Michigan Democrats roared through their liveliest state convention in years in Detroit last weekend with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey apparently getting a majority of delegate support.

Officially, the 102-member delegation to the national convention in Chicago Aug. 26 is Backers of Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy both claimed gains in Michigan.

LIVONIA—Dissatisfied with the progress of their negotiations for a new contract with the city, over due since last December, the Livonia Fire Fighters Association has asked the State Labor Mediation Board to send a representative to future meetings. The stumbling block is over pay, LFFA President Ron Abraham said, with firemen's demands for a 10 per cent increase reduced, but the city's offer a widening of the gap between fire and police pay.

LIVONIA—Aiming at the estimated 8,000 to 10,000 residents who are not registered to vote this presidential election year, City Clerk Addison W. Bacon and political and civic leaders are planning a registration drive the week of June 17. There are now 39,072 registered voters on the lists, eligible for the school board election June 10 and the August primary and November general election, Bacon said.

FARMINGTON - Thirteen weeks to the day from the time Local 985 of the UAW struck the Star Cutter Co., Farmington Township's largest employer, hourly workers went back to the production lines Monday under a new three-year contract. However, sales orders sagged so during the walkout that less than 50 of the original 200 strikers actually were called back to their jobs. In payroll terms, the strike cost the Farmington community in excess of $600,000.

FARMINGTON - An outbreak of two hepatitis cases in Farmington Township has given added impetus to a campaign by Township and Oakland County Health Department officials to force Kemberton Park homeowners to connect to an existing sewer system. Both cases occurred in the same subdivision, an area where raw sewage from septics is collecting in open ditches. Homeowners in the subdivision who have not yet tapped into the existing sewer have been given until June 18 by the Township to do so.

WESTLAND - Voters in the Wayne Community and Nankin Mills school districts go to the polls Monday with identical sevenmill tax increase proposals on the ballot. There are no contests for the two open school board seats in each district. Livonia School District voters in Westland don't have to worry about tax issues but they do have to pick two board members from a field of nine candidates.

GARDEN CITY - School District voters will go to the polls to decide the fate of a 7.5 mill tax increase and pick two school board members from a field of three candidates.

School Question Answers Due At Forum

regarding the school election on June 10 or the $11 million bond issue that will help bring about a 4.2 increase in taxes you can get the answers this Wednesday evening in the Commission Chambers of the Plymouth City Hall.

The occasion will be the Open Forum sponsored jointly by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and the Plymouth Jaycees and it is scheduled to get under way promptly at 8 who are seeking re-election--Mrs. Esther Hulsing, Robert Gilmore, and Don Tripp--will be present to state their reasons for attempting to hold their places on the Board of Education. And they also will be available for questions regarding their positions on various matters in connection with the expansion of the school program.

Along with the three candidates will be Superintendent of Schools, James Rossman, Assistant Superintendent in charge of Finance Mel Blunk, and Mike Hoben, head of the Guidance department who has been named principal of the new high school.

The two major issues on the ballot next Monday will be one for the right to levy 2 1.5 mill tax for school operation and another for the right to borrow $11 million through 2 bond issue designed to help pay for the new high school and several other buildings along with increased expenses

The one and one half mill request will be on top of the one mill approved some time ago, but never used, and 1.7 mills which was approved for the implementation of the bonds. This makes a total tax increase of 4.2 mills.

Some of the Increased costs are connected with the building of the new high school. Originally estimated at $8.5 million, the figure leaped to $10.5, in the last year and all efforts to economize proved been more costly in the long

The Board has the authority to levy 4.50 mills for building and site for 1968 and 1969 tax years that would raise the money necessary for the high school project. It also has the authority to levy 7.54 mills for debt and 20.65 mills for operating for a total of 32.69 mills for school purposes.

It would have been much easier for the Board to have levied Continued on Page 6

Review Asked On Covered Sidewalk Plan

The much discussed covered sidewalk program for Ann Arbor Trail moved another step along the road to final approval Monday night,

After learning from the Wayne County Road Commission by letter that it approved the plan with certain minor restrictions, the City Commission first asked that the plan be delayed for further study and later asked for a complete review of the plan at a closed session next Monday night. Several Commissioners voiced the opinion that they had not seen final plans and that they were concerned with such things as street lights, etc., before they could give final approval.

Another question regarding the need for an amendment to the city ordinance and a legal opinion from the City Attorney, was resolved when answers were requested by the scheduled closed session.

Now, Ford told a Plymouth audience Tuesday morning, he is set to vote for a "compromise" measure of tax hikes and spending cuts because:

"If we don't, the country could face economic disaster beyond our comprehension ... The economists are painting the most dire picture since the 1930's."

FORD, A GRAND Rapids Republican, was here to address a United Republican Fund breakfast in the Mayflower Hotel and to give a boost to 2nd District Congressman Marvin Esch, R-Ann Arbor, who announced Monday he would seek a second term.

Some 75 of the party faithful from Plymouth, Northville and Livonia paid $100 apiece for the hefty breakfast of eggs, fried potatoes, bacon, sausage,

Yes Vote Urged For Schools

Next Monday - June 10 - the taxpayers in the Plymouth Community School District will be asked to go to the polls and make a decision that will have an important bearing on the future of the school system, the preparation of the students to meet the challenge after their graduation and whether the image of the Plymouth Community will be brightened or impaired.

The taxpayers will be asked to vote on two very important issues -

1 - To authorize a one and one half mill tax increase for the operation of the schools. 2 - To authorize a bond issue of $11 million to build new schools.

It is a big package, but after looking at it from all angles the Plymouth Mail & Observer urges a "yes" vote on both issues.

OVER THE YEARS the Plymouth Community School District has been looked upon as one of the best in the state—not only from the standpoint of the type of student it graduates, but from the economical management of what has become a large and complex

If the proposals are approved, the tax rate will be increased by a total of 4.2 mills, but all save the one and one half mills on the ballot already has been approved. The spiraling cost of education—like everything else will cause the officials to use the one mill that was approved several years ago, but held in abeyance. And it will continue the 1.7 mills for the implementation of the bond issue that was approved at the last election.

This adds up to the 4.2 mills or approximately $33.60 a year for the average home. Or, to be more specific, it will cost the average taxpayer about $.65 a week.

WITH PLYMOUTH'S population exploding to the point where one new building will be needed each year for the next five years, this is a cheap price to pay. More than that, it will keep the quality of education at a high level that will, in turn, be a greater inducement for new industry that could broaden the tax base and provide some relief in the future. With the spiraling economy it would be wise to build now — there is no telling what the costs will be later.

That's why a "yes" vote on both proposals is so important.

Most important of all-be sure you vote. -Plymouth Mail & Observer

They won a decision from Oakland Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

Judge Beer's ruling was appealed to the Court of Appeals The attorney general asked the appeals court to step aside and let the case go directly to the Supreme Court. If the Supreme Court upholds Judge Beer, then township of ficers will have to run again this year. Meanwhile, to be safe, the Legislature is working on a bill requiring township officers to file their nominating petitions for the Aug. 6 primary. Filing deadline for the primary is June 18.

THE DILEMMA which town ship officers face politically becomes clear.

If they had been planning to run for legislative or county office and running from a protected term in the township, should they go ahead and do it? If they lose, the township term may end, and they may be out of jobs.

If they file for their township jobs, on the other hand, the Supreme Court may overrule Judge Beer, and there they are--stuck in township hall for another two years.

Imagination And Old Bath Tub Bring About New Downtown Grotto

Ingenuity and imagination are a great team and when you find them coupled in persons like Monsignor Edward Hickey and his staff there is no telling just what the end result could be.

The latest example of the combination brought about a new novel religous grotto and Madonna in the downtown area.

And what do you suppose was used for the main base?

It was an old bath tub that had been in use in the ancient house at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Deer Street, for, lo these many years.

Now it is a fine decorative piece in the lawn of the St. Mary Art Guild and a welcome addition to the quaintness of the Plymouth area.

"When we were preparing the old house to establish the Guild," Mrs. Dorothy Mc-Namara, the Monsignor's able helper, explained, "the old bath tub became one of the big ques-

"What can we do with that?", Mgsr. Hickey asked.

Mrs. McNamara laughed as she recalled the happening.

"I remember having seen several religious statues made from old plumbing," she pointed out, "and I suggested that, perhaps, the old tub could be used in the lawn--if we turned it on its end."

"The Monsignor thought a while," she went on, "and then, said, "Well, we'll give it a try."

"So out into the yard went the old bath tub and it wasn't long until a truck load of field stone had been dumped on the lawn--

Plan Studied For New Hall In Township

Township trustees Louis Norman and Ralph Garber were named to work with Supervisor Jack McEwen on either expanding the current township hall or building a new one.

McEwen made the appointments Tuesday as the Board met in regular session.

Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes, township treasurer, said she was "more interested in a new building than an addition."

McEwen had suggested they investigate expanding north into the parking lot. No deadline set for the committee.

Is Public Getting Facts On Strike?

There is much controversy relating to the current building trades strike. However there are a few silent facts that should be made known to

A strike is a hardship on all the workers and their families. A carpenter belongs to a very good union that is trying to gain for him improved benefits to which he is entitled as a skilled worker.

The banks classify a carpenter as a poor risk because his job is unstable. Unless he has excellent credit he is not entitled to a loan because of his insecure employment, Even though a carpenter is considered a skilled laborer he is placed at the bottom of the list for security.

The carpenters have a health insurance plan, but must put many hours of work in before they are eligible for this insurance. If an emergency occurs and he is taken to a hospital, the carpenter and his family are forced to pay because he doesn't carry Blue Cross. The hospital does not recognize the insurance program with which he is covered.

The wife of a carpenter and his family must face rough times because of the unstable nature of his work. It is always a question of whether or not he will be allowed to work

Voters Quiz Candidates

Livonians are invited to meet with, hear, question and evaluate school board candidates at an open meeting Friday, June 7, sponsored by the city's League of Women Voters.

Time will be 8 p.m. at Bryant Junior High School, 18000 Merriman Rd.

League members have prepared two questions which each candidate will answer, as well as questions from the floor. "What changes in board policy would you put into effect if you were elected?" and "In what area of board business would you specialize, and why?"

because of weather conditions. At the very most, a carpenter who works outdoors is employed only seven to eight months a year. Sometimes he is forced to drive 30 to 40 miles each way to the job. Then many times he is denied work be cause it has rained and the terrain is too muddy. He drives back home, loses a day's work, He receives no compensation for gas expense.

Compare a carpenter's wages with a repairman, for example: called a washer repairman. He charged me $8 to tell me it would take $65 to repair my machine.

A furnace repairman was called. He worked 15 minutes on our furnace. Charged us $2.50 for a part and $17.50 for labor. Is this fair?

If a holiday falls on a working day he is short the next pay. His vacation pay is based on his weekly pay checks. Should he lose time he loses vacation

Many people have the wrong idea that a carpenter is on strike in order that he may make $10 per hour. This is not true. All they want is better benefits and to be treated as a skilled worker. Four years of apprenticeship are required to make a qualified journeyman.

At the present time they only make about $5.06 per hour. MRS, DOROTHY OCHODNICKY.

Urges A 'Yes' Vote

Being a former teacher and having taught half-day sessions. I urge all Wayne Community School District voters to vote YES for our children's future.

I can't help but feel that many children who were on half days last year were cheated of a wellrounded education, Every subject and activity in our curriculum is necessary to enhance one's education, On half days, it is obvious that some subjects and some activities must be eliminated. It is physically and mentally impossible to squeeze into a child a whole day of education in a short four-hour period. I must stress that reading, writing, and math certainly will be taught, even on half days. However, not all children can succeed in these areas. We must admit that child's self concept is one of great importance to himself and to his society. He may need other areas of our curriculum in which to succeed,

A teacher must not just relate her teachings to the class as a whole, but she must work with each individual by himself as the need arises. On half-day sessions, the time for individual attention is very scarce,

Let's think twice before June

Will our children really benefit on half days or just get by? Will our children feel successful?

Will our children be as educated as other children?

Will we deny our children a well-rounded education for a few extra dollars?

I urge once again, please vote YES for our children's future.

> MRS, CAROL GERBER Westland

Practice Is Over, The Game Starts

High School seniors in Observerland will don their caps and gowns this week and next and, in most cases, listen to a lot of dry speeches from vice-presidents and deans from neighboring universities telling them that commencement "is just the first step" and a happy and full life lies before them.

Usually, these speeches are just a minor delay before the seniors take off in daddy's convertible and guzzle free coke at an all-night graduation party.

The commencement speeches themselves really carry no real meat and the seniors will not actually be led to any new pieces of guidance of how to live in America today.

As a distinct public service, The Observer Newspapers would like to deliver, in print, its own graduation address to the high school seniors, replacing the sterile words of college officials, who have a habit of failing to "not telling it like it is." So, seniors, here it is.

THE PAST 12 YEARS of formal education have been something like an athletic team's practice session for the big ball game on Saturday afternoon.

As an assistant football coach at Wayne State University told this writer in years gone by, "I can tell my boys what to do at practice sessions Monday through Friday. But on Saturday afternoon, I have to sit on the sidelines and leave the game up to them.'

