12-Story Senior Citizens Building Set For Plymouth

By W. W. EDGAR

A sudden thunderstorm, which some tagged as a tornado due to the high winds, caused heavy damage in the western section of Plymouth Tuesday afternoon.

The storm downed power and phone lines and caused a blackout for several hours.

Hundreds of trees were uprooted by the force of the winds and rain, television antennas were ripped off homes with considerable damage along Farmer street in the vicinity of Sheldon Road.

Police reported numerous incidents of trees falling on houses, garages and cars.

In the not too distant future a twin-towered 12-story senior citizen's home with 190 units will pierce the skyline of downtown Plymouth. It will be built on Ann Arbor Trail between the railroad and Hamilton.

Announcement of the project that will add another jewel to the contemplated revitalizing of the community was made Monday afternoon by former mayor James Houk, chairman of the Pilgrim Non-Profit Corporation that is an offshoot of the Downtown Redevelopment Committee.

"This senior citizens' home will be the very latest style and will be built as a turn key project by the Housing and Urban Development of the federal government," Houk explained in making the announcement.

PLANS FOR the home were started last September when George Lawton, new president of the board of education, was chairman of the group. At that time Houk was chairman of the site committee and moved up to the presidency when Lawton resigned because of the pressure of business.

"We looked at five sites," Houk confided "before we finally settled on the Ann Arbor Trail location. We selected that site because of its nearness to the center of the shopping area and still in a rather unspoiled community."

According to Houk, completion of the building is scheduled within two years and should be available for tenants not later than early in 1975.

UNDER THE plans there will be an activities room on each floor of the one bedroom apartments.

"And if conditions warrant it," Houk pointed out, "we will have a dining room on the top floor. This will be a real innovation and answer the long-time problem of having a high rise eating place in the downtown area."

The layout of the new project also is along novel lines in that only two of the apartments will open into a hallway.

No guidelines have yet been set for residency other than all applicants must be at least 62 years old.

"We understand there'll be no trouble obtaining tenants for there is a long waiting list over at the Tonquish Creek Manor Apartments. It has been said that there are 36 families now qualified to gain residency, but that only one or two apartments are available each year."

ACCORDING TO the latest survey there are approximately 120 applicants available in the Plymouth area. No guidelines can be set, according to Houk, until a survey of the area is completed and the type of families available can be studied. But great care always will be taken.

The project has an estimated cost of $3 million and it will be owned and operated by the Pilgrim Non-Profit Corporation.

Other officers, aside from Houk include - Rev. Robert Shank, vice president; Mel Blunk, treasurer; Bob Utter, secretary; Dr. A.E. Van Ornum, Clifford Tait and Florence Gableman, directors.

Township Firemen Top State In Training Requirements

Plymouth Township has the first fulltime fire department in the state to meet all the requirements of the Fire Fighters Training Council.

The Council was formed by Public Act 291 and signed into law in 1966 by Gov. Romney. Since then, Gov. Milliken has signed appropriations bills to fund its work.

Monday, township Chief James Gignac presented training certificates to six men in the department who completed 240 hours of class work.

"THIS MEANS everyone who is fulltime in our department has been brought up to the training standards of the state," Gignac said. His check with the council showed his department to be the first to meet these requirements. "And we are taking steps to get our volunteers certified, too. This I feel is quite an honor for our department," he said.

The law under which this training takes place establishes regulations for hiring fire fighters, for training, for instructors, and for training schools.

The department has nine fulltime firemen; three others were certified earlier by the Livonia firemen's school. The training of the six was conducted on the firemen's own time, in the station, under Gignac, who is licensed as an instructor by the state.

TOPICS INCLUDES rules and regulations, forcible entry, ropes, and fire extinguishers, ladder practices, hose practices, salvage and fire overhaul, and fire streams and hydraulics.

Other topics covered include apparatus practices, ventilation, rescue, first aid, fire inspections, water supply, automatic sprinkling systems, aircraft fire practices and rescues, fire science, community relations, civil disorders, arson detection, and utilities.

The certificates, representing the firemen's accomplishment, were presented Monday morning in brief ceremonies during a shift change.

City Sticks To Plan For Business Loop

In the face of some caustic criticism by several embittered residents and self-styled ecologists, the City Commission stuck by its guns Monday night and refused to alter plans for extending Union Street through Kellogg Park.

For more than two hours, the five commission members present (William Silvis and Norm Ratterman were absent) listened to all sorts of charges for permitting several large trees to be cut down in the park and for even thinking of cutting a street through what they chose to consider almost sacred.

At the finish, Francis McGough, 206 East Ann Arbor Trail, who had been one of the most caustic of the critics, asked that some consideration be given to reconsidering the plan for the downtown business loop.

"THIS PLAN has been on our records since 1958," Mayor James McKeon explained, "and the plan to go through the park was approved by unanimous vote last March 20. But if the commissioners are willing to reconsider, it will be up to them."

When the Mayor asked for action, there wasn't a member of the commission who spoke, thus quashing any hope of reconsideration of the plan.

Originally, plans for the downtown business loop were designed with the hope of attracting more business in the main block. Since then, the plans have been changed to confine the loop to the area bounded by Union Street and Deer Street to Wing, then north to Harvey and East to Church Street.

During the discussion of criticism, it was charged that the city didn't have the right to cut through the park because the property was deeded to the city as a park.

"We've had our attorneys over the years delve into that phase and each of them claimed that the city could cut the park for a roadway."

WORK ON extending Union Street over to Deer got under way in earnest on Monday morning when the first large trenches were dug. The work is expected to require a week. When finished the pavement will be of special brick and have the appearance of a promenade more than a street.

Mayor McKeon also denied the charge that the loop was to consist of a one-way street.

"It will be like any other street," he told the critics. "It will have two-way lanes with a center lane for passing. Later on, if traffic demands it, it may become a one-way thoroughfare. But not until then."

In answer to the criticism for cutting down trees, it was pointed out that more green area would be added to the park and additional trees planted.

When completed, the Plymouth Rock, now a monument to the veterans of our several wars, will be on a triangle island and won't have to share interest with any other section of the park. It will be an independent monument.

There was no criticism on that point.

Parked Bicycles Become A Problem

Parked bicycles are becoming a real problem in downtown Plymouth.

Not only are they proving a menace to the pedestrians walking along the block between Penniman and Ann Arbor Trail, but they are blocking traffic into and out of the stores.

More than that, the problem now is extending to the end of the new entrance into the central parking lot.

Above all that, Police Chief Timothy Ford has found that many of the riders, both teenagers and adults, are riding on the sidewalks in the business blocks and creating more of a problem because of the possibility of collisions that could result in injuries.

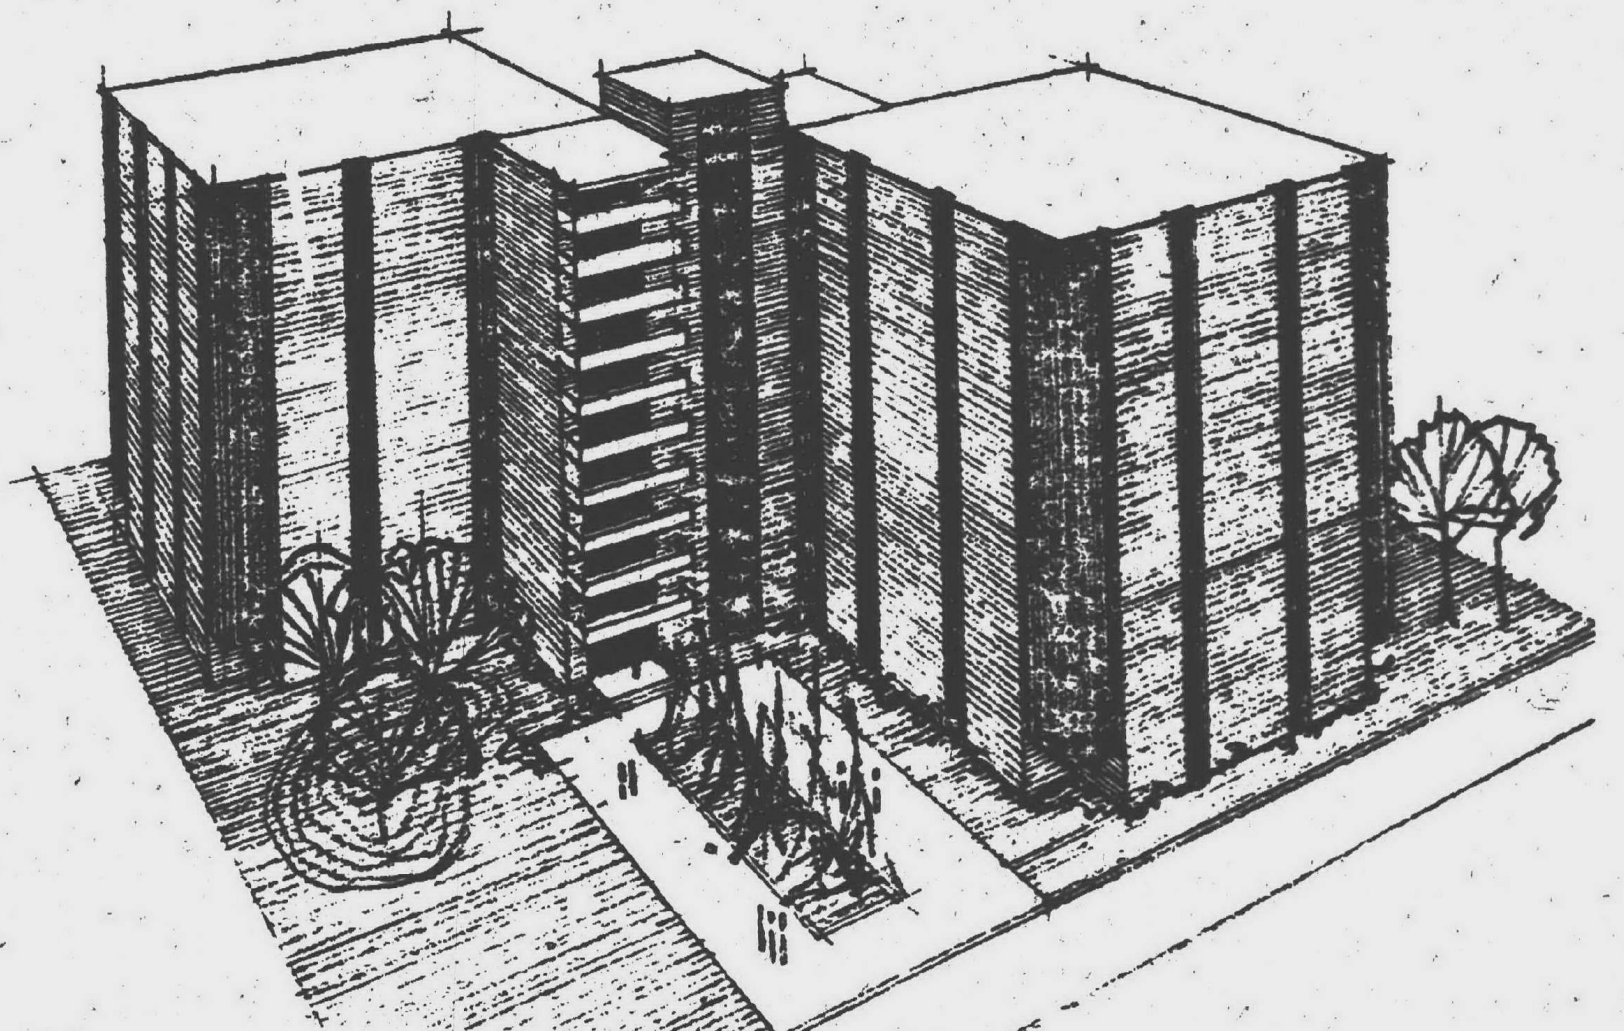

While existing ordinances cover such things, Chief Ford points out that the department is not well enough staffed to keep a watchful eye on all the riders.

Most of the traffic is in the business block opposite Kellogg Park and the parking is a problem through most of the day.

Chief Ford has informed the City Commissioners that the best way to eliminate much of the problem is to ask that "bike racks" be placed at intervals along the block and at the parking lot.

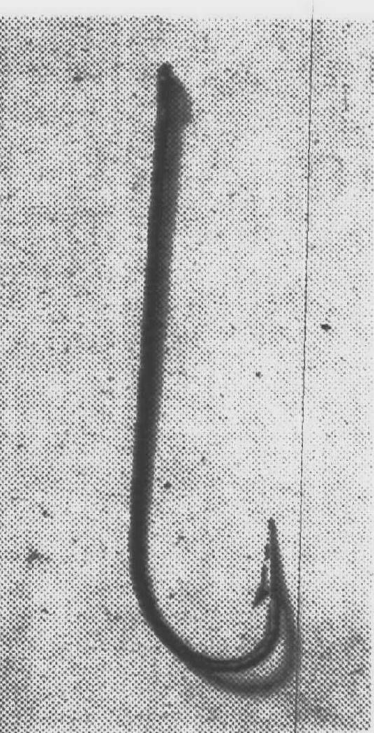

He pointed out that a rack with a capacity of 10 bicycles is only five feet wide - exactly the width of the area available for their installation.

Chief Ford has asked that four such racks be approved for Main Street. As for the solution to the problem at the end of the walkway into the central parking lot he has suggested that signs prohibiting bicycle parking be posted, along with a rack or two on the parking lot side.

SENIOR CITIZENS in Plymouth really will be going up in the world when this twin-tower, 12 story building is completed on the north side of Ann Arbor Trail between the railroad and Hamilton. This is the artist's idea of how it will look.

Norman Farm Placed On Centennial List

By DOUG JOHNSON

PLYMOUTH
An unusual honor has been given to Louis and Elizabeth Norman, 41681 Ann Arbor Trail.

Awarding of the honor reveals part of the rich history and tradition of the Plymouth area.

Norman's farm, located in the bend of the road just east of Plymouth on Ann Arbor Trail, has been designated as a Centennial Farm by the Michigan Historical Commission.

The farm, located in Plymouth Township, has been in the possession of the family since 1863. It was originally purchased Dec. 29, 1863 by William P. Spicer, Mrs. Norman's great grandfather, from Mr. and Mrs. John Tibbits.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of the honor came this week from Secretary of State Richard Austin, who heads the Michigan Department of State, which directs the activities of the Michigan Historical Commission. Austin said the Centennial Farm program began in Michigan in 1948 and since that time, certificates and metal markers have been awarded to some 3,000 state farms.

The commission administers the program, but the markers are provided by Detroit Edison and Consumers Power Company.

"A Centennial Farm is one which has been in operation and in continuous possession of the same family for 100 years or more," Austin said. Mrs. Norman said she had applied to the commission about a month ago, acting on a long felt desire to have the farm so honored. She proudly displays pictures of her parents and grandparents who owned the farm.

"I guess I had the idea for a long time. I finally got around to making the application," she said.

THE TITLE ABSTRACT for the farm gives a long, detailed account of how the original 200 acres of land was sold as part of the township to a John Gilbert in 1825 by the federal government. The original papers bear the name of then president John Quincy Adams, who inked the deed to Gilbert as part of one of the greatest land sales in history—the sale of the Northwest Territory. Michigan was yet to become a state.

Ten years later the farm apparently was sold to Gideon Ramsdell and Ambrose Burr. Prior to the Civil War there was talk of a grist mill down in the Rouge River (the farm site then stretched that far), and a law suit with the railroad resulted.

Burr sold some of the acreage to John and Charlotte Tibbits in 1863 for $8,000. A few short months later, at the height of the Civil War, the farm was sold to William P. Spicer, Mrs. Norman's great grandfather for $8,600.

FROM HERE ON it takes an expert attorney and land appraiser to follow the trading back and forth as recorded in the abstract. But the farm stayed in the family, and Mrs. Norman's grandfather, A.J. Spicer, remained on the land, as did her father, Samuel Spicer. A.J. died in 1934, Samuel in 1964. Her father's brother, Frank Spicer, still living outside of Plymouth, is considered by the Normans to be an expert on the farm and other area history.

The land and the family were also involved in a fight over the placement of the current M-14 (Ann Arbor Rd., in the old days known as Golden Rd.). The Elks Club and Pilgrim Drawn Steel rest on the original farm, as do several other homes across Ann Arbor Trail.

After the tradings back and forth in the Spicer family about 60 acres remained. Much has since been sold and the original homestead now consists of the 14-acre Norman farm on the south side of Ann Arbor Trail.

"The original Spicer house was across the street and down the road a bit," Mrs. Norman said. The house was literally cut in half and moved across the street, and it still stands today, she added. The remaining half has since been torn down.

THE CURRENT NORMAN house was built in 1939.

They also own a small parcel in Canton Township, known as the Murray farm, which Mrs. Norman inherited from her mother. This farm is also a Centennial Farm.

That farm, too, is rich in history, having been sold by John Quincy Adams in 1826 to Archibald Murray. It covered 271 acres at one time, they said.

Louis Norman spent his childhood in the area, and worked on a farm (Ayers) farther down Ann Arbor Trail. "I worked for 15 cents an hour," he notes.

He also remembers the days when street cars came down Ann Arbor Trail. Norman, active in the township, first as a fireman, later a fire chief, and for 14 years as a township trustee (1955-1968), runs an excavation business.

The Stroller

By W.W. EDGAR

Back in the days when the world was young and gay The Stroller spent a generous portion of each day toiling in the machine shops of the large steel and cement mills.

And difficult as the work might have been or how tiring the long hours on the night shift, they were compensated for the eagle-eyed inspectors passed on his work and stamped it "Ok for shipping."

It always was with a sigh of relief when he watched that tag being placed on his work and The Stroller often recalls how he stood at the wide open doors of the shop watching the freight cars go by and whispering to himself "That's my job."

It always was a source of pride to know that one's work was not in vain and that it would move on to serve its duty in the affairs of the world.

So you can imagine how he felt the other morning when the public prints carried the bold statement that General Motors was recalling 500,000 of one of its late models to detect flaws that could be dangerous when the machine was rolling along the highways.

"Terrible," The Stroller said to himself. "Where were the inspectors? How could something like this happen - if the men were on the job." It just didn't seem possible that a company like General Motors could be guilty of such slipshod methods.

WELL, SOMETIMES a dog's bark is worse than its bite and The Stroller soon learned that the GM problem was not nearly as bad as it appeared on the surface with the first announcement.

Coming out of church last Sunday morning he encountered a high official of General Motors and on reaching the outside greeted him, rather kiddingly, with the remark -

"It must be embarrassing for a big company such as yours to admit mistakes that caused the recall of 500,000 cars - virtually every one you manufactured in that model."

"Embarrassing," he came back, "is not the word for it. It is downright frustrating."

Then, in a few minutes, he recalled one of the most bizarre tales of industry The Stroller has learned in a long while.

"First," the GM official stated, "things have changed since you were in the shops. Those were days before such things as assembly lines when a fellow would have time."

