Plymouth Township's federal shared revenue portion has been cut by almost two-thirds.

Based on the first of four quarterly checks which arrived earlier this week, Plymouth Township's share this year will amount to about $96,356 compared to last year's $270,000.

At the same time, the city's share under the program will apparently increase from last year's $82,022 to $94,900. Canton Township has not received its first 1973 check.

The drastic reduction in Plymouth Township's share follows formal protests filed with the federal government by the city of Plymouth and Canton Township that their shares were too low in comparison to Plymouth Township.

When they received their first federal revenue sharing check, Plymouth Township officials admitted they were surprised at how large it was.

Plymouth Township Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes said the change in the township's portion may reflect the correction of whatever error was made in computing the 1972 share.

While the cause of the error in the 1972 formula for Plymouth Township isn't known, Mrs. Holmes said, it appeared in the local tax effort of the formula.

The revenue sharing portion for each community is based on several factors -- one of which is local tax effort.

Mrs. Holmes said the formula for the township's 1972 portion used $1,974,000 rather than $580,000 which is the correct figure for the 1971 tax effort.

The treasurer said she didn't know officially whether the correction in the formula meant the township's 1973 revenue share was lower to compensate for the apparent overpayment in 1972, but that she expects to learn that soon.

She said she learned from one Washington, D.C. source that the federal government would not recall any overpayment given in 1972 but would probably reduce the future payment to balance out.

Mrs. Holmes also said the apparent increase in the city's federal revenue share reflected "a normal increase" which most communities are seeing because Congress increased the revenue sharing budget.

"I don't expect the city to get more because of its protest," she said.

Mike Herrick Funeral Set For Monday

Funeral services for Donald L. Mike Herrick, 61, of 14341 Northville Rd., Plymouth Township, will be held Monday at 1 p.m. from the Schrader Funeral Home. The Rev. Guenther C. Branstner will officiate.

Burial will be in Rural Hills Cemetery in Northville. Visitors will be received on Sunday between 12 noon and 9 p.m. in Schrader's.

Herrick, employed at the Plymouth post office, died suddenly Friday in St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. A lifetime resident of the Salem, Plymouth and Northville area, Herrick was superintendent of mails for several years in Plymouth. He was a member of the First Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Doris L., a daughter, Mrs. Joe (Judith) Calhoun of Northville, a son, Nicholas J. Herrick, and three grandchildren.

SALVAGING BELONGINGS are 22 families who were routed shortly after midnight on Friday (the 13th) when a fire of undetermined origin raced through Canton Gardens, a 22-apartment complex on Joy Road, east of Holly. Fire departments from Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Westland responded to the alarm. Firemen say there were no injuries. One resident blamed the apartments' construction, which he said lacked firewalls, for the fire's rapid spreading. Two water beds in one apartment were apparently responsible for saving the contents of the apartment underneath when they burst. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

City Blocks Agreement On Recreation Authority

By EDWARD WENDOVER

Just when the Plymouth-Canton Recreation Authority gets rolling may hinge on Monday night's Plymouth City Commission meeting.

In a special meeting held last Monday, the commissioners agreed informally to block a dissolution amendment to the authority agreement which has been approved by Plymouth and Canton townships and the Plymouth school board.

But even if the city and the other three governmental units pledged to the pact can agree on the amendment, the six-week period it has already taken to reach a tentative agreement will probably postpone the authority's first programs until fall.

According to Howard Old-ford, one of the proponents of the authority and a designee of the authority's board for Plymouth Township, the preparations necessary to get the authority rolling would probably take too long to implement summer programs.

That means that the school district, which hoped to have its summer recreation program handled by the new authority, will probably have to hustle to put together its usual summer program.

Oldford said that in order to pull the authority together, the appointed representatives would begin meeting this week whether or not the city gives final approval to the pact.

"I'm going to keep going and if those guys (the city commission) want to sign, good," Oldford told The Plymouth Mail & Observer. "That's the stand I'm taking."

"I just want to get something done," he said. "All I care about is recreation."

Oldford said the first meeting of the authority board would probably be Wednesday night.

Each of the four governmental units involved has appointed its representatives to the board -- including the city which appointed its representatives when it gave initial approval to the agreement.

Since that approval, Plymouth Township added the dissolution agreement to the pact and that was approved by Canton Township and the Plymouth school board.

When the amended version returned to the city for final approval, Mayor James McKeon saw the dissolution amendment and called the special meeting for last Monday night.

At that meeting, the commissioners agreed informally to block the dissolution section of the agreement.

"If they see we're going to hold out, maybe they'll (the township boards and the school board) change their minds," said Mrs. Beverly McAninch, city commissioner.

When City Commissioner William Silvis asked McKeon if he had talked to anyone from the townships about the amendment he didn't like, McKeon replied, "I've been too damn mad to."

When the commissioners discussed voting on the matter that night, Atty. John Thomas, who drafted the agreement, asked them to simply table the matter.

"Let's not start some inter-governmental war," Thomas said.

The commissioners agreed not to take any formal action then, but some action is expected at Monday's meeting.

They did informally agree to fund the authority initially with $10,000 if the two townships would contribute proportionately on a per capita basis.

"The school district is expected to contribute to the authority through use of its facilities."

In discussing the authority's timetable, Oldford said after the meeting, that drafting bylaws and a budget -- which must be approved by all four participating units -- and hiring a director for the authority would probably take too long to accomplish in time for summer programs.

"We're talking fall programs," he said. "Summer programs are pretty much going on the way they have."

Oldford said the fall programs would be ideal for the authority to begin with because they didn't overlap with summer programs much.

He said it would be "realistic" to assume the authority could not begin its programs before that.

Canton To Hold Planning, Zoning Public Conference

"Planning the Environment" will be the topic of a public planning conference to be held Monday night by the Canton Township Citizens Advisory Council on Land Use.

