LIVONIA—City firemen have reached a new contract with the city, seven months late. It puts them almost on a par with patrolmen and corporals in a raise of about $500, retroactive to last Dec. 1, and an increase next December of $900. That means above $8,500 now for regular firemen, and more than $9,400 next year.

LIVONIA—Work on the widening of Farmington Road, between Five Mile and Schoolcraft, has finally begun, with completion set for Nov. 1. It was widened last year from Five to Eight, and next year will be completed between Schoolcraft and Plymouth, including the C & O Railroad grade separation. The present mile, to include a boulevard stretch between Five and Lyndon, will cost more than $500,000, with the Wayne County Road Commission paying 60 per cent, the city the rest. The road is open to local traffic only—including police, and fire vehicles.

GARDEN CITY—The Civil Service Commission concluded hearings Monday on the suspension appeal of Patrolman Al Treutler. He was suspended earlier this month by Police Chief Robert Behrendt for disorderly conduct in a Garden City restaurant.

GARDEN CITY—The Board of Education bought additional land next to the West Senior High-Radcliff Junior High complex for a new Administrative Center building. When completed, the school board will sell its present administrative office one block from the downtown section.

WESTLAND—The City Council asked the federal government Monday to declare the community a disaster area following serious flooding problems last week.

WESTLAND—City Planning Director Eugene Katz has resigned the post he has held since October of 1966. He is leaving to accept a position with a private planning firm.

FARMINGTON—The City Council filled a vacancy in its ranks Monday by appointing Frederick M. Seibert, chairman of the Farmington Planning Commission, to fill the remaining three years of the unexpired term of Hugo E. Peterson. Seibert, 47, is a Ford Motor Co. supervisor.

FARMINGTON—Engineering studies have been launched by the city administration to alleviate flood conditions during periods of severe storms such as the one which struck a week ago. City Manager John Dinan said it is hoped present outlets into the Rouge River can be bypassed.

REDFORD—High-rise zoning rules proposed for addition to the Township zoning ordinance, were scuttled by a 5-2 vote of the Township board Monday. Under fire from citizens and civic associations opposed to development of Glenhurst golf course or any area into high-rise multiple dwellings, the board reversed a recommendation of its planning commission.

Another Landmark Leaving Main Street

Another old landmark is leaving Main Street.

After 44 years Walter Schultz, the druggist who has been doing business at the Dodge Drug Store next to the National Bank is closing up and going into retirement.

"Forty-four years is a long time to be in any one place," he said, "but it is about time that I retired."

As he looked over the stocked shelves in the old store, he recalled that he had started with Stewart Dodge in 1924 and has been at the same location ever since.

"I have been here alone for the past 18 years," he said, "and it will be rather peculiar leaving Main Street." He has no particular plans for retirement, except that he may do some relief work for other druggists around the city from time to time.

"I haven't had a vacation in 10 years," he went on, "and it's time that I took a rest."

As he is preparing to leave "Walt" recalls that when he arrived on the scene—44 years ago—Plymouth Road wasn't paved and didn't go all the way into Detroit.

"I stopped at Meyers Road," he pointed out, "so you can imagine how many other changes I have seen—not only in Plymouth, but the entire area."

Walt has sold his prescription drugs to the Wiltse Drug Store and plans to place the remainder of the stock on sale after July 6.

British Officials To Join July Fourth Celebration

With flags flying, and bands playing in an atmosphere of patriotism Plymouth again will celebrate Independence Day with a mammoth parade that has come to be looked upon as the leading event of the day in Western Wayne County.

Weather permitting another crowd of record proportions is expected as the parade moves down Main Street promptly at 1 o'clock and covers the familiar route that reaches its climax at Kellogg Park.

And for the second successive year the celebration will help form a stronger link with the city of Plymouth, England, from where the Pilgrims sailed in 1620 to find the independence they wanted in this country.

Last year His Worship Frank Chapman, then Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England, and his entourage who helped celebrate the Plymouth Centennial, were the lure that attracted the top gathering of all time along the line of march.

This year, another British official, E.L.R. MacGregor, British Consul General and his aides, will be the guests of honor and they are scheduled to play a major part in the festivities.

When the parade reaches City Hall it will come to a halt. Then, the British Consul General will step to the new monument containing the "Rock", which was presented to the City of Plymouth by the people of Plymouth, England, a year ago. Here, in what is expected to become a traditional ceremony, he will greet Mayor James Jabara.

As Mayor Jabara shows him the new monument contributed by the former mayors of Plymouth, the British Consul also will report on the condition of the four locust trees, the gift of the city a year ago, now growing on a government location in Plymouth, England.

This will be the first official ceremony at the "Rock" and it is expected that the exchange of messages across the sea will become steeped in tradition as the years go on.

THE PLYMOUTH Jaycees, sponsors of the parade, have worked long and hard to give the parade a higher impact than ever before. Four bands and innumerable floats will comprise the various divisions and spectators from all sections of the suburban areas are expected to line the sidewalks.

Aside from the parade which will require more than an hour a horse show is scheduled at Junior High East at 3 o'clock and this, too, has attracted a star field.

Some of the best riders and jumpers in the area are entered and the show gives every promise of being something different and it, too, may become a tradition.

At 4:30 p.m. there will be a peanut drop for the kiddies.

LATER IN the evening, the scene of activities shifts to the golf driving range on Five-Mile Road near Haggerty for the annual fireworks display.

For a time, because of the heavy rains of last week, it appeared that the fireworks display would be ruled out. First, there were few suitable sights and those that were available were on stripped ground and the likelihood of mud dampened enthusiasm.

At the last moment the golf driving range became available. And even though it is in Northville Township, the Plymouth residents are certain of a great show.

The carnival atmosphere will permeate the day, as the special rides on Penniman Avenue will be open and the Jaycees will conduct their beef sandwich sales in Kellogg Park from noon until 8 p.m.

The celebration which began on Tuesday, will continue through Saturday, with the carnival rides being open every day and a children's parade on Saturday afternoon.

This will mark the end of another great week.

HONORED AGAIN—Plaques and awards are piling up for Wendell Smith since he became national president of the Jaycees. He is shown here accepting a certificate of honorary membership in the Plymouth Rotary Club from President Cliff McClumpha. It is only the third honorary membership ever presented by the club.

Arch Vallier To Bid For Supervisor's Job

City Commissioner Arch Vallier, who doubles as a member of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, has decided to make a bid for his job on the revamped county board at the August primaries.

After debating for a long time whether to try for the county job where he has been an influence for some time, he finally decided to seek the Democratic nomination. And after making the decision he departed for a vacation.

Late Monday, 24 hours before the deadline for filing, two other Democrats also had filed. They were Paul Kadish, 18687 Purlingbrook in Livonia, and Don Fredericks, 16277 Southampton Court, Livonia.

On the Republican side there were four candidates. They included Albert P. Ayotte, 14060 Stonehouse, Livonia; Henry R. Sladek, 17410 Loveland, Livonia; Hazel Jones, 29739 Bretton Woods, Livonia; and Carl Pursell, 6705 Sheldon Road, Plymouth.

Another Republican possibility was Plymouth Township Supervisor John E. McEwen, who hadn't made up his mind at a late hour Monday night.

Under the new set-up for the streamlined Board, one supervisor will replace the seven from this area that includes the cities of Livonia, Plymouth and Northville and the Townships of Plymouth, Northville and Canton.

Phil Dingley, Canton Supervisor, stated he preferred to remain and stick to business in Canton. The same was true of Mike Allen, Mayor of Northville, and Gunnar Stromberg, the Northville Township Supervisor. Mayor Moelke in Livonia also decided against bidding for the county job.

Plymouth Band Sets New Date For Concert

The Plymouth Community Band Concert has rescheduled its opening performance for Thursday night, July 11, in Kellogg Park.

Its regularly scheduled opening concert was rained out last week.

Flutest Sharon Sprague will be featured on the opening number. She will be the first of four local soloists to be featured with the band this season.

5 + 4 = 5.
This odd bit of arithmetic was approved by the City Commission Monday as a means of settling the city's taxicab problem after several months of deliberation and the threat of a court suit.

At its meeting several weeks ago, in an effort to bring a peaceful solution to the problem, the Commission re-instated the five licenses that have been held by John Florence, doing business at the Mayflower Cab Co.

At the same time the Commission granted a request for four licenses from a John Peck who proposed to do business at the Pilgrim Cab Co.

This supposedly ended the odd case until Monday night when the Commission was asked, by letter, from Florence to transfer his licenses to Peck.

This was done quickly.

With the action Peck then was the holder of nine licenses, but when he asked if he could use the Pilgrim name on some of the new Mayflower Cabs when it came time for a change, the Commission ruled that he could have licenses for five vehicles.

What's more, the Commission, told him, "You can call them anything you want—Mayflower or Pilgrim—but you will only have five."

Now, the question arises, which of the licenses are transferred from Mayflower and which are taken from the original quota for Pilgrim. And when asked for the remainder of the nine licenses in the name of either company could be held in abeyance, the Commission answered, "No."

AS MISS PLYMOUTH she will have a place of honor in the big parade Thursday at 1 p.m. through the downtown business district and rule over the many events the Jaycees have planned for the holiday and the remainder of the week.

Sue Leonard Flashes Victory Smile as Miss Plymouth

Sue Leonard Chosen As New Miss Plymouth

Sue Leonard, 17, who will be a senior at Plymouth High next fall, is the 1968 Miss Plymouth. She was crowned Monday night in the senior high auditorium in the final judging of the annual contest conducted by the Plymouth Jaycees.

Sue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Leonard, 287 Arthur, Plymouth, received the vote of the three-judge panel in the spirited competition at which all 12 of the candidates participated.

Thus Sue, who was unable to appear for the preliminary judging last Thursday night because she had accompanied her parents to Annapolis, Md., where her brother was entering the U.S. Naval Academy, won all of the laurels with twin appearances Monday.

SHE WAS granted an interview with the panel and appeared before the judges in bathing suit as the 11 others had done Thursday, and then moved into the final judging for the coveted crown.

It wasn't that she was arbitrarily granted special permission by the Jaycees—all of the contestants were notified on Thursday, according to a spokesman for the sponsors, that one of the entries would be unable to appear but would go before the judges prior to the final judging.

And so Sue, who wouldn't miss accompanying her parents and brother to the Naval Academy, didn't miss the contest and came out with all of the marbles and the crown.

U.S. To Take Bigger Tax Bite July 14

WASHINGTON -- Beginning July 14, the withholding rate on paychecks for federal income tax will increase 10 per cent as a result of the income tax bill signed by President Johnson over the weekend.

Signing of the bill, which includes a $6 billion spending cut, came one week after Congress completed action and passed without fanfare.

Since the tax for individuals is retroactive to April 1, the amount withheld from weekly paychecks through next December will fall short of the amount due. The difference must be paid when returns are filed next April 15. The tax package will increase federal revenue by $15 billion in the new fiscal year.

Major expenses released by the Interior Department were $445,000 in police costs and $36,000 to restore the turf ruined by the shantytown. The figures totaled more than $231,000.

WASHINGTON -- The federal government's expenses in setting up, policing, and demolishing Resurrection City are expected to reach a quarter of a million dollars.

KEY WEST, Fla. -- A South-east Airlines DC3 carrying 21 passengers was hijacked over the weekend only four minutes out of Key West and diverted at gunpoint to Cuba.

do without summer interns hired from the nation's colleges and universities.

Funds for the $75 weekly pay of the youngsters have been stricken by the House on recommendation of its appropriations committee, which said times are too tough to allow the $27,000 expenditure.

Supporters for the interns claimed the real reason for the cut was because some of the interns got involved in a petition battle for and against the Vietnam War.

NEW YORK -- Difficulties over trade arose this past week between the United States and France.

France asked to subsidize its exports and curb imports in an effort to counteract the economic efforts of the recent general strike. France said the measures were temporary but the U.S. reacted quickly by saying special duties will be imposed.

MEMPHIS -- Aubrey J. Norvell, the balding former hardware salesman convicted for shooting James Meredith, has returned home to begin what he hopes will be a "normal life."

Norvell, arrested June 6, 1966, entered the Mississippi State Penitentiary on Dec. 2, 1966. He was sentenced to two to five years on the charge of assault and battery with the National

News Round Up

The flight was the third hijacking of American commercial airplanes since the first of the year. Three other flights out of S. America and Caribbean points have also been hijacked to Cuba during the same period.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. -- A leader of a dissident faction within the NAACP, the Young Turks, has said his group will quit the civil rights organization.

The claim followed a walk-out from the convention by an allied group, 100 youth delegates, who declared the NAACP is too moderate. The walkout disrupted proceedings and forced remaining delegates to abruptly end the annual convention.

WASHINGTON -- The cost of living for Americans rose three-tenths of one per cent last month because of an unexpected rise in food prices according to the Labor Department.

Food prices rose six-tenths of one per cent, pushing the consumer price index to 120.3 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. That meant it took $12.03 in May to buy the same goods and services that $10 would buy about ten years ago.

Late harvests, weather damage to crops and dwindling stockpiles were blamed. Fruits, vegetables and meats led the advance in food prices. Dairy products were also up.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio -- Four men shot out the window of a police cruiser with newly purchased rifles during a wild chase, wounded a patrolman and took a couple hostage in their home before surrendering after a tear gas barrage.

Three of the men arrested were fugitives from a Pennsylvania prison.

WASHINGTON -- House members have decided they can intent to kill Meredith. Circuit Court Judge Curtis M. Swango, Jr., suspended the other three years after hearing testimony that Norvell had a good war record and character.

WASHINGTON -- Low-income minority groups living in New York City slum areas are deliberately discriminated against when they try to buy auto insurance, a Senate subcommittee has been told.

And the discrimination extends to those living near slum areas, added Jerome Kay, head of the New York Commission on Human Rights. Kay said refusal of standard companies to accept ghetto dwellers forces them to seek policies from high-risk companies or New York's assigned risk plan.

Kay is asking for the creation of a state or federal insurance agency for policyholders "who are overcharged or unable to get standard rates from the private insurance companies."

WASHINGTON -- Secretary Wilber J. Cohen of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, citing Medicare as "part of the American way of life," has named an advisory council to study extending coverage of the program to 1.5 million disabled persons.

The council, composed of leaders in medicine, business and labor, was directed to report by next Jan. 1 on the needs of disabled persons for health insurance, the costs of hospitalization and medical services and ways to finance broadened coverage to include them.

CINCINNATI -- Mrs. Blanca Noel Taft, wife of Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, has died of cancer at her home at the age of 51. She had suffered with the disease for several years.

The former Blanca Noel of New York, Mrs. Taft was a graduate of Bryn Mawr College in Pennsylvania.

Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Slate Major Displays

Fireworks To Brighten Area Celebration

Independence Day 1968 will be no different than in years past.

Observerland communities will celebrate the signing of the Declaration of Independence 192 years ago with a four-day weekend starting Wednesday evening.

Top drawing card in the area will be Thursday night's fireworks spectacular at the Detroit Race Course in Livonia, expected to bring 25,000 to 30,000 people on to the grounds of DRC.

Co-sponsored by the track and Livonia parks and recreation department, the display will feature $1500 in ground and aerial fireworks, beginning at about 9:30.

People attending the DRC display are urged to arrive early to avoid the traffic rush. The track is located at Schoolcraft Rd. and Middlebelt Rd.

THE MOST AMBITIOUS July 4th celebration will be in Plymouth, where the local Jaycees have something lined up for not only Thursday, but Friday and Saturday as well.

The Jaycees have long urged Plymouthites and people from neighboring communities to "stay at home for the Fourth" and spend the day at the festivities in Plymouth.

Fireworks for the community will be held at the Oasis Driving Range north of Five Mile Road and east of Haggerty in Northville Township near Livonia.

Residents of Lake Pointe and numerous subdivisions in western Livonia will be able to see the Plymouth display without leaving home.

The Plymouth display has been tossed all over as Jaycees had difficulty in pinning down a site. Twelve were considered before the Northville Township location was finally selected. The fireworks will begin at dusk.

THE JAYCEES in Plymouth

also organized the only full-scale parade in the area. The parade begins at 1 p.m. but the parade route begins filling up an hour or more before.

The parade runs down Plymouth Main St. from Krogers to the park in the center of town, past a reviewing stand. The line of marchers then continues down Main St. to Hartough, then to Junior High East.

Out-of-towners should look for parking behind Main Street stores.

A horse show will follow the parade at the East playground area.

In addition, a carnival has been provided in Kellogg Park, a departure from years past, when Jaycees entertained Plymouthites with an air show at Mettetal airport.

IN REDFORD, the Jaycees will hold their annual fireworks display at Belle Creek at Six Mile and Inkster, beginning at 9 p.m.

***

Farmington has no official July Fourth celebration, as they hold a four-day Founders Festival in late July. Community energies are expanded on this annual affair.

However, two subdivisions in Farmington Township—Kendallwood and Colony Park—have developed quite elaborate plans over the years for July 4th.

A parade, featuring neighborhood kids, begins about 10 a.m. with a special highlight this year. Senator Phillip H. Hart will speak at the parade's close about 11:20 a.m. at Wooddale school.

An afternoon of games and fireworks at night will cap the celebration.

WESTLAND HAS NO plans, official or unofficial. In Garden City, the city park at Merriman and Cherry Hill Roads will be the site of the annual fireworks display at dusk. The show is put on by both the local Jaycees and the Garden City parks and recreation department. Spectators are urged to arrive early to find a parking spot.

Madonna Gets $5,000 Book Grant

Madonna College has been awarded a $6,034 library grant for the 1968-69 school year according to Sister Mary Dana-tha, president.

The grant made available through the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and authorized under Title II of the Higher Education Act of 1965 will allot $5000 for the purchase of basic library materials including books, periodicals and audio-visual materials.

The remaining $1,034 is a supplemental grant to be used for developing the library's resources in the areas of nursing, medical technology and social sciences.

This is the third year that Madonna College has qualified for a library grant. Announcement of this year's grant was made by Grant Venn, Associate Commissioner for Adult Vocational and Library Programs.

Workers Begin Cleanup Along Hines After Flood

Workers moved into Middle Rouge Parkway along Hines Drive over the weekend to begin cleanup chores after last week's flooding.

The park was flooded all along the course of the Rouge, from Seven Mile Rd. in Northville to Ford Rd. in Dearborn.

The greatest potential loss to the popular park would have been picnic furniture, which floated freely down the parkway after the Rouge went over its banks.

"These tables have been retrieved for the most part," Carroll Porter, superintendent of parks said Monday. Porter, who lives in Plymouth, said he has seen the parkway flood many times.

"The only worse one was in 1947," he related.

Crews were out the night of the flood gathering the park tables. They worked into the night to prevent what could have been a substantial loss. One crew was spotted near Ford Rd. and Outer Drive where the furniture jammed up.

Porter said the park, which was designed to handle flood waters like those that came last week, was not seriously damaged.

The Wayne County Road Commission began work in restoring the shoulders of the roadway winding through the park Monday.

"I hope we can be back to normal in a week to ten days," Porter said. He said mowing operations would be hampered by the extremely wet ground.

"I'm hoping things can dry out. But even so, the grass is likely to grow very fast. And since the machinery is heavy, it would bog down in the ground if we tried to mow before it was dry," Porter explained.

About 40 men worked in the park saving the furniture and performing other tasks. About thirty, both full time, and seasonal, make up the regular crew; ten men from the forestry division helped during the flooding.

The cleanup of the park will be completed as part of routine maintenance, Porter added.

The immediate flood plain of the park is under public ownership, and thus no private residences were affected in the flooding.

A few foolhardy motorists tried the park after the barricades closed it off, and had to abandon their cars.

"You have to know the park pretty well to get through it when it's flooded," Porter said.

Homeowners continued the messy job of cleaning out flooded basements. Some, like 32 families in Redford, cleaned out their entire homes as flood waters there rose to several feet.

Eleven of the families had applied to the Red Cross for assistance in the flood. The Red Cross in Redford expects their expenditures in flood relief to total $10,000.

County Health officials issued warnings about possible health hazards found in flood waters, which contain sewage. They recommended that the basement floors and walls be washed and disinfected; that all contaminated food be discarded; and that clothing and furniture should either be carefully cleaned or tossed out.

Many people in the area were surprised to learn flood damage to homes is not covered by homeowners insurance policies.

In other parts of the State the severe weather continued to wreak havoc.

Savage thunderstorms pounded the western coast of Michigan Saturday around noon. Trailers were overturned at the Grand Haven State Park; several airplanes in Grand Haven were damaged; a roof on a supermarket in Muskegon collapsed.

Winds with gusts up to 100 miles per hour uprooted hundreds of trees, downed power lines and overturned small crafts caught on the lake.

Sixteen injuries and one death, a power company employee working on lines, were reported.

Seek Entrants In Wonderland Beauty Contest

Wonderland Center, Plymouth Road at Middlebelt, is holding its fourth Annual Bathing Beauty Contest on July 27. All single girls aged 17 through 21 years old are invited to submit entries.

To enter, send name, age, address, and telephone number to "Miss Wonderland Contest," Wonderland Center, P.O. Box 2387, Livonia, 48150. If possible, include a recent snapshot or a recent snapshot should also accompany entry. Entries must be postmarked by July 20.

The winner will receive $300 worth of merchandise and the opportunity to compete for the title of "Miss State Fair," a contest to be staged in conjunction with the Michigan State Fair early this fall.

HUGH CULIK, 1968 graduate of Stevenson High School, of 18924 Mayfield, Livonia, is a National Merit Scholarship Finalist and the recipient of a Chrysler Corporation Dealer's Scholarship. He will attend Michigan State University this fall. At Stevenson he was active in the school yearbook and literary magazine.

Raise Limit For Postal Deliveries

Beginning July 1, mailers will be able to send 30 pound parcels between first class post offices which are 150 miles or more apart. The present weight limit is 25 pounds.

This is the second of five increases affecting size and weight limits for parcels scheduled to take effect annually until 1971, when a 40 pound, 84 inch maximum size will be authorized between all first class post offices. The size limitation is now 72 inches in combined girth and length.

"The size and weight increases for parcel post marks another step forward to improve parcel service to both the public and the business community," Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson said today.

The next increase, on July 1, 1969, will raise the weight limit from 30 to 40 pounds; on July 1, 1970, the size will be increased to 78 inches; and on July 1, 1971, the size is scheduled to be increased to 84 inches.

Parcels weighing up to 40 pounds can be mailed between first class post offices less than 150 miles apart. Also, packages addressed to or from 2nd, 3rd, and 4th class post offices, overseas APO's and FPO's, and the states of Alaska and Hawaii are not affected by the increase in size and weight provisions of the Public Law 89-593, which became effective January 15, 1967. Parcel post mailings to and from these offices remain at 70 pounds and 100 inches.

Plymouth VFW Unit Retains State Title

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mayflower Post of Plymouth, swept top honors at the annual VFW convention in Muskegon over the weekend.

The VFW Color Guard, famous around the state and nation, won an unprecedented third championship, and retired a trophy that has traveled around the state since 1955.

Commander Bob Smith, won the title "All State Commander" at the commanders banquet in Muskegon on Saturday. During his term of office in the Plymouth VFW chapter, he has excelled in membership, community service and hospital work.

THE COLOR GUARD, headed by Hal Sarge Young, marched before thousands of conventioners at Walker Stadium and won top honors, entitling them a chance to compete in the state finals August 21 in Detroit.

The team defeated two Detroit teams and one from Berkeley in the state finals. Having been defeated in Miami, Cleveland and New York on previous occasions, Young feels that their 84.37 score in Muskegon may well do the trick later this summer in Detroit. A perfect score is 100.

"Hal Young's personal interest, devotion and drive has created an incentive within his men that has led them to accomplish this rare and difficult feat," Jim McKindies, VFW member and spokesman for the group said.

Offer Tips For Holiday Driving

Extra caution by motorists can reduce death and injury tolls when traffic volumes mount during the four-day Fourth of July holiday weekend says the Michigan Good Roads Federation.

"Vacationing travelers who follow a few simple rules of common sense driving can avoid turning a happy holiday into a tragedy," declares Richard W. Walker, executive director of the Federation.

"Traffic during the first summer holiday weekend is expected to double on many north-south roads creating dangerous congestion on some state and local routes which have not yet been improved to modern traffic needs," Walker said.

The trophy will rest in the trophy case at the VFW hall on Mill St.

DAVID B. McDOWELL, Superintendent of the Clarenceville Public Schools has been elected to serve as a member of the Executive Board of the Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies, Inc. His position represents all schools in the Metropolitan area of Detroit employing 150-250 teachers. His election came at an annual meeting of the Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies, Inc. The term of office began July 1 and expires June 30, 1970.

"Despite the expected peak travel, however, holiday driving can be pleasurable and safe if motorists remain alert and cautious."

The Federation listed these Fourth of July driving tips: Adjust travel speed to the main flow of traffic. Avoid cutting in and out of your lane and pass with care even where visibility is good. Allow extra time to reach your destination. Drive with your lights on. Plan your trip to avoid high peak travel hours. Stop and rest briefly at least every two hours. Observe speed limits and obey traffic signals. Do your celebrating after arrival and never mix alcohol with driving.

FLASHES ACROSS THE SKIES like this will be familiar to the communities covered by the Observer Newspapers Thursday night as fireworks displays will be held. The major programs are slated for the Detroit Race Course at 9:30 p.m. and at the Oasis Driving Range, Five Mile near Haggerty in Northville Township where the Plymouth Jaycees will stage their annual picturesque show.

Richard Quits Human Relations Group And Tells Reasons

Claiming that little progress has been shown and that no attempt is being made to get at the basic causes of civil disorder and racial unrest, Bruce Richard resigned from the Human Relations Commission on Monday.

In a letter to Don Davies, chairman of the commission, which was made public at the City Commission meeting Monday night Richard gave these detailed reasons for his decision:

"First, I would expect to make little or no progress in furthering the aims of the commission through the Plymouth Lions Club, which I represent on the commission. The unanimous (except for my vote) action taken by the Lions Club regarding the Open Housing Ordinance has been supported 100 per cent by Lions International. It is clear that this organization does not wish to become involved in any controversial Civil Rights activities. Of course, I disagree with this position, and I am presently corresponding with the International Office in an attempt to persuade a change in their views.

"SECOND, AND this is a bit more complex, I have recently come to believe I can be more effective in furthering the cause of Civil Rights through channels other than the commission. I have given much thought to the race problem in recent months, and quite naturally, as a result, some of my views have been revised.

"Most certainly I am still in accord with the aims and activities of the commission, and I will participate in an open housing campaign in the township if one is conducted, although I will probably not devote as much time to it as I did for the City Ordinance.

"I believe however, that such activities as open housing, attempting to move minority races into the community, promoting job opportunities for them, etc., commendable though these efforts are, nevertheless are merely attacking the symptoms of the problem, and are not getting at the basic causes. And if adequate attention is not given to the causes, I fear the final result of all these other actions will be setbacks, failures, and more frustration.

"For me, the alternative is to pursue the means of getting at the causes. And here, I have some rather radical notions. Briefly and bluntly stated, I believe the church has failed in its task of teaching us how to live. And I see very little hopeful evidence that this is going to change. I do believe however, that the knowledge and the tools are available which could enable the church to become an effective force in our lives. This is the area to which I wish to devote whatever time I have available.

City Shifts War On Weeds Starting Date

The City of Plymouth is shifting tactics in its war on weeds. On the recommendation of City Manager Richard Blodgett, the date for weed cutting has been changed from July 1 and September 1 to June 15 and August 1.

Blodgett originally requested June 1 as the first date, but the commission ruled that in most years the weeds were not at cutting height at that time.

"OTHER INSTITUTIONS of the Establishment need drastic new ideas also, the Service Club organizations, for example. But the church, above all, must be re-vitalized. The statement is heard today on every hand: 'People's basic attitudes must be changed.'

"This CAN be done, but it WON'T be, without tremendous revisions to the teaching methods of the church, and without tremendous efforts on the part of every one of us. As I stated earlier, I believe the means to accomplish this is at hand, and I will be happy to discuss it with you. However, I need time to study and organize much material, and develop ways of presenting it before it can be put to use effectively.

"For these reasons I am submitting my resignation, to be effective June 30, 1968."

Good News Expected On Senior Housing

After waiting for what seemed like ages, the senior citizens in the Plymouth Community are due to receive some good news regarding the housing project within the next fortnight.

"We are hopeful of getting the word by mid-July", City Clerk Gene Slider reported Monday, "and from what I have been given to understand, it will be good news."

The word for which everyone is waiting is the report from the Housing and Urban Development officials in Chicago relative to the three proposals submitted for the Plymouth project more than a month ago.

When the deadline for these proposals, obtained under what is called the "turnkey" plan, was reached, three developers had submitted plans.

These were studied by the Plymouth Planning Commission and then submitted to HUD for further approval. The study and re-study is part of the federal system and now the word is expected that final approval has come for one of three submitted.

Under the "turnkey" plan, the City employs the developer, who in turn obtains the architect, and in this way saves the architect's fees from being levied directly against the city.

Under this plan, studies in detail by the Plymouth Planning Commission, the Senior Citizens Housing Project can be built in a style keeping with the surrounding neighborhood at the rear of the Christian Science Church.

Until the "Turnkey" plan was hit upon, there was some doubt that the facility could be built in the style Plymouth desired.

At the time it was pointed out that the greatly increased cost of labor and material would force a change in plans and that the structure would be frame with aluminum siding.

This word was a shock to the officials who learned of a new plan being used in Roseville where a brick structure was being built.

A hurried trip to Roseville convinced the Plymouth officials that the "turnkey" plan was the one to follow and they went into action quickly.

Now matters have moved along until it is just a matter of final approval of a project — and that is due within a fortnight.

DSI Expansion Given Green Light

The D.S.I. was given a green light for its expansion program by the Plymouth City Commission Monday night.

The action came on the third and final reading of an ordinance to change the area next to the D.S.I. from heavy industrial to light manufacturing.

This paved the way for the expansion that will include at least one building to be built at a cost of approximately $100,000, and another, the size of which has not yet been determined.

Along with the changing of the zoning at this location, the commission also changed the zoning on a parcel of property on Mill Street from two family dwellings to commercial business. This site is close to Ann Arbor Trail.

Teachers Explore Area Resources

Eighty teachers from 16 metropolitan area districts are exploring the resources of the community as a means of enriching the educational experiences of children.

The Northwest Metropolitan Area Community Resources workshop are: Livonia, Farmington, Plymouth, South Dearborn Heights, Cherry Hill, Clarenceville, South Redford, Wayne, Taylor, Redford, Nankin Mills, Garden City, the Archdiocese of Detroit, Fairlane, and Dearborn.

CORLAN D. BOVEE workshop director and principal of the Cass School, stated the objectives of the workshop are threefold: (1) to acquaint teachers with the Northwest Metropolitan Community; (2) to use this acquaintance to develop teaching materials to be actually used in classroom instruction, and, (3) to help students get a first hand understanding of the 'total community.' Assisting Bovee are three assistant directors: Bob Taylor, Ted Hoffman and Bob McGee.

The many areas being explored in the workshop range from a concentrated study of the supermarket and its importance to community life, to a broad investigation in the field of human relations and its implications to education.

Present plans include an open house to present a display of materials and resources developed to the public at the conclusion of the workshop.

This is the fifth in a series of annual community workshops held in the Livonia area. Each succeeding workshop has grown both in participants and in scope and operation.

Acting Police Chief Johnson Boasts Varied Career

By HENRY J. TEUTSCH

Loren L. Johnson speaks with crisp, precise tones and mimes go words when discussing the police department and police work.

He has thinning gray hair and a square jaw that act in contrast with one another--each displaying the difference that exist in one man.

Loren L. Johnson has been a police officer for the past 18 years. He has been assistant Plymouth police chief since 1959.

"It used to be, if you had a strong back (it didn't matter if you could speak the language or not) and could push somebody around you were hired," he explained in speaking of the police force.

"When I was hired, they called us in one day, gave us a badge, a gun, a pair of handcuffs and one uniform and said you're a policeman, then turned us loose."

He readily admits that he is a hard task master to the 15 patrolmen under his supervision, but one thing he does not admit, he is a good police officer who has held the Plymouth police department together for many years.

ASSISTANT CHIEF JOHNSON was born Dec. 17, 1915 in Dennis, Kansas. A short time later his family moved to Cherryvale, Kansas.

When the depression began to creep into small towns across the country, Johnson's family moved back to Dennis and in 1935 he was graduated from Dennis High School.

For the next two years he operated a bull dozer in various Civilian Conservation Corps camps in the middle west.

In 1937, he came to Plymouth, mainly because he had a brother living here.

That same year he was married to Marie Strautz, of Plymouth, and went to work for Allen Industries. The Johnsons have two married children, Mrs. Kay Frances Jones, in Walled Lake, and David Loren Johnson in Plymouth--and, he proudly added "three grandchildren."

WHILE WORKING FOR ALLEN, he became a carpenter in the winter months. He built his own house at 9265 Oakview, in Plymouth Township, and a cottage on Bass Lake which is approximately 30 miles from Plymouth.

He commented that his hobby now is doing things with his hands, especially carpentry. This summer he is going to remodel the kitchen in his cottage.

A little less than a year after World War II began, he joined the Plymouth Police force as a patrolman. It was a six-man contingent in a town that was practically owned and operated by Daisy Air Rifle.

Two years later he quit.

"The main reason I left was because I couldn't live on what they paid the policemen. When I came to work in 1942, patrolman's pay was $125 a month, and there were no fringe benefits like today."

IN APRIL, 1944, he became manager of the Austin Cab Co. but a few months later he was drafted.

As a military policeman, Johnson was stationed in California and, then was attached with a military government outfit and shipped to Moriako, Japan, Iwaki Prefecture.

Japanese prefectures, he explained, are similar to the states comprising the U.S.A.

After more than a year in the Army, he returned to Plymouth and his old job at Austin.

EVEN THOUGH HE HAD QUIT as a policeman he was more interested in police work than anything else, he said.

In 1948 he reapplied for his patrolman's post, but was not hired until 1950.

When half of the city commission was recalled in 1948, and the city manager was relieved, no one was easy to get along with at city hall and he surmises these circumstances held up the processing of his application.

Once he was re-hired, he was quickly promoted--Johnson became sergeant in 1952, lieutenant in 1956 and assistant chief in 1959.

Although he has been offered the position as chief of police at least three times, he said, "I don't want the job. As far as I'm concerned the job leaves you nothing but headaches to go home with each night and I dislike having headaches."

JOHNSON CAME UP through the ranks the hard way and most of what he knows about being a policeman he learned by trial and error.

However, he is not a man who desperately clings to the past. He said, "The first two years I worked here I made some mistakes. As far as I know I have never repeated those mistakes."

"I've been here a long time and have made enemies as well as friends. I've probably walked on some toes, but you have to on this job."

The veteran law officer is not pleased with "liberal" U.S. Supreme Court rulings--dealing with confessions and evidence--in the past few years.

He said it has hampered the effectiveness of law enforcement in Plymouth and everywhere else.

"I LOOK FOR the pendulum to swing the other way in years to come."

"A lot of policemen today don't know exactly what to do and they are afraid of violating the law themselves."

The charges of police brutality probably derive from some of the older policemen still on the force who never had to worry about civil rights and believed a crack on the head was the best enforcement of the law, he added.

"Today we're more careful of who we hire--for instance we have educational standards that never existed before."

He added that even a small amount of a college education is helpful to a police officer.

Regretting that he never went to college himself, he said, "I used to say I couldn't go to school because of the Depression, but I was just fooling myself."

