

REDFORD — Urgency of a request for 3½ new mills for operating South Redford Schools increased Monday as the board was required to commit itself to make up a $250,-000 deficit in the coming year. Qualification of a $2,200,000 loan application to operate September to December this fall depended upon the fiscal recovery.

REDFORD — Failing to defeat a legislative bill to create a state boundaries commission, State Representative John Bennett, Redford, said this week the best alternative is for Redford Township to incorporate as a city. Two previous cityhood elections have failed.

LIVONIA - Salary demands of $8,000 minimum and $16,000 maximum for teachers here, made by Livonia Education Association as bargaining agent, have brought a counter offer of $500 increases "across the board" from the Livonia Board of Education. LEA calls it totally inadequate, but the board says it is really more than Livonia can afford now.

GARDEN CITY-The City Council heard a feud Monday between Dept. of Public Works employees on one side and firemen and policemen on the other concerning the best pension plans for retired employees. The firemen and policemen have made a strong pitch to get a state retirement plan on the Aug. 6 primary ballot but withdrew their request to study another plan which would include all city employees.

After arguing and debating for more than two hours Monday night the Plymouth City Commission approved a one mill increase in taxes for the fiscal year of 1968-69, but delayed action on the final budget figures until the official announcement of the state equalized valuation factor is announced.

The final decision to raise the tax rate from 10.86 to 11.86 on the equalized valuation came only after the Commission seemed almost hopelessly lost in a welter of arguments over parliamentary procedure and substitute motions. The final action, on a 4 to 3 by $82,000.

vote, with Commissioners James Houk, Robert Smith and Mayor James Jabara, casting the negative votes, was a direct slap at City Manager Richard Blodgett who had submitted a budget calling for an expenditure of slightly more than $2 million dollars and a two mill tax increase.

Blodgett's original budget, submitted a month ago, called for an expenditure of $2,085,703 and the two mill increase. Over the past several weeks the Commission whittled away at the

This was the signal for the bomb to explode.

Commissioner Vallier, who had openly stated prior to the meeting that he would not approve any attempt to raise the taxes, moved that the present tax rate of 10.86 be retained and that the city live within its income.

For the better part of the next hour the Commission wrangled over such things as "double bookkeeping", "unappropriated funds" and "budget contingencies" with little or no effect inasmuch as City Attorney Charles Lowe was absent and there was no one to give legal guidance.

Finally, Commissioner Mc-Keon, who also had been very critical of City Manager Blodgett, offered a motion, with the support of Commissioner Vallier, calling for a one mill increase that an sted to $51,484 and a balanc of the budget by using funds from the unappropriated account and the budget contingency account.

This action came as a surprise as Commissioner Vallier had insisted that he would oppose any and all attempts to raise taxes.

Before a vote could be taken, however, Commissioner Houk asked that the motion he amended to call for a 1.5 mill increase only. In this he was supported by Commissioner William Silvis.

WESTLAND - A state law paving the way for the reorganization of the small Nankin Mills School District was passed by the Senate last week and sent to the governor for his signature.

FARMINGTON - Headaches caused by the widening of Farmington Rd. now are being compounded by difficulties in picking up trash for three families who live on Farmington Rd. The residents may have to carry trash to the nearest cross street each week until the road work is finished. The garbage contractor claims his trucks are unable to travel the edges of Farmington Rd. without becoming mired.

FARMINGTON - Irate parents have made heated demands to the Farmington Board of Education concerning the safe accessibility their children will have to the new Powers Junior High School. Parents claim the route their children will have to walk next year is unsafe and a pedestrian bridge or traffic light should be installed. The Board of Education set a June 6 date to meet with all parties involved to resolve the problem.

Pioneer Step Hailed In 'Human Growth' Course

Observer Newspapers

Plans for teaching activities in the area of Human Growth. Development and Reproduction are spreading in the Livonia public schools.

Begun three years ago at Roosevelt Elementary School, expanding to six schools the following year, and 25 last year, the program calls for such instructions in the district's 31 elementary schools in September.

Also, the Board of Education has given "as many as three schools" permission to "teach the approved sixth grade unit in an essentially coeducational manner, provided that: some separate discussions opportunities are included; an adequate evaluation is conducted."

With men now teaching the boys, and women the girls, the new coeducational experiment in teaching will be watched closely by administrators. ermine whether to spread the system, or drop it, Dr. Henry C. Heusner, director of math and science. That the experiments have been accepted thus far by parents is shown in this year's figures, where 2,315 sixth graders took the instructions and 20 didn't, but mostly for "religious reasons."

The board received a report from a study made in a fifth grade experiment at Garfield School under direction of James Lauer.

It then recommended "in light of the findings of the Garfield School study, to permit each school the flexibility to assign the approved unit to either the fifth or sixthgrade. Before submitting his proposal, the principal should consider the readiness and needs of the school's staff, children and parents.

the previous requirements of inservice education and parental permission."

THE BOARD then ventured further into the field of exploration, since parental permission has indicated the willingness to transfer the teaching of sex education from the home to the school.

The board said that "up to three schools will be given permission to teach the recently developed primary unit (subject to approval of revisions) at either the first or second grade, provided that: the unit is preceded by a substantial parent education program; teacher inservice education and parental permission requirements are similar to the later elementary unit; an adequate evaluation is conducted."

Benton Yates, superintendent of schools, said long study had brought about an early elementary program of preparation on the subject.

No child can take the teachings without consent of parents, who are contacted and briefed before the question is posed. * * *

THE PARENT-TEACHER Association is involved, screening parents and discussing the subject thoroughly before mothers and fathers are invited to orientation sessions to make their choice as to whether their children should be taught the facts of life in classrooms by teachers of their own sex.

Of those invited, 99 per cent have given approval, educators said.

teachers are involved. The big problem, Dr. Heusner said, is the shortage of men among elementary teachers, and which has grown in recent years because of attractive salaries in other professions.

At least 75 teachers are needed in the present program, he said, and if the experiment succeeds and the program spreads, the staff must increase in proportion.

Thus far, the study of human growth and reproduction has been limited to the grades, but there is indication that the basic physical information will be elaborated in the junior high schools, and that the high schools eventually will find classes on what's left to teach, including attitudes toward the opposite sex, social diseases, and preparation for marriage.

Cash-Register City Manipulates People

A guy named Vance Packard ripped the advertising boys for their manipulation of buyers' emotions in a book called "The Hidden Persuaders." He pursued the general theme in "The Status-Seekers."

Well, ol' Vance ought to take a look at government, too. Especially suburban government. Maybe starting with Livonia.

TAKE, FOR INSTANCE, Mayor Harvey Moelke's recent veto message of two apartment rezoning proposals. Among his general objections to apartments, the mayor lists this one:

"There are thousands of apartment units in the communities surrounding Livonia. Have they so greatly aided these communities that they have no tax problems?

"Have all of the apartment buildings of New York and Philadelphia made these communities rich in tax resources?"

One could quarrel with Moelke's math. An excellent case can be made that apartments actually benefit school districts, in partidular, because they produce takes but few kids for the schools. But that's not the point here.

THE UNDERLYING argument Moelke makes with regard to takes on apartments is that they are less expensive to build than single-family homes, hence produce less tax revenue per unit.

Apartments may cost $10,000 or $12,000 per unit, whereas single-family homes, in low-density zoning, can cost $30,000 or more.

Carried to its logical conclusion. Moelke's argument is that Livonia's future construction ought to be limited to singlefamily homes - whether people want them or not.

It's the same as if the auto companies were to produce only $3,000-and-up cars with 250 hpand-up engines, and the public be damned.

MAYOR MOELKE isn't alone in applying this cash-register theory of government, in wanting to bend the public's buying habits to suit the city treasury. It's fairly common in suburbia. So this isn't a personal argument with Moelke's economics. Nor is it an argument for apart-

It's an argument against the property tax. It's a sad day when government, which has powers of coercion that even General Motors lacks, disregards the buying public's wishes for the sake of tax revenue.

Now if local governments used an income tax instead, it would not matter if a guy lived in a $10,000 apartment unit or a $30,-000 house. He'd pay according to his income.

Here's one homeowner who would vote "yes." -Tim Richard

The greatest local political traffic jam of modern times is just about to get under way, and, gentle reader, if you have any yen for watching the polls move about you sure oughta catch the action for the next couple of months. It'll be a real show. It all concerns the Wayne County Board of Supervisors. Ever since the old stone age, the Board has consisted of 140 men sitting around in the City-County Building in downtown Detroit. Most of the Board members from this area are not elected by the voters; rather, they serve because they have been elected to some governmental post out in Observerland.

For example, Livonia Mayor Harvey Moelke. And Livonia City Council members Pete Ventura and Ed Milligan. And Plymouth Township Supervisor Jack Mc-Ewen.

equal in population.

SUCH A SYSTEM has proven to be not only illegal but also ineffective.

To take the last point first, how would you like to run a meeting of 140 people? Not very well, and I suspect that the Wayne County Board Chairman, Dearborn Heights Mayor John Canfield, doesn't like it very much either.

Aside from the problems of size, the Board's structure of representation has hurt its effectiveness. Detroit members tend to act as a group, as do the outcounty boys. And there are two or three other splits: Democratic-Republican; black-white; and so

County Board is no good and that it had better be changed pronto.

This ruling is being challenged in the courts, but those in a position to know say that it will probably stand up, and that the entire Board is going to have to be revamped to consist of only 26 members, each representing -1 roughly an equal number of people.

AND THAT'S WHERE the traffic jam is going to start.

There are a whole lot of politicos who now are members of the Board and who want to get elected. But they also know (being smart guys) that when you subtract 26 from 140, you get 114 present Board members who are going to get bumped off.