Graduation is the end of the Friday night practice session and the life that begins the next day (or four years later for those seniors who will attend college). Their coaches (their parents and teachers) will have to sit on the

Ford Gets Financial Gain

Ford has a better idea when it comes to selling cars to police departments.

Although the company had nothing to do with the results at a recent Westland City Council meeting, it still turned out pretty good for the firm.

What happened was that the Westland council agreed to switch gears and have its policemen drive new Fords instead of the larger Pontiacs and Olds it has bought in the past year.

Actually, a statistical report from the police department showed that the larger cars were less costly to maintain and the larger wheelbase of the car made it safer for policemen in highspeed chases.

Although several councilmen found good reasons to abstain from voting on issues because of a possible conflict of interest, none bothered to abstain on the purchase of the Ford cars although two of the councilmen, Gene McKinney and Robert Wagner, owe their livelihood to Ford Motor Co. A third, Mrs. Justine Barns, has a husband who works for Ford.

Technically, the three are not guilty of any financial gain on the police cars' purchase. But the principle of the matter is important, and it is hard to understand why they didn't abstain on the vote, especially since the purchase was approved by a unani-mous vote of the seven-member council and their individual votes would not have affected the outcome of the issue.

-Leonard Poger

sidelines and watch them play in the game of life.

Unlike athletic teams, life does not provide one set of uniforms for "our team" and another set for "the enemy." It's hard to tell those who are on our side and those who are opposed to our goals and way of life.

BUT A SMART GRADUATE will soon be able to tell them apart. Since many adults haven't achieved this skill, they are frustrated in life and express their frustration in many slogans and

"What do they want? We gave them all the ways they need, didn't we?" says a white homeowner in the suburbs who questions the need for open housing

As an infant cries to gain attention from his mother, minority groups riot to get the attention of the community's power structure and, to achieve some degree of control over their own futures.

Students in America and Europe have virtually seized physical control of their universities to achieve the same ends - gain some semblance of control over their own future.

Riots are not limited to Negro ghettos in America's big cities. The basic causes can also be found in all-white college student bodies in Europe.

Up to now, the high school seniors have been sitting on the sidelines watching the "game of life" over the nation's TV newscasts.

Some of the events of the day's game includes bloodshed in South Vietnam, rampages in Negro ghettos, revolt in France, upheavels on college campuses on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean, among others.

This is not the world that college executives have been telling graduates about in commencement talks over the years.

The average 18-year-old senior is far more intelligent than his counterpart was a generation ago and he won't swallow whole some garbage written by a committee of university public relations personnel.

After commencement exercises are over and the last senior leaves the all-night bash the following morning, we adults will welcome you to the game of life.

- Leonard Poger

Sense And Nonsense

Another avenue of escape has been cut off. If you thought you could avoid city air pollution and assorted dangers by going back to the farm, you're out of luck. Now, the U.S. Health Service announces that farm pesticides must be handled with care, that fumes from newly-filled silos can be deadly and that there is a real risk of contacting diseases or parasites carried by farm ani-

Anyone for tiptoeing through the tulips-in his boots?

A mini-cigarette is being introduced by a Canadian tobacco company. It is one-quarter inch shorter than regular cigarettes and has the noble aim of helping smokers cut down on their habit.

Simple arithmetic shows that it most likely won't be a winner, though. One-quarter inch figures out to six and 35 hundredths millimeters. Can you imagine trying to fit music to an ad jingle that says, "Just a silly six and 35 hundredths millimeters shorter"?

A radio commentator put it this way - Students today not only learn their A, B, C's; they also learn D for demonstrate.

From the Publisher's Desk-OBSERVATION POINT

By Philip H. Power ---

To attend Democratic state conventions these days, you need three things: lots of time, a strong constitution, and a welldeveloped sense of humor.

Maybe the humor part is the most important.

There you are, sitting in a caucus which has already gone on for four hours, and people are having a nice little discussion (using samurai swords) about whether or not you can have more than two amendments to a main motion. The room is hot; cigar smoke (yes, Virginia, politicians do smoke cigars, even the modern ones) is making your eyes water; people are tired and sore.

Under these conditions, the only thing possible to retain sanity is to lean back and laugh at the absurdity of it all.

The need for time is obvious, as is the need for strength.

Beginning Friday afternoon, the Democrats assembled in various meetings and went on strong 'til 3 a.m. Saturday, got up to make 9 a.m. caucuses that morning, went on until 5:30 or so Sunday morning, and then gathered again for more meetings around 9:30 the same morning. The floor session started at 1:30 p.m., lasting to 9:30 that evening.

You need a strong constitution and a powerfully developed set of muscles in your backside to get through something like that.

IT WAS 1:30 a.m. on Sunday, and we were sitting around in the Kennedy hospitality suite on the 24th floor, having a drink and jawing about this and that. It was late, and we were all suited up and appropriately hot and sticky when she walked in.

Her husband, who had a yellow turtleneck under his sport coat, owns a drug store out in Livonia.

They talked for a while, and listened to us. Then they left, and the room felt a little darker and not so nice.

TALKING, TALKING, TALK-ING was the order of the day.

Some of it was just long and over procedural points only. The 19th District, with numerous fights on its hands, took over three hours to resolve the seemingly simple problem of which alternate delegates to seat and how to vote. Chairman Aldo Vagnozzi of Farmington was up there on the platform, coaxing, twisting, turning; trying to get agreement. Even his bubbling smile lost a little sheen as the evening went on, but he never blew his

Some of the talk was blunt and to the point, especially out on the floor during the fights. That's when being at a microphone to make your point fast and hard can make the difference between winning and losing.

People know it, and that's why Bob Dwyer was standing there, nearly every time I went by, guarding the mike, feet solidly. planted and his right hand fondly, cradling the gleaming metal. A fat man comes in weighing at least 300 pounds. He's puffing and you can see the beads of sweat on his nose. He's got buttons from every candidate around on his heavy wool jacket, and he's sore there aren't any more big Kennedy buttons.

Then you walk away from the convention hall, at the very end, and it's all under your feet. The torn Humphrey sign and the crumpled Kennedy brochure and the scuffed McCarthy press release united together at last in the dust and hot dog wrappers.

It's a little sad and very lonely, right at the very end.

IN THE GALLERY, off the floor, where the kids were sitting, there were Kennedy and Mc-Carthy posters. Hand lettered, looking kind of ragged, but there

The kids wanted in, but they weren't delegates. They carried signs, but they weren't in on the countless huddles that decide things when a convention is going on. They cheered when their candidate was mentioned, but they couldn't vote. They stayed to the end, those

They watched that awesome, fantastically convoluted and intensely human thing that is a political convention. They saw power being fought for and, bit by bit, transferred from one group to another. They saw men being drunk or silly, and they saw men fighting boldly and cre-atively for what they thought was

They saw politics in action. I hope they liked it.

State Chairman Sander M. Levin, the voice of reason and the soul of decorum, was ecstatic.

"If we can just keep these high intensities in perspective, we'll come out a helluva lot better and much more united;" he said.

"This is a convention where everybody's got a choice. There are some who want us to guarantee them they will win.'

FIGHTING IS AS Democratic as apple pie. When Democrats start eating strawberries for breakfast and sitting by the pool, it's a Republican year.

For the past few years, Democrats have been fairly quiet, except for former State Chairman Zolton (Zorro) Ferency and the new Michigan Conference of Concerned Democrats.

Now they're out of their rocking chairs and battling again.

The shouts from the convention floor interrupted him and a reporter asked him what he said.

"I'd like to know what's going on out there," said another reporter, bolting from the room to the scene.

JUDGE T. JOHN LESINSKI, trapped between floors in an elevator with 19 other people, brought the Detroit fire department screaming up with a crowbar to open the doors.

exception that Defendant would be willing to reduce the hours during which Plaintiff would be required to furnish service.

6--That after learning that Plaintiff could not obtain cab drivers due to the requirements of the Licensing Ordinance of the City of Plymouth, the said City of Plymouth revoked Plaintiff's license and permitted unlicensed cabs to operate within the City of Plymouth, the drivers of which have not been required to meet the standards set by the ordinance of the City of Plymouth.

7-- That although the Defendant has been requested to do so, it has been refused to permit the Plaintiff to operate within the City of Plymouth on the same conditions as it has permitted other unlicensed cabs to so operate.

84-That said action on the part of the City of Plymouth constitutes a denial of the equal protection of the laws and Plaintiff is without relief except in a Court of equity.

WHEREFORE Plaintiff prays that the Defendant be ordered to show cause why it should not be restrained from permitting unlicensed cabs to operate within the City of Plymouth or in the alternative that the Defendant be required to permit Plaintiff to operate on an unlicensed basis within the City of Plymouth.

(a) That upon the trial of this cause, the relief prayed for above be made permanent.

(b) That this Court order such further relief as required be equity and good conscience.

FOLLOWING THE report of the suit to the City Commission Monday night it was reported that the show cause hearing would come before Circuit Judge Victor A. Baum, who has ruled against the City in two previous suits.

The first was several years ago in a case involving the assessments on Sheldon Road and the second; the much heralded case in which he rendered an opinion that the Charter of the City of Plymouth was unconstitutional.

The opinion was based on the fact that Rev. Peter Schweitzer was denied a petition to run for the office of City Commissioner on the grounds that he was not a property owning taxpayer for the two years prior to the election.

Rev. Schweitzer's name was ordered on the ballot and he topped the ticket. The City of Plymouth challenged the ruling and the case is still waiting a decision of the State Supreme Court.

The taxicab case involving Florence and the Mayflower Company has been before the City Commission for several months. Florence, who was a sick man, at the time was notified by the Commission that he was not complying with the ordinance. He held five licenses and had only two drivers. More than that, it was pointed out that he was not able to furnish 24-hour service.

Jaycees Set Miss Plymouth Contest Rules

Selection of Miss Plymouth again will be one of the features of the annual July Fourth celebration and the Jaycees have announced the strict rules under which the selection will be

As in other years no professional model will be eligible and all entries must be a minimum age of 17 years. The entries, too, must live in the Plymouth community, attend school in the Plymouth District or work in a business or industry in Plymouth.

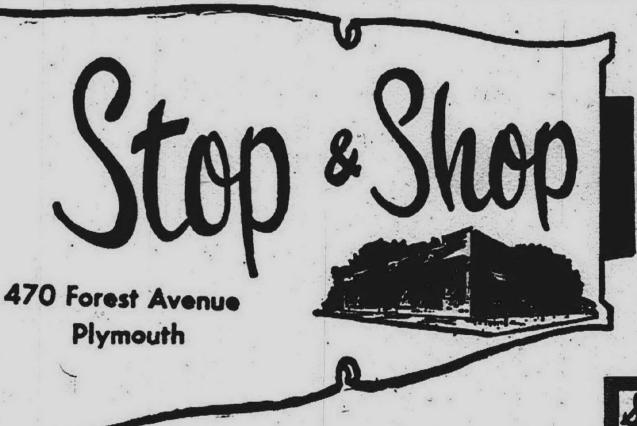

Selection of the "Queen," will be based on beauty, personality and poise with equal valuation given to each of the three categories.

The judging will start on Monday, July 1, and the finals are scheduled for Tuesday evening, July 2.

The Queen, whoever she is, will reign over the patriotic celebration and be accompanied by three girls in her court. The deadline for entries is June 15, and applications can be obtained at Harvi's, Kay's, Dunnings, the Chamber of Commerce or the Plymouth Recreation Department office.

Travel Centers Prepare For Summer Work

State Highway Commission long recognized nationally for its ambitious travel information program, is ready to extend another warm welcome to vacationers.

Some 800.000 persons are expected to stop this year for free travel counselling service at the Commission's eight travel information centers, an increase of about 100,000.

The centers are located on main highways at six points of entry--New Buffalo, Monroe, Port Huron, Sault Ste. Marie, Ironwood and Menominee -- and at Clare and Mackinaw City. By late summer, a ninth center will be in operation on I-69 near Coldwater.

FOR SEVERAL WEEKS. maintenance crews have been busy repairing and redecorating the information center buildings and grooming the surrounding picnic grounds.

Literature racks, filled during the winter with information on winter sports, have been stocked with summer folders. and literature storage shelves are being restocked, literally by the truckload.

Last year, travelers selected and carried away more than 2.5 million maps, directories, schedules, brochures and booklets telling about travel attractions, how to reach them and where to stay, and it is expected that the 1968 total will exceed three million.

The literature is provided by state, regional and local agencies and organizations, including the Michigan Tourist Council, Department of Conservation, the regional tourist associations and chambers of commerce, and the operators of travel facilities and attractions.

THE JOB OF collecting and distributing literature is a big chore, requiring roller conveyors, a lift truck, wooden skids, a van-type truck -- and being conducted for seasonal information center personnel, to be hired in June when the centers switch to a 12-hour-day seven-day-week operation through early September.

ployees are college girls, many of whom have worked in the centers for several years under the direction of year-round center supervisors.

