A change in venue has been requested for the trial of Dr. Ronald E. Clark on a manslaughter charge. Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer is expected to hand down a ruling on the request Monday morning. Clark's attorney, Philip Rowlston, cited the press and radio-TV coverage of the case prior to Clark's arrest. If Rowlston's request is granted, the trial will be held outside Oakland County.

Answer to the question of who would succeed Fritz Crisler as Athletic Director at the University of Michigan came Friday morning. The University Board of Regents announced the appointment of Track Coach Don Canham to fill the position. There had been considerable conjecture about an appointee with the names of Canham, Bump Elliott and Forrest Evashevski all being tossed around.

After two and a half days of deliberation, a jury found Louis Piscunere, of Detroit, guilty of robbery armed in the bold daylight holdup of the Plymouth branch of National Bank of Detroit on Aug. 28, 1967. The case was heard by Appeals Court Judge Thomas Foley and he set April 4 for passing sentence.

LIVONIA — This school district faces an influx of more than 2,000 new students in its already overcrowded school system of 34,000 enrollment if an emergency reorganization request of the Nankin Mills School District is acted on by the State Board of Education. Nankin Mills' request would divide the Nankin district between Livonia and Wayne, the latter receiving more than 1,600 students. It would add another mill to the bill of the Livonia taxpayer, and raises the possibility of a need for more school buildings.

Cavanagh: 'Ease Suburban Tensions'

By DON HOENSHELL

Mayor Cavanagh has called on the suburbs to quiet racial tensions and offered a hot line police intelligence service from Detroit on violence threatened beyond its borders.

He conferred for two hours with 40 suburban officials to outline Detroit's preparations for any trouble this summer.

"We don't propose to tolerate lawlessness and violence," Cavanagh said.

The said the mayors expressed the concerns of their communities about threats of unrest and told of increased gun permits and, in some areas, courses on how to use them conducted by police.

"THEY (SUBURBAN mayors) were interested to know that we have 28,000 more jobs in Detroit now than we had last summer," Cavanagh said. Cavanagh described the work of industry and business-based job-finding programs aimed particularly at the unemployed in the areas of the riots last summer.

He made it plain to the suburbs that they have a responsibility to approach the problem preventatively, rather than by organizing hostile, tensionpacked armed camps.

Cavanagh said a number of suburban fire departments already have mutual aid pacts with Detroit, but no formal agreement between police departments.

HE DESCRIBED the offer of Detroit police intelligence as "an early warning system." He said local suburban mayors would be placed in direct contact with Detroit officials in appropriate areas. It was not explained how the

He said the City of Detroit was looking for an over-all program and this required moving into the suburbs. This now has been achieved and everyone is better prepared than ever before.

* * * "IF THERE had been better communication last summer," he said, "things may not have gotten out of hand. It now is assured that we will have the necessary communication. "This means there will be closer ties at all times," he went on, "and it also means that we will now be in a position where, perhaps, force will not be needed, but force will be used, if necessary." The Mayor explained that many lessons have been learned from last year's uprisings and because of that many changes have been made. One of these is the better communications system and a better understanding of the needs of each area. "It settles down to the fact," Jabara continued, "that situations now can be met in a YOUR TAX DOLLARS AT WORK -- With the ever expanding school system in Plymore humane and orderly manmouth it isn't only the students who are crowded --- it is the office help, too. It is the highest interest rate ever paid for such a sale in Plymouth, but the school officials, though shocked at the turn of events, felt that they were lucky to sell the bonds in the present money market, "I was very much disappointed," Asst. Supt. Mel Blunk in charge of business, commented, "but what else can one do in today's money market. It is the worst we ever have seen." Then, taking a philosophical view, he continued, "Maybe we shouldn't feel too bad, over in Romulus the other night no bids were received. The folks over there will have to start over at a higher rate." The Plymouth board received two bids. One was from the Halsev-Stuart & Co. with an average interest rate of 4,9973. The other was from First of Michigan Corporation of Detroit with an average interest rate of 4.98885.

This is just an estimate. The many bids we will have when figure may go even higher when the bids are received.

FARMINGTON - An agenda with seven specific items was released this week for the meeting between the City Council and the Farmington Township Board on March 20. Members of the governing boards will discuss the area governmental study currently underway, the library levy for 1968, possible combination of the police and fire services, among other items. The session is the first such joint meeting in the history of the Farmington area.

"In the face of this," Blunk explained, "we had no alternative, but to accept the best bid--bad as we thought it was,"

He pointed out that the maximum that can be charged is 5 per cent and the bids were just under the maximum.

And the Top of The Mornin' to you, too. Well, here it is, another St. Patrick's Day and in some areas they'll be singing "The Wearin' O' The Green." But it won't be like the old days.

Just as many of our holidays are being taken for granted in this modern age, so, St. Patrick's Day no longer is the great day it was back at the turn of the century.

Take a stroll down Main Street and you won't find many signs, if any, commemorating the feat. of St. Patrick, who was supposed to have chased all the snakes from Ireland.

Look in the windows and you won't find a clay pipe, once the trademark of the Irish. You'll find mighty few shamrocks and there'll be no singing in the pubs as there used to be.

