

Technicality In Law Delays Vote On Open Housing

A technicality in the state law and the absence of one of the Commissioners from the city have combined to delay further action on the proposed open housing ordinance in the City of Plymouth until Monday evening, December 4.

Many persons in the capacity gathering that attended the public hearing last Monday evening were of the opinion that the third reading and final action would come next Monday, November 27.

Following the hearing the city ordinance was checked regarding the adoption of ordinances and it was learned that two weeks must have elapsed between the time of the first reading and the third. It was agreed that this Monday would be two weeks, but there was a technicality regarding the time of day.

"Where a technicality of the law is involved," Charles Lowe, City Attorney, explained, "it is best not to gamble. So, I would suggest that further action be delayed until December 4. By doing that we won't be taking chances."

It was then learned that Commissioner James Houk was going to be out of the city on November 27 and it was agreed that it would be best to wait until the December date in order that a full attendance of the Commission would be on hand for the voting.

Rossman Decries Plan For One School District

Should the state take over all school districts and make one big school board that would operate everything?

Leroy Augenstein, member of the State Board of Education, raised this question last Monday after he claimed that many local school board members have told him they were fed up with contract negotiations this year and either want a state-wide master contract or will refuse to seek re-election.

James Rossman, Superintendent of Plymouth Schools, and president of the Michigan Association of school administrators, believes that this kind of move would lead to a kind of "deadening conformity."

Rossman said, "We sometimes operate on the mistaken idea that the bigger something is the better it is."

"We are in an age of confusion when everybody is grasping at straws for solutions to problems in education," he said.

THE OUTSPOKEN educator continued, "I think America became strong through local control. However, we may be forced into a single state school board because the state has not come up to its economic conditions."

He explained that the state has laws that are eroding local control.

The state held that there must be driver education classes in high schools and that they would pay $30 a child to help local districts.

Rossman pointed out that the legislature didn't appropriate enough money and ended up paying local districts only $25.15 a child.

The educator said that the state required that districts bus children to school who lived

Mrs. Daane
Passes Away
In Indiana

Hildreth V. Daane, wife of a former mayor, Russell M. Daane, died last Wednesday at Park View Hospital in Fort Wayne, Indiana, after a long illness.

Services for Mrs. Daane were held at the First Presbyterian Church in Fort Wayne and burial was in Greenlawn Memorial Cemetery.

Three memorials have been established in her name. They are the Allen County Cancer Society, the Allen County Crippled Children's Society and the First Presbyterian Church, all of Fort Wayne.

Daane, who served as Mayor from 1952 to 1957, was also vice-president of the old Plymouth United Savings Bank until it dissolved and merged with the National Bank of Detroit.

The Daanes moved to Fort Wayne in 1958.

more than a mile from the building. In return the state would pay $60 a child to help defray costs.

THIS WAS another instance of only partial reimbursement, he said. The state only came up with 60 per cent of what they claimed they would pay. "I will admit that the one room school district would no longer serve the purpose, but if the state took over it would remove the creativity of the local board," he said.

"Local boards are giving up because of such tight state control. We are told what to do and when to do it."

There is an over critical public in boards that have serious problems. Many communities haven't gotten responsible citizens to support them, he said.

However, the state board of education has made some tragic errors in research in the past.

THE STATE board has a big job of coordinating education without having the role of operating the schools as well. Plymouth has been unique because it has kept ahead of its problems, but it will face growing pains with the coming tremendous expansion of its school population.

Plymouth is not looking to the state to bail it out of any financial problems.

Ann Arbor Trail Merchants Move Ahead With New Plan

A group of merchants and the owners of a block in the central business district have decided not to wait for such things as urban renewal or federal aid and are going ahead on their own to improve the downtown area. The merchants are holding forth in the block just east of Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail and they now have under study a plan to establish attractive new store fronts and covered sidewalks that would serve as a "shot in the arm" to the remainder of the business area.

THE PLAN was unfolded at a breakfast meeting of the businessmen's division of the Chamber of Commerce and the Area Planning Commission last Wednesday and caught the eye of a gathering of more than 50 persons who are interested in the future growth and appearance of the city.

In the architect's drawing of the proposal the 11 stores, from Peterson's Drug Store on the corner down through Bonnie Discount Stores, the block was shown with very attractive fronts that could be in keeping with the Colonial atmosphere adopted by the city several years ago.

These new store fronts would be done in a multi-color scheme with attractive and appropriate signs to establish identity, and then be topped off with curved canopies to lend an additional bit of glamour.

THROUGHOUT the discussion it was agreed that this would be a starter on the plans.

Closing Rush Brings Victory

The Plymouth Community has a heart!

This was proven last Wednesday when a last minute drive enabled the Community Fund Drive to go over the top with a total of $108,201.72.

It was the most dramatic finish of any previous drive and the result was in doubt until the captains made their final reports at the annual Community Fund Dinner at the Mayflower Meeting House in the evening.

When the final results were announced the following sums were reported:

Special Gifts	-----	$820
Residential	-----	$8,568.86
Governmental	-----	$671
Educational	-----	$4,466.43
Professional	-----	$2,754
Business	-----	$11,873.60
Industry	-----	$79,047.83
TOTAL	-----	$108,201.72

Despite feverish work by the various groups during the final day the result still was in doubt when the dinner started and remained a mystery until Ed Sawusch, of Anchor Coupling, who headed the Industrial division reported the amazing sum of $79,047.83.

With this report and the assurance that the drive was a success Jim Thomas, of Consumers Power, the Campaign chairman, arose to lead the cheering.

"THIS SURE is a great moment" he commented, "for it means that we have succeeded in passing our goal of $98,565 despite the strikes and work stoppages that were believed to be a barrier during the drive."

It was a great thrill for Sawusch, too, as he confided that he hadn't collected the final contributions until he was enroute to the dinner.

The final report put another Red Feather in Plymouth's cap for it didn't seem possible the goal would be reached when it was noted that more than $27,000 was needed on the last two days.

As late as Wednesday, Chairman Thomas had his doubts and stated that the only hope rested on the returns from business and industry.

"If we can pick up $10,000

Death Takes

Alita Hearn

Miss Alita Hearn, of 1246 West Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, passed away on Friday, Nov. 17 in Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Hearn has been a member of the Plymouth High School teaching staff for 35 years.

She was born in Plymouth in February 1904, graduated from Plymouth High School in 1921, from Eastern Michigan University in 1926 and received her Masters degree from the University of Michigan in 1930.

Miss Hearn is survived by a cousin, Mrs. Howard Houghton of 9889 Joy Road.

Funeral services will be held Monday Nov. 20 at 3 p.m. in Schrader's Funeral Home with entombment at Riverside Mausoleum.

Clarence Stevens Waits 102nd Birthday

Clarence Stevens will be 102 years old on Thanksgiving day. He will celebrate his birthday quietly at his home at 240 North Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens' only son, Clarence, was born on their Canton Township farm on Nov. 23, 1865.

He was 34 years old and on a summer vacation in Gratiot County when he met Grace Hawley who was to become his wife for two short years.

It was eight months after his first wife's tragic death that he again married. His second marriage to Jean Naly lasted 44 years and produced two daughters.

Stevens was graduated from Plymouth High School and has taught music in six country schools throughout Wayne County.

Around the turn of the century, piano tuning appeared to be more lucrative than teaching music and for the next 50 years Stevens plied this trade.

In 1957, at the age of 92, he put down his tools and retired.