LANSING -- The Michigan bility is to make travelers at home in Michigan, by extending a friendly greeting and by suggesting interesting things to do and see.

> In this way, the Commission is hopeful that travelers will be encouraged to stay another day or two, and to return again to Michigan.

> The Commission has operated travel information centers since 1936 when its first center and perhaps the first in the U.S. was opened near New

> Many other states, now aware that tourism is among their top industries, are following Michigan's lead.

Here's Gal You Can 'See Through'

ANN ARBOR--Her name is TAM_ She's 5-foot-8, weighs 100 pounds, and measures 36-24-37. You can meet her at The University of Michigan's Museums Building.

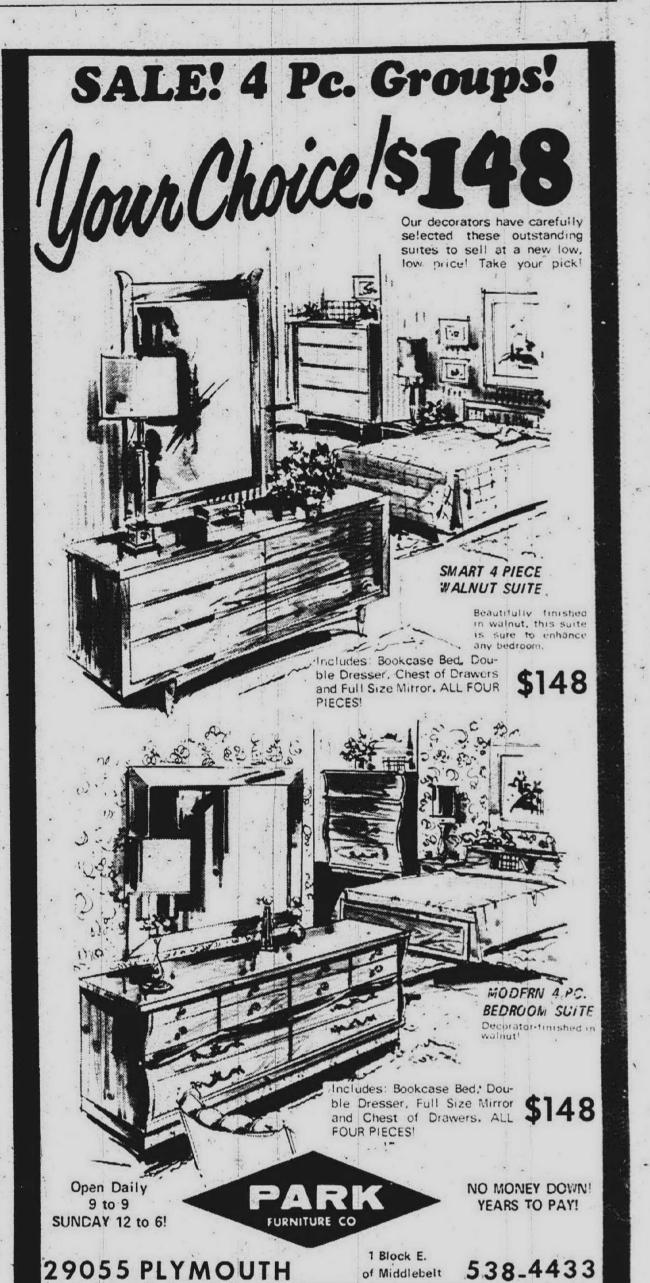

TAM stands for Transparent Anatomical Manikin and she's one lady you can see right through, TAM is made of crystalclear plastic so her bones, muscles and nerves are all apparent. Her central interior lighted section is cross-baffled so each organ is visible, even behind a bone or layer of muscle.

Irving Reimann, director of the Exhibit Museum, ordered TAM in 1965 from the Richard Rush Studio in Chicago, the first order for the first transparent female model manufactured in the United States.

It took three years and a $100,000 expenditure by the Rush studio to produce TAM. New materials and techniques only recently made possible a three-dimensional full-sized medical manikin which shows the inside of the female body intact. Past manikins have been of the "take-apart" variety.

TAM's figure is made of two major outside sections, a front and a back, with the left arm the only other cast part. It is assembled into one complete unit with a steel support

Redford Union with 16 positions grabs off team honors in the final weekly Observer Newspaper track ratings for the 1968 seasons.

Farmington follows with 13 spots, one better than Plymouth. Bentley and Franklin each landed 10 spots, Thurston and Stevenson eight apiece, Garden City West six, Garden City East four, North Farmington three and Clarenceville two.

In all, 95 different boys representing 11 of the 14 track teams in Observerland made the ratings, compiled by Coach Jerry Young of Farmington High with the assistance of Mrs. Young and the area coaches.

In last week's final action, four standout performances were chalked up. North Farmington's John Mann scaled 6 feet, 8 inches in the high jump; Bentley's Joe Chemello was clocked in 49.8 seconds in the 440yard run; Farmington's Chris Brown soared 22 feet, 5 inches in the long jump and Rick Randall of North Farmington clicked off a 4:23.9 mile.

The show MUST and WILL go on .... But it won't seem the same anymore without Charles E. Forsythe bossing the state high school athletic program in Michigan.

After almost four decades of directing the state association, Forsythe has yielded to retirement and age.

One suspects Charlie would have liked to have stayed put in his job. Most connected with prep sports would have preferred it that way.

However, when you're 69, it's time that you get to enjoy what remains of life a little more and divorce yourself from the constant phone calls from Detroit to the Straits, from Benton Harbor to Menominee and on up to Houghton.

As smooth as the picture might appear from the outside, supervising the athletic endeavors at more than 700 high schools and almost as many at junior highs in the state, long ago became a big time function.

BUT WHEREVER you go in Michigan, just as in other states, you'll find that schools have increased their athletic facilities five and ten fold.

Whereas once, few schools could accommodate 1.000 fans for football, now there are many stadiums around the state with seats for 5,000 at prep tilts.

The day of the ol' gym with 300 or 400 seats and inadequate lighting has bowed to the swank, well-lighted buildings which are geared to seat 2,000 to 3,000 at basketball . . . and provide playing room for hundreds during class and recreation periods.

Schools have gone for the all-weather tracks, so that when it rains, the way it did last week, it doesn't halt proceedings.

Baseball has made fast advances. Skiing has become a most popular sport and there's no activity which has made more headway in recent years than wrestling.

CHARLIE FORSYTHE in his job helped to make prep sports in Michigan what they are. He remembers the day when the newspapers passed over schoolboy activities lightly. He remembers when there was no radio . . . and no television.

He always went by the rules. He insisted the book wasn't written by him.

It was put together by the schools themselves ... by the men they selected to serve on the Representative Council, dedicated men like Farmington's Jack Cotton, who presently serves on the Council.

HE CONSTANTLY was besieged with requests on whether a boy was eligible to play. A boy had lived with his parents, who died. He moved in with an aunt or a sister. Could he play for his new school immediately?

What about the boy whose parents split? He went to the mother first, then to the father. What was his status as far as eligibility was concerned?

The rulings that came out of Lansing brought screams at times. But nobody ever could accuse Forsythe of being unfair. Forsythe always was quick to warn studentathletes about violating the amateur-practice rules. He had no sympathy for the adults who deliberately tried to "get away with something." Charlie knew that the biggest sufferers would be the kids involved . . . and their teams.

But rules were rules. The other week we attended the Michigan Hall of Fame dinner. It would be a major mistake if the Hall doesn't swing open one of these years to admit Charlie Forsythe. Under him, our schools have written an athletic era . . . the Forsythe Era which won't soon be

All of which brought a comment from Executive Manager John Carlo that the silver anniversary season could be the best the state's pioneer night harness racing plant has ever enjoyed.

Annuals-Lots Of Color, Easy To Grow, Cheap

Everyone loves a bargain and wants a lot for a little cost. A packet of annual flower seeds will cost only a few cents but can produce enough plants to make a big splash of color in the garden,

The seeds are easy to plant, and can be spread on the ground right where you want the plants to grow and bloom.

Cover them lightly with soil and keep them moist until they sprout. Generally they will be too thick and close together so they will have to be thinned

The plants you remove can be given away or planted in another part of the garden.

THE TRICK for easy, quick success is to choose seeds of plants that come into bloom quickly and are blooming within a relatively few weeks.

Sweet alyssum, which is one of the most popular plants for edging beds, will be in bloom in less than six weeks after the seeds are planted. They will continue to flower until late in fall. This low plant comes in white, lavender, or deep purple.

Bachelor buttons or cornflower (centaurea) also grow rapidly and bloom early. The plants grow about 18 inchestall and have flowers of a lovely also in the quick and easy cateintense shade of blue that seems gory as long as the weather is

Institute Buys Rare Baroque Canvas

A glowing 356-year-old Baroque painting has been formally accepted as a gift by the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Purchased for Detroit by an anonymous donor, the dramatic 17th century canvas is "Young zio Gentileschi, the Italian master (1563-1639).

Art Institute Offers Classes In Farmington

Instructors from the Detroit Institute of Arts will teach grade and high school classes in Farmington schools June 3 through 28.

Six once-a-week sessions will be offered at a price for enrollment and materials of $12,50. Other classes will be offered in Ferndale and St. Clair Shores.

Registration and details are available from the Art Institute education department, 831-0360, ext. 48.

The important U.S. acquisition also gives the Detroit museum a major coup in two other respects:

(1) The teen-age model of 1612 is Gentileschi's soon-tobe famous daughter, Artemisia;

(2) The Institute now is one of only three museums in the world which owns paintings by both father and daughter.

Announced by Director Willis F. Woods and Dr. Frederick Cummings, assistant director and head of the Institute's European department, the new Gentileschi was acquired from an English estate through Wildenstein & Co., Inc. It brings to six the number of paintings by Orazio Gentileschi in North

The new work will go on public display immediately in the Institute's Gallery No. 1. just south of the entrance to the Great Hall. Experts and connoisseurs will immediately compare it to Gentileschi's famed "The Lute Player" at the National Gallery in Wash-

Livonia Girl Named To UD Student Paper

Sheila O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. O'Brien of 11409 Ingram, Livonia, has been appointed assistant news editor of the Varsity News at the University of Detroit for the academic year 1968-69.

The Varsity News is the student newspaper, published twice weekly from September through May. The VN is a member of the Catholic School Press Association and has won the "All American" award of the Associated Collegiate Press.

Miss O'Brien, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences majoring in journalism, is a 1967 graduate of Ladywood High School.

How To Avoid A Damp Home

To prevent outside moisture from damaging the exterior of your home observe the following points.

Always keep roofing in good repair.

Regularly check and repair flashing around chimney and brickwork.

Keep gutters and downspouts clean and protected with paint.

Make sure that wooden siding does not come in direct contact with the ground, and that glazing and caulking around joints and seams is properly maintained.

Dean Martin's daughter. Deana, easily steals the show from these two refugees from TV and the silver screen, in her role as an Olympic swimmer. Deana sprints to the theatrical finish line far ahead of the two male members of the cast. Her coordinated thespic efforts have Hamilton and Boyd treading water, and gasping for breath for most of the play.

"STAR-SPANGLED Girl" is a fun show from beginning to end. Neil Simon serves quite competently a large bowl of assorted comic gimmicks.

The telephone-tape recorder bit of madness starts the laughs rolling in the first scene, The pancake-turner gag highlights the second scene.

The big problem in 'Star-Spangled Girl" is that the plot has few, if any, complications; thus, the sight gags must fill in the chinks. The dialogue even gets a bit insane in its attempt to fill in time until Simon can get Hamilton and Deana Martin together.

Opening audiences at the Fisher roared at the antics of Hamilton, Boyd and Martin, The merriment mounted act by act; by curtain time, everyone was convinced that "Star-Spangled Girl" was a most enjoyable SET DESIGNER Oliver Smith has provided the actors and director a duplex studio apartment that facilitates for continuous action so necessary to a farce.

A series of platforms and steps leading to a split level pair of bedrooms gave the actors endless opportunities to rush up, down, and all around. Mr. Smith even gave Mr. Simon his usual access to the roof or sky-light. After all, it added many a laugh to "Barefoot In The Park," Why not give it one more try?

UP'

"Star-Spangled Girl" has traces of many of Simon's earlier works. The telephone bit figured prominently in "Come Blow Your Horn." The basket of gourmet food that Jimmy Boyd is going to give as a token of his love to the Olympic swimmer smacks of "Barefoot In The Park," The fight scene between Oscar and Harry has the comic values found in "The Odd Couple."

SUCH CRITICISM is highly irrelevant. Even the lack of facial reaction by George Hamilton and Jimmy Boyd makes little difference because "Star-Spangled Girl" does make the audience chortle, chuckle, and break into glorious belly laughs.

You have until June 9 to catch this frothy farce at the Fisher, On June 10 "Man of La Mancha" comes back for a return visit. If you missed this great musical last season, here's your chance to hear about Don Quixote and his impossible dream.

The Rev. Jack Carrier, pas-tor of the First Assembly of God church in Dearborn Heights, will display some of the most unusual art work to be found anywhere in a oneman show set for Sunday in the Gilead Baptist Church, 4735 W. Fort, Detroit.

