We're Not Alone

The Plymouth community isn't the only one which is stirred by the question of what form future local government should take, or how the township should cope with police problems. Publisher William C. Sliger of the Northville Record tells of the issues facing our neighbors.

'We Won't Pay It,' Is Breen's Answer On Twp. Police Fee

By FRED DELANO

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice M. Breen and Detroit Attorney Nathan B. Goodnow are the key figures in a move to keep taxpayers in Plymouth and seven other western Wayne County townships from having to pay $174,461 per year for 24-hour, seven day a week sheriff's patrol car protection.

Breen, who is president of the Western Wayne County Supervisors Association, said bluntly, "We're not going to pay it," when informed that the County Board of Commissioners will vote Thursday, Dec. 2 on this formal recommendation from a budget subcommittee:

"These townships presently receiving local patrol services from the sheriff (shall) be invoiced for such services, and costs invoiced shall be computed on the basis of the formula developed for the reimbursement from the City of Romulus for patrol services provided by the sheriff."

Lawrence Gareau, public information coordinator for the county board, said that the Romulus contract for police protection was based on "a cost of $174,461 per year for the 24-hour service of one patrol car seven days per week."

In Plymouth Township, the tax rate would have to be raised slightly more than a full mill to pay such a bill, and Breen is obdurate in his opposition to any such move. At the present time, a mill brings the township approximately $168,000 per year, and the tax rate is $3.50 per $1,000 in state equalized valuation.

BREEN AND his counterparts from Northville, Canton, Van Buren, Sumpter, Huron, Brownstown and Grosse Ile Townships have retained Goodnow as their legal representative and are threatening to take the county board to court to settle the question of the sheriff's responsibility.

Goodnow is a partner in the Detroit law firm of Dykeman, Gossett, Spencer, Goodnow and Trigg, and in the mid-1960s he was president of the State Bar of Michigan. He also is a past president of the Detroit Bar Assn. and is considered one of the state's foremost members of the legal profession.

Thirteen months ago, the county board adopted a resolution putting the townships on notice that service by the road patrol would be phased out gradually. No date was specified, but when the 1971-72 county budget was adopted last month, funds were allocated for operation of the road patrol with the stipulation that "the situation be under continued review."

Officials of the several townships took this to mean that it would be several months before the issue came to a head again, and Breen says the commissioners "threw us a curve" by deciding to vote on the invoice approach in their meeting next Thursday.

"It changes our timetable," said Breen. "We've now asked Mr. Goodnow to move swiftly, and we expect to receive procedural advice from him within two weeks."

THE HEART of the argument is whether the sheriff's department is obligated by law to provide police protection for those county governmental entities which do not have police departments of their own. The position of the board is that it has the budgetary right to limit such service.

Breen argues that taxes paid to the county by township property owners help support the sheriff's operation, and that billing the townships for road patrol service amounts to double taxation, and thus is illegal.

"We feel this should be settled by the courts, and not by the board of commissioners," said Breen. He is being joined in this stand by Supervisors Philip Dingeldey of Canton, Gunnar Stromberg of Northville, G.E. Gollwitzer of Van Buren, Elmer Parraghi of Sumpter, George W. Moore of Huron, Henry Redman of Brownstown and Merle Solomon of Grosse Ile.

Romulus apparently gave county commissioners the wedge they were seeking when that city contracted with the sheriff's department for around-the-clock patrols by two sheriff's scout cars for $379,000 per year.

Stop & Shop Market Closes Forest Store

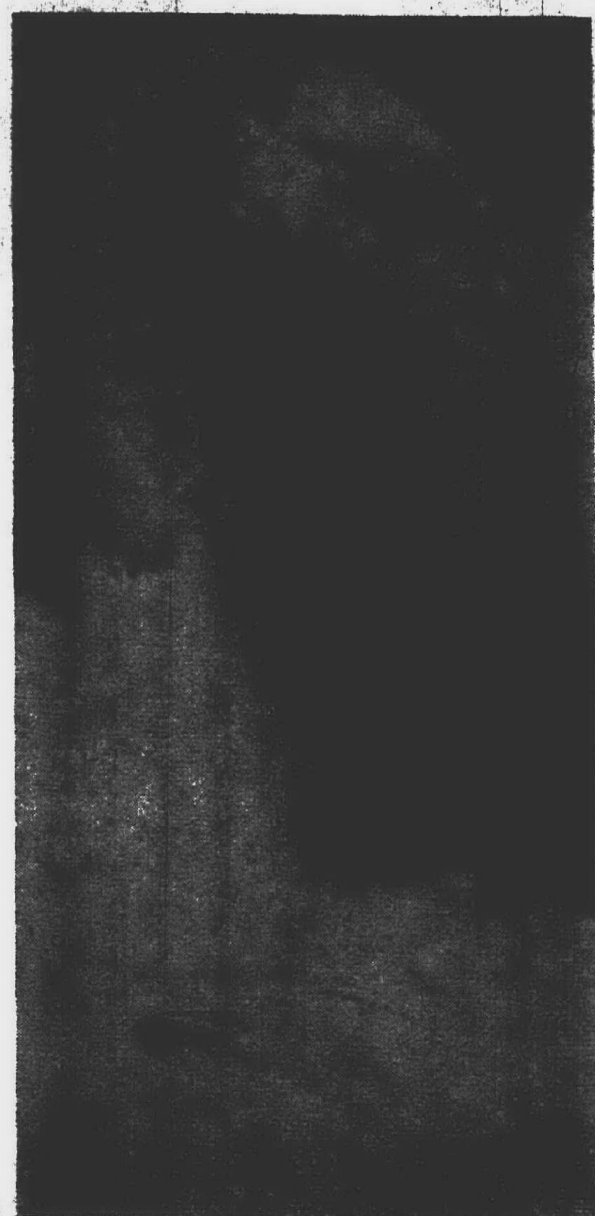

Officials of one of downtown Plymouth's best known supermarkets, Stop & Shop, Inc., announced this week that they will close their doors for good at the close of business at 9 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 27.

Stop & Shop, at 470 Forest, has been a local food fixture since it opened on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1949. In its 22½ years of operation it has served the community well, but declining business has brought an end to the operation.

At one time, Stop & Shop had stores in Ann Arbor, Plymouth, Chelsea and Brighton. After Saturday, only the Chelsea market will continue in service. Of the 11 Plymouth employees at the store on Forest, officials said four will be transferred to Chelsea and the others will be laid off.

An announcement from J.H. Rucker, who heads Stop & Shop, said: "It has been a rewarding and delightful experience to have had the opportunity to have served you for so many years. All of us wish to extend to you our warmest thanks."

HERE'S THE "TOM" casting an eye on the hens close by and allowing his snood to drop far over his beak as he struts up and down the barn yard.

AND HERE HE IS stripped of much of his glamor - the snood has been removed entirely, but the black mustache of the "Tom" is easily distinguishable (Observer photos by Bob Woodring)

Folks Like Hens, But 'Tom' Doesn't

By W.W. EDGAR
Roving Editor

If our Pilgrim fathers were to return for this Thanksgiving season, they'd never recognize the bird they made the symbol of thanks and feasting.

In fact, they'd have a most difficult time finding one of the bronze variety on which they feasted on that Thanksgiving Day long ago when they gathered to celebrate and offer thanks for a bountiful crop.

In its place they would find a full-breasted, white-feathered, wobbly-legged bird that is the latest product of breeders who have cross-bred the bronze bird out of existence. And now, in a breeding revolution, they are even interfering with the love life of the time-honored turkey.

FIRST, IN CROSS-BREEDING, they developed a full-breasted hen to meet the American demand for more white meat. But so robust of bosom did it become that she no longer could sit in the proper position at breeding time. So artificial insemination came into being.

Now the breeders have turned to the gobbler or "Tom" turkey - and what they're doing to him!

"We've had to make him less attractive to the hens," Loyd Sharland, manager of the Gottschalk Turkey Farm in Plymouth, explained.

"No longer can we allow him to strut up and down the yard in full view of the hens."

"We found that when he struts, his red snood curves over his beak and goes back into hiding when he stops strutting."

"So, we're de-snooding him. That should curtail his kingly strutting."

LOOKING OVER HIS flock that now numbers close to 1,500 for the holiday season, Sharland pointed out that there were few strutters around.

"We've taken care of that," he said, then added, "and we've also trimmed back his beak and claws."

- Why?

"We've found that when the 'Tom' gets close to the hen and starts battling for attention, he's inclined to claw and scratch. As a result, the hen's body is ripped and torn when we come to dress them."

"In cases like this, we have to toss the damaged hen aside as a 'second' because no one wants to buy a clawed-up hen for the big feast. And this costs us money we can't afford to lose."

AS HE WALKED through and around the gobbling flock Sharland smiled and said:

"The breeders are really having a time of it. With the larger breasts and more white meat, the hens have grown out of shape, have grown wobbly on their feet and no longer look attractive."

"To correct this, every effort is being made to re-shape the hen and proportion the weight to make her more attractive to the purchaser. It may take a bit of doing - but you can bet they'll get it done."

Calling attention to the fact that this breeding revolution was interesting in that the breeders were tearing down attractiveness on the male side and building up on the female side, Sharland chuckled and said -

"There's one thing you must remember. You can't fool Nature."

"Look at that black spot on the chest of the 'Toms.' That's what we call a mustache."

"With all the cross-breeding and the development of the white-feathered bird, the mustache never has changed color."

"It's funny - but that's Nature, I guess."

"Despite all the breeders' experiments, the hens can always distinguish the Toms. They just have to look for the mustache."

Nature sure is a wonderful thing.

PO-BOX Drugs

Does Pot Lead To Heroin?

Questions should be sent to the Community Commission on Drug Abuse, P.O. Box Drugs, Livonia, MI 48150.

Q. I saw something in the newspaper about marijuana having been proven not to lead to heroin use or addiction. Prior to this, everyone seemed to be saying just the opposite: that marijuana did lead to heroin. I'm doing a report in school, and because of this and for my own personal reasons, I'd like to know which position is correct.

R.V., Bedford

A. First of all, there is absolutely no medical evidence that ingesting those chemicals which give marijuana its effects creates a need for heroin.

What you saw in the newspaper came from a study done at the department of psychiatry at the University of Washington in Seattle. This study of more than 100 marijuana users made no attempt to determine whether marijuana led to heroin. What it did attempt to do was to determine what other drugs marijuana smokers used illicitly. Nothing about a cause-and-effect relationship.

The results indicated that within this particular group, 74 per cent of these marijuana users had also used other psychedelic drugs such as LSD or mescaline. Also it was shown that 60 per cent of the total group also had used amphetamines.

The statistic of greatest interest was that only six per cent of the total group had used either heroin or morphine. Use of such narcotics was more or less experimental with those who used it, and they all claimed not to have been habituated to these narcotics either psychologically or physically.

The only causal relationship mentioned in the article is that "if one is a regular user of marijuana, one is likely to go on and at least experiment with other more powerful psychedelic drugs." This statement is not documented within the article in which it appears.

The basic assumption seems to be that marijuana is generally the first such drug that a novice is likely to have access to. There is some fairly good, presumptive evidence that marijuana users tend to feel a need for more powerful drugs, but no real clinical proof.

The best guideline that we can offer is that not so much the drugs themselves lead to deeper involvement, but that the social milieu in which the user finds himself may do that. What can be documented, for example, is that most individuals who are more than casually involved with the selling of marijuana generally stock most of the whole spectrum of drugs including psychedelics, amphetamines and heroin.

There is a great inducement for them to make these drugs available to the marijuana user simply because there is a lot more profit in these for the dealer. So-called "pushing" may involve offering free doses "just to try it out" to merely making it known that these other drugs are available.

There is a direct, casual relationship between amount of exposure to sources of drugs and use of them. And this is really the most likely danger.

Prison Reform Urged By Esch

WASHINGTON, D.C. U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Arizona) is drafting a bill that will establish the legislative framework for prison reform—the provision of job training and subsequent employment opportunities for criminal offenders.

“Long before the events at Attica, we knew that over-all prisoner rehabilitation and related offender processes were in disgraceful condition,” said Esch. “No longer can we ignore the deficiencies in our prisons and turn our backs on rehabilitation efforts.”

“To correct these appalling conditions, I shall introduce a bill in the U.S. House of Representatives to be known as the ‘Comprehensive Criminal Offender Training and Employment Act’ that will provide authorization to the Labor Department to conduct programs with special emphasis in getting the private sector involved.”

In underscoring the seriousness of the situation throughout the nation, Esch said that recent findings of the Federal Bureau of Prisons demonstrated that 65 per cent of the prison inmates lack any marketable skill. “Clearly prison inmates are one of the most disadvantaged of any element within our society,” Esch said.

ESCH, WHO IS the ranking Republican on the House manpower subcommittee, said it was “high time that we made a major commitment for manpower training and employment programs that will hit the mark and provide subsequent employment opportunities for criminal offenders.”

According to Esch, the present programs offer “only a glimmer” of the relief that we need. He commended the Labor Department for its initiative in increasing funding in the last three years from less than $1 million to a projected $20 million for fiscal 1972, but the Ann Arbor Congressman indicated that present manpower training efforts “only scratch the surface.”

“We need to do more to condition the prisoner for a successful return to society. It makes little sense to train him to be an auto mechanic when the demand is for bricklayers. We need comprehensive coordinated plans for all levels of government and the leadership and cooperation of labor, industry, churches, and other civic groups. This bill I shall introduce will be one that will deal comprehensively with the subject of prison reform,” said Esch.

MOST SANE PLYMOUTHITES, or maybe all of them, were comfortably under cover as the cold rain came pelting down on Kellogg Park when a faraway church bell pealed the hour of six in Saturday's early evening darkness.

Scoffing at the elements, a small knot of demonstrators who were assembled for song at the Rotary fountain found instant warmth when into their midst walked a drenched, forlorn and solitary Buckeye, Frederick W. Hill.

Yup, by golly, there were the likes of Ned Stirton, Dr. Joe Jender, John Witte and other assorted Michigan football fanatics, plus Earl Gibson as director of the chorus. Stirton even bought a pitch pipe.

All they needed to climax their day, which already had brought Michigan's wild 10-7 triumph over Ohio State, was a woeful Buckeye for a solo of "The Victors" — and Hill was their man. He had to be, because he was the only Ohioan who showed.

As Fred stood on a park bench and so melodiously sang those endearing words, "Hail, Hail to Michigan, the leaders and best," one could only wish the berserk Woody Hayes could have faced his conquerors with as much poise.

Of course, for Plymouth to see leadership and poise from Fred Hill is nothing new. In his three short years here running the John Smith's men's store, this 29-year-old merchant has become a pacesetter in the business community. He is an outspoken advocate that the way to improve downtown is not by bad-mouthing it, but by offering something new and progressive.

That he's a devoted OSU graduate can be written off to the fact that there are eccentricities in all of us, and, anyway, he was born in Michigan. My, he does sing our songs well, too.

SPEAKING OF COMEBACKS, which is the way Michigan won Nos. 10 and 11 from Purdue and Ohio State, let's not lose sight of something reasonably parallel which occurred in Plymouth between Oct. 28 and Nov. 18.

Rarely have faces been as long, or spirits as low, as when committee chairmen of the 1971 Plymouth Community Fund campaign sat down to lunch Oct. 28 and found that only 20 per cent of their goal had been pledged. There was real fear that the drive might flounder for the first time since the PCF was created 25 years ago.

There was no giving up, however. Quite to the contrary, efforts were redoubled, more hours were donated to the cause, and everyone possible was contacted.

A week later collections had jumped from $35,000 to $97,000, and after seven more days they were at $147,000. Then came the closing night climax Nov. 18, and with the announcement that $168,700 had been pledged, another all-time record had been set.

The community owes general chairman Ron Coosaia, his subcommittee chairmen and the many, many volunteers who joined in the campaign a great big thanks.

More than that, however, the pride of accomplishment must be shared among every man-jack who gave a dollar, the school kids who contributed pennies, the industrial employes who responded as never before, the employers, and, well, just anyone who knows in his heart that he had any part in the success.

YOUNGSTERS WHO are worried lest that long flight from the North Pole leaves Santa Claus dog-tired when his helicopter brings him into downtown Plymouth at 12 noon Saturday can take heart.

Thoughtful Chamber of Commerce officials have arranged for Santa to have a chance to "refresh" at Met-tal Airport before his special pilot takes aim on that section of Main Street between Penniman and Ann Arbor Trail, which will be the landing pad. Automotive traffic will be blocked off, of course.

PHS JUNIOR CLASS students are invited to bring their mothers and fathers to "Junior Parents Night" discussions in the high school auditorium beginning at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 30.

Counselors will have group meetings with parents, and there will be considerable emphasis upon the vocational training available in PHS programs. Principal Bill Brown and other high school administrators will participate.

JAMES R. LYTLE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Lytle, 4443 Erik Pass, was among 10 Central Michigan University students initiated recently into Phi Eta Sigma, men's scholastic honorary fraternity.

also is a member of CMU's honor program, is a CMU cheerleader and a member of the varsity gymnastics team.

DOG LICENSE fees have gone up in Canton Township where the cost used to be $1 a year for male dogs and $2 for females. The board of trustees decided this month to push the fees to a straight $4 a year up until March 1 and $5 thereafter, effective immediately.

The action was taken to meet increasing costs incurred in picking up and housing stray pooches.

AFTER ONLY being open a week, it was apparent to downtown Plymouth merchants that the new dual-purpose office of the Michigan Department of State is going to be responsible for an increase in customer buying power.

Driver licenses as well as automobile plate tabs are available at this one-stop operation which is next to the NBD branch at Main and Penniman. Office hours are from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Mondays, and from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays. The office is closed on weekends.

KATHY SIBBOLD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nat Sibbold, 1149 Ross, was initiated recently into the Zeta Nu chapter of Delta Zeta sorority at Ferris State.

Miss Sibbold graduated from Plymouth High School in 1969 and is majoring in what her sorority sister in charge of press and public relations calls "medical assisting."

EQUESTRIANS will be interested to hear that ground was broken Monday for construction of an indoor riding arena at Majestic Farm, 1300 W. Joy Rd., Ann Arbor.

This is the 40-acre site of the Ann Arbor Riding School and the new arena will triple the size of current indoor riding space. On its 40-acres the school has two boarding barns for 32 horses, a lighted outdoor ring and a large field for open riding.

CENSUS BUREAU DATA for the decade of the '60s show that Plymouth and Canton Townships were among the booming communities in all of southeastern Michigan. The following figures reflect changes between April 1, 1960 and April 1, 1970:

Plymouth Township's occupied dwelling units increased from 2,009 to 4,909 (144.4 per cent) and the population from 8,304 to 17,407 (109.3 per cent).

Canton jumped from 1,434 living units to 3,361 (137.4 per cent) and from a population of 5,313 to 11,086 (107.5 per cent).

For a landlocked entity whose officials complain that there is no place to grow, the City of Plymouth didn't do too badly. Dwelling units increased from 2,725 to 3,707 (36.3 per cent) and the population went up from 8,706 to 11,788 (34.1 per cent).

Many officials predict that the total Plymouth community will have a population of at least 60,000 when the decade of the '70s comes to a close. The population of the two Plymouths and Canton added up to 40,281 as of 1970.

MORE NEW families who have been captivated by Plymouth's charm and have moved here recently, according to Welcome Wagon informants, include:

Carol and Don Strand of Detroit, Greta and Jim Poole of Dearborn Heights, Terry and Tim O'Connell from Toledo, Jackie and Richard Skrobecki from Detroit, Barbara and Jerry Matthews of Livonia, Frances and Milton Palshan from Whitmore, Carol and Larry Osterling from Ypsilanti, Sara and Lewis Cale of Livonia and Anna and Edmund Murawski from Detroit.

THE FOUR BLODGETS, headed by our former city manager, are coming to Plymouth tomorrow to spend a four-day weekend among local friends. They'll bunk with George and Betty Hudson, or, rather, let's say they will stay at the Hudson home.