"When I graduated from high school, I wanted to get out and make money. I wasn't interested in further schooling."

"WHEN I STARTED, they didn't send anybody to school, you had to teach yourself."

"The policeman of today shouldn't be a lawyer, but he should know the fundamentals of law."

Other things have changed besides the caliber of policemen, he commented.

"The people have changed too. I don't think the young people today have the respect for the policeman nor do they respect their parents either."

"However, I don't blame the kids. I blame the parents."

Claiming parents are too lenient, he said a lot of parents grew up during the Depression and had nothing. Consequently these parents tried to give their children all they didn't have when they were young. Both have suffered for this, he added.

JOHNSON VIEWS HIMSELF and other law enforcement officers as examples of what their uniform represents.

"I think a policeman has got to be an example before the people. You have to be a living example in order to be a good representative of the police department," he explained.

Three Persons Hurt In Pair Of Crashes

Three persons were injured in two traffic accidents in Plymouth Township last Saturday.

Bruce Zogor, 19, of 14971 Dogwood, Plymouth, a passenger in a car driven by Marsha Wilson, 18, of 36019 Orangelawn, Livonia, was injured when their car struck two trees in Edward Hines Park near Haggerty Rd.

The driver told the Wayne County Sheriff's Department that she was traveling east on Edward Hines Dr. at approximately 40 miles an hour when she lost control.

The vehicle hit one tree on a curve and came to rest against another tree, she said. The driver escaped without injury.

Two girls received injuries Saturday afternoon when the auto in which they were riding struck another.

Police said that a car driven by Steven Heller, 16, of 8840 Marlow, Plymouth, was struck from behind by an auto driven by Patricia Szabla, 31, of 9220 Hackberry, Plymouth.

Two passengers in the Szabla car, Patrice, 11, and Yvonne, 5, received injuries while two others, Lori, 8, and Judith, 7, were not hurt.

Neither of the drivers was harmed.

Heller said that when he was making a left turn into the A&W

Drive-in on Ann Arbor Rd. near Lilley Rd., his auto was struck. Police said the driver was following too close to the other vehicle.

Super Market Robber Held For Trial

Stanford Micol, 22, of 1666 Sheldon Rd., pleaded guilty to breaking and entering Farmer Jack's super market at 2:47 a. m. Saturday. He was bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court for trial by Plymouth Municipal Judge Dunbar Davis.

City police said they found Micol standing outside the building near a broken window. They said his hands were cut and that a witness identified him as the person who broke the window.

Friday, authorities from Plymouth High School filed a complaint with the city police stating that several tennis racquets and tennis balls were stolen from a shed behind the school within the four previous days.

They had no idea of who could have taken the equipment.

Police reported that on Thursday night the Burger Chef Carry-out restaurant was broken into and $18 or $19 was stolen. Police withheld any further information pending a more thorough investigation.

Authorities from Smith Elementary School reported that on Saturday between midnight and 10:30 a.m. someone broke open a window of the school and ransacked the art storage room.

Police said they could find nothing else missing. School officials estimated the cost of the damaged window to be about $16.

Thoburn Joins Credit Union Conference

Norman Thoburn, 1052 Harding Street, Plymouth joined more than 200 other Michigan credit union leaders in the annual Presidents' Conference, July 3-7, at Boyne Mountain Lodge.

He is accompanied by his wife, Catherine, and son, Stephen (8), who will participate in special programs planned for family members.

The Conference is sponsored by the Michigan Credit Union League in cooperation with the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations of Michigan and Wayne State Universities.

Thoburn is president of the University of Michigan Employees' Credit Union, Ann Arbor, in which he has been a director for five years.

Esch Sees New Surtax Helpful To Housewife

By REP. MARVIN ESCH

Since coming to Congress in January of 1967, I have consistently spoken out against the irresponsible and reckless fiscal policy followed by the Administration and the controlling party of Congress.

Since 1965, the cost of living has gone up over 8.5 per cent. Since 1964, the general price level is up well over 10 per cent. Since 1960, the Federal budget has increased over 100 per cent. The last Congress, the 89th alone boosted expenditures almost $50 billion over any previous budget without securing any new revenues to cover the increased costs.

If we are honest with ourselves, we cannot let such irresponsibility continue. We must admit that government, like each citizen, must pay its own way.

Government can't create anything. It can only give back to the people in services what it first takes away from them, either in taxes or in the cruellest tax of all, inflation.

In the 1960's the American taxpayer has been paying this cruel tax of inflation much more than he realizes. The American housewife paid $10.89 for a sack of groceries in January, 1965. She now pays $12.00 for the same amount. The one dollar bill which you had in your pocket in 1965 is worth but 91 cents today. Your savings account with a $500 balance in January, 1965 is worth but $454.13 in principal today. And your $10,000 insurance policy, which you took out the same year, is now worth only $9,- 083, a depreciation of $917.

BUT THE HIDDEN tax of inflation is most cruel on those who are on fixed incomes. The retired American with an income of $2,500 in 1965 now finds his income shrunk to $2,-295.50. The point is obvious then. Under the continuing inflationary spiral, each American citizen was paying a tax whether he was aware of it or not.

By the time the 90th Congress convened it was clear that we had massive inflation and that the value of our dollar was in great jeopardy both at home and abroad. The President indicated his belief that the only answer to stop inflation was to raise taxes and he stuck to that position from the beginning.

In contrast, I have continually called for spending cuts in non-essential spending and for tax reforms. To me it was clear that we must actively move to cut our government waste and irresponsible programs and there is an obvious need for establishment of spending priorities on essential social programs.

The issue of fiscal responsibility reached a climax last week on the conference report on H.R. 15914. The Administration, which refused to cut expenditures as we have been pushing for, brought about this showdown. The conference report called for a reduction in expenditures of $6 billion, a $10 billion cutback in authorizations which we have been pushing for, coupled with an increase in taxes through July of next year.

AFTER ALMOST two years of talk and compromise, members of the House were finally faced with the question of being honest about our fiscal policy and we could only vote yes or no on the package as presented.

A "no" vote would mean that we accepted 5 per cent yearly inflation as a way of life and that we were willing to spend $25-30 billion more next year than we were taking in.

A "yes" vote would mean that we admitted being in the worst financial situation the nation has experienced since the 1930's and that something must be done to correct it, no matter how politically unpopular the decision might be.

Reluctantly, I followed the latter course and voted for the conference report.

In the long run, I believe the increase which we passed last week will save, rather than cost, the American people money. A three per cent inflation each year costs a family of four $285. The surtax will cost $111. A family of four with an income of $15,000 will pay $206 extra in taxes each year—in contrast to the $416 in buying power which would have been lost through rampant inflation.

In effect, the Congress had no responsible choice left to it but to cut back on the cost of inflation and bring responsibility to our federal fiscal management.

I believe the American people will welcome an end to reckless spending and rampant inflation and they will accept the tax increase because they know that their government, like their own households, must tighten the belt when the going is rough.

MOVING UP—Ralph E. Bell, who has been director of freight sales in Evans Rail Car Division in Plymouth, has been named Vice President in charge of Sales by the United States Railway Equipment Company, Chicago, a subsidiary of the Evans Products Company. He will have headquarters at 105 West Adams Street, Chicago.

TELL IT TO

Glenn

What is an American? That's a good question to ponder on the eve of our independence and one that I think is answered quite well in the following anonymously penned words:

He yells for the government to balance the budget and then takes the last dime he has to make a down payment on a car. He yells for speed laws that will stop fast driving, and then won't buy a car if it won't make 100 miles per hour.

He gets scared to death if a billion dollars is voted for education, but he's cool as a cucumber when he finds we're spending three billion a year for tobacco.

He knows the line-up of every baseball team in the American League, but he doesn't know the half the words in "The Star Spangled Banner."

He ties up his dog and lets his 16-year-old son run wild. He is a man who will insult his wife's cooking and then go on a fishing trip and swallow half-fried potatoes, burnt fish and gritty, watery coffee made in a rusty gallon bucket and think it is good.

He is the only fellow in the world who will pay 50 cents to park his car while he eats a 25-cent sandwich.

He lives in the only country in the world that has more food than any other and more diets to keep him from eating it. He lives in what is supposed to be the most civilized nation on earth, but one in which pay-rolls still cannot be delivered without an armored car.

But Americans are still pretty nice folks. Calling a person "a real American" is one of the best compliments we can pay each other.

Most of the world is itching for what we have, but they'll never have it until they put forth the effort of our American forefathers and start scratching as they did.

America is great — let's keep it that way.

MRS. PHYLLIS MITCHELL of 48801 Gyde Road, has received her master's degree in elementary guidance and counseling from Eastern Michigan University.

Mayflower Townhouses Given Tax Exemption

In an opinion handed down by State Attorney General Frank Kelley, the Mayflower Townhouses Corp. has won its appeal for exemption of city of Plymouth taxes in the amount of approximately $10,000.

The Mayflower Corp., a series of low income houses, appealed to the State Tax Commission for relief and the case found its way to the Attorney General.

In a letter to The Honorable Thomas C. Sharpe, a member of the House of Representatives, the Attorney General ruled that "low income or moderate income persons," refers to persons and families who qualify for admission within the income limits provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development of the United States Government, to housing projects financed with federally aided mortgages.

He further stated, "a grant of tax exemption must rest upon legislative authorization. It can not be made dependent upon action or inaction by the governing body of any municipality. A qualifying housing project for low income persons and families derives its tax exemption status from the legislative enactment, not the passage of a resolution by the governing body of a municipality."

A copy of the letter was sent to Kenneth Way, City Treasurer and Assessor, who passed it along to the City Commission. The report was received and filed.

The Commission was given to understand that the matter of the $10,000 in taxes can now be spread over the remainder of the rolls.

will ride in convertibles in the parade, and Miss Plymouth will be in the lead car.

Mary McGonagle was selected as second in the judging followed by Cathy Brink, third, and Sue Keith, fourth.

The judging panel included: Sharon Cannon, a nation consultant for Montgomery Ward; A. Wouters, an employment consultant from Detroit; and John Gilbert from United Airlines.

THE WINNER received a dozen red roses, dinner for two at the Hillside Inn, gift certificates to Dunning's of Plymouth, Kay's of Plymouth, and Harvi's Suburban Casuals of Farmington, a set of luggage and a place of honor in the July 4 parade in Plymouth.

Rumors-up received necklaces and a place on the float with the winner.

Last Thursday, all contestants were privately judged in bathing suits and were interviewed by the judges. Monday evening they were publicly judged in evening gowns and on public poles. The four categories were swim suits, personality, evening gowns and public poles.

Miss Leonard, a senior at Plymouth High School, works at Harvi's Suburban Casuals in Farmington, her sponsor. She is an accomplished organist and pianist. She told the judges she hopes to be a medical technician and wishes to gain hospital experience.

The other girls not named among the four winners were Lois Owens, Linda LeBlanc, Iris Fowler, Reine Terry, Sue Beyer, Jan Conford, Jocelyn Granger and Corrine Mitchell.

"Testimony of Two Men" by Taylor Caldwell, author of "Dear and Glorious Physician," is the story of Jonathan Ferrier, a brilliant and persecuted physician, who is haunted by his wife's tragic death and must fight in the present to overcome nineteenth-century opposition to and ignorance of medical science. The novel is set in a Pennsylvania town at the turn of the century.

"The Princess" by Gunnar Mattsson is the true story of a twenty-three year old girl afflicted with Hodgkins disease, a fatal cancer of the lymph glands. The author fell in love with and married the girl and, with his love and encouragement and massive radiation treatments, her condition is improving.

"The Walking Stick" by Winston Graham is a novel set in London. A beautiful young woman, daughter of an intellectual English family, walks with a walking stick due to a childhood case of polio. She falls in love with an attractive Bohemian painter and through him becomes involved in a dangerous, complex robbery.

"On Judaism" by Martin Buber contains both the early addresses (1909-1918) and the later addresses (1939-1951). His basic theme is the heightened awareness of each man's self in relation to his fellows.

"Unspeakable Practices, Unnatural Acts" by Donald Barthelme collects fifteen mysterious, idiosyncratic and explosive stories by the author of "Snow White."

"The Last Year of Malcolm X" by George Breitman is a study of the evolution of Malcolm X's ideas, before his assassination two years ago, which was leading to policy differences within the black nationalist movement.

"Gluttons and Libertines" by Marston Bates is a noted biologist's irreverent view of our presuppositions about man and nature. It scans such topics as food and sex, feeding time and mating habits, insect-eating and cannibalism, incest, alcohol and narcotics, the use of clothing, and human meanness.

DPW News Notes

KEN VOGRAS, DPW

During the past week the Public Works Department was busy with the storm that dropped 3.92 inches of rain on the city. It was necessary to close off Harvey Street at Byron Street due to three feet of water across the road.

Between the police desk and the public works phone, more than 60 calls were taken regarding the storm.

The North Tonawanda Creek overflowed at the tube at Harvey and the Central Parking Lot. The water ran across Harvey Street into the Central Parking Lot, but no damage was done to the stores.

Crews were busy with sanitary sewer problems as well during this period. This also was due to the storm when sanitary sewers became overloaded with storm water.

Work on mowing grass in all city parks and playgrounds and cemetery was continued.

One three quarter inch water tap and one six-inch sewer was installed.

Work has begun on our seal coating program; we will be scarifying and grading various streets.

Two service leaks were repaired.

Service line on Linden was checked to see if iron or copper.

The creek crossings were cleaned of debris. Tree limbs also were picked up along all streets.

Various signs were installed and replaced throughout the city. One-way signs were installed in the alley behind the hotel.

The sanitary sewer on Linden Street was rodded out.

Three funerals were held at Riverside Cemetery.

How Plymouth Won National JC Presidency

We doff our hat to Wendell Smith, the Plymouth Jaycees and area and state chapters for the successful campaign that resulted in his election to the national presidency of the 6,000 chapters.

In less than 10 years, the Plymouth Jaycees have accomplished something that only one other chapter in Michigan has been able to achieve — election of a member to the national presidency.

The only other Michigander to gain such recognition from the Jaycees was Paul Bagwell, who was elected to the presidency quite a few years ago and later ran for governor of Michigan.

IT WASN'T HAPPENSTANCE that brought the high honor to Smith. It was the result of years of personal work with the organization during which he was a member of the Plymouth chapter, then became the greatest president and leader in the group's history.

This was followed by months of work at a state level which brought the state presidency, followed by national director and finally the No. 1 post nationally.

During the time Smith was personally building a future in the Jaycees, the Plymouth chapter backed him in all efforts. The members realized early that they had the kind of leader who could go far with the proper support.

They furnished that support, attending hundreds of local and state meetings to spread the virtues of Wendell Smith, selling chapter after chapter to get behind their man.

Plymouth and Michigan had delegations plugging Smith at no less than three national conventions. The local delegation built up solid support for him in the elevation of a state president three years back.

They selected him "Young Man of the Year" two years ago and staged such a successful campaign that he was named one of the five "Outstanding Young Men of Michigan" at the state convention in Saginaw.

It was that same support that won him a position as a national director and led to his nomination this year for the presidency.

Even at the recent Phoenix, Ariz. national convention, Smith was strictly a "darkhorse" in the early balloting. He was given little chance to win the coveted honor.

That's when the Michigan and Plymouth delegation went to work. They cornered heads of state groups, they kept plugging away, they did everything possible to sell their candidate—and they succeeded on the 22nd ballot. That was the most ever needed at a national Jaycee convention to name a president.

That's why each and everyone deserves the highest praise for a job well done.

IT WAS APPARENT from the first time Wendell Smith sat down with an Observer reporter that this was a young man who would go far in whatever profession he chose. He's a rising young executive with Kroger.

He had tremendous drive, personality and the ability to make an impression wherever he appeared. In addition, he was successful in getting his fellow members to cooperate in every program attempted and get the job done.

He earned the chapter presidency because he was the kind of a leader the Plymouth organization had needed. He was selected "Man of the Year" for his many accomplishments. It was the same qualities that won the admiration of the state organization and brought the state presidency and designation as one of five "Young Men Of the Year In the State."

And now he has won national recognition for his efforts, becoming the first U.S. president to come from such a small city. That is another tribute to the work of the chapter and the personality and drive of Smith.

We are sure that Smith will become one of the Jaycees' best presidents. He will be lost to the Plymouth community for the next 12 months with his new duties, but you can bet that the story of Plymouth will be told and retold by the new president as he visits the 50 states and represents the United States in the international and world meetings.

Again hats off to a fine young man and the group of young men who so successfully supported him over the years and finally achieved their goal.

—R. T. Thompson

Griffin Socks It To Bureaucracy

Sen. Bob Griffin is a quiet-looking man with owlish glasses and a reputation as a formidable maneuverer in Congress.

But the Michigan Republican also has a delightful way of sticking pins in bureaucrats and making them feel as uncomfortable as humanly possible.

He gave the bureaucrats and the opposition fits.

WELL, LATELY there has been a good deal of interest in the freezing and suspended animation of the human body.

Naturally, it raised a legal question, and a Detroit man brought the legal question to Bob Griffin.

The question was: If the man were to have himself frozen and then revived in 10 years, could he continue to receive his Social Security checks?

Senator Bob threw the question to the Social Security Administration, undoubtedly with a silent cackle, and waited for a reply.

THE REPLY CAME from acting Commissioner Arthur E. Hess, and in essence the answer was yes.

"The principal question," said Hess, "would seem to be whether the frozen individual continues to be alive."

After pointing out that the question had never arisen before, Hess said "we would be obliged to withhold benefits pending the periodic submission of competent medical evidence showing that the individual in a state of 'suspended animation' continued to be alive."

Hm-m-m-m, said Sen. Griffin.

A LOT OF QUESTIONS were left unanswered, Griffin declared.

Who could submit the evidence of life?

Who could cash the man's Social Security checks while he's in suspended animation?

Finally, Griffin noted, the government failed to indicate, if checks were sent to frozen people, how long the Social Security trust fund would last.

Just like a Republican. Everybody else is worried about benefits, and he starts asking where the money is coming from!

From the Publisher's Desk OBSERVATION POINT

By Philip H. Power

There is something deeply wrong with this nation's political system.

Judged from the perspective of Independence Day, 1968, our politics has neither shown it can meet promptly and effectively the stabbing social problems of today nor demonstrated any ability to produce the new men and ideas necessary to fulfill this role.

Bits and pieces of evidence keep piling up.

THE JULY 1 ISSUE of Newsweek began its lead article:

"Suddenly, it was summer 1968—and the political atmosphere rumbled with premonitory thunder. After a winter of discontent and a spring of hope, a new mood of frustration began to grip the nation."

For all the months of convulsion, the tumult and the tragedy, the two-party system seemed to be grinding inexorably toward the selection of those Presidential nominees most closely identified with the premises and the unfilled promises of the recent past.

"The pressure for change was there: it could be read in the noisy crusades of students, the rebelliousness of the black and the poor, the manifestos of the intellectuals."

The magazine then asked whether American politics could respond to the demands. The question remained unanswered.

JAMES RESTON, the highly respected columnist for the New York Times, last weekend wrote a column discussing Washington's preoccupation with person-

"The capital," he wrote, "is very conscious of the destructive forces now loose in the world, and is looking for somebody to come forward who can show the way to some unity of purpose and common control of human affairs. Not finding the unifying principle, it searches for the personality, and it has not yet found one in any of the presidential candidates."

THE INADEQUACY OF politics to find solutions for our social problems goes beyond discontent with individuals like Mr. Nixon or Mr. Humphrey.

The repeated failures of our political system, coupled with the dim prospects for any substantial change, have led an increasing number of Americans to conclude that the only effective route is to abandon the process of orderly political change and seek instead a new politics of confrontation or even of violence.

The Michigan Daily, the student newspaper at the University of Michigan, complained about the reluctance of the Democratic party regulars to give what the Daily considers a "fair share" of convention delegate representation to Senator McCarthy. The paper concluded that "Not in recent years has there been such a graphic demonstration that there is no recourse whatsoever for serious dissent within the structure of the American legal-political system."

"If Hubert Humphrey is nominated in August, we will resign from the system that has shown us we cannot win. We will be forced to carry our dissent through another system altogether."

The editorial ended, "We hope you will join us on the barricades."

I AM NOT ENTIRELY sure that the American political system is as rotten as this.

I retain a deep faith in the ability of our politics to adapt itself to new problems, to design new and relevant solutions, and to set up new means for the involvement of the people in politics.

But sometimes I wonder, and the following story is an example of why I am not always optimistic.

PERHAPS YOU REMEMBER earlier this year when a group of Negro athletes at Michigan State University announced they wouldn't play during the coming year unless certain injustices were remedied. These injustices involved the very low percentage of black students at MSU, no black members of the coaching staff, and generally a slack attitude on the part of the university toward the problem of racial discrimination.

President Hannah promptly appointed a 16-man committee, thereby putting the matter back into the usual political routes for decision-making. And, wonder of wonders, the committee came up with a lengthy and constructive report in only a month or so.

Hannah accepted the recommendations — involving recruitment of Negro students for MSU, appointment of black coaches, and so on—promptly, and now the situation looks as though it has settled down.

The point of this is not that a problem got solved through ordinary political means at MSU (i.e., a committee report), or even that some black athletes went outside normal political channels and adopted a strategy of confrontation to force the university to do something.

Rather, the point is that there was nothing in the committee's report that Hannah, who has been chairman of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission since 1957, has not known and advocated for years. Yet, in his role as chief political officer of MSU, he had done nothing about the situation and finally moved only when forced by a group of Negro athletes threatening a boycott.

ONE OF THE things our political system is supposed to do is solve problems before violence imposes a solution.

But when situations such as the local and trivial one I have described are taking place all over the country, I can only conclude that something is terribly wrong.

It isn't pleasant thinking, especially on July 4th, but I have a hunch that unless something is done, and soon, this nation could be facing the most serious crisis it has experienced since an earlier Independence Day in 1776.

This Is The Week That...

All of a sudden the younger generation makes sense to Lonnie Brashear.

Lonnie is a lawyer in Livonia and a father. Parents worry when they see the beards and the marches of a generation daring to be different.

And a parent always wonders whether he did right for the kids. If we're lucky, someday we'll know — but the waiting and fretting and worrying are painful.

That's why Lonnie is lucky today and so is the world. His son, Pvt. Lonnie Brashear, is at Fort Dix, N. J. His letter has got to help:

DEAR DAD,

Well, how is everything at home or with you? It's O.K. here but it's hot. We had a forced march yesterday. Full pack, 11 miles later, and I thought I would die. We are in hand-to-hand combat training now. Next week we go into rifle training. Everything is easier now but the boredom gets to you if you're not tired enough to sleep. We had our physical fitness test today and I scored 434 out of 500 pts.

Just got back from chow and we have a few minutes of spare time. I hope that you are coming down for graduation. My sergeant says that I might not get a leave because there will be only eight days between when I graduate and when my school starts. Oh well, I can't worry about that now.

PLEASE forgive me dad, if this letter is choppy, but I've had three formations and one detail since I started it. I'm on my free

Improvement Every Place—But One

History calls them radicals. They wrote letters throughout the colonies informing people of the injustices and meddling of the crown.

At the peak of their resistance, a British boat, Gaspee, was burned as it patrolled near Providence, R.I. And one cold December night in 1773, they disguised themselves as Indians and destroyed tea valued at 18,000 pounds.

We have made unbelievable progress in the 192 years since that relatively small group of radicals resisted and finally revolted against their government across the sea.

We have conquered darkness with electricity. We have conquered disease with vaccines, radium and machines. We have discovered the secrets of the atom.

We have spanned continents and the globe with diesel and jet engines. We have probed the blackness of space with men and electronic miracles. Our list of achievements is endless.

In less than two centuries, we have grown into a great nation. Our country is filled today, from coast to coast. We are no longer a small group of colonies separated by mighty forests and Indian villages.

We have altered and improved every area of our 20th century lives, save one.

We have not learned to dissent without destroying.

Allies Join Mayor On Stop And Frisk In Livonia

Livonia City Council President Edward H. McNamara today announced his support of a local stop and frisk law whether sponsored individually or jointly by Mayor Moelke or Councilman Ventura. "Until the constitutionality of such a law was verified by the recent Supreme Court ruling," he said, "I could not conscientiously back such legislation. I feel still that such a law is really only a psychological tool for police but I will now give it my wholehearted endorsement and work for its passage in the Council."

Mayor Harvey W. Moelke's six-month lobbying effort for a "stop and frisk" law this week picked up such an unlikely supporter in Livonia's City Council as his longtime political adversary, Councilman Peter Ventura.

Ventura made known his plans to introduce such legislation on his own following a ruling earlier this month by the U.S. Supreme Court that it is constitutional.

The mayor introduced a similar ordinance in January but it bogged down in the political campaign which saw Ventura and Moelke pitted against each other. In the process, however, the mayor's proposed "stop and frisk" law became bottled up in committee.

"I OPPOSED SUCH legislation at the time," Ventura explained, "because I felt, as was the general feeling in the council, that such a law was unconstitutional. However, if the highest court in the land rules otherwise then certainly I intend to and will support it."

Students Go Ga-Ga Over Yoga Class

The demand for summer yoga lessons at the Livonia Family Y has been so great, officials say they will begin another series July 9.

Hours will be 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Y building. Ruth Gill, instructor, will teach a series of eight 1 1/2 hour classes for beginners.

Trial

ever dirt seeps into politics it's usually in direct proportion to the apathy toward politics shown by businessmen and citizens. The businessman who does belong to the Chamber of Commerce is doing his share to keep politics clean and working well for him. He isn't saying 'Let George do it.'

"I have suffered enough over this and my cost hasn't been small. However, I do not intend to pursue this thing further to any degree at any time. I just want my friends to know and I hope things get back to normal where friends can say 'Hello, Woody' and shake hands without wondering if they are associating with a criminal."

MOELKE WAS as adamant in his support of a Ventura bill as he has been of his own stop and frisk proposal.

"I don't care who gets the credit for introducing it. I just want to see the police get the tools they need," he said regarding joining Ventura, or vice versa, in passage of a local "stop and frisk" law.

He added he would appear before the council on behalf of either ordinance.

"I will support any ordinance submitted by any member of the council that will accomplish the same purposes I wanted and without imposing any undue restrictions on the police," he said.

"Maybe," he remarked, "we can give the public enough confidence so they won't feel they have to buy guns to protect themselves. I think the people have the right to expect that their police will have anything that will help in controlling or deterring crime."

In a letter to the council on Jan. 17, Moelke explained the proposed "stop and frisk" law as a means "to give police personnel the authority for temporary questioning of suspicious persons in public places."

"The purpose of this amendment," he wrote, "is to prevent apprehended persons from claiming that the police department did not have the authority to search them or their vehicles for dangerous weapons or for the transporting of drugs or stolen merchandise."

"I BELIEVE that this amendment will strengthen law enforcement in our community. I believe that no honest, law-abiding citizen will object to a police officer being sure that a suspicious person is not carrying a dangerous weapon or transporting stolen goods or dope. I believe that the people of this community want our police department to have every possible opportunity to apprehend and place under arrest any person who is engaged in an illegal act."

The proposed Moelke amendment reads as follows:

"Temporary questioning of suspicious persons in public places. No person shall refuse to give his name, address and an explanation of his actions upon demand of a police officer who has stopped such person in a public place in the City of Livonia, whom he reasonably suspects is committing, has committed or is about to commit a felony or a breach of the peace, or is violating a condition of pardon, parole or probation."

"WHEN A POLICE officer has stopped a person for questioning pursuant to this ordinance and reasonably suspects he is in danger, he may search such person for a dangerous weapon. The police officer may take and keep such weapon or any other thing, the possession of which may constitute a crime, until he has completed the questioning, at which time he shall either return such item, if lawfully possessed, or arrest such person."

Gaullists Sweep French Assembly

PARIS -- Gaullists have won enough seats in the French National Assembly to do without the help of the Independent Republicans, to reduce the number of left-wing deputies from 197 to 64 and to gain a safe majority to carry out the "tough" policies that de Gaulle has warned are needed after the national up-risings.

The election had been provoked by the massive social and industrial unrest and the victorious Gaullists are admitting, "the future will be difficult."

WASHINGTON -- By MIG escort, an American chartered plane, carrying 200 US soldiers bound for Vietnam, was forced to land on a Soviet island in the North Pacific.

The Defense Department said the plane took off from McCord Air Force Base, Washington, and was scheduled to land at Yokota, Japan. It apparently flew off course, crossing into Russian air space.

MOSCOW -- Shortly after the US, Russia and 32 nations signed a non-proliferation treaty barring the spread of nuclear weapons, Soviet Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin announced that he has proposed talks on further measures for disarmament.

As agreed to in the treaty, the US, Russia and Britain will not give nuclear weapons or control of them to non-nuclear states.

PARIS -- Happy French and Germans celebrated the end of internal industrial tariffs in the common market on Strasbourg's bridge between France and Germany.

This 15 per cent was the last tariff barrier to be dropped in the six nation market.

OTTAWA -- Regardless of Canada's new Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's request that talks begin between the seaway workers and the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, the strike continued.

Closed since June 21, the waterway doesn't seem any nearer to being opened. The union is asking 15 per cent wage increase over two years and the authority has said it will not go higher than 12 per cent.

SAIGON -- The largest governmental upheaval in the Saigon government could begin if Premier Tran Van Huong keeps his promise to dismiss 50 to 100 local officials in the next month, in his attempt to get rid of corruption and inefficiency in the South Vietnamese government.

The new premier said he wants to restore his people's trust in their government, and he feels the grass roots level is the most effective place to do this.

WARSAW -- Two 30-year-old Polish-born men were sentenced to prison terms for allegedly aiding US intelligence agents.

Teachers Attend NEA Convention

Fourteen regional delegates from Wayne County are among the estimated 12,000 members of the National Education Association taking part in the annual convention in Dallas, Texas, this week.

"The regional delegates are being joined by representatives from every local affiliate in Michigan," Richard Croll, Metro Area Center Director, said. "Michigan will have one of the largest delegations of all the states," he continued.

Representing the State will be 300 MEA members, local, regional and state delegates. Among the local delegates are: Donald Bundy, George Calder, John Ort, and Leon Martin--members of the Livonia Education; Boyd Bosma, Redford Union; Donald Louis, Hilda Densmore and Marjorie Frazier of Wayne; Othmar Leaze, Garden City; and Lynne Peterson of South Redford.

Nine seminars on current educational issues, civil disorders, professional sanctions, professional negotiations, the Education Professions Development Act, extremist attacks on the schools, American education in 1984 and urban education, are scheduled for convention delegates.

WORLD ROUNDUP

SAIGON -- A small fishing-village was split open by Viet Cong explosives, resulting in 88 deaths. US spokesman reportedly said, "This may be one of the worst atrocities of the war."

The 30-minute attack by an unknown number of Viet Cong, wounded 103 refugees and sent the residents of the village of 4,000 fleeing to the 14 US positions held by Marines to help guard the town.

ATHENS -- The military regime's new Greek constitution gives King Constantine the powerless status of a figurehead, takes away much of Parliament's authority and gives the executive nearly unchecked powers.

Taken from power, the King will no longer determine appointments of premiers and ministers and his leadership in the military is reduced to a title. King Constantine is still in Rome, where he has been in exile since Dec. 13.

Red Cross Gives Redford Flood Relief

Flood victims in widely scattered sections of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties were given emergency Red Cross assistance by the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross this week even as rains continued to fall.

In accord with the charter obligation of the Red Cross, the chapter provided emergency food and clothing to 56 families in the Pontiac area and 32 family-units in the Redford area.

A Red Cross disaster emergency relief office was opened at the Redford Township Hall, 15145 Beech-Daly, to enable victims to register for assistance based on disaster-caused needs.

Red Cross volunteers and staff working through the weekend provided mobile canteen service.

is in good condition and reportedly improving steadily. Maria Elena Penaloza listened to music, ate chicken and meat and talked with her parents in the Valparaiso Naval hospital.

Canada's second heart transplant recipient, Gaston Paris, 49, is doing well. Doctor's report his new heart is working excellently.

VATICAN CITY -- Pope Paul VI has urged Catholics to return to church dogma and rid themselves of the "passion for change and novelty" on issues ranging from papal infallibility to original sin.

Delivered at the final ceremony of the Year of Faith, the papal address was met with enthusiastic applause as he criticized "unrest in certain modern quarters" of the church.

In Car Mishap

Mickey Hoover, 33, a former resident of Redford, died June 21 in a head-on crash on Haggerty Rd. in Bloomfield Township.

Township police report Hoover was driving north when his car collided with a southbound auto which apparently had skidded over the center line.

He is survived by his wife, two children, his parents, five brothers and two sisters.

Kaline's Return Tonic For Tigers

The day of his return was a surprise . . . where he performed wasn't.

After being inactive six weeks with a fractured right arm, Al Kaline came back to work for the Tigers Monday. It wasn't expected the Tigers would reinstate him to their roster until after next week's All-Star break.

But manager Mayo Smith was looking for a spark on the heels of the drubbing the Tigers absorbed Sunday from the Chicago White Sox.

It wasn't that Smith was too worried about the Tigers' American League lead. It stood at 7 1/2 games Monday morning. He just didn't want to take chances.

BESIDES the California Angels were pitching a lefty in George Brunet Monday night and the Tigers' No. 2 catcher, Jim Price, who usually works against southpaws, was on the sidelines with a muscle pull. This meant Bill Freehan had to catch, instead of playing first.

So Kaline said he was ready and Smith put him right to work—but not in the outfield where he has starred all these years for the Tigers.

Kaline performed at first base, his new "home" in the Tigers' future plans.

Kaline not only turned in a creditable job in the field, but he singled over Mickey Stanley with the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning and the Tigers went on to win, 5-1, behind the superlative pitching of Mickey Lolich.

FREEHAN SOCKED a pair of homers -- one with a mate on -- and Jim Trecewski clubbed another to make things easy for Lolich who allowed five hits and fanned 14, a season's high for a Tiger pitcher.

"There's no question Kaline gave us an extra lift," said Smith afterward. "I honestly hadn't thought we'd put him in the lineup so quickly as a starter."

"But, then, I did say that when Al was ready we'd look over the situation and make the move we thought would help the club the most."

Kaline has said he would like playing first. Mickey Mantle, of the Yankees, has told him that he could extend his career a year or two.

THE TIGERS had another big weekend. They beat Chicago on Friday, 5-4, when Stanley drilled a two-run homer in the seventh.

On Saturday, Jim Northrup made history with his third grand-slam in a week to help the Tigers win, 5-2, as Denny McLain notched his 14th win against two losses.

Sunday was a day the Tigers would like to forget. Nothing went right.

McLain was to go No. 15 Wednesday night against California, who'll also be at Tiger Stadium Thursday afternoon for a single game.

Oakland comes in for a night game Friday, an afternoon affair Saturday and a double-header Sunday. Thereafter, the Tigers will be gone for two weeks.

Gold Cup Called Off; Try Sept. 1

The weatherman has knocked out the Gold Cup race on the Detroit River.

At least until Sept. 1.

After a week of rain and bumpy waters which played havoc first with the qualifying and the race proper, Gold Cup officials decided to re-set festivities until the September date, hopeful that by then, the weather will have changed.

Rain knocked out the last two days of the trials and forced the committee in charge to rule that all 15 boats on the scene could race for the Cup. Originally, only the 10 fastest were to contest.

Came Sunday, the day for racing, and 100,000 lined the Detroit River.

