FARMINGTON—The Farmington Township Board adopted a stop and frisk ordinance Monday night. In taking the action, the trustees cited the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling upholding such laws.

FARMINGTON—An estimated loss of more than $1 million per month. That's the toll of the builders strike on construction in Farmington City and Township. The strike began May 1 and since that time only two residential permits have been issued in the city.

LIVONIA—A Fourth of July fire thought to have been set by children playing near one of Livonia's two new indoor ice-skating rinks has set construction on the rink back from six to eight weeks and left damages totaling at least $10,000. The fire began in a pile of prefabricated wooden roofing sections at the rink site at Henry Ruff and West Chicago shortly after 8 p.m. July 4.

LIVONIA—Negotiations have resumed this week between the Livonia Board of Education and the Livonia Education Association, representing the district's 1,600 school teachers. The talks were interrupted recently by a convention in Texas requiring the attendance of LEA delegates.

WESTLAND—The Wayne Community School Board and a teacher who is also head of a reactivated citizens' committee clashed Monday over the ethical and legal points of board members taking their wives to school conferences and conventions at the public's expense. The board admitted the practice but added that the teacher has vindictive motives.

E.M.U. Tightens Code Following Coed Murder

Stunned by the brutal murder of Joan Schell, 20-year-old Plymouth coed, officials at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti where she was a junior, are tightening the rules and regulations for all students—on and off campus.

Joan was an off-campus student, living with Sue Kolbe in an apartment at 703 Emmett. It was from here that she left Sunday night, June 30, to keep a date with a boy friend in Ann Arbor and met her death instead.

The murder was almost a duplicate of one a year ago in which Mary Slezar, also an Eastern Michigan student, lost her life.

"ALL OF US AT Eastern Michigan were stunned," Dr. Harold E. Sponberg, EMU president, stated Monday as he called a session of all department heads and officials to see what remedial measures could be taken.

The officials are taking a two-fold stand in the case. First, they have pledged all possible help to authorities to aid in solving the latest murder. Secondly, the rules and regulations are being examined very carefully to determine just what changes could be made to avoid repetitions of the tragedy.

"We issue the normal, standard precautions to all students," Dr. Sponberg explained, "and warn them against many of the problems they may encounter."

"We have no exact rules banning hitch-hiking," he continued, "but list it as one of the activities in which to use caution."

Pointing out that it was rather difficult to enforce such regulations as hitch-hiking in the community in which there are 40,000 students (15,000 at EMU and 25,000 at the University of Michigan) President Sponberg stated that a constant vigil is kept with the campus security officers and the city police.

"We attempt to emphasize the regulations to all students and especially those living off campus. But these things happen in spite of it," he remarked.

The standard regulations, according to President Sponberg, call attention to such things as "drinking, undesirable places to visit, selection of companions, hitch-hiking and general conduct."

THESE STANDARDS are given to all students and, according to the campus practice, they are left pretty much on their own to pick and choose.

"We can't do much more than that," President Sponberg confided, "but we try to keep alert of all activities. We think we do a good job until something like this comes along and then we wonder."

He then announced he was planning meetings with all concerned to thoroughly examine the standard code and make whatever changes may be deemed necessary.

Dr. Sponberg hinted that this murder, the second in about a year, would cause the entire official family to become more alert to conditions and, in the meantime, do all things possible to help solve not only the murder of the Plymouth coed, but that of Mary Slezar, too.

Mother Instinct Took Joan To Tragic Death

By W. W. EDGAR

Mother instinct that she displayed from childhood guided Joan Schell, 20-year-old Plymouth coed, to her tragic death last week on a lonely road between Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor.

It was this mother instinct that caused her to start hitch-hiking from Ypsilanti to Ann Arbor after missing the last bus at 11:30 p.m. Sunday, June 30, to keep a date with a boy friend who is AWOL from the Army.

It was a walk from which she never returned. Along the route she accepted a ride from three young men and wasn't seen or heard from again until her body was found off the road in a wooded area in Ann Arbor Friday night.

THESE WERE the summations of a brave, but grief-stricken father, James Schell, as he unfolded the story on the front porch of the family home on William Street only a few hours after receiving news that his daughter's body had been found.

"She had what you would call a mother instinct from the time she was just a little tot," he explained in a voice choked with emotion. "She was always bringing home sick cats, stray dogs or injured birds to care for them."

"It's an instinct she was carrying through life as you can see from the fact that she, as a junior at Eastern Michigan University, was studying therapy for the handicapped through the arts and crafts. And now it has brought her to this."

The stunned father gazed off into space for a moment and then remarked in slow, soft-spoken words, "This is a strange story and I scarcely know where or how to begin because I don't want to hurt anyone."

He lowered his head in deep thought and then revealed a story much stranger than fiction of the most dramatic sort.

HE TOLD HOW his daughter, against the wishes of both her mother and father, had fallen deeply in love with Dale Schultz, a schoolmate one year her junior.

"From time to time," the father pointed out, "the young man was getting into trouble. Only a few months ago your paper carried a story of his being charged with breaking and entering."

"And before that, his name was connected with the story of the monster that was raising havoc in the neighborhood of Geddes Road. In fact, it was later learned that he was the person making the clay models for the monster's footprints that could be seen about nine feet apart with the footprint of a dog along side."

Similarity Of Crimes Puzzling To Police

Lieut. E.D. Staudenmaier, of the Ann Arbor Police Department, who is handling the Joan Schell murder case, sat at his desk Saturday afternoon awaiting the results of a chemical analysis and confided that he was puzzled.

"This is the second case we've had like this in about a year—and there is a strange similarity between the two. "A year ago a girl named Mary Slezar was stabbed to death just north of Ypsilanti. She suffered the same type of wounds and her assailants never were apprehended."

Asked if he thought there might be a link between the two cases, Lieut. Staudenmaier confessed that he didn't know. "We can't tell that until the assailants are apprehended and we have a chance to question them," he said.

WAS THE HUNT still on for the Slezar girl's assailants? "These searches never end," the Lieutenant answered.

"We're still looking for the men who beat a man to death at Willow Run Airport about 14 years ago. It's a never-ending chase tracking down all sorts of stories. Thus far, none of them has been found."

Asked how these hunts are launched and conducted the Ann Arbor officer answered:

"When something like this happens we alert all neighboring communities immediately. Then the word is passed along to all stations in Southeastern Michigan. From there the report goes to the State Police in Lansing where it is put on the teletype to all stations in the state and then across the country."

"So, the hunt soon becomes nationwide. "Despite this, we haven't found any of the assailants."

Esther Hulsing Again Heads School Board

Esther Hulsing was reelected president by the Board of Education Monday night at their organizational meeting for the new fiscal year 1968-69.

Jack Moehle was reelected vice president of the board and Joanne Hulce was also retained as secretary.

Robert Gilmore was given the post of treasurer replacing R. Bruce Scott who remains a member of the board.

In other organizational action, the board designated the depository for the district's funds, authorized and approved the facsimile signatures to appear on checks issued from the various funds.

It also designated who shall sign checks.

The board retained William Sempliner as its attorney and again named the firm of Sutherland and Robson as the district's auditor.

WHERE SEARCH BEGAN—The body of Joan Schell was found in the shady spot on the south side of Glacier Way Rd. to the left of the picture about 500 feet from where the road deadends at Earhart St. Construction workers have been installing water mains along the two streets for several weeks. The body was found by one of the workers.

City Assumes All Risk For Financing Arena

New hope for the long anticipated ice arena came during the past week when the Plymouth City Commission approved a plan that would include a bond issue and a possible federal loan.

Advised by the bond attorneys that there were four ways in which to finance the project the commission reduced the suggestion to these two—with preference for the second.

1 — A revenue bond issue with a public facilities loan.

2 — A Municipal Building Authority bond issue with a public facilities loan.

Prior to being informed of the financial choices the bond attorneys pointed out that there was no law that would provide for the joint financing of a construction project, such as the proposed community ice rink, between the city and Plymouth Township.

STRAT BROWN, of the Bond attorney's office, pointed out that the Municipal Building Authority procedure would apply to the joint financing of a project by a city and a county, or a city and school district, but not for the joint financing of a project of a city and a township.

Any financing of a project such as this, he said, would have to be undertaken by one of the two parties being primarily responsible for the financing and the other party contracting with it.

Brown also informed the committee that included City Manager Richard Blodgett, Ralph Cole, Township Attorney; Charles Lowe, City Attorney; and Robert Hayman, chairman of the Centennial group, that in the case of the proposed ice arena it would be better for the City of Plymouth to do the financing and the Township of Plymouth to contract with the city for its portion of the obligation.

It was on the basis of this advice that the City Commission approved the plan for the city to assume responsibility for the financing. It was stated that little opposition is expected from the township.

THE ONE BIG question that arose was the availability of money for a public facility loan. After investigation it was learned that the funds are available and it was planned to make application as soon as possible.

School Cost For Year Placed At $5,193,825

It has cost the Plymouth Community School District a cool $5,193,825.76 to operate between July 1, 1967 and June 30, 1968 -- its official fiscal year.

The district spent approximately $68,000 more than its anticipated operating budget, however, this does not mean the schools finished the fiscal year in the red.

Upon presenting the annual budget report to the school board Monday night, Ass't. Business Supt. Melvin Blunk stressed the summary was still subject to official audit and may change in the weeks to come.

This means the figures may differ by a few hundred dollars or a few thousand dollars one way or the other depending upon the auditor's findings.

AT ANY rate, it appears safe to assume at this time, he said, the school district will have used close to all allocated monies for the 1967-68 fiscal year.

The report showed that there was a cash balance of $278,927.27 as of July 1, 1967.

Receipts for the year amounted to $6,282,357.48. They were broken down as follows: current taxes, $3,156,048.40; delinquent taxes and interest, $80,332.15; tool reimbursement, $32,254.07.

State aid, $1,752,864.47; federal aid Title I, $81,487.62; other income, $79,368.77; plus a short term loan, $1,100,000.

Total cash receipts and beginning balance (add total receipts and cash in bank) was $6,561,302.75.

The report then subtracted total disbursements of $6,163,399.36—which was broken down as follows:

Total money spent for 1967-68 fiscal year, $5,193,825.76; plus—cash expenditures for federal projects Title I, $29,569.70; inventory on hand on

Nixon Nears Nomination; Lacks 39 Votes

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon lacks only 39 votes to nail down a first-ballot victory at the Republican National Convention, the chairman of the House Republican Conference has announced.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin also predicted national polls that show Nixon trailing the Democratic contenders will shift once the convention is over.

"I believe that Dick Nixon is behind at the present time merely because he is not speaking out on the issues," the GOP leader said.

TACOMA, Wash. — Civil rights activist Dick Gregory, suffering from a cold after fasting in jail for 39 days, has been given oxygen to aid his efforts.

The Negro comedian has been moved to a Tacoma Hospital from his cell in Thurston County Jail in Olympia, where he was serving a 90-day sentence for illegal fishing during an Indian fishing rights demonstration in 1966.

But, Warren told a news conference, he expects Fortas to be approved despite the declared opposition of 19 Republican senators and he believes Fortas will be "a great chief justice." Michigan's Robert P. Griffin, leader of the Republican opposition bloc, declined comment on Warren's declaration.

OPELIKA, Ala. — A ghostly body, anchored to a lake bottom by a concrete slab, slipped away from skindivers as they tried to bring it to the surface.

But the divers did recover a pistol and a strongbox taken in a burglary more than two years ago.

Sheriff's officers said they had no clues as to the identity of the body, believed to be a woman.

NEW YORK — Becoming a millionaire is getting easier all the time. The Federal Reserve Board says there were 40,000 in 1958 and 100,000 in 1965. The inflation of the past three years may have doubled or tripled this number.

National Roundup

WASHINGTON — Broadcasters who engage in racial discrimination will not have their licenses renewed, under a new Federal Communications Commission policy.

The commission has also proposed a new rule which would require broadcasters to file with renewal applications a statement showing what they are doing to promote employment and programming aimed at minority groups.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — President Johnson, greeted by thousands of cheering Salvadoreans and some anti-war youths who splattered red paint over his limousine, has joined five Central American presidents in declaring support for the formation of a Latin American common market.

Johnson voiced hope that the five-nation common market already existing in Central America would serve as a pattern for similar organizations in Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Black campaign aides of presidential aspirants Eugene McCarthy and Vice President Hubert Humphrey decided to remain for the closing of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) convention, despite the abrupt cancellation of a rally which they had been invited to address.

NEW YORK — West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's testimony in Bonn at a war crimes trial was "astounding and shocking" according to Dr. Joachim Prinz, chairman of the commission on international affairs for the American Jewish Congress.

Prinz, a rabbi in Berlin expelled in 1937 for criticizing the Hitler regime, cabled Kiesinger saying it was inconceivable that the chancellor did not know "something ugly" was happening as early as 1933.

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Earl Warren said he will remain in his present position if the Senate does not confirm Abe Fortas as his successor.

WASHINGTON — Congress returned from a short Fourth of July recess faced with a stack of money bills, a few major administration proposals and visions of the earliest adjournment in a dozen years.

Most senators and representatives are optimistic that they can be out of Washington by the time the Republican convention begins Aug. 5.

CHICAGO — After seven and a half hours of negotiations between dissident drivers and management, Mayor Daley announced the end of the Chicago transit authority bus strike. The wildcat strike had lasted five days.

HYANNIS, Mass. — Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy and four of her children attended a requiem mass in St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church for her assassinated husband.

Some 500 persons attended the mass, traditionally held 30 days after a death or burial.

LONGVIEW, Wash. — A wooden footbridge jammed with people watching Fourth of July fireworks collapsed, plunging scores of people into a lake near the center of Longview. All apparently survived.

Police Chief Ralph Benefield reported that as many as 200 people may have been on the bridge. Skindivers searching Lake Sacajewea reported finding no bodies.

STANFORD, Calif. — Police officials blame arsonists for the recent fire which destroyed Stanford University President Wallace Sterling's office, causing $100,000 damage in a two-story administration building.

Lost in the fire were Sterling's personal rare book and memento collection gathered over 40 years. He retires as president Sept. 1.

Missing Plymouth Girl Found Brutally Slain

Seek Clues To Car In Coed Slaying

By Henry Teutsch

Ann Arbor Acting Police Chief Capt. Harold Olson has asked for any information from any source throughout the entire state about the alleged red and black late model car that reportedly picked up a 20-year-old Eastern Michigan University coed June 30 in Ypsilanti.

Joan Schell from Plymouth was found stabbed to death Friday afternoon near Ann Arbor.

Capt. Olson intimated that none has been cleared of suspicion in the fatal stabbing and his office is concentrating on the whereabouts of the car.

He said, "I want to make this car as hot as possible and try to discover its occupants. People are incorrectly assuming the three men reported in the car are guilty when we have no proof."

The only tangible evidence the police have at this time is a composite picture of one of the alleged occupants of the car.

THE DESCRIPTION was given by the dead girl's roommate Sue Kolbe who was the last person to see the victim alive. Miss Kolbe told police that she tried to talk Miss Schell out of hitchhiking into Ann Arbor but the girl got into a car with three men.

Miss Kolbe said the girl was going to meet her boy friend and had missed the last bus from Ypsilanti to Ann Arbor around 11:30 p.m.

The boy friend, Dale I. Schultz, 19, of 1101 S. Harvey, Plymouth, was picked up by police around 4:30 p.m. Friday just a few hours after the girl's nude body was found.

Schultz has been AWOL from the U.S. Army since June and was found in an off-campus Ann Arbor apartment. He was questioned by police but said he had no knowledge of the murder.

Ann Arbor Police Det. Lt. Eugene Staudenmaier said, "As far as I'm concerned, he is not being held as a suspect." Schultz is being held in the county jail pending the arrival of military police.

When Schultz was picked up, Lt. Staudenmaier said, brass knuckles were found in his possession. He was subsequently charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

However, whether the charge is being pursued is not known.

Washtenaw County Prosecuting Atty. William F. Delhey, asked whether Schultz is still charged, said, "I don't know."

Delhey said, "The man has been cleared of suspicion of murder and he hasn't."

The body was found near the intersection of Glacier Way and Earhart Roads on the north-east side of the city by Lynn Bailey, a construction worker who was installing water and sewer mains along the two roads.

Police stated the body was clothed in a piece of torn cloth around the shoulders. They were able to make identification from a ring she was wearing, they said.

Dr. Robert Hendricks, a University of Michigan pathologist, told police that decomposition indicated the body had been exposed to the elements for about five days, which places her death at about the time she was reported missing from Ypsilanti, five days previous to the discovery.

Although laboratory reports were not made available, Asst. Washtenaw County Prosecutor Thomas Shea said it was a "sex motivated" crime.

He reported the girl died of multiple stab wounds on the head, neck and upper body.

SHEA ADDED that the Schell murder has "many similarities" to an unsolved slaying last year of another EMU coed, Mary Slezar, whose mutilated body was found near the Ypsilanti campus.

Ann Arbor Det. Sgt. Norman Olmstead, who led a search of the area Saturday, said the body was found lying on its left side facing the roadway curled around a small clump of bushes. It lay about 12 feet from the road up a small incline and was about three feet from a fence separating the road from a field.

During the Saturday investigation Olmstead said they suspect the body was thrown over the fence from the field. He said he believed the slaying took place somewhere else and the victim was brought there for disposal. It was covered with grass and weeds, he said.

MISS KOLBE, 19, who lived with Miss Schell in a house converted into small apartments at 703 Emmett, Ypsilanti, said she tried to talk the victim out of hitchhiking but the girl got into the auto.

She told police that one of the men was wearing a green tee-shirt with the words "Eastern Michigan University" printed on it.

Det. Lt. Eugene Staudenmaier, of Ann Arbor, said the suspect was just another among "20 million others they are tracking down." He refused to give any more information.

Staudenmaier hastily added the "case is under investigation."

At this time, police only know about when the girl was murdered and how she died.

They have received many "tips" but none has proved useful, they said.

College Group Studies Geography In Europe

On the theory there is no better place to study the subject, 16 Schoolcraft College students are touring Western Europe this summer on a seven-week geography field trip.

Teaching the course and conducting the tour as the group makes its way through a looping route from the Netherlands to England, is Schoolcraft Geography Instructor Ralph E. Miller.

Designated as Geography 280, the course offers six hours of credit toward a degree from the college. Cost to the students includes the regular college tuition fee and transportation and tour expenses.

THE GROUP ARRIVED in Amsterdam on June 26 to start the tour. The itinerary calls for three days in The Netherlands before proceeding to 15 other stop-over bases before the seven-week tour ends in London on Aug. 14.

THE TOUR ROUTE calls for stops at Köln, June 29 - July 1; Cochem/Mosel, Germany, July 2-3; Bingen/Rhein, Germany, July 4-5; Heidelberg, Germany, July 6-8; Munich, Germany, July 9-11; Innsbruck, Austria, July 12-14; Venice, Italy, July 15-16; Rome, July 17-20; Florence, July 21-22; San Remo, Italy, July 23-26; Milan, Italy, July 27 - 28; Zermatt, Switzerland, July 29-Aug. 1; Lucerne, Switzerland, Aug. 2-5; Paris, Aug. 6-9; and London, Aug. 10-14.

A veteran of conducted instructional tours of foreign lands, Miller has been a member of the Schoolcraft geography department since the fall of 1966.

Enrolled in the class and participating in the tour are: Margaret Hayes and Paul B. Robinson, of Garden City; Bernard B.J. Lack, Michael A. McNeece, and Sherry Quarles, of Livonia; Linda Secord and Dorothy Widmaier, of Northville; Cathy Kimble and Jana Zambaros, of Plymouth; Hildgarde McCaleb, Farmington; Shirley Byrd, Lynn Fisher, Nicholas Maraska, Sandra Rohn, and William R. Stevens, of Detroit; and David Hurd, Wyandotte.

Cancel Plant Tours For Model Change

Plant tours at the Fisher Body Livonia plant will be sidlined until after Labor Day while the model change-over is made. The tours at the plant at 28400 Plymouth Rd., will be held every Thursday again in September.

The plant makes upholstery for General Motors cars.

Award College $22,000

Schoolcraft College has received federal grants totaling nearly $22,000 under separate programs authorized by the Higher Education Act of 1965.

A grant of $10,749 was received under provisions of Part A, Title VI, of the Act, and will assist the college in acquiring laboratory and other special equipment and materials for the improvement of instruction.

THE GRANT will be matched by college funds, making a total of $21,498 available for the purchase of materials and equipment for instructional use in the specific subject areas of psychology, foreign languages, geography, music, sculpture and art education.

In addition, audio-visual equipment for use in all college instructional programs will be purchased with grant funds.

A second grant totaling $11,136, will be used to acquire additional books and materials for the college library.

SEARCHING AREA—Ann Arbor Patrolman C. A. Ferguson assists in the search for clues to the murder. He was part of a more than 20-man team combing the brush last Saturday.

Two Counselors Rejoin College

Two former counselors, who have rejoined the Schoolcraft College Office of Student Affairs staff after a year's absence, are among the names on a list of personnel additions announced by Vice-President for Student Affairs Edward V. McNally.

Returning in an administrative position as Director of Financial Aids and Placement is Russell S. Bogarin.

RETURNING TO THE counseling staff is James E. Mc-

Carthy who resigned last year to continue his graduate work at Indiana University under an NDEA fellowship. McCarthy holds an M.A. degree from the University of Michigan.

A new addition to the counseling staff is Mrs. Gayle Sumner, who comes from Northeast Missouri State College, Kirksville, Mo., where she was an academic counselor for two years.

She and her husband, Dr. W. Weston Sumner, are living in Westland. Dr. Sumner is interning in the Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

High State Death Toll Continues

Michigan traffic deaths are continuing at a record rate with the count for the first six months totaling 1,010 which is 146 or 17 per cent more than 864 in the same period of 1967, according to State Police provisional figures.

This six-month toll was only 34 less than the 1,044 killed in the first half of 1966 when Michigan set an all-time annual high of 2,298 in traffic deaths.

CONTRIBUTING TO the half-year total was June's fatality count of 188 which was 48 or 33 per cent greater than the 140 killed in that month in 1967.

June's figure also was 15 higher than the average of 173 for that month in 1967. The figure was 16 higher than the average of 173 for that month in the last five years, 1963-67.

Reports of delayed deaths attributed to traffic accidents will increase somewhat the June and half-year counts.

State Troopers Arrest Over 27,000 In May

Michigan State Police officers made 27,688 arrests in May, 25,286 of them for traffic offenses and 2,402 on criminal complaints, according to the department's monthly activity report.

In addition, 778 juvenile traffic offenders were arrested and 765 delinquent minors apprehended.

Troopers assisted 5,218 motorists, investigated 9,641 cars, issued 33,320 oral warnings to drivers, and made 16,440 property and 2,494 liquor inspections.

Department vehicles traveled 2,102,573 miles, of which 1,188,742 were on traffic patrol and 913,791 to investigate criminal and other complaints.

THE IDENTIFICATION section received 19,282 sets of fingerprints, of which 10,787 were criminal and 8,495 noncriminal. Nine wanted-persons were identified.

Of 2,683 applicants for permits to carry concealed weapons, 199 were identified with criminal records through their fingerprints.

Five unknown dead were identified by the same means. The crime laboratory conducted 1,377 examinations, including 603 on firearms, 475 on documents, 169 botanical, 33 on glass, 28 on tool marks and 69 miscellaneous.

Laboratory assistances numbered 116 for municipal police, 77 for State Police, 28 for sheriffs and 11 for other agencies.

The latent print unit examined 58,254 prints, of which 46,241 were submitted by State Police, 9,268 by municipal departments and 2,745 by sheriffs. Of 69 subjects identified, 45 were suspects in cases under investigation.

THE FRAUDULENT check unit processed 200 bogus checks, identifying 101 of them by name or with previous specimens. Face value of the checks totaled $25,823.77, an average of $129.12.

The fire marshal division reported investigations of nine explosions, 71 incendiary fires, 46 cases of violation of fire laws and regulations, and 84 other fire cases. Supplemental investigations totaled 228.

Field inspections included 57 schools, 26 hospitals, 83 nursing homes, nine state properties, two flammable liquid and eight liquefied petroleum gas bulk installations, 25 theaters, seven dry cleaning plants and three miscellaneous. Supplemental inspections and re-inspections totaled 441.

Fifty-nine nursing homes and 64 hospitals were certified to the state health department for licensing.

Final building plans processed included 48 schools, 10 hospitals, 21 nursing homes and 12 state properties. There were 30 automatic sprinkler shop drawings processed.

Schools Spend $5,193,825 During Year

June 30, 1968, $6,890,48; gas tax refund which was receivable at June 30, 1968, $2,496,42; and the short term loan, $1,100,000.

THE PLUS items totaled to $1,138,956.60 and were added to the year's operating budget which came to $6,332,782.36. However, from this last figure was subtracted the net increase in accounts and salaries payable, $147,834.13; non-cash expenditure -- which was inventory from 1966-67 used in 1967-68 -- $21,272.21 and a net increase in prepaid salaries, $276.66 all of which added to $169,383.

The total of $169,383 was taken away from total disbursements of $6,332,782.36 and amounted to disbursements of $6,163,399.36.

The major total--cash receipts and beginning balance of $6,561,302.75 was then reduced by total disbursements of $6,163,399.36 which left a balance in the bank as of June 30, 1968 or $397,903.39.

The actual cash in the bank for the coming fiscal year is $41,909.07, the report continued.

THIS DECREASE of the cash on hand for the beginning of the new fiscal year resulted from salaries and accounts payable at June 30, 1968 and chargeable to the 1967-68 fiscal year of $194,758.62 plus the actual cash on hand as of June 30, 1967 being lowered after it was audited to $33,873.43.

These two figures totaled to $245,053.84 and reduced the $397,903.39 to the actual figure of $152,849.55.

Blunk said the budget will be audited sometime within the coming month and at that time the actual revenues and expenditures will be known for the past fiscal year.

Mother Instinct Proves Fatal

The father emphasized that, despite all these things, Joan continued to see him.

"Possibly it was a combination of the deep-rooted love and the mother instinct that strengthened her desire to help him.

"At any rate, the boy turned to the Army after the breaking and entering case and was doing fine. He had done well in boot camp and was shipped to Camp Gordon in Georgia where he was headed for promotion, so we were told, when he suddenly turned against military life. He talked himself into hating it and attempted to gain a medical discharge. Failing that, he went AWOL several weeks ago and returned home."

CHOKING BACK TEARS and with a voice that was about to crack, the father told of the last time he had seen his daughter alive and the final link in the chain with the boyfriend who is AWOL.

"The family went to Ypsilanti on Sunday, June 30," he said, "to have dinner with Joan. We had an enjoyable evening and left Haab's about 9:30 p.m. and took Joan to her apartment. All was fine and we returned home. Then, on Monday morning, we received word from her roommate, Sue Kolbe, that Joan had started to hitchhike to Ann Arbor to keep a date with the boyfriend at the Medical Building on the University of Michigan campus, but hadn't been heard from since."

AS THE STORY was put into sequence by her father, Joan had received a call from the boyfriend after the family departed on Sunday night and promised to make the trip to Ann Arbor to meet him.

Her roommate accompanied her to the bus station. When the bus passed her by the roommate went to a phone to ascertain if it was the last bus to Ann Arbor. She returned and told Joan and it was then that she decided to hitchhike against her roommate's wishes.

"It was the mother instinct taking hold again," the father remarked.

FOLLOWING THE DATE, Joan had arranged to stay with a friend, Cynthia Ely, in Ann Arbor. When she didn't make an appearance Cynthia contacted Sue, the roommate, and the boyfriend, and started a search for her.

"It's an odd thing," the father sighed, "but I wasn't too alarmed last Monday when we were told that Joan was missing. I sort of had a feeling that, with her motherly instinct, she and her AWOL boyfriend were headed for Canada where they could shake off their troubles and start anew.

"But it just didn't turn out that way."

International Banks Move To Save British Pound

LONDON—Central bankers from 12 countries—excluding France—have agreed to initiate a new insurance scheme to protect Britain from massive speculation against the pound, the Bank of England has announced.

The Bank of England statement gave no indication of the size of the proposed new stand-by credits for the pound. Some predictions have put the size of the eventual package at $2 billion to $2.4 billion, which would cover about a third of Britain's overseas sterling liabilities.

SAIGON—U.S. Marines have killed 201 North Vietnamese soldiers along the eastern end of the demilitarized zone in recent fighting that could pre-empt more big battles along South Vietnam's northern border, according to military spokesmen.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa—Dr. Philip Blumberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, has rallied from the worst setback since his operation Jan. 2.

Blumberg's doctors successfully used a new serum and indicated they no longer plan another heart transplant for him.

PARIS—France has begun a two-month series of nuclear tests on Mururoa atoll in the South Pacific. The test series is expected to culminate with the explosion of France's first hydrogen bomb.

SAIGON—President Nguyen Van Thieu has decided to postpone his state visit to Washington again "to a later date this year" because of information that the Communists are planning a new offensive.

Thieu has proposed to President Johnson that they meet "for a few days somewhere in the Pacific in the forthcoming weeks."

SAIGON — Viet Cong guerrillas have ambushed four young American jazz musicians and an Army sergeant escort driving near Saigon on an isolated road.

Phil Pill, 17, and Curt Willis, 18, two members of the "Brandi Perry and the Bubble Machine" quartet, were killed when they tried surrendering with their hands in the air. Two others, 20-year-old singer Paula Levine of North Hollywood, Calif. and a U.S. soldier, were wounded.

"I played dead and that's the only reason I'm alive today," the attractive, dark-haired Miss Levine said at the U.S. Army's 93rd Evacuation Hospital where she was treated for fragment wounds in the back and legs.

The music group had started out late in the day for the Vietnamese coastal resort of Vung Tau, about 45 miles southeast of Saigon, to play for the American troops.

CAIRO, Egypt — Diplomats in London say Egypt has offered to take back a United Nations peacekeeping force on its soil as part of an Arab-Israeli settlement, but meanwhile a boost in Egyptian military spending was reported in Cairo.

hopeful development because Egyptian President Nasser's expulsion of U.N. troops was a major factor in the train of events that led to the six-day Middle East War of June 1967.

GENEVA — The council of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade-GATT has set up a 21-nation working party to examine restrictive trade measures taken by France in recent weeks.

July is a jubilant month. It's very name sings. July means baseball, brass bands, picnics, swimming, firecrackers, parades and those first golden ears of sweetcorn.

It means small barefoot children, running through lawn sprinklers. It means power mowers interrupting the evening's stillness. It means darkness somewhere between 9:30 and 10 p.m.

July is National Hot Dog Month. It is also Milk a la Mode Month and Hitchhiking Month.

July is the time to be outdoors. It's the time for gardening, painting and pruning. Or for those of us who are less energetic, it is the time for grilling steaks and sipping iced tea from the depths of a shaded hammock.

July is the time of slamming screened doors. It is the time of small creatures; ants, mosquitoes, crickets and fishing worms.

Summer camps, summer cottages and summer school are all part of July.

