Clamor Is Loud

Plymouth parents don't need the bussing issue to get riled up about where their children will attend school next year. The attendance zones as planned are enough by themselves, and Bifocals reports Monday's school board meeting will be shifted to larger quarters to accommodate the protesters.

Look Who's Back

The name of Sam Hadous, who operated Lofy's night club before it was destroyed by fire, again has cropped up in local circles. The restaurateur hopes to open another club here, but at least for the moment has been blocked by a township zoning ruling.

Pact Rejected

Negotiators have been trying to hammer out a new contract between the city government and its fire fighters for nearly a year. Rejection of a tentative agreement by the union now has brought charges of broken faith from city commissioners.

It's 'Lower Town' No More; 'Old Village' Will Be Official

By FRED DeLANO

The informal designation of the northeast corner of Plymouth, which has been called "lower town" as long as natives can remember, is about to be replaced by the official title of Old Village through action by the City Commission and its planning board.

After concentrating for months, and perhaps years, almost solely on the problems of the Central Business District, the commission has suddenly come face to face with revitalization needs in the northeast business area.

Generally speaking, this is the section of town dominated by Starkweather, Mill and Holbrook Streets, running from Main to the northern city limits. Its "downtown" is essentially the sector bounded by Spring, Starkweather, Liberty and Mill. In the long ago, it was Liberty which was the heart of that community.

Starkweather school also is in the area, and the entrance to Plymouth from Wilcox and Northville Rds. through Old Village is one of the most highly used in the city. In fact, in renovation planning, this is going to get first attention.

CITY MANAGER Norman Gaffney and the parks and recreation department were instructed Monday night by unanimous vote of the commission to prepare beautification plans for the small park which exists at this point.

Shrubs, flowers, benches and general beautification will be detailed in a report to the commission March 20. The guidelines for this development were expressed by Mrs. Pat Hann, chairman of the Old Village steering committee, when she said, "The park should say 'hello' and give a nice feeling to all of Plymouth."

Mrs. Hann, whose House of Glamour Salon is one of the 25 businesses in Old Village, joined with her committee in meeting informally with the entire commission a week ago to discuss needs. The meeting ended with a walk through the area so that commissioners could see for themselves some of the specific requirements.

Included in the general survey were such improvements as better care of alleys, ridding the sector of several abandoned vehicles and adding to the strength of street lighting.

The commission was enthusiastic for what can be accomplished to make the area more sightly, and in the formal meeting Monday began putting the wheels in motion with adoption of two resolutions.

THE FIRST concerned the redesign and beautification of the park. In addition, upon a motion by Norbert Battermann, the commission went full length by voting that steps should be taken to give Old Village official recognition in zoning laws as an area of its own identity, just as is done for the CBD.

This will be an item on the agenda of the planning board in its monthly meeting tonight (Wednesday), and Chairman Mary Childs, who was in Monday's audience, indicated she will give it full personal backing.

It also was decided by the commission that the city will put up markers at several sites identifying Old Village.

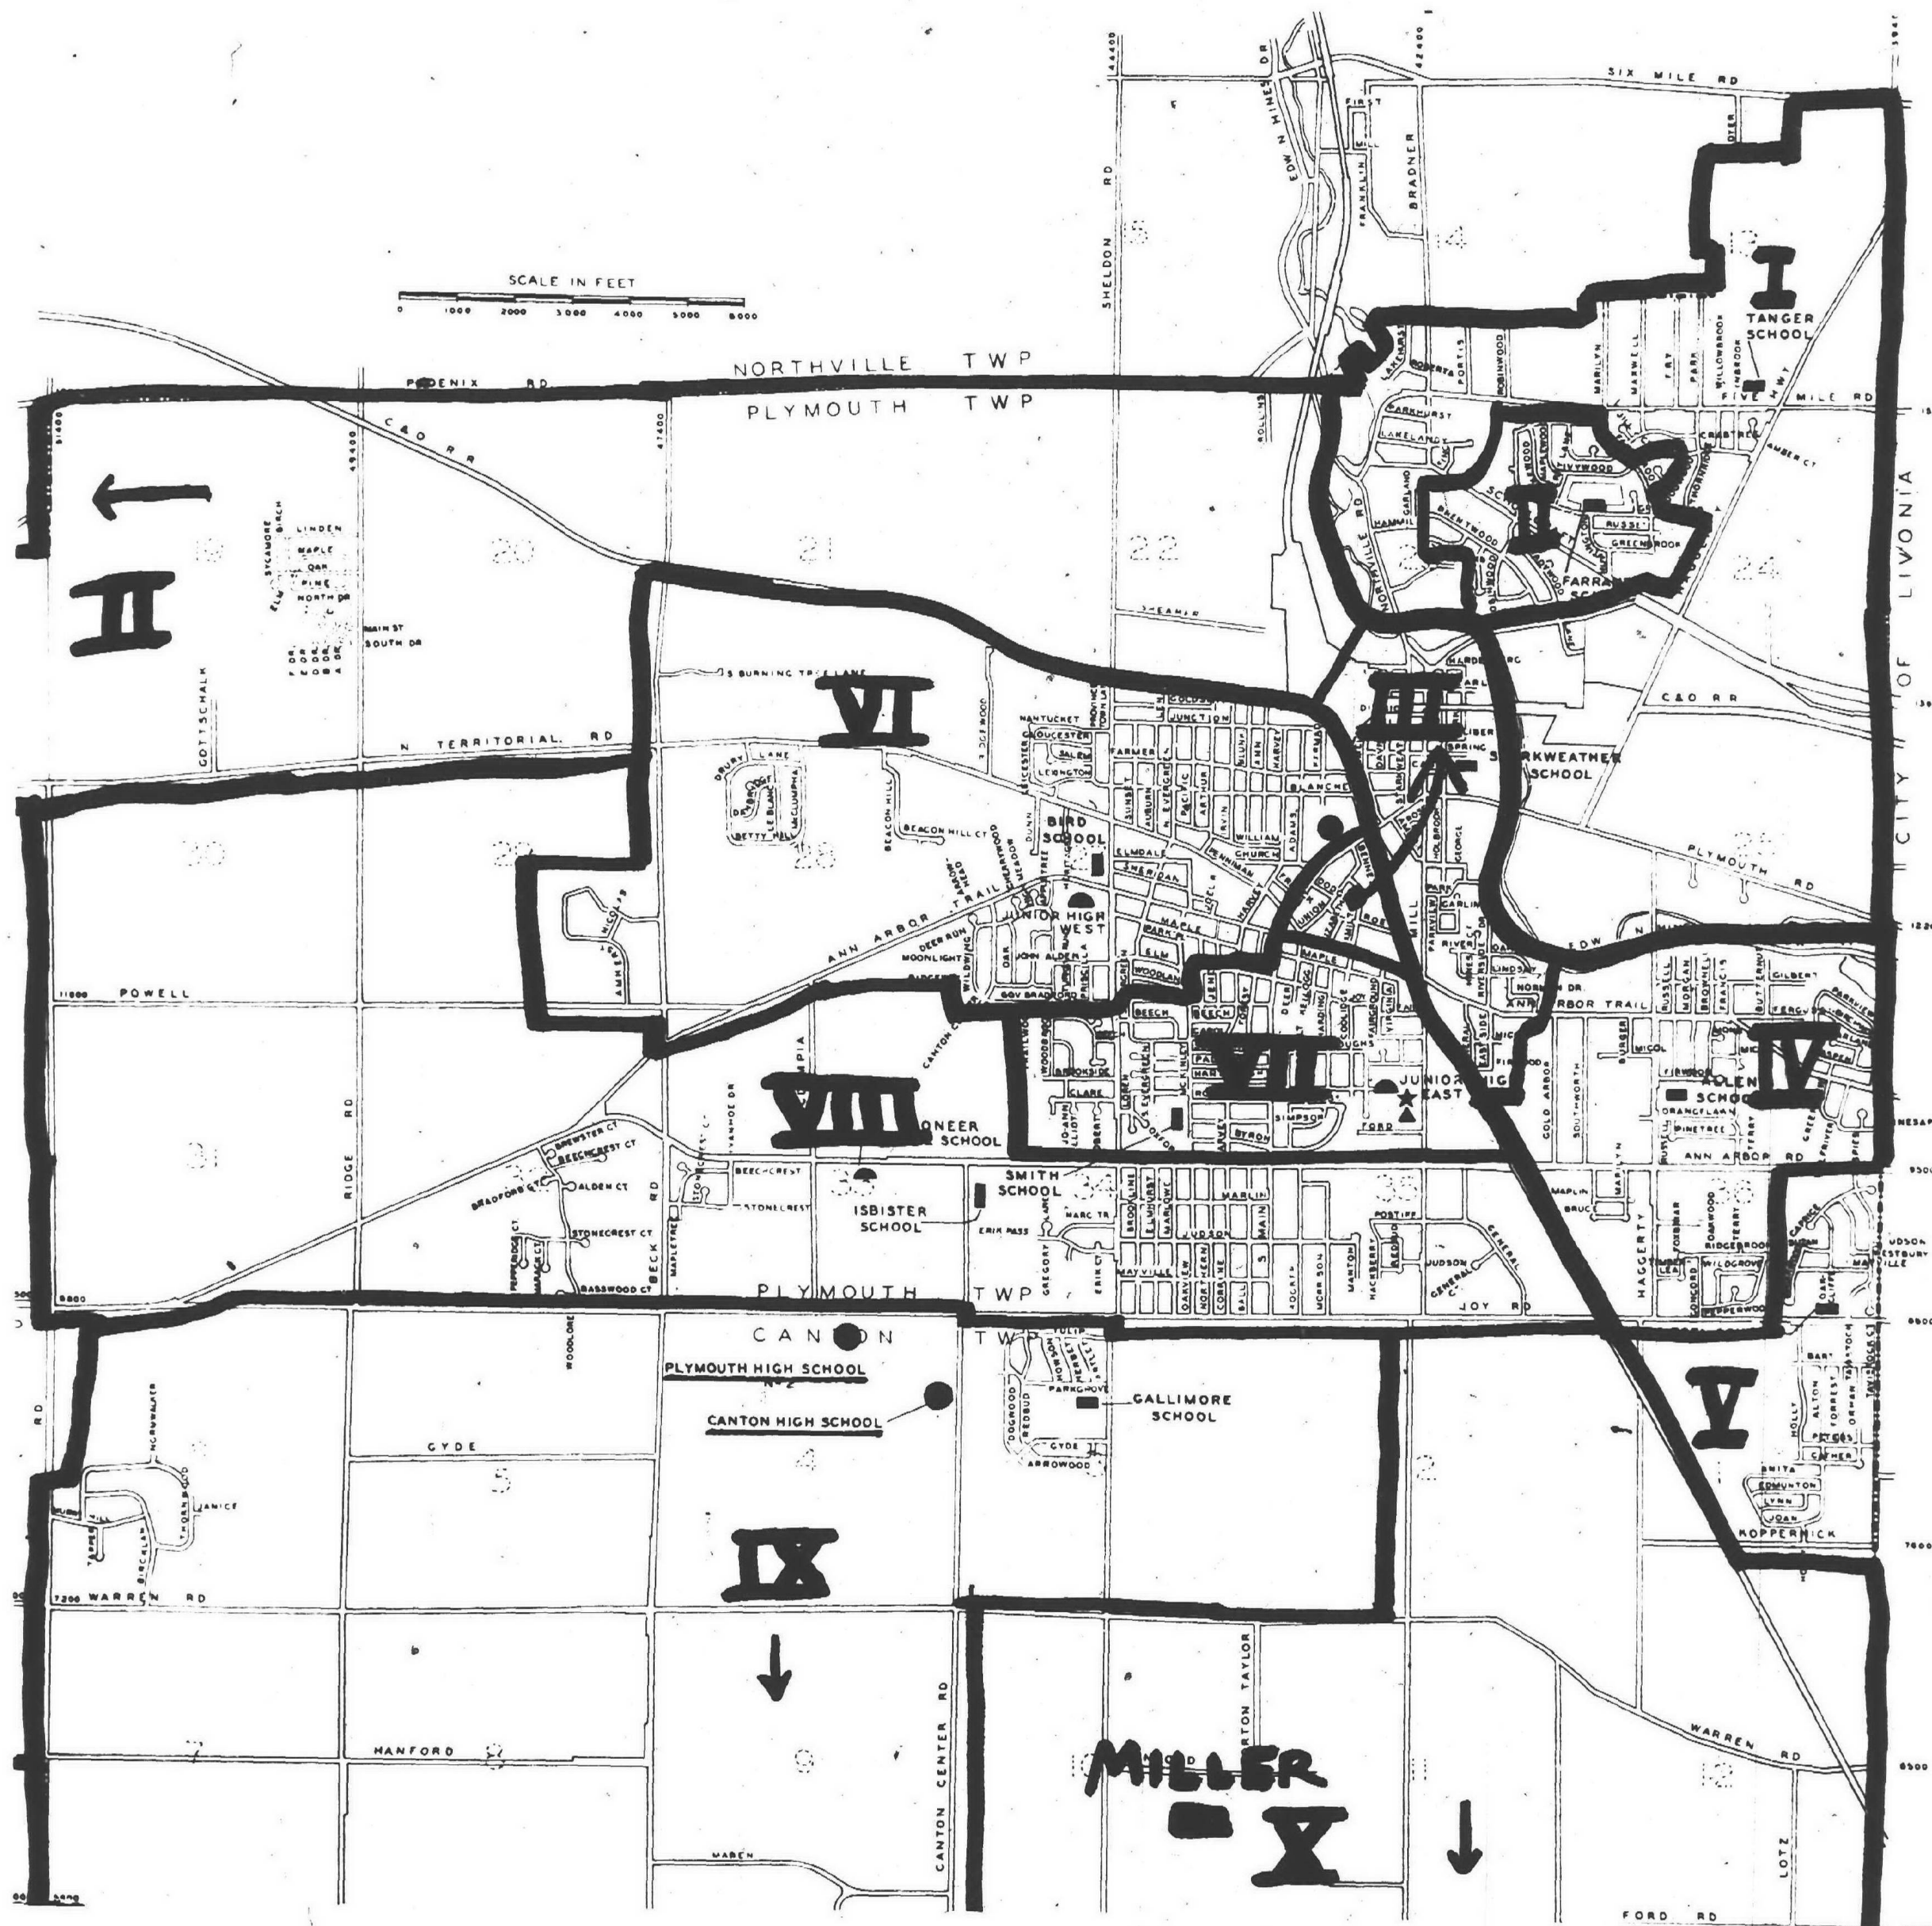

"The refreshing thing about these people is that they are willing to do their own part," commented Commissioner Harold Guenther. "Many of the improvements we can leave to their own imagination."

City Engineer Thomas Waffin was instructed to look into the question of what can be done to improve the sightliness of alleys, and the issue of improved street lighting was deferred until the commission begins 1972-73 budget studies.

Mrs. Hann, who had told the commission, "We feel this area is part of the history of Plymouth," expressed great satisfaction at the quick progress made since establishing contact with the commission and expressing the desires of merchants.

Douglas Blunk is president of the Old Village Association, Mrs. Francis Kontos is secretary and Mrs. Alice McDonald is treasurer.

In What School District Are You?

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL ZONE BOUNDARIES planned for the Plymouth School District in 1972-73 are shown on this map. In turn, attendance at either Plymouth or Canton High School will be based upon the elementary school area of residence, except for the senior class. Protests from parents are expected to highlight the school board meeting March 13, as discussed in Bifocals on Page 3A. Numerals on this map indicate these schools: I-Tanger; II-Farrand; III-Starkweather; IV-Allen; V-Fiegel; VI-Bird; VII-Smith; VIII-Isbister; IX-Gallimore; X-Miller. Not shown is Geer (XI) which will take students from the southwest portion of the district.

Red Cross Bloodmobile Relocates

Red Cross announced today the relocation of the Livonia blood donor center. In the past, the Red Cross has collected blood at the Livonia Elks Club, but has moved operations to St. Matthew United Methodist Church, 30900 Six Mile Road, Livonia.

The first and third Thursday of each month, the Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the church site from 2 - 8 p.m.

Individuals may visit the new bloodmobile location to become a member of the blood program "family plan." Under the plan, if one member of the family donates at least one unit of blood per year, the entire family will be covered should illness or accident strike.

"People tend to put off providing for blood coverage until someone in their family suddenly needs blood for surgery," Bill Bucinski, Red Cross blood program field representative said. "For the single unit of blood each year, you can put an end to your blood need worries."

He added that blood will be provided for you, your spouse, your children under 18, children over 18 who cannot donate, parents and parents-in-law, grandparents and grandparents-in-law, and brothers and sisters of an unmarried donor.

7 S'craft Faculty Get Full Status

Seven Schoolcraft College faculty members were granted "full status" (comparable to tenure) by the board of trustees.

The faculty members served a two-year probationary period prior to being given full status.

Full status contracts were awarded to Patrick Newman, student activities counselor; Ronald Rogowski, counselor; Richard Tomalty, counselor; Dale E. Boyle, mathematics instructor; Dr. Larry Meyer, health and physical education instructor; Mrs. Merle Richmond, biology instructor; and Dr. Cecil Woodruff, health and physical education instructor.

Second year probationary contracts were issued to Mrs. Patsy Hammond, practical nursing instructor; Ronald Jameson, sociology instructor; and Samuel Hallman, psychology instructor.

High School Journalism Contest Set

The seventh annual Detroit Press Club Foundation awards for high school journalism students has been announced.

Dr. Austin Smith, chairman of Parke, Davis & Co. and head of the awards committee, said the deadline for entries is March 20.

The contest is open to senior grade level high school students in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties who will be graduating this June.

Dr. Smith said entries should consist of published news or feature articles written by high school students which appeared in the school newspaper during the calendar year 1971.

Further details can be obtained from the journalism advisor at each high school in the tri-county area.

The first place winner is given a $4,000 president's scholarship award. Second place receives $300, third place, $200 and fourth, $100. The awards will be presented at a banquet on May 4.

Through the first six award dinners, the Press Club Foundation has distributed nearly $50,000 to approximately 150 professional and student newsmen in order to promote the profession of journalism in Michigan.

Schools Here To Be Closed Next Monday

The schools of the Plymouth Community School District will be closed on Monday, March 13 for a teacher in-service education day.

The activities for the day will be held in the Plymouth High School. The program will have three group sessions and each staff member will be involved in the three groups which they feel will have the greatest impact on their teaching assignment.

The planned activities will include guest speakers, new instructional media, work sessions and opportunities for interaction with the vertical staff as well as the same grade or subject matter staff members.

Some of the activities include an art workshop, designing behavioral objectives, elementary counseling, drug education, upgrading independent study, inquiry method of instruction, and learning disabilities.

WHEN MICHIGAN ARTTRAIN visits Plymouth April 19 through May 6, visitors will be given an exciting view of art work from cultural periods of the past in this reflecting chamber of glass and mirrors. It is called Artrain's "infinity chamber" and is one of the many displays on the five-car touring art exhibit.

plymouth THROUGH BIFOCALS

By FRED DeLANO / Editor Mail & Observer

SO MANY PARENTS in the Plymouth school district are upset about the boundary lines drawn to determine individual school attendance areas for 1972-73 that the Board of Education already has decided to hold its meeting next Monday, March 13 in larger quarters.

Seeing how the storm flags are flapping, the board will move from its usual meeting room in the Mill Street administration building to the cafetorium of East Middle School next door -- and even then it may be standing room only.

The protesters fall into general segments. The first is a small group upset because of changes in elementary zones which will mean their children will shift schools in the fall, and the other, larger crowd is that which is upset because of the way assignments are being made to Plymouth and Canton High Schools.

So high is their dudgeon that their wrath almost matches that of America's aluminum siding salesman who expected President Nixon to bring back an order to resurface the Great Wall of China. They also may express it the same way -- at the ballot box.

FEELING IS RUNNING particularly high in the populous Lake Pointe area where, because the children live either in the Tanger or Farrand districts, they are being channeled into Canton High School instead of PHS.

Petitions protesting against this are now being circulated, and parents are being encouraged to turn out en masse when the board meets Monday. The petitions state:

"We the undersigned taxpayers of the Lake Pointe Village area object to the assigning of our children to Canton Center High School. As taxpayers, we feel we should have a direct voice in deciding which high school our children will attend."