Stevens has required the services of a physician only twice in his life and claims to have done nothing 'spectacular' throughout his 102 years.

A life that has spanned over a century is in itself spectacular.

FROM PLYMOUTH TO PLYMOUTH: During the visit of Lord Mayor Frank Chapman, of Plymouth, England, last July he was presented with four trees from the residents of Plymouth, Michigan. The trees arrived safely and the Lord Mayor, second

Police Chief Sounds Warning Early Darkness Brings Hazards

Even though Plymouth has changed to standard time, days are shorter and darkness falls earlier.

Obviously, shorter hours of light bring more hazardous driving conditions. With the approach of winter slippery streets add to the danger.

City Police Chief Robert Corrington warned that when darkness falls drivers are in another world as far as their driving is concerned and they must change daytime habits and attitudes.

In cities, more than three out of five traffic deaths occur at night. In rural areas more than half of traffic deaths happen during darkness.

The Chief said, "Rain or fog distort vision and cut down illumination. Driving into the swirling flakes of a snowstorm is one of the most dangerous of all motoring experiences."

Dirty windshields hamper visibility and aggravate glare, but dirty headlights reduce illumination as much as 25 percent, he said.

Windshield wiperblades that streak should be replaced.

The windshield itself should be cleared thoroughly as well as side and rear windows. Corrington said that the driver who only scrapes a small "peephole" in the frost or snow on his windshield is a serious hazard to everyone.

Among other things, Corrington said that drivers should be certain that their heater-defroster is in top running order and that there is adequate anti-freeze solution in the windshield washer reservoir.

"The most important thing," he said, "is to reduce your speed when it starts to get dark. Turn on your lights and drive 10 mile an hour slower than you normally do in daylight, and if the weather is bad reduce your speed drastically."

Ski Club Deadline Nears

Membership deadline for the Plymouth Teen Ski Club is Wednesday, Nov. 22. Club dues and application forms should be turned in at the Recreation Office in the high school.

The club is open to any Plymouth student in grades seven through 12. Thirteen trips are scheduled for December, January, February and the first weekend in March.

All trips are chaperoned by the parents of members or other adults over 21.

This year the club is sponsored by the Plymouth Recreation Department. Mrs. Price J. Watts, who sponsored the group for the first three years, said that last year's membership of more than 200 made it impractical to continue private sponsorship.

Ski trips are to local areas, where fees are $2 for tow, $2 for rental and 50 cents to $1 for lessons.

Further information is available from the Recreation Department office. School club representatives are: Pam Clampa and Ann Wehmeyer, high school; Lynne Tobin, Junior High East; and Bob Stoeker, Junior High West.

The Stroller . . .

Seated around the table the other evening after dinner the discussion got around to an interesting question — what is required to become an outstanding success in life?

In the group were several business leaders, a school superintendent, a banker, and several industrial tycoons and none of them would commit himself.

They all agreed that there must be a formula, but none could agree on just what was needed, even though they ran the gamut of the usual requirements, such as desire, ambition, and a bit of knowledge.

Sitting listening to them The Stroller was reminded of a day long ago when the same subject had come up during a school session and an elderly, gray-haired gent who was the editor of the home town newspaper and considered a success, chuckled, remarked:

"I have been around a few years and have seen a lot of folks come and go — some to great heights and some with a lot of potential falling by the wayside. But if I was to list the requirements for success I'd have to go something like this — though not exactly in this order —

- "Brains
- "Courage
- "Stamina
- "Capital
- "Inspiration
- "Imagination
- "Persuasion
- "Patience
- "Know-how
- "Cunning
- "Diplomacy
- "Influence
- "Optimism and —
- "A helluva lot of luck."

Nothing The Stroller has heard during the intervening years could improve on the old editor's list although he often has been told that "being in the right place at the right time" has had a lot to do with shaping men's careers.

What do you think?

YOU CAN'T JUDGE A BOOK, Etc. . .

Looking at my good friend "Doc" Salan, one would never believe that he was the type of a man who enjoys a good cry — but he does.

He admitted this the other afternoon when he walked over to a piano and startled his companions with the manner in which he fondled the keys — both for classical and modern music.

"Here's one that gets me," he confided. "It is a tune I like and every time I play it I just blubber all over the place. On days — and there are some — when I feel a bit blue I go to the piano and have a good cry."

It's amazing the surprises a fellow gets along the way.

WHAT! NO TURKEYS IN THE PARK

In the early days of the Plymouth Centennial Committee the members were suggesting unusual events to mark the one hundredth birthday.

At the time it was said that the area between Plymouth and South Lyon was one of the best turkey raising centers in the country and that it might be well to have a turkey sale in Kellogg Park with the slogan —

"Buy Your Pilgrim Turkey in Plymouth."

The idea brought a chuckle, but it was deemed a good idea. This was before the turkey raisers were contacted.

When this contact finally was made what had been a good idea was reduced to naught.

Claiming that they did not have the manpower to handle such sales and that there were no facilities in Kellogg Park to handle an event of this kind, they begged off.

So, there will be no turkey sale in the park this year.

But the idea isn't dead — it possibly will come to life at some future date.

THOUGHTS WHILE STROLLING

Not many cities can match Plymouth when it comes to the enthusiasm of its businessmen. Each month for the past four months they got together for breakfast at 6:30 and 7 o'clock in the morning to discuss the future of the city. Such enthusiasm is a rarity and it is bound to bring results.

When it comes to loyalty, you can't beat the college football fan. Just imagine more than 60,000 persons sitting through a cold, chilly day to watch a team that has lost five games and is going no place in a race. Well, you can find that at the University of Michigan any week the Wolverines are at home.

There was a time when this was "horse and buggy country." Now no one can afford such a luxury.

Right To Dissent Among Blessings For Which We Should Be Thankful

In a few more days we will be celebrating Thanksgiving Day to continue a tradition passed down through the years by the hardy Pilgrims who landed at Plymouth Rock more than three centuries ago.

It will be a celebration far different from the first held in the cold, wind-swept areas of New England when the hardy souls gave their thanks for food and survival.

They had come to a new country in rebellion against what they called tyranny at home. They arrived at Plymouth with high hopes and a great deal of courage. They had visions of a wonderful life and all that went with it.

But much of their dream almost vanished in the early years. There was cold and suffering and all manner of things that would discourage some of the most hardy.

Then their patience and faith paid dividends, for the next harvest was all that could be expected. With the harvest came a new hope and new dreams.

It was then that they offered thanks in all sincerity and partook of a day of feasting. It is a wonderful tradition and today it is just as timely to offer thanks as it was then.

What do we have to be thankful for?

This question may be asked by the cynics who scoff at our war effort, our foreign policy, our high taxes and sundry other things that have come to be looked upon as burdens in our everyday life. Beyond these things there is every good reason to be thankful this Thanksgiving Day.

OUR GREAT AMERICAN HERITAGE . . .

We no longer face the problems and burdens of the early Pilgrims. American ingenuity and science has taken much of the drudgery out of life.

The modern housewife no longer has need to slave in the kitchen or in other tasks to keep her home and raise a family.

Men's work has been simplified and machinery and automation have come to his aid. Nowhere else in the world does man's work appear as simplified as it does in America. They even have machines now to pick berries for the farmer.

In today's world we live in luxury, taxes and all, compared to the early Pilgrims, who were given to thank The Almighty just for survival.

Our reason for thanks today goes far beyond the material things.

Modern medicine and science has prolonged life. Automation has helped us get material things far beyond wildest dreams of even a century ago.

