Road Patrol's End Looms; Townships Eye Alternatives

WAYNE COUNTY ROAD crews worked double shifts to cut paths around drifts and abandoned cars throughout Plymouth and Canton townships. By Monday the county had bulldozers attacking the heavily drifted side roads like Beck, Ridge and Napier. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first article in a two-part series on the problem of providing police protection for the townships and on the possible solutions to the problem.

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Officials in Plymouth and Canton townships may soon be forced to tackle the long standing problem of providing law enforcement once and for all.

Loren M. Pittman, under sheriff and chief deputy of the Wayne County Sheriff Dept., has been warning townships that rely on the sheriff for police protection that that service may end in August.

That is when the current funding for the sheriff department's road patrol runs out. Pittman told Plymouth Township Supervisor J. D. McLaren recently.

In a letter to McLaren following Pittman's warning, Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas said, "I am sure you are aware . . . that you will need to seriously consider the future of law enforcement services in your township."

Accompanying the notice that the road patrol's funding is scheduled to run out in August was notification that the cost of contracting protection from the sheriff department would increase about seven per cent this year.

One alternative to the sheriff department's road patrol coverage, which some townships have used, is to contract with the county for additional, full-time protection.

Last year the cost of this service was about $189,000 for having one car on patrol 24 hours a day. This year, the sheriff department has said, it will cost about $202,000.

Plymouth Township has examined that possibility along with starting its own police department or contracting with the City of Plymouth to provide protection for the township too.

Canton Township officials have hoped to start their own police department and have eyed federal shared revenue for that purpose. But no decision has been reached.

With the establishment of the State Police Subpost in Plymouth, the townships have realized more police protection, but most officials feel the State Police coverage isn't adequate by itself.

And so the problem may now come to a head. "It's one of those things that will drag and drag until something happens," McLaren said.

The major reason the issue has been put aside, McLaren said, is the cost factor.

Even if the townships devote federally shared revenues towards establishing police departments, it would eventually require additional millage to keep the departments running.

"You still have to go to the voters," McLaren

Storm Freezes City, Township Residents

By MAURIE WALKER

Wires down, streets blocked, stuck motorists, along with swamped switchboards kept police and fire departments and the Wayne County Road Commission busy in Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships over last weekend.

For adults, this worst storm to hit the area in eight years caused many problems.

For area students, however, the storm was welcomed with open arms -- no school! The blocked roads forced Plymouth schools to close Monday and school buses to use only main roads Tuesday and this morning.

Plymouth Fire Chief George Schoenneman said his department was busy protecting several areas where overhead lines had snapped.

"We had to evacuate the Cultural Center Saturday evening when a pole next to the Edison Co. substation at Farmer and Theodore caught fire," the chief said.

"We saw that the pole was ready to fall into the transformers at the substation and feared it might cause an explosion damaging the recreation center."

Schoenneman said that half of Plymouth was without electricity for over an hour Saturday as the result of the falling pole, parts of Lake Pointe were without power for six hours.

Wires were also down at 219 Elizabeth St., 356 W. Ann Arbor Trail, 217 Hamilton, 150 Fair St., Hines and Wilcox and Plymouth at Haggerty, the chief said.

In spite of all the snow shoveling, ambulance runs were limited to two on Saturday and two Sunday, none as the result of shoveling snow.

Police Chief Timothy Ford said a high power line at Harvey and Ann Arbor Road snapped Saturday, forcing the roads to be blocked off most of the day.

A traffic light at Lilley and Ann Arbor Roads suffered a power failure causing further confusion for motorists who braved the storm.

Ford said the Plymouth police headquarters switchboard was swamped with persons seeking information as to road conditions and the weather.

Sgt. Dale LaTulip of the Plymouth Michigan State Police post said the switchboard was also busy.

State police cars patrolling Canton and Plymouth townships were called upon many times over the weekend to aid stranded and stuck motorists, the sergeant said.

Closing of the Plymouth schools because of the storm was only the second time in the district's recent history that the doors weren't opened. The last time was in

Rockettes Reschedule '60s Show

Plymouth's Salem and Canton High School Rockettes, whose Saturday night performance of their "Sensational Sixties" revue was canceled because of the storm, have rescheduled the show for Friday, March 23.

The Broadway-type song and dance show features a variety of individual acts, dance routines and music by the high school stage band.

Friday's performance will begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Plymouth-Salem High School. Tickets dated for March 17 will be honored and also will be on sale at the door for $1.25.

more than any other--but the snow was only half of it.

Now if you're one of our good readers who lives in town within an easy jaunt of the grocery store or the saloon, consider the plight of we who live in the outer reaches of the townships.

You know that margarine ad about fooling Mother Nature? All us "outlanders" want to know is, "Who did it?"

No sooner had that old tease flaunted spring in our faces than she pulled the white wool over our eyes.

It certainly was lucky that my perpetual laziness won out over the little woman's eagerness--at least as far as the storm windows and the car's snow tires go.

If you don't believe me, ask anyone who lives out N. Territorial way between Beck and Napier roads.

Like the fellow driving down the middle of N. Territorial in the yellow snowmobile with a bass fiddle riding behind him.

There he was, just prrrrrrrrrzing along with a bass fiddle behind him. Honest, I wasn't drinking. My laziness also averted a visit to the party store Friday night -- I WAS going to do it Saturday.

Thought we were stranded high and dry until Friend Barney and Joanna blasted through the shoulder-high drifts to rescue us with a fifth of Old Somethingorother.

After we killed that while cursing the flickering lights and the occasionally working phone, there came a "my car's stuck down the road" rap on the door. . . and sure enough.

Two fellows from Northville were STUCK plum in the middle of N. Territorial.

At one in the morning there was no other thought but to let everyone sleep on the floor--and since the fifth was gone--bringing out two bottles of the homemade raspberry wine I'd promised myself I'd let reach full age.

Sunday morning arrived no different except for the little humming noise in the back of my head which always seems to follow imbibing large quantities of homemade wine.

A little fresh air would clear up our heads, we decided. So we went out to bail out the cars.

The guys from Northville found their car with three-foot drifts fore and aft, so we all pitched in to move Barney's car -- got it free and piled in.

To "town." (Plymouth) We had to push the car up the hill and when we reached the top found our neighbor digging out. He wished us best in our journey.

He's the one who first saw the fellow on the snowmobile with the bass fiddle.

We crashed on toward town.

At Ridge Road, we found an impenetrable drift--anchored by a neatly positioned Volkswagen--and saw four or five cars struggling down Ridge with residents from the trailer parks shoving behind.

We gave up.

But the guys from Northville said they wanted to try and get home, so they set out through the drifts.

We wished them well and they promised to return for their car.

After we got home, Friend Randy Moses, who works at the Plymouth State Home and Training School called to say he was tired of being cooped

Too Much Land Zoned Suburbs Dreaming About Industry

Wayne County communities are much too optimistic in their plans for industrial development—and that could result in costly governmental mistakes.

That is a major conclusion of a report which urges the county and local governments to cooperate in preparing a "development strategy" to avoid such mistakes and to improve the quality of life in the nation's third most populous county.

In a 50-page report, the Wayne County Planning Commission proposes a tentative plan to guide local and county policy makers in making key decisions involving use of space and natural and financial resources.

The county planners will meet with local officials throughout the county to get their reactions and suggestions. The development strategy emerging from that process will be submitted to the County Board of Commissioners for its consideration.

The report states that the County Planning Commission "supports local planning," while hoping that "jointly the county and local governments can agree on a strategy that will improve the opportunity for all our people to improve their quality of life."

County Planning Director Francis P. Bennett said there is an element of urgency behind the proposal that all governmental units cooperate in developing a county-wide plan.

"Both the federal and state governments are talking about mandating land use policy," he stated. "We believe legislation will be passed at both levels. We in Wayne County will be better off if we get a head start and work things out through cooperation than if we have to operate under pressure of a deadline."

The need for an overall plan, developed cooperatively, is illustrated by the fact that the total amount of land anticipated for industrial use in local master plans far exceeds expected future industrial needs, according to the report.

"We are saying that these are the facts of the aggregation of your master plans," Bennett explained. "We are not saying which of you is not going to achieve them, but we are saying that not all are going to achieve them. And if you overbuild, a whole lot of money will be wasted."

Thirty-seven of the 43 local communities in Wayne County have their own master plans, according to the report.

Some 38.2 square miles of land are occupied by industry in the county.

Local master plans call for a total of 108.1 square miles of land for industry by 1990, according to the report. But if the present proportion of industrial employment continues, only 70 square miles of industrial land would be needed, even if all local communities attain their projected ultimate populations.

Actually industrial employment has decreased steadily in proportion to other types of employment in recent decades, which indicates the over-optimism may be even greater than the figures suggest.

"Thus, there is an imbalance—the local communities are calling for over 32 square miles more industrial land than would be needed to accommodate their combined industrial employment at the present ratio," the report states.

"This area—nearly equal to an entire township—is to be provided with all the services required for industrial development. Will this vast capital expenditure be wasted?"

Of the 2.67 million people in Wayne County, approximately 364,500 were industrial employees, or about 14 per cent, in 1971. If this proportion continues, the projected 1990 population of 4,760,000 would produce about 640,000 industrial employees, the report estimates.

The aggregate local master plans call for an increase in residential land from the present 202.3 square miles to 232.5 and a decrease in commercial use from 22.5 to 22.2 square miles.

In addition, the master plans project a decrease in other uses from the present 360 to 260.2 square miles. These other uses, lumped together as "balances of uses," include recreation, education, open space, agriculture, transportation, utilities, rights-of-way and vacant.

"Interpreting these figures on the county-wide basis demonstrates the likelihood of frustrated aspirations on the part of local communities and of wasted public investments both by them and by the county," the report states, adding:

"They mean that an 80 per cent increase of population would be squeezed into only 15 per cent more residential land; they would use one per cent less land for commercial activity and 26 per cent less land for the whole range of services such as recreation, education, open space, etc.

"On the other hand, 183 per cent more land would be used for industrial purposes...It is clear that the realization of the interdependence among the several local communities that make up the county has not been built into local planning efforts."

The fact that local master plans call for nearly twice as much industrial land as is likely to be used "is probably the result of the effort by each community to bolster its tax base in what the community assumes to be an easy way," the report says.

This, the report continues, "leads to excessive investment in public service facilities and to wasteful rivalries between communities, or the freezing of land in unproductive idleness, since it cannot go into other uses unless local master plans are ignored."

The draft of a development strategy, in effect a county-wide master plan with emphasis on flexibility, proposes as goals:

(1) A rational balance of land uses based on reasonable projections of demand and need; (2) a full range of opportunities for jobs and for living environments so located that they are reasonably accessible throughout the county; (3) a wider range of employment types to reduce dependence on one type; and (4) conservation of human and physical resources.

The report contains nine proposals for approaching those goals, plus ten steps for carrying out the proposals.

The nine proposals for approaching those goals are:

1. Retain some agricultural land use within Wayne County. A figure of 50 per cent of the present area or about 50 square miles is suggested. A current soil survey is available to help select areas.

2. Obtain some open space and ensure its permanence. A total of 10 miles, in addition to other organized and active recreation, is suggested.

3. Allocate the agricultural and open space lands so they are interspersed between areas of concentrated urbanization.

4. Work toward land use decisions and developments that provide for a full range of living activities within the reach of all the population—both as to travel time and distance and as to economic means.

5. Provide recreation programs and activities as well as facilities on an equitable basis throughout the county. Assist local units in case of deficiencies.

6. Assist local units in broadening the employment base both as to number of jobs and as to variety of employment types to ease dependence on manufacturing.

7. Use the providing of public utility services such as the processing of liquid and solid waste as opportunities. These materials have been called "misplaced resources" and can be reclaimed or recycled and converted to beneficial multi-purpose projects.

8. Work toward a system of public transportation throughout the county properly related to regional needs.

9. Render a range of data gathering and market analysis services to commercial, residential, and industrial categories of developments to avoid the costly consequences of over or misplaced development.

The ten steps for carrying out the proposals include creation of county housing and recreation commissions and a County Environmental Quality Council, plus adoption of a county sedimentation and soil erosion control ordinance. The other proposed steps are:

1. Full collaboration with local governments and with regional agencies (SEMCOG, SEMTA, HCMA, Detroit Metropolitan Water Services, State Planning Division of Executive Office, Michigan Water Resources Commission, etc.).

2. Selective open space land acquisition, using all available federal and state funding sources.

3. Supporting legislation on tax reform, environmental protection, transportation, housing, etc.

4. Wise use of existing county land and facilities under a county "property and needs" master plan (now under preparation).

5. Broaden monitoring capabilities of the Office of Industrial and Commercial Development.

Bennett said both Gov. William G. Milliken and Democrats in the Legislature are expected to propose state land use legislation which would require the kind of process proposed in the Planning Commission report.

DAVID SHEPARD, Eastern Michigan University freshman and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shepard of Rosslyn, Garden City, will perform as cello soloist at 8 p.m., Thursday, March 22, in Pease Auditorium with the EMU-Civic Symphony Orchestra. The concert will feature seven student soloists.

Firemen, Road Crews, Police Battle Storm

February 1965, when the last heavy snowfall hit the area.

While many area residents telephoned police and the Wayne County Road Commission, complaining their streets were blocked, the road crews were on the job, trying to clear major arteries first.

Supervisor Elmer Miller of the Nordon and Wilcox yards, said his men worked 15 hours both Saturday and Sunday clearing roads.

"Some of the men even worked 19 hours, and were back on the job Monday morning," Miller said.

"We had between 12 and 15 pieces of equipment working the townships and Plymouth. Three graders broke down as well as several of our trucks."

Miller said road crews were delayed in clearing roads because of stranded cars in many areas.

"The main roads were our first targets. We had hoped to have all roads clear by Monday night, but things moved slower than anticipated," Miller said.

As of Monday, Napier and Ridge Roads were still closed to traffic in Plymouth and Canton townships.

Plymouth Township's fire department reported wires down in five areas over the weekend. The department also assisted the Canton Township department in several areas, recording 13 alarms over the weekend which is far above normal.

Plymouth Township's department also responded to six rescue calls.

While the majority of parties and social events were canceled, this was not the case in all instances.

Police Chief Ford said his department got a call late Saturday night from an irate resident who complained his road was not clear.

"I've got guests here. How are they going to get home?" the voice on the telephone said. Then added, "I called about this condition over an hour ago and nothing has happened."

When the Plymouth Mail & Observer contacted Miller at the Wilcox Yard, he said he was glad to receive a call that brought anything but a complaint.

The storm also saw Canton firemen playing host to 10 stranded motorists who spent the night at the fire station on Cherry Hill and Canton Center Rds.

"All in all, we went through 100 cups of coffee," reported fireman Art Winkel. The guests spent the night watching television and talking, he added.

One man even came back Monday with a check for the firemen's coffee fund in appreciation for being rescued from the storm.

Canton Fire Chief Melvin Paulun said the weekend proved one of the busiest times in the department's history -- and under the worst possible conditions.

Homeowners' Federation Sets Meeting

CANTON The Canton Township Federation of Homeowners Assns. will hold a general meeting for all township residents at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 28 in the Plymouth-Canton High School auditorium.

The meeting was called to discuss township issues such as the planning advisory committee, future planning and zoning and the Mocer Project.

Birchers Fight Safety Laws

PLYMOUTH The Plymouth branch of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society has joined in a "Nix on OSHA" campaign to defeat the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

"Our purpose is to show the public the damage that is being done to business by OSHA and to show businessmen what can be done to get this latest bureaucratic monstrosity repealed," said Conrad Szydlowski, 43912 Orleans Court.

'Ridge' Profile: Working Student

A survey of students on the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College in Farmington indicates that most hold jobs, spend more than 10 hours a week on campus, aren't concerned with student activities and read the campus newspaper.

A total of 664 students of the 5,700 enrolled during the fall answered a questionnaire drawn up by the educational development committee.

"We did it to get some perspective of students relative to campus operations," said Orchard Ridge Provost S. James Manilla.

He said the questionnaire was administered as a management tool to make improvements and detect areas that need attention.

