President Johnson has declared Sunday a national day of mourning for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Gov. Romney has declared a state period of mourning through Sunday. National and state flags are to be flown at half-mast.

Former Vice President Nixon's plans to visit Michigan late last week, canceled after Kennedy was shot, will be re-scheduled to late June or July. Nixon will meet with the Michigan delegation to the GOP national convention.

Kennedy's life and death, along with his two recent visits to Michigan, are recalled in a special feature on Page 4B of today's edition.

FARMINGTON - For the second time in eight months, Farmington School District property voters will vote Monday on the question of a tax increase. The Board of Education is asking four mills for 10 years. Also facing voters is election of two Farmington Board of Education members and three trustees to the Oakland Community College. The Farmington millage proposal is one of 11 such district tax increase elections to be held Monday in Oakland County.

REDFORD — Four of seven candidates for election to the South Redford school board participated in a Candidates Night Forum Wednesday evening, scant hours before it was announced that death had come to Sen. Robert Kennedy from an assassin's bullet the morning before. A return to discipline in the classroom was seen by each as a needed corrective for trends towards general disrespect for authority in the country.

REDFORD — A highly organized citizens group succeeded in persuading the Redford Township Planning Commission to vote 6-1 against rezoning Glenhurst golf course to allow garden-type apartment development. High rise zoning portions of the rezoning request were not considered, since the township has not yet adopted a high rise ordinance.

Officials Fear Small Vote In School Bond Election

The Plymouth Community school officials have their collective fingers crossed pending the outcome of Monday's election when the taxpayers go to the polls to vote on a proposed $11 million bond issue and a tax increase that will amount to 4.2 mills.

They also will be asked to vote for three unopposed members of the board -- Mrs. Esther Hulsing, Robert Gilmore and Don Tripp.

THE 4.2 MILL increase, is in reality, only a request for an additional 1.5 mills. It has been pointed out that the taxpayers approved millage some time ago and that one mill was shelved for future use. It is to be used now. The same is true of a 1.7 mill package that was approved for the implementation of the bond issue.

This is a total of 2.7 mills that already has been approved so the 4.2 mill increase to be shown on the new tax bills is only 1.5 mills above what the taxpayers have already ap proved.

By a strange quirk, the schools would not have to ask the taxpayers approval, for board, so it has been pointed out, has the right to levy 4.5 mills for building and site for 1968 and 1969 that would raise enough money for the high school project.

The Stroller

One of the first things a young man is told when he enters the field of journalism is that it is fascinating work because one meets so many interesting people.

Well, after almost a half century of laboring in the editorial vineyards, The Stroller finds in work still fascinating for the same reason he was given in the long ago.

Just the other evening he strolled on the beaten path and wandered as far as the Hillcreit Country Club in Mt. Clemens for a gathering of the state's golfing greats and an evening of nostalgia.

It was the first annual awards dinner sponsored by the Michigan Section of the Profession Golfers Association and a goodly gathering of the men who play and teach the ancient game were there to regale the listeners with their thrills and disappointments over the years.

Then, after the dinner was served, the Master of Ceremonies opened the program by introducing the speaker of the evening-Melvin R. Harbertand a jaunty, iron-gray haired personable gent, seemingly with all the confidence in the world; stepped to the microphone.

Yes, this was the same "Chick" Harbert who served as pro at nearby Meadowbrook Country Club for 14 years and who was the most interesting of all pro golfers to watch.

Unlike most pros whose tee shots are invariably down the middle and whose second shots are on the green or very close to it, "Chick" was what we of the sports writing clan called a "touring" pro. Following him in any round was certain to be exciting. As he explained the other evening, "I hit 'em far AND WIDE."

A SHOT TO REMEMBER

In any given round he might be under bridges, behind trees, in gulleys and, it seemed, anywhere there was trouble is where his tee shots would land. But he always recovered to stay in contention. That's what made him so interesting to fol-low. Why, he even set a course record at Meadowbrook by playing one shot backwards.

It so happened that his approach shot stuck under the lip of the ninth green. He had to hit it back on the fairway before he could chip to the green. You'll wait a long time until you see any thing like that duplicated.

Well, we talked about those things the other evening, and then, suddenly, "Chick" became M. R. Harbert, vice-president of the General Development Corporation with headquarters in Miami, Florida.

Emphasis On Education Greater Now Than Any Time In History

Observer Newspapers

Never before in the long history of our country has more emphasis been placed on education.

To illustrate the point, a self-styled humorist recently remarked, "My gad, you can't get a job as a janitor unless you have a high school diploma."

It has not reached that point, as yet, but the importance of a high school education is becoming more and more marked with each passing day.

There was a time, when our present senior citizens were young, when a grade school education was thought to be sufficient to meet world challenges and provide a happy home in which to raise a family.

"This was back in the days when the "Three R's" - readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic -was the extent of the education sought by many. And the thought of a college education - that was only for the rich.

Things have changed mightily since then and with each change has come a crying need for more education.

