S'craft Accredited

Schoolcraft College was notified Friday of its "continued accreditation as an associate degree-granting institution with full recognition by North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools."

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, new president of the college, was notified of the extension in the college's accreditation in a telephone call on Friday.

Dr. Grote and Dr. Eric Bradner, former college president, appeared before the NCA's Committee on Type this week for a final report on the college. A team of investigators had visited the college in May.

Adding To Nature

Canton Jaycees and parents of the students of Gallimore School are proud of how they have turned a 10-acre nature area into an outdoor teaching laboratory, but that doesn't mean they are content to end it there. In fact, 19 new projects are in their plans, which is why crews of volunteers have pitched in this weekend to get the work started.

New Faces Due

Personnel changes in the teaching staff of Plymouth public schools continue to command high Board of Education attention. This week 11 more new contracts were approved, and at the same time leaves of absence were granted to a pair of instructors.

ALTHOUGH IT WAS in a losing cause, White Sox Catcher Billie Crayle (3) and Pitcher Bruce Gerish were the masters of the Cubs' Don Deskovitz (12) on this infield tapper in the Plymouth Junior Baseball Association playoffs. The Cubs won the championship with successive 9-3 and 12-3 victories. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring).

Cubs Rule As Champs — Sox Are 'Exposed'

The victorious Cubs took home the trophy Tuesday that goes with the Plymouth Junior Baseball Association championship, and the losing White Sox may have taken home the mumps.

The Cubs gained the crown with successive 9-3 and 12-3 triumphs in the best-of-three series, but it was discovered at lunch after the first game that Doug Begg, the White Sox shortstop, had played the full contest while coming down with the mumps.

After that exposure, his teammates committed four errors and could garner only five hits off Cub pitcher Kevin Randazzo in the second battle.

The Cub attack was paced by Dave Ost's three-run homer in the third.

Corky Norman of the Cubs was the leading hitter in the playoffs, with four safeties in six trips, while Bruce Gerish and Jim Kral each had three hits for the Sox.

The Cubs earned the National League title with a 13-3 record for the regular season. The White Sox had a 14-2 mark for their schedule in winning the American League crown.

Coaches of the Cubs were Dick Randazzo and Mac Pierce. The White Sox were directed by Art Gerish, Jim Rayfield and Chet Dasher.

Seeks 6-Year Term

Vallier's Schoolcraft Candidacy Prompts Election Law Search

City Commissioner Arch Vallier's decision to become a candidate in the Sept. 13 Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees election has sent municipal officials scurrying to the law books to determine at what point—if any—he will be forced to resign from city government.

Vallier is one of eight candidates for a six-year Schoolcraft term, with three to be elected. Nine others are running for two-year terms on the college board, two of whom will be elected.

City Clerk Eugene Slider has expressed an unofficial opinion that mere candidacy for a second elective office creates no conflict. However, if Vallier wins election, then there is doubt as to whether he can legally hold both posts. If he loses, the question becomes strictly academic.

Slider is awaiting interpretations from Wayne County and State of Michigan election authorities in order to advise Vallier of the law's provisions.

SUCCESSFUL Schoolcraft candidates will take office Oct. 4, and it's a fact which creates the possibility of a real oddity in Plymouth's governmental history.

After eight years on the commission, Vallier's second term expires this year. Under terms of the charter, he is not eligible to seek re-election.

The municipal election will be held Nov. 2 and the new commission will take over on Nov. 8 meaning Vallier's city duties run to that date—unless election to the Schoolcraft board brings about his resignation as commissioner Oct. 4.

Plymouth's city charter demands that any vacancy on the commission be filled within 30 days, creating a deadline of Nov. 3 for an Oct. 4 resignation. That ludicrous situation would require the commission to make an interim appointment for what could be as trifling as a period of five days.

IF VALLIER is successful in his Schoolcraft bid, it will mark his election to his third governmental unit. He served on the old Wayne County Board of Supervisors eight years, in addition to winning local election to the commission.

The 57-year-old Nebraska native is a retired Ford Motor Co. executive who now is a consultant to the Office of Economic Expansion of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Vallier, who lives at 1338 Penniman, currently is out of town because of the death early in the week of his mother, Mrs. Ione Vallier, 88, at Presbyterian Village in Redford, where she had been a resident for two years after moving from the family home at Columbus, Neb.

Graveside services are being held for her today at Labelle, Mo., where she was born and where her husband also is buried. Arch Vallier was their only child.

State Home Youths Win Recognition

Plymouth State Home special olympics participants were honored for their accomplishments at a recent awards banquet. The Livonia Kiwanis Club made the banquet possible by assuming the dinner costs for each of the 83 olympic entrants.

Bill Hoeft, the last Detroit Tiger left hander to win 20 games, spoke to the Plymouth residents about his experiences as a baseball player. He presented each of the participants a framed certificate.

The banquet served to underscore the philosophy that the special olympics help to increase individual attitudes of accomplishment and self-respect.

Students Without Sidewalks Get OK For Bussing

The Plymouth Board of Education reluctantly recanted this week on its position regarding transportation of students who live within 1½ miles of school.

The approximately 500 students will be bussed to school during the academic year beginning in September in the hope that action will be taken by the local governments to eliminate the problems.

The board had voted in February to discontinue bussing these children because the state will not reimburse the school system for the cost of transporting them.

THE INTENT of the original board motion was to force community residents to exert pressure on local government units to provide safe walkways for the children.

Thus, the school system would eventually save money that has been used for transportation and instead use it for instruction.

Little was accomplished so far by working through the township government, according to a report issued to the board by the appointed safety committee. Lawton Smith, safety director, heads the committee.

"As far as I can see, there has been no concerted effort to cause township government to assume their duty to build sidewalks," board member George Lawton said in reviewing the report.

"The intent of going to the state law was to create equity throughout the school system," Lawton said.

"THE ONLY THING I could see was a cop-out, and that's what it is," board member John Hanskat said of the report. "We asked for a complete analysis, and there hasn't been one."

While a large number of parents listened Lawton proposed to continue bussing the children where safety hazards exist.

The board adopted the motion unanimously and also adopted Lawton's second motion to put Supt. James Rossman personally in charge of the safety question.

The expected cost to the school district of transporting the extra students is $25,000.

IT WAS IN THE crash of this vehicle that 15-year-old Tracey Earl Stenzel lost his life Thursday. After hitting two trees, it came to rest on its side in the front yard of the home at 42370 Schoolcraft. The driver, Wayne Spencer Jr., was not seriously hurt. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe).

Township Auto Crash Takes Life Of Boy, 15

A 15-year-old Plymouth Township youth, Tracey Earl Stenzel, was killed instantly Thursday when an automobile in which he was a passenger went out of control on Schoolcraft Rd., hit two trees, flipped, and landed on its right side where Stenzel was sitting.

The youth was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stenzel Jr., of 4244 Hammill Lane. He was to have entered Plymouth High School as a 10th grade student in September.

Wayne County Sheriff's officers said Stenzel was the only passenger in a 1965 Ford driven by Wayne Spencer Jr., 19, of 9065 Northern, Plymouth Township.

Officers said Spencer was westbound on Schoolcraft "at a high rate of speed," when he apparently hit the brakes just east of Bradner Rd. to avoid hitting another car, and then lost control, slamming first into one tree and then another before coming to rest.

The strip of Schoolcraft on which the accident occurred is posted as having a speed limit of 40 miles an hour, and the sheriff's office said Friday their investigation still is continuing.

FUNERAL arrangements for Stenzel are being handled by the Casterline Funeral Home in Northville, and inquiries as to the time and date of services may be made by calling there.

In addition to his parents, the youth is survived by two sisters, Paulette, 19, and Lorraine, 17, plus a younger brother, Martin, 11. The family attends the Northville Baptist Church and they have lived in the Plymouth community 11 years. The father is a Ford Motor Co. employee at the Rouge stamping plant.

Spencer, the driver, was treated for minor injuries at Wayne County General Hospital and then released Thursday afternoon.

HIS CAR landed in the front yard of the home at 42370 Schoolcraft, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Marsh Woods. The house also includes the Woods La Petite Hair Fashions beauty shop and at the time of the crash about 1:15 p.m. there was one customer in the shop, plus Laurie Petersen, a beauty operator.

"We heard a big thump," said Miss Petersen, "and then looked out the window and saw people running toward the car which was lying on its right side in the front yard."

It was Miss Petersen's customer, who was about to go under the hair dryer, who dialed the Michigan Bell telephone operator and asked her to call police. It was stated. The Plymouth Township ambulance and sheriff's officers responded immediately.

Twentieth century symphonic music, in general, and American 20th century symphonic music, in particular, have all too often been dismissed as a conglomeration of noise, lacking in melodic beauty and harmonic sense. Thus, very little of it has been recorded and very little of it has been performed.

The Schoolcraft summer music school and festival's chamber music and court concert series, now in its fifth year, has devoted much of its five concert programs to 20th century composers, especially American 20th century composers.

FOR THEIR LAST court concert of the summer season, the orchestra under the direction of Wayne Dunlap, featured pieces by three American composers, Charles Griffes, Charles Ives and Samuel Barber, one English composer, Frederick Delius and, in an abrupt return to 18th century romanticism, a piece by Franz Schubert.

Mario DiFiore and Rosemary Jackson were the guest soloists.

DiFiore performed Delius' "Caprice and Elegy," written in 1930, six years after Delius had been stricken with total paralysis and blindness. It invokes a very somber but very subjective pictorial sense of English impressionism. DiFiore captured this essence despite a listless reading by the orchestra.

Rosemary Jackson gave an adequate interpretation to Barber's "Knoxville, Summer of 1915," a description of a hot, muggy summer's night in Knoxville. Again, however, the orchestra seemed to be lacking in a proper emotional response to the work.

The orchestra, which is comprised of professional musicians as well as students, seemed to find the vitality lacking in the Delius and Barber pieces during the "Symphony No. 5" by Schubert, which had been substituted for the last two movements of Ives' "Symphony No. 3."