But, these are not the main reasons to express thanks.

On this day — and every day, for that matter — we should express thanks for something that is dear to America. It is the right to dissent.

Nowhere else in the world can you criticize your leaders, voice opinions against government or their agencies and still be welcome in any community.

Here in the United States, even a minister of the Gospel recently criticized the President of the United States with him in the audience. Only in America could it happen.

In many countries around the globe such a thing is unthinkable. In many cases it would mean death for such action.

But, here in America, we can say "no" to anything we don't like and still go our merry way.

The right to dissent is the greatest right we have in our pursuit of life, liberty and happiness.

For that we should give thanks — not only on Thanksgiving Day, but every day.

editorial United Police Forces: Why Are We Waiting?

During the Plymouth Community Leadership Conference last spring, one of the major accomplishments was a recommendation for a change in the state laws that would help to bring about better police protection for the entire area.

At the time, it was felt that none of the political subdivisions held sufficient strength in its own force, but that a union of forces would be ideal protection.

Fortunately, the two state representatives in the area — Rep. James Tierney (D-Garden City) and Rep. Louis Schmidt (R-Livonia) — were in the audience and heard the pleas and recommendation.

They agreed to join hands in a bi-partisan effort to get the law changed and make possible the plan to permit the contractual agreements. They went to work immediately and it wasn't long until the necessary amendment to the law was passed.

All agreed that it was a good job well done and a problem had been solved.

That was last spring. But to date, no effort has been made to implement the law and join the forces.

In the interim, there have been riots in the metropolitan area and fear has run the gamut in the suburban sections. But, in spite of it all, no effort has been made to join the police forces of the City of Plymouth, the City of Northville, or what is available in the Townships.

What are they waiting for? This question was put to Dick Lauterbach, a member of the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees and chairman of the Leadership Conference Committee on police.

"Our Committee hasn't had a meeting," he admitted, "because of the unification study now taking place. We figured it would be best to wait until we get the findings of this group. It may be that the area will be unified and the police job will be done."

In the meantime, the change in our police protection is the Emergency Group arranged by the County Sheriff. Should trouble break out, we are little better off than we were at the time of the Conference last spring.

Why wait any longer?

United Thanksgiving Planned By Churches

United Community Thanksgiving Services will be held Wednesday, Nov. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church, 680 Church Street.

"For This We Give Thanks" will be the sermon given by Rev. Paul Thompson of the First Baptist Church.

Other members of the clergy participating in the Thanksgiving services are Father Schaden of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Rev. Lewis Brown of the First Presbyterian Church, Rev. Father James Machak of St. Kenneth's Catholic Church, Lt. Ted Dalberg of the Salvation Army, Rev. George Versteeg of St. Luke's Methodist Church and Rev. Ronald Corl of the First Methodist Church.

Community Invited To Meeting

There will be an inter-faith layman's group meeting this Sunday, Nov. 19 at 7:30 in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church.

The meeting will be devoted to the consideration of a low cost housing project for the Plymouth community.

Rev. Roger Miller, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church of Detroit, will be guest speaker. The Congregational Church has completed a low-cost housing project and Rev. Miller will answer questions regarding the project.

All Plymouth residents and ministers are welcome to attend.

The Top Side of Life

By Rev. David M. Strang

THE DISSECTION OF IMPRESSIONS OF AN OPEN HEARING ON OPEN HOUSING BY ONE OF THE INMATES OF THE PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY:

The box score after two hours of listening was 22 people speaking in favor of an open housing ordinance for the City of Plymouth, 15 speaking against it, and three huge question marks.

The score-keeper was biased, of course. He went to the hearing with his mind made up. Is there anyone who didn't? Even the Commissioners?

I thought, at one point midway through the hearing, "How could anyone fail to be persuaded by all the beautiful statements about brotherhood and morality and human rights?"

None of the fifteen who spoke against the ordinance seemed persuaded, though. At least one Commissioner was totally unmoved by the whole thing. As I left Monday night he was saying, "I'm against this ordin-

How can anyone put his heart into "Thanksgiving" when there's so much violence and grief in the world?

It's not a new question. The Bible tells of good men who struggled hard for an answer. But this is what they found: The times of greatest trouble are the times when men need the spirit of Thanksgiving most of all.

Gratitude in the midst of "good times" and material prosperity comes all too easily, and is apt to be superficial.

When forced to look more deeply into life—to find a more unselfish love and other riches of Spirit—only then do we begin to discover the real meaning of Thanksgiving, to see more clearly man's constant debt to God for everything that is truly ance for three reasons....."

I didn't stick around to hear the reasons because I think the two of us are speaking in different languages and can't understand each other anyway.

Who knows, maybe most clergymen are speaking in a different tongue than the people in the pews. (I wonder if it's too late in life to get a job selling insurance?)

The consistent argument from the people who were against the ordinance had nothing to do with human rights and brotherhood. Certainly, most of the people who hate the ordinance love Negroes, but "You can't tell me what to do with my property."

Did you ever listen to a six-year-old child explain why he won't let his sister play with his crayons?

AND WHAT ABOUT this brotherhood stuff? Why don't rational men respond to the idea of brotherhood?

Leopold Tyrman, a writer from Poland, after observing American society, remarked, "Maybe it would have been wiser to demand that men be cousins—brothers are more informal and find it easier to kill each other."

One person at the hearing said, "We don't want nobody else's problems." There just isn't any rational answer to that kind of statement.

That's another problem. This public hearing attempted to be rational with a thing about which few people think rationally.

Rolf Forsberg, a motion picture producer who is currently working on some film ideas with the New Detroit Committee, claims that a rational documentary kind of approach won't move anyone. The appeal has to be emotional, he says, and he is probably right.

The Declaration of Independence—that ought to be enough to move some people emotionally. Doesn't it bring red, white and blue tears to our patriotic eyes? Our free country? Our flag?

Yet one man at the hearing, who teaches in Detroit, confessed that he has a rough time explaining it to Negro children. "I tell them it's an idea we are working on."

That's the answer to the man who wanted to know "What the hell's the problem?" This idea about "liberty and justice for all" is a problem.

We haven't quite got it figured out yet. Tomorrow maybe? Maybe.

good. This kind of Thanksgiving, when challenged by adversity, only grows stronger.

Treachery and tyranny were closing in on him, the Bible says, but Daniel "prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime."

In the middle of a raging storm at sea, with the ship

he was on about to be smashed on the rocks, Paul "took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all."

Whether faced by hungry multitudes or standing before the tomb of Lazarus, Jesus first gave thanks.

In the sublimest example of all, on the night before his crucifixion, during the darkest hours the world has known, Jesus "took the cup, and gave thanks"—and then invited those who were with him to share in his life.

The basis of his Thanksgiving, as he indicated often, was a deep and constant acknowledgement of his imperishable unity with God—something that filled his being and governed everything he did. He expected that we too would feel it—would say "our Father" because we really had to, because we saw it was so.

Isn't this the only basis for Thanksgiving? Material blessings just don't go around. Tables are empty, and sometimes a chair is empty.

But there is always a reason for Thanksgiving. It's built into the structure of things, and it never changes.

We catch clear glimpses of it when we're moved by compassion, reaching out in totally unselfish love. Then we know ourselves better—and our neighbor. And thanks flows out. Perhaps what it comes down to is this:

To give thanks to God really means to give ourselves, our hearts and minds. This is only giving back what we owe to Him in the first place.

But we must consciously give ourselves to God in order to know the blessing of what it means to be His sons.

