Roth Upheld; Delays Seen

The full Sixth Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals ruled as expected Tuesday that Detroit public schools are segregated and that a cross-district busing plan is needed to bring about effective desegregation.

The court, in a 6-3 decision, further upheld an earlier order that all 52 suburbs involved in a metropolitan desegregation plan should be given the opportunity to be heard in court before such a plan is put in operation.

The decision in effect keeps the case where it stood Dec. 8 when a three-man appeals court panel unanimously affirmed the original cross-district busing order of U.S. Judge Stephen Roth but ordered additional testimony from suburban districts before its implementation.

However, attorneys linked to the case called it "extremely unlikely" that cross-district busing would go into effect next fall, both because of the time necessary for the taking of suburban testimony and because of the likelihood of an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Judge Harry Phillips, writing for the majority in the 131-page decision, said:

"The district judge's finding that no Detroit-only plan can achieve desegregation of the Detroit public school system points up another substantial distinction between this case and the classical segregation."

"The state controls the instrumentality whose action is necessary to remedy the harmful effects of the state acts. There can be little doubt that a federal court has both the power and the duty to effect a feasible desegregation plan."

Plan Blocked

The Community Improvement Association of Plymouth Township has submitted 106 petitions containing 1,302 signatures—as yet uncertified—to overturn the recent township board decision to extend the Byron Creek sewer into the western portion of the township.

If the petitions contain 903 certified signatures (10 per cent of the number of registered voters) they would call for a referendum on the issue and all work on the project would be stopped until outcome of the referendum is determined.

McClendon Trounces, Gray Squeaks In

E.J. MCCLENDON

E. J. McClendon, a fourth-ranker in last year's school election, was swept overwhelmingly into the school board four-year term Monday by almost two-thirds of the ballots cast.

Joseph Gray, who also ran last year—placing sixth, has apparently captured the one-year board seat by a narrow margin of 18 votes out of 3,183 ballots cast in his race.

In a precinct-by-precinct see-sawing vote that kept everyone waiting around for the absentee ballot count, Gray edged out Marcia Borowski 1,781 votes to 1,763. David Trent ran third for the one-year term with 639 votes.

McClendon's 2,702 votes outpaced Zelda L. Flora's 928 and Jay S. Finch's 700 to sweep the four-year race. McClendon carried every precinct.

In the one-year race, Mrs. Borowski carried precincts 1, 2 and 3 while Gray won 4, 5, 6 and 7—picking up a 109 vote lead in his own Lakepointe area that Mrs. Borowski couldn't overtake.

Mrs. Borowski's defeat was the first time a school board candidate endorsed by the Plymouth Education Assn. (teachers' union) has been beaten. The PEA backed McClendon and Mrs. Borowski.

On the propositions, the voters approved the operating millage renewal but defeated the $14.12 million building bond issue, the 1.55 mill operating increase and the 0.4 mill one-year safety levy.

The millage renewal passed handily, 3,052 to 1,647.

The bond issue lost 2,058 to 2,619—by 561 votes.

The operating millage increase was defeated by more than 800 votes—1,885 to 2,969.

The safety millage lost 2,051 to 2,491.

In December's special election on the bond issue's original form, voters cast 2,537 votes against it to 1,720 for—a margin of 800 votes.

In Monday's election, Precinct 2—Canton Township—favored all four of the propositions.

The safety millage also carried in Precinct 5.

In the election for Schoolcraft College trustees, Plymouth School District voters supported all the winners—Paul Y. Kadish, Nancy Blatt and Gerald L. Cox for the six-year terms and Ronald Cowden for the two-year term. (More details on the Schoolcraft election appear on Page 10A)

Curtailed Program Inevitable Now, School Officials Say

WENDOVER

A curtailed program is the inevitable result of Monday's Plymouth school elections, officials say.

On the heels of the voters' second defeat of a building bond issue and the defeat of both the proposed 1.55 mill increase in operating levy and the 0.4 mill safety levy, School Board President George Lawton and Supt. John M. Hoben dejectedly weighed the future.

"We can operate," Lawton said, "but it would be dishonest to say that we can operate at even close to the same quality."

"The only thing you can say is that we'll proceed to operate the schools on the money the community provides."

Just where cutbacks will have to be made can't yet be determined, Hoben said. "Whether it means a general slice (throughout the budget) or (eliminating) certain items it's too early to tell."

As he discussed the election results with Lawton and The Plymouth Mail & Observer late Monday night, Hoben paced back and forth and slapped a letter opener in his palm.

He said that while there is enough money to get by in the 1973-74 school year, the "following year is the critical year."

This stems mainly, he said, from the school population boom that would have been housed by the bond issue's construction.

Lawton said he imagined the school board would return to the voters on the bond issue once again.

"But that won't solve the importance of classrooms in the meantime," he added.

"The bond issue I see as by far the most disastrous (of Monday's outcome). Apparently we were unable to get through to the community that there is a substantial lead time to putting up a building," the board president said.

Hoben said that in addition to the costs of returning the issue to the voters, "each time we defeat a bond issue, we're falling a year or a year and a half behind."

But before there's any discussion of another try for the bond issue, Hoben said, "we're going to take a good look at why it was defeated."

"Closing Central School might have been a mistake," he added, saying that that was probably the single overriding local issue that doomed the bond issue's second try.

Hoben said that one out of three responses to the maximum building utilization questionnaires cited the Central School closing as a concern.

Lawton agreed on the impact of the Central School closing.

But Hoben said that other factors were:

"Apathy. 'Everybody's waiting for the Messiah to come with tax relief.'"

"The general feeling (among voters in some areas) that 'The growth isn't in my area so it doesn't affect me.'"

Business Asst. Supt. Appointed

The Plymouth School Board has unanimously appointed a new assistant superintendent for business.

Picked from among 79 applicants for the $25,000-a-year post was Raymond Hoedel, currently assistant superintendent for business of Clintondale Community School District.

Hoedel was awarded a two-year contract which begins July 1.

AMONG THE SENIORS graduating during Plymouth High School's commencement exercises tonight (Wednesday) will be six foreign exchange students. Celebrating the event are: (from left) Martha Paris of Columbia Gabi Rode of Germany, Ana Maria Duenas of Ecuador and Ana Maria Teixeira and Fatima Viera of Brazil. Not shown is Cecilia Terra of Brazil. Commencement begins at 8 p.m. in the Centennial Park Stadium or in Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium in the event of rain.

Eastern Michigan University President Harold E. Sponberg will head the program with an address entitled, "Only The Strong." Graduation exercises will be broadcast live by WSDP-FM (89.3) starting at 7:30 p.m. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe)

Youth Inc. Plans Concerts

The first of six rock concerts this summer sponsored by Youth Inc. in cooperation with Plymouth Township will be held Friday night.

The first concert of the third annual series will feature the Whiz Kids and Camarada.

A new geodesic dome and stage have been constructed on the Plymouth Township recreation site to house the concerts which will be held every other Friday from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Tickets for each of the concerts are $1 if purchased in advance at Youth Inc. and $1.50 at the gate.

The second concert, which will be held June 29, will feature Lightning and Open Road.

After some complaints of noise from residents in the recreation site area last year, Youth Inc. conducted noise testing and hopes that the stage, dome and new direction in which the stage points will eliminate most of the problem.

In addition to the concerts, Youth Inc. is sponsoring several summer workshops. They include:

Value Clarification—Starting June 21, the value clarification seminars will deal with the formation of values and the development of personal belief systems.

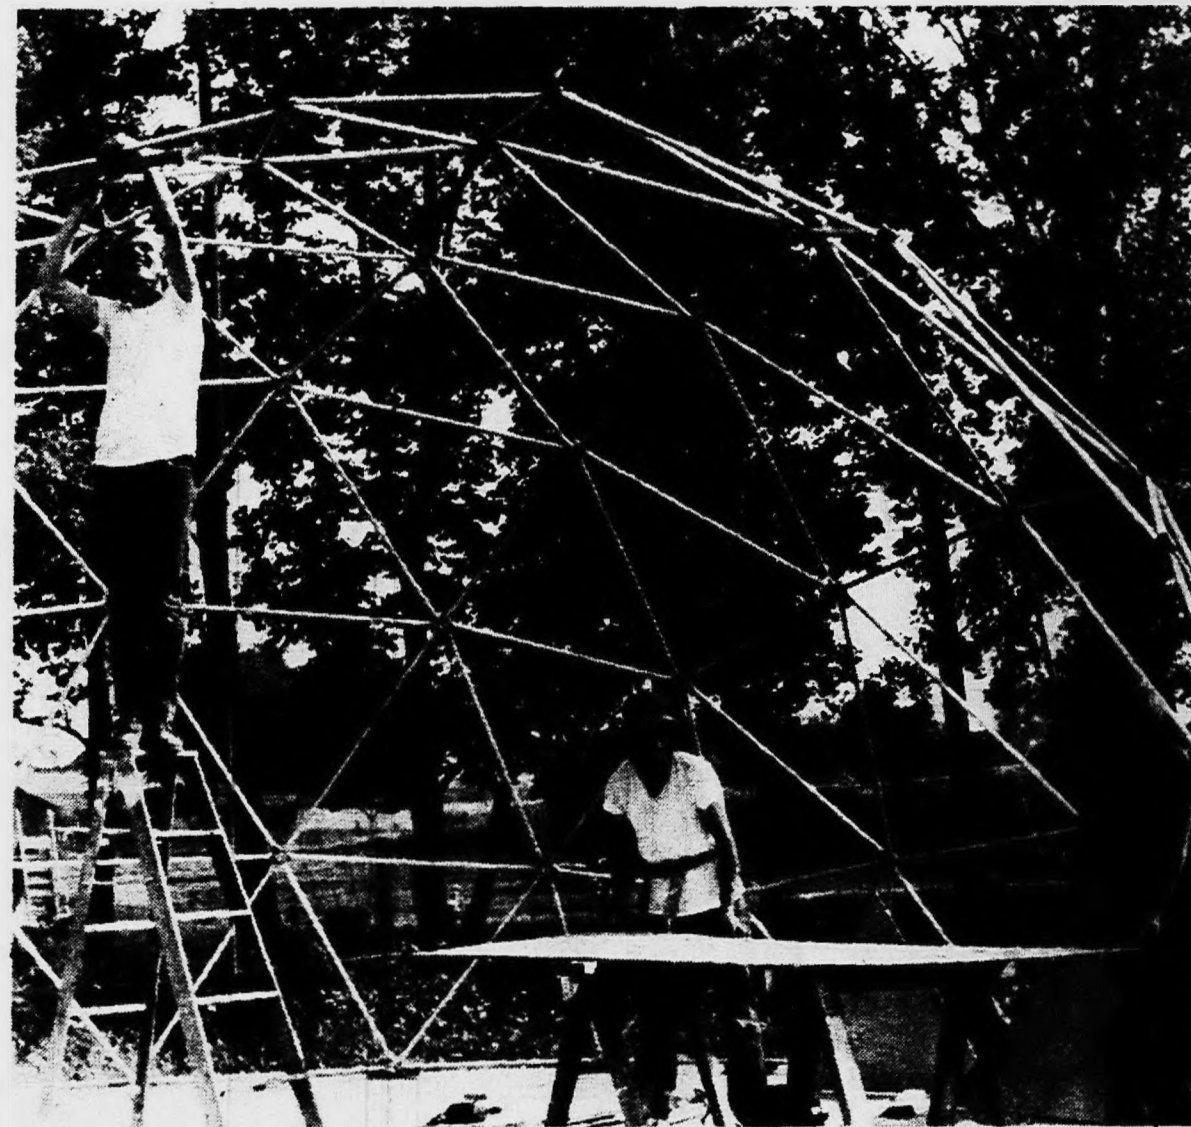

Economics Study Group—William McQueen will lead discussions of the current economic climate in sessions beginning Monday.

Cartooning Workshop—Based on the standpoint that you don't have to be an artist to express yourself, the cartooning workshop will be held on Tuesday, June 26 and will study techniques of images and story lines.

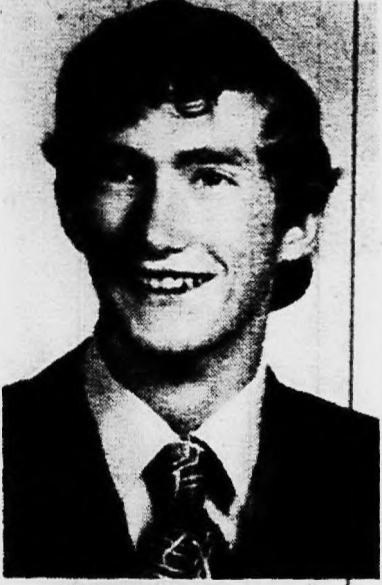

Camping Equipment Making will be the topic of the workshop held on Tuesday, July 10. The sessions will be a prelude to the camping trip to Canada planned by Youth Inc. for July.

Garden Club Enjoys Plants

PREPARING THE DOME covering for the Youth Inc. sponsored summer rock concerts are: Rick Bowling (on ladder), Dale Jarvis and Lisa Kellman. The first concert of this season is Friday night. (Observer photo)

GORDON TUCKER

Student Sweeps Honors

As a graduating senior, Gordon Tucker, of Clarenceville High, may have broken an unofficial record. He may have accumulated more honors than anyone else at the school.

The young man was kept busy just walking back and forth from the stage of L. E. Schmidt Auditorium to pick up 11 awards during the school's honors convocation. It was the second year that the gathering was held in the evening to enable parents to attend.

Tucker, as president of the school's chapter of the National Honor Society, gave the welcoming address and returned to his seat on stage next to school administrators. But not for long.

He received the school's awards, coveted by the students, as outstanding school citizen and outstanding senior boy.

Then came the scholarship honors. He was announced winner of a University of Michigan Regents Alumni Scholarship. He won a certificate of recognition for the State of Michigan Competitive Scholarship Program. He was awarded a national scholarship by the National Honor Society and earned the Soroptimist scholarship for youth citizenship. The Elks national scholarship and recognition for scholastic achievement from Phi Beta Kappa. He achieved a 3.7 point average out of a possible 4.0.

He also won the Reader's Digest award of an honorary subscription to the top student, earned official membership in the National Honor Society and was awarded an American Legion nod for "recognition to the outstanding citizen."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Netzek, of Livonia, he plans to enter the University of Michigan this year.

Tucker is also an eagle scout and earned this top rank when he was 13 years old. He received the Scout "God and country" award with an affiliation with the Clarenceville Methodist Church.

Colleges Get Work Grants

Madonna College and Schoolcraft College have been given work-study grants, according to U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Ann Arbor).

Esch said Madonna will receive $26,000 and Schoolcraft will receive $116,500.

"Federal funds will provide 80 per cent of student payrolls and a matching college, university or off-campus agency contribution will provide the remaining 20 per cent," Esch said.

The Stroller:

Book Learning Isn't Everything

Like countless thousands of others The Stroller never will forget his graduation day.

But, unlike the others, he wasn't among the honored guests seated on a huge platform bedecked with flags and surrounded with educators of the highest rank.

Rather, his graduation exercises were held in the dusty confines of a small cubicle in the corner of a shop at the Atlas Portland Cement Company back home and The Stroller was the lone member of the class.

For four long years he had labored in the dust, muck and grease of the shop waiting for the day when he could gain ranking as a qualified journeyman mechanic.

And when it came the events of the day left an indelible mark on his very soul.

You see, fates had decreed that he leave school at the end of the eighth grade to give his widowed mother some assistance in helping to raise four sisters.

On the morning the decision was made, his mother gave him this solid advice - "just because you have to leave school doesn't mean that you have to quit learning."

"There's more to life than just 'book learning.' So, go out and learn a trade."

Then she added the words he never will forget.

"Remember," she said, "What you have in your head no one can steal from you."

For no special reason The Stroller then hid himself off to the Atlas Cement Co. Possibly because it was the largest in the world at that time, and signed on as an apprentice for a four year term.

This meant starting work at 6:30 a.m., working until 5 p.m. for the munificent sum of five cents an hour. What's more he had to pay 10 cents a day carfare and carry his lunch. But it was a chance to keep on learning.

Then up through the ranks he went. From chipping gears to running the various machines such as drill presses, boring mills, shapers and lathes - until he became the senior apprentice.

Finally came the end of the fourth year and the big day was at hand. No longer would he be an apprentice. No longer would he be working for a pittance. He now would be a full fledged mechanic - qualified to command a decent hourly wage.

So, on the morning of the big day, he walked over to the master mechanic's office - confident and proud.

"Bet you can't guess what day this is," he said as he approached the boss.

"Don't tell me you have been here four years," he said. "I suppose you want to know how much money you are going to get tomorrow."

"That's it," The Stroller answered.

Then came the blow. "You won't be here tomorrow," he shot back without moving an eye.

You could hear The Stroller gulp. In fact he almost choked.

"You see," the boss said, "my budget won't allow me to add another mechanic. What I need now is another apprentice boy to take your place."

What a gift on graduation day!

Later that afternoon he stopped at The Stroller's machine during his afternoon tour of the shop.

Knowing how badly The Stroller must have felt and knowing, further, the financial straits of the family, he sat and visited, then asked:

"Do you know Cully Wilkinson down at the foundry?"

Told that he did, the boss smiled and said:

"Report to him tomorrow morning. He'll be waiting for you - and good luck to you."

His words were like a rainbow after a storm. But they helped to make The Stroller's first graduation day one he never will forget.

Is Flexible Middle School An Answer?

EDITOR'S NOTE: A special committee has been established by the Plymouth Board of Education to study alternatives to excess school building. They are considering six alternatives - including split sessions, year around school and satellite schools. One alternative trustees have not officially discussed is the use of flexible grade middle schools which Garden City has found successful. The following is a story on that program.

By W. W. EDGAR

The long range plan adopted by the Garden City Board of Education 10 years ago is now paying dividends.

At that time when the population explosion was being felt and there was a flood of children, the board decided to install what it called a "flexible program" rather than go into a heavy and costly building program.

During the height of the flood of school children there was a hue and cry for more room and a demand for sufficient space to adequately handle all grades.

Turning a deaf ear to the demand and working with a lay committee to adopt a program, it was decided to institute flexibility in the junior high schools.

It was decided to move with the tide and make the junior highs the "harnessing" point to control the flood.

Now, after a decade of experience, while other cities are faced with a student decline and empty rooms and buildings because of over-building, Garden City is moving merrily along.

So astute was the planning that it is anticipated that all grades will be self-contained within another school year.

Florence School is virtually empty but that is by design and not because of over-building. When the original plan was put into effect, it was agreed that Florence School would be used as school administration building.

Following this decision, the demand grew for additional administration office space with the result that the present office building was built on Radcliff St.

In explaining how the program of flexibility worked, School Supt. Bracken L. Snow and Donald Beattie, assistant in charge of the curriculum, reported that only 11 rooms will be used at Radcliff Junior High this year for high school classes. Much the same is true at Cambridge where the East high classes at capacity.

"We have attempted to move with the tide," the officials said, "and there was a time when we used the junior high schools for the fourth grade overflow."

Much of the success of the plan came about through sound projections. For example, during the 69-70 school year, the projections missed by only one pupil.

The projections faltered a bit this year when it was predicted that enrollment would drop by 400 students only to find that the ranks will be down about 750.

"Much of this can be attributed to the busing issue," explained Robert Moseley, attendance officer.

Looking back on the formulation of the flexible plan, Beattie also called attention to another move that proved sound.

"Back in 1968," he said, "we changed the length of the added millage levy from five to 10 years. If we hadn't, we would have been caught with larger payments right in the middle of the busing issue."

The officials point to the fact that high school students were bused to Dearborn until 1950 when East High School was built.

Now, the system boasts two high schools and four junior high schools. West High was built in 1965 to give more students a chance to compete in various events at a high school level.

"With only one high school, it would have been crowded and few students given a chance to compete."

Prior to the building of West High, Burger Junior High was built in 1955. A year later Vogel was completed. They were followed by Radcliff and Cambridge Junior Highs in 1962.

"If any buildings were over-built," Beattie explained, "they were Radcliff and Cambridge. It was done deliberately, though, so they could be used as buffers to handle the overflow of students during the population explosion."

"The plan has worked out fine."

DeHoCo May Be Completely Phased Out As Prison

By EDWARD WENDOVER

The gradual phase-out of Detroit House of Correction facilities may be in sight.

The first step was taken last week when the Joint Capital Outlay Committee of the state legislature approved the appropriation of $5 million for a new state correctional facility for women.

According to John Amberger, superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction, the new state facility, which will be built next to Ypsilanti State Mental Hospital, would house the 200 women state prisoners now in DeHoCo.

In addition to those 200, there are currently about 50 other women who are county prisoners housed at DeHoCo, Amberger said.

He said that if Wayne county builds a new correctional facility, it would "hopefully" house those women, which would mean the entire women's division of DeHoCo could be phased out.

The state hopes to have its new women's prison operating by July of 1975.

Amberger said he hopes the phase-out of the men's DeHoCo division as it now exists will begin "as soon as we get the women's division taken care of."

The DeHoCo superintendent told The Plymouth Mail & Observer that he has recommended that when the county builds a new jail, the DeHoCo facilities should be made into a trustee and training division.

Of the 600 men currently imprisoned at DeHoCo, about 475 of them are county prisoners, Amberger said. The state has about 35 men there and the remaining 90 represent prisoners from Detroit, Plymouth, Livonia, Westland, Garden City and other surrounding communities.

Amberger said the DeHoCo property located along Five Mile Road west of Ridge Road has been up for sale through the Surplus Properties Division of the Detroit Comptroller's Office for some time. Its price tag is $3.7 million and thus far no bids have been considered high enough.

He said that a decision on the remaining property—including the Women's Division and the Men's Division—will not be made until later.

DeHoCo is one of several public facilities which occupy a large portion of the Five Mile corridor in Plymouth and Northville townships. None of the property is tax producing for the local communities and the sale of any portion would represent a sizeable addition to local tax roles.

While state officials have criticized the condition of the DeHoCo buildings in terms of health and sanitation standards, Amberger said the facility "isn't really in that bad a shape."

He said there are some good features of the prison and cited the operation of the women's division through cottages as one of the good ideas built into DeHoCo.

"DeHoCo was built for a different sort of correctional philosophy (than is now used)," Amberger explained as the reason the facility's effectiveness has declined.

"Now the emphasis is on education and training (the prisoners)," he said.