Orchestral enthusiasm was also evident in the "The White Peacock" by Griffes as well as the first movement of the Ives, which incorporated several well known hymns within its harmonic structure.

Student Soloists Play In Concert

Six soloists, winners of concerto auditions, were heard in a special concert Monday evening at Schoolcraft College.

All are students at Schoolcraft's summer music school directed by Wayne Dunlap.

The six are pianists Daniel Horn of Livonia and Michael Reed of Plymouth, string soloists Roxanne Oliver of Ferndale, two sisters from Livonia, Sarah and Eleanor Roth, and Michele Barc of Livonia, who plays oboe.

The pianists are members of a master class being taught by Donald Morelock. Miss Oliver is a student of Emily Mutter Austin, a member of the summer school faculty and a member of the Detroit Symphony and the Plymouth Symphony orchestras. Sarah Roth studies with Douglas Marsh of Ann Arbor; and Eleanor studies with her father, William Roth. Michele Barc is a student of Donald Odmark, a member of the Detroit Symphony.

On the same program were compositions by students of Schoolcraft's composer-in-residence, Robert W. Jones. The final concert of the summer school series will be given Friday evening, July 30, at 8:30 p.m., in the Waterman Campus Center.

The school orchestra will perform works by Riegger, Britten, Bielewa and Bartok.

Of special interest will be "Spectrum," by a young American composer Herbert Bielewa for wind ensembles, percussion and taped electronic sounds.

Admission to the concert is free.

Contemporary Jazz, Rock Coming To OCC

Contemporary jazz and rock take the spotlight in two events in the Orchard Ridge Summer Events Program as the series moves into its fourth week.

The "James Tatum Trio-Plus" will be featured in the Sunday Special Events Series at 8 p.m. Aug. 1, and the week's rock concert will feature the group "Tea Armada" at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Both concerts are set for the Amphitheater on the Oakland Community College campus, located at 27055 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington.

ALSO in the Amphitheater, at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 6, will be the final performances of a bill of three one-act plays, "Interview," "Sarah & The Sax," and "The Zoo Story."

On Thursday, Aug. 5, the classic Comedy Film Festival will feature one of the Marx Brothers' best-known comedies, "A Night at the Opera." The zany film will be shown at 8 p.m. in room J. 294.

The Tatum group is led by James Tatum, pianist and composer who has studied at the University of Michigan. Detroit's Robert Martin is the group's percussionist, and Joe Williams, well-known throughout the East and Midwest, plays double bass.

The group has been described by Rogie Clark, music critic of "Michigan Scene," as "a familiar unit in the Detroit area, distinguished by its unique style and arrangements of contemporary jazz."

Admission to the Summer Events program concerts and plays is $2 for the general public and $1 for OCC students with identification cards. The films are 75 cents for the public and free to OCC students with cards. A special family rate of $4 is available on Sundays.

Summer Theater Presents 3 Plays

Cranbrook Summer Theatre will close its 30th consecutive season with three plays to be presented the first two weeks in August.

around the efforts of Mrs. Savage to use her fortune as a fund to help others realize their fondest hopes and dreams, in spite of the attempts of her grown stepchildren to thwart her plans. Lillian Hellman's moving drama, "The Children's Hour," will follow on the evenings of Friday, Aug. 6, and Saturday, Aug. 7.

"Take Her, She's Mine," by Phoebe and Henry Ephron, will bring the season to a close Tuesday, Aug. 10, and Wednesday, Aug. 11.

Tickets may be purchased at St. Dunstan's Playhouse between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and at the door on performance nights.

DICK BENSEK

Lamb and mutton contain but a small amount of fat and little moisture. Cooking too long or at too high temperature will dry and harden the meat. All cuts of lamb are tender and could be either broiled or roasted with good results; but for some of the less symmetrical and less expensive cuts, braising and stewing are very satisfactory methods of preparation especially for older animals. And why not shish kebab for the younger ones? How about lamb, kidney, mushrooms, and sliced pineapple?

How about dining out tonight at DANISH INN, 32206 Grand River Ave., 478-5320. Our beautiful supper club atmosphere and the memorable music of Pat Flowers at the piano make Danish Inn a fine place to celebrate happy occasions. Decorated cakes are always available for Birthdays and Anniversaries. Open: 11AM-2 AM with dinners during the week until 10 PM, Fri. and Sat. until 1 AM.

HELPFUL HINT: The less desirable cuts of lamb can be used very satisfactorily if ground.

Gallimore Volunteers Aim High

PLYMOUTH
Teams of workers from the Canton Township Jaycees and the Gallimore School PTA launched a new development phase of Gallimore's 10-acre nature area this weekend, slating 19 projects for completion in coming months. Immediate attention will be given to cutting a fourth nature trail, building a fence in the picnic area, replacing wood chips with gravel, building a greenhouse and providing another outdoor amphitheater.

Other projects that lie ahead include dressing of baseball fields, creation of a "tot lot," an outdoor drinking fountain, installing new playground equipment and reconditioning old play materials.

Also scheduled are outdoor identification signs, repair of nature display cases, building trail benches and a log ring display, an ice skating area, a football-soccer-track area, outdoor toilet facilities, handball courts and an animal shelter.

THREE YEARS ago the Jaycees cut a nature trail through the wooded area adjacent to the school as a community service project and built a 32-student outdoor amphitheater. Student participation in completion of these projects also was encouraged.

Frank McMurray, current president of the Jaycees, said, "This seemingly simple contribution set the stage for a series of additional student participation projects which has changed the teaching process at the school, the attitude of its students, and generated wide participation by area community groups."

"Now the outdoor teaching laboratory (named this by the students) is being made available to be used by the Audubon Society, other schools for study courses, church groups on weekends, and private citizen enjoyment during non-school hours."

"Vandalism at Gallimore has dropped to zero because the youngsters all have a stake in the area. Even the five-year-olds have learned a sense of responsibility. They care. Youngsters help each other and also censure their friends if anybody dares become destructive."

GALLIMORE IS an elementary school with an enrollment of approximately 500 students and is located on Sheldon Rd., south of Joy.

Otto Bufe of the Gallimore faculty said that the goal "is to provide an atmosphere at Gallimore where children can learn through projects that are beneficial to the community and to provide enjoyable family recreation close at hand."

"Educationally speaking," he added, "it is often better to teach children math, science or English through programs that are relevant and beneficial to them."

"A math problem dealing with square feet can become an exciting project when the goal is an ice skating rink that they will put into use in the winter and turn into a garden in the spring."

Humanism Theme Of 4 Discussions

A series of four discussions on the relationship of humanism to contemporary issues will be held during sabbath services during August in the Birmingham Temple's new building at 28611 W. 12 Mile, Farmington.

Rabbi Sherwin T. Wine will lead the discussions and services which pick themes from the topics to be presented.

All services begin at 8:30 p.m. on Friday evenings.

Topics for the month include:

AUG. 6--THE FEMALE EUNUCH--Humanism and Women.

The discussion will center on the book by Germaine Greer and her contention that male chauvinism stands in the way of achievement of a humanistic society.

The service theme will be "self respect."

AUG. 16--THE MYTH OF

"The Power and Glory of Soul Realization" will be discussed by Roy Eugene Davis, world-famed teacher of Yoga Meditation, at 8 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 1, in the Northland Community Center Auditorium.

Sponsored by St. Timothy Abbey Church in Warren,

THE MACHINE--Humanism and Science.

Ideas of Lewis Mumford and his challenge of the myth of inevitable progress will be discussed.

"Wonder" will be the service theme.

AUG. 20--IDEOLOGY AND INSANITY--Humanism and Mental Health.

The discussion will center on the ideas of humanist psychiatrist Thomas Szasz, who has asked if "insanity is a political category, designed to enable psychiatric policemen to enforce a conformist society." The service theme will be "humanism."

AUG. 27--THE GRANDEES--Humanism and Jewishness.

Discussion in the finale of the series will take up the new Stephen Birmingham book about the American Jewish aristocracy. "Brotherhood" will be the theme of the service.

Davis' speech is the first in a series of four activities.

On Monday, Aug. 2, a class on "Reincarnation, Karma and Astrology" will be taught. It will deal with subtle forces which regulate creation and how to work in harmony with the forces of nature and function as a free soul.

The following night a second

Craig Fox Ordination Scheduled

Craig Fox, youth minister of the Memorial Church of Christ, will be ordained to the Christian ministry at the church's 10 a.m. worship hour Sunday, Aug. 1.

Included in the service will be a sermon by Rev. Fox, the laying on of hands and prayer by elders of the congregation, and a charge delivered by Thomas Fox, father of the candidate and an elder of the Memorial church.

Max Copeland, senior minister of the congregation, will preside at the service.

The candidate is a graduate of Redford High School in Detroit and the Great Lakes Bible College in Lansing. He has served as youth minister of the Memorial church since November 1968.

The Memorial Church of Christ is located at 35475 Five Mile Road, Livonia.

MEMBERS OF THE CONGREGATION looked on as the cornerstone of the new Prince of Peace Lutheran sanctuary was put in place by Walter Rungert (left), building superintendent, and the Rev. Victor Mesenbring, pastor of the Farmington church.

Prince Of Peace Church Lays New Cornerstone

With the cornerstone officially in place, work is proceeding on a new contemporary sanctuary for the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 12 Mile and Farmington Road in Farmington.

The ceremony to lay the cornerstone took place after morning worship Sunday, July 25.

Some 300 members of the 175-family parish participated in the rites led by the Rev. Victor Mesenbring, pastor of the church.

The new building will seat 380 worshipers in a square area that will permit on three sides of the chancel area.

A free-standing triangular altar will be encircled by an altar rail.

The facility, designed by the architectural firm of Merritt, Cole and McCallum of Farmington, also will provide additional classroom space for the church's educational program.

General contractor is Wetterau Builder, Inc., of St. Louis.