The sun was out for the first time in a week. But two to five-foot waves made it impossible for the boats to run.

So the race was put off, until Monday. But the river was no better Monday.

So now comes a two-month wait before the hydroplanes will decide the Gold Cup.

Hurlers Shine In Mack

It'll take some doing to surpass the pitching duel Paul Tonnemacher, of the Livonia Spartans, and Dave Rice, of Livonia's Allen Fence team, staged in Connie Mack League play in between last week's rains which plagued most the sandlot schedule.

The two fought for nine innings and when the game was halted because of the curfew, neither team had scored a run.

So, since the league awards one point for tie games, the contest won't be made up.

Paul Tonnemacher, a product of Stevenson High and one of the pitchers on the Observer's 1968 All-Area prep team, just missed a no-hitter.

It was another Rice, Dave's brother Bill, who unloaded a single in the second inning to spoil what otherwise was a hitless gem by Tonnemacher, who set down 16 batters on strikes.

DAVE RICE, meantime, gave up six hits and struck out nine. He was "saved" from defeat in the ninth inning by some alert eyeball by his mates and by the umpires.

Tonnemacher singled and when Rick Horstman seemingly doubled, Tonnemacher whipped around to score. But it was discovered that Tonnemacher failed to touch second base.

The Allen team appealed and Tonnemacher was ruled out and Horstman lost his double. He could be credited only with a fielder's choice.

THE COLEMAN-MOSS team, comprised mostly of players from North Farmington High and making its debut in Connie Mack play, had no trouble downing the Livonia Elks, 7-1.

Steve Eversman and Mike McCoy shared the pitching for SAFE AT THIRD is Marv Hurlburt, of Allen Fence, as he steals successfully against Northville. Third baseman Doug Anglin is still waiting for the relay.

Plymouth Golf Star Cops Title

Gary Robinson, 18, No. 1 player and captain of Plymouth High's golf team this past season, put together 74-75-149 over the weekend to win the Salem Hills 36-hole tournament.

Robinson, who'll enroll at Schoolcraft College in the fall, joined the other players in defeating a wet course and then high winds.

Mark Hammer of Garden City won the Second Flight flag with 94-88-182. Carl Dennis, Plymouth, posted 90-95-185; Jack Latoski, Westland, 96-89-185; Dave Sutton, Farmington, 98-94-192; Kevin Nutt, Garden City, 98-97-195.

John Jakabiak, from Redford Union High, who'll be a sophomore at the University of Michigan next fall, finished in a tie with Dr. Roy Smith, who has offices in Farmington. Jak-

George Schreursbury of Westland turned in 78-77-155, John Johnson, Livonia, 78-80-158; George Meehan, Dearborn Heights, 77-83-160; John Studenke, Westland, 78-86-162; Don Niebo, Farmington, 78-85-163, and Armand Gode of Redford an 80 before pulling out the second day.

THE FIRST Flight title went to Bill Schultz of Redford with 81-75-156. Redford's Paul Haase had an 85-77-162, while Jay Sechenes of Westland and Tim Kennedy turned in identical scores of 87-82-169.

Dennis Devlin of Garden City came in with 83-89-172; Dr. William Reinbolt of Garden City, 85-87-172; Carl Stalder, Farmington, 88-88-172; George Dawson, Livonia, 88-

91-197, and Bob McClellan Jr., Westland, 85-94-174.

Redford Opens Charge In FP

The charge is on by Redford Township's defending state and league Free Press baseball champs.

Back-to-back victories -- first over Northville, 6-2, and then over Garden City, 1-0, hoisted Redford into the league lead.

Tom Booker's four-hit pitching kept Northville well in control after Redford jumped into a 3-0 lead in the first inning when Bob Holmes started things with a homer.

Kevin Fox singled, Reg Barringer doubled and Bill Fahey singled to add to the Redford scoring in the inning.

In the fourth, a walk to Joe Himmelsbach was followed by three hits -- by Booker, Holmes and Bill Howd -- to make it 5-2. Then Himmelsbach singled and came home on errors in the sixth.

DENNY CARROLL BESTED Bob Chidester in a mound duel in the Redford conquest of Garden City.

Carroll gave up six hits, fanned three and walked one. Chidester allowed five hits, fanned three and didn't walk a man. The game was decided in the fifth inning when Barringer singled, went to second on Fahey's sacrifice and scored on Leland Bjerke's single.

Garden City threatened in the sixth when Dick Saylor singled and Ed Puishes doubled with one out. Carroll got the next man himself and the final out on a fly.

In the seventh inning, Jim Furay opened with a triple for Garden City. After the next man went out on an infield tap, Carroll walked Greg Pike before delivering a double play ball to end the thriller.

LIVONIA'S CARDINAL De-coring had a tough time over the weekend, losing twice.

Dearborn Heights beat the Livonia team, 5-1, on Saturday night when the Livonians were held to three hits. Jerry Dettler doubled in Dave Paden, who walked, with the lone Cardinal run. Paden and Dave Fisher singled for the other Cardinal hits.

Bill McAlpine suffered the loss.

Round Three Play Opens Minus Winner In No. 2

The rains have produced a strange situation in Greater Livonia's Class A League.

The third round of the season's schedule has started, but there's still the matter of finishing the second round and deciding the championship.

Round Two was supposed to end Sunday night. However, the unfinished business will determine who's the champion.

As the teams entered round three, Redford, Livonia and Dearborn Heights still had a shot at the second round flag. Redford had a 6-1-1 record and was tied with 13 points (two for a victory and one a tie) with Livonia, whose mark stood at 6-2-1. Dearborn was a shade back with a 6-3 record and 12 points.

Redford and Livonia helped themselves in Sunday's action with victories. Redford blitzed Plymouth, 10-4, and Livonia won over Dearborn Heights, 5-2.

REDFORD USED three pitchers—Rick Krumm, Rich Berryman and Larry Salci with Krumm the victor. He had to leave early after hurting his back.

Ron Boyne was the loser. He got off to a tough start when Dave Woloch and Gary Schaefer homered for Redford in the first inning.

Plymouth regained a run in the third when Larry Wells singled over Bob Monteth, who had tripled.

Tim Fisher's triple and Terry Rothwell's single produced one Redford run in the fourth. In the fifth, singles by Berryman, Sam Lamerato, Schaefer, Fisher and Bob Green chased in three more.

Lamerato singled, stole second and scored on Schaefer's single in the sixth before Plymouth counted twice on hits by Pete Woodward and Larry Stevens, a walk and an error. Monteth singled over Brian Gilles in the seventh.

Redford finished the scoring in the eighth on a walk to Robby Masson, a hit batsman (Berryman), Lamerato's triple and Schaefer's sacrifice.

TOM BALLISTERE posted his fifth victory for Livonia, although he was tagged for 10 hits by Dearborn Heights. His mates also swung mighty bats, collecting 11 hits.

A walk to Bill Pelham and triple by Dave Beck started the Livonia scoring. Jim Rose, Paul Portney and Gary Krupinski singled for another run in the third.

In the fifth, Pelham, Jim Viola and Butch Bowen singled along with Roger Frayer's walk for two more runs. Portney tripled over Rose, who had singled, with the last Livonia run in the sixth.

12 Teams Await Holiday Tourney

Twelve teams will make up the field for the Mayor's Invitational baseball tournament at Livonia's Henry Ford Field starting Thursday and running through Sunday.

Most of the teams come from the Greater Livonia Connie Mack League. They'll be joined by Farmington's American Legion team, the Post 282 from Ypsilanti and a team from Roseville.

In Thursday's play, Farmington faces Roseville at 1 p.m.; Livonia Optimists engage McKay's Partyville of Garden City, 3:30; Livonia Spartans meet Post 282, 6 p.m., and Hubert Realty of Livonia plays Garden City West, 8:30.

The rest of the first round will be concluded Friday when Plymouth Elks take on Livonia Elks, 1 p.m. and Phillippi Service of Livonia engages Northville at 3:30.

There will be two games Friday evening, two more Saturday evening and the championship and consolation finals on Sunday starting at 6.

Golf Aces Fire In Buick Open

FLINT—Most of the big names in golf have converged on the suburban Warwick Hills Country Club for the $25,000 Buick Open which starts Thursday and runs through Sunday.

The likes of U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino, Masters King Bob Goalby, top-money winner Bill Casper and two-time former Buick winner Julius Boros will be shooting for the rich jackpot at stake in the Buick, only major golf tourney in Michigan this season.

For reasons difficult to explain, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, won't contest in the 72-hole meet. But the meet officials can take heart from the fact, this trio hasn't been winning very much of late.

Palmer, in particular, has his major problems and has been finishing anywhere from 15 to 25 strokes behind the leaders.

THERE'LL BE 144 in action in the Buick with 18 holes scheduled for each day of play.

The King To Face All Stars

The "King," fireballing professional softball pitcher, and his "Court," three men who serve as his only other defense, will meet the Redford All-Stars on Friday, July 12. The game is slated for 8:30 p.m. at Claude Allison Field, Beech between Six and Seven Mile roads.

Eddie Feigner, the King, who has averaged 24 strikeouts per game (9 innings) through one season, includes a stint of blindfold pitching in each game.

He has struck out 10,023 of 12,430 batters faced blindfolded. In 8,140 pitching exhibitions, he has struck out 65,119 batters.

This doesn't give his shortstop, Dwayne Kamphus and first baseman Al Jackson too much to do in the field, nor much relief from boredom for catcher Wayne McGill.

Kamphus is able to relieve the King on the mound, too. No slouches as hitters (they get 2,500 times at bat during a season of over 300 shows per year) the Harlem Globetrotters of the diamond make up for any opposing hits that get to the outfield.

A home run, two triples, a double and a single by one competitor went for just one run, while the King and his court rapped out five runs against the full nine-man team.

MSU Soph Golf Champ

CHARLEVILLE -- Lynn Janson, 20, a Michigan State Sophomore, is the new State Amateur golf champ.

He beat Birmingham's Don Stevens, 5 - 4, in Sunday's final at the Belvedere Country Club, Livonia's Melvin (Bud) Stevenson, a three-time former winner of the crown, was ousted by Mike Thompson of Midland 2 - 1, in Saturday's action. Thompson went on to the semifinal before losing to Janson, 3 - 2. Don Stevens edged Bob Wilkinson of Grand Rapids, one up, in the other semifinal.

Bats Boom In Legion Twin Feast

After some rough going, Farmington's American Legion baseball team may have come alive -- at the plate. The team, which lost nine of its first 10 starts, erupted Sunday to knock off Milford, 7-2 and 6-5, in a doubleheader and quit the cellar in the 18th District League.

What satisfied Manager Jerry Kujawa most was the Farmington hitting.

His charges rattled out 12 hits in the opener and 11 more in the nightcap.

"That's more than we totaled in most of our other games," said Kujawa.

A FIVE-RUN fourth inning settled the opener and made Denny Drapalski an easy winner. He scattered six hits, fanned 11 and walked three.

Back-to-back triples by John Thomas and Ron Henke started the big fourth. Ron Weber singled and Ross Patton walked. Harry Kujawa singled in two runs and Dennis Perry knocked in the other.

Henke finished the game with a triple and single.

THE RELIEF pitching by Weber enabled Farmington to take the second game as Thomas and Perry each collected hits.

Drapalski and Steve Sager singled and came home on Perry's triple for Farmington's first two runs. A walk to Weber and singles by Drapalski, Sager and Kujawa produced two more runs in the third.

The final two Farmington runs were scored in the sixth when Ed Snider singled, Thomas doubled and Henke singled.

Mack

the winners giving up five hits between. But they struck out 14--Eversman six and McCoy eight.

Eversman singled in Bob Graessle with Farmington's first run. In the third a single by McCoy, a walk and an error added another marker.

A single by Jay Hazzelroth, a walk to Rick Scott and a pair of sacrifices brought in another run in the fifth. In the sixth, Ron Emmert, Rick Etnahen, Norm DeCourcy, McCoy and Jantz all singled to account for four runs.

Two walks and a single by Paul Moersch produced the only run for the Elks.

COLEMAN-MOSS picked up another victory Sunday by posting a 7-4 verdict over Hubert Realty with Rick Scott and McCoy dividing the pitching.

A three-run homer by Daniels was the big blow for the losers.

Rick Knock homered for the winners while Jay Hazzelroth doubled in three runs and Jim Walsh knocked in another marker with a double.

IN A SPARKLING pitcher's duel, Allen Fence of Livonia bested Northville, 1-0, as Gary Battle for the winners allowed only four hits and struck out four.

A diving catch by Mike Perrino in the final inning helped save the game for Battle.

The only run for the winners came when Mike Hurlbert was hit by a pitch in the third inning. He stole second and scored on Dave Rice's single.

Indirect Government

WASHINGTON -- There was an average of one elected local government official for every 270 Americans last year, according to the Census Bureau.

Results of a released survey show there were 521,758 officials elected by popular vote to posts in 81,298 state and local government units.

Wert Fourth Tiger Named For All Stars

By George Mack observing sports

If you're a Little League advocate, read elsewhere. You won't like the following.

It's not anything we deliberately have manufactured. It's a story we feel we should report. George Lerchen, once a Detroit Tiger, once a Cincinnati Red, once a minor leaguer, now makes his home in Garden City.

He's the superintendent for a construction company, but hasn't lost his interest or love for baseball.

A year ago, George was asked to manage a Little League team in Garden City. He graciously accepted.

His tour of duty lasted one season. By his own choosing.

But let's let Lerchen tell his own story.

"I THOUGHT it would be fun trying to teach a group of youngsters baseball... baseball the way I learned it in my 12 years in organized leagues — four in the majors.

"I'd go to practice and work hard with the kids. They worked hard, too. They didn't fool around much.

"We'd practice all phases of the game. We'd work on batting and pitching, fielding and running.

"In the workouts the boys did everything great. I used to go home from practice very happy with what I saw.

"Something seemed to happen between the practices and the games, however. The boys would forget what we practiced, what we told them.

"They'd start playing badly. The first few times I figured, 'well, the season is young; they'll learn.'

"But the story kept repeating itself as the season went on. I'd go home mumbly. I was mad. My wife would try to talk me out of my blues.

"I'd get the feeling that maybe I was wasting my time and my energy."

LERCHEN, AS STATED earlier, stuck it out for one year. They wanted him back in Little League this season, but he had different ideas.

"The opportunity was presented for me to manage the Garden City West team in Connie Mack. They're high school boys... mostly from West High where they had a winning season this past spring.

"What a difference working with these boys. You tell them something and they work on it in practice and use it in games.

"They seem to appreciate what you have to say and it certainly has paid off for them so far in the young season."

LERCHEN PAUSED...

He reflected about the Little Leaguers.

"Maybe, it was wrong for me to blame the boys on the team.

"Perhaps they actually were a little too young at the ages of 10-12 really to comprehend and retain what we were trying to tell them.

"But, there was something else that got me. It was the driving madness of the parents and older folks for the Little Leaguers to win.

"I'm all for winning, too. But I had the feeling—and still have—that in the cases of youngsters, what comes first has to be teaching and perfecting the fundamentals... that when the boys master the techniques of the game they'll win and enjoy what they're doing more.

"But, as I said, the parents just didn't seem to want that.

"It was WIN and WIN and WIN."

FROM WHAT he now sees, Lerchen hopes that there'll be others who'll jump aboard the bandwagon and help with the managing and coaching on sandlot teams.

"These are the boys who need help more," Lerchen said. "It's the young teenager who finds himself in a vulnerable position, more so than the kid of 10 or 12.

"The 17 or 18-year-old involved in baseball or some other sport during the summer is less apt to wander off the course and get involved with the law.

"There's something extra nice about the kids in this Connie Mack League.

"None of the boys has a girl-type hairdo. They are well disciplined for the most part.

"The boys have recognized and learned the importance of teamwork. It's an aspect that will help them as they go on in life."

Lerchen would like to see the number of teams reverse itself in the area.

"Instead of a town like Livonia having 140 Little League teams and only six or seven for boys of high school age, it should be the other way around. The same should hold true in all communities. We'd all be better off."

Don Wert has become the fourth Detroit Tiger player named to play for the American League in next Tuesday night's All Star game in Houston.

Wert was picked as a utility infielder by Manager Dick Williams of the Boston Red Sox, who'll guide the American League's best against the cream of the National.

Pitcher Denny McLain, Catcher Bill Freehan and Outfielder Willie Horton previously were named to the AL All-Stars from the Tigers. Freehan and Horton were voted to the starting lineup and it's expected that McLain will be the AL's starting pitcher, Tiger Manager Mayo Smith will be a coach in the game.

The National League added its pitchers and utility men and to the surprise of nobody named Pitchers Juan Marchal, Bob Gibson and Don Drysdale to lead its staff.

FOURTH TIGER named to the American League All-Star squad is Third Baseman Don Wert. He joins Catcher Bill Freehan, Outfielder Willie Horton and Pitcher Denny McLain.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE finally has got around to following the American League next year and operate in two six-team divisions.

Originally, the senior circuit had said it would function as one 12-team circuit after San Diego and Montreal joined as expansion teams.

But after a high level meeting of the major league's executive committee, the NL agreed to go along with the American, but just what division the NL will adopt won't be announced until after the loop's owners meet next week in Houston.

The NL has forced the American to re-establish a 162-game schedule for 1969 after the American had said it would cut back its slate by six games. Under the revised divisional setup, the two winners will meet for the league crown and the right to enter the world series.

THREE DETROIT LIONS draftees distinguished themselves in Friday's East-West College All-Star game that kicked off the 1968 football season.

Greg Landry, the Lions' No. 1 pick from Massachusetts, handled the East quarterbacking and clicked 14 times for 160 yards.

Jerry DePoyster of Wyoming, another Lions pick, booted four conversions for the winners while Phil O'Dell, recovered a big fumble and also caught a 40-yard pass.

The game's big star was Heisman trophy winner Gary Beban who hit on 15 of 20 passes for 222 yards and fired a 40-yard touchdown pass with less than five minutes to go to break up a 20-20 tie.

SPEAKING OF THE Lions, they'll kick off practice at Cranbrook next Tuesday.

Meantime, the Pontiac Firebirds of the Midwest Football League already are drilling and will stage a hospital benefit game in Rochester on July 27 for those fans eager to see football so early in the year.

RALPH OWEN, who resigned recently as head of the Catholic High School League, has been named new executive director of the Michigan Amateur Athletic Union.

A WEEK AGO, the Minneapolis team of the American Basketball League announced it was moving to Miami Beach in hopes of luring more fans.

But the Minneapolis-St. Paul area won't go without a team. The Pittsburgh Pipers are saying good-bye to the Smoky City and moving to the north country.

LIFE HAS CHANGED for Jim

Bunning, the ex-Detroit Tiger ace, now with Pittsburgh. When he beat Philadelphia, 10-1, Friday, it marked his first victory in two months. His overall record for the season now is 4-9.

THE AMERICAN-OWNED Ribero captured the Irish Sweepstakes and made a lot of folks reach. Odds-on favorite Sir Ivor finished second with Val D'Aoste from France third in the 1 1/2 mile race.

SPEEDS IN THE 180 m.p.h. category are expected to be hit in Thursday's Firecracker 400 auto race at Daytona Beach, Fla. Cale Yarborough in a Mercury will be shooting for his third straight victory in the July 4 classic. Mario Andretti and A. J. Foyt in Fords are other top contenders.

OCC Announces Four Summer Productions

Oakland Community College and the Court Theatre of Detroit have combined to present three outstanding plays for exciting and provocative summer theatre entertainment in the Ferndale High School.

The plays are "In White America," two one-act plays "The Private Ear-The Public Eye" and the hit musical "The Fantasticks."

"In White America" will be staged July 12, 13, 21, 23, and Aug. 9, 17.

Produced off-Broadway in 1964, "In White America" is a documentary describing what it has been like to be a Negro in this country.

"The Private Ear-The Public Eye" will be held on July 14, 19, 20, and Aug. 4, 24.

Written by the noted British playwright, Peter Shaffer, author of the award-winning Broadway production "The Royal Hunt of the Sun," "Private Ear-Public Eye" were first produced in London and then on Broadway.

"Private Ear" is a tender and poignant account of an ill-starred romance and "Public Eye" is a rollicking comedy about an Anglo March-type character who, at the moment, is playing the part of a private detective for a wealthy accountant who suspects his wife of infidelity.

"The Fantasticks" will be presented July 26, 27, and Aug. 11, 16, 30, 31.

The score of "The Fantasticks" includes such memorable songs as "Try to Remember" and "Soon It's Gonna Rain."

Reserved seats are $2 and general admission $1. Reserved seats for the three-production series are $4.

Children's Comedy Slated

"Please Don't Sneeze," a Court Theatre production for children, will be held at 1 p.m. Saturdays, July 6, 20, and Aug. 10, 24, plus a Sunday production on Aug. 18 at Ferndale High School, 881 Pinecrest, Ferndale.

The rollicking comedy with music, written by Canadian actor and playwright, Chris Wiggin, "Please Don't Sneeze" tells the story of Baron Blunderbuss whose castle is invaded by the cunning, scheming Hortense Anthropy.

Miss Anthropy who, in typical villain fashion, proceeds to boss the servants and make a great nuisance of herself while trying to catch the Baron in her snare, has only one blind spot; she can't stand germs.

The servants fashion a merry plot, convincing the Baron that he is desperately ill and finally chase Hortense off the premises in a bang-up finale. Songs, dances, mix-ups, a pair of crazy doctors, a cuckoo clock that can't tell time—all add up to an hour of charm and fun as Hortense gets her come-uppance.

General admission is 50 cents.

"Please Don't Sneeze" is a presentation of the Oakland Community College Summer Theatre Series.

For reservations and ticket information, call OCC - Court Theatre Box Office, LI 2-2535.

Carillon Concert

The director of music at Detroit's Central Methodist Church will be the next guest artist to perform on the carillon at Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, on July 7 at 4 p.m.

He is Frederick Marriot. He is in addition organist for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. The carillon recital is open to the public without charge. Concert-goers may sit in their cars or on the church lawn. Christ Church Cranbrook is located at Cranbrook and Lone Pine Rds.

VLADIMIR ASHKENAZY

Russian Pianist To Solo

The pace increases as the Meadow Brook Festival enters its second week of concerts in Oakland University's Baldwin Memorial Pavilion.

The great Russian pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy will be soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra under Sirten Ehring's direction this week. He will play the Mozart Concerto No. 20 in D minor (K. 455) July 4-5, and Prokofiev's Concerto No. 2 in G minor July 6-7.

The Thursday-Friday program also will include Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 in G Major and Copland's Third Symphony. On Saturday-Sunday the orchestra portion of the program will include Brahms' Symphony No. 4 in E minor and Respighi's Symphonic Poem "The Pines of Rome."

On Tuesday, July 9, at 8:30 p.m., the Cleveland Piano Trio will play in the Wilson Theatre on the Oakland Campus under sponsorship of the Meadow Brook School of Music.

The program will include Beethoven's Sonata in A Major, Op. 69; Schuler's Fantasy for Solo Cello; Weber's Variations for Piano, Op. 27; and Mendelssohn's Sonata No. 1 in D Major.

The members are James Levine, pianist, Jerome Rosen, violinist, and Lynn Harrell, cellist.

Wednesday, July 10, at 8:30 p.m. the Meadow Brook School of Music student orchestra will give its first performance of the season in the Baldwin Pavilion under James Levine's direction.

The program will include Wagner's Overture to "Rienzi," Weber's "Symphonie," Schubert's Symphony No. 4 in C minor, and Berlioz' "Symphonie Fantastique."

OCC Sets 'Oklahoma' Film Series

A film classics series featuring American and foreign films during July and August will be sponsored by Oakland Community College beginning Tuesday, July 9, at Ferndale High School, 881 Pinecrest, Ferndale.

Films will begin at 8 p.m. The July series will include three American classics revealing the development of cinematography as an art from both in acting and directing, according to Robert Falk, assistant professor for Theatre and Drama, OCC Orchard Ridge Campus, and coordinator of the series.

THE JULY series is as follows:

July 9, "Modern Times" -- a Charles Chaplin great (1936)
July 16, "The Informer" -- John Ford's masterpiece (1935)
July 23, "Citizen Kane" -- Orson Welles' greatest (1941)

A second series to be presented beginning Aug. 7 will highlight four important and historically significant foreign films.

THE AUGUST series is as follows:

Aug. 7, "The Passion of Joan of Arc" and "Blood of the Poet" (France, 1928, 1932)
Aug. 14, "Ivan the Terrible," Part I (Russia, 1944)
Aug. 21, "The Bicycle Thief" (Italy, 1949)
Aug. 28, "Richard III" (England, 1955)

Fee for each series is $4 and single admissions are $1.50.

For further information, contact Community Services Division, 642-6211.

'Oklahoma' Opens New Season

Musical comedy grew up in 1943 when "Oklahoma!" opened in New York. The famous ring-a-dings of the operetta stage with music destined to be played by a string trio behind the potted palms was a thing of the past.

"Oklahoma!" took a hard look at the hard life of folks in the Oklahoma Territory just before it became a state. Rodgers and Hammerstein Incorporated their songs into the tapestry of the story. Moods were set; action moved forward and in-depth character studies were advanced in Hammerstein's poetry. The musical stage was no longer confined to comedy as it moved into the realm of serious drama.

It is fitting that the Detroit Summer Theatre opens its six week second season with a silver anniversary salute to "Oklahoma!" (July 10 through 14).

Other shows in the Summer Theatre series at the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium are "Guys and Dolls" (July 17-21), "Finian's Rainbow" (July 24-28), "Carousel" (July 31-Aug. 4), "Kiss Me, Kate" (Aug. 7-11) and "Brigadoon" (Aug. 14-18).

Tickets for Detroit Summer Theatre are at the Art Institute Ticket Office, Hudson's, Grinnell's and Sears Customer Service Centers. Information can be obtained by calling the Art Institute Ticket Office at 832-2730.

"BANDOLERO" — Beautiful Raquel Welch plays a young Mexican widow in "Bandolero" currently playing at area theaters.

Schoolcraft Concerts Begin July 10

WAYNE DUNLAP will direct the Court Orchestra in Schoolcraft College's Summer Music Festival.

Wally Roberts GOING UP 'CURTAIN'

"Lechery, lechery, still wars and lechery! Nothing else holds fashion. A burning devil take them."

Thersites, a ragged rascal in "Troilus and Cressida" comments wryly on the Trojan War, a considerable number of years removed from our own violent sixties today.

The University of Michigan Players gave an erotic, erratic presentation of "Troilus and Cressida" last week in the Lydia Mendelssohn Theater.

AS THE WORD "lechery" denotes excessive indulgence in sexual desire so was this student production a lusty, lively interpretation. From the opening swish of Pandarus and his effeminate gestures to the final moments of Cressida's nymphomaniacal posturing, Director Richard Burgwin has stressed sex and all its deviations.

Stratford Shakespearean Festival audiences viewed "Troilus and Cressida" about five years ago. The lasciviousness inherent within the Bard's bold script was muted and played with indirection rather than laying it on with a trowel. The end result was a tasteful production with Shakespeare's message coming across far more meaningfully than if the sexual overtones had been splashed about indiscriminately.

Director Burgwin erred all evening in the direction going too far. Excess was the byword. Actors were allowed to "Chew the scenery". A horrible practice since it invites laughter when the situation on stage meant to be naturalistic suddenly takes on a melodramatic tone.

The wild, gyrating death of Pandarus at the conclusion of "Troilus and Cressida" epitomized Director Burgwin's misdirection of this most difficult Shakespearean play. In the text, the Bard merely indicates that Pandarus exits after his final line. He does not specify a death scene.

As William Hutti at Stratford performed the role you knew that Pandarus, lecher that he was, was soon to die because of his dissolute ways. You almost felt sorry for the old boy. He was a tempter, but allowable old rascal.

IN THE U of M production, Pandarus died a violent, throbbing, shuddering death. He staggered, gasped, rolled, and finally pitched backward hitting his head jerk back convulsively. Robert McGill truly deserves the dying award of the year.

Such theatrics only serve to detract from the play. Director Burgwin used other lighting tricks, sound effects, and incidental music cues to spice up "Troilus and Cressida". Interesting as many of the innovative touches were they merely muddled up the romance between Troilus and Cressida and added chaos to the war between the Greeks and Trojans.

"Troilus and Cressida" is seldom done since it has a whopping big cast, 32 characters. You need more than a score card to tell all the players. You have to have a real good understanding of Homer's "Iliad" and Chaucer's great poem "Troilus and Criseyde" to know what's really going on.

As difficult as it might have been to edit, Director Burgwin should have sliced out at least 30 minutes from his long first act (an hour and 45 minutes) and 20 minutes from his second act (an hour and 10 minutes). Given a smaller more concentrated version of "Troilus and Cressida" the audience might have appreciated this infrequently-seen Shakespearean production.

By TIM RICHARD

Schoolcraft College will again offer a series of four Wednesday evening musical programs in July beginning on the 10th.

A recital and three concerts will feature the works of Franz Schubert and Francis Poulenc, 19th and 20th century composers, respectively, whose works are similar in their lyric quality.

This "Summer Music Festival" is offered as part of Schoolcraft's second annual summer music school and is directed by Wayne Dunlap.

THE FOUR programs all begin at 8:30 p.m. in the court between the wings of the Forum building on the campus on Hagerty Rd. between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia. All tickets are $1.50 at the door. Concertgoers may use either parking lot.

In the event of bad weather, the programs will be moved indoors.

This is the second year that Schoolcraft College has offered a series of outdoor concerts. Dunlap has selected music that can be performed by a small orchestra, sticking to two composers and a single theme, and performing works usually ignored by the large festivals such as Meadow Brook.

What he has achieved is a listenable program adapted to show off to best advantage locally available musical assets. Besides, one doesn't have to drive an hour to get there.

THE FOUR programs: July 10—Chamber music recital by faculty members. Pianists Donald Morelock and Allen Shaffer and tenor Edward Kings will present piano duets and songs by Schubert and Poulenc.

July 17—Mischa Mischa-koff, Detroit Symphony concertmaster, will be featured in the Mendelssohn violin concerto in E minor with the Court Orchestra.

July 24—Pianist William Doppmann, a young American performer who appeared here last year, will be featured in Beethoven's second piano concerto in B-flat major with the orchestra.

July 31—The Kenneth Jewell Chorale, composed of local and southeastern Michigan voices, will be featured in Poulenc's "Gloria" for soprano, chorus and orchestra and Schubert's Mass No. 6 in E-flat major.

WITH A YEAR of experience under its belt, Schoolcraft has made some improvements in the summer program, said Dunlap.

The Court Orchestra will be slightly enlarged (27 to 30 members) and have more preparation time. The orchestra will be composed of Detroit Symphony and Plymouth Symphony members and a few of the best students.

Acoustics will again be enhanced by an "acoustical cloud," a sort of scientific version of the handbell.

Other improvements have been made for audience comfort. Refreshments will again be served at intermission.

DUNLAP, A CREATIVE programmer with a keen sense of audience, last year chose the works of the classicist Frank Joseph Haydn and the contemporary neo-classicist Hindemith.

This year's composers, though they lived more than a century apart, also have a good deal in common. "Both have a lyric quality," said Dunlap. "Poulenc often said his early idol was Schubert. Poulenc isn't well known, but he attracts musicians because his work has a fresh quality."

"He was part of a group called 'The Six,' a group of French contemporary composers who promoted French contemporary music."

"He wasn't afraid to borrow tunes from anywhere—the music hall. Some of his work is 'vulgar' in the best sense of the word."

THE WEDNESDAY night concerts are part of a program that includes summer class instruction for qualified high school and young college musicians.

Many of the orchestra members and performers teach classes during this session. There is some concentration on chamber music. Small group instruction is a feature of the summer music school, and chamber music was written for small groups.

Besides, Dunlap points out, it's fresh and challenging to the students—and is currently enjoying something of a revival

Art Institute Offers Discount Tickets

Musical and financial dividends will reward season subscribers to the Detroit Institute of Arts Concert Series who act before Sept. 3.

The gala first concert of the six scheduled for the 1968-1969 season will be the nationally-acclaimed Pennsylvania Ballet with its company of 50 and orchestra on Monday evening, Oct. 21.

To increase the subscription base supporting this outstanding cultural program of six concerts, anyone reserving one season ticket at regular cost will enjoy a 50 per cent reduction on a second season ticket ordered at the same time. Regular season prices for the six shows are $30 to $15. The special offer will be effective through Labor Day.

All concerts excepting the opening Pennsylvania Ballet will be on Friday evenings: Nov. 1: I Madrigalist Di Venexia, seven players and three vocalists from Venice.

Dec. 6: Guarneri Quartet, unrivaled American group from New York City. Jan. 24: Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia, 36 virtuosos, with guest pianist Joann Freeman of Detroit. Feb. 21: Claude Kipnis and his Mime Theatre Company. Mar. 7: Christoph Eschenbach, rising German pianist on first U. S. tour.

Additional information on this special musical bonus offer for season subscribers may be obtained by telephoning the museum's Membership Office—832-2298.

Chaplin Films

Four Charlie Chaplin classics—"The Vagabond," "The Count," "The Adventurer," and the "Immigrant" will be shown at 8:30 p.m. Friday, July 5, in the Rackham Educational Memorial Auditorium. The movies will also include "The Music Box," a Laurel and Hardy classic.

Drama Festival Opens July 9

A century ago many people thought actor Joseph Jefferson's name was really Rip Van Winkle. Today some may get the same impression about actor Ken Chomont.

For 30 years Jefferson played the role of the man who slept for 20 years. In all Jefferson was Rip 2,500 times. He began by using a version of the Washington Irving tale adapted for stage by the playwright Boucicault. But Jefferson constantly rewrote the play himself until it became a property identified almost solely with him.

One hundred years after Jefferson became Rip Van Winkle the play was revived in the original Jefferson manner by the Greenfield Village Players.
The man who played the title role was Ken Chomont.

KEN CHOMONT enjoyed the role so much that he then set about to create a musical version of the Jefferson play. In collaboration with his friend
Patrick McElroy, Chomont co-authored, wrote and orchestrated music for, and produced

"O, Rip!" And once more Ken Chomont played Rip.
Chomont has spent 50 evenings before the public in a Sleepy Hollow setting, but soon that number will rise to 66. He will reach that total at the end of this year's American Drama Festival, during which four early-American plays will be presented in their original style.

Among those will be "Rip Van Winkle" with Ken Cho-mont as the star. In fact, he will have leading roles in all four productions.

The American Drama Festival will open on July 9 in the Henry Ford Museum Theatre.
The opening performance will be the comedy farce "Needles and Pins" which was first presented on Nov. 9, 1880.

"Rip Van Winkle" will come to life once more on July 15 and will alternate with "Needles and Pins" nightly except Sundays for two weeks.

Admission to the American Drama Festival is $1.75 for adults and 75 cents for children. Group rates are available.

29 Perish In Car, Water Mishaps

LANSING -- Twenty persons were killed in automobile accidents and nine others drowned in Michigan during the weekend. Included in the water deaths was Joseph Wegrzyn, 18, of Dearborn, who drowned in the Huron River, Oakland County, during an attempt to rescue a young girl who managed to save herself.

YPSILANTI -- William C. Hornberger, a 28-year-old journeyman electrician, died from electrocution during a maintenance job at the Ford Motor Co. Plant in Ypsilanti.

Jim Tennant, head of security and safety at the plant since 1963, told police the accident happened in the annex building's shaft jobs annex. Hornberger, who had been employed at the plant since 1963, was performing a routine job at the time, reports said.