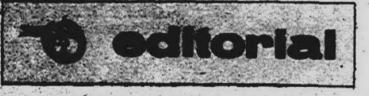

LOOKING BACK OVER the past half century, more progress has been made in these years than in any other like period in history.

In every field of endeavor there has been a great turn-over.

Things are being done now that were thought to be well nigh impossible . . . and placing a rocket on the moon is only the latest in a long string of achievements.

Fifty years ago no one would have given much thought to flying through the air for an ordinary business or pleasure trip. Yet, today, it is common and airplane travel is now ones of our major industries.

Anyone who would have prophesied; a half century ago that we could pick' music and voices out of the air would have been judged to be "slightly off his rocker." And if he had claimed that the day would come when we could sit in our living rooms and watch world events happen right before our eyes — and in natural color — he would have been adjudged downright insane. Yet, today, all these things are taken for granted.

One must remember that with each progressive step along the way there was a like demand for education. In the change, railroads gave way to airlines in many instances. And radio and television brought about the almost total elimination of the old time movie theater.

This is only part of the story.

IT HAS BEEN claimed that in the great strides being made in medicine that many of the drugs now being used were not heard of as short a time as 10 years ago.

Fire Chief Sounds Warning

ery out of most hard labor, but has brought about some very unusual advantages in our modern day living. The things we take, today, as common-place — electric refrigeration, air condition-ing, dish washers, clothes washers, electric cooking stoves and furnaces — all have been brought about by the constant improvement in education.

It even has helped the farmer, of all per-sons. No longer does he walk behind the plow in the broiling, hot sun. No longer does he spend hours in the fields gathering in the crops of corn and the like by hand in the heat of the day. Why, no longer is the common job of milking cows done by hand.

Today we have automation that enables the farmer to ride around on a machine that not only plows the field, but plants the seed and later picks up the crop. Who ever would have dreamed of pisking berries by machine, or taking the golden ears of corn off the stalk by machinery? Yet, it is happening all around us every day.

MORE AND MORE we are moving into a scientific world - a world where the "three" R's" no longer suffice and a grade school education no longer is a passport to a posi-

Today, there is an ever-increasing demand for mental alertness and the brainpower to meet the changes as they come along.

More than that, we need the very latest in equipment in our schools to teach the youth and fit them for the challenging world. These things all cost money-lots of it.

Building new schools is a necessity, but. equipping them with the highest type of equipment and instructors is just as important.

No matter what the cost - it must be looked upon as an investment.

These are the things you should think about on Monday when you go to the polls to vote on the proposed bond issue and the raise in your school taxes.

To delay now may prove more costly even in so short a time as a single year.

He was now almost an exact model of the "Man from Madison Avenue in the gray flannel. suit." And he was just as interesting in talking about his new venture as he was when he was belting the little white golf ball—far and wide. "Would you believe it," he said, "we now have 7,800 Michigan residents who have pur-chased home sites that are valued at $11,163,000, in our development."

He pointed out that 5,700 of these Michigan residents have purchased in the southwest Florida area, 900 in the development near Cape Kennedy and 1,078 at a place called Port St. Lucie.

Sitting there listening to him talk, one never would realize that this was the young golf pro who forever had officials in a dither and a fellow who played by the rules-strict rules.

He was a fitting example of what the old editor told The Stroller years ago-that he would be meeting interesting people.

A CONGRESSMAN'S SURPRISING WISH

Much the same thing happened last Tuesday when The Stroller, out of curiosity, wended his way to the $100 a plate breakfast sponsored by the Plymouth area at the Mayflower.

It was like old times sitting across the table from Gerry Ford, who now is Congressman Gerald Ford, minority leader of the House of Representatives, and one of the top men in government.

We fell to talking about his football days and some of the grand moments spent with Fielding H. Yost, the Grand Old Man of Michigan.

"You know," he recalled, "he invited a few of us to his home for dinner one evening and we had an enjoyable time sitting there with him and Mrs. Yost. Then, as soon as the meal was finished, he dismissed her, invited us into the living room and fed us football until the wee hours of the morning. He not only talked, but walked off various formations until we could do them ourselves at any given moment.

Looking just as trim now as he did then, the Congressman kept emphasizing - possibly to prove his maturity-that "I played with the round ball." What he meant was that in his day more importance was placed on kicking than on passing and the ball was made so that you could get your foot into it."

It was an interesting visit that had a most amazing climax.

"Sure, I'd like to become Speaker of the House," the former Maize and Blue football star confided, "and I could be if we win a majority at the next electon.

'But I am looking to the day when I can come. back to Ann Arbor in the role of a professor-that would be it."

"Interesting people!" You find them on the journalistic trail.

The solution to summer heat may be right at your feet. All you need to do is cool and dry the air in your home.

If you have a forced air heating system, you have ductwork. And a furnace blower. So you're already moving and filtering air.

That's a big part of an electric central air conditioning system. All that's left is to cool the air and wring the steamy dampness out.