"Simply asking that we may love God will never make us love Him," wrote Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of Christian Science; "but the longing to be better and holier, expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we are awake in His likeness."

Student Art On Display At Dunning Library

The ancient art of Batik has been brought up to date by Plymouth High School's fourth year art class.

Working with melted wax and cold-water dyes the students have produced a variety of wall hangings covering a wide range of subjects.

The work will be on display at the Dunning-Hough Library until Dec. 5.

Cathie Goddard has three Batik hangings on display—"The Listener," "Temptation and Adam and Eve" and "Trojan War."

Sue Van Antwerp's "Mysterious Knight" is on display, Tom Elias' "Hip Hippie," Mike Brady has a group of figure studies and Sue Hopkins has done some bold simple shapes in a range of colors.

Regan Fluckey's batik is the brooding "Contemplation," Heidi Thornbladh, the lone junior in this senior class, did her experimental batik at home using candle wax, coffee, and iodine.

Specialty of the House Menu Change With Shrimp

MRS. BURTON HARRISON

Mrs. Burton Harrison enjoys being a housewife and mother. Her lovely home at 47020 Beechcrest and her warm smile as she talks of her family leave no doubts that she finds her role in life a rewarding one. The Harrisons moved to Plymouth from Berkley one and a half years ago.

There are two Harrison girls—Barbara, a Michigan State sophomore and Cathy, a freshman at Northern Michigan in Marquette.

Two sons keep things lively at home—Tom, a junior and Jim, a sophomore at Plymouth High School.

MRS. HARRISON has a recipe for Creole Shrimp that will taste deliciously different after that last portion of Thanksgiving turkey has found its way to school or work in a sandwich.

CREOLE SHRIMP

1 green pepper
1 medium onion
1/2 cup diced celery
3 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 medium cans tomato sauce
3/4 cups water
1 1/2 pound bag of frozen shrimp

Saute chopped green pepper, chopped onion and celery in margarine about 10 minutes. Add three tablespoons of flour and mix until bubbly.

Blend in two cans of tomato sauce and add 3/4 cups of water. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Simmer for 20 minutes.

Add bag of frozen shrimp, making sure all the shrimp is covered with sauce and then simmer for 10 minutes, or until shrimp is pink.

Serve over rice. Makes four ample servings.

Tell It To Glenney

453-5500

Women across the nation will give thanks this week for the many blessings they enjoy as Americans living in a great nation.

Home, Family, Country and Health will be at the top of many lists.

Here are a few "Thank you's" to sprinkle somewhere in between....

The first drops of spring rain on a newly planted garden.

The smell of a freshly baked batch of cookies.

A line of white sheets spanking in the wind and sunshine.

"Swell dinner, Dear."

The smell of leaves burning in the autumn twilight.

A phone call from a close friend about nothing at all.

The velvet softness of a baby's skin.

A perfect pie.

Moonlight glistening on fresh fallen snow.

"I love you, Mom."

A Plymouth woman, who shall remain anonymous for obvious reasons has a red face due to the cold weather and an experience in one of the town's parking lots.

The fine dusting of snow and frost that was deposited on the rear windows of many parked cars made it necessary for the season's first scraping job.

Caught without a scraper our gal chose the next best thing—a comb. After some minutes of intense cold work the job was done to her satisfaction and she gratefully opened the door to the relative warmth of the car's interior.

It was then that she realized she had cleaned the wrong car!

Members of the Plymouth Friends of Northville State Hospital met this month at the home of Mrs. Arthur Grisebel, 9345 Ivanhoe Drive, to prepare gifts for their Dec. 7 Christmas Party.

Ruth Kelley Teaching Under Unique Plan

Ruth Kelley, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Ralph B. Kelley, 333 Arthur, is student teaching in Canton, Mo., under the unique student teaching program offered at Culver-Stockton College.

Miss Kelley, a graduate of Adrian Senior High School, is teaching in elementary school after having completed teaching methods courses on campus. She will student teach until Christmas vacation when she will return to campus for a two-week post-student teaching and evaluation workshop which serves as a review for final examinations.

PLYMOUTH BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL Women held their annual membership tea recently in the Thunderbird Inn. President Daisy Proctor (left) greets two prospective members, Dorothy Puckett and Jean Horvath, as Hanna Strassen pours a cup of tea. The club will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting Monday, Nov. 20 at 6:30 in the Hillside Inn. James Rossman, Superintendent of Plymouth Schools, will be featured as guest speaker. Guests may make reservations with Mrs. Proctor (453-5045).

Township Spares Old Dump

Plymouth Township's dump was given a possible five more years of life Tuesday night when the Board agreed with Dial Trucking Co. to let them close Sly drain running through the property. The dump is a land fill operation and if the drain isn't covered the dump will have to close in about two years. Right now the drain runs through a thirty foot deep open trough.

and progressive public in the past, and I hope that it will remain this way," he said. The superintendent offered one solution to the mounting costs borne by local school districts. "I think there should be some state, federal, and local sharing on some things. The state can't afford to have bad schools in Michigan and the government can't afford to have bad schools across the nation." He said, "It is a fact of life that the better educated man pays more taxes and the poorly educated man becomes tax supported."

Community Fund Drive Goes Over Top

from business and an additional $16,000 from industry," he confided, "we will just about make it."

EVEN WHEN the captains started their report he wasn't sure. And the setting had all the drama of a theatrical play. One of the officials sat at a table with an adding machine and kept a running total.

Hopes soared when Don Golem, chairman of the Business Division, reported $11,873.60. This was well over the $10,000 hoped for, but the goal still was far from sight.

Then came the Industrial report and the more than 200 workers in attendance at the dinner relaxed in the knowledge that their work had not gone for naught.

Among the first to congratulate Chairman Thomas was Ed Schening, General Manager of the Burroughs plant, who served as the chairman last year.

"Great job Jim," he remarked, "and the workers are to be congratulated. That final total is sure a great thrill."

Chairman Thomas was profuse in his thanks to all the workers, and presented each captain with a plaque in appreciation of his efforts.

The other highlight of the evening was a timely address by Judd Arnett, feature columnist of the Detroit Free Press.

A Local Wine With Tradition

HUGE STORAGE TANKS—Wine is stored in huge casks or barrel type tanks that are loosely plugged to allow gases to escape. Some of the tanks have a 22,000 gallon capacity.

"Some of the most dreadful mischiefs that afflict mankind proceed from wine; it is the cause of disease, quarrels, sedition, idleness, aversion to labor and every species of domestic disorder."
—Ancient Greeks

"Who loves not wine, women and song Remains a fool his whole life long."
—German verse

The latter assumption is the more popular one at LaSalle Wines and Champagne, Inc., on Grand River Avenue in Farmington. LaSalle was begun by Morris Twoney as the Windsor Wine Co. in Walkerville, Ont. But when Prohibition was repealed in the United States, the company moved to Farmington and set up shop under its new name on April 10, 1933.

And for the last 34 years the firm has occupied the old Detroit United Railways building here.

It has shown that a Michigan firm can succeed in an industry dominated by California products and imports — in fact, LaSalle has an importing subsidiary.

PART OF THE CURRENT success of the domestic winery can be attributed to Fritz Doerflinger, chief wine maker and chemist.

Fritz — he tells everyone to call him by his first name because his last name is too hard to pronounce — joined the company in February 1967, and he proudly announced that sales figures rose 15 per cent since he started.