If you wonder about the fourth member of the family, let it be known that Dick and Micki have just lately adopted a two-week-old baby to go along with daughter Michele.

Police Protection Also Is No. 1 Northville Issue

By WILLIAM C. SLIGER

(Editor's Note: William C. Sliger, publisher of the Northville Record, not only is acutely aware of Wayne County affairs in general, but also has a finger constantly on the pulse of the Northville community where, today, the township is caught in the same debate over police services as are Plymouth and Canton Townships. Mr. Sliger's timely remarks will be of interest to all Mail & Observer readers and we feel privileged to reprint them.)

Rapidly-growing Northville township is facing a number of knotty problems, nearly all caused by its increasing population.

Very soon the elected board of trustees must make some key decisions which could set the tone for the future development of the township.

Acutely aware of the situation, and knowing full well that almost any decision short of doing nothing at all will require a vote of the public to provide additional tax dollars, the board this week is mailing questionnaires to all registered voters.

The "opinion poll" deals almost exclusively with the problem of providing police protection for the township.

The purpose of the poll is to obtain some feedback of public opinion. The board does not propose to turn its obligation for decision-making over to a poll, but it hopes to gain some guidance from the results of the survey.

WHILE IT realizes that many township residents are unaware of the impending decisions its governing body must make, the board is hopeful that those returning questionnaires will do so after studied consideration of the problems.

Even the board itself found great difficulty in reaching agreement on the kind of questionnaire to mail out—whether one should be mailed at all.

An argument against the questionnaire is that it suggests that this alone will solve the township's problems and that additional millage will not be needed for other facilities and services.

Proponents of the poll point out that it is only advisory in nature and at least gives the board some idea of public thinking in one important area.

WHAT ARE the immediate problems facing Northville township? Not necessarily in order of importance, they are:

- police protection;
- fire protection;
- township office facilities;
- fire station and police department facilities;
- long-range governmental status.

The problems are so closely related that it is almost impossible to take action on one without making provisions for another.

What are the alternatives open to the board? There are several. But it is evident that the initial decisions would be far easier if the board could look into the future and know for certain what governmental form the township will eventually take.

ALL SIDES of this very sensitive subject would probably agree that to remain forever a township will be impossible.

Township government was designed for rural areas demanding very little service and requiring minimal tax support.

As development takes place, water and sewers, roads, traffic, homes and people all require services, either in the form of public works maintenance, police or fire protection.

Naturally, this means bigger government and higher taxes.

The board recognizes that the future governmental status of the township has some bearing on what steps should be taken at this time.

And perhaps for that reason the less question appearing on the questionnaire that does not apply directly to immediate police protection is: "Would you favor total unification between the City of Northville and the Township?"

No one has the wisdom to look into a crystal ball and predict the future. And it's obvious that no one on the township board is going to speak out and state flatly what the township should do about its governmental status.

One thing is certain. No matter what form the township eventually takes, the voters must decide.

IF UNIFICATION of the city and township were to be proposed, voters in both the city and township would have to give approval.

And then the two units would elect a body of charter commissioners who would draft a new city government representing the entire city-township area.

There's no assurance that voters in either the city or township would approve such a plan.

A joint study of unification undertaken by the city and township several years ago indicated that if such a new city were formed, the tax rate needed to provide services at a standard now offered in the city would be seven mills.

Township residents now pay one mill; city residents pay 10 mills.

The other course of action open to the township board is the formation of a stronger government of its own. This could start with a vote by the people for additional millage.

Eventually, it could lead to either a charter-township, village or city form of government, depending upon the needs of the community.

Just how much additional millage would be needed depends upon the extent of services to be offered.

THE BOARD is presently considering construction of an 11,200-square-foot township hall complex that would provide fire and police station facilities on an 8.9-acre site on Six Mile at Winchester road.

The site was given the township by Thompson-Brown Co., developers of a subdivision in the area.

Estimated cost of the structure is $450,000.

Township Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg stated that a one-mill levy over a 23-year period could pay for the cost of the structure, but added that additional millage would be required for operational costs.

He said that the township has legal authority to levy an additional mill for fire protection without a vote of the public, but he doubted that the board would favor any new levy without voter approval.

The township has until next April to find new quarters. The present township hall (the old library building) has been given to the Northville Historical Society and will be moved from its present site to make way for Northville Square shopping center.

The supervisor said the township is also exploring rental sites for temporary township hall quarters. One possibility is a vacant building next to Reef Manufacturing on Seven Mile Road, he reported.

SO THE township board and its citizens are left with these questions:

- Should the township contract for additional police protection and, if so, from the county or the city?
- Should the township urge the city to form a community-type police department under joint control of the two governments (a plan, incidentally, not completely acceptable to the city)?
- Should the township expand its own force?
- If the latter is the course to follow, should the township go ahead with plans to build a township hall-fire-station-police department complex?

Or should it wait until township hall facilities, build a fire station, and either expand its own force or contract with the city or county for police protection?

What would you do if you were a member of the township board?

That's what the board wants to know. The members hope voters will consider the questions about police protection in the light of all the facts surrounding the need and fill out their questionnaire as objectively as possible.

They've asked for all questionnaires to be returned by Dec. 3 and they hope voters will "express their own ideas in the 'remarks' space."

Recession Helped Cut Traffic Deaths

Wayne County motorists who had one of the worst traffic safety records over two years ago made a remarkable turnaround and helped reduce auto fatalities 14 per cent in 1970 as well as leading Michigan to its safest travel year in history, according to a recently released Automobile Club of Michigan study.

The report, titled "Portrait of a Year 1970" shows that Wayne went from 500 traffic deaths in 1969 to 431 last year. This 60-person drop in fatalities was the second highest total in the state. Only Genesee County, with a reduction of 72 traffic deaths, had a larger decrease.

WAYNE COUNTY motorists are to be commended for the impressive gains they made in traffic safety last year, states Auto Club General Manager Fred Rehm.

"Without their safe driving efforts, few of the significant improvements which included a 17 per cent reduction in injury accidents and 14 per cent decline in all crashes over 1969, could have been established."

The 72 page analysis cites such factors as stepped up law enforcement, improved traffic engineering, reduced alcohol sales and economic conditions as the major reasons for the decrease in county accidents and fatalities.

While the county as a whole had an improved traffic safety record, it was in the City of 20 per cent in 1969 over the previous year that the most significant improvements were made.

"After 1969, some experts in the field of traffic safety were predicting that the death toll in Detroit alone would climb to more than 400 persons," Rehm points out.

"In fact, however, the state's largest city had only 222 traffic deaths, down 70 from the 292 during the previous year. Without Detroit's traffic death drop, the county would have had an increase of one auto fatality over 1969."

ON A COUNTY-WIDE basis, the totals are not so spectacular with tickets issued by sheriff's deputies for both total traffic offenses and moving violations showing slight decreases over 1969.

Despite these reductions, Sheriff William Lucas believes that 1970 was a successful year for the county.

He cites the overall decline in fatal, injury and all accidents and adds:

"...We not only increased our total force and road patrol in 1969, but last year we focused our attention on high-accident locations as well as the drunk driver."

And in Wayne County last year, the number of drivers tested by sheriff's deputies on the breathalyzer was 432, up 40 per cent from the 308 in 1969 and 68 per cent from the 256 in 1968.

"The effects on traffic safety from good drunk driving enforcement cannot be stressed enough since it has been proven that alcohol is a factor in at least 50 per cent of all traffic fatalities in Michigan," says Rehm.

"Controlling the drinking driver certainly showed considerable improvement in the county last year."

HIGHWAY engineering improvements made in the county the last two years also were a major factor in the reduced death toll.

A concentrated effort by the Highway Department also eliminated many serious highway and roadside obstacles not only in Wayne County but across the state.

According to the study, these and other recently completed highway safety projects in Wayne undoubtedly were factors in reducing traffic accidents and deaths last year. Whether traffic engineering plays an important role in helping to keep fatalities down in the future depends on how much money is budgeted for these programs, the study states.

MICHIGAN'S tight money situation in 1970, which included such factors as unemployment, the General Motors strike and the recession, played a major part in the county's improved traffic safety mark.

"The theory is that when money becomes tight and jobs scarce, conservatism dominates most people's thinking," Rehm states.

"Apparently this conservatism spills over into driving habits as motorists seem to use added caution."

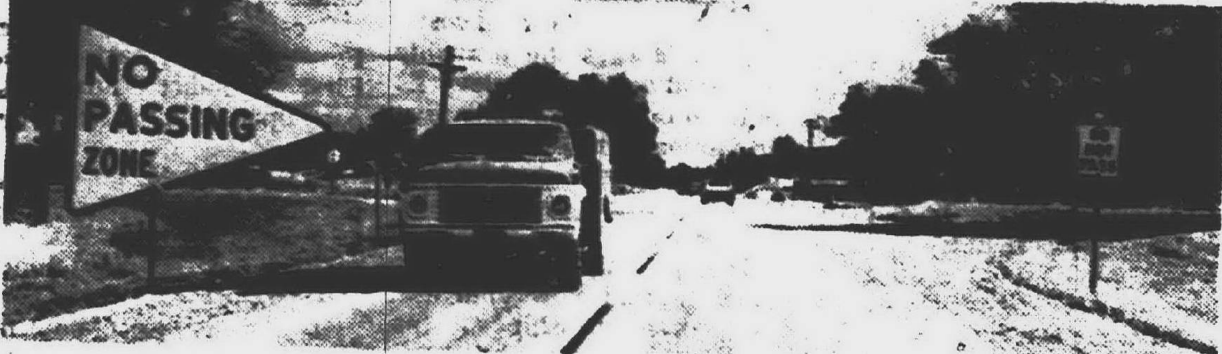

A chart included in the study shows a direct relationship between unemployment and traffic deaths in all but four of the last 20 years. When employment went up during the last two decades, traffic deaths followed suit, and vice versa.

Wayne County had the highest 1970 unemployment total in Michigan with a monthly average of 113,200, exclusive of strikers. Wayne also has 40.5 per cent of Michigan's 355,500 motor vehicle workers (employees directly connected with motor vehicle construction). Those not affected by the auto strike directly still felt the economic pinch as overtime was not as prevalent.

THE FINAL major factor that influenced the county's death drop last year was reduced alcohol sales. Here again, the effects of unemployment and the GM strike may be felt as county wide alcohol sales drop nearly 15 per cent last year over 1969.

Even more significant was that bar sales were down approximately the same percentage. Auto Club points out that when drinking is done at a bar, an automobile is almost always involved.

"While fatal accidents increases cannot be linked to alcohol consumption in every area, Auto Club maintains that a downward shift in drinking, no matter how small, must be reflected in the total traffic death picture," explains Rehm.

Youth Home Ideas Pondered

A public hearing held in the City-County Building attracted approximately 100 people interested in the development of new detention and rehabilitation facilities for juvenile delinquents of Wayne County.

The hearing was held by the Advisory Committee on Youth Detention and Rehabilitation Facilities which was created by the County Board of Commissioners.

It was chaired by Commissioner Joseph F. Young, (D-Detroit), who called the attendance "highly gratifying."

The advisory committee staged the hearing to solicit ideas on planning the new facility, which will augment the present Juvenile Court and Youth Home.

"Much of the testimony stressed a need for more rehabilitation services, and fewer punitive measures," said Young. "A lot of the recommendations show concern for a much healthier physical and psychological environment."

SOME OF THE suggestions are:

- That delinquent children be housed separately from those who are simply neglected.
- That pre-trial and post-trial offenders be housed separately.
- That psychiatric services be provided.

Esch Bill To Ease 4-Day Week

U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Ann Arbor) co-sponsored a bill that would permit laborers to work a four-day, 40 hour week. The bill was referred to the House Education and Labor Committee, of which Esch is a member.

Since the present law on federal government contract work requires time and a half pay after eight hours work in a single day, the cost to management would increase with a four-day week.

This bill would not provide for overtime beyond eight hours work in a single day, "thereby avoiding increased costs of a longer workday," Esch said.

In addition to giving laborers more time for leisure and family activities, Esch said the bill would have advantages for management as well.

That recreational facilities, including outdoor activities, be provided.

That rehabilitation services include job training.

That rehabilitation include some co-educational programs.

Some 20 individuals made presentations before the advisory committee, juvenile court officials, other commissioners and consultants.

Appearances were made by representatives of social service agencies, police departments, schools and churches.

A SAMPLING OF the organizations presenting testimony include the following:

United Community Services and New Detroit, the Wayne County Department of Social Services and the County Child Development Center; the Westwood River Rouge, and Wayne - Westland school systems; the Highland Park, Garden City, and Taylor police departments; and the Wayne County Chiefs of Police.

The hearing, held Nov. 17, concludes a four-month study of county juvenile facilities which is being financed by a $80,500 federal grant.

The study is being conducted by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., a Detroit firm which specializes in management consulting and accounting.

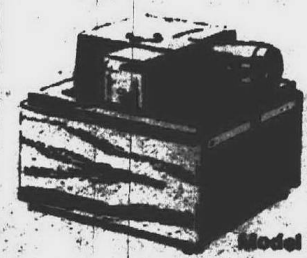

Present Youth Home facilities lack a comprehensive rehabilitation program and are so overcrowded that upwards of 100 youngsters sleep on mattresses on the floors.

Bill Is Signed To Inspect Game

LANSING
A bill permitting the State Department of Agriculture to require the inspection of deer and other large game animals at the time of processing was signed into law by Gov. Milliken.

The bill was sponsored by State Rep. Marvin Stempien (D-Livonia). It passed the Legislature to be in effect for the current deer hunting season which began on Nov. 15.

Before its approval, there was no state law covering the processing of wild game meat.

THE BILL passed the house in an 88-0 vote and in the Senate by 28-0.

Observerland representatives voting for it were Reps. Richard Young (D-Dearborn Heights), Joan Bennett (D-Redford Township), Stempien, Thomas Brown (D-Westland), Raymond Baker (R-Farmington), Joseph Forbes (D-Oak Park), and James Delebaugh (R-Birmingham). Rep. James Tierney (D-Garden City) was not present for the vote.

Local senators voting for it were Sens. David Plawecki (D-Dearborn Heights), William Faust (D-Westland) and Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth). Sen. Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park) was not present for the vote.

"LEGALLY, THE game is the property of the hunter," Stempien said. "If it is found to be unspoiled at the processing plant, it cannot be confiscated as a health hazard. This new law will be a protection for the hunter and for all of those who consume venison."

Stempien said he had been trying to get passage of the bill for three years.

"I'm pleased that we finally got it through this year," he said. "It is something that has been a shortcoming in our meat processing act for a long time."

The bill had the support of the Department of Natural Resources, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, the Michigan Consumers Council, and a number of sportsmen's and conservation groups, according to Stempien.

He said that inquiries and complaints regarding wild game processing can be made directly to the State Veterinarian, Michigan Department of Agriculture, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing.

Sick Puppy Is Missing

Somewhere in the area is a silver grey, nine-week-old malamute puppy picked up by two men in a blue car which should be returned to the owner promptly or face a fatal illness.

The puppy, owned by Jim Zayti of Northville, has been under medication for the past two weeks, a treatment that must be continued if the malamute is to live.

Zayti is offering a reward for the return of his pet. It wandered away from the Zayti home on Six Mile Road in Northville Township Sunday, was picked up and vanished.

Zayti can be reached at the J.J. Zayti Trucking Co. Inc., 47500 Eight Mile Road, Northville.

Residence Rules Set By EMU

YPSILANTI
Criteria for determining the residence of Eastern Michigan University students for tuition purposes have been approved by the board of regents. They become effective Jan. 1.

It is on that date that the legislative act making the age of majority 18 in this state becomes law.

The question of residence arises because non-residents pay 2 1/2 times the tuition charged those who live in Michigan.

The action provided that "the treasurer of the board of regents shall be the responsible officer for developing reasonable procedures and evaluating qualifications of individual applicants." The matter of a student's residence will be reviewed each time he registers.

THESE ARE the criteria:
1. Length of time lived in Michigan prior to first enrollment.

2. High school attended or previous college.

3. Domicile of parents.

4. Status as an elector.

5. Status as a taxpayer.

6. Source, length and continuity of employment.

7. Marital status.

8. Ownership of real estate.

9. Source of driver's license (state).

10. Source of vehicle license (state).

11. Self-supporting or dependent on others.

12. Type of visa held if from a foreign country.

13. Other factors, at the discretion of the treasurer.

Student Body

Wayne State University's student body has increased 66 per cent in the last decade, from 21,534 students in 1959-60 to 35,655 in the fall of 1970.

"HEY, WAITER!" by DON KEETH

Exasperating, isn't it, when you are hungry or in a hurry and you can't catch the waiter's eye in a restaurant. Many a time in despair have I thought that the customers should be called "waiters" because they are the ones who do the waiting. It's just human nature to dislike waiting for anything.

That's true also when it comes to comfort in your home. When the temperature suddenly drops outdoors, you don't want to wait for the house to warm up. Or if the sun comes out, or lots of people gather, so extra heat isn't needed, you don't want to wait for the heating system to shut off.

Naturally, I'd keep my mouth shut about this if the Lennox heating systems I install would make you wait. But they don't, hence this column.

Control of a Lennox forced air heating system is precise and instant. You get the heat you need when you need it. And when you don't need heat it shuts off--and I mean right now. Of course that means you don't get an overheated room. It means you don't have to open windows and doors and try to chase out heat that you have paid good hard-earned dough for.

It means there is no hot mess of cast iron, concrete or plaster throwing out heat when you don't want it. And there is no mess of the same to heat first when you again want heat.

The other lovely, lovely extras you get with Lennox forced warm air are: Continuous circulation of air to eliminate stuffiness and stratification; filtering of dust and lint from the air; addition of fresh air; addition of moisture to the air; and, of course, only with a central forced air heating system can you easily add central air conditioning. Why wait, why worry, why suffer? See us.

Urges 2 Roads Be Developed As Boulevards

PLYMOUTH
Why not turn Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail into boulevards? And at the same time, why not improve the presently unsafe intersections where Ann Arbor Trail and Joy Road meet Ann Arbor Road?

Those requests were directed to the Wayne County Road Commission by Gregory I. Donovan, president of the Detroit-based Donovan Associates Inc. development company which owns and manages several parcels of land in western Plymouth Township.

Donovan, whose company controls 6,600 feet of frontage on the north side of Ann Arbor Road between Napier and Beck roads, said his company would donate the required right-of-way along its properties if the county adopted the boulevard plan.

THE BOULEVARD request was also directed to the Plymouth Township Board by Donovan. "We would appreciate knowing your attitude on this matter," he told the board.

The developer's request to the road commission cited two primary reasons.

The safety feature of boulevards virtually eliminates the possibility of head-on collisions, and the open-space and aesthetic attributes of a boulevard are more pleasing than conventional highways, he said.

C&O Cited For Delays

PLYMOUTH
The C&O Railroad was issued two citations for holding two crossings for more than five minutes Friday.

The first citation was issued after O.N. Olstad of 10559 Brookway, Plymouth, filed a complaint charging that a train with two engines, numbered 3560 and 3526, held the crossing at Ann Arbor Trail from 7:44 a.m. to 7:59 a.m. Olstad said the train crossed back and forth before clearing the crossing.

The second citation against C&O was lodged by Lt. William Guldner and Patrolman Michael Gardner, who were detained by a freight train with caboose number 3147 at Mill Street from 2:22 a.m. to 2:35 a.m.

An employee of the railroad told Guldner and Gardner that the train had stopped sooner than planned and lost radio

Side Effects

Winter months can provide children many hours of outdoor exercise and enjoyment. However, if a child's winter recreation results in a severe head cold, medical treatment should be sought, according to experts. They warn that a hearing loss can be one of the serious possible side effects of a severe head cold.

Letters To The Editor

Green Denies Financial Aid

EDITOR:

I am writing to thank the 198 people who voted for me in the recent election in the City of Plymouth. At least 198 people feel that some changes are needed in the makeup of those who govern our city.

