Ford -- 'City Can Best Offer Township Police Protection'

Main Street Recreated By Museum Workmen

By W. W. EDGAR

Amid the pounding of hammers and the screeching of saws, the interior work in the Dunning Memorial Building that will house the Plymouth Historical Museum is gradually being completed.

When the last nail is driven and the dust cleared away, community residents who long have awaited the historical museum will be due for a surprise.

Just when the work being done by volunteers will be finished is still not known, but Margaret Dunning, donor of the building, is hoping it can be dedicated some time in May.

It has been suggested that the dedication will make the museum a reality on Heritage Day as one of the highlights of Michigan Week, which annually is the third week in May.

In the past few years, many special days during Michigan Week have been anything but glamorous. With the museum dedication, it could put a sparkle on the entire week some feel.

"I haven't set a date, or even thought of a certain day," Miss Dunning said. "I want the work to be completed, and I would like to have the ground on the outside more presentable than it is now. We may have to wait six or seven weeks -- maybe longer."

The real surprise will come when you enter the front door. Over it you'll see the stained glass window taken from the rubble of the old P & A theater that was ruined by fire several years ago.

Once inside, your eyes will focus on a street lined on both sides with small, smart shops. These shops, each of which will be open to sponsorship, have been modeled after the street scene in the museum at Lebanon, Ohio.

Varied fronts will mark the shops. Some will have archway entrances. Others will have bay windows or some feature to stand them apart.

The lower floor, according to present plans, will house the heavier equipment, such as antique cars and old-time farm equipment that helped make the Plymouth community a rich farming country.

Miss Dunning already has started tours of the building, the first of which to give the members of the Business & Professional Women's Club a view of the work under way.

Canton Denies Rezoning For Airport Area

Canton's planning commission has rejected a rezoning request involving land near Mettetal Airport.

The petitioner, Beznes Realty, had asked for the rezoning of 75 acres at the northeast corner of Lilley and Warren Roads, referred to as the Schmidt property. The rezoning requested was from M-1 (light industrial) to 68 acres of R-M (multiple) and 7.5 acres of R-O-1 (restricted office).

Denial of the petition was recommended by Canton's planning consultant, Michael Manore. Two reasons cited for denial were the noise level of aircraft that would be flying overhead and the possible curtailment of future airport expansion.

While the rezoning request was denied by the planners, the petitioner still has recourse to the township board, explained Wes Kaiser, vice chairman of the commission.

The petition was considered, he added, because the original petition was filed last December -- before a six-month moratorium now in effect was declared by the township board.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two articles dealing with the problem of providing police protection for the townships and the possible solutions to the problem. The first article appeared March 21.

By EDWARD WENDOVER

Plymouth Township officials are examining the possibility of contracting with the City of Plymouth to provide police protection for the township.

Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas has notified Plymouth Township Supervisor J. D. McLaren that the county's funding for the road patrol, which provides the primary law enforcement in the township, is due to end in August.

Thus township officials have been eyeing several alternatives to the road patrol's current services.

One alternative is to take the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to court and try to force allocation of the necessary funds for the road patrol.

Plymouth Township has joined several other western Wayne County townships in hiring an attorney, Nathan Goodnow, to head up such a fight.

Another alternative is to rely upon the Michigan State Police for coverage -- particularly since the State Police have opened a sub-post in Plymouth to serve the nearby townships.

But while the State Police do afford some police protection for the townships, Lt. Robert H. Robertson of the Redford State Police Post recently told the Plymouth Township board that State Police cannot be expected to cover just Plymouth Township.

Robertson said the State Police do not contract for coverage of one community like the Wayne County Sheriff Dept. does.

Contracting with the county for law enforcement is the third option open to the township -- but its cost rose seven per cent this year.

Last year, the county charged $189,000 to provide 24 hour a day coverage of a community with one patrol car. This year, the sheriff department estimates, it will cost $202,000.

Another alternative would be for the township to start its own police department.

The fifth alternative to the present road patrol, which the county pays entirely, is to contract with the city of Plymouth for police protection.

That idea, which has been discussed by city and township, is being considered.

League Endorses City, Twp. Unification

The Plymouth - Northville League of Women Voters has endorsed unification of Plymouth and Plymouth Township as the best means for providing services to township residents.

In a statement released to The Plymouth Mail & Observer, the league recommended that residents of both communities be given an opportunity to vote on what form of government they want under unification.

The league's report said: "The League of Women Voters of the Plymouth - Northville area believes that fire, police and municipal services could best be provided to the residents of the 'Plymouth Community' by combining Plymouth and Plymouth Township into one unit."

"The League supports unification of Plymouth and Plymouth Township, and would prefer a consolidation plan which would offer the voters of both governmental units an opportunity to choose their form of government."

This conclusion was reached by members of the league as a result of a four-year study of long range planning for orderly growth in the Plymouth community. Methods of cooperation and coordination between two or more communities (i.e., contractual arrangements, special districts, authorities, etc.) were analyzed.

"Although the present level of services in the city was rated adequate, League members felt police protection could be improved with the addition of at least a second car for night patrol and the hiring of additional officers for the creation of a traffic division."

"Township services were judged to be inadequate. Police protection offered by the Sheriff's Road Patrol has too few cars and men covering too large an area."

"The Sheriff's Department has threatened to remove this service, meaning complete dependence on the State Police patrols. Again, this provides a situation with insufficient cars and manpower to cover all the unincorporated areas in this section of the state."

"The township would then need to pay the Sheriff's Department, contract with another police department or hire its own force, any one of which would incur additional expense and require additional tax money."

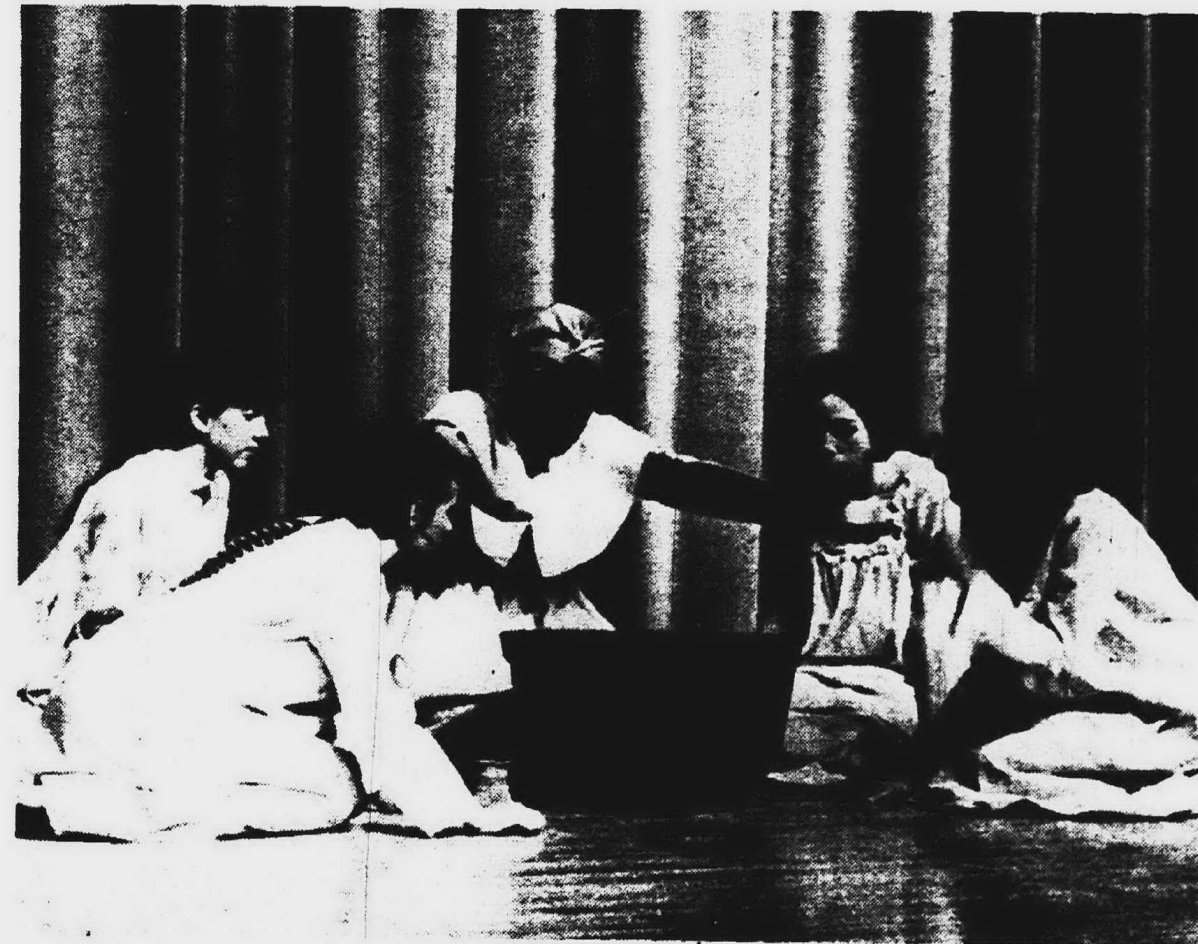

"The level of fire protection provided in the township could be strengthened by providing at least two men at each station at all times and by adding the proposed rescue squad at the second station. Although the mutual aid pacts and the volunteer services have strengthened both the City and Township Departments, these are variable factors and could change in the future."

"League members felt township services are inadequate, either because they are non-existent (refuse collection and disposal), insufficiently provided (police protection), or provided with no local citizen control (police and roads)."

"If the township is to provide and maintain a level of services for present and growing needs equivalent to the level presently being provided in the city of Plymouth, they would probably need to incorporate as a city because the township form of government generally does not have the powers to provide services or the financing for them."

"League members believe that to provide these services the formation of a separate city, surrounding the present city of Plymouth, would be more expensive and less efficient than combining Plymouth and Plymouth Township into one unit."

"THE CRUCIBLE" will be presented by the Plymouth High School Drama Dept. at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium. Tickets are $1.50. Shown in the opening scene are (from left): Kathy Tungate, Gina Dascenzo as Betty Paris, Betsy O'Day as Tituba, Sue Dewalt, and Cindy Carmody as Abigail Paris. The play is being directed by Mrs. Gloria Logan.

Water Rate Curbs Asked

A public hearing on a bill to place public water systems under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Public Service Commission is slated for April 2 in Veterans' Memorial Building, 151 W. Jefferson, Detroit.

The hearing will begin at 10 a.m. in the Polar Bear Room.

Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) urged suburbanites who are irked by their lack of control over Detroit water rates to attend the hearing. Faust is a co-sponsor of the bill.

"In the past, the Detroit Water Board has been able to increase water rates for surrounding communities without any public hearing because the system is not under the jurisdiction of the commission," Faust said.

"Until this proposal is approved by the Legislature, residents of the surrounding communities will never really have any control over water rates."

Nutritionist Due At Schoolcraft

Adelle Davis, the 68-year-old California housewife Time Magazine calls "the high priestess of nutrition," will speak at Schoolcraft College on Tuesday, April 3, at 8 p.m. in the Waterman Campus Center.

Her lecture is sponsored by the college's cultural and public affairs committee, which reports the largest advance ticket sale of the season for her appearance.

General admission is $2 and tickets are available at the bookstore on campus, open until 7 p.m. Monday - Thursday, and until 3 on Friday afternoons.

Schoolcraft is located at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile Roads, Livonia.

A best-selling author who holds a master's degree in biochemistry, Miss Davis contends that malnutrition is at the root of most of America's health, emotional and social problems.

Her four books, "Let's Eat Right to Keep Fit," "Let's Keep Well," "Let's Cook It Right" and "Let's Have Healthy Children" have sold more than seven million copies.

One of the earliest supporters of the natural food movement, Miss Davis follows a diet of fruit, home-grown vegetables, raw milk, eggs and cheese. She also fortifies her diet by taking no fewer than six vitamins and supplements after each meal.

She takes vitamin C for stress, and recommends vitamins to avoid a wide variety of diseases and conditions, including diabetes, heart disease and some cancers.

Miss Davis is not without her critics. According to Time, many scientists and academicians find her message heretical. They report that the Chicago Nutrition Association includes three of her books on its list of works that are not recommended.

Reportedly, Dr. Edward H. Rynearson, professor emeritus of the Mayo Graduate School of Medicine, University of Minnesota, has conducted a careful study of her books and claims to have found hundreds of errors of fact and interpretation.

Financial Aid Deadline Near

Students wishing to receive financial aid in order to attend Schoolcraft College next fall are reminded that April 15 is the deadline date for applications.

Keith Witmer, Schoolcraft's director of financial aid and placement, said that both new and renewal applications are due by that date. His office provides loans, outright grants and work-study opportunities for approximately 350 students each year.

"While the federal government hasn't notified us of the amounts or kinds of programs they will fund in the 1973-74 academic year," Witmer said, "it would appear that we will be able to offer programs similar to past years."

Expenditures for financial aid at Schoolcraft during 1972-73 totaled nearly $350,000.

The necessary forms and other information may be obtained from Witmer's office on the campus between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

House To List Votes Taken In Committee

State Rep. John Markes (D-Westland) was one of three legislators on the House policy committee to initiate a new policy requiring committee votes to be recorded in the daily journals of the house.

Journals will list committee votes on bills, joint resolutions and reorganization orders making the votes more readily available to the public.

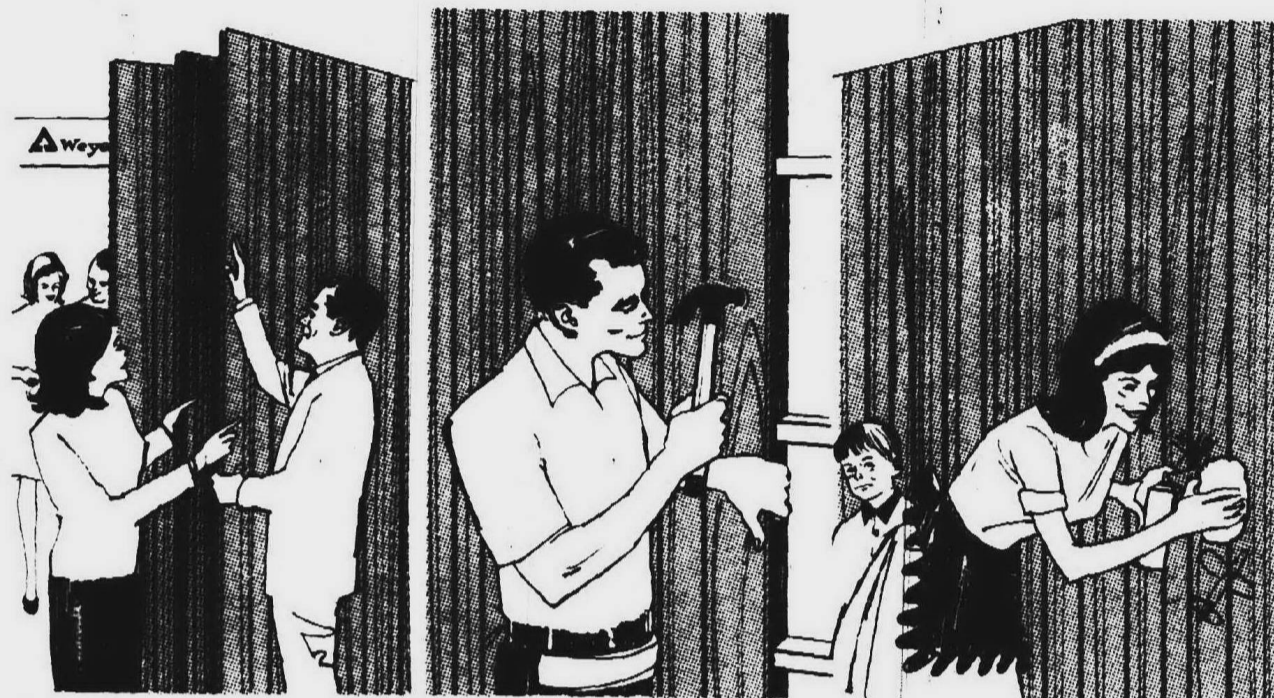

Legislators have voted one way in committee and another way on the House floor. This action would make both votes public.

Markes, who is Democratic vice chairman of the committee, initiated the action along with Rep. James E. O'Neil (D-Saginaw), committee chairman, and Rep. Roy L. Spencer (R-Attica), Republican vice chairman.

They petitioned House Speaker William Ryan (D-Detroit) to develop procedures.

Packaging Corp. To Start Plant Rebuilding Soon

PLYMOUTH The Packaging Corp. of America hopes to have its Plymouth plant, which was destroyed by fire on Dec. 16, rebuilt and in full operation by the end of August.

According to Jack McFada, general manager of the plant, Barton-Malow, a Detroit general contractor, will begin construction of the plant as soon as weather permits.

The new plant, McFada said, will be 160,000 square feet - slightly larger than the plant destroyed in the worst fire in Plymouth's history.

Although the cost of rebuilding and equipment is not known, the estimate of damage caused by the fire was placed at about $5 million.

Twp. Police Protection

ship officials for several years, has again come to the fore as a result of the impending end of the road patrol services and because of a study on the issue by Plymouth Police Chief Timothy C. Ford.

Ford estimates that his department can completely cover Plymouth Township's police needs for about $400,000 to $450,000 a year - or roughly the same the county would charge for two patrol cars.

Describing the coverage which the city would supply the township for that much money as "saturation coverage," Ford said it would include:

- Protection for the township with at least three patrol cars at all times.

- A special "felony patrol" which would investigate serious crimes in both the city and the township.

- Traffic patrols that would cover both the city and the township providing specialized accident investigation.

Ford said the additional duties for the city department would entail an addition of about 20 men and eight squad cars to the present department.

The current services such as those of the Community Service Officer, the Youth Officer and the school programs would also be extended to the township, Ford said.

The police chief also said the city could provide a single car 24-hour-a-day patrol for roughly $180,000. He stressed that that cost figure, like all others, was only a rough estimate.

In his report, Ford said the city's police could serve the township better philosophically than the State Police or the road patrol because of common community concerns.

"If one were to define a geographic area that encompasses the 'Plymouth Community,' one would have to describe its perimeter as coterminous with the Plymouth School District," Ford's study said.

"Within those boundaries are several townships and the city of Plymouth. There already exists a common cultural bond between these communities.

"This sets the basis for a police service based on common needs, desires and interests," the police chief's study said.

Ford said his department now receives many calls from residents of Plymouth Township asking for police help.

The police chief also said his department could, through a contractual arrangement, also provide protection for Canton Township - which also faces the loss of police protection which is now provided by the road patrol.

