City's Reassessment Means $140,000 More Revenue

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

SNARLED TRAFFIC around Plymouth High School early in the morning gets tied up even

Will Plymouth taxpayers see a reduction in the City property tax rate this year?

As budget time draws near, the City Commission will have to resolve that question or realize an increase of $140,000 in revenues due to a reassessment.

If the Board of Review does not significantly lower the new overall assessment — which totals $66,616,020 — the city will realize an additional $139,640 through its tax rate of $14.70 per $1,000 equalized valuation.

Last year's total equalized assessment in the city was $57,797,760.

The $139,640 is equivalent to about two mills at the new assessment level.

WHAT THE CITY receives in property tax revenues depends on two factors — the rate and the assessment base.

If either increases, total revenue increases by the proportionate amount. Thus, the 15.3 per cent overall equalized assessment increase means a 15.3 per cent increase in revenue.

However, that may be countered by a tax rate reduction when the new budget is adopted in May.

"I would certainly hope we might be able to peel a little off" the tax rate, Mayor James McKeon said.

McKeon cautioned, though, that the board of review may have to make downward adjustments on many new assessments — particularly on commercial properties.

He said he has made several "spot checks" on some commercial pieces and that the new assessments are unfair.

"I feel that the board of review is going to have to cut some," McKeon said.

COMMERCIAL properties were particularly hard-hit in the city-wide reassessment.

As a class, commercial assessments increased by 46.7 per cent; industrial assessments went up 18.8 per cent; and residential assessments increased 5.4 per cent.

Individual assessments may differ greatly from the class totals, however.

In addition to the $140,000 city property tax increase that may result from the reassessment, the city also received $83,000 in federal shared revenue for the first time in December.

That money has already been channeled in a capital improvements fund for the city.

The federal government stipulates that shared revenue cannot be used to pay for existing local services or to reduce taxes.

"BUT IT'S STILL dollars coming in," McKeon said.

He said that even with the revenue sharing funds being spent on things other than the regular operating items, they will still have an "indirect benefit ultimately on operation."

Coupled with the $140,000 which the reassessment would yield if the rate is not lowered and the board of review does not grant a large overall decrease in assessments, the city would realize a total of $223,000 in revenue which it did not have in 1972.

Planners Will Weigh NW Zoning, Moratorium Issues

The Canton Township Planning Commission tentative agenda for Tuesday night includes two items that have sparked some controversy.

A Wayne County Planning Commission report on the proposed rezoning of northwestern Canton Township will be aired. County planners recommended denial of the rezoning, which would increase the density in that portion of the township. A proposed one-year moratorium on rezoning to multiples will also be considered. Canton Planning Commissioner Ellen Ruland proposed the moratorium at the commission's last meeting, but it was tabled.

Does Anybody Ever Do Anything About Roads?

Everybody talks about the roads, but nobody does anything about them.

With the invention of the horseless carriage, that's the form the age-old adage about the weather took.

But if you've ever been car number 27 in the Sheldon Road line where everybody's turning left onto Ford Road, you know it's no exaggeration to say the roads around here are terrible.

(It's even worse if you have your car radio on and the traffic report says everything is running smoothly.)

PERHAPS THIS column should be dedicated to the jerk in front of me who waited until the light changed from green to deep red before he slowly inched out into his left turn — thereby stranding the other two cars that could have made the light.

Actually I'm dedicating it to the persons who will be attending the "Highways to Progress" meeting next Wednesday noon at the Mayflower Meeting House.

As I understand it, the meeting will feature Sam Cryderman of the State Highway Dept. and Bob Larson of the Wayne County Road Commission talking about the roads in the Plymouth-Canton area.

Frank Millington, president of the Plymouth Area Economic Expansion Commission which sponsors the meeting, says there's going to be 15 minutes allowed for questions.

FIFTEEN MINUTES?

Why that's hardly enough time for the highway officials to answer the list of questions Millington's told them to be prepared for, let alone the questions that those of us who live on unimproved roads have been building up for years.

There is a William T. Birge of 1294 Maple in Plymouth, a gentleman whom I have never met, who has been deluging the Wayne County Road Commission with questions about our area roads. (He sends copies of inquiries to The Mail & Observer.)

His concern is shared by those of us who have to do daily battle with obviously inadequate roads.

Now, it may be that the county and state road officials do see our roads now and then, but do they have to drop off somebody at Plymouth High School at 7:15 in the morning?

Or do they have to travel south on Sheldon Road to go east on Ford Road at about 7:30 a.m.?

Or do they have to turn left off Sheldon Road at Penniman Avenue to get to their home on Blanche at 4:15 p.m. when the Western Electric and Ford Motor traffic race starts out of those parking lots?

Or would they ever have to walk across I-275 on an overpass that's now being built without side-walks?

Or have they ever left Plymouth-Salem High School after a big band concert or football game and have to fight a secondary traffic jam on unpaved McClumpha Road which everybody takes as a "short cut" to avoid the Joy Road traffic snarl?

IT'S THESE KINDS of questions that the road officials should be prepared for. And we should know what their answers are.

But then, that's all talk. What we really need to know is when the shovels are going to break ground.

What those of us who have been stopped by the same four-minute train twice while entering town want to know is WHEN — not if — an overpass is going to be built.

What we want to know is not what the officials' priorities are but when those priorities will be implemented.

Perhaps an example of what Plymouth drivers

AAUW Staging 'Snow White'

PLYMOUTH
Seven lovable, bearded, little men; a beautiful, ebony-haired princess; and a haughty, evil queen will all be waiting to meet and delight youngsters on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 23 and 24, when the Plymouth branch of the American Assn. of University Women (AAUW) presents its 13th annual children's play, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

The two-act production, staged entirely by AAUW members, will be presented in the Plymouth - Salem High School Auditorium, at Joy and Canton Center roads. Curtain times will be 7 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m., 1 p.m., and 3 p.m. on Saturday.

A special benefit performance also will be presented Thursday, Feb. 22, for more than 300 children from Our Lady of Providence, the Plymouth State Home, Wayne County Child Development Center and Hawthorn Center.

In a long-standing tradition of AAUW children's theatre, the young people of the audience will be able to meet and talk with all cast members after each performance. The play's director, Mrs. William A. Fisher, feels this year's cast has added insights into the likes and dislikes of their young audience because, for the first time in recent years, three children are featured in acting roles.

THE YOUNGSTERS, all children of AAUW members, have made a number of valuable suggestions, Mrs. Fisher said, which adults might have overlooked completely.

Dan Fisher of Plymouth and Michael Van Hine of Northville will alternate in appearing as page to the prince and Judy Davis of Plymouth will play the witch's cat, "Long Tail."

Other members of the cast include: Joyce Reefer as Snow White; Mrs. Robert Dwyer as Queen Brangomar; Mrs. David Cunningham as Doc; Mrs. Fred Andres as Happy; Mrs. M. Girard as Sneezy; Mrs. Jurrien Winter as Grumpy; Mrs. Richard Willing as Sleepy; Mrs. Michael Malmer as Bashful; Mrs. Joseph Uhl as Dopey; Mrs. Gary Minto as Prince Florimond.

Mrs. Juergen Badendieck as Sir Dandiprat Bombas; Mrs.

would like to see is the kind of action that has surfaced thus far on the widening of Ann Arbor Road.

Action like Plymouth Planning Commission Chairman Mary Childs walking along Ann Arbor Road and stopping to talk to each businessman who will be affected by the widening.

As Mrs. Childs said at Wednesday night's planning commission meeting on the project, "The state's going to make this road, but we want to work with everybody."

It's that kind of action from officials that has led to the cooperation shown by the Ann Arbor Road businessmen.

