Those leaving the system are: David Hirth, Plymouth High; Otis McGuire, Jr., Junior High East, and James Wright, Junior High West.

New members of the faculty are:

City Readies Program For Streets

A capital improvement program that could run into thousands of dollars, is being readied by the Plymouth City Commission in answer to the claim that its work program was "deficient in planning."

Since the federal criticism was received, the program has been augmented to include an area by area report on neighborhood analysis. This has been received and the federal officials have let it be known that it is now being examined.

The next step is the complete capital improvement program and the target date to have it approved.

The target date is December 31. City Manager Richard Blodgett stated Monday afternoon "and we should have it finished well before the deadline."

While the work has just started, it was learned that the program eventually will include sidewalks, streets, parks, water improvement and sewers.

According to Blodgett, the program is to be designed for the next years, and possibly will include sidewalks (Continued on Page 8-A)

Police Chief Asks Facts On 'Dirty' Drug Story

Officials of the City of Plymouth, through Police Chief Robert Corrington, have asked Look magazine for a full statement of facts regarding the article, published in the August 8, issue, listing Plymouth as one of the drug areas in the country.

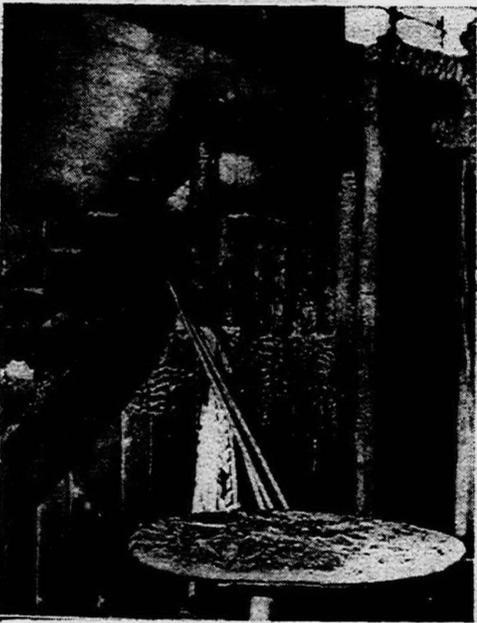

Police Chief Corrington has called the article, written by Roland H. Berg, a "scurrilous, yellow journalism in order to come up with something sensational." The Chief also has extended an invitation to the author of the article to visit Plymouth to get the true facts about which he calls a "serious drug problem."

Chief Corrington's letter:

While it is not the policy of those in my position or profession to write letters to the editor, I feel that I must take exception to a statement made in the August 8, 1967 issue of LOOK magazine.

INTERIOR OF THE Girl Scout Clubhouse, on Plymouth Road near Haggerty, was gutted in this fashion by a fire last Thursday. The two pictures show how the flames completely destroyed the inside, taking out stairways, ruining furniture and burning the once beautiful clubhouse. It was constructed by members of the Kiwanis Club and then donated to the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

The Chip Closed By Vandalism

The Chip, sponsored by the Plymouth Y.M.C.A. as a teen center for community youngsters, has been closed after two years of operation—and the teeners who benefited most are the cause. The Chip is in the community center in the rear of the City Hall on Union Street.

That's the announcement of "Y" officials who decided to close The Chip after considerable damage and destruction at last Saturday's dance.

Despite the fact that the "Y" had a director present and other adult chaperones, the teeners were guilty of tactics that have caused damage for the past several weeks.

The women's lounge was ripped apart recently and then repaired by the "Y" assisted by interested parents.

But the vandalism reached its peak last Saturday when some of those in attendance ripped out the fixtures in the men's lounge, going so far as to tear pipes from the walls.

William Townsend, "Y" Director, indicated there has been a continual trend of this nature and the "Y" no longer has the finances to continue with such expensive repairs.

"If the person or persons responsible for the latest damage wish to pay for the repairs," he said, "We would be happy to work out a settlement. We feel we need more cooperation on the part of the parents and those who attended the dances."

"Until we obtain both, it is futile to continue. This trouble is caused by a small group. It is too bad that the others have to give up their fun on Saturday night for a few."

Townsend indicated the Y.M.C.A. office will be glad to answer any questions. Call 453-2904 for additional information.

Arson Suspected ...

Scout Clubhouse Burns

A building that once was the pride and joy of the Plymouth community now is lying in ashes — and it is doubtful if it ever will be rebuilt.

It is the Girl Scout Clubhouse on the south side of Plymouth Road, near Haggerty, that has been the target of vandalism for more than a year and reached its climax with a fire that gutted the entire house last Thursday night.

To make matters even worse it is suspected that the damage was the work of arsonists.

"We are making a complete investigation of the matter," Paul Albright, Plymouth Township Safety Director commented, "but as yet have not determined the cause of the fire."

The leveling of the clubhouse adds another chapter to the unusual history of the building.

Erected by the members of the Kiwanis Club "with their own hands" more than 20 years ago, the building was a prime example of combined effort and the entire community was proud of it.

"We conducted work shops there every Tuesday evening," William Sempliner, the attorney, recalled, "and we built the building instead of having such programs as we know today. What's more, many of us worked on Saturday mornings to get the job done."

The only facets of the job that weren't done by the Kiwanis members were the laying of the water main and the building of the concrete block foundations.

"It was quite an event in those days," he continued, "and the entire area was pleased with the work that was being done for the Girl Scouts."

For years the program was one in which the Girl Scouts in Plymouth drew the benefit and the Kiwanians were elated.

Conditions changed several years ago when the Plymouth Girl Scouts had to join forces with the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council in order to qualify for participation in the United Fund. This took control of the building from Plymouth and shifted it to Ypsilanti, headquarters of the Huron Valley Council.

"It was then that interest began to lag," Sempliner explained, "because we no longer had a direct obligation to our Plymouth girls."

Under this set-up the

Worker Hurt In Cave-In

Melvin Behling, a public works employee of the City of Plymouth, was injured late Monday afternoon when he was the victim of a cave-in while working on a water tap connection at the intersection of Auburn and Junction.

Working in an excavation from seven to eight feet deep, Behling, of 44963 Cherry Hill, suddenly was trapped by cascading dirt and asphalt which pinned the lower half of his body.

Girl Scout Council holds a 25-year lease with the Kiwanians calling for payment of $1 per year. This lease still has 23 years to run.

According to Sempliner, the Girl Scout Council must pay the insurance on the contents and provide for the maintenance of the building.

And, though the Kiwanians built the building and arranged for its lease years ago, it still had to pay rent for its use when meetings were held there.

Because of the lag in interest, in comparison with the early days, the Kiwanians have paid little attention to the building. And during the past year it has become a prime target for vandalism. It was learned that damage to windows amounted to $140 during the past month, alone. Prior to that a new glass front and doors had been broken and repaired at a high cost.

The vandalism is ended now.

The building that lifted spirits so high several decades ago now lies in ruins—and possibly never will be rebuilt.

And the Huron Valley Girl Scouts will have to look for another home.

Possible Delay In School Opening Upsets Officials

The likelihood that Plymouth's new Elementary School No. 8, at Joy and Haggerty Roads, will not be able to open on time Sept. 7 drew the pointed ire of the Board of Education this week.

"We're not firm enough," said Mrs. Joanne Hulce of the contractor who had promised completion by Sept. 1.

"We should use all the leverage we can," commented Gerald J. Fischer to his colleagues in one of his final Board sessions before moving to New York City.

"For a couple of months the builders were very, very slow," admitted Plymouth's superintendent of only six weeks, James H. Rossman.

The school was scheduled to be completed in time to relieve Allen School at the eastern edge of the 54-square mile Plymouth School District of overcrowded classrooms from the first through the sixth grades.

Whether it will be ready before mid-autumn now is in doubt.

Before the Board, but without decisions as yet, are two proposals as to what to do regarding students destined to attend the as yet unnamed instructional center.

Both involve part-time attendance.

Under one plan double sessions would be held in one available wing of the new structure as soon as it is available. The first group of students would go to school from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, and the next batch of youngsters would attend from 12:15 to 4:15 p.m.

The second plan, assuming the school isn't usable at all until later in the fall, would put all students into the Allen classrooms on half-day sessions.

It's a quandary with which the Board is wrestling, but probably will not answer until Aug. 28, date of its final meeting prior to the opening of the fall semester.

Captain Plummer is a navigator at Clinton-Sherman AFB, Okla. He is a member of the Strategic Air Command, the nation's combat ready intercontinental missile and bomber force.

His wife, Louvinia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Tidwell, 589 Starkweather, Plymouth.

Schools Give Full Approval To Band Camp

Participation in a week-long "band camp" in upper Michigan was approved this week for Plymouth high school musicians by the Board of Education.

The camp will be conducted Aug. 28 through Sept. 3 at Camp Hiawatha, near Comins, 33 miles southwest of Alpena. The Board will pay half the cost of transportation for students in attendance, as well as fees for the director and his assistant.

Dr. Gary Hall Seeks School Board Berth

Dr. Gary Hall, a Plymouth dentist who was an unsuccessful candidate for the Plymouth Board of Education in 1965, became the first announced candidate this week for the vacancy soon to be created on the Board by the resignation of Gerald J. Fischer.

Dr. Hall, of 480 Lindsay, was in attendance at Monday's Board meeting, strictly in the role of a spectator, but willing to tell all listeners that he would like the interim appointment.

Fischer and his family will move to New York City some time in September when he leaves his executive position with the Ford Motor Co. to take a post with a new company.

His fellow members of the Board will have it in their own hands to name a successor of the seven-year leader, Fischer, who served as president of the Board for five of his seven years. He first was elected in 1960, then re-elected in 1964.

Although Dr. Hall openly covets the interim appointment, another name has been advanced by Chamber of Commerce forces. It is that of Neal (Doc) Fenkell, a Plymouth resident who is in charge of television production in the public relations department of the Detroit Baseball Co.

In its Monday session, the Board deferred until Aug. 28 its decision on the school district tax levy for 1968, although there appears no question but what it will remain at the same $26.95 per $1,000 of assessed valuation it was last year.

The delay was prompted because Melvin Blunk, assistant superintendent for finance, will not have the new 1967-68 operating budget ready for submission until the same date. A public hearing on the budget will be held the following night, Aug. 29.

The Board took only oblique notice of the fact that its negotiating team, charged with working out a new contract settlement with the teachers who are represented by the Plymouth Education Association, has effected an agreement which will be submitted to ratification vote Sept. 5.

Individually aware that the negotiators have reached accord, Board members were ready to consider retroactive administrator salaries when they were requested by Supt. James T. Rossman to hold off until they could talk things over in secret.

Requesting an executive session to weigh administrative finances, Rossman arbitrarily deferred action upon his own recommendation of several weeks ago which read:

"I recommend that approval be given to continue all administrative contracts at the current salary level until the bargaining with teachers is complete, then to apply the index factor and have administrative salaries retroactive to July 1, 1967."

No explanation was given for his change of heart or of the schedule.

Hot Old Time For The Bats Chills Record

Because Ralph Bayers, 200 S. Harvey St. Plymouth, decided to rid his attic of bats, the City's 51-day record of having suffered no fire losses since June 22 went up in flames on "unlucky" Aug. 13.

Bayers set three portable lights in the attic of his home to combat the pesky bats, according to Fire Chief George Schoeneman, but a short in an electric cord ignited adjacent combustible materials.

Fire men fought the blaze for 90 minutes, confining it to the upper levels of the home, said Schoeneman. The fire started at 6:35 p.m. Sunday.

Schoolcraft Sets Plans For Fall Registration

As more than 3,000 packets mail last week, Schoolcraft of registration material for College Registrar Norman E. the fall term went into the Dunn issued a last-minute word of advice to all students who have been admitted and are planning to enroll.

"Students who do not receive their packet by Friday, Aug. 18, should contact the Registrar's Office at once," Dunn said.

The Registrar explained that while his advice was intended for all students: freshmen, sophomores, day or evening, "we are particularly interested in those sophomore students who have not yet been counseled."

The deadline for counseling, Dunn explained, is Wednesday, Aug. 23. Students who have been accepted for admission but who have not been counseled should contact the Counseling Office at the college for an appointment.

Dunn also announced another deadline for the registration period.

"Evening students who intend to register by mail must return a completed registration form and a tuition check no later than Aug. 21," Dunn said. "Returns postmarked after midnight, Aug. 21, will not be processed, and the student will have to register in person at the college."

The registration packet mailed to day student contains five items: an instruction sheet, a schedule of classes, a registration appointment slip, a car registration card, and—for male students—Selective Service information.

Registration at the college is Aug. 28 through 30. Classes for the fall term start Thursday, Aug. 31. Those who fail to register during the regular period will be charged a late registration fee, Dunn said.

College officials are expecting a record enrollment of about 4,000 for the 16-week term which ends Dec. 21.

Burglars Hit Vending Machine

Vending machines were the target of unknown thieves Saturday, August 12, who broke into and entered the Advance Stamping company at 12025 Dine.

An undetermined amount was stolen from cigarette, candy, pop and pastry machines, Redford Township Police learned upon investigation of a complaint.

The company is searching to determine if any other valuables are missing.

Now Trustees Will Search For Money

Schoolcraft Board OKs Salary Pact

Although there still remains the matter of how the additional money — an estimated $43,000 — will be raised, the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees has approved a tentative agreement with the Faculty Forum negotiating team and thus assured the opening for the fall term as scheduled in late August.

The decision to approve the tentative agreement, arranged after several lengthy sessions between the Administration and Faculty Forum negotiating teams with a mediator from the State Labor Board and a fact-finding referee, was made Sunday in a special meeting.

The agreement, which has yet to be approved by the faculty, was reached tentatively after a meeting Thursday that extended into the wee hours of the morning.

In effect, the tentative agreement calls for a pay boost of $1,000 plus the normal increment to be added to the faculty contracts of a year ago. It also provides for a sum of no more than a half or $13.50 per month will be paid by the Board on dependents insurance premium.

Money, additional insurance and classroom size were the major stumbling blocks in the negotiations which started in January and were completely bogged down up to three weeks ago.

There is still the matter of a hearing on unfair labor practices filed by the Faculty team against the Administration. It was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

With two members of the Board on vacation and five votes needed for approval of the tentative agreement, the decision was made by a 5-1 margin. Favoring the agreement were: Chairman Harold Fischer, Secretary Paul Mutnick, Trustees Mrs. Jane Moehle, Sam Hudson and William Secord with James Boswell dissenting. On vacation were Clarke Oldenburg and George Martin.

