Man Murdered, Auto Missing

The body of a 25-year-old man, who police believe was strangled and thrown from a car, was found Thursday night along the roadside near 15753 Pomona Dr., Redford.

According to Detective Lt. Edward Waser, the body of Michael Patrick McQueen, whose driver's license listed his address at 8477 Doe Lane, Plymouth, was discovered about 10:10 p.m. by a passing motorist.

McQueen had his car keys in his pocket, and money in his wallet, with no signs of drugs. The autoposy report states McQueen died of asphyxiation.

Police are seeking the man's car, a 1971 green Corvette, license MRP 771. They are also seeking McQueen's where-abouts between 8 p.m., when he left his parens' home at 20587 Woodworth, and the time his body was found. Waser said it is believed the man had been dead about an hour before he was discovered.

Waser said persons knowing McQueen's whereabouts Thursday evening, and who do not wish to be identified, can use the Redford Secret Witness Program or call Redford police at KE 7-3030. Police say McQueen had been estranged from his wife, who lives in Plymouth, for Moby Dick, the great white whale, was both a legend and a reality - but, even today, for most of us there is something legendary about the whale. One of the most sensational publicity-getters for the great actress Sarah Bernhardt was her walking on a whale still -- supposedly -- alive. There are many varieties of whale. Blackfish whales, large dolphin creatures, are the ones most commonly seen from the shore. The white whale, also about 15 ft, long, may be seen from cliffs or ships along the Saint Lawrence river. However, it is a third whale, the whalebone, which is most popular with us - that is the one that blows its spume into the air, sometimes as high as twelve feet. Still other types grow to be between fifty and sixty feet long among these the fin whale. Quite an adequate length to hold one small French actress!

What's in it for

hat's in it for you--a mother of three, an active member in civic organizations and a terrific cook? "Well, the Observer is the first place I look for savings--if I can save on food and clothes for my family and still be happy with the value I get, I'm rather proud of myself. My boy is active in sports, so of course I like to read about that and then, I'm always clipping the recipes and home improvement ideas. The FOCUS magazine section is fun to read, too. I've enjoyed them since they began last winter. It makes our suburbs seem important with a special section about them each weekend. My mother and I keep a sharp eye on the Want Ads, too. We like to go to auctions and garage sales. And, like my husband, I make a real effort to keep up with my community and the direction it's headed -- actually it's no effort at all with the Observer on our doorstep twice each week.

and policy pertaining to responsibility for sewer connections beyond property line. Mr. Millington stated that if there is a blockage of a sewer, the people call a plumber to clear and determine the cause, if broken, a representative from the Township should be called and determine the responsibility. If not broken, it would not be the responsibility of the Township. Mrs. Richardson said she agreed with Mr. Mills. "ton, but how would one determine where the blockage originated. Mr. Millington said that the Township should be called. and this should be determined by sanie. Mrs. Holmes asked about tree roots Mr. Breen said this could become a very expensive operation. Mr. Bida stated that the Township cannot control what coes into the sewer. Mr. Ash stated that it was a convenience for the Township to put lines from the main line to the property line, and the Township should pay if travale is from poor construction on this section. From the street to the house should be the responsibility of the homeowner after the initial construction to the property line. Mr Bida said he agreed with Mr. Ash that the Township should check the main sewer, but not the home line. Mr. Overholt said there were many circumstances where the people have nothing to do with the leads from the property line out. There is no control over trees, and what should be done about tearing up the streets. Mrs. Holmes said perhaps each case should be judged on its own merits. Mr. Ash moved that, for the purpose of sewer mains other than the initial construction, responsibility for that portion of all sewers from the main line to the home proper be that of the homeowner Supported by Mr. Burke. In the discussion that followed, Mr. Overholt questioned what would be done if the line was laid through a tree root system on Wayne County property Mr. Ash said that circumstances like this would have to be considered on an individual basis. Mr. Millington said that if the Board makes a policy, they might be asking for trouble, suggested a 6 month waiting period. The question was called, and the following roll call vote was taken: Ayes: Overholt, Burke, Ash, Richardson, Breen, Nayes: Millington,

