Modular Scheduling Support Declines

By EDWARD WENDOVER

More parents oppose modular scheduling than favor it, and teacher support of the controversial scheduling system has declined significantly.

Those conclusions were two of several reached from an evaluation survey on modular scheduling's second year.

A report on the survey was prepared by Plymouth Canton High School Principal Kent A. Bulkema and Dr. Jerry J. Morris, an area coordinator, and was given to the school board Monday night.

The report also included a student survey which showed a more favorable attitude toward modular scheduling and a grading analysis which shows some improvement.

The parents survey on modular scheduling showed that 47 per cent of the parents have an "unfavorable" attitude toward modular scheduling; 42 per cent are "favorable;" and nine per cent are "indifferent."

Last year's survey showed that 60 per cent of the parents were "favorable;" 27 per cent were "unfavorable;" and 13 per cent were "indifferent."

The parents survey was conducted by mailing questionnaires to a random selection of 10 per cent of the students at the high school.

Of the 340 questionnaires sent out, 197 (57.9 per cent) were returned. Of those, 46 per cent came from the parents of freshmen, 31 per cent were from the parents of sophomores, 14 per cent were from juniors' parents, and eight per cent came from parents of seniors.

Bulkema said, "With the preponderance of responses being from underclass (students') parents, one would expect that more negativism would surface."

He said this was due to the fact that underclass students had not yet learned to take full advantage of the modular scheduling system.

"Further, it is a generally accepted fact that people with strong negative feelings will be more likely to respond to an evaluative questionnaire," the report said.

The faculty survey was administered to 110 staff members (about 71 per cent of the non-administrative staff).

While 70 per cent of the teachers were "strongly in support" of modular scheduling in 1972, the figure had dropped to 56 per cent in 1973.

Bulkema said that "it's not really as bad as it looks" and explained that he felt the drop was due to the Central School staff and new teachers being added to the high school in 1973 with no familiarity with modular scheduling and some "unsettling" effect due to delayed contract signing between the school district and the teachers' union.

The student survey showed that 71 per cent of the students wanted to stay with the modular system, 22 per cent favored some modification of the system and four per cent wanted a return to traditional scheduling.

Last year, 68 per cent of the students said they wanted to stay with modular, 22 per cent wanted some modification and six per cent

Athletics, Band Restoration Tied To School Millage Vote

Editorial

We Endorse Millage Issue

Monday's special school millage election was mandated by a petition drive.

The proposed 1.5 operating millage increase for five years is the same proposal rejected by the district's voters on June 11.

But perhaps in light of the subsequent cuts made in the 1973-74 school program, Plymouth School District voters have realized it takes money to operate the first rate program for which our schools have been known.

We feel it's unfortunate that the school board has to put a gun to the voters' heads to get them to realize how important millage issues are - but maybe that's what it takes.

The operating millage increase proposal is not an unnecessary one, and it would only cost the average taxpayer in the school district about $30.

We supported the millage increase before because it was needed - and it is still needed.

We support the millage increase, and we strongly urge the more than 2,000 voters who signed the petitions to get out and vote "yes."

Mail & Observer Invites Publicists To Press Seminar

So you're the new publicity chairman for your club, group or organization and a bit leery of what's ahead during your year in office.

How do you get material about your club to the Observer Newspapers? When do you have to get it to the editors? What is the deadline for getting stories to the newspapers? What do you do about presenting pictures? Will the Observers accept material in advance about some major promotion you are planning?

Now's the time to ease your worries.

The Observer Newspapers are planning their first annual publicity-press relations seminar in September, and all of the questions will be answered.

For several years, Observer Newspaper editors have wanted to hold a seminar in early fall for the benefit of new publicity chairmen. Up to this year, it wasn't possible due to lack of facilities.

Now the facilities are available in the new Observer Newspapers plant at 36251 Schoolcraft in Livonia at the intersection of Levan.

"We have been planning such a seminar as a public service offering to our readers," explained Publisher Philip H. Power. "We want the news from the organizations in our circulation area. We want to tell the publicity chairman how to contact our editors, how to make arrangements for pictures, what our deadlines are and what we can do to make the job easier for all.

"That's why we are making arrangements for two seminar sessions on Sept. 12 and 19 in our new plant. We want you to meet the members of our editorial staff. We want you to ask questions and get answers. We'll be available to all attending the session and hope everyone benefits."

The seminar sessions are slated to start at 8 p.m. each of the two evenings.

Each will take up to 80 registrations, and the sessions will be divided into three segments of 30 minutes each.

Registrants for each evening will attend all three classes.

You can register for either of the sessions on Wednesday, Sept. 12 or Wednesday, Sept. 19.

Plans are to concentrate on the communities of Livonia, Plymouth, Garden City and Westland on Sept. 12 and on Southfield, Farmington and Redford at the Sept. 19 session.

A registration blank accompanies this article. Please register before Sept. 7 so that plans can be made to split the registrants into three segments.

INSTALLATION OF a more powerful antenna which will increase the Plymouth police department's radio range three times over the present system, was completed recently. The entire communications system, from headquarters to police cars, is being updated and expected to be in service by early fall. The project was made possible by a $31,000 federal grant. By EDWARD WENDOVER

The roar of a football crowd and the familiar strains of a marching band will be heard in Plymouth this year if the proposed millage is approved Monday.

That promise was made by the Plymouth Board of Education Monday when it voted to restore popular extracurricular activities - which had been cut from the budget - if the voters approve the 1.5 operating millage increase.

The pledge was made even though the board had insisted during the budget cuts that it would not guarantee restoration of any program should additional money become available.

In unanimous approval of the motion made by Joseph Gray, the board tied restoration of the following items to the millage:

- High school and middle school athletics (other than physical education classes).

- High school and middle school performing music (other than classes in music).

- Transportation of some school students who do not live within the limits which qualify for state funding.

- Curtailment of custodial services in the schools (which would, in effect, limit schools' availability for uses other than school).

- A financial commitment to the recreation authority of $21,000.

- Nursing services.

- Transportation equipment.

- High school and middle school extracurricular activities.

- High school co-op education funding that allowed the schools to hire some of its co-op students.

The school board's informal decision on July 16 to cut these and other items from the 1973-74 school program sparked much controversy.

After officially making the budget cuts, the board voted to call Monday's special election for the millage proposition which failed on June 11.

The board also voted to make the election tentative and said it would cancel the vote unless it was presented with petitions requesting the election and signed by 10 per cent of the district's registered voters.

At the board meeting Monday, Deputy Supt. Earl Hogan told the board that petitions bearing more than 2,100 signatures had been received and that 2,157 had been certified - 10 more than the 10 per cent figure required.

Hogan explained that once that level was reached, the certification process was stopped because of the burden it placed on clerical help at the school offices.

The school board also voted Monday night to insist that the school administrators report to the board on any additional funds the district might receive through state aid or other means.

That resolution was made by school board member Gary Mirto, who said his intention was to insure that the board be made aware of any unexpected money before the administration committed it to a particular program.

In discussing its budget dilemma, the board made no mention of restoring some $800,000 in programs which it cut from the proposed budget before making the final round of cuts that included the items they have tied to the millage.

It has not given any priority to the other programs cut from the budget and has given no indication which - if any - will be restored should more money become available.

Supt. Hoben Recovering After Surgery

Plymouth School Supt. John M. Hoben is recovering from surgery he underwent Monday at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor to remove his gall bladder.

While the hospital declined to give details of the operation, friends said Hoben's operation was successful.

Community Fund Names Evans 1974 Chairman

PLYMOUTH Leonard Evans, last year's chairman of the industrial division of the annual Plymouth Community Fund campaign, will head the drive this fall.

Esther Hulsing, president of the Plymouth Community Fund board of directors, announced this week that Evans has accepted the assignment as general campaign chairman for this year's drive.

In the 1973 campaign, donations totaling more than $102,000 were taken in by the fund for dispersal among local service organizations. The budget for the coming year has not been determined at this time, but based on past experience and the needs of the community, it is sure to be higher than last year's, Mrs. Hulsing said.

Evans and Mrs. Hulsing say the timetable and goal for the 1974 campaign will be announced in September.

Evans brings to the chairmanship a background of other civic activities, in addition to industrial sector chairmanship of the Plymouth Community Fund Drive in 1972. Evans has served as industrial sector coordinator for the United Fund, and as an associate member of the Ford Plymouth Area Community Relation Committee since 1967.

In 1966, Evans won the "bell ringer" award of the Ford Motor plant at Fostoria, Ohio for his contribution toward community service. Evans has also been active in the Plymouth Colonial Kiwanis Club, and serves as chairman of the youth activity committee.

Evans has been employed by Ford since 1955, and has held his present position as plant engineering manager at the Sheldon Road plant in Plymouth since 1966.

Rezoning OKd For Home For Retarded

By RICH McCULLEN

PLYMOUTH

A home for retarded adults will become a reality in Plymouth as a result of a long-delayed 5-2 decision by the City Commission Monday to approve a request for rezoning of the home's proposed site at Wing and Deer streets.

The request to rezone the two empty lots from their commercial classification to multiple housing, previously recommended by the city's professional planning consultant and approved by the planning commission, had been delayed twice since it was initially considered July 23.

The request was denied by a 3-3 vote at that meeting, at which time the commission voted to reconsider the vote when vacationing Commissioner Robert Sincok was present.

Sincok and his tie-breaking vote were also absent from last week's regular meeting, and the request was again tabled.

The proposal had drawn much resistance from future neighbors of the home, and Monday's meeting attracted a crowd of approximately 80 persons and prompted more than two hours of discussion.

The request was made by Community Opportunity Center (COC), a non-profit corporation which hopes to build several such facilities in Plymouth and neighboring cities. The residents will be a maximum of 16 adults classified as "mildly retarded," who will work in the community and will be supervised at the home by two house parents.

Sincok's long awaited vote helped to put the request over, as did Commissioner

William Silvis' reversal of his earlier "no" vote. Also supporting the motion were Commissioners Beverly McAninch and Harold Guenther and Mayor James McKeon. Commissioners Norbert Battermann and Ernest Henry opposed the request.

COC's attorney, Edward Draugelis, presented the case for the rezoning, pointing out at the outset that the commission is permitted only to consider the relative values of the two zoning classifications, rather than the particular use intended.

"If I had come in representing XYZ Apartment Corp., we would not have the dispute and we would have the rezoning," Draugelis told the commission.

Nevertheless, nearly all the long but relatively calm discussion concerned the proposed use, and included several pleas from clergymen and professionals who work with the retarded.

Plymouth psychiatrist James Sonnega told the audience the residents' objections showed "a clear lack of understanding of what the program involves."

Sonnega was joined in his support of the home by, among others, the Rev. Kenneth MacKinnon of Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church, the Rev. Robert Cook of St. John Episcopal Church, Planning Commission Chairman Mary Childs, and Dr. William Womack, director of the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

Guenther described a visit he had taken, along with Commissioners McAninch, Battermann and Silvis, to a similar facility in Farmington run by Farmington resident Mary Wagner. He said he was "very much impressed" with the home and its residents.

"I was struck more than anything else by their individuality," Guenther said, commenting that it was "difficult to spot the form of retardation" among some residents.

"These fears are sired by misunderstanding," Guenther told the audience. "There are probably levels of intelligence far above me who may believe that I shouldn't be running loose. We are not talking about people who are capable of mischief, who are capable of running wild."

Henry, one of the two commissioners to vote against the proposal, emphasized that "nobody is against" the concept of the home, but that "I can't see how a building like this, housing so many people, will mix with the residential area. I wouldn't put on to anyone else what I wouldn't want put onto me." Henry said the "humane part, just doesn't enter into it."

Mrs. Raymond L. Carley of 561 Deer, the primary spokesman for the dissenting homeowners, also emphasized that "we are all in agreement" about the need for a home.

Reminding commissioners that the rezoning, not the use, was the subject of the discussion, Mrs. Carley said that the proposed site "isn't the right place for it. I would feel just as strongly about a senior citizens facility," she said.

Several other residents echoed Mrs. Carley's objections, particularly urging that the site was too small to house a residence for so many people.

One neighbor said he feared the close quarters would cause confinement and would "prey on the nerves" of the residents.

Former commissioner George Hudson said he himself was the parent of a retarded adult, and that he considered the site "unsatisfactory" because of its size and the objections of neighbors.

Hudson prompted a loud reaction from both sides when he commented that retarded persons "tend to wander" and that "the neighbors might find them in their houses."

Draugelis and COC director Jan M. Plas succeeded in relieving some concerns, at least on the part of Sincok, by pointing out that the home will not be state supported, and that its future residents will be drawn from homes in the five communities (Plymouth, Northville, Garden City, Livonia and Redford Township) served by COC, not from institutions.

"These are adults who are now living in our community," said Plas. "They have no programs, they are just sitting in their homes. All we want to do is bring them together to live with their peers and make a living for themselves."

Battermann said he had talked to nearly all the residents surrounding the proposed site, and that most were opposed.

"The people around it don't want it," said Battermann, "and we must listen to them. I have tried my damndest to stay away from the emotional side of this."

Guenther finally brought the matter to a vote, observing that "we all seem perfectly willing to bless this thing right out of existence."

The final decision was greeted with applause from the majority of the audience.

In a related matter, the commission voted to include in all future notices to surrounding residents of a parcel for which rezoning is sought a copy of the petition indicating the proposed use.

Residents within a 300 foot area of a proposed change now receive a notice, required by law, informing them of the zoning change sought. Battermann said the evening's discussion demonstrated the need to inform neighbors of the specific use planned.

