LIVONIA — City Administration must decide within a week whether to adopt the new district court plan, with two full time judges paid $18,000 annually by the state, or retain the municipal court system of a $15,000 judge paid by Livonia and permitted to practice law privately. Mayor Moelke and lawyers like the new state system and its benefits. Except for veto power, the decision is up to Council. If Council doesn't exempt Livonia, the new law becomes effective.

LIVONIA - Plymouth Road through town is finally being paved with asphalt, and a contractor is rushing the June 30 deadline. The work was expected last fall, but the State Highway Department had fixed a 1968 deadline and the contractors got busy elsewhere. If the five mile stretch is not completed by July 1, a penalty must be paid for each day of delay. Delays have brought much criticism, traffic problems and dust storms.

FARMINGTON — A breakdown in negotiations between teachers of the Farmington School District and administration negotiators led this week to a request by Superintendent Roderick J. Smith for a state labor mediator to join contract discussions. The teachers are asking a 15 per cent package economic boost, while the Board of Education has set a ceiling of 10 per cent.

GARDEN CITY - Mayor Tim Murphy has announced his candidacy for a second two-year term in the Aug. 6 primary election. He is the first to declare his intentions for the city's chief executive post.

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Education Association has stiffened its position in negotiations for a new contract for the district's 550 teachers. A new salary schedule and other non-economic issues are still unresolved, reported the faculty group.

WESTLAND - Mayor Tom Brown and the City Council have gone another round in their continuing battle. The latest dispute is over the council's unanimous action in overriding the mayor's veto of numerous expenditures in the budget.

REDFORD — Negotiations have halted in both Redford school districts, with teachers declaring they won't return to the table until August 19 and 26. All economic items remain unsettled. Summer school teachers in South Redford, unable to get a promise that their wages would continue to be based on their regular annual salary, with retroactive increases as settled this fall, boycotted the school's summer program Monday.

City Adopts Record Budget

With a series of last minute cuts and shifting of accounts the City Commission balanced the 1968-69 budget at $1,942,025 Monday night and even then failed to gain unanimous approval.

When the final figures were announced and the last cut taken to mark the end of close to four months of deliberations Commissioner Arch Vallier stuck to his guns and cast

However, when the time came to cut, the Commissioners failed to act and passed the task back to City Manager Blodgett.

Working until just prior to the meeting Monday night, City Manager Blodgett and City Clerk Gene Slider, managed to balance the figures.

This was done, according to Blodgett, by eliminating the construction of the Farmer Street extension at a saving of $27,300; eliminating three traffic signals on Farmer Street at another saving of $3,000 plus cutting the budget for supplies for the City Engineer by $1,500 and reducing the unappropriated reserve by $5,000.

When these cuts were reported to the Commission there was a general expression of horror that the Farmer Street aside from restoring some small items, the Commission added expenditures of $2,700 for sidewalks, curb and gutter, and $1,288 for part time firemen.

This reduced the total expenditures by $32,812, leaving the budget still $17,142 out of balance.

To overcome this, the Commission decided to transfer that amount from the Budget Contingency to the general fund.

During the course of the debate over the cuts made necessary because of the "lack of economy on the part of the City Manager," the Commissioners brought up many minor items, Commissioner McKeon protested because five copies of the new city directory were purchased for $175 for City Hall, when, as he put it, one should have been sufficient. He also complained that there was considerable waste in the office procedure where as many as a dozen receipts were used on some items.

Commissioner Schweitzer also entered a complaint, too. claiming that he saw no sense in purchasing 40 cases of geraniums for the various city parks at a time when the city should have been economizing.

"I certainly am not in favor of any more planes flying over our homes down here," Mrs. Holmes stated, "and the addition of jets, with all the accompanying noise, will make matters all the more objectionable."

The request came from a group designated as Plymouth Citizens for Peace and Equality with W. Edward Wendover and R. Tracy Ketchman, recent graduates of Plymouth High as co-chairmen.

In asking for a parade permit this group stated that it wanted to acquaint the citizens of Plymouth with the fact that a group of their peers does not agree with the Viet Nam policy currently held by the United States.

"By granting us the requested parade permit," the request read, "you are demonstrating the attitude in keeping with the 4th of July Independence that the City of Plymouth supports our constitutional right to dissent . . . a basic American liberty guaranteed to all citizens of the United States of America."

Mediator Fails, Detroit Remains Without Papers

Hope for a quick settlement in the 217-day strike of Metropolitan Detroit daily newspapers faded when union leaders rejected a compromise proposal by Labor Mediator Dr. Nathan Feinsinger over the weekend.

Dr. Feinsinger, who termed the situation as "the worse have encountered since the mid-'30s," proposed a wage increase of $11 for the first year, $10 for the second year. $9 for the first nine months of the third year and then an additional $1 per month for the 34th, 35th and 36th months of a three-year contract.

The proposal, made over a nationwide television program. was immediately turned down by the unions as unacceptable. The unions have been pressing for a $36 pact for 36 months but reportedly changed that to $43 for a contract beginning last December from the time the strike started.

Then Monday, the Stereotypers Union voted to strike, joining the Printers, Photo Engravers, Paper Handlers and Pressmen. Late Monday afternoon, there was an indication of a possible break in the strike, now in its eight month, when it was reported the Newspaper Guild negotiators were planning a proposal of a $33 wage package for a 36-month contract.

Sessions between the publishers and Guild officials were slated for later in the week.

LANSING -- The Board of Trustees of Michigan State University has pledged that interference with the orderly transaction of university business will not be tolerated. In a new "Resolution on Disruption of University Activities," board members held that freedom requires order and discipline, and protecting one means maintaining the others. Board members emphasized, however, their intent to ad-

LANSING -- New rates for state payments to nursing homes under state-federal medical assistance programs have been established by the State Public Health and Social Services Departments. Reimbursement for non-governmental facilities providing skilled nursing care will be $14 per day and for those providing basic nursing care, $11 daily. Old rates were $10, $12, $14 and $16 per patient day. The rates are effective

MADISON HEIGHTS -- Three persons were stabbed when a bandit apparently went on a rampage after finding no money in the safe of a party store in Madison Heights.

When the bandit found no money in the safe, he stabbed the wife of the store manager and dragged her into a walk-in cooler. He also stabbed a store clerk and the manager. He fled after knifing the manager in the stomach.

BATTLE CREEK -- A Kellogg Community College faculty negotiating team has asked that the State Labor Mediation Board be called in to help settle a contract dispute. A faculty spokesman reports teachers have voted unanimously to reject the latest contract offer from the college. Teachers are demanding a bigger role in determining administration policy and asking for more money,

DETROIT -- A strike looms against Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. in its service areas of northern and western Michigan when its contract expires with the International Chemical Workers Union.

Company officials report there should be no interruption of gas service. Negotiations are continuing in Grand Rapids in an effort to reach a new pact between company and union.

LANSING -- Senator George W. Kuhn (R-West Bloomfield) has called for renewed legislative action on a "stop and frisk" weapon law which died in committee earlier this year, while a colleague spoke on gun-control legislation. Kuhn, noting the U.S. Supreme Court has recently upheld stop and frisk laws, said it is time for Michigan to take action. Senator Sander M. Levin (D-Berkley), speaking at Wayne State University, lashed out at anti-gun control lobbyists and called their defense of present gun laws a "myth." He said that statistics demonstrate that tight gun control laws do save ROCHESTER -- Oakland University has accepted its largest academic grant of $570,000 to help establish the university's first doctoral degree program by 1970.

The grant will enable the university's relatively new school of engineering to offer a doctoral degree in systems engineering, to expand its faculty, research and graduate assistantships, and to install a hybrid computer.

Oakland University was the first university or college in Michigan to receive a National Science Foundation science development program grant.

LANSING -- Gov. Romney has signed into law a bill aimed at giving police agencies additional powers to deal with civil disturbances and riots.

The measure is designed to prevent wilful blocking of streets and highways. Romney also signed a law providing that motorized two-wheeled vehicles must be equipped with crash helmets for driver and passengers. The bill also requires motorcyclists to wear goggles or a face shield when operating the cycle on a public highway in excess of 35 m.p.h.

WASHINGTON -- Former President Eisenhower was reported in "stable" condition Monday in Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he suffered his fifth heart attack while recovering from an earlier one.

A brief hospital statement gave no details except that he "suffered another coronary heart attack."

Eisenhower, 77, has been a patient in the hospital since May 14, when he was flown from March Air Force Base Hospital in California, He was taken to that hospital April 29 after complaining of chest pains. That seizure was diagnosed as a mild heart attack.

Eisenhower suffered his first heart attack on Sept. 24, 1955, in Denver, when he was in the White House. It incapacitated him for seven weeks. On Nov. 25, 1957, he suffered a mild stroke in the White House.

Troopers Study Voice Identity

The Michigan Department of State Police has moved another step ahead in their innovative study of voice identification as a crime-fighting weapon with announcement by Col. Fredrick E. Davids, director, that the department has been awarded a $146,509 grant from the United States Department of Justice for further research in this

"We are very pleased to have received the grant as it will enable us to undertake a thorough research project in this activity," Davids said, "The possibilities of voice identification as a major enforcement tool are most promising."

DAVIDS NAMED Capt. Raymond H. McConnell as project director and indicated that the initial grant would cover a first phase study from June, 1968, through May, 1969.

The original project proposal requested a subsidy of some $500,000 for a 42-month study.

Pick Trio For MSU's Honors Roll

Police officials expressed optimism, however, that there would be future support to permit continuance of the project.

In voice identification, a visual record or spectrogram of the voice is reproduced by a sound spectrograph and last December the State Police was the first police department in the nation to obtain this electronic equipment.

There is only one other spectrograph in the state, this one obtained at about the same time for primary use in speech analysis at Michigan State Univer-

The spectrogram then may e compared with records of known voices, much like the procedure in processing fingerprints. Research has demonstrated that voices, like fingerprints, are unique to the individual and voiceprint identification has already had success in court cases. The technique is viewed especially useful for police in investigations where unidentified voices are the strongest clue, such as extortions, kidnappings and obscenity cases which involve telephone calls from unknown persons. A file of voice records will be gradually established by the State Police and eventually it is expected such records will be stored on computer tapes.

In addition to staff work by the State Police in the research project, subcontracts call for technical assistance from Michigan State University's Department of Audiology and Speed Science and School of Police Administration and Public Safe-

Bird School Principal Travels Odd Route

By HENRY J. TEUTSCH

Carrol R. Nichols is a former minister turned teacher turned principal.

The shift from ministerial work, which is involved with children, to the work of a teacher of children seems a natural progression, but Nichols has another more basic reason. He was broke.

The 38-year-old principal of Bird Elementary School in Plymouth commented, 'I don't always like to tell people that I didn't have very much money, but that was the case."

NICHOLS WAS BORN on Feb. 19, 1930, in Lambertville in Monroe County. In 1948, he graduated from Dundee High School and the next fall started at Houghton College in New York.

Four years later, he was awarded a bachelor of arts degree in religion and theology and embarked on his short ministerial career.

His first job of gathering his flock was in the little town of Tallmadge in a yet smaller Wesleyan Methodist Church in Ottawa County.

That was where he ran into financial troubles.

THE FIRST TWO YEARS were not difficult. He had just married an Adrian girl, Onalee Hyder, and they were discovering just how nominal the pas-

U.S. Issues Protest Against Traffic Slowdown To Berlin

BERLIN -- Communist East Germany has drastically slowed traffic to West Berlin and warned that the city faces more harassment unless West Germany recognizes the German Democratic Republic (East Germany) as a sovereign state.

The situation has become so serious that West German Chancellor Kurt Kiesinger may fly to Washington to ask President Johnson to intervene.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has already delivered a United States protest to Russian representatives against the announced restrictions on trade and travel between West Germany and Berlin.

PARIS -- Paris police have occupied the Sorbonne after dispersing thousands of protesting students from the university with tear gas grenades and fire crackers.

The French government announced immediately that the university would be closed for a few days pending on investigation and clean-up session.

Sporadic clashes between students and police continued after students had evacuated the Sorbonne. But police succeeded in terminating these disorders without any serious in-

PARIS -- Former Gen. Raoul Salan, who was jailed in 1961 for his role in a military revolt in Algeria against President De Gaulle, has been released by presidential pardon.

Observers interpreted the move as an apparent bid to woo right wing voters to the Gaullist side in the June 23 general elections.

WASHINGTON -- West Germany has agreed to contribute $785 million to offset most of the foreign exchange cost of keeping U.S. troops on German soil in 1968-69, State officials have reported. The agreement appeared to indicate a major compromise by the Bonn authorities, according to diplomatic authorities.

BUENOS AIRES -- Street riots involving thousands of Argentine students and police have erupted in at least four cities. The riots reportedly marked the 50th anniversary of a university reform movement.

SAIGON -- Eight of the nine district police chiefs in Saigon have been replaced amid threats of renewed Viet Cong rocket Observers believed Prime Minister Tran Van Huong wanted to replace supporters of the tough former national police chief, Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan.

SAIGON -- Reliable political sources have flooded Saigon with reports of possible resignations by several high-ranking military men and public officials associated with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

The reports reflected a wave of dissatisfaction within the Ky faction over recent moves by President Nguyen Van Thieu to consolidate his position in the Saigon power struggle.

SAIGON -- Radio broadcast threats of a new ground-attack and 100-rocket barrages have fanned the fears of Saigon's three-million people.

The enemy's Liberation Radio warned that the shelling of the capital would be renewed and would continue for 100 consecutive days with nightly barrages of 100 rockets. It told the Saigonese to flee from the U.S. Officials expressed doubt that the Viet Cong was capable of carrying out the rocket threat.

BELGRADE -- Indian President Zakir Husain met President Tito at the Yugoslav ruler's Brioni Island residence in the northern Adriatic for political talks.

ROME -- Ezio Garibaldi, 74, grandson of Giuseppe Garibaldi, military hero of Italian unification, has filed suit asking that the government give back the island of Caprera which the family used to own and where Garibaldi is buried.

