Plymouth football fans who have stayed home while the Rocks have been posting two victories on the road will have the chance Friday night to see if their favorites are as strong as it seems. But be sure you go to the right gridiron for this home opener, which means right where you ended the '70 season.

What has been identified as Fralick House, the white frame structure at Fralick and Harvey donated touple of years ago by Judge Dunhar Dayis as a neeting place for youth, now is presented by the council for Community Concerns and its name has been thanged to our House. The council is headed by Peter Schweitzer.

15 184 biggest parpose is to fill the need for a place Mett young people can receive guidance and in their personal problems, information on the third drug-related matters included. A group of d volunteers provides the counseling.

Down the street, where we of the Mail & Observased to toil at 271 S. Main, is the Center for Young People, operated by Plymouth Youth Inc. to provide constructive activities more of a social and recreational nature.

It is not just an aimless leisure-time "hangout." Rather, its direction is planned to help young people discover their interests and talents and to provide the environment for successful exploration of those interests. Dave Smith heads the Youth Inc. board.

BOTH OF THESE organizations work together, and both are in need of community support. Ideas. criticisms, gifts and donations are essential at both lites. If you are interested in what is being accomplished, feel free to drop in. Let's look just a little mer at each.

"Our House operates on an informal drop-in basis. his is where the drug information service known as Suzz Line operates, keeping trained, competent persons on the 455-4900 line each weekend to give emergency information to young people and adults as

Our House also offers raps with members of its staff who will offer aid, support and guidance to help young minds work out their problems. If the need is indicated, more intensive and professional counseling is suggested.

At Our House, individuals also are directed toward engaging in activities and projects for the community good, which is a form of therapy by itself. Referrals also are made for legal, medical, selective service or religious aid, and it just might surprise some Plymouth parents how troubled their sons and daughters are in such matters-without getting help at home.

THE ATMOSPHERE is a bit lighter down the street, but no less sincere. If anything, the Youth Center in the former M&O Building answers the complaint heard so often and so long from our teenagers, "But there's nothing for us to do in Plymouth, and no place to go."

Youth Inc. has hired a full-time director, Dale Yagiela, and among the programs set up are those in macrame, woodcarving, numerous art interests. graphics, photography, a newspaper, yoga, weightliftng and discussion groups on the arts and society.

They now are planning a Young People's Art restival, and setting up details to establish a can and glass recycling depot.

All of the program areas are supervised, and the schedule is so flexible that changes can be made asily to meet the interests of the individuals who with each passing day are making this building their after-school and weekend headquarters in greater and reater numbers.

It would do you adults good to take a look. It night even reduce cynicism in some quarters, for what's being done follows a constructive course napped by youngsters who need and merit your pofidence:

The reason is quite simple-the game will be played at 8 p.m. on the gridiron that has been used for more than half a century at Church and Main Sts., behind what now is Central Junior High School.

In keeping with the problems which have plagued the new high school since its plans were first approved in 1967, construction of athletic facilities is behind schedule. Among the details yet to be completed which would permit Friday night football at the new field are installation of lights, a scoreboard and

Michigan At Its Best

For miles ahead, the concrete highway looked fields and, here and there, the tillers of the soil were like a silver ribbon cutting through the heavily preparing for their fall planting. wooded areas of northern Michigan.

Mother Nature was just beginning to put on her gaudy dress of fall colors to greet the thousands who come to visit her in the north country with the early frosts.

Along the way, cattle still were grazing in the

> "This country is just wonderful," he wispered ever so softly and the boss of the family-a native of Michigan-who was driving, nodded her assent.

> MILE AFTER mile the concrete ribbon kept weaving in and out of the beautiful countryside and there seemed to be no end to the beauty-the tall pines, the myriad of small lakes along the way, and the sight of church spires off in the distance.

> Came the hour when we felt the first pangs of hunger and, suddenly, we realized we hadn't passed through any towns.

> "Where will we eat?" the little woman asked. "Let's get off at the next town and go to the country hotel," The Stroller answered. "You can't miss in these little country town hotels where Momma does the cooking."

