Martin Quits SC

Dr. George E. Martin, member of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, has asked to resign from his at-large seat. Dr. Martin, who had two years left in his term, asked that his resignation be effective immediately in a letter to Board Chairman Jane Moehle and college President C. Nelson Grote.

Reasons for his request stem from his ill health as well as increasing demands on his time from his work in computer science at the University of Detroit, Martin said. His resignation leaves only two former board members after the trustee election on Sept. 13.

A college spokesman said that since the filing date for the election had passed, Martin's seat could not be filled in the election. The board will have to appoint a replacement.

Pick Livonian

Plymouth's Board of Education has settled the question of who will succeed the recently retired Ruth Eriksson as principal of Smith School. Their choice comes here from an administrative post at Randolph School in Livonia.

Women and want ads go together. The ladies love the money they can make with Observer Want Ads. That's why it's time to remind them again this month to save the Observer carrier collection receipt their husbands receive when they pay for this month's hometown newspaper. The receipt is worth its face value toward an Observer Want Ad. And if you have your coupons from May and June, put them together with July's and you'll have a totally FREE want ad! What could be more exciting than that?

City Hikes Water Rates 50%

By FRED DELANO
The nature of the water flowing through City of Plymouth mains will change next month, and so will the rates customers are charged -- by about 50 per cent.

Told by City Manager Norman M. Gaffney Monday night that "We're shooting for Sept. 1 as the target date for changing over to Detroit water," the City Commission unanimously gave final approval to an amendment to the water ordinance that establishes a new rate schedule.

The new legislation is to become effective Sept. 30, thus giving the city a leeway in case the Sept. 1 target is not met. There appears to be no question, however, that the tie-in with the Detroit metropolitan water system, as approved by the voters last year, will come to pass sometime during September.

Water charges still are to be based on a sliding scale, but all domestic customers fall in a category in which the rate has been changed from 34 cents per 1,000 gallons to 50 cents per thousand. In addition, the bi-monthly service charge paid by these customers has been increased from $1.10 to $2.10.

IN 1969, a study by the engineering consulting firm of Johnson & Anderson, Inc. showed that of the city's 3,403 water customers there were 3,166 with 5/8-inch meters. Their average consumption every two months was 12,746 gallons of water.

Since 1964 these households have been billed bi-monthly under an ordinance provision setting the rate of 34 cents per 1,000 for each of the first 17,000 gallons used.

Billing still will be continued bi-monthly, but the language of the new rate chart puts the charge at 50 cents per 1,000 for each of the first 30,000 gallons.

BUSINESS AND industrial firms also will find that their rates have gone up in about the same proportion as homeowners.

After consumption of the first 30,000 gallons in any two-month period, the next 70,000 gallons will cost 40 cents per thousand. All over 100,000 gallons will carry a rate of 33 cents per thousand.

The old scale had five categories. It started with the 34-cent rate on the first 17,000 gallons and then stipulated 28 cents per thousand for the next 50,000, then 17 cents per thousand for the next 133,000, then 15 cents per thousand for the next 300,000 and 13 cents per thousand for all over 500,000 gallons.

The extra service charges, based on meter sizes, also have been increased all along the line.

There are nine categories and samples of the increases voted by the commission including going from $1.10 to $2.10 for the small 5/8-inch meter; from $2.25 to $4.30 for 1-inch; from $6.50 to $12.35 for 2-inch, and from $38.50 to $73.15 for service with a 6-inch meter.

THE COMMISSION specified that customers located in Plymouth Township, but serviced by the city system, will pay the same rates as customers with municipality.

However, this is not true for city customers located in Northville Township. The commission voted 4-1 to charge those users at 1.5

times the municipal rate.

The lone dissenting vote was cast by Mayor James B. McKeon who said he favored putting the Northville Township charges at 1.25 times the city rates. Commissioners Arch Vallier and William Silvis were not in attendance.

Plymouth divides its billing procedure so that half of the statements are mailed on the final day of each month, individual customers thus receiving them in alternate months. The charges reflect the water consumed the previous two months and the mechanics of October calculations have yet to be worked out.

BARGAIN HUNTERS had the time of their lives — and in the opinion of a Chamber of Commerce official spent more than $300,000 — during Plymouth's sidewalk sales Friday and Saturday. Sue Berger (left) was typical of the shoppers who jammed the walks, and at the right is a view of

Main Street. An extra attraction was the auction by police of 63 unclaimed bicycles, seen being examined by prospective buyers (center). The bike sale netted $917, the lowest sale being 50 cents and the highest $42.50. (Observer photos by Harry Mauthe)

Draft Board Still Looks For YOU!

The executive secretary of the selective service board serving northwestern Wayne County reminded draft-age men this week that they must continue to register and be classified despite the current congressional impasse on the draft bill.

"All of our functions are the same except induction," said Mrs. Dorothy M. Lynn of Local Board 102, which serves all of the Wayne County areas of Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township, Canton Township and Redford Township.

Headquarters of the board are at 595 Forest, at the corner of Forest and Wing, in downtown Plymouth.

Mrs. Lynn said the board has the largest number of registrants of any board in Michigan, currently totaling approximately 31,000. During the first six months of 1971 this board inducted 115 men into the armed services.

REFERRING TO the "great uncertainty" created by debate in Washington over draft policies, Mrs. Lynn issued this statement:

"Selective Service Director Curtis Tarr has recently stressed the importance of explaining to our draft-age men the high probability that draft calls will resume in the near future, and that the current impasse in Congress is not likely to affect any registrant's chance of being drafted.

"Our board has been specifically instructed to continue to register and classify men, and to order for pre-induction physical examinations those young men who may be needed to fill draft calls in the coming months.

"Men with lottery numbers through 125 were eligible for induction in June in order to fill draft calls. Since then, the Defense Department has asked Selective Service to draft 16,000 men in July and August.

"This request is being held by Selective Service headquarters pending final congressional action on the draft bill, which is expected within several weeks.

"THOSE YOUNG men with relatively low lottery numbers who are eligible for induction this year, particularly those with numbers below 175 — the current processing ceiling — have a very good chance of being processed for induction after draft calls are restored. "Many young men seem to think that the Selective Service Act has permanently expired and that they probably will never be drafted. Some of them also think that the entire system has stopped.

"They are wrong, since it is only the induction authority that has expired.

"They, therefore, may be unintentionally breaking the law by failing to register at age 18, by not keeping their local board informed of their current address, or by failing to report, if ordered, for their pre-induction physical examination.

"Local boards are continuing to consider CO, hardship and student deferments and to take other classification actions. Young men who had planned to submit requests for deferments or exemptions are encouraged to do so. The expiration of the induction authority does not affect our responsibility to classify young men."

City Says OK For New 7-11 SDM License

Plymouth's City Commission gave its go-ahead Monday to issuance by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission of a SDM license to the new Seven-Eleven store at 1307 S. Main.

The license, if approved by the state, would permit the sale of beer and wine for take out purposes. A report from Plymouth police after the required investigation recommended granting the requested license.

The petitioners are James R. Harden and Judith L. Harden.

Paving Costs Go Down

Five street paving projects planned for the City of Plymouth this summer will cost about $52,000 less than anticipated, the city commission discovered Monday.

When bids of the eight companies competing for the contract were tabulated, the McCarthy Contracting Co. of Farmington wound up with the job with a low bid of approximately $212,000. The commission had estimated that the five projects would total in the neighborhood of $264,000.

Bids ranged from McCarthy's low figure to the high peak of $289,000 from the Oak Construction Co.

City Engineer Thomas Waffan said work will be under way this week on the first of the five jobs, which will be the paving of N. Holbrook from Plymouth Rd. to Wilcox.

Second in line will be the section of William that runs from N. Evergreen to Arthur, Waffan stating that he wants both Holbrook and William completed before the opening of school. Holbrook serves Starkweather School, while Our Lady of Good Counsel is at the corner of William and Arthur.

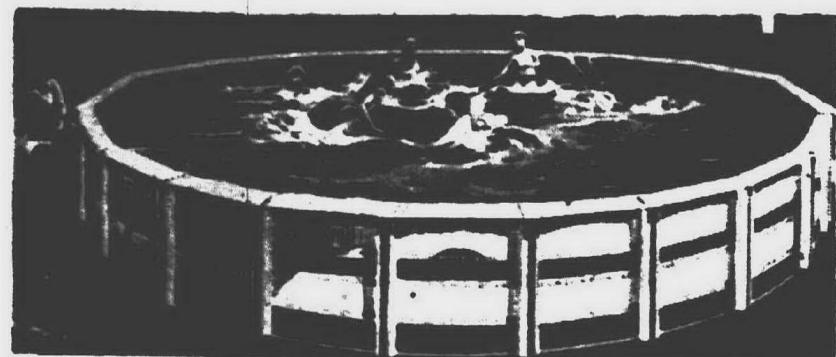

Other projects will include segments of Ann Arbor Trail, Deer and Wing.

WHEN PLYMOUTH'S "VEST POCKET" playground at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey was dedicated last weekend, youngsters from Auburn playfield were judged to have done the best job in decorating the wall of an adjacent building. Among those who worked on it (in front from the left) were David Covach, Steve Secord, Allen Bissonette, Carol Anderson, Ronie Bissonette and Maureen Aman. In back are Mrs. John W. Armstrong Jr. (left), one of the judges from the Community Art Council, and Debbie Schmitz, Auburn playground leader. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe)

College Appoints Director

Schoolcraft College has appointed a new director of community services, completing a search which began early last winter.

Ronald L. Griffith, 32, has been named to the post which became vacant last November when Frederick Stefanski was promoted to academic dean.

Griffith comes to Schoolcraft from Florida Junior College at Jacksonville, Fla., where he was an associate dean for career and adult education. His appointment is effective Aug. 1.

Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote said Griffith "brings considerable educational and work experience to the job, and he shares our enthusiasm for its importance and potential."

ALTHOUGH THE school has been without a full-time director over the past nine months, Dean Stefanski has continued to direct a number of its on-going programs during the interim period.

RONALD L. GRIFFITH Joins Schoolcraft

Even when he had it as his primary assignment though, the dean had additional responsibility for evening college and negotiations. Griffith thus becomes the school's first full-time community services director.

Community services at Schoolcraft conducts a variety of programs and activities designed to meet the special needs of people aside from regularly established programs. They take the form of clinics, workshops, lectures, consultations, seminars and classes.

According to Griffith, the college might arrange for a series of specialized knitting classes, poodle grooming, clothing construction, speedwriting or personal typing. It might help instruct people on how to file their income tax or provide a general auto maintenance course for women drivers.

GRIFFITH SAID these are just some examples of what might be offered. They would be non-credit and would meet at times and places most convenient to the persons participating. An evening, off-campus class would be more the rule than the exception.

In order to serve the community effectively, the new director will need to assess its needs. These are best known by the residents themselves, and Griffith invites anyone who has an idea for a community service program to call him at the college.

Griffith has earned bachelor and master degrees from Morehead State University and has taken advanced work at Mississippi State University, the University of Tennessee, and Auburn University.

He has been a community college instructor and has administered community college programs in occupational education and special vocational programs.

On Dean's List

Two Observerland residents are among 600 who made the dean's list at Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C. by earning at least a B average during the second semester.

Receiving this honor were: Audrey Louise Gray, 200 Hurry Ruff, Garden City; and David Otis McGuire, 1404 Palmer Ave., Plymouth.

Miss Gray, a senior in the School of Education, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon O. Berry.

McGuire, a senior in the College of Arts and Science, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis F. McGuire.

THROUGH BIFOCALS

By FRED DELANO / Editor: Mail & Observer

ONE OF THE encouraging signs of increasing harmony between the governments of the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township lies in the approach taken toward the cultural and recreational center. This will be a building of many purposes for persons of many ages, but its principal glamor will lie in providing a year-around ice rink.

When it opens, which hopefully will be early in the winter of 1972, patrons should remember that the $65,000 which the state is tossing into the kitty was based on the combined city-township population. It is to the great credit of township trustees that they were willing to give the project this boost.

Fees for rental of meeting rooms, skating and other uses of the building will be the same no matter where a person lives within the Plymouth School District. Although the city will own the building, the land belongs to the school board, and this organization, too, deserves public thanks for its cooperation in making the 4½ acres available at the modest fee of $1 a year.

The full picture is one which helps demonstrate that we are one single community, and that there is no such thing as an unscalable wall between the city and its environs after all. Some day the unification-minded city government may prove it by eliminating the 10 per cent premium which township families must pay for burial lots in Riverside Cemetery.

BETTER COMMUNICATION between the two governments has been particularly noticeable since Maurice M. Breen became supervisor for the rural folks and Norman M. Gaffney took over as city manager.

It has been the area of recreation in general that has provided the impetus for a new and closer relationship. Now, having made the discovery that the "other guys" really are humans instead of monsters, the two governments don't have to look far to find other areas in which it would do well to work together.

One of immediate moment is in the field of contract negotiations with the firemen. The contracts with the unionized firefighters have expired both in the city and township, and binding arbitration looms as the next step in City Hall as well as Township Hall.

The two sets of firemen are represented by the same attorney, so why shouldn't the two administrations pool their efforts and stand together? In fact, this might be an excellent time to get down to serious talk about merging the two fire departments into one Plymouth-wide force.

NOW THAT the pattern has been set concerning general use of the ice rink and other facilities which that building will provide, the township can do nothing other than return the courtesy of uniform charges when it completes its own recreational park.

The baseball diamonds, tennis courts, picnic areas or other attractions which are contemplated there must be as available to city dwellers as township residents, thus continuing the policy of "share and share alike."

Hopefully, that 63-acre site, which lies next to the Hilltop Golf Course, may also see eventual construction of a giant swimming pool capable of accommodating hundreds of community youngsters daily. It would be a splendid counterpart to the city's ice rink.

Bit by bit the aura of togetherness is growing, but it's sure a slow process.

The Stroller...

By W. W. EDGAR

Jobless? Here's An Idea

If the powers that be down in our nation's capital really are serious about trying to find jobs for the vast army of unemployed, and are willing to pay their wages, they need look no further than the Plymouth area to do the job.

Several big jobs are here for all to see and, while they haven't gone unnoticed, there hasn't been a sufficient amount of manpower or the wherewithal to have the tasks performed.

What are the jobs crying to be done?

Well, for a starter, there's the long hoped for elimination of the railcrossing on Main Street.

More gasoline has been burned needlessly at that point, and more time wasted by people being forced to sit and wait for the caboose, than at any other city intersection in the state.

SOME TIME ago The Stroller stirred up a bit of interest in the project and learned that at least 50 trains a day pass over the crossing. This number surprised many of the natives, but the railroad officials confirmed it.

He still can hear the husky voice of Buford Nash, the retired district manager of the C&O below, "The railroad will do its share-- even more-- if you people in Plymouth will do your part in the project that could cost about a million dollars."