I also wish to comment on Mr. (Arch) Vallier's statement in the Mail & Observer of Nov. 10. I personally have not received any financial backing of any kind from anyone in my legal fight with the City of Plymouth.

I felt that my rights and the constitutional rights of millions of people in the United States were being violated by the outdated charters of cities of the United States. I, for one, am tired of having my rights violated.

I am truly sorry that more people will not get out and vote. I myself have been lax sometimes, but at least I try. I am only a factory worker with a minimum education, true; but these are the people who have made this country and they should have a voice in running it.

I feel that any qualified elector should also have the right to run for local office in his community. Plymouth is a good city, but it is not being run by the people as a whole.

which must be done in order for all to have equal rights. As was said before, too much city business is being done from the Round Table Club and Mayflower Hotel.

These are only my opinions and thoughts. What the future holds I do not know, but I hope that my minor contribution to democracy will open a few eyes in the city of Plymouth and elsewhere.

Meeting Place Is Appreciated

EDITOR:

I would like to take this opportunity to express thanks and appreciation to the board of the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Association, plus George Lawton and his staff, for furnishing a meeting place for many organizations in Plymouth free of charge.

I belong to two organizations that use these facilities and know of several others that do. This is a great service to Plymouth and the small groups that use these facilities. I know that these groups join me in saying thanks.

How Technology Will Change Cities

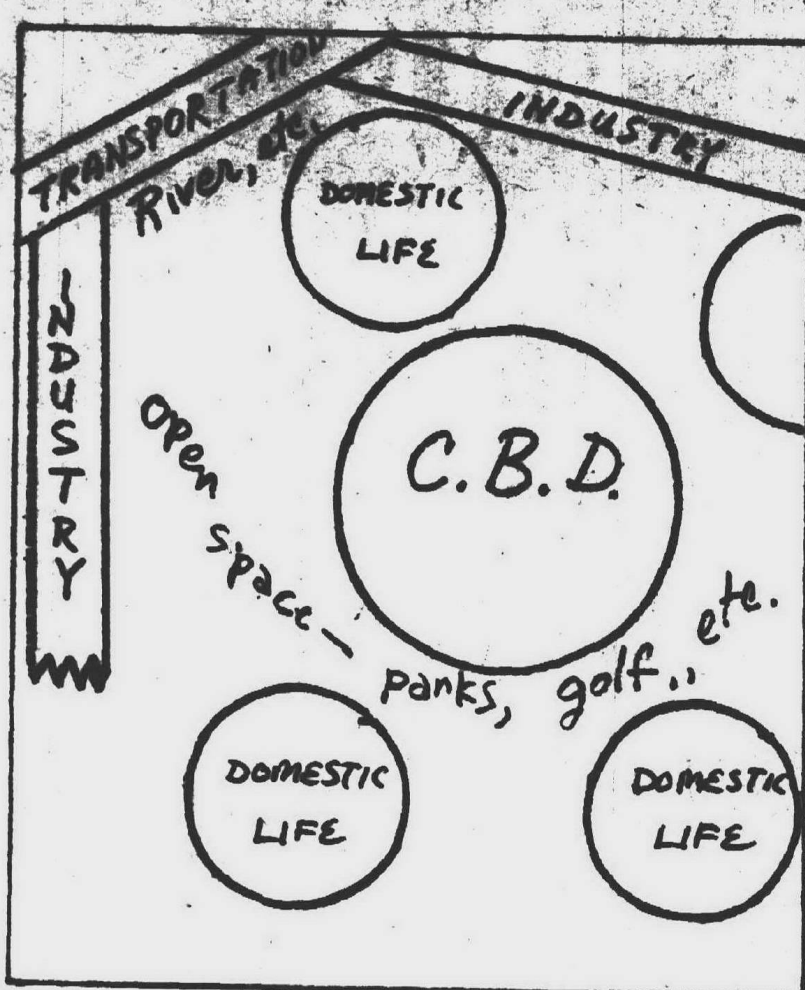

THE CITY of efficient consumption, from a schematic drawing by Paul and Percival Goodman in "Communitas." This is the more traditional form of city.

By TIM RICHARD
Cities were born as centers for the transportation of goods. Any student of geography who has studied pack trails, seaports and railroads can tell you that. From 1920-70 the onslaught of the automobile determined the form of cities - or rather their lack of form, their unwieldy sprawl, their wastage of land. But the city of the year 2000 will reflect a new kind of technology - the technology of communications. With more workers dealing in information, with housewives able to do their shopping via a television-computer, the need for today's industrial, commercial and transportation areas will be vastly changed.

A YOUNG MAN who is working on these ideas calls the new towns of the future "Communications City." He is Michael B. Glick, and he has the unassuming title of "program associate" at Metropolitan Fund. An energetic, clean-cut sort, Mike Glick developed some of his ideas while working on a master's degree in city planning at the University of Michigan.

Metro Fund is a privately-funded research and education foundation concerned with the six-county area of southeastern Michigan. It gave birth, with ideas, staff and money, to such organizations as New Detroit, Inc., the Council of Governments, TALUS (Transportation and Land Use Study) and SEMTA (the transportation authority). It's latest project is new towns, and that's why Glick is working there.

JUST LOOK at the people who move into a city center during peak hours, he says, and you'll notice they spend much of their day reading, writing, talking, listening - even at lunch they're often communicating, engaging in information transfers. There's also a certain amount of paper

'COMMUNICATIONS City' of the future is less dependent on the movement of goods in its work life, preserves more open space. From a paper by Michael B. Glick.

shuffling, cable connecting, machine manipulating. "Now in the age of cybernetics," Glick says, "the transporting of thoughts, ideas and data is replacing to some degree the transfer of goods and materials as the major function of a city and, consequently, as a major determinant of the city's form."

He takes an "extreme" example: "If voices and images could be transmitted great distances rapidly and cheaply, people in the cybernetic and software occupations may be freed of their commitments to certain geographic areas..."

"Most of the people whose jobs did not depend on some physical aspect of southeast Michigan would be free to settle in more pleasant climates, working in their homes and transmitting the output back... via the new communications."

ANOTHER EXAMPLE: "If cable television were able to include a channel for shopping, a housewife would need only to tune in at the grocery store hour, watch as a camera scans the shelves and push a few buttons to make her selections. The food would be delivered to her home and, at the very least, the need for a huge parking lot at the supermarket would have been eliminated."

An information worker might have to travel to his office only a day or two per week, and then by a method of rapid transit.

What would this new kind of town look like compared to the traditional city?

Glick cites the "city of efficient consumption" in "Communitas" by Paul and Percival Goodman: People work in the core zone, then hasten home to the zone of domestic life (see chart).

shopping area (in the central business district) and the neighborhood convenience centers remain. Eliminated is the "middle-sized" comparison shopping center, replaced by the cable TV telephone system.

Business offices can be smaller and will locate in the CBD while professional offices will locate in neighborhood centers, near the people they serve.

Housing for this city of 100,000 is of two types: High-rise just inside the ring of the CBD and less dense family areas in the five sub-communities of about 18,000 each.

The sub-communities are located about 1 1/2 miles from the edge of the CBD. Their density will be greater, however, than today's suburban communities in order to place people near rapid transit and reduce the cost of communications cables.

Open space will be a prominent feature of Communications City - not just neighborhood parks but golf courses and ecological parks as well.

With greater dependence on communications and rapid transit, this city will need to pave less acreage for streets, highways and parking lots.

Consolidated Gas Can't Raise Rates

LANSING
The Michigan Commerce Department's Public Service Commission today approved an anti-inflationary moratorium on rate increases for Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

PSC Chairman Willis F. Ward of Detroit said the agreement provides that Michigan Consolidated will not receive another general rate increase at least until 1973.

The only exception to the moratorium would be in the event the utility's wholesale cost of gas increases. Wholesale gas rates are under the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission.

WARD COMMENDED Michigan Consolidated for agreeing to absorb all increases in costs, except wholesale gas, during the next 14 months.

"Under this agreement, Michigan Consolidated will be able to earn a reasonable rate of return," he said.

Fat Content To Be Labeled

Attempting to eliminate the confusion in buying meats, Great Scott Supermarkets is now labeling packages of ground meat with the percentage of fat content.

The meat is divided into four grades with hamburger containing no more than 28 per cent fat; hamburger lean, 24 per cent; ground beef, 20 per cent; and ground beef lean, 18 per cent.

"This new method of marking ground meat is of more value for the consumer," Great Scott President Nat Fink said. "With the name of the ground meat and the per cent of fat content marked on every label, it will make it simpler and easier for the housewife to select the exact grade and quality of ground meat she desires."

The new marking system answers a Consumers Union report which said housewives have been getting little or no nutritional quality or taste advantage from buying ground chuck, round or sirloin despite having to pay higher prices.

'Babes In Arms' Opens Friday

Dress rehearsals are putting the finishing touches to many weeks of preparation this week for the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild's "Babes in Arms" production.

The Rodgers and Hart musical, set to open this weekend in Bentley High School, 15100 Hubbard, Livonia, boasts a cast of singers and dancers, not only from Observerland, but from as far away as Dearborn and Pontiac.

Tickets for the Nov. 26 and 27 and Dec. 3, 4 and 5 performances are being sold by Mrs. E.J. O'Connell, 29639 Roberts, Livonia; Mrs. D.I. Borovik, 34948 Grove, Livonia; and Mrs. A.C. Wrigley, 23404 Fenkel, Detroit.

THE STORY of "Babes in Arms" revolves around the antics of a group of stage-struck youngsters working as apprentices at a summer theater on Cape Cod, who try to have their song and dance revue seen by a visiting Broadway producer.

The cast includes a villainous theater owner, a young man who writes bad plays, a spoiled young actress, and a talented, starving song writer.

The songs include such nostalgic favorites as "My Funny Valentine," "The Lady is a Tramp," "Johnny One Note," and "Where or When." Starring in the cast are Robin Shaw of Livonia; Tanya Bone of Westland; Sharon Bruce, Chip Gerdan, Joan Roth, Angus Wrigley, Phil Cole and J. Craig Collicott, all of Detroit; Tim Gerdan of Pontiac; Tim Miller and Mike Murphy of Dearborn; and Sue Latham and Helen Rahaley of Farmington.

RUSTY ALDRIDGE of Bloomfield Hills, Paula Bone of Westland, Paula Davis and Roy Palise of Dearborn, Cal Draughn and Debra Harris of Livonia, and Bonnie Shuster of Farmington are cast in the roles of apprentices.

Hal Waller is director of the show and Neale Stahl is the music director. Carol Laske is the assistant director. B.J. Shells is looking after the choreography and Rae Lawrence is the producer. Emma Seley is the costumer.

Realism Of 'Cage' Shatters Illusions

By KATHY MORAN

No matter what illusions one harbors about our society's penal system, they are stripped to the coldest realities in "The Cage."

Written by a former San Quentin inmate and performed by six parolees, the drama made the more than 200 persons in the audience uneasy... to put it mildly. It was staged Friday evening in Clarenceville's Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium under auspices of the Schoolcraft College's Student Activities Board and Cultural Affairs Committee.

HOW CAN anyone watch four human beings locked between four walls as they sink to degradation and madness?

Rick Cluchey, the man who wrote the drama while imprisoned, made "Jive" into the character around whom the realities of prison life are unraveled.

Jive is the new prisoner thrust into the Cage ("cells are life, cages are death") with a psychotic murderer and two homosexuals.

As their advances and harassment heighten, Jive is faced with his only four alternatives—he can degrade himself and become homosexual, he can fight it off until he is homosexually raped, he can lose his sanity, or he can be murdered. Before 26 hours have lapsed, Jive is strangled by Hatchet (the murderer).

THE CAST features two intolerable guards, portrayed by Henry Everheart and Terry Joyce, along with Jack Clemons as Hatchet, Don Ross as Doc, Robert Poole as Al and Gary Pettinger as Jive. Together they are part of the Barbwire Theatre, an outgrowth of the San Quentin Drama Workshop, that has toured the country with the hard-hitting play.

Their aim is to shock awareness into their audience. They follow with the "confrontation" where the six actors answer questions from the viewers. Later, the discussion breaks into small groups where persons could continue to throw questions at the men who know how it really is behind prison walls.

"The prisoners are not asking to be coddled. They want to be treated as human beings," Ross said.

The parolees explained the kind of penal system they would like to see evolve is one in which only those guilty of violent crimes are imprisoned round-the-clock and where they can get psychiatric help.

THOSE GUILTY of crimes against property would sleep in the jails but would keep their jobs and be required to make monetary settlement for their crime (as in Sweden).

They also want to see a uniform crime code where the rich wouldn't get off with a lecture and the poor be sent to jail.

Before the people began drifting away, almost every aspect of crime and punishment had been discussed, but as one observer said, "The people who need to know these things the most, aren't here."

Bone, Helen Rahley, Phil Cole, Rusty Aldridge and Tanya Bone. That's Roy Palise behind Tanya. For tickets, call Mrs. Terri Borovik, 34948 Grove, Livonia. The musical will also be staged Saturday evening and Dec. 3, 4 and 5.

Amusements

THE WOMEN'S COMMITTEE for the Dec. 5 Balfour Concert at Ford Auditorium gave ticket sales another big push forward last week. Members held a telethon in Southfield. From left (seated) they are Mrs. Ira G. Kaufman, Mrs. Jack R. Greenberg, Mrs. Sidney Z. Leib and Mrs. Sanford A. Bennett. Standing: Mrs. Louis Panush, Mrs. Norma T. Hudosh, Mrs. Herzi Shur, Mrs. Joel Hamburger, Mrs. Richard B. Kramer and Mrs. I. Walter Silver.

Balfour Concert Stars Symphony, Ashkenazy

Much of the pre-concert planning for the Dec. 5 Balfour Concert with guest soloist Vladimir Ashkenazy and the Detroit Symphony is taking place in Southfield.

The offices of the Zionist Organization of Detroit, the group sponsoring the concert, are located in Southfield, and the concert chairman, Dr. Jack Greenberg, and at least half of his willing and able workers are also area people.

Workers include Women's Committee members who held a ticket-selling telethon last week. This project was directed by Mrs. Greenberg. Some tickets are still available through the Zionist Organization of Detroit office, 19451 W. 10 Mile, Southfield.

THE CONCERT will be held in Ford Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. It will be preceded by a champagne party for sponsors and patrons.

Proceeds from the concert will provide scholarships for a number of young Detroiters at Kfar Silver Agricultural School in Israel for summer study, and yearly assignments for local students to study at the Molly Goodman High School in Kfar Silver, Ashdod, Israel.

Proceeds also aid local cultural programs and youth programs in Michigan universities.

GUEST SOLOIST Ashkenazy is a world renowned pianist. He was 19 years old when he was unanimously selected for first prize in the Queen Elizabeth Competition in Brussels in 1956. Now, at age 34, he is booked solid, playing more than 50 concerts per season in the United States alone. Pierre Hetu will conduct the symphony.

REDNOBS AND BROOMSTICKS—Bearing a resemblance to Mary Poppins, Angela Lansbury plays a woman who is taking a mail-order course in witchcraft. (G, A-1).

FOOL'S PARADE—Ex-con James Stewart and two friends simply want to set up a store on their release, but greedy prison captain George Kennedy won't let them. (GP, A-3).

GOING HOME—Robert Mitchum plays the father who, having killed his wife, finds his life complicated by his son's problems after his release from prison. (GP, none).

T.R. BASKIN—Candice Bergen plays a friendly small-town girl who heads for Chicago and keeps her illusions in spite of various adventures. (GP, A-3).

SOMETHING BIG isn't Dean Martin plays the tenderfoot from the East who wants to pull off a big robbery in the West. (GP, A-3).

CARNAL KNOWLEDGE—A Jules Feiffer-Mike Nichols movie about two men's lives and feelings about women. With Jack Nicholson and Candice Bergen. (R, A-4).

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF—The movie, based on Broadway's longest-running musical, lives up to expectations with excellent photography and singing. (G, none).

THE FRENCH CONNECTION—An exciting and violent account of the war against narcotics smuggling, based on a set of actual case histories. (R, A-4).

SUNDAY BLOODY SUNDAY—Strictly for the mature, this story of a man pursued by a homosexual doctor and a woman is a provocative film. (R, A-4).

Herman Herd To Play C'ville

Bandman Woody Herman and his Thundering Herd will invade Clarenceville on Sunday, Dec. 12.

The band, 19 strong, will be presented in concert at 8 p.m. in the Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium, 20155 Middle Belt, Livonia, sponsored by the Clarenceville Entertainment Series.

Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Henry Ellis, 20457 Maplewood, Livonia. They are priced at $2.50 each.

A top musician 30 years ago, Herman is still popular. His band recently shared billing with The Who, a hot rock group and the Led Zeppelin. Woody's vocal rendition of "Caldonia" introduced in 1945 is popular today.

WOODY'S current Thundering Herd includes five trumpets and five reeds, a trio of trombones and a solid rhythm section including Monk Montgomery on bass and John Hicks, piano. Woody himself plays clarinet, alto sax and soprano sax.

Herman has been swinging continuously longer than any other white band leader. The Count Basie and Duke Ellington bands have been around more years. But Glenn Miller and the Dorsey's are dead, and Benny Goodman fronts a band only occasionally.

Herman plays one-night stands across Canada and the U.S., often in England and on the Continent. In addition to concert appearances the Herman band and Woody present seminars for colleges, high schools and group orchestras.

BORN WOODROW Charles Herman 58 years ago in Milwaukee, Herman was only six when his show-business father began pushing him onto home-town stages as a singer-dancer. By the age of 17, he had become a member of the Tom Gerun band.

A few years later, he joined the old Isham Jones band, and when Jones dissolved the group in 1936, Woody reorganized it as "the band that plays the blues."

By the early 1940s, he was ready to gallop with the Herds. For the past 25 years he has spent only about six weeks a year in the hilltop Hollywood home overlooking Sunset Boulevard that used to belong to Humphrey Bogart. The rest of the time he is on the road, playing 200 or more concerts a year.

Chorale Plans Free Concerts

The Suburban Chorale will present two free concerts and take part in tree-lighting ceremonies in December.

The first concert will be presented at Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran Church, 30650 Six Mile, Livonia, at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 1.

The second will be in Galilean Baptist Church, 28875 W. Seven Mile, Livonia, at 7 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 5.

In both concerts, Christmas music will be featured. Songs will include "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place," "Some Special Place," "A Christmas Dinner," "Calypso Noel," "Birthday of a King" and others.

The chorale, which is sponsored by the Livonia Parks and Recreation department, will also present a program of Christmas music at Livonia's annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony. This will be at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 8, at the Livonia City Hall, Five Mile and Farmington Roads.

Livonian Is Semi-Finalist

Patrick Charles Williams, son of Mrs. Ladeen E. Williams of Livonia, was one of seven semi-finalists from Eastern Michigan University in competitive vocal auditions held at the University of Illinois.

A total of 162 singers from Missouri, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan appeared in the event sponsored by the National Association of Teachers of Singing.