THAT ACTION and cooperation are going to mean the widening will start this spring with a minimal amount of complication - and those of us who now refuse to drive down Ann Arbor Road because of the traffic snarl may start frequenting the businesses there.

It's ACTION the roads around here need - not never-ending talk about priorities.

May we all remember that as we sit around the tables listening to the talk at Wednesday's "Highway to Progress" meeting and hope that it leads to progress - not just more talk.

Ticket information for these performances may be obtained from Mrs. Petzel or the Northville ticket chairman, Mrs. David Olgren, of 43650 Nine Mile Rd.

Proceeds from the play are used to support both local undergraduate scholarships and national AAUW graduate fellowships.

School Boundary Line Mixup Plagues Napier Rd. Families

By MARTHA MAHAN

November presidential election. On Dec. 11 they voted in the Plymouth millage election.

PLYMOUTH Because the Edward H. Terrys voted in the last Plymouth school election, five school boards may now be involved in an attempt to change a Plymouth - Northville school district boundary.

The tangle began with the Terrys' move last August from their home on Beck Road to 7025 Napier Road, which is in a section of Salem Township that is not included in the Plymouth School District.

Their children continued to attend Plymouth schools as did those of two of their neighbors.

The Terrys remained in their Beck Road home long enough to vote in August's Plymouth Township primary election in which they were keenly interested. Then they moved.

Dutifully, they went to Salem Township Hall, registered to vote from their new address and voted in the NOW THEY'RE about ready to give up their franchise.

Two weeks after voting, a letter from Plymouth School Supt. John M. Hoben notified the Terrys they now live in the Northville School District, not Plymouth.

A sharp-eyed school election clerk caught the mixup.

"It seems the school boundary always has operated on both sides of Napier up to the 6805 number," Hoben said. "From there on, only even numbers are in the Plymouth district up to Five Mile Road. Across the road is the Northville district."

There are no residences along the east side of Napier since the land belongs to the Detroit House of Correction. But four or five homes, including the Terry residence, lie along the west side of the road at the north tip of the arc between North Territorial and Five Mile roads.

Four children in two other homes along the section, besides the Terry trio, attend Plymouth schools.

HOBEN SAID his investigation disclosed that children living at the 7025 Napier Road address have been attending Plymouth schools "for years."

Webber Gives Camera Talk

PLYMOUTH "Photography as an Art Form" will be the topic of a talk by Robert Webber Wednesday, Feb. 21, at 8 p.m. at Dunning-Hough Library.

The speech will be in conjunction with the photographic exhibit, "Group 17," currently on display at the library.

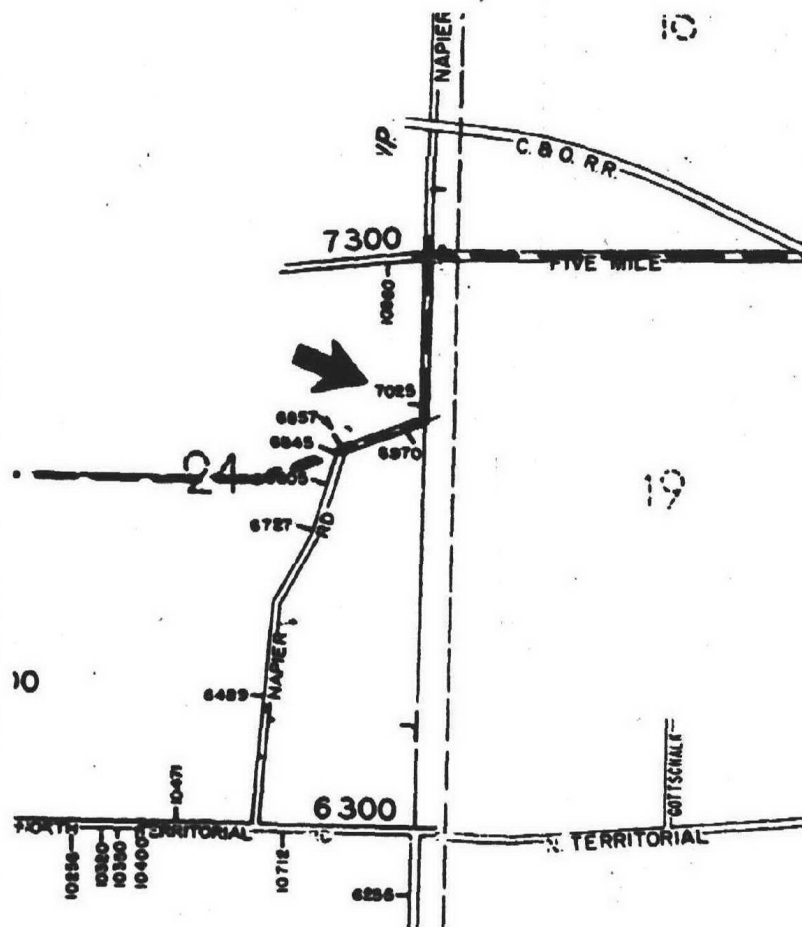

Webber, as a Plymouth resident, served as vice president of the Photographic Guild of Detroit. He operates the Northville Camera Shop and the Webber Photographic Studio in Northville.

He is a former president of the Plymouth Symphony Society and member of the Plymouth Housing Commission.

Cheryl Gross Wins Award

PLYMOUTH Cheryl Gross of Plymouth won the interpretation of poetry division of the Michigan Intercollegiate Speech League's winter forensic tournament at Eastern Michigan University.

She placed second in the interpretation of prose division. Miss Gross, an EMU sophomore, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Gross of 40648 Crabtree.

THE BOUNDARY LINE between the Plymouth and Northville School Districts passes down the middle of the road in front of the Edward H. Terry home (arrow) at 7025 Napier Rd., although the Terry children have been attending Plymouth schools.

A family living there before that sent their children to Catholic elementary schools in Northville through the eighth grade, then transferred them to Plymouth public schools, he said.

Meanwhile, property taxes have been going to support Northville schools and state school aid for the children has been sent to Plymouth schools.

Keeping the Terry children in Plymouth schools would

Smit Adds 2 House Jobs

LANSING State Rep. Raymond J. Smit (R-Ann Arbor) will retain his place on the Conservation and Recreation Committee and assume two new committee posts in the new legislative term.

Smit, whose district covers part of Plymouth, will serve as Republican vice chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee and as a member of the State Affairs Committee.

Smit expressed special pleasure at retaining the conservation and recreation seat.

"Michigan will retain its reputation as number one in environmental legislation only by the continued diligence of its lawmaking bodies," he commented. "The state of our environment is one of my major concerns and I'm pleased to continue an appointment which allows me maximum input into decision making on this vital topic."

Then approval must come from three county intermediate district school boards. These include Wayne because both Plymouth and Northville districts lie there, Oakland because the Northville district enters there, and Washtenaw because the Plymouth district touches there.

All three, however, must hold public hearings before a decision can be made.

The Terrys would profit in another way than realizing their wish to keep their youngsters in Plymouth schools.

"There's a tax advantage for them, too," Hoben said. "The operating millage in Northville is higher."

This isn't the first time Plymouth schools have contended with a boundary problem.

"We had one case on the south side a few years back," Hoben recalled. "A man's farm was in the Plymouth school district and his house in the Willow Run district. That one hung on a long time before it was decided."

What is a caravanserai? It was an oriental inn which gave temporary shelter to travelers in caravans. Some are still in use today. The caravanserai is usually a spacious building with four wings which enclose a courtyard where merchandise and animals are kept. In the middle is usually located a well or spring. Accommodations may consist of small unfurnished rooms, some without windows, but having air holes instead. Caravanserais are generally considered somewhat less than comfortable by the modern traveler.