"Today, things are different, and the mistakes that take only a few minutes can raise havoc in the industry around the entire world."

THEN, WAITING FOR that reasoning to sink in, he asked -

"Would you believe it, we've traced that trouble to a plant in Syracuse and found that it involves only 200 small parts that were ground too fine. As a result they slip, don't fit properly, and ultimately, could be dangerous."

"But our problem now, is where were the parts sent?"

"Could they have been sent as one shipment?"

"Where they dumped into a larger shipment and became mixed up with a lot of others."

"We had no way of finding out. So, there was only one thing to do - go looking for them. And the only way to be sure was to recall all the models and search and search until we find them."

Imagine that - searching through 500,000 cars to find 200 defective parts.

It's a great change from the old days - but proof that assembly lines have made the world a little more complex.

Shopping Center Zoning Approved

CANTON TOWNSHIP Engineering studies by the Grand Rapids-based Meijer Supermarkets for a development at Ford and Canton Center Rds. are slated to begin following the approval of a rezoning request by the township board at its July 11 meeting.

The rezoning request had the approval of the Canton Planning Commission, but not that of the Wayne County Planning Commission. County Planners recommended denial on the basis that the site was an "isolated location."

Township planners, however, explained that their recommendation was based on the fact that a shopping center will start in 1973 and should be completed by the following year. Engineering studies will be made by the township's engineers, Wade, Trim and Associates.

In other board business, trustees also approved a rezoning change of 7.6 acres at the southwest corner of Sheldon and Palmer Rds. from R-1C (single family) to C-1 (local business).

LOOK ONCE, LOOK AGAIN -- Tonsorial hijinks were the order of the day last Wednesday at the Redford Township Chamber of Commerce meeting. Members of the chamber posed for the

Schoolcraft May Get A Hand From State

Contrary to original projections, it now looks as though Schoolcraft College will get help from the state in constructing its $1.1 million addition to the applied sciences building.

When the college finalized its plans to go ahead with construction of the 25,000 square foot addition, it had been notified that the state wouldn't allot matching funds to help cover the cost.

That meant that the college would have to almost deplete its building and site funds to go ahead with the badly needed classroom space to have it ready for occupancy in the fall of 1973.

But the circumstances have changed since the State Legislature passed the capital outlay bill including $5,000 for Schoolcraft's vocational-technical addition.

The $5,000 is to help the college get started on the project, according to Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Schoolcraft president.

And if past practices of the State Legislature set a pattern, the college should get up to half the cost of the building from the Legislature next year.

AN OFFICIAL from the Capitol fiscal agency said the state is not obligated to come up with the funding next year, but the $5,000 grant makes the college eligible for additional money if the state has enough funds next year.

The vocational addition will take programs that are scattered around campus and off-campus and concentrate them in the applied sciences building.

The occupational therapy program has been located in Northville State Hospital but is being displaced this year because the hospital needs the three classrooms. The college is currently looking for space to hold the classes.

When the addition is completed, this program will finally be brought on campus.

Also in the addition will be space for the electromedical program, civil technology, business careers, and additional space for the automotive program.

Departmental offices and office space for 24 faculty members will also be located in the addition.

When the classes make the shift to the new building, more classroom space will be available in other buildings on campus.

New Books In Library

"When Your Child Needs Help," by Dr. Charles R. Shaw. Dr. Shaw begins with a discussion of how anger, fear and misery are manifested in the unhappy child, and how such a child signals his distress to adults. For each of the major disorders, he explains what the child is like, how he acts and feels, what caused his disturbance, the meaning behind his problem behavior, how diagnosis is made, what treatment has been found effective, and the future outlook for the child. For the first time, parents are offered a basis of comparison of symptoms which may be normal or which may be cause for alarm.

"A Parent's Guide To The Prevention And Control of Drug Abuse," by Dr. Paul Goldhill. The author, a psychiatrist who specializes in the emotional problems of the young, believes that parents can do a great deal toward keeping their child from becoming a drug abuser. He suggests many techniques for developing a healthy, emotional climate in the home, and offers a method of prevention and control that has had substantial success.

"IN CRITICAL CONDITION," by Edward M. Kennedy. Sen. Kennedy indicts the American health industry on the basis of testimony he heard as chairman of the Senate health subcommittee. He states, "We need to find ways to share the risks, and to lighten the financial burden on those unfortunate enough to be stricken. To share the risks, we will have to share the costs. But the costs that would destroy any one of us are small when spread among us all according to our ability to pay. I believe it is worth it. We can do this for one another."

"The Moonstone," by Wilkie Collins. Detective story fans might enjoy a chance to reread — or meet for the first time — Sergeant Cuff, one of the first detectives in English fiction, in this reprint of the earliest English detective novel, first published in 1868 as a serial.

"LAKELAND VET," by Joyce Stranger. A man whose compassion for animals has pressed him into a busy veterinary practice where every ring of the telephone may call him to a new urgency, finds himself disturbed at the cruelty which man so often inflicts on beast. As in her previous novels, the author distinguishes herself as an author and naturalist who possesses a unique understanding of the way human beings and animals respond to one another.

"The True Memoirs of Charley Blankenship," by Benjamin Capps. Here is an authentic look at cowboy life from 1880 to 1890 based on authentic memoirs. The author is a three-time winner of the Western Writers of America spur award for the best western novel of the year.

"The Jesus Generation," by Billy Graham. Graham engages in a provocative look at the new Jesus Movement and addresses himself to the current youth scene — their hang-ups and their challenges. He, as few men today, honestly examines, explains, and generates an explosive response to the sweeping new world of the '70s, crossing all generation boundaries.

Plymouth Brevities

Another popular site will pass from the Plymouth scene next week when the Little Leaguers engage in their annual World Series.

The series will be the last games played on what has been known as Riverside Field for years. The need for additional space in the cemetery is forcing the baseball teams to seek new areas.

KAREN McALLISTER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. McAllister, 15674 Lakeside Drive, will be presented in an organ recital on Saturday, July 22 at 8 p.m. in Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

This is her senior recital as she is graduating from University of Michigan in August. A student of Robert Clark, she plans to work on her masters degree in organ at the Westminster Choir College in Princeton, N.J. The public is invited to Saturday's recital.

THE WAYNE WONDERLAND Chorus, one of Michigan's better barbershop groups, will appear in concert with the Plymouth Community Band in Kellogg Park on July 26.

Under the direction of Gordon Limburg this group will sing at any time and their harmony often is directed at homes for old folks. They'll be worth listening to in Kellogg Park.

ROGER L. STRANYAK, who joined the Associated Spring Corp. in Plymouth in 1961, has been appointed administrator of purchases for the U.S. Custom Metal Parts group. The appointment is effective, Sept. 1.

FRANK BROSMAN, Jr., 440 Harvey St., is among the 44 teachers and graduate students from 25 school districts, who are attending the graduate workshop for industrial education at Eastern Michigan University.

THE NEW CHAPTER of the Plymouth — Northville American Association of Retired Persons is now in operation with 137 members and considerable interest is being shown for the next meeting on July 26 in the Plymouth Presbyterian Church.

The meeting is due to start at noon with a potluck dinner and after a short business meeting representatives of Schoolcraft College will lead a discussion on gerontology.

RONALD D. NYHUS, of the Specialties Paper Co. of Plymouth, has enrolled in the special coatings and laminations classes at Western Michigan University.

Rowden Sent To Sheppard

PLYMOUTH Airman Gary T. Rowden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rowden, 11334 Parkview Drive, Plymouth, has completed his U.S. Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Texas. He has been assigned to Sheppard AFB, Texas, for training in aircraft maintenance. Rowden is a 1970 graduate of Plymouth High School.

Canton Studies Plan For Farmer's Market

By MARIE McGEE

CANTON TOWNSHIP Canton Township's fledgling Chamber of Commerce has come up with an idea that could very well give the burgeoning township an appealing — if not sentimental — identity all of its own.

It goes without saying that it must be a sad sight for many of Canton's longtime residents to watch as farm after farm is sold off to become subdivisions of single family homes, townhouses and multiple dwellings.

Acres of woodland are fast disappearing and along with them the country atmosphere that has dominated the 26-square mile township for decades.

THAT'S WHY the proposal made at the July 11 board meeting probably "hit home" with many residents as soon as the news began circulating in the township.

What was proposed was that the township board consider owning and operating a farmers' market, much like the Eastern Market the City of Detroit operates on Gratiot Ave. near the Fisher Freeway.

Chamber spokesman, Sheldon Wagner, stated that more and more people are reluctant to drive into Detroit to buy fresh produce.

This includes farmers, he said.

HE PROPOSED that the township purchase a 20-acre site and erect a simple main building, surrounded by stalls which would be leased to farmers.

Surrounding acreage could be sold to "satellite organizations" whose operations would tie in with the open market concept.

Wagner estimated that the initial cost would be around $500,000, including $100,000 for the land.

He said that the City of Detroit has 400 stalls which rent for $600 a year, bringing in revenue of $240,000.

WAGNER, affiliated with Practical Home Builders, is highly regarded by township officials for his expertise on land development. A Southfield resident, he is the only member of Canton's Chamber of Commerce who does not reside in the township.

"I'm sorry to say that this is not my idea," Wagner admitted.

He added that "one of the largest — if not THE largest — wholesale food distributors in the country is interested in the project."

He said that Canton's location makes it a natural for the market which could also draw farmers from outstate as well.

TRUSTEE RAY DEEDS asked why the township should undertake the project.

"Why not private enterprise?" he asked.

One reason, the township should own the market was to be able to control the type of development that would be attracted to the project, Wagner answered.

Visually impressed with the suggestion, Supervisor Philip Dingeldey commented that he already knew of a "desirable spot" on Michigan Ave.

"Please, no locations," said

Wagner, throwing his hands in the air. "The minute you talk locations, the price goes up."

Clinic Code Permits

New Work Areas

CANTON TOWNSHIP Canton trustees adopted two ordinance changes and held a third in abeyance at its July 11 meeting.

One change will allow the operation of a veterinary clinic or animal kennels entirely within an enclosed building in special commercially zoned areas. Currently, the operation is limited to areas zoned agriculture.

Using the City of Plymouth's fence ordinance as a model, the trustees also adopted new fence guidelines effective immediately.

Proposed by Building Inspector Al Thompson, the new ordinance will help alleviate problems he says are developing in the township's new subdivisions.

Tabled for further study was a new ordinance regarding swimming pools.

CHILDREN in the Plymouth area have been making posters for the new Plymouth FISH, now in its second week of answering calls for help. The project was coordinated by Mrs. Norma Melius, back row left. WHAT'S NEW?

by DON KEETH

You meet an acquaintance and "What's new?" is often one of the opening plays.

But don't try it on me unless you really want to hear what's new. Because I have something new that beats all. And I'm ready to bend your ear about it.

It's something you really should know about. Caesar would have given half of Gaul for it. . . but you can get it for pennies a day. Are you quiver with curiosity? (Well, I'll tell you anyway.)

This new thing is TOTAL COMFORT. Every hour, every day, every month of the year indoors you can live in Total Comfort. Air fresh and lively. Delightful humidity. Dust and pollen and smoke almost completely eliminated. Temperature exactly as you want it. Quiet. Softly flowing air circulation.

Oh sure, there have been furnaces, air conditioners, filters and all that stuff around for years. But NOW it has finally been engineered into an integrated system that completely treats the air you live in. The big secret is in constant treatment. No other system does this. Therefore no other system can do the job as well. Simple. But it's new. Great ideas usually are simple.

So what's new with you?

New Library Books

"Pantomime: Elements And Exercises," by David Alberts. There is little writing on pantomime expression, perhaps because the art itself functions so totally outside language. Addressing himself to this problem, the author discusses the elements of the art; the basic differences between Pantomime and the more ambiguous mime; the pantomimist's relationship with the audience; and, using 90 action photographs, illustrates his procedures for the basic bending and turning movements. Alberts is an accomplished mime, and at present director of the Toronto Mime Ensemble and School of Mime.

"Gehlen: Spy Of The Century," by E.H. Cookridge. At the beginning of World War II an obscure officer in the Wehrmacht, by its end Gehlen had become one of Hitler's chief intelligence officers, in sole charge of espionage and counter-espionage against the Soviet Union. Then, in 1945, he placed at the disposal of the United States his unrivaled experience and unique archives covering every aspect of the Soviet Union and her satellites. More than a biography of a man, "Gehlen" is an impressively documented and dramatized account of virtually the whole spectrum of espionage activities during the Cold War. "Hoax," by Stephen Fay. The action begins on Dec. 7, 1921, when McGraw-Hill announced it was publishing an authentic Hughes autobiography, and Howard Hughes's representatives denied it. The authors, three hard-working reporters, then go back to reveal how Clifford Irving perpetrated the literary hoax of the century. "First Blood," by David Morrell. Once they were soldiers. Rambo, a strange looking kid whose presence in town is, unexplainably, a threat. An Teasle, the chief of police. Both have been trained to kill; one in Korea, the other in Vietnam. Now, without warning, they are deadly adversaries in a civilian combat that becomes a chase through the woods and mountains.

"The Porkchoppers," by Ross Thomas. This book takes an inside look at corruption in an American labor union. When two officers of the union pull out the stops to defeat each other for reelection, the action—including election-stealing and assassination—comes fast and nasty, with unexpected results.

Three More Seek Bars In Canton

CANTON TOWNSHIP Three more names have been added to the growing list of persons seeking Canton's two remaining Class C liquor licenses.

Trustees were advised by the Liquor Control Commission that James E. Poole and the partnership of Mario Bossio and Gregory Gatto have applied for licenses.

The Bossio - Gatto request, was for a site on the south side of Ford Rd., west of Haggerty. Poole's request did not stipulate a location.

The board still has under advisement the request of an Ann Arbor resident who is considering renovating a vacant industrial building on Michigan Ave. into a bar-restaurant if the license is approved.

A downriver restaurant chain also has applied for one of the two licenses.

'Help Plan Parks' Study Now Under Way

LANSING At home and at play, thousands of outdoor users in Michigan this summer will be collectively asked some million-dollar questions about their leisure-time opportunities and preferences under the most massive recreation survey effort ever mounted by the Department of Natural Resources.

The fact-finding study covers the public and private sectors and is keyed both to random field checks and a telephone poll of 10,000 households, and will provide information for computerized sifting, sorting, and analyzing which is needed to rewrite an updated, well-documented recreation plan for this state.

This master plan carries an April, 1974, deadline for reaching U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation officials.

HOPEFULLY, it will bear the right answers from surveyed recreationists and other input sources to keep Michigan on the receiving end for $8-11 million in federal Land and Water Conservation Funds each year to cost share new state and local leisure-time facilities.

The two-year major project for survey work, data processing, and final preparation of the recreation plan will be financed on a 50-50 basis with federal money from the Land and Water Conservation Fund.

As part of this effort, the Bureau of Business Services and Research at Eastern Michigan University has been contracted to conduct a telephone survey which will reach 10,000 randomly selected households across the length and breadth of Michigan.

The survey will mark the first state-wide poll ever marshalled in Michigan to draw a fix on general recreation activity on the rural scene -- canoeing, camping, nature study, hiking, bicycling -- and in urban areas at day camps, playgrounds, tennis courts, senior citizens centers, etc. Among other things, the purpose of this broad-based survey will be to determine when, where, and how many different people participate in various kinds of recreation, and to find out the number of times they pursue these activities, plus how far they travel to reach facilities they use.

FAMILIES CONTACTED by phone will also be asked to tell the types of facilities and resources (parks, lakes, trails, community centers) that their members use, and to identify these sites as to whether they are privately owned or managed by state, local, or federal agencies.

Results of this survey will enable the DNR to take stock of Michigan's recreational supplies and demands in comparison with the nation-wide trend.

That same goal is a major one which the DNR has in mind for a questionnaire survey that it will run from mid-July through Labor Day at virtually all state parks. Under this "Help Plan Your Parks" study, a standard question sheet will be randomly handed out to some 40,000 carloads of state park day-visitors this season to learn more about the people who use these areas, where they live, the kind of trips they are on, and the number of ways they use the parks.

Groups contacted under this survey will be asked to fill out their questionnaires and drop them in a box at park exits when they leave these areas.

A similar survey will be conducted by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority at its regional parks and by local officials at major county parks to help the DNR gauge the importance of these facilities in the total recreation picture as one means of projecting their future roles.

Also figuring prominently in the DNR's fact-finding effort this summer is a camper survey covering private campgrounds plus state park and forest campgrounds. Basically, the main goal of this survey is to measure the relationship between public and private campgrounds as it bears upon camper preferences.

Rounding out the DNR's sweeping schedule of surveys is a water recreation study which covers fishing, boating, swimming, and trip expenditures on Michigan's lakes and streams. This will guide the DNR in planning new water-based facilities for recreationists from a better cost-benefit standpoint.

Geake Favors No-Fault Plan

LIVONIA Immediate passage of a modified no-fault auto insurance plan when the Michigan Legislature meets in the fall was urged Sunday night by Bob Geake of Northville, Republican candidate for state representative from the 35th district.

Speaking to a group of campaign supporters at the home of Mrs. Beverly Chiasson of Livonia, he labeled the need for a no-fault plan "one of the most pressing issues of the day."

Geake declared the proposal would "assure fast, sure compensation for injured victims of auto accidents as well as reduce excessive legal fees for expensive court trials."

HE TOLD his audience that the primary benefit of this plan would be the requirement that auto insurance companies must pay the insured motorist's medical costs regardless of who is to blame for the accident.

The modified version of no-fault which he would support, he explained, would include a provision allowing legal action against the driver at fault for additional injury expenses and earnings loss payment and for general damages commonly called "pain and suffering."

He pointed out that the only exclusion permitted under this type of no-fault auto insurance would be to those whose conduct contributed to their own injury. Such instances, he noted, includes driving while under the influence of liquor or drugs, using a car without authorization, driving without a license or while under license suspension or revocation, driving on a bet or driving to avoid arrest.

Health Bills Supported

Health care should be a national priority according to William H. Brown, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the 2nd Congressional seat.

The seat is now held by Republican U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch of Ann Arbor. Six people are seeking the Democratic nomination.

Brown announced his support for the Kennedy Health Plan in a meeting at the home of Sharon Sarris in Plymouth. The plan would establish a program to educate more doctors, dentists and other health care personnel. Incentives would be provided to get these persons in areas where they are most needed.

Brown said it would be financed by federal government funds matched with employee and employer contributions.

"The poor suffer the most under the present system," Brown said, citing statistics stating that one in five Americans under age 65 didn't have hospital or surgical insurance in 1969.

Moon Eclipse Due July 26

ANN ARBOR July, a busy month for astronomy enthusiasts, will offer both a solar and a lunar eclipse, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

ON JULY 26, only two weeks after the solar eclipse, an eclipse of the moon will occur, Prof. Losh noted. "Again, like the solar eclipse, this one will be only partially visible from Michigan."

The lunar eclipse will begin at about 12:56 a.m. and will terminate at about 3:37 a.m., she added.