It was on a July afternoon that one of the more energetic "fixer-uppers" decided to put in a flagstone walk from porch to street.

He worked all through the long afternoon, stopping only for a liquid refreshment. Finally the last stone was in place.

He called his wife and asked her to appraise his handiwork. Taking this assignment seriously she informed him that the stones were uneven, the colors didn't match and that the whole thing was too narrow.

Tired and disgruntled our friend asked, "How is it for length?"

That's July!

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schryer, of Union St., recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.

Their children, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schryer, Marilyn and Howard arranged the party with the help of Mrs. Schryer's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Bauman, of Irvin St.

Another son, David, recently returned to the United States from Vietnam, and now stationed in Ft. Riley, Kan., was unable to attend.

Eight guests made the anniversary celebration one to remember. May I add my congratulations?

Doctor Has Advice For Hay Fever Victims

"Summer time is the sneezin' season, the time of the year when the pollen count is the highest and persons with hay fever or other respiratory allergies have the most discomfort," said E. Osborne Coates, Jr., M.D., president of the Tuberculosis and Health Society. Dr. Coates added that approximately one person in 20 in the United States has a sensitivity to a respiratory allergy.

Hay fever is the most common of the respiratory allergies. The effects of hay fever are watery eyes and stuffy nose, a redness, swelling and itching of the eyes, and an itching of the nose, throat and mouth and breathing difficulty.

Pollens that are light enough to be airborne are the major offenders. They can penetrate anywhere, indoors and out, and are most numerous at the height of the pollinating season for the particular plant. The more pollen in the air, the worse the victim suffers.

The season for hay fever varies through the nation. In Michigan, it is usually from late spring through the first killing frost of fall. In cases where a person is sensitive to dust, dog dander or other airborne material, he may suffer all year around. Ragweed is the biggest offender as far as hay fever is concerned.

ANYONE CAN develop an allergy to a common substance, but those who do usually have inherited the tendency as a family trait. The sensitivity is developed after exposure to the substance. During the seasons when plants are pollinating, everyone in the vicinity is exposed. People with the tendency may develop sensitivity to any one or more of the pollens, although certain pollens are more allergenic—more likely to cause an allergic reaction—than others.

Persons might be sensitive to mold and fungus spores (seeds) which become airborne during the summer months. These are found around hay, straw and dead leaves and their growth is encouraged by humid weather and places with poor ventilation such as damp basements and sheds.

Avoiding the substance that causes a victim's respiratory allergy is the best way to control it. Moving to other parts of the country, or in the case of Michigan, to the northern part of the state, or having air-conditioning or air purification equipment will tend to cut the person's suffering during the season.

The use of antihistamines may give relief from the symptoms but should be administered under the direction of a doctor. Too often persons with an allergy tend to try several medications on the market and in so doing mix the drugs which can aggravate the condition or do bodily harm.

Through allergy tests a person's allergy can be identified and injections to desensitize the person against the allergy started. Usually this is recommended well in advance of the season. In cases, the desensitization process may have to be repeated for several years to overcome the allergy.

Dr. Coates said publications on respiratory allergies and other respiratory diseases are available to the public from the TB and Health Society, free of charge. Call 961-1697.

Plymouth Dems Eye Swing To Livonian Over Arch Vallier

Mardiros Hits Farnum Support

Former Congressman Billie S. Farnum today denied he was seeking votes for congressional candidate Ron Mardiros, and indicated he was supporting Mardiros' opponent, Gary Frink. Frink and Mardiros are running for the Democratic nomination in the 19th Congressional District, which includes Livonia and Redford. The winner of the primary will take on Republican incumbent Jack McDonald.

While Farnum denied he was seeking votes for Mardiros, Mardiros retorted that Farnum shouldn't be making any endorsements at all.

Farnum is paid by the national Democratic party organization to launch a nation-wide voter registration drive.

Farnum said he supported Frink, and urged his old supporters to work for him. Farnum held the congressional seat from 1964 to 1966, but lost in the Romney landslide.

Farnum said: "It has been brought to my attention that my efforts in voter registration have been linked to the candidacy of one of the two candidates for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Representative of the 19th District, implying that I support him."

"I do not support that candidate."

"I have been asked repeatedly by many of my friends in the 19th District who, in my opinion, is most qualified to be the Democratic nominee in 1968."

"I have given the matter a great deal of thought. I have analyzed the background, education and experience of the two men vying for the honor of the Democratic Congressional nomination in the 19th District and I have come to the conclusion that Gary R. Frink is undoubtedly the best qualified candidate."

Mardiros denied any link to the Farnum voter registration drive, or Mardiros' own registration drive.

"This again points out that Frink is an administration candidate, that he has very little grass roots support. He hasn't lived here for the past four years, and some of my supporters call him an 'imported candidate,'" Mardiros said.

Mardiros said he did not seek Farnum's or Lyndon Johnson's endorsement, and that he supported Eugene McCarthy. Mardiros said he had expected this move from Farnum.

directors will meet Thursday night to talk endorsements.

Robert Dwyer, chairman of the Wayne County segment of the district, declined to comment beyond acknowledging the pro-Friedrichs discussions.

Insiders said the race for the seat on the new 26-member board is narrowing down to Vallier and Friedrichs, as the Democratic nominees.

Vallier, a Ford Motor Co. employee and Plymouth City Commission member, has served on the county board for years.

Friedrichs, a top Livonia school administrator, is well known in community affairs.

"After having seen Vallier operate, some of us didn't want to get stuck with him on the new county board," said one second district Democrat.

The move came after Paul Y. Kadish, president of the Livonia Democratic Club, withdrew to devote his time to the congressional candidacy in the 19th district of Gary R. Frink.

"This run for the board would take away from my work on Frink's campaign," Kadish said.

"We'll let my personal political ambitions sit for awhile."

Others still in the race are Democrats Gerald K. O'Brien, James Carroll, James P. McCarthy, and Venson Foster, all of Livonia.

Republicans are Carl D. Pursell, Livonia City Councilman Edward Milligan; Henry Sladek, prominent Republican leader in the county; Hazel Jones and Livonia Constable Joseph C. Keane.

Earlier lines were being drawn on a Livonia-versus-Plymouth pattern. With the second district Democrats going toward Friedrichs, the picture is changing.

Sladek Seeks Local Link To County

Henry R. Sladek, candidate for County Supervisor, stated today that he would work to re-establish faith in county government.

"I see as absolutely necessary the need for regularly scheduled meetings between myself, as county supervisor, and local officials from Canton and Plymouth and Northville townships and cities of Plymouth, Livonia and Northville."

Sladek also said he would carefully look at the budget and priorities.

"To me approving expenditures that exceed the projected income is unsound. Increasing taxes is out of the question," Sladek added.

"I further recognize the new supervisors will be curious and anxious to look at pet problems all at once. For this reason I would press for identification and establishment of priority areas and to planning long-range goals as well."

Kuhn Raps Romney Veto Of Emergency Curfew Bill

State Senator George Kuhn opened a fight Monday to override Governor Romney's veto of a bill allowing local mayors to declare emergencies and curfews.

Kuhn fired off letters to mayors and township supervisors in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties asking for support for House Bill 3302, which allows emergency curfews and bans on the sale of liquor, gasoline, guns and ammunition.

Romney vetoed the bill, but Kuhn feels there is enough support in the House and Senate to bypass the governor.

"This is a preventative measure. Timing in the time of civil disorders is of the essence," Kuhn said. He added that the recent curfew when Martin Luther King was killed proved that quick action can prevent riots.

"I believe that local leaders have the best feel of any situation or crisis that might arise and can exercise better judgment than anyone in Lansing, or Washington," Kuhn said.

Kuhn also said that it was remarkable that "Romney's own man, John B. Martin, of the Crime Commission," had recommended the bill for approval.

KUHN said the bill was more important than the punitive measures that were passed for riot control. "This was the most humane and preventative measure that we did pass on this year. By its enforcement we can prevent confrontations on the streets, thereby saving lives, property and preventing fire bombing and looting."

The legislature will consider the matter July 23. The House voted 92-12 for the bill, the Senate 28-5.

Romney said he vetoed the bill for three reasons: first, he questioned the ability of

Campaigners

Plan 'Frink-In'

Since he announced his candidacy for United States Representative in April, Gary R. Frink of Pontiac has been asking 19th District voters to join the "Frink-In."

The 35-year-old attorney, a Democrat, has used the catchy term to characterize his campaign: a positive, personal involvement in the vital questions of America's future.

Now, backers of Gary Frink are "borrowing" the term as title for an all-day family event at Walled Lake Amusement Park.

The "Frink-In" will take place Saturday, July 13 from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Ford's Survey Shows Deep Division On War

Voters in the 15th Congressional district overwhelmingly oppose present policy in Vietnam—and a surprising 24 per cent call for escalation of the war.

That was among the key results of Congressman William Ford's recent survey of his district voters via written questionnaire.

Ford's district includes Westland, Garden City and Canton Township.

In addition to the 24 per cent who called for escalation, 21 per cent called for withdrawal, an alternative Ford will not consider now.

"THE PARIS Peace talks have opened since this poll was made, so any arguments about escalation or withdrawal are pointless at this time. Certainly no one would contend that the United States should either pull out of Vietnam or drastically expand the war while we are in the midst of peace negotiations," Ford said.

"The questionnaire results indicated widespread dissatisfaction with our Vietnam policy, but there was no consensus as to what alternative policy we should follow. I share with my constituents their concern over the situation in Vietnam, and join them in the hope that the Paris Peace talks may lead to a just and honorable end to the war," Ford said.

In other responses, 72 per cent, or over 10,000 of the 15,000 who responded, said they did not like present war policies.

"The response in this poll was the largest I've ever seen," Ford said. "More than 15,000 persons answered, and several thousand of these took the time to write letters or comments, expanding their views."

In other areas, nearly 9,700 people turned thumbs down on the surtax now already law. Ford voted "no" on this measure, explaining he wanted "other possible means of increasing Federal Government revenues" explored. He rapped tax loopholes that allow large corporations and wealthy persons "to escape paying a fair share of the tax burden."

Ford also opposed the $6 billion slash, which was passed without qualification. He called for the cuts in the subsidies to agriculture, the aircraft industry, and to special interests such as cotton, sugar and oil, "which go on at a disgracefully high cost to the taxpayer."

THE VOTES in the Ford poll were closer on other issues. Only 54 per cent said they favored stronger gun controls.

Fifty-eight per cent went along with Federal aid for local and state police salaries. The same voters split hairs on the next question, and voted 52 per cent against a similar program for firemen.

Reflecting the times, 19 per cent said they did not favor stronger laws and penalties for drug users.

The voters split 60-40 for travel tax to help the nation's balance-of-payments problem.

IN A FINAL question, those polled were asked to list top issues in their order of importance. The answers were not surprising: Vietnam, civil rights, crime, inflation, riots, balance-of-payments, disrespect for authority.

Ford indicated the response was the largest he had ever had in four years of polling. He returned pre-printed results of the poll to all voters in the area, but indicated he was unable to answer personally all letters.

Edison Service Bats Near 1,000

Using 1,000 as the perfect performance recording, as in baseball batting averages, the Detroit Edison Company's index of reliability, a measure of customer service reliability and total customer-hours involved for interruption cases, for 1967 was 0.99993740, up a fraction from the index of 0.99993590 achieved during 1966.

"Such constant effort to improve system performance, in spite of almost negligible room for improvement," prompted one company engineer to comment: "We can't get much better, but we keep trying."

Detroit Edison's annual performance and interruption report for 1967 was issued recently by George E. Greenwood, general superintendent of the company's electrical system department.

The report is the sixth annual report pertaining to system performance. It is a complete study, totally reviewed and evaluated on a day-to-day basis through each year.

THE REPORT INDICATED that there were 14 critical storms in 1967 in southeastern Michigan and that two of them were of great enough severity to be designated "H Day" (one not likely to occur during the course of any one year) by the overhead lines department.

According to the report, the average customer on the Edison system was interrupted only once in 3.33 years.

Lightning remained the major source of service interruption, but public interference, equipment failure, trees and winds ran in close order behind. Unknown causes also constituted a high percentage of the failures.

MEA Prexy Says Schools Improve With Negotiations

"We must continue to improve the education of Michigan children and strive for improvements in the teaching profession from within our own ranks."

This is the way Gene Duckworth, new president of the Michigan Education Association, explains his theme — "Educational Excellence and Professional Autonomy" — for the 1968-69 year.

The new MEA President feels that teacher-negotiations in Michigan are currently a most powerful tool for bringing about improvements in education.

O'Neil Renews Bid To Make Education Bd. Non-Partisan

State Board of Education member James O'Neil of Livonia is renewing earlier efforts to have state board members elected on a non-partisan ballot.

"We are the only school board in the state elected on a partisan basis," said O'Neil, "and a man's political views should have nothing to do with the education of our children."

He is advocating reorganization of Michigan's Department of Education and placing it on a non-political basis to better meet the critical needs of education.

O'Neil claimed the appointment of Dr. Ira Polley as Superintendent of Public Instruction was a political appointment and politicizing under Polley's leadership still exists on the board.

O'NEIL'S DRIVE follows in the wake of a controversy involving himself and Polley which was prompted by Polley's criticism of O'Neil for improper use of board of education stationery.

O'Neil used the letterhead for a letter on violence which was critical of President Johnson. Polley, contending the official stationery should not be used for personal views of board members, chastized O'Neil for his actions.

O'Neil countered by charging Polley with lack of organization in planning, poor administration, and loss of key personnel. He prepared a list of questions and forwarded them to Polley asking him to supply answers at a future board meeting.

At a subsequent meeting, the board of education gave Polley a vote of confidence which raised O'Neil's ire since the confidence vote was taken before Polley answered the charges.

"This raises the question of whether we have a board of control or a controlled board," O'Neil told the Observer.

A REPLY to the charges of inadequacy may be made at tonight's (July 10) board meeting, according to O'Neil.

O'Neil expressed disappointment that the charges would be aired at a public session of the board. He said he felt matters involving personnel should be handled at an executive session.

Matters expected to appear before board members tonight are the appointment of a Planning and Research Bureau Chief and approval of minutes. O'Neil explained the former chief had resigned six months ago and

Novak Hits Budget

State Board of Education President Edwin Novak said Tuesday that the approximate $4.5 million increase in the 1968-69 legislative appropriation for the Michigan Department of Education "represents almost no improvement over last year in relation to the needs of education."

The legislature last week approved a department budget of $24.2 million, compared to about $19.6 million last year.

added the board is six months behind on approving minutes of previous meetings. He said he just got in the mail a collection of minutes dating back five months.

He viewed these agenda items as signs of progress which he hoped would continue.

A spokesman for Dr. Polley told the Observer Monday that both Dr. Polley and Dr. Edwin Novak, president of the board, will answer the O'Neil charges at the meeting.

Some $29.9 million was requested for the fiscal year which began Monday.

"This request was a realistic one, based on what we see as fantastic needs," Novak said. "I realize the great problems here of rising costs, the upward climb of state expenditures and the continual apparent resistance of much of the public to agree to more government expenditures."

Community Loses In Resignation Of Planner Katz

Westland lost its municipal planning director, Eugene M. Katz, last week and the entire community is the loser.

Although formally citing the economic advancement in private enterprise as his main reason for leaving the position he has held since October, 1966, the real reasons may well have been the actions of hundreds of citizens, and the lack of action by a few public officials, at the height of the controversy involving the city's new master plan and zoning map last March and April.

At the three public hearings on the issues, each attended by 200 to 300 persons, Katz bore the burden of outlining the master plan and zoning map and answering the questions, prompted in many cases by bitter property owners who were personally affected by the zoning changes.

With rare exceptions, the question and answer periods were brutal and the spilling over of private animosity was obvious to anyone in the audience.

But most of the opposition concerned the impact of new and past apartment projects in the city, which were developed under a 1963 master plan and zoning map adopted three years before Katz stepped foot in Westland.

HE PATIENTLY explained that the proposed zoning map drafted by his office would increase the land area for apartments but with new regulations would actually reduce the maximum number of apartment units in the city, which was the point opposed by private citizens.

But with the exception of support of the master plan and zoning map by the local newspapers, not one word of support was issued publicly by the city's administration until the evening the City Council formally adopted the zoning map by a unanimous vote.

Without such support, the opposition voiced by citizens, and an organized group formed solely to oppose the new master plan and zoning map, took on added volume and meaning in the ears of those citizens who may have been undecided about the issue.

Although it was completely unjustified and unfair for Katz to assume the full burden of criticism at the public hearings, it may well have been an important factor in his looking around for new opportunities.

The fact that it was outside of municipal government made that obvious, although the financial aspect was part of the problem, too.

It was evident from the day that Katz came to Westland, he would never get the salary he obviously deserved as the most capable and, maybe, hardest working administrator in City Hall.

IT'S EASY to cite the money issue as the main reason for the planner's departure but some people are willing to sacrifice a few dollars for the satisfaction of gaining full support in the carrying out of their duties.

But when the support, from private and/or public citizens, is not forthcoming, then The Observer doesn't blame Katz for getting out of city government.

We will miss him and the Westland community of 80,000 persons will be the eventual losers.

THIS IS THE WEEK THAT... by DON HOENSHILL

Somebody's got to start making sense out of the court-made rules on information about crime and the privilege of the people to know what the heck's going on.

Right now everybody's confused.

The United States Supreme Court and others of lesser peerage have imposed rules on information to protect the rights of the accused. If rights were being trampled, it's quite proper.

Except that the rules are being made up on the spot, right off the top of some policeman's head, or by the whim of a prosecutor.

IT'S DIFFICULT these days for a reporter to ask a question concerning a crime and—having gotten the answer—it's even more frustrating to decide whether to print it.

In short, every responsible reporter wants to follow the rules in letter and in spirit, but he's got to know what they are.

Circuit Judge William J. Beer transferred the manslaughter trial of Farmington Dr. Ronald Clark to Ingham county on the plea that pre-trial publicity had prejudiced a fair trial.

The information used by the metropolitan papers involved was put together from public documents and from statements of public officials. Beer's move then admitted a public mistake.

Now comes the tragic murder of Joan Schell, an Eastern Michigan University coed from Plymouth. One Ann Arbor policeman lets loose every possible detail.

Another refuses.

INFORMATION that was broadcast last Friday night on Detroit television is still held back on Monday from the Ann Arbor News and the Observer Newspapers.

How come?

"I've had too much bad public reaction," said the Ann Arbor lieutenant in charge of the case.

Newspapers these days don't want to try a murder case on the front page.

And figure a policeman without guidelines. He's got to protect the prisoner, collect information for the prosecutor—and protect himself and his department.

But there's nobody to tell him how far he can go in letting the public have information.

TIME WAS when a reporter could stand outside the open door of an interrogation room and listen to a confession. In other cases, the text of a confession was made public. Jail cell interviews were common.

Maybe there should be some restraint to protect the suspect from harassment. And maybe there should be a clearer definition on both sides as to what newspapers and policemen are trying to do.

In any case, the people in charge of investigations should be given guidelines—and not necessarily from the bar association.

At this point, the whole business is a mess.

OBSERVATION POINT Gun Laws: Burning Issue

By Philip Power
Three matters of fact:
1) Among all the carnivores, man and the rat are the only species that kill their fellows;
2) There are more guns privately owned in America (estimates range from 50 million up to 200 million) than in any other country in the world;

3) In 1967 more than 6,500 Americans were murdered with guns; and from 1900 to 1966, guns were involved in 795,000 deaths of Americans, more than have been killed in all our wars.

In a time when assassination of politicians appears to have become nearly a national way of life, when suburban housewives are attending gun schools, and when sales of hand guns are at the highest level in history, it only seems appropriate to consider the implications of these facts.

DESPITE THE OUTRAGED screams of the National Rifle Association to the contrary, evidence keeps piling up that there is a clear relationship between unrestricted availability of guns and their use to murder or maim. J. Edgar Hoover says so. Detroit, Police Commissioner Ray Girardin says so. Most of the criminologists and sociologists who have studied the problem say so.

The U.S. with its lax gun laws has a gun murder rate of 2.7 per 100,000 population, compared to .03 in the Netherlands, .04 in Japan, .05 in England and Wales, .12 in West Germany, .26 in Belgium and .52 in Canada. All of these countries have strict but reasonable systems of controlling the sale and possession of firearms.

It only makes common sense to reason that if someone is off his rocker and has a gun, he will tend to use that gun for violent purposes to a greater extent than if he didn't have the gun to start with.

NOW THE NRA keeps claiming that it isn't guns that kill, but rather the people who pull the trigger.

This is an impeccable argument, except that it is entirely off the point.

What the NRA has done is to confuse arguments about the responsibility for a crime with arguments about the causes of a crime.

To say that people and not guns are responsible for crime is quite correct; we put people in jail when they murder others, but we don't do anything with the gun.

But it doesn't follow to argue that because people are responsible for murders with guns, nothing should be done about the mass and uncontrolled possession of guns, which is the factor clearly involved with the causes of crime. Mass possession of guns does cause gun murders, just as mass possession of unsafe automobiles does cause auto accidents.

RECENTLY, THE CONGRESS passed the first piece of gun-control legislation in 30 years. The bill makes it illegal for a person to buy a handgun in a state other than his own, either by mail order or directly over the counter. In addition, the bill prohibits felons, mental incompetents and veterans who have received less than honorable discharges from possessing any kind of firearms at all.

Judged, however, against the gun-control standards in other countries, this legislation is glaringly weak.

It does nothing about interstate mail order sales of long guns, precisely the type of gun which killed President Kennedy. It does nothing to set up a registration system for guns, which would be enormously valuable in tracing down the ownership of weapons used in crimes. It does nothing to set up sensible criteria for people to own guns.

WHAT, IN FACT, is needed is a program to provide some means of keeping guns out of the hands of those who are most likely to use them to maim or kill other people, while insuring those with a legitimate purpose the right to continue to own and use firearms.

Legislation has been proposed, both by President Johnson and Senator Tydings of Maryland, which includes:

• A ban on all interstate mail order sales of all firearms, both hand guns and long guns;

• A law requiring every gun to be registered;

• A law requiring every gun owner to be licensed, with convicted felons, the mentally ill, narcotics addicts, alcoholics and aliens being ineligible for a license.

If you agree that the problem is severe, and if you believe—along with 80 per cent of the population, according to the latest polls—that more effective gun legislation is needed, write your Senators or Congressmen.

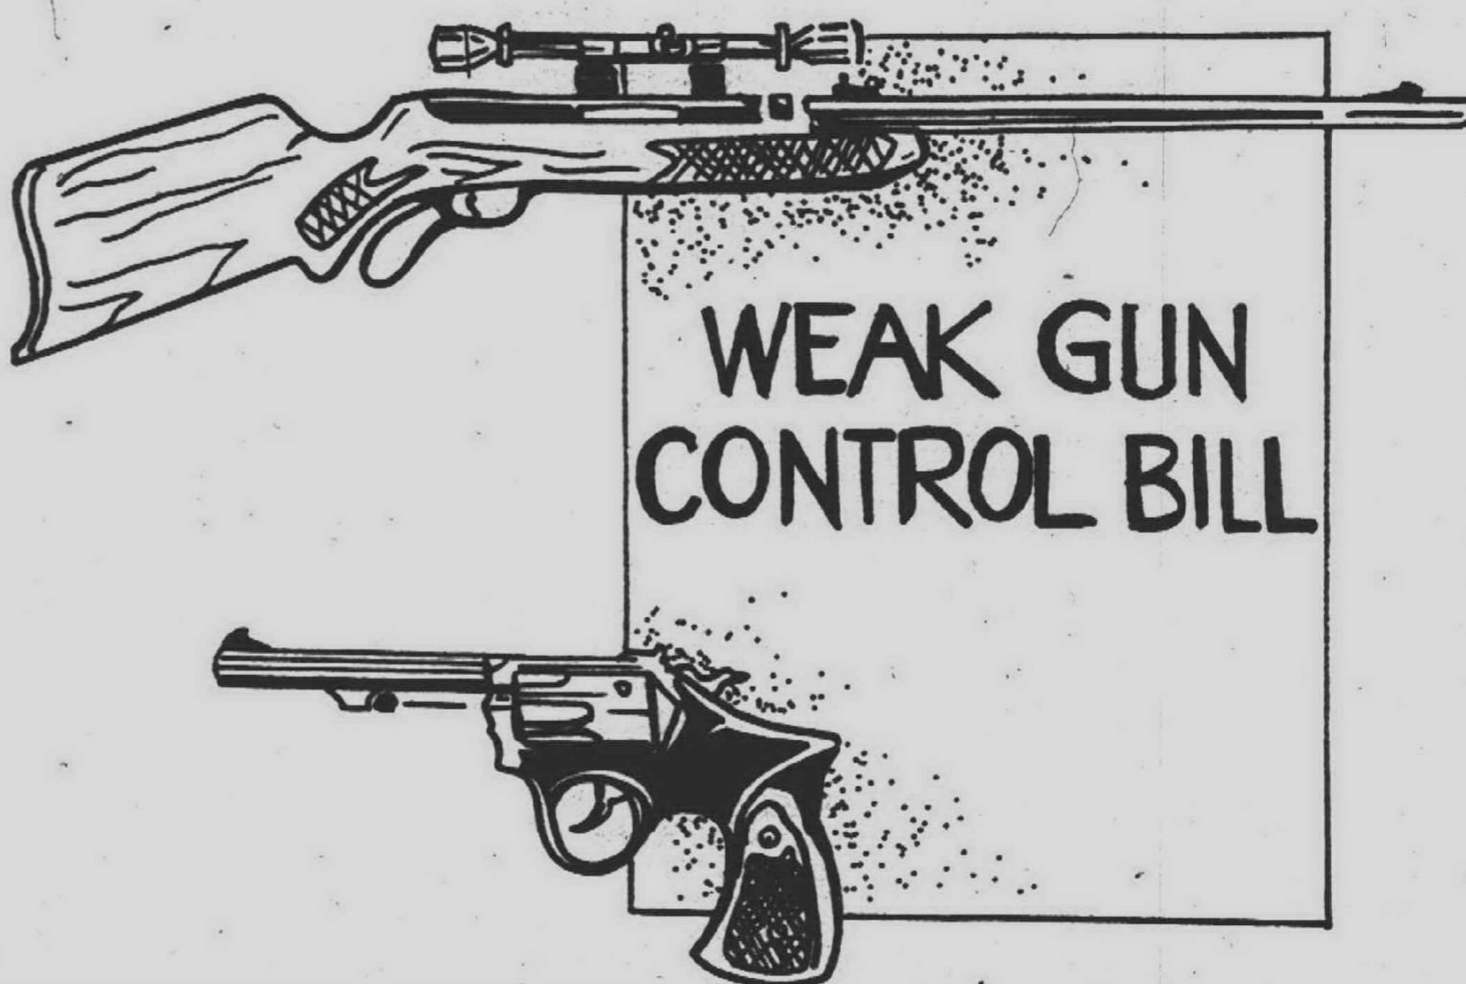

Michigan's Senators are Hon. Philip A. Hart and Hon. Robert Griffin, who both have offices in the Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.

People living in Livonia, Farmington, and Redford Township should write their Congressman, Hon. Jack McDonald, c/o House Office Building, Washington, D.C. Hon. William D. Ford, at the same address, represents Westland and Garden City in Congress, and Plymouth residents should write Hon. Marvin Esh.

If it saves just one life, isn't it worth it?

(Personal Note: I used to be a member of the NRA, and I used to think quite differently on this issue than I do now. What changed my mind? Just the facts.)

APATHY IS ALSO A DEADLY WEAPON.

Data Backs Control Measures

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following set of questions and answers about gun control legislation was prepared by the Citizens Action Committee for Stronger Gun Control Laws, a bi-partisan committee working in the field.)

Citizens Action Committee for Stronger Gun Control Laws. Answers to some commonly asked questions about gun controls.

Q. Isn't the licensing and registration of guns just a means of taking our guns away from us?

A. There is nothing in either the Tydings Bill or the President's proposals that could be used to take guns away from legitimate gun owners and users. The aim of those proposals is to provide a reasonable system for monitoring the dissemination who would use them to maim or kill other human beings.

Q. Don't these proposed Laws violate the second amendment to the constitution which gives American citizen's the right to bear arms?

A. The Second Amendment to the Constitution does not guarantee to the individual citizen the unrestricted right to bear arms. Those who would mislead people only quote part of the Second Amendment when they talk about this right. The whole amendment reads "A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." The Supreme Court of the United States has on several occasions ruled that this amendment was only designed to guarantee the states the right to keep an armed militia, not to guarantee to individual citizens the right to bear arms.

Q. Why not just put limits on hand guns and leave the long guns which hunters use alone?

A. From 20 to 30 per cent of the gun murders in this country are committed with long guns. The lives that are taken with that kind of gun are just as important to the loved ones of the victims as are the lives of those taken with hand guns.

Q. Won't gun control laws just take the guns out of the hands of law abiding citizens, while the criminals continue to get them on the black market or through other illegal means, thus leaving law abiding citizens defenseless against armed criminals?

A. First the statistics indicate that about 80 per cent of the gun homicides are committed by so-called law abiding citizens, that is people with no previous criminal record. These are often crimes of passion or impulse, in many cases committed by people who could not get a license because of narcotics addiction, alcoholism or mental illness. In addition, in those cases where such an individual might have the impulse but not the weapon, the screening procedure involved might well provide enough of a cooling off period to let the impulse die before the person could get a gun.

Certainly it is true that these laws will not disarm all criminals, but neither will they disarm law abiding citizens who believe they should have a gun to protect themselves. These laws will give the police an additional tool to use against potential criminals, since carrying an unregistered gun, or carrying a gun without a license will be a felony.

Q. Aren't there alternatives to these proposals which would be equally or more effective, such as providing harsher penalties for crimes in which a gun is used?

A. Such alternative proposals are not as effective for one simple reason: They would go into effect only after the fact, after some innocent person is murdered. The idea behind putting reasonable controls on the dissemination of guns is to keep the crime from ever happening.

Q. Why do the advocates of such controls wish them to be enacted at the federal level? Why not leave it up to each state so that the laws can be tailored to meet local conditions?

A. The experience in this country clearly shows that the gun manufacturer's lobby is so effective in many state legislatures, that those states are highly unlikely to pass strong gun control laws. Unless every state has a tough law, the laws of all other states are weakened, and criminals will simply go into weak states to purchase their weapons. A study conducted over an eight year period in Massachusetts shows that in that state where there are strong gun control laws, 87 per cent of the guns confiscated from criminals by police had been purchased in nearby states with weak gun laws. Q. Isn't the reason that congress hasn't passed a gun control bill before now is that most people oppose it?

A. No. All the major public opinion polls taken in recent years indicate that more than 80 per cent of the population and more than 50 per cent of the gun owners favor stronger gun control laws. The main reason laws have not been passed previously is because of the efforts of a small but highly organized gun lobby whose main interest appears to be protecting the interests of gun manufacturers and sellers. This lobby, headed by the leadership of the National Rifle Association has misled legitimate sportsmen into believing that these laws would disarm them.