YPSILANTI -- The Ypsilanti Press has been sold by Booth Newspapers, Inc. to Panax Corporation. The announcement of the sale was announced jointly by Gordon Craig, Booth president, and John P. McGoff, president of Panax. Change of ownership became effective immediately.

In making the announcement, Craig stressed that the sale was made most reluctantly and was prompted by an anti-trust investigation by the U.S. Department of Justice.

The government inquiry, begun in July of 1967, was to ascertain whether ownership of both the Press and Ann Arbor News by Booth constituted a monopoly of the daily newspaper market in Washtenaw County.

DETROIT -- Five men from southeastern Michigan have been arraigned in Detroit before U.S. District Court Judge Thomas P. Thornton on charges of refusing induction into the U.S. Armed services.

LANSING -- Jerry L. Suratek of Holt learned in Municipal Court that pennies are not acceptable for payment of fines in Lansing. A ticket had been placed on the Suratek family car for parking at an expired meter. When Suratek attempted to pay the fine by sending 200 pennies in the "postage paid" envelope that accompanied the ticket, he was arrested.

At Suratek's trial in Municipal Court before Judge George R. Sidwell, Assistant City Attorney Terrence Clem explained that U.S. Federal Reserve Board rules and a Michigan law hold that pennies and nickels are not "legal tender" for amounts over 25 cents.

The judge fined Suratek $8 and charged him $25 court costs. The alternative, he said, would be 10 days in jail.

LANSING -- Most workers will hardly feel the impact of Lansing's city income tax which went into effect Monday.

The one per cent tax on the net income of residents and one-half per cent levy on earnings of nonresidents working in Lansing will be withheld in bite-size chunks by employers in most cases.

No one knows yet how many income taxpayers the city will have or how much the yield will be, but city officials estimate the tax will bring in slightly over $4 million the first year.

LANSING -- Michigan Secretary of State James M. Hare has announced his support of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic party's presidential nomination.

"Of all the candidates," Hare said, "Vice President Humphrey is best qualified by experience, judgment, and temperament to guide America through the trying years ahead."

YPSILANTI -- Preliminary figures show a summer enrollment of more than 7,000 undergraduate and graduate students at Eastern Michigan University, according to Dean Julius M.

Robinson. This figure is 12 per cent higher than last summer and the highest in the history of the university, Robinson reported.

ANN ARBOR -- Troy L. Rutman, 37, of Dearborn Heights, who won the 500-mile race at Indianapolis 16 years ago, has been found guilty by an

STATE AND LOCAL ROUNDUP

Ann Arbor Municipal Court jury of drunk driving. Rutman was arrested three months ago by Ann Arbor City Patrolman Jerry Wright who said he clocked Rutman's small, foreign-made car at 55 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone.

Judge S.J. Elden ordered Rutman to pay fine and court costs of $140.

LANSING -- Only 32 of Michigan's municipal courts will continue to exist after next Jan. 1, nearly all of them in Detroit suburbs, according to a house judiciary committee study.

Sixty-nine other municipal courts will be abolished under the lower court reorganization act, signed into law last week by Gov. Romney. They will be replaced by a new state-wide system of district courts.

While 43 municipal courts were eliminated automatically by the long-fought bill, the fate of 56 others was left to local governmental action.

Detroit is exempt entirely from the provisions of the new lower court act.

DETROIT -- Detroit police are searching for a prowler who stabbed two young sisters to death Monday in the early morning darkness in their east side home.

Police identified the victims as Nora Guiley, 11, and her twin sister, DeAnna.

LANSING -- Gov. George Romney has vetoed a bill which would have given most legislators exemption from Lansing's new city income tax, stating that the Legislature had "unintentionally given preferential treatment to some of its members."

Romney suggested that legislators come up with new legislation next year to clarify the problem for those members who are already paying an income tax in their home districts.

LANSING -- Lansing led all other Michigan cities in per capita retail sales in the 1967 fiscal year while reaching a record $442,304,300 in total sales to rank fourth among municipalities.

Lansing's local retail sales averaged $100.37 per capita which was $22.69 above the state average.

RCA To Train For TV Repair

RCA unveiled for leading Detroit area retailers, a new training facility designed to alleviate the most serious problem facing the color TV industry.

At a new RCA Service Company center in Livonia, the company demonstrated its program to meet the critical demand for skilled TV service technicians.

Mayor Harvey Moeke and other Livonia dignitaries toured the facility, one of six recently opened by RCA in key metropolitan areas across the country as its pace-setting response to the serious shortage of television specialists.

"Without an all-out attack of this kind on the problems of recruiting and training, the nation's television viewers might soon be forced to wait weeks or months just for routine service on home receivers," said Myron Telep regional manager of RCA Service Company.

UNDER THE PROGRAM, RCA is hiring employees without previous TV experience of electronic education. While on the RCA payroll, they are put through intensive training that enables them to progress from apprentice, through a series of intermediate skills, to journeyman television technician.

"This forward approach to television training has become a necessity in light of the fact that the purchases of new color TV sets alone in the next five years will top 34,000,000," Telep said.

"The principal reason for the establishment of these training centers is to assure our dealers and distributors that the sharply increasing number of owners of RCA Victor color and black-and-white television receivers will continue to receive prompt, expert service."

He estimates that an additional 25,000 color television service technicians will be needed in the industry in each of the next five years to keep pace with the tremendous growth of color television in the home.

Traditionally, TV service technicians have come from the ranks of men who received electronics training in the military or who have completed at their own expense courses in television service at a trade school.

"These sources of manpower are woefully inadequate today to meet the needs of this booming industry," Telep said.

THE NEW DETROIT training center, at 3622 Industrial Road, Livonia is identical in size and makeup to the other centers and is operated by a permanent staff of skilled instructors. Instruction is provided for both veteran RCA Service Company employees and new employees with no background in electronics.

This year, the six training centers are expected to graduate a total of 2,796 men with a schedule of 5,632 man-weeks of training, according to W.W. Cook, manager of technical training at the RCA Service Company home office in Cherry Hill, N.J. This is an increase of 50 per cent over the number trained last year.

SINCE THE LOCAL facility began operating nearly 250 men have been trained in a variety of programs geared to both new and present employees said Henry E. Dallas, manager of the Detroit center. These programs include:

--Basic TV service to acquaint new employees with television fundamentals. On completion of the four-week course, trainees receive six months of field experience under direct supervision of a journeyman technician and must complete required home study programs. Once this program has been completed, trainees are eligible for programs in fundamental and advanced service techniques.

--Color Crossover, a one-week program to qualify technicians in the up-to-date service techniques required for this highly-specialized and technical work. Only eight men participate in each of these classes so that a maximum amount of individual workshop instruction can be achieved.

--Refresher Service courses to familiarize field technicians to install and service such equipment as school sound systems, hospital signaling and communications systems, and master antennas.

Each training center encompasses 7,200 square feet and includes classrooms with the latest audio-visual aids, fully equipped laboratories and workshops, and administrative offices.

In addition to Detroit, training centers are in operation near New York City, Philadelphia, Miami, Chicago and Los Angeles.

TRAINEES WHO SUCCESSFULLY complete the basic television course and have fulfilled the six-month field experience requirement later return to the center for additional training in fundamental and advanced service techniques.

NEW RCA TRAINING CENTER is located on Industrial Drive in Livonia, between Middlebelt and Merriman Roads. The center was opened for use recently.

Do I get the highest bank earnings in Detroit or don't I?

You'll get them, if you bring your savings to Bank of the Commonwealth.

We're the only bank in the city that continuously compounds 5% interest on savings certificates to net you even more.

That means we figure interest every minute of every day on our computers. Every minute you're getting interest on your savings plus interest on the interest you've already earned.

We'll guarantee these earnings for 12 months or 46 months, whichever you prefer. With our 12-month certificate, you'll earn an effective rate of 5 1/2%. At the end of 46 months, you'll receive an effective interest rate of 5 1/2%.

If you prefer greater flexibility, you can get 5% certificates that mature in 90 days and are automatically renewable.

One last thing. You don't need big money to start earning big money. Just $100 starts you off at Commonwealth—not the $1,000 or more you need at other financial institutions.

Now that that's all cleared up, why not stop in and look us over? We'll be happy to give you the straight talk on savings, checking or any other banking need you have, too.

Use Red, White, Blue Flowers To Create Patriotic Atmosphere

By BETTY FRANKEL
Special Writer

Bands blaze and fireworks burst in the air as we celebrate the Fourth of July. Did you ever think of enhancing the patriotic mood by growing a red-white-and-blue garden as a setting for the family picnic -- or at least growing some flowers for a red-white-and-blue bouquet for a patriotic party table?

It's not hard to select flowers for such a garden. There are many to choose from, and the effect is gay and sprightly. One area gardener has complemented the colonial furnishings of her home with a flag-colored entrance planting that matches her color scheme. A red rose blazes on a trellis at one side of the front porch.

On the other side along a walk that extends from the front door to the driveway is a three-foot wide bed with a row of bright red geraniums next to the house. Deep blue lobelia fills the middle of the bed and snow white dwarf alysium forms a border along the front edge. It's gay and patriotic and even provides flowers for small bouquets for the house.

Firecracker zinnia seems to have been made for this kind of display. It's an All-America Silver medal winner with lots of intense red flowers all summer. Try combining it with spikes of white snapdragons or white larkspur and blue bachelor buttons.

Equally good would be the new zinnia, "Trailblazer," which is the first hybrid zinnia to come on the market. This could be combined with white baby's breath and deep blue Chinese forget-me-nots (Cynoglossum). The latter bloom all summer and withstand heat very well.

A more elegant combination could be obtained by a planting of tall spikes of delphinium, white regal or madonna lilies, and red Americana roses. This would be a delightful effect, but would not be on display all season, unfortunately.

True blue flowers are relatively rare, but are a lovely addition to any garden. They blend with all other hues and seem to keep other colors from clashing. Morning glories are truly "heavenly blue." Bluebells, blue salvia, and wishbone flower (Torenia) are others that might be planted for their clear blue blossoms.

No red is more intense than that of red Salvia, or sage as it is also called. Another brilliant red is Blaze verbena, a 1968 All-America winner.

Some flowers, such as bachelor buttons, can be a patriotic garden in themselves. They are available in deep and pale blue, pure white, and also bright red. Larkspurs come in red, white and blue, also, as do sweet peas. Snapdragons are to be found in white and bright red. The new hybrid "White Ruffles" is a giant with ivory white flowers. The rocket snapdragons are also husky, vigorous hybrids. There is a White Rocket and also a Red Rocket.

With all these choices and combinations it is not at all difficult to have a little extra fun on patriotic holidays with a real, true-blue Yankee-doodle garden and flower arrangement.

PROTECT FRUIT From Birds: We've tried a lot of methods for keeping birds out of strawberries, blueberries, cherry trees, etc., and have concluded that nothing beats a netting material, draped over the bushes, to keep the birds out. There are many kinds of netting on the market now and most garden centers carry them.

Note: You cannot drape the net directly on the plants, as birds can peck at the fruit through the holes. You have to put up a couple stakes with cross arms to keep the netting off the bushes and in this way you provide a barrier which works perfectly for keeping the birds out.

It pays to use the plastic treated net materials as they can be used over and over again, without rotting, mildewing or spotting.

FREE: If birds are "bugging" you, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, Bye Bye Bad Birds! My guide has some good tips which gardeners use to keep birds away.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "We have some flowering quince. Is the fruit edible?"

Flowering quince (Chaenomeles) produces fruit good enough for jams, jellies and marmalades. Some use a baked quince, cored, filled with honey. If grown on poor, damp soil the fruit is inferior, but you can improve the quality by making the soil better.

Attics Can Add Space For Living

Anyone lucky enough to have an attic should take full advantage of it. It's so easy to turn one into living space that many builders leave this area unfinished with the idea that the owner will later make it livable.

After partitioning has been decided, the flooring should be selected. The Better Floors Council suggests vinyl asbestos tile for the "do-it-yourself" as this material is easy to handle and is actually recommended for owner installation.

When choosing colors for resilient tile, keep in mind that this long-wearing surface will probably be down for many years. Thus, muted tones are usually best, especially if it is expected that different people will be occupying the rooms over the years. A teenage girl may enjoy a shocking pink floor, but several years from now her brother would be embarrassed to move into the room.

One of an attic's greatest assets is the quiet it offers for both sleeping and studying. Therefore, when planning rooms there, try to provide for multi-function areas, a sewing corner for a daughter or a hobby bench for a son.

Be sure to include plenty of storage space, especially under the eaves. When planning closets, use resilient tile as the flooring there also because it's so easy to clean and doesn't collect dust.

All across the country, families who own older homes are discovering the attic as potential living space. Even though small, it can make a perfect guest room, a hideaway for adults, or a teen-ager's study center.

Warning Given

DETROIT — The Detroit Department of Buildings and Safety Engineering has warned against the dangers of using improperly grounded electrical appliances outdoors. Failures to make sure that equipment such as hedge trimmers or power tools is grounded can result in electrocution, the department warned.

Offer Practical Suggestions For Pool Buyers

Many homeowners are facing that long-delayed decision to buy that long-desired swimming pool.

Most states have dozens of reliable pool distributors and dealers who are at your beck and call. You'll find them in the Yellow Pages under "Swimming Pools," "Builders," or "Home Improvement." You'll see their display ads in The Observer. You may be on their direct mail list as a good prospect.

THE BIGGEST decision facing most homeowners seeking that backyard status symbol: what type of pool is best in the long run?

There are many types of residential in-ground pools of all sizes and shapes: poured concrete, gunite (sprayed cement), fiber glass or vinyl lined. The vinyl lined pool comes with either galvanized steel, aluminum or wood walls. These pools are noted for their durability, ease of installation, minimum of maintenance expense, and radically lower costs.

There are also many types of on-ground pools. Walls are usually made of plywood, steel or aluminum. All have vinyl lined interiors and are surrounded by a redwood, raised deck. While this type is relatively new, it has an advantage of coming with its own deck and fence, and in a few townships it is not taxable as a home improvement. (Check first with your local assessor). Otherwise, costs are about the same as most in-ground pools.

For example, an in-the-ground vinyl-lined 16 by 32 foot pool with steel walls, (approximate cost under $3000 installed, with all components and accessories) can be installed by three experienced men in less than a week. The same size pool in either poured or sprayed concrete normally takes three to four weeks to install, (depending on the weather) and costs more initially.

While the concrete pool offers some shapes which provide a certain aesthetic beauty, yearly maintenance costs, including repainting and repairs of cracks or chipping, could be substantial.

THE VINYL-LINED, prefabricated pool, which has revolutionized the pool industry in the past five years, comes in a package which can be installed by the homeowner. It can be purchased through a recognized distributor or dealer.

The package is complete, with a filter, skimmer, steel walls and frames, vinyl liner, and miscellaneous assembly hardware. The pool is ready for use once the liner is installed and filled. There is little maintenance on this type of patching or painting. By getting a few neighbors together, you can save almost half the total cost of the pool if you're willing to devote a few weekends purchasing the components and installing your own.

Both the distributor and his dealer, from whom you buy the pool kit, will be glad to offer advice and field supervision if you need it, since they are anxious to sell your neighbors too. About 30 per cent of these pools are installed by do-it-yourselfers.

Once you've decided on the type of pool you want, contact a reliable distributor who will work with you whether you install your own or not. In some cases, his company may not do the actual installation, but he will have an experienced builder or dealer who installs the pools he sells.

The distributor will supply you with all the accessories you might want, such as: a heater, coping, diving board, chemicals, vacuum cleaner, test kit, ladder or safety line.

He will deal directly with the accessories manufacturers and be able to supply all accessories near cost, since he is primarily interested in selling pools. If you shop around for these items yourself, you will not save much money and you will not get the guarantees or service that the established distributor will give.

ONCE you have selected a distributor or dealer who handles the guaranteed type of pool you want, start enumerating all details that you want included in the contract you will be signing. This is the most important step in the entire procedure of becoming a pool owner.

The contract is the basis for avoiding any misunderstandings, so, make sure every item you agree upon is on the contract. It should detail the dealer's responsibility for all products, costs, time involved and the final installation. Most important, know what you're signing.

Most pool contracts are financed. When financing is not involved, contracts call for substantial payments upon signing, then upon delivery of materials, and again upon completion of the installation.

POOL BUYERS should include the following factors in the standard contract signed:

*The specifications of all pool materials, components and accessories.

*What accessories (diving board, ladder, etc.) are to be installed by the builder.

*Items, labor and prices that are to be added as accessories.

*A heater, depending on the size of your pool, that will raise the temperature 25 degrees in 24 hours.

*Retention of a small, reasonable percentage (5 per cent) of the final payment until the pool has been installed.

*Relocation of electrical, water or gas lines.

Find out if your dealer is a member of a regional swimming pool association or of the National Swimming Pool Institute of Washington, D.C. These organizations require rigid codes of ethics and high standards of workmanship for their members, particularly in spelling out all details in the contract.

You may rest assured that an established dealer representing a brand name pool manufacturer, is a person of principle and integrity. He is conversant with local health, building and plumbing ordinances and knows what is needed for your pool's requirements. He is licensed to help you finance your pool through a local bank or through national credit firms.

MOST DEALERS will advise the pool buyer to be reasonable in asking the builder for any guarantees. Reputable manufacturers warrant their major component products for a five or ten year period.

Make sure your builder is qualified. Ask to see some pools he has installed. Make sure he is representing a distributor of a well known pool line or a pool manufacturer. Swimming pools may be financed over a period of two to five years—in some cases, up to seven years—often without a down payment, and usually with modest monthly payments. The cost of new types of factory prefabricated pools developed over the past five years is within the reach of almost every homeowner's income.

Do You Agree?

EDITOR:

Each year we strive to improve the Farmington Founders Festival so I recently requested a Farmington Clergy Association to investigate the possibility of holding an interfaith-community-wide worship service on Sunday evening, July 28, to add a fitting finale to the festival.

This was accomplished last year in Brighton with the service being held in the stadium having Rev. Robert E. Willoughby of Dearborn, as the speaker. My wife and I attended and by appearances the service was a real success. Today I received a reply from this group rejecting my proposal.

It is not the rejection that disturbs me because I realize much effort would be required and the time is now short; however, the three excuses listed greatly disturb me and I quote—

•On vacation at that time.

•Question the validity of that kind of service.

•Worry over the style of service because of the type of people who would be present.

It is difficult for me to believe that the churches shut their doors during vacation time and I would not presume to interpret excuses two and three. I am sure that the reply given to me is not a true representation of community conscience and I suggest that if local church members agree that lethargy is not the answer to modern man's problems, that they talk to their own minister and encourage participation in community affairs.

There is no question about the success of the Jaycee Prayer Breakfast a few months ago but is it the service club's responsibility to do God's work? If action is taken today we will have a greater Farmington because of it.

God Doesn't Hate

EDITOR:

May I remind Mr. Heaton that it was the white man who brought the enormous number of Africans to our country, robbed them of their identity, subjected them to enormous indignities and raped their women.

It wasn't God who mixed them up and created hate—it was the white man.

I do not believe that Gov. Romney nor Mr. Hudson have their "own private unwritten segregation law." I believe either of them would welcome black neighbors.

The blacks are trying to help themselves—that's what Black Power is all about; to give themselves self respect, self-determination and a belief that they are not sub-standard citizens.

Separatism is a fact today, and the black leaders want to control their own areas. They know their problems and how to deal with them better than the whites.

However they do need help—monetary most of all, but also advice and training programs such as many of our industries are beginning to provide.

I do feel that more help and involvement should come from the black upper and middle classes. I believe the reason the clergy is involved, is to create love, not hate.

They are following the teaching of Jesus who said, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." The converse is true—one cannot love others until one has love of self, which is what the black leaders are trying to instill in their people.

I should like to suggest that Mr. Heaton read "Crisis in Black and White" by Charles Silberman, which is available in the Garden City Library. I feel this book gives a tremendous insight into racial problems.

Painful Prophecy

EDITOR:

"Tragedy is a tool for the living to gain wisdom, not as a guide by which to live." These are the words of the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy and to those who loved him, they seem painfully prophetic—a part of the legacy he left us.

This is to let the world know that we have not given up. Arlington has claimed another general; the army still stands. He left us a vital spirit—a concern for America—and a feverish will to do something about "the way things are."

Robert and John Kennedy had

A second home is really an investment in the good life. Weekends and vacations now, retirement later. Our vacation houses offer the freedom to live in a relaxed atmosphere remote from everyday cares.

faith in us... "the younger generation." As they said many times, "We can make this the best generation or we can make it the last."

We buried a man with a blueprint in his hands... a plan we salvaged. We buried a man, but we refused to bury his dreams. I do not believe that America is spiraling down a road of interior decay and self-destruction; I believe she is a nation in the birth pangs of a new age... an age in which a second "Revolution" will make the first one keep its promise: equality and brotherhood in the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness.

If this sounds trite then it is time to be trite! Senseless tragedy is getting a bit repetitious itself.

"Our future may lie beyond our vision, but it is not completely beyond our control" (RFK). We've got to work together now... to make the age fit the dreams.

Poor People Pay

EDITOR:

One of the most shocking and brazen situations in the country is the rules and regulations used in collecting income taxes. Believe it or not much over 50 per cent of all income taxes come from people making under $6,000 per year. It's the relatively poor who are carrying the load today.

1962 is the last year that the government released figures on taxes paid. In that year, one individual making over $5 million paid no income tax whatever. Three individuals making between $1-5 million in income paid no tax whatever.

In that year, 30 individuals making between $500,000 and $1 million paid no income tax whatever and 28 per cent of that entire group paid less than ten per cent in income taxes. In that year, a considerable number of corporations making very substantial profits paid not one penny in income taxes.

There are several reasons for this outrageous and unholy situation but the main reason, of course, is the 27.5 oil depletion allowance which Lyndon Johnson has fought so vigorously to protect and maintain ever since he left Texas for Washington.

The American people have tolerated this highly explosive and fraudulent tax setup for far too long for their own good. This evasion of taxes by the rich has brought the most serious trouble to country after country and it will do the same here unless we have the intelligence to correct existing abuses and do it soon.

m. m. memos

We live in an old house, built before the days of standard construction requirements and subdivision uniformity. And in this old house, every bolt, nail, door fitting and piece of plumbing is one of a kind.

We know about the custom quality of our home through the succession of repairmen who come to do the small and large fixings needed to keep a house in running order.

To a man, they come in, look over the job that needs doing or the part that needs replacing and say: "I sure never saw anything like that before."

Nothing in our house bears any similarity to its counterpart in the more modern homes of our acquaintances. We understand this now.

So I was not at all surprised when the gentleman who came recently to fix a leaky dishwasher told me immediately that he had never in his life seen anything like the plumbing under our sink.

This repairman, however, kept right on telling me about its strangeness for the entire hour and a half he worked.

He muttered and complained about every valve that had to be turned. He worried about breaking each pipe he touched. He was sure each move might cause a flood. And when he had completed a very efficient job of replacing the drain hose, he worried about how much his time was costing us.

He finally relaxed as I wrote a check and thanked him for his services. He even allowed that repairmen "just have to do some complaining sometimes."

We think it's nice of us to provide the house to give them that opportunity.

Area Girl Scouts Attend NMU Meet

A total of 28 senior Girl Scouts from Observerland are among those attending an Arts Workshop on the campus of Northern Michigan University, Marquette. Each of the Scouts was selected by the Metropolitan Detroit Council because of her interest and ability in art, music, literature, modern dance or drama.

Among the Metropolitan Detroit Council Senior Scouts attending the Arts Workshop at Northern Michigan University from Redford Township are: Barbara Badele, 11336 Dixie; Linda Dietz, 13041 Leverage; Barbara Guregian, 8975 Crosley; Nancy Nampa, 12890 Hemingway; Tam Petachenko, 8959 Brady; Gail Storm, 9538 Fenton; Anna Syrios, 25200 Jay; Janet Alexander, 19263 Lenore; Benita Blecker, 19499 Kinloch; Mary Jo Piechota, 18813 Denby; Frances Rice, 19910 Lennane; Amy Roemer, 19447 Kinloch; Martha Seaman, 16910 MacArthur; Judith Stonik, 20162 Kinloch; Martha Barber, 16886 Avon; Tertla Houthuysen, 20845 Pickford; Debbie Lewis, 9149 Lucerne; Carol Neil, 17694 Winston.

Livonia scouts include: Annette Villard, 29044 Brody; Patricia Moul, 16210 Hubbard;

Garden City participants are: Brenda Des Chenes, 28952 Barton; Laurie Schultz, 556 Harrison; Annette Villard, 29044 Brody is the single Westland scout participating.

THE THREE-FOLD purpose of the workshop, according to officials of the sponsoring Michigan Trails Girl Scout Council, is: to uncover individual talents; to discover areas in the arts to help Senior Scouts make wise choices in college courses and/or careers; and to obtain an appreciation of all arts and understand how they relate to each other.

During the first week of the course, the teen-age Scouts will attend classes in all the arts, taught by the faculty of Northern Michigan University. The second week, under the guidance of faculty instructors, each Scout will select one of the five areas to pursue in depth as a major. The final Friday of the sessions, July 5, will feature performances and exhibits by the students in their majoring fields.

Getting Acquainted Is Great For Everyone

"Five baby rabbits!" wrote Sally Estes of Livonia at the top of her list of inducements to get permission to bring an inner-city child to stay with her family for a couple of weeks.

There also are four lively children in the household, so the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service decided the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Estes would be an ideal one for its "Operation Get Acquainted."

And young Kenneth Caldwell, whose home is in east side Detroit, has been part of the Estes family life for nearly two weeks now.

KENNY, who celebrated his 10th birthday last week with a birthday cake Sally baked and presents from the family, has enjoyed bike-riding with the Estes boys, Scott, 8 1/2, and Timmy, 6 1/2, and the other kids along Mason Court.

He's gone along on trips to the supermarket with Sally and the boys and the family's two small girls, five-year-old Katie and Sarah, 18 months.

He's helped feed the baby rabbits with toy milk bottles, and played with the two gerbils that also live with the Estes gang.

He's attended Bible School with the family at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, where Tom Estes is an associate minister, and where the other children thought he made a fine addition to their class.

IN SHORT, he's had a chance to get to know a family with a different mode of living from his, and the Estes children and the others he has met have had an opportunity to know that a kid with a different background and skin color plays just as they do.

That's what "Operation Get Acquainted" is all about, said Mrs. Kathleen Burton, home economist with the extension service.

She is placing youngsters, mostly from homes on the Aid to Dependent Children list, in middle class households for periods of a week or two weeks this summer. Several other families in this area are planning to have young visitors, she said, and those who would like to do so still have time to call her at 721-6550.

SALLY ESTES feels the experience has been a great one for her family.

"Kenny is just a nice guy," she said. "Although he's a little older than our boys, he adapts very well to their play and seems to be having a good time with us."

"He's polite and helpful and our children have started picking up their clothes because he does it without being told." There have been very few evidences of hostility, she added, "and the children have asked about it and we've talked it over."

Kenny goes home this weekend, but the Estes family plans to keep in touch. "Operation Get Acquainted" chalks up a success.

UNICEF Post Given Mrs. Fox

Mrs. Charles R. Fox, 16790 Stanmoor, Livonia, is the new Michigan State Representative for UNICEF.

Mrs. Fox has been coordinator of the UNICEF fund-raising program in Livonia, and also the United Nations coordinator for the Church Women United of Michigan. She is the current chairman of the social concerns commission of her church.

Her past activities include work on behalf of the March of Dimes, Red Cross, and various projects of the American Friends Service Committee.

Mrs. Fox is currently employed as head bookkeeper for Cregar's Pickwick House, a restaurant in Detroit.

Best known in this country through the annual Trick or Treat and Greeting Card programs, UNICEF currently assists over 500 long-range programs in over 117 countries.

Women On The Go

By MARGARET MILLER

Parents Consider All Children

Small Lee Jeannette Ridley, just nine months old and blonde and smiling, soon will have a brother or sister.

Her mother, Mrs. Mary Ridley, of Plymouth, hopes the new arrival will be a big brother for Lee. But it really doesn't matter, she says, whether the family adds a boy or girl.

The important thing, for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ridley, is that the next child in their family—and others to follow—will be of mixed racial parentage or full Negro or American Indian.

RICK AND MARY RIDLEY have told their case worker from the Wayne County Department of Social Services they would like a pre-school child answering that description.

They've filled out the necessary papers and answered the questions that go with adoption. They're working hard on the sunny yellow bedroom in their pleasant old home on Sheridan Avenue that will be home for the newcomer.

Now it's just a matter of the final paper work and the agency's finding the right child.

THE DECISION to adopt children and the decision to look for non-Caucasians came slowly—but definitely—with this serious young couple.

Rick, now 23 and supervisor of projection services at the University of Michigan Audio-Visual Center, and Mary, 22, have known each other since they were sophomores in Plymouth High School, and they had talked about adoption even before marriage.

Not because there was any problem with having their own children.

"Lee's birth was a joyful experience," said her mother, who gave birth after working with the Lamaze Childbirth Preparation method. And she added:

"I've read that it's quite traumatic for many people to realize they cannot have children, and for them the decision to adopt might come, with more difficulty."

BUT FOR RICK AND MARY, it wasn't hard at all.

"To us, parenthood is not the biological aspect of bearing a child," Mary explained.

"It's having kids in the house. We know there is a great need for homes for many children already born, and these kids are just as desirable as our own would be. They need a home, so we will be their parents."

IT WAS AFTER getting acquainted with the work of the Council of Adoptable Children that the Ridleys decided definitely to ask for a child who is not white.

"Little kids like her," she said with a gesture toward the napping Lee Jeannette, "have adoptive parents standing in line waiting to take them home."

"But the Negro children, we learned through COAC, are lucky if they can be placed in foster homes. Not many Negro parents are adopting, and we've heard that agencies even have to refuse to accept Negro unwed mothers because of the difficulty with placement."

THE RIDLEYS first planned to adopt a baby as their second child, but decided on a pre-schooler after learning that they are often harder to place.

They want a youngster not yet in school because "we want the child to have a stable home situation before being thrust into school life, and we feel acceptance by other children is greater in the lower grades."

WHILE WAITING for a new family member, Mary and Rick have been talking to Plymouth residents who have worked in the field of human relations and to their neighbors.

"The recommendation we've had is to go ahead and try it," said Mary. "And the neighbors have seemed most receptive. One lady on the street was so interested that I gave her name as a reference with the adoption agency."

MARY ALSO has become more and more involved in the Council on Adoptable Children, because she feels the work the council is doing in finding homes for mixed-parentage children is so important.

She also is continuing work toward a degree from Eastern Michigan University in English literature—she's now a senior—and plans to go on and get her master's degree and doctorate and teach in college "after the kids are in school and settled."

Mary and Rick, who graduated from the University of Michigan last August, also are planning to have some foster children, Negroes or of mixed parentage.

"But I know what will happen," she said. "We'll want to adopt the ones we have as foster children."

How many do they intend to have in the family?

"Well, the number keeps going up," Mary said. "We really love children." ALL children.

MRS. RICHARD ALLEN COLE

Cole-Helferich Vows Spoken

Jacqueline Carol Helferich and Richard Allen Cole exchanged marriage vows Friday, June 21, before the altar of St. Hugo of the Hills.

The Rev. Paul R. Bigley officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Warren H. Williams, of Bloomfield Hills, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Merwyn Cole, of Clinton, Iowa.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her step-father, Warren H. Williams, the bride wore a modified cage gown of pointed d'esprit with Venice lace bordering the neckline, sleeves, hem and Watteau train.

Her matching lace headpiece held a court veil of silk illusion, and she carried Catalpa orchids, white sweetheart roses and Stephanotis in a cascade arrangement.

Mrs. Michael Krellwitz, of Flint, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Marr, sister-in-law of the bride; Lorraine Williamson and Diane Cooley, of Farmington; Margaret Underwood, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Richard Barrett, of Flint.

Sharon Garner, of Morton Grove, Ill., the bride's cousin, was junior bridesmaid.

ALL THE ATTENDANTS wore floor-length skimmer dresses of turquoise chiffon over lime crepe styled with jewel necklines. Their headpieces were camelot veils held by small pill-boxes, and their flowers were nosegays of yellow sweetheart roses.

Andrew S. Ptak, of Flint, was best man, and the ushers were Richard Barrett, and William Bryant, of Flint; William Hickock, of Milford; Dean W. Bell, of Dearborn and Lawrence Siferd, of Defiance, O.

MOTHERS of the bridal pair carried out the color scheme in their attire. Mrs. Williams wore a floor-length turquoise silk worsted skimmer with beaded neckline and sleeves, and Mrs. Cole's floor-length gown was lime green silk.

Double-Ring Rites Held In Plymouth

Margaret Jean Knight became the bride of Raymond C. Sypniewski in a double-ring ceremony Saturday, June 15, in St. Kenneth Church, in Plymouth.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Knight of Northville. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund S. Sypniewski of Plymouth.

The Rev. Jim Machak officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor-length gown. Daisy motifs encircled the waist, elbow-length sleeves and hemline, and the detachable train was fastened with a large white bow at the waist.

Her veil had daisies at the crown, and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and small yellow rose buds.

Eileen Sypniewski, sister of the bridegroom, served as maid of honor. She wore a floor-length yellow rayon and chiffon dress, trimmed at the neck and waist with white daisies. Her small veil was yellow.

Donald Francoeur, of Plymouth, was best man, and the guests were seated by ushers Floyd Carter, of Ypsilanti, and Donald McCreadie, cousin of the bride, of Berkley.

Mrs. Knight chose a two-piece pink lace dress with a pink hat, shoes and bag. Mrs. Sypniewski wore a light green dress.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Botsford Inn.

After the honeymoon, the couple will live in Westland, and both will teach in Plymouth in the fall.

MRS. GERALD B. TINKLE
(Cathy Karwoski)

Farmington Festival 1967 Queen Is Wed

Cathy Karwoski, who was Miss Farmington Festival in 1967, became the bride of Gerald B. Tinkle in a candlelight ceremony Friday, June 14, in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Eight Mile and Middlebelt.

The Rev. Walter Ruthkowski officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Karwoski, of Larkspur Avenue, Farmington, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tinkle, of Bridgman Avenue, Farmington, are parents of the bridegroom.

The bride's father gave her in marriage.

WIDE RUFFLES of Chantilly lace over peau de sole fashioned the bridal gown. The ruffles extended to the end of the chapel train, and seed pearls trimmed the neckline.

The bride's elbow-length veil was held with a pearl-edged petal headpiece, and she carried a colonial bouquet of Stephanotis.

Janet Atchison, as maid of honor, wore a spring green gown of sheer organza over peau de sole and matching veil headpiece. She carried pale yellow baby mums in a colonial bouquet.

Bridesmaids Nancy Vance, Betty Cross and Carolyn Welti wore gowns of robin's egg blue, styled like that of the maid of honor.

GARY TINKLE was his brother's best man, and the ushers were John and Tom Karwoski, Phil Vance and Miles Green.

Mrs. Karwoski chose a pale pink sheath dress with beaded neckline, and the bridegroom's mother wore a peau de sole dress of robin's egg blue with a lace overlay.

The reception was held in Thunderbird Inn.

After a honeymoon at McGuire's Lodge, Cadillac, the couple planned to live in South Lyon for the summer and will go in August to Hillsdale, where the bridegroom is a student at Hillsdale College and a member of the football team.

The new Mrs. Tinkle studied at Eastern Michigan University and is employed by Omni-Spectra, Farmington.