But Canton officials have discussed starting their own department and seem to lean in that direction.

Ford thinks the city's department is the best bet for "professional and economical" police coverage of the nearby townships.

"If the desires of the (township) governments are to provide the best, most economical police service and protection to their citizens, it appears clear that a contractual agreement with the city of Plymouth should be carefully weighed and in the final balance - favorably considered," Ford's study concluded.

Schools Change Voting Precincts For June

PLYMOUTH
The Plymouth Community School District has announced several changes in school election precincts which will be in effect for the June 11 annual school election.

First, electors who live in the area of Plymouth Township Precinct No. 9 west of the C&O railroad tracks and who formerly voted in School Precinct No. 3 at Plymouth Township Hall will now vote in School Precinct No. 5 at Allen School.

This means all Plymouth Township electors who reside in Plymouth Township Precinct No. 9 are now in School Precinct No. 5 and will vote at Allen School.

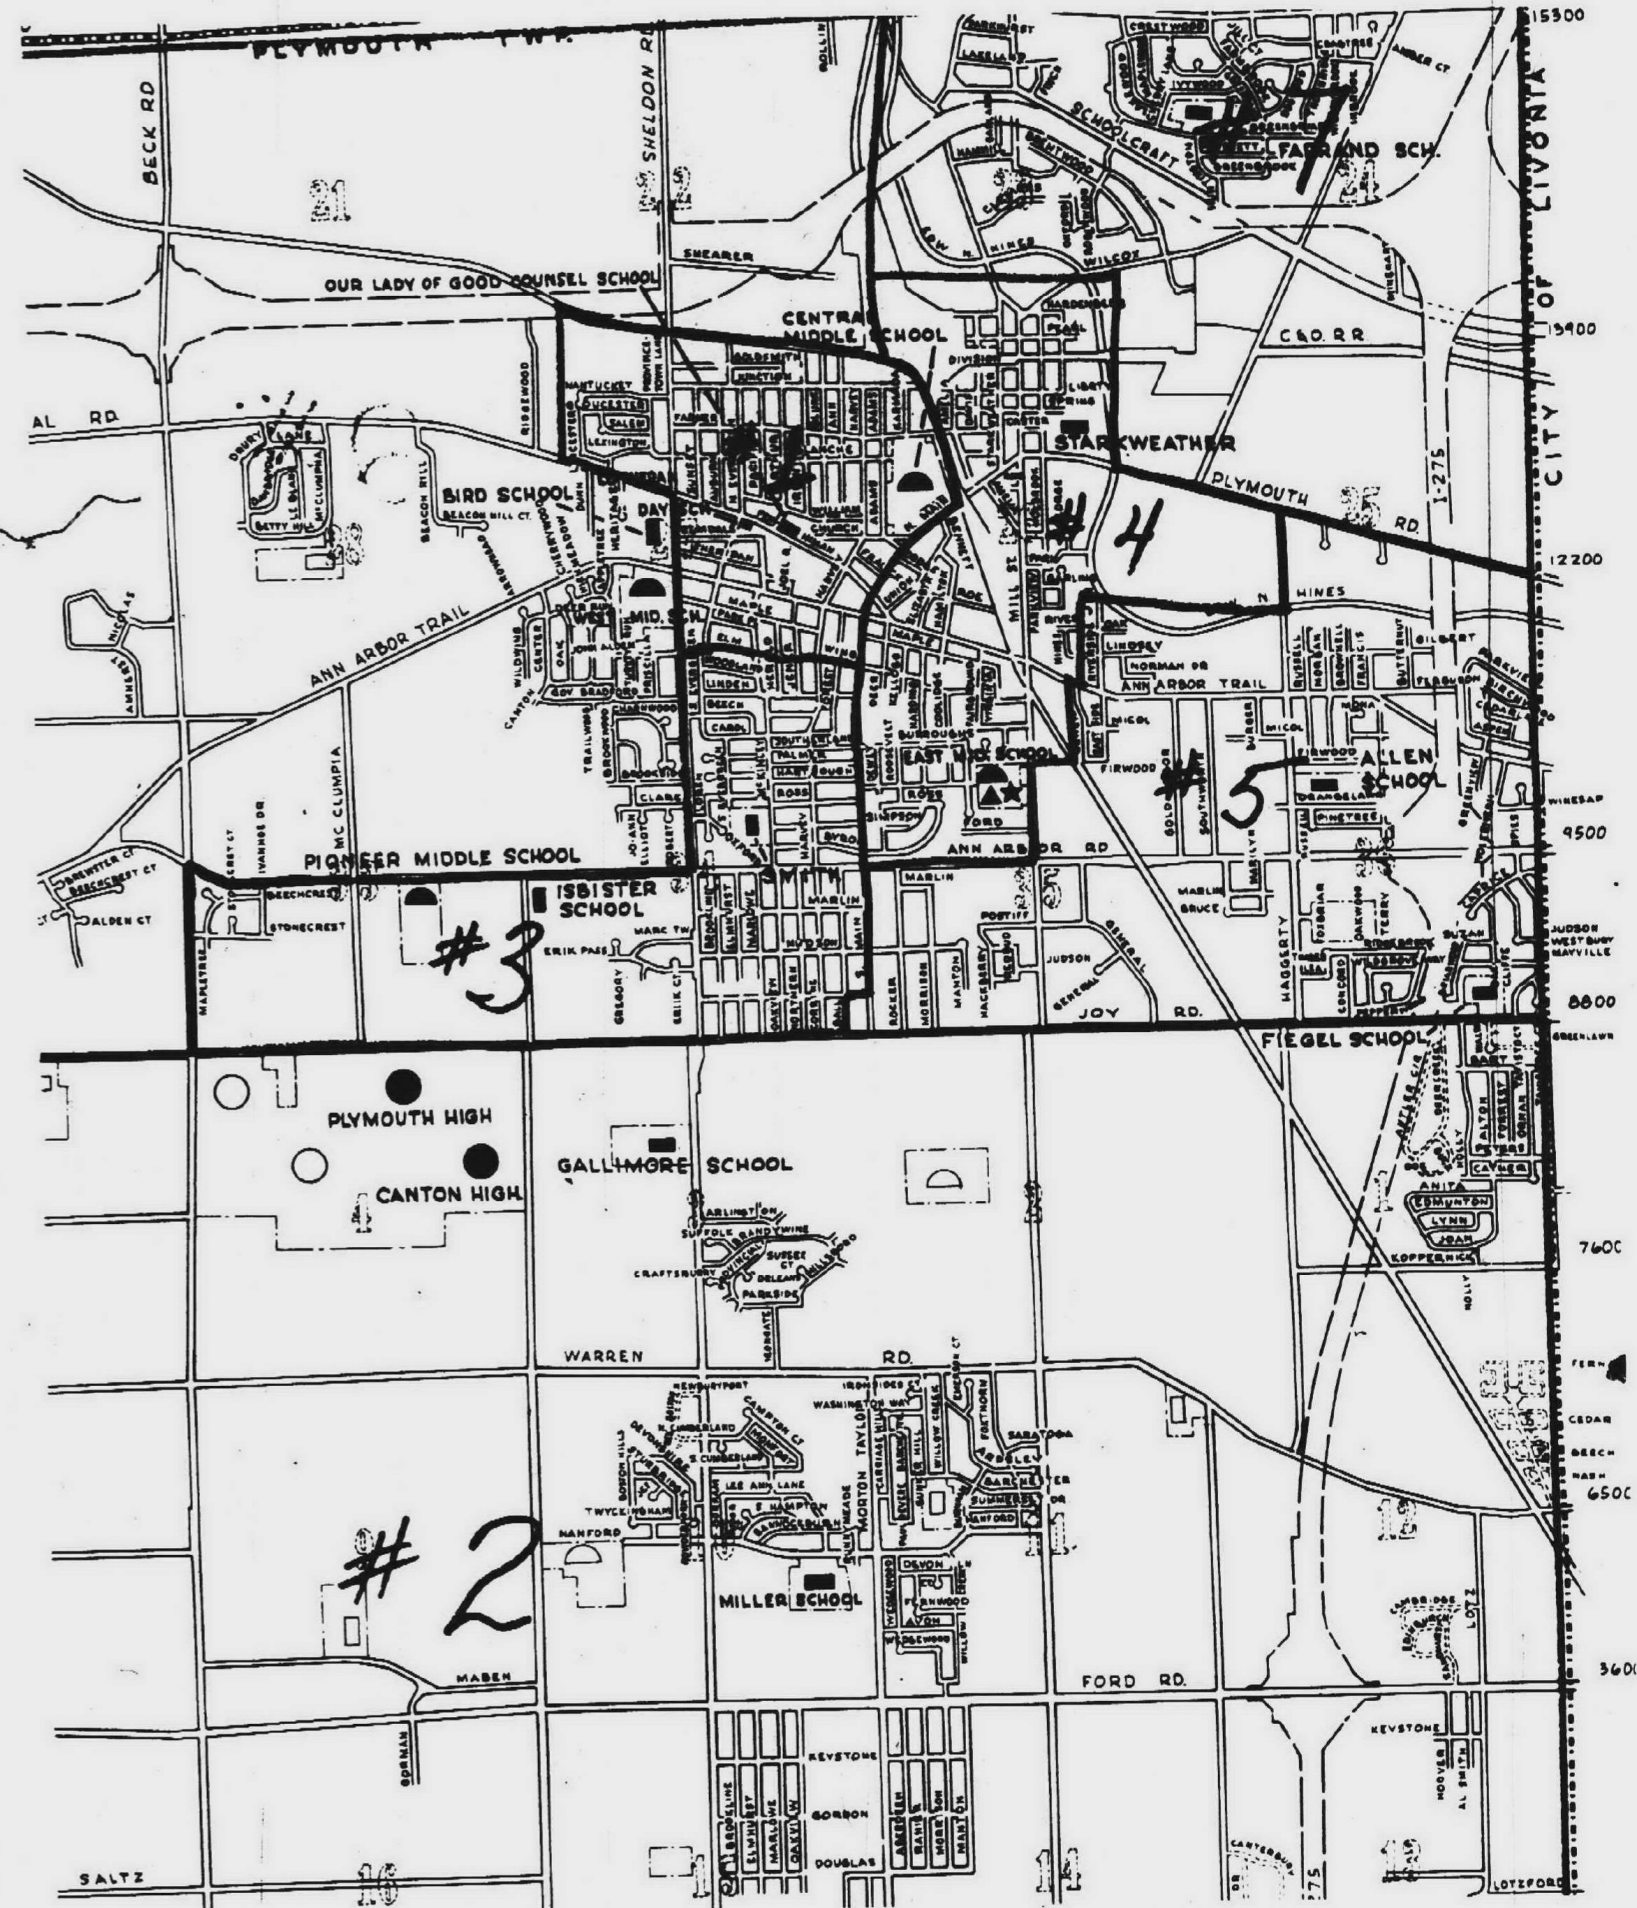

Second, electors who live in the area of Plymouth Township Precinct No. 5 west of Main and Ball streets and who formerly voted in School Precinct No. 3 at Plymouth Township Hall will now vote in School Precinct No. 3 at Isbister School.

Third, electors who live in the area of Plymouth Township Precinct No. 5 west of Sheldon between Ann Arbor and Joy Roads and who formerly voted in School Precinct No. 6 at West Middle School will now vote in School Precinct No. 3 at Isbister School.

Changes two and three mean that all Plymouth Township electors who reside in Plymouth Township Precinct No. 5 are now in School Precinct No. 3 and will vote at Isbister School.

Fourth, electors who live in the area of City Precinct No. 4 and who formerly voted in School Precinct No. 3 at Plymouth Township Hall will now vote in School Precinct No. 3 at Isbister School.

THE NEW SCHOOL VOTING precincts have the following voting places: Pct. 1, Central Middle School; Pct. 2, Gallimore Elementary School; Pct. 3, Isbister Elementary School; Pct. 4, Starkweather Elementary School; Pct. 5, Allen Elementary School; Pct. 6, West Middle School;

Pct. 7, Farrand Elementary School. Precincts 6 and 2 extend to the western boundary of the school district, separated by Joy Road. Precinct 2 also extends to the district's southern boundary.

At Canton Meeting

Kaiser 'Sets Record Straight'

By MARIE MCGEE

CANTON
Over the years, Wes Kaiser, burly vice chairman of Canton's planning commission, hasn't been known to mince many words.

Thrust into the chairman's role by the recent resignation of chairman George Lawton, Kaiser has issued a statement he said was necessary "to set the record straight."

It concerned statements that have been made since Lawton and Lynn Wilson, a veteran of 12 years on the commission, both resigned two weeks ago.

The two resignations came when the township board turned down a planning commission recommendation on a rezoning request for a small sector of the northwest area and then declared a six-month moratorium on multiple housing permits which the commission was opposed.

Lawton and Wilson then resigned "in protest" over the board action. Statements since then about the commission prompted him to speak out at the close of the regular commission meeting last week, Kaiser said.

"I think it is necessary that a statement be made to refute statements made by some people in conversation and in letters to the press," he said.

"I refuse to engage in a name-calling debate, but feel that it is necessary to set the record straight."

"The individual members of the planning commission have always made their own decisions and have not been puppets of the chairman of the group."

"I feel that George Lawton was expressing the views of this group in his statements or these views would have been challenged," he added.

Kaiser said he felt that the "commission has done a very commendable job in developing the township into a good community with more open space around our developments than is available in most communities."

He indicated that figures used by another planning commission member, Mrs. Ellen Ruland, that were part of an argument favoring a moratorium on multiple housing put the township in a bad light.

Kaiser quoted figures that showed Canton was among the lowest in a group of four communities in the number of multiple housing permits granted.

He said the Ruland figures were for communities "that were already built up."

Using figures supplied from a comprehensive report by Canton Planner Michael Manore, Kaiser said Canton had percentage of 52.3 in new multiple development compared to Southfield's 92.8 per cent of all new construction; Taylor's 67 per cent and Clinton Township's 71.3 per cent. Only Detroit was lower with 51 per cent.

"For some time," Kaiser continued, "our consultant has urged us to update our land use plan...and we now have the funds to do that."

He said the appointment of a 25-member citizens advisory council to study housing patterns in the next six months "is something the commission welcomes."

"We must remember, however, that our decision must result in reasonable zoning that is fair to all the people of the township and can be defended by the township's legal counsel."

Except for Kaiser's statement, last Tuesday's meeting was routine with only two items receiving action and two others referred to the consultant for study.

Absent were Mrs. Ruland and Louis Stein.

And it was the first official meeting for the commission's newest member, Joseph Kinnick, who was named by the board last week to replace Wilson.

Homeowners' Federation Calls Meeting

CANTON

The Federation of Canton Homeowners has invited all township officials, both elected and appointed, to a public meeting Wednesday, March 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the Plymouth-Canton High School auditorium.

The meeting hopefully will "help promote a better understanding and closer knit working arrangement between property owners and public officials," Jerry Cheske, secretary of the Windsor Park Civic Assn., said in a letter to Supervisor Philip Dingeldey.

He added the wish that this would be the first of many such sessions.

Cheske said the Federation would appreciate the attendance of "Canton's full-time planners."

"We would like to have several township officials explain various phases of local government operation, including future zoning goals and the recently established 25-member Citizens Advisory Board," he added.

A portion of the meeting time will be set aside for discussion and questions on the proposed Mocer commercial-residential complex, Cheske said.

"We believe that additional discussion, as long as it is informative and worthwhile, is essential before the project is voted upon by the township," he said.

Schools Make Temporary Appointments

PLYMOUTH

Illness has led the Plymouth School District to make two temporary appointments to elementary school principal positions.

Ray Borzi has been named to fill in for George Dodson, principal of Gallimore Elementary School, who suffered a mild heart attack and is recuperating in Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn.

Ed Kleinsmith is filling in for Don Rank as principal at Tanger Elementary School due to Rank's illness.

Both appointments are temporary said Supt. John M. Hoben.

WINNERS OF THE DAR essay contest sponsored by the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter were honored at a luncheon recently. Receiving their certificates from Mrs. John Armstrong are (from left) Jeffrey Smith, third place; Katherine Kidston, first place; and Keith Greenleaf, second place. The three are fifth graders at Allen Elementary School in Plymouth. Miss Kidston's essay also received honorary mention in state competition. (Observer photo)

Allen 5th Graders Win DAR Essay Contest

PLYMOUTH Students from Allen School, Plymouth, won all three fifth grade prizes in the essay contest sponsored by the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, DAR. Katherine Kidston, Keith Greenleaf and Jeffery Smith were judged best in that order.

Miss Kidston's entry was awarded an honorable mention in the state contest.

Fifty-six students entered the local contest from fifth, sixth and eighth grades in Plymouth, Northville and Novi schools.

Paul R. Shillito of Novi Middle School placed first among sixth grade entrants. There was no second or third place winner.

Among eighth graders, Lori Day of Northville Middle School took first place followed in order by Melinda Jayne Rotta of Our Lady of Victory School, Northville, and Christine Fritz of Novi Middle School.

Miss Day's composition

also won an honorable mention in the state competition.

Essay topic was "A Patriot of 1773." Local judges were the Mesdames D.H. Baumhart, Kenneth Hulsing and Charles Yahne.

Checks for $5, $2 and $1 were given the three top winners plus a certificate of award and an American flag lapel pin. All other entrants received certificates of appreciation.

The Stroller:

8 Cent Bargain

By W. W. EDGAR

The woman at the adjoining stamp window in the post office the other afternoon almost shouted, "That would be terrible. It would be outrageous. Something should be done about it before it is too late."

She had just been told that the postal system was considering raising the price of first class mail to 20 cents an ounce—provided it could obtain the necessary automation equipment—and to 28 cents per ounce if it couldn't.

"Where is this thing going to stop?" she asked. "It's bad enough that the high price of meat is forcing us to become vegetarians. Now they're planning to curb our letter writing to friends and relatives."

After a moment to catch her breath the indignant woman continued: "What will this do to the Christmas card business? You'll find very few people sending greetings—if it costs 28 cents to mail them. Why the entire spirit of the holidays could be affected if we don't try to stop this raise."

Standing idly by, The Stroller couldn't help smiling. He had just paid 21 cents to send a letter by plane to Plymouth, England, with assurance that it will arrive in about three days. He couldn't help thinking what a great bargain it was—21 cents to take a message in his own hand writing to England.

It seemed like one of the greatest bargains available. A tip to his favorite barber is more than that, and it is taken for granted. Yet, here was a woman complaining because the price of a stamp may increase.

The post office scene was just another example of the distorted value we sometimes place on things.