Q. Isn't the current drive for gun control laws just a hysterical reaction to the slayings of Sen. Robert Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King.

A. The campaign for strong, reasonable gun control laws has been going on for several years, long before the recent tragic assassinations. Certainly these assassinations have dramatized to the American people the deadly capabilities of guns when they are in the wrong hands. They have also brought home to the American people the feelings of senseless loss felt by the families and friends of the 6,500 people who are murdered with guns in this country each year.

No one contends that every murder, or any particular murder would have been prevented if these proposals had been in effect. What the comparative statistics clearly show is that the total number of gun murders would be lower. One should note that neither of the two men accused in the assassinations of Senator Kennedy and Dr. King could have legally obtained the weapon he allegedly used had these proposals been in effect.

Merriman Widening Faces Plan Change

A change of plans by the Wayne County Road Commission on the widening and paving of Merriman Road between Plymouth and Schoolcraft has prompted Mayor Harvey W. Moelke to ask for a conference "to talk things over again."

The changes were discovered by the mayor when the county submitted the contract for city signatures. Moelke said "there may be some legal obstacles we can't do anything about, but the revised plans are not pleasing to me."

He referred to the pipeline laid by the Buckeye Oil Co. of Ohio, which is authorized under permit from the Interstate Commerce Commission and over which the state and county and city have no jurisdiction.

"WE BOUGHT that right-of-way and now it may be we can't use the 20-foot easement, which isn't fair to the taxpayers," the mayor said. He speculated that the line is an obstacle to the original plans. But Moelke said the county wants to limit the Merriman mile to five lanes, including a center turn lane, and eliminate the flareouts and the acceleration and deceleration lanes. This, he said, would cause a traffic jam in the vicinity of the Allied project, where big trucks must turn in.

The road commission wants two lanes north, two south and a center lane. The mayor declared that doing away with the side drives would cause trucks to back up traffic, leaving only one lane for moving vehicles.

THERE ARE SOME THINGS the county engineers may not have taken into consideration and he wants a change to explain them before work starts, Moelke said.

Moelke wants two lanes north, two south, the center turn lane, the side drives and the flareouts included in the contract. He believes the city should have a voice in the final plans, since Livonia will pay 40 per cent of the cost while the commission will pay 60 per cent. He has asked Walter (Pat) Meyers, of Livonia, the county's new chief engineer, to set up another meeting soon, so he can take City Engineer William Strasser, director of Public Works Robert A. Shaw and City Attorney Steve Polgar to the session. The Merriman mile is to be paved this year to carry detour traffic from Farmington road, which will be paved between Plymouth and Schoolcraft next year when a railroad grade separation is completed.

Retiring Board Head Cites Needs

Mrs. Strelsa Schreiber, president, has retired from the Livonia Board of Education after seven years of service, for personal reasons.

She stepped aside voluntarily, because months each year must be spent away in the future due to her husband's health. She still retains her interest in the city that has been her home.

The Livonia Observer, interested in the district's school progress and problems, invited Mrs. Schreiber to prepare a statement, reviewing the development and needs of the system for the benefit of our readers who are parents and taxpayers, teachers and pupils.

The statement:

"After having been so closely aligned with the Livonia Public Schools for seven years, I have been trying to look at the system from a detached point of view. Shed of my personal involvement and with the approach of a private citizen again, I have asked: 'What is the state of public education in Livonia? Where do the schools go from here?'

Applying my own criteria of standards that I consider pertinent, the answer to the first question appears to be 'Good.' Weighing these same standards and assuming them to be basic to continuing development, the answer to the second question is 'undoubtedly dependent upon MORE MONEY IS NEEDED.'

Without question, Livonia has a good school system. But good schools, like a good marriage, are often taken for granted.

Both need to be constantly nurtured or they will be lost or deteriorate. Having good schools at present is no guarantee that they will continue to be so regarded without foresight and care.

What makes a good school system? The criteria against which educational quality is measured usually include curriculum, facilities, staff and community support.

On curriculum, Livonia schools attempt to meet individual pupil needs, to educate all kinds of children, helping each to reach his potential. The special education offerings here are excellent; unfortunately, not as much attention is given to the gifted child.

The classroom sizes are average, not as high as many, nor as low as a few. Parent-teacher conferences are provided for and a good home-school relationship is encouraged.

Instruction is provided in both the traditional manner as well as in accordance with modern trends involving educational innovations taking place throughout the country. Pilot programs are encouraged, reviewed, evaluated and adopted only when they have successfully met the tests given them. More than one-half of the graduates go on to additional education institutions. Those who go to college find, for the most part, that they were well-prepared. Unfortunately, we do not do as well in vocational preparation for some fields; in others, we have a fine cooperative training program.

A check of facilities reveals that school sites have been purchased wisely in anticipation of growth and prudently in price. School buildings are modern, but not deluxe. Older buildings have been renovated to bring them up to date. Our building plans have been exhibited all over the country as models, and in the past five years we have been visited by more than 500 school districts whose representatives have examined our facilities.

We duplicate many of our schools, using the same plans. Franklin and Stevenson High Schools, and Frost, Holmes, Lowell, and Bryant Junior High Schools are examples of duplicate schools. The old bugaboo of two or three-story buildings has reared its head occasionally, but in Livonia, where land is comparatively inexpensive and boards of education have bought wisely, and in consideration of newly required changes in the State Fire Codes, one-story schools are less expensive to build. The central office staff has the backup information to substantiate this claim.

The staffing of Livonia schools is superb—all the way down the line. Teacher and administrative applicants come to us not only from the many adjacent colleges, but from many parts of the country. We have the advantages of new, young talent, yet we are balanced with the finest of experienced instructors. Our people are sought by other districts, other institutions, and private industry. Unfortunately, we lose some of them very much to keep.

Our administrative staff is comprised of established educational leaders. It is the same with the non-certificated employees, all of whom regard their roles as necessary parts of a total team.

Any appraisal of a school system must include community support, because the regard of the community demonstrates best the real quality of the schools. Livonia has repeatedly indicated this primary interest by consistently electing the finest type of citizens to its Board of Education. The high caliber of these trustees sets the initial quality of the entire system. Their make-up, their philosophy, their attitude, their commitment are all reflected by the kinds of policies they adopt for the operation of the schools.

They have insisted on top-notch administrators to implement these policies. Good leadership is so hard to find today in all fields, but Livonia residents have shown their concern and supported their interest in good schools by their actions at the polls, whether it be in the selection of school board members or in the endorsement of millage and bond issue proposals.

Now, this interest and concern will have to be tested again some time in the future, because a continuation of this good school system, adherence to these same criteria and standards, will depend on more money. It seems to me that we are again at the crossroads in terms of financial resources for public education. The city is still growing, with only 60 per cent of the area settled. People are still moving into Livonia, most of them with children to be educated. These new residents say that the strongest factor to attract them is the Livonia public schools. While the new pupil enrollment is not as high as it has been in the past, it is still substantially large and these new children, as well as those already here, must be educated.

The job cannot be done with present resources, in my opinion. Livonia board members and administrators alike have been working with state legislators on additional financing for public schools, and while some added revenue has been appropriated, it is still not enough. The State Legislature has been studying the financing question and will probably change the method at some future date. I would point out, however, that if the state assumes responsibility for the bulk of school financing, there is always the possibility that it may also assume greater control.

While the number of students in Livonia schools continues to increase, so, too, does the cost of education. By law, the boards of education must negotiate with its employees on salaries and conditions of employment. I firmly believe that Livonia, as a community, wants its schools to be competitive, which means that its employees must be paid on a competitive scale. However, I just as strongly believe that the school employees are realistic enough to recognize the financial situation as it now exists.

As a private citizen again, I would urge all other private citizens to continue their concern for our schools, support their board of education, question them on points of interest or concern and get the facts, ask your school principal "What can I do?", be active in your PTA and protect your investment in the children of our community. They're our finest natural and human resource for now and for the future.

Schmidt Criticizes Aid Formula For Colleges

Some community colleges, including Schoolcraft, may be shortchanged by the current state aid practices, according to Rep. Louis Schmidt, Republican of the 35th District.

"Four year colleges receive over twice as much per pupil in the smaller state colleges, and over four times as much in the larger universities," Schmidt said, in a speech on the floor of the House of Representatives in Lansing.

Schmidt contends that there are a number of factors not being considered when the state makes its appropriations for state aid to education.

His comments came in the wake of a change in the higher education appropriation which revised certain practices in financing new colleges.

SCHMIDT explains that in the past it has been the practice of the state to provide 50 per cent of the operating costs in order for a new college to get started. The bill, as amended, extended the coverage to all schools organized after January, 1962. The original bill was 1965.

Either way, Schoolcraft, which organized before 1962, was left with about 35 per cent state aid for operational funds, rather than 50.

Schoolcraft College President Dr. Eric Bradner agrees: "I'd like to think we are as good as any community college in the state. We have a great need as any college in the state."

Bradner explained the method of financing community colleges was formulated to help districts with either low total valuation or a small student body.

Schmidt said he would work next year for a different formula, one that took into consideration valuation, type of program, area to be serviced and the ability of the area to support a community college.

Schmidt said he would take the matter up with the legislature when it reconvenes in late July.

"The state must meet the problem closer to the people in the community colleges where the costs are not so great to all, including students and parents."

"IF WE do not provide more adequately for the community college on a formula basis we will continue to have our first two years of four-year colleges serving many who could well be served by community colleges in general education and terminal course areas."

Schmidt maintains that better formulas for community colleges will result in a savings for the state.

Schmidt said he did not want to undermine state colleges, but allow them to place more emphasis on junior and senior years, as well as graduate schools.

The state pays about $600 per student for the first two years of a four-year college program. Community colleges get about $400.

Schmidt voted no on the bill for colleges, but did not oppose most of the measure—just the part governing community colleges.

Pheasant Population Down 35%

"Down but not out" described Lower Michigan's pheasant breeding populations this spring, reports the Conservation Department.

Results of the department's recent ringneck "crowing" counts indicate that pheasant numbers are about 35 per cent below a year ago.

Victor S. Janson, the department's pheasant specialist, explains that the birds' generally lower population this spring is due to their poor hatch last spring.

He adds: "We expected the birds' breeding population to be well below 1967 because of last spring's reduced nesting success. This spring's population level pretty much matches up with the 40-per cent decline in the 1967 pheasant crop."

Although pheasant numbers are decidedly down this spring, game men are still hopeful that the birds' populations will be closer to the 1967 mark by this fall. Everything rides now with the birds' nesting season, which, on the average, produces at least 75 per cent of the targets available to pheasant hunters each fall.

Mothers May Earn Degrees

Madonna College, Livonia, is offering a distinctive "back-to-school" program for women interested in obtaining a college degree.

As an experimental college venture for adults, the program offers the prospective student a selection of evening courses in World Civilization, theology, and philosophy.

If the student maintains a satisfactory average in two of these courses, she is eligible to matriculate and register for the regular curriculum leading to a bachelor's degree, either on a part-time or full-time basis. This course of study is designed to give the student a meaningful and stimulating start on her college work.

"In this way Madonna College hopes to develop the untapped resources of those women whose earlier college careers were either interrupted or prevented for one reason or another," stated Sister Mary Danatha, college president.

ONE SUCH STUDENT with a "back-to-school" career that is well on its way to being a success story is Mrs. Doris Roney of Livonia, mother of 10, who will start her junior year at Madonna this fall. Mrs. Roney who plans to teach English on the secondary level cites her college venture as a "wonderful experience."

Having started college after her youngest child began school, Mrs. Roney is enthusiastic about encouraging other women to follow her example. "I enjoyed all the classes," she said. "I think I am getting more out of college at the present time because I feel differently about things now than

Tigers Go West With Flag Hopes High

The Tigers are away from their home operations this week, starting a westward swing in Minnesota Thursday night. But things will be humming at the corner of Trumbull and Michigan Avenues.

In the upstairs general offices of the Tigers, various members of management will start to make preliminary preparations for hosting the World Series in October.

There's the matter of setting up ticket sales, housing, programs, etc.

The Tiger brass went through all of that last year, only to see their work go for naught on the final day of the regular season when Boston won and Detroit lost and the Sox emerged the American League champs by a single game.

This is another year, of course, and the Tigers (players) apparently are determined to make certain that they don't flout another chance and that their office associates don't waste time going through procedures which won't be put to use.

AS THE MAJORS paused this week for the All-Star break, the Tigers had opened what appears an almost "safe" lead—9 1/2 games over the second place Cleveland Indians.

The Tigers found themselves with a record of 55 victories against 28 defeats, compared to Cleveland's 47-39 mark.

The Tigers relaxed for a few days with victories in seven of their last eight games.... 12 in their last 14.

They had won 10 more games than a comparable time last season when the Tigers stood in third place, 2 1/2 games behind.

"Call this a very determined team," said Watson Spoelstra, veteran Detroit News sports writer after Willie Horton clouted a ninth-inning homer Sunday to beat Oakland, 5-4 and give Denny McLain his 16th victory of the season against only two defeats—tops in the majors this season.

The Tigers then struggled in the nightcap, but won it, 7-5, although Livonia's Joe Sparrma continued to have his troubles and was knocked from the scene in the fifth inning.

The first-game victory marked the 24th time this season the Tigers have won after being tied or trailing in the seventh inning or later.

In 17 games, they've won in their final time at bat. Since May 18 they have dropped only five one-run games.

"This shows what kind of a determined team these Tigers are," Spoelstra added. "They simply refused to toss in the towel."

Meantime, the Tiger crowds keep mounting as interest in the team gets hotter by the hour. The indications are that the Tigers will hit the million mark a week from Sunday when they engage Baltimore in a doubleheader at Tiger Stadium.

THE WEEKEND series again proved that the Tigers don't rely on one player's bat, or one pitcher's arm.

In the Friday conquest over Oakland, 8-5, Bill Freehan socked a pair of three-run homers to turn the tide.

When Mickey Lolich started to stagger in the sixth inning, Pat Dobson came to his rescue and turned in another masterful job of relief work.

The Tigers had a five-game winning streak snapped by Oakland Saturday when the A's jumped on Earl Wilson early and came out a 4-1 victory, thanks to some fine pitching by Chuck Dobson, no relation to Pat.

Then on Sunday, the Tigers staked McLain to a 4-0 lead with a triple by Jim Northrup and a homer by Dick McAuliffe the big blow.

SUDDENLY McLAIN fell apart, just when some sensed he might be going to pitch a no-hitter. Two homers cut the lead to a run, then a single and triple tied it.

That's the way matters stood until the bottom of the ninth inning as Lew Krausse matched McLain with some neat pitching. But with one out in the Tiger ninth, Oakland manager Bob Kennedy pulled out Krausse and figured he'd rather have Ed Sprague, a sinker-ball pitcher, work to Horton.

Horton took one pitch, then swung at the next. His 21st homer ended the game in a jiffy and the usually cool McLain jumped from the dugout, pounding everybody in sight.

In the second game, the Tigers built a 7-2 lead with a homer and single by Al Kaline leading the way.

BUT SPARMA couldn't hold on to the big edge and it finally took a surprise appearance by Lolich as a reliever in the ninth inning to put out the fire and give Detroit the series, four games to three.

The Tigers now have won 15 of the 18 series with rival clubs this season.

They'll return to work with single games at Minnesota Thursday and Friday evening and Saturday afternoon. All the contests will be televised on Channel 2.

Then the Tigers visit California and Oakland before returning home on July 19 against Baltimore.

GC West Defeats Plymouth In Mayor's Tourney Finals

Hall to Garden City-West, the 1968 champs in the Mayor's Invitational baseball tournament.

West scored four times in the seventh inning to squeeze past the Plymouth Elks, 7-6, in the championship game at Ford Field Sunday night.

The Garden City team had trailed, 4-3, coming to bat in the seventh.

After its big explosion, West had to hang on to gain the triumph when the Elks scored twice and had two men on base when the final out was made.

A rule, limiting how many innings a pitcher can work in the tourney, forced both teams to remove their starters for the seventh inning.

JIM FURAY had worked effectively for West, while Larry Wasalaski appeared to have a victory in the bag.

In the seventh, West's Al Poland opened with a single, Chuck Evans doubled and Craig Sylvester was hit by a pitch. Furay followed with a triple and Jerry LaCross slammed a double.

Back came Plymouth when Lee Walter and Bob Kellman walked along with Jeff Mooney to load the sacks. An error permitted two runs to come across. Then Pat Cunningham walked before a fly out ended the game.

Each side scored three times in the first inning. Evans tripled, Pat McHugh singled and Sylvester doubled for West.

A walk to Cunningham, singles by Wasalaski and Walter SAFE AT HOME is Craig Sylvester, of Garden City, as he scores in the championship game of the Mayor's Tournament at Ford Field in Livonia. Plymouth Catcher Dale Rumberg awaits the relay from the infield while an unidentified batter scampers for first base. The umpire just watched as Sylvester tallied.

What Else?

Umps Beat Pilots

The umpires played the managers Sunday in Livonia.

All are connected with the Little League program and they used Little Leaguers to umpire the game.

Who won?

The ump, naturally.

Hockey Group Meets July 21

The Michigan Amateur Hockey Association will hold its annual meeting at the Caber-fae Lodge in Cadillac, Mich., on July 21 at 10 a.m.

Rain Makes One Wonder Who's First In Class 'A'

It takes a magician to figure out the schedule in the Greater Livonia Class A baseball league.

Because of the havoc played during the spring and summer by the weather, teams have been involved in first round, second round and third round games during the same week.

The way the schedule reads, the teams should be well along in the third portion of play. But on Sunday, Redford finally wrapped up the first round with a 10-6 victory which merely cemented Redford's championship record at nine conquests and one loss.

One of these days, Redford, Livonia and Dearborn Heights will get around to finishing their still undecided (as far as the title is concerned) second-round chase.

And at the same time, play goes merrily along in the third round with still a fourth on the docket shortly.

--Rick Krumm, Larry Salci and Rick Berryman. They combined to strike out 20 batters. Each worked three innings. Krumm in that period whiffed seven, Salci got five on strikes and Berryman eight.

In between strike outs, the Redford pitchers were combed fairly hard and fortunately their own mates slugged the ball well, too.

Terry Rothwell doubled for the first run for Redford, then knocked in two more in the third when Tim Fisher singled in another to make it 4-0. Plymouth rebounded for two runs on singles by Brian Gilles and Pete Lomonaco and a double by Peter Woodward. Then Sam Lamerato doubled in one Redford run in the fourth and Salci singled in a pair in the fifth.

A SINGLE by Larry Wells chased in two Plymouth runs in the sixth and Plymouth came within a run of a tie in the seventh when singles by Prochaska, Woodward and Lomonaco produced two more runs.

But Redford locked it up against Woodward, who went the route, in the seventh when Lamerato singled in Dick Johnson and Gary Schaefer followed with a double to blast over Lamerato and Robby Masson.

REDFORD ZOOMED along to a 9-2 victory Monday over a Westland team on the short side, manpower speaking, because of players on the injured list, in the Army and unable to be present because of work.

Tom Tanner picked up the victory although Chuck Viane came in to finish for Redford, now 4-0, in the third round of the "A" competition.

Redford jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Lamerato and Woloch, a triple by Gary Schaefer and a single by Tim Fisher.

Mike Schaefer's single and four walks added two more runs in the second. Three more came around in the fourth on a double by Bob Green, a single by Schaefer, a double by Tanner and a single by Lamerato. In the sixth Viane singled in Masson with the final run.

Westland scored in the fourth when Tom Piscapink tripled and tallied on a bad throw and in the seventh when Ron Leonard singled and came around on two errors.

The league has lost one member with the announcement that Garden City had disbanded because of a series of problems. Thus five clubs remain to finish out the campaign.

DRC Slates Rich '68 Stakes Events

To mark its 20th season, the Detroit Race Course has scheduled the $15,000 Anniversary Handicap, but the highlight of the 84-day thoroughbred meet opening Monday, July 29, will be the $100,000-added Michigan "Mile."

As usual, the "Mile" heads the roster of rich stakes announced by Howard Battle, director of racing and racing secretary.

The richest horse race in Michigan, it will be run on Saturday, Sept. 14, at the midpoint of what promises to be the finest meet ever sponsored by the DRC.

Altogether, the 1968 stakes program consists of 21 stakes worth from $12,500 to $100,000 in added money. This is cash put up by the Racing Association and added to the fees paid by horsemen to make their horses eligible for the big races.

THREE NEW EVENTS appear on the racing schedule this year. Besides the Anniversary Handicap, on Saturday, Aug. 17, there will be the $12,500 Tomboy Stakes for two-year-old fillies on Sept. 12 and the $15,000 Hi-Weight Handicap on Oct. 19. For the second straight year the Michigan "Mile" will have a companion race in the Milette for fillies and mares. It will be run at the same distance—1 1/8 miles—and it carries a purse of $30,000, second largest on the program.

Battle already has begun scouting for horses for the Michigan "Mile" and the other stakes. His prime targets for the "Mile" are the handicap leaders Damascus, Dr. Fager and In Reality, all of whom have been lightly campaigned so far this year and are likely candidates for the DRC headliner.

OF THE 21 STAKES to be offered, four are limited to Michigan-bred. The richest is the $20,000-added Michigan Futurity for two-year-olds on Friday, Sept. 27.

There will be at least one stake every weekend of the 14-week race meet and occasionally here will be two.

In addition, the $12,500 Curtains Up Handicap will feature the opening Monday and the $25,000 Labor Day Handicap will be on the holiday, Sept. 2.

The complete stakes program:

Monday, July 29 — Curtains Up Handicap, $12,500, 3-year-olds, 6 furlongs.

Saturday, Aug. 3 — Bully Boy Handicap, $15,000, 3-year-olds and up, 6 furlongs.

Saturday, Aug. 10 — Good Neighbor Handicap, $12,500, 3-year-old fillies, 6 furlongs.

Saturday, Aug. 17 — Anniversary Handicap, $15,000, 3-year-olds and up, mile and 70 yards.

Saturday, Aug. 24 — Rose Leaves Handicap, $15,000, 3-year-olds and up, fillies and mares, mile and 70 yards.

Saturday, Aug. 31 — Michigan Mile Trial, $20,000, 3-year-olds and up, 1 1/16 miles.

Monday, Sept. 2 — Labor Day Handicap, $25,000, 3-year-olds, 1 1/16 miles.

Saturday, Sept. 7 — Sweet Patootie, $15,000, 3-year-old fillies, mile and 70 yards.

Thursday, Sept. 12 — Tomboy Stakes, $12,500, 2-year-old fillies, 6 furlongs.

Saturday, Sept. 14 — Michigan "Mile," $100,000, 3-year-olds and up, 1 1/8 miles.

Saturday, Sept. 21 — Beau Prince Handicap, $15,000, 3-year-olds, 1 1/16 miles.

Saturday, Sept. 28 — Milette, $30,000, 3-year-olds and up, fillies and mares, 1 1/8 miles.

Saturday, Oct. 5 — Frontier Handicap, $15,000, 3-year-olds and up, 1 1/16 miles.

Saturday, Oct. 12 — Graduation Stakes, $20,000, 2-year-olds, mile and 70 yards.

Saturday, Oct. 19 — Hi-Weight Handicap, $15,000, 3-year-olds and up, 6 furlongs.

Saturday, Oct. 26 — Fancy Flyer Handicap, $15,000, 3-year-olds and up, 1 1/16 miles.

MICHIGANBRED STAKES

Friday, Aug. 30 — Gold Note Handicap, $12,500, 3-year-olds, mile and 70 yards.

ELECTRICITY—
YOUR BEST WAY TO LIVE BETTER

An electric unit costs less to buy primarily because it's simpler in design and manufacture. There are about 16 essential sub-assemblies in an electric air conditioner as compared to 34 in a flame-type cooler.

An electric air conditioner costs less to install. It's lighter in weight; less complicated. The outdoor condenser for a flame-type cooler is much bulkier and heavier than the condenser for an electric air conditioner.

An electric air conditioner costs less to operate.

A flame-type air conditioner uses both gas and electricity so there are two charges for energy.

Split Gained By Redford In Twin Bill

Redford's Free Press League baseball team split a Saturday doubleheader with Mt. Pleasant. Mt. Pleasant won the opener, 2-0, despite Vic Pilar's seven-hit hurling for Redford.

The losers were held to two hits—singles by Pilar and Bob Holmes.

In the nightcap, Tom Fleszar overcame wildness to hurl a three-hitter in beating Mt. Pleasant, 9-1. He fanned seven and walked six.

Marty Ingessoulian led the winners with three hits, three RBIs and two runs. Redford scored three times in the fourth and six in the sixth when Ingessoulian's two-run single was the big belt.

MUHAMMAD ALI, or Cassius Clay, has asked the Supreme Court to toss out his conviction for refusing to answer the country's call to serve in the army via the draft.

Clay, or Ali, contends: "This case should be viewed in the context of our history—a history of racial segregation in the armed forces." He called the "illy-white Selective Service system" unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court probably won't decide for sometime whether it will hear the case.

MISCHA MISCHAKOFF, Detroit Symphony concertmaster, will be heard in the Mendelssohn violin concerto with the Court Orchestra.

Second Schoolcraft Concert Features Mischakoff Violin

Violinist Mischa Mischakoff will perform the Mendelssohn violin concerto in E minor Wednesday, July 10, in the second program of the Schoolcraft Concert Summer Music Festival.

The concert will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the courtyard between the wings of the Forum building on the college campus on Haggerty Rd. between Six and Seven Mile Roads. Tickets are $1.50 at the door. There are no reserved seats.

DIRECTOR Wayne Dunlap will conduct the orchestra in Franz Schubert's Symphony No. 2 in B-flat major; Francis Poulenc's "Two Marches and Interlude" (1937) and "Sextet for Piano and Woodwind Quintet" (1932), second and third movements.

Schubert and Poulenc, a pair of lyric composers who lived a century apart, are featured in this, the second series of outdoor concerts offered by the college.

The Mendelssohn concerto, universally ranked as one of the half-dozen greatest works for violin and orchestra, has melodic qualities that place it at home with the works of Schubert and Poulenc.

The display of violinistic fireworks in the third movement make the Mendelssohn concerto highly popular with musical beginners and sophisticated alike.

MISCHA MISCHAKOFF, the soloist, has been concertmaster of the Detroit Symphony since it was reorganized under Paul Paray in the early 1950s. Now 70, Mischakoff is due to retire this year.

A short, cheerful little man, Mischakoff has chosen to make his career as a first-chair orchestra member although he is an accomplished soloist.

Before coming to Detroit, he was the late Arturo Toscanini's "third arm" as concertmaster of the NBC Symphony. Mischakoff has been concertmaster of a number of other orchestras during his long career in the U.S.

Because he has worked with so many conductors, Mischakoff has adapted his playing style to the man he was working under, and so he never developed an individualized style in the manner, say, Heifetz or Stern.

Nevertheless, his credentials as a soloist are extensive, and he has performed in that capacity throughout the U.S.

Andre Kostelanetz will take over the Meadow Brook Festival concerts featuring the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Thursday, Friday, Saturday at 8:30 P.M., and next Sunday at 7:30 P.M. in Oakland University's Baldwin Pavilion.

On Thursday and Friday, July 11-12, his soloist will be pianist Eugene List playing the Poulenc Concerto on a program which will include Mozart's Overture to "The Abduction from the Seraglio," Haydn's Symphony No. 88 in G Major, Turina's "La oracion del torero," Milhaud's "Le Boeuf sur le toit," and Berlioz's Overture "The Roman Carnival."

On Saturday and Sunday, July 13-14, Kostelanetz will have as his soloist, the Metropolitan Opera soprano Judith Raskin. Miss Raskin will be heard in Benjamin Britten's Song Cycle "Les Illuminations," also by Britten, and Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5 in E minor.

The festival grounds open two hours before each performance for picnics and buffet service.

UP' GOING 'CURTAIN'

By Wally Roberts

An old friend in the theatrical guise of Teyve, the hard-working Dairyman, returned on July 2 for a short two-week visit at the Fisher Theater with his friends and neighbors from Anatavka.

"Fiddler On The Roof" began its smash hit career at the Fisher more than four years ago. Zero Mostel played the lovable Teyve. The New York Drama Critics Circle Award went to "Fiddler" for the best musical of 1964.

WHEN SEEN originally "Fiddler" had an over-long second act and a great amount of extraneous plot material. Director Jerome Robbins eventually snipped all that material out and tightened the show up. While the second act is not the greatest ever seen in a musical, it does move along and satisfy.

"Fiddler" is still a good first act musical. The music is melodious and the dancing is of the foot-stomping variety. The rousing village tavern scene and the wedding provide two occasions for some show-stopping male choreography. With the strong emphasis on the male members of the community doing all the "Buck and winging," "Fiddler" at times reminds one of "Ilya Darling" with its Greek men pounding their heels.

How does "Fiddler" hold up without Zero Mostel? If I remember correctly, it was due mainly to Mr. Mostel's artistry that I gave "Fiddler" the nod for smash hit status.

Paul Lipson, formerly an understudy, does the role currently in this bus-truck company at the Fisher. He does an adequate job. His singing voice is weak; consequently, the orchestra blares out whenever it can to cover this defect. Mr. Lipson's conversations with God lack the tenderness and technique employed by Mr. Mostel.

However, "Fiddler" retains its greatness even with minor stars fleshing out the roles.

THE OPENING number "Tradition" still is an exciting bit of music, dancing, and colorful stage spectacle. "Fiddler" gets off to a great start with such a number. Wisely it is repeated in modified form in the second act.

Teyve's problems are universal and the audience's identity with them makes this musical's message quite pertinent. Throughout man's struggle to find his place on this earth he has worried about the breakdown of traditional forms of cultural beliefs and the hostility of forces that disintegrate his society.

In the obscure Russian village of Anatavka of "Fiddler," the Czar and his pogroms threatened the peaceful existence of Teyve's dairy customers.

His family life was disturbed by the errant arrows of Cupid. In the old world, the matter of love and marriage was an arranged affair via the village matchmaker. Teyve's three daughters discover husbands via "love - at - first - sight" route.

"FIDDLER On The Roof" touches the hearts of the audience in happy fashion with the first two marriages. Musically, Jerry Bock and Sheldon Harnick, literally have their village folk burst forth into glorious music and dancing on these occasions.

The last marriage is outside the religion. Truly, too tough an event for Teyve to swallow. His refusal to talk to his daughter drips with sentimentality and hovers dangerously close to melodrama. But the musical only stops momentarily here and then speeds magnificently to an up-tempo finish.

"Fiddler" is a musical tribute to man's search for survival in a cruel, capricious world. See it by all means.

UM Opens Sunday

In Ugo Betti's "The Burnt Flower - Bed," the University of Michigan Players will make a psychological study of political assassinations and suicides, a very timely theme in this year of political upheaval.

Set for production, Wednesday through Sunday, July 10-14, at 8 p.m., in Lydia Mendelssohn Theatre, the play was scheduled before the assassinations, according to Prof. William Halstead of the speech department, who is directing it.

