School Board To Consider Applicants For Vacant Seat

Would you like to be a member of the Plymouth school board?

Board members have agreed informally to fill the vacant seat on the board from among those school district residents who apply for it.

The seat, which was left vacant by John Graves' resignation, must be filled by Aug. 20 and the school board has called a special meeting for that night to appoint someone.

According to Supt. John M. Hoben, those interested in applying for the seat should submit letters of intent to School Board President McClendon, care of the board offices at 454 S. Harvey, no later than Aug. 13.

Hoben recommended that the letters be hand-delivered.

THE PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY ARTS COUNCIL has opened a box office for ticket sales for the coming season's series of three professional theater productions, "Untamed Land" (Oct. 13), "No Sex Please, We're British" (Nov. 11) and "The Fantasticks" (March 30). Tickets for the plays are for sale now at pre-season rates from the box office located in the portable unit behind Central School from 6 to 9 p.m. Mondays, 9 a.m. to noon Wednesdays and noon to 4 p.m. on Thursdays. Helping to decorate

by Bob Woodring)

All letters will be treated as confidential, the superintendent said.

The board has never discussed filling the vacancy at a public meeting, and the informal agreement was reached apparently at a dinner meeting held at the home of one of the board members. Not all school board members were present, and it is not known whether a vote on the matter was taken. Graves resigned the seat he had held for two years effective July 31 for "personal" reasons.

The last vacancy which the school board had to fill occurred when John Hanskat resigned just prior to the June 1972 school election.

At that time, the board voted to appoint the third-runner in the school election to the vacant seat. Carl Berry was appointed after finishing third behind Marda Benson and Gary Mirto, who won the two seats up for election.

State law requires that the board fill a vacancy but does not stipulate how it should select the appointee.

Sincock Absent: Controversial Rezoning Tabled

That was the question everyone was asking at Monday's Plymouth City Commission meeting where Sincock's vote was expected to decide a controversial rezonbe built downtown.

Sincock, on vacation on July 23 when the rest of the commission voted 3-3 on the rezoning, had discussed the issue with the Plymouth Mail & Observer Friday and indicated that he knew his vote would break the tie Monday

The rezoning proposal, put on Monday's agenda because Sincock was expected to be there and the deadlock vote could be broken by a vote of the full commission, has been tabled to a special meeting called for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the commission chambers at city hall.

When the meeting began Monday night, Mayor James McKeon said it was his understanding Sincock was going to attend.

After considering all the other items on the agenda, the commission recessed for 20 minutes while the city manager and mayor atcommissioner.

3 Districts Can Reduce Tax Rates

The state school aid bill, which caused heated controversy while in its early stage, passed the Legislature in its final form recently with unanimous support from local legislators.

The $1.24 billion appropriation gives local dis--tricts at least $38 per mill per student up to a levy of . 22 mills and gives some local districts an opportuinity to cut their millage levies.

Supporting the final version of the bill were Sens. William Faust (D-Westland), Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), David Plawecki (D-Dearborn Heights) and Daniel Cooper (D-Oak Park).

Also supporting it were Reps. John Bennett (D-Redford Township), Raymond (R-Farmington), Thomas Brown (D-Westland), William Keith (D-Garden City), John Markes (D-Westland), Raymond Smit (R-Ann Arbor) Joseph Forbes (D-Oak Park) and R. Robert Geake (R-Northville).

Three Observerland districts levy more than 30 mills for school operations and therefore are eligible for additional state funding which will allow them to cut back their millage levies.

Under the bill, the Clarenceville School District can cut its levy by .95 mills, Wayne-Westland by 1.65 mills and Redford Union by 1.4 mills.

The state will reimburse these districts for the revenue they will lose by reducing their levies.

Some educators, however, predicted that Gov. Milliken will veto Sect. 21, item 5, the provision allowing the funding increase.

"It is our understanding that the governor is almost certain to red line this item," said David · McDowell, Clarenceville school superintendent and a member of the Michigan Assn. of School Administrators legislative committee. "The guess now is I that it will be vetoed," he said.