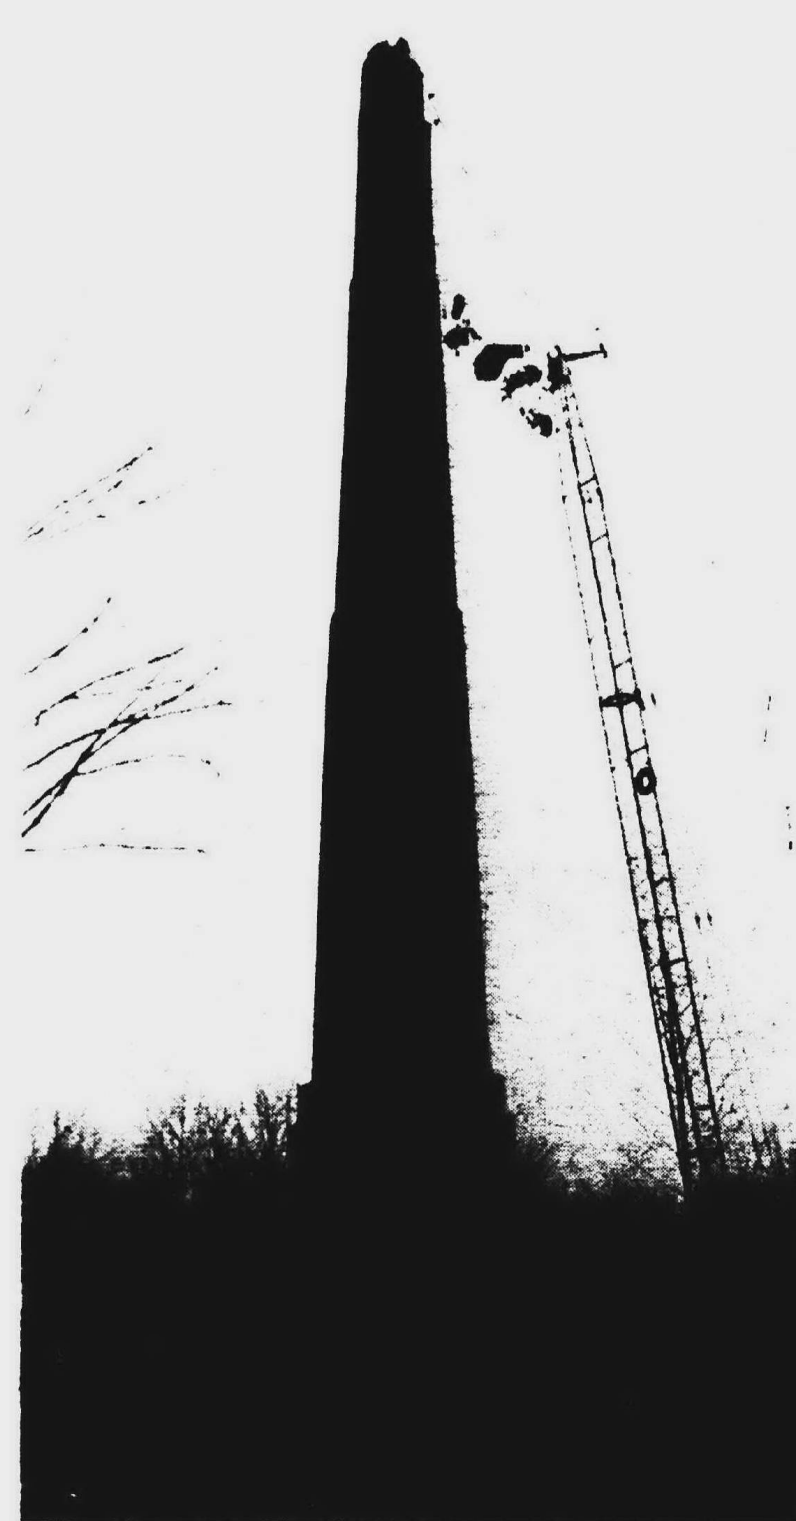

The council, which was established by the Canton Township board to update the land use study and master plan, has also set two other planning conferences for the public.

"Housing types and densities" will be the topic of a conference on April 30. "The role of state and county governments in local planning" will be discussed at a May 7 conference.

Further details on those will be released later, said Michael Manore, township planner.

Monday's conference will be held in Plymouth-Canton High School auditorium beginning at 7 p.m.

Speakers will include: Bill Sturtevant, legislative aide; Bob Hotaling, Michigan State University planning professor; Francis Bennett, director of the Wayne County Planning Commission; and Geoffrey Lanning, Wayne State University law professor.

WITH ALICE TOWARD NONE

There were four kids — each with his own expertise at shooting marbles — who decided that if they went together and pooled their talents and resources, they could be the best marble player combine anywhere.

So they decided to form a pact.

They got an attorney to draft an agreement and it was then presented to Kid I for his signature.

Now, Kid I's role was to let the cooperative use his collection of big shooter marbles — acknowledged as the best of the four — as his input into the pact.

So Kid I wasn't going to be out anything and by joining he'd be able to get out of the actual shooting which he wasn't too keen on doing anyhow. He signed immediately.

At the same time, Kid II and Kid III were presented with the agreement for their signatures.

But Kid II had his own lawyer and he thought he should have him look it over before he signed. So he postponed his decision.

Kid III had just started in full-time in the marble shooting circuit and wondered what the pact would do to his efforts thus far and whether his full-time manager — just recently hired — would be put out of a job. So he postponed signing too.

Then it came time for Kid IV to sign. He didn't like one point about the pact's terms of office so he signed a version amended to accommodate that.

Then Kid II's lawyer came back with his opinion, advising his client that before he signed he should insist on a dissolution clause in the pact in case things didn't work out.

So Kid II, who pays lots of money for legal advice like the other kids do, passed the pact with both the dissolution clause and the amendment on terms passed by Kid IV.

Kid III, meanwhile, had consulted with his advisors and decided — somewhat reluctantly — to sign the pact with both amendments.

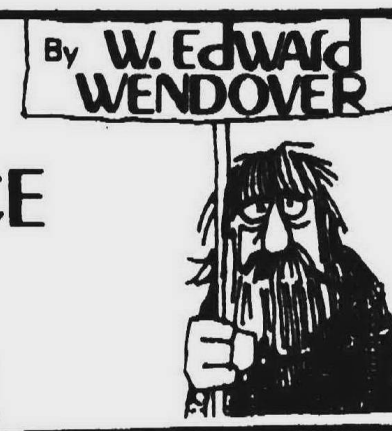

Kid I, who still didn't have anything to lose except the use of his big shooter marbles, signed the twice-amended agreement.

But suddenly, Kid IV heard of the dissolution clause suggested by Kid II and thought it was just a move to say, "If you don't play my way, I'll take my marbles and go home." (Which would leave the other three kids hanging.)

"Maybe if I don't agree to that, Kid II will back down."

Township Denies Rezoning Request

PLYMOUTH A request to rezone 50 acres on the north side of Ann Arbor Trail east of the proposed McClumpha Road extension to a higher density has been denied by the Plymouth Township Board.

The board voted 6-1 Tuesday night to uphold the unanimous recommendation of its planning commission to deny the rezoning.

The Wayne County Planning Commission also recommended denial.

The rezoning request, made by Gould Development Co., was to change the area's current zoning from country homes to a residential unit development.

That would allow lots of 100 foot frontage rather than the half-acre parcel minimum.

Bud Gould, president of the development company, said he requested the rezoning because "it was economically unfeasible" to develop the parcel with half-acre lots.

Frank Millington, the lone Plymouth Township trustee who voted against denying the rezoning, said he did so because he wanted the township to undertake an outside survey on the economic feasibility of developing the site first.

Did you know that ghosts have their own classifications? Ghosts have been divided into two categories, the revenants and the doubles. Revenants are supposedly the reappearances of persons or things which no longer exist while doubles are specters of persons or things known to be elsewhere. Many ghosts, it seems are accompanied by "ghostly" sounds, but a few make themselves known by touching those whom they visit. Ghosts who rely on the sense of touch are known as incubi.

Religion Update

"Come ye faithful raise the strain of triumphant gladness!"

"God hath raised his Israel into joy from sadness..."

Few canticles have done more to emphasize the familial relationship between Judaism and Christianity than this beloved Easter hymn — which rejoices in both Passover and the resurrection of Jesus.

And few times in history has this closeness of Christianity to its parent religion been more poignantly demonstrated than 25 years ago, in what was then known as Palestine.

A Waterbury, Conn. rabbi who was there at the time, Dr. Joseph Heckelman, has written a monumental thesis entitled "American Volunteers and The Birth of Israel, 1947-1949."

He has concluded that of the 1,000 U.S. citizens and 300 Canadians who served with him as volunteers in Israel's War of Independence, at least 200 of them were Christians.

Rabbi Heckelman's research was not easy.

Until May of 1948, there was no State of Israel — until a diminutive combination of George Washington and Moses named David Ben Gurion read a proclamation one evening in Tel Aviv. Until that hour, the army was underground and divided — into such organizations as Palmach, Haganah, Irgun and Stern.

"Some of this had to be by estimate," noted the rabbi during an interview, "although it was known that many of our flyers were Christian. But there is one category of which we are certain. There were those who died fighting for Israel and who at their family's request are buried in Christian graveyards."