So, off we went with visions of a fine, homecooked meal and all the trimmings. From one end of the community to the other we looked. But there was no small hotel.

Oh, there were places to eat, all right. But they were the same as we had left behind in the asphalt jungles-the Burger Kings, and the Big Boys, and we passed motels with the familiar names of those back

But the country hotel-with the water trough for the horses and a few sheds for the motor cars-was missing.

Only then did The Stroller realize that he was harking back to another generation—to the days before the concrete highways had reduced travel time from hours to minutes and, worse yet, had caused the old country hote! to depart from the scene. The lone survivor, so far as The Stroller knows, is Frankenmuth with its chicken dinners. But that is a rarity.

Back in the flood of memories came such places Schoenersville, Mechanicsville, Bath, Kutztown and Nazareth down in the Dutch Country and the many memorable "chicken and waffle" dinners he had enjoyed. And he could almost hear the hotel owner's wife say, as we sat down, "Now save some room for cake. I baked a nice big chocolate one this morning-and you've just got to taste it."

SO! AS WE moved along the main thoroughfare of our little town in search of an attractive place for lunch, The Stroller just couldn't help being overcome with a siege of nostalgia.

These places made gluttons of us and in those days, it was quite the thing, of a Sunday afternoon, to rent a horse and buggy (if you were lucky you got one with fringe on the top) and drive the six or eight miles over the country roads to the hotel for dinner.

Those days are gone now. The concrete ribbons not only have replaced the dirt roads, but they are by-passing the little towns altogether. All you see of most of them is the church spire that stands as a symbol and a reminder that there is a touch of civilization about.

In another year or two this change may be brought home more forcefully. Two major highways--M-14 and 1-275—will be in our midst and Plymouth could be left in a corner to fend for itself just like the old time country hotels.

These ribbons of concrete highways are fine. They get you from here to there in a hurry.

But oftimes the price can be awful steep.

TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH BOARD OF TRUSTEES

SPECIAL MEETING

SEPTEMBER 21, 1971

The meeting was called to order at 7:05 P.M. by the Supervisor All ers were present DISCUSSION, on Sidewalks in Plymouth Township, Methods of Financ-▼ing. Sidewalk Ordinance and Priorities. All Board members had received report of the Sidewalk Committee's recommendations. Helen Richardtioned she would like to add the south side of Ann Arbor Trail and the East side of Haggerty to the list to be considered. There was much discussion on the financing of sidewalks, whether it would be better as a general obligation or as a special assessment. Mr. Breen asserted that 1/2 mill would bring in approximately $40,000 toward the enastruction of sidewalks, which would only cover phase one of the Wir. Ash said it would appear that the building of sidewalks would from now to elemily if it were set up as a general obligation to tip. He felt there should be some provision so the obligation ald not continue forever. Mr. Breen said the problem of a general whiligation also would be to decide who would have top priority. Mr n presented results of a study he had made. Mr. Breen alleged that a general assessment would hit those who have already paid for sidewalks and then have to pay again for sidewalks in other areas. Mrs. Richardson said those who had already paid for sidewalks would have paid for them inside the subdivisions, but not along arterial highways, which would be the only sidewalks considered by the Township. Mention was made that if the Board decided on Special Assessment, they could utilize Governmental Procedures and the people would decide what they want, whereas, if they decide on a General Obligation, the Township Board would have to make all decisions. Gene Overholt moved that the building of sidewalks be financed in Plymouth Township by Special Assessment districts. Supported by Frank Millington. The following roll-

Ayes: Millington, Overholt, Ash. Breen.

!The motion easured! Mr. Overholt had checked with an official from another municipality who feels a special assessment is the best method He said they use this method, and the key is to set up districts, then find out how many want sidewalks and what the cost would be. The procedure used is that a petition by residents would cause a district to be set up: then the Township would check with the people in the district. 65 percent must approve before sidewalks would be constructed. Mr. Breen suggested that everything be referred to the Township Attorney for the methodology to be used for establishing special assessment districts. Said report to be ready for the October 12th meeting.

