Mayor Jabara Sees Exciting Times Ahead

"The next two years should be most exciting." With this simple statement newly-elected James Jabara who took office last Monday evening, promised an active administration that will help to bring about some of the biggest projects the city has known in years.

County May Seek Tax

The Wayne County Board of Supervisors never takes things for granted. For that reason storm warnings already have been sounded for a one mill tax levy in 1969. This will not be a new tax. Rather, it will be a renewal of the one mill special property tax that was approved in 1964 for a five-year period.

That period expires in 1969 and the Supervisors have let it be known that, unless the State provides the revenue, they will have to ask for the renewal to maintain essential services. The warning was sounded when Chairman Mel Ravitz, a member of the Detroit Common Council, took office for his second term.

D. P. W. Set For Vote On Union

To join or not to join is the question which will be put before employees of the City of Plymouth's Department of Public Works next week. At issue is the question of whether DPW employees should organize and affiliate with the Teamsters Union. At the present time they lack any union connections.

with the various departments." Recently elected to the Commission for his second four-year term, and then placed in the Mayor's chair as the successor to Mayor James Houk, who had served two years, the new chief executive has had a chance to view the problems of the area and realizes he now is in a position to quicken the pace in the hunt for solutions.

"One of the first things I would like to see done," he pointed out, "is the street program. We have several streets that are in bad condition. They should be improved before we do anything else. We have the program planned and now need only to put it into action. And when the taxpayers see that we are really doing something we will start to change the image of the commission."

Asked about parking, the battle to preserve the central business district, the Centennial project, and the much discussed unification study campaign, Mayor Jabara smilingly answered, "They are all good projects and only emphasize the amount of work that has to be done. And I'd like to see most of it accomplished in the next two years. I do think our streets should be repaired first," he went on, "and then we can tackle the other jobs...without too much red tape."

Mayor Jabara confided that he is a firm believer in unification. "It's bound to come," he explained. "And I think the majority of the people want it. I may be taking a lot for granted, but I think the people in the Township want it, too. If they didn't I think they would have approved a charter several years ago. I don't think they want two cities." On the subject of the Central Business District Mayor Jabara was just as firm.

"I think the preservation of the central district, beautification of the park and providing parking, can all be lumped into one insofar as solutions are concerned," he continued. "We just can't afford to let the inner city deteriorate--and parking will help a great deal. I hope we can speed up the work and really show the people something." Like many others, Mayor Jabara voiced a feeling of real disappointment that a misunderstanding has reared its ugly head in the discussion of a

Township Nears M-14 Showdown With State

Plymouth Township's Planning Commission this week moved closer to a showdown with the State Highway Department over the proposed route of the M-14 freeway by formally scheduling a public hearing on a 55-acre development which lies directly in the highway's path. At its four-hour session Wednesday night, the Board picked its next regular meeting date of May 17 for a hearing on the issue. It was one of five future public hearings on various matters scheduled for the next three months.

'Mail' In 'Mail Call' Hailed In Vietnam

To a member of Uncle Sam's fighting forces 10,000 miles or more from home, mail call is something special.

Those letters from family and friends help give meaning to the future, keeping alive a link with the folks back home, and even the home town paper carries special meaning that maybe it lacked when it was taken for granted.

A note of thanks addressed to just "The Plymouth Mail" from a local lad in South Vietnam arrived this week and reflects that very fact. Airman 2/c Thomas Goodman's message of gratitude for receiving The Mail in Japan and Vietnam read, "It just goes to show that the home town paper follows you no matter where you go."

The warmth of Tom's brief message, sincere as it was, will pale next month in contrast with the welcome awaiting him right here. A2/c Goodman is due home late in May to be greeted by wife, parents, in-laws and a 20-month-old daughter he hasn't seen since leaving for Vietnam a year ago.

A member of Plymouth High School's graduating class of 1962, Tom has been a Plymouth resident for many years. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Goodman of 134 N. Holbrook.

Three years ago, after completing basic training, Tom married another Plymouth High graduate, Sharon Baumer, class of '61, though oddly enough they had not been acquainted in school. Sharon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baumer, 12113 Hines Ct. If mail call is something special, think what homecoming will be.

Ford Motor Co.'s new plant on Sheldon. However, the projected M-14 freeway route favored by the Highway Department would cut across that same rectangle, which would kill the industrial park project.

Pleas to the State to adopt an alternate route have fallen on deaf ears, and in the end it may be a case of seeing who gets there "fustest with the mostest."

These other public hearings were set: June 21: Petition of Union Oil Co. of California and Pure Oil Company to rezone approximately five acres at the southeast corner of Haggerty and Five Mile Rds. as a commercial area.

June 21: Petition of Joseph J. Sinicola to rezone approximately six acres north of Joy Rd., near Morrison and in the proximity of Plymouth Estates Subdivision, for construction of duplexes and/or single family apartment houses.

July 19: Petition of Gould Industrial Park to rezone an area east of Lilley Rd. and off Postiff Dr. for construction of multiple housing units.

July 19: Petition of J. Austin Oil Co., of Wayne, for rezoning the northeast corner of Haggerty and Ann Arbor Rds., for construction of a Shell service station. The property has a frontage of 180 feet on each street.

City Needs Volunteer Firemen

Fire Chief George Schoenneman issued an appeal this week for volunteers for daytime duty when needed by the Plymouth Fire Department. Applicants should be between the ages of 21 and 35, and must be able to pass a physical examination. Any men who are interested should contact Chief Schoenneman at the City Hall.

Members Picket Meeting

With an implication of more forceful action if the Schoolcraft College administration and Board of Trustees doesn't resolve differences over salary increases quickly, more than 60 members of the Faculty Forum picketed Wednesday's board meeting in the Administration building on the campus. It was more or less a silent protest over the failure of the College negotiating team to reach an agreement on money matters after weekly sessions since January 13.

The Faculty Forum is the official bargaining agent for the professional staff. Anthony Rizzo, chairman of the Faculty Forum negotiating team, said the group felt it was necessary to have a show of strength as a demonstration against the slowing of negotiations in recent weeks.

"True enough," he said, "we have been meeting weekly but for the past several weeks it has been all talk with nothing concrete in regard to money. Having expressed our views on these matters with the Board's representatives and the administration with little apparent effect, our professional responsibilities to school and community compel us to act." The pickets marched in front of the Administration building entrances prior to the start of the meeting, forcing the Trustees to walk through the picket lines. Meanwhile, a group of 30 taxed the capacity of the Board conference room to sit in on the regular monthly meeting.

While the meeting was in session, the pickets moved indoors and marched around the conference room, located in the center of the building. There was no outburst from the group at any time. The pros and cons of the issues were unveiled during a short discussion by Faculty Forum representatives Robert Leggett and Rizzo and Board Chairman Harold Fischer and Trustee Leroy Bennett.

The faculty team has made a request for an economic package in excess of $500,000 which includes a flat $1,950 across the board increase for 98 full time faculty members, a request for the Board to assume additional hospital and medical insurance costs totaling $52,000, a request that a cost of living factor be written into working contracts, and a reduction of teaching load requiring the hiring of additional personnel.

Community Bulletin Board

In keeping with its policy to provide a public service The Mail will inaugurate a "Community Bulletin Board" on which will be listed meetings of the various clubs and organizations in the area. It is planned to list the meetings, where they will be held, and at what time. If there is a speaker on the program his or her name will be listed, too.

All information for the "Bulletin Board" must be submitted one week in advance in order that the information will be up-to-date at all times.

Publisher Reveals Plans For Future of The Mail

Rumors of what lies ahead for the Plymouth Mail and the Farmington Enterprise were answered this week with facts portraying a glowing future by Publisher Philip Power in addressing the Plymouth Rotary Club. An expanded publishing schedule for all members of the Observer Newspaper Group, which has included the Mail and Enterprise since their purchase by Power last June, was outlined in detail.