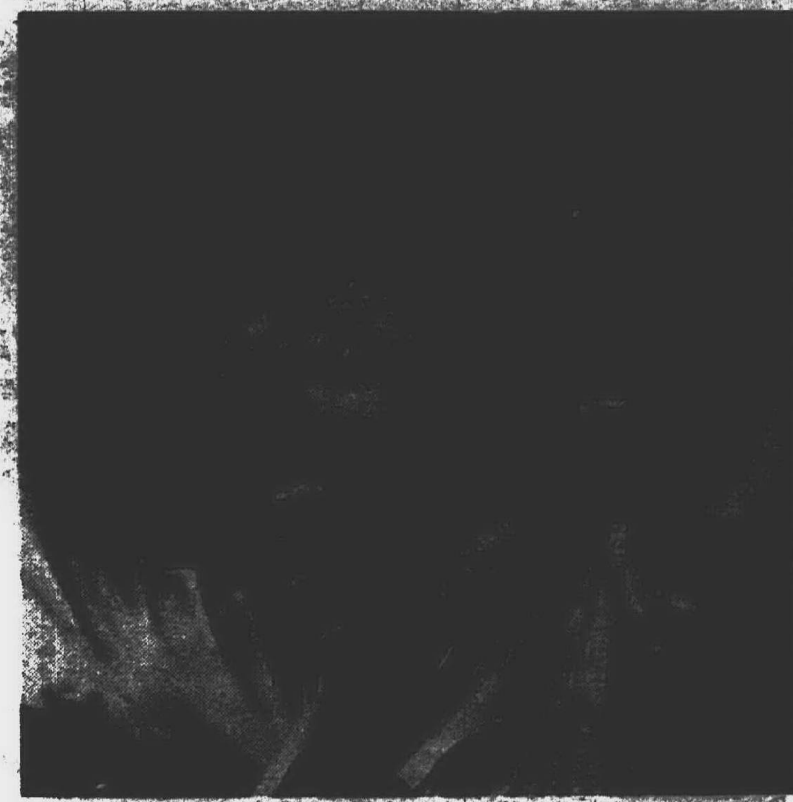

Williams is a senior voice major who sings bass. He is a student of Emily Lowe.

8 Breeds Will Be In Contest

The Motor City Specialty Clubs Association, world's largest specialty dog show, will be held Sunday, Nov. 28, in the Detroit Artillery Armory, 15000 W. Eight Mile, Oak Park.

Breeds represented are Dobermans, Chihuahuas, Dances, boxers, shepherds, collies, Weimaraners, and Shetland sheep dogs.

All breeds with the exception of German shepherds will include a puppy sweepstakes. The sweepstakes are to be in the morning and breed conformation judging will be in the afternoon. The show is open to the public.

WOODY HERMAN leads his Thundering Herd into Livonia Sunday, Dec. 12, for a performance in Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium, 20155 Middle Belt, sponsored by the Clarenceville Entertainment Series.

Jerrine Habsburg Is Winner

A painting by Jerrine Habsburg was chosen best of show at the fall exhibit and sale of the Farmington Artists Club this month. Russell Keeter was judge for the show.

Other awards were as follows: oil, Evelyn Crabtree, first; Annetta Lind, second; and Margaret McLeod, third; acrylics, Joe Gach, first; Anne Ward, second; and Marilyn Jenks, third; watercolors, Peggy Davis, first; and Ramon Kugler, second; mixed media, Alice Nichols, first; Jane Brown, second; and Allie Wilson, third; and drawing, Joe Gach, first, and Anne Ward, second.

Price Of Feast Is Up

The Thanksgiving dinner you cook tomorrow may well cost considerably more than last year's, but the increase has more to do with the mighty bird than with the rising cost of living.

A check of prices in area supermarkets just before Thanksgiving in 1970 and 1971 showed a jump from 21 cents a pound to 33 cents a pound for tom turkeys in most stores.

Other traditional items, such as cranberry sauce, canned pumpkin and pumpkin pies and prepared stuffing, were about the same price or a cent or two higher.

Potatoes both years varied considerably from year to year.

The higher cost of tom turkeys, a spokesman for one supermarket chain said, "means that we're not losing as much."

"For about four years," he added,

"the Detroit area has had the lowest price in the country on Thanksgiving turkeys.

"This year we're more in line with the rest of the country."

There was no agreement among chains in reaching the 33 cents a pound figure, he said. "Just a matter of watching each other's ads," he explained.

Although the largest and most popular turkeys jumped in price, that didn't hold true for the more expensive brands of smaller turkeys.

"They are the same price as last year or slightly less," the spokesman said.

That type of butter-basted turkey ranged from 55 to 65 cents a pound in area stores both years.

The price freeze and subsequent thaw didn't have any great effect on the cost of a Thanksgiving dinner.

One chain was selling Idaho potatoes for 10 pounds for 69 cents as a Thanksgiving special. The price had been 10 pounds for 99 cents just before the freeze.

Cranberry sauce, priced at 28 cents a can during the summer, ranged in price from 21 to 26 cents a can in stores this week. Last year it was advertised as low as 19 cents a can.

In general, the easing of price restraints on groceries has not made a great difference in the take-home cost of meat, the supermarket spokesman said.

Poultry is slightly lower this month than it was in August, he said. Pork is much lower and beef is higher.

"The overall average is about the same," he concluded.

MR. AND MRS. WILFRED LEWIS look over one of the many cards they received to mark their 65th wedding anniversary. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Big Sister Program Set By Y

The Livonia Family Y is launching a Big Sister program to bring together sympathetic high school girls and younger girls who need more individual attention.

The big sisters will be girls who are high school juniors or older and are able to communicate with younger ones in a warm and sensitive manner.

Little sisters in the program will be girls six to 14 years of age who have lost a parent or have parents working outside the home.

Besides getting together at least once a week, the big and little sisters will meet occasionally at the Family Y, 14255 Stark, Livonia.

The program will be financed by a $5 basic youth membership in the Y, with additional costs picked up by individual and organization contributions.

Those interested may call the Livonia YMCA.

By BETTY MASSON

In 1906 Edith Leland of Detroit lost her citizenship, but she gained a husband.

It was a good exchange. She quickly regained her American citizenship and has kept the husband, Wilfred Lewis, ever since.

The Lewises have lived in Plymouth for the past 23 years, and it was there that they quietly celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last Friday. Many cards, flowers and an anniversary cake were delivered to their home on North Mill to mark the occasion.

MRS. LEWIS lost her citizenship when she was married because her husband was a Canadian, born in London, Ontario. At that time, the wife took her husband's citizenship, so both had to go through the naturalization process to become U.S. citizens.

A machinist by trade, Lewis came to Detroit in 1903. He worked for the Railway Express Agency for 35 years, from 1920 to 1955, when he retired.

In spite of being married so long, the Lewises have spent many of their wedding anniversaries apart. Lewis is an ardent hunter and fisherman, and their anniversary, falling on Nov. 19, comes in the middle of the deer season. He has hunted in both the Upper and Lower Peninsula for a period extending over 35 years. His favorite spot was his hunting cabin on Rapid River, near Escanaba, and he has many pictures to prove that his deer-hunting trips were frequently successful.

He'll be 90 on Feb. 4 and is not able to hunt now, but does a little fishing on a nice day.

The Lewises also have done a lot of traveling, a trip through Canada to California being one of the high spots.

The Lewises are parents of two sons, Leland, who died in 1957, and Warren, who is also retired and lives in West Branch. They have two grandsons, Jerry Lewis, who lives in Connecticut, and Robert Lewis, whose home is in South Lyon, and one great-granddaughter and two great-grandsons. On hand to help them celebrate Friday was their oldest son's widow, Mrs. Hazel Gordanier of Plymouth.

Up For Grabs

Liz Looks To '72 Race

By MARGARET MILLER
Women's Editor

The Democratic presidential nomination is very much up for grabs, in the opinion of a lady who has seen a lot of the ins and outs of that party.

Liz Carpenter, a White House press secretary during the Lyndon Johnson administration, drew the political picture as she saw it during a Livonia Town Hall appearance last week.

"George McGovern should be a cinch to capture both of McCarthy's votes," she quipped, "and Muskie is assuming his Lincolnian posture, only he's splitting hairs instead of rails."

"Humphrey is off and running off at the mouth. And as for Lindsay, well, some say he should have changed cities instead of parties."

MRS. CARPENTER, who served as press secretary for Lady Bird Johnson during the last Democratic administration, offered an informal once-over of the Washington scene in her talks in the Terrace Theater and later at a celebrity luncheon in the Mayflower Meetinghouse in Plymouth.

She also had comments on such assorted subjects as women's lib, dating in the White House, abortion, Eartha Kitt and Harry Truman.

"Washington has been described as a mixture of alcohol, protocol and Geritol," she said, "but my only regret is that I wasn't there at the founding - and every day afterward."

"I would have loved to be a reporter in the early days of Washington, when Thomas Jefferson took his oath of office, and to have been on hand for some of the other great historical moments."

for the beginnings of Washington, neither do I plan to be around for its foreclosure. For though we have many problems, we have ourselves and we're still the best going nation on earth."

MRS. CARPENTER included among anecdotes about her days in the White House some reports on the weddings of Lynda and Luci.

"It was difficult to date at the White House," she said. "But when you stop to think that both the girls were in school when their father took office and both were mothers by the time he left, you have to figure that they managed."

After Luci's wedding, she said, the many complications had her ready to resign. "But the president was so appreciative that I stayed there through the next wedding."

The much-publicized White House tirade by singer Eartha Kitt, she said, "got a lot more attention than we would otherwise have had for the luncheon's purpose - persuading women to work to make safer streets."

THE INCIDENT she related about former President Harry Truman concerned an occasion when he represented LBJ in Greece on the occasion of a king's funeral and Mrs. Carpenter also was in the official party.

"Mr. Truman refused to be interviewed by the Greek press at that time," she remembered. "His reason was that 'Some damn fool reporter would ask some damn fool question, and I'd give some damn fool answer.'"

Asked about her views on abortion, she said she was "still thinking, and my thoughts are probably more liberal than my mother's and less liberal than my daughter's."

"It isn't a decision I could make for myself," she added, "but I don't feel the government should have any part in sending people with small resources to abortionists who could do them great harm."

SINCE LEAVING the White House, Mrs. Carpenter said, she has been active in a new group called the National Women's Caucus.

"It's a group for women of all parties and no party and for all age groups," she said, "and we're urging greater participation by women in politics and in many other areas.

"We're telling women 'don't just register and vote but file and run,'" she said.

She also commented that she is a "big advocate" of day care centers because "it's the way to get the welfare mother into a job with dignity," and that she believes that "some of the main boosters of women's lib are going to be the middle-aged fathers who foot the bill for expensive college educations for young women."

m. m. memos

With Thanksgiving approaching on the gallop, I'm suddenly aware of all sorts of extra reasons for being thankful this year.

I'd better get them into print before I forget.

So I express gratitude for the fact that for the first time in several years we'll have the whole clan of relatives gathered at our house;

For the sudden wave of cooking enthusiasm among our girls that should make dinner preparations a matter of fun;

For the range and refrigerator and other appliances that have held together another year to help us with the feast;

For the remarkable lady who comes to our house to clean every week and will have it as spotless Thanksgiving Eve as she does every other Wednesday;

For the one store that will stay open on Thanksgiving so I can go out and buy the item I'm sure to forget;

And for those Pilgrims and Indians who had the foresight to start the whole thing in the first place.

Muchas gracias, merci beaucoup and thanks a lot!

—Margaret Miller

For Sexes, Races

'Dignified Co-Existence' Urged

By BETTY MASSON

"Dignified co-existence between the races and the sexes is the best we can expect," according to Dr. Emanuel Tanay, a psychiatrist.

Dr. Tanay was the first speaker in the Birmingham Temple Women's Group's new town hall series, titled "A Women for All Seasons."

Speaking on "Middle Age Sexuality," Dr. Tanay said, "The whole issue of equality becomes somewhat limited by physiology. All efforts to create a unisex will be unsuccessful."

"There can be no equality without difference and elimination of differences is a collective delusion. The effort to deny or minimize differences is anti-sexual," he said.

WE'VE TRIED to do the same thing in other areas too, he commented, including the exploitation of minorities, homosexuality ("which is a disability no matter what anyone says") and mental illness ("which is different from a broken arm.")

"Where there are differences, there are tensions, and where there are tensions, there will be hate. We can't resolve the question by saying there are no differences...and no total solution is ever possible," he said.

As an illustration of the physiological difference involved, Dr. Tanay said, "The sexual act takes place primarily in accordance with the needs of the man. A genuine sexual response is not necessary on the part of the female, but from a man it is. I have never heard of a single case of a woman rapist. She most likely would not be successful."

"But," he said, "women should not be discriminated against... and there's more to sexuality than physiology."

COMMENTING ON today's moral standards, he claimed that we are living in an age of neo-Victorianism.

"Victorian chastity and promiscuity are both, from my standpoint, the same thing—anti-sexual. In both sex is cheapened."

He said that sexual experiments by teenagers must be curbed, because they are too immature emotionally. It's up to parents to help them avoid temptations.

On the other hand, while saying he didn't feel promiscuity was "healthy," he pointed out that "in our culture it's unrealistic to expect people to restrict sexuality to marriage. In fact, it's unhealthy, because it forces people into a marriage which should not take place."

There is no easy way out of the problem, he observed.

"SEXUAL DISTURBANCES are the most common disturbances people have," he said, and a surprising number of sexual problems come up in middle age. "It takes almost no effort at all to preserve immature sexual attitudes," he said.

He suggested that instead of going to a gynecologist with sexual problems, people should go to a psychologist. "The menopausal syndrome" can be the result of sexual deprivation or frustration, as can be many other "emotional, psychological and even physiological problems."

According to Dr. Tanay, "Sexual problems, such as frigidity or impotence, can usually be cured, but the man to visit is the psychologist, not the gynecologist."

Dr. Tanay said that it is just as important to conduct sex education courses in churches, temples, old peoples homes, as in schools.

He told his audience of more than 200 women that "aggressiveness" is often the most complicating factor for women in the middle years. "The feminine sex role is passive, receptive," he concluded.

The series in the Birmingham Temple, Farmington, continues Wednesday, Dec. 15, at 12:30 p.m., when Dr. J. Clayton Lafferty, a psychologist, will discuss "Inter-Family Relationships."

Gift Classes Are Scheduled

Holiday gift classes are being offered this year by the J. L. Hudson Co.

Students will be shown how to make a wide assortment of items, including stuffed toys, fake fur boots, fake fur hats and purses, felt vests, colorful tablecloths and ties that take 40 minutes to make.

Classes will meet weekly for a total of three - two - hour sessions. The cost will be $5.

They will begin Nov. 30, from 1 to 3 p.m., at Northland, and Nov. 29 from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., in the downtown store.

Interested customers may register in the pattern department of any Hudson's store offering the course.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Girvan of Sumner Avenue, Redford Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Victoria Ann, to Charles C. Haskin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haskin of Inkster Road, Southfield. The bride-elect is a 1970 graduate of Redford Union High School. Her fiancé graduated in 1970 from Southfield High School in 1970 and is serving in the U.S. Army. A winter wedding is planned.

NATIONAL UNCLAIMED FURNITURE does not sell used or abused merchandise. When a dealer places an order for furniture with a manufacturer he may find that he has a storage problem when delivered; or possible insufficient funds to handle the transaction. It is impossible to return the merchandise to the factory because of tremendous freight costs on truckload orders. The manufacturer then must look for an outlet such as NATIONAL UNCLAIMED FURNITURE to liquidate his order. Marcy Ann Eva Nabrezny walked down the aisle with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Nabrezny of Cranston Avenue in Livonia, when she became the bride of Robert Joe Hardin.

The double-ring ceremony took place in St. Michael Catholic Church with the Rev. Andrew J. Forish officiating. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hardin of Wyandotte.

IVORY SATIN and venetian lace fashioned the bride's gown, made with high neck and bishop sleeves. A head-piece of lace flowers held her silk illusion veil, and she carried a nosegay of white chrysanthemums and cream roses.

After the ceremony, she placed a miniature bouquet on the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

Janet Kornmeyer of Booneville, N.Y., was maid of honor. Her floor-length gown had a cream satin bodice and a skirt in an antique print of orchid and rose. Her flowers were orchid and pink chrysanthemums, and she wore an orchid velvet Dior bow in her hair.

The bridesmaids, Mary

Ellen McDonald of Birmingham and Barbara Nabrezny and Martha Walton, sisters of the bride, wore identical dresses and carried pink chrysanthemums and wore pink velvet bows in their hair.

ASSISTING the bridegroom were his brother, William Franklin Hardin, as best man, and Peter Botsakis and Donald Dieck of Lansing and Edward Walton of Corvallis, Ore., as ushers.

For a luncheon reception in Thunderbird Inn, Mrs. Nabrezny chose a champagne lace dress and Mrs. Hardin wore teal blue chiffon over satin. The mothers and grandmothers of the couple wore orchid corsages.

The newlyweds left for an extended wedding trip to Schuss Mountain. They plan to live in Birmingham.

The new Mrs. Hardin graduated from Franklin High School and attended Wayne State University and Michigan State University. Her husband's schools are the University of Michigan and MSU, and he is a member of the University of Detroit faculty.

Immunizations Are Only $1 At Clinics

One of the few bargains around these days is a childhood immunization from one of the child health and immunization clinics sponsored by the Wayne County Department of Health.

These clinics offer the standard childhood immunizations at a charge of $1 per clinic visit. Parents can save as much as $3 to $10 per shot at the health department. Financial need is not a criterion. All Wayne County residents are eligible.

Child health clinics offer preventive care for pre-school and school age children. Immunizations are available to all children. Physical examinations are available only for children who register at the clinic when they are between two months and 3½ years of age.

THE LIVONIA CHILD Health Clinic is held at the St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Arcola near Five Mile on the first Wednesday and the third Tuesday of the month from 1 to 4 p.m. For an appointment call Mrs. David Kordt of Westland between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

The Romulus Child Health Clinic is held in the Methodist Church, 11190 Olive Street near Goddard on the third Monday of the month from 1 to 4 p.m.

THE CLINIC at the Health Center on Merriman Road north of Michigan Avenue is open on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings from 9 to 11:30, and Monday through Friday afternoons 1 to 3:30.

On the fourth Wednesday of each month there is no charge for routine immunization for children under 18 years of age in the daytime clinic. No appointment is necessary for these daytime clinics. The Wednesday evening clinic, which is held from 7 to 9 p.m., is by appointment only.

New Divorce Law Topic For Panel

An informational program on Michigan's new divorce law and its impact is planned on the Eastern Michigan University campus Tuesday, Dec. 7, under sponsorship of the Michigan Inter-Professional Association on Marriage, Divorce and the Family, Inc.

The panel discussion will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the Pray-Harold Building.

Participating will be State Rep. David M. Serotkin, (R-Mt. Clemens), who sponsored the no-fault divorce bill that became law. Washtenaw Circuit Judge William F. Agar; Rt. Rev. Clifford F. Sawher, certified marriage counselor and president of the inter-professional association, and Dr. Emanuel Tanay, association vice-president and Wayne State University instructor in psychiatry.

Rep. Serotkin will discuss legislative intent behind the new law and how it is expected to operate and Judge Agar will talk about the evidence the court will require before granting a divorce. Msgr. Sawher will discuss the law's tendency to strengthen or weaken family responsibilities and Dr. Tanay will consider its effect on family conflict.

Attorney Norman Robbins will be moderator.

PWP Talk Is 'For Men Only'

Vito Abate, philosopher and lecturer, will speak "For Men Only" at the meeting of the Wayne-Westland Parents Without Partners at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 1, in the Warren Valley Country Club, Beech-Daly between Warren and Inkster.

Kenyons Celebrate 60th Year

Long-time Plymouth residents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kenyon of North Territorial Road, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary recently at a dinner.

The family gathering was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kenyon of Plymouth, with Mr. and Mrs. George Kenyon, also of Plymouth, as co-hosts. The Kenyons' other two sons and daughters - in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Kenyon of Barstow, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kenyon of Philadelphia, were unable to attend the party.

The Kenyons have 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

They were married Oct. 25, 1911, in Durand, and have lived in Plymouth for the past 45 years. Kenyon was a meat salesman for Hammond Standish Co., and was also a butcher at the C. S. Smith store in Plymouth.

Huron Girl Scouts Given $50,000

The Kresge Foundation of Detroit has awarded a grant of $50,000 to the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, to be applied toward the purchase of new administrative office facilities.

Mrs. James A. Kennedy, Huron Valley president, said the grant was needed because the number of girls served by the council has grown from 6,000 ten years ago to 12,000 now and the headquarters at 310 South Huron, Ypsilanti, is no longer adequate.

Bentley Class Plans Reunion

The Bentley High School Class of 1962 is planning its 10-year class reunion to be held June 10, 1972, in Garrison House, Garden City.