Geake said that the bill is basically the original bill proposed in the Senate.

· Although he isn't satisfied with it. Geake said it is "the best compromise we could reach after weeks of tough negotiation."

He objected to the bill because it has a special provision for districts levying less than 22 mills which "rewards those areas which have not been adequately financing their own school districts through the proper tax in the past."

The final version cut aid to special education programs over the House version but had more than the Senate version. Geake said that "$100 million will be adequate to finance all programs we can teach with the number of students this year under the mandatory special education.

Markes said he was "pleased with the outcome of the conference committee."

He initially withheld his support from the House version "in hopes of getting an improvement for districts paying high millages" which was achieved, he Improvements in special education and academically talented program funding over last year are included in the bill he said, "making it a better package now than when the bill came from the Senate."

Markes added that the bill "isn't the answer in equity in taxation for education, there's still room for improvement."

Why Consolidation Issue Gathers Speed, Momentum

Unification of Plymouth and Plymouth Township is, if inevitable, certainly more desirable than having two separate incorporated governments.

Some form of incorporation of the township must come in light of the continued residential, commercial and industrial growth which necessitates more governmental services.

The Plymouth Township growth has been partly responsible for an exodus of some city businesses (National Bank of Detroit, AAA, the new car dealerships) and for attracting new competing businesses such as those in the shopping centers.

Where city and township residents once relied on the city for all their commerce needs, the new businesses in Plymouth Township draw residents from both areas.

Thus the growth of the township has meant an increasingly symbiotic relationship between the two governments which points to unification as the most sensible route for incorporation of the township.

Lately the topic of unification has come up for discussion for three reasons.

First, the recent attempt at unification of the City of Northville and Northville Township was watched closely because of their similarity to the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township. The Northville annexation move failed by 154 votes, but another attempt will probably be launched soon.

Second, the State Boundary Commission is holding a hearing today on a 1956 petition to annex a corridor of Plymouth Township along Plymouth Road to the city.

Third, the township board decided to put an advisory question on consolidation on the Sept. 4 special election

There is a good chance the Boundary Commission will reject the annexation petition for errors contained in its description of the area proposed to be annexed and also because it has, as a rule, turned down piecemeal annexations of that type.

If the petition is rejected, the next item relating to the Plymouth area to come before the boundary commission is the consolidation petition filed by Dr. Gary Hall in

According to the Boundary

Commission, a State Appeals Court decision in February cleared the way for it to rule on petitions before it (in order of filing) even though the longstanding Plymouth Heights incorporation attempt has not been resolved.

In effect this may mean there will be a race between consolidation Plymouth Heights move-

There is a new twist to the Plymouth Heights issue that may stall it indefinitely.

In the past, the Wayne County Elections Commission has set the date for the Plymouth Heights charter elections.

But now, says Joe Martina, Wayne County election supervisor, the responsibility lies with the State Boundary Commission.

James Hyde, executive secretary of the Boundary Commission, told The Plymouth Mail & Observer Monday that is not so. "It's our belief that (the responsibility for calling an election) goes back to the county board," he said.

This may mean until the responsibility is pinned down. there may be no Plymouth Heights charter election.

tional edge to the consolidation movement.

Certainly it gives an addi-

Consolidation is one of two types of unification.

The technical term "consolidation" is the formation of a new municipality from two or more existing governments. A new city charter is written.

Annexation is the attaching of all or part of one governmental unit (usually a township) to another (usually a city). The city's charter and officers are unchanged although its boundaries are extended. A governmental unit that is annexed completely ceases to exist.

Emphasis now seems to be placed on consolidation rather than annexation.

Annexation has been considered to be unpalatable to township residents, and it was apparently for that reason the township board used the term "consolidation" for its advisory question.

'One important question, of course, is whether city residents will accept consolidation. In light of the outdated city charter and a tax rate that has been pushing the 15 mill limit, city residents may welcome an opportunity to join with township residents in drafting a new municipal government.