The Trustees decided to approve the agreement and then allow the matter of finding ways of getting the money for a full meeting of the Board. It will probably be the first or second session in September.

College President Dr. Eric Bradner, who joined the Administration negotiators during the past two weeks when it became apparent that the college opening would be delayed unless the negotiation deal was broken, presented the tentative agreement to the Trustees.

"We realize that this agreement may be a bit different from that which the Board authorized," he said. "However, we did discuss the possibilities in an earlier meeting with the Trustees and they informally agreed to follow the pattern of the tentative agreement."

"We on the Administration team feel this is the only means of resolving this situation. We can tell you now that the faculty won't stand for a rejection of the proposed $1,000 increase and insurance adjustment.

"This agreement was reached early Friday morning and we felt that if the college was to open on time the Board would have to ratify the agreement immediately. However we also realized that apparently there are no funds available and therefore called this special meeting to discuss funds."

Dr. Bradner presented a proposal that the Board consider a hike in tuition fees for resident and non-resident students. He proposed a 50-cent per hour boost for residents for a total increase of $8 and 75 cents for non-residents or $10.

The proposal met with varied thoughts from the Trustees, four agreeing to the package and two opposing.

Chairman Fischer (Plymouth), Secretary Mutnick (Clarenceville), Trustees Hudson (Plymouth) and Secord (Northville) favored approval of the agreement and the tuition hike. Mrs. Moehle (Plymouth) favored the contract but went on record as irrevocably opposed to any boost in the tuition rate for resident students. Boswell (Livonia) bitterly opposed both issues.

Thus in the vote for approval or denial of the agreement, the 5-1 vote included all but Boswell for pact.

In the discussion, after the motion to approve the agreement, Trustee Hudson pointed out that the Board has only four routes open to raise the necessary $43,000.

He outlined the four as: from the contingency fund, from the budget by removing several items, a vote of the electorate and by raising tuition.

The four points are expected to be the major item of discussion at the next full meeting of the Board.

The tentative agreement is as follows:

1—The sum of $1,000 plus the normal increment will be added to each of last year's faculty contracts.

2—A sum of no more than one half or $13.50 per month will be paid by the Board on dependents insurance premium.

3—The faculty load is clearly defined.

4—The cost of living demand has been dropped from the Forum demands.

5—A full definition has been made for accepted placement of new personnel.

6—The 48-week factor will be 1.25.

7—Summer and overload pay will remain as heretofore.

8—The Administration shall have the right to grant no more than three persons an experience credit up to and including seven years where necessary at its discretion. Related work experience may be equated at not more than two years credit for each three years experience.

9—Class size shall be established at no more than 32 students in any recitation section and no more than 29 in any English composition section. No teacher's assigned load shall exceed an average of 30 students per recitation section or 27 per English composition section. In computing such average, classes having 18 or less shall be excluded.

Approve Shopping Center

Rezoning to permit the construction of a multi-million dollar apartment and shopping center complex at the corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty Rds. has been approved by the Novi Village Council.

The proposed development will be located on the northwestern corner of the intersection. It is bounded on the south by Northville and Livonia and on the east by Farmington.

When completed in 1971 or 1972 the center will include a shopping center, a professional village, a motel and an apartment complex.

Richard Gabel, developer of the project, said that construction of the apartments and some of the office area is expected to begin in 1968. "We expect the entire project to be completed in five years," Gabel said noting that this would coincide with the expressway construction planned for Haggerty Rd.

The developers have promised to hold a portion of the 100-acre parcel on the southeast fringe facing Haggerty Rd. clear for the expressway for a two-year period.

The property is currently owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Walker of Novi and it was zoned for small farms.

The rezoning was opposed by Allen E. Schwartz, chairman of the board of Federal department stores, who owns 155 acres north of the property.

He told the Novi Planning Commission at a public hearing that he represented family interests that included Nate Shapero, chairman of the board of Cunningham Drug stores, who owns 80 acres to the northwest in Novi and 80 acres south across Eight Mile in Northville Township, and Jason Honigman, chairman of the board of Allied Food products (Wrigley and Packer supermarkets) who is part owner of the adjacent land.

Schwartz told the board that immediate development of the land was "premature and capricious."

College Lists Steps To Join Night Classes

Enrollment procedures for persons who want to improve their job skills by taking evening courses at Schoolcraft College this fall have been announced by Director of Admissions Barbara Geil.

A number of evening courses are available to residents of the college district who are interested in job-upgrading instruction but who don't plan to enroll formally in the college.

According to Miss Geil, these students should come to the Admissions Office in the Office of Student Affairs during the 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. evening program registration period, Aug. 28 through 30.

They will complete the necessary forms and receive registration information, at this time, she said.

Wonderland Dates Jazz Ace Friday

The Warren Covington orchestra, one of the country's most popular dance bands, will be featured Friday in the second of a series of outdoor jazz concerts at Wonderland Center.

Covington's 16-man orchestra will present two 45-minute shows, one at 6:45 p.m. and the second at 9 p.m.

Recording under the Decca label, Covington's orchestras have topped the eight million in record sales. Formerly leader of the Tommy Dorsey orchestra, Covington scored overnight success with the introduction of "Tea for Two Cha-Cha."

He plays the trombone, sings, beats a hot tempo on bongo drums and arranges some of his orchestra's finest selections. Covington's recent engagements include high school and college proms, debutante parties, dances at military installations and extended engagements at leading night clubs and hotels.

Board Asks Opinion On "Conflict"

Will Schoolcraft College Trustee George Martin be guilty of conflict of interest if he votes on approval or denial of the tentative agreement between the College and the Faculty Forum?

That's the question asked by Trustees following Sunday's meeting. The Board went on record asking Attorney Edward Draugelis, its legal counsel, for an opinion.

Martin, who was elected earlier in the year as a replacement for Lee Bennett as an at-large representative, is the husband of a member of the Schoolcraft College.

It is expected that the opinion will be available well in advance of the Board meeting at which the question of raising monies for the proposed agreement and ratification will be discussed.

College Board Approves $18,927 In New Projects

Projects totaling $18,927 have been approved by trustees of Schoolcraft College. The board awarded bids totaling $6,938 for construction of a pre-fabricated greenhouse to initiate the first phase of a long-range greenhouse and arboretum project as part of the biology instruction program.

Successful bidders were Everlite Greenhouses, Inc., $3,075 for the 17x20 foot greenhouse; Thomas Robitaille, $650 for erecting the building; Mainello & Colone, $580 for footings and walls; Hov A Electric, $1,108 for electrical work; and Priest Plumbing, $1,525 for mechanical work.

The unit will be erected on a site east of the Forum classroom building and south of the Technical - Vocational Building.

Trustees also awarded a $10,200 bid to Kruse Enterprises, Inc., Detroit, for exterior and interior painting on campus buildings. It will involve every building on campus and the bell tower.

The board awarded contracts totaling $1,789 for the installation of a gas bypass control system for heating and air conditioning units in the library and the Forum.

The project involves a $1,200 contract with Erv Ehlers Co., Livonia, for installation of the systems, and a $589 contract with Honeywell, Inc., for five refrigeration units.

Fire Losses Up $1,000 From '66; July Cut Rate

Fire losses in the City of Plymouth were almost $1,000 heavier for the first seven months of 1967 than for the comparable period of 1966 despite a perfect "zero record" for July. Fire Chief George Schoenneman reported this week.

Damage from Jan. 1 through July 31 was pegged at $5,164 against $4,191 for the same seven-month span a year ago.

Schoenneman said that in his nearly 20 years as a member of the department the city had escaped completely without loss during a given month on only a handful of occasions. July was one of them.

Although the City registered 196 runs for seven months in contrast of 178 last year, there was a sharp decrease in the actual number of fires from 74 to 49.

The increase in the total runs was attributable to a greater number of rescue, emergency and investigative calls.

Schoenneman's goal is to reduce the year-end fire loss from the $31,540 figure posted in 1966. This was down from $47,475 in 1965, but to maintain the trend demands constant vigilance on the part of everyone in the community, he said.

The fire chief listed these five principal causes of fires which have occurred in Plymouth:

Careless smoking, children playing with matches, careless burning of rubbish, faulty heating units and automobile fires caused by driving with the "breather" removed from the carburetor.

Board Lets Contract For High School

The contract for Livonia's fourth senior high school has gone to the low bidder at a cost, less some supplementary equipment, of $7,329,021.

When all contracts have been let the total cost of the structure will be about the $7,700,000 figure estimated last week by the board. Equipment will cost another $1,000,000.

The board gave the architectural construction contract to F. W. Fordon Co. for $4,568,300—the lowest of four bids submitted, but all within reasonable range. The mechanical contract went to Zoni and McGuire, at $1,811,413, and the electrical bid of County Electric Co. at $949,308 was accepted.

Held up pending further study of requirements was supplementary equipment, mostly folding partitions, at bid of $288,535. The total cost could be $7,617,556, Supt. Benton Yates told the board.

Work on the structure at

Joy Road at Newburgh is expected to start soon with the building time to consume about two years.

The buildings, when completed, is expected to be "the last word" in school accommodations.

It's Back To School As Playtime Ends

School time is catching up with Livonia kids. Organized play time is about over. It is back to books the Wednesday after Labor Day, which is just around the September corner, or Sept. 6. But John T. Dufour, superintendent of parks and recreation, said Livonia youth had made the most of a cool and comfortable summer.

Western Does Its Part In Emergency

After moving into Detroit's riot torn streets last week federal troops were required to establish emergency telephone communications through Autovon. With military command units throughout the country Autovon is a nationwide telephone network which provides direct calling from any military base in the country to any other.

Priorities are built into the system so that emergency calls like those from Detroit's riot area may preempt those of less importance.

Western Electric's Distributing House in Plymouth was called on to provide essential telephone equipment for cutting in the emergency Autovon service.

Elmer Hedlund, service manager at the Distributing House reported a call for supplies came from the Michigan Telephone Company early in the morning on July 25. Much of the equipment was not available in the Michigan House, so orders were placed to Western Electric Plants in Columbus, O.; Shreveport, La.; Kearny, N.J.; Merrimack Valley, Mass.; and Winston Salem, N.C.

The equipment was loaded aboard planes at each of the five locations and dispatched to Detroit. At the same time material from the House was being readied for later consolidation with factory shipments.

All items became available at Plymouth by midnight for military transport into the city of Detroit.

Attendance at playgrounds, in athletics and at Livonia Youth, Inc. functions was the highest ever.

Breaking all records, the LYI attracted 45,000 youths to the seven-week programs—an average of above 5,000 a week. Cooperating were the Department of Parks and Recreation, which provided supervisors and helped finance the activities, and the Board of Education, which provided facilities in the schools for dancers attracted by good bands. More than 1,000 attended the windup dance at Bentley High School, Dufour said.

The department's tennis program also was a summer attraction, with big participation keeping courts in constant use. So were swimming pools, despite generally cool weather.

Seven ball diamonds were in use, and last week girls teams played their final softball tournaments.

But the week saw a general windup of organized play with grounds, courts and facilities still available until school bells ring.

Dufour said attendance was cut considerably late in the program because of the Detroit riots, and the fear of parents to permit children to visit the play facilities without escort. Many parents provided delivery and pickup services, he said.

But generally, Dufour said, it was a healthy summer season outdoors, for Livonia's younger—and older—generations.

Driver Gets 90 Days On License Count

Charged with his fourth violation of driving an automobile while his driver's license was suspended, a 20-year-old Plymouth youth drew a 90-term in the Detroit House of Correction this week from Municipal Judge Dunbar Davis.

charge still are pending. Judge Davis also passed judgment on two other cases this week:

Detroit Fined $50

A Detroit man has been fined $50 for careless driving in Livonia.

Police officers reported that Greenwood was going east on Plymouth Road and the front of his car bounced up and down as if he was accelerating and braking in rapid succession. Greenwood also drove abruptly to the right without signaling and at a speed too high for traffic conditions.

James Russell Hoffman, 450 Blunk St., was booked by Plymouth police Aug. 10 for driving without a license, and Judge Davis passed sentence after hearing the man's plea of guilty. Hoffman's three other cases on the same John Lee Aton, 1558 Brookline, Plymouth, was fined $50 for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 35 miles-per-hour zone on Plymouth Rd.

Roy Isbell, 881 Hartsough, was fined $35 and $5 costs on a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place.

"We are on a program now of cleaning sewers," the City Manager pointed out. "It is possible that some of them may be found deficient. In that case new sewers will have to be built and they will be placed on the program."

It also has been hinted from time to time that a new well may be needed for the water system and that it will be placed on the program.

Parks also have been a problem. Kellogg Park has been studied for years and while many plans have been designed, little in an official manner has been done.

"It's going to be a big job," Blodgett continued, "and it certainly will cost a lot of money."

"Our main concern at the moment is listing the things that are needed — or what we think will be needed during the next six years, putting an estimated price on them and arranging a priority system."

He also let it be known that the federal authorities are satisfied with the proposed December 31 target date.

Issues Thanks For Riot Aid

Ten pick-up truckloads of food and clothing were taken to Detroit from the Plymouth Secretary of State's office.

According to local branch manager, Robert Dwyer, many people donated, and even more helped collect. In addition to the food and clothing, $225 was donated according to Dwyer, who issued a note of thanks to the community for gifts for victims of the riots.

You've got to get it on your own.

It can't really be taught. You don't learn it by reading. You've got to build it by doing. To build character is hard and sometimes lonely. But when you get it, it's beyond price.

- Honesty.
- Concern for people.
- Punctuality.
- Ability to make decisions.
- Accuracy.
- Standing on your two feet.

These are a few of the things that your Observer newspaper boy is learning. He's in business for himself, holding down the first job in his life.

We can't guarantee he'll learn this way . . . But it's an awfully good way to start.

C'ville Fills Football, Track Posts

Ralph Weddle, a highly successful prep coach in South Dakota, has been named head football and basketball mentor at Clarenceville High, succeeding Ralph Temby and Gene Scholes.

Weddle boasts a record of 60 wins, 10 losses and two ties in eight years of football and 164 victories and 36 defeats during the same period in basketball. His football and basketball teams have rated among the top 10 in that state for the past five years.

In another coaching assignment, John Flaminio was hired as track and cross country coach. He replaces Tempy in track and Al Korpi in cross country.