Air Force Recruits Women

Lt. Col. Lawrence E. Stephens, commander of Air Force recruiting activities in Michigan, reports he anticipates "the number of women in the Air Force will increase by 2,000 enlisted women and 150 officers in the new fiscal year, which began July 1."

"Total strength figures at the end of the forthcoming fiscal year, are projected to be 8,000 WAF enlisted and 1,000 WAF officers with enlisted strength of 13,700 by 'mid '70s' Col. Stephens said.

"These women will be moving into career areas previously not authorized."

"AS A RESULT of the projected vacancies, our Air Force Recruiting Force in Michigan can now accept more applications from qualified applicants to fill these vacancies."

Listing qualifications, he said "an enlisted WAF must be a high school graduate, single, and able to pass both mental and physical examinations. If she is under 21 years of age, both parents must consent to her enlistment."

"A WAF officer must be a college graduate, and be able to meet physical and mental qualifications."

"Don't forget about our need for nurses, as well as for our enlisted and officer corps," the colonel added. "Nurses must be registered and are given direct appointment as officers."

Col. Stephens concluded by urging high school and college graduates and registered nurses interested in applying for a vacancy to contact their nearest Air Force Recruiting Representative, listed under U.S. Government in their local phone book.

New Era Scene Of Ceremony

Alice J. Tanner became the bride of Paul J. Kendzioriski at a June 8 wedding. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. James Kendzioriski, in St. James Church in Montague, Mich.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James B. Tanner of New Era, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. A.P. Kendzioriski, of Westland.

THE BRIDE wore a floor-length empire gown of satin with rose appliques and a lace jacket made by her mother. Her veil of illusion was held by a rose headpiece, and she carried a cascade of yellow roses and daisies.

Sarah Tanner, sister of the bride was the maid of honor and Barbara Kendzioriski, sister of the groom was the bridesmaid.

THE BRIDEGROOM chose his brother, Stanley Kendzioriski, as best man. Another brother, John Kendzioriski, served as the groomsmen. Guests were escorted to their seats by ushers Terry Boden and Robert Lloyd.

The newlyweds went on a Northern wedding trip and will work in Marshall this summer.

In the fall the couple will return to Central Michigan University where the bride is working toward a bachelor's degree and her husband is finishing work on a master's degree.

Summer Dish Is Easy

For easy-on-the-cook convenience, rotisserie a boneless turkey roll outdoors. In addition to convenience, you'll find turkey roll or roast high in nutrients and economical in price.

When you compare the cost of turkey roll with whole ready-to-cook turkey, figure prices on a per-serving basis.

Geraldine Acker, University of Illinois foods specialist, points out that you can get three servings per pound from a turkey roll. When buying a whole ready-to-cook turkey weighing less than 10 pounds, allow about one pound per serving. For larger birds allow 1/2 to 3/4 pound per serving.

TO ROTISSERIE barbecue boneless turkey roast, thaw the meat and season it with salt and pepper if not preseasoned. Insert spit rod through center of the roast; set screws and adjust balance. Brush the roast with melted butter or margarine. Use barbecue sauce only during the last half hour of cooking time.

Follow the manufacturer's directions for rotisserie temperature setting and roast until done. A 4-to-5-pound boneless turkey roast will require from 2 to 2 1/2 hours to cook.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Charles Wagner, of Farmington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Ann, to William Joseph Dinsmore, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Dinsmore, of Detroit. The bride-elect is a graduate of Farmington High School and is presently employed by 3M company. The prospective bridegroom graduated from Dexter High School and is employed by United Wholesale Distributors. An October 4 wedding is planned in the First Methodist Church of Farmington.

Lutheran Rites Unite Couple

Karen Jan Kreeger and Ronald William Reoch were united in marriage in a ceremony Saturday, June 8, in the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Birmingham.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Elsmere W. Kreeger and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reoch, both of Orchard Lake.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta with Italian lace trim and carried philanopsis orchids in her bouquet.

Kristan Ann Kreeger was maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were Margot Wiedenmann, Janet Wiese and Ellen Kuhfeldt, cousin of the bride.

Assisting the bridegroom was his brother, Richard Reoch, as best man. The ushers were two other brothers, Gerald and Thomas, and Thomas Englert. The couple honeymooned in the Smoky Mountains.

National Sorority Meet Attended By Area Women

"Every time is a good time if we know what to do with it" was the theme of the Alpha Chi Omega national convention attended by several local women in Dallas, Tex., last week. Some 800 members on hand represented 109 college chapters, 83 alumnae chapters and 177 clubs that are part of the 83-year-old sorority.

The contingent from the Observer area was headed by Mrs. Robert MacDonald, 32308 Allen, Livonia, who is president of the sorority's Metropolitan Detroit chapter.

Other Livonia residents attending were Mrs. Donald Kelley, 37533 Sherwood Court, and Terry Mountford, 14271 Houghton. Linda Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Taylor, of Farmington, was one of the representatives of the Alpha Chi Omega chapter at Central Michigan University.

The Convention, the supreme legislative body of the sorority, featured combined business sessions of collegiates and alumnae on campus life and problems today, and divided workshops on topics such as academic standards, social development, moral standards, altruism, finances, Panhellenic, rush, membership goals, pledge guidance and Esprit de Corps.

Special events included a reunion dinner, two formal banquets, a fun night with singing and talent shows, and a breakfast honoring members of Phi Beta Kappa, Mortar Board and other honor societies.

The sorority's main philanthropy also received much attention during the meeting. Since 1947 the sorority has aided cerebral palsied children by giving annual scholarship awards through the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults for further training in the field of cerebral palsy.

In 1951, a toy book, a pattern book for making self-help toys, was published by the sorority. Now in its fifth printing, the booklet is sent free of charge on request to interested persons, and schools. In addition, local college and alumnae groups have given over $600,000 and millions of man-hours of volunteer work to their local CP Centers.

Remain Cool

Let your refrigerator work to keep you cool during hot weather. Plan a meal which will wait in the refrigerator until serving time. The meat for the refrigerator meal might be a molded meat salad, cold sliced meat loaf or cold cuts. Add one last-minute hot dish such as hot potato salad which has been prepared beforehand and is ready to reheat.

Betrothals Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert N. Clark, of Napier Road, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Ann, to Larry Thomas Swistoski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Swistoski, of Rochester, Mich. The bride-elect is a student at Michigan State University and her fiancé is employed as a layout and landscape artist in Minneapolis. No wedding date has been set.

CAROL CLARK

ELIZABETH CROSS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cross, of LeQuinn Court, Farmington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Jean, to Gregory Robert Schwartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Schwartz, of Orchard Lake Road, Farmington. The bride-elect is a graduate of Farmington High School and employed by Futurmill, Inc., Farmington. Her fiancé, also a Farmington High graduate, is a junior at Michigan State University. The couple plans to marry in June, 1969.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Denison of Fairfax Station, Va., formerly of Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rae Elizabeth, to Melvin Robert Cooke Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Robert Cooke Sr., of Grandville, Michigan. The bride-elect attended Plymouth High School and is a graduate of Western Michigan University. Her fiancé is a senior at WMU. An August 9 wedding is planned at the First Methodist Church in Plymouth.

Henley-Pagenkopf Vows Are Spoken

Caroline Pagenkopf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pagenkopf, of Haggerty Road, Plymouth, repeated marriage vows with David Henley in a ceremony Saturday, June 29, in the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

Dr. Henry J. Walch officiated in the double-ring rites. Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor-length A-line silk organza gown with a scoop neckline. Her three-tiered veil was held by a large rose edged in pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henley, of Westminster, Colo., asked Ben Prichard to be his best man.

USHERS WERE Wayne Macy of Garden City, and Ronald Pagenkopf, brother of the bride. Mrs. Pagenkopf wore a pale blue jacket dress and Mrs. Henley's suit was pale pink. The couple greeted 125 guests in the church dining room before leaving for a northern Michigan wedding trip.

They plan to live in Ann Arbor where the bridegroom, a graduate of Colorado State University, is employed by Tecumseh Products research laboratory and is continuing his studies at the University of Michigan.

The New Mrs. Henley attended Colorado State and now is a student at Schoolcraft Community College.

KAREN J. ESCH, of Plymouth, was maid of honor, and Cindy L. Henley, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. They wore identical coin gold gowns, styled A-line with scoop necklines and short sleeves of Jean de sole. Their flowers were apricot sweetheart roses.

MRS. JON R. LINGEMANN
(Karen Cushman)

Ann Arbor Is Scene Of Marriage Rites

Karen Cushman became the bride of Jon R. Lingemann in an afternoon ceremony June 22 in the University Reformed Church, Ann Arbor.

The Rev. J. Alton Cressman officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cushman, of Port Huron, and Mr. and Mrs. Ned Lingemann of Livonia.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her father, the bride wore a white linen empire gown with white applique flowers on the sleeves and bodice. Her fingertip veil was of silk illusion and she carried three white orchids on a background of green foliage. Susan Strom, of Ann Arbor, was the maid of honor and Mrs. Robert Cushman, of Norway, Mich., sister of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid. They wore robin's egg blue linen dresses and carried purple and white asters.

THE BRIDEGROOM chose his brother-in-law, John Curry, of Dayton, Ohio as best man. Guests were ushered to their seats by Dr. Robert Cushman, brother of the bride, and Thomas Peterman, of Plymouth.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Green Brier club house in Ann Arbor. The newlyweds will live in Plymouth.

Lisa Arrives

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patrick O'Leary, of Redford Township, announce the birth of a daughter, Lisa Ann, in Providence Hospital June 18.

Mrs. O'Leary is the former Laura Samson, of Howell. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. O'Leary, of Redford Township, and Mr. and Mrs. George Samson, of Howell.

Match Funds With 'Y' Drive

Gifts and pledges amounting to nearly $300,000 have been recorded by the YWCA Expansion Fund Committee. Dale I. Sellers, campaign general chairman, announced a grant of $75,000 from the Kresge Foundation, plus $219,303 raised in the campaign, brings the total to $294,303.

Sellers pointed out, however, that the Kresge money was contingent upon the YWCA reaching its total goal by July 1, 1970.

Campaign activities in both branch-area and metropolitan organizations will continue with follow-up of prospects previously contacted, and in work with solicitation of the YW's own members.

"I will stay with the campaign until we reach our goal—which is unquestionably needed, reasonable and hopefully attainable. I know all of the campaign participants join me in pledging our everlasting active support in bringing this endeavor to a successful conclusion," stated Sellers.

Low Income Family Help Is Aim Of Extension Program

Helping women of middle income learn to help those of low income is one aim of the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service for the 1968-69 year.

The Family Living education study groups in Wayne and Oakland counties will have a varied program that Mrs. June Sears, extension home economist, hopes can be passed on to inner-city women through those who make their homes in the suburbs.

Mrs. Sears, who has worked extensively with women's groups in both middle and low income areas, believes the plan will help them make the kind of contacts that lead to friendship and respect.

"IT'S HARD TO FIND leaders among the lower-income women," she said, "and those we do have often have to drop out of the program because of family difficulties or other problems."

"But there's so much that women out here could teach them about things that we take for granted—things as simple as setting the table regularly for meals."

She said she hopes to use the "vast resource of people" in this area to help convey some rudimentary home economics knowledge to those who have little.

Mrs. Sears, in addition to helping teach the course in the Family Life program, plans to set up study groups in low-income areas and then bring in suburban visitors to operate on a woman-to-woman basis.

"SOME OF THE PROGRAMS we are trying may sound a bit fancy, like the one on foreign foods," she said. "But our idea was to include plenty of nutritional information that can be passed on."

Mrs. Sears met last week with officers and members of the Wayne County extension board to put together a program booklet for use by some

80 Family Living study groups with about 700 members in Wayne County. There are about 1,000 members in Oakland County.

Mrs. Donna Jacobson, of Wayne, is this year's president for the Wayne Council. Her board includes Corinne Hansing, of Detroit, vice-president; Ely Ancinec, of Livonia, secretary, and Virginia Benoit, of Plymouth, treasurer.

THE PROGRAM will be expanded to include more different topics, Mrs. Sears said, because she and Mrs. Kathleen Burton, also a Wayne County home economist, will share the teaching chores with Mrs.

Rosalie Hawley, who does similar work in Oakland County.

The Wayne County council's Officer Training Day will be Sept. 10.

Later program planning dates and resource people include:

Sept. 24 to 26 -- Foreign foods, Polynesian and Hawaiian, taught by Mrs. Sears.

Oct. 8 to 10 -- Meal Planning for two and labor saving products, taught by Mrs. Hawley.

Nov. 12 to 14 -- Foods for the buffet, taught by Mrs. Sears.

Jan. 7 to 9 -- Short cuts in sewing, taught by Mrs. Burton.

Feb. 11 to 13 -- Clothing, new fabrics for you and your home and how to care for them, taught by Mrs. Burton.

March 11 to 13 -- Convenience foods and new foods on the market, taught by Mrs. Sears.

April 8 to 10 -- Dressing for the occasion, taught by J. McClung, MSU specialist.

The training classes will be held in the First Methodist Church, Garden City, in Crestwood High School, Dearborn, and in the Teifer Building, Trenton.

Those interested in exact dates, times and places, or in extension program may call Mrs. Sears at 721-6550.

Students And Forum Join To Work Out Action Program

Four Wayne State University graduate students in sociology have prepared a program of action for all segments of the Southeastern Michigan community aimed at producing understanding and easing tensions in the area's urban crisis.

Pursuing a class project, they divided the area into four geographical sectors for intensive study, then pooled their findings to produce a booklet titled "What You Can Do."

The booklet is available for the asking.

The study was conducted in cooperation with the Southeastern Michigan Community Forum to use with its "In Your Own Interest" television series broadcast five Monday evenings during May and June over local channels.

MORE THAN 15,000 discussion groups were organized to meet in homes, view the programs, then provide a "feedback" to reveal local attitudes on race and poverty and provide grass roots suggestions for their solution.

Repeated computer samplings taken throughout the entire series revealed at its end that the greatest concern over race and poverty is reflected, not by residents of the inner city, but among white, middle class, college graduate residents of the suburbs and the surrounding sections of cities.

The four candidates for advanced degrees, Forrest Craver, Susan Crocker, Joan Fields, and the Rev. Russell Long, compiled "Opportunities for Action" especially designed for leaders of business and industry, individual persons in their daily experiences, youth and at youth groups and senior citizens.

THE ACTION PROGRAMS are contained in a 24-page booklet sent to all participants in the fifth and final TV program, and copies may be had by writing to the Community Forum at 4800 Woodward, Detroit 48201, or by calling 833-3350.

The booklet also contains a list of action groups, by locality, which volunteers may join, or from which they can secure information and advice on how they may start their own groups.

For business and industry leaders, the young sociologists urge a complete review of hiring and promotion practices affecting minority groups, an examination of possible discrimination.

Church Of God Calls For Full Integration

Integration of all local congregations and state assemblies has been called for by the policy-making General Assembly of the Church of God.

The action was a highlight of business deliberations during the church's recent 79th International Convention at Anderson, Ind. It supplements three major steps in the area of race relations of previous years.

Other convention highlights included dedication of a $245,000 office structure by the National Woman's Missionary Society, honoring of Dr. W. Dale Oldham, speaker since 1947 on the church's international radio program, Christian Brotherhood Hour, adoption of a record $2,256,100 budget, commissioning of 10 new missionaries for the home and foreign fields, and election of key national officers.

THE FIRST NEGRO to hold a top post in the executive council, the church's legal arm and coordinating body for the general assembly, will be the Rev. Marcus Morgan of Chicago. He was elected vice-chairman.

The General Assembly resolution for total integration in church life came in a major statement that declared, "The urgency for action is growing in society and the need for the church to begin with its own fellowship to make corrections is imperative."

It was pointed out many congregations over the United States and Canada already are integrated with families of other races, but the newly adopted resolution calls for immediate employment of open-door policies.

Not only is action sought on the congregational level, but state assemblies are urged to merge where both white and ers, editors, teachers, police and all others "who stand up for racial justice." They should also offer free management counsel or financial support to black community-owned business enterprises.

Individuals, through the organizations to which they belong should urge educational programs, influence the banking institutions with which they do business to provide mortgages or business loans for Negroes and privately ask police heads to discourage gun clubs and the arming of citizens.

The booklet also said individuals should challenge all negative racial comments in conversations; make telephone calls to discuss problems and exchange information; appraise local newspapers and write to editors if their approaches are negative; and organize neighbors into discussion groups.

WHITES WHO know little about black communities or culture should subscribe to Negro publications, it added, and should check local supermarkets and other stores on Negro hiring practices.

They also were urged to survey local teacher hiring practices and local policies on student discussions of race and student exchange.

Youth should assume community leadership in implementing youth action groups, get existing youth groups in which they are members to discuss urban crisis issues and encourage high school drama and music instructors to feature interracial drama, music festivals and study groups, the report said.

OUR CHURCH AND OLD-TIME AMERICANISM

Today some churches and clergy are marching and demonstrating and telling our country to "Get Out of Viet Nam" and saying our country's war against Communism, butchers is "immoral."

Therefore, be it known to all who read this that the Galilean Baptist Church of Livonia supports and prays for our government in its fight against Communism — that it supports our police and law enforcement agencies — that it does not believe in any legislation that "protects" the criminal and "handcuffs" the police from protecting decent citizens.

On Sunday, July 7, Galilean Baptist Church is having a special "Patriot's Day." We are going to display proudly our beloved flag. A special message, "Menaces Facing America," will be given in the 11:00 a.m. service.

We extend a special invitation to Veterans, police, city officials, and just plain citizens who believe in and love our country and want to see it remain free.

Timothy Names New Chairman

Gene Taurianinen, 32638 Winona Court, Westland, is the new congregational chairman of Timothy Lutheran Church, Livonia.

He was installed June 23, with church council members Glenn Hank, Joan Kandi, Ron Borkowski, Stan Arnold and Charlotte Bromley.

Taurianinen, a recent graduate of Lawrence Institute of Technology, is employed by the Ford Motor Company. He and his wife, Eleanor, have two sons, Danny and Steve.

2 Ministers Named For St. Matthews

REV. PAUL HART

REV. HAL FERRIS

The Rev. Paul T. Hart, from Oak Park Methodist Church, Flint, and the Rev. Hal Ferris, formerly Evangelical United Brethren area youth director, are the new spiritual heads of St. Matthews United Methodist Church, Livonia.

Appointment of the two ministers, Rev. Hart with Methodist training and Rev. Ferris with an E.U.B. background, reflects the merger between the two churches that is recent on a national basis and of several years standing at St. Matthews.

Rev. Hart has served in Michigan as a Methodist minister for 40 years. He is presently on the Metropolitan Co-ordinating Committee and president of the Detroit Conference Board of Missions.

Active in civic affairs, Rev. Hart has been a member of Kiwanis and served on a city advisory committee for Urban Renewal in Pontiac and Flint.

Rev. Ferris, a 1964 graduate of Western Michigan University, was ordained in 1967 at Christ Methodist Church in Lansing.

He has served in pastorates in Cloverdale, E.U.B. Church, Pipestone Circuit E.U.B. and Portage Prairie United Methodist Church.

The Rev. John Grenfell left St. Matthews recently to become minister of the First Methodist Church at Port Huron.

Israeli Trees Will Honor Kennedy

A forest in Israel will be planted in honor of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, it was announced by Herman L. Weisman president of the Jewish National Fund of America.

The forest will be located within the confines of the John F. Kennedy Peace Forest, situated in the Judean mountains, south of the city of Jerusalem.

In the center of the John F. Kennedy Peace Forest is an impressive memorial, encircled by fifty pylons, one for each state of the Union.

THE KENNEDY MEMORIAL erected by the Jewish National Fund of America, was dedicated July 4, 1966, by U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren, Israel Prime Minister Levi Eshkol, and many leading Israeli and American dignitaries as an expression of veneration for the martyred president.

Learning of the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, many Americans immediately began to express their grief by planting trees in the forest, to be known as the Robert Kennedy Memorial Forest.

IN MAKING the announcement of the forest, Weisman declared "Once again, in the span of five short years, the Jewish National Fund has been called upon to translate and express the pent-up feelings of Americans throughout the nation in an hour of mourning."

Just as the John F. Kennedy Memorial and Peace Forest now transforms a Judean mountainside and covers it with a mantle of green in tribute to a beloved and inspiring president so now have we been asked to perform the same tribute for his younger brother who gallantly championed the cause of peace, freedom and brotherhood for all the peoples of the world.

"The trees in the Robert F. Kennedy Forest will bear mute but eloquent witness to a leader of our nation, so cruelly struck down in the full vigor of his manhood."

Jehovah's Witnesses in this area will hold their annual Watch Tower Convention in downtown Detroit July 11 to 14.

Announcing the meet, Ernest Szalma, presiding minister of the Witnesses Farmington congregation, said his sect was not seeking to avoid the inner-city area.

"Jehovah's Witnesses are no strangers to violence," he stated. "Although many vacationing family groups may shun metropolitan areas for fear of a repeat of last summer's disturbances, Witnesses will be converging on 36 cities in the continental United States during July and August."

THE DETROIT meeting, like others around the country, will be called "Good News for All Nations."

Mission Trip Planned For Local Youths

A gospel-witnessing mission to Central America and the Caribbean is in store this summer for two young people in this area.

Kathleen Jean Thornton, 21261 Farmington Road, Farmington, and Steven S. McCullough, 44067 Gordon, Plymouth, are among 67 members of Assembly of God churches in 29 states to join in the mission July 22 to Aug. 26.

The group will have an orientation session in the denomination Headquarters in Springfield, Mo., before embarking.

Later Kathleen will head for the British Honduras and Steven for Nassau in the Bahamas. Others in the group will go to Nicaragua and Jamaica.

In each location they will work with Assembly of God missionaries, going from door to door, setting up evangelistic rallies and distributing literature.

Kathleen, 19, is a member of the Lighthouse Assembly of God, Walled Lake. She is the daughter of Mrs. Virginia M. Thornton.

Steven, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy McCullough, is a high school senior and belongs to the Bethel Missionary Assembly of God, Livonia.

Count Of Catholics Up In State

The number of Catholics in Michigan increased by more than 39,000 during 1967, the Michigan Catholic Conference (MCC) reports.

The MCC said there were 2,271,481 Catholics in Michigan on Jan. 1 of this year compared to 2,232,453 on the same date in 1967.

Catholics make up 27 per cent of Michigan's total population of 8.4 million. Nationally, 24 per cent of all Americans are Catholic.

THE ARCHDIOCESE of Detroit—an eight-county area in Southeastern Michigan—has the largest concentration of Catholics, 1,548,594, an increase of about 12,000 in the past year.

The Lansing Diocese—a 15-county area extending from Flint to Lake Michigan—had the biggest increase in number of Catholics during 1967. The Lansing Diocese has 249,504 Catholics, an increase of more than 21,000 compared to a year ago.

THE CATHOLIC POPULATION of other Dioceses in Michigan include:

Grand Rapids Diocese, a 29-county area in Western and Northern Michigan, 195,461, an increase of more than 2,000.

Saginaw Diocese, a 16-county area in Eastern and Northern Michigan, 173,632 Catholics, an increase of nearly 7,000.

Marquette Diocese, which includes all of the Upper Peninsula, 104,290 Catholics, a decrease of more than 3,000.

Open Country

Crime Is Topic

Using as his sermon topic, "Crime in the Open Country," Dr. Samuel H. Cassel, senior minister of the First Congregational Church, Wayne, will occupy the pulpit at North Congregational Church, Southfield on Sunday, July 7.

Dr. Cassel attended Denison University, received his AB degree from Swarthmore and his BD degree from Colgate Rochester Divinity School. He was ordained in 1939 and did his graduate work in Geneva, Switzerland, and at Oberlin School of Theology. After 25 years at Fairview Park, Cleveland, he came to Wayne in the spring of 1965.

Presbyterians Have Courts

In church government, Presbyterians are governed by four ascending judiciaries or "courts" composed of elders or "presbyters" from which the denominational name, Presbyterian, is derived.

REV. ERNEST L. OTTER

St. Luke Methodist Church Has New Pastor

The Rev. Ernest L. Otter has accepted the second appointment of his ministerial career, as pastor of St. Luke Methodist Church, 39851 Five Mile, Plymouth.

The church's former pastor, the Rev. George Versteeg, left two weeks ago to serve in the Flint area.

'Move, Man Move!' Theme

A liturgy in contemporary music titled "Move, Man, Move!" will set the theme for the fourth Tuesday night service in the "Something Else" series sponsored by three Farmington churches.

The service will be held at 8:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 9, in Orchard Methodist Church.

A brass ensemble of high school and college students, directed by Don Palmer, instructor in instrumental music at Our Lady of Mercy High School, Farmington, will provide the music. Selections will include "When the Saints Go Marching In," "Amen," and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The Rev. Carl Kaltreider, pastor of Antioch Lutheran Church, will serve as liturgist and preach the sermon.

The next four Tuesday services in the series will be held in Antioch Lutheran, Antioch, Orchard Methodist and North Farmington Baptist are joining forces for the 11 services aimed at presenting religious themes in different settings.

Watch Tower Meeting Set In Detroit July 11-14

Jehovah's Witnesses in this area will hold their annual Watch Tower Convention in downtown Detroit July 11 to 14.

Announcing the meet, Ernest Szalma, presiding minister of the Witnesses Farmington congregation, said his sect was not seeking to avoid the inner-city area.

"Jehovah's Witnesses are no strangers to violence," he stated. "Although many vacationing family groups may shun metropolitan areas for fear of a repeat of last summer's disturbances, Witnesses will be converging on 36 cities in the continental United States during July and August."

THE DETROIT meeting, like others around the country, will be called "Good News for All Nations."

a strongly knit group of people who remain undivided by political, ethnic or social factors. Genuine love for God, for neighbor and for family preclude the frantic competitions and jealousies so prevalent in today's world."

FAMILY BIBLE EDUCATION

will again be stressed in the identical programs to be presented at all the announced locations. Lectures, discussion groups and costumed Bible dramas will be featured at each of these.

OBITUARIES

DONALD M. GREEN. Services for Mr. Green, 45, of 2185 Ivywood, Plymouth, were held Wednesday in the Schrader Funeral Home with Rev. Ronald Moss officiating. He was buried in Cadillac Memorial Gardens Cemetery, Livonia.

He is survived by: his wife, Grace (Baker) Green; three sons, Michael, Donald and Patrick, all at home; five daughters, Cynthia, Cathy, Deborah, Susan and Sandra, all at home; four sisters, Mrs. Gerald Bradley of Jackson, Mrs. Joseph Antezak of Grand Blanc, Mrs. Robert Mason of Addison, and Merion Se Graves of Addison; and one brother, Gerald Green of Las Vegas, Nev.

Mr. Green was born on Aug. 4, 1922 in Detroit and came to Canton Township 15 years ago. He was a farm foreman at Wayne County Training School. He was also a board member of Michigan Artificial Breeders Association.

Livonia To Boom With 4th Fireworks

Whatever your plans for celebrating the Fourth of July, save the late evening for the fireworks!

That's a bit of holiday advice from John Dufour, head of Livonia's Parks and Recreation Department, who said this year's fireworks display is going to be "the best ever."

Enough fireworks are being bought for $1,500 to give the Livonia public—and guests—about an hour's entertainment. Special displays are expected to bring chorus volume of

"Oh's" and "Ah's" and "Ain't that party?"

THE COST is being shared by the department—$500—and the Detroit Race Course, a co-sponsor, $1,000.

The show will go on at the Detroit Race Course, on Schoolcraft Road and Middlebelt, at about 9:30 p.m.

A crowd of 25,000 to 30,000 is expected, with visitors from surrounding communities who like Livonia's annual "Fourth" party, and are welcome.

The track's grandstand will be open to the public, with no charges, but other thousands will stand on the apron to watch the skies and the colorful lights.

The Livonia Auxiliary Police and Security Police from the track will handle the traffic at the parking lots, Dufour said, with traffic police keeping the roads open.

Cars park along the roads and passengers stand by to see the fireworks, but Dufour said "they miss the ground displays" and should try to get inside.

ABOUT 20 employees of the Parks and Forestry Division of the Department of Public Works will handle the fireworks program.

Dufour said "we had thought about starting the show at 10 p.m., because of that period between twilight and darkness, but decided to move it up to 9:30 because of the thousands of children who will be there. They can't stay up too late."

Dufour said previous programs have brought turnouts approximating 30,000.

What happens if rains come and wash out the Thursday night program?

"Don't think of it!" Dufour said. "But if you must know, we'll store the stuff until next year. There's only one Fourth of July."

Second Swim Class Set To Start July 15

Blisters
Everyone

Jerome Dupont is criticizing Republican and Democrat alike in his bid for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 2nd District.

Dupont, a 29-year-old Ann Arbor lawyer, hit incumbent Republican Rep. Marvin Esch for voting in favor of a combination tax hike-spending out.

Dupont's view is that the tax increase will help finance the war in Vietnam and that domestic spending shouldn't be cut but increased.

BUT FORMER Democratic Rep. Weston E. Vivian (1965-66) also has been getting his lumps from Dupont, who said in a recent statement:

"Vivian was an administration supporter throughout the 89th Congress; he applauds and defends its record even today. His present candidacy is based on the record of that Congress—a record scarred by shortsighted policies and the priorities of violence."

By the "priorities of violence," Dupont means "the national priorities which favor military stockpiling and space exploration over the health, education and welfare of our own people."

DUPONT ALSO faults Vivian's record in Congress for "his vote for a civil rights amendment allowing discrimination by real estate agents on written instructions from clients."

On the other hand, Dupont "welcomes" the candidacy of John McDermott Sr., of Howell, because he "has taken a clear and unequivocal position of support for the record of the Johnson-Humphrey Administration . . . (it) will aid in presenting a clear choice to the voters."

GM Trains
Ex-Soldiers

A total of 643 men soon to be separated from the Armed Forces have registered for automotive or appliance service training with General Motors under Project Transition, President Edward H. Cole announced.

Project Transition is a recently initiated Department of Defense program to help members of the Armed Forces learn civilian job skills before they return to civilian life. GM provides the training at no charge to the men enrolled or to the Armed Forces.

Currently there are servicemen in training, or registered for training, in 19 of the 30 General Motors Training Centers in the United States. One group of 11 already has been graduated from the Frigidare school at the Denver Training Center.

Following graduation from the GM training course and separation from the service, each man who is interested will be offered a job interview by a GM dealer representing Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac, GMC Truck & Coach, Detroit Diesel or Frigidare. There is no obligation to seek a GM job, however. Further, there is no cost to GM dealers.

Storm Loss May Rate
Income Tax Deduction

If you suffered a loss because of last week's heavy rain and floods, you may be entitled to a casualty loss deduction on your 1968 Federal Income Tax return.

So says A.M. Stoepfer, district director of Internal Revenue in Detroit.

WHILE MOST PERSONS will not be required to file returns until next April, Stoepfer pointed out that the best time to prepare the necessary information is as soon after the occurrence of the casualty as possible. Lists of losses or of damage to property are apt to be more complete if prepared early, he said.

REV. JAMES L. MEYER keeps score at 19th District Democratic caucus.

In 19th District

He wasn't at the party's caucus to say grace. He was in the fight up to his Roman collar.

He's the Rev. James L. Meyer, assistant pastor of St. Benedict Parish in Waterford Township, up near Pontiac, and he was a delegate to the last Democratic state convention. He almost got elected an alternate delegate from the 19th District to the national convention, collecting 47 votes with 55 needed to win. A lot of those votes came from Livonia and Redford.

A soft-spoken sort of chap, Father Meyer calls himself a McCarthy-Kennedy Democrat. He's typical of the new breed of clergyman that isn't afraid to get active in the process of social change.

THE LAST PRIEST of that sort was Father Gabriel Richard, the French-born priest who served Detroit in the early years of the 19th century. Father Richard went even further in politics. In 1823 the English-American vote split over candidates for Michigan's territorial delegate to Congress. The French-American vote ganged up and elected Richard.

Richard wasn't actually a voting congressman, because Michigan was still a territory. But he was entitled to sit in on all sessions, and he lobbied effectively for funds for the Chicago Military Road (now M-60).

Thus, he was the only priest ever to serve in Congress.

A NATIVE OF northwest Detroit, Father Meyer was ordained in 1960 and served four years in a Dearborn parish. There, he developed close ties with liberal Democratic State Senators Roger Craig and Ed Robinson. He got interested in civil rights.

Then he went off to Georgetown University in Washington, D. C., to work on a master's degree in international relations.

Returning to Michigan, Father Meyer was assigned to St. Benedict's in Waterford, and he also got active in civil rights and open housing in Pontiac.

He has been active in Democratic politics for about a year and a half. His short experience frankly annoyed some of the older party hands, who resented his running for national convention delegate and alternate with that modest background.

But there was no denying he was a popular figure among 19th District Democrats.

And he's likely to continue.

Fights For Party Control
Shape Up In Local Precincts

By TIM RICHARD

In dozens of suburban neighborhoods, political battles are brewing in the Aug. 6 primary. Individually, they are minor. Collectively, they add up to battles for control of the two political parties in some towns. Democrats in Redford Township, Republicans and Democrats in Livonia and Republicans in Farmington city and township will wage the battles in precinct delegate elections. When you get a majority of precinct delegates in your camp, you can go a long way toward controlling the party structure.

FOR DEMOCRATS, the Redford and Livonia delegate races point to an apparent battle between 19th District-Wayne Chairman Jerry Raymond, the Livonia councilman and party "regular," and Ron Mardiros, a candidate for Congress and leader of the anti-Vietnam war Democrats.

Another party source said 19th-Wayne Democrats are actually split into four groups—behind Raymond, Mardiros, Paul Kadish and Marvin Stempfen.

At present, the Raymond, Kadish and Stempfen Democrats are united against the Mardiros forces.

Mardiros denies he's fielding a slate. He says it's the tradition for 19th-Wayne Democrats to fight hard for precinct delegate posts.

"Take a look at the Oakland County 19th," challenges Mardiros. "In 154 precincts, only 64 have any candidates, and 90 are vacant."

"It's not because there aren't enough Democrats. It's apathy. It makes ya sick."

"No single group can dominate a party when there's plenty of activity like this," Mardiros said.

Raymond couldn't be reached for his version.

Perhaps it's significant, perhaps only ironic, that in Jerry Raymond's home of Livonia Precinct 17, the candidate opposing him is Mardiros' father, Ruben.

ON THE DEMOCRATIC side, of 49 precincts in Redford, there will be vacancies in only two but contests in 21.

Livonia faces even more Democratic precinct combat. In 44 precincts, there are only two vacancies and 23 contests.

And on the Republican side in Livonia, there will be only one vacancy but 20 contests in the 44 precincts.

By way of contrast, Redford Republicans will leave 10 vacancies and will see only six contests; and Farmington Democrats, with a total of 20 precincts in the city and township, have left nine vacancies and will see only two contests.

THE BIGGEST battleground in Observerland, however, will be among Farmington Republicans.

With 20 precincts, they'll have 17 contests. There's not a single precinct in either city of township where someone isn't running.

It's like that all over Oakland County in the Republican Party.

On the western side, conservatives led by former chairman Christian Powell are trying to topple the Romney-oriented regulars led by current 19th District Chairman John Cartwright.

On the eastern side, the conservatives are led by State Sen. Robert Huber of Troy and would like to dump Oakland County Chairman Joseph Farham, a Romneyite.