- DISCUSSIGN on Contracts for Accountant Engineer. Attorney and tt: Helen Richardson, supported by Russell Ash, moved to approve the Auditor's Contract with Post, Smythe, Lutz and Ziel, as ed under the date of August 30, 1971. Unanimously approved Engineer: Mr. Breen pointed out that anything in the contract that reflects an increase after the President's freeze could not be implemented: however, most of the charges mentioned in the contract were already being used when determining the charges from the Engineer to the Township. There has been no contract with the Engineer in the past, and This contract would help determine the amount to be charged to an applimeant for the Planning Commission, and also how much should be charged as to the Developers. Frank Millington questioned the meaning of Item D "No. 2 on Page 7 of the Preliminary Agreement dated 8-18-71. Mr. Brender said he would have to make revisions on this agreement; that the wording was ambiguous, that he agreed that probably "of $100.00" and "whichev iter" should be eliminated, and "or fraction thereof" should be added. He said there would be other items in the agreement, probably all sections on "Compliance Checks." which would need the same revisions Frank Millington, supported by Mr. Ash, moved that the Engineer be "asked to take a second look at the contract and submit a revised contract in October, strictly as a matter of getting it in proper order. It's a rebuilding-year at Franklin, with many new faces in the lineup. But, so far so good - two victories in as many starts and every indication the Patriots again will be a factor in the Northwest Suburban League race which starts this weekend.

THE LIVONIANS tuned up for the league chase by running wild past Annapolis, 42-0.

John Riipo was the big gun for Franklin. He scored three times on runs of 17, 4 and 11 yards. He carried 10 times for 103 yards.

Two other Franklin touchdowns came on passes. John Casey flipped 19 yards to John Wolski for one and then Joe Jinnett shot a 26 yarder for six points to Fred Frecha.

The final score came when Bob Singh bounced in from seven yards away.

WEST BLOOMFIELD crushed the Falcons with a devastating ground game.

All of the winners 233 yards came on runs. They tried five passes and completed none. But with their ground game, West Bloomfield piled up all 35 points before Jeff Krause crashed in from the three in the final period to avert a shutout for the Falcons.

West Bloomfield scored three times in the second neriod with Gary Hockenberry going over twice and Phil Callcut once. Callcut's score came on a 67 yard fumble recovery after Farmington, directed by Tony Wenson, had marched to the

That had to be the turning point of the game, the Farmington team felt. It probably would have been a different story had the Falcons moved in for a score at that point.

Another Farmington fumble and an intercepted pass helped West Bloomfield add to its huge lead.

Horticultural Congress Stresses Organic Gardening

By BETTY FRANKEL Gardeners from all over the Milwaukee, Wis. this past week for the 26th annual American Horticultural Congress. The lectures and informal conversations were liberally salted with words like compost, humus, soil pH, pest control and pollution.

bicides. insecticides, and fungicides were discussed and a workshop was conducted on the basic composition of soils and what can be done to improve them.

The compost pile merited a session devoted just to it. All disease-free leaves, grass clippings and other green waste should be put on a compost pile so it is converted into humus that can be used to enrich garden beds.

It is good "ecology" recycle this way, and the experts stressed that there is nothing that improves and conditions the soil as well as organic material does. A liberal amount of compost worked into the garden beds corrects the faults of light sandy soil or the problems of heavy clay soil.

THERE WERE lectures on new and off-beat perennials, on contemporary garden design, and on urban visual Congress participants were taken on tours of some of the outstanding private gardens in the Milwaukee area and on a tour through a brewery. No visit to Milwaukee would be complete without this.

Most impressive of all was the Milwaukee County Parks system which includes a zoo, a conservatory, a botanical garden, neighborhood parks with senior citizen programs, hiking trails, bike trails, sports programs, a marina, and miles of beautiful beaches and picnic areas, fronting on Lake Michigan.

