School Board To Consider Building Bond Issue 2nd Try

By KATHY MORAN

The Plymouth Board of Education has called a special meeting Monday to determine what form another bond issue election might take and when it would be held.

Two main proposals will be under discussion. Both would set the 1973 bond issue proposal at $15.2 million and warn voters that the district will seek approval of another proposal in 1974.

The $15.2 million proposal is $5.8 million less than the proposal which was defeated in December. It includes funding for three elementary schools, Phase III of Plymouth-Canton High School and $6.5 million for the first phase of a third high school.

ONE ADMINISTRATIVE recommendation will set a 1974 bond issue proposal at $6 million, including $5.5 million for the third high school's second phase and $500,000 for libraries at East and West Middle Schools.

The second recommendation would set the 1974 proposal at $12.3 million, including: financing for the East and West libraries; phase II of the third high school; $4.5 million for a fifth middle school, and $1.8 million for a 14th elementary school.

Both proposals are contingent on whether the third high school will be located on the Centennial Educational Park site. The board will discuss the location during the meeting.

By breaking the proposals down into smaller amounts, the administration hopes to make the issues more palatable to the public, which defeated a $21 million proposal, 2,540 to 1,720.

ALTHOUGH THE administration has proposed bond issues in smaller amounts, the building needs haven't been revised.

These needs are based on a citizens study which predicts an "explosive" growth for the district.

Currently the district has an official enrollment of 10,932 students. The study predicts this will swell to 13,000 students in 1973; 15,000 in 1974; 17,000 in 1975 and 19,000 by 1976.

The growth is attributed to the rapid development of Canton Township.

The administration had considered returning to the voters with a bond issue proposal of $20.7 million this spring, but the state school bond committee rejected the proposal. The committee must approve the amount of the issue before it goes on the ballot.

TALKING IT OVER--Students at Plymouth High School now have the opportunity for face-to-face discussions with police officers under the new police-school liaison program initiated by the Plymouth police department in conjunction with the Michigan State Police. In a recent man-

Police, High School Start Liaison Program

By MAURIE WALKER

A police-school liaison program, similar to that operated successfully in other cities across the nation, has been inaugurated in Plymouth High School by the Plymouth Police Department.

Initiated by Sgt. Carl Berry, Plymouth Police Dept. community relations officer and a member of the school board, the program's prime purpose is to establish an "interpersonal communication link" between the high school students and the police.

"The school has furnished an office in the school where we can meet with any student who wishes to discuss a problem, get to better understand policemen or just plain talk," Berry said.

"Since we started the program last month, we have been spending Thursdays at the school, talking with the students in the hall or the liaison office."

Berry, along with John Stout, community service officer, rarely appear in uniform when they're at the school.

"The young people identify with us better when we are in civilian clothes," Berry added.

Berry said the school liaison officer's job carries a great deal of responsibility.

"WE TRY not to assist the students but attempt to establish a coordination and collaboration link between the police and the school authorities."

"In addition, we are putting the police officer in a situation where he can interact individually and on a face to face level with the young men and women away from the coercive atmosphere usually

Will Our Landmarks Survive?

Freight House: Old Log Cabin:

Unless the city finds a new site for it, the old freight house that has stood for years at the C&O tracks on Starkweather Road soon will become only a memory.

Claiming that the building had outlived its usefulness for railroad purposes, the C&O officials have notified Mayor James McKeon that the city has one of two choices-- move it to a new location or see it razed.

At the same time, the city has been asked to remove the poles and wires that were erected for the Artrain display last summer along with the concrete section of sewer crock that was used as an entrance.

"WE HAVE NOT taken official action as yet," McKeon stated, "and at first glance, there seems to be only two available sites... the corner of Starkweather and Farmer or at the triangle park at Wilcox and Starkweather."

The C&O officials also have informed the city that approval will be given to Calvin Boles to lease the area containing the rail spur for the "Gold Spike", his contemplated restaurant on wheels.

The C&O action is disappointing to the Plymouth Arts Council that had hoped to obtain use of the freight house and establish an art museum in Old Village.

Mrs. Jo Hulce, one of the prime movers of the Arts Council, still has hopes of realizing some use of the building, but unless the city moves relocate it, the freight house seems doomed.

For some time the railroad officials have expressed a desire to eliminate the building, which has stood for a century, claiming it hinders the view of oncoming trains and was dangerous to life and limb.

In his plans for the restaurant on wheels Boles had hoped that the building would remain as a sort of museum and be an added attraction.

No time limit has been set for the city to make its decision, but the railroad officials expressed a desire that it be as soon as possible.

THE C & O FREIGHT HOUSE must now be moved or face razing by the railroad, which decided that after sitting there for a century, the building poses a traffic hazard. (Observer photo by Maurie Walker)

CANTON TOWNSHIP
The old log cabin that has weathered the summer suns and the wintry blasts -- and even one fire -- at the corner of Haggerty Road and Warren for almost a century is due to get a new home.

Under present plans, the ancient building that is a reminder of the "good old days" in the Plymouth community when it served as a summer cottage for the Hough family is to be glamorized in a new center in Canton Township.

THE OLD LOG CABIN that has stood as a landmark for 90 years at Haggerty and Warren roads will be getting a new home soon. Canton Township Supervisor Phil Dingeldey said the township will take a good look at restoring the building which has deteriorated through the years it sat vacant. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Old Log Cabin

The shift has come about because of changes made necessary by the construction of the new I-275 highway and the re-routing of Haggerty to take the kink out of it near the overpass.

Through a series of transfers the cabin has been given to Canton Township as a gift. It started when the State Highway Department purchased the land and the cabin from the Hough family as part of the right-of-way.

When it later became necessary to alter Haggerty Road, the state made a deal with the Mocer developers for a transfer of a piece of ground to the west. Then, in turn, the developers offered the old landmark to Canton Township as a gift.

"We're not quite certain where we will place the cabin," Supervisor Philip Dingeldey stated, "but I would like to see it either in our new civic center on the 80-acre site at Canton Center and Cherry Hill roads or on the land with the old brick school, a bit further south which we hope to get and use as a museum."

Dingeldey confided that the school is being leased from the Plymouth Community School District, but an effort is being made to obtain it outright.

The latest move precludes any chance the old landmark would be moved to the City of Plymouth as part of its Pilgrim pioneer image.

For a time, some years ago there was a move started to have the cabin moved to Kellogg Park and remodeled as a rustic office for the Chamber of Commerce.

Lately, however, the Plymouth Historical Society has dropped all interest in the belief the cabin has deteriorated too far to be saved.

"It would cost an awful lot of money to repair the damage that has been done by the elements through the years," Clarence Moore, one of the society's officials, explained. "The logs are inter-locked in a special way that would be difficult to duplicate and some portions seem to be beyond hope."

City Commissioner Ernie Henry, who in company with Moore made the inspection of the cabin, unofficially reported to the commission Monday night that the Historical Society no longer wanted any part of the project.

In the meantime, Canton Township officials plan to take a good look at it and make plans to move it—log by log if necessary.

Thus will be written a new chapter in the history of the old log edifice that has been a source of considerable interest through the years.

Older residents recall that it was built by the Hough family in the 1880s to serve as a summer home and relief from the life of the workaday world in the downtown area.

Then, some years ago—the exact date is not recorded—the building was damaged by fire. During its rebuilding, life in the area changed and the Hough family no longer had need for it.

It was abandoned and left like an orphan in the storm to weather the elements.

Gradually they took their toll and the sentinel of the past would have been allowed to collapse and pass from the scene had it not been for the parade of progress that is bringing about a re-routing of Haggerty Road.

New Families Welcomed

PLYMOUTH Two new families from other states have recently made their homes in Plymouth, according to Welcome Wagon records.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Heminger have moved to 40315 Plymouth Road from San Mateo, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. James Faasse, formerly of Fort Madison, Iowa, are at home at 44298 Post Mill Court.

The $300,000 which was deducted from the Dec. 11 proposal was for libraries at East and West.

SCHOOL DISTRICT residents will also vote on a 1.5 mill renewal on June 12. The millage is part of 27.05 mills levied for operations. Another 5.95 mills are levied for debt retirement.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the second floor board room in the district office, 454 S. Harvey.

DAR To Elect Delegates

PLYMOUTH Members of the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will elect delegates to the state conference in March and the Continental Congress in April when they meet Jan. 15.

The meeting will convene at the home of Mrs. Robert Rosbalt, 1441 Linden, Plymouth, for a noon luncheon. Mrs. John Armstrong of Plymouth will be luncheon chairman.