He later explained that the railroad would be willing to take about 20 per cent of the action.

That would leave the city with a bill for approximately $800,000 and there just isn't that kind of money floating around.

What a wonderful chance to put the latest plan of the administration to work.

And don't forget there are nine railroad crossings in the community. They would keep a large army of men employed for quite a while.

IF THE railroad crossings aren't enough, how about cleaning the Middle Rouge? Up to now the work of improving our environment along the Rouge has been left to the ambitious volunteers who work under the direction of the Jaycees.

They do a great job for a single day. But, at best, their work is just a dribble of what should be done.

To do the job right, work would have to be started up at Walled Lake and then progress down through the Northville and Plymouth areas on the way to the Detroit River.

This is not a job for amateurs. The task of cleaning has been neglected too long.

So, why not put many of the unemployed to work and do the job in a fashion that will leave nothing to be desired? After that, it would be a matter of pride to keep it clean.

This year, the officials of Wayne County have appropriated $17,500 to help do the job. That will just pay for the use of the county equipment for three days.

And lest we forget, Henry Herrick, the drain commissioner, has estimated that the job of cleaning the Rouge and its branches would cost about $250 million. That's a far cry from $17,500.

THEN THERE'S the job of dredging our three lakes-- Newburgh, Wilcox and Phoenix-- to make them fit for fishing and boating and a major role in a wide recreation program.

Now that the state is purchasing the Maybury Sanitarium property to develop a state park, there will be more reason than ever to improve the lakes and eliminate what is fast becoming a health hazard.

Jovial Ike Porter, who lives close by Wilcox and heads the recreation department of the Wayne County Road Commission, says it would cost about a half million to deepen the lakes, remove the algae and make them navigable for the youngsters' paddle boats.

That would only be a small drop in the bucket, according to the figures mentioned in the government plan to relieve unemployment.

In every dark cloud there's supposed to be a silver lining. Maybe this is it. With unemployment on the rise and money becoming scarcer, this could be the silver lining.

Let's try to get it.

St. Peter's Oldest Now At Age 107

PLYMOUTH Mrs. Sophie Huegel, who is the oldest member of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Plymouth, reached her 107th birthday last weekend as a number of friends and family gathered to do her honor at the Martin Luther Home, South Lyon.

A native of Alsace-Lorraine, France, Mrs. Huegel lived in Plymouth through most of the '40s and '50s, after she had been widowed in 1940 following 52 years of marriage. She and her husband had moved to the United States in 1914.

Four of the eight Huegel children are still living. In addition, Mrs. Huegel has 11 grandchildren, 17 great grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

One of Mrs. Huegel's granddaughters, Mrs. Avery Penney, of Plymouth, said that her grandmother attributes her long life "to being happy" and enjoys hearing old tunes played by Mrs. Penney on the accordion.

Area Colt Hopes Ride On Two Teams

Only host Southfield-Lathrup will be on deck from Observerland for the regional Colt League tournament starting Thursday at Southfield's Civic Center.

North Farmington-West Bloomfield was ousted in two straight games by Birmingham, 3-2 and 11-3, Friday and Saturday to win one sectional title while Mt. Pleasant whipped St. Clair Shores twice to gain the other sectional flag.

Thus the four team tournament was made up of host Southfield-Lathrup, plus Mt. Pleasant, Birmingham and the Chicago-area metropolitan champion.

By George Maslin
observing sports

If you're a high school football player, your summer vacation is just about over.

Two weeks from Monday practice officially starts, but in the interim chances are you will be involved in almost daily conditioning drills with other members of your school's team.

Time was when if a prep coach assembled his charges in early August for calisthenics, running and the like, a nasty eye was cast his way.

The coach wasn't supposed to do anything with his football players until whatever day it was the State Association permitted all schools in the Upper and Lower Peninsulas to work out.

But, it's not that way any more. No longer is it wrong with the coach and school subject to a sharp penalty for assembling the football players early as long as:

1--The players aren't wearing any football gear.

2--The sessions are devoted strictly to conditioning, with no football on the premises.

As a result just about every area high school coach now has his boys out. Some drill in calisthenics daily. Some maybe just two or three times per week.

In many locales in Michigan, special conditioning camps have been opened with most of the enrollees high school football players. In numerous cases, prep coaches run the camps.

Of course, we all know it's impossible to keep the football totally away. What's to prevent a few boys from going off in some playfield and tossing the pigskin around...kicking it, etc??

The early conditioning sessions help to prove just how much effort boys put into football.

They are willing to sacrifice a good part of their summer vacation in order to build strong bodies and muscles needed to play football.

THE BOYS, as well as their coaches, readily know that to play football you have to be in top shape. Getting into top shape takes work...a lot of it.

As you pass groups of prep footballers any morning or afternoon, you have another reason to take heart in the young clan of our country. If these kids were off base, they wouldn't be spending the month of August going through intensive sessions.

Easier, for, them would be to bounce around and do the things we adults and the police take issue with these days.

Getting football charges fit and ready for the first day of practice is important. There's no tougher coaching job than trying to assemble a football team.

For one thing, the football coach has more players to work with than any of brother mentors.

Secondly, the game of football is far more intricate...offensively and defensively.

Third, in football the need to play together certainly is far more paramount than in baseball or swimming or tennis or golf or track.

Take baseball. If you're batting, there's little a teammate can do for you. You're actually on your own...you vs. the rival pitcher.

But, take the football quarterback. Without several teammates blocking for him, he stands to be "killed." Without good and able receivers, what good is how adept he is at throwing the football?

Defensively, in baseball, you're pretty much on your own. Sure the first baseman can help you out on a low throw.

But, in football, unless everybody is working together...you know what can happen.

MOST FOOTBALL coaches keep an eye on their athletes the year around. Schoolboy gridders are urged to wrestle, run track or play something in that period of the school year after football has finished.

In the summer, the coaches pass along certain conditioning advice for the boy to do on his own until everybody assembles around Aug. 1.

As one prep football coach told us the other day... "high school football is a year around effort. You don't have much time to relax."

Even around the Farmington high schools, you'll find the preps thinking already about football and also preparing themselves despite the fact it won't be known for three weeks whether they'll continue with varsity sports in the system.

The future of schoolboy sports in Farmington hinges on a millage vote on Aug. 23, the day the prep football teams in the lower peninsula can start workouts.

As one who recently had his own tax millage hiked along with a 50 per cent leap in state income tax, we can be very sympathetic to those who are reluctant to keep digging deeper and deeper in their pocketbooks.

Far be it for me to tell anybody how to vote, but then we'd better not sound off about the kids of today if we're not willing to try a little harder for them.

NORTH FARMINGTON-West Bloomfield lost in two tough games.

After dropping the 3-2 opener, North Farmington carried Birmingham 10 innings before Birmingham exploded with eight runs to put the game out of reach.

Gary Morrison was the losing pitcher in the opener. He allowed eight hits and fanned six while Don Therassie singled and Louie Doot tripled to account for the only North Farmington hits.

North Farmington duelled with Birmingham for seven innings with Kim Parker permitting three runs and nine hits. Then Birmingham got to Chris Weber in the 10th inning to decide the issue.

North Farmington managed five hits in the second game--another triple by Doot, plus singles by Therassie, Bill Doerr, John Cassidy and Kim Parker.

MT. PLEASANT downed St. Clair Shores, 4-2, and then 13-4.

The winner of the regional at Southfield will advance to the divisionals at Murray, Kentucky later this month.

From the divisional the champion goes on to the World Series of Colt League baseball at Lafayette, Ind., on Aug. 18-26.

The regional will be played on a two-defeat-and-out basis.

The Chicago champs will meet Mt. Pleasant in Thursday's opening game at 4:30 p.m. with Birmingham opposing Southfield-Lathrup at 8 p.m.

The same time schedule will prevail Friday and Saturday and if a deciding game is necessary Sunday it will be played at 2:30 p.m.

Opening action in the Colt League regional baseball tournament at Southfield's Civic Center will open Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

The Observers Saturday in error reported the tourney would start on Tuesday.

Action will continue on Friday and Saturday and Sunday, if necessary.

Patriots Topple Plymouth Elks, 7-4

There really wasn't a loser when the Livonia Patriots (Franklin High) met Livonia Hubert for the Connie Mack League-Class D playoff title in Livonia.

Both teams already had assured themselves a spot in a post-season tournament.

The winner goes to the Michigan Recreation meet, the loser to the Inter-Cities, both scheduled next week.

THE PATRIOTS won their way to the title round by downing Plymouth Elks, 7-4, Saturday as the Hubert Players sat in the stands and did some scouting.

The Patriots' win snapped an eight game Plymouth winning streak after the Elks had recovered from a slow start to become one of the hottest teams in the league.

Tony Kaseta went the route for the winners to best Brad Truax, who has been the ace of the Elks' mound staff in the past month. Kaseta fanned 10, Truax five.

It was an up-and-down game in which the lead changed several times.

PLYMOUTH WENT ahead first with two runs in the opening inning when Ken Rocco walked and Dave Hees and Jack Mathias followed with singles with an error tossed in for good measure.

The Patriots shot ahead, 3-2, in the second inning on successive singles by Gar Frantz, Gary Allen and Rob Hollandsworth for one run, a sacrifice fly by Kaseta for another marker and then a double by Barney Derderian.

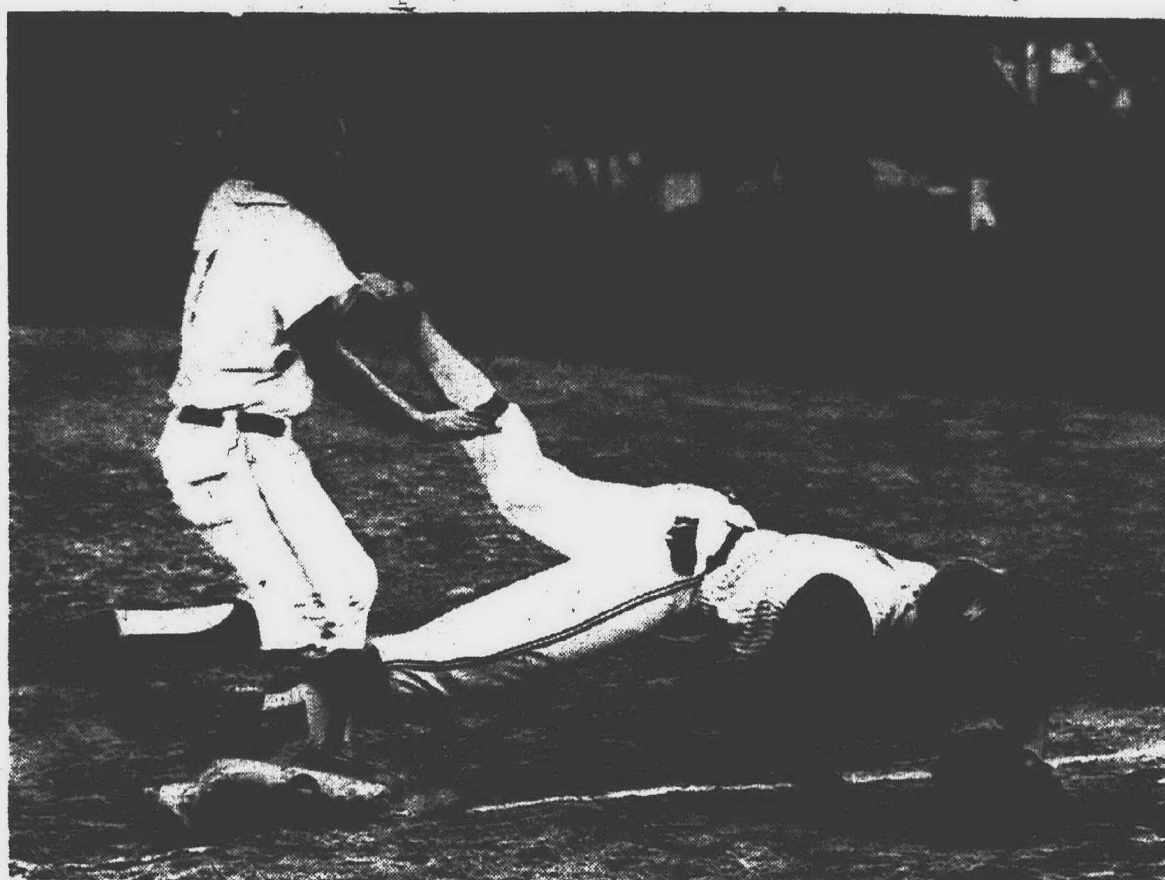

Plymouth bounced back on top in the fourth inning with two runs.

Mathias walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on an error. Then Jim Grimmer doubled, stole third and came home on another miscue.

The Patriots didn't stay down too long. In the fourth Gary Allen and Rob Nisun walked and dashed around when Ken Yuhasz lashed a long double.

That put the Patriots in front for keeps and they added two insurance runs when Kaseta followed a walk to Nisun with a tremendous home run.

The victory was the ninth against four losses and two ties for the Patriots, who are coached by Ron Hellier, also baseball coach at Franklin.

THIS HAPPENED when Westland's Chuck Slamer reached for a line drive foul along first base and tried to double up, on Plymouth's Dennis Becker. Chuck grabbed the foul but he didn't touch the bag soon enough for the twin killing. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Westland 9 Puts Cleaner On Plymouth

Showdown time became a day and night affair as far as the Westland Cleaners and Plymouth Becker were concerned in the Greater Livonia Adray Baseball League.

They had come down to the closing game in the third round of the league playoffs with identical 5-0 records.

BETWEEN DARKNESS and rain, it became a long struggle...a struggle which had to shift the game from Plymouth where there are no lights to Ford Field in Livonia where the action could be completed under the arcs.

To complicate matters, the teams had to play through rain...the same showers which kept the Tigers from starting a game with California for more than two hours.

The elements notwithstanding, Westland emerged an 8-4 winner to wind up the third round with a perfect record and join Redford, the first round winner, and Northville Reef, the second round champ, in the playoffs.

The weird sort of a game began with Westland taking a 2-0 lead in the second on two walks, a single by Pat Burke and an error.

BACK CAME Plymouth to score once on four walks in the third and then three times in the fourth when Howie Schryer was safe on an error, Gary Croskey walked and Pat Cunningham and John Stout followed with singles.

The lead didn't hold up for Plymouth as darkness and rain came and the team had to switch sights.

In the sixth Westland scored three times on four walks and a big single by Ken Gawkowski.

In the seventh, two walks, plus hits by Brad Lyons, Terry Miller and Dan Caesar wound up the scoring for Westland.

S. Farmington Eyes LL Crown

South Farmington, the Little League team that battled its way through district, regional, state, zone and into the finals of the tournament that decided the qualifier for the world series in Williamsport, Pa. before losing, will defend its district 4 crown Thursday at 5 p.m. on the Southfield Civic Center LL diamond.