Flaminio is a graduate of Western Michigan University where he starred in track and cross country. He was a member of two NCAA cross country championship teams and was captain in his senior year.

While completing work on his Masters degree at WMU, Flaminio coached Kalamazoo College's track and cross country team to second place finishes in the MIAA Conference.

PHS Senior Sue Beyer Finds Life Different In Germany

(The following letter was received from Sue Beyer, who will be a senior at Plymouth High School this fall after her stay in Germany. Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beyer of North Mill Street and a member of St. Peter's Lutheran Church.)

I wanted to write a letter to the paper so I could share this great experience of being in Germany. I'm living here in Ahlhorn for the summer through the Youth for Understanding organization.

It's really hard to believe that Germany is so far away when my flight took only eight hours.

The first day and night here were spent in Hamburg, where each student received information on how to get to his destination. The only trouble was that we were unable to take our suitcase to the youth hostel we stayed in. The next day nobody felt very awake or clean. I took a train from Hamburg to Bremen and there I met my German parents.

Vati, my German father, is an engineer of road construction in Oldenburg. As a hobby he designs houses and has designed the house of a friend, who also has an exchange student for the summer.

Mutti, my German mother, keeps a huge garden in our backyard. She grows just about all of the vegetables and fruits that we eat. I also have a sister, Monika, 15, who is going to live in Flint for a year as an exchange student. I have two brothers, Hans-Georg, 13, and Dirk, 6.

Ahlhorn is a small town southwest of Bremen and south of Oldenburg. There is also another American, Carolyn Rowe from Portland, Mich., staying here in Ahlhorn. Her German family and mine are very good friends, so we do most everything together. She has two sisters; Sabine, 5, and Susie, 3.

Last weekend Carolyn and I took a bus to Bremen and there we met Karen Shultz, who is also from Plymouth. We walked all through Bremen and saw many of the old beautiful churches and old buildings. Most of these buildings are 200 years old.

Monika, Carolyn and I have been doing a lot of traveling and staying with Monika's relatives. We stayed in Brake on the Weser River for five days with Monika's aunt and uncle. We took a big ship up to the island, Hegoland, in the North Sea.

The next weekend we went to Holland with Carolyn's parents. We stayed in a resort town on the Atlantic Ocean. It is funny the way that countries are so different even though they are so close.

The first two days that I was here, I went to school with Monika. Their school is very different from our high school. The teachers move from one class to another instead of the students. Any activities in the school are done only within each separate class.

At the end of each year there is a dance for the students who have passed the abitur. The abitur is an exam given after 13 years in school . . . The students who pass it can go on to a university or can get a job.

It was very interesting for me because the dances are so different. At dances, everyone is very dressed up and the parents went to this particular dance.

Most of the German customs are so different at first but now they seem so natural to me. Everytime Germans meet a person they shake hands with him. Germans keep doors shut to every room in the house. Their big meal is always at noon. Then they have bread and cold meat in the evening.

Everyone does a lot of walking and bike riding. All of the people that I have met are so friendly and are always trying to be helpful. Most people are very happy to speak English to Americans, but some are too shy to speak.

Children have to take English in school and they start, much younger than the ninth grade, with a foreign language. Monika, my sister, is two years younger than I; yet she has taken six years of English already. Most older people have not learned English, but they are very patient and try to understand my German. The German I have had, though little, has come in very handy.

I think I owe a lot of thanks to the Covington family, to pastor Norman Berg and Mrs. Brigitte Rauer, my German teacher, for writing recommendations for me to come. And even more so, my thanks and love to my parents for giving me the okay to go and for all their help in getting me ready.

Germany is a beautiful country and I just love it here. I hope someday I can return, and I only wish that everyone could see this country and get to know its people as I have.

Sincerely
Sue Beyer

Power Tools Become Portable With New Tool Converter

Time was when a "home" was that cute little vine-covered cottage of your dreams. Now home handymen are making it much more, by adding such "extras" as a garage for the second car, a tree house for the children and a charming fence for privacy.

Modern power tools have made it possible for the homeowner to become his own contractor. But, in many instances, the outdoor jobs have posed special problems because the power tools could go only where there was power — and that means not far from an electrical outlet.

So, unhappy men have been cutting wood in the workshop and lugging the elements out for assembly. Finishing tools like electric sanders and planes have been left behind in favor of hand equipment because the "cord just isn't long enough."

Now the home handyman has a way of taking his power tools with him when his projects take him away from the wall outlet. The restrictions imposed by electric cords have been cut by a device called the "Power Tool Converter" developed by Dynamic Instrument Corp., of Plainview, N.Y.

This new unit steps up the power from a common 12-volt car or tractor battery to the 120 volts needed to run a power tool. The "Tool Converter" provides a full thrust of power, avoiding the drawback of the standard battery operated tool — an inability to provide the starting surge necessary to get the tool spinning.

It will power any universal or DC motor, and comes in standard and heavy duty models. The standard model will power any tool rated up to 4.5 amperes, while the heavy duty "Tool Converter" powers tools rated up to 12 amperes. In practice, the standard model will power drills, shears, hedge clippers and other common tools, while the heavy-duty version will run saws and other large tools.

If the capacity of the unit is exceeded or the tool stalls, an automatic circuit breaker shuts off the power. It can be reset by the flip of a toggle.

The "Tool Converter" also offers assistance when the project is finishing an attic or repairing a roof. The battery can be taken from the vehicle, moved to the task and restored when the job is completed.

New Electric Broom Does Many Jobs Well

A stitch in time saves nine as the old saying goes and as every good homemaker knows. And so does a little regular vacuum sweeping save a lot of heavy cleaning of floors later. Making the job a lot easier and a little less of a chore is a new all-electric powered brush vacuum sweeper.

The sweeper wears many hats, or more appropriately, "handles." The new model performs the duties of carpet sweeper, broom, dust mop and light-duty vacuum cleaner.

To keep every floor in the house in apple pie order, the new vacuum sweeper is a jewel. The lightweight, easy-to-handle sweeper does the same effective sweeping-vacuuming job on bare wood or tile floors as it does on carpeted floors. The low four-inch silhouette goes under low furniture easily. A motor driven rotary brush gently works into carpet nap loosening the dirt as it vacuums it up.

Easy, snap-out reusable paper bags eliminate messy hand cleaning of the sweeper. A new toe-touch switches power on or off. When it comes to storage, the sweeper is a space saver. A small hole in the handle permits it to be hung on a hook in the closet.

According to General Electric, the maker, a little daily sweeping with this new vacuum sweeper G-Eases the work load, helps the homemaker keep ahead of the game.

To forestall an accumulation of lint in plumbing and the resulting expensive repairs, an effective lint filter on the end of the washing machine hose can be fashioned very simply from aluminum screening. A few cents spent at a hardware store now for the rust-proof aluminum screening is the insurance against bills.

Detroit Water Unit To Show Off New Pipe

Twenty-eight tons of concrete water pipe will be displayed by the Detroit Department of Water Supply (DWS) at seven locations throughout metropolitan Detroit beginning Thursday, August 10. The 20-foot-long, eight-foot-high section of water main has been converted into a walk-through exhibit containing display panels which depict DWS activities.

The unique display will open on Campus Martius in downtown Detroit at 10 a.m. Thursday.

Keim Is Named Council Head

Earl Keim, president of Earl Keim Realty, Inc., with branch offices in Livonia and Plymouth, has been elected chairman of the Metropolitan Detroit Council of Real Estate Boards. He is also president of the Dearborn Board of Realtors.

Tower of Strength

Jim Landis, Tiger outfielder, collected five Gold Glove Awards for his defensive skill.

The Metropolitan Council represents 11 realtor boards in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe and Washtenaw counties.

Westland Softball Champs Add To Winning Ways

One defeat in five years! That's the record compiled since 1963 by the girls who comprise the softball team which represents Westland's Cooper School.

It all started out with John Hassinger coaching the girls. Their first year they won the league title and reached the township finals before losing to Annapolis.

The season of '65 saw Cooper zoom on to the township crown with a victory over Cady in the title game.

Hassinger, meantime, was promoted to the job of supervisor of playgrounds, so the girls had to find a new 30-1. The losers' only run wasn't earned.

What has to scare the opposition is that all of the Cooper girls still have another year of eligibility left.

The girls range in ages from 11-17 and players like Karen Blackney, Annette Villad, Liz Hibskey, Anne Billing and Sue Morris all have been performing regularly since 1963.

The girls even have taken their cracks at older women's teams and done well.

They take playing so seriously, they already have started working out for the 1968 season.

Livonia Fisherman Receives Bass Prize

Farmington Schools To Assess 32.4 Mills

Farmington School taxpayers will pay a total of 32.4 mills in taxes during the 1967 fiscal year.

Oakland Engineer Attends Conference

Paul Van Roekel, County Highway Engineer for the Oakland County Road Commission, will participate in the opening session of the National Conference on Highway Communication for Service and Safety in Denver, Colo. on Aug. 21-23.

Van Roekel will represent metropolitan counties and discuss the problems of communication and their magnitude encountered by motorists on freeways with special emphasis on the motorist who has experienced some difficulty or emergency.

A number of different solutions to the communication problem, some of which are being used on an experimental basis, will be studied and discussed during the conference.

Refuel Mower

Never refuel a hot engine with gasoline. Fill the gas tank before mowing or wait until it cools.

The taxes will be officially collected in the December tax bills. The levy means that residents of the school district residing in Farmington Township will pay $32.40 per each $1,000 of assessed valuation on their property.

Residents of the school district residing in West Bloomfield Township will pay 32.20 mills or $32.20 per each $1,000 of assessed valuation. The difference is due to a differential in the allocation to West Bloomfield Township from the county.

Broken down into the various segments of the tax 15 mills go for operational expense while 9 mills will be used for debt retirement. Under state law the building or debt retirement funds must be kept separate from a district's operational resources.

The 15 mills for operation have all been approved by the voters. Three separate five mill packages were approved Dec. 10, 1962, Nov. 18, 1963 and Nov. 15, 1965.

The additional 8.4 mills comes from the county. County government allocates a portion of its 15 mill levy to local school districts. These funds are paid over and above the voter approved millage.

New Knife Does Well At Picnics

Fine weather for most people means taking to the out-of-doors for picnics and patio parties.

Carefully packed sandwiches, long a staple in the American picnic basket, are giving way to the make-yourself kind, thanks in part to the debut of a battery-powered cordless automatic slicing knife.

No house-bound electric model, the new knife can go far away from home and remain fresh for yeoman slicing chores. Such a helper is the Universal by General Electric.

Placing the knife in a re-charger base overnight charges it fully. If need be, the knife can be used to slice a 21-pound turkey. But its forte at picnics is the way it slices such fine cheeses as Gruyere, Swiss and Edam and such delicatessen fare as salami, bologna, ham and pastrami.

Even hard-to-slice French bread and Pumpernickel now come out in slim even slices. Tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, and pickle slicing will pose no problems. The new cordless knife neatly shreds cabbage and lettuce for salads and slaws. And if homemade sandwiches are the order of the day after all, the knife will cut through a stack of them without mashing.

At dessert time, the cord-

Dimes Golf Tournament Planned

The second annual March of Dimes handicap golf tournament will be held in the Farmington area, Aug. 14-31.

Glen Harding, Pontiac committee chairman, said that the benefit tournament has the sanction of the USGA and that courses throughout Oakland County will be participating.

The entry fee of $1 for each golfer will be used to fight birth defects. Golfers will use a selective handicap score or "kicker" system. Each participating course will award trophies to the top man and woman golfer.

Entry cards may be obtained from league secretaries and course pro-shops. Golfers may enter as often as they desire by paying the $1 fee for each 18-hole game.

County championship play-offs will be held in September.

Club Planning Buffet-Dance

The Newburgh Swim Club, Livonia, is planning a buffet dinner dance for Sept. 9. For information, phone 464-9897.

The club held its first annual luau on Aug. 5. Brightly costumed guests danced to the music of the Mello-tones.

Five Receive Degrees At OU

Three Farmington and two Livonia students received degrees at commencement exercises Aug. 12 at Oakland University.

The Farmington residents are Mary Ann Karakashian, 32547 Chesterbrook, elementary education; Constance L. Turski, 9592 Pond Ridge, elementary education; and Pauline M. Waati, 26332 Springland, departmental honors in mathematics.

Livonia students are Judith L. Bell, 34869 Grove, departmental honors in elementary education, and Jan L. Jaworski, business administration.

OCC Students To Pick Tutors For Grade Pupils

This fall Oakland Community College students are going to recruit Oakland County high school students to act as tutors for elementary school children in the county.

Oakland Tutorial Assistance Corps (OTAC), a student volunteer organization being developed by students of Oakland Community College are planning to set up an OTAC club at different high schools in the county.

John Ash, 32145 Red Clover Court, Farmington, and president of OTAC, said that he hopes to have 1,500 tutors next school semester.

He said that the tutors main job will be helping elementary school children who have poor reading comprehension and who have lost interest in trying to read better.

"We want to make the kids realize that reading is really enjoyable and not a chore,"

Completes Course

Warrant Officer Candidate Edward V. Tola, 29, son of Nicholas J. Tola, 30905 Elevation Mile Road, Farmington, has completed a helicopter pilot course at the Army Primary Helicopter School, Ft. Wolters, Tex.

Ash said. The tutors are going to work with all elementary grades.

"It is easy to understand how a child could lack the initiative to excel in a classroom situation where competition is stressed and he feels as though it is not worth the effort," Ash said.

Ash said that if there are any parents who are interested that they should contact him in Farmington.

DRC Revives Historic Stake To Top Program For Canada

A tradition-filled stake, the Frontier, is being reviewed by the Detroit Race Course and will headline the biggest Saturday program of the early meetings.

The $15,000 added Frontier is at a mile and 70 yards for three years olds and upward. The stake is part of an exceptional program which will serve as a salute to the Canadian Centennial Celebration.

Bob Gimby, the Pied Piper of the Canadian Centennial, and The Young Canada Singers, a choral group of 25 from Toronto, will be featured in a Grandstand Show starting at 1:10 p.m.

The Young Canada Singers, directed by Lloyd Bradshaw, starred at Montreal's Expo '67 and sang for the Queen on her recent visit to Ottawa.

There is a fitting and historic tie-up between the Frontier Handicap and the special Canadian salute.

The Frontier Handicap was inaugurated in 1902 and was run at the ancient Highland Park track. Then from 1906 through 1927 it was contested at Windsor and in 1929 was run at the Devonshire track.