Add two compact units-cooling coil and condenser-and, presto, your heating system becomes a cooling system too. A system that cools, dehumidifies, cleans and quiets your home. For less money. That's right. Electric air conditioning costs less to buy, less to install, less to operate than the flame type.

Electric cooling works efficiently, like your refrigerator. Cools a 1,200square-foot house for as little as $24.00 per season.

"Our youth now loves luxury. They have bad manners. contempt for authority, disrespect for older people. Children nowadays are tyrants. They no longer rise when their elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble their food and tyrannize their teachers."

It is sad to realize that these words, penned by Socrates in the fifth century B.C., could have been written yesterday.

Disrespect is the key word in this ancient quotation and until this century's adults begin to respect themselves, the society in which they live, and group visits, about the many community.

> of supervisors, Kelley's ruling allows those who are already doing so to finish their terms. But they may not wear two governmental caps when the new county boards, apportioned on a one-man, onevote basis, take over next year. * * *

> LIVONIA'S MAYOR Harvey Moelke, who now serves on the Wayne County board and would like to run from the new district, is uncertain whether Kelley's ruling applies to him, as an executive. Kelley mentioned only councilmen. Moelke will study Kelley's opinion carefully. If it would mean resigning as mayor to serve on the county board, Moelke won't make the race but will serve in his Livonia post, Livonia Councilmen Edward Milligan and Peter Ventura also serve on the county board. Their plans are unknown,

Redford Township Supervisor Aldrick Bellaire is unaffected, He hadn't planned to run for the new 26-member reapportioned Wayne County board,

The same is true for Farmington Township Supervisor Curtis Hall. He was thrown into the same Oakland County district as Delos Hamlin, the city's appointed representative to the county board and the board's chairman for 13 years.

Hamlin will run for the county board. He hasn't been directly before any group of voters since his consistent election to the Farmington City Commission up to the mid-1950's.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP Supervisor John McEwen is undecided. He'd like to run for the county board, but his township is in the same district with big Livonia, and a Livonia resident has an immediate advantage.

Carl Pursell, head man at the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, has no local governultaneously on county boards mental office, so he is helped by the fact that some of his potential rivals are hamstrung. He's a probably county board candidate,

> Also aided the same way is another potential Plymouth candidate, James Brown, a chemical engineer.

> > ATTY, GEN, KELLEY'S ruling has the force of law until either the Legislature or a court overrules him,

He based his ruling on a Supreme Court decision upholding one-man, one-vote reapportionment.

Under the 1963 constitution, which allowed malapportioned county boards, city councilmen and township supervisors could serve on the county board,

But Kelley said that when the Supreme Court upheld reapportionment, it had the effect of killing the entire constitutional section that allowed officials to wear both local and county hats. * * *

"THERE ARE NO longer any provisions of the constitution or of a statute either permitting or prohibiting the same person from holding both of the offices," Kelley said, adding:

"In the absence of such authority, the common law rule of incompatibility of offices is applicable."

Kelley further ruled that a city or township official could run for the county board, but he would have to give up his local job if elected.

KELLEY'S RULING represents a different philosophy from what has prevailed in Michigan since 1837.

The county board has traditionally been viewed as a sort. of council of governments; hence, each municipal unit was to be represented.

The reapportionment law passed by the Legislature in 1966 took a slightly different

Shelter And Protection

The Richard Steiger residence on Quail Hollow Drive is low and nestled against the ground. This feeling is enhanced by several clumps of tall white ash trees. The trunks frame the view of the front door and give a feeling of shelter and protection.

These trees were on the site before the house was built, and care was taken during construction to protect them from damage. When the final grading was done and the level of the yard raised, the original level was kept around the roots of the trees. The resulting swale adds an informal charm to the scene.

The planting across the front of the house complements the horizontal lines of the house. A tall burning bush (Euyonymous alatus) banked with Pfitzer's junipers strengthens the corner and an upright specimen yew accents the front door. A row of dwarf mhugo pines parallels the walk leading from the door to the driveway.

What Makes Good Front Landscaping?

By BETTY FRANKEL Special Writer

First impressions definitely do count — especially the impression one gets of the entrance to your home.

That first glimpse creates a mood that lingers on after the guest has arrived or the motorist has driven past. It can be a feeling of friendliness and hospitality or a feeling of aloofness and seclusion.

This feeling has nothing to do with the size or magnificence of the home, but is due to the way in which it is landscaped. Landscaping, however, includes more than trees and shrubs and flowers. In addition to the selection and arrangement of plants, landscaping includes the placement of the house on the lot, the location of walks and driveways, and the grading of the lot.