The same woman who was doing the complaining wouldn't carry a message from Plymouth to Livonia, or Redford or Southfield for a mere 28 cents. But she's complaining because the postal system is considering a price along that line.

Before she left the post office lobby, the woman pointed to the fact that the price used to be only three cents an ounce. "Now, they're planning to ask 10 times that much."

So what else is new?

Newcomers Meet April 5

PLYMOUTH Plymouth Newcomers Club will hold its monthly meeting Thursday, April 5, at 11:30 a.m. in the Thunderbird Hilton on Northville Road.

Rita Enig of Hearstside will speak and answer questions on decorating.

Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Ronald Charles, 15047 Maplewood Lane. Cost for the program and luncheon is $4.25. Babysitting is available through Mrs. Paul Kitti, 11411 Parkview.

Membership Meeting Set By Jaycees

PLYMOUTH Plymouth Jaycees will hold a membership meeting Thursday, March 29, to welcome any men between the ages of 18 and 36 interested in joining.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Jaycee House, in the Veterans Building on Main Street across from the Kroger store.

Speaker will be Pat Sheridan, board chairman of the Michigan Jaycees.

The Jaycees sponsor such events as the annual Fourth of July parade, Fall Festival beef barbecue, Operation Sand Box and others.

Those interested in the Jaycees should contact Paul Campbell, 191 E. Ann Arbor Trail, or Karl Gansler, 39962 Koppnick Road.

The Stroller can recall the days of his youth when he paid only 25 cents for a haircut and a shave—and he had a pompadour that took time to trim.

Today, with much of the red hair and pompadour just a memory, he has to pay $3.50 and is in the barber chair less than half the time it once required.

When he good naturedly spoke to the barber about the "crime" of charging $3.50 for trimming around a bald spot, he countered with "It takes a lot of time to find the hair."

These so-called distorted prices have become a way of life.

Not too many years ago when a fellow purchased a suit of clothes, he received two pairs of trousers and a vest along with the coat. Now the extra trousers carry a price tag in many cases, and vests have just about left the scene.

We have come to take this for granted under the guise of changing styles.

It is the same with the rising admission prices at sports events.

No one ever dreamed the day would come when you'd have to pay $6 to sit behind a post to watch the Red Wings in the Olympia. But it's a fact now.

The same is true with the Tigers where you pay top price for an obstructed view. The Lions do the same. Yet there was a time when you could get the best seats for $2 or $3.

In this world of distorted prices, though, there is one thing that still puzzles The Stroller.

He can't understand why, in many leading restaurants the waitress continues to fill your coffee cup—but won't do the same thing with iced tea.

All of which proves again this is getting to be a funnier world in which we live.

Real THC Rare, Costly, Dangerous

Questions should be sent to the Community Commission on Drug Abuse, PO Box 48151, Livonia, 48151.

Q. My son freely admitted taking drugs (after I had come across some capsules in his room), but he is absolutely certain that they are harmless. He says that they are called THC and are no more harmful than marijuana. He even admitted to dissolving the powder and injecting this drug.

He seems quite sincere in being afraid of using heroin and "downers" because they can cause addiction and can be fatal in overdoses. But this so-called THC is supposed to be not merely safe but non-addicting. I'm frankly about half ready to believe him, but could you please tell me what to believe?

A. The sad part of your story is that you may well be right in believing that your son is telling you the truth. If he is telling the truth as he knows it, he's been sadly misinformed.

We've had so many questions in the past year or so about THC that this time we went "right to the book" for some answers.

There is such a thing as THC. It is the active ingredient in marijuana. The full name is tetrahydrocannabinol. Extracting pure THC is so difficult a process that it was not until 1964 that even very small amounts of it were isolated from the marijuana plant.

There are two main forms of THC that are active which have been produced synthetically. The first is Delta 1-3, 4-trans THC (the same form that was extracted); the second is Delta 6-3, 4-Trans THC. Both were synthesized first in 1966.

• Both forms are liquids with a boiling point of about 156 degrees C (313 degrees F). What is alleged to be THC is, as is the case with your son, a powder.

• THC is so unstable that legitimate doses of it for research purposes must be bottled under the inert gas, nitrogen. Such precautions obviously are not being taken with the alleged street drug.

• Pure THC, even if it were available on the street, is not what you would call a "safe" drug. It is about as hallucinogenic (mind-altering) as LSD.

• True THC is extremely costly to produce. The molecule is quite complex and cannot easily be produced. And as we have already mentioned, extraction is difficult. This does not check out with the ridiculously low street prices of anywhere from 25 cents to $1. This sort of money wouldn't begin to make a down-payment on a real dose of THC.

• Injection of any street drug is unsafe. This includes real or imagined THC. The abscesses, the bacterial endocarditis, the hepatitis that heroin addicts are so prone to are not caused by heroin as such but by poor technique and contamination of the "works" (equipment used to give injections).

What we have presented is merely the most likely situation that your son got caught up into. We'd strongly suggest that you have one of those capsules analyzed anonymously and at no cost through the Analysis Anonymous program available in your community. Call the Drug Abuse Commission at 422-3760 for the nearest location of a drop point for this sample. When you get the results please call again for further information and guidance.

Easter Seal Chairmen Set

Local chairmen for the 1973 Easter Seal campaign have been announced by the Wayne County Easter Seal Society.

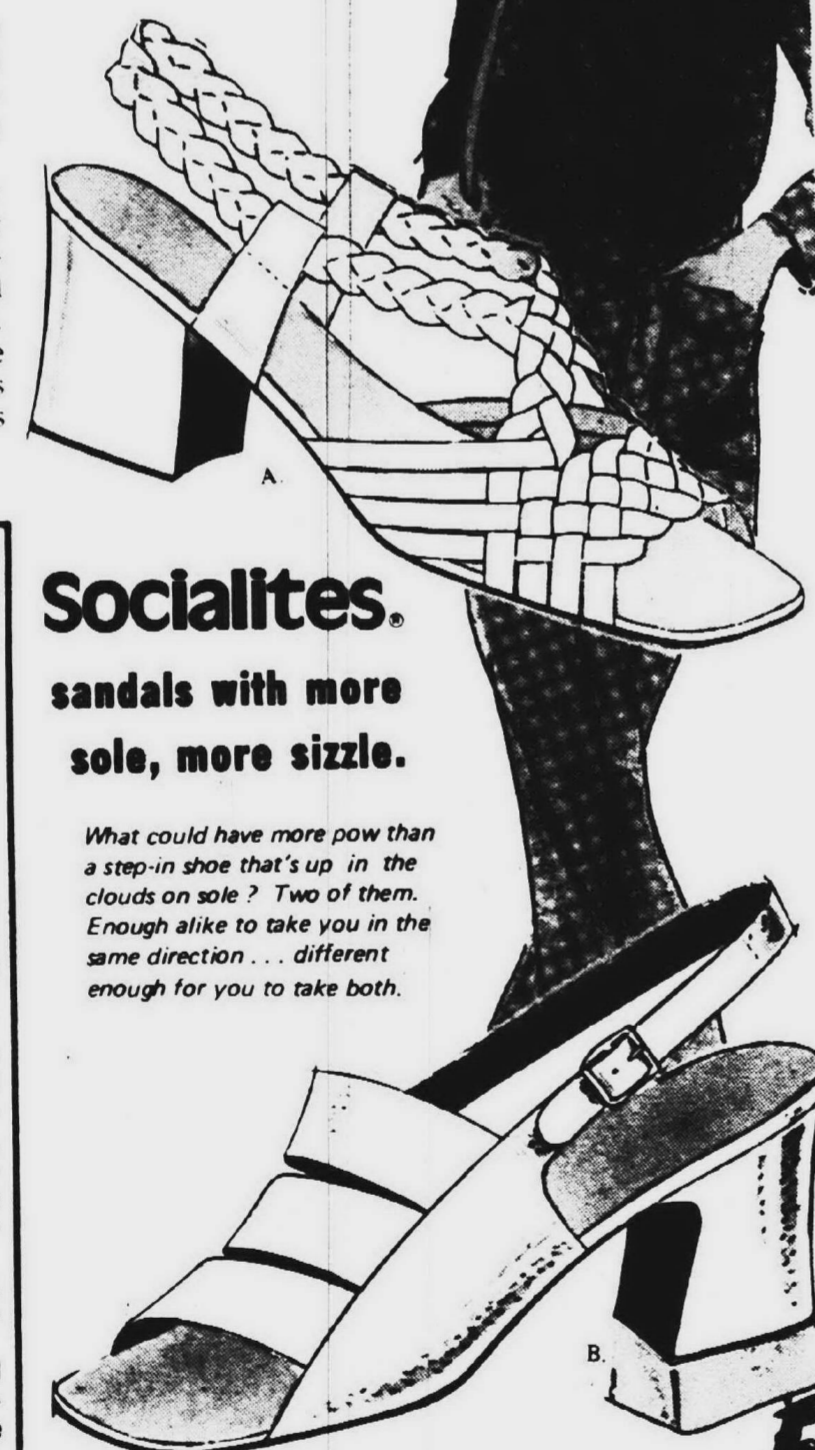

Heading the campaign will be Dr. Richard Mallow in Garden City, Lucille McNamara in Livonia, Jean Carney in Plymouth assisted by Mary Brown, and Donald Naves in Redford Township.

Both Dr. Mallow and Naves are Rotarians. Mrs. McNamara is the wife of Livonia's mayor.

The campaigns will feature the traditional lily parade, and proceeds will be used for rehabilitation programs for the handicapped.

"The Wayne County Easter Seal Society is the only Easter Seal Society serving the handicapped of our county," general chairman Hugh Archer stated. "We are delighted with the fine leadership for this year's campaign. Your generous support will be appreciated."

CHILD BRIDE by DOC KEETH

Sometimes readers mistake this column for an "advice to the troubled" column. They send me letters asking advice. Below is such a letter, and my answer to it.

DEAR DOC KEETH:

I was a child bride. I couldn't take the domestic life and some time ago deserted my husband and three children. A distant big city provided the fast life and thrills I craved. Being fairly attractive and weak-willed, my conduct was not beyond reproach. But the furs, money and fine living seemed worth it all.

Now I am out on parole. I feel rehabilitated. I ignore the old crowd.

I have met a wonderful man. Steady, kind, honest. He wants to marry me but doesn't know my past. He has a beautiful home all ready to move into.

The question is: "What should I tell him?"

--SPEEDY

DEAR SPEEDY,

Tell him that his beautiful new house had better have Lennox central heating and air conditioning in it or the deal is off. You've gone through too much, Doll, not to settle for the best.

DalBo's Condition Improved

Leo DalBo, president of the Clarenceville Education Assn., has been removed from the surgical care unit at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, and is reported "improved" and "fair" condition after a March 17 traffic accident in Cadillac.

DalBo, 44, lives at 15574
Northville Forest Drive,
Plymouth. He teaches math and geometry at Clarenceville High School.

DalBo, who was traveling south on M-115, turned on his left turn signal, moved to the extreme right lane, then began a left turn into the path of a car behind him, Cadillac police quoted witnesses as saying.

The driver of the second car was not held.

Because of a heavy snowstorm, DalBo was treated for several days at St.
Luke Hospital, Saginaw, before being moved to University Hospital. His condition on arrival was described as "serious" and he was placed in the intensive care unit.

C'Ville Bands Earn Raves

Clarenceville's Junior High bands - Concert and Cadet - came away recently from the Southeastern Michigan district band festivals with all Division I ratings.

The Concert Band played in Fairlane School in Dearborn Heights with the Cadet band going to West Junior High school in Ypsilanti. Both bands are under the direction of Ted Mallires.

Remarkably, one judge,
Nicholas Cannici of Ferndale, awarded the Concert band straight "A plus" ratings in all categories - tone, intonation, rhythm, technic, interpretation, general spirit, selection and stage deportment.

He said: "I am tremendously impressed with this band's sensitivity to playing with this good musical taste."

Other judges of the Concert Band - Edwin Nawrock of Warren schools, Devere
Fader of Bridgeport schools and James Honsinger of Port Huron schools - awarded the band all "A" ratings in all categories - a perfect score for the band.

Said Judge Fader: "The best march performance of the day - Bravo!" Echoed Nawrock: "The most musical performance I have heard all day. Congratulations to the band and director."

As its required number, the band played "Queen City" by Boorn; its march was "Theme and Montage" by Leckrone with the selected number being "Variations on a Folk Song" by Kabelevsky.

The Cadet band was lauded by Judge Don Lupp from Henry Ford Community College as being "quite mature for a young band."

Both bands will play in the state festival May 5.

Extended Hours...Making banking better for you.

MAUREEN DELANEY seems to be aghast at the thought of spinning all that straw into gold. She's appearing in the Livonia-Redford Theater Guild production of "Rumpelstiltskin," along with Mark Gauldoni as the king and Bob Tuchetti as the miller. The play will be staged at 11, 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday, March 31, in Redford Union High School, 17711 Kinloch, Redford Township. This will be the last Saturday in a four-weekend run in the area. Tickets will be sold at the door. Group sales are being handled by Mrs. Edward O'Connell, 29639 Robert Drive, Livonia.

Madonna Will Have 4-Day Arts Festival

A fine arts festival, covering four days of events, is being planned by Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia. All will be held in the Activities Center and the dates are April 5-8.

The festival will open at 7 p.m., Thursday, with a reception, followed by the presentation of Murray Schisgal's "Luv," at 8. This will be also be staged Saturday, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, at 3 p.m.

Graduating students, college art students and adult art students of the college will exhibit a wide variety of projects. Their exhibit will be open Thursday, from 7 to 8 p.m.; Friday, from 3 to 8 p.m.; and Sunday, from 12 noon to 8 p.m. There will be a reception from 2 to 3 p.m., Sunday.

"Far From the Madding Crowd," Hardy's story of the headstrong English beauty Bathsheba, will be shown at 8 p.m., Friday, April 6. Admission will be 50 cents.

The Young Dancers Guild, the teen-age performing company of the Jewish Community Center, will present a varied program of traditional, modern and avant-garde dances. They will perform at 2 p.m., Saturday, April 7, outdoors if weather permits. The performance is free.

Students in the college music department will perform an instrumental-vocal recital, featuring works by Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Chopin and Debussy. This is free.

The home economics and family life students will join the festival by presenting a fashion show and displays at 7 p.m., Sunday. Again, there is no admission charge.

County Reps Rap Sullivan

Representatives of 22 northern Michigan counties have gone on record supporting the Wayne County commissioners in their opposition to "judicial invasion of legislative powers."

County commissioners from the northern counties unanimously adopted the resolution of support at a regional meeting sponsored by the Michigan Assn. of Counties at Grayling.

The resolution complained of a "continual encroachment upon legislative and executive powers by the judicial branch."

It declares that the presiding judge of Wayne County Circuit Court, Joseph

A. Sullivan, "arbitrarily and capriciously threatened 20 Wayne County commissioners to jail if they do not bow to his wishes regarding an unauthorized and illegal pay raise to court employees."

The Grayling resolution charged that Sullivan "had tacit approval by the Michigan Supreme Court" and "violated the basic American constitutional principle of the separation of powers." It added:

"The continual encroachment upon legislative and executive powers by the judicial branch can spread to other counties and ultimately to both the State Legislature and the governor."

Where Will 246 Center Kids Go?

By KATHY MORAN

The proposed closing of Wayne County Child Development Center in Northville Township has caused at least a little apprehension among the staff and mildly retarded residents.

Dr. Pasquale Buoniconto, superintendent at the center for 18 years and a member of the task force making the recommendation, doubts if there are enough places to accommodate the 246 residents.

"They have assured me there are enough places for the children," he said. "But it might be a little difficult."

The center is funded primarily by the county. The state pays about $15 of the $60 per resident per day cost, Dr. Buoniconto said.

"It will lower the cost as far as the county is concerned, but the county won't get off completely," he said.

The task force has recommended that three committees composed of various professionals screen each resident and determine what type of setting the child needs. The children, ages 7 to 18, will be placed in state institutions, foster homes or small group homes depending on their needs.

Target date for evacuating the old buildings at the center is July 1, 1974.

Just what will happen to the 750 acres and 51 buildings is uncertain, Dr. Buoniconto said.

The center's 275 employees will be able to apply for equivalent jobs in state institutions but will lose their seniority and some fringe benefits unless they can find other county jobs, Dr. Buoniconto said.

His future is uncertain also. According to the county's own rules, Dr. Buoniconto will have to retire when he reaches age 65 on Nov. 1 unless commissioners make an exception.

Since he resides in a home on the center's grounds, Dr. Buoniconto will also have to find a new residence.

"We want what's best for the children, but there will be a lot of questions asked on whether this is best for them," said staff member William Del Campo of Redford Township.

"I've been here 25 years and I've seen a lot of changes since Dr. Buoniconto came here. We've got a good school here," Del Campo said. "Don't let anybody tell you otherwise. It's a good school."

Most of the residents have been referred to the center by juvenile court although others are referred by schools, doctors, families, family service agencies and other groups.

The children attend school and some hold jobs in nearby communities.

Several reasons have been given for closing the center including the fact that most residents are from Detroit and it is difficult for their families to get to Northville Township to visit them.

Most buildings date back to 1926 when the center first opened. Many are in need of repairs.

Currently, two cottages are closed while the maintenance and building staff renovate them, Dr. Buoniconto said.

"We are a little community unto ourselves," he said, noting that the center has its own fireman, building staff, kitchens and formerly had its own power plant.

Another reason for the closing is a trend toward smaller "personalized" wards for residents.

"Today the concept is to place the children in small groups rather than in the large open wards," he said. "Our dormitories have two large wards with 10 to 15 beds on each. When I came here, there were 25 beds in a ward. This has been reduced."

He noted that many buildings are sorely in need of repair but are solid, sturdy buildings. Improvements have been made over the years such as adding acoustical ceilings to many cottages, tile in place of linoleum on the floors and bright instead of drab colors on the walls.

Although it is still uncertain what will happen to the children, "It will be worth the sacrifice if they can give the children better service," he said.

Marygrove Offers Awards

Marygrove College in Detroit has announced that incoming freshmen are eligible for 13 academic recognition awards. Competitive exams for the awards will be on March 31.

Three awards of $1,000 and 10 of $500 will be granted to students entering the college in September. The awards are renewable for four years.

Another renewable award of $1,000 per year is offered to a person with an associate of arts degree from an accredited community college. All applicants must have maintained a 3.7 cumulative grade point averages based on a 4 point scale.

Test applications are available from the office of the dean at the college. Applications must be received by March 23.