One of the most colorful of the surviving Christian volunteers is the Rev. John Grauel, a New Jersey Methodist who is known as "the Christian rabbi."

Rev. Grauel was a crew member of the famed refugee ship Exodus, a converted Chesapeake Bay excursion steamer which was rammed by destroyers of the Royal Navy when they caught her off Tel Aviv trying to run the British blockade with 4500 refugees.

During a three hour battle, the first of the American volunteers was killed in action, the Exodus' first mate, U.S. Navy Lt. Bill Bernstein of San Francisco.

Rev. Grauel is an active member of a veterans organization which for most of the past quarter century has had to be kept a secret. The American Veterans of Israel (AVI) faced the continuing threat of having passports or even citizenship of its members revoked by the angry U.S. Department of State because they had served in the armed forces of a foreign government.

With the passage of time (and the statute of limitations), however, the AVI has been able to meet openly — for such remembrances as the annual memorial service at the West Point grave of Col. David Marcus, class of 1924.

"Mickey" Marcus, known as "Israel's Lafayette" died on June 10, 1948 — on the road to Jerusalem, just after his leadership had helped lift the Arab siege of the new nation's capital city.

Next month a number of the AVI will travel to Israel for what should be a deeply moving and particularly poignant celebration.

The new state — which some of these veterans have not seen since fighting for its existence — will observe the completion of its first quarter century despite enormous odds against survival. It continues to be the hatikvah (the hope) of 20 centuries.

These veterans will visit the graves of Bill Bernstein and David Marcus and will mourn the eternal tragedy of war, in which, inevitably, good men die young.

Yet just before his own death as a young man, the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. said:

"If you are cut down in a movement that is destined to save the soul of a nation, then no death can be more redemptive."

And the comrades ("chavrim") of the American Veterans of Israel like David Marcus and Bill Bernstein were killed in the action of giving a nation its very existence — as well as its soul.

Ward Trip Takes 40 To Smokies

They will take bicycle and back pack trips into the mountains from their Gatlinburg base, visiting Greenbrier, Cades Cove and other spots of interest.

Ray Husband of Spring Arbor College will be speaker for the Easter service and other devotions.

THE LIVING LORD'S SUPPER, a tableau presentation of Leonardo DaVinci's famed painting, "The Last Supper," will be part of Maundy Thursday worship in Grand River Baptist Church of Livonia at 8 p.m. April 19. As a short narration is given by James Gilmore, church members depicting Jesus and the disciples will enter from various parts of the sanctuary and take their positions as shown in the painting. Mary Thornburg, the church's director of Christian education, heads the production. Bill Spargo, who is well known throughout Observerland for his bowling feats, recently enjoyed one of those nights a bowler dreams about, but seldom attains in real life.

Bowling with the Stroh team in the men's state tournament at Muskegon, he helped make a shambles of the big standings board.

Here's what he did. He posted a 2096 in the all-events which is second highest ever rolled in the state event. It is superseded only by Johnny Crimmins' 2130 rolled in 1945.

To get the big count Spargo rolled 715 to take the lead in the actual singles, then teamed with Dale Seavoy for 1274 and second place in the doubles. These big totals came after Bill paced the Stroh team to 3028 and top place.

Three first places and a share of second place! That isn't bad for one week-end.

They added a new name to the Honor Roll this week when West Palm inserted a perfect game between counts of 184 and 190 for a 674 in the Senior House League at Garden Lanes. This is the first 300 bowled at Garden Lanes this season.

Helen Baker who has captained the Thunderbird Inn team in the ladies all-star leagues for quite a few years, is going to call it a day at the close of the season. It is understood that Thunderbird will retain the sponsorship of the team that has always ranked at or close to the top.

Dick Preston keeps on rolling along. The veteran all-star paced the Wonderland Classic Tuesday night with a 714 series to lead his closest rival, Bill Walker, by 24 pins. Four teams bettered the 3100 mark with Jim Shelp's Spine Grinders leading the way with 3124.

Bob Bengals enjoyed one of his best nights in the Oak Park Senior House League. He strung games of 210, 224 and 216 for 650. Right behind him came Joe Bell with 635, Joe Bogden with 612, Mike Bengel with 609, Don Hayward with 607 and Art Stewart with 603.

It will be a long time before the Strikers team forgets its one big moment of glory in the American Legion League at Farmington Lanes.

Not only did it bowl an 1157 game and a 2974 series, but one of the members - Fred Bramton - came within one strike of a perfect game. After registering 11 strikes in a row, he couldn't stand the pressure, and missed the headpin entirely on his final ball. As a result he left up the 1-2-4 and had to settle for a 297.

While he was knocking them down, his teammates also were assaulting the pins in fine fashion. Bill Platt fired a 266, Chuck Robinson followed with a 247, Gary Almashy had a 182 and Sam Bahamian a 165.

Although he didn't finish among the leaders this week, Dick Preston still is leading the averages in the Garden Lanes Classic with a 211. Right behind him is Lou Laydu, another veteran, with 205.

Norm Bochenek paced the Classic this week with a 691. Trailing him were Ron Brennan with 685, Herb Longeway with 684 and Loren Krause with 670.

One of the best showings of the week was turned in by Rose Ligner, who linked games of 256, 176 and 232 for 694 in the Garden Lanes singles.

By the margin of a single-pin, Bill Walker won the pacemaking role in the Westland Bowl Classic.

In a gruelling battle with Bob Johnson for the honor, Bill put together games of 258, 232 and 201 for 691. Bob led until the final game when, after posting counts of 225 and 267, he dropped to 198 and lost.

Third place went to Bob Cole with a 665.

The Suburban Men's League has a high scoring mark for the season. It is a 2198 count in which Larry Sontra had a 243 in 560 to show the way to the new mark.

Meanwhile the Plymouth Bowl team waited until the final game to win Traveling League honors in a regular event at Garden Lanes. The team consisted of Mary Ann Kain, Linda Henderson and Bernie Sakowski.

Bowling in the Farmington Meadows Mixed League at Farmington Lanes, Jan Browne set an all-time record for the circuit. Starting with a 163, she came back with games of 225 and 228 for 616.

Connie Woods had a 233 in 605 to lead the Noon Classic. Right behind her came Jackie Stocks, who also had a 233. But she settled for a 567 series.

Shelly Rizzo had a 192 in 505 to lead the girls division of the Teen Classic and Don Hunt paced the boys with a 206 in 569. Chip Mitchell topped the Junior High Boys with 214 in 565 and Kim Harrington showed the way to the girls with a 210 in 490.

The junior bowlers continue to do well at Country Lanes. This week Mary Zukorski posted a 205 while Jim Vogl had a 204, Todd Lipa 201 and Pat Felloni a 198.

Erv Watson, Jr. was the big gun in the Bel-Aire Classic with a 687. Following him were Danny Feloni with 684, Steve Kielian with 663 and Jay Robinson with 662.

In the Senior House loop, Jerry Hay set the pace with 668 and Andy DiCamillo used a 268 game for a 666 and second place.

Frank Barcewicz was the big gun in the Business Men's circuit with a 670 and Don Feldpausch landed the runner-up spot with 655.

The ladies did well, too, at Bel-Aire. Mary Lou Keating paced the Mixed league with 630. Norma Denham showed the way in the Kimberly North league with 248 in 620 and Jean Dembeck topped the Women's Classic with 607.

Franklin Baseballers Topple North Raiders In Opener, 4-1

Franklin High tallied once in each of the last three innings to tip North Farmington in the Northwest Suburban baseball opener, 4-1.