The minister, who has gain-ed widespread fame with his use of coins, driftwood and more recently nails in his creations, will be on hand at the church to tell about his work at 7 p.m. The show will be open to the public all day.

Rev. Carrier is shown above with one of his coin murals, "The Living American," which uses steel pennies, copper pennies and half-dollars in the walnut carvings of the heads of Presidents Abraham Lincoln and John F. Kennedy.

At the left is "Resurrection in the Cross," fashioned entirely of driftwood in its natural state and charred. Of the work, the clergyman - artist said "The figure is portrayed against the background of a huge cross, typifying the truth that, without the cross, there would be no hope for the be-

Reaching lifes important goals

Sometimes you may wonder, "Can I ever reach the important goals of a fruitful and satisfying life?"

Christian Science teaches that you can! No matter what your background, or how limiting your possibilities may seem, worthwhile goals can be won through an understanding of man's spiritual relationship to God.

GERTRUDE E. VELGUTH, C.S., a Christian Science practitioner and lecturer, will explain some of the spiritual steps everyone can take to reach goals of usefulness and happiness. This public lecture is entitled "All the Way with God."

Admission is free, everyone is welcome.

SINGLE PARENT-John Cizmas, of Redford Township, confers at the family kitchen table with his 18-year-old daughter, Linda, and son, David, 16, over the courses Linda will be taking when she enters Schoolcraft Community College next fall. Cizmas, a widower, is one of several divorced and widowed parents helping with plans for a seminary at St. Timothy Church, Livonia, Saturday.

Seminar For Parents Alone Set Saturday In St. Timothy Church

built-in difficulties in family living.

The dual mother-and-cather role that must be filled, the decisions that must be made by one instead of two, the everpresent aloneness--all are parts of being a widowed or divorced parent.

St. Timothy United Presbyterian Church, 16700 Newburgh, Livonia, will sponsor a oneparent seminar Saturday, June 8, to help such fathers and mothers find some of the answers to their special problems.

MRS. JANE Arthurs, chairman of the seminar committee and herself a divorced mother of four, said the church has a dual aim in the seminary.

"We want to help with practical problems," she said, "and we think we can do so because some outstanding people are to be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., must be made by calling Mrs. Arthurs, after 5 p.m., at Ga. 2-5463, or Mrs. the day, at 464-0427.

"But we also want to get the word out to single parents, especially fathers, that they can find in the church the support they and their children need," Registration for the seminar.

Those interested also are asked to fill out the form shown The fee for the day's pro-

KATHLEEN TAYLOR

Pretty Kathleen Taylor of dark-haired, brown-eyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Taylor, 16008 Meadowbrook, will compete in August for the crown of the International Rose of Tralee.

She was sponsored by the Irish Society of Livonia, which numbers her Erin-born mother among its charter members.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Thomas J. Foley, a Plymouth resident, headed the committee of judges that picked Kathleen and presented her victory bouquet of red roses.

The Redford Rose, a graduate of Immaculata HighSchool, loves to skate, swim and ride horseback. She is employed as a typist by General Electric Credit Corp., and will begin training as an Eastern Airlines stewardess after she returns from Ireland.

flop. Not that I'm much of a gardener of any kind. The flowers that dazzle in other people's gardens are often fair to middling in mine, and by the end of the summer the mixture of blooms and weeds is never quite what I envisioned in the spring.

But they do grow, and that's more than can say for the seedlings that the girls have carefully planted in school and tenderly toted home in a milk carton.

Those plants always are the victims of some dire fate.

Most of the seedlings brought home from school just die. One was doing quite well in the garden a year or so back until I made a mistake and pulled it out for a weed. Horrified, I retrieved it from the pile of weeds and tried to revive it. But the damage was done and we had another sad young gar-

So when our first-grader announced this spring they were planting marigold seeds. I braced myself and resolved that THESE plants would grow. The milk carton had a shaky trip home, but we carefully set the seedlings upright and have watered them faithfully.

They grew, all right. They are tall and spindly, but never have they developed the jagged characteristics of the plant. If those things are marigolds, I'll eat the milk carton.

Marriage Matters

Age, Locale, Inclination Determine If We Marry

riage is a strong force in our per cent. society, particularly for the women. But even with our great positive emphasis on marriage, almost one out of every 10 Americans never marry. Why? What are some of the factors which help explain the poor marital prospects of some men and women?

Some individuals, because of the uneven sex ratio in the region in which they live, find the chances of meeting an eligible mate limited. This is especially the case for the women for there are fewer males than females in all age groups above the 18-year level.

THE PROBLEM of marriage chances for women is more acute in metropolitan areas for most urban communities have an excess of females in the marriageable ages.

Adult men, however, outnumber adult women in most rural areas, heavy-industry cities, and most states in the West and Midwest.

It should be emphasized, however, that the sex ratio disparity does not operate alone to prevent marriage.

Other factors which may help explain why some fail to marry are: (1) hostile attitudes toward marriage brought about by unpleasant childhood experiences in the home; (2) care or support of parents or having other responsibilities which prevent the meeting of eligible marriage partners; (3) fear that one cannot take on the financial responsibility of marriage; (4) physical or health factors; and (5) unattractiveness.

SOME FIND it difficult to meet eligible mates because they have waited too long to marry. To delay marriage too long reduces the chances of marriage, especially for the women. Approximately 70 per cent of American girls are day. From then on, the statistical chances of marriage decline rapidly for the average woman, there being fewer men than women in given age categories. A woman of 30, for example, has about a 50 per cent chance of marrying. By

Supports Millage

EDITOR:

Today people take so much for granted.

In the past year my husband and I have had an experience which every member of the Wayne Community School District should have, before they go to the polls on June 10.

As a child, I attended the Michigan Schools, where I received a well-rounded education -- which at the time I took for granted, Today as look back, I realize how lucky I was to have been educated in Michigan.

Five years ago our family moved out of the state, where two of our children started their schooling. There was no kindergarten, due to a shortage of money, teachers, and classrooms. Today they envy their little sister, who is having this wonderful and important experience in the Wayne Community Schools.

When my oldest child had been in school for a year, we realized that he had a learning problem. Because of lack of school funds, well educated personnel and special educational services this problem was overlooked, and as a result our son spent three years in the first grade.

When we learned that we would be returning to Michigan, I wrote a letter to the Wayne Community Schools informing them of our problem. Within a week after our arrival here. I had talked to the principal of our school, members of the school administration, and the school nurse.

The next six months were spent in a group effort of many concerned people, finding out his problem. Today, as a result of their individual interest and concern for one child, we have a well adjusted boy who is trying to overcome a problem. which (if he had been here) would have had attention years ago. I wish I could help people to realize the importance of a good school system.

There are many people in our community who don't have children attending our schools, but remember, someday you might have your own children going here, or a grandchild.

Don't take your child's education for granted. This millage vote is for them. They are so lucky to be educated here--We don't want them going to school just a half a day--We don't want them to be in overcrowded classrooms--and we don't want to lose our special services (someday you might have a child with a problem).

Remember, this millage vote is for just one year. Surely we can sacrifice a few dollars a month for the sake of our

Who's Fooling Who?

I wonder who Benton Yates and the Livonia Board of Education think they are fooling. His announcement, which appeared in your last week's edition, about giving Friday, May 31 as an added vacation day, being made up for by attending school on June 12, is really a

June 12 was already a scheduled half day on the school calendar, so in reality the children are still being "done out of" a half day of school.

And then he said that it's up to the teachers, by not having them report on Friday, to hand out report cards. There again, the taxpayers get it in the neck with all the postage to mail out thousands of report cards. How much more are we tax-paying parents going to stand for?

Also, what about making up for the unscheduled day off for Martin Luther King's funeral? The children would have been far better off to have stayed in school that day and had a short moment of silence

I can tell you that my husband and I, as well as nearly everyone else we've discussed it with, will make ourselves heard come election day.

A Sad Farewell

It is with real sadness that my family and I leave Redford Township and our many friends here. The 11 years we have spent in South Redford have meant lasting friendships and unforgettable experiences for

It is impossible for me to express my appreciation to the people of South Redford for the privilege of serving them as their representative on the Board of Education for five interesting and challenging years. We have been through a lot in this time, much of it fun, but most of it, hard work. To my regret I won't be here to help in the years ahead, which will. be difficult and challenging, as education in general and the Board's role in particular face abrupt change. I feel confident, however, that if the people elect Orlyn Lewis, a person of superior intelligence and integrity; Carl Dumas, whom I don't know so well, but well enough to see that has the makings of a good Board member; and Pat Miller, who shows great promise; I leave the Board in good hands. This, I hope the people of South Redford will do Monday,

In closing, I want to publicly thank my many friends, once more, for their constant support throughout so many elections and campaigns. I will miss them all, and in the years ahead wish only the very best

Nankin Home Owner Opposes Tax Hike

I would like to point out to the voters in the Nankin Mills School District something that may make them think twice before voting for any additional

I read several weeks agothat the county has appraised our JEANNE L. LEONARD property much higher than it was last year, and if they don't reconsider their figure we will have a 7% increase in our present tax bill.

This, along with the seven mills the schools are asking, could raise taxes $150 per year on a home assessed at $10,000. Now that is quite an increase and I wonder how many are prepared to pay it. Although this is theless who can afford to vote in more millage when we are being stuck with more taxes than we had planned on without a vote or say so in the matter? I would advise anyone who has any questions about an increase to call the city hall and have it confirmed or denied.

Mayor Brown has stated he is opposed to this new property assessment, but that doesn't mean we won't get it as it is the county's appraisal, not his, no fault of the schools, never- and he really doesn't have anything to say in the matter. It is one thing to want to support the schools and quite another to go broke trying to pay for them. The Nankin Mills School district is about to be dissolved and the sooner it is done the better for all con-

As for trying to persuade the people to give more money, I think the people have given all they can be expected to give.

Three Persons Hurt In Weekend Crash

Two motorcycle-automobile traffic accidents over the Memorial Day weekend resulted in three persons being sent to the hospital in serious condition.

On Friday evening, a motorcycle ridden by Kenneth Joseph Labita, 30, of 6122 Globe, Westland, and Sally Gibson, 21, of 5135 Division, Ann Arbor, collided with an auto driven by Herman Arthur Foersterling, 42, of 138 N. Mildred, Dear-

Firemen Save House After Old Car Fire

A smoldering fire in the back seat of a 1963 Ford, owned by Erling Oyen, 1655 Old Salem, Plymouth, resulted in serious damage to the car but spared a garage last Wednesday.

City Fire Chief George Schoenneman said that Oyen called the station and reported a large amount of smoke in the house.

When the firemen arrived, they discovered the car on fire in the garage which was attached to the house. It apparently had been smoldering all night, the chief said

The firemen towed the car out of the garage and extinguished the small blaze, LALITA AND Miss Gibson were rushed to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, and Plymouth city police reported they were in serious condition. Occupants of the auto were not injured, police said.

The vehicles were traveling in opposite directions on N. Main St. when Foersterling made a left turn onto S. Mill St. The two collided at the intersection.

Details were not available because the driver of the motorcycle was unable to make a statement.

THE OTHER ACCIDENT OCcurred on Sunday morning at Ann Arbor Trail and Russell St., in Plymouth Township.

Mark Seog, 18, of 36906 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, was riding a motorcycle when it was struck by a car driven by Oliver Ping, 27, 11704 Russell, Plymouth.

Seog was taken to St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department said he is in serious condition. Ping was unhurt.

Ping told Sheriff's officers that he didn't see the motorcycle when he made a left turn onto Russell St. and turned in front of the other vehicle. He said his auto was traveling approximately 10 miles an hour at the time.

Tell It To Glenny

If there is one thing in this Bonne Travail, Christie!-world that does not stand still that's "Good Work" in French for men, women or little girls because I don't know any Geron salt boxes, it's FASHION, man,

The Morton salt people recently updated the apparel of the little gal who since 1914 INSON, daughter of Mr. and has graced the familiar round Mrs. James Robinson, 8855 blue box.

In reading the article about the salt seller's various fashion changes for their offspring I'm Tenn. led to wonder what they have in mind for the year 2000 and if they'll need salt on the moon.

men's fashions keep changing, (witness the gorgeous Nehru suit in John Smith's window), but the man who thinks he is wearing the latest in fashion is not--until he has a "turtletac" pinned to his turtleneck, according to Bell of Albuquerque, N.M.

It seems this company felt university in English. that the plain turtleneck was just not formal enough for those occasions that used to require gratulations, Mary! a black tie.

Now, if you want to march daughter's wedding in a turtleneck, you can do so IF you have first applied a turtletac in a gold or silver heraldic design.

You'll forgive me if I omit any reference to women's fashions. I'm sure that anything I might have to say regarding them will be obsolete by the time we go to press, and chalets.

MRS, LORAINE JARVIS tells me that the 6th annual Arbor-Croft subdivision Memorial Day picnic was a resounding Approximately 95 children and as many adults attended the pot-luck affair. There were games for each age-group of children, a balloon-toss and a bicycle parade.

