-door on Jan. 28 and Feb. 4. According to Mrs. Ronald Cadogan, leader of one of the groups, the Bluebirds and Campfire Girls will be using the money raised for field trips and special projects. Her troop is planning to use its money for an overnight trip to Greenfield Village.

Mrs. Cadogan is also interested in hearing from anyone who is interested in working as a leader or starting a new group. Her phone number is 453-7261.

Jo Hulce On School Board

Mrs. Ray Hulce, the recent appointee to the school board, makes the second woman on the seven person board.

"I'm very excited about it. I think that this is a challenging time for the school system," says Mrs. Hulce who has served on the facility committee for two years.

Mrs. Hulce officially starts serving on the board in February. "Our biggest task for the next four months is to find a new superintendent," she states.

"I intend to spend a lot of time on school board work. With so many new possibilities available in programming and building, I'm anxious to see what will fit our community."

"Facilities and curriculum are the areas where I feel I can contribute the most. The facilities committee studied the directions the schools needed to move. Many of our recommendations were adopted by the school board."

One of their recommendations was the 5-3-4 school plan. Mrs. Hulce feels that sixth graders need the broad experiences offered by Junior high schools.

"They need more laboratory sciences, art, music and physical education," she says.

She also feels that ninth graders should be in the high school.

"Of course, all this can't be accomplished before we have the new high school," she adds. The campus high school is another exciting idea to her.

Although she doesn't take office officially until February, Jo Hulce is pictured at the Board of Education where she is getting a head start on her job.

"There are so many advantages in programming," she says. "We can have enrichment programs on each end of the line. The cost will be justified because of the number of people they serve."

"Of course, things can change," she adds. The Hulces have lived in Plymouth for 13 years. They have four children, Susan, at the University of Michigan; Steven, a senior at Plymouth High; Barbara, a ninth grader; and Tom, an eighth grader.

"When we moved here we were looking for a small town with good schools and cultural opportunities. And we think we found it," she concludes.

Don't Read It!

More Michigan drivers buy the Exchange policy at the Auto Club than any other automobile insurance policy sold in the State.

Then, the majority don't read it.

We think it's because the words used in the policy are not nearly as familiar as our reputation for leadership, integrity, fair-dealing and value.

If you have one of our policies, you should read it—sometime. It's full of advantages you may have forgotten about.

If you don't have an Exchange policy, buy one! It's a most interesting story of protecting your car and yourself.

REPUBLICANS NAME HOSTESSES

Mrs. Richard Fritz, chairman of hostesses for Republican meetings has named Mrs. Robert Probeck, and Mrs. Louis Norman to serve as hostesses at the Republican Women's Club meeting on Jan. 26.

Some people seem to feel that living within their income is a fate worse than debt.

Buying shoes too tight is a corny thing to do.

Said Mrs. Thomas A. Edison: "I don't know what you're doing, Tom but I can't sleep with that light on."

DAR Has Birthday Party

The Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter DAR celebrated its fortieth birthday last Monday with a luncheon at Lofy's topped with ice cream and a three tier birthday cake.

The 66 guests at the birthday luncheon received Revolutionary War maps as their birthday presents. They heard the Stevenson High School Madrigal singers; and saw a movie presented by Mr. A. J. Brandt.

The Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter was formed with only 14 members in 1926. Today it has more than 110 members. The group is named after Sarah Ann Cochrane, who came to Michigan as a child of five in 1837. Her father was a minister. He preached at the Presbyterian Church in Northville, and also in Plymouth.

The family lived in Northville, where the Reverend Cochrane founded the Northville Academy for boys. In later years Sarah ran it briefly as a girl's school.

In 1883, Sarah entered the service of the Detroit Public Library. The library was catalogued under her supervision. When she resigned from the staff in 1906 she was second assistant librarian.

She was born July 28, 1832 and died July 10, 1917. She is buried beside her parents and brother in Northville.

She was of Revolutionary descent on both sides of her family.

Mrs. Elmer Totten sat with Mrs. John Haas, president of AAUW at a dinner given for new members of AAUW recently.

At the head of the table for the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter DAR birthday party were Mrs. Harry Geitegy, regent; the Rev. Miss Etz; and Mrs. R. D. Willoughby.

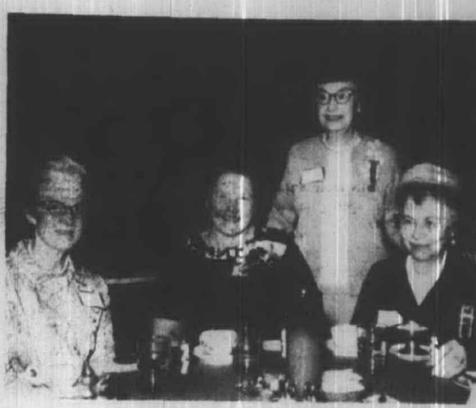

Mrs. Howard Town, Nellie Bird, and Mrs. Bruce Mackie (from left to right) were all at the DAR luncheon. Bird School was named after Mrs. Bird.

There was lots going on last week to bring Plymouth women out into the cold weather. Instead of the usual tea AAUW had a buffet dinner for its new members. Almost 50 members showed up for the meal and board meeting which followed. The Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter had a regular birthday party to celebrate its 40 years of existence. Some Plymouthites weren't interested in after-Christmas clothing sales. They headed south, where winter clothes are useless.

They met in sunny Jamaica... shown here on the terrace of Kurt Thrun's Sans Souci hotel in Ocho Rios are Mrs. John Wimsatt and her two sons Tom and Bob and Don Sutherland with his son Douglas.