The superintendent added that a complete phase-out could take some time and that most employees working there would be taken onto the staffs of the new state women's prison or the new county jail.

THE MEN'S DIVISION of the Detroit House of Correction would be phased out under a recommendation of the prison's superintendent, John Amberger. The DeHoCo men's facility could be made into a trustee and training division if Wayne County builds a new jail that could house the 600 men currently imprisoned there. (Observer photo)

THE WOMEN'S DIVISION of The Detroit House of Corrections may be phased out when the state transfers its 200 women prisoners to its proposed new prison in Ypsilanti and when the county builds a new jail that could accommodate the 50 women prisoners it now houses in DeHoCo. (Observer photo)

JCs Plan July 4th

PLYMOUTH Jaycees have picked Duane Goudey to take charge of this year's Fourth of July parade and he promises an event even bigger than last year.

A number of state dignitaries are expected to join local officials for the float-and-band affair.

As in the past, a prize will be awarded for the best float.

Anyone wishing to enter a float should contact Goudey at 39765 Koppernick.

Carl Glass has been elected president of the Jaycees for 1973-74, with Karl Gansler, immediate past president, the new chairman of the board.

Other new officers are Goudey, internal vice president; John Stow, external vice president; Leonard Krajewski, administrative vice president; Mike Gallmer, secretary, and Gordon Sutton, treasurer.

CARL GLASS

New directors are Paul Campbell, Clarke Diesel, Bill Hundley, Charles McCallum, Brian Stewart and Charlie Harper.

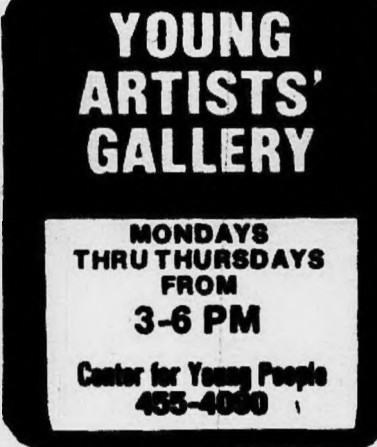

Mason Earns Commission

PLYMOUTH Cadet Thomas O. Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell E. Mason, of 10541 Jo Ann Lane, Plymouth, was among June graduates of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Mason is a 1969 graduate of Jackson High School and was appointed to the Academy by U.S. Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain (R-East Lansing).

He received a bachelor of science degree and his commission as a second lieutenant in the infantry.

While at West Point, Mason was a member of the Fine arts forum, the scuba diving club and was business manager for Howitzer, the Academy's yearbook. During his senior year he held the rank of cadet second lieutenant.

Plymouth Student Has Top Role In Organizing Disaster Team At U-M

ANN ARBOR Making 500 peanut butter and jelly sandwiches or driving 50 miles to deliver 30 pairs of boots may not seem like the most productive activity for University of Michigan students, but the scores of motorists and Michigan residents trapped by the recent snowstorm and flooding aren't complaining.

The students, six women and seven men spearheaded by a sophomore from Plymouth, were serving as part of a volunteer group that helps the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"We've had other students work with us before, either on an independent basis or organizing blood-banks, but this is the first time we've had a volunteer group like this," said Don Peak, executive director of the Washtenaw County Red Cross.

"Frankly, they've done an excellent job and we have letters from grateful motorists to prove it."

The volunteer group was started when Tom Davis from Plymouth, captain of the group, decided to involve his dormitory, Reeves House in Markley Hall, in a fund-raising project -- but he wasn't sure of the project.

"One day in October, Don Peak came out to our dorm and talked about the Red Cross and mentioned a disaster team that mobilizes in times of emergency," Davis said. "It sounded like a good idea so I put up signs asking for volunteers to start our own team."

Twelve students signed up, and the group went through three and one-half weeks of training, two hours a night, two nights a week. Among them was a second Plymouth student, Shelley Rubin. The Red Cross Chapter brought in speakers and movies explaining various first aid techniques. The students were taught not only how to mass feed and clothe people, but how to turn a gymnasium into a shelter. In final preparation, the group went through an intensive eight hour first aid program.

The first test of the students' skills came in January when the Red Cross simulated a disaster -- an airplane crash in Saline. But the real test came on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, the day of the nine-inch snowstorm.

"We worked 24 hours straight," recalled Mark Bauer of Detroit. "We set up a shelter at the Washtenaw County sheriff's department at 4 a.m. Saturday and at the peak of the storm we had 150 people there."

"While another member of our group and I ran supplies to different spots where trapped motorists were being lodged, the girls stayed at the shelter and prepared food -- 500 peanut butter and jelly sandwiches."

The students had the situation under control when a plumbing problem developed at the shelter. All of the people had to be transferred to Tappan Junior High School in Ann Arbor; it was done without any problems.

The highlight of the weekend was a marriage.

"This couple and their families were coming up from Toledo so they could get married in a Ypsilanti church of the girl's grandmother," Bauer said. "But there was no way they could get to the church so we called in a district judge to perform the ceremony. Then the police took the couple to a nearby motel for a honeymoon. The newlyweds came back to the shelter the next morning for breakfast."

When the Monroe area was hit by flooding, the students again were ready to help. "Don Peak needed someone to drive down to Monroe with 50 pairs of hip boots for the Jackson prisoners who were making sand dikes," said Tom Overholt of Middletown, Pa.

"Then, the following week, I rounded up some other students who weren't in our group and we went down there to help with the sand-bagging."

Why do students give up their time to help others?

"I'm intrigued by this kind of work," Overholt said. "And people are always willing to help me out when I'm in trouble."

Reader Writes: AF Academy Took Me Too

EDITOR:

I was recently informed by some of my friends in Plymouth that you carried an article about a young man from Plymouth High School being the first area man to be appointed to the United States Air Force Academy. I should respectfully like to point out that I graduated from the Air Force Academy eight years ago and that I am also a graduate of four years at Plymouth High School.

I do not wish to downgrade the young man's appointment; on the contrary, I congratulate him. It is a very fine opportunity he is about to undertake. I am very proud to be a graduate of the Air Force Academy and an Air Force officer.

I am a pilot with over 3,000 hours flying time, 300 in Vietnam, and have just completed work for my masters of science degree in aerospace engineering at the Air Force Institute of Technology.

I write this letter to correct a slight inaccuracy in your article and to again thank all those in Plymouth who helped me gain appointment to the Air Force Academy.

TIMOTHY J. GRAVES, Captain United States Air Force

EDITOR'S NOTE: The incorrect information about Jeff Stringham's appointment to the academy being Plymouth's first, was contained in the release sent to the paper.

3 Plymouthites On Dean's List

PLYMOUTH Three Plymouth Students at Michigan Technological University won places on the dean's list for the fall quarter.

Each achieved a 3.5 or better grade point average from a possible four points.

The students are: Charles S. Hanskat, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hanskat, 44525 Gov. Bradford, a freshman majoring in civil engineering;

Ralph E. Stiglich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Stiglich, 14905 Beck Road, a freshman majoring in electrical engineering; and

Daniel P. Tormohlen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O. Tormohlen, 600 Simpson, a senior forestry major. Tormohlen received straight A's.

PHS Symphony Band Honors 29 Graduates At Farewell Concert

PLYMOUTH Twenty-nine graduating seniors will make their final appearance with the Centennial Park symphony band in a farewell concert Friday, June 15, at 8 p.m.

The concert will be in Kellogg Park unless the weather is inclement. In the latter case, it will be in the auditorium of Plymouth-Salem High School.

Martin Jabara will be soloist. His marimba solo will be "Nola," accompanied by the band.

Jabara, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jabara of Elm Street, will enter the University of Michigan School of Music next fall as a performance major in percussion.

Other graduating seniors playing with the band for the last time are:

Debbie Barr, flute; Kevin Blackmore, percussion; Mark Bradford, cornet; Karen Brett, flute; Louise Cassidy, trombone; Brad Dryden, percussion; Carol Fu-rioso, bass clarinet; Jackie Griffith, alto clarinet;

Also Aileen Gyorkey, clarinet; Cheryl Hagopian, bassoon; Greg Hoffman, cornet; Dan Kabel, French horn; Mark Kieme, saxophone; Sue Kivisto, bass clarinet; Rob Kreig, percussion;

Debbie Lance, euphonium; Doug McCubrey, flute; Roxanne McTurner, clarinet; Jean Moorehead, cornet; Donna Phelps, flute; Kathy Rice, flute; Carol Ross, tuba; Terry Sorenson, euphonium; Dave Tripp, percussion;

Julie VanDerburgh, French horn; Janet VanScoot, flute; Brad Weage, tuba, and Jack Williams, percussion.

For their final concert, the young people will play selections from "No, No, Nannette," "Sound of Music" and "Mary Poppins," "Shenandoah," "Introduction" and "Fantasia" by Mitchell, "Pride of the Wolverines" march, "Americans We" march and "Russian Christmas Music."

U-M Survey Sheds Light On Enigma Of Blood Pressure

ANN ARBOR A recent medical survey of some 1,400 University of Michigan students showed about 20 per cent had abnormally high blood pressure.

Most of these students are not ill, but some will be later in life. Sorting out these "hidden hypertensives" has been a medical enigma for decades. However, a long-term research project at the U-M Medical Center is beginning to shed light on the problem.

Positive results will, in the near future, mean early treatment for the 10 million Americans who will develop high blood pressure as well as a clean bill of health for many millions more who have some symptoms of early hypertension but will never develop the disease.

The research is aimed at not only finding out who in the population will end up with permanent high blood pressure, but it also seeks to find out how the body overrides its normal controls to create a continual state of hypertension and a sick circulatory system.

"After we have found out the 'how' of hypertension, we will begin to work on the 'why' or cause of the disease," said Dr. Steve Julius, director of the clinical physiology laboratory of the Department of Internal Medicine's hypertension section.

Now in its fifth year, the project is a careful study of 128 persons with various forms of hypertension as well as 80 "control" subjects.

One major area of study is the frustrating question of diagnosis and treatment of labile (unsteady), borderline hypertensive.

For these patients, one day blood pressure may be slightly elevated and the next day or week it is normal. But some 15 persons out of every 100 in this group will someday, probably before age 50, develop a serious form of steady hypertension.

These patients ideally should be watched closely by their physicians and treatment started before true hypertension is established in order to prevent stiffening of the arteries, strain on the heart and kidneys, plus damage to the brain and other parts of the body.

Drugs are available which keep blood pressure down, but doctors are hesitant to begin preventive treatment because they know some 85 out of 100 potential hypertensives are not going to develop true hypertension. These persons would therefore be needlessly exposed to the expense and potential side effects of long-term therapy plus being labeled as having a chronic disease.

Only a low salt regime is a "completely innocent" form of therapy, free of side effects, Dr. Julius said. However, it requires lifetime adherence to a very drastic diet.

Therefore, "Why give drugs to 100 patients in order to treat the 150 who will really need them?" many doctors reason.

The debate is still going on. Some physicians just dismiss labile hypertension as unimportant, hoping to catch the patient later in life if he does start to develop true hypertension.

A final answer may be forthcoming from the U-M study because Dr. Julius and his associates have found that there are measurable differences among labile hypertensives.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

WEEDS AND GRASSES TO BE CUT ON LOTS IN CITY OF PLYMOUTH

On or before June 15, 1973, it shall be the duty of every owner, occupant or person having charge of any land within the City of Plymouth, Michigan, to cut and destroy noxious weeds and grasses upon said land, or shall cause the same to be done. Failure to comply with this notice and Article 4 of Chapter 169 of the City Code of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, means that the City will enter upon said lands and mow the weeds and grasses and bill the property owners for the service.

The City will begin mowing all unmowed lots or plots of land on June 18, 1973, without further notice to the property owners.

THIS RAVINE alongside Plymouth Road has been partially filled with broken concrete and top soil -- raising the ire of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Davids who own the property at 39627 Plymouth Rd. on the east side of the ravine. The owner of the lot, Joseph Harb of Dearborn Heights, said he contracted with Holloway Construction Co. of Wixom to fill the ravine -- most of which he owns -- and grade his lot.

He told The Plymouth Mail & Observer he had offered to have the stream which runs through the ravine enclosed in a drain and to fill the ravine the rest of the way but the Davids declined his offer.

Mrs. Davids said the fill is washing down the creek and is building deltas in the Rouge River behind their property. She said the issue is ecology, and that she and her husband want the area left as it has been.

"Just because we live in an industrial area doesn't mean we can't have some nice things and keep them," Mrs. Davids said.

After Davids brought the matter to the attention of the Plymouth Township Board, the board asked its attorney, Donald Morgan, to look into the matter. He responded saying that he believed there was insufficient cause to believe the township ordinances had been violated by the fill.

The other two pictures show the stream's erosion of the fill and a large concrete slab which came to rest, leaning precariously against a sapling after it was dumped.

Burglars Rob Chef Of $200

PLYMOUTH Approximately $200 was taken from the cash register of DJ's Colonial Chef, 270 S. Main, on June 8.

Police say Erin Gaffka opened the restaurant Saturday morning and found the money missing.

It is believed by police that entry was gained through a broken window.

Newcomers Get New Officers

PLYMOUTH Plymouth Newcomers Club recently installed officers for the 1973-74 executive board.

President will be Geri A. son, assisted by Shelia Shulman, vice president; Kathy Witt, recording secretary; Mary Koltys, corresponding secretary; and Helen Belser, treasurer.

Committee chairmen will be Joan Leary, couples social; Lynn Lyon, nursery; Dolly Airolti, membership; Lynne Terrell, Plymouth activities and publicity; Sue Trainor and Betty Kitt, program; and Agnes Stone, reservations.

Services Held For Planner Carl Hartwick

PLYMOUTH Funeral services for Carl F. Hartwick, 68, who resigned last month after 20 years as a Plymouth Township planning commissioner, were held Saturday in Schrader Funeral Home.

Hartwick, who gave ill health as the reason for his resignation, died June 7.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth and of Plymouth Rock Lodge No. 47, F&AM. He was a shipper for Burroughs Corp.

Hartwick came to Plymouth 36 years ago from his native Arkansas.

He is survived by his wife, the former Elizabeth Beyer; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Lou Hornbrook of Greenfield; five brothers and two sisters, and five grandchildren.

STATE PARK

ALGONAC STATE PARK

YOU CAN WATCH THE SHIPS GO BY AT CLOSE RANGE WHEN YOU CAMP AT ALGONAC STATE PARK, ADJACENT TO THE ST. CLAIR RIVER, TWO MILES NORTH OF ALGONAC ON M-29. AT LEAST ONE BIG FREIGHTER PASSES EVERY 10 MINUTES DURING THE SUMMER. HALF OF THEM FOREIGN. WITHIN AN AREA OF 981 ACRES THERE ARE 350 CAMPSITES, MORE THAN HALF WITH ELECTRICITY AND MODERN FACILITIES. THE RIVER OFFERS GOOD FISHING FOR WALLEYE, BASS, PERCH AND MUSKIES. A BOAT LAUNCH RAMP IS AVAILABLE. MUCH OF THE PARK IS STILL BEING DEVELOPED, AND A LARGE HIKING TRAIL TRAVELS THROUGH LOWLANDS AND SAND DUNES AT THE WESTERN EDGE.

Boat Watching Best At Algonac Park

Like to see Great Lakes ships so close you can wave to the crew? Algonac State Park offers one of the best places in Michigan for this pastime. The park, two miles north of Algonac on M-29, is situated on the St. Clair River, and freighters pass by about as close as anywhere along the eastern side of Michigan.

Along the park, the river is about a half-mile wide, and ships pass by at an average of one every 10 minutes during the summer. Often four or five are sighted at one time. About half are foreign.

Besides camping and ship watching, visitors to the park will find a boat launching ramp, good fishing, hiking, picnic areas, a ferry ride, archery and trap shooting. There is no swimming.

Directly in front of the campsite area is some of the best walleye fishing in the country. Bass, perch and muskies also are in the river.

Although its 981 acres makes Algonac among the medium-size state parks in the southern Lower Peninsula, the park is among the most popular, attracting 282,921 campers last year. There are 350 campsites, 200 of them modern with electricity. A new wagon wheel campground in a section of the park contains an additional 100 sites.

There is a sanitary disposal station.

Much of the park is undeveloped. A large tract of woods with lowlands and sand dunes lies to the west, offering the camper-visitor plenty of hiking.

If Algonac State Park should be full, campers might try Lakeport State Park, which is in the vicinity. Lakeport covers 566 acres and offers 256 campsites.

Area attractions include the Champion auto ferry, which runs to Harsen's Island, a state public fishing area, and the St. Clair flats; Walpole Island, part of Ontario, and Indian reservation; the Sunset Resort Marina on Harsen's Island which offers picnic grounds, a bathing beach on the St. Clair River and house boat rentals; and old lighthouse near Algonac; and Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens, a 550-acre park, operated by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority with recreational facilities which include swimming, golf course, roller rink, dancing and boating.

6 Japanese To Visit Local Rotary Clubs

PLYMOUTH Six young business men from Japan, traveling as a group study exchange team, will be guests at a combined meeting of the Plymouth and Livonia Rotary Clubs on Friday noon at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth.

This is part of a program designed as an educational activity by the Rotary Foundation and the visit to Plymouth is only part of a tour throughout southeastern Michigan and Windsor, Canada, that began several weeks ago.

The six visitors include Soichiro Miura, the Japanese Rotary governor's official representative; Ikuzo Fujiwara, Hisashi Imasaka, Yukimasa Kakumae, Hiroyuki Sasaki and Juichi Shimizu.

They will be greeted with a reception at City Hall Friday at 11:30 a.m., then attend the Rotary Club meeting at noon. After a tour of the Educational Park complex they will move on to Northville for dinner at the Presbyterian Church.

In the evening they will be guests of the Northville, Plymouth, Livonia and Westland Rotary Clubs at Tiger stadium to witness an American baseball game.

Dr. Robert M. Stewart, of Livonia, is chairman of the exchange program, and Dr. Bill Covington, Plymouth dentist, is the local chairman.

Cox, Cowden Join S'craft Board

Schoolcraft College's board will have two new faces - Dr. Gerald Cox, who will give Garden City its first representation since the 1971 reapportionment, and Ronald Cowden, a Livonia school administrator.

Incumbents Paul Kadish and Nancie Blatt, both of Livonia, were easily re-elected Monday, leading in all five of the K-12 member districts.

The eight-member board now has five present or former teachers - Cox, who teaches in Detroit; Cowden, Mrs. Blatt, a former substitute teacher; Vice Chairman Rosina Raymond, a former college instructor; and LeRoy Bennett, a Livonia district teacher.

The Livonia district, with a little more than half the college district population, has five seats; Garden City, with one-fifth of the population, one; Plymouth, with nearly one-fifth, two; and Northville and Clarenceville, with about 10 per cent between them, none.

Winning six-year terms were Kadish with 5,705 votes; Mrs. Blatt, 5,466; and Dr. Cox, 4,469.

Also in the race were Gerald Lundin, 2,839; James Higgins III, 2,785; Richard Buerk, 2,033; Noel Little, 1,961; and Alfred Ringsred, 1,285.

Kadish was elected to a short term two years ago, and Mrs. Blatt was appointed to fill a vacancy early this year. Cox succeeds Floyd Kehrl, Northville businessman who filled a short vacancy and declined to run.

Cowden defeated former Schoolcraft student Mark McQuesten, 6,572 to 4,026, to fill the remaining two years of a vacancy. Cowden succeeds Erwin Brown, Ford Motor Co. financial expert who was appointed to fill a vacancy but declined to run for the remainder of the term.

An elated Cox said, "I'm looking forward to six years of service. I hope to continue the record of service Clark Oldenburg set. Oldenburg was a trustee for 10 years from Garden City before reapportionment resulted in at-large elections. Oldenburg didn't seek re-election. Cox had run twice previously.

Mrs. Blatt grinned: "The Observer was wrong in saying no one feels strongly about me. Obviously, quite a few think I can do a good job. Schoolcraft does a great job now, and I hope I can help it do even better."

Kadish, the board treasurer, said, "I'm very pleased the people in the district had the confidence to re-elect me. I hope I can live up to it."

"I'm really overwhelmed," said Cowden, a political newcomer who had chiefly worked in Republican circles. "I didn't expect to win by this large a margin. I'm looking forward to this opportunity to serve on the board."

Plymouth had a large turnout, 20 per cent, because of tight local board races and four money issues on the ballot (only a millage renewal passed).

Livonia, with a moderate-conservative battle for two board seats, had a 13 per cent turnout, about normal for school races. Northville, with several money issues on the ballot, had a 20 per cent turnout; Garden City, about seven per cent; and Clarenceville, with one unopposed incumbent on the local ballot, 1.36 per cent.

The winners are relatively young. Kadish is 36, Mrs. Blatt, 35; Dr. Cox, 46; and Cowden, 32.

Ideologically, Kadish and Mrs. Blatt stack up as liberals, Dr. Cox and Cowden as moderates.

Only Dr. Cox has been cool to the idea of student and faculty "advisory" seats on the college board. Cowden favors the idea but with modifications - for example, that the advisory seats be rotated.

The Faculty Forum, bargaining agent for Schoolcraft's 160 instructors, backed Kadish and Mrs. Blatt. It gave an enthusiastic "well qualified" rating to Ringsred, currently employed by the college on a federal grant; he finished last. A less enthusiastic "well qualified" went to Cox. The union made no choice between Cowden and McQuesten, calling them both qualified. Cowden did, however, have the backing of the Livonia Education Assn., that district's teachers union. This was the first election in which Schoolcraft graduates competed for board seats. McQuesten and Miss Little both attended the college, and both took credit for originating the idea of student advisory seats on the board.

GC East, Stevenson Falter In State

And then there were none. The prep sport scene in Observerland for 1972-73 came to an abrupt end in the state baseball regionals at Southfield High.

Livonia Stevenson went up against Detroit Henry Ford and lost, 3-1, and Garden City East fell to Ann Arbor Pioneer, 2-1.

Henry Ford went on to win the regional over Pioneer and will join three other clubs in the state finals this weekend at Grand Haven.

Stevenson Coach Gerry Goode made a surprise switch in the regional semifinal with Henry Ford, starting his No. 2 pitcher Don Finn.

"I thought I could save our ace Tom Centers for the final three innings against Ford and work him in the finale against the winner of the Garden City East-Pioneer game.