Each year, with the approval of the city police department, the residents of this foursection area block off Palmer Street, and each block selects a chairman who plans games, food and activities.

Sounds like a great idea for those who have no desire to be a traffic statistic, but would rather be the victim of a collision with a water-filled balloon.

CHRISTIE FOSTER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Foster and sophomore at Plymouth High School, has been granted a scholarship to attend the German Division of the Southeastern Language Center at the University of Georgia, Athens,

HELPING TO MAKE DREAM COME TRUE -For some time officials of the Plymouth School system and especially those at Gallimore School have dreamed of the day when there could be an amphitheater on the school grounds. It moved a step closer last week when Arnold Pylkas, Gallimore principal, (fer left), was presented with a $300 check from the Civic Committee and the Plymouth Woman's Club. The presentation is being made by: Mrs. Wendell Lent (left) chairman of the Civic group and Mrs. Lawrence Becker, President of the Woman's Club. ### New Form Available For Taxes

Taxpayers who misinterpreted the medical insurance premium deduction provision in preparing their Federal income tax return should use the new, specially-designed Form 1040X in filing an amended return, reports A. M. Stoepler, District Director for Michigan

The yellow-colored 1040X, introduced by IRS earlier this year for amending individual income tax returns, is especially suited for correcting errors such as those made in reporting medical insurance premium deductions.

STOEPLER SAID that reports from the Central Region Service Center, which services Michigan taxpayers, indicate that on their original return many taxpayers overlooked changes in the law relating to the medical insurance premium deduction,

For 1967 itemized tax returns, the law provides that one half the cost of premiums paid for medical insurance, up to a maximum of $150, may be deducted without regard to the three percent of income limitation,

It is no longer necessary for a taxpayer to file another complete 1040 or 1040A to correct errors on tax returns already filed, Stoepler pointed out, Furthermore, Form 1040X not only simplifies the filing of an amended return, it also speeds up processing of additional refunds that may be due on 1967 returns.

Copies of Form 1040X and instructions may be secured from IRS district offices.

Although the present term of the national assembly does not expire until next March, dismissal from the party means that the parliamentary activities of the 26 will be effectively halted, reports indicate.

LONDON -- Speculation is running high whether France will eventually have tode-evaluate its franc in the wake of the chaos that has gripped the country and if it does how this will affect the US dollar and British sterling.

Some assumptions are being made by economic observers after last week's developments.

The relative stability in the gold market suggested that the US-supported plan for separating the free and official markets had survived its greatest test. The balance of power in the monetary scuffles between the United States and France clearly has shifted to the United States.

At the same time, inflationary wage settlements in France should make French exports less competitive and could, unless offset by taxes, suck in greater imports.

Britain and the United States could benefit from both developments, which could result in a redistribution of the French hoard to settle payments defi-

BERLIN -- Ronald Wiedenhoeft, a 31-year-old art history instructor at Columbia University, was released by East German authorities Monday after he had been held nine months without charge.

A US mission spokesman in Berlin announced the release. Wiedenhoeft was returned to the American sector via the wall crossing point at Checkpoint Charley.

LONDON -- Three hundred shouting students at Oxford University demanding changes in regulations opened an iron gate Tuesday, and rushed in and sat down outside the offices of the proctors, the university's disciplinary officers.

The proctors emerged, argued with the students and finally agreed to lift regulations against the indiscriminate distribution of any publication, circular, notice or any other liter-

The students, led by a group called the Committee of 90, had argued that the regulations affected their political freedoms as citizens.

NEW DELHI -- Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and other leaders of her ruling Congress party came under sharp attack Monday at a special meeting of the party policy-making body, the All India Congress Com-

The meeting was convened at the insistence of 100 dissidents of the 700-member committee. S.N. Mishra; the leader the deputy leader of the party in parliament, charged the leadership with "complacency and confusion" in the face of the "deteriorating" political situa-

PARIS -- A member of President Johnson's negotiating team said Sunday he has told the President a long, tough road probably lies ahead in the quest for Vietnam peace through talks in Paris.

The arrival of Le Duc Tho, a top-ranking member of Hanoi's 'ruling Communist politburo, plus the return of Ambas sador Cyrus R. Vance to resume his place in the talks after consultation with President Johnson, raised speculation that some movement might be in JERUSALEM -- An explosion ripped through a house in the City of Gaza Saturday night killing four members of an Arab family and wounding eight children, four seriously.

The explosion, which apparently was caused by a bomb, heightened tension throughout the occupied Gaza strip, which has been the scene of riotous demonstrations during the last

Israeli authorities were unable to explain the blast, except to speculate that one of the men killed may have been handling a mine or homemade bomb in his house.

The incident seemed sure to increase the anxiety in the city, where some 40 persons have been arrested in connection with recent series of disturbances.

CALCUTTA -- Eighty-five or more children died of encephalitis in East India's parched Bihar state in the last two weeks of May, the Indian News Agency Uni reported.

It said six children a day were being admitted to hospittals in Patna, the state capital, and 70 per cent were dying of the disease within 24 hours.

Basement Waterproofing

End Basement Flooding! Install an Automatic Backwater Valve Prevents Water in Floor Drains From Backing Up!

This is how "DRAIN GUARD" works:

In normal position, drain water is always free to flow through "Drain Guard" into the sewer,

the instant any sewer water starts to back up, the rubber float rises and acts as a check valve to prevent any water from flooding

Insure against flood damage with

Drain-Guard

WANT AD POPULARITY IS SKY HIGH! 103,621 INDIVIDUAL ADS

WERE PUBLISHED IN THE OBSERVER WANT AD PAGES IN 1967

We just have to brag about it a little, because if we didn't you might never know how helpful Want Ads can be. They must be helpful, or there wouldn't be so many thousands of them published each year.

It's a fact that Want Ads are the only kind of advertising successfully used by both business people and private individuals. The Want Ad pages are like a big department store, offering a wide variety of goods and services. That is why they have such high readership, and it is because of the readership that people who advertise get such great results.

If you are one of the few people who has never used a Want Ad, you most surely will have occasion to use one soon. You can advertise to convert something you no longer need into cash by selling it quickly, or you may advertise to locate a hard-to-find item you need, or you may even use an ad to hire an employee or rent a vacant property. There are hundreds of ways to profit from Want Ads.

To place your ad, just dial the Observer Want Ad number, GA 2-0900 or 453-5500. A friendly, helpful Ad-Visor will assist you in wording your ad:

Forest Land Failed First Owners

State Became Owner

Public success and private failure are mixed in the story of how the State of Michigan came to own and maintain more than 4 1/2 million acres of land.

Michigan was practically forced into becoming a land manager, recalls R. J. Greffenius, retired U. S. Forest Service conservationist from Colorado who is currently a research scholar in The University of Michigan's School of Natural Resources.

In the 1880s and '90s, as forest lands were cut and burned and as farmers failed on the unfertile soils of northern Michigan, these lands were abandoned to the state for nonpayment of taxes, he points out.

By the early '90s this flow of tax-delinquent lands became a flood, so the state in 1893 decided to take full ownership of them.

GREFFENIUS, who discussed the subject with Dr. Karl Lagler on the radio program "Conservation Report," notes that the state still hoped to control land abuses by getting the land back into private ownership, first through homesteading and later by direct sales.

"However, the abuses continued and a few discerning individuals prevailed upon the state to retain some of these lands as state property," he recalls. "So the first state forest of 35,000 acres was created in 1903 under a Forest Commission directed to reforest burned-over lands and to provide fire protection,"

Between 1910 and 1930 the state recognized the recreation potential of these lands and with legislative authority created state game and recreation areas, Greffenius points out.

As recreation use increased, more lands and funds were dedicated to parks and recreation areas. At the same time provision was made for wildlife.

"AN INTERESTING policy change was made in the '30s and early '40s," Greffenius explains. "To increase deer populations, refuges on which hunting was prohibited were established. Only small areas were open to hunting.

"As the deer population increased and vegetation became overbrowsed, the state altered its policy and by the early '40s large areas were opened to hunting and only a small area remained in the refuge system."

Since World War II recreational use has grown by leaps and bounds, he adds. In the last 10 to 15 years, it has increased at a faster rate than the population.

"To meet this demand, the state has expanded its park and recreation system but, with the present level of financing, the state is unable to keep up with the demand. For this reason the voters will have an opportunity to vote on a $100 million bond issue this fall for more recreational development on state bonds, especially in southern Michigan," he notes.

Resident Finishes 2-Week Navy Tour

Naval Reserve Commander Robert E. Vanden Heuvel of 21252 Robinwood, Farmington, recently completed two weeks active duty aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Guadalcanal.

Vanden Heuvel is second in command of Battalion Staff, USNR Training Center, Dearborn. He enlisted in the Naval Reserve 20 years ago and rose from recruit to commander through the Reserve Officer Training program. He commanded Division 9-82, Dearborn Naval Reserve Training Center until his promotion last year.

Vanden Heuvel and wife Ruth have two children: Linda, an eighth grader at Farmington Jr. High, and Richard, a fifth grader at Flanders Elementary.

Henry Oriental Is On A Caffeine Kick

TOKYO -- Symbolic of the Westernization of Japan is the widespread acceptance of coffee as a substitute for traditional oriental tea.

Tea is still served but the Japanese are drinking coffee more and enjoying it more. Henry Oriental is on the caffeine kick.

Vegetables Now Come In Fresh

By Joyce Totten

Spring fever hits most of us with an urge to clean cupboards and closets, putting away the winter clothing and getting out summer things.

Spring can also bring a burst of enthusiasm for preparing the family meals. All of a sudden we are thinking of moving to the patio or backyard for a barbecue meal.

The crisp vegetables and the fruits that come to market now stimulate our spring fever.

JUST THINK how drab and monotonous our food would be without the gold of carrots, the refreshing green of peas and beans, or the rich reds of beets and tomatces! We've learned to cook them, too, so they will keep their bright colors. For vegetables are like people. By treating "them with sympathy and understanding, they give us their best color, nutrients, and flavor. Indifferent treatment, however, makes them drab and lifeless, their precious minerals and vitamins are lost. Like people whose fine talents are wasted. With all the enthusiasm you now have, why not add a bright note to your meals with a new way of serving vegetables.

U-M Joins Mummies Study

ANN ARBOR -- Egyptian officials will open a repository containing some of their most ancient mummies next month (June 1968) so scientists from University of Michigan and the University of Alexandria Schools of Dentistry can extend a research project across 5,000 years.

The mummies are housed in a sealed building near the great pyramids at Giza, The Egyptian Department of Antiquities has agreed to open it for the research group headed by Dr. James E. Harris of U-M.

DR. HARRIS left for Cairo on May 17. He was joined at Giza by Dr. Arthur Storey of the University of Toronto; Kent Weeks, an anthropologist from Yale; Dr. Paul Pontiz from U-M, and Dr. Galil Khadry, an oral surgeon from the University of Alexandria.

The group plans to take "cephalograms" -- biometric X-rays of the face, teeth and jaws--of about 500 high priests and nobles who were buried near the great pyramids during the 4th, 5th and 6th Dynasties, 2680 to 2258 B.C.

"Despite their vast age," Dr. Harris said, "the mummies are likely to be in an excellent state of preservation. They were the leading men and women of the country. Many were buried in elaborate tombs. Preserved by embalming and by the natural mummification of the desert, they should prove a rich source of data for our study."

IN MARCH 1965, Dr. Harris started collecting cephalograms of ancient Nubians from burial grounds up the Nile River near Abu Simbel. On subsequent expeditions he X-rayed the royal mummies in the Cairo museum and living descendants of the Nubians.

He discovered in 1967 that Pharaoh Rameses II, a contemporary Moses, suffered from destructive periodontal disease and badly worn teeth,

The X-rays were the first ever taken of the kings and queens of ancient Egypt, Some were taken right through the sarcophagi and produced the only scientific evidence of the pharaohs.

The present study will probe for general information on the dental condition of the nobility, with particular attention to finding evidence of malocclusion,

Dr. Harris said "We will gain much better insight into the etiology of malocclusion," hereported, "if we can find evidence of racial admixture between northern and southern Egyptians, and if this is accompanied by an unusually large in-

High Praise For Farmington Schools

EDITOR:

May I enter an affirmative vote for the four-mill proposal for the Farmington Public Schools?

In my travels in Ohio and Michigan I have heard many good comments regarding the quality of the Farmington schools. Of special interest to me were the comments on the excellent quality of Farmington's Art department. It is regarded as one of the midwest's finest public school art departments.

Recently, the entire art staff of the Toledo Public Schools visited the Farmington Schools to observe their art program. We were impressed by the art work we saw, the fine rapport between teachers and the Farmington art staff -- and the creative job being done with the children in their art work.

I'm sure the citizens of Farmington will vote "yes" for their schools' four-mill proposal, thus retaining a fine art department in an excellent school system. MARY RYAN

Feels There's Waste In School System

EDITOR:

Well, I've completed another season with the kids at the Farmington schools. It has been like a sea voyage. It has been a good one and our ship was a stout one, thanks to the fine community in which we live and to the fine families living hereabouts. We have weathered some storms, but all seems calm now. The forecast is for fine sailing in the future.