Farm Property Has Belonged To Family For Over a Century

Can you recognize any of these prominent WCTU in the early part of the century? Plymouth people who were members of the

The farm at 49770 West Ann Arbor Rd. has remained in the same family since 1825. That was the year Roswell Root came here from New York.

The 45-year-old Roswell settled here in the spring of 1825. That August he went to Washington, D. C. to obtain the deed, which was signed by Andrew Jackson.

The price he had to pay for the 400 acres he homesteaded? $1.25 per acre.

During his trip to obtain the deed, Roswell picked up his wife and nine children and brought them back here.

Roswell was not only a farmer, he served as justice of the peace, and postmaster. The post office supposedly stood near the corner of Napier Rd.

At first the Roots lived in a log cabin. Later either Roswell or his son, Henry was able to build a better house.

This second house became inadequate, and in 1875 a third and much more elaborate house was built.

Most of the second house was torn down, but a part of it was moved to the back of the farmyard and used as a woodshed.

After Roswell died, the new house went to his youngest son, Henry, then to Henry's son, Lewis. Today Lewis's daughter, Mabel and her husband, Fay live in the house. They live in only a part of it, and have rented the rest of it.

The Root family grew and several branches of it took up farming near-by.

They mostly stayed on the farm. Mrs. Williams does remember that her mother, Mrs. Lewis Root, always came into Plymouth for the WCTU meetings.

Around the turn of the century, the WCTU was one of the most important groups in Plymouth. It was formed by a red-haired feminist from Illinois named Frances Willard.

The original tenets of the group were "woman suffrage, abolition of liquor, protection of the home, and golden rule in service and song."

Plymouth women marched in local parades for woman suffrage. Frances Willard and Carrie Nation, another feminist came to town to talk in the Baptist church.

Even today there is a WCTU chapter in Plymouth, with about 25 active members.

Outside of her trips into town, Mrs. Root must have led a hard life. There was a lot of work on a farm in those days.

Today many children and grandchildren of the different cousins still live near the Williams' farm. The original deed given to Roswell Root is now the treasured possession of one of the Williams' cousins.

The Root farmhouse still looked fresh and new when this picture was taken, sometime around 1910. Mrs. Williams is the young girl in the front.

Elly Peterson Rev. Walch Asks to Seek Re-election Who'll Challenge The Challengers?

Michigan Republican State Chairman, Elly M. Peterson, announced her candidacy for re-election at the party's State Convention in Detroit, February 25.

At the same time Mrs. Peterson also announced a new program for the party this year. "This is the year," Mrs. Peterson says, "to prove that 'Republicans Care'—that they are willing and able to become deeply involved in community affairs and with the problems of people.

"Despite our great victory of 1966, we have no intention of relaxing or resting in this off-election year. As a matter of fact, we expect to be as busy as we were last year, but along different lines."

The involvement program, to be known as "Project Grass Roots," is now in the planning stage and several "pilot" projects will be launched within the next several weeks.

Basically, the program will follow the philosophy of Governor Romney in trying to stimulate individual and private action in many areas that now are the concern of government, alone.

Scenes in books and movies that would have seemed shocking a few years ago, barely cause a flicker of an eyebrow today.

James Joyce's "Ulysses," first considered pornographic, then a literary masterpiece, has been made into a movie which will be shown in Detroit in March. The producers are expecting trouble with the censors.

All this leads to the question of censorship. Is it a necessary thing? How does one decide what is pornographic and what is art?

The Reverend Doctor Henry Walch, minister of the First United Presbyterian Church, paused for a few minutes between appointments to consider the question.

"I'm against censorship," he said, seated in a study, where a picture of a saint's crucifixion by Salvador Dali stared at Michelangelo paintings on the opposite wall.

"There are some cases where censorship would be justified. But I am afraid of it, because of where it might lead," he said.

"Who would be the censors who should challenge the challengers?" he asked.

"Censorship relieves people of using their minds and making their own choices. It weakens personal moral responsibility."

How does one decide what is smut, and what has artistic value?

Dr. Walch feels that this has to be an aesthetic as well as an ethical judgment.

"This has to be an individual decision," he said.

He feels that not enough attention has been paid to developing the individual consciences.

"We haven't taught people to make ethical and aesthetic decisions," he said.

Dr. Walch does feel that there will always be different opinions as to what is art due to the differences in people's training, background, and temperament.

"I may not accept the other

Rev. Henry Walch

Minister Travels To Feudal Estate

Two ministers from the Plymouth area took a step back into feudal society this fall when they set foot on the lands of Jan Mohammed Khan, lord of a small territory in northwest Pakistan.

Rev. Patrick Clifford of Plymouth and Rev. Blake Hunt of Milan were seeing the outposts of Christian missionaries throughout the world, and the hills of Pakistan were only one of the areas visited.

On their round-the-world tour, which started on Sept. 26 and ended Dec. 2, the two visited Hawaii, Tokyo, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Thailand, West Pakistan, Lebanon, Cyprus, Jordan, Egypt, Kenya, Rome and Paris.

One of their longer stops was in Pakistan, where Clifford and Hunt stayed eight days. Their destination was a small feudal estate, far from airline flights and miles from a major road.

They arrived by air in Karachi, the largest city in the country, located on its southern shore. From Karachi they flew to Lahore, formerly the capital and known as the country's cultural center.

But Lahore, Clifford said, is no longer the capital since it is so close to India. Rawalpindi serves as the provisional capital, and a completely new capital city—which will be named Islamabad—is under construction nearby.

Rawalpindi was the last plane stop for Clifford and Hunt, who took a small truck to Abbottabad, where they met their contact, Richard Thompson, a missionary supported by Clifford's church. Thompson's main work, Clifford said, is "frontier work."