Franklin came up with its four runs on seven hits and committed one error while North had five hits and no errors.

Jamie Knapp started on the mound for Ron Hellier's

Franklin Patriots but was forced to depart after only two outs in the first inning when a sore elbow developed. Junior Rich Gaber went the remaining 6½ innings, gave up four hits, walked one and struck out seven in picking up the win.

The lone run against Franklin was charged to Knapp.

Lew Doot went the route for North, giving up seven hits, six walks and striking out four.

Franklin drew first blood in the opening inning.

Jeff Waterstone walked, moved to second on a passed ball, and around to third on a ground out. Waterstone scored on a Gar Frantz ground out to the right side of the infield.

North bounced right back in the last of the first.

With two outs, John Creighton singled and stole second. Hellier then replaced Knapp with Gaber and Kim Parker responded with a single up the middle to score Creighton.

It remained a one-all deadlock until the top of the fifth.

With no outs, Raider hurler Doot got himself into a jam.

Tim Livesay walked and Bob Follow singled. Doot then balked the runners to second and third but bore down and got Gaber on three strikes.

Thurston Sneaks By Wayne, 1-0

Thurston's Mark Falvo got the job done again.

It was the second game for the Thurston baseballers and the result was the same as the first. Only the opponents were changed.

Falvo three-hit Plymouth in Thurston's opening 1-0 victory and came right back to three-hit Wayne Memorial with Thurston again winning, 1-0.

The hard throwing Eagle right hander walked only three and chalked up 11 strikeouts to give him a total of 22 in 14 innings worked this '73 campaign.

The lone tally of the non-league contest came in the bottom of the first inning.

Thurston second baseman John Roy lashed a stand-up two bagger to left center and moved to third on a passed ball.

Falvo lifted a short fly to left field. Roy was tagging and the Wayne left fielder Bill Pherson dropped the ball. Roy scored easily.

Wayne threatened to break Thurston's and Falvo's shut-out string in the top of the fourth.

With two outs, Ken Hopton walked and advanced to second on a stolen base.

Wayne hurler Mark Reid ripped a hit into center field.

Hopton wasn't stopping at third and gave it all he had to tie it up. Eagle outfielder Gary Chappell relayed the ball to Gary D'Ascenzio at short who tossed to Mike Robinson at the plate and Hopton was cut down on Wayne's only scoring opportunity of the afternoon.

Thurston finished with the one run on three hits, with no errors while Wayne had no runs, three hits and made two errors. Reid took the loss as Falvo chalked up his second win in as many starts.

Borgess Runs Streak To 30

No. 30 and going strong, that's the spirit of Bishop Borgess.

The Borgess trackmen defeated Garden City West in a dual meet, 79-44, to remain undefeated in five years of varsity competition in stretching their string to 30.

Borgess Coach Steve Strauch had a little coaching from the sidelines which he is hoping will pay off later in the season.

His long jumper, Craig Weiland, has been writing to Southern Cal's Henry Hines who is on tour with the Professional International Track Association.

The pro circuit is in Detroit this week and Hines, who has jumped 26-8, came out to see his young admirer, Weiland, and Borgess in action.

Borgess won the 880 and 440 relays and took first in seven of eight running events. Mark Sopko was the lone double winner with firsts in the low and high hurdles.

The exciting relay was the most mile race of the afternoon with both schools clocking in at 3:41.1 as West's fourth man got the lean over Borgess.

One wonders if Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley will ever get around to announcing the outcome of the investigation of drivers, trainers and owners at the Jackson-at-Northville January meeting.

Shirley had his investigators talking to numerous drivers and trainers on rumors of occlusion in the trifecta races. The probe did unearth several interesting things but for some reason Shirley has not made any of his findings public.

At the same time the investigators were busy in Michigan the Ontario Racing Commission was delving into similar charges at the Windsor track.

Strange enough both commissions were checking all sorts of rumors at the same time. Ontario ordered a lengthy hearing and then delayed a final decision until the commission had a chance to study all the testimony.

One hears Michigan had a series of hearings at about the same time but little was divulged at the time and thus far nothing has been made public.

Thus it wasn't any surprise to learn the Ontario Racing Commission had suspended Michigan's Terry Butler for life and his brother, Tim, for a year for alleged violations of the racing code.

It was general knowledge well in advance of the ruling that Terry was in big trouble but few expected a lifetime suspension. Such a ruling means he will be unable to train, drive or own horses anywhere in the United States or Canada. Canada and United States have a reciprocal agreement and a suspension in one country automatically becomes effective in the other.

It is expected Terry will appeal the decision on the grounds that he has had his livelihood taken away from him. What happens next is between Butler and the Ontario Commission... if he appeals and wins, then he'll be back in racing again. If he loses, Terry will have to look around for something else to do, something entirely divorced from racing.

Oh yes, now that someone else has paved the way, it is expected Commissioner Shirley will take some action. Those close to the situation have been waiting for some kind of a decision since mid-February... come to think, it probably will be some kind of a ruling, one that won't hurt anyone and keep all happy and satisfied. That seems to be the policy, don't rock the boat, someone may get mad and we don't need that in Michigan.

With many top drivers and standout stables checking in during the week, Wolverine Raceway will present the best pacing event of 1973 Saturday (tonight) with a field of five clashing in the $6,600 invitational.

The track is nearing top shape and that's the reason why so many of the better outfits are shifting activities to Michigan. Drivers and owners know when the big mile track is at its best they have one of the fastest racing strips anywhere in the land.

So it isn't strange to see Racing Secretary Bill Connors come up with a star studded race this early in the year.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

Heading Saturday's cast is J. R. Skipper, a three-year-old son of Meadow Skipper owned by Russell Miller of Dutton, Ontario, who is rated as one of the top contenders for the Little Brown Jug crown in September.

Winner of $108,695 a year ago when claimed one of the nation's standout juveniles, J. R. Skipper will be making his 1973 debut and could pace away from his four rivals.

The Skipper ranks fifth in the experimental handicap ratings for three year olds with a potential speed of 1:55.4. Reenie Ricci Time tops the rankings with a potential of 1:55.

The Skipper will be handled by Greg Wright, the youthful Canadian pilot who guided the colt to 12 wins in 23 starts a year ago and a clocking of 1:58.1 in Lexington, Ky.

Going against the young speedster is Bedford Jet, currently the fastest of the Michigan crop with a time of 2:02.2 while winning a preferred event a week ago.

The Jet will be after its eighth win in 13 starts this year and a chance to boost its earnings to more than $26,000... quite a tidy sum for a horse purchased for $500 as a green two year old.

Then there is Big Kahuna, with a mark of 1:59, over this same mile track last spring and reported in top shape by Trainer Gene Riegle. It will be Big Kahuna's first start of the year but that doesn't mean it isn't ready... it could well be the winner.

Bramble Hall, shipped in from California with Doug Ackerman's large public stable could make things rough for all. The son of Flying Song has been in the money in seven of nine races and won in 2:01 at Los Alamitos before moving to the Midwest.

The fifth starter is Trackmaster, owned by the estate of the late Arthur Knapp of Jackson, who has had a good winter in Florida. Guided by Don Hall, the veteran Northville driver, Trackmaster won two weeks back in 2:01.3 to show its fitness for the northern races.

The invitational, first of the year in the area, is listed as the fifth race on the all-pacing program.

With the arrival of some of the better stables from the deep south and many traditionally outstanding jockeys from the same places, Hazel Park swings into the second portion of its meeting today (Saturday) with a $10,000 handicap as the top event.