But, Lo! Pirates appear on the horizon. As I look about our community and share the final hours of their most important part of life with our young people shudder, I am alarmed Our Director of Art children are being held for ransom, Yep, ransom.

Our school officials are holding them and demanding a yes vote on June 10 on a millage increase. They tell the kids to warn us that they must have an increase. They threaten to cut out all their goodies if we don't come across. The kiddies return home, moist eyed, bearing printed sheets in their little hands telling us to vote yes.

I attended a school play the other night. The scenery was made by the students and their fine teachers. So were the costumes. The players in the band performed free. The actors were unpaid. All the work was done free. And we paid to get in. We did not holler, I understand the money taken in paid for the materials and expenses Any surplus went for scholarships. Your expenses were paid for. Now, what in Heaven's name, do you need any more for?

I attended most of the sporting events this past year. I paid to get in at each event. The players were not paid and except perhaps for a shower, they didn't cost you a heck of a lot. And where did the money paid for the event go? It should certainly have paid the expenses for the event, I understand one event brought in over $600.

Several years ago, as is usual each year, members of our school board spoke to our PTA group and told us how they needed more money that time. We never did hear the other side of the discussion.

At that meeting, I asked the members present, why they had those yellow porcelain panels on the outside of East Junior High, These, I was told, were to protect an air intake inside from damage. But they will, themselves, break when hit, Why something breakable, to protect, something breakable? None could answer.

BY MARTHA BRANDT It's no coincidence that this leap year, men are leaping into view in color as never before. If there's a man on your shopping list, here are a few tips on color in men's clothes, courtesy of the Textile Dye Institute:

1. Shirts: Turtleneck, buttondown or no collar at all, shirts are more colorful than ever. If the man on your list is slim and frim, he can get away with horizontal stripes on turtlenecks til he's not trim, better rule this style out anyways, Most any man of any size appreciates the change in pace of more colored shirts in his everyday wardrobe. Colors are now more subtle as well as more varied - thanks to the work of the dyestuff industry.

2. Tennis blues? That doesn't mean that you've lost a set, but that you can now play on some of the best courts in the world in colored tennis gear. Pastel blues and vellows with striped trim are being seen at some of the best clubs tof course, shorts and shirts must on the economy, according to Dr. George Katona, professor of economics and of psychology at the University of Michigan.

Yet the consumer is not aware of his influence, and only in exceptional instances does he make his wishes known to business, Katona told the annual meeting of the American Insurance Association.

Katona, director of national consumer attitude surveys for the University's Survey Research Center and author of such books as "The Powerful Consumer" and "The Mass Consumption Society," described the growing economic weight of consumers:

collect "antidotes" for all the different kinds of stains - glycerin for lipstick or chocolate. vinegar for coffee, peroxide for ketchup, and on and on But modern science, in its constant search to make the modern woman's life easier, has now come up with a unique solution to the exasperating problem of clothing stains: the soil-repellent

Soil-repellents for furniture are not new, but now Mother can put a protective finish right onto Dad's dress shirt, the haby's prettiest dress, or her own favorite tablecloth.

Today's secret is in the starching. The laboratories for Pruf spray starch devised a way to put a stain-repellent right into the starch so that a series of normal washings, starchings and ironings give fabrics a modern soil-repellent finish, without any added starch build-up on the clothes - or on the iron, for that matter.

Now Mother can even blot up such former damaging spills as coffee, juice or ice cream with an easy wipe of a tissue on many Pruf-starched fabrics. Because soil-repellents put an invisible protective coating on fibers, they also keep clothes cleaner by not letting ordinary soil and dirt collect in them. This makes it easy to sudse out difficult stains like ketchup and salad dressing.

One important point to remember with stains is that a fresh stain is easier to remove than an old one. Whether you're using the old-fashioned stain treatment methods or a new starch with the soil-repellent formula, clean it at once!

once wanting to say no to something that is going to affect our pocketbooks is at the root of all the dissention. I can understand their arguments because this is one of the few times the people are actually consulted, but don't let the kids suffer for all the times you've wanted to say no, but it did no good. Why should they always pay for our many dissatisfactions?

We've lived in the same Farmington location for 16 years and unfortunately my older four children were moved yearly (and are still being moved) for five years to different schools, because of the population growth. And with it came rising taxes. But when we moved here (because of fresh air and no industry) we knew we would have to pay the full jolt when it came to school taxes, and we accepted that fact. Otherwise we would have moved to a community with a high tax base. And we made many sacrifices accordingly.

I really resent now that some people are really considering depriving my children and all the other children in Farmington of their right to a wellrounded education.

There are no such things as frills when it comes to teaching children. Everything counts. And let older neighbors remember that people like us didn't let them down when their children were being counted nor will people like us forget all the young ones yet to come.

Farmington is a fine community with a dedicated school board. We've had our own disagreements with them but I would never question the fact that they have always tried to do the best for the most. Let's not put a price tag on education, and all vote YES for the increase in millage and show that we're really concerned parents and not just disgruntled

Disagrees On Tax Hike Need

There certainly is confusion over the request from the Farmington Public School System for additional millage to cover operating expenses. Based on the Observer's figures, the general tax bill will increase on the average about 17 per cent for 1968-69. This also means that the school system will receive the proportionate amount--17 per cent more than 1967-68.

Since the salaries generally increase only six per cent per year, it is difficult for the voters to agree that 17 per cent increase for the schools is not enough. If the four mills are added, the increase would be 31.3 per cent 17 per cent

Under-200-Calorie Slimmers

Indulge in a few too many holiday cookies? The hipline - or beltline - a bit wider than it was two months ago? Then now's the time to pull in on calories and get rid of the extra fat before it becomes a permanent fixture on you.

The best way to streamline your shape now is to cut back on calories. At one time this meant keeping a running (calorie) tab of every bite you took. But not today. Convenient diet foods have the calories all counted - and the right nutrition besides. For example, you can mix a packet of new Sego Instant Diet Food with a cup of skim milk and have a slimming meal of only 145 calories. You can even jazz it up with a scoop of ice milk or fizz it up with diet soda for meals that are still under 200 calories.

plus 14.3 per cent above last year's budget.

Because the money is requested for maintaining or operating the school system in existence, there seems to be little justification for the additional four mills. At the same time, the public is being threatened with various cuts in the services. Has the public considered the fact that the school system might need revision? CONCERNED CITIZEN

These courses would ". . . provide an intensive survey of comparative religions and ethical systems, and then show how our personal values, as well as those of our society and institutions have been built upon these."

In my opinion, these courses would do more than that,-they would elevate religion from the no-subject it is now to a place at least as good as mathematics, science, history, etc.

I for one want to express my opinion on the forthcoming school millage proposal for Nankin Mills School District. The school board wants an additional seven mills for operating costs for one year.

We are the highest taxed school district now in Michigan. I blame the school board for letting this situation arise. The Mennonites, composed usually of family groups, come to Panama by bus. After the long trip through most of Mexico and all the Central American countries -- an arduous journey at best -- they take steamers. They usually land at Arica, Chile or some nearby port, and then continue their journey inland by train or bus.

LARGELY OF DUTCH extraction, the Mennonites are said to have first settled in Pennsylvania in 1683 to escape persecution in Europe. By the late 1950s, said Panama Canal officials, there were reported to be 160,000 in the United States, 55,000 in Canada, and

New visual aids, such as filmstrips, slides, and plastic a "canvas" for young artists. models provide stimulating supplements to the old blackboard -- and the blackboard itself is in for some changes.

"GREY IS THE color of all theory," wrote Goethe. But teachers are finding today that color holds the students' attention better, and makes identification of letters and numbers easier. A visual aid panel, tested in color-board experiments for a year, is now being used in classrooms throughout the country. Actually a fourin-one visual aid panel, the new board has a white, glare-free Possible solutions may be written with washable color When the problem is finally solved it can be removed easily with a cloth dampened in an eraser fluid.

The board is also a movie screen and can be written on while a movie is in progress. In addition, it's magnetic, and

"blushes" for him.

A more complex method is used in the "scrambled book." A question will appear on the first page, with different page numbers listed after each answer choice. The pupil turns to the page indicated by his selection.

If it's the wrong answer, the page will explain why, and provide information on that selection. If the right answer is made, the page will "congratulate" the pupil and direct further questions at him.

One electronic machine shows questions on a screen. It will record the mistakes a pupil has made, and the ask him additional questions related to a machine that gives candy to pupils who have done well.

A variation of the teaching arena. machine is the "language laboratory." The student puts on earphones and listens to a foreign word. Then he speaks the word into a michrophone -- and can immediately play back his voice, comparing it to the original pronunciation. As the student progresses, the correct pronunciation of whole phrases may be learned this way.

ANOTHER TEACHING aid sometimes brings smiles to faces -- when it's used in the home for entertainment.

Television was first developed during World War II, and while educational uses were envisioned for it then, it was not until recently that television became a widespread classroom wonder. Television en-

Lecture halls may have dozens of sets hanging at strategic points, so that all students can see the "star of the show" clearly. Medical schools are those mistakes. There is even able to expose surgical procedures to far more students than could fit into an operating > Keeping pace with new classroom aids are new techniques for teaching the "three R's." "New math" uses the "discovery" method of teaching-as opposed to the old teachby-rote. Students find out for themselves how numbers work, and, say most teachers, don't forget what they learn.

Robots Ease Million-Plus Test Burden

Pathologists at The University of Michigan Hospital estimate that they will perform more than a million laboratory tests during 1968 to help doctors diagnose and treat their patients.

Cites Need € Of Junior Colleges

more urgently needed in Wayne County than a system of community colleges, according to Dr. Charles E. Morton, a member of the State Board of Education and pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church in Detroit.

Morton discussed this need prior to the June 10 election of System, Seven trustees will be within the county.

MORTON CITED two reasons why the need for community colleges is urgent, First, they would protect the existing fouryear institutions, which are engaged in research and the advancement of knowledge, highly specialized and growing crowd-

Yet Morton says there is a need for the training of people for social betterment and welfare, and the second reason for urgency is the rising expectations of people.

Wayne County is the industrial hub of the state, and according to Morton, many people know that they do not have the types of skills and understanding necessary to Morton said, "and the community colleges are necessary in order to raise the horizon of hope--to further citizenship and productive effort,"

The figure exceeds any 12month total in the hospital's 100-year history. It results from an explosive increase in the physicians' demand for test data, and from recent advances in automation which make the greater volume possible.

Twenty-four separate tests, mainly of the composition of the patient's blood, are now being performed on automated equipment at University Hospital. The machines cost more than $5,000 each and produce the desired information quickly and accurately.

Five clinical laboratories -chemistry, blochemistry, microbiology, hematology, and blood bank--have a present capacity of 11,000 test analyses per day, 35 per cent greater than last year.

ABOUT 90 PER CENT of the tests in biochemistry are now done on automated systems. trustees for the proposed Wayne Later this year the hematology County Community College lab expects to automate 40 per cent of its present tests to elected from seven districts keep up with the growing demand.

Despite automation of the high-volume tests, there are still hundreds that require painstaking attention by individual technicians as they probe for tell-tale evidence to explain a person's illness or disease.

Smears, cell-counts, typing and cross-matching of blood, measurements of enzymes and cholesterol, and scores of other tests play an increasingly important role in the day-to-day conduct of hospital care.

IN ADDITION to the extensive automation, University Hospital conducts schools for medical technologists and cytotechnologists to train more people in these fields.

"THIS HAS implications with respect to the adequacy of mortgage money in the year ahead," he stated. "Commercial banks put about 30 cents of every dollar they receive into home mortgages; thrift institutions about 75 cents of every dollar."

The league executive pointed out that while we have had relative financial stability in this country-except for the problem of business firms and home buyers having to pay higher interest rates-there has been great instability in the home building industry.

of the home building depression of 1966 last year, but it looks as if they are going back into it without enjoying one full year of even a poor man's pros-

The league executive vice president said that with the development of the checkless and even cashless society the problem comes into even sharp-

"THE HOME BUILDERS suf- tem that more and more will be than the statistical output of the computer?"

HE SAID THAT the other basic concern with respect to financial stability relates, of course, to government budget deficits and the balance of payment problems.

"Certainly," he said, "the American financial system is well-organized. It has functioned superbly. It has demonstrated its stability to adjust to war and peace and changes in government and new technology. It cannot, however, be expected regardless of what comes.

"There has to be a realizathe basis of something other tion, as I think there increasingly is, that there are limits to the burdens we can place on our financial institutions and our general financial system."

Ask Clarification On Political Contributions

WASHINGTON -- Direct campaign contributions to political candidates have long been non-deductible for tax purposes, in the view of the Internal Revenue Service.

Now the IRS is beginning to spell out clearly that tax deductions are also forbidden to indirect campaign donors, like the businessman who purchases an ad in a political convention program or buys a ticket to a political testimonial dinner.

But eight tax attorneys who is needed in this area of indirect giving have written the IRS chief counsel's office to urge that even more rules be laid down for the current political season.