One question indicates that 60 per cent of the students were influenced to attend Orchard Ridge by sources other than a high school counselor, newspaper, OCC student or relative.

In light of declining college enrollments, Manilla said Orchard Ridge will have to investigate "what this response might imply."

The questionnaire indicates that 54 per cent of those students thought the pre-college orientation was either fair, of no help or not needed. Only 11 per cent said it was good.

Manilla said this indicates the orientation is inadequate and should be improved.

Admission procedures were labeled quick or uncomplicated by 60 per cent of the students and registration processes were said to be "easy to handle" by 45 per cent and "tolerable" by 34 per cent.

"At one time, we had a problem with registration," Manilla said. "It seems to be corrected."

The mail registration program was implemented to alleviate the long lines for registration and the red tape which once were a student complaint.

Many of the responses can be misinterpreted without some background information, Manilla noted.

For example, the responses indicate that 76 per cent of the students either didn't get or didn't understand their "cognitive map."

The maps are actually computer printouts of a student's learning patterns based on results from a series of tests. Full time students take the tests after admission, but part time students don't take them.

More than 150 students responding to the questionnaire were part time.

Their responses contribute to the negative response because they wouldn't know about the map, Manilla said.

In addition, only about 30 per cent of the students participate in the individual learning programs where the maps are used so the remaining students wouldn't be as familiar with them.

The responses also indicate that 71 per cent think there isn't any school spirit, 59 per cent think the student activities program is ineffective or doesn't concern them, and 60 per cent think the student government is ineffective or doesn't concern them.

While some students were alarmed by these responses, Manilla wasn't.

THE LIVONIA-REDFORD Theater Guild won new laurels for this year's winter production, "I Never Sang for My Father" when it took third place in a state-wide competition in Muskegon last weekend. In a scene from the play are the two leading actors, Phil Matora (left) and Howard Egan. The competition took place at a semi-annual Community Theater Association of Michigan convention. First place went to a Kalamazoo company and second to Peddy's Players of Detroit. Last month, the LRTG production won the best director award for Mrs. Mary Ann Vosgerchian in the Mort Furay Community Theater Festival in Detroit.

Pre-School Firm Merges

Acquisition of the Michigan-based Pre-School Service Corp. by Children's World, Inc. of Dallas, a nation-wide operator of educational day care centers, has been completed.

It has led to the formation of a subsidiary to be known as Children's World of Michigan, Inc., with headquarters at 29200 Shiawassee, Farmington.

Clyde Carpenter, executive vice president of Pre-School Service Corp., has become president of Children's World of Michigan. The 11 PSSC day care centers will continue to be known as the Durbin Day Nurseries and include two in Farmington and Redford.

With the PSSC schools, Children's World now has 34 centers in the Chicago, Dallas, Fort Worth, Dayton, Toledo, Minneapolis and Detroit areas. All provide full day nursery school and kindergarten programs.

CLYDE CARPENTER

Carpenter lives at 36422 Sunnydale, Livonia and spent 15 years with General Motors Acceptance Corp. prior to joining PSSC. A native of Indiana, he attended Olivet Nazarene College and Ohio State University.

To acquire the assets of PSSC, Children's World issued 204,000 shares of common stock and assumed certain liabilities.

YW Closes Generation Gap

A YWCA is a place for mothers to relax and a place for tots to have fun, and sometimes it's even more enjoyable when they do it together.

So each Monday morning the Northwest branch YW, 25940 Grand River, Redford Township, is filled with little kids and their moms. You find them exercising in the gymnasium, swimming in the pool and working out creative art projects.

A program geared to pre-schoolers and mothers takes varied forms in different fields.

Ann Marie Almstrom, instructor in the mother-tot gym class, works out specific exercises like one in which the mothers bend down and make their bodies into a bridge and the little ones crawl underneath.

"It's good for the mother's stomach and hip muscles, it helps the children with coordination and it's fun," commented Mrs. Almstrom, who has taught physical fitness in her native Sweden. She's visiting in this country for a year while her husband is on a business assignment.

Linda Potter, who teaches mother-tot swimming, needs the mothers in the pool with their small ones to help overcome possible fear of the water.

"The mothers hold them at first as they learn to put their faces in the water," she said.

"Usually by the end of a couple of eight-week sessions the youngsters are progressing to free float and dog paddle."

With art for pre-schoolers, it's a little different.

Instructor Gayle Atchison takes the children into one room and lets them experiment with various art media while their mothers get together for a rap session.

Then each week she gets together with the mothers and tells them about the project and how they can continue it at home.

"Children tend to be more creative and less inhibited without their mothers right at hand," she said. "But the mothers definitely are part of this program too."

Registrations for a new term of mother-tot classes and a great assortment of other activities at the branch begins next Monday, March 26, at 9 a.m.

Subjects offered for men and women include folk-style and classical guitar, ballroom dance, volleyball, fencing, yoga, table tennis, driver training, aircraft ground school, investments, oil painting, ceramics, bridge, swimming, golf and tennis.

Programs for women only include belly dancing, ballet, Swedish exercises, physical fitness, powder puff mechanics, sewing, crocheting and sewing knit slacks.

In addition, there is a Ladies' Day Out package offering a full day's program with nursery care available for pre-schoolers.

Classes for young people and teenagers include gym, sewing, yarncraft, ballet, art and guitar. Driver training also is offered boys and girls 16 and over.

The YWCA offers classes and individual instruction to all levels of swimmers. The adult classes are for men and women novices as well as more advanced swimmers.

Youth classes for boys and girls six to 15 are offered on Saturdays for all levels.

A Saturday recreation program is offered from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. to fit around the swimming classes and give the children a morning of fun.

Most of the classes begin the week of April 9. Swimming classes begin March 26, and registrations are being accepted this week.

All classes require membership in the YWCA. Call the Northwest branch for details of class times and days.

Woman Attorney Advises

Don't Fear Equal Rights

By BETTY MASSON

Women shouldn't be afraid of the proposed equal rights amendment, says Detroit attorney Paulette LeBost.

Sure, she agrees, it may mean longer hours and heavier weight lifting for working women. It could mean military drafting of women, she further concurs, and women with spendthrift husbands might well become liable for their debts, just as men now are responsible for debts run up by their wives.

"But can't you protect yourselves?" she asked as she addressed the recent International Women's Day program on the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College.

This outspoken proponent of the equal rights amendment said the rights it would guarantee women far outweigh the responsibilities it would put on them.

And she had some specific suggestions for women to use for self-protection.

Of the hours restrictions, Mrs. LeBost said she's heard that "more and more women want to work extra hours to support their families."

Those asked to lift excessively heavy items, she said, "will hurt their backs, and the companies will get slapped with paying disability benefits."

"They (the companies) will change their policy when they are hurt economically," she added.

The possibility of being drafted should not be "too big a problem," said Miss LeBost. "Men can get deferments... and there are women in armies in Israel and China."

Difficulties faced by married women who want credit or loans in their own names came in for a good deal of discussion in the session.

Single women can get credit, but companies worry about giving credit to married women because the man is responsible for his wife's debts. A woman going through a divorce has a particularly hard time getting credit, and widows also find it difficult to get credit cards.

"A pre-marital credit check might be just as important as a blood test," said Miss LeBost, "because if you marry someone with a bad credit rating, it can really wreck you."

"The ideal state is to be single, never divorced," said Miss LeBost.

The ERA would probably benefit women who want to get credit cards in their own names rather than their husbands', said Miss LeBost.

Right now, though, there are no laws making it mandatory for companies to issue them in the woman's name, said Miss LeBost.

"The only thing you can do is hassle the companies," she said.

An audience member pointed out that a young couple, supported by the wife while the husband was in school, had a great deal of trouble getting credit.

Another said that some mortgage companies will even ask a couple what birth control methods they are using.

Still another said that when she was divorced, her car insurance rose from $130 to more than $400.

Women who are pregnant would probably benefit from ERA, said Miss LeBost. Presently, pregnant women who are forced to quit work are disqualified for unemployment benefits 10 weeks before their due date and six weeks afterwards.

With passage of ERA, pregnancy would be considered a disability or sick leave and the women could get benefits, said Miss LeBost.

Miss LeBost also commented on what a woman should do if she feels that she is being discriminated against in employment because of her sex.

If she feels she is not being paid as much as men doing comparable jobs, she should take her complaint to the wages and hours division of the federal Department of Labor.

If she thinks she has been passed over for a promotion, Miss LeBost recommends either taking the question to the U.S. Government's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or to a lawyer.

Because of the wording of certain legislation, Miss LeBost believes that the Everyone has a sad story about the blizzardy weekend.

But our youngest daughter and the rest of the sixth-graders at her school consider theirs was the most tragic.

This grade - all three classes of it - had been planning for ages for five days of "outdoor education" at a camp near Jackson.

A good share of classroom activity has been directed into preparation for this big event - a first for the school. And if the rest of the youngsters are like ours, they've talked of little else.

So last weekend we were set to make final preparations and get the last needed items to be packed. On Saturday, both our 11-year-old and her mother braved the snowstorm to procure things like toothpaste and a shower cap.

She was ready to pack by the time I heard that the snow in that area was about double the depth of the snow here. I suggested we might get a cancellation telephone call, but she had great faith.

Sunday the reports of storm problems kept coming in, and the kids began telephoning each other to second-guess the situation. Finally, about dinnertime, came official word that the trip was being postponed - hopefully for only a day.

I made some room-mother calls to inform other parents of the sad situation.

One of these was a bit pleased. "I think my son has the mumps," she confided in a whisper. "but I haven't had the heart to tell him. This gives me a chance to get him to the doctor and be sure."

Our daughter's duffle-bag stayed packed as she kept hoping for a delayed departure.

Her school may keep its outdoor education program a long time, but those concerned aren't likely to forget its exciting start.

New Pi-Meson Beam Offers Cancer Hope

By MARGARET MILLER

Ever heard of the pi-meson beam? Probably not, but one of the country's most knowledgeable men in matters related to cancer thinks it holds tremendous promise as a therapy.

The pi-meson, still being developed, followed the x-ray and cobalt ray, according to Dr. E. Marvin Pollard, recent speaker for the Northville Town Hall.

It has to go through a half-mile of copper tubing, he told his audience, before it reaches the form that will be effective.

"Used on a tumor," he explained, "it goes into the nucleus of the cell and explodes, destroying the cell."

The difference between the pi-meson and the earlier x-ray and cobalt therapy, he said, is that it can seek out the malignant cells without damaging healthy ones in between.

Dr. Pollard emphasized, however, that the beam is not yet available for general use.

"It's still in the developmental stage, but I hold great hope for it," he said.

The pi-meson was just one of the new dimensions he described in reporting "Progress in Cancer" to the town hall audience.

The speaker, a professor in the University of Michigan school of medicine and former president of the American Cancer Society, was introduced by his son, Jim van Buren of Northville. His daughter-in-law, Nancy is active in the Northville Town Hall organization.

As research progresses, Dr. Pollard told the town hall women, "The prospect for future control of cancer in man is indeed bright."

In his talk and in answering questions at a celebrity luncheon, he dealt also with studies of external causes of cancer, possibilities of chemical therapy and activities of the American Cancer Society.

"Despite all attempts to refute evidence, he declared, 'There is absolutely no question that smoking can lead to lung cancer.'"

"People talk about a breakthrough in cancer research," he said, "and when one like this comes, they don't want to accept it."

Actually, he added, while the threat of lung cancer is great for the heavy smoker, emphysema poses a far greater threat.

Exposure to asbestos has more recently been uncovered as a cancer cause, said Dr. Pollard. He pointed out, however, that evidence shows that it takes 20 years of regular exposure, such as working in an asbestos factory, to bring about the disease.

Dr. Pollard said that there is considerable evidence that certain types of cancer are related to viruses, but added that "proof of virus as a cause of cancer still is largely lacking."

Chemical treatment as cancer therapy is extremely complicated, Dr. Pollard said. "Since 1955, the number of compounds that have been screened is 325,000," he explained, "but only about 65 a year can be tested thoroughly. Then a close watch has to be kept for side-effects."

Nevertheless, he said, chemo-therapy used in cases of acute leukemia have kept many children alive for years.

Dr. Pollard said that, although the value of a yearly cervix check-up for women has been discounted in some places, he agrees with the American Cancer Society position that a Pap test once a year is necessary.

"Our records show that only about 50 per cent of the women in the country ever have had the test," he said. "If the test could be available to all, the mortality from cancer of the cervix could be reduced to zero."

Western Wayne YW Seeks New Members

Membership applications are now available at the YWCA of Western Wayne County, 1034 Monroe, Dearborn.

The YWCA is holding its membership drive this month, and is not only looking for new members, but also for volunteers and for suggestions.

Women are needed to be advisors to clubs, to help with special groups, to teach and share their skills and knowledge, to serve on committees implementing programs and seeking out needs in their communities.

Anyone wishing to volunteer or to offer suggestions, ideas or comments on any phase of the YWCA should call or visit the office.

The YWCA of Western Wayne County serves the communities of Livonia, Garden City, Westland, Wayne, Romulus, Inkster, Dearborn Heights, Dearborn and Taylor.

Although the central office building is in Dearborn, the program is decentralized and brought to the different areas by program directors. Facilities such as churches, schools and community centers are used. In this way, charges are kept to a minimum and money is used on programs.

Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Wayne comprise one unit in this grouping. programs include classes, clubs, special interest groups and workshops.

To help plan and execute the work, a council of area women serve on the board of directors.

These include Mrs. R.R. Rutkowski, Mrs. Larry Michrina, Mrs. Sally Sonkiss, Mrs. Linda Rose and Mrs. Richard Norbert, of Livonia; Mrs. N. Frank Roleson of Garden City; and Mrs. Ulysses Sims, Mrs. Dennis Ford, Mrs. Thomas Martin, Mrs. Lynda Magee, Mrs. James Hodge, Mrs. Thomas Martin and Mrs. F.E. Johnson, all of Westland.

The YWCA is a group work agency supported mainly by the United Foundation through the United Community Services.

The difference in expenditure and income must be met through activity fees, program charges and memberships.

Memberships are urged even though the buyer does not use the facilities of the YWCA. Women are asked to join as evidence of their support of the YWCA, its programs and its ideals.

These ideals include bringing women and girls together across community lines without regard to background, money, ethnic origin, race or creed.

The philosophy of the Western Wayne County YWCA is shown in projects for the culturally deprived, the socially isolated and the hard-to-reach.

The YWCA works with ADC mothers, children with learning disabilities, unmarried teenage mothers, children from broken homes and low income groups.

In addition the YWCA trains women and girls to take responsibilities in their communities, learn new skills, meet new people and develop their leadership potential.

Among these programs is the Y-ette Club at Riley Junior High School which, besides planning activities for its own members, holds regular fun nights for retarded children at Cooper School.

YW Wives are involved in learning more about laws concerning women, school issues, volunteer opportunities, service projects and having brunch with the symphony or lunch at Meadow Brook.

There is a "Homemakers' Holiday" at Rosedale Presbyterian Church, Livonia, where instruction is given in yoga, dried flower arrangements, macrame, golf and popular crafts.

Across community lines, there are clubs such as the Gourmet Club, the Potluckers, Camping Club and the Finish-It Club for those interested in crafts.

Michigan Civil Rights Commission's jurisdiction in cases of discrimination because of sex will be questioned. At the moment, it suffers from a tremendous backlog and lack of staff as well.

"Sex discrimination cases take forever," she warned. But when asked about the difficulties of proving discrimination, she said, "Don't buy garbage from the companies ... go ahead and file."

And she predicted that soon a qualified woman athlete will file suit against a university claiming that there is discrimination in the awarding of athletic scholarships.

Delta Zetas Meet In GC

The Delta Zeta alumnae of Western Wayne will hold a candle-making demonstration at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 22, in the home of Mrs. Harry Spencer, 6524 Dillon, Garden City.

The demonstration will be given by Mrs. Maryann Rossmar. Each member is asked to bring a glass container for her candle.

Canned goods and paper products will be collected for an Easter basket to be given to a needy family.

Mrs. Lyman Baker of Westland and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson of Livonia are the co-hostesses.