South reached the finals for the second successive year by downing Beverly Hills, 8-1, Monday. It will tangle with the winner of the Avondale-Birmingham National semifinals in the championship.

That champion enters the state tournament next week and then the winners continue the drive that South handled so successfully a year ago.

Kevin Verner kept Beverly Hills under control all the way as he registered 10 strikeouts in the six innings on the mound.

Dick Radatz, son of the former major league hurler by the same name, was the big gun at the plate with four hits in as many times at bat. He had two doubles and two singles.

South put the game out of reach in the fourth when it tallied three times.

Redford Drops Opener In Two-Loss Playoff

Round One of the Greater Livonia Adray League baseball playoffs produced a rhubarb.

Defending league and state champion Redford got off to a flying start by downing Northville, 4-1, while Westland, the third team in the two-defeat-and-out playoff drew the bye.

Then Westland met and downed Redford, 8-6, and Westland drew another bye while Redford was to face Northville again Tuesday night.

"That's not the way it should be," said Redford manager Pat Sheridan. "We should have received the bye after winning the first game. The way it is now Westland gets into the finals by playing only once."

Whatever the ultimate result of the Livonia playoff, which is to end Wednesday night at Ford field, the winner advances into state Adray competition beginning Saturday.

Poppenger started things with a homer. Walks to LeRoux and Tomy Roy and a single by Tim Fox brought in one run and another scored on a wild throw. Then Burke singled in Fox.

Westland came back with one run in the seventh on hits by Terry Mills and McMillan with a hit batter and walk in between. Then in the eighth, two walks and singles by Gawkowski and Mills netted another Westland run.

Westland won in the ninth when Steve Kuhlman walked and went to second on a wild pick off attempt. McMillan bunted and was safe on a wild throw, which permitted Kuhlman to score. Then Briggs knocked in McMillan for the final run.

The sponsoring Livonia Metropolitan Club and the Detroit Area Associated Motorcycle Clubs will offer $9,000 in purses for the eight race programs.

This will mark the 13th annual national championship program held at the Livonia track during which attendance has grown from 5,000 for the initial venture to the more than 12,000 in the stands a year ago.

Heading the list of entries is Larry Palmgren, of Freehold, N.J., who won the race a year ago and Gene Romero, of the Triumph team, currently the leader in points in the national standings.

The riders will check in from California to New York and from Minnesota to Texas. They will battle for positions in the finals in the qualifiers, slated to start at 2 p.m. Workouts will begin at 9 a.m. when the track will be opened for spectators.

The afternoon card will consist of eight races climaxed by the 20 mile national championship.

Trotters Open Tonight At Wolverine

Horse racing fans bid adieu to the King (of sports) Saturday in the western section of Metropolitan Detroit and harness racing enthusiasts will welcome the Queen (of sports) Wednesday when Wolverine Raceway opens a 76-night meeting at the Detroit Race Course.

The thoroughbreds sound up the 120-day campaign at the DRC Saturday with attendance and wagering figures on the sad side...both showing declines from the records of a year ago.

With that kind of a showing hanging over its head, Wolverine is looking forward to an even better meeting than in 1970 when it shattered all records for attendance, handle and what have you.

The reason...Wolverine under the direction of Vice President and General Manager Richard Wilson has arranged what appears to be the greatest harness racing program ever offered in the area.

That, along with the numerous promotions planned by Wilson and his aides, is expected to have the track humming throughout the 76 nights with things that are geared to bring more and more persons into the plant.

THE DRC concluded its 90-day summer meeting with a total attendance of 881,726, a dip of 14.5 per cent from 1970, and total wagering of $80,099,905, down 10 per cent from a year ago.

The daily average handle was $889,990 compared to $988,026 and the average daily attendance was 9,797 contrasted to 11,452 in 1970.

For the 30-day spring meeting, the DRC averaged 9,195 and $748,889 at the mutuels.

Wolverine faces the same problems as the DRC in getting fans through the maze of temporary roads and the huge piles of mud and debris created by work on the Jeffries highway. The conditions will probably exist for another year and a half.

In addition, the DRC lost 1,200 parking spaces when the new highway took 127 feet along the Schoolcraft side of the plant. There isn't any way to make up for that loss and it hurt the thoroughbred meeting on every big day when cars jammed all of the entrances and oftentimes fans couldn't get into the stands until the second or third race.

WOLVERINE, which ended the 1970 season with a nightly average handle of $572,793 and average attendance of 7,886, is looking forward to even higher figures this year.

Part of the reason for the optimism is that fans will be seeing races over the big Mile Track for the second year and their acceptance of the change a year ago clearly showed they liked what they saw.

There were faster races and better competition than ever before at the Wolverine meeting with no less than five miles in better than 2:00.

There is only one change in the official family where Chuck Coon, Jr., son of the late Charley Coon, Sr., who served more than 30 years as executive secretary of the Michigan Horsemen's Association, will take over as starter.

Chuck, who was taught all of the fine points of keeping a racing strip in top condition by his father, served as trackman at plants in the Buffalo, N.Y. area for several years before shifting to the role of starter.

During the past three years he has been on assignment by the New York Harness Racing Commission and has had several turns at Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways...considered the top assignments in the east.

He accepted a contract from Wolverine last spring and there are indications that he may take over at some of the other area plants in another year.

AS ANOTHER feature, one that fans are certain to follow, Wolverine will present a series of eight early closing stakes in a 10-night period in early September.

The stakes will highlight the two weeks of Grand Circuit events and will bring all of the nation's two and three-year-old stars of the Roaring Grand to the area.

As an added attraction, Wolverine will present renewals of the Matron four-year-old pace and trot, each with a value of more than $40,000, making them the richest ever presented in Michigan.

There won't be any mink stoles on display this year. The fine fur pieces that were awarded winners of contests on the Tuesday Ladies Night programs in past years have faded out of existence.

The prizes this year will be a weekend in Manhattan with seats for the best Broadway production and for the finest night club as part of the package.

The big award comes on the final Tuesday when the contest winner will receive a week's vacation to Florida. It will be eight days and seven nights at Pompano Beach with travel via Delta Airlines. Wolverine is also making plans for a repeat of the popular "Good Ol' Days" program on Sept. 9. It attracted more than 19,000 a year ago for the largest harness racing crowd in Michigan history.

It also will be the opening night of the stakes and will have the Motor City Pace as the principal attraction. Post time for the first race is 8:30 p.m. and Wilson emphasizes that this means 8:30 p.m. sharp.

THE INAUGURAL Pace, which tops the opening card with a purse of $3,400, attracted a field of seven headed by John Lighthill's Star John and speedy H.T. Nick, from the powerful Ray Forsythe stable.

The pace will give area fans their first chance to see Sandra Fisher, who formerly trained with Harold Fisher, in the sulky for the first time in Michigan.

Sandra, who has her own stable now, shipped in from Maryland where she received a driver's license last spring. More than that she won her second start at a parimutuel track. Sandra will have the reins on Jereo this time.

Others in the inaugural are: Joe Marsh's Diller Volo, Bob Hogan's Trenton Lady, Doug Ackerman's sensational Broad Shadow and Jim Merriman driving Springs Pride, a Bret Hanover filly.

Wolverine will have the daily double, Big Perfecta and a Tri-fecta on the 10th race.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

Strange as it may sound, Michigan's two smallest harness racing operations will have the enviable record of ending the 1971 season with plus figures for attendance and handle.

The Detroit Racing Association rang down the curtain on its thoroughbred meeting at the Detroit Race Course with both figures on the minus side.

The Hazel Park harness meeting was a big one but fell short of the records set a year ago even though it went over $900,000 for a single night's wagering. It was down in both turnstile and mutuel figures.

The Jackson Raceway campaign at Jackson in late spring was the most successful ever staged by President and General Manager Leon Slavin with a tremendous increase in betting and attendance.

But it remains for Northville Downs, the smallest of the tracks in the Detroit area, to make the best showing to date.

Officials of the other racing plants have always taken a dim view of the tight operation of Northville's Executive Manager John Carlo. That is up to this year when Carlo, who always takes a dim view of promotions, is conducting one of the most successful harness racing meets in the United States.

For the first time the half-mile plant has really taken hold. Better horses, excellent weather, the ultra-modern clubhouse and the racing strip that is only a few yards away from the stands caught the fancy of the betting public with the result that business is booming.

The 'Downs figured to end the 35-night season with a nightly average of $420,000 for a hike of 12.7 per cent over the $372,931 for the same number of nights a year ago. It had handled $18,866,599 for 33 nights.

The turnstile count was up 14.2 per cent with a nightly average count of 5,667 compared to 4,984 in 1970. A total of 187,011 stormed through the gates.

And that should go far in convincing Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley that Northville should retain its summer dates. It's rather hard to order a change in the face of such success.

It will be interesting to see what happens come next December when the Commissioner has to announce the dates.

Northville had a rough go during the winter when it had to start midway through the Windsor meeting. But even under those conditions the 'Downs was cutting into Windsor's business in the final three weeks of the wintry season.

HAZEL PARK runners got off to an excellent start Monday although the figures were a bit below those of a year ago.

The crowd of 14,981 sent $1,160,509 through the machines. That compared to 16,418 of a year ago that wagered $1,267,859.

From those in attendance came complaints that the track didn't have enough machines to take care of customers at the trifecta machines. Management has been promised an additional 20 within a few days and that should ease the situation.

In case you are interested, the first trifecta paid $357 and the second soared to $7,680 with seven ticket holders.

APPLICATIONS for stalls for the fall and winter meetings at Windsor Raceway are now being accepted by Director of Racing Joe DeFrank. The deadline for completed stall applications is Monday, Sept. 20 with the $3-program fall harness meeting scheduled to begin on Sunday, Oct. 31.

Many tracks in the colder regions of North America have patterned new or renovated stable facilities after Windsor's comfortably heated barns and tack rooms.

Track President William Rowe announced that all backstretch facilities, including cafeteria, will be available for early arrivals on Monday, Oct. 18.

Researchers Fighting To Save Dutch Elms

By BETTY FRANKEL

Majestic American elm trees once not so long ago brought beauty and dignity and comfort to the streets, parks and yards of America. Now gaunt skeletons or broad stumps are all that remain. Have we abandoned the American elm to extinction and oblivion?

There are still a few million American elm trees left throughout the country. They are dying at a rate of about a million each year. It is estimated that at this rate they will be extinct in about fifteen years. However, the Elm Research Institute holds out hope that a control can be found.

The Dutch Elm disease is caused by a fungus which infects the trees, growing in the water and food conducting tubes that are located in the live growing wood just beneath the bark.

The fungus plugs the tubes so water cannot pass upward from the roots and food manufactured by the leaves cannot be transported to other parts of the tree where it is needed.

The fungus is spread by a small beetle called an elm bark beetle (there are two kinds) that bores into the tree to lay its eggs. These hatch into grubs that live in tunnels beneath the bark until they emerge as adults.

Both the adults and the larvae spread the fungus spores that infect the trees and cause the disease. The beetles are merely carriers and do not cause the disease.

DUTCH ELM disease was first noticed in Europe shortly after World War I. Our government tried to institute controls to keep the disease out of the country, but unknowingly the fungus was brought to this country in some elm wood imported for use in making fine furniture. Dutch elm disease was first noticed in this country in Ohio and Maryland in the early 1930's.

For many years the accepted control was a spring spraying with DDT. Now that the lethal properties of DDT have been recognized this is taboo.

At best the spraying was only partly successful because it is difficult to get total coverage on a large tree and insects managed to invade if even a few twigs were missed by the spray.

Another problem was that trees growing near each other formed natural grafts between the roots and the fungus spread through these grafts from diseased to healthy trees and could even enter sprayed trees in this manner.

At the present, good sanitation is the best control to use. With strict sanitation losses can be kept down. Cut and burn dead trees and remove stumps, too. Strip the bark from stumps that can't be routed out.

Research has been carried out at several major universities, including Michigan State. Coordination of this research and funds for some of it have come from an organization known as the Elm Research Institute.

THE RESEARCH has proceeded in several directions including breeding at resistant strains of elm trees, biological controls, and chemical controls.

One question researchers are seeking to answer is why elm bark beetles prefer elms and not other trees. The answer seems to be that there is a specific chemical substance in the elm bark that attracts the elm bark beetle.

At Michigan State University Dr. James Bucher is doing research with a predator wasp that attacks the beetle larvae. The problem, though, is how to spread the wasps around so they can attack the beetles.

In other research, resistant trees are being studied. Here and there an elm remains healthy and alive even though others around it succumb. These resistant trees are being studied to determine how they withstand the fungus and they are being used to breed new strains.

Seedling trees from resistant trees will soon be available to the public. Although it will be many years until these little trees could reach the stature of the big old trees that died, the elms can survive only if people continue to plant them.

A third approach is to devise a way to kill the fungus or prevent its growth. Several possible chemicals are being investigated.

SOME of the promising research is being done at Cranbrook Institute by Dr. Bela J. Szappanyes, a Birmingham physician. He has mixed a fungicide with a substance that makes it water soluble so the tree can absorb it. This solution, which he claims is non-toxic to people or animals and is biodegradable, is dripped into holes bored in the trunk of the tree.

His method, which would cost a few dollars per tree treated, is not practical for trees in the wild but would be feasible for shade trees in a yard or park.

The solution used by Dr. Szappanyes is not available for purchase at any stores because of the requirements of the government for strict and careful testing with adequate controls.

Although it is difficult to meet the standards of the Federal government, Dr.

Szappanyes' method seems promising and the University of Detroit is going to try it on their remaining elm trees.

Until this, or some other control, becomes available to the public, what can be done? The Elm Research Institute urges careful sanitation and prompt removal of diseased trees and bark. This is the first line of defense at present.

They also suggest that elms be given professional care and also suggest that communities arrange for group tree care rather than leaving it to a hit or miss individual basis.

They also urge that people continue planting elms and they have distributed over 20,000 young elms for planting.

Garden Reminders

Fall web worms, often mistaken for tent caterpillars, can be controlled by spraying with Sevin... Yellow needles on evergreens can be caused by red spider mites. A heavy stream of water from the garden hose can dislodge them... Climbing roses can be pruned now to remove old wood that flowered poorly... Give late blooming mums a final pinching to keep them bushy and remove some buds from early mums if larger flowers are desired... Divide and transplant iris... Plant seeds of biennials such as foxglove and canterbury bells for bloom next year... Remove faded flowers to keep annuals blooming.

Louvered Shutters

Louvered wood shutters, attractive as window coverings, also are practical in many ways. Over the kitchen sink, for example, splashes can be wiped off easily instead of frequently laundering curtains. Shutters also make good doors to close off the space between kitchen counters and cabinets for storing mixers, toasters and the like, yet keeping them easily at hand. Full-length bifold louvered doors attractively enclose kitchen shelves, turning them into a well-ventilated pantry in a minimum of floor space. Fir and hemlock louvered doors and shutters easily take a variety of finishes.