But what is needed before the voters in either unit can rationally look at unification is an up-to-date study on the subject similar to the one. made in Northville. No recent study has been made in Plymouth.

At least two Plymouth Township officials - Supervisor J.D. McLaren and Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes - say that a ves vote on the consolidation advisory would lead to such a study.

Thus, the Boundary Commission's rejection of the annexation petition could bring the consolidation position up for consideration very soon perhaps later this year.

Coupled with the consolidation advisory question in the township - and a unification study that would follow if it passes -- this could all mean the long-simmering issue of unification of the Plymouth community could soon come to a head.

Wysocki said his problems began June 28 when a AAA official personally notified him that he and the company were "parting ways." An official notification followed in a letter postmarked July 9.

The official said Wysocki had failed to answer two referrals the week of June 19 and the company was giving the contract to a gas station which offered 24 hour service. The official letter doesn't state the reasons for cancellation, said Wysocki's attorney, Thomas Healy.

Wysocki claims the referrals came after a storm knocked out his telephone service. He said he also had à night driver employed until 2 a.m. and calls after that time came directly to his home and were "always answered."

Dr. Denniston said he has devised a program for matching former patients with proper community facilities. He said mental health officials are impressed with a program in Illinois where a private contractor has constructed facilities for the elderly, mentally retarded and mentally handicapped.

The contractor, Lexington House Franchise Co., builds modern home-like facilities, hires the staff and takes referrals from state agencies. Although most of the patients are on medicaid, he said some are private patients.

This type facility would be ideal in Michigan because it would not be run by the state but would have to meet all state codes, he said. Before a patient was transferred to such a facility, his doctor would write a "prescription" specifying the type of care needed and which must be provided, he said.

The Illinois company is currently constructing a home for the elderly in will pick up the idea.

Dr. Yudashkin has been studying this and other plans for getting more patients back into the community and improving their treatment.

"The CBC never came to us and said 'Hey, what are you doing," " Dr. Denniston said. "No one knows what Yudashkin has been doing to get these things going.

BACKYARD TOMATO plants can be just as good or better than those the farmers produce, as Mrs. Theres Orsucci of 15021 Nola, Livonia proves with this homegrown giant. She has several such plants, some of which stand more than eight feet tall. Mrs. Orsucci reports she grows the plants inside from seeds sent to her from her native Italy, then transplants them outdoors. She uses cow manure for fertilizer, sprays once a week and cultivates regularly. She grows many other vegetables and flowers in her impressive garden, mostly from seed "because plants are too expensive." (Observer photo by Doug Johnson)

Hibiscus Is An Attention Getter

By BETTY FRANKEL Special Writer

There aren't many shrubs that bloom at this time of year, so those that do tend to be real attention getters. Here and there, in gardens in this area, there are some tall bushy shrubs that are now staging a spectacular dis-

Some of these shrubs are laden with big white flowers. lavender-blue blooms.

The handsome shrubs are known by several names. Some people call them Rose - of - Sharon. Others know Althea. To the botanist they are Hibiscus Syriacus.

They are, indeed, a close relative of the tropical hibiscus which is a popular plant in Florida and Southern California and on tropical islands where local beauties like to tuck the blossoms in their hair.

Unlike the tropical hibiscus, which can be grown Others have pink or rose or here only as a greenhouse plant, the shrubby Althea is hardy and can withstand our winters. It is a native of China and India and was brought to this country in co-

Tile Floors For Basement Renovation

Space in basements is too valuable to be used only for storage. How much more useful to turn it into a room the whole family can enjoy!

One of the advantages of a downstairs living area is its isolation from the rest of the house: it can be used as a refuge from activities elsewhere in the home, or as the entertainment center.

Because the family room gets a great deal of wear, the Better Floors Council recommends installing a flooring of tough, long-lasting vinyl asbestos tile. It is low in price, easily installed by a handy homeowner, and maintenance is minimal.

Because resilient floor tile is a permanent flooring, the council advises giving careful thought to pattern and collor-pick something you'll like for a long time or that will go with decorating changes in other furnishings.