It appears that LaSalle has a good thing in Fritz because his family has been in the wine business since 1411 at Muellheim in Baden, Southwest State, Germany.

The chemist attended Geisenheim Wine Institute for Chemical Research for Wine, reputed to be one of the best of its kind in the world.

THE CHIEF CHEMIST'S job at LaSalle is to make sure that every "batch" of wine meets stringent government requirements for varying degrees of alcoholic content. First the grapes are crushed. Fritz explained that LaSalle uses three basic kinds of grapes which are all grown in Michigan.

Probably the most common is the Concord, which is blue. From this grape is made dark wines, chianti, burgundy, port, and sweet red wine.

Next is the Niagara, colored a yellowish-gold, which yields white wine, sauterne, Rhine, sweet sauterne, and sweet white wine.

The other grape is named Delaware and is a rose color.

The Delaware's juice is blended with the Niagara's to make various sherries and a muscatel, both of which must be baked for several weeks at about 150 degrees temperature to create the right flavor.

GRAPE JUICE is stored, after crushing the grapes, in fermentation tanks where the sugar already in the juice turns to alcohol. This year LaSalle used 15,000 tons of grapes.

Corn sugar might be added to the juice to speed fermentation. Cane and beet sugar is used only for sweetening.

There are 20 fermentation tanks all lined with glass, each holding approximately 5,980 gallons of juice.

Fritz explained that from the fermentation tanks, the wine is then pumped into storage tanks. They have 135 of these tanks at LaSalle, some with a capacity of 22,000 gallons.

When the first fermentation is complete, the wine is then drawn off the lees (the mass of skins, stalks and stems). It is stored for the balance of the winter, and in the spring it begins its slow fermentation.

During the second fermentation some of the wine might be mixed with brandy. Brandy stops the fermentation, leaving the desired sweetness.

Any wine that has over 14 per cent alcoholic content has had brandy or something similar added to it.

When the wine mixes with oxygen, it turns to vinegar. One of Fritz's main jobs is to make sure that not too much wine has turned to vinegar while fermenting and bottling.

Fritz makes an acid test of the wine which takes about half an hour. The test is for vinegar content in the "batch." If there is too much, adjustments must be made by adding more sugar.

Fritz visits his home ever so often where his brother Herman operates the family winery. Their mother, who was 93 in September, still controls the winery and also owns most of Fritz's home town.

THE WINERY EMPLOYS 16 full time workers who in 1966 helped produce 2,400,000 bottles of wines which netted $1,044,000 in sales for that year.

Twoney died four years ago, and the winery is now owned by Chamberlin of America, a New York-based corporation that owns many wineries throughout the U.S.

The company also maintains branch warehouses and sales offices in Battle Creek and Grand Rapids. It has 22 distributors in the lower peninsula and 12 in the upper.

The Farmington winery also has a California subsidiary called LaSalle of California which handles the company's imports from Spain, France, Italy, the Rhine Valley and other parts of the world.

Last year LaSalle earned $1,575,000 from its imported wines sales.

MAKING ACID TEST—Fritz Doerflinger, chief chemist, conducts tests on the wine to determine the amount of vinegar that may have formed during fermenting and bottling. The test takes about a half an hour.

OLD, OLD BUILDING—LaSalle has been in Farmington since the repeal of prohibition, 34 years. The building once housed the Detroit United Railways company which at one time supplied electricity to the old Masonic Temple in Farmington.

WINE QUICKLY BOTTLED—Nearly 1,700 cases of wine are packed a day. The bottlers must be careful that the wine is not exposed to too much oxygen which will turn the wine to vinegar. As the bottles travel along the belt they are cleaned by vacuum—the dirt is sucked out with air.

'Garden Ladies' Share Their Love For Flowers

BY MARGARET MILLER
The class project for the start of the day was making small dolls out of corn husks

--like the Indians used to do. The students were eight of Farmington's handicapped youngsters gathered in Peter Solar's classroom in Dunckel Junior High.

The teachers were visitors to the class—but visitors who have come to be well known. Mrs. Donald Loe and Mrs. Bruce McAllister are members of the Hill and Dale Garden Club, and they are two of the "Flower Ladies" the club now sends to 14 special education classes with 150 children.

HILL AND DALE members have been working on this garden therapy project since 1961, and have increased its scope over the years. Some of the members--now numbering between 80 and 90--go into the classrooms every two weeks helping the youngsters do simple flower arrangements, or maybe make bird feeders or pine cone trinkets. Others plan the projects. Still others take care of assembling all the materials needed. It's a total effort on the part of the club.

MARYLOU SELDON, who teaches trainable retarded children at Beechview School, found the project so helpful that she now is a Hill and Dale member.

"These children have to learn to enjoy an experience," Miss Seldon said.

"Many of them never have known the joy of making something with their hands, and it usually takes only one class time for the 'garden ladies' to help them find it."

"After that, there's a communication established that is a teacher's joy to observe."

THE GARDEN club raises funds for the therapy work with projects like the Christmas Walk, planned for 10 Farmington homes from 1 to 7 p.m. Sunday Dec. 10.