Rev. Lester Kinsolving's Religion Update

"I consider Jan. 22, 1973, the worst day in our history," said Bishop Floyd L. Began, of the Catholic Diocese of Oakland, Calif.

Had there been another San Francisco quake? Was Johnston again flooded? Has the lethal 1918 flu epidemic resurged? No. On Jan. 22 the U.S. Supreme Court ruling liberalized the nation's abortion laws.

Cardinal Patrick O'Boyle, archbishop of Washington, D.C., charged the Supreme Court with sanctioning "hideous and heinous crime." He compared the ruling to the pro-slavery Dred Scott decision of 1857.

He went on to charge this "condemning to death of innocent, defenseless children" is a "shocking display of a few men arrogating to themselves the judgement at what stage the life of the unborn child may be terminated."

NOTABLY, one of these "few men" who sanctioned what his eminence described as "grave sin" is one of Cardinal O'Boyle's very own archdiocesan flock. His name is William Brennan, and he is a justice of the United States Supreme Court.

It is not the cardinal's court, as he courageously demonstrated. And it is not the "Nixon Court." For three of the four Nixon appointees demonstrated this, in supporting the historic 7-2 decision, which is the antithesis of the Nixon anti-abortion view announced during the past (election) year.

Yet neither the cardinal's lengthy statement, nor Justice Brennan's office, had even a hint of what might reasonably be expected for any Catholic (in O'Boyle's domain, at any rate) who supported what his eminence called "slaughter at whim" of defenseless children.

Justice Brennan's cardinal archbishop is the very same prelate who suspended priests — and even ordered some of them out of their rectories — because they dared to disagree with the pope's anti-contraceptive encyclical "Humanae Vitae," which a substantial number of Catholics have intentionally and continually disobeyed.

Is it possible that Cardinal O'Boyle has somehow grown mellow about such a compelling issue as murder-in-the-womb?

The idea that a human being is created at the instant of conception (upon which theory the 1869 Roman Catholic canon law is based) happens to have been strongly opposed by Saints Augustine, Anselm and St. Thomas Aquinas among others, — as well as in the sharp distinctions by Popes Gregory XIV and Innocent III of the differences between animate and inanimate fetuses.

Even so recent a saint as Alfonso Liguori, who lived more than a century after the invention of the compound microscope, opposed the idea that a human being is created at the instant of conception. So have present day Jesuit scholars Joseph Donceel and Thomas Wassmer.

IS CARDINAL O'Boyle now prepared to contend that all these saints and popes were murderously mistaken about what he contends is the "slaughtering of innocent and defenseless children?"

Is he presently preparing to call for the excommunication of Jesuits Wassmer, Donceel and Drinan and Catholic Justice William Brennan?

If his bitter attack on the Supreme Court is more than rhetoric and the cardinal is so prepared, the result should be more newsworthy (and hilarious) than the Scopes trial.

Our 68th Year

An Established Reputation

Our firm has an established reputation for dependability. We're proud of this reputation, and we regard each service we direct as an opportunity to uphold and strengthen it.

Serving As We Would Wish to be Served

"Don't bother me now ... I'm busy!"

There was a time when the funeral director (or "undertaker" as he was called then) didn't need to be personable. Or specially trained. Or even polite. About all he needed in those days were a hammer and some nails, along with enough lumber to put together a "coffin."

Times have changed, and we're glad they did. Today, if a funeral director doesn't like people — if he doesn't really want to help and know how to help others in countless ways — then he's in the wrong profession.

More Vocational Classes Offered

By KATHY MORAN

Vocational education programs aren't just sitting still.

Local schools are placing greater and greater emphasis on development of vocational-technical programs, and more and more students are enrolling in them.

Area high schools offer courses in graphic arts, auto mechanics, child development and food management as well as other areas where students can learn practical and employable skills.

And it isn't unusual to find female students in the auto labs learning how to maintain their cars or male students whipping up pancake dough and learning "survival" skills.

Vocational education becomes increasingly important at the community college level, where a high school graduate can learn a trade or skill in a year or two that qualifies him for a lifetime, well-paying job.

More than 40 per cent of Schoolcraft College's students are involved in career programs ranging from electronics, business and nursing to culinary arts, architecture and civil technology.

Courses aren't limited to young people embarking on their careers. Older men participate in retraining programs. Middle-aged women upgrade their skills or learn an occupation after their children are grown.

The neighboring Northville School District is participating in a pilot program entitled PRIDE (Program for Improving Distributive Education).

It is designed to reflect four levels of learning from basic knowledge to general application of knowledge, specific application and logic and problem solving.

Each student works with a teacher-coordinator in selecting a career interest and then works independently with guidance and small group discussion. He studies several areas and learns future possibilities in that career area.

The U.S. Office of Education predicts that by 1975, one million new technical jobs will be available requiring limited training.

Here's what your high school and college are doing in career education:

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE

Schoolcraft, located at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia, offers a wide range of one- and two-year courses in business, health, technical and industry-related areas.

In business, one-year programs in accounting, basic business and clerk-typist areas are offered. Two-year programs include accounting, clerk-typist, data processing programmer, general business, marketing and applied management, and general, legal and medical secretarial courses.

Health careers include one-year programs in occupational therapy assistant and practical nursing with two-year programs including associate degree nursing, electromedical technology, medical laboratory technology and medical record technology.

A one-year electronics services program is offered along with two-year technical courses in architectural technology, automotive services, automotive service management, child care worker, civil technology, culinary arts, electronic technology, labor studies, law enforcement, machine tool, manufacturing technology, mechanical design technology, metallurgy, and materials science, metallurgical engineering technology, tool design technology and welding technology and industrial fabrication.

Industry-related instruction programs are provided for apprentices in several areas. Design programs include tool design, tool & die, die, product, and body drafting.

Machine trades include machine repair, machinist, millwright and fluid power. The manufacturing trades include tool & die maker, sheet metal, boilermaker-fabricator, metal-model maker, wood-model maker and die sinker.

CLARENCEVILLE

Clarenceville's vocational education program

JOHN O'MEARA of Livonia distills asphalt to determine the amount of water it contains.

encompasses business education, trades and industry education, consumer and homemaking education.

Trade courses include woodworking and plastics, power mechanics, machine drafting, electronics, building construction, furniture and cabinet making and architectural drafting.

Homemaking courses include interior decorating, child development, family economics, personal and family living, advanced foods and advanced clothing.

Clarenceville students also can enroll in programs at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center at Walled Lake.

GARDEN CITY

Students who plan to continue their education and those who don't can participate in several vocational areas in Garden City. Distributive education consists of four-semester courses dealing with retailing, salesmanship, business organization and management and employment practice.

Office education centers on office machines, office procedures, typing and shorthand. Industrial education includes auto mechanics, drafting, electronics, graphics, metal trades and woodworking.

Cooperative education allows for supervised work experience relating to vocational training either in distributive education, office education, health, food service and industrial or trade.

LIVONIA

Livonia School District's career education program also includes cooperative, distributive, office and trade and industry education. Additional course offerings include nursing aides, child development, consumer education, family relations, housing and home furnishings, auto mechanics, welding and cutting, family health and food management.

PLYMOUTH

Plymouth School District recently opened a new industrial technical wing in Plymouth Canton High School which offers new programs in heating and air conditioning, auto body repair, industrial plastics and dental assisting.

Plymouth offers office, industry and cooperative programs and classes in radio, graphic arts, child development, machine shop and welding and cutting.