Members of the class are asked to get in touch with the Bentley High School Alumni Association, 15100 Hubbard, Livonia, 48154.

"We've simply outgrown our present office and need to find new facilities," she added. "The over-crowding makes council services much less efficient. One professional staff member even has her office in a hallway."

"We're elated and encouraged by the generosity of the Kresge Foundation," she said. "It will serve as an incentive for us to do what is necessary to get a new building soon."

No definite plans have been made yet regarding purchase of a new office for the Girl Scouts, she said, but she expects a decision will be made within a few weeks.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council includes Scouts in Plymouth and Westland.

Seniors Hear Bell Ringers

The Grand River Baptist senior citizens will meet at 12 noon Friday, Nov. 26, in the fellowship hall of Grand River Baptist Church of Livonia, 34500 Six Mile.

The Stroller...

Pass The Stuffin'

Well, the day of the big feast is drawing nigh. In a few more hours families, from coast to coast, will attempt to emulate those hardy Pilgrim fathers who survived the horrible winter of 1620, by gathering around the festive board, offering thanks for their many blessings, and then feasting on fowl and all the trimmings.

This is a time honored custom—this day of offering thanks—but to thousands of persons the big moment comes when father stands at the head of the table and starts carving the bird.

Time cannot blot out the memories of The Stroller's granddad, arising from his chair, clearing his throat to gain attention, and then delicately carving the turkey amid cries for choice pieces.

The old gent lived for this moment, and one year when the family went visiting and he wasn't invited to do the job, he arose from the table and went home. He felt insulted and never forgave the host.

Well, these memories will come rushing on the morrow.

BUT AS THE folks call, "Give me the drum stick," or "I'll have a piece of the breast," or some hardy soul asks, "Give me the part that goes over the fence last," The Stroller will sit idly by until the rush is over and then say, "Please pass the stuffin'."

This is a trait developed from childhood when there wasn't enough turkey to go round and the kids had to be satisfied with a plate of stuffin'. As a matter of fact, The Stroller was raised on stuffing, and was quite a young man before he ever got the drumstick on Thanksgiving Day.

During the lean years, when our widowed mother was raising her brood, she didn't wait for holidays to give us our favored dish.

Many were the times when she would go to the butcher and ask for a veal roast "with a pocket," or get a piece of round steak, fold it and stuff it, and serve it as "mock duck." This is still one of The Stroller's favorite dishes.

As the years went by and The Stroller got out into the world, he learned that his favorite "stuffin'" had the high faluting name of "dressing." And he learned that there were many kinds—but none that matched the kind handed down from the Dutch Country.

TODAY, the housewives attempt to improve on it by concocting such things as "oyster dressing," or "chestnut dressing," and some even use a sprinkling of assorted nuts in an attempt to tickle the pallet.

Some offer a real dry dressing—and the turkeys on the market that are already stuffed are filled with what has all the appearance of wet sawdust—and tastes much the same. Others offer a wet dressing that handles much like the cement the masons use when they lay bricks.

In all his years, though, The Stroller has found nothing to equal the old Dutch style that has been handed down from mother to the little woman who runs our house.

This is a moist variety, made with what mother used to call "day old" bread. She'd rip and tear it, then crumple it, meanwhile dicing onions and celery and preparing them in hot, melting "oleo" (we couldn't afford butter).

To this she'd add what she called a "pinch of seasoning," and thoroughly mix this through the crumpled bread.

For some reason, it always remained moist, and delectable.

As she used to say to us, "That'll stick to your ribs."

So, on the morrow, when others are asking for choice white meat, or a drum stick, or a bit of the neck, or the piece that goes over the fence last, The Stroller will wait, as usual, and say—
"Please pass the stuffin'."

They say you can't teach an old dog new tricks.

Lathrup Wins 5 Places On All-Area Grid Teams

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Unbeaten Southfield Lathrup No. 1 in Observerland but No. 2 in the state rankings captured five positions on the 1971 Observer all-area football teams. The selections made up of defensive and offensive units, comprised prep standouts from the 21 high schools in Observerland.

Lathrup followers are still puzzled over the No. 2 state ranking they received. They contend their schedule is just as tough as any team in the state.

The all-area team was selected by 15 area football coaches in a session with the Observer sports editor. The five Chargers making the squad are: Larry Weinberg, Dave Schultz, Greg Jackson, Jim Grundy and Bruce Ruhl. Franklin and Redford Union each boast four members. Patriots making the team are: Charles Clark, Mark Newman, Mike Graham and Dave Morrison.

RU had Tom Tullock, Ron Respondek, Dean Naudi and Tom Burk selected for the first team.

Offense

RON EGLOFF: Plymouth, caught 25 passes for 385 yards and three touchdowns... scored on a 60 yard fake punt... only player on team to play both ways entire season... was double covered by every team... punted for a 32.1 yard average in 31 punts... booted a 69 yarder against Trenton.

DEAN NAUDI: Redford Union, made all-league the past two years... caught 15 passes his junior year for 320 yards and four touchdowns... caught 14 passes this season for 300 yards and three touchdowns.

DAVE MANOS: Harrison, rushed for 1,039 yards in 191 carries... scored seven touchdowns... kicked five extra points and ran for two... punted 32 times for a 44 yard average... intercepted seven passes playing defensive safety.

TOM BURK: Redford Union, set school records in rushing... carried 135 times for 876 yards and 12 touchdowns... scored on a 90 yard romp against Trenton... all-league and team MVP... Played in only six games due to a leg injury against Allen Park.

LARRY WEINBERG: Southfield Lathrup, all-league the past two years in Inter-Lake Conference... carried for 885 yards and nine touchdowns... runs the 40 in 4.7... bench presses 360 lbs... team co-captain... played corner

Lathrup's Harper Wins 'Coach Of Year' Honor

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Southfield Lathrup's Darrel Harper, in his fifth year of directing the Chargers, has been selected Observerland coach of the year.

It was a rough beginning for Harper who took charge of the grid squad when Lathrup opened in 1967.

His sophomore squad boasted a 4-3 junior varsity record in the first season. In 1968 his junior team played varsity competition and managed one win over Dearborn Ann Arbor in a 1-7-1 season.

Lathrup competed in 1969 with its first senior class and the team rebounded from its 1-7-1 season to a 5-4 record.

IT ALL STARTED taking shape the following season — after losing the opening game to crosstown rival Southfield, where Harper was assistant coach from 1962 - 67, the Chargers have gone 17 games undefeated and have won two Inter-Lake crowns.

Lathrup posted a 7-1-1 season in 1970 and followed with a perfect 9-0 record in 1971.

It hasn't been all sidelines and chalk boards for Harper.

HE PLAYED prep football at Royal Oak Dondero and graduated in 1955 with All-State acclaim at offensive halfback.

Harper went on to Michigan where he lettered three years and won the title of Big Ten punting champion in 1959 with a 44 yard average.

He played offensive half-back and defensive safety for the Wolverines along with performing the kicking chores. Harper tallied nine touchdowns at U-M but a 49 yard field goal against Ohio State stands out in his mind as being his biggest "almost" thrill — a penalty nullified the boot.

THE LONGEST run of his college career came against Minnesota in his senior year on an 84 yard punt return.

Harper will always remember the last game of his college career which was against, you guessed it... Ohio State.

RU Basketball Squad Looking For Top Year Under New Coach

"This squad has the ingredients of a championship ball club," said Redford Union basketball Coach Carl Andrews after a three-way scrimmage Saturday afternoon against Catholic Central and St. Ladislaus.

"Our starting five really sparkled," added Andrews. "Mark Kenney, who stands 6-7, out-rebounded 6-9 centers." This is the first year at RU for Andrews after leaving Mackenzie High in Detroit. He compiled an 18-3 record last year, losing to Kettering in the state quarterfinals, 58-57. In nine years at Mackenzie he never fell below the .500 mark.

"I would compare this Panther squad to the squad I had last year at Mackenzie," said Andrews.

"KENNEY is developing into an all-around player and will be playing basketball this year after leaving Bob Schanger, 6-3 forward, is also a senior and could become a real scoring threat."

Junior forward Gary Fulks, last year and along with 6-0 senior guard Pat Wilkie and 5-10 senior guard Mark Durance, the squad features a well-balanced attack. Senior Tom Burk was a starting forward on the varsity last year but a football injury could prevent him from any action on the court.

"Burk could have really helped us on the boards," said Andrews. "It is doubtful if he will be playing basketball this year after tearing the ligaments in his left leg."

RU FINISHED fourth last year in the Suburban Six with a 3-7 record and was 9-10 overall. The Suburban Six is now the Suburban Eight and RU opens league play against Trenton on Dec. 10.

Before the Trenton clash, a non-league game with Southfield is scheduled on Dec. 3. "We will be leaning heavily on defense and a set style of play," said Andrews. "I am new in this league and I'll just sort of have to play my type of basketball until I see the pattern of the other teams."

Andrews played varsity basketball at Wayne and was graduated in 1955.

"We looked real good against Catholic Central and St. Ladislaus," exclaimed Andrews. "RU is going to be tough and I feel sure will be a winner."

RU STRATEGY—Redford Union basketball Coach Carl Andrews talks on the "chalkboard" with Panthers Bob Schanger and Mark Kenney. RU opens with Southfield Dec. 3. (Observer photo)

Ski Heil

BILL CAMERON

When was the last time you had your bindings checked? You may have the most expensive equipment on the market, and you may be in the best physical condition of your entire life, but if your bindings don't release when you fall, you're in trouble.

The purpose of bindings is to attach your boots to your skis and to release the boots when you go head over heels in a fall. A good binding has several release angles, forward, lateral and backward. The bindings should be adjusted according to your weight, height and skiing ability.

If they are set too loose, you'll come out of them too easily, which is not only inconvenient, but aggravating. The danger is having them set too tight. Of course the more proficient one becomes the fewer falls one experiences, but I've yet to meet a skier who doesn't fall on occasion.

Experience has shown that it isn't the spectacular 30 mile an hour crash that generally results in the Ski Patrol picking up the pieces.

It's the slow, twisting fall that puts the strain on weak muscles and fragile bones causing spiral fractures. They make the prettiest x-ray pictures.

IF YOU already have your own equipment, be smart, take your skis and boots to your local ski shop and have them check your bindings. It will only cost you a few dollars, but it's the best investment you'll make this season.

If you are buying equipment, make sure the ski salesman explains the principle of the binding and how it works. The biggest problem comes when you're renting equipment.

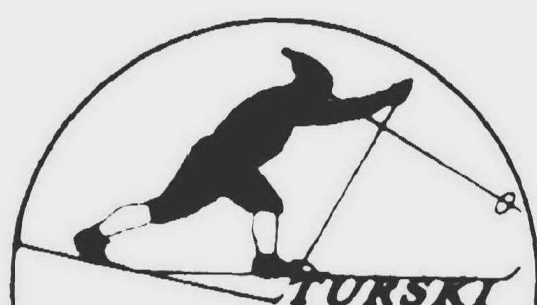

If it's from a ski shop, make sure they adjust the bindings for you. If you're at a ski area, ask them to check your bindings. They have an obligation to you. If they refuse, make sure you have a witness and don't patronize the place again.

You shouldn't play around with your bindings unless you understand what you're doing. In spite of the popular notion that broken legs are a common injury to skiers, the number of broken bones is very small compared to the number of skiers.

It's safer than deer hunting. Who ever heard of a skier getting shot?

Registrations are still being accepted for Ladies Ski Day at the Livonia Family Y.

Harper Is No. 1 Coach

Darrel scored on a 15 yard pass play and booted a 30 yard field goal to lead U-M to a 22-12 win over the Buckeyes.

"I just couldn't believe Woody Hayes after that game," said Harper. "He shattered six chairs against the stands."

Harper graduated in 1960 and was drafted by the Detroit Lions and Buffalo Bills.

"It was the first year for the AFL so I decided to go with Buffalo," said Harper. "I played swingman and booted two 35 yard field goals."

"I lasted only half of the season with the Bills and after being cut returned to Michigan to work on my masters," added Harper.

The following fall Harper tried out with the Houston Oilers but found George Blanda's position too tough to crack. He was released two days before the regular season and returned to U-M.

IN 1962 Harper landed an assistant coaching post at Southfield High and remained until the opening of Lathrup in 1967.

"It has been a real struggle but we have it all together now at Lathrup," stated Harper.

"We are already thinking of next year and another perfect season... success breeds success and our club next year should be better offensively than this past season."

"Our biggest test will be the second game against Farmington," said Harper. "If we win our first two, there will exist a good chance of our being No. 1 in the state."

"We ended up No. 2 this year because nobody ever heard of us," added Harper. "The out-of-state vote is equal with ours but we became known this year to take care of that."

Darrel Harper... No. 1 coach in Observerland.

Stevenson Juniors Sparkle

Spartans Feature Balanced Attack

By TOM DONOGHUE

Sports Editor
The Cinderella basketball team of 1970-71 has found a "golden slipper" in 6-0 senior guard Kelley Smith.

Stevenson Coach George Van Wagoner rates Smith the best guard in the area and looks for a balanced scoring attack in the approaching season.

"Smith averaged 10 points a game last year as a junior," said Van Wagoner. "He is the team captain this season and is one of two seniors on the squad."

Stevenson finished in a second place tie with Walled Lake Central in the Inter-Lakes Conference last year with a 6-4 record. The upset minded Spartans were 11-12 overall.

THE SPARTANS were underdogs going into state competition with a 7-11 record but conquered North Farmington and Bentley to win the district at Farmington.

It took a double overtime to topple Redford and the Spartans defeated Garden City East to be crowned regional champions. Stevenson lost its magic in the state quarter finals to Pontiac Central, 75-63.

"We look a lot better this year," commented Van Wagoner. "Everyone on the floor is going to be a scoring threat and we will not be relying on one person to pop in all the points like we did last year with Ted Exarhos."

Exarhos is on the freshman squad at Eastern Michigan.

"Besides Smith at guard, we have Dale Haberman and Mike Patrick as returning starters at the forward positions," added Van Wagoner.

HABERMAN, 6-3 and

Patrick, 6-2, and Van Wagoner looks for these juniors to help out on the boards.

Jim Macy, 6-1, and Dave Kelly, 5-9 round out the starting five which lists four juniors and one senior.

"We have two transfer students from Our Lady of Sorrows," added Van Wagoner. "Chris and Tom Centers should give us some added strength on the boards." Chris is a 6-2 senior and Tom a 6-3 junior.

Tallest man on the squad is 6-5 Greg Eardley, a junior.

"Last year was the first Greg ever played basketball," said Van Wagoner. "He has a long way to come but if he develops to his full potential it could really help us."

PAUL KRAUZI, Larry Fisher, Mike Taylor, and Don Jerb round out the Spartan team.

This is the sixth year at Stevenson for Coach Van Wagoner who has compiled a 54-45 record. The Spartans won the crown in the 1968-70 season and tied with Pontiac Northern for the title in 1968-69.

Stevenson opens at Thurston on Dec. 4 with the first league home game against Southfield Lathrup on Dec. 10.

"Walled Lake should be the toughest in the Inter-Lakes this year," said Van Wagoner. "It has five or six starters back."

Van WAGONER stated that Stevenson will venture into a new Christmas tournament. Plymouth is hosting Stevenson, Churchill and Thurston on Dec. 21 and 23.

"This could be an interesting season," concluded Van Wagoner. "The sparkle is still around from last year and our boys love to win."

Woody Gives U-M Fans Wild Scene

By W. W. EDGAR

Woody Hayes gave them something to remember him by last Saturday in the vast Michigan Stadium.

Long after the pages of sports history have turned yellow and the score of Michigan's victory over the Buckeyes of Ohio State has been forgotten they'll be talking about the wild scene before 104,016 spectators, when Woody threw a tantrum the like of which never has been seen in major college competition.

Disturbed by a referee's decision on a close play as the curtain was coming down on the annual meeting of these rivals, he came storming across the synthetic turf to vent his ire against the man who called the play giving the Wolverines possession of the ball and ending all hopes of an Ohio victory.

THERE WAS FIRE in Woody's eye and he was giving a real version of "Mad Anthony" Wayne, the famed general for whom he was named.

Not only did he yell at the official, but he followed him up the field, shaking his fists and screaming. So unusual were his antics that the team was penalized 15 yards for unsportsmanlike conduct.

He never noticed it and finally had to be escorted from the field by his own players. Even this didn't stop him. He was still "Mad Anthony" and tore the down flags and pulled up the yard markers and tossed them to the synthetic turf. There was nothing synthetic about his tantrum—and it will live long after him.

Consider the setting. Beaten by Michigan State and Northwestern in their last two starts, the Buckeyes were bent on staging an upset by conquering Michigan and sparing themselves the schagrin of being the first Ohio State team in a quarter of a century to suffer three successive conference setbacks.

After more than three quarters of play, his team was just in front by virtue of an 85 yard return of a punt by Tom Campana and on the verge of the much cherished victory over the team that robbed them of the national championship only two years ago.

Then, from deep in their own territory the Wolverines started a march goalward in a last dying hope to finish the season undefeated. They made it with only minutes to spare when Billy Taylor, the scintillating tailback, skirted right end for 21 yards and the touchdown that put Michigan in front, 10 to 7.

Then, from deep in their own territory the Wolverines started a march goalward in a last dying hope to finish the season undefeated. They made it with only minutes to spare when Billy Taylor, the scintillating tailback, skirted right end for 21 yards and the touchdown that put Michigan in front, 10 to 7.

There still was hope for Ohio—but time was running out.

THE BUCKEYES took the ensuing kickoff and, racing the clock, got to midfield from where they took to the air.

With one last hope the Quarterback Don Lamka let go the "desperation" pass but instead of nestling in the arms of Dick Wakefield, the intended receiver, it was grabbed by Tom Darden, the Wolverines star defenseman—and the drive stopped.

To get the ball Darden leaped over Wakefield's back and it was a question of whether interference would be called.

There was tense silence for a second, then a roar when Darden proudly danced around with the ball in his hands.

Then, all of a sudden, in the press box where things usually are serene, came a shout—

"Here comes Woody."

For years the scribes had seen the Buckeye mentor storm up and down the sidelines in shirt sleeves—and for a moment he wasn't recognized in the maroon blazer and the blue cap.

But they knew it was Woody when he stormed at Referee Jerry Markbreit.

For close to five minutes there was bedlam in the stadium and the largest crowd ever to watch a college football game was treated to a sight never before seen in historic Michigan Stadium.

In the end, Wayne Woodrow Hayes, lost his plea.. his team lost its last hope for victory and went into the record books as the first team, under Hayes, that ever had lost three league games in a row.

But, even in defeat, "Woody" stole the show.

The huge crowd wended its way home, not talking of Michigan's great comeback or the fine running of Billy Taylor for the winning touchdown.

Instead, they were chuckling over Woody's tantrum. And, all those who saw it—or heard about it—will be talking about it for years.

"Woody" sure gave them something to remember him by.

Permit Dispute Brings Question Of Deer 'Use'

With the opening of deer hunting season in Michigan Monday (Nov. 15), a continued debate over the number of deer hunting licenses issued by the state is likely to be marked by misconceptions about "deer population dynamics."

So says a University of Michigan ecologist, who claims he sides neither with advocates of more widespread deer hunting in Michigan nor with those opposed to it.

"It's really up to the people of the state to decide what deer are for," says Prof. Dale R. McCullough, chairman of the graduate program in resource ecology at the U-M School of Natural Resources. "Biologically, there's nothing wrong with deer hunting. But those who want more deer for aesthetic or other reasons also have a point."

However, a crucial issue often overlooked in the debate between the two groups, according to McCullough, is that without hunting or natural predation, the deer population would soar to a level where local vegetation would not be sufficient to feed them.

IN SIX YEARS of studying the relationship between white-tailed deer and vegetation they eat, Prof. McCullough has shown that there is an "optimum population density" which will ensure that deer herds remain healthy, reproduce at a normal rate and will not suffer from mass starvation during the winter.