Embossed vinyl asbestos tile patterns are particularly suited for recreation rooms--such designs as pebble, mosaic and travertine, as well as wood and brick patterns work well here. But vinyl asbestos is made in many designs, from traditional Spanish/Moorish to Early American to contemporary.

Tile can be used to divide the room according to activities by installing different colors. A conversation grouping around a fireplace can be defined with darker or lighter tile.

Since vinyl asbestos tile designs are available in many colors, your choice is wide.

Scorched Leaves?

Leaf scorch, an irregular browning of the leaves on your trees, is caused by the inability of the tree's root system to return moisture lost at the leaf surface, according to Gerald Draheim Michigan State University horticultural specialist, Wayne County.

Although the scorched condition cannot be rectified, watering the tree to a depth of 18 to 24 inches with a soaker or very slow running sprinkler, will restore the health of the tree.

In addition, insect and disease control, fertilization in early spring or late fall, and proper tile drainage will help the tree grow vigorously and prevent leaf scorch.

The little tugboat's ability to push a big ocean liner around has always been a subject of fascination.

But it's really quite simple. The tugboat is custom built for its assignment. It has the power to do a big job. It is operated by a skipper who is highly skilled. The largest liner is a pushover for this combination.

The mightly little tug has its counterpart in advertising—the newspaper Want Ad.

The Want Ad's diminutive side is a deceptive cover-up for its surprising power. Imagine a simple three or four line advertisement, which costs less than dinner in a good restaurant, motivating twenty or thirty people to respond. It happens all the time!

An Observer Want Ad can play the part of a problem solver for you. It will sell a valuable but un-needed article, find a job, find you a needed employe, find you a place to live, or serve you in countless ways. (Want Ads have been used to sell tugboats).

It won't be long until an occasion will arise when you can profitably use a Want Ad. When that time comes, pick up your phone and dial 522-0900. A friendly ad taker will help you word your ad for quick response.

don't let it get away! insulate!

Don't let those precious dollars escape. Insulate your home and reduce your heating and cooling costs. Insulation acts as a barrier to the flow of heat. Keeps heat in during the winter and keeps heat out during the summer. By cutting fuel consumption, it could reduce your heating bills as much as one-third.

Another advantage, which cannot be measured in monetary value, is the added comfort insulation provides. You'll enjoy a quieter home...insulation keeps outside noises out and absorbs inside sounds. And you'll be more comfortable, summer and winter, with a more uniform temperature throughout your home.

Stop the needless loss of money...call a qualified insulation dealer, now. Enjoy a cooler summer and be ready for added savings and comfort next winter. Consumers Power Company neither sells nor installs insulation, but has long recommended it for greater comfort and economy.

Scholars Laud Arts Institute

The American Association of Museums, mid-way in a countrywide survey of museums and their operating standards, has granted accreditation to the Detroit Institute of Arts.

A committee of scholars from other sections of the U.S. said in its citation:

"The Detroit Institute of Arts is a museum which, in spite of severe financial handicaps, is one of the outstanding organizations in this state," It gave special recognition to the institute's "superior works of art, its educational programs of the highest quality and its professional staff.'

One project discussed for Wilcox Lake was the installation of a fountain in its center that would be fashioned after the fountain at Geneva. Switzerland.

The proposal calls for the fountain to be lighted at night. It could then serve as a beacon when the two new expressways - M-14 and I-275 cross paths in Plymouth.

Another suggestion, along with the fountain, was that paddle boats would be made available much like the project now so popular in Camp Dearborn.

A third idea was the possibility of obtaining a large naddle wheel boat, possibly called The Mayflower, that could provide rides in any of the three lakes.

The beautifying project also comes at a time when the Old Village Assn. in Plymouth has made great strides in revamping "Old Village." Among the projects here is to beautify the bank of Wilcox Lake to conform to the new Old Village Point Park. It also had been hoped that a bridge could be built from Wilcox Road to the island in the lake.

Tim Richard writes

Are Lawyers Right In Considering A Case Closed After Legal Answer?