For instance Larry Snyder, perennial Hazel Park champion, has arrived from Hot Springs and oldtimer Bobby Baird checked in from New Orleans. Phil Rubisco also is expected before the end of the week from Louisiana.

New Hitter Rule Gets The Best Of Tigers

By W.W. EDGAR

Although the major league baseball season is only one week old, the new designated hitter rule that was the main topic of discussion during the long winter months, already is proving to be the tonic needed for what once was called the national pastime. Designed to create more interest in the game by permitting an extra hitter to be placed in the lineup in place of the pitcher — or any other player — and to give new life to many of the veteran players, it is doing just that.

Take the case of Tommy Davis, the Baltimore outfielder who ruined the Tigers' opener on Wednesday and sent them down to a 3-1 defeat in 12 frigid innings.

Thirty-four years old and considered past his peak, he had been released by the Oakland Athletics because of poor legs and later dropped by the Chicago Cubs before the Orioles picked him up a year ago.

All he has done thus far is win two of the Orioles' first three games and he was the thorn in the side of the Tigers on opening day. He drove in two runs and they were more than enough to offset the Tigers' lone hit — Norm Cash's home run in the second inning.

Woody Fryman, the Tigers' starting hurler, was riding along on a one hitter until the seventh inning. He was working with a one run lead and seemed headed for a shutout by the manner in which he was pitching.

Little fear was felt when Don Baylor, the Oriole outfielder, opened with a single. But he moved around to third on two infield outs and was standing on third base when Davis, the designated hitter, came to bat and lined a single to left field that tied the score.

This made it a new ball game. For the next four innings both teams struggled. Then came the 12th and doom. And who caused it? The designated hitter.

Again Baylor started the damage with a double and that left it up to Davis, who wasted no time lining one of Lerrin La Grow's pitches into left field for a double that gave the Orioles the edge they needed to go on and win.

There were many in the gathering of 46,389 half frozen spectators who claimed Jim Northrup, the Tiger left fielder, played the ball poorly — that he misjudged it and let it go. But the ball was well hit and into the corner of left field.

So, into the records will go the fact that the Orioles' designated hitter decided the ball game.

It was an odd twist for Davis, too.

Only a year ago he spurned an offer of $20,000 to play ball in Japan, claiming that the new designated hitter rule could be a career saver for him.

"My wife wouldn't let me go to Japan alone," he said after the game, "and now I'm glad I stayed. That designated hitter rule is a lifesaver."

Until Davis made his presence felt, the game was a great pitching duel between Fryman and Jim Palmer, ace of the Oriole staff.

While Fryman had allowed only one hit, Palmer was touched for four, including Cash's home run, and seemed to be getting stronger.

But when Davis went to work in the seventh inning the tide turned and he made the designers of the new rule look good.

On the other hand, Billy Martin was unlucky with his designated hitters — Gates Brown and Frank Howard. Gates got a single in the fourth with one on base and Howard flied out on his appearances.

The season still has a long way to go, but if the first week is any criterion, the designated hitter rule, will provide many exciting moments before the snow falls.

Second Guessing Billy Martin?

So you'd like to be a baseball manager — in the big leagues. Okay.

Here's a test for you. Suppose your team was riding along with a one run lead and your pitcher had allowed only one hit during the first six innings.

Then, in the seventh, the first batter singled. The next grounded out on a hard hit ball.

Would you consider taking the pitcher out of the game — or would you let him stay in after talking to him?

Well, that's what Billy Martin, the Tiger manager did on opening day.

He walked to the mound and talked things over with Woody Fryman — and allowed him to stay in the game.

But Billy's confidence boomeranged when Tommy Davis, the designated hitter singled, drove in a run, tied the score and changed the entire ball game.

Then, in the 12th, after Lerrin LaGrow had pitched three fine innings in relief, Billy walked out to the mound and talked to him. LaGrow had allowed the first batter to double.

Was he weakening? Was the pressure getting to the newcomer?

Bill talked to him — and allowed him to stay. You know what happened.

That man Davis hit the next pitch into the left field corner and drove in the run that conquered the Tigers.

Immediately, the second guessers went to work on Billy.

Why didn't he remove the pitcher?

Well, you're the manager now.

What would you have done?

Southfield Girl Has Role Of Godmother

DEARBORN Vicki Zoyes of Southfield is playing the fairy godmother in the Greenfield Village Players' version of "Cinderella."

The players are celebrating the Easter season with their version of the familiar fairy tale April 21-29 in the Henry Ford Museum Theater. Dr. Joseph French is the director.

In this, Cinderella is the "ugly duckling," whose real beauty is overshadowed by her beautiful, but cruel and vain stepisters. It is love that penetrates outward appearances with a little help from the zany fairy godmother and a devoted grandfather clock.

It's designed for the enjoyment of the entire family, and the plot takes unusual turns. The dialogue is filled with delightful and sometimes sardonic humor.

Performances will be at 2:30 p.m., April 21-29, with additional evening performances at 7:30, April 21 and 28. Tickets are $2.25 for adults and $1 for children 14 and under. They'll be on sale at the box office. Group rates are available through the theater department.

The cast includes Dan Bar, Cris Becker, Kenneth Chomont, Theresa Cytacki, Larry Domine, David Duchene, Frances Iadonisi, Douglas Isminger, Brigid King, Rachel Lankton, Lori Mills, Nancy McElroy, Robert Rieben and Irene Schweyer. The last two play Prince Charming and Cinderella.

Pick the place in Florida you'd want to live. Then buy land there. Now.

What's the hurry? Why can't you wait to buy your land until you're good and ready?

Because if you wait much longer, the kind of land you want may be gone. Or so expensive you can't afford it.

Introducing Florida's Palm Coast.

Palm Coast* is the largest planned community in Florida's history, a potential 100,000 acres on the Atlantic Coast, about 27 miles south of St. Augustine and 24 miles north of Daytona Beach.

Why this area of Florida is so promising.

Of the 10 largest states in the nation, Florida shows the highest population growth rate. And population growth in Florida has led to a greater demand for land.

And the long-term investment potential for your land will be best in a place like Palm Coast. It is one of the last areas on Florida's Atlantic Coast that is still available for large-scale development.

It is largely wooded land, 17 miles along the Intracoastal Waterway and 5 miles of beautiful Atlantic beach. Its location between historic St. Augustine and modern, dynamic Daytona Beach makes it ideal in terms of transportation facilities, entertainment and exciting activities.

The climate is superb; basically three seasons, spring, summer and fall. So you can enjoy year 'round fun.

What Palm Coast offers you and your family.

Palm Coast offers you a variety of homesites, some in the golf club area and other choice locations, some on or near water. Because of its popularity, waterfront property is not always available—but ask.

There are water sports of every variety and the kind of fishing that has made Florida a mecca for sportsmen.

Our marina and yacht club, with swimming pool, will be completed by the end of 1972. And our championship golf course** and tennis courts are open now.

And we are creating new lakes, waterways and ponds; planning parks and mini-parks.

Be a Charter Landowner at Palm Coast.

As a Charter Landowner you'll get first choice of sites and be assured of paying today's prices; an assurance that could be very important to you, considering the history of desirable Florida land.

Mercy Hosts Ballet Dancers

DETROIT
The Christopher Ballet Company will perform at 1 p.m., Monday, April 16, in McAuley Auditorium, Mercy College of Detroit, 8200 W. Outer Drive.

The program is the last in this year's performing arts series and is free.

DETROIT
Arthur Fiedler, Richard Hayman, Peter Nero and George Shearing will highlight the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's springtime series of Cabaret "Pops" Concerts for 1973.