Maria Schmitz Earns High Degree

Maria Schmitz, Westland resident and director of music at Faith Lutheran Church in Livonia, now holds the degree of Fellow in the American Guild of Organists.

Passing the comprehensive examinations in June, Mrs. Schmitz became one of only four persons in the Detroit metropolitan area to have attained the degree roughly equivalent to a doctorate.

She previously had held the degree of associate -- equivalent to a master's -- in the guild.

THE NEW achievement, enabling her to use the letters FAGO after her name, involves both a key board proficiency test, and eight hours of written examination.

"I had passed the keyboard part in 1952," Mrs. Schmitz said. "This was my third try on the written part and thank God I passed. Yes, I mean it just that way -- I know God has given me what talent I possess."

THE KEYBOARD test she passed included sight reading, transposition, harmonization, and improvisation.

In the written section she had to accomplish such musical feats as writing a motet in the style of Palestrina, compose a fugue and a string quartet and orchestrate a keyboard passage for a full orchestra.

Mrs. Schmitz is organist for all services at Faith Lutheran, 30000 Five Mile, and also directs several choirs for varied age groups.

Yoga Lectures Slated

"The Power and Glory of Soul Realization" will be discussed by Roy Eugene Davis, world-famed teacher of Yoga Meditation, at 8 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 1, in the Northland Community Center Auditorium.

Sponsored by St. Timothy Abbey Church in Warren, class will be offered on the "The Path of the Initiate" dealing with how to use mind and creative powers and working under inspiration.

The two classes will be offered for $10 per person or $15 for a married couple at 8 p.m. in the Northland auditorium. Students under 21 will be admitted at half price.

On the final evening, Wednesday, Aug. 4, a Kriya Yoga Initiation will be held. The candlelight service explores Kriya Yoga, a meditation technique which can help calm the mind and harmonize life forces in the body.

Davis is a personal disciple of the Paramahansa Yogananda and authored nine inspirational books.

With that goal in mind, two evangelists are carrying their appeal to youngsters with a musical park at Cherry Hill and Merriman.

Explaining the program for the Observer were Rev. Larry Riley of Garden City, an evangelist with the Assembly of God, and Rev. Roger Thomassen assistant pastor of the Bethel Missionary Assembly of God at 8900 Middle Belt, near Joy Rd., Livonia.

THE BACKGROUNDS of some of the teenagers in the choir include those who had drug problems or other social problems, were without Christian training or knowledge of the Bible, Rev. Riley said.

"But then they met Christ and their lives were changed," he added.

HE SAID that the festival program is similar to the new "Jesus Movement" spreading across the country and described it as "a high which you don't come down from -- Jesus Christ is always there and always satisfying."

"We are after any youngsters with hangups," Riley said.

He and Thomassen pointed out that the Joyful Sounds will perform mostly gospel music with some solos and guitar selections.

THEY STRESSED that the move to reach young people outside the church structure is to let those people know that "we are not old church people trying to jam Christianity down their throats."

Rev. Riley, who lives at 31037 Florence, Garden City, knows what he is talking about when he says that youngsters need help.

It was only within the past decade that the 25-year-old clergyman used to go to Garden City's high school drunk "or take a bottle with me and get drunk at school."

He also used to mix diet pills with his alcohol -- "that's my high."

THAT WAS his pattern of life until he was 19 or 20 years old and he admitted being a heavy drinker even after he was married.

"There was no real substance to my life and my life was just wasting away."

THEY STRESSED that the move to reach young people outside the church structure is to let those people know that "we are not old church people trying to jam Christianity down their throats."

Rev. Riley, who lives at 31037 Florence, Garden City, knows what he is talking about when he says that youngsters need help.

It was only within the past decade that the 25-year-old clergyman used to go to Garden City's high school drunk "or take a bottle with me and get drunk at school."

He also used to mix diet pills with his alcohol -- "that's my high."

THAT WAS his pattern of life until he was 19 or 20 years old and he admitted being a heavy drinker even after he was married.

"There was no real substance to my life and my life was just wasting away."

IN EXPLAINING the need for troubled young people to attend Tuesday's song fest, Riley said:

"I know what it's like on the other side -- I've been there."

He recalled that two of his Garden City high school buddies -- "old drinking pals" -- were suicide victims.

"There is a reality, an experience and a way of life when God comes and lives in your heart," Riley said.

"There is a turmoil among young people in American and Jesus Christ is the only answer -- I found out it's the only answer and it works."

RILEY AND Thomassen said that the primary reason for the Garden City festival is to have the "church go out and find people with problems since we can't expect them to come to us on Sunday morning."

They stressed that they are not pushing church membership as such but do want the youngsters to go to their own church.

"We want them to meet Jesus Christ and let him make the change in their lives," the pair said.

"Rhythm, rap, and reason -- that's the theme for the festival," said the two clergymen.

At the festival, several young people with the choir will tell of their experiences with drugs and local teens are encouraged to informally talk with the choir members.

'Last-Day' Picnic Set

A "last-day" picnic will be one of the highlights of this year's Vacation Church School at Newburg United Methodist Church, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, Livonia. Parents will be invited to the picnic, and there will be a program for parents Aug. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

The school, called Summer Children's Festival, will be from Aug. 2 to 6 and Aug. 9 to 13. Classes will be from 9:30 to 11:45 a.m., except for the last day when it will run to 12:30 p.m.

Children from age two through grade six will enjoy singing, outings, games, a carnival, crafts and talks. All children in the area are invited to attend. Registrations should be made at the church office.

The total Roman Catholic population of the United States in 1969 was 47,873,238.

Weather Good For Black Bass

Southeastern Michigan's moderately warm weather has been good to fishermen. Especially to a chap named Jerry Blocker, of Ann Arbor, who caught a state record largemouth black bass. Blocker, fishing an unidentified Oakland County lake, caught a monster of 26 7/8 inches weighing 12 pounds, one ounce.

This topped the old record, caught in 1934, by two ounces. Such lunkers are more common in the southern U.S. than in Michigan. The reason is that bass become almost dormant when the water temperature drops below 50 degrees, and so Michigan literally has a shorter "growing" season.

Good lakes for bass, according to conservation officers, have been Union (several over 17 inches), Orion, Pontiac, Orchard, White and Oxbow, and even Belleville in Wayne County has produced some.

Most inland lakes are producing bluegills, which have moved now into the deeper waters.

Meanwhile, conservation men said last week's rains temporarily relieved the high fire hazards, but the wood will dry out again quickly unless there is more rain.

Many fires are occurring along interstate highways because careless smokers are failing to use their ashtrays.

Webster Back

Former Michigan State football great George Webster, now of the Houston Oilers, is completing course work at his alma mater and helped the Spartan grid staff in spring drills.

BASKETBALL IN AUGUST. That's the story Monday at Northland Center when Coach Bill van Breda Kolff (left) and Jimmy Walker, of the Detroit Pistons, head a 90-minute clinic. A second clinic will be held at Westland Center on Monday, Aug. 9. Walker and van Breda Kolff will be joined by other members of the squad. The programs are open to the public and all young basketballers are urged to attend.

Four Area Teams Make Bids For Berths In State Tourney

Four Observerland teams start bids this week for state Connie Mack League baseball honors.

Three winners of divisional titles in the Greater Livonia League and Southfield American Legion team, as runnerup in the 18th District League, have earned spots in Mack district meets to be staged at Trenton, Lincoln Park and Ann Arbor.

The action begins Tuesday with each district conducted on a two-defeat and out basis.

Warholak Uniroyal Tire (Redford Union), the national League champ in the Greater Livonia League, will play in the district at Elizabeth Park in Trenton.

Warholak has drawn the Downriver Legion National champions as its first opponent at 5 p.m. Tuesday. The other Tuesday game matched the Detroit Legion East champ vs. Monroe.

Host Trenton will have the fifth team in the tournament.

FIVE TEAMS are also entered in the Lincoln Park district in which Redford Township Thurston, the International League champ in Livonia, has drawn the Downriver Legion American champ at 5:15 on the high school diamond.

Lincoln Park will have two teams and the Detroit Legion West the other team at Lincoln Park.

Southfield and National Pride (Franklin High) the latter the American League king in Livonia, are entered at Ann Arbor.

Southfield has drawn the strong Motor City team from Detroit while National Pride will take on host Ann Arbor in Tuesday action at 6:15 and 8 p.m., respectively.

Wayne and Intra City round out the field at Ann Arbor.

Each district champion will advance to the North Central regional at Marshall on Aug. 12-15.

Eight teams will make up the field at Marshall—district champs from Ann Arbor, Pennfield, Flint, Wyandotte, Kalamazoo, Trenton and Lincoln Park, plus the host team.

2 Sorrows Coaches Accept New Posts

Coaches Bob Kelley and Bob Morris, who lost their jobs when Our Lady of Sorrows closed its high school in June, have found new positions.

They won't be leaving the teaching or the coaching profession as each feared, what with the tight situation in the schools when it comes to hiring new teachers.

Kelley, who led Sorrows to football and baseball titles in his six years at Sorrows, has accepted the post as assistant football coach in charge of defense at Rochester High.

He'll work under Dick Ullrich, newly appointed head man at Rochester after serving as an assistant for several years at Royal Oak Kimball.

Morris, a seven year member of the Sorrows staff, has been named head basketball coach at Ithaca High in the center of the state. He'll also assist in football.

At Sorrows, Morris was head basketball and track coach and also helped with the football team.

Southfield, Farmington Netters Win

Three netters from Southfield and Farmington won championships in the annual Lathrup Village novice tennis tournament and qualified for district play over the weekend in Detroit on Aug. 7 and 8. Judy Stillman, of Southfield, defeated Linda Kaplan (Southfield) in the women's singles, 10-1.

Mike Curhan (Southfield), who attends Lederle Junior High, downed Howie Goldman (Southfield), 10-8, in the boys' finals.

Steve Allender (Farmington) won the men's singles crown with a 10-4 victory over Mark Goodman (Southfield).

The field included 34 entries in boys, 12 in men's and eight in women's.