One of the nicest traditons of the day that still is being carried out is the St. Patrick's Day mass at Holy Trinity Church in Corktown - that section of downtown Detroit where the Irish settled years ago.

Through the years it has become a custom to attend Holy Trinity on this one day-regardless of race, color or religion. For this hour or two everyone in the downtown Detroit area becomes an "Irishman" - and so great are the gatherings that traffic officers are called to duty at "Old Trinity.'

It is too bad that this is the only big celebration left. For it used to be great fun to attend the Mass and hear again the golden Irish tenor voices spread from the church to the pubs, and other gathering places and render such favorites as "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Galway Bay," and "Where the River Shannon Flows."

It was always a great day for the Irish, but there are few native Irishmen left.

And with their passing "Paddy's Day" isn't the same.

PAST IS CATCHING UP

Dropped in to visit Fire Chief George Schoenneman in City Hall and found him studying a list of figures.

Knowing it was close to budget time, The Stroller thought he was working on the budget for his department.

'Just going over our fire losses," he said, "and we sure will have a hefty figure this year."

Only the night before, the home at 303 Maple was destroyed and the Chief was adding this to his list, when he continued, "Of course, the Penniman Building fire is what will shoot up our total.

"One of the big reasons for such losses," he said, "is that they didn't have strict building codes in the old days, and little thought was given to fire prevention. "We are starting to pay for these mistakes

In which direction is the City of Plymouth headed?

Is it going to be a jewel along the new expressways when they are built in the next few years of will it be a city that will be allowed to drift in its own way and be referred to as the community that wasted its assets and opportunities?

These questions have been plaguing some of the city's civic leaders and officials for the past several years. And the concern over the future has grown much deeper within the past few months as conditions beyond their control have left gaping holes in the central business district.

It is true that city officials have been discussing such plans as a central business loop, elimination of the strangling rail crossings and other projects for some time, but there has been little of what might be called conscientious effort to bring any of them out of the realm of dreams and into realities.

All the while Plymouth has been known as the quiet little city with a colonial heritage and many have felt that this image never needed to change.

This is not true any more.

With the population explosion of the past few years, other areas have been growing and getting closer and closer to Plymouth. What's more, these areas, with no such thing as a colonial heritage on which to rest, have moved ahead not only in population, but in business and industry.

To make matters worse, these adjoining communities have attracted business away from Plymouth and the once prized downtown area now is only a shadow of what it always was hoped it could be.

So the time has come to act.

No longer can Plymouth afford to stand still. The carefree attitude must be discarded if the area is to be saved and realize its full potential.

What is its potential?

In today's highly competitive world no one is certain just how the city will fit into the future.