"I guess you could label it a tactical error," added Goode. "Finn did a good job, but we just didn't hit and you have to hit in this game."

Henry Ford scored once in the third. With one out, Mike Horn drew a base on balls off Finn and stole second.

Mike Polvi, the pitcher for Ford, helped his own cause with a single into right field to score Horn and Stevenson was down, 1-0.

Mark Temby led off the Stevenson third with a single but Polvi got tough for Ford and struck out the next three Spartans.

Henry Ford took charge in the fifth. George Hammon led off with a two-bagger. After Horn struck out, Polvi singled to left to score Hammon and Coach Goode decided it was time for a change and brought in Centers.

Victor Bowmar greeted Centers with a hit and Polvi scampered in for Ford's third run.

Centers bore down and Ford couldn't get its bat on the ball the final two innings. Stevenson appeared to come to arms in the fifth.

Don Finn singled and Mike Ferarolis bounced out third to first moving Finn to second. Mike Assemany singled in Finn and Temby was safe on an error by the first baseman.

Steve Brown forced Temby at second. Bob Ganzak was hit by a Polvi pitch to load the bases with two outs.

Stevenson catcher Mark Tressler grounded out to short and the Spartans were halted.

Tom Centers led off the Spartan sixth with a double to right but was stranded with Polvi bearing down on Hope, Finn and Ferarolis to stop Stevenson's final threat.

Finn worked 3 1/3 innings for Stevenson and gave up two hits, walked one and struck out two. Centers hurled 3 2/3 innings.

Polvi allowed six hits, walked one and struck out six Stevenson batsmen, and the Spartans finished at 9-7 for '73.

Garden City East had its chances against Ann Arbor Pioneer in the other regional semifinal at Southfield but couldn't come up with the key hit.

Ann Arbor scored once in the first after two were out. Mark Caswell drew a walk and Tom Huss and Carl Fritts both singled off East lefthander Marty Hackman and East was down, 1-0. Pioneer made it 2-0 in the second on a double by Tom Birch and single by first baseman Bob Spears.

That was the extent of Pioneer's offensive showing but it was enough to halt East.

Paul Reed led off the East fifth with a single. He was quickly doubled on a bunt stabbed by the Pioneer pitcher Art Smock with Reed easy prey at first.

East's scoring moment came in the sixth. George Karr grounded out for the first out, Steve Orr drew a walk off Smock and Keith Anleighter singled to move Orr around to third.

East's All-Observer outfielder Mike Whaley was safe on an error with Orr scoring. Anleighter (the tying run) moving to third and Whaley (the go-ahead run) to second, with only one out.

East Coach John Kulazenska decided to have his hurler Hackman swing away and the lefthanded senior popped out to the second baseman for out No. 2. Rich McCain followed with a ground out to short and the East regional dream went by the wayside.

Redford Power Crushes Farmington-Southfield

No sooner had the Redford Union Panther "baseball machine" shut down for the summer, than the Redford Adray baseball crew started to churn things up.

RU Coach Bob Atkins is back in Adray competition and his Redford baseballers made no mistake about impressing two teams on opening day.

The defending Adray champions clobbered Farmington 14-1, behind an 18 hit attack and crushed Southfield Lathrup, 9-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Jeff Moon.

Scott Evans got the call in the Farmington contest and hurled the first five innings, giving up two hits, walking four and striking out seven.

Tom Miller went the final two innings and retired Farmington, 1-2-3, in the sixth and seventh.

Andy Hololek, Barry James and Pat Nicolin all saw work on the Farmington mound with Redford banging out 18 hits and Hololek taking the loss.

Redford scored three times in the first, one in the third, three in the fifth, six times in the sixth and once in the seventh.

The contest was decided in the first when Redford scored three times on four hits.

R.J. LeRoux led off the game for Redford with a two-bagger and Mark Yourcheck followed with a single. Glenn Richmond singled in LeRoux and John Broder doubled in Yourcheck and Richmond.

Bill Fraser was the big gun in the assault against Farmington, banging out four hits, scoring twice and driving in three runs.

Fraser finished the first day with seven for nine, scoring three times and driving in six runs.

Broder and LeRoux each had three hits against Farmington.

It was all Jeff Moon against Southfield Lathrup which had just knocked off Livonia 3-2.

Moon handcuffed Southfield on four hits, walked three and struck out 10.

Bodner and Kerry Braha chucked for Southfield with Redford collecting eight hits and starter Bodner taking the defeat.

Southfield scored first in the third when Bodner doubled, moved to third on a passed ball and scampered home on a wild pitch.

Redford came up with three runs in the fourth on a single by Yourcheck and a three-bagger by Fraser. Richmond was safe on a fielder's choice with Fraser safe at the plate. Richmond scored on an error and wild pitch.

Redford upped it to 5-1 in the fifth. With one out, LeRoux and John Roy drew walks, Fraser singled in LeRoux and Richmond singled in Roy.

A four run sixth inning climaxed Redford's offensive showing. Bobby Blaies led off with a single, stole second and scored on a hit by Mark Durance. LeRoux followed with a hit, Roy was hit by a Braha pitch and Yourcheck singled to score Durance.

Fraser finished off the afternoon with a hit up the middle to score LeRoux and Roy and Redford was ready to let off steam.

STEVENSON'S lone tally in the State Regionals at Southfield High against Detroit Henry Ford came in the fifth with Don Finn sliding

John Glenn girls proved they're the best in the Northwest Suburban Conference track finals.

The track squad captured two firsts and seven seconds enroute to a 50 point total to win the league meet.

Livonia Franklin and Oak Park shared the runnerup slot with 38 points each, followed by Garden City East with 26 points, North Farmington with 24 and Thurston a cellar dweller with no points.

Desi Caudill captured one of two firsts for Glenn with a 1:19 clocking in the 80 yard hurdles.

The other first was won by the Glenn foursome of Barb Badgerow, Dani Newlin, Mary Nowosielski and Kathy Gaston in the 880 yard relay with a time of 1:59.9.

Lacrosse Team Tryouts Held

Tryouts for a lacrosse team sponsored by the Garden City parks and recreation department will be held for two age divisions Wednesday and Thursday.

Dennis Rivard, team manager, said that tryouts will be held at 7 p.m. each night for the Junior A and midget divisions in the new Garden City civic arena in the city park, Cherry Hill and Merriman. The Junior A team will be made up of 17 to 20 year olds and the midgets will consist of 14-16 year olds.

Farmington Lims Wins Tourney

The Farmington Lims softball crew survived a minor scare by Dearborn Hi-Spot to capture the rain plagued Inkster Memorial Day Softball Tournament.

Lims was the victor of the 14 team winners bracket, knocking off Federal Mogul, Gabriel Richard, Garden City Sport Shop and Hi-Spot to stand undefeated and champs of the winner division.

Hi-Spot took top billing in the losers bracket after the 12-5 lashing at the hands of Lims but came on strong to tip Lims in the first of two championship battles.

Lims fell, 3-1, to put both clubs at one loss apiece but the Farmington "chinese food eaters" came on strong to upend Hi-Spot for the tourney championship, 5-2.

Willows Has 2 Aces

Charley Flint, 15-year-old Livonian, has found Whispering Willows golf course just right for his game. Charley, who has been playing for four years, recorded his second ace over the weekend.

It was one of two at Livonia's municipal golf course.

The youngster used a three wood on the 210-yard 14th hole. The drive hit on the edge of the green and rolled into the cup.

M.F. Wider, 63-year-old Detroit, recorded his ace on the 170-yard eighth hole. Wider hit a No. 2 wood and saw the ball hit on the green, bounce once and disappear into the cup. He has been playing for 43 years, and this was his first hole-in-one.

plate, and Birmingham went to town.

Birmingham jumped on 11 straight walks to score eight times in the first, two in the second, once in the fifth and five times in the sixth to crush North, 16-4.

The North threesome of Greg Babiak, Jerry Doot and Rick Garneau were the blunt of the attack with Babiak suffering the walk-a-thon defeat.

Steve Gombar, of Brother Rice, started on the mound for Birmingham and was relieved in the fifth by John Angello.

North collected five hits off Gombar in four innings and one off Angello in the final three innings.

North opened with two runs in the first but the opening season jitters were about to strike.

Babiak couldn't find home plate and the first 11 Birmingham batsmen drew walks. Jerry Keller, in the second trip up in the inning made the first out, a fly to left.

Frank Carr then delivered a two-bagger to clear the bases. Pete Gardino grounded out and Kevin Keyes struck out but the damage was done and Birmingham had an 8-2 lead.

Quinn Johnson and Bart Bates continued the assault with bases loaded doubles in the following innings to pad the winning margin.

Hockey Program Unfolding

The Farmington Hockey Association is inviting children ages seven and eight to take part in a newly organized hockey program.

The object is to broaden the participation, discipline, and body coordination with skating sessions set for next fall.

A small league of four to five teams will be formed with all skating at the Novi Ice Rink.

Information is available from Armando Tavian at 34136 Freedom in Farmington.

'Old' Plymouth Topples Dearborn, Farmington

Wayne Sparkman is hoping he has found a good thing in Adray baseball competition.

The Plymouth High varsity baseball coach opened his Adray "rookie season" with two quick wins and has all but forgotten his 7-15 prep showing for '73.

His Plymouth squad nipped Dearborn in 10 innings, 3-2, and defeated Farmington, 6-4.

Plymouth mound in Wash-tenaw College's Larry Graves and John Owens.

Graves went the distance against Dearborn, allowed seven hits and struck out 14, while Owens hurled a five hitter against Farmington.

Dearborn Coach Frank Freeburn went through four pitchers with Plymouth bang-ing out 10 hits off Mark Cahill, Carl Lonthin, Tom Han-son and Jean Malot.

The final reliever, Malot, suffered the loss, while Graves coasted along, walk-ing four, giving up seven hits, and striking out 14 in chalking up the win.

Dearborn drew first blood in the first when John Renko and Dan Lanove singled with Renko scoring on an over-throw to second.

Plymouth bounced back with two of its own in the third. Jeff Waller singled, Mike Kolb bunted his way on and Dave Hines bunted to fill the sacks.

With one out, Graves deliv-ered a hit up the middle to score Waller and Kolb. Plymouth was up, 2-1.

Dearborn came back to tie things up in the fifth.

Ed Chelbie walked and with two outs, Sparkman called for the intentional pass to be given to Dan La-Nove. Graves slipped one over the plate and LaNove popped it over the Plymouth second baseman's head with Chelbie scoring from second.

Plymouth broke the dead-lock in the top of the 10th when, after one out, Graves singled, Bill Kovacs walked and Jim Grimmer singled in Graves.

The Plymouth-Farmington clash was only a five inning game due to time allowance.

Owens gave up five hits, struck out three and walked two.

Pat Nicolin and Kearney hurled for Farmington with the starter, Kearney, taking the loss. Plymouth collected only four hits off the two with 10 walks telling the story.

As in the opening game, Plymouth fell behind in the first inning.

Farmington tallied twice when Mark Miron walked, Nicolin was safe on a field-er's choice and Pat Loidas delivered a two run homer.

A walk to Dave Hees, single by Dan Hees and field-er's choice sliced it to 2-1 for Plymouth in its half of the inning.

Farmington again pushed it to a two-run margin in the second. Gary Malloy was safe on an error, Terry Smith on a fielder's choice, Ed Passo on a fielder's choice, Kearney drew a base on balls and Miron singled.

Plymouth broke it open in the last of the second. Jeff Waller and Larry Davis drew walks and Owens bunted his way on to load the bases.

Dan Hees came through with a two run single. Graves sacrificed in Owens, with Dan Hees stealing sec-ond and scoring when Ko-vacs was safe on an error.

Farmington came to within one in the third. After one out, Loidas walked and Rick Pauline singled. Pauline was out stealing but Loidas scored when Malloy was safe on an error by Graves at third.

Walks to Kovacs and Craig Lane and a single by Waller pushed it to 6-4 in the last of the fifth.

Glenn's New Gridiron Coach Accepts Challenge

Lloyd Carr knows he has a tough task ahead on the John Glenn gridiron.

The new 27 year-old Glenn football coach has taken on the challenge of making foot-ball a winning sport. Glenn has had only one winning season in the nine years it has fielded a varsity squad.

In the nine years Bob Lusk was coach, his teams com-piled an overall showing of 36-40-3, with a '72 record of 1-7 opening the door to a re-quested resignation.

Carr knows what he is get-ting into and likes the chal-lenge.

"I am really excited," said Carr. "This has to be a break for me. I am just go-ing to be looking at the fu-ture and forget about the past."

"I guess my biggest prob-lem is to put together a staff. The entire coaching crew just sort of vanished," added the new coach.

Carr graduated from Riv-erview High School in '63 where he was a 10 letterman. All-State quarterback his se-nior year as well as second team All-State in basketball.

The new Rocket coach signed his letter of intent for the University of Michigan but decided to go to the Uni-versity of Missouri and play under Dan Devine.

"I went to Missouri for the best season bowls and the better weather," explained Carr who was recruited heavily by Bill McCartney, Wayne Gorman and Bob Widenhofer, all graduates from Riverview and all ath-letes at Missouri.

Carr played varsity ball for Missouri his sophomore year and tossed his first college touchdown pass to Monroe Phelps against Kansas State in a 6-3-1 season.

His junior season ('65) was backup quarterbacking for Gary Lane who led Missouri to the Sugar Bowl champion-ship over Florida State, 20-18.

Lloyd who had played about half of the season, saw the game from the sidelines, nursing a shoulder injury re-ceived against Oklahoma.

Carr finished the '66 spring term at Missouri and decided to follow his Missouri line coach to Northern Michigan University.

Missouri line coach Rolie Dotsch took the head assign-ment at Northern Michigan.

"Dotsch knew that Devine would probably let me go be-cause of my shoulder injury uncertainty," said Carr. "He asked me to come back to Michigan and help him coach and maybe play some quar-terback."

Carr had to sit out the '66 season but was back in uni-form in '67 to lead Northern to a 9-0 season.

Missouri's Devine has since left for the Green Bay Packers where he got Dotsch from Northern.

Carr wound up graduating from Northern in '68 with a B.A. He taught one year in the Detroit system and was an assistant football coach at Nativity High.

LLOYD CARR
New Glenn Coach

Carr won the Mott Founda-tion Scholarship Award and decided to finish his masters in Flint in '70. Then came a move to Belleville where he taught American History and was assistant coach in foot-ball and basketball.

After three years at Belle-ville, Carr is now head coach at Glenn.

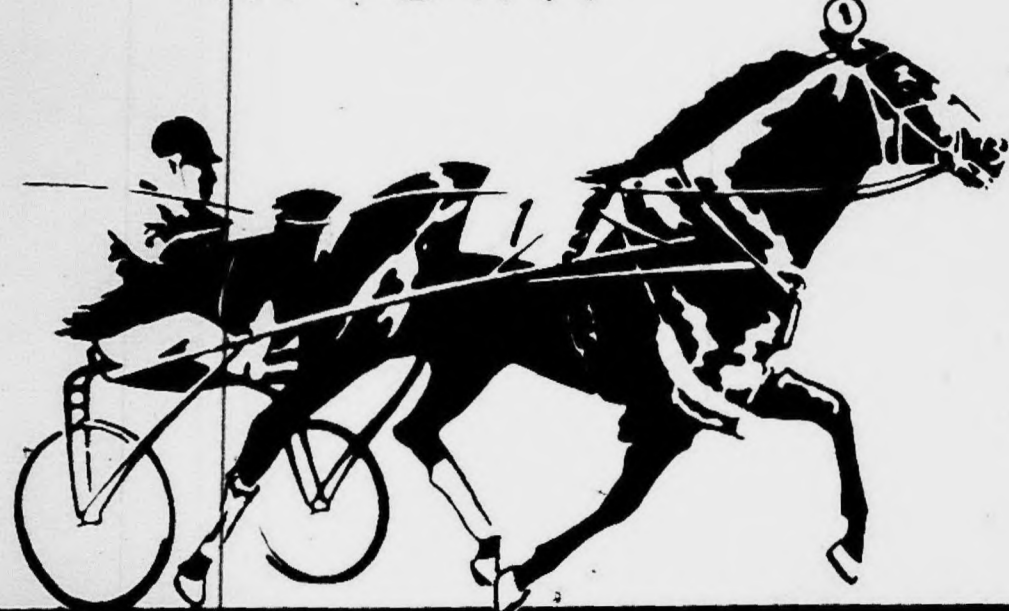

"Being a footballer from Missouri, I am used to ball-control," said Carr. "But I do like to get the ball and go outside."

Lloyd married his high school sweetheart from Riv-erside and he and his wife Karen now have a 28 month old daughter Melissa.

CHAMPIONSHIP MOTORCYCLE RACES will be held Sunday, June 17, at the Detroit Race Course sponsored by the Livonia Metropolitan Club. Tickets dated for the June 3 race that was rain-cancelled are good, and more are available at all Livonia fire stations and at police headquar-ters on Farmington Road.

Southfield Surprises Livonia

Livonia bounced back from a 3-2 loss to Southfield Lathrup in the opening round of 'Adray' baseball competition to upend Westland, 6-0.

Jack Booth and Kerry Braha combined for a four-hitter against a highly favored Livonia crew with reliever Braha picking up the win.

Jim Zimmerman and Scott Hornbaker hurled for Ron Heller's squad with Hornbaker taking the setback. The two Livonia pitchers allowed just five hits and struck out a total of 14 Southfield batsmen.

Southfield jumped to a 2-0 lead in the third. Dan Foehr drew a walk and was sacrificed to second by Bruce Digue. Booth singled with Foehr stopping at third and Birney Hundtall singled to score two.

Livonia came back to tie it up in the sixth. Hornbaker led off with a single and Jeff Waterstone drew a base on balls. Roy Henriksson sacrificed both runners and Howard Schryer tripled to make it a 2-2 game.

Southfield came on in the seventh to squeak across the deciding tally.

With two out, Ron Dunker walked, Shaye Raminick singled and John Wenzel singled in Dunker with the winning tally.

Livonia showed signs of another comeback in its half of the seventh when pinch-hitter Steve Crowe led off with a single.

On an attempted sacrifice, Mick Crom bunted and Crowe was out at second. Hornbaker went down on strikes but Waterstone walked to put the winning run on first, with the tying run on second.

Braha bore down and retired Henriksson on strikes and Livonia was quickly in the loss column.

Dan Green and Gordie

Miller combined for a one-hit pitching performance against Westland with Livonia scoring a 6-0 victory.

Green started for Livonia, went the first five innings and gave up a solo single to Dal Malloch in the second. Miller shut the door on Westland in the final two innings to pick up a save.

Art Mach started for Westland and went the first 4 2/3 innings with Jeff Hodgkins working in relief. Livonia mustered only four hits off the two Westlanders but made them count with errors playing a dominate factor in all six runs.

Livonia Griffin tallied three times in the second inning. Schryer led off with a single and scampered around to score when Pat Perino was safe on a two-base error.

John Sichte was hit by a pitch and both runners moved up on a passed ball. Crom sacrificed in Perino and Sichte scored on another passed ball.

Livonia made it 5-0 in the third when Waterstone was safe on an error by Karney Derderian at second, Henriksson walked, Gar Frantz hit into a fielder's choice as did Schryer to score Waterstone. Perino followed with a triple and Schryer scored.

A three-bagger by Schryer and single by Mark Temby pushed it to 6-0 in the fifth.

Moving into the final week-end of Michigan's most successful harness racing campaign, Wolverine Raceway has saved the best for the last with standout programs on tap for the final three nights of this week.

The 82-night meeting grinds to an end next Tuesday, but prior to that the track will present the Matron four-year-old pace Thursday with a value of $60,600 and a field of 12.

Then comes the biggest night of the year Friday when management presents the fourth annual Good Ol' Times program. It was the first of these nights that attracted a crowd of 19,715 into the stands. That's still an all-time high record for attendance at a state harness racing plant.

Two Matron stakes will be presented Friday in the $40,000 four-year-old trot and the three-year-old pace. The last mentioned may bring most of the top contenders for the Little Brown Jug championship to the attention of fans.

Slated to start are: Reenie Ricci Time, fastest two-year-old a year ago; Racing Knight, winner of the Motor City and a victor in 1:58.4 at Wolverine; Gay Skipper, American-National winner in Chicago a week ago; Bret Over Again, from the Earl Forsyth stable of Birmingham; J.R. Skipper, brilliant Canadian speedster; and Keystone Smartie, from the Don McFarland stable of Grosse Pointe.

Grandstand admission will be only 50 cents as the track rolls prices back to the turn of the century for the annual celebration. There'll be dime hot dogs, nickel popcorn and ice cream ... in fact all prices will be reduced and night long entertainment will enliven the activities.

Come Saturday and Racing Secretary Bill Connors expects to arrange a program that will be the best of the year. He has the horses and the co-operation of owners and trainers to make the final Saturday one that fans won't forget in a long time.

If he can come close to last Saturday's card, then Bill just has to be a magician.

That program has to go down in the record books as the best in midwest history for speed over the big mile track.

Imagine, seven races in 2:00.2 and under with three under two minutes and two others at the figure.

The slowest race of the evening came in the nightcap when the winner was clocked in 2:02.2.

Gene Riegler, the veteran driver-trainer from Greenville, O., demonstrated why he's rated one of the best in North America when he twice guided pacers to sub-2:00 clockings.

Riegler won the $12,500 invitational with Jay Time, a four-year-old who outdueled Keystone Pebble and Mighty Fire to win a stretch battle in 1:58.2. That was the fastest mile of the meeting and only three-fifths off the track record of 1:57.4 set by Kentucky in 1971.

Gene had his second mile under 2:00 in a $5,200 conditioned pace where Blue Break paced under the wire in 1:59.4.

Earlier in the evening, Huff 'N Puff, a four-year-old owned by Joe Sacco, of Oak Park, and Al Rosenberg, of Southfield, captured a $6,000 conditioned pace in 1:59.1 with Merritt Dokey at the reins.

The 2:00 miles were registered by Bret Over Again, the brilliant Bret Hanover three year old from the Earl Forsyth stable of Birmingham; and Freight Catch, a five-year-old handled by Bob Williams.

Two others just missed by a tick or two including Adios Rick, a four-year-old from California, handled by Bobby Williams, in 2:00.1, and Prince Knox, a seven-year-old Michiganbred piloted by Gene Marchand in 2:00.2.