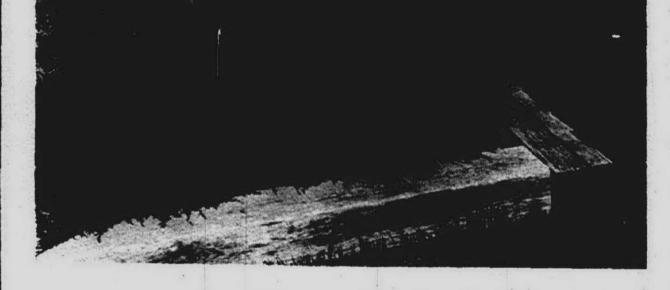

Effective landscaping depends on having all the elements — house, site, grading, driveway, walks, plants, fences, lights, ornaments —compatible so they work together to make one strong unified impression.

Although the landscaping in front of a house should be kept simple, it does not have to be dull or conventional. These Farmington area homes are examples of landscaping that has individuality and personality.

Formality And Dignity

The home of Richard and Carol Faunce on Wicklow Street is a beautifully proportioned, symmetrical house whose center doorway and balanced pairs of windows produce a feeling of formality and dignity. the land are the most important feature of the landscaping. The unusual landscaping adds to the feeling of serenity and distinction. There is no foundation planting at all, so no shrubs obscure the lines of the house. It sits atop a small knoll, which gives it a feeling of importance. In this case, the grading and contours of sirable softening effect, and frame the view of the house. A white flowering dogwood (Cornus florida) has been planted near the intersection of the driveway and entrance walk. At the opposite side, the house is flanked by a sunburst variety of moraine locust. The delicate foliage is clear yellow as it unfolds in spring, ripens to a deep green in summer and then turns bright gold in autumn. The most prominent of the three trees is a pin-oak that is located somewhat off center.

Restraint, Simplicity

The plantings in front of the Daryl Caterman home on Westmeath show the restraint and simplicity that characterizes good landscaping. Only a few kinds of plants were used and care was taken to space them so they are not crowded but have ample room for growth. The beds are edged with railroad ties for a neat, trim look, and a few rough boulders period of special interest. A simple row of Pfitzer's junipers lines the front of the house. At the corner the bed has been widened and juts into the lawn at an angle. A pink-tinged flowering dogwood is the focal point of this bed, with Pfitzer's junipers planted around the base of the tree.

A complementary bed has been constructed in the angle between the walk and the driveway.

serve as accents for the points of special interest. A simple row of Pfitzer's junipers lines the front of the house. At the corner the bed has been widened a globe yew are the underplanting and the featured tree is a shapely young redbud (Cercis canadensis).

These trees and shrubs were planted four years ago and are now just beginning to attain the grace that comes with maturity. Because of the way the plants were arranged in groups the landscaping never had the spotty look that new plantings often have. Carefully placed in front of the house are three trees — the only front yard planting. They have a de-

A crock of red geraniums serves as an accent beside the deep red front door. Nothing could be simpler than the landscaping of this house — but it is completely effective.

Japanese Harmony

The Henry Hansen house on Hunter's Row was built on a site that was considered "impossible" — rugged, rocky and sloped steeply from the road down into a wooded ravine. However, these very characteristics were turned into assets.

A shelf was scooped out and the very contemporary oriental-inspired home was tucked into the hillside. As one approaches from the road, the view is down onto the roof of the house. A flight of sturdy steps constructed from railroad ties leads down the steep hillside which has been terraced and planted with myrtle and creeping juni-

The rustic Frankel hause at the end of Rockshire Road has a wooded natural setting with big old trees and a gently rolling terrain. The driveway winds between the trees and past the paved patio which serves as a front entrance. Informality is the keynote here, and wild flowers and natural ground covering are used instead of a lawn.

The entrance area is trim and tailored, to provide a bit of dramatic contrast. A rectangular bed beside the front door contains a flowering white dogwood and a variety of spring bulbs and wild flowers. Myrtle has been planted to make an evergreen mat-like covering. The steps end at a small level area paved with exposed aggregate concrete. This leads to the little raised wooden deck at the front door. Kennedy's Death: Senseless, Isolated, Insane By DON HOENSHELL

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is dead.

He died for no reason. The world's condolences are flowing into the United States and into the Kennedy compound at Hyannis Port with a faint skein of scorn showing through the grief.

It was the freedom that America has preserved against contrary ideologies and forces which enable assassins to plot and kill.

KENNEDY, WINNER in all presidential primaries except Oregon, was celebrating his California victory over Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in Los Angeles' Ambassador Hotel at Luther King in Memphis, the 3:06 a.m. Detroit time.

He was alternately jubilant Evers. and serious as he addressed his people. The crowd was chanting and cheering and gay. Kennedy

Kennedy died. And America was again stricken.

IN DETROIT, William H. Merrill, chairman of the Kennedy for President organization in Wayne County, said: "I can only express the same shock and disbelief that is shared by everyone -- and I wonder when this kind of > insanity will end. "I hope this tragic event will at least serve to stimulate more people to become more concerned and involved in the rational, same solution of the problems facing our country." Statements from the high and the low in the nation and the world said generally the same things, all with great sincerity. Communist nations viewed the Kennedy killing as a political plot and fresh evidence of the deterioration of American society.