"The moon in its orbital motion will first touch the shadow just after midnight. The darkness will gradually spread over the moon's lower surface until the mid-point of the eclipse at about 2:16 a.m. Then the moon will begin to leave the shadow and will be out of it at about 3:37 a.m." At the midpoint of the eclipse, a little more than one-half the moon's surface will be hidden, Prof. Losh stated.

"Both these partial eclipses will be interesting to watch, but are not of great scientific importance," Prof. Losh said. "These will be the last two eclipses this year."

ALSO OF astronomical interest this month will be the Milky Way which will "dominate the heavens," Prof. Losh said. "The wide lazy stretch of light will rise higher and higher in the heavens as summer progresses."

To the unaided eye, the Milky Way shines as a soft misty light, she said, but with some optical aid such as binoculars or a small telescope, it becomes "a myriad of faint stars, nebulae, star and dust clouds."

One map shows all major roads and the other shows the boundaries of all minor civil divisions. Each covers the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne.

The regional road base maps will include projected freeway additions to 1975. Charges for the maps are $1 for the 25 by 30 inch size (one inch equals four miles) and $2 for the 48 by 30 inch size (one inch equals two miles).

Maps of minor civil divisions are free for the 8½ by 11 inch size (one inch equals 12 miles) and 50 cents for the 25 by 30 inch size (one inch equals four miles).

SEMCOG also published an updated bibliography, "Regional Publications and Planning Materials," which describes the council's research reports, plans, maps, slide index and aerial photography available to citizens of the southeast region.

The booklet is available on request from the information office.

WHY SETTLE FOR ANYTHING LESS THAN COMPLETE SATISFACTION

When buying furniture, there is no substitute for quality, service or value.

Unfortunately today, as ironic as it may seem, the trend is not toward more service... but less!

Quite frankly, to us at Robinson Furniture this attitude is both upsetting and appalling.

Because we've spent a lifetime building and staking our reputation not only on the selection and value of the furniture we sell but on the service that accompanies it.

At Robinson's we sincerely believe that we have selections second to none in the State.

From French Provincial to Italian Provincial. From Modern to Mediterranean. From English to Oriental. From Spanish to Traditional.

And all at prices (promptly delivered to your home) that can't be matched for quality and value.

We invite you to come visit any one of our five convenient store locations.

You'll find it an experience in complete shopping satisfaction.

It's Livonia-Redford In Showdown

Everything was progressing according to schedule for Livonia Griffin Adray baseball Coach Ron Hellier with his baseballers winning the first three games of the second round. The schedule in fact was showing signs of Livonia being the team to beat ... that is before the up and down Dearborn squad entered the scene.

Dearborn scored two runs in the first inning and hung on to edge Livonia, 2-1, and Coach Heller now finds himself in a three-way tie for second with Redford and Northville, each having three wins.

In first place, for the moment, is South Farmington's Mario Sinacola squad with a four win - one loss record. Sinacola has the distinction of being the only team to have beaten first round championship Redford and Coach Harry DeBash has high hopes of keeping his team on top.

The overall strength and balance of Livonia and Redford should prevail in the long run but one will have to give in to the other today.

Wednesday (July 19) with Livonia Griffin Sport meeting Redford Adray at 6 p.m. on Livonia Ford Field.

Each squad boasts a 3-1 mark with the winner favored to capture the second half championship.

BOTH COACHES will be going with their best. Livonia head mentor Heller will send his U-D hurler and Franklin grad Tony Kaseta up against the tops in the league in Redford's Tom Ford.

Ford has a 6-0 record which includes two no-hitters; two one-hitters and two two-hitters.

It was Livonia's Dave Rice against Bruce Johnson in the Dearborn clash. Rice allowed five hits, struck out five and walked none in the losing effort which dropped his overall mark to 3-2. Johnson gave up four hits, struck out eight and walked one.

A SINGLE by Frank Muto, a double by John Renko, and a two base error gave Dearborn a 2-0 advantage in the first.

Livonia rallied in the fourth with runners on second and third and only one out but failed to come up with the key hit with two batsmen going down on strikeouts.

Hellier's squad finally put it together in the sixth.

STEVE CROWE was safe on an error and Bill Turkington singled to put runners on first and second with one out. Pat Perino followed with the longest single of his young career.

The shot to left field bounced off the fence but Crowe remained on second for the tag and all runners were thus held to one base with Crowe moving to third.

Johnson bore down and struck out Howard Schryer but walked Rice to force in Crowe and make it a 2-1 contest.

John Sietka lined out to halt the rally and Livonia failed to click in the final inning to fall to its first defeat in second half competition.

Can Anyone Top This?

Brother acts in athletics are a dime a dozen, but how about five winning varsity letters at the same university?

The Zindel brothers -- Barry, Jack, Bruce, Jeff and Greg -- all are Michigan State varsity lettermen.

Barry, now a medical doctor, lettered in football (1959), Jack won one letter in football (1968) and three in wrestling (1968-69-70). He also copped two Big Ten titles. He currently is in training for the Olympic trials. Bruce, a senior in communication arts, already has won two letters in wrestling. Jeff, a junior in pre-medicine, has won one in wrestling, and Greg, now in the U.S. Marine Corps, also has won one in wrestling.

Mack American Race Still On, Redford No. 1

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

The race is still on for the Connie Mack American League baseball crown with Redford Warholak in the driver's seat and Churchill's National Pride closing fast.

Redford boasts a 12-1 mark and National Pride a 10-1 record.

Roger Frayer's National Pride club will make up the two game difference this weekend with all indications of the deciding contest being the league finale Tuesday, July 25, when Redford meets National Pride.

Each team is favored to carry a 14-1 mark into the game. Coach Frayer will more than likely go with his ace righthander Ken Wood while Redford Coach Bob Atkins will call on Tom Nippa.

Redford pushed its mark to 12-1 with wins over Livonia Optimist, 8-2, and Holman Pontiac, 3-1. National Pride kept pace with a 9-1 triumph over West Bloomfield and a 9-5 victory over Northville.

FANCHER'S kept a firm hold on third place in the American standings with a 12-7 win over North Farmington to stand at 7-4.

Gary Fuiks hurled a five hit, struck out five and walked three in the win over Livonia Optimist with his teammates banging out 12 hits off Vezina and Roshirt.

Redford scored five times in the top of the second. Kurt Fritz walked, Steve Friedman doubled and Mark Yourchok singled in one. Glenn Richmond, Mike Kalil and Mike Johnston followed with singles sandwiched by a Fuiks sacrifice to make it 5-0.

A RICHMOND DOUBLE, ground out and wild pitch increased it to 6-0 in the third.

Livonia got one back in the last of the third when Dan Klopp singled, Vezina was safe on an error and Mark Marlow singled.

Warholak made it 7-1 in the fourth when Lupe Bravo singled, moved up on an infield out, and scampered around on a hit by Friedman. Livonia scored its second tally in the bottom of the stanza on walks to Lacy, Lawler and a single by Boudnik.

A single by Richmond, walk to Kalil and single by Fuiks concluded the Redford assault in the top of the seventh, with Fuiks picking up his fourth win against one loss.

TOM MILLER went against the Plymouth JV Holman Pontiac squad and recorded his third consecutive win, allowing four hits and striking out four. Jeff Thompson worked for Holman and gave up five hits in taking the defeat.

Redford scored two in the top of the first when R. J. LeRoux and Johnston drew walks. Friedman singled and Johnston scampered in on a double steal.

The last of the first saw Holman make it a 2-1 game. Bill Ensor singled, was forced at second with John Major on first. Wayne Williams delivered a two-bagger to score Major.

A single by Friedman, a stolen base and single by Kalil added an insurance run in the sixth with Tommy Miller doing the rest on the mound.

National Pride went after West Bloomfield with Ken Wood hurling a one-hitter ... the leadoff batter sliced one up the middle.

Wood then proceeded to strike out nine consecutive batters from the second to fifth innings for a total of 14 with Mike Gaff the lone Bloomfield batsman standing between him and fame.

It was the third win for the Churchill righthander and Greg Babiak went the route for Bloomfield and gave up nine hits in taking the defeat.

NATIONAL PRIDE scored five in the fifth to jump off on Babiak.

Al Leirstein singled, stole second, Wood singled and Bob Blaies walked to fill the bases. With one out, Phil Skender bunted his way on with Leirstein scoring. Rick Dreher and Roy Henriksson followed with singles.

Singles by Steve Chilenko and Blaies and a three-bagger by Skender made it an 8-1 contest in the sixth. A double by Rob Hawraney and single by Chilenko finished the Pride attack.

COACH FRAYER called on Gary Sobkowiak in the Northville battle with the young righthander coming up with a five hit, striking out nine and walking three in scoring his second win.

Joe Bishop chucked for Northville and suffered a five hit, 9-5 defeat.

The big inning in the Pride assault was the second when five runners crossed the plate on only two hits.

Sobkowiak drew a walk, Blaies was safe on an error and a double steal put runners on second and third. Skender walked to load them up and Dreher walked to force in Sobkowiak. Hawraney was hit by a pitch to force in Blaies and Chilenko doubled to score two with Henriksson following with a single.

Fancher's Coach Frank Greger had to use three pitchers but found a stopper with his Stevenson High club toppling North Farmington, 12-7.

TOM ZALIAGIRIS, Terry Laird and Tom Centers all saw work on the mound with Zaliagiris picking up the win in a starting role. John Cassidy, Jerry Doot and Rick Garneau worked the North Farmington mound with starter Cassidy the loser.

Fancher's put it all together in the second inning to score seven runs and all but put the game on ice. Don Finn walked, Mark Keifer singled and Scott Price walked. Terry McElroy delivered a two run single and Mark Temby was hit by a pitch to load the base paths.

Laird blasted a three run triple, Bob Ganzak also tripled and Mark Tressler singled and the rest was fairly easy sailing with Coach Greger having to call on his bullpen with North Farmington coming up with one in the first, four in the third and two in the fourth.

Runner-Up

Wayne State University's 1972 fencing team claimed runner-up honors at the 7th Annual Great Lakes Championships, three points behind repeat champion Detroit.

Farmington Drops 4th Doubleheader

Farmington Legion won its ninth game on an Auburn Heights forfeit but fell to an overall mark of 9-13 after a doubleheader loss to Troy, 7-1, and 8-7.

This marks the fourth twin bill that Farmington has let slip by the wayside and hopes of a playoff berth are beginning to fade.

AUBURN HEIGHTS could only come up with eight players and Farmington added one to the 'win' column.

On the other hand, Troy came up with more than enough players and totaled 26 hits in the twin sweep.

Troy's Steve McCady hurled a one-hitter in the opening contest with Mitch Thomas playing the spoiler's role with a leadoff single in the second inning.

Jeff Herman and Randy Stringer shared Farmington's mound duties with starter Herman taking the loss.

The second game appeared to be a turnabout with Farmington jumping off to a 7-2 advantage in the fourth inning.

JEFF HERMAN started off the Farmington second when safe on an error. Gary Sutter walked, Ken Dirocco singled, and Rich Stringer doubled.

Farmington added five in the fourth with Rich Stringer coasting along in the pitching department.

Troy woke up with three runs in the second and scored three times in the bottom of the seventh with Jack Rice called in to stop Troy but failing and Troy taking both ends of the doubleheader.

Farmington received an additional blow in the first inning of the second game when Rob Holton took a hot ground ball on the nose. The nose was broken in two places and Farmington dropped two games.

Farmington hosts Lake Orion on Wednesday (July 19) at the Drake Diamond and travels to Auburn Heights for a 6 p.m. Friday game.

IT'S BACK to another twin bill on Sunday with Farmington at Walled Lake at 2 p.m.

Sinacola Wins 2, Takes Over First

The Court Jester

by BILL CAMERON

South Farmington's Sinacola captured two wins to take over first place honors in the second round of Adray competition.

Sinacola edged Garden City, 2-1, and blitzed North Farmington Koebel, 9-3, to stand 4-1 in the quest for the second round playoff position.

Livonia Griffin and Redford sport identical 3-1 records in a tie for the second spot with Birmingham Varsity Shop a notch off at 2-1.

It took nine innings but Harry DeBash's squad squeaked out win No. 3 over Garden City with John Pantalone going the distance for South Farmington and recording a six hit win with three strikeouts and five walks to his credit.

TERRY DOBBS went the route for Garden City and allowed eight hits, struck out three and walked none in suffering the loss.

Sinacola struck first with one in the bottom of the opening stanza. With one out, Ray Ponke singled and after the second out, Tony Wenson was safe on an error. Tom Rowly connected on a hit up the middle and Ponke scored. Garden City notched it at one all in the top of the fifth on walks to Fogarty, Fisher and Humphrey and a sacrifice by Ken Gugel.

SOUTH FARMINGTON broke the extra inning deadlock in the last of the ninth with an unearned tally. John Pantalone was safe on an error and after two outs, Rick Pauline was safe on an error. Wenson delivered a game winning single to score Pantalone and Sinacola ended up the victor.

The crew from South Farmington made no qualms about the victor in the contest with North Koebel. Sinacola crushed Koebel, 9-3, with John Fleming hurling an eight hitter, striking out six and walking none. The righthander evened his pitching mark at 2-2.

the sacks again. Paul Kupersmidt was safe on an error. Terry Smith walked and with two outs, Holappa drew his second base on balls of the inning to score Hool with the fifth run.

Wenson was safe on an error to start the Sinacola second and Hool connected for the first South Farmington hit with a run scoring double to push the lead to 6-2. Kupersmidt was safe on an error and Terry Smith singled to score Hool.

For ladies only!

Sign up now if you'd like to compete in the ladies tennis league now forming and sponsored by the "Court Jester."

Why a league you ask? Simple say I. There are enough potentially good tennis players out there that are going to get better only if they find some competition. Playing the same person all the time does not improve one's game. Interested? Call Barb Moulin: 261-9477.

and at the end of August we'll announce the leaders and present them with appropriate awards. From the league standings we can then seed players for a September women's tournament.

Some of you may be ready to play in the Dearborn mixed doubles "Tennis & Crumpets" tourney. This is an annual fun tournament geared to all levels of ability and the proceeds go to a good cause.

The Livonia park and recreation department novice tourney will be held at Stevenson H.S. this Friday, Saturday and Sunday, followed by the Livonia City Championships, for residents only.

I'm sorry I won't be here to cover either tournament as I'll be basking in the sun on beautiful Cape Cod at a small resort called the Four Havens, for tennis playing families.

How can you beat the combination of tennis, the ocean, more tennis, and lobster?

OUR RULES are very simple. You must play a minimum of twice a week, at your own convenience. All you do is pick up the phone, call your opponent and arrange a match. A match will consist of a "pro set" - whoever wins 10 games wins the match.

The league will start the week of July 31. We will have two levels of play, A and B. The more advanced players will compete in flight A and the beginners in flight B.

You will play 10 matches and points will be awarded

50 Years After PGA Championship, Sarazen Set Again

When Gene Sarazen stands on the first tee of the Oakland Hills Country Club in Birmingham, Aug. 3-6, it will mark the 50th anniversary of the first of three victories in the PGA Championship.

38 holes in the final before the former prevailed.

He lost to Tommy Armour in 1930 but three years later came back to beat Willie Goggin, five and four. In addition to his three victories, Sarazen reached the semifinals twice and the quarterfinals on six occasions.

There will be memories aplenty at Oakland Hills. Denny Shute will be there, 35 years after he scored consecutive victories. Jim Ferrier will be returning to the general area of his 1947 victory at Plum Hollow.

Historians will note the presence of Lionel Hebert, the last to win at match play in 1957, and Dow Finsterwald, Hebert's last-round victim who found stroke play more to his liking the following year. Then there's Don January who has been involved in the only two 18-hole playoffs since 1958. He lost to Jerry Barber's incredible putting in 1961 but outlasted Don Massengale in 1967.

Since all former champions are eligible, the championship becomes a nostalgic event with the oldtimers mixing with the youngsters. Now 70, Sarazen first sought the title in 1921 but lost in the quarterfinals. It didn't take him long to find the key, however, and the next year, at Oakland, he scored a convincing four and three victory over Emmet French. The following year, Sarazen and the late great Walter Hagen toiled for KOEBEL OPENED with two in the top of the first to enjoy a short-lived advantage. With two outs, Wolfe doubled, Marty Raymond singled and John Coombs singled.

Sinacola exploded for five in the bottom of the inning without the benefit of a hit. Four consecutive walks started the rally with John Holappa, Ray Ponke, Pauline and Wenson all drawing bases on balls.

Rowley sacrificed in one run and Greg Hool walked to fill SINGLES by Holappa and Pauline added one in the third with a fourth inning two-bagger by Hool and single by Jim Bunnetto making it 9-2.

Koebel added a run in the sixth when Wolfe singled, Copp singled, and Earhart singled but the seven walks in the first inning proved too much for this North Farmington crew to overcome.

Plymouth Elks Remain On Top With 8-1 Mark

Plymouth remains in the No. 1 Connie Mack National League slot with an 8-1 record after a victory over Churchill's junior varsity squad Redford Tool, 4-1.

John Owens recorded his fifth win against no losses with a four-hitter, 10 strikeouts, and two walks to his credit.

KEVIN NELSON suffered the defeat for Redford Tool, allowing eight hits, striking out three and walking two.

The Plymouth Elks scored twice in the third inning. Dan Hees singled and stole second and Steve Crowther beat out a bunt to place runners on first and third.

Coch Wayne Sparkman called for his famous double steal and Hees scored with Crowther taking second. Owens sacrificed the runner to third where Dave Hees singled to bring him in.

REDFORD TOOL rallied for one in the top of the fourth. Nelson and Jim Foster opened with singles and after two outs, Mike Rosendale drew a walk to fill the sacks.

Plymouth catcher Jim Grimmer attempted to pickoff Rosendale but the toss went astray and Nelson scored to make it a 2-1 game.

A walk, two singles and suicide squeeze pushed the Plymouth margin to three in two, Watkins walked and Palmer singled to finish the scoring giving Hines a 12-0 second inning lead.

CROWE CAME to life in the top of the third to score three runs on five hits off Jinnett. Paul Sevonty singled, Bob Neale walked and Worniak, Bob Deacon, Boegler and Waldoock singled.

The Franklin High crew didn't remain content with the nine run bulge. Singles by Frantz, Crowe and Hollandsworth made it 14-3 in the third and singles by Watson and Frantz plus a stolen base pushed it to 15-3 in the sixth.

Hines climaxed an offensive afternoon with six runs in the top of the seventh.

Hollandsworth walked, Jamie Knapp, Palmer and Jinnett singled; Watson drew a walk, Yuhasz tripled and Frantz singled.

Hines Explodes, 21-3

Franklin High's Hines Park Connie Mack squad put it all together with Bentley High Crowe the victim of a 21-3 wallop.

The win placed Hines Park in second place in the National League with a 7-3 mark while Crowe slipped to a 6-3 showing. Plymouth remained on top of the heap at 8-1.