In addition to vocational offerings similar to other local schools, Plymouth will have a career development center which will eventually house vocational guidance counselors, Neighborhood Youth Corps supervisor, job placement coordinator and the vocational director.

REDFORD UNION

In addition to the cooperative, distributive office and trade course offerings, Redford Union schools offer consumer education, family relations, housing and home furnishings, auto mechanics, drafting, electrical occupations and machine shops.

SOUTH REDFORD

South Redford schools offer the four main areas as well as child development, family health, home management, housing and home furnishings, auto specialization and construction and maintenance.

WAYNE - WESTLAND

Health, cooperative and office programs are offered in Wayne-Westland schools along with nursing aide, family relations, home management, auto mechanics, graphic arts, machine shop, welding and cutting, cosmetology, child development, housing and home furnishings, food management, building trades and radio and television.

Elegant Junk, Ecology Theme Win Big Prize

The Western Suburban Junior Woman's Club is proud possessor of a silver-plated tea and coffee service because one of its members is an expert in making junk look elegant.

Mrs. Alma Kelly of Plymouth, chairman of the club's home life department, used an ecology theme in designing an entry for the 1972 Oneida Silversmiths Tablesetting Contest.

It was judged one of five winners from hundreds of entries submitted from all over the country. The prize was the four-piece service set and tray, which arrived just in time for the club's first meeting of 1973.

Mrs. Kelly used throw-away items and natural dried materials to combine with Lenox china, Fostoria tinted crystal and borrowed Oneida silverware to create her formal dinner setting for four.

The centerpiece was made of pine cones, nuts, teal and velvet bows, arranged on a styrofoam ball and placed on a velvet-covered tuna fish can.

Spray can lids filled with weeds made tiny bouquets for each place, and the napkin holders were plastic pill bottles with the bottoms removed.

Mrs. Kelly also made a candleholder from bottles glued together and covered with papier mâché. Hung on the wall by the table was a decoration of weeds on coffee can lids and burlap.

Tablecloth and napkins were aqua linen and the decorations were in shades of brown and moss green.

MRS. ALMA KELLY of Plymouth puts finishing touches on the ecology-theme table setting that won a top prize in a nationwide contest. On the sideboard behind her is the silver service that the setting won for the Western Suburban Junior Women's Club. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

MRS. DONALD COLSHER
(Anne Marie Schweppe)

Stevenson Grads Wed In St. Paul

Airman and Mrs. Donald Colsher, both graduates of Stevenson High School, are living in Topeka, Kan., near Forbes Air Force Base following their recent wedding in St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Livonia.

Mrs. Colsher is the former Anne Marie Schweppe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schweppe of Livonia. Mr. and Mrs. James Colsher, also of Livonia, are the bridegroom's parents.

Dr. William Whitledge officiated.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore a full skirted taffeta gown with alencon lace, pearl and iridescent sequin trim. Her matching headpiece held a fingertip veil, and she carried white carnations and red sweetheart roses.

Mrs. John Branch of Farmington, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Howard Schweppe Jr., of Sierra Vista, Ariz., and Mrs. Gerald Kolpacke of Novi.

Their gowns had green satin bodices and red and green plaid taffeta skirts, and they carried red carnations.

DAVID SCHMIDT of Livonia was best man. The ushers were Charles Colsher and Gerald Kolpacke.

Mrs. Schweppe wore a light green chiffon gown with a bodice of dark green velvet, and Mrs. Colsher selected burgandy crepe with white lace sleeves.

After a reception in the church social hall, the couple left for a Toronto honeymoon. The new Mrs. Colsher attended the University of Missouri after graduating from Stevenson and has been employed by the Chamberlain Companies.

RU Cagers Stay Alive, Jar Allen Park, 72-66

By FRED DeLANO

Redford Union doesn't scare easily and for that reason is still in contention for a second straight Suburban Eight basketball crown.

The Panthers shook off the fact that they trailed Allen Park's first place Jaguars 22-11 after a single period Tuesday and came rampaging back to take a 72-66 home court decision that keeps them alive in the title race.

WHEN THE FIRING died down, the Panthers still were atop the league at 9-1 with four to play and RU stood at 9-2 with three games left in the loop.

Interestingly, Livonia

Bentley may hold the key to the championship. Allen Park will visit the Bulldogs later Tuesday, Feb. 27 and it will be Bentley at RU three nights later in the finale.

For all of the offensive fireworks in RU's latest victory—its 14th in 16 starts—Coach Carl Andrews picked out the defensive job Gary Fulks did on Jaguar Jim Perry as being the key to the triumph.

"We decided to let the big boy get what he could get," said Andrews of the Parkers' senior center, 6-11 Tom Agardy, whose size has intimidated almost every foe as the Jaguars have rolled to a 13-3 record.

"Perry killed us earlier at Allen Park with 23 points when we lost, but the defensive job Fulks did this time was the big key. Perry scored 30 points last week against Bentley, but Fulks kept him to two field goals and just seven points."

Agardy was high man for the game with 25, backed up by teammate Mike Flood's 20, but RU put four men in double figures.

Scott Bjerke, playing his usually brilliant floor game at guard, led with 20 and muscular Jerry Petsch, who had the defensive assignment on Agardy, got 16. Fulks, besides hounding Perry, found the range for 15 points of his own.

Agardy's 11 points in the first quarter helped thrust Allen Park into its quick 22-11 lead.

THE JAGUARS still led by nine, 28-19, midway into the second quarter but a bucket by Fulks and three in a row by Bjerke made it 28-27.

From then on it was dog eat dog.

Two baskets by Agardy from under the hoop in the last 17 seconds put Allen Park on top at halftime, 32-30. In the third period the lead changed hands seven times before RU could make it stick. The Panthers led after that session, 54-51.

Allen Park made two more strong moves in the stretch, tying things at 60-all and then 66-66, but never going in front.

Petsch broke the tie at 66 when he dumped in a rebound with 1:12 left. Then, in desperate attempts to gain possession, the Jaguars were guilty of fouls in the dying moments that led to four more Panther points, all from the free throw line.

HESITATION CAN BE COSTLY

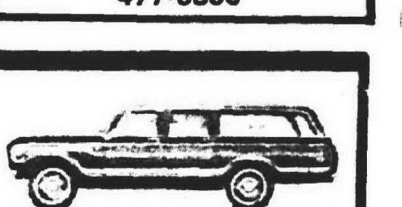

Once you put your home on the market, you have to make up your mind to move when the right offer comes. Your asking price should come pretty close to your selling price if you have priced your house realistically. The right offer (and best) is often your first offer and if you turn it down, you may never get another as good.

However, the offer should be a written one—the only kind that has any real validity in Michigan and one on which you can depend. If there is no meeting of minds or no consideration, there is no contract.

Just remember that a legitimate offer should be accompanied by a good-sized deposit check, depending on the price of the house. Never accept a verbal promise and take your house off the market the next day, a good sale may be lost if you are tied up in this type of questionable transaction.

You should never have to worry about this situation arising if the sale of your house is in the hands of a Realtor.

If you have any questions concerning marketing or buying real estate, call one of the professionals at Westdale Co.

Bentley Knocks Off Edsel Ford, 70-58

The Bulldogs are back on the track.

Bentley outscored Edsel Ford, 40-22, in the second half to coast to its fifth Suburban Eight cage victory against four setbacks, 70-58.

It was the Bulldogs' seventh triumph in 15 games and their second in the last eight.

EDSEL FORD hit eight of 23 from the floor in the first quarter to jump to a 17-12 lead. Bentley had five of seven.

The Bulldogs woke up in the second only to be outscored, 19-18, and trail at the half, 36-30.