THERE WAS the tragedy of the family. It started as a political dynasty but was destroyed at each major step.

Headed by Joseph Kennedy, the multimillionaire businessman who still owns the Chicago Merchandise Mart, the family grew to prominence. Joseph Jr. first seen as the political star of the Kennedys, was killed in World War IL

A sister was hopelessly retarded.

Jack -- the World War hero of PT 109, author and man of the world -- went to Congress and later to the United States Senate. He did what war deprived his brother, Joseph Jr., from doing.

RFK's Last Speech

"I think we can end the divisions within the United States.

"We can work together to overcome divisions, violence, disenchantment.

"We can start to work together. We are a great country, a selfless country, a compassionate country."

He was in Michigan twice recently, once to address the Michigan Democratic Party's Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, then later he came to the Democratic State Convention to work for Bobby.

The candidate, himself, was in Michigan twice this spring -once in Lansing to confer with party leaders, then again in Detroit to speak in Kennedy Square.

That last visit was three weeks to the day before his death

Federal investigators are looking for a conspiracy -as they have done before. But on the surface, the picture presented to the world is at this moment one of dismay.

THE KILLINGS of the two Kennedys, of Dr. King and Medgar Evers and others -- all appear to be senseless, iso- dead and we grieve. lated.

"The real tragedy, as horrible as all these killings were, is that no one gained' --everybody lost," said one political leader. "There was no apparent reason for any of them, however evil the reason was. "Insanity is a terrible reason for these deeds."

Political people have lost their taste for battle, at least temporarily. No one wants to --indeed is hardly able to -- debate issues when the basic fibre of the nation is under question. Kennedy supporters are at

Simple cotton skirts in smashing colors are part of the young fashion scene this summer, and if you're willing to invest a few hours in a stitching project, your wardrobe can blossom almost overnight.

The dirndl skirts can be made without a pattern, and even without much sewing talent.

Here are the eight simple steps:

1) To find out how much material you need, measure your waist, then double the number of inches.

2) Then measure from your waist to the length at which you wear your skirts. Add 234 inches to the result. This measurement will determine the length of the skirt.

3) Cut the material to fit the measurements. The selvedge edge of the material should be the bottom edge of the skirt. This will eliminate the need for hem tape.

Cut a waistband 5 inches wide and 2 inches longer than your waist measurement.

4) Fold the waistband in half lengthwise and sew the edges together, using a 1/2 inch seam allowance.

5) Sew the skirt seam, inserting a 7 inch

EOG Money Available At OCC

Oakland Community College has received $50,820 for its educational opportunity grant (EOG) program for 1968-69, Donald D. Nichols, OCC director of financial aids and placement, announced today.

Funded by provisions of the Higher Education Act of 1965. the educational opportunity grant program assists high school graduates of exceptional financial need who, without this financial assistance, would be unable to attend college. Qualified students are awarded $300 under the EOG program. This amount is matched with a scholarship or a National Defense Student Loan from the college. Any student with extreme financial need who has been accepted for admission, or who is already enrolled and in . good standing at OCC, is eligible to apply for a grant.

Actually, the word "college" though its curriculum remained comes from the "collegia" set up under Roman law, But other icine, than the similar spellings, the two words differ considerably --collegia could be better defined today as "corporations," and were set up sometimes for purely trade, religious, or political purposes. Each collegium had to have at least three members. Eventually, scholastic guilds very similar to the early trade guilds formed. They were spontaneous unions between scholars or teachers, and had a primary function of securing mutual protection.

An early stage in the development of universities as distinct institutions took place when the chancellor of the cathedral gave permission to masters to open schools other than that at the church. Religious training had always been central in the cathedral colleges. In 12th century Italy, cathedral and monastic schools. taught only what was necessary for the education of priests and

* * * WOODS' INTEREST IN handwriting analysis began when his own penmanship came under the scrutiny of a friend who was a graphologist.

When Woods shares the microphone Tuesday, June 11, at 12:45 p.m., he will unfold the mysteries of "graphology," the art of handwriting analysis.

"I was fascinated," said Woods, 'because his analysis was so accurate."

This fascination led him to take a graphology correspondence course from a Chicago school and he now teaches a course in the subject through Plymouth's adult education program.

His classes are small, purposely so, to allow him to work with each individual student in a subject that at first seems uncomplicated, but which is actually very complex.

"There is a practical application to this work," explained Woods, "and it can be utilized in areas of health, personnel and understanding one's character.

"Many times heart trouble can show up in a person's handwriting as many as six months prior to an actual coronary attack," he said.

THE WOODSES HAVE been Plymouth residents for five years. They have two young children who cannot write, but Woods explains it is possible to determine a great deal about his child's budding character by GRAPHOLOGY? - Maybe Alvin Woods, a Plymouth man and expert handwriting analyst, can figure why most top executives have such poor penmanship? What he can do is tell people what they are like by interpreting their scribbling.