"He works in new areas and makes contacts. One of the first things he does is to open a clinic. The clinic always seems to be the best way to win the confidence of the people. The first church services will be held in the clinic itself."

From Abbottabad, the two American ministers traveled in a truck with Thompson to the village of Oghi (pronounced Ooghee), the last town on their way to the feudal estate. Both Oghi and the lands of Jan Mohammed Khan lie in the Pajmal Sharif area in north Pakistan. The group took a jeep the last 38 miles from Oghi over roads which Clifford said could hardly be called roads at all.

After turning off the "main" road, they followed a faint path which led to the Khan's house, some eight miles beyond.

They arrived in the evening, a day earlier than they had been expected. A government official was staying in the Khan's guest room, so the three extra guests were given a room in a separate one-story adobe brick building, similar to the main house.

"They were very hospitable," Clifford said. "We had a servant for the three of us, and a man stood guard all night with a 30-30 rifle. I don't think it was really necessary, but if anything should happen to his guests, the Khan would go down in the eyes of the people."

The Khan's house was made of adobe, but it also had some stone in it. It was built on the highest point around, apparently for protection, Clifford said. A small Muslim temple was attached to the house, and "early in the morning and in the evening, the Khan would call the people to prayer."

The government official who was staying with the Khan was in the area to approve the first survey ever made of the land. Clifford said, "One morning he brought together about a dozen khans and showed them where their property was. We talked to him—he spoke fairly good English—and he was quite interested in world affairs, too."

Farmers who worked the Khan's land lived in villages around his house or sometimes in a cluster down the side of a hill. They farmed the terraced land, raising wheat and rice and goats. "The Khan gets 20 to 25 per cent of their crops, the missionary said, but they do have small gardens for family use."

Would it be possible for a farmer to move away? Probably not, Clifford said—a farmer just couldn't manage the economics of such a move. The farmers see little or no cash and have little in the way of savings. "They just grow up and live with the land."

Women are still secluded in Pakistan, Clifford said. "At the Khan's place, we never saw a woman all the time we were there. Most women, even in the cities, are still veiled when they go out, and a missionary is careful to make sure his wife is not present when receiving Pakistani guests."

Serving As We Would Wish to be Served

Western Plymouth
news

Woodlore is losing the first family that moved into the subdivision. They are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson and children Nancy, Kathy and Steven who moved into their house on October 27, 1963.

Mr. Johnson, who works for Chevrolet, has been transferred to Janesville, Wisconsin.

The Johnsons have been very active while living in Plymouth. Many farewell parties have been given for them during the last few weeks. One was given by some Livonia friends, one by Detroit friends, a party for Mrs. Johnson was given by the girl scout leaders, a luncheon given for Mrs. Johnson, by Mrs. John Van Wagener for Woodlore friends and neighbors on December 13, and a brunch for Woodlore couples given Sunday, December 15 by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Richard.

A surprise birthday party was given for Mrs. Robert Ward of Woodlore on January 14. It was planned by Capt. Ward, the Edward Sawusches, Milton Pugsley, William Hannas, Neal Fenske, Edward Sulkowski, and the Eldon Martins. All met at the Sawusches home equipped with a complete pot luck dinner and in a group crossed the street for the surprise.

Mrs. William MacCurdy was hostess to 44 women from the Garden Club of Plymouth in her Woodlore home on January 9. The speaker, Mrs. McLaughlin from Bellefonte, gave a program on dried arrangements. Mrs. Bruce Richard was tea chairwoman assisted by Mrs. Roy Fisher. They featured cheese of various kinds for refreshments. One of the guests present was Mrs. Robert Hayman, who is a new resident in Woodlore.

Mrs. Lawrence Parmenter of Ridge Road was the December hostess for her bridge group of nine local women. Conversation, dessert and coffee preceded the bridge playing.

That faith in God gives meaning

THIS IS THEIR WEEK JAN. 15-21

SUNDAY, Jan. 22

Community Opportunity Center Open House, 9901 Newburgh Rd., Livonia, 1-5 p.m. Tours will be given of workshop facilities, films shown of activities there. Also a family outing of ice skating, sledding, skiing, hot dogs, hot coffee and singing at Murray's Lake.

Sometimes, when a week is set aside to honor an organization, it becomes a time for basking in self reflection. Not so with the Jaycees. A glance at the activities above shows that JayCee Week is one of the most active of their year. The days of this week prove their dedication to the concept that "service to humanity is the best work of life."

Plymouth Centennial to Help Boost Record Tourist Year

Michigan's tourist leaders predict a bright future for recreational travel in the state following the industry's first billion-dollar year, and scheduling such special events as the Plymouth Community Centennial.

In 1965, tourists spent an estimated $960 million in the state and 1966 figures just released by the Michigan Tourist Council indicate that recreational travelers spent more than $1.065 billion, an 11 percent increase.

"The Council has adopted a five-year goal to boost tourist spending in Michigan over the $1.5 billion mark," said William McGraw, council director.

"To do this, we must average growth of about 8 percent annually. This is going to require imaginative and aggressive promotion at state, regional and local levels," he said.

Looking to the future, industry spokesmen said that Michigan must anticipate trends in tourism and act swiftly to capitalize on them if the state is to remain in the nation's top 10 tourist destinations.

"One area we should explore is development of short-term package vacations as a source of business that would be in addition to regular summer vacation trade we now enjoy," McGraw said.

"For example, a resident of Chicago should be able to purchase a three or four-day package trip to Michigan, including meals, accommodations and entertainment. This would allow him to plan a flexible trip for his family around a period of time in which they could enjoy a specific event such as a historical pageant, summer theatre performance, sports event or tour of attractions."

McGraw indicated that privately developed merchandising of this type could be an important factor in continued growth of the state's tourist industry.