Band To Give Final Concert

Four clarinetists will be featured Thursday night in the Plymouth Community Band's final concert of its Kellogg Park summer series.

This will be the band's annual scholarship donation night, and the entertainment will open at 8 p.m. barring a rainstorm such as the one which washed out last week's concert.

Conductor James Griffith has selected a number of Broadway show tunes and marches for the 90-minute program. As a special attraction clarinetists Judy Laitinen, Linda Hagopian, Gary Buckberry and Debbie Sanocki will perform Paganini's "Perpetual Motion," with band accompaniment.

Buckberry and Miss

Laitinen graduated from Plymouth High School in June, while the two others will be seniors this fall. All were members of last year's PHS symphony band.

Also in the spotlight will be the percussion students of Gary Hill, who will appear in two percussion ensembles.

Hill is a former PHS bandsman who now is majoring in music at the University of Michigan. He is a member of both the U. of M. marching and symphony bands and toured Europe with the latter last spring.

Other than last week's disappointment when the weather caused the concert's cancellation, the band has drawn the largest crowds this summer of any year in its history.

2 School Employee Groups Are Given Wage Boost of 6%

A six per cent across the board wage increase has been approved by the Plymouth Board of Education for all the secretaries and transportation employees.

Contracts for each group had previously been ratified by the employee groups.

The increase followed the pattern previously set by the administration contract, which also was ratified at a six per cent increase.

THE INCREASE in the bus driver wage scale brings the base pay for the first year of employment from $3.40 per hour to $3.60. For each year's employment after the first year, the salary rose from $3.75 per hour to $3.98.

On special trips, bus drivers will be paid $3.60 per hour rather than the $3.40 they received last year.

The secretaries' salary schedule is graduated, depending upon the position and the number of years experience.

Those secretaries who have moved to a high rated position will realize a wage increase more than six per cent.

When they reach the top of the salary schedule for a given position which ends at six years experience, the secretaries are eligible for longevity.

The longevity schedule provides for a one per cent increase in hourly rate after eight years experience, 1.5 per cent after 10 years, two per cent after 12 years, and 2.5 per cent after 14 years.

Hotel Tax Asked For County Stadium

A proposed tax on hotels and motels to finance construction of a downtown stadium has been endorsed by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The tax proposal is part of the 1971 urban county legislative program on which the counties of Genesee, Kent, Macomb, Oakland, and Wayne are seeking consensus before urging adoption by the State Legislature.

The five counties represent 75 per cent of Michigan's population.

JOSEPH W. WYCKOFF will become chief scout executive for the Detroit Area Council of Boy Scouts of America on Aug. 16, succeeding the retiring Joseph H. Brinton.

Wyckoff, a 20-year veteran of professional scouting, has been assistant to the chief executive and has served in Indianapolis, Jackson and in New Jersey.

AMONG THE priorities in the legislative package is a Wayne County request for more funds from the state to match social service expenditures.

Genesee and Kent Counties are asking to keep 17 per cent of any increase in state income taxes, and Macomb County wants supplemental payments for its medical care program.

Oakland County's chief concern is a revised formula for taxing gasoline and the weight of vehicles traveling its roads.

The proposed hotel-motel tax would apply only to counties with populations of 1.5 million or more and would specifically be levied against individuals and businesses which provide lodging for transients.

Such a tax could generate a half million dollars per year for stadium financing, according to Richard E. Manning, chairman of the Board of Commissioners Legislative Committee.

Manning, a Democrat, represents Redford Township and parts of Dearborn Heights. It is the Legislative Committee of which he is chairman that recommended the tax to the full board.

the state, a downtown stadium could be financed without taxing Wayne County residents," said Manning.

The Legislative Committee recommended a tax rate not to exceed five per cent, which presumably be added to the charges of hotel and motel guests. Revenue would be deposited in a special fund and used only for the leasing or construction of a stadium, says Manning.

During coming months the Legislative Committee will coordinate closely with representatives of the other counties while trying to develop a legislative program that is acceptable to all five.

The Wayne County Board approved the program July 15. Besides Manning, other members of the Legislative Committee are:

Roscoe L. Bobo, Ecorse; Joseph Cardinal, Dearborn;

James DeSena, Wyandotte; William L. Dunbar, Detroit; Huey A. Ferguson, Detroit; John Lesinski, Dearborn; John J. McCann, Livonia; James R. McCartney, Westland; Thomas P. O'Rourke, Detroit; Michael J. Reilly, Detroit; Rose Mary C. Robinson, Detroit; Eugene A. Sikora, Detroit; Ervin A. Steiner Jr., Grosse Pointe; Frederick Yates, Detroit; and Albert J. Zak, Hamtramck.

Bendix Net Up In 3rd Quarter

Bendix Corp.'s earnings for the third fiscal quarter showed a 32 per cent increase although sales and royalties increased only slightly.

For the first nine months, sales actually decreased while profits rose.

Third quarter earnings were $10,118,000 or 62 cents a share compared to $7,787,000 or 47 cents a share (restated) for the same period last year.

A.P. Fontaine, Bendix chairman and chief executive officer, said the improved earnings continue to benefit from the steps the company has taken to reduce costs and increase efficiency.

"In addition, most of our major markets are holding firm or improving, despite the fact that the general economy has not improved substantially," he said.

forest products, Bendix reported sales, royalties and other operating income of $1,208,638,000 in the first nine months of the current fiscal year. This compares to $1,280,184,000 for the same period of last year.

The 1970 figures are restated to reflect the consolidation of certain foreign operations and the acquisition of American Forest Products Corp.

"The market for Bendix automotive products continues to be good," Fontaine said. "The demand and price levels for building materials supplied by American Forest Products Corp. have improved in recent months and the prospects for further improvement are good."

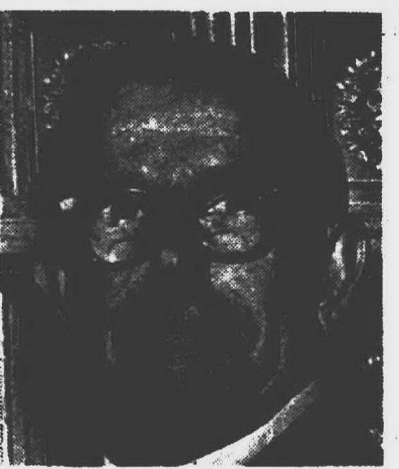

"WHILE SALES volume of our aerospace operations is lower than previous years, as it is throughout the aerospace industry, our profits in this market have been improved," he said.

Fontaine said markets for the company's line of automation and industrial products have failed to show improvement. "This reflects the general lack of recovery in that industry," the chairman said.

FOR THE FIRST nine months, earnings totaled $28,126,000 or $1.71 per share. In the first nine months of fiscal 1970, earnings were $25,547,000 or $1.54 per share and net income was $20,547,000 or $1.24 per share after deduction of an extraordinary charge.

OBSERVATION POINT

Shopping Centers And Suburbs' Future

By Philip H. Power
Publisher

A while ago, together with Emory Daniels, Editor of The Farmington Enterprise & Observer, I paid a visit to A. Alfred Taubman.

Just who, you might well ask, is A. Alfred Taubman?

Basically, he -- and men like him -- are doing more to affect the nature of the suburbs than mayors or school board members or state legislators or congressmen.

A. Alfred Taubman, you see, is a prime mover in developing shopping centers all over the United States. More particularly, he is presently involved in trying to build a giant regional retail center in the northwestern part of Farmington Township.

This center would be on a par with Northland, and the development plan includes lakes, apartments, and all kinds of leisure activity facilities to make shopping a family experience. The Township Planning Commission has turned down the proposed rezoning for the center, but the Township Board has yet to vote on the matter.

THE POINT of this column is not what will happen to the center proposed for Farmington Township, but rather to discuss what Taubman feels is happening in the suburbs generally.

All of us by now have recognized that the phenomenon of shopping centers -- basically a post war development, coming simultaneously with the surge of the suburbs -- is one of the most powerful forces affecting the development pattern of communities in this area.

Livonia city fathers, for example, keep talking about developing a downtown for their city. But the existence of Wonderland and Livonia Mall, both with a wide range of shops and entertainment facilities, acts as a powerful draw to keep people from coming to a downtown composed solely of a city hall, police station, and other government buildings.

Far-sighted people in Plymouth are thinking hard even now about what to do with their pleasant downtown shopping area when the new expressway cuts to the north of the city and spawns shopping centers.

TAUBMAN rejects the very phrase "shopping center," preferring to call them "regional retail centers," pointing out that they serve the needs of an entire region. He adds that people's needs do not end just with places to shop, but include the entire range of leisure and entertainment activities. He stresses the idea of a regional center being an institution which services the complete needs of a family.

He also argues that a regional center set up on a planned basis -- with the mix of stores, entertainment places, and other facilities being very carefully worked out in advance -- is in fact just as sensible as an old fashioned downtown.

"A downtown shopping area," he argues, "developed the way it did over time, with the forces of competition making some merchants successful and others unsuccessful."

Extending this argument, Taubman suggests that a well-planned center can meet the real needs of the public more quickly and effectively than the older shopping areas.

MY OWN reaction to Taubman's views was ambiguous.

Tim Richard writes

Why Not Earlier Start?

At long last, Michigan has made some sense out of its legal system as it affects the "social dynamite" of our times--the 18 to 20 age group. Gov. Milliken has signed the bill putting the "age of majority" at 18 for virtually all legal purposes, and it goes into effect Jan. 1.

Is society now adjusted? Have we fully taken into account the way in which homo sapiens today is maturing, physically and mentally, a year or two faster than in past generations?

No, there is more to be done. The laws on our statute books are only part of the rules by which we live. All we have done so far is to change the laws.

TWO YEARS AGO, this writer produced a "white paper" urging Gov. Milliken to appoint an age of majority commission to suggest how our conflicting laws might be straightened out and how young people could be brought to full citizenship by getting a full package of both rights and responsibilities. This the governor did, and that commission's recommendation will become law.

But the white paper (published June 22, 1969) also suggested that our educational system should be changed, too; that people should be entering college as much as two years younger.

And so I was delighted to read in the July 26 Time magazine that Wilson Riles, the new superintendent of public instruction in California, is planning to do just that with his state's system.

Riles wants to start all of California's 4.4 million public school children "a year before the present kindergarten age of five...Adolescents would be graduated a corresponding year earlier, moving on at the age of 17 to jobs, college or a year off to reconnoiter their futures," Time reports.

Riles' plan has been endorsed by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is being considered by such states as Rhode Island and New York. Michigan should consider it, too.

The Time article concentrates on the implications, many of them social and racial, in starting children at age four, but the effects at the upper end of the scale would be even more startling.

TO PUT IT simply, I think

On one hand, it is hard to argue that shopping centers are not here to stay or that they do not provide the kinds of services that people in fact want. Nor is it possible to pick holes in Taubman's obvious depth of experience, quickness of imagination, and skill in planning.

Still, as I was talking to him, the words "a plastic society" kept running through my mind.

our college students are too old. That's a major reason they're acting up so radically; they want to exercise adult roles, but they're stuck in a system geared for adolescents. They should be brought into college sooner and given their degrees sooner.

This proposal would necessitate little change in the educational system internally. The course content would be the same; everyone would just start younger, reflecting the earlier biological-mental maturing of our species.

Employers would have to change their job descriptions accordingly. After all, we couldn't expect the graduates to walk the street for a year until they could fit the (often arbitrary) standards of the personnel office.

This isn't the year to do it, of course, because there's a recession on and a high jobless rate. The recession won't last forever, though; and besides, it will take a minimum of 13 years for the impact of the change to be felt.

The proposal isn't as radical as it may sound. It calls for changing the system to fit people, not forcing people into our present system.

every candidate carefully during the next five weeks to make certain the best qualified are selected.

Schoolcraft finds itself in an unusual situation. It will begin the new college year with a new president, Dr. Nelson Grote, who won't have a chance to sit down with the board he'll be working with until October.

DURING THE INTERIM, he'll have to try and get decisions from a lame-duck-dominated group. Those who are retiring will be reluctant to go ahead with plans that will strap the new board.

With only two holdovers, there is an excellent chance that there won't be a quorum at some of the monthly meetings.

Trustee Boswell hasn't set any attendance records during the past three years. Dr. Martin's resignation is effective at once, leaving that post vacant.

Trustee Secord hasn't been in the best of health since last winter and may decide to skip a meeting now and then.