"There never has been any intention of dropping either paper," Power told his audience of business and professional leaders. "To the contrary, I'm going to do everything I can to make them bigger and better." Power outlined plans which become effective the week of May 7 to have the Plymouth, Farmington and Livonia units of the Observer Group publish on a semi-weekly basis. Regular Wednesday editions will continue to come out in mid-week, and added to those deliveries will be a late-week publication as well. "We have been and are taking steps to make the Mail and Enterprise part of a three-community Weekender that we believe will become the most powerful Sunday newspaper in Western Wayne County," Power declared. "The Weekender in Plymouth will be known as the Plymouth Mail-Observer Weekender and in Farmington as the Farmington Enterprise-Observer Weekender. "There will be a new conception with a new format that we feel sure will be interesting to all. "We hope to present a week-end package that all will like. It will have more local news, new features, new presentations, and a total impact which we hope will make it the most desired newspaper in the area," said Power. The publisher also disclosed that plans are under consideration for possible construction of a new plant to house the combined production operation, but added that no decision will be made for at least another month.

To Settle Mis-Understanding Centennial Committee Calls Special Session

ASKS FOR HELP: Harger Green, manager of the Fisher Body Plant in Livonia, addresses a meeting of business and industrial representatives on need for adult volunteers to staff Boy Scout committees in the area. Expansion of Scout activities in the Sunset District depends upon enlisting services of businessmen to support the administration arm of Scouting. Present enrollment of boys of eligible Scout age totals only 22 per cent and key to expansion is recruiting additional community leadership, spokesmen at organizational meeting declared.

Meeting Set May 2

Despite the many hours of study and planning by the members of the Plymouth Centennial Committee there seems to be a misunderstanding abroad in the community regarding the permanent project that is to be built as a memorial of the big celebration.

This misunderstanding came to light again last Monday evening at the City Commission meeting when Russell C. Koepke, 1316 Sheridan, entered a formal protest against the building of a skating rink and accompanied the protest with a petition containing 175 signatures.

This surprise action caught many folks off guard, including the officials of the Centennial Committee, who were in the audience waiting their turn to make a presentation to the Commission.

In making the protest Koepke and his group asked that the old Baptist Church on Ann Arbor Trail be obtained and transformed into a community house—for all to enjoy.

Thus, the Centennial Committee plans were delayed until the misunderstanding can be cleared up. And a meeting has been called for Tuesday evening, May 2, in the City Commission chambers, for that purpose. Each of the 175 signers of the petition is being invited and the general public also will be welcome.

The misunderstanding evolves around the term "community center". The Centennial Committee, in its original planning, offered a "skating rink" as the main project. When this met with some objection the plan was changed and the "skating rink" became an arena, which can house such things as ice shows, meetings, concerts, and social functions, aside from providing ice skating.

The idea advanced by the latest protesting group to transform the old church into a community center, also was offered originally by the Plymouth Jaycees. At that time it was turned down.

And last Monday evening, Realtor J.L. Hudson let it be known that he has a potential purchaser for the church and the site.

So, the Centennial Committee has decided to clear the air and the May 2 meeting is the result.

That's where the situation stands as of now.

"We feel the Board has money available in the operating budget if it wants to use it for salaries," said Rizzo. "We would like to explore this with the negotiators but haven't had the opportunity."

On the other hand, the Board team has stated rather simply "The Board of Trustees of Schoolcraft College doesn't have the kind of money that the Faculty Forum is talking of, at its disposal."

In a letter to the Trustees, presented at the meeting, the Faculty Forum executive committee wrote:

"We, the Faculty, believe it is necessary for the Board to recognize the Faculty as a force that should be involved directly in influencing the direction of the college pursues."

"We, the Faculty, believe it is necessary to convince the Board that more monies need to be made available for faculty compensation. How can quality education be maintained without apparent concern for adequate compensation necessary to retain and necessary to attract the quality instructors this school needs?"

Adult Volunteers Needed To Aid Scout Committees

A drive to enlist volunteers from among the business and industrial leaders of Western Wayne County to enable the area's Boy Scout program to expand was launched this week.

Edward W. Schening, general manager of Plymouth's Burroughs Corp. plant and newly appointed Boy Scout district chairman, told representatives of 17 business firms at a Tuesday luncheon meeting:

"One of the major obstacles Scouting faces today is that of securing key community, business and professional leaders to assume important volunteer leadership roles on a district and council level."

"The purpose of this meeting is to acquaint the men present with the aims and ideals of Scouting, to outline the manpower requirements needed in our community, and to invite them to join hands in a 'plus' effort by business and industry to make Scouting available to all boys."

The Sunset District, which Schening heads, is the largest in point of Scout membership in the Detroit Area Council. However, only 22 percent of the boys of eligible age, who live in the district, belong to the Scouts.

To reach a sizable portion of the remaining 78 percent, volunteers are needed to staff various administrative committees and it is this support which is being asked. Men who wish to volunteer their time to help the program are asked to call Schening at 453-1400, or Scout Executive Robert Thornbrough at 453-6867.

sonnel that the Board estimates would cost $241,650.

The faculty negotiators reportedly have not deviated from the original demands by as much as one dollar up to this time.

The Board negotiators made an initial salary offer of a 10-month basic salary schedule of 44 weeks for full time instructors, providing salaries ranging from $7,500 to $15,950 with annual increases ranging from $300 to $700.

This offer was rejected by the Faculty team on the grounds that summer teaching schedules are limited and only a few would have the advantage of the 44-week contract.

The Board countered with a second proposal that called for an eight-month basic salary

Court Aide To Address 'Y' Meeting

Officials of the Plymouth Community YMCA have set Tuesday, May 23 as the date of the organization's annual public meeting. The session will open at 7:30 p.m. and will be held in the basement of the Plymouth Credit Union building.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be John Neville, Juvenile Court Referee for Wayne County Juvenile Court, whose timely discussion will be on the youth work of the court and its aides.

All persons interested in the "Y" program are urged to attend, and are asked to make advance reservations by calling 453-2904 to enable proper planning of seating and refreshments.

schedule of 36 weeks with a range of $6,000 to $13,000 and increments ranging from $200 to $500. The Board team pointed out this would provide raises for next year of $400 to $1,000 per instructor in addition to the normal increment. It proposed elimination of the cost of living factor, no change in the teaching load and no vital change in the fringe benefits.

The Faculty Forum rejected this on the grounds that the basic salary schedule for 36 weeks represented no raise and that only 10 percent of the staff would be eligible for the $13,000 figure by 1970.

That's where the situation stands as of now.

"We feel the Board has money available in the operating budget if it wants to use it for salaries," said Rizzo. "We would like to explore this with the negotiators but haven't had the opportunity."

memorial project by the Centennial Committee.

"It's too bad," he pointed out, "that there is a division of approach. Both sides in the misunderstanding way the same thing—a community center—but they are taking different approaches."

"I'll admit," he explained, "that I wasn't sold on the idea of just a plain skating rink when it was proposed. But since the plans have been changed to make it an area-type project, I think it would be a good thing for the city."

"We need a place for the young folks to engage in activity, and a place to stage entertaining productions. The arena also could be used for many other things such as conventions, etc. It would be a real community center."

"But," he concluded, "these things have to be studied and all sides satisfied before they can be accomplished."

"That's why I think the next two years are going to be real exciting."

Prior to Jabara taking office as Mayor, the newly elected commissioners—Arch Vallier, James McKeon, George Hudson and Rev. Peter Schweitzer took the oath of office and then settled down to the selection of the mayor with Commissioner McKeon as Mayor Pro Tem.

Plea For Protection Deserved Better Fate

With crime on the upgrade throughout the land . . . the streets of our metropolitan cities becoming unsafe even in daylight . . . and the wave of law violations spreading into the suburban areas, the people have every right to become alarmed and look to their government leaders for help.

They certainly don't deserve the "brush-off" they got at the hands of the Plymouth Township Trustees at their last meeting when a plea for added police protection was "received and placed on file."