Couple Feted For 25th

Mr. and Mrs. L.C. Weathers Jr. of Livonia were guests of honor at a surprise celebration in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Hosts for the party were their married children, Mr. and Mrs. L.C. Weathers III and Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Bates of Westland. The couple renewed their marriage vows with the Rev. William Ritter officiating and Pamela Bates and Leland C. Weathers III serving as attendants.

Parents To Discuss Plans For New School

A meeting will be held at 8 p.m., Tuesday, March 27, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moran, 42330 Clemons Road, Plymouth, to discuss plans for an alternative school. All interested parents are welcome.

They may also call Mr. and Mrs. Sam Blackford, 694 Burroughs, Plymouth, for a written description of the objectives of an alternative school and an outline of a sample school day.

A number of parents already have met several times to share their concerns and to begin plans for such a school.

One parent explained: "We want to offer an opportunity where the natural inquisitiveness and joy of discovery that our children have can flourish; where our children can see the relationship between what is learned in the classroom and its actual use in the everyday world; and where they become intellectually excited."

If the school is to open in September, parents of at least 40 pupils must commit themselves by May 1.

The organizers also are looking for an appropriate faculty for the school. They need a large indoor classroom area and an outdoor open space such as a parking lot.

Cost per child is estimated at $600. Plans call for a sliding tuition scale based on a family's ability to pay and a rate scale for families with more than one child enrolled.

Contributions from interested citizens might further reduce the cost per pupil.

Parents will play an important role in the school program. They will participate in the actual teaching process along with certified teachers, and share responsibility for gathering learning resources and maintaining the facility.

LWV Will Discuss 'Land Use'

"Land Use" will be the topic of a discussion at the Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters general meeting at 8 p.m., Thursday, March 22, in Epiphany Lutheran Church, 41390 Five Mile, Plymouth.

A committee, headed by Mrs. Thomas Walts, will discuss existing legislation on land use, future plans, principal use of land, population growth and priorities in land use for meeting environmental needs. The committee includes Mrs. William McAninch, Mrs. Anthony Verduce, Mrs. Earl Philip and Mrs. William Dayton.

Guests are welcome. Anyone wishing information about the league may contact Mrs. Charles Ayers, 518 Morgan Circle, Northville.

Says Town Hall Speaker Freedom's Wonderful!

By JAN WILLIAMS

From a peasant village in Russia to a 17-room home in Louisville, Ky. was quite a move for Nila Magidoff. But it wasn't an easy one. And she doesn't take for granted what she gained in the process.

Speaking for the Farmington Town Hall series, Mrs. Magidoff told the audience freedom should be appreciated.

"When many people here can't find happiness, they blame America. But the problem is not with America; it is within themselves."

Mrs. Magidoff found a new life here. When she lived in Russia as a young girl, she dreamed of traveling and living in Moscow. But most of all she dreamed of going to America.

Her dreams began to come true when she arrived in Moscow by way of a cattle train. She went to work in a tea factory and attended Moscow University at night.

But the urge to travel was still with her and she joined the merchant marine as a sailor. She traveled to Europe, Japan and China, but not America.

But that dream, too, was in

FARMINGTON SOROPTIMIST Ruth Madigan chats with Town Hall speaker Nila Magidoff during the Russian-born lecturer's recent visit to the Farmington series. (Evert photo)

the making. In the Moscow skating rink she had her first contact with an American. Robert Magidoff, an NBC correspondent in Moscow during and after World War II.

Magidoff fell at her feet twice, not by his own choice, but she picked him up, and two years later they were married.

It was by no means a typical marriage. Marrying a foreigner was dangerous for her. They could not be seen together at his apartment nor hers, and they had no car. Finally they found a solution. They would meet at the train station where they could run to each other's arms, just as everyone else was doing.

Immediately after they were married, she applied for a visa to America. She waited and waited. Her husband went to America three times without her and still no visa.

"As in the true Russian way, they never say no, but they never say yes," she said. When the Germans invaded Russia in World War II, an American ambassador made a bargain with the Russian government. In exchange for her visa, they gave the Russians two tanks of high octane gas.

So she was finally on her way to the land of her dreams and her first American city was San Francisco. From there she went to New York where she lived while her husband was still working in Moscow for NBC.

When she returned to Russia for a visit, she said, her friends there could not begin to comprehend the freedoms she enjoyed in America.

Later she went with her husband to Louisville where she accepted a position teaching Russian at the University of Louisville.

"My Russian accent may sound funny mixed with a southern accent, but this is my country now and I'm going to be a part of it."

Mrs. Magidoff said she hopes as long as we live we will be free from fear.

"Our system is better than the Russian," she declared, "and I will fight to my death for freedom and democracy."

10,000 Neighbors Help Handicapped

The Wayne County Easter Seal Society has launched its annual neighbor-to-neighbor campaign, which involves 10,000 neighbors in an effort to raise funds for services to the handicapped.

The campaign allows each participant to make a contribution and then pass the colorful kit on to her neighbor. After circulating the entire block, the kit is returned to the block chairman.

As a public service, all banks in Wayne County have provided their offices as a drop-off point for the completed kits.

"Your generous response to this campaign will enable us to continue our vital programs to the handicapped and expand in areas where additional services are needed," said Earl Morrall, 1973 campaign chairman.

"We serve thousands of handicapped each year," he said. "Your Wayne County Easter Seal Society is the only Easter Seal Society serving Wayne County."

The society is an affiliate of the National Easter Seal Society, which has served the handicapped for more than 50 years.

It offers a loan closet of equipment for the handicapped, craft classes for crippled children and adults, special education classes, clubs for the handicapped, transportation services, an information and referral program, a summer day camp for handicapped youngsters and a counseling program for parents.

The society makes no charge for any services provided. Everyone interested is invited to visit the society's center at 2545 Hyde Park Drive, Inkster.

Some people do fine without the Payroll Savings Plan.

It depends on your dreams. If all they need to come true is a dime here and a quarter there, you'll do fine with a sturdy piggy bank. But if you've got some bigger plans, like a vacation, college tuition for the kids, or a new car, you need something more.

You need a savings program that delivers steady growth and healthy interest. You need the Payroll Savings Plan. Just sign up for it at work. Then an amount you specify is automatically set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. You can use your take-home pay for daily expenses. And at the same time you'll be building funds for the future.

U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. For people with big dreams.

Take stock in America.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Now U.S. Bonds pay 4 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. 10 months 14 1/2% (the first year). Bonds are repaid if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Brooks-Perkins Profits Climb

Brooks & Perkins Inc. of Southfield and Livonia reports net profit for the six months ended Jan. 31 was $252,000 or 37 cents per share, compared with the previous year's $183,000 or 26 cents per share. It represents increases of 38 per cent and 42 per cent respectively.

Sales volume rose to $8.1 million, up from $6.2 million last year.

"We attribute the higher sales volume to substantial increases in shipments of air cargo equipment, particularly air cargo pallets, and also to significant increases in shipments of our industrial materials handling products compared to a year ago," said Edward H. Perkins Jr., president. "The greater profits are a direct result of the increased sales volume."

LYLE E. MULLIN, 14269 Yale, Livonia, has been promoted to general foreman in the quality control department of GM's Fisher Body plant in Livonia. Mullin, who has 18 years of experience with General Motors, was a process engineer. In his new assignment he will be acting shift superintendent.

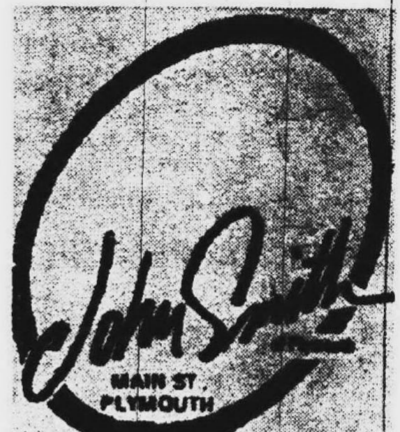

LEO V. TADAY, 19001 Merriman, Livonia, has been promoted to administrative assistant to the plant manager at GM's Fisher Body plant in Livonia. Taday was shift plant superintendent and has been with General Motors for 46 years.

WHY HAVE A HOUSE? by DOC KEETH

Think of all the money spent on homes! Why do we have houses anyway? Let's examine some possible reasons:

Because it's the only chance for a lot of us to have nice fat mortgages? Not a very good reason.

Because your wife has to have a place for you to rearrange furniture for her? Might be okay for her, but a poor reason for you to have a house.

Because you want a place where you can take your shoes off and scratch if you like? Good reason, but not the best and basic reason for you to have a house.

The simple truth is that a house's first duty is to shelter us from the weather. (I can see you now saying, "What a startling revelation!") But don't laugh. I'm making a point.

The point being that we want our homes to be a delightful little bubble of climate isolated from the heat, cold, dirt and noise without. Yet, often we build some walls and a roof and expect them to do the whole job. They don't.

Why not go all the way and equip your home so that the air inside is just the way you want it the year round? Next to walls, roof and floor this equipment is the most important part of a home.

I refer to Lennox central heating and air conditioning, sold by you-know-who. See me about it. If I'm not at the office, I'll be home rearranging furniture.

LWV Prepares County Booklet

An easy to read, non-technical booklet on the structure of Wayne County government has been published by the seven Leagues of Women Voters of Wayne County.

Entitled "Know Your Wayne County," the booklet updates similar information on county government published by the LWV more than 10 years ago. It describes the organization and functions of county government in areas such as welfare, health, court systems, the Wayne County Road Commission, and the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Each of the Wayne County leagues took as its responsibilities a particular section of the booklet.

The editorial committee for "Know Your Wayne County" consisted of Henrietta Jenks, chairman, and Margaret Terry, both of Dearborn; Beverly McAninch of Plymouth; and Bebe Lindhout of Livonia.

"Know Your Wayne County" is available to the public for $1. from the publication chairman of the Livonia League, Mrs. Irving Rock, 15817 Snadyside.

MSU Honors 4 Livonians

Four Livonia students at Michigan State University achieved straight-A averages during the fall term.

They were among only 489 MSU students making perfect scholastic records.

They are: Sandra L. Certo, of 13971 Hillcrest, a junior majoring in mathematics; David V. Balkner, of 31176 Hathaway, a junior majoring in psychology; William J. Himm, of 18001 Floral, a senior majoring in mathematics and statistics; and Lawrence Sladewski, of 19183 Milburn, a sophomore majoring in business law and office administration.

GARY STEELE, a student at Livonia's Cleveland Elementary School, recently portrayed Abraham Lincoln in a play entitled "Let Freedom Reign." First and second graders taught by Mrs. Nancy Howell and Mrs. Barbara Kruszewski staged the play. (Photo by Bob Wesley)

Pair Earns College Honors

A sister and brother from Livonia, Constance R. and Duane Clifford Thor, were included on the dean's list for the first semester at Anderson (Ind.) College.

The recognition requires a three point average based on a four point scale.

The students are children of Rev. and Mrs. J. Clifford Thor, 37370 Plymouth Road, Anderson is a Church of God liberal arts school.

Miss Thor, a graduate of Stevenson High, is a junior majoring in business education. Her brother, a Churchill High graduate, is a sophomore anticipating a future in youth ministry.

Karen Pierce Is Admitted To College

LIVONIA Karen Elizabeth Pierce of Livonia is among 115 Michigan State University students admitted to the Honors College winter term.

Miss Pierce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Pierce, 35449 Oakdale, and a 1971 Stevenson High School graduate. She is a sophomore majoring in French education.

The Honors College is open to students who have attained sophomore standing with a high academic average and have shown commitment to both breadth and depth in their undergraduate studies.

Area Musicians Will Be Invited To Perform Amusements

A monthly concert featuring youngsters between the ages of nine and 16 is among the projects being planned by those interested in forming a Livonia Musicale.

The new group will be a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs, as in the Farmington Musicale and the Tuesday Musicale of Detroit.

It will hold its charter meeting in Schoolcraft College at 8 p.m., Friday, March 23. All interested persons, performers and non-performers who are interested in music, are invited to meet in F-130, the Forum Building, on the campus, 18600 Schoolcraft, Livonia.

There will be a short introductory business meeting, and then, as is the musicale custom, there will be a short concert.

Rosemary Jackson, popular Livonia soprano, will be the featured artist.

Mrs. Richard Shannon of Detroit, district vice president of the federation of music clubs, will be at the meeting.

Plans for the club's formation and projects have been discussed over the past month by Mrs. Robert Cascaden, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Clyde Mehr, Mrs. Sean Purtil, Mrs. Richard Doran and Mrs. Nelson Umbel.

The concert is being sponsored by the Labor Zionist Alliance of Metropolitan Detroit, 28555 Middle Belt, Farmington, and the Workmen's Circle Organization, 18340 W. Seven Mile, Detroit. Tickets are on sale at the

Yiddish Show Set

"Lebedik Un Yiddish," a program of Yiddish and Hebrew songs, skits, monologues and humorous ensembles, will be presented at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, March 24, in the Oak Park High School Auditorium.

The aims and programs of the national organization include such things as the awarding of many scholarships, festivals of all sorts, promoting musical activities in the armed forces, providing music in hospitals, folk music research, composition contests and sponsorship of the work of American women composers.

DUO CONCERT organists, Ted Alan Worth and Andrew Crow, will give a concert in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Livonia, on Sunday, March 25.

Worth/Crowing About? Find Out March 25

The world's only duo concert organists, the Worth/Crow Duo, will play a concert in St. Paul Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia, at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, March 25. Tickets at $2 each are now on sale at the church office.

The duo (which chooses the motto "Worth/Crowing About!") will perform separate programs of popular and classical organ pieces and combine forces in a special section, arranged by Andrew Crow, for both organs together.

Ted Alan Worth, the classical organist of the duo, will illustrate the development of organ literature from Bach and Purcell to the 20th Century.

In addition to his brilliant playing and interesting commentary on the compositions, Worth is noted for his hilarious view of the organ world.

Crow then takes over with a demonstration of the theater organ and gives a musical picture of the development of this instrument. He accompanies a silent film featuring some of the funniest and most famous stars.

Today (as Crow's arrangements of some very contemporary music will illustrate), the theater organ is still very much a part of musical life, being almost indispensable to every rock and -roll group in existence.

After intermission, the organists will play semi-classical and popular pieces, ending with their own arrangement of "Harper Valley P.T.A."

What To Do After Burglar Strikes

With burglaries in the United States occurring on the average of about once every 30 seconds, more and more homeowners are suffering the traumatic experience of coming home to find a housebreaker has paid a call, reports the Insurance Information Institute.

In 10 Midwestern states during 1971, the latest year for which complete statistics are available, the FBI reports that more than 400,000 burglaries were attempted or committed. Residential burglaries tend to account for about 60 per cent, with daytime breaks showing an increase nationwide of 14 per cent.

With the statistics unhappily mounting against the property owner, the Institute offers the following guide, particularly for those who discover that the burglar already has done his work:

Notify your police department immediately. Leave your home exactly as it was when the crime was discovered to help the police make a concise report and proper investigation.

A complete inventory of the contents of your home is most valuable at this point to enable you to give the police a detailed account of what was taken and its value. If you don't have such an inventory, get busy right now and prepare one. List the item, color, manufacturer, any serial number, purchase price, date of purchase and where it was bought.

After the police have gone, contact your insurance agent. He has a record of your insurance policies and will give you professional advice on what to do in making a claim under the theft provision of your homeowners policy.

Again, an inventory of your possessions is important. It is difficult for your agent or the insurance company claims adjuster to help to the extent they would like if you cannot remember what was stolen or furnish some documentation of its value.

The inventory made in a calm, methodical and unburied manner will be far more accurate than one made after the fact, when you are upset and suffering from the shock of your loss.

Under your homeowners policy, the total amount of insurance on the contents of your home is 50 per cent of the insurance on the dwelling. If your home is insured for $30,000, your homeowners policy covers the contents for $15,000.

In cases where the home owner may think this latter amount may be too little, additional coverage can be provided. For apartment dwellers, no specific coverage is automatically afforded. Policy amounts are provided at the request of the tenant based on certain underwriting limitations.