UNITED NATION, N.Y. --After 10 years of debate and negotiation, the United Nations General Assembly has finally approved a draft treaty for a disarmament agreement. But the treaty, now open for signature and ratification, falls far short of what most countries wanted. Two of the world's five nuclear powers--France and Red China--won't adhere to the treaty and perhaps as many as 10 near-nuclear countries also will refuse to sign.

The Presidency: A Superman Is A Super-Target

"Maybe we should do it a dif-ferent way," said Sen. Gene Mc-Carthy after Robert Kennedy's assassination. "Maybe we should have the English system of having the Cabinet choose the presi-

McCarthy, who isn't afraid to slice to the heart of a problem and propose an unconventional answer, was addressing the question of how to avoid the assassination of a president or presidensial candidate.

So far as we can detect, he is the first person to come squarely o grips with the heart of the matter. It's not a matter of fewer guns or better Secret Service protection but a more fundamenal problem:

The presidency itself is too big for one human being. No one is really capable of filling the sort of superman role the presidency has become.

That's the political side. On the psychological side, a president or candidate becomes a natural target for what a psychiatrist has called "magnicide-the killing of someone big."

THE PRESIDENT is the chief of government. He is the ceremonial chief of state - and this alone can be a killing task, even if there were no bullets to speed the process.

The president is head of his party. He is the real leader of his party's forces in Congress. He is chief spokesman for the free world. He is the leader of the nation, the spokesman for those who have no other voice, the embodiment of the national character . . . He can't be all those things and all that perfect, and so part of the political process involves an advertising campaign that is a he - making voters believe that this candidate or that is really that beautiful and can really perform all that anyone expects.

The late H. L. Mencken summed it up neatly when, singling out one party, he said that Democrats tend to pump up their president so much that they begin to promote him to the first vacancy in the Holy Trinity. The Republicans, with Eisenhower, learned the game, too.

NELSON ROCKEFELLER. when he was an assistant to President Eisenhower, thought of creating two executive vice presidents - one for domestic affairs. one for foreign. Cabinet officers would report to their respective EVPs, and some of the workload would be shifted from the president.

Such a solution would help solve the administrative part of the presidential problem, but it fails to tackle the problem as a

Sense And Nonsense

Is it because the Vietnam mess is not officially a "war" that servicemen's families have not been able to find those service flags to hang in the window? The flags were also scarce during Korea, but World War II saw them in every house. Do we have to declare a "war" before the flags become available in the market place?

It's one of the wonders of the world of academia that a sophomore knows so much more than McCarthy's solution will be particularly unpalatable to Democrats, who tend to go nuts with their "leadership" syndrome, but it comes closer to solving the problem. He would have the president share his authority with the Cabinet and the Senate.

McCarthy's suggestion that the Cabinet elect the president was a spur-of-the-moment thing, apparently, but it deserves more consideration.

THE BRITISH HAVE a good way of handling it. They pick a royal family; it is a symbol of the nation; it presides at functions; everyone-Liberal or Conservative-loves it; no one hates it because it has no power to do

Then they leave the real work of national leadership to a political professional, the prime minister, who is picked from the ranks of the Parliament. He is less hated than an American president because he stirs up less psychic energy in the populace. He has more time to run the government because he has someone younger and prettier to cut the ceremonial ribbons and wave to the crowds.

Such a system also tends to bring forth a more able person as chief of government because the people who know the government best do the picking. It assures the chief of government will have the respect of those he must deal with.

Under such a system, John and Robert Kennedy wouldn't have become presidential timber - at least not as soon as they did. Neither of the two older Kennedys was more than a second-rate senator; neither was a leader among the men who actually pass our laws; both had bad reputations for failing to do their legislative homework and paying too little attention to committee work. (Brother Ted, however, is reported to be different.)

The result was that the one Kennedy who did become president had one of the least successful administrations of any man with a congressional majority in modern times. His only innovation, the Peace Corps, was begun with an unspent White House appropriation that he didn't have to ask Congress for.

MEN WHO PRETEND to be serious writers on American politics praised Kennedy for bringing the nation something called "Style" and belittled Lyndon Johnson for his cowboyishness.

Well, "Style" didn't pass medicare, civil rights bills, poverty programs, aid to education. A political pro got the job done. One may not like those programs, but one can't help admiring a man who is successful at accomplishing what he advo-

Yet it's a psychological fact of American life that people need some sort of hero to set styles, patronize the arts, tour the coal mines, symbolize our national vigor. This the Kennedys did. If it weren't unconstitutional, the Kennedys would have made a lovely royal family.

So perhaps the presidency should be split functionally, with a beautiful person or a great white father-type as the non-partisan ceremonial chieftain and style-setter, and a political pro selected by Congress to run the government.

A radical idea? A little. But it's not as radical as killing off presidents with overwork - or with bullets which is what we're doing now. -Tim Richard

OBSERVATION POINT

By Philip H. Power

Somehow, let's bronze a taxpayer for a time capsule so the history writers will know who really held the world together.

It'll be confusing enough to contemplate the dollars we showered on split ends and right infielders, movie stars and booze. And how little we spend to find a cure for mental retardation and It's enough to make a rational man who pays taxes weep in his Kool Aid, since most of them can't afford much more. So let's hear it for the tax-Really!

LAST WEEK HE WENT to the polls in Farmington to approve a 4-mill property tax increase for 10 years for schools. In Plymouth, it was an $11 million bond issue and another 1.5 mill tax

Garden City passed a 11.6 mill tax renewal and an increase of 7.5 mills. South Redford approved a 3.5 mill proposal for operational costs and Redford Union a 4-mill boost for the same reason. Wayne Community School district went for a one-year levy of

The cynics who push bureaucracy's pencils and shuffle its papers were shaken. It brought back the creed of that late and great newspaper sage, Frank Morris, who swiped it from a

"Just let me lie and bleed awhile - and I shall rise and fight again."

Taxpayers already are bent under the load of the idiotic property tax, recently increased; the new state income tax; the threat of a new federal surcharge of up to 10 per cent on their income; increased driver license fees.

The state even raised the marriage license fees, though -- like capital punishment - it hasn't turned out to be a deterrent.

With all this, the wise guys were saying any millage increase would die on the ballot. And it would have been understandable. People can take just so much.

THOSE WITH FIXED incomes are hurt most by property taxes. They still have to buy food and shelter, pay medical bills and buy birthday presents for the grandchildren.

These elections showed that the people are more responsible than bureaucrats figured, more aware and more willing to make sacrifices for their children and the community. Education these days is a gigantic maw demanding a porridge of dollars.

On the other side, there are more kids to educate, higher salaries — and deserved, too — for better trained and more dedicated teachers, more searching for better ways to prepare young people for an increasingly complex world.

Livonia's school people have been holding off on millage, stretching the dollars and pennies. Prudence is a good word here. Check the number of administrative vacancies and other cutbacks. They're negotiating now with teachers, who are far below the going rate in Detroit, for example.

There will be a deficit in Livonia this year, it now appears. There may be a millage request - heck, there'll have to be - sometime. You can be sure the schools will need it when it comes.

We think it would be great for every community to proclaim a Taxpayer Appreciation Day. Maybe have a parade with Thank You floats prepared by the departments of the city.

But we couldn't even give our hero a drink of water as a gift. He pays for that, too.

Garden City School Voters Keep A 'Streak'

Most of the money questions in last week's school elections were approved by voters in more than a dozen districts in the metropolitan Detroit area.

But one figure that went unnoticed was that Garden City's approval of two millage proposals continued a "victory streak" long admired by other school board members and administrat-

In the past 16 years, Garden City vcters have approved 25 money questions without a single

This is impressive in itself. But the record shows that many of those proposals carried by margins unheard of in school circles.

For example, a proposal for a bond issue and a resulting tax increase of 8.5 mills ($8.5 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, carried by a 3-1 margin. Two years later, another bond issue, worth $1,250,000 and a 6.75 mill tax increase, carried an overwhelming margin of 6.6-1.

GROWTH PROBLEMS were continuing to loam in the city in the 1950's, and in 1955, a $3,300,-600 bond issue, which did not bring any tax rate increase, car-

Bond issues are usually easier to sell then operating millage proposals, but in the latter department, Garden City voters did not slow down there.

Although the millage proposal last week carried by only 59 votes, other millages in the past 15 years carried by margins of 5.2-1, 3.7-1, and 3.1-1.

Another important area was the local ballcting for the formation and financial support for Schoolcraft Community Col-

To organize the district, Garden City had a 7.6-1 favorable margin aithough the proposal was defeated in other districts.

At a special election several months later, Garden City came through with a 5.9-1 margin.

ON MONEY PROPOSALS for the college district, Garden City approved all four tax requests by overwhelming margins, in a few cases providing the winning margin since other local districts rejected the proposal.

A prime example of how the voters feel about their school board members was shown in 1960 when the community agreed to pay their members' expenses, an issue which is traditionally defeated in most districts.

In this age of higher taxes and public rejection of tax requests, it is refreshing to see the continuing optimism of the Garden City School District.

We hope that their "victory streak" will continue to stretch in future elections.

Get this from the State Depart.

"A 35-year-old former football player from Michigan State University and his 23-year-old associate are cutting a path through official state government red

"Six-foot-four Morley Murphy, who played right tackle in MSU's 28-20 Rose Bowl victory over UCLA in 1954, and Jim Moored, a recent Hope College graduate, are working . . . to cut down the tide of official forms which sometimes engulfs schools officials and teachers."

This department alone prints about a million forms a year. It has its own print shop. That means it has printers. And supervisors. And secretaries. And janitors. And a pension plan.

There's speculation that the reason state buildings had to be reinforced is the sheer weight of paper.

THE HIGHWAY department figures that when the paper used in planning laid side by side equals the length of the freeway; the project is ready to start.

The same formula is used when constructing a state sky-scraper, only the critical meas-ure is weight. A billion-ton building requires a billion pounds of paper. Something like that.

Now the state has hired a former football player (the state didn't say he knows anything about paper) and an aide-since nobody takes you seriously if you don't have an aide or a rubber tree plant-to cut down on paper. work.

The cycle?

First somebody decides government pencil sharpening operations are in need of centralization. It costs maybe $10,000 a year, a hypothetical figure for, the sake of illustration.

Then a director must be hired and he needs a secretary to file the job applications and write reports to his commission. The secretary, of course, needs a desk, typewriter, filing There must be a study made of pencil sharpening, so an expert is hired from another state. He needs assistants to collect and analyze data and write reports to the director which must be rewritten and sent to the commissi sion, then rewritten and sent to the Legislature for printing in the House and Senate Journals.

Equipment - new computer processed sharpeners capable of handling 40 every 11.7 secondsmust be purchased and installed? Requisitions, vouchers, specifications, bids, supporting documents and records. Now the origiinal secretary needs a pool of stenographers.

THERE MUST BE an auditor to keep track of everything from dollars to paper clips. You need paper clips for this purpose, Since clips hold two or more pieces of paper together, you need more paper.

Next you need a personnel man - later a staff for him, too - to figure hourly, weekly, biweekly and annual salaries, insurance and tax withholding, to interview job applicants and make recommendations in five

Now it's in operation - except that the paper work keeps everybody too busy to sharpen pencils. So more people must be hired and placed in a separate section to do this work. The enlarged staff requires more space, so a new building is constructed. Travel is required so a fleet of cars, one truck (panel) and a fork lift truck are FORTY YEARS LATER, when the Bureau of Pencil Sharpening has grown to one of 19 major state departments, the staff now numbers 1,374 and is housed in seven buildings, the cycle is almost complete.

The director, now a $35,000 a year man, figures that to leave his mark on society he must develop a new idea-revolutionary. The only problem left is paper work and that's it.

What you do is hire a football player and give him an aide to eliminate the paper. This will require secretaries, a staff, cars, fringe benefits, insurance, vacation and sick leave time and like that.

Eliminate paper? It would take another 20 years and maybe another bureau just to explain to the employees' association why you're eliminating jobs and depriving people of a livelihood. One, two, three, hike, Mr.

Murphy.

Forty potential sports car racing drivers will begin a three-day course in search of their novice driving licenses Friday, Saturday and Sunday (June 21, 22 and 23) at the Waterford Hills Sports Car Racing track on the grounds of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club, located six miles north of Pontiac on Waterford Road.

The study consists of eight hours of lecture and nine hours driving instruction which involves safety and technical inspection, high speed driving indoctrination, proper braking, entrance and exit from corners, handling in traffic, emergency procedures in the cases of blowouts, brake failure and sticking accelerators. Each candidate, upon completion of the instruction, will take a written and driving examination for his novice license.

The first class will meet at 7 p.m., Friday, June 21. Exercises on the track will be the feature of Saturday's and Sunday's activity.

Meanwhile, preparations for the Sports Car Club of America's Midwest Regional competition on June 29 and 30 are underway. Over 150 entries from Ohio, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Michigan have been received.

June 29's racing program will consist of eight events of 10 laps (15 miles), while the card for June 30 will feature eight races of 20 laps (30miles) for 24 classes of sports cars.

Schoolcraft OKs Contracts For Phys Ed Plant

With the sale of $3.7 million of college building bonds approved by the Board of Trustees to the Bank of Commonwealth on its bid of 5.4654 per cent interest, Schoolcraft College will proceed with plans for construction of its new physical education facility.

The Board approved contracts for the $2.7 million facility with the general contract going to Hyatt Construction Co., of Wayne, on a bid of $1,792,-

The mechanical contract was awarded to John F. McCarthy, of Dearborn, on a base bid of $612,000 and the electrical contract to Fred Moote Electrical Inc., of Pontiac, on a base bid of $297,256.

Kenneth Lindner, vice president in charge of business affairs, recommended the approval of the contracts as the low bidders and the Trustees followed his recommendations.