Beginning May 9 and running through May 26 in the Light Guard Armory, 4400 E. Eight Mile, the Cabaret "Pops" will offer a combination of classic, popular and jazz music in a relaxed nightclub setting.

Seating is at tables of four which are priced at $18 and $14. Tickets are available now at the Ford Auditorium box office, Hudson's and Grinnell's.

Kicking off the series will be Peter Nero, who will make his conducting debut with the Detroit Symphony on May 9 and 10. He will bring his trio along.

Hayman will conduct the May 11 and 12 concerts, which will be entitled "Viva! A Festival of Music From Many Lands."

He will return for the May 16 and 17 concerts, with guest soloists Bonnie Murray, soprano; Anita Darian, mezzo-soprano; Gne Bullard, tenor; and Robert Trehy, baritone.

Members of the Rackham Symphony Choir, directed by Charles Heard of Westland, will join them for "Some Enchanted Evening - Music of Rodgers and Hammerstein."

The audience will be invited to share "An Evening With Arthur Fiedler" on May 18 and 19.

On the evenings of May 23 and 24, George Shearing and his quintet will move into the spotlight for "Pops Potpourri with George Shearing." Hayman will conduct.

The final pair of concerts, May 25 and 26, will be devoted to the "Best of Broadway and Hollywood," an all-orchestral program with Hayman once more on the podium.

Brochures are available from the Ford Auditorium box office. All programs begin at 8:30 p.m.

They Hope To Entertain Kids

With the help of two muppets, Clyde and Alfred, two Plymouth residents have put together a children's television show which they hope will both entertain and educate.

The two are Dennis McVittie and John Cummings.

"I thought most children's shows were either too educational or too entertaining," said Cummings. "Somewhere there was a happy medium."

Their answer is called "Cornville Heights." The first film, in what they hope will be a series, was shot in and around Plymouth with the help of Northville resident, Art Cervi, more widely known as Bozo the Clown.

The characters in their show include Clyde, the not-too-smart, but helpful muppet, plus Alfred, the suave, sophisticated one. Inidentally, these muppets came from the same man who makes them for "Sesame Street," and the difference between a muppet and a puppet, is that the former is larger, and needs two people to make it work.

McVittie and Cummings are the two people. Cummings also plays John, the Cornville banker and city commissioner, and Dr. Magic and writes the scripts. He has been a professional magician since he was 14.

Cervi is the fellow who owns the fix-it shop, plus Cornville's mayor, commissioner of garbage and fire chief.

The object of the show is to solve a problem. In the first episode, the problem was that Farmer Zeke couldn't take a vacation, because it took him too long to milk his cows.

Could the boys at the fix-it shop help him? The solution came while Clyde was vacuuming the shop, and a visit to Stan Gill's farm near Plymouth proved that a milking machine will work.

During the course of the show, which was videotaped at CKLW-TV in Windsor, there's also a minute's spot on manners, and a lesson in how to make a little boat.

If they can sell their show, McVittie and Cummings are planning future episodes based on problems with planes that can't land at night at the Cornville airport; cars that don't run; cereal that won't snap and crackle; and the Cornville Huskers, a football team in trouble.

Both Cummings and McVittie are graduates of Plymouth High School, and met during a talent contest there. After graduation, Cummings attended the Ohio State Technical School for radio and television broadcasting. McVittie attended Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C., and studied radio and television production in Chicago.

Both have worked at radio stations in Three Rivers, Jackson, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, and are now forming their own advertising agency, as well as planning future visits to Cornville.

Arts Council Sets Workshop

Art enthusiasts will be treated to a watercolor workshop and demonstration this spring under auspices of the Farmington Community Arts Council.

The experimental painting techniques of Lyne T. (Bud) Shackelford of El Cajon, Calif., will be mixed with his interpretations of modern theory and served up with a sense of humor.

Shackelford's workshop is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, April 27, in Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus, 27055 Orchard Ridge Road, Farmington.

Reservations must be made with Mrs. Dee Schoeneich, 33940 State, Farmington. The fee is $10 per person.

Adults enrolled in the council's spring series, "Exposure to the Arts," will be invited to take part in the workshop.

"I want to meet as many people as I can during this tour," Shackelford told Sister Mary Kevin, vice-president of the Arts Council.

Last year, he covered 25,000 miles on his "watercolor tour" through western and southern states.

This year, he is taking in the eastern states, emphasizing the use of "aquarius" paper, which he claims can be loaded with water and pigment without buckling.

During the morning session, Shackelford will demonstrate experimental techniques and materials, with his students following along.

"We provoke accidents," he said, "and learn to control them. Then everyone loosens up and paints with freedom and gusto."

A lunch break is followed by a critique and slide presentation, showing step-by-step watercolors by Rex Brandt, Robert E. Wood, George Post and Bob Meltzer. They also show step-by-step acrylics with Shackelford is creating on large canvases.

Shackelford's visit has been arranged by Sister Mary Kevin, of the art department of Our Lady of Mercy High School. Shackelford will also visit Mercy and Lawrence Institute of Technology during his stay in the area.

WINNERS in the annual juried art show of the Palette Guild were (from left) Mrs. Edward Tiedeman and Mrs. John Kilbourn, both of Redford Township, and Mrs. Milton Abramson of Oak Park.

NATURE'S GIFTS are not unlimited. Man and his family have the privilege of using the great outdoors, but also the responsibility to preserve and protect it. (Photo courtesy of Wandering Wheels, Inc., Southfield)

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

The Great Outdoors.

Three simple words, really, but words that hold out great promise for man's enjoyment and well being as we move towards such ever increasing leisure time as the three-day holiday weekend and the shorter work week.

There are many, many ways to pursue recreation, of course.

But by far, most of us look to the out-of-doors for fun and recreation. It's out there, it seems, where we find the true meaning of the word "recreation": to recreate and refresh oneself. And increasingly, we're finding the outdoors looking right back at us.

A Two-way Relationship

This is no one-way relationship between man and his environment. To enjoy the outdoors as a source of recreation, man must pay his dues: the protection and preservation of that environment for all to use and enjoy.

Every family that spends its weekends camping has an obligation -- both to other campers and to the outdoors itself -- to leave behind a clean camp.

Every family that enjoys boating must be sure not to toss litter overboard, nor to pollute the waters.

Every family that fishes or hunts should follow good conservation rules and practices, because fish and animals are as much a part of the environment as are the streams and forests in which they live.

In short, man and his family have the privilege of using the great outdoors in all its many splendors to increase his enjoyment of life; but in turn he has the inherent responsibility to preserve and protect that outdoors as he would preserve and protect his own family.

Industries serving the recreational needs of the American public have long recognized this obligation, and have been working towards a better environment.

Obviously, consumers would not buy their products if the products could not be used under the pleasant surroundings expected by the recreation-bent people.

But these manufacturers are users, too, and look to the outdoors for their recreation as much as does the office-bound accountant or the factory worker.

Personal Reason, Too

Recreation manufacturers thus have a double stake in the environment, and their interest and work in creating a better world for recreation -- both for the consumer and for themselves -- clearly shows this unique interest.

But the industries can do only so much. It remains, finally, to the users, to the campers and the boaters and the hunters and the fishermen, to anyone who seeks recreation under the skies, to recognize his obligation to help preserve the outdoors.

There are more, and cleaner, recreational boating and fishing waters this year than last.

Use Resources Wisely

There are more public and private ecologically planned campsites this year than last.

Fish and animal game management programs continue to insure an adequate supply of fish and game -- without upsetting the delicate ecological balance of nature.

But it falls to the user to use these facilities wisely, to protect the environment in all its many forms, to make sure the great outdoors remains what it always has been.