The Tourist Council has requested funds to establish a research and development function which would provide assistance to private enterprise in creating new business opportunities, he said.

"This is just an example of the type of activity that will be needed to maintain Michigan's position in relation to competition," McGraw said.

"We also must develop new marketing and promotional ideas to increase autumn and winter vacation business."

The council also cited development of scenic highways, availability of new recreational lands and expansion of festivals and attractions as other aids in increasing tourism in Michigan.

State Offers Map as Guide To Real Fun

Making plans for outdoor fun in some out-of-the-way places this winter but don't know exactly how to get there?

If that's your problem, you can solve it easily by writing to the Conservation Department's Publications Room in Lansing for a copy of a county mapbook covering either the Upper Peninsula, the northern Lower Peninsula, or the southern Lower Peninsula.

These books show in easy-to-find detail, roads, section lines, township names, county seats, lakes and streams, and other such regular features. Of special interest to outdoor users, they also pinpoint a number of public facilities, including water access sites, campground areas, parks, and lands open to hunting and general recreational uses.

Map books for any one of the three regions are priced at $1.04 per copy, including the state's four percent sales tax. They may be purchased through the mail by checks or money orders which should be made payable to the Michigan Department of Conservation.

RIDDLE SOLVED: For the past week folks who drive on Five Mile Road have been wondering about a Pontiac car that has been buried in a ditch and asking "what happened?" and "why isn't it moved?" The Wayne County Sheriff patrol came to the rescue by explaining that it was simply an abandoned car, left there by its owner, Derrill Witt, of Dearborn. "We usually allow the owner plenty of time to tow a car away for repairs—unless it is involved in an accident where folks are injured."

Ford Sales Second Best For January

Ford Division's combined passenger car and truck sales in the first 10 days of January were the second best on record for the period, and truck sales reached an all-time high.

Sales of 51,777 cars and trucks during the first reporting period of 1967 represented a daily selling rate of 7,397 units. The record was established last year, when 58,355 vehicles, at an 8,422 daily rate, were sold in the first 10 days.

"We and our dealers are gratified and encouraged by the continuing strength of the industry and by the strong market performance of our products at the start of the new year," said Donald N. Frey, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

Car sales for the first 10 days of January this year totaled 40,047, compared with a record 47,257 in 1966. Sales of 11,730 trucks exceeded the previous record of 11,698 set a year ago.

The car sales total for January 1-10 included 20,519 big Fords, 9,631 Mustangs, 4,984 Fairlanes, 2,887 Falcons and 2,026 Thunderbirds.

TAKES OATH: Senator George W. Kuhn, of the 14th senatorial district, is shown taking his oath of office as a new member of the State Senate. The Birmingham Republican represents the area that includes the Plymouth Community. He will be chairman of the Senate Corporations Committee.

Wes Vivian Returns To Conduccion Corp.

Former Congressman, Dr. Weston E. Vivian, who served the Plymouth area in Washington for the past two years, has returned to work at his old job.

The Ann Arbor doctor has picked up where he left off by accepting the role of Vice-president of the Conduccion Corporation, the electronics firm with headquarters in the research corridor between Plymouth and Ann Arbor.

One of the founders of the firm, Vivian, an engineer and scientist, participated in its rapid growth from a handful of persons in 1960 to a multi-million-dollar business in 1964, at which time he was elected to Congress.

In the intervening two years, Conduccion has become a fifty million dollar a year business, with more than 2,500 employees located in Michigan, Missouri, California, Texas and other states.

Goodwill Pickup Set for Monday

The next visit of Goodwill Industries pickup trucks to Plymouth is scheduled for Monday, Jan. 23. Goodwill trucks collect household discards of clothing, shoes, hats, toys, most types of furniture and other household discards.

To arrange for a Goodwill Industries truck pickup, ask the operator for toll-free Enterprise 700Z.

One of Vivian's responsibilities with the firm will be to introduce to public use novel pollution abatement equipment recently developed by the firm, including new auto exhaust smog reduction devices and water wastes purification equipment.

During his term as Congressman, Vivian had been a recognized supporter and advocate of more aggressive national programs for pollution abatement, particularly reduction of water pollution in the Great Lakes area.

"Establishment of the Pictured Rocks as a national recreation area and the acquisition of the Sylvania Tract by the Federal Forest Service were two developments in 1966 that promise to give a boost to our tourist industry in the upper peninsula," McGraw said.

"Special events and attractions are being developed and expanded throughout the state, including such fine examples as the new Windmill Island Park at Holland and the rapidly-growing Bavarian Festival at Frankenmuth."

Increased travel to Michigan by visitors from foreign countries also offers a growth potential for tourism in coming years, the Council said. Special promotional efforts are being conducted and more are planned by the Council to invite and entertain the growing number of foreign visitors, McGraw said.

More in the crystal ball category are predictions by tourist industry leaders of a shift away from traditional patterns of the school year to a more year-round educational program. This shift will spread more family vacations throughout the year rather than the heavy concentration on travel during the summer months.

"As we move away from the agricultural economy which set our school year patterns, vacations during autumn and winter months will become more commonplace," McGraw said. "Even today, we see more and more families taking a second vacation outside the summer months."

Automation in industry and better scheduling of production activities also will work to smooth out travel patterns, according to predictions by tourist leaders.

Looking back on Michigan's record tourist year in 1966, the Council pointed to several business indicators:

---Requests for Michigan vacation planning information received by the Michigan Tourist Council up more than 12 percent over 1965 levels.

---A poll of some 70 chambers of commerce throughout the state showing an average increase of 11 percent in business for the year and nearly a 10 percent increase in 1966 autumn business.