The proposed building, designed by Eberle M. Smith Associates Inc., architects and engineers, will be one of the finest phys ed educational facilities in Wayne County.

Receipt of signed contracts from three draft choices, including seven-foot center Rich Niemann of St. Louis University, was announced Monday by the Detroit Pistons.

In addition to Niemann, who was picked fourth, Pistons general manager Edwin Coil disclosed that guards Harry Laurie (No. 8) from St. Peters of New Jersey and Vaughn Harper (No. 9) from Syracuse University had agreed to terms.

The trio swells to 11 Pistons, seven of them veterans, who already are in the fold for the 1968-69 season.

Niemann led St. Louis in scoring and rebounding during the past two seasons. He averaged 18.1 and 16.1 points while hauling down 12.3 and 12.6 rebounds.

The 245-pound pivotman was selected to the All-Missouri Valley team as a junior and senior and this past campaign was voted a place on the All American Academic squad.

Niemann was a member of the victorious United States team in the World University Games at Tokyo last summer.

HARPER, a three-year member of the Syracuse U. varsity, teamed with Piston star Dave Bing in his sophomore campaign with the Orange.

Although standing only 6-4. Harper topped Syracuse in rebounding the last two years. He set a school record of 373 grabs as a junior when he ranked 12th nationally. In 1967-68 he gathered 273 rebounds.

Shutouts Ruining Farmington

Farmington American Legion current season, baseball team.

When they do, Farmington should make some headway in the 18th district league, because

One of these bright days the the team has had the pitching batters will get going for the during the early going in its

> Farmington went into this week's play with a record of five defeats and no victories,

observing sports

The most successful in this world are those who capitalize when opportunity knocks. This has to be one of the major reasons why the Tigers are out in front in the American They have been quick, time again, to prosper when the opposition has made the slightest mistake - mental or physical.

There are some who contend the Tigers are "lucky." Could be!

HOW MANY OF US can forget a Green Bay game with the Lions a few years ago. The Lions were leading in the late minutes of play and driving for what certainly would have been a clinching touchdown.

The Lions figured they'd surprise the Packers

The heave was intercepted and the Packers won the game with a field goal in the final few seconds.

Over the years we've watched the Boston Celtics against the Detroit Pistons, one thing has stood out: The Pistons have worked desperately

But let a Piston pass go wild, or a shot bounce wildly off the hoop . . . and boom . . . Boston about faced and in an instant had rifled in a basket.

NOW WE COME to the Tigers.

They're not a power-laden team. The last time we looked the club had a team batting average of something like .229.

Except for pinch-hitter Gates Brown, there was not a .300 hitter on the team's roster.

No. 1 star Al Kaline has been inactive for almost a month and likely won't return until around July 4. Eddie Mathews has been lost with a bad back.

Willie Horton still is in pain, because of that heel ailment which has plagued him for a couple of years. Pitcher Earl Wilson missed two weeks . . . Ray Oyler and others have been hurt at different times.

Yet, the Tigers are thriving — one, because of magnificent pitching; two, because of fine defense, and three, their ability to cash in.

Last week, the Minnesota Twins found out how costly it is to make any kind of a bobble

The Tigers swept four straight from the Twins . . . and in three of the games unearned runs proved the margin of victory for Detroit.

THERE ARE THOSE, however, who criticize the Tigers because of the way they're winning. Telecaster Al Ackerman declared the other

"It's amazing how many people have written to put the blast on the Tigers . . . yes, the very Tigers who have given indications of running away with the American League race."

Maybe, a lot of the fans harbor memories of past Tiger teams in recent years.

Several times the club has been up there,

only to kick away the golden apple.

This isn't to say it couldn't happen again this season. We still have a long time to go.

But one gets the impression that this is a different Tiger team, one that won't fritter away the richnesses that stare them in the face.

During the winter, general manager Jim Campbell declined to make any predictions.

Neither would manager Mayo Smith.

Both spoke in similar terms. They felt that the team learned something from its hectic finish of last season when the Tigers lost out on the pennant on the final day of the season.

WHAT HAVE they learned?

Well, that games won in April and May and June count as much as those won in August and September. In fact, more so. If you have the wins early, it eases the load later on.

Secondly, the Tigers probably have discovered that a little extra hustle on a ground ball or while running toward first can make the difference in winning or losing.

Thirdly, when the opposition provides you with a break, take advantage of it. That's the best time to engineer the knockout punch. Line up now for World Series tickets!

New Spray Kills Tree Fungus Ills

The New York Botanical Garden reports that a new formula spray effectively prevents certain fungus diseases of trees and ornamental plants.

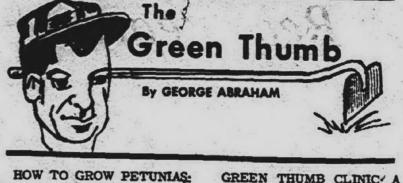

In an experiment on a big horse chestnut tree and two tulip trees, the unsprayed half of each tree showed typical symptoms of leaf blotch, a fungus disease that browns leaves, which die prematurely in rainy seasons. The other halves were free of the dis-

Dr. P.P. Pirone, garden plant pathologist, also reported the spray effective in preventing purple spot on American hollies and controlling fungus diseases in lawns.

THE COMMERCIAL preparation is a coordination product of zinc iron and manganese ethylene dithiocabamate. (It is sold as "Fore," by Rohm and Haas, Philadelphia.)

Care should be used to avoid contact with or inhalation of the spray, which also may harm fish if used near water.

HOW TO GROW PETUNIAS. Some gardeners can grow petunias and have them bloom riotously from spring till fall. Others have their petunias peter out in midsummer. Why the difference? The answers are in the care you give them.

What's the best care? First petunias like a uniform supply water at all times, This doesn't mean you should water them every day. They aren't that fussy. But if you let them get bone dry, petunias get hard and leggy, and go to seed fast, This means fewer blooms on scrawny plants.

I'm often asked if you should snip off the seed pods from petunia plants. If the petunias are growing in a box or planter. I think it's a fine idea to snip off the faded blooms before they

Upright types can be sheared into the shape of an inverted ice cream cone. Some feel these sheared specimens look highly artificial, but at least it's better than allowing the evergreens to grow into jungle.

Fence Highlights Planting Beds

Want to do something nice for your garden? Highlight planting beds with a backdrop of weathered fencing. Rough, silvered wood has a beauty all its own, but it's also one of the finest complements possible for plant materials.

Though new fencing will appear raw, it begins acquiring its silver sheen in just a season, Homeowners can hasten the process by finishing the wood with bleaching oil or a clear water repellent. In sunny yards, the fence will weather more rapidly if sprayed regularly with the garden hose.

For a shaded yard and homeowners too impatient to wait for nature, new fencing can be finished with a single coat of exterior-grade, semi-transparent stain in a driftwood shade. The transition between stained finish and weathering will be barely perceptible.

KEEP THIS WEATHER WORKSHEET - The U.S. Weather Bureau suggests you clip this map, mount it on cardboard, cover with plastic and keep near your radio or television set. It is an actual weatherman's worksheet used to track severe weather and is centered on Detroit. The circles are 20-mile range marks, and the numbers on the 100-mile circle are degree directions. The map provides you a quick reference to where severe weather is occurring as you listen to broadcast bulletins.

Watching Tornado Conditions

By U.S. Weather Bureau Of all the winds that sweep this planet's surface, tornadoes

Tornadoes do their destructive work through the combined action of their strong rotary winds and the partial vacuum in the center of the vortex. As a tornado passes over a building, the winds twist and rip at the outside at the same time the abrupt pressure reduction in the tornado's "eye" causes explosive over-pressures inside the building.

Walls collapse or topple outward, windows explode, and the debris of this destruction is driven through the air in a deadly barrage.

TORNADOES OCCUR in many parts of the world and in all 50 states. But no area is more favorable to their formation than the continental plains of North America, and no season is free of them. The months of greatest frequency are April, May, and June.

They may occur at any hour of the day or night; but because of the conditions which create them, they form most readily between noon and midnight with the greatest concentration between 4 and 6 p.m.

It is not possible to predict the exact time of occurrence of tornadoes, or where they will strike; however, it is possible to identify areas in which weather conditions suggest a high probability of tornado generation. These areas are usually

Congress Race Out For Kuhn

It appears that 19th District Congressman Jack McDonald will have no opposition in the Aug. 6 Republican primary.

His chief potential rival, Pontiac attorney Richard Kuhn. announced Monday he will seek the GOP nomination for Oakland County prosecutor.

An unabashed conservative, Kuhn had considered another run against McDonald if an investigation of alleged voting irregularities in McDonaldis; home bailiwick of Redford Township in 1966 had turned up anything.

Sen. Kuhn Asks 'Stop-Frisk' Law

Recent U.S. Supreme Court approval of New York and Pennsylvania "stop and frisk" laws brought a request from Sen. George W. Kuhn, (R-West Bloomfield) that Gov. Romney and the Legislature open the present session to laws to give people "some assurance of safety in their homes and protection on the streets."

In a letter to Gov. Romney, Sen. Kuhn said "there is no doubt in my mind that this session of the Legislature produced more social legislation than any other in the last decade."

But he said "less can be said for the accomplishments in the area of anti-crime and riot legislation and much more needs to be done."

"Both the House and Senate judiciary committees have been reluctant to push a much needed stop-and-frisk law on the premise that they were awaiting the outcome of the United States Supreme Court decision on this matter," wrote Sen Kuhn "Now that the decision has

Frink Asks Gun Control, Blisters NRA

Gary R. Frink, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 19th District. has called for enactment of gun control measures presently pending in the U.S. Senate.

Frink, speaking to a meeting of the Independence Township Democrat Club, urged those present to support passage of the legislation by writing their legislators.

The 35-year-old attorney also criticized the National Rifle Association (NRA), which has opposed restrictions on gum sales, and "all others who prefer punishment to prevention in matters of crime control.

"During my years in Washington, I saw no more vicious distortion of fact than that employed by the NRA in its fight against gun control," Frinkas-"In the past three months,

Watches are distributed to the public via radio and television gered areas. Law enforcement officers, emergency forces, volunteer observers, and other cooperating personnel are also advised of the watch,

The object of the watch is to alert everyone in and near the area where tornadoes are likely, and to advise them to be ready to seek shelter if a tornado is seen or a warning is issued. People should go about their work as usual, but be alert to the possibility of tornadoes and on the watch for their occurrence.

THE TORNADO WARNING means that a tornado has actually been sighted or its presence has been detected by Radar. Local Lawmakers Poll Voters, But Seem To Color Questions

By TIM RICHARD

When you take a survey, the answers you get may depend on the way you ask

And if you have a reason for wanting the survey to come out a certain way, you want to be all the more careful about the wording.

Take, for example, Marvin Esch, Bill Ford and Jack McDonald, They are survey-takers. They are also members of Congress.

Republican Esch comes from the 2nd District, which includes Plymouth; Ford, a Democrat, from the 15th District, including Garden City and Westland; Mc-Donald, a Republican, from the 19th District, which includes Redford Township, Livonia and Farmington.

They ask their constituents questions about the same topics -- Vietnam, taxes, riots -- but the ways they do it are different. And the results are different.

TAKE RIOTS as a beginner. Asks Mary Esch: "Do you think the government has done enough to avoid riots in our cities?" Naturally, the answer -from the Birchites to the Black Panthers--has to be no, and that's what 78 per cent said. Esch leaves no room for separating the social welfarists from the law-and-order crowd,

Bill Ford? Well, he's a Democrat, hence a little on the defensive on this issue. He didn't ask a riot control question as such, A consistent backer of federal aid. Ford instead wants to know how you feel about "increased federal aid to municipal, county and state police for salaries, equipment and training." (His survey results aren't in yet.)

Jack McDonald asks 'what steps should be taken to stop riots" and provides four options for all shades of opinion.

The results: More money into slums, 5.4 per cent; government jobs, if necessary, for the unemployed, 12.7; a freer programs? On the day The News had to sus-hand for police and troops in the early stages of riots, 49.1; and a tough antiriot law, 32.8.

VIETNAM IS ON everyone's question

Esch cloaks his question in words of care and caution: "Realizing that the war raises many complex questions and problems..." Esch offers four alternate courses of action: "Continue present policy" seven per cent; "immediate withdrawal," 23 per cent; "gradual de-escalation and gradual withdrawal," 34 per cent; "step up military effort," 31 per cent.

(Note the placement of the "hawk" answer at the end. Contrast it to the questions and results announced by the archconservative Richard Durant and his United Republicans of Michigan: "Go all out for victory, including atomic weapons if necessary," 41 per cent; increase the bombing and the targets, but no atomic weapons," 29 per cent and so on.)

Ford asks only if you "approve of the present U.S. policy in Vietnam and Southeast Asia," then leaves two lines for you to tell why not.

McDonald has the most refined question on Vietnam. Asking only "what should we do?" he offers six alternatives, beginning with the "hawk" options first:

"Escalate land war to invade North Vietnam," 9.3 per cent; escalate air and naval war to bomb strategic centers and blockade harbors," 38.1; continue our present course, 5.5; cease fire and try to begin negotiations with the North Vietnamese," 6.1; include the Viet Cong in talks, 24.3; "withdraw immediately," 16.7.

(Note that McDonald, unlike Esch, provides the dovish voters no softly-worded chance for "gradual withdrawal," In his survey, withdrawal is an all-or-nothing proposition.

TAXES GIVE THEM all a chance to Ford and Jack McDonald.

Democrat Ford's question is based only on President Johnson's State of the Union message and, consequently, has no place for the problem of spending. Ford also ties a tax increase (cost) to stopping inflation (henefit) thus: charge (10 per cent of the tax now paid) on individual and corporate income taxes to help combat inflation?"

Ford's results won't be reported until later this month, but it's likely he will find more acceptance of a tax increase in his survey than did either Republicans Esch or McDonald.

esch's question, like Ford's, sticks only to the tax matter: "Do you favor an income tax increase as recommended by the President?" He inserts no arguments about inflation, Esch's response: 20 per cent yes, 75 per cent no, five per cent no opinion.