Mothers who have called this desk make such comments as, "Kids in Canton Township will be going to Plymouth High, and many of those from Plymouth to Canton; the name 'Canton' is the big hangup" . . . "Newcomers who have lived here a year will have children in the high school we, who have lived here 14 years, expected to be in . . ."

"The school board should be an instrument of the people, not the teachers" . . . "Yes, they're having a millage election. Ha!" . . . "I don't want to penalize the children on education, but . . ."

CITY AND TOWNSHIP politics are downright funereal in their elements of current agitation compared to the school district, which used to be the dullest, most cut-and-dried entity of them all. For instance, consider that the 7,500 families with kids in classes have these things to argue about before the June 12 combined board and millage election:

The firing of Supt. James Rossman, the travesty of PHS construction, whether we are to have a one high school concept or two, geographic designations of those schools, emotional attendance area traditions, a decision now to revamp the modular scheduling pattern by reducing "mods" from 20 minutes to 15, and even the policy of starting classes in high school at 7:30 a.m.

There is no way of pleasing all the people, all the time, but it is possible to irritate most of them, most of the time and there is mounting evidence that our school board and its administrative heads are unwittingly accomplishing exactly this, despite their dedication to do just the opposite.

Granted that board membership offers more grief than thanks, this corner believes the board could solve the biggest issue of the current uproar by calling the two high school structures "Plymouth North" and "Plymouth East" instead of PHS and CHS . . . and then operate as one entity indefinitely instead of trying to go two routes.

Pay Attention

A survey of customers at Jewel Food Stores in Chicago revealed that while most shoppers correctly associated open dating codes with freshness, 45 per cent thought the date referred to a packaging or delivery date and another 20 per cent thought the food should not be used after the indicated date. The codes actually indicate the date after which the supermarket should not sell the product.

Esch Calls Conference

U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) announced this week that an intergovernmental relations conference to further the communication between local officials and various federal agencies, will be held next Saturday, March 11.

The program, which will be conducted at Washtenaw Community College, will bring together representatives from the Departments of Housing and Urban Development, Health Education and Welfare, Interior and the Environmental Protection Agency to meet with officials from 2nd district cities and townships. It is designed to further communicate between these groups and to aid local officials in future planning in regard to federal aid programs.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. and the seminar will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a general panel discussion of the various programs. During the following hours, local officials will be able to talk directly with those agency representatives most able to answer their specific questions. The program will conclude with a summary session at lunch.

"One of the major tasks as a congressman has been my continued attempt to cut through bureaucratic red tape so often found in governmental programs and to aid local officials in developing effective channels of communication with federal departments and agencies. This conference is part of that continuing effort," said Esch.

"The continued expansion and change in federal legislation and programs makes it next to impossible for each community to be aware of all the programs that may be of some benefit to their present or future planning."

Hadous Seeks New Club Site

Although Sam Hadous has been receiving his principal fanfare from downtown Detroit since his Lofy's nightclub in Plymouth was destroyed by fire last September, the ambitious restaurateur has not divorced the local area for good.

In fact, Hadous not only is seeking permission for another Lofy - type restaurant in Plymouth Township but also has taken over the Hines Park Restaurant (formerly Howard Johnson's) on Plymouth Road and is negotiating for a lease on the bar of the adjacent Hines Park Motel.

After the Lofy fire, Hadous surprised the entertainment world by taking a lease on the vacant Michigan Theater in downtown Detroit, announcing he would convert it into a 3,122-seat super night club.

Renamed the Michigan Palace, the hollowed out theater is scheduled to open March 27 to the music of Duke Ellington and his orchestra. Headliners booked to follow Ellington on the Palace stage include Joe Williams, Mitzi Gaynor, Myron Cohen, Nancy Ames, Phyllis Diller and David Jensen.

BUT NONE of this meant Hadous had turned his back on Plymouth, where he first came to attention when he bought the restaurant at Lilley and Ann Arbor Road from Bert Lofy in 1969 - turning it into a glamorous, big-name night club a year later.

The fire nullified Hadous' lease on the property, owned by Robert and Maxine Willoughby, but the liquor license for Lofy's still is his personal possession - and can be put to use only in Plymouth Township.

Negotiations between Hadous and the Willoughbys for construction of a new night club structure at the same site proved futile, so the enterprising Hadous found a potential site on the other side of Ann Arbor Road only to find that the Township Planning Commission says no-go.

The property in question is next to the Detroit Bank and Trust Co. office on Ann Arbor Road is zoned industrial (M-1).

A report from a special planning commission committee led to a decision by that body to the effect that "a Lofy's type restaurant would be inappropriate to an M-1 district."

THE REPORT on the ordinance pertinent to Hadous' application stated:

"Section 16.03 (c) allows restaurants as a conditional use in M-1 districts, provided that the restaurant is 'necessary to serve and appropriate to the M-1 district.'"

"It is the opinion of the committee that this stipulation was included to prohibit restaurants other than those required to service the needs of individuals working in the M-1 district; it apparently was intended to preclude 'general patronage' restaurants. A restaurant

Local Doctor Renamed By Medical Group

Frederick E. Bentley, M.D., of Plymouth, has been re-elected to active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors. The academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

Re-election signifies that the physician has successfully completed 150 hours of accredited postgraduate medical study in the last three years. Members become eligible for re-election at the end of the third year following their election to membership.

Class Enjoyed City Hall Visit

EDITOR: Our fifth grade class from Allen School went on a trip. We went to the City Hall. First we went to court and stayed there two hours and 15 minutes. We were the first grade school class to ever visit the court. Judge Dunbar Davis talked with us before and after court. He let us sit in the jury box.

Then we went to the police department and met Officer Berry. He took us to a room with the police radio in it where we met Mrs. Brown who operated the radio. Officer Berry took us to the jail and then showed us a police car.

Sgt. Norris of the fire department showed us all the fire trucks, the rescue ambulance, their kitchen and their bedroom. He told us all about the fire trucks and the rescue ambulance.

At each place that we visited everyone was very nice and considerate to us. They all went out of their way to show us a good time.

Each and every member of our class would like to thank the City of Plymouth for making our visit possible and so enjoyable.

ROGER HOLT
Room 18
Allen School

similar to Lofy's would seem to be neither necessary nor appropriate to an M-1 district.

"The committee therefore recommends: (1) that Mr. Samuel Hadous be advised that such a restaurant would not qualify as either a permitted or conditional use under existing zoning restrictions in an M-1 district, and (2) that the existing ordinance not be changed to allow such a use because it would be inappropriate and counter-productive to the expressed purpose of an M-1 district.

As a result, Hadous appears to have three alternatives, but has not yet indicated which route he will go.

He can ask for a rezoning of the property to commercial instead of manufacturing; he can seek another site, or he can sell the liquor license for someone else's use in the township - but this would involve long transfer proceedings needing both local and state approval.

FROM THIS TRAGEDY which saw the total destruction of Lofy's night club last September, owner Sam Hadous, pictured against the flames of that Sunday morning, has bounced back into the limelight. Not only will he open the Michigan Palace in Detroit later this month but he also is seeking to establish a new restaurant in Plymouth Township. However, this effort has been stymied at least for the moment by the township planning commission through a zoning ruling. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

The Stroller...

Ralph Cole Bids For Tall Tale Title

Rather innocently, Ralph Cole, the tall, tanned barrister from Salem who could be taken for a brother of Daniel Boone when he's attired in his coonskin hat, has made a bid for top honors in the tall tale sweepstakes.

For a time the title was conceded to Harold Guenther, member of the Plymouth City Commission, with his tale of the solving of the mysterious egg thefts back in his home state of Nebraska.

Harold, with a very straight face, explained that a close watch had been kept on the egg crates after eggs were missing from the bottom rows.

Finally, the mystery unraveled when it was noticed that the rats worked in pairs. One squeezed his way into the crate and wrapped four legs around the egg, while the partner pulled him out by the tail for the getaway.

Since then, we've listened to "Doc" Salan, the portly ophthalmologist, regale the Round Table gourmets with fishing tales that would have made an amateur of Izaak Walton, and Jack Selle, the big game hunter, tell of his experiences on African safaris that would send chills up and down your spine.

But it remained for this modern Daniel Boone who long served as the Plymouth Township attorney, to take the week's prize with his tale of a faithful dog and the solving of the mystery of a missing coat.

IT BEGAN VERY simply when the barrister reported at the luncheon table and said, in a tone that revealed a bit of embarrassment, "It looks like I'm in trouble."

With that he turned both trousers pockets inside out and revealed large holes in both of them.

Shrugging off the remark that he carried too much coin of the realm and the weight had caused the damage, he said—

"I wonder if it could have been that darned dog again."

What about the dog?

"It's a rather surprising yarn," he said, "but the other morning when I arose and started to dress, I put on my trousers— but couldn't find the coat to match."

"I remembered having the clothes hung outside on a line, and I remember bringing them in. So, I knew, or thought, I brought back all I took out."

"But all the searching was to no avail— the coat was gone. But where— that was the mystery."

With that wry smile often used by the legal luminaries when they build up to a dramatic point, he recalled that when he returned home late in the afternoon his wife informed him—

"I found your coat and you'd never guess where it was— out in the field, all torn to shreds."

That solved the mystery and the relating of it made Ralph a candidate for the tall tale tellers award.

"IMMEDIATELY I knew what had happened," he said. "It was the dog, one of the finest pointers ever raised or trained by any man."

"I could see it all now," he went on, "That dog has been trained— in fact it was bred into him— to seize upon anything that flies. You should see him work in the field."

"Well, I guess my coat sleeves were waving in the wind, and the dog seeing this dark flying object just naturally grabbed it."

If the dog is such a good retriever, why didn't he return it to you?

"That's just it," this student of the vagaries of the law explained. "I wasn't home. And that dog on learning this, took the 'bird' away and destroyed it. Just as he does out in the field when he can't find me. Never saw another dog like him."

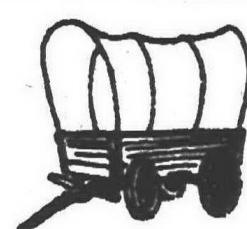

He didn't explain the holes in the trouser pockets—but that might be another entry in the tall tale sweepstakes when he reveals the mystery.

Museum Fund Drive Success

PLYMOUTH
The drive for $15,000 in matching funds to complete the interior of the new historical museum when it is built, has gone over the top. The drive got its impetus several months ago with a gift of $15,000 from the Edward C. Hough - Kimball Foundation that was arranged by former resident Cass Hough.

At the time it was stipulated that the gift was being made on a matching basis — and, now according to the victory statement from the Historical Society, the goal has been reached.

Ground is expected to be broken for the new museum — opposite City Hall — on Main Street, by April 1.

Insulation is Housewarming!

Send for this Free Booklet

What a warm difference insulation makes in every room in your house. Like an invisible blanket, it prevents the heat from escaping to the outside and the cold from creeping in. Makes a difference in your fuel bills, too...makes them go down! Next summer, the same insulation will save you money on cooling costs. It's easy to install insulation yourself, or, as shown, have it pneumatically blown in. Consumers Power Company neither sells nor installs insulation, but for a number of years has encouraged their customers to investigate the benefits of insulating their homes.

Other Ways to Save Heating Dollars

- Install storm windows and doors.
- Weatherstrip around doors and windows.
- Keep heating plant in good shape.
- Leave thermostat at lowest comfortable setting.
- Clean or replace filters regularly.
- Shut damper when fireplace is not in use.
- Close drapes on windy days and nights.
- Turn heat off in unused areas.
- Keep registers free from obstructions.
- Maintain proper degree of humidity.

If you'd like to get a more complete story on how insulation can give you more personal comfort and save you money, mail the attached coupon and we'll send you our free bulletin, "Gas Heating Insulation Facts."

PRIOR TO THE SPRING PAVING of several streets, the sanitary sewers running under them are being photographed to see if any repairs are needed. The 35 mm camera that's doing the job is encased in this metal cylinder. Lowering it into a manhole on Harding for the DPW are (from left) Bob Hastings, Director Kenneth Vogras and Ken Oosterhouse. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Camera-Eye View Of Sewers Sets Stage For Street Paving

PLYMOUTH A 35 MM camera is peering through the sanitary sewers under six city streets this month, taking a new color picture every two feet as it rolls along its underground route, in a new approach to municipal economy.

The purpose of this experiment by the city's Department of Public Works is to try and locate cracks and other sewer imperfections before paving crews come in to resurface the streets.

"Any problems that we can spot now with the camera will give us a chance to replace the sewer before the street is paved so that we don't have to rip up the cement at some future date after the street has been resurfaced," said DPW Director Kenneth Vogras.

"Taking pictures costs us 30 cents a foot, but it is a lot cheaper than having to tear everything out after new paving has been laid, as sometimes has happened in the past.

First sewers explored by the camera were those under Harding Street, as the project got under way a few days ago. Other strips to be probed will be the sewers under Carol, Caster, Karmada, Junction and Simpson. All these streets are to be paved in the spring.

THIS UNIQUE photographic service is provided under contract by the Modern Sewer Cleaning Co. of Grand Rapids. Each sewer is cleaned by the DPW before it is photographed, and the camera gives a permanent record of any cracks, bad joints, protruding house leads and other problems that need correction.

The camera is enclosed in a cylinder, and two men are required to operate it. One man, standing above a manhole, operates the master switch, activating the camera's shutter down in the sewer.

The camera travels the length of the sewer via a narrow underground cable which is attached, topside, to a tripod pulley crank at each end of the sewer.

On signal from the "cameraman," a second worker at the opposite end of the sewer turns the crank so that the camera moves two feet after each picture is taken.

The camera uses regular Kodak 35 MM slide film, exposed for each picture by an electronic flash unit built into the cylinder.

HOWEVER, instead of having the pictures developed into slides, Vogras will receive a "loop" of film which may be projected to give the viewer a "seeing eye" trip for the entire route of the sewer.

Vogras believes this system will be more efficient than the previous inspection method, which was based on a closed-circuit television monitoring system, but gave no permanent record.

If he is satisfied with the performance of the new rig, the DPW director said he will recommend its use prior to the paving of other Plymouth streets in the future.

Those scheduled for work in the fall include portions of Pacific, Farmer, Kellogg, Deer, Union, Beech, Hartsough, Dewey, Harding and Roosevelt.

Bill Gorham, director of systems research department at the hospital, will speak on "Productivity and Incentives."

Crime Unit Picks Officers

Detroit Corporation Counsel Michael Glusac is the new executive chairman and County Commissioner Joseph F. Young, of Detroit, the new vice chairman of the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice System Coordinating Council. Under the council by-laws, Glusac automatically rose from vice chairman to a one-year term as executive chairman on March 1.

Young, a Democrat representing District 4 on east side Detroit, was elected by the council members to succeed Glusac as vice chairman at a Feb. 28 meeting.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in 30 years, Plymouth is having a bird house construction contest to emphasize spring's approach, with the local branch of the National Farm and Garden Club as sponsor. Houses are to be either for martins, wrens or bluebirds and must be built to specifications. The martin house should have a six-by-six-inch floor, room depth of six inches and each entrance 21 inches in diameter. Openings should be two inches above the floor to protect small birds. Martins love to have a wide porch for sunning (four to six inches), and their houses should be 15 to 20 feet from the ground.

COOL HEAT

by DON KEETH

Cool heat? No, this old square is not trying to talk in rock and roll vernacular. Although the term "cool" would fit rather neatly.

The subject of these brief paragraphs actually is cool heat. Heat that doesn't feel warm. Sounds stupid, eh? Well, it's not. But it does cause a bit of a problem if you don't know about it. Hence this information.

The best type of heating you can have is a Total Comfort System. It is a ducted system that continually treats the air you live in. This means the air moved is "on" all the time. It never stops. This is vital to comfort.

HOWEVER, some people are apt to call the installer and say, "Hey, Buster, this heating system is blowing cold air? What kind of a flim-flam are you pulling on me?" There it is -- cool heat. Why?

Sometimes the air in your home does not need additional heat; it's just right as it is. But the air treating system is still cleaning, humidifying, freshening and circulating the air. The air mover is always "on." This means unheated air (air at room temperature) is coming from the air outlets in the rooms. Right near the outlet, this moving air will feel cool because of evaporation from your skin. Very natural.

If registers are properly located, you'll never feel this "cool heat" because we always located them where people do not normally stand or sit. You'll notice it only if you make a point of putting your hand or face very near the outlet. Room occupants feel only Total Comfort. If the blower did not operate constantly, heat would stratify and all air treatment would stop... not good! But with constant blower operation you enjoy a perfect indoor climate. Real cool, man! (Oops, there I go again.)

Ecology Course Offered Teachers

DEARBORN Secondary school science teachers from metropolitan Detroit will again convene on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn for an eight week summer environmental workshop.

Dr. Orin G. Gelderloos, assistant professor of experimental biology at UM-Dearborn, will direct the second annual summer program, designed especially for metropolitan area science teachers.

Funded by a $52,458 National Science Foundation grant, the institute will permit 30 science teachers to engage in an intensive program of field studies, laboratory experiments and lectures on environmental science and ecology.

In addition to the eight week summer program, institute participants will be involved in a series of six monthly meetings during the 1972-73 school year. The follow-up program will be used to evaluate the summer's work, to share results of new teaching programs designed by the participants, and to discuss current topics in environmental education.

Much of the institute's study will be done on campus, using the highly wooded "natural area" which comprises approximately 70 of the 212-acre UM-D campus. The "natural area" and the adjoining Rouge River flood plain provide an ideal "living laboratory."

We think we should spend the money on the historical

Strike Shakes County Board

The 31 teachers at the Wayne County Child Development Center were back in class Tuesday after a one-day strike on Monday brought action on their two-year-old pay dispute.

Dr. Pasquale Buoniconto, medical superintendent of the school at Five Mile and Sheldon in Northville Township, said the teachers would receive all benefits they accrued up to the current 1971-72 contract.

No details were available on what the settlement would cost.

Teachers failed to report to classes Monday and instead went to the City - County Building in Detroit to talk to county commissioners, who approve their budget.

In the teachers' absence, the children -- many of them emotionally disturbed or wards of Probate Court -- stayed in the home's cottages under the care of social workers and other staff members.

AS COUNTY employees, the teachers bargain with the County Board of Commissioners, many of whom were unaware of the teachers' outdated pay scale, according to one teacher.

As of Monday when the teachers walked off their jobs, they were being paid on a salary schedule from the 1969-70 contract -- despite the fact that 1970-71 and 1971-72 contracts are signed.

The long delays in implementing the new contract have been due to a tangle of events and political maneuverings, according to teachers.

The 1970-71 contract was signed last June 29, but irregular meetings in the summer months led to a delay in final approval by the commissioners.

BY THE TIME the commissioners finally signed it, the president's wage - price freeze had taken effect. Then complications arose over whether the retroactivity should be paid to teachers and up to what date.

Frustration over the continued delays caused teachers to call in "sick" on Dec. 16 to exert pressure for a settlement.

The teachers returned to work the following day and waited for results.

Their effort paid off when teachers were given checks for retroactive pay for 1970-71. However, they continued to be paid on the 1969-70 contract terms.

When it seemed as though they would never get action,

THE HALLS AND CLASSROOMS were empty Monday when teachers at the Wayne County Child Development Center went on strike. Doors to the buildings were locked while teachers were downtown exerting pressure for a long overdue contract settlement. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring) teachers decided to strike. Rather than picket in Northville Township where there would be little or no effect, teachers decided to go to the heart of the action in Detroit and talk with commissioners.

"THEY ARE so concerned about budget that they are not at all concerned about inequities," one frustrated teacher said after talking to commissioners.

Meanwhile the doors were locked on the elementary and high school building at the center. Secretaries told visitors that teachers were not in school but refused to say if they were on strike.

"I've supported them all along for their wage increases," Dr. Buoniconto said.

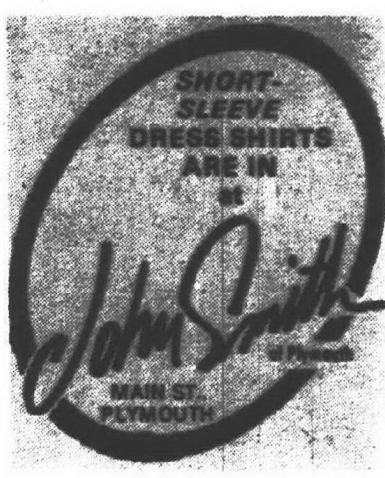

Teachers were notified late Monday that an agreement was reached, but some remained skeptical of a hasty settlement after such a long-standing dispute.

