REDFORD—Redford Township's Democratic Club Executive Board endorsed primary candidates despite announced "no endorsements" policy of the Wayne 19th Democratic Organization. Congressman Candidate Ron Mardiros, State Rep. Candidate John Bennett, County Board Candidate William C. Ford and Township Trustee Candidates Earl N. Patchett and Don Christie were boosted. Club President Joseph Patchett said the 19th District organization couldn't interfere.

REDFORD—Donald Eugene Brunmeier, 37, Inkster, became the fourth traffic fatality in the township Wednesday when his car apparently struck another driven by Livonian Wayne R. Templeton, 26, who was injured.

LIVONIA—Keeping pace with other districts, the City Council has voted a $9,500 annual supplement to the $18,000 state salary set for judges of the newly created District Courts. The present pay of Municipal Judge James McCann, who will retain one of the two new Livonia court seats, is $17,000, including $1,800 expenses. The second judge will be elected Nov. 5, after two of six candidates are nominated Aug. 6. The $27,500 limit is in line with judges of higher courts.

LIVONIA—An estimated $1,000 in window breakage at Cooper Elementary School is the latest act of vandalism in a series that has plagued Livonia school district the past year. School officials estimate glass breakage, alone, in Livonia's 44 schools amounts to $30,000 annually. Cooper School, one of the district's oldest, will be used this fall to house 15 rooms of handicapped children.

FARMINGTON—A liberalized retirement program which would increase benefits approximately 20 per cent has been proposed to the Farmington City Council. The plan would cover the city's 44 employees. In order to be adopted it must go on the ballot and win a majority. The council is expected to vote to place the matter on the November ballot.

FARMINGTON—Youths of the area now have a center at Nine Mile and Middle Belt thanks to the combined efforts of several groups. Putting up the funds to finance the summer program was the Oakland County Neighborhood Community Services through the Farmington Area YMCA, the City of Farmington and the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity.

Kiwanis Club To Spearhead Drive For Historical Museum

The Plymouth Kiwanis Evening Club has come to the aid of the Plymouth Historical Society and will spearhead a drive to provide a new museum for the proper display of its many prized displays.

"We have taken on this activity as one of our major projects," Harper Stephens, President of the Kiwanis Club explained, "and we hope that it will not be too long before the dream becomes a reality."

The campaign kick-off is scheduled for Tuesday evening, July 30, when Henry Brown, director of the Detroit Historical Museum and one of the leading authorities on historical museums in the country, will speak at a rally in connection with the regular Kiwanis meeting.

The site under consideration is the Community Building in the rear of City Hall and it is planned to restore the second floor that was lost through fire some years ago.

CLARENCE MOORE, a past president of the club and present chairman of the Building Committee, appeared before the City Commission last Monday evening and explained the hopes and ambitions of the Historical Society.

At that time he admitted there was no particular group interested aside from the Historical Society, but with Commission approval he might be able to locate several persons or a group who would help.

On this basis the Commission gave its approval to proceed and asked Moore to return at a later date with specific plans and an approximate cost.

This is where the Kiwanis moved into the picture. Building Chairman Moore took the matter before the Kiwanis Board of Directors and it met with immediate approval. The estimated cost of the proposed improvement will be $65,000. And, the City Commission has indicated that the city may sell the present site of the Historical Society and put the sale price into the new plan.

"Because of the age of many of the members of the Society," Ernie Henry, Secretary of the Club, explained, "they are not able to conduct a drive for funds or handle many of the details. That's why we of the Kiwanis agreed to take it on as a project. We want to make a dream become a reality and thus help to preserve the identity of the Plymouth area."

THE PROPOSED re-modeling of the Community Hall, will double the display space now available for the Historical Society and permit larger exhibits.

The Kiwanians made it clear that no attempt will be made to curtail the activities of the groups now using the Community Hall, but that every effort will be made to expand the work of the Historical Group.

One of the rare items the Society would like to have returned to Plymouth is an Alter automobile that has been uncovered in Ohio. The Alter car was the only auto ever built in Plymouth and the Society would like to have the last known model out on display as a reminder that Plymouth once played a major part in the automobile industry.

No timetable has been set up for the drive. But after the kick-off on July 30, all clubs and groups will be contacted for support. In the meantime any one who cares to make a contribution to the cause may send a check to Ernie Henry, 1120 West Maple, Plymouth. All checks should be made payable to the Kiwanis Club Foundation.

Dr. Ron Clark Begins Term In Prison

Dr. Ronald Elwyn Clark began a three-to-15-year prison sentence Thursday for manslaughter in the sodium pentothal death of Mrs. Grace Nell, but not until he had turned his final court appearance into one reminiscent of his first, 245 days before with a screaming emotional outburst.

Ordered handcuffed during a brief court recess before Judge William J. Beer passed sentence, the Farmington Township and ex-Redford physician fought to break the shackles.

"Oh, God," he screamed, leaping from his chair and slamming his wrists against the corner of the defense table. "These hurt like hell. Damn it!"

AS THE 56-YEAR-OLD medic screamed, Ingham County sheriff's deputies and Farmington Township officers present in the Mason courtroom instantly closed around Dr. Clark.

He then remained subdued as Judge Beer ordered him incarcerated.

He was led manacled from the courtroom at 4:08 p.m. Thursday, 50 minutes after Judge Beer had convened court, and was taken to the Ingham County jail to await transfer to the State Prison at Jackson.

HISTORY ON THE MOVE — If the plans of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club are realized the Historical Museum will be moved from its present location (left) to the Community Building (right) where a second story will be added as outlined by artist.

Township Approves New Apartment Site

Plymouth Township Planning Commission Wednesday night approved on apartment complex but turned down plans for two other multiple dwelling complexes.

Post Office Bans Mail For Canada

Because of the postal employees strike in Canada no post office in Observerland is accepting mail to be sent across the border.

John Mulligan, Plymouth postmaster, stated that until further notice no mail could be accepted and he asked that residents refrain from directing any mail to the area across the border.

This is the first time in several years that any such order has been issued by the Post Office Department. Two years ago there was a threat of such an order, but it never was issued.

Murder Clue Called Fake

After questioning a man who had been calling the Ann Arbor Police Department claiming he possessed information on the murder of Joan Schell two weeks ago, the authorities decided his story was a fake.

The man was picked up at a bar after he claimed he was one of three youths in the red and black car that has been linked with the murder. He told the officers he was fearful of implication in the murder.

"His story is a complete fake. He has a history of drunk and disorderly arrests and he apparently was intoxicated when he made the calls," said Ann Arbor Det. Capt. Walter V. Hawkins.

The man said he was one of the three youths in the car and was fearful of implication in the murder. He said he wanted to turn himself in. Investigation of the murder continues.

Allen Tann and Bert Smokler & Company were given site plan approval for garden apartments on Haggerty Rd. near Plymouth Rd.

The plans called for 192 one and two bedroom units. No price range was listed.

The approval was granted after more than two months of discussion about the company complying with the subdivision ordinance.

At first, the commission told the company to revise its plans to furnish a road from the projects to Plymouth Rd.

Then the commission asked that the company devise plans so that access for fire-fighting equipment was available and more parking facilities for tenants.

IN A SPLIT VOTE, 4 to 3, the commission turned down Steward Oldford and Sons, Inc. who had requested rezoning from residential one-acre to residential half-acre lots on the south side of Ann Arbor Rd., between Beck and Ridge Roads.

Commissioners Maurice Breen, Austin Stecker and Carl Hartwick voted against denying the request while new commission member William Murdoch abstained, saying he didn't feel qualified to cast a vote. It was his first meeting.

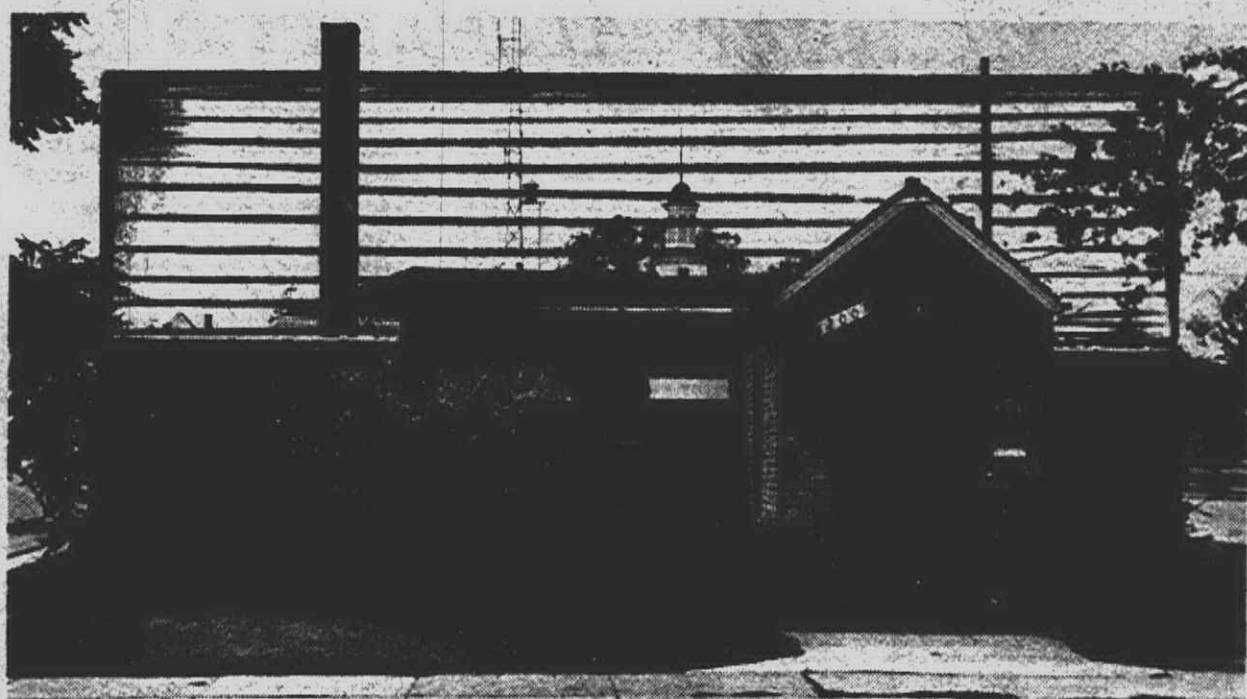

Commissioner Charles Childs moved for denial and was seconded by member Ralph Garber. Melville Troyer and Smith Horton also cast affirmative votes.

Before making the motion, Childs said that the rezoning should not be granted because it would change the new zoning map which was recently approved by the township board of trustees.

Battle Of Signs Marks District Judge Race

The primary race for judge of a new district court took on a strange twist last Thursday.

Instead of being a race among personalities and their abilities, it became a battle over the erection of political signs—where they were legal, where they were in violation, and whether they should be permitted at all.

At the heart of the argument, two contenders—Robert Greenstein and Dunbar Davis—agreed to take all billboards and other signs down.

MEANWHILE Plymouth Township officials claimed the sign advertising Judge Dunbar Davis' campaign at the corner of Lilley and Ann Arbor Roads was in violation of the township ordinance and ordered it down.

Judge Davis and his campaign director, Robert Delaney complied.

The battle over signs actually began at the City Commission meeting last Monday night when the Davis forces asked permission to erect three signs.

When it was pointed out that the City of Plymouth never had permitted such political advertising, Commissioner Arch Vallier raised the question over a sign erected by Judge Robert Greenstein on Ann Arbor Trail. "If one candidate can have a sign they all should be permitted to do the same thing," Vallier pointed out.

ASSISTANT CITY Manager Steve Walter pointed out the Greenstein sign was permissible because it was on professionally-zoned property and under the ordinance it was permissible. Vallier quickly pointed out that the buildings were being used as residential units and didn't qualify under the temporary sign code.

"It's Judge Goldstein's campaign headquarters," Walter pointed out, "and as such, it is a temporary office and can have a temporary sign."

By the time the meeting was concluded all candidates were granted permission to have five signs with a maximum size of four by six feet.

This was something new for Plymouth.

At the time Judge Dunbar had a sign on the roof of his campaign headquarters on Ann Arbor Trail, but early on Tuesday morning others began to make their appearance.

Then the fun began.

Santa To Pay Visit Here On Thursday

Santa Claus is coming to town this week!

He's leaving his reindeer and sleigh at the North Pole and will travel to Plymouth in an air conditioned, red and white bus.

Saint Nick is scheduled to arrive at Allen School on Haggerty and Ann Arbor Road next Thursday at 2 p.m.

That's right. There will be a Christmas party in July.

The occasion is the closing of the school district's play grounds for this year. Jon Kipke, asst. director of recreation explained that this year's play ground program lasted six weeks and he hopes to be able to have them open much longer next summer.

JUDGE GREENSTEIN was first to react to the new order of things.

"I didn't erect the sign at my campaign headquarters," he said, "until I saw that Judge Davis had one on the roof of a downtown building."

"I don't like to see such signs cluttering the city, and I will gladly take mine down if the other candidates do the same thing."

To make his offer official, he made public a letter to the City Commission in which he said:

"Even though it was another candidate who requested permission to erect other signs in the city, I should like to ask the board to reconsider its action and reverse the position and issue a directive refusing to allow any signs whatsoever within the City limits of Plymouth."

"Once again, I should like to clearly state that if it is in the best interests of the city, I will immediately remove the signs at my campaign headquarters if the other candidates will do the same."

LATE IN THE afternoon Judge Davis' campaign manager announced that Judge Davis had utmost respect for the law and gladly complied with the township code by taking down the sign.

"We don't like signs, either," the director remarked, "but it seems to be part of any political campaign."

He stated that he was going to take the sign from the corner of Lilley and Ann Arbor and place it on his truck.

"I think the public should be kept informed," he commented.

Troyer explained that the approval of the map had nothing to do with Oldford's request and both should be treated as separate items.

The request was first brought before the township last March 14 and had been tabled by the planning commission at every subsequent meeting. The commissioners said the tabling would be done until the new zoning map was approved.

The entire area west of Sheldon Rd. which takes in Oldford's property is now rezoned one-acre lots.

Childs maintained that after the map had been approved with the one-acre zoning the commission should not turn right around and change it.

Seward Oldford stated that the commission had already approved changes in the zoning map and precedent had been set.

Oldford pointed out that to keep the zoning one-acre and expect developers to build only single homes on such large lots was economically untenable.

He said the homes would have to cost so much as to be prohibitive to moderate income families. They are the biggest percentage of homebuyers, he continued.

ROBERT BRODY COMPANY was also turned down in its request for rezoning one-acre residential to commercial and multiple family residential of property on the northeast corner of Joy and McClumpha Roads.

The Stroller...

Perhaps it was because the word had just been received that Agnew's Jewelers would be the next landmark to depart from Main Street, but, at any rate, the conversation turned to the ancient art of watchmaking and how the men who toiled all day with a magnifying glass over one eye have become the victims of American ingenuity.

"You seldom hear of a broken watch any more," one of the chaps at the table remarked, "yet I can remember the time when the least little jar could damage the main spring and your watch would be in the repair shop for days."

"They must make them better these days," he went on, "for the last time I had my watch at the repair shop was to get a new crystal or a new band. I never had any mechanical trouble. Maybe that's why fellows like Agnew are passing from the scene."

"And that's not all," Don Sutherland, the scholarly-looking accountant, ventured. "From what I have been told we're headed for something new."

A SEALED-IN JOB

"From what I hear," he said, "there is a watch coming on the market with sealed-in works. If anything ever happens to it, you just discard it, throw it away, or do what you want with it. You just slip a new one in the case and you'll have correct time again. That is going to eliminate watch repairing completely."

Reminded The Stroller of an experience only a few months ago. Something had gone wrong with the humidifier on the furnace and, after a kindly neighbor looked at it, he said, "I'm afraid you need a new motor. Stop in any heating supply company and you can pick one up. It will be just about the size of an old-fashioned watch."

So, off to Otwell's heating firm went The Stroller and, sure enough, he was given a little gadget about the size of a watch. It was a built-in, sealed motor. After it was slipped in place the humidifier started working and all was serene again.

This little transaction did call attention again to the fact that we are living in most peculiar times. More and more we Americans are turning away from having anything repaired. Rather than go through all the bother, we toss the damaged appliance away and get a new one.

"America is the only country in the world," one of the listeners at the table remarked, "where we build obsolescence into our products. It is deliberately planned that they should wear out—and when they do, we get new ones."

"In the old days, companies used to advertise their products by shouting to the heavens 'You can't wear it out.'"

"But no more. Those days are gone—forever. Today our economy demands that we keep on producing and to keep a steady market we have sold people on the idea that it is foolish and costly to have anything repaired when it can be replaced and these kindly souls always add, 'And then you'll have a new one.'"

THOSE TERRIBLE WARNING SOUNDS

Our friend had something. Did you ever drive your car more than three years? If you did, you know what is meant by building obsolescence into a car. After about three years—or 50,000 miles—it starts giving you trouble. It starts drinking oil, the muffler goes on the bum, the water pump leaks, the brakes go to pot, and every day, in every way, the old car cries for help. It has seen its best days.

This obsolescence and changing styles combine to make the United States a country that builds 9,000,000 cars a year. In fact, our entire economy is built on this type of production. Imagine what would happen if they didn't wear out.

Some of The Stroller's best friends are auto dealers and they'll tell you that if obsolescence doesn't get you, pride will.

"We play on a person's pride," one of them explained the other day. "We point out that it is a matter of distinction to have the latest model. And we play up to a man's ego by telling him this car was just made for him and would make of him a man of distinction if he was seen behind the wheel of this particular model."

"And they usually buy," he said with a knowing smile.

All the while he was talking, The Stroller had to smile, too, for he recalled the last time he was in an auto dealer's show room, the salesman, who also was a friend of long standing, remarked:

"A man in your position—where you are seen every day—should have a prestige car."

NEW CAR, VINYL TOP AND ALL

He kept talking along that line and, even though I vowed that I would not go for the latest model in the top line, the next day I drove away with a jaunty-looking car with a black vinyl top and all the other trimmings.

Funny thing about it, too, I had no intention of buying a car when I went into the place. But there I was with a prestige model and my old car that had been a faithful servant was now on its way to the used car lot and no telling what kind of a life it would have until it was discarded and a burden in someone's junk yard.

Pride and obsolescence. What a combination!

They have teamed it to send many an auto to the scrap heap. And they have taken many other things off the market—things like the old pocket watch that we wore with a chain across our chests. They were just dandy—but at times needed repairing. This caused their demise—for we don't repair things any more, especially watches, and that's why institutions like Agnew's Jewelers are departing from the Main Streets of the land.

Greatest Need In Plymouth Area? It's Men To Climb The Mountains

There's an old story that has been handed down through the years which deals with the days when our Pilgrim forefathers started moving west to settle the country. When they saw the peaks of the Alleghenys, the White and the Green chains, they chorused:

"We'll need men to climb those mountains."

They climbed them—the brave and hardy souls—and because they did America was settled and became the leading nation in the world, though, at times, it seems like an empty honor.

But the point is that there were men of courage in the old days—men who didn't slink away from high peaks or any kind of problems or hardships. As a result, there isn't a mountain peak between the Atlantic and Pacific that hasn't been conquered.

IF THESE HARDY SOULS were living today and looked around—especially in the Plymouth area, they'd start shouting—

"We need men to climb these mountains."

They wouldn't be talking about mountain peaks as such, but the mountains of problems that are building up and crying for men to climb them.

Never was there a time in this century when there was such a demand for leadership—leadership of the kind that would rally forces behind it and get the things done that need to be done... if the Plymouth many folks dream about is ever to become a reality. And, sadly, the only alternative is a slow death and the loss of civic pride.

There have been cries for leadership before. But never was the need more urgent than right now.

In a year or two the new expressways will be built and Plymouth will be right in the corner of the intersection of I-275 and M-14. Thousands of persons will be speeding along every day and, unless something is done, and done now, they'll keep right on going and pass the city completely.

This should never be allowed to happen. Ways and means should be found to lure the people into the downtown area to preserve the business center.

There are others.

In another month or so the much publicized Unification Study Report will be made public. It will contain all sorts of statistics—population growth, assessed valuations, trends and the like—but it contains no recommendations of what should be done.

If the statistics show that it would be wise to have the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township unite, who will show the way?

FOR YEARS THE thought of unification has been entertained. But rivalries, pride and petty jealousies have drowned out every attempt at such a move.

So, judging from the past, neither the City Commission nor the Township Trustees will initiate the move.

From out of somewhere must come a leader—the type of leader who can rally all forces for the benefit of all concerned.

Even unification isn't all of it. There's an important facility being bandied about for more than a year and little prospect of it being built under present conditions.

It is the skating rink that was planned and approved as the permanent memorial of the city's Centennial.

Who is going to show the courage needed to get it out of the whirl it is in now? Who will make it a reality for the young folks of the city? And the oldsters, too, for that matter.

These are just some of the things that are crying for help.