If the legal business has a single, most glaring fault, it is to consider a question settled after a legal answer has been given. Questions of ethics rarely intrude on the average lawyer's mind.

Frank Kelley and Richard Nixon appear to be a couple of average lawyers.

Kelley, Michigan's attorney general for the last dozen or so vears, recently ruled there is "no substantial conflict of interest" in a teachers union representative serving on a board of education where the "districts are far remote geographically."

The question was asked by State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) in the long-standing controversy swirling around Charles Griffin, a member of the Wayne-Westland Board of Education who just happens to make his living as a teachers union representative in Genesee County.

A legal conflict of interest? Maybe not. An ethical conflict? Certainly.

It has been the policy of the Michigan Education Assn., stated by enough presidents, that teachers need to win in the political arena what they can't win at the bargaining table.

To learn that bit of intelligence, however, one must read MEA bulletins and newspapers. You won't learn that from a law book, and Kelley seems to rely on law books.

MEA officials charge that school boards are getting together to plan their bargaining strategies, conveniently ignoring the fact that teachers do the same thing.

Thus, a man who serves on a school board for token pay and learns his board's collective bargaining strategy is in a dandy position to spill the beans to the organization that gives him his paycheck, the teachers union.

Teachers unions are fond of pointing to settlements in other districts as they bargain. Thus, a board member who votes for a generous settlement in District A is in a position to use that as a wedge to get the same kind of settlement for his colleagues in District B.

And as for Genesee County being "remote geographically" from western Wayne County, the attorney general apparently hasn't read about the highway system, the low long-distance telephone rates, and the ease with which Ma Bell can set up a conference call.

No, Kelley's disposing of the legal question fails to take care of the serious ethical question of a teacher or teachers union official serving on a school board.

Kelley himself almost concedes as much when he writes: "This is not to state that the Legislature could not, if so desired, prohibit a dual holding of public and private positions in mutually exclusive school districts with a new statutory enactment."

Eliminating the double negative and putting it in plain American, the Legislature can pass a law prohibiting such an ethical conflict of interest. And it probably should. (And while the lawmakers are at it, they could also take a look at real estate men and developers who serve on city and township planning commissions.)

President Nixon, a lawyer by trade, tells the Senate committee investigating the Watergate burglary he will refuse to make available tape recordings of Executive Office conversations relating to the case. He cites constitutional reasons. Fine. Maybe he's legally

But if he doesn't make the tapes available to the senators, to whom will he reveal them?

Nixon won't reveal them to special prosecutor Archibald Cox, technically a member of his own administration.

The British and Canadian parliaments have excellent methods of inquiring about governmental policies. They have question-and-answer sessions each day when MPs can directly ask governmental officials for answers. Our Congress has no way of making President Nixon answer similarly.

Nixon won't hold press conferences and answer questions, from reporters.

Nixon hardly campaigned in 1972 to explain his policies and activities and rarely speaks in public any more.

Nixon won't answer to the National Committee of his Republican Party.

He won't answer to anyone. And so by refusing for legal reasons to surrender his tape recordings to a Senate committee and the Justice Dept., he leaves unanswered the ethical question of his accountability.

Emory Daniels Writes

Folks Don't Care

American citizens apparently aren't about to be included among those who have learned lessons, "profited," from the Watergate

There may be a lot of politicians "profiting" from the caper, either by learning lessons or by gaining national exposure.

But, the citizenry continues on its well-trod path without any inclinations being given that the direction will be changed.

The major indications are unconcern (apathy) and non-involvement of citizens towards government and public officials. Apathy and non-involvement are two prime ingredients which might explain why the Watergate participants thought the caper could be executed without serious consequence.

This isn't, in any way, to say the American people must share the guilt for Watergate. The guilt belongs to the participants, and we cannot redeem their sins by a nationwide confessional.

But an alert citizenry stands as a clear "Thou Shalt Not" to any politician who might consider wandering astray.

There are two indications in Observerland that citizens still have their guard down, and aren't ready yet to hold public officials accountable for actions taken.