RU Cagers Capture Area's No. 1 Berth

Redford Union slipped past Garden City East for the No. 1 berth in the Observerland's final cage ratings.

The Panthers concluded a 14-3 season with an 84-62 win over Belleville including a Suburban Eight cage crown.

Garden City East fell out of the No. 1 spot for the first time after losses to Lutheran West and Inkster. Billy Joe Young's cagers dropped a 69-66 contest to Lutheran West and lost a squeaker to Inkster, 90-89, and it's No. 2 for East in the final rankings.

BENTLEY moved up to the No. 3 position with a 53-52 win over Dearborn putting the finishing touches on a 13-5 season.

Bob Visser's Patriots from Franklin placed No. 4 in the final poll with a Northwest Suburban championship and a 12-5 overall record.

Brother Rice lost to U-D in the Catholic championship but managed to hang onto No. 5 in Observerland with a 12-5 accounting. Of the five losses the Warriors had ... three were to U-D.

CHURCHILL WON the Western Six basketball crown and earned honors for the No. 6 spot with a 12-5 showing.

GC East regained its composure to walk away with the Franklin district and stands 15-4 overall.

The "Other Panthers," RU that is, finished Suburban Eight play with a 10-2 record and took district honors to match league honors. RU has only lost to Trenton, WL Central and Benley.

Bentley finished second in the Suburban Eight with a 9-3 record, one off the RU track and sports a 15-5 overall showing. John Farrar's Bulldogs took district honors at North Farmington with a 56-51 win over Stevenson.

FRANKLIN had its shot at GC East but faltered in the first round of the districts to finish up with a 12-6 record and a No. 4 placing which still shines bright after the Northwest Suburban league title victory.

It's No. 8 for Clarenceville and the Trojans almost made it ... almost a title in the Wayne-Oakland conference and almost a district title over South Lyons. Clarenceville lost to Clarkston in the battle for league honors and lost to South Lyons in the district finale.

Churchill won its first Western Six cage crown but quickly bowed in the districts to GC East, 73-52, to stand 12-6 and No. 6 in Observerland.

GARDEN CITY WEST had won its last six games before bowing to Taylor Kennedy in the season wrapup. The Tigers looked strong for the districts but Plymouth had different ideas and West fell in the first round and fell to No. 7 with an 11-6 mark.

John Glenn was tipped by Inkster in the Romulus districts and stand 10-6 for No. 9, and to think ... at one time the Rockets were flying at 6-0.

Country Day held down its No. 10 berth with three wins in its last four games for a 12-6 performance.

Northwestern Topples RU In Regionals, 67-41

By ARTEE

LEAN EVENING for RU's Panthers but Mark Kenney (53) gave team backers something to cheer about in the early moments when he faked out Northwestern's Mike Wilson to score. It was the Colts' night in the regional tournament and they ousted RU, 67-41. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe).

Redford Union's hopes of a berth in the finals of the regional class "A" cage tournament at Franklin High vanished like so much snow on a hot summer day when the Panthers staged one of their poorest performances of the season in dropping a 67-41 decision to Detroit Northwestern Monday night.

The gym was packed with RU rooters in the west stands and a few hundred from Northwestern in the east stands... at the finish the noise was coming from the east side while the dismayed Panther followers slowly walked out of the building.

There wasn't any question about the outcome after the first quarter. The Panthers weren't the same club that crushed Southfield in the district finals only last Saturday night... matter of fact they never resembled the quintet that marched through the Suburban Eight Conference competition to a championship.

It just wasn't RU's night to howl. It was their evening to moan and groan and followers had the opportunity from the very first minute when two baskets were erased by costly turnovers.

It was these same turnovers that had the Panthers in trouble all evening. That and poor marksmanship from the field. It didn't seem to make any difference what RU tried or where the shot was made, it didn't hit the target.

The Panthers were guilty of 20 turnovers and at least 12 were turned into baskets for the Colts.

ADDED TO RU's woes was a full court press used by Northwestern from the opening whistle and the Panthers haven't yet found a way to get through that defense.

"It just wasn't to be," said Coach Carl Andrews in the lockerroom. "We couldn't crack their big man under the hoop, we couldn't hold on to the ball and our shooting was the worst of the season."

His charts for the evening showed RU hitting on only 16 of 44 from the field and 20 committing costly errors.

"Seems like every time we made a mistake, they had the ball and two points. You just can't hand the ball over that many times and still stay in the game. We did, and we didn't make much of an impression."

The Panthers were cold in the opening period when they collected only eight points but it was even worse in the final period when they had only two field goals in seven minutes.

Northwestern, coached by Jim Boyce, former U-D star, put the pressure on the Panthers from the start and was still applying it at the finish.

AFTER LOSING the two field goals on turnovers, RU fell behind when Ken Jones hit from the corner. Mark Kenney knotted it with a shot from under the hoop and it was a see-saw scrap for half of the opening quarter.

Mike Wilson's freethrow put the Colts ahead, 3-2, and Pat Wilkie knotted it again from the foul line.

Ron Bonas tapped in a rebound and was fouled but missed and the Colts led, 5-3. Denny Childress connected from the edge of the foul line and Bob Schaner tallied for RU, to make the score, 7-5.

Wilson tapped in another rebound and Northwestern went ahead, 9-5, and never relinquished the lead.

Childress converted on a freethrow, Wilson added a pair and Jim Johnson drove in for a two pointer in the final two minutes and the Colts had a 14-8 edge at the end of the quarter.

Schaner had a hot hand for RU in the second frame and scored five straight points to pull the Panthers within two points at 17-15 midway through the period. That's as close as they got for the remainder of the evening.

Wilson, Childress and Jones collaborated for 10 points and Northwestern widened the gap to 28-19 at the intermission.

INSTEAD OF coming back strong as they did most of the season in the second half, RU was flatter than ever and never looked like a championship team in the second half.

The press caused the Panthers no end of trouble and the Colts pranced around like fresh, young colts throughout the final 16 minutes and just added to the RU woes as the game progressed.

Redford Union was checked with a scant four field goals in the third stanza with Scott Bjerke, Kenney and Jerry Petsch scoring.

Northwestern wasn't that much better, getting only 13, but it built their lead to 13 points at 41-28.

The Detroiters continued on their merry way, in the final period when RU ran into its coldest spell of the game, scoring a field goal after 30 seconds, a second one after 1:35 and a third with 46 seconds to play.

And that was all the Colts needed to make it a runaway. While their fans howled in delight, Northwestern put on a scoring demonstration that gave them a 59-33 edge.

The Panthers rallied for four foul shots and then the Colts boosted the edge to 63-37, 65-39 and finally to 67-41 before the whistle ended the activities.

THE VICTORY sent Northwestern into Thursday's semifinals against once-beaten Walled Lake Central with that victor advancing to the championship round Saturday.

The regional winner will be one of eight survivors in the quarterfinals for which the drawings will be made in a meeting of the Michigan High School Athletic Association Sunday in Lansing.

Wilson, a tall, rangy center with plenty of jump in his legs, was the top performer for the winners. He collected 21 points on six field goals and nine of 10 from the foul line.

Childress was next in line with 10 and Willie Reeves eight.

Schaner, top scorer for the Panthers all season, was double teamed this time and had to be content with 10 points. Kenney, who fought even on the boards in the first half before wilting, was high for the Panthers with 12 on six from the field.

The Panthers ended their season with a 17-4 record and the win boosted the Colts to 15-4.

Lindberg & Osentoski Win All-State Honors

AL LINDBERG

JOHN OSENTOSKI

Redford Union had won everything in wrestling including three invitationals, the districts and regionals and was one of the favored teams to win the state title.

In fact RU finished tied with Lansing Eastern for the No. 1 spot in the UPI polls, but the unexpected happened and the Panthers placed 14th in the state finals at Grand Rapids Calvin College.

SENIOR DENNIS CAMPBELL was almost a shoo-in for the 119 pound state title. He placed third in his sophomore year and second in his junior year to win state honors both years.

He had compiled an overall three year mark of 102-11 and of the 16 he was to compete against for the state title. ... he had already beaten 14 of those during competition this year.

In the first round of the first match Campbell injured his knee. He continued on the mats and was the victor but collapsed during the second round and RU's hopes vanished and the momentum that Coach Larry Fortner had worked for all season was gone.

RU did have one all-stater in Al Lindberg at 98 pounds. He blitzed Dan Bartlett of Davison, 21-6, and toppled Farmington's John Osentoski with a 9-5 score.

In the semi-finals, Lindberg edged Clark Overall, of Walled Lake Western, 11-8, but the championship final match saw Lindberg fall to Mike Crumb, of Lansing Eastern, 8-6.

Lansing Eastern captured the team honors with 33½ points.

LINDBERG placed second in the state and with the top four receiving state honors ... RU came home with one all-stater.

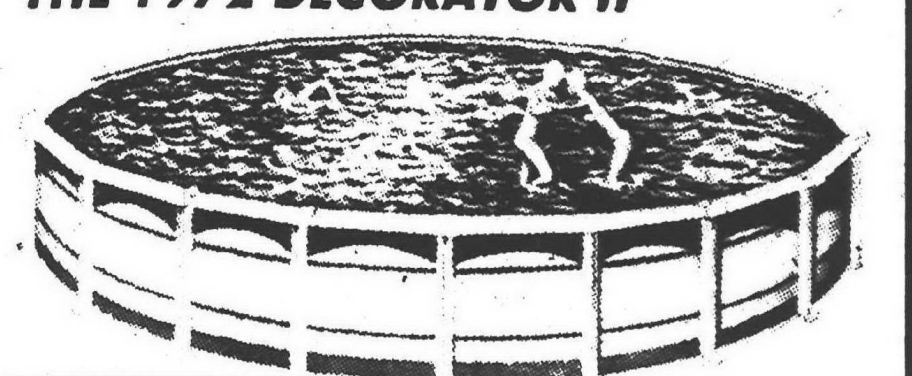

The only other Observerland wrestler to capture state honors was Farmington's Osentoski who Lindberg toppled, 9-5.

Osentoski rebounded after the loss to Lindberg with wins over Bartlett and Overall ... the same road that Lindberg took for his state title.

It's Bentley-GC East Tonight In Regional

Bulldogs Edge Spartans In District, 56-51

By TOM DONOGHUE
Observer Sports Editor

JOHN FARRAR took over the reins this season and took a 13-5 record into the district. The Bulldogs topped North ball charm most lie in the Farmington in the semifinals, Suburban Eight runnerup 54-46, and tipped last year's cinderella squad by five points to move into the regionals at Franklin.

The Bulldogs placed second in the Suburban Eight with a 9-3 record behind front running Redford Union at 10-2. Bulldogs match talents with a however Bentley found its favored Garden City East mark in the North Farmington team in the first round of the districts to capture the crown regionals at 8 p.m.

Over Livonia Stevenson, 56-51. East won its district with It was the first crown for victories over Franklin, Bentley in four years . . . a Churchill, and Plymouth, and four year span that saw the boasts an overall 15-4 record. Bulldogs win three league The winner of the Bentley-titles under the direction of East clash will be in the George Fefles. But Bentley regional final Saturday, just couldn't put it all together March 11, with either Redford to take home a district trophy. Union, Northwestern, or Walled Lake Central.

Coach Farrar sees the contest with East a battle between the centers. Bentley sports 6-7 Tim Bollin who has averaged 19 points per game and East's 6-4 Dave Jackson who has paced the Panther attack in rebounds and is averaging close to 24 points. "It could boil down to a real contest between the two," said Farrar. "This will be Bollin's toughest test of the season." "If we can get East to play our style of basketball, we'll be in the thick of it," added Farrar. "We have to set a slow pace and make East work for the good shot."

THE DISTRICT championship started out true to form with Bentley and Stevenson exchanging baskets and each picking up momentum as the clock ticked along. The Bulldogs went up after one quarter, 16-11, with Bollin picking up six points.

Stevenson's Chris Centers narrowed the margin to one point midway in the second quarter but Bollin hit two from the charity line and Bentley scooted three up. Bentley failed to score in the final three minutes of the half while Stevenson shot ahead on baskets by Dale Haberman, Kelly Smith and Chris Centers and the Spartans went into the locker room at the half with a 25-22 lead.

Dan Weiss and Bollin notched the score at 25-all for Bentley to start the second half, but Stevenson edged ahead by four and missed on three opportunities to push farther ahead.

Three Spartan turnovers gave Bentley some breathing room and Weiss popped in three from the field and the Bulldogs were on top, 32-29.

STEVENSON tied it at 34-34 on two freethrows by Smith yet Bentley held its composure and jumped ahead 40-36 going into the final stanza.

Bentley went up by as much as seven points early in the fourth but the Spartans were looking for their "glass slipper" and got to within two with two minutes remaining. The Bulldogs rescued themselves at the freethrow line with Weiss hitting two and Brian Gates connecting on one to push the margin to five.

SMITH popped in another two-pointer to keep Stevenson in the running. Bentley missed its scoring chance and with one minute to play, the Spartans broke in for a score.

The ball spurted loose and Weiss and Haberman found themselves on the floor contesting for it. The ref gave Bentley the ball and Stevenson's hopes vanished. Weiss made two from the line and Gates the same to tuck a Bulldog victory away.

Stevenson outshot Bentley from the floor, hitting on 21 of 60 for 35 per cent and it was 16 for 49 for the Bulldogs for 32 per cent.

THE DIFFERENCE was at the line where Bentley made good 24 of 31. Stevenson connected on nine and missed nine.

Bentley got outmuscled on the boards, 38-28, but Bollin still managed to pace the Bulldogs with 15 rebounds. Haberman led Stevenson with 10.

It was a disheartening loss for Spartan Coach George VanWagoner and his cagers. They finished the regular season with an upset win over unbeaten Walled Lake Central and blitzed past Farmington, 70-58, to move into the district finale.

Stevenson Pucksters Crush Alumni; Face Churchill Friday In Finale

By TOM DONOGHUE
Observer Sports Editor

What a contrast in the sports world . . .

From the batting cage at Tigertown in Lakeland, Fla. to playing goalie against the Stevenson hockey team at Ford Ice Rink.

After a week's stay in Tigertown, it was back to Observerland for the district cage pairings and a turn in the net against undefeated Stevenson High.

STEVENSON took on a squad composed of Stevenson alumni including the ONI sports editor in a clash following the Bentley-Franklin battle Friday night.

The Spartans were undefeated up to this point and the alumni had visions of pulling off an upset and the first period showed true to form with the alumni taking a 1-0 lead on a goal by Dewey Plumley.

Stevenson tied it at 1-1 in the second on a tally by Steve Hillman.

RICK HENNESSY of the Alumni, scored early in the third stanza but Stevenson's Frank Geluso notched it at 2-all, 50 seconds later.

Next came what might have been a mistake or maybe it was just a happening, but whatever, the Observer sports editor went into the Alumni net to see just what the Stevenson sharpshooters were slapping at opposing goalies this season.

After two surprising saves, Spartan Tom Shipp broke in all alone and slipped the puck under the pads of "almost" a goalie.

Shipp pounded another goal past your sports editor a minute later and was surely skating "on thin ice" on having his name appear in the paper anymore.

Three saves later the ONI goalie was relieved by Bruce McDonald and Stevenson responded with two more goals by Bryan Agabashian. The alumni mustered one last goal by John Koivuhalme and the Spartans proved the victors, 6-3.

This Friday (March 10) will feature the final clash in the Livonia Prep Hockey League with a showdown between Stevenson and Churchill.

It's a must game for Churchill as the Chargers have to win to share the crown. All Stevenson has to do is win or tie and the crown is its alone.

STEVENSON stands with six wins and two ties for 14 points and Churchill has five wins, two ties and a loss for 12 points. This is the final clash for each and the Spartans hold the edge over Churchill during the season with a 4-3 win.

Bentley and Franklin concluded league action with a battle for third place and a fight to stay out of the cellar. The Bulldogs toppled Franklin, 6-2, for their second win against six losses and one tie, and the Patriots dropped their seventh with a lone 3-1 Bentley win the only shining moment.

Dave Ward opened the scoring with the first period's lone tally and Franklin's Kevin Madigan notched it at one-all at 6:20 in the second.

Mark Evasic and Greg Rakowicz put the Bulldogs up by two after two periods with the third period showing Bentley outscore Franklin 3-1. Evasic popped in his second goal as did Ward with Paul Jenka slapping in his first.

Sound Romantic? It is, and can also become a rewarding hobby. Behind every fine wine stands the knowledge and care of the winemaker.

In the weeks ahead we intend to provide the fundamentals and practical knowledge to those who desire to make their own wines.

First we will discuss the history of winemaking leading to the various types and then the basic plans.

Winemaking can be considered as falling into the following steps:

1. planning, acquiring & preparation of facilities
2. gathering of raw material
3. the actual fermentation
4. racking, blending, clarifying of the new wine & preparing it for aging
5. preparing for bottling
6. the actual bottling

GC East Roars Into Regionals; Jackson Blitzes For 37 Points

By FRED DELANO

It would be difficult to convince the Plymouth Rocks that Garden City East shot below its season average in powering to an 83 - 67 victory in the district basketball finals at Franklin, but the Panthers did exactly that - except for Dave Jackson who put on the greatest individual show of the tournament.

The Panthers' jumping - jack popped them in from every angle, and with either hand, as he led East to its second straight district crown and a berth in the regional tournament which opened last night on the same court.

When it was over, Jackson had canned 12 of his 21 shots from the floor, plus 13 of 16 free throws, for 37 points. His .571 field goal average compared with a .492 team mark on 31 baskets in 63 tries, not enough to match East's .505 level for the year.

RAW STATISTICS didn't tell the whole story, however, for Plymouth was anything but a pushover despite the final 16 point margin.

"We played a good ball game, but you have to give Plymouth credit for a good game, too. They were tough," commented a relieved Billy Joe Young, coach of the Panthers, when the firing had ended.

After early sparring which saw East take the lead for keeps at 9 - 7 midway through the first period, the Panthers built leads of as much as 15 points before Plymouth made its best run in the third quarter.

THREE BASKETS by the Rocks' Dave Van Wagoner were instrumental in cutting East's edge to eight points, but Jackson personally accounted for 12 Panther points in a row to Plymouth's seven to reestablish unquestioned East superiority. Meanwhile, the Rocks, who had begun to penetrate the Panther zone effectively and to outmuscle the Panthers on the boards, lost their momentum when Van Wagoner, Ron Egloff and Jim Szilagyi all went to the bench temporarily with four fouls each.

East led 16 - 31 early in the third quarter when Plymouth began this spurt, saw the edge drop to 51 - 43, but had it safely tucked away at 63 - 48 when the trio of Plymouth regulars returned to action with 6:40 left in the final period.

Jackson, Jack Hayes and Jeff DeHarte then picked up the pace for East, offsetting scoring by Van Wagoner and his younger brother Tim, and with three minutes left the Panthers led by 18, 75 - 57.

Plymouth came on again with Egloff, Gary Close and the two Van Wagoners accounting for 10 straight points, but the Rocks couldn't score again after Egloff fouled out with 1:14 left when it was 75 - 67. East's final eight points were like shooting fish in a barrel.