Midway through the third period, Tim Bollin tied things up for Bentley, hit two more field goals and two free throws and the Bulldogs moved in front, 49-42.

With six minutes remaining, Bollin who finished with game scoring honors with 25 points picked up his fourth foul. Coach John Farrar had his senior ace on the bench the rest of the way.

It was a strange fourth quarter for the struggling Bulldogs.

BENTLEY HIT only one field goal in the eight minute span, 6-5 junior Randy Litke getting the solo two-pointer.

The rest of the Bulldog scoring came at the charity line.

Bentley went to the line 22

times as Edsel Ford was called for 12 fouls.

Brent Boegler hit 10 of 11 from the line in the quarter and Mark Newall six of six, with the Bulldogs making good 19 of 22.

Edsel Ford finished 22 of 71 from the field for 31 per cent and wound up taking 22 more shots than Bentley.

The Bulldogs hit 20 of 49 for 41 per cent and made good 30 of 35 from the line.

BOLLIN FINISHED with 17 rebounds, Boegler 11 and Eric Bracke 10 as the Bulldogs won the rebounding game, 46-32.

Bentley travels to Trenton Tuesday and hosts Plymouth Friday in Eight action.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

Winter arrived midway through the week, after taking a month off during January, and the result was a decided dip in business at Northville Downs and a big hike in activities at the Detroit Race Course and Hazel Park tracks.

Wolverine Raceway will open its 82-night harness racing meeting at the DRC in just a month and the thoroughbreds are scheduled to start at Hazel Park in three weeks.

It remains to be seen whether Hazel Park will open on time or not. The new management hired a firm to install a new racing strip several weeks ago and now has discovered the new surface is anything but suitable.

Whatever the contracting firm did wasn't the answer. Last reports from the east side were that the strip would have to be removed and the project started all over again.

Normally the plant would be opened for stables to come in and work horses on the track. As of this moment, it appears that the strip won't be ready for another 10 days to two weeks, if then, and that doesn't allow much time for stables to check in and get horses ready.

At the DRC, Wolverine vice president and general manager Richard Wilson has had track Supt. Jim McPhee and his crew busy clearing off snow. Once the snows stop, then work will continue on getting the big mile track ready for the mid-March opening.

Out Northville way, Executive Director John Carlo reported the half-mile strip in excellent condition despite the weather conditions of the past few days.

"We believe we have the best all-weather surface in the area," proudly proclaimed Carlo. "It took a great deal of experimenting and quite a bit of gambling about what would happen but everything seems to have worked out to our advantage."

"The horsemen tell us they like this track for winter racing better than any in the Midwest. We plan to keep it that way."

IT WILL BE stand up and be counted night Saturday (tonight) at Northville Downs for Apparition Hal and H.T.

Pilot, two of the most consistent winners at the meetings.

Both pacers move up to the preferred class and each will be bidding for the winner's share of the $3,000 purse. Each will be facing the stiffest competition of the winter.

With Bedford Jet in Windsor and Adakio sidelined with a pulled muscle, the preferred event attracted only five starters this time. Knox Abbe, surprise winner a week ago, and second place Erianas Valley are the early favorites.

Apparition Hal, a 10-year-old with five victories in seven 1973 starts, and H.T. Pilot, a nine-year-old who has won four of six races this year, have to be considered contenders.

Each was a handy victor last Saturday in cheaper company and each showed so much class that Racing Secretary Tom Smith had to move both up a notch.

The fifth starter is Scamp Direct who returned to the races a week ago after freshening up on the farm since late November.

It will be another all-pacing program with post time for the first race set at 8 p.m. sharp.

THIS 'N THAT... John Carlo, Northville's executive director, has returned to the 'Downs after vacationing in California and Florida for two weeks. John attended the Harness Tracks of America convention in California and then flew to Florida for a week's vacation.

Chuck Coon, Jr., who is filling in for brother Jerry as track superintendent at the 'Downs, will be off to California next week to visit the Los Alamitos track. The plant, which has developed into one of the fastest growing on the west coast, has been having troubles with the racing strip.

Track officials there, who used Chuck as track superintendent in Buffalo, have called him in to discuss plans for installing a new strip.

"It's been raining out there for a couple of weeks," said Chuck. "That is sure going to make the job a lot harder." Then two weeks later he'll be busy at Wolverine as the starter.

Rocks Best Belleville

Belleville chose to run with Plymouth High School's basketball team and lived to regret it.

"Run and shoot" is the name of the game for Plymouth's lovers of the fast break and the Rocks boosted their record to 7-4 in the Suburban Eight and 12-4 overall with an 85-76 win over the Tigers.

PLYMOUTH'S LEAD had grown to 18 points by the end of the third quarter when the margin was 62-44. The Rocks led at halftime, 36-31, and then poured in 26 points in the third stanza in what Coach Fred Thomann described as being "as good a period as we've had all winter."

The fourth quarter turned into one of the season's top shoot-outs as Belleville found the range for 32 points while Plymouth was getting 23 more. Together they combined for 55 in one period alone.

Tim Van Wagoner led the Rocks' scoring parade with 29 points, but Kevin Moore, Steve Robb and Ron Egloff also were in double figures. As a foursome they made 31 of their 55 field goal attempts—56 per cent.

The Tigers had three men who scored in the 20s, but their barrage came too late. Terry Pace led Belleville with 25.

"They ran with us all the way instead of slowing it down," said Thomann. "Egloff fouled out 30 seconds into the fourth quarter and then Belleville got hot. However, as a team we shot 51 per cent from the floor and they just couldn't catch us." The Rocks have only two games left on the regular schedule, traveling to Livonia Bentley next Friday and then hosting Trenton March 2.

She's many things, the suburban woman. You see her buying soap and cat food at your nearest supermarket; she's also in the classroom teaching your kids the secrets of science and the magic of poetry. She may be a wife, a mother, a student, a job holder, a homemaker or an artist. Most likely she's a combination of several of these things. For it's clear that she wears many hats.

The population explosion is over, replaced, it would seem, by a new feminine "identity explosion." The world is changing, and today's woman has opened up the avenues of her life to explore a whole new set of experiences for herself and the people she loves.

What does the Observerland woman think of women's lib, working mothers, the role of women in such diverse fields as medicine and banking plus the age old challenges of running a home?

Come along with Focus and meet some of the typical -- and not so typical -- women in the Observer area. Discover for yourself the kaleidoscope of activity that makes up today's woman's world.

Co-Ed Teams: Both Sides of the Picture

Should girls compete with boys on the same athletic teams?

Pretty Bernie (short for Bernadine) Kenny, an 18-year-old senior at Franklin High School in Livonia, thinks they should.

"To me a team should be made up of the best people, whether they're boys or girls," explains Bernie, who is a trophy winning swimmer and a member of Franklin's all girl swim team.

Recently, Bernie made an unsuccessful attempt to join the boys swim team. She was discouraged by her instructors.

"I wasn't doing it to be different," she explains. "I feel that boys' teams are taken more seriously and that they work out harder."

TALENT SCOUTS, Bernie points out, are more apt to follow the boys' teams and offer scholarships to the most capable male swimmers. This is what happened to her brother but no scouts have spotted her as a member of the girls' team.

Bernie, a modeling student at the Barizon School in Southfield, and who hopes to pursue a career in this field, is not a crusader.

She's not even a woman's libber. "I'm not involved in that at all," she says. "I just think things should be fair."

Currently, all of Livonia's high school swimming teams are segregated according to sex. There isn't a team where boys and girls compete together.

The new state ruling which says that girls be allowed to participate with boys in non-contact sports could change this.