RU Crowned League Baseball Champion Bjerke's Farmington Tracksters Win 3-Hitter Sports News Is Clincher First Oakland Championship

Redford Union is the 1968 baseball champion of the Suburban Six League, winning or sharing titles in four of the last five years.

With Junior Dale Bjerke pitching three-hit ball and collecting three hits in four trips to the plate, RU toppled Trenton, 3-1, in a pitchers' battle on the Trenton diamond.

The victory was the seventh in 10 league starts for RU and eliminated second place Plymouth and Bentley from consideration. The Rocks and Livonians ended league play with 4-4 records followed by Trenton and Belleville with 4-5 marks and Belleville in the bottom spot with 3 and 6.

It was the 16th victory against four losses -- three of the latter coming in loop competition -for RU which was beaten by Bentley, Allen Park and Belleville.

Bjerke, already the holder of the school record for most victories, had Trenton under control all the way.

HE RECEIVED A 2-0 lead in the third inning, yielded a run in the bottom half of the frame and then checked the home team for the remainder of the seven innings.

He issued one walk and whiffed five in the three-hit triumph.

THAT WAS ALL of the runcollecting until the seventh when Bjerke singled and went to second on a fielder's choice, Bill Howe followed with a sizzler to center and RU had a 3-1 lead. Bjerke barred the door after the third.

The slender Bierk big star for the victors, scoring two of the three runs, getting three of the 11 hits and turning in one of his best mound jobs of the entire season. Fahey tallied RU's third run and had two hits in four at bats, a feat matched by Fox.

STATE BOWLING champions are these members of the North Farmington High team which competes at Country Lanes. The quintet fired 3302 to win the regionals and then came through with a big 3319 in the state finals in Owosso. The group includes: (from left) Al Gregory, Ben Sucher, Lee Townley, Sponsor Mrs. Caroline Russell, Andy Mitchell and Rick Birndorf.

Farmington High's trackmen

Pontiac Central, winner of six of the first nine county meets, finished far down in the team totals this time. North Farmington had 11 points.

It was the highspot of a successful season for the proteges of Coach Jerry Young who went through the dual meet campaign unbeaten, then took the crown in the Interlakes Conference, finished second in the regional competition and 11th in the state finals in Ann Arbor at the University of Michigan.

The Falcons won seven straight dual meets. Balance was the story of Farmington's success in the meet on the Southfield High track.

. LARRY WILLIAMS, one of Farmington's colorful twins, registered the only first, winning the two mile in the fast time of 9:33 bettering the previous meet record of 9:43 set by Warren Krueger of Hazel Park a year ago.

Gary Williams, the other twin, ran one of his best races in the mile but had to be content with second place. Gary was clocked in 4:20.2, a fifth of a second behind North Farmington's Rick Randall.

3:28.4. Randall's time of 4:20.1 bettered his own school record. Brian Kent, the sensational Clarenceville High senior who shifted from the half-mile to the mile this year, was fifth relays. with a clocking of 4:22.8.

up second with a leap of 6'1"-far below his season high of 6'8" only two weeks ago.

As it was, Mann had to take the second place medal while Bob Hartrick, of Royal Oak Kimball, was the winner at 6'2"-- a height at which Mann would normally warm up. The big difference in the showing of Farmington can be placed on the shoulders of Hurdler Russ LaFevre. At least that's the opinion of Coach Young.

"Russ had to finish second in the semifinals of the highs to qualify for the finals," smiled Young, "He made it with a final lunge and dive that carried him. across the line but he landed sprawling on the cinders.

"We had to pick cinders out of his face and arms and for a time we thought he wouldn't be ready for the finals. But he insisted and finished fourth in the highs and second in the lows for eight points that meant the difference between winning and finishing second or third.

"He had a time of :15.3 in the highs and season record for himself of :20.3 in the lows. It is boys like LaFevre that often mean so much to a high school coach. He was determined to place as high as he could and did better than we expected."

Dave Bush, of Farmington cleared 12'6" in the pole vault and settled for fourth place. The Falcons' other points came on a sixth place finish in the 880-yard relay and a third in the mile . with a time of it'll pay off for them.

Things don't always work out that way for a variety of reasons.

But for John Mann of North Farmington High School, his willingness to practice hard; to listen to his coach, Ron Holland, having great confidence in his mentor the dividends have been tremendous. And there are bound to be many more.

Mann is the young man who as a sophomore at North Farmington never high jumped over five feet, seven inches.

As a junior he managed some jumps of 5-1, but his overall average for the season was around 5-6.

THE MANN story this past season as a senior has been one of the greatest achieved by an area and state prep.

"WE'D TAKE the films and sit for hours studying Mann's techniques, what he was doing right and what he was doing wrong. "I also talked to other coaches and obtained some books on the subject of high jumping. I let John know that I thought I could help him and he had confidence that I could. "John worked on his flaws. He worked very hard to correct the mistakes he was making.