Mrs. Donald Sober will present final plans for the Feb. 8 Indian Benefit Tea and advance tickets will be sold. The tea is open to the public and tickets may be purchased from any DAR member. Ticket chairman in Plymouth is Mrs. Rosbalt and in Northville, Mrs. Thomas Lovett.

The Jan. 15 program will be given by Mrs. Thelma Cupler on the topic, "The Chapter in Stitches."

Mrs. Cupler will relate colonial beginnings as seen in coverlets and will demonstrate quilting. Members have been asked to bring their family quilts to the meeting for display.

Bird Parents Meet Jan. 30

PLYMOUTH "Limits of Learning" is the topic for the Bird Elementary School PTO meeting Jan. 30 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. James Sonnega and members of the Plymouth School District's special services department will form a panel to answer parent questions on learning attitudes, abilities, habits, disabilities and other pertinent subjects.

attached to the police environment."

Berry said the program strives to develop and improve relationships and understanding between the police community and the academic community and to build better police-community relations by improving the police image.

"We have made quite a bit of progress in our relationship with the students," Berry commented. "In the month we have operated the program, more and more students are coming to us for advice."

Berry stressed that the liaison officer has no academic responsibility but he does render assistance to the school counseling team.

"Actually our role is that of advisor or just someone the students can tell their troubles to, should they so desire..."

BERRY SAID he and Stout also act as resource persons to teachers as well as to parents who might require a policeman's special skill and knowledge.

"It is recognized by us that the primary role of the school is educating and that one of the requirements of learning is creating a proper atmosphere in which such learning can take place. This is properly the domain of the educator."

"However," he added, "in relation to youthful problems we like to feel that the school functions best in the role of the preventer."

"This role must be carried out through personal relationships. We feel that the police-school liaison concept enhances that prevention capability."

He added that the major duty of the liaison officer program is to discover causes of crime and prevent it before it happens.

"It's our obligation to be more concerned with prevention, treatment and rehabilitation than the apprehension of a youthful offender."

"Never will we act as the primary investigating officer in a school related matter. When investigations may be required, either at the request of the school administration or as the result of assignment, we must exercise great care to observe the appropriate procedures and rules governing the special relationships between the student, the school and the police."

"ANY CRIMES reported to us must be reported to the law enforcement agency having jurisdiction, even though handled in an unofficial, informal manner."

Plymouth's liaison officers have had the cooperation of the Michigan State Police who each week assign an officer to meet with the students at the school.

"The State Police have worked in conjunction with us over the past three years in conducting a number of school and student programs throughout the Plymouth School District," Berry said.

The sergeant feels certain the program will be a success as more students take advantage of the opportunity to talk face to face with police officers in the students' own surroundings.

"I'm sure we will be able to help some students who have one problem or another. And the program will undoubtedly bring about a better understanding between the police and the youth," Berry said.

Schools To Bus From Rocker Sub

PLYMOUTH In the wake of a tragedy, the Plymouth Board of Education voted to transport 12 to 15 children from Rocker subdivision to East Middle School until a better solution to traffic hazards near the school is found.

The board took the action following the death of 11-year-old Karen Wendy Johnson who was hit by a car while crossing Ann Arbor Road to get to East.

Karen, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Johnson of 9146 Manton, apparently darted in front of traffic with a small group of girls and was hit.

In order to prevent a similar tragedy, the board unanimously voted to bus the children from Rocker subdivision so they won't be tempted to cross between lights on Ann Arbor Rd.

Since they live less than 1½ miles from school, the school district bears the expense of transportation without state reimbursement.

THE CHILDREN will be bused until another alternative is found. Some suggestions include having a

Will Canton

Move Fellows Creek Drain?

CANTON TOWNSHIP Canton trustees have taken the first step in a long-range plan to relocate the Fellows Creek drain, one of the longest and largest in the township.

The initial step won't cost any money, but it will serve notice to developers that the diversion is going to take place at some future point in time, thus giving them time to fit the relocation into development plans.

By resolution, the board adopted the plan developed by its engineers, Wade, Trim and Associates, calling for the diversion of the huge open drain away from Ford Rd. The new route will take the drain along property lines north of Ford, eventually discharging into an outlet located in Fellows Creek subdivision.

The new route would eliminate the drain that now runs alongside the north half of Ford Rd., according to Glen Roberts, Wade-Trim engineer.

Estimated cost of the entire project will be approximately $360,000, but hopefully developers who have land along the new route will participate in the project. This could trim the township's share down to $220,000, Roberts said.

crossing guard, fencing off the school so children can't get to it without crossing at the lights or constructing an overpass.

In regard to another hazardous area, the board approved the expenditure of $775 for a special school speed limit sign with flashing lights for Sheldon Rd. south of Joy near Gallimore School.

The district will spend $775 for installation of a wooden pole on the west side of Sheldon and run an electrical cable from the pole to the school.

Smit Protests Federal Water Control Action

LANSING State Rep. Raymond Smit (R-Ann Arbor) has protested to William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, against federal obstacles to correcting Michigan's water pollution problems.

Smit's district includes Plymouth and part of Plymouth Township.

Smit said the agency is embarking upon a priority system which will, in effect, concentrate great awards to a few large metropolitan areas, leaving much of outstate Michigan without the protection afforded by water pollution control works.

He called the federal decision "quite unacceptable from the standpoint of meeting our statewide pollution control objectives."

Minister Of Education Shared By 2 Churches

By MARGARET MILLER

The Rev. James Thomas has come to Farmington in a ministry so new that "I'm writing my own job description."

Officially, Rev. Thomas is minister of church education for two United Methodist churches — Nardin Park and Orchard.

A shared staff member is new in church organization. Also new is the way this clergyman views his position. "I'm a program enabler-staff trainer," he said, and goes on to explain that he means his work to be wider in scope than the church school, youth work concept of minister of education.

"I'm ready to work with all elements of both congregations, so that people don't just get appointed to a church job — they get a handhold on it and with this understanding are equipped to give it their best."

JIM THOMAS arrived in Farmington in mid-October after 10 years as a parish pastor and nine more in Christian education work.

With offices in the big Nardin Park complex at 29887 W. 11 Mile, he also serves the congregation of Orchard United Methodist, 30450 Farmington Road.

A board of six lay persons, three from each church, works with him to determine where his training can best be used to help each church and both.

They include Lynn McCorry, chairman, and W. Carl Brown and Mrs. Rex Spencer from Nardin Park. Orchard representatives are Jack Passfield, vice chairman, Mrs. Lester Beltz and Mike Schiller.

"BY WORKING together, both churches benefit," Rev. Thomas said.

"Each brings to discussions ideas that have worked successfully or could work successfully, and there are things I can add, and the result is a snowball effect."

In last week's session of the advisory committee, he said, the discussion was of a leisure time ministry for the summer months.

"We came up with 20 different kinds of experiences," Rev. Thomas said. "Probably only three of these will be put into effect this first summer, but with discussions like these we're projecting four or five years ahead."

REV. THOMAS first visited Farmington about a year ago when he was invited to do a laboratory training school for church people who work with junior highs.

Discussions with him at that time convinced Nardin Park leaders their church had a need for education leadership, and a chance discussion with heads of Orchard UMC brought the realization that both were looking for an additional staff member.

By the time he was seriously considering the move to Farmington, it was at the invitation of both Dr. William Mercer of Nardin Park and the Rev. Eric Hammar of Orchard.

"And since I've been here,"

Rev. Thomas said, "several of my friends with similar training are beginning to put out feelers to see if there are other churches that would like to cooperate in this area of church work."

REV. THOMAS figures he fell quite naturally into this aspect of the ministry. His parents worked together in the preaching and education aspects of parish leadership and they still are active in a church in Fort Wayne.

Their son, growing up in the Evangelical United Brethren Church united with the Methodists several years ago to form the United Methodist Church, attended Central College and Evangelical Theological School in Naperville, Ill., and then went on to the University of Chicago Divinity School and the Garrett Theological Seminary at Northwestern University. He also attended the Maywood Lutheran Seminary.

After 10 years as a parish pastor, he returned to school for an MA in religious education, earning it from the Oberlin School of Theology nine years ago.

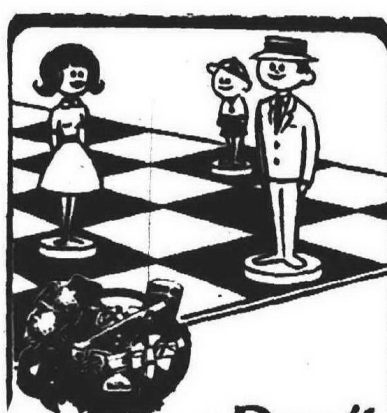

He and his wife, Joyce, both are certified by the UMC as laboratory leaders in Christian education. They have three children.