They also know that when the Board is re-structured, it will be just the start in a long-needed overhaul of Wayne County's ar-chaic and inefficient local government system. And when you start overhauling a system of government, the guy who is doing the overhauling is a guy with a whale of a lot of clout.

Clout is what politicians like. So a lot of them want in on that piece of the action. * * 4

ONE OF THE NEW Wayne County Board of Supervisors districts will include Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Plymouth Township and Canton Township.

That means some people have to go. And the betting about who is going to run (translate: try to knock off someone else) in the August 6 primary is better than forth. In effect, the Wayne County Board has consisted of members nate, a couple of groups ganging each representing various interup on another and riding roughest groups - the City of Livonia, shod over opposition. or Detroit, or Plymouth Township—and not directly the voters.

This Is The Week That

ments.

. . . By Don Hoenshell

General Custer didn't need all those Indians.

And Carthage couldn't stand another horse.

Now let us see how all this applies to the status of township government and its pals. Barring a miracle, the townships are going to die from an overdose of kindness.

The "one man-one vote" maneuver, forcing the 140-member Wayne County Board of Supervisors into a compact 26 members, allows the leftovers from an election to retire gracefully. Also the supervisors will have more time to devote to their local jobs without getting bogged down with county-wide problems. Ah, the serenity of it all.

NOW COMES THE Legislature with the bill called "Boundaries Commission, Create . . ." It's a little gem that will allow supervisors to retire from everything. For generations, the cities have tried to get annexation bills through the legislature to make it easier to grab up industrial tax base on their outskirts.

The bills took various formscourt ordered annexation, strip annexation (allowing cities to take a piece but not all of a township) and others. Nobody thought of changing the name. Until now.

The bill now on Gov. Romney's desk creates a threemember state boundary commission which will rule on all boundaries. Now let us say that Detroit has a complaint about its Eight Mile Road border.

It's not natural, not pretty, and really it should be changed.

The Boundary Commission agrees that Telegraph Rd. is much better as a boundary for Detroit. So the change is put on ballot, and Detroit picks up a desel plant that pays $2 million a year to Redford Township.

THEN LIVONIA FIGURES it would like Telegraph Rd. as a boundary, too. The state says OK, and Redford Township has to change the stationery.

Rep. John Bennett, a former Redford Township treasurer and a stormy figure in local politics, says the situation now will force townships to become cities or die.

"I think it's to the benefit of Redford Township to incorporate as a city," he said.

Over the years, the Legislature has passed special acts benefiting cities, and "the townships have been pretty much ignored," Bennett muses.

Cities have grown up around them with the help of earmarked money from the state.

TOWNSHIPS IN MICHIGAN have been going downhill for years as cities started growing in size and number. The death knell started to sound at the 1962 Constitutional Convention.

It was here that dreams of a more compact and meaningful system of government were born. The issue of simplifying local government threatened to deadlock the convention.

Then came the compromise between Delegate George Romney and Delegate D. Hale Brake. Romney figured that to get some of what he wanted, he'd have to go along with Brake on status quo for local government.

Romney forces won a major point, the court reorganization clause in the constitution eliminating justices of the peace in favor of district court.

Now six years later, Romney made the Boundaries Commission "Create" a part of his legislative program.

It's on his desk now, waiting to be signed into law. Nice horsey.

Westland's Self-Promoter Harris Should Step Out

Gerald T. Harris should resign as president of Westland's Industrial and Commercial Development Corp.

The reasons are many and varied. but two stand out.

He has admitted being considered as an industrial consultant for several of Westland's neighboring communities besides being a private developer himself.

This conflict of interest has been apparent for some time, and it is time that Harris make up his mind which hat he wants to wear.

Last summer, he announced plans for a $20 million project which would involve a high-rise office building and theater.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENTS on a search for office clients were received by Westland newspapers, and this writer found it obvious that Harris was using his role as president of the development corporation to improve his lot in life.

Technically, the development group is a private, non-profit organization and has no formal ties with the municipal government. But the group was formed with many elected city officials on the first board of directors in the

The corporation has discussed the resignation of Harris but agreed not to consider it, praising the president for the job he has performed.

It was brought out at this meeting of the board of directors several months ago that Harris said he is being considered for the role of development consultant for neighbor ing townships.

How he can in all honesty "sell" the Westland community to potential businessmen and industrialists and still represent other communities is beyond this writer.

IN ADDITION, HARRIS has continually claimed that the development corporation he heads is non-political. This is true with the exception of the role of Harris within the group.

This conclusion was clear several weeks ago when Harris announced he was a candidate for a seat of the recently-reapportioned Wayne County Board of Supervisors (which will have members elected instead of appointed). He did this at the corporation's annual dinner-dance.

That he used a public social function of the development corporation to announce his political ambitions does no good for the members of the corporation.

Actually, h is announcement poorly timed and placed since the corporation is a "non-politi-. cal" organization. Harris agreed, but he goofed at the following year's dinner-dance.

IN RECENT WEEKS, Harris also tried to palm himself off as the right-hand man of Sen. Robert Kennedy in Western Wayne County. He calls himself the "campaign coordinator" for the senator's presidential campaign, but a member of the Kennedy organization in Detroit disclaimed any official role for Harris.

Harris has been taking a lot of credit for attracting new business and industry to the city. But the only serious addition to the community was a new Chevrolet parts warehouse, on which talks had started five years ago, long before Harris arrived on the local scene.

a good night at the Detroit Race Course. Livonia Mayor Moelke says he wants to run (as something called an Independent Republican). He just might be challenged by Plymouth's Carl Pursell, President of the Chamber of Commerce. Pursell ran two years ago against Republican right-winger, State Senator George Kuhn, in a primary; Moelke was notable for not helping Pursell, and Pursell has a good memory.

Then, too, Moelke is in hot water with Wayne County Republican Chairman, Henry Sladek, over the Livonia open housing ordinance and other matters having to do with the mayor's wish to be a board member and mayor at the same time.

Both Sladek and Pursell are able men and experienced politicians, with experience and reputations not confined to their own communities.

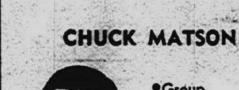

And while Moelke keeps his eye on Sladek and Pursell, he just might be ambushed by Plymouth City Commissioner Arch Vallier or Ed Milligan. Don't count canny Jack McEwen out of the running, either. And there may be a few more.

The Democrats would seem to have a simpler time of it. Former State Representative Marvin Stempien was going to run, but has recently withdrawn. The rumor is that Livonia Council President Edward McNamara would like to throw his hat in the ring, and anyone who has had much to do with McNamara knows he's an able, energetic and thoughtful campaigner.

McNamara's predecessor as Council President, Peter Ventura, might just put his not inconsiderable political talents before the voters, too.

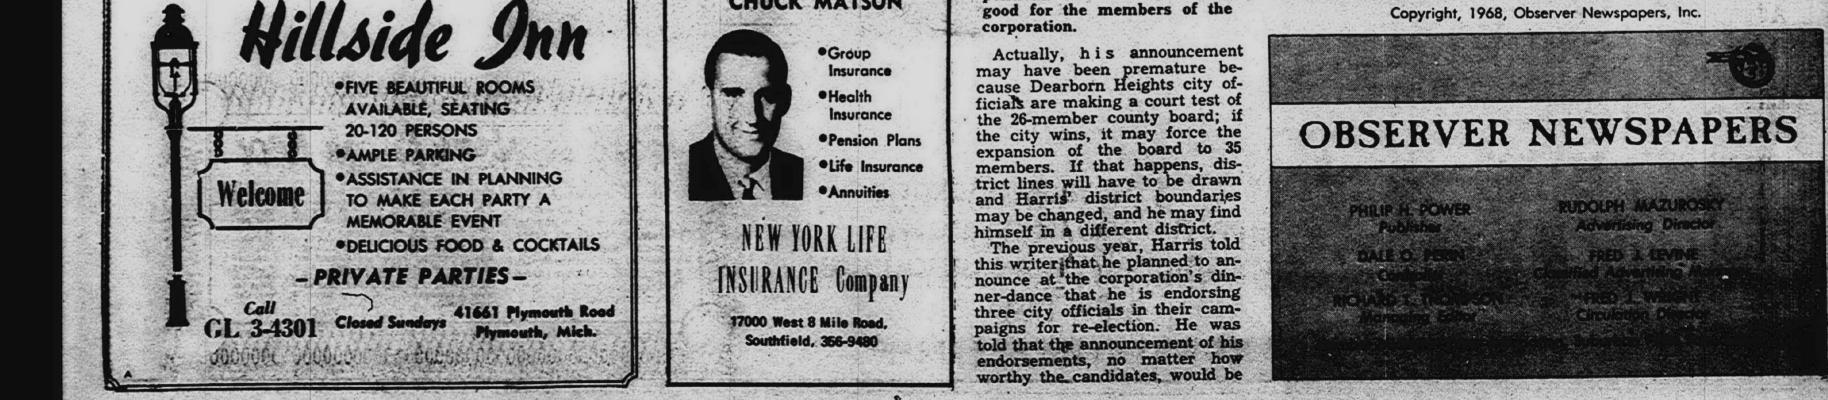

No one knows just yet how it's all going to turn out, but one thing is certain:

It'll be fun, even after the blood stops flowing.

The Wayne County Road Commission, which has responsibilities for Hines Park, through which the Rouge flows, has given its support to the program. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Detroit District, is lending technical assistance for reconstruction of river banks.

THE FIRST program was conceived by Jerry Hazlett in 1965. Hazlett, disturbed that he was no longer able to catch trout in the Rouge as he did 15 years ago, decided to do something about it. Because of the efforts for the past three years, the State Conservation Department drained Phoenix Lake and re-stocked it with 7,000 Rainbow Trout, However, the results were disappointing.