Obviously, a good environment makes good business sense, and these manufacturers are spending literally millions of dollars annually on conservation and ecology to insure the great outdoors stays truly great.

Any sign owner failing to remove an illegal sign is subject to a penalty of double the cost of removal.

Pop-up and fold-down campers priced from $1,300 all the way up to a $20,000 motor home can be seen among the 28 vehicles on display.

The national introduction of the new Ford camper, classes on different phases of sailing using an electronic sailing simulator (see related story), fly-casting demonstrations and representatives from country-wide trailer park organizations will be among the show's offerings.

Influenced the older generation to get with nature, rather than fighting it. With sailing, there is no noise, air or water pollution.

"People these days want peace and tranquility. Twenty sailboats can go by and you will never know it, except for their beauty. Let one power boat come along and the soundless world of everybody around is shattered."

Once you have invested in a sailboat, there are few additional costs, Scott said. It costs nothing to use, and the whole family can take an active part.

"There is a whole society to sailing," he noted. "Sailing people gather to talk, to compare notes. It is of interest to the 15-year-old boy and the 65-year-old man."

"The whole dynamics of sailing is very technical, and there is always more to learn. A real professional sailor can make the same boat go twice as fast as the novice."

Scott, who is 31 years old and a Redford resident, is a practicing tax accountant. He recently opened up his sailing company as an outgrowth of his intense interest in the sport. General offices for the Redford-based firm are at 24821 Five Mile.

Forest Vehicle Rules Up For Discussion...

or areas not posted against such activities by the DNR.

In an effort to keep these machines from being run better-skilled across state forests, the latest rules would also make it unlawful, without proper DNR permission, to operate ORVs where there is no visible evidence of a forest road or trail.

Another safeguard would require the permission of the DNR before state forest lands could be used by operators of ORVs for organized events such as races and endurance contests.

Michigan's Department of Natural Resources has previewed proposed new rules for controlled use of wheeled, motorized vehicles -- trail bikes, motorcycles, ATVs -- on northern state forest lands.

The recommended regulations were outlined before the Natural Resources Commission, which will be asked to act on the measures at its April 12-13 meeting in Lansing.

The newest proposals would permit the use of off-road vehicles are flame resistant as of 1975 are positive: "There has never been a need to do it."

"It's a case of getting a divorce before you are married," he continued. "There has only been one case of fire engulfing a tent in the past several years."

"I remain rather skeptical that a tent that is flame-proof is also waterproof. I would certainly rather face the remote possibility of fire than the certainty of getting wet. The tent manufacturers say they can put the two together. Well, we'll see."

AN OUTGROWTH of the tremendous upsurge in the purchase and use of recreational vehicles is the campground business. Hickman cites a 300 per cent growth in the past three years.

Three years ago, Michigan had 80 per cent public campgrounds and 20 per cent private. Now there are 40 per cent public and 60 per cent private.

"In essence, there was a recognition that the public sector could not possibly provide adequate camping facilities to keep up with the rate the RVs were coming up with the assembly lines," Hickman explained. As good state parks are, they need help.

A good campground licensing law, which Hickman helped write, has paved the way for a liaison committee which coordinates and assists -- at the state level -- the development of both public and private campgrounds to avoid duplication of facilities.

State campgrounds are able to put their money where it is most needed, and private developers are aided to place their sites where there is both the need and opportunity to make a profit.

Hickman feels that the growth of the recreational vehicle industry is about to peak out -- that the big days of the fast growth are over.

AS FOR HICKMAN, who has had no lack of writing opportunities in such publications as "Trails Away," "Woodall's Trailer Travel," "Wheels Afield," "Better Camping" and "Great Lakes Sportsman," all of with assorted company house organs which occasionally feature camping articles, he is looking to change his own orientation.

"While the bulk of my work continues to be writing for industrial clients, manufacturers and their agencies, consultation is taking a larger share of my time and energy. More companies are discovering the RV industry and also discovering they don't know much about it."

"These days I'm more often called in to advise them and their advertising or sales training agencies," Hickman said.

"Writing is hard work. I'm not encouraging my own kids to go into it." The Hickmans have three children: Andrew, a senior at Michigan State University, is majoring in business administration; Laura is 18 and a freshman at Kalamazoo College; and Douglas, 15, is in his last year at Holmes High School.

Tent Material Law Is Signed

Gov. Milliken has signed into law a bill to require all tents and tent materials sold in Michigan by late 1975 to be fire resistant, postponing the date of a present law which would have imposed the requirement this year.

The bill (H-4169, I.E.) applies to camping tents. Tents for such purposes as public assembly and animal exhibits are now required to be fire resistant.

"This new law can have significant impact for the safety of thousands of people who have and use camping tents," the governor said. "At this point, Michigan and Massachusetts are the only states to provide this type of protection, protection which can be extremely important as an increasing number of people use tents."

Canoes, Kayaks Speckle Rivers, Lakes, Streams

Canoeing is for those who enjoy the unexpected.

Started Mallard ducks taking flight as your canoe slips around a bend. Rustling in the brush along the shore and a glimpse of an otter searching for food. A trout breaking water to gulp a tantalizing insect. And the sight and sound of cool spring water cascading down a rocky cliff is always so refreshing.

AT FIRST GLANCE all canoes appear to be pretty much alike. But don't you believe it. There are fifty some manufacturers in the U.S. alone. Canoes vary in shape, size and construction materials. From this wide selection you should have no trouble finding a canoe to fit your requirements and pocketbook.

The wood-canvas canoe is preferred by canoe purists because it most closely resembles the American Indian variety in construction. They prefer its quiet operation and advocate its superior maneuverability. The quiet is particularly important to fishermen where the loud slap-slap of the water on an aluminum or fiberglass hull disturbs the fish.

But the wood-canvas canoe has drawbacks. As it absorbs water it increases somewhat in weight. Further, canvas and wood canoes require periodic attention and care such as revarnishing and painting and they cost slightly more than the aluminum and fiberglass varieties. Aluminum canoes are more durable than the other types. They resist punctures and tears; dents are easily punched back into shape and they are relatively maintenance free. The main disadvantage is the surface absorbs heat from the summer sun and becomes hot to the touch. They are also noisier than other types.

NEWEST IN THE FIELD is the fiber glass canoe. They are slightly heavier in weight than the other varieties and are strong and durable. Surface tears are easily mended with epoxy paint. Noticeable improvements are being made all the time and in most respects it is equal to the other varieties.

Most canoes made today offer sufficient buoyancy to float even when filled with water. Plastic foam or air chambers built in fore and aft make them virtually unsinkable.

In selecting a lightweight canoe, you may require a capacity greater than you feel you need. Larger canoes ride higher and move faster with the same paddling energy. In heavy waves and rapids they also provide a distinct safety advantage.

Some 13-15-foot canoes paddle sluggishly when carrying normal loads. While one might prefer a shorter one from the portaging standpoint, the difference in weight between these and the 17 to 18-foot canoe is negligible considering the lower level and the paddling drag of the shorter model.

Now for the canoe paddle. It should be long enough to reach your chin when standing. The stern

A MAN, A WOMAN, A BOAT blend perfectly into the scene that nature has created. Tent camping is man's way of getting back to basic living.

paddler, who does most of the steering, should use a paddle three or four inches longer than that of the bowman.

THE BASIC TECHNIQUE of paddling is simple. Hold the knob atop the paddle in your palm and grip the shaft close to the blade with your other hand. Pull backward with your lower arm while thrusting forward with the upper arm.

Paddlers can either sit or kneel on pads, whichever they find the most comfortable. From the kneeling position one can exert a more powerful stroke.