---Conservation Department figures showing a record 335,000 camping permits, up 34 percent over 1965; a record day use of state parks of more than 16.3 million people, up about 16 percent over 1965.

---The biggest year in history for the Mackinac Bridge, surpassing both in traffic and revenue the first year the bridge was open, 1958, and up about 6.5 percent over 1965.

---An estimated 4.5 percent gain in overall traffic volume throughout the state in 1966 over the 1965 levels.

---Detroit-Windsor tunnel traffic up 9.8 percent for the year, International Bridge traffic up 5.8 percent and Ambassador Bridge traffic up about 6 percent.

---Greenfield Village attendance up 11.1 percent for 1966 over 1965 and autumn, (September through November) up 7 percent over a year ago.

Tigers Tell Ticket Plan

A stepped-up ticket sales campaign is underway at Tiger Stadium, offering special service to purchasers of season tickets or tickets to single games during 1967.

A colorful brochure detailing season ticket offers is available for the asking and extra men are being added to the staff of Norman P. Otto, ticket sales director, to handle inquiries and sales.

Otto pointed out that Opening Day, matching the Tigers and Angels April 18, is only about three months away.

"Early inquiries indicate another increase in Tiger attendance for 1967," Otto said. "Fans are interested in season ticket savings and they're also writing about single game tickets."

"We want to give personal attention to every inquiry," Otto said. "A telephone call is enough, or the fans can write, if they prefer."

James A. Campbell, executive vice-president and general manager, urged Tiger fans to take advantage of season ticket offers for several reasons.

"The cash savings are important," he said. "Besides that, Tiger tickets are great for business entertainment or family fun. And don't forget, season ticket buyers are assured of the same number of seats for the World Series, in case the Tigers take part."

Box seat buyers for 1967 will receive two bonus games if they purchase the full season plan covering all 72 home dates or four bonus games if they prefer the special combination plan which includes nights, Sundays, holidays and Opening Day for a total of 59 dates.

Reserved seat purchasers will get cash savings of $15 per seat for the full season plan and $12.50 for the special combination.

Fourth League Defeat

It's Same Old Story- Rocks Tire

For the better part of three periods, Plymouth High's Rocks were well on their way to the upset of the season—a victory over once-beaten Trenton—but the roof fell in during the final 12 minutes and the visitors put together a 23 point third quarter and added 24 in the fourth to roll to an easy 77-62 victory.

It was the fourth straight league defeat for the Rocks and the third victory in four Suburban Six starts for Trenton which now trails unbeaten Livonia Bentley by one game in the standings.

The Rocks battled it out with Redford Union on the latter's court for the cellar spot last Friday. They'll return to the familiar surroundings of their home floor next Friday when they entertain a sharpshooting Allen Park quintet which is still in the thick of the title race.

Sparked by the brilliant play of John Ellison, John Davis and Nate Luibrand, Plymouth made the much taller Trenton cagers sit up and take notice throughout the first period.

The Rocks outbattled their rangy foes under the basket and exhibited some dazzling, fast-breaks that left Trenton flatfooted on several occasions.

The lead changed nine times in the first four minutes with the score knotted at 2-2, 4-4 and 6-6 before Plymouth moved ahead 16-9 with Davis contributing half of the points on three field goals and a pair of free throws.

Trenton pulled up within a point on fielders by Ricco Pighetti, Steve Storms and Tom Schlosser before Luibrand counted in the closing seconds to make it 20-17 as the period ended.

Coming up for the second quarter, Trenton changed its defense to a pressing zone after Davis and Mike Kubik built up to a 26-19 lead.

Plymouth had its troubles from that time on and only tallied two field goals and a free throw in the final six minutes while Trenton's Bob Eldridge, Schlosser and Pighetti brought their team within a point of knotting the score at the intermission.

Old Sport's Musings

By Artee

"Just give us 95 victories in 1967 and we'll be in the thick of the pennant race, perhaps on top," was the comment of Mayo Smith, new field manager of the Detroit Tigers, at the annual January get-together with members of the Detroit chapter of the Baseball Writers of America.

"Mind you I'm not promising that we will get the 95 victories," he smiled. "But from what I have seen of this club and from what I know of the pitching potential, I'd say that we should come up with that many."

It was the introduction of the new Tiger manager to those members of the Baseball writers who do not have the daily chore of covering the Bengals from the start of spring training to the end of the season. But it is interesting, since it gave all a chance to meet Mayo and his new staff of coaches (he describes his aides as the best group in baseball) for the first time.

It also enabled the Detroit chapter to present its 1966 award of "Tiger of the Year" to Pitcher Denny McLain, who resides in nearby Livonia and plays the organ three nights a week at the Round Table Club. Thus, he is fairly well-known to Plymouthites and also has a wide acquaintance in the Livonia-Farmington area.

The presentation was made by George Cantor, of the Detroit Free Press, who lauded Denny for his 20 victories and then stressed that he also had allowed 42 of the most illustrious, spectacular home runs of the year.

"I believe Denny will become one of the finest pitchers in the majors," said Smith. "He hasn't really scratched the surface yet as a hurler and with the aid and guidance of Coach Johnny Sain, we believe he'll start to reach his peak."

Mayo averred that he has been very fortunate in that baseball has been his life for 35 years during which he has gained the knowledge that could make winners of the Tigers-- perhaps in 1967 but most certainly in another year or two.

"My staff and I have the knowledge for the players to draw on," he stressed. "The performances on the field are strictly up to the players. We believe we have the necessary skill in handling the men and we believe we have the know-how needed in making pitcher changes-- not too soon, not too late but perhaps just at the right moment. We hope to prove that during the coming season."