"He also worked on weights to strengthen himself. He always was out early and stayed late at practice. "He followed what we sug-

The results? Mann won the league and regional titles besides every dual meet. He took second in the state meet and was second in the Champion of Champions.

THE QUESTION that constantly is asked of a so-called "veteran" is:

"Have the kids changed?"

Honestly, we don't think so, at least not those we have encountered on the various fields of athletic combats.

The big change, if any, is in the attitude of their parents . . . and the writer of these words falls in the class of the changing parents.

Too many of us seem to feel that because we didn't have something when we were kids, we should make certain that our children have these advantages.

So we provide them with cars . . . clothes we can't afford to buy for them . . . tell them that it really isn't necessary for them to get part-time jobs which, of course, would lead them to better appreciate the value of money.

Et cetera.

The kids themselves, as the 42-year-old teacher who's retiring this week at a school in Dearborn said on Channel 2 the other week, "haven't changed much."

FROM WHERE we have watched the schoolboy parade of sports, we'd say the kids today certainly are more fortunate than their moms and dads were.

Keith Baughman, the retiring track coach at Plymouth, pointed out last week that the improved facilities, the greater knowledge of what the human body can take, the better backgrounds of coaches and teachers all have to benefit the current group of youngsters just a little more than what their parents received. If the kids really had undergone the major transition some seem to think - from a good to a bad state - we doubt that we would still be spending our extra hours each week reporting and writing about them.

The athletes always were - and still are gentlemen. It's exciting to discover how really appreciative they are of what is said about them.

Often, they are more enlightened on certain subjects than their parents, who have a tendency to put winning above everything else, especially on a Little League level.

THE KIDS ARE as dedicated as ever, notwithstanding cars, television, a greater pressure on dating.

When we first dealt with schoolboy athletes. their goals were to succeed in high school, then go on to college.

It was probably easier in the '30's and '40's to make the leap from the 12th grade into college. The competition for open spots in college was a lot less.

Athletes, then as now, aimed to win scholarships. And the college coaches were there then, but not in the numbers they are today. The colleges, like everything, have swelled to to record proportions.

All of which benefits the prep student with college desires. One coach told us the other day that one of his baseball players has been "ap-proached" by 20 different schools.

There's no question that whatever some of us adults might think, kids today are farther advanced . . . scholastically and athletically . . . than the generations which preceded them.

Bass Leading Fishing Parade

Black bass, panfish and bullheads are hitting well locally, but pike and trout have slowed down, says the State Conservation Department.

The department's weekly report from the Pontiac district office covers southeastern Michigan counties.

Tigers Sign 6 Players

The Tigers have signed six free agents to play in their minor league system in 1968, it was announced by Ed Katalinas, director of player procurement.

Five of the six new farmhands performed in the junior college ranks prior to signing Tiger contracts, and two--Pitcher Ken Strickland and Outfielder George Nichols--were teammates this season at Brewton - Parker Junior College in Mt. Vernon, Ga.

Strickland and Nichols were the only new signees who were not drafted by the Tigers in the free agent :draft in January, 1968. Bill Slayback, a pitcher from Glendale (Calif.) J C and Shortstop Rod Beckman from Muskegon Community College were Tiger selections in the regular phase of the January draft.

* * *

CHUCK SCRIVENER, a shortstop from Baltimore J.C. and Infielder Tom Grayson from Guilford (N.C.) College signed with the Tigers after being chosen in the secondary phase of the draft.

All of the new Tigers will report to Lakeland, Fla. on June 11 to attend a "Second Spring Training" for two Tiger farm clubs in summer leagues. The clubs are Batavia, N.Y., in the New York - Pennsylvania League and Sarasota, Fla. in the Gulf Coast League. Minor leaguers in college during spring training in March and new signees will participate in the 10-day training program to prepare for the summer league season. Batavia opens its season at home on June 23; Sarosota's curtain raiser will be on July 1. sessions will be held at Henley Field in Lakeland under the direction of Don Lund, Tiger farm director, Ralph Snyder, his assistant, Bob Dustal, Bata-Wavne Blackburn.

Fishermen are having good luck as black bass move into shallow water for spawning. Good fish were reported at Pontiac, Pettibone, Crystal, Orion and Oxbow lakes.

* * * EXCELLENT BLUEGILL fishing was reported at Lakeville, Wildwood, Valley, Stony Creek, Orion and Pontiac lakes. The Detroit and Huron rivers are yielding fair catches of small perch.

Teeple Lake has been slow as a trout producer. The department advises early morning fishing with small worms. German brown trout are being taken from Paint Creek, and rainbows are hitting in the stream just below the pond at Bald Mountain Recreation Area, OCCASIONAL NORTHERN pike have been caught at Stony Creek and Lake Orion, Walleye fishing on Lake St. Clair has slowed down, but nice muskellunge were being taken from Anchor Bay on spoons and plugs. Pontiac Lake has produced excellent bullheads on nightcrawlers at night.