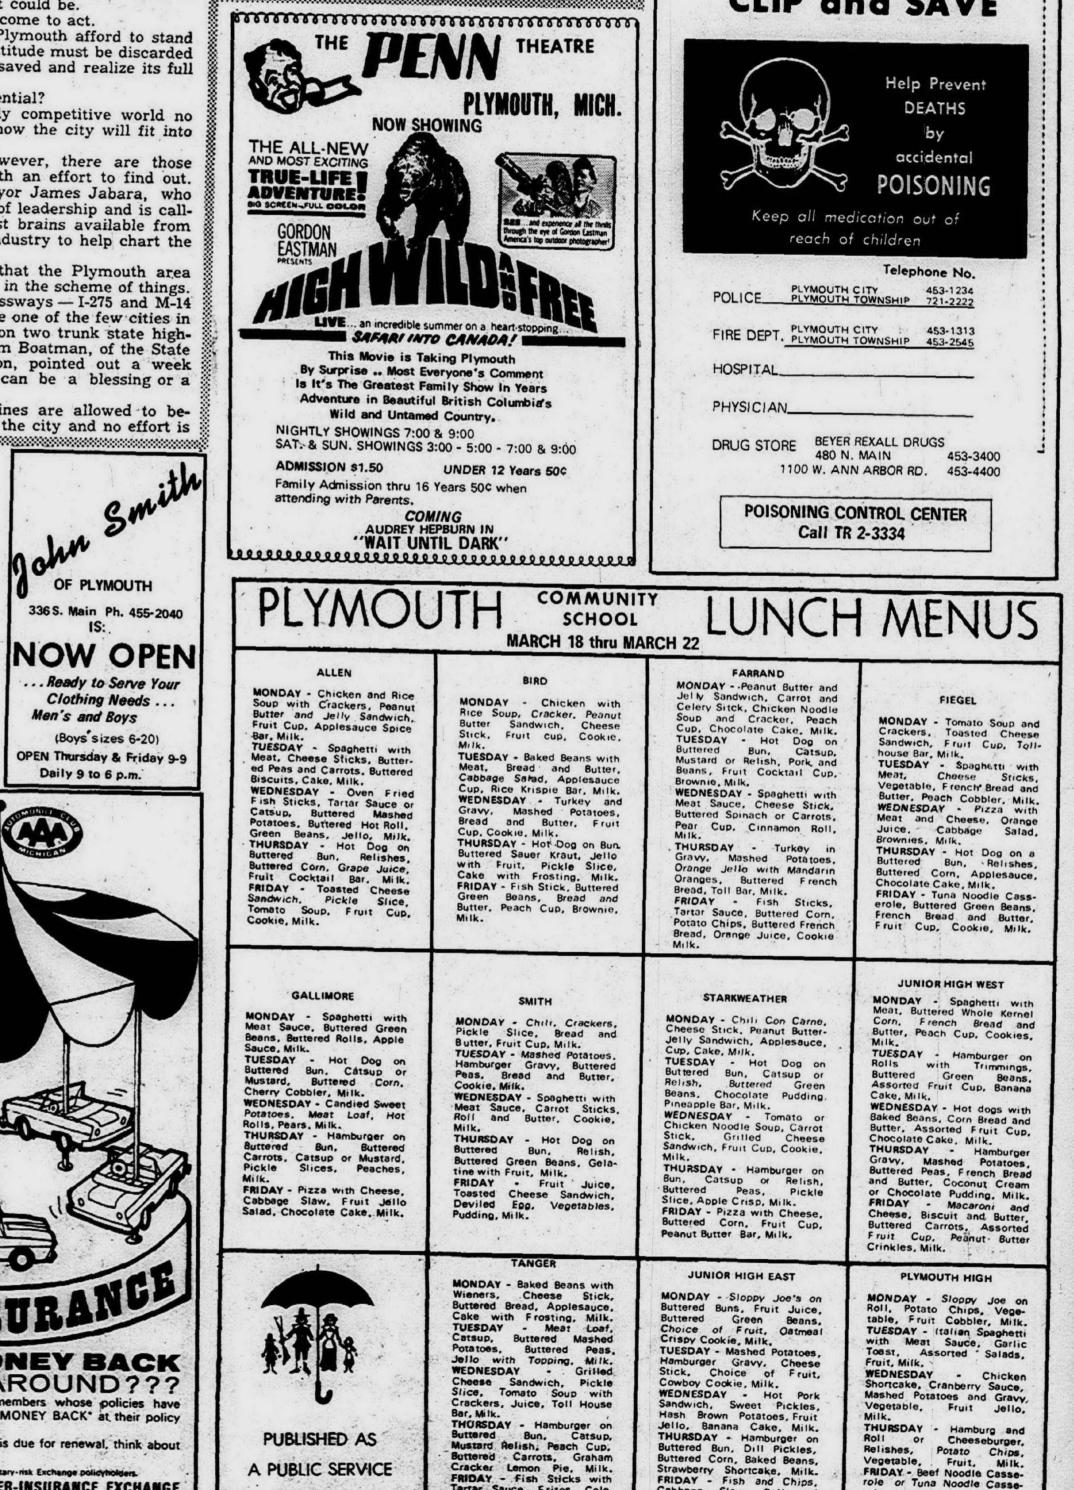

Fortunately, however, there are those who are putting forth an effort to find out. Among them is Mayor James Jabara, who has taken the reins of leadership and is calling together the best brains available from both business and industry to help chart the course.

It is no secret that the Plymouth area holds a unique place in the scheme of things.

made to lure the travelers into the downtown area then there is little left but to wither and decay.

On the other hand, if a concerted effort is made to develop the area and make the downtown attractive so that travelers will take a respite from expressway driving and bright place in the future and Plymouth could be the jewel along the highway.

So, the big question now is: What can be done to "save" the once-proud capital of western Wayne County?

It probably is too late now to attract such things as shopping centers for the simple reason that the area is surrounded with them. The same is true of large department stores.

Other areas have faced such problems in the past and many have been successful in establishng an attractive image.

Michigan is filled with examples.