"If a girl now was to formally challenge our team policy she could probably go out for a boys' team," says Diane Corbett, physical education teacher at Franklin. "But we don't encourage co-ed swimming because, in the long run, we feel it would hurt the girls."

MISS CORBETT feels that girls would lose out to boys in competing for positions on the same team. The result would be that fewer girls would be able to participate at all.

According to some Livonia gym teachers, boys are more serious about sports than girls and have worked harder in developing athletic skills throughout the years.

Against this kind of competition, the average girl just wouldn't fare well.

Most girls are happy with the present arrangements, according to teachers at Livonia's Bentley and Franklin High Schools. And because of ever increasing interest in girls sports, the teams are offering girls better chances to develop their skills and abilities.

"I'd put my girls volleyball team against any boys' team," Diane Corbett declares proudly.

As for mixing that team with a variety of top notch male and female players - well, it just might happen one of these days, especially with increasing athletic skills on the part of the girls and more students who think like Bernie Kenny.

Inside A Day Care Center...

What does a working woman do with her pre-school tots during the day?

More and more are using the facilities of day care centers, many of which have mushroomed throughout Observerland in the past few years.

Staffed by professionals in child care, such centers usually seek to offer children a variety of educational experiences as well as companionship with little ones their own age.

Farmington's Durbin Day Nursery on Shiawassee near Nine Mile and Middle Belt Road is a busy place where about 25 children, from the ages of 2 1/2 to five, are given a full day of activities ranging from art projects to a two-hour nap.

Open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., the Durbin Nursery is headed by Loy Adams, who holds a master's degree in child development. With two assistants to help her, the child-teacher ratio averages out to be about 10 to one. Miss Adams is especially proud of the nursery's homey atmosphere and the flexible program it offers for different age groups.

"The kids are happy here and they are able to get a head start on school because of the range of activities that are offered to them," she explained.

Some tots take to day care centers like ducks to water. On his first day one little boy wailed to his mother. "Bye, Mom, I'm going in." And he did just that.

Although open full time, the Durbin Center is also available to children on a part time basis. "One mother teaches in the mornings so her little boy comes only half a day," the teacher explained.

The hours of children's attendance are flexible, depending, usually, on the mother's work schedule.

Home Grown Hobbies For Fun And Profit

*Who can find a virtuous woman?
for her price is far above rubies...
She seeketh wool and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands.*

Women in Biblical times had little choice but to sew and spin and weave. Today's woman often chooses such activities as an artistic outlet for her creative abilities.

On the mustard colored walls of Roseanne Boston's Westland kitchen is a striking purple and avocado rug which she hooked herself.

Decorated with an abstract apple pattern which she designed, the rug is one of many that she has made for friends and family.

Last summer she exhibited her rugs at the Ann Arbor Art Festival, selling them all. She has also taken some to local boutiques in Plymouth where, due to the current hunger for hand crafted items, they have also sold well.

Using a punch hook needle and regular rug yarn, Roseanne, the mother of two boys, estimates that she can do one rug in about a week of working during the evenings. She learned the craft from a neighbor, and while she enjoys making rugs for others, she recommends her hobby to every woman with a yen to work with her hands.

"It's really not difficult to do and it's extremely satisfying," she says wholeheartedly.

MACRAME, the art of tying knots into patterns that have intriguing lacy and cobweb-like effects, is one of the many talents of Marlene Backus of Plymouth.

She creates macrame wall hangings at home, often working on a commission basis for other people. "Macrame has an extremely softening effect upon a room," Marlene explained. Her wall hangings and ceramics are displayed at the Galleries 12 on Penniman in Plymouth.

Along with the macrame work she does at home, Marlene also finds time to substitute teach in Plymouth and work on a graduate degree at the University of Michigan.

She has also been busy in establishing a woman's volleyball team in Plymouth.

Beyond The Stereotypes

Local Women Prove Themselves In Banking, Psychiatry

Imagine you're a Broadway producer looking for actors to play the roles of a bank manager and a psychiatrist. You'd probably pick grey-haired, distinguished looking men for both parts and see that your bank manager wore a dark, conservative suit while your psychiatrist cultivated a goatee and a Viennese accent.

Except that reality doesn't always work that way.

Mrs. Norene Gardner pictured above, is a little bit of a blonde who wears size seven junior petites and who also manages the National Bank of Detroit branch on Wayne and Cowan in Westland with breezy good humor and efficiency.

DR. SARA DUBO, a child psychiatrist with a private office in Farmington, is the mother of two grown children whose career, which began in 1945, is as old as her marriage.

How have both women managed in fields that have usually been labeled "For Men Only"?

"When I started in banking, women were only tellers," Norene Gardner recalled. "Now nearly half of the people in our management training program are women."

A high school co-op program introduced Norene to the banking world and she's still at it, after 20 years.

She began as a teller. Hard work and dedication enabled her to rise through the ranks, and since 1970 she has been in charge of the total operation of her branch, audit control, promotions, salary increases and various kinds of loans.

Would she recommend banking as a career to girls still in school? Mrs. Gardner gave a definite yes. "Banking now provides women with many good opportunities," she declared.

It's now possible, she pointed out, for a woman with a bachelor's degree in marketing, finance or a related field to work her way into a management position within three years. Women without college training, such as Norene herself, can still achieve executive status through hard work.

Does a future bank manager have to be a mathematical whiz, a kind of walking adding machine? "Not necessarily," Norene answered. "Most of that is now computerized. I'd say that a potential bank manager should be well versed in such diversified fields as credit and investments and also know something about the law."

A PLEASING personality is another "must." Much of Norene's work involves public relations and the solicitation of new accounts.

Good grooming counts, too. "Many women don't advance because of their grooming," according to Norene. Thus, the stereotype woman in a rumpled grey suit with hair tucked severely back in a bun just wouldn't make it in today's banking world.

Married and the mother of three children, ages 12, 14 and 16, Norene hasn't found any special difficulties in managing a home and a career.

She agreed that it's important to have a schedule and stick to it. "I usually do the cooking," she admitted, "although sometimes the kids help."

Early mornings find her doing a lot of the housework and she still makes time, in the evenings, to participate in her children's activities such as scouting.

CHILD PSYCHIATRIST Dr. Sara Dubo, a Livonia resident, is another woman who has managed both home and the demands of a successful career.

"I worked part time until my children were in school," she explained, "and was lucky to have reliable help until they were well into their teens."

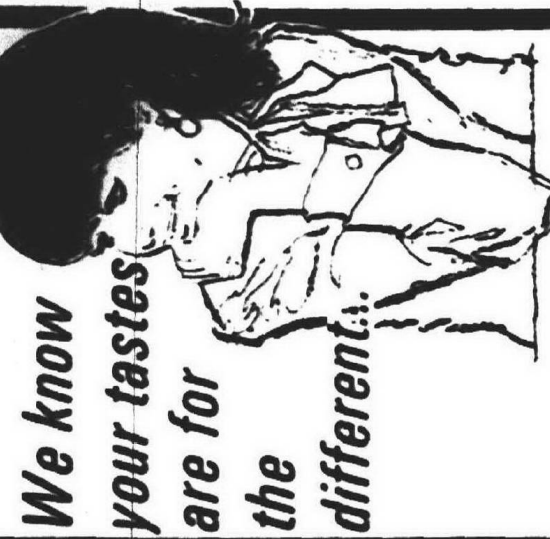

Dr. Dubo's work has led her to believe that pre-school children should be cared for by their own mothers, at least on a substantial, part-time basis.

"I think child psychiatry is a great field for a female," she says firmly. "A woman brings a point of view to the field that is unique. It's very helpful for mothers to talk to a woman doctor about problems they have with their children."