A city may not refuse or grant a requested zoning on the basis of a specific use, but can only regulate among general zoning classifications with the objective of protecting the health, safety and welfare of the community.

Arts Council Plans Show For Festival

PLYMOUTH

The Plymouth Community Arts Council hopes to bring recognition to 47 artisans from 21 cities at its arts and crafts show held in conjunction with the Plymouth Fall Festival.

A special section will be set aside for the work of young people from kindergarten through the 12th grade.

Elizabeth Weiser is serving as chairman for this year's show with Jean Herr and Fern Ursa as coordinators.

Hours will be from noon to 9 p.m. on Sept. 8 and from 1 to 6 p.m. on Sept. 9. The show will be in the main auditorium of Central Middle School at Church and S. Main Streets.

Artists will exhibit finished works and create new works on the scene as well as complete sales.

Dee Schulte and Nan Cooper, co-chairmen of the children's booth, will be at the school to receive priced articles from 8 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 7.

Scott Breneman will set up displays, Nancy Johnson will do the graphics and Clara Camp and Sally Arthur have scheduled hospitality workers.

Tickets will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children with proceeds going to the Community Arts Council.

Works on sale will include handcrafted original items in glass, pottery, leather, oil and acrylic, water color, collage, wood, graphics, jewelry, sculpture, knitting, spinning, ceramics, photography, weaving, brass engraving and other.

Modular Scheduling Support

wanted to return to traditional scheduling.

The student grade analysis showed:

- The honor roll for 1973 included 26.5 per cent of the students. (In 1972 it included 29.5 per cent.)
- Perfect grades were achieved by 1.7 per cent of the students in 1973. (In 1972, 1.9 per cent got all A's.)

- One or more failing grades were received by 27.3 per cent of the students in 1973. (In 1972, 27.7 per cent of the students got one or more E's.)

Field Renamed:

Former Michigan State football star Frank "Muddy" Waters has been honored at Hillsdale College with the renaming of the school's grid field in his name. He's been football coach there since 1953.

"How can a town with its own symphony orchestra and Arts Council - such a rich cultural heritage - possibly say, 'Sorry, kids, but we can't afford any music or drama or radio station for you.' I'll tell you, if we do, then we've got our priorities all mixed up - and I'll be sorry I live here."

-mother of 4, 2 still in high school

"Believe me, I don't like taxes any better than the next guy. But I figure the 1.5 mills they're after will cost me less than $28. I'd find it hard living with myself if I voted to take away the kids' football and basketball to save a lousy 28 bucks."

-father with one child left in high school

"If a smug, so-called family-oriented community like Plymouth can't afford to field a band, a football team, a basketball team, put on a play, send 6th graders to nature camp, etc., maybe we ought to bus our kids to an 'advantaged' area, like Detroit or River Rouge."

-mother of four, one still in high school

"I'm not happy with the take-it-or-leave-it attitude of the school board - and my first reaction was 'To h--- with them. We'll show 'em.' But after thinking it over, we'd be biting off our nose to spite our face if we took out our wrath on our kids. I'd like to urge everyone who feels as I do to vote for the 1.5 mill increase. We can clean up any problems we feel exist on the board in a more mature way through the normal voting process. And let's do that, too."

-father of 3, one still in high school

"Practically my whole savings is wrapped up in our home, and the property value is high right now because Plymouth is an attractive family town. But take away the school activities and what families with children will want to move here? That's bound to hurt my property value. Frankly, I feel I'd be penny-wise and pound-foolish if I didn't vote for the 1.5 mill increase."

-retired widow

"We'd have to spend as much or more combatting juvenile delinquency if we took the healthy, organized activities away from five or six hundred kids who participate. And we've got too much of that trouble now! What we ought to be doing is attracting more high-schoolers into these activities, not cutting them out."

-father whose 3 children are through school

"We put up a 'showcase' type of football field, swimming pool, auditorium and gymnasium - and we're able to do it efficiently by sharing the facilities between two high schools. What good are they if they're not used?"

-young couple, no children

"Plymouth will be the laughing stock of the country. Last year our high-school band received national publicity. If we don't come up with a very modest tax increase, we can't even have a high school band."

-mother of 3, 2 out - one in grade school

THINK - THEN ACT!

Get yourself and your friends out to the polls on MONDAY, AUGUST 20 and vote FOR the 1.5 mill increase - or it will be too late. Call 453-0200 for absentee ballots, if needed.

Pedestrians In Trouble

How do pedestrians get into trouble in traffic?

By heedlessly crossing between lines of vehicles; by walking on the roadway; by being hidden at night; or by being handicapped through the excessive use of alcohol, according to Michigan State University's Highway Traffic Safety Center.

When you walk in the roadway, realize a driver's limitations to see you as well as avoid hitting you. Take steps to help the driver and protect yourself in the traffic situation.

Metroparks Plan $1 Entry Fee For 1974

Visitors to the major park of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority will be charged $1 parking fee per vehicle effective next Jan. 1. The parking charge will affect visitors using Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens, Stony Creek Metropark near Utica, Kensington Metropark near Milford, Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville at the start of next year -- and is expected to go into effect at Willow Metropark near New Boston when a large swimming pool-games area complex now under construction opens as a major attraction.

Present plans do not include charges for vehicles at Marshbank Metropark near Pontiac, or Hudson Mills, Dexter-Huron and Delhi Metroparks, each located northwest of Ann Arbor. These picnic-playground parks lack the wide variety of facilities offered at the major HCMA Metroparks.

Eugene J. Ellison, chairman of the Authority, stated that the policy decision of the HCMA Board of Commissioners to adopt a parking charge as a major source of revenue has been made only after careful analysis of HCMA's financial situation following the defeat of its proposed one-quarter mill increase in the primary election of last year (August 1972) and of the continued need for additional funds to operate and maintain existing parks and improving and providing new regional parks to serve southeast Michigan.

Ellison pointed out that of equal and perhaps greater importance is the factor of improving public safety in parks. Collecting a parking fee at the park entrance will provide a control point for better security and visitor safety. He stated that the authority board and staff felt that a parking charge of $1 per vehicle would be the most fair and equitable way to raise additional revenue as the cost would be borne by the actual park user.

Public transportation, walk-in visitors, bicyclists and prescheduled buses would not be charged the parking fee. Under study is a proposal to provide a book of parking charge coupons at a reduced rate.

Michigan state parks and recreation areas have had an annual user permit or daily fee for several years, but this is the first general fee ever assessed HCMA metropark users with the exception of Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens.

Metropolitan Beach, with a wide variety of recreational facilities and a special event program, has had a parking charge throughout its 22-year operation. The current 50-cent parking fee, now collected from May 5 through Sept. 30, is used to help defray the costs of operation and maintenance at Metropolitan Beach.

Representatives on the seven-member HCMA Board of Commissioners include these county representatives: Wayne -- William E. Kregar; Macomb -- Thomas S. Welsh; Oakland and Livingston -- Clifton W. Heller; and Washtenaw -- Jesse A. Rutherford; and two governor appointees -- Eugene J. Ellison, of St. Clair Shores, and Kurt R. Keydel, of Detroit.

ROBERT HOLDEN, former manager of Real Estate One's Milford office, has been promoted to manager of the downtown Farmington office. A graduate of Detroit's Cooley High School, Holden, of Commerce Township, is a veteran of 21 years in residential real estate sales and has completed several University of Michigan courses.

3 Colleges Get $14.7 Million

LANSING Three local community colleges will receive nearly $14.7 million of the $65.9 million in state appropriations to Michigan's two year colleges.

Gov. Milliken has signed the community college appropriation bill which allocates $65.87 million to 29 community and junior colleges. This compares to appropriations totaling $58.6 million last year.

Oakland Community College will receive $6.5 million, Wayne County Community College, $6.4 million, and Schoolcraft College $2.8 million.

How Madonna Can Help Older Students

Madonna College, Livonia, is making it easier for adults as well as younger students to earn college degrees; 51.7 per cent of Madonna's 1973 graduates were in the 23 to 32 years age bracket. Most attended part-time and most were employed.

Madonna, at 30000 Schoolcraft, is a coeducational, four year college operated by the Felician Catholic order.

Madonna believes that higher education should be available to a person throughout his lifetime and not just immediately after high school. The college welcomes all persons who wish to study part-time or return to study later in life.

An adult need not attend the college for four years to earn a bachelor's degree. The college grants up to two years of "credit by examination."

Like many other colleges, Madonna will admit anyone who can benefit from continuing education; it isn't even necessary to be a high school graduate. However, students must show that they are capable of doing the work by passing a high school equivalency examination.

Among students at Madonna are policemen, housewives, veterans, nurses, civil service employees, management and supervisory personnel from business and industry, and personnel from allied health occupations who are pursuing a degree program appropriate to their lifetime interests.

Students may earn a certificate of achievement (30 semester hours) in a specialized program. Associate degree requirements include a minimum of 60 semester hours, with a minimum of 20 hours in a major field of study. To win a bachelor's degree, a student must earn 120 semester hours with 30-32 of these hours in a major field of study.

Pre-registration counseling is designed to maximize the individual's academic achievement and satisfaction.

Gifted Students Get Help

LANSING The special academic problems of gifted children in Michigan will be eased with the help of an appropriation included in the recently-passed state school aid bill by the Senate Appropriations Committee, according to committee member Carl D. Pursell (R-Plymouth).

The bill will allow school districts to receive up to $150,000 in state funds for evaluating existing programs or experimenting with new ones for the instruction of gifted children.

"Most schools are not even equipped to recognize these highly intelligent and talented young people," said Pursell.

"In instances where these children are spotted, schools are often not prepared to provide them proper instruction to challenge their potential."

"As a result we have a tragedy of all this unharnessed potential virtually going to waste."

Redford Opens National Bid Tonight

Ypsilanti Sweep Paves Way To Johnstown, Pa.

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Redford Adray Coach Bob Atkins will be looking lucky No. 7 in the face tonight in Johnstown, Pa., when his champion Redford team takes the field in the opening game of the Triple ABA Nationals.

Winners of the Livonia Adray League, Redford qualified for the nationals with a best two of three series victory over Ypsilanti ABC.

This will be the seventh journey for Atkins and Redford to the nationals in seven seasons. Redford boasts an overall showing of 26-5-2.

Redford dropped its opening contest to Ypsilanti 10-9, but rebounded with back-to-back wins, 10-2 and 5-4, to cap the Michigan title.

"This is a good solid club," said Atkins before packing his gear for Johnstown. "We are lacking a real superstar but do have quality in every position."

"If there is anything working against us, it has to be our lack of experience," added Atkins. "We are a young lot with only two players on the roster who have been to Johnstown before in Art Mach and R.J. LeRoux."

The age limit for competition in the ABA is not to exceed 20 years of age before Aug. 1. Redford has three ballplayers who are only 17 in starters Mark Yourchock (1B), John Broder (LF) and Jeff Hodgkins (SS).

"One item that is different about this year's club is the depth of the pitching staff,"

Atkins said. "I am taking more experienced pitchers than ever before."

The nine man staff was sliced to eight after winning the state title when it was reported 6-3 righthander Mark Miller could not make the trip due to a reporting date for football at Central Michigan University.

The staff is composed of John Knox (6-0), Scott Evans (5-1), Jeff Moon (4-1), Tom Miller (2-0), Tom Nippa (2-0), Jeff Hodgkins (6-1), Art Mach (8-4), and Del Malloch (7-0).

The hitting department is paced by Broder at a .365 clip along with 24 runs batted in. Bill Fraser is next in line at .311 with Yourchock around the .300 mark.

LeRoux, Steve Friedman and Fraser lead the club in runs scored with 24, 23 and 22 respectively.

Bouncing back from the 10-9 defeat was a moral victory for Redford in winning the Ypsilanti series. Atkins wasn't sure his crew was going to comeback after it had fought back from a 9-1 deficit only to lose in the final inning.

Atkins found out just what the team was made of when it spurted to 10-2 and 5-2 victories.

John Knox went all the way on the Redford mound in the contest that evened the series at one-all. The hard throwing righthander from Royal Oak Kimball allowed eight hits, walked one and struck out nine in chalking up his fifth win.

Vern Cowen and Al Linderman hurried for Ypsilanti with lefthander Cowen suffering the loss.

Ypsilanti threatened in the opening inning but failed to score. With two out, Randy Briar batted out a three-bagger and Mike Bower walked. Knox got out of it by getting Cowen to ground out.

Redford came back in its half of the inning and cashed in. LeRoux singled, stole second and Steve Friedman singled him home. He moved to second on a wild pickoff attempt.

Malloch singled in Friedman, Fraser walked, and Glenn Richmond sacrificed in Malloch to make it 3-0.

Ypsilanti finally touched Knox in the top of the fourth for two runs. With one out, Knox gave up his lone base on balls to Cowen, Bob Eves singled and Steve Pollard tripled.

Redford pulled away in the last of the inning. Broder opened with a walk, stole second and beat a relay to third with Art Mach safe at first. Hodgkins singled, LeRoux tripled and Friedman singled to up Redford's margin to 7-2.

Friedman's third hit of the contest, a wild pickoff attempt and an error upped it to 8-2 in the sixth. A single by Fraser, two infield outs and a wild pitch made it 9-2 in the seventh.

Redford's final tally came in the eighth when Hodgkins tripled and was balked home. It was down to the final game with the winner advancing to Johnstown.

Mark Miller started for Redford and lasted just one inning. He walked two in the second before being replaced by Scott Evans. Evans struck out the first hitter, got the next to hit into a fielder's choice and the third out on a fly.

the appeal good and Aquinto's run was disallowed. Pollard was then hit by a pitch, and Doug Treadwell walked to fill the bases with one run still on the board.