"No attempt is being made to force analogies," Halstead points out. "But several of the incidents, and a great many speeches, take on increased meaning for actor and audience in the light of the recent murders."

Tickets Wednesday through Sunday, July 10-14, 12:30-8 p.m. All seats are reserved; no telephone orders are accepted.

U. Of D. Repertory Theatre Moves Under Biology Roof

The Biology Lecture Arena turns into the Ford Theatre at the University of Detroit July 11 through 28.

That's when the University of Detroit's Eighth Repertory Theatre Festival occupies its new air-conditioned home.

new air-conditioned home.

"IT'S BEEN a long road starting under the stars and ending with the opening of 'The Fantasticks,' a mini-musical directed by Dominic Missini.

(Missini directed the same play during last year's summer theatre workshop at Farmington's Mercy High School.)

The U. of D. Summer Festival was born out-of-doors in the heart of the campus with a production of "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Though it only rained out one performance the then-director Richard Burgwin said the uncertainty was too much strain to put on any director and cast, so the next year the festival moved under a tent.

Tents are nice, but the winds still blow, and the rain rains, and the trucks roar down Livernols at the most poignant scenes.

One performance--an opening night--featured a storm so severe the actors were almost totally inaudible for most of the last act. The company printed up the last act and mailed it to the first nighters the next day so the audience could see how it ended.

Two years ago the festival moved into the U. of D. Memorial Building, but the intimacy was gone; lost somewhere in the 8,500 seats of the building, no matter how they were concealed.

THIS YEAR Director James Rodgers scouted the campus for a new site. He had about given up when Frank Johnson, physical plant coordinator, said: "Why not the new Life Sciences Bldg.?"

"I look at the main arena," Rodgers recalled. "The capacity is just right, it's air-conditioned, the roof structure is fine for hanging drapes and lights and the removal of the first row of seats allowed for an adequate stage."

So was born the Ford Theatre of the new University of Detroit Life Sciences Bldg.

In addition to "The Fantasticks," a second play, Jean Anouilh's "Thieves' Carnival" will be performed, joining the repertory Thursday, July 18. Both shows are comedies, but more weighty in their humor than what is often thought of as "light, fluffy summer fare."

A MEMBER of the cast is Ernest Wendt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Wendt of Plymouth. A member of the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild, he has been cast as Hucklebee.

Wendt appeared in the same role in the Theatre Guild's production of "The Fantasticks" during the spring.

According to Rodgers the cast is sort of All-American, with students and teachers representing seven different schools.

U. of D. Theatre regularly draws on the community, in addition to its own students and alumni, for its productions.

"We feel it's important to the student cast to associate with more mature actors, as well as those from other schools," Rodgers explains. "It broadens their outlook, and makes for a better show."

Court Theatre To Open

The Oakland Community College-Court Theatre will open its Summer Theatre Series with productions of "In White America" on Friday, July 12, and Saturday, July 13, and two one-act plays, "The Private Ear-The Public Eye," on Sunday, July 14.

Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 7:30 on Sunday.

The productions will be staged in the Ferndale High School auditorium, 881 Pinecrest, Ferndale.

"In White America" is a documentary recounting what it has been like to be a Negro in this country and received wide critical acclaim when it appeared off-Broadway in 1964.

"The Private Ear-The Public Eye," written by the noted British playwright Peter Shaffer, author of the award-winning Broadway production "The Royal Hunt of the Sun," are accounts of a poignant, ill-starred romance and a rollicking comedy of an accountant who hires a private detective when he suspects his wife of infidelity, respectively.

Reserved seats are $2 and general admission $1.

AMUSEMENTS

KIDS, KIDS—Ernest C. Wendt of 11372 Cedar Lane, Plymouth, adopts a sometimes philosophical attitude about the younger generation as Hucklebee in the University of Detroit summer production of "The Fantasticks." Wendt appeared in the same role in last spring's Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild production of the musical.

Schedules Annual Day

The 16th annual Children's Day will be held at Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens on Saturday, July 20.

The day's program will begin with the selection of a prince and princess and two runners-up to serve as members of the court from among entrants aged two through five.

There is no charge for Children's Day Events, except the usual 50-cent parking fee.

State Events Varied

Golombki and chicken, Danish smorgasbord, cherries, strawberries, blueberries and the largest coffee break in the world are just a few of the tasty delicacies featured in the Michigan Calendar of Events for July.

The calendar, compiled and published by the Michigan Tourist Council, lists some 75 special events and festivals to be held in Michigan during the month. The fun-packed celebrations include a variety of events ranging from International Days at Saint Joe, Marie, early in July, to the Traverse City Antique Show, July 31.

A tourist with the time and inclination could spend each day in July attending a special occasion or festival in Michigan, according to the council. At the end of the month he would have been exposed to some mighty fancy eating, an abundance of culture, viewing more queens than can be found at a royal wedding, singing, dancing and a variety of action-packed fun.

Fishermen are offered challenging contests at the National Trout-Arama at Baldwin, July 25-27, The Steam Rodeo, Hastings, July 26-28, hosts travelers who thrill to the sound and smell of steam engines and implements.

The largest coffee break in the world is listed as one of the features of the Alpine Festival at Gaylord, July 17-20. Golombki, a Polish dish made of ground beef and rice in a cabbage leaf, is served at the St. Nicholas Festival at Pellston, July 21.

Beauty is in evidence on the Michigan scene also. According to the events calendar, many queens will be chosen at numerous beauty pageants throughout the state, and more than 11 art and flower shows are listed.

Free copies of the calendar and other Michigan vacation planning information can be obtained by writing the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing, Michigan, 48926.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

GETTING TOUGH SEEDS TO SPROUT? Readers asked me why it is that their radish, carrot, beet and other seed "never did a thing" after it was sowed in the ground. Don't blame it on the seedman because chances are he sold you good seed. He wouldn't stay in business long if he sold bad seed. Then why didn't the seed sprout?

I'll list several reasons:
(1) Deep sowing. Some seed has small pushing up power, and it rots before it can germinate.
(2) Drying out. If seed starts to sprout, then dries out, it may die before it can push through the soil.

(3) Hard, clay soil on top of seed. Rains or irrigation water may cause soil to pack or cake, making it difficult for seed to penetrate. Covering with peat-moss, rotted compost or other organic material will prevent this. Covering "difficult" seed with a board after sowing is a good trick. It prevents drying out, prevents soil from caking and hastens germination.

(4) Over-treated seed. Some home gardeners treat seed in hot water, kerosene, and various chemicals. These may reduce the viability of the seed and cause poor germination.

ITALIAN EGGPLANT RECIPE: Here's a good one to keep in mind, if you like eggplant. Peel and slice one large eggplant. Cover with water, bring to a boil and drain. Dip slices in bread crumbs, arrange alternately with spaghetti sauce, in casserole. Cover with Mozzarella cheese slices and bake in moderate oven until eggplant is tender, and cheese is melted.

More people must "discover" eggplant! Properly cooked, it's one of the best vegetables you can put on your table.

FREE: Send me a self-addressed stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, "How To Grow and Cook Eggplant." My guide is packed full of recipes sent me by French, Lebanese, Italian and American cooks. You should have a copy.

PETUNIAS AGAIN: If petunias have turned yellow, it may be due to too much water, poor drainage or fertilizer burn. A pale color could mean a lack of nitrogen, but do not apply it if you've already fed the plants heavily. Holes in leaves means small injury. Scatter some metaldehyde baits near the base of the plants.

Use Raw Potato

To remove that unsightly brown film from vases, place a few pieces of finely chopped raw potato in the vase. Add half a cup of vinegar and shake well. Wash with warm soapy water. Rinse well and dry.

The flowers of evening primrose are like distilled drops of golden sunshine. These cheerful plants and their close relatives, the sundrops, are brightening many area gardens. The wild evening primrose, which is a common weed in local meadows, has flowers which open in the evening, but many of the garden varieties bloom in the daytime.

One of the showiest of the evening primroses is the variety known botanically as Oenothera fruticosa variety Yongel. It is a strong, bushy plant with attractive glossy foliage and bright lemon yellow flowers on sturdy two foot stems.

A profusion of flowers are born from June through August. This day-blooming evening primrose will flower freely in light shade as well as in full sun.

The variety O. glauca Fraseri and the Tetragonia hybrids are covered during the summer with trusses of buttercup flowers. Adding to the charm of the plants are the glossy bright green leaves, reddish stems, and red buds. The flowers open in the daytime.

THE MISSOURI PRIMROSE is a choice plant for the rock garden. It grows about a foot high and has immense yellow flowers which open in the evening. The smallest of the evening primroses is O. perennis which grows only four inches tall. In addition to the evening primroses with sunny yellow flowers, there are some varieties with white or yellow flowers. O. speciosa has white flowers on two foot plants all summer. The variety named rosea has pretty pink flowers. The evening primroses and sundrops are easy to grow. They will thrive in any ordinary garden soil in a sunny situation.

Golden Sunshine

Night Primrose Flourish In Sunny Locations

Good drainage is important because they do not grow well in soil that is too moist. They require no special attention and add large masses of bright color to the garden all summer long.

Try them for a big "splash" for little effort. Because they grow so well in light, hot, dry soil they are the perfect plant for a sunny vacation cabin.

Garden's For Pleasure, Let Weeds Grow

LONDON -- The latest gardening writer on the scene has a healthy attitude towards weeds which may catch on. He says let them grow.

It isn't an approach that brings him in line with other gardening writers, but Geoffrey Gilbert believes a garden should be a lovesome, lazy thing. His first book on the subject, "The Lazy Gardener's Guide," was published in Britain by Hamish Hamilton, and evidence of the lazy approach was soon forthcoming. He hadn't checked the Latin names of the plants and in only chapter about 25 of them were wrong.

"I hated Latin at school," he says. "But what a rotten thing to do, to write and tell the publisher." The badly-spelled plants were still quite recognizable. You can grow a badly-spelled plant just as well as a correctly-spelled one.

GILBERT is an untended man in his 50s and lives in a crumbling stucco house scheduled for demolition. The weeds sprouting happily between the paving stones up to the front door further attest to his laziness, but his garden at the back is a charming pocket of winding paths, duck-weed-choked pools; towering lime, beech, and willow; climbing roses, lilac, and huge, hairy heracium. A botanist, says Gilbert, should be able to identify at least 500 plants, including the rare varieties.

He has been a photographer for many years, and once marketed his own design of a box camera. He has written books on photography, and traveled widely and curiously.

He nearly lost his life when he went off alone for a year to Tibet. "It was like stepping back a thousand years in time. It was a philosophic journey, to find out what life must have been like in the middle ages. But I got malaria and amoebic dysentery simultaneously, and lay for two months in a room over a pigsty wondering if I'd ever get out." He was too weak to eat proper foods, but started to pull through after swallowing raw eggs.

LONG EATER
A young robin, newly hatched, will eat an average of 14 inches of worm per day.

OFF FOR ADVENTURE—Mark Elliott, who earned his way to Camp Ohiesya by selling candy, pauses in the doorway of the bus taking him away for two weeks of fun. From the left, the other boys are Kurt Wagner, Chuck DeLair and Ken Alexander.

Youngster Turns Mints Into 'Mint' For 'Y' Camp

Eleven year old Mark Elliott, 34644 Nine Mile Rd., Farmington, left Monday, July 8, to spend two weeks at the YMCA's Camp Ohiesya near Holly.

What's so newsworthy in a boy going to camp, you ask. Mark is different because he earned his entire camp fee himself.

THE SON OF Mr. and Mrs. Horace Elliott, Mark sold a total of 250 boxes of mints to earn his $83 camp cost. He even earned the cost of a YMCA membership.

The YMCA has had this earning program for a number of years, but very few young boys manage to swing the entire cost of their camping experience.

Mark began his door-to-door sales campaign the day of the big snow in January and reached his goal in April.

And he didn't unload his wares on his family. His mother bought just three of his boxes.

ASKED ABOUT his brand of successful salesmanship, Mark says he gave householders his name, offered them a sample of the candy and explained his purpose in selling the candy. He doesn't seem to have used the "hard sell" approach.

A sixth grader at Gill School next fall, the star salesman doesn't know what he's looking forward to most at camp—the swimming, the canoes, the two-day overnight hike, the riflery or the archery. He guesses he'll "like it all."

DAVE COMFORT, executive director of the Farmington Area YMCA, agrees that Mark will like it all, but Comfort goes further:

"Camping provides a young boy with a small group experience with his peers in the out-of-doors under the trained supervision and guidance of a college age counselor."

Comfort continues, "It provides FUN in capital letters, but more—it provides a new experience which will enhance his growth and development in an environment that is totally removed from the home experience. It helps a young boy to grow and mature."

MARK'S MOTHER agrees with Comfort that this camping experience will mean a lot in her son's character development.

As for Mark, he couldn't care beans about character development—he just knows he's going to have FUN.

Area Congressmen Favor Gun Control Laws

All three local congressmen favor some type of gun control, but differ on various specific proposals.

Rep. Jack McDonald, 19th District, which includes Livonia and Redford, last week introduced a six-bill package aimed at crime, closely linked to any gun control.

McDonald voted for a recent handgun bill restraining interstate sale of handguns, passed by the House as part of a crime control package.

McDonald said Robert Kennedy's death prompted many letters for gun control, but now many more favor no controls. Congressman Marvin Esch, Second District (Plymouth) claims the same kind of switch in mail opinions in his office.

The President this week boldly moved to have all guns in the United States registered—a move sure to provoke lengthy debate on Capitol Hill.

ALSO pending is his plan to ban interstate mail order sale and shipment of firearms, including rifles, shotguns and ammunition. Congressman William Ford, of the 15th District (Garden City - Westland and Canton) said:

"I am somewhat doubtful as to the value of this plan, primarily because of the difficulties in enforcement. I do, however, feel that the nation needs some type of federal firearms registration. This, in no way, would inconvenience sportsmen and others who own guns for a legitimate purpose, but it would make it easier for law enforcement agencies to crack down on the criminal use of firearms."

McDonald also calls for enforcement of current laws.

All three congressmen agree some type of legislation is needed. Any proposal will require careful study because there are strong feelings on numerous sides, they say.

On one hand, powerful gun lobbies demand legislation against criminals, not guns. On the other, citizens have been demanding controls in the wake of the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Some lawmakers have switched sides in the fight, others have labeled the uproar "mass hysteria."

THREE PLANS now are top on the list:

• Johnson's plan to register every gun.

• Johnson's plan to prohibit all mail order sales of guns and ammunition.

• A bill by Senator Joseph D. Tydings to register all guns and license all gun owners—but gives the state the chance to do it first.

Given top chance is the first plan, because it would add to the ban on mail order pistols passed in the anti-crime bill.

The President's licensing and registration measure would require all privately owned firearms be registered and all gun owners licensed. If a firearm owner could not meet licensing requirements, his guns would be purchased by the U.S. Treasury at a "reasonable" price. No ammunition could be purchased unless the buyer presented to the seller a registration certificate for the particular gun in which it would be used. If, within two years, a state imposes equally restrictive laws, federal regulations would expire. If not, the state would lose its share of federal wildlife conservation funds.

Top Ballot Spot Ruled Unconstitutional In Court

DETROIT -- The State Court of Appeals has ruled unconstitutional two new laws which would have put the names of incumbent office holders at the tops of ballot lists in the August 6 primary.

In a 2-1 decision, the court ruled that putting an incumbent's name at the top of the ballot gives him a ballot designation which the state constitution forbids.

Wayne County Clerk Edward Branigan said the county usually allows six and a half weeks to print its primary ballots but has not started yet because of other court cases involving the supervisor and district court races. "We may end up working 24 hours a day," he said.

SALINE -- Harry A. Thill of Saline, commander of the Ann Arbor area Coast Guard Auxiliary, found himself in urgent need of Coast Guard assistance when his 27-foot inboard blew up and burned to the waterline on the Detroit River. Thill, alone in the boat, leaped overboard and swam to a nearby island where he was picked up by the Coast Guard.

GRAND RAPIDS -- After 18 months of controversy over the price of air rights for a proposed multimillion dollar auditorium-motel-restaurant complex along the Grand River, the Saladin Temple Shrine has notified city officials they are no longer interested in pursuing the project.

The city had proposed charging $185,000 for air rights plus $4 a square foot for ground level parking lost to supporting columns for the development.

STATE AND LOCAL ROUNDUP

LANESING -- Governor Romney has allowed a bill to become law without his signature that authorizes the State Conservation Department to condemn land so it can be used by companies mining low-grade ore in stopping water pollution.

The bill requires purchase of at least 75 per cent of the needed and by the mining company and a showing that the additional land is necessary for developing water supply areas, settling ponds and basins to prevent water pollution.

Public or private lands within a city or village are excluded from the act.

DETROIT -- Detroit's newly enacted "stop and frisk" ordinance has received support from an unlikely source, the Michigan Human Rights Council.

The Rev. Raymond Shoulders, executive director of the council, urges Mayor Cavanagh to sign the ordinance despite objections it might be used against the black community. Shoulders said the average Negro would cooperate with the measure which gives police the authority to stop persons they believe are carrying weapons or about to commit a felony and search them.

MUSKEGON -- The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have ratified a new contract ending an 11-month strike against the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co.

The strike, one of the longest in recent years in the Muskegon area, idled 350 workers since last August 15. The workers will receive a $1.11 per hour wage and fringe benefits package over the 45-month life of the contract.

ALBION -- The State Tenure Commission late this month is expected to consider what is believed to be the first major test of the 1964 Teacher Tenure law.

The issue involves the mass layoff of some 30 teachers at Albion public schools because of a financial crisis in the district. Thirteen of the teachers are under tenure and the others are probationary instructors.

Dismissals of teachers with tenure in the past have generally involved questions of competence or infraction of school regulations. The Michigan Education Association challenges the layoffs of all of the 30 teachers because they were not given statutory notice of 60 days before the end of the school year that they were to be laid off.

LANESING -- Twenty-four persons were killed in traffic accidents in Michigan during the long Fourth of July holiday weekend, a drop of nearly 30 per cent from last year.

In addition, eight persons drowned in Michigan during the same period.

LANESING -- Every 1968 model car Oldsmobile builds represents a new production record for the firm, Harold N. Metzger, general manager and a vice president of General Motors, has reported.

"On June 28, we had completed assembly of 595,321 Oldsmobiles in this model year, which surpassed the previous record set in the entire 1965 model year, when 592,804 cars were built," he said.

The 1969 model production will start next month.

FLINT -- About 2,500 general city employees, garbage collectors and hospital workers have gone on strike against the city of Flint and Hurley Hospital, which the city owns.

The strike followed a breakdown in contract talks.

HOLT -- A veteran skydiver died when he missed his target by 300 yards and plunged into a water-filled quarry pit at an Independence Day celebration.

The victim, Ron Shafley, 31, of Haslett, was pulled from the water within five minutes after landing but could not be revived.

Shafley made the 7,500-foot death jump as his wife watched from the spectators' area at the Holt Fireman's Association Fourth of July outing.

LANESING -- Miss Anne F. Nozowski of Lanesing has been named acting director of research for the Michigan Republican State Central Committee by State Chairman Elly M. Peterson.

Miss Nozowski, 22, a former Dearborn public school teacher, succeeds William S. Ballenger who resigned to run for State Representative from the 87th District.

LANESING -- Signed into law is a bill providing for 30 to 120-day impoundment of cars owned by persons arrested for driving with a suspended or revoked license.

In addition, the driver faces a mandatory three-day jail sentence and possible loss of his license plates. The guilty driver must pay all costs for impounding of the vehicle.

If the car is not claimed within 30 days after the end of the impoundment period, the vehicle will be considered "abandoned" and sold. He must continue payments on the car even though it has been auctioned off.

YPSILANTI -- Robert F. Thomson, former urban renewal director for Ypsilanti, has been ordered by Circuit Court to pay $232.50 fine and costs and $1,925 restitution to the city for fraudulently obtaining signatures on a contract for sale of city real estate.

Washtenaw County Circuit Court Judge William F. Alger also sentenced Thomson to five years probation.

ELECTRICITY -- YOUR BEST WAY TO LIVE BETTER

An electric unit costs less to buy primarily because it's simpler in design and manufacture. There are about 16 essential sub-assemblies in an electric air conditioner as compared to 34 in a flame-type cooler.

An electric air conditioner costs less to install. It's lighter in weight; less complicated. The outdoor condenser for a flame-type cooler is much bulkier and heavier than the condenser for an electric air conditioner.

An electric air conditioner costs less to operate.

A flame-type air conditioner uses both gas and electricity so there are two charges for energy.

SCIENCE WINNERS ON TOUR — Three Livonia winners in the Michigan Cancer Foundation summer scholarship program toured the Detroit Cancer Center last week as an opener in their summer studies. Viewing a new electronic microscope used to study blood cells of leukemic mice are, from left, Arthur Curtis, Nancy Kushigian, Sandra Kay Gierman, and Willis Bloxson, instructor at Emerson Junior High.

Four Win Grants In Science

Four Livonia science students are beginning work on an eight-week summer scholarship program on grants from the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

The study project will be conducted in several laboratories in the Metropolitan Detroit area for some 50 students chosen by the Foundation.

They met with other winners June 24 in the Cancer Center in Detroit for the yearly orientation program.

Following the morning program the students were taken on a tour of the Michigan Cancer Foundation facilities. Other sites of interest included in the orientation program are the Wayne State University school of medicine's medical library and its occupational and environmental health laboratories, and the Parke-Davis and Ford Motor Co. scientific laboratories.

The annual summer science scholarship program is part of the Michigan Cancer Foundation's career-incentive program to encourage young people to consider the advantages of future medical and scientific careers.

Institute Will Explore White America's Ethics

"Racism and Violence: White Dilemmas" the Second Annual Institute in Ethics and Moral Theology, runs July 15, through 26 at the University of Detroit.

"The Institute," according to Father Donald Brezine, S.J., director, "seeks to understand what can be learned of the basic moral and ethical character, values, goals, principles, and problems of white America. It rejects a crisis management approach to militant reaction, as well as to black radicalism or nihilism."

"Most of the participants and speakers in the institute are white. What can be learned of these people by looking at their racism and their violence?"

"We part company with the still dominant tendency of researchers toward studying black people. This strong inclination of white researchers to study black people is based on at least two factors:

"First, the far greater researchability of blacks than of whites, based on the blacks' inability until recently to resist being researched."

"Second, the white assumption that the problems of racism and violence exist primarily in the black people."

"We disagree. White people can be researched in their religions, literature, laws, ethics, liturgies, and other expressions. The very method of basic moral reflection renders whites every bit as researchable as blacks."

"Further, the assumption that the problem exists primarily in other people—whatever its degree of accuracy for other types of research—"

Bible College

Enrollment 79

Detroit Bible College's current summer session has the second highest enrollment since 1959, according to final figures released by Robert F. Ramey, registrar.

Ramey said 79 students are attending summer session classes which began June 25. In 1959, the enrollment figure stood at 103, with a record set in 1966, when 115 students registered.

Regarding fall registration, Ramey announced that July 15 has been designated as the "penalty date" for new students intending to enroll. After that date, the college will charge a $5 late application fee. No student applicant will be accepted after the final deadline date of Aug. 15.

Fall classes are to begin at DBC on Sept. 11. Registration dates are scheduled for Sept. 9-10.

Sister Ellen Mary Sugrue, a French teacher at Our Lady of Mercy High School, Farmington, is attending the University of Michigan Institute of French Literature and Culture in Sèvres and Cahors, France.

The institute, which is being held in cooperation with the U.S. Office of Education and the Centre Pédagogique International de Sèvres, will continue through Aug. 20.

Orthodox Churches Set Festival

The Eastern Orthodox Churches of Greater Detroit will hold their 11th annual Eastern Orthodox Festival, Sunday, July 21, at the Michigan State Fair Grounds.

James Sophia, general chairman for the 1968 all-day affair, said a minimum of 10,000 people from 25 churches are expected to be on hand for the festivities.

Traditionally, the annual festival features international foods, music, dancing and customs of the various nationality groups which participate in Orthodox. Among those represented will be Albanian, Greek, Bulgarian, Ukrainian, Macedonian, Russian, Romanian, Serbian and Syrian.

Activities will begin at noon. Fair-goers will be able to choose the many exotic national foods and dishes, which include a wide range of pastries. Singing groups and roving musicians will help add the continental touch. For children, there will be rides and games.

The combined group of Orthodox parishioners will celebrate a Vesper Service at 5 p.m. at the fair grounds band shelter, with robed choirs singing the responses.

Various dance groups and acts, complete with colorful native costumes, will be featured in an "International Show." Later there will be American ballroom dancing for everyone.

The festival is open to the public. Admission is one dollar for adults—a donation to the Wayne State University Religious Fund. Admission for juniors, age 10-18, is 50 cents; children under 10 are admitted free.

Sound Of Music Coming To Churches

Two churches in this area will entertain The Harmonies from John Brown University in a program titled "The New Sound of Music" this weekend.

The student musicians, whose school is located at Siloam Springs, Ark., will appear at 8 p.m. Friday, July 12, in the Southfield Community Church, 2122 Indian, Southfield, and in the Covenant Community Church, 25800 Student, Redford Township, at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 14.

The Harmonies are made up of 11 members, both fellows and girls, who will combine in mixed quartets, trios, duets, and solos. The program will be varied by the addition of instrumental numbers and testimonies.

The group is on an extensive tour covering cities in Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia, Washington, D.C., Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Missouri. This tour will last through the middle of August.

John Brown University is an interdenominational Christian college, accredited by the North Central Association and offering instruction in many fields. Each student receives training in general education, religion, and his own major field.

Elizabeth First To Grant Degree

The College of Saint Elizabeth, near Morristown, N.J., was the first Catholic college in the United States to grant degrees to women. It is conducted by the Sisters of Charity.

Bible College Names Dr. Johnston Director

The appointment of Dr. Wendell G. Johnston as president of Bible College is announced by Dr. M. C. Patterson, Chairman of the Board of Directors. For the past four years Dr. Johnston has been academic dean at Washington Bible College, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Patterson also announced that Dr. William A. BeVier, who has served as interim president of DBC during the past year, has been named executive vice president of the College.

Dr. Johnston, who succeeds Dr. Roy L. Aldrich, will assume the duties of his new office on or about September 1, 1968. Dr. Aldrich retired in June 1967, after having been president of the College since its founding in 1945.

"WE FEEL it is a great privilege to have a man of Dr. Johnston's character and stature assume the leadership of Bible College," Dr. Patterson declared. "He brings to this position a wealth of knowledge of Christian Education as well as valuable experience as a pastor and teacher." Dr. Paterson emphasized that Dr. Johnston's appointment would bring no change in the conservative tradition of DBC.

Included in Dr. Johnston's educational background is a B.A. degree from Bob Jones University, Greenville, South Carolina, and a Th.M. degree from Dallas Theological Seminary, Dallas, Texas. The seminary also awarded him a Th.D. degree with highest honors in 1961.

A NATIVE of Erie, Pa., he formerly pastored churches in Indiana and Texas. Dr. Johnston, who is 38 years of age, is a member of the Executive Council of the Central American Mission, Dallas, Texas. Widely traveled, he has visited various mission fields abroad and has also toured both the Holy Land and Europe.

The new president and his wife, Martha, are the parents of three sons, James, Benjamin, and Graham. They plan to move soon to the Detroit area.

DR. BEVIER, who joined Detroit Bible College in 1960, has held various posts at the College including registrar, dean of education, and interim president.

His extensive academic preparation was made in schools in the Midwest and Southwest. He graduated from Drury College, Springfield, Mo., with an A.B. degree. In addition, by 1958 Dr. BeVier had earned both Th.M. and Th.D. degrees from Dallas Theological Seminary. The seminary then engaged Dr. BeVier as an instructor while he continued studies at Southern Methodist University. He received an M.A. degree from S.M.U. in 1960. He is presently pursuing a doctorate in education at Wayne State University, Detroit.

Dr. BeVier, formerly the pastor of Everett Presbyterian Church, Everett, Mo., served in the Marine Corps during World War II and the Korean War. Currently a member of the Army Reserve, he serves as Divisional Chaplain for the 70th Division in Livonia.

Dr. BeVier and his wife, Jo Ann, have two daughters, Cindy and Shirley. They live in Detroit.

Jews Open Living Rosary For Peace Campaign Is Planned At Belle Isle

Leaders of Greater Detroit's Conservative Jewry have launched a major effort to raise one million dollars toward a $35 million national capital-endowment drive which will help The Jewish Theological Seminary of America expand its services and build new academic, library, and residence facilities at its main campus in New York City.

Spearheaded by Abraham Borman and Louis Berry, nationally prominent Detroit philanthropists who serve on the seminary's board of overseers, the local campaign was inaugurated on June 26 with a private reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hamburger in Birmingham.

IN ADDITION to Borman and Berry, those attending the reception and participating in the campaign include Alfred L. Deutsch, Philip Feigenbaum, Ben Goldberg, N.Z. Greenhouse, Rabbi Irwin Groer, Samuel Hamburger, Joseph Holtzman, Morris Karbal, Rabbi Moses Lehrman, David M. Miro, Robert Ruch, David Safran, Samuel B. Solomon, Peter Weissberg, and Benjamin Weiss.

Dr. Max Artz, the seminary's vice-chancellor, underscored the outmodedness of the seminary's crowded facilities, pointing out, as he addressed the gathering, that not a single brick had been added to the present physical plant since 1930.

He also stressed the need for endowed professorships, lectureships, and fellowships, to prevent the loss of seminary scholars to other institutions of learning.

At its schools in New York, Los Angeles, and Jerusalem, The Seminary trains rabbis, cantors, Hebrew teachers, youth leaders and other servants for the American Jewish community.

Livonian Earns Divinity Degree

Ronald W. Tallman, a 1961 graduate of Livonia Bentley High School, recently was awarded his bachelor of divinity degree from Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas.

The Rev. Tallman received his bachelor of arts degree in 1965 from Albion College after majoring in chemistry. While at Albion he was a member of Kappa Mu Epsilon mathematics honorary and of Tau Kappa Epsilon social fraternity.

He chose to spend his three years of graduate work at the Texas seminary so that he might "come to a better understanding of the people and culture of a different part of the country."

The new clergyman served as the pastor of Chisholm United Methodist Church in east Texas and was appointed associate minister of Central United Methodist Church in Pontiac after receiving his degree.

Romans Chose Christianity

Before the end of the fourth century Christianity became the state religion of the Roman Empire.

Belle Isle will be the scene of the inspirational Living Rosary for World Peace, Friday, July 12, at 7 p.m.

The outdoor candlelight program will be held at the Remick Band Shell. It has been offered annually for the past 18 years.

From 7 to 8 p.m., a carillon recital will be presented by Anna C. Brill. At 8 p.m. the Detroit Concert Band under the direction of Dr. Leonard B. Smith will open with the program music.

Soloist will be Mary Dean Campese, soprano.