His studies have taken place on the U-M's George Reserve near Pinckney, a two-square-mile fenced-in area where the U-M researcher maintains a herd of some 60 white-tailed deer, the most common species in eastern United States.

The possibility of mass starvation—particularly in areas like Michigan's Upper Peninsula where extensive tree cover has limited the amount of shrub vegetation for deer—is the major factor behind the "maximum kill" policy followed by state game authorities in some areas, McCullough says.

Since natural predation is now rare in Michigan, the ecologist explains, deer hunting provides an efficient way to keep deer population at a manageable level.

A spokesman for the game division of the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) said the department's long-range goal is "more deer in the bag" and more licenses throughout Michigan. This can only be brought about, he said, through extensive range improvement, a decrease in licenses in areas which can support more deer, and increased hunting in areas where dense deer populations face food shortages.

THE DNR sets Michigan's current deer population at between 600,000 and 650,000. By 1982, the department hopes to bring the population to about one million, with about 350,000 on the Upper Peninsula, between 400,000 and 550,000 in the northern part of lower Michigan, and between 100,000 and 200,000 in lower Michigan.

Much of the criticism of deer hunting levels has been voiced by buck hunters who say the number of licenses for the shooting of antlerless (female) deer should be drastically reduced. In this way, they contend, deer population would increase and hunters would have access to more trophy bucks.

But, argues McCullough, it is not likely that the state would be able to maintain anything close to an "optimum population density" by the shooting of bucks alone.

Specifically, McCullough advocates a deer population level which would offset mass starvation but would not necessarily be as low as the "optimum population density." "There is considerable latitude between these two extremes," he explains, "but it is likely that a bucks-only hunting situation would lead to considerable starvation."

Another question raised by the licensing debate is whether it is better for deer to be shot than to starve. The U-M ecologist answers by saying, "Personally I prefer shooting to starvation, but from an ecological point of view, it really doesn't make any difference. Deer which die by starvation will be consumed by scavengers, and scavengers are part of the ecosystem, too."

Pheasants To Increase By 100,000

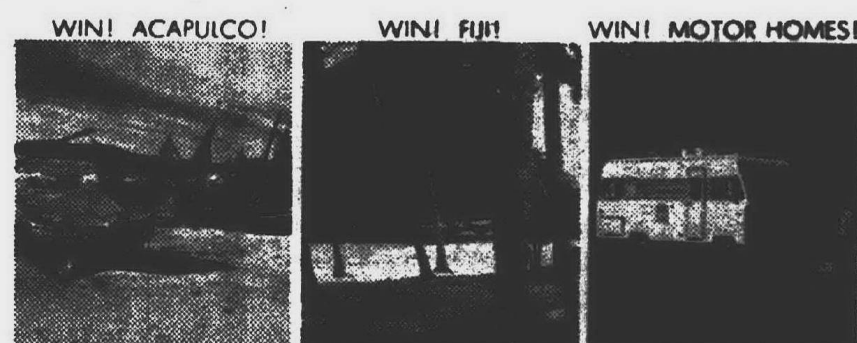

A plan to increase the annual hunter harvest of pheasants in Michigan by 100,000 birds by 1974 has been submitted to the Legislature by the Department of Natural Resources.

The plan calls for construction of hatching and rearing facilities capable of producing 200,000 pheasants each year. They would be released annually on state lands for shooting during special eight-month seasons with both male and female birds as legal targets.

Earlier this year the Legislature approved an appropriation of $351,261 for a pheasant stocking program contingent upon submission of a detailed plan by the DNR.

As submitted, the plan is divided into two parts. The first is within the limits of the appropriation and would provide for the release in 1973 of 100,000 pheasants.

Of special interest to hunters, the plan calls for a September to April pheasant hunting season during which the pen-reared birds would be released weekly. Release points would be located in state game areas and some state recreation areas throughout the southern half of the Lower Peninsula.

Winter Is 'Red Hot' Vacation Season In Michigan

LANSING — We confess! Michigan does not have the majestic, sky-high peaks you'll find in the Alps or the Rockies; but we do have slopes, runs and trails that offer comparable thrills and exciting challenges to skiing enthusiasts, plus, some things the others do not have, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Michigan has the world's highest artificial ski jump at Pine Mountain Lodge in Iron Mountain, this year's host for the United States Olympic team tryouts.

MICHIGAN HAS the only ski flying hill in the western hemisphere, located north of Ironwood in the Upper Peninsula. The National Ski Hall of Fame is located at Ishpeming where the National Ski Association was founded in 1904.

Famous Suicide Hill Ski

Jump-in there's too, the site of annual competition among the world's top jumpers.

Best of all, Michigan is greeting the 1971-72 season with 73 developed sports areas with the welcome mat out for skiers of all ages, "first timers" to accomplished pros.

Michigan is also providing 126 authorized snowmobile areas this season for those who prefer skimming across the snow in a sit-down, motorized fashion. The majority of Michigan's state parks and recreation areas also have come areas open for snowmobiling. However, do check with the individual park managers for specific locations.

Making grand openings this season will be two new sports areas — Adventure Mountain located at Mass, on M-36 about 18 miles southwest of Ontonagon in the Upper Peninsula; and Fun Valley, five miles north of Mio on County Road 612 in the eastern Lower Peninsula.

Adventure Mountain will offer snow sportsmen two downhill runs with one tow, a Chalet and cafeteria plus an ice rink and toboggan run. Their facilities will be open weekends and three nights under the lights.

Fun Valley will open with three slopes, a rope tow, snack bar and dining, featuring American and European plans. They've also provided a special area for snowmobilers and will be offering snow holiday package plans.

MANY WINTER sports centers have been busy during the summer months making improvements and additions to their facilities. For example, skiers will find 21 new slopes, runs and trails, 13 new chair lifts and tows.

In western Michigan, Thunder Mountain has added a new racing area and new rental chalets. When you go to Shanty Creek Lodge this year, be sure to pack your swim suit and take a dip in their new enclosed, heated pool.

In you plan to try the slopes at Mount Manselona, stow your gear in the camper and take advantage of their new trailer park.

Skiing parents will be interested to know that Sugar Leaf Village will be providing a new baby sitting service this season. It will operate daily from 1 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. It's professionally staffed and equipped to care for children from a few weeks to ten years of age.

Some changes have been made at ski areas on the eastern side of the state too. In the Gaylord region, Syvan Knob has a new snack bar and ski school. Pinnacles Ski Resort has added a new cocktail lounge and will be open weekends only this season.

It will also be weekend skiing only at the AuSable Lodge and Ski Club, but Mio Mountain will be open weekends, Mondays and Christmas week.

Snowmobilers, as well as skiers, can enjoy Mott Mountain's facilities when the snow falls. For toboggan fans, the Circle TNT Ski Area in southeast Michigan, has added a new toboggan run.

ACCOMMODATION facilities have been expanded at Big Powderhorn, between Bessemer and Ironwood to lodge 500 guests. Nub's Nob, northeast of Harbor Springs has increased its space to 75 and Pine Mountain now has plenty of room for 120 guests.

Although skiing and snowmobiling top the list of Michigan's winter attractions, many other activities draw a large audience. Ice fishing, boating and skating have impressive fan clubs with tobogganing, dog sledding, snowshoe trail blazers and old fashion sleds ranking well in popularity.

And, when your day of activity in Michigan's crisp, white outdoor wilderness is over, you can join your snow-mates around a crackling fire for a "friendly cup" and conversation. Or, if you still have some energy left over, many areas offer dancing and entertainment.

Start planning your Michigan winter vacation now, it's the "red hot" season for fun. You've got 73 spots to choose from; 15 winter sports areas in the Upper Peninsula, 34 in West Michigan, 15 in East Michigan and 9 in Southeastern Michigan.

For more detailed information, write the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing, Mich. 48926.

Will the Albatross magic work the same next spring as it did last fall when the greatest pacer of all time raced in the Matron three year pace at Wolverine Raceway and gave the state its first mutual handle of more than $900,000 for a harness racing program?

Wolverine officials already are thinking in terms of the first million dollar night when the "Bird" competes in the $40,000 Matron four-year-old pace on Friday, June 16.

They have good reason for their thoughts.

Albatross, loser of only three races all year and with earnings of more than $500,000 in 1971, bested a field of the nation's fastest pacers recently at Hollywood Raceway in California in a $100,000 stake ... the handle passed the $2 million barrier for the first time on the west coast.

Just as officials at major area harness racing plants have been waiting for the first million dollar night, California tracks, especially those in the Los Angeles section, have had their sights on the $2 million mark.

And it was Albatross who was responsible. The "Bird" was matched against veteran campaigners in the rich coast stake. His chief competition came from Kentucky, the brilliant four-year-old who set Wolverine's track record of 1:57.4 in an open pace last fall.

Kentucky gave Albatross a big run for the winner's share of the purse but couldn't match the closing rush and wound up several lengths back as the runnerup.

Driver-Trainer Bruce Nickells, who expressed a belief that his horse was the best in the land after its record making mile at Wolverine, had been waiting for a meeting with Albatross.

"THAT HORSE has to be the best in harness racing history," he said after the duel. "Kentucky was at his best but didn't come close to beating Albatross. I don't think there is a pacer in the world who could close if Albatross was at his best. After this race in California, I'd have to believe that he was a bit below his best when he lost twice in the Brown Jug."

"It's unbelievable to me that any horse anywhere could beat him now. What a race it would be if Albatross, Bret Hanover, Columbia George and Most Happy Fella had been able to meet when each was at peak form."

Wolverine Vice President and General Manager Richard Wilson succeeded in arranging the Grand Circuit schedule for the 1972 spring meeting. Although the dates haven't been announced by Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley, it is believed the track will open a spring-summer meeting in mid-March...at least that's the premise Wilson is setting up the plans for the two-week Roaring Grand program.

The series of 10 early closing stakes is scheduled for Friday, June 9 through Saturday, June 17.

It lists: June 9, $25,000 Motor City Pace; June 10, $25,000 Matron three-year-old trot and the $7,500 filly three-year-old trot; June 12, $15,000 Matron two-year-old pace and $15,000 Matron two-year-old filly trot and the $8,500 Matron two-year-old filly pace; June 14, $40,000 Matron four-year-old trot; June 15, $25,000 Matron three-year-old pace; June 14, $40,000 Matron four-year-old pace with Albatross as one of three eligibles; June 17, preferred and invitational paces matching most of the fastest aged stars in the Midwest.

At the same time, Hazel Park Raceway, which probably will open a late summer and fall meeting the first week in August, has announced plans for the $30,000 Little Brown Jug Trial for three-year-old pacers.

The Trial, slated for Sept. 14, will be the final test for the sophomore pacers before the Brown Jug scheduled the following week in Delaware, O. It will be the ninth time it has been held at Hazel Park, going there each year the eastside track receives the fall dates.

READY TO BATTLE for the jockey championship of the 30-day winter season at Hazel Park track are two members of the distaff side. Mary Bacon (left) arrived on the scene two weeks before the end of the regular season and Sandy Schleiffers (right) checked in from the west coast to give her blonde rival competition during the meeting which ends Dec. 18.

Jackson Boss Plans WSU Extremes Turkey Day For All

NORTHVILLE — Families will have an opportunity to enjoy Jackson's action at Northville Downs together Thanksgiving night, and for those that want to celebrate with a festive feast the traditional turkey and trimmings treat will be available.

As a special way of saying thanks to harness racing's fans and friends, President and General Manager, Leon A. Slavin has arranged for a full course turkey or ham dinner to be served in the club house for $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for children under 12. For grandstand patrons, the same dinner, buffet style will be available, at the same price.

IN KEEPING with the theme of maintaining Thanksgiving as a time for the entire family to celebrate together, special permission has been received from the State Racing Commission to allow children to attend the races, and feasting with their parents.

Children, under 12, will be admitted free when accompanied by their parents. Regular grandstand and clubhouse admissions prevail for adults.

Serving will start in the club house at 6 p.m. with post time for the first race set for 8 p.m. Early reservations are suggested.

The weight scale extremes on Wayne State University's 1971 football team ranges from 275-pound freshman tackle Bob Cindrich to 137-pound sophomore setback Gerald Lusch.

Here's Gift Idea For Gardeners

EAST LANSING Are you having difficulty selecting the right gift for a certain person? If your friend has trees and shrubs, a pruning tool may be the answer.

Nearly every gardener would like to own a certain tool but never gets around to buying it. Check his needs through his family.

Pruning is a vital part of maintaining one's landscape, says Prof. Joseph Cox, Michigan State University extension landscape specialist. The right tool and technique is important to achieve the desired effect.

Extension type pruning shears are used for tipping back long shoot growth on high parts of shrubs. Longhanded or loping shears cut branches under one-half inch.

Hand pruning saws have straight and curved tapering blades, Cox explains. The straight blade is used to prune woody branches of shrubs and small trees. The curved blade removes large branches at ground level.

Head back new growth with a jack knife. Hedge shears make straight cuts for hedges or formal plant outlines.

One of these tools could help your friend do a better job of gardening. They could prevent backaches and blistered hands too!

Michigan potatoes have been getting zapped by lightning for years, but now there's a new twist.

Dr. William J. Hooker, Michigan State University plant pathologist, noticed for the first time this year more lightning injury to crops in fields with solid set irrigation systems.

"Aerial photographs of several potato fields showed that the injury followed the irrigation pipes," said

Hooker. "Also, portions of fields that got more irrigation water seemed to be more susceptible to injury."

In the cases studied, the lightning charge apparently originated in or near the pond that was the water source or along the main line that transported the water from the pond to the field.

"In one field, circular patterns of injury corresponded closely with spray patterns from certain nozzles along the pipe," Hooker noted.

THE TYPE of lightning damage well known to Michigan potato growers is a circular or oval shaped area of dead vines in the field. But when solid set irrigation systems were in the field, the injured plants were in scattered areas often widely separated.

In severely hit areas, potato plants wilted and died almost immediately. In areas of lesser injury, plants survived for as long as 20 days.

"Lightning plays odd tricks and predictions of its action are seldom successful," Hooker said. "We will have to study more cases of lightning injury before it will be possible to make recommendations that might ease or resolve the problem," said Hooker.

Right now, the most important thing is to make sure that nobody is in an irrigated field during a thunderstorm, because the irrigation system widely distributes the electrical discharge during a lightning strike.

Home Noises

Too few persons realize that excessive sound levels frequently can be found in and around the typical home, and that these noise levels can be hazardous to the human hearing mechanism, according to experts.

Cool, Moist Storage For Apples

To protect the flavor and texture of apples, store them where it's cool and moist, recommends a Michigan State University consumer marketing information agent.

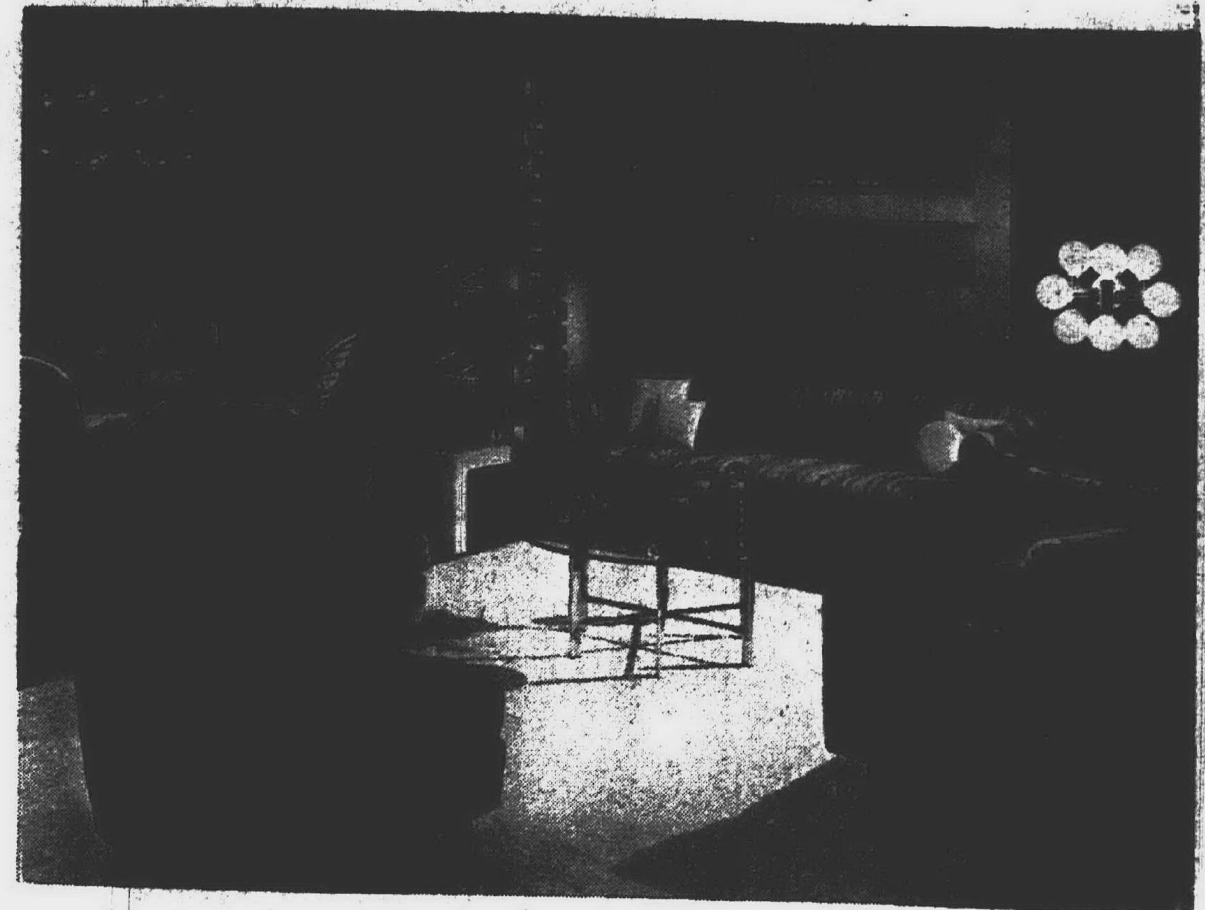

Apples kept in cold storage (32 to 35 degrees in 80 to 85 per cent humidity) stay fresh up to three or four months, reports Miss Ada Shinabarger.

Store apples in the refrigerator when possible. Otherwise, choose a place where they will keep cool but not freeze.

Stored apples should be kept covered away from strong-flavored foods, and sorted often. "By doing this, your apples will stay fresh for up to two weeks," Miss Shinabarger says.

POPPY REDS and golds are combined in a silky stripe and coordinated with plain cerise velvet to create this "hot room." Designed by Elroy Edson for Debut '72, it is elegantly outfitted with white accessories.

COOL GREENS and blues with a touch of orange for accent are the theme of this room created for Debut '72 by Selig. The side chairs are covered with white airpelle.

Broadleaf Evergreens Require Winter Care

EAST LANSING Ole' Man Winter is hard on trees and the broadleaf evergreen is no exception.

Holly, rhododendron and laurel all keep their leaves over winter and are constantly losing water moisture to the strong winter winds. Since the roots are inactive or frozen during winter months, they cannot make up this loss as quickly as during their growing season.

According to Michigan State University horticulturist Roy Mecklenburg, evergreens will show excess loss of water if the leaves are browning around the edges or drooping.

Protect your evergreens by planting them in areas away from the wind and avoid a southern exposure. Water heavily during the fall to prevent the ground from drying out.

spring root damage from rapid temperature changes in the ground. It also prevents shallow-rooted plants from heaving out of the ground in the early spring.

A three to four-inch mulch of pine needles, peat moss, straw or a commercial product should be applied around the evergreen. In the spring either remove it or leave it in place to help control weeds and preserve moisture around the plants.

Local Mayors Back Milliken Stand

By WYLIE GERDES
A resolution supporting Gov. William Milliken's appeal of the Detroit segregation case enlivened a meeting of western Wayne County city and township officials held Wednesday in Livonia.