Rev. Thomas has several other certifications, including one to conduct sexuality discussions for junior highs and their parents.

"This is a weekend adventure that I've led for about 20 groups in the last four years," he said, adding that it probably would be part of the program here. Also under discussion are such adventures in learning as a week-long "camp" for senior citizens.

SEMINARS and workshops definitely will be part of his programs.

"We are working with adult education leaders and looking at a wide variety of possibilities," he said. "This whole job is turning into an exciting adventure."

Jehovah's Witnesses Rap Malawi 'Persecution'

Jehovah's Witnesses recently assembled in Detroit, including many from Observerland congregations, recently passed a resolution to "publicly deplore the atrocities being committed against Jehovah's Witnesses in the Republic of Malawi."

Recent reports have indicated that the African country, where there are many converts to the Witnesses faith, has persecuted members of the faith.

Removals from jobs, burnings of homes and killings have been reported, and news accounts have told of many being forced to flee their homes and walk more than 350 miles to Zambia to escape persecution.

THE REASON, said the resolution passed in the recent meeting, is that "they choose to worship the true God Jehovah and because, as conscientious Christians and for scriptural reasons, they will not become a part of the world and join the Malawi Congress Party or any political organization."

The resolution passed by 1,009 Jehovah's Witnesses meeting at 10709 Grand River, appealed to Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda, president of the republic, and other authorities to bring an end of the reported "maltreatment"—and also asked all "honest-hearted people of Malawi... to refuse to have any part in the persecution."

There have been some 23,300 Jehovah's Witnesses in the African country.

THE RESOLUTION, passed in Detroit, stated that one dispatch told of "at least 10 Jehovah's Witnesses being killed and many homes burned because Jehovah's Witnesses refuse to join the nation's sole political party."

A New York Times story on the situation in Malawi said there were "reports of massive harassment that led to the deaths of 11 Witnesses, the raping of women members of the group, the burning of Witnesses' homes and what amounted to the forcible expulsion of most of the 23,000 adherents in the country."

SEMINARS and workshops definitely will be part of his programs.

"We are working with adult education leaders and looking at a wide variety of possibilities," he said. "This whole job is turning into an exciting adventure."

Polish Writer Is Forum Speaker

Foreign correspondent and author S.L. Schneiderman will speak for the second Jewish Frontier Forum, scheduled by the Labor Zionist Alliance in the Labor Zionist Institute in Farmington Sunday, Jan. 21.

Mission Will Sponsor Talk

Divine Light Mission, 306 W. 10 Mile, Royal Oak, is sponsoring a community service program at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 17. It will be in the University of Detroit Students Union ballroom, 4001 W. McNichols.

"Jews in Poland" will be in Yiddish. The forum is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. in Laikin auditorium, and the institute is located at 28555 Middle Belt.

The speaker, educated at Warsaw University, covered stories in the Spanish Civil War, and World War II as well as following the collapse of the League of Nations and the rise of the United Nations.

He has written a series of studies on Poland, including "The Diary of Mary Berg," "Between Fear and Hope," "The Warsaw Heresy" and "The Last Chapter."

Hosts for the forum will be members of the Arlazaroff-Avrinin Branch 137 of Labor Zionist Alliance. Tickets will be available at the door and refreshments will be served.

Trinity Church Members Will Host Dinners

Members of Trinity Church of the Brethren are planning a "dining-in - dining-out adventure" at 6:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday, Jan. 19 and 20. They will visit or host other church families for dinner.

Reservations must be made by Jan. 17 at the church office, 27350 W. Chicago, Redford Township.

Two student representatives from Manchester College will meet with the Youth Group class following worship services Jan. 21.

The church is also planning to sponsor a Christian recreation weekend in February. Shirley Shumaker is in charge.

Mormons To Hear Elder M. D. Hanks

Elder Marion D. Hanks, an assistant to the Council of Twelve of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, is speaking at the Dearborn Stake Conference Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 13 and 14. He will speak at a public session at 10 a.m., Sunday, in

MARION HANKS

Edsel Ford High School, 20601 Rotunda, Dearborn. Members of the Livonia Ward will be involved.

Elder Hanks is a former member of the First Council of Seventy, and was appointed to his present church position in 1968. In recent years, he has toured overseas military installations where Mormons are stationed.

He served as a leader of President Eisenhower's youth fitness committee.

He will discuss the church's welfare program, which has given help in commodities and cash to the needy in an amount totaling almost $18 million. Labor donated for farm, food, and clothing production and helping the needy, sick and bereaved has amounted to more than four million hours.

The program also offered work opportunities to many handicapped persons. This amounted to a million and a half hours. The overall emphasis is on helping others help themselves.

The Dearborn Stake provided $6,552.64 in welfare aid last year to 101 recipients.

2 Choirs To Sing

The choir of St. Paul Lutheran Church will present a concert at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 14, in the church, 20805 Middle Belt, Farmington.

St. Paul Lutheran School choir, directed by Louise Luebke, will sing "The King Shall Come When Morning Dawns," "Child in the Manger," "A Strangely Quiet Bethlehem," "Praise God the Lord, Ye Sons of Men" and "We Saw His Glory."

The church's senior choir, directed by Susan Kayser, will sing "Angel's Greeting," "Keeping Holy Vigil" and "Shepherd's Rejoice."

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or of abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press ..."

—The Bill of Rights: Amendment Number One

The "free exercise of religion" has historically included the right of any U.S. citizen to confess to or counsel with a clergyman of his choice — in complete confidence.

If the courts ever begin jailing ministers, priests and rabbis who refuse to violate the secrecy of the confessional, the national uproar can be well imagined.

Yet, with a few exceptions, the nation's pulpits have been muffled or unconcerned at the immoral spectacle of laymen who were jailed because as newsmen they refused to break an historic journalistic faith and violate a most sacred confessional obligation.

PETER BRIDGE of New Jersey and William Farr of California have refused to reveal the identity of their sources. To have done so would have been thoroughly immoral, as well as disastrously impractical.

If such dishonor ever becomes widespread in the press, it "would cause serious investigative reporting to dry up," as stated by New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

And if this were ever to happen, this government of, by, and for the people would indeed perish from the earth — along with its free press.

Clergy do not seem to be sufficiently aware of the clear and present danger. If the Nixon courts can so easily assault such an historic tradition as a newsmen's confidence, then surely the sacrosanctity of the confessional should be an easy mark as well.

Rev. Lester Kinsolving's

Religion Update

be damned eternally: "Well, in his role as a just God, He does things that He wouldn't be caught dead doing as God of love!"

PERHAPS clergy would better appreciate the wisdom of the framers of the Bill of Rights, who included press freedom right along with freedom of speech and religion, if they realized how legally vulnerable the confidentiality of the confessional has been.

More than a decade ago, the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs in Washington, commissioned attorney A. Robert Theibault to research all state laws relating to protection of confidentiality in pastoral counseling or confession.

Theibault discovered that 17 states provided no legal protection whatsoever.

Moreover, he learned that in at least half of the states there were very definite qualifications to this protection — such as confining it to "confessions" made to a clergyman in "the course of discipline enjoined by the church to which he belongs."

Hence the case of one Episcopal clergyman who was threatened with contempt charges for refusing to reveal details of a divorce case told him by a parishioner in confidence. It was held that this priest was not entitled to privileged communication because the Episcopal Church does not have compulsory confession. This decision was later reversed by a higher court.

Speech can hardly remain free in any country where one cannot confide in either the Second Estate (the clergy) or the Fourth Estate (the press), without fear of governmental intrusion.

Adas Shalom To Hear Dean

Adas Shalom Synagogue, 29901 Middle Belt, Farmington, will have a "Weekend Encounter With Dr. Seymour Fox" from Jan. 19-21.

Dr. Fox, dean of the college of education of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, will be the synagogue's professor-in-residence for a program of five "encounters."

THE PROGRAM begins Friday, Jan. 19, with a family shabbat eve service at 5:30 p.m., dinner at 6:15 and an address by Dr. Fox for the entire congregation at 8:15.

Reservations may be made by calling the church office. Children 13 and over are welcome to join their parents. Dr. Fox will speak to the congregation again during Saturday morning services. At noon, he will meet with the Migdal - Tzion USY Chapter and college students, following a youth luncheon.

He then will join a creative workshop group at 8:30 p.m.,

Saturday, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Waller, 30619 Club House Lane, Farmington.

THE FINAL "encounter" will be at 9:30 a.m., Sunday, at the Men's Club breakfast forum. The breakfast is preceded by services at 8:30 a.m. The congregation is invited to join the forum.