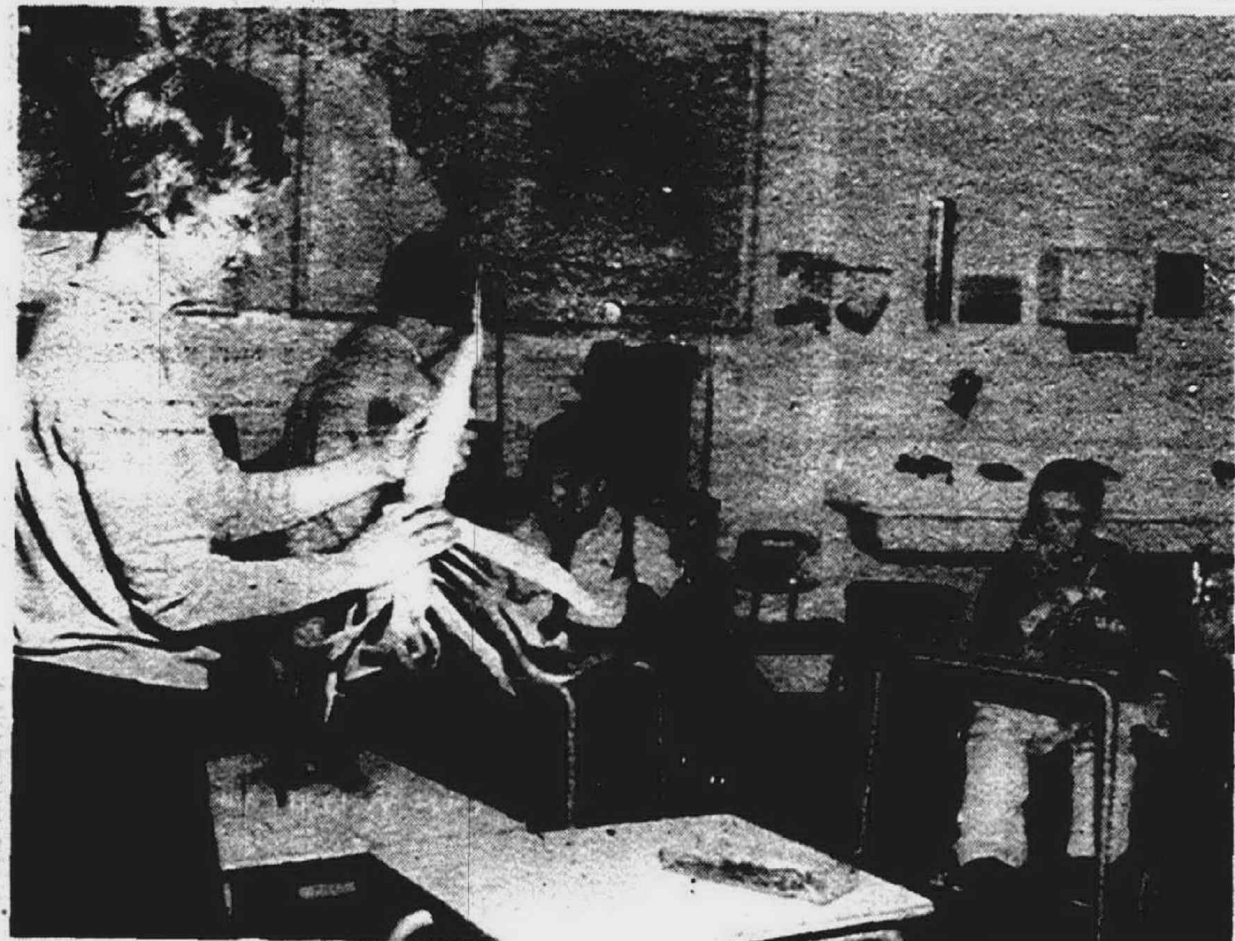

Eight of the homes will be decorated with some of the handsome arrangements the members have been creating in day-long workshops.

Another will have boutique items for sale, and the tenth will have refreshments.

Tickets, printed with maps showing the homes to be toured, may be purchased by calling 476-1358 or from any Hill and Dale member.

WOMEN ATTENDING are asked to wear low-heeled shoes, and they will be given paper slippers to go over them.

And from the proceeds will come great stacks of equipment like the corn cobs for the dolls--to bring a bit of the love of flowers and growing things into lives that need such love.

Auxiliary Meets

The Southeastern District Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries will hold its annual meeting Tuesday, Nov. 21, at 10:30 a.m., in the Wayne County Medical Society Building, 1010 Antietam, Detroit. Guest speaker will be Dr. Peter S. Beckett, of the Lafayette Clinic.

RED HOT BALL

The center of the earth, scientists believe, is an extremely hot molten ball 4,000 miles in diameter.

For A Viola Soloist, A Triply Tough Job

No, that wasn't a misprint. A viola player--not a violinist--will be guest soloist today (Sunday) at 4 p.m. when the Plymouth Symphony performs a free public concert in Plymouth High School.

A viola you've heard of--but a viola soloist? And solo music for the viola?

THE PERFORMER will be Paul Doktor, who admits he had had a triply tough task in popularizing the instrument. "First, I have to introduce the viola. Too often it's known only through the amateur string quartet where the viola is the weakest player," he said before rehearsal one day.

Historically, the viola has been used as a "fill-in" instrument, much like a contralto or tenor in a chorus. The tone is low and rich; it doesn't sing out high and crisp like the violin's.

Where the violin is tuned E-A-D-G, the viola is tuned A-D-G-C, the same notes as the cello but one octave higher. The viola is several inches longer than the violin.

"SECOND," said Doktor, "I must introduce the composer and the composition."

It's not that there's a shortage of music for the solo viola, he said. Rather, the problems are that much so-called viola music doesn't show the instrument off to best advantage, and the good music was written by obscure composers whom the general public doesn't recognize.

Doktor cited concertos by Hummel and Rolla which he said "can stand up next to Mozart's."

Hummel and Rolla? Doktor explained that great composers often wrote solo violin music for a particular performer--Brahms for Josef Joachim, Tchaikovsky for Leopold Auer, Beethoven and Mendelssohn for others.

But there weren't any great violists around to collect the same sort of favors for that instrument.

"THIRD," said Doktor, "I have to introduce myself."

He has done so.

Coming to the U.S. from Vienna in 1947, he taught until 1951 at the University of Michigan, where he was one of the original members of the Stanley Quartet. In 1965 he did an unprecedented series of three concerts in New York. He has founded the New York String Sextet. He has performed in European festivals.

And so, having personally made a reputation as a performer, Doktor is out to popularize viola compositions and the instrument.

SUNDAY he will play two works with the Plymouth Symphony.

"Harold in Italy" by Hector Berlioz is not a concerto but "a symphonic work where the viola plays the hero of the story," weaving an obbligato, in and out.

PAUL DOKTOR, violist, in rehearsal.

If you're soft, don't try to keep up with the others. Taking an occasional load off your feet may take an overload off your heart, says the Michigan Heart Association.

Take Planters Inside

If you have small-sized outdoor planters in which annual flowers are blooming why not bring planter and all indoors before killing frost? Even if you haven't a window sill wide enough for the planter it can be set in a sunny place on the floor after protecting the wood with plastic. Petunias on the Thanksgiving dinner table are quite possible.

IN THE MANNER FRENCH—Mme. Genevieve Antoine Dariaux (right) autographs a copy of her book, "Elegance" for Mrs. Nadine Cardwell, of Farmington, a member of the Soroptimist Club that sponsored the Parisian as a Town Hall speaker. Mme. Dariaux also wrote a follow-up book, "Elegance in Entertaining."

Fashion 'Insiders' Watch Customers Decide The Hemlines

BY MARGARET MILLER
Women's Editor

Those inside the world of high fashion can't know if, when or how much hemlines are going to plunge.

That was the word from a visiting expert from that glamorous domain, Mme. Genevieve Antoine Dariaux, who addressed the Farmington Town Hall last week.

"It is the press and the customers who must decide that," she asserted.

"If Jackie Kennedy will order a dress well below her knees, and if the press will make it a big story, then we must wait to see if others will follow. I don't know."

Mme. Dariaux insisted this is true despite a protest from one of her listeners that clothes available in the stores offer women little real choice.

"If you refuse to buy what you don't like, and tell the buyer you don't like it, they will be quick to get the idea," she said.

SHE DID venture a prediction that "if styles change, it will be drastically—we will not have a skirt a LITTLE longer."

Big fashion changes come in cycles of about 10 years, said Mme. Dariaux, who for eight years was directrice of the Nina Ricci fashion house in Paris and still is connected with the house.

Small fashions—like today's popular chain belts—have a six-month duration, she added.

"A truly elegant woman is never in the latest fashion," the Parisian said. "She doesn't follow the fads."

IN TODAY'S fashion scene, she said, the matched costume in all one color has been very much favored by women of elegance.

She didn't recommend skirts much above the knee "except for the young with very good legs," but said "the stocking" is a mark of high style that an older woman can very well adopt.

She admitted regretfully that hats are worn less and less

"because the milliner is fighting a losing battle with the hairdresser."

IN THE COSTUME she chose for her Town Hall appearance at the Northland Theatre and later at a celebrity luncheon at Glen Oaks Country Club, Mme. Dariaux illustrated her theories beautifully.

The outfit was entirely done in a deep brown that matched the off-the-face nutria hat under which was tucked most of her steel-gray hair.

Her dress was A-line with bias details in the cut. "I love the A-line because it suits my figure," she said. "I never would wear a straight shift, and when they were popular I cheated with suits."

MATCHING THE dress, which was mid-knee length, were opaque brown panti-hose and buckled pumps with one-inch heels.

Outside, she warded off the chilly winds with a cleric-type nutria band she fastened around her neck, and topped the outfit with a well-cut red coat, also cut on A-lines.

ELEGANCE for any woman, said Mme. Dariaux, is not a matter of youth or beauty or spending a lot of money.