Some of the great stars of Thoroughbred racing history took part in the event.

The fabled Exterminator raced in the 1920 and 1921 renewals and finished third each time. Azucar, which won the first $100,000 stake in U.S. racing history, the 1935 Santa Anita Handicap, contested in the Frontier in 1937 and was third.

The Frontier winners include stars like Old Rosebud, Seven Hearts, Air Sailor, Bully Boy and Nonnie Jo.

The last running of the Frontier was in 1958. It was won by Frosty Mr., with My Night Out second and Invalidate third.

DRC Racing Director Howard Battle received 41 nominations and it is likely a full field of 12 will go to the post.

The possible starters include Stanislas, winner of the 1966 Michigan Mile; Williamston Kid, winner of the Florida Derby last year; La Quinta King, Dear Mike, Francis U., holder of the DRC track record at a mile and 70 yards. Dunham, Ramblin Road, Royal Course, B. F.'s Own, Abe's Hope and Eladio.

Robert L. Baird, who won the Frontier in 1953 with Whiffenpoof, is still active at the DRC and likely will have a mount.

There was an unusual touch added to last Saturday's DRC program when Bonny Johnny, from the stable of R. S. Reynolds, Jr., won the secondary feature.

Bonny Johnny's previous start had been in a hurdle race at Monmouth Park where he carried 140 pounds. Coming out of the race, Bonny Johnny demonstrated excellent form as he beat his stablemate, Springwood, with Jet Avenger third.

An outsider, Fine Thanks, owned by D. M. McKellar and trained by C. E. Kingland, won the $12,500 added Good Neighbor Handicap. Fine Thanks withstood a great stretch challenge from Vicki's Choice, Stash It Away and Amherst to take the victory. Larry Snyder rode the winner.

IN FRONT AGAIN: Bob Gallimore, who established a Detroit Race Course record by winning 116 races during the 1966 meeting, is making a strong bid for another riding championship. The popular 28-year-old jockey is locked in a tight duel with David Whited for the riding lead of the current meeting. Here, Gallimore shows his winning technique as he brings home Make Your Own (No. 1).

Amateur Tops Livonians In State Golf

Three Livonia golfers gained the final day's 36-hole action in the State Open Golf tournament which was won by Mike Souchak with a 283.

Tim Kitelainen, an amateur, had rounds of 75-75-78-73 for 301 to lead the Livonia contingent. Professionals Bob Kuhn and Bob McGillen each finished at 303.

Kuhn started with 78, then shot 73-78-75. McGillen began with 76, added a 75 and hit 78 on each of his last two rounds.

Two other Livonians failed to survive the midway cut. Larry Tomasino shot 77-76-153 and George Whitener 82-78-160.

Plymouth's Fred Lottg went out after counting 85-80-165, while the veteran Ed Flowers of Farmington scored a 76-84-180 for his first day of play.

Redford Seeks Tournney Spot

It's said that a team playing around .600 ball can win a major league pennant.

Redford Township's Class A club won its flag in the Greater Dearborn League this season with an astounding .800 mark.

The Townshipers captured 20 games while losing four and having one stopped because of darkness with the score tied.

As a reward for such a showing, Redford this week is contesting with River Rouge in a best-of-three series to determine which qualifies for the State American Baseball Congress championships.

The teams are to play at River Rouge Wednesday in the second game and clash Friday at Livonia's Ford Field if a third and deciding contest is required.

Redford boasted all the ingredients that make a winning team: Strong hitting, classy pitching and excellent fielding.

Rick Fisher, Don Paige and Tom Tanner handled the bulk of the pitching. Fisher won 10 and lost two. Paige had four victories and Tanner three.

When it came to hitting, consider these swatting percentages:

Gary Shafer, a product of the University of Detroit, was picked up late in the season and in the last eight games knocked the ball around at a .464 clip. He has played first base and the outfield.

Rick Harlow from Michigan State belted the ball at a .361 clip and led the team with 22 runs-batted-in. He also drilled three homers.

Keith Spicer, a University of Michigan star, finished the regular Redford campaign with a .384 average, 20 RBIs and three homers.

Bob Green, a brilliant glove man, was just as spectacular with the bat. He had a .396 mark.

Dave Woloch, who started the season down on the farm for the Detroit Tigers, hit only .238 for Redford, but he had a knack for delivering key hits in seven of the team's victories.

Robby Masson did a nifty job, too, hitting .280.

Schafer (first), Woloch (second), Masson (short) and Green (third) made up the regular Redford infield. Spicer and Harlow were regulars in the outfield. The third spot was shared by Paige, Schafer and Doug Schyck. Gary Maher and Rick Mikiel helped out in the infield while Jim Pobursky and Claude McTaggart did the catching.

Redford ended the regular season losing to Livonia's Peval McDonough, 6-5.

The Livonians rallied for three runs in the sixth inning after Shafer had put Redford in front, 5-3. Spicer was the losing pitcher in relief of Fisher.

LET'S TALK — Manager Lucky Birkett of the Phillippi Giants has a few words for Dave Paden as team prepares for the state Class D playoffs.

It's Short—but Not Sweet

Special to Observer

ALTOONA, Pa. — The bid for national baseball honors by Redford Township's Dependable HardChrome team again failed.

For the second straight year, the Townshipers were eliminated in the first two days of the All-America Boys tournament regionals.

This time it was New Orleans, which downed the Michiganders first by an 8-1, and then Milford, Mass., who sent Dependable back home by rallying for a 6-4 verdict.

Needless to say everybody connected with the Dependable team was disappointed.

"We thought we could win some games here," said Manager Al Turner.

But in New Orleans, Dependable found itself up against the 1966 runnerup to Detroit Adray Appliance and a five-time former winner in the national tournament.

Dependable went without a hit for four innings . . . made only three in the entire game.

Meantime, New Orleans jumped off to four runs in the third inning and never was in trouble thereafter. Four singles and a triple did the business.

Dependable's first hit was by Neil Kent in the fifth inning. The shutout was averted in the ninth when Reg Barringer and Mike Turner put together a pair of safeties.

The next day against Milford, Dependable had its hitting shoes on and made 10 safeties to nine for the opposition.

But Milford made its hits count off Phil Foster, whom Dependable had picked up from Midland, Mich., and Larry Ruzsas, a star from the Livonia Cardinal Decorating team.

Dependable yielded the game's first run, but tied it in the third on singles by Bob Holmes, Bill Fahey and Kent.

In the fourth Dependable took the lead when Fulton was safe on an error. Bill Holmes singled, Milford committed another error and Carl Misch delivered a sacrifice fly.

But Milford lashed out with four runs in the fifth and Dependable tried to play catch-up the rest of the way. And almost succeeded.

Kent's double and Terry Rothwell's double produced a Redford run in the fifth before Milford added its sixth and finally tally an inning later.

Then came the dramatic ninth inning. Paul Santangelo got aboard for Redford and the next three men walked to force over one run.

The bases remained jammed. There were two out.

The hitter was Rothwell, who responded with a towering smash to deep center. For a moment, it appeared that it might be a grand slam, or certainly would elude the centerfielder to permit two or three runs to score.

That wasn't to be. The outfielder leaned against the fence, hauled down the fly . . . and for Dependable it meant pack up and start the long ride back to Michigan.

Observing SPORTS

By George Maskin

It was a great way to start the day.

Gliding into the Pistons' offices (late as usual), the very efficient Kathleen Roberts said she had a call for us . . . from Detective Bill Duncan of the Garden City Police Department.

Any time the law is looking for a person, you have to quiver.

Thoughts like:

"Son Richard may have tried some drag-racing in Garden City." or—

"Did they detect us speeding through town the other evening?" or—

"Could other son Doug pulled off something which might have landed him in the jailhouse?"

Post haste we dialed off the police department number. Busy . . . busy again.

We quivered some more.

* * *

The call finally went through and Detective Duncan answered the phone.

He eased our mind instantly. All he wanted was for us to mention the fact that the Garden City Little League football registration takes place next Saturday from 9-12 a.m. at the Log Cabin in the City Park at Cherry Hill and Merriman Roads.

"Tell the boys," said Duncan, "that they must weigh between 65-125 pounds, that they'll need a $5 registration and the doctors will be present to examine them. And, say, can you get the item on page one?"

We listened . . . then mentioned to the detective that we're not the greatest booster of little league activities . . . pointing out that there are 50 to 70 teams for boys from 9-12, but by the time you get up to around the 18-20-year-old bracket, you have only a team or two left for the same community.

The detective didn't argue our point. Fact is, he had all the figures to show that we weren't harping on a subject without sound reason.

"But, wait a moment, could it be that the number of participants shrinks as the boys become more diversified?"

* * *

Big word that "diversified."

"What we, who work on little league programs, strive to do is give the boys a chance to find out what they really might like to do. And, we think, that's exactly what is happening.

"By the time boys become 13 or 14, they can see for themselves they don't have the aptitudes for sports, or maybe the skills required.

"Or, they may have discovered that they care more for working on race cars, or they like mathematics . . . or girls . . . or they'd rather make paper hats.

"Most important, it's better for these boys to be playing sports under organized conditions than to be wandering around and maybe playing baseball or football on the streets. Agree?"

Who could disagree when the law was speaking?

Garden City, we might add, is one of several local communities that now promotes junior-type football for boys. In most areas, Garden City included, they rightfully feel that games involving such boys should not be publicized.

Junior Bowlers Voted 'All-State'

Larry Ruzsas is a versatile young athlete. He's starred at Franklin high school and now has been bestowed with new honors—a place on the Michigan Youth Bowling Association's All-State team.

Ruzsas, whose strong sport suit in high school and this summer was pitching baseball, was one of six preps named on the Major Boys All-state pin team.

He carries a nifty 186 average, which was fourth best in the state. Dick Lang, 18, of East Detroit has compiled an even 200 average.

In second was Mark Surridge of Detroit, 191, with Frank Gadaletto, Lansing, fourth at 187.

Livonia's Wes Hoffman, meantime, topped the state in the prep boys class (13-14 years olds) with a fancy 162 average.

Another first in the area was turned in by Kevin Anderson of Farmington with a 158 average in the junior girls (15-16 years olds). Linda Hansen of Farmington was third in the class with 151, while Livonia's Jill Hoffman was fifth with 146.

Sue Wilson of Livonia averaged 134 to finish fourth in the prep girls category.

Other state champs: Junior boys—Doug Ivens, Kalamazoo, 185; Major Girls—Carol Freeman, Kalamazoo, 153, and Prep Girls—Sue Kalleward, Kalamazoo, 132.

This Is The Week That

... By Don Hoenshell

Take a wander through the saloons downtown some night when the amateurs are safely at home with their six-pack and telly and you'll find what makes the big city tick.

Or maybe hic.

It's like a spaghetti-eating contest. You can start anywhere and when the urge arrives to do U-turns on the freeway bedtime has come.

Start maybe at the Detroit Press Club where the house rule is wet and the martinis are dry. From 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. is problem-solving time since the mahogany is inspirational.

From this starting point it's not a terrible idea to have a guide and maybe a seeing eye dog.

Tooling up for the Odyssey also involves a thick steak for absorbency. A Prof. Greenberg at the Yale School of Alcoholic Studies said it is impossible to quaff enough beer to lose sobriety.

He is a textbook professor and never visited the laboratory.

The first stop after the steak could be the Pontchartraith Bar—not to be confused with other more elegant watering spots of the same name—just across the street from the City-County building.

There you talk city and district politics with the pros. There it is possible to meet Tom Fox.

Tom is a member of the Donahues out in the Fighting Fourteenth. You can listen for minutes to stories about the walkie-talkie convention in 1963. He can forecast the future, too, if you're willing.

Across the street again in another direction to Shannons, where you can run into a lawyer, shaken and angry at the court's treatment of his client. One more for the boulevard here and that makes four.

It's just a quick swing over to Jacoby's behind the old County building. Upstairs the friends of Father Kern hold their annual smelt fry and Congressman Jack McDonald held still downstairs to be interviewed.

For the sports crowd you could stop by at the Lindell A. C., whose former part owner was Alex Karras. When the Brothers moved the saloon from Times Square, they brought along a neighboring barber because he didn't have anyplace else to go.

The last stop in town has got to be the Blue Door, also doing business as the Fort Street Yacht Club. It's an upholstered sewer where the newspaper, television and other rascals unwind.

So unwind.

There's a pool table and a television set and more conversation than you can handle. The news here is faster than a bridge club rumor.

Then you flee back to suburbia, following the taillights.

Where the air is clearer you start to make out the center lines and it is possible to read the mile road signs.

An evening like this is recommended once in every few months or years. It's a catharsis, better than a week on your psychiatrist's couch.

Then wake up barely breathing and the numbness still in the ears.

And you know you've seen Detroit.

But if you don't want to do it this way, I don't care.

Save Trees

Dear Editor:

I read with interest an editorial in last week's newspaper on saving our trees from the devastation of bulldozers. Again this week you had a short article titled "Save That Tree."

I would like to say hoorah and why hasn't more been done about this? Or has there? I for one would like to know.

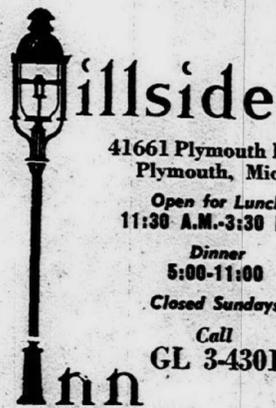

Our family moved to Livonia 11 years ago and has watched with dismay how our fair city has grown. Our subdivisions are barren wastelands.

Someone puts in a stick and calls it a tree never knowing that perhaps a magnificent forest once was the site of their property. There are not enough restrictions, so far as the builder is concerned. Trees are a valuable asset and enhance the beauty of an area. I wouldn't trade one of our oaks or maples for the biggest, fanciest homes in Livonia.

The beauty of these trees all year plus the shade during the summer makes our home a lovelier place for our family to live in.

Three cheers for the Mayor and his efforts and come on, Council members, open your eyes!

Time Is Ripe To Consider Juveniles In Same Class As Adult Criminals

One of the maddest, most illogical, most ridiculous reflections on the state of law in Michigan occurred a few weeks ago in the tragic double-murder of two young Westland sisters.

In the first week after the crime, you could catch broadcasts and metro newspaper reports telling the names of the girls, ages 8 and 6, and the grisly details of what was done to them.