Because of the silt problem, the fish were unable to find a sufficient amount of food and grew only one inch in six months. As a result, this year's cleanup will include construction of rip raps and other reconstruction devices.

The cap he wore easily identified him as an umpire. You knew he had been through the wars ... and he had.

Earl Gray of Plymouth has been calling 'em in high school and sandlot play for longer than he cares to say.

He heads up one of the strongest groups of umpires in the state, if not the midwest, or the country. Umps for amateur games, that is.

Gray stood there, atop the embankment along side third base at Livonia's Henry Ford Field.

"We have a problem, you know," he said. "We no longer have enough umpires to handle all the games around here. We're especially short of top-flight umps.

"Maybe you can help, by putting their names in the paper in box scores. A little publicity could help, you know.'

We agreed, but had to confess that because of space and the number of games played in Observerland, there just is no place to present the box scores of games.

WHAT'S BEHIND the shortage of sandlot umps?

"I suppose there are a lot of reasons," Gray had to admit.

"Times are pretty good, you know. Many of our men won't ump any more because they'd rather work overtime at the shop or plant. The " pay is better."

On the sandlots, umps make around $6 to $8 for a game. It's a little better in high school action — usually $12.

"When you figure the tax a guy must pay, the wear and tear on equipment, the gas and oil, etc. . . . well, it's really not too much," added Gray. "At least when you compare our fees to what fellows get in football and basketball where the minimum for a high school game is $15.

"You can't forget, too, that baseball games have a habit of dragging a long time. Many times a fellow spends around four hours or more, just to handle one game. This, of course, figures his travel time."

Gray paused .

"But, money isn't the big thing with the guy wno is a dedicated umpire. You do it for the love of the game.

DETROIT COUGAR players had the spotlight as Schoolcraft College presented its first annual soccer clinic. Several of the stars of the pro team were on hand to demonstrate plays and ways to handle situations on offense and defense.

Kaline Injury Hits Tigers Flag Hopes

If it's not one injury, then it's another which plagues Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers. Kaline is out of action again for the Tigers after suffering a hairline fracture of his right forearm when struck by a pitch delivered by Lew Krausse of Oakland last Saturday night, The doctors say Kaline will be out of action at least for three weeks, Maybe more, Losing Kaline from the lineup has become old stuff for the Tigers, Last season he missed almost a month of the campaign when he suffered a fractured finger after slamming his' California at Anabeim. bat against the bat rack when he struck out, He blamed himself for the Tigers just missing out on the American League pennant, In 1959 he suffered a broken homerun leader when he knocked out his 306th roundtripper to eclipse the previous mark set by Hank Greenberg. Kaline's injury in Oakland merely was the forerunner of perhaps the wildest game the Tigers have engaged in,

When pitcher Jack Aker of the A's hit Jim Northrup in the back of the head with a pitch, to pull out the victory. Northrup charged Aker and a

LIVONIA'S JOE SPARMA was rapped hard by the A's, who chased him with six runs and nine hits in four innings. The Tigers then rallied to get even before John Hiller gave up a again double and pinch-single to Rene Lachemann to enable the A's

"There's something else. Just about everybody thinks he's an umpire. At least, that's the way it seems when you actually are working a game.

"So, here's a chance for those who think they can ump, to get some fresh air, enjoy baseball and make a few extra dollars on the side.'

CHANGING SUBJECTS, but sticking with baseball, there is a growing concern over the way pitchers are dominating in the major leagues. The number of .300 hitters has shrunk to a handful in both leagues. There are more and more 1-0, 2-1 and 4-3 games. Free-slugging affairs have become a rarity.

Consider the American League scores one day last week: Minnesota 4, Detroit 3; Washington 2, Chicago 0; Baltimore 4, New York 3;

Oakland 2, Cleveland 0; Boston 3, California 0.

The experts all have their reasons why the pitchers are taking over. Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yanks says it's because of the concentration placed on developing pitchers in Little League, then in high school and up the line.

Some of the Tigers argue that expansion gives them fewer chances to look over rival pitchers on a team like Boston or Chicago; also that all the new parks are bigger and paradises for the hurlers, not the batters.

Not too long ago it seems that everybody was saying that there was too much "rabbit" in the baseballs. Could be that, the ball has been changed!

Franklin Bests Glenn In Playoff

Franklin High's golf team won a playoff from John Glenn to capture the title in the Western Wayne Invitational at Salem Hills

Both teams shot a four-man score of 351 but in an extrahold playoffs, Franklin 'triumphed by three strokes.

faithful service to the real estate industry of Michigan and by his untiring and unselfish deeds for his church and for individuals in time of personal need, the award panel reported. Schultz was also president of the Western Wayne-Oakland County Board of Realtors in 1943, has served for many years as a director of the organization, and in 1961 was president of the past presidents' club.

THE AWARD PLAQUE inscription reads:

"For his inspirational and dedicated leadership to the real estate industry of Michigan, for which he has long strived to establish and promote its professional recognition; for his untiring service to his fellow realtors, both as a founder of the home multiple-listing program, and as a president and director of the board; for his unselfish service to his community: to his church: and to uncounted individuals and families in time of need."

Now a salesman specialist in vacant properties with the Gordon Williamson Company, Schultz, 76, and his wife Gladys reside at 14321 Glastonbury, Detroit.

Presentation of the award was made at the group's Realtor Week banquet, on May 21,

Norwood Realty Names Angel Sales Manager

- The JOE E. NORWOOD CO. has named Stewart S. Angel Jr. to a new position of salesmanager of the office, located 17421 Telegraph.

His duties will include complete supervision of Norwood's 13 man sales force, plus onthe-job training of new salesmen. The Norwood office deals primarily in used residential homes in Northwest Detroit and Suburbs.

Angel previously was employed as a real estate salesman for five years. He also worked as a supervisor at the Ford Motor Company and as an insurance representative. He received his formal education at Henry Ford Community College.

STARTING OLIVES FROM SEED: The hallmark of a green unber is to start olive plants from seeds, It's not easy, but it can be done. One reader writes: "Early in July 1967, I placed four mammoth ripe olive pits in a plant box, "A couple months later I noted two strange little plants coming up. They were dug up carefully, and I found that the olive pits still had roots attached, These were planted in pots, using 1/3 each of sand, peat and loam, and now the plants are 8 inches tall, with several leaves, growing

Sunday was the official opening of Kinney's newest branch, in Farmington in the just completed modern building at 22300 Middlebelt at Nine Mile Rd. The opening attractions included free gifts with every purchase, according to Larry Hickman, the store manager. Kinney, frequently referred to as "America's Outstanding Retailer of Fashion Footwear for the Family," offers the latest colors and styles in dress and casual shoes for men, women and children.

Also, such accessories as slippers, hosiery, handbags, stc., will be available in a smart and wide selection.

From its first store to the present, Kinney has never varied from its family concept of shoe retailing. Shoes for every member of the family in the widest range of colors, styles and sizes are available at the new Kinney store. A price range which is attractive to the average American family has been maintained and demanding specifications with rigid quality control at the manufacturing level assure the Kinney customer of the best in footwear at the lowest possible price.

rators at Northville State Hospital have tried for 15 years and found it impossible to fulfill for their 1,520 men and women patients of all faiths.

State funds simply do not stretch to cover an altar, a cross, a pair of candlesticks -much less a chapel.

Patients today worship in a 150-seat auditorium, void of any vestige of religion. The minister, priest or rabbi must conjure up an "altar" from a table and a piece of cloth; an atmosphere of worship from a room that on any other day doubles for conference room. meeting room or lecture room.

While the men of God feel the need for a chapel, their men and women patients more sorely feel the need for a place to go and seek that God.

Rabbi Solomon H. Gruskin, one of three Northville chaplains, explained it eloquently: "These men and women are not isolated. They don't go off into corners and not communicate. They read books and newspapers; they watch television. And they need a place to worship--a place to go with their grievances, with their good fortunes, or with their 'wrongs'." A chapel, the gray-haired rabbi continued, "is another way of making people feel they are at home.

"Consider any community. It can have its golf courses, its civic centers, its stores, but a church or synagogue gives people the feeling of being a real, self-sustaining community -- a feeling of being at home. "We don't know much more about mental illness today than we did 30 years ago," he said philosophically. "So, any time we can do one thing to promote in mental patients the feeling of being at home or of being among friends, we believe we're so much ahead."

Rabbi Gruskin feels an auditorium is not a chapel,

Rabbi Gruskin and two equally dedicated fellow chaplains, the Rev. Paul Lederman and the Rev. George Jerome, got new hope this week of seeing their patients' chapel turn from dream to reality.

Without formal name and almost without recognition, a group of men and women from Livonia, Plymouth, Redford, Farmington and Northville have set out to build a chapel at Northville State Hospital--dollar by dollar, pew by pew. Of Jewish, Catholic and Protestant faiths, they banded together for the one purpose of

Complete 180th Ehurch Assembly

Observer Newspapers

After taking action on evangelism, social issues, and church management, commissioners to the 180th General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church have returned from Minneapolis to implement assembly decisions in local churches and judicatories.

Thirty-eight clergymen and elders from the Synod of Michigan participated in the deliberations.

The assembly, May 16-22, recommended de-escalation of the Vietnam war and urged a settlement recognizing the essential interests of all parties. It condemned indiscriminate means of warfare.

Action was taken in the report on urban crisis condemning "brutal police behavior" in the ghetto with a warning against repressive white action to black unrest, Boards and agencies were directed to reorder priorities in the use of funds and staff in crisis programs and to develop suburban action centers. Reginald D. McGhee, Detroit, was chairman of the committee on crisis in the cities.