There are limits on the amount of coverage for certain items written into most policies. For example, jewelry and furs are limited to $500 in the aggregate. There is a $100 limit on money, stamp and coin collections. A $500 limit is imposed on securities, bills and letters of credit. The $500 limit also applies to watercraft and trailers.

To obtain additional coverage on these items, they must be insured under a scheduled property floater with appraisals attached to the policy. This all-risk physical loss policy will protect your special possessions since your insurance company will have an accurate idea of their true worth.

The silver service you inherited or received as a wedding gift is covered under your homeowners policy. However, antique silver appreciates in value over the years, making it more valuable today than it was when originally bought.

The same applies to works of art. Thus, a professional appraisal made before the burglar strikes is the best means of establishing the true value of whatever is stolen. Again, proof is the name of the game, for an insurance company must have evidence to justify your claim.

Most homeowners policies are sold with a deductible of $50 or $100. This means you agree to assume the first $50 or $100 of the loss yourself. The deductible applies after depreciation is considered.

The insurance adjuster is highly trained, and the most important factor in determining depreciation is good judgment. Depreciation will vary with usage, which in turn varies with each individual and family.

Articles composed of highly durable materials, such as gold, silver, platinum or other precious metals do not deteriorate appreciably, while those of less durable composition may depreciate 10 per cent a year. Certain style changes in clothing have the effect of lowering the value of the item drastically, despite the fact that the material itself might not be worn excessively.

An example of depreciation used in adjusting insurance losses can be cited in the case of a stolen stereo. The reasonable average useful life of a record player is 10 years. This means it will depreciate 10 per cent each year of use. A refrigerator's average useful life is 15 years and will depreciate seven per cent a year.

The insurance adjuster computes the purchase price of the item based on your bill of sale, canceled check or payment record. He then figures the depreciation and the amount of the deductible in your policy to arrive at a fair and equitable settlement.

It is at this point that many people realize their insurance company is not going to replace the stolen TV with a new one. In the case of a new one, yes, less the deductible in your policy.

In many instances such items as rings, necklaces, pins and furs are overinsured. A housewife might insure her diamond ring for $1,000 although it cost only $800 and has been appraised at that amount. The insurer is free to replace the ring with one of like quality obtained from a reputable jeweler and is not obliged to pay the face amount of the policy, in this instance $1,000.

Insurers discourage overinsuring and make every effort to write policies reflecting the true value of the insured article. Furs, mink coats and the like also may be replaced to those of like quality from reputable furriers upon proof of loss.

No one profits from burglary except the thief. No matter how much insurance a home owner carries, he is still going to absorb the deductible amounts and presumably will have to replace the stolen articles.

In the case of articles having absolutely no monetary value but are irreplaceable for sentimental reasons, he is going to suffer the heartache of loss.

The institute suggests the chances of a burglar visiting your home will be minimized if you will exercise a few common sense precautions.

Don't invite a burglar in by leaving doors and windows unlocked. Burglary is a crime of stealth, and the more trouble a thief has in gaining entry the easier he will become discouraged.

Leave lights burning at night and use double locks on doors. Put valuables in a safe and have a neighbor watch the house if you going to be away.

See your insurance agent about "Operation Identification." This theft-guard program consists of engraving your driver's license number on all articles of value in your home for easier identification later by police. Decals for doors and windows act as an effective deterrent to the would-be thief.

Above all, the institute stresses the importance of an inventory and retention of appraisals and proofs of purchase of all household items.

Lawns Need Pickup

As spring warmth wakens your lawn, several aids may be appropriate. If you didn't fertilize in late autumn, plant food could be needed.

"Slow-release" lawn fertilizers are suggested as warm weather approaches.

Foliage from autumn may have been scorched by winter weather. If so, no harm in removing it. A close clipping reveals sprightly new shoots. With the insulating barrier of old vegetation gone, the soil warms rapidly, encouraging attractive fresh growth.

If your lawn is thin, or suffers from winter damage, or consists of varieties with which you are not particularly satisfied, overseed with top quality lawnseed. In most cases half the normal rate suffices.

Seed should contact soil; if the lawn is thatchy (has an accumulation of organic duff at the base of the sod), dig the thatch out with a power rake and sweep it up for the compost pile before over-seeding.

Spring is also a time for weed control. Pre-emergence crabgrass preventers must be spread before crabgrass sprouts. Crabgrass seed germinates when the soil temperature reaches about 60 degrees F.

Preventers will not be needed in the shade, since crabgrass cannot survive there. Nor will a lawn made dense by proper fertilization, bolster seeding, and reasonably high mowing let crabgrass have much of a chance.

Polishing Improves House Plants

Dusting, washing or polishing the foliage of your house plants improves their appearance and may improve growth, say Michigan State University horticulturists.

There are many plant polishes available in garden stores or floral shops. Always follow the manufacturer's recommendations.

ALL-AMERICA WINNERS, these Carefree geraniums make strong, rapid growth. Unlike other geraniums, they come true to color when grown from seed.

'Carefree' Geraniums Are Grown From Seed

"Carefree" -- a welcome word for home gardeners -- is also the name for a new race of geraniums of which three different colors have won All-America Selections awards: two silver medals and one bronze medal.

What makes these geraniums carefree?

First, their freedom from the usual geranium diseases. Because they are grown from seeds rather than from cuttings, they do not inherit troubles from the parent plant.

Next, their strong and rapid growth. You never saw geraniums grow so fast! These characteristics are results of their hybrid parentage.

Third, their self-branching habit. As they grow they produce numerous side branches without any help. There is no need to pinch out tips in order to make plants grow bushy and compact.

Fourth, their bloom production. This after all, is the main reason for growing geraniums. The Carefree will produce two or three flower heads for every one that grows on an ordinary geranium.

Individual florets are as large as those of the finest geranium varieties; flower heads often are larger.

Fifth, their color range. There are salmon, scarlet, pink, and white in the range of Carefree geraniums. In addition, there's the prettiest picotee, white with pink petal edges.

Geraniums seeds are very fine. Scatter them over the surface of a flower pot filled with 1/3 sand, 1/3 granulated peat moss and 1/3 good garden soil, then sprinkle over them a thin layer of sand to cover. Finally, with the palm of your hand, firm the seeds gently into the soil.

Water after planting and as often as is needed by setting the planted pot in a container of water and allowing the moisture to permeate to the soil surface.

Don't allow the soil to dry until after seeds have sprouted -- from two to eight weeks from time of sowing.

The pot should be covered with a sheet of glass or popped into a plastic bag and set in a shady place in a 60 degree temperature until seeds sprout. After that, remove glass or plastic.

As soon as seedlings are large enough to handle, plant each in a two-inch pot in a mixture of half granulated peat moss and half good garden soil. Shift to larger pots as needed.

Zabaglione Shortcake is Special

By ELLY

The ultimate in springtime desserts is strawberry shortcake topped with a classic European sauce, zabaglione.

The recipe takes only a little more time to prepare than regular strawberry shortcake, but the result is a continental specialty that's an occasion-maker - the dessert for an important luncheon or dinner party.

It's nice to know that good nutrition can go along with fancy eating. Enriched flour in the cake batter gives the B vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, plus the mineral, iron.

STRAWBERRY CAKE ZABAGLIONE

2 c. enriched flour
1 1/4 c. sugar
1 T. baking powder
1 t. salt
1/2 t. baking soda
1/2 c. shortening
1/4 c. milk
2 eggs
1 pt. strawberries, washed, halved and sliced
1 t. vanilla extract
Red food coloring
Confectioners' sugar (optional)

Zabaglione
Stir together dry ingredients. Blend in shortening and milk. Beat two minutes with electric mixer at medium speed or 300 strokes by hand. Blend in eggs, 1/2 cup sliced strawberries and vanilla. Beat two minutes at medium speed or 300 strokes by hand. Stir in food coloring to make batter pink. Pour into two greased eight-inch round cake pans. Bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes, or until done. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pans. Cool completely. Cover one cake layer with remaining strawberries; top with second layer. Dust with confectioners' sugar, if desired. Prepare zabaglione and serve immediately, spooning zabaglione over individual servings.

ZABAGLIONE:

2 egg yolks
1 c. confectioners' sugar
1/2 c. Marsala or sherry
Beat egg yolks until very light. Beat in sugar. Cook over boiling water, beating constantly with wire whip, until foamy. Add wine. Continue cooking, beating constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat; cool. If fluffier sauce is desired, beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into cooled egg yolk mixture. Serve immediately.

NOTE: Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

The strawberry cake zabaglione serves eight to 10.

PEANUT BANANA CAKE

1/2 c. shortening
1 c. granulated sugar
2 eggs
1/4 c. milk
1 c. mashed ripe bananas
1/2 c. all-purpose flour
1/2 t. baking powder
1 t. salt
1/4 c. chopped cocktail peanuts
Cream shortening and sugar until light and creamy fluffy. Beat in eggs. Stir in milk and bananas. Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Stir peanuts into cake batter. Stir dry ingredients into cake batter. Beat until smooth and well blended. Pour batter into two greased layer pans. Bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool in pan for five minutes. Then loosen edges and cool on rack. Add topping.

CRUNCH TOPPING

1/2 c. coconut flakes
1/2 c. softened butter
2 egg yolks
1/3 c. light cream
1 t. vanilla extract
1 lb. sifted confectioners' sugar
1/2 c. finely chopped cocktail peanuts
Stir coconut in a skillet over low heat until golden brown. Cool. Combine butter, egg yolks, cream and vanilla. Gradually beat in enough confectioners' sugar to make frosting the right consistency to spread. Mix coconut and peanuts. Spread some of the frosting between cake layers. Sprinkle some of the peanut-coconut mixture over the frosting. Frost top and sides of cake and sprinkle with remaining peanut-coconut mixture.

NRC, Legislator Team Up On Project

Government tries to do so much, and does much of that so ineptly, that a lot of what we in the mass media report is critical or negative.

So it's a real pleasure to report, for a change, that some people in government are doing a few things right. Even more cheering is that fact that in this case a legislator and an administrative department teamed up and actually cooperated.

The case in point is the newly published "Michigan Guide to Easy Canoeing" published by the state Dept. of Natural Resources with a legislative assist from Sen. Carl Pursell of Plymouth.

What's so great about a canoeing guide? Quite a bit, when you know the inside story.

Canoeing has become a big thing, with our increasing amount of leisure time and the ecology kick that young people are on. I don't have the hard facts, but I got a strong impression from recent boat shows that canoe sales are shooting up.

There's a problem, however, on four extremely popular rivers - the Au Sable, Pere Marquette, Pine and Manistee. On weekends during May and June, in particular, they look like a naval invasion; there's a lot of careless fooling around; trout fishermen get annoyed and even hit; property owners find a lot of litter on their shores Monday morning.

The knee-jerk reaction of the Natural Resources Commission was to propose a set of restrictions on those four rivers. The NRC held hearings (one that your home town paper covered was conducted by a bored staff man with no NRC members present), and a lot of local people, from Farmington most notably, protested. The rules were modified a little and passed, and are now being tested in court.

Sen. Pursell, meanwhile, was getting a lot of mail on the subject. One idea he read about was that the state should encourage canoeists to use other rivers in the state besides the four extremely popular ones in the northern lower peninsula.

Bill Mullendore, the information man in the DNR, noted that the last statewide canoeing guide was just about out of print.

Looking at DNR records for the past few decades, Mullendore also noted that each of four successive canoeing guides was smaller, less detailed and more cheaply printed than the previous one.

Pursell, a member of the Senate appropriations committee, came through with some funds for a new set of canoe maps. A 26-page pamphlet has been published with information on no less than 44 rivers. It's available from the DNR in Lansing.

So if you don't want to fight the Zilwaukee Bridge traffic on a trip to the four most popular rivers, consider:

River Raisin in Lenawee County: "There are some wild stretches. Much of the trip is through interesting farmland."

Kalamazoo River: Either the Albion to Battle Creek stretch or from Allegan to Lake Michigan: "the trip is quite interesting from Allegan to Saugatuck... wildlife is quite plentiful... you pass beside the Swan Creek Wildlife Refuge."

St. Joseph and Paw Paw Rivers in southwestern Michigan.

Thornapple River, west of Lansing: "Some trout... smallmouth bass, pike and muskies." The congressman I once worked for made an impressive case in trying to sell the U.S. Interior Dept. on designating this a scenic wild river.

Maple River, north of Lansing: "Takes you through the Maple River State Game Area with its variety of wildlife."

Flat River, between Lansing and Grand Rapids: "Runs through the Langston and Flat River State Game areas and offers excellent opportunities to see wildlife... fair to good smallmouth bass fishing."

Grand River, on either side of Grand Rapids: "A beautiful river with some outstanding scenic attractions."

Wayne Dunlap, the Plymouth Symphony musical director who is now at Grand Valley State College, now lives on the Grand's banks and testifies to its beauty.

The Chippewa River System, the Pine and Tittabawassee rivers, all around Midland; the Shiawassee, which starts around Holly; the Rifle; the Muskegon; those upper peninsula rivers -- you can have fun on any of them if you know about 'em.

Granted, the controversy over the restrictions on the Au Sable, Pere Marquette, Manistee and Pine isn't resolved yet.

Still, we can see that a recreational interest such as canoeing can get help, even without pressure from vested interests; that the populated southern portions of the state can get some attention; and the executive and legislative branches are capable of working together.

All of that is good news.

NOW WE HAVE A NEW GUIDE...

Is Huber Unfair In Tax Attack?

Once again Michigan's Don Quixote, U.S. Rep. Robert Huber (R-Troy) has mounted the crotchety steed which took him to Washington D.C., anti-busing, this time to attack Gov. Milliken's recently passed gasoline tax package.

Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority's General Manager Thomas Lipscomb has accurately described this attack as a "red herring" issue designed to distort the tax in the public eye.

Unfortunately, because of the emotionalism of the busing issue, it is a distortion that could, if it gains popular support, destroy one of the most progressive bills to come out of Lansing in years.

Huber has joined in a petition drive to repeal the tax package under the guise that funds marked for mass transportation may be used to finance cross-district busing of school children. This fear was recently kindled when Wayne Circuit Court Judge Charles S. Farmer ruled unconstitutional a section of the law which prohibited the use of tax revenues for busing.

Both Lipscomb and William Marshall, SEMTA board chairman, have pointed to sections of the bill which should dispel the busing fear.

• Public transportation, as defined in the bill, means transportation service to the general public by transit vehicles.

• "Transit vehicles" provide a service designed to serve the general public paying fares individually.

Lipscomb has also shown that public buses cost three to four times as much as school buses because they must travel 350,000 miles in a 10-year life span while school buses travel only 60,000 miles in the same period.

To seal the argument, Lipscomb says that public buses could hardly be used to transport school children because students must travel during the same peak hours as working parents.

An inventory of Huber's side-kicks in the attack on this progressive windmill, which would give SEMTA $8.2 million a year to help subsidize bus companies in the metropolitan area, should bring suspicion to the mind of anyone who wants to see improved transportation become a reality.

A leading squire is State Sen. James Fleming (R-Jackson) who opposed the gas tax bill when it originally was voted on in the State Senate. It is obvious he is using the busing issue as a ploy to destroy the tax.

Added to this entourage is Russell Gould, "Michigan Americanism Council" chairman, who organized the petition drive which must acquire 133,000 signatures before the end of the month if the repeal question is to appear on the November 1974 ballot.

The council is just another weird organization, the likes of which have plagued the American political scene for decades by distorting issues through exploitation of hatreds and simple-minded emotional appeals.

It's time for suburbanites to stop reacting irrationally every time the mention of busing is thrust before them. Efficient transportation is a "must" for southeastern Michigan, and one of the ways of achieving that goal is through support of the gas tax package.

Huber and his gang have used the busing issue more than enough to benefit their own political careers. It is suggested, if approached by someone to sign this petition, kindly point out the nearest windmill and keep walking.

Women's Lib Can Make Life Interesting And Different

When Margaret Schaeffer, the popular Farmington Township trustee, was appointed to the Workman's Compensation Commission, a friend asked her: "Are you going to get them to change the name to 'Work-PERSON's Compensation'?"