And for the sixth consecutive Saturday, the handle went over a million with $1,001,146. With eight nights remaining of the season, Wolverine shows a nightly average of $663,431, an increase of 10 per cent over 1972.

Attendance is up 4.3 per cent with a nightly average of 7,443 against 7,137 a year ago. Total attendance is 550,786 compared to 528,131 for 74 nights last year.

Castleton Farm's Colonial Charm, rated first in the experimental handicap rankings for three-year-old trotters, had it in the $12,137 Matron filly stake but Arnie Almahurst from the Gene Riegler stable, tops for colts in the rankings, didn't have much in the $45,744 Matron for colts and geldings.

The two stakes opened Grand Circuit activities at Wolverine, a series that ends Friday.

Colonial Charm, with Glenn Garnsey in the sulky, trotted away from her competition to win by three and a half lengths in 2:03.2. Walter Be Good was the winner in the colt stake in 2:01.2, fastest trotting mile of the Wolverine season.

Colonial Charm took the lead after a quarter and had too much for the others, trotting as she pleased to win handily.

The big surprise came in the colt event when Arnie Almahurst, the odds-on favorite, got off to a slow start, broke gait on the first turn and was out of it quickly.

Walter Be Good sped to the front midway through the backstretch, shook off the challenge of Burning Speed on the final turn and then breezed home for an easy victory.

The Circuit program continued Monday with Brets Star, from the Billy Haughton stable, winning the first division of the $11,250 Matron two-year-old colt stake in 2:01.4.

Haughton had the Bret Hanover colt in the lead at the quarter and none challenged him until the final yards of the stretch where Reel Hell, driven by Riegler, and Surfer Champ, piloted by R. John Moore, made mild threats. Neither could catch the leader.

The second division went to another Haughton-handled colt in Keystone Presto, owned by the DDM stable of Hazel Park and Haughton.

Haughton took Presto to the lead as the field turned into the backstretch and kept him there for the remainder of the mile, winning in 2:02.2. Timely Archer, guided by George Sholy, was second and J.R. Henry, owned by J. Russell Miller, of Dutton, Ontario, was third with Greg Wright at the reins.

Westland Nips Garden City, 5-4

Westland pushed across a run in the last of the 10th inning to sneak past Garden City in Adray competition, 5-4.

Del Malloch went nine innings for George Yakel's Westland crew with Dave Wesley going the final stanza and picking up the victory. Garden City collected only three hits off Malloch.

Terry Dobbs and Greg Wasiak worked for Garden City with reliever Wasiak taking the loss and Westland banging out a total of eight hits.

Westland tallied three times in the first. Tony Dattilio led off with a base on balls, Karney Derderian singled and both runners moved up on a wild pitch. Bob McSpadden walked to load the bases, Art Mach hit into a fielder's choice to score Dattilio and Glenn Ambrose doubled in two more.

Garden City struck back with two of its own in the fourth. Bob McLelland drew a walk off Malloch, Dobbs singled and Mike Orr hit into a fielder's choice and Jim Wisniewski doubled home McLelland and Orr.

Westland added to its margin in the fourth with a solo tally when McSpadden singled, stole second and dashed in to score on a two-bagger by Mach.

Garden City fought back to even things up in the sixth. McLelland singled but was

Junior Golf Clinic Kicks Off Monday

School classes ended Friday for all students in Observerland but those of another kind open Monday when Pro Gary Whitener, of Whispering Willows golf course, opens his annual junior golf clinic.

One of the most popular events of the summer for juniors of all ages in all sections of Observerland, the clinic offers youngsters a chance to learn the rules of golf etiquette and the basic fundamentals.

Classes open Monday at 9 a.m. and continue through 10:30 for four consecutive weeks under the supervision of Whitener and his staff. Whispering Willows is located at the corner of Eight Mile and Newburgh Roads in Livonia.

The fee of $2 per lesson will take care of the instruction costs. Youngsters enrolled must furnish their own clubs and balls.

The clinic is designed for beginning golfers, covering the fundamentals and stressing proper etiquette so that youngsters will be able to play on the course without disturbing other golfers.

The final lesson will terminate with a tournament in which winners of the various divisions will receive trophies and prizes.

Whitener has received registrations in the past from youngsters ranging from six to 18 and anticipates the largest turnout in four years this season.

boot by Westland shortstop Kim Herbert, and Wisniewski walked to load the bases.

Just when Malloch thought he had himself out of a jam, Jerry Herbst grounded one to Herbert again at short. It was booted, two runs scored and it was a four all game.

Westland tucked away victory in the 10th off Garden City reliever Wasiak. McSpadden led off for Westland with a base on balls but was cut down attempting to steal second.

On a 3-0 pitch, Mach singled to right and moved to second when the ball was booted. J.P. McBride was safe on an error by the Garden City hurler and Ambrose received a walk on four straight pitches.

Wasiak lost sight of the plate again and walked in the winning run. Ken Robinson taking four of five pitches to push across Mach with the decider.

Northville Downs Opens 30th Year

Following opening night on Wednesday, June 20, Northville Downs will present the final qualifying leg of the rich Canadian-American pacing series two nights later on Friday, June 22.

Thus, the 30th Northville Downs meeting will have an early stellar attraction. This event plus the current big interest in Detroit area harness racing leads John J. Carlo, executive manager, to predict the best season in history for the suburban half-mile track.

The 36 night meeting runs through Tuesday, July 31.

The Northville stop of the Can-Am, which has a value of $12,500, is the last before the 10 finalists clash in the $50,000 finale at Scioto Downs a week later.

The rules of the series, which provide that a pacer must compete in five of the nine qualifiers, means that Northville could wind up with the top stars all seeking to clinch final spots.

Can-Am has its share of driving stars. Listed as trainers are Dick Buxton, Clint Galbraith, Greg Wright, George Sholy, John Simpson, Jack Kopas, Bill Haughton, Glen Garnsey, Ron Feagan, Gene Riegler, Vernon Dancer, and Bill Popfinger.

With Wolverine Raceway closing Tuesday, June 19, most of the better stables will move the next night to Northville which has more applications for stalls than at any previous time.

Northville Downs will continue its waging format of the winter meeting with the daily double on the first and second races, and perfectas on the fourth, seventh and 10th.

Farmington Legionnaires Sweep Orion Twin Bill

Legion Coach Wally Christenson put together a crew comprised mainly of an 11-6 Farmington High team to sweep both ends of an opening twin bill with Lake Orion.

Farmington won the first, 2-0, behind the five hit pitching of Don Hunt, and the second game, 4-2, on a three hit performance by Dennis Hagen.

Hunt went the route in the opening contest, walking one and striking out six.

Bill Crosby suffered the loss for Lake Orion, allowing five hits, walking nine and striking out seven.

Farmington scored both of its runs in the sixth. Rob Holton singled, was sacrificed to second by Jeff Herman and Mitch Thomas was safe on an error. Randy Stringer singled to score Holton and Sam Pink singled in Thomas.

The second outing was another pitcher's duel with Farmington's Hagen drawing the upper hand.

Hagen allotted just three hits, walked four and struck out six. Loser, Sam Houlihan of Lake Orion, gave up four hits, walked four and struck out four.

Lake Orion opened with a run in the first. Ron Day singled, Bob Mitchell drew a walk and Crosby banded a single over Holton's head at second.

Farmington tied it at one-all in the second. Thomas walked and was sacrificed to second by Randy Stringer. He reached third on an infield out and scampered in on a wild pitch.

Walks to Day and Mitchell and a double by Crosby gave Lake Orion the lead again in the third, 2-1. After that, Hagen did not give up a hit.

Farmington captured the lead in the fourth. Randy Stringer singled, Tim Hammer was hit by a pitch and both moved up on a passed ball. Ken DiRocco then went down swinging but the Lake Orion catcher lost track of the ball with DiRocco safe at first. At the same time Stringer got caught in a rundown between third and home and was tagged out, with both runners moving up.

Hagen followed with a two-run single and Farmington had a 3-2 lead.

The Legionnaires added a tally in the fifth on a single by Holton, a sacrifice by Herman, a passed ball and another sacrifice by Rick Stringer.

Farmington hosts Troy tonight (Wednesday) at 6 p.m. at the Drake Diamond and travels to Oakland University Sunday, June 16, for a 2 p.m. twin bill against Rochester.

The Court Jester

by BILL CAMERON

I finally found a summer resort area that has everything you could possibly want, including tennis. The last two summers I've had to travel to Cape Cod and Martha's Vineyard because there are very few resorts in this area where one can combine tennis, swimming, horseback riding, water skiing, golf and fishing.

Last weekend I had the good fortune to spend two days in the Muskoka Lakes region of Ontario. Situated 330 miles from Detroit or 140 miles north of Toronto on beautiful Lakes Rosseau, Joseph and Muskoka, are the

It's Free Bat Day Sunday At Tiger Stadium

The Tigers, who would like to make every day bat day on the field, will hand out more than 25,000 official Little League bats to their young fans at Tiger Stadium June 17.

That's free Bat Day, an annual event with great appeal to youngsters 14 or under, each of whom on a full price ticket receives a bat at the gate, with the compliments of the Tigers.

The Tigers will play the Minnesota Twins at 1:30 p.m.

In connection with the event, the Tigers issued another plea to their young fans to refrain from pounding their bats on the floor of the stadium during the game.

"This is a safety measure," pointed out Jim Campbell, executive vice president and general manager. "The youngsters were very cooperative last year and we hope they will heed our warnings again this year."

resorts of Cleveland's House, established in 1869, Paignton House, Rostrevor Beach and Windermere House.

At the turn of the century the area was a mecca for the wealthy, and steamships once toured the lakes. Today there are more than 1,000 motorboats registered on the lakes and you still find old mahogany motorboats from the early 1900's.

Cleveland's House has five courts, three all-weather and two en-tout-cas (clay), plus an excellent nine-hole golf course.

I managed to give my wife a few tennis lessons plus a few other people in our group. The weather was excellent and Canadian hospitality is difficult to beat. If you're interested in learning more about the area, call the Canadian Government Travel Bureau in downtown Detroit.

Our Women's Tennis League is off and running. More than 80 are competing in classes A, B, and C. For the C players, or beginners, it will be a real learning experience. The league runs for six weeks, then breaks for a week, and resumes for another six weeks.

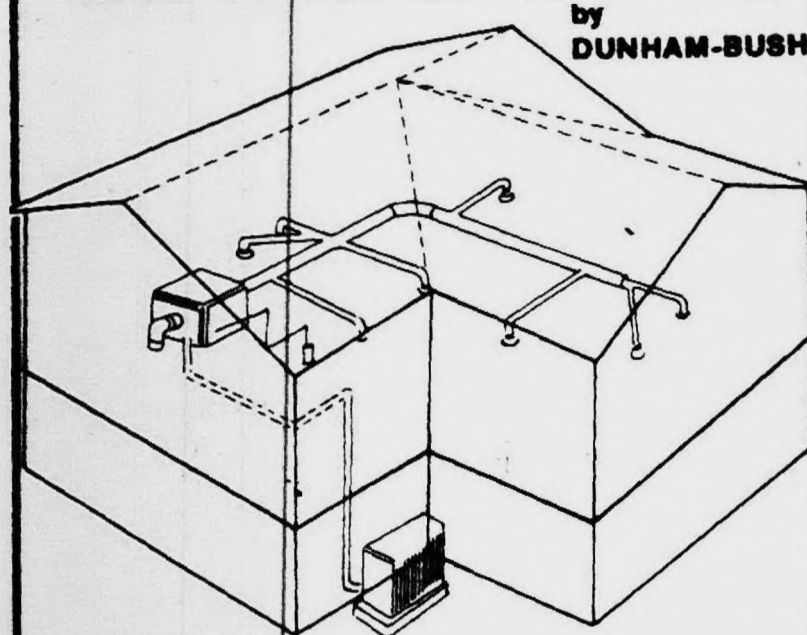

I received a catalog from a well-known racket company, listing the most expensive racket made. It retails for $120 and has two interchangeable heads and two to four interchangeable handles. It would be great for a family if everyone played someone else at different times of the day. Weird!

Plans are being made for a City of Livonia tennis tournament as part of the Spree 23 anniversary celebration. You must be a resident of Livonia to qualify. Registration forms should be available at the Park and Recreation Dept. or the Livonia Family Y.

More Than Roads On State Map

A good highway map not only will assist motorists to get where they want to go, but will provide a variety of other useful information.

Major theme of the 1973 official highway map of Michigan, produced by the Department of State Highways, attempts to educate the motoring public on the meaning of symbols, shapes and colors used in the new system of signs on Michigan's highways.

Forty signs, shapes or colors are displayed on a panel on the reverse side of the 1973 map. It can be used as a handy guide to familiarize motorists with the new trend in traffic signing.

The map contains a broad range of non-highway information including the state flag, state stone (Petoskey), state bird (robin), state flower (apple blossom), state fish (trout); notes on Michigan speed limits, historical markers, bridge and tunnel facilities and their tolls, ferry lines, state police posts, district highway offices and an index to cities and villages with their population figures.

More than two million 1973 maps were produced for free distribution.

A map can be obtained by writing - on a post card with your name and address - to: Maps; Department of State Highways; Lansing, Mich. 48904.

Read Scene

Think you know how to read the traffic scene when you're driving?

According to the Highway Traffic Safety Center of Michigan State University, it's like reading a book. Keep your eyes moving. Glance from left to right and take in your rear view mirrors as your eyes move. Concentrate on important details and look ahead - at least one block in the city, a half-mile in the country.

Good drivers have this kind of know-how.

The patchwork cotton used on the sofa integrates the color scheme of red, yellow, and black. Apt companion piece is a pull-up chair upholstered in checkered geometric cotton. Carpet by Bigelow.

BRONZE BIRCH BORER
This borer has become more prevalent in the past few years, attacking smaller and smaller stems of the European and paper birch.

The beetles lay eggs on the bark. Eggs hatch out and larvae bore into stems. They eventually girdle the cambium layer under the bark, killing first the upper portions and then the rest of the tree.

Their presence can be noted by the sap oozing from the small, pin-like entrance holes, causing water marks on the bark and later raised ridges on the bark caused by tunneling.

CONTROL: Keep trees healthy by yearly fertilization and watering during dry periods. Spray or treat to control leaf miners. Spray main stem from ground to terminal ends before June 15 with 25 per cent W.P. Lindane one tablespoon per gallon of water, or 20 per cent emulsion of Lindane 1½ teaspoon per gallon of water.

Cygon 2E may also be used. Malathion-Methoxychlor mixture may be used but should be applied 10 days after the first application, also triple rates for Methoxychlor and Malathion, applied only to main stems.

DECK BUFFET is the result of the addition of a 2 by 10-inch shelf built of western wood under a kitchen window. Serves as a pass-through for serving outdoor meals.

African Violets Need Proper Light To Bloom

EAST LANSING
Do you have trouble growing African violets?

Michigan State University horticulturist Dr. William Carlson offers these suggestions:

The most important factor in producing good growth and bloom is proper lighting, Carlson states. If the violets are not flowering, move them to an area with more light.

Many African violet enthusiasts have turned to fluorescent lighting with good success. Lights are placed about 12 to 15 inches above the plant table and are kept on approximately 14 hours a day.

The plants will not thrive in an atmosphere that is too dry, too hot or too drafty. An ideal room temperature is from 65-75 degrees. If the air is too dry and hot the buds may drop off, or the blossoms will fall off shortly after they open.

With too low temperatures, plant growth slows down, and flowering may stop. Foliage will also curve down around the edge of the pot.

Carefully inspect the plants to determine watering habits. Water from either the top or bottom of the pot; the only requirement is that water be warm. Plants do not do well when the soil becomes hard and dry, nor do they thrive if too wet.

After the plants begin to bud and bloom they should be fed with a complete soluble fertilizer about once a month.

New plants may be propagated at any time of the year by means of leaf cuttings, plant divisions, offsets or seeds.

The most common method is by leaf cuttings.

By BETTY FRANKEL
Special Writer

June is the rose month. Rose fanciers revel in the great burst of blooms on their plants. They hold meetings to discuss rose growing and they stage shows so they can compare their best blooms and can show the public what prize roses look like.

The Detroit Rose Society is holding its 42nd annual rose show on Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17 at Tel-Twelve Mall. In this show, which is reputed to be the largest being held in the state, 170 classes of roses will be exhibited.

These range from the old-fashioned roses that great grandma loved and grew to the very newest hybrid teas. It will include floribundas and grandifloras which are popular roses in gardens today and also tiny miniatures which are enjoying quite a vogue these days.

Roses have been grown and loved for centuries. In ancient times wild roses were brought into gardens and cultivated. Since there were many kinds of wild roses, the selection was not limited.

All tended to have "single" flowers with five petals. Some were white. Others were pale pink or deep red. The flowers were relatively small and born in loose clusters of a few blossoms.

Eventually gardeners began collecting wild roses from other parts of the world and became quite selective, growing only those they found most handsome.

Soon it was discovered that even though "crossing" was exceedingly rare in the wilds, it was not too complicated a process and cross-breeding could be done quite easily. This resulted in the first of the hybrid roses.

More and more cross breeding was done. It reached a real peak in France in the 19th century, but even now new hybrids are constantly being produced. These have larger blooms, better form, clearer colors or unusual hues, and plants that are disease resistant.

One of the major results of hybridization was the production of roses that bloom rather continuously all summer. The wild roses bloom principally in June in this part of the world. The early garden roses were also June bloomers.

The breakthrough came with the development of the roses known as hybrid teas. These have a main period of bloom in June. Then after a short rest and growth period they bloom again. This is repeated several times during the summer. The hybrid teas have large, beautifully shaped flowers on long individual stems.

One of the most popular of all is known as "Peace." It has large yellow blooms edged with pink. The leaves are lustrous, deep green and are relatively disease resistant.

This was introduced about 25 years ago and is still one of the best. It has become the parent in a whole series of new roses. Many of the newest hybrid teas have Peace in their ancestry.

"Chicago Peace" is a pink blend. "Flaming Peace" is red. Other beloved hybrid teas include the deep-red "Chrysler Imperial"; "Tiffany", which is a deep pink blend; "Tropicana", orange-red; and "First Prize", a pink blend.

The Floribundas have resulted from crosses of hybrid teas with a small flowered cluster rose of a type known as polyanthus. The floribundas have flowers that are somewhat smaller than the hybrid teas and not as beautifully shaped, but they are born in large clusters and they tend to bloom continuously all summer. The plants are low and bushy and good for use in landscaping.

"Fashion" has been especially popular in gardens for many years. It is a bright coral pink floribunda rose. There is also an "Ivory Fashion". "Little Darling" is a good yellow blend and "Iceberg" is an excellent white. "Spartan" is a vibrant red-orange floribunda.

Grandifloras are a relatively recent development. They are the product of a cross between hybrid teas and floribundas. The flowers are relatively large. Some are in clusters and others have individual stems. "Queen Elizabeth" was the first grandiflora introduced. It has lovely medium-pink flowers. "Montezuma" is a grandiflora with red-orange flowers. "Aida" is medium red and "Carrousel" is dark red.

In order to grow good roses a regular program of care is needed. Roses should be planted in a moderately sunny location in well-drained soil. Lots of organic material should be worked into the soil before planting.

The experts who grow the prize roses work more compost, humus, sawdust, peat moss, or other organic material into the soil around their roses every year. They also keep the beds mulched with organic material.

Pruning is necessary to remove weak or diseased stems. This should be done in early spring before growth begins. On hybrid teas leave only three or four canes and shorten these to less than six inches. Blooms appear on growth produced each year. Feed roses several times during the growing period. Use a special rose food or the mixture recommended by the Detroit Rose Society.

This is a combination of Driconure, Milorganite, commercial rose food and Nu-Green. Liquid manure is also helpful.

Unfortunately roses are chewed by rose chafers and other insects, sucked by aphids and defaced by black spot and other fungus diseases. A regular spray or dust program is necessary. Benomyl will control black spot, which is a fungus disease.

Malathion will control rose chafers and aphids, or Lindane or Diazinon can be used for aphids. Controls should be applied every 10 to 14 days, or more often if there is rain.

Further information about growing roses will be available at the information booth that will be manned by the members of the Detroit Rose Society during their show at Tel-Twelve Mall.

Questions Answered On Air Conditioning

Read on for answers to basic questions about air conditioning that could pay off in lower costs and a wiser choice of equipment to suit your family's needs. The answers are provided by the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

1. What is air conditioning?
Air-conditioning engineers think of air-conditioning in terms of year-round control of the air's temperature, humidity, cleanliness, and flow, or distribution.

2. What is central air conditioning?
Central air conditioning controls the climate of the whole house using one or more pieces of equipment. Most people think of air conditioning as summer air conditioning which provides relief from heat and humidity.

3. What is the difference between a window unit and central air conditioning?
Window and through-the-wall units are usually intended to cool one room only. Most authorities agree that central air conditioning is usually more economical when air conditioning a whole house.

4. What are the benefits of air conditioning, other than relief from the heat?
Relief from the physical stress of summer heat and humidity are an important benefit for all, but particularly for heart patients, and for the elderly and the very young. In addition, the filter on a central cooling unit cleans the air of many dust and pollen particles that cause allergic symptoms. Studies of families with central air conditioning have found they have better appetites, get more sleep, and have better dispositions.

5. Does air-conditioning eliminate dusting?
Not completely! There is often a dramatic drop in dirt and dust, meaning less scrubbing and cleaning. Draperies and upholstery fabrics stay fresh longer, meaning reduced cleaning bills.

6. What is "total comfort"?
Total comfort is the year-round equivalent of summer air conditioning.

providing heat as well as cooling, humidification in winter as well as dehumidification in summer, and year-round electronic air cleaning.

7. Why add an electronic air filter when the central air conditioner already has a filter?

The electronic filter augments the mechanical filter by extracting many tiny particles of dust and smoke too small for mechanical filter. It is possible to add an electronic air cleaner to your year-round air-conditioning system, and may be desirable in a family with allergies.

8. Is an air-conditioning system or an electronic air cleaner deductible if added on a doctor's advice?

Doctors and allergists frequently "prescribe" air conditioning or an electronic filter for heart patients and patients with severe allergies. It's usually best to ask your doctor whether he is willing to state that the air cleaner or central cooler is a medical necessity for one or more members of your family.

9. Why should humidity be added to the air in winter?

As winter air is heated, its relative humidity decreases and the air becomes too dry. Dry air dries out skin and nasal and throat passages, as well as furniture. A central system humidifier helps replace moisture lost by heated air and restores relative humidity to a more comfortable percentage.