Atkins brought in Mach and he promptly struck out Eves to retire the side.

Redford came back in its half of the inning. LeRoux led off with a two-bagger, and after a groundout, Malloch missed on a suicide squeeze with LeRoux cut down at the plate. Malloch was safe on an error and Fraser and Glenn Richmond singled to load the sacks.

Malloch was wild pitched home and Fraser scored on another wild pitch. Richmond dashed in when the relay from the catcher to the pitcher sailed into the infield.

Redford pushed it to 4-1 in the sixth. Mark Durance walked, Fraser forced Durance and stole second. Broder singled to score Fraser.

Ypsilanti sliced it to 4-2 in the seventh. With two out, Bower singled for his third hit and Walterhouse tripled in Bower.

Redford put the finishing touches on its five-hit offensive attack in the eighth. Friedman walked, Durance was safe on an error and Richmond walked. With two out, Yourchock was walked to force in Friedman.

Mach wound up with the win, working the final 6 1/3 innings, striking out 11, giving up five hits, one run and walking one.

Bower and Treadwell hurried for Ypsilanti with starter Bower suffering the defeat.

It's now into the 16 team nationals in Johnstown and lucky No. 7 will be getting a real test for Redford and Coach Atkins.

Farmington Jr. Legion Whips Troy For Title

Farmington captured top billing on the first annual 18th District Junior American Legion baseball tourney at Troy.

Farmington, coached by Jack Brown, was composed of 15 and 16-year-olds from the South Farmington Colt League.

Auburn Heights fell to Farmington in the opening round of the two game knockout tourney. Farmington slipped to a 5-3 loss to Troy but rebounded with a 6-3 victory over Waterford and a return clash with Troy which Farmington won, 8-3.

Dave Dyelo was the story in Farmington's 6-0 win over Auburn Heights. He allowed one hit, struck out 12 and walked one.

Farmington opened with two runs in the second on singles by Larry Caving, Steve Kohnis and Jim Brown. It went on to score one in the fifth and three in the sixth to coast in.

Troy knocked Farmington into the losers' bracket in round two with Chris Curtis suffering the 5-3 setback.

Dan Perry and Cavins got Farmington back on the winning track against Waterford. Perry went the first five innings and picked up the win with Cavins getting the save.

Cavins came on in the sixth with the bases loaded and none out and put out the Waterford fire. He got the first batsman to hit into a double play and retired the final hitter on strikes.

Cavins started on the mound in the championship battle, went the first four innings and wound up going 10 innings for the tourney, not giving up a run and only two hits.

Duelo combined with Cavins in the final game for the win, with Farmington collecting 10 hits.

Troy jumped to a 2-0 first inning lead but Farmington came back with three in the bottom of the stanza. Jimmy Seitz walked, Curtis singled and Jay Cummings walked to fill the sacks. Cavins singled in two, Jim Vogel walked and Kohnis sacrificed in Cummings.

Farmington pushed it to 4-2 in the second when Dan Marion singled, stole second and scored on a hit by Curtis. Troy cut it to 4-3 in the third.

Farmington tucked away victory in the sixth with four more runs on three hits. Duelo walked, Seitz singled, Curtis singled and Vogel doubled them home and scored on an error.

OUT AT SECOND -- Redford Adray's Bill Fraser is tagged out attempting to steal second in the state ABA baseball playoffs against Ypsilanti. Redford won the best two of three

Milford Driver Shares Honors

Rex Beauchamp, of Milford, and Dave Sehl from Waterdown, Ont., shared top honors on the professional motorcycle racing card Saturday at Northville Downs in a convincing demonstration of why both rate among the top dozen riders on the national circuit.

Sehl treated the more than 8,000 spectators to a one-lap track record of 26.71 seconds for the half-mile oval and also captured the 12-lap final for American Motorcycle Association experts to take the major end of a $3,500 purse.

Beauchamp, currently No. 3 in AMA national standings, passed up a chance to duel Sehl in the 12-lapper. Instead he concentrated on a pair of 10-lap match races between six-man all star teams from Michigan and Ohio, run for a separate $2,400 kitty.

The Milford ace stormed home the winner in both dashes to lead his Michigan mates to a 949-419 point victory over the Buckeyes whose best efforts were fourth and fifth place finishes by Larry Darr of Mansfield, 1972 Ohio state champion.

In other competition, Hank Scott from Huxton, Tenn., placed first in the AMA junior division

FIRST WOMAN driving champion at harness racing in North America is Mrs. Bea Farber of Brighton. The comely Bea won the title at the 36-night Northville Downs meeting with a winning percentage of .535 with 15 wins, seven seconds and six thirds in 39 starts. She's shown with Moving Comet, one of the consistent winners from her stables.

Oakland Community College is offering a sports officiating class during the fall session, "The Art of Officiating Wrestling," at Troy High School, beginning Wednesday, Sept. 12, and meeting once a week from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. until Nov. 14.

If you are interested in officiating wrestling meets in recreation, junior high and high school, the class offers the opportunity to: learn the necessary rules and techniques; become a qualified, registered official; and upon completion of the course, have your name submitted as a qualified wrestling official.

The course may be taken for college-credit or non-credit. The fee is $27, which includes 10 two-hour evenings of instruction and a rules book.

WSU Footballers Face 10 Game Card

Wayne State University's head football coach Dave Hoover, announced his 1973 team would assemble Monday, Aug. 27, for the start of pre-season drills for the school's first 10-game schedule.

The Tartars not only have their largest schedule ever, but also their earliest start against Valparaiso (Ind.), University on Sept. 15 in WSU Stadium.

WSU's first three days of drills will be without pads in compliance with the NCAA recommendation. Hoover, whose team was 2-5-1 last year, also said the opening of conditioning drills would be double sessions expected to carry through at least the second full week of practice.

Some 20 lettermen will be led by 1973 co-captains Jon Wilkerson (Detroit-Servite) and Dick Byas (Detroit-Mackenzie). Wilkerson is a three-time letterman starter at defensive tackle and Byas is a double-letterman as a two-way halfback, playing offensive flanker and defensive cornerback.

WSU's schedule is evenly split on a home-and-road basis and winds up Nov. 17 at Kentucky State.

Clarenceville Slates Sports Physical Exams

Clarenceville High School students interested in participating in sports programs for the 1973-74 school year are asked to report to the school fieldhouse on Friday, Aug. 17 at 3 p.m. for physical examinations.

Cost is $2.50 per student. Coach Ralph Weddle announced football practice will begin on Monday, Aug. 20 at 8:30 a.m. at the Clarenceville fieldhouse.

Although the Detroit Race Course early post experiment will continue for another two or three weeks before a final decision is made, it appears now that fans are accepting the hour earlier starting time.

At least the 1 p.m. start for the Saturday races seems to have caught on with fans. That is, judging from the difference in business and attendance during the first two Saturdays of the 90-day meeting.

Last Saturday, a crowd of 14,060 poured $1,321,124 through the mutual machines, almost $200,000 more than on the opening Saturday.

Of course it was only the first Saturday for the additional gimmicks and that could have had quite a bit to do with the larger handle. It will be recalled the DRC dropped the superfecta on Friday and added several perfectas to the betting pools.

The program now lists a daily double, five perfectas on the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh races and then a trifecta on the closing event of the afternoon.

With better racing cards coming up, it could well be that DRC Vice President and General Manager Dick Wilson and his associates will find fans are accepting the earlier post time.

Those close to the racing picture believe the change eventually will work wonders and attract larger and larger crowds. The big question is how long the education will take and whether the track can afford to continue its losses for an indeterminate period before the pendulum swings.

From the east side come figures showing the Hazel Park trots are off to the greatest start in history.

The track had its biggest Friday ever with a handle of $854,981 and then came back on Saturday with the first $900,000 night in its history.

The crowd of 12,400 wagered $949,490 Saturday and thus became the second Michigan oval to hurdle that barrier. Wolverine Raceway went past the $900,000 mark three years ago, recorded the first million dollar night in 1972 and then had six consecutive million dollar Saturdays last spring.

Hazel Park management knows it will have to hit a million during the next three weeks or forget about it this year. Traditionally, after Labor Day wagering and attendance take a dip and continue the downward trend for the remainder of the season.

Shady Mile, an invader from Chicago, continues its dominance over top pacers at Hazel Park with a 2:00 victory in Saturday's invitational event.

It was the fastest mile of the meeting and found Blu Fireball in the third spot for the second straight week. Blu Fireball, winner of the $55,000 Charles Coon Memorial Pace, has been under 2:00 twice this year but hasn't been able to match the closing speed of the Chicagoan.

Swoonco, who finished second a week earlier in the $10,000 handicap at the DRC, was much the best in a second meeting with Dr. Pantano Saturday at the DRC.

Veteran Bobby Baird had the speedstar out in front at the start and it stayed there for the entire mile and 70 yards. Dr. Pantano, from the Van Berg stable, was coming fastest of all in the stretch but couldn't catch the leader.

Word from Ohio is that the runners and trotters will be permitted to race on Sundays within the next three months. The Legislature passed a bill allowing the thoroughbreds to race on Sunday afternoons and the standardbreds in the evening. All that's needed is the signature of the governor and the bill becomes effective 90 days later.

This makes one wonder when the Michigan Legislature will begin thinking of the same thing. Sunday racing is permitted in Canada now, something which has worked wonders for Windsor Raceway.

Jockey Mary Bacon is back at the DRC. She returned late last week and made her season debut Saturday in the opening race which she won for Jack Van Berg, only to have the judges call for an inquiry. The result was that Mary's mount not only was disqualified but dropped all the way from first to last.

Look for Mary to get a few days off when the judges call her in for a hearing and a review of the films of the race.

When not on horseback, DRC jockeys will be transported from the barn area and the jocks' room by one of the trams circulating back and forth. Restriction of autos into and out of the barn area brought about the tram schedule.

In silks, the jockeys also are permitted to use the roof of the jocks' quarters to watch the races.

Chris Boring, a top reinsman at the Hazel Park meeting, is now in his 15th season of competition in the big leagues of harness racing.

The Adrian native, son of Leon Boring, an all-time great driver when at his peak, has massed eight major track titles, 1,400 victories and captured purses worth more than $3 million. Yet he did not celebrate his 32nd birthday until July of this year.

Chris won the Universal Driving Rating System crown at Hazel Park in 1971 with 44 victories, 31 seconds and 30 thirds for his 781 starts. Last year he was the leading winner with 43 firsts.

In 1972 he had his best year with 188 wins, 145 seconds and 111 thirds in 980 starts. He won $555,573 and posted a stylish .346 winning percentage.

Michigan State All-America football defensive back candidate Bill Simpson of Royal Oak missed drills last spring because of out-field duty with the Spartan baseball team and earned "most valuable performer" honors for the MSU nine.

NW Racquet Club Ready To Open

There will be an international flavor at the opening of the Northwest Racquet Club set for the last week in August.

The club, located on the corner of Six Mile and Newburgh in Livonia, will have a director of tennis from Australia in Tricia Faulkner along with a local pro and an assistant pro from Lebanon.

Miss Faulkner, an Australian tournament player, coaches fulltime. She just returned from England where she played at Wimbledon for the sixth time and is hoping to play in the U.S. Open at Forest Hills this year.

Mrs. Faulkner, mother of two sons, has taught at the Detroit Tennis and Squash Club and the Square Lake Racquet Club along with the Tam O'Shanter Country Club.

She has joined up with Bob Gabriel, Jim Lawson and John Vasil in this venture into tennis into Livonia.

Junior B Hockey Strikes Livonia

Hockey in Livonia has taken another step forward.

A group of Livonia hockey enthusiasts with support from Mayor Edward McNamara, Livonia City Council and the Parks and Recreation has formed a Junior B team which will be called the Livonia Vikings.

The Vikings have obtained the coaching services of John Gumbleton, former coach of Benedictine High School and Oakland Community College.

Formation of the club was a joint effort by the Livonia Hockey Club with Ron Abraham president.

The purpose was sighted as an establishment of a team to gain college scholarships and act as a stepping stone to players 16 through 20 years of age.

Livonia Junior B hockey club also recognizes the need for junior B competition to complement the minor league hockey program.

The Vikings have scheduled their home ice at the Ford Ice Arena and plan to play a league schedule of 40 games in the Wolverine Junior B hockey league. Other clubs in the league are Oak Park, Southfield, Kalamazoo, Flint and Chicago.

The Vikings will play Saturday evenings at Ford beginning in mid-October. National Hockey league rules will be in effect, three 20 minute periods along with a three referee system.

Sponsor of the Vikings is Bud Grace, owner of Daly restaurants.

First practice will be Sept.

4 at Devonaire ice rink at 6:30 p.m. On Sept. 6, there will be a second session at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Sept. 8.

Anyone interested in trying out for the squad must be in attendance on these dates.

An invitation has been extended to any hockey player, ages 16 through 19; a player can be 20 if his birthdate falls after Dec. 21, 1973.

Opening game is slated for Oct. 13 at Ford Ice Rink against Flint.

Livonia Class E Champs Nearing State Crown

The Livonia Class E baseball champions are only two games away from capturing the state title.

Fischetti Floors, winners of the Livonia League with an 18-1 mark, won the district crown over Dearborn Heights and Allen Park and swept to regional honors with an 11-0 victory over Trenton. Livonia, which now sports a 23-2 record, wraps up state action tomorrow (Thursday) with a noon contest at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn and a 2:30 p.m. clash at Levangood Park.