MORE THAN $12,600,000 in unrestricted funds was voted to be made available for investment in housing and businesses in low and middle income areas. Plans were made for a special Fund for Freedom Offering to be taken in churches June 2 with $100,000 going to the Martin Luther King, Jr., Development Fund of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

An advance of $50,000 on that amount is to be given May 30. An offering taken at the assembly for the Poor People's Campaign amounted to nearly $5,000.

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, addressed the Presbyterian body and asked for support of the Poor People's March and the civil rights movement.

"TURN YOUR FACES from stained-glass windows to tearstained faces," were the words of Paul L. Heineman, a civil engineer of Kansas City to his fellow churchmen.

The importance of communicating the Christian message was stressed in an address by The Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, Ann Arbor, when a report on the Council of Mass Media was presented by Rev. John K. I'm sure my main Memorial Day memories will be of wild scrambles for items like white gloves and polished shoes.

Somehow, though, we seem to manage to get everyone ready each year.

Then, after all clothing is rounded up, all hair brushed and all marchers dispatched to meeting places, what's left of the family takes up its station with the crowd at the end of our street to wait for the various contingents to come by and to spot our own participants.

This year we won't have to look among the green uniforms. We'll have a Brownie carrying a flag and a couple of tooters in one of the school bands. (Must remember to check and see if white blouses and black skirts are clean.)

We'll probably continue the family tradition of taking a few home movies, and after that the only non-marcher is likely to persuade me that we should follow the parade to the civic spot where special ceremonies will be held. She's a band-follower from way back.

Next Memorial Day, if all goes by plan, we should have four gals in the big parade. Guess I'll start right now laying in a supply of shoe polish, Brownie beanies and white gloves.

SHE HAS BEEN student, teacher, principal and superintendent in a number of the state's one-building schools. She has studied at three of the state's top universities, Central Michigan, University of Michigan, and Michigan State. In addition to all her secondary school work, she's taught evening classes at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

She's taught math to English to shop to driver education and lot of subjects in between.

EDITH EDICK even spent three years driving tanks for the U.S. Army.

She recalled being introduced by Garden City East Principal Gerald Gould with the words "she used to drive tanks and you'd think she was one." Trim and energetic, Mrs. Edick thought she should find out exactly what that meant. "It's just that you go like a tank," the principal was quick to explain.

THE ARMY experience began during World War II. Mrs. Edick, reared on a farm in Gladwin County, had completed high school by the time she was 12--"I was the only one in the class so I moved fast, and I certainly was too young to graduate."

By 16, she had a degree from Central Michigan. She rode horseback to her first teaching job, bought a car to get to the second, and later married Grover Edick, who also was Edick's retirement, Garden in school work. City school superintendent Don He died in 1936, and it was R. Shader pointed out:

Bake Snacks With New Starch

A new lightly modified starch which can be used to prepare snack foods by baking rather than frying can cut production time to 15 minutes, says its developer. The starch is pre-cooked and the snacks therefore need no cooking during formation and can be baked in any commercial or home oven. The starch permits a variety of flavors never possible in snacks before, the manufacturer says.

Holiday Barbecue Is Fun

Memorial Day is an ideal time to pursue the mystique of outdoor cookery with enthusiasm. It's a great time for the hostess, for she can turn over cooking responsibilities to the host, giving her attention to other details.

Division of labor is the key to preparation and service, perhaps more so for a barbecue than for any other form of home entertaining. Generally the host is eager to "rule the roast" and take care of the cooking actually performed outdoors.

Some, of course, prefer to do everything themselves, from preparing salads to serving dessert. A smoother operation will probably result if responsibilities are divided.

Prior planning and preparation are musts in any event, and considerable practice is generally useful in outdoor cookery where precise timing is difficult at best.

Simple or elaborate, the barbecue is almost certain to be an enjoyable event for Memorial Day. For if nature will produce good weather, the air of inform-

The big-time columnists give politicians labels like "left-wing," "liberal," "mildly liberal," "moderate," "moderately conservative," "right-wing" and so on.

And isn't there a more precise way of measuring liberalism and conservatism?

The purpose is to help you, as a voter. understand the candidates, and so the numbers are up to you to interpret. If you consider yourself very liberal, you will favor a candidate with a low number; if conservative, a high number. That's your business.

HERE ARE THE RATINGS of the three Observerland congressmen, Michigan's two senators, the governor, the current crop of presidential possibilities (except Rockefeller and Stassen), and some of the past presidential nominees:

2-Hubert H. Humphrey, vice president; based on his record as Democratic senator from Minnesota until 1964.

3-Robert F. Kennedy, Democratic senator from New York since 1964.

412-Philip H. Hart, Democratic senator from Michigan since 1959.

5-Eugene McCarthy, Democratic senator from Minnesota and former representative.

5-William D. Ford, Democratic congressman from Michigan's 15th District, including Garden City, Westland a n d Canton Township.

8-John F. Kennedy, late president, based on his record as Democratic senator from Massachusetts until 1960.

10-Lyndon B. Johnson, president, based on his record as Democratic senator from Texas until 1960.

511/2-Charles Percy, Republican senator from Illinois since 1967.

62½ Robert Griffin, Republican senator from Michigan since 1966.

66-Marvin Esch, Republican congressman from Michigan's 2nd District, including Plymouth.

70-George W. Romney, Republican governor of Michigan. Romney has never served in Congress. His rating is based on the average of his senatorial appointment, Griffin, and the five freshmen GOP congressmen he helped nominate and elect in 1966.

831/2-Richard M. Nixon, former vice president, based on partial ratings of his record as Republican congressman (1947-50) and senator (1951-52) from California.

86½-Jack McDonald, Republican congressman from Michigan's 19th District, including Redford, Livonia and Farmington, since 1967.

99-Barry Goldwater, 1964 Republican presidential nominee, based on his record as senator from Arizona until 1964.

WHAT ARE THE RATINGS based on? the same bills to make their ratings, but they are still pretty close. Logically, one can expect the ACA and the ADA ratings to add up to 100. For example, McDonald got 86 from ACA and 13 from ADA, adding up to 99.

To make this chart, we simply took ACA's rating of McDonald (86) and the reciprocal of his ADA rating (87), added them together and divided by two to get 86.5.

Nixon served in Congress before ACA began making ratings. His rating here is based on the ADA mark and the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), which tends to be the same as ADA although it's based on a narrower range of issues.

There may be a few minor statistical flaws.

ACA uses only a lawmaker's actual votes on a bill - not his announced intention on a roll call he missed.

ADA marks a lawmaker down for missing roll calls on issues it considers vital. Thus men running for national office - notably McCarthy and Nixon - would tend to get marked down by ADA because they campaigned while roll call votes were being taken.

Although the two organizations disagree almost entirely, they respect each other, we learned in our own research.

Kennedy-McCarthy Forces Unite In 19th District

Kennedy-McCarthy backers in the 19th Congressional District will go to the state Democratic Convention this weekend as a coalition against a slick pro-Humphrey organization. They called for allies among grass roots Democrats to go to the convention to build support for their merged group.

George Peterson, a McCarthy backer from Redford Township, and Allen Sipher, a Keanedy man from Livonia, said they will go for the other's candidate at the point when either shows an edge. * * *

THE CONVENTION will select 76 delegates, four from each congressional district, to join 24 at-large delegates to the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

Two groups, in particular, have done fairly thorough research on their voting records. These are the conservative Americans for Constitutional Action and the liberal Americans for Democratic Action.

Looking at it from the conservative side, for the sake of simplicity, a congressman would get good marks for voting against unbalanced budgets, the creation of new federal programs, foreign aid, restrictions on business, Medicare, privileges for unions, and some civil rights bills.

The two organizations don't always pick

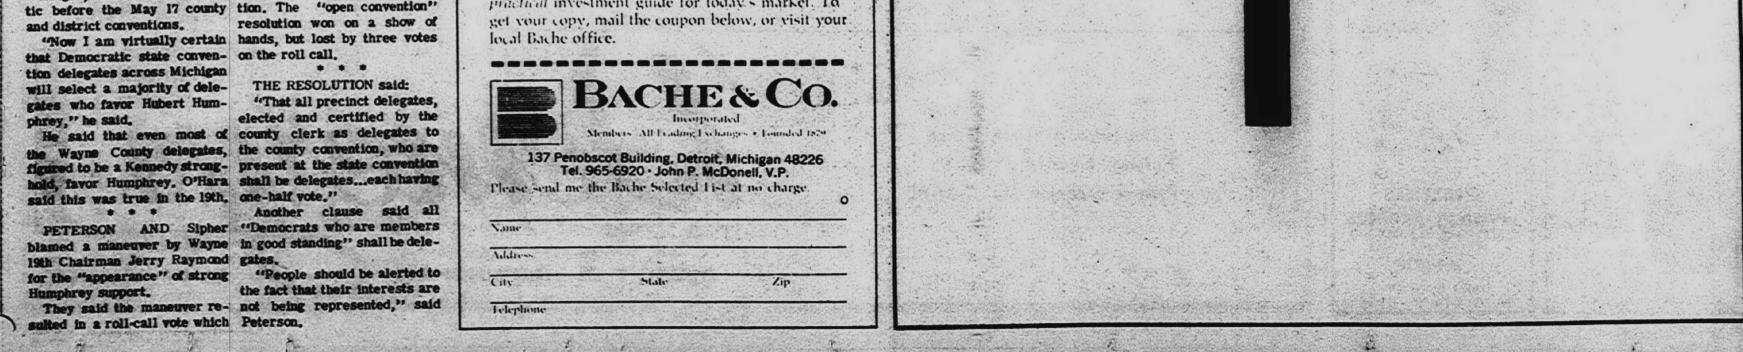

An ACA man recalled that in 1960 Sen. John Kennedy used his ACA rating (11) to show southern delegations he was not as liberal as Sen. Lyndon Johnson (10).