THERE'S THE CITY water problem, the sewer problem, the central district business loop, park and recreation facilities, the cleaning up of Hines Parkway and the Rouge River—the type of zoning that will bring housing for a work force that will keep our factories humming—and the payrolls at home.

There's the matter of efficient police protection and fire protection, to say nothing of the rebuilding of many of the obsolete sections of both the city and the township.

These things have to be done—if the area is to take its rightful place in the decade ahead.

If a small city such as St. Clair, Michigan, has the courage to tear down its business section and start over in the battle for survival, why can't Plymouth?

All it takes is men to climb the mountains.

Where are they?

Healy Cites Approval Of Probation System

A counseling system to help youthful offenders before they become involved in serious trouble was called for Wednesday by Thomas H. Healy, candidate for district judge in the Plymouth, Northville and Canton communities.

Healy went on record for a counseling or probation department in Wednesday evening remarks to the Plymouth YMCA Board of Directors.

The candidate's comments came after newly-elected Y-President Thomas R. Workman reviewed the Y's agenda for the coming year and noted a need for increased guidance and counseling activities for local young people.

Workman pointed out that the Y had established a cooperative arrangement with former Plymouth Municipal Judge Draugelis, and, on a voluntary basis, was able to provide satisfactory guidance to young people referred by the judge. However, Draugelis' successor did not continue the program.

"I definitely would support a local counseling and guidance effort," Healy said. Under the District Court Act, Healy pointed out, a probation department can be established by agreement of the District Judge and the local governing body.

Healy said he was not opposed to jail sentences or still fines for serious offenses.

realize that these are necessary and important sanctions," he said. "But, I feel that, particularly in cases of young first offenders, there should be the opportunity for a probation program which includes guidance and counseling."

Under the present court system, Healy pointed out, there is no professional guidance available to youths convicted of misdemeanors.

"By the time a person becomes involved in a Circuit Court felony," he continued, "in all probability he has already served time in jail for misdemeanors."

"We should attempt to solve the problem at the misdemeanor or level before it reaches felony proportions."

"Counseling and guidance within the community is one of the best approaches," Healy concluded.

Long Range Planning Important

Community leaders are looking ahead to the future for Girl Scouting in this area.

Thirty-four prominent men and women from throughout the area covered by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, including three from Plymouth, have worked for a year on a long range planning committee studying the organization and the communities and projecting Girl Scout needs for 1970, 1975 and 1980. Their report was recently presented to the council's Board of Directors.

The general chairman of the committee was Wyeth Allen of Ann Arbor, retired professor of the University of Michigan. The sub-committee chairman were: Membership Study, Henrik Helmers, Ann Arbor; Organization and Personnel, John Montoya, Ypsilanti; Robert Langford, Ann Arbor; Camp Development, Kenneth Hulsing, Plymouth; and Finance Study, Atwood McAndrew, Jr., Ypsilanti, other Plymouth residents on the committee are: Mrs. John Moehle, Russell Isbister.

"PLANNING FOR the future and for change is just as important for a Girl Scout Council as it is for any business concern," said Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing of Plymouth, president of the council.

"However, Girl Scout boards are involved chiefly in triennial planning for the council. When it comes to planning for the establishment of a council-owned camp which is a once-in-a-generation undertaking, and other long term needs, we felt it necessary to turn to our community for help."

At present, one out of every four girls between the ages of 7 and 17 in this area are Girl Scouts, and this ratio is expected to rise, according to the report. The national average is one out of every six girls is a Scout.

The council's resident camp, Camp Linden, now operates four two-week sessions with a total of 497 girls registered for the 1968 season.

To do this, the committee recommends completing Camp Linden and building a second camp on the property and that this be financed by a capital funds drive.

"LONG-RANGE Planning is organized progress and continuity in bringing a rich and purposeful Scout program to girls," said Allen. "A long-range plan is not a static thing, for it must be up-dated continually, being checked and revised and moved forward at least every two years."

Camp Linden is presently filled to capacity and a waiting list is being kept. The long-range planning committee's report recommends expanding the present camp facilities to accommodate 912 Girl Scouts in 1980.

St. John's Loses 'Trail Blazer'

Father Eugene VanAntwerp, former rector of St. John's Seminary, left last month following two years of productive work in and around Plymouth. His new appointment, Executive Secretary in the Seminary Department of the National Catholic Education Association, has taken him to Washington, D.C. What does this new position involve? "I'll be chained to a desk," laughed Fr. VanAntwerp, then added, "Let's say that it promises challenging and rewarding work in an interesting field."

IN THE TWO years since his arrival in Plymouth in the summer of 1966, Fr. VanAntwerp has accomplished much locally in the area of ecumenism. He would minimize his efforts by saying, "I made an effort to establish a climate of cordiality among the clergy here."

This effort made St. John's the host of many meetings of the Plymouth Ministerial Association.

Fr. VanAntwerp also was instrumental in establishing a special section in Wayne State University's adult education program. This section of the program, organized along with Dr. Robert Whitaker, Dean of the Episcopal School of Theology, enables ministers of any faith to further their theological education.

Fr. VanAntwerp affiliated the seminary with the American Association of Theological Schools and a second affiliation, with the University of Detroit, allows qualified seminarians at St. John's to become candidates for their masters degree in theology.

Fr. VANANTWERP does not replace anyone in his new work with the NCEA. The position has not been filled for several years. It will be necessary for him to "blaze a trail."

This appears to be the kind of thing the seminary's former rector does very well.

Top Side Of Life

By REV. DAVID M. STRANG

here, in the order of their approximate importance, is a list of the priorities used by government to make decisions. Read them carefully.

1. Economics
2. Tax base
3. New Industry
4. Votes
5. New ordinances
6. Zoning
7. Vested interests
8. Personal salaries
9. People

The first eight may be in the wrong order. However, it is increasingly clear that people are at the bottom of the list. People are the last to be considered in the game of running society.

This list of priorities helps explain all kinds of weird things about our community, like how the Spartan Stores warehouse is more important than human beings.

That's why the people who live near the building have had to put up with unwanted and unnecessary noise while neither Plymouth Township officials nor the Spartan management seem to care.

The priorities of government help us understand why nearly half a township can be developed without consideration for adequate recreation facilities.

And why trains can be allowed to waste hundreds of hours of time every week for the human beings who must wait while they plod through town.

And why an expressway will be built on a route which will split the township and displace people—autos are more important, right?

And why subdivision developers are permitted to use lousy conservation principles; that is, removing almost all trees and topsoil, and then selling the topsoil back to home buyers.

And why local industry says it can't get people to work because there isn't enough middle cost housing available, meanwhile, Plymouth Township considers zoning the western half for expensive homes only.

SOMEONE WILL say, "But how can a community grow without industry and trains and expressways?"

I will then say: Correct! Although in my own idealistic way, I thought that industry and expressways and trains existed to serve people. But that isn't the way it is.

We are building a community by considering human purposes and needs last.

Frustrating, isn't it? Archibald MacLeish (writing in the "Saturday Review," July 13, 1968) called it the great American frustration: "The numb persistent sense, like the hinting pinch of a pain which is not yet brutal hurt, but will be, that we, as Americans... Have somehow lost control of our human affairs..."

Oakland County Authorizes Sunday Liquor Sales

PONTIAC -- Sunday liquor sales by authorized Oakland County establishments which meet state-defined requirements received approval of the Board of Supervisors Thursday on a roll call vote, 50 to 16.

Both Farmington members of the board, Delos Hamlin and Curtis Hall, voted with the majority.

The resolution favoring Sunday sales was introduced by Supervisor Alexander Perinoff of Southfield.

Committee Clerk Anton J. Guyer said notice of the board's action will be forwarded immediately to the State Liquor Control Commission, and that certification by that body should permit Sunday sales to become legal by early August.

Only those establishments which derive at least half their receipts from sale of food or other non-alcoholic services are eligible for a Sunday license.

LANSING -- Printers say ballots will be ready for the August 6 primary on time - but not without round the clock work on the presses.

Although many county clerks found themselves without ballots by the deadline, election officials promised them by week's end.

A welter of last minute changes have kept the ballots behind schedule. The state legislature refused to place township offices on the ballot, but did add 15 new district court judgeships, three seats on the Court of Appeals, and several new Circuit Court seats.

And, as well, new county boards are being elected after a flood of litigation settles the "one-man-one-vote" ruling for good.

Other matters, including incumbent's designation and top spot on the ballot for incumbents, were changed and dropped from previous election procedures.

LANSING -- Attorney Gen-

STATE AND LOCAL ROUNDUP

eral Frank Kelley has added his support to proposed gun control laws, and has urged the adoption of a four-point plan:

A ban on all interstate mail order sale of firearms.

A provision for registering all guns, and stiff penalties for failure to comply.

Licensing of all gun owners. A provision barring licenses for convicted felons, the mentally ill, alcoholics, aliens and drug addicts.

Kelley wired Sen. Robert Griffin and Sen. Phillip Hart, seeking their support for his plan.

LANSING -- Royal Globe Insurance Company has reversed its earlier decision to cancel some 400 property insurance policies in Detroit under pressure from the Michigan Insurance Commission.

David J. Dykhouse, insurance commissioner, said the company agreed to extend cancellation deadlines until the property - much of it in Detroit's riot prone areas - is covered by the new insurance pool.

Royal Globe has about 13 companies doing business in Michigan. Dykhouse hinted to newsmen that the company reversed itself after his office began investigating the company to see if there were any violations.

"I think I did indicate to them at one time or another that violations of the insurance code were taken very seriously by the bureau," Dykhouse said.

The new pool becomes effective in November.

DETROIT -- More building trade unions will return to work this week and next as several area disputes were settled.

Of five key unions which struck earlier this summer, three have reached agreements. Already, bricklayers, cement masons and carpenters have settled.

DETROIT -- Auto owners may get a crack at a first-of-its-kind insurance after group rated policy was approved by Attorney General Frank Kelley. The Michigan Farm Bureau Insurance Group and the Michigan Credit Union League finalized the contract which will cover 300 employees.

The approach is similar to that used in health and life policies, and the new contract opens doors for other companies to try for the same

DETROIT -- Police were continuing their search Thursday for a fourth suspect - a 17-year-old in the slayings of 11-year-old twin sisters June 30. Three youths, including the teenage brother of the twins, are under arrest already.

UPPER PENINSULA -- Federal aid for two flood-damaged communities is being sought by Rep. Phillip Ruppe. Both L'Anse and Baraga were hit by waters from Keweenaw Bay during a severe storm Monday.

The entire village of L'Anse was under four or five feet of water, State Police reported. Major highways and Baraga County roads were washed out after the savage storm.

MUSKEGON -- Western Michigan beaches are free of the stink of dead alewives this summer - a marked change from last summer.

Last year the alewives ruined beaches from Ludington to Chicago, and thousands of dollars were spent on cleaning the beaches.

Alewives -- salt water fish that came to Lake Michigan via the seaway - cannot survive in fresh water.

DETROIT -- Sen. Philip H.

Hart, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, predicted that backers of the appointment of Abe Fortas as chief justice of the supreme court will succeed in beating back objections.

Hart said that the committee would probably vote 10-4 to report the appointment to the Senate floor.

DETROIT -- One of the city's popular restaurants was destroyed by fire following a mysterious explosion.

The arson squad moved in to investigate the fire at Darby's.

Luckily, the eating spot was closed; the explosion was heard about midnight. Darby's usually closes at 2 a.m.

SOUTH LYON -- Carvel Cogger, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cogger, 58358 1 Mile, was overcome by indoor natural gases in a shed in his backyard.

The South Lyon fire department rushed to the scene but was unable to revive the boy. Medical experts and officials of Consumers Gas Co. were trying to determine what caused the gas to collect in the shed.

Teen Cars Hike Dad's Insurance

It is the fate of almost every parent to have to fight the battle of the automobile with teen - age children. The decision, as it should be, is usually based on the degree of maturity and sense of responsibility of the youngster involved.

But this approach has its pitfalls. You may be blessed with a child whose attitude toward safety is exemplary and whose judgment is superior to that of some adults. Unfortunately, those who sell automobile insurance will be blind to his virtues and lump him right in with every other teenage driver when it comes to assessing risk.

This almost guarantees that you will be hit with a bad case of "dollar shock" when you talk to your agent. "No use in my buying the insurance anyway," one stunned father said to his son, "I'd have to sell the car to pay for it."

PRICES aren't really that bad, of course, but they are bad enough. You can expect the cost of your insurance to double, for example, the first time your 17-year-old son turns the ignition key. If you own two cars, and the insurer is convinced that the boy is the "principal driver" of the second, the cost of coverage on that car will triple.

Such realities tend to shatter every boy's dream of having his own car. Insurers are so wary of teen-age drivers that some will actually discourage the sale of coverage on cars to be owned and driven by youngsters. Yet turndown by standard insurers leaves a lad with a pair of possibilities--both bad.

One is to be relegated to the "assigned risk pool." This is a grouping of poor risks from which each insurer has to take his share. Pool rates are high, and the coverage is usually rock - bottom minimum. The other is to buy coverage from a firm that specializes in high risks. Some of these companies, however, have a history of going bankrupt, leaving millions of dollars worth of claims unsatisfied.

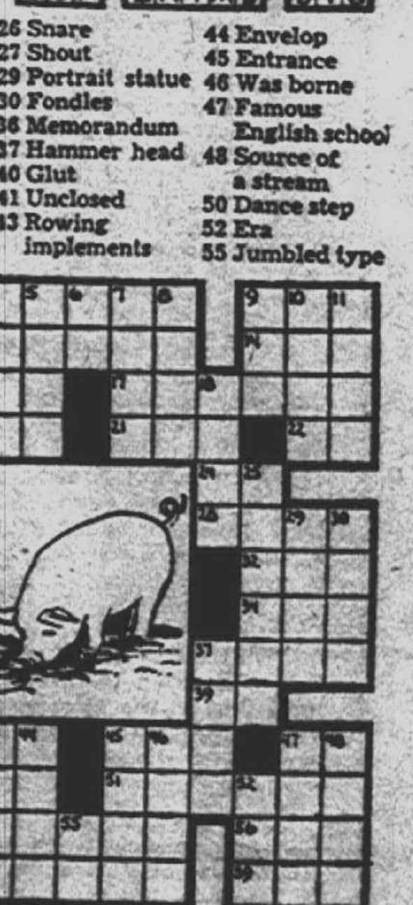

IF YOU'VE begat daughters rather than sons, this is one time at least that you come out ahead. A 17-year-old girl driving the family car demands only a 50 per cent surcharge over the adult rate.

Moscow-New York Make First Aerial Connection

MOSCOW — The first exchange of commercial air service between New York and Moscow was rounded out when a special VIP flight of Pan American World Airways landed here.

Earlier, the Soviet government airline landed an Ilyushin 62 Jet Aeroflot at New York in the inaugural east-west flight. Congestion in New York's air traffic delayed both flights.

The special Pan American flight, after a late take-off from New York, touched down in Moscow in mild, sunny weather. With a stop-over in Copenhagen, the Boeing 707 jetliner covered the 4,662 miles in 11 hours, 20 minutes.

On hand to greet the special flight were two Soviet officials—B.P. Bugayev, first deputy minister of civil aviation, and Georgy M. Kornienko, head of the American section of the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

HONG KONG — A mystery Chinese radio station calling itself "Voice of the People's Liberation Army" has called upon PLA commanders and troops throughout Red China to prepare for a "true Communist" revolt against party chairman Mao Tse-tung, Defense Minister Lin Biao, and Mao's wife, Chiang.

Violently denouncing the three for "usurping Communist power, lying to the masses, and cheating the PLA," the almost nightly broadcasts accuse Mao of initiating, and Lin and Chiang Ching of helping carry out, the "anarchism that has paralyzed and is destroying our country."

PRAGUE — The Soviet Union has again delayed withdrawal of its troops from Czechoslovakia and, with four East European allies, has sent a letter to the new liberal regime in Prague.

UPSALA, Sweden — The fourth assembly of the World Council of Churches has approved church support for young men who resist the draft. It also recommended admitting Red China to the United Nations.

An overwhelming majority of the 700 voting delegates approved a report including a recommendation that churches should stand behind young men who resist the draft for particular wars, such as Vietnam.

GENEVA — President Johnson has informed the United Nations disarmament committee that the United States and the Soviet Union will open talks "in the nearest future" on mutually limiting and then reducing offensive and defensive nuclear missile stockpiles.

Youths Will Free Ideas In Design

Students of industrial design, their ideas free from conventional thinking, have been busy at drawing boards in three different colleges creating revolutionary blueprints for the year 2000.

At the University of Cincinnati, a team of four students designed a modular home which could expand or contract according to the size of the family.

OTHERS worked on the problems of food preparation, seeing food being prepared by a completely automated system. Computers take care of ordering, storage, inventory and billing. Disposable dishes and tableware are tossed into a garbage disposal unit.

At the Philadelphia College of Art, students worked on the safety problems of the home. They came up with tubs and sinks that are soft rather than hard.

They also devised a self-cleaning floor, that when stepped on, sent the dirt cells into a lower area later to be removed by vacuum or water.

THEY ALSO created a mechanical unit which would contain information on entertainment, purchasing, personal communications and intercommunications in the home, controlled simply by verbal commands. University of Illinois designers came up with bathroom stinks that fold back into the wall when not in use.

World Roundup

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Iraqi military rebels have ousted President Abdel Rahman Aref in a bloodless coup and expelled him from the country, Radio Baghdad reports.

In another report, the Tehran newspaper Ettelaat, quoting travelers and field correspondents, said there was severe action in Baghdad, Basra and other towns, including Khorramshahr and Khosrovi, near the border of Iran. Hospitals were reported appealing for blood donors.

A "Revolutionary Command Council" has taken over all executive and legislative powers. Its membership was not announced immediately, but there was speculation it is led by the Baath Socialist party, which rules Syria.

PARIS — The United States has made a new appeal to North Vietnam in the Paris peace talks to declare what action it will take "if the remainder of the bombing of North Vietnam ends."

"I have stated many times," Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told North Vietnamese negotiators, "that the United States is prepared to stop the bombing of the remainder of North Vietnam, but I have asked what would happen then."

"I have asked what you then will do—slow the pace of the war or continue to heighten the level of your aggression? And to that central question, you have given no answer—no answer whatsoever."

SAIGON — Widespread enemy attacks as heavy as the Tet and May offensives can be expected throughout South Vietnam in late July, August or early September, according to Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford.

Based on his comments on reports from senior U.S. commanders since he arrived in Vietnam, Clifford said enemy forces around Saigon are increasing and there is a continual movement of enemy troops into the military district that surrounds the capital.

"The purpose," he said, "obviously is to launch some attack on Saigon."

PRAGUE — Czechoslovakia's liberal leadership is reportedly ready to accept a demand by the Soviet Union and four of her orthodox communist allies that the Prague regime explain its democratization program at a summit meeting in two weeks time. The Czechoslovaks would meet first and individually, however, with the leaders of Poland, East Germany, Hungary, Bulgaria and the Soviet Union, according to diplomatic sources reporting through Belgrade.

Yugoslavia and Romania, backers of the liberalization program, also would attend these bilateral meetings in Prague and serve as a counterweight against the orthodox parties, the sources said.

SAIGON — United States and South Vietnamese intelligence reports indicate some units of the enemy force buildup around Saigon have been pulled back and not enough remain to mount a major offensive.

It was the first lessening of tension in some weeks and came only a week before a full-scale assault was expected to mark the July 20 anniversary of the fall of Dien-Bien-Phu when the French were driven out of Vietnam and the country was divided into two parts.

An Old-Time Justice Of The Peace Thinks Michigan Won't Like Reform And Says 'Don't Count Me Out'

By PATRICK HINDERT

Because of a recent change in the state constitution, one of Michigan's legal rarities—a justice of the peace without formal legal training—will vanish into oblivion next Jan. 1.

As of that date, all Michigan judges must have law degrees. Martin M. Schomberger, longtime Plymouth township JP, is a proud member of this rapidly diminishing group of judges. He will officially close his court and law books on Jan. 1 when the recently-passed district court reform bill takes effect.

Schomberger's present post will be replaced by the office of district court judge. Because he has never earned a law degree, Schomberger will be ineligible for the job.

This, it seems, will end the distinguished 16-year public career of one of Plymouth's most respected citizens. But don't bet on it.

"I'M NOT READY to be buried," Schomberger declares with a huff of indignation. "Next year I will start a new life." Schomberger's "first life" began in Detroit in 1910. He moved to Plymouth at the age of eight and has been a resident of the community since.

Schomberger dived into politics in 1953, when, on his own initiative, he decided to seek election as justice of the peace.

"The office was open and no one was running," he recalls. "I had no intention of becoming active in judicial matters. I just liked the idea of being addressed as 'Judge'."

Prior to the election, Schomberger was dividing his time between work as a die welder and participation with the volunteer fire department.

"I AM THE ONLY volunteer fireman from Plymouth's original crew in 1948," he adds nostalgically. "But I only go to the big fires now—where there is some work to be done. My son takes care of the rest."

Schomberger's son, Louis, has just been named "fireman of the year" in South Lyon.