The friend was probably being facetious that time, but Observerland ladies, under the influence of women's liberation, are taking long, hard looks at "Sexism" in our culture.

As chief honcho on this newspaper's copy desk, I'm being forced to take new looks at the American language.

A disciplinarian who put up with me in a high school English class insisted "it's a man's world." Therefore, we always spoke of the "chairman," and on second reference to a hypothetical pupil, we always spoke of "he." (The teacher, by the way, was single and female.)

So I never saw anything wrong with referring to a leader as "chairman" or a presumed future president as "he." Until lately.

Some of the political groups trying to make a hit with the voters will send in news articles referring to a female leader as "chairperson." A family announcing a girl's engagement listed her as "concertmistress" of an orchestra.

Reporters start referring to Southfield's Jean McDonnell and Westland's Justine Barns as "councilwomen." You get the idea?

My conservative instincts rebel. As a lover of history, I think newspapers should be written in standard English that scrapbook keepers and historians can understand a century or five centuries from now.

Moreover, I see nothing "sexist" about "chairman" and "concertmaster." Finally, it's hard as heck to fit "chairperson" and "concertmistress" into a one column headline.

In a Great Books discussion recently, a friend, under the influence of lib, got annoyed at the way Plato referred to the chief god and the ideal philosopher as "he." The lady in question re-read a particularly offensive passage, substituting "she" for the pronoun referring to the chief god and the ideal philosopher. It sounded kinda funny. Actually, it sounded extremely funny.

Fred DeLano writes

Tip Of Topper To Observerland Cagers

Schoolboy basketball has come far in Michigan since the years when cage addicts would point to Indiana, Ohio and Illinois as the true hot-beds and incubators of champions.

Nothing, of course, brings the sport into focus quite as much as the state tournaments every March, and in town after town across the nation's mid-section folks become frenzied as their youngsters strive for survival.

Competition in Michigan will feature both the quarterfinals and semifinals in all four classes this week. Then there will be an unfortunate week's delay before this so-called "March madness" culminates in the quartet of title games at Ann Arbor.

This is one of the years when all of our Observerland quintets are on the outside looking in now that the quarter-final stage has been reached, but this does not mean there has been any less enthusiasm, determination, effort or spirit from players, coaches, students and fans.

It was a good season, in fact a very good one. This was true not only for the local level championships that were gained, but for the over-all conduct of the sport and the sparkling ability of the individual standouts who helped make it a fascinating season.

All-Observerland selections appear in today's sports pages and to all of these boys we extend congratulations. Their lesser publicized teammates deserve a share of the spotlight as well, for no one does it all alone.

All of these are youngsters who have learned, at least to some degree, to live with pressure. There are times when one wonders whether it is unfairly inflicted, but it is part of the sport and is accepted as such. However, it is true that they are only boys -- not adult, professional athletes.

Win or lose, champions or cellar dwellers, if basketball has been fun to them then they have gained from the association. The defeat they tasted in tournament elimination will not prove fatal despite the disappointment of the moment. In fact, it may pay off more than having won them all.

School Board 'Executive' Sessions Defended

EDITOR:
To the writer of the editorial, "Many Peculiarities of Human Behavior": You've got a taker to your last paragraph.

You would have heard from me long, long ago if I had only known that not one of Observerland's many furtive knaves had communicated with you on how a legislative body can hold an "executive" meeting.

This one has the courage and has many times explained publicly under what circumstances the Livonia Board of Education holds executive sessions. Not only am I quite willing to explain in writing, but will also be pleased to discuss the matter with anyone who wishes to talk to me.

Boards of Education are permitted to hold executive sessions for two purposes: Personnel and property. My authoritative source is the General School Laws of the State of Michigan—a compilation of laws governing school districts. The law is also quite specific that all action must take place at a public meeting.

Many examples can be given; however, let me cite just a few:

1. On rare occasions it is necessary to consider excluding a student from school. It could be a very young child who needs particular assistance that can only be gained by such action. With assistance the child could, and many times does, return to school and achieve success. Parents of the student are invited to talk with the board and the circumstances prompting the recommendation are discussed. It is a very private matter and a very difficult time for all concerned.

2. The school district is considering disposing of or acquiring real estate. To discuss locations or owners in public could well increase the cost to the taxpayers in the case of acquiring property. Negotiating to buy or sell real estate in public when specific dollar amounts are involved could preclude acquisition or sale.

3. Personnel matters of a variety of nature arise in any school district. Not only must the individuals be considered in these discussions, but often changes in assignments, evaluation of performance or monetary considerations are discussed which have a direct bearing on other employees.

4. On the subject of negotiations it is especially important, since five bargaining units must be considered in Livonia. Not only is it impractical to negotiate in public, but one has to ask the question: Do the automobile industries negotiate in public?

Whether you agree or disagree that executive sessions should be held, they are permitted by law and it would seem to me your media could best consider urging legislative bodies not to abuse the privilege.

The foregoing statements are not to be interpreted as coming from the Livonia Board of Education, but from me as an individual.

U.S. Ignores Kids, God

EDITOR:
We just received notice from our school district that training sessions are being implemented for substitute bus drivers. Are they trying to tell us something? Perhaps we can now expect the bus drivers union to call the shots. They will decide if school keeps or not. Education? What is that? We'll be running a busing fleet. Ridiculous!

The children are forced to go to school a full day and take a bus (an hour or longer each way), depending on the weather and traffic. During the winter months, they will leave in the dark and come home in the dark.

Of course, they will be exposed to rush hour traffic twice daily, incompetent bus drivers and schools in higher crime areas. Safety for children? That's a thing of the past. Families? What are they? No time for family relationships. This situation, is of course, ideal for irresponsible parents who want to do their own thing. They can also utilize day care centers soon after the children are born and not bother with them at all.

These centers could become mandatory for children from infancy to school age in the near future and why not? Whenever a nation becomes too pleasure happy, lazy, irresponsible, too greedy for money, it paves the way for more government control.

We must also beware when a nation legalizes or accepts outrageous immoralities such as abortion, lotteries, homosexuality, divorce, trial marriages, prostitution, pornography. As the people become more corrupt, the government can justifiably step in to punish and take away privileges (freedoms?).

Is there an answer? Yes! God said in Jer. 2:32 "My people have forgotten my days without number." We must seek God, pray, turn from our wicked ways and then He will hear us, forgive our sins and heal our land (II Chron. 7:14).

PO Staff Puts In Long Hours

EDITOR:

This letter is in answer to the elderly person who says his Social Security check was held up at the post office for over a week.

I do agree that some of the postal systems have gone down hill these past few months, but it's mostly in the larger cities.

My husband is a mail clerk in the Plymouth post office. He gets up at 3 a.m. to go to work and he gets home any time up until 2 p.m. That's 10 hours a day and sometimes six days a week to get your mail out. Most of the other clerks have the same hours.

They do not get off work after their eight hours are up if all the mail is not thrown.

He doesn't have much of a social life because he has to be in bed at eight every night, so he'll be up bright and early to throw your mail again.

The Social Security checks you were referring to were found in another town and one of our clerks personally went down to pick them up or they would have been delayed two more days.

Now, I ask you, does that sound like the men are trying to hold your mail up for spite? You may use my name because I'm proud to say, "I'm a mailman's wife."

Plymouth

Puts Township In Better Light

EDITOR:

Please allow me to answer the recent letter in the Observer from Mr. and Mrs. Rogers who, after five years' residency in Plymouth Township, find fault with everything from taxes to officials' ethics. We are being compared to Dearborn, their former address. May I answer these charges or opinions in the order stated.

Statement: Taxes were lower in Dearborn.

Answer: Dearborn rate is 54.02 mills. Plymouth Township rate is 45.53 mills. Cost for local services in Dearborn is 21 mills and only 3.25 mills in Plymouth Township. Using a home valued at approximately $30,000 cash value, the cost of these services would be $324.86 in Dearborn and $48.75 in Plymouth Township.

Statement: Rubbish collection is free in Dearborn.

Answer: Per the clerk in Dearborn, they add one mill for this on your tax bill, or $15 per year (for a home with $30,000 cash value carrying state equalized assessed valuation of $15,000).

Statement: Street cleaning very poor.

Answer: I cannot question this statement. However, we must rely on Wayne County for this service. I assume the reference is to subdivisions.

Statement: No sidewalks along main roads.

Answer: These will come in time. However, not all main roads in Dearborn have walks.

Statement: No police protection in Plymouth Township.

Answer: If you drive a car or read the Observer, you will note quite a number of cars and officers from both the county and the state in our area. This subject is a matter of personal opinion.

Statement: Poor fire department.

Answer: Plymouth Township has an excellent fire department. Check your insurance rate. All fire departments north, south and east, including City of Plymouth, work as one in any emergency requiring back-up service. Also, did Mayor Hubbard give you free emergency ambulance service? Plymouth Township does.

Statement: What are we receiving for our tax dollars?

Answer: In 1972, for the services you complain of, you paid Plymouth Township $22.50. In Dearborn, the cost is $309.39.

Statement: Your water rate increased.

Answer: Your water rate was not increased. We absorbed the recent increase from the Detroit Water Board.

Statement: Citizens cannot get services they want.

Answer: Plymouth Township can only levy 1.5 mills or $1.50 per $1,000 of your assessed valuation (SEV), in your case $22.50, which includes the fire department. Now, if any citizen desires more or better services, these can be obtained by voting more taxes to improve the service. I am sure our administrative officials will explain how to proceed along this line.

Statement: You are not advised in advance what is on agenda for meetings.

Answer: I know of no municipality such as ours who notifies every resident. However, most homeowner groups seem aware of such matters and have a representative at our meetings. All such meetings are open to the public.

Statement: Your taxes increased.

Answer: Plymouth Township's tax rate has been reduced two years in a row. Total taxes include school, college, county, etc. We have no control over these, including county reassessment.

Statement: Ethical standards of public officials need raising to relate taxes to services.

Answer: I will admit that this statement is heard quite often today. However, your local officials may err in judgment at times, but please don't question our ethics. (I speak for my past two-year term on the township board). And now, wouldn't you say we do a lot for you that $22.50 you pay each year as compared to $309.39 in Dearborn? (No reflection on Dearborn).

And to all newcomers to the entire Plymouth area, if anyone would like to learn more about this wonderful area you are now a part of, I would be pleased to meet with anyone at any time.

Hard Walk

EDITOR:

This is an answer to "Concerned Neighbor" who wrote in about Colfax Road and kids who defy the cars.

I am a student at Power Junior High in Farmington and the reason we all walk on the road is because the "walkway" (which is about two feet wide) is too muddy to walk on.

I was attempting to walk on it, and I sank in to the tops of my boots in the mud. Another person sank so deep that three people had to pull her out. This is on our supposed "walkway."

At least the road has been passable. Maybe if "Concerned Neighbor" and all the other people living there would agree to pave the road and walkway, we would walk on the walkway.

Elders Merit

A Tax Break

EDITOR:

Why should senior citizens continue to pay any school tax? They have paid school taxes all their long life and now their children pay the school tax for their grandchildren.

Why should they be doubly taxed? They have no children in school and the excessive school tax is taxing them right out of their homes.

Quoting from the latest issue of "AARP News Bulletin," a publication of the American Association of Retired Persons, "Wanted: Tax Relief—Retired people should pay little or no income tax and real estate tax in their remaining years, as they have contributed to the economy during their working years and should now have full use of money they have earned and saved. Due to excessive property tax, elderly people are being taxed out of their homes and put in nursing homes."

AARP is a national organization with over 4.5 million members.

Maybe some wealthy retirees can afford the excessive school taxes, so possibly some limit of an annual income might be set to exempt the senior citizen from school taxes. Possibly an income of $25,000 or more annually can afford these excessive school taxes, but exempt those senior citizens with annual incomes of less than $25,000. They are the ones being hurt unfairly.

School Camps Worth While

EDITOR:

In response to the letter blasting the Livonia schools' camp program, it is clear the writer has never taken the time to attend one of these sessions. I do not know how some of their facts were obtained, but they are untrue.

First of all, the taxpayers do not foot the bill for this program. The students raise every cent of the money themselves and they work very hard both at school and at home.

Secondly, the students learn much more than camping skills and nature study. They learn about ecology, pollution and the history of our early settlers. These learning sessions are very extensive. Each student is given a log book to take with them and they must record everything they learn each day. This includes spelling, reading and on occasion mathematics. This gives them a sense of responsibility which is important to our young people today.

Third, the camp program is not compulsory. The parents do have the right to decide if their child is to attend.

The teachers do see their students in a completely different atmosphere, and in many cases this does help them to better understand a child who perhaps has an emotional problem they had not been aware of. The rapport between the students and teachers is fantastic.

As just one of 27 parents who recently returned from one of these programs, I feel qualified to speak up. I sincerely urge any parents who are critical of this program to attend the camp meetings set up by the schools and get the true facts before they decide to condemn this program.

Local Highway Project Bids To Be Taken Soon

The State Highway Commission will take bids March 28 on an estimated $14.2 million of highway construction and maintenance projects affecting local drivers.

The largest project, estimated at $6.9 million, is for reconstruction and relocation of 2.5 miles of I-94 west of Rawsonville Rd. eastward to Borgman Rd. in Wayne County.

The 2.5 mile relocated section will be made six lanes of divided highway. The project also calls for construction of an interchange with Rawsonville Rd. at the Wayne-Washtenaw county line.

Next largest project is estimated at $6.8 million calling for relocation of railroad facilities associated with construction of I-96 in Detroit. The work will include construction of a railroad bridge pedestrian underpass, relocation of railroad buildings and construction of a railroad service road in the C & O Railway Oak Yard just west of the Southfield Freeway in Detroit.

An estimated $70,000 will be spent in repairs to approaches of bridges including bridges carrying I-696 westbound over Northwestern Highway, I-75 over 12 Mile Rd., and Nine Mile over I-75 as well as I-75 over M-150, I-75 over Livernois, both southbound and northbound I-696 over I-94, I-94 over Grand Trunk

Western and Penn Central railroads and Russel St., northbound Conner Ave. over I-94 and Eight Mile over I-75. Repairs should be completed in June.

Paving and construction of turn lanes and cross-over lanes on 3.7 miles of Northwestern Highway from its intersection with I-696 in Southfield northwest to Orchard Lake Rd. and northwest of Wood Creek Farms in Farmington is estimated at $270,000. Completion is set for July.

Another estimated $30,000 is earmarked for landscaping 2.2 miles of Ford Rd. from the Southfield Freeway to Oakman Blvd. in Dearborn with completion scheduled in June.

By KATHY MORAN

"A loaf of bread, a jug of wine, and thou beside me singing in the wilderness..."

The virtues of wine and its enhancement of life's pleasures were popular subjects in the 12th century when Persian poet Omar Khayyam wrote this familiar verse.

Today wine is growing in popularity as it did then -- not in poetry but in college classes.

Whether for pure enjoyment, to learn the etiquette or to learn how to serve wine with meals, people are jamming Schoolcraft College's wine tasting class each time it is offered.

"Wine is a most popular subject," says Torkild Neilson, instructor for the non-credit course.

The Danish-born Neilson sparkles as much as his wines when talking on his favorite subject, and his personality captures his young and old students as much as the wine does.

It's a fun class to teach, he says, because attendance is no problem -- students show up in full force each of the five nights.

In his heavy Danish accent, Neilson says his students find out which wines suit their tastes, learn how to read the labels and buy wine.

One student said she doesn't feel "dumb" or intimidated now when she walks into a wine shop with countless different types of wine.

"The only thing it takes for you to actually pass this course," he told his class of 40, "is for you to go out and get a corkscrew."

"People who say they don't like wine usually say that because they've had a wine that wasn't in their palate," he said.

And Neilson is just the person to acquaint newcomers with the vast varieties of wine. As general manager of Michigan Wineries Inc., he makes it his business to know all wines in addition to the company's Cask wines.

A resident of Farmington, Neilson is also regional director of Les Amis du Vin (Friends of Wine), an organization which gathers regularly to sample wines and learn under the guidance of national and international connoisseurs.