The district crown was won via a forfeit over Dearborn Heights and an 19-1 thumping of Allen Park.

The 11-0 regional conquest of Trenton was headed by the pitching efforts of John Kolis who handcuffed it on two hits, walking one and striking out 11.

Rick St. Bernard, Ron Oetens and Kim Willets worked the Trenton mound with the Livonia collecting eight hits with St. Bernard was the loser.

Livonia opened with two runs in the first stanza. Bob Jemrog and Tim Murphy drew walks and Bob Rose and Bill Lajoie followed with singles.

The battle broke wide open in the fourth with Livonia scoring eight times on only four hits to take a commanding 10-0 lead.

Kolis opened with a single, Murphy walked and Rose was safe on an error. Lajoie singled in two, and Gary Beyrend was hit by a pitch. Bob Moreau followed with a hit, Joe Palm walked and Kolis banged out his second hit of the inning.

Livonia capped its offensive showing in the fifth when Rose and Lajoie were hit by pitches and Beyrend was safe on an error with Rose scoring.

Spartans Ahead In 9 Of 11 Grid Iron Clashes

Michigan State holds all-time series edges over nine of the 11 opponents it will meet in football this fall.

The Spartans lead in wins over Northwestern, Syracuse, UCLA, Illinois, Purdue, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Indiana and Iowa.

They trail in overall play only to Notre Dame and Michigan.

The records with foes in the order they are met this fall are: Northwestern (12-5-0), Syracuse (6-3-0), UCLA (3-1-0), Notre Dame (15-22-1), Michigan (20-40-4), Illinois (7-5-0), Purdue (14-12-1), Wisconsin (10-7-0), Ohio State (7-6-0), Indiana (16-5-1), Iowa (5-4-1).

In terms of the last time they met each team, the Spartans were winners in seven of the rivalries. They lost to UCLA, Michigan and Notre Dame in most recent games and tied Iowa.

The Court Jester

by BILL CAMERON

Did you know that there are seven ski areas in the State of Virginia? I couldn't help but mention that as I just returned from three days at a resort called "Bryce Mountain" in Bayse, Va. I found it interesting because, after all, I do write a ski column during the winter.

I was there at the invitation of a friend who had a chalet loaned to him for a week, and, being a tennis player, he needed an opponent to make his vacation worthwhile. This all-season area had just completed building two new tennis courts giving them four courts which were filled from eight o'clock in the morning to eight at night.

The courts were constructed by a recognized tennis court contractor with proper drainage, pitch and finish.

When I compare these with what they are doing to the five courts at Stevenson High School I shudder at the waste of taxpayers money.

If you bring in a driveway paving contractor to repair parking lots and tell them they're at it, you're going to get five tennis driveways. I was told by one school board official that there was a drainage problem which caused the courts to buckle. If that were the case, you would think they would have attempted to solve the problem first rather than just resurfacing the area.

It will be interesting to see the courts in the spring or even after a rainstorm. We've been complaining about the courts for three years and they've finally got around to resurfacing them.

The inevitable reply is always a shortage of money. Temporary repairs usually end up costing more money. After all, they couldn't afford $800 to field a tennis team, so what can you expect?

One thing you can expect is some good tennis at the women's tournament for Class A, B, and C players on Aug. 25-26. If you haven't received an entry blank, pick one up at the Livonia Family Y. Remember, only 15 entries to each classification.

Everyone should have a tournament experience. It improves your game and gives you an opportunity to meet other players who offer different styles. Just think of the challenge. You may even find your husbands cheering from the sidelines. (Please fellows, no coaching!!!)

Board Chief Ponders College Goals

By MARTHA MAHAN

Chairman, John LaRue of Schoolcraft College's board of trustees would like to take a look back as well as ahead on school affairs.

"I'd like to see a study on what has happened to these kids" who graduated from the college in years past, he said. "How many are we really helping?"

Schoolcraft has an "open door" admissions policy which lets "almost anybody in," LaRue said. "Of course, they have to perform to stay, and some would make good anyway. A lot have gone on to four-year universities.

"But how many made good in the university and how many have gone on into the work world and performed successfully? How many have we salvaged? We've never had a study like that."

He places an even higher priority, however, on looking to the future.

"I'd like to see us beginning to look where we're going in the next, say, five years," LaRue said. "Then in five years, I'd like to see the board begin to look at the future again."

"We must reexamine some of our goals," he declared. "We need to get some estimates of potential student population and residence trends."

There's been a "sort of a break in growth in student enrollment" lately, LaRue said, with some colleges reaching an enrollment plateau and others reporting a decline.

"We've got to look over our growth potential and whether it's going to continue going up at the same rate or at a different rate and look at the various factors," he went on.

For example, men students have been carrying fewer hours since the Vietnam war and the draft ended, he observed. Previously, they had to be fulltime students to qualify for military deferments.

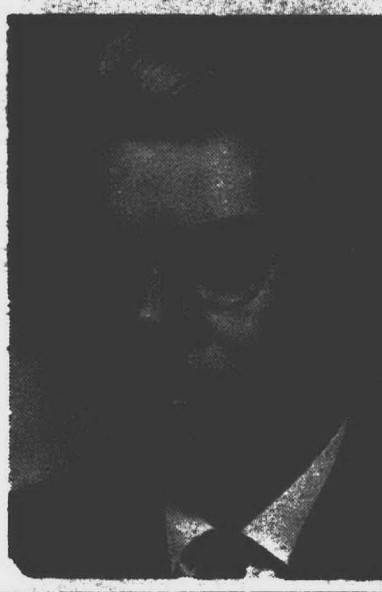

"Then a year or so ago, we had a minor recession" and that affected student hours, the board chairman said.

"We've got to put all the facts and opinions together and try to come up with a judgment and keep on doing it from time to time," he said.

Moreover, "it's time to look at the future not only in enrollment but in the type of facilities we will need," he maintained.

A big problem is community recognition of Schoolcraft College. "A lot of people don't know we are there."

"One problem with buildings is predicting when you have to have them," he said. "You can't decide you need a building and have it in a month or two."

LaRue said he has no "grandiose plans" for his tenure.

But "whatever we do has got to be essentially a board effort and we've got to work closely with the administration and others at the college."

He's happy about the board's recent decision to revise the by-laws to add an open study session each month.

"The meetings were getting pretty long," he said, "and many things just can't be covered thoroughly enough in a meeting once a month."

He'd like to see counseling and academic presentations at the study sessions, as has been done in the past.

LaRue concedes the Schoolcraft board is widely regarded as the most political community college board in the state.

But he thinks the reputation undeserved.

"We may be more politically conscious than some," he said, "but I don't think politics enters into decisions of the board."

"When I joined the board four years ago it wasn't political," LaRue said. "In the past two years or so there have been some political figures on it, but I think if you look at their records you'll find their votes were not along party lines. Many, many votes were unanimous."

"There have been two examples of people whose work on the board led to further political office," he observed. "But I think the reputation of being a political board goes back more to the nature of the people who got on it. And after all, you have to be some kind of a political animal to get elected."

A bigger problem than politics, LaRue believes, is the matter of community recognition.

"A lot of people don't know we are there," he said.

"Being located in a big metropolitan community where there are a lot of things going on" is a disadvantage, he maintained.

The combined population of Schoolcraft's drawing area is about 200,000, he said.

"If we existed in a city that size about 100 miles from Detroit, Schoolcraft would be known," he declared.

Two other factors prevent active student participation in school affairs, he believes.

One is the fact that around 80 per cent of the student body works either full or part time. The other is poor transportation.

How to stimulate community awareness has LaRue baffled.

"We get wonderful coverage in the Observer," he said, "but sometimes I get the feeling people don't read."

"We need to try a number of things" to make folks aware of the campus, LaRue said. "We've tried cultural programs and community programs. The rock concert brought in thousands of young people. The summer chamber music concerts have been great. The Garden City Center has helped."

"The community gardens have been an attraction. The open house we held before the last millage election (which we lost) drew others, and I think we ought to have some sort of open house every few years."

"The spaghetti dinners this spring were very successful in bringing in high school seniors. Making Schoolcraft known is just a continual process, and we have to try a variety of means."

One difference between Schoolcraft and the resident campus is that "many students are there just for classes," LaRue said, adding: "I don't know what percentage of Schoolcraft students take part in extra curricular activities but I expect it is fewer than a college where the students live on campus."

The Garden City Center was described by LaRue as "sort of an experiment."

"We have to see how it goes before deciding whether other centers would be useful," he said. "The question is whether we get enough students in one place to give a variety of courses."

The Garden City Center "by no means is giving a full program, just some classes."

It was established because of short classroom space at the Haggerty Road campus, distance and the feeling of some that "Garden City was not tied in closely with Schoolcraft."

Space problems are easing with construction of an addition to the Applied Science Building and a start on a Liberal Arts Building.

Continuation of the Garden City Center beyond this year "depends on how things go," LaRue said, and how well it "takes care of people."

LaRue disagrees with his board's recent vote to go on record as favoring a board made up of one elected trustee from each of the five districts with the remaining trustees elected at large.

He favors at-large balloting for all trustees.

He called "cumbersome" a proposal to cut the Schoolcraft area into districts for election purposes.

"We already include parts of three counties," he said, "and some, including me, don't think we need a new set of districts overlapping each other."

(Schoolcraft takes in the Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth, Clarenceville and Northville school districts.)

Moreover, LaRue says the Schoolcraft area's rapid growth -- and he cited Plymouth and Canton Townships and Northville -- would "make it difficult to reapportion often enough to keep districts fairly equitable."

"The State Board of Education and trustees of large universities all are elected at large," LaRue argued. "So is the Livonia school board."

"It's my personal opinion that it (districting) just wouldn't go."

LaRue sees it as "unfortunate" the term "Haggerty High" ever got started as a nickname for Schoolcraft College.

"Junior colleges in some states are regarded as the 12th and 14th grades," he said. "I think that's true in California, for instance, and I think it's too high. I like to regard Schoolcraft young people as college students, not high school students."

Husky, grey-haired and a man who enjoys talking, LaRue has been a resident of Livonia's Rosedale Gardens subdivision since 1962. He is director of university and scientific relations for Bendix Corp. and has been involved at various volunteer tasks over the years with Livonia public schools.

His father was a zoology professor at University of Michigan.

CONSERVE ENERGY AND SAVE MONEY:

With your present air conditioning—portable or central. Proper use and maintenance can keep efficiency up and operating costs down. Some of the things that help a lot are: keeping your air conditioner clean, not overcooling and keeping it covered or indoors in the winter.

With the air conditioner you may buy. You'll get the best air conditioning results if you buy a unit that's the right size for your room or home. It also should have a high Energy Efficiency Rating (7 or above). You may pay more, but its high efficiency will save on operating cost and conserve valuable energy.

With the right ventilation, shade and landscaping. The outdoor portion of the unit should be shaded as much as possible, at least during the warmest parts of the day. Shading your home with trees, awnings, or vines can help even more. Light-colored paint and proper attic ventilation are also important.

With our free booklet. We have lots more tips for you. Pick up your copy of "How To Get Your Money's Worth From Your Electric Air Conditioner" at your nearest Detroit Edison office. Or write us: Detroit Edison, Room 473-CB, 2000 Second Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Time To Assemble A Colonial Dried Bouquet

By BETTY MASSON
Special Writer

If bouquets of garden flowers give you pleasure all summer, why settle for plastic blooms in winter?

Dried flowers, foliage and seed pods can be used to create natural bouquets that have a great deal more charm and appeal than any man-made plastic flowers.

These "everlasting" bouquets of real flowers are becoming increasingly popular. Actually, this is not really something new, but is a return to popularity of an old-fashioned type of bouquet.

Dried bouquets were used extensively in 18th century England, and in Colonial American homes.

Revival of the art of making dried bouquets is due to people like Mrs. Louise B. Fisher who arranged flowers at Williamsburg, Va. She did extensive research on the kinds of flowers grown and on the art of preserving and arranging them in an appropriate style. Marshall Engel, at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, is also a master at drying and arranging natural plant material to enhance the period rooms.

In 18th century homes flowers were displayed everywhere there was room. One exception where flowers were seldom used, was on the dining room table. Here an arrangement of fruit served a dual purpose - for snacks and decoration.

In Colonial times flowers were preserved by drying in a very simple way. In most cases the blossoms to be preserved were picked when the buds were partly open just before the flowers reached their prime. The stems were stripped bare of leaves and six or eight stems were tied together in a loose bunch and hung head down in a dark, dry, relatively warm room.

The colors fade some, becoming softer, more delicate, more subtle.

This simple treatment doesn't work for all flowers, but there are a great many that can be handled in this way. Most successful are flowers with rather stiff, papery petals.

One of the favorites - now as well as in Colonial times - is globe amaranth (Gomphrena globosa). These are showy garden flowers that bloom from mid-summer until frost. The plants, which grow 1 1/2 to two feet tall, bear clover-like heads of white, pink or red flowers that have a straw-like texture. These grow especially well in hot dry situations.

Dried strawflowers are available at garden centers and florists, but you can easily grow your own. The plants, which are annuals, are grown from seed sown in spring.

From mid-summer on the plants are covered with many-petaled flowers that are up to 2 1/4 inches across. Colors include crimson, rose, salmon, russet, yellow, and white. Regular varieties grow 2 1/2 feet tall. There are also dwarfs that are 1 1/2 feet tall.

Similar to strawflowers are acroclonium, which are in pale shades of white, buff or soft rose, and xeranthemum, which have silky looking petals in bright shades. These are listed in most catalogs.