The group spent about an hour discussing a one paragraph statement supporting Milliken before approving a modified version. The meeting was hosted by Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara.

Among those attending were James Lowe, mayor of Garden City; Eugene McKinney, mayor of Westland; Jim McKeon, mayor of Plymouth; Maurice Breen, Plymouth township supervisor; and Bill Robbins, Redford Township supervisor.

Richard Trolley, mayor of Taylor, and Ed Bivens, mayor of Inkster, seemed to oppose the resolution, although both said they opposed bussing.

"politically motivated." Much of the discussion among the group concerned interpretation of the governor's remarks.

Milliken, Bivens said, should have kept quiet on the controversial issue.

Bivens' criticism is significant because he is a vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

TROLLEY criticized the statement as meaningless. "We're saying 'me too,'" Trolley commented. He said the resolution was a typical attorney's statement. "It doesn't mean a damn thing," he said.

Milliken's only purpose in making his statement, Trolley added, was to "delay it long enough so it'll be a hot political issue next year."

Trolley also criticized the meetings in general. "I don't understand what the hell we're meeting for," he said.

"If we're here for political reasons, we might as well stay home."

He commented that the proposed statement was "strictly political" and that if Bivens, a black, supported it, or if he, white, opposed it, both would feel repercussions. He added that he might not want to express his feelings because of the press. Bivens later asked the press be excluded in the future.

"If this is responsible leadership, then I don't know," fumed Trolley, a Democrat.

OTHERS IN the group also seemed hesitant to endorse the governor's statements. Lowe, Garden City's mayor, said the resolution should be watered down because "we may not be satisfied too much" with what Milliken said.

He questioned whether the group might be trapping itself into supporting other Milliken proposals.

"Are we going to have to endorse other things too?" he asked.

Robbins' problem with supporting Milliken's statements was that he felt they were unclear.

Democrat Robbins added that the governor appeared to say that he plans an appeal on the portion of the ruling which said that the state is responsible for segregation in Detroit, rather than appealing bussing.

Robbins added that Milliken spoke because the "state Legislature was breathing down his neck up there."

"I think we want to say more than 'right on,'" the Redford Township supervisor said.

ROBBINS LATER suggested an area rumor control center, but no action was taken.

"We've got to have a positive approach to some kind of fact center," Robbins said.

He noted that the idea sounds "Lou Gordon-ish" but that most people really don't know what is happening in the case.

Others supported Milliken's statements.

McNamara, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor in last year's election, said he is "encouraged" by Milliken's statements.

The Livonia mayor commented the resolution supporting Milliken "isn't a case of trying to keep the pot boiling."

McKinney, also a Democrat, said that the statement merely says that political leaders support the governor.

"What in the hell are a bunch of politicians sitting around saying they don't want to see something become a political issue?" McKinney commented about Bivens' and Trolley's earlier remarks.

Phil Dingeldey, Canton township supervisor, asked Trolley if he agreed with the residents of his city. He added: "Maybe it takes something like this to get him off the can," apparently referring to U.S. District Judge Stephen Roth.

THE GROUP discussed state highway taxes, water bills and jail facilities.

McKeon offered to host the next meeting in Plymouth Dec. 15. Breen, McNamara and Lowe were named to a committee to establish a set of by-laws for the group.

Trolley took the appointment of the three as an invitation to rib his fellow politicians. He said the group should be named MUFF, Mayors United for Freedom.

McCartney Hits Board On Peerless Air Case

Wayne County Commissioner James R. McCartney today declared it was unnecessary and unfair to specify one company by name in a resolution demanding stronger action against air pollution.

McCartney, of Westland, D-District 25, was among the commissioners who tried unsuccessfully to convince the majority of the board of Commissioners to strike the company name from the resolution.

The resolution, approved at the Nov. 18 board meeting, calls on the County Air Pollution Control Division to "rigidly enforce the air pollution ordinance against the Peerless Division-American Cement Corp. and all other violators and also take court action to enjoin further pollution by Peerless Division-American Cement Corp. and against any violator."

"I THINK IT is discriminatory to single out one industry, especially since there are many other sources of pollution, including automobiles and trucks and, yes, even the residents themselves."

"We know today that if all industry were cleaned up to the point where there was no pollution, that the pollution level would still be above our standards in Wayne County. So industry in itself is not the big polluter when we talk about the health of individuals. Individuals themselves are their own worst enemies in this respect."

"I think this particular company has made an excellent indication of their good faith to keep the pollution situation under check. The Peerless Cement Corp. has acknowledged its obligation and have sat down with our air pollution people to do so. We know there is a way to go, but our air pollution people are staying on top of this particular matter."

Pointing out that the Peerless plant pays about $500,000 in taxes annually, McCartney expressed fear that actions such as the resolution would discourage industry from locating in Wayne County, limiting the number of jobs available.

THE RESOLUTION was adopted at a Nov. 18 meeting of the county commissioners by a vote of 17-3, with one abstention. Passage followed an unsuccessful attempt to remove the specific reference to Peerless from the resolution.

About 30 residents of the Southwest Detroit neighborhood, in which the Peerless plant on Foreman Avenue is located, attended the meeting.

The resolution resulted from complaints about cement dust from the $45 million plant which began operations last spring. It calls on the County Health Department-Air Pollution Control Division to "rigidly enforce the air pollution ordinance against the Peerless Division-American Cement Corp. and all other violators and also take court action to enjoin further pollution by Peerless Division-American Cement Corp. and against any violator."

The resolution was sponsored by Commissioner Roscoe L. Bobo, of Ecorse, D-District 18, and Joseph F. Young, of Detroit, D-District 4. The Peerless plant lies within Bobo's district.

Air Pollution Control Director Morton S. Sterling said he interpreted the resolution as a call for more militant enforcement and was "happy to have this show of support for greater militance."

IN OTHER ACTIONS, the Board of Commissioners:

- Approved the leasing of two vacant cottages at the Wayne County Child Development Center near Northville to the Michigan State Police for establishment of a State Police District Post and a Crime Laboratory.
- Approved the creation of a public committee to review the problem of maternity and obstetric care in Wayne County, with a report due by Dec. 31.
- Authorized County Corporation Counsel Aloysius J. Suchy to spend not more than $10,000 for consultants and technical witnesses to assist in opposing rate increases sought by the Detroit Edison Co. The requested increases are pending before the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The next formal meeting of the full Board of Commissioners is set for 2 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 2 in the City-County Building auditorium.

I-75 Link To Open On Dec. 6

The final link of Interstate 75 Freeway in southeastern Michigan will be opened to traffic Monday, Dec. 6, the State Highway Commission announced today.

The 1.5-mile section, running from Nine Mile Road to near 11 Mile Road in Royal Oak, Ferndale, Madison Heights and Hazel Park, is part of the big I-75 and I-696 interchange extending into all four cities.

Southbound lanes through the interchange will be opened over the Dec. 4-5 weekend and the northbound lanes on Dec. 6. The two-stage opening will facilitate routing of traffic from service roads now in use to the freeway itself.

The opening will make it possible for motorists to travel on freeways all the way from the Ohio border to the Canadian border at Sault Ste. Marie, with stops only for fuel and to pay the fare at the Mackinac Bridge.

Regional Sewer Plan Unveiled

By DAN MCCOSH
A toddler poking at a dead fish on the shore of Lake Erie was one of the pollution symbols of the 1960s. Whether this was a portent of the doom of western civilization or just a way to give us a swift kick in the technology depended largely on interpretation.

But one of the results was to set the machinery in motion to build a huge sewage treatment system for the metropolitan Detroit area.

The project is nearing the construction stage, or at least the end of the planning stage, and William Marks, chief of the water resources planning section, met with representatives of the Michigan League of Women Voters recently in the Southfield parks and recreation building to explain the proposal to a moderately hostile audience.

THE PROJECT is to build two huge interceptors that would collect sewage from all the communities in Wayne, Oakland and part of Westland Counties and bring it to two treatment plants - one in Brownstown Township downriver from Detroit, the other an enlarged version of the present Detroit plant at the mouth of the Rouge River.

This is not much different from the present system, and most Observerland communities already use Detroit's treatment plant.

Others -- Ann Arbor, Trenton and Milford, for example -- do not; they presently own and operate their own facilities.

Marks recognized two alternatives to upgrading regional sewage treatment in the three-county region.

One is the huge plumbing project that would link all the communities by the interceptor; the other is simply settling and enforcing water quality standards for each community in the region.

Marks estimated there could be as many as 30 separate treatment plants in the area if each decided to "go it alone."

He alluded to the political problems inherent in the second alternative, saying "If we decided to upgrade water quality standards in the future, it could take as long as 10 years to force 30 communities to comply. With one or two plants, the standards could be met in two years."

Cleveland, one of the biggest pollution complexes in the Great Lakes basin, has consistently failed to get this kind of regional support. Seattle, on the other hand, has been successful.

THE PLUMBING project has the support of the Water Resources Commission and, according to Marks, most of the communities in the area. The Southfield-Birmingham circuit would be linked to Detroit, with an "arm" on the same Rouge River interceptor serving Redford Township.

A "Y"-shaped interceptor, with the lower arm going from White Lake in Oakland County, south through Plymouth to connect with the other branch near Romulus, is planned for most of the remainder of the area. The north branch of the same drain would go from the Ann Arbor area down the Huron River to eventually be treated at the Brownstown plant.

MARKS PRESENTED two proposals now being considered by the WRC. One includes Ann Arbor in the "plumbing system," the other does not.

Ann Arbor has taken the stand that it wants to build its own sewage treatment plant.

The WRC would prefer it didn't. According to Marks, because if Ann Arbor went it alone, it would deprive the system of the many paying customers.

But Ann Arbor feels it has a pretty strong argument. Right now, it picks up most of the flow in the Huron River upstream to get its water supply.

Projections are that by 1980, just about all the water in the river will go into the Ann Arbor water intake.

This means, of course, that if it then takes its sewage and puts it into the regional interceptor, the river will be virtually dry, eliminating the river that the interceptor is supposed to safeguard from pollution.

The WRC's answer to this is that Ann Arbor will have to stop taking its water from the river and get it from the Lake Huron pipeline that will soon be supplying most of the metropolitan area's needs. As if to complicate the issue, Ann Arbor has stated its willingness to treat its sewage with a three-stage treatment, compared to the regional two-stage.

WHAT IS ALL this going to cost?

About $300 million total, depending on whether Ann Arbor goes along or not.

Each family in the region can expect to add about $40-$50 to its sewage bill, usually included in the water bill.

Big money, the big polluters, can probably expect to get their usual discount built into the current rate structure.

The whole project will be subsidized by both the state and federal governments, a subsidy included in the $50 figure, according to Marks.

After the sewage is collected from the three-county area, it will be treated to remove 90 per cent of phosphates, 90 per cent of the sediment (sludge), and then be dumped a mile off shore in Lake Erie.

Then the plan is to take the sludge and burn it in a huge incinerator, which might cause air pollution.

But that's another department.

Cornelia G. Kennedy (doctor of laws) - Mrs. Kennedy is a judge of the Wayne County Circuit Court. She is the only woman ever to have been elected director of the Detroit Bar Assn.

Harley Z. Wooden (doctor of humanities) - An alumnus of EMU, Wooden has had a long career as a school administrator and director of special education projects.

Home Buyers Advice Planned

A regional Building Center to serve both producers and buyers of homes in southeast Michigan was proposed by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

E. Robert Turner, SEMCOG executive director, said the proposal grew from SEMCOG's contacts with all elements in the housing industry, with governmental agencies concerned with housing, and from a growing concern for home buyers.

Among the services proposed through the Building Center, Turner said, would be a "Home - Buyers Advisory Service."

THE NEED for such a service has crystallized recently as the number of residences repossessed by the area office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) rose to nearly 5,000 within the City of Detroit alone.

Repossessions are continuing at the rate of 300 per month within Detroit alone and the problem extends beyond Detroit and Wayne County, Turner said.

Gearing up of consumer protection programs has spurred SEMCOG to step up anticipated Building Center activity, Turner said.

THE BROAD long-range purpose of the Building Center would be to provide:

- A professional staff qualified to develop and provide information and guidance on all aspects of the building industry.

- A building data and reference retrieval system.
- A building exhibit and display area.

- Trade demonstrations and meeting facilities.

- A variety of services to prospective home owners.

The Building Center concept evolved from SEMCOG's involvement in "Operation Breakthrough" activity and the special knowledge of staff member Michael Johnson, an architect from England, who had studied the operations of a number of such centers now functioning in England and Holland, Turner said.

"Today in the United States, building technology, industrialized processes and impending national, state and local legislation and programs have progressed to the point where building technology requires an information and research repository or center to serve the major metropolitan regions in this country," he said.

SC Budget Woes Are Settled

With a sigh of relief, Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote told the board last week that "as of today, (Nov. 17) we have a balanced budget."

"We've been able to do this without eliminating any programs, services or personnel," he said. "In fact, it was accomplished by saving $10 here and $10 there."

The imbalance was the result of several factors including an adjustment by the auditor, a loss in full-year equated students over the projections, and an adjustment of order by the governor.

Dr. Grote and his staff completed a detailed review of the budget by the Wednesday meeting, cutting $269,591 from it.

The college showed some gains during the current fiscal year including increased tuition and fees by $73,114 and federal grants by $14,000.

Faculty Union Asks SC Board Voice

By KATHY MORAN
The Schoolcraft College Board will take up proposals to create advisory seats on the board at a special study session Wednesday, Dec. 8 at 8 p.m.

The study session was set to probe the question of advisory seats after Faculty Forum President Richard Arlen asked the board to create a faculty advisory seat last week.

The Faculty Forum is the bargaining unit of the faculty. More than 100 of the nearly 150 faculty members belong to the union.

The issue of advisory seats on the board is an old one, but it was renewed with hopes that the newly-elected five trustees could change the opposition expressed by previous boards.

"THE SEAT will be advisory only. It will not have a vote, will not participate in any personnel matters except those involving faculty members, and will not participate in the area of labor contract negotiation," Arlen's letter to the board states.

Before any discussion started, new Trustee Paul Kadish moved that the board establish the seat, but with one difference.

Where Arlen wanted the seat filled by "the president of the faculty bargaining unit (the Forum) or his designee," Kadish wanted it filled by a person elected from the entire 150-member faculty.

Mrs. Rosina Raymond (also newly elected) quickly seconded the motion while reading from a similar motion she had prepared and reiterating the proposal of having the faculty representative elected.

"I'm in favor of the faculty having an advisory seat, but I want it to be from the faculty per se, with no limitations," Mrs. Raymond said.

Kadish added, "This is not saying that it could not be the Forum president, but in reality, it is not telling the faculty whom to name."

Both Kadish and Mrs. Raymond had expressed their willingness to establish faculty and student seats on the board during their campaigns last summer. Both were endorsed by the Forum and the student newspaper, the Campus Globe, in the election.

THE FIRST discussion came in the form of opposition from new trustee Arch Vallier.

"I am not in favor of the advisory seat, but I am in favor of the philosophy behind it. I would rather have it so anyone can talk from the floor. I don't like my information third-handed."

At its October meeting, the new board set a new policy of allowing persons to speak from the audience on agenda items affecting the observers. Previously, the audience was limited to discussion at the very beginning and very end of the meeting.

Vallier said the faculty seat would be setting a precedent that could conceivably lead to seats filled by representatives of the secretaries, students, maintenance personnel or any unit.

Another problem is that the representative might not adequately represent minority groups from that TRUSTEE John LaRue then cut off debate on the seat by moving that the discussion be postponed until Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. at which time a study session will be held to examine advisory seats in general.

After Vallier seconded the motion, the board voted unanimously to defer action on the issue.

The Dec. 8 study session will be held in the board room of the college Administration Building. It will be open to any groups on campus wishing to present reasons for advisory seats to the board.

S'craft Day Care Center Extended

The experimental day care center for children of Schoolcraft College students was extended by the board of trustees for the winter term.

The center was first organized last fall for only one semester. On the advice of Edward McNally, vice president of student affairs, the board agreed to extend the center for another semester and to underwrite any losses incurred not to exceed $1,000.

McNally said that 14 families have made use of the center this semester, and indications are that interest in it will pick up in the winter.

The center is located in Pilgrim United Church of Christ, 36075 Seven Mile, Livonia. Parents pay a $5 registration fee and 60 cents an hour.

Persons can register for the center, which is open between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., when they register for classes.

4 Win CPA Certificates

The Michigan State Board of Accountancy has granted CPA certificates to four area men who have met the educational and experience qualifications of the Michigan Accountancy Law.

They have also passed the uniform CPA examination which is given in all states.

They are: Donald F. Burns of 19303 Hickory Leaf, Southfield; Donald J. Goldstein of 18196 Goldwin, Southfield; Ernest R. Dietze III of 8181 Wayne Road, Apt. B2029, Westland; and Charles D. Siczek of 33221 Hees, Livonia.

SC Studies Rec. Bldg. For Public

A report on the availability of the Schoolcraft College physical education facilities for community use was requested by the Board of Trustees last week.

Prompted by another letter from Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, the board asked for a detailed report on the schedule for the facilities to determine if they can be opened for community use.

Oxygen Supply

During the course of the 23,000 times we inhale and exhale every day, we take in about 35 pounds of oxygen - and we get it all from green plants on the land and vegetation in the sea.

If opened, they would be made available to residents of the Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Garden City and Clarenceville School Districts at certain times.

McNamara had asked the board earlier this year to open the building for league use, but the old board found that the facilities were booked too tightly.

Since then the college hired a community services director, Ron Griffith, who has opened the building for use on Thursdays through an evening course. Once admitted to the course, residents can use any of the facilities.

President C. Nelson Grote said he will arrange a meeting of recreational directors from the five districts and Physical Education director Thomas Roncoli and Griffith before reporting back to the board.

Women's Libbers Putting Girls In Proper Status

By Philip H. Power
Publisher

An interesting set of things happened in the last couple of elections around these parts, and they revolve around women.

In September's Schoolcraft College election, the leading candidate for a six-year term was Rosina Raymond, and the leader for a two-year term was Mary Dumas.

In Westland's Nov. 2 city council race, Justine Barns led the pack for the second time in three elections. That same day, Beverly McAninch, in her first bid for public office, topped the field against a number of veterans in the Plymouth city commission race.

Just last week, Jeaneane Havstad of Livonia beat an incumbent male for the leadership of the Human Rights Party of Michigan.

NOW, IT'S NOT new to see women elected to office. Southfield has Jean McDonnell on the city council and Luise Runkel on the school board; Farmington, Margaret Schaefer on the township board, Kay Stirling and Betty Brennan on the school board; Redford Township, Ruth Sullivan as clerk; Livonia, Geraldine Joyner and Connie Hierta on the school board; Plymouth, Esther Hulsing on the school board, Helen Richardson and Elizabeth Holmes in township offices; and Wayne-Westland school board, Anne Harbison.

Nor is it spectacular to see a woman leading the pack.

What's interesting, when you stand back and look at all the races, is to see the changing tone of the ladies' election campaigns. Less and less do you hear them saying, "We need a woman on the board."

Increasingly, they are running on their own abilities, their own merits, their own past performances in civic projects, their own intellectual abilities.

Less and less does a woman think she needs a trademark, like the gigantic hats that Detroit Councilman Mary Beck used to wear. Take one simple example: When she ran for Livonia city council in 1970, Mrs. Dumas used a big flower as her political symbol; she dispensed with that in winning her college board seat.

I think it's one way our politics are getting healthier. The Women's Liberation Movement probably had a lot to do with it.

MOST WOMEN and nearly all men chuckle at women's lib, and it's probably true that many libbers are shrewish and are making outlandish demands that will never be written into the statute books.

But it's undeniable that women's lib has made us all a lot more conscious, in business and politics and everywhere, of the way we used to put women "in their place."

Margaret Miller, our women's editor, points out something that I hadn't been conscious of. When she would take down names in a group picture five years ago, a woman would give her name as "Mrs. John Jones." It was considered bad form to say or write "Mrs. Ann Jones."