Joe Jinnett worked for Hines, allowing seven hits, striking out eight and walking four. Brent Boegler started for Crowe with Coach Joe Berg going right down his line of pitchers without a stopper.

Hines scored two in the first, 10 in the second, two in the third, one in the sixth, and six in the seventh to round out its attack with Crowe mustering three in the second.

SINGLES by Jeff Waterstone, Ken Yuhasz and Steve Crowe accounted for the first two tallies in the first with Hines exploding for 10 in the second.

Dave Watkins singled and scored on Kevin Palmer's three-bagger. Wayne Darragh singled in Palmer and Waterstone doubled in Darragh. Yuhasz followed with a single and Gar Frantz and Crowe drew base on balls.

Professionalism: Key At Police School

A police recruit picks up a cigar box from a table, opens the lid and is greeted by a bright flash of light.

"That could have been a bomb," Michigan State Police Sgt. Milton Jury tells the embarrassed policeman - to be.

The box is rigged so the slightest jiggle sets off the "bomb" - it doesn't really work, just triggers a big flash bulb.

But it drives home the point. Jury and his teaching tactics are part of the Wayne County Sheriff's police academy, now completing its sixth session at Milton School on Henry Ruff near the county hospital and the Sheriff's Road Patrol headquarters.

Here, police recruits from all over the state are completing a basic training curriculum as part of the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council. The council was established by state law a few years ago to upgrade training for policemen. A similar one was established for firemen.

Twelve prospective Wayne County Sheriff officers are among 37 recruits at the current school. They come from as far away as Portage and Kent County (Grand Rapids). Of the 37, three are women.

ONCE AT THE SCHOOL, they are treated to military-type discipline. They must dress in civilian clothes, but wear a tie. They stand for inspection each morning at 8 a.m., where roll is taken and dress and grooming checked.

It's no place for long hairs. Hair must be neat, and closely trimmed; mustaches, while allowed, must be very modest.

Questions and comments are prefaced by "sir." Director of the school, Peter Wilson, explains:

"We use a semi-military atmosphere. We want them to be conditioned to it."

Wilson is an administrative assistant to Sheriff William Lucas, but is assigned specifically to running the school. A graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in police administration, Wilson spent three years with the Flint police department before joining the sheriff's staff.

THE SCHOOL began in 1971, and ran four sessions. One more session was operated this year before the current one got under way. Wilson, who is working on a masters degree at the University of Michigan, says the school stresses knowledge and professionalism.

"To acquire that ability - that professionalism - takes a specialized brand of training that most municipal departments aren't equipped to give," Wilson noted.

The state law requires 240 hours of instruction, but the sheriff's academy gives 280 hours. The sheriff's own recruits get even more training.

To make it, the recruit must pass at 70 per cent level on exams, papers prepared for class and the notebook.

Training with fire arms and physical fitness is also part of the requirements.

THE COURSE is intensive and demanding. The recruits spend 54 hours learning about law, with particular emphasis on the laws of arrest, search and seizure, and evidence. Ten hours are spent on court law, 14 on criminal law.

Among the resource people used at the school during the legal section of the course are Rhea Marchard of the county prosecutor's office, Terry Boyle of the sheriff's legal advisory department and Fred Lavik, a lawyer with a private firm.

Many hours are spent on investigative techniques, including six hours on dangerous drugs. Recruits also learn how to handle drug overdose cases.

The course work is specific. For instance, six hours are spent on dealing with domestic complaints (family trouble). They often are very touchy situations and require a lot of the policeman's time. They learn first aid techniques, how to take fingerprints, even human relations, and police ethics. "We try to break up the long days of lectures with firearms training and physical fitness," Wilson said.

AND THEY learn about bombs. State policeman Jury gives it to them straight:

"Some of you may be called upon to handle a bomb. This is important in small departments where no specialized bomb squad has been developed."

Jury shows the men how a man-killing explosive can be hidden in a cigarette package, and what a blasting cap can do to a coffee can.

The recruits are paid by their departments for attending. Those who don't meet the standards can be washed out of the school. Five demerits for appearance or lateness, and he or she is out, Wilson said.

At the end of the session, Wilson and the staff write a written statement on each trainee and send it back to the candidate's department.

"We are very frank, and we will tell a chief if he has a man who will be a policeman, or just some guy who sees it as a job," Wilson said.

Where's the best place for communities to send new policemen? "We think our school is the best," Wilson noted.

It is not automatic that a recruit will pass.

"He has to make it on his own," Wilson said.

Orange Flowers Give Garden Cheerful Touch

By BETTY FRANKEL
Special Writer

What is that spot of orange gleaming by the roadside and that patch of orange in the meadow? They glow like beacons. And what are those orange flowers clustered at the base of an old tree and clambering up a bank at the edge of the golf course?

Chances are the bright flowers in the meadow and by the roadside are orange milkweed. They are real wild flower gems. Not rare, but not really common, either. They have small, intricately formed flowers that are clustered to make a large flat flower head.

Monarch butterflies, often seen flitting about them, have caused them to be known, also, as butterfly weed.

The orange flowers at the base of the tree are undoubtedly tawny daylilies. They are of a somewhat more subdued hue than the orange milkweed. They are a common wild flower, but are nonetheless a pleasant sight to see. These were treasured garden flowers in colonial times but have escaped from gardens and become "wild."

These orange flowers glow like jewels against a setting of green foliage. They have a warmth and intensity that is unrivaled. Strangely enough, though, there are relatively few orange flowers. There are only a handful of orange-hued wild flowers and really not a great many garden plants with orange flowers.

ASIDE FROM the orange milkweed and tawny daylily the other wildlings that come in shades of orange are really rather rare.

It is not often that one finds a clump of Canada lilies or Michigan lilies nodding in a sunny meadow, or sees a wood lily or turks cap lily unfurling spotted orange petals deep in a woodland glen.

Orange flowers in the garden are as cheerful to see as those growing in the wild. Even a few blooms can liven up the garden and a clump or two can be a real focal point. They are best used as orange is used indoors for an accent to spark a neutral color scheme.

Use them in front of evergreens for a striking effect, or they can be combined with other flower hues. Orange flowers combine beautifully with shades of gold and yellow for a blended effect. They can be used with white and misty blues for crisp contrast, or they can be combined with pink flowers for an unusual color scheme rather like a Persian tapestry or Indian print.

Among the annuals, first choice goes to the marigolds. There are both dwarf forms and tall bushy kinds with vivid orange blooms. There are zinnias, too, with orange flowers. Among the best are the varieties known as Aztec, Torch, and Bonanza.

CALIFORNIA poppies, Mexican poppies and Shirley poppies all have orange varieties. The foliage on all of these is rather delicate looking and the flowers have silky petals that are exquisite.

Cosmos, generally seen in pale shades of pink and white, are also available in a vivid orange. Look also for Calendula, annual chrysanthemums, and African daisies in various shades of orange ranging from pale orange sherbet to vivid flame tones.

Among the orange perennials that can highlight the garden there are oriental poppies which bloom in early June, and Iceland poppies which bloom more or less continuously throughout the summer.

Daylilies have many fine hybrids with orange-toned flowers. Some are a delicate peach color and others are more vivid. These are fine additions to the garden - hardy and dependable and disease free.

LILIES CAN be planted to provide an orange gleam. "Enchantment," regarded as the easiest lily to grow, has clusters of upturned red-orange flowers in late June and early July. There are other orange-toned lilies available including both hybrid forms and the wild species types.

Other bulb flowers come in shades of orange, too. These include tulips, gladiolus, and dahlias.

Another spectacular display of orange flowers is provided by the trumpet vine. This is laden at this season with long, tubular flowers of vivid orange.

So if your garden needs a lift, plant an orange flower, or for a season of cheerful bloom choose a sequence of plants that will provide that cheerful orange accent.

Butcher Blocks Popular

If you love an eclectic blending of period styles but hate the cold, clinical appearance of much of today's modern furniture, if you're charmed by the look of clean lines and revel in the satiny texture of smooth surfaces, then the latest decorating craze, the butcher block, has a definite place in your home. Once used exclusively in the kitchen, as the name implies, the butcher block functioned in olden days as a "giant" cutting board. It was ideal for absorbing chopping blows and the blades of sharp knives remained keen when cutting was done upon a hardwood block.

Made of hardwood strips or blocks, laminated under pressure, the butcher block, in both old and new versions, features an array of intricate wood figure patterns, a variety of different natural wood colors and an interesting configuration of individual shapes and sizes arranged to form a solid wood piece.

Most butcher blocks are, in fact, made of maple, birch, pecan or beech, which are strong, sturdy close-grained woods also known for their decorative value.

BUT WHILE the butcher block still enjoys growing popularity in modern kitchens, where it is used for counter tops and smaller decorative accessories, enthusiastic manufacturers are converting the "block" concept into exciting furniture designs.

Butcher block tables for dining room and living room are now available, offering a multitude of assets in additional hardwood favorites such as oak, walnut, cherry and ash. Not only does the butcher block blend well with both traditional and contemporary decor, but the penetrating natural finish of the wood is a snap to care for.

Surfaces need only be dusted or oiled, while scratches can easily be removed by sanding with a fine grade of sand paper. The ideal dining table, butcher blocks are spill and stain resistant.

AS THE DEMAND for the "natural look" in decorating reaches a new fervor, manufacturers of fine wood furniture have also begun to produce a variety of chairs and sofas in the block motif, featuring butcher block frames and downy cushions. Perfect for living room, playroom, or den, this new hardwood seating is comfortable, sturdy, and high in decorative interest.

A FAVORITE IN 19TH century households was the practical yet pretty Sandwich glass.

Collectors Prize Sandwich Glass

Sandwich is more than something for lunch.

It's a type of early American glassware that sings with color and glitters with light, one of this country's great heritages like the Brooklyn Dodgers, silent movies and the Model T.

Sandwich glass derives its name from the Boston & Sandwich Glass Co., in Sandwich, Mass., where it was produced from 1825 to 1888 in the glass industry's first hand-pressing operation.

The intricate designs and lacy loveliness of Sandwich glass, coupled with New England practicality, made it a favorite of 19th century households.

IT WAS in 1825 that the Boston & Sandwich Glass Co. began to create Sandwich glass at its factory in the Cape Cod community of Sandwich. The company banked its fires for good in 1888 during a labor dispute, and after 63 years of production Sandwich had become a household word throughout New England and America.

After 1888 Sandwich soon disappeared from practical table use and began to appear on collector's shelves; Sandwich lost its original, specific meaning and the word came to be used generically to denote a lacy, frilly design.

The variety and multitude of designs and patterns that gave Sandwich its popularity and uniqueness were created in three-piece molds in a hand-pressing operation.

Up to the introduction of hand-pressing, glass was blown, making it an expensive commodity not everyone could afford.

Pest Of The Week

THRIPS ON PRIVET HEDGE

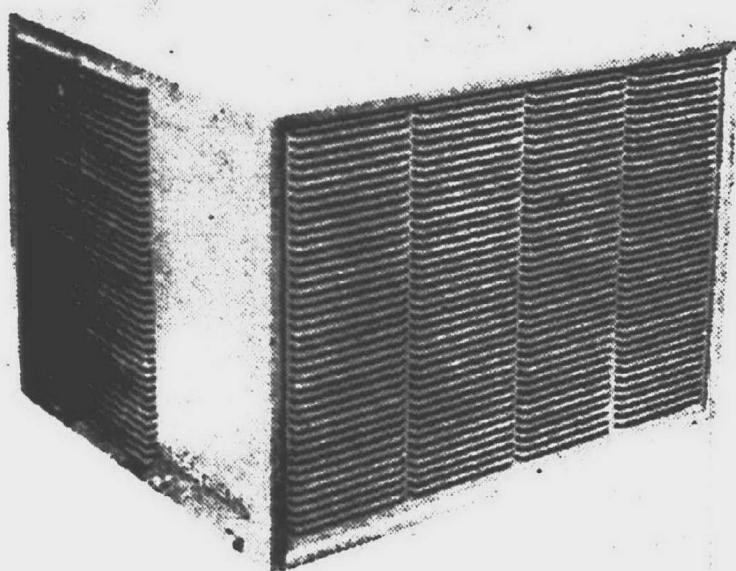

Many complaints have been received from homeowners this year on defoliation of privet hedge. It is caused by a small, sucking insect (thrips) on the backs of the leaves. These small insects are yellow, spindle or cigar-shaped in the larval stage, and can be readily seen with the naked eye.

The larva are wingless. The adult is dark brown to black, with a bright red band. Foliage will have a grayish, dusty appearance.

CONTROL: Spray foliage with Diazinon (Spectraide) or Malathion twice, 14 days apart, when damage begins. Malathion 50 per cent emulsion, or Diazinon emulsion, two tablespoons per gallon, concentrate on undersides of the leaves.

Poison Ivy Contact Requires Fast Action

EAST LANSING Recognition is your best protection against infection from poison ivy and sumac this summer, says Michigan

State University pesticide specialist Alan Putnam.

A good aid is the U.S. Department of Agriculture identification guide entitled "Poison Ivy, Poison Oak and Poison Sumac: Farmers' Bulletin No. 1972," Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20401. Single copies are 10 cents.

If you do come in contact with poisonous plants, wash yourself and your clothes. Strong soap or detergent in running water will remove poisonous oils, says Dr. Elizabeth Hutchinson, assistant clinical professor of dermatology in MSU's Department of Medicine.

Use cleaning fluid on clothes that must be dry cleaned. If you take clothes to a dry cleaner, let him know they are harmless contaminated. Scrub door handles, tools and furniture that might be contaminated.

describes removal methods. At the first signs of poisoning - bumpy red spots in streaks - apply cool, wet compresses. As blisters develop, use calamine lotion, Dr. Hutchinson says. She also suggests using baking soda in your bath.

"The rash itself is not contagious," the dermatologist says. "Once the oils have been washed off, contact with a person affected with poison ivy is harmless. Nor does scratching spread the blisters."

A poison ivy or sumac rash can be contracted by direct contact, by brushing against contaminated people or objects, or from smoke if the plants are burned, Putnam says. You are more likely to encounter poison ivy than sumac in Michigan, he adds. Symptoms may appear a few hours or even as long as five days after contact.

If you must be in a poison ivy or sumac infested area, use protective formulas suggested in the bulletin such as a ferric chloride and glycerine solution, cottonseed or olive oil, or petrolatum.

Philodendron: We receive more letters concerning philodendrons than any other foliage plant.

The heart-leaved or climbing philodendron (P. oxycardium or P. cordatum) is the small plant that you see trailing from center pieces, vases and planters in most homes and offices.

This native of the jungle thrives in poor light beneath large trees. It can survive with little water and rebels against having "wet feet." This heart-shaped philodendron is called man's best friend in the plant world, just as the dog is called man's best friend in the animal world. They both share this reputation because they are well adapted to live in close harmony with man.

TOUBLES: Philodendrons often show yellowing of leaves, or drooping of foliage. This indicates plants are overwatered, or poorly drained. Best rule of thumb for watering: Let plant go dry between waterings. A weak, yellowish color without leaf drop indicates too much light or direct sun. Move to a bright window without direct sun.

A yellowish appearance with soft, wilted leaves indicate soil is too dry for too long a period. If this is also accompanied by some leaves that are dry or burned on edges and shoot tips that are killed, or dried, it means that there's too much heat in the room, or too low humidity or you've been giving plants too much fertilizer.

Black spots along the edges mean overwatering or poor drainage.

A common complaint is leaves grow smaller and smaller. This is a sign of poor light, poor soil or insufficient water.

STAKED TOMATOES: Just a reminder that tomatoes grown on a trellis or stake need more moisture than those rambling on a mulch, or not trained.

Make sure that staked tomatoes get at least one inch of water per week during July. They need as much as two inches in August, so be sure to keep the soil moist. Low soil moisture during July and August leads to development of a problem called blossom-end rot. Infected tomatoes develop blackened, depressed spots, so adequate moisture will prevent this.

How To Control July Insect Pests

EAST LANSING Ornamentals and trees take a beating from the most troublesome July insect pests in this part of the country:

The leaf hopper and plant bug, which attack honey locusts; and the fall webworm, which attacks 120 different ornamentals and trees and is especially fond of oak, birch, linden (basswood), ash and apple trees.

The leaf hopper and plant bug are dark brown to green insects about one-fourth inch long that suck juices from leaves causing the honey locust's leaflets to drop, reports Richard Sauer, Michigan State University extension insect specialist. You can detect them by shaking tree branches and forcing the insects into flight.

To control these pests, Sauer recommends carbaryl (Sevin), malathion or diazinon. Spray rates are on the labels.

The webworm larvae (pale yellow to light green and covered with whitish hairs) spin a silken web over branches and feed inside that web. They first appear in mid-July and can completely defoliate a limb or tree.

IF YOU HAVE just a few of them, just remove the webs and larvae and destroy the insects by hand.

Sauer says detailed information on these and other pests can be found in "Controlling Pests of Trees and Shrubs - Guide for Home Gardeners," Extension Bulletin 534.

Single copies are available free of charge from the Bulletin Office, Box 231, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich. 48823... or from your county Cooperative Extension Service office.

WAYNE JONES SAYS: Don't wait to do your landscaping because you don't know how! We will draw a plan for your home, and give you our expert advice on what to plant and how to plant it. We draw free plans to scale for our customers. Just bring in your house and lot dimensions and a picture, if possible. Your title survey usually has all this information on it. Disunity Cost Wallaceites Key Posts

Election of Michigan's national committeeman and committeewoman for the Democratic Party could have been different if the state's Wallace people had banded together, according to Arthur Bierschbach, Wallace delegate from Redford Township.

After returning from the party's national convention in Miami, Bierschbach said he learned the ins and outs of politics during his "training" in Miami and now is ready to put his education to work.

The Michigan delegates to the national convention elected State Sen. Coleman Young (D-Detroit) and UAW staff worker Helen Irving to the national committee. Both were McGovern delegates.

But Wallace delegates held the most seats — 67 of the 132, and could have elected their own people to the posts had they been unified.

"We gave Coleman Young some bad moments," Bierschbach said.

"The UAW and the party were really going after the votes" after Young failed to get a 67-vote majority on the first ballot, he said.

WALLACE supporters split between Jack Jensen, a Detroit police sergeant, and Peter Bill, owner of a Detroit investigation agency.

On the second vote, Wallace delegates who weren't entirely loyal to the Wallace delegation, defected and helped Young take the post over Jensen.

Mrs. Irving defeated Mrs. Josephine Chapman of Belleville, Wallace's state coordinator when the Wallace people split again and some of their ranks gave their votes to Mrs. Irving.

"There wasn't anyone who was really qualified," for the committeeman's position from the Wallace ranks, Bierschbach admitted but he would like to have elected Mrs. Chapman.

"We've learned something from it," he said. "We have to start now to groom somebody for the position in 1976."

Bierschbach was also present when the Wallace delegates passed an anti-busing resolution. Most of the McGovern and Humphrey delegates were gone when the resolution passed in caucus, but a few remained behind to help passage, Bierschbach said.

state party took a stand in favor of it.