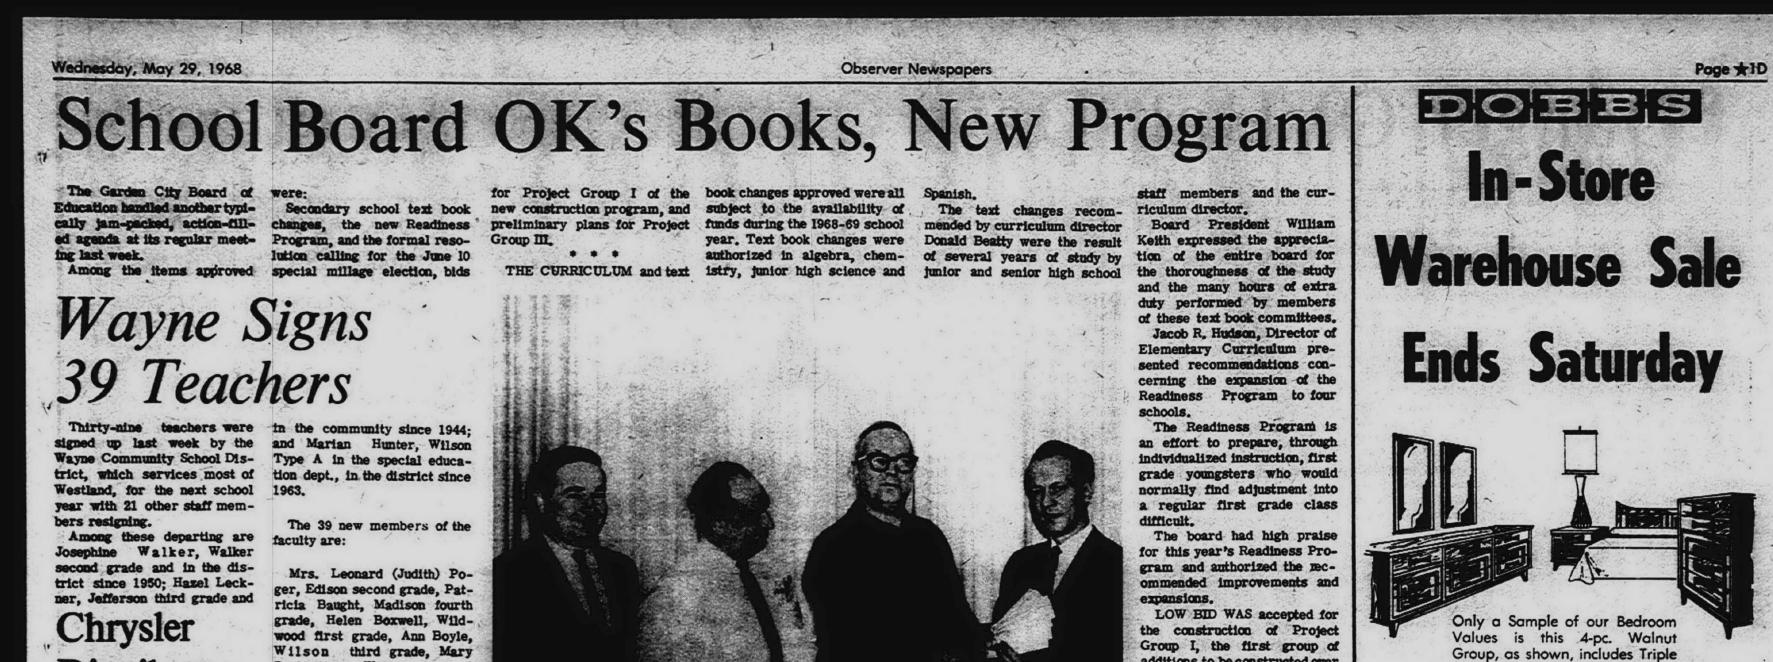

And another ACA man said he was taking ADA's ratings into consideration in compiling a rating for Nixon, who served on Capitol Hill before ACA began keeping records. But while the numbers may have flaws, they're still a lot better than the big-time columnists' labels.

Distributes Savings

DETROIT -- Approximately $25.7 million in Chrysler Corporation common stock, U.S. Savings Bonds and cash will be shared this week by 8,351 salaried Chrysler employes under the Chrysler Corporation Thrift-Stock Ownership Program.

These assets, accrued in the 1963 Class, which matured April 30, represent a return of $4,92 for each $1 saved by employes. Under the program, salarled employes with one year of service may invest up to 10 per cent of their base salaries. Danger Of Half-Days Outlined For Voters educational damage The caused by half-days of classes and shortened class days was outlined by Harry Howard, superintendent of the Wayne Community School District, whose voters will decide June 10 on a seven mill school tax increase for one year.

Howard, whose district includes most of Westland, pointed out that half-days of classes for 4,500 elementary students and shortened classroom days for all of the junior and senior high pupils and the closing of the Stevenson Junior High and Hoover Elementary before they even open their doors next fall are high among the list of "alternatives" the school board must act on if the millage is defeated.

Howard said:

"Many questions are being asked as to why the Board chose to only ask for this millage for one year. The best answer can be found in the word 'hope'.

"The board hopes that the Thomas Study will be implemented at the next session of the State legislature. It also plans to start a citizen movement to give assistance to the legislature to implement a program of property tax relief. In the meantime the Board must have operating funds to continue its program.

"Since the Board does not anticipate nor see how it could conduct another election, in event of a defeat in time to levy the millage for the next school year, the following areas of cutbacks have been agreed upon:

* * *

"1--The new Stevenson Junior High School and the new Hoover Elementary School are not to be opened. Money saved here will be in the area of operations and other personnel.

"2--Approximately 4,500 el-

"4--Reduction in administration and supervision. Reductions in this area will be accomplished by not opening the buildings, and principally in the area of coordination of programs.

"5--Reduction in secretarial, custodial, maintenance, health services, attendance services, and cafeteria services to reflect not opening two new schools and one-half day sessions. Greatest savings in this area will be in custodial and secretarial personnel not hired because of the opening of the two new schools. Cafeteria services will be greatly curtailed because most students will not be in the schools at the time of the day when lunch would need to be served.

"6--Reduction in student activities due to curtailed program and shortened day. Many different things spell success to many different students. The thing that whets the academic appetitite of one student may not appeal at all to another. The possibility of participating in a wide variety of activities will be greatly curtailed by the shortened day at the senior high schools. Many of the students simply will not come backafter having been dismissed around noon for after school activities. Past experience has indicated a dropping off of all of these activities due to shortened days.

"7--REDUCTION in summer school program. For the past few years this program has been increasing at a rapid rate each summer. In event that cutbacks are needed the program will be reduced to the bare necessities, perhaps to enable only those who need additional credits to graduate from high school.

"8--Increase in continuing education fees. This program program would suffer to the education. point that within two years both high schools would lose their accreditation. This is something the staff and Board of Education have worked very hard to attain and maintain.

It is something of which the community is justly proud.

"It is interesting to note that this year's twelfth grade student who is graduating entered school in September of 1955. If he entered in the Wayne Community School District and has attended for the full thirteen years, the community and the State has an investment of about $6,400 in his education. If he is an only child and his parent an average taxpayer the parent has contributed less than $2,500 through taxes to his

The type of half-days the Board is talking about at this juncture will have one teacher teaching a group the same teacher teaching another group in the afternoon. In this way a considerable amount of savings will be realized.

"3--Approximately 7,400 junior and senior high students are to have a four period day instead of six. This will cut greatly into the elective subjects that a student may take and students will be required to take those courses that are specifically geared toward graduation credits. It will also mean that a student will be someplace other than school for two hours each day. In other words the school day is being cut by one-third.

"9--Other reductions where shortage of classrooms and not possible. This would include a multitude of cutbacks in all areas. The Board of Education will have to spend many hours in working out the related deof students in the morning and tails to the above if cuts become necessary due to a defeat of the millage on June 10.

Gardening Can Be Fun By Varying Flower

One of the greatest joys of Also good for cutting. gardening is to always try something new, it's fun to keep a jump ahead of one's friends. Among the annual flowers there is a great number which are little known and deserve wider appreciation. For instance, everyone knows the regular sweet alyssum which make a handsome six inch-high edging, but how many have tried the tiny ones, only half as high for daintier, more intimate edgings? Or, how many have tried white, daisy-like arctotis which produces its delicately tinted blooms all summer? It has much more grace and distinction than the daisy and is excellent for cutting.

Bright, fiery crimson leaves producing a plant reminiscent of the poinsettia, that is the amaranthus. Three-feet or more tall, it is excellent against a background or as a background.

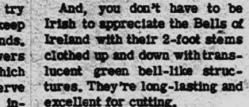

DAINTY, pale blue and lacy are the blooms of the blue lace flower, excellent in borders particularly in cool places.

For semi-shade or cool, dry places try the clarkias. Easily grown, they reach 2 to 3 feet tall and are topped with dainty salmon, pink, rose, mauve, white or almost purple blooms.

Very much like the arctotis but with their graceful, longpetaled daisies in tones of soft orange, yellow, white, scarlet, crimson or rose are the gerberas. With care they can sometimes also be grown indoors. Either way, they are well worth a try--and one of the best. long-lasting cut flowers.

shaded, moist soil it's a good idea to experiment with the godetias or satinflowers, Rose, carmine, pink or blue cups are borne on sturdy 15-inch plants making them ideal for garden bedding. These and many other little-known plants await you, if you explore the seed catalogs or garden shops.