Champion Stevenson Dominates 1st Team

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

This year's '72-'73 All-Observer hockey lineup is sporting some talent that is sure to be heard from in years to come.

And as if it isn't enough for champion Stevenson High to overpower all the action on the ice, the Spartans came through in dominating fashion in post-season honors with three players on the All-Area six-man squad.

The Stevenson threesome sports two All-Area returnees in seniors Van Vermeesch and Don Finn along with junior Steve Hillman. Franklin's Ken Karpzuk, Churchill's Doug Lloyd and Bentley's Bob Wasilewski complete the No. 1 team in Observerland.

The team checks in at an average height of 5-11 and weight of 171 pounds.

Vermeesch, who was All-Area goalie last year, turned in another brilliant season with a goals scored against average of 2.36 per game. Karpzuk and Lloyd were the top two defensive standouts from the six school Suburban Hockey League.

The forward line of Finn, Wasilewski and Hillman sported the top three scoring marks in the Suburban League.

Finn had 28 goals and 15 assists in 17 games for 43 points. Hillman had 23 goals and 19 assists in 17 games and Wasilewski collected 22 goals and 19 assists in 17 games.

Finn finished with 43 league points, Hillman next with 42 and Wasilewski third with 41 points.

It would be tough to stop this two-junior line which accounted for 73 goals, 53 assists and 126 points. That's an average of more than seven points a game from these three.

Vermeesch at 6-2 is the tallest member of the All-Area selections and for a goalie checks in at 155 pounds. The lanky Spartan senior was a unanimous selection last year in Stevenson's 11-1-4 season and another shoo-in this year. The Spartans went undefeated in Suburban Hockey League action and won the George Gee memorial tournament.

He allowed an average of 2.36 goals a game.

"You have to judge a goalie by performance," said Stevenson hockey Coach Gerry Goode. "You have to judge it by what is and not by what it could be."

"Vermeesch was it for Stevenson High," added Goode. "He has the sharp reflexes and can really cut down the angles."

Churchill's Doug Lloyd checks in at 5-10 and 167 pounds at one of the two defensive berths.

Lloyd was one of the main reasons Churchill gave Stevenson a real battle for the Suburban "Stanley Cup" in the Gee tourney.

He scored only four goals and picked up six assists and 36 minutes in penalties in the Suburban.

But leadership was the key to Lloyd's performance.

"Lloyd was our defense," said Churchill Coach Adam Mitchell. "He has the natural ability of controlling the play and can turn either way with puck."

The other defensive slot is filled by Franklin's 5-10, 165 pound Ken Karpzuk, the key to the success story the Patriots wrote in finishing third in the Suburban League.

Karpzuk was the second leading scorer on the Patriot squad even though he was a defenseman. He clicked for eight goals and six assists for 14 points, second only to Mark Field with 10 goals and five assists.

"Ken held our defense together," said Franklin Coach Paul Ferguson. "The kids knew they had a leader in Karpzuk."

Finn is the lone senior on the forward line, with Hillman and Wasilewski due to shine again next season.

The 5-10, 175 pound senior won the scoring title with 28 goals and 15 assists in the Suburban League for 43 points.

Finn was All-Area last year and a three year man on Goode's Stevenson squad.

"Don wanted all the ice time he could handle," added Goode. "He knew better than anyone what he could do and a player like himself comes along just once in so many years."

Lake Superior State College, Michigan Tech, University of Michigan and Michigan State have all had their eyes on Finn and his skating ability.

"Don's backhand shot is harder than most slapshots," said Goode.

The other mainstay in Stevenson's scoring power was Steve Hillman.

At 5-10 and 190 pounds, Steve popped in 23 goals and picked up 19 assists.

"Steve has to be the next superstar to follow Finn," said Goode. "He is very deceptive with his stick, an accurate quick passer with good slap and wrist shots."

"He has proven himself already around the opponents' nets," finished Goode.

Hillman picked up 12 minutes in penalties while Finn collected 16.

Danosi Scores

Wayne State University sophomore fencing captain Steve Danosi added another sabre title to his credit when he won the national Under-20 championship in the winter of 1972-73 with a 17-0 record to lead the five qualifiers for the world Under-20 championship in Buenos Aires, Argentina, April 19-22.

3 Returning

Michigan will have three defending Big Ten swimming champions returning next season. Freshman Tom Szuba of Dearborn won the 400 yard individual medley, junior Stu Isaac of Amherst, N.Y., won the 100 yard breaststroke and soph Pat Bauer of Ann Arbor the 200 yard breaststroke in the 1973 championship meet.

Franklin '73 Baseball Has A Batgirl Swing

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Franklin High School has a better baseball idea and varsity Coach Ron Hellier is set to turn on the '73 season.

The better idea -- nine Franklin batgirls. "I got the idea of installing batgirls in our baseball program last January at the American Baseball College Coaches Association meeting in Chicago," said Hellier. "A lot of the colleges, junior colleges and high schools down south are doing it." Hellier got the "go sign" from the administration. announced the tryouts for the batgirl squad, gave baseball knowledge tests and Franklin High now has a team of nine batgirls. The lone senior batgirl is Nancy Wollens who just happens to be dating one of the star Patriot players in Jeff Waterstone. The juniors on the squad are Debbie King, Claudia Carney, Karen Lehman, and Kim Scarpace. The roster is rounded out with sophomores Nancy Nauyokas, Kit Zupen, Liz Toth and Vicki Urben. And just what will be the duties of these nine Franklin lassies? Hellier explained that they are not taking on the role of cheerleaders but more of a statistics crew. The nine assignments for the batgirls are: scorekeeper; batgirl; base sweeper between innings; offensive and defensive statistician; program distributor; two girls for running statistics; and two for chasing foul balls.

"A lot of the schools down south and out west utilize girls in the baseball programs," added Hellier. "I think you'll see it catching on more up here. Eastern Michigan University is also going to use the girls this year."

"Everyone around Franklin thought I was joking at first," stated Hellier. "Things are more serious now and as far as I am concerned, the batgirls are a real part of the team."

"What does the boys' team think of it?"

"The team is excited about the idea," said Hellier. "Especially Waterstone since his girl friend is one of the nine batgirls. The guys didn't take me seriously at first, but they have now and they are more relaxed with the idea."

"If nothing else, the girls should draw bigger crowds for the games."

Batgirls' uniforms will consist of a Franklin baseball jersey, blue shorts, baseball socks, blue turtle neck sweater and a Franklin baseball cap.

"Having the girls around should create more of a relaxed atmosphere," added the Franklin coach.

"For the away games, the girls will be sitting in the front of the bus traveling to the game," said Hellier. "We almost always travel with the tennis team, so it will be an awkward situation returning home."

"If we win but the tennis squad loses, things just can't be all cheery, cheery, or vice versa. The girls will know what's going on."

"I guess another big thing about the idea is getting the girls involved, since it seems that's what they all want these days," added Hellier.

The nine girls see their actions as another way in showing school spirit and all agreed that they "just love baseball."

"I love baseball, like guys and this just seemed to fit right in," said sophomore Nancy Nauyokas.

Kim Scarpace is hoping to get the assignment of sweeping off the bases in between innings which might even include dusting off the umpire's shoes.

The girls all agreed that their presence should add a glamorous touch to the Franklin baseball scene and batgirl Debbie Kline admitted that her father wishes he was still playing baseball with batgirls all around the diamond.

Franklin, which opens at Bentley on April 9, will be bouncing back from a 12-10 '72 campaign and Hellier is hoping the team addition will provide the winning spark.

Just think, this season we'll be able to pick an All-Area batgirl.

Spartan's Gerry Goode Tops Hockey Coaches

Hockey pucks bounce in many funny directions. For Stevenson High, the puck has been bouncing in one determined direction and the man doing the shooting has been selected as Observerland's hockey coach of the year.

A tip of the hat to Stevenson Coach Gerry Goode.

Prep hockey in Observerland has just completed its third season and it hasn't been an easy road for the area coaches to convince all that hockey is here to stay.

The road to conviction has been conquered and the prep hockey program can do nothing but continue the upward swing it has already kicked into high gear.

"Stevenson Hockey Power" buttons are aplenty in Observerland and Goode is the man behind the Spartan machine.

The Spartans placed second behind Bentley in the "rookie year" but upended the Bulldog crew, 4-1, for the city championship.

Last year saw Stevenson remain undefeated up to the final game with Churchill, when Adam Mitchell's Charger squad toppled the Spartans 3-2 to tie for the Livonia championship.

This year, the four - team

Livonia League expanded to six schools with the addition of Southfield High and Southfield Lathrup and Goode's Spartans went at it again.

Stevenson ran up a 12-0-3 league record, finished 16-3-4 overall and won the George Gee memorial tourney with a 4-2 victory over Churchill.

Goode has never lost to Franklin, only once to Churchill and three times to Bentley, all in the first '70-'71 season.

The top seeded hockey coach graduated from University of Michigan in '60, married in '61 and worked in industry for four years.

In '64, Gerry returned to U-M to work on his teaching curriculum and in '65 began teaching at Cherry Hill. He moved to Bentley High in '68.

Goode then finished his master's at Eastern Michigan University and made the switch to Stevenson High in '69 in the field of counseling.

As a Stevenson counselor, his wife Joanne and sons Barry (8) and Bradley (10) have become accustomed to Spartan territory.

That is except for the fact of Joanne also being a counselor at a rival Livonia school named Churchill, the school that always seems to be battling with Stevenson in hockey action.

"Joanne has to sit on a real thin line when it comes to hockey competition between Churchill and Stevenson," added Goode.

Goode also coached junior varsity baseball at Stevenson in '69 and this spring has taken over the Spartan varsity squad which opens play next week.

Congratulations to Coach Gerry Goode for being one of the moving forces in Observerland hockey competition.

Undefeated Farmington Places 5 Matmen On Area First Team

Farmington High swept top billing in the '72-'73 All-Observer prep wrestling selections with five Falcons making their way to the All-Area first team.

The Falcon fivesome of Dan Longtine, John Osentoski, Jack Gardner, Mark Churella and Jeff Krause captured the limelight, with seven other schools filling the remaining seven slots.

The 12-man team accounted for 359 wins in dual competition, lost 77 matches and tied five.

At 98 pounds, Farmington's Dan Longtine captured No. 1 billing.

The Falcon senior was co-captain of his undefeated squad and chalked up a 26-3 dual record, along with firsts in the North Farmington Invitational, Redford Union Invitational, Oakland County Tourney, an Inter-Lakes League title, a second at Schoolcraft and a district crown.

An All-Stater his junior year, John Osentoski captured his second consecutive All-Observer berth at 105 pounds.

The Farmington senior compiled a dual meet record of 26-5, took firsts in the North Farmington, Redford Union and Schoolcraft Invitational and won the Inter-Lakes crown.

Bentley's Pete Beck was selected the No. 1 grappler at 112 pounds. The Bulldog senior and co-captain racked up a 27-4 dual record, took firsts in the Western Wayne, Garden City and Livonia tournaments, second in the Suburban Eight, first in the state districts and fourth in the regionals.

Tom Fletke of Thurston is the top 119 pounder in the area. The Eagle senior scored a 22-10-1 dual record, took seconds at the Schoolcraft and Catholic Central Invitionals, first at the RU Tourney, fourth in the Wayne Invitational and second in the Northwest Suburban.

At 126 pounds, North Farmington's Steve Haller is No. 1.

The Raiders' most valuable wrestler is one of two juniors on the first team and has been voted co-captain for North for the '73-'74 season.

Haller scored a 27-10 record this year, was second in the Bedford Invitational, fourth in the Oakland County Tourney, North Farmington Invitational champion at 126 pounds, fourth in the Edsel Ford Invitational, and Northwest Suburban champion.

The other junior on the 12-man team is Farmington's Jack Gardner.

Gardner was 34-9, won the Inter-Lakes Conference crown, took firsts in the Walled Lake Western Quad and districts, third in the regionals and second at North Farmington, in the 132 pound slot.

The solo sophomore to make the coveted squad is another Falcon grappler.

At 138 pounds, Mark Churella finished third in the state.

Churella went 43-6 in dual competition and was champion at the Oakland County meet, Redford Union and North Farmington Invitionals, third at Schoolcraft, district champ and regional champ and he still has two years left.

Farmington's fivesome is rounded out by 145 pound senior Jeff Krause.

Krause was the Falcon co-captain and sported a 36-8 dual mark, won titles at Redford Union, North Farmington, Oakland County and Western Wayne along with the Inter-Lakes crown and placed third in the state regionals.

At 155 pounds, John Glenn's Bob Mink made his way to the All-Observer team for the second straight year.

Mink finished the '72-'73 season with a 31-6 dual mark and a three year Rocket record at 76-19.

Mink was champion for the second straight year at the Flint Beecher Invitational, Redford Union Invitational, Northwest Suburban League Meet and district clash and this season was first in the regionals and second in the Stevenson's Brian Partie is the No. 1 selection at 167 pounds.

Partie was 18-7-2 in dual action and recorded a pin of 24 seconds.

The Spartan senior was Livonia Quad champion for the second straight year with all his wins via the pin route. Partie was second in the Inter-Lakes, a district champion and fourth in the regionals before losing in the second round of the state finals.

Paul Matthews got the call for the 185 pound slot.

The Redford Union senior was 34-2-2 in dual play and won the Wayne Quad, the Walled Lake Central Takeodwn Tourney, Garden City East Invitational, Redford Union Invitational, North Farmington Invitational and the district and regionals at Walled Lake Western.

Matthews also won the Suburban Eight crown at 185 pounds.

To round out or "fill out" the card is heavyweight Bill Zukoff from Southfield High. The Blue Jay senior was 35-7 in dual meets, was first in the RU Invitational, second at Clintonville and third at Schoolcraft, North Farmington and Catholic Central.

THE GRASS CATCHER IS NEVER IN YOUR WAY!

It's not just luck that one of the largest grass catchers you can buy has our mower attached to it. When we designed the Snapper, we weren't trying to build a better mower, we were trying to build the best mower, and we did, right down to the grass catcher. The Snapper Comet has a big 6 bushel grass catcher attachment that unloads in seconds. The V-18 and V-21 have a large 3 bushel bag. Whichever one you choose they all pick up grass, leaves and twigs. Work less and enjoy it.

Farmington's Cook Selected No. 1

Sports Editor

FARMINGTON'S
DICK COOK
Coach-Of-The-Year

The No. 1 wrestling coach honor of the year in Observerland could have been no other.

When your team compiles an 8-0 dual record, averages more than 59 points a match while not allowing its opponent over nine a match, wins two invitationals along with the district and first league championship, there is only one way to vote.

Farmington High's Dick Cook is unanimous choice for the top berth in area wrestling.

His Falcon grapplers did it all, and doing it all is nothing new to the second of the Cook brothers to handle the wrestling reins at Farmington.

Dick and his brother Bob, twins, were All-State wrestlers their junior and senior years at Farmington High in '61 and '62.

Bob went on to Central Michigan University and Dick to Michigan State.

Bob was the first to return to Farmington High as a teacher and wrestling coach but bowed out of the wrestling scene in the '69-'70 season. That's when brother Dick took over and four years later is named No. 1 coach in the area.

Dick wrestled three years at Michigan State and was national collegiate champion in '66 at 152 pounds. Cook went on to teach Spanish and social studies at Fordson High School and in June of '67, married.

Nancy and Dick now have two boys Paul, 3, and Adam, 1.

Dick coached wrestling for three years at Fordson and never had a losing season, 13-3, 10-6 and 10-5 for a span of 33-14.

When Dick heard that his brother Bob was stepping down from his wrestling assignment at Farmington, the application was fast to hit Farmington High.

Dick's squad finished 5-4-1 in the '69-'70 season and has since followed with two 5-4 years and now a perfect 8-0 mark and the first Inter-Lakes wrestling crown ever for Farmington High.

Cook's squad won the Redford Union and North Farmington Invitationals and took second in the Schoolcraft and Oakland County meets along with a first in the district.

Farmington lost the regional by one point and finished 21st in the state.

Cook had to be disappointed in not finishing higher in the state tourney.

"We just lost too many one point matches," said Cook. "But I have no complaints, it has been one heck of a season and I like the program here in Farmington."

Hats off to Dick Cook, the No. 1 wrestling coach in Observerland.

Wins Title

Heavyweight Gary Ernst of Saline, Mich., and Jeff Guyton (134 pounds) of Lampertville, O., won Big Ten wrestling championships to increase Michigan's total of individual titles to 87 since 1926, tops in the conference.

Runs 440

Michigan's Kim Rowe ran the fastest 440 in the world (for a D class track), won the Big Ten championship and broke a Wolverine record of 31 years. His 47.2 run beat that of Bob Ufer who ran 48.1 in 1942.

Wins NCAA

Jerry Hubbard, Michigan's 150-pound junior wrestler from Joliet, Ill. won the 1973 NCAA championship after finishing second as a sophomore.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

What with the racing strips and Wolverine Raceway and Hazel Park showing considerable improvement in the past week, small wonder that business and attendance is climbing at both plants.

Who would believe the big mile track at Wolverine would improve from mile times of 2:36 on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to a season mark of 2:03 on Saturday?

That's exactly what happened and the fact the racing strip was nearing top condition definitely was reflected in Saturday's crowd of 10,702, largest of the year, and the highest single night handle of $768,095.

All of which makes one wonder why there should be such a difference between Wolverine and Northville Downs. The Livonia operation has been over $400,000 nightly, with the exception of the two snowbound nights, since the start of the meeting.

Wolverine's wagering totaled more than $1,400,000 over the weekend, showing that it is picking up where it left off a year ago. Contrast these figures to the recent 'Downs meeting where the handle never went over $500,000 and seldom hit $400,000 except on weekends.

Location is one of the reasons for the difference, but when there is something like $300,000 a night between the two tracks, then it's time to make a few more guesses.

Our guess is that failure to have a trifecta among the betting gimmicks hurt Northville a lot. Then one has to consider the 'Downs went head-and-head against Windsor for its entire meeting whereas Wolverine has the only game going at night in the area.

PERHAPS IT'S the new owners. Maybe it's due to the fact that the racing strip is better right now than at any time last season. But regardless of the reasons, Hazel Park's thoroughbred meeting is off to the fastest start in a couple of years.

Drop off the two days when the plant was plagued by the blizzard and snowstorm over a weekend and check the figures for the other days and one is apt to find the east side plant is miles ahead of business for the same period a year ago.

Racing Director Bud Sears has been doing an excellent job of arranging attractive programs with the horses available and has been just short of a miracle man in setting up the cards for Fridays and Saturday.

The result was a crowd of 14,519 Saturday with a handle of $1,291,114... that's almost $100 per capita and that is rather astronomical for any area plant this early in the season.