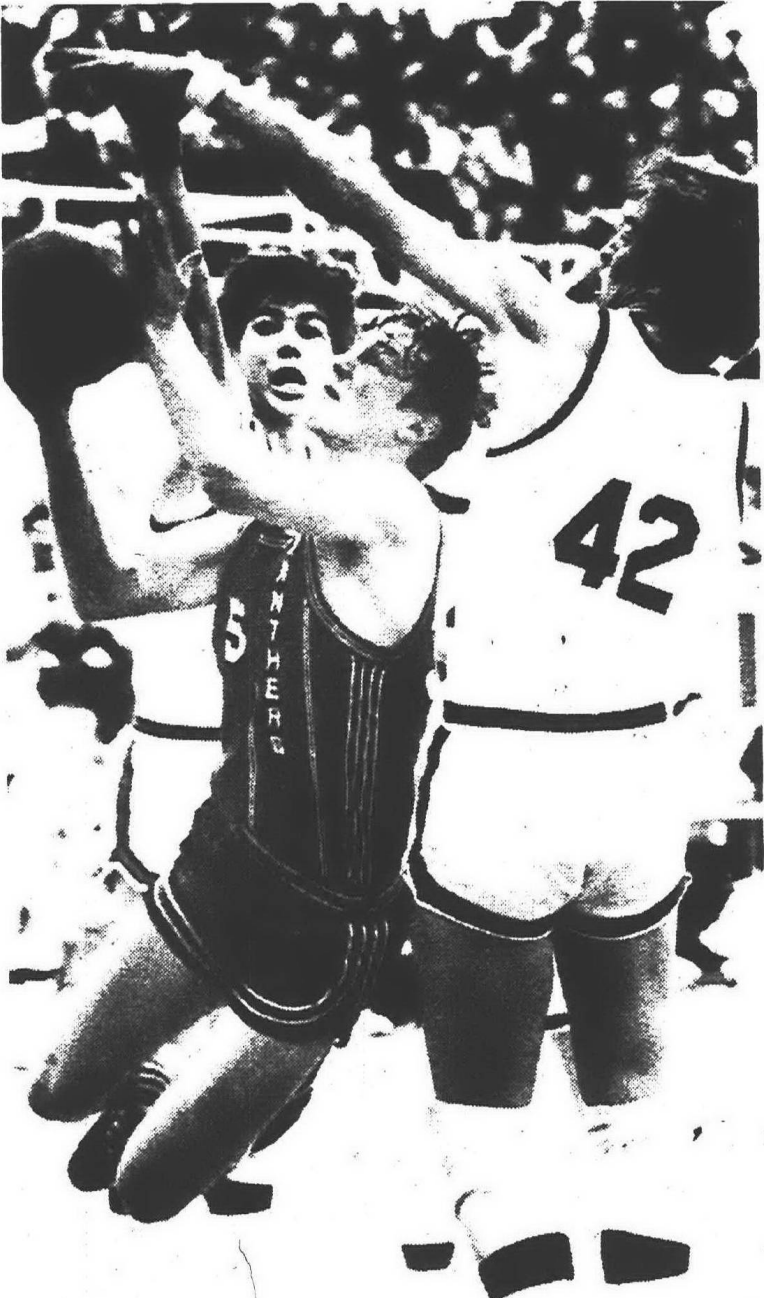

Behind Jackson, Hayes and DeHarte came up with 19 and 16 points each, while Dave Van Wagoner, Egloff and Tim Van Wagoner topped Plymouth with 16, 15 and 13 in that order. The victory made East's record 15 - 4 for the season and closed Plymouth out at 8 - 11. East's 83 points were the most scored against the Rocks all year.

RU Tips Southfield For A Panther First

Redford Union has not been noted for its overpowering basketball teams and has never accomplished much of anything in the prep cage world.

The Panthers had gone through 11 lean years without a league title and had been far from setting anything on fire in state tournament action, but the tide was soon to change.

CARL ANDREWS left his coaching duties at Mackenzie and took over the reins this season at RU and the Panthers began to prowl with an opening win against Southfield ... the first time in RU history that Southfield had fallen to a Panther cage team.

Next came the Suburban

Eight which RU won with a 10-2 mark and then the district meet at Southfield. The Panthers crushed Crestwood, 97-54; surprised Fordson, 64-52; and upended Southfield, 83-70, to win their first district crown, and moved on to the Franklin regionals with a 17-3 record.

Southfield on the other hand went through one of its roughest seasons with a 7-8 mark, but topped Thurston and Dearborn to meet RU in the district finale.

This marked the eighth time that Don Kaump maneuvered his Blue Jays into the district championship during his 11 year span.

SOUTHFIELD WON the opening tip but RU stole the ball and Mark Durance popped it home for the first basket. With three minutes remaining in the first quarter, Southfield's Mark Lundell put the Blue Jays up 7-6 and the one point lead held to the end of the quarter, 13-12.

RU opened the second stanza with three quick buckets by Mark Kenney, Scott Bjerke, and Gary Fuls and it was 18-13 before Southfield knew what hit.

It was nip and tuck the rest of the half with the Blue Jays jumping ahead before the buzzer, 36-30, on four straight points by Rick Moscow.

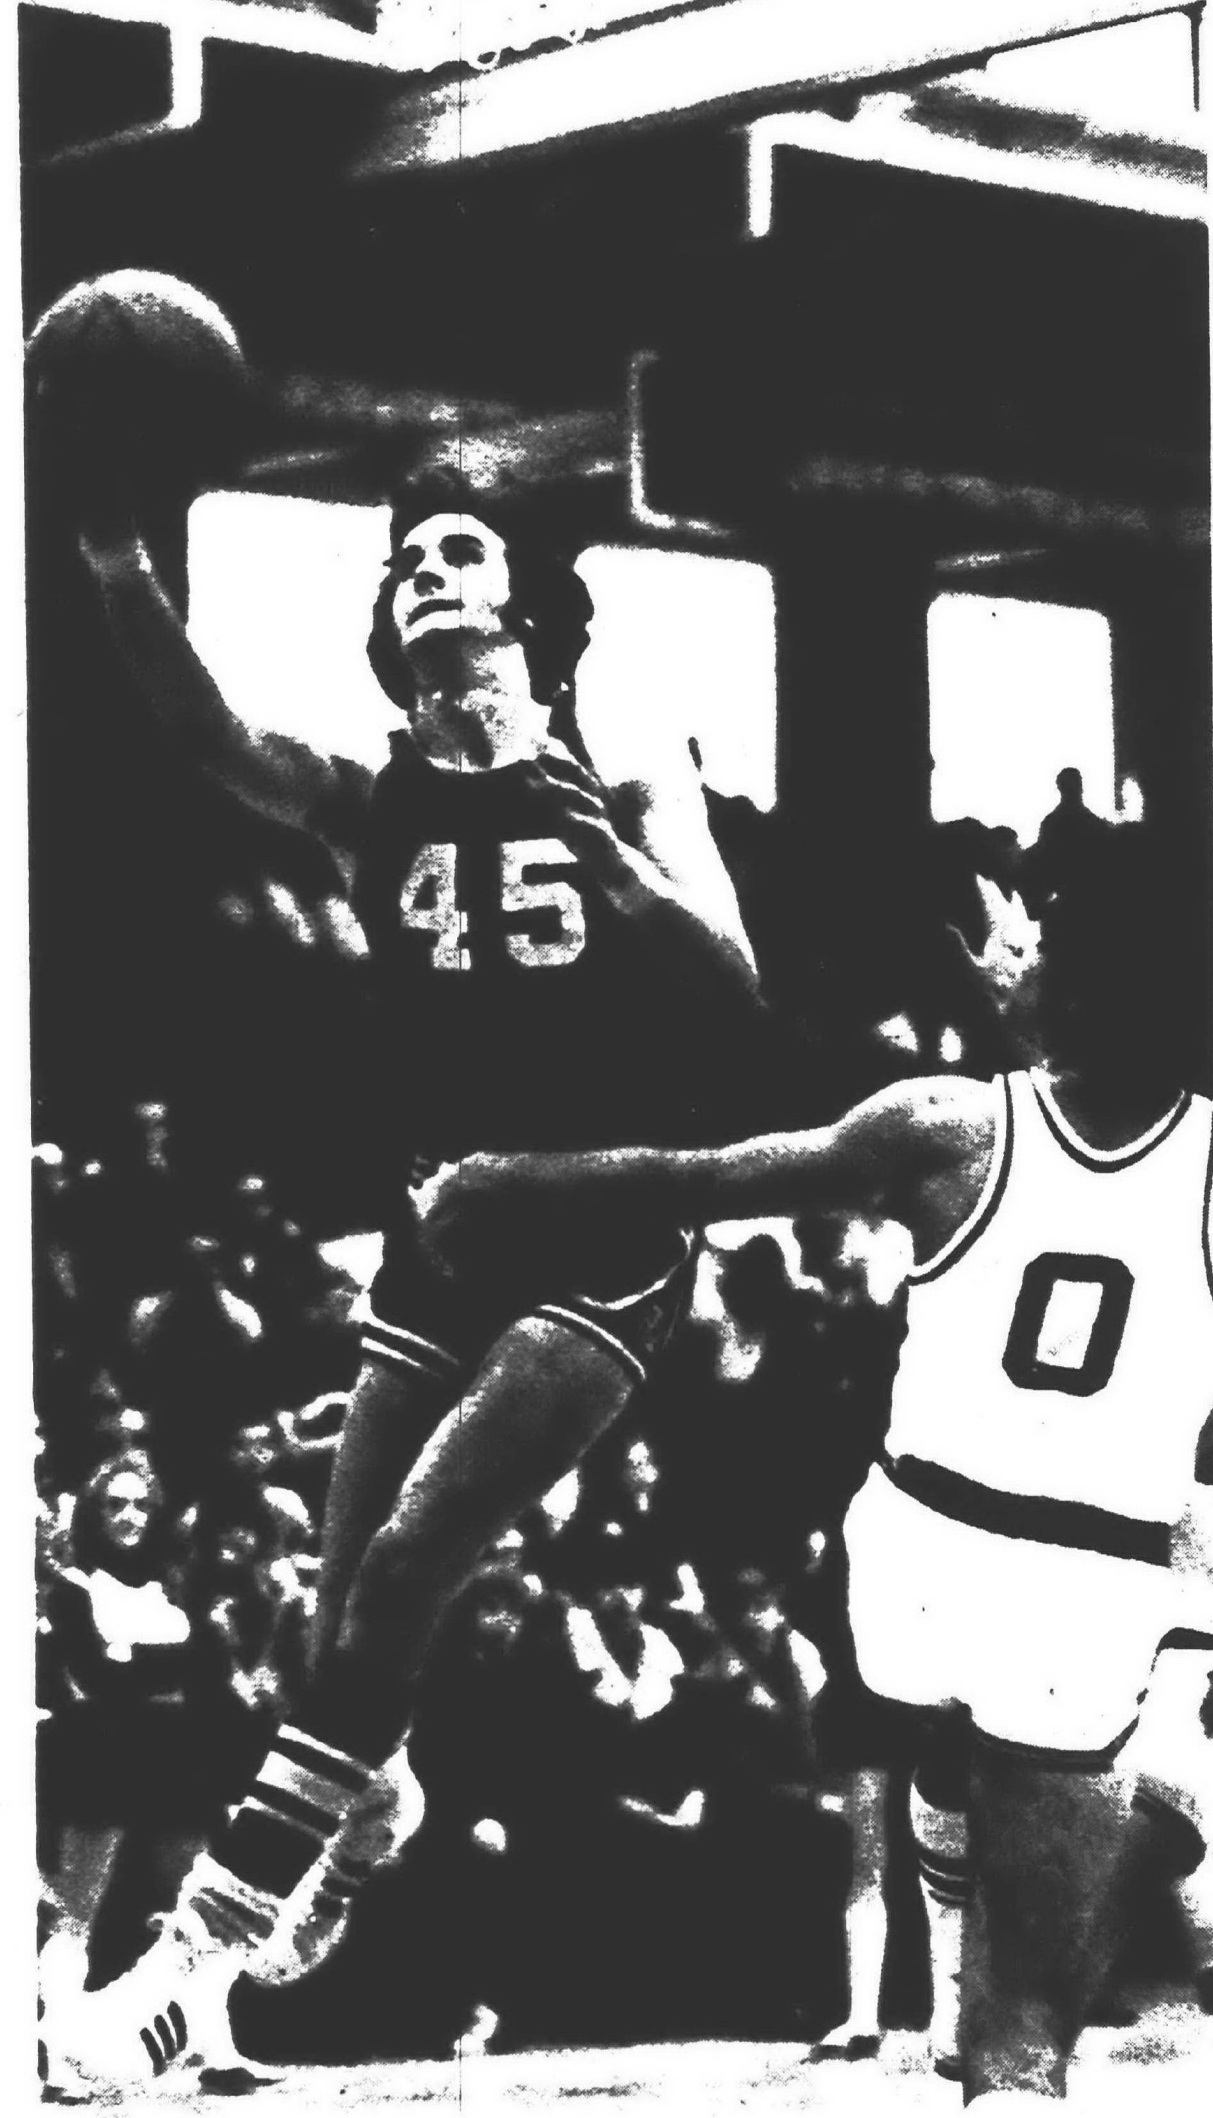

SOUTHFIELD INCREASED to eight points at the start of the third quarter, yet RU remained in the contest with four consecutive tosses at the charity line.

The Panther sparkplug Bob Schaner was on the bench during the quarter due to foul trouble but returned to the court with 1:37 left in the third. At that time it was 51-48 in favor of Southfield, which was hurting because Mike Klaiman was out on fouls.

"When I put Schaner back in, it was like lighting a fuse," added Andrews. "We got nine points in that minute and a half and Southfield mustered only one."

The third quarter ended with RU up, 57-52, and Southfield had just run out of gas. The Panthers went on to outscore Southfield in the final quarter, 26 to 18, and capture the first RU district trophy.

"I felt like I was on cloud nine," said Andrews after accepting the trophy. "We have the momentum and the kids have the confidence in themselves."

Rebounding told the story of the game ... the first half saw RU with a 26-18 advantage, and the Panthers really went to the boards in the second half, outrebounding Southfield, 42-8.

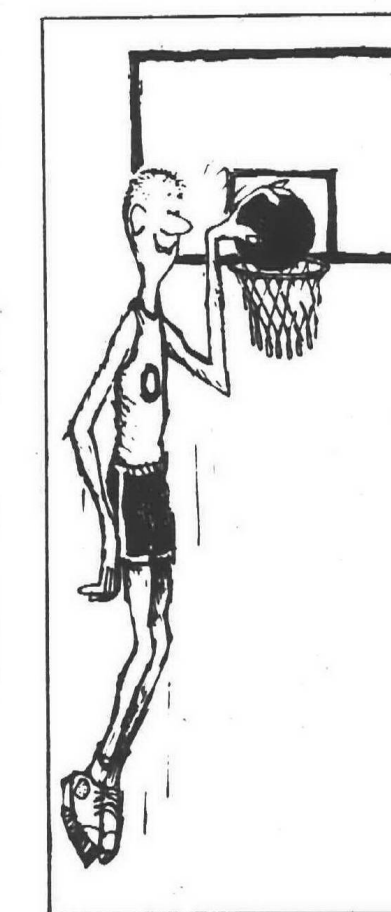

Kenney led RU with 28 rebounds, Jerry Petsch followed with 14 and Schaner added 12.

popularly know as the "sit-back" technique.

SEVERAL YEARS ago, before the name Killy became a household word (to skiers, that is), Marty was working on his technique which "whooshed" you out of a turn by sitting back on your skis. And this before they developed the boot with the forward lean.

Needless to say it caused a few chuckles with the purists and downright chagrin with the ski instructors. Along came Killy and the French team and now all the hot-shot racers are skiing that way.

Sooner or later we all reach a plateau. We have taken lessons for years and have been working on parallel for the past two years and just haven't made any progress. But we have developed a style of our own.

How many times have you stood at the bottom of a run and tried to pick out your wife, son, daughter, friend from a group of skiers?

It's impossible to recognize them from their clothes, unless they are wearing something that really sets them apart. But we do recognize their style -- the way they make their turn, or carry their poles, or fall down -- it is their trade mark, their logo.

I can spot my wife on any hill just from the long traverses she makes, or my son from the beautiful form he has and the fluid moves. I've given up on improving my skill.

My concern, depending on where I'm skiing, is fun and survival. I seldom fall (I'm afraid to!) my sons tell me it's because I'm not learning anything new.

They are right. One gets to a stage in life where one feels comfortable and does not need the challenges of hurtling down a headwall. I'm at that stage.

Finish At 12-6

Country Day Falls, 67-61

Country Day blitzed highly rated Pontiac Catholic in the first round of the cage districts but fell in semifinal action to Goodrich, 67-61.

The Yellowjackets continued a five game win streak with a 62-55 victory over Pontiac Catholic. Pontiac went up after one quarter, 14-10, and led at the half, 27-23.

Country Day went to work in the third quarter and outscored Pontiac, 20 to 10, to take a 43-37 advantage into the final stanza.

The margin increased to 10 points early in the quarter but the tide quickly changed in a matter of 55 seconds ... Pontiac popped in 10 straight points to knot the score at 53-53.

Each side traded buckets and with 1:40 remaining, Terry Zankas found Randy Field open under the basket for the go-ahead score. Field continued his scoring assault, hitting for the last eight points, and Country Day found itself in the semifinals with Goodrich.

Scott Freebairn led Country Day with 18 points, followed by Zankas with 11 and Field 11. Todd Rich and Dave Merritt paced the Yellowjackets in rebounding with 13 and 11 respectively.

Glen Boyer headed Pontiac with a 16 point output.

Devaney, Kush Top Grid Clinic List

The No. one and two college football coaches in the United States, in terms of win and loss records, will be featured speakers to approximately 1200 Michigan and midwest states college, high school and junior high coaches attending the 12th annual Motor City football clinic in the community building of St. Mary's of Redford High School in Detroit.

Walt Bazylewicz, clinic director, announced Bob Devaney, coach of the national champion University of Nebraska team, and Frank Kush, the Western Conference Arizona State University title holders, will be among 11 leading college and high school mentors participating on clinic staff.

Devaney and his Nebraska Cornhuskers captured national championships in 1970-71. Devaney's team won the Big Eight conference title seven times in the last nine years, making bowl appearances eight times in a 10 year span.

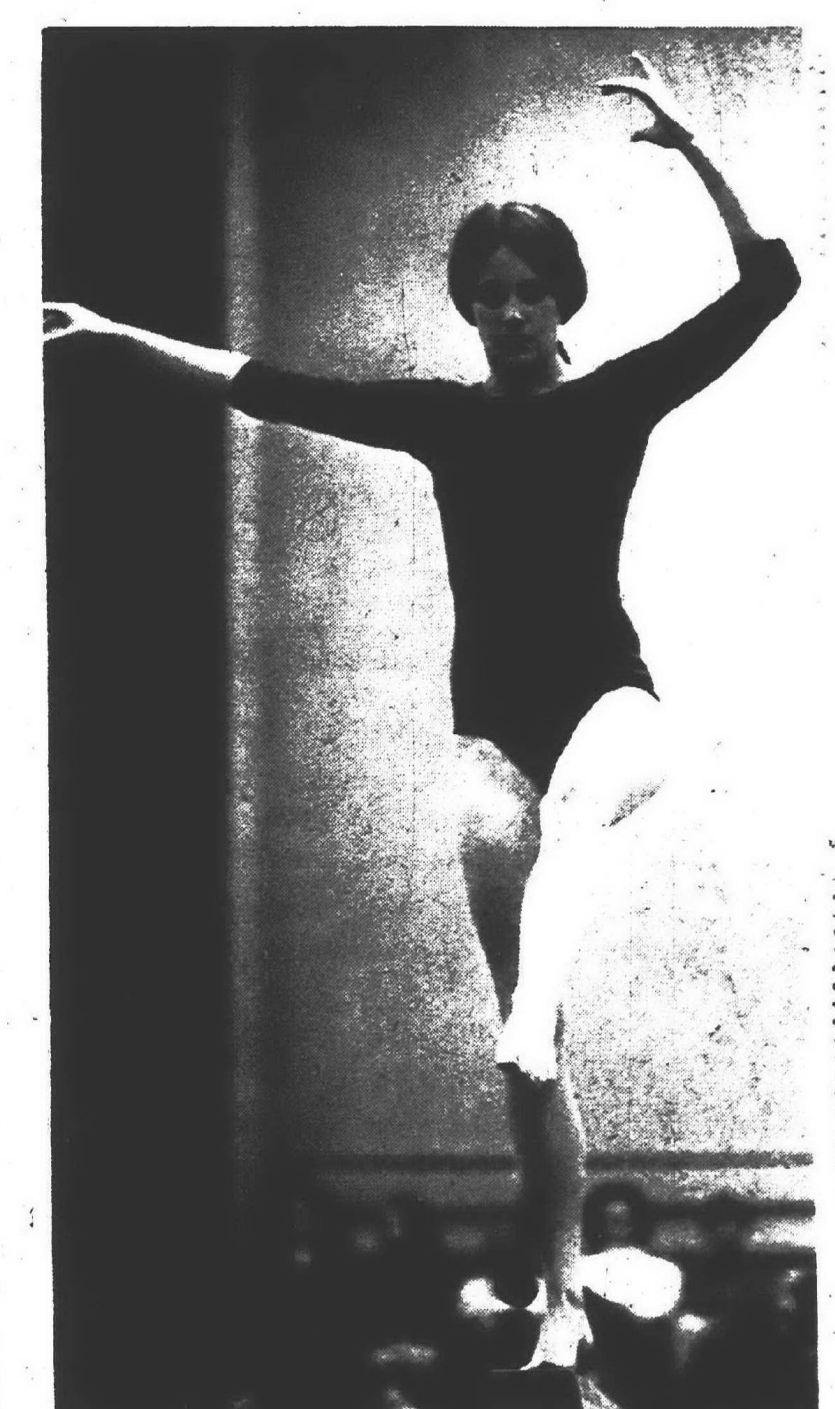

His record now stands 128 wins, 28 losses, and six ties for a .790 percent.