McDonald typically allows more options: "The President has asked a 10 per cent tax increase to cut the deficit. Which alternative do you favor?

"A tax increase," 4.6 per cent; "substantial cuts in non-essential spending, accompanied by a tax increase," 28.7 per cent; "substantial cuts in non-essential spending and no tax increase," 66.7 per cent.

Is illusion a powerful, sustaining force in life? Isn't facing up to reality a more satisfying manner of accepting life's many vicissitudes and vagaries?

In "Man of LaMancha" these two philosophic themes intertwine at times, separate, and finally clash abruptly as this effectively different musical builds to a smashing climax. "Man Of La Mancha" is at the Fisher for a three week return engagement playing once again to capacity crowds.

"To dream the impossible dream, to fight the unbeatable foe, to right the un-rightable wrong ..." spins through your mind in an endless, melodic fashion long after the lights dim at the Fisher.

Cervantes climbs the long flight of stairs, going to whatever fate the Spanish government will decree, but his hold on illusion and the world of imagination will carry him through whatever punishment comes his way.

"MAN OF La Mancha" is an eloquent musical plea for man's constant need to strive for almost unattainable goals. Although the musical is set in the 15th century, the ideas couched as they are, leap swiftly to our troubled times. Don Quixote and his fight against the windmills quickly fades and is replaced symbolically by the idealistic goals of the civil rights movement.

The brutality and violence of today is reflected in "Man of La Mancha" when the mule drivers in the tavern turn on Don Quixote, The Choreography in this scene and the following

Flowering plants--and those with lots of foliage--require more water than those without blooms or with spare foliage, says the Society of American Florists. By watering your plants faithfully while they are in bud and flowering, and providing light, they will last longer, SAF adds.

erotic rape scene make this musical truly unique. The dancing evolves naturally. Before you realize it, the stage swirls with action and you are caught up in its marvelous maelstrom.

The naturalistic tone and attitude found throughout "Man of La Mancha" is the key to its greatness. No artifice or theatrical trappings bury the charm and impact of this musical. Keith Andes, Natalie Costa, and Tony Martinez handle their leading roles exexpertly and competently.

Spanish author, in a Seville 2 MIMOVII dungeon. Suddenly, you are carried swiftly away on the wings of his imagination to the illusionary world of Don Quixote, the Knight of the Woeful Countenance. The search for the Knight's quest becomes a real, living symbol.

For two hours and 10 minutes you laugh, ponder, and even get misty-eyed at times as Don Quixote, feeble and frail, struggles hopelessly against savage realities of society.

Some folks have wondered why no intermission breaks into the middle of this musical. An intermission would break the magical spell.

It is to the credit of "Man of LaMancha" that the two hour and 10 minutes float by with the rapidity of the usual one hour and 10 minutes of the ordinary musical. When a cal is constructed as care-SONGS AND dialogue blend turns are a competently as and balance perfectly. You meet the attention Cervantes, the improvished 124 of a concervements

No doubt "Man of he Mancha" will be back as often as "Oklahoma" and "Hello, Dolly". It will remain a classic. If you missed it this time, be sure to catch it next time around.

The Meadow Brook Festival, will open its fifth anniversary season Thursday, June 27, at 8:30 p.m., in its setting on the campus of Oakland University.

'Barefoot' Booked At Fisher

> Co-stars screen celebrities Virginia Mayo and Patty Mc-Cormack will share billing with stage stars Jack Mullaney and Lyle Talbot when Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park" plays the Fisher Theatre in Detroit. Monday July 15 until Saturday.

> Virginia Mayo, one of Hollywoods top box office attractions, as Mrs. Banks, will be seen in the comic role of a sedate suburban widow caught up in a wild romance with a charming Hungarian ne'er-dowell, a penniless gourmet she encounters on a visit to her newlywed daughter.

> She is overwhelmed by the continental charmer's determination to feed her exotic foods and to have instant romance. The partner of her escapades, the irresistable deadbeat, is acted by Lyle Talbot (Victor Velasco), veteran of two decades on the Broadway stage.

The comedy, the second of seven consecutive hits by Neil Simon in seven years tells of the hilarious disorders of a pair of newlyweds who are trying to establish a love nest in a draughty walk-up apartment. whose broken skylight admits snowdrifts into the living room.

The bride, Patty McCormack of stage and film fame, plays the role of Corrie, an adorable kook, and has to employ all her loving wiles to convince her serious-minded lawyerhusband Jack Mullaney, Broadway actor, in the role of Paul Bratter, that their flat, despite the five-flight climb to reach it is a bit of Paradise.

Michigan Presbyterians Vote Structural Changes

Delegates to the 134th annual meeting of the Synod of Michigan of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. at Alma College June 12-13 voted to restructure their organization.

The Rev. Herbert S. Schroeder, Saginaw, chairman of the special committee on mission and structure, said the move "is designed to plan and develop strategy for fulfilling the mission of the church within the bounds of the synod, incorporating the greatest simplicity and flexibility possible." The recommendation of the committee to have delegates elected by presbyteries for the annual meetings was defeated by a narrow vote which means the meetings will continue to be "open" with clergy and elders from all individual churches eligible to officially participate. IT WAS VOTED to hold the special reorganization meeting Oct. 16, in Peoples Church, East

In the new plan the General Council will have a department of financial development, personnel development, presbytery development and agency development. The churchmen voted to join Project Equality of Michigan, Inc., and to include $3,000 in the 1969 budget for it. The Synod endorsed a plan for a series of seminars on the Urban and Racial Crisis for clergymen and laymen. It also recommended to local churches that they utilize resources represented by The Michigan Peace

DELEGATES VOTED for the Synod to purchase 120 acres of property nine miles northeast of Lapeer for $100,000 to be used for a camp and retreat

A budget of $395,000 for Synod causes for 1969 was adopted to support Alma College, Presbyterian College Trustee Corporation, Michigan Council of Churches, Christian Education, Psychological and Counseling Services, Project Equality, and a priority item for National Missions.

Cougars Improve In Defeat

Notwithstanding a 4-8 record and losses in six of their last seven games, things are beginning to look a little rosier for the Detroit Cougars soccer team.

The Cougars attracted their biggest crowd of the season when 5,746 turned out to watch their 3-2 reversal at the hands of Chicago last Friday night.

While the setback kept the Cougars in last place in their division, the team turned in its best showing in over a month after falling behind, 3-1.

Jorgen Christensen booted in Detroit's first goal in the first half. Then Roy Cheetham booted in a penalty shot for the second Cougar score.

Chicago resorted to a "shell defense" the rest of the way and was able to ward off Detroit's attempts to tie the game.

THE PRODUCTION provided so much joy to everyone concerned that Mrs. Senob's husband, Carl, a Detroit high school educator, decided to get into the act by composing some incidental music and serving as cameraman.

Mrs. Mary Dumas, of Livonia, has been named to head the project in this area.

She currently is setting up the first workshop for women interested in taking part in the campaign to reduce crime, and said she would announce its time and place shortly.

Plans for the workshop are incomplete, Mrs. Dumas said, but one of the speakers will be recently-elected Livonia Councilman Robert McCann, who has been working as a volunteer youth probation official.

Mrs. Betty Hughes, of Redford Township, one of the group that worked on arrangements, said of the gathering: "We've got a large nucleus,"

The greatest interest, she added. seems to involve the court watching program, in which women will sit in on local court sessions to keep track of the disposition of cases.

COL. DAVIDS, a resident of Plymouth Township, told the group that "if society is to survive, law must be enforced and violators must be punished.

"There is no question," he added, "that halting riots and removing crime from the streets should be the first order of business for the nation."

Besides the projects specifically planned in the women's war, Col. Davids suggested that women could help in the recruitment of good police officers.

"I do all I can to get some of the best young men on the State Police roster," he said, "but I can't draft them or pay

A lady I know used to be amazed at the number of lovely brides in her home town who, according to the pages of her local newspaper, "floated down the aisle."

She reached the point where she hated the term and asked specifically that it be avoided when her own daughter was married. But the message didn't get through, and that pretty bride also floated down the Recalling that incident, she recently decided to figure out a few other ways of getting to the altar (for the benefit of her daughter-in-law, who now writes about quite a few brides). She came up with the suggestion that they trip, skip, waltz, march, glide or harry. Or that they walk sedately, dreamily, proudly, hesitantly, exultantly, majestically or on air.

However they do it, some of the attire worn by brides in these parts is rather fantastic, if one is to believe some of the bridal forms I receive.

The gowns made of peau de soie seem to give the most trouble. I've had it spelled every way from "po de soy" to "po de sloe" and "foie de seau," but my favorite is the bride who wore poi. By my dictionary, that's a Hawaiian dish made from roots and baked, pounded and fermented.

I've also enjoyed the reports of an allusion veil (probably cheaper than one made of net known as illusion) and the brides who have carried orchards. And the one who carried a lovely banquet of carnations! And I'm still trying to figure out the attire of the girl who wore a "pristine perfection" AND a bridal gown.

But I guess brides aren't the only ones who get excited over the big day. The mother of a soon-to-be bride told me she telephoned the club where the reception is to be held and was assured soothingly by the manager:

"Don't worry about a thing. We'll take care of every phrase of it."

She's A Booster For Garden City

One of Garden City's real boosters is its custodian of items historical.

And Mrs. Lewis Wynn has that job sort of by accident. Frances Wynn, a Garden City resident for nine years, has been attending city council meetings regularly for several of them.

"My husband and I used to go together," she said, "but recently he hasn't been well, and after an eight-hour day at work he should stay home. So now I go alone.

'I like to know what the council is doing, and I like to tell him about it later."

HER APPEARANCE in the council room has been so regular that it's not unusual for members to check back with Mrs. Wynn when some point of information is needed on matters under consideration. But until a couple of years ago, Frances Wynn had no official city post. Mayor James Freeh and Mrs. Wynn agreed that her interest in the community and its government should be put to work.

'I have a vacancy on the historial commission," the mayor told her.

"I'd like it," Mrs. Wynn answered. So at that point she started collecting Garden City mem-

She confesses she still feels no great involvement with the pioneer days in the Garden City area.

She has read with interest the booklet put out by the commission before her days as a member. It chronicles early history of the area, and winds up with 1933, when Garden City was incorporated.

"He's a salvage mechanic for General Motors," she said, "and makes out of date parts that are needed for repairs."

Then there are items about the Wynns' activities in local political campaigns, and some about her own involvement with Garden City Muscular Distrophy and cancer drives.

Another prized item is a booklet of the 1968 contest in which daughter Jean, an employe of The Detroit News. submitted one of the top ten recipes for working women.

Jean's main dish recipe was for eggplant polyphony. Now living in Detroit, she attends Detroit Institute of Technology in addition to working.

Reasons Studied For Broken Engagements

By DR. ALFRED J. PRINCE

Approximately one-fourth or more of engagements among young people today do not end in marriage. Why? What reasons do couples give most frequently for breaking their engagement? What are some emotional consequences and adjustive mechanisms associated with the breakup?

The findings reported in this article were obtained from over 500 young men and women in the Pacific Northwest who had broken a "formal" or "private understanding" engagement. The average age of the men was 22, that of the women 20.

The average length of engagement prior to breakup was approximately 14 months for the men and slightly more than 12 months for the women. Some of the couples had been engaged four years or more. THE MOST COMMON reasons for breaking the engagement as given by the young people were: (1) "mutual loss of interest," (2) "I lost interest," (3) "partner lost interest," (4) "separation," (5) "sex," (6) "family pressure," (7) "incompatibility," and (8) "religious conflict."

One young man wrote: "She kept dating another boy after we became engaged, Itold her the next time it happened we were finished. Two months later it happened again. I broke up with her that same night. We never dated each other

"Was I hurt? Yes. In fact, the pain is still there even a year later. I suppose what bothers me most is not knowing why she acted so. I thought she loved me; and I always tried to treat her with respect. Perhaps if I knew why she behaved as she did the breakup would not have hurt me as deeply as it did."

A YOUNG WOMAN wrote:

"My parents objected to the engagement. They felt we were too young to marry. We were both 17 at the tme. My boyfriend resented my parents' interference in what he thought was our own business...

'I am very upset about the breakup. I resented my mother for interfering and blamed her for all the trouble. For several months after the breakup, I felt depressed most of the time. I dated others; but it still took me almost two years to get over

RACE, ATTITUDES, POLICY, ACTION SUMMER SEMINAR

MADONNA COLLEGE Livonia, Michigan 48150 JULY 8-25, 1968 MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY 7:30-9:15 p.m.

"The seminar on RACE, ATTITUDES, POLICY, ACTION aims to give knowledge and theoretical insight into the current racial issues which affect the daily life of all in

"Together, through an open and sincere interaction of participants and seminar leaders, we will try to look beyond the current events in our society in order to better understand the racial tumult in the United States today. It will not be difficult to understand that the Negro revolution is nothing more than the Negro's way of demanding equal opportunities NOW. The young Negro especially who has been exposed all of his life to the teachings of the great American scriptures of democracy, freedom, and equality is no longer willing to wait for his inherent rights. This means an equal opportunity to an education, employment, good housing, and full participation as a responsible citizen in a democratic society. We, therefore, welcome participants from every part of Livonia, Plymouth, Detroit, and the neighboring communities. Together we hope to develop a closer understanding of what we can do to help make our democracy a reality for Today's world of destructive the large building project now upheaval and tremendous change calls men to be spiritual builders.

This appeal from The Christian Science Board of Directors was heard in Boston recently by over seven thousand Christian Scientists, gathered from around the world for the annual meeting of The First Church of Christ.º

The message from the Board of Directors, read by Arthur P. Wuth, its new Chairman, stressed individual effort as the first step in any attempt to help solve the world's ills.

"Poverty, ignorance, war, racial conflict, immorality, civil disorder, mental and physical enslavement exemplify standards torn down, spiritual ideals desecrated, the best of civilization fallen into disuse," Wuth said.