For the past month there has been a series of breaking and entering violations in the North Territorial Road area of the Township. In some cases the culprits have paid return visits.

In no case was the amount of the loot very large. Instances have been reported where valuables were left untouched on what seemed to be a hunt for money — or gold. Any cash laying around or gold jewelry was taken while other items of value were left alone.

With this sort of activity in any neighborhood the residents have a right to complain and ask for help. And they don't deserve the kind of treatment given to them by placing the plea "on file".

Who is to help these folks if the Township officials don't seem to care?

As one of the residents moaned as he left the meeting, "What do we get for our tax money?"

One must remember that in most cases Townships are serviced by the Sheriff's department and the county takes care of police protection. Oftimes, this is a slow process.

The need for added police protection was cited at the recent Leadership Conference and it didn't take these leaders long to act.

When it was revealed that, under the present laws of the state, the linking of township police with city police is prohibited, action was started immediately to change the law.

Within 48 hours, State Representatives James Tierney and Louis Schmidt who attended the conference set the wheels in motion in Lansing to remedy the situation. They succeeded in getting a "rider" attached to Senate Bill No. 150 permitting the combining of township police forces with those in cities and villages for better protection.

Action on this "rider" is expected within a week.

One thing is certain. It won't be "received and filed" — the fate that befell a plea for help in the Township.

"Other than that, Hubert, how did you enjoy the trip?"

The Stroller . . .

Ordinarily, The Stroller doesn't go in for eavesdropping, but it was almost unavoidable at lunch the other day — and what he heard was quite entertaining.

Two tables away were two chaps discussing a topic that has become popular in this area in recent weeks — unification and the unification study. And, fortunately, they weren't whispering.

"I sort of agree with little Jack McEwen, the Township Supervisor," one of the pair said. "He has the feeling that at the rate the Township is growing, it won't be long until it will dominate the entire area and he says he sees no reason for 'bailing out' the city at this time."

"Yes, I've heard things like that before," the second chap cut in, "and it makes me laugh. The City has everything it needs as a basis for a fine metropolitan city — a downtown shopping center, movie theaters, a hotel, a park, and the Township can't match that as a starter."

"I've heard it said," he continued, "that the Township has visions of making Ann Arbor Road its Main Street and forgetting all about the city as a 'core' for the entire area."

"If the Township tries anything like that it will be like a few other places near here — They are big, sprawling communities with no downtown area and little chance of ever having one."

Governor or Dictator? That's The Question

It may be a costly lesson, but Governor George Romney is going to learn, sooner or later, that you can't run the state of Michigan like you do an automobile plant and that there is quite a difference between being a leader or a dictator.

During the past fortnight he has acted more like the man who challenged the "big three" in the auto industry when he was head of American Motors by "threatening" the legislature with his austerity budget. In those days he was a disciple of the compact car and carried his challenge so far as to hint that General Motors should be broken up. He was a driver in those days who stopped at nothing to make America "compact conscious."

He was in a position then to drive the employees and threaten other companies, and he gloried in it. He "saved" his company and gained the reputation that started him on the political path that could lead to the White House.

But there is a big difference in dealing with employees and rival companies and dealing with members of the Legislature who, like him, were sent to Lansing by the people to administer to the state's troubles.

Under ordinary conditions Romney's actions wouldn't be of too much importance outside of the state of Michigan — and he possibly would be a bit more diplomatic along the route.

But these are not ordinary times or conditions. The eyes of the nation are on him as a possible presidential candidate in 1968. And one of the things that would have a great bearing on his "campaign" would be to have his tax reform bill passed in glorious fashion.

He knows that. So do the members of the Legislature.

What he doesn't know — or seems not to know — is that you don't get bills passed by "threats," such as the austerity budget and the warning to officials that "unless you help me get my tax reform through, you'll have to take a 15 per cent cut." That's how blunt he spoke with several educational leaders.

From his actions on the tax reform measures he hasn't learned that politics is a game of compromise — that you have to give and take — and if you make the right trades you'll get your point across.

Of course, no one ever accused George Romney of being diplomatic. He is a driver of men, a graduate of the mass production system of the auto industry, who demands results immediately.

Well, government doesn't operate that way. And "threatening" the legislature with an austerity budget as he did in the past fortnight, is not going to help matters.

It could be that this "threat" could defeat his tax reform and cause him to lose prestige in the race for the presidential nomination.

He was elected as the governor of the people — not a dictator.

State Police Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary

Last Monday, April 17, marked the golden anniversary of the Michigan State Police.

Created 50 years ago as the Michigan State Troops in the strife-torn days of World War I, the department is recognized as unsurpassed in its field.

Col. Fredrick E. Davids, a resident of the Plymouth Community, is the present director.

From the first days when the mounted troops were mobilized to a strength of a mere 204, there is now an authorized enlisted strength of 1,576 and more than 300 civilian employees.

Starting with a tiny suite of three offices off the balcony of the Senate chamber in the state capitol in Lansing and a wooden barracks, dining room and stable at East Lansing, the department has grown to a complex of headquarters in East Lansing, eight district headquarters and 59 posts throughout the state.

The growth did not come easy or overnight.

The law under which the Michigan State Troops were organized became effective April 17, 1917, shortly after President Woodrow Wilson signed the proclamation of war against Germany April 6.

Col. Roy C. Vandercook, a Spanish-American war veteran and a member of the National Guard, was selected to head the new military arm of the state.

The Troops were mobilized to replace the National Guard, who were summoned for service in foreign fields, principally in France. They were needed for internal security, and this they provided for two years.

Railroad tunnels on the border of Detroit, Port Huron and Canada were guarded against sabotage, munitions plants likewise were protected, acts of treason were investigated and the Troops were even sent to the Copper Country in the Upper Peninsula when the old Independent Workers of the World organization fomented a strike and disorder to disrupt the war effort.

Then came the moment of decision. In 1919 the war was at an end with the signing of the armistice. It is interesting to note that during the discussion of the Treaty of Versailles in France that followed, in evaluating the armed forces of the combatants, the Michigan Troops were classified as a military arm of the federal government.

But the mission of the Michigan State Troops to protect internal security was over.

The Troops, however, had performed so admirably and because of the need for increased public safety there was a demand they be reorganized as the Michigan State Police.

within the state and able to cross county lines in the pursuit of criminals, came at a time when the automobile was beginning to be used by criminals to cross those lines in a hurry in an effort to escape apprehension.

Then, too, the prohibition era was in full swing and bootleggers were working furiously to provide thirsty drinkers with some sort of alcoholic beverage.

They were busy times.

At the first, the Troopers rode horses, then transferred to motorcycles and, as the prohibition battle proceeded, began to build up their small automobile fleet. The cars, however, were not purchased by the state, but seized and confiscated from bootleggers who had used them to convey their cargoes from points of supply to their markets.

A special patrol also was established on the Detroit River to overhaul and apprehend rum runners ferrying whisky from Canada to the United States.

Traffic highway patrol, of course, was far from being the problem of those days that it is now, but even in 1919 when a spanking new Model T was still a sight to behold, the Troopers policed six automobile accidents. Last year they handled 33,833.

Other battles fought, or to be fought, were against big time gamblers, "blind pig" bars and hideaways, and the usual run of bank robberies, thefts, holdups, murders, etc.

Nothing was or is too big to handle nor too small, even down to investigating the raiding of a farmer's hen coop.

And during the years 22 Troopers have died in line of duty, nine of them by gun fire.

Although half a century old — or young — there have been only eight heads of the department. Five are dead, including Colonel Vandercook, Major Robert E. Marsh, Alan G. Straight, Harry H. Jackson and Oscar J. Olander. The others are Joseph A. Childs, now state racing commissioner, Donald S. Leonard, a Recorder's Court judge in Detroit and Colonel Davids.

Letters Invited

Letters to the Editor are always welcome at The Mail. However, they must be confined to not more than 200 words and should be in typewritten form — double spaced. The Mail also will reserve the right to edit any letter submitted. And all letters must be signed by the writer and addresses supplied.