Besides, wine is his hobby -- not just his occupation, Neilson said.

His course features four nights of wine tasting and climaxes with a six-course meal with four different wines.

Six wines are sampled at each session and usually each session is devoted to one country. Italian, French, German and American wines are tasted.

"It's not my purpose to promote any special wines, just to get people to know more about it," Neilson said. "The most important thing is to venture into it, don't hesitate to try different wines."

But to fully appreciate the wine, Neilson says it's important to also enjoy its color and "bouquet" or aroma.

Wine glasses always have a stem -- to prevent clouding the glass with fingerprints -- and are filled just halfway to capture the aroma.

First, observe the color, Neilson recommends, usually by holding the glass against a white tablecloth. In most cases, the better quality wines have deeper and richer color.

Gently swirl the glass on the table getting air in the wine and then smell its aroma.

To taste the wine, sip it, drawing air in at the same time and "chew" it, he says. Swish the wine around in your mouth, chew it and don't be bashful about making noise.

"That's the difference between drinking and tasting the wine," Neilson said. "Your whole head fills with the wonderful sensation of flavor and taste."

Between sampling different wines, the students "clear their palates" by tasting cheeses, fruits and breads prepared by the culinary arts students.

There are three types of wines: fortified wines, such as vermouth; table wines with 12 per cent or less alcohol content; and sparkling wines, including champagne.

"There are wines for every occasion," Neilson said.

The reasons why people take his class are varied, but the conclusions are the same -- they loved it.

"I've learned so much," said Sandy Fink of Dearborn Heights. "I traveled this summer in France and tasted so many wines and decided to find out more about it."

"I didn't know anything about wine," Linda Parks said. "I found out what I like rather than going into a store blind."

"After four years of college and five years of grad school at night, I've finally taken a class I've enjoyed," Dick Zimmerman of Livonia told Neilson.

County Group Gives 2 Jobs To FitzPatrick

The chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Robert E. FitzPatrick, has been chosen to serve on two committees established to recommend policies for the National Association of Counties (NACo) in Washington.

FitzPatrick, now serving his third consecutive term as chairman of the Wayne board, has been appointed to the NACo health steering committee, and the committee on the future. Both appointments are for one year.

The Committee on the Future will focus on the involvement of counties in regional authorities such as councils of governments.

Stevenson Wins Gee Tourney, 4-2

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

It was "Suburban Stanley Cup" night in Observerland, with a second period four-goal outburst by Stevenson High telling the story.

After a scoreless first period, the Suburban League champion Stevenson Spartans slapped in four goals paced by two from Jerry DiRusso. It appeared that Gerry Goode's squad was en route to an easy victory.

But the first annual George Gee memorial tournament trophy was not going to slip away from Churchill that easily.

Adam Mitchell's Charger crew, which finished second to Stevenson in the final Suburban standings, popped in two goals in the early moments of the third and kept the crowd of more than 1,400 on their feet to the final buzzer.

When it was all over, the Spartans had hung on to a 4-2 victory in a tournament that saw the top two teams survive to the finale over Bentley, Franklin, Southfield and Southfield Lathrup.

Churchill and Stevenson were both tight in the opening period, each waiting for the other to make the first mistake. Stevenson was called for three penalties and Churchill two, with Spartan goalie Van Vermeesch making three saves and Churchill netminder Mike Parks kicking out nine shots.

Stevenson, which had gone through the Suburban League undefeated, drew first blood at the 1:41 mark in the second period.

DiRusso beat Parks. Bob McLive picking up the assist, and the Spartans were first on the board.

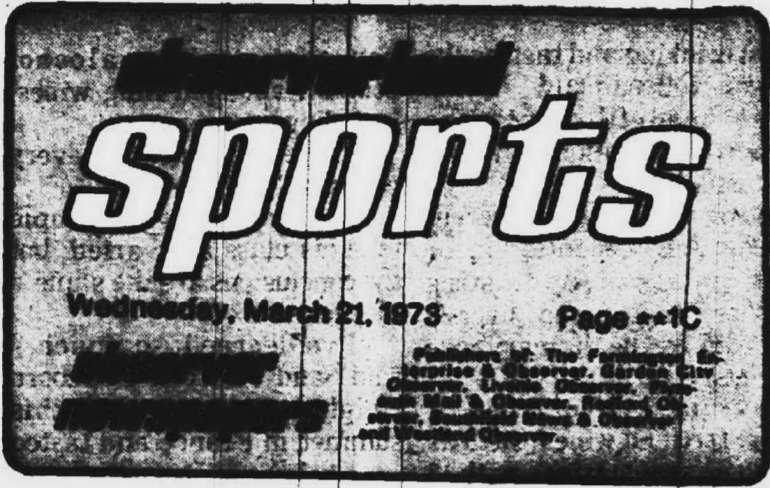

Then came a five minute span that could have broken it wide open for Churchill.

But Spartan goalie Vermeesch was "Mr. Everywhere" for Stevenson and shut the door on everything Churchill was throwing at him.

Churchill's Bob Rion missed on a point blank shot and Brian Veasey was stymied on a clean breakaway. Vermeesch making a brilliant save.

"We just weren't getting any breaks," said Churchill's Mitchell. "Vermeesch was coming up with some great saves to break our back."

It could have been something like 4-1 Churchill midway through the second but the puck was making it quite clear that it was bouncing Stevenson's way.

At 9:50, with Churchill's Rion off for elbowing, Stevenson made it a 2-0 contest on a goal by Steve Hillman, his 23rd in the league. Kurt Geiger got the assist.

Then, with everything starting to skate their way, the Spartans poured it on with two more goals in a matter of 59 seconds. DiRusso deflected in a shot from Gordie Bowie and Don Finn notched his 28th in the league. Dale Marczak getting the assist.

Then came a an Observerland first.

"Score-0" was played between the second and third periods with Paul Horgan of Stevenson High putting the puck into an open net the full seconds later the Chargers had done it again.

This time Ursitti slapped it home. Jim Gagnon assisting, and with 8:33 remaining, it was a new game at 4-2.

Rion took the following face-off into Stevenson territory, let go a slap shot that rang off the Spartan goal post and the Chargers were pressing.

Marczak picked up a two minute cross - checking penalty for Stevenson at 10:54. The Spartan defense came to arms and at 12:05, Stevenson found itself down two men.

Bill Finn was called for interference and for 49 seconds, Churchill had a two man advantage. But Stevenson wasn't about to Parks and Recreation, went to Stevenson High.

Mrs. Gee, Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara and the Observer sports editor presented the traveling trophy to Coach Goode and captain Don Finn. The tourney's most valuable player award went to Bentley High's Bob Wasilewski, who popped in five goals in the two games his squad played.

"The breaks started catching up with us in that third period," said Goode, whose Spartans finished 16-3-3 overall for '72-'73. "I knew we had a long way to go in that third period and the winds of fortune can change so fast out there on the ice."

"Vermeesch's play had to break their back," added Goode. "He kept us in the game. If he had come up with a mediocre performance, it's simple - we would have lost."

It just turned out not to be Churchill's night to shine.

Halfway through the hockey clash it was announced that the Charger cagers had been crushed in state regional action by Detroit Murray - Wright and the Charger puckmen attempted to make a school turnaround but failed.

"Sure we were disappointed, we wanted that trophy," added Mitchell. "We knew we could have beaten Stevenson with a break here or there, but they won and the kids accepted it."

"The first thing after the game, they were asking me when do we start practice for next year," finished Mitchell, whose Chargers wound up 12-7-3 overall for '72-'73.

length of the ice. Prizes were donated by Griffin Sports Shop.

When the teams returned to the ice to start the third period Mitchell had replaced Parks with a new goalie in Mike Merrill and the Chargers made it clear they weren't going to give up.

At 4:44 into the third, Churchill finally got to Vermeesch.

Kris Kostolansky picked the Spartan net on a pass from Steve Ursitti and 103 have the Chargers score another.

Steve Hillman picked up a misconduct for disputing the call to Finn. Then he said one word too many while in the penalty box and was handed a game exit call and Churchill's spark was ignited.

But it failed to explode, with Vermeesch putting out the flame.

So the first George Gee memorial tournament title, sponsored by the Observer Newspapers and Livonia

OPEN NET AHEAD -- Stevenson High's Brian VanNorman (14) has the Churchill net as his target with Charger netminder Mike Parks caught out of position along with a defenseman. Parks managed to get back in position to stop

VanNorman but it wasn't enough as Stevenson slapped in four goals in the second period to upend Churchill in the tourney finale, 4-2 (Observer photo by Tom Donoghue)

Churchill's Montagano (19-6) No. 1 Cage Coach

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

The "Year of the Churchill Charger" is building up momentum and picking up more honors along the way.

Churchill's football crew swept to a perfect 9-0 season and Ken Kasetner was selected as Observerland's co-coach of the year on the gridiron scene.

Pat Montagano and his Churchill cagers knew they had a rough road ahead to complement the football season.

But the Churchill basketball squad came through with a spirited drive, palmed the football season on the back and went on to higher honors. For this showing, Observer Newspapers have selected Coach Pat Montagano as basketball coach - of - the - year.

Even if he did catch German measles after his regional championship loss to Detroit Murray-Wright, Montagano bowed out a true champion with his Chargers.

This '72-'73 season was only the fifth for Churchill and only the third with a senior class.

Montagano started off at Churchill in the '69-'70 season with an all-sophomore squad and compiled a 4-15 record against varsity teams.

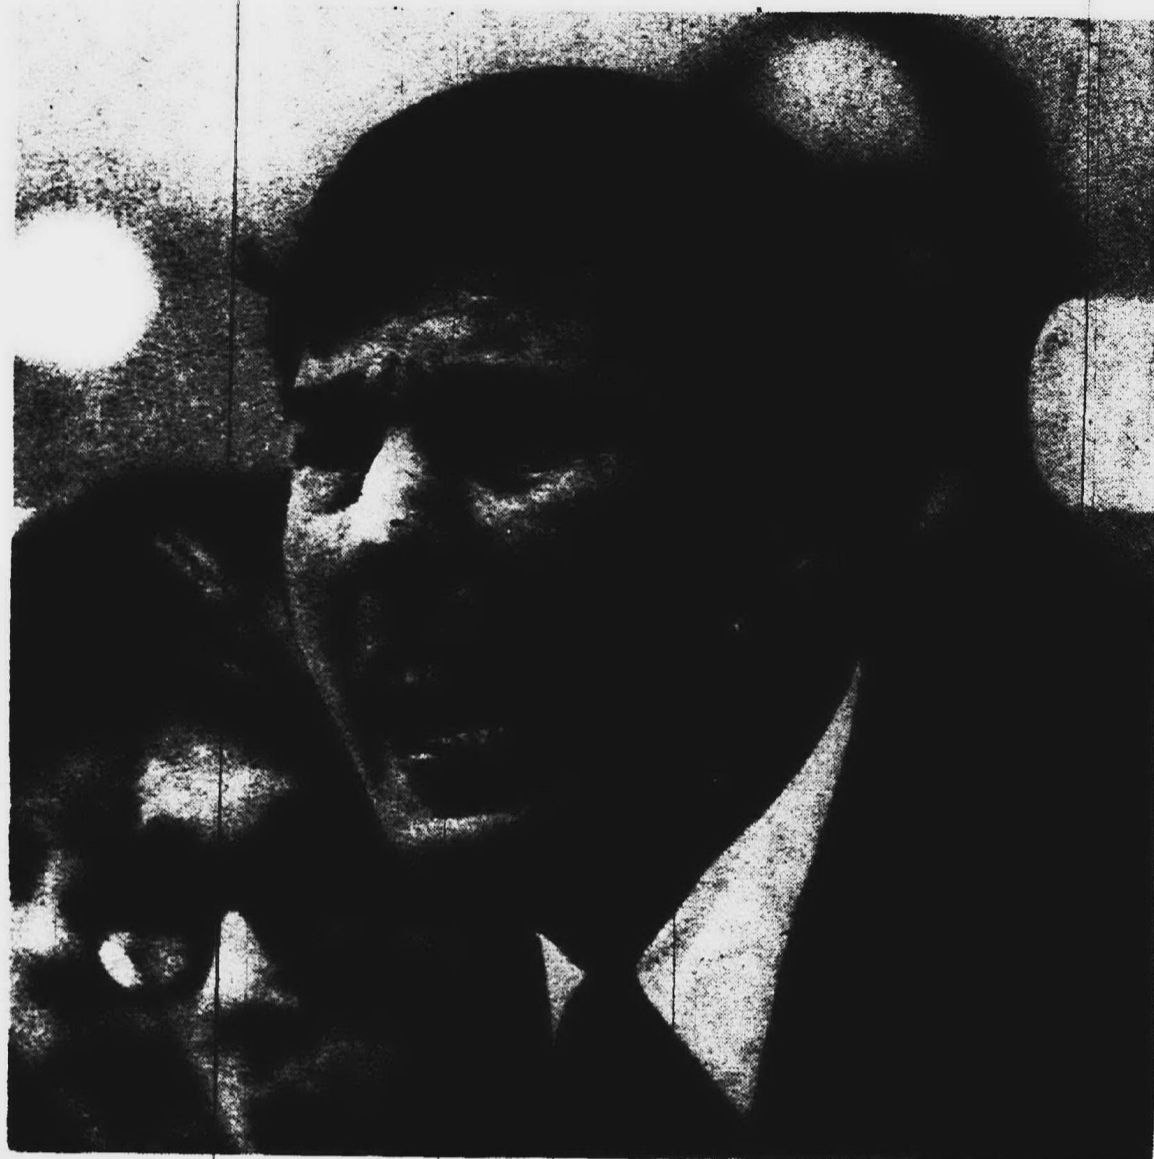

Next came the '69-'70 season with his junior squad and a 6-13 season.

The '70-'71 stint featured Churchill's first senior class and the Charger cagers responded with a 9-9 mark. Last season they racked up a 12-6 record and won their first league title in the Western Six.

This season started Dec. 2 with a 74-72 victory over Thurston High and it ended with a regional title loss to Murray-Wright March 16.

But in between those two dates, 104 days, Churchill made a name for itself in area basketball and the man pushing and inspiring his Chargers was Montagano.

"We started off a simple ball club and we finished one," said Montagano whose Chargers reeled off a 19-6 season and finished No. 3 in Observerland. "We didn't change from week to week. We just worked together as a team and jelled at the right time."

PAT MONTAGANO Cage Coach-Of-The-Year

Churchill dropped its third game of the season to Walled Lake Western, 61-57, in its Western Six opener and fell to Plymouth, 61-58, after crushing Northville, 73-41.

Then came wins over Thurston, Franklin and Southfield before losing to Walled Lake Central, 64-54.

A 52-51 victory over Waterford Mott, 64-63 edging of Bentley and 57-50 crush over Harrison pushed the Chargers to 9-3 before losing to Wayne, 75-72.

Churchill then bested WL Western, Garden City East, Northville, Walled Lake Central and Ann Arbor Huron before falling to Mott to stand 14-5.

The Chargers successfully defended their first cage crown with a regular season finale victory over Harrison, 46-45, to wind up a 15-5 regular season performance. "My season prediction for this squad was 15-5," chuckled Montagano. "And somehow or another it all happened."

Then followed a district championship with victories over Bentley, Redford Union and Plymouth and then a regional win over WL Central before closing the season against Murray-Wright, 83-47.

Thus ended an overall 19-6 season.

"We set our goals mentally and the kids stayed with my predictions," said the cage coach - of - the - year.

Montagano graduated from Elkhart High School in Indiana as a 10-letterman in '52, lettering three times in both football and basketball and four times in track.

Pat was Indiana all - state pole vaulter his senior year as well as all - state punter.

Montagano was destined to make a name for himself at the University of Michigan but a skull fracture his sophomore year ended his collegiate hopes for the Maize and Blue.

He graduated from U-M in '56 and was set to enter the Air Force but there existed no need for small fighter bomber navigators at the time and Montagano decided to work within his family.

In '58, Pat decided to go a different route, married, and now his top fans are his wife Diane and her mother, Mildren Lakin.

The years '60 through '65 saw Montagano in the physical education program in Ann Arbor at the junior high level.