J. E. Gignac, Fire Chief, Re: Comprehensive report from Fire Chief tabled at July 25, 1972 meeting, to complete request for legal opinion, also site committee report. Mrs. Richardson said she was opposed to building on the exit and in favor of building an additional station on the Recreational Property, and felt the firemen would have to sell the idea of additional millage to the public, if it was determined that an additional station was needed. Mr.: Gignac said he had talked with Stewart Oldford, and he will give the Township land on Ann Arbor Road at Ann Arbor Trail on a 40 year lease. Mrs. Richardson said she was of the impression that a Fire Station should not be built at the bottom of a hill. Mr. Gignac said this could be solved with the use of signals that could be activated when necessary. Mr. Millington said there was a need to store the new vehicle and there was an egress problem at this site. Mr. Millington moved that a committee be set up to return with recommeridations by the second meeting in September (September 26, 1972). Supported by Mr. Burke. In the discussion that followed, Mr. Overholt said that we do need a new station in the western part of the Township. The committee could also find a spot to store additional equipment where it could be reached on a volunteer basis. Mrs. Holmes, said she deplored this panic-type deal; that this was the second time equipment was purchased with no place to put it. She said storage should be found for the piece of equipment the new gear was to replace. She agreed with the Committee approach. Mr. Overholt suggested that the motion be amended to include in the recommendation (1) two firm sites that a station can be built on. (2) a place to store the additional gear and (3) cost and financing of same. The motion was so amended. The question was called on the motion as amended and carried unanimously. drainage problem on Brookside Drive. Mr. Mundorf presented a letter from Mr. Hebsacker, who could not be present at the meeting. The letter was read by Mrs. Richardson. Mr. Millington stated that when this land was being developed, there was concern over this drainage and much discussion. Mr Millington moved that the Township should stand the expense to correct the problem. Mr. Breen asked Mr. Millington if he would add to his motion the fact that the Township would go back on whoever was responsible for the problem. Mr Millington was of the feeling that the Township was responsi ble. Mrs. Richardson said that she would support the motion, but that she agreed with Mr. Breen that legal action should be taken against the develo per or the contractor, whomever was responsible. Mr. Hamill said they would take bids on the drain, dry up the land and give the wall more study before correcting same. He said that correcting the wall would be a major problem. The question was called and carried unanimously. Mr. Mary Hauk, 44440 Brookside, asked if his lot would be dug up also; he said he had no complaints on drainage on his property and did not want his yard dug up. Mr Hamill said they were planning on digging up his yard, as they felt it was also wet. Mr. Hauk said he had no problem, that he enjoyed what he had and was not complaining. He added that he did not want to jeopardize his near neighbors. If his yard had to be dug up, go ahead, but he would rather it was left as it is. Mr. Hamill suggested getting together with all the residents in the affected area once things were started. Much discussion followed regar fixing the wall without taking the entire wall-down. Mr. Joe West said he lived north of Lot 44 and was interested in the future of the wall. He said he understood the wall had a five year quarantee on it, but he would have to go along with Mr. Hamill's recommendation. Mr. Hamill was authorized to draft specifications and open bids on September 12, 1972 Mr. Overholt moved that the meeting be adjourned. Supported by Mr. Ash and carried unanimously. Public transportation in Detroit suburbs for all practical purposes doesn't exist. The only possible exception is the commuter trains from downtown Detroit to Birmingham and Plymouth. Everyone gets where they are going• in the comforts of a family car.

The one-car family is rare in the suburbs today. The kids must be chauffered back and forth to school. Dad drives to work. Mother can't walk to the grocery store. Everything is sprawled out more and more. Walking anywhere isn't a tenable solution, besides there aren't any sidewalks.

Suburbanites have come up with a few answers. Dad can join a car pool and drive only once a week.
Mother can join a school car pool and drive once weekly also. And the family teen-agers have discovered bicycling for health, transportation, and environment.

Five years ago suburban high school parking lots were jammed with shiny, expensive muscle cars. The cars are still arriving everyday, but how many would - be drivers in good weather prefer to pedal to school?

The new craze in bicycling in the suburbs enjoyed by the whole family isn't devoid of status. The new 10-speed bikes sport $200 - 400 price tags. These new models are built for speed. With a minimum of effort the cyclist can reach speeds upwards of 50 mph.

Like any mode of transportation, some problems exist. Proper room on streets has not been provided. Motorists tend to feel ownership of the streets and byways making Items that always seem to disappear include curtain rods, towel racks, paper towel and toilet paper hangers. Refrigerator shelves disappear, ornate light fixtures are taken, and in many cases the refrigerator and stove supplied by the landlord even become confused with the tenants belongings.