One is the continued low interest (non-involvement) towards council and school board meetings. Attendance continues to be scant with citizens turning out only if action to be taken is of direct consequence to them. (Americans squelch fires in their backyards, but let their neighbors' fields burn.)

How can a local legislative body be held accountable if residents show an interest when decisions are being made which only affect them? The result becomes clear to legislators that there is little interest among citizens in the welfare of the city-at-large, or school district-at-large.

Another indication is the low voter turn-out in yesterday's primary elections.

Majority rule requires majority participation. Without it, we may have a minority deciding behind closed doors what is best for all of us. There are still lessons to be learned.

Leonard Poger writes

Land Use Problems Growing

Now that the suburban primary elections are over and candidates are gearing up for the general election in November, voters can take a short rest from the barrage of brochures, flyers, and campaign literature that have been stuffed in their mail boxes during the past few weeks.

But some of the issues raised by candidates in several communities during the past month deserve some comment and support.

The issue that affects most people -- residents and businessmen -- is that of land use and development.

Political candidates for mayor and city council positions are working hard to convince the voters the balance of the vacant land in the community should either be developed as quickly as possible to generate needed tax revenues or that the brakes should be applied to stop the trend toward overbuilding.

In Southfield, a majority of the election candidates are urging a.

slowed down approach to development in the wake of a surplus of office buildings and development.

Southfield is the envy of many of its neighboring suburbs who are trying to attract new business and industrial clients to their own

But Southfield candidates, in the main, are aware of the problems of overbuilding.

Westland officials were more than happy last winter to declare a one-year moratorium on new apartment rezonings following public reaction to the quick growth of that type of development in the community.

The one-year period was proposed by the mayor and quickly approved by city councilmen (of which three are facing re-election this year) to allow a comprehensive planning study.

There is also a major push by all candidates in the Westland primary to generate more business and industrial growth.

But there are exceptions when it comes to individual cases.

The now-vacant Birch Hill golf course, a 110-acre site surrounded by single-family house developments in Westland, is owned by a developer who wants to build a major shopping center and another residential subdivision.

The mayor and all of the council candidates have lined up on the same side -- to save the golf course for recreational purposes, preferably as a city park and/or golf course.

In Garden City, most candidates are concerned about how the balance of the community is to be developed.

Garden City is currently at its saturation point with only a few parcels here and there left on major roads for future development.

Whatever the outcome of the primary and Nov. 6 general election, the problem of how to deal with the land use issue may remain for some time to come.

Edward Wendover writes

Advisory Vote A Wise One

The Plymouth Township Board is to be congratulated for its decision to place the advisory question on consolidation of the city and township of Plymouth on the Sept. 4 special election ballot. That question, while purely advisory and unbinding, can help determine the direction future unification movements in the two communities will take.

Some unification proponents have argued that the board put the advisory question on what is considered a "negative ballot" in order to insure its defeat.

(The three other issues on that ballot are expected to draw "no" votes - the extension of sewers into the western part of the township, the purchase of the Hilltop Golf Course as an addition to the township recreation site and another advisory question asking whether township residents are satisfied with the current law enforcement there.)

Since the board wants the Hilltop purchase approved, it obviously is not hoping for a negative ballot.

The board had originally considered setting a special election for the consolidation advisory and other issues at the same time as the city's general election in November.

But petitions opposing the sewer extension were submitted and that forced the township to call the election for Sept. 4.

Thus the board saw this election as the only opportunity before the November, 1974 elections to put the issue before the voters.

That timing may be important since the State Boundary Commission is expected to get around sometime soon to considering the consolidation petition filed in 1970.

Having the voters' desires known will certainly help in that Perhaps the most laudible point concerning the advisory question is that attitude taken by Plymouth Township Supervisor J.D. McLaren and Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes.

They have said that a favorable vote on the consolidation advisory would indicate to them the township officials should study the various unification alternatives with the city.

Such a study has not been undertaken for several years and is needed now in light of the growth in the township over the past five View points expressed in DISSENT do not necessarily reflect those of Observer Newspapers Inc., but are presented in the belief that publication of all segments of thought on a public issue is a prerequisite to understanding and progress.