Old Sprinter

Homer Heard, Wayne State University's "senior citizen of the sprint lanes" at 28, posted his fastest 100-yard dash time ever in 1971 with an :09.4 clocking in WSU Stadium.

Eight young bowlers from the Metropolitan Detroit area have won places on the All-State teams announced this week by the Michigan Youth Bowling Association.

Of the eight, the girls won five of the honored positions and, for the first time, outdid the boys for the mythical honors that are determined on a point basis in all facets of the YBA program.

Heading the group are Ann Kenburg and Laura Ryckman, of Southfield. Ann was chosen on the major girls quintet and Laura was named captain of the junior squad.

With them on the honor roll are Vicky Hurdlow, of Thunderbird Lanes in Troy, Colleen Flynn, of Farmington Lanes and Lisa Caruana, of Roosevelt Lanes in Allen Park.

The three boys chosen are Mark Kielb, of Beacon Recreation in Detroit; James Nickols and John Di Gasbarro, of Roosevelt Lanes in Allen Park.

It marked the first time that the Detroit area was shut out in the two top divisions—major and juniors.

"This comes as no surprise," Fred Hamlin, of Farmington Lanes, remarked when informed of the selections, "It used to be that the Detroit dominated junior bowling—but no more."

"One of the greatest strides bowling has made in Michigan is the development of the juniors in the outstate areas. This is due to the development of good coaches and the work of the past few years is now paying dividends. And this makes things much more interesting."

The members of the all-state teams will be feted along with all tournament winners in the annual Parade of Champions in the Lansing Civic Center on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 8.

More than 1,000 young bowlers will be honored, making this the largest bowling dinner of the year in the nation.

AMONG THOSE who'll be receiving special awards at the YBA dinner will be the conductor of this column who is to receive the annual Press Award. Along with him, George Stehle, of Sturgis Bowl, will be honored as "The Bowling Proprietor of the Year."

THOSE WHO claim it is more difficult to bowl a 298 or 299 game than a 300 will have some support for their arguments in the figures just released by the Greater Detroit Bowling Association.

In the bowling year that closed Friday, 50 perfect games were registered against only 21 counts of 298 and 25 games of 299—with more than 130,000 bowlers taking aim at the pins each week.

Membership in the Greater Detroit Bowling Association registered a slight gain during the year, jumping from 132,266 members in 3,088 leagues to 132,728 members in 3129 leagues.

With these figures Detroit is one of the leading centers in the nation again.

ONE OF THE GAME'S greatest boosters passed from the bowling scene last Tuesday morning when Clarence Schmidt, long time secretary of the Old-Timers Association, succumbed to a long illness.

For years he was the major-domo of the Old-Timers Tournament and recently was elected fourth vice-president of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association.

THEY'RE IN a quandy at Bel-Aire Lanes in Farmington.

For the past several weeks the top scorers have faltered in the final game after getting away to good starts and no one can explain why.

This week, for instance, Don Levoska, bowling in the Kings and Queens League, fell to a closing game of 134 after posting counts of 235 and 235.

Bertha Simonsen followed suit in the Bermuda Shorts league when she opened with a 205, followed with a 203 and then closed with a 162.

It happened even among the younger bowlers when Dave Shibels, a 17-year-old competing in the men's circuit had games of 218 and 216 only to fall to 121 in his closing effort.

Meanwhile Joe Guthrie paced the men's junior House League with an even 600 gained on games of 224, 195 and 181. Joan Crespi was high gun among the women with a 190 in a 539 series.

JIM JENKINS flirted with one of the highest triplicates of the year at Country Lanes. He opened with a 198, then came back with a 197, and closed with a 199 for a 594.

High man for the week was Jim Haddad in the Men's Trio competition. He had games of 214, 255 and 171 for a 640 series.

BEA BAKER, one of the most ardent bowlers at Westland Bowl reached her first major goal last Tuesday morning when she fired a 201 in the "Super-Stars" league. It was the first 200 game of her career.

Margie Brothers and Ev Hubble share women's honors for the summer. Margie has high series with a 595 and Ev posted a 235 for high game.

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD Carl Ausland, who has been bowling for nine years and carries a 150 average shot his way into first place in the Father & Son League at Merri-Bowl.

To get there he linked games of 175, 208 and 182 for a 565.

Southfield Hosts Colt Meet Tuesday

It'll be Play Ball starting Tuesday afternoon in the Colt League regional baseball tournament at Southfield's Civic Center.

Three Michigan teams, plus one from Metropolitan Chicago, will play off in the two-defeat-and-out competition for the right to stay alive and advance to the divisional tournament the following week in Murray, Ky.

The divisional winner then enters the Colt League World Series to be held at Lafayette, Ind., home of Purdue University.

AS THE HOST TEAM, Southfield-Lathrup automatically has been seeded into the regional tournament.

Thus, Southfield was able to bypass the district a week ago and the sectional playoff this weekend at North Farmington High School.

Two winners from North Farmington will move into the regional, along with the Chicago team, and, of course, Southfield-Lathrup.

Play at North Farmington began Friday with host North Farmington-West Bloomfield meeting Birmingham in one sectional, while St. Clair took on Mt. Pleasant in the other.

The winner of each series, also a two-defeat-and-out competition, earns the trip to Southfield a few miles away.

In the regional at Southfield, the Chicago winner will take on the St. Clair-Mt. Pleasant winner to get the proceedings going at 5 p.m. at the Civic Center Field.

Then in an 8 p.m. game under the lights it'll be Southfield-Lathrup vs. the Birmingham-North Farmington survivor.

On Wednesday, it'll be winner vs. winner from the first day while the two Tuesday losers will struggle to stay alive in the other Wednesday game.

The Wednesday time schedule also will be 5 and 8 p.m. as will be the case on Thursday.

If necessary, a game will be played at 2:30 p.m. Friday to decide the championship, although it's possible for everything to be over by Thursday evening.

"We're naturally elated to have a tournament like this for Southfield and the area," said Ivor James, who is in charge of the festivities.

COLT LEAGUE baseball is for boys 15-16 years of age and in the tournament, the best from the various teams which make up a participating league are selected.

Thus, each team has an all-star unit on the field in the tournament, which is the case in Pony and Little League meets, as well.

Al Dwight has been named to manage the Southfield-Lathrup Colts while Ed Watkins will serve as the coach and Jack Levitt the team's business manager.

No admission will be charged at any of the Colt tournament games, but James said a hat would be passed to help collect money which will be used to defray the various expenses.

HERE ARE the players on the Southfield-Lathrup Colt All Stars:

Bob Howard, outfielder (Twins); Alex Schaap, infielder (Sox); Shaye Raminick, outfielder (Reds); Scott Hoeft, catcher, (Phillies); Steve Wilkinson, infielder, (Twins); Jack Both, pitcher-infielder (Twins); Mark Smith, outfielder-pitcher (Orioles); Craig Dwight, infielder, (Phillies); Craig James, infielder, (Orioles); Tom Spitz, pitcher-outfielder, (Phillies); Scot Lukas, infielder, (Phillies); Mike Kelmigian, infielder, (Twins); Joe Sanders, catcher, (Orioles); Jay Pohjola, pitcher-outfielder, (Sox); Ron Dunkel, pitcher-outfielder, (Orioles).

Meantime, in the Colt sectional-state tournament at North Farmington High, play was to continue Saturday and there'll be action Sunday, if necessary, to decide either or both of the crowns.

Thurston Wins Mack Honors

For the second straight year, Thurston rules as the Greater Livonia League's overall Connie Mack champs.

Thurston along with National Pride (Churchill) and Warholak (Redford Union) carried off divisional titles which earned them the right to playoff for the league crown and spots in this week's state district tournaments.

National Pride drew Warholak and won while Thurston rested until Thursday when it turned back National Pride, in the short series' finale.

STEVE KREAGER turned in a four hitter and fanned seven for Thurston as home runs figured in all the runs.

Ben Fontani socked one with Bob Ghannam aboard following an error in the second inning for Thurston.

Then in the Thurston third, Dennis Poppenger homered. After Don Murdock walked, Ghannam delivered the third round tripper.

Steve Chilenko accounted for the only National Pride run when he slapped a homer in the sixth.

Ken Woods pitched for National Pride. He gave up five hits; but three of them were homers.

NATIONAL PRIDE earned the finals of the All Greater Livonia Connie Mack League finals by downing Warholak 3-0 in a battle of Franklin and Redford Union Highs, 3-0.

Mike Keller hurled for the winners and allowed only one hit. At one stage he retired 19 batters in a row to best Bill Becker who gave up eight hits and struck out 10.

National Pride took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Mike DeRoche, Mick Crom and Bruce Van Wagoner singled to load the bases and DeRoche scored on a wild pitch.

Roy Henriksson was safe on an error and scored Pride's second run on a double by DeRoche in the fifth inning.

In the seventh Bob Blaise walked and Steve Chilenko

TITLE BOUND is the Thurston team in the Greater Livonia Connie Mack League after Bob Ghannam sprints over the plate for his team's second home run. He hit one earlier and was the big reason for Thurston's 5-1 victory over National Pride. The win earned Thurston a spot in the three-division league championship playoffs. Adray Champs Slate Loop Playoff Series Plymouth Bidwell or Westland Cleaners?

That was the only question which remained to be settled on the eve of the start of the Greater Livonia Adray League baseball playoffs.

Defending champion Redford won the first round of this year's play...Northville Reef the second.

But it was Plymouth vs. Westland in a showdown Friday as each took a 6-0 third round record in the finale.

The winner advances with Redford and Northville into the league playoffs slated to start Sunday.

The overall champion moves into the state Adray meet with the stake a trip to Altoona, Pa., for the All America Boys tournament.

PLYMOUTH BIDWELL made it six straight after a 2-8

Adray start by downing North Farmington, 10-2, Wednesday as Westland picked up a forfeit victory from Garden City which dropped out of the league.

Randy Van Gasse hurled for Plymouth, allowing four hits. He had a no-hitter going until Pat Hickey doubled in the fourth for North Farmington.