THE LIVING ROSARY is composed of 300 persons. Women in white gowns represent the "Hail Marys" and women in blue gowns, the "Our Fathers." The women are officers of Michigan State Circles Daughters of Isabella.

Altar boys from St. Mary's of Redford will form the cross. Speaker for the evening is Raymond J. Lynch, a Detroit attorney.

The color guard will consist of Captain Reginald Royal of the University of Detroit, U.S. Army ROTC and cadets Jerome Drouillard, Joseph Garland, Gary Peltier, Stephen Remis and Paul Nucilli.

IN THE HONOR GUARD will be the Knights of Columbus Color Corps of Southern Michigan, Districts 1 and 2; the Knights of St. John; the Knights of St. Peter Claver, and the Detroit Police and Fire Departments.

The Duns Scotus College Monks Choir will perform under the direction of Fr. Peter Ricks OFM.

In case of rain, the Living Rosary will start at 6 p.m. on Sunday, July 14.

Jewish Seminary Naming Chair For Rabbi Adler

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America will establish an academic chair in the name of the late Rabbi Morris Adler of Detroit, it was announced by Dr. Louis Finkelstein, chancellor, during the institution's 74th annual commencement.

Dr. Adler was spiritual leader of Congregation Shaarey Zedek, Southfield, until his tragic death in March, 1966, after being shot by a deranged young congregant during a Sabbath service.

"The Morris Adler Chair in Rabbinics has been established on the initiative of the faculty and board of directors as a fitting memorial to one of the seminary's most distinguished alumni," Dr. Finkelstein said.

Dr. Adler, the author of two books on the Torah and the Talmud, was himself well versed in Bible commentaries. The first holder of the chair in his name will be Dr. Moses Zucker, professor of Bible commentaries on the seminary faculty.

A fellow-worker with a statistical mind recently came up with an interesting observation about the law of averages.

He said that in Air Force basic training, he and the other trainees had to learn a list of 11 "security instructions," axioms for guard duty and security in general.

"Nearly every day," he reports, "we were asked to recite one or more. In a list of 11, there are six odd and five even numbered instructions. I kept actual statistical track of how they were asked, and found that three quarters of those demanded were odd."

"I can offer no particular explanation."

I can offer no explanation either, but the statistics don't surprise me.

Just ask any mother how lopsided is the law of averages.

She'll tell you that a small child putting on a shirt will get it backward at least 60 per cent of the time—though there are only two sides, a back and a front.

Furthermore, she knows beyond a doubt that the color of the sucker or type of candy offered will be wrong something like 75 per cent of the time.

And when it comes to putting on shoes, the chances of getting them on the wrong feet are at least 90 per cent.

These Cadettes Try Jet Age Camping

The Cadette Girl Scouts of Troop 58, Livonia, did their camping jet-style recently.

They flew aboard a Delta Airlines jet to the Great Smoky Mountains, and bused the last leg of the trip from Gatlinburg, Tenn. Mrs. Terri Kocis and Mrs. Bertha Selke accompanied them on the trip.

In Great Smoky National Park they met their leaders, Mrs. Sue Rivers and Mrs. Carleen Gray, who had gone ahead with station wagon and trailer.

KAREN NIXON — She's good in math too!

Music, Math Pose No Problem For Karen

By ANN SHAW
Staff Writer

Music trophies, a math scholarship and long, blond braids are only part of 17-year-old Karen Nixon's story.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Nixon, 9278 Louisiana, Livonia, Karen is one of seven children.

When Karen was eight, the Nixons took a year's cruise to the Bahamas. They built their own boat.

Last year she navigated for her dad in the family Corvette. They won a trophy; it was the first time Karen had ever entered sport-car competition. But that's just her story.

When she's not doing math problems or practicing her French horn or accordion, she knits. "Yes, she has about 20 sweaters," her little brother said. "She knits when she's nervous."

SHE'S GOING TO Lawrence Institute of Technology to major in math. She won a full-tuition scholarship—to a school that still is mostly male.

"I was the only girl in my orientation session," Karen said, "and the professor started out by saying, 'Gentlemen...oops, I mean, lady and gentlemen'."

But, being the only one isn't new to Karen. She's the only one on scholarship at Schoolcraft College's summer music workshop this summer.

And she's the only Franklin graduate with braids.

THE BRAIDS? Well, she doesn't know if she'll keep them. "My brother cut about four inches off a couple of years ago. He said I'd get laughed out of high school. But by the time I graduated, my friends were saying I should never cut that beautiful hair," she said. Math and music come easily to Karen. "I started getting interested in math in the seventh grade when they started teaching that new system, known as new math," she explained. She went on to take all the math offered, including advanced placement.

Next will come calculus and physics. And when she graduates from Lawrence Tech, she hopes to work for the National Aeronautics Space Administration.

CHALLENGED BY diversity, Karen held an A-average and kept up her musical interest and refined her talent in accordion and French horn. She teaches accordion and has won a third place in national competition.

When she started at Franklin High she wanted to play in the band. They needed someone on the French horn, and her brother suggested she take it up. She taught herself, with some professional help, and played in the marching band, the symphonic band and the orchestra. Two years later, she won a first place in state competition and the music scholarship to Schoolcraft.

Her goal now is to master the organ which the family got for Christmas three years ago, and to keep up the accordion and French horn. "I'd like to be able to play for a community orchestra," she said.

WHATEVER she's done, she's done it well.

A 17-year-old girl with the longest hair and the only one with braids stood out in the June graduating class of 700. "They helped me spot her coming down with her diploma," her mother said.

She stood out for her achievements too. And whether or not she still has braids when she finishes Lawrence Tech, chances are she'll be an outstanding graduate.

Control Pests

To control underground insect pests on your lawn, apply recommended insecticides obtained at your local garden supply company, agricultural specialists at Michigan State University advise. Apply the insecticide and water the lawn thoroughly. Be sure to follow package directions. One application may control some lawn pests for several years.

Short Visit

A FS Students 'Invade', Promote Friendship

A foreign invasion for Independence Day was the lot of more than 50 families in this area.

They couldn't have been more pleased.

Their visitors were American Field Service foreign students who arrived by bus July 3 and left two days later after a stopover with host families from Clarenceville, Bentley and Stevenson High Schools.

All the visitors are teenagers who have spent a year living with families in various parts of the country through the international AFS program.

Before returning to Washington, and then to their own nations, they make several stops on bus tours designed to enrich their experience in the United States.

HERE IN OBSERVERLAND, families used their imagination in entertaining their visitors—one or two students to a family.

Some drove to downtown Detroit and Canada, others to surrounding lakes.

There were trips to Greenfield Village, splash sessions at pools in the area and just plain American family style gatherings, especially for the Fourth of July.

The Bentley and Stevenson families closed the visitors' time here with a picnic in the Bentley courtyard, and the students returned a favor by putting on a talent show.

THE ENTERTAINMENT included music on the sitar by a young Indian student and acrobatics by a Japanese tumbler who is eligible for the Olympics. There also were some touches of the unexpected—like a Japanese student singing in Swedish, and a trio of English, Greek and Japanese girls singing in French.

Arrangements for the bus tour visits were handled by Mrs. Beverly Frechette and Mrs. Marilyn Rowans, of Clarenceville; Mrs. Quido Krumpholtz, for Bentley, and Mrs.

GREENFIELD VILLAGE TOUR—Vivien Mathews of England; Luis Nero Carretero and Francesco Marco-Viciano, of Spain, and Eiko Ito, of Japan, paid a brief visit to America's past days.

SITAR SOLOIST—Rajendra P. Patwardhan, of India, entertained his hosts on an instrument heard often in his homeland.

Arthur Schan for Stevenson. Clarenceville families who had AFS visitors included those of William Bass, Frank Ross, Don Heyden, Ronald Hecker, Harold Hornden, Omar Mette, Jack Robens, Richard Wilson, Abbe LaBarge, Richard Pretzlaff, Milton Molter, Elliott Kaplan, James Sullivan, James Pesta and Tom Adams.

Others are Marshall Fry, Melvin Thousk, Ed May, Erving Alpert, Raymond Wyatt, David Wright, Charles Levy, Louis Schmidt, Franz Scherrenberg, Kar Sjogren, Jack Marcuson, Neil Turner, Martin Wechsler, Leslie Politzner, John Polan, William Finn, Charles Noble, Robert Penskan and Ken Vickory.

THE AFS is a privately sponsored, non-profit organization for the promotion of international understanding.

Its value is summed up well in the words of one of the Livonia visitors, Vivien of Peterborough, England.

"Trying to find common ground with students from other parts of the world, with whom we may have thought we had nothing in common, is our goal," she said.

"We feel we have come to know and understand one another, and it has been a great delight. As for the Americans, I have never found such kindness and generosity anywhere. They are quite different from the preconceived idea I had, and I find myself quite in love with them."

Homemakers At MSU Hear Of Past, Future

Voices from the past and changes in Michigan's future agriculture provided topics for two speakers during Michigan State University's recent College Week for Women.

Robert Vincent, curator of the National Voice Library at MSU, featured excerpts of recordings dating back to 1890. Noting that over 800 homemakers made up the audience, Vincent selected voices of particular interest to women. The homemakers heard Gertrude Stein, the Dionne quintuplets as children, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's plea to the nation's women after the bombing of Pearl Harbor, and Jacqueline Kennedy's remarks on the historical significance of the White House. He also included Mae West's famous "Come up and see me sometime" line.

VINCENT CONCLUDED with a "voice" by neither man nor woman. It was a computer programmed to simulate sound of a human voice.

Also with a look at current technology and future research, Dr. Sylvan Wittwer told the group agriculture has the homemaker in mind.

Wittwer, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at MSU, said that research already completed by the University has created many changes in agriculture. He noted that labor costs and shortages, and demands of nation's consumers will mean more research.

He predicted that homemaker's demands, such as lower butterfat in dairy products and more processed and convenience foods, will force researchers to develop new varieties of plants and animals.

USING SLIDES to give the women a look at the state's billion dollar agricultural business, Wittwer emphasized that agricultural research enables America to lead the world in food production. He pointed out that MSU's research facilities, including the new Pesticide Research Center, are some of the world's finest.

Garden Club

The Rouge Valley Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association held its annual dinner and installation ceremonies recently.

Mrs. Frank Carter, of Inkster, was nominated recording secretary; Mrs. Henry Vallar, of Inkster, treasurer and Mrs. Leonard Melnick, of Westland, newsletter editor.

VFW Gives High Position To McKindles

James McKindles, of 261 Evergreen, Plymouth, has been named National Aide-de-Camp of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

In appointing McKindles, Commander-in-Chief Joseph A. Scerra said, "It has long been the practice of the national organization to pick men for this appointment who are dedicated to serving their communities and to furthering the ideals of the nation and the VFW."

"The record of Mr. McKindles proves he is such a person and I know that he will continue to serve the organization in the same dedicated manner indicated by his background of service to the VFW."

Charles Derr Named Bell Traffic Manager

Charles F. Derr of 47242 Stone Crest drive, Plymouth, has been named general traffic manager for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Derr's appointment to head traffic department operations is one of a number of high level changes resulting from Michigan Bell's creation of a new Switching Systems department. Derr, who has been general marketing manager since March 1, succeeds John S. North, who will head the new organization as general switching systems manager. Leo F. Egan, Woodward division commercial manager, has been named to replace Derr as general marketing manager.

Derr joined Michigan Bell in 1947 following his graduation from Michigan State University. He later was traffic manager in several Detroit, Royal Oak and Pontiac exchanges.

In 1960, Derr was named executive staff supervisor—business research. Two years later, he was appointed assistant to the comptroller. He was general marketing personnel supervisor for a year, and was Fort division traffic manager from October, 1965, until his appointment in February to head the marketing department.

Derr and his wife, Mary Elizabeth, have four children, Nancy, 20; David, 18; Doug, 17, and Barbara, 13.

Incumbent Designation Causes Court Snag

Legal snags developed today over the incumbent's designation on the Aug. 6 ballot for three candidates seeking a district judgeship.

All three are now serving as local judges appointed by legislative bodies.

Robert Greenstein, a Plymouth attorney serving as Canton township judge, said the state's new lower court reorganization act limits the incumbent's designation to elective jurists.

Greenstein, Dunbar Davis, of Plymouth, and Philip Ogilvie of Northville, all are on the local bench but under the act

technically are not incumbents.

Greenstein, 31, has been in private practice with the Livonia law firm of Kelly, Greenstein and McCann for eight years. McCann is Livonia Municipal Judge James R. McCann.

He is one of the co-founders of the Livonia probation program—now widely copied—and is chief probation officer. He was appointed township judge in Canton in January.

"My view is that the new district court will be a people's court—where people can come to get justice in a less formal but still dignified setting," Greenstein said.

"And, too, it's about time the property owner's rights were given equality with the rights of the criminal. It's up to these judges to help keep order in our community."

Greenstein is a 1960 graduate of the Wayne State University law school and has specialized in trial work. He lives at 47500 Hanford Road, Plymouth, with his wife and family.

HIGH TRIBUTE—James D. Warren Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Warren, 520 Pacific, was paid an honor this week by being selected to accompany Pianist Van Cliburn in the performance of the Greig Concerto at Interlochen on Saturday. He is a double bass player.

Detroit Man Held For Carrying Knife

Jon Earl Helton, 20, of 11311 Tecumseh, Detroit, was bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court by City of Plymouth Municipal Judge Dunbar Davis for trial under the charge of carrying a switchblade knife.

Judge Davis felt that after examining the case Monday, Helton should stand trial.

Helton was arrested by city police at 4 a.m. June 19 along with a male juvenile whose name was withheld.

Police said they spotted their car slowly moving south on S. Main with its lights out. The car made a left turn onto Ross St. and was stopped by officers. When officers looked into the car they said they saw some beer under a jacket on the back seat and asked the two about it.

When Helton turned and gestured at the back seat one of the officers saw the knife sticking out of his back pocket. Both were arrested and charged with minors in possession of alcohol.

New Books In Library

"Thomas Wolfe" by Andrew Turnbull is an intensively researched biography of the author of "Look Homeward, Angel" which brings to light the conflicting qualities of warmth, gentleness and cruelty which constituted the total man.

"End of the Game and Other Stories" by Julio Cortazar, the Argentinian author of "The Winners," is a collection of unusual short stories including "Blow-Up," on which the movie was based.

"A Bill of Rites, a Bill of Wrongs, a Bill of Goods" by Wright Morris, novelist and critic, is a collection of essays on a wide variety of contemporary topics, from Pop Art to senior citizens, written to relieve the author's exasperation with "the way things are."

"The Price" by Arthur Miller is a play concerning the meeting of two brothers—one a successful surgeon, the other an ordinary policeman—brought together after many years by the need to dispose of their parents' property.

"The Artillery of the Press: Its Influence on American Foreign Policy" by James Reston examines the dilemma arising from the need of the citizenry to be well informed and the need of the government official to be able to function effectively, sometimes secretly, in foreign affairs. The author supports having a strong and free press.

"True Grit" by Charles Portis is a novel about a most unusual 14-year-old girl. She set out, in the eighteen seventies, into Indian Territory accompanied only by a mean, one-eyed U. S. Marshal to avenge the murder of her father by a drunken outlaw.

Plymouth Man Injured When Bike Hits Wall

One Plymouth man was injured in a motorcycle accident last Wednesday in a parking lot behind Plymouth Township Hall on Ann Arbor and Lilley Rds.

Joseph Montforton, 29, of 40643 Firwood, Plymouth, was taken to St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, by Plymouth Township Fire Department rescue squad after he crashed his bike into the building.

Wayne County Sheriff's Department officers said he tried to make a left turn, at full speed, in the parking lot but was unable to avoid smashing into the structure.

Cullin Named Co-Director For Special-Ed Program

Gerald Cullin, Franklin High School teacher and football coach, has been named associate director of Project "ARISE", in Coldwater.

"ARISE", a federally-financed planning project, is to bring together specialists in every phase of special education to brainstorm new approaches to the training of non-professional personnel to work with the handicapped.

Donald Rumery, director of the project said, "There's an acute shortage everywhere of trained personnel to work with mentally and physically handicapped children."

Cullin and Rumery, working together this past week in Coldwater, have been compiling lists of professionals to take part in their idea generation groups for "ARISE."

The two directors have received full support from the State Department of Education and have contacted the US Office of Education asking them to provide additional resource material.

DIANE A. JOHNSON, graduate of Livonia's Stevenson High School, has been awarded a Glen Alden scholarship by the Philip Carey Corp. At Stevenson, she was valedictorian, won a math award, and belonged to the following clubs: Sophist Club, Literary Magazine, Science Seminar and Ski Club. She will major in oceanography at Michigan State University.

Request Study Of Flood

An immediate investigation into the causes of the recent flooding in Wayne County has been called for the top policy body of the County Board of Supervisors.

The inquiry was requested by the Supervisors Committee of Chairmen of Standing Committees, meeting Friday, June 28.

Several Federal, State and County agencies will be asked to undertake the study—the U.S. Corps of Engineers, the Michigan Water Resources Commission, the State and County Health Departments, the County Road Commission and the County Board of Public Works.

The committee requested a "determination from appropriate agencies relative to the specific reasons for the flooding conditions and potential solutions thereto."

The committee expressed "extreme concern" with the flooding "and the unfortunate loss of life and heavy property damage resulting therefrom."

Two Dearborn Heights brothers drowned while trying to float a raft on the swollen Rouge River.

LAST SALUTE FROM COMRADES — Full departmental rites were held Saturday for Livonia Fire Department Capt. Emerson New, Station No. 3 commander, who died last week in Garden City Hospital following a heart attack. Above, a guard of honor and pallbearers composed of Fire Department comrades escort casket to funeral home from R. G. and G. R. Harris Funeral Home, where rites were held. Pallbearers were Fire Engineer Charles Wagenschutz, Fireman Ralph Wagenschutz, Fire Capt. Donald Folsom, Fire Mechanic Donald Carscadden, Fireman Thomas Schwartz, Fire Lt. James Matthews, and Fire Capt. George Jackman.

DAVID WILLEY has been appointed manager of the Ann Arbor-Merriman office of Detroit Bank & Trust in Westland. Willey joined Detroit Bank & Trust in December of 1960 as an administrative trainee. Later, he served as assistant manager of the bank's office at Grand River and Redford and at Grand River and Forer. He holds a BA degree from Michigan State University. Fire Causes Loss At Dun Rovin Dun Rovin Country Club, on Haggerty Rd., between Five and Six Mile Roads in Northville Township, suffered an estimated $50,000 damage from a fire that occurred in its 25-stool bar over the weekend.

Richard Cummins, co-owner of the club, said that the bar was closed at midnight Friday and when they opened the door at 5:30 a.m. the next morning, the place was filled with smoke.

He said the bar-room was completely destroyed and the rest of the building was damaged by smoke. Cummins added the fire was caused by an electrical short circuit behind the bar. Cummins explained the bar would be closed for about the next three to four weeks, but the golf course would remain open.

Add Sugar First

Your hot milk egg mixtures will not curdle if you add the sugar called for in the recipe to the beaten egg before adding the milk. Then add the hot milk to the beaten egg mixture a little at a time, and finally, don't overcook.

Perked-Up Coffee

For better-tasting coffee, let your percolator perk once a week in just water and a little soap or detergent. This will loosen and remove the residue of coffee oil which deposits in tube and crevices.

Johnson Asks, Does Media Promote Violence

Critics of the American way of life have long deplored the violence seen in movie houses and on television screens.

But it took the brutal public murder of Senator Robert F. Kennedy to bring the Federal government into the problem, and the responding pledges of cooperation from the entertainment media.

President Johnson issued the call for concern in the naming of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence to be headed by Dr. Milton Eisenhower.

A key question for the commission to determine may well be the role of mass media in causing violence. In Johnson's own words:

"Are the seeds of violence nurtured through the public's airwaves, the screens of neighborhood theaters, the news media and other forms of communication that reach the family and our young?"

DOES THE PORTRAYAL of violence lead to violent behavior? There are two trends of thought on the matter:

1. Some argue that by viewing dramatized violence, human beings get rid of their repressed emotions. This theory was expressed by Aristotle, who declared that art could function as a catharsis so that tragedy "through pity and fear, effects the proper purgation" of destructive emotions.

2. Others believe that repeated exposure of impressionable minds to sadistic and criminal behavior on the screen is bound to result in imitative action.

The latter concern was considerably increased with the advent of television. Today youngsters are exposed to dramatized violence before they are even able to talk or to read.

Many social observers have viewed with special alarm the Saturday morning shows aimed at the very young audience. The shows are almost totally cartoons, and the majority of them are of a violent nature, either on the cat vs. mouse or the superhero vs. villains level.

THE TELEVISION networks have responded to the President's call in different ways.

CBS President Frank Stanton stated: "CBS shares the President's concern as to the possible effect of the content of television entertainment programs upon the nature of our society. We will, of course, cooperate in every way possible."

Stanton added that it might take "a considerable length of time to determine whether there is a causal relationship between the fictional portrayal of violence in the mass media and any increase of actual violence in American life." He said that CBS would sponsor meetings between its programmers and series producers and writers in an effort to de-emphasize violence.

NBC declared: "The assassination of Sen. Kennedy has given rise to discussion of violence in our society and violence as reflected in the entertainment and news media, including broadcasting. In the news field, we seek to cover, through reporting an analysis, all developments on which public information is vital in a democracy, and we regard such coverage as an important part of our obligation. In the entertainment field, we have established policies and procedures to guard against the depiction of violence for its own sake."

"We intend to continue pursuing these policies with responsibility and vigilance and we will certainly cooperate with the inquiry to be conducted by the commission appointed by President Johnson."

ABC withheld any statement pending the return of television chief Elton Rule from England, but the network declared it is studying the subject of violence "as a matter of concern."

SPEAKING by telephone from his Washington headquarters, Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association, said the film industry would cooperate wholeheartedly with the commission.

"I hope the commission will help establish psychological and social measurements of the effect of violence, not only in movies but in all media," said Valenti, former White House aide. "That would be enormously helpful, because no one really knows the answer now."

Valenti remarked that he has been pleading for self-restraint on the part of film makers and said that his pleas have met with "more success than disappointment." But he pointed out that he deals only with the eight member companies of the producers association.

"We have no jurisdiction over the making of pictures abroad that might be purchased for distribution here by our companies," he said. "That brings up the Italian Western situation. Nor do we have any control over nonmembers among American film makers. But I have been talking to every top theater circuit head in an effort to bring some control over the situation."

The Italian Westerns have brought a new brand of brutality to American screens; although made outside the production code, they are nevertheless released by companies that are subject to the code.

AMERICAN - INTERNATIONAL is not a member of the producers association. The company, which once aimed at the teen market with innocent beach movies and Edgar Allan Poe fantasies, discovered the box-office appeal of motorcycle gangs and dope parties. Its latest release was given a condemned rating by the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures for "wanton exhibition of sadistic brutality and coarse sex." American-International says it is now, like the rest of the industry, re-examining its programming.

The major companies have also offered a share of film violence with such films as "The Dirty Dozen," "Bonnie and Clyde," the James Bond films, "The Mercenaries," "Rosemary's Baby," "The Long Days Dying," "The Detective," etc., etc.

The concern of one segment of the public over the outpouring of violence was expressed in an advertisement that appeared in the Los Angeles Times. It was paid for by students of Monroe High School in nearby Sepulveda.

The text: "PLEASE... We, students of James

Monroe High School, wishing to express our sincere concern with the violence in our country and its effects on the future of our nation, feel obligated to take some positive action.

"We feel that the presentation and glorification of acts and words of violence, especially through mass media, are creating a society insensitive to human suffering and death. We therefore urge our parents, friends, and members of the community to join us in a boycott of any media or product which resorts to such advertising."

Dressing Up Hall

Want a quick dress-up treatment for an entrance hall? Try stripes. You can create a dramatic striped effect by applying 1x2-inch battens right over the existing wall surface. Just nail the Douglas fir 1x2s vertically, leaving a three or five-inch spacing -- or more -- between them. But first, run a long piece of fir 1x2 along the top of the wall, next to the ceiling. Next add a 1x4 at the bottom of the wall for a baseboard, if you don't already have one. Then cut the battens to fit between.

The wall can be finished many different ways. Probably the most exciting is to paint the wall white and finish the battens either clear or with dark stain.

Sweet Answer to 'Weighty Problems'

Weight watchers who crave a sweet dessert should certainly try the deliciously sweet yet low-calorie recipe, below. Designed especially for dieters, this heavenly dessert combines peaches and rice in a rich-tasting custard. Result is one of the best low-calorie treats you've ever tasted.

Secret of the recipe's low-calorie success is the use of the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than sugar. Just with its help, nearly 100 calories have been slashed from every serving. Best part is, non-dieters in the family will enjoy this dessert every bit as much as the dieters. Do add this recipe to your file of good and low-calorie desserts.

Peach Rice Custard (Low-Calorie)

1 envelope unflavored gelatin	2 cups skim milk, scalded
1/2 cup cold water	1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs	1 1-pound can low-calorie
4 teaspoons liquid Sucaryl	sliced peaches, drained
1/4 teaspoon salt	1 cup cooked rice

Soften gelatin in cold water. Beat eggs slightly and combine with Sucaryl, salt and scalded milk in top of a double boiler. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Remove from heat; blend in vanilla and softened gelatin, stirring until gelatin dissolves. Chill until mixture begins to mound from spoon. Dice peaches; fold with rice into the custard mixture. Spoon into a lightly oiled 1-quart mold; chill until set.

Makes 6 servings, each 114 CALORIES; 7.5 grams protein; 2 grams fat; 18.5 grams carbohydrate. (With sugar 211 Calories.)

Scholar Attacks Legend Of Hippocrate's Life

CHICAGO — The author of the oath which bears his name and which most physicians swear to was not Hippocrates of Cos as most people believe. Furthermore, Hippocrates did not look like what most persons pictured him to be.

These facts are being brought out by scholars who are gradually stripping away most of the myths surrounding the true image of Hippocrates, according to Dr. Dickinson W. Richards, author of an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Richards said the work of the late Prof. Ludwig Edelstein of Rockefeller University has established that the legendary medical figure was not the author of the famed oath. Dr. Richards is professor emeritus of medicine at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York.

He contended further that two busts, long thought to be those of Hippocrates, are replicas of a stoic philosopher of the Third Century B.C.

APPROXIMATELY 70 treatises on medicine attributed to Hippocrates were written by many individuals over several generations, Dr. Richards claimed.

He added, "There are seven treatises which are recognized by authorities as having been written by one man, presumably Hippocrates himself. This is based largely on internal evidence — the closeness and accuracy of his observations, the precision of his descriptions and freedom from philosophic theory."

Born on the Greek Island of Cos about 460 B.C., Hippocrates is supposed to have died about 370 or 360 B.C. However, Richards said much of the biographical material concerning him was not written until about five and one-half centuries after his death.

He commented that two busts found in museums bore some resemblance to a supposed profile of Hippocrates which appeared on a Roman coin of the First Century. But, toward the end of the last century, a coin was uncovered bearing the profile of the stoic philosopher Chrysippus which more closely matched the two busts. Later, archeologists unearthed a bust in Italy bearing one of Hippocrates' phrases on the brevity of life. This bust resembled the profile on the Hippocrates coin more closely than it did that on the other two busts. The Italian bust depicted an elderly man with a round, bald head, short beard and large nose.

Richards said although Hippocrates' general code of ethical conduct was still applicable today, Prof. Edelstein's work maintained many prohibitions set forth in the code were those of the Pythagorean school of medicine, which was established after the death of Hippocrates.

France Desires U.S. Assistance For Paris Mall

PARIS — Contrary to their government's anti-U.S. stance, French developers are welcoming American professional experience and ingenuity in the planning and design of Europe's largest shopping complex.

Now under construction in the suburb of Chénay, about a mile from the historic Trianon Gate of the Palace of Versailles, the huge regional shopping center's cost is estimated at more than $20 million. With an enclosed and climatized double-level mall, its 800,000 square feet of retail space will house more than 150 stores and boutiques. In addition, two floors of commercial office space will be available atop the shopping mall. Double-deck parking facilities will accommodate about 3,000 cars.

Called Parly 2, the massive complex was planned and designed by Lathrop Douglass of New York, a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects, working in association with French architect Claude Balick. Jean-Louis Solal, noted French entrepreneur, is the developer.

THE ORIGINAL name selected for the center was "Paris 2"—after its planned duplication of Parisian shopping facilities. City officials, however, disturbed by even the idea that there could ever be another Paris, turned thumbs down on the nomenclature, reasoning "there is only one Paris." Thus it became Parly 2.

Two of France's most prominent department stores—Au Printemps and Bazaar d'Hotel de Ville—will "anchor" Parly 2. The center also will contain "Le Drug Store." This Parisian merchandising innovation combines a luxury restaurant with a retail outlet offering prestige specialty items and is further enhanced by an attached discotheque.

Other occupants will include a "Prismic"—French equivalent of the popular American five and dime, a major supermarket, theaters and a wide variety of establishments providing a broad range of goods and services.

Douglass points out that "rigid" zoning regulations, dating back to the days of Louis XV and Madame de Pompadour, govern the project's overall layout and encourage generous landscaping. Especially coordinated to blend naturally with the surrounding countryside, the exotic landscaping will be highlighted by suspended gardens running along the mall at roof level. Lofty and dramatic courts of the two-level mall will feature fountains and a variety of amenities which, he adds, "are designed to attract the customer and make her shopping day an exciting one."

ACCORDING to the New York architect, Parly 2 incorporates more than 15 years of U.S. expertise in all phases of shopping-center planning. A leading exponent of the role of the shopping center in urban redevelopment, Douglass has designed more than 60 major retail complexes as well as department stores, office buildings and industrial facilities in the U.S., Europe, South America and Africa.

The development of European centers, "particularly Parly 2," he says, "is motivated in almost all respects by the same socio-economic patterns which led to the growth of their American counterparts." He cites, for example, the continuing migration to the suburbs, the steady increases in car ownership and consequent traffic congestion, and an expanded road improvement and building program.

Douglass notes that Parly 2 is within one mile from the major French super highway, the "Autoroute de l'Ouest," and by 1970 the site will be served by a network of similar modern arteries. Furthermore, 1,200,000 persons now live within a 20-minute drive of the center. By 1980, projections indicate that this population will swell to more than 1,700,000, he said.

Travelling In Fashion Makes Trip A Treat

Whether you're off for a long weekend—or trying to pack ten countries into 17 days—you can travel in fashion and play as you go if you do some homework before leaving to insure that you will look your best.

Have a ball! That's the key rule to making sure that your trip is a treat, not a trauma. The ball should be crystal—your imagination will do fine if you lack a crystal ball—and all you do is look into it to see what you'll need, then plan ahead so that you have it!

WHAT TO PACK. You can fit a large number of outfits into a relatively small suitcase if you are clever in selecting a wardrobe that gives you lots of mix-or-match choices. A rip is logically a suit-able occasion (a suit is comfortable, warm and blouses change it) but you can also get variety from dresses by varying a sash, scarf or jewelry.