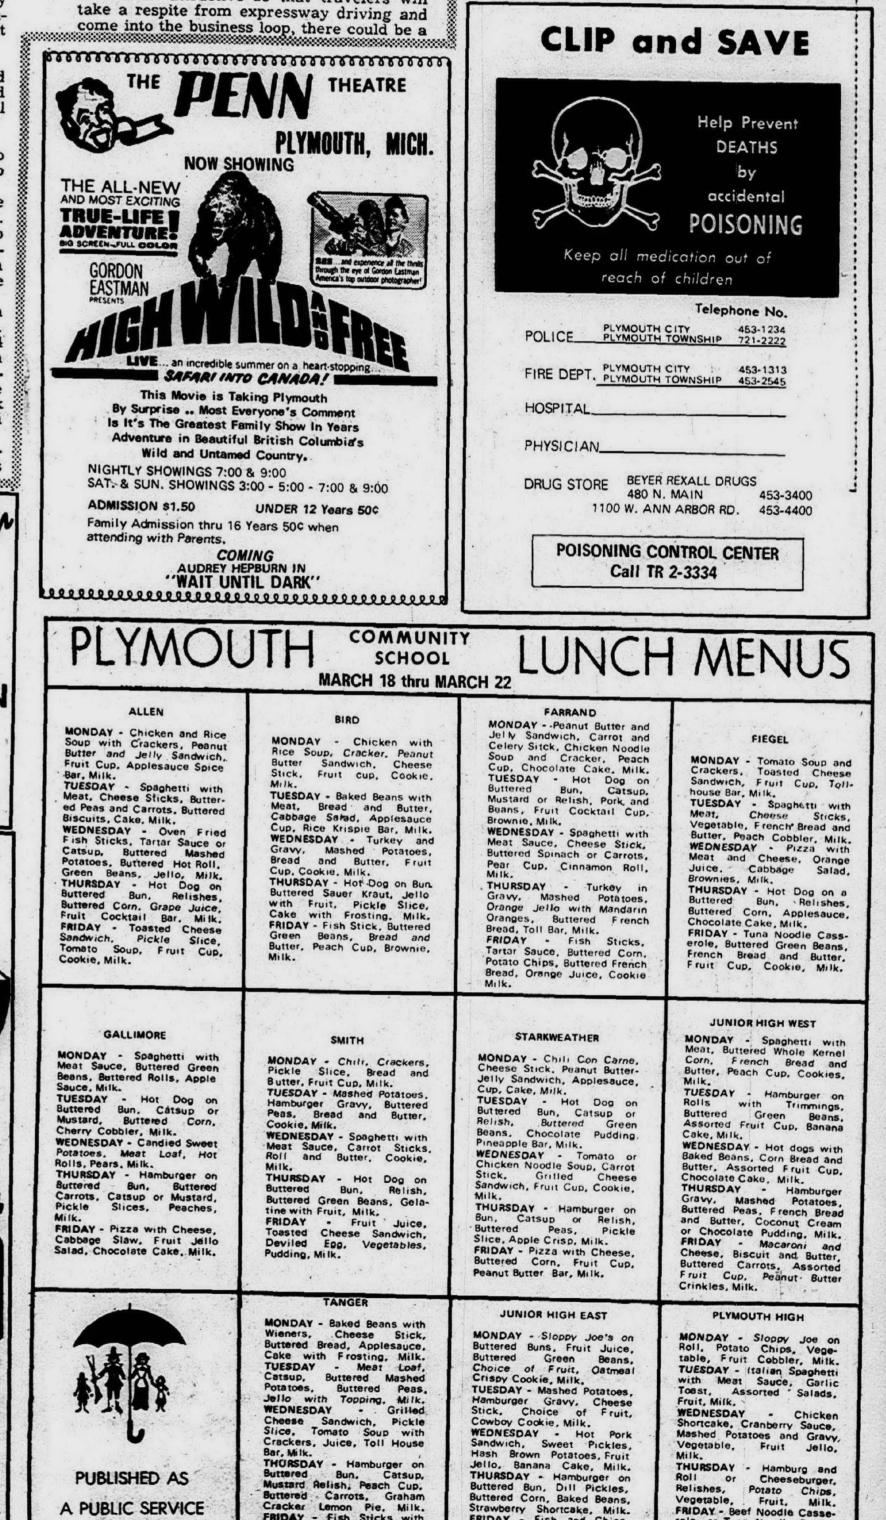

Holland turned to tulips and each year the tulip festival has brought thousands of visitors to the area. Many of them return throughout the year.

The entire north country and even some localities in the metropolitan area have capitalized on snow and attracted thousands of visitors through their skiing facilities.

Other areas have established attractive images through the means of summer theater.

One of the finest examples of what summer theater can do is the little town of Stratford, Ontario, that stages one of the most successful of Shakespearean festivals. People travel for miles and miles to attend these productions.

So, there must be some star to which Plymouth could hitch its wagon.

now." He was not only talking about the little home that burned, but the major fire that ruined the Penniman Building and so weakened the old P&A Theatre structure that it could be doomed and made prey for the wrecking crews.

One of the big faults was the "common wall" that was used by both the theater and the Penniman Building. Now the wall is unsound and will have to be rebuilt.

"People often complain about the codes," Chief Schoenneman concluded, "but when you see things like these you know that they can't be too strict."

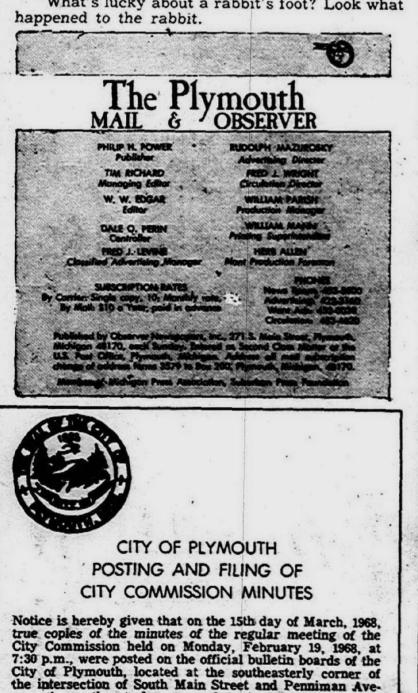

THINGS YOU HEAR WHILE STROLLING

According to the latest chatter around the area, Plymouth Township is going to have a new automobile row. It will be near Plymouth Road and Haggerty where the new Leo Calhoun complex is nearing completion.

It is whispered that several of the other large dealers are planning new facilities and have selected that area.