IN MITCHELL Park, atop a small hill, is an impressive conservatory consisting of three fantastic bee-hive shaped glass domes, each 140 feet in diameter and 87 feet high. They are filled with an attractive display of tropical and desert plants. At night the brightly illuminated domes glitter like giant jewels on the Milwaukee skyline.

In Whitnall Park is the Boerner Botanical garden consisting of 450 acres of woodland and meadows and educational surrounded meticulously groomed formal gardens. There is a rock garden, a rose garden, a bog garden, and extensive perennial beds.

Despite the lateness of the season these were a colorful medley of phlox, delphinium, chrysanthemums, dianthus, and all kinds of hardy asters.

New to many gardeners were the tall stalks of moonkshood topped with a pike of deep blue hoodshaped lowers, and the Japanese anemones which had large pink or white blooms on bushy plants about three feet tall.

Near the entrance were the incredibly colorful beds of annuals where the "All-America Selections" were being tested. Nearby was an educational display of shrubs and hedges, each carefully labeled.

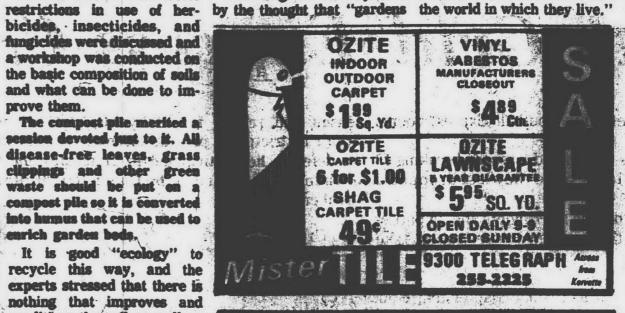

Garden Reminders

There is still time to transplant evergreens. If less than two feet tall they can be moved with bare roots, but it is safer to move even these small ones with the roots in a hall of earth wrapped in burlap. Dig a generous hole. Don't skimp, and fill in with soil enriched with peat moss. Water thoroughly. . . Be sure to water all trees and shrubs planted last spring and last year thoroughly every week. . . When leaves begin to color on trees and shrubs it is safe to move them ... This is the pair bare patches ... Gather dried seed pods and weeds with an interesting form for lasting indoor arrangements.

Last Mowing Shouldn't Be A Close Shave

Don't give your lawn a close shave just before you put the lawn mower away for the winter, warns a Michigan State University turf specialist.

According to Robert Shearman, mowing the grass too short can damage the lawn. "Enough leaf surface must be left so that the plants can continue to make food and remain healthy right up until grass growth alows down life the winter months."

The time is right. The price is right. Now you can add the beauty and warmth of paneling to home interiors. Panels are sent to install, and you'll find a wide array of woodgrains.

THE COLLEGE had budgeted a $292,000 general fund balance in the current budget and will have to make adjustments throughout the year to assure that it will end the year in the black.

Dr. Grote said that it is too early to speculate where the cutbacks and adjustments will come from because a number of variables currently affect the budget - such as the wageprice freeze and the amount of state aid the college will actually receive.

He said there were three factors that affected the college's revenue in 1970-71 including "the loss of full time equated students, an executive order for a reduction of the budget, and the reclassification of certain of our courses."

First, because of the faculty strike in the fall of 1970, the college calendar was pushed up and the spring term had to be eliminated, causing the college to lose money in child in a home than group tuition and fees as well as care because of misconstate aid.

Second, aid to colleges and fear that many companies and universities was cut last year individuals would involve as a result of a state budget to have a social service themselves in child care deficit.

Times Parkill No Mini-Bikes

If you're one of the mini-bike enthusiasts who live near Edward Hines Park and like to drive its trails - watch out.

The Wayne County Sheriff's office has said it will begin cracking down on mini-bike riders in the park.

Road Patrol Inspector John DeVos said the sheriff's department will start impounding mini-bikes when they are found in use in Hines Park. "Our park maintenance personnel have complained about the damage from the mini-bikes." DeVos said.