Watch out for the man who offers to cut down a "diseased" black walnut tree for you. It might cost you some money.

Here's what happened to a friend recently. He was notified that this black walnut tree (18 inch trunk) was diseased and should be cut down, "before the disease spreads." Stupidly, he allowed the tree to be cut down and hauled away.

It was like giving away $2,000, for that was the value of the black walnut tree. Just because a tree has a dead limb on it, is no sign the tree is dying, any more than a man's dying when he has a bad tooth.

Black walnut trees are disappearing at a fast rate all over, because the wood is prized for furniture makers all over the world. Another friend of ours had three walnut trees cut down and hauled away from his woodlot during the three days he was on vacation.

Time magazine (April 16) states that a top quality black walnut tree can bring as much as $15,000, and it tells how rustlers strike at night. Some are armed with chain saws silenced with auto mufflers!

We have often advocated planting black walnut trees on spare land. You may not reap the benefits in your lifetime, but your children may. In 25 to 30 years walnut trees will mature and be large enough to cut down. At present, the logs are shipped to Japan and Germany to be made into veneer, and then shipped back.

All parts of the tree are useful. Branches can be made into furniture legs and braces. Roots made into gunstocks. Some gardeners have a walnut tree growing too close to their vegetable garden, and it may be necessary to cut the tree. Check with your county agent before you do it.

Walnut trees give off a toxic material known as Juglone, which causes a wilt among certain crops such as peppers, tomatoes and others. By the way, did you know that some people use the walnut leaves to prevent sunburn?

The Russians rub freshly ground walnut leaves on the skin. Juglone (or Lawsone, a chemical cousin) protects people suffering from allergic sensitivity to ultraviolet light. They also give the skin a tan-look, the "in" thing today.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC:
A reader writes: "Is it true that cocoa bean shells should NOT be sued on rhododendrons?"

Answer: Some nurserymen feel that cocobean shells contain high amounts of phosphorus and injure the plants. Others say they do not harm the plants. We have not noticed any adverse effect from using the shells on rhododendrons. Other mulch materials include pea moss, pine bark, pine bark, sawdust, wood chips, to name a few.

All-Purpose Containers Come In 12 Characters

Colorful all-purpose house-hold containers in the form of a dozen characters are among the newest house-ware items designed to brighten the home while performing utilitarian tasks.

Each People Pail stands 16 inches high without its "cap," and is made of Super-strand, a lightweight yet du-rable, water-resistant ma-te-rial. They are a product of Spiegel Industries, a man-u-facturer of household ac-cessories.

They are ideal for use as storage containers to help keep order in a youngster's (or an adult's) room, as waste baskets that decorate any room and can be kept out in the open where they will be used rather than hid-den in a corner or in an en-closed area, as kindling con-tainers at the fireplace, or even as ice buckets for par-ties.

The colorful characters that appear on the pails in-clude a girl scout brownie, super cyclist, policeman, mandarin, golfer, "hippie" college student, chess player with a chess board on top of his cap, entertainer, tennis player, knitting granny, sol-dier in full-dress uniform and football player.

Martin Umanoff, a profes-sional designer, designed the figures for the pails. An in-jection molded plastic "cap" or helmet tops each of the figures.

The Superstrand material from which the pails are made originally was devel-oped for packaging and ship-ping artillery shells. Thus, it inherently has great strength and water-resistant qualities. In its application to People Pails, it receives additional treatment which extends these characteristics.

Retail price of each people pail is about $2.99.

NEW, ALL-PURPOSE containers brighten the home while doing a multitude of tasks. There are 12 characters, each standing 16 inches tall without its cap.

Popular Roses Traced To French Empress

Many of our most popular modern roses, including large quantities of All-America award winners, can be traced back and clearly owe their existence to a woman of olden times.

In the early 1800s, when the forward progress of gar-den roses had about come to a standstill, Napoleon's Em-press Josephine acquired her magnificent estate, Malmai-son, not far from Paris.

Having a great love for roses, she decided to collect and have planted in the huge garden at Malmaison, every known variety of rose which at that time, amounted to about 250.

Her horticultural center became unprecedented for the times. Between 1804 and 1814, Josephine collected middle east, all over the con-tinent, as well as England and America.

It mattered little to her that her husband was in a battle to the death with Eng-land. In fact, so the stories go, even though the British were blockading the French coast, if a ship bound for France bore some of Jose-phine's roses, the gallant Englishmen would let it through.

It is a matter of record that John Kennedy, a nurs-eryman from Hammersmith, London, was given a special pass by the British govern-ment while the war was being waged so that he could assist the French Empress in her task.

The Empress was in posi-tion to obtain the services of the best gardeners of Europe, and hordes of them were sent to work on her project.

In order to preserve her treasured roses for posterity, she arranged for the famous artist, Redoute, also a rose fancier, to paint pictures of every variety in her garden.

Josephine also brought in the horticulturist, Andre Du-pont, and, under her direc-tion, hybridization of the rose by cross-pollination, was be-gun on a large scale.

Many public and private rose collections in Europe and in North America were inspired by the Malmaison roses.

The immensity of her ef-fort gave the French a do-minant place in rose breed-ing for many years, and that im-petus still goes on.

How To Care For Your Embossed Tile Floors

One of the many nice things about an embossed vinyl asbestos tile floor is that it always looks clean.

The design masks soiling, and loose dirt is hidden in the recesses, from which it is easily vacuumed or swept. Caring for this tile is just as easy-but not the same-as caring for smooth-surface floors.

Here are Better Floors Council recommendations for the

Here are Better Floors Council recommendations for the maintenance of embossed vinyl asbestos tile:

- Sweep or vacuum only as often as necessary. There is no sense sweeping every day if the floor doesn't require it. But with frequent sweeping you won't have to wash the floor as often.

- Before you wash, always sweep or vacuum the floor thoroughly. The soapy water works better, and it is easier to rinse the floor clean. It is best to use a cleaner ap-proved by the tile manufac-turer; otherwise, use a neu-tral soap or diluted detergent solution.

- Remove stubborn stains with scouring powder and a damp sponge. Do not use steel wool on embossed tile.

- Always rinse the floor thoroughly, even if the deter-gent maker says it isn't nec-essary. Don't flood the floor with water-use just enough to flush the dirty wash water completely off.

Bowles Offers Judge Appointment Plan

By RICK McCULLEN
An independent judiciary, said Alexander Hamilton in the 78th Federalist, is the individual's only protection against the "momentary inclinations" and "dangerous innovations" of popular democracy.

Many members of the legal and political community feel that the goal of an independent judiciary and the best interests of fair administration of justice are not met by the system of popular election of judges which exists in Michigan and most other states.

Committees of judges, lawyers and state legislators are currently studying alternate plans for the state, most centering around appointment, rather than election, of judges.

One such proposal comes from Judge George E. Bowles of Plymouth, on the bench of the third judicial circuit in Wayne County, which he has sent to the Governor and those legislative committees concerned with the subject.

Bowles' plan calls for appointment of judges for a limited term by the governor, on the basis of recommendations to be made by a specially-constituted advisory council made up of representatives of the judiciary, state bar, and the general public.

Bowles agrees with those who say that no system of election of judges can produce the best qualified candidates for the bench.

"There is good reason to believe the people have an impossible task in evaluating and selecting competent judges," the proposal states. "The more populous the area, the more judges to select, the greater the distance between the voter and the candidate... It is unrealistic to expect voters to make wise selections."

Bowles also fears the influence which impending elections every few years have on the judge, once elected.

"That a judge comes up through the political process is not inimical to the public interest," he states, "but what is important is that he or she, once named, not be required to continue to be active politically."

Bowles takes issue with the often-proposed Missouri Plan, which would have appointed judges standing for periodic reelection on a yes or no vote by constituents — not against a rival candidate, but on his record.

This raises the danger, he feels, of a good judge being removed for one unpopular decision on a controversial issue, and does not remove the dangerous influence of popular opinion on a judge whose decisions should be based only on law.

Under Bowles' system, the advisory council would nominate candidates for consideration by the governor, given responsibility for appointment because he is in turn responsible to the electorate.

Candidate names would be announced in advance in order to give ample opportunity for the expression of public opinion. The governor could accept or reject a candidate, or, if he should choose, even go outside the recommendations of the council.

When a judge's term is near expiration, his record and the recommendations of bench, bar and public would be reviewed by the council, which would then make a recommendation to the governor regarding reappointment. Ample opportunity for public input is provided at each stage.

Bowles envisions a seven-member council, made up of four gubernatorial nominees, one appellate judge, one trial judge, and one elected representative of the state bar, all of whom would be prohibited from seeking public office during their tenure, and from holding their offices for more than one term.

Each council member's appointment would be subject to confirmation by the State Senate, and terms would be staggered.

A similar plan has been in effect in Maine for several years, and has received widespread acceptance there, Bowles reports. He believes the system eliminates political pressures but retains public accountability, at the same time widening the field of prospective judges.

"It would encourage those who do not have wealth or access to wealth to become judges; it would encourage those who do not have strong and attractive political names to become judges; it would encourage those who wish to devote all their energies and abilities to the administration and enrichment of the law to become judges."

High School Seniors Visit SC Campus

More than 1,200 graduating high school seniors recently enjoyed spaghetti dinner, entertainment and the hospitality of the campus at Schoolcraft College.

The guests were from the public high schools in Claranceville, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth and Northville, and from Ladywood High in Livonia.

The dinners were staged as a means of congratulating the graduates as well as encouraging them to visit the Schoolcraft campus.

Summer Is Due Officially June 21

ANN ARBOR
In addition to summer, the month of June will bring the second longest total solar eclipse and a constellation that actually resembles the figure it's named after, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

She says this year's summer will officially begin at 9:01 a.m. (Eastern Daylight Time) June 21.

"The sun has been climbing north since December, and on the 21st it will reach its most northerly point," Prof. Losh notes. Known as the summer solstice, this event produces our longest day, 15 hours, and the shortest night, nine hours.

"However, it is unlikely that the 21st will be our warmest day, as one would naturally expect," she points out. "The heat peak usually comes from four to six weeks later because temperatures continue to rise as long as more warmth is received during the day than is lost at night."

The new moon occurring on June 30 is especially significant because it will create a total solar eclipse at 7:39 a.m. EDT.

"Although not visible from northern latitudes — the totality path cuts across central Africa — this eclipse is astronomically important because of its long duration of seven minutes and four seconds," the Michigan astronomer notes. She explains that the longest possible total solar eclipse is seven minutes and 30 seconds. In an interval of 1,433 years, the eclipse of June 30 ties for second place in length.

The outstanding constellation of the summer months is Scorpius, which rises in the southeast just after sunset. The scorpion is easily identified as a line of stars curving up like a giant fishhook.

"Unlike many other constellations, Scorpius actually looks something like the figure it is supposed to represent," Prof. Losh says. She also observes that Antares, the bright red star in the heart of Scorpius, means "rival of Mars."

"Technically speaking, these two celestial bodies have little in common except their reddish color," she says. Antares, a sun, has a diameter some 75,000 times larger than that of Mars, a planet. Additionally, their distances from earth are not comparable. The light we see from Mars has been traveling for about eight minutes; the light from Antares has been journeying toward us for about 250 years.

Mars rises around 3 a.m. in the east — the same time that Antares is setting in the southwest.

It will be a busy and exciting summer for the four talented men who comprise the full-time music staff at Schoolcraft College.

Richard T. Saunders, Schoolcraft's director of fine arts, recently published his first book, the only one of its kind in the world, and has just completed his specialist degree in education at Wayne State University.

Robert W. Jones, an instructor and resident composer at Schoolcraft, is currently spending two weeks as a resident artist at the prestigious MacDowell Colony in Peterborough, N.H.

Piano instructor Donald Morelock is in Austria, studying with master teachers at the Vienna Conservatory of Music and preparing for a solo recital which he will present at the college next spring.

Vocal music instructor Bradley Bloom is at the world-famous Interlochen Music Camp in northern Michigan this summer. He is directing symphonic choirs.

All but Bloom will be back on campus for Schoolcraft's seventh annual summer music school and festival July 2-27.

The clarinet was a major instrument for Saunders, who was a solo performer at Cass Tech High School and at WSU, where he earned bachelor and master's degrees in music.

As a resident artist at MacDowell, Jones was selected from more than 1,000 applicants in this field. He is among a company of professional composers, writers and artists whose sole purpose during their stay at the colony is uninterrupted creativity.

The colony is housed on the grounds of the former summer estate of Edward MacDowell, noted American composer who died in 1908. Carrying through an idea of the composer, his widow began, shortly after his death, to invite creative artists to spend periods of time at the estate in order to take advantage of the quiet surroundings and accomplish their artistic aims free from the cares of everyday life.

Today the colony, now a New York-based corporation, yearly screens thousands of applicants for a minimum two-week residence during which the artist may work in an atmosphere of freedom that extends to having his meals brought to his studio in order that his work not be interrupted.

Jones will use this opportunity to complete a number of large compositions requiring more concentration than his daily teaching schedule will allow. Among them are a flute concerto, a viola concerto and a violin sonata. Each is being written for a Detroit-area musician.

DISCUSSING SUMMER plans are author Richard Saunders (left) and composer Robert W. Jones. Saunders has recently had his first book published. Its title is "Understanding the Low Clarinets." Jones is presently composing at the MacDowell Colony in Peterborough, N.H. Both will be at Schoolcraft College for the summer music school and festival, July 2-27. Saunders is the college's director of fine arts, and Jones is its resident composer.

Orchestra Sets Audition Dates

DETROIT Preliminary auditions for all sections of the Detroit Symphony Youth Orchestra will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 18-20.

Any talented young musician living in the Detroit metropolitan area is eligible for membership provided he or she does not drop out of school band or orchestra activities in order to seek or maintain membership in the Detroit Symphony Youth Orchestra.

Applicants will be asked to perform a solo composition of their own choosing and to sight read some representative orchestral excerpts.

Audition applications are available by calling or writing Ray Turner, Administrator, Detroit Symphony Youth Orchestra, Ford Auditorium, Detroit, 48226.

In addition to regular rehearsals, which are held on Saturday afternoons from late September through April, sectional rehearsals are held under the direction of members of the Detroit Symphony. Their coaching and assistance have been an important contribution to the general development of the youth orchestra.

The DSYO has a limited number of scholarships for deserving students to use to study privately with Detroit Symphony players.

This summer, a DSYO camp will be held at Oakland University, Rochester, in association with the Meadow Brook Music Festival. The dates are July 3-16.

Free Art Fair Is Non-Juried

ANN ARBOR Registration has opened for the third annual Free Art Fair, to be held July 18-21 by the University of Michigan's Artists and Craftsmen Guild.

The Free Art Fair coincides with the 14th annual Street Art Fair, but differs in that participants are not juried. Both fairs have attained national recognition for their wide variety of ceramics, weaving, paintings, metal sculpture, wood carving and other craft.

And while the Street Fair presents artisans from as far away as California, the Free Fair was instituted to accommodate more local residents and U-M students. This year, some 360 beginners and professionals will exhibit their skills.

The guild is open to students, faculty, alumni, staff and the general public.

Persons who wish to join or to exhibit work in the fair should contact Vic Gutman, Artists and Craftsmen Guild Office, Michigan Union, Ann Arbor, 48104.

EMU Sets Orchestra Workshop

YPSILANTI A summer workshop for high school band and orchestra students will be held on the Eastern Michigan University campus from June 17 through June 29. It is for students in grades nine through 12.

In addition to performing with the band or orchestra, students may participate in classes in theory, conducting and in chamber ensembles and recitals.

Band activities are directed by Thomas Tyra, director of the University Marching and Symphonic Bands. Edward Szabo, conductor of the University-Civic Symphony Orchestra, will supervise orchestra activities.

Total fee of $145 covers all instructional costs, room and board for those staying on campus. The commuter fee is $70.

To be eligible, a student must be in ninth grade or above during the next school year and must be approved by his high school music teacher.

Registration forms may be obtained from University Conferences, Division of Field Services, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, 48197.

Concert Band Opens Season

The Detroit Concert Band, conducted by Dr. Leonard Smith, will begin its 28th annual summer festival concert series on Sunday, June 17, at 8:15 p.m. in the Remick Shell on Belle Isle.

The band, performing the classic "Sousa Sound," will give free concerts five nights a week through Aug. 12. The concerts run from Wednesday through Sunday on Belle Isle or the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

Smith, who has offered balanced programs with broad appeal to his audiences, will lead the band in works by more than 150 composers.

The concerts will feature works of contemporary composers. The concerts will be at Belle Isle from June 17 to 28; July 5 to 25 and Aug. 1 and 2. They will be in the Michigan State Fairgrounds June 20 to July 1, July 27 and 28 and Aug. 3 to 12.

DR. LEONARD B. SMITH

OU Hosts Pow-Pow

The North American Indian Association will hold its annual pow-wow at the Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College, 2480 Opdyke, Bloomfield Hills, Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17.

Some 30 tribes will participate in activities, which will include competitive dancing, at 2 and 8 p.m. June 16, and at 2 p.m., June 17.

Native foods and crafts will be offered for sale. All proceeds will go to the North American Indian Scholarship Fund.

Tickets are now on sale in the student activities offices of OCC's four campuses. They are $2 for adults; 50 cents for children under 12; and $1 for high school and college students with identification. Groups of 10 or more, boy scouts, girl scouts and so on, will be admitted for 50 cents with the leader admitted free.

Dr. Kirchgatter, Norman Ruehr Head Society

Dr. Richard Kirchgatter, 48377 Gyde Road, Plymouth, has been elected new president of the Plymouth Symphony Society.

Other new officers are Norman Ruehr, 47420 W. Ann Arbor Trail, vice-president; Mrs. John Jacobs, 1321 Linden, secretary; and Mrs. Robert Taylor, 13960 Ridgewood, treasurer.

New board members are Mrs. Richard Braun, Mrs. John Moehle, Paul Huyck, Tim Richard, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. George Smith, president of the Plymouth Symphony League. The league is the women's organization which helps raise money to support the symphony.

At the society's annual meeting, the new president outlined goals for the coming year.

The main goal, he said, is membership development. In a change of policy, the society will send out membership brochures in August this year. Previously, they have been sent out in May.

"Secondly, we want the community to gain a greater awareness regarding the orchestra programs," said Dr. Kirchgatter.

"The symphony director, Wayne Dunlap, has done a fine job of programming for the coming year, and achieving these goals will result in increased attendance at the concerts," he said. "It is our desire to have as many people enjoy these concerts as is possible."

All concerts will be held in the auditorium of Plymouth-Salem High School, Joy and Canton Center Roads.

The schedule of concerts and guest artists is as follows: Thursday, Oct. 11, pianist Richard Syracuse; Sunday, Nov. 18, flutist Nelson Hauenstein; Sunday, Dec. 9, Kenneth Jewell Chorale; Sunday, Jan. 27, family concert; Sunday, March 10, Severo Ballet Company; and Sunday, April 11, violinist Millard Taylor.

Art Show Set For Weekend

An outdoor art show will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 15-17, at the Actors Rod Steiger and Richard Harris will headline the list of attractions appearing at Schoolcraft College in the 1973-74 season, according to a reliable source at the college.

Meetings are now being held by the college's cultural and public affairs committee, and final plans will be announced in a few weeks.

Observer informants report that this year's programming should be of special interest to fans of the performing arts.

Besides Steiger and Harris, William Friedkin, director of "The French Connection," who is now directing "The Exorcist," is being scheduled to speak at Schoolcraft. He was to speak here last season, but previous commitments made it impossible.

Another popular speaker will be Erich Von Daniken, author of "Chariot of the Gods," the popular book which served as the basis of a television special. The book deals with evidences on the surface of the earth which seem to indicate that the earth was visited by persons from other planets.

Dr. Rollo May, well-known author "Love and Will," and lecturer, is being scheduled to give a talk at Schoolcraft.

Ravi Shankar, one of the world's foremost sitarist, featured in the "Concert for Bangladesh," is also being signed.

Together with the committee's poets series and film series, the coming year promises to be an exciting one.

The committee is now making plans to hold a jazz festival at the college Aug. 20 and 21, during registrations for the fall term.

Film Stars To Speak At SC

FATHER, a vocal group accompanied by electric violins, is one of six groups being featured at a free concert this weekend at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. The program will begin at 3:30 p.m. with performances by Thomas Blood, a jazz group; the Chips Stevens Group, jazz-rock; and Father. At 7 p.m., Jonathon Round, folk-rock singer, will lead off the show, followed by the Whiz Kids, electronic sound; and Brussel Sprout, country-rock. The event is sponsored by the college's student activities board. Two WDRQ disc jockeys will act as emcees.

Lorimer Concert Is June 15

DETROIT Classical guitarist Michael Lorimer will give a benefit concert at 8:30 p.m. Friday, June 15, in the Community Arts Auditorium on the Wayne State University campus.

His performance is being sponsored by the Michigan Chapter of the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease, and proceeds will go to help combat the disease.

Huntington's Disease is perhaps best known as the illness that claimed American folk singer Woody Guthrie. It is a genetically transmitted neurological disorder that often strikes in the prime of life.

Sponsoring tickets for the concert are available in advance at $250, $100, $50 and $25 per couple. Interested persons should contact Nancy Wexler, Department of Psychology, Neuropsychiatric Institute, University of Michigan, Medical Center, Ann Arbor, or Dr. Sidney A. Lutz, Department of Psychiatry, Children's Psychiatric Hospital, U-M Medical Center, Ann Arbor.

General admission tickets will be available at the door at $6 and $8. Lorimer is a student and protege of the famed classical guitarist Andres Segovia.

State Offers Family Shows

In an attempt to make family shows available, the State Theater in Wayne is beginning a six-week run of 2 p.m. matinees each day.

"Charlotte's Web" and "Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" are on the bill this week.

Theater Goers Get Food Too

Theater goers are being offered an evening out by Farmington's Park Place Restaurant and the Farmington Cinema 4 Theater.

Each Sunday through Thursday, they are offering a dinner and theater ticket at a special rate. Interested persons should contact the restaurant, 38259 W. 10 Mile.

The Park Place is presently renovating its lounge area to give more bar seating, better service and better seating in the dining room. A small stage is also being added.

Art Series Begins July 9

Registration is underway for the Bloomfield Art Association art school's five-week summer term which begins July 9.