This was done by the legislature effective March 27, 1919. But the proposal had met stiff opposition.

Many were against a "constabulary" or "Cossacks" as they were termed by some. A few law enforcement agencies, fearing an intrusion into their jurisdictions, also were against.

The arguments flew fast and thick but eventually the act was approved, although for a long time there still were rumblings that the department should be abolished.

Colonel Vandercook was chosen to direct the transition and head the reorganized department.

And the new Troopers, without jurisdictional restrictions

Boy Scouts Offer Chance For Service

One of the grandest movements across the land today is the activity of the Boy Scouts of America.

Any one who ever has earned his way to the rank of an Eagle Scout knows the thrill of achievement and the joy that came with the accomplishment. It is a memory that one carries all through life.

It is a joy that should not be denied any boy in any neighborhood — and yet, unless there is an answer to a call for help, this could happen.

When Ed Schening, the general manager of the Burroughs plant in Plymouth, accepted the assignment to lead the Sunset District in this area, he did it with the same serious intention and pledge of work that he did when he accepted leadership of the Plymouth Community Fund last Fall. He had high hopes of lifting the Sunset District to a higher level than it ever had known. He knew it would be a lot of work. He is the type who likes to tackle big jobs.

Now fate has stepped in. Illness has idled the Burroughs boss and the work has been shifted to others. And help, plenty of it, is needed.

More than 100 men could be used as leaders and build the District to the proportions planned for it.

True, it is a labor of love. There is no monetary reward for those who volunteer to come to the aid of the Scouts. But no amount of cash could buy the thrill and enjoyment that comes from working with these youngsters and starting them on the right road.

For years the Boy Scouts of America have done a grand job with the youth of the land. There's many a man in high places today who got there through some of the lessons he learned as a "Scout". And his position in society has been measured, too, by the lessons he learned as a young lad with the boy scouts.

In these days when the news media are filled with stories of juvenile crime and folks are wondering "what can be done about the young generation," there is more need than ever before to kindle the spirit of the Boy Scouts of America.

So, unlike the old cliché about the weather — that "everybody talks about it, but nobody does anything about it," the door of opportunity is opened for you.

The Sunset District of Boy Scouts needs your help.

Will you respond?

The minstrel show last evening at the Village Hall, given by local people, was a pronounced success. Every seat in the house was filled and standing room was at a premium. It was estimated that over 500 were present.

The curtain was rung up at 8:15 and the performance was on. H.C. Robinson, E.K. Bennett, E.C. Hough, Charles Miller, C.H. Bennett, and J.H. Lee appeared as the end men, with C.H. Raugh as interlocutor.

Mrs. C.H. Bennett was the piano accompanist and Charles Curtis managed the stereopticon.

THINGS I NEVER KNEW 'TIL NOW

Michigan has six million laying hens. They must have worked nights during 1966 to produce the 1 1/2 billion eggs that were consumed, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture. That's equivalent to 175 eggs for every person in the state.

Some Michigan farms have more than 40,000 laying hens in production at one time.

Needle Your Clothes

A Stitch In Time Saves $$$

In the spring a woman's fancy turns to clothes. With new fabrics and sewing machines it is becoming easier and easier for women to make their own clothes. Some stores in the area carry materials and patterns that won't be seen in readymades until next year.

Mrs. Norman Atchinson, who has taught sewing at Plymouth High School for the last nine years, makes it a point to be up on the latest tricks. She even ordered a sample of paper caps and gowns to see if they could be used for graduation.

"We wet them, and sat on them. I even took one apart to see how it was made. After all these tests, I think the gowns held up pretty well," she said. It seems the students were more conservative. They voted to stay with traditional caps and gowns, rather than try the paper.

"Actually, people aren't going to accept paper clothes," continued Mrs. Atchinson, "until they are more perfected. However, I think that youngsters in high school now will see a time when a lot of their clothes are disposable."

To get back to today's clothes, Mrs. Atchinson was full of helpful ideas for the seamstress. "The popular A-line dresses are so simple to make that they can be finished in one afternoon," she said. "And they can be made so cheaply."

One trick she suggested, was to interface the neckline with organdy, unless the dresses were made with a heavy fabric. "This keeps the neckline nice and crisp. I interface the armholes of the sleeveless dresses, too," she added. "The interfacing material should always be pre-shrunk," she warned. As to pre-shrinking other fabrics, Mrs. Atchinson suggested checking the label to see if it is needed when you buy the material. "If you're in doubt about any loosely woven cotton, just run it through the short cycle in the washing machine," she said. "Wools, of course, take more care. The easiest thing is to have the cleaner do it."

When buying fabrics, it is hard to know if you are getting too much pressure on the pressure foot.

Doctors Study Birth Defects

DETROIT — Prenatal disease menaces to the unborn baby are being examined at Wayne State University in the most systematic and long-term study of birth defects and their causes ever undertaken.

In progress since 1959 but not announced until this year, the research follows a method called "paired sera," in which blood serum samples are taken from the mother early in pregnancy and again after delivery.

Through these samples, the doctors can learn what virus diseases, if any, mothers have suffered before and during pregnancy.

Her next opportunity to act as junior guest judge will be at the Michigan All-Arabian Horse Show, July 21, 22, and 23 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit. The show lasted from 9 o'clock every morning until midnight, so there was plenty of work. According to Sue there was plenty of fun, too.

Specialty of the house These Brownies Are Child's Play

A prize-winning recipe, that's a cinch for children to make is offered by Mrs. Roger Zerby of Russet Lane.

"I found this brownie recipe a long time ago," she said. "Later, I loaned it to a friend, and she submitted it to a national magazine, where it won an honorable mention award."

Hurry-up recipes are ideal for Mrs. Zerby, who is extremely active in community affairs. She is past president of the Women's Symphony League, and is now on the Symphony Society Board.

Any spare time she might have is taken up working as a secretary for Mrs. Frank West, chairman for a national sorority fund raising project. Besides that Mrs. Zerby also squeezes in a few phone calls every day for the Welcome Service in Plymouth.

"It's perfect when the children want to cook because it's so easy, and there isn't much mess," said Mrs. Zerby. And as the mother of three and a former school teacher, she should know.

Librarian Learns

All Paths Lead To Her Desk

Working at the Dunning-Hough library has given Mrs. Ronald Huch a chance to know her new community quickly. In the few short months that Mrs. Huch has lived and worked in Plymouth, she has met a cross-section of the area, as all kinds of people have come to her desk with books.

Checking out books is only a small part of Mrs. Huch's job. As librarian in Plymouth she is also called on to supply information, and set up special programs for children.

Plymouth lives up to its image as a colonial community, according to the books women read. "They read more books on furniture and antiques, than other places I've been," says Mrs. Huch, who has worked in Southfield and Pennsylvania.

"Flower and gardening books and magazines also are popular. People often come to the library looking for the solution to a problem. Recently, I helped a woman find information on how to build a bridge in her garden."

Working with children is new for Mrs. Huch, who was just appointed children's librarian. She's wasting no time getting started, and is busy mapping out an ambitious summer reading program.

"I'll be visiting all the schools way--such as becoming a squire. In a few weeks, signing up youngsters, although the program won't start until school is over. We hope it will last all summer," she hood."

Mrs. Huch frankly admits she and her husband chose Plymouth knight-hood," she continued, for its convenience. "The goal is to become a knight.

There are several steps along the way--such as becoming a squire. Children have to read two books, before they move on to the next step. Finally they reach knight-hood."

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Brack

Kathleen Voss Weds Gary Brack

Kathleen Ann Voss, daughter of the Joseph Vosses of Beech, became the bride of Gary William Brack at a morning wedding at Our Lady of Good Council Church on April 1.

Father Robert Schade officiated. Organ music was provided by James Grimmer, with Mary Ann Sincock as soloist.