Why then would some McGovern and Humphrey people help pass an anti-busing resolution?

Bierschbach said it was to give Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley something "to hang his hat on."

Kelley is running for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Sen. Robert Griffin, who opposes busing.

The resolution opposes forced busing to achieve racial balance and supports a constitutional amendment to that effect unless parents give "prior written" approval for their children to be bused.

GI Bill Enrollment Up

VA officials noted on the June 1, sixth anniversary of the current GI Bill, that enrollments of 3.3 million already exceed the 2.4 million reached under 13 years of the preceding Korean GI Bill.

Legislators Back State Lottery

LANSING Observerland's legislators were almost unanimous when they gave final approval to legislation to create a state lottery beginning Dec. 1.

Sens. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), William Faust (D-Westland) and David Plawewski (D-Dearborn Heights) voted for the bill while Sen. Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park) didn't vote.

State representatives voting for the bill included Richard Young (D-Dearborn Heights), John Bennett (D-Redford Township), Marvin Stempien (D-Livonia), James Tierney (D-Garden City), Thomas Brown (D-Westland), Raymond Baker (R-Farmington) and James Defebaugh (R-Birmingham).

Rep. Joseph Forbes (D-Oak Park) was absent due to illness.

THE ONLY local representative to vote against it was Raymond Smit (R-Ann Arbor), who is seeking reelection in the new 52nd District which includes Plymouth City and Township.

Controversy on the bill was over who should run it—a commissioner or a three-member commission.

Both houses finally agreed it should be run by a commissioner appointed by the governor. He will decide details of the lottery such as ticket prices, frequency of drawings and sizes of prizes. The Legislature specified that 45 per cent of the proceeds from ticket sales be returned to ticket holders in the form of prizes and that 40 per cent will go into the state's general fund.

The remaining 15 per cent will be spent for administrative cost. Any funds remaining after administrative costs will go into the general fund.

It has been estimated that the lottery will bring $40 million annually into the general fund.

Studded Tire Ban Approved

LANSING Three Observerland senators voted for a bill to ban studded tires on automobiles beginning May 1.

Sens. William Faust (D-Westland), Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) and David Plawewski (D-Dearborn Heights) voted for the bill while Sen. Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park) voted against it. After passing in a 21-11 vote, the bill was referred to the House.

It was argued that the safety of the metal studs wasn't proven and that they could "chew up" Michigan highways to the tune of $248 million in additional taxes over the next nine years, according to Sen. James Fleming (R-Jackson).

The Senate rejected a provision that studs be allowed in the Upper Peninsula but amended the bill to allow studs on school buses, emergency vehicles and rural mail delivery vehicles year-around.

Studs, which are inserted into the treads of snow tires to improve traction, were legalized four years ago but have caused problems because they gouge ruts in roads which collect water and ice. An estimated 15 per cent of Michigan motorists use the tires.

3 Senators OK No-Fault Bill

LANSING

Compulsory no-fault auto insurance legislation passed the Senate recently with three votes from Observerland senators and an opposition vote from Sen. Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park).

Cooper was one of seven senators to oppose the bill which passed with 28 votes. Sens. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), William Faust (D-Westland) and David Plawewski (D-Dearborn Heights) voted for passage.

THE BILL would do away with the concept of proving fault in an accident and would speed up payments to accident victims, cut lawyers costs in obtaining settlements, and clear up court dockets.

Rather than going through the long legal process to prove who was at fault in the accident, the victims would file a claim with their insurance companies who would be required to pay within 30 days or pay a 12 per cent penalty fee. Every Michigan driver would be required to have insurance under the proposal.

It would require a policyholder's insurance company to pay his claims within 30 days of filing or pay a 12 per cent penalty fee. Every Michigan driver would be required to have insurance.

Provisions of the plan include wage loss benefits up to $1,000 monthly, tax free, funeral expenses up to $1,000 and survivor's losses for lost income up to $1,000 monthly for three years.

Rehabilitation costs would be completely reimbursed and persons would still be able to sue in accidents causing death, serious loss of body function and serious disfigurement. Motorcycles and commercial vehicles are exempted from the plan.

Dog Racing Splits Senators

LANSING

Sens. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) and William Faust (D-Westland) were among 17 state senators to oppose a bill authorizing dog racing tracks which passed the Senate recently.

Sens. Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park) and David Plawewski (D-Dearborn Heights) voted for the bill, which passed 20-17 after failing on an earlier vote.

Sponsored by Sen. Harry DeMaso (R-Battle Creek) the bill creates a single greyhound racing commissioner within the Dept. of Agriculture, similar to the state's horse racing commissioner.

He would approve licenses, regulate the tracks and enforce racing laws.

The measure could bring in $20 million in taxes on wagering pools, according to DeMaso. The money would go to local governments.

OBSERVATION POINT

Democratic Convention Marks New Party Suburban Strategy

Last week's Democratic national convention has been called one of the most important political events of the past three decades, likened in impact to the 1932 election which built the Roosevelt Democratic coalition and ran the country for the next 30 years.

This year's convention either marked the start of a newly dominant Democratic party or signaled the ruin of the old one, depending on which authority you take to. Which of these views is correct will be known only after this November, but what is clear is that this year's Democratic gathering was extraordinarily important, not least in its effect on the general interests of the suburban section of our nation.

By contrast, the 1932 election marked the start of the rise to predominance of the big cities. The coalition Roosevelt forged (labor unions, blacks, Catholics and Jews, intellectuals, some farmers) consisted of people who lived in center cities who agreed about issues that affected center cities. To some degree, it can be argued that the center city kind of people who rose to leadership in the old Roosevelt-style Democratic party were very different indeed from the people who started moving out to the suburbs in the 1950s.

In fact, I have a hunch that the failure of the Democratic party to put together a political and ideological base attractive to suburban voters was what won Richard Nixon the 1968 election and which led to the unusually good showing of George Wallace and George McGovern in this May's Michigan primary.

SO WHAT HAPPENED at Miami Beach that bears on the suburbs?

Critically, the convention was much, much more open and more representative of the grass roots Democratic worker than any convention in the past. As a newspaperman who covered the mass hari-kari session the party put on in 1968, reading about this convention was like night and day.

Young people and women -- interest groups particularly important in the demographic profile of the suburbs -- were fully represented for the first time. The big city bosses -- Mayor Daley of Chicago being the best example -- were excluded; these are the kinds of people suburbanites have been fighting for their identity for many years. An astonishing percentage of delegates were attending the convention for the first time, and their prominence gave importance to the previously shutout suburban constituencies they represented.

So purely in terms of the kinds of people who attended the convention and the anti-machine politics views they expressed, this year's convention was a big jump up in suburban influence.

ON THE ISSUE of candidates and platform, the lessons seem equally clear.

Senator McGovern, no matter whether you agree or disagree with him, strikes me as a man whose style is keyed to appeal to the suburbs. Quiet, thoughtful and educated, direct, avoiding the verbal and political excesses of an older generation of politicians, he seems ideally tailored to attract the votes of well educated, highly informed suburban residents.

Certainly the failure of George Wallace to get any nomination or, indeed, to significantly affect the convention on the busing issue, will come as a bitter pill to many of his supporters living in the suburbs.

However, the governor was given his due by the party structure; for example, the Michigan convention could have shafted the Wallace forces out of their fair share of delegates, but failed to do it. And it does seem clear that the powerful constituency represented by Wallace has made its voice heard loud and clear in the evolving party.

Hubert Humphrey. Well Humphrey somehow got passed aside in much the same way as a resident of this area slides by his old west side neighborhood on the way to work in the morning: loved, respected, but somehow hopelessly out of date. And in a way it's nice to see that a man who sacrificed his principles to expediency in the case of the California credentials fight, winding up choosing the wrong expedient and thereby losing everything.

FROM THE STANDPOINTS of style, delegates, candidates, platform -- this Democratic convention was sharply different from any that has come before.

The big city bosses and much of the labor movement are deeply offended and sore. It may be that by losing their support, the Democratic Party has condemned itself to fission and ineffectiveness for the future.

On the other hand, the opening of the party to new people and the bold stroke of seizing new issues of change in such a way as to forge a new coalition out of suburbanites, blacks, and intellectuals may have represented a quantum jump in the way a political party can react to change and thereby retain power.

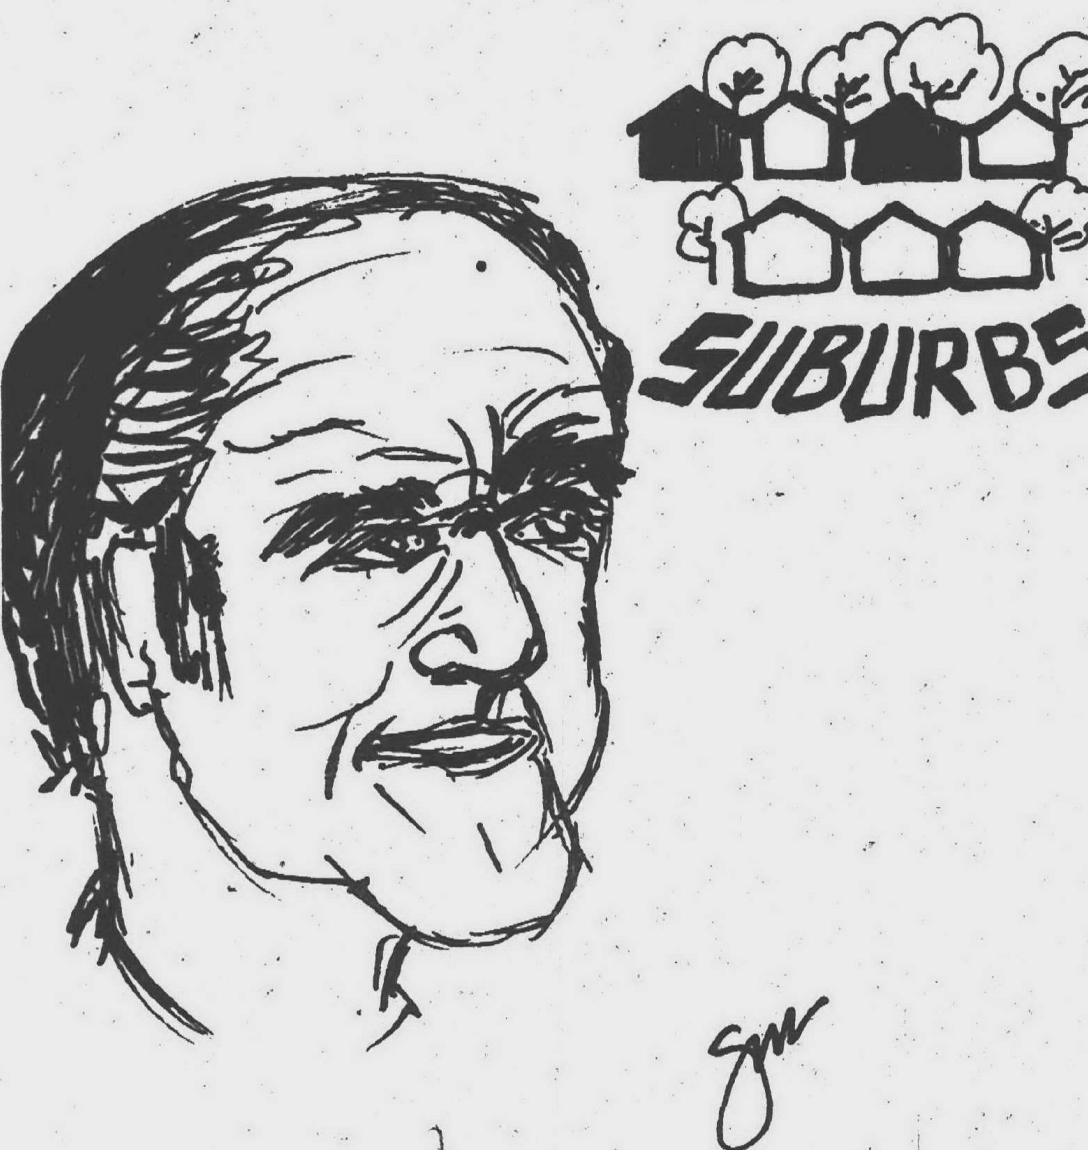

The Democrats captured the big cities with the 1932 election, and they accordingly ran the country for the next 30 years. In 1972, without being explicit about it, the Democrats are trying to capture the suburbs and thereby re-unite their scrambled party and regain their customary dominance.

It's a suburban strategy with a vengeance.

BUILDING BLOCKS FOR AN ELECTION

Why Livonia Needs Rec Millage Backing

(During the summer vacation period the Observer Newspapers have invited civic and business leaders in Observerland to write guest editorials on the problems of the suburbs. Today's guest is Mayor Edward McNamara of Livonia)

By Mayor Edward H. McNamara
City of Livonia

Mayor McNamara

Recreation means different things to different people.

Despite its broad appeal, there is no one way that the entire concept of recreation can be "miniaturized" so that everybody can determine at a glance which aspect they feel best suits them or their families.

What the City of Livonia proposes in the way of extending leisure time facilities and programs ranges from wading pools for toddlers to comfortable lounges wherein the seniors can play whist or chess. And in between that range there likely is available something for everybody else.

So then, why should the City of Livonia find that it faces an uphill battle to arrive at this "something for everybody"?

operational program? Simply because the only way it believes it can best accomplish this is by asking its citizens to pass a one-half mill levy to provide funds.

THERE WILL BE those of you who will remind us that we attempted to do this very thing in May and that such a proposal -- to pass the one-half mill levy for recreation -- went down the drain. To be frank, there are many of us in the administration who believe that the proposals on the May ballot were largely misunderstood.

You will recall that the other proposal which was defeated involved the creation of a Department of Finance. That proposal, which called for making our spending procedures more efficient, had broad endorsement across the board.

Why then, was it defeated? We simply do not know. We wonder then, why the proposal to provide operational funds for the city's recreational program also failed.

IF THE MOTIVATION which prompted our placing this issue on the ballot was grossly misunderstood, then it is the duty, we believe, for this administration to take another shot at it.

If the vote fails again, then we are all going to have to live with the decision and we are going to have to live with cutbacks of some recreational programs and the elimination of others.

In no way is that an overt or implied threat; it is simply stating the facts as we can determine them to be. There just will not be funds available to operate and maintain recreational facilities throughout the city.

Everybody to whom I have spoken in city government has urged me to put the issue before the people again. So too, have many citizen groups, civic leaders and a great number of individual citizens. We also feel that the May balloting, in that largely involved the emotional issue of voting for a presidential candidate, was lost in the shuffle.

So, for those of you who will say: "Here they come again"; it is for these stated reasons.

WE HAVE TRIED to break down the levy to where many people could better understand it. We have told you before, and we will tell you again, that the one-half mill will figure out to about 75 cents a month for most Livonia families.

I do not feel we are taking a "back door" or "Madison Avenue" approach in trying to get our message to the people. A half mill in Livonia amounts to about $400,000 per year. Broken down, it will amount to between $6 and $8 per year for most Livonia families.

Also, under our collection methods, I wish to remind all Livonia citizens that better than 50 per cent of the levy will be contributed by business and industry.

On behalf of every person in Livonia who will be effected by the results of the election on Aug. 8, I sincerely urge you to take a good, hard look at the recreation proposal this time around.

If the vote fails this time, it will have failed for many, many years to come. The city administration realistically will not be in a position to ask for the levy again for years. In the meantime, our recreational and leisure time activities will have been severely cut back or curtailed.

There is a campaign coming our way; we intend to get across the message this time in terms that all Livonia citizens can understand. This campaign will be financed by individual contributions; not one cent of city money will be spent in seeking this "YES" vote on Aug. 8.

We are accepting contributions to the campaign at the mayor's office. If you wish to contribute, you can make your checks payable to:

LIVONIA RECREATION FUND
c/o MAYOR'S OFFICE
33001 FIVE MILE ROAD
LIVONIA, MICH 48154

And everybody is welcome; because everybody will benefit.

This issue, in my opinion, is the most important municipal matter which has come before this administration for action. There is no more important way we can contribute to upgrading our quality of life than to begin with that toddler who can handle a wading pool.

Loss Of HUD Funds Can Be Bitter Blow

By Wylie Gerdes

The sum of $1.5 million is only a small part of what the City of Livonia lost in its recent flap with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) over low cost housing.

HUD cut off all HUD-directed federal aid to Livonia because the city has made no special provisions to increase the number of low and moderate income houses available.

LIVONIA CITY officials argue that about 300 house units costing less than $22,000 are sold each year in Livonia. HUD has set $22,000 as the break-off point between moderate and income housing.

HUD's rationale for its stopping aid to Livonia, which is at least $1.5 million and could be as much as $3 million, is that the city has made no plans to encourage low and moderate cost housing.

The loss of the money, which was to be used for a large storm sewer project and parks improvements, will mean that every Livonian will pay for a lack of low and moderate income housing. That's just a small part of the cost, however.

The real cost comes in lost

Redford Code Has Punch

By W. Edward Wendover

The over 19,000 home delivered copies of the Redford Observer are being distributed twice weekly apparently in violation of a new Redford Township ordinance.

While the intent of the "emergency ordinance" which was passed by the Redford board of trustees at their July 10 meeting was not to restrict newspaper sales, the broad reaching sections of the act cover everything from the milkman to your Observer carrier.

According to the new ordinance, peddlers conducting any business in the township must obtain a license (at a cost of $25) for the overall business plus a permit for each person working for the business ($5 each). In addition, each business must post a $200 cash bond before it can conduct door-to-door transactions.

The Observer has not obtained a permit -- nor does it intend to.

According to Township Clerk Ruth Sullivan, who proposed the soliciting ordinance, it was needed to curb the activities of a group which had been collecting donations at Redford shopping centers.

But as Trustee Owen Cummings correctly pointed out in voting against the ordinance, it is too all-encompassing.

Similar local ordinances have been applied to newspapers in several Observerland communities and all were ruled as illegal attempts to block freedom of the press.

In Plymouth, a similar ordinance was used to try and stop an underground newspaper being distributed outside the high school. While the youth distributing the paper was arrested, the case was later thrown out.

Certainly Redford Township has no intention of licensing newspapers.

But why must it pass an ordinance that covers Girl Scout cookie sales, veterans' Poppy Day sales, insurance salesmen, -- and newspaper sales?

Sense And Nonsense

"Are we being diluted by our very own representatives?"

Disagrees With LWV Action Area Deaths And Funerals

EDITOR:
As a woman and as a concerned voter, I feel it necessary to express my utter disgust and disbelief at the recent pacifist plea by the Livonia League of Women Voters, to peacefully and thoughtfully comply with Judge Roth's school desegregation order.

Their cowardly premise that respect for the law is in the best tradition of our American heritage couldn't be more shadowed with socialist brainwashing. I would like to remind this group of ladies that the very existence of the United States of America was made possible by a group of revolutionaries who completely rebelled against the laws.