"As I see it at this moment, the Tigers have fine potential but need bullpen help. We tried to make some deals but failed during the time when inter-league trades were possible. Now we are still dickering with American League clubs."

Asked what his starting lineup would be if the season was opening tomorrow, Smith indicated he would have Cash, McAuliffe, Oehler and Wert in the infield with Kaline, Northey and Horton in the outfield and Freehan behind the plate.

"We will be better defensively if the changes work out," he said. "That's what hurt the club last season. We feel we could give a little offensively if we can make gains defensively."

"If I didn't think I had a chance for all of the marbles,

I wouldn't be here as manager. I believe the American League race will be tight battle to the finish with Baltimore as the club to beat."

"Then there are such teams as Minnesota, Cleveland, Washington, Kansas City and Detroit that will have to be considered. I believe we can win 95 games and that could be enough, considering that Baltimore only won 98 last year."

"All I can say is that if we can't do the job with the staff and the potential of the club, then let the chips fall where they may. I think we have an excellent chance and we expect to take advantage of every opportunity."

President John Fetzer emphasized that he has been looking forward to 1967 for a long time.

"I have been praying for 1967 after all of the tribulations we had in 1966," he said. "The deaths of Manager Charlie Dressen and his interim replacement, Bob Swift, just took all of the steam out of us for a long time."

"I can't wait for the start of spring training. I have a strong feeling that our building work of the past few years will finally pay off with a winning club in 1967. I'm looking forward to bigger and better year."

General Manager Jim Campbell told the baseball writers, "we feel we have a good young ball club that can win and the men guiding them that can make winners of them."

"We believe we're on the right track and that we have nothing but good ahead of us. I hope our expectations come true after all of the trouble and heartaches we had in 1966."

Consumers Power Plans Expansion

Consumers Power Company which services the Plymouth Community, is planning an investment of $136,000,000 in 1967 on construction and expansion projects designed to meet the growing needs of the electric and gas customers the company serves in Michigan's lower peninsula.

The announcement by A. H. Aymond, chairman of the board, and James H. Campbell, president of the company, said nearly all of the electric and gas projects are part of the long-term growth of the utility.

Consumers Power invested more than $145,000,000 in 1966, including work on two major electric generation additions and expansion of underground storage facilities for natural gas, on which funds will also be spent in 1967 and beyond.

The 1967 program includes $83,000,000 in electric projects, $40,000,000 in gas projects, and $13,000,000 in office buildings and additions to existing offices, service, transportation and warehouse facilities.

The largest electric generating facility is the Palsades nuclear plant, 35 miles west of Kalamazoo. Construction awaits a permit from the Atomic Energy Commission. The plant is due for commercial operation in 1970.

The added 385,000 kilowatt turbogenerator at the James H. Campbell plant at Port Sheldon, west of Grand Rapids, is to begin commercial operation in May.

Consumers Power is completing a major natural gas storage development program in St. Clair and Macomb counties. Included are additions to the St. Clair and Ray natural gas compressor stations and extensive expansion of underground storage facilities. These will increase underground storage capacity by 30 billion cubic feet, to a total of 115.5 billion cubic feet for all storage fields.

During 1967, the company expects to add 21,000 new electric customers to its lines, and more than 33,000 new natural gas customers.

The Consumers Power service area covers 30,000 square miles within which the company supplies electric service to 978,000 customers in 61 counties and natural gas service to 729,000 customers in 37 counties in Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

Meadowbrook Opens

Many Make a Theatre

Meadow Brook Theatre at Oakland University opened January 4 with "The Caucasian Chalk Circle" by Brecht, and it will run for four more weeks. It is too early to know if the repertory will be a financial success.

But a great deal of excitement has been generated by this theatre, which is directed by John Fernald. Besides the Director and actors many people are working to make the repertory theater a smooth-running operation.

The man responsible for setting the stage and costuming the actors in the John Fernald Company at Meadow Brook is 27-year old Tom Aston, a native of the state of Washington who six years ago made Michigan his home.

A drama major minoring in art at Western Washington University, Aston served as stage

EMU Has New Degree

The Eastern Michigan University Board of Regents has established the University's seventh bachelor's degree - bachelor of fine arts.

The new degree reflects a growing art department at EMU once aimed strictly at teacher education, but now also offering an art school program for students not majoring in education.

In the past two years, the number of art majors at EMU has doubled - from 155 in 1964-65 to more than 300 this year.

Other bachelor's degrees offered at EMU are bachelor of arts, bachelor of science, bachelor of art education, bachelor of business education, bachelor of business administration, and bachelor of music education.

The Regents also authorized three majors and one minor in its current program - a major in earth science by the Department of Geography and Geology; a major in dance by the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation; and a major and minor in philosophy by the College of Education.

manager and technical design assistant for the University's drama department.

His work as technical design assistant was seen by William Gregory, then managing director of Detroit's Vanguard Theatre. Gregory asked Aston to come to Detroit for five weeks to stage manage Vanguard's production of Peer Gynt. Aston took leave of absence from his studies, to which he never returned.

A year later, Aston was promoted to set designer, a post he held for the next three years.

In 1964 Aston was contacted by Oakland University Chancellor, D. B. Varner, who asked him to direct the student theatre on campus. He accepted, and in the two years that followed worked with the group in everything from musicals to avant garde productions - 15 in all.

John Fernald, Principal of London's Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, visited Oakland's campus prior to his permanent affiliation with the Meadow Brook Theatre. He saw Aston's set and costume designs in the student production of "The Glass Menagerie."

Impressed with Aston's work, he invited him to join the company as set and costume designer - a prestige assignment.

"The Caucasian Chalk Circle," a Russian period play, alone calls for 95 costume changes. This meant discussion with director Fernald, hours of research, drawing the rough sketches, consulting with head costumer Ross Young and the seamstresses, and finally the working drawings and the actual execution.