By JEANEANE HAVSTAD Livonia

In June, the Livonia City Council rejected a proposal for a pilot program of public transportation for our city. The proposal would have diverted some federal revenue money for a trial in a system similar to Teltran, Ann Arbor's dial - a - ride, where for 25 cents, a mini-bus will pick you up at your door and deliver you anywhere in the city.

Reasoning against the motion. one councilperson argued that that much money shouldn't be spent without a vote of the people. Another claimed the people who live in Livonia don't want public transportation; at least no one had ever mentioned wanting it.

Now, with August here, the Council once again took time off from planning new roads, to talk about the need for a city airport. The engineering study alone needed to think this out will cost approximately the same as the June - mentioned dial - a - ride. An airport would be good for the businesses in the area, it was argued. And so this matter was not rejected, but has been referred to a committee - of - the - whole for more studying.

Why should city and federal funds be used to subsidize the thought of a Livonia airport when Metropolitan airport is 30 minutes away by car? If an airport would be so valuable for local businesses, then the businesses themselves should pool some of their profits to think for themselves about what an airport could do for

It is irritating to me that nowhere in these council discussions are the environmental consequences considered. Yet both the automobile and the airplane perpetuate and further the world's serious depletion of energy reserves, foul atmosphere and destruction of land.

We have used more mineral fuel in the United States during the last 30 years than all the world's peoples, including us, have used previously. In order to meet the needs of the people now living in the United States, through the rest of our lives, we have to double that consumption.

Yet, supplies of these fuels are dwindling and the price of gasoline and oil will rise until only the wealthy can afford to drive private cars, and empty freeways will stand as a reminder of a sick joke played on all of us by the highway lobbyists.

Roads that cut valleys like the I-96 expressway along Schoolcraft, upset the ecological balance surrounding their location with problems of drainage, soil and water conservation. Anyone who questions this has only to drive along Schoolcraft and wonder where the water from the lakes that have formed will go. What is the Livonia City Council going to do about this?

Nitric oxide compounds from diesels will poison land and plants up to 300 feet on either side of I-96. Sulphur compounds do the same, but to 500 feet. Anyone living within one mile of the freeway will be subject to intensive air pollution. What are the Livonia City Council plans for these ef-

A bikeway system is being built in a neighboring community about our size and population for several hundred thousand dollars. The system will provide paved paths, street bike lanes and sidewalk bikeways providing access to schools, parks and shopping centers.

But in Livonia, one is lucky to find even a sidewalk along the major roads. To ride to a park or a shopping center in Livonia, by bike, one needs the guts of a mountain lion and a super health insurance policy, besides.

Indeed, one of the biggest improvements the Livonia/ City Council could make today, would be to decide that henceforth all new roads and road expansions. and the money required to construct them shall be decided by a vote of the people. Then, just maybe, there'd be enough tax money left to spend on improving the quality of life offered to people who live here.

The FISH Story

A Suburban Tale Of People Helping People

By MARGARET MILLER

When fire gutted an apartment building in Canton Township this spring, many families were burned out of their apartments and left homeless and without food.

A representative of Plymouth FISH soon was on hand with emergency supplies of food, clothing and bedding.

The Chamberlain Philosophy began 25 years ago when Bud Chamberlain opened his A PHILOSOPHY first office in Royal Oak. From the very beginning, he was committed to building a reputation throughout the community of honesty and professionalism. In addition, a major business goal has been to offer the BEST real estate counsel possible in the communities we serve. This philosophy, and the endless list of satisfied clients it has helped produce, have built 23 offices now serving over 50 communities.

Over a period of 25 years we've learned a vital lesson. The quality of the service performed is reflected in the quality of the salesman. Our commitment to quality service forces us to reject 90 per cent of those who apply for sales positions. We select the BEST people from the many sales candidates for sales positions through an exclusive selection program. This program, called SUCCESS BY SELECTION, is based on the premise that the right man in the right job will produce. Our program's goal is to find the few people who are right for sales, real estate and Chamberlain.