The issue was highlighted Friday at an IRS hearing called to solicit views on proposed new regulations governing campaign contributions.

THE SUBJECT has generated correspondence from California attorneys since the state was the starting point--and is still the major focus--of a national investigation by the IRS. into alleged illegal deductions claimed by campaign contributors. The proposed regulations under consideration would prohibit an individual or firm from deducting the cost of advertising in a convention program or other political publication, or the cost of admission to a political dinner, cocktail party, inaugural ball, inaugural concert or similar event. The rule also would spell out that "no deduction shall be allowed for an expenditure for advertising in any publication. . . . if any part of the proceeds. . . . . directly or

This would apply equally to billboards, pamphlets and radio and television programs under the proposed regulations.

LOS ANGELES ATTORNEYS William Hannam and Walter S. Weiss, who represent an advertising firm under investigation by the agency to expand the scope of its proposed regula-

"A great deal of confusion presently exists as to which erly deductible and which are clearly not deductible," Hannam said in a letter.

Hannam offered amendments to "clearly define those practices which are prohibited. . . and eliminate many of the widespread and well-known methods which have previously been employed in the making of indirect political contributions."

His amendments would forbid deductions being claimed for that portion of a fee paid to a public relations firm or law firm which the donor asked to be passed on to a candidate.

THEY WOULD ALSO prohibit deductions for material or printing costs furnished to a candidate by a businessman or his firm, or for such items as free billboard space, food or drink furnished to a candidate or his party.

Hannam offered another example of a prohibition that might be spelled out:

"An-organization responsible for conducting a political campaign borrows $20,000 from taxpayer A. Taxpayer G guarantees the repayment of this loan. G is eventually called upon and repays the loan in full. G may not deduct this indirectly inures to a political $20,000 expenditure."

Halibut Goes South Of The Border

The flavor of Mexico is added to halibut in this colorful main dish. Halibut steaks are baked in a spicy tomato sauce with the addition of onion, olives and celery. The warm tang of the sauce accents the fresh flavor of the halibut.

Halibut can be purchased as fillets, steaks, or roasts, both fresh or frozen. When selecting halibut, be sure it's the genuine North Pacific halibut, since this is the true halibut. It is caught in the coastal waters of the Pacific Ocean and comes directly to markets and freezers across the nation, assuring fresh flavor and

New Golfing Techniques To Ruin Alibis

Golf has come a long way since the days of the hickory shafts and the gutta percha balls, but the greatest revolution the game ever has known lies just ahead.

This was the message Melvin (Chick) Harbert, who served as pro at Meadowbrook for 14 years, brought to more than 200 persons who gathered at Hillcrest Country Club Tuesday night to pay tribute to the men and women who have held national titles through the years in the first annual National Golf Day Dinner that was sponsored by the Michigan Section of the Professional Golfers Asso-

"We have seen many changes in the game," the dapper 1964 PGA champion remarked, "but I am here to tell you that the greatest are still to come.

'Naturally, winning the 1954 PGA in St. Paul was a thrill," he confided, "but the truth of the matter is that I won that title at Orchard Lake several weeks before.

"I had fired a 76 in the morning round of the qualifying trials and was far back, After four holes in the afternoon I was no better. Then, I braced myself, and with a fine finish I earned one of the five places in the national field. But for that finish I never would have gotten to St. Paul, let alone win the title."

His second biggest thrill came when he played in the Ryder Cup matches in England and the big moment came on the first tee.

"When I teed my ball and heard the announcer say, Melvin (Chick) Harbert, representing the United States; and saw the Stars and Stripes go up on the pole it was a thrill that will live with me forever."

Court Upholds Authority

The Michigan Supreme Court has upheld as constitutional the State Housing Development Authority, and ruled that city urban renewal plans are eligible targets of referendum petitions.

The high court also reversed itself on a major workmen's compensation decision, confessing it had made several errors in an earlier decision which rejected a long-standing interpretation of the law.

In three opinions totaling 39 pages, the court unanimously held the two-year-old housing authority constitutional, but a majority held that two-thirds legislative approval will be needed to vote any state funds to the agency.

Gov. George Romney 15 months ago requested the court to rule on whether the authority--still not in operation--violated the state constitution's ban on letting a corporation borrow on the credit of

The Legislature created the authority in 1966 and authorized it to issue bonds and to provide loans to qualified nonprofit housing corporations and consumer housing cooperatives to stimulate construction of homes for low-andmiddle-income families.

JUSTICE Thomas Brennan, writing for the supreme court majority, noted the state is not liable for bonds issued by the authority, and so the agency's bonding power does not violate the constitution.

But, Brennan added, legislative action giving the authority money to establish two revolving funds would be a specialpurpose act, and under the constitution would require two thirds majorities in the Legis-

In another case, seven justices ruled the Kalamazoo city commission acted improperly when it approved an urban renewal project by resolution, rather than by an ordinance which, under the charter, would be subject to referendum.

Several Kalamazoo citizens petitioned for a popular vote on the project, but were refused by the council. Circuit Judge Wade Van Valkenburg ruled in favor of the petitioners, and the Supreme Court agreed.

Justice Theodore Souris wrote, with six justices concurring, that commission action on urban renewal approvals "must be accomplished by ordinance procedures, for it is legislative in its essential features." The high court nullified the Kalamazoo commission's project approval.

THE COURT also confessed it was wrong when it unanimously ruled that a person receiving benefits for loss of part of his body in an on-the-jobaccident is entitled to a flat twothirds of his weekly pay, rather than to benefits determined by a schedule in the workmen's compensation act.

Justice Michael O'Hara said the court, in its first ruling, placed too much emphasis on "a grammatical analytical approach," while raising a new issue for the first time on appeal and ignoring the long time interpretation of the act held by the Workmen's Compensation Appeal Board.

O'Hara wrote, with Justices Souris and Thomas Kavanagh dissenting, that the earlier decision had "drastically changed" administration of the act-a privilege which should have been · left to the Legislature.

"There is no vested right in the continuation of judicial error," O'Hara wrote. "If we have been wrong in our interpretation, we are not only free to, but obligated to, correct that error."

A 350-page report, "A Study of School Bus Safety," prepared by the National Education Association's Commission on Safety Education addresses itself to these questions and many others. The Commission prepared the study for the National Highway Safety Bureau, U.S. Department of Transportation.

TRANSPORTING STUDENTS to and from school is not a modern phenomenon, says the report, pointing out that it began as early as 1840 in Massachusetts. But school transportation statistics have grown to massive proportions in the last 20 years, and are expected to grow more.

By 1978, says the report, the annual public expenditure for school transportation may be more than $1 billion with 270,000 buses carrying 22 mil-. lion students each day.

.There is need, therefore, says S.A. Abercrombie of the Safety Commission, for much more short-range and in-depth research into all aspects of school transportation, including

Grads Will Hear Negro Educator

EAST LANSING -- A longtime friend of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. will be the speaker at Michigan State University's spring commencement exercises Sunday, June 9, at 4 p.m. in Spartan Stadium.

He is Dr. Benjamin Elijah Mays, who will also receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Dr. Mays, president emeritus of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga., gained national attention when he delivered the eulogy at Dr. King's funeral. Dr. Mays was considered a strong influence on the civil rights leader during both his student days at Morehouse and his early civil rights work.

Dr. Mays retired last June as president of Morehouse and was elected president emeritus in honor of his 27 years as leader of the college. He is currently writing a social autobiography of Negro-white relations in the United States since the turn of the century.

The commencement exercises in Spartan Stadium are open to the public. However, if weather forces the event inside to Jenison Field House, which will accommodate only the graduates and their guests, the public may view the program via closed-circuit television in the MSU Auditorium.

Tom Fitchett Wins National Award

Pacific Mutual Life's Man of the Year

It's an exceptional honor, but then Tom Fitchett is an exceptional man. For the year 1967, Tom distinquished himself by providing life insurance for more individuals, families and businesses than any other PML representative in the nation.

It's a Young World. That's the on-going theme at Pacific Mutual Life. And Tom and others like him show us week after week that this is true. He's been with PML for only two years. He's still in his early twenties. And he's already our Man of the Year.

There's another theme at PML. That's to move a good man up. Where he can be properly rewarded for his performance and do the best job for the company. That's why we've made Tom Fitchett Assistant Manager of our Detroit-Hebert Agency. Now his job is to recruit and train other young men. Men like himself. Men on their way to the top. If you're a mover, Tom wants to talk with you.

Crops Revolution May Save Human Race

WASHINGTON -- A "green revolution" conducted quietly in places like Purdue and Michigan State Universities is giving the human race one last chance to avoid famine on a world wide scale.

Agencies of the Federal government and organizations such as the W.K. Kellogg Foundation in Battle Creek have added their weight to this revolution in crops and agricultural methods and new concepts of nu-

This revolution never makes the headlines which focus on great world political figures and issues of war and peace, but in many ways what American agronomists and other experts are doing in the field of agriculture constitutes one of the most significant developments of our times.

These people and the organizations that back them are trying to prevent untold agony for humanity. They know they are racing against time, but they feel they have a fighting chance to win.

SURPRISINGLY more people are aware of the dark projection of the future than the bright one.

For some time now gloomy prophets have been saying that world population increases soon will outstrip food production. They have fixed the period between 1975 and 1985 as the start of the great famine which they foresee as striking initially at the most crowded and least developed of the emerging nations. Some have even said that where you have teeming millions, as in India, the race already is lost.

This is disputed by William S. Gaud, administrator of the Agency for International Development (AID), He told a recent conference of editors and broadcasters at the State Department:

"I don't believe the battle is lost. There are many people in this country and abroadwho are working hard on the food problem. It is true that we still have a long way to go, but it should be remembered that in 1967 world agriculture set a new record for production with much of the rise due to increased output in the developing countries."

That is where the laboratories and experimental fields at Purdue and Michigan State enter the picture. Just in time the experts have produced technological breakthroughs that have crowded back the shadow of famine. - Some of these discoveries represent the successful conclusion of a quarter of a century or more of experimentation. AID has rushed the results to new countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

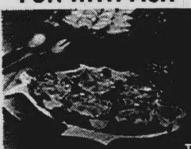

NEW "WONDER STRAINS" of wheat, rice, corn, sorghum and millet give three, four and even five times the return of the old types in some places.

These strains often have shorter stalks and more grain. They are more resistant to pests. Their growing rate is faster. In some hot countries local farmers can get two or three crops a year now that the growing period has been cut from over 200 days to around 120 days.

Gaud explained that in the new budget AID is asking Congress to authorize the spending of $2.5 billion for all types of economic assistance by the agency. Of this $800 million will be earmarked to increase agricultural production in developing countries.

The $800 million figure represents 40 per cent more than AID actually was allowed to spend for such a purpose in the current budget. A few years ago the agency's program to improve agricultural

Impersonal Doctors Encourage 'Medical Hooey'

CINCINNATI -- Many legitimate doctors, in their attitude towards patients, tend to encourage medical quackery. which has unfortunately become a multibillion-dollar business in the United States.

ROBERT R. MINICHELLI of Livonia, has been elected Vice President - Installment Loan Department, Bank of the Commonwealth. A native Detroiter, Mr. Minichelli joined the Installment Loan Department of Bank of the Commonwealth in April, 1966. He attended public schools in Detroit and the Walsh Institute of Accountancy. From 1952 until 1954 he served in the United States Army Chemical Corps. Minichelli, his wife and son reside in Livonia.

Six Judges Study Ford Nominees

Six judges have been named to select top award recipients in Ford Motor Company's ninth annual Detroit-area Community Service Awards program.

The judges are Mrs. Gladys Canty, president of the Detroit Board of Education; Jacques Cousin, general manager of the United Foundation; the Honorable Damon J. Keith, judge, United States District Court; the Rev. Hubert G. Locke, director of the Office of Religious Affairs, Wayne State University; J.P. McCarthy, and James Schiavone.

The panel will review the qualifications of semi-finalists selected from among nearly 800 Ford employes and their spouses who have been nominated by fellow employes, relatives, neighbors and community leaders.

Awards will be based on public service in elective or appointive positions, politics, citizen groups, neighborhood associations, youth and recreafional programs and community fund campaigns, as well as in special projects of clubs and service or church groups.

Judges will recommend those nominees whose civic contributions are most outstanding for the company's highest service award-the Ford 'Citizen of the Year" Town Crier Bell. Others will receive "Outstanding Service Awards"--mounted silver scrolls bearing engraved citations from Board Chairman Henry Ford II. a dinner in the company's Central Office Building in Dearborn on June 11.

This was emphasized by speakers at a session on "medical booey" at the meeting of the Ohio State Medical Asso-

One of the speakers, Dr. William H. Gordon, Lubbock, Tex., cardiologist, and author of the book "Keys of Quackery" said that the "old-time physician had little else to offer than sympathy and understanding, and his greatest success came from dispensing confidence and comfort."

During the last 50 years, however, countless new and useful therapeutic agents and methods have been developed, "As a natural consequence, "Dr. Gordon said, "greater emphasis has been placed on the science and the impersonal side of medicine and less on the so-called 'art' and personal aspects." He questioned whether such an attitude is wise.