To Be Viewed

Guest speaker at the first "Town Meeting", to be held by the Kimberley North Improvement Association, will be West Bloomfield Township Supervisor John Doherty. He will discuss "The Millage Vote in West Bloomfield."

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. March 22 in Eagle School, 14 Mile and Middle Belt Rds.

Doherty will outline the issues that bring the millage question before the electorate. Representatives of the West Bloomfield Fire and Police Departments will be on hand to explain how the outcome of the election will affect fire protection and law enforcement in the community.

Emil J. Rader, president of the 255-home Kimberley North civic association, stated that this meeting marks the opening of a proposed series of town meetings to be held this year on subjects of particular interest to residents of the subdivision. Future programs will feature authorities on such varied topics as "LSD and the Community" and "The Detroit Tigers' Outlook for '68."

Eastfield Sewer Cost Up

Installation of sanitary sewers to service homes on Eastfield Ave. in Farmington Township is going to cost property owners upwards of 40 per cent more than anticipated, residents were told this week,

In a special session of the township board of trustees the affected home owners were asked whether they wish to proceed with the project in view of the higher costs.

Special assessments will average $1,288 per lot instead of $912 as originally estimated, but despite this fact the residents instructed the board to go ahead with the sewer construction, snoop and busy-body, is the highlight of the evening. Her handling of the scene in which she has imbibed too freely of the vicar's "very poor" cooking sherry is reminiscent of Carol Burnette at her best.

Jerry Holt as Cpl. Clive Winton gives a strong performance with a good sense of timing and just the right touch of ham.

Accents and dialects are the order of the evening and Martha Cole as the cockney housemaid and Pete Magnon as the escaped Russian prisoner are more than believable.

The burden of "Run" rests with Sandra Richards as Penelope Toop, the vicar's wife. She's on stage constantly with a great many lines, and her performance lacks the strength of Holt's, but has some high spots as she becomes more harried and the play's action heightens. . * * *

"RUN" CALLS for some strenuous acting with fainting spells, and wrestling matches between the vicar's wife and the corporal. The dialog is hot and heavy in the third act as the characters attempt to sort themselves out.

A clever curtain-call bit with Miss Skillon passed out cold on the vicarage floor concludes the evening's hilarity.

but Garden City East's Panthers used their now well-known 'freeze' to register their 11th straight victory, 21st of the season and avenge their only loss when they stalled their way Thursday to a 74-65 victory over Ecorse in the semifinals of the regional A basketball tournament at Franklin High.

The victory sent East into the championship game against Pontiac Central which barely eked out a 70-69 victory over Fordson High of Dearborn on Wednesday.

Pontiac and Garden City were to meet in the finals Saturday night with the winner advancing to next Wednesday's quarterfinal round of the annual state championship marathon. The quarterfinal victors move to East Lansing for the semifinal and final games Friday and Saturday nights.

THURSDAY'S TRIUMPH was one of the sweetest of the entire season for the Panthers who had a 10-game streak snapped by the same Ecorse quintet in the finals of the River Rouge holiday tourney. East had whipped Ecorse in its season opener. Thus the Panthers entered the regional finale with a record of 21-1 and a string of 11 in Never was a team hotter in the first five minutes of the game than Ecorse. The Catholic Church As A Suburban Government

By TIM RICHARD Sunday Editor

Theology aside, the Catholic Church in Observerland is much like a local suburban government.

It must build physical plants and establish services for people.

It must engage in government-style planning. It can't tell people where to move in suburbia, so it must anticipate what moves people will make; then it must be prepared with land and financing for churches and schools when the people get there.

Like a unit of government, it must stay close to its constituents in order to get popular support.

Like all governments and corporations, it has to pay money for what it wants, and the money supply is always limited.

From a strictly managerial point of view, the Catholic Church has a good reputation. Some years ago, Fortune Magazine rated it with General Motors Corp. on that score.

HOW DOES IT actually operate?

The question was put to the Rev. Patrick Cooney, a cool, soft-spoken, efficient-looking man in his 30s who is assistant chancellor of the Archdiocese of Detroit.

The archdiocese office is located on Washington Blvd. downtown, and the archdiocese itself covers an eight-county area in southeastern Michigan.

By a logical coincidence, just a few doors away are the offices of the Detroit Metropolitan Regional Planning Department, an arm of the six-county Council of Governments. The Regional Planning Department, in turn, is sponsor of TALUS (Transportation and Land Use Study), which covers a sevencounty area.

Father Cooney was one of the 72 members of the Regional Planning Commission until the COG was formed. It figures. "Do you know," says Father Cooney, "that from 1937 to 1967, the number of Catholics in this archdiocese increased from 500,000 to one million?"

OUR LADY OF SORROWS is a rare example of a one-parish elementary and high school.

Editor's Notes:

The planning for this article began about four months ago, and it is by coincidence that the Catholic schools in the archdiocese are holding open house today (Sunday) from 2 to 5 p.m.

Our purpose here is to report descriptively how the Archdiocese of Detroit plans, organizes and finances its facilities and not to take sides on or discuss the proposed bill to give aid to non-public schools.

ishes. We're now trying to put parishes on the main roads.

"We need 10 to 12 acres for a parish site," which includes the church building, rectory and an elementary school.