Before joining the Hebrew University, Dr. Fox was dean of the Teachers' Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

Rabbi Wine To Give Talk

Rabbi Sherwin Wine will discuss "The Revolutionary Thoughts of R. D. Laing" at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 19, in the Birmingham Temple, 28611 W. 12 Mile, Farmington.

Laing is the English psychologist who suggested that insanity is a way for sane people to cope with an insane world.

Thurston Routs Annapolis

EAGLE DRIVE -- Thurston's John Stein (41) moves in against two Dearborn defenders for two points in the Eagles' 75-52 victory (Observer photo by Tom Donoghue)

Thurston High's first year basketball Coach Dan Bennett couldn't have thought of a better way to open the new year.

First, his high scoring forward Steve Hunter was back in action after missing four games because of a sprained ankle. Secondly, his Eagles won a contest going away -- which is a sight to behold at Thurston High.

THE EAGLES led all the way in their non-leaguer with Dearborn Annapolis, winning their second in eight outings, 75-52.

"I think we might surprise a few people from here on out," said Bennett, whose cagers stand 0-3 in Northwest Sun-urban action.

Thurston jumped to an 18-8 first quarter margin and stood its ground at the half, 37-22. The Eagles scored 19 points in each of the remaining two periods while Annapolis popped in 15 in each for a 23 point victory for Thurston.

Annapolis shot 31 per cent from the floor, 19 of 62, while Thurston came up with its top effort of the campaign, 32 of 66 for 49 per cent.

HUNTER, who responded with 18 points, also paced Thurston with 17 rebounds followed by John Stein with 14 as the Eagles won the board game, 47-26.

Thurston travels to Garden City East Friday in a Northwest Suburban clash.

Stevenson Nips Dearborn, 58-56

Livonia Stevenson kicked off its new year basketball campaign with a non-league triumph over Suburban Eight's Dearborn, 58-56.

The 4-3 Spartans were slow getting started and trailed after one quarter, 10-8.

"I thought a zone would break open Dearborn's pattern basketball," said Stevenson Coach George Van Wagoner. "All it did was to slow us down."

STEVENSON HIT only three of 14 in that quarter but rebounded with a nine for 24 second quarter to capture a 29-23 halftime margin.

The Spartans went up by 13 at the end of the third period, 46-33, and VanWagoner starting substituting and almost ended up paying the price of too early a gamble. Dearborn came back with a nine for 22 quarter, outscored Stevenson, 23 to 12, and fell two points shy of notching it up at the final buzzer.

Stevenson hit 24 of 68 overall for 35 per cent from the floor.

The one item that kept Dearborn within striking distance was Stevenson's performance at the free throw line.

The Spartans made good only 10 of 30 charity tosses.

DEARBORN CAME up with 39 per cent from the floor on 25 of 65 shots.

The boards belonged to Stevenson, outrebounding Dearborn, 57-31, with Greg Eardley hauling in 15, and Tom Centers, Mike Patrick and Dale Haberman 11 each. Stevenson hosts city rival Franklin Tuesday night and jumps back into Inter-Lakes competition Friday against Waterford.

Lathrup Wins After Buzzer

The spotlight was on Barry Brodsky and the Southfield Lathrup guard came through to receive a standing ovation.

Lathrup was on the short end of a 57-56 score against Oak Park when the final buzzer sounded, but at the same time there was another noise -- a whistle.

Brodsky was fouled on a desperation drive up the middle and much to the amazement of Lathrup Coach Jim Kourtakis, his guard was awarded only a one-and-one instead of a two shot foul chance.

"It was a wierd situation all around," said Kourtakis. "It took a little guts on the ref's part to call that foul at the buzzer on the Oak Park court and all."

BARRY MADE GOOD both tosses from the line and Lathrup chalked up its fifth consecutive win, and sixth in seven outings.

Lathrup edged ahead after one quarter, 15-12, and sported a 35-30 halftime margin. After three periods the advantage was 46-41.

The Chargers started turning the ball over in the fourth and with 1:40 remaining, the tide had changed and Oak Park was in command, 57-52.

But the momentum returned to Lathrup as Oak Park turned the ball over and John Gardner made it 57-54. Bob Malaby popped in another to put the Chargers down by one, 57-56, with 30 seconds remaining.

Oak Park moved into a stall and with 12 seconds showing, Brodsky fouled Redskin Willie Rankins.

RANKINS WENT to the line in a one-and-one situation with an opportunity to tuck the game away.

He missed and Lathrup's Andy Tracy hauled in the loose ball, passed up to mid-court and the Chargers and Kourtakis took a time-out, five seconds left on the clock. Malaby then passed in to Brodsky, who found no one open in the lane and drove toward the bucket, was fouled, made good two at the line and Lathrup put another notch in the win column.

"It was a good tight one to pull out," said Kourtakis. "Oak Park really has some leapers. I am glad we play them just once."

Oak Park shot 45 per cent from the floor on 26 of 58.

LATHRUP, on the other hand, came up with its worst performance of the season, 23 of 64 for 36 per cent.

Ski Heil

By

BILL CAMERON

Bill Cameron is jetting around the U.S. this week, skiing in Albuquerque, N.M., and becoming a certified tennis pro in Berkeley, Calif. His versatility is boundless! So being a faithful secretary, I am filling in for him.

I just returned from a ski weekend in our "Mighty North" and in the words of Joan Walsh Anglund, "Memory has many hollows...let me hid in one." It was perfect! There may not be any powder down here, but rest assured, there is in upper Michigan. Timberlee Hills, near Traverse City, was the setting for our majestic jaunt in the sun 'n snow.

There was a 32 inch base and three inches of good powder. Even the sun cooperated to its fullest. To totally release your mind and body of the doldrums of everyday life, invest your time and money into a ski weekend. It can do special things for you!

For beginners and intermediates, Timberlee Hills would be a perfect starting point. The slopes range from gradual to steep and the runs are long. Just three minutes away is Sun Perch, where your lodging is made most comfortable and pleasant.

Our group consisted of seven beginners and three "skiers." The seven of us would like to tell all other beginners to listen to Bill Cameron and "Get Fit First!" Otherwise, your muscles will rebel for days!

This weekend I decided that the spiraling tow rope had yanked at my triceps for the last time and that it was time to move on to that "ride in the sky." What a thrill when you take the chair lift for the first time!

One Dr. Throgmorton assisted me in this thrill. Your thoughts on that first ride up are "what if I can't get down?" I was told not to worry, there is always a way. My first realization as we started our descent was, "how come on the beginners slope my snow plow and stem christie worked and now when I need them my only means of speed control is propelling myself downward in the snow?"

Another girl in the group wondered the same thing, only her technique for stopping was grabbing onto a tree en route and spinning to a stop. She doesn't recommend this method.

But all these little incidents add up to a memorable three days that will whet our thoughts for weeks to come.

P.S. Remember the Ladies Ski Day is held every Tuesday and Thursday at Mount Brighton through the Livonia Family Y. Think snow!

RU Comeback Topples Plymouth Cagers, 64-60

By FRED DeLANO

Redford Union needed a hero in a hurry and found one in Gary Fuiks.

The lean senior forward's five points in the last 34 seconds gave the Panthers a 64-60 come-from-behind basketball victory over Plymouth Tuesday that pushed RU to a 3-1 Suburban Eight record and 8-1 overall.

If ever there was a turn-about, switch-in-momentum cage contest in Observerland prep circles, this was it.

Three minutes into the third period RU was in command, 50-28, as the cohesive attack and defense of the Panthers made it look like child's play in besting the error-prone Rocks in every phase of the sport.

Twelve minutes later—with the clock starting to run out—Plymouth was on top, 60-59. In that span, the suddenly hot and aggressive Rocks outscored the Panthers, 32-9, as Tim Van Wagoner, Ron Egloff, Jim Szilagyi and Steve Robb peppered the hoop for a string of 13 field goals and six free throws.

EVEN THE home-court Redford crowd which had been so content moments before sensed that Sub-8 disaster was in the air, and then along came the game's top scorer, Fuiks, and one of Observerland's best floor generals, Scott Bjerke.

Together they had the upper hand in those vital closing seconds, dropping Plymouth to 1-3 in the Sub-8 and 6-3 for the season.

It was the still sub-par Egloff, after almost a month's inaction due to illness who hooked it in with 46 seconds left to put Plymouth in front in the Rocks' second great comeback of the winter. But it wasn't enough.

Just as the Rocks had come from 16 points down at Allen Park only to lose to the league leaders by one point, so did they overcome a 22-point deficit at Redford only to be on the short end at the final buzzer. These comebacks led Coach Fred Thomann to comment, "This team is prepared to beat everyone it faces the rest of the season."