In all cases, prepare the soil as you would for a vegetable garden. Spade it a full spade deep, incorporating a 2-inch layer of compost or other humus, and five pounds of vegetable fertilizer per 100 square feet.

Then rake it smooth and sow your seed as gently and carefully as you know how. If there is danger of the soil drying, cover it with light burlap until germination is well under Wav.

Then remove it and when the seedings are large enough to handle-dig them out with a green thumb trowel and replant at full recommended width apart.

RECEIVING TROPHY as the most valuable member of the Detroit Country Day School basketball squad is Jack Zwemer (left), of Garden City. Jack averaged 25.2 points per game and led the team to a 13-4 season. The award was one of the highlights of the annual athletic banquet.

"Improvements include limitations on reasons for which one's policy can be cancelled, a unique complete waiver of the deductible amount in certain collisions, and a 'vacation package' which benefits both those using recreation vehicles and trailers and those driving owned cars or renting them as far away as in Guam or American Samoa," Paul R. Erickson, Insurance Exchange general manager announced.

"These improvements are part of our continuing effort to make owning an auto, trailer or camping vehicle pleasanter, take the nuisance out of a collision and protect policyholders," Erickson said. Last July, the Exchange began returning 10 percent of the policy cost to insureds as their policies expired. This continues. "It is the current practice in the auto insurance industry that when a person with deductible collision coverage collides with a legally liable insured driver, in order to have his car repaired, he must advance the $50, $100 or $250 deductible

Water Events Headline 1968 Summer Calendar

From Danish delicacies to thundering Gold Cuppers, from cil's just-released June-Octostrawberry festivals to Van Cliburn, there's something for everyone in Michigan this summer.

The Michigan Tourist Counber Calendar of Events is one of the fullest in TouristCouncil history.

Since Michigan is the "Great Lake State," many of the activities are water-connected, like the Gold Cup unlimited hydroplane race on the Detroit River June 30. The Gold Cup is the World Series of the powerboat racing and draws the best and fastest of the roostertialfastest of the roostertailspewing giants.

. . . AT A SLOWER PACE are the cance races on the Au Sable, Tawas, Huron, Pine and Pere Marquette Rivers, And most colorful is the annual Port Huron to Mackinac sailing race which starts July 13.

Naturally, with water, there's fishing and the calendar lists the 25th annual National Bluegill Frolic at Marcellus, June 28-

29, with fishing, parades, bands and prizes. Michigan's newest sport fish, the fighting, exciting coho salmon, will be honored -literally--Sept. 26-29 at Honor in Benzie County with the second National Coho Salmon Festival. Michigan is as famous for the automobile as it is for its lakes, and fans of the new and old, slow and fast, will have their days. . . .

THE NEW MICHIGAN Speedway, designed by former world driving champion Stirling Moss and set in the rolling Irish Hills near Jackson, debuts with a 250mile Indianapolis-type car race Oct. 6.

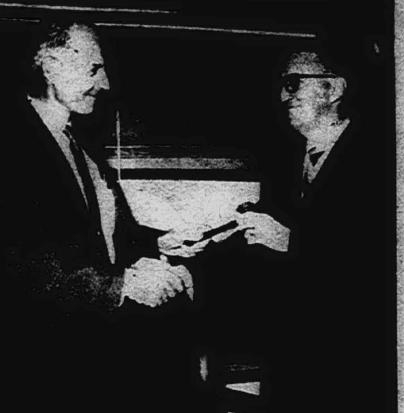

Old car buffs will have their their festival, Sept. 7-8, at Greenfield Village in Dearborn, The old and new combine at Sault Ste, Marie in a summerlong celebration of the 300th anniversary of the first permanent settlement of Michigan's oldest city.

Topping the party are the June 15 dedication of the new Poe Lock, built at a cost of $40 million and able to handle ships with twice the capacity of today's largest lake freighter, and the dedication of the 21-story Shrine of the Missionaries, July 14.

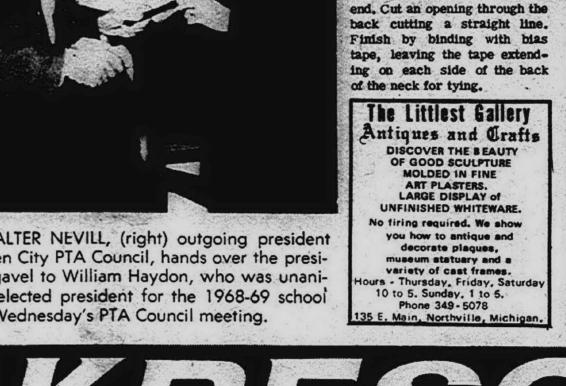

The triple observation tower is the first step in an ambitious complex expected to accelerate tourist interest in the Soo area. . . .

THE CALENDAR also lists centennial celebrations for Greenbush, Wayland and

Howard City. Nationality groups will have their days, too. Among them are the annual Bavarian Festival in Frankenmuth, June 9-15, and WALTER NEVILL, (right) outgoing president of Garden City PTA Council, hands over the presidential gavel to William Haydon, who was unanimously elected president for the 1968-69 school year at Wednesday's PTA Council meeting.

Need Change In Abortion Laws

Even if the most liberal abortion reforms are passed, the number of abortions performed is not likely to increase significantly

Prof. B.J. George of the University of Michigan Law School made this prediction at the University of Chicago's Conference of Abortion. "The medical profession will continue to be highly conservative," George said, "but the elimination of criminal law controls will at least force each doctor to decide whether and why he will meet his patient's requests for an abortion." The chief question, George noted, is not how many abortions may be performed, but rather "how many abortions actually performed will be done openly in hospitals and clinics." * * *

CRITICIZING current abortion laws for ignoring the public health menace of illicit abortions, frustrating open and competent counseling, and preventing rational evaluation of the issue, George exposed some of the inconsistencies in contemporary attitudes toward abortion.

Our abortion laws "are typical of most laws directed at the control of sexual and sexually related activities. Their sweeping proclamations reinforce the moral abstraction to which most people give nominal adherence. but in practice these laws remain largely unenforced so that prevalent practices conuntouched by official tinue

The doctrine that condemns abortion "tends usually to justify capital punishment as community self-defense, just wars as collective self-defense, and self-defense as a necessary incident to the sacredness of life," George said. "Yet the concrete application of each concern, George stated, "Prac- question chiefly rises because tically speaking, there is need to provide for early emancipation of the female minor, and for the consent of the husband to be required only if the couple is living together." Burroughs Corporation has announced the appointment of Noral E. McNeely as manager, employe and industrial relations, of the firm's data processing manufacturing plant located at Tireman Blvd., in Detroit.

In his new position, McNeely will have full responsibility for all employe and industrial relations activities within the plant, reporting to the plant General Manager, John J. O'Brien.

A native of Sault Ste. Marie, McNeely began with Burroughs in February 1964 on the corporate labor relations staff, where he served until his recent promotion. He holds a B.A. degree from Wayne State University.

Weekend Campers Will Compete For Sites

The use of Michigan camping areas is expected to jump more than 10 per cent this summer, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"This means that the weekend camper especially will have a harder time than ever before in locating a campaite, unless he knows where and how to find one quickly," states Jerry E. Fisher, Auto Club's touring manager.

Last year alone, Michigan-the third largest manufacturer of camping vehicles in the nation--produced 28,800 units. If all the 1967 Michigan manufactured vehicles were to head for Michigan state parks on any one given weekend, there would be over a 200 per. cent site shortage.

. . . NATIONALLY the production of all recreational vehicles was up 10.6 per cent while the dollar volume rise was 12.6 per cent for 1967 over 1966.

These factors point out that not only will there be more campers at parks than ever before, but there will be bigger and more sophisticated equipment in use.

The Recreational Vehicle Institute states that the 1967 national production of travel trailers as compared with 1966 production was up 8,3 per cent, camping trailers up nine per cent, truck campers up 13 per cent and motor homes up 73 per cent.

"Knowing in advance where camping vacancies will exist and what facilities are available will be of great importance this summer," states Fisher.

To aid the camper, AutoClub has compiled a listing of 67 state parks with almost 13,000 sites available to the public. The map and information not only tells the location of parks. destinations. (Although basis). "The family that takes a many private parks offer a reservation service, all week-long camping trip will state parks operate on a have the advantage as usual," first-come, first-served states Fisher, "Although there

IN ADDITION to the growing number of campers throughout the state. Auto Club points out that Coho fishermen along Lake Michigan from Benton Harbor north to Harbor Springs will add to the usually crowded conditions at parks in West Michigan.

For those who want to increase their chances of finding a site at state parks with the first stop, Auto Club suggests these 17 areas which usually have vacancies even over the Fourth of July weekend when camping pressure reaches its peak:

Southern Lower Michigan ---Bald Mountain and Ortonville. Northern Lower Michigan---Bay City, Benzie, Cheboygan, Day, Gladwin, Hoeft, Onaway and White Cloud, Upper Peninsula -- Fayette, Lake Gogebic, McLain, Muskallonge Lake, Porcupine Mountains, Twin Lakes and Van Riper.

"There are also many privately owned parks in the state in addition to the county and township campgrounds plus state and national forests which have vacancies all summer." states Fisher.

"However, when visiting some private or township parks, check and be sure what facilities are available and the cost before registering or getting settled in a spot."

One township park near the Whitney Drain off US-23 (just north of Tawas City) charged $2.50 per night with no shower in operation during the April smelt season, Conditions were extremely crowded.