That's all past. Increasingly, the lady will say "Mrs. Ann Jones." In fact, many club secre-aries will list officers in items they send us and just drop the "Mrs." If a woman's marital status has nothing to do with the story, we may even leave it that way.

Women's libbers point out that a woman's marital status is irrelevant in the business/political world, adding that both "Miss" and "Mrs." derive from the same root word — "mistress."

So they want all women to be addressed as "Ms." — pronounced "Miz."

IT SOUNDS funny to me and probably sounds funny to most of you, but think again: We don't call married men "Mr." for "mistress" and bachelors "Ma." for "master." Why hang a label on a woman's marital status?

Actually, there's a perfect reason for describing a woman in print as "Mrs. John Jones" instead of "Ms. Ann Jones." If she's a club president, how do you look up her number in the telephone book?

One of the more carefully-worded news releases I've seen came from the above-mentioned Human Rights Party. It went three pages, listed all the officers (including four women) and never once used the term "Miss" or "Mrs." — which takes a lot of careful wording if you've ever tried it.

Moreover, as a concession to women's lib, the HRP gave its top officer the rather strained title of "chairperson."

But on the last page, the biographical sheet on the chairperson, I noted that the very first thing they said is that she is "married and the mother of four children."

It must have been written by a woman.

Tim Richard writes

Overpopulation Hits Canoeing On Streams

A lot of boy scouts and girls scouts in Observerland are getting a hard lesson in ecology this month.

They are getting letters from Grayling canoe liveries on the Au Sable River telling them with alarm about the new restrictions the state Dept. of Natural Resources plans to put on that stream as well as on the Manistee, Pine and Pere Marquette.

Briefly, the DNR is planning a system of permits to reduce drastically the number of canoes per hour that can pass a given point.

The DNR has set a public hearing for Dec. 1 at 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Seven Story Office Bldg. in Lansing to hear more opinions, but anyone who thinks the state will abandon the tentative plans entirely — or even modify them drastically — is going to be sadly mistaken.

THE LESSON is that there are just too many people trying to make use of a limited number of natural resources. Our rivers have an over-population problem. It's here, fellas and girls — not out among the teeming masses of India and China. The over-population problem is right here.

We have an election year coming up. We'll have politicians running for the U.S. Senate and House, the State House of Representatives and our county commissions. Ask every last one of 'em if he or she thinks there is an over-population problem and what should be done about it. You're going to see some tin horns fidget and hem and haw when you ask that one. I know. Observer reporters have been asking it already.

The Au Sable is a spectacularly beautiful river. There are an incredible number of bird songs you'll never hear anywhere else. The air is indescribable.

But there are too many riverfront cottage owners, too many boy and girl scout troops, too many trout fishermen — too many people. Even if we reached "zero population growth" right now, we'd still have too many people. What can we do about it? Several things.

FOR OUR TROOP, the Au Sable trip on the first weekend in June has been a traditional thing. The troop committee is going to be forced to consider two alternatives:

• Does the trip have to be in June or even May? That's when the trout are biting the best, but most boy and girl scouts aren't trout fishermen. How about sometime after Labor Day or when the trout season closes? We've had some great weekends this fall for canoe trips.

• Does the trip have to be to the Au Sable? There are many long stretches of the Huron River that are 95 per cent as beautiful as the Au Sable. The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, better known as the folks who run Kensington Park, publish superb canoeists maps of the Huron and Clinton rivers, complete with mileages, times, campsites, picnic sites, portage points, whitewater spots, landing sites and everything.

Or how about Hell Creek? the Red Cedar? the upper reaches of the Kalamazoo? the Thornapple? They're a whole lot closer than the Au Sable, and there are fewer fishermen on them.

A bunch of livery operators around Grayling are talking like the world's coming to an end, but a lot of good can come out of the new canoeing restrictions on the popular rivers if it makes us all more concerned about over-population and about the condition of some of the other rivers in our state.

Woes Of Mom With Family Pets

While many of my friends are showing off pictures of their cherubic, pudgy-cheeked grandchildren, I have gradually become grandmother to a menagerie and keeper of the animal kingdom.

Our son wasn't around when the saying "Get a horse" was all the rage back in the days of the first automobile.

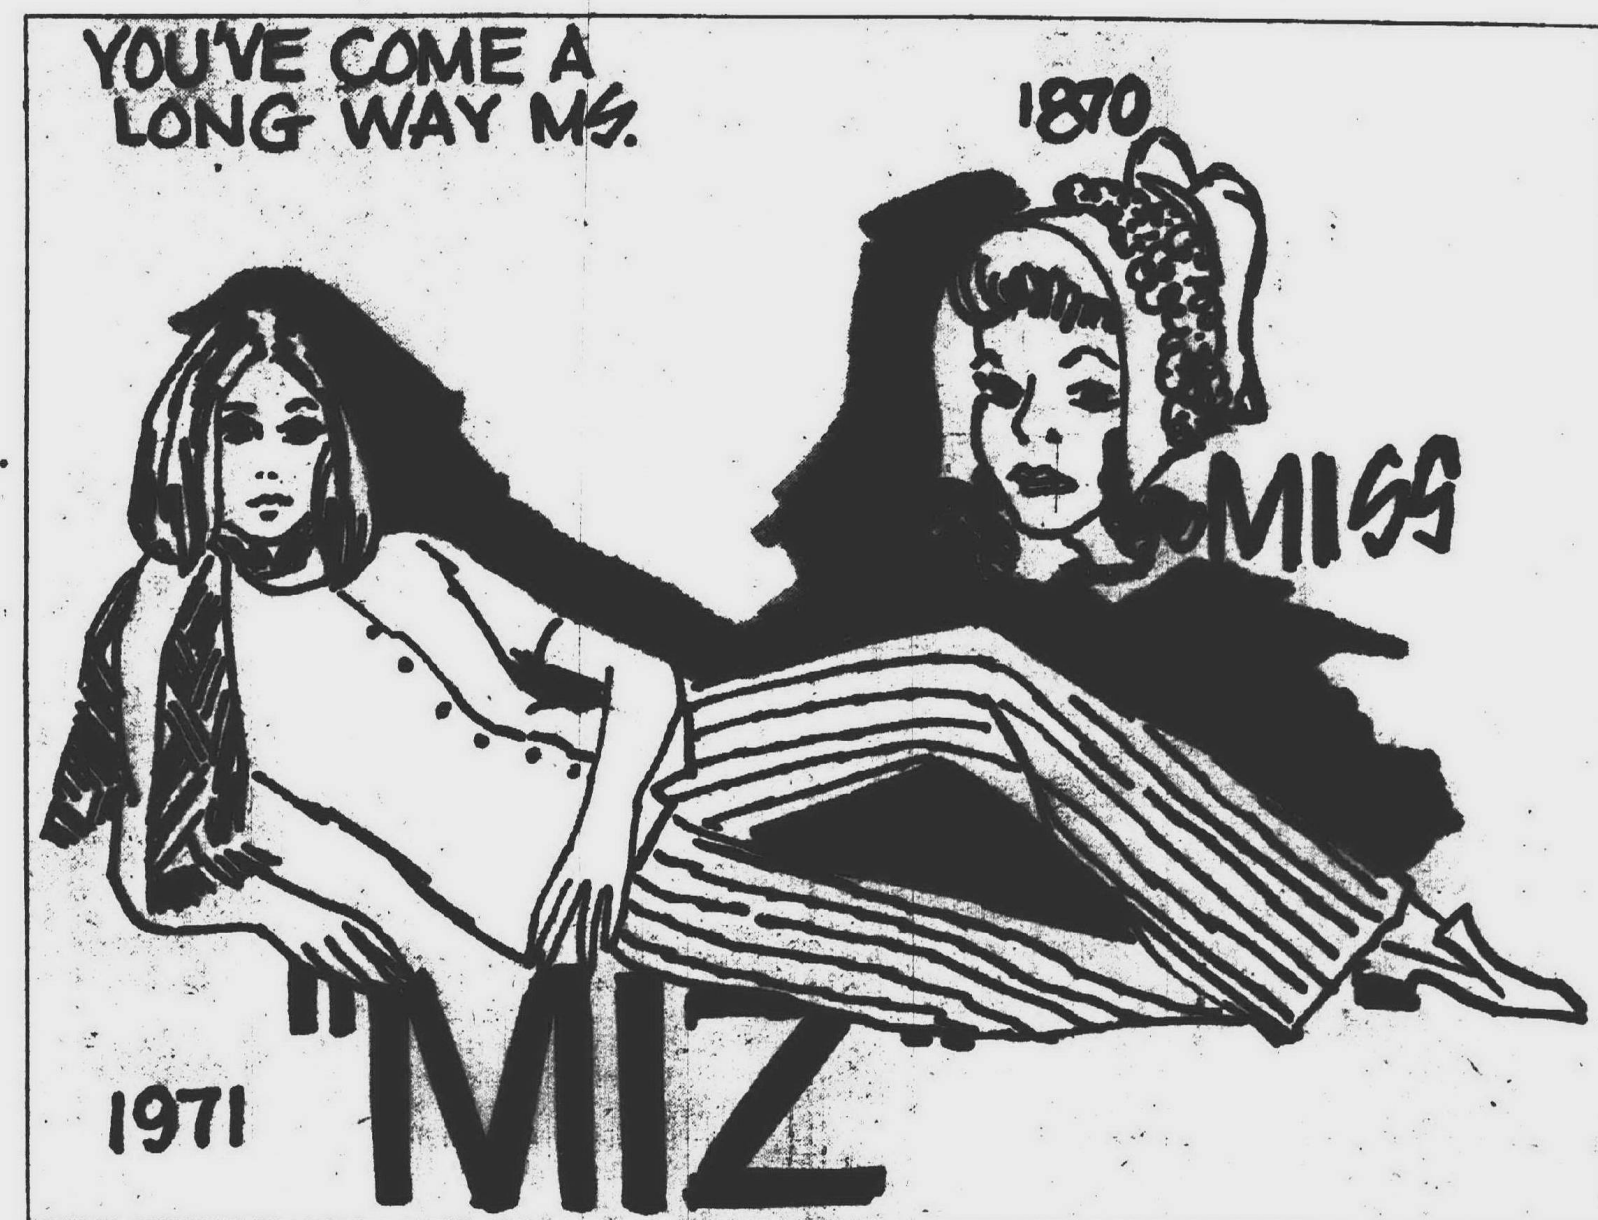

HERE IT IS 1971 and he's got a 1969 Mustang but he paid $200 for a horse at an auction sale, outbidding more conservative equestrians.

To a penny-pinching kid who always figured if he couldn't take it with him, he'd come back and get it, two bills is a lot of oats, not to mention $7.50 a week for room and board.

Besides the horse and our 13-year old poodle, we acquired a female kitten called "Omar" and a female puppy called "Lucas." Talk about home on the range.

Lucas was picked up by our son from a weeping girl holding a sign announcing, "Free puppy to anyone who will give her a good home." The free puppy turned out to cost $50 worth of distemper shots and worming and I was the one who was weeping.

We sent Omar to the veterinarian for de-clawing and she came home with three kittens we

Hearings Are Wasted Time

People are funny. They read our editorials and object to the conclusions reached. We have no negative feelings about that. An occasional difference of opinion is good for the soul.

BUT WHAT makes us feel good at times is that the course of human events after the editorials are published clearly demonstrates that the printed words on these pages are still running true to form.

For example, this writer in the past few months called for the abolition of public hearings by governmental agencies and criticized the method of having school administrators handle contract negotiations with employees' unions because of the inherent conflict of interest involved.

WITHIN A month or two of the public hearing editorial, the Westland City Council held a hearing on the necessity of widening Warren Rd. near Westland Center.

All of the Warren property owners making comments at the hearing opposed the widening.

But their feelings, no matter how well intentioned, will have absolutely no bearing on the issue.

You see, the city council signed an agreement with the County Road Commission seven months ago to widen the road and pay 40 per cent of its cost.

To rub insult to the residents' financial wounds, the city council approved a voucher for $335,000 four days after the hearing to pay for the widening.

So why hold public hearings?

ON THE contract negotiations, the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and the Garden City school boards recently ratified union contracts with various employer groups.

About the same time, the boards approved pay raises for its administrators which were in line with what the union members received.

But who is responsible for the first line of defense in the salary negotiations?

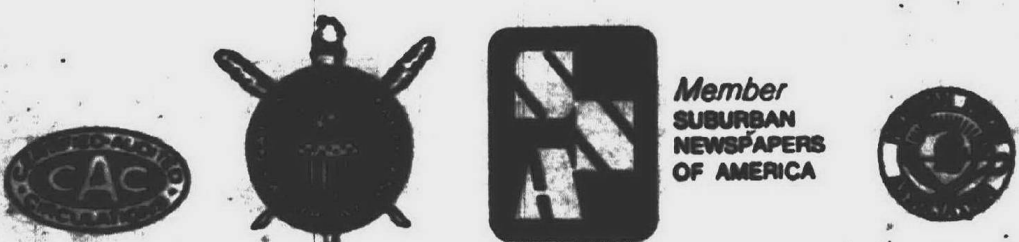

The same administrators who got the same raise they helped negotiate at the table.

Helpful Youth Group Shows Pioneer Spirit

EDITOR:
The evidence of goodness still alive in our world is so great I have to share it with others at this appropriate Thanksgiving time.

My grateful thanks goes to the beautiful, loving, unselfish, giving Y.O.U. (Youth of Unity) from Livonia who played good Samaritans to me last Saturday. I have been confined to a wheelchair the past few years and unable to take care of my lawn and shrubs. I have been living on a very limited budget which doesn't allow for the purchase of a multitude of plastic trash bags for the current method of disposing of leaves. Due to the ecology and pollution problems, we are no longer permitted to burn leaves, and I was at a loss to know what to do until the Y.O.U. called.

When they asked if they could bring my Thanksgiving dinner and share with me, I was deeply moved. But having

How Schoolcraft Puts Community Into College

By KATHY MORAN

Ronald Griffith has added a little southern hospitality to Schoolcraft College.

The Kentucky-born Griffith joined the college staff as community services director in August and already is making persons from the surrounding communities feel at home at the college.

As he sees it, his job is to put the "community" into the community college.

And that job entails responding to any ideas or desires from the five-district community that can be met through the college.

"COMMUNITY services are the flexible arm of the college," Griffith said. "I think of it as being like an octopus with its tentacles out in the community."

Already Griffith has reached out into the community to contact clubs and groups such as the police chiefs and mayors to explain what he can do for them.

With just an idea and a phone call, anyone in the college community (including Plymouth, Livonia, Garden City, Clarenceville and Northville School Districts) can shape reality.

Just about any course, seminar or workshop can be arranged through Griffith who says he only needs "a place, a need and the human resource."

The need is up to the community and the place and human resource is within Griffith's grasp.

IN LESS THAN three months, he has opened the physical education facilities to the public on Thursday nights,

"Community services are really the finishing touch to a comprehensive community college. It is that function that makes it truly a community college."

—Ronald Griffith

coordinated a conference for women, and arranged classes in football for women, environmental geology, and a workshop for piano teachers.

"We can fill a coordinating function," he said. Rather than duplicate any courses or activities handled by individual communities, Griffith wants to coordinate functions that are "bigger than any one community" can handle.

One of the more popular areas coordinated through Griffith is a human potential seminar which meets three nights a week and is taught by college counselors.

The seminar is for citizens who may be moving into a new vocation or expanding their interest areas. Through participation in the seminar they can become aware of their potential and the areas where the college can be of help to them.

"THE POSSIBILITIES are infinite," he said. "Community services are really the finishing touch to a comprehensive community college."

"It is that function that makes it truly a 'community' college."

Griffith spices his new position with experience from Florida Junior College at Jacksonville, where he was associate dean for career and adult education. His graduate and undergraduate studies were completed at Morehead State University in Morehead, Ky.

Prior to Griffith's appointment, Fred Stefanski directed the programs. Stefanski was promoted to academic dean.

Santa Claus Sets Shopping Center Arrivals

One of the biggest days of the year for area youngsters—and their parents—is coming Friday when the bewhiskered old gentleman from the North Pole arrives from his toyland headquarters for his annual appearance that officially opens the Christmas shopping season.

The cheery cry of "Ho, Ho, Ho" will first be heard Thursday morning as a climax to Hudson's Thanksgiving Day parade, the traditional event that attracts thousands of downtown Detroit regardless of weather conditions.

The parade is slated to start at 10 a.m. with the cheerful, smiling Santa Claus making his appearance as the grand finale of the half-hour spectacle.

Then Santa prepares for his busiest day of the pre-Christmas period...making appearances for the delight of thousands of kiddies at all of the major shopping centers in the area.

MOST OF THE youngsters will have viewed the parade via television, but Friday they'll have a chance to meet their favorite character in a neighborhood center.

Livonia Mall, Northland, Westland, Tel-12 and the Farmington Plaza have arranged dates for Kris Kringle to gather with the children.

The jovial Santa will be at Northland at 10 a.m., arriving in Lot D. He'll put in his appearance at Tel-12 at 10 a.m. in the parking lot; at Westland in Lot 2 at 10 a.m.; at the Farmington Plaza at 10 a.m.; and the Livonia Mall at 11 a.m.

His appearance in Farmington will be via helicopter at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College from which point he'll be accompanied by Township Supervisor Earl Teeples and a police escort to the Plaza at Grand River and Mooney.

THEN WITH all of his Friday chores over, he'll settle down to greet children and prepare for his Saturday-morning helicopter flight to the downtown business section near Kellogg Park in Plymouth at noon Saturday.

From the moment of his arrival, he'll be listening to youngsters from the age of two and up, telling of the many things they hope he'll deliver on Christmas Day. Listening in with attentive ears will be the parents...they'll help Santa prepare the Yule lists.

Local Judges Will Lead Seminars

Three district judges from Observerland will lead discussions in a training seminar for district and municipal judges beginning on Nov. 29.

Leaders for the week-long session include District Judges Michael J. Hand of Farmington, James E. Mies of Livonia and Thomas G. Smith of Westland.

Sponsored by the Center for Administration of Justice at Wayne State University, the session will be opened by Michigan Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas Kavanagh.

Seminars include an intensive study of judicial and court administration, recent constitutional decisions affecting police and judicial activities, plea negotiations, practical evidence problems in courts, jury and non-jury trial practice, preliminary examinations in felony cases, special traffic and drunk driving cases and ethical judicial conduct.

Directed by WSU Prof. R.J. George Jr., the center was established in the WSU Law School under a Kellogg Foundation grant.

The training sessions are financed by a grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Younger Faces On Draft Boards

A new Selective Service ruling could mean a drastic change in the composition of Local Board 102, the state's largest draft board which is located in Plymouth and has 30,000 registrants from the Plymouth, Livonia and Redford areas.

Under the 1971 amendments to the Selective Service Act which are proposed to take effect Jan. 1, the maximum age for local board members will be lowered from 75 to 65, the minimum age will be lowered from 30 to 18, and the maximum time anyone may serve on a draft board will be reduced from 25 to 20 years.

ACCORDING TO Local Board 102 Clerk Dorothy Lynn, this amendment would mean that one member of the board would retire because of age.

But she stressed that so far the national selective service office has not officially notified local boards that the new regulations will take effect Jan. 1. "It's just prospective, it's nothing definite," she said.

In order for the changes to take effect, they must be publicly posted for 30 days, Mrs. Lynn said.

The proposed change in local board membership was sent to Observer Newspapers in a newsletter published last month by the national Selective Service.

According to Mrs. Lynn, one vacancy now exists on the six-member draft board because of the death of one member. She said several applications for that spot have been received; one of them was submitted by an 18-year-old.

WHEN THE NEW ruling goes into effect, this could mean that two 18-year-olds would be placed on the board.

Some states have reported to the national Selective Service Board that some of their entire boards must resign under the new ruling.

Anyone between the ages of 18 and 65 may apply to sit on the local draft board in their area by registering that intent at the local board office. The state selective service then sends an application which must be approved by the national selective service office.