The landlord must protect himself in someway. A security deposit seems like a reasonable answer. Abuses happen in security deposit returns, but abuses are more common on the other side. Perhaps the landlord should pay allowed to use the money. The landlord should not be left defenseless because his only alternative would be to protect his investment by raising the rent. told. Recently, however, building owners across Michigan have begun to fight back. The rent deposit bill waiting passage in the Michigan House has stirred the other side to retort. The landlord is always a bogeyman. Typically cast as a cruel tycoon with a heart of stone he is feared and hated, but seldom is his side of the rental story

• Require that the landlord send a list of damages and estimated cost of repairs to the tenant within 10 days after the tenant leaves. If the landlord doesn't do this, he loses the entire security deposit.

WHEN QUESTIONED about the first point of disclosing home address, one landlord who wished to remain anonymous stated. "Disaster. Simple disaster."

He explained. "When I first bought this building -- which, I might add, was my life's dream -- I tried to be friendly with the tenants. I didn't require a security denosit Friendlines was intrepretdeposit. Friendliness was intrepreted as weakness. My tenants didn't pay on time making me late on my payments. I could have lost the building."

Landlords generally agree that tenants should have more than a post office box number as identification and only means of communication with the landlord. They also agree that this by no means should be the home address and phone of the build-

Except for the large developments currently being built and financed by large syndicates and insurance companies, most multi-family structures in the Detroit area have outstanding mortgages that are whittled down by monthly payments, just like most single-family home mortgages.

Taxes must be paid. Someone has to cut the grass, clean the windows, paint apartments, make repairs and do all the chores a homeowner does only much more

The security deposit bill as presented to legislators in Lansing has been pushed by student groups from Michigan State University. According to a few experienced landlords in the East Lansing area, student renters are the worst offenders in property destruction and unpaid Une weary East Larising idilution cites a group of four young collegiate gentlemen who rented one of his deluxe furmished apartments when his building was first completed. The four signed a ninemonth lease and submitted the first and last months' rent plus a damage deposit. Many consumer advocates would cite this man as an example of security deposit abuse, when, in fact, the landlord came out the big loser. A monthly newsletter reports on the board of directors meeting and on social events.

Holiday Park Co-op just north of Holiday Park is constructed around a 1 mile oval road Parking lots and green play areas with sculptured play forms are interspersed among the townhouses. The northern side of the development boarders a flood control nature preserve and future school site, now being used as a play-ground, and a residential area on the south.

The monthly carrying charge (rent) ranges from $130 for a one-bedroom to $203 for a three bedroom townhouse. The thing that has boosted the popularity of co-ops in the past few years is the fact that you get some of your money back when you move out.

At Holiday Park you fork over about $2,500 to move in and pay the monthly carrying charges. You lose on depreciation but get credit for any approved improvements on the unit. When you move you are charged a $100 resale fee but you get back the $2,500 plus a $15 a month acrued equity.

"If you live here a year or two you walk out with more money than you came with." said Murphy.

"And you get the same tax deduc-tions as a homeowner."

Holiday Park was begun as a low income project about the time Westland was incorporated as a city. The new city halted the project. Ten apartment units owned by the co-op on Wayne Road were the models for the original development.

The project was redesigned into an unlimited income co-op and completed three years later in

The board of directors exerts more control over Holiday Park residents than a city council would over a small city. They decide what type of improvements a resident can make on his unit and occasionally evict people considered bad neighbors. Murphy recalls two such evictions in his four years at the coop and one attempted eviction which was averted when the neighbors met at a closed board meeting and hashed out their

Once the lease, which is a binding contract, is signed the landlord has the security of knowing a person will occupy his property for a specified time, or pay a penalty. Generally speaking, the landlord agrees to only one thirr -- to allow the use of his property, in exchange for payment of a specific sum.

The tenant, on the other hand, agrees to do a hundred things -- pay the rent, keep the property in good condition, and in many cases repair it if repairs are necessary.

For Rent. No Children. No Pets

children and pets posed a problem to families. Condominiums, in fact, are touted to present a family with exactly the same joys of owning a home without the headaches of maintenance. The idea of condominium townhouses is not new. Look in the older sections of downtown Detroit. The old rowhouse is basically the same.