Mrs. Daniel Fox of Ann Arbor is matron of honor. Mrs. James Debern and Linda Ashley of Newberry served as bridesmaids.

Wearing a floor length dress she had made, and a veil she designed, the bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. Her ivory satin dress was trimmed in double-embroidered rose lace appliques which matched the veil.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and ivy trimmed with aris. The color scheme of the wedding was pink and white. Vases of pink and white flowers stood on the altar, and the attendants were all dressed in pink dotted swiss. Their full length dresses had empire waists and full backs. Floor length pink veils were their headpieces.

Pink rosebuds and carnations made up their bouquets. Mrs. Voss wore a citron colored silk suit with matching accessories and yellow orchids. Mrs. Brack chose a pale pink dress with matching accessories. Her flowers were white orchids.

The bridegroom, whose parents are the William Bracks of Bloomfield Hills, chose his brother, Dennis, as best man. Ushers were Calvin Blakley, Richard Picket and Walter Dawson.

After the ceremony a reception for 80 guests was held at the Hillside Inn.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Brack are seniors at Michigan State University. This summer they will be living in the Detroit area, where Mr. Brack will be working as an accountant. In the fall he will be attending graduate school at Wayne State University.

Modernizing?

New Heating System?

Decisions. Decisions. Decisions.

(May we help you with an important one?)

Your choice of a heating system is one you'll live with for a long time. So, naturally, you'll want to make sure you get a system that won't cost too much to own. That's where our new electric heat guarantee comes in.

Before you start the job, consult with Edison: We'll see that you get a written estimate of heating costs--before you buy. Then, your monthly bills may be less, but they won't be one cent higher than the estimate. We guarantee it.

If the installation needs adjustments to meet the guaranteed cost figure, we'll see that it's done. And if at the end of three years, the system is still not operating within our estimate, we'll remove it and refund your money.

Before you make any more important modernizing decisions, get the facts on modern electric heat. You can't lose!

Increase In Us True Religion

By The Rev. Robert S. Shank, Jr. St. John's Episcopal Church The word "religion" these days is a huge, foggy, dangerous word.

"The Man Upstairs", or creeds and theological formulas? Allow me to list phrases that we hear used frequently that help render this word meaningless.

Churches in Action

with the judgment of God and less concerned with the trappings of religion.

Christian does not need religion.

What Do We Say About Religionless Christianity?

1. The Church does not exist to "provide religion," but to lead men, women and children to God.

2. The essential words of definition for the Christian faith are not religious words but words like faith, love, mercy, repentance, and obedience.

3. Religion nevertheless is a necessary accompaniment to the Church's existence because Christ set his seal upon religion by participation and involvement in it, and Christ by his institution of sacramental rites made religion inseparable from the Christian faith.... True Religion, that is.

If we think of true religion as that part of the church's life which enables us to express and deepen the heroic faith, which is finding God in suffering and assists us in passing beyond words into wordless contemplation, then it is only fitting that we should desire true religion so that we may serve Him better.

There is truth in the statement that "religion is the enemy of the Christian Faith". It is an enemy because it is so dangerous. The believer can become so caught up in the institutional side of the church, that he serves it and not the living Lord. But if the religion of the church helps us to follow the way of our crucified Lord...

The View From Stained Glass Window

By Rev. David Strang

E. E. Cummings described more than "the Cambridge ladies" when he wrote that people "who live in furnished souls are unbeautiful and have comfortable minds."

There are too many comfortable minds around today. Comfortable minds belong to people who don't want to be bothered--by anything. Comfortable minds want to be sheltered from anything that even threatens to stone the status quo.

Comfortable minds scour newstands and high school reading lists to assure that we are not corrupted. Comfortable minds still refuse to confront the reality of the racial crisis in our country--which means that we may look forward to another summer of discontent.

Comfortable minds can't open their ears to hear the dissenters in our "great society", the people who question the value of our wars and moon races and poverty programs.

Comfortable minds never ask why teens rebel and college kids revolt. They think that all we have to do is take away the kids' cycles and long hair and everything will return to glorious normal again.

There are too many comfortable minds -- and so, with the hope that we may someday grow to become a more human and honest and realistic people, the church has a new task. It must not only comfort the afflicted, which has been its more traditional job, it must also afflict the comfortable.

This is not a new role for the church, however. Not when you realize that the church's boss is the Jesus who has always bugged people. After all, no one gets hung on a cross for being a pollyanna.

It's not that the church wants to shock people, or turn them away, it's just that we can't go on much longer believing that all of our problems will disappear by themselves.

Presbyterians To Discuss Sex Education

The First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 701 Church Street, is sponsoring a discussion "Questions Children Ask Parents About Sex" April 26 at 8:15 p.m. Dr. Wallace F. Watt, research sociologist, will lead the group discussion following a film produced by Wayne State University. Dr. Watt has had vast experience leading such parent groups as a part of his work as Educational Consultant with the Michigan Mental Health Department.

appear by themselves. We need to have the sleep rubbed out of our eyes so that we can see what is really happening around us.

Don't be surprised then if, when you go to church sometime, you don't leave with the sweet, rosy feeling you thought you went for. Don't be surprised if some preacher reminds you that there isn't much room in our society today for comfortable minds.

We either have to shake off our phony comfort so that we can understand where our participation is needed as we try to give order to the chaos of our society, or we will find ourselves being dead citizens of what T.S. Elliot calls "an age which advances progressively backwards."

Seminaries Vision Many Changes In Training

A theological complex, now being built, will house seminarians of different faiths, and hold inter-changeable classes. According to Keith Davis, a student at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago, this complex, also located in Chicago, is the first of its kind.

Mr. Davis was in Plymouth last week, visiting the Rev. and Mrs. David Strang of Greenbriar Lane. While here Mr. Davis described this new idea in religious training.

1. Christianity is not concerned with feelings about God, but with God Himself. Here again, the Church-goer often conveys to others that the Christian deals in sentimental jargon, music, and pious phrases, instead of righteousness of God.

2. Christianity is concerned with the relationships of individuals and the community to the person of the risen Christ and not intellectual propositions about Him. An Archbishop of Canterbury is quoted as saying: "I would trade all the priests in my diocese who know about God, for one priest who KNOWS God!"

And so, there is an aspect of the Christian faith in which religion has no place. We could agree with some of the theologians who say that a mature

First let me say: it is possible to describe the Christian faith accurately and in accordance with the Bible without using the word "religion". The word religion only occurs a few times in our English versions of the New Testament. The words common to the Bible in describing the Christian faith are: faith, love, repentance, and obedience. We should not therefore be unfaithful to the Bible if we never used the word religion to describe our fundamental Christian concerns.

Before I speak about the place of religion in the Christian endeavor, I would like to make a few general comments about the nature of the Christian faith.

1. Christianity is concerned chiefly with unselfish adoration of God and the service of humanity. We, who are Christians, too often convey to others that we are more concerned with the efficient running of our local parish than we are about the implications of being a Christian in the world. If we are going to be true to Christ we must be more concerned

Errors

Errors in arithmetic made on business income tax returns have slowed down processing for 3,704 corporations in Michigan and the four other states in the Central Region of the Internal Revenue Service, A. M. Stoepler, IRS District Director, for Michigan said.

returns that contain errors or are incomplete have to be set aside and corrected manually. "This makes processing less efficient and will delay any refund a taxpayer is expecting," he said.

All business and individual returns filed by Michigan taxpayers this year are being processed by computers installed by IRS in its automatic data processing (ADP) system.

Under the IRS computer system, information from tax returns is transcribed from the returns to punched cards and then to magnetic tape. Utilizing the tremendous speed and efficiency of the computers, returns with possible errors can be more effectively identified, permitting a more systematic classification for audit examination.

The arithmetic on business returns filed is verified by computer and errors were found in both the government's favor as well as in the taxpayers', Mr. Stoepler said.

Failure to include an Employer Identification number, or the listing of an inaccurate number, has slowed the processing of 1,218 business returns received so far by the IRS service center at Cincinnati.