Sgt. Russel Gregory, head of the sheriff's Park Patrol, said the mini-bikers also pose a threat to the safety of people using the park. People, especially small children, who sit or lie on the grass where they think they're away from traffic are endangered when mini-bikers leave the roads to drive in the park. Gregory said.

Anti-Bus Bill Needed --McDonald

An attempt to prohibit school bussing to achieve racial balance was recently supported by U.S. Rep. Jack McDonald (R-Farmington). 19th District congressman was among the signers of a discharge petition that would force a constitutional amendment on the bussing issue out of the House Judiciary Committee where it has been bottled up.

McDonald's district includes Pontiac which has gained national attention because of intense white opposition to the bussing of children.

"The bill, which specifies that no public school student shall be required to attend creed or color, has been bottled up in the committee since its introduction last May," McDonald said. "The decision to bus

Schoolcraft Ducks Cultural Interest

We have a trillion dollar economy, magnificent shopping centers and about 50,000 more subwmobiles than we really need.
Alid yet the 10-year-old Schoolchift College, which logically should be the cultural center of the northwestern suburbs, still has only the most rudimentary facilities for the fine arts and only ditto prospects of improving the situation soon.

Interviewing the 17 board candidates prior to the Sept. 13 election, it was distressing to find that only one, Leroy Bennett, had a really strong commitment to the proposed fine arts complex. The other 16 reflected the thinking of the outgoing trustees in lowering the priority of the arts center.

The voters themselves showed limited foresight by rejecting millage that would have made an arts center (among many other things) possible.

Perhaps the college establishment was to blame because of its lacklustre campaign for the millage; perhaps the voters were to blame because they consciously plecided they'd rather use that money to buy transistors for their teenagers and let them rot their brains out with CKLW and WENR.

THIS OBSERVER suspects that the college establishment's lack of enthusiasm about the project was a factor in Wayne Dunlap's decision to leave the post of director of fine arts, in an area to which he was deeply attached, and head for the greener pastures of Grand Valley State College, where they have just opened such a complex.

Dunlap's loss is a serious one. Here was a master programmer; a tremendous recruiter who luned in excellent faculty members who are educators and thinkers as well as craftsmen; an organizer who could bring in amazing guest talents at bargain prices.

(Dunlap, incidentally, will commute to conduct the Plymouth Symphony, but one seriously wonders how many years he can keep that up and whether he will be able to give it the same kind of leadership from 140 miles away. But that's another matter.)

HAPPILY, Dunlap's successor, Richard Saunders, is committed to "a closer cooperation with the community," according to Amusements Editor Betty Masson's feature story. That's good, because Schoolcraft College ought to be something more important than a place to "train" young people for utilitarian jobs. It ought to be a cultural center for these suburbs.

"Culture" is a social function traditionally assigned to the central cities, to be financed by rich folks. That can't continue much longer.

For one thing, there is a flight of talent out of Detroit, and that's a fact of life whether we like it or not. For another, there just aren't that many people with money to burn. If, for example, the Detroit Symphony had to be staffed by only Detroit residents, to depend on Detroiters for its audiences and funds, it would go bust in a week or less.

Besides, it's a long drive to Ford Auditorium, the Fisher or the Hilberry.

IN AN EXCELLENT and eye-opening article in these newspapers a couple of years ago, Sue Shaughnessy pointed out that the community colleges are becoming cultural centers because they have the talent, the potential facilities and the potential resources to do the job. She wasn't knocking the volunteer groups, just trying to tell people the truth.

In a post-election interview, Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote said he wanted to try again for the building program for the college's next 10 years. The board should listen to him.

The board should also listen to trustee-elect Bennett on the importance of the fine arts complex. People don't live by voc-tech alone.

Radar Makes 'Sitting Ducks' Of Motorists

In the outdoor sports world. that of the small and large game hunter and the fisherman, there is quite a phobia against what is known as "sitting ducks" targets.