Then two singles followed to account for the losers' runs.

Wayne Williams led Bidwell with a single and double and four runs batted in.

Bidwell scored three times in the second inning on a walk to Steve Chilenko and singles by Bob Waldon, Howie Schryer and Gary Croskey. Two more runs came in the fourth on a walk and singles by Dennis Becker and Williams.

In the fifth Bidwell wrapped it up with five runs, thanks to four walks, an error and bases loaded triple by Williams which sent in the final three runs.

Redford turned back Northville, 6-2, in a tuneup for the playoffs. Kirk Taylor went all the way and Tim Fox struck two big blows, a three-run homer and a triple with two on.

Hubert, Royals Win In Playoffs

Livonia Hubert and Crowe Royals (Livonia Bentley High) were first round winners in the Greater Livonia Connie Mack League playoffs.

Hubert squeezed past Franklin, 3-2, with a seventh inning run while Crowe out-bombed West Bloomfield, 10-8, in the single-defeat-and-out tournament.

MIKE GEE gave up two hits and fanned 14 in winning for Hubert.

He had a no-hitter going until Fallow singled and scored on a run in the sixth inning. Then a single by Burke, an error and grounder led to the second Franklin run in the seventh.

Meantime, Hubert scored once in the fourth when Randy Hickerson doubled and Mark Tressler singled.

In the fifth, Jerry Laird singled and scored on Fred Webb's single. The winning run came home when Laird tripped and Tom See singled in the seventh.

Bill Duncan in relief of Brian Dinsmore was the winning pitcher for Crowe as John Sprietzer socked a homer and Steve Houghton lashed out three hits and drove home five runs.

A five run, fourth inning settled the game. Ken Grant and Duncan singled and Al Hernandez walked to load the bases.

Pat Perino's single scored two runs and two more came in on a squeeze by Bob Sitkauskas. Then Houghton singled in the fifth run of the inning.

Big Leaguer

Tiger Outfielder Al Kaline never played a game in the minor leagues. He signed with the Bengals after graduating from high school in 1953 and has been with Detroit ever since.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Dgc Minard

Michigan's racing scene will make two rapid shifts before the middle of next week with the Detroit Race Course ringing down the curtain on its 120 day thoroughbred meeting Saturday and Northville Downs presenting its finest and richest card in history Saturday to conclude activities for its final weekend.

Then the scene shifts crosstown to Hazel Park which opens a 120-day meeting Monday while the pacers and trotters will continue through Tuesday at the 'Downs and open a 76-night session at Wolverine Raceway Wednesday.

SELDOM HAS Metropolitan Detroit seen such contrasts in meetings as that at the DRC and Northville Downs. The first mentioned is concluding one of the poorest meetings in years with wagering and attendance down some 10 per cent from record figures of a year ago.

Northville, on the other hand, is following the path of Jackson Raceway with its best campaign in its 28-year history. Both handle and turnstile count are the highest ever and better figures for 1970 when the track shattered all previous marks.

The contrast continued through the closing days and nights of the two meetings where Northville put up purses of $35,000 for its final Saturday program...most ever. The DRC closed with a very average program after slashing all purses and dropping its final four stakes.

Heading tonight's Northville program is a $12,000 invitational pace. That's the most money ever offered for an overnight at a Michigan harness track.

The seven starters in the Invitational comprise one of the finest fields ever assembled in the Motor City.

WITH BREADMAN George, who tied the current track record 2:00.4 a month ago, among the starters along with Windy Way, the speedy three-year-old from the Bobby Williams stable, there is an excellent chance the record will be shattered.

Windy Way, who won the $100,000 Realization in New York in early spring, has been under 2:00 three times this year and might be the one to give the 'Downs its first sub-2:00 mile.

Most certainly the competition is there for the other challengers include: Shiaway Lad, Prince Knox, Gaviland, Record Time and Michigan Mack.

Incidentally, Breadman George has a score to settle with Michigan Mack. It was Mack who upset The Breadman in the recent $40,000 futurity for four-year-olds at Croswell recently.

The card also lists a $5,000 preferred pace...it is an all-pace program...which drew such standouts as Johnny G, Shiawassee Squire, Peppy Relco, El Patron, Shiaway Dream, Ebony's Bachelor and Winter Dean.

And that's only a small part of the bill of fare. It could be just about the most interesting of the season thus far.

GENERAL MANAGER Frank Stepek expects big things in the 120-day thoroughbred meeting which opens at the Hazel Park Race Track Monday.

"We are looking forward to a very successful meeting," he beams. "We are frankly optimistic. We predict that the quality of the average racing 'stock' will be better than it has ever been."

"We are getting fresh horses from Nebraska, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Illinois and Kentucky, among other places. We will have many fine stables, plus many stables that have excelled in other years."

"Horsemen like the track, and they like the facilities at Hazel Park, too. We have always treated them well, and the purses are good. We'll have the horses we need for a first-rate meeting."

The track has a total minimum purse of $3,000, with $270,000 in stakes and an unprecedented total of $4,000,000 in purses. High point of the meeting will be the $50,000 added Michigan Derby Saturday, Sept. 18.

TRACK OFFICIALS have poured millions of dollars into refurbishing and expanding the whole track complex in recent years. The result is that today Hazel Park is one of the most modern and complete racing plants in North America.

Horsemen especially like the racing surface, built on a limestone base that provides fast drainage and better-than-average footing in any weather.

The meeting will continue through Dec. 18, the first time that the thoroughbreds have ever run in December in Michigan. What does Stepek think of that?

"In a state where the sport is so popular, winter racing is inevitable," he says. "We're ready for it. With our enclosed lower grandstand and our clubhouse, we have ample room for more than 20,000 fans to enjoy the races in heated comfort. Our barns are winterized and we have a great all-weather racing strip. The winter racing will be just great."

Mark Falls

Senior Tim Rudolph and sophomores Ron Warren and Paul Clark were members of Wayne State University's mile and 440 yard relay teams in 1971 which set a school mark of 3:13.9 in the former and equalled a 22 year old record of :41.7 in the latter.

Coho Run May Begin Sooner

Michigan's annual fall coho salmon runs may begin a month early this year in Lake Superior and northern Lake Michigan, reports the state Department of Natural Resources.

The expectation is based on last fall's planting of 500,000 Alaskan cohos in some of the state's northern streams. These fish spawn a month earlier than the popular Oregon strain of cohos which provide exciting fishing in late September and October.

FISHERIES specialists of the DNR are optimistic about the experiment with the Alaskan strain. They point to the success of limited introductions into Thompson Creek near Manistique the past three years.

These cohos have produced spectacular fishing in August at the mouth of the stream and along the Lake Michigan shore where fishermen wade out to catch them.

Of the half-million Alaskan cohos planted in the fall of last year, 150,000 went into Lake Superior waters - 50,000 each in the Falls, Anna, and Dead Rivers.

Plantings in upper peninsula Lake Michigan waters included 25,000 in Whitefish River, 73,100 in Thompson Creek, and 25,000 in the Manistique River.

For Lake Michigan in the lower peninsula, 50,000 went into the Bear River, 25,000 into Porter Creek, 100,000 into Brewery Creek and 50,000 into the Little Manistee River. Lake Huron's Carp River received 50,000 Alaskan cohos.

20-Year-Old Gets An Ace At Brooklane

Ken Oran, 20, of Birmingham, found the Brooklane golf course just what he has been looking for.

Ken used a nine-iron on the 144-yard, No. 4 hole and then watched in amazement as the high pitched shot hit on the green and dropped into the cup for an ace.

It was his first and he had a 32 for the round. It was the 10th of the season for the course.

Ken was playing with Kevin Brown and Paul Jamerson, both of Birmingham.

Judith Ports Is Bride

Judith Ann Ports wore an off-white gown of imported silk organza when she became the bride of Alfred Walter Kearns in a July 24 ceremony in Nardin Park United Methodist Church in Farmington.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Preston Wesley Ports and Mrs. Clara Lewis Ports, formerly of Halstead Road in Farmington. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kruger of Marine City are parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Meridith T. Moshauer heard the couple's vows, and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

VENISE LACE trimmed the bodice and sleeves of the bride's gown and edged her double-cathedral mantilla veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Five attendants wore floor-length powder blue empire gowns with embroidered lace trim and matching headpieces. All carried blue pomps, white daisies and blue starflowers.

Mrs. Preston W. Ports Jr. was matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Daniel C. Wertenberg of Middletown, Ohio, sister of the bride, Barbara J. Ports, another sister and Mrs. Gary Roehring of Marine City, sister of the bridegroom.

More Americans Are Now Buying Better Used Cars

If you're on the trail of a used car, welcome to the near-record number of Americans who are settling for less-than-new as the tight money solution to their transportation needs.

The demand has made the good ones as rare as precious metal and finding the "one-owner, only on Sunday beauty" is proving as elusive as Chicago Bear halfback, Gayle Sayers in an open field.

Like gold, good used cars are where you find them. You can cut down the search time, however, and avoid buying somebody else's problem by looking where they are most likely to be.

Your best bet is the used car lot of a franchised new car dealer. There are several good reasons why this is true, according to Glenn L. Nise, a field operations manager for Dodge Division of Chrysler Corporation.

Nise says, "Nearly all used cars come on the market because the owner is trading it in on another car. If it's a late model car more than likely he is trading for a newer one with a franchised dealer. That means dealers get first crack at most of the late model cars available for resale."

Besides having first call on most late model used cars, Nise lists other reasons why the good ones will be found on a dealers lot.

"We advise our dealers to wholesale questionable cars that could come back to haunt them and to junk the obvious 'dogs.' This way the overall quality of the cars on our dealers' lots is going to be well above average."

"Second, he has the parts, facilities and skilled mechanics to put a car in first class condition. He does not have to subcontract this work, or try to get by without it. This is even more important

Safety Belts Still Important To Passenger Survival Odds

American drivers are, in large number, fooling themselves into disregarding the biggest single step they take to improve their own survival odds in case of an automobile crash, says the National Safety Council.