Thomann thus joins RU's Carl Andrews and Allen Park's Mike O'Hara in predicting invincibility from here on out. They overlook that each must yet meet the other again to complete home-and-home contracts. And lurking in the title wings is Livonia Bentley, which didn't join the chase with the favorites until meeting Plymouth last night on the Rock court.

THESE WERE the salient features of the Plymouth-RU battle:

Amazingly, not only did the Rocks go scoreless during their first seven possessions of the ball, they didn't even get a shot off! It turned out to be RU on top 22-14 at the quarter, 43-28 at halftime and 52-44 after three periods—with Plymouth coming strong in the stretch.

RU is rated No. 1 in Observerland and Fuiks kept the Panthers there by scoring 12 of their final 14 points.

The only other bucket caged by a Panther after the 50-28 turn-about was a beautifully executed dribbling baseline layup by Bob Eland which Andrews characterized later as "worth two pints of blood because it came when we needed it." What he referred to was the only interruption in Plymouth's progression to the 44-point mark.

Nearly two minutes elapsed between the moment Szilagyi knotted the count at 58—all and Egloff's hoop that put the Rocks in front momentarily. But, typical of schoolboy basketball, it was consumed by throwaways, steals, missed shots, fouls and errant free throws by both teams.

WITH 34 seconds to go, Fuiks canned the shot that put Redford ahead again, and his subsequent free throw and a last-instant breakaway following a Plymouth miss were only window dressing. Classic basketball it was.

not, but exciting it was. Fuiks was high with 27 points, and Van Wagoner paced Plymouth with 16.

Rebounds went 43 to 27 for RU, both clubs hit 25 shots from the floor and RU made 14 from the line to Plymouth's 10.

Momentum was the keynote. As Andrews put it, "We had it, lost it, and Plymouth found it." And where did Plymouth find it? Thomann answered, "Egloff was absolutely outstanding. He was our only guy ordinary enough to get it started, then the rest caught the fever. To RU's credit, they forced us into mistakes. But instead of laying down and losing by 30, our kids came back all the way. This league is going to be a horse-race, and we'll be right there at the wire."

Churchill Sneaks Past Southfield

Pat Montagano and his Churchill cagers are starting to enjoy playing out of the Western Six Conference.

The enjoyment has been brought about by three consecutive non-league victories, the latest a 57-55 conquest of Southfield High in the first meeting ever between the two clubs.

The Churchill triumph was a far cry from the showing it gave Franklin four days earlier when the Chargers dominated just about everything. Nonetheless, Southfield lacked the spark to catch the now 6-2 Chargers. The Blue Jays slipped to an 0-6 record.

SOUTHFIELD LED after one quarter, 14-13, and maintained at least a five point margin over the Chargers up to the end of the opening half when Churchill sliced it to 29-26.

Churchill fought back in the early stages of the third period only to slip into a 41-all tie after three quarters.

Two quick field goals by Phil Damaska and a free throw and field goal by Jim Foster pushed Churchill to a 48-41 advantage.

DAVE TROWBRIDGE and Dennis Fasbinder kept Southfield in the game and with 1:27 remaining, Churchill's lead was sliced to six.

Churchill started turning the ball over and Trowbridge and Fasbinder hit to close the gap to two but that's the way it ended with a last second Blue Jay desperation shot of 20 feet falling short.

The Chargers hit 23 of 53 from the floor for 42 per cent while the Blue Jays finished 25 of 55 for 46 per cent.

REBOUNDING proved to be the key again for Churchill, outrebounding Southfield, 41-23. Don Braun hauled in 18 and Mark Reed eight.

Churchill now has four straight home clashes, two in Western Six play with Waterford Mott this Friday, Jan. 19, and Harrison on Jan. 26. Sandwiched in between is a non-leaguer with Bentley and Wayne is scheduled for Jan. 30.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

Reaching the half-way mark in its 24-year winter campaign, first of the new year in Michigan, Jackson-at-Northville will present another of those sparkling all-pace programs Saturday night.

Racing Secretary Tom Smith scoured the barn area and received full cooperation from horsemen and the result is a 10-race card that features a $4,000 preferred event and an unusual handicap claiming pace for horses in the $8,000 to $10,000 range.

It isn't often that Smith has been able to get a full complement for such a claiming race midway through the winter. But he did and it's another indication of the type of standardbreds that are competing at the Jackson-at-Northville meeting this year.

With the Northville Downs winter season just two weeks away, horses are starting to check in from Windsor Raceway, Chicagoland and the Atlantic Seaboard. That means Smith and his boss, Leon Slavin, president and general manager of Jackson Raceway, will be able to present better and faster fields during the final two weeks of the current season.

ERLANA'S VALLEY, pride and joy of the Bill Brown stable who surprised by winning the championship finale of the late closing pacing series at the Downs, will have the role of favorite in Saturday's preferred pace. Guided by Eddie Morgan Jr., Erlana's Valley upset highly rated Michigan Mack in the $10,000 championship and then received a rest at the farm to freshen up for the remainder of the winter racing.

The preferred attracted a field of seven including Adakio, upset victor of the feature a week ago. Handled by Ray Fuller, Adakio has to be considered a definite threat for a second straight triumph. But there's trouble ahead for both early favorites from Knox Abbe, favorite a week ago who faded in the final quarter; Bedford Jet, who just now is starting to reach top form; and Action.

Others going postward are: Sparkling Bret, with George Bowman in the sulky, and Hickory Dolores, piloted by Lowell Trigg Jr.

There'll be just as much interest in the rich claimer as in the preferred since the eight starters include most of the faster class pacers outside of those in the preferred group.

RECENT WINNERS Miss Candy Travel, Baird's Adios and Timely Mortgage get the nod as the early choices. But one can't overlook such fast ones as Timmy Dares, who will have the services of the track's leading reinsman in Gerry Banfield; Nibble C, who does on cold weather; Rusty Reico, who now carries the colors of Southfield's Bob Kalish; Grace Time and the oddly named Socket Toem Time.

Post time for the opening race is 8 p.m. and track management is looking forward to more business and a greater crowd than a week ago when almost 5,000 fans just fell short of wagering $400,000.

That's the figure Slavin hopes to beat before the end of the meeting. $400,000 is the goal for this meeting and then he has his sights on the $500,000 mark when Jackson returns to Northville Downs next fall.

SMART MONEY GOES TO COLLEGE

AND EARNS 9% INTEREST!

This year, John Wesley College enrolled the largest freshman class in the 63-year history of the Owosso Campus. Our student body doubled! And we fully expect it to double again next year!

We are concerned now about preparing for such an increased resident student body. Our housing facilities are already full and we have students in mobile units. Where do we go from here?

One solution: We have an older building on campus. Its construction is solid, but it is in need of renovation and repair, and to be furnished with comfortable beds. While our costs in this effort will run into the thousands, it will still be much less expensive than a new building.

We are raising money for this project by borrowing directly from our many supporters and friends who are interested in both John Wesley College—and in earning a full 9% interest per year on their money.

But, by investing now—at 9% interest—you'll be investing in far more than just paint, wood, and so on. You will be investing in the futures of interested and dedicated students—assuring that they will have the opportunity to learn not only how to earn a living, but how to live a life.

Yes, smart dollars go to college—where they can earn 9% interest and help students at the same time. Interested? Please fill out the coupon below, or call us collect, and we'll forward complete information to you immediately.

Jazz Classes Open Jan. 18

A 10 week course in the history and appreciation of jazz is being offered through the Clarenceville School District's adult education program.

Classes will meet every Thursday night, at 7:30, in Room 113, Clarenceville High School, 20155 Middle Belt, Livonia, beginning Jan. 18. For advance enrollment, call the Clarenceville Board of Education office. The cost is $10.

THE COURSE is being taught by Pete Reckenbeil, who will bring his collections of tapes to the classes. He will discuss each instrument used in playing jazz and its origins.

He will also describe the history of jazz, and the irony of the fact that the people our free forefathers enslaved gave us the only culture which did not originate in Europe. The African rhythms, the call and responses of people working in the cotton fields, set the patterns which exist today in jazz. To the rhythms and chants, voice was added, and then instruments were devised to imitate the voices and jazz was born.

THE NATIONAL Endowment for the Arts, fearing that jazz might fade from the American scene without its support, has for the past three years awarded grants to non-profit organizations and individual artists for the furtherance of jazz.

Clarenceville received a $1,000 grant last season for its jazz series, presented through the Clarenceville Entertainment Series.

The jazz class was offered last semester and was very successful. Students included many college, high school and even junior high school jazz fans.