Statice is another flower that dries well. The perennial kind produces sprays of bright lavender-purple blooms. The annual statice includes colors such as pink, yellow, rose, and white as well as blue and lavender shades.

Yellow yarrow, a perennial, is a handsome plant in the garden and the flowers are especially effective in dried bouquets. The bright yellow round, flat flower-clusters of pale to a dull old-gold that combines well with other dried flowers.

Feverfew are easily grown annuals with masses of small button-like white or yellow flowers. These can be dried and used to lend variety to a mixed bouquet, or can be used as the main feature in a small-scale arrangement of dried flowers.

A bit of baby's breath lends an airy grace to mixed dried arrangements - or a great mass of it can be used for an easy, but artistic bouquet.

Other garden flowers that can be dried by hanging head down include blue salvia, red salvia, larkspur and celosia. The spikes of bloom will lend variety to everlasting bouquets.

There's no need to limit your dried arrangements to garden flowers. There are many wild flowers that can be dried and used to add interest to winter bouquets.

Golden rod is one that should not be overlooked. It is coming into bloom now and will soon be plentiful. It can be used as filler in other bouquets, or can be used for a mass of blooms in a large crock or jug, or even in a copper pot or kettle.

However, there's a trick to drying golden rod blooms. Unlike most others, they should be cut before the buds open. Choose blooms with buds that are plump but still closed. They will open and fluff out some after they are cut, but will remain firmly attached to the plants.

Boneset, Joe-pye-weed and pearly everlasting are other wild flowers that can be dried.

Pick and dry some plummy grasses. A few tucked into a mixed bouquet will add a graceful note.

Also, be on the look-out for interesting pods to include in the arrangements. Look for teasel, milkweed, the red hips of wild or hedge roses.

Iris, daylilies, balloon flowers and other garden plants produce interesting seed pods.

There are many others, too, such as bittersweet, Chinese lanterns, silver pennies (lunaria) that can be used alone or in combination with other dried flowers.

Although the easiest way to dry flowers is by hanging them head down in a dark dry place, even better results can be obtained by drying blooms in silica gel crystals or in a mixture of borax and corn meal. Flowers that would otherwise wilt can be handled by this method. Use an airtight container and carefully cover blooms with the drying substance for a few days or for as long as needed to draw the moisture from the petals.

Dried flowers are well adapted to making 18th century bouquets which depend for their appeal on a mass of blooms. Huge bouquets can be fashioned in this style or tiny "nose-gay" bouquets can be made. These small bunches of flowers would be appropriate on a small lamp table, on a book shelf, or even on a window sill.

There's no limit, though, to the kinds and styles of arrangements that can be made with dried natural plant material. Dramatic contemporary arrangements can be made, or even arrangements with an Oriental flavor.

Choose containers that harmonize with the decor of the rooms in which they are to be used, and that enhance the color and beauty of your dried plant material.

At Williamsburg the containers are filled with dry fine sand. When the stems are inserted in this they are held firmly in place, and the weight of the sand gives stability to the container.

Since the dried material is rather fragile, it should not be handled more than necessary. Plan ahead. Decide beforehand what kind of arrangement you want to make.

Establish the general form or main lines first and then add the material needed to fill out and finish the bouquet. A dried bouquet may not really be "everlasting" - but it can look fresh and appealing for many years.

Pest Of The Week

Beetles never turn over a new leaf. They eat it. Then your trees, shrubs, vegetables, fruits and flowers. And still they're hungry.

That's because these beetles are grubs, the larvae of the beetles, and while they are growing up, like all youngsters, they eat more.

They feed on every kind of plant, from root to fruit and seed.

They eat stored food, woods, fabrics, furs, books, and countless other things, including even museum specimens and beetle collections.

Most grubs are soft-bodied, and some, such as the wireworms, are wormlike. They have hard heads and strong jaws and are usually very active.

They are more fierce and greedy than the adults. They resemble caterpillars, but they don't have the stubby prolegs that support the abdomen of caterpillars. Most of them are hairless.

Since insects are the most numerous of all the earth's creatures, the beetles are the numerical world champions.

And if they all seem to be in your garden or lawn or home at the same time, then use an insecticide containing a chemical called diazinon that not only kills white grubs of Japanese beetles, European and Southern chafers but over 120 other known garden insects.

Called Spectracide, the insecticide is a nonpersistent, broad-spectrum bug killer.

Women Take On Remodeling Chores

More women "handymen" are taking on major home remodeling jobs, projects once assigned to the man of the house, according to Judy Johnson, home improvement director for the manufacturer of Marlite paneling.

"The media has done much to convince women of their capabilities in traditionally masculine handicraft areas," Miss Johnson said.

How To Fight Your Garden Insect Pests

EAST LANSING
To keep ahead of garden insects, Michigan State University entomologists offer these tips on control:

• BLACK VINE WEEVIL—Sometimes called the taxus weevil, this pest feeds at night on broadleaf evergreens such as the Japanese yew (taxus), rhododendron, azalea, mountain laurel and wisteria.

The black adult beetle feeds on the lower leaves of the plant. Leaf edges will appear to have circles cut out of them. The black vine weevil lays its eggs in July. Eggs hatch into grubs in August and burrow into the soil where they feed upon roots of shrubs until cold weather sets in.

The small white grubs overwinter and begin feeding on roots again in May. They pupate and mature as adults in June.

To control the black vine weevil, use two sprays of Sevin (follow directions of manufacturer); one in late June and another in 10-14 days. Lower portions of the plant and the surrounding soil surface should be sprayed thoroughly before the adults lay their eggs.

• MITES—The mite is nearly invisible to the naked eye, although it is one of the most destructive pests to shrubs, flowers and trees. Mites are not considered insects because they are more closely related to spiders. Most species of the four-legged adults lay eggs.

Under dry, hot conditions, mite populations increase rapidly. Heavy populations may cause leaves of deciduous trees to fall early or conifers to take on a brownish appearance.

Mites can be controlled by spraying foliage thoroughly with either Tordon or Kelthane. Applications should be repeated every four days for three weeks for maximum control. Kelthane kills adult and young mites while Tordon kills eggs.

• LEAFHOPPERS—These green to dark brown insects suck the juices from a large number of plants such as ap ples, raspberries, trees and some herbaceous flowers. Honey locust is especially susceptible to their attack.

During summer and late fall, the foliage attacked by these insects takes on a pale color, with specks of greenish-white showing on the underside of the leaf. Their attack may cause locust to completely drop all its foliage during mid to late summer.

The insect overwinters in the egg stage and the nymphs appear during June. There are several generations each year. The nymphs as well as the adults suck the plant juices to cause damage.

Spray with Seven wettable powder or malathion emulsifiable concentrate if the pests are found in large numbers and causing considerable damage.

Bygone Days Recreated In Miniature

No one can bring back "the good old days," but across the country, craftsmen, handymen and housewives are recreating the bygone days in miniature.

The old country store, an 1850 carpenter shop, a revolutionary era farmhouse, an old Maine cottage, a Victorian mansion—all are grist for the miniature craft mill.

One ardent craftsman has even recreated the famous tourist attraction, India's Taj Mahal.

A multi-million dollar business in small scale items (one inch to one foot) — newspapers, footstools, candles, lamps, furniture, dishes, books, shelves, fireplace implements, and so forth — has sprung up to meet the demand for furnishings.

Most of these also can be used for the less demanding "first cousin" craft, doll house making.

Most miniature artisans begin with a simple project — a square room, a woodshed, a bakery shop — but once the "bug" bites, most go on to more complicated projects such as an 1890 railroad station, a Frank Lloyd Wright house, or a frontier general store.

For beginners and professionals alike, the task is made easy by creative power tools.

Basic requirements include a tabletop electric jig saw for cutting out walls, doors, furniture, etc., plus attachments that permit sanding, shaping, drilling, scrollwork, fine finishing, and handheld rotary tools that shape, de-burr, polish, drill, sand, and finish.

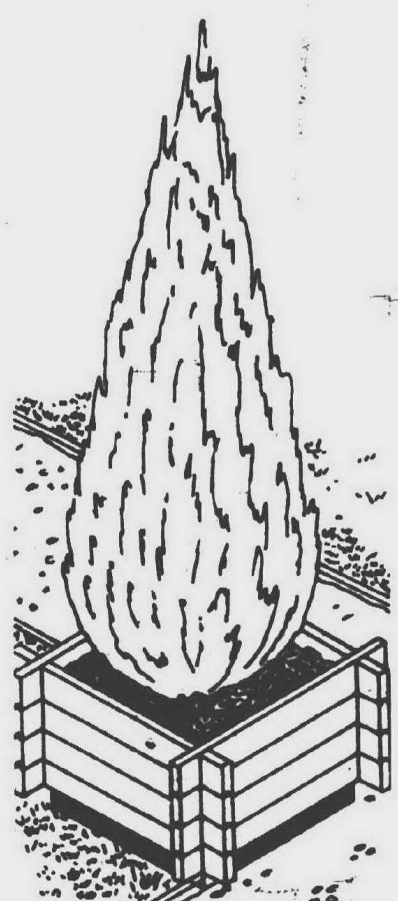

Nor are finished miniatures themselves their only reward. There's a brisk market for well-executed ones, and they can fetch a very at tractive price: $100 to $300 or more is not unusual.

Moreover, the art has "stature." As an example, the Art Institute in Chicago has a collection of miniature rooms that can only be described as fabulous.

Sound interesting? For a nudge in the right direction, send 50 cents to Dremel Mfg. Co., P.O. Box 518, Racine Wis. 53401, for patterns of its famous Mary Shreck miniature doll house.

While a doll house rather than a miniature, it will help introduce the beginner to all the elements of miniature making.

Uniform Building Code Planned For Michigan

The Dept. of Labor Construction Code Commission has voted in favor of using the Building Officials and Code Administrators International (BOCA) code in Michigan.

The ten member board has been evaluating major building codes as the basis for a uniform code in the state and proposed late Wednesday afternoon to adopt BOCA's Basic Building Code regulations.

The next step in the promulgation of a uniform code for Michigan will be a series of public hearings around the state before the plan goes through the legislative process for formal adoption.

Robert Hilprecht, commission director, recommended adoption of the BOCA code because a greater number of communities representing a large portion of the population are already working with BOCA as opposed to the Uniform Building Code of International Conference of Building Officials.

According to a six-month survey by the commission, over 50 per cent of the state's governmental units have no building codes at all. The commission has been meeting for several months and has listened to representations by both major building code officials. The governor-appointed board is also charged with the responsibility of providing for statewide approval of pre-manufactured units and the testing of new devices, materials and techniques.

The public hearings have been tentatively scheduled for September in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Iron Mountain. Notices will be published in the media at least ten days prior to the meetings.

Pick Vegetables As They Mature

Vegetables should be harvested as soon as they ripen, says Robert Herner, horticulturist at Michigan State University.

To attain highest nutritional value, this is the time to cook, can, prepare, freeze or use fresh your vine-ripened vegetables.

Harvesting vegetables as they mature keeps the plants producing for longer periods of time.

For example, says Herner, a cucumber plant may produce about 10 or 12 cucumbers if they are allowed to mature, then yellow and are not harvested.

However, if harvested as they ripen, 40 or 50 cucumbers may be produced.

When harvesting, do not pull or tear and damage the plant or step on vines. Hold the plant with one hand and snip, pinch or cut the crop with the other.

As soon as the vegetable crop or row is finished bearing, pull the plants out and prepare the row for the next planting.

"If you follow these steps with caution, you'll get a lot more produce in the long run," Herner concludes.

Your Lawn Slime Mold Is Harmless

EAST LANSING
Rainy weather or high humidity may cause slime molds to appear on your lawn. "These do not cause any damage, but may be annoying if you have a well-managed lawn," says Joseph Vargas, Michigan State University turfgrass pathologist.

Slime molds are bluish-grey, black or yellow masses in small areas of your lawn. Occurring mainly during periods of damp weather, they become powdery and disappear during dry weather.

Slime molds are not parasitic, notes Vargas. They belong to a group of lower fungi which live on dead organic matter. The only damage incurred is shading and a temporary discoloring of the grass.

Slime molds may be removed by mowing, sweeping with a broom or spraying with a strong stream of water. During prolonged periods of damp weather, large growths may be seen. In this case, apply a good garden or turf fungicide to affected areas.

Will City, Townships Join Mettetal Airport Project?

By WYLIE GERDES

LIVONIA
Livonia may be looking for backing from the City of Plymouth and Canton and Plymouth townships in investigating the possibility of public ownership for Mettetal Airport.

The Livonia city council is considering spending $5,000, to be added to $20,000 in state and federal funds, for a feasibility study of buying Mettetal. The airport, on Joy Rd., is in private hands but has been rumored for sale.

Although Livonia councilmen have split over the proposed study, some members feel an airport authority might eventually be formed to purchase and operate the airport.

A committee of Livonia residents brought Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and Michigan Aeronautical Commission (MAC) experts to their case before the council.

John Tatum, director of the FAA state office in Lansing, and Bill Hamlen of the MAC both stressed that Mettetal has been a part of both state and federal plans for airports in the area for years.

Hamlen said development of the airport has "one of the highest priorities available."

Tatum said Mettetal has been carried in national systems airport plan for years which qualifies it for federal aid.

Hamlen said the federal government will pay 75 per cent of acquisition costs with the participating city or authority paying 25 per cent. State funds could be used for the cost of some of the improvements, such as runways, he said.

Livonia officials argued over the city's role in development.

James P. McCarthy, head of the airport commission, compared the airport to an exit on an expressway. He said one airplane lands at Metropolitan Airport every three minutes. An expanded field would open the western suburbs to that traffic, he said.