To the sportsman, this means you always give the animal a chance and make a real challenge of hunting and downing the game. Most hunters take a very dim view of the gunner who drives along a country lane and takes pot shots at a "sitting duck."

It's an unwritten code of "most" since there are some who weeks. A radar car is placed have no scruples about the manner in which they get their small and large game.

APPARENTLY THAT same code of sportsmanship hasn't struck some members of the Redford Township police department who are taking advantage of their new toy-a radar system-to make things miserable for motorists driving along the much maligned Schoolcraft Road and Telegraph highway.

In fact, the radar system has sportsmanship that most all made "sitting ducks" of numerfollow. We particularly say ous drivers in the past five or six alongside the road, with lights out, suddenly charges into Telegraph to nab an unsuspecting motorist.

The sad part of the system is that drivers can be moving along Telegraph in a 50-mile zone and then suddenly hit that part where the road winds and curves because of work on the new freeway where the limit is only 35 mph. Before the driver is aware of the change in the zone. he finds himself being stopped by a radar car and told he has exceeded the speed limit.

The situation is even worse on Schoolcraft where the speed limit between Inkster and Beech Roads is 40 mph eastbound where the road curves and winds to the point where one would have trouble even going at the limit.

Then between Beech and Telegraph, where the new highway is absolutely straight, the speed limit suddenly drops to 35 mph, and that's where the radar car is making most of its arrests.

Just as a contrast, drivers going westbound find the posted. speed limit 40 mph where the road again is straight as a string from Telegraph to Beech and roads that aren't too good, to say winds from Beech to Inkster.

TO ADD TO the confusion, those driving west can view a sign on the eastbound lane that indicates the speed limit is 45 mph.

It's high time that Redford Township officials become consistent in the posting of signs and high time that steps be taken to halt the "sitting duck" arrests.

Perhaps the township needs revenue and perhaps this is one way of getting it in a hurry , but it isn't building up any good will with township residents or those passing through the area over the least.

Why Does It Take So Long In School Talks?

A common sequence of events during contract negotiations with governmental agencies - particularly school districts - is the opening of bargaining sessions, several months of efforts, tentative settlement on a new contract with salary raises, and formal ratification.

Local school boards usually have their own school administrators handle the nitty-gritty of contract negotiations with the teachers union and the board giving general direction on how much money is in the kitty.

ANOTHER SEQUENCE to the contract talks and eventual. settlement usually happens many months later and is usually ignored by the general public which picks up the financial tab.

That event concerns the school board acting on salary raises and improvements in fringe benefits to school administrators who are not in the teachers' union.

In most cases, the justification for raising the salary of administrators is that the teachers received a raise and it's bad for morale if the teachers' superiors don't get at least the same amount of pay raise.

SOMEHOW WE GET the feeling school administrators "trying to hold the line" on teachers' salary demands aren't too upset about the faculty union getting a whopping pay raise (or any pay raise at all) since it makes it much easier for those same administrators to justify their own pay hikes before the

But the fact that it is needed and can operate profitably is in itself a symptom of something gravely wiving with Observerland suburbs and others.

honestly, it makes no more sense to import domestic help than it does to have thousands of workers drive across the metropolitan area to work in the factories in our area.

Both logistical absurdities are made necessary by an attitude that, while not universal in suburbia, is held by enough residents to set the pattern for the rest.

That way of thinking runs something like this:

"People who live in such houses usually have two cars, so there's no need for public transportation. And that's really no problem as long as there are maid-services to bring in domes-tics and workers willing to drive many miles to keep in operation the factories that lower tax bases."

Halloween Suggestion

READERS'

The past few years have brought new problems regarding our children's safety on Halloween. We are all greatly concerned and have tried to think of a solution to let them have their fun begging but eliminating the problem concerning unsafe treats.

I would like to suggest instead of a penny candy that you give your beggars "a penny". After Halloween take your children to their favorite store to choose the candy they like. Needless to say, this would also eliminate all the candy wasted because they don't like it or because you throw it out "just to be safe".