Kush, a former Michigan State All American and assistant coach, has a winning record of 111-30-1 for a .782 percentage.

Also on the clinic staff will be John Majors, of Iowa State, and Cal Stoll, new head coach at Minnesota.

Other coaches are: Chuck Knox, offense line coach, Detroit Lions; Tom Cecchini, new head coach at Xavier University, along with prep coaches Charles Justice, Fordson High School, Class A State Champions; Al Fracassa of Brother Rice, Detroit Catholic League co-champions, and Dar Christianson, Flint Southwestern, Saginaw Valley champions.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

It was during the closing weeks of Hazel Park's thoroughbred meeting which ended on Dec. 18 that racegoers began to talk about the riding feats of blonde Mary Bacon.

The tiny Mom had a way of getting her mounts home first in the shorter races, generally hustling to the front and keeping the horse going all the way.

Mary was around for the start of this year's winter meeting on Feb. 26 and had a few firsts but it was her ex-husband Johnny who was stealing the headlines with his brilliant performances under anything but good racing conditions.

Then Mary ran into a suspension at about the same time she decided to take off for Latonia, a track located just across the Ohio River from Cincinnati, in Kentucky.

It can be said that few missed Mary ... the other side of the Bacon family has been hotter than a firecracker during the past few days, winning four races Saturday and three Monday.

That put him well in front in the race for jockey honors and judging from the way he handles horseflesh in heavy, muddy going, he'll be in the lead for the remainder of the 42-day winter season.

THE HAZEL PARK management isn't complaining about the inclement weather since business has been very good ... everything considered.

After the first seven days, the biggest winner was the state of Michigan which collected $354,389 as its share of the mutual handle. That isn't exactly peanuts when one considers the business climate in the area at this particular time.

The horsemen picked up $130,150 during the period and the early opening of the track gave more than 1,000 work at a time when they would have been collecting unemployment checks.

So, one can't say that winter racing isn't working out. There may be some problems but in the overall picture, there'll be racing in the snow and sleet for many years to come.

And you can bet that things will get better each year. Track officials are making plans now to correct obvious goofs ... things that only experience will bring out.

THE CITY of Northville isn't about to complain about additional racing dates during the winter. It will soon receive $67,476.24 as its share of the state-collected tax on the mutual handle.

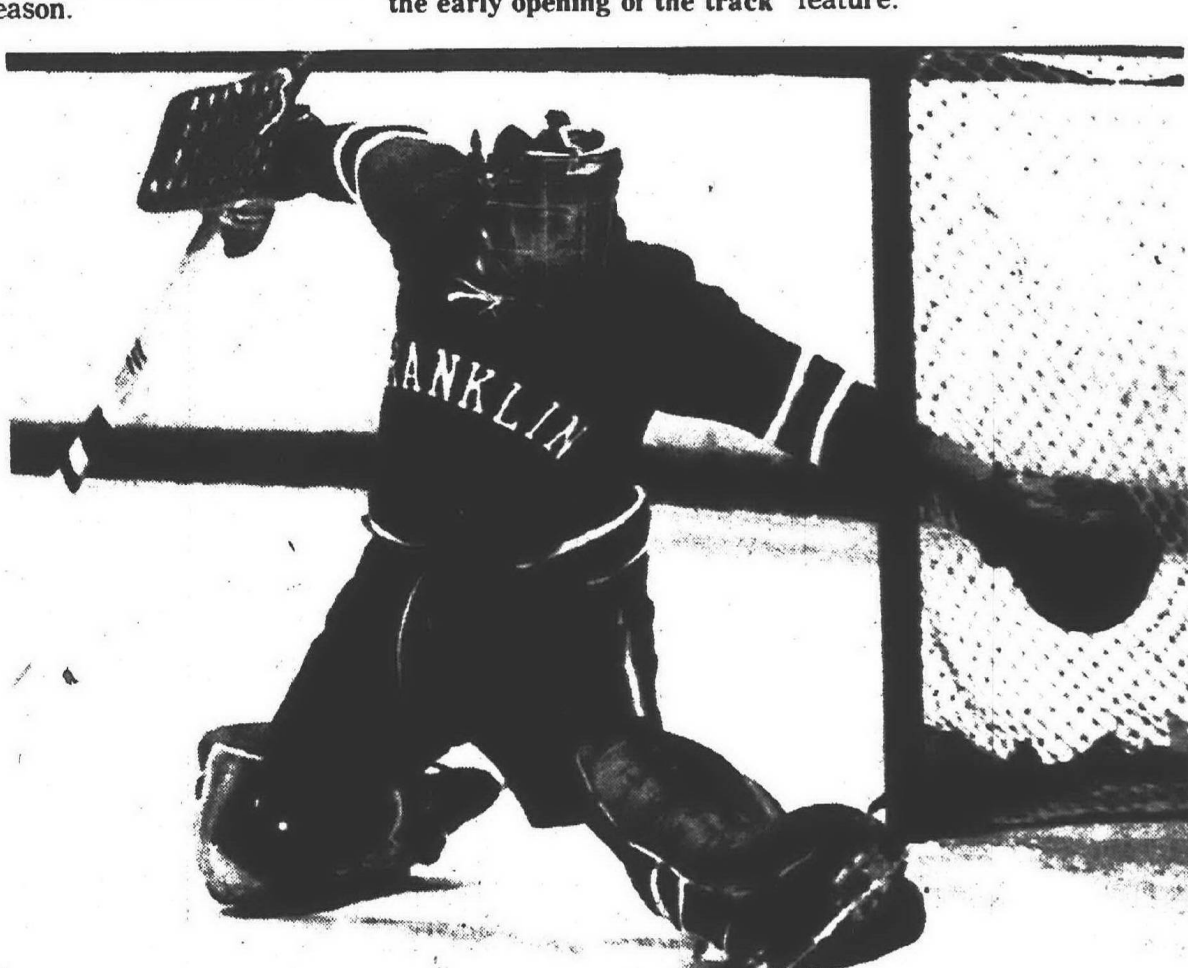

That covers only the period of Jan. 1 through Jan. 29 when the Jackson - Northville meeting was in progress.

The city has received $255,713.69 from the race track operations since the beginning of the fiscal year in June 1971.

Additional revenue will be received from the operation of the current Northville Downs meeting which ends on March 15, the 'Downs summer meeting and the fall and early winter session awarded for Jackson - Northville.

Under the existing racing act, the city can't collect more than $700,000 (ceiling provided in the law) but from all indications the take could go as high as $400,000 with the additional nights allotted for racing in Northville.

WINDSOR Raceway is making plans for the biggest closing day in Ontario history on Sunday, March 19. Seems rather strange to say closing day when most of the harness racing is at night but Windsor decided to close on a Sunday afternoon with the $50,000 Provincial Cup pace as the feature.

Flowers $20 Million Industry In Michigan

EAST LANSING
Michigan can boast of a $20 million flower industry.

About 500 growers produce about 3.5 per cent of all the flowers grown commercially in the U.S., reports Will Carlson, Michigan State University horticulturist.

Bedding plants account for the biggest share of the total, about $7 million.

"The bedding plant industry has been skyrocketing with sales and production more than doubling in each of the last three decades," says Carlson. "Michigan now produces 10 per cent of all the bedding plants grown in the United States."

A breakdown of the rest of the Michigan flower industry looks like this: outdoor flowers, $3 million; roses, $2 million; chrysanthemums, $1.7 million; perennials, $1.5 million; poinsettias, $1 million; geraniums, $1.5 million; azaleas, hydrangeas, etc., $1 million; foliage plants, $500,000; lilies, $500,000; and gladioli, $300,000.

And the flower market potential in Michigan is great, says Carlson.

IN A RECENT MSU study of 617 Michigan consumers, 98 per cent said they had a place to plant flowers where they lived and 78 per cent reported "yes" when asked, "Did you or someone in your family buy any bedding plants within the last 12 months?"

The study also showed that ladies account for most of the purchases (59 per cent) or at least go along with their husbands to buy a bedding plant (another 35 per cent). More than half reported they spend more than $5 a year on bedding plants.

Most had suggestions for improving the flowers they bought: better container design, better information on care, wider selection, lower prices, more durable plants, etc.

Carlson says these suggestions are being followed by MSU researchers as they attempt to produce "ideal" flowers.

Plan in Remodeling

IF YOU'VE been thinking about remodeling your attic and wondering where to start, you may write for a free plan which gives the basics plus such extra ideas as:

Storage couch, blanket and pillow storage drawers, window ventilator, built-in corner work center, and stair screen made of Peg-Board brand panels.

Complete directions on basic planning and built-in construction are included.

For a copy of free plan AE-408, send a postcard to the Masonite Home Service Bureau, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690.

from a good polish job say horticulturists at Michigan State University. They recommend using plant polishes or rinsing the foliage with warm water.

Plant polishes are common items in garden stores and florist shops and can be applied with a soft cloth to impart a gloss to foliage and flowering plants. Before the polish is applied, the experts recommend watering the plant well and removing dust by wiping the foliage with a soft damp cloth.

To get rid of water spots, the horticulturists suggest using a mild detergent in the water and dipping the foliage. This should be followed with a clear water rinse to remove the detergent.

Milk and oil are not recommended because they clog the pores of the leaves and act as dust catchers.

Hairy leaved plants, like African violets and gloxinias, should be brushed with a camel hair brush to remove the dust and then rinsed with warm water.

The Green Thumb
By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Pruning Shrubs: Few things are more baffling to the home gardener than the subject of trimming ornamental plants.

Let's take the mystery out by saying there's no mystery to it. Just remember this: spring flowering shrubs are usually pruned right after they flower. This includes deutzia, azalea, lilac (syringa), Siberian peashrub (caragana), honeysuckle (Lonicera), spirea (spring flowering types), beautybush (Kolkwitzia), and mock orange, to name a few.

Pruning consists of reaching in and symmetrically removing (thinning) of some of the older stems at ground level. Just reach in and cut them out. DON'T whack off the top of a bush until it looks like a table top.

Summer flowering shrubs produce their flowers on current season's growth, so plants of this group should be pruned while dormant in winter to promote new growth which will flower that season. These shrubs can be pruned back by a combination of thinning out and heading back some of the growth.

NOTE: Some shrubs such as lilac, produce suckers around the base of the plant. You can cut out some of these suckers, as well as old wood inside the bush.

If your shrubs are in bad shape, you can go out now and trim them, regardless of their season of flowering. You may sacrifice blossoms for this year, but next year will bring plenty. Some shrubs are full of tangled wood and almost a hopeless mess.

Best way to handle these delinquents is to cut them back to within six or eight inches of the ground and let all new growth come along.

CRAB CACTUS make you crabby? We used to think that African violets brought us more mail than any other plant. Not so. Crab cactus does.

One reason why the plant does not bloom for the holidays is that this "cactus" is a native to the tropical forests of Brazil and Bolivia. You can't treat it like a prickly cactus found in dry, barren deserts. It grows in decaying organic matter high on the branches of trees.

There are two "crab" cactus - the Thanksgiving type and the Christmas type (two different plants). The Thanksgiving cactus flowers earlier and stays in bloom for the holidays. The true Christmas cactus starts to flower around Christmas. Culture for both is same.

NOTE: If either Thanksgiving or Christmas cacti are kept at temperatures much above 70 degrees, they flower poorly or not at all.

At temperatures between 60 and 70 degrees, flower buds will form if plants are exposed to short days in fall. The short days must be early in September and maintained until buds are well developed.

That means you must put the plants in a dark room each night from September until Thanksgiving. Lights during the evening, even from a street lamp, can delay flowering.

If the plant is kept between 50 and 55 degrees, it will develop flower buds, regardless of day length, but not many of us have rooms that cool.

A good soil mixture for the Christmas and Thanksgiving cactus is 50 per cent peat, 25 per cent garden soil, and 25 per cent sand. Bud drop can be due to high temperature, low light or plants need repotting.

How To Solve Bathroom Tie-Ups

Compartmentize your bathroom and make morning traffic problems a thing of the past. That's the advice of people who have completed a modernization project and are enjoying the convenience of a bathroom divided into sections by natural layout, sliding doors, or dividers of one sort or another.

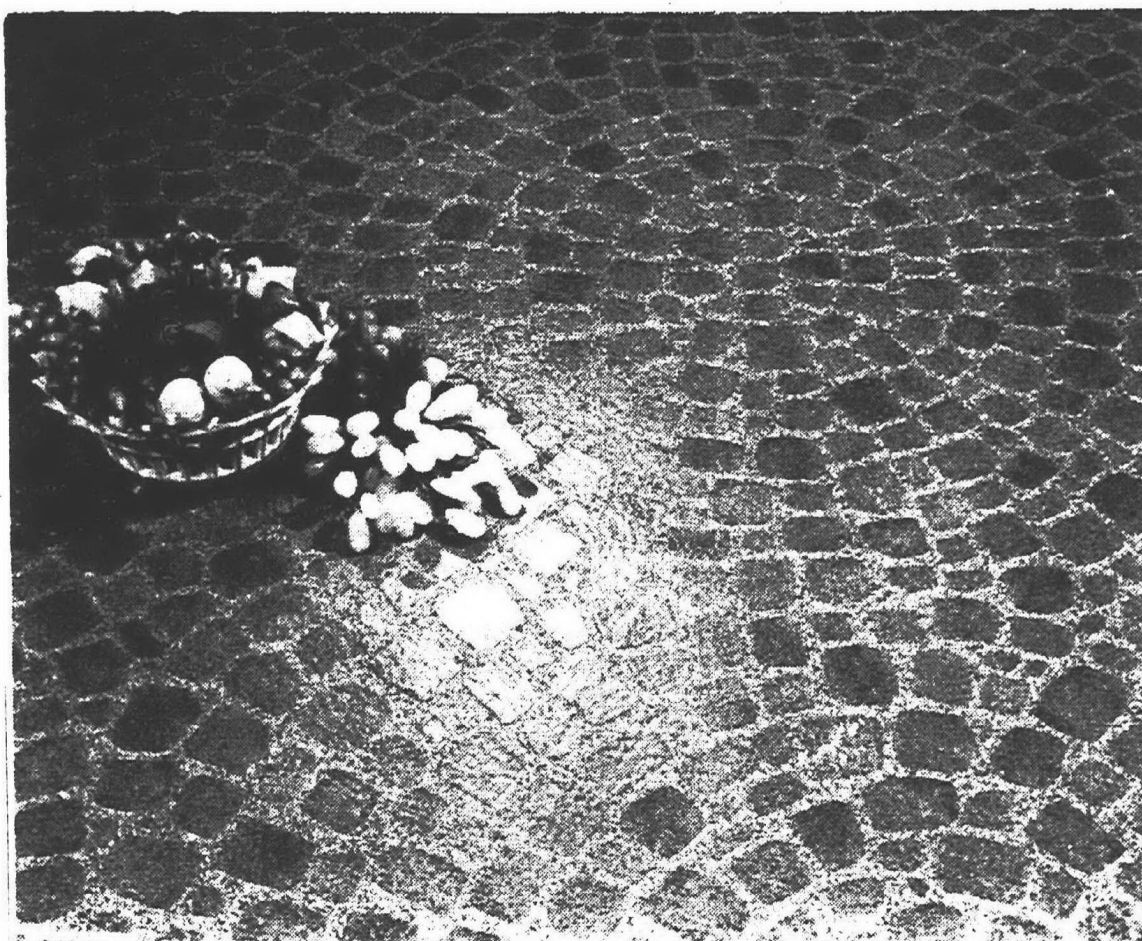

By providing separate areas for the tub-shower, toilet and lavatory wash bowls, more than one person can use the bathroom at one time. This is especially important in the morning, of course, in families with children of school age.

After drawing up a workable plan to compartmentize the bathroom with your building material dealer, be bold and indulge your secret desire for a colorful decor.

A practical paneling for bathrooms because of its resistance to heat and moisture is Marlite, which comes in a wide selection of modern colors, high-fidelity woodgrains and interesting patterns. Included are several eye-catching textured panels.

Marlite has a durable plastic surface, which resembles that on a refrigerator, and it is just as easy to clean. A damp-wiping will remove dirt and stains. The prefinished paneling never requires painting or refinishing.

STREETS OF VENICE inspire new floor effect. A new floor design reminiscent of the textured cobblestones of Venice's San Marco Square, is created in this patterned inlaid sheet vinyl floor appropriately called "San Marco." The Armstrong vinyl floor is available in five colors and is manufactured in six-foot widths.

Built-In Expands Dining Area

When the family is growing or guests are gathering, the dining area may require updating to handle expanded needs. A popular innovation is a wall-length, built-in buffet-storage cabinet.

Consolidating the serving and storage units opens floor space for extra seating, provides room for more linens, china, silver and serving pieces, and its counter top makes serving a large group relatively simple.

Built of smooth, close-grained western wood that easily takes any paint or stain, it may be finished to complement any decorating scheme.

Shelves added to the wall above display family treasures or collections for a warm, intimate accent to food and conversation.

Licenses Required To Sell 'Restricted Use' Pesticides

Applications for licensing examinations for dealers wishing to qualify to sell "restricted use" pesticides are now being accepted by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, according to B. Dale Ball, director.

Application forms should be requested through the MDA Plant Industry division, Lewis Cass building, Lansing, Michigan 48913.

The "restricted use" pesticide law, which became effective starting in 1972, requires any dealer handling such products to obtain a state license to be issued only after he has demonstrated, through written examination, his knowledge of the law and rules governing the sale of pesticides.

Products covered are those formulations determined after a public hearing to be serious hazards to man, warm-blooded animals and to the environment when applied under normal accepted conditions of use.

"AS ESTABLISHED in MDA Regulation No. 633," said Ball, "the person in charge of each sales location or outlet must obtain a license. It should be understood this applies only to those dealers who are interested in handling 'restricted use' pesticides.

"Out of an estimated 12,000 pesticide dealers," Ball continued, "we think only 300 to 400 will apply and qualify for the license to handle restricted use materials."

Complete instructions will be included with the application form. Copies of Michigan's Economic Poisons law and Regulation No. 633 are available from the department.

Written tests will be given at each of the six regional MDA offices. License fee for "restricted use" pesticide dealers is $50.

'Mod 24' Changeover Expected

Comparative test houses have proved that 24-inch spacing for studs, joists and rafters, instead of the traditional 16 inches, can save more than $200 on a two-story, 2,100 - square - foot home.

The NAHB Research Institute conducted a time and materials study on two houses, identical except for the spacing of framing, in an Oakland, Calif., subdivision, and completed its report in January.

Western wood wall and floor framing, installed with plywood, saved nearly $219 favoring 24 - inch spacing, including $164.25 on framing and $54.50 for reduced drywall and electrical work.

Lumber savings were substantial, but reduction in work time was even greater. Framing time was trimmed by more than 19 man - hours, or about 15 per cent, the home builder institute found.

The stage is well set for builder changeover to 24 - inch spacing; its elements are accepted by the major building codes and a growing list of local codes. The lumber industry is promoting the new "Mod 24" system with code enforcers and builders.

Stadium Plan Draws Local Dissent

With one Observerland commissioner opposed, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved a land acquisition to speed construction of a domed sports stadium on the Detroit riverfront.

The vote was 20 to 4. James McCartney of Westland favored the plan, John McCann of Livonia was opposed, and Richard Manning of Redford was out of town on other county business.

Under the plan, the Wayne County Stadium Authority will purchase 72 acres of property west of Cobo Hall. The stadium will be located on 37 acres. The authority hopes to sell the remaining property to private developers for related facilities.

MCCANN, WHOSE district covers Plymouth and Canton, gave two reasons for his negative vote.

"First, I am opposed to the five per cent tax on transient rooms at Wayne County hotels and motels, which is expected to bring in $2 million of the stadium revenue. It discriminates against the hotels and motels outside of the downtown area.