Councilman Peter Ventura commented that studies of the need for an airport already exist. The community, he said should "get up on its honkers and lead a little bit."

Council President Robert Nash said the first step should come from Livonia because of its size. He also stressed the growth potential of the area. Plymouth, Northville and Farmington all could have growth spurges.

"Livonia eventually is going to be a rather small community," Nash said.

Councilman Jerry Raymond saw the city's participation as a step on the way toward an airport authority. An area authority, he said, is what "really I thought we would eventually get to."

He also said the fact that Livonia firms do not use airplanes does not mean they might not if one were available.

Opposition to the study came from Councilmen Jerry Brown, Edward Milligan and Robert Bennett. Brown and Milligan questioned the usefulness of the airport to Livonia. Bennett said the airport is a regional problem and should be handled through a regional agency.

Brown said that the airport would require some subsidy from the general fund. The FAA and MAC experts agreed.

The councilman added that expanding the airport probably would require condemning a farm south of the airport. Condemning land outside the city caused him to be "very concerned."

He also cited the city's growth and shrinking availability of land.

"By the time an airport gets going, Livonia will be filled up."

Milligan and Brown suggested an informal survey of the needs of Livonia business and industries for an airport.

If Livonia business and industries show some interest,

Brown said, "Then we can look at it more seriously."

Milligan said the council's responsibility to Livonia forced them to be parochial in their views toward the airport. He said the world is full of politicians who saw their role as representing county or regional interests and then were defeated by local voters.

Brown also argued against spending the $30,000 for the study. Ventura commented the city's $5,000 contributed "wouldn't be as mispent as a lot of other money we spend."

Correction

PLYMOUTH
An article in the Aug. 8 Plymouth Mail & Observer listed several points of the new property tax relief bill and incorrectly stated they apply to all homeowners.

The bill discussed in the article applies only to senior citizens' homestead exemptions.

Another state bill has been approved to grant tax relief to homeowners through increased income tax exemption allowances.

Road Patrol Is Extended

Sheriff's road patrol services for western Wayne County, scheduled to end Aug. 31, apparently will continue at least until Nov. 30, the end of the Wayne County fiscal year.

The extension was approved last week by the board's ways and means committee, which consists of all 27 commissioners who will consider the measure as members of the full board Aug. 28.

Approval from the ways and means committee came only after several township supervisors submitted written agreements to seek mileage to finance the police services.

At a meeting last month, the ways and means committee rejected an extension because committee members were unsatisfied with township efforts or committed intentions to share the cost of the free patrol services.

Following a decision two years ago to eventually cease free road patrol services, commissioners have asked townships to provide their own police protection or bear the cost of Sheriff's patrols.

Commissioners maintain that townships so far have received police protection paid for by taxpayers county-wide, and that this arrangement is inequitable.

The 33 cities in Wayne County either finance their own police departments or contract with the sheriff. There are 10 townships.

The commissioners also want written commitments from township boards of trustees before they consider next year's budget for the sheriff's motorized road patrol. Budget deliberations begin in early October.

Libraries Have Films For Aged

Nine local libraries have a special film service available to area nursing homes, homes for the aged and senior citizen housing units.

A collection of 100 16mm films is available for loan to licensed homes in Farmington, Garden City, Livonia, Westland, Plymouth, Southfield and Redford Township.

The films emphasize topics of interest to older citizens and include dramas, comedy, travel, history and films on the arts.

Recreation directors or representatives from the homes may pick up the films at the Farmington District, Farmington Public, Livonia's Alfred Noble and Carl Sandburg, Plymouth's Dunning-Hough, Redford Township, Southfield and Wayne-Westland libraries.

The libraries are affiliated with the Wayne Oakland Library System.

Projectors and screens aren't available.

5 Teachers Attend U-M Institute

LIVONIA

Five junior high science teachers from Livonia are taking part in an eight-week environmental science institute at University of Michigan-Dearborn.

They are Diane Burk and John Covert of Whittier, James Colton and Jean Gordon of Dickinson and William Ryan of Frost.

The institute, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, will run through Aug. 10.

The teachers spend eight to 10 hours each day in field studies, laboratory research, lecture-seminars and workshops in studying applications of basic ecological principles.

WHY INSULATE

Two very good reasons to insulate are to increase your personal comfort and save heating dollars. There are no cold floors, cold walls and chilly corners in a home that's properly insulated. The insulation slows down heat loss through walls and ceilings. At the same time, it helps keep cold air from seeping in. And, for summertime comfort, it helps keep the hot air out. Acting as a barrier to stop heat loss, insulation reduces your fuel consumption (in many cases as much as one-third). Obviously, when less heat is lost, less fuel is required and your heating costs are reduced. TO GET THE COMPLETE STORY ON THE BENEFITS OF INSULATING YOUR HOME, STOP IN FOR A FREE BOOKLET ON "WHY INSULATE?"

Campers Love Harrisville Park

Harrisville State Park is little in size but big with campers. It's the smallest of seven state parks along picturesque Lake Huron. But it has the second largest number of campers, and last year ranked fourth in attendance despite its far northern location, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.
Located just south of Harrisville on US-23, the 94-acre park offers scenery, woods and a half-mile of Lake Huron sandy beach. Swimming is good.
Another highlight is a mile-long foot trail which winds through a cedar swamp and among the pines. There also is a variety of wildlife, including birds. Nearby streams offer fishing for trout, bass and panfish.
Harrisville's 229 campsites are modern and have electricity. The campground has privacy due to dense tree growth and is close to the beach. There are several boat launching sites.
Other features for campers include a laundry, city water and trailer sanitation disposal station.
Also in the Harrisville area are two county parks, Alcona County Parks Nos. 1 and 2. Both offer space for tents and trailers. Lakes around Harrisville include Horse Shoe, Jewell and Hubbard.
North of Harrisville on US-23 is an unusual attraction, Hall of Ancient Man, with many prehistoric relics and displays.
West of Harrisville, just off M-72, are the towns of Lincoln, Barton City and Mikado. All are fine shopping and service centers for visitors.
The state park nearest Harrisville is Tawas Point, just a short distance south, with 282 sites. Other nearby state park campgrounds include P.H. Hoelt, 145 sites; Albert E. Sleeper, 335 sites; Fort Crescent, 181 sites; and Lakeport, 256 sites.

Plymouth Art Council Plans New Season

The Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) has scheduled a series of three professional theater productions to be presented for their winter season. Season tickets are now on sale at reduced pre-season prices. Those interested may send orders to Three on the Aisle, PCAC, Central School, Plymouth. Kicking off the season on Oct. 13 will be "Untamed Land" starring Jimmie Rodgers, country-western singing star. The company, which consists of 40 dancers, actors, singers, and folk instrumentalists, have appeared in more than 300 American cities during five previous tours.

The company has also appeared in 20 major network television specials and spent a 16 week tour in Europe.

"No Sex Please, We're British" will be presented on Nov. 11. Contrary to the implication of the title, the comedy is for family entertainment. The PCAC is still negotiating for a major star to appear in this production.

The final production will be "The Fantasticks." The council has booked the Continental Theater Company, of Kan. It will be presented March 30.

Gae McCord, PCAC president, is optimistic that the season will be a success.

"We're dealing with the same groups that bring plays and musicals into Ann Arbor and Detroit," she said. "And here we don't have the long drive or the parking problem."

"There'll be no charge for parking and the ticket prices should compare very favorably with those charged by the larger centers."

"UNTAMED LAND," starring Jimmie Rodgers will open the Plymouth Community Arts Council season on Oct. 13. Tickets may be purchased by sending orders to Three on the Aisle, PCAC, Central School, Plymouth, 48170. Featured in the production will be these professionals from the Americana Dance Theater.

Local Youths Perform

Two Farmington residents recently participated in a recital at the Northeast Music Camp at Ware, Mass.

Tedi Goshorn, 32035 Valleyview, played Haydn's "Presto" op. 33, no. 3. She is training on the French horn.

Paul Chabot, also of Farmington, played "Scherzo" by Beethoven. He is studying the tuba.

Farmington Group Efforts Awarded

The Farmington Musicales has won the National award of merit, given by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

These awards are granted on the basis of a point system which credits each chapter for the community wide activity and fund raising beneficial to musical endeavors.

Farmington Musicales made points by making a $300 donation to the Little Stone Church on Mackinac Island. The donation resulted in the original play, "Mackinac."

"An outstanding achievement this past year for Musicales was the inception of the music in schools appreciation program, projected to the elementary level," says Marilyn Truitt, Musicales president.

Other major activities being continued each year include music in hospitals and annual promotion of national music week. Musicales also contributes books to the Farmington library, gives funds to the Farmington Community Band, and proceeds from the last year's concert to donate stage lighting for Harrison High School.

Each year the group sponsors several music scholarships for college students and also spends hours at Northville State Hospital performing and directing music.

Another special donation this year was made to the Joseph Maddey Piano Fund at Interlochen's National Music Camp.

U-M Dancers To Perform

ANN ARBOR The Viola Farber Dance Company will present a performance in the University of Michigan Power Center for the Performing Arts on Aug. 16, at 8 p.m.

Tickets are now on sale in the office of the University Musical Society, Burton Tower.

New Concert Concept Given Symphony Fans

DETROIT There will be a new format to the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's concert season, opening Sept. 20.

In addition to being the debut season for Aldo Ceccato as principal conductor, the year will see the expansion of the orchestra's subscription series presentations from 22 to 25 weeks. The number of subscription performances will be increased from 44 to 55.

The concerts will be given in Ford Auditorium between Sept. 20 and April 27, 1974.

More guest soloists and conductors than ever before, including some of the most prestigious and varied talents ever to appear in Detroit will be included. There also will be a wider range of choices regarding artists, programs, prices and time of performances.

"The old idea of a Thursday evening concert repeated on Saturday night is no longer adequate for Detroit's concert needs," said Marshall W. Turkin, symphony general manager.

"And there is no such thing as a single type of audience for symphony concerts. There are many audiences and different ideas of what a symphony should offer."

"We are adding more options to the subscription season to reflect changing audience patterns, which I am pleased to say includes increased attendance over the past few years."

A four-program series entitled "Zodiac Concerts", scheduled for Friday evenings, will be initiated.

The symphony's Kresge Concerts, presented in recent seasons as five "nonsubscription" performances on Sunday afternoons, will now become a full-fledged subscription series offering six programs.

The highly successful Friday morning National Bank of Detroit Coffee Concerts will be expanded from four to five concerts.

Turkin said that audience age groups, tastes in programming, preferences in performance days and times are becoming more diverse.

He said there will be some modifications in the Thursday/Saturday subscription series plans, with a series of 20, 12 and eight concerts to be offered now on each night.

There will be a total of nine adult and two Young People's subscription series as follows:

Thursday evenings at 8:30 - 20, 12 or eight programs.
Saturday evenings at 8:30 - 20, 12 or eight programs.
Friday mornings at 10:45 - five NBD Coffee Concerts
Friday evenings at 8:30 - four Zodiac Concerts
Young People's - four Saturdays at 11 a.m. or 2 p.m.
Sunday afternoons at 3:30 - six Kresge Omnibus Concerts.

Advance orders are now being accepted. A detailed brochure with an order form is available free from the symphony office in Ford Auditorium.

Current subscribers are now being sent renewal forms by mail.

Among the artists and attractions booked for the season so far are pianists Gina Bachauer, Jorge Bolet, John Browning, Michelle Campanella, Alicia de Larrocha, Gary Graffman, Haracio Gutierrez, Maurizio Pollini, Rudolf Serkin and Andre Watts.

The violinists include Mayumi Fujikawa, Franco Gulli, Silvia Marcovici, David Oistrakh, Itzhak Perlman and Isaac Stern.

Vocalists are John Alexander, Peter Binder, Gilda Cruz-Romo, Robert Johnson, Charlene Peterson, Anna Reynolds, Giorgio Tozzi, Helen Vanni and Ruth Welting.

Dance, opera and choral groups will include the Detroit Severo Ballet Company, Kenneth Jewell Choral, Rackham Symphony Choir, Turnau Opera Players, University of Michigan Choir and the University of Michigan Choral Union.

The guest conductors will be Matthias Bamert, Thomas Bricotti, Sixten Ehrling, Arthur Fielder, Paul Freeman, Rafael Fruhbeck de Burgos, Pierre Hetsu, Don Th. Jaeger, Samuel Jones, Andre Kostelanetz, Erich Kunzel, Andre Previn, Kenneth Schermerhorn, Georg Semkow, Stanislaw Skrowaczewski and Niklaus Wyss.

In addition, there will be performances by Dave Brubeck and his trio; Virgil Fox, organist; Antonio Janigro, cellist; Carlos Montoya, guitarist; New Heavenly Blue; and Edward Villella, star of the New York City Ballet Company.

Performances of Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana," led by de Burgos and the Verdi "Requiem" conducted by Aldo Ceccato will be highlights among several choral-orchestral presentations during the season.

Fewer Salmon But Better Catches Predicted

Despite the smallest number of coho and chinook in the Great Lakes in three years and stricter snagging regulations than a year ago, Michigan's 1973 salmon fishing season should be the best on record, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"The reason for this optimism is that Michiganders now rank among the best-equipped and most-skilled sport fishermen in the world," explains Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

"The average Great Lakes angler has between $3,000 and $5,000 invested in equipment, including the most sophisticated gear on the market, and he has learned how and where to catch coho and chinook," states Ratke.

"When salmon were first introduced into the Great Lakes seven years ago, coho and chinook were a mystery and few anglers knew what was needed or how to go about catching them," he adds.