Dark prints are good, for they provide variety, don't show soil and are attractive. Lean toward dresses of silk, jersey and knit; they crease not and fold small (an important aid, as you can see in your ball).

It's in the bag! That's a reassuring thing to know when you need a needle and thread... a spot remover... a pen... or one of those moist little towels that come packed in aluminum foil. These and many other tiny items, packed into a large handbag, assure you of having what you need when you need it. An extra pair of stockings? Good idea. So is a purse-size hairbrush and spray, and a small sponge or Scotch tape for lint removal.

COME CLEAN! "Mirror, mirror on the wall, how I wish you were a clothes line!" That's what many a woman traveler feels, but you can avoid this feeling by having a hook, line and sinker. The line should be a small nylon clothes line, the hook a large safety pin or two, and the "sinker" a small quantity of detergent that works even in cool water. A few folding plastic hangers also help.

Give no quarter! That's not a rule to follow when traveling. You'll feel more comfortable, and avoid hurried hunts in the bottom of your bag, if you have a good supply of quarters and dimes for tips in a handy place.

Over 25,000 jerks! Is soft-sided luggage safe for airplane travel? "Yes," says a man who buys over a million suitcases a year. "You can safely fly around the world with soft-sided luggage." The man, who probably buys more luggage than anyone else in the world, is William Dudley, head luggage buyer at Sears. Interestingly, he won't buy a suitcase unless it can pass this test: the case if fully loaded, the handle is attached to a machine, then the machine jerks the suitcase off the floor 25,000 times! A good idea in choosing luggage, says Dudley, is to do a little jerking of your own to test the comfort of the handle. Another pointer: if your luggage is to be loaded in a car trunk remember that molded or hard-sided luggage provides the maximum in durability; buy at a store you can trust.

PACKING POINTERS. Keep in mind the primary principle of packing: "If you pack it in with wrinkles, it will come out with wrinkles." So use tissue paper to avoid sharp creases. To win the battle of the bulge, pack big items first, and in the middle, then pack smaller items around the sides. Remember what many people forget: the back of the case is the bottom when you carry it. Heavier things like shoes, toiletries and the like will slide down there in the first place. This way, making your suitcase upright won't mean the downfall of things inside.

Use foresight for sight. "I see..." begin people who look into crystal balls, and that's a clue right there. If you wear glasses, take along not just an extra pair but also a copy of your prescription. Take prescriptions, too, for any medicines you may need, and the phone numbers of your doctor, lawyer and insurance man.

See your hairdresser before you leave, and choose a hair style that travels well. Hairbands and kerchiefs are a good idea, even if you don't often wear them, if you are visiting windy places.

Once you've taken these advance precautions, you'll feel assured and it will show. It's crystal clear that with adequate preparation, it is easy and fun to travel in fashion.

Urge Police Refrain In Hot Pursuit

SAN FRANCISCO - Unwarranted high speed chases by police have resulted in more than 500 persons being killed each year, two New Jersey doctors have asserted.

Dr. Arnold Constad, Springfield, N.J., and Dr. Seymour Charles, Newark, made the assertions during the American Medical Association convention here.

They concluded that "hot pursuits" by police impose a high degree of death and injury to participants involved in the chase and to pedestrians.

Citing a special instance, they said, "We know of one case in New York State where a policeman chased a speeding teenager he knew personally. Two women returning from church were killed and two others injured when the youth crossed the center line."

They added, "The policeman could have just gone out to the boy's home and arrested him."

The doctors said their study showed 25 per cent of chases ended in death and another 75 per cent resulted in accidents, many of a serious nature. However, they conceded that national statistics were not available to verify their estimates.

The study also pointed out that 50 per cent of the cases involved speeding and other minor traffic offenses and an additional 20 per cent were concerned with stolen automobiles in which the driver's average age was 17.

"The police are really making something major out of something minor and people are paying with their lives," Charles maintained. "As doctors we've got a real responsibility to do something about this," he added.

Both doctors commented that there were times when pursuit was advisable "because a dangerous psychopath or obvious mental defective is loose threatening the lives of others."

They claimed that in most cases electronic devices and the police radio could be employed to capture suspects at a great savings in life, injury and property.

Warn Against Use Of Tires For Airplanes

AKRON - Airplane tires are not suitable for racing cars or any other ground vehicles, warns Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

"Costly and even tragic accidents have resulted from the use of airplane tires on certain types of industrial vehicles, trailers and small, custom-built sport and racing cars," Goodyear said.

Airplane tires are built to handle high tire loads, but they are not designed for constant service. Such use will "almost certainly lead to tire failure," the company said.

Resentment Towards U.S. Mounts In Japan

TOKYO --Mounting hostility in Japan to the U.S. military presence goes hand in hand with a major effort to scrap the U.S.-Japanese military alliance in 1970.

Although the government of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato is a strong defender of the security treaty between the two countries and wants to continue it after 1970, growing pressures may succeed in neutralizing its provisions for common defense.

of Japanese involvement in Vietnam and in visits to Japanese ports by nuclear-powered ships and submarines.

Much of the anti-American pressure comes from Japan's Socialists and Communists who want the treaty terminated. But other groups have joined in making it clear that the U.S. military, with its 40,000 men and 140 installations, is no longer as welcome as it once was.

ON JUNE 2 a U.S. Air Force jet crashed on the campus of Kyushu University in southern Japan as it made a landing approach at Fukuoka Air Base three miles away. This set off such a furor among local residents that the government now is considering whether it should ask the United States to relocate the base.

On May 2, the nuclear-powered submarine Squalus entered Sasebo and sea water in the vicinity was found to register 30 times the normal radioactivity.

Tests conducted by U.S. experts showed the Squalus. Despite scientific evidence that the increase in the radioactive level would have to be several thousand fold before it would be damaging to human beings, public pressure caused the United States to agree to keep its nuclear submarines away from Japan pending completion of a more thorough investigation.

In April, scores of students and police were injured in violent demonstrations against the opening of a U.S. Army hospital in Oji, near Tokyo, to treat soldiers wounded in Vietnam.

The people of Oji voiced fears that soldiers flown directly from Vietnam might bring with them tropical diseases that could spread to the surrounding Japanese community.

These and other incidents are seen as preliminary to the big fight that will come in 1970 over the security treaty.

By then 10 years will have elapsed since the treaty was revised and either party may give notice of intention to terminate it.

SATO's conservative Liberal-Democrats have made it plain they intend to continue the treaty after 1970 and keep Japan under the American nuclear umbrella and conventional military protection.

The Socialists and Communists have promised an all-out campaign by 1970 to force the treaty's termination. They would have to topple the Liberal-Democrats from power and there is no indication the left wing could muster the power to do it.

But as incidents accumulate, the question is being raised among experts on U.S.-Japanese relations of whether the effectiveness of the treaty already has been neutralized.

To the average Japanese, still unable to completely forget his country's disastrous defeat in World War II there is a strong inclination to shun arms on the theory that if one does not possess weapons it proves he is peaceful and thus will not be attacked.

Because of the public obsession against nuclear weapons, Sato has promised that despite the security treaty, his government under no circumstances will allow nuclear weapons to be brought into or manufactured in Japan.

The Tokyo government refuses to allow the United States to use its bases in Japan to directly support U.S. military action in other parts of Asia--another condition dictated by the public's fear of being involved even indirectly in any conflict.

IT WAS this fear that prompted Japanese protests against the use of Okinawa as a base for U.S. bombing missions over Vietnam.

When Okinawa is returned to Japanese jurisdiction, which the Japanese hope will be in two or three years, they have insisted that any U.S. bases on that island come under the same nuclear-free basis as U.S. bases on Japan proper.

U.S. military installations in Japan include six major air bases, three naval bases, hospitals, warehouses, housing projects, firing range and communication facilities.

U.S. officials on numerous occasions have told the Japanese they would like them to assume a larger share of their defense responsibility. But Japan's combined ground, sea and air forces total only 280,000 men--hardly enough to turn back a major attack--and a substantial beefing up would open the government to charges of reviving a military state.

With 1970 in mind, Sato's government has undertaken a nationwide campaign to educate the public on what it regards as the need for continuing Japan's military alliance with the United States.

Ford Will Hire From Core-City

Ford Motor Company has received approval from the U. S. Department of Labor to provide training and employment for 250 people in Detroit who do not qualify for other company core-city recruiting programs.

The plan will provide jobs for men and women on welfare, high school drop-outs, prison parolees, and persons who quit after being hired as part of the company's present inner-city recruiting programs. Some of the enrollees may be unable to read or write.

Ford has hired thousands of new employees from inner-city Detroit since last October and said its experience with them has demonstrated that many of the so-called hard-core unemployed have the ability to hold jobs if given the opportunity. Ford plant managers have found that the majority of inner-city hires compare favorably with other employees in job performance and in ability to adapt to production assignments.

MAJOR departures from normal Ford employment practices in the inner-city program have included hiring away from company premises and eliminating written employment tests.

The new plan, Ford said, will go beyond current efforts and seek people who haven't been able to meet previous inner-city hiring standards. Under the plan, Ford will attempt to determine the kinds of education, training and counseling needed to help them become productive employees.

In its proposal to the Labor Department, Ford Motor Company said it would help quality 200 persons for jobs as press operator, stock handler and assembler, and in available semi-skilled jobs such as welder and metal finisher. The remaining 50 would be hired as salaried mail and office clerks.

The Labor Department will provide funds for added costs of counseling, remedial education, job training and other supportive services.

OFF-THE-JOB training and counseling for the 250 Ford trainees will range from 4 to 14 weeks, depending on individual needs and the jobs for which the recruits were being prepared. Training and counseling will be conducted at company plants in the Detroit area.

All trainees will receive on-the-job training. Ford will assign an employee counselor for each 35 trainees to help them adjust to a new environment and to encourage them to enroll in special basic education and high school completion courses.

The group will be comprised of 40 women and 20 men who are functionally illiterate, on welfare and heads of families; 90 male youths from 17-3/4 years of age through 21; 70 inmates awaiting release from penal institutions; and 25 former Ford employees who were hired as part of the company's inner-city recruiting program but later quit.

Ford will recruit the trainees with the help of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Focus Study On Origin Of Mt. Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal -- Since the conquest of Everest 15 years ago, the attention of Tibetans and mainland Chinese has been focused on the world's tallest peak, which the people of Tibet call Chomo Lungma.

A team of Chinese scientists recently published studies of the Himalaya region to back up the theory that the range once was a trough-shaped sea linked to the ancient Mediterranean and that it rose to its present heights in volcanic action lasting scores of millions of years.

Getting To Work Is Big Problem For State's Poor

In spite of Michigan's excellent network of expressways, poor people living in rural areas throughout the state are having problems getting to their jobs.

In Grand Rapids, bus riders may soon find themselves without buses to ride on. Port Huron has been without buses for months. Across Michigan and the nation, transportation problems have become a major headache for the rural poor.

Financial troubles have beset the Grand Rapids bus system for some time, and the privately operated company has served an ultimatum that it must be subsidized if it is to continue in operation.

"We're losing our shirts," says Joseph Poquette, executive vice president of City Coach Lines, Inc., of Jacksonville, Fla., the parent firm. He said the service has lost $230,000 since 1963.

A RECENT $14,000 study financed by the federal government came up with a plan which it was hoped could put the operation back on its feet.

The bus system has been hit by a decline over the past 10 years from 10 million passengers a year to four million, and the pilot study was undertaken in Grand Rapids to find answers to transportation problems plaguing other cities in the nation as well.

Recommendations included special runs to pick up workers at selected collection points, shuttle service into the downtown area from parking lots and portal-to-portal service for selected residential clusters of residents working in a common destination area.

Transportation problems have proved to be insurmountable for some of the urban poor. In some cases, workers who are offered jobs outside the city limits have to turn them down because they have no way of getting to the plants.

Mrs. Mary Bennett, former mayor of Jackson who now directs the federal antipoverty program at the Jackson-Hillsdale Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) says she sometimes is asked to furnish transportation to take prospective employees to job interviews.

"But we can't give them a ride to work every day," Mrs. Bennett says, contending the remedy lies in an expanded public transportation system.

THE TRANSPORTATION problem in Jackson doesn't appear to be a matter of discrimination, it's simply a matter of "you get here, and you can have the job," says one resident.

Jackson has a local bus system, which helps the worker without a car when his job is along the route.

However, in several Michigan cities, there has been a recent trend toward locating new plants further away from the core of the city, making cars almost mandatory. Bus routes, for example, do not extend to the industrial park in Jackson.

Car pools may solve an immediate problem, but officials point out they often break up after two or three weeks.

Carl Strunk, manager of the Jackson Public Transportation Co., says many of those who use the bus system work downtown or at shopping centers or at domestic jobs.

A steady decline in patronage and revenue forced the old Jackson City Lines, Inc., out of business in 1964. The present bus system is a nonprofit corporation backed by local businessmen and firms.

THE FINANCIAL picture went from red to black under the new setup.

A similar switch in operations has been made in other Michigan cities.

In 1965, the Flint bus system was taken over by a nonprofit authority—the Flint Transportation Authority, created by the City Commission.

The bus operation was losing money as a privately owned corporation, City Coach Lines, Inc., and the firm sold its assets to the newly constituted authority, set up to take advantage of tax breaks.

The old firm continues to manage the system for the authority, and is still losing money—more than $200,000 since the authority took over.

Unlike Jackson, Flint's bus system can serve up to two miles beyond the city limits, and only two major plants are beyond the bus service area.

"The problem is that while bus service is available to all areas of the community, few persons in any area prefer using buses instead of private cars," says a Flint resident.

"The high level of employment maintained in Flint apparently allows most workers the 'luxury of car ownership.' CAR POOLS are used extensively in the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph area.

There is a private bus system servicing the Twin Cities, but it operates infrequently and misses some of the poverty areas, thus posing a hardship on many mothers who are attempting to work to provide food for their hungry children.

Purchase of a car is generally not the highest preference item for women who are heads of households in poverty areas," according to a Benton Harbor observer.

Shopping poses another problem, he points out, and many of these mothers take taxis to supermarkets.

In some Michigan communities, bus systems are nonexistent.

Cake-Walkers Were 1st To Take Cake

The first people to "take the cake" were cake-walkers. It was once customary among Southern Negroes to wind up a ball with a promenade around a specially prepared cake. The cake was awarded to the couple judged most graceful and best dressed. They were said to have "taken the cake," and the phrase was given general currency through minstrel shows.

ALTHOUGH this posed a problem for some workers, the situation has been eased by the Queen Mary Will House Sea Museum

LONG BEACH, Calif.—The former luxury liner Queen Mary will house a $14 million museum devoted to the sea, officials of the California Museum Foundation have announced.

The first section of exhibits is scheduled to open early next year, in conjunction with the ship's hotel and restaurant complex.

The nonprofit foundation is developing the museum and will operate it on a 40-year contract with the City of Long Beach, which bought the vessel last year.

EXHIBITS, including a full-sized replica of an explorer's galleon, will be sponsored by private industry at a cost of $5 million.

location of many newer, small industries in the city's Industrial Park, which is within walking distance of a major low-income area.

In several larger cities, such as Flint, Lansing and Saginaw, auto plants also are located near low-income areas, and workers merely walk to their jobs.

A few employers throughout the state have established their own transportation systems to get workers to the factories.

In Muskegon, some small 12-passenger vans are operated.

A restaurant north of Jackson ran a shuttle service to and from the city until the business changed ownership. One large business in Kalamazoo provides transportation for workers to its main processing plant from a downtown office complex.

Scanners Employed In Tracking Wildlife

MADISON, WIS.—Heat-sensitive infrared scanning equipment first developed for military purposes is now helping University of Michigan researchers keep hot on the trail of wildlife herds.

Because infrared scanners detect and record heat rather than the visible light that cameras use, it was obvious that warm-blooded animals might be distinguishable from a cooler background, the team of Michigan investigators reported recently at the American Institute of Biological Sciences meeting at the University of Wisconsin.

The possibility of using infrared scanning for taking a census of animal populations presented itself. The fact that airborne equipment could cover large areas quickly is a further advantage.

The researchers are Dale R. McCullough of the U-M School of Natural Resources, Charles E. Olson Jr. of the School of Natural Resources and the U-M Infrared Physics Laboratory and Leland M. Quail of the Michigan Department of Conservation, Lansing.

For technical reasons involving aerial height and design of equipment, the infrared scanner used in the study could only distinguish larger animals such as deer, elk, and domestic cattle. It has also proved useful in vegetation and wetland mapping, water pollution monitoring, fire detection and control, and similar applications. The equipment was first tested for animal censusing at the University of Michigan's Edwin S. George Reserve, a two-square-mile fenced area near Ann Arbor which contains a white-tailed deer herd earlier estimated at 101 animals by other methods. The infrared scanner gave a count of 93 positive and five "probable" deer.

There are certain severe limitations to the applicability of the technique to animal census problems, their report explained.

"One major difficulty is the fact that infrared radiation does not readily penetrate green foliage. This means that the method (at least with present equipment) is useless in counting animals under a canopy of leaves. In the case of deciduous vegetation, census can be held after leaf fall. Evergreens, however, present an effective barrier."

This suggests that aerial census of wildlife populations by means of infrared scanning equipment at the present stage will be most applicable to open range lands, tundra, low bushy areas, or deciduous forests when the leaves are down, the report continued.

Another major difficulty cited is "the variability in apparent temperatures of both the animal and the background depending upon surface characteristics, weather, etc."

Negro Partnership With Business Improves Slums

NEW YORK — The aerial photo in an office on the 16th floor of the aging Granada Hotel in Brooklyn makes it all look very neat. There are little squares for houses; you can recognize a ballfield, or two, several parks and the old Navy yard in the northwest corner. Roughly in the middle is Fulton St. Under it rumbles the A-train. Duke Ellington urged everyone to take up to Harlem. On the south are the genteel red brick apartment houses of Eastern Parkway.

Broadway, a street of small shops, and Washington Av. are boundaries on the east and west. Between these boundaries, larger than most U.S. cities, lies Bedford-Stuyvesant: 90 per cent Negro and Puerto Rican, population 400,000.

The photo is deceiving. It isn't all neat. In Bedford-Stuyvesant there are pleasant tree-lined streets with sturdy brownstones, but just around the corner are some of the worst slums in the country. Some 3,000 abandoned cars at times litter its 65 blocks—six square miles. The infant mortality rate is a shocking 39 deaths a thousand. Twenty-eight per cent of the residents are unemployed. Seventy per cent of the children who enter first grade don't graduate from high school.

And until recently, there was little hope.

THE NEW HOPE for Bedford-Stuyvesant, the nation's second largest ghetto (after South Side Chicago), is a unique partnership between big business and blacks.

It was a partnership conceived and initiated by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. And it may prove to be his most significant living memorial. One thing is clear: the work will go on with vigor, despite the assassination of Kennedy.

"We've set up a special meeting of the board for next week just to make a strong public reaffirmation of that," said former Treasury Sec. C. Douglas Dillon, chairman of the Bedford-Stuyvesant Development & Services Corp., one of the two non-profit groups working to aid the ghetto. "This is unique in the East. We've got this great opportunity and challenge and we're going to go on and meet it."

Since December, 1966, when Kennedy suggested the plan for improving the ghetto, significant progress has been made. International Business Machines Corp. has leased an old warehouse in the slums and is turning it into a computer cable factory, which will employ 300 residents. More than 80 banks and insurance companies have formed a pool so homeowners can get low-cost mortgages. Local labor has renovated houses on 11 blocks. Initial training programs are under way to give 2,700 persons skills.

AN ABANDONED dairy is being turned into a community center and two streets are being designed as "super blocks" with park and fountains to give some idea of the joys of suburban living. There is a television program that fosters community pride.

But all agree, this is just the beginning of what needs to be done. "The question is really what the cities mean," says Franklin A. Thomas, speaking in his office in the Granada, which is decorated with the aerial photo of Bedford-Stuyvesant. Thomas, a former New York City deputy police commissioner, who was raised in Bedford-Stuyvesant, is president and executive director of the community-based Restoration Corp., which works in partnership with the Development & Services Corp.

"This project," says Thomas, "may be a model for similar efforts across the country which take into account the growing nationalism and self-identity of residents of ghetto areas and build on it in a meaningful, productive way—not in terms of separatism, but in coalition."

In a large sense, many persons see Bedford-Stuyvesant as a laboratory which is examining whether in this turbulent era democratic planning from the bottom up can succeed with blacks and whites working together. Self-determination by ghetto residents is a key. They work to build a self-generating economy in the area in partnership with whites.

KENNEDY'S interest in helping rebuild Bedford-Stuyvesant stemmed from a tour of the ghetto in February, 1966. It was the kind of visit that has been routine for political figures for many years. And when the senator arrived, some community leaders refused to tour the streets with him. But they did turn up at a YMCA where 500 residents made it clear how fed up they were with token visits from the white world.

But it wasn't a token visit. And in December, 1966, to many people's surprise, Kennedy returned with a complete plan for launching the revival of the ghetto.

Basic to the plan was creation of two corporations. The community-based Restoration Corp. has a board of 22 members.

Decisions on programs to undertake are largely in the hands of the Restoration Corp., representing citizens of the ghetto.

The current program is largely funded with $7,000,000 from the U.S. Labor Department and roughly $2,000,000 from the Astor, Stern and Ford foundations.

EARLY EFFORTS at mustering co-operation and early rivalries between the two boards now largely have been overcome through the leadership of Thomas and John M. Doar, president and executive director of the Development & Services Corp.

Doar, former head of the Justice Department's civil rights division, and Thomas, 34, have much in common. Doar, 46, is from a small town in Wisconsin. He went to Princeton. Both he and Thomas, who survived the street and starred in basketball at Columbia, are lawyers. They are honest, tough and extremely realistic. Doar is so modest, people think he is taciturn. Thomas is highly articulate. But they communicate their commitment not only to visitors but to the ghetto itself.

"It gives a chance for the men in Bedford-Stuyvesant to do things they are fully capable of doing," says Doar of the project.

Says Thomas of his job: "You need general experience in administering multiple projects, close identification with the community, a willingness to take a back seat, to persevere. You need some overriding perspective which sees the big picture, with a willingness to talk to any trainee who thinks you have $7,000,000 in your pocket and thinks you can make all things happen."

One of the first things that did happen was restoration of row-house fronts on 11 blocks. It was a difficult task, designed to show residents things could happen. Teams of 272 unemployed persons, mostly unskilled, were recruited and trained. Home owners contributed $25 each and pledged to keep up their property and to work to improve the interior of their houses.

"It was hard to organize," admits Modesto Bravo, president of a block association on Halsey St., where work was done. "I had to go to the people and tell them to sign the petition. It wasn't an easy job."

The houses on Halsey and on the other blocks have been kept up since the improvements last summer. And some of the trainees have formed six companies which are now at work on other projects in the ghetto. One of the companies has prospered so well that it plans to bid on New York City contracts if it can receive the necessary performance bond.

Bravo, who works in New York's garment district, takes pride in pointing to a new wood-paneled room in his basement. Outside contractors estimated work on the room would cost $2,000. One of the six companies did it for $250.

On some of the streets there are now signs. "This is our block," the signs read. "Please keep it beautiful."

But perhaps the most significant project, although largely invisible, is the mortgage pool. It is enabling some residents to break the cycle of poverty. The pool of 80 financial institutions was set up largely with the aid of Moore, the First National City Bank's chairman.

Before the pool, mortgage money had all but dried up in the ghetto. And the few mortgages which were available to homeowners carried such high interest rates that property improvements were impossible.

Sometimes, two or even three mortgages were needed before a family could buy a home. A typical family often found itself paying $339 a month for its mortgage and other debts. Under the pool program, which is insured by the Federal Housing Administration, debts are consolidated and payments are spread over a longer term.

A typical family now might pay $182 a month.

Release Fashion Awards

NEW YORK -- A woman and a man who occupy opposite ends of the design and price spectrum have won the top honors in the 1968 Coty American Fashion Critics Awards.

The judges—newspaper and magazine reporters and editors who cover fashion—voted to confer the bronze statuettes called Winnies on Luba of Elites Inc., a designer of moderately priced, junior size coats and suits, and George Halley, a specialist in spectacular evening dresses that often cost several thousand dollars.

Return awards were given to Ronnie Cashin, a sportswear designer of uniquely American cast, and Oscar De La Renta, a Dominican-born, Paris-trained designer with an affinity for the American socialite.

Special awards recognized the contribution of Bill Blass to the rapidly changing sphere of men's fashion and Giorgio Sant'Angelo, an Italian couturier.

OVERWHELMING enthusiasm was registered by the judges for the award to Miss Cashin. "The great American individualist," who designs for Sills & Co., was acclaimed for her imitable and consistent explorations with leather, tweed and canvas and her enduring affection for the concept of layered clothes.

Miss Cashin won her first Winnie in 1950, her first special award in 1961.

Oscar De La Renta's return award comes with a hiatus. In 1967, he was honored for his "beautifully cut, fitted and shaped" clothes. His admirers are not reluctant to apply the word "elegant" to them even though it smacks of the waning haute couture.

He was trained in that medium, first at Balenciaga's workrooms in Madrid, then in Paris as an assistant to Antonio Del Castillo at Lanvin-Castillo.

Christ The King Scene Of Lynn-Sorenson Vows

Cheryl L. Lynn became the bride of Roger Sorenson in a double-ring ceremony Saturday, June 15 in Christ the King Church, Livonia. A reception following the ceremony, was held in Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, Plymouth.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lynn of Livonia. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Myron Sorenson of St. Ignace, Mich.

The bride's gown had a long, tiered skirt with a fitted bodice and was trimmed in chantilly lace and rhinestones. A headpiece of seed pearls secured her shoulder-length illusion veil. She carried a cascade of carnations and sweetheart roses.

Joan Lynn, the bride's sister-in-law, was matron of honor. Her bridesmaids were Ralynne Westenhoefer and Linda Igagud. They wore full-length rainbow gowns in pink, blue and yellow, each trimmed at the bodice with a green velvet bow.

Each attendant carried a cascade of carnations matching her gown.

Mrs. Lynn wore a green dress under matching green lace coat and Mrs. Sorenson chose a beige lace dress.

Duane Sorenson, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. The bridegrooms brothers, Merle and Gerald, were ushers.

Following their honeymoon in Wisconsin, the couple will make their home in Westland.

Household Plastics Finding Wider Use

The use of plastics in home appliances is increasing. Some homemakers, however, may feel that plastics are poor substitutes for materials more familiar to them.

Helen E. Bell, extension home management specialist of The Pennsylvania State University, points out that industry has observed that customers accept plastics only where accustomed to them or where there is little or no choice.

SOME REASONS for the expanded use of plastics in home appliances are that plastics offer more design freedom and production flexibility, more strength and durability with less weight, better color consistency, and improved appearance. All these qualities are for a lower cost.

Plastics are moving from use in product interiors to more visible application says Miss Bell. These include nonstick coatings, silicone finishes, and thermoplastic on table and counter tops.

How soon will homemakers accept all-plastic refrigerators, a chromed-plastic body of an appliance and trimming, or plastic replacements for metal in equipment?

THE MANY KINDS of plastics can be divided into two main categories—thermoplastics and thermosetting. Thermoplastics are softened by heat and hardened by cooling, such as refrigerator door liners molded in one piece.

Thermosetting plastics do not break down under heat.

A sandwich for breakfast? Why not!

Many young people complain that breakfast just isn't for them. What they may mean is, they are tired of the same old thing. They will respond with enthusiasm if advised, or allowed, to go "unconventional" for a change.

I can't see the difference, particularly, if a young boy would prefer to have a fried egg sandwich instead of cooked eggs and toast. And if he wants to add catsup, in reasonable amounts, what's the difference? It may not appeal to you or me at breakfast. But catsup should not be relied upon for vitamin C and other nutrients we expect from, say, tomato and other fruit juices or citrus products at breakfast. Catsup just doesn't contain much vitamin C. Your son will still need fruit juice or fruit for that.

Another excellent breakfast item would be a cheeseburger—this, for the person who wants occasionally to avoid eggs at breakfast just for a change. Or, how about creamed chipped beef? Or turkey or ham in a cream sauce on toast? These add butter and milk to your breakfast fare.

Milk, incidentally, adds much to breakfast. Besides its protein, vitamins, and minerals, the moderate amount of fat in whole milk helps make breakfast satisfy until lunch time. Then there's the old New England breakfast of apple pie and baked beans. This may be more of a winter dish, but not necessarily—especially if it's a cooler summer morning. Baked apples, prepared the night before, are delicious with cream or milk at breakfast. Fruit in gelatin with cream is as good at breakfast as any other time.

But back to our sandwiches for breakfast. There are frozen fillet of sole that have become a favorite with youngsters and adults at drive-in hamburger stands. The fillets are featured in a bun the same as hamburger. Or fish sticks in a bun are similar. Why not one of these for breakfast? It doesn't take long to pan fry them in butter, or to deep fry or broil them, and pop them in a bun.

Or an egg salad sandwich, laced with crisp, cooked bacon. Or a fried egg and sausage patty sandwich. For that special crunch, be sure and toast the bun somewhat.

Beauty Contestants Get Strict Rules

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—The 21 contestants for the 1968 Miss West Virginia pageant each received a list of rules which prohibit them during the week long pageant, from: speaking to men, including male family members; wearing mini-skirts; accepting or making phone calls; opening their mail; and smoking in public.

Advice at the bottom of the rules pamphlet suggested the girls smile with 'starlight in your eyes' and practice a 'floating walk.'

Air Force Vacancies Exist For Women

Lt. Colonel Lawrence E. Stephens, Commander of Air Force Recruiting activities in Michigan, announced, "It is anticipated that the number of Women in the Air Force will increase by 2,000 enlisted women and 150 officers in the new fiscal year, which begins July 1, 1968."

Colonel Stephens continued, "Total strength figures at the end of the forthcoming fiscal year, are projected to be 8,000 WAF enlisted and 1,000 WAF officers with enlisted strength of 13,700 by 'mid '70s. These women will be moving into career areas previously not authorized. New uniform styles have also been adopted." "As a result of the projected vacancies," he went on to say, "our Air Force Recruiting Force in Michigan can now accept more applications from qualified applicants to fill these vacancies."

WHEN ASKED what the qualifications are, he outlined them as follows: "An enlisted WAF must be a high school graduate, single, and qualify on both mental and physical examinations. If under 21 years of age, both parents must consent to her enlistment."

"A WAF officer must be a college graduate, and be able to meet physical and mental qualifications."

He continued "Don't forget about our need for Nurses, as well as for our enlisted and officer corps. Nurses serve as both a nurse and officer. She must be a registered nurse to apply, and is given a direct appointment as an officer."

Colonel Stephens concluded, by urging any high school or college graduates, or registered nurses, who are interested in applying for a vacancy they're qualified for, to contact their nearest Air Force Recruiting Representative.

Add a touch of whimsy to your property by painting your sidewalks in a color that co-ordinates with that of your home. This will particularly enhance a winding, interesting walk. Use an alkali resistant paint designed for masonry floor surfaces. You will probably find that a latex paint is easiest to use.