You could read the names of the boys who found the bodies and, as it turned out, had reportedly witnessed the event.

You could find out the names, the facts, the figures, the details of every phase of the case—with one exception.

But you could not be told the name of the person arrested for the crime. That was because he was what the legal business calls a "juvenile," and he was therefore to be protected.

The innocent were given inferior treatment by the law.

The one whom responsible enforcement officials had reason to accuse got the protection.

The theory is that there is greater chance for rehabilitation of young offenders if they are not stigmatized by lots of "publicity" at what the lawyers consider a tender age.

The asinine lengths to which law enforcement people will go under this doctrine was illustrated by an experience this editor had when, as a cub reporter, he checked out the police on the arrest of four persons in a morals case.

It seems that the mixed quartet had been caught staying together in a hut for a few days. A girl of 18 was charged with the adult crime of something like corrupting the morals of a minor; the others, somewhat younger, went to juvenile court.

The officer at the desk routinely refused to identify the three younger persons, as expected, but he also refused to divulge the name of the 18-year-old on the ground that it could lead to the identification of the younger three.

Now a person in his middle or late teens is no kid. In fact, as anthropologists and sociologists have pointed out, the human today reaches physical and mental maturity several years earlier than a century ago. And he behaves accordingly.

In January 1966, after Lompoc, Calif. found an alarming increase in "juvenile" crime, the city administrator and police chief asked the local newspaper to publish not only the names of certain juveniles charged with crimes, but also the names of their parents. The results were praiseworthy:

★ Actual juvenile offenses fell from 899 in 1965 to 686 in 1966.

★ Offenses cleared by the arrests of juveniles dropped from 522 to 114 between those years.

★ Juveniles arrested dropped from 327 to 271, a decrease of 17.1 per cent.

Meanwhile, the statewide arrest rate for juveniles was going the other direction—up 6.6 per cent.

Overall, the number of juveniles' and parents' names published in the Lompoc newspaper was 49, suggesting that the fear of public identification was an inducement to juveniles to behave and to their parents to make them behave.

Any experienced newsman can tell you stories of guys who paid drunk driving fines without batting an eyelash but pleaded with and even tried to bribe the editor to keep their names out of the paper.

We ought to try it in Michigan.

The idea will be resisted by some of the old-fashioned permissive child psychologists.

It ought to be tried anyway.

—Tim Richard

Traffic can't get through. Or if it can, it's with difficulty. Business is off on the affected streets, and there doesn't seem to be much that anyone can do about it—except try to get the work done as fast as possible.

Businessmen complain in no uncertain terms that they can't get customers in. Customers grumble because they can't get to their regular stores.

Behind all this is something we all realize, but have done very little about: In Observerland, we have quite a new sort of civilization growing, one which is based on the automobile to a hitherto unequalled extent. It's the car culture (and that's spelled with a "c," not a "k.")

We want to buy a pound of hamburger? Hop into the car, drive to the supermarket. A new blouse for sis? Motor over to the shopping center. Kids need to go to school? Mom takes them by car, most often.

It seems as though people don't do any walking any more. Except when they're on vacation.

I SUSPECT this isn't because people are any lazier than they were 20 years ago, as some old-timers would have us believe. Rather it's because the distances people have to go to do anything are simply too far to walk.

Somebody, no matter how energetic, who lives in Garden City isn't going to walk over to Westland shopping center to buy something. He's going to drive.

Behind this development, in turn, is the simple fact that as our communities have grown, everyone assumed that people had cars, were going to be moving around in cars, and that cars were never going to be a problem.

Results: No public transportation to speak of. The three-car family. Unhappy teenagers not allowed to drive. Spread out communities, with no clearly definable city center.

THE CITY center (or downtown, if you wish) has been bugging people out here for a long time. People in Livonia or Redford look with envy at Plymouth's downtown district, and people in Westland and Garden City cast green eyes at Farmington's center along Grand River.

The thing to remember with both Plymouth's and Farmington's downtowns is that they developed many years ago, before the automobile explosion. And both are now in danger of strangulation if the parking problem isn't solved pretty soon.

IN RECENT months, there has been increased interest in planning our communities for the future and, in particular, on what to do with the downtown (or lack of it).

Livonia is thinking about a $31 million bond issue to develop the center of the city. People in Plymouth and Farmington are talking about what to do with the downtown. Westland city powers are thinking about what to do with their city, and there are a few similar stirrings in Redford Township.

All this is fine. We ought to be thinking ahead, and the sooner we do it the better off we all will be.

But, unless we start realizing what kind of culture we have in Observerland—which means a car culture—we're going to be making poor decisions which will be out-of-date before the first concrete has been poured.

We have a car culture, and the traditional version of the downtown won't satisfy the human needs of people in a car culture.

We need something new, something specifically adapted to our car culture.

Perhaps it's time for the politicians to put their ear to the ground. The rumble they'll hear is all the cars going by, together with the growls of enraged voters who feel their needs have been ignored.

Hats Off To Farmington

Farmington's third annual Founders Festival will get underway this weekend. The celebration will also highlight the year-long Centennial observance of the incorporation of the city.

Originally scheduled for July 27, 28 and 29, the Festival was postponed because of the Detroit riots.

The Festival is an event which pays particular attention to the origins and traditions of Farmington. The term of Founders Festival helps emphasize this.

The first year the Festival honored the founders of Farmington and numbered among the visiting dignitaries representatives of Farmington, N.Y., home of Farmington's original settlers.

Last year the general theme was Farmington Honors Its Own and residents who have achieved success in their chosen fields were honored.

This year's theme is Farmington On Parade. All segments of the community will be honored for their roles in the development and progress of the Farmington area.

In addition to all the high sounding phrases the Festival is a time of relaxation and enjoyment for all.

Games, indoor and outdoor dinners and dances, a beauty queen contest, a parade on Saturday and special sales all play important roles.

Beginning Thursday, (Aug. 17), the Farmington area will be hopping with activity. The events will continue both day and evening.

Behind all the hoopla and fanfare, however, lies a more serious purpose.

Like many other areas, Farmington is marked by political rivalries and tensions. The Festival offers the opportunity for cooperation between all the factions.

Members of the Greater Farmington Board of Commerce, sponsors of the Festival, term the project "community action." The term is not simply a high sounding phrase, but has an element of truth.

Whatever the purpose, residents of Observerland would find a trip to Farmington on Aug. 17, 18 or 19 enjoyable and rewarding.

People, Not Federal Aid, Key To Rebuilding Detroit

Editor:
You have asked for suggestions and thoughts concerning the rebuilding of Detroit following the riots of last week; and following are some ideas that have come to my mind, not only for Detroit, but for the metropolitan area.

First: The completely burned out areas demolish and make into parks; at least, make them lawns and trees so that the crowded areas have room to breathe. Do not rebuild into apartment, cooperative housing, or multiple dwellings.

Federal government aid will undoubtedly be needed but, I think the time has come when the "people" must do the assisting, the teaching, the rebuilding. The churches, Chamber of Commerce, service groups, business associations, business people, must have a hand in making our city and state a safe and "good" place to live, not just for a privileged few, but all, white and black.

Helping people to help themselves, must be the standard, not "hand-outs". We must teach the "haves" to teach the "have-nots". The word today I believe is "motivation". For too long now the people have wanted to have the government help them. By government help, I mean not only such things as ADC; but aids to business and support programs.

Business must take a big hand in this — big business — and particularly "little" business.

My basic suggestion is this: Let a church sponsor a Negro family from the heavily populated areas, bring them into a home in the area of the church; find them decent housing; if the family is in need of help as far as budgeting the family income, house-keeping, child care and rearing, birth control, etc., the church and individuals in that church would aid them.

Then, the Chamber of Commerce (or other community service group) could aid them in obtaining financing of their home, either renting or purchase. If the head of the household is already employed, fine. If not employed, the business of that locality could help to find him employment; or we have government agencies, now, that will retrain.

Employment, here the business owner and employer, can assist. Being a business owner and employer, myself, I know the lack of skilled help today. Many, I am sure would take over the training of an employee (without government assistance) if he could do so without the hindrance of the union (or assistance from the union in the way of a trainee program); and with the complete backing of the community, so that family, housing and transportation problems would not deter the learning and work of the employee.

The church, the civic group, the businessman, working hand in hand, could make an integrated community work.

There are classes of Negroes, just as there are classes of whites; and it is necessary that society aid and uplift all to a higher standard of living, both physically, morally and spiritually. Only through volunteer work, churches, civic organizations can this be accomplished — not by laws or by federalization.

I know that this is an idealistic solution; but after the riots of last week, we who sit out in the suburbs with our fine homes, our gardens, large lawns, swimming pools, etc., can no longer close our eyes to the needs of the inner city. Fire and destruction can destroy us all. We can no longer be complacent.

Lauds Park Drive

Editor:
I should like first to commend the civic-mindedness shown by Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. Hackney, Mrs. Cline, and others in taking time from their home duties to go up and down the streets collecting signatures from their neighbors in support of a park on the property under discussion. It seems to me that such community spirit should be rewarded and recognized for they are true leaders.

The second point I wish to make is to record my personal disappointment that no common place of recreation is planned for the youngsters and families caught in the traffic trap of Venoy, Warren, Merriman, and Ford. The playground at Maplewood School is not adequate for the present population. Kids are in their own fenced-in backyards or those of neighbors.

Today the draglines and bulldozers are working on the new 74-home subdivision across Venoy Road. Evidently, tomorrow, across Maplewood we will see apartment buildings and single-family dwellings. The day after tomorrow, adjacent to my own backyard, we will probably witness some smelly, noisy old factory going up.

I do not see much hope that our Planning Commission and our City Administration will preserve green space for office of city manager, where would we be today in developing this site for community park use?

Gerald L. Cox

Editor's Note: The above is a statement read by Mr. Cox to the Garden City Planning Commission.

The Ugly Road

Editor:
Despite the emphasis on beauty in Livonia, the contagion of action isn't there on Plymouth Road from Merriman Road to Blackburn in particular.

Accumulation of litter, weeds, broken pavements, dilapidated buildings and other eyesores along with violation of fire and health codes perhaps all are a part of this area.

At Arden and Plymouth Road a cab company holds the sidewalks. You must walk on the street. Weeds as tall as trees, beer cans and rubbish all over the place. On the opposite corner a pantry store holds forth among a jungle of assorted weeds and litter of all sorts.

If the Planning Board or the City of Livonia cannot do something to correct this situation which is deplorable then the residents may have to get some petitions prepared, for court action if necessary.

The residents of this community have given money, sweat and time to beautify this area through their Garden Club and take pride in their homes surely it isn't asking too much to ask the business people on Plymouth Road to make their contribution.

Ann Pellegrino latest example of how world has changed

By W. W. EDGAR

A WHILE AGO THE public print carried a picture of Ann Pellegrino, the young aviatrix from Saline, Michigan, sitting at her desk pondering her future and wondering how she could cope with the battle of paying debts of more than $40,000 for her recent flight around the world.

She had traveled the same route laid out some years ago for Amelia Earhart, when that famed young flyer came to grief in the pale blue yonder over the Pacific and left a puzzle that still is unsolved.

The young Michigan flyer, with visions of grandeur and a great place in the history of aviation, had chosen to fly the same type of plane, now antiquated, as Amelia Earhart flew — just to prove it could be done.

She had every reason to believe that her feat, if successful, would be hailed around the globe and that she would be feted and toasted wherever persons gather.

But, sound as her plans may have been, she overlooked one thing. She overlooked the fact that the world has changed a great deal in the years since Amelia Earhart made her ill-fated attempt.

HAD Miss Earhart succeeded, no doubt, she would have been hailed around the globe, given a real "ticker-tape parade" up Fifth Avenue in New York and she would, no doubt, have had the world at her feet.

That's what they used to do in what is referred to as "the good old day" and the days of "wonderful nonsense."

Those days are gone now. They are nothing but memories and it is difficult to have people believe that our country was once a nation of hero worshipers. They look at you with a skeptical glint in their eyes when you recall that celebrations were held on the slightest provocation—that folks fought to get close to star athletes—and that any kind of a feat that was a bit unusual called for torch light parades, ticker tape processions and all manner of celebrations.

They have reason to be skeptical, too.

Take a ride down through 12th Street, core of the recent disturbance in Detroit and look at the piles of rubble and charred buildings that will leave scars for years and stand as mute evidence of the hatred that has been built up across the land.

As you ride along, it is difficult to imagine that there was a time when the nation sat up all night, following the fortunes of an American butcher's daughter in her attempt to swim the English Channel.

Yet, that's exactly what happened. The nation went wild in the 1920's with the news that Gertrude Ederle, daughter of a Brooklyn butcher, had become the first woman to swim the channel. Her name was a household word. And, on her return, she was given a ticker tape welcome up Fifth Avenue in New York that rivaled that tendered to Gen. John J. (Black Jack) Pershing, commander of the American troops when he returned from the victorious struggles of World War I.

In her wake came Col. Charles Lindberg, first to fly solo across the Atlantic and finally, the pennant winning baseball teams, and winners of gold medals in the Olympic games.

Heroes! This nation had them. When we ran out of them, we made others in the days of flag pole sitters and gold fish swallows. Our nation was then a fun loving place.

Now, we have become more sophisticated. We have known a few years of world peace since Pearl Harbor in 1941 and, instead of feting heroes with ticker tape parades and the like, the reaction to many things today is a shrug of the shoulders and a simple sort of sarcastic "So What."

Even as our men now go up in space preparing for a flight to the moon they no longer command soul stirring attention, like they once did. They, too, have become common place.

Yes, sir, the world has changed a great deal in the last few decades, since America was a nation of hero worshipers. Ann Pellegrino is finding that out—the hard way.

Just in case you hadn't realized the cost of living has increased by more than three per cent over the past year.

That's the word from the U.S. Department of Labor with the release of the consumer price index for the Detroit area. (Represented in the statistics are Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.)

All the major groups are up over last year: housing, 3.9 per cent; health and recreation, 4.8 per cent; apparel and up-keep, 3.2 per cent; transportation, 1.9 per cent; and food, 1.3 per cent.

Of course this is no real news to the housewife who has seen the buying power of the dollar shrink steadily. Compared to the U.S. average with an across the board increase of 2.7 over the past year, the metropolitan Detroit area rise was 3.1 per cent. Nice thought. The figures include up to June and when July's are published an additional increase will probably be found.

Add the new state income tax to the cost of living along with the almost certain rise in the federal income tax and it's almost enough to make one stop the pursuit of the almighty dollar.