If you like this suggestion, please pass the idea on. MRS. RICHARD JACKSON Livonia

"We've given our skis away, though," Mrs. Caroline Gorges said. "We thought it was a little too risky."

At rinkside in Livonia's Ford Recreation Center to wish them a happy 50th anniversary were managers of the rink, many friends they've made in 36 years in Livonia and even Mayor Edward McNamara.

One of their fellow skaters brought a sheet cake, and the City of Livonia furnished

Mrs. Gorges, born in Canada, has been skating since she was a small child and interested her husband in the sport after they were married in St. Boniface Catholic Church in Detroit, Sept. 28, 1921.

Their home on Merriman was one of the first along the small dirt road, and Mrs. Gorges has taught many young neighbors to skate when the puddles there froze over in the winter.

They've also skated in many of the famed rinks in the country, including Rockefeller Center, and they were among the first Livonians to use the Ford rink when it opened about three years ago. Since then they've been there for most free skating periods.

In the summer they always have a garden full of flowers. When this year's dry weather curtailed gardening, Mr. Gorges decided to paint their house. He's just about

Virginia Challan Opens Darmington Town Hall Series

Virginia Graham, television star who insists she's usually known as What's-her-name will be the first town hall speaker in this area this fall, opening the Farmington series at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7, in the Northland Theater Southfield.

Miss Graham, whose show "Girl Talk" has been a video feature for seven years, leads off a Farmington Town Hall series that also will include appearances by TV panelist Kitty Carlisle, actress Joan Fontaine and interior designer Carlton Varney.

The series, sponsored for the fourth year by the Soroptimist Club of Farmington, also will present the speakers in an informal setting in celebrity luncheons, to be held this year at Vladimir's Restaurant on Grand River west of Middle Belt in Farmington.

TICKETS for the series are priced at $10 and may be ordered through the Farmington Community Center or by sending a check to the Soroptimist Club of Farmington, Box 504, Farmington, 48024.

Season tickets also will be on sale at the Northland Theater, 15600 J. L. Hudson Drive, before Virginia Graham's talk.

Luncheon tickets are $5, and reservations should be made by Friday, Oct. 1, by calling the Farmington Community Center or Soroptimist President, Shirley Hatfield, at the Farmington Board of Education.

MISS GRAHAM, who delighted a Northville Town Hall audience in this area two years ago, is expected to cover could go all the way from fashion to LSD. Besides her television show, she is author of an autobiography, "There remember the where or when or why). · A canned baby octopus (I know about THAT one-it was a most original Mother's Day present I never worked up the nerve to open).

Anyway, our creative cook decided that here were the makings of a truly different pizza. She would use the traditional tomato and cheese base and arrange sardines and frog legs and onions for a new taste treat with a baby octopus in the center.

The meal preparation started well and we were beginning to anticipate a pretty good supper.

Suddenly from the kitchen came a blood-curdling

You might call it "men's liberation!" when you look at the fashion scene.

men are becoming aware of all sorts of style possibilities that the gals have known for quite a while.

Things like how comfortable and bandbox fresh a knit suit can be. And the casual elegance of suede. Not to mention the beauty and practicality of novelty corduroy and the well-dressed feeling a sharp belt can give.

A SAMPLING of the possibilities can come from a quick trip through the men's department of Hudson's Westland, store, where the company's "get Dressed" campaign is in full swing.

"We're trying to educate The banquet is open to any our customers to the concept secretary or management of a total look," said Adrain member interested in at-Skowron, fashion coordinator tending and further infor men's and children's wear.

> "And they are getting interested in a coordinated look," added E.J. Hill, divisional sales manager.

THEY POINTED out many parts of the "total look" picture-which, of course, has long been the mark of welldressed women.

Colors are definitely softer, said Miss Skowron. The acceptance of peacock-bright colors for men has come and moved on, and now the more subdued tones are taking over.

It's a matter of "color flow," she added, pointing to shaded and wavy stripes and more muted prints.

Ties remain wide, but they are coming in patterned instead of striped. Tapestry prints are good sellers, Hill