Wuth quoted the disciple Peter: "Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ."

"Lively stone's imply more than building blocks," he continued. "Liveliness denotes action, action resulting from spiritual unfoldment, action that is inspired, rightly motivated, God-supported, God-sustained."

Singling out war and racial conflict as two of the major problems which the church must confront, Mr. Wuth said: "The church must fulfill the requirements of peace by teaching the practicality of the great commandments--love for God and love for one's neighbor. It must teach the allness of God, good, the impersonality of evil, and the ability of the individual, whatever his race or color, to demonstrate this.

"Harmony, order, and peace know no color line. They belong to the spiritual heritage of each individual; and it is the responsibility of church to assert, demonstrate and maintain this standard."

The healing and uplifting work of Jesus, Mr. Wuth said, attested the practicality of spiritual building by means of prayer and inspiration.

Mary Baker Eddy, who discovered and founded Christian Science, taught the need for each individual to contribute to the progress and regeneration of society through spiritual building, he said. Gordon V. Com elected president for the coming year, said that whatever the turmoil of the present times, spiritual values and all the blessings they bring to humanity will survive. 1101 Washington Blvd.

It is commonplace to say that water is essential in all animal and plant nutrition, Still. many people don't think of water as a nutrient, along with substances such as proteins, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, and minerals. Put them all together, however, and addwater, and you have six vital nutrients that we must have to be healthy and to survive.

So let's talk about water! Sea water is, of course, the direct or

SHD Starts Move Into New Offices

LANSING - A vanguard of state employees is moving into the mammoth new $9-million building that is to be the headquarters of the Michigan Department of State Highways.

It is the latest structure to be opened in the $35-million complex of state office buildings being erected just west of the State Capitol.

Measuring 551 by 128 feet, the four-story highway building is half again as long as a football field and two-thirds as wide. It will furnish office space for 1,532 of the Department's approximate 5000 employees.

A Department spokesman said the move should be completed by Aug. 1. It will bring together employees who have been working on five floors of the Mason Building, a stone's throw from the new building across an open plaza, and four other locations in Lansing.

A UNIQUE ASPECT of the move is that it is being performed entirely by department employees. Four six-man crews volunteered for the project, which a high in water content. Henrik E. Stafseth, state highway director, said the second and third floors should be fully occupied by June 17. the first floor by July 1 and the fourth floor by Aug. 1.

Built of concrete, glass and steel, the Highway Building is a near duplicate of the State Treasury Building dedicated recently, but is considerably longer.

Pollution A Problem

According to authorities, water from streams and lakes in mountainous regions is relatively free of organic impurities. Water from springs and wells has been filtered by the earth and is usually free of organic contamination.

Both mountain and spring or well water, however, may contain inorganic salts. Tests reveal the extent. But water from lowland lakes and rivers is these days, I am afraid, highly polluted. And therein lies one of man's biggest current problems, since the vast majority of our water use stems from these lowland sources. Even water originally from the mountains will become contaminated if it flows far enough through lowland country.

Thus, much of our water is poor in color, clarity, and taste or odor, and some of it actually contains chemical wastes, filth, and bacterial growth, Among the most serious water pollutants are the growing amounts of detergents used in homes and industry. Many responsible people are doing their best to solve the problem of water pollution. Every citizen should be concerned.

The human body is composed by weight, of about two-thirds water. Some people have referred to this high water content in the body as "the sea within you." It is composed. literally, of salt water plus other essential substances in

All of the body's chemical processes take place in solution. Thus, water is essential. Some of the water our bodies use each day must be replaced because of water excreted, Several pints a day are used up by your kidneys, bowels, perspiration, and exhaled breath. Wide variations can occur depending upon physical activity, your body temperature, salt balance, illness, or drugs which may cause abnormal loss.

Most city water supplies are now adequately protected against contamination. But you're lucky if you have available cold, clean, fresh, and 21 in the number of private of really good tasting water when

Marriage Doesn't Work; Partners Must Work It

When people say that a mar-"riage is "working well" or ""not working well," they miss "the whole point, says a noted "authority.

"A marriage doesn't work automatically," he says, "You have to work it. And once you understand that it's what you and your partner do--not how , the marriage 'works' -- that determines how happy you will be, you are more than half-- way home to finding the warmth and thrilling joy that only marriage can provide," says a spokesman for The Swedenborg Foundation.

Some people think that youngsters expect too much out of marriage--and are appalled when marriage doesn't measure up to their expectations.

Actually, however, many experts say the opposite is true: people don't realize how great marriage can be, hence they settle for too little.

If they were more demanding in their expectations, they would do more to get the fulfillment they seek.

BLOW OFF STEAM! Psychologists talk about "repression." while laymen use the term, "forget about it." No matter how you say it, it's a hazardous thing to do when it comes to getting over a feeling of being wronged.

A much better idea, the experts say, is to express what's on your mind. Do it gently, do it frankly, and do it at the right time--but get it off your

Almost no one can answer "yes" to questions like these. But by putting questions like these to yourself--regularly, once a week -- you can tip your self off as to the areas in which you might improve!

Citizens Join Clamor Against 'Hard' Pesticides

LANSING -- In recent months, the Michigan Department of Conservation has voiced firm opposition to the continued use of certain persistent insecticides which have seriously polluted our state's environment.

It took this stand only after exacting discussions, and in full expectation that there probably would be some misunderstandings and no small amount of

"Many persons in Michigan have apparently been more disturbed about the threat of these chemicals than we at first believed possible," notes Department Director Ralph A.

THIS CONCERN reared up last fall when the Environmental Defense Fund, a group of publicspirited private citizens, invited 56 Michigan communities into court to stop them from further use of the persistent chemical DDT for Dutch elm disease control.

So far, at least 33 Michigan towns and cities have agreed to stop using DDT in Dutch elm disease control in municipal tree-spraying and park

Much of the "pressure" for this very significant and progressive change came from concern expressed by residents of these communities. "We hope," says MacMullan, "that the remainder will soon join the widening public condemnation of such chemicals."

Of most encouragement to him, however, has been the concern shown by individual citizens and responsible organizations, both in Michigan and throughout the nation.

MOST WHO HAVE written to the department appear to be well aware of the problem. Sensed in their letters is an awakening awareness of the need to arrest the deterioration of man's environment,

"I would like to commend you on your courageous forwardlooking program to prevent further contamination of our environment by the use of hard pesticides," wrote a former agriculture extension worker.

A housewife sent a five-page handwritten letter which starts: "I say Hooray for the coho salmon if it means the end of DDT and other hard pesticides ... " (DDT levels in Lake Michigan salmon have been shown to be dangerously high for reproduction of the coho.)

supporting letters, MacMullan finds much encouragement in Gov. Romney's appointment of a highly qualified three-man statewide policy statement on the further use of pesticides.

Prior to this, the department had supported bills in the State Legislature which would set up a State Pesticide Control Board. Such a board would review all major pesticide uses in the state, and would recommend actions and methods which would control the uses of such chemicals in our environment.

MacMULLAN OBSERVES: "It may take some time to establish such a law, but it may safely be stated that some system of control along these lines is definitely going to be part of Michigan's future."

He stresses: "No one person, or group of people, or industry is responsible for the growing contamination of persistent pesticides --- not the farmer, nor the suburban backyard mosquito fighter, nor the tree sprayers, nor the orchardists, nor the chemical companies, nor the forest products industry, nor any body that chemical companies will of citizens. We are all involved rapidly phase out production of and we are all guilty of past these old, persistent, and excesses."

Prefaced by an appeal for everyone to be "careful" and "responsible" with his thoughts and feelings on this subject, conservation director Besides these and other . makes these six points to clear up misunderstandings on who and what his agency opposes:

Probe Into Secret Of Memory

mysterious of human functions is one we use the most-memory.

Nobody knows exactly how it works and it is possible no one ever will. But the searchers are coming closer.

For several years now, brain scientists have been searching because of experience? for memory traces, the cher is stored. From this search comes evidence that chemical action-synthesis of proteinsis probably required for memory storage; drugs which block protein synthesis also block the acquisition of learning.

But the fact that experience al most certainly alters the chemical structure of the brain does not mean that memory can be found there.

MEMORY IS NOT in the latest thinking, a fixed store of past experience. It is rather adynamic changing process in which, theoretically, the brain's chemical substrate engages in constant computerlike activity and is subject to continuous Scientists maynever find the stuff of which memory is made because it is not composed of material only. It is hidden in the processes as well.

This view of memory was evident at an international conference on the Future of the Brain Sciences here. The conference, third in a series, was sponsored by the Manfred Sakel Institute, N.Y. and the Foundation for Research on the Nervous System, Boston.

State Road Chief Seeks Completion Of Freeways

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Michigan State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth testified here recently that the federal interstate highway program should be completed on schedule so the states can devote their attention to pressing primary, urban and secondary needs.

"We strongly recommend that there be no expansion of the Interstate system . . that by 1975 we should be turning our attention to the so-called ABC federal aid program," Stafseth said in an appearance before a House sub-committee on future of the national highway program.

"With the time, attention and money concentrated on the interstate system, we have not been able to cope with the needs of the total system. We must give our attention to our own state needs once the national arterial needs are fulfilled with completion of the interstate system," he continued.

Stafseth said the interstate program, established by Congress in 1956, has been "spectacular -- without it we could roads which is considering the not begin to accommodate the almost incredible increase in the number of vehicles that are traveling our highways. But these great highways have not been constructed without a serious impact on the total state highway system."

> "THE NEED for additional freeways is evident, but these highways, as well as the upgrading of the existing interstates, can and should be financed with expanded urban and primary funds," according to important aspect of any future a 50-50 basis. national highway program would be continuation of the highway trust fund and that the present level of taxation should be considered as the absolute minimum necessary to support it.

He also urged that the future matching ratio on all federal aid highway projects be identical with 75 percent financing by the federal government and 25 percent by state and local sources. The interstate system is financed 90 percent with federal funds and other

He said that probably the most federal highway programs on the tremendous price increases

HE REJECTED a proposed two-thirds, one-third ratio, stating that it would necessitate an additional two-cent increase in the Michigan gasoline tax. Stafseth said the 75-25 ratio would provide the states with more flexibility in use of federal funds and in meeting

"All states have this need for flexibility," he said, "I am sure you are well aware of highway needs on a priority

which have occurred over the past several years. These increases have not occurred in just construction, but are to be found in every phase of highway endeavor.

"This is especially so in the maintenance function where five years ago we spent $24 million, today the bill is $34 million and 10 years from now we expect it will cost about $51 million.

"Rising costs coupled with the need for money to match federal apportionments will leave us without the ability to the effect of these facilities carry on Michigan programs or the ability to borrow money because there is no flexibility in the fiscal program to allow for additional debt service," he

Stafseth also urged creation of a metropolitan federal aid system, administered by local authority, to cope with "many unresolved problems" in urban

"If we are to continue with the necessary highway transportation facilities and systems in the cities, we must recognize upon people and society -- we must go beyond what we are doing now," he said.

Bare Job

ANN ARBOR -- The manager who says "jews are pretty much alike" or "you can tell a person is Jewish by his physical appearance" is a good bet to practice discrimination in hiring and promotion.

Such attitudes, a University of Michigan study team suggests, are symptomatic of real prejudice--conscious or otherwise-and of the intention to discriminate against Jews or other minority groups.

Personnel decisions of managers who express such beliefs ought to be reviewed with particular care by superiors who intend to carry through a policy of equal opportunity employment, the research team's report maintains.

EVEN WHEN a corporation seeks to keep its executive employment and promotion practices nondiscriminatory, the report warns, such a policy can easily be thwarted by key men in its own ranks. Simply announcing equal opportunity policies is not enough.

Discrimination in employment or promotion practices can usually be predicted, but if it is to be controlled, management must constantly emphasize that it means business. not just lip service, about equality, the researchers add.

Robert P. Quinn, Robert L. Kahn, Joyce M. Tabor, and Laura K. Gordon are the authors of "The Chosen Few: A Study of Discrimination in Executive of the U-M Institute for Social Research Center of the U-M Institute for Social Research.

tinues, "the company itself is characteristically accused of available--made to resemble being 'discriminatory,' and in a sense it is."

Discrimination is neither a wholly individual nor a wholly organizational matter because, as the report explains, "Acts of discrimination are com- a welcome mat, It clues visitors mitted by individuals, but by as to what kind of people you individuals in organizational positions."

THE STUDY, one of many conducted on large scale organfzations, looked at some of the reasons for discrimination. The researchers focused on three sets of possible influences: the individual executive's knowledge of company personnel policies and practices: social pressures that may prompt him to deviate from stated company policy; and beliefs, attitudes, and personality traits that may predispose an individual toward discrimina-

In general the study revealed that executives having direct access to top management understood personnel policies much better than those executives who had no such access. And where executives were unclear about their companies' hiring and promotional policies, they tended to fall back on their own basic attitudes. Anti-Semitic attitudes were least frequent among the most highly educated managers.

To combat discrimination where it is found to exist, the report suggests, calls for three weapons: a commitment to solve the problem; an understanding of its scope and sources; and a change in appropriate both to the problem and to the particular situation. The researchers emphasize that although the study deals with opportunities for Jewish executives, its implications extend to other minority groups in much the same way.

Denmark and the market is expected to zoom even higher in June when a law goes into effect easing what once were strict regulations on written pornography.

The porno-producers are aiming for expansion in the export market. Their products already are being printed in many languages.

The man who gives trading stamps has 15,000 mail order customers.

Ninety per cent of these customers are from Germany and 99 per cent of them all are male customers," he said.

HE SUPPLIES customers with a catalogue from which they can choose a wide variety of magazines, photographs, 8mm movies in black and white or color, slides and books, He also turns out an international circular in which his customers can advertise their secret desires. Women advertise free and the average response is 400 letters per ad.