It was then on to Plymouth High where Pat was the junior varsity coach and assistant football coach, '65-'68. His junior varsity cagers at Plymouth compiled a 30-15 record.

Then came the move to Churchill, two league championships, a district title, a regional win and loss, and the German measles.

Mutch, Thornbladh Rated High

Spring Drills Could Solve U-M?????s

W.W. EDGAR

The University of Michigan football squad starts its drive toward another Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl Monday afternoon. Much of the hope for success is pinned on two Observerland athletes - Bob Thornbladh and Craig Mutch - who played prominent roles a year ago.

They're back on the job bigger and Coach Bo

Schembechler hopes, better than last fall.

"They're two fellows we don't have to worry about," the Wolverine mentor commented as he went over the list of candidates who will report and start filling the holes left vacant by the loss of 17 lettermen.

Thornbladh, the former Plymouth High School star, won the starting assignment at fullback last fall, but an unfortunate fumble in the opening game, forced him back to the role as an understudy to Ed Shuttlesworth.

This is the role he's expected to play again next fall and according to Schembechler he'll be a real asset.

"We have the two best fullbacks in the Big Ten," he said, "and Bob is the type of fellow who will be ready -- and eager -- anytime Shuttlesworth falters."

Mutch, was given another year of eligibility because of the "red shirt" rule, and the former Thurston High star is due for a major role.

Rated one of the best defensive backs in the Big Ten, Schembechler hasn't decided just where Craig will wind up by the time of the opening game.

Last year he served well as the middle line backer and easily could have that job back again.

However, because of a wealth of talent available, he may be moved to either outside position. Either Steve Strinko, a six foot junior weighing 235 pounds, or Jim O'Neal could fit into the middle spot. This would free Mutch for the outside positions.

With last year's backfield returning intact and the quarterback problem solved with Dennis Franklin, the big problems are in the offensive line.

Replacements will have to be found for Bill Hart, at center, at right guard where Tim Coyle fit in nobly last fall, and at the strong tackle position where Paul Seymour held forth.

Senior Curtis Tucker is considered the favorite for the strong tackle job and Junior Dennis Franks is expected to land the important center position.

"We've got some questions which must be answered," Schembechler said, "and we expect to get them solved in spring practice."

He has listed 20 practice sessions prior to the annual spring game in Michigan Stadium on April 21.

MICHIGAN'S HOPES -- The success of the '73 University of Michigan football squad will rely heavily on these two Observerland gridiron standouts. Bob Thornbladh (left) from Plymouth

High and Craig Mutch (right) of Thurston High should be playing a key role in Coach Bo Schembechler's (center) plans. (Observer photo)

Seniors Dominate All-Area; Show 3.5 Grade Average

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Most of the prep basketballs have been deflated and tucked away along with many hopes and dreams that never seemed to develop.

But with the turning of another chapter in area basketball comes the unveiling of a new All-Observer Cagesquad.

At first glance, the '72-'73 team looks like the '71-'72 team decided to stick around a while longer.

Last season's All-Area team checked in at an average height of 6-4, averaged 106 points and 61 rebounds a game.

This year's five-man squad also checks in at an average height of 6-4, averaged 106 points and 61 rebounds a game, with the lone difference in weights and measures being the average weight of 175 pounds, five lighter than last year.

And four names have been changed to protect the talent.

Bob Malaby, senior guard from a 20-2 Southfield Lathrup team, is the sole returnee on the All-Observer crew. He is joined by three other seniors in John Glenn's Dave Carlington, Churchill's Phil Damaska, and Harrison's Jeff Sieloﬀ and by junior Kevin Kaseta of Franklin High.

Four of the first five slots in the Observerland scoring charts were nailed down by the All-Area starting five.

Malaby was No. 1 with a 23.5 average, with 517 points in 22 games. Carlington was third with a 21.0 point average with Sieloﬀ No. 4 at 20.1 Kaseta was fifth with a 19.2 mark.

Damaska finished No. 13 on the chart with a 16.6 points per game mark, 414 points in 25 games in leading his squad to a 19-6 season, one contest away from a regional championship.

Of all the players in the area, the 6-0, 155 pound Malaby has to be one of the most sought after cagers. Don't be surprised if you see his name in the starting lineup at the University of Tennessee come next basketball season.

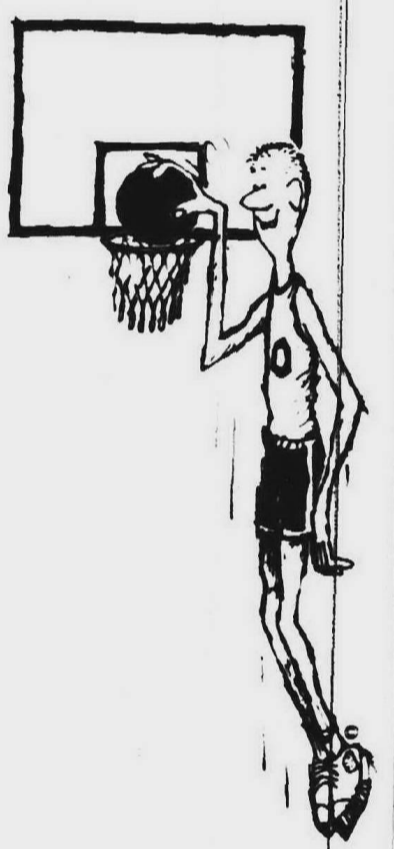

Bob is carrying a 3.2 grade point average at Lathrup and has broken and established all school scoring records as well as being career leader in assists, interceptions and leading rebounder for a guard.

"Bob's greatest asset is his unselfishness," said Lathrup Coach Jim Kourtakis. "And his passing ability is second to none."

Malaby rang up a total of 1,182 points in his three years at Lathrup for a 20.9 high school average.

This year Malaby hit 198 of 410 from the floor for a 48 per cent shooting mark and made good 121 of 153 at the charity line along with collecting 228 assists.

The Charger co-captain was a unanimous selection for the All-Met Suburban League team and is piling up the post-season honors with a shot at the All-State within reach.

Westland John Glenn captured its first league title in its nine year history and also racked up the district title at Belleville, before getting knocked off in the regionals against Romulus.

The man behind Glenn's "first year" was 6-4, 185 pound Dave Carlington.

Carlington pumped in 463 points in 22 games for a 21.0 point average and wound up with 698 points in his two years of varsity competition for an 18 point average.

The Rocket sparkplug hit 193 of 390 from the floor this season for a 49.5 shooting mark, and 77 of 117 at the free-throw line.

Carlington hauled in 320 rebounds for a 14.5 average to up his career mark to 499.

Dave now holds 11 school scoring and rebounding records and twice has been All-Northwest Suburban League selection. His 3.4 grade point average is just another facet why he was voted the team's most valuable player last year and this 18-4 season at Glenn.

The smallest of the All-Observer squad is 5-10, 165 pound Phil Damaska who was also a member of the area football squad at the offensive halfback slot.

"Phil was just perpetual motion for us," said Churchill Coach Pat Montano. "He never came to play where he didn't give it all he had."

The 3.6 honor student scored 414 points in the greatest cage season Churchill has experienced in its short three year history.

Damaska finished with a 16.6 scoring average, hitting 167 of 379 field goal attempts for 44 per cent and 79 of 118 free throws along with picking up 153 assists.

"Damaska just did it all for us," added the Churchill coach. "He is the kind of kid every coach wants to have in his starting lineup."

Phil was a unanimous Western Six League selection along with a certain big man from Farmington Harrison which gave Churchill a real run for the Six title.

The big man was 6-8, 200 pound senior Jeff Sieloﬀ.

He carries a 3.7 academic grade point average and has had numerous offers from various colleges.

Sieloﬀ started every game in the three year varsity history of Harrison, a total of 57 games, and racked up 316 field goals and 188 free throws in that span for a prep average of 14.2.

This season for Harrison, which sported a 14-8 record, the lanky Hawk hit 174 of 346 from the floor for a 50 per cent mark and popped in 100 of 157 at the line.

Sieloﬀ totaled 442 points in 22 games for a 20.1 average, No. 4 in Observerland.

He averaged 15.2 rebounds a game with 334 grabs during this 22 game schedule.

"Jeff has an excellent attitude toward the game," said Harrison Coach Bob Sutter. "He likes to run and fill the lane on the fast break."

The lone junior on the All-

Observer first team is 16-year-old Kevin Kaseta who stands 6-7 and weighs 185 pounds.

Kaseta finished No. 5 on the area scoring charts with 461 points in 24 games for a 19.2 average and hauled in 340 rebounds for a 14.2 average.

He hit 48 per cent from the floor and 67 per cent from the free throw line.

Kaseta broke Franklin High's scoring mark with 37 points against Thurston in the districts. Kaseta was the main drive in Franklin's 15-9 season, a year where the Patriots broke their state tourney jinx and won their own district before bowing to Detroit Murray-Wright in the regionals.

"Kevin is an unselfish team player," said Franklin Coach Bob Visser. "He always hits the open man and has the ability to dominate a game either offensively or defensively."

Kaseta was the solo junior selected to the all-area, honors in the first three rankings but fits in perfectly with a 3.98 grade point average.

The Northwest Suburban coaches are well aware that Kaseta will be back to dominate again next year.

There it is, the first team as selected by the Observer and area basketball coaches.

Besides that scoring average total of 106 points a game, look at the grade point average listing—Malaby with a 3.2, Carlington with a 3.4, Damaska at 3.6, Sieloﬀ with a 3.7 and Kaseta with a 3.98.

It would be tough to beat this team in anything.

The second team sports three members of the Suburban Eight Conference in Gary Fuls of Redford Union, Tim Bollin of Bentley and Tim Van Wagoner of Plymouth along with Kim Parker of North Farmington and John Grigal of Garden City East.

Grigal finished this season with a 19.2 scoring average. VanWagoner with 18.8, Parker with 17.9, Fuls at 17.6 and Bollin was No. 2 in the area with a 22.1 mark.

The third squad saw two teams bounce back into post-season honors.

The No. 1 and No. 3 teams in Observerland, Southfield Lathrup and Livonia Churchill, moved back into the limelight.

Andy Tracy of Southfield and Mark Reed of Churchill made the grade along with Mark Sopko of Bishop Borgess, Mark Kilbourn of Garden City West and Dale Haberman of Stevenson High.

Sopko sported a 19.1 scoring average for the 10-11 Borgess crew, Haberman an 18.2 mark for Stevenson, Kilbourn at 15.2 for West, Reed at 13.2 for Churchill and Tracy at 13.6 for the Lathrup Chargers.

Lathrup Pair Put On Metro All-Loop Team

Southfield Lathrup's Metro Suburban league champions placed two men, Bob Malaby and John Gardner, on the all-loop first squad. The Chargers won the title with a 10-0 record.

Balloting resulted in eight players being selected for first team designation. The others were Jerry Weller of Adams, Bill Hellebuyck of Eisenhower, Scott Fisher of Groves, Dan Riewald of Lahser and Terry Lauer and Dan Wright, both of Dondero.

Three of Lathrup's champions gained honorable mention. They were Barry Brodsky, Andy Tracey and Brian Courtney.

Ski Heil

By

BILL CAMERON

Well, I didn't need by tennis racket after all at Mt. Tremblant-I needed water before you start.

If you want a definite French flavor, there is no need of heading for the continent. Mt. Tremblant registered 45 degrees. When I arrived in Montreal it was foggy and 50 degrees.

After picking up my car rental I headed North in a driving rainstorm which lasted until nightfall. This being my first trip to the Laurentians, I assumed there would be signs and billboards extolling the virtues of skiing Mt. Tremblant. With that thought in mind I cruised right through St. Jovite and continued on for another 30 miles before I rightly deduced that all was not well. Compass Cameron did it again.

I was told to go to St. Jovite and turn left at the church. You know, I've never been lost in any city anywhere in the world, but turn me loose in the country and it's like I'm in a jungle. There is some kind of a law which prohibits ad-

Tuesday and he'd take me skiing.

Lo and behold, the sun was shining on Tuesday and the temperature reached 50 by high noon. Nevertheless, I donned my rental equipment and headed for the ski area. After all, what Michigan skier can't handle ice and slush?

Mt. Tremblant is interesting. It's composed of two sides of a mountain at an altitude of 3000 feet and a vertical drop of 2300 feet on the south side and 1850 feet on the north side. The snow conditions were much better on the north side and there's enough skiing there to satisfy anyone's taste. I'm not too crazy about ice and slush but beggars can't be choosers. This hasn't been a good year anywhere in the east with Quebec no exception.

One of the things that make my work so interesting, is the interesting people I meet. Some have a "joie de vivre" that is fascinating.

Balance The Key In State Action

By FRED De LANO

Observerland high schools have three league basketball championships and three district tourney titles to show for the 1972-73 season which now has reached the quarter-final stage in state eliminations.

Although Southfield Lathrup's 20-2 mark was the best won-lost record in the area, it was Livonia Churchill which stayed alive the longest in the state tournament.

Coch Pat Montagano's Chargers went to the regional finals before being knocked out by Detroit Murray-Wright, and no other club among Observerland's 18 contenders could get as far.

Churchill was 4-1 in tournament play, and was joined as a district champion by Westland John Glenn and Livonia Franklin.

Murray-Wright also was the team which eliminated Franklin in the regionals, while Glenn fell to Romulus-eliminated in turn by Detroit Southwestern.

In tournament action alone, Franklin and Glenn both were 3-1. At 2-1 were Thurston from Redford Township and Farmington Harrison. None of the others were any better than .500 in post-season eliminations.

Thursday night's quarter-finals will send Murray-Wright against Pontiac Central, which won the Birmingham Seaholm regional. Southwestern, which triumphed at Belleville where Glenn was a contender, must face Ann Arbor Pioneer, rated by many as the No. 1 team in the state.

Other Class A pairings include Detroit Northwestern, which eliminated Catholic Central, against Detroit Southeastern and Grand Rapids Christian against the Saginaw-Flint Northern winner from a storm-delayed regional final.

Semi-finals will be played Saturday and the championship games in all four classes will be played March 31 in Crisler Arena at Ann Arbor.

League championship trophies were added this season to the showcases at Lathrup, Churchill and John Glenn High Schools.

Behind the sensational play of all-state prospect Bob Malaby, Lathrup marched to a perfect 10-0 record in the Metro Suburban League. Glenn edged Franklin for the Northwest Suburban title, while for Churchill it was the second season in a row atop the Western Six standings.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

We'll never understand why race track managements feel they have to go with programs regardless of weather conditions. Perhaps they have the same thoughts as mailman...deliver in spite of rain, snow or what have you.

The point in hand is that both Hazel Park and Wolverine Raceway staged racing programs Saturday under the worst possible conditions and both took a good whipping at the gate and in wagering.

Why management would take such a stand is one of the mysteries of our time. Throughout the morning and during the afternoon, radio stations repeatedly told folks to stay home unless they absolutely had to make short trips.

Announcers told of the treacherous driving conditions, told of how highways were blocked by snowdrifts, told of areas in Detroit that had been declared emergency districts due to high water and the snow...and yet Hazel Park's new management announced it felt it owed it to the public to go on with the races.

Of course there was a matter of checking the track conditions with the jockeys in late morning and when the tiny riders decided it was safe, then management decided to hold the races.

We can't buy the statement that the track owned it to the public and to its employees to continue. The bettors were conspicuous by their absence and quite a few of the employees called in to say they couldn't get out of snow covered roads.

Attendance wasn't the poorest in history at either track but it is stretching the imagination to say both plants wound up with plus figures.

With the weather worsening throughout the afternoon, Hazel Park ran four races in an hour, quite a contrast to the usual 23 to 25 minutes between events. A week earlier the handle was well over a million and this time a crowd of 3,942 wagered $358,022.

That isn't the worst handle for Hazel Park but one would have to go way back to find a Saturday with so few customers and so small a mutual handle.

One would have to tip his fur top piece to Wolverine Vice President and General Manager Dick Wilson for deciding to hold the program with the full realization it would probably be the worst night at the plant since 1950.