Instead, she added, it takes thought and intelligence and advance planning.

And scrupulous cleanliness—"A bar of soap is the cornerstone of elegance."

Last, but very important, added Mme. Dariaux, it requires serenity and compassion of spirit because "a heartless person cannot be totally elegant."

Parents, TV Don't Teach Kids Reality Of Power

By TIM RICHARD
Sunday Editor

Today's "command generation," one of the most productive and influential in the history of America, has failed miserably to explain itself to its children and neighbors, says Dr. Albert Burke.

The lecturer told a Northville Town Hall audience that the command generation's youngsters are growing up with no concept of the nation's influence and power, and no realistic idea of how to use it.

Hence, the hippies. Hence, the youthful rebellious withdrawal from society.

Thus, a need to take a hard look at the kind of history the kids are getting.

A BROADCASTER and lecturer, Dr. Burke was once director of graduate studies in conservation at Yale University. His background is in science, economics, but mostly in foreign relations and languages.

In his Northville talk, he was concerned over two specific young individuals:

A 17-year-old girl who had turned hippie and who considered the command generation hypocritical for failing to practice ideal love and non-interference in the affairs of others.

His television-watching 15-year-old son.

TO THE HIPPIE, the command generation had done nothing but burn babies with napalm in Viet Nam.

She had no idea that the same generation is also sending antibiotics abroad to hold down death rates, that it had fought a war against a genocide-minded Nazi, that it had weathered a depression and built a resilient economy.

"No other generation had fought as hard or did as much to change the world in which we live for the benefit of this girl," he said.

HIS SON, he found, had been told by television that American prisoners of war "had a ball" (Hogan's Heroes), that the Marines are dopes bossing other dopes (Gomer Pyle), that

More than 100 million telephones in the continental United States and Canada are within fingertip reach. Michigan Bell customers themselves last year dialed 60 per cent of the 202 million long distance calls they made.

The average worker had to labor 12 hours in 1900 to earn enough to pay for residence phone service. Today, he needs to work less than two hours.

Fifteen years ago, only 10 per cent of the telephones in homes were extensions. Now, 44 per cent of the residence phones are extensions.

the Navy isn't to be taken seriously (McHale's Navy).

So devoid is television of historical accuracy, he found, that any attempt to show reality is grandly labeled a "special."

To Dr. Burke, the prison camps that Hogan's Heroes treated lightly were twisted, misinforming versions of the truth of Corregidor.

And who is to blame for this kind of misinformation and lack of information?

The command generation itself, which produces the shows.

AT BOTTOM was the issue of power.

"History had played a lousy trick on her (the hippie)," Dr. Burke said. "She had been born in a rich and powerful nation. That kind of nation necessarily influences and interferes with others, whether it acts or not."

"There is absolutely no way she could cop out of power."

Yet "youngsters are completely unaware of the past and unprepared for the future."

Don't Count Rocks Out Of Swim Title

Although he lost six regulars, including two of the four members of the station championship medley relay team, Plymouth High Swimming Coach Dick Gretzinger is looking forward to the coming campaign with a great deal of anticipation and hope.

Gretzinger, a former PHS great and a member of the 1961 state championship team, stepped into the head coaching job a year ago when John McFall turned in his resignation effective at the end of the first semester.

It was quite a step for the personable Gretzinger who found himself with the top job in his first year as a teacher and coach. However, he took over without qualms and quietly built the Rocks into a fourth place finish in the Suburban Six League and a ninth place spot in the state championship finals.

In addition, he produced the school's first championship medley relay team from a quartet that included seniors Biff Leonard and Craig Foust and juniors Pat McCord and Chick Porter.

So, he's starting the 1967-68 campaign with two holdovers from the relay team and a group of 16 lettermen that he believes will make Plymouth one of the better outfits in the league this year.

"WE SHOULD BE much better, perhaps as good as second or third with an outside chance of fighting for the championship," smiled Gretzinger. "There are two big reasons for this: Plymouth has a much better and stronger team than a year ago and the Suburban Six League will be more evenly balanced than in 1967 when Trenton and Allen Park stood out over the others."

"Plymouth should be a contender if my boys improve as much as I believe they will. However, Redford Union will be a challenger with practically every boy back from a year ago and Trenton and Allen Park still pack a lot of power. One always has to consider Bentley because of the number of swimmers available at that school. As it now stands, I feel that only Belleville will be out of the running."

Two transfers, breaststroker Steve Porter, a senior from Ecorse, and diver Chris Leggett, a sophomore from Missouri, have bolstered Plymouth's hopes. The latter is one of the best looking diving prospects in several years and the former is expected to fit into the relay team plans.

Gretzinger is looking forward to big years from co-captains Bruce Gould and Pat McCord. The former is one of the better freestylers on the squad and the latter ranks as one of the state's outstanding swimmers in the butterfly division.

Returning lettermen and those who figure in Gretzinger's plans include: backstroker Bob Andes; breaststrokers Bob Reinas, Jack Smith and Rob Gottshall; freestylers John Norman, Mark Whitaker, Jim Gilbert, Dick Pugsley, Len Wendell, Bruce and Terry Gould in the shorter distances and Wally Beglinger and Craig Notebaert in the longer events; backstroker Glenn Beauman; breaststroker Brian Shaw; butterfly, McCord, Terry Gould and Ed Jewkes; and divers Leggett, Jim Shinn and Cliff Rowlands.

The Rocks get their first taste of competition on Nov. 31 when they travel to Wyandotte High. All told, they have six major tests before the Christmas holidays including: home opener against Redford Union on Dec. 7; the annual Suburban Six Relays at Redford Union on Dec. 9; Fordson High at Plymouth on Dec. 12; at Allen Park on Dec. 14; and a home meet against Southfield on Dec. 19.

PLOTTING BIG THINGS in the Suburban Six Leagues winning competition this year are Co-Captains Bruce Gould and Pat McCord and Plymouth High Coach Dick Gretzinger. The Rocks wound up fourth in the final standings a year ago but the medley relay team became the first in school history to win a state championship. Gretzinger and the two holdovers from last year are looking for a big upsurge in Plymouth High's performances this season.

MARK OF CIRCULATION INTEGRITY

By George Maskin
observing sports

It was Sunday night... and you're among 14,801 in the Grand River Sports Palace.

Or did you make 14,802... since you were a late arrival?

The game's in the second period. The Wings have just gone out in front, taking a 2-1 lead from the Montreal Canadiens, one of their arch rivals in the National Hockey League.

From the Wings' bench, No. 7 comes over the boards to take his place on the Wings' front line.

No. 7 is Livonia's Norm Ullman, now in his 13th campaign with the Wings. And don't call him an old man because there's Gordie Howe, who has completed two decades with the same team!

The Wings push the puck forward into the Montreal net. Ullman and Bruce MacGregor maneuver the disc around... then it's MacGregor off to the right of the Montreal goalie as Ullman slips into the clear to the goalie's left.

MacGregor rips a perfect pass 10 feet in front of the cage... Ullman is there and with one swish of his big stick the puck goes flying into the net.

The red light flashes... the Wings lead, 3-1, and the capacity audience goes wild.

ULLMAN ACCEPTS the pats on the back from his mates... a few bearhugs, too.

In the pressbox, a few seats to our left, Wings Publicist Ron Cantera grabs the microphone used to relay news to the newspapermen, radio and TV fellows.