"If we can sell it, it must be because there is a market for it," said another porno-produc-

Profits in the business are handsome. A magazine that costs the equivalent of 13 cents to produce brings a return of 15 times that much.

Denmark's photographic pornography leaves little to the imagination and garishly outrivals the stuff peddled by back street vendors of former times.

One porno merchant said: "In the old days we got our material from France and Germany, but now the photographers at Montmartre and Reberbahn back out. The competition from Denmark is too

Release U-M Chemical Mace Research Findings

Mace can be used with com- as blinking, eye closure, breath parative safety as a weapon to incapacitate a person temporarily if certain precautions are taken, says Dr. Maurice H. Seevers, chairman of the University of Michigan department of pharmacology.

He reported that if the controversial spray is used properly, there is no danger to a person's eyes or other organs or tissues.

A pharmacologist renowned for his investigations on drug dependence. Dr. Seevers has completed testing the controversial spray on monkeys and rabbits in department laboratories at the U-M Medical School. The research was undertaken at the request of Ann Arbor City officials after local police suspended use of the weapon. U-M investigators included instructor Julian E. Villarreal, M.D., and research associate Ian F. MacLeod, D.V.M., of the department of pharmacology.

DR. SEEVERS cited three provisions for the safe use of Chemical Mace to incapacitate persons:

1 - The recipient must be alert, in possession of his nor-

2 - The spray is directed at him from such a distance that his reflexes can be brought into play.

3 - The total duration of the spray is limited to the minimum required to be an effective incapacitant.

Dr. Seevers said that "severe, long-term and possibly permanent ocular damage may occur if the cornea of the eye is exposed directly to Chemical Mace in liquid form, Such exposure resulting from discharge of the canister would, in our opinion, constitute misuse of the weapon."

SUCH DAMAGE, he pointed out, could occur if:

1 - The chemical spray weapon were discharged directly into the eye or face at very close range in normally reactive persons.

2 - There were prolonged discharges at any effective distance into the face of an already incapacitated person.

3 - Large quantities were discharged in a confined space such as a small room or a closed automobile.

Dr. Seevers suggested that of application." officers responsible for using its proper use and the potential hazards of indiscriminate use or accidental misuse.

"The manufacturer would be well advised, if the firm has not done so, to prepare a brochure describing proper methods of use and the potential hazards of misuse," he assert-

"The use of all antipersonnel weapons involves a calculated risk," he said. "The long history and the extensive use of chloroacetophenone (tear gas) as a temporary incapacitating agent in the control of riots throughout the world since World War I, the minimal injury reported in the world medical literature even under conditions which have undoubtedly involved indiscriminate use or misuse of this agent, indicate the risk to be quite small, and in most instances negligible, in comparison with conventional weaponry."

Dr. Seevers said there is no scientific evidence to support the view that significant bodily effects on the nervous system or other organs, other than the psychological responses to being incapacitated. are induced by Chemical Mace, "even by exposures which could produce serious injury to the eye, skin or mucous membranes."

It is, he said, almost exclusively in the tear gas component of the spray that "the irritant effect of Mace occurs on the eye and probably on all other tissues."

"The solvent and propellant fractions have been eye-tested individually by several investigators and found to be noninjurious."

Dr. Seevers said that control studies in the Medical School laboratory using Training Mace, which is the Chemical Mace formulation lacking only tear gas, produced only minimal and transient irritation to rabbits' eyes.

IN THE PAST, delivery of tear gas has relied largely on the use of explosive charges to propel and vaporize the solid chloracetophenone. Past medical records indicate that flame, forceable penetration of tissues by solid choracetophenone, gun wadding, and powder are the principal causes of any tissue damage.

The U-M scientist pointed out that aerosolization to dispel the chemical in minute droplets improves controllability of dosage and safety. The delivery of chloracetophenone by aerosol techniques requires the use of organic carrier solvent, since it is insoluble in water, Dr. Seevers said.

"The choice of solvents in the formulation of Mace is fortunate since all are of negligible toxicity for man in the amounts which could conceivable by absorbed from the lung or skin in the use of the weapon," he

If you are in quandary about a barberry of privet hedge, or a planting of rose fence, then total pruning is one way to remove all the old wood, without killing the plants.

If you leave two inch stumps these plants will soon produce new shoots to become an attractive new plant. Total pruning is most effective just before new leaves and shoots develop. Plants like forsythia and honeysuckle will also respond to total pruning, but the pruning should be delayed until after bloom. Whichever plant you prune, or experiment with, be careful not to restrict the new shoots until midsummer.

Modest pruning after spurt of growth will improve shape and beauty without stimulating too much late summer growth and the risk of winter injury.

With that in mind, the Peoples Community Hospital Authority's Board of Directors recently approved "in principle" a computer feasibility study which, if used to a large extent, could save money for the PCHA.

Dr. Karl S. Klicka, executive director of the authority, which includes Garden City and Westland, said:

"ONE THINKS FIRST of a hospital as a place of healing but it is also a very complicated, highly refined business operation involving payroll, census reporting, patient accounting, accounts payable, inventory control, personnel reporting, and financial accounting."

In a typical 300-bed hospital, for example, computers turn out literally dozens of reports daily, each containing figures that, if manually computed, would have taken weeks to obtain.

Pressure for such speedy reports is mounting, particularly since the advent of the federal Medicare program, he

Other results indicate information programs on health hazards may be a waste of time. Few of the children were unaware that smoking is dangerous to lungs and heart.

Smoking withdrawal clinics at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, achieved only a 17 per cent cure among 1,800 volunteers from 1964 to 1966, Dr. Charles A. Ross, chief of thoracic surgery, reports. In the withdrawal program, which employed a combination of education and drugs, men were more successful in breaking the habit than women. Among the men, those over 40 were more successful than younger ones.

Dreaming Vital For Sleeping

Are you sleeping more than usual and still waking up feeling as though you haven't had a good night's rest?

If you are, it's possible that you're not dreaming enough. Sleep research has revealed that dreaming is important to your feeling of well-being.

Scientists have found that about 90 minutes after falling asleep, a person develops brain wave patterns similar to those he produces when awake. He shows rapid eye movements that look as though he might be reading.

DURING this period the sleeper is most likely to be dreaming. After about 10 or 15 minutes, he drifts again into what the experts believe is the deepest stage of sleep. The cycle is repeated several times during the night.

Scientists have found that a person who is deprived of this dreaming of REM (rapid eve movement) phase of sleep may not feel well, may be irritable, and, over a longer period, may suffer even more unpleasant

So if you wake up tired after a full night's sleep, perhaps you're being deprived of your dream phase.

The trouble could be that you're fighting an old, lumpy mattress instead of relaxing as you should.

People usually buy air conditioners because they want to live or work in comfortable temperatures during hot weather. Yet temperature control is only part of the total indoor comfort package delivered by air conditioning. It also removes excess moisture from muggy summer air, provides air circulation and cleans the air by removing dust, odors and bacteria.

William H. Mullin, Chief Air Conditioning Engineer, Philco-Ford Corporation, told the National Home Appliance Conference recently that, "Mrs. Consumer is well aware of the advantages of being comfortable and is expecting these advantages from her air conditioner. But does she realize that she will also have a quieter, cleaner house, requiring less frequent dusting, less washing and scrubbing of shades, woodwork and floors, and that her furniture, rugs, draperies and clothing will stay fresh and clean longer, thus reducing cleaning

bills?"

A SURVEY by the DuPont Company has shown that people who have air conditioners eat and sleep better. By eating a more balanced diet and maintaining their proper rest, these people are enjoying healthier, happier lives. Allergy sufferers are benefited by removal of pollen and dust from home

Research done by the Haskel Laboratories of the DuPont Company has also shown that physical tasks performed at 100 degrees require 50 per cent more energy than the same tasks performed at 75 degrees. Tasks performed in air-conditioned homes and offices take less physical effort and so are less tiring. By reducing fatigue, air conditioning permits a homemaker to work longer at top efficiency. This results, either in her getting more work done or in her taking less time for household chores and having more time for other activities.

Families living in air conditioned homes report that they spend more time together at home because they have less needed to escape to air-conditioned restaurants, theatres and clubs. Because of improved dispositions they say that family harmony is maintained.

THE MAJORITY of room air conditioners are made for mounting in a double-hung window. But there are models for casement and sliding windows as well as for permanent through-the-wall installation. Many start their air conditioning experience with a portable unit which they take home and install themselves. Manufort of one air conditioned bedroom often leads to a completely air conditioned house or apartment.

Cooling capacities in room air conditioners range from 4,000 to 36,000 BTU's. It is thus obvious that a "room" air conditioner is not limited to use in one room. Units of large capacity can serve a living area, an upstairs sleeping area or even an entire house or apartment.

The consumer who purchases a heat pump air conditioner can have both heating and cooling. During the reversed cycle, heat is removed from the outside air and pumped into the room. If greater heating capacity is needed, there are models

Urge Air Conditioner For Better Eating, Sleeping

MULLIN EMPHASIZED that the purchaser of an air conditioner must provide the proper electrical facilities. Some units may be used on the same circuit with other light electrical loads, while others need their own electrical circuit. He also pointed out that extra-quiet units, desirable for bedroom installation, require the use of larger coils than standard models, larger and slower speed fans, and sometimes larger compressors.

Before purchasing a room air conditioner, the consumer should check the "Cooling Load Estimate Form," published by

Minute Strands Reduce Repairs For Houswife

Homemakers are giant steps closer to home appliance Utopia.

The silver lining that glimmers on the horizon is threaded with gold – the tiny strands that go into the "integrated circuits" that are scheduled to revolutionize major home appliances

For one thing, you can kiss the appliance service boys goodbye. They won't be necessary when the ICs," integrated circuits, begin to police appliances — within the next three years, says F. Rydor Amthor, product planning director, Consumer Group, Westinghouse.

It isn't that people don't like servicemen - it's the fuss, expense and inconvenience of it

BUT NOW the "ICs" will take over, tidying the mysterious innards of washing machines, television sets and other appliances so that complaints can be registered on a trouble board.

ICs are already performing such feats in laboratories, and have been used in space craft programs. They will go to the moon in a camera and to sea in a sonar submarine — detection system.

They are an outgrowth of a U.S. Air Force and Westing-house venture in molecular electronics that was begun in 1958. Now larger chunks of the output will be released to industry and consumer.

"When a television set requires servicing, a light will go on or off indicating which circuit board is at fault. It can be removed, taken to a store and exchanged for a new one," Anthor explains.

FOR EXAMPLE, the present

Mover's Liability Increased On All Interstate Moves

The extent of a mover's liability on household goods being moved interstate is 60 cents per pound per article. That's double what it was a year ago, but it's still not enough to cover replacement of valuable for this reason, Aero Mayflower Transit Company urges its shippers to purchase extended coverage.

For such extended coverage, up to the full value of the shipment, the owner of the goods pays 50 cents for each $100 valuation. However, he may not set the value of his total shipment at less than $1.25 per pound of the shipment.

Computed on the basis of a 4,000 pound shipment, the average of Mayflower's 125,000 long-distance moves in 1967, you must place a valuation of at least $5,000 on the shipment and pay $25 for the increased coverage. A still higher valuation can be placed on the shipment at a correspondingly higher premium. In the event of loss or damage, however, reimbursement is made on the basis of the higher valuation.

mechanical control on a clothes washer out of warranty costs about $35 to replace because of its complexity, he points out.

"But if we could use a simple timer, inserting an integrated circuit board for the time of the cycle we want, we could make the unit dependable and flexible."

Washing machine service problems have decreased in recent years so although the washing machine will be simpler to integrate than television sets, the video unit will get priority because of its universal acceptance.

"That's what really makes this an evolution," explains Amthor, "the ability to combine complex circuits in a small area and do it cheaply. This can be done either with a chip (silicon about the size of a letter o) of hybrids, a combination of chips and thick and thin film circuitry "

We have come a long way in the progression from radio's vacuum tube, the first step in controlling the flow of electronics in electrical circuits.

THERE ARE the transistors and solid state devices such as one finds in many radios, phonographs, small and large appliances. The new integrated circuits combine advantages of transistors — long life and low cost — with compactness, an IC with its transistors, resistors, capacitors, diodes and connecting wires can go into a space that is smaller than that required by a single transistor.

It's a happy thought that we will never run out of the silicons — rocks and sand from beaches.

But will women get these space-age appliances when they are marketed?

For example, women seldom buy dishwashers, points out Amthor. They have some sort of guilt feeling about the whole thing. But when they move into a home that has all major appliances and they are asked which is the last they would give up, it is the dishwasher.

So, they are dependent on the builder's choice of appliances. Right now, there are controls in transistor and solid state applications in major appliances that minimize repair problems but "70 per cent of electrical major appliances are bought by builders, who choose minimum cost items," points out Amthor.

This may even be the situation when these spectacular space-age appliances are

And as homemakers know, appliances get costly when they bog down with use and require constant servicing.

Paris Tower Gets Sabbatical Painting

up one day soon and find the dark-brown Eiffel Tower has turned red. It happens once in every seven years.

The tower's red coat is-unfortunately in the opinion of some--only a brief springtime fling. As summer comes, so will the red begin to disappear and the brown to take

PAINT FOR the tower that has loomed over the French capital since 1889 is custommade. Jean Dieny, the Eiffel's technical director, spent many hours looking over different shades of brown before making his recommendations to Maur-The color change is part of ice Doublet, Prefect of Paris and the man with the final word. The goal of Doublet and Dieny round variations of climate, as well as under the powerful floodlights that brighten the Eiffel every night. The color must also blend well with the tower's surroundings--classic Parisian buildings tall trees and

Apart from color specifications, Dieny explained, the paint must have an acceptable oil base and be "supple enough to follow the movements of the iron in the tower (which sways as much as 6.3 inches in an 87mile-an-hour wind)."