SCHOMBERGER'S attitude toward his new office changed quickly, thanks to persuasion from the late Clifford Manwaring, a longtime Plymouth attorney.

"Manwaring convinced me to become an active JP," says Schomberger. "Upon his urging, I began handling civil cases. Later, I picked up anything the sheriff and state police would bring to me."

IN RECENT YEARS, the office of justice of the peace has been under constant attack. Critics claim that few justices are learned in the law and that methods of collecting fines lead to corruption and biased judgment.

"People don't understand the nature of our work," Schomberger begins. "They think of justices as money collectors."

"In the past certain unscrupulous JP's earned a black-eye for everyone by working with collection agencies. I have never run a collection agency. I am paid a standard fee for writing complaints and warrants. That fee is not related to the amount of the fine or to the outcome of the trial."

SCHOMBERGER makes no secret about his formal education, which ended after completion of 10th grade. He does not claim to possess the legal knowledge of a Harvard Law School graduate.

"Whatever knowledge of law I have came the hard way—by experience," he attests.

"I THINK the politicians are making the judicial process too darn complicated," he asserts frankly.

The original purpose of the justice of the peace, according to Schomberger, was "to settle disputes between two neighbors." He believes this approach to legal problems should be maintained.

"This new court reform law will take the responsibility of running the community away from the people and give it to a district judge," Schomberger claims. "The people of Michigan will be sorry in the long run."

"Besides," he adds, "legal knowledge is not that complicated. Everything I need to know is located in one of those books." Schomberger points across the room to a blue set of volumes entitled "Compiled Laws of Michigan."

"When a difficult case comes up, I call a recess and study the section that applies," he says. "The compiled laws even dictate the punishment."

"As for traffic laws," he continues, "they are all written in one simple book—'The Michigan Vehicle Code.' The police officer indicates the code on the ticket and the code sets the maximum penalty. It is my duty to decide if the man is guilty and to set the penalty."

HIS MOST UNUSUAL case began as a typical assault and battery charge. A man had beaten his wife, and she had him arrested. The police brought the man to Schomberger upon recommendation of the county prosecutor.

"At first the man pleaded 'not guilty,'" Schomberger recalls. "I was ready to set him free on $100 bond, when he told me he had no money. So I ordered him to spend one month in the Wayne County Jail awaiting trial."

"That is when things became a little strange," Schomberger adds with a smile. "Upon hearing my decision, the man changed his plea to guilty. So I assigned him to the Detroit House of Correction."

"Suddenly the man's wife, who had remained silent until then, burst out, 'You can't do that to my husband. He will lose his unemployment check.'"

"OK," I said. "I'll give you 60 days." When neither of them could come up with the money, I had no choice but to send the man to jail," says Schomberger.

A few hours later the wife returned to bail her husband out of jail. She handed me 60 one-dollar bills, and I let her collect every bit of it from her neighbors. That case really

AS JUSTICE OF the peace, Martin Schomberger presides coolly in his paneled office with all the law books he needs close at hand.

THE SCHOMBERGERS are proud of the 16 grandchildren, sons and daughters of their five children.

HIS DAYTIME JOB is maintenance supervisor in Plymouth High School.

State Body Ponders River Standards

Southeastern Michigan received the first of five public hearings to determine water uses which will be protected by the water quality standards adopted by Michigan on Jan. 4.

Previously cases concerning public, municipal or industrial use of water were handled individually because there were no state-wide water quality standards.

The hearings are required by law and are conducted by the Michigan Water Resources Commission. The WRC's fact-finders present their recommendations concerning water usage for all lakes and streams and then any private individual or organization, municipality or industry may make a statement. A second hearing was held in May, and three more will be held in August, October and December.

"THE FACT-FINDERS of the commission range in profession all the way from biologists to sanitary engineers," Bill Bradford, a water resource planner for the Commission, said.

The commission, according to Bradford, will consider reports by these men as well as studies done previously in making their decision.

The adopted standards include 11 areas of water quality including such things as dissolved oxygen content; residues—debris and material of unnatural origin and oils; nutrients, and temperature variance.

These standards, varying in some cases, cover the seven different types of water use which the Commission has determined exist in Michigan waters.

These uses are (1) domestic—drinking, etc.; (2) industrial; (3) total body contact—swimming, water skiing, etc.; (4) partial body contact—fishing, boating, etc.; (5) fish, wildlife and other aquatic life; (6) agricultural, and commercial; and (7) other—hydroelectric and steam generated electric power.

THE FINAL decision concerning these uses will come some time next year after all of the hearings have been held and the facts have been considered.

This decision will come from the actual seven-man Water Resources Commission, an autonomous body created by Michigan Law.

Federal law of some two years ago required that all states draw up standards for all interstate waterways and have them submitted by July 1, 1967. Michigan met this requirement and has since moved on to intrastate standards.

Both the Rouge and Huron Rivers were included in the recommendation of the fact-finders to the commission.

FOUR OF THE members of the seven-man commission represent the directors of the Department of Agriculture, Conservation Department, Department of Public Health, and the State Highway Commission.

The other three members are appointed by the governor and represent organized conservation, industrial and municipal interests.

The Water Resources staff recommended to the commission that the River Rouge be protected under the new standard for the commercial and other water use from its mouth to the Michigan Avenue Bridge.

They also recommended that the Huron River be protected for the intolerant fish, coldwater species—trout, whitefish, cisco—under the new standards.

All waters, except those protected for commercial and other, are to be protected for partial body contact and agricultural uses under the recommendations of the commission staff.

C'ville Band Wins Festival Prize

For the second straight year, Clarenceville High School's 60-member marching band has walked off with top honors from last week's National Cherry Festival in Traverse City.

This year, however, there was an added prize—a silver governor's trophy, presented by Lt. Gov. William Milliken, a Traverse City resident.

In 1967 Clarenceville School District which covers parts of Livonia, Redford Township and Farmington Township, competed in the Class B category. This year, it competed in Class A, won the divisional prize, and went on to win grand prize.

DIRECTED BY John Nezek, the Clarenceville band offered five formations and selections:

1. A car with a flat tire, "In My Merry Oldsmobile."
2. A can insect spray exterminating bugs attacking the cherry crop, "It's A Lovely Day Today."
3. A large glass with two Alka-Seltzer tablets, giving off giant fizz bubbles (balloons), "No Matter What Shape Your Stomach's In."
4. A line, pole and fishhook catching a large styrofoam fish, "In the Good Ol' Summertime."
5. The drum section featured, "Heat Wave."

After the performance, retiring senior Harvey Benstein turned over his drum major's baton to Larry Diamond and his manager's clipboard to Larry Kopelman.

SIGNIFICANTLY, Clarenceville defeated two prominent Indiana high school bands in winning grand prize—Durand which marched in the 1966 Rose Bowl parade, and Crown Point which finished second behind the Trojan band last year. Judges were George Caven- dar, assistant director of bands at the University of Michigan;

Robert Jorgenson, Urbana (Ill.) director of music; and Howard Halgedahl, Winfield (Kans.) music director.

A Sports First: Woman To Light Olympic Torch

The women are "taking over" in this world. Don't believe it? Well, look who has been selected to light the torch in Mexico City when the Olympics open in October. A gal...and that's something which never before has taken place.

The Mexicans have selected Norma Enriqueta Basilio Soltero, 20, a hurdler, to make the last dash through the stadium with a flame torch brought from Mount Olympus, Miss Soltero also will move up the steps and set the torch alive.

THE DETROIT COUGARS soccer team can't seem to shake the losing blues. The Cougars went down to their tenth setback in 11 games when beaten by Oakland, 3-2. Selimir Milosevic booted in all three goals for the winners.

QUESTION: Who was the last American League pitcher to be acclaimed as the circuit's most valuable player?

Answer Bobby Shantz of the Philadelphia A's in 1952.

A gent by the name of Danny McLain could win the honor this season.

SAM JONES, the great guard of the Boston Celtics, has announced he's definitely retiring after next season—his 12th in the National Basketball Association.

Jones will take over as athletic director-basketball coach at the new Federal City College, now under construction in Washington, D.C.

IF YOU'RE PATIENT, happiness is bound to come your way.

Take Rocky Colavito. He was born and grew up in the shadows of Yankee Stadium in New York City. He wanted to play with the Yankees as a youngster.

But he wound up with Cleveland, came to Detroit, went on to Chicago and finally Los Angeles before, after 15 years, he's made it to New York and a job with the Yankees.

So what does he do in his first appearance as a Yank? Yep, you're right...he smacks a homer.

DANNY LITWHLER, the Michigan State baseball coach, has been named to lead a U.S. amateur team in a tournament to be held in Mexico City, Nov. 3-10, in connection with the Olympics.

He'll scan reports from professional and college scouts before selecting who goes. One prime candidate would be Harold (Spud) Kendrick of Redford Township, who is LitwHLer's No. 1 catcher at Michigan State.

JACK NICKLAUS, a favorite in every golf tournament—including the PGA which ends Sunday in San Antonio—hasn't won on the tour in almost a year.

CLIFF JONES and Gene Washington, both former Michigan State football stars, have signed their contracts with the Minnesota Vikings.

Another ex-Spartan, Dwight Lee, has been doing some nifty running in the camp of the San Francisco 49ers.

THE TIGERS as a team have been hitting only .228. Their pitchers have a combined earned run average of 2.81, led by reliever Pat Dobson at 1.47.

THE NATIONAL BASEBALL Library at Cooperstown, N.Y., will be dedicated next Monday. The library is adjacent to baseball's hall of fame.

THE MONEY DEPT.: Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., is pulling away in the dollar category in the Pro Bowlers Association. He's already won $59,600, some $24,000 ahead of runnerup Dave Davis of Phoenix. Detroit Dave Soutar is third at $22,240. The pros are rolling in Houston this weekend.

Among the pro golfers, Billy Casper holds a slim lead with $130,186 to his credit. Tom Weiskopf is second, $499 behind with U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino now third at $96,245.

A $1,000 PURSE will be at stake next Thursday when the superstocks race for their midsummer championship at the Mt. Clemens race track.

ARTHUR ASHE, A semi-finalist at Wimbledon, obviously doesn't like 90-degree weather. He wilted in the scorching heat at Milwaukee to lose to Pat Cornejo of Chile in the U.S. Clay Court championships.

THE DETROIT OLYMPICS lacrosse team, which has slipped out of first place in the Eastern Division standings, hosts Montreal at Olympia Tuesday, then goes to Toronto Friday. Peterborough has slipped past the Olympics, who slumped on their recent west coast trip.

PITCHER WADE Blasingame has been lost to the Houston Astros, perhaps for the rest of the season. He had to undergo emergency surgery after being hit in the groin by a batted ball.

PAUL CASANOVA, an all-star catcher with Washington last year, has been recalled by the Nats from their Buffalo farm team. The Nats had to send Casanova down to the Minors when his hitting dropped below .200.

Farmington Eyes Upset In Last Legion Action

With the role of "spoilers" facing them, Farmington's American Legion baseball team reaches the end of the line for 1968 battling Walled Lake Sunday in a doubleheader on the Lakers diamond.

Farmington has a chance to keep the Lakers from the crown, since Walled Lake and Southfield enter the final day of play deadlocked for the top.

The Lakers had little trouble with Farmington last Monday in gaining a 12-4 victory, but then Farmington came back Wednesday with an impressive 8-3 conquest over Milford as Bob Henke and Mark Kujawa led the way with three hits apiece.

Ross Patton had three hits in the loss to Walled Lake.

IN THE GAME, Kujawa singled in John Thomas with the first Farmington run. Then Henke's single pushed over another run in the fifth before Patton collected a two-run double.

Doug Drapalski hurled the route in the victory over Milford. He allowed only three hits and fanned 11.

Farmington started with three runs in the first inning when Drapalski singled, Thomas walked, Henke singled, Steve Sager singled in one tally and Kujawa singled over a pair.

In the second inning, Tom Snider and Thomas walked and scored on Henke's triple. Kujawa followed with another RBI single.

Thomas walked and Sager singled in the fourth. They pulled off a double steal and scored on Kujawa's third single which gave him five runs batted in during the game.

Kujawa's dad, Harry, manages the Farmington team.

Comes Close

Mrs. James Portney of Livonia shot 47-45--92 to place third in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association tournament at Hickory Hollow. Mrs. Peter McAlpine of Southfield won with a 90.

Observer WORLD OF WOMEN

Bassettes Wed By Candlelight

In a double-ring candlelight ceremony, Judith Ann Kawabecame the bride of William Arthur Bassette on June 15. The wedding took place at Highland Park Baptist Church, Southfield, with the Rev. Baden Brown officiating.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank John Kawa, of Midland. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stone Bassette, of Thirteen Mile Road, Farmington.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a silk organza gown trimmed in chantilly lace, with a high-rise waist, cage back, short sleeves, and cathedral train also trimmed in lace. Her veil was elbow-length and was secured with three organza roses, and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies and stephanotis.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Jack Abbe, of Sanford, Mich. The bridesmaids were Joan Wawzyniak, of Northville; Alice Bassette, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Curtis Keach, of Plymouth. They wore floor-length light pink organza dresses and carried bouquets of red roses.

The bride's mother wore a light pink crepe dress with pink lace coat and Mrs. Bassette chose a blue and white cotton brocade dress and a corsage of pink roses.

The best man was Charles R. Fowler, of Adrian. Groomsmen included Dean Kawa, of Midland; Jon Bond, of Farmington; Stuart Silbey, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Larry Bengtsson, of St. Joseph, Mich.

Flower girl was Kim Elaine Abbe, the bride's niece, while the ring bearer was Scott Abbe, the bride's nephew.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the fellowship hall at the church.

Reception hostesses were Mrs. Joseph Franko, of Midland; Mrs. Kent Smith and Mrs. Fred Mason, of Saginaw; and Eileen Wawzyniak, of Bay City. The couple honeymooned in Miami Beach and are at home in Northville.

Mrs. Bassette is a graduate of Michigan State University and a kindergarten teacher in the Livonia schools. Her husband attended Adrian College and is now associated with a life insurance company.

If you have a young finger-paint artist in the family, keep his clothes free of the paint with a pint-size artist's smock. Ideal for this is a man's old cotton shirt. Cut the collar and sleeves off and finish with a machine stitch. Shorten the hem. The finished "smock" is worn backward. Pop in the washing machine with colored cottons.

BRENDA BAILEY

Mrs. Joseph W. Bailey, of Plymouth announces the engagement of her daughter, Brenda, to Robert M. McKindles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McKindles of South Lyon. The couple will marry August 3, in Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth.

BONNIE ALDRICH

Mrs. Fred E. Aldrich, of Ford Road, Plymouth, announces the engagement of her daughter, Bonnie Lou, to Roger P. Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fleming, of Belleville. The bride-elect, also the daughter of the late Fred E. Aldrich, Sr., is a 1964 Plymouth High School graduate and graduated from the Academe of Beute in Garden City. She is employed at Bernard's of Westland, in Westland. Her fiancé is a 1964 graduate of Belleville High School. He is employed at the Ypsilanti Press. An Aug. 3 wedding is planned.

COLLETTE BLANCHARD

Soapy View Of History

One view of history tells us that the use of soap went hand in hand with the greatest civilizations of the past. When Egyptian kings built palaces and pyramids, when the Greek culture flowered, and when Italian art and music flourished, bathing was an important part of everyday life. Conversely, low points in history, like the Dark (and dirty) Ages, were known for the absence of cleanliness.

Americans today use an average of 27 pounds of soap per person a year! Newer developments in soap, such as Dial, unheard of even in our "modern" colonial times, have brought deodorant protection and antibacterial action to the cleanliness routine. If history, indeed, repeats itself, Americans should achieve record heights!

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blanchard, of Farmington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Collette Marie, to John Vincent Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Fowler, of Livonia. The bride-elect is a graduate of Farmington High School and is presently employed by the Farmington Board of Education. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Bentley High School and plans to make a career in sales. An August 16 wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vertin, of Lyndon Avenue, Livonia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne, to Pfc. Robert Lee Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Carlson, of Merriman Road, Livonia. The bride-elect is attending Schoolcraft College. Her fiancé is completing medical training at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas. A September wedding is planned.

SUZANNE VERTIN

MRS. PAUL CHARLES BENNETT
(Catherine Freeman)

Newlyweds To Make Home In Big Rapids

Catherine Marie Freeman and Paul Charles Bennett were united in marriage recently in a double-ring ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church, Farmington.

The Rev. George Ramsey officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Freeman, of Farmington and Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett, of Farmington.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length empire line gown with lace and seed-pearl applique. She carried baby white roses in a lace nosegay with carnations and ivy.

Anita Freeman, of Troy, served as matron of honor and Linda Valenti, Gail Lambert and Kitty Bennett were bridesmaids. Julie Weiss was the flower girl.

The bridegroom chose John Curtis as best man and guests were seated by ushers Thomas Bennett, Charles Spicer and Terry Swieczkowski.

The newlyweds will return to Big Rapids where they are both attending Ferris Institute.

Double Ring Rites Unite Millers In Livonia

A double-ring ceremony in the Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church recently united Carol Ann Loosmore and Thomas Alan Miller in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Loosmore, of Hampshire Road, Livonia, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Warren Miller, of Five Mile Road, Livonia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza gown with empire waist, A-line skirt and beaded bridal sleeves. A lace headpiece held her shoulder-length veil, and her flowers were eucharis lilies.

FOUR ATTENDANTS wore floor-length pink gowns and carried spring flowers in shades of pink and purple.

Cindy Loosmore was maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were Janice Sulecki, of Redford Township, sister of the bridegroom, Elaine Wuotinen, of Livonia, and Lynn Pollett, of Detroit.

Lori Sulecki was flower girl.

LOREN MILLER, of Livonia, assisted his brother as best man.

One of the groomsmen was Frank LaPlante, of Garden City, who served as a proxy for his son, Louis, currently with the U.S. Navy Seabees in Vietnam.

Roger Backman, of Livonia, also was a groomsman, and James Sulecki was usher.

The reception was held in the Mayflower Meeting House, and the couple then left for a Georgia honeymoon. They will live in Westland.

Both are graduates of Bentley High School. The new Mrs. Miller is employed as a dental assistant, and her husband works for Clover Electronics Construction.

Warmer climate means cook-out time! Whether your forte is chicken, beef or ribs, you can please palates and beef up outdoor meals with a basic barbecue sauce that's a cinch to make and tastes good on anything! In fact, it's been dubbed, "The Greatest Barbecue Sauce in America."

1 (8 oz.) Can Tomato Sauce
1/2 Cup A-1 Steak Sauce
1/4 Cup Oil
1/4 Cup Brown Sugar

2 Tbsp. Vinegar
Combine all ingredients and mix well. Makes 2 cups. Refrigerate until needed.

With this tasty, all-purpose barbecue sauce in your bag of tricks, all you have to do is remember a few rules-of-thumb to turn your next cook-out into the greatest barbecue ever.

Cook steaks and chops over a medium hot fire. Burning or charring a steak robs it of its natural juices and flavor, and over-cooking can even shrink foods. In general, steaks and chops are ready to be turned when juices appear on the top surface.

Spit-roasts chicken and lean meats generally require a slower fire, and should be basted regularly during cooking to keep them moist and juicy.

Should Post Office Be Self-Supporting Company?

WASHINGTON — A special Presidential Commission has suggested the U.S. Postal Service be taken over by a self-supporting, federally-owned corporation. The plan would drop the post office as a cabinet post, and would make all appointments and promotions non-political. The proposal follows recent cutbacks in postal services being felt in all areas of the nation. Key members of Congress immediately expressed doubt about the plan but President Johnson said the plan deserves study. Postmaster General Marvin Watson said he would appoint a top-level task force to study the report.

WASHINGTON — The Poor People's campaign will send delegates to both national conventions next month, Rev. David Abernathy said. He said they would mount no demonstrations at either gathering of national delegates. But, he cautioned, his group would work to defeat congressmen unfriendly to their demands.

NEW YORK — Billionaire Howard Hughes' bid for 43 per cent control of the American Broadcasting Corp. failed by 400,000 shares. The publicity-shy recluse received 1.6 million shares for his tender offer issued through a broker; he wanted to buy two million shares at $74.25 each.

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will be the chairman of the Massachusetts delegation to the Democratic Convention in Chicago. He was elected at an organizational meeting.

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee has sent to the floor a revised public works bill totaling $4.7 billion. The amount was about $180 million under President Johnson's request, but $228 more than that of the House.

WASHINGTON — Federal aid to education bills are now before the House and Senate. Federal aid to education through 1971 at a cost of $14 billion cleared the Senate early in the week. In the House, lawmakers voted 389-0 on a $1.2 billion budget for a two-year program of vocational education.

In each case the other chamber of Congress is considering legislation along the same lines. Differences will have to be worked out in conference committee.

MIAMI — The ninth hijacking this year took a National Airlines commercial jet to Cuba when a man armed with a grenade threatened to blow the plane up.

He seized control of the plane over Texas, and held control while the craft refueled at New Orleans.