SEVEN YOUNG Israeli cast members of the touring company of "To Live Another Summer" have been receiving warm reviews. They'll be seen in performances in the Jewish Community Center's Aaron DeRoy Theater, 18100 Meyers, Detroit, Jan. 14-21 (with the exception of Jan. 19). Performances will be at 8:30 p.m., except Sundays, when they will be at 8 p.m. There will also be a matinee at 3, Jan. 21. Tickets are on sale at the JCC.

Meadow Brook Hosts 500 Events In One Year

Can a 100-room mansion survive in the face of rising costs?

According to Lowell Eklund, Oakland University's dean of continuing education, it can and it is. The mansion is Meadow Brook Hall, which has now been open for more than a year as a cultural and conference center. During the year, some 500 events have been held in the magnificent Tudor building that was home for more than 40 years to the university's benefactors, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson.

"The splendid response to Meadow Brook Hall by the community has been beyond our most optimistic expectations," says Eklund.

THE VOICES of more than 50,000 people have given new life to the hall. In all, 47,710 persons participated in events in the hall from Oct. 1, 1971, to Oct. 1, 1972. The number reached 50,000 on Oct. 12, and is well over that by now.

"Despite these impressive figures, we haven't begun to tax this home's facilities," said Eklund.

These people attended 24 residential conferences, 26 daytime or evening conferences, 279 group tours, 62 public tours, 38 courses or meetings, 50 special events and 21 events hosted by OU president Donald O'Dowd.

Among the special events was the Detroit reception on April 13 for the table tennis players from the People's Republic of China on their historic visit.

"People tour the hall for a variety of reasons, some because of its outstanding architecture and craftsmanship; some because of interest in the fine furnishings and art objects; and some because just being there is a cultural experience," states Margaret Twyman, Meadow Brook Hall manager. "And some return several times with guests."

Meadow Brook Hall, built in the style of the great manor houses of England, was completed in 1929 at a cost of $3.5 million. Many of its architectural details were adaptations of several Tudor and Jacobean mansions. Some of the furnishings and details were incorporated from an unfinished mansion Matilda R. Wilson and her first husband, auto pioneer John F. Dodge, were building in Grosse Pointe Farms when he died in 1920. She and Wilson married in 1925.

In 1957, the Wilsons gave their 1,600-acre farm and an initial $2 million to Michigan State University to establish a public four-year college. Until their deaths, they enjoyed watching OU grow from its charter class of 470 in 1959. Current enrollment is 8,169.

COLLECTIVELY, the gifts of the Wilsons and from the Matilda R. Wilson Fund constitute the largest personal and private gift (excluding tax-exempt organizations) ever given to public education.

"Meadow Brook Hall offers something to all ages, from elementary school children to senior citizens with their experience and knowledge of the past," states Eklund.

The first group tour was made on Sept. 29, 1971, four days after the trustees of the Matilda R. Wilson fund turned the mansion over to the university to fulfill the request in her will that the hall be operated as a "cultural center."

The great home was officially opened for public viewing Dec. 3-5, 1971, when the Meadow Brook Hall Guild sponsored the first of its special events, "Christmas at Meadow Brook Hall—A Florists' Showcase." The guild's next event was a needlepoint and crewel exhibit.

The guild, conceived by Eklund, now has a membership of 350 volunteers. It is working hard to make the hall absolutely self-supporting. Additional funds were needed to supplement the revenue from anticipated conference center operations. The hall does not receive any state monies for its operations.

According to Mrs. Twyman, "Meadow Brook Hall's finances are in the black, due mainly to the community's willingness to use the hall and to the dedication of the guild's volunteers."

For conferees, the hall combines a stimulating atmosphere with a get-away-from-it-all privacy that makes for a first-rate conference site. The residential conferences have included company in-training programs, board of directors' meetings, sales meetings, retreat-like sessions and meetings for professional and academic groups.

Over the past year, much conversion work has been done. A mechanical air movement system has been completed, restroom facilities augmented, kitchen equipment updated and improved lighting installed. The former housekeeper's quarters were remodeled to provide an additional dining room, and staff bedrooms were converted to attractive sleeping rooms.

TOOTING THEIR HORNS in a rehearsal for their next performance are Garden City concert band members and their director, Dale Werner. Looking forward to the 3 p.m. Sunday performance in the O'Leary Performing Arts Center are (foreground to background) David Hall, James Falk, Mark Kalifut, Paul Scharfenberg and Jerry Buresh. DICK BENSEK

Good coffee is always in demand but only a few people know how to select and prepare it well. Coffee is at its best when it is freshly roasted and ground. Often investing in a home-type coffee grinder will make coffee a much more interesting drink. When making coffee, remember your coffee pot and utensils should be scrupulously clean. Remove the coffee from contact with the grounds as soon as it has reached the desired strength. The more careful you are with coffee, the better it will taste.

The chef at DANISH INN, 32305 Grand River Ave., 478-5320 knows how to select the proper ingredients that go into preparing the delicious meals served at DANISH INN, "Farmington's Finest." We feature a number of Danish dishes, have an excellent wine selection and a beautiful supper club atmosphere. Hours: 11 a.m.-2 a.m. with dinners during the week until 10 p.m., Fri. and Sat. until 1 a.m. Reservations on the weekends.

HELPFUL HINT: Never keep coffee hot for more than half an hour since after that the flavor begins to deteriorate.

THE CURIOSITY of childhood is revealed by this youngster caught exploring in the yard of a local hardware store. The photo was one of those entered in the regular competition of the Livonia Camera Club, which is currently recruiting new members. Its next meeting is Thursday, Jan. 19, at 7:30 p.m., in the Senior Citizens Center, Five Mile and Farmington Roads, Livonia.

Club To Audition Women Singers

The Madrigal Club of Detroit will hold auditions for women singers at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 29, in the rehearsal room in Covenant Baptist Church, 18700 James Couzens, south of Seven Mile, Detroit.

There are openings for all voices in this women's chorus. Persons who can sight read and enjoy performing good music are invited to try out.

Mrs. Neil McCallum, 24197 Twin Valley Court, Farmington, is the audition chairman, and Mrs. E. T. Hart, 18501 Huntington Road, Detroit, is the club president. Many Observerland women are already members.

Regular Monday night rehearsals will begin Feb. 5 for a concert to be given in May. This will include music by Gabrieli, Morley, Purcell, Copland and the first Detroit performance of Robin Milford's cantata "Days and Moments."

Don't expect anything ordinary from an extraordinary condominium.

Within a Lexington Condo Home are many features which make it an extraordinarily fine place to live.

Each, for example, includes a fireplace, a large entrance foyer, a special powder room, a private courtyard... and, if you choose, a private balcony.

Each gives you an attached garage with a convenient second entrance to your home. And each includes a basement that can be made into a finished family room or second living room at your option.

As all this implies, Lexington Condo Homes are not at all small — many are two- and three-bedroom units with 2½ baths.

This weekend, we invite you to see just how extraordinary our Lexington Condo Homes are. Simply drive to Eight Mile and Taft Roads in the City of Northville.

Open daily and Sunday 11-8, Saturday 11-6. Call 522-4920 or 349-6350. Prices start at $35,900.

The New Law...

RENTERS REJOICE

Observerland renters, rejoice! You may get your security deposit back from your landlord when you terminate your lease. The law is behind you after April 1.

The new landlord-tenant law passed at the close of the last legislative session is aimed at stopping some of the abuse that surrounded security deposits in Michigan for the past few years.

The final draft of the law is a compromise from the original proposal. Supporters of the new law -- which include the Michigan Consumers Council, the Michigan attorney general's office and Michigan legal services -- believe the new law gives tenants more bargaining power and puts them in a more equitable position with landlords.

IF THE LANDLORD claims there are damages to his property, he will have to sue the tenant in order to retain the deposit. And that suit must be started within 45 days after the renter moves.

Presently the tenant must sue in a small claims court to get his security deposit back from a reluctant landlord.

Supporters had also hoped that the law would require landlords to establish an escrow account for security deposits. Landlords strongly objected to this requirement, and a compromise in the Legislature was reached.

The law will apply to all leases negotiated or renewed after April 1 on all rental property, including mobile home space.

Under the new law, landlords will still be able to use security deposits in their business operations. This point was very important to landlords represented in Lansing. In cases of large apartment management firms, security deposit income can amount to about $200,000 a year.

The secretary of state's office to insure that money will be on hand to return to tenants when they move out. Any tenant can bring court action to collect on the bond.

If a tenant terminates his rental agreement before it runs out, the landlord may keep the security deposit for rent owed. The landlord can also use the security deposit for utility bills not paid by the tenant.

LANDLORDS WILL no longer be able to use security deposits for normal, routine maintenance of a rental unit after a tenant leaves. The law requires that security deposits can be used only for actual damages caused by the tenant and not for those reasonably expected during normal occupancy of the rental unit.