Municipal building and zoning codes are studied carefully. In the suburbs, where people are almost totally dependent on private auto transportation, the codes require a certain number of parking spaces per seat in the church building. The church that's hemmed in by houses is a thing of the past.

youngish Father Cooncy, "there were no lay 'teachers at all."

Rev. John B. Zwers, superintendent of all parochial schools for the archdiocese, reports that Catholic high schools have almost as many lay teachers (1,943) as members of religious orders (2,137).

In the elementary schools, it's about a 3:2 ratio-1,302 members of religious orders and 855 lay teachers.

Citizens for Educational Freedom (CEF), a political pressure group of Catholic, Lutheran and Christian Reformed laymen, argues that the church-related schools of Michigan save the state $200 million a year in operating costs.

That's not quite true. CEF figures there are 330,000 non-public students in Michigan and that public schools spend an average of $600 per child. That multiplies out to $200 million.

Actually, there are proportionately more elementary students than high school students in the Catholic schools, and elementary students cost less to teach. Moreover, Father Cooney points out, Catholic high schools tend to be academically oriented and often lack gyms, pools and manual arts facilities.

Charles Drouillard, state and federal coordinator for Livonia Catholic schools, says their costs "are currently less than half of the public schools.'

CATHOLIC PARISH construction is financed through a revolving capital account known as the "Archdiocesan Development Fund.'

This fund buys land for seminaries, convalescent homes, maternity homes, social service facilities and churches-but not hospitals, which are all run by individual religious orders.

To build a church, a parish borrows from

HENCE THE CHURCH'S great stake in regional planning.

'It started with Cardinal Mooney (archbishop of Detroit until his death in 1958) when the area was growing after the war," Father Cooney said.

In the still undeveloped Farmington-Livonia area, the archdiocese made many land purchases in the late 1940s and early '50s for parish sites. A site at 12 Mile and Drake in Farmington Township was acquired in the last year, he said, but otherwise site buying has been accomplished in most Observerland suburbs.

"We have population projections for five year periods going up to 1985. Then we estimate the percentage of the population in each area that we expect will be Catholic," he went on.

In Observerland, it's a pretty even 25 per cent. In the Roseville area on the east side, the Catholic proportion hit 75 or 80 per cent, and it made church planning much more complicated.

"We plan a parish for 1,200 to 1,500 families. We try to put a parish in the middle of an area no bigger than four by five miles; in denser areas, it's only one by one mile. Smaller parish sizes allow more personal contact," he said.

ONE COMMONLY HELD notion is that church property is acquired cheap, held taxfree for many years, and sold off if it isn't needed.

While it's true that the church tries to buy land early when the price is low, Father Cooney says the other ideas are wrong. "We rarely sell a piece," he said, indi-cating a certain amount of efficiency in planning and money use.

'We get harpooned on this tax-free idea all the time. Whenever a city or township official says that to me, I tell him, 'Take a look at your tax rolls. Any time land is lying vacant, we pay taxes on it.'

"We pay property taxes on everything until construction starts."

When the church is shopping, Father Cooney said, it usually employs real estate agents in the area, sometimes asking them to keep the prospective buyer anonymous. 'We get township or city plans. Highways form natural boundaries for par-

The Changing Parish

The parish, says a Catholic magazine, is "Christ in the neighborhood . . . A parish is people acting for Christ."

Simple as it sounds, the parish as a working plan has come under serious scrutiny in some church quarters. In the March issue of the St. Anthony Messenger, the Rev. Robert M. Brooks, sociology department chairman at St. Norbert College, a Catholic school in West DePere, Wis., throws some verbal knives into a few traditional, unspoken ideas about the parish, and his article is headlined "The Parish in Time of Crisis."

Pertinent excerpts:

"AT THE PARISH level, the Church continues to be viewed as a static unchanging structure, with a sheeplike laity . . .

"For centuries, the parish as we know it today did not exist . . . Early Christians met wherever their secular lives brought them together: . . . the home . . . Caesar's household ... the catacombs ... "

In the middle ages, "the parish was representative of the total community, for in the medieval town, residential community coincided with political and economic and cultural community . . .

"Today, the parish is unable to fulfill this broad function because of the social organization of the modern city. "The average urban American parish today is not an intimate primary community in which people have warm relationships. Rather it is a large secondary community, an association, businesslike in its structures and functions . . .

"ON THE LEVEL of the parish, we would suggest at least four directions for experimentation.

"First, parish councils ought to be established, thereby bringing parishioners into full partnership in the life and government of the parish . .

"Second, home worship should be encouraged. It is gratifying to know that Mass in the home is approved in several American dioceses . .

"Third, let us decide to build smaller parishes in the future — and some parishes that are based not on fixed boundaries but upon common functions and interests. In the London, Ontario, diocese the people were recently grouped according to education, income and occupational level. So far, the priests of the area have been pleased . .

"Finally, might we not begin to establish ecumenical parishes so that we could share at least the Liturgy of the Word and then separate for the Eucharist to bear painful witness to our present divisions? This may appear to

IN OLD DETROIT, the pattern tended to be an elementary school and a high school in each parish.