The adult curriculum includes many innovations as well as the basic classes in ceramics, sculpture, painting in all media, drawing and graphics.

"Easy Ways to Draw" will be taught by Norman Stewart. Norman Tall will teach classes entitled "Unusual Methods in Acrylics" and "New Realism Painting."

Workshops will be offered in drawing - collage, landscape painting and drawing and painting. These will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for three days beginning June 18.

The only weaving classes in the summer term will be offered in three two-week sessions on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings during July and August.

Richard Ritter will return to the BAA June 25 from Penland, N.C. to conduct a special six-day workshop in glass blowing and forming. The session will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., June 25 - June 30.

Schedules are available from the BAA, 151C S. Cranbrook.

EMU Offers New Program

Eastern Michigan University will offer a new program in which students can earn a bachelor of music degree with a major in performance. It will begin in September.

Requirements for the new degree include voice, keyboard and orchestral instruction. It prepares the student for a professional career in music.

Students interested in joining the program can contact the department of music.

How We're All In Danger Of Drowning In Our Own Rubbish

by Dr. A. Edward Katz

Visited any rubbish dumps lately?

That's the old fashioned name for what they're calling "solid waste disposal sanitary landfills" nowadays, which is where they're putting most of the stuff that we chuck out here in the suburbs.

As I stood there, looking over the landfill and the mounds of plastic and paper and refrigerators and milk cartons and chairs with the springs popping out, I wondered what an archeologist of the future would think about our society based on the rubbish he might paw through.

I think he might be tempted to propound the iron law of civilization: As civilization increases, the amount of stuff it throws out rises exponentially.

IT CERTAINLY is true for our society today.

A study recently published showed that while the amount of solid waste discarded by our population has doubled in the last 50 years, it has doubled yet again in the cities in the last 20 years. Cities, according to the study, are accumulating nationwide a trash heap of 250 million tons per year; this includes 28 billion bottles, 48 billion cans, 4 million tons of plastic, 30 million tons of paper, 100 million tires and over three million junk cars.

If things are bad now, they'll be worse in the future, according to the same study, because of our national fascination with packaging, which is predicted to have increased by 63 per cent between 1958 and 1976. Ninety per cent of all packaging is tossed on the trash heap.

The problem of avoiding a slow death strangling in our own rubbish is particularly critical here in the suburbs for two reasons: 1) The high income of families in the suburbs means they have the ability to get more stuff than other population groups, which means they throw more away, too; 2) Suburban communities, by themselves, are not large enough to efficiently solve alone the problem of how to get rid of the rubbish.

Most communities in this area have private garbage contractors, who for a fee pick up rubbish and dump it in a sanitary land fill somewhere outside of town. Most communities have study committees studying the problem (even the new City of Farmington Hills, moving quickly off the mark of cityhood, has one), without coming to any startling, new conclusions.

Oakland County is working on a county-wide incinerator plant which might be running in three of four years, and SEMCOG has a grandiose report showing how rubbish from all seven counties in the metropolitan area pass through transfer points and into big incinerators and compactors, whence it is thrown into a landfill.

NONE OF THESE studies get to the heart of the problem, it seems to me, in a time when we are facing a gasoline shortage, the price of lumber has doubled in the past year because of wood scarcity, and the prices of nearly all foods are still going up because of supposedly inadequate supplies.

The simple fact is that we waste too darn much of what we use.

We buy a car one year, and in a couple of years we trade it in even though it's running perfectly well because the auto companies have come up with a new model (its called planned obsolescence) and we buy one to keep up with the neighbors.

We waste too much because of shoddy manufacture and poor service. We buy one of those little transistor radios which works all right for three months and then goes dead. If someone who is willing to fix it can be found, it'll cost more to fix it than it was worth originally, so we throw it out.

Our own laziness contributes to the problem. We buy pre-packaged, convenience foods, even though they cost much more per once than ordinary food, and then we throw out the equivalent of four or five big trees per year just in the paper used in the fancy packages.

SCIENTISTS have been telling us for years that the stock of natural resources and supplies of energy on this earth are not infinite and that we are depleting them at a rising and dangerous rate.

For a long time we didn't pay much attention. Now it's getting tough to get gas, even at four or five cents per gallon extra. Families are cutting down on meat because it's too expensive. Folks are delaying home improvements because lumber is up.

Our wasteful habits are catching up with us, and it's hurting right in the pocketbook.

Any change, of course, will require a massive shift in attitudes by the American people.

But there is one straw in the wind that may signify a change: a sudden and massive increased interest in antiques.

Go to any country auction, and you'll find the place jammed. Folks are buying things like old chairs or wicker baskets or wooden boxes - things that were made to last, things that have been fixed when they broke, things that had none of the shiny ticky-tacky throw-it-away feel of our modern times.

I hope it keeps up.

Propaganda Machines Are Busy

With great shows of piety, the oil industry is giving us ideas on how to save gasoline during this "energy crisis."

Standard has ol' Johnny Cash sayin' y'all should drive a li'l slower, and Boron suggests car pools, "improving driving habits" and other such bromides. The Highway Users Federation mentions keeping your engine tuned and your tires properly inflated.

All of which is like telling a man with TB and a cut finger to put a bandage on his finger.

Watch the propaganda machines of the oil companies and their allies in the months ahead and see if any of them come to grips with some of the real causes of the energy crisis. You'll know you've found an honest oil company when you find one that gives you this advice:

Don't buy that big car with the 350 hp engine. Buy a compact with a 100 hp engine instead. Granted, you may save five or 10 per cent on gasoline by driving 10 miles an hour slower, but you'll save 50 per cent if you get a car that gives 25 miles per gallon instead of the luxurious monster that gives only 10 or 12.

Don't get air conditioning on your car. When you get caught on the Lodge Freeway in 5 p.m. traffic, roll down your window and breathe in the fumes. After all, you're helping to produce those fumes, and it's only just that you should breathe them in, just the way the residents do on the surface streets. You'll save gasoline and become an avid supporter of rapid transit - and hopefully, even a user of rapid transit.

Don't get your 12-year-old a mini-bike. If he doesn't run one, he won't use gasoline. Besides, there's hardly anyplace for a kid to run one. If he should happen to find a place in the city to ride one, most likely he rides around foolishly in a circle, making a racket and getting nowhere. A bike will give him more exercise, allow him to use the street and get someplace, and be a whole lot quieter.

Unless you're a lumberjack or a country doctor, think over those plans for a snowmobile next winter. Seems kind of unpatriotic - doesn't it? - to run a big toy when our wildlife is endangered and fuel is expensive, even when you can buy it. Look at snowshoes or hiking boots instead.

Each year, the outboard motor builders have come up with more gigantic models, and today there are many of more than 100 horsepower. If you're going to water-ski, you can do it with a motor one-fourth that size; if you're not going to water ski, 10 or 15 horsepower are more than enough for even our large inland lakes.

When you're looking at tourist promotion literature, ask yourself always: Are they really telling me about a nice place? Or are they just trying to get me to take a long trip?

Most folks who go sightseeing spend more time in their cars than they do seeing the sights. If you plan to spend four hours at your destination for every one hour in the car, you'll find yourself doing less driving and enjoying yourself more.

Do you own stock in an auto company? When you go to the annual shareholders' meeting, cast your vote or your proxy against all oil company executives running for the board of directors. The oil companies have a vested interest in producing bigger, more powerful cars with more power-consuming equipment.

It is their inability to accept majority rule in this legislative body which produces the factionalism. When five board members of as diverse views as those represented on the board's 5-2 majority can reach agreement, they cannot be acting as a "rubber-stamp" for anyone. Yet such phony accusations are a way of life for the two-man faction.

To get back to the original point, when factionalism represents real divisions of opinion rather than personal antagonisms, the public should be informed.

This factionalism is not a matter of liberal vs. conservative; the five-member faction for the past few years has included both. It is, rather, education as a primary value vs. a "know-nothing" shotgun attack on our schools.

The current board is just as factional as ever, and it's a good thing for Livonia's schools that the majority faction prevails.

R. T. Thompson writes

Stress Need For Safety In Driving

It's that time of the year again when motorists have to be extra careful... the kids are out of school for the summer and that means one has to be on the outlook constantly for youngsters darting into the street.

It makes no difference how often youngsters, especially those between the ages of five and eight, are warned of the perils of traffic; they forget almost as soon as told and race between cars to meet a friend on the other side of the road. That's when boy meets car and usually boy winds up in the hospital and driver in the police station for a complete report.

Statistics show that June, July and August are all high accident months for children as pedestrians and bicyclists.

Children from the ages of five through eight suffer the most injuries. Most are struck when they run into the street in mid-block. The majority of accidents occur on the Sunnydales, residential streets, not main Five Mile and the thoroughfares, and two of three of those struck are boys.

This despite repeated warnings from teachers throughout the spring and early summer school days to stop at the curb, look both ways, wait until it's safe and then walk across the street.

As one teacher in an Observerland school pointed out, "These youngsters are so excited about summer vacation, these warnings go in one ear and out the other without striking a thing. We make special efforts to tell the kiddies to be careful not to take any chances and stress that things are much different than during the school year. Some heed the warnings, but there are always those bold souls who forget and they are the ones in trouble."

Many injuries are caused by bike riders who disregard Michigan's bicycle law. Once again youngsters can't wait to get their bikes out and start riding up down streets and highways almost the minute classes are over.

Quickly forgotten are the laws which say bicyclists must always drive as close to the right side of the street as possible. This means traveling in the same direction the cars are going, even on 12 Mile Road.

Don't let anyone tell you that you should ride against traffic. He's wrong and you will be if you follow his advice... perhaps dead wrong.

Now that summer is here and classes are out, here are some tips for bike riders.

Ride in a straight line; don't weave and look before you change course.

Always stop at the curb before entering a street from an alley or a driveway. Make sure the way is safe before you enter.

If you ride a bicycle at night, it must be equipped with a front light or lamp that can be seen at least 500 feet ahead and a red reflector on the rear that can be seen from 50 to 300 feet behind.

When you use streets and highways, you have the same responsibilities as a motorist in obeying signs, signals and traffic control devices. The rule's the same, from Lathrup Village down to Canton Township.

Even with all these warnings, it behooves all drivers to be extra careful. There are more kids on the streets, and none knows when Johnny calls from the other side of the road... and off they run without looking in any direction.

Most drivers are cautious but that doesn't make one any less or more responsible when involved in an accident. No one likes to hit a young boy or girl, but remember you have to do the thinking for yourself and a juvenile. It's anything but easy.

You Can Save Environment

A student at Power Junior High and our science teacher are doing a study on ecology. They would like to tell you some things that people can do to save our water.

1) Don't use colored tissue, paper towels, or toilet paper. These turn the lakes different colors, and if we use just one color, like white, the water would stay one color.

2) Reduce your electricity use during the hours

5-7 p.m., the prime hours of the evening.

3) Don't waste water by leaving it running uselessly.

4) Do not use enzymes pre-soaks. Use only phosphate free soap or detergent.

5) Don't buy DDD, DDT, BHC. It is estimated that 100 million gallons of unused outboard motor fuel are being spilled into the United States water. So please pitch in and help clean up our water.

'Tremendous Lift' Given

Indian Enterprises' members and affiliates are once again very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Hank Chrusciel, the Western Wayne County Conservation Assn. and all the dedicated persons in the Observer area who made possible last week a shipment of toys, clothing, bicycles, etc. to be delivered to the Indians on the west side of the state.

Some 600 Indian children will receive toys for Christmas because of these people's friendship. This endures the Indian children in Mason, Muskegon and Oceana counties a happy Christmas.

If you could put our thank you in the Observer Newspapers, we would be very grateful as we would like all the persons who are helping to make this program possible. This has been a tremendous lift to the Indian families of our area.

A Fine Arts Bldg. In SC's Future?

By RICH McCULLEN

The fate of the proposed fine arts building at Schoolcraft College, in the final stage of planning for more than four years, will be the center of discussion when the board of trustees gathers for a special meeting on capital construction priorities on June 20.

Competing with the arts facility for available funds will be a student request for more outdoor recreation facilities, specifically tennis courts, and some sentiment among trustees for more improvements in the field of vocational-technical training.

A fine arts building was to be the first stage of a 10-year master plan for development at Schoolcraft drawn up in 1970. Architect's plans for the first portion of the building, to contain some classrooms and a large auditorium, were completed several years ago.

If the board gives its approval to development of the arts building, the existing plans will probably be revised to cut costs, according to board treasurer Paul Kadish.

Kadish feels there is some urgency in starting the arts building now, since state funds of approximately $500,000 have been offered for the project if Schoolcraft can come up with matching funds.

"We don't have a hell of a lot of time," says Kadish, "and if we don't accept this money now, the state may hesitate to offer it again, at least for a long time."

Kadish says there is more sentiment for development of fine arts among the current board than there was when he became a member two years ago, when the trustees were heavily oriented toward vocational-technical programs.

He feels that the proposed building, with an auditorium that will be among the largest in Wayne County, can make Schoolcraft a "cultural center for the entire community," and can attract students by "making people aware of our existence."

Board Chairman John M. La Rue agrees that the fine arts building is "probably close to the top of everyone's list."

Although the building has been waiting in the wings for several years, the board has had "more pressing problems" in the time since planning was completed, according to La Rue.

"Two years ago we didn't have the money for any kind of a major project," he reports. "Our immediate need was for more classrooms. That problem has been taken care of since additions to the applied science and liberal arts buildings have been made."

Contributing to the college's improved financial picture is the fact that a 1966 bond issue will be entirely paid off some time this year, so that income formerly used to pay off those bonds may now be used for capital improvement. More importantly, the board may now levy another bond issue without going to the voters for support, to raise the kind of capital necessary to match the grant offered by the state.

Kadish says there are three possible means of raising the money-taking another bond issue to the voters, an unnecessary move since the authority to sell bonds exists under the 1966 issue; trying for an increase in millage, which he says is "useless," and floating another bond issue when the 1966 bonds are paid off.

The fine arts building was a first priority for most of the eight candidates for the Schoolcraft board in Monday's election.

In answer to an Observer Newspapers questionnaire, five candidates favored early development of a cultural center, while those remaining either supported such a center as a long range goal, or favored development of vocational programs as a first priority.

If the building project is approved at next week's meeting, it could be under way within a few months, Kadish said.

Senate OKs Funds For Schoolcraft

The State Senate has given its approval to a request from Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) for an appropriation of $517,819 including state and federal funds for an addition to the applied sciences building at Schoolcraft College.

The measure must now seek approval in the House of Representatives.

If approved, the money will match funds expended by Schoolcraft for the $1 million applied sciences addition which has been under construction for nearly two years.

The addition, consisting primarily of classrooms, will house several programs including automotive mechanics, occupational therapy, business, civil technology and biomedical equipment technology.

The Legislature authorized $5,000 to begin the project last year. If the appropriation is finally approved, it will free an equal amount for other building projects, according to a Schoolcraft spokesman.

The addition is presently near completion and is expected to open in July.

St. Mary Hospital Chaplain Succumbs

Fr. Robert Pomponi, 63, chaplain at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia for the past four years, died of an apparent heart attack Monday morning while attending a reunion of his Sacred Heart Seminary class in Rochester, Mich.

He was preparing to set out for a round of golf when stricken and was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital.

Friends may visit at McInnes-Desmond Funeral Home, 16111 Woodward at Puritan, Highland Park, until 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 11 a.m. in St. Rita Catholic Church, Detroit, with Bishop Joseph L. Imsch, of Our Lady of Sorrows, Farmington, officiating. A rosary will be held at the church Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Fr. Pomponi was a board member of the Livonia Civic Chorus and a member of Toastmaster International and the Livonia Health Group.

Fr. Pomponi was born June 7, 1910, in Braddock, Pa., and was ordained Oct. 9, 1938, at Ferentino, Italy.

He celebrated his first Mass at Visitation Church in Detroit and served various parishes in Detroit and Dearborn before coming to St. Mary Hospital.

He is survived by a brother, Paul, of Detroit, and nieces and nephews.

Parkway Idea Gets A Cool Response

By TIM RICHARD

Wayne County's idea of a "regional park" is different from the Huron - Clinton Metropolitan Authority's. The county's idea of a parkway in Canton and Van Buren townships is too small by regional standards, says HCMA Director David Laidlaw. What's more, HCMA abandoned the parkway concept years ago because building a road doesn't provide recreation, which is HCMA's business.

The argument is more than an academic disagreement. It has political and financial overtones. Wayne County's Board of Commissioners contends HCMA, a five county agency, is failing to cater to the most populous county's needs. The board voted to withhold HCMA's quarter - mill share of the property tax in Wayne County (but later rescinded that action). Wayne County is also planning to file suit to win "one-man, one-vote" reapportionment of the HCMA board. Finally, county commissioners are trying to persuade HCMA authorities to pump more funds into Wayne County. So far, said Laidlaw, the only thing beside Belle Isle the county has mentioned is the Canton - Van Buren parkway. It would form the west side of a triangle, with the Hines (Middle Rouge) Parkway on the northeast and the incomplete Lower Huron Parkway on the south. Laidlaw isn't impressed by the suggestion, and in an interview last week he said why. The land alone would cost $17 million, even before development. The parcel amounts to 2,500 acres. For that kind of money, HCMA is purchasing land for its three 4,000 acre "expansion" parks - Mill Creek in western Washtenaw County, Indian Springs in northern Oakland, and North Branch to the east. Laidlaw says an auto - carrying parkway is all right for Wayne County, whose parks are operated by the Road Commission. "But we've come to the recognition that a parkway isn't the same as recreation." HCMA went into business in 1942 "to preserve for public use the scenic beauties and recreational resources along the two principal rivers, the Huron and the Clinton," according to its 25th anniversary report. While developing along the Huron and Clinton rivers has been its policy, that's not a legal requirement. "We can even go outside the five counties," Laidlaw added. HCMA's original concept was for a series of parks and parkways, but Laidlaw noted the parkway idea was dropped years ago. "Parkways are expensive, and the interstate highway system came along," so now HCMA just develops big parks, oriented to water, with multiple opportunities for recreation.

And to get to any HCMA park - Kensington, Metropolitan Beach, Stony Creek, Lower Huron - you need auto transportation. On that point Wayne County officials are critical, pointing out that 25 per cent of inner city residents don't own cars. Laidlaw answers: "Maybe 25 per cent don't have wheels, but they know someone who does. They get there to the parks. South-eastern Michigan is auto oriented - rightly or wrongly. So our parks are auto oriented." And he adds that Wayne County, for all its talk, has never built a county park in Detroit. Yet HCMA itself has sometimes departed from its big park concept. Marshbank, with only 115 acres extending from Cass to Orchard Lakes, has no swimming because of deep water. It was given to HCMA by one of its board members, the late Howard B. Bloomer. The three Huron River parks outside Ann Arbor are small: Delhi, 45 acres; Dexter-Huron, 115 acres; Hudson Mills, 600 acres (one-third developed).

Man and his machines do a lot of damage to wildlife. But the creatures have a God-given ability to thrive with people around them.

Take the shy trout, for example. There's a stretch of the Huron River below Proud Lake near Wixom that is popular with canoeists. "Popular" is putting it mildly. As we sat on the bank one day, it seemed like hundreds swarmed by, laughing and banging, spinning around and turning over, splashing and swimming. You would think the trout would head for cover until Wednesday after that kind of weekend. They didn't. It took the river only five minutes to calm down after a horde of giggling girls went by before the trout would bite again. We picked up enough nice brookies and brownies for a meal on one of the busiest days of the year.

The trout were planted a couple of seasons ago after the Dept. of Natural Resources killed off the Proud Lake chain and the Huron River down to Milford. The idea was to get rid of rough fish, particularly sucker and carp.

In winter, ice fishermen have been doing well. In warm weather, many sportsmen go out at night on the lake and fish for the big browns.

But catching trout in the middle of the day on a busy river? We couldn't believe it either - until we tasted them.

Canada geese get used to human beings, too. Kent Lake in Kensington Park has become an exporter of the honkers. Under wise management, every island in the 1,200-acre lake but one is off limits to people. A small colony of geese has swelled to the point where they now boldly walk on the golf course.

You can take your boat quietly within a few feet of shore and observe Canada geese on the nests. They'll make noises if you get too close, but usually they sit rock-still.

Dave Laidlaw, who used to be Kensington Park superintendent and now heads the entire Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, tells us that in many parts of the state, Canada geese won't nest within a mile of a potential disturbance. Kent Lake's geese, however, are more sociable.

Trout and geese aren't the only creatures who have adjusted to having people around. The next time you go into the woods, instead of making a racket and talking, just sit quietly for a half-hour. You'll see and hear all sorts of birds you never knew existed.

Wayne County OKs Truce On HCMA $

While discussions of park and recreational development continue, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has withdrawn a proposal to withhold its financial support from the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA). County commissioners last week referred the proposal back to its Public Works Committee, which is negotiating with HCMA for development of more parks within Wayne County boundaries. Commissioners are disputing use of HCMA funds, claiming an unfair return for the approximate $2.3 million it contributes toward the HCMA budget in annual millage payments. Wayne County is responsible for about 55 per cent of the revenue of the five-county regional park authority.

Nature Class Is Scheduled

Area residents have an opportunity to take a class entitled "Michigan Wildlife - The Pond" which will be provided at the Nature Center of Kensington-Metropark near Milford. Classes will meet on Thursdays, 7 to 10 p.m., and Saturdays from 8 to 11 a.m.

from July 19 through July 28, with four sessions conducted by Miss Patricia Eising, supervising naturalist at Kensington Metropark. Details are available, including registration, by contacting the University Center for Adult Education, Wayne State University, Detroit.

'You Can Be Successful As Student'

By MARGARET MILLER

Don't be fearful about going back to school. You have it in you to succeed, and you'll find helping hands all along the way.

The advice comes from Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College to women considering resuming — or starting — college studies.

It was voiced in a variety of ways to about 50 who gathered on the OCC campus in Farmington last week for College Orientation Day for Women.

Over coffee and doughnuts, they chatted with faculty members and teacher aides and students who have made the move they were contemplating.

They visited the new OCC Womancenter, set up for the benefit of all women on campus; they learned about the child play center; they heard talks on counseling, student activities and registration.

Mostly, they heard assurance at every hand that OCC has a place for them and will make every effort to help them fill it.

"No, you're not too old or too stupid," history instructor Judy Eaton emphatically told a couple of visitors who suggested as much.