As it was a scant, hardy gang of 1,788 braved the whims of Old Mother Nature and barely got the mutual machines warmed up with a minimal handle of $108,387. The track's share of that total would hardly pay for the electricity needed to keep the machines in operation.

The horsemen were given the option of scratching horses if they didn't like the racing conditions and the result was a series of small fields...four entrants in the first race, seven in the second, four in the third, five in the fourth, five in the fifth, six in the sixth, five in the seventh, five in the eighth, ninth and 10th.

Strange enough, some drivers thrive on poor track conditions. Such was the story of Carl Allen, who had two wins, and Ohioan Joe Adamsky, who won three in a row.

Erlans Valley, pride and joy of the Brown Valley Farm, found a heavy track to its liking and won the feature with Tricky Dale second.

Tom Sheldon Completes PGA Week Course

Moving toward fully approved status as an assistant golf pro, Tom Sheldon, assistant to Whispering Willows Pro Gary Whitener for the past four years, recently completed the business school course conducted by the PGA in Louisville, Ky.

The week long course, attended by 170 pros and assistants, was the first step toward full membership into the PGA. Sheldon will attend a more advanced business school and complete a home study program.

Among the topics covered were: golf shop operation and financial structure, sales techniques, course maintenance, display and product information, public relations and first aid.

Instructors and speakers included outstanding businessmen from the Louisville area as well as leading golf pros.

PLYMOUTH'S PLAGUE—A daily sight along Plymouth's streets is a lineup of automobiles, often several blocks long, waiting to cross a blocked railroad crossing. Several times each day this sight is repeated, much to the chagrin of many motorists who find that getting from "here to there" isn't often a simple task. (Observer photo by Maurie Walker)

TCYC Plans New Year's Eve

The Tonquish Creek Yacht Club may be the only one of its kind — no fleet, no harbor, no clubhouse — but there is nothing lacking in the fun and food departments when it comes to putting on a party.

Members of the club have invited non-members to join in their celebration of the new year Saturday evening in the Plymouth's Meeting House. The second annual TCYC New Year's Eve ball will feature the music of Marty Kasin's band. A buffet supper will be served at 10:30. The menu of turkey, smelt, lasagna, salads, relishes, cole slaw, potato salad, etc. will be provided by Mayflower Hotel chefs. There's a rumor floating around town that the Commodore Robert Dwyer and Past Commodore Robert B. Delaney have been dicker for a used harpoon cannon. What do they plan to defend? Do they expect the descendants of Chief Tonquish to pull a Wounded Knee caper on the banks of Tonquish Creek? These conundrums and others may be answered at Saturday's ball. Tickets are available at the First Landing in the Mayflower Hotel and club headquarters at 747 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

Jr. Baseball Schedules Registration

Registration for the 1973 Plymouth Junior Baseball League will be March 24 and March 31 from 9 a.m. to noon at Central School. This year's program has been reorganized into three leagues. Classes A and B will be played in the evening at the Plymouth Township Recreational Park and Plymouth Educational Park, respectively. Opening day games are scheduled for Saturday, May 12.

The T-ball program will begin June 18, after school is out for the summer. Class A will include only 11 and 12-year-old boys. Class B nine and 10-year-olds and T-ball seven and eight-year-olds. Ron Hersh, Class B league coordinator, said there is great need for managers and coaches. Those interested should contact him. Each youngster should be accompanied to registration by a parent or guardian and bring proof of age.

Ends Basic

'Our House' Puts Out Call For Volunteers

By ELINOR GRAHAM

PLYMOUTH "Last year it was second and third. This year it's the qualudes. We'll probably feel the results of this ripoff at Park Davis. "Sometimes I get disgusted and think I'll quit. Then I get a call and am able to help, and that makes it all worthwhile."

The speaker was Dorothy Allen, one of 50 staff members of Plymouth's buzz line crisis center in Our House on Fralick Street.

Mrs. Allen has been involved with the center for more than a year and is sending out a call for volunteers. A training session will start the first weekend in April and will continue on Tuesdays and Thursdays during April and May.

"It is unusual to have weekend sessions, but this year we are having an 'OD aide' from Ann Arbor and the Red Cross multimedia course the first weekend," she said. There is a large turnover in the staff which is made up of housewives, high school and college students.

"The kids go away to school and it takes a good-sized staff to man the buzz line from 7 to 9 p.m. weekdays and from 4 p.m. to 1 a.m. Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. There are also the drop-ins."

Anyone over 16 may volunteer to take the training course.

What is going on in the drug scene in Plymouth?

"It changes with the weather," Mrs. Allen said. "With milder weather, there is more socializing outdoors in the park. The calls are picking up."

"There are three drugs in the area. There is some heroin. Being between Ann Arbor and Detroit makes Plymouth vulnerable."

She continued, "We receive calls from parents who want us to talk to their children about problems. Last night we had four drop-ins. Two wanted drug information and two wanted a place to stay."

"We have done some work with the schools. We've been to West Middle School to talk to the sixth, seventh and eighth graders."

"We have a former heroin addict who kicked the habit and has worked with the Family Services. She talks to the students and tells of physical havoc that results from drug abuse. (She has liver damage, stomach problems — has to be very careful what she eats and drinks.)

"We are a referral service. The training helps us decide whether the caller is just lonely and who can handle his problem."

"Anyone interested in volunteering can call buzz line any evening between 7 and 9."

The present board consists of Dr. Charles Zoet, Diane Carlson, Dale Prescote, Dorothy Allen, Lisa Sheffer and Mary Heinz. John Campbell is president.

At the annual meeting in June new directors will be selected. At that time the board hopes to further plans for long range counseling, more follow-up work and work with the parents.

Frank's Plating Firm Turns Golden

By W.W. EDGAR

PLYMOUTH
Born in the dark days of the depression after World War I, the Plymouth Plating Co. is celebrating its golden anniversary, and no one is more pleased -- and surprised -- than Frank Henderson, the jovial gent who started it all.

Michigan Tax Aid Available

Taxpayers can obtain assistance in completing their Michigan tax returns from the revenue division of the Michigan Dept. of Treasury at 22136 Grand River, Detroit, and 24910 Michigan Ave., Dearborn 48124. Both divisions are open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The forms are available in state treasury offices, banks, savings and loan offices and post offices.

Amelia Streets, he recalled how he and Henry Hondorp, a fellow worker at the Daisy Air Rifle plant, got started in what is now one of the oldest going concerns in Plymouth. "Right across the street," he said, "was the Millard Co. that dealt in band instruments. After work at Daisy where we were platers, we'd go over to the Millard and work on the band instruments just to make a few extra dollars."

"In those days," he went on, "most things were made of brass that required a lot of polishing and buffing. The success we were having gave me the idea to form a partnership and go into business."

In a reminiscing mood, he recalled that on a Saturday afternoon in 1923, he and Hondorp cleaned a little, old place across the street from where the plant is now located, and the Plymouth Plating Co. was born.

"We've come a long way since then," he said. "We have weathered many an economic storm. But we're just an old-fashioned plant doing business in an old-fashioned way -- and still enjoying it."

The company celebrated its first year in business by building the little tile building on Amelia Street. Later, in 1929, it was necessary to enlarge and another addition was built in 1940.

"Sure, we've had some satisfaction with our success," Frank went on, "but we have known some dark days, too."

"I well recall one time when we had a $2,700 mortgage on the place and only $12.50 in our bank account. That week Henry, my partner, and I each took $5 for our pay."

The original partnership lasted until 1945 when Henry died. His son Gerald, took over, and the partnership remained until 1968 when the son, too, died.

As he spoke, Frank walked over to the clothes rack and picked off a cap.

"Here's Gerald's cap," he said. "It has been hanging here since 1968. You see there is a lot of sentiment about this company and it always will be that way."

Thoroughly aware that the plant is unusual in this day and age when big business has absorbed many of the "little fellows," Frank said, "We manage to keep our customers by doing business the old-fashioned way. We have customers within a radius of 100 miles. We have only 12 employees and that's big enough."

Over all these years there's one job he likes to recall.

"Back in the early '30s we plated and polished all the trim on President Herbert Hoover's new Lincoln car," he said. "The piece over the cowl weighed 70 pounds, but working on that car made all of us feel proud."

While the plant is considered old-fashioned, there has been much improvement in the plating method insofar as timing is concerned.

"What we used to take 45 minutes to do we now accomplish in eight," Frank admitted.

With a broad smile, he turned in his chair and asked,

"Do you know any other business where its best customer is right across the street?"

Then he pointed to the Anchor Coupling Co. and confided he does all of the plating for it.

Plating has been his main concern through most of his 76 years, but Frank has had several other interests and hobbies.

A keen follower of sports, he likes to recall that he has held season tickets for the Lions' games through the years and always has been a booster of pro football.

"I'll never forget the day I told Sterling Eaton (late publisher of the Plymouth Mail) the day would come when pro football would surpass the college variety and the pros would be playing in Michigan Stadium."

Well, it happened. With a twinkle he asked,

WHAT USED TO take 45 minutes is now done in eight, says Frank Henderson, whose Plymouth Plating Co. is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

"Do you know where we are sitting?" Without waiting for an answer he said, "We are sitting in left field of the old baseball diamond where Plymouth used to entertain teams from Romulus, Salem and Northville."

Music and the theater also are hobbies, and only several weeks ago he and his wife flew to New York City on a Saturday morning, attended the Metropolitan Opera in the evening and flew back on Sunday.

As the memories came rolling back, Frank recalled one of the finest evenings he ever spent.

"When I was about 16 years old, I took my mother to see a production of 'Ben Hur' in the old Lyceum Theater in Detroit. I'll never forget it because they had eight big horses on the stage."

"You don't see things like that anymore."

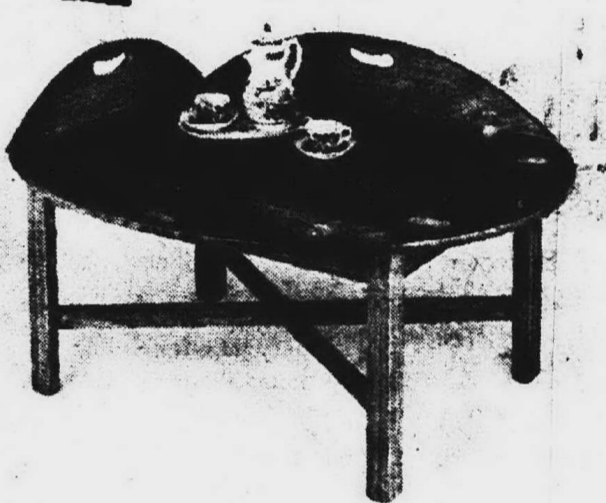

As he marked the actual birthday on the calendar, Aug. 23, Frank mused:

"I was born in Northville, the son of a painter, and I sure came a long way, didn't I?"

No one could disagree with the jovial historian of old-time Plymouth.

Ebenezer Sez:

"We're proud to introduce our accessory boutique of accent furniture."

Career Beginning For This Mother Of 3

By KATHY MORAN

Doris Campbell is as comfortable behind an engine lathe or drafting board as many women are behind a vacuum cleaner.

The pretty, petite Livonian is on the verge of completing her studies in mechanical design technology at Schoolcraft College and is anxiously waiting to step from the role of student to professional.

She's also the busy mother of three daughters and wife of William Campbell, an engineer with Ford Motor Co. And if the red tape ever ends, she'll be the adoptive mother of a Korean boy, Woo Soo Yung, in June.

As anxious as she is to begin a new career, Mrs. Campbell really sparkles when talking about her eight-year-old son.

She and her family have been trying for 1½ years to adopt a boy. Now that they know who he is, they are getting impatient for his arrival.

"We're going to call him Jason," she said. "We have his dresser and bed already."

"He's an orphan and was left on the streets when he was a couple of months old. We're anxious to get him, but the red tape bogs things down."

"Good thing I've got school to keep my busy."

This is her busiest term at Schoolcraft, where she's taking 16 credit hours. They keep her in classes in the day and evening for a total of 26 hours a week.

Her home at 18285 Levan is only four minutes from the college, causing her to boast that she's the only student who can dash home and do homework whenever she has an hour free between classes.

"There isn't too much homework," she says. "I do a lot of math at home, but there isn't too much of burning the midnight oil."

She started at Schoolcraft seven years ago when she was pregnant with her youngest daughter, Becky, now six. All three daughters including Terry, 11, and Dale, 9, help her with the housework and laundry so that she has more time for classes.

"I started out with engineering on my mind, but for engineering you have to really sweat blood," she says. "I'm trying to start working and couldn't wait that extra time."

During most of her time at Schoolcraft, she has been the only woman in her classes. Aside from other women in her initial basic classes, she has become used to the distinction.

"I have found 100 per cent of the faculty 180 degrees opposite from what I expected," she said. "You might think you'd have some static, but I've had none at all."

Both faculty and students accept her without prejudice, she says, with the only exception that they watch their language when she's around. She even tutored one male student in math last term.

"It's been very, very enjoyable," she adds.

Despite the fact that she's breaking into a male-dominated field, Mrs. Campbell doesn't view herself as a women's liberationist.

"I'm as liberated as I want to be," she said. "I go along with it as far as jobs are concerned. But the family end of it is your responsibility."

"I don't think you should go whole hog into it and dump your children in a day care center. Either there should be no children or there should be some previous arrangement with your husband to make sure the children are taken care of."

Women's liberation might help her getting a job this time where it would have failed several years back.

Before she married Bill, she applied for a job with a major company armed with a straight A record in high school and a second prize award in Ford Motor Co.'s industrial art contest.

Her prize-winning entry was a meticulously drawn turbo jet engine done on five 20 by 30 inch pages.

"A cookie jar beat me out (for first place)," she recalled. "It must have been some cookie jar."

Despite her obvious qualifications, the company gave her a job "tracing nuts and bolts."

"I'm going to be prepared this time," Mrs. Campbell said. "In the meantime, women's liberation has come along, and I guess it will help. I'm going in my glory this time," she said.

"I'm trying to aim high. I won't be happy being a board jockey. I always like to take responsibility and I'm very ambitious, extremely ambitious," she admitted candidly.

Meanwhile, she's preparing for the busiest spring in her life -- when she'll gain an associate college degree, a Korean son and a new and exciting career.

DORIS CAMPBELL'S family is as proud of her as she is of them. Her three daughters (from left) Dale, 9, Becky, 6, and Terry, 11, help with the housework so their mother can take classes at Schoolcraft College. In addition to being a wife, mother and student, Mrs. Campbell paints. (Observer photo)

Indian Food Drive Goal: 9,000 Cans

April 13 is the target date for another effort to help Michigan Indians by the Western Wayne County Conservation Assn.

Hank Chrushal, chairman of the group's Indian affairs committee, has set a goal of 9,000 cans of food to aid families in the Detroit area and in nine communities ranging from the Thornapple River area to Sault Ste. Marie.

"If we get enough, we'll even go to Bay Mills and L'Anse in the upper peninsula," he said.

Chrushal is storing the food cans at his home at 19345 Brentwood, Livonia (north of Seven Mile and east of Middle Belt.)

Already, the Boys Club in Redford Township has begun work. The Ford Motor Girls Club collected 512 cans on one drive and is conducting a second under Vera Arnold and Joan Smith.

Others making collections are Girl Scout Troop 70 of northwest Detroit; Church of the Holy Spirit in Westland; Salem United Church of Christ, Farmington; Beta Sigma Phi sorority, Livonia; Local 25 of the Ironworkers union, AFL-CIO (in addition, the apprentices have offered to help deliver); Indian Maidens and Y-ettes of the Livonia Family Y; and Girl Scout Troop 50, Livonia.

The WWCA made a similar trip at Christmas time with toys, clothing and food. In a letter to Observer Newspapers, Ardith Pierson, secretary of Indian Enterprises at Rothbury, said:

"We wanted you to know that the Indian children's Christmas parties in our area turned out wonderful...592 Indian children in the Muskegon-Oceana area received two toys each, and in the Mason-Manistee County area 97 Indian children received toys the same."

"We would like to publicly thank everyone who has worked toward making the Indian children in our area very happy. We are very grateful."