The pattern is changing. In Detroit, some high schools are being consolidated. Here in the suburbs, there are few parochial or multiparochial high schools at all.

In Detroit proper, there are 98 elementary and 40 high schools, but in the suburbs there are 103 elementary and only 37 high schools.

The British folk are watching the downfall of the English Pound with alarm these days. What was once a pence is about to become a "half-a-pence". YOUNG ADULT PROGRAM: "The Young Adults drew up a proposed program of open meetings where African history, slavery in the United States, current thoughts on Black Power and other topics could be brought to the public's attention."

Wayne Hindmarsh, in describing the program to the conference, said: "These meetings would help every individual to receive a better and clearer understanding of the origins of the racial problem. They are not designed to cause action, but only to educate and hopefully to help us understand the black people better."

Dollar, Pound Weaken In Gold Buying Crisis

With gold buying at a record De Gaulle refused to go along high in Western Europe, Britain proclaimed a special bank holiday Friday and closed its stock exchange in response to a request from the United States to shut down the world market on gold.

The action came after gold buying in Europe climbed to the highest level ever despite efforts of dealers to check the stampede to get rid of paper money.

HomeOwnership Benefits Listed

Should young newlyweds assume the responsibilities of home ownership, asks a 19year-old bride?

She has lived in a big city and has dreamed of owning a little house away from all the traffic. Her husband, 24, has just returned from Vietnam and they are renting an apartment. "Our parents think home ownership is too much of a burden and they are trying to discourage us but, we really want to do it."

They aren't even stymied by the down payment--they can gather up enough cash from savings and relatives, but they don't have the vaguest idea how much it will cost to maintain a house or how large a house they can afford. Is there any easy way to estimate it, she asks.

A general rule of thumb in

Be Careful In Selection Of Annuals

Annual flowers are grouped into three general classes based on their ability to tolerate winter temperatures; hardy, half-hardy and tender.

One good way to distinguish hardy annuals is to watch to see which ones self-sow in your garden. The seeds of these, and sometimes the plants, have survived the winter's cold.

In most gardens bachelor's button, sweet alyssum, portulaca, calliopsis, gaillardia are of this group. Seeds of these plants may be sown in fall or in earliest spring, as soon as the ground is workable, in places where they are to bloom. * * *

HALF-HARDY ANNUALS are those native to warmer climates that need a longer growing season than Northern United States and Canada offer. These are usually started indoors or in use or hotbed early estimating whether you can afford a house is that it should cost no more than 2 1/2 times the annual income. If one is earning $7,000 a year, the house cost must not exceed $17,500. If one could put down $5,000 on a house leaving a $12,500 mortgage, amortizing it over a 20-year-period at 5 1/2 per cent interest would put monthly carrying charges at $86. If one must borrow the down payment or assume a second mortgage to get it from a bank or individual, the financial buroverwhelming. Many young people can't buy a house because they are bogged down with debts.

But for young people, who can afford it, home ownership offers many advantages, even though there may be a little penny-pinching in the early years:

You can deduct interest on mortgage payments which can be a little penny-pinching in be a sizable chunk in the early years.

2. It is a way to build equity. You might find it difficult to save or invest regularly as a non-owner but a house obliges you to meet the mortgage. In 20 years, more or less, you will own your home free and clear. If you must borrow money for emergencies, your home can be offered as collateral. Some people borrow on their paid-off homes to educate their children.

3. A house provides you with roots in a community, a voice in local government and so on. 4. A home gives you a chance to major in maturity as you cope with responsibilities of ownership and financial obligations.

There are some disadvantages in owning your own home. One must be expected to meet emergency bills instigated by pipe failure, roof leaks, furnace breakdown. For that reason, young people are better off with a new house that has fewer "bugs" even though they might get less house for their money.

PRIME OCCUPATION of gardeners during the winter months is the perusal of garden catalogs. There are so many possibilities among seeds and plants that a clipboard with paper attached should be alongside the catalogs to help the gardener plan before he buys. . . .

the gardener, the color scheme in the flower garden can be simple, with perhaps one color predominating and two others used in varying but smaller amounts, or it can be elaborate, using many colors.

The hardest color scheme to plan and carry out is one using all pastel shades. This takes an expert to execute.

THE EARLIEST CORN to mature has been, for the last 25 years, the hybrid variety North Star. Now there's a new, justas-early and tastier variety to supercede it. Spring Gold is its name. Days to maturity are the same--67.

Gardeners Produce Carefree Geraniums Carefree--that's a welcome word for 1968 gardeners. It refers to a new race of geraniums of which three different colors have won All-America Selections awards: two silver medals and one bronze medal. What makes these geraniums carefree? First, their freedom from the usual geranium diseases. Because they are grown from seeds rather than from cuttings, they do not inherit troubles from the parent plant. Next, their strong and rapid growth. You never saw geraniums grow so fast! These characteristics are results of their hybrid parentage. Third, their self-branching habit. As they grow they produce numerous side branches without any help. There is no need to pinch out tips in order to make plants grow bushy and compact.

Tile For Heavy

Traffic Areas

When choosing a floor covering for a heavy traffic area --foyer, hall, kitchen, playroom, bathroom--don't let a desire for a good looking floor get in the way of its primary purpose, which is to carry a lot of traffic.