Nearby Tawas Point State Park had all facilities (including trailer sanitation disposal and facilities for filling a camping vehicle's water tank) plus showers in operation for $2 nightly.

AUTO CLUB offers two tips for the weekend camper who wants to have the most success site hunting this summer: · Avoid looking for a choice site late Fridays, Take what is available, Between 3:30 and 5 p.m. Fridays, preferred sites usually are filled.

· Pick the geographical area in which you wish to camp. Choose two or three campgrounds. When within 2 half-hour's drive of an intended distination, stop and

The extension center, geared to education programs for inner city youth, would become part of the Wayne County Community College. That college was established by the Legislature last year and its trustees will be chosen in a June 10 election.

In its resolution, the State Board asked that each public community and junior college in the state advise it of all educational services provided outside their boundaries.

The building committee had interviewed nine firms and recommended three: O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach, Inc., of Birmingham; Perkins & Will, of Chicago; and, Tarapata, Mac-Mahon, Associates, Inc., of Bloomfield Hills. . . .

IN OTHER ACTIONS, the board approved the purchase faculty office furniture in the amount of $7,010 for the new Liberal Arts Classroom Building. The board also agreed to purchase $13,599 worth of classroom furniture for the new building. A low bid of $10,945 was accepted for the installation of audio-instruction equipment in the library. The system includes four tape and two record channels.

The library received a little more open space this month when the Language Lab was moved into the new classroom building. The board approved the move, for a cost of$3,444.-50, which included an addition of three new booths.

Another piece of furniture approved for the classroom building was a reconditioned Steinway piano to be purchased through Arnoldt B. Williams of Plymouth for $3,500. * * *

EVEN WITHOUT litigation, the Fund's own and outside adjusters have boosted collections considerably. This is indicated by the latest available figures (for February), which show repayment of $24,784 --more than, 10 per cent of the $241,613 collected in repayments since the law went into effect January 1, 1966.

After more than two years of operation, the Fund listed at the end of February $2,053,-215 in receivables from uninsured motorists.

FROM THE beginning, more than half. ... 57.9 per cent. ... of all uninsured motorists have paid the state's claims in full or are repaying on installment. But these repayments were only 11.7 per cent of the cumulative total owing the Fund.

of medical costs and drug prices WASHINGTON -- Gaining the public's confidence is a conin January. tinuing chore for the Pharmaceutical Manufacturing Association (PMA).

Few other industries have been hit with so much sustained adverse publicity as have the companies that discover and produce the nation's prescription drugs.

From Congress, organized labor and even the White House have come a succession of proposals with one ultimate goal-to lower drug prices while maintaining drug quality.

For 10 years, beginning with the Estes Kefauver hearings. the PMA has fought a holding action against its critics in government.

THE ASSOCIATION has launched a $1.5 million advertising program aimed at restoring public confidence in drug products. Public relations consultants retained by PMA have sought to get the industry's story across by inviting news reporters on all-expense-paid trips to pharmaceutical plants.

The industry has cause for concern, for the questions on drug prices raised by the late Sen. Kefauver look larger today than they did when first posed it: 1958.

Kefauver's role as industry critic has been assumed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., whose senate small business monopoly subcommittee has been holding hearings for the last year.

Drug prices also have come under the scrutiny of two other subcommittees headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Rep. John Dingell, D-Detroit. Ribicoff recently started hearings of an indefinite duration into the broad problem of rising medical care costs. Dingell's committee has held arings for more than a year

In one of his infrequent comments on drug prices, Hart this and task force reports are due week urged doctors to write generic prescriptions voluntarilv.

Industry

Stetler attributes the industry's problems with Congress

FINALLY the drug industry was sternly "rebuked in President Johnson's special health message that proposed publication of a drug compendium (directory) and establishment of a cost range for drugs used in federal health care programs.

"We must make certain that the American taxpayer does not pay needlessly high and exorbitant prices for prescription drugs used in federally supported programs," Johnson said.

"Recent surveys have shown, for instance, that 12 drugs of the same type range in retail price from $1.25 to $11 for 30 tablets," he said. "The taxpaver should not be forced to pay $11 if the $1.25 drug is equally effective. To do this would permit robbery of private citizens with public approval."

Are all drugs that have the same generic names or chemical compositions equally effective?

This probably is the most crucial question in the drug pricing controversy.

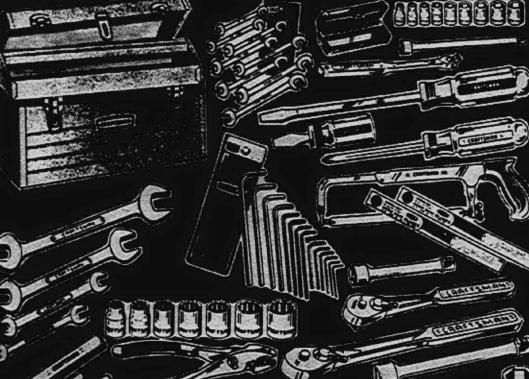

Congressional critics of the industry say there should be no variations in drugs produced by different companies because the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) inspects drug manufacturing facilities.

But PMA President C. Joseph Stetler argues that there aren't enough inspectors to police the entire industry. There are between 800 and 1.000 manufacturers of prescription drugs, he said. The 136 firms that belong to PMA produce 95 per cent of all drugs.

The FDA stations inspectors in plants of the large companies, but it lacks the manpower to keep a close watch on the hundreds of small firms, Stetler said.

Men Golf While Wife Cuts Lawn

Golf widows are getting more exercise these days. Perhaps it is one way for them to let off steam because their husbands are playing more golf, but an estimated 24 per cent of all lawn mowing this year will be done by women. This is three per cent more than last year and compares with less than five per cent 10 years ago. Weekend golf for the men has increased in proportion.

William H. Smith, president of a Georgia mower company, says dealers across the country have told him that women will buy nearly 30 per cent of the mowers sold this year. Ten years ago, men bought 95 per cent of the mowers.

THE LADIES, Smith says, are more interested in longlasting, easily operated mowers, not bargain basement varieties,

Here is what Smith advises a prospective mower buyer to look for:

1. The American Safety Association seal.

2. Quick repair service and availability of spare parts. Paging a husband on the golf course isn't easy.

3. Decks deep enough to get rid of, all grass cuttings, because clogging impairs efficiency and may cause stalling .-

Ball-bearing wheels and "through axles" to make mowing easier and eliminate motordamaging wobble.

5. Cutting height adjustments without need of tools.

His argument might be dismissed as being self-serving were it not for the FDA's experience with two antibiotics, chloramphenicol and terracy-cline. Last August, Parke, Davis & Co., of Detroit, the developer of chloramphenicol, submitted data indicating that chloramphenicol produced by other firms and sold under different brand names lacked the same potency as Parke, Davis' brand. After tests of its own, the FDA concurred and ordered all producers of chloramphenicol, except for Parke, Davis, to stop selling the drug.

SEN. PHILIP A. HART, D-Mich., who inherited Kefauver's anti-trust subcommittee chairmanship, but not his passion for battling the drug industry, has gradually withdrawn from the drug pricing arena.

Researchers Find British Race Resentment

LONDON -- A British Broadcasting Corporation research team surprised itself by discovering an under-the-surface current of resentment of Britishers towards non-white immigrants.

The researchers uncovered the first concrete evidence that millions of average Britons resented the heavy influx of Indians, Pakistanis, West Indians and other non-whites since the war.

The discontent was there, just beneath the surface of the cozy tolerance Britain likes to present to the world, but it lacked a national voice. * * *

ON SATURDAY, April 20, Enoch Powell, defense spokesman in the Conservative Party's "shadow cabinet" gave it one. The theme of his speech was "Keep Britain White" or face interracial violence as bloody as that in the United States. Powell called for the end of immigration and for government aid to any immigrant now in the country who wanted to return to his homeland.

Newspapers and TV commentators accused Powell of rabble-rousing.

Conservative Leader Edward Heath fired him from the shadow cabinet. Members of the House of Commons denounced him.

But newspapers which attacked Powell admitted letters from readers were heavily in his favor. . . .

POWELL HIMSELF had tens of thousands of letters of approval against a few hundred of criticism. Thousands of longshoremen and other workers went on strike or marched to Parliament in support of his right to "free speech."

ficers at London airport broke the civil service code to charge publicly that there was racketeering in illegal entry of colored immigrants. One newspaper estimated 50,000 Indians and Pakistanis alone have no legal right to be in the country. As leaders of 20 colored immigrant groups hastily formed a "Black People's Alliance" to combat racialism and to protect themselves by force if necessary, there was one conspicuous casualty-the cherished British belief that race violence on the American pattern "couldn"t happen here." The depth of feeling about the race problem is hard to assess in the absence of nationwide polls since Powell spoke. But the BBC put some questions to a studio audience carefully chosen to represent a crosssection of viewers in the Midlands, where the bulk of the immigrants are centered.

Eighty four per cent were against legislation such as the Race Relations Bill, supported by most members of Parliament, which makes it an offense to discriminate on the grounds of race.

Since all three main political parties, presumably reflecting the opinion of the bulk of the country, have strongly supported civil rights legislation, leaders have been asking what went wrong.

* * *

THE ANSWER seems to be that too many immigrants arrived too soon, that successive British governments miscalculated the numbers eligible for entry and the strain their arrival would place on housing, employment and the health services.

There are just under one million colored immigrants in Britain, about two per cent of the total population. Some 350,-000 are from the West Indies, 250,000 from India, 150,-000 from Pakistan, 110,-000 from Africa and 80,000 other Asians.

The numbers swell by more than 40,000 immigrants a year. The number of entry permits has been cut down year after year until it is less than 4,000 for this year. But the numbers of dependents claiming entry on each permit has risen from two in 1962 to 10 in 1967. It was the dependent flood that led the immigration officers to charge "corruption and deceit."