Most corporate taxpayers are furnished pre-addressed income tax forms which contain the name, address and employer identification number as they appear in the IRS business master file. "These labeled returns should be used for

Kensington Opens Its Boat Ramps

Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford has opened its two boat launching ramps. The 1,200 acre Kent Lake in the park is one of the most popular fishing and boating sites in southeastern Michigan. Crappies, bluegills, bass and panfish inhabit the lake.

Six boats may be launched at the East Launching Ramp, where there is space for 60 cars and trailers and additional parking for cars only. The West Launching site has space for 125 cars and trailers with six to eight launchings available at one time at the 120-foot ramp.

There is no charge for launching. However, boat launching permits are required and these are available without charge at the park office. The permits are good for the 1967 season. There is a 10 mile per hour speed limit and there is no water skiing permitted. Launching hours are 8 a.m. to dusk.

Trailers, cars and boats are not permitted to remain in Kensington Park overnight, except for boats in slip rental spaces. Boat rentals supplied by the park will be available starting Wed., May 3.

Because of highway construction along the I-96 (Grand River) Freeway near Kensington Park visitors should use the Milford Rd. exit ramp.

any error on the label it should be lightly ruled out and the correct information entered. If the pre-addressed return is correct but is not used, Mr. Stoepler said, the taxpayer's name, address and identifying number should be entered in the appropriate spaces on a blank return—exactly as shown on the pre-addressed return. Even a slight discrepancy creates a problem in the automatic processing cycle. And if a name is misspelled or digits in an identification number are transposed, accurate posting to the master file account must be made by slower and more expensive manual methods after Mr. Stoepler said. So far this year, a total of 2,483 business returns filed at the IRS service center in Cincinnati had to be set aside for this reason. Codes and other attachments filed with are listed on page 7 of the instructions for Form 1120.

Employment tax returns received without all the required depositary receipts has slowed the processing of some 2,631 business returns filed so far with the IRS Central Region Service Center. Mr. Stoepler said returns cannot be processed without these receipts since they show the taxes employers have withheld from payrolls and paid to the government.

the tax return. "One of the major errors being made by corporations this year is the failure to include the business code number for the principal business activity or the use of an incorrect one," Mr. Stoepler said. Mr. Stoepler said returns cannot be processed without these receipts since they show the taxes employers have withheld from payrolls and paid to the government.

Lack of Hitting Power Costly

Three Errors Help to Ruin Rocks' Home Opener

Combining three errors and four hits for three runs, Dearborn High turned Plymouth High's baseball opener into a 5 to 2 defeat. It was the second straight loss for the Rocks who tallied twice in the fourth and went scoreless the remainder of the seven innings.

Plymouth has two games on this week's schedule, tangling with Bentley in Livonia on Monday afternoon (April 24) and then entertaining Belleville (April 27) on Thursday in the first home game in the Suburban Six League.

Coach Frank Fisher is looking for more hitting power from his club which was limited to three hits by pitcher George Lowrey, one a home run by pitcher Pat Williams in the fourth with one aboard. That accounted for both of the Plymouth scores.

Dave Prochazka was hit by a pitched ball with one out in the fourth. Williams followed with his long belt to circle the bases behind Prochazka.

That was all of the scoring for the Rocks who saw Lowrey strike out nine and allow only two others to reach base. Williams tripled to open the second and was left stranded as Lowrey threw out Dan Camp and fanned Rick Fillmore and Jack Bauman. Fillmore singled with one out in the seventh and was promptly wiped out by a double play that ended the game.

Meanwhile, the visitors hopped on Williams for the three big runs in the fourth and added two runs in the sixth.

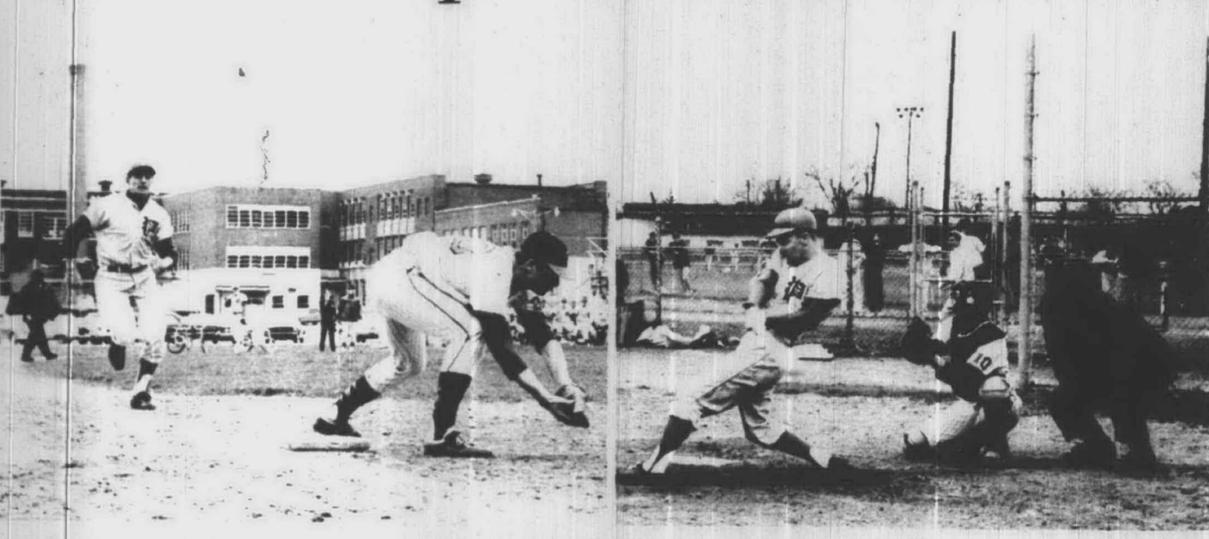

It was a mixture of errors and hits that netted the three scores. L. Wright was safe on Ken Olds' boot. D. Murphy doubled, scoring Wright. Barry Insaude singled and Murphy tallied. Jim Dowdite forced Insaude at second and went all the way to third on Olds' wild throw. Jim Bayster fanned but Lowrey singled, scoring Dowdite and raced to third on Dan Camp's error. That ended the scoring.

Dearborn broke through with two more counters in the sixth when Lowrey was safe as John Bida muffed his long fly. He scampered across on Bob Buzby's single.

Buzby went to second on a wild relay to the plate by Jim Beachum from right field. John Walker was hit by a pitched ball. Both Buzby and Walker advanced on a passed ball and then the former scored as a second ball eluded catcher Jack Bauman.

That was all of the scoring for the afternoon.

Dearborn had two men on in the seventh with one out when Williams bore down and fanned Dowdite and Bayster to end the inning.

Boy Who Doesn't Play Wins Caddie Honors

The president of Plymouth High School's Varsity Club, a two-year football letterman, this week was awarded a four-year college scholarship related to a sport he doesn't even play.

Sam Callan, 17, was selected for a coveted Chick Evans scholarship by the Golf Association of Michigan and was one of only 31 Michigan winners announced by George H. Webb, chairman of the GAM's caddie-scholarship committee. Sam may be the only non-golfer among them.

However, athletic participation has nothing to do with selection of Evans scholars although the Evans Scholars Foundation is administered by the Western Golf Association.

Scholarships are restricted to caddies of GAM member clubs, but that's as far as sports overtones go. Financial support for the program comes from golfers, and since 1948 the GAM has chosen 424 boys for these awards.

Each scholarship is valued in excess of $3,000.

Sam is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray A. Callan, 15050 Bradner Rd., and will be graduated from high school in June. In August he will enroll at the University of Michigan as a pre-medical student.

He has lettered for Plymouth the last two seasons as a football center, is manager of the track team, and also has won Eagle Scout honors. He qualified for the Evans competition after caddying the last three years at Meadowbrook Country Club, and ranks in the upper quarter of his graduating class.