Ordinary paddling tends to direct the canoe away from a straight course. To maintain it, the stern paddler can give a slight outward thrust with his paddle at the end of each stroke. This maneuver, called the "J" stroke, is generally preferable to the method of alternating the paddle from one side to another every third or fourth stroke. There are draw strokes, sweep strokes, jam strokes and others for the advanced canoeist.

To best turn the canoe the man in the stern backwaters, or trails the paddle.

Balky Outboard Motors Reveal Owner Neglect

To a boat owner who has planned an afternoon of water skiing or a fishing trip, there can be nothing more frustrating than a balky outboard engine.

Most outboard owners keep their engines in top tune by following the maintenance recommendations clearly specified in the owners manual. However, the few owners who do experience engine trouble can usually blame no one but themselves.

According to marina operators and service technicians most outboard trouble can be traced to owner neglect.

To insure trouble-free boating, here's a checklist prepared by specialists:

- Periodically check the spark plugs. If they are basically in sound condition, clean and regap them. If they are worn, replace them. It is also a good idea to keep an extra set of plugs on board for emergencies.
- And don't forget a plug wrench.
- Breaker points should be checked at the same time as the plugs. Make sure they are in good condition and that the gap is adjusted to specifications.
- Ignition wiring that is cracked or broken is another source of trouble. Check the wiring for these troublemakers and also make sure all connections are tight.
- Proper spark timing is a must. Check the set against the recommendation in the owners manual.
- The fuel system is another critical area.

Make sure all components are clean and in good working order. Replace filters before they become clogged. And accurately measure the gasoline/oil mixture whenever filling the tank. Too little oil can cause overheating, detonation and accelerated wear, while too much oil can result in fouled plugs, loss of power and hard starting.

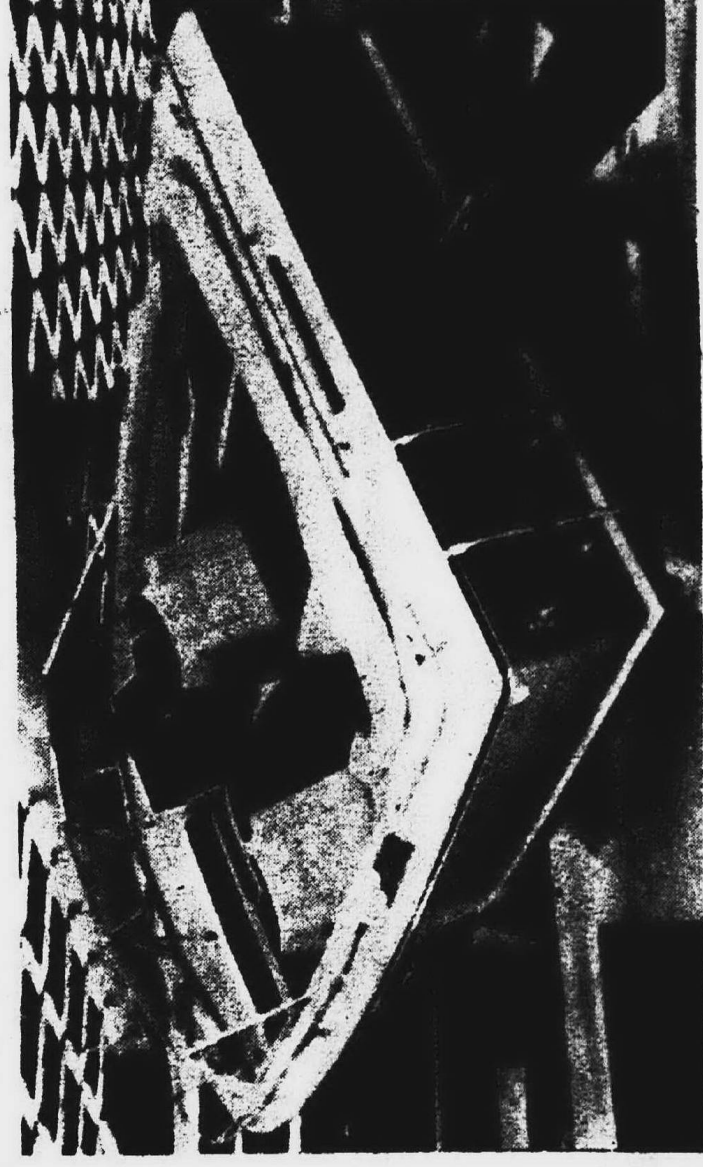

- Check the gearcase for proper lubricant level.

If you are the owner of a brand new outboard, remember that the breaking-in period is important. Run the engine at about half throttle for the first hour. Every few minutes during this period, open the throttle slowly to full, hold it there for a minute or so, then throttle back to half.

By keeping an eye on that engine, you can eliminate a lot of needless headaches. But no matter how conscientious an owner may be about maintenance, he may experience hard starting at times, due to over-choking. One cause of this malady is when the engine is tilted up for trailering or launching.

Extra fuel may enter the carburetor, so it is a good idea to disconnect the fuel line whenever the engine is not in use. Overchoking can also result when the fuel tank is exposed to the blistering sun which can build up enough pressure in the tank to override the float needle.

By following these suggestions you'll not only have quick starts and smooth running this season, but for many seasons to come.

MOTORIZED BOATS, such as this one displayed at recent boat show, are popular for fishing and water skiing.

MATCH-UP QUIZ

WHICH RV SUITS YOU?

The recreational vehicle can offer the average family an opportunity for better and less expensive vacations and weekend trips.

Before investing in one, a family should consider its needs and just what type of vehicle is best suited to them.

A lot of hunting and fishing and rugged cross-country driving? Maybe a camper mounted on a pickup truck is the answer. Touring and seeing the sights? A travel trailer could do it. A taste for luxury on the road? A motor-home. Camping pleasure? A tent-camper.

Next analyze your finances. How much do you want to spend on your rec vehicle? If it's $1,500 or less, you're obviously not in the market for a motor home or a 30-foot trailer.

The next step is to talk to people who own the kind of vehicle you want to buy. There are camping and trailer clubs whose members have all sorts of rec vehicles. Generally, they'll be glad to share their experiences and give you sound advice.

If you're still undecided, try renting a trailer or camper for a weekend or longer. Get to know it and find out how to use it to best advantage.

Briefly, here's how the various RVs stack up:

TRAVEL TRAILERS are the most popular RV. Sizes range from 10 to 35 feet long and eight feet in depth. The price range also is wide, depending on size and features. A travel trailer usually is self-contained.

ed, with everything needed for eating, sleeping and bathing.

A big advantage of the travel trailer: you can park, unhook it at your site, and then have free use of your car or truck, unlike motor homes and truck campers.

MOTOR HOMES, the most luxurious of RVs, are the fastest growing segment of the market. These are self-powered and built directly on truck or bus chassis. Motor homes are easy to drive and often contain such luxuries as air-conditioning, stereo sound systems and color television. Most sell in the $10,000 range.

TRUCK CAMPERS are units designed to be mounted on half-ton or larger pickup trucks. Slide-in campers can be removed from the truck and parked on jacks when not in use, freeing the truck for everyday use. Larger truck campers are permanently mounted on the trucks.

Sportsmen go for truck campers because they are rugged and can be driven into the back country where "the big ones are biting."

TENT CAMPERS or camping trailers are low-profile trailers which fold out and up into structures with fabric or plastic sidewalls. They sleep four to eight. Most are fairly basic, providing sleeping accommodations and perhaps a small kitchen. They are easy to tow and easy to set up and take down.