MORE EMPHASIS, he said, should be placed on the "art" of medical practice. He said that he would like to think of the art of medical practice as "the milk of human kindness prescribed in such amounts as to allow the science of medicine to be swallowed painlessly. Could this be what some unfortunate victims of quacks are seeking?"

Dr. Gordon said that many students of quackery have attempted to find a common denominator that would explain why many thousands of people become victims of fake

He said that some of the best answers have come from a study made by Dr. Beatrice Cobb, a psychologist with the Texas Institute of Technology. In interviews with numerous victims she found that they fell into four categories. They are "the miracle seeker, the uninformed, the restless, and the straw graspers."

"The 'miracle seeker'," Dr. Gordon said, 'turned to her religion in time of trouble and used a prayer cloth each night for a period of six months expecting each morning to find that her breast cancer had disappeared. Finally, in a terminal state, she sought conventional care, but only after she had convinced herself that her sinfulness and lack of faith were responsible for the failure of her treatment.

"There are other seekers of miracles and miraculous cures who do not turn directly to religion; they merely hope that something 'good' will happen quickly."

The "uninformed" know nothing of doctors or their relative merits, and "when someone said so-and-so was a cancer specialist, they accepted the statement as a fact without further investigation."

"This, unfortunately is a frequent but tragic story familiar to us all. To this type of person a doctor is a doctor, so why look further?" according to Dr. Gordon.

The restless, he said, "are Awards will be presented at impatient, uncooperative, and often belligerent patients" who assume the attitude "if you can't do it now, I'll go some-

THE RESTLESS, he said, "are often rebellious, perhaps paranoid people who are against whatever the majority is for. If the majority is for vaccination, fluoridation, preschool examinations or law and order...they are against them one and all.

Hibernation Could Lengthen Human Life

SAN DIEGO -- If people could in its greater lowering of hibernate at night instead of body temperature, Dr. Comfort merely sleeping they might lengthen their lives by 15 per cent, says a British biologist.

Unluckily, man isn't one of the hibernating mammals, said Dr. Alex Comfort, of University College, London.

But he added that there are other more feasible ways of slowing metabolism and thus perhaps slowing the inexorable process of growing old and se-

Hibernation's advantage over sleep, insofar as slowing metabolism is concerned, lies said. The same thing might be accomplished by artificial cooling at regular intervals.

Dr. Comfort said eating less might do the same thing, and he cited some experiments with laboratory animals that indicate

Animals that were given all they could eat of good, nutritious food lived shorter lives than others of the same species, that were starved every third

that were intermittently

DR. COMFORT a speaker at Tuesday's session of an American Cancer Society seminar, said malignancy and aging may, in fact, be caused by the same thing-the loss of body cells of their ability to use the genetic information stored in their nu-

In the case of aging, loss of this ability is a gradual one, a progressive "switching off" of the genetic: information.

In the case of malignancy, however, the loss is abrupt. Dr. Comfort said cancer cells may be "subversive," that is, they are bent on preserving themselves and escaping the general debilitation of the aging

HE THINKS a great deal may be learned about cancer by learning more about growing old, and urged governments and private foundations to step up research in aging.

"If there were enough support forthcoming for such research, both in time and money, a real understanding could be achieved in from five to 10 years," Dr. Comfort said:

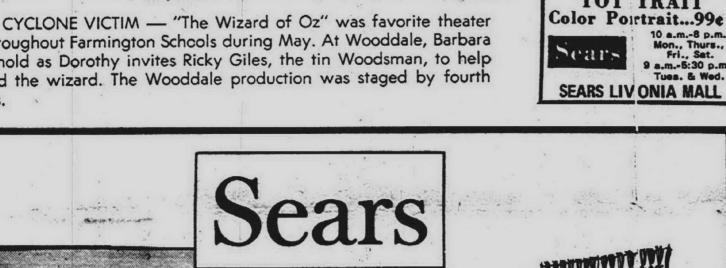

"If this happens there will also be a good chance of our learning how to interfere with the natural aging process," he

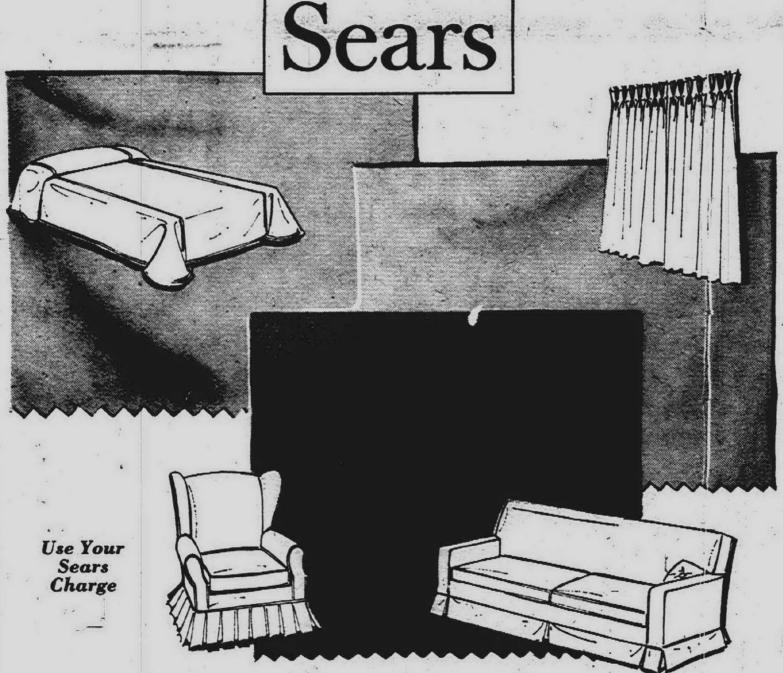

He doesn't think such understanding will result in a dramatic lengthening of the average life. It will be too gradual for "We may be able, eventually, to move everybody up a decade or so, so that the 50-year-old man of the future will be like the 40-year -old man today, and the man of 190 like today's man of 80," Dr. Comfort said.

The cool welcome loveliness of a well groomed quiet spot with its large dignified trees, dainty wild flowers, lilacs and spring tulips. The especially placed garden tributes from those who are left to live and love. The crowds quieted as they approached the Tomb Of The Unknown Soldier. Then the anticipation of the gun salute. the sometimes clearness of the taps and their gentle echo.

This year I am told the Farmington parade will not go to the cemetery but only to the newly located Veterans Memorial in the Village Park.

What, indeed, has happened to our reasoning and our thinking that we are content to pay homage only at a large cold material slab in the midst of the business district and forego completely our tribute to those who lie in the Quiet Place. One more vestige of Community Tradition-gone!

I need some help from your Ombudsman, if he's still

A couple of years ago I applied for a disabled veteran's tax exemption which was subsequently denied. A few weeks City Treasurer Wagenschutz wrote me a letter demanding payment of $106.31.

On April 25 I sent my check in that amount and asked for a receipt so that I could demonstrate to the Internal Revenue Service, if necessary, that the payment was for real estate tax.

Despite repeated written and proper receipt. He sent one which did not identify the payment and I returned it. He has ignored three letters.

Non-residents can play for just 25 cents more, but for the ones living in that area the amount can be saved in gas. Come on now, why not give us taxpayers a break and let those non-residents pay more if they want to play our course.

Very happy senior citizens can play for 50 cents, but why the clergy too? The majority of them receive salaries equal to most other residents. Anyone want to bet that the mayor and other city officials can play for 50 cents less than the senior citizens and clergy?

LONDON -- How long can there but still won't go away, to a derisive 78 seats out, of tructively in asserting that Bri-Only three cabinet members could survive a 20 per cent swing against Labor: Education Minister Edward Short, Power Minister Ray Gunter and Ec> onomics Minister Peter Shore. It would thus be an act of collective suicide for dissident Laborites to provoke a crisis that would split the party and force an election. Providing he maintains a majority in parliament, Wilson still has three years before he must call an election. Every indication is to run the course.

FURTHERMORE, the press campaign against Wilson has helped more than hurt him in parliament, where even Tories are concerned about the way Cecil King used his mass-selling Dally Mirror to try to unmake a prime minister.

King's attack revived memories of his imperious uncle Lord Northcliffe, who cace also tried to govern Britain from Fleet Street, In the 1930s, Stanley Baldwin said of the press lords: "They seek power without responsibility, the harlot's perogative through the ages." The remark was frequently quoted over the weekend.

A special further count against King is the belief that he acted mischievously and des-

630 in the House of Commons, tain faced its greatest financial crisis in history, while simultaneously resigning as director of the Bank of England,

Resentment over press dictation is likely to help the prime minister over some rough bumps this week, the roughest being a threatened party revoit over his government's incomes restraint policy.

A senior backbencher, 83year-old Emanuel Shinwell, said last week he would rather bring the government down rather than see it break with that the prime minister wants the unions and its workingclass supporters. The government may not fall, but it may well barely scrape by in the vote on its all-important incomes policy.

But this is a familiar tactical problem for Wilson, and in the months ahead he faces the more fundamental problem of rewinning the confidence of his badly-shaken supporters.

Barring surprises, the outlook is that Wilson will continue for the near future to preside over cabinet colleagues whom he largely mistrusts and over a country that demonstrably doesn't trust him, It is for Britain an unusual and unhappy situation. The voters and parliament make--but neither can easily unmake-a British prime minister.

LIVING WITH NATURE-Man has split the atom, is orbiting the earth, and may soon be exploring the surface of the moon. But the relationship of MAN to his natural environment will continue to be basic to our existence. These pictures tell a story of a school curriculum that goes beyond the four walls of the classroom. Enlightened educators throughout Michigan are adding this dimension to the three "R's." And rightly so. Though more and more of us live in concrete canyons, we are dependent on the land. Respect for this land and its inhabitants at an early age will reduce the errors in judgment on major issues such as pesticides, pollution, and land use in the future. A sizable investment lies behind a voungster's experience in the natural environment. — Mich. Dept. of Conservation.

Exercise Easily, He Says

NEW YORK -- Millionsof Americans over thirty are doing their annual spring thing -dieting and exercising on a crash basis.

The sounds they make across the land range from moan to groan, followed by laments that go like this:

--"I'm dying of hunger but I have to starve if I'm going to look good in my swimsuit." "Every muscle in my body is

SO BY MAY, with huffing, puffing, and pushing away from the table, a great many flabby Americans will present a trim picture.

But sometime around Labor Day they'll forget how hard it was to diet and exercise themselves out of the ranks of the fat of the land.

They'll stop dieting, stop exercising and by next spring, present a rotund image once more. So, no surprise, the crash programs commence once

This take -it -off, put-it-on, take-it-off cycle, precisely, is what bothers Stephen Huffaker, author of the "I Hate To Exercise Book" (Cornerstone Library).

The former U. S. Air Force captain and physical training instructor says most crash programs fail because they're too hard and people stop them soon after they've started.

HIS PLAN, based on a maximum daily exercise time of four minutes, 25 seconds, is easy and meant to become a habit.

It consists of knee lifts, side bends, stretching, partial situps, and push-ups, and running in place.

"It's not a cure-all," he said, "but it eliminates shortness of breath and helps to free you from the strains and pulls that plague the inactive."

His exercises aren't for those who can job a lot or do other strenuous body feats. Rather. they're for the man or woman who--"eats too much, drinks too much, smokes too much, and doesn't care to stop.

cise is so disgustingly beneficial?"

The Charitable Trust and Consumers Protection Division of the Office of the Attorney General is a little known but very important agency of the State.

There was no single government agency prior to 1961, charged with making certain that the principle an/or income of all of the trusts were safeguarded and used for the intended purposes.

In a charitable trust the income, and sometimes a portion of the principle, is dedicated for the relief of the aged and poor people, needy, crippled or handicapped children; scholarships; medical and scientific research; schools; libraries; religious purposes; to erect hospitals and homes for the aged, and for any purpose "beneficial to mankind and the community."

TO INSURE that the assets of a charitable trust are not wasted, left dormant, or lost, the Michigan legislature in 1961 passed the Supervision of Trustees for Charitable Purposes Act."

The Act provided that the trustees must register the trust with the Attorney General, and authorized the Attorney General to supervise and enforce the provisions of the trust.

Since the effective date of the Act, the Attorney General has registered 3,400 charitable purpose trusts, having a combined asset and property value of upwards of $5.3 billion.

A complete registration and file record of all these trusts are maintained in Lansing which are available to the public for inspection by persons interested in knowing where funds are available for charitable pur-

AS A LEARNED English judge ruled many years ago: "There is no justification for any charitable trust to operate in a cloak of secrecy; because the cloak can become a shroud, and the property vanish like the snow under the warming rays of the sun."

Continual diligence, investigation and consultations in enforcing the Act has resulted in ever-increasing sums of money being released and used for the benefit and help of citizens of Michigan,

Libraries, scholarships, needy, crippled or handicapped children, hospitals, aged persons, medical care for the needy have all been assisted by the operation of this relatively new but very important division set up to administer the 1961 Act.