Drysdale Sets Record, Keeps Plugging Along

Pitcher Don Drysdale, of the Los Angeles Dodgers, believes in lots of work.

Asked whether he might want an extra day before returning to the mound after shattering the major league record for consecutive shutouts with his sixth in a row, Drysdale told Manager Walt Alston he's taking his regular rotation.

The 31-year-old righthander blanked Pittsburgh Tuesday for his sixth straight, allowing three hits to break a record that had stood since 1904.

The mark of five straight shutouts was set that year by Chicago White Sox pitcher, Doc White, now 89 and living in Silver Spring, Md.

Drysdale also broke the National League record for consecutive scoreless innings--46 1/3 set by Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants in 1933. * * *

GREEN BAY, Wisc. -- The demand for $500 in pay for preseason games is the major hangup in negotiations between the National Football League owners and their players.

So says William F. Hopkins. chief naturalist for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, who said the circular trail is 3/4 mile in length and starts about 1/4 miles from the south parking lot in the 600-acre park.

Entering the trail you will first find a sparsely wooded area at the edge of a busy thicket, then step into a fine stand of mixed hardwoods in which there is a variety of native trees, including oak, maple, juneberry and flowering dogwood.

After following the east bank of the river for a short distance, the trail bends first to the east and then to the north across an old field, and finally completes it circuit by passing through an open oak woods. Acorn Trail is a favorite with migrating songbirds. One of the year-around birds residing in the area is the spectacular ruffed grouse that explodes with whirring wings when started.

"Deer are occasionally seen on the trail by the quiet walker. However, more common are chipmunks and squirrels,

Reform Bill Big Suburbs' Court Districts Left Intact

BULLETIN

LANSING - The State Senate, which earlier in the week had rejected the district court reform bill, finally gave it 26-4 approval late Thursday night. Local Republican Senators George Kuhn and N. Lorraine Beebe voted in favor: Democrat William Faust was absent. The bill is expected to get Gov. Romney's approval.

Livonia, Garden City and Westland city councils have seven days after the governor signs it to vote by resolution to retain their municipal courts.

Bigger suburbs would find their court systems little changed, but smaller cities and townships will find themselves facing entirely new systems under a new lower court reorganization bill in the Legislature.

Livonia, Redford and Westland would have their own courts, just as they do now, trict with a single judge. At Farmington and Plymouth would find themselves lumped with other communities in districts.

THE LOWER court reorganization bill last week passed the House, 76-30, with solid support from the suburbs.

Republicans Louis. Schmidt of Livonia and Raymond Baker of Farmington, along with Democrats Richard Young of Dearborn Heights, John Bennett of Redford, James Tierney of Garden City and Vincent J. Petitpren of Westland, all voted yes.

The nay votes came mostly from Detroit Democrats and out-state Republicans from small towns like Buchanan and Plainwell.

The bill was lost in the Senate, however, at least temporarily. With two-thirds (26 votes) needed for passage, the bill won by only 21-8.

of the peace.

They would be paid $18,000 a year by the state, but the local district could supplement the salary if it wished.' A district with two or more judges, however, would have to pay them the same salary.

Costs of running the court would be picked up by the court district. Where a court district covers two or more local units, the local units would pay in proportion to their populations.

LOWER COURT reorganization is required under the new state constitution, which eliminates the constitutional status of JPs after Jan 1, 1970. The problem has bounced around the Legislature for more Observerland Republican Senators George Kuhn of West Bloomfield and N. Lorraine Beebe of Dearborn Heights voted yes. Democrat William Faust of Westland didn't vote. * * *

LOCAL DISTRICTS, under the latest bill, would look like this:

Livonia would be a court district and have two judges. This is unchanged from the present system.

The same would be true for Redford Township and the City of Westland.

Garden City would constitute for it provides: a court district but have only a single judge.

Waterfowl brood counts show a significant increase this spring, according to game biologists of the State Conservation Department.

Mourning dove surveys show their count is holding its own or showing a slight increase.

The pheasant population continues to bellow, however.

We genuinely believe we offer an exceptional opcontunity for an active, experienced insurance agent to profitably associate with our very highly respected, small, centrally located downtown Detroit agency now celebrating over a half century of general insurance service.

Our agency has been operated solely as a 'service agency' to our larger Mortgage Banking & Realtor operations; in all of our years, no concentration of time nor effort has been expended to fully capitalize on the personal and business entrees so developed.

We need 'an ambitious agency man who (a) wants relief from the financial burden and administrative responsibilities incident to his agency operation, (b) wants more time in the field for his sales production, (c) wants an office, staff and companies of which he is proud and upon which he can depend, (d) wants to negotiate a commission split arrangement which will net him at least 50% more of each earned commission than he now retains, (e) wants to build an equity in the agency itself, and (f) has the proven ability to currently produce a reasonable volume of profitable business.

From the right individual or agency, we shall be most receptive to any plan of association (except the sale of our agency) which may provide for permanence and pro-Hence, we invite inquiries which fully detail the per-