Monday's wagering climbed to $765,000, another indication that the runners at Hazel Park are rapidly regaining the popularity they lost during the past two years.

LATEST REPORTS from the United States Trotting Association show two Michigan drivers in the No. 1 and

No. 2 spots for total victories thus far in 1973.

We long have wondered if the Jim Curran, who has been doing so well in Chicago, was the one and same youthful Jackson reinsman. The reason for our conjecture was because the Windy City Curran was doing most of the driving for the powerful Bob Farrington stable.

Well, you can stop guessing. Jim Curran, of Jackson, is leading North American drivers with a total of 72 victories through the middle of March. He started the new year at Balmoral and currently is campaigning at Sportsman's Park.

Curran probably would have had more wins but for a tumble from the sulky on March 3 that forced him to miss several drives. The mishap came on a Saturday afternoon following an amazing string of five straight victories the night before.

I find it hard to believe that Bentley's Tim Bollin was excluded from the Observer's All-Area First Team basketball selections.

Not only was Tim the area's No. 2 scorer as well as the No. 1 rebounder, he was selected by the Detroit Free Press on the third team All-Suburban (a considerably larger area than Observerland), something that 60 per cent of your first team didn't make.

True, it is a fact that Bentley did have a poor season (8-13), however Mr. Donoghue, you as sports editor, should certainly realize that one player doesn't make a team.

However, the team's record certainly doesn't tarnish any of Tim's accomplishments this season. I only think this is fair to write this letter to make you aware of an error I believe you made. Thank you for your time.

RON BAWULSKI

Sports Editor:

We are writing to complain about the selection for the All-Observer basketball team.

We feel that a worthy opponent of ours got the shaft. Tim Bollin, of Livonia Bentley, finished first in the area in rebounding and second in scoring, yet was only given the distinction of second team. The only reason Tim finished second in scoring was because of the fine season Bob Malaby had. For these reasons we think that Bollin deserved better than second team for his efforts.

A comparative example would be leaving Kareem Jabbar off the All-N.B.A. team. He too is second in scoring and the league's leading rebounder.

Respectfully Yours,

PLYMOUTH ROCKS BASKETBALL TEAM

EDITOR'S NOTE: The All-Observer basketball selections were made at a meeting where all of the 18 high school coaches in the area were invited. The coaches make the selections but I must add that three coaches were not in attendance from the three schools in Observerland that play in the Suburban Eight Conference-Redford Union, Plymouth and Bentley High.

When the coaches of the teams closest to a ball player are not around, it is really tough to push that kid unless he is a shoo-in.

The 1975 auto emissions standards: do they represent "overclean"?

We believe they do. And the reasons why can be found in the March issue of Motor News, official publication of Automobile Club of Michigan.

We want cleaner air. Everybody does. But the present standards mandate auto engines that are cleaner than clean at prices you won't want to pay—up to $1 for a gallon of gas... up to 40 percent reduction in gas mileage... the possible rationing of gas... and worse, engines that could stall out as you try to cross a street or highway.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

This is a reminder for those who want to start your own tomato plants to order seed now.

While you're at it, order one of the new seed starting kits that are available. These kits come with small trays, Jiffy 7 pellets, which are little compressed wafers of potting soil combined in one handy unit. You also get some loose starting soil, which is ideal for starting your own seed.

Just in case you've never tried the Jiffy 7 pellets, I'll explain further what they are. These highly compressed wafers are about 1/4 inch thick, but when you add water, they swell in minutes into a cylinder 1 1/2 inches in diameter, and about 2 1/4 inches high, all ready to sow seed or set transplants.

No pot is needed, since the growing medium is enclosed in a plastic net that holds its cylindrical shape. When ready, plant and pellet are set out in the garden. You get no shock or check in growth. The roots continue to grow right through the net. The growing medium is sterile sphagnum peat with fertilizer added, and its excellent aeration and water-holding capacity encourage vigorous plant growth.

Many readers are raising coffee trees indoors and are doing a good job with it. The foliage is handsome but don't expect to get berries from your coffee tree.

Brown spots on edge of leaves are due to over-watering. Keep the soil moist, but not soggy. Syringe the leaves every few days. The coffee tree likes semi-shade, or diffused sunlight, NOT DIRECT SUN. They grow in a semi-shady spot in jungles.

Coffee trees can stand a temperature anywhere from 40 to 80 degrees, and still grow well.

Every three months feed it with a weak solution of a well-balanced water-soluble fertilizer such as 23-19-17. The coffee tree often grows tall indoors and when it happens, prune back shoots just above a leaf joint.

We've never been able to get ours to flower indoors, but it's possible. If any reader has produced flowers or berries on his coffee tree, please write and tell us.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Please give us a formula for spraying, without using high powered chemicals."

Here's one an organic gardener sent us: "Take flour, cayenne pepper, and cut up some garlic cloves. Mix well and let stand a couple days. When dew is on or after a rain, sprinkle this mixture on plants. You have to judge the flour by the amount of plants you grow."

Gardeners Warned Of Miracle Con-Men

LANSING Coming of spring marks the appearance of miracle plant con-men who prey on home gardeners and landscapers.

"Don't be taken in by these racketeers" is the warning sounded by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, agricultural director B. Dale Ball and the Michigan Association of Nurserymen (MAN.)

Home gardeners are warned against high pressure salesmen and mail order advertisers using fancy names for ordinary shrubs and plants and making exaggerated claims for their plant material.

Beware of glowing word descriptions and faked photographs of climbing vine peaches, giant climbing strawberries, 1,000 giant red roses on a single bush, flowering shade trees that grow roof high in a single year, etc.

"All consumer complaints, including verbal misrepresentations are received by the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office and appropriate action is taken," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Edwin M. Bladen. "It is our experience that purchasers who deal with established local merchants can see what they are buying and are not misled by photographs or lurid verbal pictures."

"One cannot expect to get high quality stock at ridiculously low prices," said Dean F. Lovitt, chief of the plant industry division of the Dept. of Agriculture.

"Purchasers should always demand a certificate of inspection with the stock as their assurance that it has passed inspection for insects and disease."

"Local nurserymen usually are familiar with local conditions and the varieties likely to do well in an area, and their advice can be helpful."

"There are reliable mail order houses but there is no substitute for the expert service on selection, planting and care of the plant that your local nurseryman can give you," said MAN Exec. Sec. L.E. Ahti.

"He wants to protect your interests so he can continue to serve you. That's why we advise -- Ask Your Nurseryman First."

Bonsai Tips Given By MSU Experts

EAST LANSING Bonsai has become an increasingly popular type of container gardening. The careful dwarfing of trees, shrubs, vines and houseplants can easily develop from an interesting garden hobby into a consuming garden art, according to Michigan State University horticulturists.

Pruning is an essential part of bonsai gardening, states Extension Horticulturist J. Lee Taylor. A miniature tree usually needs only one heavy branch pruning in its life -- when the basic form is initially established. Nipping and pinching back will control size and develop the tree's form.

Any simple container that fits the "character" of the plant is suitable. However, the classic Japanese bonsai pots seem most appropriate. They are available in a variety of shapes and depths and come in dark brown, terra cotta or a number of glazed finishes.

The type of potting mix used depends on the type of plant you choose. Use one-half coarse sand, one-fourth leaf mold and one-fourth soil for conifers. For broad-leaved plants, use one-fourth coarse sand, one-fourth leaf mold and one-half soil.

Taylor recommends repotting only when necessary. Do not water a bonsai the day before you plan to repot it. Grasp the trunk firmly and rock it gently until the root ball comes free of the pot. Set the root ball in a bucket of Vitamin B-enriched water to loosen the old soil and to keep the roots moistened and nourished.

Poke the old soil away from roots carefully with a pointed stick. Inspect roots carefully and cut away about one-third of the mass.

Place bits of broken pottery in the base of the container. Put in a layer of soil mix, then settle in the bonsai, keeping the base of the trunk at the desired level. Fill the container with mix, settling it firmly around the roots. Water thoroughly but do not fertilize for at least four or five weeks. Finish with moss and rocks on the surface by partially sinking them into the soil.

Water the soil when it begins to dry. Spray the foliage lightly and soak the soil thoroughly. Good drainage is essential. If plants are outdoors, avoid direct sunlight and wind; they tend to make the plants dry out. Outdoor plants may need water more frequently.

"Fertilize sparingly," Taylor says. As new spring growth begins, fertilize every other week until the leaves are fully open.

Does Your Landscape Meet Family's Needs?

EAST LANSING Did the recent mild weather give you a premature case of spring fever? Do you find your thoughts wandering to backyard picnics and other warm weather activities?

Joe Cox, Michigan State University extension specialist in landscape architecture, suggests you put your daydreaming to work and take a mental inventory of your landscape. Ask yourself if each area of your landscape is meeting the real needs of your family and guests.

Entrance areas should provide easy movement for people and vehicles. For "people-traffic" this means short, wide, unobstructed walks. For vehicles -- the family car, the kids' bikes and that nifty little garden tractor you've had your eye on -- you need adequate room for parking, turning and storing. Since the entrance area gives your guests their first impression of you and your life style as reflected by the home environment you've designed, appearance is important.

Evaluate your use of landscape plants objectively. Have you placed trees properly to relieve bareness or do they rob the home of its rightful dominance? Are they in harmonious proportion with other landscape elements like house style, height and existing vegetation? Have you taken advantage of the variety of landscape plants available to provide color in spring and fall, natural snow fences and all-year greenery to break winter's white monotony?

What about your outdoor living area? Cox suggests that if it isn't a convenient place for casual activity, there may be something missing. Does it offer shade for hot summer days, plenty of open space, closeness to nature, all all-weather surface and privacy? Does ready access contribute to the area's usability in encouraging outdoor meals and relaxation?

Work and storage areas are important to the successful use and upkeep of your property. Cox points out. Easy access is a must. Since storage for equipment and containers for refuse are usually more functional than decorative, screening provided by hedges or fencing can contribute immensely to the appearance of your grounds. There is every reason to seek the beauty in functional design.

If your landscape does not measure up to these basic requirements, now may be a good time to evaluate where it falls short and plan some alterations. Don't be handicapped by what has been done before, Cox advises, consider re-designing your landscape to meet the needs of you and your family.

You will be glad you did as passing years might change them in ways to bring great pride.

Cotton Window Shades Cooling, Decorative

Cotton window shades have become so highly decorative that some of their major benefits are often overlooked. Chief among these is the contribution shades can make to conserving electrical power.

With the onset of summer fast approaching and bringing with it a heavy drain on power for air conditioning, homemakers might do well to include window shades in their summer decorating schemes.

Studies show that shades keep out summer heat and can reduce air conditioners' power usage by as much as 50 per cent.

Besides helping to conserve the nation's critical energy supply, there's the extra bonus of personal savings that result from lower utility bills.

Molding Tips

Use of wood moldings to decorate walls, dividers, entryways, fireplaces, other areas is shown in eight-page color booklet available for 25 cents in coin from Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. M2-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204.

Cloth window shades have long been noted for their ability to keep household furnishings and even wood floors from fading.

Available in both custom and stock shades is a wide variety of colors, textures, patterns, hem shapes, and installations.

There are even room-darkening shades that make for better sleep in daylight saving time.

Besides conserving electrical power, window shades can go a long way towards easing the homemaker's personal energy crisis, too.

Cotton cloth shades simplify housekeeping because they're dust-repellent and can be easily wiped off or vacuumed.

Seniors Plan Spring Outing

PLYMOUTH
A scenic spring bus trip to Chelsea is planned by senior citizens Monday, April 9, leaving the Plymouth Cultural Center at 10 a.m.

Several points of interest are planned as stops along the way, including a visit to the Jiffy Cake Mix factory.

Club leaders also are surveying members to judge interest in three other possible trips.

One would be a mid-May day-long outing to Battle Creek, including an hour tour of the Kellogg factory and stop at the bird sanctuary or arboretum.

Another would be a three-day holiday in mid-June at Cedar Point. The third would be a daytime river boat trip in July or August.

Frank Bowers Celebrates 98

PLYMOUTH

Twp. Denies Gas Station

PLYMOUTH
The Plymouth Township Planning Commission has denied a rezoning request for a car wash - gas station on the former Lofy's restaurant site. In denying the conditional use request the commission cited Township Ordinance Section 27 which prohibits the dispensing of petroleum products within 300 feet of a fire station.

The former site of Lofy's, which burned down, is next to the central township fire station.

FIRST FEDERAL HAS THREE GREAT INTEREST RATES TO HELP YOU BUILD YOUR SAVINGS.

DAY to DAY

That's the interest rate our regular passbook savings account pays. It's as regular as you'd want it to be. There's no minimum amount needed to open. And you may deposit or withdraw any amount whenever you like. And you earn 5% per year daily interest from the date of deposit to the date of withdrawal, paid and compounded quarterly. The highest regular passbook interest rate in town.

YEAR to YEAR

First Federal also has two Certificate Savings Accounts. With an investment of $1,000 dollars or more for one year, your Certificate Account will earn 5-1/2% annual interest, paid and compounded quarterly. And you begin earning 5-1/2% interest from the day the funds are deposited. Open a Certificate Savings Account at any one of First Federal's offices, and make a little extra interest.

That's for our long-term investment savers. With $5,000 dollars or more, you may open a Certificate Savings Account for 2, 3, 4 or 5 years. And your account will earn interest from the date the funds are deposited. At 6% annual interest, paid and compounded quarterly.

At First Federal Savings of Detroit, your savings, whether in a Regular or a Certificate account, are insured up to $20,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

We can do more for you if you'll think First.

Consider Nutrition Of Soybean

By ELLY

Someday, people considering purchase of a condominium may inquire about the types of fish available in the co-op pool. Their share of the crawfish in the co-op pond and their own garden plot could be prime selling points.

The prospective homeowner would check out the 25 by 25-foot backyard fish farm which should supply two meals a week. The small organic garden plot should supply the major portion of the vegetables his family will consume.

Aquaculture as a food source is still in the experimental stage in this country. So far, no one has matched the fish farmers in Thailand who raise 88,000 pounds of fish per year, in an acre of standing water.

There are more than 17,000 acres of crayfish farms in Louisiana where, due to the state's French heritage, crayfish are considered a delicacy. In some parts of the world crayfish are the main source of protein in the diet.

Many states are experimenting with crayfish ponds. In Washington, commercial culture has begun.

In the November 1970 "Natural Fisherman," Robert Crisp of North Pacific Ocean Products, Bellingham, Wash., is quoted as believing that an eight by 20 pond, seven feet deep, could produce about 1,000 pounds of crayfish annually.

The day may not be too far away—perhaps within the next 20 years according to some scientists. When the average family will be more self-sufficient in raising its foodstuffs.

Not only would the cost of living rise cease to be a threat, but a better balance in nature would lessen the pollution threat.

Fish farms and crawdad pools are not available right now to combat high living costs. But, the soybean is.

Soybean is the richest in protein, vitamins and minerals of practically all foods known to man. Yet it costs but a fraction of other foods when considered in terms of nutrition per serving.

Consider a 25-pound bag of soybeans, which costs $4.28, as compared to a roast of beef costing the same amount.

CRUSTY SOYBEAN CASSEROLE

1½ c. dry soybeans, cooked
2 c. corn, fresh or frozen
2 c. canned tomatoes
1 c. chopped onion
½ c. chopped celery
1 clove crushed garlic
½ t. each thyme and summer savory
2 t. salt
Pinch cayenne
¼ c. tomato paste
3 T. brewer's yeast
½ c. stock
Wheat germ
1.3 c. grated cheese
Butter
2½ c. raw brown rice, cooked

Combine soybeans, corn, tomatoes, onion, celery, garlic, herbs, spices and salt. Combine tomato paste, brewer's yeast and stock. Place half the cooked rice on the bottom of an oiled four to six-quart casserole. Cover with the vegetable mixture. Spread the tomato paste over the vegetables, and cover with the rest of the rice. Sprinkle with grated cheese and then wheat germ. Dot with butter and bake uncovered for 30 minutes at 350 degrees F. Serves six. Average serving contains approximately 11 g usable protein - 26 to 31 per cent of daily protein allowance.

Liquor License Curb Voted Down

LANSING Private clubs practicing racial discrimination will still be able to retain liquor licenses because of action taken last week by the State House of Representatives.

In a 54-48 vote, the House defeated an amendment which called for nullification of liquor licenses of private clubs practicing racial discrimination. The main bill would have exempted private clubs from submitting membership lists as a condition of license renewal.

Observerland legislators gave 7-1 support to the amendment.

Joining the opposition was Joseph Forbes (D-Oak Park), whose district includes eastern Southfield and Lathrup Village.

Supporting the bill were Raymond Baker

JA Fund Drive Tops Its Quota

SOUTHFIELD Eight in Rochester, Unit 1, raised $3,200 or 107 per cent of quota.

A national Junior Achievement fund-raising record has been set by the Southeastern Michigan JA organization.

The 1970 fund drive ended with an announcement that a total of $511,781, or 102 per cent of the goal was raised. The drive began Feb. 1 and officially ended at noon March 20. The quota was $502,500.

Announcement was made at a luncheon in the Raleigh House, Southfield, by Richard L. Terrell, general chairman of Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan.

Some 550 persons who participated in the seven-week drive attended the victory luncheon to hear the final report. The half-million dollars will be used to operate and expand JA business centers in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe and Livingston counties.

The four units, formed from 31 divisions, each reported its goal, amount raised, and percentage of quota.

Among the suburban groups reporting was Division 14 of Unit 2. The division, headquartered in Wayne to serve Westland and Garden City, raised $7,840 and 120.6 per cent of its assigned quota.

J. Paul Bergmoser is Unit 2 fund-raising chairman and Division 14 leader is J. Tighe, both of Ford Motor Co.

Division 22 in Plymouth, assigned to Unit 3, collected $5,715 or 106 per cent of quota. Division leader is R.C. Hayman of Western Electric Co., who supervised money-raising for Plymouth-Northville area, and unit chairman is L.B. Bornhauser of Chrysler Corp.

Division 23 in Livonia, also a Unit 3 group, collected $3,650, which was 100 per cent of quota. Division leader for Livonia is J. Harris of Ford Motor Co.

Division 21 in Ann Arbor, Unit 3, collected $9,207, or seven per cent below quota. Division Six, in Birmingham, Unit One, raised $8,087 or 101 per cent of quota. Unit One chairman is F.J. McDonald of General Motors Corp.

Division Seven in Pontiac, Unit 1, raised $17,864 or 112 per cent of quota. Division

Forbes said he voted against the package because it would still allow for discrimination.