The DC8, with 57 passengers and seven crewmen, landed in Havana. Normally the crews and passengers are returned quickly, but the apparent illness of a crewman or a passenger delayed the return.

MEMPHIS — The accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. dropped his appeal in the extradition order that would have taken him from London. American authorities here said the next news of James Earl Ray will probably be that he has arrived in Memphis. Ray's quick and secret return brings to a close a chase that began three months ago.

The 40-year-old prisoner, an escapee from a Missouri prison, denies he killed King.

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Three teen-age girls were freed by police after being held hostage for 24 hours by Edward Thompson Jr., an accused kidnapper and thief.

The father of one of the girls and the mother of another were found shot to death earlier. Thompson, arrested by Greensboro police, was wanted on six counts of kidnapping, three of rape, and one each of armed robbery, car theft and assault on an officer.

SANFORD, Maine — Ralph Goodwin held his wife hostage for more than six hours and then fatally shot her, apparently accidentally, while holding a gun to her head. Police say Goodwin emerged from a house to talk to newsmen and tripped and fell down the steps, discharging the gun. Goodwin, an unemployed ma-chist, had locked himself inside the home of his brother, after forcing his wife to accompany him to Maine. "I know I'm sick. I know I've done wrong," Goodwin said moments after the shooting.

PITTSBURGH — While the war in Vietnam must be stopped, urban racial ills are an even more pressing problem, Sen. Eugene McCarthy said in Pittsburgh this week.

McCarthy was speaking to four young Negroes in an on-the-spot exchange. They challenged his civil rights credentials as he toured an art gallery in the heart of a Negro section.

"I think you've got to stop the war, but the domestic thing is much more important," he said.

Secret Service body guards continued their close watch on McCarthy, as well as all other presidential contenders.

PITTSBURGH — Local steel union leaders around the country predicted 98 per cent of the United Steel Workers members would vote July 23 to strike the nation's basic steel industry.

The vote will be the first in history for the 450,000 men but does not necessarily mean workers will leave their jobs August 1.

"We are saying quite frankly that time is running out," J.W.

Abel, president of the unions said.

Industry-wide bargaining began the first week in June, but no progress on wages has been made, according to Abel.

Local leaders are even more vocal. "The companies have a shock coming. Our guys are ready to go," one said.

PHILADELPHIA — George Wallace's third party bid for the presidency can hurt Republican chances, says Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon conceded Wallace might win Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and even Georgia.

But he stated flatly that Wallace would have no leverage in determining who would be president and said that, if the race goes to the House, southerners would vote for a Democrat, not Wallace.

The House could be forced to decide the presidency if neither major party won a majority in the electoral college.

Head Start Class Visits C'ville Theatre

By SUE SHAUGHNESSY

Take a group of four and five year olds—put them into the front seat of a theater—and what's the result?

The result is giggles, a little bit of squirming and some timidity.

At least that's what the Clarenceville Summer Theatre Players discovered last week when they put on a special show for 14 members of the District's Head Start Class.

Ensnored in their seats before the curtain went up, the "questions ranged from 'Are their people behind that?' (the curtain) to 'When are they going to turn it on?'"

The latter undoubtedly is indicative of the influence of television on today's children.

A theatrical program is just one of the events of the District's Head Start students.

Head start is a federally financed program for deprived students. The object is to provide a learning experience before school begins.

The show featured four acts, including a pantomime to "Mary Poppins," comedy readings from Mother Goose, a tap-dance routine, and the Pyramus and Thisbe scene from Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Highlight of the show came when the lion chased Thisbe into the audience.

In the words of the Director, Bob Gregory, "we don't know who had more fun, the audience or the actors." We agree.

MAKING CONVERSATION — That's what Mike Kowalski is doing with an important client. He hopes to distract the client's attention from the poor service in the restaurant.

Orchestra Schedules Revamped

The second change of dance orchestras and schedules for Metropolitan Beach was announced today by James J. Pom-pa, beach manager.

Franco and the Glenn Miller Orchestra originally scheduled on that date and who has canceled his appearances in the Detroit Area.

3. All Saturday and holiday dance dates featuring Don Pablo and his Orchestra or the Tommy Baldwin Orchestra remain as originally scheduled.

AMUSEMENTS

IS THAT SO? — That seems to be the reaction of David McIntosh and Sandra Scott to Kowalski's performance.

CLOSE ATTENTION — Dick Hovey pays close attention to Kowalski's performance as the other actors criticize each other.

The usual rehearsal time is six weeks.

He spends the first week in talking about the play with his actors. The group discusses just what the author had in mind and what each character means.

He contends, however, that given a group of actors trained in the Stanislavsky method he could open the same play in a week.

Why?

"An untrained actor," he says, "leaves after the rehearsal capable of doing a few things. However, he can't go beyond that and develop and create the role. If he could it would save the director a great deal of time."

This lack of training, he cites as the reason why the quality of community theatre productions is so highly dependent on the director.

That's because the director has to interpret the characters for the actors, according to Wotring.

"This class is an attempt to offset this condition," the instructor concludes.

Acting Out A Situation

Make up a situation and have the person act it out.

That describes the exercise that Instructor Jim Wotring put Mike Kowalski through during a recent session of the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild's acting workshop.

The situation, which was supplied by the class, was that of a young salesman taking a very important client out to dinner. The service is poor and the food is worse. Kowalski was told to show the class just how he would react in this situation.

Our camera caught the acting and the reactions of other members of the class.

ELECTRICITY — YOUR BEST WAY TO LIVE BETTER

An electric unit costs less to buy primarily because it's simpler in design and manufacture. There are about 16 essential sub-assemblies in an electric air conditioner as compared to 34 in a flame-type cooler.

An electric air conditioner costs less to install. It's lighter in weight; less complicated. The outdoor condenser for a flame-type cooler is much bulkier and heavier than the condenser for an electric air conditioner.

An electric air conditioner costs less to operate.

A flame-type air conditioner uses both gas and electricity so there are two charges for energy.

'Anything Goes' Hits The Boards July 24-28

The Livonia Musical Production Workshop will present Cole Porter's musical comedy "Anything Goes" July 24 through July 28 in Stevenson High School's air-conditioned lecture theatre.

The play will be presented in its entirety using the Broadway script and score.

Curtain time for each performance is 8 p.m. Stevenson is located on Six Mile Rd., just west of Farmington Rd.

THE SHOW is a revival of the light-hearted, live-it-up 30's, complete with flappers and the Charleston. Music in the show is featured in the style of the jazzy 1930's dance band.

Some of the songs from the play are: "Friendship," "Blow Gabriel, Blow" and "Let's Misbehave."

Reno, singing female lead, is featured in the solo "I Get a Kick Out of You."

Other highlights include "Heaven Hop," "You're the Top" and "Public Enemy." The title song "Anything Goes" will feature the entire company.

THE STORY is based on the love-lives of Billy Crocker and Reno Sweeney.

The role of Billy is portrayed by Bentley student Tom Lucas, while Crys Premo appears as Reno.

Peggy Moore has been cast as Hope, while Bob Hellstein holds the comic lead of Moon-face, the gangster.

Tickets for the production are currently on sale at Stevenson High. The box office is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $2 per person, and will be held for 48 hours after being reserved before being sold.

Local Plays Listed

Three of the largest community theater groups in Observerland have announced the plays for the 1968-1969 season.

The plays are a mixture of two productions of an avant garde comedy, straight comedy, a musical, drama and a revival. Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild productions will be: "The King and I," "Wait Until Dark," and "Oh Dad! Poor Dad!"

The Farmington Players have chosen "Mary, Mary," "Strange Bedfellows," and "A Case of Libel."

Selections of the Wayne Civic Players are: "Cloud Seven," "Witness for the Prosecution," and "Oh Dad! Poor Dad!"

The Farmington Players will stage "Strange Bedfellows" as a revival in honor of the 15th year of production for the group.

Hope Nahstoll, who will direct the play, says that it deals with the issue of women suffrage and that the Players thought it was appropriate for an election year offering.

"Oh Dad!" is one of the first off beat comedies that achieved theatrical success. Written by a Harvard student, the play deals with the theme of motherhood.

Court Theatre Opens

The Oakland Community College - Court Theatre will continue its Summer Theatre Series with productions of "The Fantastiks" on Friday, July 26, and Saturday, July 27, and "In White America" on Sunday, July 28.

Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

The productions will be staged in the Ferndale High School auditorium, 881 Pinecrest, Ferndale.

"The Fantastiks" is a long-running, off-Broadway musical which has been a delight to audiences ever since its opening in 1959.

"In White America" is a documentary recounting what it has been like to be a Negro.

Reserved seats are $2 and general admission $1.

CATCHER BILL FAHEY dives for the relay from the outfield as Jim Powers slides across the plate during a Class "A" contest at Livonia's Ford Field.

Livonia Cardinal Routs Redford To Take Lead

The lead has shifted in the second round of the Greater Livonia-Free Press baseball league.

Livonia's Cardinal Decorating has dislodged Redford, the first round king, atop the standings.

With Paul Tonnemacher, the sensation from Stevenson High, twirling a neat two-hitter, Cardinal finally beat Redford last Wednesday night—and beat 'em good, 10-0.

The victory left Cardinal unbeaten in four starts in the second round. Redford has lost once.

Tonnemacher was most of the show, as he usually is.

THE LANKY righthander who led Stevenson to the Interlake League crown last spring and was picked on the Observer All Area team, gave up a single to Bill Howe in the second inning and another hit to Joe Himmelsbach in the seventh.

He set down 12 on strikes and prompted the big league scouts in attendance to write down some fancy notes.

Tonnemacher came within a whisker of losing his shutout. With two out in the seventh, Himmelsbach lashed a line hit to left. Billy Holmes, who had walked and gone to second when Kevin Fox was hit by a pitch, tried to leg it home.

He was cut down for the final out of the evening.

TOM FLESZER, the lefty who started for Redford, deserved a better fate. He was the victim of the poorest defensive work of the season turned in by Redford.

Tom Webster tripled in the first run for Cardinal in the first inning after the side should have been retired.

In the third inning, Tim Fisher was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on an error.

THAT'S THE WAY the score stood until Cardinal exploded for eight runs on only three hits in the sixth inning.

It happened this way. Webster walked and Karl Gulbransen was safe when a throw trying to get Webster went wild. Ed Ryan was hit by a pitch to load the bases.

One run scored after Bill McAlpine filed to left. Then Jim Powers singled and Tonnemacher walked to force in a run.

Fisher was safe on an error, Shroeter singled and Dettler tripled with the bags jammed. Dettler scored on Webster's infield out to end the wildest Cardinal inning of the season.

RU Hurdler Sets Record In Canada

John Morrison, a Redford Union High School senior, has set a new Canadian AAU men's juvenile 120 yd. high hurdles record.

Observerland's most outstanding hurdler bettered the old mark Saturday by more than .9 of a second when he finished in 14.1.

Competition took place at the southwestern Ontario Championships at London, Ontario. Morrison, who was running with the Oakland County Track Club, became the first American to hold a Canadian regional AAU record.

After winning the Suburban Six high and low hurdles championship in May, Morrison finished second in state high hurdles.

Tigers Survive Slump, Still Maintain Lead

The beauty of building up a big lead in sports is that you can afford a slight slump and not suffer too much.

It happened to the Tigers this past week.

They came off an eight-game road trip with only three victories. Yet when they returned to Tiger Stadium Friday night, the Tigers held a seven-game bulge over second-place Cleveland.

True, the Tiger command had shrunk by 2 1/2 games from their season's peak, but manager Mayo Smith wasn't too concerned when the Tigers arrived at their home mark.

"It was to be expected that we'd have a bad streak somewhere along the line," said Smith. "We didn't lose much in the lead department and I think we're now squared away."

PERHAPS THE most gratifying game of the long western tour came in the finale at Oakland when Earl Wilson and the Tigers downed the A's, 3-1.

There had been deep concern in the Tiger camp over Wilson. He had been pounded around and hurt physically in his previous starts.

Just four days prior, against California, he was rapped for six runs in a couple innings and complained that his pitching hand felt "like it might be broken" around the wrist.

He had been belted on the wrist by a batted ball in the Tigers' last home stand.

But against Oakland, Wilson showed that he was back in the groove. He had a shut-out going for seven innings and was seldom in serious trouble.

"We need somebody to help out Denny McLain," Smith said, WHILE McLAIN keeps rolling along, he won No. 18 by shutting out Oakland 4-0, the other three Tiger starters—Wilson, Joe Sparrma and Mickey Lolich have been experiencing problems.

In fact, they had a combined 21-21 record when the Tigers came home. All of which shows the magnitude of the McLain job this season.

McLain scattered eight and fanned eight, without yielding a walk, in winning over the A's. He was spotted a 2-0 lead in the first couple innings and coasted along with Al Ka-line contributing his fifth homer of the season.

The next night, the Tigers lost a toughie to the A's, 3-2, with Sparrma the loser. He was bounced in the second inning and the Tiger relief corp kept the A's silent the rest of the way.

But the Tigers couldn't do much in the way of hitting against Jim (Catfish) Hunter. Their big blow was Willie Horton's 23rd homer of the season.

THEN IT was the trip windup

observing sports

You hear sometimes that the folks who boss professional athletic teams are mercenary. That they are out for is the mighty buck.

T'aint so . . . and we should know.

It's especially not so when you encounter a man like Louie D'Annunzio, who represents the Detroit Tigers and wanders around the area as one of their ace scouts.

D'Annunzio is past the retirement age. But he won't quit scouting, because that's all he knows.

And the Tigers don't want him to quit. He means too much to them . . . too much to baseball . . . too much to the boys who play on high school, college and sandlot teams.

We never have known a man who had a greater fondness or interest in young men.

He was out at Ford Field the other evening when Livonia and Redford hooked up in their Class A tussle for first place.

D'ANNUNZIO DIDN'T look like a scout. He was there in shorts, a white T-shirt and high socks. Usually, scouts appear much more formal.

But Louis isn't the formal type.

He wore a stop watch around his neck to time the various performers.

As Louie, or any other scout, will tell you, they look for two things first in a potential professional candidate:

1—Can he run?

2—How does he throw?

"If a kid can run and throw, we can teach him the rest," says D'Annunzio. "But, if he's slow and has no arm, well, forget it."

When the game started, Louie quickly spotted somebody who could throw — Livonia's Jay Schwalm.

He walked over to yours truly, umpiring behind the plate, and wanted to know if Schwalm's ball moved much.

An inning later, we reported "yes." But Louie also had taken a position behind the backstop to check for himself.

He agreed.

LOUIE WANTED to know more about Schwalm . . . information which he obtained from the young lady he'll marry in the fall. She told him Jay was 22, fresh out of Eastern Michigan and would teach in the fall.

D'Annunzio undoubtedly will make a good report to the front office . . . about Schwalm.

"The kids around this area are getting better 'n' better," Louie said afterward.

"You know we drafted eight Michigan boys this spring. Half of the eight were from this section of the suburbs. Not bad, eh?"

Louie talked on.

He told how one of his aides had "stolen a player" off the Livonia Cardinal Decorating-Free Press team for a team in Detroit.

"I don't go for such stuff," said D'Annunzio. "That man is through with me and through with the Tigers."

"We encourage the boys to play around their home areas. There is no place better for sandlot ball than right here at Ford Field. Believe me. It's great."

"And you have some fine teams out here. They are as good as the teams in Detroit; maybe even better."

"You have some great high school coaches and dandy sandlot coaches and managers."

"We keep telling the boys to stay put. Don't wander away. There's no sense to it."

D'ANNUNZIO DIDN'T pause in the hot night air.

He talked about how the Tigers were telling some of their prospects to attend Schoolcraft College.

"It's quite a place and hopefully one of these days they'll have a baseball team there."

Louie knows that at Schoolcraft classes dismiss before May 1. But he doesn't think that should bar the school from fielding a baseball team.

Lions' Munson Deal Looks Good

There are some who insist the Detroit Lions dished out too much to get quarterback Bill Munson from the Los Angeles Rams.

The price was three players, plus next year's No. 1 draft pick. All three of the players yielded by the Lions were first-stringers.

Salem Hills Sets 2-Man Golf Meet

SALEM — Salem Hills Golf Club will conduct its third amateur golf tournament of the season with a two-man best-ball event on Saturday and Sunday, July 27-28, pro-manager Robert Szilagyi announced.

Tee time for the two-day tourney will be 3 p.m. both days. Entry fee is $10 for the 36 holes of golf and $4 of that sum will be placed into a prize fund.

Up to 50 players will be accepted in the event on a first-come, first-serve basis. Teams will be flighted according to the size of the field, Szilagyi said.

Reservations may be made at the golf course, 8810 West Six Mile Road (three miles west of Napier Road), or by calling 437-2152. Entry fee will be accepted at the golf course up until one hour before tee time on opening day.

Blue Lewis, Italian Box At Olympia

Big time boxing returns to Detroit and Olympia Saturday and Wednesday night.

Detroit's Alvin (Blue) Lewis has been matched against Eduardo Corleth of Italy, the No. 2 ranked among the world's contenders.

The bout shapes up as the toughest for Lewis in his two-year professional career. He has won 17 out of 18 starts, beating the only man who conquered him in a later go.

Corleth has won 25, lost two and participated in five draws, as a pro. He has knocked out 15 of his victims.

A victory for Lewis unquestionably would shoot him into a contending spot among the ranks.

The ring show will be the first at Olympia in eight years.

But after one week of drills at Cranbrook, Coach Joe Schmidt is more convinced than ever that what it cost for Munson was worth it—and then some.

Nobody will deny that the big item the Lions have needed to go places is a quarterback. Without an able passer, without an able field general, without a performer who can come close, at least, to matching a Bart Starr or Johnny Unitas, a team is stuck.

And the Lions were.

MUNSON'S ARRIVAL at Cranbrook seemingly has peped up everybody, especially the coaches and the players.

"You have to like the way Bill does things out there," said Schmidt, as he ran the Lions through an offensive drill.

"He'll bolster our attack immeasurably," one of the Lions veterans said.

Munson has the size, the arm and the age, plus enough experience.

But, while he obviously already rates No. 1 among the team's QBs, he's going to have a lot of competition.

The Lions still have Karl Sweetan, who shared the starting job with the now-departed Milt Plum for the last couple of years.

GREG LANDY, the Lions'

No. 1 draft pick, also is a quarterback. Representatively in camp, since he's with the College All Stars who'll meet the Green Bay Packers in Chicago a week from Friday night.

Another rookie is Greg Barton, from Tulsa University, who could be the biggest surprise of all in camp. To round out the QB list, the Lions have Tim Jones, whom they farmed to the Pontiac Firebirds last season.

The five quarterbacks present a happy situation for Schmidt and his staff.

"It's been a long time since we have had so many good ones around at the same time," Schmidt said.

RUMORS HAVE circulated that the Lions may drop Sweetan, who has caused the club some discomfort on and off the field.

The feeling is that the team would rather go along with the younger QB's.

The Lions are working twice a day at Cranbrook, where the sessions are closed to the public.

The first chance their fans will get to see the team will be next Friday when the Lions hold their annual inter-squad scrimmage at U. of D. Stadium in a game to be sponsored by the Lions Alumni Association.

Pony Meet Starts On Wednesday

Teams from North Farmington, Farmington, and Garden City will engage starting Wednesday in the District No. 2 Pony League baseball tournament.

The tourney will be conducted on a two-defeat-and-out basis at Dodge Park in Farmington.

The winner will earn the right to advance into the state meet to be held in Bay City in August.

Plymouth Goes On Bat Spree

While the two powers, Redford and Livonia, rested for their showdown at Ford Field Sunday at 6:30 p.m., Plymouth's Class A baseball team went on a wild spree Wednesday to batter Westland, 16-7. It wasn't the biggest scoring game of the season for Plymouth. Earlier the team had poured over 17 runs against Dearborn Heights.

The Kinsbeth brothers, Mike and Ken, shared the pitching for the winners and neither was pressed too much. Their mates were not as hot with their bats as was the 90-degree temperature that prevailed.

Plymouth wasted no time

and Wilson who brought a flock of cheers to the Tiger camp.

He allowed six hits and worked with a lead from the fourth inning when Jim Northrup and Horton singled and Bill Freeman delivered a sacrifice fly.

Detroit added two more runs when Don West singled, McAuliffe doubled, Stanley singled and Northrup poked out a sacrifice fly.

That was all Wilson needed.

The Tigers found the hot Baltimore Orioles their foes for a four-game weekend series which ends with a doubleheader Sunday.

scoring. In the first inning two walks and singles by John Gilles, Pete Lomonaco and Larry Wells netted two runs.

IN THE SECOND INNING, Plymouth cashed six times. Mike Kinsbeth singled to open the festivities. Two errors and a sacrifice followed before Pete Woodard, John Gilles and Lomonaco singled in succession.

To cap the inning, Wells doubled in two runs.

In the fourth Jared Stevens singled over Gilles and Wells, who had singled and walked, respectively.

Two more runs came across in the fifth when Brian Gilles doubled, Woodard tripled and Westland was guilty of an error.