Nor does Dr. Dubo see any special obstacles for women who plan to go into the field. "There's no problem in being a woman," she declared. "Nowadays there's nothing to bar a woman from any field she chooses."

A graduate of the University of Manitoba, Dr. Dubo was formerly the associate director at the Hawthorn Center in Northville. Her current private practice enables her to treat patients from the toddler stage through adolescence.

Although the training in psychiatry is lengthy, Dr. Dubo, who had her sights set on a medical career since childhood, does not feel this created an insurmountable obstacle. "I just did it," she said with characteristic firmness.

A Southfield Mother Tells Why

Margaret Shere is a Southfield homemaker who has created a quiet world of happiness for herself within the circle of her home, family and friends.

Her little son, Jeremy, a blue-eyed chatterbox of nearly two, takes up much of her time.

"I feel that the raising of a human being is the most important thing I could be doing at this time," says pretty, dark haired Margaret with quiet conviction.

Would she change her home-centered life for an exciting job using the facilities of a day care center for Jeremy?

"No. At this point I feel that Jeremy needs one consistent person in his life. I want that person to be me. If I were gone from nine to five I'd feel that I'd lose control in guiding him and in teaching him the values that I want him to have."

Margaret is no stranger to the working world, having taught art in a local suburban elementary school for several years. But she really doesn't miss it.

"As an art teacher, I felt that I was teaching assembly line art," she recalls, remembering it with humor. "We had half-hour classes, and when the bell rang, I felt as though it was a factory whistle getting us ready for the next shift."

"I feel that teaching art in large groups is wrong. It's something that needs individual attention. In many cases I felt I was doing more harm than good. Many of the kids became frustrated and unhappy."

MARGARET'S feeling for art is something which she has brought into her home. Decorating so that each room has a unique mood and atmosphere is a challenge to her.

Hunting in local art stores for ceramics and paintings done by Michigan artists is an activity that she and her husband, Joel, a Detroit attorney, enjoy together.

The result is a nicely growing art collection along with a home that is memorable for its unpretentious display of artistic treasures.

Even Jeremy, who will be two in March, is benefiting from his mother's emphasis on creativity. Recently, Margaret gave him a pile of scraps made up of colored paper and lace paper doilies. With the generous use of glue, he assembled, all by himself, a kind of three dimensional valentine card.

"It's absolutely great, but you couldn't send it," laughs Margaret, who is saving it as an example of one of her son's first creative efforts.

Changing Sex Roles For School Children In Observerland

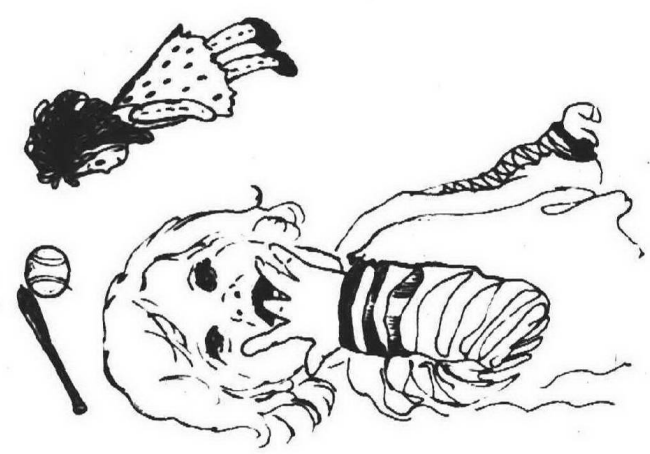

There are other quiet innovations happening in the schools.

Second graders at Livonia's Harrison Elementary School recently drew pictures of women in such fields as medicine, law and engineering. These were exhibited, along with a picture of Susan B. Anthony, in the school hall for everyone to see.

Safety girls along with safety boys may be seen near the Perrinville School helping the children to cross the streets safely.

And because most local schools favor comfort and convenience in clothing, you'll find nearly as many girls in pants as you will boys. Gone, it seems, are the days when little girls refrained from vigorous activity in order to preserve the starched ruffles of their dresses.

Mrs. Firestone has observed that girls in the nursery school classroom are taking a greater interest in such activities as building and construction. Girls and boys share in playing house and with the popularity of such toys as GI Joe and Dapper Dan, even dolls are no longer exclusively the playthings of girls.

Not long ago a four-year-old girl brought a doctor's kit to her pre-school class at Perrinville School on Farmington road in Westland.

Her intention was simply to use it for show and tell, she had no plans to "play doctor" herself and the little boys of the class were quick to comment that girls couldn't be doctors anyway.

Her teacher, Rosemary Firestone, had other ideas.

Mrs. Firestone, who is working towards a master's degree in education, was quick to point out to her small students that women could indeed be doctors, that many women are busily and capably practicing medicine right now.

"THE LITTLE GIRL who had brought the doctor kit just sat there with eyes as big as saucers," Mrs. Firestone recalled. "And at free play time she took on the role of doctor, herself."

Such experiences are doing a lot to change the images that young children have about themselves and their roles as males and females.

"Sometimes I find that the boys will make comments as to girls' inferiority in certain games, but I don't let the girls accept this," Mrs. Firestone explained.

IN HER CLASSES cleanup activities are shared equally by boys and girls, and simple cooking projects, such as the making of Kool-Aid and popcorn, are enjoyed by both sexes. Is Rosemary Firestone a staunch women's liberator?

"I'm for it up to a point," she said. "I still like my cigarettes lit and doors opened for me. It's just that I think that women can think and do things as well as men. I feel that things should be on a 50-50 basis."

Safety girls and dolls for boys may be only a part of the realm of childhood play and fantasy, but their influence may reach far beyond the early years.

According to the experts, the little girl who is now actually encouraged to play doctor will be a very different adult from her mother for whom such activity was more unusual.

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR

A signal honor was paid this week to the women bowlers of metropolitan Detroit when one of their number - Connie Powers - was selected for membership in the Women's International Bowling Congress Hall of Fame.

A star of the major leagues for more than two decades before she retired, Connie was chosen as "The Star of Yesterday" where she will join the late Louise Stockdale and Stella Hartrick, the only other Detroit bowlers ever given the high honor.

During her active days of major competition as a member of the Vernon and later the Colonial Broach team, Connie was considered Detroit's top bowler. She helped the Colonial team to two national championships and a sweep of the city and state titles.

Aside from her team efforts where she was a teammate of Elvira Toepfer, Maxine Crutchen, Vicky Fayad and Ann Setlock, Connie also established a four-game record that stood for years. Bowling in the All-Star in Chicago, she posted a 988 series to enter the record books.

Connie is a native of Grand Rapids where she was "discovered" by the late Eddie Coy and brought to Detroit where she helped make the city the capital of the bowling world.

Her official induction into the Hall will be made during the WIBC convention at Las Vegas in May.

THE PINS really were flying again in the Wonderland Classic.

While Bill Walker's Jackson Co. was adding a 3228 series to its 3368 of last week to become the "hottest" team in the area, four individuals broke the 700 barrier.

John McKeever survived the blasting to win top honors with a middle game of 278 in 7th. Joe Wilson was only two pins behind with consistent games of 236, 234 and 246. Two others tied at 703. They were Tom Mistrretta, a teammate of McKeever, and Bill Moore.

One of the better showings of the week was a 656 posted by 17-year-old Ted Chisholm in the YBA league. He linked games of 257, 221 and 178.

BILL IACOVACEI rolled his way to top honors in the Oak Park Senior House League with a 637 count that gave him an eight pin margin over Warren Bergman.

ONLY SEVEN pins separated the top four places in the Garden Classic.