"The main bill would have still allowed for private membership rolls to be kept secret. This would be restricted membership. We live in a different age today. There is a new social reform where a person is a person no matter what the race," said Forbes.

Forbes also voted against the bill, he said, because the clause disallowing religious discrimination was struck from the bill.

He gave support to reintroducing the amendment as a separate bill for consideration.

Rep. Charles Harrison (D-Pontiac), who originally proposed the amendment, said he would reintroduce it as a bill because of the close vote.

The Liquor Control Commission can now refuse new licenses to clubs which practice racial discrimination but cannot refuse to renew licenses on the same grounds. Passage of the Harrison proposal would allow the LCC to deny license when renewals are considered every year in May.

"AN EVENING of conversation and music with Karl Haas" will be sponsored by the Garden City Library Commission at 8 p.m., Friday, March 30, in the O'Leary Performing Arts Center, 6500 Middle Belt, south of Warren. The program is one of the highlights of the library's 50th anniversary celebration. Tickets are $1 each and available in libraries in Garden City, Wayne, Farmington, Livonia, Southfield, Inkster, and Dearborn Heights. Haas is fine arts director for radio station WJR.

Jazz Festival Features Clarenceville Concert

Junior high and high school bands from all over Michigan will participate in the third annual Jazz Ensemble Festival at Henry Ford Community College on Saturday, April 7.

The college's jazz studies program will host the event which will culminate in a performance in the L.E. Schmidt Auditorium, Clarenceville High School, Middle Belt between Seven and Eight Mile, Livonia.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the student All-Star Band will perform. At 8:30, the Thad Jones-Mel Lewis Band will give a concert, its first in the

Amusements

Detroit area for more than a year.

The group will also conduct a jazz clinic at 4 p.m. This will be in the Student Center of the Henry Ford Community College campus, 5101 Evergreen, Dearborn.

Tickets for the evening concert and for the clinic will be on sale at the Schmidt box office from 10 to 3 p.m., Thursdays and Fridays.

Mail requests are being handled by Mrs. Midge Ellis, 20457 Maplewood, Livonia.

48152, and by Don Lupp, 16432 Bell Creek, Livonia, 48154. Admission to the concert is $4, and to the clinic, $1.50. Students participating in the festival can purchase clinic tickets for $1.

The festival will begin at 8 a.m. and run to 4 p.m. at HFCC. Each of the participating bands will be allowed to play for one-half hour. Then each band will be required to sight read music it has never seen or played before.

April 1 Is New Date For Smith's Recital

Composer-pianist Clifford Smith has re-scheduled his Madonna College benefit recital which was cancelled because of the snow storm March 17.

He will be heard at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, April 1, in the Activities Center of the college, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or may be reserved by calling the college. Prices are $1 for students and senior citizens and $2 for adults.

Smith will present a program of his own piano compositions. His appearance is under the auspices of the Madonna College Cultural Affairs Committee. Proceeds will go to the college's general fund.

Plymouth Guild Offers Dinner-Theater Evening

Anyone interested in good food and good theater is invited to join the Plymouth Theater Guild Friday, April 13, for dinner at the Black Cat Cafe, followed by a "Sunday in New York," the guild's final production of the season.

The auditorium of Plymouth Central Junior High School, Church and Main, will become the Black Cat Cafe. A buffet dinner will be served from 6 to 7 p.m.

At 8, the curtain will rise on the guild's production of Norman Krasna's sophisticated comedy.

Those who are interested in just the performance or have fears about Friday the 13th may see the play at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 12, or Saturday, April 14.

Set in 1961, the plot concerns Eileen Taylor (Martha Ann Roemer of Detroit), a 22-year-old newspaper reporter from Albany who is spending some time at the New York apartment of her bachelor brother Adam (Andy Hruska of Plymouth) to forget a broken romance.

While in the city, she meets Mike Mitchell (Mike Kosteva of Farmington), a happy bachelor. A series of humorous mishaps and misunderstandings ensue, but all lead to a happy ending.

Supporting roles will be handled by Mike Rost of Plymouth, Jan Hruska of Garden City, Dennis Wrubel of Canton Township, Gail Hering of Plymouth and Carol Carlton of Plymouth.

Tickets for the dinner show are $5 a person and must be reserved in advance. Thursday and Saturday evening tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children through high school age. They will be on sale at the door.

The reservations chairman is Ed Wojtan, 14321 Hubbard Road, Livonia.

Bus Service Set For Kid's Show

DETROIT New York's award-winning Prince St. Players return to the Detroit Institute of Arts Theater for the last time this season in their hit musical, "Jack and the Beanstalk." They will be seen at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., Saturday, March 31, and April 7.

Many from Observerland will be able to go via bus to the performance.

April 7 is Brownie Day at the Youtheater and there will be "Magic Carpet" coach service from Northland, Westland, Southland and Tel-12 Mall. Tickets are available at Hudson's or from Spencer's Gift Shop (Tel-12), at $2 each. This includes bus fare and admission.

The Plymouth Performing Arts Council is also sponsoring a bus trip to "Jack" on March 31. This will leave from Central Junior High School, Church and Main, Plymouth, at 9:30 a.m. For tickets, call Mrs. Ralph Atchley, 480 Auburn, Plymouth.

"Jack" was originally done as a TV special for CBS and received national awards. Complete with magic beanstalk, giant ogre, "them golden eggs" and a surprise twist, this lively musical promises an enjoyable hour of theater for young and old.

Travel Film To Be Shown

BIRMINGHAM "Wings to the Virgin Islands" is the title of the March 30-31 travel film, to be shown in the Birmingham Community House, 380 S. Bates.

Curtain time is 8 both evenings. James Metcalf will be the narrator. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Kiss Me Kate may be seen Friday or Saturday, March 30 or 31, in West Bloomfield High School Auditorium, Orchard Lake Road north of Walnut Lake Road. Curtain time, 8 p.m. Tickets on sale at the door at $3 for adults, $2 for students.

By BETTY MASSON Two gangsters stole the Thursday evening opening night benefit performance of "Kiss Me Kate" by the Franklin Village Players.

The two were Pete Turgeon (well-known to Farmington Players' audiences) and Edgar A. Guest III, who played their gangster roles with bumble-brained, heavy-footed, light-hearted and well-projected conviction.

Thursday night the theft wasn't difficult. The rest of the cast, with a couple of exceptions, left the door wide open. But I have a feeling that it will get harder as some of the opening night problems are worked out.

"Kiss Me Kate" is being staged again March 30 and 31 in the West Bloomfield High School Auditorium.

Some of the problems center around the old bugaboo of community theater groups, not enough rehearsal time in the theater in which the play is being staged.

This caused a great deal of trouble Thursday evening when the sound system seemed to be operated by a capricious gremlin. Later, I learned that the gremlin was a ham radio operator in the area operating on the same frequency, and this problem was straightened out for subsequent performances over the weekend.

The second problem was a directorial one. It looked as though Robert Bandsuch had never set the cast members down and made them give any thought to the characters they were playing. A little "method" would have gone a long way.

Pacing and projection both need work.

The thing that was encouraging Thursday night was the difference in the leading man, Walled Lake veterinarian, Dr. David Roberts, in the first and second acts. In the second act, he seemed to find the spark that makes the difference between a mediocre amateur performance and one that approaches an outstanding one.

Kate (Carole Maloof) was a decided asset in her singing abilities. Her voice is superb and obviously very well-trained, but her acting performance could have been improved by better direction.

Stage design and costuming were outstanding, and I'd recommend "Kiss Me Kate" this weekend. It's a great musical, and the players should be able to get more of it together.

I'd also recommend, though, that the Franklin Village Players come in with us in lobbying for an area-wide performing arts center.

Kendallarks Plan Concerts

The Kendallarks of Farmington are now holding rehearsals for programs scheduled for April and May. The Kendallarks is a women's singing group.

New members are welcome. Interested persons may call Olga Miller, 29234 Oak Point Drive, Farmington.

A male soloist of college age or older is particularly needed for an upcoming program.

The Kendallarks will perform for the Women's Association of Calvin Presbyterian Church, 14221 Southfield, on March 30.

Their program will feature tunes from musical comedies, including "As Long As He Needs Me" from "Oliver." Betty Gignac will be the soloist. Velma Kapel will sing "Edelweiss."

Legislators Send Out 'Junk' Mail

There's a class of "junk" mail most of us have been throwing away, along with all the circulars, Florida land sales pamphlets, invitations to get credit cards and the like.

This class of "junk" mail should be more important because we — the taxpayers — are footing the bill. It's some of the mail from our congressmen and state legislators.

Not everything you get from a lawmaker is junk. Our men and women in Washington and Lansing need to use the mails to conduct business — to acknowledge your letters, to send information they're asked for, to report on their own activities.

Yet the truth is that the mail is a very useful political tool for getting into your home; moreover, a useful tool for keeping one's name before the public and getting re-elected.

One Observerland congressman sends congratulatory letters to eagle scouts. Eagle scouts deserve congratulations — but is that the official business of the government of the United States?

Another local congressman lists local visitors to the office, so you look to see yours or your neighbor's name. Very chatty. But what about the lobbyists and the corporations or unions they represent? Do they get their names in the newsletter? Nope. Never.

Congressmen and legislators send out newsletters and news releases on bills they introduce. That's legitimate. But only one bill in 100 ever gets through the committee structure, through both houses and onto the desk of the chief executive to be signed into law.

Does your congressman or legislator ever give you an accounting of what percentage of his bills and resolutions pass and what percentage fail? I'll bet not.

The truth is that many lawmakers introduce screwy bills, knowing full well they're screwy, just to satisfy some of the home folks. Maybe lawmakers should be required to send out a newsletter at the end of every session listing their bills that passed and failed. I'd enjoy paying taxes for that kind of newsletter.

Lawmakers' newsletters give you nice generalities about activities in the capital city, but how many ever give you consistent reports about how your representative votes on the important bills? None! That's because an honest report of his voting, even if it's intelligent voting, would stir up controversy and cost him a few votes.

There was one lawmaker who used to be quite frank about his votes. State Rep. Joe Forbes (D-Oak Park) used his first term newsletters to give Southfield and Oak Park constituents an accounting of his stewardship. He was the only one. I pointed this out to him one day and praised him warmly for it. That was my mistake.

Now in his second term, Forbes recently sent out a news release telling about all the issues legislators are facing. He never gave his opinion on any of them, and never told how he voted. He's getting like the rest of them.

I hate to single out Forbes, who at his worst is better than most lawmakers from these parts. What about the congressman who sends letters to high school graduates urging them to continue their education and suggesting use of federally-backed loans and scholarships? Why send individual letters like that to thousands of graduates? Why not send them just to the high school counselors and high school newspapers?

Pretty soon now, we'll be getting letters from our representatives in Lansing and Washington surveying us on a dozen different issues. If you answer them — and 10 to 15 per cent of us will — why not jot a note in the "other" blank saying: "Please report back to us how YOU voted on every one of the issues."

Then if the guy doesn't report back, vote him (her) out of office.

R. T. Thompson writes

'March Madness' Strikes As License Time Nears

The March Madness is with us again, and we're not referring to the state high school basketball tournament which ends Saturday with the crowning of four champions in Crisler Fieldhouse at the University of Michigan.

There's another March madness that hits us at this time of the year and will find thousands lining up in front of auto license offices for the remainder of the week.

Yes, this is the time for folks to get their 1973 motor licenses, and figures from the Secretary of State's office Monday indicated that an estimated 1.5 million auto owners still had to obtain plates.

That doesn't leave much time, for all plates must be on vehicles before midnight Saturday. We'd like to have a dollar for every set of plates going on cars between 6 p.m. and midnight on that day.

It doesn't make any difference what the Secretary of State offices do to help drivers or what they do to warn owners not to wait until the last minute.

There are always thousands that get in long lines on the last day, wait for hours to get the plates and then vow it won't happen again. In nine of 10 cases once the plates are on the car, the owner forgets about the inconveniences and is back in line a year later, swearing about the long lines, swearing about the time wasted and yet not taking advantage of any of the conveniences offered by the state.

Such as the forms received in November that one can mail back and receive the plates by mail. Thousands used that route, but there are always the Johnny-Come-Latelies who are back in line year after year on the final day.

Just to refresh the memories of those still without plates, here are the things you must take with you to the branch offices of the Secretary of State.

The prepared application mailed to virtually all owners last fall. If the prepared application has been lost, each branch has blank applications which you must fill out. If you do not have the prepared application, you must bring along your certificate of title.

You must have a proof of insurance, the policy, proof of insurance form or other type of proof.

Either cash or a personal check, which are accepted in all branch offices of the Secretary of State for license fees. Only cash or certified checks are accepted for the $45 payment to the uninsured motorist fund.

All of this could have been avoided had you taken advantage of the mail sale campaign which closed on Feb. 10. Nearly a half-million plates were sold prior to the deadline, showing that a lot of motorists were willing to give the program a try... and all avoided the last-minute lines.

If you are one of those who believe the lines will get shorter and shorter as the deadline nears... try your luck. We have some friends that did a year ago and waited four hours in line on the final day.

Lawmakers Have To Act Now

The U.S. Supreme Court last week had some good news and bad news for suburban taxpayers and school districts.

The court admitted that the use of a property tax to help support public schools is imperfect. But at the same time, the court ruled 5-4 in reversing a lower court decision that nothing in the present system by itself violated the federal constitution.

That was the bad news for tax reformers and school officials who have been working long and hard for many years seeking to change the unjust and unfair method of financing public schools in Michigan.

But the good news is that the supreme court put the issue back in the laps of state legislatures.

In writing the majority opinion for the court, Justice Lewis Powell Jr. said:

"The ultimate solutions must come from the lawmakers and from the democratic pressures of those who elect them" and not from the court itself.

The legislature shouldn't be lulled into a sense of false security following the state and federal supreme court rulings saying that property taxes for education aren't constitutionally illegal.

Legislators from Lansing should remember a few other things the courts in Lansing and Washington, D.C., said in recent opinions.

They put the responsibility for tax reform in the hands of the legislatures although the state court also added that it will continue to review any new state aid formula for public schools to assure that it fits the state constitutional guidelines.

Although the current system of financing education may not be unconstitutional, no one can argue that the system is the most fair or just method.

In contrast, the continued use of the property tax is the most unfair and most unjust method.

The U.S. Supreme Court in its recent decision said that there is no constitutional mandate for public education.

But Michigan and 49 other states in the union all have mandatory school attendance laws and other laws requiring how long public schools should be open during a school year, among other requirements.

The federal constitution contains a provision about "equal protection of the laws" but this section is clearly violated in our opinion by current differences in school support in Michigan's school districts.

There is nothing equal about one district spending nearly $1,500 a student while neighboring districts within a 10 minute car ride spent $800 to $1,000.

The reason for the differences, of course, is the presence of tax-generating industrial plants in one district and the absence of plants in neighboring districts.

We feel the court was wrong. The Legislators can rectify their error and we hope that the public continues to put pressure on them and avoid letting them shelve the issue.

Why Keep Up An Ego Building Program?

Seems like every time a new high school opens in one of the seven communities covered by the Observer Newspaper group, a major hassle develops over something that actually is of minor consequence.

Such is the situation in Plymouth where the new Plymouth — Canton High officially swings into interscholastic events for the first time next fall.

There will be a football team, basketball, baseball, track and all the other sports sponsored by area schools. Then there also will be the other interscholastic programs such as debate, girls varsity sports, music with the band, orchestra and choral groups.

All of these go into the program of each school... they are geared to build interest of students and parents in the programs taking place in the new building.

Most are a carry-over from the other schools in the district.

What it means is that students are transferred from one building to another when a new school opens and new boundaries set.

In this particular incident, the Plymouth School district has opened a new building. We agree that it is part of the cluster plan and is adjacent to the Plymouth — Salem High.

That doesn't alter the fact that each school is entitled to its own band, football, basketball, baseball and track teams; synchronized swimming etc.

Just because buildings are adjacent to each other doesn't mean that one should have the only band or that one should have all the football players.

When a district has two high schools, then each should have its students in the band, on the varsity sports teams or what have you.

Why are we bringing up this matter? Parents of Plymouth-Salem bandmen were meeting with the school board, at the time this was written, demanding the two schools have only one band.

Salem bandmen were meeting with the school board, at the time this was written, demanding the two schools have only one band.

They pointed to the success of the 1972 band which appeared in the Rose Bowl Parade in Pasadena, Calif. at a lot of expense to the parents and community alike.

They stressed the fact that Band Director James Griffith had a superior organization, one that all in the community should be proud of. They badgered the trustees to think only in terms of one band.

They don't care what happens to musicians at the new school. They care little about bandmen there who also should have a chance to play with such an organization.

All they appear to be interested in is their own kids. They are members of the band. It is a good band. The heck with anyone else, let's keep it that way.

Let's continue to ask the community to support sending our kids to parades in far away places. It doesn't do much to build better relations in the community but at least it does something to inflate the ego of our kids, ourselves and the band director... he doesn't want to start from scratch again even though his job is to direct a band and not build a small dynasty.

If Plymouth has two high schools, then it should have two of everything and that includes bands. Why should the youngsters from the established school have an advantage over those from the new?

We hope the school board took all of this into consideration when it made its final decision.

All-Year School Study Merited Better Fate

EDITOR:

The Farmington Board of education's recent decision to deny an in-depth study of the 45/15 extended school year program as recommended by the Extended School Year (ESY) committee was indeed a great disappointment to many people interested in better education.

The ESY Committee, formed by the board a year ago and comprised of parents, teachers and administrators, was not requesting implementation of the program or even approval of the 45/15 plan, but merely further study to discover if, in fact, this 45/15 plan was most suitable to meet the present and future needs of the Farmington schools and community, as well as advantages, disadvantages, costs, etc.

In this day of ever increasing costs for schools, the board has an obligation to the community to investigate thoroughly this change in the school calendar which may more efficiently and effectively utilize the taxpayer's dollars and, in fact, save many dollars in capital construction costs.

More importantly, this calendar appears to be more educationally sound. It enhances learning retention due to shorter, more frequent, vacation periods between periods of instruction. It better facilitates student placement by age due to multiple school starting dates. It provides for more frequent evaluation of students and programs. These are only a few of the possible benefits to this 45/15 calendar.

It is my opinion that the board has been remiss in its duty to provide the best possible education for the students of the Farmington School District by its refusal to invest the time necessary to discover the possible benefits of this 45/15 program.

Firemen Made Storm Easier

EDITOR:

During the recent storm when transportation was practically at a standstill and most businesses were closed, the care of the elderly was a necessity and help desperately needed.