Unfortunately, this is where most landlord-tenant disputes arise. What is reasonable wear and tear? No standards of minimal housekeeping have been established. Apartment living is different from living in one's own house. Figures show that the average homeowner paints his interior walls about every five years. Apartments need to be painted twice in the same period.

One local landlord said he generally accepts the outlay for painting at two-year intervals, but leaving tenants seldom, if ever, leave a living unit in shape for the next family to move right in.

Moving tenants leave behind a vast array of discarded and unwanted junk that must be disposed of by someone, in many cases, in a rented truck. Moving day makes people who are normally considerate, forget that those things they don't want to drag to their new home aren't welcome additions to those moving in behind them. New tenants usually object to cleaning and scrubbing someone else's dirt. Perhaps the wall isn't caved in, but a cleaning company must be hired. Landlords ask why they should subsidize a trash removal program.

MANY DISPUTES have arisen as to the repair of damages. Tenants claim that landlords use minor damages as an excuse for expensive remodeling. A tenant admits to chipping the enamel off the kitchen sink when a can of soup slipped from his grasp. He wants to use touch-up paint for a repair job, while the landlord wants to replace the sink. There is a $100 difference.

Lawmakers failed to define "normal wear-and-tear." Apartment living is not the same as single family living in one's own house and the wear is different.

The new law also requires the use of check-lists at the beginning and end of tenancy, detailing the condition of the rental unit for which a security deposit is required. The tenants must return a copy of the checklist to the landlord within seven days after he moves in. Tenants can ask to see a copy of the last termination inventory checklist which shows what claims were charged to the last tenants in the unit.

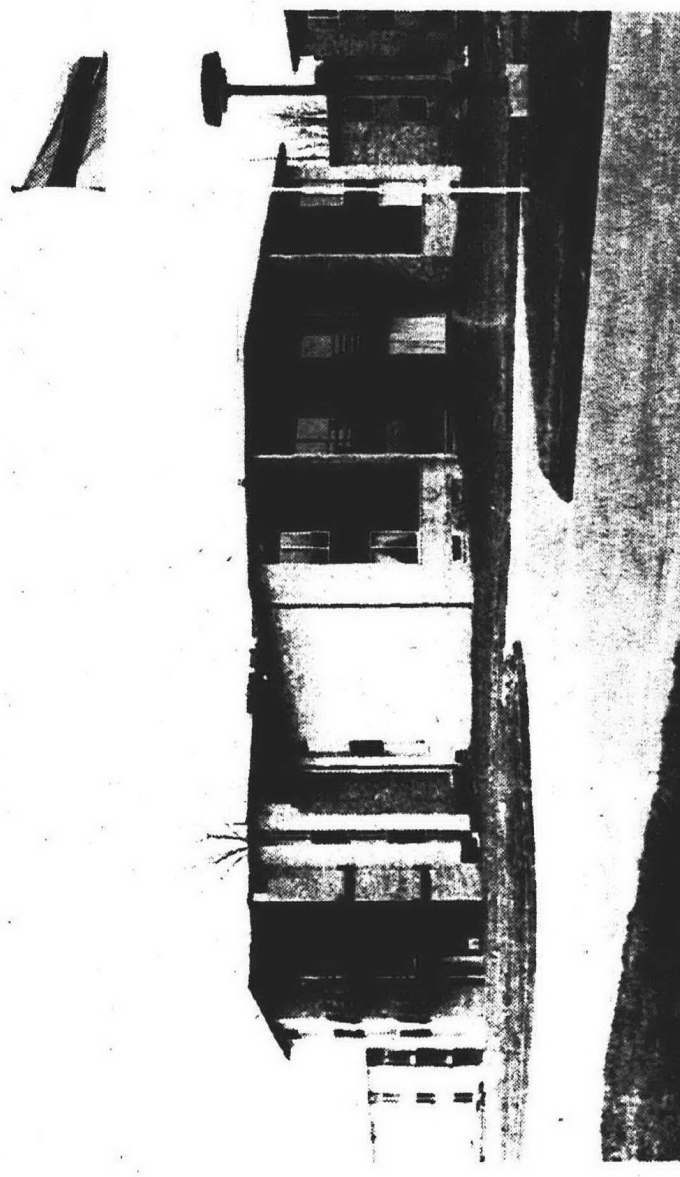

Landlords must inform tenants, 14 days after they move in, of the landlord's name and address and the name and address of the financial institution where his security deposit is held.

Landlords must send tenants, within 30 days after the tenant leaves, an itemized list of damages and estimated cost of repair. If the landlord fails to send the list, he forfeits any part of the security deposit. If tenants fail to respond to the notice within seven days, they forfeit the amount of the deposit claimed for damages.

Tenants must give the landlord a forwarding address within four days after leaving the rental unit or they forfeit their right to receive an itemized list of damages.

THINK GREEN

Think green, apartment dwellers. Add life to your home. Add the living, growing, lush greenery of a living palm.

You have lived long enough with those interesting paintings over your furniture, and color-coordinated pillows placed so discretely. Plants add life and vibrance. They help freshen the air in your pad and require little work.

Growing plants and arrangements of cut flowers work well as ornaments for the rooms you live in. Foliage plants, because they are -- or can be -- so long lasting, should receive primary consideration as a means of bringing needed accents to a decorating scheme.

Think first of the place in the room that most needs the accent of a green growing plant. Is it in full sun, good light, or a dim corner? This will largely determine your choice, unless you are willing to move the plant daily to the light, do not buy it for a location you know is dimly lit even in daytime hours. Conversely, pass up those that require low light if the spot in your home that needs decorating is next to an expanse of windows facing south. Your plant will soon be sunburned.

The right plant in the right setting, with proper care, will live a long healthy life.

DISPLAY WITH ARTISTRY the plants that will play a long-time decorating role in a proper setting. It may take a little time and ingenuity on your part to select containers and accessories in harmony with the plants and with your decorating scheme. But you will have added a personal touch to the natural beauty of plants in a way that is creative, unique and satisfying.

Do not think you have to go out and buy everything that is required. Look at familiar household belongings right location its variety requires, then back to the spot where you want its decorative value for evening hours.

WHAT SIZE PLANT can you use? Do you need a tubbed beauty that is four, five, or more feet tall? Or do you want a plant to set on a table or chest, not over a foot tall? Scale will be important to the effectiveness, so look at the setting you have in mind with this factor in view. A small plant will be lost in a location that calls for something impressive; and a tall or bushy one will have an unpleasantly crowded look unless it is given an appropriate placement.

Texture, too, deserves thought. If much of the setting (fabrics, furniture, finishes, or flooring) is sheer, a lacy or furry look in foliage plant will present good contrast. Or, if furnishings are napped, matte finish, the glossier the foliage, the better its effect will be.

If you lack experience as an indoor gardener, plan a visit to a large greenhouse that grows a wide variety of foliage plants. See what kinds are available to choose from. Talk to the grower about light, water and humidity requirements. If you are told a plant must have strong with a fresh eye. A seldom-used tray, fruit bowl, or metal wastebasket may be a handsome accompaniment to plants.

Big-foliage plants in the right setting are living, growing decorations. With interesting forms, they are as effective a room accent as a piece of sculpture. And many of those that are large enough will tolerate relatively low light.

Among favorites in this group are rubber plants, schefflera, monsteras, philodendron grown on a moss stick, dieffenbachia and an underrated old standby, sansevieria (rudely nicknamed mother-in-law's tongue).

When the plant is to be placed where its container is seen, remember that the kind of cachepot will make a big difference in its effectiveness. Containers are to plants what mats and frames are to pictures. Be sure, therefore, that the container is the correct size, neither too small to hold the plant properly, nor so large that the effect is unbalanced.

FLOWER AND FRUIT arrangements to greet family and guests when they enter your home speak eloquently of beauty and hospitality.

THE NEW TRANSPORT

Getting there today is supposed to be quicker and easier, but is it? Local traffic experts say recent expressway construction in Observerland has aided the average family very little. The super-highway is faster than city streets for cross-town traveling in only certain hours of the day and night.

Before the Jeffries (I-96) expressway is even completed, city fathers have been predicting massive traffic jams at entrance and exit ramps. Traffic planners cite statistics that although 20 per cent of all usable land in downtown Detroit is presently used as expressways, the traffic problem has not been solved.

The problem as they see it, is the inefficiency of the family car being used by one person when there is room for six persons. It has been suggested that cars with a minimum of four passengers be given priority to our highways and parking facilities.

The better solution would be a more organized system of mass transit such as subways and trains. Currently, the only commuter train operating in the Detroit metropolitan area is the Grand Trunk line that serves the Woodward corridor. Now, even that system is jeopardized by the destruction of the downtown depot to make room for urban renewal on the waterfront.