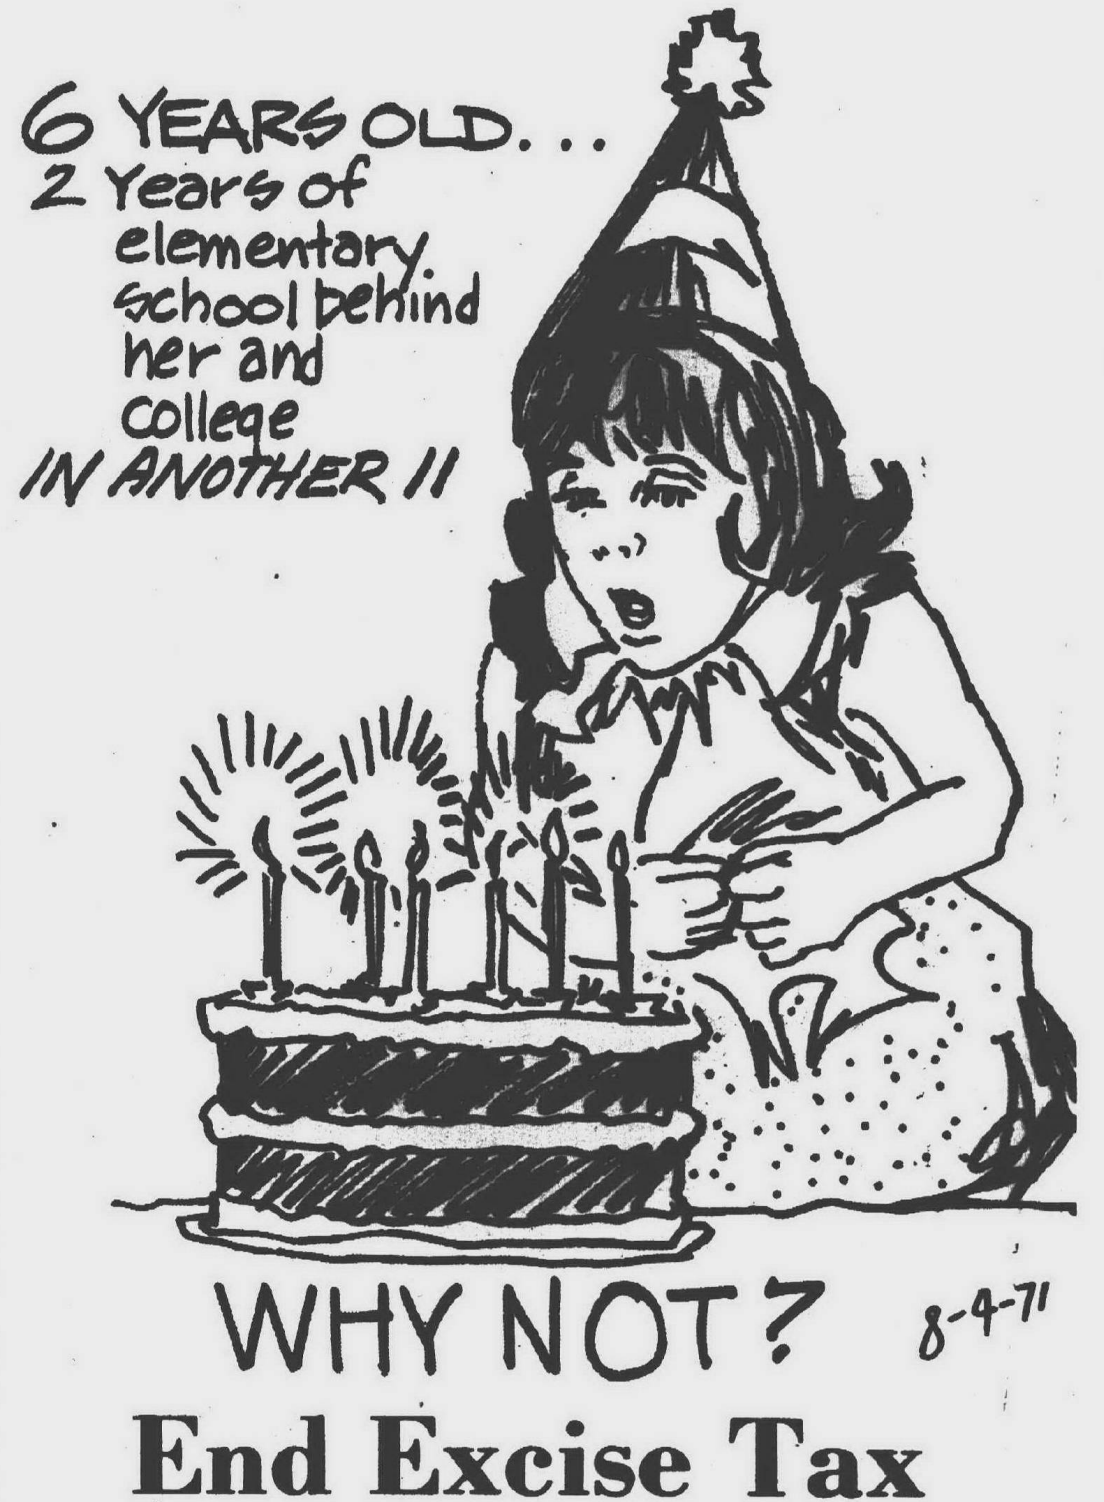

So actually, it leaves only the three oldtimers, who have been members of the board since 1960 to carry on until the end of their terms in October. They are Mrs. Moehle, Oldenberg and Mutnick.

Shopping areas, artificially created and planned, struck me as an uncomfortably new-fashioned idea.

Probably what will happen as time passes is that those people who like the idea of shopping in a center will continue to do so, and since obviously a lot of people like this idea there will be more and more centers serving more and more people.

But I think there is still a place, and an important one, for the small, local merchant, operating his business in a downtown area or in a neighborhood.

The worst outcome would be that we wind up with either all centers or all small merchants, because that would reduce the freedom of choice of the consumer.

By DOUG JOHNSON

Observerland's industries have a direct interest in the proposal of the state's two senators, Robert Griffin and Philip Hart, to end the seven per cent excise tax on automobiles.

The excise tax was a special one levied during World War II, with the expressed purpose of discouraging car buying. The wartime economy was geared to weapons, trucks, tanks and planes, and people should not buy automobiles, it was reasoned.

EACH YEAR SINCE lawmakers in Washington have kicked around the idea of dropping the tax. The time is ripe for several reasons:

We have long since passed the time when it was in the national interest to defer buying a new car.

Michigan's economy is in a serious slump in spite of fairly respectable auto sales figures. The end of the tax could stimulate the state's economy.

The foreign car import threat is now very much a reality and American car dealers have seen the imports take a greater and greater share of the market each year. For example, the state's chamber of commerce reports that sales of the leading Japanese-made cars have nearly doubled during the first five months of 1971 compared to the same period last year. The east and west coast have been hardest hit by the fierce competition. In California 40 per cent of all cars sold are imports, for instance.

IN PLAIN DOLLARS and cents, the excise tax adds $210 to the price of a $3,000 car.

The tax has long outlived its usefulness.

Something To Tell?

Do you have information that may lead to a solution of the fatal accident that took the life of Chris Beattie on Henry Ruff Road in Livonia two months ago?

Remember -- the accident in which the driver struck the high school senior and left her to die alongside the road while the vehicle sped away...a hit and run death that is still unsolved?

The bereaved family has put up $1,000 in a Secret Witness Fund...cash that will be turned over to a secret witness who reveals information that leads to the arrest and conviction of the guilty party.

YOU DO NOT have to identify yourself in any manner. The cash will be turned over to the secret witness once the conviction is made.

If you have information and wish to make it available through the Secret Witness Fund, follow these guidelines:

Write or type the information; in the corner of the letter, write a five-digit number twice, then tear off the one corner with the number, leave the other number on the sheet. In order to collect, the numbers must be identical and the torn corner must fit. There must not be any other identifications, no signatures, no telephone numbers, nothing else but the information.

Send the message to Secret Witness Fund, Box 333, Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, 48150. All letters are in strict confidence and all will be turned over to the Livonia Police Dept.

Boulevard Tough On Left Turns

EDITOR:

Last evening, July 15, at the intersection of Farmington and Five Mile Rds. there was an accident. Why has it upset me so that for the first time in my life I am writing a public letter?

Maybe it was the two ambulances and two police cars blocking the intersection. Maybe it was seeing a small child taken from the car and laid on a stretcher. Maybe it was seeing a police officer trying to comfort others in the car.

Maybe it was seeing another officer waving me through a red light, trying his best to clear the traffic.

Maybe it was these things that prompted me to write this letter. But then, maybe it was the two times in the past when I have been stopped for a left turn from Farmington onto Five Mile and had drivers visibly cuss me out because they did not know how to make a proper left hand turn themselves.

Maybe it is written because of the other times I have been stopped for left turns and watching a car with a left turn blinker on coming towards me and praying he knows how to make that left turn without a headon collision with me.

Maybe it was the times I have sat there and the oncoming driver did not know how to make the turn and with a squeal of brakes finally got into the right lane because that was the only one open for him.

Maybe it was all of these reasons that I am writing or maybe it is since the widening of Farmington Rd. into a boulevard, I now consider this intersection one of the most dangerous in the city because of the left turn situation.

I would like the police department to print the total accidents at this corner for the year previous to the widening of the road and also the total for the year after. I believe you will find an increase in traffic accidents, especially those involving left turns.

Not only am I concerned now about this intersection but the city has plans for widening Five Mile Rd. into another boulevard at this intersection. Then what would it be like with two boulevards and left turns?

I know that the city would like a beautiful intersection here at the center of the city. But at what cost? I do not mean in the terms of the cost to us, the taxpayers, but in the terms of car accidents, the pain, misery and sorrow that can accompany one accident. I also know that this letter is late and the final plans have been laid for the widening of Five Mile but can't they hold off this boulevard deal until a safe and sane left turn program is worked out?

MRS. C. NEYNABAR

Congressman For Youth

EDITOR:

I read with great interest Tim Richard's recent editorial on political groups in the schools ("What's Wrong With School Political Clubs?" on June 16).

As you know, I have always had a direct belief that our young persons should become involved actively in either Young Democrats or Young Republicans, and as I visit our various high schools throughout the district, I am further convinced of that fact.

In any case, I was pleased to see someone write this kind of piece.

Unemployment Worries UAW

EDITOR:

What does the meaning of the word "future" hold for this vast population of employees, who have given the best years of their lives working for small and great corporations, Routinely, I read newspaper articles and react privately. However, this time I am constrained to take pen in hand to raise an issue that thus far your paper has failed to report on.

On June 12, the Emergency Employment Act was voted upon in the House of Representatives, at which time the learned congressman from the 19th District voted to "kill" the bill when he supported an administration-backed substitute providing for special manpower revenue sharing. When the substitute was defeated, the Emergency Employment bill was passed and was signed into law on July 12.

The Emergency Employment Act creates between 150,000 and 200,000 public service jobs. Under this new law, cities such as Livonia and Pontiac are eligible to apply directly to the Labor Department for funds that can be used to hire persons at decent wages who will in turn provide needed community services.

By his vote, the Republican congressman from the 19th District was opposing public service jobs at a time when unemployment is critical and community needs are not being met.

My suggestion would be that the Observer papers consider running a box score on all Observerland congressmen, and let's see where these distinguished gentlemen stand.

We are aware of this situation and feel it is time for all labor, graduated high school students, retirees, veterans, servicemen and servicewomen to band together and set a date on which we can all march to the White House in Washington, D.C. and let our president, senators and congressmen recognize our needs and that we want the security of our jobs here in the United States, and if they cannot help us now, we will elect someone capable of serving us in 1972.

I am having this notice printed with the hope that many other local unions follow up with the intentions of this article and go forward by reprinting the above with the sake of informing all union members and citizens of the United States.

We are openly asking for our fair share of employment for all, young and old alike and the protection of our jobs.

Any knowledge with statistics and assistance of this persisting problem will be appreciated by contacting or writing Local 1313, UAW - 14748 Plymouth Rd., Detroit, 48227.

Co-Op Program To Start At Madonna

Beginning with the fall semester, 1971, Madonna College students will be able to receive college credit for off-campus work experience. The new cooperative education program is designed to provide students with a more realistic view of the world of business, industry, and social service.

With the approval of Sister Mary Lauriana, academic dean, a student may earn credit by planning with her advisor an off-campus experience based on career interests. Placements are made by the college co-op coordinator, Ronald Troyer, and a representative of an agency such as a newspaper, mental health facility, government office, or business.

Michigan Bell Report to Customers

A clarification of facts concerning your telephone service and usage

The cost of your interzone and long distance calls will not be affected by the new proposed rates.

Don't expect the new proposed rates to make a big difference in your phone bill. Because they won't. The new rates would apply mainly to your basic monthly service charges and would not in any way affect the charges for interzone or long distance calls within Michigan. For example, you can make a one-minute call from Detroit to Traverse City for 35¢ or less (depending on whether you dial direct). That same call would cost exactly the same under the new rate proposal.

But, as always, the more toll calls you make, the more you pay.

Though the new rate proposal will not increase interzone and long distance rates, your bill will still go up or down in direct proportion to the number and length of such calls. So, to a great extent, the size of your bill is up to you. You can lower it by making fewer and shorter interzone and long distance calls, if you choose.

If you have any doubts as to what constitutes an "interzone" or "long distance" call, please don't hesitate to call your Michigan Bell Business Office. We want to help.

Meadow Brook Presents 'Fidelio'

RICHARD W. THIEDE, 31336 Morlock, Livonia, plays the role of Joxer Daley in the Eastern Michigan University Players' production of "Juno and the Paycock." Thiede holds an EMU degree in dramatic arts.

The 1971 Meadow Brook Music Festival moves into its seventh week with two full-length concert performances of Beethoven's opera, "Fidelio".

Perhaps the most rarely performed of the world's truly great operas, it contains some of Beethoven's most inspired music.

From the overture to the mighty fugue for orchestra, chorus, and soloists that ends the work, "Fidelio" is one of Beethoven's grandest achievements.

"WE HOPE," said Meadow Brook Music Festival manager Sandor Kallai, "that these performances of 'Fidelio' will mark the beginning of annual productions of opera at Meadow Brook. It's an ambitious undertaking and one that we feel sure will produce exciting results."

Soloists for the "Fidelio" performances on Thursday, Aug. 5, and Saturday, Aug. 7, will be tenor William Cochran as Florestan, soprano, Doris Jung as Leonore, baritone Morley Meredith as Pizarro and Detroit-born bass Ara Berberian as Rocco.

Also in the cast are soprano Sylvia Cooper as Marzelline;

Carillonneur Sets Concert

BLOOMFIELD HILLS Frederick Marriott will make his third and final appearance as guest carillonneur in the 1971 Christ Church Cranbrook Carillon Concert series at 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 8.

The public may listen to the concert at no charge from the church lawn, Church and Lone Pine roads. Programs are in the church narthex.

Marriott, associated with the Detroit Institute of Musical Arts, is former organist and choirmaster of Old Mariners' Church, Detroit.

He is a member of the American Guild of Organists and of the Chorister Guild, as well as past president of the Guild of Carillonneurs in North America.

Remaining carillon concerts at Christ Church are Sept. 19 and Oct. 3.

tenor Mallory Walker as Jaquino; and baritone William Justus as Don Fernando. Richmond Johnson, a member of the Meadow Brook Theatre Company, will narrate.

In addition to the "Fidelio" performances, the week begins Wednesday with a concert featuring Herbie Mann and his new group called Air which has recently been dazzling critics on the East Coast.

Friday's jazz concert is headlined by the King of New Orleans Jazz, Pete Fountain and his band.

The Sunday evening Pops Concert will feature the Detroit Symphony Orchestra conducted by the jovial musician himself, Meredith Willson.

History Workshop Offered

Boys and girls can travel back through time by participating in the "Then Again" workshops being offered during August at the Detroit Historical Museum.

The workshops will be offered from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Wednesdays Aug. 4, 11, and 18 or on Thursdays, Aug. 5, 12 and 19.

The topics are "Back to the Message Carriers" to how news was received before radio, telephone and television; "Back to the Victorians" to find out how to make a wreath, twig-framed motto, and a hanging pocket; and "Back to the 1920s and '30s" when fun meant projects such as tie-dyeing, peep-hole scenes and expanded lanterns. Registration for the workshop is $1.

122nd State Fair Will Open Aug. 27

The 122nd Michigan State Fair will get off to a start this year with what may be the longest parade in its history. More than 27 marching bands from across the state have indicated interest in the parade which begins at 11:30 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 27. The fair will run until Sept. 12.

E. J. Keirns, manager of the fair, said the parade will form at Woodward Avenue and the Fisher Freeway and march south to the reviewing stand at Kennedy Square.

Trophies will be awarded for the best floats, corps and marching bands.

The fair will also feature a Senior Citizen Day as well as the Battle of the Bands competition.

Persons 62-years-old and older will be admitted free of charge until 6 p.m. on Senior Citizen Day on Monday, Aug. 30.

The Coliseum grove will be turned into "Oldtimersville

U.S.A." and will be the center of the day's activities. Awards will be given for the tallest and shortest man and woman, the oldest veteran, the most recently married couple, and the person who traveled the farthest to attend the fair.