About 30 painters will splash more than 77,000 pounds of the paint on the structure before the job is done. Workmen assigned to the task must be found to have no fear of heights, the director noted. No special scaffolding is erected for the job and the men must dangle from ropes to dab into every corner of the 1,050-feet-high tower's metal

In order to accommodate the 2 1/2 million people who annually visit the tower, it remains open throughout the painting.

DESPITE ITS slight sway the Eiffel Tower, according to Dieny, "is in just as good shape today as the day it opened in 1889." It was designed by French engineer Gustave Eiffel for the Champs de Mars World's Fair that year on the city's Left Bank.

Nowadays the tower is used to transmit television signals, and it contains two swanky restaurants and a private apartment. But its main purpose is still as a tourist attraction. Dieny estimates that more than 60 million people have visited the Eiffel in its 79-year history. It is owned by the city of Paris and in recent years has made a profit of about $300,000

Dieny displayed eight shades of brown paint that were examined. To the unpracticed eye they seemed all to be just about alike. But the UPI reporter did get an advance tip: The Eiffel Tower will be just the tiniest bit lighter in color for the

Atmosphere Aids Dining Appetite

Sit-down dining has been making a welcome return. With all the world of difference between dining and just plain eating, it is important to create an atmosphere that aids the appetite and pleasant conversation at the same time. Whether your table finds its way into the living room or enjoys the luxury of a room of its own, it can be gracefully restoring social dignity to the family

The dining room used to be the easiest room in the house to decorate. It was also often the dullest. Happily this is far from the case today when the dining room can often be one of the most exciting, most individualized areas in the home.

Even if your dining room is only an L-shaped extension of the living room or a windowless entrance foyer, it can be enlivened by imaginative backgrounds, cheerful color schemes and interesting acces-

CERTAIN ELEMENTS like mirrors, chandeliers and sconces remain delightful in any dining room, and inexpensive but authentic reproductions like a dramatic sconce with nine candles to set its crystal beads a-shimmer, are certainly within even a modest budget.

A handsome area rug or a distinctive wallpaper will go a long way to transform the stuffy and starched look typical of formal treatments of the past.

After creating any style you want from a banquet hall to an indoor gazebo by attention to the details of comfort, color, lighting and accessories, the focal point still remains the basic elements of the table and

HOUSE-OWNERS with real dining rooms can indulge in the grander styles of tables, a slick slab of modern teak or the graceful and elliptical styles with curving, cabriole legs, Apartment-dwellers, without a room reserved only for dining, can have the same feeling of luxury in the grand manner with a table which starts for two, but which can be expanded with extra leaves for party situa-

Good Year For State Conservation Legislation

makers have chalked up another outstanding year for conservation by passing more than 25 bills relating to water pollution abatement, recreation development, pesticide control, and other facets of natural resource use and management,

In addition to these approved measures, several others are still on the calendar awaiting final action as the 1968 session of the State Legislature heads down the home stretch,

STILL ALIVE, but not yet passed were:

HB 3347, the Conservation Department's operating budget bill. This apparently will have to go to conference committee to iron out differences between Senate and House versions, The House first approved a total budget of $30.6 million. The Senate later passed a substitute calling for $775,000 less. The House declined to go along with the Senate substitute, thereby setting the stage for a conference between representatives of the two chambers.

HB 3917, to give the Conservation Department authority to regulate the commercial fishing industry. The bill has passed both houses, but with differences which will have to be resolved. The legislation is in-

Although retirement is basically a period of relaxation and enjoyment, like any new situation it presents its own problems. Chief among these is balancing the hudget. According to a survey taken by the U.S. Department of Labor, older people spend proportionally more than younger people on housing and household operations, health care and food purchased for home

Another problem may be what to do once you've retired. There are organizations of retired people around the country who offer special courses and leisurely sight-seeing trips. You could develop an interesting hobby-one you never had time for previously -or start a small business of your

Before starting any business venture, however, check with your lawyer. If you must sign a contract or rent expensive equipment, consult him, for there may be hidden expenditures of which you may not be aware. At this time, it's also a good idea to update your will.

Because retirement means planning for the future as well as the present, women in the know understand the necessity of checking now with their Traveler's man to make sure their families have proper life insurance coverage. Remember, a happy and carefree retirement is up

Sportsman Show

Goes Statewide

"The Michigan Sportsman" becomes a statewide television program on July 3 when it makes a debut on WNEM-TV, Ch 5, Bay City.

The program began in 1966 on WXYZ-TV Detroit. It will be available to an estimated 90 per cent of state television viewers on a five-station hookup. It is carried at 6:30 Saturday evenings in Detroit and 7:00 p.m. Wednesdays by the four upstate stations. Already receiving the program are stations serving Kalamazoo, Cadillac and Sault Ste. Marie.

Name Campbell WXYZ President

The American Broadcasting Company announces the appointment of John E. Campbell as president of WXYZ-TV's Owned Stations Division. John J. McMahon will leave as vice-president and general manager of WXYZ-TV to assume Campbell's job on the west coast.

Dean McCarthy will return to Detroit as general manager of WXYZ-TV after spending six months as program director for WBKB-TV Chicago.

> HB 3978, to authorize a statewide Nov. 5 referendum on a proposal to issue $100 million worth of bonds for recreation purposes. Each house has passed a bill by the necessary two-thirds vote, but again there are differences to be resolved. A companion measure authorizing a referendum on a $335 million bond issue for water pollution control has already > been approved. HB 2197, to rename the Department of Conservation as the "Department of Natural Resources," This measure has passed both houses but amendments by the Senate require action by the House.

BILLS APPROVED during this year's session include:

SB 806 -- Authorizes township boards to spend township funds for tourist promotion, SB 807 -- Prohibits importation of fish or fish eggs into Michigan without a Conservation Department permit, This protects against introduction of undesirable species.

SB 808 -- Corrects an oversight in the law allowing Armed Forces personnel officially stationed in Michigan to purchase resident hunting and fishing licenses, by specifying that Air Force and Coast Guard personnel are included.

SB 809-- Permits the Conservation Commission to join with other states in establishing uniform fishing regulations for the Great Lakes.

SB 810 -- Makes it illegal to catch fish solely for the purpose of taking their eggs. This will stop the practice of catching female steelhead trout, stripping their eggs and returning them to the water. Unless done by an expert, this injures or kills the fish, returning them to the water. Unless done by an expert, this injures or kills the fish,

SB 898 -- Makes those stateowned lands in northern Michigan which have been purchased by the Conservation Department (but not those obtained through tax reversion) subject to payments in lieu of taxes based on assessed valuation, rather than flat 20 cents per acre. It is estimated that 673,000 such acres will be "taxed" at about $700,000, payable by General Fund appropriation, Southern Michigan lands already are "taxed" according to assessed 939 -- Increases the agent's fee on hunting licenses from 15 to 25 cents, by adding a 10-cent service charge to the cost of the license. The Conservation Department will get the same amount of revenue from the license as before.

SB 960 -- Gives the Water Resources Commission authority to regulate filling, grading and other uses of the flood plains, channels or beds of streams. This is intended as both a flood control and pollution prevention measure.

HB 2571 -- Strengthens the Inland Lakes and Streams Act by making it illegal to dig a ditch or channel connecting to an existing waterway without a permit. This is intended to control canal-type real estate developments.

HB 2621 -- Provides a simpler way for determining the "ordinary high water marks" of the Great Lakes, This will make it easier for lakefront owners to know where they can

Executives Hail AMC's Car Comeback In 1967

ANN ARBOR -- American Motors' appointment of advertising agency Wells, Rich, Green, Inc. and business' involvement in inner-city problems were judged the two best business decisions of 1967 by businessmen voting in a University of Michigan survey.

Inflationary contracts signed by auto companies and the United Auto Workers and the prolonged strike in the copper industry were rated as the worst decisions or acts.

The five best and five worst decisions of the year were determined by polling 1,800 business executives. Prof. David L. Lewis conducted the poll for the Bureau of Industrial Relations, part of U-M's Graduate School of Business Administration.

THE APPOINTMENT of chic Mary Wells' agency was rated the top decision. The agency's swinging, brash comparison advertising was credited by survey participants with changing AMC's "loser-economy car-Aunt Martha" image to that of a comeback-minded manufacturer with dash and pizzazz.

The advertising, along with the introduction of the Javelin sports car and the election of Roy D. Chapin to the chairmanship, also was given major credit for AMC's return to profitable operations and its renegotiation of $60 million worth of bank loans in the last quarter of 1967. In recent months the company has increased its sales and market penetration over year-ago levels and has moved up a notch, from tenth to ninth place, in the automotive sweepstakes.

Decisions by many companies to recruit, train, and hire the hard-core unemployed, to "adopt" high schools attended mostly by Negroes, and to join coalitions to deal with ghetto and urban problems were regarded as the second best business moves of 1967.

"Business acted wisely," typically noted one executive, "in trying to provide special help for the urban Negro." "Business' involvement in innercity problems," echoed another respondent, "made sense from every standpoint. Businessmen are better equipped than anyone else to deal with unemployment in the ghetto--and helping the poor and untrained to help themselves will benefit everyone--whites and blacks, the cities in which they live, and long range, the participating companies themselves."

ROUNDING OUT the list of five best business decisions were the merger of McDonnell and Douglas Aircraft, the signing of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, and the merger of North American Aviation and Rockwell-Standard

The consolidation of McDonnell and Douglas in May 1967 joined the nation's 66th and 73rd largest industrial firms, in terms of sales. The merger was effected after Douglas-which had failed to maintain sound cost controls--lost $27.5 million in 1966 and needed a staggering $350 million to remain solvent, despite a $3 billion backlog of orders.

The formation of McDonnell Douglas Corp., noted survey participants, gave Douglas a financial and managerial shot in the arm. It gave McDonnell. builder of spacecraft, military aircraft, and guided missiles, with greater product diversification. The combined company, off to a wobbly start in mid-1967, finished the year on a strong note, earning $13.5 million on record fourth-quarter pro-forma sales of $961 million.

The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) was signed by 46 nations in mid-1967, after five years of negotiations. The most sweeping trade liberalization accord in history, the agreement affects about 70 per cent of the free world's dutiable imports. Tariffs on two-thirds of these imports will be reduced, in stages, by 50 per cent or more by 1972. The treaty applies to more than 6,000 items--with an annual value of $8 billion-imported by the U.S.

The agreement was hailed by businessmen as a treaty which will directly benefit American consumers and, over signatory nations. Many survey participants predicted that the the long run, greatly benefit accord will sharply spur world America itself, along with other trade within the next decade.

TVA Celebrates 35th Anniversary

WASHINGTON -- To people TVA was formed, and six are the world over, the initials TVA owned by the Aluminum Co. of stand for a special kind of economic progress.

The government-owned Tennessee Vally Authority generates power, provides flood control, produces fertilizer, aids navigation, and conserves natural resources.

The famous New Deal agency celebrates its 35th anniversary

Preisdent Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the TVA into existence on May 18, 1933, as "a corporation clothed with the power of government, but possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise.

The fledgling agency's first assignment was to construct a system of dams and reservoirs to promote navigation and control destructive floodwaters on the Tennessee River and its

THE REGION DOMINATED by the Tennessee seemed beautiful but condemned, People lived at subsistence levels on farms that were almost too poor to suffer from the hard times. Only three homes in a hundred had electricity.

River freight was mostly sand and gravel. Fires had ravaged forests; floods eroded the soil. To check the blight, TVA built 20 dams in 20 years. Almost 200,000 people took part in the colossal project, The 113 million cubic yards of material used in the structures measured 12 times larger than the bulk of Egypt's seven great pyramids.

The system now includes 41

dams. Some were built before

American and operated by TVA. Two additional major dams will be added to TVA in the 1970s. TVA BROUGHT NEW LIFE to a river basin encompassing seven states -- Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Private investment in new or expanded waterfront industrial plants and terminals in the region has reached a value of $1.5 billion since 1933.

Dams on the Tennessee River mainstream were built high enough to fill interconnecting navigation channels adequate for nine - foot - draft vessels. Barge traffic soared from 33 million ton-miles in 1933 to more than 2,6 million in 1967.

All the major dams produce electricity and, since 1949, big steam plants have increased capacity. More than 26.7 million tons of coal kept the steam generators humming in 1967, making TVA the biggest single coal consumer in the nation.

TVA QUALIFIES as the largest American utility, too. In 1967 it generated 88 billion kilowatt-hours for a network that serves 1.9 million consumers in an 80,000-square-mile area, To meet the growing demand for electricity, TVA has an order or under construction five new nuclear and three steam-generating plants.

Navigation and flood control take priority over power production, however. Floods which have occurred along the Tennessee mainstream since the dams were built have been relatively harmless.

well-Standard into North American Rockwell Corp. in September 1967 meshed the country's 30th and 123rd biggest industrial companies. Survey respondents saw the merger as a sound move toward diversification by the two companies, which together annually produce more than $2.4 billion worth of space gear, aircraft, missiles, automotive components, and textile machinery. Turning to the worst decisions of the year, the businessmen noted that the three-year auto settlement provided annual wage and benefit increases of six per cent. "The auto contracts," observed one survey participant, "have had and will continue to have a reverberating inflationary effect on the economy." "These agreements," said another, "lit a fuse for similar ambitious demands in other industries-demands rarely matched by gains in productivity. When such demands are met, everybody

Many businessmen were as critical of the auto companies' failure to close ranks as they were of union demands themselves. "The Big Three," said one executive, "allowed the UAW to whipsaw them into signing inflationary settlements; by uniting they could have withstood union pressure and dampened the wage-price spiral." THE MERGER of North The copper strike began on July 15, 1967, over union demands for higher wages, improved benefits, and companywide bargaining with common contract expiration dates, Sixty thousand members of 26 unions closed mines of the industry's Big Four in 22 states.