To wrap up the scoring in the seventh, Plymouth put together singles by Woodard, Stevens, Ken Kinsbeth and John Bida with a pair of errors.

REDFORD, unbeaten in the third round, needs a victory Sunday over Livonia to virtually sew up the third round crown. Livonia has lost only once in six games.

The Livonians will have to operate minus their manager, Ron Hillier. He was ejected in last Monday's game between the two teams and under league rules must sit out one contest.

So, he says, he'll do his sitting on the hill, well back of home plate.

On the sandlots, too, it's been a great year for the pitchers.

And not so happy a one for the hitters.

This was typified by two of the Greater Livonia - Connie Mack League games Tuesday.

McKay's Partyville of Garden City edged the Livonia Spartans, 2-1 while the Livonia Elks turned back the Redford Panthers, 2-1, in another mound thriller.

Greg Pike and Phil Camp locked horns on the mound in the McKay-Spartans duel with Pike the winner, although Camp permitted only two hits.

Camp, unfortunately, allowed both safeties in the third inning when Ed Pishes doubled, Flemming was safe on a fielder's choice, the next two men on errors and Morrissey singled.

That was all Pike needed. He didn't permit a Spartan to get past second base, Pike fanned eight, his rival 10.

ERRORS AND the inability to deliver the big hit cost Jeff Kaminsky and the Redford Panthers their game with the Livonia Elks.

But not enough can be said about the spectacular relief pitching of Elks' Layne Thompson.

He came in with the bases loaded in the final inning and struck out the last two men.

Earlier, the Elks' starter had coasted along until the sixth when he got into a jam. Walks to Kaminsky and Bill Booker and a single by Neal Thomas loaded the bases. Kaminsky scored on Bill Herbert's sacrifice fly.

Then Mike Yourchok walked to re-load the sacks before Lee retired the side.

Jim Hall, who had three for three for the winners, singled to start the Elks' two-run uprising in the sixth. Thompson was safe on an error and Charles Booth delivered a single that knocked in both runs.

GARDEN CITY West enjoyed the combined pitching of Pat McHugh and Bob Chidester in downing Livonia's Hubert Realty, 4-3.

McHugh helped himself by doubling over Chuck Evans with the first West run. Evans then knocked in Marty Dork with the second and in the fifth, West tallied three times on a pair of walks and hits by Evans and McHugh.

Hubert scored once when Daniels doubled across Greger, who had singled, and again when Daniels singled, went to second on a passed ball and came in on Crom's single.

THE LIVONIA Optimists

Europe Bound

GRAND RAPIDS -- The Grand Rapids Sullivan baseball team has left for Europe to play in an international tournament against foes from the Netherlands, Italy and the Dutch West Indies.

Mack League A Pitchers' Paradise rolled from behind with four runs in the final inning to beat Coleman-Moss of Farmington, 6-5.

On the short end of a 5-2 score entering the final inning, the Optimists exploded when Greg Macy and Tim Malone singled in succession. Three errors followed to account for two runs.

Then Wayne Paulson singled over one run and Bob Cascaden responded with a single that drove in the tying and winning markers.

Paulson survived a four-run Coleman bombardment in the first inning to gain the victory for the Optimists.

Hits by Gary Carr, Jay Hazelroth and Rick Knock, along with an error and two fielder's choices enabled Coleman to get off to its flying start.

Dave Rice, tolling in relief, picked up the victory as the Allen Fence team of Livonia turned back the Plymouth Elks, 6-3.

Rice took over for Ken Gawkowski and was helped along when the Allen team counted four times in the fifth inning.

GARY BATTLE singled over the first Allen run and a double by Mike Perino and single by Hugh Shannon added the second.

In the fifth inning, Battle, Gawkowski and Rice singled for one run. Paul Miller doubled over two more and Joe Berg singled in the finale.

The losers counted in the third inning when Russ Carlson walked, stole second and scored on Dennis Burke's hit.

In the fourth, the Elks produced two runs. Bob Kellman walked and reached third on Ken Olds' double. One run came in on a sacrifice fly by Dale Romberger, the other on Russ Carlson's single.

The losing pitcher was Larry Wasalaski.

Livonia's Philippi Service was washed out at Northville by the freak rainstorm which hit certain areas of the suburbs.

Father Like Son And Pop Drools

Father like son... only in this case son makes dad drool a little.

The pop is Fred Holdsworth, who in the late '40's pitched for Wayne State University. Now he is principal at Northville High.

His son Fred Jr., just 16, is about to enter his junior year at Northville where he carved quite a pitching record last spring winning seven and losing only once and compiling a brilliant 1.0 earned run average.

This summer, young Holdsworth is pitching for the Northville teams in the Greater Livonia Free Press and Connie Mack Leagues and he's doing a tremendous job against players, many of whom now are in college.

Last Wednesday, he set down Garden City Sports, 9-1; in a Free Press encounter. He allowed four hits and fanned six to build his season's record on the sandlots to 4-2.

Holdsworth also is a strong batter. He hit over .300 in high school and is rapping the ball at about the same clip this summer.

Batterymate Pat Cayley slapped out four hits to raise his average to .400 to lead the win over Garden City.

The losers' only run was unearned. Bob Chidester singled Jim Furay in.

Plants Will Benefit By Going To Summer Camp

With high summer in the northern hemisphere, most of us would like to clear our window sills of house plants until autumn.

If we have a garden or even a small place outdoors, the plants will benefit greatly by going to "summer camp," so to speak — getting fresh outdoor air and light.

Slat Fences Gain Wide Popularity

Today's favorite new fence probably is the vertical slat style. And there's good reason for its popularity: slat screens are a contradiction.

They look airy open, but make excellent privacy fencing. They appear almost delicate, yet offer bold lines and cast strong shadow patterns. They seem highly contemporary, but do lovely things for two-story, painted Colonial homes.

And for whatever purpose fencing is needed, a slat screen fills the bill. Most intriguing is the seemingly infinite variety of patterns obtainable with a bundle of 1x1s, 1x2s and 2x2s. In the basic pattern, 1x2 slats are nailed vertically to the face edges of 2x4-inch rails, leaving a space of one inch or a half-inch between slats.

But that pattern can be made virtually peek-proof if slats are repeated on the opposite side of the fence framing so that those on one side cover the spaces on the other.

ANOTHER VARIATION consists of setting the fence's upper rail one foot lower than fence post tops and raising the bottom rail a foot above its normal position. Then full-length slats are applied with ends projecting the 12 inches beyond top and bottom rails. No cap board is used.

A completely different look results from grouping slats in threes and nailing them to alternating sides of the fence frame.

Or vary slat sizes to achieve the unusual. Set a 2x2 between groups of three 1x1s, keeping an equal half-inch spacing between all slats.

Another intriguing pattern is built using three slat sizes: a 2x2, next a 1x1, then a 1x2 set edge out, and another 1x1. Repeat. With that pattern, no spacing is needed between slats, but its layered, three-dimensional appearance retains the illusion of openness.

FOR A PERFECTLY tailored appearance cut slats to fit between top and bottom rails, setting them against an nailing strip attached to each rail.

Swedish Bluegrass Is Proven

The pedigreed genetic stock of a promising new bluegrass, Fylking Kentucky, was brought to America from Sweden several years ago.

Fylking has now been under observation in this country for nearly a decade, —long enough to show that it "cuts the mustard" as an all-around lawn-grass.

THE TEDIOUS buildup of sufficient seed supplies has been underway for the last few years, to cope with anticipated demand almost sure to arise with so excellent a performer as Fylking.

There are two unique features about this handsome bluegrass: its low dense growth, and its resistance to disease. The bright green leaf blades, unmarked by lesions, are on short leaf stalks, and thus escape the mower even when it is set low.

Not only this, but the blade itself bends backward and downward more than customary with most bluegrasses, and underlies the mower's cutting edge. Some think you might even use Fylking for a golf green!

IT IS A blueblood of the bluegrass clan. Thus, it spreads by rhizomes, weaving one of the strongest sods underfoot for any turfgrass species.

Selected and watched over as it has been, Fylking is as attractively uniform as it is dense.

It is docile yet responsive in handling as blue grasses generally are, features much admired in a lawn grass.

Fylking's color is good; green of course, just like a grass should be, but sparkling because it is essentially unblemished by disease.

that plants that have been indoors all winter are more tender than outdoor plants. Their leaves are not so sturdy. They cannot stand wind and bright sun and too much heat.

Some house plants, too, should not have a vacation out of doors. Glorifias, for example, are too tender.

AFRICAN VIOLETS may not be able to adjust to American summers, although we know gardeners in the American South who camp their collections outside.

Sending them to summer camp does not mean putting them out and letting them shift for themselves. They need to be inspected at intervals, watered, and cared for. Azaleas, for example, must not be allowed to dry out, for they are forming blossom buds for next year.

So the first thing to do is to look them over carefully. Some may not be worth keeping over until next fall. Throw them out entirely! Others would be too big for the house by fall, and cuttings might be taken from them.

SOME WILL need pruning. Some need repotting in slightly larger pots, or given a layer of fresh soil in the upper inch or two of the pot.

Don't take the plants out of their pots for the summer. The roots need to be kept confined. If left to spread freely they will suffer from rotting, and from root-pruning to confine them again.

Keep the roots within bounds and protect them from earthworms crawling through the bottom holes by setting the pots on a bed of gravel or cinders — or (if only a center hole) putting a small flower pot under the hole when you set the pot out for the summer.

Plastic pots are all right, but I think plants in clay pots do better.

pots in either case are then surrounded by soil or damp peat moss up to their rims.

INSPECT them regularly. Water them enough between rains to be sure they are cared for. A spray strong enough to wash the leaves, including any insects that get on the leaves, is a good idea, too.

BEFORE the nights next autumn get too cool, bring the plants in and adjust them gradually to house conditions. You will want to examine them thoroughly for insects, and perhaps ruthlessly discard any that have not thrived during their vacation.

How To Prepare Entries For Garden Club Show

By BETTY FRANKEL
Special Writer

Are you growing some beautiful begonias or perfect petunias that you wish everyone could see?

Your chance will come on Saturday, July 27 at the flower show being held in the Farmington Junior High Gym by the Farmington Garden Club.

The public is invited to exhibit flowers, fruits, vegetables, house plants or other horticultural specimens.

MRS. ROBERT KELLY, horticulture chairman of the Farmington Garden Club, and Mrs. Walter Dolan, general chairman of the flower show, have these suggestions for picking, conditioning and transporting specimens so that they will arrive at the show in the best possible condition.

Cut flowers late in the afternoon of the day before they are to be exhibited (unless they are to be held in cold storage).

Carry a bucket of water into the garden so the flowers can be placed in water as soon as they are cut. Be sure the bucket is clean. Also, it is beneficial to put a few teaspoons of chlorine bleach in the water as a disinfectant.

Cut the stems as long as possible. Make the cut at an angle with a sharp knife or pruning shears, and plunge into the bucket of water. The water should be warm-luke-warm for soft stemmed flowers and warmer for roses, mums and woody stemmed flowers.

PLANTS WITH milky juice should have the ends of the stems seared over a flame for about fifteen seconds. Poppies, hollyhock, poinsettia are among those that should be treated this way. Dahlias keep better if the stems are plunged into boiling water for a few minutes.

Woody stems will be able to draw up water better if the end of the stem is slit up for an inch or two or if the end is hammered to crush it. Strip off all foliage that will be under water when the flower is arranged in a vase, but not necessarily the foliage that is under water when the stem is being conditioned.

Put the cut flowers in a deep container of water and put in a cool place for six to eight hours or overnight. The stems will draw up a maximum amount of water and will be "hardened." The flowers will remain fresh for the longest possible time when they have been conditioned in this way. Cold water is best for bulb flowers and warm water for all others.

THERE ARE VARIOUS recipes and commercial preparations available for preserving cut flowers. The local flower arranging experts recommend three teaspoons of sugar and two tablespoons of white vinegar mixed in a quart of water. Care should be used in packing and carrying blooms. Iris and snapdragons, glads, stocks and other spike flowers should be transported in an upright position so the tips do not bend.

Most other flowers can be carried flat in boxes. Support the flower heads by placing rolls of wax paper under the stems just below the flowers. It is permissible for the exhibitor to smooth a rumpled petal or remove one or two from the outside of a peony, rose, mum or other double flower to improve appearance.

WHEN EXHIBITING horticultural specimens, it is good to have them labeled with the correct name of varieties or less well known species. Mrs. Earl Marks, of the Farmington Garden Club, will be on hand with a committee to assist in identification of specimens as they are entered for exhibition Saturday morning before the show.

When they are judged, the size, color, form, texture, and substance, and condition of the specimen are considered.

Vegetables are judged for condition, quality, uniformity of size, shape and color. Fruits are judged for condition, color, size, uniformity, and form.

Specimens to be entered may be brought to the school on Friday evening from 7 to 9 p.m. or on Saturday morning from 8 to 10 a.m. If there are any questions concerning entries, Mrs. Dolan can be consulted at 474-2559.

IF SOMETHING'S BOTHERING YOU, PSYCHOLOGISTS SAY IT'S OFTEN BEST TO ESCAPE TEMPORARILY BY LOSING YOURSELF IN A MOVIE, BOOK OR HOBBY. ANOTHER WAY TO CHECK YOURSELF UP IS TO TAKE A BREAK WITH PEPSI-COLA. REFRESHED, YOU MAY FEEL MORE LIKE DEALING WITH THE PROBLEM LATER ON.

Nailing Is Important

Adequate nailing of both the subflooring and the hardwood finish floors is vital for trouble-free floors, advises a spokesman for the National Oak Flooring Manufacturers' Association.

"When nailing is done properly and other recommended installation procedures are observed the results are beautiful, long-lasting floors that inspire pride of ownership," says Henry H. Williams, NOFMA executive vice president.

The approved nailing schedule for the popular 2 1/4-inch wide oak strip flooring of 25-32-inch thickness calls for one 7d or 8d nail every 10 to 12 inches.

The preferred four inch or six inch wide subfloor boards should be face nailed solidly at each bearing point with two 10d nails.

The flooring should be delivered about five days before installation and piled loosely in the house, with a temperature of about 70 degrees maintained.

All plaster and cement work should be dry and the painting completed before the oak is laid.

Add Mouldings To Rough Walls

Don't be afraid to combine smooth-surfaced wood mouldings with the now-popular rough-sawn sidings for interior feature walls.

Pleasing effects are easily achieved by using base or ceiling mouldings, chair rails or panel types, which are available at lumber yards.

Mouldings may be stained or painted the same color as the wall, or made more dramatic in other colors.

Out-County Needs Juvenile Services--Neville

By DENNIS PAJOT

"The best program for the prevention of juvenile delinquency anywhere is to keep the good youngsters good," says John M. Neville, juvenile court referee for Western Wayne County. He's been officiating sandlot athletic contests more than twice as long as he's been officiating proceedings in juvenile court, so it's a good bet he knows what he's talking about. Neville, a chesty bantam who seems to have to concentrate upon relaxing while leaning back in the chair at his desk, has been an athletic referee for 33 years and juvenile court referee for 15.

His hair is light and receding. Otherwise a person might question those figures given by this adjudicator of wayward youths' problems.

Just like the referee on the sports field, he asserts that it's the procedure of the court first to decide cases on the basis of law--and then to try to help the offender with a variety of social services.

"ANY LENIENCY on the part of this court is dictated by limited facilities and personnel," he proclaims in reply to popular finger-pointing at the courts as the soft shoulder at the top of the long arm of the law.

By "limited facilities," he refers to overcrowded state vocational schools where juveniles may be committed to stay until their 19th birthday, and the overcrowded Wayne County Youth Home used for temporary detention pending case dispositions.

The campaign being waged by Neville's boss, Wayne County Juvenile Court Judge James H. Lincoln, for an out-county youth home and short-term rehabilitation center seeks to provide a median alternative.

SAYS LINCOLN, "The youth home in Detroit is always greatly overcrowded. It should be double its capacity to do the job."

"There is a very large gap in rehabilitative services for juveniles in Wayne County."

"A judge is faced with sending a juvenile to the State Training School for a year or more, or turning him loose.

"This is sheer nonsense," says Lincoln. "In adult court, the judge can put an adult on probation for a year and at the same time direct that he spend the first 60 days in jail."

"THIS MAKES sense and a juvenile court judge should have similar alternatives open to him."

"A boy may have committed one or more delinquent acts, but he certainly does not deserve to be sent away for a year. But neither should he be turned loose, as he will consider the whole matter a joke."

"Either way a judge goes, he is forced into a very foolish disposition of the case. Obviously," says Lincoln, "the answer is a short term rehabilitation center."

HE PROPOSES that one be built in the out-county area at a cost of about $9 million. It's part of a $150 million package of proposed county capital improvements now before the Wayne County Board of Supervisors.

Meanwhile, however, the juvenile court has been ordered to cut back expenses by $150,000 this year to make the county budget ends meet.

A proposed one mill tax continuation on the Aug. 6 ballot in Wayne County will do nothing to provide additional services, being barely enough funds to continue present services, according to campaign manager Judge Lincoln.

THE NEED FOR increased services has been most dramatic in suburban out-county, points out Neville.

Since 1953, when he was appointed referee for the then new out-county branch office, the Western Wayne County population has grown from 300,000 persons to 1,250,000. His first staff of three probation officers and one stenographer has increased to just 10 field workers, one supervisor, and four clerical helpers.

THIS STAFF helps Neville process 70 to 100 cases of juvenile delinquency monthly (840 to 1,200 annually) and 450 cases of juvenile traffic law violators monthly (5,400 annually).

His jurisdiction covers 420 square miles compared to the 128 square miles in the City of Detroit; it has 34 political subdivisions, 30 police departments, and 37 school districts to service.

Also, whereas the 1953 intent was to serve boys delinquency cases only, the Western Wayne branch of juvenile court now serves boys cases, boys probation, girls probation and juvenile traffic court.

If separated from the main Wayne County court, the Western Wayne County branch would be the second largest in the state--next to the case load of Detroit's needs.

"DEMANDS FOR service from this office have mushroomed in the past two years," says Neville. "The out-county's first suburbanites were new families, young married couples whose youngsters are now reaching an age in need of service."

His courtroom is able to handle about 70 per cent of the cases brought to it. The other 30 per cent go to the Detroit office of juvenile court for one of two reasons:

First, because of a need to hold an offender in detention at the Youth Home near the downtown court;

Second, because "the concerned party has a right to ask for the judge's attention," As referee, Neville is appointed by the juvenile court judge to hear cases in the judge's behalf. The referee's written recommendations, after hearing a case, are forwarded to the judge for review.

When approved, the recommendations become the judge's court order.

"PROBATION REMAINS the most frequently used and most successful action," says Neville.

"The rate of repeaters," he explains, "remains close to the national average of 30 to 35 per cent of those placed on probation by the court. In other words, 65 to 70 per cent make a decent adjustment after probation."

"If we could concentrate on those qualifying for probationary programs, we could decrease the rate of repeaters," he asserts.

He notes that his 11 probation officers have such large numbers to handle they can spend only limited time with each, unless the probationer gives some indication that extra time will be especially productive.

He noted that an organized citizen-court youth authority for community preventative service and assistance in handling post-court juveniles would be beneficial.

A GREAT NUMBER of cases not felt to be extreme offenses are diverted to existing social agencies and other community resources, he said.

Many juvenile offenders never reach the doors of the court building, either, due to rehabilitative work of police officers before a serious offense is committed and due to lack of sufficient evidence in other cases, said Neville.

Nationwide statistics on juvenile crime reveal that if every reported offense were committed by a single person, every juvenile would have to be an offender.

That this is false can be attributed in a great part to the fact that "most communities already provide all the recreational-social adjustment services they are financially able to," in Neville's words.

In 33 years of traveling from community to community, he has had an uncommon opportunity to know that most youths confine their larcenies to stolen bases.

Few Dope Cases Hit Juvenile Court

Two juveniles from the suburban communities of Wayne County have been cited into juvenile court on charges of possession and sale of marijuana in the past 18 months.

Six others under 17 years of age have been cited on charges of possession of the illegal narcotic.

John Neville, juvenile court referee for Western Wayne County, said, "We haven't had a great amount of cases before the court, although we have reason to suspect use of marijuana is on the increase among youngsters out here."

HE EXPLAINED that despite rumors of widespread marijuana traffic among school-age youths, court cases are few because police are concentrating their efforts on getting to the sources of supply.

"Very often the juvenile that gets caught is a sampler. He's not the type of offender we're trying to run down," said Neville.

Also, he said, in many cases of suspected use, it is difficult to get evidence that will stand up in court.

Foster Praises Remap

Vernon Foster, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Wayne County supervisor in the 26th (Livonia-Plymouth) District, calls the change to a 26-district county board "refreshing."

In his campaign opening statement, Foster, a Livonia businessman, said:

"It is refreshing in an era of more government and bigger government, more agencies, more bureaus and more departments, that the new Wayne County governmental plan reduces a ponderous 135-member board to a workable 26-member directly elected board."