Old Sport's Musings

BY ARTEE

Heartened by the performances of his trackmen in the opening meet of the season against Trenton—first test of the Suburban Six League competition—Coach Keith Baughman, who never is optimistic at any time, had a bit of a smile as he recapped the performances of his squad.

"Track is the one sport in which a coach never cuts the squad," said Baughman. "There is little glory and the boys face long hours of practice for a few minutes of competition. We never have a squad as large as one should expect from a high school with the enrollment of Plymouth High but the boys that do report are dedicated.

"They want to win—they want to improve—they're willing to make sacrifices during the track season to get in the best possible shape. That's why it takes so much courage to stick with a track squad from start to finish. The crowds are small. There isn't the large cheering section as for football and basketball but the boys work just as hard.

"Personally, I believe the present squad, small as it is, has more spirit than any I have coached in a long time. These boys want to win and it hurts them tremendously when they don't. For that reason, I believe we will have a good season but I don't believe we have enough to even be a contender for the league championship."

Contrary to Baughman's words, the performances of several of the lads indicate they will be contenders for individual titles if they continue to improve.

Dave Derr, for a prime example, won three firsts in the season opener. He took the high jump, high and low hurdles. Granted that his height in the high jump and his times in the two hurdles were the fastest of the year, the mere fact that he did win three events speaks well for itself. With improvement, he could be well up with the leaders in all three before the end of the year.

More impressive were Doug Bates in the Mile and Bruce Cavender in the half-mile.

Generally speaking, any high school miler who is clocked around 4:50 in his first meet is considered as better than average. In most cases, those who are under 4:50 have been competing during the indoor season at the relay meets.

Doug's clocking is far from being the state's best for a schoolboy runner but it does make one realize that he has the potentiality of shaving quite a few seconds. Perhaps enough to become the best miler in the Suburban Six.

Cavender was equally as impressive with his 2:03.2 half-mile. Again there are many others in the state that have done much better but any high school runner capable of that clocking in the opening meet, over a slow track and adverse weather conditions has the makings of a good one.

Ken Evans, a long-legged two-miler and that's where long legs come in handy, looked every bit the part of a potential league champion with his easy victory. Ken was content to stay off the pace for the first half while an energetic Trenton runner set a sizzling pace—too sizzling for he finished a distant last.

But Ken moved to the front on the third lap and just kept pulling away—he almost lapped the fifth and sixth runners. And in the two-mile run that means a distance of 440-yards.

Theater, Music and Art

Derr Stars As Rocks Gain Track Victory

Paced by the performance of Dave Derr, who won three events, Plymouth High's track team opened the 1967 season on a winning note when it whipped Trenton, 65-49.

The opener, on the familiar confines of the Plymouth High athletic field, was run off on a capricious spring day, marked with sunshine, showers, and high winds that changed the condition of the track constantly.

Derr, a holdover from last year, captured the high jump, high and low hurdles for 15 points. All told, the Rocks won 10 of the 14 events to thoroughly whip a team that beat them a year ago.

Coach Keith Baughman generally was satisfied with the showing of his team which was making its season debut after one week of work outdoors and less than two indoors.

"We did quite well, considering the length of time we had to prepare," he said. "Generally speaking, I believe we won because we were in slightly better condition. I know from past experience that some of the Trenton runners, who finished back this time, will be contenders for league championships at the end of the season."

Baughman was a bit disgusted with his pole vaulters and indicated that plenty of work would be done in that department.

It was the work of Tom Elias, who heaved the shot 49'9" in his first competition; Doug Bates in the mile and Bruce Cavender in the half-mile that brought smiles from Baughman.

Bates covered the four laps around the quarter-mile track in a scintillating 4:51.6. This was a remarkable feat under the existing conditions, in his first test of the year. Baughman believes he'll trim that clocking by several seconds once the weather warms up and the track becomes hard and fast.

Cavender was equally as impressive in the half-mile where he outdistanced his competition

Oakland University's sparkling hit, the Meadow Brook Music Festival, bears real promise of topping its own remarkable record for quality and excitement in the summer ahead.

Plans for the 1967 event, June 29 through August 20, call for a "new look" eight-week season available to subscribers in two 4-week programs, a roster of soloists, guest conductors, and repertoire of a stature rarely presented on one series.

Sixteen Ehrling will conduct the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in 22 of the 32 scheduled concerts. Four concerts each will be conducted by Charles Munch, former Boston Symphony director, and Hiroyuki Iwaki, noted Japanese conductor appearing for the first time in the United States in a guest role. Robert Shaw, head of the Meadow Brook School of Music choral and orchestral programs, will appear on the series for two performances.

All performances will be in the acoustical marvel which is the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion. Concerts will be presented Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m., Sundays at 6:30 p.m. Festival subscribers will be admitted free to five student orchestra concerts conducted by Robert Shaw the Wednesday evenings July 5 through August 2.

Instrumental soloists will include pianists Vladimir Ashkenazy, Van Cliburn, Misha Dichter, and Nicole Henriot-Schweitzer; violinists James Oliver Buswell IV, Itzhak Perlman, and Gordon Staples; Allen Chase, trombone; and Arthur Krehbiel, French horn.

be hostesses for the event.

The art show is scheduled from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

In just ten weeks, on June 29, the fabulous Meadow Brook Music Festival will open its fourth season in Oakland University's gorgeous sylvan setting of the famed sound, the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion. The word from Mrs. James O. Wright, who serves with her husband, as general chairman of the glamorous event, is sell-out for sure. Plans for the series call for a "new look" eight week season available to subscribers in two 4-week programs, a roster of solists, guest conductors, and repertoire of a calibre rarely offered on a single series. The list of artists reads like a Who's Who of talent with such greats appearing with Sixteen Ehrling's Detroit Symphony Orchestra; Charles Munch, Van Cliburn, Jan Peerce, Vladimir Ashkenazy, Robert Shaw, Jane Marsh and eleven others.

Concerts will be presented Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. Sundays at 6:30 p.m. Subscribers will also receive a special bonus gift of five student orchestra concerts conducted by Shaw the Wednesday evenings of July 5 through August 2.

New Books In Library

"How to Raise Children at Home in Your Spare Time" by Marvin Gersh is a lighthearted approach to a serious problem. The author encourages parents to shed some of the anxiety they feel in their role, since tensions and fears on the part of their parents have an adverse effect on children.

Katz is an account of the reprisal by the Germans against the people of Rome during the second World War. The author had access to previously unavailable documents, and interviewed many of the people involved in the Ardeatine Massacre.

"The Art of Shaping Shrubs, Trees, and Other Plants" by Tatsuo Ishimoto shows how to achieve the best results in controlling size, appearance and health of plants, with many illustrations of the effects that can be achieved by shaping.

"The Old Callahan Place" by Elizabeth Corbett follows the lives of several generations of an Irish American family in a Chicago suburb.

"Fire Rock" by James Wood is an adventure story of the sea, and a Scottish trawler in the Arctic Circle. There is mystery and suspense here, as well as action.

"No Other Hunger" is a novel about an American living in the Far East who becomes the symbol of hatred against America, and eventually the victim of racial violence.

"Mon Cher Papa"; "Franklin and the Ladies of Paris" by Claude Anne Lopez is an account of the eight years that Benjamin Franklin spent in French society making friends for the rebellious colonists, and later helping with the peace treaty.

"Over the Mountains" by Pamela Frankau is the last volume in the trilogy "Clothes of a King's Son". During the British retreat from Dunkirk a young soldier is reported missing and killed. The effect of this news on his family and friends is the subject of the book.

— YOU ARE INVITED —

A note of explanation from Elbert Henry, minister, and a special warm and sincere invitation from the Plymouth Church of Christ.

Annually, during the last part of the month of April, fifteen churches of Christ in West Suburban Detroit engage in a cooperative effort to bring something really special for their members and area citizens. This year the Plymouth church located at 9301 Sheldon Rd. will be host church for an unusually interesting and timely subject, "Family Relationships."