This problem was greatly eased, and the patients at West Trail Nursing Home were cared for as usual, due to the kindness and consideration of the Plymouth Fire Department.

We would especially like to commend and gratefully thank Lt. Paul Sanders of the department for help in getting us to the nursing home, and at great risk, so we could carry out our duties as usual.

Sees Fees As Contradictory

EDITOR:

Recently, the Livonia school board approved a summer school program for drivers' education costing the district $7.05 per hour for the services of members of the teachers' union.

However, the school district pays only $2.95 per hour for a moonlighting fireman to train those who drive school buses loaded with our children.

We pay less to train bus drivers to operate their vehicles than we pay to train students to operate automobiles.

This contradiction in spending priorities only makes sense if considered as another example of the school board's policy of economizing with the students by cutting programs and reducing individualized instruction, economizing with non-teaching unions by layoffs in personnel, and neglecting building maintenance -- but never economizing with teachers' salaries.

Paying double for a drivers' education program is one reason why other special programs can't be funded.

Pet Population Needs Control

EDITOR:

After recently visiting the fine new facilities of the Michigan Humane Society Kindness Center in Westland, I was prompted to write another reminder to all pet owners or would-be pet owners to have their cat or dog spayed or neutered.

How sad it is to see all the homeless kittens and puppies and full grown dogs and cats. Victims of overpopulation, many will not find a home and will have to be destroyed. Responsible owners are the answer to this growing problem.

No Better Way To Spend It?

EDITOR:

Projected expenditure of $15,000 and $5,000 for black topping two boat launching sites in Oakland County is almost too much.

How the Building Division of the Department of Administration directed by A.N. Langius, much less anyone right down to any level you care to name, can possibly justify spending this kind of money on such a limited use area is beyond comprehension.

The money can be put to much better use in road maintenance or improvements for the betterment of many more people.

Recent articles in your own newspapers regarding the deplorable conditions of many roads in Oakland County, especially those that have had to be closed leading to schools, are reason enough to question this outlay of funds.

It also makes one wonder how many more projects like this are in the works which should be way down on our list of priorities.

Suburbs Eager To Ban Obscenity

An Observer Roundup

Suburban communities are feverishly passing ordinances in a spirited fight to keep "adult" theaters, bookstores, massage parlors and the like from opening within their boundaries.

Generally the new ordinances are criminal ordinances rather than changes to zoning ordinances. Southfield City Council recently passed a "nuisance" ordinance making it unlawful to exhibit obscene movies in the city. Violation is punishable by a misdemeanor penalty of up to $500 in fines, 90 days in jail or both.

Redford Township trustees passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale, distribution or showing of pornographic films, literature or pictures.

Westland councilmen added two new laws to the books -- an anti-pornography ordinance and a massage parlor ordinance.

Garden City officials approved a new ordinance restricting adult movie theaters and other businesses which attract crowds.

Livonia's city council amended its ordinance concerning obscenity by adding language identical to the state statute.

In some cases action was prompted by businesses seeking to move within a city. But in other cases, only the threat of such businesses moving their way was sufficient to prompt action.

Southfield's "nuisance" ordinance came after a theater was raided for showing the X-rated "Deep Throat." The city has refused to grant the theater owners an operators license.

A zoning ordinance is being considered in Southfield which will regulate adult movies, bookstores and cabarets.

The proposed ordinance would restrict establishments to business and industrial districts at least 1,500 feet from a residential area. A waiver would require 51 per cent approval of neighbors by petition.

Businessmen who want to open an adult movie theater, adult bookstore or topless go-go cabaret in Garden City must get written permission from at least 51 per cent of residents or businessmen within 500 feet, prohibit minors (under 18 years of age) from patronizing the business, and prohibit advertising related to "specified sexual activities," and "specified anatomical areas" which are defined in the ordinance.

Both Redford Township's and Westland's ordinances are U.S. Supreme Court guidelines to define obscenity. The criteria are:

- The dominant theme of the material taken as a whole must appeal to a prurient interest in sex.
- The material must affront contemporary community standards relating to the description or representation of sexual acts.

- The material must be utterly without redeeming social value.

The massage parlor ordinance passed in Westland outlines guidelines for operating, including licenses from the city clerk.

Hearings Set On Phone Hike

The Michigan Public Service Commission has scheduled public hearings in Detroit on April 11 on Michigan Bell Telephone Co.'s request for a $27 million rate increase.

Hearings will be at 9:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the first floor banquet room of the Veterans' Memorial Building, 151 W. Jefferson, Detroit.

Another public hearing is set for 9:30 a.m. April 16 in the Law Building auditorium in Lansing.

Congress Needs Large Doses Of Public Interest--Jane Hart

Wednesday, March 28, 1973 Page 1C

By MARGARET MILLER

A "strong and informed display of public interest" is what Jane Hart recommends as a miracle drug to restore the powers of Congress.

The outspoken wife of Michigan's senior senator Philip Hart came to this area at the request of the Farmington - West Bloomfield League of Women Voters to discuss "Is the congressional beast hibernating or alive and well in Washington?"

"The beast is alive, but suffering, that's for sure," she said. Its ailments, she contended involve problems of executive power, impoundment of funds, power to declare war, creditability and seniority.

The greatest of these, in Jane Hart's view, is creditability.

"It's a bit like a Catch 22 problem," she told the League members and high school students in West Bloomfield High School.

"The people feel that they have lost touch with Congress -- that only the rich have access. But a congressional power cannot be restored without a lot of public interest."

The "drastic measure" of federal financing of federal elections, currently being advocated by her senator husband, may be the only means of restoring public confidence, Mrs. Hart said.

The proposal is drastic, she said, because "it will involve more money in an already troubled economy."

But the current requirement for accounting for contributions cannot help much, Mrs. Hart said. "It's kind of like making an alcoholic keep track of his drinks," she pointed out, "and I think for most people it will just confirm the idea that big money elects."

She said she realized the depth of the creditability problem when the first Watergate news broke while she was on the McGovern campaign trail during the 1972 presidential election.

"I was outraged," she said, "but the public was not. It seemed to confirm suspicions that all politicians are crooked so what else is new?"

Many changes are needed in the way Congress operates, Mrs. Hart said, adding she was glad to be "critical observer" instead of reorganizer.

"As things stand now, taxation rests with the ways and means committee in the House of Representatives and the finance committee in the Senate," she explained.

"But spending is the responsibility of the appropriations committees in both houses, and that's where the power is, if there's any power left in Congress."

However, funds are appropriated through many "back doors," such as Social Security and revenue sharing, she added, and this complicates the picture.

Of the recent cutbacks in federal spending for economic programs, she said:

"Some are dismayed at the loss of aid to lower economic classes, but those in the middle income brackets are in trouble too."

"It's true that these programs have not been fully successful. But if a program does not completely succeed, does that mean there is no change? And does little rather than much change mean failure?"

Changing the seniority system in congressional committees would not in itself effect great reform, Jane Hart believes.

"That would just change the method of selecting a chairman," she said. "What really matters is that the various committees act on the same set of rules -- which now they do not do."

Mrs. Hart, besides discussing Congress, had ready comments on a wide variety of subjects put to her by the LWV women and the students from West Bloomfield and North Farmington.

These included:

EDUCATION -- "I have some pretty wild ideas on education. I would repeal the laws that make education compulsory."

"I'm sure those in the upper and middle classes go to school, not to learn, but to get techniques to make more money. For them, that's not a good enough reason to go to school, although it may be of more importance for those in the lower economic classes."

BUSING -- "It's a tool to be used if it's the only one."

MARIJUANA -- "If, as studies of the last five years seem to indicate, marijuana is less harmful than alcohol, I would favor relaxing regulations. The penalties now are absurd, but I think suggested reforms are just as absurd."

"If only sellers are penalized, that takes us to exactly the situation we had during prohibition, and that's when the big syndicates got their power."

AMNESTY -- "There's no way you can validate the deaths in Vietnam -- certainly not by going on punishing. It's one of the harsh imbalances of life. My feeling is that there can be no talk of amnesty until all the POWs are back. Then the families of exiles should band together -- as the families of POWs have done -- and remind the government that Presidents from George Washington to Harry Truman have granted amnesty."

"I think we do not now have a generous spirit -- we need to awaken it or viciousness and vengeance will take over."

AID TO NORTH VIETNAM -- "We could give materials, textbooks, hospital supplies. There's no question that both sides have violated the truce in Vietnam. In giving aid to North Vietnam, we should, of course, have checks to be sure none of the aid goes into weapons, but I would wish we could be as sure about South Vietnam."

EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT -- "I hope it passes, but I'm sure opposition is rising, including a lot from conservative religious groups. Those who support it should mount a new effort to insure its passage."

The best cook in our family now is a university freshman, and her current status has put a slight crimp in her style, from a culinary point of view.

Much as she has enjoyed campus life, she has found that she missed the chance to whip up a batch of cookies as much as the home-front cookie jar has missed her.

Of course, she has been coming home for occasional weekends and making up for lost time. We gobble her efforts gratefully.

Her dormitory does have cooking facilities, but she hadn't made much use of them because she figured cookies might not be the best of ideas without younger sisters around to eat them almost as fast as she could bake them.

But a few weeks ago she hit on a plan. She bought some ingredients, signed up to use the dorm equipment, and went to work.

And when the results of her efforts came out of the oven, she was ready with a paper bag. The cookies went in, and the bag was pinned to her door with a sign that said "Help Yourself."

She then went to the library to study, "and when I got back they were all gone," she reports.

Now it has become a minor dormitory tradition, and our freshman reports she's met a lot more cookie-loving students. A couple even came looking for her paper bag one Sunday afternoon.

Can't say I blame them. We think she's a pretty good cook too.

We'll Eat More Salmon

By BETTY MASSON

The day when the salmon steak will replace chicken (or even the beef steak) is probably still a few years away, but Jon Lindbergh is helping to bring it closer.

"We have to look to the sea more and more for food and natural resources," Lindbergh told his Livonia Town Hall audience. "It's wide open to imaginative development."

Part of this development is Lindbergh's pioneering in the field of commercially raised salmon in Washington State's Puget Sound.

Lindbergh has spent his life in oceanography, a term he uses to cover a great many facets of work in the seas. He has helped research and run a pilot program for almost three years.

This year, for the first time, the venture may turn a small profit, but it will probably be a while before you'll be eating his fish.

So far, he said, "We've just sold our products to gourmet markets and we've gotten a high price for them."

Money for the fish-farming program had to be raised from private sources. "The government didn't have money for anything so practical," quipped Lindbergh.

"I'm sure the fish-farming business will expand greatly in the next 10 years," said Lindbergh. He estimated that presently 70 per cent of the fish eaten in this country is caught elsewhere.

"We hope to change that," he said.

Efforts are being made all over the world to raise fish commercially.

Oysters have long been

"farmed," and the Japanese are now working with shrimp. The British have been concentrating on flatfish, sole and haddock, and other possibilities are being studied here and abroad.

Lobsters are going to be particularly hard to raise. "I think it can be done, but we need about two or three breakthroughs," said Lindbergh.

Lobsters take a long time to grow big enough to eat (six to eight years), and they have a bad habit of eating each other.

"They'll have to be kept apart, or we'll have one very large, very expensive lobster for sale," said Lindbergh.

Some experts claim that the resources of the oceans will help solve over-population problems.

Lindbergh does not agree with this, since much of the usable food in the sea is in the form of minute particles which would have to be strained out.

However, he does believe that food from the sea can buy time until the rapid population growth is slowed down.

The sea can also supply badly-needed new sources of oil and other products.

Thus all branches of oceanography are becoming tremendously important.

All branches are also good fields for women, said Lindbergh.

"Almost any job that doesn't take heavy physical work, and in marine technology, most don't, can be done by a woman," he said.

In some cases, women do the job better.

"We're trying to hire some girls at the fish farm now," he said, "not simply to be democratic, but because girls do a better job of feeding fish than men do." Women also clean fish faster, they've found.

For anyone interested in oceanography, he recommends a $3 information kit put out by the Marine Technology Service, 1730 M Street Northwest, Washington, D.C.

In answer to a query from the audience, Lindbergh reported that efforts are being made to keep porpoises from being caught and suffocating in nets used by tuna fishermen.

(The Observer recently published a story on this problem and the tuna boycott that was being urged to influence tuna companies to change their methods.)

"It is still a problem," said Lindbergh, "but it has been relieved a great deal from what it was two or three years ago." Fishermen are trying the use of different nets and placing the nets lower so that porpoises can swim over them, not into them, he said.

JON LINDBERGH, Livonia's Town Hall speaker, had a surprise reunion with one of his old teachers, Wilbur T. Bull of Lincoln Park. Lindbergh is bringing Bull and Mrs. Marlene Crowe, treasurer of the Town Hall, up to date on his activities -- maybe telling them about the salmon that got away. Bull taught Lindbergh elementary science in 1943-44 in Brookside School, Cranbrook. (Observer photo)

20 Free Tests Will Be Given

Tri-county residents again will have the opportunity to take more than 20 free health tests at the United Foundation Healththorama.

The first series of tests will be given April 4-7 in the Community Arts Building at the Michigan State Fairgrounds, Eight Mile and Woodward.

The second Healththorama is scheduled for May 9-12 in the Brodhead Naval Armory, 7600 E. Jefferson.

The testing will begin at 9 a.m. each day and will be open to those 18 and over on a first-come, first-served basis.

Various Torch Drive agencies participate in these annual events, which have served nearly 30,000 persons since 1968. Co-sponsoring it are the Women for the United Foundation, which recruits and trains hundreds of volunteers, and the United Health Organization, a Torch Drive service.

Joining them will be medical and paramedical personnel, hospital volunteers, student nurses and some 25 industries, unions, utilities and businesses.

A maximum of 500 adults a day will be checked for anemia, abnormal blood pressure, cervical cancer, diabetes, kidney malfunction, glaucoma, and other abnormalities. Test for sickle cell anemia will be given, as well as tuberculin skin tests.

There will be supervised child care areas at both Healththorama sites.

Children will be given free inoculations for measles, rubella and other childhood diseases at the Brodhead site in May only.

In addition to the tests, there will be educational and scientific exhibits focusing on health and social problems.

Included will be information on drug and alcohol abuse, help and understanding for the aged, information on speech and hearing difficulties and referrals to agencies to help with these and other problems. Advice on nutrition and diabetes will be available.

The purpose of Healththorama is to promote preventive medicine by encouraging regular health checkups. The tests are meant for people without specific complaints of illness.

Mrs. John S. Judd of Bloomfield Hills is the chairman. Her assistants are Mrs. Bert R. Vandevusse of Mt. Clemens and Mrs. Richard Gamalski of Warren.

For Book Fair

The Detroit Public Library has received a $30,000 grant from the Kresge Foundation to fund its third annual family book fair. The event will take place May 3-12 in the Main Library, 5201 Woodward.

Women on the Go City Planning Is Citizen's Job

By MARGARET MILLER
Women's Editor

Two feminine members of Livonia's City Planning Commission see their contribution as that of the interested citizen rather than the woman resident.

Sue Taylor is in her second year on the nine-member commission, and Esther Friedrichs was appointed in 1972 by Mayor Ed McNamara.

Both find the posts challenging and both enjoy adding their ideas to those of the men on the board.

"I can't say my ideas on city planning are any different because I'm a woman," Mrs. Friedrichs said.

"I feel very much a part of this city that's growing so fast," Mrs. Taylor stated, "and I'm glad to lend my efforts to make its development more orderly."

Both commissioners had seen civic service in varied ways before being named to the body.

Mrs. Taylor, a teacher in the Livonia district, had been active in the Livonia Jayettes when that group developed the Helping Hands program (later turned over to the PTA) and worked on Project Discovery for pre-school children.

In addition she and her former husband were instrumental in successful efforts by the Helman Park Civic Association to persuade the city to purchase a wooded area near the small subdivision for a city park.

"The park now is used by the schools so the children can see the wildlife there," she said, "and its development helped me see the importance of setting aside this kind of land in a city like Livonia."

Mrs. Friedrichs said she accepted the appointment "although I certainly didn't know much about city planning" because up to now her projects had been largely concerned with interests of her children.

"I'd like to see Livonia grow in an orderly way," she said. "I've always known how important is planning, but I'm just beginning to learn all the factors that go into it."

The land use study currently in progress is a necessary one, she feels, because "we must find a way to work out a balance between open space and housing of a varied nature."

"While finding a way to bring more people to the city," she added, "we also have to keep as much as possible the atmosphere that brought many of us here in the first place."

Housing to be built in this suburban area needs more careful thought, she believes.

Barbara Johnson Wed

Barbara J. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Johnson of Ramblewood Avenue, Livonia, became the bride of Richard V. Martin III in an early evening ceremony in Ward United Presbyterian Church. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard V.

Martin Jr. of Grosse Ile. Dr. Bartlett Hess officiated. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sateau gown with bishop sleeves, victorian collar and a flounce of nottingham lace edging the hemline and chapel train.

Burgandy velvet fashioned her attendants' gowns, and they carried white fur muffs with red and white carnations and red velvet leaves.

The bridegroom wore a white crushed velvet tuxedo and his attendants had burgundy crushed velvet tuxedos.

Mrs. Donald Portice of Taylor was matron of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Clotfelter of East Detroit and Sue and Pam Martin and Wanda Johnson, sisters of the bride.

Kelly Vaughn was best man. The ushers were Donald Portice, Dan Bowling, Larry Willis and Gordon Demster.

For the wedding and reception in Carlton House, Warren, the bride's mother wore a two-piece turquoise silk gown and the bridegroom's mother was in red crepe.

The couple went to Palm Beach for their honeymoon.

Both are employed by Sears. The new Mrs. Martin is a 1972 graduate of Bentley High School. Her husband graduated from Grosse Ile High School in 1967 and served in Vietnam with the U.S. Army.

MRS. KENNETH B. KRUGER

Judy Green Is New Bride

Judy A. Green became the bride of Kenneth B. Kruger in a candlelight service March 24 in the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

The Rev. Paul M. Cargo performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Harger Green of Jo Anne Lane, Plymouth. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Kruger of Grand Rapids are the bridegroom's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory silk organza, with chantilly lace forming a bib effect on the bodice and fashioning the long sleeves.

Her attendants wore floor-length pink floral print gowns.

Ann Hunemörder of Midland was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. David Green of LaGrange, Ill., and Mrs. Jerry Curnutt of Midland. Angela Ross of Midland was junior bridesmaid and Laura Green of LaGrange was flower girl.

Assisting the bridegroom were Charles Kruger of Dallas as best man and Steven Hill of Midland, David Green of LaGrange and Ronald Droski of Grand Rapids as ushers.