Do I get the highest bank earnings in Detroit or don't I?

You'll get them, if you bring your savings to Bank of the Commonwealth.

We're the only bank in the city that continuously compounds 5% interest on savings certificates to net you even more.

That means we figure interest every minute of every day on our computers. Every minute you're getting interest on your savings plus interest on the interest you've already earned.

We'll guarantee these earnings for 12 months or 46 months; whichever you prefer. With our 12-month certificate, you'll earn an effective rate of 5%. At the end of 46 months, you'll receive an effective interest rate of 5½%.

If you prefer greater flexibility, you can get 5% certificates that mature in 90 days and are automatically renewable.

One last thing. You don't need big money to start earning big money. Just $100 starts you off at Commonwealth—not the $1,000 or more you need at other financial institutions.

Now that that's all cleared up, why not stop in and look us over? We'll be happy to give you the straight-talk on savings, checking or any other banking need you have, too.

Cost More To Exist In Florida

ATLANTA, Ga. -- A federal survey revealed that couples contemplating retirement would be better off moneywise in parts of the sunny South other than Florida.

The cost per couple in some non-metropolitan southern areas ran $3,200 a year, as contrasted with the higher yearly figure of $3,600 in Florida, according to the survey which was made public by the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Since the fall of 1966 when budget costs were assessed, the cost of living has risen 4.7 per cent.

The seven metropolitan areas checked and yearly cost per couple were: Nashville, Tenn., $3,721; Baton Rouge, La., $3,486; Atlanta, $3,561; Austin, Tex., $3,534; Dallas, Tex., $3,639; Houston, Tex., $3,628; and Orlando, Fla., $3,688.

St. Petersburg, Fla., often referred to as the mecca for retirees who flee south, was not included in the survey.

In conclusion, the survey showed that the same type budget in each of the southern areas costs less than the national average of $3,869 and less than any of 32 other areas studied.

Networks Ready For Conventions

Competition between the two major television networks will reach an all-time high during the national presidential conventions.

CBS and NBC expect to spend about $5 million each on their full-time coverage of each convention. ABC, for fiscal reasons, will have regular entertainment programs until its 9:30 to 11 p.m. summaries.

NBC will be back with the 1964 anchor team of Huntley-Brinkley, John Chancellor, Sander Vanocur, Edwin Newman, Frank McGee, Jack Perkins and Douglas Kiker will back them up, tracking candidates and covering the convention floor.

Walter Cronkite will again head the CBS contingent. Roger Mudd and Eric Sevareid will share a studio. Mike Wallace, Harry Reasoner, Theodore H. White and Art Buchwald will round out the "big name" CBS reporters.

ABC's new format of analysis, comment and video-taped highlights will be headed by Howard K. Smith. Correspondents include William H. Lawrence, John Scall, Joseph C. Harsch, Bob Young and Frank Reynolds. Gore Vidal and William F. Buckley Jr. will be on hand for nightly debates or discussions.

With over 20 million color TV sets now in American homes, these will be the first conventions broadcast in color. Each network has permission to use three portable color cameras on the convention floor.

Each has been issued about 700 passes for personnel involved in the broadcasts.

NBC topped the ratings for the 1964 conventions. CBS will counter the Huntley-Brinkley attraction with the Cronkite-Mudd-Sevareid threesome. ABC may come up a winner with the entertainment plus coverage package.

Television has brought about many changes since its first convention in 1952. It ended the era of the oldtime, long-winded perspiring, shirt-sleeved orator. The parties now caution their delegates to shorten their speeches, control their gestures and look interested.

Economics Will Keep Many Negroes Out Of Suburbs

Open housing laws may have helped the nation enforce the spirit of its ideals, but it did not really pave the way for more Negroes to move into suburbs.

That was the conclusion drawn from a survey of realtors across the nation who said economics would determine the changing patterns of American life.

One agent in Laramie, Wyo., reported a Negro can buy any home he wants, if he can afford it.

"Seventy-five per cent of the Negroes are not financially able to buy," says a Ohio realtor, R.J. Birch.

"THEY JUST don't have the money to make the down payments and meet interest rates," Alan Kurtz, a realtor in Pittsburgh said.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in what many felt was its most important civil rights decision since the landmark 1954 prohibition against school segregation, ruled recently existing federal laws forbid all discrimination in sale or rental of housing.

While many hailed a decision they said swept away the last stumbling blocks toward open housing in America, the nation's realtors were not so sure.

Many indicated that while the barriers of racial discrimination may have all but crumbled, a perhaps less-subtle but no less effective segregation—money—might keep Negroes from rushing to suburbia.

The most dramatic instance of inability on the part of a Negro family to afford suburbia's trees and crabgrass was the case of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lee Jones.

It was on their behalf that the Supreme Court appeal was made after Jones, a Negro, and his white wife were refused a $30,000 home they wished to purchase in the Paddock Woods subdivision in St. Louis.

Recently the nation's highest court, citing a 102-year-old Reconstruction Era statute, ruled the Joneses could keep up with their white neighbors.

But now Joe and Barbara Jo Jones cannot afford the home. The price has climbed to $36,000.

ECONOMICS — cold cash — not racial bias may be the thing that now will prevent the Negro from fleeing the ghetto, the UPI survey showed.

But many realtors questioned indicated that the doors may swing open, slowly, to be sure, for the increasing number of middle class Negroes. As the standard of living increases among the nation's minorities, they said, the results of the court ruling would become more obvious:

More Negroes will soon be able to afford the $25,000 to $40,000 home in Westchester County, N.Y., in Marin County, Calif., in Lorain County, Ohio, and similar affluent places.

Under the 1968 Civil Rights Act, Congress said that only homes sold through realtors were covered under open housing statutes. The court made it clear that even if the seller decides not to list with a realtor, he can be liable for racial discrimination.

Realtors said not only would it take some of the responsibility for alleged racial prejudice from their shoulders, but it probably would bring back those homeowners who, because they refused to sell to Negroes, would not list their homes on the open market.

Ronald Davis, a broker in Pittsburgh, said that "previously, realtors were regulated concerning discrimination, while the person selling his home was not."

"As a result, people who had Negro buyers sent to their homes looked upon the realtors as villains."

A Negro realtor, Glen L. Edwards of Salt Lake City, agreed.

"Most realtors would like to do what's right and now they can work in an atmosphere where they can legally do it."

But not all realtors were happy with the decision. In many areas of the nation brokers have been accused of helping perpetuate the white status of hundreds of neighborhoods and communities, and their responses—or nonresponses—to the survey indicated many were not contrite.

IN GARDEN CITY, an affluent Long Island suburb of New York, four realtors called either absolutely refused to speak about the court ruling, or simply hung up as soon as they determined the thrust of the questions. Garden City, where homes start at $30,000, is all white.

J.E. Sheppard, chairman of the Legislative Commission of the Mississippi Board of Realtors, sharply castigated the court decision.

"As long as courts are loaded with left wing liberals, we will continue to lose God-given rights of freedom of choice and expression," he said.

Larry Chambers, executive vice president of the Columbus, Ohio, Board of Realtors, said the effectiveness of the decision "depends if there are any loopholes in the ruling," and added that Columbus realtors "stand behind the belief that the homeowner should have the final say in who purchases his property."

Chambers said racial imbalance exists because Negroes are "clannish-type people."

said he believed his community would have no trouble living with the ruling, because he said of its Negroes:

"I do not think they would be content to buy anywhere else. We do not have a floating public around here as far as the colored are concerned."

Mrs. Scott Campbell, a realtor in Crossett, Ark., said Negroes there "choose to live with their own kind...they seem to be perfectly happy in their segregated area."

Others hailed the decision. Eric Berkeley, a Seattle, Wash., realtor said the ruling means sellers and realtors "no longer will have a bushel basket under which to duck the issue. The court now has removed the last excuse they could use for not selling because of race."

N.B. Allen, a member of a Columbus, Ohio real estate group called "The Realists," said the decision is "one of the most important rendered by the Supreme Court. It brings us closer to a democratic society than we've ever been."

Among other reactions were those from real estate brokers in Pennsylvania, Colorado, Oregon, Kentucky and other states who said the ruling wouldn't have much effect in their areas because of strong local and state open housing laws.

Secrets Given On Best Way To Lay Floors

The secret of trouble-free hardwood floors lies in correct installation, manufacturers point out.

This includes proper timing, observing precautions in care and handling of the flooring and proper nailing.

For one thing, the flooring should be delivered to the house about five days before installation and piled loosely inside with a temperature of about 70 degrees maintained.

All plaster and cement work should be dry and the painting completed before the flooring is laid. Nailing should be done in accordance with an approved nailing schedule.

Subfloor boards ideally should be no wider than six inches and nailed securely at each bearing point.

Plant Shrubs, Trees Now, Says MSU Expert

The current time of the year lends itself well to the planting of trees and shrubs, according to Dr. Harold Davidson of Michigan State University's Department of Horticulture.

Regardless of whether a full-scale landscaping project is contemplated or the simple planting of a shrub in the shady portion of the backyard is undertaken, properly planted plants will thrive now and provide beauty and enjoyment for years to come.

TO INSURE healthy tree life, Dr. Davidson offers the following planting tips:

If the plants are bare-root (unprotected or unwrapped) when you receive them, keep them in a shaded location and protect the roots from dehydration.

Dig a hole about 12 inches wider than the spread of the roots or the diameter of the pot or ball. For potted or balled plants, the depth of the hole should be the same as the soil mass plus one inch. For bare-root plants, the hole should be deep enough to contain all the roots and establish the plant at the same level at which it was growing previously. A soil line will be visible on the stem of the plant.

If the soil is a heavy clay, it may be necessary to provide drainage. If the soil below the clay is sandy, drainage can be obtained by simply boring a hole through the clay to the sandy subsoil. The hole should then be filled with gravel or sand. If the site does not have a sandy subsoil, the hole should be drained with a tile line connected to a free-flowing drain.

Once the plant has been placed in the hole, non-deteriorating wrapping about the ball such as tarpaper, plastic, etc., should be removed. Light-weight, untreated burlap may be left in place; rot-proof burlap should be removed. Care should be taken not to break up the soil ball.

THE HOLE should then be filled with a loam soil, avoiding clay subsoils. If the soil is sandy, peat moss should be added (one part peat to three parts of soil). Fertilizer should seldom be added at the time of planting. If fertilizer is used, it should be of the slowly soluble type (most organics or metal ammonium phosphates). Do not use a highly soluble fertilizer. Be sure to follow the instructions on the container, since rates of application vary with the various products.

Plantings on sandy soils may benefit by applying one or two inches of woodchips, ground corn cobs, or shredded manure to reduce loss of moisture by evaporation and the growth of weeds.

When the hole is about two-thirds filled, water thoroughly to settle the soil. Complete the filling to ground level, and then, if desired, form a shallow soil saucer around the perimeter of the hole, to serve as a water reservoir.

The plant should be watered thoroughly every 10 to 14 days, provided it hasn't rained heavily

as much trouble as not enough water.

AMA Adopts Guidelines For Organ Plants

The American Medical Association has approved the continuation and expansion of organ transplant operations, pointing out that the technique is on the horizon of new medical advances that may eventually benefit many people.

But at the same time the A.M.A. adopted a broad set of guidelines to insure the rights of persons whose organs may be donated and those who receive them. The guidelines were approved at the association's annual meeting last week in San Francisco.

ORGAN TRANSPLANTS have become one of the new medical wonders that cannot be fitted into the ethical or moral considerations that have ruled medicine up to now the A.M.A. said.

Such questions as when is a person dead, what legal rights does the donor have when his heart is transplanted into another person, when should such an operation be undertaken, who will determine who will get a possibly life-saving transplant when organs are in short supply, and other problems have caused great concern in society.

While the guidelines do not attempt to answer many of these far reaching problems, they are designed to give a practical ethical guide to physicians whose overriding concern is the health of their patients.

MEDICINE has always been guided by the principles that among experiments that may be tried on man, those that can only do harm are forbidden, those that are harmless are permissible, and those that may do good are obligatory, the A.M.A. said.

"A man, in the final analysis, must make a decision whether to permit or perform a transplantation procedure," the association said. "The decision must be a reasoned, intellectual decision, not an emotional decision."

"As medical science advances, and as technological skill increases, the ethical questions involved may become increasingly complex and difficult."

The A.M.A. reaffirmed its 1966 policy on human experimentation which said the voluntary consent must be obtained from the patient or his legally authorized representative after the full facts, risks, and other alternatives have been explained to him.

The new guidelines state that the death of a patient who is to be a donor must be determined by at least one other physician other than the recipient's physician.

Transportation Is Unreliable

Many public transportation systems today are characterized by unreliable schedules, infrequent service, noise, crowding and discomfort, observes the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

HUD says the routes of major urban mass transit systems have tended to remain constant during the last several decades. Many central city systems still stop at city limits, despite the growth of suburbs. And rail system trackage has remained the same.

In 1945, the rail transit trackage in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston totaled 1,222 routes. The total trackage of such systems has not increased to date.

CARE MUST be taken not to relax medical treatment for a patient who may be a prospective donor, the A.M.A. said. The physician must provide his patient with the fullest care.

The physician should not encourage expectations beyond those which the circumstances justify, the guidelines said. He should not build up false hopes of a cure and he should explain the hazards of an experimental procedure.

Transplant procedures should be undertaken only by physicians who possess special medical knowledge and technical competence developed through special training, study, and laboratory experience.

The A.M.A. said that these operations should only be conducted in medical institutions that have the facilities to adequately protect the donor and recipient.

Organ transplants should be conducted only after the physician has carefully evaluated the availability and effectiveness of other therapies and then concludes that the transplant offers the best chance.

"The physician's interest in advancing scientific knowledge must always be secondary to his primary concern for the patient," the A.M.A. said.

New Look At USA For House Boat Crews

Lots of persons are going to get a new perspective on the U.S.A. this year. And it doesn't have a thing to do with politics. They're going to see America from some vantage point along the country's 25,000 miles of inland waterways from aboard their houseboats—or their rented houseboats.

THIS VACATION trend to take to the water in a leisurely way is growing, especially among families who want to team up to get some new kind of fun and share expenses. Since outright ownership can involve around $10,000 for a 35-foot houseboat, you'd probably want to settle for a rental first time out. Have a look at some figures well in advance.

ONE WEEK'S rent for a 35-foot boat can be figured at from $295 to $375, depending on type of power, outboard or inboard. The price can include dishes, pots and pans, etc., but probably not linens. Gasoline and food would be extra, but the rental includes insurance coverage.

So, say, a two-weeks' cruise on a houseboat accommodating six people—maybe two couples and two children or a family with four kids—could run about $900 to $1,000. If these figures look big at first glance, how much did your last cross-country car trip cost? The National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, Inc., has gathered these statistics: boat rent for two weeks, $600 to $650. Gas about $110. Food with extra refreshments, from about $125 to $150. And marina fees, if any, may run about $50 to $75, depending on how many stops are made. Marina fees on a daily basis range from $1 to, at some of the rivers in the Northeast, as high as $4.50.

VETERAN INLAND voyagers report that marina services are getting more deluxe all the time. Not only refueling, but often restaurant facilities, laundry, laundromat, garbage collection, mail service, are dockside conveniences.

Of course, you'll need to know more than the costs of houseboating. You have to know how to handle the boat safely. And you'll have to demonstrate your ability before anybody will rent to you. Basically, they say, the safe handling of a houseboat requires knowledge comparable to that required for handling a traditional cruiser. The public can ask for and get free instruction in boat handling, through courses offered by the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary.

WHILE YOU don't have to be an old hand at water travel in order to plan for a houseboating vacation, there are regulations to abide by and some serious preparation to be made. You'll need a certain amount of knowledge of weather and water conditions, as well as boat handling.

ELEMENTARY TEACHERS from Hayes School, Livonia, and Perrinville School, Nankin Mills, are among those recently completing a two-week workshop in curriculum development at the Wayne County Intermediate School District's ASSIST Center. Among the seven Hayes teachers attending the workshop are: (from left) Dr. Harold Wells, Workshop Director; Bernard Grenda, Mrs. Barbara Nelson, Jan Willett, Mrs. Marilyn Schertzer and Mrs. Nonie Manchester.

The workshop was devoted to the writing of UNIPACS which is a self-contained unit of teacher-learning materials designed to teach a single concept. It is designed for individual and independent use in a continuous progress school program.

Burroughs Computer Aids Dutch

Burroughs Corporation announced it has received a $4 million order for a large-scale dual processor B6500 computer system from N.V. Bankgirocentrale, the central clearing authority for Holland's 70 private commercial banks.

The order is the latest in a series of computer orders totaling about $100 million which Burroughs has received from major overseas banks during the past 15 months.

The B6500 will be installed in December, 1969 in Amsterdam where N.V. Bankgirocentrale is building new offices to serve member banks.

The system will clear all money transfers among the more than 3 1/2 million accounts serviced by N.V. Bankgirocentrale member banks. Burroughs random access disk files with a capacity of 800 million digits of information will contain individual account data.

The third generation B6500 will be one of the most powerful EDP systems ever installed in Holland. It will be capable of handling more than 1,000,000 transactions per hour during peak operations. Dual processors and other hardware features give the B6500 system a "failsafe" capability insuring continued operation in the event of a component failure.

The comfortable feeling that everything is in order comes only through integrity.

Tourists May Follow Ancient Vikings Path

One thousand years ago, Vikings sailed past the fjord-bitten coast of Labrador and recorded its landmarks in their sagas.

Today you can follow in their wake, cruising this Canadian Arctic threshold past ghostly icebergs, stretches of wind-swept tundra and Eskimo and Indian villages.

From St. John's, capital of Canada's far - eastern island province of Newfoundland, Canadian National Railway steamships carry passengers and cargo to far-flung ports on the island and Labrador coasts.

One of the most popular trips is the 1,303-mile cruise from St. John's to Nain, Labrador's most northerly community. Cost of a one-way first-class trip (11 days) on the M. V. Bonavista or M. V. Nona is approximately $103 Canadian. A first-class round-trip berth (20 days) is about $206.

DAYS will be long and warmed by the Arctic sun; nights spectacular under the changing colored patterns of the Northern Lights. But bring along warm clothing. . . the weather can turn chilly.

In June, the new passenger ferry, the Ambrose Shea, went into service between North Sydney, Nova Scotia and Argentia, Newfoundland. From Argentina it's just a short drive to historic St. John's, Canada's oldest European-settled city. Once under way, the cruise-ship stops at several Newfoundland ports, including St. Anthony where passengers can shop for souvenirs. From St. Anthony, headquarters of the International Grenfell Association, medical teams patrol the coast in hospital ships.

Next, the ship moves out into the Strait of Belle Isle, passing L'Anse Aux Meadows, site of North America's first proven Viking settlement.

THE FIRST Labrador port of call is the picturesque fishing settlement of Battle Harbour. Then it's on up the coast with stops at several more small outposts.

The ships are the lifelines of these remote, northern communities and it's a big day when they dock. The whole village comes down to the wharf and huskies howl their reply to the boat's whistle.

After steaming past the rocky coast through a maze of small islands, the ship passes the tidal rips of the 'Narrows' into the placid beauty of Lake Melville. Ports of call in the lake include the modern airbase of Goose Bay and the old trapping Community of North West Harbour.

Once on the coast again you're in the land of the Eskimo. As the boats move further north, the icebergs become thicker and larger with layers of light green and blue and glittering white. Seals may pop up beside the boat and whales are spotted.

When the blazing northern sun meets the icy waters, 'looms' -- magnified inverted images of islands, boats and lighthouses--often appear in the sky.

From boatside, brightly colored roofs with graceful cupolas identify the Moravian Missions common in these northern communities. The mission at Hopedale houses a collection of old Eskimo artifacts.

AT DAVIS INLET, Nascapi Indians use their ancient skills to craft feather-light canoes, drums and expertly tanned deerskin garments. At Postville the natives are learning new skills--how to repair and operate tractors, till the soil and build homes and schools.

Further north, the fjords become more beautiful, some 30 miles deep with sheer cliffs on either side.

At Nain, end of the one-way journey, the hills rise almost perpendicularly from the water's edge and another Moravian Mission breaks the village skyline.

For more information on Newfoundland or Labrador write the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, Ottawa, Canada. Ask for kit number 30 and you will receive, free of charge, maps and literature on the area.

Newly Weds Boost Nation's Economy

NEW YORK -- Newlyweds now account for more than $4 billion in annual retail sales, a study of consumer purchasing shows.

Spider Control

Although pinpoint in size, spider mites are destructive plant pests, especially on evergreens. Warm weather sparks their activity, so it's a good rule to check yews, spruces, and junipers for infestations. Needles on infested branches will turn yellow or brown and drop. Effective spray materials, especially formulated for spider mite control are available at garden supply stores.

According to the Sindlinger & Co. Research department, the total outlay represents spending on major and lesser household furnishings, plus luggage, tableware and clothing. The report followed the screening of more than 31,000 households, either by personal calls or telephone interviews, ending with direct questioning of 613 first-married couples. In home furnishings and appliance products, the bridal market accounted for a total of $1.9 billion.

Introduce Pure White Gloxinia

George Park Seed Co. has a new Gloxinia, Royal White. The color is pure white, but if the light is intense, a light pink blush appears, making the flower even more attractive. The blooms are large, very fully double, one of the most perfect and pleasing in this family.

Fifty to seventy-five percent of the plants produce exquisite double flowers with an interesting variation in form. Twenty-five per cent produce attractive giant single flowers.

Jerry Built Badly

"Jerry-built," which has an unknown origin according to Webster's Dictionary, comes from the name of a disreputable English construction company. Jerry Brothers, Builders and Contractors gave 19th century Liverpool many showy but poorly constructed houses and gave the language a new term.

Frozen Mushrooms

Commercially frozen mushrooms are available and may be cooked just like fresh ones. Or, when fresh mushrooms are very attractively priced, buy an extra supply and freeze for future use. Frozen raw, they will keep a month. If blanched by steaming or boiling, they will keep longer than a month.

Baby Knows Best

Since much of the beauty of the new hairstyles depends on hair's natural shine, many women will have to shampoo more often than usual. Those who find frequent shampooing a problem should try using baby shampoo. It will give hair the delicate, yet thorough, cleaning it needs.

Church Reforms Mark Pope's First Five Years

Pope Paul VI has completed five years in the papacy, a period which has placed the Catholic Church in a current sweeping it up in the most startling ferment in centuries.

The pope, who assumed the papal throne June 21, 1963, is in a turmoil since he wishes to renew the church but yet is afraid the changes may get out of hand.

On the one hand, the pope has carried out reforms in the Roman curia (administration) and the papal court, has led a movement of cooperation with Protestant and Orthodox bodies, has implemented ecumenical council innovations and has carried the papacy to the world as the most-traveled Roman pontiff in history.

On the other hand, he has had to contend with Catholic thinkers in Holland whose ideas seem to some to border on heresy, theologians and priests in Europe and Latin America who advocate violent overthrow of dictatorial regimes, and a restive segment of Catholic population that demands changes in the church's traditional stand on birth control, priestly celibacy and other such subjects.

HE HAS SEEN the stature of the papacy rise to new heights and at the same time he has seen many nominal Catholics turning away from the church, financial contributions declining and fewer and fewer men and women—relative to world population—willing to go into the priesthood or religious orders.

How does the pope, who will be 71 in September, view these trends?

To many, he seems a worrier and a pessimist. They see in many of his pronouncements a cry of despair, and the pope himself said only recently he feels "deep concern and sometimes great bitterness" over some modern trends in religion.

"All the world is cutting itself off from a sense of God," he said.

His close aids strongly deny he is pessimistic.

"He just has a broader vision than most of us and sees the problems more acutely," said one. "Some people seem to feel the late Pope John's call for a renewal in the church gave them a license to dismantle the whole structure. The pope knows he is called as Christ's representative to defend the church. He isn't authorized to dismantle what has been built up over the centuries."

IN A FORCEFUL statement last April 25, the pope made it clear that he was for church renewal—but not to the extent of tampering with long-established doctrine.

"Renewal, yes, arbitrary change, no," he said. Some observers accuse Pope Paul of being more conservative than the late Pope John XXIII, but Paul's contribution to the renewal process—particularly in the government of the church—has been striking.

He has gone far beyond John in shaking up the conservative Roman curia, seeking to inject it with new ideas and a truly international flavor and in removing some showy trills of the papal court. Few people who have not had direct contact with the Vatican can appreciate what a significant and difficult undertaking this has been.

In fact, it has earned Paul his share of enemies inside the Vatican.

There have been repeated whisperings in the Vatican to the effect that the pope is sick—fatally sick, some say. Those who are closest to him say it is not so. The pope's recent decision to fly to Bogota, Colombia, in August seems the clearest evidence available that he is not ill, although his recovery from prostate surgery last November has been slower than expected.

The 11,660-mile Bogota round trip will be the longest ever made by a pope and the sixth of Paul's reign. Previous trips to the Holy Land, India, the United Nations in New York, Portugal and Turkey have enabled more people to see him and hear his message than any pontiff in history.

POPE PAUL also has carried the church to the world in other ways—principally in speaking out strongly for peace in Viet Nam and the Middle East, for racial justice in the United States and for action to alleviate the misery of the millions living in poor nations.

He also has continued Pope John's efforts to promote better relations between the church and the communist world and somewhat erratically, John's effort to disengage the church from direct involvement in Italian politics.

Despite all this, he has never succeeded in stirring the worldwide outpouring of love and affection that John aroused.

Those closest to Paul seem impressed most of all by his gentleness of manner, his almost-overweening concern for others and his occasional wit. But somehow in public this does not come across.

Despite a somewhat frail constitution, he is one of the hardest-working popes anyone at the Vatican can remember. Before his operation, the light in his study often burned until 1:30 in the morning, but he now is usually in bed by midnight, and rises between 6 and 7 a.m.

POPE JOHN used to like to stroll through the Vatican's splendid gardens, but Paul is too busy and rarely goes there. For relaxation and reflection, he takes walks in a small garden he has had built atop the Vatican palace.

The present age is, he says, irreligious. It was in part because of this that John began trying to update the church, so men would turn back to it.

Merely beginning this was difficult, but Paul has the immensely more complex job of guiding it and of seeing that the forces for change unleashed in the church do not end by destroying its very nature.

On questions such as birth control the pressures on the pope are enormous. If he relaxes the church's historic ban on artificial birth control, he faces the risks inherent in saying the church has been wrong on the subject for centuries. If he does not, he risks the charge he is turning the church's face away from the modern world.

Many observers regard this as Pope Paul's greatest dilemma as he goes over into his sixth year. Whatever his decision, it could well be the one by which history will judge his reign.

Admiral Defends Vietnam

BANGKOK — The over-all commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific and Asia, stepping down after four years, said American military power should remain in Southeast Asia regardless of the outcome in Vietnam.

But Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp Jr. said he thinks that in the future countries asking American help against Communist attack must be willing to provide the majority of the ground troops, if they have the manpower.

Except for staying out of large scale involvement with land forces, the 62-year-old admiral, whose headquarters is in Honolulu, defended continued American military presence in Southeast Asia to arrest the southward intrusion of communism into Laos, Cambodia (where American aid presently is unwanted), Thailand and Malaysia.

SHARP, although himself a "black shoe" sailor who has commanded surface warships but never aircraft carriers, said air power was the element the United States could best provide Allies in any future wars against Communist aggression.

He said a lesson learned in Vietnam was that helicopters were essential to troop mobility, and logistical supply by larger aircraft was "a tremendous asset."

The army helicopter fleet—"We have a lot but we need even more," he said—makes one American division equal to three in past conflicts because they can be flown rapidly to trouble spots without need for air strips. With well equipped and aggressive Allied ground forces, the same would be true, he declared.

Sharp, here to say farewell to Thailand's king and fellow Thai officers in regional military alliances, also praised the underpublicized role of the short-field air transport in Vietnam. He referred to the C-123 and C-130 and the former army Caribou now flown by the Air Force. With roads almost totally denied by the enemy to Allied truck movement, hundreds of these planes every day move ammunition, food and water to the infantryman, and evacuate the wounded.

NOTED FOR his diplomatic as well as warrior skill, Sharp declined to discuss the Vietnam conflict, saying he didn't want to risk upsetting the Paris peace talks. He only gingerly ventured into geopolitics concerning the Pacific rim countries.

Industrial Complex Penetrating Into Pentagon

A lobbying group so powerful and influential it has almost become a fourth branch of government has penetrated deeper into the Pentagon, arousing old fears expressed by President Eisenhower in 1961.

Eisenhower warned against "unwarranted influence" by what he described as the "military-industrial complex." This is a complex of associations representing huge industrial concerns receiving contracts from the military. Although not registered as lobbyists, these associations exert a great deal of pressure upon Congress, the Pentagon, and the military services.

In the seven years he ran the Pentagon, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara nearly always was able to block such undue influence. In a broad departure from past Pentagon practice, he, rather than the military, made the decisions on the weapons the services could buy and how much could be spent for them.

Shortly before his retirement from office, McNamara said he had lost only two per cent of his battles with the complex, and "in those instances we failed to present our case properly."

Thus far, the relationship of McNamara's successor, Clark M. Clifford, to the complex is not clear. Congressional Quarterly was told by authoritative Pentagon and industry sources that Clifford so far has been "extremely preoccupied with Vietnam policy matters," where he is thought to be playing "an influential role in the de-escalation of the bombing and holding the line on ground force commitments." As a consequence, these sources said, he is spending little time on decisions relating to the procurement of costly weapon systems—the area where they say McNamara was "at his toughest."

IN RECENT weeks, these observers told CQ, Clifford has been delegating decisions on weapons procurement to his deputy, Paul H. Nitze, a former Secretary of the Navy. Thus far, the sources say, Nitze has shown a reluctance to grapple with the complex, particularly on decisions that involve his former service.

This is best illustrated, the Pentagon sources said, by Nitze's compromise with the Navy's anti-F-111B faction, which sought a Navy-developed substitute aircraft thought to be more costly and only slightly better in performance than the F-111B. After Nitze's compromise, which envisioned a slow phaseout of the F-111B program, the Senate moved to kill the program immediately, and the House is expected to do the same.

The sources said Nitze also had made decisions favoring the Navy on a "wide range of other programs that should have been dropped entirely or at least cut back."

A source close to Nitze, however, denied that Clifford had been delegating as much authority as had been contended. He said both Clifford and Nitze had been "just as tough on the services as McNamara had."

Because of the renewed relevance of the "complex" issue, Congressional Quarterly recently released an exclusive study examining the role of Congress, the military services, defense contractors and the service associations in defense procurement decisions. Following are the highlights of the study:

ROLE OF CONGRESS -- Charged with the responsibility of appropriating more than $75 billion each year for defense—and in the process deciding how to meet the conflicting claims of competing services for a larger share of the pie—Congress is up to its ears in the military-industrial issue.