All who are informed agree that the rapid deterioration of home life in America is one of the greatest tragedies of our time. This series is planned to help curb a trend that will, if unchecked, finally ruin our great nation. We feel that in this special series those who attend will at least be made more keenly aware of some of the dangers that threaten the home and will be able to avoid or, if they already exist, will be able to overcome them. Since the national divorce rate is over one in every four marriages we believe that such a program will be extremely beneficial to our community.

Mr. Roy F. Osborne of Oakland, California, is well qualified in the field of family relationships, and we at Plymouth with the active support of fourteen other churches are happy to bring him to our community.

We extend to all Plymouth and area residents a very sincere invitation to this series of lectures.

Elbert F. Henry, minister

High Sales Mark Set By Western Electric

The Western Electric Company, manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System, reported record total sales of $3.6 billion last year. According to the company's annual report, sales to the Bell System rose 5.4 percent to $2.95 billion, more than 81 percent of all sales. Sales for work requested by the United States Government totaled $564 million, an increase of $95 million. Other sales accounted for $105 million. Improved service to Bell Telephone companies and new ways to reduce costs highlighted 1966 activities. New ideas in communications developed at Bell Telephone Laboratories, were translated into dozens of products, the company said. The Touch-Tone Trimline phone, which combines the receiver, transmitter and push-buttons in an attractive hand-held instrument, went into production. Some 90,000 sets were produced at the firm's Indianapolis (Ind.) Works. Other notable consumer products that made their production line debut last year, the company said, included a compact electronic telephone switching system for business customers and a more rugged public pay phone with a single slot which accepts quarters, dimes and nickels. Western Electric again manufactured more than 50,000 different items of communications equipment for the Bell System. "Included were 8.2 million telephones, of which 1,462,000 featured Touch-Tone calling, a record 37 million conductor miles of cable and a variety of custom-made products of limited quantity needed by the telephone companies in their operations," the company said.

Sen. Kuhn Endorses Con-Con

State Senator George Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield, says he will support a legislative resolution calling for a federal constitutional convention.

Purpose of the federal con-con would be to modify U.S. Supreme Court decisions requiring "one man, one vote" reapportionment of state legislative bodies.

Ringleader of the federal con-con movement is U.S. Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois. So far, 32 states have passed resolutions asking Congress to call a federal con-con; two more are needed. Michigan could be the key state.

"I'm whole-heartedly in support," Kuhn said last week. It can pass in the State Senate, and I think we have the votes in the House."

Kuhn said a federal con-con "could get the Supreme Court out of legislative work. We need changes in the U.S. Constitution for clear lines of authority between the executive, the legislative and the judicial. The Supreme Court has usurped power."

A federal con-con would presumably be dominated by persons wanting to modify the "one man, one vote" court decisions and allow one house of a state legislature to be apportioned on a basis other than population. Rural interest favor an area basis. Any amendment proposed by a federal con-con would have to be ratified by three-fourths of the states (38 of the 50).

Dirksen chose the federal con-con path after his plans to have Congress submit a proposed constitutional amendment to the states were defeated.

State Sen. Kuhn is also author of a proposed amendment to the Michigan constitution that would eliminate the eight-man, bi-partisan Apportionment Commission.

Kuhn seeks to return the apportionment power to the Legislature.

"There isn't a better intermediate size car sold in the United States than the 1967 Rebel" says Tom McCahill, automobile expert for Mechanix Illustrated.

Tom McCahill evaluates the automobile industry for Mechanix Illustrated. Recently, he took out an SST hardtop equipped with a 343 cu. in. Typhoon V-8 for an exhaustive series of road tests. How did our Excitement Machine perform? "In roadability and performance, it would top most of the newer specialty cars. There's absolutely no plowing and little body roll. The whole feel of the car, when going over ruts or across dirt roads, is excellent." What about comfort? "It's extremely comfortable and relaxing to drive. In straight-line driving the SST is as comfortable as the Jell-O specials." How about Rebel's new four-link rear suspension? "Of all the new sporty-type cars, as they come from the showroom, Rebel has by far the best and safest suspension of the whole kit and caboodle." And the looks? "As sharp in appearance as a thousand-dollar bill. And from a cost angle, Rebel's not overpriced." This is your kind of excitement, created by American Motors. A company that has created an entire line of six-passenger Excitement Machines that give you more excitement for the money. See your American Motors/Rambler Dealer. He'll convince you the 1967 Rebel is the best intermediate built in the country today. Then do what Tom McCahill did. Take a test-drive.

Inside Information makes you a better cook!

Here's "inside information" of a brand new variety... a meat probe that has the "good sense" to know when your roast is perfectly cooked! How does it work? Simple. Into the center of the meat you put a thermostatic probe, one end of which is plugged into the oven wall; slide the roast into the oven and turn the indicator to the exact degree of doneness you want. No more peeking, prodding, or guessing... the meat probe gets the right "inside" information and then automatically shuts the oven off.

Michigan Veterans Get $200 Million

Michigan veterans and their families received a total of $229,929,343 in cash benefits and services during fiscal year 1966, the Veterans Administration reported today.

This is $8,126,519 more than the $221,803,824 distributed in the same programs the preceding year, according to Robert M. FitzGerald, Manager of VA's Regional Office in Detroit. The comparison was made from an outline of expenditures in the 1966 annual report of the VA which has just been released.

In Michigan 123,016 living veterans received service-connected disability compensation or non-service pension totaling $114,928,257. In addition, dependents of 44,259 deceased veterans received $36,448,074.

The combined $151,376,331 last year compared with $143,971,352 in 1965 and reflects increases approved by Congress, Mr. FitzGerald explained. Total beneficiaries in 1966 increased from 166,915 in 1965 to 167,275.

GI insurance dividend and indemnity payments last year totaled $22,923,393 while in 1965 they were $33,594,713. Impact of the new GI Bill was not reflected in the report, Mr. FitzGerald said, in listing totals for veteran education and training along with vocational training for disabled veterans. An average of 173 disabled veterans daily received specialized assistance costing $886,997.

For the first time the report did not take note of GI trainees under the World War II and the Korean GI Bills, since most of these trainees have exhausted their entitlement. The report does show, however, that a daily average of 357 sons and daughters of deceased totally disabled veterans went to school in Michigan with VA assistance. Smaller benefits programs accounted for another $2,484,585. Assistance to seriously disabled veterans in obtaining cars cost $65,295; housing suitable for paraplegics accounted for $340,000 and direct loans to veterans unable to obtain home financing totaled $2,179,290.

A total of $144,030 was spent on construction and maintenance of five veterans' hospitals in the state.

Goodfellows Seek New Members

Plymouth Goodfellows, who promise every year that there will be no child without a Christmas, are now recruiting new members.

Those interested in joining may come to a meeting May 17 at 7:30 in the fire station or contact the fire station for information.

Many of the present members have moved and some are getting too old to stand on their street corners and sell the annual Goodfellow newspapers, according to George Schoeneman.

"We also need to get a little new blood into the group," Schoeneman said. "The only requirement is that members must be at least 21 years old."

By having more members in the group the Goodfellows will be able to rotate the men's selling papers and possibly cover more corners.

"We will also need men for delivery and investigating work, too," he said.

Jack Fogt On Cruise With Reserve

Forty-two Naval Reservists, including one from Plymouth, sailed this weekend for a two-week active duty cruise on the Great Lakes aboard the USS Amherst, a patrol craft escort whose home port is Detroit.

Reservists will participate in gunnery, navigation and engineering exercises with three other Naval Reserve training ships as part of the annual two-week active duty requirement. Among members of the unit is Jack V. Fogt, 41535 Lindsay Dr.

Tips from the STOP & SHOP CHEF Questions & Answers

Can beef sweetbreads be used in cookery in the same way as calf's and lamb's sweetbreads?

Beef sweetbreads lack the delicacy of the veal and lamb varieties, but they can be used. They are best combined with other meats in such preparations as pies and stews.