So instead of blind and discontented compliance with the law, the true flavor of our American heritage is a courageous as well as constructive will to change the things that we don't believe congruent with our principles and values.

Especially nauseating was the implication by the league that this so called "respect" for the law and our peaceful compliance with the busing order, is of great importance to the education of our children as to the role of a good citizen. It seems to me that our compliance would be more of an example of hypocrisy.

Why should we not illustrate to our children the beauty of a democracy by working to change the things with which we don't agree? This would be a much better alternative as to educating our children in the responsibilities of citizenship.

The Livonia League of Women Voters gives the impression that they would rather pack their children off with plastic smiles on their faces for an hour long bus ride and then complain all day while the children are gone about how nice it would be to have them going to the neighborhood school which is 10 minutes away.

I SAY let's be honest with the children. Let them understand our reasons for disgust. Many people are living where they are for the sole reason that they wanted their children to be enrolled in a particular school district. They've worked hard to get where they are.

Only the people who are willing to really work to change Roth's order will be able to be honest with their children about their disgust and the reasons behind it. The others who are not willing to work for change will have to hide their discontent because they stood by in "peaceful and thoughtful compliance." It would be much easier that way.

I commend the League of Women Voters in the Detroit Metropolitan area for doing considerable research in the area of desegregation of schools across the country. There is an apathetic note, however, to the fact that these women are willing to let things go as they are, because no one has yet found a better method of desegregation than that of busing.

Just because "busing of children to and from school has been a long term part of public educational systems" doesn't make that the best alternative for equality in education.

There are more technically difficult and more financially taxing alternatives that could be implemented to equalize education. However, it seems that people are too selfish to pay higher taxes or to work to institute extensive programs to aid in renovation and modernization of educational facilities in predominately underprivileged black schools. That would be a positive approach.

Instead, led by groups like the Livonia League of Women Voters, most of us will probably sit back and take a negative approach like busing which does nothing to improve the quality and facilities of education in the underprivileged schools, but rather sends a different group of children to suffer through these inadequacies.

I DON'T THINK that we really want to push the burden of equalizing education on our children by shuffling them around the city. Whether they be black or white, children are more at home and psychologically comfortable in surroundings in which they were brought up.

If the educational surroundings of some of these areas are not sufficient to others, let's improve them in a positive constructive manner. Nothing will be accomplished by dragging children out of the social settings in which they were brought up and pushing them into completely alien social climates to which adjustment may prove extremely difficult. We must remember that schools serve as vehicles for social development as well as intellectual growth.

It is time for us to realize our commitment as adults to improve the quality of education in the inadequately funded school districts by implementing programs that will get to the heart of the problem rather than skirting the issue by the busing alternative.

There must be an answer to this perplexing problem. I believe it can be found if we are willing to open our pocketbooks instead of changing our children's natural habitats from whatever background they may be.

To conclude, I feel that the Livonia League of Women Voters and Mrs. Quenneville, their president, should re-examine their pacifist attitude regarding this most crucial issue.

Area GI Raps Busing Issues

EDITOR:
I am here in the U.S. Army serving my great country and hearing the news of school busing between the inner city of Detroit and the suburbs.

Remember, I live intermixed with brothers of all races, therefore, I have almost no prejudices at all about my fellow soldiers. But I have reasons to agree with those against busing.

One is that busing to the intercity is a clear violation of the Bill of Rights where it states "in the pursuit of happiness."

I would like to ask those who favor busing how many children they have that are affected. I feel sorry for those who have children affected by this system.

Many men stationed here look in horror on the busing plans. I question those people responsible for making the laws on busing. It will not solve anything except give the police departments, sheriff's patrol and the State Police more work.

The crime wave will climb to a high never seen in our city before, including those of offenses of rape, robbery, assault and battery, larceny, both minor and grand. The streets will be unsafe and drug traffic will rise, making less people being able to vote for these felony convictions or does the people whom we voted in want that?

The last thing is the morale of the servicemen from Michigan has dropped, affecting their work noticeably.

Therefore, if busing goes through, mark off one returning soldier from your roll of citizens of the State of Michigan. And many more will follow my way and dissolve their citizenship in the same state, much like the boys who ran from the draft and are now in Canada and other places outside the USA.

Sp. 4 Robert Kinsler

Praises Tour, Hospitality

Dear Eddie:
I want to take this opportunity to thank you for your great hospitality on Thursday. I have heard so many fine comments concerning the Observer facilities that I had to see them.

The building and its setting are probably the most pleasing of any new construction I have seen. The complete concern for the ecology and for the employees' environment is a credit to your organization. I am sure that this, in part, accounts for the very friendly and hospitable attitude of everyone we met on our visit.

The fact that you spent so much time and explained so completely the considerations that went into the construction and departmental layout of the facility made our visit more than rewarding. Thank you so much.

Reader Asks, 'Who Failed?'

EDITOR:
We parents have it made, or do we? How easy it would be for our parents to agree with Mr. Katz, psychologist and former school board member, and say the schools have failed in the area of "intangible things" such as a sense of empathy, the capacity to put yourself in another's shoes.

Mr. Katz also stated many young people are "materially over-indulged" but are not taught a sense of humanity. Do the schools over-indulge children materially?

Mothers! Fathers! is this not our job - the teaching of empathy and humanitarian ways? Do we not practice humanitarian ways at home nor show empathy to our fellow human beings, thus our children fail?

As a parent I feel this is primarily our responsibility and we are failing much more than the schools. These things must be taught in the home by living them along with other things such as love, respect, integrity, and responsibility, and then, and only then, be backed up with teaching from the schools.

Come on parents, let's all start with the responsibility that is our.

Chances Slim For Busing Changes By Fall

Though Livonia and Southfield are in the seven clusters recommended for busing this fall, school officials from both districts are doubtful that it could be implemented in the short time before school starts in September.

The seven districts were pinpointed by the 11-member panel appointed by Federal Judge Stephen Roth. Livonia is second in the list of priorities for implementing busing and Southfield fourth.

And busing for this fall became all the more doubtful when a three-judge panel from the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals put an indefinite "stay" on purchase of buses needed to implement the plan. The stay means that purchase of the 295 needed buses for $3 million is delayed indefinitely.

ACCORDING to the plan proposed by the panel, Grosse Pointe schools will be the first to be integrated. They are in a cluster with Detroit's King High School area and the suburbs of South Lake and Lakeview.

Livonia is second and will exchange students with Redford and Cooley High School areas. The third cluster is with Detroit's Northern High School area, Royal Oak, Ferndale, Berkley, Highland Park and Clawson.

Southfield students will be bused with those from Oak Park, Birmingham and Detroit Central High School area.

Dearborn and Dearborn Heights students are included with Detroit's Northwestern

High School area, Romulus and Taylor.

The sixth cluster is Detroit's Southwestern High area and Riverview, River Rouge, and Wyandotte.

The final cluster proposed for this fall is Detroit's Denby and Finney High School areas with Fraser and Harper Woods.

LIVONIA SCHOOL Superintendent Ron Upton said he hopes Livonia students won't be bused.

"It's hard to see why we are one of the first priorities," Upton said. "We will have to bus youngsters across another district to get to Detroit whereas some districts which adjoin their clusters are not listed in the priorities."

Upton termed the product of busing "fictional integration." "I firmly believe that the transporting of youngsters out of their environment for five hours a day, then back to their environment again will not achieve meaningful integration."

"I would consider it much better if members of a minority race lived on my block where I see them every day."

Upton said he's against busing because "I don't think it's going to better education one bit."

He said that if the seven clusters become top priority he's afraid the non-priority districts may ease up in their efforts to stop busing.

"The general human pattern is to only get concerned when it personally concerns you."

REDFORD TOWNSHIP Supervisor Bill Robbins is keeping the issue alive in his area by forming a study committee to investigate the possibility of boycotting schools if busing is started.

Robbins is asking for citizens to volunteer for the committee and will have 17th District Judge James Dillon draw the names of 10 volunteers on July 24.

Also expressing doubt that busing could begin this fall was Southfield Associate Supt. William Adcock who said, "In our estimation, it is too late in the year to begin any busing Sept. 1 except for a very token effort involving a couple grades and two or three school buildings in a couple of suburban districts."

Aside from logistics, other problems arise with busing including those related to curriculum, finances, teaching staffs, extra curricular activities and safety and health conditions.

Convention Education For Area Dems

Bleary-eyed and blisters on their feet, local delegates to the Democratic National Convention returned from Miami last weekend.

No one told them before they left that one of the most difficult tasks they faced was catching a few winks of sleep after long convention sessions. But at least three of the returning delegates from Observerland found the long sessions and countless caucuses made the convention a learning experience.

The convention was most noted for its proportion of new delegates and large numbers of youth, women and minority persons and local delegates were no exception.

It was the first convention for Arthur Bierschbach, a Wallace supporter from Redford Township in the 19th District.

"I went to get an education—and I got it," Bierschbach, 19181 Centralia, said. "Now we know what we have to do."

For Bierschbach, the convention was a real lesson in Michigan politics which he summed up as the politics of the "organized minority versus the disorganized majority."

McGOVERN delegates were in the minority since Gov. George Wallace of Alabama took the most votes in Michigan's presidential primary.

While the convention was in progress, Bierschbach said, "It's really been rough. You go in (the convention hall) in the daylight and come out in the daylight."

"They all talk party reform, but you see a lot of power politics here," Bierschbach said.

Specifically, he referred to the challenge on the California delegation where the credentials committee wanted to take 151 of the 271 delegates McGovern won in the state's winner-take-all primary and divide them among the other candidates.

Bierschbach and other Wallace delegates voted to split up the California delegation, but McGovern's powerful forces gathered enough votes to keep the 271 delegates and thereby sew up the nomination.

After that vote, the only chance left for the Wallace people was to attempt to influence the party's platform.

But Bierschbach was skeptical that even that could be accomplished saying "We went in there expecting nothing and that's what we got."

CALLING McGovern "the man with the well-oiled machine," Bierschbach said he won't actively support the Democratic presidential nominee but he will remain active in the party. Currently that translates into his campaign efforts on behalf of Eldon Van Steenis for Redford state representative.

Another local candidate, Robert Wright, 30, 32465 Maryland in Livonia, found sitting in the Michigan delegation like being in a vacuum.

The McGovern people stressed discipline and encouraged their delegates to remain in their respective delegations.

Committed to McGovern, Wright followed their advice and often found it difficult to keep up with the happenings outside Michigan's territory.

Nominating McGovern wasn't too difficult after Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Maine) pulled out, he said.

As for the platform, "It's a track for McGovern to run on," Wright said, describing it as moderate and avoiding controversy.

Wright himself is seeking the Democratic nomination for 36th District state representative seat in Livonia.

SPORTING blisters on her feet and a bad sunburn, Mrs. Ann Perez of Westland returned from the convention weary but eager to unite Democrats behind her presidential candidate.

She went to the convention as a McGovern alternate from the 15th Congressional District and got to vote on such important issues as the California challenge and vice presidency (when she voted for "Sissy" Farenholt of Texas).

"I enjoyed it. It's a lot of work," Mrs. Perez said after returning from Miami. "It certainly isn't fun and games."

In fact, the only time she had for fun was after the convention on Friday when she soaked up too much sun on a Miami beach before returning.

"There were a lot of caucuses," she said, adding that she stayed on the convention floor each night until the very end.

Though she would have liked to see the South Carolina challenge upheld putting more women in the delegation, Mrs. Perez said she understood that the McGovern people had to help defeat it in order to win on the crucial California challenge.

"The security was tremendous," she said. "They checked you more times — everytime you went in or out of the convention."

Though it was an educational experience for her, Mrs. Perez, 35905 Somerset Dr., agreed that the "best seats in the house were by the televisions" rather than in the delegation.

Patrols Asked

Farmington Township police were officially petitioned by the Clarenceville Board of Education to begin patrolling school grounds within township boundaries.

The action, taken at the board's July 13 meeting, follows a similar request to the Livonia police a month ago. Board members hope that police surveillance will cut down on the number of reckless drivers using school grounds and in discouraging vandalism so prevalent in the summer months.

"There isn't any use," he commented. "Last week we replaced eight windows, and the following day six of them were broken again."

Everybody Gets Into The Picture

Glance at the picture hanging in the front hall of the Oak Hill Nursing Home Annex in Farmington and you see at first a farm scene done in primitive style.

The pond and the pine tree and the stork and the gnarled old tree with a woodpecker and a bird's nest meet the eye right away.

Look more closely and you discover a turtle and a frog and a butterfly and a worm and a horse in the background and some mushrooms in the foreground.

Careful study shows that the picture is made of dozens of scraps of material, joined and decorated with beautifully-fashioned embroidery stitches and some not quite so expert.

BUT YOU LEARN the real beauty of the colorful picture when you talk to the residents of the nursing home.

For everyone of the elderly people there, as well as all the staff of the home and the volunteers who come regularly to visit, had some part in fashioning the scene.

"I made the butterfly," one lady pointed out, and her companion said she had contributed "that bird - that bird - you know, the one that brings babies."

One resident who keeps her room piled high with all sorts of needlework projects was proud of the several parts she has fashioned, especially the field of daisies with French knots for centers.

Some of the less adept with a needle helped glue the component parts to the green and blue burlap used for a background, and nearly everyone helped with the chain stitch outlines of each section.

"EVERYONE DID something, even the men," said Mrs. Rosebud, supervisor who originated the project a few months ago.

She had seen the picture in a magazine, and worked with Mrs. Lois Cosby, social director, to enlarge it and adapt it for the home's use.

Patients, staff and volunteers contributed to work into the picture. The mushrooms are made of bright red calico, and the tree trunk is a bit of rough-texture wool that once was part of a skirt worn by Mrs. Cosby's daughter.

A lot of the pieces are felt, and bright wool yarn was used for the embroidery.

The whole project took about two weeks to complete, Mrs. Cosby said, "though of course we were doing some other things in between."

MRS. ZICK, who has been with the home 3½ years, said cooperative projects for the patients have been a tradition at the home.

"We thought a decoration for the home would mean more to these people if they had a part in creating it," she said.

"This is the first project of this kind, but we've always had the residents work on decorations and placemats and such for holiday parties."

All the Oak Hill Annex residents are ambulatory so they can use the front hall and enjoy seeing their farm scene.

And already another cooperative project is underway.

Mrs. Cosby pointed to a colorful pile of afghan squares. "Everybody's working on these, too," she said.

Spotlight on Women

m. m. memos

Though I had grudgingly accepted the idea that life begins at 40, I was absolutely determined to ignore the next landmark.

But, the girls pointed out, you can't avoid getting older by refusing to celebrate a birthday any more than you can pretend there are no calories in candy bars no one sees you eat. So I agreed to acknowledge the birthday in return for no candy bars on the sly.

Anyway, it's pretty difficult to ignore a birthday when you wake up to find half-dollars taped to strategic spots like the bathroom mirror, the coffee pot, the typewriter and the car windshield.

And receive reprints of front pages of two newspapers printed that unmentionable number of years ago.

So, since I made it through the day to be ignored, I'll pass on for others in similar straits the birthday message of one of my fellow workers. She wrote in part:

Your birthday makes it Imperative
(And I speak as one Authoritative)

To repeat these words

Memorative

"I don't mind birthdays when I consider the Alternative."

With family and friends like mine, I don't mind them either.

Ecology Is In The Bag

By ELINOR GRAHAM

When it comes to ecology on the homefront, area youth have been trying to do their part in improving the environment.

They have manned recycling collection points, planted trees, and helped clean clogged rivers and streams. They have "bugged" their parents about the use of non-phosphate detergents and become aware and concerned about the depletion of natural resources.

One young man, Clayton Miller of Plymouth, is going all out. He's making ecology his business.

The first we heard of his project was the announcement, "Clayton has a big ad in the Mother Earth News. That CHM Design & Development Co. - that's Clayton."

"What is he doing?" "He's making shopping bags."

WHEN WE TALKED to the 22-year-old businessman, we asked how and when he decided to go into the manufacture of shopping bags.

Over a year ago, Miller explained he became interested in trees. His concern was triggered by a television program in which persons were urged to take their own containers to the grocery store. "Pour the milk into your own container, leave the one at the store. Take your own shopping bag along. A burlap sack will hold a lot of groceries."

The statistics were impressive. Since then Miller has done a lot of investigating on his own and come up with some staggering figures.

More than 24 million mature trees, he says, are cut to make the 1.6 million tons of paper grocery bags used in the United States each year.

"This contributes to the growing tree shortage," he said. "Pulp logs are sprayed with mercury compounds to prevent mold; paper mill wastes cause eutrophication of our waters, and used paper bags present a formidable disposal problem."

"Eutrophication. Excessive plant growth," he explained. "Recycled paper is not strong enough for bag use, and recycled paper has a higher chemical content which causes greater ground water pollution if used in land fills."

WE WERE ADMIRING the white canvas duck Tree Saver with the silk screened design.

"I started out being a purist," Miller said. "The first bags had no handles and no screening. I didn't want to use any chemicals at all but I guess they are more attractive this way."

"Did you know we spend $500 million a year on paper grocery bags? The people at Wrigley's told me they spend $5 million for their 80 stores."

"What about plastic bags?" we asked.

"They are not biodegradable. They're made of high density polyethylene—from coal tar, strip mined."

OF COURSE we inquired, "How is business?"

"It's going pretty well," he said. "I would like to get out of the mail order business. Most of my orders have come from the southwest and midwest. They are selling at a couple of outlets in Ann Arbor, and I hope to have them in gift shops all over this area in the near future."

"They would make nice shower presents," someone suggested. "You could put a few kitchen utensils in one; wouldn't even have to wrap it."

The silk screened posters for the Tree Saver reads "...disposing of used bags costs taxpayers $65 million and untold damage to the environment...In normal use it will do the work of hundreds of paper bags and do it safely because it is stronger. So each time you use it you'll be helping to save a tree."

CLAYTON MILLER of Plymouth and his wife Marlene stow away a supply of groceries in Tree Saver bags. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Women on the Go

Home And Flowers Keep Her Busy

Joyce Herrington of Farmington loves houses and trees and flowers and gets her fill of all in the life style she's chosen.

She and her husband, Lloyd, and their daughter and son, Heather and Garth, live in an old home they've been remodeling totally for eight years now.

They had it picked up from a well-traveled Farmington corner and set down on a narrow road where there are woods and meadows close by.

The fields give Joyce an ample supply of flowers to dry for the floral pieces she makes and the classes in arranging she teaches and the house gives both husband and wife an outlet for all sorts of creative decorative ideas.

THIS OFF-BEAT householder says she and her husband wouldn't have missed the remodeling of the old home that once stood at Orchard Lake Road and Grand River but would never again begin such a project.

"We'd build an old-looking house if we were starting over," she said. "Living in the middle of remodeling for years can be pretty difficult."

Nevertheless, she has found a lot of satisfaction in seeing emerge—slowly as time and funds permitted—a living room full of refinished antiques and often candlelit, a dining room with an old wood-burning stove and huge bunches of field flowers and grasses hanging to dry, a full-bricked bathroom and a paneled kitchen with plenty of shelves.