"We faculty members like having mature students in our classes. We find they do well and add a new dimension to the classroom."

"You're here, and that proves you're somewhat motivated," pointed out Sarah Keidan, political science instructor.

"If you are interested in education at all, you can get it here, and you can make it here." That was from Don Nichols, dean of students.

"Don't panic over registration complications; there are lots of people to help you and we usually can make adjustments," offered John Davenport, registration head.

From Lois Vincent, head of the child play center that is a free service to OCC students with small children, came this assurance:

"We're here — you can count on that."

From Mary White, OCC counselor, the word was that "every student has a session with his counselor before he starts classes, and from then on it's an ongoing thing."

Joan Grindel, Farmington mother of two, made sure the women knew about the new Womancenter.

"It's a place where women can go and know they'll be met by someone who has done the same thing," she said.

Possibly the best reassurance on the program for prospective students was Martha LaPonza, who took a library technology program on the Orchard Ridge campus and now works in library processing on one of the other OCC campuses.

"I am one of those people who came to learn and stayed to work," she told the women.

"I grew up in the shadow of a scholarly sister. I learned to love libraries — carrying books for her. I guess — but I was told I was not college material. And being a child of the depression era, too. I had a horror of the cost of a college education.

"Then came a college that is for me. It came at the right time. Now, while I'm alive. People would say, 'By the time you finish, you'll be so-and-so many years old.' I said, 'If I don't take these classes, I'll still be that many years old.'"

"You take some tests, complete some work, you must ultimately come to the reality that you are capable."

"And you take a program, not really knowing what to expect. Then a door opens, and there may be many more doors opening beyond it."

Mrs. Grindel, who chaired the gathering that brought administrators before the visitors, related a similar experience.

She said her family had moved to Farmington from Buck's County, Pa., and she was considering college work though it had been more than 20 years since she graduated from high school.

"I don't know how many times I drove by the campus before I worked up the courage to go in," she said.

"The day I finally made that turn I found it was the final day of registration. By the time I got home I was signed up for two courses and had a stack of books."

"I was high in the sky and haven't really come down since."

That was last term, and she is taking another course this semester. At first the idea was just to go to school; now she's thinking about a degree, possibly in history.

She also is giving a lot of

"You won't write about graduations next year because mine will be the second in the family."

The words were from our No. 2 daughter after I had filled this space just a year ago with mention of her sister's high school graduation.

And they just show how wrong even a wise graduate can be:

I just couldn't miss commenting on her enjoyment of her senior year and many friends, of her fun with all the commencement festivities or of our pride in her accomplishments.

Besides, her father and I definitely are enjoying the two-down-and-two-to-go feeling.

But I am going to make her share the spotlight just a bit. —You see, we have another graduate in the family. No, two more.

Her youngest sister is finishing sixth grade and considers that quite a milestone.

And I must say I do too, because it means that after 14 years I'm graduating from elementary school.

So again this year, a mother's congratulations to the graduates — all graduates.

And I'll join them in using the words I've seen in so many yearbook messages: "Never thought we'd make it!"

—Margaret Miller

Group Will Attend Races

The City of Hope Cancer Fighters are holding a "Night at the Races" Wednesday, July 11, at Northville Downs.

Class Reunion

For '68 Grads

The Garden City West High School class of 1968 will hold a reunion at 8 p.m., Saturday, June 30, in the Hampton House Apartments recreation hall, Ecorse west of Merriam, Romulus.

For $7.50 per person, guests will be admitted to the racetrack and clubhouse, and will be given a race program and a buffet dinner.

There will be a special race named for the Cancer Fighters and a few of the members will appear in the winners' circle after the event.

There is no admission charge. Members of the Garden City class are asked to notify Mrs. Carol (Nutt) Kolasinski, of 653 Parent, Westland, if they plan to attend.

Dinner will begin promptly at 7:30 and the first race is scheduled for 8:30.

Reservations must be made with Mrs. Alvin Iwrey, 5170 W. Bloomfield Lake Road, W. Bloomfield, 48033.

Injury Can't Stop Angie

By KATHY MORAN

Plymouth's Angie Corrieri won't let being confined to a wheelchair handicap her.

The energetic 22-year-old participated in high school sports before a tragic automobile accident 1½ years ago put her in a wheelchair.

She enjoyed sports before the accident and intends to continue that interest.

The perky brunette started competing in wheelchair events just a few months ago, and already she's on her way to New York for the National Wheelchair Track and Field Tournaments.

For the trip, she hopes to find a sponsor willing to cover the cost of her plane fare to New York. Anyone interested may call the Observing Life department at the Observer Newspapers, Inc.

Miss Corrieri competed recently in the Michigan tournament taking a first place in table tennis, second in shotput and thirds in billiards, javelin and discus.

In a separate event held for women, she was first runner-up for the "Ms. Wheelchair Michigan of 1973" title.

The Ms. Wheelchair contest isn't a beauty pageant with a bathing suit competition, she joked. Instead, both married and single women, were judged on their poise, personality and achievement.

The competition was held simultaneously with the athletic contest so judges could see the women as they competed.

"In competition you carry yourself the way you really are," she said. "You put all of yourself into it."

The way Miss Corrieri "really" is was apparent in the event as in everything she does. As first runnerup in the Michigan contest, she is eligible for the Ms. Wheelchair America contest in Columbus, Ohio in September.

She refused to be defeated after a "terrific" weekend in Toronto turned into disaster. On her way home, a tire blew out on her Volkswagen, and the car flipped over a ditch, throwing her from it.

A vertebrae in her back was broken and a second tragedy befell her when it healed improperly and she permanently damaged her spine the first time she sat up. She had spent three months stretched flat on an "ironing board."

There came six more months in hospitals, including three in the University Hospital, Ann Arbor, after she could be moved.

While recuperating at home, she took an accelerated computer programming course and returned to work at Chevrolet in Livonia.

Instead of being depressed and bitter over the accident, she jokes and takes an optimistic outlook.

"I'm lucky I came out of it at all," she said. "It could have been worse. When you are in the hospital, you see a lot of people who are worse off than you."

That's why she made a point of becoming active in

DURING THE WEEK, Angie Corrieri of Plymouth is busy in the computer room at Chevrolet in Livonia. But in her free time, she participates in sports and recently has won several athletic events. She was also first runnerup in the Ms. Wheelchair Michigan contest. (Observer photo by Harry Mauthe)

Registration Open For YW Program

Registrations for summer program for men, women and children are now being taken at Northwest Branch YWCA, 25940 Grand River.

The program begins the week of June 25 and includes a variety of subjects to suit summertime interests.

The summer recreation program for boys and girls from six thru 12 years is scheduled to meet from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m., two days a week and alternate Fridays. This term runs from June 25 through Aug. 17 and includes games, sports, crafts, and dips in the pool.

Classes for youth include ballet from three years thru high school, teen art, guitar, sewing, mother-tot gym, pre-school art, and driver's training and swimming classes at all skill levels.

Adult women will have the opportunity of joining ladies day camp again this summer. It will meet for five sessions Wednesday mornings from 9:30 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Designed as a "something special for Mom," the activities include physical fitness, crafts, aqua gym, volleyball, a dip in the pool, recreational bridge and a daily discussion group.

Women can choose each Wednesday which activities fit their mood for the day. A pre-school nursery is available. Evening classes for women includes Bishop sewing, physical fitness and ballet.

Classes for men and women will be offered in volleyball, golf, tennis, duplicate bridge, advanced ballroom dance-Silver Style, latin dance, aircraft ground school, classical folk guitar, folk style guitar, yoga and driver's education.

Swimming classes for all age groups are offered and there are recreation swim periods open to men, women and children daily.

For class schedules call Northwest Branch YWCA.

Pre-Schoolers' Day Camp Planned By Adas Shalom

A nursery school moves outdoors and becomes a pre-school day camp in an unusual program at Adas Shalom Synagogue this summer.

"It's going to be lots of fun and games," said nursery school director Gerri Berkal of the six-week program that will begin July 9 at the synagogue complex located at 13 Mile and Middle Belt.

It will be the second year for the summer version of the Adas Shalom pre-school education program.

Wendy Freedman and Deborah Rappaport, both teachers in the nursery during the regular school year, will direct activities in the two three-week sessions.

Emphasis will be on outdoor play on the climbing equipment and wading pool in the playground and nature exploration in the woods and pond on the synagogue property.

"We may even send home a fish in a plastic bag," Mrs. Berkal warned parents of prospective students.

The day camp, she said, will be limited to about 40 children, making it considerably smaller than the fast-growing nursery school at the synagogue.

That started in September 1970 when the synagogue first moved from its Detroit

CRAFT WORK as well as outdoor play will be part of the program for a pre-school day camp to be sponsored by Adas Shalom synagogue in Farmington for six weeks beginning July 9. Deborah Rappaport, one of the day camp directors, helps Jennifer Ohi cut some tissue-paper flowers. (Evert photo)

The day camp will operate five days a week with the children bringing sack lunches.

A number of trips to such spots as the Fisher Theater in Detroit and museums have been planned, Mrs. Berkal said, "to give the children some outlook beyond suburbia."

The cost is $75 for each three-week session. Transportation can be provided for an extra $35 per session. Registration information is available by calling Adas Shalom Nursery School, 29700 W. 13 Mile, Farmington

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Morse of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, formerly of Southfield, announce the engagement of their daughter, Melinda Anne, to Sgt. Richard William Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thornton of Parker Avenue, Farmington. The bride-elect is a student in the Cuyahoga Falls School of Practical Nursing. Her fiancé is a 1970 graduate of Clarenceville High School and serving with the U.S. Air Force at Pease AFB, Portsmouth, H.H. They plan to be married Sept. 22.

Providence Nurse League President

Agnes McMenemy, director of the Providence Hospital School of Nursing, 16001 W. Nine Mile, Southfield, is the newly-elected president of the Michigan League of Nursing.

She will serve as president until 1975. A graduate of Providence, Miss McMenemy earned bachelor of science and master of education degrees at the University of Detroit. She has been director of the Providence School since 1969.

The league, which is part of the National League for Nursing, is a community and consumer oriented association of individuals and institutions committed to the improvement of nursing and health services.

Membership includes nurses and others engaged in health professions such as physicians, educators and administrators, as well as civic leaders and community planners. Agency membership is open to hospitals, nursing homes, health facilities and other organizations.

Miss McMenemy is a member of the National League for Nursing's Advisory Committee for Study of an Open Curriculum; vice-president of the Oakland County District Nurses Association; chairman of the Michigan Heart Association's Professional Nurse Committee; and serves on the Comprehensive Health Planning Council for Southeastern Michigan and the Committee on Health Planning Facilities.

Chapter Plans Tea June 14

Mrs. James Eastin of Royal Oak will be honored at a tea from 1 to 3 p.m., Thursday, June 14, in the home of Mrs. James E. Smyles, 7115 Old Mill Road, Birmingham. Mrs. Eastin is the newly-elected State Regent of Michigan, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Paul Fairbrother is chairman of the tea, which is being given by Three Flags Chapter, DAR. Mrs. Eastin is a member of the chapter.

The guest list will include honorary state regents, the state board and the state chairmen, as well as all metropolitan Detroit regents.

Mrs. Eastin attended Eastern Michigan and Wayne State Universities. She became a member of the DAR in 1953. She is also an active member of the Southfield United Presbyterian Church and is business manager of Eastin's, Inc., of Royal Oak.

BAA Begins Fundraising

The Bloomfield Art Assn. has launched its annual fundraising drive to support its art gallery and art school.

Contributors to the fundraising attempt, called "Non-Affair" will be sent a copy of the group's "Gold Book" which contains names of donors, a glossary of art terms and quotations from leading Michigan artists. Contributions can be sent to the association at 1516 S. Cranbrook Rd., Birmingham.

Home Is In Ann Arbor Westland Couple

Married June 9

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Paul Thomas Fitzharris are making their home in Ann Arbor following their recent marriage in St. John The Baptist Catholic Church in Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Fitzharris is the former Laureen Pitricelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Pitricelli of MacKenzie Avenue, Westland. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Burleson Fitzharris of Ypsilanti.

The Rev. William King officiated for their early evening wedding, and the bride's parents gave her in marriage.

Daisy-appliqued organza fashioned the bride's gown. It featured a high Victorian neckline, long sleeves and detachable train. A cap appliqued with pearls held her veil, and she carried yellow and white daisies with dried baby's breath.

Her attendants wore flowered organza dresses with underlinings in varied pastels. Their headpieces were halos of dried flowers and they carried baskets of dried flowers.

Mrs. Donna Maloney of Plymouth was matron of honor for her sister. The underlining of her dress was lavender.

Susan Pitricelli of Dearborn, wearing blue, and Janey Mok of Ypsilanti, wearing mint green, were bridesmaids. Flower girl Leah Michelle Maloney of Plymouth wore a dress with a pink underlining.

Tim Patrick of Ann Arbor was best man. The ushers were Thomas Manchester of Ypsilanti, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Michael Helle of Ann Arbor. Michael Manchester of Ypsilanti was junior usher and his brother Steven was ring-bearer.

Mrs. Pitricelli wore a black and white print dress for the wedding and church hall reception. Mrs. Fitz-

The new Mrs. Fitzharris, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, is teaching home economics in the Garden City school district. Her husband is a junior in the University of Michigan dental school.

Angie

sports shortly after returning to work.

She took a first place in table tennis at the United States Table Tennis Association's tournament this spring and then competed in the Michigan athletic events.

Her energetic outlook is reflected in her enthusiasm for her new job and her determination to "preserve my independence."

She recently moved to Plymouth after her long recuperation at her parents' home in Livonia.

She drives a customized car, and tackles her own shopping at the large centers and grocery stores without difficulty. The problems enter when she can't get her wheelchair up steep curbs or steps near individual stores, post offices and laundromats. Chevrolet made special provisions to get her past a steep set of stairs so she could go to work in the computer room.

"In order to take me back, they had to overcome stairs for me," she said, pointing to an electric device which the company installed to transport her up and down a steep flight of stairs.

The company also purchased a wheelchair for her use so she can leave her own at the top of the stairs and use the company's while working.

"They've been just wonderful," she said.

A native of Italy, Miss Corrieri graduated from Rosary High School in Detroit in 1969. She participated in field hockey, basketball and baseball.

She'll keep competing in wheelchair events and may return from New York next week with more trophies and ribbons.

Sandra Lee Zentz became the bride of Joner A. Webb in an early evening ceremony Saturday, June 9, in the First United Methodist Church of Garden City.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Zentz of Windsor Avenue, Westland, are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Joner Webb of Westland.

The Rev. Glenn Kjellberg officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Frank Knowlton, taking the place of her ill father.

She wore a white empire dress made by her aunt, Geneva Longaway of Livonia. It featured a lace bodice and lace appliques on the long skirt with full train. Her veil was fingertip length, and she carried white orchids.

Mrs. Longaway also made the blue flower print dresses worn by the bridal attendants.

Shila L. Strong of Wayne was matron of honor for her sister, Mona L. Zentz, another sister, and three cousins, Sally Longaway of Livonia and Joelynn and Judith Green of Warren, were bridesmaids.

All carried blue-tipped white carnations.

Jennifer Green of Redford Township was flower girl and wore a long, pale blue dress.

Assisting the bridegroom were Bruce Smith of Garden City as best man and Jim Stein and Gregg Oliver of Garden City and Chet Zentz of Westland as ushers. Rodney Fatro of Detroit was ring-bearer.

The bride's mother wore a long orchid dress for the ceremony and Karas House reception.

The couple will honeymoon on Mackinac Island and live in Westland. The bride is a student at Garden City East High School and the bridegroom, a 1969 Garden City East graduate, is employed by Federal Pipe and Steel.

Thompsons Celebrate

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thompson of Livonia, were guests of honor at a surprise silver wedding anniversary party June 7.

The party was hosted by Mrs. Thompson's sister, Mrs. Jack Coultis of Southfield, and by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson's children, Robert, Deborah and Eric. A buffet supper was served in the Thompson's home on Foch Street.

The couple met at Pompano Beach, Fla., and were married in Des Moines, Iowa, on June 3, 1948.

Protection For Women Class Offered

A short course designed for women, from teenagers to senior citizens, called "Self Protection For Women" will be sponsored by the Oakland Branch of the YWCA.

The classes will be held on four consecutive Mondays beginning June 25. Each class will start at 7:30 p.m. The fee is $1.

Outlining common precautions to ward off unprovoked assault will be Shirley Stachura, of the Oakland University Dept. of Public Safety; Alice Sanders, executive director of Motoreess Aid; and Bob Spensor of the Royal Oak Police Dept.

Registrations will be taken by phone at the Y, located at 839 S. Crooks Rd., Clawson.

French Visitors Need Hosts

A Plymouth teacher who five years ago enlisted the aid of this newspaper and created instant homes for visiting French students now is seeking to do it again.

This time John R. Hopkins of the Plymouth Salem High School French department has a little more time and organization to help him.

But he still needs about 30 families in this area that would like to play host to a visitor from France from July 15 to Aug. 14.

The students -- of high school and junior high age -- are coming to this country under sponsorship of the International Cultural Exchange, an organization based in Ann Arbor.

So far the families of nine Plymouth - Salem students have said they will accept one of the visitors into their homes.

Hopkins will be in his offices in the school this week and would like to have calls from others who would like to do likewise.

"The French visitor would be accepted as a regular, functioning member of the family," he said, "and would not be considered as a guest to be entertained and catered to."

Hopkins said the International Cultural Exchange had asked him this summer to participate in its program that will bring some 500 French teens to this country for a summer visit.

He added that he had met many staff members from the organization and was impressed by their goals.

His situation was a bit more casual five years ago when he located homes for visitors to Observerland on very short notice.

At that time he was reminded abruptly of an off-hand conversation he had had with a French sister-in-law about wouldn't it be nice if some exchange student visits could be arranged.

A letter from France arrived unexpectedly saying that a group of students would be arriving in a couple of weeks.

That was when Hopkins came to the Observer offices to ask for some assistance. A story was published the following Wednesday. And as Hopkins remembers it, "we were literally swamped with calls which far exceeded our needs."

The program was not extended beyond that year, the teacher said.

"But the results of that program are still very much alive," he added. "Letters still are being exchanged by families who opened their homes to these French teen-agers."

JULIE HONE and Lori Hallauer, Plymouth-Salem High School students, point on a map to the homes of the exchange students from France who will visit their families this spring. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

In the program sponsored by the International Cultural Exchange (ICX), the students visiting all know some English.

An ICX brochure states: "This is a unique opportunity for families and students to enjoy the benefits and rewards of exchange student experiences on a short-term basis. No school would be involved. Students would live with American families and take part in family and community life as is experienced in the U.S. during summer months."

The summer students range in age from 13 to 18, and all have been selected after written application and personal interviews. Host families will be provided a picture and biographical information about the student.

Teachers from France will accompany them to this area and will live in the area when they stay to provide a close-at-hand contact person should the need arise.

GC Valedictorian Finished MSU In Busy Whirl

The 1969 valedictorian of Garden City East High School finished her four years at Michigan State University with more academic honors and a wedding.

Barbara Pobanz attended the MSU Lyman Briggs Honors College for four years, compiling an outstanding scholastic record as a mathematics major.

But her last week as an MSU student was busier than that of most coeds.

On Tuesday, June 2, she became the bride of Robert Davis, another honor student whose home is in St. Paul, Minn.

The following day, she was honored by the Mortarboard Society as one of the 50 top women students at the university.

And Sunday, June 10, she received a bachelor degree in math -- with high honors, naturally.

Mrs. Davis was a tutorial student for three of her four years in the Lyman Briggs college. She also was the only student on the Lyman Briggs provost study committee and one of two students on the committee charged with selecting a new dean for the college.

She was named to two honorary academic societies, Alpha Lambda Delta and Pi Mu Epsilon.

Her husband is one of 30 persons in the country to be named to a National Science Foundation fellow.

The couple will begin work at Purdue University immediately. Mrs. Davis will be a statistician analyst and her husband a member of the chemistry faculty.

Deb Parties Lead To Fall Cotillion

A round of parties for 16 young debutantes got under way in May when the deb and their mothers met for an introductory tea.

A get-acquainted party for the girls and their escorts follows in June and from there a series of social events will continue leading up to the November cotillion.

It will be the seventh annual cotillion sponsored by the Detroit Women's Chapter of the Armenian General Benevolent Union (AGBU) to be held at the Armenian Cultural Hall in Southfield.

The AGBU is an international philanthropic organization designed to assist needy Armenians throughout the world.

Alex Manoogian, of Detroit, after serving as president of the organization for 20 years, was elected "lifetime president" of the international organization.

Mrs. George Laktzian, of 22305 La Seine, Southfield, is general chairman of this year's activities for the debutantes. Another Southfield woman on this year's committee is Mrs. Mihran Hopamagian, of 17381 Magnolia. Committee members from Farmington are Mrs. Harry Barsamian, of 25327 Chapelwood Dr.; Margaret Derderian, of 25460 Ridgewood Dr.; and Mary Ann Karakashian, of 32547 Chesterbrook.

Making their bows to society at the cotillion will be Karen Ann Dakhlian, Barbara Cherly Danielian, Lori DerPilbosian, Susan Gononjian, Arlene Janjikian, Lynn Javizian, Lisa Keramedjian, Mida Korkigian, Rose Krikorian, Lisa Mekjian, Nancy Mikaelian, Kim Minasian, Karen Mooradian, Carol Ann Nazarian, Norene Sourenian and Jeannette Tarpinian.

Mrs. Price Junior Woman's Club Wins 12 State Awards

Newly-elected officers of the Rosedale Gardens Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, were installed at the club's last meeting, June 12.

Mrs. Oscar Price is the president; Mrs. Arthur Jerolamon, first vice president; Mrs. George Schultz, second vice president; Mrs. Phil Dupuis, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Tepley, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. James Lynch, treasurer.

Mrs. Leslie Daniel was in charge of the installation ceremony, which followed a picnic lunch at the home of Mrs. Jerolamon.

The Western Suburban Junior Woman's Club has 12 awards from the Michigan State Federation of Woman's Clubs.

The awards were presented recently at the state convention in Lansing, attended by 14 members of the junior organization.

Included was the MSFWC home life award and one given because the club had the state's largest per capita donation to the Girlstown general fund.