The Better Floors Council suggests that a good choice is vinyl asbestos tile, since it is easy to clean, wears very well, and is available in many patterns and colors.

To keep resilient floors such as vinyl asbestos tile in top condition. The Better Floors Council advises once over lightly every day with a mop, broon. or vacuum to pick up surface dirt.

Fourth, their bloom production which, after all is your reason for growing geraniums. The Carefrees will produce two or three flower heads for every one that grows on an ordinary geranium. Individual florets are as large as those of the finest geranium varieties; flower heads often are larger.

Fifth, their color range. The silver medal winners are Carefree Scarlet and Carefree Bright Pink; the bronze medal winner, Carefree Deep Salmon, but there also are light salmon, scarlet and white in the range of Carefree geraniums. In addition, there's the prettiest Picotee, white with pink petal edges. Thus you can select, without a care in the world, your faa cancer.

Ford Blasts Fiscal Policies In Gold Crisis

By FRED DeLANO

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford ripped into Johnson administration fiscal policies which he said have brought the world to the brink of fiscal chaos.

He said solutions should include cuts in federal spending and the imposition of certain excises on foreign air and ship travel.

Ford, the Grand Rapids GOP whiz who now leads the minority delegation in the House, spoke before 150 at a $50-a-plate Congressional Report breakfast for 19th District Rep. Jack McDonald.

CHAIRMAN ROBERT Smith said the proceeds will cover official expenses incurred by McDonald which are not financed from tax money, such as his district office, printing and entertainment.

Ford praised McDonald's first-term performance. "He has done a great job,"

Ford said. "Your district has an investment in him and I hope you send him back."

Ford spoke while the world gold market fluctuated wildly and London closed its buying and selling in an attempt to give United States economists a weekend breather.

The price of gold jumped to $40 in Brussells and one London hotel stopped exchanging pounds for dollars except for the size of the hotel bill.

"We are now reaping the tragic harvest of the fiscal mismanagement of the administration." Ford said.

"The administration says the solutions should be tax increases, limitations on investments and removal of the gold cover. These are Band-Aids on

"WE THINK the alternate solution should be a downward adjustment in federal spending. This is a better answer than a tax increase. At least it should be tried first. "Thus far, there has been virtually no cooperation from the administration on this. If there is a tax increase, it could be a depressant on the economy when we need a stimulant." Ford also criticized the Johnson administration for "overestimating revenues and underestimating expenses," adding that "the administration doesn't know how to tell the truth in financial matters,"

He said the best psychological shock for the country would be the election of a Republican president.

He added to this the goals of substantial GOP gains in the Senate, the election of 218 Republicans in the House "to provide responsible and stable management of our fiscal affairs."

FORD SAID he opposes taxes on foreign travel, but levies on steamship tickets and air tickets would not be objectionable. He opposes any restriction on amounts of money travelers can spend abroad.

He said the Senate-passed civil rights bill needs cleaning up in conference in the House and that it should be ready for action in two or three weeks. Ford was asked about speculation that Congress would issue a declaration of war in Vietnam to wipe out the controversy over President Johnson using the Gulf of Tonkin resolution as his authority.

"No, I do not expect this," Ford said.

RFK Decision On Race Due In A Few Days

question of whether Senator Robert F. Kennedy will run against President Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination is expected to be answered within a few days. Sen. Kennedy is studying the situation after the recent New Hampshire primary where Dems in that state turned a startling split decision, giving President Johnson a narrow, empty victory while awarding rebellious Eugene McCarthy 42 per cent of the ballots and apparently 22 nominating votes at the party's national convention.

Meanwhile, the excellent showing of former Vice President Richard Nixon in the Republican primary had the effect of pushing Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York toward an entry into the upcoming Oregon primary.

Nixon smashed, by about 80 per cent to 10 per cent, a writein campaign waged on behalf of but without the official blessing of, Gov. Rockefeller.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. -- Gus Van. 80, retired vaudevillian who had starred in five edion Broadway, died here. Van, born August Van Glone, gained fame as a member of the singing team of Van and Schenck. His partner, Joe Schenck, died in 1930.

> ALBANY, N.Y. -- Gov. Nelson Rockefeller appears ready to approve Republican-sponsored cutbacks in the state's/ medical assistance program which Rockefeller espoused two years ago.

Bills that would reduce by about one-half--or $300 million--the state-local share of Medicaid costs and end coverage for 1.5 million recipients were before the Republican governor.

Sources in the state's Republican-controlled Senate said Rockefeller had indicated he would sign the bills--reportedly because he believes he has no other choice.

GM Dealers Set Classes

General Motors automotive dealers have enrolled 1.540 unskilled or underskilled employes in mechanics training classes now in progress in 30 General Motors Training tions of the Ziegfield Follies Centers, Paul E. McDonald, manager of training centers, announced Monday.

Courses of instruction for these dealer employes will run for 16 weeks during which time they will receive instruction in all phases of automobile service or body and paint mechanics. There are 173 classes being conducted by the five General Motors car divisions, Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac, and the GMC Truck & Coach Division