"We did all the electrical work and the plumbing and lowered the ceiling," Joyce said.

Mrs. Rhoda Niss, Livonia mother who underwent a kidney transplant operation in University Hospital, Ann Arbor, on June 5, is reported by the hospital still in fair condition.

"Her kidney is functioning normally," a hospital spokesman said.

Mrs. Diane Brennan, a neighbor who has headed a foundation through which many in this area have been able to help the Niss family financially, said Mrs. Niss had suffered a stroke about a week after the transplant but in recent weeks had shown improvement.

She has been off the kidney machine for more than three weeks, Mrs. Brennan said, and has been using a walker to get around.

JOYCE HERRINGTON, who studied art and has done painting and worked in other media, has recently concentrated on arranging flowers, both fresh and dried.

Niece of a former President of the Women's National Home and Garden Association, Joyce learned long ago to love flowers but started arranging them fairly recently.

She made some dried arrangements last summer and took them to the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair.

"People wanted to learn to make them as well as buying them," Joyce said. So she began teaching flower arranging for the Western Wayne YWCA, and also holds occasional classes in her home.

Joyce also likes to work with fresh flowers and the biggest project to date was putting together five large arrangements and more than 60 small ones for the Institute of Arts afterglow that followed the opening of the Metropolitan Opera season in Detroit this spring.

"We turned off the heat in one of the bedrooms to make it a refrigerated room," she said. "It was quite a challenge, but I wouldn't want to do it often at home."

MRS. GARY ARTHUR OWEN
(Marion Theresa Zanetti)

Village Chapel Is Scene Of Wedding

Martha Mary chapel in Greenfield Village was the setting for the recent wedding of Marion Theresa Zanetti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zanetti of Raleigh Road, Farmington, and Gary Arthur Owen.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Noel Owen of Detroit.

The Rev. David W. Abbott officiated for the candlelight ceremony, and afterward the couple toured the village by carriage. The reception was held in Dearborn Inn.

GIVEN BY HER father in marriage, the bride wore a white voile gown with a large ruffle of chantilly lace at the hem. A cap tied under the chin with satin ribbon held her veil, and her flowers were white rosebuds with lilac baby carnations and baby's breath.

Joy Zanetti, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Bonnie Baum of Brighton, Carrie Gillespie of Detroit, Kathy Devine of Detroit, Sue Hinga of Kalamazoo and Linda Horton of Detroit.

They wore lilac voile dresses with white lace trim and carried rosebuds and lilac carnations.

GREGG OWEN, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were Thomas Gillespie of Detroit, Edward Hinga of Kalamazoo, Gerald Baum of Brighton, Arthur Zanetti of Westland and James Hoyt and Ronald Moore of East Lansing.

The couple honeymooned in Florida and Jamaica, and will live in East Lansing.

Both seniors at Michigan State University, the new Mrs. Owen majoring in sociology and her husband in political science, they plan to join VISTA after graduation.

SHE WORE a Piccione-designed gown of silk peau de soie with trim of alencon lace and light blue velvet ribbon. Her chapel-length veil fell from a lace and velvet ribbon headpiece, and her flowers were white roses, carnations and baby's breath with blue stephanotis.

Private Postal Service

He's Challenging Uncle Sam

By MARY PADEN

DETROIT Thomas Murray, a 46 year old cocky Irishman who has been described as "a restless entrepreneur type" announced the Detroit area opening of his Independent Postal System of America Wednesday.

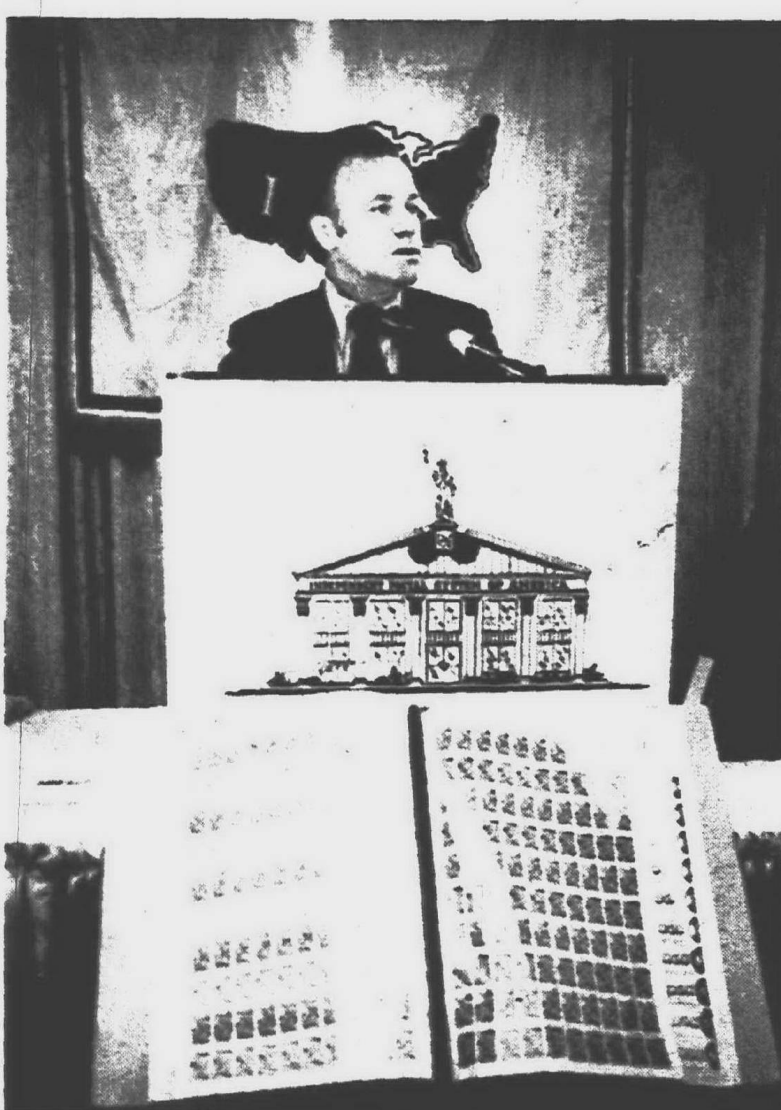

Four years ago, Murray, an immigrant who worked his way up from bellboy to hotel owner, decided to challenge Uncle Sam's mail monopoly and start his own postal system.

Although he is barred by federal law from delivering first class letters, he has rolled up his sleeves to dig into the second through fourth class mail which comprises about 90 per cent of the government's business.

SINCE MURRAY announced the opening of his first office in Oklahoma in 1968 he has received investments, favorable letters and good press from people exasperated by the U.S. Postal System's bureaucracy and steadily increasing rates.

He has also been hit with a number of law suits by postal workers in several cities including Detroit. The American Postal Workers Union claims mail delivery by a non-government agency is a violation of the U.S. Constitution. The Constitution says Congress may enact laws "to establish post-offices and post-roads". It doesn't specifically say Congress alone may provide this service.

Beginning as a $500 corporation, Murray's postal system has grown to include 115 offices in 30 states and Canada, 49 of which opened this year. He said 18,000 people are involved in the operation.

THOMAS MURRAY an Irish immigrant who has gone into competition with the U.S. Postal Service, announced the opening of his Independent Postal System of America in the Detroit area last week.

One IPSA branch office, managed by Phil Minch, is operating at 12641 Stark Rd., Livonia. Serving Redford

Township and Plymouth as well, it has been in operation since March and has been delivering mail for the past two months.

Minch says he's still looking for persons to work who have two to four hours of available time.

Another office at 5909 Middle Belt, Garden City, serves that community. Wayne, Westland and Inkster. Manager Mario Ferri says he still has routes available.

Other offices are in Dearborn, Warren, Mt. Clemens, St. Clair Shores, Pontiac and Detroit.

MURRAY TOLD how he decided to compete with the U.S. government.

An Oklahoma business acquaintance was complaining to Murray over a cup of coffee about the high cost of mailing, he said. The friend rattled off figures that suggested a privately owned postal system may be able to provide better service at less cost.

"I took his projections and a calculator and a bottle of Scotch (a good Irishman, he apologized for the Scotch) and locked myself in a motel room for three days. I came up with projections that astounded me," he said.

CONVINCED IT was possible to make money delivering mail ("We went into business" to make money," he stressed.) He set the opening of the new system to coincide with a day when a national TV news team would be in the city.

He blatantly made use of a federal program which paid 50 per cent of the salary of Indians in forming his staff. He hired 30 Indians and planned a horse and headdress parade through the center of town. Unfortunately it snowed that day and most of the Indians, including the one with the horse, stayed home.

They were replaced at the last minute by 24 "clean cut Air Force recruits."

Murray said the U.S. Postal Service lost $2 million last year. A proposed 127 per cent rate increase for second class mail to be effective by 1976 has hit magazines hard, causing some, such as McCall's and Esquire, to reduce the size of their pages, and dealing the death blow to others such as Look.

Murray said his system reduces the number of times a magazine is handled from 18 to five reducing the cost two to three cents per magazine.

Magazine companies and advertisers are reportedly looking hopefully at Murray's mail system. Presently he only delivers to seven million homes but says that will increase to 40 million in 376 cities by 1975.

Murray is an enthusiastic cheerleader for his company and for the free enterprise system. He says things like: "The post office needed someone to goose it—and that's what we are doing."

"We intend to do to the post office what the airlines did to the railroads—they will have to get with it or get out."

"We are proving that it can still happen in America."

Murray may not be able to get his mailbags around first class personal message letters but he said letters would be obsolete by 1990 anyway. And he is ready to step in with a replacement service.

"Facsimile machines will become as common in homes as TVs and radios are today," he said. "IPSA will be able to deliver a legal size letter instantaneously anywhere in the world for 25 cents."

How Murray Became A Postal Ralph Nader

By JACKIE KLEIN

SOUTHFIELD "Bring me your unwanted, your poor, your hungry—for the common good."

That isn't exactly the way the inscription on the Statue of Liberty reads, but it is the version of Thomas Murray, founder and national president of Independent Postal Services of America.

THE SYMBOL of freedom was the first thing that impressed Murray when he came to this country from Ireland in 1950. He has perched the Statue of Liberty atop a marble-columned sketch of his proposed post office.

"The unwanted was me," the 45-year-old entrepreneur reflected at a luncheon in the Detroit Hilton Wednesday, marking the beginning of operations of the IPSA in the Detroit metropolitan area and observing the 17th anniversary of Murray's naturalization as an American. "Nobody wanted third class mail, either, but we carried it."

The IPSA had humble beginnings in Oklahoma with profit as the motive for the "simple business," Murray recalled.

"In 1967, the U.S. Post Office was racing with catastrophe and the collapse of the mail system came with a 34 per cent increase in postage," he said. "That's when the idea for an independent postal service was born, and I locked myself up in a hotel room for three days to make projections."

"I became the Ralph Nader of the U.S. Post Office, doing research in Washington and relaying my projections to an economics professor. I realized the post office as a media of communication was finished. It was working mostly for business and doing a poor job of it."

"The purpose of the post office monopoly was originally to prevent the spread of treasonous plots in England," Murray said. "The post office hasn't improved since. It needed someone to 'goose' it and we're doing just that."

FOUR WEEKS ago, Murray said, the Postmaster General addressed his employees by press release and the TV media, not by letter.

By 1990, he said, facsimile machines will compete with "another loser," Western Union. The IPSA will be able to deliver instantly legal size documents for 25 cents.

"It is feasible for private enterprise to run a postal service supported by investment capital, not tax dollars," Murray said. "Uncle Sam's loss to the taxpayers in the past year was more than $2 billion. Prudent business management and common sense is what is needed."

Murray began his career as a bellhop and shortly became hotel manager and arbiter in labor disputes. After his naturalization, he formed his own management company and operated a chain of hotels and a catering company in Michigan.

"I had nine kids and I hooked two hotels when I decided to go into the post office business," he said. "I went to banks and lending institutions, leased 11,000 square feet of space, got an attorney and formed a $500 corporation to take on Uncle Sam."

"I received money from people who were fed up with the U.S. postal service, hired 30 Indians and three showed up the first day and we were in business."

IPSA operates in 115 offices in 30 states, Murray said, and 18,000 people are involved. By 1975, he expects to have 400 offices in the United States and 150,000 people.

"We've operated in Canada for two years because we can use mail boxes there," he said. "Uncle Sam says we can't use them here so we use plastic containers."

By the end of the year, IPSA will be delivering mail in five European countries, Murray projects. Locally, 400 home routes are owned by carriers who deliver all classes of mail except personal messages and distribute newspapers and periodicals and articles of commerce and industry.

Within the next five years, Murray predicts, there will be a 142 per cent postage increase for magazines. Publications are shipped to IPSA unaddressed, computer tapes are sent to match the new postal service's and magazines are delivered like newspapers, he added.

"Mary Jones shouldn't have been receiving her social security checks by mail for 20 years," he said. "Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been stolen and there have been thousands of complaints. Mary Jones's social security account could be credited and the federal reserve system could be debited to pay the bills."

"Of the 84 billion pieces of mail the U.S. Post Office handled in 1967, only 10 per cent were personal letters," Murray pointed out. "The Post Office is a mass distribution system for articles of industry and commerce, not communication. It is available for competition."

"It is not true that we pose a threat to Post Office employees. They are prisoners of their environment and have been denied opportunities other industries have. Our ranks are open. If U.S. mail carriers could run the post office as a private business with common sense, they could make a profit."

"We are giving citizens and post office employees a choice. We are proving the American way—the free enterprise way is the only way. Not only the federal government can deliver the mail."

Reserves Have 55 Openings

Col. Wayne W. Adair, the commanding officer of the 5032nd USAR SCHOOL, an Army Reserve Unit said enlistment vacancies are now open. The local unit is now looking for additional young men who qualify for enlistment.

There are 55 vacancies now open at the Livonia Center. Interested young men should contact Miss Gladys Stuermer at the Livonia Army Reserve Center, 34451 Schoolcraft, Livonia.

Men between 17 and 26 are eligible. The men can be married and can have dependents. With the extension of the draft law, men of 19 years of age wishing to be "citizen soldiers" and having a lottery number lower than 150, should be particularly interested in the program.

The Army Reserve program offers any young man the opportunity to fulfill his six year military obligation by serving a minimum of 120 days of active duty and the remainder of his obligation at home with a Reserve Unit and with his family.

The Army Reserve Program offers all of the benefits of the new volunteer army concept with increased pay benefits and training specialties.

Senate Passes Land Fraud Bill

LANSING A bill which attempts to eliminate land development frauds cleared the Senate before its summer recess with three votes from Observerland senators.

Voting for the measure, which passed 26-3, were Sens. William Faust (D-Westland), Carl Pursell (D-Plymouth) and David Plawewski (D-Dearborn Heights). Sen. Daneil Cooper (D-Oak Park) was absent.

The proposal bans any unfair and deceptive act or advertising in selling land sites. It will be one of the first bills considered in the House when it returns to session in the fall.

REP. RICHARD Young (D-Dearborn Heights) sponsored the bill, which applies to both land in Michigan and offers made in Michigan to buy land elsewhere.

Persons selling land development sites would be required to register the sites and publish a public offering statement.

Prospective buyers would be assured they could cancel an agreement if they didn't receive an offering statement or for any reason within 14 days of receiving the contract.

Filed with the state Dept. of Licensing and Regulation, the land descriptions would have to include the total area in the subdivision and type of typography, a map of the land with dimensions of the lot and its relation to off-site improvements, a list of other states where similar applications have been filed, and descriptions of availability of sewage disposal facilities and other public utilities.

The developer would have to submit a statement that he is not under court injunction or administrative order for a false promotional scheme.

OCC Sets Fall Registration

Mail registration for the fall term on the Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington of Oakland Community College will continue through Friday of this week.

Students may pick up a course registration permit and packet of materials in the "M" building on the campus at Orchard Lake and I-696. Students mail the registration forms back to the college, eliminating the long lines for course registration.

Building Trades Back County Tax

County Proposition B—the Wayne County one-mill renewal that will be on the Aug. 8 primary election ballot—has been endorsed by the Greater Detroit Building Trades Council.

The council represents some 60,000 building tradesmen in the metropolitan area. Its delegate body approved the millage proposition unanimously July 10.

County Proposition B asks the voters to extend a one-mill ($1 per $1,000 of equalized valuation) for another five-year period. The millage last was renewed in 1968 by a vote of 171,989 to 78,617.

The delegate body acted on an endorsement request which pointed out that the one-mill costs the average homeowner 75 cents a month, but produces $13-million annually to help finance general county services.

Noting that the county already faces a $13-million deficit due to rising costs, the letter requesting endorsement said loss of the one-mill "would convert a public services crisis into a disaster."

Some 650 county jobs are already vacant due to the fiscal crisis and hiring has been "frozen" by the County Board of Commissioners.

The request for endorsement was made by the Steering Committee for County Proposition B. Its co-chairmen are County Board Chairman Robert E. Fitzpatrick and Robert Johnson, president of Council 23, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

Stempien Hits Plank On Busing

State Rep. Marvin Stempien (D-Livonia) recently told a group of supporters in Livonia that he can't accept the national Democratic platform position supporting forced busing of school children.

Stempien, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the 2nd Congressional District seat now held by U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Ann Arbor), said "The busing plank of the national party platform is contrary to my personal views and to my voting record against forced cross-district busing for the past three years."

STEMPIEN SAID he will "violently" oppose Federal Judge Stephen Roth's order to spend $3 million to purchase 295 school buses, because the money is needed to improve quality education in the classrooms.

"While busing does nothing to improve the quality of education, it creates a myriad of educational problems and family disruptions," the House majority leader said.

"If the national party did not get the message of overwhelming opposition to the forced busing in the community, they cannot expect those of us who oppose forced busing to support that plank of the platform," he added.

The fourth week of the Meadow Brook Music Festival has something for everyone. Headliners Arlo Guthrie, Whittemore and Lowe, the Preservation Hall Jazz Band, and Phyllis Diller will appeal to all musical tastes.

FOLK SINGER Arlo Guthrie will appear on Wednesday night, July 19, at 8:30.

Distinguished duo-pianists Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe will take the stage on Thursday evening at 8:30, with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Sixten Ehrling conducting. They will play the Reger Variations on a Theme by Bach, and Poulenc's Concerto for Two Pianos in D minor.

Whittemore and Lowe will return in a completely different Saturday night concert that will feature the Vaughan Williams Concerto for Two Pianos and Orchestra, again at 8:30.

The Preservation Hall jazz band, long an exciting attraction to jazz lovers who visit New Orleans, will make its Meadow Brook Music Festival debut on Friday, July 21.

DeDe PIERCE, trumpet, and his wife, Billie, noted blues singer, lead a combo of jazz artists who were playing Bourbon Street when jazz was born.

On Sunday, July 23, Phyllis Diller will make her Detroit area piano debut with the symphony. She will play, among others, the first movement of Beethoven's Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, No. 1 in C major.