Harry Porter, Jr., NSC traffic safety director, pointed out that "the best estimates indicate at least 8,000 to 10,000 lives a year would be saved if every car occupant wore his safety belts, every time he got into a car."

"Beyond question," Porter said, "the full use even of the old fashioned lap belts would have a massive effect in saving lives and preventing injuries. And now that combination lap-and-shoulder belts are

Motorists Fool Themselves About Own Vehicle Safety

If the results of a survey just released by the U.S. Department of Transportation are any indication, many motorists are deluding themselves about the safe mechanical condition of their cars.

Three quarters of the 14,500 motorists surveyed described their cars as "very safe," yet vehicle inspection reports show over half the cars on the road need repairs to restore them to safe mechanical condition.

Twelve percent of the motorists answering the D.O.T. questionnaire called their cars only "somewhat" safe.

The study, conducted by Intertek Transportation Research Division, Scranton, Pa., involved a representative sampling of car owners in 50 states. Purpose of the survey was to determine the attitudes and habits of the motoring public, as related to vehicle maintenance.

Significant among the findings disclosed by DOT: people who are relatively knowledgeable about their cars report 1/2 to 1/3 fewer accidents or near-accidents due to mechanical trouble than those who are not. The report also shows that the more knowledgeable owner is more likely to be conscientious about car care.

How do people feel about car care as it relates to safety? Eighty-six percent of those surveyed believed that regular maintenance helps prevent accidents. Ninety-one percent agreed that all states should have compulsory vehicle inspection.

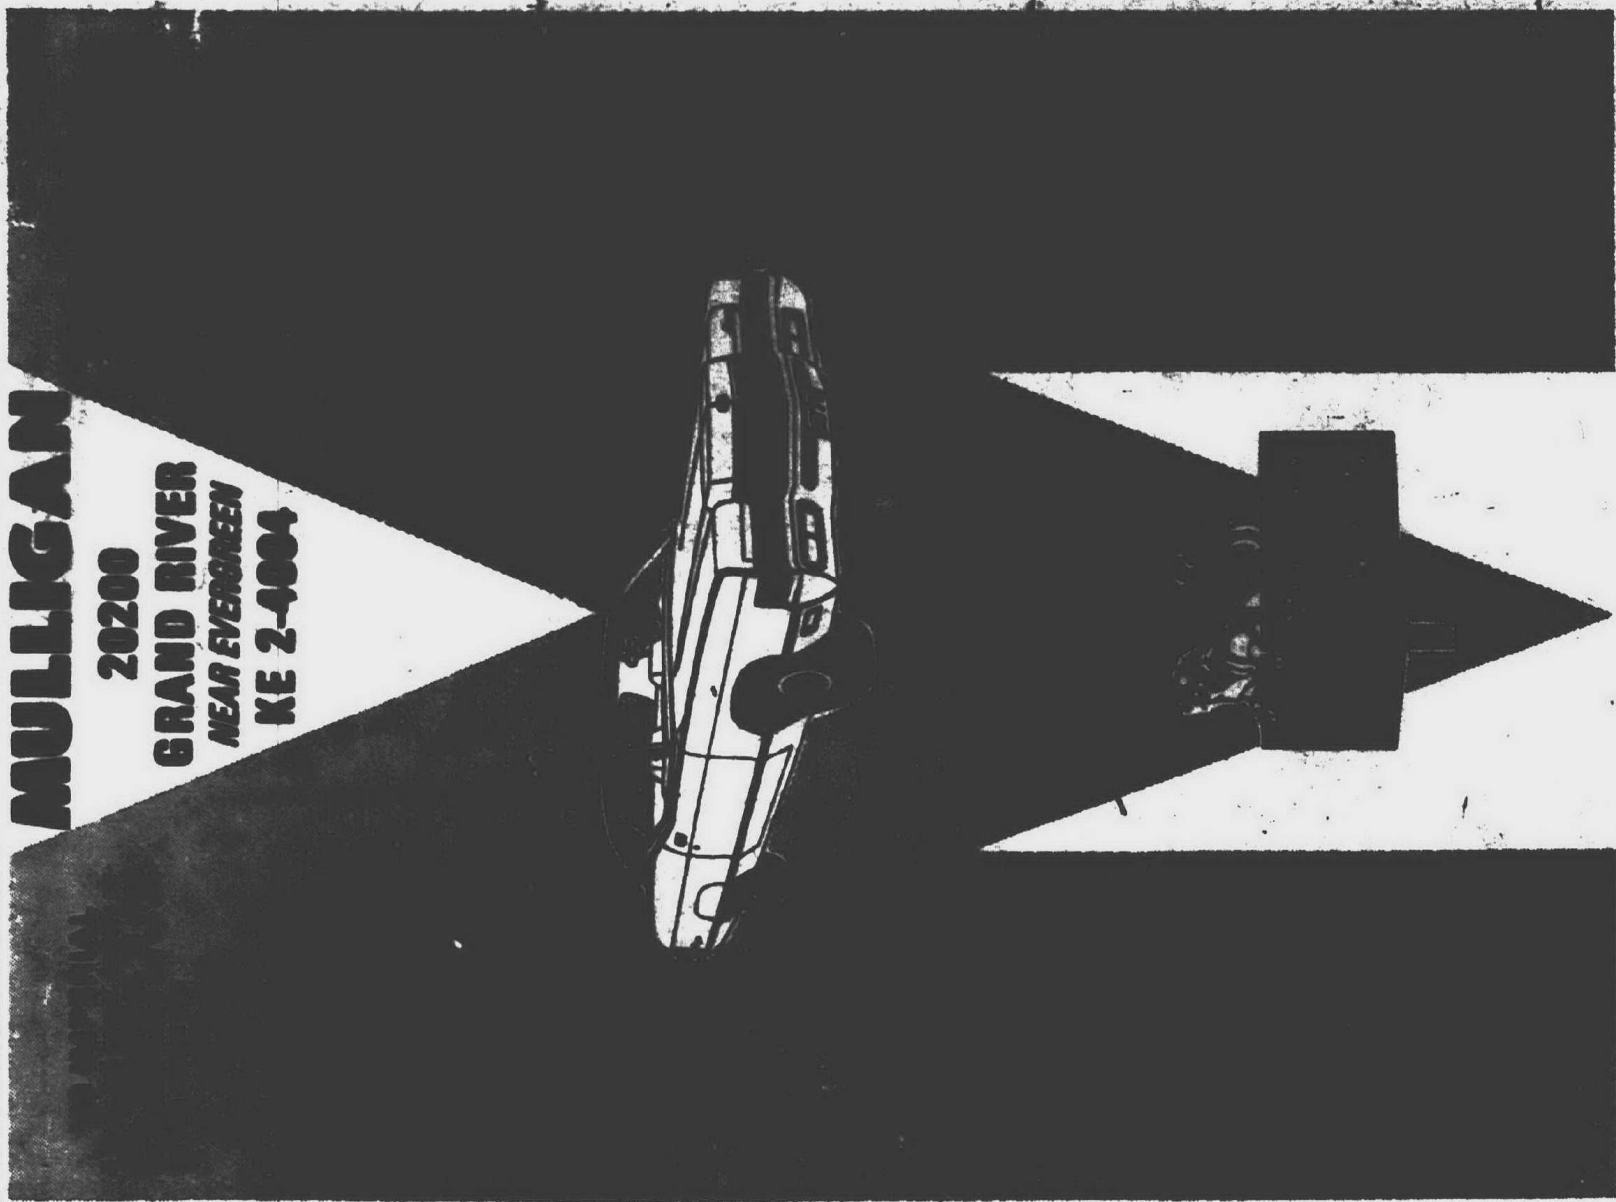

When asked where they obtained information about keeping their cars in safe mechanical condition, 36 percent said they draw upon their own knowledge. Twenty-eight percent relied upon their mechanics for their information. Twenty-two percent said their primary source was their owners manual.

Eight out of ten correctly answered all questions related to mechanical knowledge of the car.

Women appear to be more conscientious about regular car maintenance than men, and they reflect more concern for automobile safety, according to Dr. Harold L. Henderson, Intertek's Principal Investigator on the study.

"While female respondents reported having their cars checked more frequently, they did not rely on their own knowledge of these checks or for decisions on car maintenance. Their main source of expertise was service station and garage mechanics."

"If the general public could be successfully educated," he concludes, "then we could expect a considerable reduction in defect-related accidents among owners who, at present, lack adequate knowledge."

Gain More Tire Mileage

Most of us realize we lose tire mileage by driving too fast, but surprisingly few of us know how much we lose.

If we knew, most of us would think twice before we step on the accelerator on those open stretches of highways and deserted country roads.

Studies show that a motorist traveling at 60 miles an hour wears down the tread of his tires 34 per cent faster than he does at 50 miles an hour. At 65 miles an hour, tires wear out 50 per cent faster.

However, using the same 50-mile-an-hour comparison, if you drive at 45 miles an hour, you get an 18 per cent tire mileage bonus. At 40 miles an hour, this bonus goes up to 40 per cent.

It's not that a tire simply wears faster when it is revolving at a higher speed. Rather, it is subject to many more stresses and greater impact damage at higher speeds than at lower speeds.

Check your tire pressure at least once a month. Do this when tires are cold, because even driving a few miles causes the air inside to heat up and expand and throw your reading off.

POLLUTION PREVENTION--Ford's "little white box" detects auto emissions and is one of the company's 10 specific commitments in the war on smog. In addition to checking the degree of two types of exhaust, the box helps auto technicians determine which engine adjustments are needed and indicates whether his adjustments are adding or decreasing exhaust emissions.

'White Box' Analyzes Exhaust Gas

A "little white box" has been made available by Ford Motor Company to its dealers and independent garages. The box provides a quick analysis of auto exhaust gases.

The 40-pound device--the size of an overnight suitcase--makes use of ultra-violet rays to determine the amount of carbon monoxide in exhaust gases. Filters and traps separate unburned hydrocarbons for measurement.