The "Senior Citizen of the Year" award will be given to a person showing outstanding service and another for leadership at a special ceremony at 12 noon.

Applications are now being accepted for the Battle of the Bands competition which will run the first 11 days of the fair.

Thirty-six bands will be selected for the elimination contests with competition divided into soul and rock divisions.

Cash prizes and trophies will be given to the top two bands judged on the basis of musicianship and overall musical presentation.

JAZZ PIANIST Father Tom Vaughn will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 8, as part of the Orchard Ridge summer events program in Farmington. His performance will include selections he has played at jazz festivals and from his album, "Jazz in Concert at the Village Gate."

Concert Stars Tom Vaughn

Father Tom Vaughn, a jazz-pianist, will give a concert at 8 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 8, in the Orchard Ridge campus amphitheater as the last event in the college's summer events program.

The campus is located at Farmington Road and I-696. Tickets for the performance are $2 for the public, $1 for OCC students with identification cards, and $4 for a family.

Vaughn is a recording artist who readily attributes his success, at least in part, to coincidence.

HE HAPPENED to be in the right place, Bakers Keyboard Lounge in Detroit, at the right time. Gene Krupa was playing and invited Vaughn to join a set.

Jazz impresario George Wein was in the audience, was impressed with Vaughn's playing, and started him on a professional circuit that included New York's Village Gate, the Newport Jazz Festival, television appearances and college and university concerts.

VAUGHN also is an ordained Episcopalian priest and former curate of St. John Episcopal Church in Midland.

Although he dropped his ecclesiastical collar and title for his first recording "Tom Vaughn Has Piano Power," he continues in both his careers as clergyman and musician. He was a student at Yale Divinity School and was impressed with the concept of Renaissance man -- that happiness lies within the realization of one's own potential and man himself affords man's only limitations.

He is contemporary in his outlook and possesses an unusual awareness of his environment.

Where The Answer Is In Los Angeles

An Evening With Scientology, Made Clear

By JACKIE KLEIN

Tubes of neon light flicker on motes of dust and crushed cigar butts on gritty asphalt tile. The wavering light plays on the long blonde hair of a young girl in rimless glasses and khaki jacket, an American flag emblem tacked on the sleeve. A baby wails. Bearded, blue jeans, bare footed youths sit in rapt attention as a black guitarist in chartreuse, electric blue and plum splattered body shirt croons, "I don't know who I am - life is learning - we are stardust - we've got to get ourselves back to the God."

THE SINGER is Mike Lyles. He is from Celebrity Center in California and they say is he fulfilling a "great purpose in the universe" - disseminating Scientology.

He has reached a "high level of awareness - past clear." The people who have come to hear him sing hope to be there too.

Scientology means the "study of knowledge in its fullest sense." It is an applied philosophy about life and death. Those who have joined the "Church of Scientology" say it is the study of knowing - not merely believing - the road to total freedom.

"Clear" is the optimum individual - no longer possessed of something called "engrams" - moments of unconsciousness containing physical pain or painful emotion.

On the bare walls of the Detroit Scientology meeting room are tone scales and Scientology awareness level placards. There is a blown-up picture of L. Ron Hubbard, the man who founded and developed the Dianetics, which means "through thought," and Scientology, Hubbard, the idol of followers, is on a ship in the Mediterranean, doing more research.

He started out writing science fiction.

"WE ARE ALL going home," Lyles vocalizes. "Sing along," he urges the mini crowd of curiosity seekers, escape seekers, the ones who "know," the ones who are looking for answers, and the nattily dressed Scientology staff executives.

Like a revival meeting, the group joins in, "We are all going home." Young children on their mothers laps join in the chorus - "la, la, la, la"

- a mother nurses a hungry infant.

"I'm weary and I'm wastin', but I can't find my home," the singer laments. "We are but a moment's sunlight fading on the grass."

"Look at the person sitting next to you," he directs, teeth flashing. "Shake as many hands as you can while I sing one chorus - Come on people how, smile at your brother, everybody get together, try to love one another right now."

"Louder, everybody, sing along louder, convince the guy next door we mean what we say - stop chewing bubble gum and lookin' at the floor - sing, shake hands - how many hands did you shake, nine? Divine nine," Lyles sets the mood.

A tall statuesque girl in mini-skirt and boots enters smiling. Her name is Lynn and she is from the Advanced Organization in Los Angeles. She is an "O.T. 7" - past clear.

SHE IS JOINED by Ian, a mustached, frail young man with a limey accent. He is from the Advanced Organization of Saint Hill in London and he, too, an "O.T. 7."

"How many are old hats?" queries Lynn, still smiling. Only two people raise their hands. "Does anyone know what 'clear' means?" she continues. "Does anyone know what it means and doesn't want to go 'clear'?" There is laughter.

"Where can you go to get 'clear'?" You can't get it here. You've got to go clear to Los Angeles, but at least you're on the right planet," she explains.

She doesn't tell the eager, attentive audience that it costs about $1,000 to go 'clear' in Los Angeles.

"Only God's got the technology to be free. But you can be yourself, be free, like yourself," she enthuses.

"If you can wake up in the a.m. and still be on planet earth, man, that takes guts," Ian observes, pacing back and forth, getting a laugh. It sounds like "wike up" and "tikes" in Cockney lingo.

"You're clear after processing through Scientology," he advises. "You get rid of all that garbage you've been carrying around for awhile. You can do what you want to do, be what you want to be."

"DID YOU ever dream of being a beautiful person? Doing everything right? Nursing people back to health?" coos Lynn, lulling the fascinated listeners into roseate daydreaming.

"That's what you are, what you can do when you're clear," she assures.

"You want to see a sane planet - that's a gas trip, man," Ian interjects, index finger twirling upward.

"Scientology believes people are basically good - different from other people around. It's a religious philosophy, man, welcome to tech (technology). It's not to be put in a book shelf, it's to be used on yourself and your neighbors."

"You can make someone better who's all hung up on drugs or screwed up," Lynn agrees. "You can free yourself and others by getting 'clear.'"

"You've lived before. It's a weird idea to think you've only lived once. You can recall your past lives by getting 'auditing' to get rid of the garbage."

The 'auditor,' she explains, discharges the painful emotion from later life as it was displayed in conscious moments until the "pre-clear" is no longer affected by "engrams."

"When a 12-year-old child prodigy plays the violin like crazy, he's done it before," Ian offers. "Let's set this planet up so we can groove and have fun-be cool. Auditing makes the able more able, man."

"YOU GUYS are reaching - looking for something," Lynn reveals, scanning the audience who are leaning back in their chairs smoking, concentrating hard. "Find something that works, don't go in for rituals. Everything's good if it helps survival. You can be totally free from problems and free others. Communication is the start. You can handle problems if you're audited."

HOW DO YOU get the money? Lynn doesn't say. Another staff member says the kids have to work for it like selling Scientology books and getting commissions for bringing people into the "sect." She says Scientology is a "Non-profit" organization and the money goes back into research - like for Hubbard, who she emphasizes is on a ship, not a yacht. And she says, she doesn't believe, she knows.

Lynn says she paid $25 for the first course in "communications." Since then she has joined the staff and doubled her income.

"If you look for a job, go to the best place and get it," Ian says confidently. He hears a few groans - expressions of disbelief.

"They're hiring right here in this building. Scientology is growing and needs people to staff it," Ian assures.

But you can't teach it until you've at least taken an advanced course. And it takes $3,000 to get all the way up to the highest levels - way beyond 'clear.' Somewhere along the line you can open your own "org" - Scientology organization.

"You get to understand people and why they do the nutty things they do," Lynn smiles. "You know what to do - how to survive. What are you? You're a spiritual being, not a body that sits in the grave and sees your soul go off and have fun."

"I knew a chick who couldn't talk to herself without making an appointment. She took Scientology and now she talks in front of 25 cats. If you can't communicate, you might as well stuff yourself in a mailbox, man, and mail yourself home."

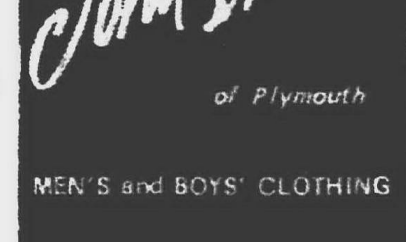

"When in doubt, communicate. Clear is where it's at. You hear music and suddenly you hear it - 'pum, pum, pum, from now to now to now.'"

"Cool is a great trip. Come along with us, it's a groovy game - sanity and freedom on this planet we call earth."

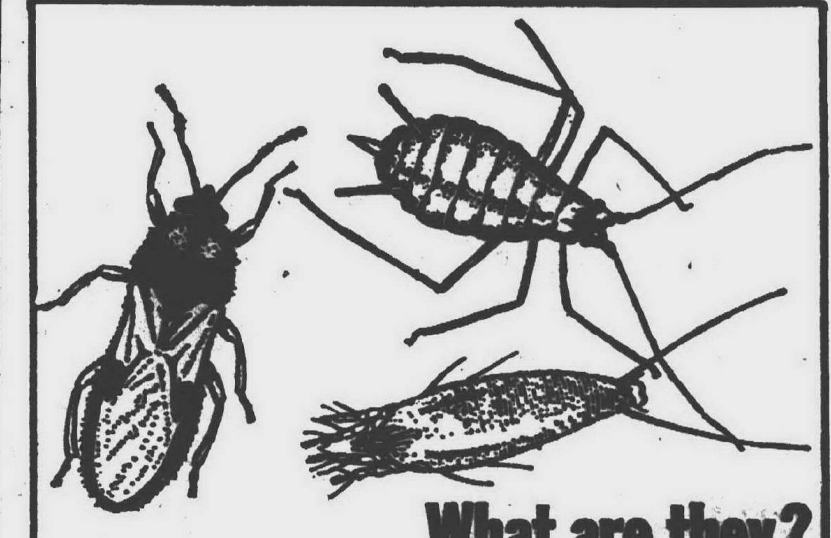

A team of specialists is waiting in Los Angeles, Denmark and London to make people 'clear.' You can go there if you've got the $1,000.

But don't ask too many questions. You may get answers like "basic-basic" and "perceptics" and "sonics" and "visio." The answers are not "clear."

Like Ian says, "The trip is don't be serious, man." And always answer a question with a question.

Westland Site 'Most Likely' For Youth Center

WESTLAND A Westland location has been described as the "most likely location" for a $12 million Wayne County juvenile detention and rehabilitation facility.

The county board of commissioners last week authorized a $44,000 contract for the early stage planning of the facility with the planning expected to be completed next January.

THE NEW construction would provide the county with its first rehabilitation facility for juveniles.

Proposed for the location is county-owned land just south of Michigan Ave., opposite the Wayne County General Hospital complex on the north side of the street.

The new facility would include juvenile court hearing rooms, offices for probation officers, detention quarters and a short-term rehabilitation facility, said Commissioner John Lesinski, chairman of the planning and capital improvement committee.

Upon joint recommendation of the Board's Planning and Capital Improvement Committee, and the Juvenile Affairs Committee, the commissioners have approved the hiring of the management consultant firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company.

UNDER TERMS of the contract the consulting firm will conduct a study of current and potential needs, and develop a program to serve the juvenile court system throughout the entire county.

The study is being financed from a $90,000 federal grant awarded last year. Funds from the same grant will also pay for costs of implementing results of the study, which will lead into construction planning and design.

Lesinski said the rehabilitation program is a critical need because it takes too long to enter a youngster into the state training school.

The chairman of the Juvenile Affairs committee, Rose Mary Robinson, believes that the chief handicap in the fight against juvenile delinquency is the lack of rehabilitation facilities.

"BECAUSE WE lack these facilities at present, many potentially dangerous youths must be released instead of receiving the treatment they often need," she says.

Children Enjoy Playground Fun

WESTLAND As the music began, each youngster who had paid his penny began walking clockwise.

When the music stopped, the youngster stopped, and whoever stood on the lucky number won delicious baked goods.

The cake walk last week at the Madison School playground was a kick-off activity leading up to Westland Recreation's play day in August.

THE CAKE WALK was held in a play area in colored chalk. For a penny fee, a youngster had a chance at winning donated baked goods.

The proceeds of the cake walk will be used to finance a carnival. Proceeds from the carnival will then be used to help finance prizes for play day.

Organizing the activities and supervising them are the two playground leaders, Gail Marchand and Ron Scripsick. Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marchand of 2215 Minerva, Westland, is working for Westland Parks and Recreation Department for the third summer. During the winter she attends Alma College where she is majoring in French and speech and majoring also in physical education.

Her future plans include either teaching or interpreting as a career.

RON SCRIPSICK of 31762 Arenal, Westland, is newer than Gail as a playground leader. He did his undergraduate work at Michigan Technological College and plans on graduate work in physics at either University of Michigan, Wayne State, or Eastern Michigan University.

His interests are politics and sports and he enjoys the recreation program.

The kids' verdict of the recreation program and the playleaders is enthusiastic as the leaders' comments about the youngsters.

Joey Fraser, 110, of 36032 Florane, Westland, mentioned softball as his favorite recreation activity and Sheryl Ashford, 7, 1421 Walton, Westland, lists box hockey as her favorite.

CHARLIE BROWN, the Michigan Humane Society's "dog of the week" at the Westland animal shelter, dons a graduation cap to prove that not all dogs are dumb. Ronald Blauet, animal shelter manager, said that the basset hound is 1 1/2 years old, has had all of his shots, is housebroken and good with children. Charlie and other dogs up for adoption are available at the newly-opened shelter on 32755 Marquette Rd., just east of Newburgh.

Takes Office

Mrs. Cecilia Elbanowski of Westland is taking over as second vice president of the Detroit chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants.

Installed during the organization's recent meeting, she will work with the new president, Mrs. Vera M. Miller, CPA, of Royal Oak.

It's A Boy

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jensen of Plymouth announce the birth of a son, John Erik. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John J. Shestak of Gary, Ind., and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Jensen of Knoxville, Tenn.

Marcia Boehme Weds At Village

In a ceremony written by the bride and groom in which they gave a public confession of faith before repeating their marriage vows, Marcia Ann Boehme became the bride of David Robert Barnes.

The Rev. Dr. Bartlett L. Hess of Ward United Presbyterian Church, Livonia, officiated at the ceremony in the Martha-Mary Chapel at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, June 26, at 11 o'clock in the morning.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Boehme of Kathryn Street, Garden City, and the bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Marion D. Barnes of Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza and peau d'ange lace. The scalloped neckline, puffed sleeves and empire bodice were of lace. The gown extended into a Camelot train and the gown and train were hemmed with matching lace. A bandeau of Alencon lace petals frosted with seed pearls and crystals held the bride's tiered veil of illusion.

Dr. Linda Carolyn Boehme, as her sister's maid of honor, wore a white voile gown with a scooped neckline and bouffant sleeves, embroidered in vivid peasant colors. The fitted waistline was accented by a cummerbund of red linen.