Paul Freeman, conductor-in-residence with the Detroit Symphony, will be on the podium. Concert time on Sunday is 6:30. Children under 12 are admitted for $1 on the lawn for all Meadow Brook concerts.

Tickets are available at Hudson's, Grinnell's, Wayne State University, Macomb County Community College, and at the festival box office.

THE HILBERRY REPERTORY Company will give its opening performance of "The Cherry Orchard" by Chekhov on Wednesday, July 19, at 8 p.m. The cast includes (from left) John H. Mapierala as Gaev, Mary Benson as Madame Ranevskaya and James S. Newell as Lophin. The play will be repeated on July 20 and 22 at 8 p.m. and then begin alternating with "Play Strindberg" on July 27 Wednesday through Saturday evenings through Aug. 12. The Hilberry Theater is at 4743 Cass, Detroit.

Institute Is Letting Customer Decide

DETROIT A new admissions policy is now in effect at the Detroit Institute of Arts, but parents will be relieved to know that all children under 12 are admitted free.

The "pay what you wish" system also leaves the exact amount of contribution up to the visitor.

Some $234,000 must be raised by the institute during the next 12 months to maintain the current level of operation and to keep the 101 galleries open six days weekly, including Saturday and Sunday.

The new discretionary fee includes a "suggestion" of $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. The only requirement, however, is that the visitor pay something, even if it is just a penny.

Free admission, in addition to youngsters under 12, also is extended to senior citizens, students in organized school or tour groups, and the Founders Society, the membership group which privately supports museum activities and art purchases.

The institute is open daily, except Monday, from 9:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

Hill Cumorah Pageant Set

PALMYRA, N.Y. The 35th anniversary production of the Hill Cumorah Pageant will be presented July 24-29. Hill Cumorah is four miles south of Palmyra.

Sing-Along Set At Gala Days

Sing-alongs and rock music will be among the entertainment running almost continuously during the "gala days" in Novi July 20 to 23.

The local Jaycees will have a special entertainment tent with activities set for every afternoon and evening. The Majels, a five-member combo, will start things off featuring all types of music on Thursday.

Friday's feature is the Waterford JC's 1876 National Washboard Band playing sing-along music. An area rock band will provide entertainment for younger adults on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

General sing-alongs are planned for Saturday afternoon and Sunday evening. A greased pig contest for children of all ages and a watermelon eating contest will be Saturday. Sunday activities include a mini-bike race and tug-of-war between police and firemen.

The fair will also feature rides, booths, a chicken barbecue Saturday and pancake breakfast Sunday morning.

At Dancing These 3 Are Winners

When it comes to doing the Irish jig, the Heinzman children have danced themselves to the end of the rainbow for that pot of gold. And they didn't need four leaf clovers to do it.

The children -- Scott, 10, John, 8, and Elizabeth, 6 -- are the offspring of John and Cathy Heinzman, 30496 Hathaway, Livonia.

Arms and torsos straight, the children set their feet flying and heels clicking doing dances such as the jig, reel and hornpipe. The result has been that they've danced away with 179 medals and 19 trophies in the past five years.

MOST RECENTLY, Scott was the only North American to place in his category in an international Irish dancing contest in Ireland. He took fifth place in the competition for children under 15.

It was his second trip to Ireland and his brother and sister are sure to follow in his footsteps.

Though their mother was born in Ireland and just came here 14 years ago, she isn't the one to get them interested in Irish dancing.

Scott did it. He saw a friend doing the Irish jig on a children's television program and decided he'd like to give it a fling.

"I thought it would be neat to dance like that," he said.

His mother thought that having to wear a kilt would change his mind. It didn't, and Scott now has 105 medals and 14 trophies to his credit after five years of dancing.

AFTER RETURNING from a feis (gaelic term for Irish dances) in Toronto, Canada, brother John took six first places and three seconds bringing his total to 56 medals and 5 trophies.

Elizabeth started dancing at age three and was the youngest competitor when she started out. Now she's graceful and learning control of her body while dancing in her ballet slippers winning her 18 medals.

"It's good for them," Mrs. Heinzman says. "They learn to win and lose. It teaches them good sportsmanship." Their dancing requires practice every day -- especially for the competitions where they dance in groups. But the practice has paid off with trips to New York, Canada, Connecticut, Illinois, and Ohio for competitions.

Keeping the dancing in their family, the children have learned to criticize each other and learn from their mistakes. And when they go to a competition they root for one another.

They study under Breda McGowan in Livonia and when they win in group competition their trophies go to her school.

The summer will be busy with competitions scheduled regularly. But the family is looking forward to the "grand finale" in September when they compete in the National Canadian Exhibition.

Blue Lake Units Tour Europe

Four young musicians from Observerland are now touring Europe as part of the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp's Concert Band and Choir.

They are Frances Hughes, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Hughes, and Richard Pryor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pryor, both of Farmington; Mark Norfleet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Norfleet of Plymouth; and Daniel J. Beerbohn, son of Mrs. Rose Beerbohn and S.D. Beerbohn of Livonia.

The band is touring the Netherlands, Germany and Denmark, under the direction of Prof. Carl Bjerregaard of Western Michigan University.

The choir, directed by William D. Munroe of Muskegon Community College, is touring The Netherlands, Belgium, England and will appear in a special program at the Eiffel Tower on July 23 before returning home.

The 142 students and 16 professional and staff members have been rehearsing throughout the year at the camp.

Composer Is Next Attraction

Isaac Hayes, the "Black Moses," will make a two-night appearance at the Pine Knob Music Theater (1-75 and Sashabaw Roads) Thursday and Friday, July 20 and 21, at 8:30.

Hayes, composer of the award-winning "Theme from Shaft," will appear with the female trio "Hot, Buttered and Soul," which has backed him up on his recordings.

Tickets are $7 and $5 for reserved seats and $3 for the unreserved lawn seats. They are available at Hudson's and at the Fisher Theater box office.

Ford Defends Busing Stand

Congressman William Ford (D-Taylor) dug deep into his records this week to answer his critics on the controversial busing issue.

Subjected to criticism that included day long picketing of his 15th District office in Wayne because of his favorable vote on the higher education bill that included busing to achieve racial balance, he re-traced his steps back to 1965 to prove his opposition to cross-districting busing of school children.

"Busing was only one part of the higher education bill," he said at a press conference, "and there were enough good points about it that influenced my vote."

Then, while the pickets were marching outside his office, he released a detailed account of his activities in Congress to block busing.

Here is the record he submitted:

1965-Introduced an amendment to the Elementary and Secondary Education Act to prohibit any federal agency or officer from compelling the adoption by local school districts of any plan requiring busing of children for the sole purpose of achieving racial balance.

This language has been retained each year that the act that the act has been amended - and as recently as 1970.

October 1970-Opposed the provisions in the Nixon Administration's proposed desegregation legislation which provided for "inter-racial educational programs or projects involving the joint participation of minority and non-minority group children attending different schools."

His opposition, he said, was based on the belief that this procedure might open the door for busing students out of their neighborhood schools.

August, 1971-Introduced a $6.6 billion general aid to education package as a substitute for President Nixon's single purpose school desegregation bill.

In introducing the bill he said, "Those of us who have joined in sponsoring the Emergency School Aid Act feel that the federal responsibility for strengthened educational opportunity throughout the United States cannot be fulfilled simply by buying buses and transporting children."

OCT., 1971-Joined with Congressman James O'Hara (D-Utica) in an attempt to add a neighborhood school amendment to the text of the administration's Emergency School Aid Act.

The text of this amendment said:

"Nothing in this, or any other act, shall be construed as requiring any local educational agency which assigns students to schools on the basis of geographic attendance areas drawn on a racially non-discriminatory basis to adopt any other method of student assignment whether or not the use of such geographic attendance areas results in complete desegregation of the schools of such agency."

"Provided, that this section shall not apply to a local educational agency which assigns students on the basis of geographic attendance areas if the student transfer policies of the agency operate to substantially reduce the extent of racial integration in the schools of such agency."

Oct. 5, 1971-Voted in Education and Labor Committee against reporting Nixon's desegregation legislation on the House floor.

He labelled it a "back door school bus financing act."

Oct. 16, 1971-Met with local school officials in Washington to discuss legal implications of the Roth decision and advised them to consider immediate intervention.

Oct. 19, 1971-Co-sponsored legislation (Broomfield-Ford bill) to provide a stay of any court order until all appeals have been disposed of in Supreme Court.

Oct. 19, 1971-Led bipartisan group of Michigan congressmen in urging Gov. Milliken, Attorney General Frank Kelley and State Board of Education to appeal Roth decision immediately.

NOV. 1, 1971-Voted and spoke against bill when House refused to pass Nixon's Emergency Act.

Nov. 4-Voted in favor of following items when House voted on several anti-busing amendments-

1-Broomfield-Ford amendment, asking for stay of any court order.

2-Amendment to forbid any officer or employee of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from expending state or local money to bus students or teachers or to purchase buses.

3-Amendment to bar use of all federal funds to bus students or buy buses to transport students to desegregate schools to overcome racial balance.

4-Voted against adopting Nixon desegregation legislation as amendment to bill which subsequently became the vehicle for the controversial metropolitan areas projects of the higher education bill.

DEC. 16, 1971-Succeeded in getting commitment from the chairman of the Judiciary Committee to hold hearings on Constitutional amendments regarding busing.

Dec. 16, 1971-Introduced quality school assistance bill as an alternative to the need for busing.

March 8, 1972-Voted to instruct House conferees on higher education bill to insist on the strong anti-busing amendments passed by the House.

March 29, 1972-Signed discharge petition to discharge Judiciary Committee from further consideration of constitutional amendments to prohibit court-ordered busing.

June 8, 1972-Publicly urged President Nixon to sign bill into law immediately after House passed higher education bill including anti-busing provisions.

June 30, 1972-Urged Democratic national platform committee to include strong plank opposing cross-district busing.

July 7, 1972-Urged Michigan delegation to Democratic convention to oppose plank on school busing proposed by the committee and support, instead, a stronger plank that would be more consistent with the stand taken by the five suburban Detroit Democratic congressmen against forced busing of school children to achieve racial balance.

AFTER RELEASING this report of his activities, Ford ventured the opinion that Roth's opinion and his demand that the Detroit school purchase 295 buses to be paid for by the State of Michigan would be reversed in the Supreme Court.

Lubinski Urges Ban On Busing

Frank Lubinski, congressional candidate in the 15th District, stepped up his criticism of his opponent Congressman William Ford, for falling "asleep at the bus stop," at a recent meeting of busing opponents.

Lubinski, Dearborn Heights city councilman, is opposing Ford, a four-term congressman in the Aug. 8 Democratic Party primary. The 15th District includes Garden City and Westland.

IN HIS comments before a joint session of four anti-busing groups, that Ford only voted for a temporary halt to busing for racial balance but not against busing itself.

According to the candidate, the recently-adopted higher education bill Ford supported "does nothing to prohibit forced busing for the purpose of racial integration."

"That is why Federal Judge Stephen Roth will start busing our children when school starts in September."

Lubinski was referring to the Broomfield Amendment in the higher education bill which calls for a delay of court-ordered busing plans until all appeals are exhausted or the time for those appeals has passed.

The amendment expires Jan. 1, 1974.

INSTEAD OF the delay only for court busing plans, Lubinski called for a constitutional amendment banning busing whether in a single district or across district boundaries "for any and all reasons."

By ELLY

Excellent smoked fish can be produced on electric, gas or charcoal grills.

First step is to prepare the fish. Marinate cleaned fish in brine made of one cup salt to one gallon of water. Stir until salt is dissolved and soak fish from 30 minutes to one hour.

Then soak one pound of hickory, or other hardwood chips in two quarts of water. Now you are ready to start your fire.

Use a grill with a hood or cover. If charcoal, use fewer briquets than with average broiling fire. When coals are red, spread evenly over bottom of cooker; they should be sparse.

Cover ceramic or charcoal with one-third of the wet chips. Wet chips produce smoke and lower the temperature. If available, use thermometer with charcoal grill. With gas or electric grill, adjust to desired temperature.

Now you are ready to start smoking the fish.

Drain and dry the fish. Measure a generous 1/4 cup cooking oil. Grease grill well. Place fish on grill, skin side down, about four to six inches from heat.

Baste fish well at beginning and frequently during cooking. Do not let fish dry out. Keep coals covered with plenty of well-soaked chips.

Follow chart for cooking temperature and time.

STUFFED SMOKED FISH

- 1 (3 to 4-lb) dressed snapper, or other large fish, fresh or frozen
- 2 t. salt
- 1/4 t. pepper
- 4 slices precooked bacon
- 1/4 c. thinly sliced green onion and tops

Wild mushroom stuffing

Thaw frozen fish. Clean, wash and dry fish. Sprinkle inside and out with salt and pepper. Stuff fish loosely. Close opening with small skewers or toothpicks. Place precooked bacon on top of fish and sprinkle with sliced onions. Place fish on well-greased grill inside smoke oven. Cook in a slow, 200-degree oven for approximately one hour and 30 minutes or until fish is done and flakes easily when tested with a fork. Remove skewers. Makes six servings.

WILD RICE - MUSHROOM STUFFING

- 1 4-ounce pkg. wild rice
- 4 T. margarine or cooking oil
- 1/2 c. chopped onion
- 1/2 c. chopped celery
- 1/4 c. chopped parsley
- 1 jar sliced mushrooms, 2 1/2 ounces
- 1/4 t. pepper

Cook wild rice according to directions on package. Sauté vegetables in margarine or cooking oil until tender. Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Makes about 2 1/2 cups stuffing.

TIPSY DIXIE CATFISH

- 6 (1/2-lb. each) skinned, pan-dressed catfish or other small fish
- 1 gallon water
- 1 c. salt
- 1/2 c. beer
- 1/2 c. prepared mustard
- 2 finely minced garlic cloves
- 1/2 t. Worcestershire sauce
- 1/4 t. liquid hot pepper sauce
- 1/2 c. sesame seeds, toasted
- 2 T. chopped parsley
- Paprika

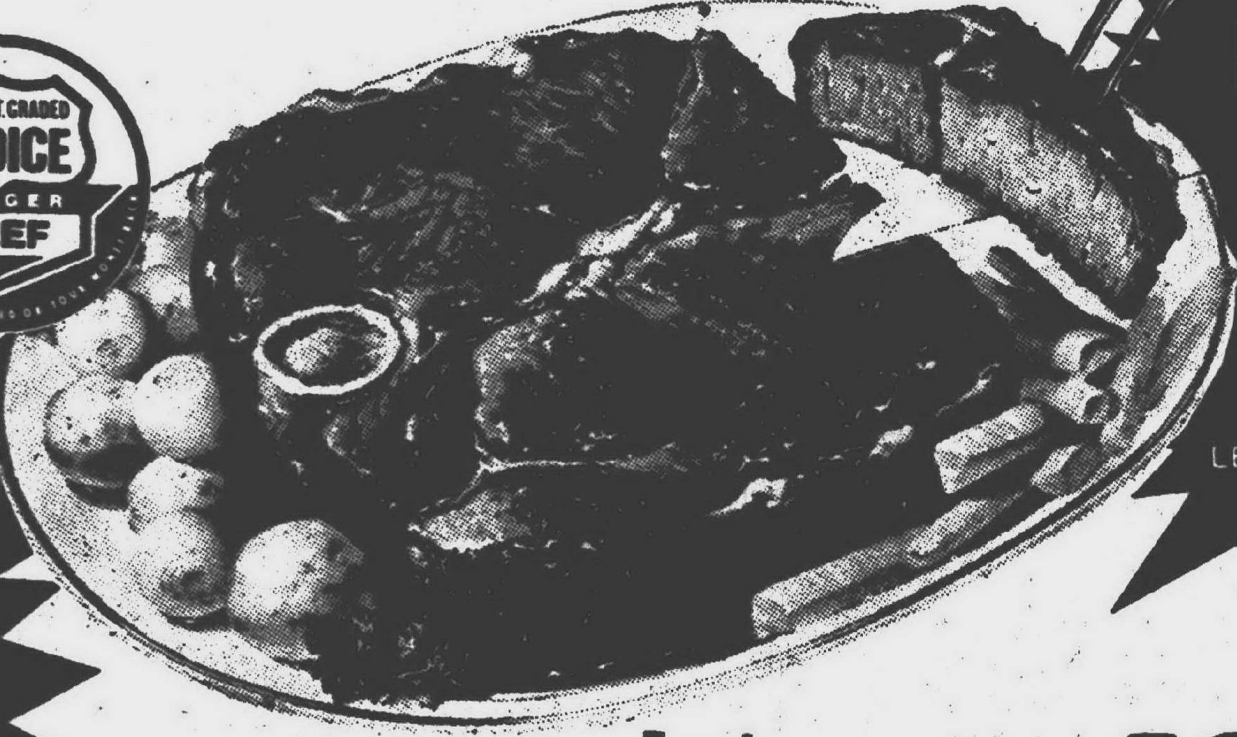

Thaw fish if frozen. Clean and wash fish. Add salt to water and stir until dissolved. Pour brine over fish and let stand for 30 minutes. Remove fish from brine and dry. Combine beer, mustard, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, hot liquid pepper, 1/4 cup sesame seeds and parsley. Dip fish in mustard sauce and sprinkle with remaining sesame seeds and paprika. Place on well-greased grill inside smoke oven. Cook in a very slow oven, 250 degrees, for one hour or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Serve with hushpuppies. Makes six servings.

When was the last time he took you for a ride in the country?

Remember summertime, and the two of you in the sunlight, or along a winding road under big leafy trees... Just the way you always dreamed it would be.

Then you bought yourself a home. And all of a sudden, the sunlight and country roads were replaced by leaky faucets, and plugged-up drains and doorbells and light switches that didn't work, and a hot water heater that only gave out cold water.

Well, this is 1972, and we think you'd like to have a Summer come back into your life again.

So for one full year after you buy a Real Estate One home with a Palace Guard contract, the Palace Guard people are going to fix the leaky faucet, unclog the drain, repair the furnace motor, fix or replace that doorbell or light switch, and repair or replace that water heater.

And they're not going to charge you a penny.

They'll repair or replace, in the event of operation failure under normal use or service, absolutely free, any parts within your home. That includes central heating system, plumbing fixtures, plumbing system, electrical system, water heater, and even your hot and cold air ducts. So that when you buy your home through us, you'll save yourself a lot of time and money and grief. And the two of you can go out and try to find that quiet road you remember in the country.

Who knows, if one dream can come true, what about the others?

TRY OUT A FORD AT VOLKSWAGEN

Try out any of the cars people trade in for new VWs. We get all kinds but we don't sell them again just like that. We check them out first. Give them the 16-point inspection. Fix whatever needed fixing. Then guarantee the repair or replacement of every major working part* 100% for 30 days or 1,000 miles. Whichever comes first. Incidentally, the guarantee comes with all our used cars. Even Volkswagens.