"Second, I am opposed to the 50-50 split agreement on the concessions while we must provide the help and have no control over the prices.

"The finance plan," he continued, "is based on the prospect of $1.85 in sales from each attendant at any of the activities, and I don't think that is realistic.

"Why should we get only a 50-50 split and have to provide the help, too?"

ON THE HOTEL-MOTEL tax, McCann stated that he agreed with Ralph Lorenz, owner of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, who entered the original complaint in writing, that the tax was discriminatory.

"What is true of the Mayflower Hotel," McCann stated, "is also true of the motels on Eight Mile Road just across the road from Oakland County.

"This five per cent may be their margin of profit and it would be unfair competition, especially since new establishments are being built in some of the areas."

THE TOTAL PURCHASE price is $15 million. The authority will buy $12 million worth and the City of Detroit will spend $3 million from Civic Center revenue bond proceeds for a portion of the 72 acres.

Detroit Common Council informally approved the city portion of the purchase plan March 3, with formal approval scheduled at the next weekly formal council meeting March 7.

Purchase of the property by the authority will permit sale of the $126-million revenue bond issue in April in order to take advantage of current low interest rates. The bonds are expected to be sold at 6 1/2 per cent interest or less, resulting in a savings of more than $40 million over the life of the bond issue.

Sale of the bonds originally was based on an interest rate of 7 1/2 per cent.

Purchase of the land by the authority will be accomplished without raising the amount of the bond issue by reducing the annual amount going into the stadium reserve fund from $1,757,000 to $1,480,000.

DEBATE AMONG the commissioners centered on a report by the County Board of Auditors that the lower reserve fund "is insufficient for a project of the magnitude of the stadium." However, the auditors' report also noted that sale of excess stadium land would add to the reserve and stated "the timing and probable proceeds from such sales would be critical in providing adequate reserves."

LOADING IN A DRIZZLE -- Gifts for Muskegon area Indians are loaded by truck driver Duke Brown and Bill Shively (on truck) and fed in by Mr. and Mrs. Doug Pierson, Darlene Shively and Livonian Hank Chruscial. (Observer photo)

Truckload Of Friendship

Nearly 1,000 Indian children received a truckload of gifts from Observerland one snowy-drizzly day last week. Clothing, toys, school supplies and food went to Indian children in Muskegon, Manistee, Mason, Oceana and Berrien counties under a project of the Indian affairs committee of the Western Wayne County Conservation Assn.

At the same time, Doug Pierson of Indian Enterprises announced that the Livonia man largely responsible for the collection would be given an honorary Indian name and adopted into the Ottawa tribe.

The ceremony for Hank Chruscial, 1945 Brentwood, is tentatively scheduled for July 1 in the Mason County fairgrounds, Ludington. His Indian name hasn't been selected yet.

The Chruscial said they will make another gift to Holy Childhood Indian Mission School at Harbor Springs later in March, in time for Easter.

Among last week's gifts were 58 boxes of new toys, 1,000 loose leaf notebooks, 20 boxes of shoes, 80 boxes of new clothes, 10 boxes of good used clothes, five boxes of shoes, 140 dolls, 20 doll carriages and strollers, six pinball machines, 68 cans of food (donated by a woman from Farmington) parts to complete 15 bicycles and two used cribs.

Among the donors were Montgomery Ward's Wonderland store, Shoppers Fair of Livonia, three area Marianne shops, and a major donor who wished to remain anonymous.

'Man No Longer Needs To Be Armed'

By GUY SNYDER
Special Writer

While 500,000 persons own unregistered handguns in Detroit, there have been no studies about the influx of crime from the central city into the suburbs caused by such weapons, according to Delore Ricard, an executive assistant to Detroit Police Commissioner John F. Nichols. Ricard spoke in place of Commissioner Nichols, who was home ill with influenza, at a recent gun control seminar at the Birmingham Temple in Farmington.

Observing that last year more than 58 per cent of Detroit's homicides and 57.3 per cent of its armed robberies were committed with unregistered handguns, Ricard said he had seen too many crimes committed by "a psycho and a $3 gun."

"MY STAND is based on 24 years as a police officer," Ricard told a group of about 30 at the temple. "I believe we have reached that period in civilization where man no longer needs to be armed."

Ricard said that most of Detroit's homicides were committed by black people against other black people, and in many cases the victims knew their murderers.

"The closer the relationship," Ricard said, "the greater the chance of homicide... Too often a gun is pulled out at a moment of passion, and then a murder is committed."

Ricard and Earl Teepees, supervisor of Farmington Township who also spoke to the group, urged support of the gun control bill sponsored in the U.S. Senate by Sen. Philip Hart (D-Mich.). The bill would prohibit the ownership of handguns except by policemen, security guards and members of the armed forces. Handguns presently owned would be purchased by the federal government at their "market value."

Hart's bill would also permit sportsmen to own handguns if they were used only for target practice and were stored at a club house in a locked vault.

ON THE RECENT gun moratorium called by the Wayne County prosecutor's Office which allowed citizens to turn in unregistered handguns, Ricard said that only 10,483 weapons were received and destroyed by local police departments; of these only 7,612 came from Detroit.

Though the right to bear arms is guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution, Ricard said that the gun laws presently on the books have set precedents for gun control.

"The 'rightists' saying that there should be no control of guns," Ricard said, "are a little out of date."

Citing a Gallup Poll taken after the Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King assassinations, Ricard said that 85 per cent of those polled at the time favored immediate gun control legislation, but all Congress did was pass the Gun Control Act of 1968 which banned the sale of firearms by private citizens from mail order gun houses.

RICARD STRESSED that the concept of owning a handgun for "protection" was more dangerous to innocent parties than to prowlers. He said that the easy access of a loaded gun has caused too many tragic accidents due to family arguments, careless gun handling, and children mistaking a weapon for a toy.

If strict gun control legislation were immediately enacted, Ricard said, the homicide rate probably wouldn't drop overnight.

According to Ricard, there are currently an estimated 25 million unregistered handguns in the U.S.

Attorney Debates Bishop

Amnesty: Strength Vs. Forgiveness

By CHARLOTT MAJZNER
Special Writer

Amnesty for draft evaders was the topic for a debate between Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, vicar for parishes of the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit, and Kenneth Haber, assistant U.S. district attorney, at St. Clare Catholic Church Lenten program.

Haber spoke against amnesty, stressing that he does not intend to reflect any policy of the Department of Justice whose function is to enforce the law.

"I am speaking here merely as an individual who has deep feelings," Haber told the Farmington parish.

HABER PRESENTED two questions on amnesty: (1) Should amnesty be granted to draft evaders? (2) should amnesty be granted to deserters?

"First and foremost, I feel amnesty is unfair to those who served in the armed forces, to those who served at Fort Wayne or Germany or to those in Vietnam. It is unfair to those who had convictions but went to fight; unfair to those who love their country and did not leave it," stated Haber.

"Those who left," continued Haber, "did not have conviction in their beliefs nor feel that their country was worthwhile fighting for to remain. These are the ones asking for amnesty."

Haber pointed out that the volunteer army is presently in an experimental stage and that years from now there could be another war where a volunteer army would not be able to supply all the forces needed.

"World peace depends on strength," stated Haber.

He doubted that if war broke out years from now young men would submit to the army. All they would have to do is go to Canada or Sweden and sit out the war.

"I feel that we cannot grant amnesty to an individual who has left his country for a lack of sincerity, commitment and love of country," said Haber.

"Those who left did not . . . feel their country was worthwhile fighting for. These are the ones asking for amnesty."

Atty. Kenneth Haber

BISHOP GUMBLETON, a defender of conscientious objection, pointed out his aim of speaking on the policy of the church which he represents. He said he wishes to proclaim the Gospel message which he is ordained to preach and which at its very core lies reconciliation and forgiveness.

"Every day when I celebrate the Eucharist, I proclaim that God has granted forgiveness to men and calls out to us to forgive and love," said the Bishop.

He stated that the country has been torn apart too long by much hostility, anger and violence.

"All of us must set as a highest priority the effort to be reconciled with one another and to forgive one another," stressed the bishop.

Gumbleton said those who have reached the conclusion that the war is immoral should be ready to forgive conscientious objectors. Those who think the war is necessary have a responsibility to try to understand the moral position of those opposing the war and refusing to fight in it.

"Only when we come to a reconciliation that we can hope for America to be united again," said the bishop.

BISHOP GUMBLETON continued to stress that a Christian person may not participate in a war until he proves that his participation is justified.

"War must be fought within just means, and it must be fought for just reasons," said the bishop.

He asked the audience to consider the great dilemma of a young person who comes to the conclusion that the war is gravely immoral and then must submit to the draft. In this case, the person must either go against his conscience or face jail or exile.

"As Christians, we must obey a higher authority than the government. We believe in the freedom and right of following our conscience. It is no easy thing to face jail. These men are paying a heavy price," said Bishop Gumbleton.

The bishop said that these men are not out to destroy our country, but rather are paying a service to it. Forgiveness should not even be considered but gratitude expressed to them for opening our sensitivity to the war.

"We should have the spirit of reconciliation, peace and forgiveness by welcoming these young people in our midst," concluded Bishop Gumbleton.

HABER OFFERED a rebuttal emphasizing that war is never just, but at times only necessary. He said war is immoral and irrational, and until we evolve into a higher form of social development, war must be fought.

"You can never give it a moral aroma. You can never take a decayed piece of life and flower it up to make it sweet," said Haber.

Haber stated that forgiveness is not an element in the argument. The value of freedom of conscience depends on the price paid for it. He stressed the importance of depth of conviction.

Bishop Gumbleton replied that he was not using the term "war is justified" the same way as Haber, and he did not think that we can wait for any further evolution of society.

He stated that the weapons which society now has are very dangerous and destructive. He asked the audience to heed the moral sensitivity that young people have taught.

The bishop agreed with

Haber that valuable things have a high price, but he asked if our men in jail are not paying the cost.

"This is a terrible price," said Bishop Gumbleton. "It seems unfair that we must ask our young people to pay such a horrible price for freedom of conscience. I don't think we will safeguard freedom of conscience unless our government shows sensitivity to these people."

The bishop then quoted the late President Kennedy: "War will exist until the conscientious objector will receive the same prestige and respect as today's warrior."

IN A QUESTION-answer session that followed, Haber was asked how many of those resisting induction were prosecuted and how are they selected. Haber replied that he did not know, but they are selected by reviewing the draft files.

Terry Jolly, assistant U.S. attorney and Haber's colleague, added that the less education a person has, the more likely he is to go into the service.

The bishop was told that he gave the impression that all draft evaders and deserters are sweet, as if "we are drafting from the seminaries," and it could not be believed there are 50,000 moral, Christian people out of the country seeking amnesty. "I don't believe this either," replied the bishop, "but we ought to examine if our young people today are as immoral as you suggest. Maybe the quickest way we can rebuild a moral America is to be humiliated, pull out of the war and start over."

The bishop suggested that complete amnesty might be the best way to rebuild a moral America.

ANOTHER QUESTION to the bishop: "You failed to mention the 50,000 dead in Vietnam. Have you gotten your priorities mixed up?"

"Anyone who has experienced a loss," replied the bishop, "has suffered. We must sympathize with them, but our harsh treatment of conscientious objectors will not ease the pain of these."

Haber was asked if the country were breaking the law for fighting the war and if there is freedom when it is against the law for a man to follow his conscience.

"As far as any international law broken, there is no universal international legislative body," said Haber. He continued by pointing out a distinction between morality and legality.

"If you feel something is immoral," said Haber, "then you should petition to change that law, but if everyone had moral sanction to break any law they thought immoral, then we would live in fear."

"I think we want to uphold the premise that laws on the books are to be upheld," added Bishop Gumbleton.

"But if so, many of our best people are reaching the conclusion that a particular law is unjust, we should examine that law immediately."

THE BISHOP was asked to explain when a moral law became immoral.

The bishop, using war as an example, stated that this would depend on two conditions; (1) When immoral and unjust means are used to perpetrate the war; and (2) when the good hoped to be achieved is outweighed by the evil.

"It is on this premise that the American bishops have reached the conclusion that this war is immoral," concluded Bishop Gumbleton.

Beer Adds A Delicate Flavor

By ELLY

Beer has long been a classic ingredient in cooking. Used in the place of water as the simmering liquid, it brings out all the richness of meat and vegetables. The alcohol evaporates in the cooking process, leaving only the delicate flavors of hops, malt and herbs.

One of the best beef stews we've ever eaten was made with beer and now from the U.S. Brewers Association comes a new soufflé recipe with beer as one of the ingredients.

SOUFFLÉS, those culinary masterpieces of classic French cooking, have a reputation that sometimes makes the "average cook" shy away from them.

Let's look at the soufflé as simply a dramatic way to serve scrambled eggs. It's a little harder than scrambled eggs, but not much, and a soufflé is much more impressive.

THE SECRET is having all the ingredients at room temperature before you start. Any baking dish or casserole is suitable for a soufflé. It should be filled to an inch from the top.

Perfect soufflés should be soft and creamy on the inside and a deep brown on the outside.

If you are worried about "collapses," try cutting a two-inch slash in the crust on each side when it just starts to rise. Opening the oven doesn't hurt a beer soufflé.

BEER SOUFFLE
1 (12-ounce) can or bottle beer
1/3 c. diced onions
1/3 c. sliced scallion greens
1/4 t. salt
6 eggs, separated
6 T. all-purpose flour
1/2 t. cornstarch
1/4 t. sugar
Dash cayenne
6 T. softened butter

Take out all ingredients and leave until all reach room temperature. Pour beer into a large saucepan. Add onions, scallion greens and salt. Bring beer to a boil and cook onions until tender, about five minutes. In a separate bowl, beat egg yolks until creamy. Mix flour with cornstarch, sugar and cayenne and gradually beat into egg yolks. Add softened butter and beat until mixture is smooth and the consistency of thick paste. Remove beer from heat and cool slightly. Add half the hot beer to the yolk mixture, stirring well to keep smooth. Stir yolks into remaining beer. Return to heat and bring just to a boil, stirring constantly. Mixture will be the consistency of thick custard and can be stored in the refrigerator at this point. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add beaten whites to hot yolk mixture, folding slowly until whites are thoroughly mixed. Butter bottom and sides of a 1 1/2 quart oven dish and dust all over with flour. Pour in soufflé mixture until one inch from the top. Bake in a preheated oven at 400 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves four.

VARIATIONS: Reduce onions by half and add one-third cup of any of the following to the hot custard mixture: grated cheddar or parmesan cheese, chopped tomatoes, chopped herring, chopped eggplant, flaked tuna fish, diced cooked ham or two chopped anchovies.

PARTY CHEESE SPREAD
1 pkg. cream cheese (8 ounces)
3 T. sour cream
1/2 c. butter
1/4 c. beer
1 T. prepared mustard
1 t. paprika
1 t. caraway seed
1 t. caraway seed
1 t. capers
1 T. chives or onions

Combine cream cheese, sour cream and butter. When at room temperature, blend with other ingredients. Can use electric blender. Place in crock or container with a top.

If you add just half the beer, it will be like a pate; the amount in the recipe above will make it turn out like a spread; double the beer, and it can be a dip. It tastes even better if you can make it a couple of days before you plan to use it. For a more festive appearance you can add a few drops of vegetable coloring. Make it red for Christmas or green for St. Patrick's Day etc.

OBSERVATION POINT

Southfield Schools Nature Center Deserves Praise

Driving around this area yesterday caught me up short: construction, after a long period of recession, is really booming.

There are new developments going up all over. They're building in Volk's Woods in northwest Livonia, and that nice field to the west of Plymouth on Ann Arbor Road is now becoming a big subdivision.

Southfield is on the move, and they haven't even started doing much in the "silver triangle," south of 12 Mile Road and west of Telegraph, which will be in time one of the biggest developments in the entire state.

They're still working away at the Schoolcraft expressway in Redford Township, Livonia, and Plymouth, and Farmington City Council is again thinking about paving Drake Road.

Westland seems to be an apartment builder's dream, and the folks in Canton Township are looking for population to double in the next 10 years.

BUT THE IRON law of progress holds that where there is development, there is loss of nature. Of fields and forests. Of wildlife and nature.

So if people are arguing that if we are to save our natural resources for generations yet to come, we've got to stop or at least hold back the pace of development and industrialization. This may be so, but I suspect that isn't going to happen for a while -- at least until a lot of people get so fed up with the kind of "progress" that our society is making to consider seriously some alternative courses of action.

In the meantime, it's pretty much got to be a holding action to save what's left of our natural resources, at least here in the suburbs where the pace of development is so rapid.

It's in that context that a story in the weekend edition of The Southfield News & Observer is so important.

That seems like a simple kind of thing. Cute, maybe, but kind of standard for a news story.

What was important is the fact that the Southfield school system owns a 17-acre tract, in the middle of the silver triangle. They're going to keep that 17 acres as a wilderness area and nature center, to be used by the kids in the schools.

Before the spring thaw, they're going to have a bus stop and turnaround, as well as a 10-foot wide nature trail there.

"Most nature centers say, 'You can look but don't touch,'" explained James Lahde, who presented the proposal to the board. "This nature center will be a laboratory where kids can actually carry on projects."

THE SOUTHFIELD nature center is a great idea, and deserves congratulation and support.

But further, it deserves attention from school and local government leaders throughout the suburbs.

The Southfield idea is a direct way to dealing with the pressures of development in such a way as to preserve natural areas for our children but simultaneously to pay respect to the needs of the entire area for development.

It's not a new idea, but it is under way.

It sure is nice to see something actually happening about our environment, rather than just lots of talk.

'CONCRETE' PROOF THAT SOUTHFIELD HAS THIS RIGHT IDEA.

R. T. Thompson writes

'Secret' Meetings Slapped

From Genesee County comes a ruling by Circuit Court Judge Donald R. Freeman that may have an impact on the much discussed "executive" and "secret" meetings held by so many governmental units in Wayne County and particularly in the area we prefer to call Observerland.

Judge Freeman has ordered the Flint City Council to stop holding secret meetings from which the public and the press are barred.

The judge said, "It is the ruling of this court that all matters, all discussions that are held by members of the city council at a time and place where they have gathered at the request of the city manager or at their own initiative in which public issues are being discussed, affect and involve the public and should be open to the public.

"It is difficult to conceive how any hardship can be suffered by councilmen who are required to conduct business in public view. The issue is not limited to the right of the press to attend and report. On a broader note, it is the right of the public to know everything about that which is theirs."

THE GENESSEE COUNTY suit was filed by the Flint Journal against the city's mayor and seven of the eight councilmen shortly after the city manager called the council together for a discussion of the possibility of closed sessions. The city manager, at that time, said he felt the pros and cons could best be discussed when the press was not present.

The first closed session was held Jan. 7, and the Journal filed suit Jan. 21 to halt the practice.

In his ruling, Judge Freeman indicated the decision can't be applied to all meetings. He cited the 1963 Michigan Constitution relating to "formal meetings" of state educational institutions. He pointed out the attorney general's office has ruled that in such cases, private or executive meetings, at which no business of the board is transacted, are not formal meetings.

So much for the decision, which we hope will result in a similar suit in Wayne County to bring governmental units in line.

TOO OFTEN the press has been told at meetings in Observerland that the board, commission or council has called an "executive" session and often the group goes, closing its doors to the press and the public.

In many instances these sessions continued until the group knew everyone had left, then reappeared to pick up the agenda where it had left off and pass several items in strict privacy. In many instances, none but the board or commission knew what had transpired until the official minutes were approved for publication six weeks to two months later.

These are the sort of incidents that leave the press and the public skeptical of the elected officials. There is a sort of feeling that the board was hiding something, that it was doing something it didn't want known and a general thought that it couldn't be trusted.

Such things as 7 a.m. meetings of boards of education to discuss such things as the firing of teachers or superintendents, or a matter of whether to ask for voters for additional millage. Most certainly the board members have been notified of such sessions, and probably notices have been posted for the benefit of the public -- but in obscure places and barely within the time required to call a special session.

Stars In Eyes Of 4 Schools

There's joy in four high schools in the seven communities covered by the Observer Newspapers ... their basketball teams are still in the thick of the battle for the 1972 state championships.

Players on the teams representing Livonia Bentley, Redford Union, Birmingham Brother Rice and Garden City East high schools deserve more than a little applause for their feats of the past week. Each passed tests in the district tournaments and entered action in the regionals.