Does apartment and condominium living have an effect on the occupant children? Is their development different in any way? The answers aren't conclusive, but the observable differences seem positions. Now apartment planners are including facilities that give apartment living a natural style that keeps their buildings fully occupied. Before the recent boom in apartments and condominiums, inium dwellers have a greater and earlier exposure to a number of other children than a family with one child in a single - family home. Although this exposure for apartment children is somewhat better than the limited group exposure of the comparison child, the child at chilhome may have a greater variety of things in his immediate environdren. Certain conditions perm children of apartment and con Children learn from other ment. He may have a backyard available to him to be used daily while mother supervises from inside the home. Apartment confined children of pre-school age would not be allowed outside without Mother's complete and undivided attention.

As children advance to adolescence apartment living may take on a distinct advantage. The recreational facilities in most new apartment and condominium developments include lessons on a variety of sports including tennis, golf, dancing, etc.

The child easily fits into the exclusive group that use the facilities. This feeling of belonging is what social psychologists term a must for positive development.

Of course, there are negative aspects to living in a multi-family dwelling with children. One problem often cited is the lack of parental control of acquaintances the child may make. A child may meet and befriend a person that the parents feel is undesirable.

Occupants without children tend to have little or no tolerance to diaper rash screams, sibling disputes, and miniature handprints disputes, ar along halls. Both single home and multi-family living has its pros and cons. In the end, however, the parent decides how the child uses the environment.

and want a dog, think small. And short-haired. "A large dog has no place in an apartment area." said a Farmington veterinarian. "A small dog is fine, preferably a short-haired one that doesn't shed much." The animal doctor asked that he not be named "because we don't want or need publicity."

He quickly reeled off a list of animals that make good pets for apartment or townhouse tenants. Cats, parakeets, hamsters, guinea pigs, reptiles, aquarium fish.

"Cats make ideal pets for an apartment," he said. "They're very clean animals. And they can have their front claws removed if they tend to tear up furniture or draperies." He said the claw-removing operation, done under anesthetic, doesn't affect the cat's sense of balance or ability to get around.

But, dogs, too -- if they're of the small breeds -- adapt well to apartment life, he said.

Keeping down the ruckus

"Dogs should be on a leash at all times when they're out of the apartment," the veterinarian said. "And females should be spayed. That keeps down the ruckus that arises every six months with a female dog. An apartment is no place to have puppies."

"Dogs just don't have good places to run around most apartment complexes. They leave droppings and that presents a sanitation problem. A dog kept in an apartment should be housebroken and paper-trained. Obedience schools are very good, too. In this way, the dog knows what's expected of it."

The doctor said that all dogs kept in apartments "should by all means have all the necessary inoculations because they come in contact with so many people there." He said he knows of no serious physical problem in keeping a dog in an apartment but added, "It's most important you get a small breed. An apartment is no place for a big dog."

David and Susan have lived in Hamtramck for five years above David's parents. Now David's plant is moving to Livonia. They decide to move into a lovely two bedroom apartment that seems fit for a queen.

ings are mixed with problems. The rent is three times what we paid Dad. That's all right. We saved a lot of money with both of us working. David walked to work and I took the DSR bus. Now one car isn't enough. David must drive to work and I have to also. After we had signed the lease, which included a parking space 200 yards from our door, we needed another. Ten dollars more each month. OK what else can we do.

"We are only minutes away from Westland Center. That's great, but I miss George's Sundries on the corner of te block at home. In the new apartment I have to go to Farmer Jack only minutes away by car for a quart of milk. Susan says she has mixed emotions. "How terrific? The bless-

He said the turnover is about one per cent per month and the one bedroom units are most in demand with 47 names on the waiting list.

Senior citizens may be able to make it at Holiday Park but there are only about five such co-ops in the metropolitan area. Suburbs have been slow to provide small, low priced units needed by persons on a fixed income.

A survey begun last week by the city of Southfield is expected to count 10,000 residents over 60 years of age. The city housing commission has an application in at the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a $1.5 million loan to construct 100 senior citizen housing units but HUD won't decide whether to grant the funds until 1973.

In the meantime the B.S.B.S. Land Co.. has presented the city with plans for up to 1,800 units of senior citizen apartments and townhouses on 70 acres of land near Franklin Rd. and 1-696. They call it "retirement housing in a swinger community."

Plans include swimming pools, hobby rooms, elevators, a clubhouse, movies and a restaurant. Developer Robert Stein, who is awaiting rezoning, said rentals would begin at $150 per month.