NOT ALL BATTLES on the Democratic side can be traced to the Raymond-Mardiros clash, nor can all GOP battles be credited to the conservative-moderate fight.

But when you find a town with a lot of fights for precinct delegate seats, it's likely that it indicates a tight battle is going on.

Plymouth city and township are dull places for both Republicans and Democrats.

With a total of 12 precincts, Republicans fielded only six candidates. Democrats got the same number. There are no contested precincts in Plymouth in either party.

PRECINCT DELEGATES attend district conventions. There they elect half the executive board of the local party (the other half is composed of the nominees for county and legislative offices).

Precinct delegates, in their district conventions, also elect delegates to state conventions, where the party's candidates for state office (below lieutenant governor) are nominated.

Precinct delegates elected Aug. 6 will have nothing, however, to do with their parties' national conventions. The precinct delegates elected in 1966 started that process rolling.

Odds On Them
HHH, Nixon Court
Michigan Delegations

Michigan's presidential candidate pickers in both parties still debated the front-runners today with the odds shaping up as a Humphrey-Nixon slate in November.

Both delegations have been wooed by candidates in the last week.

Democrats, without a strong governor to lead them, are expected at this point to give at least 30 of their 102 votes to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Gov. Romney has frozen the 46 Republican votes pledged to him as a favorite son. He is playing a waiting game with Ohio and California between Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Party leaders agree the technique is a gamble between tipping the convention toward the winner and holding back a second too long when the bandwagon starts rolling.

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy was the latest seeker after Democratic support in a visit to Lansing Saturday and Sunday. He came to Michigan with an estimated five delegates and left with a sure 12.

BUT THE closed-door poll of Michigan delegates to the National Democratic Convention showed 61 for Humphrey, 12 for McCarthy, four scattered and the rest silent or uncommitted.

Insiders said the fight over whether the poll should be taken kept a number of Humphrey people from showing their hand.

McCarthy expressed confidence both to the airport crowd and later to the delegates, but his back-Rockey statements were subject to at least two versions.

A pro-Humphrey view: After a series of similar questions from delegates, including Plymouth's Robert Dwyer, and AFL-CIO President Gus Scholle, McCarthy said he could see some conditions under which he could support Republican Rockefeller.

A pro-McCarthy view: McCarthy said Rockefeller's stand on issues is getting closer to that of the late Democratic Senator Robert F. Kennedy and approaching his own.

HUMPHREY has been the front-runner among Michigan delegates since the state convention in Detroit despite charges among McCarthy people that he is not being given a fair shot.

Nationally Humphrey is speculated to have the convention votes needed for the nomination while the polls are report-

SUPPORT — State Sen. George Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield, gave GOP presidential hopeful Richard Nixon a framed resolution indicating the support of 19 of the 20 Republicans in the Michigan Senate. Kuhn said he hoped it would influence the Michigan delegation to the Republican National Convention. The state delegation, so far, is supporting Gov. Romney as a favorite son. Nixon visited the state last week.

MEA Appoints
Pro Negotiators

Two consultants have been added to the Michigan Education Association Metro Area Center staff to assist Wayne County MEA units with professional teacher negotiations this summer.

Donald Louis, 3422 Spring Valley, Westland, and James Carlson, Allen Park, were retained as professional negotiations consultants.

Richard Gray, Area Center Director, said:

"BOTH HAVE excellent records as classroom teachers and past professional negotiating experience," he said.

"They'll be invaluable to us in the weeks ahead, advising local association PN Committees during the negotiation process established by Public Act 379," Gray continued.

Louis is a classroom teacher at Wayne Memorial High School, and Carlson is an instructor at West Junior High School in Taylor Township.

The appointment of Louis and Carlson was made after all MEA-affiliated local units had filed their initial proposals with the school district negotiating teams.

"IN MANY INSTANCES, the Boards of Education have been extremely slow responding to the initial proposal," Gray said. "Some delays were expected from a few school boards until the results of the June 10th operational millage elections were known," he continued.

"Citizens approved 177 of the 252 millage issues in Michigan on that date, but many school board negotiating teams have yet to make counter proposals to the local association unit," Gray said.

Thus far, only three MEA-affiliated teacher units in Wayne County have reached contract agreement. They are Cherry Hill, Huron and Grosse Ile. Twenty-three units are still negotiating.

2 Companies
Will Train
'Hard-Core'

Ford Motor Co. and Great Markwestern Packing Company will train 210 hard-core unemployed persons in the Greater Detroit and Monroe areas, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz announced.

Two contracts with Ford covering the Detroit and Monroe Metal Stamping Division plants call for federal expenditures of $88,894 and $35,792 respectively to train 50 and 20 workers in various occupations.

The Great Markwestern Packing Co. of Detroit contract will provide $418,799 in federal funds for 140 trainees.

The National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) participated in the development of the three contracts, in the MA-3 series, as it does with all contracts in the President's Job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS) program to provide employment for the jobless in the Nation's major cities. Each contract is of two years duration.

Some times it's inexpensive and exciting to do things in a non-professional manner, but when you have a big investment at stake — it's economical and secure to use the services of a respected professional!

On The HOUSE

by Weldon Clark

Every mother knows which side the bread is buttered on—the side the kids drop on the floor.

"Opened by mistake" applies more to mouths than to letters.

The ability to lie differs among people. For example, a short-armed fisherman isn't nearly so big a liar as a long-armed one.

And this is no "fish story". You'll find everything from a cottage to a castle at Another outstanding success!

Only 8 Sites For Homes Left
Come see, this weekend for sure!

Outstanding residential design is the keynote at Farm Meadows. Four beautiful model homes are on display... traditional Colonial, spacious "wing" Colonial, Farm Colonial and a roomy ranch home. Several more designs are available for construction, providing a magnificent variety of new homes from which you may choose. Each, of course, has four exterior treatments (elevations) from which you may select. With your wide range of interior options, your home will truly be a custom, hand-crafted personal creation in which you will have infinite pride! And the convenient Farm Meadows Farmington location is close to schools, shopping and the I-696 Freeway. Concrete streets, Detroit water and sewer, large homesites... all of these and more are additional advantages. Home prices begin at $39,900, including base price lot. Come see Farm Meadows this weekend.

The illness has nothing at all to do with skin color. It can affect whites just as potently as it can blacks. With the same ultimate results.

Rumor has it some people already have the bug. Their numbers are few. And they can be controlled.

We can stop them cold with some individual responsibility on the part of every sane citizen, black and white, in metropolitan Detroit.

World Student Rebellion Lacks Cohesiveness

Throughout much of the world, the young students are up in arms, a sudden new force which has helped strangle France, shocked a dozen governments with its strength and its demands for change, and confused them with its violent opposition to everything.

But even the articulate, magnetic young men who have led the revolts find little cohesiveness in the movements' fabric. In the forefront is Daniel Cohn-Bendit, a German Jew born in France of parents chased from Nazi Germany. His parents are dead. He is a leader in a movement which says it abhors leadership. Yet he is called "Dan le Rouge," as they call him, has all the qualities of leadership. A brilliant student, he can galvanize a student audience in French, German or English. His aim: destroy the "bourgeois society" in France and the world.

"I recognize no national flag," he says, "only the red and black flags of the workers." The black flag rises from the anarchist movement which has deeply influenced him. He criticizes the Communists for their entrenched position in the biggest French labor union, part of the society he wants to destroy. He calls them "that low Stalinist crowd," and the Communists find the Cohn-Bendit students undisciplined and unpredictable. They have bitterly attacked him personally, and lost some following as a consequence.

Cohn-Bendit had already been in contact with other European student leaders when on March 20 windows were broken in the American Express Office in Paris and three youths were arrested.

IN PROTEST on March 2, more than 100 students led by

Cohn-Bendit invaded the administration building on the suburban Nanterre campus of the Sorbonne, and held a meeting in the Board of Governors conference room. "They ate sandwiches, sang the Internationale and drank some beer," said a university official. "But they didn't do much harm."

Yet it was the spark that touched off the crisis, and heaped Cohn-Bendit, a second-year sociology student, to international prominence. The French government banned the redhead from the borders, but he dyed his hair black, returned, and held a boisterous news conference at the Sorbonne in defiance.

In Germany, the student movement found an early martyr. Rudi Dutschke, 28, married to a Chicago girl named Gretchen, was the one they called "Rudi the Red." He was shot and critically wounded in West Berlin on April 11. It touched off demonstrations by students all over Europe, carrying signs that said, "The hand that shot Rudi Dutschke is the same that killed Che Guevara, Malcolm X, and Martin Luther King." Students chanting "Ho-Ho, Ho-Chi-Minh" clashed with police in Berlin.

LEADERSHIP of West Germany's most militant leftist student group is now held by a young man who is more the image of a Sunday School teacher than a street fighter.

Respectable Karl Dietrich Wolff, 25, dresses simply in a workman's blue shirt, corduroy jacket and khaki pants. He heads the "Marxist" Socialist German Student Federation to which Dutschke belonged. His brother, Rudi, 22, is vice president. Wolff says his 2,500 member organization rallied other students and young workers in the demonstrations after Dutschke's shooting.

Wolff's militancy is aimed at mobilizing students, but he has been less successful with labor. "The labor movement was completely broken up by fascism and was not able to rebuild because of the cold war," Wolff says. "But we are working in the shops to correct this."

Wolff is, like other leaders of the New Left, a contrast in background and aims. His great-grandfather and grandfather were pastors, his father a judge. Both his parents are dead.

At 13, Wolff joined a young socialist group. At 17 he went to the United States under an educational program sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches, attending Marshall, Mich., high school and graduating from there in 1960. He claims to have worked with Quaker and Socialist groups setting up preparation camps for U.S. Freedom Riders. He is now finishing law studies at Frankfurt University, plans to become a political trial lawyer, shows a dismay of parliamentary government.

"All parliamentary systems tend to emancipate themselves from the people," he says. "Large portions of society are not taking part in democracy. Workers do not control investment and students do not control seminars."

TO REPLACE parliament, Wolff suggests a representative assembly comprising all elements of society to get "all people to actively participate in their fates." Expressing some admiration for Red China, Wolff says it "demonstrates that a people, if they really are revolutionary, tends to break the system."

In Japan, Sadao Ieno, 24, a former law student at Kyoto University, heads the international division of the Zengakuren, the all-Japan federation of student unions. An outfit spawned in 1948 to oppose an increase in tuition. It has grown to 205 groups in 92 colleges and is backed by some 170 nonstudent organizations. Total membership is some 160,000.

Admittedly leftist, Zengakuren claims to be nonviolent. But its constantly wrangling factions are in turmoil. Ieno says that radical student groups that call themselves Zengakuren have been responsible for much of the bloody violence directed against the U.S. presence in Japan and Vietnam, a cause that most Japanese student groups have in common.

Violent student demonstrations were sufficient to foil a visit by President Eisenhower to Japan in 1960, and since have been aimed at protesting tours of Southeast Asia and the United States by Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, and new U.S. military projects.

Ole Edqvist, a bearded and bespectacled 27-year-old, is a typical leftist student leader in Sweden. He rose from Stockholm's middle class, holds an engineering degree, is taking an advanced course in physics and teaching at Stockholm Tech. He is a member of the central secretariat of Claris, a socialist students' organization dating from the 1920s which this year decided to become Marxist-Leninist on the Red Chinese line, rivaling the Young Communists and others on the Soviet line.

A major aim is to protest the U.S. role in Vietnam, Sweden's economic relations with the West, and the lassitude of Swedish workers on social issues. Edqvist explains that full nationalization and a "dictatorship of the proletariat" must follow. "The youth and students, who are more easily solidified internationally," he said, "will have to lead the way for the fettered workers."

POL GOOSSENS, 25, is president of the Studenten Vak Beweging, the Flemish student movement, and led the riots at Belgium's University of Louvain, the largest Roman Catholic university in the world. The product of a bourgeois family, a student of philosophy, law and now economy, Goossens was expelled from divinity school for his challenge to authority.

"You always face an authoritative principle in society," church or university, which finds justification only in itself to strengthen existing situations," he says. "Therefore I am against authoritative disciplinary structures."

"Democracy," he adds, "is a continuous change which abolishes any authoritative structure. Democracy gives everyone a participation, enables personal creativity. It is entirely opposed to our present classes which make us repeating machines or specialized idiots."

Britain's student protest is largely embryonic, but growing. Traditional student organizations are trying to express student dissatisfaction without violence.

TREVOR FISKE, 24, a Labor party member with a private school education, is president-elect of the National Union of Students. "The NUS," he says, "is content to work in the system, but we have to deliver the goods." The test, he adds, may come next year with consideration of a move to lower the age of majority from 21 to 18.

"Will students be treated as adults if they are recognized

Computer Coordinates Van Moves

INDIANAPOLIS — The moving industry's first computer-controlled van management system has been inaugurated. Aero Mayflower Transit Company announced that instantaneous long-distance moving link the long-distance moving company's dispatching offices in Los Angeles, New York City and Indianapolis with a powerful IBM System/360 Model 40 computer which records, stores and feeds dispatching information required to coordinate the interstate movements of a fleet of 1,500 moving vans.

DISPATCHERS in the three cities use IBM visual terminal units to enter into the central computer complete shipping information for each long-distance move. These terminal units resemble small television sets with attached typewriter keyboards.

Data flows over 2,200 miles of leased communications lines between Indianapolis and Los Angeles, and 700 miles between Indianapolis and New York.

The instantaneous free-flow of dispatching information insures "the highest possible level of service" to the 125,000 American families the company moves each year.

Order information stored on magnetic disks by the computer includes shipper's name, order number, point of origin, destination city, size of shipment, estimated cost, loading date, delivery date, packing services to be provided and data required for billing purposes and for internal use.

Move orders, routes, scheduling and operational information also are added to the computer's files. This data, stored on magnetic disks, is available for updating and to answer inquiries.

Dispatchers in all three dispatching offices can feed or draw information instantaneously. The company also has individual printers linked with the computer to type out orders and special instructions at the dispatcher stations in New York, Indianapolis and Los Angeles.

This contributes to an unprecedented degree of management control of all operations, the company reports, and it represents a giant stride toward the goal of every carrier in the long-distance moving industry of providing on-time service to families-on-the-move.

RACE, ATTITUDES, POLICY, ACTION

SUMMER SEMINAR

MADONNA COLLEGE

Livonia, Michigan 48150

JULY 8-25, 1968

MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY

7:30-9:15 p.m.

OBJECTIVES

The seminar on RACE, ATTITUDES, POLICY, ACTION aims to give knowledge and theoretical insight into the current racial issues which affect the daily life of all in some way.

Together, through an open and sincere interaction of participants and seminar leaders, we will try to look beyond the current events in our society in order to better understand the racial tumult in the United States today. It will not be difficult to understand that the Negro revolution is nothing more than the Negro's way of demanding equal opportunities NOW. The young Negro especially who has been exposed all of his life to the teachings of the great American scriptures of democracy, freedom, and equality is no longer willing to wait for his inherent rights. This means an equal opportunity to an education, employment, good housing, and full participation as a responsible citizen in a democratic society.

We, therefore, welcome participants from every part of Livonia, Plymouth, Detroit, and the neighboring communities. Together we hope to develop a closer understanding of what we can do to help make our democracy a reality for everybody.

Advance Planning Will Lessen Moving

There's no getting around it, moving can be a chore. There are so many things to do, things that are time-consuming and bothersome.

However, there's a lot you can do to make moving easier. The secret lies in advance planning, according to moving consultants of Aero Mayflower Transit Company. Start programming four to six weeks before your moving date.

Your first consideration is what firm is going to do the moving for you. If you're knowledgeable of moving companies, check your telephone book's yellow pages under "Moving." Chances are that those having display ads and stressing long-distance, national or international service will prove most reputable.

In any case, get more than one estimate and be sure it's a visual estimate. No one can intelligently estimate the cost of a move by telephone. Compare not only cost, but the service each mover offers. Check their reputations locally and be sure that the one you select has a representative in the community to which you're moving. Finally, don't be overly influenced by the "low bid," because remember this is only an estimate, not a firm bid.

RESPONSIBILITY for insurance is yours, not the mover's. So check to be sure your goods are fully protected. The mover's liability won't begin to replace an expensive object that might be totally damaged.

Getting an early start on a move is extremely important. At least a month ahead of time, select the mover and set the date. This is particularly important if you're moving at month-end.

You'll want water, electricity, gas and telephone turned off at the old address and the service resumed at the new. The earlier you let the utilities know, the more likely you are to get prompt service on the desired date. Don't overlook services like milk deliveries and newspapers either.

Give the post office your new address and remember, magazines take four to six weeks to change their subscription addresses.

TO AID in accomplishing this host of chores, Mayflower offers a "Movers Check-Off List" which covers the many notifications that have to be made.

You'll have to make other arrangements for transporting frozen foods, pets, plants and flammable liquids. Movers won't handle them.

Consult with your mover to determine just what you're going to pack and what he will do. While some items can be left in furniture drawers, in general the best idea is to store everything in containers. Check with your mover for advice.

Gather Portraits Of First Ladies

DENVER, Colo.—It took two years and a lot of effort, but state archivists have finally located portraits of Colorado's 35 first ladies, from territorial times to the present.

The assignment came from Mrs. John Love, wife of the governor, who sought the collection for the Governor's Mansion.

Descendants of the governors, many of them still prominent in state affairs, and chambers of commerce, newspapers, local and county officials, historical societies, libraries, even postmasters, all helped to track down the pictures.

Cancel Tours

Plant tours at Fisher Body, 28400 Plymouth Rd., Livonia, have been canceled until after Labor Day because of model changeovers. The tours, held every Thursday, will be resumed again in September.

Let the Profile Bread Plan help prolong your Slender Years.

Home Builders Would Profit From Tax Hike

WASHINGTON—One of President Johnson's chief economic advisers has identified home building as the industry most likely to suffer if Congress does not approve a tax increase and most likely to profit if it does.

In fact, James S. Duesenberry, a member of the Council of Economic Advisers, said that without a tax increase residential construction will fall off quickly this year, as it did in 1966, to the lowest level since World War II.

Duesenberry indicated that the Administration would look upon this cut back in home building, even as drastic as it would be, as the lesser of the possible repercussions necessary to weather the financial and inflationary crises.

The tax increase issue, which has been simmering in Congress for more than a year should be settled one way or the other by the end of June.

While there appears to be adequate support in the Congress for the proposed 10 percent surtax, the present controversy is over a required reduction of $4-$6 billion in Federal spending over the next 12 months as a condition of the tax hike.

THE POSSIBILITY of a deep cut in home building without a tax increase, as cited by Duesenberry in a very pointed manner, is expected to rally the powerful political support of the entire housing industry behind the tax bill.

The Presidential adviser said he had drawn such a clear picture of the economically and politically distasteful alternatives "because it is important for us to have a full realization of the kind of choices we must make." The economist noted that basic demand for housing is "very strong" with the growth in population and the shortage of vacant homes and apartments.

He added: "It seems clear that, in the absence of monetary restraint, residential construction activity could expand significantly beyond the levels of the past few months. However, what happens to the rate of residential construction depends very largely on monetary policy."

HOME BUILDING came on strong in the Spring season with the volume of actual housing units started backed up by a high level of new building permits issued.

Although the number of units started has not yet dropped, the National Association of Home Builders said the money problem has been reflected in a shift in the type of building from single-family homes to multifamily dwellings.

According to NAHB, this is because more of the financing is coming from life insurance companies and commercial banks which invest in home producing properties as well as from the thrift institutions—savings and loans and mutual savings banks—which finance well over half of the new single-family homes.

Duesenberry pointed out that there is a lag between the time when the Federal Reserve Board starts to tighten the money market to restrain inflationary pressures on the economy and the time when the tighter credit is felt in the housing market.

Soap Is Best Skin Cleanser

New York—You are probably skinnier than you realize. The average person has approximately 17 square feet of skin weighing about five pounds.

Curiously, although we may urge others to "save your own skin" or "don't let it get under your skin," dermatologists say that few of us know how to take care of the skin we have.

Have you heard, for instance, that wind in your face when you ride in an open convertible "freshens" your skin? Or that sun tends to make the skin oily? Or that the darker your tan, the better it is for your appearance of youthfulness? Each of these ideas is a popular fallacy.

What actually happens, often, when you ride in an open convertible, is that many tiny bits of airborne grit are driven deep into your skin.

FOR OILY skin, interestingly, sun actually helps the situation by promoting peeling you don't notice so that clogged oil ducts can drain normally.

And while a dark tan may help you look youthful for so long as the tan lasts, an excess of sun may leave you with wrinkles as souvenirs of the tan once it's gone. The reason, doctors explain, has to do with "subcutaneous fat lobules," but the thing to do is easier to understand: If you weren't born black, don't struggle to get that way; settle for becoming tan or light brown.

One of the greatest skin care products ever made is popular among dermatologists, who both recommend it and use it often themselves. The product, low in cost and nationally available, is soap. Plain soap. Nothing, doctors say, does a better job of cleansing the skin.

And clean skin is especially important in summer, for extra perspiration means extra bits of soil, flowing to the skin through the pores. Skin cleanliness not only promotes beauty, but also helps prevent minor skin infections that may lead to blemishes.

Give a kind thought, during summer, to your Malpighian cells. They are the tiny, busy bits of you that release melanin pigment to make you tan and shield your skin against sun injury. But the cells work gradually, and the sun often works faster, hence the popularity of such creams and lotions as Bronzitan to protect against burning and promote a longer lasting tan.

If you are itching to avoid poison ivy, keep in mind a surprising fact about this skin problem: Unlike other ailments to which we gradually build up immunity, with poison ivy many of us gradually lose whatever immunity we have! So even if you have never suffered from poison ivy, you may avoid a rash if you avoid being rash about coming into contact with the oily, three-leafed plant. And if you do rub "up" against what you suspect to be poison ivy, the right move is to wash it off with soap and water as soon as possible.

PERHAPS the unkindest cut of all, when it comes to summer fun, is the one that goes untreated, then develops into something big. A small first aid kit for your car is inexpensive and a good idea.

Another low-cost way to save your skin in summer is to use foot powder in your shoes every day. The powder not only absorbs moisture and adds comfort, but also helps prevent athlete's foot and other fungus infections that may become serious.

Michigan Week Covers Eight Days

Michigan Week in 1968 will begin Saturday May 17 and run through Saturday May 24, the first time that the official dates have shown it as an eight-day week.

Dale I. Sellers, president of the Greater Michigan Foundation, in announcing the dates asked communities to begin planning now for the next year's celebration.

He asked organizations of all kinds to enlist their members in the year-around citizen promotion of Michigan that Michigan Week is intended to stimulate. Sellers is senior vice president of Bank of the Commonwealth.

The foundation's board of governors, meeting last week, decided to continue this year's theme, "Michigan—Land of Hospitality" through 1969.

Business places and individuals are urged to push the theme hard this summer when the state is crowded with visitors, as part of the effort to build a solid reputation for Michigan as the friendliest state in the nation.

Court Upholds Textbook Law

Textbook Law

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court has upheld a New York law that requires public school systems to lend textbooks to children in parochial and other private schools.

The decision rested heavily on the view that parochial schools serve a secular educational function as well as a religious educational function.

'Silent Spring' Warning Still Valid Problem

The problem with poisoning insects is that you might also poison yourself. Ever since Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring" a few years ago, with its warnings against the indiscriminate use of insecticides, there has been a growing concern about their safety.

Many advocate not using them at all. If you feel you must use an insecticide, use it properly and with precautions. Even the safest of bug killers can be dangerous if not used as directed.

First, read the label. Those that are labeled "nontoxic to humans" are the safest but must still be handled carefully. Even though exposure to the substance once may not be dangerous, there is a growing concern about cumulative toxicity, the effect of a long-term buildup. So use even the mild insecticides carefully. Use of the word "caution" also indicates a relatively mild insecticide.

When you get to the word "warning," you know you have a more dangerous product. Follow directions to the letter.

If you see the word "poison" and the old skull and crossbones symbol, skip it and pick another product. Leave that stuff to the professionals and stay out of their way.

THE INGREDIENTS might give you a clue, but most of the names are tongue twisters and new ones come out all the time. Permethrin is less toxic than malathion which is less toxic than chlordane, which is less toxic than DDT—to name some common ones. And if you see sodium selenate, or parathion or TEPP listed, then stay clean, since these are among the most toxic of all.

Read the instructions carefully. Never mix different insecticides together. Never mix an insecticide in greater strength than directed—it's only the bugs you want to kill, not pets or children or yourself.

Determine what you need it for. If it is one type of bug you are concerned about, then pick the least toxic insecticide that will kill that bug.

Keep the kids and the pets away when you dust or spray, and for a good length of time afterward.

Keep insecticides out of reach of children. Such dangerous material should be kept under lock and key. Don't store them with food products. Never use garden insecticides inside the house.

Keep the insecticides in their original containers and keep the label clean and intact. When the containers are empty, get rid of them. Wash out bottles and cans before tossing them in the trash can.

NEVER MIND the ads in which a girl in a bathing suit or a man in Bermuda shorts is spraying or dusting insecticides. Keep covered. Wear clothes that cover you completely. Wear rubber gloves. If working in close quarters or for a long period of time, wear a respirator mask.

Since your clothing is bound to become contaminated, wash it when you are finished spraying.

Wash hands and face immediately. Wash before eating or smoking. Don't smoke while spraying.

Watch out that some products may be inflammable. Assume they are if they have an oil base.

Overkill is not a good idea. Fogging apparatus is dangerous. It drifts where you don't want it. If you can apply a small amount of insecticide to a plant or in a crevice, then don't spray.

BOB-LO MOONLIGHTS EVERY WEEKEND at 9 Friday-9 & 10 Saturday

You have to sail on a Weekend Bob-Lo Moonlight to believe it — those cool river breezes — cruising under the stars — a dance band aboard — Friday and Saturday the 9 P.M. boat docks at Bob-Lo Island — internationally famous amusement park — jam-packed with new thrill rides and fun attractions — a night to remember for only $2.

RUM COLLINS

The first collins was concocted with rum, during the American Revolution. Still unbeatable.

1 oz. lemon juice and 1 tsp. sugar (or use a prepared collins mix). Add 2 oz. white or silver Puerto Rican rum, shake with ice, strain into a tall glass full of ice cubes, and top with club soda.

PUERTO RICAN RUM is light and dry and outsells all others 3 to 1

Survey Says Eating Now Takes Turn For Worse

American eating habits have taken a turn for the worse, said Mrs. Anita Dean, specialist in foods and nutrition with Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service.

Based upon a 1965 survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the nutritional level of American diets has been declining for the past decade.

This is the first such drop reported since these USDA surveys began in 1909, Mrs. Dean pointed out.

One household in every five—or 20 per cent—eats a nutritionally poor diet, she related. In 1955, only 15 per cent of American families fell into this category.

Study Checks Success Of Interfaith Marriages

By Dr. Alfred J. Prince

DR. PRINCE is associate professor of sociology at Eastern Washington State College, where he directs the undergraduate social work program. He is an experienced family and marriage counselor and has done extensive research into family problems.

How successful are interfaith marriages? What are the major areas of conflict in such unions? How do couples resolve their differences over religion? How successful are childless mixed marriages?

Our study of several hundred cross-religion marriages throughout the country sought answers to these questions.

Couples in our sample had been married from six months to 46 years with an average of 10 years and five months. Approximately 10 per cent had been married 20 years or more. Less than six per cent were married under two years.

OUR STUDY of cross-religion marriages also included the study of interdenominational marriages, or marriages between members of Protestant groups. Length of marriage for couples in this group was approximately the same as for the interfaith marriage group.

Approximately one-third of the interfaith marriages and 25 per cent of the interdenominational marriages were childless. Of the childless couples more than one-third had been married five years or more. Few had been married less than two years.

Our data show that Protestants and Catholics have intermarried with each other far more frequently than with Jews. Jews have intermarried with Protestants more frequently than with Catholics.

THE COMULATIVE effect of mixed religious marriages is evident by the fact that more than half the spouses were themselves off-spring of a cross-religion marriage.

Approximately 75 per cent of the couples in the interfaith marriage group and 85 per cent in the interdenominational group were married by a religious official.

More than half the men and approximately three-fifths of women reported they attended church three times a month or more before marriage.

Four out of five spouses who contracted interfaith marriages reported their church attendance after marriage remained the same or increased.

When people of different religious faiths marry there are few alternatives open to them for resolving their differences over religion: the spouses may maintain their own faith; one spouse may adopt the faith of the other;

both spouses may adopt a new religion acceptable to both of them; or they may follow no religion.

IN MORE THAN 65 per cent of the interfaith marriages, the spouses maintained their own faith. Our data thus corroborate the findings of other studies which show that couples in interfaith marriages attempt to resolve their differences over religion most often by each spouse maintaining his or her own religious faith.

On the other hand, couples who contracted interdenominational marriages attempted to resolve their religious differences most often by one spouse adopting the faith of the other.

In interdenominational marriages either spouse was equally likely to change to the faith of the other. In interfaith marriages, however, the wife changed religion more than twice as often as did the husband.

Children in mixed religious marriages tend to follow the faith of the mother. However, when one parent, regardless of sex, was Catholic or Jewish, the children were usually reared in the Catholic or Jewish faith, respectively.

MORE THAN HALF the spouses who contracted interfaith marriages and approximately 70 per cent of those in the interdenominational marriage group were either very much satisfied or entirely satisfied with their marriage. Less than 10 per cent reported any degree of dissatisfaction.

No relationship was found between degree of satisfaction with the marriage and the religious combination of the couple.

Furthermore, couples without children were not significantly more satisfied with their marriage than were couples with children.

Couples who maintained their own religion, however, tended to be less satisfied with their marriage than were the couples who resolved their differences over religion by one spouse adopting the faith of the other. This was true for couples in both the interfaith and interdenominational marriage groups.

Do individuals who cross religious lines and marry regret their decision? Given a second chance would they marry across religious lines again? Two out of three spouses stated they would marry outside the faith a second time. Less than 10 per cent reported they would not.

Feminine Look

After several seasons of strictly tailored togs, fashion pacesetters are turning toward a softer, more feminine look. One of the popular soft touches is the jabot, which you'll be seeing on blouses, daytime dresses and evening wear. In case you've forgotten, the jabot is a falling ruffle, cascade, or other arrangement of lace or embroidery, worn at the front of the waist or the neck.

Serve The Blueberry Many Ways

By JOYCE TOTTON

Blueberries parade the market place, just waiting to be purchased and turned into a prize dish. Some may receive the cold treatment and be frozen for future use. Others get a little warm being turned into blueberry jam.

Sometimes the terminology used for spreads is confusing. For example, a blueberry conserve or preserve would be made from the pulp, skins, and juice of one or more fruits and sugars. Nuts and raisins are often added.

Marmalade contains the pulp and skin of fruits as well as juice and sugar. It is usually quite thick.

Fruit butters are made by pressing fruit pulp through a sieve, then cooking it with sugar and often spices until it can be spread.

BLUEBERRIES are refreshing when served in a watermelon boat with a mixture of other fresh fruits. I enjoy the flavor the blueberry adds to pancakes and muffins.

The modern popularity of blueberries has prompted adventurous cooks to dream up a variety of versions of refreshing desserts. Keep these recipes in mind for use during the peak of the blueberry season.

BLUEBERRY SHORTCAKE
2 c. fresh blueberries
1/2 c. water
1/2 c. sugar
1/2 t. angostura bitters
1 pkg. scones mix
Wash fresh blueberries. Place half the blueberries in saucepan with water, sugar and angostura bitters. Simmer for 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from heat and let cool slightly. Add rest of whole fresh berries and chill. Bake scones mix according to directions, patting dough into a square. While still warm, split and spoon blueberry sauce over center and top layers. Top with sweetened whipped cream, if desired.

BLUEBERRY TEA CAKE
1 t. shortening
1 c. sugar
1 egg
1/3 c. milk
1 1/4 c. sifted flour
2 t. baking powder
1/2 c. blueberries
Cream shortening, sugar and egg. Sift flour with baking powder. Add the dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Mix well. Carefully stir in the blueberries. Grease and flour a layer cake pan. Bake at 375 degrees 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: 8 servings.

BLUEBERRY DESSERT
Vanilla wafer crumbs
1/4 lb. butter
1 1/2 c. powdered sugar
2 eggs
1 can blueberry pie filling
1/2 c. finely chopped nuts
1/2 pt. whipping cream
First layer: Butter bottom of 8 x 8 pyrex pan and scatter finely crushed vanilla wafer crumbs over entire pan. Second layer: Beat together butter, powdered sugar, and eggs and pour over crumbs. Third layer: blueberry pie filling. Fourth layer: Finely chopped nuts. Fifth layer: Whipped cream. Sixth layer: Scatter vanilla wafer crumbs over top and set in refrigerator over night. Note: You may thicken fresh blueberries instead of using the blueberry pie filling. Any blueberry pie recipe would give you the proportion of ingredients to use.

Rolling Rollers

To help keep large rollers from dropping out of your hair around your face and neck, place a headband around your neck before rolling up your hair on the large rollers.

As soon as you have finished setting your hair, pull the headband up around the bottom rollers at the neck, ears, and forehead. This keeps rollers from dropping out. This hint is especially handy for the woman who has fine hard-to-manage hair.

Artificial Sweeteners Pass Safety Tests

During the last few years the use of artificial sweeteners and artificially sweetened foods has skyrocketed. And increasing numbers of calorie-conscious consumers are asking whether such products are safe to use.

The U. S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) says that no scientific evidence has shown artificial sweeteners to be a hazard to man's health.

Scientists have periodically reviewed the safety of artificial sweeteners for more than a decade. Products have undergone extensive toxicity testing, and they are listed among the additives "generally recognized as safe" by scientists in and out of the FDA.

ESTHER BROWN, University of Illinois nutrition professor, explains that the most commonly used artificial sweeteners are saccharins and cyclamates. Both chemicals are white, crystalline, odorless powders with a very sweet taste—saccharin, 500 times sweeter than sugar; and cyclamates, 30 times sweeter than sugar.

When first introduced, artificial sweeteners were used primarily in the diets of diabetics. But today, not only those with special diet needs, but also many normal, healthy people, including children, are eating and drinking artificially sweetened products. Cyclamates are used as sugar substitutes in many soft drinks, desserts and a variety of other products being promoted for their low-calorie content to a weight-conscious society.

Animal studies have shown that growth retardation may occur in rats and pigs fed high levels of cyclamates—5 to 10 percent of the diet. The FDA says such levels are unrealistic for even the most conscientious human calorie-counter.

The FDA Reports that You Can Hold Down The Cost Of Moving

All "full service" movers will come into your house and completely pack your belongings at the beginning of the move and unpack at the other end.

However, moving specialists of Aero Mayflower Transit Company point out that you can help reduce the cost of your move by handling the packing and unpacking of unbreakables yourself. But be sure to do it in easy stages.

Another potential money-saver in a local move is knowing exactly where each piece of furniture is to be placed in the new home. As with most things, in local moving, time is money and every delay in unloading means a higher cost.

Soap Is Best Cleanser For All Ages

There is no better way to begin your day than with the fresh bright feeling of washing your face with soap and water.

Far too many women reluctantly give up soap at the age of 25 or 30 with the erroneous idea that it is too drying for their skin.

Sure, you better give up your teen years strip-the-oil soap, but you don't have to give up soap and water cleansing.

Instead go all the way back to babyhood and borrow a bar of pure castile baby soap. After a gentle baby soap washing, your skin will feel dewy, soft and baby smooth because baby soap rinses right away and doesn't leave a residue to make your skin feel taut and dry.