"That was Ullman's 300th goal of his career with the Wings," says Cantera. "That makes him only the 10th player to achieve the distinction (300 goals) and he's the fourth Red Wing."

The word must have gotten down to the Red Wing bench in a hurry. One of Ullman's mates rushed to the referee and claimed the puck for Normie's growing list of souvenirs.

"Gee, I had forgotten all about it," Ullman told us the next evening before flying out to California with the Wings.

"But, when I realized it, that goal gave me a special thrill. It's really something to be in such select company among National Hockey League scorers."

Just before we called Normie, Cantera was noting:

"The Wings have four 300-goal scorers—and two of them live in Livonia. How do you like those apples?"

The other Livonian, of course, is Alex Delvecchio, the veteran Wings' captain who as of this week had 329 NHL goals to his credit. He lives about a mile from Ullman.

Rounding out the Wings' 300-goal club are Howe and the retired Ted Lindsay.

IT WAS A NATURAL question to ask of Ullman: When did you score No. 1 in the NHL?

He hesitated. "It was so long ago, but I think it was against Toronto... yes, I'm sure now... it was the Leafs. I guess I'd been with the Wings for five or six games."

He was 10 when he played in his first game back home in Edmonton, Canada.

In 1954 he got his first crack as a pro, playing for the Edmonton Flyers. The next season he was up with the Wings... and he never left the Detroit club.

It's little wonder that Ullman advocates pee-wee hockey for youngsters and is encouraged by the prowess his own son, Gordie, 11, has shown.

Gordie, incidentally, wasn't named for Gordie Howe, as many people think. He was named for Ullman's brother who passed away.

Bentley Has Only 3 Holdovers But Looms As Contender

The loss of nine out of 12 from his squad might shake up most high school basketball coaches.

If George Fefles of Bentley High is "shook," he isn't saying so . . . or looking that way.

The fact is, Fefles sees no reason for the basketball fortunes at Bentley to drop.

"We have the tradition here for winners and it passes down from year to year," said Fefles who has turned out Suburban Six League champs in three of his five years as Bentley's head coach.

Bentley also has a history of winning district Class A championships, the most recent of which was last season.

"Once you start with winners, they come easier and easier," Fefles said. "The boys take pride and more pride in following in the footsteps of their predecessors."

IT HELPS, too, that of the three returning veterans on the Bentley team, one is Ken Bollin, who stands 6-6 and hauled down All-Observer, All-Suburban and All-League honors last season.

Bollin is back as a senior after a fine sophomore season and a brilliant junior campaign.

He's a strong scorer and a powerful rebounder. On top of that, with his size, he commands the situation—almost like Wilt Chamberlain does for the Philadelphia 76ers.

Back with Bollin are Dan Doyle, who stands 6-2, and Jim Powers, 5-10.

The reserves have graduated some fine talent for this year's Bentley varsity.

Players like Ron Hurelbut,

CHAMPIONSHIP HOPES of Bentley High, perennial power in the Suburban Six League basketball race, rest with these three veterans who go over season prospects with Coach George Fefles (right). Bentley will have ample height in (from left) Dan Doyle, Jim Powers and Ken Bollin and is expected to rank with the most outstanding quintets in southeastern Michigan.

AUTHOR ROBIN MOORE AND NEW BOOK

Inept Diplomats Hurt U.S. War Stance--Author

by GLENNA MERILLAT

We are fighting a dirty, frustrating, confusing war in Viet Nam but Robin Moore, guest speaker at the recent Livonia Hall series is certain it can be won.

Moore is popularly known as author of, "The Green Berets," nickname of the Special Forces troops fighting in Viet Nam, and has written a new book called "The Country Team."

U.S. strength in the troubled areas of the world rests with the "Country Team"—our ambassadors, the C.I.A., the Military Assistance Committee, the Agency for International Development and the United States Information Service.

There is considerable strife within the ranks of the Country Team, according to Moore, and it is this ineptness and timidity that have let the war progress.

A MEMBER of the Country Team serves for three years. The man spends one year learning; two months are given to rest and relaxation, and six months are spent wondering what his next assignment will be—and not devoting much energy and knowledge to his present post.

"We have to find men with the guts to break with the President of the United States and say, 'You are wrong.' Not many men will do this," Moore stated.

"We must stop worrying about public opinion, or there will be nothing left of us to have a public opinion of," Moore said, and amplified this statement at the luncheon following the lecture when he said that he urges each listener to write his congressman regarding the war, advising government to disregard unfavorable opinion.

"I'm told they can follow my lecture tour by the number of telegrams they receive from the districts where I've spoken," he chuckled.

QUESTIONS on the vital aspects of Viet Nam were asked by the concerned mothers and wives attending the Town Hall series.

When asked if the news media accurately reports the war in Viet Nam, Moore said this is one of the most difficult wars of all time to report.

There is no front line and the American troops are daily fighting a war that is going on all around them. "We have 600,000 troops fighting over thousands of square miles. No matter which direction they go, they're right in the middle of the war."

"T.V. coverage is excellent when you consider a three-man crew must go into these areas at the risk of their lives, then must compete for space with the military on a plane to Saigon in order to send the film out from there," explained Moore.

MOORE WAS ASKED for comments on the "brainwashing" statement made recently by Gov. Romney. "Romney has the ability to insulate himself from what is going on—when he really doesn't want to know what is going on," he said.

Moore was in Saigon at the time of the much-talked-about briefing, and feels that Henry Cabot Lodge went above and beyond the call of duty to present the facts.

"There is no excuse for any American being brainwashed—confused a little bit, but not brainwashed," he claimed.

Moore can see an end to the war if we can overcome the Communists' ability to create a false fear that China will enter the war.

"The Communists don't want peace today any more than the Japanese did before we dropped the H-bomb. Militarily we can win—without nuclear weapons," Moore stated.

Moore has just spent eight weeks at Ft. Benning on the movie set of the "Green Berets". The film stars John Wayne, and Moore has a small role.

After two tours of duty it was on the "Green Berets" set that he managed to break his collar bone!

Moore ended his lecture on a light note, "I'm not worried about the Viet Nam war anymore—because John Wayne has just joined the Special Forces."

Boyle Faces Big Rebuilding Job

To Ray Boyle it'll be a test of his coaching ability to prepare the Farmington High basketball team for its 1967-68 season.

For one thing, Boyle is new at Farmington. He takes over the job vacated by Jack Quiggle, long-time cage coach at Farmington who moved to northern Michigan at the close of the last school year.

Secondly, Boyle has inherited a new team. Except for Doug Hamilton and Mark Lynott, there are no other players with previous varsity experience.

Hamilton, 6-2, and Lynott, 6-3, did not perform as regulars for the most part last season.

All of which means Boyle starts with a rebuilding job on his hands.

ONE WELCOMED addition to the team is Chris DeBow, a 5-7 guard, who is a transfer student from Illinois.

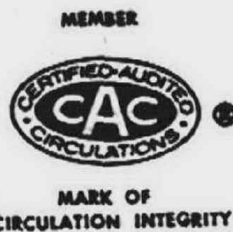

"He'll help us," said the young coach who came to Farmington from St. Leo's High in Detroit.

Two other fine candidates are Paul White and Randy Cleveland. White is a guard, while Cleveland, 6-3, is slated to work up front.

Carl Hamilton, Doug's brother, also is on the squad and should see considerable service.

"We don't have too much height, nor do we have age on this team," says Boyle.

"It's going to take us time to get going and learn the way one another play. Also, the boys must adjust to my way of coaching. And that will take a little time."