Wearing identical gowns were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Robert Odmark, a childhood friend of the bride, and Lois and Deborah Barnes, the bridegroom's sisters.

All carried cascades of red carnations, yellow daisies, blue cornflowers and stephanotis with red satin streamers, and wore matching floral headpieces.

JOHN BARNES, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Dwayne Collier, a fellow student, and William Boehme, the bride's brother, and Philip Barnes, the bridegroom's brother, were the ushers.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length silk worsted gown in aqua with the yoke and sleeves of applique organza. She carried on her purse a matching royal bouquet orchid. The bridegroom's mother also wore a long gown of pink satin with a fitted waistline and rhinestone trim. She also carried a matching orchid.

The organist was Mrs. Carole Halmekangas of Livonia.

The reception was held at the Dearborn Inn, after the bridal party toured the village in a horse-drawn carriage.

Rose petals were thrown at the newlyweds as they left for a wedding trip to Stratford and Niagara Falls, Ont.

They are living in Memphis, Tenn.

The bride received her BA degree from Wheaton College and her MS degree in guidance and student personnel from Michigan State University. She is a resident counselor and assistant to the dean at Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio. The bridegroom received his BS degree from Wheaton College and is currently a third-year medical student at the University of Tennessee Medical School in Memphis.

MRS. DAVID BARNES
(Marcia Boehme)

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Esch of Detroit announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Jay Bruce McDonald, son of Mrs. Catherine McDonald of Benton Harbor. The bride-to-be is a 1965 graduate of Bentley High School and a senior at Eastern Michigan University. Her fiancé graduated from EMU, where he was affiliated with Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity. An Aug. 21 wedding is planned.

PATRICIA ESCH

Coed Studies In Mexico City

Leanne Richeson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Richeson, 31511 Vargo, Livonia, recently returned from a trip to Mexico City where she studied Spanish literature at the Ibero-Americana University.

Miss Richeson was given a scholarship for the six-week session and lived with a Mexican family during her stay. She will be a senior at Central Michigan University in the fall.

Harrison-Brooks Vows Exchanged

At a ceremony in Our Lady of Sorrows Church, Farmington, Cheryl Ann Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brooks of Albion Ave., Farmington, became the bride of William Jay Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Harrison of Nine Mile Road, Farmington. The ceremony was performed by Mons. Thomas Beahan.

A reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Farmington, for 150 guests. The bride's mother wore a silk shantung sheath with bouffant sleeves, in mint green. The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow sheath dress with a matching lace coat. The newlyweds left for a honeymoon in the north.

THE BRIDE wore a gown of nylon tulle trimmed with lace with a matching mantilla, held in place by a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade of white roses and baby's breath.

Karen Bolohan, as maid of honor, wore a gown of yellow chiffon, trimmed with lace, with long puffed sleeves. Her flowers were a cascade of tipped yellow carnations.

Similarly attired were the bridesmaids, Sue Enders, in orchid, and the bride's two sisters, Linda Brooks, in blue, and Pamela Duman in pink.

JERRY LEMA was best man. The ushers were Jim Stippich, Gary Gorenjak and Michael Duman.

The bride's brother, Steven Brooks, and the bridegroom's brother, Mark Harrison, were the junior ushers.

Tough To Predict How 18-Year-Olds Will Vote

ANN ARBOR
Ratification of the 26th Amendment to the Constitution has given the vote to 18-year-olds, but it apparently has not made election forecasting any easier.

It is hard to say what effect the added numbers of younger voters will have on national, state or local elections, according to Dr. Gerald G. Bachman, a senior study director with The University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. He has been sampling the attitudes and opinions of young men in a continuing national study begun in 1966.

In general, Bachman suggests, young men tend to emulate the political patterns of their parents. But many young voters-to-be are undecided or independent in their preferences, and historically young voters have tended to vote less often than their elders.

The U-M study, like most others, has determined "that most young people tend to have political preferences like their parents," Bachman explains. "If their parents are conservative, there is a pretty good chance that they will tend to vote conservatively, and if their parents are liberal, they tend to be the same."

"Among those who do express a party preference, we find more expressing a preference for the Democratic party than for the Republican party, but that is true of adults as well. For young people, the percentages among those expressing a preference would run anywhere from 60 to 65 per cent in favor of the Democratic party.

"HOWEVER, there are even more who say they are undecided, or they would vote for the best man, or they view themselves as independents. And in many ways these young people represent a general tendency among the young to be more flexible, less set in their political ways, more willing to be responsive to new issues."

Bachman estimates that 40 per cent or more of young people may fall into category of "undecided, or independent, or say they would vote for the best man."

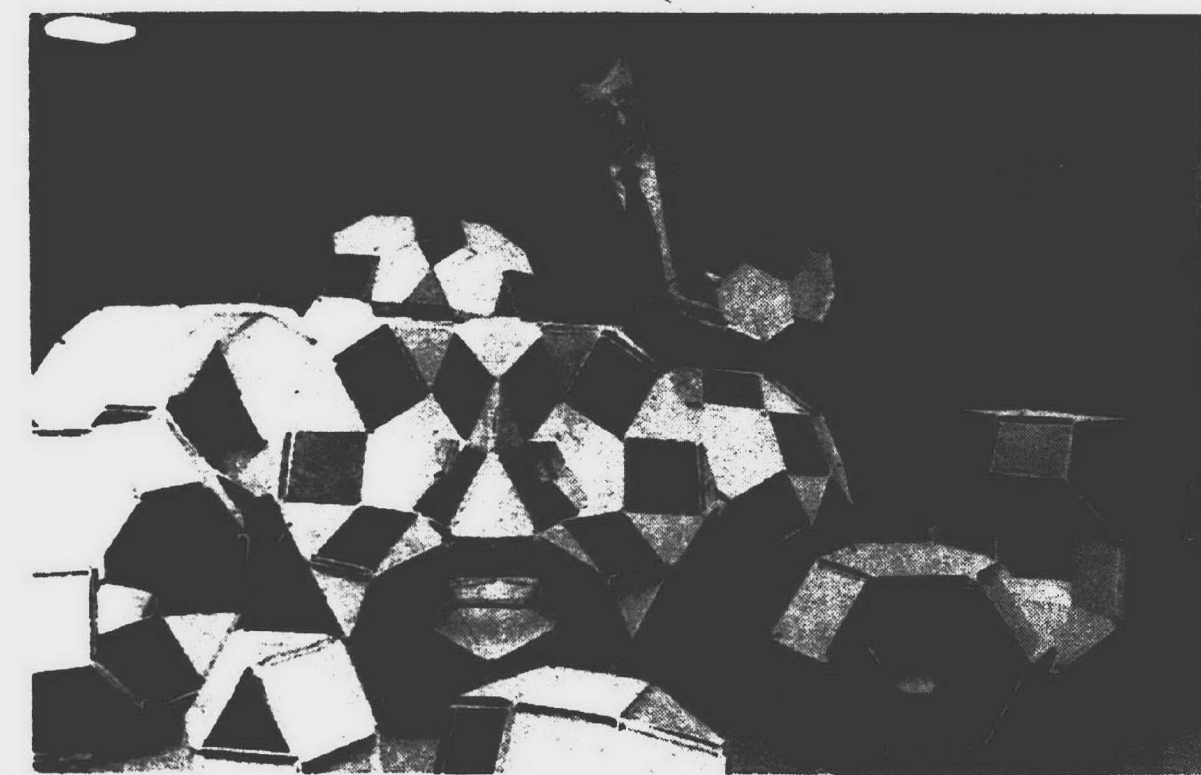

How enthusiastically will young people go to the polls? "That is hard to answer," Bachman says. "Studies in the past that have separated out voters of different ages indicate that voters in their early 20s have in recent history tended to vote a bit less often or in less proportions than those a bit older."

"If we were to extrapolate from that, we would suppose the 18-year-old voters would probably go to the polls in lower proportion than people somewhat older, or than they will when they get older."

"On the other hand, we have seen recent efforts to get the 18-year-olds registered—some of them focused in the high schools before they graduate. If efforts like that continue, we may find that the introduction of the 18-year-old vote really paves the way for more active involvement of young voters. I think the events of the next few years are going to make a real difference."

THE U-M researcher suggests that the publicity on the 26th Amendment proposal and 18-year-old vote "certainly has changed the views of young people about voting. The proportion favoring the 18-year-old vote increased substantially between 1965 and 1969 among young people themselves."

LIFE AMONG THE TOROIDS—Dr. Bonnie M. Stewart found himself with a basement full of toroids by the time he completed a recent book about geometric forms. The Michigan State University mathematics professor, amateur artist, and modern-day scribe, hand-lettered and illustrated the entire 206-page paperback "Adventures Among the Toroids."

Wrong-Way Crashes Are Linked To Drink

Drinking drivers are involved in well over half of the "wrong-way" accidents on Michigan freeways.

Analysis of such accidents on the more than 1,400 miles of freeway in the five years from 1966 through 1970 showed that between 50 and 75 per cent, involved drivers who had been drinking.

A total of 219 wrong-way accidents were reported on state freeways from 1966 through 1970. They claimed 50 lives.

THE WORST in state history occurred July 17 when an auto and a station wagon rammed each other on the I-75 Freeway near Grand Blanc, south of Flint. Nine persons were killed and one permanently injured.

A large portion of the accidents are caused by drivers who enter a freeway on an exit ramp. Others occur when vehicles cross a median or, rarely, when a car goes the wrong way on an entrance road to a freeway rest area.

Erection of median guard rail has helped prevent wrong-way crashes. However, no practical method has been developed to prevent vehicles from entering exit ramps. The main deterrents are warning devices.

ON A STANDARD interchange, two pairs of reflective black-and-white and red-and-white signs are installed on each side of the ramps.

The first pair of 24-inch-wide signs warn the driver "Do Not Enter—Wrong Way." The second pair, 36 inches wide and placed farther down the ramp, say "Wrong Way."

In addition, red reflector buttons, known as delineators, are attached to a series of small metal standards running down both sides of the ramp to give the night driver additional warning.

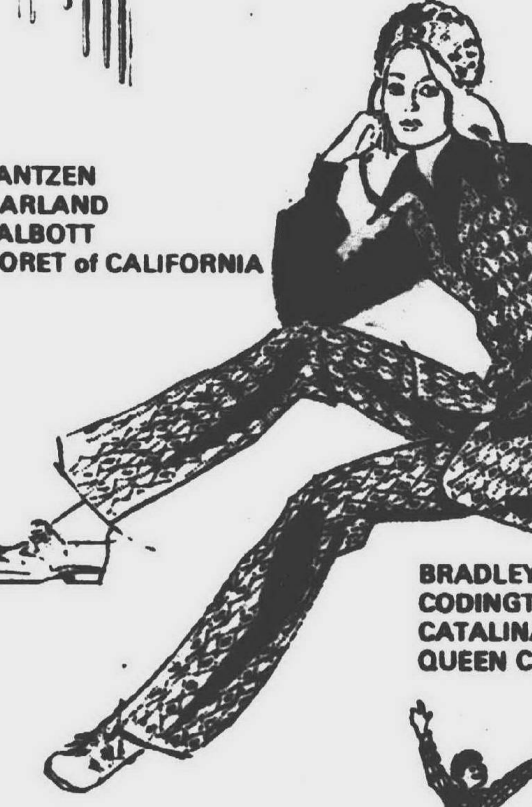

A team of traffic engineers from the Department of State Highways has investigated the area of the I-75 accident near Grand Blanc. They will issue a report on their findings.

Records checked from 1967 through 1970 showed wrong-way fatalities on I-75 through all of Oakland County or in Genesee County as far north as M-121 (Bristol Road). There were 14 accidents with 19 injuries. In most of the collisions, one or both of the drivers had been drinking.

How Local Reps Split On Tax Issues

An Observer Roundup
Four area House of Representative members voted "no" on the proposal to raise Michigan's income tax from 2.6 per cent to 3.9 per cent last week. Three others voted yes.

constitutional amendment, which would provide property tax relief and a graduated income tax. That amendment would put school financing in the hands of the state.

HERE'S THE Observer Newspapers poll of how local representatives voted on the two key questions:

Reps. John Bennett (D-Redford), Raymond Baker (R-Farmington and Southfield), Richard Young (Westland and southern Livonia) and James Defebaugh (R-Southfield) voted "no" on the income tax increase.

Reps. James Tierney (D-Plymouth and Garden City), Joseph Forbes (D-Southfield) and Marvin Stempien (D-Livonia) all voted "yes" on the increase.

The state will realize a hike of about $250 million from the tax rate increase; state officials say most of it will go to meet present needs.

About $77 million will go to welfare recipients, another $21 million to Medicaid recipients. About $28 million will go to elementary and high schools. Other funds will go to colleges, sewage treatment plants, school aid, and to pay for the 8.1 per cent civil service pay increase for state employees.

Inflation brings state spending up about 10 per cent each year, according to Glenn S. Allen Jr., the governor's assistant on financial affairs.

BENNETT SAID he refused to vote for the tax increase because there was no promise that the South Redford School District would not lose $685,000 in state aid through repeal of the "grandfather" clause.

(Briefly, that clause provides that no district can get less than it did before the "grandfather" act was passed. It was part of revised state aid formulas used in the past few years.)

"I said I would vote for the increase if I knew my district wouldn't lose aid under the grandfather clause. Ryan (House Speaker William Ryan) said he couldn't guarantee it, so I wouldn't vote for it," Bennett said. "The only place we really benefit from the state budget in Redford Township is from state aid to schools," Bennett said.

Bennett said that he also opposed the revenue sharing plan being pushed by Detroit reps. "That's a gimmicked-up formula to take money from the suburbs and give it to Detroit," Bennett said.

RICHARD YOUNG refused to support the 50 per cent boost in the state income tax rate.

He said that spending at the state level "has gone wild" and that the funds are being spent "like it's going out of style."

Young commented that he could support a state income tax boost but not one of 50 per cent. The legislator also commented that the state's budget director, Glenn Allen, has been reported as saying that all of the state tax raise has already been spent.

Young said that the state must develop a program in the area of higher education which requires students to pay more for education, probably through more student loans, and then have them repay the money after they graduate. Young also commented that money is "seen as the cure" for all of the problems brought to the Legislature.

ON THE MORE complicated companion issue of reform, Bennett, Young, Stempien, Tierney, and Forbes voted to place the constitutional amendment on the ballot. Defebaugh and Baker opposed the move.

The House passed the bill 75-31. The measure must also clear the Senate, where its future is at best uncertain, since 26 votes, or a two-thirds majority, are needed for passage.

A similar attempt to pass such an amendment failed in the house a week and a half ago. But under pressure from Gov. Milliken, House Republicans began lining up to support the bill.

The amendment is closely linked to the tax increase, since any cut in property tax via a millage ceiling could bring a one, two or three per cent tax rate increase.