The cycle is vicious. It cost more to live so you hound your employer for a raise. The employer's additional cost is passed on to the consumer or to his customers, which must be passed on again.

Where does it all end? Right back in your lap when you make a purchase at a higher price than before.

In spite of all this, however, the American consumer is the most affluent in the world.

Today one thinks nothing of making a long distance telephone call simply because it's easier than writing a letter.

Climbing aboard a plane for a weekend in Florida, New York or some other relatively distant point is not unusual. European holidays are common.

All this in spite of the higher cost of living. The basis is the fact that the actual percentage of one's income spent on the basic necessities is smaller in the United States than anywhere else in the world.

Thus while it might cost more to live in this country than anywhere else it's not horrid enough to grumble about. It's still my first choice in spite of the tremendous problems facing all the citizens of this country.

Schools Set To Battle All Strikes

A resolution adopted Thursday by the Wayne County Association of School Boards proved that area school districts will go to court if faced with a strike by employees, including teachers.

According to David Gooze, a member of the executive board of the Association and on the Board of Nankin Mills School District, the resolution was adopted unanimously.

It provides that in the event of a strike all negotiations will be ended, and that all legal steps will be taken.

"We feel that each Board should seek an injunction, and not return to the bargaining table," Gooze said.

The resolution calls for full exploration of fact finding and mediation procedures.

It also urges that no salaries be paid to striking employees.

The resolution was adopted by all 43 member boards, with no one voting no.

A full-scale blacksmith shop, built from an old barn, removed from the path of a new Detroit Expressway, can be seen at the Detroit Historical Museum in the special exhibit, "The Age of Wood and Iron." The exhibit will be on view through Oct. 1 and depicts the age when blacksmith-forged iron, and skillfully crafted wood, provided most of the common things of life.

Title Hopes For Braeburn Golfers Sag

Braeburn's hopes for a repeat title in the Gold Division of the Michigan Public Links Golf Association have all but gone out of the window.

Braeburn suffered its second defeat against three wins and a tie when beaten by Raisin Valley, 12½-9½, last Sunday. Idyl Wyld leads the section with a 5-1-1 record.

Braeburn still had two matches left — against Liliacs on Aug. 27 and then a head-on duel with Idyl Wyld, Sept. 10. Braeburn must win both matches to tie for the crown.

Against Raisin Valley, Murray Brooks shot a 71 to top Braeburn. Joe Wilson had 74, Harry Bowers 76 and Cliff Zill 78. Jerry Lammers shot a 68 for the winners.

San Marino, 2-2-1 in the Blue Division, is idle until Sept. 27 against Hickory Hills.

Michigan's colorful logging era of the latter half of the 19th century is also represented. The viewer can see how timber was found, cut, moved to the mills and shipped as lumber.

Once the wood was cut, it was manufactured into a variety of products. Many of these are shown in the display, along with demonstrations of the various special skills and tools used to produce them. One section shows wood-working planes and another compares changing styles of wood-house construction from early French log cabins to modern "A-frame."

The frustrated Chief of Police, played with real compassion by Rod Steiger, shifts his wad of Juicy Fruit, cocks his hat, considers these words of wisdom, and decides that he might be able to bury his racial prejudices long enough to clear up a puzzling murder in his small Southern town.

For the next two hours this exquisitely photographed color motion picture grabs you via its roving lens and doesn't let you go until the murderer is located. You get to know all the side streets, the surrounding countryside of Sparta. The film was shot on location and it's reality plus.

Sidney Poitier as Virgil Tibbs, a Philadelphia homicide expert, gives strength and an inner beauty to a most difficult role. Steiger is flawless as Gillespie, the local red-necked, stubborn, small town Chief.

The combination of these two consummate artists gives "In The Heat Of The Night" Academy Award status. The explosive talents of this dramatic duo puts this film in a "must see" category.

Technically, the color by Deluxe is a visual feast. The supporting cast right down to the hound dogs used in a thrilling manhunt sequence are perfect. "In The Heat Of The Night" reveals with

Livonia Cinema I Shows Unusual Murder Mystery

Opera fans should plan an immediate pilgrimage to Stratford, Ontario, and the Shakespearean Festival. The Avon Theater, Stratford's second theater, has been completely renovated at the cost of over a million dollars. Two excellent operas are being performed in this acoustically-perfect theater, "Così Fan Tutte" and "Albert Herring."

Over the years it has not been "my cup of tea" to truly enjoy opera. Oh, on occasion, I could suffer through an aria or two from "Carmen." Or a short solo from the "Barber of Seville." But "Tea for Two" in two-four time was more my forte.

The stage was my true love. Biggest barrier with operas was the difficulty understanding the foreign languages.

Stratford has changed all that. Their operas are always done in English. Only the finest voices are present to give the operas the best performance. The orchestra is impeccably trained. Each note is given detailed attention.

In short, my feeling about opera has undergone a change. I enjoyed Mozart's "Così Fan Tutte" as though it were "My Fair Lady" or "South Pacific." The happy blend of the voices, orchestra, and action on the stage fascinated me.

I marveled at the preparation, the long hours of rehearsal that went into an involved musical work of art as Mozart's "Così Fan Tutte." Every word came across the footlights in a most meaningful fashion.

"Così van Tutte" is a comic opera that deals satirically with female wiles. Mozart was accustomed to writing sterner, more serious operas, but the king commissioned him to do a light piece on the foibles of love.

The intrigue and double-dealing found among two sets of lovers form the basic plot. Mistaken identities, masquerades, and merry mix-ups give this happy opera real zest.

"Albert Herring," written by Benjamin Britten, is also in the comic vein. Big difference is that "Herring" was composed in 1950 as against the 1790 creation date for the Mozart piece. Consequently, the music is far more modern and up-tempo. The singers have more problems trying to blend with the orchestra since Britten has tried to show his versatile musical hand in almost every passage.

One of the funniest and yet most complex scenes musically was when Albert arrives home from a festive outing a bit crooked. He sings his woes and relates all his frustrations via intricate journeys up and down the chromatic scale.

You have nothing but the highest respect for these leather-lunged performers as you suddenly realize that they have been singing continually for over two hours. Musical comedy is a snap. Long stretches of dialogue protect the average musical comedy star from over-working his vocal cords.

No long silent passages give respite to the Festival opera stars. They must lunch on bird seed, dine on celestial herbs, and continually practice to keep those superb voices in such melodic shape.

Make plans now even if you are not an opera buff to visit Stratford, Ontario, for either one of the operas.

You'll become addicted as old Wally did. I admit I'm not to the standing ovation stage, shouting bravo, and commenting so brilliantly on whether the andante movement was as good as the fortissimo, but then I'm still a neophyte in this area. Given time, I could succumb.

Don Ameche is in town this week busily rehearsing a new musical, "Henry, Sweet Henry." It opens at the Fisher on August 21. We will have a report next week. Let's hope it can be a hit. We need something to spark the new season off to a flaming start.

Carillon Concert Set At Cranbrook
 Dennis Kennard Jones will present a carillon recital at 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 20, from Christ Church Cranbrook.

Jones, a senior at Princeton University, is a member of The Guild of Carillonners in North America and has served as carillonneur for Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

As a high school student he studied for three summers with Wendell Westcott at Michigan State University.

Those who wish to attend the concert, which is open to the public free of charge, may sit in their cars or on the lawn. Christ Church Cranbrook is located in Bloomfield Hills.

Wally Roberts UP' GOING CURTAIN

Opera fans should plan an immediate pilgrimage to Stratford, Ontario, and the Shakespearean Festival. The Avon Theater, Stratford's second theater, has been completely renovated at the cost of over a million dollars. Two excellent operas are being performed in this acoustically-perfect theater, "Così Fan Tutte" and "Albert Herring."

Over the years it has not been "my cup of tea" to truly enjoy opera. Oh, on occasion, I could suffer through an aria or two from "Carmen." Or a short solo from the "Barber of Seville." But "Tea for Two" in two-four time was more my forte.

The stage was my true love. Biggest barrier with operas was the difficulty understanding the foreign languages.

Stratford has changed all that. Their operas are always done in English. Only the finest voices are present to give the operas the best performance. The orchestra is impeccably trained. Each note is given detailed attention.

In short, my feeling about opera has undergone a change. I enjoyed Mozart's "Così Fan Tutte" as though it were "My Fair Lady" or "South Pacific." The happy blend of the voices, orchestra, and action on the stage fascinated me.

I marveled at the preparation, the long hours of rehearsal that went into an involved musical work of art as Mozart's "Così Fan Tutte." Every word came across the footlights in a most meaningful fashion.

"Così van Tutte" is a comic opera that deals satirically with female wiles. Mozart was accustomed to writing sterner, more serious operas, but the king commissioned him to do a light piece on the foibles of love.

The intrigue and double-dealing found among two sets of lovers form the basic plot. Mistaken identities, masquerades, and merry mix-ups give this happy opera real zest.

"Albert Herring," written by Benjamin Britten, is also in the comic vein. Big difference is that "Herring" was composed in 1950 as against the 1790 creation date for the Mozart piece. Consequently, the music is far more modern and up-tempo. The singers have more problems trying to blend with the orchestra since Britten has tried to show his versatile musical hand in almost every passage.

One of the funniest and yet most complex scenes musically was when Albert arrives home from a festive outing a bit crooked. He sings his woes and relates all his frustrations via intricate journeys up and down the chromatic scale.

You have nothing but the highest respect for these leather-lunged performers as you suddenly realize that they have been singing continually for over two hours. Musical comedy is a snap. Long stretches of dialogue protect the average musical comedy star from over-working his vocal cords.

No long silent passages give respite to the Festival opera stars. They must lunch on bird seed, dine on celestial herbs, and continually practice to keep those superb voices in such melodic shape.

Make plans now even if you are not an opera buff to visit Stratford, Ontario, for either one of the operas.

You'll become addicted as old Wally did. I admit I'm not to the standing ovation stage, shouting bravo, and commenting so brilliantly on whether the andante movement was as good as the fortissimo, but then I'm still a neophyte in this area. Given time, I could succumb.

mute eloquence the depths to which our society has sunk in terms of blind hatred and racial prejudice.

Yet the final scene ends with a poignant touch of hope for an eventual understanding between the Negro and the white community. Steiger shyly, almost reluctantly, mumbles to the departing Poitier, "You take care, ya hear." Poitier looks mildly surprised at such a kind statement. Steiger smiles. Poitier returns the smile. The gap has been bridged.

Let's hope in the years ahead, out of the violence and viciousness of the July riots, our prejudices will cool and come to the satisfying ending seen "In The Heat Of The Night." The authentic nature of this film could have long range salutary effects.

 The August family from Farmington Township is doing right well in the Michigan State doubles handball championships at Detroit's Palmer Park.

Larry and Steve, who are brothers, were among the first-day winners with a 21-7, 21-9 romp. Their dad, Dr. Alvin August, teamed with Dave Rott and had a little more difficult time, winning by scores of 11-21, 21-11 and 21-7.

Singing Group Winds Up Tour

Musical Youth International 1967 tour group returned home August 10 after a whirl-wind post-European tour. The itinerary included Flint, Havelock and Ottawa, Canada, Expo 67, Red Bank, N.J., and Gettysburg, Penn. Standing ovations greeted these teen-age people-to-people musical ambassadors after every concert.

Mercy Sets Concert Benefit For September

Mercy College of Detroit will open its 1967-68 concert season with a gala benefit attraction, "The John Gary Show," in Ford Auditorium, Thursday, Sept. 14. Appearing with Gary will be Susan Barrett, a new singing star.

bles a tiny blonde doll, is one of the recent discoveries in concert circles, though she has been singing in public since she was eight years old. She was a child star for 10 years, singing, dancing, and acting on a Children's Hour program in her native Philadelphia.

Both Gary and Barrett are established artists with a long list of recordings and television appearances to their credit.

Gary, who still looks like an angelic choir boy, recorded his 13th album for RCA Victor this summer. His program here will include what might be called his "trade-mark" favorites, as well as new songs which he has helped transform into established hits. Susan Barrett, who resembles a tiny blonde doll, is one of the recent discoveries in concert circles, though she has been singing in public since she was eight years old.

She has matured through study and continued television, recordings, and personal appearances. She opens her 1967 season with an appearance in the Persian Room of New York's Hotel Plaza.

Tickets are available at all J. L. Hudson stores, Grinnell's metropolitan stores, and Ford Auditorium.

homes. They participated in sister-city celebrations in 10 cities, under the People-to-People program.

One hundred teen-agers from the United States learned first hand that the people of the world, on either side of the Iron Curtain, are basically the same. Countless residents of other countries discovered that American teen-agers are quite superior to their projected image abroad.

The final day of the 1967 season was the climax. A concert on the Senate steps at Washington, D.C. was followed by a luncheon in the Rayburn Building, attended by Cong. and Mrs. Marvin Esch, and Sen. Philip Hart and Sen. Robert Griffin.

Enroute to Gettysburg, the tour group presented a concert at Walter Reed Army Hospital in honor of Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower, and heard by the entire hospital personnel. Col. John Eisenhower attended the Gettysburg concert which was dedicated to his father, who initiated the People-to-People movement.

Musical Youth International will open auditions in October for the 1968 season. Further information will be announced by Sept. 1.

Juniors Get New Housing At Fair

Young exhibitors coming to Detroit for the Junior Show at the Michigan State Fair will be housed in comfort.

Mrs. Allen A. Strom, of Birmingham, member of the State Fair Authority who headed a special committee on junior housing, said both girls and boys will have improved dormitory facilities during the fair, which opens Friday, Aug. 25, and runs through Monday, Sept. 4.

BOB GIMBY, Pied Piper of the Canadian Centennial Celebration and composer of the official Centennial song, will highlight a grandstand show Saturday at 1:10 p.m. at the DRC.

Wayne State Sets Conference On Adult Growth

A two-day conference on "Adult Development: Research and Practice" will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 28-29 at the McGregor Memorial Conference Center at Wayne State University.

School Financial Bind Stumps Experts

By RALPH R. REED

Education of the future is a present day priority. Just as if present day education board members and school administrators haven't enough to worry about, trying to make ends meet.

One who worries, because money is stumping the experts, is Mrs. Strela Schreiber, 14159 Cavell, president of the Livonia Board of Education. Money, rather than the lack of it, has been her worry since becoming a member of the board, because of the rapid growth of the city and the resulting soaring growth of the school system.