Bob Cassar survived this keen competition with a 668 to lead the pack. Three pins behind came Phil Horowitz with a 665, while Ted Kress had a 664 and Larry Kellogg landed fourth with a 661. It was the most dramatic battle of the year.

THE SHARPSHOOTERS waged another keen struggle at Westland Bowl where three of their number broke the 700 barrier.

Ron Sharples, aided by a 279 opener, posted a 729 to take the pacemaking role and Harry Fill used a 279 middle game to land second place with 719. The third in the big trio was Jim Beck who closed with games of 255 and 257 for a 702.

A NEW NAME appeared at the head of the list in the Bel-Aire and Tom Margerger linked games of 256, 253, and 223 for a 732. While Tom was setting the pace, Andy Di Camillo appeared again to make a fight of it by putting together games of 235, 268 and 201 for 704.

Jerry Hay, who posed a 200 a few weeks ago, showed the way in the Senior House League with a 278 in 642, while Louise Hirsch had a 257 in 623 to pace the Ladies Classic.

The proudest bowler of the lot was 16-year-old Steve Fromm who carries a 150 average in the Youth League. Finding the range, he put together counts of 175, 244 and 184 for a 603.

The boys in the Farmington High School League also did some fine shooting. Vic West, a 169 average bowler, put together games of 173, 213 and 245 for a 631. Next in line was Gary George, another 160 average bowler, with a 616 and Kevin Hibbs with a 247 opener in 615.

ONE OF THE top scorers in the entire area so far as the women are concerned is Jan Vanderwill, who has posted an unusually large number of 600 series in the last month.

She continued this streak in the Farmington Ladies Classic with a 253 in 648, but Michael Burden, the director, said today's audiences should have no difficulty relating to the story because the farce concerns a generation gap between a 17th century father and his children.

Burden describes the play as "pure entertainment, filled with fast-paced scenes of brilliant dialogue, clever action and fun."

The story revolves around the conflicts between the father and his son and daughter. Both the son and daughter fall in love but are afraid to reveal this because their father has already chosen marriage partners for them.

HIS CHOICES are based on their ability to add to the father's already large store of money and not on the basis of happiness and love.

Things become even more complicated when the father reveals that he plans to marry his son's secret love.

The cast, which includes all of Moliere's 14 original characters, will appear in appropriate costumes, including wigs and knee breeches for the men and full skirts for the women.

It includes Sally Schanstra, Sandy Greenwood, Bob Dominie and Dennis Saltarelli, all of Livonia; Ken and Linda Osiecki of Plymouth; Jim St. Louis of Westland; Maryanne Szpaichler of Waydette; Bill Drummond, Angus Wrigley and Veda Riedel of Detroit; Kathy Rabac of Centerline; and Ann-Marie Vick of Silver Springs, Md.

Performances will be staged in the Madonna College Activities Center, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia, on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 22, 24 and 25. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or may be reserved by calling the college. General admission is $2, $1 for students.

Jazz Pros, Amateurs Perform In Westland

True progressive jazz, in the style of the after-hours clubs of the 1940s, is being served up in Observerland every Sunday evening in the Showers Club, 8606 Haller (three blocks east of Middle Bent and south of Joy Road), Westland.

This evening (Feb. 17), the club is sponsoring an experiment to see if people are just as interested in contemporary jazz. The Contemporary Jazz Quintet No. 2, Blue Note Recording Artists, will play in the club from 9 until midnight. If response is good, they'll be back, and jazz will be served up two nights a week.

MIDGE ELLIS, who helped bring the big bands to the Clarenceville Entertainment Series, and Pete Reckenbeil opened the Showers Club after hearing so many musicians say they would like a place to get together and "jam."

Many young people (and old) are finding out about the club and are dropping by with their instruments, hoping to get in on the music. There have been so many, in fact, that they now have their own hour to shine, from 8 to 9 every Sunday evening, just before the house band takes over.

This consists of Terry Pollard, piano; Lou Smith, trumpet and flugelhorn; Jerry McKenzie, drums; Will Austin, bass; and George Benson, reeds.

MCKENZIE, who has played with the Stan Kenton and Glenn Miller Orchestras, lives in Livonia and is on the Farmington Township police force.

Miss Pollard has played with many groups, most notably with Terry Gibbs. Smith is the University of Michigan's Jazz Band director and is also a member of the Jimmy Wilkins Band, as is Austin.

Benson is in Windsor's Elmwood Casino house band and has backed many big stars.

The music is the important thing and the audience ranges from five-year-olds to those much older. Members of the Stan Kenton Orchestra and Dizzy Gillespie have also dropped in.

Junior Groups To Play Sunday

Thomas Horn, Corbin Wagner, Scott Woolweaver and Edith Nagy will be the featured soloists at 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 18, when the Junior Orchestra and the String Orchestra of the Livonia Youth Symphony present a concert.

It will be in the auditorium of Plymouth High School, Canton Center and Joy Roads.

THOMAS HORN, who is 14, has played the clarinet for four years. He is a ninth grade student at Emerson Junior High School, Livonia. He is first chair clarinetist with the Junior Orchestra and the Livonia Youth Wind Ensemble. This past summer he was assistant-principal with the University of Michigan All-State Intermediate Orchestra at Interlochen.

Edith Nagy is an eighth grade student at Lederle

Junior High School in Southfield. This is her third season with the Junior Orchestra and she has been playing the violin since she was nine.

SCOTT WOOLWEAVER is the principal violinist with the Junior Orchestra. He is also a member of three other local orchestras, Plymouth, Garden City and Westland.

The Youth Symphony will present its concert at 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 25, in Cherry Hill High School, Avondale, between Middle Belt and Inkster.

Church Hosts Craft Exhibit

Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church is holding an arts and crafts show from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 18. It will be in the church's Fellowship Hall, Hubbard and W. Chicago, Livonia.

Ferndale Downs Raiders, 71-61

North Farmington's hot shooting hand froze up for eight minutes and that was all Ferndale High needed to upset the Raiders, 71-61. It was the Raiders' third loss in the last four games and dropped their overall mark to 9-7.

THE RAIDERS shot 14 for 30 from the floor the first half and took a 40-37 lead.

"Everything was just falling into place," said North Coach Ken Dean. "Ferndale was pressing and we were breaking the press, plus we hit 12 of 13 at the free throw line."

Kim Parker sparked for North in the half with 18 points. But the ball game ended for North in the third quarter.

FERNDALE outscored the Raiders, 18-5.

"They went into a zone and half court press," said Dean. "This is just what we practiced for but the kids froze up and couldn't cope with it."

Ferndale led after the third, 55-45, but North fought to within five on three different occasions in the fourth but failed to cut the ice.

BOTH TEAMS finished with a 38 per cent shooting mark from the outside, North 22 for 59 and Ferndale, 30 for 80.

Ferndale won the rebounding battle, 47-40.

Franklin Tips Wyandotte, 8-1

Franklin High's hockey squad, which has been having its problems playing as a team, finally put it all together.

The Patriots upended Wyandotte in a non-league clash, 8-1. Leftwinger Mark Field tallied the three goal hat-trick and Ken Karpczuk and Tim Juntilla popped in two each.

"We are finally back together as a team," said Franklin Coach Paul Ferguson whose Patriots stand 9-4-1 overall, and 5-5-1 in the Suburban League. "We put forth a total team effort and were especially pleased with the team spirit."

Franklin jumped to a 3-0 first period lead on goals by Juntilla, Tom Lubig and Field.

Patriots were caught deep in Wyandotte territory.

MIKE CALLAHAN skated in on Steve Filarecki and beat the Franklin netminder to make it 6-1.

Field slapped in two more tallies for Franklin to seal the triumph and two more points for the Patriots in the standings.