Why Chamberlain?

The first days of any sales person's career with a new firm are very TRAINING critical. We at Chamberlain, have given great thought to this critical time. Rather than let our new sales people find out by trial and error the correct sales techniques, we expose them to our exclusive "100 day" orientation and training program. The goal of this program is to help a new sales person develop their real estate knowledge, their sales skills and a professional attitude. When a sales person is able to develop his real estate knowledge, skills, and attitude, he grows as a professional.

The marketing of hundreds of homes each year, for TOTAL MARKETING the past 25 years, has given Chamberlain invaluable experience in how to market homes effectively. This experience has produced our Total Marketing Program. Through this program, directed by a professional advertising executive, we are able to utilize ALL the marketing methods available to expose your property and the Chamberlain Way to as many people as possible. This exposure produces the qualified buyers that has made Chamberlain one of the largest Realtors in Michigan.

In today's market the money you need to purchase a new EOUITY ADVANCE PROGRAM home is often "locked" up in your present home. So, to purchase your next home, you must "unlock" that equity. In addition, many home owners, such as yourself, are concerned that they might sell their present home and not be able to find a suitable new one. SOUND FAMILIAR? However, at Chamberlain we have a WAY, called Equity Advance, that will help you purchase an exclusive Chamberlain listing BEFORE you sell your present home! Simply make an appointment with one of our professional sales people. They will explain our Equity Advance Program to you.

Service is our most important objective. From the moment the FOR SALE sign goes up till the last SERVICE closing paper is signed, your personal representative will strive to bring about the successful selling of your home. This means going beyond what is expected! It means doing the little things, such as: getting papers delivered on time, making sure your multi-list picture does your home justice, counseling you on problems that may be slowing the sale of your home, helping you find the money to purchase a new home, and much more. Our sales representatives work hard to remove the worry of relocation from your mind so that you can concentrate on your family's needs and make your move an "event to remember".

What do these programs mean to you? They mean that at Chamberlain we do everything possible SUCCESS to successfully market your home. In 1972 alone, we successfully marketed and sold over 120 million dollars worth of real estate. Come to one of our offices and let us show YOU how the "Chamberlain Way" can help YOU in selling and buying a home.

CHEVY 1973, C 10, ½ ton truck. This pretty turquoise over White pickup is loaded for comfort and beauty. A Sportsman's wife is sure to fall in love the this Cheyenne vehicle. Because of it's carpeting, extra in-sulation, power steering, automatic transmission and pillowy seat, it drives like a car. Other continua are factory air conditioning WANTED van, 1967 or older, 14 or 16ft. Good condition. Reasonable. 476-2607 pillowy seat, it drives like a car. Other options are factory air conditioning, AM-FM radio, power brakes, low profile mirrors, V8 engine, and shiney chrome trim and bumper. We have installed and equipped a low profile stuts shell with full camper door on the box. It's in a woodgrain finish with bubble windows and a LP gas bottle mounted on the rear step bumper. Curtain rods with curtains, storage chest for clothes, bedding, or camping gear compliment louvered windows and rear screen door make this truck very comfortable to sleep in. It cost $4600 to purchase and equip, but we are asking $3000. If that's too high, please take a look at it before deciding. With only 7300 miles on the odometer the truck is still under factory warranty. 261-9120 still under factory warranty.
Maintaining 65-70 MPH on the freeways
we are getting 12% miles per gallon.
Call evenings or weekends.

 Of those who worked within the City of Detroit, 320,668 were Detroit resibanites.

• Conversely, 165,876 Detroiters travelled daily to jobs in suburban communities.

The SEMCOG data, extracted from the 1970 census. also shows how many workers commuted across county boundaries daily to reach their jobs in the seven-county region (Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw, and Wayne).

Within Wayne County, 754,475 workers went to jobs within the county and 139,500 worked outside the county. But in the other six counties, of 461,038 workers, 255,905 -about 55 per cent -- crossed a county boundary to get to a