Patterns are drafted after taking each actor's measurements; bolts of fabric are purchased and "pre-conditioned" (by a run through the theatre's washing machines) and dyed if necessary.

Someday there'll be a television weatherman who'll tell us simply whether the day will be hot or cold, wet or dry.

Local Men In Service

Boilerman Technician Fireman Apprentice Robert J. Magee, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis L. Magee of 41462 E. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, Mich., has reported for duty aboard the attack aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk, presently in the Gulf of Tonkin, operating off the coast of North Vietnam.

Her planes fly daily missions, providing a mobile striking force capable of destroying the enemy's supply and communication lines.

This is the Kitty Hawk's third Vietnam cruise and her fourth Western Pacific cruise since her commissioning in April 1961. She is homeported in San Diego, Calif.

Private James R. Lee, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lee, 240 Burroughs, Plymouth, Mich., completed a 14-week automotive repair course at the Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., Jan. 6.

He was trained in the maintenance and repair of engines for the Army's tracked and wheeled vehicles.

Communications Yeoman Third Class Charles C. Yost, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Yost of 709 Fairground, Plymouth, Mich., is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Boston undergoing refresher training exercises in the Caribbean Sea.

This is the Boston's first cruise since completing extensive renovations at the Boston Naval Shipyard.

Boston, the world's first guided missile cruiser is operating under the control of the Fleet Training Group at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where crewmembers will be given refresher training.

The Boston will depart for the island of Culebra where she will engage in shore bombardment exercises following her departure from Guantanamo Bay.

After cutting and sewing, there are fittings and alterations. Accessory items are also especially made for the productions.

Sets must also be researched and combined with original ideas. According to Aston, they will build their own sets, even constructing their own furniture if time allows.

Following "Circle," will be Shakespeare's "Love's Labor's Lost", Shaw's "You Never Can Tell", Jean Anouilh's "The Waltz of the Toreadors" and Chekhov's "The Three Sisters", each running for four weeks. There will also be a week-long children's play at Easter time, "The Imperial Nightingale".

Aston says that 50 per cent of the total designing for the season is already under way.

"A resident theatre such as Meadow Brook has an advantage," he states, "because costs can be cut down by having a permanent stock of props and costumes to draw from."

Even so, counting man-hours and materials, he estimates that the cost of each costume averages $150 to $200, with sets and props averaging $2500 per play.

HEADS GM PLANT GROUP. Paul D. Pender, of the General Motors Fisher Body Livonia plant, has been named chairman of the GM Plant City Committee. This group is responsible for guiding and coordinating GM's community relations in the Livonia area.

ICE AND SNOW brought activity to a halt for those local residents who were unfortunate enough to have a car lodged in a deep, snowy bank. Several days passed before this car was pulled from its resting place just over the edge of a steep embankment.

EMU Plans Institute In Reading

An institute in Reading for 27 supervisors and coordinators of reading instruction will be offered at Eastern Michigan University June 26 to Aug. 4.

The institute is financed by the National Defense Education Act, and administered by the U.S. Office of Education.

Director of the institute is Mrs. Ingrid P. Yliso, assistant professor of education at Eastern. Mrs. Phyllis Smith, visiting lecturer in reading, will be co-director.

A selected group of supervisors will be trained in the principles and practices of supervision of reading, reading improvement materials, testing and evaluation, current research in reading, and actual supervisory and reading clinic experience.

Participants will receive $75 weekly plus $15 for each dependent during the institute. Housing is available in University residence halls.

Application forms and other information may be obtained from Mrs. Yliso, NDEA Institute in Reading, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Mich. 48197.

Completed applications must be received by March 20 and selected participants will be notified between April 6 and 13. Letters of acceptance must be postmarked by April 22.

Traffic Conditions Could Be Worse

LANSING — Next time you take to the road, try to remember that traffic conditions could be worse.

The United Kingdom — not the United States — holds the unenviable record for crowded highways with 11,384,000 vehicles and only 212,275 miles of road.

Even the Japanese can't duplicate the United Kingdom record, but they do claim sole possession of the world's worst traffic jam—Tokyo's Los Angeles' Hollywood Harbor Freeway leads the field in traffic density.

Every day more than 219,000 cars take to the 22.6-mile-long freeway, according to traffic researchers. If put end to end, they would stretch more than 500 miles.

"High, wide and handsome" applies with even greater force to two record-holding U.S. highways—one in Dallas, and the other in Chicago, a 20-mile stretch of the Dan Ryan Freeway.

They are the widest highways anywhere, with 16 lanes apiece.

Michigan has the only highway in America on which cars are prohibited from driving — M-185 on Mackinac Island. Although it is part of Michigan's state highway system, M-185 is restricted to horse-drawn vehicles and bicycles. The only time it's used by a motorized vehicle is during an emergency when the Island's fire truck is called to put out a fire.

What's the highest road in the world? The all-time winner is probably the mountain pass known as the Bodpo La in Western Tibet, with an altitude of 19,412 feet.

A trade caravan traversed it in 1929. Since then, there has been an understandable shortage of traffic.

But the Bogo La, only slightly less dizzying at 19,220 feet above sea level, is still used by Tibetans and Nepalese for a brisk barter trade in salt and rice. No vehicles travel this narrow pass—the only commercial carriers are yaks.

If this strikes you as too primitive, would you prefer a drive along the 733-mile-long S. W. Sinkiang-Tibet Road? Or, would you consider it the height of folly to travel a road that rises some 18,420 feet above sea level?

While some people build passes to go over mountains, or take the long way around, others choose to go through them. The world's longest road tunnel extends for 7.2 miles under Mont Blanc.