Livonia, as young as senior high school students, boasts more than 100,000 residents — and more than

Farmington To Relocate Monument

Plans have been completed to relocate Farmington's Veterans' Memorial Monument to the City Park just west of the Masonic Temple according to Robert Smith, chairman of the citizens group coordinating the monument project.

The citizens' group met last week at the VFW hall to settle the final details on the move.

A meeting was scheduled for Wednesday (Aug. 16) morning at the city hall to make the final arrangements for pouring the concrete base for the monument and other city-directed details.

The city has offered the space in the city park to the veterans groups for the placement of the monument.

Currently the monument is located at the corner of Grand River and Farmington Rd. on the Masonic Temple property. It was originally constructed when the temple served as the township hall and housed the city offices.

Smith said that a plaque would be placed on the monument stating that the structure was in recognition of all of the veterans of Farmington who had been killed during wars.

No new names would be added, Smith said, but the current listing of World War I Civil War, and Spanish American War veterans would be retained on the structure.

Smith explained that the monument will be placed on a pedestal and that landscaping and a flagpole would be added to the area along with a torch which will burn continuously.

The Farmington Jaycee Auxiliary has reportedly offered to donate $200 toward the project and to help landscape the area. Smith said that the Garden Club and "other community groups" have also offered their services to beautify the finished structure.

The township had expressed interest in having a veterans monument located within the township confines.

14,500 children in the district's schools. That's 7,500 more pupils than homes in the city.

A picture of the size of the school administration shows that the system has about 3,000 teachers and employees—more than five times as many people on the payroll as the City of Livonia.

The school budget for the 1967-68 school year will be about $21,770,000 — or three and one-half times the anticipated budget for the City's fiscal year which begins December 1.

Something the school system and the City Hall have in par, however, is a financial problem.

The Board of Education has slashed nearly $1,000,000 from its new budget by cutting staff and services in the face of the increased expense of caring for 2,700 extra pupils.

The trimming was necessary, Mrs. Schreiber said, because Gov. Romney and the Legislature, with tax reform, failed to provide additional necessary funds for education, and even cut appropriations for transportation, special education, and reading.

While the board has some surplus millage to raise funds to finance any teacher-staff adjustments of salary that may come out of negotiations — although reluctant to impose it — the City has no such reserve. The limit of five mills for government operations, plus a mill for the police department expansion, is being collected.

Like the schools, the City Hall, facing higher living costs through pay raises and inflation, faces the necessity of cutting corners. The cuts may come through public services, and leaving vacated jobs vacant. But Livonia with surplus gone, may not be able to hold the line to the present budget of $5,500,000.

In the face of fading finances, Mrs. Schreiber already is fretting about what's to happen to the schools in the not too distant future, as well as the government.

Money to meet the growing needs may not be findable, she's convinced, unless Lansing shows the way.

"We've got to scrutinize everything very carefully," the board president said. "We can't afford to subsidize the courses in which the state doesn't pickup its share of the cost — such as special education, transportation, and the like, but we have to do so. We don't get back what we are supposed to get back."

"We've got to scrutinize innovate, which we should be doing."

"It would be better to pay now for what's needed than to let the chips fall later, and regret it."

"The board has always tried to be fair with the tax paying public, spending only what was necessary to keep pace with growth in community and in education. That's why we have three mills of approved taxation in reserve."

But if present finances are a problem, Mrs. Schreiber thinks school districts in general haven't seen anything yet, and had better begin now to speculate on what the future holds for education.

Educators throughout the state joined Gov. Romney's campaign for fiscal reform, in the belief that the $236 million a year "income tax package" would provide sufficient money to increase the state school aid formula. The package was adopted with difficulty, with income below expectation.

Now Livonia educators again are looking toward Lansing with the hope that a special session of the Legislature in October, or the next general session in January, will come up with more education money from general funds.

They don't like to ask the home folk for more taxes on the homestead — which already, in Livonia, is 36 mills from schools.

Neither do they expect a miracle to bring gold from the pot at the end of the rainbow.

But they may need a miracle to pay for the progress in education, demanded by society, industry, and parents.

Fun
At The 4-H Fair

THE WAYNE COUNTY 4-H FAIR at Belleville last week attracted visitors from all over the area. Here Mrs. Max Butler and her three daughters, Angela, Marcia and Virginia, examine a bushel basket of produce that won a Sweepstakes prize. The Butlers recently moved to Plymouth from the South.

HORSE SHOWS were a big part of the activity at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, and 12-year-old Mary Alice Johnson, of Beck Road, Plymouth, and her mare "What a Doll" made a great team. Mary Alice, a member of the Plymouth Bridal Club, took second place in the pony fitting and showing competition. Too young to come to the fair was What a Doll's four-month-old colt, Colonel Twiggy. Some 1,200 4-H youngsters took part in the five-day fair that ended Saturday.

*Member of Parliament Pays a Visit
To Former Exchange Student in Livonia*

It was a matter of returning hospitality when the R. A. Meyer family, of Angelina Court, Livonia, entertained a distinguished visitor last week.

Mrs. Dinah McNabb, a member of the Parliament of Northern Ireland, was their guest, and the story of her visit goes back to 1961.

That was the year that Mrs. Meyer, then Gretchen Klager and attending Ann Arbor High School, went to Northern Ireland as an exchange student.

She spent nearly a year in the home of Mrs. McNabb and her family who live in Lurgan, near the capital city Belfast. There she became well acquainted with Mrs. McNabb, who then, as now, represented Armagh County in Parliament, her husband, Dr. Thomas McNabb, a veterinary surgeon, and their son and daughter, Audrey and Gordon.

It was a wonderful year with a great family and an amazing "substitute mother," Gretchen Meyers remembers.

"Besides being in Parliament, she had all kinds of other community responsibilities and interests," she said, "yet she still found time to cook for us and help with our projects and take us visiting."

Later, as a student at Schoolcraft Community College, Mrs. Meyer had occasion to write a paper about some outstanding person "and I chose her without a second thought."

So it was with delight that Mrs. Meyer learned that her one-time hostess would be visiting here. She spent two days with the family, catching up on news with her former "daughter" and meeting her husband and two young sons, four-year-old Karl and Steven, three.

The Irish law-maker came to America to attend a convention of the Soroptimist International in Toronto. She also visited Expo-67, and spent a few days with Gretchen's mother, in Ann Arbor, and a few more with the Saginaw family that hosted her daughter, Audrey, when she was an exchange student.

Gretchen and Audrey, now a social worker, made the trip to this country together when Gretchen was completing her exchange student year and Audrey was beginning hers.

The McNabb son, now a doctor, visited this country on a tour of hospitals, but this was his mother's first visit to this part of the world.

"She's as busy and interesting as ever," said Mrs. Meyer. "I still think she's just amazing."

Local Women Aid Scout Encampment

Four volunteers from Livonia are working this week on a project to bring Girl Scout camping experience to 185 inner city girls.

Barbara Laughlin, of Middlebelt Road, is one of the unit leaders in the special program at Camp Holly, near the town of Holly.

Patricia Buckman, Suzanne Brown and Peggy Moore are among the senior scouts serving as aides.

Inner and outer city and suburban dwellers, working mothers, housewives, career girls, college and high school students make up the staff.

After much juggling of vacation dates, camp coordinators Mrs. Rene Charbonneau, of Detroit, and Mrs. Jay Cozadd of Grosse Ile, assembled the group of experienced campers, a about half white and half Negro, to run the seven days and nights of living outdoors and in troop houses and tents.

The girl campers range in age from nine to 14 and have spent the past month under the tutelage of Senior Girl Scouts learning to assemble gear, pack it in bed rolls, plan menus, cook on wood fires, make fires, do lashing of equipment including wash stands and towel racks, all with emphasis on safety and health rules.

These preparatory sessions called "Holly Go Rounds" have taken place in a dozen centers where additional girls not camping this summer did acquire useful skills for future use in family and troop camping.

Rookus-Graham Vows Spoken In Farmington

Ann Warner Graham and Melvin Charles Rookus spoke their marriage vows in a double-ring ceremony Saturday, Aug. 12, in the First Presbyterian Church of Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Graham Jr., of Brookdale Avenue, Farmington, are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rookus, of Bay City.

The Rev. Joseph Pelham and the Rev. Robert Sawyer Jr. officiated at the rites. Later the couple received guests at a buffet supper in Botsford Inn.

The bride's silk organza gown had appliqued lace around the bodice and skirt and a chapel train. Her veil was shoulder-length and held by a Dior bow.

Julie Graham was maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were the bride's cousin, Sue Moco, of Dearborn, two aunts of the bride, Mrs. Glen Warner of Chicago and Mrs. William Warner, of Farmington, Melissa Rookus, sister of the bridegroom and Frances McGivern, of Farmington.

They wore apricot faille floor-length dresses with short trains.

Darryl Smith, of Pontiac, was best man, and the guests were seated by H. Bruce McLaren, of Waterford, Glen and William Warner, uncles of the bride, Jack Kriewall of Bay City, and Douglas Harter of Farmington.

After a wedding trip to Chicago, the couple will be at home in Waterford, where the bridegroom is a music teacher. He also is organist and choir director of Grace Lutheran Church, Pontiac.

The new Mrs. Rookus is a senior at Oakland University.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Petritis, of Royal Oak.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire coat style dress, with a scattering of embroidered daisies on heavy lace.

Her three-tiered veil was held in place by a daisy crown, and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis.

Jean Donahue, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were two other sisters, Virginia and Dorothy, and Mary Ann Voorheis, sister of the bridegroom.

Their gowns were avacado linen with white alencon lace trim, and they carried small cascades of white pinocchio mums and yellow star flowers.

Women on the GO!

By Margaret Miller

The Livonia Board of Education has a written policy that states elementary schools are named for deceased United States presidents, junior highs for great American poets and high schools for statesmen.

It also sticks to a policy that high school sophomores may not drive cars to school, and juniors and seniors may do so if they have a good reason and their parents' written consent, delivered to the school by the parent.

And there's a policy, newly stated in writing, that the matter of riding motorcycles to school will be decided on an individual basis.

This information — and just about anything else you'd like to know concerning the Livonia school boards policies — comes from Mrs. Richard Joyner, now in her third year as a member of that board.

"Each member of the board," Geraldine Joyner explained, "has a special responsibility in one area. Mine is keeping a record of all our policies—in major and minor matters of administration."

"I think many people fail to remember that the board of Education is a policy-making group. The superintendent and other administrators in the school system has the responsibility to carry out those policies."

Jerry Joyner said a new book spelling out board policy should soon be completed. But of course it will never be a complete policy definition—because the policy itself must keep changing.

"Ninety per cent of our policy is dictated by state law," Jerrie explained, "and that isn't static. And circumstances frequently must change our stand on other matters."

"For instance, we'll undoubtedly have to change our policy on the naming of elementary schools. We have 32 now, and we're running out of presidents."

She said the motorcycle policy decision was the most recent major one evolved by the school board.

"But of course there will be many more," she added. "Just recently, someone handed me a paper on hypnotism. I filed it away—sometimes we just might need to work out a policy on that."

For the last week, Jerrie has been working in school board meetings and responsibility with entertaining and getting acquainted with the family's house guest, Birgir Guomundsson of Reykjavik, Iceland.

He's on his way home after attending the Boy Scout World Jamboree in Iowa, and a visit to the Joyners and their two sons, Bill, 18, and Bob, 16, is a big part of his summer stay in this country.

Working out language difficulties as they went along, the Joyners showed Birgir around town, both Livonia and Detroit, and took him to Greenfield Village and the Ford Assembly plant.

Opening her home to Birgir, as well as work on the school board and service to the Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church and the Livonia Town Hall and American Field Service all fit into the philosophy that Jerrie shares with husband Richard that part of their lives should be given to Community service.

"My father was on our town school board," she remembers. So after the family moved from North Carolina to Livonia eight years ago — Dick Joyner works for Burroughs Corp. — it was natural for Jerrie to become a PTA library mother, then school PTA president and attendee of board of education meetings, and finally to decide to run for the board.

Now, with Bill ready to enter Central Michigan University and Bob preparing for his junior year at Franklin High School, it's still a big part of her life.

She tries particularly to know the feelings of the people in the school district. Two years ago she and Mrs. Jay Schriber, the other feminine member of the board, made a visit to every school in Livonia, to get to know the buildings and staff and to "let them know we're for real."

"It's too easy, in a big district like ours, to put too much distance between the board and the parents and teachers," Jerrie explained.

Of course, she realizes, there always will be objections to moves the school board makes.

"But I keep telling people," she said, "that we should all forget we live in a certain subdivision or send children to a certain school. We're a total community."

An evening nuptial mass in St. Alexander's Church, Farmington, recently united Doris June Smith and Thomas R. Zurcher in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal C. Smith, of Westfield Avenue, Livonia, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Zurcher, of Inkster Road, Southfield.

The bride's floor-length gown was chantilly lace over crepe with a seven-foot train extending from her shoulders. She wore a bouffant veil and carried white carnations and lilies of the valley with a white orchid in the center.

Satin brocade and crepe empire gowns in pink, blue and yellow were worn by her attendants. Each carried a bouquet of baby mums tinted to match her gown.

Diane Zurcher, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Connie McTigue, and his cousin, Janet Spaulding.

James Zurcher was best man for his brother, and Terry Smith, brother of the bride, and Sandy Sandford, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Smith's costume for the wedding was a turquoise dress with matching accessories, and Mrs. Zurcher chose mint green for her gown and accessories.

The couple greeted 200 guests at the reception in Roma Hall before leaving for a short honeymoon to Sault Ste. Marie. They are making their home in Colorado Springs, Colo., where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Air Force.

The new Mrs. Zurcher is a graduate of Franklin High School, and her husband graduated from Southfield High School.

Garden City Pair Wed In Martha-Mary Chapel

The Martha-Mary Chapel in Greenfield Village was the setting for the recent marriage of Clarilou Sandra Dubke and James Richard Ullery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Dubke, of Pierce Avenue, Garden City, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Ullery, of Marygrove Drive, Detroit, are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Kurt Lohrmann, of St. Stephen Evangelical Lutheran Church, Detroit, officiated at the ceremony.

Gowns for the entire wedding party were designed by the bride and made by her mother.

Chantilly lace and crepe fashioned the bride's empire gown. It had long colonial sleeves and a chapel train. A Danish lace crown held her floor-length veil, and her flowers were white Fuji mums centered by a white orchid.