The early salmon fishermen attempted to navigate the Great Lakes in a 12- to 14-foot boat with wire line and lead sinkers as his main fishing tools.

"Today, 18- to 22-foot crafts, depth sounding devices to locate fish, thermometers to find the proper salmon feeding temperature and downriggers that allow fishing to exact water depths are the rule rather than the exception," Ratke points out.

"Proof of the salmon fisherman's prowess in Michigan is evidenced by the fact that nearly two million coho and chinook have been caught in state waters during the past two years."

But in spite of this success, the salmon angler will be severely tested to prove his ability this season since fewer salmon will be available for catching than during the past two years. There are three reasons for this reduction.

- The loss of nearly 3.5 million coho in two separate disasters at the Platte River fish hatchery forced large cutbacks in plantings the last two springs.
- Selective plantings - initiated last year to eliminate unsuccessful salmon fishing and spawning areas - have reduced the number of salmon stockings in the Great Lakes and tributaries from a record 34 locations in 1971 to 28 in 1972 and 22 this year.
- Egg collections for future plantings at several Lake Michigan harvest weirs dropped by more than 60 per cent in 1972 as compared with the previous year because of too liberal snagging regulations in Michigan streams.

In all, approximately 1.4 million mature coho and chinook (salmon that are at least three years old) will be available for catching in Lakes Michigan, Huron, Superior and tributaries, a drop of about 300,000 salmon from 1972 and 150,000 from 1971.

Lakes Huron and Superior have been hit hardest by reduced salmon plantings. Lake Huron, which received 1.2 million coho and 900,000 chinook in 1971, had only 250,000 coho and 514,000 chinook planted this year. Lake Superior went from 500,000 coho and 250,000 chinook in 1971 to 150,000 coho and 470,000 chinook in 1972, a total drop of 130,000 salmon.

Even Lake Michigan and tributaries, which yielded 77 per cent of the 932,000 salmon caught in Michigan last year, were cut from 2.8 million coho and 1.9 million chinook plantings in 1971 to 2.3 million coho and 1.4 million chinook last year.

"Selective plantings also are being used extensively on Lakes Huron and Superior to phase out unproductive fishing and spawning areas," explains Ratke.

Along Lake Huron, only five locations received salmon in 1972, compared with 10 the previous year. Lake Superior plantings were cut from six to four during the same period.

"These areas have not been nearly as popular for salmon fishing as Lake Michigan," states Ratke, who points out that salmon fishing facilities (marinas, boat launching sites and the number of fishing guides) are far superior along Lake Michigan than on the other two Great Lakes.

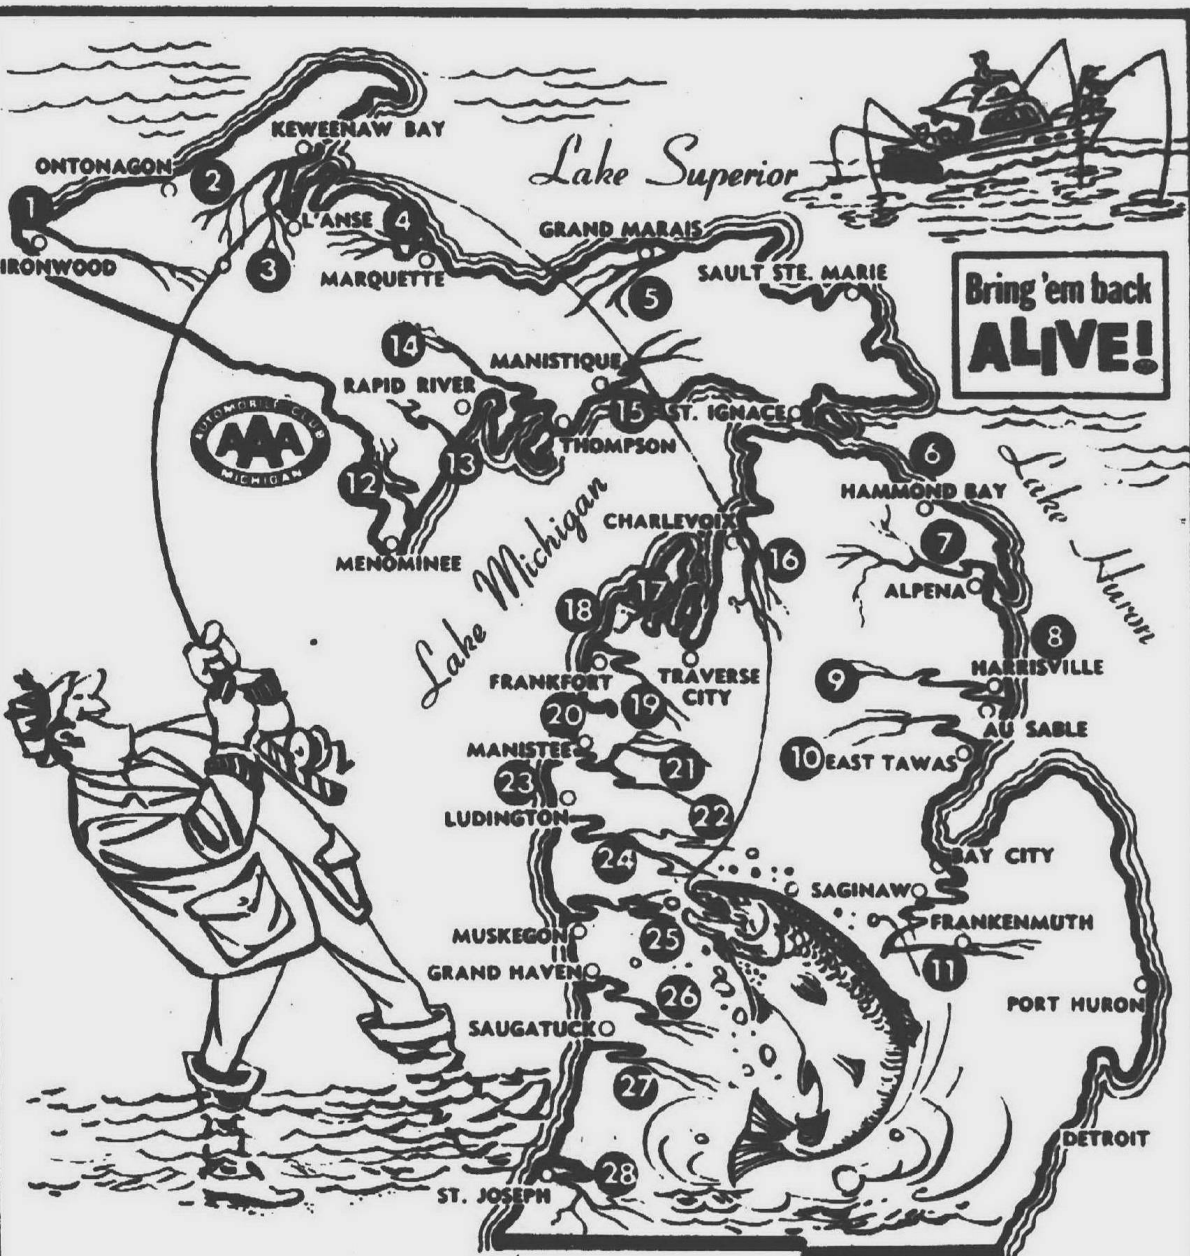

Only 212,000 salmon were hooked on Lakes Superior, Huron and tributaries in 1972 compared with 720,000 coho and chinook on Lake Michigan and environs.

To make up for the reduction in salmon plantings in Lakes Huron and Superior, additional lake trout, steelhead and brown trout are being introduced into these waters. Department of Natural Resources officials believe these areas are better suited for trout than salmon, especially Superior which lacks the abundant salmon food supplies available in Lake Michigan.

Because of the reduction in egg gatherings at harvest weirs last year, snagging rules have been stiffened for 1972 so that limited areas of only seven streams will be opened to snagging, including:

Manistique River from Paper Mill Dam (US-2) to the mouth during September and October; Manistee River, Tippy Dam to signs one mile downstream, September and October; Muskegon River, Croton Dam to signs one mile downstream, and US-31 to mouth, excluding Muskegon Lake and channel, Sept. 1 through Nov. 15; Grand River, Weber Dam in Ionia County to mouth, Sept. 1 through Nov. 15; Kalamazoo River, Allegan Dam in Allegan County to mouth, Sept. 1 through Nov. 15; St. Joseph River, Berrien Springs dam and US-31 bridge at Berrien Springs, Sept. 1 through Nov. 15; Cass River, Tuscola Dam in Tuscola County to mouth, Sept. 1 through Nov. 15.

Schoolcraft College Offers Recreation

A Sunday health club for individuals and families, classes in bicycling and sailing, and a swimming class for persons who instruct the handicapped are now this fall at Schoolcraft College through the joint efforts of its community services office and physical education and athletic department.

Those interested in the fall schedule should contact the community services office on the campus of Schoolcraft College, 18000 Haggerty, Livonia.

The health club will be open Sundays from noon to 3 p.m. beginning Sept. 9.

Yearly memberships are $25 for individuals and $40 for families. Guests may attend with members for $1 per visit.

Health club members will have full use of Schoolcraft's physical education building, which is considered by many to be the finest of its kind in the nation.

Activities include handball, paddleball, swimming, gymnastics, diving, volleyball, basketball, badminton, jogging, weightlifting exercises, ping pong, individual workouts and sauna baths.

Members will furnish their own locks, towels and gym clothing. Children under 12 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian and small children must be toilet-trained before using the pool.

Memberships are limited and on a first-come basis. Additional information is available from the community services office.

The bicycling class will be from 5-7 p.m. on Wednesdays beginning Sept. 12. A $10 fee covers six sessions which cover "selecting a bike" to competition training. Maintenance, safety and techniques will also be covered. The class is for 12-year-olds and up who can already ride and have their own bikes.

The basic sailing class will meet from 9-12 Saturday mornings for six weeks beginning Sept. 8. It will be limited to 10 students, and the ability to swim is required.

The first class will meet on campus. After that, actual sailing will be held on Kent Lake. Basic sailboat handling techniques, safety boat selection and other topics will be covered. Tuition is $5.50 and $11 for in-district and out-of-district students, respectively, and each will pay a $12 laboratory fee.

Casting Call

The Theater Guild of Livonia - Redford will have open casting for "Butterflies Are Free" on Sunday, Aug. 19 and Monday, Aug. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the guild's building, 15138 Beech Daly, Redford.

Old Fashion Fun Slated For Fair

Michigan State Fair time is right around the corner and there are countless forms of entertainment bound to please anyone who spends a day.

Opening noon Thursday, Aug. 23, and running through Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 3, this year's fair offers several new events plus many of the old favorites.

New this year is Festival of Foods which will feature demonstrations and consumer tips from food experts.

Sure to be a favorite is the "Around the World in 80 Days" style ascension balloon. Operated by David Claggett, an aeronaut, the balloon will be - tethered to a 70-foot rope. It will be in operation daily, weather and wind conditions permitting.

Good old-fashioned country style fair activities will be held throughout this year's fair.

The National Heavyweight Draft Horse Championship will be on as yet undetermined date. Horses weighing more than a ton will strain against giant weight for $4,500 prize money.

A special preview of the art show will be Aug. 22 from 7 to 9 p.m. It will feature professional and amateurs displaying their paintings, prints, drawings, photography, ceramics, and weaving. It will be in the Community Arts Building.

Prize market animals will be auctioned on Aug. 28 at 2:30 p.m. Featured will be the sale of the grand and reserve champion youth division steers and other ribbon-winning livestock.

The Michigan State Fair Honors Band and Choir will perform at 3 and 7 p.m. on Aug. 23, 26, 29, and Sept. 1. Members are selected from top high school talent throughout the state.

A husband calling contest will be Aug. 31 at 3 p.m. It is open to any women who can utilize the techniques in calling a hog.

A festival of worship will be Aug. 26 at 10 a.m. It will feature a Youth for Christ program.

Crowning of the fair queen will be Aug. 29 at 8 p.m. Local queens from around the state will vie for the title.

A youth showmanship contest will be at 8 p.m. on Aug. 25. Youngsters who have won champion showmen ribbons in the beef, sheep, swine, dairy cattle and goat divisions will compete in a round-robin competition to determine their skill in handling and showing the five species.

Racing and car buffs will be entertained by the Hurricane Helldivers from Aug. 24 to 26. Also featured will be the International Demolition Derby on Sept. 2.

Meadow Brook Ready; Stage Season Set

ROCHESTER A colorful season of eight plays ranging from musical comedy to Greek tragedy is being planned for the Meadow Brook stage next year. Works by Tennessee Williams, Agatha Christie, Carson McCullers and William Shakespeare are included in the eight theater season at Meadow Brook.

Terrence Kilburn, artistic director, said, "This season marks several steps forward in the projected life of the Meadow Brook Theater. We are presenting the Detroit premiere of a London comedy hit, 'How the Other Half Loves.' Also for the first time, we are staging one of the world's truly great Greek tragedies, 'Oedipus Rex,' in the premiere performance of a new adaptation."

The 1973-74 season also marks the return of a Shakespearean production, after four years, and by popular demand, the first murder mystery ever seen on the Meadow Brook stage.

The season will open in October with Carson McCuller's prize-winning play, "The Member of the Wedding." This heartwarming comedy portrays a crucial summer in the life of an adolescent girl.

"A Streetcar Named Desire" by Tennessee Williams will be staged in November.