Dr. James C. Crumbaugh, clinical psychologist, thinks Americans will be slow to give up the idea of the family car as their total means of transportation.

He states in a recent issue of Mental Health the automobile is such a constant companion in American culture that it has, in many segments of society, become part of the body image. Children grow up in such an intimate relationship with the car that it parallels clothes, jewelry, hair style, makeup, and the like as a personal attribute that delineates the individual's status and identity. This is especially observable in teenagers and young adults, at the periods when driving ability is first acquired and one owns one's car.

During adolescence and youth, when physical and power are highly prized as determinants of status and adequacy, the motor vehicle clearly becomes a symbol of achievement. Especially when feelings of inadequacy develop, the car offers a compensatory means of bolstering the self-confidence. Obedient to the will of the driver, responsive to his slightest whim through the super-sales qualities built into it by ultra competitive manufacturers, the car offers a new and superior "body" to supplement or replace the filing one of flesh and bones.

Vance Packard in "The Hidden Persuaders," states that a man sometimes buys a sporty, racy model which in his subconscious is his mistress, obedient while beautiful.

EVEN IF WE DO identify with our automobiles, isn't it possible for us to keep them and still develop an efficient means for getting from here to there? Many experts say yes. There are many alternatives that incorporate individual transportation with mass transit.

One possible answer is construction of parking towers on the outer rim of the city with fast, clean and inexpensive shuttles back and forth to the main business districts.

Whatever the solution, something must be done for it is estimated that Detroiters spend an average of two hours per day in their cars. What a gigantic waste of manhours and mankind.

One solution that could be incorporated into our present system is to make it necessary to have a total of four passengers in a car to be permitted on the expressways during rush hours. The inside lane would be used exclusively for trucks and busses that currently clog many moving arteries.

A more radical suggestion with no chance of implementation is to require all employees of a company doing business in a community to live in that community. This is meant to cut down on everyone driving across town.

Experts say the only real workable solution is mass transportation in which the family car is not used at all. This abandonment of the single person transportation would be good for the environment and flow of traffic. These experts are not suggesting that we eliminate personal motoring; they simply see it as an inefficient means of daily transportation for the masses that report to work daily.

Some medical men have suggested that we attempt to live closer to our work and bicycle to work, thus toning up American flesh that has sagged in recent decades.

Whatever the solution, something must be done for it is estimated that Detroiters spend an average of two hours per day in their cars. What a gigantic waste of manhours and mankind.

The familiar phrase "...Say it with flowers" ... is meaningful because flowers do say the special things for which it is often difficult or impossible to find the right words.

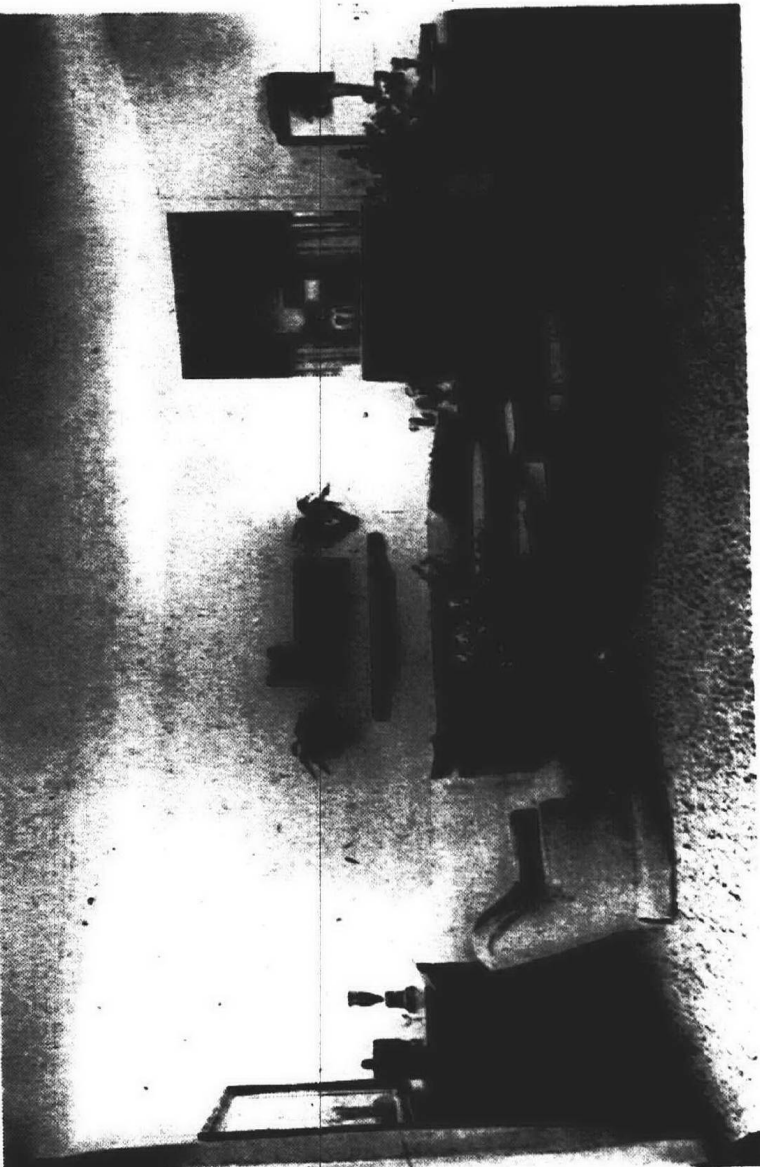

Everyone likes flowers or a bowl of well-arranged fruit on the table. They please the eye, help what the appetite, say that this meal -- with or without any invited guests -- is a special event. For the sharing of food should be a gracious occasion, not just a concession to the human need to eat.

Think of color first when you are selecting flowers for the table. They may match, harmonize, or contrast with colors of china, linens, glassware and still create a delightful effect. But let it be clear that flower colors are part of a considered color scheme, not a happenstance matter.

Don't feel that everything on your table must match; but it must belong. Shape and size are also significant. Symmetrical centerpieces are the usual choice if those who will dine are to be seated at the sides and ends of the table. Flowers to be arranged this way should be equally attractive from all angles, enough so that each person at the table can see all others without an uncomfortable craning of necks.

Finally think scale: let the bouquet be in proportion to the table it decorates.

CHILDREN AND APARTMENT LIVING

For rent. No children. No pets.

Apartment planners wanted a sterile atmosphere that would seem to eliminate the possibilities of property damage. Today they realize that multi-family buildings must afford the resident family more freedom not less.

Natural family living includes dogs and cats, sisters and brothers, and finally builders of large multi-family development have realized it. For years children were not allowed in many apartment complexes. In many areas today families with young children are still segregated from other apartment dwellers.

It couldn't be that builders think children don't develop as well in multi-family dwellings. What effect does apartment and condominium living have on occupant children?

CHILDREN LEARN from other children. Certain conditions permitting children of apartment and condominium dwellers have a greater and earlier exposure to a number of other children than a family with one child in a single-family home.

Although this exposure for apartment children is somewhat better than the limited group exposure of the comparison child, the child in a house may have a greater variety of things in his immediate environment. He may have a back yard available to him to be used daily while mother supervises from indoors.

Children in a house could be outside more, but both children may in fact be in a day care center and receive identical attention and outdoor activity.

AS CHILDREN advance to adolescence, apartment living may take on a distinct advantage. The recreational facilities in most apartment and condominium development include lessons on a variety of sports including tennis, golf, dancing, etc.

The child easily fits into the exclusive group that used the facilities. This feeling of belonging is what social psychologists term a "must" for positive development.

Of course, there are negative points to living in a multi-family dwelling with children. One problem often cited is the lack of parental control of acquaintances that the child may make. A child may meet and befriend a person that the parents feel is an undesirable influence.

Both single family houses and multi-family development living have their pros and cons. In the end, however, the parent decides how the child uses the environment.

YOUNG ARTIST MAKES IMPRESSION ON ART WORLD

Robert A. Hover, a 20-year-old Detroit artist, says that you need a longish hallway to get the full benefit of his unusual prints. The idea is that you have to back away from his pictures until suddenly the squares flow in together, and you see that you actually have a portrait of comedian Groucho Marx.

Hover's prints and three-dimensional constructions are on sale in the Habatat Gallery, 1820 N. Telegraph, Dearborn.

His black, white and gray portrait of Laurel and Hardy won a gold medal in the 1972 Graphic Artists Guild Show in Detroit. Since then, he has won prizes with exhibitions across the country, and his work has been shown in New York and Paris.

One of his current projects is a full-length print of Charlie Chaplin.