Mrs. Gary LeBelt, as matron of honor, wore a blue empire gown of chiffon over peau de soie and carried a colonial arrangement of blue-tinted Fuji mums. Janet and Jeanette Dubke, sisters of the bride, and Dyan Brown were bridesmaids. Their gowns were pink chiffon and peau de soie, and they carried pink mums.

MRS. JAMES ULLERY (Clarilou Dubke)

Three young piano pupils of the bride were junior members of the wedding party. Laurene and Denise Pohl, in blue empire dresses, were flower girls, and Garth Glumm was ring bearer.

Robert D. Ullery was his brother's best man. The ushers were Gary Le Belt, Gary Jean and Michael Kilpinen.

Mrs. Dubke chose a blue crepe sheath gown with matching lace coat for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Ullery's outfit was pink with matching accessories.

A reception for 175 guests was held in Blue Bonnet Hall in Garden City, and the newlyweds then left for a northern Michigan wedding trip.

Both are graduates of Garden City East High School. The bride attends Henry Ford Community College and is employed by the Garden City Public Library. Her husband is a Henry Ford graduate and works for the Ford Motor Co.

German Night Set By BPW In Plymouth

The Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club will meet Monday, Aug. 21, in the Hillside Inn to map plans for its part in the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Cecil Sherrard, festival association president, will speak. Club festival chairman Sherley Perryman and co-chairman Florence Bellville will sign up workers for the club's German Night, to be held Sept. 7 in Kellogg Park.

The Plymouth BPW will serve German food on that occasion as its contribution to the festival.

The water temperature in your clothes washer should be at least 140 degrees. This temperature is recommended for white fabrics and heavily soiled articles of any color. Because chemical action increases with heat, detergents and bleaches perform better in hot water.

Rabbi Jessel Believes Israel Will Hold Its New Lands

Rabbi David Jessel believes Israel will hold the land it won in its brief war with the Arabs by showing the world it can administer them well.

The spiritual leader of Temple Beth Am, in Livonia, recently returned from a month's visit to the land so closely tied in thought and emotion to American Jews.

Israel is making every effort to make the unification of Jerusalem go smoothly," Rabbi Jessel said.

"Actually, the Arabs there never had it so good."

He explained that Israel immediately opened the two parts of the city to free movement—so Arabs who lived in the old city are able to visit relatives and friends in the new city any time they wish.

the last 20 years," Rabbi Jessel added. This movement without restriction, he went on, shows up a sharp contrast, between the two parts of Jerusalem, and the Arabs who stayed there during the last score of years can't help but notice it.

"In the old city, where the Arabs have been in charge, nothing has changed in 20 years," the local rabbi said.

"But when you cross over to the section Israel has held, you see modern structures and new buildings everywhere. The department stores and apartments are modern, and there are supermarkets everywhere."

Rabbi Jessel said he believed opposition in the United Nations to Israel's territorial acquisition would lessen as the small nation shows that it can administer fairly.

He insisted that Israel tried to negotiate for access to a seaport, but fought when the Arabs continued determined to "drive them into the sea."

"The Israelis fear that poison gas would be used

Romance In Israel

NAGIE-LAURE HAKIM

For members of Temple Beth Am, the big news about Rabbi David Jessel's trip to Israel was his engagement to Nagie-Laure Hakim, of Bay-Yam, a suburb of Tel Aviv. The rabbi, a widower, met Miss Hakim through the match-making efforts of his cousin. The couple plans to marry in Jerusalem late in December, and Rabbi Jessel hopes to bring his bride back to Livonia soon after that.

Council On Adoptable Children Wins Award

The Council on Adoptable Children and one of its founders, Mrs. Peter Forsythe, of Ann Arbor, have been named citationists in the Lane Bryant annual awards competition in recognition of outstanding community service in 1966.

The citation is a commendation of the nominees' outstanding achievement and means that "COAC" and Mrs. Forsythe are being actively considered for one of two $1,000 awards given annually to encourage volunteer work designed to benefit the American community. One award is made to a group and one to an individual.

COAC was formed by families a little over a year ago "to insure every adoptable child a permanent loving home." The group has grown to well over a hundred families in the first year and now has members scattered throughout Michigan.

Beacon of Faith

Among the most prominent new landmarks in Florida is a 20-story-high nickel stainless steel cross at the Mission of Nombre de Dios, St. Augustine. Known as a "Beacon of Faith," the monument marks the site where the cross of Christianity was first permanently planted in the United States more than 400 years ago.

Membership is open to all interested persons. The American Pediatrics Academy has stated that the problems of the growing numbers of unplaced adoptable children should be the concern of our entire community. Active members in COAC include families who have no interest in adopting children into their own families but feel they have talents to offer. A number of professionals in the field of adoption have joined.

The primary concern of COAC is for the children who wait for adoption. They seek to work with public and private agencies to increase the numbers of adoptive placements.

Many couples attempting to find an agency best suited to them have turned to COAC for guidance. Agencies, too, have turned to the group as they have tried unsuccessfully to find a home for a particular child.

COAC and the Michigan State Department of Social Services, the University of Michigan School of Social Work, and agency organizations across the state will co-sponsor an institute on the bottlenecks in adoption Oct. 20, in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Forsythe, earlier in the year, was named one of four outstanding young women of Michigan by the Michigan Jaycees Auxiliary. In addition to her work with COAC she serves as first vice-president of the Ann Arbor branch of the American Association of University Women, member of PTA board, League of Women Voters, Washtenaw County Bar Association Auxiliary, Planned Parenthood and is the mother of four young children, the last two adopted.

was very real," he said. "When you are fighting for the very existence of home and family, you fight in a different way."

Commenting on the recent statement by Egyptian president Nasser that more fighting in the future is inevitable, Rabbi Jessel said he feared it might be true.

Nasser has been getting more arms supplied to him, he explained.

"He wants to show his people after the recent disaster that he is willing to fight and has something to fight with."

But he still expressed hope that the situation might be resolved through negotiation "to show the world that two opposed peoples can sit down and talk."

Rabbi Jessel said he decided rather suddenly to go to Israel "to help in any way I could."

He had figured at first that as a Canadian—he was born in Toronto—he might be able to be of assistance since for a time travel to the area was banned to Americans. The ban was lifted just before he left.

He said he found great changes in the land where his parents married since he had studied there about ten years ago.

"The people are learning more and more about government, and I believe they will be able to take on this great new responsibility and carry it through well," he said.

RABBI DAVID JESSEL catches up on his reading after a stay in Israel.

Local Adventists Enjoy 1967 State Encampment

MRS. VIRGINIA SHULL, of Williams Street, Livonia, and her 16-month-old son, Brian, were among the 5,000 Michigan Seventh Day Adventists who recently returned from the 99th annual camp meeting at Grand Ledge. Mrs. Shull put a number both on the tent and on Brian, so he'd be sure to be returned to the right "home" among the 651 look-alike family tents on the camp grounds.

PASTOR GEORGE W. VALENTINE, of Inkster Road, Livonia, holds the copy while Pastor Ray D. Hamstra, of Middlebelt Road, Livonia, makes an announcement over the camp public address system. Pastor Valentine recently took over leadership of the Livonia Seventh Day Adventist Church from Pastor Hamstra, who has accepted a call to the Detroit Van Dyke church in Warren.

PLENTY OF ACTIVITY was planned for the younger set at the Seventh Day Adventist camp at Grand Ledge, ten miles west of Lansing. Here two junior members of the Farmington church, Jackie Pareuth and Leilette Schenk, climb into a 1914 vintage Ford for a trip to the Junior Pavilion on the grounds. Pastor David Lea, Grand Rapids, is at the wheel. The encampment ended Aug. 5.

LJC Will Hear Of Games

The Maccabiah games, a somewhat unknown competition, will be described by guest speaker Byron Krieger for members of the Livonia Jewish Congregation at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 18.

Krieger won the world Maccabiah Saber championship in Israel in 1957. The games, modeled after the Olympics, are held in Israel every four years and draw Jewish games from all over the world.

The speaker was twice a member of the U.S. Olympic fencing team, in Helsinki, Finland, 1952, and Melbourne, Australia in 1956. As a member of the winning U.S. Pan American Team in Buenos Aires, Argentina, 1951, he took a gold medal for foil and saber and a silver medal in epee.

He holds 55 state and Midwest championships in all three weapons. While at the Wayne State University he was foil champion of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Currently he is on the U.S. Olympic Fencing committee that will select the members of the 1968 Olympic team.

Start Early On Savings For College

Planned savings for tomorrow's education are important because large sums of ready cash don't come easily from any family's pocketbook.

It's the three-year-olds in the family, as well as the high-schoolers, who need this financing, says Helen E. Bell, extension home management specialist of The Pennsylvania State University.

When a sum of $20.55 is set aside each month in savings at four per cent interest compounded semi-annually, it can be built up to $5,000 by the time a three-year-old is 18 years old.

This steady savings plan can take the crash program element out of family financing when the time comes for college or vocational training, Miss Bell points out.

At the present time, most families are furnishing at least 50 per cent of the money out of current income to send their young people to vocational school or college. Students themselves provide out of their earnings and savings another 25 per cent.

Family savings and loans cover another 10 to 15 per cent, and scholarships provide another 10 to 20 per cent, Miss Bell adds.

Carpeting Gives Spacious Look to Room
One advantage of wall-to-wall carpeting is that it gives a spacious look to a room, because the rug line is unbroken from one side of the room to the other, says Mrs. Helen Puskar, Penn State Extension home furnishings specialist.

Esch Tells Of Riot Controls

By CONGRESSMAN MARVIN L. ESCH

"And then they tried to lay the blame" is the best way to describe the post-riot mood here in Washington. The Vice President says it's the fault of "Congressional inaction." Vocal civil rights advocates cry "police brutality." The other extreme sees a vast "black power conspiracy." And everybody accuses everybody else of injecting politics into the dispute.

Next come the solutions. Congress and other officials have spewn forth a morass of proposals in a matter of only a few days giving some credence to government critics who claim our elected representatives act only in times of crisis rather than attempting to head off disasters before they occur.

The proposals—some worthy, some not—unfortunately offer little new and could easily take the form of more executive and legislative studies and more spending to enhance existing structures which have obviously not done the job. Let's hope that's not the case.

Let me appear to be completely pessimistic. Let me point out that, in the midst of blame-placing and solution-searching, we have indeed learned much. The application of this knowledge, and other such information yet to be compiled, will help us to develop and move in new directions.

In evaluating what we know now, what we need to know and the various proposals which have been put forth, several needs can be gleaned from the confusion:

1. We need in this country a renewed respect for and the firm enforcement of law and order coupled with a reaffirmation of the basic right to peaceable protest. The Constitution, while guaranteeing certain basic liberties, does not permit the right of insurrection or the right of inciting insurrection. The path between anarchy and totalitarianism is not easily discerned. It is one this nation must find and walk.
2. We urgently need short range preventative measures which concentrate all of our available resources on warding off continued rioting this summer. The special White House crisis center, which I have joined in proposing, might well be a catalyst for the achievement of this goal.
3. We need better federal, state and local capability to deal with uprisings which I fear are bound to continue. This at least means federal support for the improvement of local enforcement agencies and the assurance that the federal government will act effectively and without delay when crises develop.
4. We need to know who the rioters are: Are they unemployed? Do they have police records? Are they drop-outs? Do they belong to militant factions? How old are they? These and other questions must be answered if we are ever to discover the "whys." Most of those offering vast social solutions today do not have this basic information.
5. We need a cooperative effort of the public and private sectors in rebuilding our burned cities and in developing long-range solutions. While it appears that private industry will be involved in the rebuilding of Detroit, there still exists a need for the direct involvement of vast resources in retraining, housing and education.

Questions and Answers
What is accomplished by dredging foods in flour before they are fried?

Giving foods a preliminary dusting of flour prevents seepage. The flour seals in the liquid, preventing the food from steaming, and allowing it to brown properly. If the food is to be coated with a batter, a prior dredging in flour will prevent liquid from leaking through and steaming off the batter.

Realtors Pick Dick Elsea Their 1967 Man of Year

Members of the Western Wayne - Oakland County Board of Realtors have named their president, Richard S. Elsea, as the organization's Realtor of the Year for 1967. The member so honored is chosen annually on the basis of his contribution to the real estate profession. A director since 1963, Elsea has also served as secretary, treasurer and vice-president of the 1,700 member Realtor group. He has served on nearly every committee of the group and has acted as chairman of three of them.

As this year's president, Elsea played a leading role in the establishment of the Board's completely computerized multiple-listing system, the first in the country, which is scheduled to become operational in November. He also pioneered the program to make available to the City of Detroit much-needed housing for rental to low-income families.

Vice-president and general manager of Elsea Realty and Investment Company, with offices in Detroit, Farmington, Wyandotte and East Detroit, he has been associated with the real estate business since 1952. An honors graduate of Michigan State University, Elsea serves as an instructor for the Professional Standards Course offered by WWOBR's affiliate organization, United Northwestern Realty Association, to aspiring real estate salesmen. Elsea and his wife, Patricia, have two sons.

Learning Magnifies Noise

ANN ARBOR—The more education you have the more you may be bothered by noise from household appliances.

Researchers at the Acoustics and Seismics Laboratory of The University of Michigan's Institute of Science and Technology have probed the reactions of 192 persons to appliance noise.

The laboratory reports that "there appears to be a strong trend toward bothersomeness increasing with educational levels. There can be little doubt that college-educated individuals are more bothered with the sound stimuli presented than the remainder of the population."

Results of the tests in the living room of a normally furnished Ann Arbor home also indicated that completion of high school might not be a factor.

"Those who completed high school, in fact, seemed slightly less bothered than those who attended high school, but received no diploma," according to the report.

In the carefully controlled experiment, the researchers also found that those who were most bothered by the noise, although they were college graduates, did not necessarily have high incomes.

Many respondents were low-income graduate students at The University of Michigan. Thus, the report continues, "in the present case it is possible to state with a rare degree of confidence that it is education and not income which is contributing importantly to the relationship between noise and bother."

The researchers also discovered that persons with many appliances in their kitchen are less bothered when the sounds are at low levels. "At higher levels, however, there is a tendency for this same group of people to be more bothered."

The research was conducted by a team of U-M faculty members including Norman E. Barnett, research physicist; Bruce E. Erickson, associate professor of architecture; and Robert Heffner, associate professor of psychology.