The junior club also won an award from the National Association for Retarded

A play given for children in the Plymouth State Home and Training School took a one-act skit award.

The club was commended for raising funds for the National Kidney Foundation and for helping girls at Girlstown choose a painting for their home, as well as for donating money for a well to Michigan Indians.

Participation in the MSFWC civic improvement program, an increase in membership, donations to the federation art and nursing scholarships and submitting entries in all award categories won other awards.

Mrs. Donald Baxter of Northville, last year's president, and Mrs. Ken Zeckman of Plymouth, newly-installed president, were among the junior club members who attended the federation's 78th annual convention.

Others were Mrs. James Dunn, Mrs. Ron Kelly, Mrs. Thomas Trexler, Mrs. Robert Kennedy, Mrs. Benton Lindamood, Mrs. Gerald Musch, Mrs. Richard Kirchoff and Mrs. Edgar Kleinsmith of Plymouth, Mrs. Paul Camarote of Livonia, Mrs. Walt Nelson of Westland and Mrs. Dale Starr of Northville.

Mrs. Zeckman and other officers for the coming year were installed during a recent dinner meeting by Mrs. Bruce Van Deusen, state junior director.

Farmington Pair Celebrates 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Resetar of Farmington were driven to their 50th wedding anniversary party in a Packard just seven years younger than their marriage.

MR. AND MRS. JULIUS RESETAR

The car, the property of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scheer of Farmington took the Resetars to the VFW Hall June 9 for an evening of Hungarian food and dancing to Ziggy Bella's Hungarian orchestra. Some 200 guests were on hand to celebrate with the couple, married June 12, 1923, in Holy Cross Church in Detroit.

Mrs. Resetar was born in Hungary and her husband in Ohio. They have six children, three born in Michigan and three in Louisiana. There are 17 grandchildren.

In their Farmington home, the two keep busy raising a garden. Mr. Resetar plays the violin and enjoys jam sessions with his grandchildren.

Freeze A Tasty Ice Cream Treat

By ELLY

The real fun of homemade ice cream is in the making.

Once you've mastered creamy vanilla you can go on to maple nut and strawberry vanilla. Then on to the ultimate, tutti-frutti.

It's easy to create a delicious variety of wholesome ice cream ventures by imaginatively combining the freshest of nature's ingredients with the basic vanilla recipe.

CREAMY VANILLA ICE CREAM

1 1/4 c. sugar
3 c. milk
2 T. vanilla extract
3 c. whipping cream

In a large mixing bowl beat eggs until foamy. Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Blend in milk, vanilla and salt. Chill. In a large mixing bowl lightly whip cream to soft stage; fold into chilled mixture. Churn - freeze, using slightly higher percentage of salt to ice than recommended for freezing other ice cream mixtures. Yield: approximately three quarts.

VARIATION: Strawberry

Swirl

After freezing, transfer ice cream to plastic freezer container, alternating layers of ice cream with raspberry preserves (1 cup). Swirl each layer with spatula for marbled effect. Place in freezer to ripen. Other preserves may be substituted for the strawberry if desired.

STRAWBERRY-BANANA ICE CREAM

2 1/2 c. crushed strawberries (about 2 pt.)

1 c. pureed ripe bananas

2 eggs

1 1/4 c. sugar

3 c. milk

3 c. whipping cream

1 T. fresh lemon juice

1 1/4 t. salt

Sweeten berries to taste.

Combine banana puree and lemon juice. In a large mixing bowl beat eggs until foamy. Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Add milk, cream, vanilla and salt. Blend in strawberries and banana. Chill. Churn freeze. Yields one gallon.

MAPLE NUT ICE CREAM

3 egg yolks

1 c. maple syrup or maple blended syrup

1/2 c. firmly packed brown sugar

3 c. milk

3 c. whipping cream

1/2 t. maple flavoring

1/4 t. salt

3 egg whites

1 1/2 c. chopped walnuts

TUTTI-FRUTTI

3 eggs

1 1/4 c. sugar

3 c. milk

3 c. whipping cream

1 T. vanilla extract

1/4 t. salt

2 oranges sectioned and cut into small pieces

1/2 c. golden seedless raisins, soaked in rum overnight

1/2 c. chopped marachino cherries

1/2 c. chopped slivered almonds, toasted

In a large mixing bowl beat eggs until foamy. Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Add milk, cream, vanilla and salt; mix thoroughly. Drain excess liquid from orange pieces and from raisins; add to mixture. Stir in cherries and almonds. Chill. Churn-freeze. Before ripening, scrape dasher well and stir ice cream with a wooden spoon to evenly distribute solid ingredients. Yields approximately one gallon.

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB SAUCE

1 c. fresh rhubarb, 1/2-inch pieces

1/2 c. sliced fresh strawberries

1/3 c. sugar

Red food color

In one-quart saucepan combine rhubarb and one cup strawberries; add sugar and boil for five minutes. Remove from heat. Add remaining strawberries. Add red food color a few drops at a time until desired color. Chill. Yield: approximately 1 1/4 cups.

HONEY BUTTER SAUCE

1/2 c. (one stick) butter

1/8 t. cinnamon

3/4 c. honey

Dash of salt

1/2 c. whipping cream

1 t. orange extract (optional)

In one-quart saucepan melt butter with cinnamon. Remove from heat. Blend in honey and salt. Stir in whipping cream until smooth. Add orange extract. Serve warm over ice cream. Yield: 3/4 cups.

COFFEE-BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

1 c. firmly packed brown sugar

1/4 c. light corn syrup

1/4 c. butter

1/2 c. light cream or half and half

1 T. vanilla extract

In one-quart saucepan combine sugar, corn syrup, butter, cream and coffee. Boil two minutes, stirring constantly. Serve warm over ice cream. Yield: 1 1/2 cups.

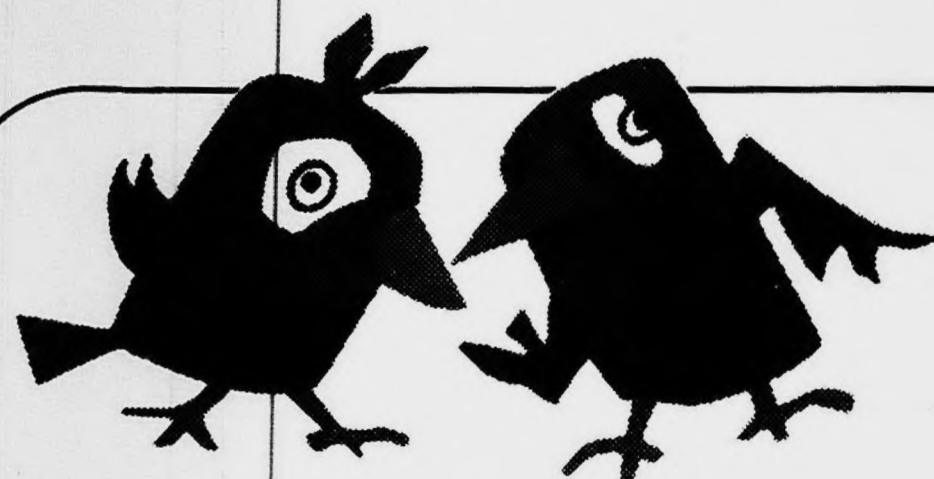

VARIATION: Praline Sauce

After sauce has cooked add 1/2 cup broken pecans.

FREEZERS ARE MADE of different materials, and this can make a difference in the ice/salt ratio. Follow the instructions that accompanied your freezer.

Fish Plentiful But Stunted

There were plenty of fish but not much size to them at the annual Tom Sawyer-Becky Thatcher fishing derby on Newburgh Lake in Livonia.

Altogether, 216 youngsters in the 6-16 age bracket caught more than 2,000 fish, and 68 of them caught the limit of 25 panfish.

But when the biggest crappie caught is hardly more than seven inches and the largest bass less than nine -- well, there's reason to suspect the warm lake is overpopulated with stunted fish.

Tim Chan, 13, of Livonia, was grand prize winner with a 9½ inch, 15 oz. goldfish. He won a two-man raft with oars and cushions, a rod, a reel and a set of lures.

Among the 68 who caught their numerical limit, grand prize winner was Chris Eichsteadt, 11, of Westland, who received a rod, reel and set of lures. The other 67 also received prizes.

The boy who dressed most like Tom Sawyer was Kenny Gartner, 7, of Livonia, who won a rod, reel, seal of the State of Michigan and cutting board.

Most authentic Becky Thatcher was Diane Rago, 7, of Garden City. She won a brass lamp, state seal, cutting board and knitting set for dolls.

First prize winners in various species of fish and their prizes were:

Bullhead-John Plomer, 14, Redford-ski belt, two rope and face masks.

Bluegill-Julie Cini, 8, Livonia-tackle box and equipment.

Sunfish-Rick Cassidy, 14, Westland-one-man inflated boat, oars and life preservers.

Black bass-Mike Shanks, 15, Livonia-rod, reel and set of lures.

Crappie-Ed Wickman, 15, Livonia-unicycle.

TIM CHAN, 13, of Livonia, produced the largest fish of the derby--a goldfish that measured just under 10 inches and weighed 15 ounces. (Observer photo)

DIANE RAGO, 7, of Garden City, was loaded down with prizes for being the girl dressed most like storybook character Becky Thatcher.

Senior Citizen Planning Gets County Help

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has authorized negotiation of a contract with Citizens for Better Care (CBC) to assist in developing a strategy for handling senior citizens' problems.

CBC would work under the proposed county commission on aging.

The concept of a commission on aging was approved by the commissioners in January, and is being structured to concentrate on solving the unique problems of the elderly.

Citizens for Better Care is a respected non-profit corporation originally formed to oversee improvement of nursing homes and homes for the aged.

Last year CBC was chosen by the National Council of Senior Citizens to operate a nursing home ombudsman project in the tri-county area.

The commissioners approved a maximum expenditure of $15,000 of county cash to cover part of the cost for CBC services. Total cost of the project is $145,000.

Pay Deal Ends Jail Threat

The legal battle which led to contempt - of - court jail sentences for 20 Wayne County commissioners apparently is over, following approval of a compromise settlement by the Board of Commissioners.

The board last week approved an agreement covering probation officers at Wayne Circuit Court and Detroit Recorder's Court and caseworkers and counselors at Juvenile Court.

The board last week approved an agreement covering probation officers at Wayne Circuit Court and Detroit Recorder's Court and caseworkers and counselors at Juvenile Court.

Henry J. Mueller, head of the local union representing some 200 court workers covered by the agreement, said the union would drop its court case as part of the settlement.

Mueller is president of Local 1905 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

Twenty county commissioners were given indefinite jail sentences by the presiding judge of Circuit Court last March 8 after defying a union - sought court order that they approve contracts negotiated between Local 1905 and Circuit and Recorder's courts.

The jail sentences were stayed indefinitely after the Michigan Supreme Court agreed to consider an appeal on behalf of the commissioners.

Commissioners opposing the contracts charged that the courts usurped the legislative function in negotiating the pacts. Some also charged that the contracts, which provided 5.5 per cent pay raises, were too generous.

The board of commissioners approved four per cent pay hikes for the probation officers and invited the union to negotiate from there with the County County Labor Relations Board, an arm of the county board.

The compromise contracts provide five per cent annual increases, retroactive to July 1, 1971, the effective date of four per cent pay hikes negotiated with other county employees. But the court employees receive three fewer paid holidays than others and no cash payment for overtime under the agreement.

The court workers are "slotted in" at their present pay levels rather than at their present potential maximum salaries, as would have been the case under the court - negotiated pacts.

In addition, the agreement calls for "progression based on merit review rather than on seniority alone," as would have been the case otherwise.

The board of commissioners approved the agreement unanimously.

"We believe this agreement is equitable to all parties - the county, the employees and taxpayers," County Commissioner Huey A. Ferguson, chairman of the labor Relations Board, stated afterward.

"This also establishes a negotiating procedure which, we believe, will avoid a recurrence of this unfortunate conflict in the future."

Court representatives participated in the negotiations.

The salary agreements with Local 1905 run through this June 30, the expiration date of the master contract covering other AFSCME employees. Bargaining on a new master pact is under way.

Grads Face 'Intellectual Industries'

The 1973 college graduates will enter a quickly changing business world which is being paced by the emerging "intellectual industries."

Graduates finding jobs will note that rapid change of pace and can discover the direction of change by watching closely the intellectual industries.

That was the advice given by Ray W. Macdonald, president of the Burroughs Corp., to the 480 graduates of Lawrence Institute of Technology in Southfield.

Macdonald was the speaker for the 41st annual commencement at LIT on June 3. Besides addressing the graduating class (list of local graduates has been published by Observer Newspapers, Inc.), Macdonald also received an honorary doctor of science degree in industrial management.

An honorary doctor of engineering degree also was presented to Professor Hans Erneman who has retired as director of the school of engineering at LIT.

Macdonald defined "intellectual industries" as those which are characterized by invention and discovery, and by rapid application of those discoveries to new products.

As an information processing industry, Macdonald commented, Burroughs is a classic example but others include aerospace, electronic components, electronic entertainment, communications, and the emerging marine sciences.

Any graduate, whether he enter business, industry, or a profession, cannot avoid being influenced by these intellectual industries, he added.

The major shift in industry was prompted by invention of the electronic computer at the University of Pennsylvania at the end of World War II, Macdonald noted.

The years since WWII can be divided into three phases, each considerably shorter than the previous one.

With 1945 as a base year, the 15 years to 1960 represent a period of research and development in electronics and applications in the information processing industry.

During this period, early computers began to emerge but the dominant products continued to be traditional mechanical products such as accounting machines, punched card and tabulating equipment.

From 1960-70, electronic products emerged as major products increasingly displacing traditional mechanical machines. The two lines of products which developed were the new all-electronic equipment, and mechanical products with electronic modifications.

The third, and current period, sees almost all of the products being basically electronic. Although some still have mechanical functional parts, the heart of the product is electronic.

electronics plants were built and existing plants converted to the manufacture of electronic products.

The increasing rate of technical innovation accelerated rapidly, thereby shortening active product life cycles from 40 years, down to 20 years, to today's three to five years.

With the transition to electronics and shorter product cycles came profound changes in the profile of the manufacturing force. From a ratio of about nine to one five years ago it was only one organization.

Opportunities provided because of these changes, Macdonald noted, include: more rapid advancement of management personnel; closer association between plant management and production employees; and greater involvement of plant managers in research and development and in knowledge of the marketplace.

"Whereas, at one time, product innovations emanated from highly centralized research organizations, today product design ideas are developed at the plant level."

Macdonald also noted that Burroughs' sales force in the U.S. is recruited from college graduates, with 24 per cent having master's degrees. In Belgium, he added, 100 per cent of the sales force has master's degrees.

"Today, 64 per cent of all our employees, including manufacturing personnel, have the equivalent of an associate or higher degree. Among the 1,100 employees we added last year, 94.6 per cent had bachelor's degrees and 22 per cent had advanced degrees.

"We have truly moved from an industrial, labor-intensive type of business to an intellectual business."

"Intellectual industries are playing an important role by providing a source of stimulating and challenging jobs for these highly motivated, bright young people, and the number of opportunities within these intellectual industries will continue to increase."

Macdonald concluded by saying: "I submit that the true impact of the intellectual industries... is that they are setting the pace for this change and are pointing the direction that other industries will follow."

Regional Affairs

significantly the manufacturing structure and sales procedure, Macdonald stressed.

During the traditional era, products were made extensively of metal and required a great deal of fabrication and assembly work with more than 90 per cent of the components for a plant's unique product produced under one roof. The individual plant would be responsible for every step in the production process.

The traditional products had a long production life expectancy. "It wasn't unusual for a plant employee to spend his entire job lifetime of 40 years or more working on the same basic product or, at the most, two or three very similar products."

The manufacturing structure consisted of large plant organizations with high ratios of semi-skilled workers, usually 85 per cent semi-skilled and 15 per cent skilled workers such as toolmakers, management and engineers.

During the 1960s, Macdonald continued, specialized semi-skilled and skilled workers versus engineering and management personnel, we now have a ratio of about three to one."

At Burroughs, Macdonald continued, the most sophisticated electro-mechanical accounting machine of the 1950s had 12,500 parts, most made in one factor. The current Burroughs mini-computer has fewer than 3,000 parts which are now produced in specialized "feeder" plants.

"Thus, our industry's manufacturing organization has changed from one of high labor intensity to one of even higher design engineering and research intensity."

As an example, Macdonald pointed to Burroughs' Micro-Components Organization in Rancho Bernardo, Calif., which has an employment ratio of about two production employees to one employee engaged in engineering, research or management.

He noted that the Plymouth plant operations are being reorganized to accommodate three distinct largely electronic product-line programs, where

Great Scott Adds Outlet

Continuing a record-breaking expansion program, Great Scott Supermarkets, Inc. opened its 48th modern supermarket in Livonia. It was the second new store opening in less than 30 days.

These openings are part of a constant growth program which has contributed in making Great Scott the No. 1 publicly held food chain in the nation in sales per square foot, and fourth in the nation in average weekly sales per store, stated Nathan Fink, president and board chairman.

Located in Newburgh Plaza at 3739 W. Six Mile and Newburgh Road, the supermarket covers 29,500 square feet, maintains 10 checkout counters and has parking available for 800 cars.

"We are gratified that the Great Scott name and merchandising philosophy of passing savings on to the consumer already is well known in the Livonia area, a fact which should accelerate and expand future growth in this area," announced Fink.

Additional new store openings are scheduled for Lapeer, Rochester, Utica and Southfield in 1973.

During opening ceremonies, Fink announced, "We have designed our new outlet to provide the Livonia housewife with a one-stop shopping experience. Here she may shop in climate-controlled temperatures year 'round for any item the average household may need."

"It is also significant," Fink concluded, "that we have created 100 new jobs in this fast growing suburb."

Ways to save on your energy costs

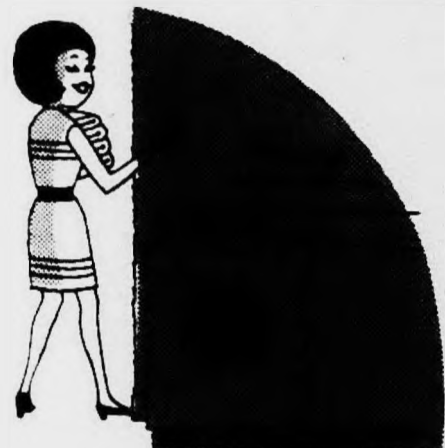

CHECK INSULATION

For comfort and economy, install at least 6 to 8 inches of high quality insulation in your ceilings. Weather-strip and caulk doors and windows. One of the biggest wastes of energy (and costliest for you) is the loss of heated or cooled air through wall, ceilings and floors.

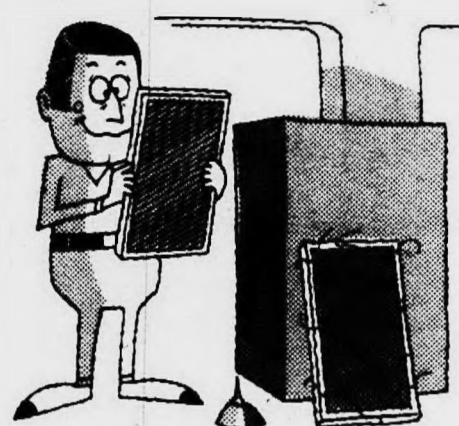

SET AND FORGET YOUR THERMOSTAT

Find a comfortable setting and leave your thermostat alone. Turning the thermostat up and down causes wear and tear on your equipment and an increased use of energy.

PUT FULL LOADS IN YOUR DRYER

Save time and money by waiting for a full load of clothes. Don't overdry your clothes. Make sure your dryer is well-vented to the outdoors. Cleaning the lint filter after each use assures maximum drying efficiency and cuts dryer time, too.

CLEAN FILTERS REGULARLY

Clean or replace filters in your heating and cooling equipment at least three times a year. Clogged filters overwork your heating and cooling systems. Clean filters mean cleaner air in your house.

PLAN MENUS FOR ECONOMICAL COOKING

Time your baking for multiple uses. Prepare a complete oven meal or an all-broiler meal. Bake two casseroles and freeze one. Cook food in tightly covered pan and adjust flame to fit the size of the pan.

REPAIR LEAKY HOT WATER FAUCETS

A leak of one drop per second for one year will pour over 1300 gallons of hot water down the drain. (You pay money for wasted water and energy.)

GRAND OPENING

YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO MOVE INTO AN $80,000 NEIGHBORHOOD FOR $61,450.

Come visit us this weekend and we'll show you a very expensive community. A community where a home that would right now sell for $90,000 and $100,000 the owners wanted to sell.

We'll show you a Colonial with 3,750 square feet of living space and a truly massive fieldstone fireplace priced at $82,900. And two other new models priced at $63,900 and $66,300.

We'll show you a 48-acre common with walking paths, sheltered picnic and play areas permanently set aside for your private enjoyment.

And we'll also show you our 1972 model — a 4-bedroom brick Colonial that sells for $61,450 complete with 2 1/2 baths, formal dining room, den, family room with woodburning fireplace, separate 2-car garage, concrete drive and walk-out basement.

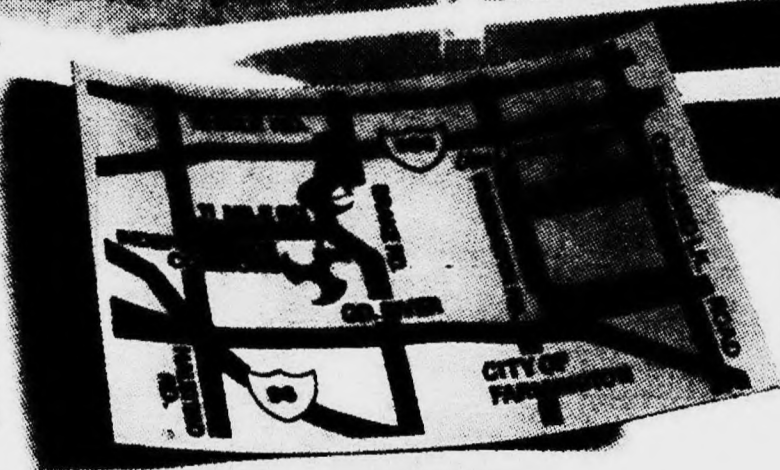

If you've been looking for a home that's well worth the investment, come see this Grand Opening this weekend and we'll show you.