"The immediate advantages are very apparent. First under the new plan, the elected supervisor is directly responsible to the people of the district for his activities while on the board. Thus the will of the people can be more clearly felt."

"I offer a business-like approach to county government. Private industry cannot afford the luxury of duplicity of function and neither can government. It appears that whenever public costs increase, government merely attempts to increase the tax load while giving only lip-service to economy measures."

"I have had a good deal of business experience and I am well acquainted as a businessman in this area. I believe that this experience and my knowledge of this district will be of great value in providing the kind of representation that the people of the 26th district should expect to receive."

"We are alert to the situation, however. We look upon it as a serious type of involvement, regardless of some public opinions," he said.

"Any case coming to the court is given serious consideration."

THE GREAT majority of the delinquency offenses brought before the court involve youths accused of breaking and entering (burglary) and unlawful driving away of an automobile (auto theft or auto borrowing without permission).

"The type of case causing the greatest concern to the court is where a juvenile has committed assault, particularly when a weapon is used," said Neville.

"We've had more in the last year than in other years. It seems to be following a nationwide pattern. The generation we're working with today has an unusual exposure to violence," said the out-county stand-in for Wayne County Juvenile Court Judge James H. Lincoln.

"WE LOOK UPON these as extremely serious offenses requiring the close attention of the court. We want to do everything we can to minimize their occurrence."

"The breaking and entering (B & E) offenders and those who take cars unlawfully who have committed their first offense, we try to give probation," said Neville.

"Until such time as we are able to send youths to a short term rehabilitation center, the child who will benefit from our detention program will not be among first offenders," he explained.

Burglary offenders cite many reasons to the court, said Neville, setting no particular pattern.

Unlawful use of auto cases mostly fall into the category of youths who take an opportunity for a joy ride.

"The owner could do much to decrease the situation," Neville said, "by locking his car."

ANOTHER THING the court is finding serious, according to Neville, "is the ease with which young people can gain access to alcoholic beverages."

Marvin Kemp, president ...

... is a man who knows what his customers want ... so American Hardware is one of the most unusual stores in Observerland, full of the unique ... the historic ... the one-of-a-kind and hard-to-get.

In order to tell everyone about the fascinating items tucked away in the corners of American Hardware, Marvin Kemp has been using the Observer "for the last four years with excellent results."

An example of "excellent results" was an ad late in the spring for fireplace wood. It was a special sale and brought "an overwhelming response of hundreds of customers." To those who were there, "overwhelming response" was the understatement of the year.

We don't have to twist Marvin Kemp's arm ... but it sure keeps us on our toes delivering that "overwhelming response" every week.

Rocky's Coattails Longest To Local Republicans

By TIM RICHARD

If Nelson Rockefeller were heading the Republican ticket, he would help "marginal" GOP congressmen—such as Marvin Esch and Jack McDonald—get re-elected better than Richard Nixon.

This conclusion made a great impression on some Observers and Republicans who are part of the Michigan delegation to the GOP National Convention which opens Aug. 5.

The Michigan group Wednesday held its last pre-convention caucus in a Southfield restaurant, with the main business being the results of a survey made for the Republican State Central Committee by a private polling firm.

THE FIRM IS Market Opinion Research, Inc., headed by Richard Oudersluys. The firm is probably best known for doing The Detroit News election-year surveys.

The survey matched Nixon and Rockefeller against Vice President Hubert Humphrey, the probable Democratic nominee, in statewide and regional polls.

Statewide, Rockefeller led

Humphrey by a scant 1.7 per cent, and Nixon trailed Humphrey by a hairline 0.3 per cent.

"It's fairly obvious Nixon, Rockefeller and Humphrey are running neck-and-neck in the state," said Henry Sladek, Livonia executive who is an alternate delegate-at-large to the national convention.

But to Sladek's mind, an important question is: What can the presidential candidate do for the total state? And both he and Mrs. Delores Kory, Redfordite who is a delegate from the 19th district, were impressed by Rockefeller's running in the "marginal" congressional districts.

IN THOSE FIVE districts, Nixon trails Humphrey, 28.8 to 30.8 per cent. But Rockefeller leads Humphrey substantially, 30.8 to 23.1 per cent.

Those five districts, pulled away from the Democrats in 1966, are represented by Esch (2nd, including Plymouth), McDonald (19th, including Redford, Livonia and Farmington), Garry Brown (3rd, Kalamazoo), Donald Riegle (7th, Flint), and Philip Ruppe (11th, Upper Peninsula).

"This is the thing I'm going to be guided by," said Mrs. Kory. She said she would do her own checking among suburbanites before departing for the Miami Beach convention.

Sladek agreed that Rockefeller would have better pulling power for Republicans at the local level than would Nixon.

"NIXON'S ADVANTAGE is geographical," said Sladek, "but Rockefeller's is evenly spread throughout the state."

The Oudersluys survey showed:

In "safe Republican" areas, Nixon led Humphrey 41.6 to 19.5 per cent, while Rockefeller had a smaller advantage over Humphrey, 34.8 to 17.7.

In "safe Democratic" districts, Nixon trailed Humphrey 18.5 to 43.6 per cent, but Rockefeller's loss margin was smaller, 20.9 to 39.0.

California's Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., were given only light treatment by the pollster. Both Rockefeller and Nixon ran substantially ahead of McCarthy. Reagan ran about the same as McCarthy.

DESPITE ITS scanning of other candidates, the Michigan Republicans reaffirmed their decision to back Gov. George Romney as a favorite son, at least on the third ballot.

In earlier meetings, the 49-vote Michigan delegation had heard both Nixon and Rockefeller, but Reagan declined an invitation on the ground that he is not a presidential candidate.

Wednesday's meeting was the last for the Michigan delegation until the morning of Aug. 5, when it will caucus in Miami Beach.

Overload Can Lead To Accident

The Allstate Motor Club reminds motorists planning their summer vacations that a car heavily loaded with vacation gear demands increased driving care.

In heavily loaded vehicles acceleration is slower, stopping distances are longer, sway on curves is increased and driver fatigue resulting from long drives makes it easier for an accident to happen.

THE MOTOR CLUB makes the following recommendations for safe vacation travel:

Before starting the vacation, safety check your vehicle's lights, wipers, steering and brakes. Pack a flashlight, emergency flares and first aid kit where you can get at them. Install seat belts for all passengers if you don't already have them and use them.

Take only what you need. Load the car so your rear vision isn't blocked.

Study your route in advance and be ready for turnoffs. Plan a reasonable schedule. Indecision, unexpected maneuvers and sudden braking can cause a pile-up on modern highways. If you miss an expressway exit, keep going to the next one.

Make a rest stop to stretch or change drivers at least every two hours.

Don't get trapped by distractions. Pull off the road and stop if you want to look at scenery, check the map, settle the kids or swat a bee.

McDonald Has New Assistant

Congressman Jack McDonald has a new assistant running his local 19th District headquarters in Farmington and Pontiac.

He is Paul Scupholm, 33, of 15138 Woodworth, Redford Township.

Scupholm replaces Ron Rice, who resigned in order to run for state representative on the Republican ticket in the 34th (Redford) district.

SCUPHOLM'S JOB is to be an intermediary between local people and the congressman's Washington office.

At the Farmington office, located at 23622 Farmington Rd., south of Grand River, the staff works on the public's governmental problems, such as social security and military matters, obtains copies of bills, answers questions and sets up appointments for McDonald's visits to the district.

PAUL SCUPHOLM

No political campaigning, however, is done at the district office. A special campaign headquarters will be set up later for that purpose.

SCUPHOLM PREVIOUSLY spent 10 years with Associates Investment Corp., most recently as credit manager of the regional headquarters in Northland.

He had been active in Republican politics in the 19th District for four years, and served two years on the Redford Township Parks and Recreation Commission.

A graduate of Detroit's Cooley High School, Scupholm attended Wayne State University. He and his wife, Lois Jeanne, have four children. At Village Presbyterian Church, he is a member of the church and society committee.

'Anything Goes' Hits The Boards July 24-28

The Livonia Musical Production Workshop will present Cole Porter's musical comedy "Anything Goes" July 24 through July 28 in Stevenson High School's air-conditioned lecture theatre.

The play will be presented in its entirety using the Broadway script and score.

Curtain time for each performance is 8 p.m. Stevenson is located on Six Mile Rd., just west of Farmington Rd.

THE SHOW is a revival of the light-hearted, live-it-up 30's, complete with flappers and the Charleston.

Music in the show is featured in the style of the jazzy 1930's dance band.

Some of the songs from the play are: "Friendship," "Blow Gabriel, Blow" and "Let's Misbehave."

Reno, singing female lead, is featured in the solo "I Get a Kick Out of You."

Other highlights include "Heaven Hop," "You're the Top" and "Public Enemy." The title song "Anything Goes" will feature the entire company.

THE STORY is based on the

love-lives of Billy Crocker and Reno Sweeney.

The role of Billy is portrayed by Bentley student Tom Lucas, while Crys Premo appears as Reno.

Peggy Moore has been cast as Hope, while Bob Hellstein holds the comic lead of Moonface, the gangster.

Tickets for the production are currently on sale at Stevenson High. The box office is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $2 per person, and will be held for 48 hours after being reserved before being sold.

Local Plays Listed

Three of the largest community theater groups in Observerland have announced the plays for the 1968-1969 season.

The plays are a mixture of two productions of an avant garde comedy, straight comedy, a musical, drama and a revival. Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild productions will be: "The King and I," "Wait Until Dark," and "Oh Dad! Poor Dad!"

The Farmington Players have chosen "Mary, Mary," "Strange Bedfellows," and "A Case of Libel."

Selections of the Wayne Civic Players are: "Cloud Seven," "Witness for the Prosecution," and "Oh Dad! Poor Dad!"

The Farmington Players will stage "Strange Bedfellows" as a revival in honor of the 15th year of production for the group.

Hope Nahstoll, who will direct the play, says that it deals with the issue of women suffrage and that the Players thought it was appropriate for an election year offering.

"Oh Dad" is one of the first off beat comedies that achieved theatrical success. Written by a Harvard student, the play deals with the theme of motherhood.

Court Theatre Opens

The Oakland Community College - Court Theatre will continue its Summer Theatre Series with productions of "The Fantastiks" on Friday, July 26, and Saturday, July 27, and "In White America" on Sunday, July 28.

Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

The productions will be staged in the Ferndale High School auditorium, 881 Pinecrest, Ferndale.

"The Fantastiks" is a long-running, off-Broadway musical which has been a delight to audiences ever since its opening in 1959.

"In White America" is a documentary recounting what it has been like to be a Negro.

Reserved seats are $2 and general admission $1.

C'ville Board Fighting Apathy, Seeks Turnout

By DOUG JOHNSON

Clarenceville board members took their razor-thin loss of a millage vote June 10th very seriously.

So seriously, according to Supt. David McDowell, that they met before Clarenceville High School's graduation ceremonies, two days after the election, in emergency session.

Only 25 votes kept the district from victory. Dr. Samuel Prisk, board president, was as disappointed as anyone:

"To say I'm disappointed is as mild a statement as can be made," he said on the eve of the defeat. "This undoubtedly is a voter reaction to the general increase in living costs and real and threatened tax increases at other levels."

"A turnout of less than 500 voters is certainly indicative of a great deal of apathy and perhaps had not this been the case this would not have happened."

PRISK at that time said he and the board "felt compelled to try again."

With this in mind, the district will go back to polls July 29 and be asked to approve four mills for operational funds.

That's the exact proposal taxpayers turned down the first time. School officials, including Supt. McDowell, were shocked by the turnout, and said they would accept a "no" vote from 3500 of the district's nearly 4400 voters, but not 500.

"IF THE community says no a second time--we must make a very thorough and definitive study and analysis and some important and necessary programs will have to be dropped or curtailed, but we will try in every possible way to still do the job we are now doing for our young people.

"Should we have to make severe cuts, let no one be misled--it is the children and their education that must ultimately suffer," Prisk said after the loss.

Prisk said then, and repeated this week, the need for the district to:

- (1) Meet the needs of increasing enrollment
- (2) Maintain a competitive salary schedule
- (3) Keep pace with the ever-increasing costs
- (4) Retain the high quality educational program and low teaching ratio now existing in the district.

SCHOOL officials project expenditures of $2,575,000, but revenue of only $2,405,000--or a shortage of $170,000.

The four mills will provide $180,000 additional money. Most of it will go to salary increases for the district's 300 employees.

"The unknown is employee negotiations," Supt. McDowell said. "Salaries make up 83 percent of the budget and no teacher negotiations can be completed until the budget is final."

McDowell points to new teacher salary schedules in the area which start from $6,700 to $7,000.

"But we will levy only that portion of the money needed to run the business of the district," McDowell said.

O'Neil Asking Kelley Opinion On Stationery

James F. O'Neil, Livonian who is a member of the State Board of Education, has asked Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley for an opinion on the use of State Board stationery for personal opinion press-release.

O'Neil's request follows his censure by the State Board for his use of official stationery for a June 11 paper on violence and the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Underlying O'Neil's problems is the fact that he is one of only two Republicans on the eight-member board.

IN HIS LETTER to the attorney general, O'Neil said: "The need for the opinion is urgent as I have been held up for public ridicule by the board's public censuring of me for communicating my deep concern to other elected officials on the causes of violence (in which I believe and so stated that inadequate education had contributed) following the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy."

O'Neil asked for opinions on the use of personal stationery for communication with other officials, the use of State Board of Education letterhead to publicize personal views of individual members of the board, and the use of State Board stationery to congratulate a member of the board's brother on his appointment to a federal post.

IN HIS REQUEST to Kelley, he attached sample news releases containing opinions from State Board president Dr. Edwin Novak on the death of Kennedy, as well as a letter from Novak to P.F. Delli Quadri, new chief of the children's bureau of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

O'Neil, in his letter to Kelley, charged that the board "may be using a double standard."

He said the use of the news release letterhead by individuals might lead people to believe the opinions expressed therein were those of the entire Board.

High School To Hold Orientation Sessions

The first of two orientation sessions for incoming students of Plymouth High School will be held Wednesday morning at 10 a.m.

A second orientation session will be conducted Aug. 14 beginning at 10 a.m. Both are scheduled to last approximately one hour.

Robert Southgate, head of the high school counseling department said, "We want to be sure new people are welcome and know the high school's rules and regulations."

"We also want to alleviate some of the butterflies during the first few weeks of school," he commented.

The program will include a tour of the school by several older students.

Principal Carvel Bentley and Southgate will be on hand in the main auditorium for any questions the new students may have.

They also will be shown a film strip about what a new student can expect when first entering school, Southgate explained.

The chief counselor said that upwards of 700 new students are anticipated for the school's opening in September.

He has been involved in the school's orientation sessions for the past two years and he expressed the hope that all of this year's "new crop" would attend.

Southgate added that they are informal meetings and are held to acquaint the students with the school's facilities.

He added that in the past, the July session attendance has been low compared to the August session.

Milwaukee Winner

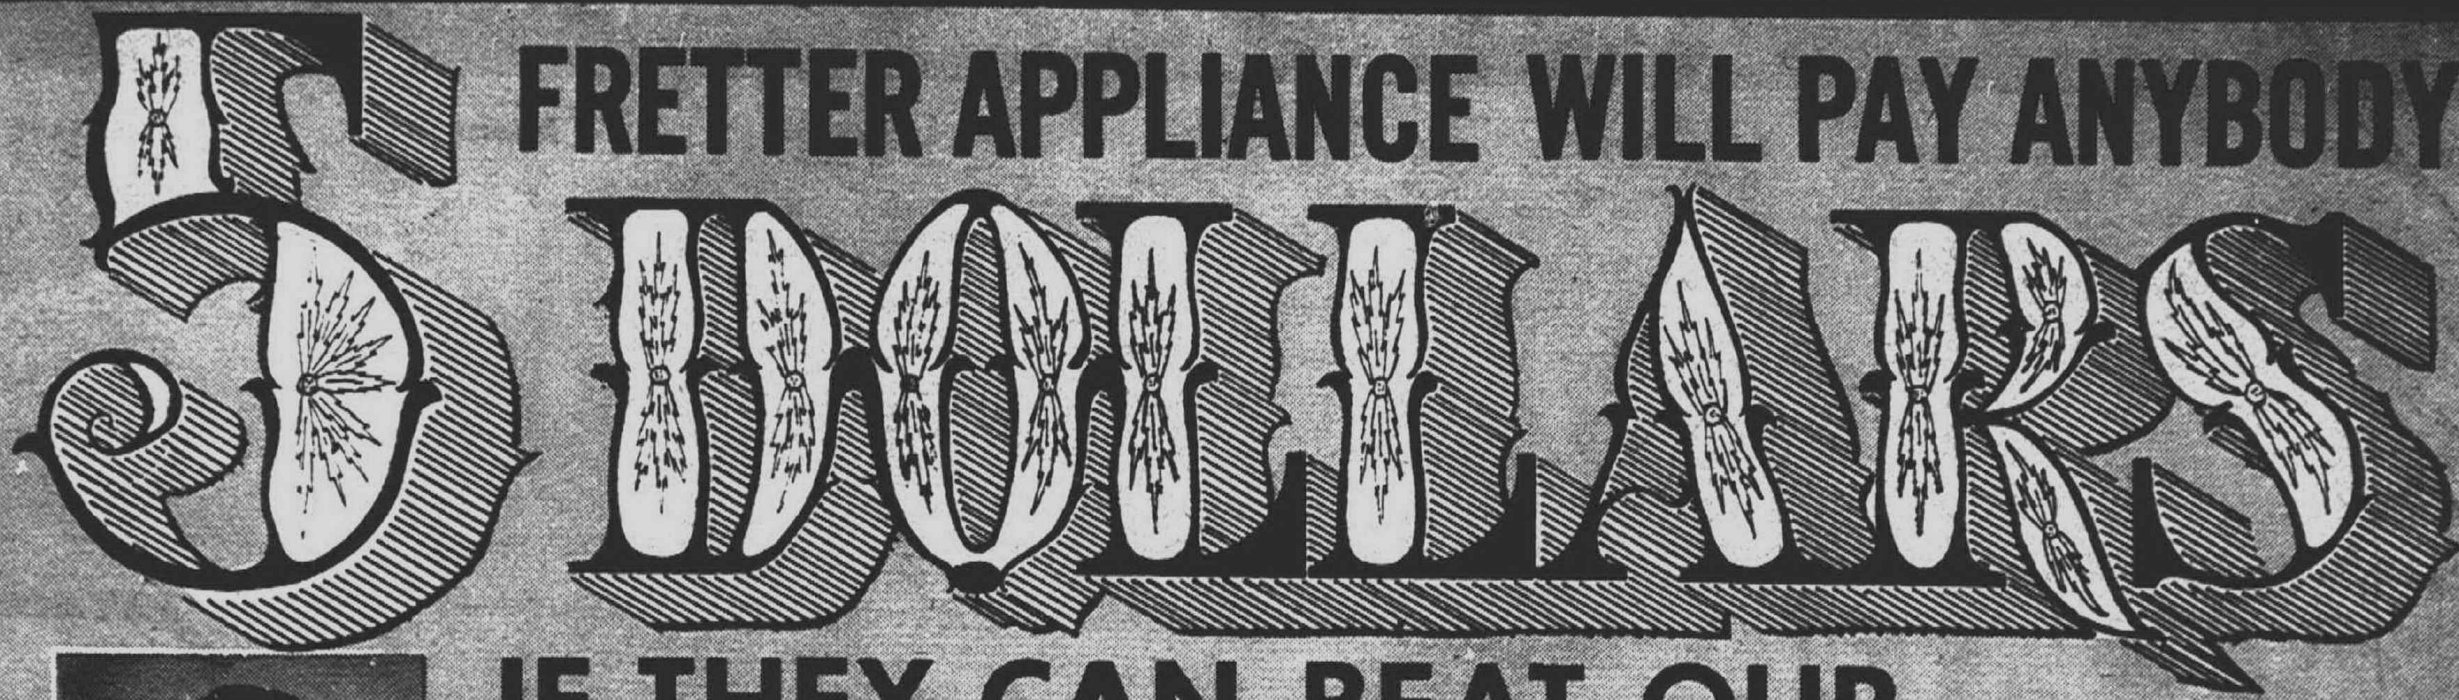

MILWAUKEE -- Dave Stockton of California appears to be "an every other week winner" on the professional golf circuit.

Two weeks ago he captured the Cleveland Open. Then he sat out the Buick Open at Flint before returning to action last weekend to win the Greater Milwaukee Open and the handsome first prize of $40,000. Stockton shot a final-round

Bob Goalby, the Masters champ, posted at 283, a stroke better than U.S. Open king Lee Trevino.

Helicopter Rides Set

Farmington residents anxious to fly up and away into the fifth dimension should take a ride in a helicopter during the Founders Festival.

For only $3, persons will be able to soar in a southerly swing across the city and township.

The helicopter rides, sponsored by the North Farmington Kiwanis Club, will take off and land on the athletic field of Dumckel Junior High School, just west of the waterway and north of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church.