New Theory Says Neurosis Can Be Unlearned

LOS ANGELES -- Are the ears and anxieties which doctors call neuroses just bad hab-its that were learned and can e unlearned in most cases without the agonizing self-appraisal of psycholanalysis? This question has split the osychiatric profession, and test studies are being made to decide the most effective treatment Practitioners of the relatively new "behavior therapy" have shown that a rat subjected to repeated shock in a small cage resembled the laboratory; othsoon will display neuroses whenever he is placed in the cage -- whether or not he is shocked.

He has "learned" this neurotic response, and thus can "unlearn" it, they say. Comparable treatment of neurotic patients has been highly successful, they say.

According to one of its leadng exponents, Dr. Joseph Wolpe, a Philadelphia psychiatrist who teaches at Temple University School of Medicine, almost 90 per cent of patients who expose themselves to the techniques of behavior therapy either recover or improve markedly.

WHETHER THE ANALYSIS can do as well is a controversial subject. But the analysts and their theories are being challenged by the new school which maintains that neuroses aren't as mysterious as they say the analysts like to make out. Behavior therapy had its origta in experiments with animals which demonstrated, according to its proponents, that duced after three or four sesneuroses are acquired by learn- sions so that the patient can ing.

Even three days of starvation did not cause hunger strong enough to overcome the inhibiting effect of the anxiety, so the experimenters decided to attempt feeding under conditions of weaker anxiety. They accomplished the weaker anxiety, as earlier experiments had shown, by changing the environment.

So he offered food to animals in rooms other than the one where they had been made anxious. Some of the rooms ers did not. But Dr. Wolpe was able to find a room where anxiety was weak enough to be overcome by hunger.

He found that repeated helpings of food there led to a complete elimination of the anxiety. The cat was then moved to the next room more like the laboratory and the feeding procedure was repeated. At last the animal was able to eat inside the laboratory cage without any signs of anxiety.

THE TECHNIQUE used by Dr. Wolpe is to present small doses of the feared experience to the patient while he is in deep relaxation. For example, if the patient fears heights, the assumption is made that he would be less afraid looking out a second story window than a 10th story window.

The therapist has the patient imagine that he is looking out the second story window. As the patient gets used to the experience he is told to imagine himself looking out the third story window, and so on. In most cases, according to the psychiatrist, the anxiety is reactually go to the 10th floor ing him repeated shocks. Soon the animal will become anxious whenever he is merely placed in the cage but not shocked.

If a buzzer is associated with the shock, the animal will soon learn to show the anxious behavior whenever the buzzer sounded, even if he is not in the small cage. This reaction will persist without diminishing for months.

All of this is reminiscent of Pavlov's famous dog who was taught to salivate whenever he heard a bell. In fact, Pavlovian theory is the cornerstone of behavior theracy. ysis. Its proponents claim that neurotic behavior in humans, like the anxious behavior in the experimental animals is learned. Furthermore, they maintain that it is possible to correct neurotic behavior, just as has been done in animals, by unlearning the conditioning which led to the behavior in the first place.

IN EXPERIMENTAL neuroses that Dr. Wolpe produced in cats it was found that anxious behavior was completely dependent upon how closely the cat's environment resembled the environment in which it was originally shocked.

For example, a cat that had been shocked while in an experimental cage showed little disturbance when in an open courtyard or even in the cage in which it lived. But the cat showed considerable anxiety when in the room in which the experimental cage stood and still more anxiety when placed inside the cage itself.

According to Dr. Wolpe, anxiety is almost always the central symptom in human neuroses. It is also often the cause of stammering, impotence, asthma, and compulsive behavior, all forms of behavior which are not generally associated with anxiety.

In most cases, says the psychiatrist, a careful study of events in the patient's past reveals the anxiety was conditioned during a highly disturbing or stressful experience, man's learning and ex-Once conditioned in this way, various aspects of the conditioning situation will trigger the anxiety which accompanied the original experience.

There is also a tendency, he says, for "second-order conditioning" to occur. He cites an example of a woman who had been conditioned to fear crowds and who was sitting in a halfbecame crowded with students. She became so anxious that the anxiety served as a basis for the conditioning of a fear of all theaters, even empty ones. The key to developing a method of overcoming such neuroses, Dr. Wolpe says, was developed in the animal laboratory. The clue that led to the answer was the observation that highly anxious cats cannot eat. The psychiatrist reasoned that if they could find a way to make cats eat in the presence of the anxiety-producing environment, the anxiety itself wight be inhibited.

Deep relaxation is an essential part of the treatment. In humans it serves the same purpose that hunger did in the experimental animals -- it helps to inhibit anxiety.

Dr. Wolpe and a group of psychiatrists at Temple University have just begun a study to compare the results of behavior therapy with those of psychoanalysis, Eventually 140 neurotic patients will take part in the study. Half will randomly be assigned to behavior therapy and half to anal-

Before treatment begins, each patient will be evaluated by an independent psychiatrist. The same psychiatrist will then evaluate each patient following 20 sessions of therapy.

According to Dr. Wolpe, "analysis will stand only when it has withstood tests such as this. Some of its tenets are so fuzzy that they can't even be tested."

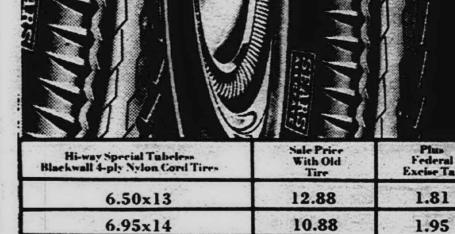

Dr. Leo Rangell, a Los Angeles psychoanalyst and twice president of the American Psychoanalytic Assn., said in an interview that in his opinion behavioral theory and therapy turn back the scientific clock.

"The mechanism of conditioning is not new," he said, "but much more has been discovered. As a sole explanation, behavior theory is twodimensional in a three-dimensional world. It is like living in the world as if it were flat after it has been discovered to be round.

"We are not against conditioning. Conditioning is included in analysis and is involved whenever a patient recalls an episode which was responsible for his anxiety. And by replacing his fears with understanding, we are also reconditioning him.

conditioning involved in human neurosis and their treatment. Conditioning alone leaves no room for biology and for human instincts. These play a role in human neurosis in addition to periences. All are needed and much more.

CONTRARY TO THE behaviorists, it is necessary in treatment to know and to feel, to

SLEEK SPORTY STRIPES IN RACE-TRACK RED OR WHITE

Superwide-Tred tires are built with two cross-bias plies of nylon, plus two fiberglass belts. Both fiberglass plies are placed at a lower angle to provide greater strength to withstand damage caused by chuckholes and other road hazards. Fiberglass belts distribute road shocks, while its nylon plies absorb them. For safety's sake, tread depth indicators are built into each tire. These indicators appear when the tread reaches 2/32's of an inch to pémind you to replace them.

Page 16 ★ British Head For Australia

LONDON -- Philip and Shirley Dodds are a good-looking, hard-working young English couple. They have a bungalow on the edge of a Sussex forest, a new car bought a few weeks ago, and secure jobs. Yet Philip Dodds believes he can have a better life in Australia. He wants to emigrate. Shirley wants her husband to be happy. But she has doubts about leaving England.

Dodds is like hundreds of other Britons who are making inquires about emigration. He is disillusioned with his country.

"I feel England is going down hill. I object to paying taxes and having them misspent," he says.

. . . DODDS DISAPPROVES of paying unemployment benefits to people he thinks could work but don't. He disapproves of high-income couples receiving family allowances, granted under Britain's National Health Program. Most of all, he disapproves of last November's devaluation of the British pound --and it is this that finally prompted him to consider emigrating. Although the reasons for leaving Britain are as varied as the emigrants--better climate, more advancement possibilities, higher standard of living, fewer restrictions -- devaluation is a prime factor in the current surge of interest in Australia. When the government reduced the value of the pound from $2.80 to $2.40 Nov. 18, it did more than lower the value of the country's money by 14.3 per cent. For the

Dodds and others, it lowered Britain's standing in the world and confirmed the end of an era. Devaluation was a psychological blow to them, something aldn to a national disaster. . . .

AFTER DEVALUATION, inquiries began flowing into Australian immigration offices in record numbers.

In December and January, Australia House and the six regional immigration offices received 38,299 inquiries, an increase of 73 per cent over the same period a year ago. Applications for the 10-pound assisted passage scheme amounted to 24,172, a 27 per cent increase over a year ago. Under this immigrant inducing program, the emigrant pays only 10 pounds ($24) toward his passage. The Australian government pays the rest of the fare.

More than 15,000 applications for assisted passages were submitted in the first three weeks of February, the biggest total for a three-week period. More than 4000 applications a week now flood into the offices.

To interest possible immigrants, Australia has an effective information program that has been operating in Britain more than 20 years.

This program relies on a mobile van, regional immigration offices, newspaper advertising, and weekly film shows.

· A recent film night in London attracted some 700 persons, among them Philip and Shirley Dodds. A few days before, 1000 persons attended a special showing at Australia House.

. . . BLONDE MRS. DODDS has no children, but she does have an exceptionally good job as secretary. She feels she probably will earn 20 per cent less in Australia, and may not be able to duplicate her standard of living. She knows they will have to sell their new car or pay duty on it.

"We've both got good jobs; a nice spot to live, and I'm reluctant to leave it all," she says.

Philip Dodds, an office manager, has only one qualm --that he might be passed over for promotion in a new post because he's not Australian. "I've been assured I won't so that settles that," he says determinedly.

"I'm not afraid of hard work and I know I can do