Jelly, Spice Perk Up Lamb Kabobs

On sizzling summer evenings, broiling or cooking on the outdoor grill is the answer to the party-giver's plight. Spiced Jelly Lamb Kabobs with Almond Rice, slightly exotic, offer a gourmet treat for guests.

Since so much of the preparation can be done early in the day, the kabobs are easy on the hostess, too. Apple jelly, aromatic spices and delicate lamb are the secrets of this party success.

Spiced Jelly Lamb Kabobs With Almond Rice
1 jar (10 ounce) apple or currant jelly (about 1 cup)
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon each ginger, coriander and salt
1/4 teaspoon each ground cloves and pepper
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 pound boneless lamb (shoulder or leg), cut into 1-inch cubes
4 small onions (cooked until tender half-way through) cut in half crosswise
1 large orange, peeled and cut into chunks
2 teaspoons cornstarch

To prepare kabobs. Combine jelly, garlic, ginger, coriander, cloves, salt, pepper and vinegar; heat slowly until jelly melts. Pour over lamb cubes. Cover; marinate in refrigerator 1 to 2 hours. Drain meat. Save marinade. Alternate lamb cubes, onion halves and orange chunks on 4 long skewers. Brush with marinade. Broil 3 to 4 inches from heat until meat is the desired degree of doneness, 12 to 15 minutes. Turn skewers once during broiling. Stir cornstarch into remaining marinade; blend well. Cook until clear and thickened. Serve over seasoned or almond rice. Yield: 4 servings.

Help When Moving

Don't forget the children when moving to a new home!

No, there's little chance you'll leave them behind, but in the hectic period of preparation prior to the move, too often the misgivings of the younger fry about the move and their unhappiness about being uprooted are overlooked.

A nationwide moving firm passes along some tips on making the transition from one home to another easier for children. The firm reminds parents that children are much more conservative in their reactions to new situations than adults.

First, notify your children early about the move. It should be treated not as a rude awakening, but as anticipated fun and a trip to new worlds of delight.

Next, count the children in when planning the move and explain the reasons for the move patiently.

MAKE SURE you notify your children's teachers about the move and get transcripts of their school records, their medical records and, if the move takes place during a school year, a summary of work done during the year so far. This will make the first days in the new school go more smoothly.

On moving days, have the younger children taken care of by a relative or close friend. Have the older children help you with the packing beforehand, especially their own belongings.

In your new home, encourage children to bring their new friends home with them, even if things are not yet in good order.

Finally, parents should make sure that their own attitude towards the move, spoken and unspoken, is a positive one. A study by the National Institute of Mental Health of families who moved frequently found that where unhappiness existed among children, it tended to reflect the misgivings of at least one of the parents to the move. Where parents expressed enjoyment at the prospect of moving to new places, traveling or changing jobs, children tended to make a good adjustment.

Schoolcraft Announces Apprentice Honors List

Twenty-five apprentices enrolled in the Schoolcraft College Related Instruction Program have been named to the Apprentice Honors List for outstanding academic achievement during the winter semester.

Ronald J. Monfette, apprenticeship coordinator at the college, said the 25 students accumulated grade point averages of at least 3.5 of a possible 4 in their classroom work during the semester. More than 400 skilled-trades apprentices from over 100 manufacturing firms in the area participate in the program.

Honors list apprentices, their occupations, employer and grade point average are:

Property Fire Loss Reaches Record High

Michigan sustained record losses of 324 lives and $86,-658,883 in property damage in 78,135 fires in 1967, according to the annual summary by the fire marshal division of the Michigan State Police.

Of the property loss, $14,-250,000 was attributed to 53 fires occurring during the riotous civil disturbances in the state last year.

The loss in lives, which exceeded the previous high of 297 in 1964, included 231 adults, 90 minors and three firemen.

Not included were 17 deaths in fires following automobile accidents and 13 in fires after plane crashes.

The total of fires was 12,-742 fewer than the record 90,-877 reported in 1966 while deaths were up by 27 and property damage rose by almost $22 million. The previous high year for damage was 1963 with $78.1 million.

PROPERTY DAMAGE was divided into $44,256,189 on buildings, a new high of $35,-571,576 on contents, and $6,- 831,127 involving cars, boats, unheated machinery, grass fires, aircraft fires, etc. The high of $64.7 million in building loss occurred in 1953.

Most of the state's annual increase in fire damage occurred in Wayne County which reported losses totaling $33.4 million in 1967 compared with $19.5 million in 1966. Of the state's 83 counties, 43 showed decreases in fire loss, 40 reported increases.

There were 161 large loss fires—$50,000 damage or more—including the 53 related to civil disturbances, which accounted for $29,695,586 in damages. Two fires resulting from aircraft crashes at Air Force base installations and involving buildings housing electronic equipment did an estimated $5,-683,538 damage.

Fifteen large loss arsonists had damages totaling $1,885,700. Of 3,372 incendiary fires reported, 1,688 were committed by adults and 1,684 by minors. Seven deaths resulted from arson.

The breakdown of fires included dwellings 21,584; grass 15,819; auto 13,487; house trailers 729; schools 453; bulk storage plants 184; dry cleaning plants 125; aircraft 40; theaters 33; and all others 25,681. Carelessness again caused the greatest number of fires with 17,663, about 22 per cent of the total, and included rubbish burning with 6,910 and careless smoking and careless use of matches with 6,237.

Freeway Open For July 4 Holiday

LANSING — Michigan will reach the 80 per cent mark in completion of its allotted interstate freeway system prior to the Fourth of July holiday weekend with the opening of 37.9 miles of freeway in Arenac, Bay and Calhoun counties, the State Highway Commission reports.

The Commission said a 13.5-mile section of I-69 between Tekonsha and I-94 near Marshall in Calhoun County will be opened June 28 and a 24.4-mile section of I-75 between Bay City and Standish in Bay and Arenac counties will be opened July 2.

This will bring to 869.5 the number of miles of completed interstate freeway in Michigan, 80.4 per cent of its allotted 1,081.5-mile system. Nationally, 64 per cent of the 41,000-mile system is open to traffic.

ALSO TO BE OPENED July 2 is a 2.9-mile section of state freeway connecting I-75 with US-23 at Standish, built at a cost of $1.9 million.

The opening of I-69 will complete construction of the $38 million freeway between the Indiana border and I-94, a distance of 38.5 miles. The first section, between Tekonsha and the border, was opened last Oct. 11 with officials from Michigan and Indiana participating in ceremonies at the border.

Known as Michigan's safest highway, I-69 includes such modern safety features as break-away sign supports, wide medians and two-span bridges with only one center pier.

There have only been 23 accidents, 17 involving collisions with deer, and one slight personal injury on the 25-mile section opened last year. There were two deaths on the highway it replaced during the six months preceding the freeway opening.

THE SECTION of I-75, built at a cost of $17.2 million, will be known as US-23 until the freeway is extended northwest to I-75 near Grayling. In the meantime, through I-75 traffic will continue to be routed over the US-27 freeways between Bay City and Grayling.

Both sections of I-69 and I-75 were originally scheduled to have been opened last year, but heavy rain, snow and cold weather late in the construction season delayed their completion.

Must Fish Trout Pond

Tell your neighbor that his trout pond is probably like most of those in Michigan—under-fished.

Natural mortality takes most of the stocked trout, merely because the owner doesn't fish it enough.

"Only a small percentage of pond trout will live more than two years," according to Vernie Knudson, Michigan State University extension specialist.

"Start fishing the pond when the trout are seven or eight inches long," says Knudson, "and you'll get the greatest returns in the number of eating-size trout."

THREE YEARS after stocking, even without fishing, a pond will only contain a few large trout—and these will be difficult to catch.

"Fishing every three or four weeks isn't enough," says the extension specialist, "unless the fishermen are unusually successful. Ponds should be fished often for maximum harvest."

Many pond owners stock trout and rarely take time to fish for them. This is where friends and neighbors can perform a service—by reminding the owner that during the first two years most trout will die unless caught. Maybe an invitation to help catch these fish will follow!

During the summer, trout will feed mostly in the mornings and evenings. Flies, spinners, lures or natural baits are all recommended for catching them during their feeding periods.

Blooming Plants Flourish After Being Repotted

Repotting means moving a plant from one container to another. Changing a plant to a smaller pot sometimes is the way to bring it into bloom. This is particularly true of African violets, amaryllis, begonias and geraniums, which bloom best when slightly pot-bound.

Plants growing in large tubs and planters are difficult to repot. However, once a year almost all container grown plants should be given some new soil, if practical. One way to do it is to top-dress. Remove some of the old soil by digging down one inch or more, replacing it with new soil. The idea is to add as much new soil as possible without damaging the root system of the plant.

A GOOD SOIL mixture for top-dressing includes one part good garden soil or compost, one part peat and one part sand or vermiculite or perlite. To a peck of this mixture add one-half cup bone meal and one-half cup blood meal. Use this mixture to replace the old soil you remove from the container.

Changing a plant to a larger pot is needed when the soil ball becomes matted with roots. To find out, tap the pot rim on the table edge to jar the soil ball free. Plants should be repotted only while they are growing as otherwise there would be no root growth to penetrate the fresh soil.

Soak new clay pots for several hours in a bucket of water. Otherwise they will be so dry that their walls will absorb the moisture intended for plant roots. Before re-using any kind of pot, scrub it clean. Plastic and glazed ones are easy; treat them like dishes. To clean old, dirty clay pots, put them in a bucket and pour boiling water over them. Add a half cup of bleach and let them stand for a few hours. Then they will brighten up with just a little scrubbing.

When transferring a plant to a larger pot use a new pot one-half to one inch larger across the top. Slip the plant inside and put new soil under and around it.

The foregoing is in answer to one of the questions being asked by gardeners.

Q. Our new home is in a woodland area and we are anxious to landscape so that the naturalistic appearance will be preserved. Can you offer some suggestions for a do-it-yourself project?

A. If the plot is heavily wooded, you will want to sort out trees that you will keep and get rid of those that are unnecessary or unhealthy. Trees in a woodland are constantly subject to the law of survival of the fittest. Many of your trees may soon be losers in this battle.

Cull out the poorer trees and give the more desirable ones a better chance. Limiting competition, fertilization, insect control and careful pruning will help the remaining trees acquire their natural beauty.

After getting rid of unwanted trees, you may be faced with the problem of eliminating unwanted brush and vines such as poison ivy and honeysuckle. Much of this growth can be removed mechanically by grub hoe and brush hook, but don't depend on this method alone. Chemical brush killers used carefully will help clean up the area and keep it clean. Amino-triazole is very effective on poison ivy and honeysuckle. Keep it off the plants you wish to keep because it may kill them also. Use of 2, 4, 5-T between October and April is effective on general brush applied as a directed spray to the base of the plants. Also, 2, 4-D plus 2, 4, 5-T applied to foliage will work effectively.

A period of two to three years should be allowed to rid a wooded area of unwanted brush before planting ornamentals. In most cases, fallen leaves can be left in place without their hampering brush control.

Meanwhile, paths through the wooded portion can be planned and constructed. The paths may be just compressed earth or you can use flagstone, slate, wood mounds or other paving that will blend into the surroundings. The paths will be the avenues from which you view future plantings. The paths and plantings should give the illusion of wandering through quiet, secluded woodlands.

Your woodland area will be an excellent place to use the shade loving shrubs, ground covers, bulbs, ferns and wild flowers. Many of the plants, once properly established, will be nearly maintenance free.

Lawns require constant maintenance and it may be advisable to plant grass only where it is needed for play areas or where a uniform carpet or turf will give the landscape effect you desire.

Some of the plants suitable for woodland gardens include azaleas, rhododendrons, blueberries, drooping leucothoe, abelia, holly, Japanese skimmia, mountain laurel, wintergreen barberry, witch hazel, box huckleberry, ajuga, lily-of-the-valley, pachysandra, partridge berry, vinca minor and plantain lily.

Q. We want to plant a few trees for shade as well as ornamentation. However, there is a problem of height we would like to solve first. My husband is a radio amateur and tall trees are undesirable too close to an antenna. We would like to know, if we plant a young maple and a ginkgo, how tall will they be in five years? A. The rate of growth of any tree will depend, to a large degree, on soil fertility and available moisture. Even the slow growing oaks will grow much faster if properly planted in a favorable environment and kept well fertilized. Some newly planted trees literally stand still for years because their roots were allowed to dry out seriously while they were out of the ground or the soil ball was not kept moist, or they were poorly planted. Normally, trees grow faster than most people realize. There are no good figures available for five years, but Morton Arboretum, Lisle, Ill., does have total growth figures for 10 years. Here are some of them: silver maple, 25 feet; sugar maple, 22 feet; Norway maple, 15 feet; pin oak, 18 feet; red oak, 18 feet; white oak, 13 feet; American elm, 30 feet; Chinese elm, 31 feet; moline elm, 30 feet; ginkgo, 14 feet; sycamore, 34 feet; European beech, 15 feet; black walnut, 15 feet; horse chestnut, 16 feet; and Washington hawthorn, 18 feet. This growth rate may not prevail in every area, but it does give a general idea of what to expect.

Find Smoking Deterrent Doesn't Decrease Appetite

SAN FRANCISCO—University of Michigan pharmacologists say that lobeline sulfate, a drug used in smoking clinics throughout the United States as a smoking deterrent, did not decrease the frequency of cigarette smoking when tested with human subjects.

Subjects in the U-M medical study did not know what drug they were taking, nor that their smoking behavior was being monitored.

Lobeline had no effect on the number of cigarettes smoked by the subjects who were given the drug three times daily for five consecutive days—the dosage recommended for use as a smoking deterrent.

About 30 men and women, aged 21 to 30, were asked to perform specific behavioral tasks during each six hour test session. Smoking was permitted whenever the individuals desired, and a standard breakfast and lunch were provided. Heart rate, respiration, and blood pressure were monitored continuously. All subjects were unaware of the type of drug they received and the true nature of the experiment.

THE FINDINGS were described by Dr. Charles Schuster Jr., assistant professor of pharmacology, at a special progress session of the American Medical Association Education and Research Foundation.

Reports described progress of studies that were started in 1964 approved by the AMA Committee for Research on Tobacco and Health.

The U-M study was done under the direction of Dr. Schuster and Benedict R. Lucchesi, M.D., also an assistant professor of pharmacology.

The Michigan scientists also report that subjects who were given d-amphetamine actually smoked 20 to 25 per cent more than their usual amount. Amphetamine is a stimulant drug which is given to persons in smoking clinics to lower their appetite for food. "A common fear of people who are attempting to quit smoking is that they will become overweight," Dr. Schuster noted.

THE INVESTIGATORS also learned that meprobamate, a mild sedative given in smoking clinics to overcome some of the anxieties people sometimes experience when they try to quit smoking, "had no effect whatsoever on smoking behavior. The important thing is that it does not act like nicotine does, yet it is prescribed as a nicotine substitute."

An earlier U-M research, the pharmacologists reported, "we found that when naive subjects were given nicotine intravenously, the number of cigarettes that they smoked was decreased to a significant degree, about 25 per cent. In addition, the subjects smoked significantly less of each cigarette."

In the earlier study, U-M scientists gave the subjects 4 milligrams of nicotine per hour intravenously. That is about equal to the amount of nicotine obtained from smoking two cigarettes.

At the end of the six-hour experimental day, the investigators collected and weighed the cigarette butts and determined the residual weights.

"I'm suspicious," noted Dr. Schuster, "that a lot of the reported effects of the drug lobeline on smoking frequency were psychological. In our experiments with nicotine, which we found is able to reduce the desire to smoke, the fact that the subjects didn't know they were getting nicotine ruled out the psychological possibilities."

"Our subjects in both studies did not know at the time that we were studying their smoking frequency," Dr. Schuster emphasized. "The young men and women did not come to us for aid in reducing their cigarette consumption."

The U-M pharmacologists learned that d-amphetamine also produced physiological effects in the subjects tested. The stimulant resulted in a consistently higher heart rate than was obtained when subjects were given either the sedative or a sugar pill.

A slight increase in systolic blood pressure also occurred with amphetamine. Systolic blood pressure is a force with which blood is pumped when the heart muscle is contracting.

Metal Fireplace Doors Fireproof

Sliding metal doors that close off the front of a fireplace can help to eliminate fears about fires that are still smoldering at bedtime.

Closed, the doors will not only smother the fire by shutting off the draft but also will prevent the chimney's drawing heat from the room during the night.

Xway Safety Success Depends On Motorists

Highway engineers are designing the safest roads ever built in Michigan, but ultimate responsibility for highway safety rests with the people behind the wheel, the vice chairman of the State Highway Commission said recently.

Wallace C. (Mike) Nunn of East Tawas, in a talk to the Upper Peninsula Road Builders Association, suggested that motorists should be as safety-conscious on the highway as they are at home and at work.

"We compete daily for safety excellence at home and on the job, but when we get behind the wheel of a car many of us seem to think that safety is the other guy's business," he said.

NUNN SAID the Interstate 69 Freeway is Michigan's safest highway, incorporating such modern safety features as breakaway sign supports, wide medians and two-span bridges with only one center pier.

"Such items as gentler slopes and elimination of right hand piers on bridges allow motorists to make an error and give him room to recover if he leaves the roadway," he said.

"If a motorist does no more than tear up some sod, our program will have achieved some measure of success."

On older highways, constructed years ago, Nunn said the Highway Commission has an annual program of operational betterment started in 1955 with an appropriation of $1.5 million. "We are now spending $5 million annually for safety and the results have been impressive," he said.

"FOR EXAMPLE, a 1966 investment of some $68,000 in spot improvements at a Bay County intersection resulted in a 72 percent reduction in accidents and a 79 percent reduction in injuries and fatalities during the following year."

Nunn said other safety projects, including edge lining on non-freeways, installation of reflectors on sharp curves, installation of wrong-way signs on interchange ramps, removal of hazardous trees along roadways and installation of modern light standards, are making driving easier and safer.

Gun Act Is Valid

DETROIT—Federal firearms statutes remain in full force for persons possessing firearms or engaged in their transfer, manufacture or transportation. This statement was made today by Charles G. Keebler, IRS Regional Commissioner for the five-state Central Region which includes Michigan.

The recent decision by the U.S. Supreme Court in the Haynes firearms case has been misinterpreted by some firearms dealers and others, as relieving them of the requirements imposed by the National Firearms Act.

In the Haynes case, the Court held that the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination could be invoked against criminal charges brought under the National Firearms Act, for failing to register a firearm or possessing an unregistered firearm.

The Supreme Court did not, in its decision, hold the National Firearms Act or any of its provisions to be unconstitutional. Mr. Keebler pointed out, the underlying objective of the Act is to prevent criminals from obtaining gangster-type weapons such as machine guns and sawed-off shotguns.

WEAPONS which are covered by the National Firearms Act may be legally acquired and possessed subject to regulatory requirements. However, any such weapon which is not properly registered is contraband and subject to seizure, Mr. Keebler said.

A person who possesses a gangster-type weapon is still subject to criminal penalties if it was, at any time, illegally made or transferred.

The recordkeeping and reporting obligations imposed on firearms dealers, manufacturers and importers, by the National Firearms Act, have in no way been altered by the Haynes decision. IRS will continue to conduct inspections of records to insure compliance with Federal law.

Occupational, transfer and other taxes imposed by the National Firearms Act remain in full force.

The Federal Firearms Act, a separate statute which regulates the interstate transportation of weapons, was not involved in the Haynes case and is not affected by the decision.

Starter Recipe

If you are getting ready to set out ball-and-burlap trees, shrubs, bushes, or bedding plants, you'll give them a better start with the addition of a new "soil substitute" called Redi-Earth.

Developed by horticulturalists at Cornell University, the light-weight recipe consists of a blend of horticultural vermiculite, sphagnum moss, trace elements and plant nutrients.

Extraordinary results, first reported by professional growers in New York State, have been since duplicated by home gardeners in areas where the new material was test marketed by Zonolite Division W. R. Grace & Co.

The new "clean dirt" is light-weight and easy to use in transplanting. First, dig a hole of sufficient size to receive the plant. Second, put a layer of one-to-two inches of Redi-Earth at the base of the hole. Third, place plant upright in the hole. Fourth, add another layer of Redi-Earth to completely surround the planting, then fill balance of hole with the top-soil you originally removed.

Museums Compete With Schools For Professionals

A critical manpower shortage exists in a national institution more popular than baseball—museums.

And, according to museum officials across the nation, it's largely the fault of another national institution—schools.

The schools are not at war with the museums. It's just that they, too, need museum-type specialists and they have the money and alluring fringe benefits to attract potential curators, administrators and other trained personnel desperately needed by museums.

As Samuel Sachs II, chief curator of the Minneapolis Institute of Art, put it:

"Why should a person work five or six days a week, 12 months a year in a museum for less money when he can work three days a week, nine months a year in a university for more money?"

"Virtually every professional working in a museum could make more money elsewhere," said Kenneth Donahue, director of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. "It's dedication and love of the work that brings them and keeps them in museums."

BESIDES the manpower flow to the (relatively speaking) financially powerful campuses, sources of the shortage can be found in this catalogue of surprises:

1-The phenomenal growth of museums since World War II that has made them second to the nation's school system in public facilities. From 1950 to 1963 a new museum of one kind or another was set up in the nation every four days.

2-The popularity of museums. Yearly attendance is estimated well over 200 million, and the rate is climbing faster than both the rise in population and the rate of new museums.

3-Inadequate and antiquated financing in the face of growing size, functions and collections. As one museum official put it: "In a business sense, many museums are verging on bankruptcy."

4-Ignorance of the skills and training needed for professional museum work. There's no shortage of applicants for museum jobs, only a shortage of qualified ones. Said Donahue: "Many people think art museums are run by painters, sculptors and leprechauns."

5-Increasing demands on existing museum services and creation of new ones through federal, state or local programs designed to broaden cultural activities for the underprivileged and other groups.

6-An unintended legacy by Adolph Hitler. Art scholars fleeing Hitler pioneered many of the nation's institutions and programs that ignited the cultural and scientific interests that now draw millions into museums.

In January, the American Assn. of Museums had 253 openings listed with its national placement office in Washington. Yet it had only 92 applicants seeking jobs in the museum field.

THE SHORTAGE is a key factor in a report the museum association has prepared for the president's advisory council on the arts and humanities.

The shortage affects all types of museums—art, history, science and those devoted to special collections. It cuts into virtually all skilled and professional levels. All curatorial positions, from student aide to chief curator, are affected. Conservators are in great need.

So are museum guards, a shortage the association finds especially serious. "Museum theft and vandalism," the association reported in a statistical survey of U.S. and Canadian museums, "... have risen alarmingly."

Even the top posts go begging. Directors, assistant directors and other administrators are needed.

"This is the hardest type of applicant to find," said J. Carter Brown, assistant director of the national gallery in Washington, "the person whose IBM card is punched with so many holes that he can be at home in the art world and yet be administratively capable."

The shortage is most serious for small and medium size art museums. But even the larger and most prestigious institutions have trouble filling vacancies.

Andrew C. Ritchie, director of the Yale University Art Gallery, said he has been searching for more than a year for an assistant. He also needs a couple of assistant curators. Less qualified individuals are hired to ease the shortage, and this worries the professionals.

FOR THE PUBLIC generally, the shortage is only dimly perceived. Yet it has a deep and pervasive effect on the museum visitor. It robs him of what he should be able to expect from a museum.

Art and artifacts, even when on hand, are not exhibited. Catalogues are not written.

Lectures, both for the school-boy and mature amateur or professional, are not held.

Museum scholarship suffers. "Very few museums have satisfactory catalogues for study purposes," said Charles Parkhurst, museum association president and director of the Baltimore Museum of Art.

Museum officials point to the great increase in the number of culture-related training courses, both by schools and museums. Yet, so far as is known, no major school yet offers a degree in museology.

Then, too, more and more museums are offering internships and fellowships to help train art historians, conservators and other specialists. Outside agencies, notably the Ford Foundation, provide sizable grants for students seeking careers in museums.

It is estimated that directors' salaries range from about $15,000 to $40,000 a year, which would make them roughly equal to the pay of deans, college presidents and other comparable positions.

But there is a tremendous gap between directors' pay and curator salaries, which range from $9,000 to $20,000 a year.

HOW CAN the shortage be eased to the benefit of both museum and university?

Joseph V. Noble, vice-director of administration of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, believes it can only be done through a massive infusion of public funds.

"Foundation support has helped, but it has not alleviated this problem by as much as 1 per cent. In my opinion it is necessary for the municipalities to accept the museum as a cultural and educational resource of the community, and to pay for it the same way it pays for other public services—schools, libraries, garbage collection."

Many museum officials feel the pay scales and the benefits of the campus must be extended to the museums.

Less sweeping is a proposal to establish memorial curatorships, similar to the memorial academic chairs of universities. Directors and curators feel it could ease a vexing problem.

They note that museums frequently receive lavish donations for a memorial, usually in some tangible form—an art work, gallery, wing or even building. These gifts increase the burdens of the museum staff. It's just one more object or more square feet of floor space to care for.

TRANSIT DOLLARS

Almost $10 billion will be spent in the next 10 years to build or modernize urban rapid transit systems. Already, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago are modernizing their systems with fast, lightweight cars of nickel stainless steel.

SHINY CAR

A nickel-plated formula racing car, the Brabham Formula B, was exhibited at the 1968 New York International Auto Show. The entire chassis, most of the suspension and many parts of the engine are nickel-chrome plated.

10 States Get OK On Billboards

The Federal Highway Administration has approved outdoor advertising control legislation adopted in 10 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, and has signed interim agreements with five other states that have passed laws meeting most of the federal standards.

The pact set up precise standards regulating the size, position, zoning, spacing and lighting of billboards along interstate and primary road systems.

Several other states are also considering legislation to clear their highway areas of unsightly or view-obstructing billboards.

A MAJOR IMPETUS for highway view preservation is the 1965 federal Highway Beautification Act providing for billboard controls, screening of roadside junk yards and landscaping.

Under this legislation, non-complying states are threatened with a loss of 10 per cent of federal highway funds contributed toward both interstate and primary highway systems.

The deadline for compliance was Jan. 1, but Alan S. Boyd, secretary of the Department of Transportation, said no penalties will be applied this year.

Jurisdictions which have complied with federal requirements are Maryland, Alaska, California, Connecticut, Vermont, Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia, Kentucky, Rhode Island, Utah, Virginia and Hawaii.

New York, Maine, Minnesota, Delaware and Pennsylvania have signed interim agreements with the Federal Highway Administration.

OPPOSITION to billboard control has come principally from tourist-oriented towns, such as roadside business interests as hotel, motel and restaurant owners, and, in some states, outdoor advertising companies.

Garden clubs and conservationists have been avid supporters.

Some legislators in Oklahoma and North Carolina denounced the provision for withholding federal funds from non-complying states as blackmail.

The North Carolina Legislature passed a bill last year banning billboards from an area within 600 feet of all interstate and federally aided primary highways, except in commercial and industrial areas.

A provision was added, however, that the bill would not become effective until federal beautification funds were provided. North Carolina authorities said these funds have not yet been made available.

The Oklahoma Legislature passed two bills this year designed to comply with the federal act. One bans billboards within 600 feet of the edge of federal or interstate rights-of-way and the other requires screening of junk yards.

VERMONT passed one of the stiffest laws this year. It was vigorously opposed by the Vermont Advertising Co. and by lobbyists who repeatedly made unsuccessful efforts to water it down. Billboard interests asserted that under the law, free enterprise would be sold down the river.

The Vermont law would ban all off-premise private advertising and substitute state-owned directional signs with state-owned plazas in larger areas.

Businesses would apply to the highway district for signs. Each would pay a $50 fee and be entitled to four directional signs. After the state covers an area with signs permitted, all off-premise private signs would be ordered down by January 1970, or five years after the original license was issued.

TEXAS has taken no action to ban billboards, but the state legislature adopted a resolution last year authorizing the State Highway Commission to discuss highway beautification with federal representatives.

Hearings are under way in Minnesota to remove about 9,000 signs for which owners sought no permits. Some owners are tearing down old signs rather than buy permits.

Wisconsin has a billboard law applying to the interstate system but not for most other highways.

Carefully Arrange Gardens For New Homes

If you've moved into a new home - brand new or used - a carefully thought-out plan for the garden is in order.

If the home already has a lawn or garden, the first thing to do is cut the grass and eliminate weeds, making sure what you remove are actually weeds, not perennials.

If the garden is nonexistent or only a lawn, then the problem is different.

The proper procedure is to determine what you ultimately want in the garden and then to work toward that goal by a series of operations.

The first thing is to find out what you want, rather than planting anything that appeals to you though it may not fit in with your long-range plans.

Where the gardener has bare soil around a new house, the most pressing thing is to get out of the mud. The first item is to determine where you want walks or a patio. These areas will be paved with stone or concrete and can be done at any time. The grass areas should be planted. Be sure to use the right seed and fertilize.

If there is a lawn, then the weeds should be removed. In all cases, the grass should be kept cut and watered, if necessary.

THE NEXT step in a new house is to add a foundation planting. While the foundation planting at one time was designed to cover up the high, unsightly brick or stone of the foundation, now it is used to break up the straight horizontal and vertical lines of the building and to give it a settled look.

Generally, plants should conceal the foundation or break up the long line between the building and the soil line where the foundation is very low. Some other planting is needed to take care of the upright lines at the corners, doorways, and large window openings. Upright evergreens, trees suited to the height of the building, vines, trellises and shrubs are used. Be sure to find out the shape and height of the plants you are planning to use to be sure that they will not be too large or too small. The size of the building is the deciding factor.

If these plants are there, wait and see if you are satisfied with them or if there is something better you wish to use to replace them. Snap judgments can result in needless expense and wasted time.

The rest of the garden can be planned for the uses you need to make of it. Be sure to plan for the utilities - gas, water, electricity, phone, sewer, driveways - so that these can be serviced without creating major problems. Avoid planting trees, hedges, large shrubs or evergreens over buried lines. Keep trees away from overhead wires.

Where a garden has been made, it is a good idea to wait for a full season to find out just what is there. Find out the kind of plants. Do not dig in planted areas until you are sure there are no bulbs under the soil. Try to find out why some plants, even ones that you may not like, are where they are. Sometimes shade may be a problem and account for some common plant being planted in that spot.

PLAN THE areas where you want to have barbecues, a swimming or wading pool, a vegetable or fruit garden, a rose garden or some other feature. Be sure to make provision for pets, children and hobbies.

When you have all of your ideas settled, plant to create what you want.

While a garden is basically composed of plants, there are times when other materials may do a better job. For privacy on a narrow lot, a wall or solid board fence may be much better than a hedge or a row of shrubs. The wall or fence will take less room and it can be used as a support for flowering plants. Wire fences may be useful for giving quick protection from animals and people or to confine yours. These can be used as a support for many plants or a hedge or shrub planting can be placed right next to them to replace the fence when the plants have grown large enough to provide the protection needed.

Home Activity Center Shifting To Outdoor Oasis

People are thinking of shifting the center of home activity from indoors to that oasis in the home landscape set aside for outdoor living.

Steaks and burgers take on a new flavor and zing when they come sizzling from the outdoor barbecue. Even the inanimate paving of the patio seems to have a new feeling of tranquility as the lounge chairs are put in place for a new outdoor season of relaxation.

Badminton and croquet equipment are dusted off and the lush green lawn, sprinkled with spring dew, adds spirit to a relaxing game that helps loosen muscles.

This is outdoor living 1968 U.S. style. Millions of homeowners are finding that there is a great deal of "living" that can be done right outside their back door.

ACCORDING to landscape design experts, even the small plot of ground can contain a center for a lively season of family living and entertaining. And, they continue, the amount of activity can be increased many fold when the area is designed by a professional.

The play area in the landscape is functional, but it needs decoration, too. Pleasant surroundings will add a great deal to the outdoor living room, for instance. This is the area that calls for seclusion, free from the prying eyes of passerby or neighbors. Yet it should not be an outdoor "cell" that gives an impression of confinement. The proper placement of the right kind of shrubs will often give the necessary screening and still retain the outdoor feeling of spaciousness and freedom.

SHADE is another important factor. The outdoor living area needs shade at the proper time of day. A tree planted ten feet in the wrong direction may be absolutely useless in detecting the hot rays of the sun on a summer's afternoon. The children's play yard also needs shade, but perhaps at a different time of day.

Family needs and desires also influence the design of this extension of the living room. If for instance, the family plays badminton and volleyball, the adjacent lawn area should be of sufficient size, and of a type of grass that will accommodate these games.

There is hardly a home setting that does not have its patio. How often the patio is used, though, depends on certain key factors in its original design.

When a professional designs a patio he thinks first of the location. It must be situated where it will be easily accessible, be in a pleasant setting, not marred by objective views, and of sufficient size for the family's intended use. Heavy entertainment may call for a larger area than originally anticipated.

Finally, the area is designed for enjoyment and relaxation, which calls for construction and plants that demand only a minimum of care. Burdensome maintenance should be kept to a minimum.

Carefully Check Purchase Papers

When signing a purchase agreement be sure the document protects your interests. Many printed contracts carry the words: "This is a legally binding contract. If not understood seek competent advice."

Don't rely on what the other parties may tell you as to what the document means, or on oral assurances as to matters which are not included in the agreement.

For your protection, have your lawyer check the document before you sign it.

Lounging Chairs Raise Redwood Enthusiasts Ire

EUREKA, Calif. -- The patio lounge you may be sitting on plays a major role in a heated debate between conservationists and the lumber industry over the proper use of the monolith redwoods.

It is easy to get emotional about the redwoods but it is not easy to decide what shall become of them. So many people have tried to decide, however, that the debate has assumed the decorum of Saturday night in a logging camp.

"Timber!" cry partisans of all sides as they dive into the fray. But to the lumber industry, timber means board feet and patio furniture. To the conservationists--"those deep breathers" to their critics--timber is a tree made by God, uncut by man.

Somewhere between these extremes is the campaign to create a national redwood park, a park that will preserve enough redwoods for ages to come, yet leave enough for the timber industry of today.

Few, really, are opposed to such a park. But opinion as to where it should be, how big it should be and what it should be is a many-splintered thing. For every pro there is a con. By and large, the debate is well-intentioned. But it keeps whipping to and fro like a two-man saw to no decision.

AND MEANWHILE the trees fall.

The coast redwood--sequoia sempervirens, always green--is the world's tallest tree. It is not even the biggest or oldest tree in California. Its cousin, the Sierra sequoia, is heavier and the bristlecone pine can live twice as long--4,500 years. But en masse in their forests the coast redwoods have singular beauty. They also have singular resistance to termites, decay and fire; low shrinkage and clear grain.

"As lumber, the coast redwoods were too good to live," said John Muir, founder of the Sierra Club, a leading conservationist organization.

Thus, so the trees fall... There were perhaps two million acres of coast redwoods when Russian settlers began harvesting them early in the 19th century. Today little more than a tenth of that remains uncut. Within 10 years, some say, the last privately owned virgin growth will be gone.

Friends of the forest have long been active against such a day. The first park proposal came in 1852, the first actual park in 1902. In 1918 private citizens organized the Save-the-Redwoods League. In the intervening half century, the league, on a matching basis with the state, has spent $23 million to set aside 117,000 acres in state parks. Most of this was bought from private industry which preserved land for just such use, paying taxes on it all the while. The Pacific Lumber Co., for instance, has held one choice 2,100-acre tract for 40 years. In one recent year this cost it $33,000 in taxes.