Collectively, the record shows, members of Congress strive to sift fact from fancy and to point up and root out instances of waste and duplication in the defense program. The record also shows that, individually, the members are zealous in representing the interests of their districts and states. Here are some examples:

Bonanzas for Key Members -- Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., a member of the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, said in 1960 that "you can look at some of our key people in the key places in Congress and go see how many military establishments are in their districts."

One off-cited example is the state of Georgia, which has the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D), and also had the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee until the 1965 retirement of Rep. Carl M. Vinson (D-1914-1965). To the proposal that a new Air Force installation be placed in Georgia, one general is credited with replying that "one more base would sink the state."

The district of present House Armed Services Committee Chairman L. Mendel Rivers (D-S.C.) has been described as a "microcosm of the military-industrial complex." The district, which consists of Charleston and several neighboring counties, includes a naval station and shipyard, an air base, an army depot, a missile plant and a mine warfare center. Science Magazine in its March 15, 1968, issue, quoted Rivers as saying that he had brought in "90 per cent" of the installations.

At the March 2, 1968, rollout ceremony for the giant C-5A cargo aircraft at the Lockheed Aircraft plant at Marietta, Ga., President Johnson warmly complimented the Georgia Congressional delegation for helping to land the contract for their state. "I would have you good folks of Georgia know that there are a lot of Marietta, Georgias, scattered throughout our 50 states," the President said. "...All of them would like to have the pride that comes from this production... But all of them don't have the Georgia delegation." Johnson specifically cited the influence of the Armed Services Committee chairman, Sen. Russell and former Rep. Vinson.

FAIR SHARE -- Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., documenting his case with facts and figures, told the House on June 1, 1959: "I am firmly against the kind of logrolling which would subject our defense program to narrowly sectional or selfish pulling and hauling. But I am getting pretty hot under the collar about the way my state of West Virginia is short-changed in Army, Navy and Air Force installations... I am going to stand up on my hind legs and roar until West Virginia gets the fair treatment she deserves."

On Oct. 8, 1963, Hechler noted with satisfaction that West Virginia's share of military contracts had increased from $36 million in fiscal 1960 to $162 million in fiscal 1963, lifting the state from 46th to 26th place in the nation. (By fiscal 1967, the state had dropped to 34th place.)

Among the greatest pressures of the complex are those that the military services place on the Defense Secretary for an ever-increasing military budget. For fiscal 1969, for example, the services reportedly sought more than $100 billion, which McNamara eventually pared by $20 billion or more.

Locked in tough competition for a share of the resulting budget, the services toil constantly to "sell" their particular doctrines, programs and requirements to the public, industry and Congress. Typical examples: television programs on the Navy's Polaris and "The New Marine," an Army-Industry Liaison Seminar in New Orleans, an Air Force tour of Strategic Air Command headquarters in Omaha for 35 new members of Congress.

The bulk of the services' lobbying effort is conducted by the "legislative liaison" offices of the Defense Department and the three uniformed services, which in fiscal 1967 were appropriated a total of $3,810,458. (This included salaries for 197 civilian and 141 military employees and expenses for handling Congressional inquiries as well as pushing the Pentagon's legislative program.)

The figure dwarfed the $277,524 in lobby expenses reported by the United Federation of Postal Clerks (AFL-CIO), the biggest spender in calendar 1967 among private groups required to report their lobby spending under the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act.

A former government official with experience in lobbying for the Pentagon's lobbyists "have Congress organized like a Marine Corps landing." He said the legislative liaison personnel had the lists of members broken up alphabetically and that when their pressures effort failed or the issue was "extremely crucial," top Pentagon officials or a general or admiral moved in. Currently employed as a lobbyist for private industry, the one-time official told CQ he had "50 times the influence when I was lobbying for the government that I have now."

FOR MANY of the major defense contractors, their only client of any importance is the U.S. Government, and the bulk of their business is obtained through negotiated contracts with one or more of the armed services. An analysis of the 38 major defense contractors for the period 1961-67 showed there were 15 companies that derived more than half of their business from defense contractors.

Defense contracting is a highly competitive field in which a considerable premium is placed on "good personal relations" with the client. Even those companies doing business exclusively with one service will be found supporting all three service sounding boards: the Air Force Association, Navy League and Association of the U.S. Army.

Entertainment practices vary widely throughout the industry, but no one denies that personal friendships play an important part in shaping working relationships between client and vendor. Two episodes serve to illustrate the point.

In one "competition" for a new weapon system, Navy technicians decided to throw out one proposal on grounds it was based on faulty data. Warned by a Navy friend of the impending decision, the contractor promptly went to the admiral in charge and persuaded him to order a 30-day delay to permit all bidders to submit additional data. (The well-informed contractor failed to win in the end, however.)

AN AIR FORCE "competition" for a new missile ended with a top-level decision to award the contract to Company A. Learning of this, the president of Company B went straight to the secretary and persuaded him to order a complete review of the decision. Result: the contract went to Company B.

A 1959 investigation conducted by the House Armed Services special investigations subcommittee, headed by Rep. F. Edward Herbert, D-La., found that more than 1,400 retired military officers in the rank of major or higher—including 261 of general or flag rank—were employed by defense contractors. CQ attempted to obtain more recent employment figures from the Pentagon but was told they were not available to the public.

Despite a 1966 executive order prohibiting a retired officer from "selling" or negotiating contracts with his former service, one industry source told CQ that "at least 90 per cent of the retired officers hired for top-level positions by the defense contractors ignore that regulation."

Backing up the efforts of both the services and the defense contractors are the military and industrial associations—groups of active and retired military personnel, industry officials and other persons interested in pushing the program of a particular military service or defense industry.

All headquartered in Washington, the groups are: The Association of the U.S. Army, with 104,000 members; the Navy League, with 41,000 members; the Air Force Association, with 90,000 members; the Aerospace Industries Association, with 59-member companies; the National Security Industrial Association with 410 member companies; and the American Ordnance Association, whose membership figure was not available.

According to testimony from these groups at the 1959 Herbert investigation, none of the groups had anything to do with procurement; all were ignorant of any "pressure" in behalf of one or another manufacturer.

THE THREE SERVICE groups acknowledged their interest in building up grassroots support for their respective branches of the armed forces. They also maintained that they were fully independent of the services they represented, although the testimony showed that, for the most part, Army, Navy and Air Force doctrines and weapon systems received enthusiastic support in the publications of the respective service organizations.

All of the groups insisted that their primary function was to inform and educate. Only the Aerospace Industries Association had registered under the lobby law, but its spokesman testified that "we believe we do not operate according to the classic definition of a lobbyist... We don't even dream of buying any influence of any kind."

Asked whether the best interests of the industry would be served by an increase or decrease in defense spending, the Association witness said: "From a selfish point of view, the best interest of the industry would be served by an increase of course, but from a patriotic and national point of view, it might not be."

Among the persons interviewed by CQ, those who dismissed the concept of a "military-industrial complex" rested their case squarely on the "national interest"—the need for new armaments to keep abreast of the Soviet Union and other potential foes.

MANY of these sources believed that McNamara's attempts to pare the defense budget amounted to risky gambling with national security. This view was epitomized in the House Armed Services Committee's report on the fiscal 1967 defense procurement bill, which said McNamara's "almost obsessive dedication to cost effectiveness raises the specter of a decisionmaker who... knows the price of everything and the value of nothing."

British History Is Blighted By Cancer Of Violence

LONDON--English monarchs, hidden smugly in the royal palace, lived under constant fear of assassination—especially Queen Victoria whose life was threatened on seven different occasions.

In 1849, a young man fired twice into the royal coach carrying Queen Victoria through Buckingham Palace and missed both times. A shocked England still remembered well the murder of Prime Minister Spencer Perceval in the House of Commons not many years before.

Now, more than a century later, England looks on with horror and just a not of condescension at an America seemingly blighted with the cancer of violence.

ONE HUNDRED years have shaped another England, one which has forgotten the Tower of London, the blood-soaked history on the Tudor kings, and even the gaunt man outside the gates of Buckingham Palace.

It is an England whose police have never been armed, in which the prime minister and members of his government mingle almost freely with crowds, drive to engagements in ordinary automobiles.

They are guarded by police, of course. But a British police guard in no way compares with the small army of Secret Service men surrounding U. S. leaders on public appearances.

"You must understand," said one Scotland Yard representative when asked about the differences between the two nations. "We have a different heritage, a different class history here."

"One might even say, and not entirely facetiously, that our history has had its jolly good fill of violence and murder."

NOT ENTIRELY facetiously. Consider the merest glance through the history books:

—Edward IV had Henry VI tortured, then slain with an incandescent poker in the Tower of London following the battle of Tewkesbury, May 3, 1471.

—Richard II was said to have had his two nephews, rightful heirs to his throne, killed in the tower in 1483. He has also been mentioned as probable murderer of his wife, Anne Neville.

—Henry VIII was responsible for the deaths, among others, of several of his father's ministers, the cleric-philosopher Sir Thomas More, and his third wife, Anne Boleyn.

Today's Britain, existing in another world, may yet be forced to adapt gradually to the pace of its own violent times.

On Aug. 12, 1966, gunmen killed three unarmed British detectives outside the walls of London's Wormwood Scrubs Prison. The resultant outcry rocked a 137-year-old British tradition.

"Is it time to give the policeman a gun?" newspaper headlines asked. "Must our police be left defenseless?"

Police authorities refused. Armed police, they said, would mean more heavily armed criminals, snowballing into a precedent for violence almost...

AMERICAN. The word was on many lips. But the tradition begun in 1829 with the founding of the London Metropolitan Police prevailed. Police have remained unarmed, on the apparent assumption that lawbreakers are still less inclined to carry weapons than they would be if every "Bobby" sported a revolver.

British gun laws, another matter of tradition, are strict.

No man may purchase a firearm unless he first has a police-issued permit. Such licenses are not easy to obtain. Police authorities have cracked down twice in the last three years—on sales of shotguns and of small .22 calibre starter pistols such as are used at athletic events.

Until 1966, both could be obtained through mail order houses. This is no longer the case. Firearms are still available through underworld sources—they always will be. But the process is difficult enough to put off all but the most determined seeker.

"One thing we've got to face," said the Scotland Yard spokesman. "If a man wants a gun badly enough he will get it. The purpose of our laws is to make his getting it as inconvenient as possible."

PUBLIC FIGURES, be they government or royalty, must always reckon to some extent with the "lunatic fringe"—even here.

In the late 1950's an escapee from a mental institution dragged an eight-foot steel girder across railroad tracks shortly to be traveled by a train bearing the Queen. Security forces discovered it—and him—in time.

Detectives at a royal garden party caught a would-be assassin moments before his planned attack on the Queen Mother. "Fanatics and crackpots exist in any society," the police officer said. "It is our job to control and keep track of them."

accept speaking engagements at universities.

Will some disgruntled British factory laborer, perhaps taking his cue from the grim happenings in America, one day change all that and plunge his nation into terror with a single shot?

Military-Industrial Complex Opposes Defense Reductions

WASHINGTON — How big should the nation's defense budget be, once the Vietnam War is over?

Some well-informed experts have suggested—the military-industrial complex being what it is—that it will be difficult.

If not impossible, to jar the Pentagon loose from its comfortably big budget, now at the $80 billion level.

FORMER BUDGET Director Charles L. Schulze, thinks that because it will be difficult to shrink military spending, taxes will have to be raised to provide the "large additional resources (necessary) to meet our social problems."

But Schulze's boss at the Brookings Institution disagrees with him. In a memo to Vice President Hubert Humphrey dated June 14, 1968, Research Director Joseph Pechman questions Schulze's assumptions, and adds:

"It would be unwise to accede to demands for a permanently higher level of defense spending to finance expensive new projects without evaluating the consequences in relation to our foreign and domestic policy goals."

Pechman takes Mr. Humphrey through an arithmetic exercise which leaves a post-Vietnam Pentagon $60 billion a year (virtually the same as the pre-Vietnam $50 billion, adjusted for price changes) allowing $22.7 billion to be re-directed from Vietnam to non-defense programs. "If some decisions already taken will be reversed."

How does this square with the way the Pentagon sees it?

The first thing to report after interviews at the Defense Dept. is that the massive outpourings of funds for Vietnam (now put at $27.5 billion annually) can't be immediately turned off like a spigot.

The Pentagon's jargon for termination of hostilities is "T-Day." And for the day when troops begin to go back home to be deployed, the designation is "R-Day."

BETWEEN T-day and R-day, a key official says, there will be a minimum of six months "while we see if the enemy really intends to keep his promise."

And from R-day to a resumption of a peace-time level of spending, it will take a full two years, "on the most favorable assumptions possible."

Any suspensions of renewed enemy activity, or indications that peace agreements were not being kept would obviously lengthen this minimum transition period of 2 1/2 years from the cessation of the actual hostilities.

Defense manufacturers have been assured privately that their contracts would not be canceled with the end of the war, but phased out, allowing inventories to be built back to a projected "cold base"—the level necessary to assure minimum-strength security in the country after the factories have been shut down.

Once the transition period is over (and it clearly will last longer than either Schulze or Pechman would opt for), the question becomes:

What will be the new level of spending? At the Pentagon, they concede that $20 billion, or so can be saved out of the Vietnam budget. They're willing to knock off $15 billion as the operating costs of the Vietnam War—pay, consumables, food, oil, etc) and $6 billion for ammunition. Another $6 billion representing procurement of aircraft, helicopters, and a variety of other hardware, they say, must continue, to be added to $14 billion worth of non-southeast Asia procurement.

And where the Pentagon goes from there is a policy question for the future. In a sense, the $60 billion is a starting feature, an opening bid.

FOR EXAMPLE, there is at the moment $1.1 billion in the fiscal 1969 budget for the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile program. As originally envisioned the total program was to be $5 billion. But there are some advocates of an unrestrained ABM program that would carry expenditures over the years to $40 billion.

On the other side of the coin, there are considerable pressures to limit our other commitments around the world. There is a substantial congressional bloc, for example, that would limit our forces in Europe.

A great deal, of course, will depend on presidential initiative and the kind of civilian leadership available to run the Defense Dept. What we do know right now from Defense sources is that at the end of the first year after re-deployment begins, the annual rate of spending could be dropped to $61 billion in 1968 prices—and then to $56 billion at R-day plus 24 months. In 1970 or 1971 prices, that would be something like $60 billion.

But that allows nothing for an expanded ABM system, nor a beefed-up F-111 aircraft program. It allows nothing for other demands that one can predict—with certainty—will come up in this uncertain world.

MONTREAL — One of the official Man and His World hostesses in uniform purchases flowers from a concessionaire near the Biosphere at Montreal's new world exposition, successor to Expo 67. Hundreds of boutiques and restaurants catering to cosmopolitan tastes cover the site of the fair. The SANTA ANA, Calif.—"Here's the World War I Sopwith Camel selling for $40,000 -- good grief!"

Snoopy, famed ace of Peanuts comic strip, probably would have voiced his surprise in such words had he seen his pugnosed little pursuit plane sell for such a price—particularly when the camel cost but $8,000 in 1918.

The British fighter brought top money at a unique auction of vintage and veteran aircraft that collected $286,620 in spirited bidding not only for planes, but everything from machine guns (rendered harmless) to a World War I field ambulance.

About 500 persons, present by invitation, packed the Movie-land of the Air Museum at Orange County Airport for the auction conducted by Parke-Bernet Galleries of New York City.

THE CAMEL was purchased by an unidentified New York collector who had entered a pre-auction bid of $35,000 and then upped his offer by $5,000 at the last minute in a worried telephone call.

As it was, he almost lost the plane to the representative of a New Jersey museum group who bid $37,500 for the camel, one of the few World War I aircraft he missed among those he sought to purchase.

In all, Gustave Hukower, bidding for the AeroFlex Museum, now being organized by the AeroFlex Foundation, bought six aircraft for $96,500, plus various aeronautical accessories also up for auction.

They included a 1914 Maurice Farman pusher biplane, $20,000; a 1918 German Pfalz pursuit, $16,000; a 1918 De Havilland DH4 biplane, $15,000; a 1918 French Spad pursuit, $16,000; a German Fokker D-VII pursuit, $20,000; and a British SE-5a pursuit, $9,500.

IN ADDITION to missing the camel he lost out on a sleek little French Nieuport 28 pursuit that went to race driver Jim Hall for $14,500.

Hall, delighted with his prize, said he intends to fix up the rotary engine Nieuport and fly it himself "just for fun."

One of the buys at the auction was clouded somewhat by a title dispute that remains to be settled.

It involved the Golden Curtiss Gulfhawk once flown by Maj. Al Williams, one of America's most famed stunt pilots.

Dolph Overton of Mullins, S.C., bought the Gulfhawk for $20,500 to include in his collection of some 40 planes for museum display, but he thinks he may never get possession of the plane.

The dispute over the ship arose, he said, when the Smithsonian Institution claimed rights to the aircraft under an agreement alleged to have been made with the institution by Williams.

Any practice which plans roof drainage at certain points in a house and neglects other areas does not accomplish the real purpose of providing adequate water drainage from the roof away from the house.

The Roof Drainage Manufacturers Institute recommends that all roofs, regardless of pitch and overhang, be provided with metal gutters and downspouts adequately designed to quickly and efficiently remove water from the roof.

In order to get best drainage, gutters must be sloped slightly towards the downspout. The Institute recommends a slope of approximately one inch in sixteen feet.

If gutters are not correctly sloped, the possibility of overflow during heavy rain storms is increased. Then again, gutters without adequate slope may hold rain water, increasing the possibility of damage by rust to the gutter.

Polley Praises Aid To Schools As Money Well Spent

LANSING -- State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ira Polley said Monday that $20 million available for advance state aid to financially hard hit school districts "may prove to be some of the best-invested money in Michigan education."

The funds were authorized by the State Administrative Board on Polley's request. The Michigan Department of Education will allocate the money between now and the end of this year to needy districts.

The Department presently has no formal requests for state aid advances from school districts because for more than a year no funds have been available for advances.

"The several informal requests which we have had could only be answered by suggesting that the schools borrow money against future state aid payments," Polley said. "This is becoming more difficult and is expensive for school districts because borrowing entails considerable interest payments in some cases and the money paid in interest is money not available for other education costs."

"The $20 million isn't going to be a cure-all for poorer districts by any means but it will, for some, make an extremely critical difference because for most districts every dollar counts," Polley said.

In general the $20 million will be allocated to districts with low valuations on which to support schools, those which have almost no alternative to advances in order to remain solvent and those with small cash flows for whom relatively small amounts of cash could make a major difference.

Polley praised the Administrative Board's action and some legislative steps this year as "excellent examples of thoughtful action which in effect costs little yet has great impact at the local school level."

He praised lawmakers for acting on education appropriations earlier this year than in 1967, giving schools a firm idea of state revenues before they had to decide on their budgets.

"Moving the six state aid payments from the last of the month to the first of the month also costs little but can be highly important," he said. "This puts money in administrators' hands earlier and closer to the time when they need it."

The law passed this year by the Legislature changed state aid payment dates from the 25th to the first of August, October, December, February, April and June.

Capitol Provides Job Opportunities

WASHINGTON -- Long hair or short, male or female, it isn't the thinking college student who looks at Washington's job opportunities and goes "blah!"

For certain professions -- notably law--this is the place to come when schooling is over. Today Washington is perhaps the country's greatest post-degree training ground for lawyers, engineers, computer programmers, journalists and even doctors and chemists.

It wasn't that way 20 years ago when the top students were snapped up by private businesses and firms. But now the young are pouring off the campuses waving degrees and high averages and suddenly the federal government is competitive.

"It's more than just competitive," said a Harvard Law School grad and Supreme Court clerk. "I began here at about what I might start with at a private law firm. But you'd be amazed at the bargaining power one year in the court has given me. I turn down offers practically every week."

The point is, government and private industry rub elbows more and more. Private firms raid Washington annually in search of promising youth who have gained good government experience.

AN AIRCRAFT company, for example, looks at a young engineer who has had two years with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration or the Navy Department as a prize and will pay for it.

Young lawyers come from all over the country--not just Washington's two first-rate law schools (Georgetown and George Washington U.) to work a couple of years for the Commerce Department and elsewhere and then leave for a private firm to specialize.

Medical students interested in research and more training--not to mention good pay--head for slots in the vast medical complex which is the National Institute of Health.

Government journalism is wide open, especially for women. All the federal agencies daily put out reams of booklets, press releases and agency newspapers. Women have cornered this job market here because the reporter jobs on the nation's newspapers go first to men.

Women also are attracted by "hill" jobs--working for congressmen in the mainstream of politics.

"I don't make much," said a pretty young secretary in Sen. Edward Brooke's (R-Mass.) office. "But the glamor and excitement is great. And look at the contacts I've made."

Of course the government is concerned about being merely a training ground for these promising young people. The problem two decades ago was getting young talent; today the problem is holding onto it.

THE MOST STRIKING example of success-after-government-training remains the law profession, most conspicuously those young lawyers who land jobs as Supreme Court clerks or as aides in the Justice Department.

"We're like baseball bonus babies," said one Supreme Court clerk who is knocking down $9,614 less than a year out of law school. The median income for all practicing lawyers in 1966 was $13,000. "During this experience, I've turned down offers for $15,000 because I know I can get more in another six months," the University of Michigan law grad added.

RU Teacher Wins National Award

A Redford Union teacher has been named as one of the nation's top four young educators by the United States Jaycees.

Roger M. Handy, who recently was named top young educator for the state, was honored at ceremonies Tuesday in Phoenix, Arizona.

Handy, 31, is employed as a teacher for the mentally handicapped.

He battles daily against overwhelming odds in order to train the handicapped and teach retarded students not just as a job, but as a personal crusade and way of life.

In 1967, he was listed in "Who's Who in American Education" largely on the strength of his contributions to his special field of education--the physically and mentally handicapped. Presently he teaches at RU, where he is a football and basketball coach.

A teacher for nine years, Handy was recently selected by the state JC's as this state's Outstanding Young Educator.

He was picked, along with three others, from entries from 38 states for the top award. He has received several scholarships from local civic groups for his contributions in special education.

Handy is a member of the Michigan Education Association, Redford Union Education and Redford Jaycees.

Favors Highway Inquest

The State Highway Commission reports it is pleased that Ingham County Circuit Court has accepted a petition by Governor Romney and Attorney General Kelley for a Grand Jury investigation of the Department of State Highways.

"Any additional delay can only do irreparable harm to the roadbuilding program and the people who depend on good highway facilities for movement of goods and materials, and for safe travel," said Charles H. Hewitt, Detroit, Commission chairman.

"If anyone is guilty of wrongdoing," a Grand Jury investigation will certainly bring this to light and will remove the cloud of suspicion which has been hovering over the Department.

"The public is entitled to an impartial investigation at this time so a determination can be made as to whether or not charges should be made against any individual or individuals, as well as to clear the names of any staff members who might be suspected."

Last September, following publication of an Attorney General's report of alleged wrongdoings in the Department, the Commission asked the Governor to take necessary steps to cause the grand jury.

White Blood Cell Clue May Aid In Transplants

A California doctor may have discovered how the body recognizes bacterial invaders.

In a recent interview, Dr. Riejon Kinosta, director of experimental pathology at the City of Hope Medical Center, Duarte, Calif., said he found the clue in his research with macrophages, a type of white cell found in the blood stream.

The find may have value in cancer and organ transplant research, the doctor feels.

"We have learned that macrophages trap and analyze disease-causing material invading the body, then send instructions to another type of white cells, the lymphocytes, to multiply and make antibodies specifically designed to destroy the invader," Kinosta says.

"WE NOW think it may be possible to precondition macrophages to help us in at least two ways. First, we might train them to recognize at least some types of cancer as foreign material, so that lymphocytes would make antibodies to destroy cancer cells. Second, we might also train macrophages not to react to transplanted organs such as hearts and kidneys, in other words, to inhibit the production of antibodies naturally, without the use of radiation or drugs."

Kinosta, credited with being among the first to show that some industrial materials cause cancer in animals, reported his macrophage work in technical papers recently.

"Science has wondered for a long time just how our bodies can produce disease-fighting antibodies against such a wide range of foreign materials, or antigens," he said.

"Various researchers have shown that antibodies, which neutralize invading germs, are produced by lymphocytes, but we did not know how lymphocytes were instructed to turn out specific antibodies against specific antigens."

"In tests with human blood cell cultures, using sheep red cells as the antigens, we have found the antigens first were recognized by macrophages, which trapped them and apparently analyzed their chemical composition."

"Using this information, the nucleus of the macrophage printed off copies of RNA (a molecule of ribonucleic acid), which were carried to a lymphocyte. The lymphocyte, following the RNA blueprint, could make antibodies specifically designed to neutralize the invading sheep red cells. We assume this macrophage-lymphocyte system reacts in a similar way to fight other antigens such as bacteria."

RNA IS part of the living cell's process for producing proteins. It normally is the messenger which DNA (deoxy-ribonucleic acid) makes and sends to protein factories in the body of the cell, telling them what kind of protein to make. In the macrophage, RNA has a slightly different function. It directs production by lymphocytes of antibodies against those antigens which the macrophage has analyzed.

Kinosta believes that by testing macrophages against various elements in cancer cells he may be able to find some antigenic material which the macrophages will identify as foreign and thus set up antibody production to destroy the cancer cells.

He believes it also may be possible to trick the macrophages into ignoring transplant tissues, without lowering the body's immunity to other antigens at the same time.

suppressing drugs destroy lymphocytes, halting production of many kinds of antibodies, thus leaving the patient vulnerable to many diseases while recovering from the transplant surgery.

Train Vietnam Veterans For Jobs In Ghetto

Forty-two Vietnam war veterans are training at Fort Leonard Wood for a different kind of national service. They are the first recruits for a new program, administered by Webster College, to train male teachers for urban ghetto elementary schools.

CRAIG WYCINSKY

S. African Gold Issue Unsettled

WASHINGTON -- Although there has been almost no public discussion of the subject, a major issue in the future of the free market price of gold involves the relationship of South Africa and the International Monetary Fund.

According to one interpretation of the fund's articles of agreement, it is required to purchase from South Africa, as from any other member, all gold offered at $35 an ounce. This view is said to be held, among others, by Pierre - Paul Schweitzer, the fund's managing director.

In the war of nerves engaging the gold market, the great unsettled question is the disposition of South African gold. If South African production is eventually disposed of on the free market, there would be a major depressing effect on the price.

But, if South Africa can dispose of her gold, or a good part of it, to the IMF, or to national central banks, this price-depressing influence will be removed.

THE MAJOR industrial nations in the former "goldpool" agreed not to buy newly mined gold from South Africa as part of their general new gold policy announced March 17. The compromise did not touch on the issue of newly mined gold, and the agreement has never been made public.

It is understood not to be considered a necessarily binding or permanent agreement by some of the central banks involved, but up to now they have refrained from buying gold from South Africa.

SOUTH AFRICA is said to want assurances, from the monetary fund or from the major central banks, that she could sell her gold to them at $35 an ounce if it proved impossible to sell it in the market without driving the price below $35.

Schweitzer's reported view that the fund's articles require it to buy gold from a member country would not necessarily be controlling. If a majority of the weighted votes cast in the board of executive directors of the fund held otherwise, the fund would not buy the gold.

The U.S., with nearly one-fourth of the weighted votes, is likely to oppose purchases by the fund from South Africa, though no official position has been stated. Frederick L. Deming, the undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs, has said publicly that he envisaged the possibility of the gold price sinking below $35.

Three fourths of the veterans are Negroes and all are from impoverished backgrounds. None has been to college and a few do not have high school diplomas.

In 30 months, those who complete the program, Veterans Accelerated Urban Learning for Teaching VAULT, will have a bachelors of arts degree and will have put in a year's teaching internship. They then will be given the option of studying for master's degrees or moving into urban school systems as professional teachers.

THE PILOT PROJECT to be sustained the first year by a $25,000 Danforth Foundation grant, will attempt to meet two critical national needs. The first is to supply desperately needed male teachers for the nation's urban schools.

After the first year the project will be supported by Federal Government loans and grants under existing programs and by wages paid to the veterans for field work in the community.

The VAULT staff interviewed men for the program at Fort Leonard Wood. They looked for veterans who were nearing the end of their military obligation and who had no plans to attend college. They have recruited men from Chicago, New York and Los Angeles, as well as from rural Alabama. Some are in their early 20s and others are veterans of 20 years of military service.

THE PROGRAM will focus on American society today, with field experiences in the community laced with classroom readings and movies that relate to the field experiences. The men will study "the system", in this case, American society. Their assignment will be to find constructive roles for themselves within that system.

The program at Fort Leonard Wood this summer will include a seminar on "America: Black and White," which will begin with contemporary Negro-white relationships and will trace the source of racial conflict in the nation's history. The men will study the policies of moderate civil rights groups and the speeches of black militants, such as Malcolm X, in an effort to develop analytical tools for solutions to what Newton termed "America's No. 1 domestic problem."

THE VETERAN will view contemporary movies with social conflict themes and then assume the roles of the actors to determine the right course of action. To develop writing skills, they will be asked to write short plays and poetry on topics of interest to them.

In the fall the men will attend formal classes in St. Louis, taught by faculty members at Webster College and St. Louis University, and be given their first opportunity for field work related to classroom subjects. The "action learning" curriculum will require work with the city's ghetto children in academic and recreational programs. At the end of each week the men will return to school to relate their field experiences with classroom theory.

Project Transition, a Department of Defense program, will co-operate with VAULT personnel to place graduates in teaching positions.

Paneling Magic Brightens Home

New York -- Most home-makers have often wished that they -- or their husbands -- possessed the magical ability to wave a wand and presto! -- change the color, decor, and personality of a room.

You can work decorating magic -- if not with "prestos," then with wood panels! They go with everything -- from the brilliant accents of modern or Early American to the subdued hues of traditional and Mediterranean decor.

PANELS needn't push you into a corner. In spite of the big change they make in a room, they can be put up with little trouble. Here, from experts, are some tips that will take the toll out of paneling:

1. Use factory-finished panels from the start. They will save you tedious finishing work and cleaning up later. Highly resistant panels, such as those made by Weyerhaeuser, shrug away scuffs and scratches, and drive off the household demons of dirt, grease, ink and alcohol. A damp cloth is all you need for cleaning.

2. Watch out for the frame-up! When paneling is applied to new walls, kiln-dried lumber is best for the wall framing. Kiln-dried lumber has had excess moisture removed at the mill, and keeps new walls straight by not shrinking and twisting after installation.

3. Get your panels in the "line-up". By observing the grain, you will get the best effect. Prop the panels against the wall, and arrange them so that the grain and shade appear continuous and blending.

4. Give panels "elbow room". When you fasten panels to the wall, remember to start in the corner first, and leave at least 1/4-inch at the top and bottom to be covered with molding strips later.

5. Grooves make the going easy! All paneling manufactured by Weyerhaeuser comes with V-grooves running down the panel faces, giving the rugged look of random-spaced planks. These grooves are spaced so that one falls every 16 inches for concealed nailing when you nail the panels into studs. Panel edges are beveled to form a full V-groove when the panels are joined.