The service technician inserts a probe into the tailpipe while the car engine idles. Two meters on the device tell him whether exhaust emissions of either carbon monoxide or hydrocarbons are excessive. It also helps him determine which engine adjustments are needed and indicates whether his adjustments are adding to or cutting back exhaust emissions.

The device was developed to Ford requirements in laboratories of the company's Service Research Center in Dearborn and at the Corporate Research Center of Honeywell Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.

"Engine tuning and maintenance play a very important role in emission control," said Henry Ford II, chairman of the board.

"We will, therefore, make available to independent garages as well as to our own dealers a newly developed and greatly improved instrumentation system which measures hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions during steady-speed engine operation in a garage environment."

Electronic Diagnosis Helps Technicians Find Problems

How to handle the increased load? The automotive service industry has come up with several approaches to the solution, not the least of which is improved facilities, from building design to space-age equipment. Electronic instruments—tension, power equipment and specialized tools for mechanics to diagnose and correct car troubles in a fraction of the time it took just a few years ago. Imagine having four tires installed, wheels aligned and balanced—all during a lunch hour stop? Some Repairs Routine

Accident repairs which would have been prohibitively expensive if not for new equipment and training techniques ers with special problems requiring their service facilities. New training facilities. In 1960, there was one mechanic for every 60 cars. Today the ratio is over one to 90 and conservative estimates raise that figure to one mechanic for 120 cars during the present decade.

Electronic testing equipment makes it possible for a technician to analyze an engine's condition with extreme accuracy, pinpoint potential problems and correct them before they become major headaches.

Improved dissemination of information on new models, available to all service personnel, means that most routine maintenance operations can be handled by literally hundreds of thousands of service stations, garages and other outlets throughout the country. This helps to ease the load on franchised car dealers who then are able to accommodate customers with special problems requiring their service facilities.

Our Physical Fitness Award

Avery Greene (Vice President of Greene Motors) stands before the Volkswagen 100% guarantee and "Physical Fitness" emblem.

Smith explained that he traded it in, the two of them drove over to talk with Smith's salesman and inspect the 1967 V.W. Smith did not recognize his own former car but he admitted it was now every bit as shiny as his brand new car. The neighbor made a deal with the salesman and purchased Smith's trade-in.

Bang

The backfiring car almost seems a relic of bygone days. However, the modern car can backfire, the license plates to the too—the fuel mixture is too lean and the engine cold.

Car Lift Helps Service Check

The most important piece of equipment in any service station is the lift. It can raise a 5,000 pound car overhead at the flick of a finger.

What a boon it is to the mechanic who, in Dad's day, had to work under cars in a dark, greasy pit.

It is a boon to car owners, too, because the lift makes it possible for service station dealers to turn the three month oil change into a comprehensive inspection.

This check-up under your car should not be neglected. The American Petroleum Institute points out that cars are not on the lift as frequently today as they used to be. Little problems can go unnoticed until they become big problems unless you and your mechanic are watching for them.

Used Cars Made To Look Like New

Editor's Note: This story was written by a local car dealer to explain one type of warranty and also to give the used car buyer an inside look at the reconditioning that is done on every car before it goes on the lot.

Mr. Smith's new Volkswagen looked shiny and bright next to his 1967 model Volkswagen as the salesman unbolted his license was so shabby until he saw it along side of his new car.

The salesman, with the help of the used car appraiser, had noted these things about Mr. Smith's car, plus some additional repair work, at the time the new car deal was made. Nothing escapes the eye of a used car appraiser because he knows that the future buyer of a used car will find a problem if he does not find it first.

We at Greene Motors have a policy whereby we guarantee a used car 100% for a period of 30 days or 1,000 miles, whichever comes first, if the car passes our inspection program. This program covers the engine, transmission, rear axle, front axle assembly, brake system, and electrical system. Only when a car passes this inspection is it given our stamp of approval; a window sticker which describes our guarantee. We call it our "Physical Fitness Award."

To determine what is needed to be done with Mr. Smith's 1967 trade-in it first went into the service department for a complete electronic diagnosis, which Volkswagen appropriately "rub out" the finish of the entire car except for the right rear fender. This takes great skill so not to burn the finish and strip part of the car to determine if it needs to be repaired or replaced. The '67 trade-in needed a new set of brake linings, a new generator brushes, a tune-up, a lubrication and oil change and two new tires. The diagnosis noted all this, and the repairs were made the day after Mr. Smith traded the car in.

The dent was repaired in the right rear fender at our body shop, and then that fender was repainted. Now, the last step is the most important as to whether a used car sells quickly or not, because Mr. Smith's 1967 Volkswagen trade-in passed on their first impression, its appearance. If it looks sharp, they buy it.

The appearance reconditioning man is an artist only three days after it started on the '67 V.W. Mr. Smith's new Volkswagen was noticed by his next door neighbor and vacuuming the interior and seats the 1967 model. When the trunk. Then who asked if he could buy the 1967 model. When the trunk. Then who asked if he could buy the 1967 model.

Three Types Of Tires Available

Tires are a lot prettier today than they were 20 years ago, but the really important changes and improvements have taken place where they can't be seen--inside the tires.

No longer is there only one construction. There are three tire constructions: conventional or bias-ply, bias-belted and radial-belted.

Bias-ply tires, the type that has been in nearly universal use in the United States until the past few years, have fabric plies or cords that crisscross underneath the tread rubber. This construction, which gives a soft ride, is still fine for motorists who do not expect extra-long tire mileage with prolonged high-speed driving. These tires are less costly than either bias-belted or radial-belted tires.

The third type of tire construction is the radial-belted. This type of tire was first introduced in America in a full range of sizes by B.F. Goodrich in 1965.

RADIALS do not have crisscrossing plies, but plies that are stretched radially or from bead to bead across the tire. This construction allows the sidewall to flex more easily, permitting more tread contact with the road, especially in rounding curves and in sharp cornering.

In radials, the belt under the tread is stronger and more stable than the belt in bias-belted tires. The strong radial belt assures optimum tread stability and gives added protection against road hazards. Radials tires should be broken in at speeds less than 60 miles an hour for the first 50 miles of driving.

If you plan to replace conventional tires with radials or "70" series tires (wide-tread tires), first check the automobile manufacturer's recommendations. Your car's wheel well clearances and rim sizes may prevent the use of some of the new, wide-profile tires.

WHEN YOU buy new tires, be certain they are the same or equivalent to the size recommended by the automobile manufacturer. Whatever construction you decide on, new tires should be broken in at speeds less than 60 miles an hour for the first 50 miles of driving.

Picture Tips For Car Shots

If a photo is to be taken from a car, it is always best to shoot from a stopped vehicle. If impossible to stop, it is best to shoot through the front window. If you shoot out of the side window, the foreground of the scene will be blurry.

Hold the camera as steady as possible (a rule in all situations) without bracing it against the car, as the vibrations will blur the picture.

OPEN LETTER to Used Car & Truck Buyers...

We at Tel-Twelve Dodge feel that it is unwise to pay too much but it's much worse to pay too little. When you pay too little, you sometimes lose everything, because the thing you bought was supposed to do. The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot - it can't be done. If you deal with the lowest bidder it is well to add something for the risk you take. And if you do that you will have enough to pay for something better. Do yourself a favor before you buy any car: Come in and just look at our car offerings.

Used Car Managers Tell How To Find A "Good Buy"

In days gone by, the used car buyer was greeted on the lot by a sharp talking hustler, smoking a big cigar and sporting a checkered suit coat. He gained the customer's confidence by giving him the "deal" he was "saving for his own mother."

Now, the average used car salesman dresses like an executive talks to the customer in three syllable words and can offer a guarantee to back up any "deal" he gives.

Time has changed the used car business in more ways than just the type of salesmen. The "1970 Buyers Guide Used Car Annual" says that "No other segment of the American economy can offer you more for your money than the used car market." For every person with a driver's license there is a car that is priced right, styled right and still safely driveable.

The Detroit area used car buyer reaps big benefits from being at the center of the automobile market. The turnover is large and there are hundreds of dealers to choose from.

Now that you know that you can afford to buy a used car, the real question is "How do you go about finding the right one." To answer that question we talked to several of the local used car dealers and asked them how they would go about buying a used car.

First of all they advised buying from a reputable dealer. Consider how long he has been in business, on parts and labor or it is a 50/50 guarantee where the dealer pays half and the buyer pays half of any repairs that need to be made in that period of time. All guarantees should be in writing.

When you find the car that is priced and styled right for you then the next step is to make sure that you won't have any mechanical problems with it. Ed Brown, used car manager of Bill Brown Ford, states, "We don't expect the buyer to know that this is why they hire trained mechanics to look over every car before it is put up for sale. The company has its reputation to keep."

Here again when you buy from a reputable dealer you already have three things in your favor, 1) written guarantee, 2) the reconditioning that has been done and 3) you can trust your salesman. If the dealer has been in business for a long time then you know that the salesmen are not making promises they can't back up.

But there are steps you can take to make sure you're getting your money's worth. Clay Groombridge, used car manager of Dameron Motors suggests that first you should take a good look at the outside of the car.

The other important reason for buying from a dealer is the guarantee he gives to back up every sale. William Tyson, used car manager for Armstrong Buick explained that the guarantee varies with the dealer. But the buyer can

Notice how the car

He says, "It is most crucial to notice outward appearance."

Ripples in the door could indicate a previous collision that may mean future mechanical problems. If the frame has not been perfectly straightened after a collision it can cause "dog-tracking" so that the back wheels are not directly following the front wheels. This in turn will cause uneven wear on your tires.

Check for unusual amounts of rust and be sure to look underneath the car for rust also.

"Then get in and take the car for a test drive" advises Stoney, used car manager of B.J. Ratican Plymouth. Take it out for at least an hour, driving on the expressway and also in slower traffic. Test the lights and the turn signals.