The flights will be running every day of the Festival (July 25, 26, 27) from 3:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m., according to Bob Kull, a Kiwanis Club member.

Helicopter Airways, Inc., Michigan's oldest helicopter service, will handle the flights.

No One Goes Hungry At Founders Festival

While there'll be plenty of everything at the Founders Festival, July 25, 26 and 27, there'll probably be more food than anything else.

The eating gets underway at noon Thursday, July 25, with the Elks Ox Roast in Downtown Center.

DURING the three days the Elks will be serving these marvelous sandwiches of charcoal broiled meat; 1,000 pounds of meat will be roasted. The Elks have obtained two ovens for the roast from the Willoughby Black Angus Farm near Plymouth.

The meat will be cooked over a revolving spit beginning at 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 24. People who stop to watch the meat roast usually get hungry, so hot dogs, coffee and pop will be available for the sidewalk-superintendents during the cooking process.

The Elks also sell sweet corn swished in butter and French fries to complete the festival menu.

IN ANOTHER CORNER of the center, the Farmington Jaycees will begin selling their Kentucky Fried Chicken box lunches at 4 p.m. Thursday, July 25.

The Jaycees have ordered 4,000 pieces of chicken for the meal which will be rounded out with hot rolls and honey.

Also available at the Jaycee booth will be hot dogs, kielbasa and soft drinks. The Jaycee Auxiliary will be selling cotton candy.

In between bites at the Jaycee booth, diners will be able to Dunk the Jaycees, a game that proved very popular last year.

FROM 5 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, Trinity Shrine 44 will be serving a Farmington U.S.A. Smorgasbord in the Masonic Temple. Chairman is Miss Bea-

Start Planning For Season

With 153 shopping days till Christmas, it isn't too early to plan on making a stop at the DeMolay Mothers' Club "Christmas in July" booth during the Farmington Founders Festival. The booth will be located in front of the Automobile Club office in Downtown Shopping Center.

Christmas wares for sale at the booth will be all handmade. Club members have been working on the items since festival time last year.

trice Browning, worthy high priestess, assisted by Miss Betty Clark and members of Trinity Shrine. The dinner menu will feature all the favorites dishes, including varieties of meats, vegetables, salads and desserts.

IF YOU'RE HUNGRY again between 5 and 8 p.m. Friday, July 26, drop over to the Masonic Temple again and dine on a country-style threashers dinner which Chapter 239 of the Order of the Eastern Star will be cooking up. The ladies plan on dishing out over 450 pounds of chicken cooked in true southern style according to Mrs. Margaret Williamson's recipe. Mrs. Williamson was born in Alabama so she should know how to cook chicken.

Included in this menu will be homemade biscuits, salad, two vegetables and homemade apple pie.

It might be a good idea to start dieting now in preparation for all this good eating.

EVERY QUEEN HAS A CROWN and Farmington City Manager John Dinan crowned the 1965 Festival Queen Dee Lawton on the steps of City Hall.

Flower Show Set For July 27

The scents and sights of hundreds of flowers will fill Farmington Junior High School gymnasium from 1 to 8 p.m. Saturday, July 27, when the Farmington Garden Club puts on its Founders Festival Flower Show.

Both amateurs and club members will bring only their perfect plants and flowers to the school that day.

According to Mrs. Walter Dolan, the general chairman, an entry is sometimes only a perfect rose. Each entry is judged against perfection in its class.

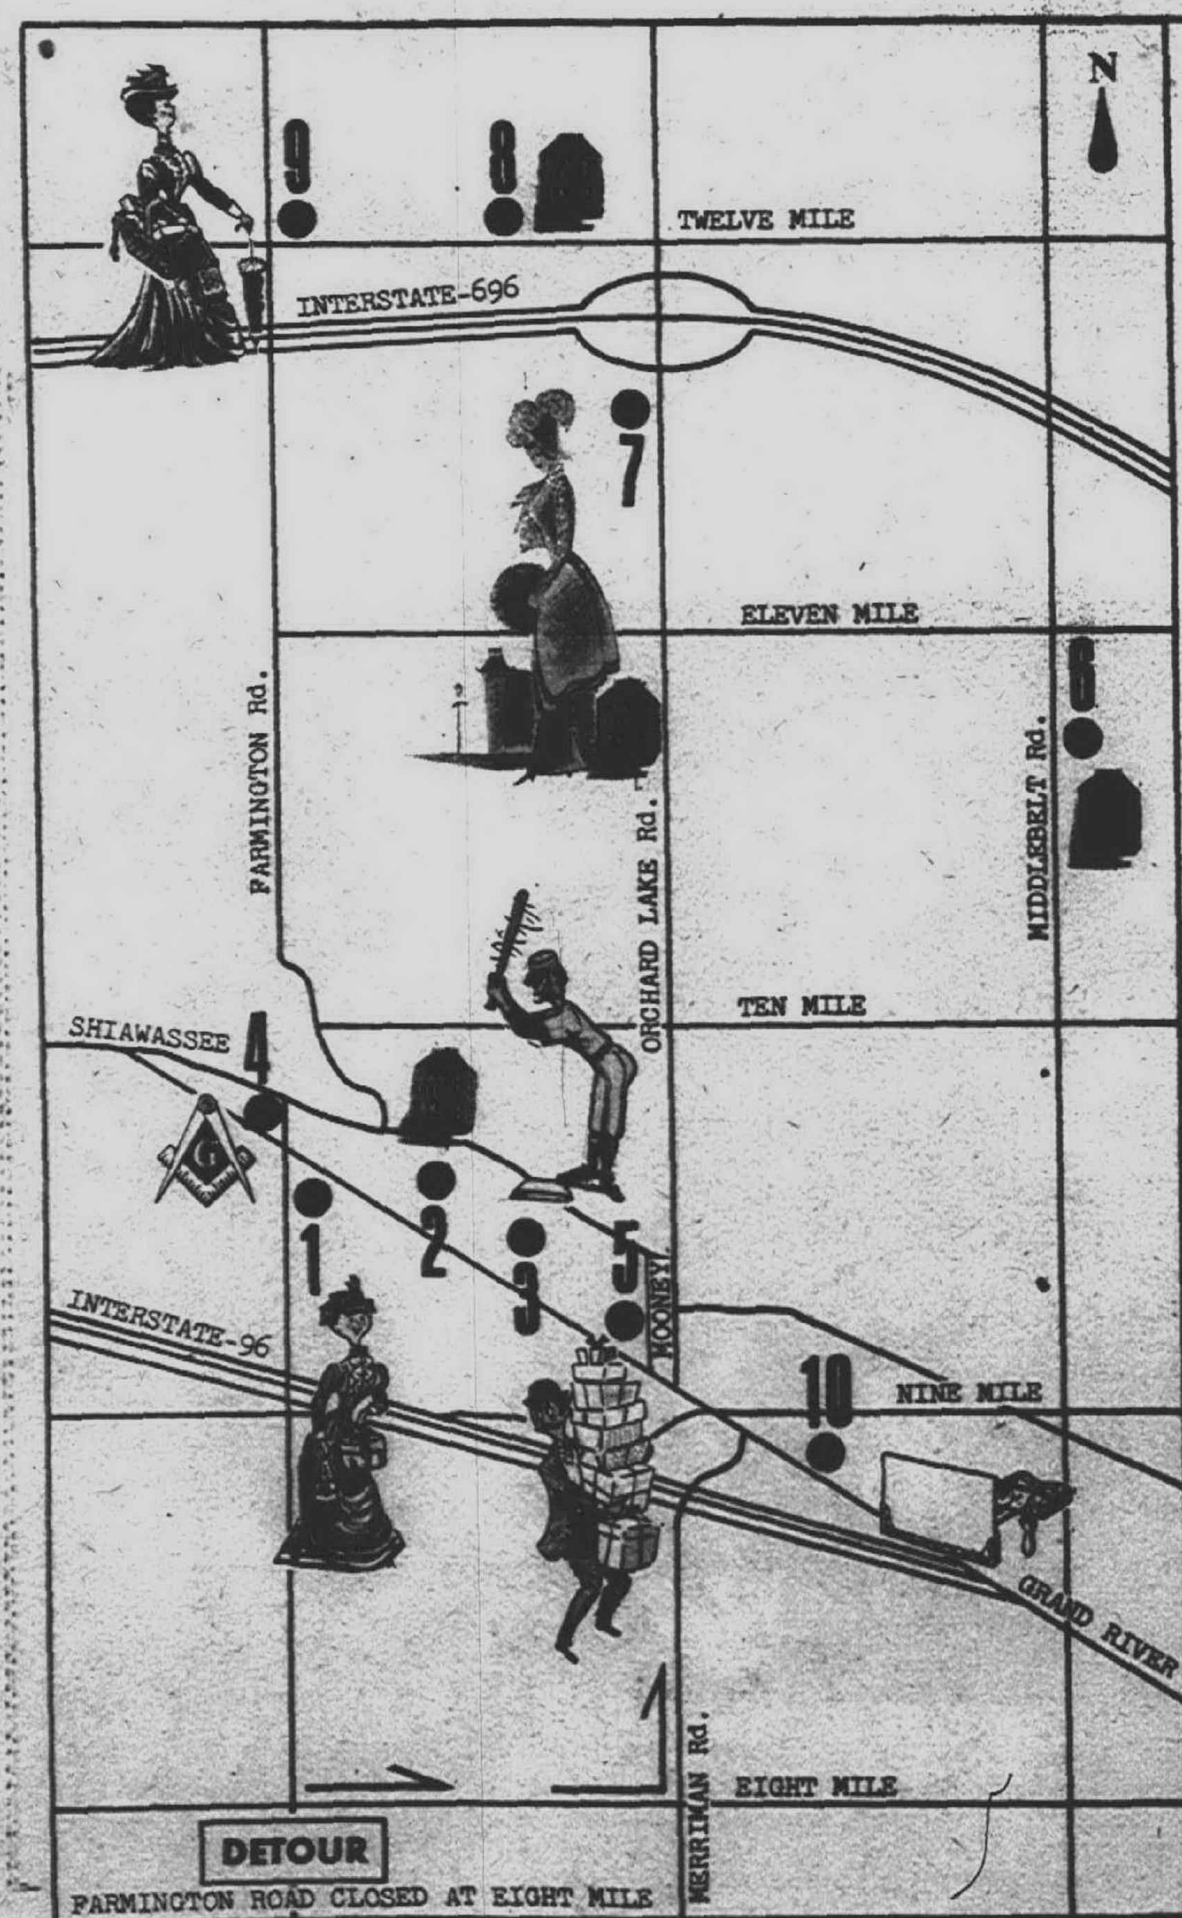

Fifteen judges will inspect the entries from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on July 27. Before going to the school to perform their duty, the judges will meet for coffee and instruction at Mrs. Curtis Weaver's.

Plants and blooms on display will include everything from fruits and vegetables, to house plants, lilies, roses, etc. The only stipulation is that they must have been in possession of the grower for at least three months.

Arrangement of the 300-400 entries will have a professional touch because this is done by garden club members.

Although the members will be working with dozens of different types of blossoms, the ladies will have uniformity in their flower containers which they provide to the entrants.

It's Offbeat

Bagels and children's hats is an offbeat combination, but that is what the Farmington Town Club will have for sale at its Farmington Founders Festival booth at the east end of the A & P Supermarket in downtown center during festival days.

Residents who want to celebrate the Founders Festival theme, "Farmington U.S.A.," in a patriotic way, should pay a visit to the American Legion booth located behind the Dairy Maid on one of their festival tours. For sale at the booth will be flags and patriotic items.

Founders Festival fun won't be complete without a balloon. Our Lady of Sorrows Teen Club members will have them for sale in the shopping centers and along the parade route during the festival.

For a small donation, visits can be made between 1 and 5 p.m. each festival day.

Decision to offer the tours was made by the committee, organized to raise funds to finance the center, at a meeting Monday night. Estimated amount needed by December to cover first year operation and maintenance expense of the center is $60,000.

The festival tours will be the committee's first fund-raising effort. Handling the project is an "Operation Festival" committee, headed by Mrs. Kay Farmer, Mrs. Nelda Czabak and Mrs. Doreen Ozker.

Larry Nameche has arranged for brochures describing the Goodenough mansion, which will also outline various functions for which the home could be used as a community center.

Tickets may be purchased at a stand in front of the Masonic Temple.

Support A Cause

You can have a good time and also support a good cause during the Founders Festival if you pay a visit to the Farmington Township Road Association's booth in front of the Paris Room in downtown center.

If you make a stop, you will be able to sign a petition in support of better roads for Farmington, join the association and help promote voter registration.

Saga Provides Trip Into Old Time Life

Besides the possibility of inheriting his family home as a community center, Luman Goodenough has left Farmington another little-known heritage. In the Farmington library there is a book entitled 'Lumber, Lath and Shingles' written by him while he was convalescing from a lengthy illness.

His book evokes with nostalgia and delight the life of another era. Though its events took place just a generation ago while the author was growing up in the lumber days of Ludington, Mich., they seem to bear little relation to the fast-paced, pressurized existence which is the lot of this current age.

Dipping into its pages yields such descriptions as the following:

ON INDIANS
"Neighboring Indians of the Pottawatami tribe were frequent visitors with their squaws and papooses, bringing their basket wares, moccasins and blankets for sale. Often it was my grandfather's self-imposed duty to go out in the night to aid drunken Indians floundering in the swamp not far from his cabin, helpless in their drunkenness to extricate themselves except by shouting far-reaching cries for help.

"My mother recalled on more than one occasion to have found on awakening in the morning several Indians stretched full length in front of the fireplace sound in sobering sleep, brought to the log cabin in the middle of the night by her father. He knew their traits of character and was willing to treat them with understanding and kindness, which in those pioneer days brought requitement."

GARBAGE DISPOSAL

"Conforming to the early habits of my parents, particularly of my mother, who was reared on a farm, we kept a pig or two in a pen far removed to the rear corner of the spacious plot of ground. The pigs were possessed for two purposes, but mainly to devour the surplus food unfit for the table, now designated by that unattractive word, garbage. In the primitive days there was no agency to collect the refuse food, and the pigs furnished easy and natural disposal."

SOFT SOAP, THE HARD WAY

"Home industry had not disappeared in the times of my boyhood. Not far from the (pig) pen, placed upon a tilted platform, there were two headless barrels filled with hardwood ashes. Below the platform were two large wooden buckets standing on the ground separately, so placed to catch the rain water as it seeped through each ash barrel. This furnished the lye for making soft soap."

"At stated periods of the year, when sufficient fats had been accumulated, a large cauldron was set upon three stones in the backyard and a great open fire was made underneath. The fats and the lye were put into the kettle, and it was a part of my duties to light the fire and keep it well supplied with wood during the reduction process. When rendition was completed, the soap was transferred to large earthen vitrified crocks and stored to await use in scrubbing clothes and floors."

"Often in the days after the advent of kerosene and its use in illuminating lamps, we pursued the practice of moulding or dipping tallow candles for household use, mainly in lighting our way through the hall and stairway into our bedrooms, where the candles were placed beside the beds for ready illumination."

MUSIC MAKING

served the previous generation and was prized because of its sturdy qualities and artistic carving. Having been brought to Michigan from New York State made it almost sacrosanct. Anything from the state of my grandparents' emigration took on and retained a superiority unbelievable because of its origin there."

"The piece of parlour furniture that interested me most was a rosewood melodeon. Its production of music through the media of an ivory keyboard, bellows peddled by foot, and reeds concealed within the structure, gave me my first knowledge of a manually operated musical instrument. Though the years have added nothing to my ability to produce music, I always think of the grandest orchestration I have ever heard in terms of that melodeon."

"When my mother was a little girl living on the farm, her father on one of his yearly trips to Detroit bought this instrument and had it sent home to the farmhouse so that his daughter, my mother, could learn to play. Years later, when we were still living in the house I am describing, my grandmother bought a piano for my sister. The old melodeon was relegated to the attic, from which I rescued it, and it now occupies a place of honor in our country home (Farmington)."

SUMMER JOURNEY

"Two days and a night of railroad travel were required to complete the journey (to Jefferson County, N.Y.). We left home in the morning on the Flint and Pere Marquette, changed trains at Reed City to the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad, changed again at Grand Rapids to the Detroit, Lansing, and Northern and again at Detroit for the ferry which transported us across the Detroit River to Windsor."

"The train of the Lake Shore and Canada Southern Railway continued over the New York Central line to Rome, N.Y. Again we changed to the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railway, which carried us to our destination. From Detroit or Windsor we had the ease and comfort of a Wagner or Pullman sleeping car to Rome. The companies operating these car systems competed with each other. We arrived at Rome timely for breakfast in the dining room of the railroad depot. If there were dining cars in these days, I do not remember them."

"The food for our first day of travel was packed in a well-stocked, squaw-made basket, and consisted of fried chicken, hard-boiled eggs, bread and butter and cakes, with some of Mother's delicious pickles and preserves. After a night on the sleeping car and a savory breakfast at the station, we boarded the train and soon were being transported through a country of green meadows, ripening fields of grain, past well kept wood lots and freshly painted houses and barns. Herds grazing in pasture lands established the superlative quality of New York State's dairy industry."

"The contrast in tidiness with the crude shacks and sandy soil of the bleak cut-over timberlands, where decaying stumps alone marked the passing glory of Michigan's towering pine, was compelling. When the day's journey was nearing its end and Watertown was almost in sight, Mother hurried us to the car window to point out to a river and tell us it was not far from this stream that Grandfather was born and reared."

HORSEPOWER

"We generally stopped at Rome on the journey home and from there we went to the Village of Whitesboro, a short distance from Utica. Nearby was the Erie Canal which furnished a form of water transportation I had never seen before. A horse, prodded to its effort by a boy, moved along the towpath slowly pulling the blunt-ended boat by a hawser attached to its forward end and running to the singletree, collar, hames and tugs. The speed was not great, but time was not of the essence of the transportation. It was cheap carriage and in those days no one seemed to be in much hurry."

CLEANING POWER

"We lived much as did other well-to-do families of our primitive town, without benefit of community water or sewage disposal or other modern sanitary equipment. While we lacked these conveniences, a meticulous care in housekeeping more than compensated."

"Spring and fall housecleaning made spotlessly pure our abode and all it contained. Much ceremony attended the process. Modern vacuum cleaners may do the trick, but not in the same ritual of those days. The carpets, rag, Brussels and ingrain, throughout the house were all removed by lifting the tacks one by one that held the borders to the floors. They were carried to the backyard, hung on heavy clotheslines, and with an old horsewhip beaten until not a suspicion of dust could be raised."

"The floors, scrubbed spotlessly clean with our own homemade soft soap, were covered thick with fresh newspaper papers, collected for six months. The dustless carpets were brought in and tacked first to the right-angled outer edges and then, with the assistance of gun-shod helper scuffing the carpet over, it was fastened tightly to the remaining borders of the room. The hired girl wore the gum shoes and I did the tacking."

"Everything in the rooms that could be readily taken out was moved. Bulky furniture was shifted. Pictures were taken from the walls, cleaned and dusted, bedsteads were taken apart and scrubbed with a mild solution of carbolic acid, and mattresses were put out to air in the sunshine after the customary pummeling."

"In the spring the heating stoves were removed, and their floor protections, called 'zincs' (probably because that metal entered into the composition), were put away for the summer."

"Almost always a calamity accompanied the taking down of the stove pipes which usually were suspended by wires from the ceiling. No chimney opening in those stove-heated houses was ever constructed conveniently to the spot where the stove was placed. Father usually mounted a chair and proceeded to disconnect the pipe from the chimney hole."

"Often at the moment of accomplishment, the pipe would lose its suspension, the chair its stability, Father his balance, and down would come pipe and chair and Father in a heap, covered with escaping soot. On these occasions Mother was present to hurry us children from the room, while Father unfettered the seldom-used vocabulary he had acquired under the tutelage of the schooner captains."

"Housecleaning was a task, or rather a ceremony, to which none looked forward with pleasure, and the end of which we welcomed with thanksgiving and praise, much as a native does the inundation of the Nile Valley. We appreciated cleanliness, next sought after Godliness, but we hated the process by which it was accomplished."

JINGLE BELLS

"When we were all packed in (the sleigh), at a word from the driver and a snap of his long whip the horses started, and as they moved into a trot the sleigh bells jingled in the clear air of the night. The rule of home at 10:30 required an early start at five p.m. with a drive for an hour or more. When the (previously selected) farmhouse was reached the welcoming farmer and his wife met and greeted us."

"Immediately the provisions were brought in, and soon the fragrance of coffee was wafted throughout the house as the oyster stew and the cakes and pies were served at the table. We played games and often danced the old-fashioned square dances. Sometimes we looked at the photograph albums always on exhibit beside the big family Bible on the marble top table. We had to be on our way home by nine p.m."

"Bidding our host and hostess good night, and thanking them for their hospitality, we started back. No one but a prude was cold the coldest nights on those sleigh ride journeys home as boy and girl sat together both bundled in the same warm shawl. How our voices would sing forth 'My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean' and 'Jingle Bells.' As we drove on over the well-packed road the clear full moon reflected a new day on the white snow."