> The strike, as many survey participants noted, dealt a halfbillion-dollar blow to the nation's balance of payments, severely jolted the economy of several Western states, and forced hardship upon almost everyone connected with the industry. "It's difficult to see," said one executive, "how anyone--miners or company stockholders--can benefit from this strike action,"

THE MARATHON dispute. longest in the copper industry, was settled in March 1968, Miners won a 40-month contract calling for wage-benefit increases of nearly nine per cent, but did not obtain companywide contracts with uniform expiration dates. The University of North Carolina reports that the wasp attacks and destroys the beetles that spread the fungus causing Dutch elm disease.

The beetles carry the spores of Dutch elm disease and infect and small branches. Chemicals help control the beetles but they do not reach all danger spots on the trees. But the female wasps thrust their egg-laying organs

Mr. Rich praised efforts of hearing aid dealers in this campaign and in their continuing endeavors to help the hearing handicapped in the United States. He pointed out that many persons in this country suffer from impaired hearing. yet are reluctant to seek help for their problems elm wood before beetles appear in the spring.

Applying dormant spray is another way to fight Dutch elm disease, DDT should be applied in the fall after the leaves drop. A windless day during a dry spell is good for spraying. Spring spraying should be done before buds open.

A PRINCIPAL feature of community control programs is designation of an area for public and private use to dispose of wood infected by the beetles. Infested wood dumped in lots and elsewhere permits the insects to inoculate healthy trees the next year.

Tree owners should make an inspection tour in November. Dead leaves at the tips of branches and the shepherd's crook curvature of twigs are signs of Dutch elm disease. Other signs of infestation are "shot" holes in the bark where adult beetles emerged last summer, and rust-color sawdust in the tree's crotches. Engravinglike galleries or tunnels inside the bark is another telltale indication of trouble.

Sanitation is considered the most effective means of control now. Tree experts recommend cutting down trees with 50 per cent or more deadwood and burning the bark.

Remodelling Fence

If you aren't fond of your picket fence but its condition is too healthy for replacement, just remodel it. Remove the pickets and cut them to fit between top and bottom fence rails. Add a lx2-inch nailing strip to both rails, inset from the edge about one inch. Then nail on the cut-down pickets, which are now just 1x4-inch boards. For additional pattern, alternate them with a lxl.

Ronald S. Bobinac

Ronald S. Bobinac, of Splane Electric Company, recently decided he needed larger circulation, in the Livonia and surrounding suburban areas, than his other advertising had been giving him.

To quote Mr. Bobinac, "... your advertising representative called on us a day later. With nothing to lose and everything to gain, we made our change to the Observer Newspapers, where we shall be doing business for years to come."

Mr. Bobinac has received more than twice the amount of response from Observer advertising than-from advertising elsewhere in the past.

How do we know? He told us! (His letter is on file in our office.)

No, we didn't have to twist his arm . . . we just reached his customers, and delivered twice the response he was accustomed to.

Total fire department runs or the month of May were below May of 1967 but total runs for 1968, so far, were way above the total for the same period last year, according to Plymouth Township Public Services Director Paul J.

State Police Chief Links Crime, Civil Disobedience

EDITOR'S NOTE: Col. Fredrick Davids, director of the Michigan State Police, spoke recently in Plymouth on the problems of civil dispbedience. police-community relations, and what responsible citizens can do about them. Here are excerpts from his text:

At no time in the last hundred years has our country faced greater internal danger. The many recent incidents of rioting in widely scattered areas across the nation are visible evidence of the social upheaval that we are undergoing today.

There have been many forms of civil disobedience, ranging from peaceful but unlawful as-

Road Toll Sets May Record

Michigan traffic deaths in May set an all-time record of 221 which surpasses by 14 or seven per cent the old mark of 207 counted in that month two years ago, according to State Police provisional figures.

The May loss also was 35 or 19 per cent greater than 186 in that month in 1967. It was only the second time since record keeping began in 1933 that May deaths have topped the 200

Meanwhile, an increase trend is persisting on an accumulated basis with the five-month tally for this year of 809 being 85 or 12 per cent more than 724 in the same period a year ago.

This year's five-month total also is only 19 fewer than the 840 recorded in the corresponding period of 1966 when Michigan's new annual high of 2,298 in traffic deaths was set.

each requiring different procedures to control.

In the past, public demonstrations have not been considered a major concern for police agencies. The old Maxim. "we'll play it by ear when the time comes," seemed sufficient for the sporadic, uncoordinated incident.

Recent police experience, however, with carefully planned, well coordinated and violence-oriented civil disorders, shows this to be unfeasible.

WHEN WE look to the causes of riots, these causes can be counted by the score.

A study of the overall problems indicate, however, that the wide-spread violence in our country, to some degree, is a direct outgrowth of the "Civil Disobedience" movement.

You might ask, 'Is there any justification for civil disobedience?" The excuse most frequently heard as one of the causes is a lack of policecommunity relations.

In my opinion, for the most part, this is nonsense. Rather than speaking of police-community relations, I think it should be referred to as human relations -- the relationship of any one human being with another just based on the simple fact that we are all humans.

IN RECENT YEARS some leaders of dubious stature have made a grand gesture of willfully violating laws they deem to

They take it upon themselves to decide which laws they will adhere to, and which ones they consider bad laws, and which ones they will disobey.

For the most part, these individuals, although admittedly guilty of breaking the law, have gone unpunished. Young thugs and some misguided teenagers -- seeing others defy authority and the courts with impunity --have been led to believe that any crime under a banner of complaint is justified.

This concept provides the breeding ground where the lawless element -- the punks and the small-time hoodlums--can destroy property, loot, and inflict physical harm under the guise of protest ranging from civil rights, police brutality, to selective service and cam-

Certainly, those who expound the theory of civil disobedience in such causes and the authorities who free guilty violators must share a portion of the blame and the responsibility for the turmoil in our streets today.

TO ME, IT IS abundantly clear that the doctrine of civil disobedience for any cause is a doctrine of self destruction.

Many times there is a recognized need to change certain laws, even repeal some. When this is a necessity, there is an orderly process by which this

THERE ARE circumstances where I believe the news media should truly do a job of selfappraisal to make sure their coverage is done in the proper light. Some media have already taken action in this regard.

Actually, I have no quarrel with the all important role of keeping the public informed as quickly and completely as pos-

They know that the television, the radio, and the front-page stories are the best and quickest means of getting their views before the public. Thus, they are prone to seek attention from the mass media.

Objective reporting and a careful balance of the facts with an eye toward responsible journalism will certainly help expose some of the phonies, loud-mouths, and extremists who advocate violence.

MANY PROPOSALS have been advanced to help eliminate the causes of riots. But fust as there is no single cause. there is no single remedy.

I am sure we all realize that the answers will not be found in sociological remedies

If our system of government is to survive, then the law must be enforced. Those who break the law, acting alone or in concert, must be detected and arrested promptly, prosecuted, and given proper substantial punishment.

While I DO discount many of the claims of police brutality, I am not so naive to think that law enforcement is totally without blame, But I do believe that we are doing something about it, and improved training methods are receiving top priority in responsible law enforcement agencies today. This is something that you, as citizens, as well as public figures, should insist upon in your communities. Assisting your police agencies in their recruiting process is an extremely important duty of the

There is the paw-paw, native from New Jersey and New York to Michigan, Nebraska and southward. It likes a fairly good soil, reasonably moist, in open shade where it makes a small tree up to 30 feet tall. The fruits are sweet, dark-skinned, oblong, up to five inches long and somewhat banana-like in Another is the jujube, an attractive Chinese tree, which GROW fairly well with little grows to the same height. It, too, thrives in the colder states It may start bearing a year or two after planting. Its plentiful fruits are one to two inches long, oval, sweet and crisp. They can be eaten fresh, candied or made into jam.

Somewhat better known are the persimmons, both native and oriental ones. While the former are smaller fruiting. they are hardier and will grow from southern New England to Iowa and southward. Since the roots are inclined to be long, dig a deeper hole than for most trees. Fruiting takes place in early fall but the fruits are unpleasant until fully ripe. * * *

Roots Kill Lawn

A big, old shade tree is a delight in any yard. But often lawn doesn't grow well near the trunk, where large roots make soil sparse. A good solution calls for removing lawn in a three to six foot radius around the trunk, replacing grass with a hardy evergreen ground cover.

Around that, lay a border of crushed white rock or gravel contained by pressuretreated Douglas fir 2x4s or 4x4s, sunken so their top edge is at lawn level, A 4x4 on the lawn side makes a good mowing strip.

A seating bench can be adder. Use 4x4s for legs, 2x4s for the seat.

2nd Car Rides In Moving Van With Furniture

A family's second car, such a convenience most of the time, can become a problem when you're moving to a new location.

One way to solve the problem is to move the car right along with your furniture and other household goods, suggest moving consultants of Aero Mayflower Transit Company, leading long-distance mover.

Mayflower reports this is being done more all the time. Boats, too, are often transported this way.

Cars, boats and the like can be moved in the same van as household goods as long as they are part of the same shipment. Large moving vans easily accommodate them and still leave room for the furniture.

Did you touch all the bases last year?

Take your advertising for instance, Mr. Businessman. Was your message ... your selling message . . . in the right place at the right time all during last year? Were you telling the right people what it was you had to sell? Were you reaching them where they were sure to see your message? Or did your advertising touch only some of the bases?

Part of playing the advertising game right is reaching all your potential customers and informing them that you carry the specific item for which they are looking. Through a daily, inexpensive classified ad in the Observer, every person who is in the market for those particular items will know that your store carries them.

Send your advertising out to win for you this year. You'll score new profits when you make your advertising touch every base by including the classified section in your advertising program this year.

owners who could have their lots sentee property-owners. cut in half if the plan gains acceptance.

About 40 persons were present at the public discussion conducted by the Garden City Planning Commission to give interested homeowners the chance to be heard on the proposals.

The discussion centered around a proposal to put a paved street along the rear of homes fronting on Brown St., between Garden and Harrison Sts. The lots along Brown in this area run at least 300 feet deep, City planners hope to run the paved street along the rear of the lots divide them into two 150-foot lots, and build homes along the new street.

Planners have three other streets in mind which could be developed in a similar fashion. These are: Brown, from Garden to Henry Ruff; Pierce, from Brandt to Middlebelt; and Pierce; from Harrison to Gar-

COMMISSION CHAIRMAN Jerome Mack explained the proposals were only an idea on how the city could be developed. The four suggested plans, he added, are just four alternatives in case residents along one of the four streets oppose the project.

Planners hope to sell the idea so work can begin on one of the plans which could then serve as a model to convince property owners throughout the city to cooperate in future projects.

The program in its entirety. if completed, could increase Garden City's population by 20 per cent, If not, planners say, > Stacy also asserted that many of the rear lots along Brown are owned by the city and real estate firms.

Another resident explained that she moved to Garden City from Detroit to live on a larger lot and opposed the plan. She argued for larger lots because they provide "country living with city conveniences."

Mack said the project in all likelihood would not be started unless 51 per cent of the property owners involved approved. He said the city would be very reluctant to begin condemnation proceedings for the paving but, in any event, homeowners would not have to sell and at worse would only have to pay their share in costs of paving, sewer, etc.

Another resident argued the beauty of the neighborhood would suffer with the addition of homes crowded on small lots. Mack explained that ordinances require a minimum of a 60-foot frontage and a minimum lot area of 7,200 square feet for residential lots.

ANOTHER OBJECTION was the city is land-locked and that the new homes might place future residential growth mini- 2 burden on the schools. Mack said the model plan would in-The Commission hopes the volve only some 20 homes which model will be developed along shouldn't burden the schools Brown between Garden and Har- since most of the persons movrison. 10 years to complete the entire program and that plans call for the developments to be spread throughout different school areas to avoid overcrowding one particular school.

Board of Education member Russell Millar, present at the meeting, said the developments probably wouldn't cause a crisis if the entire package was developed from five to eight years. He explained that population studies indicate school enrollment will taper off which should support an influx of additional school children without additional cost.

Although a group of six to eight homeowners were quite vocal in their opposition, another group sat silently gathering the facts and seemed interested in the possibility of personal capital gain from the Planning Consultant Joe Gerak presented the following example of how property value would change: the rear 150-foot portions of existing lots in their unimproved state would sell for around $300; with improvements of paving; water and sewer, the lots could be sold for between $3,200 and $3,500.

The landowners' share in costs of the improvements would be about $1,200 if he owned property on both sides of the new street, and $600 if he only owned land on one side. If the street goes through, all homeowners would be assessed their share of the improvements but each would still have the option of selling half or keeping their large lots.

Mack said the four streets were picked at random from areas having large lots and he did not know who the property owners were and was not knowledgeable of the percentage owned by the city or real estate

In about one or two months, homeowners along Brown St. will receive letters asking them to vote on the paved street. The next step would be a recommendation to the City Council and a public hearing on a speci-

Registration for the summer school program held by the Wayne Community School District's Continuing Education Dept. is being held this week with the deadline for late registrations being next Tuesday.

Department Coordinator James Lombard announced that many new classes and other educational facilities will be available this summer.

These include elementary school enrichment, basic skill classes, junior and senior high classes for remedial as well as enrichment purposes: recreation and swimming programs; special education, driver education; and added for the first time the Cooperative Occupational program and the Adult Basic Education classes in the evening; and special ninth grade offerings.

Lombard said that the increased interest in summer school this year reflects an overall interest in additional school programs as well as the reasonable class rates.

"It is expected that with the variety of programs and worthwhile offerings this summer, the total program will be much larger than previous summers," Lombard said.

Brochures listing all of the classes, meeting dates, and fees are available without charge at all schools in the district. Registration for the summer classes is being taken at Wayne Memorial High School.

MEMORIAL ELEMENTARY School principal Glen Heavenridge (right) received a plaque last week from Garden City Chamber of Commerce vice president Royden Jones for the school's performance in the community's annual beautification campaign last month. The school had the highest percentage of returns of a home inspection checklist. Marquette Elementary School won the plaque the past seven years. Marquette's principal, Gilbert Goza, retired last June and was given the plaque to keep, forcing the chamber to buy a new one.