The winners of this week's tournaments will be three games away from the much sought crown. By the end of the week, there will be only eight survivors in each of the four classes -- A, B, C and D.

IT IS A BIT unusual for four teams from one district to capture district titles. Observerland has done it this season, and that should make fans proud of the type of basketball played in these parts.

But the joy of today will turn into sadness before the end of the week for some of the Observerland hopefuls ... three of the quintets -- Bentley, Redford Union and East -- are in the same tourney from which can come only one winner.

There's a great deal of satisfaction to each student body that it can boast of a district champion. There's even more satisfaction for the players. That's why we take the opportunity to congratulate all of the players and all of the schools for the fine performances during the season and wish each luck in the tests ahead this week in the regionals.

We wish all could advance to the quarterfinals, or better, the round of eight, but we know that is impossible. So our hopes ride with Brother Rice in the Sterling Heights meet and that one of our three representatives makes it in the rough, tough Franklin regionals.

Sense And Nonsense

Someone at the University of Michigan has a malicious, delicious sense of humor. The U-M recently announced formation of a group to be called "Project on Population and Environment."

The acronym, of course, is "POPE."

Plymouth school officials don't realize it, but they've come up with a new use for Redford Township's coveted Glenhurst Golf Course.

After attending a meeting at Plymouth's new facilities, Bill Fleming, high school principal, commented at a recent RU board meeting:

"After seeing Plymouth's new high school, I think we should scrap what we have, buy Glenhurst and build a new high school."

Mayor Eugene McKinney of Westland must have other things on his mind when he drafted a press release last week for the Westland Civic Orchestra's March 19 concert.

McKinney, who came out the winner in a tough re-election campaign four months ago, was writing about the Rackham Choir, which will be accompanied by the new Westland civic orchestra.

McKinney called it a "150-vote" choir, instead of a 150 voice choir.

Tim Richard writes

Took Some Doing But Bill Finally Passed

Harry Truman used to say about some of his congressional enemies that they had to be "dragged, kicking and screaming, into the 20th century."

Well, in Lansing recently, 59 members of the House of Representatives dragged their colleagues into the 21st century, whether the colleagues liked it or not, by passing Gov. Milliken's transportation/transit package.

It had been defeated earlier on a 50-54 vote (with 56 needed for passage), and last week the majority was put together.

CREDIT SHOULD be given where it is due:

Reps. Marvin Stempien (D-Livonia) and Joseph Forbes (D-Oak Park) are two Observerland men who can usually be counted on to think about the next generation as well as the next election, even when a Republican governor proposes the bill.

Rep. James Defebaugh (R-Birmingham) was also for the bill and was joined by Rep. Raymond Baker (R-Farmington). Baker had been absent on the vote two weeks prior, and it was good to see him in the progressive column, giving one of the final six extra votes needed for passage.

What brought Baker around? Pressure from the governor? Political loyalty? Vision and foresight? No, it appeared he was impressed by the road benefits to his area of Oakland County. Whatever the motivation, the result was nevertheless laudable.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of Stempien, the Wayne County group representing Observerland was a disappointment.

Rep. Richard Young (D-Dearborn Heights), a conservative despite his party label, voted a consistent negative pattern.

Reps. John Bennett (D-Redford), James Tierney (D-Garden City) and Thomas H. Brown (D-Westland) were conveniently absent when the big vote was taken. They may as well be recorded in the "no" column because under Michigan's constitution it takes a majority of those elected (56 of 110) to pass a bill; besides, on the earlier vote they were all in the "no" column.

Bennett's performance is particularly annoying inasmuch as he introduces scads of bills, accompanied by press releases, in an effort to portray himself as a benefactor to mankind. But when the chips were down on a landmark piece of legislation, Bennett voted "no" the first time and was absent the second. Well, one should have expected as much from the man who opposed the open housing law, the income tax law and the boundary commission law and attempted to gut the age of majority law.

VOTING FOR a bill that included mass transit, even though it's an environmental necessity and a political inevitability, was still a gutsy thing to do. A number of lawmakers facing re-election fights were reportedly scared to go for it, and those who did may fully expect to get flak from the aginners and the hangers-on in the Flat Earth Society.

Michigan's House, with a bare three votes to spare, has kicked the auto state forward, and the local representatives who helped pass the transportation/transit bill deserve a double vote of thanks and applause:

Baker and Defebaugh, Stempien and Forbes.

Forbes and Stempien, Defebaugh and Baker.

Schools Favoring 'College Prep'

EDITOR:

Changes are needed in our present school system.

For too long the vocational training in our high schools has been pushed aside, both in terms of attention and money, in favor of the "college prep" curriculum. While it is true that everyone needs an education, four years of college are not a prerequisite for obtaining a well-paying job, and becoming a contributing member of society.

There will always be a need for human hands, minds and special talents, and within these boundaries lie a wide range of exploration of creativity and developing of talents that won't become obsolete.

In each community, it is the responsibility of the citizens, teachers, and school administrators to come together to improve our present school situation. Programs in vocational education should be instituted where students become prepared with an education that will make them continually trainable and employable to matter what the technological changes are in our society.

If we fail to help and devote more of our attention to the vocationally oriented students, education will just become another meaningless experience and more students will be left behind and unprepared for the outside world.

Newsletter Backfires

EDITOR:

I would like to award the Farmington public schools an F in communication skills. Upon receiving the Focus on Schools newsletter, I was able to re-read items that had been adequately covered previously in simple dittoed newsletters from the principal and PTA of our school.

I believe part of the reason for the newsletter at this time is to make a strong bid for millage support. I'm afraid that the added cost of the paper, printing, and postage will turn off more parents than the "message" it contains. It is an unnecessary expense and frill, as was the mailing of the June report cards last year, and will generate a negative attitude to the schools current financial plight.

During the parent conferences when parents filled out the questionnaires (at least those who had been communicated with that there was a questionnaire), lack of communication was listed as the prime problem. This communication was concerned with the academic standing of their children, their children's school and Farmington schools as compared to surrounding communities. I doubt if there was any burning interest in the menu for the PTA dinner or like "issues" contained in the newsletter.

The Farmington School District cannot continue to sidestep all relevant issues. They should learn a lesson from history: appeasement does not work.

Money Wasted On Newsletter

EDITOR:

The recent move by the Farmington school board to promote better understanding with the community has sickened me to such a degree that I feel writing you might convey how one taxpayer parent has been affected by their newsletter.

I can not for the life of me understand how the school board can afford to pay for the printing and mailing of such a letter, and included the facts in said letter that there isn't money for field trips, that the music, art and athletic programs had to be cut in half.

I take the whole matter as a gross insult to the entire community's intelligence and suggest they use the money spent on mailing these letters on education instead of on politicizing millage increases.

New Truck Lease Manager

John E. Nienhaus has been appointed truck leasing manager for Tennyson Car and Truck Rental Co., 32570 Plymouth Rd., Livonia.

Nienhaus joins the Tennyson staff after 18 years experience in the car and truck leasing field as manager of truck leasing with one of the nation's largest leasing corporations.

New Taste

A soy-whey milk has been developed by the University of Illinois Department of Food Science. It reportedly tastes like egg nog or a vanilla milk shake.

Kunstler Sets March 14 Talk

"The Limits of Liberty" will be discussed by civil rights attorney William Kunstler at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 14, in the Schoolcraft College gymnasium.

Advance tickets are on sale at the college at $1 for students and $2 for the general public. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Kunstler, who has been counsel to the Congress of Racial Equality and Dr. Martin Luther King, specializes in protecting the right of dissent and civil disobedience.

After graduating from Columbia Law School in 1949, he began a quiet career in a law firm with his brother. He also was an associate professor of law at New York Law School and instructor in the Judge Advocate General Corps.

HE WAS DRAWN OUT of the matrimonial and business cases into the civil rights movement when the American Civil Liberties Union asked him in 1961 to assist a black lawyer in defending five Freedom Riders in Jackson, Miss.

Since then his cases have reflected both passive non-violence and militance. He has defended Stokely Carmichael, H. Rap Brown and the Black Panthers and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and often does not accept fees for his services.

He gained fame in the Chicago Seven conspiracy trial which grew out of demonstrations in Chicago during the 1968 Democratic convention.

The highly-publicized "courtroom drama" resulted in Kunstler's sentencing on 24 counts of contempt of court. His sentence, totaling four years and 13 days, is being appealed.

KUNSTLER, WHO worked his way through law school by writing more than 500 book reviews for the New York Times and the now defunct Herald-Tribune, has contributed to all the leading law reviews. He has written several books including "The Minister and the Choir Singer - The Hall-Mills Murder Case."

The 52-year-old lawyer believes America is characterized by "creeping fascism" as evidenced by pleas for power to wire-tap telephones of anyone thought to be a "threat" to national interests.

He sees the '70s as a decade of resistance which will culminate in revolution if resistance fails.

Students To See Prexy Candidates

Presidential candidates Rep. Paul McCloskey (R-Calif.) and Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.) will be featured in video-tape interviews at Schoolcraft College on Tuesday, March 14.

Both candidates will be interviewed by young adults and presented at the college through a closed-circuit television series. Three televisions will be set up in Waterman Campus Center beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Those persons who want to see the one-hour interviews but also want to hear William Kunstler, civil rights attorney who is speaking the same night in the gymnasium, can see the first interview at 7:30 p.m. and return after Kunstler's talk for the second.

THE FILM series will continue through April 18 with interviews with all but three presidential candidates. It is co-sponsored by the District 30 Jaycees, Livonia League of Women Voters, Northville-Plymouth LWV, and SC student activities and community service offices.

Republican challenger McCloskey first gained prominence after defeating Shirley Temple Black for Congress in 1967. He is critical of administration policies in Vietnam and a strong advocate of environmental legislation.

Democratic candidate Hartke is a conservative and member of the committees on finance, commerce and post office and civil service.

On March 28, Sen. Harry ("Scoop") Jackson (D-Wash.) and New York Mayor John Lindsay will be featured.

Training Day For Teachers

Clarenceville School District will hold an in-service day on Wednesday, March 15. On this date, the staff will be working with resource personnel concerning the recently approved pilot program on drugs.

Students will be dismissed on that day as follows: High school, 11 a.m.; Grandview and Westbrook, 11:15 a.m.; Botsford and Edgewood, 11:35 a.m.; junior high, 12 noon.

Bennett Wins PH Promotion

Should Over-70 Folks Be Denied Public Office?

By CHARLOTTE MAJZNER AND KATHY MARTIN
Special Writers

State Sen. William Faust's proposal that the over-70 population in Michigan be prevented from holding public office stirred a split reaction among a number of area residents.

Four out of seven shoppers at Wonderland Shopping Center in Livonia favored Sen. Faust's proposed constitutional amendment while three were against it. At Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield, three were in favor and four opposed.

SOPHIE PITEK
'If He Qualifies ...'

MRS. GEORGIA Scappaticci of Garden City stated that the 70-year and older group has "lived in America longer and knows the country and issues in more depth."

"A person slows down at age 70," said Steve Stevens of Redford. "They don't even like you driving at that age."

Mrs. Sophie Pitek of Garden City said that if a person qualifies, there should be no reason he should not hold an office.

Agreeing with her was Anne Hutchinson, also of Garden City, who thought the individual should be taken into consideration.

"It depends on the person," she said. "Some over-70 citizens are alert and have a lot to offer."

TWO LIVONIA women, Mrs. Alice Paquette and Alperdine Pere, stated that although this group of citizens has lived a long time, they should not be allowed to hold an office to represent the general population.

However, Mrs. Geraldine Heintz of Livonia thought that if a 70-year-old had the ability, he should not be prevented from holding office.

"I don't care if they give an office to a younger person," said Morris Gold of Southfield, "but if they need someone for the job and there is no one else who qualifies except an older person, let him have it."

"They have been around a lot longer than the younger ones," said Marshall Winston of Southfield, "and if they are physically capable, there is no reason why not."

TED JOHNSTON of Southfield strongly agreed with Sen. Faust.

"I don't think that they should be allowed to hold office at that age because they are too far gone. The majority of them is not active enough to know what's going on. You can't just read about what's going on; you have to be active, too. They just don't think like the younger people," said Johnston.

"I think this is wrong," commented Ed Westerkamp of Redford. "There are people who can contribute a lot after they are 70."

A 79-year-old Redford man, wishing to remain unidentified, disagreed with the ability of an elderly person to hold such a position. He said he himself was not capable of holding an office.

Two Farmington residents wishing to remain anonymous also agreed with Sen. Faust.

"I don't think we need old people running our government when there are so many younger better qualified persons," said a young housewife.

"I think 70 is rather old," stated an elderly man. "Everybody else retires at that age. They should retire for health reasons."

OTHER SHOPPERS thought that 70-year-olds are too set in their ways, and should retire not only for health reasons, but also should give the young a chance.

However, many residents believed that older persons are better qualified because of the experience and knowledge behind them and it would be wrong to cancel them out because of their age.

No Shifts Seen In Senate Lineup

By KATHY MORAN

The seats held by Observerland's one Republican and three Democratic state senators should remain secure if the district boundaries suggested in the Hatcher-Kleiner plan are adopted.

The plan will make some drastic changes in senatorial boundaries but will keep the voter composition favorable to incumbents.

Because the Legislative Apportionment Commission was unable to agree on an apportionment plan, the State Supreme Court (which is heavily Democratic) is currently studying proposed plans.

The Democratic Hatcher-Kleiner plan is expected to be adopted because of the minor variances in populations for proposed districts. The plan only varies by 21 persons with the ideal population for each district set at 233,753.

SEN. CARL Pursell's (R-Plymouth) 14th District will be pared down from a large district encompassing urban and rural areas to one made up of Redford Township, Livonia, Plymouth City and Township, Northville Township, the south half of Northville City, and a corner of Westland.

Currently his district goes far north into Oakland County and only goes as far east in Wayne County as Livonia. The proposed district remains entirely in Wayne County.

Though he may be annexing heavily Democratic Redford, Pursell won his 1970 election with a 9,000 vote plurality over Paul Kadish of Livonia in Livonia, Plymouth and Northville.

Redford's vote for secretary of state, considered the key partisan office, went Democratic by 2,500 votes in the 1970 Richard Austin-Emil Lockwood race.

If Pursell maintains his strength, he should come out with enough Republican support to keep his seat.

In addition, the northeast corner of Westland that will be tacked onto his district is largely Republican.

THE COMPOSITION of Sen. William Faust's (D-Westland) 13th District will remain much the same though he will lose Huron Township and take in Sumpter Township and move westward into a portion of Washtenaw County. The portion of Washtenaw is Ypsilanti Township.

Sen. David Plawecki (D-Dearborn Heights) will keep a largely Democratic district under the plan.

Plawecki's 12th District will lose Redford Township but encompass all of Inkster, Dearborn Heights and Southgate and take in portions of Taylor and Allen Park.

THOUGH SEN. Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park) is looking hard at a congressional race, his district will remain favorable for reelection under the plan. The 15th District will lose some of the eastern areas it currently covers and will move west as far as Lyon and Milford Townships.

The eastern boundary will encompass Oak Park, Huntington Woods, and part of Royal Oak Township. Farmington City and Township will be included along with Southfield and Lathrup Village.

Voting records show that Democrats won 46,333 votes for Austin in 1970 while Republicans totaled 29,675 in the 16 areas that will be in new 15th District under the Hatcher-Kleiner plan. That gives Democrats a 16,000-vote advantage.

When Cooper was elected in 1970, he won by 30,000 votes over Republican Donald Black.

'Tuned-In' Voters Drive Set At SC

Schoolcraft College students and any other unregistered 18-year-olds in the area will find entertainment with a purpose at the "voter registration concert" this Friday night in the college's gym.

The concert's goal is to register hundreds of new voters, according to student spokesman Dennis Saltarelli. He said registrars from the following communities will be on hand to take registrations: Canton Township, Detroit, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Redford Township, Wayne, and Westland.

Four rock bands will provide music from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. They are "The Cat's Paw," "The Blackwood Drake," and "The First Century," all Livonia-based groups, and "The Up" from Ann Arbor.

A NUMBER of important people will make speaking appearances during the evening including Secretary of State Richard Austin; Wayne County Republican Committee Vice President Norma Lansky; Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara; and Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote.

Also speaking are Harvey Oshinsky, news coordinator for station WABX-FM, and John Sinclair, leader of the Rainbow People's Party.

An admission of 50 cents is being charged to defray expenses.

Co-op Nurseries Begin Roundup

The calendar may say it's time to think spring, but cooperative nurseries in Observerland would like to have parents think fall.

That's because these groups now are preparing their lists of members and making plans for their 1972-73 years.

A few have lists almost complete, but all are accepting new applications because experience has shown that vacancies often turn up in September.

COOPERATIVE NURSERIES are what the name implies -- organizations that require participation by all families involved. Tuition is lower than in regular nurseries and day care centers because mothers take turns assisting the trained teachers in charge of each session.

Most mothers have found the required two or three days a month required of them turns out to be a plus -- they can keep in closer touch with the nursery program and have a special time for their nursery school child.

Cooperative nursery school membership also requires attendance at regular meetings, usually monthly, at which the business of the nursery is transacted.

COOPERATION also extends into such areas as car pools and care of equipment, and fathers frequently get into the act with paint-up sessions and by repairing equipment. Nurseries accept children who will be three or four by Dec. 1, 1972, and most also accept five-year-olds who have not yet started kindergarten. Most separate the children by age; a few prefer not to do so.

THESE ARE the cooperative nursery schools serving Observerland families:

BULMAN NURSERY, INC. -- Has three classes, two for four-year-olds and one for three-year-olds. All meet twice a week in the John Knox house of St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Five Mile west of Inkster, Livonia. Call Mrs. Richard LaBurn, 17562 Rexwood, Livonia.

FAMILY LIFE NURSERY -- Has two classes, one for four-year-olds and one for three-year-olds. Both meet twice a week in North Congregation Church, Lahser and Northwestern Highway, Southfield. Call Mrs. John Ruff, 29634 Westbrook, Southfield.

FARMINGTON COOPERATIVE NURSERY -- This nursery meets now in the North Farmington Baptist Church, 13 Mile and Orchard Lake Road, but will move in the fall to Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church, 23615 Powers, Farmington. It has two classes, with three-year-olds meeting twice a week and four-year-olds three times a week. An open house for parents interested in membership is scheduled from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday, April 26, in North Farmington Baptist. Call Mrs. Fredrick Molner, 23021 Glenmore Heights, Farmington.

GARDEN CITY COOPERATIVE NURSERY, INC. -- Has four classes, all meeting twice a week in the Garden City Presbyterian Church, Middle Belt and Ford. Three-year-olds have one session, meeting in the morning, and four-year-olds are scheduled in one morning and two afternoon sessions. The nursery will hold an open house for parents only from 1 to 3 p.m. Monday, May 1, at the church. Call Mrs. Robert Marcotte, 6829 Mansfield, Garden City, or Mrs. John Warington, 29104 Hennepin, Garden City.

HENRY CLAY PRE-SCHOOL NURSERY -- A new nursery started a month ago for four-year-olds in the district of Henry Clay Elementary School, in the Six Mile-Levan area of Livonia. The class meets three mornings a week at the school. Children from outside the district will be accepted next fall if there are openings. Call Mrs. Richard Hansen, 16759 Renwick, Livonia.

LATHRUP COOPERATIVE NURSERY -- The only cooperative in the area scheduled five mornings a week. Children both three and four years of age are accepted. The nursery meets in a house at 11 Mile and Evergreen, Southfield. Call Mrs. Richard Barnaby, 21212 West Nine Mile, Southfield.

LIVONIA NURSERY, INC. -- Has three classes, one for three-year-olds meeting two mornings a week, and two for four-year-olds, meeting two mornings or two afternoons a week in Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church, 9601 Hubbard, Livonia. Call Mrs. Sherwin Collins, 11027 Mayfield, Livonia.

MAYFAIR NURSERY -- Has four classes meeting in Orchard United Methodist Church, 14 Mile and Farmington Road, Farmington. Continued on Page 3C

Ireland Will Be Home For Livonia Colleen

By MARGARET MILLER
Women's Editor

Consider, if you've a mind for things appropriate at St. Patrick's time of year, a pretty girl named Kathleen Doyle becoming a bride on March 10, just a week before the good saint's day.