MORE ABOUT HORSES

The Avenue was the racing course of our town. Winter and summer the trotters, usually driven by their owners, had the right of way. In summer, the road made springy by sawdust and shingle shavings invited speedy settlement of the differences of opinion that made horse races. In winter the snow plows kept cleared the way where fast stappers could be driven in open competition."

"The snow races were by far the more picturesque and exciting. The sleek horses, singly or in spans harnessed to Portland cutters (swell bodies had about passed out of fashionable equipment) were driven to the starting point. The highly polished cutters were painted in various colors. The harnesses were of shining leather, metal trimmings of plated silver or brass, with strings of musical bells or chimes on shafts and poles."

"Our cutter was painted differently in various winters; but the one we favored most was a bright red body with white running gear, striped in gold. Our horses wore black harness and their bodies were encircled with strings of silver-plated bells so closely set as to quite conceal the girdles to which they were attached."

"The horses were lined up and started from the upper end of the Avenue and the race was on. As the speed increased, the chimes and bells, the thumping of snow balls thrown from fast moving hoofs resounding against the dashboards, the loud urging of the drivers, the muffled sound of hoofs on the packed snow, all contributed to the chorus of the sport. Faster and faster they came, the rangy chestnuts, the dark bays, the speckled gray, your Grandfather's cross-matched team, until the fleetest trotters left the others behind or caused them to break."

"When old Fan drew our sleigh she was generally in the lead at the end of the race, but with the black and white we often pulled up the rear. It was a pretty sight to see those rigs of 50 or 60 years ago moving down the street on pleasure - bent, horses with heads lifted high, and cutters flashing colors against the white snow, wolf skin robes, bushy tails streaming out behind over the seats, and happy sleigh riders wrapped in robes, caps and coats of fur, and faces nipped by cold."

Swing Your Partner

Founders Festival gaiety will hit a high note at the festival conclusion from 9 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday, July 27, when the parking lot in the Downtown Center will fill with square dancers.

The city will clear an area 200 by 200 feet in the parking lot so that dancers will be able to sashay with style. Calling the do-se-dos will be Tom Liversidge, and his wife, Doris, both well-known to Farmingtonites.

In other years, this gala closing event has attracted as many as 2,000 persons. The center is a hubbub of friends greeting friends, all calling out to each other as they have great fun.

To Be Realized In 1970When the new Farmington District Library building is completed in 1970, the ancient struggle for adequate community library facilities at last will be won.Now in its final planning stages, the present library expansion program will include both the construction of a new building and the expansion of the present facility."We have had several meetings with the architects," reports Earnest Sauter, a member of the District Library Board, "and we are delighted with the plan they have presented."

The five-acre site purchased in 1963 is a sloping area on 12 Mile Road across from O.E. Dunkel Junior High School. The architects' plan, according to Sauter, calls for a bilevel building which will include a meeting room for public use on the lower level."Next month, we will make our initial request for Federal assistance," says Sauter. "If our request is approved early in 1969, as expected, we hope to have the building in operation by the fall of 1970.""Farmington is a library-oriented community because so many of its citizens originally lived in metropolitan areas," observes Mrs. Mildred Droegge, the Head Librarian.

"This summer we are circulating between 600 and 1000 books every day, but the number could be two or three times that amount," she continues.
"We are desperately in need of additional space."The minimum standards recommended by the American Library Association suggest 2.5 books per capita. When the new library structure is completed and filled with books, the total capacity of Farmington's District Library will just about equal that figure.The new building will have a capacity of more than 100,000 volumes plus enough space toexpand the present reference department. This will make an impressive addition to the 28,000 books in the present Library.The 1968 population of the Farmington District (city and township) has been estimated at 50,000 by the Farmington School Board. By the 1980's the projected population of the Farmington District will be 85,000."We feel the present library expansion program will serve that projected population adequately and still be economical," Sauter says. "We hope the new library will become the cultural center of the community."*"Michigan's Most Exciting Gift Shop"PEANUTS FOR PRESIDENT!*Campaign Headquarters

Ball Diamonds To Be Busy During Festival

Baseball will get king-sized attention in the 1968 Farmington Founders Festival from four directions.

Little League all-star games, a girls' softball game and a Farmington High School alumni old-timers tilt will give the festival a distinct flavor of the national pastime.

Eight teams will compete in the slo-pitch double knockout tourney. Their action will begin with three games at 6:15 p.m. Friday, July 26 at City Park and on the Knights of Columbus diamond.

Eliminations will continue starting at 10 a.m. Saturday at the same sites and the championship game will be played at 7 p.m. Saturday on the Knights of Columbus diamond.

Entered in the tournament are the Jaycees, K. of C. and the six top teams in the city league standings: H.A. Smith Lumber, Superior Door, Farmington Shell, Gorman Electric, Town and Country Dodge-Grimes Cleaners and Botsford Apartments.

Little Leaguers will stage their two all-star games Saturday, July 27. All of the youngsters will be from the ranks of teams in the South Farmington Baseball for Boys organization.

The minor league all-star tilt is set for 3 p.m. and the two major league all-star teams will play at 7 p.m. Both games will be staged in City Park.

After the Little League majors are finished, City Park then will be the scene at 8:30 p.m. Saturday of a top-flight women's softball battle between the regular Farmington club and a team from Grand Rapids.

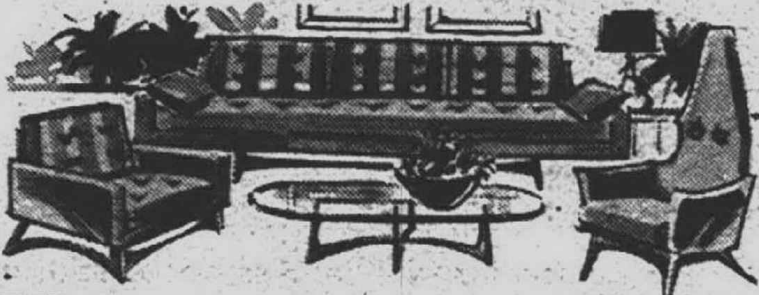

Friday night, July 26 a Farmington High School alumni team captained by Floyd Taggart is scheduled to meet an non-alumni club headed by Frank McGuire in a game limited to players "over 40."

This is tentatively scheduled for 6 p.m. on the Farmington High School diamond. Herm Conner of the Conner Real Estate Co. will donate a trophy to the winning team. Anyone interested in playing call Frank McGuire, 476-6172.

Balloon Launching; New Festival Feature

A mysterious, uniformed band of zealots known as the Balloon Platoon will launch the 1968 Farmington Founders Festival in eye-opening fashion.

This colorful group of hot-air balloon enthusiasts will send the club's flagship, the S.S. Charlie Brown, lurking 80 feet above ground in a dazzling display of precision and courage.

The action will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, July 25 in front of Showboat in Downtown Farmington Center.

Organized in April, 1968, the Balloon Platoon now has a membership of 30 Detroit area residents.

"BALLOONING is the next fun thing after snowmobiles," according to Brooks Stover of Farmington, president of the Balloon Platoon. "There are already balloon clubs on the West Coast, and the Federal Aviation Authority has registered over 100 balloons as aircraft."

The 30-foot diameter balloon sewn out of five-and-a-half inch nylon parachutes, gets its lift from hot air heated by a propane gas burner. The burner, adjusted by the pilot, directs a white-hot flame straight up into the innards of the balloon from a nozzle perched above the pilot's head.

The balloon's gondola is made of aluminum tubing welded into a "cage." A fiberglass bucket seat—retrieved from a sports car—and a tiny instrument panel with an altimeter, pyrometer, variometer and compass help give an earthly feel to the lighter-than-air craft.

The fuel for the burner is propane, housed in an aluminum container tucked under the pilot's bucket seat. Fuel lasts an hour's flight time.

Construction of the balloon took approximately a month, with three weeks devoted entirely to sewing the parachutes together.

CLUB MEMBERS serve as ground crew for the balloon's mysterious designer, owner, and pilot, who calls himself "Commodore" Lindoon and who doubles as an assistant chief designer at General Motors.

Dressed in ritualistic attire, complete with moustache and beard, the Commodore is almost as exciting as the launch itself.

While raving about the sport's rapid growth, Commodore Lindoon also warns of its unusual dangers.

"During our last flight, I had just left ground when a local constable arrived and warned us to stop immediately," he recalls.

"I was having trouble landing when the constable took out his revolver and said he would shoot me down if I couldn't land by myself. Needless to say, I didn't waste any time reaching the ground."

Most of the dangers are more mechanical, according to Commodore Lindoon.

"The main problem is landing," he says. "There is always the danger of hitting a high tension wire or drowning in a lake."

"IN FARMINGTON," he continues "we will be using a tethered flight, which means the balloon will be attached to ropes. Tethered flights can be more dangerous than free flights because the wind often damages the balloon."

Most of the club's members are designers or engineers for Detroit's major automobile manufacturers. A sizable segment comes from General Motors Institute in Flint. Female members are few in number now but "more than welcome," according to president Stover.

Bearing titles like "Stitch Picker first class" and "draught creator," the club's members meet weekly to launch their prototype or work on new designs.

"Our club tries to promote the spectator aspects of ballooning," says Stover.

"THE HISTORY of hot-air ballooning goes back to 1793 when the Montgolfier brothers bobbed across Paris, after having the air heated with a bonfire," reports Bob Paddison, the club historian.

"The recent rebirth of the sport," explains Paddison, "is due to the availability of surplus parachutes plus the development of a small portable propane burner."

Balloon racing is a future planned activity for the club, with the annual balloon race preceding the Indy 500 a major goal.

The club members, who all wear sweatshirts with an emblem entitled the Balloon Platoon, also are working on a balloon design which will carry two people.

THEME OF THE 1966 Founders Festival was "Farmington Honors Its Own." To carry out the theme the Festival singled out Farmington people who had achieved recognition in their fields and those who had resided in the area for a long time. Here two of the 1966 award winners Stanley Drake and Marta Kristin appear on the dignitaries stand.

Franklin Band Concert Thursday

There'll be plenty of toe-tapping at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 25, when the Franklin Village Band tootles out old time favorites in front of the Chrysler Showboat in the Downtown Shopping Center.

The band's repertoire is always a crowd-pleaser and playing the songs may be the highest priced bandmen in the country, although they play for free.

The band might be called the nation's most elite musical organization because its roster reads like a Who's Who of the Detroit business and professional world. All the men are skilled musicians, however, and can belt out a tune with the best of them.

Lead by Farmington's Dr. Conrad Lam, a thoracic surgeon, and directed by Bill Ellison, the band's members include a commercial art firm president, the president of a catering firm, president of an engineering company, an auto company buyer, a partner in a computer products firm and many other VIPs and veeeps.

Candidates Corner Is Saturday Feature

Soap box orators who are candidates for political office—and Farmington has them in droves this year—will be permitted to expound at unlimited length at a special forum arranged for Saturday during the Founders Festival.

Following the colorful July 27 parade, a site in front of the Chrysler Showboat in the Downtown Shopping Center will be designated "Candidate's Corner."

Founders Festival Is Link Between Past, Present

BY PHILIP POWER
Publisher

This coming Thursday marks the start of the fourth Farmington Founders Festival. It will run through Saturday, with events scheduled day and night.

There will be a beauty contest, a balloon ascension, a dance for teen-agers, a pet show, dinners and refreshments, a softball tournament, numerous bands, various booths. In short, nearly everything anyone in search of an interesting and enjoyable time could want.

It's Farmington's biggest annual event. A great number of people have spent a lot of time and energy preparing for the Festival. Their work and their hopes represent something of enormous importance and value for the entire Farmington community.

THE FESTIVAL commemorates the founding, in 1824, of Farmington.

Perhaps because my ancestor, Arthur Power, was the man who decided to settle his family in what was to become Farmington, the links between the past and the present represented by the Festival are particularly evident to me.

Farmington is a strange community, in this day of the instant suburb developing without a past, without roots, without a sense of history or identity.

Farmington has a past. It has a history. People who live here have a sense of identity and a feeling for the roots of their community.

Perhaps that's one of the things that makes Farmington more of a community than other suburbs, which developed suddenly and emerged so quickly as full-blown cities. And it is this feeling of community that is so precious to the entire Farmington area as it develops and moves into the future—a future which will be marked by explosive growth of population, industry, and social stresses.

The Festival links the past with the present, and thereby provides a helpful definition of the future.

IT ALSO SERVES to make clear the underlying unity of the entire Farmington community: city, township, villages.

For people from throughout the area come to the festival. They eat hot dogs together. Not township hot dogs or city hot dogs, but hot dogs. They look at a ball game together. They perhaps remember for a moment the past of their common community together.

The differences between the city and the township, for so much of the year such a matter of pain and irritation, somehow seem to dissolve during Festival time.

City and Township police cooperate in working out parade routes. Political figures from all local government bodies come out together. Shoppers from the entire community take advantage of the bargains offered throughout the entire area.

Farmington is a community. Its past is as a community, and its future will be as a community, linked by common interests and good will.

Maybe while you're having fun at the Festival, it might be a nice thing to think about that.

And smile at your friends. It's that kind of time.

Artists Slate Show

Farmington Junior High School grounds will look something like Paris' Left Bank from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, July 27, when the Farmington Artists Club holds its Founders Festival exhibit of works by artists from Farmington, city and township.

Termed a "clothes line" exhibit, art works will be set up out-of-doors on easels, peg boards and on the ground in true, casual French-like tradition. The show usually attracts 20-25 local artists, working in all range of media—oil, acrylic, collage, water color, charcoal, tempera.

There will be no set pattern to the arrangement of the art works. The display is an individual basis and artists will place their displays where they think the works show to best advantage. All paintings will be for sale.

Those desiring further information about participating may call Mrs. Alice Nichols, 476-3879.

Festival Committees Named

Putting all the pieces of the jigsaw together.

That's the job of Founders Festival general chairman Ron Holland.

Planning for each Festival takes just about an entire year. It's a delicate and difficult job to make certain that all the pieces come together at just the right time.

THE THREE DAY annual event is organized and staged by a series of committees. The problems are compounded by the fact that all of the committees are comprised of volunteers.

Needless to say the volunteers have to spend a certain amount of time—even at Festival time—earning their living.

Each event has a committee. It's up to the general chairman and the executive committee to mesh all the events together.

Some of the committees are small and some are large in size.

SOME OF the individuals who helped to make the 1968 Founders Festival—a success are:

Mrs. Stella DiCicco and Anthony Reda, Miss Founders Festival Pageant; Tom Zoeders, signs and bumper stickers; Frank McGuire and Mary Checketts, publicity and promotion; Omar Sanderson, concessions; Fred Freidli, teen activities; Jack Cotton and Richard Habicht, special doings coordinators; and Delos Hamlin, John Dinan and Tony Guyer, dignitaries.

General chairmen for the parade are Bud Reaume and Mrs. Janet Dicks.

For Kids Only

Special for the kids during Founders Festival days will be the Farmington Business and Professional Women's booth, "Fun Fair Games," beside the Book Corner in Downtown Center.

Masonic Temple Building Is Farmington Landmark

Farmington's Masonic Temple, that beautiful Victorian building, on the triangle of land in the center of town, has been a town and township landmark since 1876.

The story of the temple is intertwined between the Masons and the township. At one time, the building was known as "Town Hall."

THE STORY goes like this—

Masons Set Horse Show

The Farmington Founders Festival, second annual All Western Horse Show all day Saturday, July 27, will offer a thrill a minute with 23 events scheduled.

Included are flag races, musical stunts, barrel bending, jumping, reining, a pickup race, classes in horsemanship and speed and action and a precision drill exhibition by the Farmington Township Mounted Police Auxiliary.

SPONSORED by the Farmington Masonic Lodge Temple Association, all this will take place from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at 12 Mile and Farmington Rds. Chairman is Jack Curry. General show chairman is Ralph Stiller.

Floyd Cline will serve as judge, Corwin Moore as ringmaster and Roy Head as announcer. Local businesses have donated trophies and six ribbons for each class. This phase of the show has been arranged by a committee headed by Mrs.

In the year 1875, Farmington village and township were growing so rapidly, adding to the duties and responsibilities of the local government, township officials decided to build a "Township Hall."

Learning of the decision, the Farmington Masonic Lodge (organized in 1863) proposed that the lodge pay part of the construction costs for the purpose of using the upper story as a lodge room.

Agreement was made on a contract whereby the lodge paid $1,150 towards the construction costs and received a perpetual lease on the upper story.

THE "TOWN HALL" was started in 1875 and completed in 1876 by Johnson S. Prall, of Pontiac, for the sum of $4,300.

The style of architecture was a mixture of Victorian, French Renaissance and certain innovations which Prall used in all his buildings.

In 1905 the upper story was modernized with electricity. This proved adequate until 1915 when the Township and the Masons decided to build an addition to the west side at a cost of $6,200, with the lodge paying $3,500.

In 1962, the township offices moved to new quarters and fears were the building would be razed.

To forestall this, the Masonic Lodge bought the township and city equities in the property for $42,000 and spent another $70,000 to remodel the building.

Through the public spirit of the Masons, old "Town Hall" still stands in the center of town, preserving the historic heritage of the area.

Festival To Climax With Parade

TV STAR Marta Kristin attended the 1966 Founders Festival. Here Miss Kristin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Soderquist of 25340 Orchard Lake Rd., rides in the Festival Parade. Miss Kristin received an achievement award for her work in the entertainment field.

Jaycees To Take Dunking

If the weather is as hot during the Founders Festival as it was last week, the Jaycees may be glad they decided to man their own dunking game at their display in the Downtown Shopping Center.

The contraption—familiar to most carnival midway—features an individual sitting above a pool of water, and the object is to give him a dunking by hitting a target with a baseball. This springs the trap and down he goes.

There have been days recently when some Farmingtonites would have fought for the privilege of sitting on the board.

The Jaycee booth will be located behind the Metropolitan Bank, and a second feature will be the sale of soft drinks, hot dogs, kielbasa and chicken box lunches.

Blaring bands and strutting majorettes, gaily decorated floats and prancing horses will convert Grand River Ave. into a colorful parade setting Saturday morning for the traditional climax to the Farmington Founders Festival.

The 1968 parade will form at the drive-in theatre at the eastern fringe of the city, and the first units will begin their march westward at 10 a.m. The parade route will carry along Grand River to that thoroughfare's juncture with Farmington Rd., a distance of near-

Offer Free Visual Screening

The Farmington Township Lions Club and the Michigan Optometric Association have arranged for a trailer for free visual screening sessions during the Farmington Founders Festival.

The sightmobile will be located behind Himel's Restaurant during the three festival days, July 25, 26 and 27.

The screening will indicate whether further eye testing is needed and will not be a visual examination or an eye test.

Grand Marshal for this year's event will be U.S. Rep. Jack McDonald, 19th District congressman. Also riding in positions of honor will be city, township and civic leaders as

from neighboring communities. Co-chairmen Ed Reaume and Janet Dicks have announced that among the units in the parade will be seven bands, nine floats, a number of antique cars, an Air Force missile display, the Farmington Township Mounted Police, a troupe of St. Bernard dogs, clowns and twirlers galore. The Queen of the Festival and members of her court will ride on a special float in traditional fashion to receive the salute of the thousands of spectators due to line the full route. Trophies will be presented to the sponsors of outstanding parade units in special cere-

in the Downtown Shopping Center following the parade. Judges and special guests will occupy an official reviewing stand to be located at Grand River and School St.

MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC—That's what's needed in a parade. Last year this helmeted group marched with military precision down Grand River and still managed to look very feminine during the Founders Festival Parade. This year's parade begins at 10 a.m. Saturday, July 27.

'Fastest Gun' Man Sets Festival Dates

Joe Bodrie, "The Fastest Gun Alive," will be making personal appearances at the Farmington Founders Festival on July 25, 26, 27. How fast is he? Joe states he has been timed in the act of drawing, cocking and firing a gun in less than one-fifth of a second. For comparison, he says a better-than-average time is about two and one-half times slower. As the former representative of a large firearms manufacturer, Joe Bodrie spent several years teaching combat shooting. In addition, he has taught many motion picture and television stars the techniques of handling a six-shooter. Since 1958, he has appeared on TV as deputy to John Bromfield in both the "Sheriff of Cochise" and "U.S. Marshal" shows. He has also been seen with the stars of "Bonanza," "Wyatt Earp" and "Gun Smoke," and has been a guest on the "Arthur Godfrey Show," "Omnibus" and the "Red Foley Show," to name but a few. While in Farmington, Bodrie will demonstrate tricks used by legendary gunfighters of the old West and perform some of the fancy draws and pistol handling that have made Hollywood westerns famous the world over. Admission is free. Joe Bodrie's visit to Farmington is being sponsored by Roger Peck Chevrolet. Check the schedule below, prepared by the Farmington Board of Commerce, and be sure to see the "Sheriff of Cochise."