Educators Announce Legislative Program

The 1967 legislative program of the Michigan Education Association was announced this week, with a plea for fiscal reform from the teacher group's executive secretary, Dr. E. Dale Kennedy.

Kennedy said Tuesday that the most basic improvements in Michigan public schools would entail additional new appropriations of $160 million from the state.

He emphasized that legislators must meet, as one of their first acts, the tremendous responsibility for fiscal improvement encompassing "any reasonable combination of a personal and corporate income tax, property tax relief by means of a percent credit of the total tax bill, uniform assessing practices through a system of qualified state assessors, adjustment in the business activities tax, and exemption of food and prescription drugs from the sales tax."

Kennedy said that preliminary estimates for minimum school improvements would involve $91,655,000 in additional support of the basic state aid formula; $16,240,000 to begin reducing the state's pupil-teacher ratio in classrooms; $4 million to establish or maintain "head start" programs for the educationally disadvantaged where these are not covered by federal programs.

Also, $10,400,000 in adjustments to aid high non-school-tax paying districts; $6,160,000 for a new preschool-age educational program on an experimental basis; $17 million for transportation (down $2 million from this year); $375,000 for an educational program for the children of migrant workers; $2 million for intermediate school districts (down $250,000 from this year).

The MEA proposal cites the following principles for improved state school support: basic school formula allowances should reflect the current actual operating costs of Michigan schools; credits for local millage efforts should reflect the actual state average for operating millage and should move toward improved equalization throughout the state; full participation effort locally should move from 9 mills to 10 mills; a start should be made to reduce teacher-pupil ratios; the school year should be lengthened by five days for the professional improvement of Michigan teachers; some factor reflecting average income per family should be introduced, and annual supplements for research in school finance should be provided to ease the work of the legislature in determining facts.

Kennedy stated that the MEA had already participated in programs with other groups in a study of fiscal improvement for Michigan, and will continue to work cooperatively with others until fiscal reform becomes an accomplished fact in Michigan.

School Board Minutes

A special meeting of the Board of Education of Plymouth Community School District, Wayne and Washtenaw Counties, Michigan, was held Wednesday evening, January 4, 1967, in the Board Room of the Administration Building, 1024 South Mill Street, Plymouth, at 8:00 p.m.

Present: Members Hulsing, McLaren, Moehle, Schultheiss and Scott (Member Fischer entered the meeting at 9:35 p.m.); Sup't Isbister and Sup'r Krimbacher.

Absent: Member Tripp.

Also present: Architects Haberkorn, Graeger and Mattison; Newsmen Thompson and Nilsson and a number of building contractors.

Vice President Schultheiss instructed the Secretary to open and read aloud the following bids for the construction of Elementary School No. 8:

Table with columns: ARCHITECTURAL Contractors, Alternates Bid, Added Work. Lists bids for Armstead Const. Co., Burger Const. Co., Moriarty Const. Co., West Side Const. Co.

Table with columns: FOOD SERVICE Contractor, Base Bid, Bid Guar. Lists bid for Altman Canton China.

It was moved by Member Hulsing and seconded by Member Scott that the initial contract for the construction of Elementary School No. 8, which includes the architectural trades with Alternates A-1 and A-2 and the electrical trades, be awarded to the low bidder, Armstead Construction Company in a total amount of $444,957 and that Armstead Construction Company be directed to assign the electrical trades to the low bidder, McGarvey Company. Further, that the amount of the initial contract be supplemented later to accommodate the cost of the mechanical trades when the contractor to whom the mechanical trades will be assigned has been determined.

Ayes: Members Hulsing, McLaren, Moehle, Schultheiss and Scott. Nays: None. The motion was carried.

It was moved by Member McLaren and seconded by Member Moehle that the contract for the installation of the food service equipment be awarded to the low bidder, F. D. Stella Company, in the amount of $16,500.

Ayes: Members Hulsing, McLaren, Moehle, Schultheiss and Scott. Nays: None. The motion was carried.

Assistant Sup't Harding, Architects Haberkorn and Graeger and the following members of the professional staff, Raymond Borzi, Charles Armstrong, Pat Esarey, Bertha Green, Ed Kleinsmith, Robert Smith, Herbert Spring and Carl Taylor, presented to the Board a schematic arrangement of the space requirements which, in their judgment, will adequately meet the educational specifications for the proposed middle school (grades 6, 7 and 8). Particular emphasis was placed on the newer concept of the learning resource center (library, visual and audio aids, etc.) and its service function in the school. Flexibility and adaptability to change in both curricula content and methods of teaching as well as grouping characterized the staff's perception of the physical environment for the new building.

Board members, both individually and collectively, commented favorably on the proposed space arrangements for the new building and praised the professional staff and the architects for the work which had gone into this report.

It was moved by Member Moehle and seconded by Member Scott that both the educational specifications and the schematic drawings for the Middle School be approved and that the Architect be authorized to proceed with the preparation of the preliminary drawings.

Ayes: Members Fischer, Hulsing, McLaren, Moehle, Schultheiss and Scott. Nays: None. The motion was carried. (Member Fischer present and voting—not present on previous motions.) Assistant Sup't Harding, John Hoben, Herbert Spring and Bertha Green, speaking for the professional staff, and Don Tripp and Price Watts, speaking for the Citizens Advisory Committee, apprised the Board of the planning for the second high school. It was noted that both Committees had reached a consensus on a position paper setting forth five basic design concepts for the new school. Also, that professional sub-committees with citizen representation in each were at work writing the educational specifications for the building.

The meeting adjourned at 11:08 p.m. Respectfully submitted, Esther L. Hulsing, Secretary Board of Education