The amendment would assess income tax on a graduated basis (more you earn, more you pay percentage-wise) and would place a 26 mill ceiling on property taxes levied by schools and counties. City millage would not be affected.

LOCAL DISTRICTS could vote "enrichment" millage if they wished. Bennett said he voted for the placing of the amendment before the voters because "Redford township residents would benefit."

He said it would mean a savings of several hundreds of dollars on the tax of average homes in Redford. "We stand to gain because we have a high school tax millage. This puts taxes on an ability to pay basis, and takes (pressure) off the regressive property taxes. It will help people like senior citizens."

Young supported the proposed constitutional amendment to provide the voters the chance to vote on the issue.

But the legislator said that the proposal would fail to provide any real tax relief.

He said that the increase in a graduated income tax and lowering of property taxes for schools would result only in a shift of tax payments.

brackets who would actually get a tax break.

But with a flat rate income tax, a rate of 5.9 per cent would be required merely to pick up the elimination of school operations from local property taxes. (The rate was 2.6 per cent before this week's increase to 3.9 per cent.)

Young pointed out that local public schools "are in trouble" and voters are rejecting tax proposals, saying that local property taxes shouldn't pay for school operating costs.

The House is in recess, and other Observer area representatives were on vacation and unavailable for comment on these two issues.

Offset Printing Class Offered

Offset reproduction, the first of ten graphic arts courses to be developed at Oakland Community College, will be offered this fall at the Orchard Ridge Campus. Orchard Ridge is located in Farmington Township south of I-96 on Orchard Lake Rd. It is planned that graphic arts will become a one-year certificate program, and eventually, a full two-year associate degree program, within the newly created communications technology program.

Offset reproduction will be offered during the evening hours in order to take advantage of the in-plant printing facilities and equipment at Orchard Ridge.

The course will provide the student experience on small offset presses, exploring the use of electrostatic, photo direct and metal plates in printing. It will include setup, operation, cleanup, maintenance, and safety techniques necessary in efficient operation of the offset press.

Communications technology represents a variety of areas within the general field of mass communications that lend themselves to technical and paraprofessional job possibilities for the 70's and 80's.

The four under varying stages of development are: graphic arts printing, television production, photography, and media service and repair.

Fall registration takes place Aug. 31, Sept. 1-3, with classes beginning Sept. 8. Admission requirements to OCC must be completed prior to registration. Contact the admissions office for details.

Truck Dispenses Goodies, Wins Friends

M. W.'S SNACK HAVEN makes a stop on its Garden City rounds. From left are Elaine Pera, Mrs. Mary Wilkinson, Mrs. Kathy Colias and two young customers. (Observer photos by Bob Woodring)

By MARGARET MILLER
Women's Editor

Mrs. Mary Wilkinson of Garden City decided she was too young to retire.

So instead she bought an ice cream truck, and now she and her helpers have a whole host of new friends and stories by the mile to relate.

Mrs. Wilkinson, her daughter, Elaine Pera, and her neighbor, Mrs. Theodore Colias, are spending an interesting summer dispensing popcorn and hot dogs as well as all kinds of frozen goodies to the kids up and down the streets that M.W.'s Snack Haven travels.

"I DRIVE down Merriman making popcorn," said Kathy Colias. "I never did THAT before."

"You have to make it while driving between the subdivisions," Mrs. Wilkinson explained. "Otherwise you run out."

The three women drive in shifts, along with Mary's husband, James, who had planned to retire but didn't so he now adds the ice cream truck to his Ford Motor Co. schedule.

They all find they need lots of popcorn. "A bag of it costs 25 cents," Mary Wilkinson said, "and the ice cream items are 15 cents. But sometimes the kids come out with only a nickel or a few cents."

"We know that that may be all the mother had to spare that day—I remember how that was."

"So we give him as much popcorn as his money will buy."

MRS. WILKINSON purchased her truck from a Livonian in May and, after clearing up problems of transferring license plates, was able to start off with a bang at a school fair.

"None of us knew anything about running any of the equipment," she recalls. "We learned a lot that weekend."

Then came some problems with the truck's generator.

"For a while we could run just one machine at a time," Mrs. Colias said. "And I got stuck in a sandpile one afternoon," Elaine added. "I thought no one would ever come to rescue me."

DRIVING their route, the women have learned to make adjustments to suit the different neighborhoods they travel.

"There's one mother who asked us not to play loud music when driving past her house early in the afternoon because it wakes her baby," Mrs. Wilkinson said.

"So we turn down the music there. But there's another street where several deaf children live. There we turn up the volume."

Mrs. Wilkinson figures the business takes in $70 to $80 on a good afternoon and evening. After supper the truck usually heads for the site of a Little League game, and Mrs. Wilkinson plans to be on hand at football games with hot dogs and popcorn this fall.

"Buying the truck was typical of Mary," said Kathy Colias of her neighbor.

"After she took a beauty course, she bought a shop. Now, going into this business, she just buys the truck."

Mrs. Colias added that several other neighbors on Block street have pitched in to lend a hand in the new business. "My brother has been painting signs on the truck," she said, "and others have helped with repairs." "But it's been wonderful for the neighborhood. It used to be sort of dull here—then it came this big carnival truck. People started smiling."

Local Family Has Reunion Last Session Set For Kiddie Kamp

Sixty members of the Wagenschutz family, many of them residents of this area, gathered recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wagenschutz of Livonia for the clan's 43rd annual reunion.

They ranged in age from small Jennifer Dobie, who is a year and a half, to 90-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Wagenschutz Marsh, who lives in Chelsea.

The family has been a part of the area's history since 1876 when Carl and Minnie Wagenschutz came from Germany and settled on a farm in Livonia Township.

Later the family lived in Farmington and Plymouth Townships.

Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Emma Partidge of Tecumseh are the two remaining among 10 children in that family. Mrs. Partidge also was present at the reunion.

The gathering featured a pot-luck dinner, with each lady in the clan bringing her favorite dish, a swim for the young in one of Livonia's municipal pools, games and conversation.

The large family scrapbooks, kept since the first reunion in 1928, were much in demand as usual.

Dr. and Mrs. Honoratio Barrios and their four daughters, who home is in Hancock, on the shores of Lake Superior, traveled the longest distance to attend.

Numerous members of the Wagenschutz family have been active in the growth of Observerland communities over the years.

The final session of Kiddie Kamp, a day camp program for pre-schoolers offered by the Livonia Family Y, will begin Aug. 9.

Registrations are being accepted at the Y, 14255 Stark, Livonia.

Camp meets from 9 a.m. to 12 noon Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The program for four and five-year-olds features creative play and physical activities designed to prepare them for kindergarten.

Diane Michaelson, a Wayne State University student, is director of the program. Mrs. Michaelson, an education major, has been active in YWCA youth activities for three years.

She is assisted by Mike Heilman, a student at Michigan Technical University.

Real Life Scenario

Young Livonia Couple Stars

ENGAGEMENT BY PROXY is the story for Cathy McEvoy of Livonia, who accepted a diamond and sapphire ring from Donald McMillan Jr., who is by now in Vietnam. His father, Donald McMillan Sr., placed the ring on Cathy's finger. (Evert photo)

"It was just like a movie," sighed a young friend of dark-haired Cathy McEvoy.

And indeed, a Hollywood scenario writer might well have wanted to put on celluloid the events that took place last week when the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bell of Livonia became engaged to Vietnam-bound Donald McMillan Jr.

The film could start with scenes at Stevenson High School, where Cathy and Don, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McMillan Sr., also of Livonia, first became acquainted.

MOVE ON to Don's being called into the U.S. Army and his basic training and helicopter school days.

Then a 17-day furlough back home, when he and Cathy had plenty of time to enjoy the present and think a bit about the future before Don had to take off again, this time for a 10 month stint in Vietnam.

Next scene to depict is a telephone booth somewhere between Michigan and the West Coast. Don has decided to propose to Cathy.

Cut to Livonia. Cathy accepts. The two families give their approval and decide to have a get-acquainted dinner.

NOW COMES the big scene. You can't very well send an engagement ring via telephone, but the young soldier's father, Donald McMillan Sr., is prepared for that emergency.

He remembers the four rings left him by his mother, Mrs. Katherine McMillan, when she died some years ago. One of them, an heirloom ring at least 100 years old, will be a perfect engagement ring for Cathy, father and son decide.

So, in our movie, Cathy's prospective father-in-law steps to her side when the families are together.

"I have something to tell you, Cathy," he says.

Cathy registers momentary panic. Has someone had a change of mind—or heart?

DELIGHT REPLACES apprehension when Don McMillan Sr. takes from his pocket a gold circlet set with three sapphires and two diamonds and places it on Cathy's third finger, left hand.

And, to make everything complete, an Observer Newspapers photographer suddenly appears on the scene to record the event for posterity.

Young Don has 10 months ahead in Vietnam and Cathy is going into her senior year at Stevenson. Then they'll decide the wedding date.

Meanwhile, her friend assures all, "Cathy's very happy!"

BY MARGARET MILLER

Some 500 brides who have spoken their vows in Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church during the last quarter century know Mrs. Irving Hancock of Livonia.

Also a few score residents of Independence Green apartments in Farmington.

Then there are all the members of the Rosedale church.

And the folks who have contributed to Michigan Cancer Foundation and United Foundation drives, and the ones who have helped the American Red Cross in Livonia.

To say nothing of the many neighbors in the "old" Rosedale Gardens area that was a new subdivision when it became home to the Hancocks more than 33 years ago.

AND, LOOKING BACK over a long and busy residence in Livonia, Hildred Hancock is sure she wouldn't change a thing.

Especially she treasures the 47 years of happy marriage she and her husband have enjoyed.

After helping start the hundreds of young couples off on the matrimonial road, she's felt more convinced after each wedding that "I'd marry that same guy again."

Her work with brides and bridegrooms came because for many years she headed the church's wedding committee, taking full charge of the church receptions that followed many ceremonies in the Rosedale Sanctuary.

"I HAD a wonderful committee," she said, "and we planned with the brides so carefully that things could go off like clockwork."

Mrs. Hancock remembers one occasion when 800 guests were served in a Rosedale reception - "and I went to another wedding."

Retiring from the wedding committee work last spring because of poor health, Mrs. Hancock checked back over

Women on the Go

She's Rosedale's First Lady

HILDRED AND IRVING HANCOCK

stacks of records of successful receptions and a pile of letters and cards from newlyweds all over the country.

When she stepped down, she was honored by her church during a morning worship service.

THE HANCOCKS first came to Rosedale Gardens with their two young sons during the depression years. Irving Hancock was employed by Burroughs in Plymouth - he retired after 47 years service there - and they wanted to move out from their Detroit home.

"We bought this lot on a shoestring," Hildred Hancock remembers, "and ours was the first small house and the first FHA-financed one in the area."

After their home was built, she earned money for furnishings by inviting prospective residents of the area to drop in so she could convince them that Livonia and Rosedale Gardens made a great living combination.

"And," she remembers, "after the subdivision was pretty well filled I started in on garages and fences and sold a lot of them."

Helping people find places to live proved so rewarding that after her boys were grown Mrs. Hancock went to work for the Independence Green developers, as an apartment leasing agent.

ROSALIND WEINBERG

Mrs. Frances Weinberg of Farmington announces the engagement of her daughter, Rosalind Elizabeth, to Alan Silver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Silver of Oak Park. The bride-elect, also the daughter of the late Sidney Weinberg, is a graduate of Wayne State University and teaches at Wood Creek School in Farmington. Her fiancé attended the Detroit Institute of Technology. A Dec. 19 wedding is planned in the Raleigh House in Southfield.

Why S'craft Won NCA Accreditation

Schoolcraft College has been granted continued accreditation as an associate degree granting institution, with full recognition by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Reacting to advanced notice he received by telephone from a spokesman for the North Central board of directors, Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote said he was "delighted" with the news.

"That we have been granted continued accreditation for the maximum time is a credit to our faculty and administration," Dr. Grote said.

"As president, I am pleased to have been involved in the later stages of this decision by North Central, and I wish publicly to extend thanks and congratulations to my predecessor, Dr. Eric J. Bradner, under whose administration the college gained this fine academic distinction."

WHILE THE association does not grant accreditation for a specific number of years, Dr. Grote said that maximum accreditation probably means Schoolcraft would not be re-examined for 10 years. Schoolcraft originally gained accreditation in 1968 within the minimum time possible for a new institution.

At that time North Central extended full accreditation with the condition that a review visit be conducted in three years. It was this review visit which has resulted in continued full accreditation just announced.

The North Central review team recommended accreditation without reservation, pointing up "strengths" and "concerns" in several areas. A Schoolcraft statement excerpted these "strengths" and one "concern" in a statement.

GOVERNANCE (Administration):
The competency of the president, vice presidents, deans and area directors is generally recognized by the faculty and students. Procedures for administration decision-making are well defined.

"Meetings are regularly held by various administrative organizations such as the President's Council, the Administrative Committee, and the deans and area directors. Minutes are well kept and available. There is a healthy openness and freedom of expression, with tolerance for all opinions regarding educational policy."

"There is a healthy climate in which faculty members with the most unorthodox ideas may openly express them. They are challenged by administration to show evidence that these ideas would better meet the purposes and aims of the college."

FACULTY: Faculty members are well qualified and teaching in their areas of specialization. Salaries and working conditions are excellent. Above average relationships exist between vocational-technical and academic areas of instruction.

ACADEMIC PROGRAM: Attention is being given to basic and remedial courses in an effort to reduce the student failure rate. Well balanced offerings in arts and sciences are preparing students soundly for transfer to four-year colleges and universities.

VOCATIONAL - technical program: Well designed and equipped laboratories for most fields. Strong evening and apprenticeship programs. Unusually large and effective part-time cooperative programs.

"Excellent food service curriculum which provides as class experience for students enrolled in the program the preparation and serving of snack and hot food service for the College (and for community groups by reservation)."

STUDENT SERVICES: Counseling and advising program is well staffed and organized. Participation by students in college governance and activities is commendable.

LIBRARY: A well qualified staff, working under capable library leadership, who are service oriented and anxious to assist faculty and students. An adequate and well balanced materials collection, easily accessible to users.

FINANCE-OPERATIONS: "While recognizing as a strength the adequate local and state financing of present operations, the review team expressed this concern: 'future normal growth in services will depend on the outcome of a local tax increase election to be held in fall, 1971.'"

FACILITIES: "College facilities have been well planned, and construction has essentially kept pace with growing requirements. A competently prepared master plan for campus construction, 1970-1980, is being implemented. All buildings are of recent permanent construction except several temporary units soon to be replaced by permanent structures." North Central's report said.

Accreditation means that Schoolcraft's academic standards are recognized by all North Central members, and student credits earned at the college are fully transferable.

Extensive preparation for the review visit included a self-study or "institutional profile" published last December. The study was directed by Gordon Snyder, a biology instructor at the college.