Add the fact that the wedding will take place in St. Michael Catholic Church in Livonia, that Kathleen's grandfather immigrated from Ireland and that she hopes to have a few shamrocks tucked into her bridal bouquet when she marries Alan Elliott.

It would add up to a good Irish story -- even if you didn't add the fact that Kathy and Alan are planning to make Ireland their home.

THEY'VE THOUGHT IT OVER carefully and decided that the good life for them is to be found in Ireland's County Wexford, taking over the farm that has been in Kathy's family for generations.

Kathy already knows the farm. She spent four months last summer visiting her "very-young-at-heart" great-uncle, Tim Doyle, and felt at home there from the very beginning.

Alan, who says "people call me Buster," feels he knows it too, from the descriptions and diagrams Kathy sent home. Their plan is to accept Tim Doyle's invitation to share the farm home. They'll head for Ireland in August and they plan to get some beef cattle and a few crops going on the farm. Eventually, they also want to open a shop to sell local craft work in the nearby town of Wexford, which gets many tourist visitors.

Kathy made some contacts with Wexford artisans while in Ireland last summer, and is sure a shop would be a profitable enterprise.

LIFE ON THE FARM -- where there's no indoor plumbing or central heating and the nearest telephone is a couple of miles away -- represents big changes for both.

Kathy lived most of her life in Livonia and graduated from Stevenson High. Buster grew up in Sarnia, Ont., where both are making their home now. But it's the difference in values that makes them want to try the new life.

"I can live better with the values of the Irish people," Kathy explained. "Here there is constant pressure to make more money, to get a better job, to keep up with others. Some people like that. I don't but I don't know how to avoid it here."

"I can be myself better in Ireland," Buster, who spent some time on a relative's farm, knows they both have a lot to learn but feels they can make it in Ireland.

After the wedding, they intend to keep their jobs for a while -- Kathy is working as a waitress in Port Huron and Buster is employed by a construction company in Sarnia -- to save enough to give the farm its start.

THE COUPLE met several years ago while Kathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Doyle of LaSalle Avenue, was at her parents' Continued on Page 3C

2 Town Halls Set

Joan Fontaine and Nila Magidoff are spotlighted in area town hall appearances Wednesday, March 15.

Miss Fontaine, noted actress, will make an earlier-than-planned visit to the Farmington Town Hall. Originally scheduled as the fourth speaker in the series, she was unable to keep her April date and will come next week.

Carlton Varney, interior designer who was to have been here in March, instead will speak April 20.

Miss Fontaine's talk at 11 a.m. in the Northland Theater in Southfield will be followed by a celebrity luncheon in Vladimir's, Farmington restaurant. Luncheon tickets are $5 and may be reserved by calling the Farmington Community Center or writing Farmington Town Hall, Box 504. Reservations must be received by 12 noon Monday, March 13.

Nila Magidoff, a native of Russia, will make a return visit to the Livonia Town Hall when she speaks in the Terrace Theater, 30400 Plymouth, Livonia, at 10:30 a.m.

Remembered for her talk several years ago about early years in this country and her marriage to correspondent Robert Magidoff, she will speak this time about a recent tour of Russia in a rented car.

Tickets for the Livonia Town Hall Celebrity Luncheon in the Mayflower Meeting House, Plymouth, may be reserved by calling the telephone number on the back of the season tickets.

One of the many church bulletins I read on my job stated shortly after Feb. 2 that "the groundhogs have done whatever groundhogs are supposed to do."

Just what they are supposed to do is a matter that always puzzled me.

I've understood that if the critters see their shadow, they retire for another six weeks and we can forget about an early spring.

"But if they see their shadow, it means it's a sunshiny day," our youngest commented during the annual discussion this year, "so why doesn't that mean spring is coming soon?"

I couldn't answer that one, but when the day of the groundhog passed in cloudiness, we wondered if we might dare hope for an end to winter soon. (No, make that I wondered she really didn't care much because she likes skating and sliding better than I like icy walks and slushy and slippery roads.)

But a few days ago I began to think I could believe in groundhogs. For the first time ever in February, I spotted a robin.

And that brought to mind another superstition and another problem. It's supposed to be good luck if you see spring's first robin in a tree instead of on the ground, so what does it mean if you see your first on a utility wire?

Probably that I should make light of all the old wives' tales and wait out the winter as I always do.

Women on the Go She's A Helper For Easter Bunny

MRS. PAULINE OLM decorates a sugar egg with squiggles of frosting.

MRS. OLM, who has been teaching cake decorating and making of all sorts of candies since 1954, now has adult education classes at Redford Union High School and Farmington Junior High as well as working at Kitchen Glamor. She ran through a pre-demonstration on making the sugar eggs.

"Moisten the sugar just a little," she said, "and press it into the plastic mold." Deftly she turned out two egg halves.

"It's probably all right to touch them carefully after an hour," she added, "but it's best to leave them overnight."

When dry, she used royal frosting, specially made with meringue powder, cream of tartar and sugar so it will dry very hard, and fashioned some green grass and bunnies inside the egg.

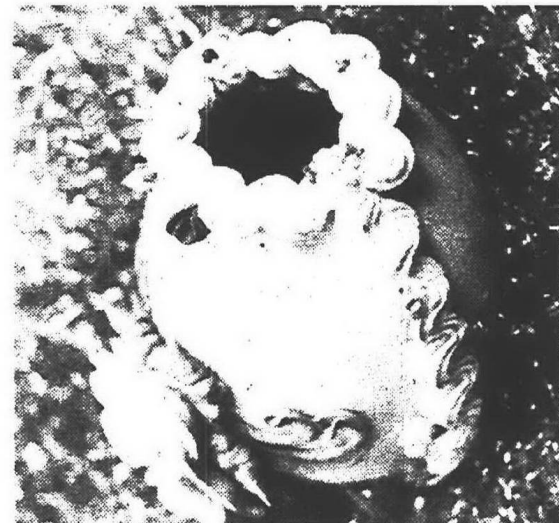

Then the two halves were fastened together with royal frosting serving as glue and decorated on the outside, again with royal frosting.

MRS. OLM, in her demonstrations, also shows how she makes hen cakes with frosting feathers that look real, and shimmery suckers in Easter shapes.

A simple way of making fancy cookies is another part of the demonstration. Mrs. Olm uses pink and white dough and cuts both into large round cookies with a bunny, chick or other seasonal design cut from the center. In inner cookies they are interchanged.

Pauline Olm, besides her food decoration classes, is president of the Kenwood Women's Club and the Redford Union Alumni Association (she was a member of the first RU graduating class in 1933) and is a past president of the Lola Valley Business and Professional Women's Club. She has a son and daughter and four grandchildren — who keep well supplied with seasonal goodies.

WHICH CAME FIRST, the chicken or the egg? It doesn't really matter, because both are part of Mrs. Pauline Olm's Easter goodies demonstration. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Coloring Contest On

Observerland youngsters who like to color pictures may try to win a trip to Florida in a contest sponsored by Crowley's and continuing until March 11.

The Livonia Mall Crowley's store is one of five that has entry blanks with Florida scenes to be colored in any media. Children up to 10 years of age may enter.

One winner will be picked in each store. Of the five winners, one will receive the grand prize of a week-long trip to Miami for the child and his parents. The four runners-up will receive Florida-inspired sportswear wardrobes.

The 1972 Florida Citrus Queen, Christine Coultron, launched the "Follow Me To Miami" contest in the Livonia Mall Crowley's store by providing commentary for a fashion showing of young Florida styles last weekend.

'Flags' To Be Sackett Topic

"Flags Which Have Flown Over America" will be the theme of the next meeting of John Sackett Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The meeting will be a 12 noon luncheon, Saturday, March 11, in the home of Mrs. Jonah Hale, Inkster Road, Dearborn Heights. Mrs. Ernest Lipa and Mrs. Harold Beam will assist the hostess.

Mrs. Joseph Frescura, flag chairman, will be in charge of the program which will include audience participation. Mrs. Urbin R. Sutfin of Plymouth, the regent, will conduct the business meeting.

LYNDA GORDON

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gordon of Ruthland Street East, Southfield, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lynda Cheryl, to John Jay Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Alexander of Huntington Woods. The bride-to-be is a 1968 graduate of Southfield High School and has attended Washenaw Community College and Eastern Michigan University. She is employed by Borman Foods. Her fiancé attended Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan, where he is a senior. An April 23 wedding is planned in the Raleigh House, Southfield.

summer cottage near Sarnia. Kathy went to Central Michigan University for two years, majoring in art. For her junior year, she went to Europe for independent study, traveling with a friend for a while and winding up on the Doyle homestead.

"The reason he didn't marry was that after my grandfather left times were bad and he felt the responsibility for taking care of the farm and his two sisters, and by the time circumstances were better it was too late. But he loves people and is delighted to have us coming."

"He'll be able to give us advice—he's run the farm for years and the only problem now is the physical labor."

KATHY AND ALAN see a couple of problems that could come with the move. Although Wexford is 200 miles from the scene of religious strife in Northern Ireland, they aren't quite sure how their "mixed" marriage—Kathy is Catholic and Alan Protestant—will be accepted. Kathy said she didn't note any evidence of animosity toward Protestants but there was always awareness of differences. "It could be a problem," they agree, but figure they'll play it by ear.

"My grandfather certainly has no regrets about coming here, but he's glad that I can be happy in Ireland."

LENNERT WENDEL (left), vice president of the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth, presents a check for expansion of the senior citizens newsletter program to City Manager Norman Gaffney (right) as Township Supervisor Maurice Breen looks on. The newsletter, "The Golden Record," presently is limited to city distribution and the Kiwanis funds, with Breen's cooperation, will help broaden circulation to senior citizens throughout the township.

Fire Contract Talks Snagged

Negotiators for Plymouth fire fighters were charged by two city commissioners Monday of "completely repudiating their word" as talks on a new labor contract bogged down despite intervention of a state mediator.

Another meeting in the prolonged bargaining, which has been going on since last spring, is set for Friday. Commissioners William Silvis and Beverly McAninch represent the city, along with professional negotiator Thomas Callan. The state mediator is Thomas Bedoud.

By this newspaper's deadline, union spokesmen couldn't be reached for comment.

The City Commission accepted as part of the record this report Monday night after it was read by Silvis:

"ON FRIDAY, Feb. 25, Mrs.

McAninch and myself, along with Tom Callan, our negotiator, met with representatives of the fire department, Dale Bowerman, Allan Matthews and Charles Groh.

"At the conclusion of 5½ hours of negotiation with the state mediator present, an agreement was reached subject to ratification by the total union membership and by the City Commission.

"This agreement provided for a salary of $12,000 per year for firemen with four years of service, an increase of $25 in the clothing allowance and an additional paid holiday. For firemen with less than four years service similar increases were provided. In salary alone this represented a 15 per cent increase.

"THE SECOND year of the agreement provided for a four per cent increase in salary for firemen with three years or more of service plus a $5 per year increase in longevity. For the third year, another four per cent increase was agreed upon with an additional $5 per year for longevity.

"There were, in addition, several changes in non-economic issues, most notable of which was the city's agreement to permit firemen to work outside the fire department on their days off, within certain limits.

"Each and every point of contention between the parties was agreed upon at this session, and both parties exchanged initialed copies of the agreement. In addition, both parties signed a statement that they would recommend the ratification of the contract to their members.

formed by our negotiator, Mr. Callan, that the union has rejected the contract by a vote of 8 to 0 with one member abstaining. They have also voted to request compulsory arbitration by a vote of 7 to 2.

"We now very seriously question the basic sincerity of the union representatives in the bargaining which has been going on since April of last year. After signing an agreement to recommend the proposed contract to their membership, they completely repudiated their word and voted against ratification. Reviewing the record of the negotiations we can find other instances where they have switched from previously stated positions.

"Furthermore, the union in all its negotiations has never presented a counter-offer but has simply rejected those made by the city. The city has responded by reviewing its position, compromising where possible, so that new offers could be made.

"We submit this report because we feel the citizens of this community should know that their representatives are not responsible for the long delay on reaching an agreement. We hope that the meeting scheduled for March 10 by the state mediator will be more productive than previous ones."

Plymouth Brevities

THE POPULATION boom continues to bring more new neighbors into the Plymouth area. Welcome Wagon representatives report these as some of the latest:

Cheryl and James O'Donnell from Livonia, Joan and Stan Armstrong from York, Pa.; Bernice and Harold Kroeger from Detroit, Josephine and Robert Verkerke from Westland, Rita and Douglas Ringer from Taylor, Lorraine and Conrad Hohmann from Grosse Pointe Woods.

Roberta and Edward Krajca, Patricia and Barton Bodell, Jo Ann and Tom Donovan, all from Westland; Noreen and Ronald Nader from Southfield, Margaret and Francis LeBlond from Grosse Pointe Park, and Jane and Frank Mercieca from Garden City.

SO BUSY has the planning board of the township become, in fact, that starting this month the commission plans to meet twice a month instead of the traditional one session.

This month, meetings will be on March 15 and March 22. Then, beginning in April, the commission will meet on the first and third Wednesdays of each month until further notice.

OWNERS OF new homes, just recently occupied, in the Canterbury Woods - Windsor Park area being built around Sheldon and Warren are so concerned with property assessments that they have called a special meeting of their homeowners association for 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 10.

The meeting will be held in the Canton Township fire hall at Cherry Hill and Canton Center Rds. and the property owners will be joined for the discussion by Supervisor Philip Dingeldey and the entire board of review.

New Firm Locates In Plymouth

Formation of the Plymouth Rubber & Transmission Co., 328 N. Main St., Plymouth, for the distribution of specialized industrial products in the southern and eastern counties of Michigan, has been announced.

Principals in the new concern are Robert Hartman, president; Henry J. Johnson, vice president; Hall Derkin, secretary, and Leon C. Wise, treasurer.

Hartman has had a long-time association with Uniroyal in its industrial products and hose divisions. Johnson has been operations manager of the Graybar Electric Co. in Akron. Derkin and Wise are principals in an industrial distribution firm based in Toledo. The latter two will provide counsel to the new operation.

HARTMAN SAID Plymouth's facility has 10,000 sq. ft. which will be utilized for inventory and some fabricating operations. U-D Testing Center Schedules Open House

A University of Detroit center set up to diagnose problems of children with learning difficulties will hold open house this week to make residents of the metropolitan area more aware of its services.

The time to visit the Children's Psychodiagnostic Center, 16158 Petoskey, Detroit, will be 4 to 7 p.m. Friday, March 10. The center is located east of Livernois and south of Florence near the U-D campus.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served.

THE CENTER now offers complete aptitude and school achievement testing to children up to the age of 16. It also offers psychological counseling service for children tested and their parents.

Evaluation that can be offered includes intelligence testing, achievement test and diagnosis of adjustment problems.

The service also counsels on learning disabilities, seeks to prevent potential personal and school problems, identify special needs of educationally-deprived children and work with teachers to plan educational and mental health programs for individual children.

Preventing failure and dropping out, improving emotional and mental health of children, determining causes of learning and adjustment problems, making early identification of exceptional children and recommending specialized help also are among aims of the center.

APPOINTMENTS for the service may be made by telephoning the University of Detroit center after 9:30 a.m. Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The testing program costs $20, with adjustments available for parents unable to pay. Small fees are charged for subsequent sessions.

Parents or agencies referring children to the center are asked to provide a short statement detailing the situation and problems of the child, including pertinent background information.

They also are asked to state whether an interpretation of test results should be forwarded to such interested parties as the family physician or the child's school.

Dr. Justin Pikunas, University of Detroit professor, is director of the Children's Psychodiagnostic Center.

SPRING FASHIONS created by members of the Plymouth Vivians Club from fabrics supplied by Jacobson's fabric department will be shown at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 15, in the Plymouth Elks Club, 41700 Ann Arbor Road. Formal dresses will be shown, as well as sports, street and casual wear. Shown here are Lois Williams, (left) ticket chairman, and Donna O'Connor, past president and fashion show chairman. (Photo by Ken Garner)

'Sex Identity' To Be Topic

Dr. Lorraine Nadelman will discuss "Sugar and Spice" or "How to Develop Sex Identity in Children," at a mini-workshop planned by the Huron Valley Council of Cooperative Nurseries.

The meeting will take place Wednesday, March 15, in First Methodist Church, 120 S. State, Ann Arbor. It will begin with coffee at 7:30 p.m.

Elsa Adams will also give a talk on "Music and Movement" and Stephen and Lynn Lewis will describe "The Montessori School."

GC Residents Plan Reunion

The third annual reunion of former Garden City and area residents now living or visiting Florida will be held Tuesday, March 21.

The get-together will be held in Pavilion 4, Lake Anderson Park on U.S. 19, near Tarpon Springs, Fla.

Persons interested in attending may contact Florence Vogler, 1809 Sylvester Road, Lakeland, 33803, before March 21.

The planning committee includes Mrs. Vogler, Otto Schatz, Harry Flint, John Broom, Glenn Donner and Charles Palmer.

Rosedale Club Sets Party

The Rosedale Gardens Women's Club will hold its annual card party at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 16, in the clubhouse at 9611 Hubbard, Livonia.

Jane Soltesz is chairman. Tickets will be available at the door or reserved through board members, and profits will go into the clubhouse improvement fund.

$$$Pioneers

The completely cashless, checkless society is nearer reality now than an experiment with a computer-controlled credit card service in Upper Arlington, Ohio, seems to be proving successful. More than 2,000 customers, 31 merchants and bank are joined in the pioneer experiment.

JAN DEE set up makeshift shop in Hudson's Westland budget store and showed how she makes a spring bracelet of heavy wire. (Observer photos)

New Career Satisfying

It's an unusual jump from psychiatrist's secretary to silversmith, but Jan Deyesso of Chicago has made it successfully.

So successfully that a wide assortment of rings, bracelets and necklaces, bearing her professional name Jan Dee, are now being featured in the mod-type Uncle Joe Cannery shops in J.L. Hudson Co. budget stores.

Jan Dee was in town last weekend to demonstrate how she makes the distinctive jewelry that is finding wide appeal with both men and women.

CARRYING her jewelry-making equipment in a suitcase and backed up by a handy fire extinguisher, she showed interested spectators at Northland and Westland how she hammers and solders and polishes to turn out the handsome jewelry.

Afterwards, viewers crowded around to purchase the pieces, most of them in sterling silver and ranging from $3 to $7. Similar gold-filled jewelry is $1 more. Canneries in Hudson stores will be carrying the unusual jewelry.

All the jewelry is handmade and designed by Jan. "I'm a perfectionist," she said, "so every piece is flawless. If I find a mistake I do it over."

MISS DEYESSO worked eight years as secretary to a psychiatrist, all the time admiring the work of her silversmith uncle.

"Then one night I had a dream about being a silversmith," she said. Deciding to accept the dream as an omen, she studied the craft and found a fine teacher in Italy.

She's been turning out jewelry of her own design since 1968, and estimates her production is now about 400 pieces a week. She has a studio on Cape Cod.

THE EMPHASIS on the unisex aspect of the jewelry she produces has helped its recent success. The pieces crafted for men are slightly heavier, but Jan has found that "some women like the heavier look, too."

"I went into this work blind, but I'm glad I did," she said as she prepared her demonstration. "I love making rings and making people happy."

INTRICATELY-TWISTED wire forms this bracelet of gleaming silver.

ACCOUNT REPRESENTATIVE
Here's your chance to see how far your talent and energies will take you, if you have experience in Sales Promotion and Advertising plus enthusiasm and/or ability to write sales promotion plans keyed to specific strategy; execute and implement the sales promotion plans which will involve literature and sales aid preparations, copywriting and direct advertising, trade show exhibits and P.O.P. displays, motivation programs and sales meetings.

Chatham Shopper Bake-Off Finalist

"For the American home-maker it's the World Series and the Rose Bowl all rolled up in one! That's what one contestant said about the Pillsbury Bake-Off held last week in Houston, Texas.

As I watched the 100 finalists already winners of many wonderful prizes, plus their trip to Texas - I couldn't help being genuinely inspired by their comradeship and their air of gratitude for being there! They considered their good fortune a most rewarding personal experience.

sense of pride in all the contestants in their entries. She said "Winning isn't really the thing we're worrying about most - it's just making our entries turn out like they did at home - so we'll be proud of them".

And, she even experimented with a number of spices and herbs until she found some that she felt were "just right" in her bread. Below is the moist, relatively fine-textured batter bread which made Chatham's Mills Snow a finalist.