"This privately owned and funded development is intended for people of average or above average income,"

Terms Defining

Apartment. Condominium. Coop. Townhouse. Here's what they all mean:

entrances and may be one or two stories tall.

CONDOMINIUM: An apartment or townhouse unit which is purchased by the tenant under a private mortgage. Condominiums usually require a down payment and an additional fee for maintenance.

apartments or townhouses in which each tenant buys shares in the corporation. The complex is run by a board of directors elected by the tenants. Co-ops also usually require a down payment which is refunded when the tenant leaves with accrued equity but minus a CO-OPERATIVE: A complex of resale fee,

APARTMENT: A housing unit located in a building which contains other such units above and/or below and on either side of it. Entrances may be private or through a main door. Rent is paid monthly to a landlord. A security deposit, usually a month's rent or more is paid upon moving in. A lease, an agreement to remain in the building and pay rent for a certain period (usually one year) and abide by certain rules, is usually required.

TOWNHOUSE: A unit of housing which may be attached to other units on either side but has no other units above or below it.

Both condominiums and co-ops allow income tax deductions similar to those of a private home.

We have made a vigorous attempt to identify and list a sample of apartments located in Observerland in this supplement. We regret it if our search has left some out, and urge owners or managers of such developments to notify us at once. We have made every reasonable effort to be correct in the listing of information about each development and apologize in advance if errors have occurred. To the best of our knowledge the information was accurate as of August 10, 1972. We encourage readers to bring any errors or omissions to our attention by calling 261-8600, ext. 283.

Livonia, for instance, has a population graph which is shaped like a Michelob beer bottle. When the 1960 and 1970 census rigures are compared, Livonia has about the same numbers of residents in both censuses in the 20 to 29 age group and in the over 55 age groups. The big increase was in 19 year olds and under, and in the 35 The ordinance was tested in the courts, where the city lost in two hearings on the validity of the law.

A Wayne County judge and a Circuit Court of Appeals panel both ruled that such zoning ordinances cannot be enacted by a petition drive. However, the question is now before the State Supreme

The legal battles about the ordinance so far have not concerned any of the larger questions involved, such as whether an ordinance which, in effect, is a complete prohibition against apartments, is proper.

The alternatives for those without money are few. Younger persons can try to find a roommate. Older persons can try

Some Livonia officials and politicians see resident opposition as a reflection of residents' desires for the wide lawns and open spaces of suburbia. Arguments most often heard at public meetings against apartments include charges that apartment dwellers don't participate in or have interests in the community. In addition opponents charge that apartments are a burden on city and school district

Studies in several cities, including Farmington, have shown that apartments more than pay their way, mainly because they contribute fewer children to the schools per unit than do single family homes.

Reasons aside, the lack of apartments seem to have contrib-

president of the Garden City Chamber of Commerce, revealed a March 15 letter sent by business neighbors of the theater to the city's industrial and commercial development commission expressing their opposition to any theater expansion because of the impact it would have on their parking

The letter, sent through an attorney, was signed by Mazzoni Sr., owners of a real estate office, professional office center, and the Garden City Moose Lodge.

The letter said the merchants "do not desire to have a second theater or addition to the present theater for the simple reason that it would seriously interfere with their businesses. They are, of course, desirous of improved parking and are willing to discuss the matter further" with the development com-

THE COMMISSION last spring tried to convince the businessmen on the southeast corner of the Ford-Middle Belt corner to support a city-owned and operated parking lot behind their stores.

Part of the plan was to have the city council buy two acres of land and the vacant school board building on Pardo near Middle Belt -- just behind the theater and other businesses on Ford Rd.

There has been no progress on the proposed sale of the land to the city, although Mazzoni last winter told the school board that he is interested in buying the land.

During one of several meetings held by the commission and businessmen on the proposed parking lot since rejected by the city council -- Charles Shafer announced that his family is thinking of adding a second Dearborn Heights, would get In Late Model preliminary LaParisien.

If you earn $920 a month you can own a maintenance free home in the Plymouth area that's better than a single home or condominium!

We were looking for a new home and we looked at everything. before we discovered Brentwood! Like a condominium, a small monthly fee gives Fred freedom from grass cutting, snow shoveling and exterior painting. But it's better than a condominium because we own our own homesite, have privacy, and with our backyard we can put in a pool, swings, the works! It beats most single family homes, because we have almost no