In those parks is an estimated one-quarter to one-half of all the superlative river flat groves that ever existed. Much of this land was acquired during the Depression when redwood timber sold for less than a hundredth of what it brings today.

BUT THEN came the post-war housing boom. And the trees fell...

Private industry currently takes about 900 million board feet a year--around 15,000 acres--from its 850,000 acres. Industry reseeded, and most of its foresters think it will be able to balance its harvest with new growth at the present cut level--if no more land is "lost" to the parks.

The matter is central to the park debate.

John Miles, a redwood forestry consultant, says "the present privately owned growth timber is adequate--just barely--to sustain the industry until the great acreage of second growth becomes merchantable two or three decades hence."

CONSERVATIONISTS particularly the Sierra Club, dispute this. They say the companies will "cut out and get out" and therefore their arguments about losing further land are specious. They don't need the land to stay in business because they don't intend to anyway.

In rebuttal, industry notes that Georgia-Pacific Corp. and the Simpson Lumber Co. have spent over $70 million in new redwood pulp plants--a new use for the wood--in the last few years, have developed processes to use waste redwood scraps that used to be burned and that these new technologies will enable them to get more wood from the same acreage. "For my money," says an official of the National Park Service, "the companies aren't spending this kind of dough just to go out of business."

The world, if it had to, could survive without redwood lumber. But without a redwood forest?

"If a full range of redwood is not preserved, we are left with a chapter missing," says Dave Van de Mark, a young college student who is head of a local group called Citizens for a Redwood Park. "It could take years to find out what that chapter might have meant."

So the Sierra Club, which originally proposed a 90,000-acre park but has trimmed it to 73,000, claims its proposal is the minimum for a national park worthy of the name.

BUT ITS PARK, alas, is neither the same size nor in the same place as that recommended by the National Park Service (NPS).

The club's park would be established along Redwood Creek and would include the existing Prairie Creek State Park as well as the drainages of Lost Man and Little Creeks. It would take all 22,000 acres of the Arcata Redwood Co. -- ARCO -- and a good slice of Georgia-Pacific which the giant lumber firm says is vital to its redwood operations.

The NPS park, proposed in the so-called "administration" bill, calls for a 43, 434-acre park which would include Jedediah Smith and Del Norte Coast Redwoods State Parks--about 15,000 acres, of which 12,000 is virgin--adjacent acreage from private firms including 18,000 of the Relim Lumber Co. and 1,600 acres along Redwood Creek to the south where the National Geographic Society claimed to have found the tallest redwoods in 1964--now called the Tall Trees area.

INTEREST in a national park accelerated after the discovery of the Tall Trees and a particularly noticeable timbering by ARCO along Route 101. Although a timbered redwood tract is soon busy with fledgling giants, for a while it admittedly "looks like hell," as a candid forester put it. ARCO's cut looked like hell for all to see, and they did and began hollering.

Between the Sierra Club's bill and the administration proposal is a third or "compromise" bill, numbered S2515, passed by the Senate last year and now before the House. This calls for a park of up to 66,000 acres, including the administration's proposals on Mill Creek and 35,000 acres containing the Tall Trees, Lost and Little Lost Man Creeks in a southern unit.

Also involved is the exchange of the so-called northern purchase unit for land owned by private timber firms within the park boundaries of S2515. The purchase unit, covering 14,491 acres, is owned by the U.S. Forest Service for timber and as a forest study project.

Sharp Dressing

Serve lettuce with a zippy cheese dressing. This adds interest, zest, and a new flavor to an old favorite.

To prepare, add a little crushed garlic and crumbled blue cheese to the regular oil and vinegar and seasonings of your regular French dressing. This is an unusually tasty dressing and one the family is bound to approve of.

Safety Council Will Conduct War Against Excuses

Automobile occupants have found many good reasons why they should not wear seatbelts and shoulder harnesses.

Survival, of course, is not one of them.

For instance, there is the important cosmetic effect. Restraints are not only unattractive, but they are untidy... especially in the minds of appearance-conscious men and women.

Shoulder harnesses, for one thing, tend to muss.

And, there's the matter of discomfort. Again, women find them most objectionable and express some fear of possible injury due to the belt strap across the body. A woman, perhaps rightly so, feels her figure is less compatible to restraints than a man's.

Perhaps the most valid excuse...er, reason...is inconvenience. They're troublesome to get into.

There are other reasons—embarrassment (an unmentionable, but people who normally wear belts leave them off when they have passengers in their cars), confinement (the feeling of being trapped) and confidence (that assurance that careful drivers don't have accidents).

IT'S REALLY a shame, then, that with these attitudes new car buyers this year will invest more than twice the amount of money for mandatory shoulder harness restraints than is allocated by the government to the Highway Safety Agency. That agency's budget, reduced 65 percent over 1967... a rather paltry "fire break" in defense of a problem (the auto accident) that last year cost Americans $13 billion.

The National Safety Council is going to launch a campaign against the "excuses" for not using restraints.

Its ammunition will be impressive. For example:

—With limited use of seat belts last year, 2,000 lives were saved.

—If all passengers or drivers among the 35,100 killed in traffic accidents last year had been restrained, at least 8,000 to 10,000 would have survived.

One in four of us can expect to be involved in an accident this year.

But, as effective as the campaign might be, it faces one major hangup. It is encouraging the use of a badly designed safety device which makes it a "tough sell." The automobile industry hasn't found a better way. That, of course, would be some passive manner of restraining the occupant. Besides, it appears the industry isn't even using the best way available.

For the most part, the systems are cumbersome, restrictive and confusing.

They prevent the "second collision." That's the one that occurs 30 to 40 thousandths of a second after a car strikes some object. It involves the occupant in the car's interior.

Even at that their value is undependable.

RESTRAINTS must be designed to handle the "G" forces involved in acceleration and deceleration. One G-load, to explain, is a force applied to the body equal to the body weight. There is nearly that much a head felt by a driver when he makes a panic braking stop at 60 miles an hour over a distance of approximately 150 feet.

Tolerable G loads on humans vary.

If the head strikes the windshield, for example, hard enough to produce an 80-G acceleration, the impact means roughly 1,000 pounds since the average human head weighs 12 1/2 pounds. For a short period of time even that is a survivable impact without serious injury, in fact.

Thus, the problem in auto and restraint design is to stop the occupant in accidents without exceeding the tolerable forces and keep him from striking the car's interior. Part of that force can be absorbed by the built-in collapsibility of the car's body and frame. The rest can be taken up by the seat and shoulder belts which stretch considerably in a high speed crash.

If the occupant isn't restrained, he will impact the car's interior at the same speed the vehicle was going before it crashed. With the restraint, the occupant can slow down without hitting anything.

Nevertheless, the major obstacle in injury prevention is not the effectiveness of the safety device but the attitude of the car's occupant. How do you make him use it?

The obvious way would be to overcome the discomfort and inconvenience of the current systems, thus reducing the reasons - or excuses - for not using them.

One of the major suppliers of seatbelt and shoulder harness components for the automobile industry, the American Safety Equipment Corp., has designed an "automatic" seatbelt-shoulder harness combination that incorporates the inertia reel.

THIS DEVICE permits freedom of movement for the upper torso, which is perhaps the main complaint of present original equipment restraints on new cars. The driver simply can't reach for things—the ashtray, some dash controls, the radio, the glove compartment, or across to the other door.

William A. Cram, director of marketing development for American Safety, feels that the inertia reel is perhaps the only way restraints can be made acceptable.

At present, his company provides such systems for fleet and municipal applications, such as police cars.

The three-point restraint includes a lap belt that can be used independently, plus a diagonal belt that is anchored to the ceiling of the car.

The upper torso restraint attaches to the lap belt buckle which provides for a single release. Detroit systems are separate and require two buckles.

Also, American Safety's belts have automatic locking retractors, either for storage or an adjustment - free belt which eliminates the danger factor of a slack belt.

The sensitivity of the inertia reel is designed at a load of one-half G. Immediately after impact, it releases its grip on the belt and the occupant is free to move.

Detroit's standard shoulder harnesses are stowed by clipping them overhead. Since they are not self-storing, they present another deterrent to use for the average motorist who is certain that the accident is about to happen to the "other guy" anyway.

The inertia reel was developed during World War II for use mainly in aircraft. They were sensitive to the vehicle or craft and were designed to lock at between 2-3 G's. Later, they were redesigned to be insensitive to the occupant's movement at lower G forces.

IN A RECENT report on traffic injury causes, a team at the University of California at Los Angeles—Dr. Alan M. Nahum and Arnold W. Siegel—noted rather ironically that parents sometimes use adequate restraints but leave their small children unprotected. And children, it was pointed out, are more likely to be seriously or even fatally injured in minor accidents. Their report pointed out that children have a higher center of gravity than adults and in collisions they tend to become airborne, usually head first.

Statistics show that one out of nine deaths involving children under 5 years old in the United States each year are the result of motor vehicle accidents—well over 2,000 fatalities per year.

The problem, according to Dr. Richard E. Marland of the Public Health Service in Cincinnati, can be traced chiefly to the fact that standard seat belts are unsuitable for very small children. As a result, they are being neglected.

Many children's seats advertised as safety devices are not satisfactory, he said, because they merely hook over the front seat.

It is recommended that such restraints be secured either to the car structure or to a seat belt which is anchored. Many such devices have been introduced to the market recently which will safely restrain children over 6 months of age. A car bed in the back seat is described as the best protection for infants.

Use Perforated Panels To Improve Eyesores

To a homeowner, holes in the wall are often an eyesore. But, they can also be a boon.

The holes with a purpose are those found in perforated hardboard panels—one of the easiest and most effective ways to provide extra storage space anywhere in the house.

Perforated panels used to be considered strictly utilitarian. A familiar type is garage liners—1/4-inch thick unfinished hardboard panels with perforations which accept hooks, brackets and heavy-duty hardware to hold everything from ladders to lawn mowers.

Their advantage is that they provide neat, organized wall storage for all types of house and garden equipment and keep the garage floor clear for the car. This same type of panel is also popular for tool storage in workshops.

PERFORATED hardboard panels are also available in a variety of finishes, textures and styles that make them suitable, serviceable and decorative throughout the home.

For example, perforated panels in rich, woodgrained finishes can be installed in studies, dens, recreation and display walls for books, hobby equipment, trophies, photographs and the like.

The items can either be hung from hooks inserted in the perforations, or stored on bracket-mounted shelves.

Locks In Fashion

If you hair is curly or kinky and you periodically need to go through expensive processes to straighten it out, rejoice! Your locks have come back into fashion.

All you need now is a good cropped haircut and, after shampooing, simply set your hair with bobby pins or very small rollers, using a setting lotion. Dry and brush out.

Some of the perforated panels are prefinished to match regular woodgrained hardboard. There are combination panels which are perforated down to waistcoat height, with regular hardboard below.

Perforated panels also come with colored finishes, or you can use unfinished panels and paint them yourself.

AN EXTREMELY practical use for perforated panels is in play rooms and children's rooms. They're a handy, easily-reached storage wall for toys, games, clothes and the youngsters' favorite paraphernalia.

What's more, the panels are sturdy, won't dent, mar or scuff and can be wiped clean with a damp cloth.

For high-humidity areas like the kitchen and bath, perforated panels are now available with a plastic finish that resists moisture and stains and can be scrubbed clean.

In addition to their obvious use as "open" storage space (pots and pans in the kitchen; towels and robe racks in the bath), panels can also be installed on the inside of closet doors for extra "hidden" storage.

In all instances, perforated panels must be installed over furring strips or studs to provide clearance behind the panels for insertion of hooks.

The panels can either be nailed to the strips or installed with special adhesive.

For further information on perforated panels and other hardboard paneling, send ten cents to SR&A, Dept. HP, Box 3498, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Baby Book On Stands

On June 3, Prentice-Hall will publish "Infant Care," the United States Government Guide annotated and supplemented by Dr. Frederick W. Goodrich, Jr., author of "Preparing for Childbirth."

Dr. Goodrich is one of the nation's leading obstetrician-gynecologists and is an authority on pediatrics.

THE GOVERNMENT'S own editions of "Infant Care" have sold approximately 50,000,000 copies, yet this is the first edition to be made available in bookstores and libraries. Definitive and all-inclusive, the book deals with the care of infants from birth to one year of age.

THE PRENTICE-HALL edition is based on the eleventh and latest edition of the government's work but is substantially expanded by the introduction, supplementary chapter material, and charts provided by Dr. Goodrich, as well as additional illustrations.

THE PUBLICATION benefits from the research facilities of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the information contributed by 100 experts in the fields of child psychology and psychiatry, pediatrics, parent education, orthopedics, child development, vision and safety.

Up-to-date, authoritative and very readable, "Infant Care" should provide a practical guide to the young mother. The book is also enhanced by a cover of washable and durable fabric.

Storage Will Cut Expense

If you are making a move that may be temporary or are moving into a smaller apartment or home, you might save worries or money later on by putting some or all of your furnishings in storage for the time being.

Families who might return to their original destination after a short period of time should check with their mover about facilities for storing household goods in transit and the extra cost involved.

If you are not certain the move will be a permanent one, it might pay to store your furnishings in your present city. The cost of moving your goods back and forth over a long distance may easily exceed the cost of storing them.

Up to a period of one year, the mover has the same liability for your goods in storage as during moving. If, sometime during the year, you decide to make the move a permanent one, the mover can take the goods out of storage and deliver them to your new address. For storage periods longer than one year, your mover's liability ceases and you must make separate arrangements with the warehouseman.

Modern storage warehouses are designed for maximum protection against dampness, moths and other damage. If you store clothing, however, you should have it cleaned and mothproofed before storing.

Tool, Die Require Ingenuity

The tooling needs of the giant automotive industry are served by a collection of operators of small businesses with ingenuity, drive and intestinal fortitude.

These make up the Michigan tool and die industry which supplies the nation's automakers with the production devices to pour forth a stream of new models every year.

But in spite of their qualities, these small manufacturers are handicapped by the rigid ways of automaking. Orders often are for single pieces or for a low volume which deny the economies of mass production. Because capital and skills are limited, they find it hard to adapt to new technology.

INSTEAD, most adapt old skills to new jobs, exhibiting high ingenuity in doing so. These are findings from a study, "A Technical Survey of the Tool and Die Industry in Michigan," just published by the University of Michigan Institute of Science and Technology. Carried out by Prof. Alfred O. Schmidt of Pennsylvania State University, a consultant to the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the study is one of a series on Michigan industry produced by IST's Industrial Development Division.

In spite of its handicaps, the Michigan tool and die industry survives handily on the strengths of its human resources, Schmidt notes.

"The industry's main assets are primarily the owners and managers of firms employing less than 30 persons. They must be craftsmen, businessmen, accountants, and salesmen all in one.

"Although their formal education may be ended with the eighth grade or with a Ph.D.," says Schmidt, "it's their technical knowledge, their personal working capacity for a 60-to 80-hour week that usually makes them successful."

SCHMIDT continues: "Their personal skill and ability to handle all types of machine tool equipment, their drive to succeed in this highly competitive business, plus their adaptability to the changing conditions of customer demands and the labor market have enabled most of them to succeed even though they may have started with limited capital.

"This is truly an industry powered by numerous human dynamos. These men are well aware that they owe their success to specialized technical training, and deplore today's lack of training opportunities for young toolmakers."

Of the 130 plants studied, 32 were union shops.

Load Moving Research Cuts Industrial Cost

Modern man, long accustomed to having machinery perform brute labor, has formed a separate industry with the sole function of moving heavy loads at reduced cost.

Materials handling is an industry which produces hydraulic lift fork trucks, and similar equipment, to move tons of equipment easier and cheaper.

"Today, materials handling is one of the last significant areas where a company can really reduce operating costs," says S.K. Towson, president of a Cleveland firm.

Agreeing with this would be Milton L. Aitken, president of the Materials Handling Institute, Pittsburgh. The institute and its 266 member firms spend millions on research and new equipment in the never-ending search for cost economy.

The science of materials handling, particularly in the area of retrieving, now does a $2-billion business annually. It is an integral part of university industrial engineering courses at such schools as Georgia Tech and Purdue. According to Aitken, reported booking of new industrial-handling equipment through the first quarter of 1968 totaled $287-million. It embraces everything from wheelbarrows to a recently developed lift fork truck that can hoist 25 tons.

A WAREHOUSE once was considered as four walls, and a ceiling where material was stored neatly but with little thought. But no longer. Everything is figured in advance, and computers have been called in.

A Westinghouse Electric Corp. spokesman says the key to mechanical warehousing is learning how a firm's products move in and out . . . and why. In Buffalo, Westinghouse learned that customers usually bought motors in pairs, rather than singly. It now stores them in pairs with the most popular models near the conveyor system; slow sellers in the back bins.

Computers run the show in the Fisher Body (General Motors) warehouse in Euclid, Ohio, which is five stories high, longer than two football fields and has 7,380 storage locations for 4,000 automobile parts. The computer directs 15 stacker cranes, each capable of "pigeon-holing" loads up to three tons each. After human beings tag wheeled carts with punch cards identifying cart and load, the computer does the rest.

THE CARD is placed into a "reader," the computer picks the most convenient storage location and directs a crane to take it there. A memory tape containing inventory information permits retrieval when desired by simply reversing the process.

At a Westinghouse plant in Beaver, Pa., which turns out 4,200 types of low voltage circuit breakers, safety switches, starters, motor controls, relays and the like, the storage-retrieval problem has been solved with a 48,000-square foot mechanical warehouse.

Plan Extensive Improvements For Pictured Rocks

Rising stark from the water and surrounded by legend, Michigan's imposing, inspiring Pictured Rocks and Grand Sable Dunes are in the process of being further developed by the National Park Service.

To both preserve its wilderness flavor and yet make it still more accessible to tourists, Congress declared the 35-mile strip from Munising to Grand Marais the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore.

A parkway with scenic overlooks and from 15 to 18 access points to Lake Superior are in the development plans. Trails and campsites will be added and extensive recreational facilities will be developed at each end of the parkway.

The Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore is divided into an inner zone of 39,000 acres and a lakeshore zone of 29,000 acres. The area varies in width from one-half mile to 2 1/2 miles.

Most noted are the Pictured Rocks, since they can be seen easily from Lake Superior. The explorers and voyagers brought back the first tales of the cliffs that rise sharply from 50 to 200 feet above lake level.

A road from Munising leads to a good viewpoint, but for those who prefer the water route, tour boats make regularly scheduled three hour trips throughout the summer months from Munising.

THE FIRST formation to come into sight is lofty Miner's Castle with its twin turrets looking like a medieval bastion. Legend says the French Jesuit, Pere Marquette, held services there for Indians of the region.

Nearby Stately Falls lives up to its name and there's Battleship Rock, Chapel Rock, Indian Drum Cave where the waves pound like a tom-tom, and the Colored Caves which were feared by the Indians. They believed blood was responsible for the scarlet tint of the cave's walls and that it was a place of torture and execution.

The Grand Portal was one of the most spectacular formations with an arch covering five acres, but time and the relentless pounding of the sea collapsed the arch in 1906. It illustrates that, despite the Pictured Rocks' timelessness, they are ever-changing.

While a spectacular attraction in themselves, the Pictured Rocks aren't nature's only flourish, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

The constantly shifting Grand Sable Dunes and agate beaches at the eastern end of the National Lakeshore are a tourist delight, particularly for youngsters.

But, generally, that's as far as most tourists went from the land side—Miner's Castle at the western end, the dunes from the east. Since there were no roads, or poor dirt roads at best, relatively few ventured into the pungent pine, hemlock and balsam forests that make up the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore's inner zone.

They may have missed Chapel Falls, Mosquito Falls, Spray Falls and Miner's Falls, some of the most scenic of the upper peninsula's more than 150 waterfalls.

The Land Of Hiawatha has remained unspoiled and the National Park Service, with the cooperation of local governments, intends to keep it that way. At the same time the Park Service will further open it up so that Americans can enjoy what it describes as "unique and spectacular scenery unmatched elsewhere on the Great Lakes."

HARRY GARDNER, who has relatives and friends in Observerland, celebrated his 100th birthday Thursday in the Killingbeck Nursing Home, 38410 Cherry Hill Rd., Westland. Among the dozens of persons who helped him mark the special occasion were a niece he hasn't seen in nearly 50 years, and patients in the nursing home. Gardner spent 65 years of his life in the Wayne-Belleville-Romulus communities. He has been in the nursing home since February. He has three sons, Irving of Howell, Clark of Fayette, Ohio, and Chris of Dearborn; four daughters, Mrs. Harold (Eva) Malloy of Wayne, Mrs. Ada Clerk of Romulus, Winnie Pawlowski of Belleville, Gen Kerbaw of Blissfield; 16 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

A BOOK FAIR featuring hundreds of volumes was held at the Memorial Elementary School, Garden City, Thursday and Friday in the school gym. The fair was sponsored by the school's PTA.

Don't Drain Tanks

A hot water boiler should not be drained at the end of the heating season.

When water has been repeatedly heated, it will be free of air and will have no corrosive effect on iron. Draining a boiler in the spring and leaving it filled during the summer with fresh water invites corrosion.

When the boiler needs draining this should be done at the beginning of the heating season.

Honor Edison For Hiring Job Corps Graduates

The Detroit Edison Company, which pioneered in the hiring and intensified on-the-job training of youth from Detroit's inner city, has received the Certificate of Appreciation from the Kilmer Job Corps Center for its assistance to the Job Corps Program and its willingness to hire Job Corps graduates.

Of the 10,000 employees of Detroit Edison, approximately 700 participated in the company's educational assistance program during 1966-67. Employees earned nine Bachelors, six Masters, and one Doctoral degree, while three employees completed work for Associate Degrees.

As of the end of 1967, some 33,400 mercury lamp installations, known as Outdoor Protective Lighting and providing dusk-to-dawn lighting on an individual customer basis, have been made by The Detroit Edison Company for its customers.

During 1967, ten per cent of the total new construction expenditures by all American business was represented by new construction paid for by investor-owned electric utility companies.

The Detroit Edison Company paid nearly $67 million in federal, state and local taxes during 1967; this amount equals more than three-quarters of all of the payroll and pension expenses paid by the company to its employees.

The average use of electric power in the American home rose to an estimated record high of 5,565 kilowatt-hours during 1967, and increase of some 300 kilowatt-hours over the preceding year.

Emphasizing the correlation between national growth and electric capacity, a Detroit Edison statistician stated that the sale of kilowatt-hours of electricity in the United States during 1967 rose 6.4 per cent over 1966.

The annual report of The Detroit Edison Company for 1967 evidences that total utility revenues rose 4.7 per cent, of $18,315,606, over 1966 and amounted to $411,804,636.

As of the end of 1967, there were 32 all-electric schools in Southeastern Michigan, and ten more under construction.

Twenty-nine employee proposal awards totaling $6,587 were approved by Detroit Edison for its employees during April, 1968. The proposals represented annual savings to the Company of $43,471.

A big plus factor in the nation's effort to channel financial relief to its distressed areas through increased employment of miners is the fact that, during 1967, investor-owned electric power companies bought an estimated 237 million tons of coal, costing $1 1/2 billion, more than any other American industry.

The attendance of nine engineering students and seven faculty members, representing eight colleges and universities, was sponsored by The Detroit Edison Company at the annual American Power Conference held in Chicago.

Adding substantially to the strength of Michigan's economy during 1967, The Detroit Edison Company spent $189.6 million in Southeastern Michigan on plant additions, up $66.4 million over the 1966 figure.

Investor-owned electric utility companies in the United States will spend a record $6.5 billion for new construction during 1968, according to forecasts of Charles F. Ayala, president of the Edison Electric Institute.

Detroit Edison employees increased their earnings by $35,734 during 1967 through the company's employee proposal plan which adopted 43.7 per cent of the 920 proposals submitted.

Six hundred and seventy-nine employees in 32 departments of The Detroit Edison Company completed American Red Cross first-aid training during the first four months of 1968; the company's safety record is among the highest in the industry.

Six students and four teachers, sponsored by The Detroit Edison Company, represented Southeastern Michigan last year at the Ninth National Youth Conference on the Atom, held annually to inform them about the peacetime uses of the atom and to help advance interest in the study of science.

The "hard hats" used by Detroit Edison linemen have design characteristics which prevent electrical shock and burns as well as protect the wearer from being struck by objects.

About 1.3 million new customers were served by the electric utility industry in 1967, bringing the total to some 68.2 million. Detroit Edison alone had 1.44 million customers at the end of 1967. About 95 per cent of new customers were residential.

By the end of 1968, the nation's investor-owned electric power companies were expected to have a total investment in electric plant and equipment of more than $75 billion.

Insect Spraying Can Be Simple

Entomologists have identified close to a million different insects -- and, several thousand new ones are added to their lists each year.

However, only a relative handful of worms and insects--no more than a dozen or so--are the major garden culprits. Most of the "million" and the new ones are only rarely seen outside the tropics.

Even though we are only concerned with a few insects in our gardens, we do want to keep them in check with one sprayer and as few sprayings as possible. This can easily be accomplished by following these few simple steps for proper spraying:

1. READ THE ENTIRE LABEL on the container of insecticide before using. Do this every time you spray. Note the mixing instructions and any precautionary measures connected with its use.
2. Spray with a clean sprayer. Never mix new spray chemicals with any "leftovers" in the tank sprayer. Some chemicals do not mix well together.
3. Carefully measure chemicals and water. Mix the two exactly as the instructions indicate. Do not assume that more will give better control -- it won't.
4. Select a calm day for spraying. Any spray that blows away in a wind is wasted. Early morning, when the air is still, is a good time for garden spraying.
5. On lawns, use a coarse, drenching spray that will penetrate through the turf into the soil where pests lurk unseen.
6. A FINE MIST SPRAY that coats all surfaces of the leaf evenly is preferred for shrubs, flowers and vegetables. Trees might demand a heavy stream to reach the uppermost branches.
7. Spray until there is a light drip from the leaves. This indicates good coverage; heavy run-off means the application was too heavy and wasteful.
8. Be sure to spray the underside of leaves as well as the top.
9. Clean your sprayer thoroughly with a laundry detergent and water immediately after each use.
10. As a general rule, plants should be sprayed at regular intervals of seven to 10 days during the entire growing season. In wet, rainy weather, the interval can be shortened to four or five days.

People Desire Rustic Life

Ramshackle vacation houses with hand-me-down furnishings are as obsolete as an outdoor pump. Modern second homes are based on a new concept: quality construction in planned communities that offer year-round recreation facilities.

Builders engaged in the burgeoning new market say it appeals to homeowners who like the rustic life but would rather not "rough it."

Vacation communities offer them: a change of pace (houses tend toward unusual, even exotic, designs); a comfortable escape to nature; extensive grounds that are communally maintained; on-site seasonal sports, and an eventual retirement home in the country.

For those who remember one-room sheds without plumbing, the new vacation homes and community sites may come as a surprise.

ONE EXAMPLE is a "home for all seasons" sponsored by Parents' Magazine at Hemlock Farms Estates in Hawley, Pa., a 4200-acre vacationland in the Pocono Mountains, where $16,000 is the minimal investment for land and a house.

The community specifies house standards, cares for the grounds, has swimming, boating, horseback riding and hunting facilities and is close by famous Camelback ski resort.

The unusual hexagon-shaped house has three bedrooms, two baths, a family room, living room, laundry room and kitchen.

Wide windows and glass patio doors give the house a six-sided view of the outdoors and allow outside access from most rooms.

prevent electrical shock and burns as well as protect the wearer from being struck by objects.

About 1.3 million new customers were served by the electric utility industry in 1967, bringing the total to some 68.2 million. Detroit Edison alone had 1.44 million customers at the end of 1967. About 95 per cent of new customers were residential.

Insect Spraying Should Be Simple

There are many fabulous new chemicals used in agriculture and horticulture for the control of weeds.

Nearly all of the field corn grown in Michigan is treated with one of several highly sophisticated chemicals which practically eliminates all hoeing and cultivating to control weeds.

Other chemicals are developed for other crops. Commercial vegetable and flower growers, and nurserymen have learned to use very specific materials for very specific weed control problems. But in the home vegetable garden the procedures are different.

ALMOST EVERY different crop on a farm requires a different chemical weedkiller. There is no "universal" selective material. Carrots, for instance, require a special chemical for carrots and only a few other crops.

Tomatoes need a chemical which will remove nearly all plant growth except night-shade family crops.

Corn can use Atrazine, a chemical which sometimes leaves long-time residues in the soil if over-used, and prevents the growth of any crop except corn in the following year.

Furthermore, rates of application are very critical with most of these chemicals. Two pounds of Atrazine per acre will do a good job in most cornfields. One pound per acre will be insufficient, and three pounds might leave dangerous residues for the next year.

A HOMEOWNER would have difficulty in scaling the correct application down from one acre (43,560 square feet) to a couple of rows in his backyard.

If he had drift to an adjoining crop, or if a downpour washed some of the newly applied chemical over to an adjoining crop it could cause damage.

Chemicals specially designed for lawns are much more adaptable to homeowner use, however.

The preemergent crabgrass killers work very well if applied at the right rate and at the right time.

Broadleaf weedkillers to control dandelions and plantains and other weeds are very effective. But these broadleaf weed control products will kill almost all vegetation except grasses, if wrongly applied.

Trees and shrubs sprayed with 2, 4-D products are often damaged. Even the drift from a spray job may cause harm. It is very difficult—almost impossible to clean 2, 4-D products from sprayers.

IN GENERAL then, it would be rather difficult for a homeowner to make much use of any of the various chemicals used in weed control in his garden, unless he is willing to purchase a very wide variety of products learn how to carefully calibrate his equipment, guard against drift or wash, and respect possible soil residues.

The hand cultivator and garden hoe remain the homeowner's best weapon against weeds in his vegetable and flower gardens.

Mulches of such materials as cocoa hulls, ground corncobs, sphagnum peat moss and other materials are effective in preventing weed growth.

Many commercial growers use a thin black plastic sheet with the plant inserted through a small hole in the sheet to prevent weeds, raise soil temperatures, and prevent water evaporation.

Azalea Buds Develop During Dry Season

If your azaleas did not bloom very well this spring, think back to last September. Did you go on vacation then without making provision for watering the azaleas during dry weather? The buds for next year's flowers on azaleas are developed during the summer and fall. Any severe check in growth by lack of water at that time causes a reduction in the number of flower buds set.

If the drought continues until the leaves wilt, the plants themselves may be stunted and become more susceptible to additional injury from cold the following winter. When watering, it is advisable to soak the earth to a depth of several inches to insure reaching all the roots. Then do not water again for five to seven days or until the need for it appears. Although ample moisture at the roots is essential, excess water or a sodden condition in the soil is harmful.

AZALEAS growing in soils that have been improved by organic matter and kept mulched usually do not need to be fertilized. After the plants have become large enough for a good display, a moderate rate of growth may be more productive of flowers than a rapid or forced growth. As long as the plants continue to have a thrifty appearance and normal deep green color, little, if any, fertilizer is needed. Some of the best azaleas I have ever seen, growing in the Norfolk, Va., botanical garden have never been fertilized.

On the other hand, if your plants lack vigor and have yellowish foliage early in the summer due to poor soil, they can be greatly helped by fertilizers, both organic and inorganic, that are acid in reaction. The use of fertilizers is particularly valuable for young plants to encourage as rapid growth as is consistent with proper maturity.

The most effective time to fertilize azaleas is soon after they finish blooming. Late applications may cause active tender growth to continue until fall, when they do not have time to harden before frosty weather. Thorough watering after applying fertilizers hastens their availability to the plants and lessens any danger of injury from them.

Cottonseed meal has been used in many places and is one of the best fertilizers for azaleas and rhododendrons. It is a good source of nitrogen, the element most generally deficient, and also contains small amounts of phosphorus and potassium.

Chicago Restores Old Town Prompting New Tourist Boom

CHICAGO—So all of a sudden Chicago has become big tourist territory. For many years this has been the world's greatest convention and sales meeting city, but on weekends the guy with the "Call Me Charlie!" badge and all his pals go home, leaving a lot of empty hotel rooms.

Also empty were a lot of weekend airplane seats. Now, a lot more should be filled, as airlines step up their Chicago service from all parts of the country.

With its mid-continent location, Chicago is commuting distance from practically everywhere, within optimum range of the 727 and DC-9 medium range jets; and flight frequencies are constantly being increased as the airlines put more of these newer planes into service.

American Airlines, for instance, has just started half-hourly service between New York and Chicago, scattering its runs among the three New York metropolitan airports. TWA has hourly service out of La Guardia only.

SO THE AIRLINES are busily at work with Chicago hotels and tourist development people in promoting weekend tourism—thus tying in, too, with the Visit U.S.A. set-up for foreigners and the Discover America program for Americans.

And Americans discovering Chicago will find that they have a lot to discover. The Tourism Council of Greater Chicago has been pushing the city as a Funville, and most fun of all is probably Old Town, a restored section of the near north side centered along Wells St., a few minutes from the Loop.

This once was a run-down area popular with beatniks because of low rents and lower prices. But the Gay 90s restaurants and smart boutiques moved in. Prices went up, and strolling hippies became tourist attractions.

Heart of Old Town is Piper's Alley, marked by an enormous Tiffany-style lamp at the entrance on the 1600 block of North Wells St. Here in a collection of old buildings that once housed a bakery and an abandoned garage, a couple of real-estate operators with taste and imagination have created a completely delightful collection of shops, restaurants, art galleries, and theaters connected by a narrow cobblestoned passageway.

That Steak Joint, right at the entrance of Piper's Alley, is one of the best restaurants in town; and the Second City, just next door, is a little theater whose graduates include Mike Nichols and Elaine May.

PIPER'S ALLEY features off-beat eating. There's a place that bakes enormous pretzels while you wait, another that serves oatmeal cookies the size of soup plates for 20 cents, and one where the specialty is kosher dill pickles with peppermint stick centers.

Other features include the Bratskellar, a candlelit pub popular with college types; the Flipped Disc record shop; Poor Richard's Boutique, the Arts International Gallery, the Volume I Bookshop, Charlie's General Store, the Jack B. Nimble Candle Shop, and the Aardvark Cinematheque, an experimental film theater where underground, foreign, and classic films are shown. Very probably the most elegant accommodations in town are to be found at the Palmer House Towers—the top two floors of the 2230-room Loop hotel—which has been operating as a hotel within a hotel for the last three years.

RECENTLY they started pushing "Week-end at the Towers," along the lines of the "Week-end at the Waldorf" promotion that was so successful in New York some years back.

Its 270 rooms and suites make up a world of their own. Guests don't even check in at the hotel desk in the lobby. Instead they board a special plush-lined and crystal-chaudelered high-speed elevator that takes them nonstop to the 23d floor.

Here they sit down at a writing table to fill out their registration form while a concierge gets their luggage from the doorman downstairs, takes it to their room and opens up their bags.

The concierge carries on all the functions of his counterpart in European hotels such as getting theater tickets, arranging for car hire and barber shop or beauty parlor appointments, and taking care of your mail.

In addition he does a number of things peculiar to the Palmer House Towers. He'll see that dictating equipment, an adding machine, or a typewriter are brought to your room if you order them. Or he'll send in exercise machines: bicycles, weights, or treadmills.

Transfer Policies Before Moving

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

If you are moving this spring or summer transfer your fire and chattel insurance to cover your possessions in the new residence.

Insurance must be transferred before the move, otherwise there will be a period when you are not covered.

If you are moving to a distant city, transfer your bank account in advance.

Have your present bank arrange a credit reference with which to establish new accounts.