Grays Are Wed In Loretto

Our Lady of Loretto Catholic Church in Redford Township was the setting for the March 24 afternoon wedding of Patricia A. Burke and John R. Gray.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Burke of Brookview Avenue, Livonia. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. G.M. Byerly of Jackson and the late William H. Gray.

She wore a floor-length white satin chiffon empire gown with lace trim. Lace also edged her full length veil.

The bridesmaids were Jeanne E. Burke, another sister, Melissa A. Doyle of Pontiac, the bride's cousin, and Mary Jo Kennedy of Howell.

The best man was William H. Gray of Detroit, brother of the bridegroom. Bernard J. Burke, the bride's brother, Timothy M. Davidson of Mt. Pleasant and Jerry Van Ness of Jackson seated the guests.

Palmer-Henning Rites Ecumenical

An ecumenical service in Mt. Zion Lutheran Church of Detroit united Norma Jean Henning and Mark Thomas Palmer in marriage March 24.

The Rev. Robert Larsen of Mt. Zion and Father Robert Ruedisueli of Assumption Grotto Catholic Church officiated for the early evening candlelight rites.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Henning of Harper Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Palmer of Nottingham Road, Farmington.

The bride wore an A-line gown of ivory faille with venise lace accents. A lace headpiece held her long veil, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white and yellow roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Michael Oldham, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Susan Palmer, Mrs. Michael Thompson and Mrs. Fred Weiser. Jennifer Oldham was flower girl.

The attendants' dresses had light blue crepe skirts and royal blue lace bodices. They carried colonial bouquets with multi-colored flowers.

The bridegroom's brother, Jeffrey Palmer, was best man, and the ushers were Kenneth Terrill, Gary Vittoz and Edward Schoaps. Christopher Oldham served as ring-bearer.

Mrs. Henning selected a long, pale pink dress. Mrs. Palmer was in azure blue chiffon. Both pinned orchids to their purses.

The reception was held in Chateau Rouge restaurant immediately following the ceremony.

Wedding and engagement announcements and pictures must be mailed or brought to the office of The Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, 48150. Forms to supply the necessary information are available there. Pictures should be black and white and clear. Engagement pictures must be of the bride-elect alone and will be used one-column only. Wedding pictures may be of the bride alone (one- or two-column) or of the bride and bridegroom (two-column only).

Our charge for printing wedding and engagement pictures is $2.50 for a one-column picture and $5 for two-column pictures. Checks should be made out to the Observer Newspapers, and should be included when the announcements are mailed. Also needed for announcements mailed to the office is a telephone number where the information can be checked during the day.

Pictures will be returned after publication if an addressed, stamped envelope is supplied. They also may be picked up at the office at 36251 Schoolcraft after publication.

There is no charge for announcements with no picture.

It is not possible to inform you exactly when an announcement will be printed.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence L. Boese of Arnold Avenue, Redford Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Lee, of Midland, to Laurence L. Turbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Livonia Woman In Drive To Ban Steel Jaw Traps

Mrs. Joan Kortess, Livonia friend to all animals, is asking Observerland residents to help ask Congress to ban the use of the steel-jaw leghold trap in hunting and trapping. She calls the device "one of the most vicious ever invented."

Mrs. Kortess and her daughter, Pamela, have circulated petitions to be used in a new effort by the Animal Protection Institute of America to get the readily-available device outlawed in this country as it has been in 14 other nations.

The 1,000 signatures they have collected will be among those taken by Belton P. Mouras of Sacramento, institute president, when he makes a new appeal for congressional action March 31.

Others who wish to sign the petition or circulate others should call Mrs. Kortess, whose home is at 28696 Grandon.

Petitions also are available from the Animal Protection Institute, 5894 South Land Park Drive, Box 22505, Sacramento, Calif. 95822.

Mrs. Kortess said she became interested in the drive after reading an advertisement placed by the institute.

She described the trap, first developed around 1840, as one that "clamps shut with crushing force on the leg or paw of any animal stepping into it."

"Many times the leg is broken," she added. "As the animal struggles to free itself, the jaws of the trap tear into the flesh, causing extreme pain and fear. The animal is held in the trap, sometimes for many days and nights, unless it chews or twists off its paw and escapes. Most likely it still will die or infection or starvation because it no longer can compete for food."

Mrs. Kortess said the device still is used by fur trappers, although fur now is a luxury rather than a necessity and only about a fourth of the animals so trapped is valuable for its fur.

"This is an unjustified waste of animal life," she declared. She also pointed out that there is an instant kill trap on the market and also one that traps the animal but does not harm it so that it can be released if not of value for fur.

"As I petitioned from door to door for this cause," Mrs. Kortess said, "two men told of having trapped wild animals in the steel-jaw leghold trap."

"They both said it was the most hideous sight ever to be seen. They signed my petition to Congress to ban this trap."

Church Posts Drug Film

LIVONIA A film on drug abuse will be shown free April 3 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 17810 Farmington Rd., Livonia.

The film features Art Linkletter, who gives a presentation which has stirred emotions and opened many eyes. Linkletter says drug misuse "has become epidemic."

The film is provided by the Aid Assn. for Lutherans.

WSU Alumni Will Hear Mrs. Gribbs

Mrs. Katherine S. Gribbs, wife of Detroit Mayor Roman Gribbs, will be speaker for the March 30 area reunion for Wayne State University alumni of Farmington, Southfield, Lathrup and Oak Park.

The dinner gathering will be held in the dining room and upper lounge of Plum Hollow Country Club, beginning with cocktails at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Gribbs attended Wayne State in the 1950s and is back now as a student and leader of several university activities. Her topic is "Wayne State—I think It's Great."

She will be introduced by Dr. Paul E. Andrews, director of alumni relations. Mrs. Olga Dworkin of Farmington, chairman of the WSU alumni campus beautification committee, will show slides of recent projects.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hayes of Farmington are co-chairmen for the dinner.

Schoolcraft Continuum Views College Scene

By BETTY MASSON
You're tired of volunteer work, your children don't need you as much as they used to when they were little, your husband is involved with a hockey team three nights a week, extra money would come in handy, and you're thinking about going back to school and getting a job.

If you've decided what area you want to get into, you'd better do some research first. This was the advice of Nancy Dufour, director of Schoolcraft College's women's continuum center.

"Just because a course is offered at the college, it doesn't necessarily mean there will be a job available when you graduate," she warned at the first session of "I Gotta Be Me," a series of informal seminars on the changing roles of women.

Originally scheduled for a classroom in the liberal arts building, the seminar had to be moved to a larger lecture hall in the forum building.

Between 130 and 150 women turned out for the 9:30 a.m. seminar. Sessions continue for five more Tuesday mornings. You may learn about topics to be covered by calling Mrs. Dufour at the college.

The director said she is planning workshops May 2-5 to discuss "New Career Opportunities for Women" as well.

Mrs. Dufour pointed out that while a lot of medical courses offered at the college do have waiting lists, jobs in these areas may not be readily available.

"You might have to travel further, work unusual hours or branch out into some other area," she said. Phone the hospitals and do some research on your own first, she advised.

Even if you don't know what you want to do, going back to school is a good idea, according to all four speakers. Adele Weaver of Livonia, Virginia Myrtle of Plymouth, Pat Hausmann of Westland and Doris Campbell of Livonia.

"I think most women are selling themselves short," said Mrs. Campbell, who is the only female in the mechanical design program at the college. She has a 3.7 average and "wipes out the guys."

"There's nothing wrong with going back to school just to learn something," she said.

One of the things you learn, according to her, is "to look through the long hair - you find a whole bunch of fantastic guys."

"You look at things differently, and people look at you differently," said Mrs. Weaver.

"Going back to school has made me alive and interesting," said Mrs. Myrtle.

"Everybody's the same age here," was Mrs. Hausmann's comment.

"The professors like to have us older women in the class," said Mrs. Weaver. "Because we are more mature and we are not afraid to open our mouths."

All agreed that going back to school does present problems.

You have to let your housework go a little.

Getting into the habit of studying again is not easy, and all advised starting with one course in a subject in which you are interested.

Not all did it this way. Mrs. Myrtle started with two courses, worth seven credit hours, and found herself getting up at 5 a.m. every day to study.

But it does get easier. "The first semester, I felt like chucking it. Since then, I've never felt that way," said Mrs. Weaver.

The speakers also recommended starting in a small college.

"But start, even if you're not sure what you want to take," they said. Studying and talking with others will help you make up your mind.

Mrs. Myrtle recommended starting with the human potential seminars offered by the college. Registrations are being taken at the college March 28 and 29 for two new sessions.

The first begins April 2 and is geared toward career decision-making. The second starts April 17 and is a basic course in exploring goals and potential. The cost is $16.50 for in-district students, and registration hours are 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 6 to 9 p.m. both days.

SMALL MODELS for the April 5 fashion show-luncheon to benefit St. Mary Hospital in Livonia include several daughters of physicians at the hospital. That's Parvia Ghandchi (above) and (from left, below) Ruth Ann Waller, Heidi Lafata and Andrea Ghandchi. The luncheon in Raleigh House, Southfield, will begin at 11:30 a.m., and a few tickets for $7 still may be obtained from staff members at the hospital or from Mrs. Dieter Rohl, 16206 Alpine Drive, Livonia. Styles from Saks Fifth Avenue for women and children will be modeled by members of the Friends of St. Mary. (Observer photo by Maurie Walker)

Alumni Set Reunion

Mercy College of Detroit Farmington is assisting with plans. Cocktails will be served at 12 noon, with a sirloin luncheon set at 1:15 p.m. Special tribute will be paid to the classes of 1943, 1953 and 1963.

Young Singles Plan Dance

The Beth Abraham-Hillel Young Singles Group (18 through 30 years) will hold an April Fool's masquerade ball and dinner at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 31. It will be held in the upper rear annex of the synagogue building, 5075 W. Maple, West Bloomfield.

Reservations should be made by calling the synagogue office.

Land Use LWV Topic

Proceeds from the event will go to the alumni scholarship fund.

Tickets are available at the alumni office, 8200 W. Outer Drive, Box 123.

Western Wayne YWCA Is Taking Enrollments

Friday, March 30, is the deadline for registration in classes offered by the YWCA of Western Wayne County in Livonia and Dearborn.

To enroll, call or visit the YWCA, 1034 Monroe Boulevard, Dearborn. The yearly membership is $3.50.

Each Wednesday, the YWCA offers a variety of activities in Livonia. These include painting, yoga, exercise, needlecraft, modern crafts, camping for beginners and "potpourri," which explores a new topic each week. Play groups for pre-schoolers are available.

Topping the sports schedule for the family are five indoor golf sessions taught by a golf pro and outdoor tennis lessons. Both will be limited to six students per class.

Yoga and exercise offer two different approaches to physical fitness.

Swimming includes scheduling for all levels, from mother-tot water adjustment through advanced swimmers and senior lifesaving.

A new offering, "water safety aide," is for boys and girls ages 11-17, who have completed junior and senior lifesaving. Those successfully completing the course will qualify to assist a water safety instructor.

The creative arts scheduling includes a variety of courses offered both days and evenings. The courses include custom drapery, sketching and oil painting, sculpture and a fun course called "design and materials." This includes experience with mosaic, batik and weaving. Students will make their own hand looms. There also will be courses in tapestry rug hooking and dyeing.

Amateur sewers will profit from a course called "Unravel Your Sewing Problems." It is designed to answer questions about plaids, zippers, appliques, collars and cuffs, pockets, hems, buttonholes and sleeve fittings.

There will be a course on quick knit sewing of children's clothes using the Bishop method.

The Thursday morning

"sampler" is designed for those who enjoy variety.

Each two-hour session will feature a creative workshop. The opening session will be on Ukrainian egg decorating. This will be followed by mornings of oriental cooking and tasting, macrame and flower arranging.

Bridge players may attend refresher courses, and there will be folk guitar classes for persons 13 and over.

Play groups for children 2½ to six are available for mothers enrolling in Tuesday or Thursday morning programs.

MICHIGAN MOTORISTS are reminded by Automobile Club of Michigan that their two-year-old, mud-splattered license plates give way to shiny new 1973 blue and white models on April 1. Pretty Carol Marvin reminds Michigani-ans that Saturday, March 31, is the final day for displaying 1972 plates on passenger cars and motorcycles. Carol urges motorists to buy their plates now and avoid possible long lines the final day.

State Asked To Fund Jail

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved a plan to seek $39 million from the state to build new jail, mental health and court facilities.

In a meeting March 15 the board authorized Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick, to begin negotiations with Gov. Milliken and the Legislature. FitzPatrick proposed that the "advance" be sought from the state in his "state of the county" address last month. He said he had held preliminary conversations with Lt. Gov. James H. Brickley and House Speaker William A. Ryan, and they agreed that the plan "sounds feasible."

Under terms of the plan, the state would be repaid with funds that are due the county from the sale of a water supply plant to the Metropolitan Detroit Water Supply Department.

The water department bought the plant in 1959 and is scheduled to pay annual installments until 1991. If the plan is approved by the Legislature, these funds will be assigned to the State.

The proposed $39 million advance will be used to finance construction of:

- A new jail adjacent to the present one in downtown Detroit to house 350 prisoners.
- A second jail facility and a new courthouse at an undesignated location in western Wayne County.
- A new psychiatric-care building to replace several out-moded psychiatric buildings at Wayne County General Hospital.

FitzPatrick said that he expected the jail and court facilities to cost $25 million, and the psychiatric facility to cost $14 million.

County Panel Says: Close Child Care Center In Mid-'74

A task force of county and state experts has recommended that the Wayne County Child Development Center, a residential school for mildly retarded children, be closed as of July 1, 1974. It's on Sheldon near Five Mile roads in Northville Township.

The task force recommended that the children, presently numbering 243, be transferred to smaller community-based residential facilities or returned to their homes where feasible.

The task force report was received last week by the human resources committee of the County Board of Commissioners.

The committee scheduled a public hearing on the report for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 28, in the City-County Building auditorium. Committee Chairman Paul Silver said the purpose of the hearing would be to hear reaction by interested citizens and groups.

The task force, consisting of 12 state officials and three county representatives, was established last August at the request of the Board of Commissioners. Dr. Joseph C. Denniston, deputy director of the State Department of Mental Health, was the task force chairman.

The Child Development Center opened as the Wayne County Training School in 1926 on a 750-acre campus in Northville Township. It has a staff of some 275 and an annual budget of $4.2 million.

Center employees, the task force said, would be given the opportunity to apply for equivalent jobs in similar state institutions in Wayne County. A relatively high employment turn-over at the state institutions should make sufficient jobs available, the report added.

The task force said development of programs for the educable retarded in school systems and the trend toward community-based residential facilities make the closing of the center feasible.

New community residential facilities may have to be developed to accommodate all the center students and future placements, according to the report. The cost would be shared by the county and state.

In addition, the task force recommended that a referral center for all "troubled children" and their families be established in Wayne County to "insure a comprehensive program for each child and family and easy access to the delivery of services."

noted the center students include both.

The task force gave four reasons for recommending that the Child Development Center be closed:

1. The physical plant is in poor condition and unsuitable for remodeling to reflect modern treatment programs.
2. Operating costs of the present program ($50-$60 per day per child) are very high and costs of improvements would be "intolerable and a waste of scarce resources."
3. The location of the present facility is inappropriate because of the lack of public transportation and because 60 per cent of the patients come from Detroit.
4. The institutional environment which is inherent with a plant of its size is contrary to modern treatment programs and is detrimental to the growth of the individual.

Care of the children in community-based residential facilities and the referral center would be funded through the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Services Board, with 75 per cent state mental health funds and 25 per cent county funds.

The report recommended that the referral center be functioning by next September in order to process the community placement of the center students in time for the projected July 1974 closing of the center.

County Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick said the new setup would save the county "somewhere in the neighborhood of $1 million annually."

"Our first and foremost concern is for the children," he added. "We have been studying the Child Development Center since 1961. We have always felt there must be a better way, and this report says there is."

Farm Bureau Women Set All-Day Rally

An all-day "spring district rally" will be presented by Farm Bureau Women from Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw, Monroe, and Livingston counties Tuesday, April 3 in the United Methodist Church on Waldron Rd., Clarkston.

A look at agriculture's future in Michigan and futuristic methods of homemaking will be program highlights.

The day will begin with coffee and hospitality time at 9:30 a.m., followed by the call to order at 10 a.m. Oakland County Farm Bureau Women will be serving as hostesses.

The morning agenda will include a representative from Detroit Edison talking about micro-wave ovens and Reggie Cook of Minnesota Fabrics discussing new materials and ideas for home decoration.

For the afternoon session, a representative from Michigan State University will discuss the MSU project "80 plus 5" which describes agriculture as it may be in 1985.

Reservations for the noon luncheon at $1.75 per person must be made by March 29. Those planning to attend should contact Mrs. Maurine Scramlin, 3694 Jossman Rd., Holly or Mrs. Roy Schultz, 7854 Lilley Rd., Plymouth.

Adistra Honors Employees

Several employees of Adistra Corp., a marketing services firm with facilities in Plymouth and Northville, recently were presented tenure service awards by President W. P. Scott.

Four were honored for 10 years service with the company. They included Irene Bida, Ruby Conley and Irma Larrick, all of Plymouth, and Edmund Doby of Livonia.

Five-year awards went to William C. Curtis, Norman P. Goebel, Maxwell Johnston, Agda Oaks, Kathleen Reddeman, Gloria Stoddard and Joseph Thuer.

Gold pins with rubies and diamonds were given to the ladies and tie tacks to the men.

The Child Development Center is the only county-operated residential school for retarded children in the nation. It was founded at a time when community-based programs for the mildly retarded with behavior problems were virtually non-existent. Such programs have been developed only in recent years, the task force noted.

Children at the center range in age from 7 to 18, with the average being 14 1/2 years, the report noted.

The report did not address itself to the possible future use of the valuable campus land or the buildings on it.

Wayne County members of the task force were County Commissioner Rose Mary C. Robinson, of Detroit; Dr. Pasquale Buoniccont, the center superintendent; and Willard Koths, former chairman of the center's administrative board.

In addition to Dr. Denniston, state members of the task force represented the departments of education, social services, vocational rehabilitation, public health, mental health and the bureau of programs and budget.

Members of the commissioners' human resources committee, in addition to Silver, of Detroit, are: N. Frank Cylkowski, Detroit, John Barr, Dearborn Heights; Mary E. Dumas, Livonia; John C. Hertel, Harper Woods; Catherine Shavers, Detroit; and Tom F. Taylor, Westland.