Notice how the car

around and get a good resale price. It used to be that you could get a good buy on a black car just because it was not a popular color and the dealer would cut the price just to sell it. Today there are still certain colors that are more popular than others but the variety of color is now so wide that there is not one color that could be called unpopular. Al Sampson, used car manager of North Brothers Ford comments that green is a good color this year and also gray is very big this year. Several years ago no one wanted gray. Ron Yatsman, used car manager of Mulligan Mercury says that in any case you should not be shopping for color alone. Shop for the type of car you want and its mechanical condition at a reputable used car dealer.

If after your test drive you still have doubts take it to a reliable independent mechanic or garage. As far as options are concerned, Henry Goetz, president of Tel-Twelve Dodge advises that air conditioning is the best option you can get. You pay relatively little for it when you buy a used car. Yet you benefit from it while you own the car and then you can turn shifts. If it slips or if the car makes sudden jumps then you'll know that the transmission may need some work. You can also check the transmission by taking out the oil dipstick and see if it has a burnt smell. If it does then you are having trouble. If the brakes squeal then they will probably need adjusting. Also notice how much play there is in the steering wheel.

CLEANING - A dealer can spend between $30 and $50 just to clean up a car even before any mechanical repairs are made.

Car Maintenance Means Pride In Family Investment

For most Americans the biggest investment of their lives -- besides purchasing a home -- is a car. The success or failure of this investment often is determined by the care which the car is given throughout ownership.

While the great majority of homeowners pride themselves in improving their property through close attention to its maintenance, many car owners neglect their vehicles, either through ignorance or not caring what happens to the machine in which they have invested substantial sums.

For those who don't care about the future of the car, there isn't much that can be said or written to persuade them to change their ways.

But for those unknowing or frustrated car owners who are concerned about the reliability of their cars and who would like to improve the chances of a long life for the vehicle, there are three definite areas in which they can act. These are: (1) some care of the vehicle by the motorist himself; (2) additional care at the service station and (3) having a reliable repair center to handle major tasks.

SEASONED AUTOMOTIVE industry observers and mechanics say these are some of the things the individual motorist can do on his own to prolong the life of the car:

TIRES -- Take a walk around the car to see if any of the tires need air. Motorists should watch for bulges, cuts or bruises caused by striking a curb or passing over a rock.

The tread should be checked periodically. When tread is worn down to 1/16th of an inch in the center grooves, the car needs new tires. If a ruler isn't handy, a Lincoln head penny can be used. It should be slipped edgewise, head first, into the tire groove. If the top of the Lincoln head on the coin can be seen, the tread is too worn for safety.

STEERING -- The motorist can check the steering in seconds. Here's how: standing alongside the car, he can turn the steering wheel two inches to see that the front wheels respond. If the car is equipped with power steering the test can be conducted with the motor running. In the case of power steering, a squealing noise as the wheel is turned sharply could warn of possible trouble in the power steering pump or belts.

BRAKES -- Two easy checks can be made before leaving home: First, maintain steady pressure on the brake pedal for 15 seconds before moving the car. If the pedal feels spongy or fades toward the floor, the brakes require immediate attention.

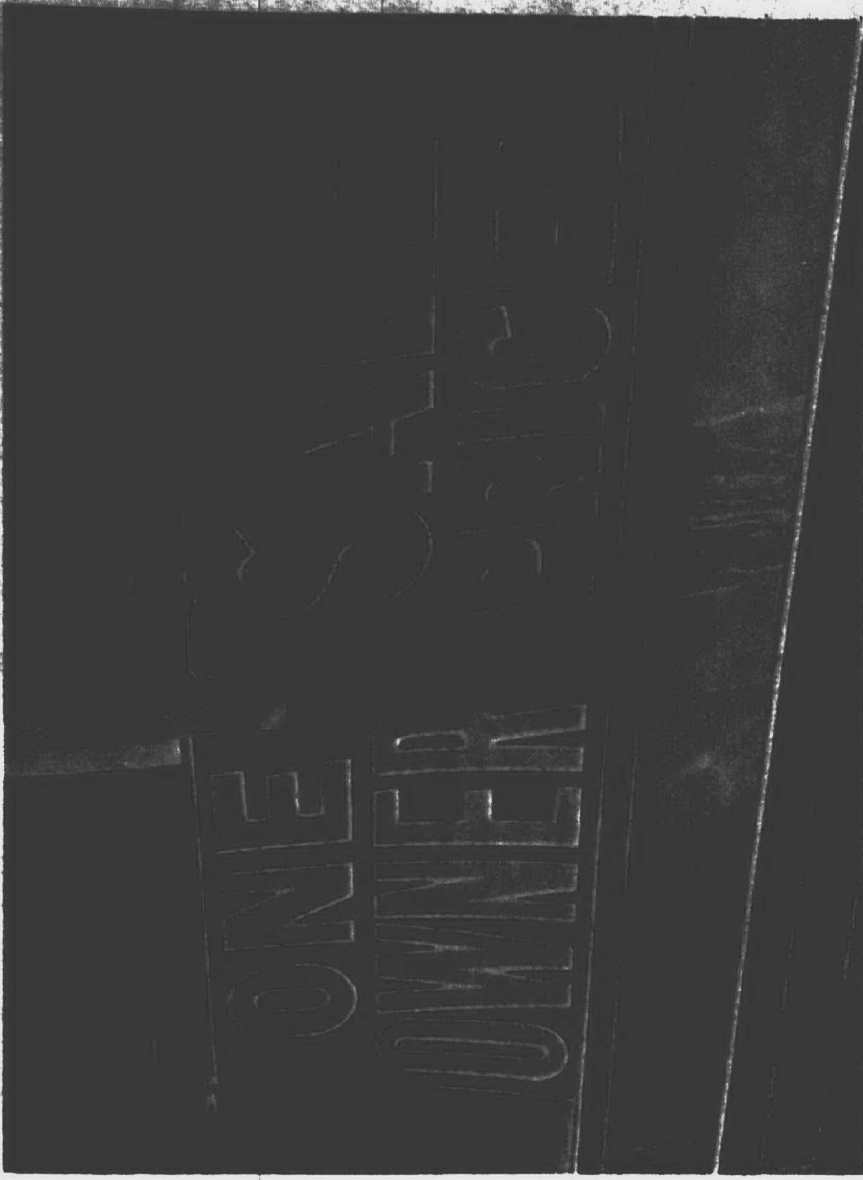

Second, the motorist should insure that the car stops on a straight line. Brakes that pull to one side or the other especially after overnight dampness, can cause accidents if they are called on for sudden stops on the highway. Another cause of pulling to one side or the other is fluid leakage from the brake lining.

LIGHTS -- A walk-around inspection takes only a few seconds. Service station attendants will do this, including a check of the brake lights and turn signals, on request.

KEEP A RECORD OF SERVICE DONE -- Jotting down the date, mileage, and noting service performed is a good idea. Record items like oil change, lubrication, filter changes, tune-up brake service and other jobs. This can be checked occasionally.

SIGNS - With flags flying and signs waving and strings of lights the used car dealers attract customers to their lots.

SALES - Some of the best buys are in used cars that are only one year old. The first year of depreciation is the greatest. So you can get a car that is as good as new but does not have the financing to match.

ally against your owner's manual. It provides helpful information to service men as well as the owner. It might even enhance the value of the car at trade-in or resale time, because it evidences the owner's interest in maintenance.

WINDSHIELD WIPERS -- The driver himself is in the best position to spot any weaknesses in the mechanism. If blades are badly worn or brittle with age, he can ask about replacements. Good visibility is a must for safety.

Of course, there are many other ways that a car's performance and longevity can be enhanced at the service station.

Perhaps the most important piece of equipment at the station is the lift, the mechanism which can lift a 5,000-pound car overhead at the flick of a finger.

The American Petroleum Institute (API) notes that the lift makes it possible for service station dealers to turn the three-month oil change job into a comprehensive safety inspection.

What should the mechanic look for when he has the car on the lift? Oil leak-age first. A certain amount of seepage is normal, but drips are danger signs. If something is spotted that looks ominous, the mechanic can check it out then and there.

Particular attention should be paid to the insides of the wheels, where signs of fresh oil may really be brake fluid. The shock absorbers can be checked for wetness, a sign that their usefulness is ended. The underside of the radiator and fuel pump can also be checked.

At the same time a close inspection can be made of the tires for balding tread, cuts and uneven wear.

The idler arm, ball joints and grease seals -- key components of the car's steering and suspension -- are readily accessible on the lift and can be easily checked.

Other fringe benefits of this type of check include: Discovery of a rusted-out muffler; rust-out underneath the rocker panels which can indicate that the drain holes, which carry off rain and car wash water, are closed.

If some problem is discovered that your service station cannot handle, the question then becomes: Where to go for help?

The problem is compounded by the fact that there are fewer auto repairmen today, in proportion to the number of cars, than there were 10 years ago.

The API offers the following suggestions for locating a mechanic who will deserve the motorist's confidence:

Ask friends and acquaintances. Finding a good repairman is similar to finding a good doctor, dentist or lawyer. Your friends' experiences will provide some basis for judgment.

Ask your service station manager: Try buying gasoline from several well-run stations in your community, so that you can "compare notes" on the information you receive. The men who make their living from cars can frequently guide you to the best place for any special job.

When seeking repairs on a car, it is advisable to make an appointment. The fact that a service establishment works by "appointment only" is an indicator that it is busy and well run.

Also, get an estimate of the cost involved. This can avoid later misunderstandings. The serviceman should be instructed to contact the motorist before proceeding with unauthorized repairs on unexpected problems.

The API points out that the equipment in the shop and training of the mechanic provide clues as to the quality of the shop's work.

The best equipment in the hands of a man who has attended special training courses offered by many vocational schools, auto companies and petroleum companies is the best insurance that the repairs will be completed in proper fashion at a fair price.

The final API tip is: Once you've found the right serviceman, stick with him. Good mechanics are good businessmen and they're interested in building a regular clientele. "Steadies" get faster attention and better service.