The holiday production will mark the Detroit premiere of Alan Ayckbourn's comedy, "How the Other Half Loves." An imaginative tongue-in-cheek comedy of errors, it enjoyed a two-year run in London.

"Oedipus Rex" will be brought to the Meadow Brook stage in January. February will offer a change of pace, with the staging of Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River." This depicts a series of portraits of small town life, interwoven with haunting American folk music.

Shakespeare's delightful romantic comedy, "As You Like It," will be presented in March.

The mystery will be Agatha Christie's "Ten Little Indians."

It will be seen in April.

"I Do! I Do!" by Tom

Jones and Harvey Schmidt will conclude the season.

Negotiations are under way to bring some exciting new names to the Meadow Brook stage, as well as to bring back some of the outstanding actors who helped set attendance and sales records this year.

Stiff, No-Cut Jail Sentences Offer Best Route To Cut Hand Gun Abuse

By Philip H. Power
Publisher

This is why I agree so strongly with a proposal made recently by State Representative Lucille McCollough to require mandatory sentences for those who commit crimes with hand guns.

Mrs. McCollough, who lives in Dearborn and knows the feelings of her suburban constituency, urges five-year, no-parole prison sentences for anyone convicted of any crime involving the use of firearms. For a second offense, the term is doubled.

"This is a harsh, but necessary, form of gun control," Mrs. McCollough says. "Honest citizens deserve this much protection. Those who would use firearms for criminal purposes must learn that, if caught and convicted, they will not get off with light sentences.

"Law-abiding citizens should not be left defenseless by banning all hand guns," adds the lawmaker. "We have reached a point where the overwhelming majority of law-abiding people are victimized by the tiny percentage of hoodlums who have easy access to a gun."

This is a simple proposal. It does not penalize the decent citizen who wants to own a gun. It lays the blocks to the criminal who endangers the rights of all of us.

It deserves passage when the legislature convenes later this fall.

Let's Be More Sensitive In Use Of Ethnic Jokes

I see by the dailies that a group of Polish-Americans is raising cain with the television networks and other purveyors of humor because of "Polish jokes." In a way, they're justified, but in another way it's too bad the Polish joke has been so abused.

The truth is that 99 per cent of what we call Polish jokes are really "dumb" jokes; that is, they poke fun at ignorance and ugliness and can be ascribed to any race.

Around metropolitan Detroit, we tell Polish jokes, but in Kalamazoo they tell Dutch jokes, and in Canada they tell "Newfie" (Newfoundland) jokes. I have it on excellent authority that in Montana they tell North Dakota jokes.

Here's a bad example of a Polish joke:

Q. Who won the Polish beauty contest? A. No one.

Apparently, Kim Novak wasn't entered.

The jokes I enjoy most are the ones which illuminate human character, and I think there's a legitimate place for ethnic jokes. We can do without "dumb" jokes that are indiscriminately applied to Poles or Italians or Newfies. A good ethnic joke is one that can be applied to only one or two groups and has some degree of accuracy.

Here's a true Polish joke which, to my knowledge, has never offended a Polish-American with a sense of humor:

Q. What's a Polish seven-course dinner? A. A kielbasa and a six-pack of Stroh's.

It's possible to change some details and make it apply to another ethnic group - e.g., it becomes a German joke with a bratwurst and a sixer of Lowenbrau - but in its original form it can only be a Polish joke.

I have a terrific Polish joke about a guy from Livonia named Casimirovich who turns the tables on a guy from Farmington Hills named Brown, but there are children and clergymen reading this paper so I can't relate it here. Anyway, Casimirovich is the hero. Those of Polish ancestry applaud when I tell it.

Here's one that's told as a Polish joke but isn't:

Q. How do you tell an Ethnic airliner at the airport? A. By the hair under the wings.

Now that one is better applied to another, more southerly European nation. I won't name it here because they may put out a contract on my dog.

There's an excellent "cheap" joke floating around about two men who have a bet on which can make a dime go the farthest in the course of a week. I first heard a Virginia banker tell it in Kalamazoo as a Scotch-Dutch joke. Jews, Greeks and Armenians may also be substituted. Either Jacob, Nicholas or Aram can win the bet, depending on your audience.

Here's a genuinely fine example of all that is good in ethnic humor.

Three football players had flunked out of college and were commiserating over a cold pitcher. "Trigonometry," said the man from Ohio State, "was the death of me; that's why I'm not on the team." The Michigan man sobbed: "Calculus was my downfall." The man in green and white sweater blinked and said: "Did youse guys ever hear of long division?"

Let us, then, not kill the ethnic joke but be more sensitive in how we apply it. The land which produced Copernicus, Mme. Curie, Chopin, Wieniawski and Casimirovich deserves something better than "dumb" jokes.

Are Voters Willing To Accept Mediocrity In Education?

It took the sight of a 15-year-old Livonia lad as he was handed one of Interlochen's most coveted orchestral awards a week ago Sunday to crystallize in this observer's view just what it is we parents want from our public schools - and why we should be willing to pay the taxes to get it.

Perhaps I can put it most succinctly in reverse: What we don't want is mediocrity, or any encouragement thereof.

What we covet, and what we hope will become infectious among our young, is the desire to excel.

William Lyon Phelps once said, "Being educated means to prefer the best not only to the worst, but to the second best."

No less than Disraeli put it in these words: "It is a wretched taste to be gratified with mediocrity when the excellent lies before us."

What I am writing, of course, is intended to be pertinent to next Monday's special school millage election in Plymouth, to the abysmal problems of the South Redford School District, and to our general concept of tax-supported public schools in general.

As I sat in the glorious glade of Interlochen and watched clarinetist Thomas Horn from Livonia's Emerson Junior High (and about to enter Franklin HS) hailed as No. 1 of the 128-piece All-State Intermediate (Junior High) Orchestra, and watched his mother beam as he received his 1974 scholarship to the National Music Camp, I was not alone in my pride for this boy.

Yet I wondered whether he would have been there had not the Livonia School District, come hell or high water and in the face of devastating financial problems, kept it all together.

If Livonia can, why can't Plymouth?

The emasculation of the educational opportunities decided upon by the Plymouth Board of Education, unless 1.5 mills are approved Monday as an additional tax levy for five years, would pose such innocuous situations as these:

We'll teach speech, but can't afford to have a debating team.

We'll teach journalism, but God forbid that we should augment it with a student newspaper or yearbook.

We'll teach classroom music, but the budget won't allow public concerts by the orchestras, glee clubs or bands from the sixth through 12th grades.

We'll have a physical education program (including full use of two school swimming pools) but can't afford to transport our top exponents even as far as Northville for the fun of interscholastic rivalry in any sport whatsoever.

(Isn't it nice that Bob Thornblad and Ron Egloff got their four-year University of Michigan and University of Wisconsin scholarships for football excellence at Plymouth prior to the present board's action?)

Because of a millage defeat in June by the voters, the Plymouth board has found severe budget cuts necessary - nor will that board promise specifically what it will restore if given an additional $400,000 - plus by an affirmative vote Monday.

But these are honorable people, and I am sure they acted in considered yet painful judgment. Whether they explored all alternatives, to which there admittedly is valid question, is not the issue. The issue at stake at the polls Monday is simply whether a school system which long has boasted that it was one of Michigan's finest should overnight become one of the state's worst - one of Michigan's most mediocre, if you will.

Some of you will say the "3 R's" are enough. I submit, if you please, that education goes far beyond the formal classroom. The true education of a probing mind can come about only through expanding experiences, sometimes in surroundings neither anticipated nor provided. Without this second culture we are guaranteed mediocrity.

The word mediocre means neither bad nor good - just average - just ordinary - and it is the lot of many of us to be content with it.

But the Thomas Horns are none of those. Nor are the many others from Observerland who have been students at Interlochen this summer, or who are there year-around in its Arts Academy.

This isn't meant to say Interlochen is the only camp for the arts that is worthwhile, nor does it infer that our many scholars who have gone elsewhere are any less capable. In fact, many may be more accomplished. But I do have some Interlochen statistics which may make it plain to our dissident voters that we have in our midst the making of many a genius, and I use this only as a case in point:

Interlochen's enrollment from Farmington, Livonia, Southfield and Plymouth alone ran an amazing 55 for the full eight-week program this summer. There were several more designated solely for the choir. The intermediate orchestra had 17 from Observerland.

What Plymouth, South Redford and the rest of us are faced with was put by Dr. Joseph E. Maddy years ago in these words: "The purpose of education is obvious. It is to educate, not equalize."

Yet I fear that the castration which a 5-2 majority of the Plymouth school board would inflict upon the potential learning input in the formative years of our sons and daughters would result in just that type of graduate: "Equalized," because mediocrity will be the only standard.

One more word on Interlochen akin to what I already have called the "desire to excel":

It would go without saying that its directors are men of stature. However, two are particularly well known in this area, men whose own careers defy mediocrity and bespeak the desire to excel.

There is Kenneth C. Fischer, functioning from New York as regional coordinator of the American Association for Higher Education. Ken grew up and graduated from Plymouth, where his father, Gerald, was one of the most highly regarded school board members over many years.

Or take Ernest A. Jones, chairman of the board of D'Arcy - MacManus - Intermarco, Inc., one of the foremost advertising agencies in the world. Only three weeks ago Ernie, who wears like an old shoe, came to Plymouth for the fourth consecutive summer as guest conductor of the community band and loved every minute of it.

Should they settle for mediocrity? Should we?

No, that "wretched taste" which some negative voters would foist upon the next generation can be avoided only one way. The price is higher than it ever was before, but if we and our compatriots don't pay it, nothing will fail except the nation.

Leeds Orchestra Hospitality 'Huge' Success

EDITOR:
I wish to extend my most sincere thanks to the many people who were involved in making the five-day visit of the 76-member Leeds Youth Orchestra from England such a huge success.

Forty-six families in the Greater Farmington area opened their homes to either one or two members of the orchestra. They provided a place for them to stay, fed them, "unique" American food, and entertained and took them to places of interest in the Detroit area. My thanks to these host families.

Thanks, too, to the Farmington Community Center for serving as the host sponsor for the orchestra visit. And to both cities - Farmington and Farmington Hills - for proclaiming Leeds week in honor of the orchestra.

Sincere thanks go to my host committee members: Mr. and Mrs. Al Benden, Mrs. John Hughes and Mrs. R. Childress, representatives of the North Farmington High School band parents; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelley and Mr. Harry Williams of the Farmington High School band parents; and Mrs. John Murphy from the Harrison High School band parents.

A special thanks to R. Paul Barber, director of instrumental music at Harrison, who helped with concert arrangements and provided special assistance to Bernhard Armour, director of the Leeds Orchestra.

Thanks also go to the merchants and others for their contributions. Joe Blaszczyk of Valley Process Co. contributed the beautiful window posters announcing the concert. Burger King gave each guest a free meal ticket. MacDonalds furnished free orange drink for the reception when the orchestra arrived. Also, Town and Country Dodge in Farmington furnished a truck to pick up the orchestra's instruments at the airport.

The orchestra visit was indeed a worthwhile undertaking and I appreciate the help of everyone involved. From many reports it was a great experience for the host families and the English visitors.

God Is In Locker Room

EDITOR:
The column "Religion Update" appearing in the Observer Newspapers July 28, leaves me a little confused.

It expresses a negative attitude toward a style of Christianity which apparently does not fit the format accepted by the writer of the column.

It also implies a judgment on the validity of the faith professed by Tom Landry, coach of the Dallas Cowboys. Mr. Landry is an active member of an organization known as the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. This organization is comprised of literally thousands of athletes in professional, college and high school sports.

This is not to say that these athletes are any less athletic but it does mean that each has professed to have found a personal relationship with the Son of God.

They come from many churches or they may have no church home at all. Theirs is a personal belief quite often instilled by personal contact with those of like experience.

My Bible teaches me that we are not to judge our fellow man but that there is one final Judge who makes this decision because He, alone, knows all the facts. Our society today is prone to make decisions of this type without this necessary knowledge.

Ecclesiastical men with tiny minds have tried to confine God to edifices for formal worship.

While He may be found there, it is by no means the only place in which He may be found.

If we trace the life of the great Galilean as we find it recorded in the New Testament, we discover that He is present often in the grime of life.

We find him as he travels a dusty road, or in a boat, in a quiet garden, in the home of a tanner, or in deep conversation with sinners.

He is present also in a locker room, if He is invited in.

A reference is made to the phrase "God's Game Plan." It does not appear that the reference is intended to be complimentary.

Yet He does have a Plan and that is the basis of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

He is introduced by these athletes to their friends and all else who will listen to their experience of faith.

Activities Only Hope

EDITOR:
Re: R. T. Thompson's Aug. 1 editorial "What's Wrong With School Board Cutbacks Including Band, Sports?"

I am a junior at Plymouth High School and concerned about the recent cuts in the school budget. With the schools becoming larger and more impersonal as each new school year arrives, I feel that the many extra-curricular activities are the only hope left for it.

Not giving sports priority, music and other activities are also a very important part of many students' lives. Please give a chance to us who still care and want to participate.

I think we'll all be sorry when we find many high schoolers with too much free time on their hands and not any school related activities to join. We can't all get jobs.

Oh, I am sure we'll all make it through high school minus extra-curricular activities; but I am certain many of us would enjoy and benefit more if these were added on to our computerized academics.

Northville Has A Fair

Bingo, rides, a "smash-up derby" and a three-day Bavarian "August Fest" will highlight the Northville Community Fair scheduled for Aug. 24 to 26 at Northville Downs.

The Northville Chamber of Commerce sponsors the annual event. Prices will be nominal for food in the circus tent where the August Fest will be held, and there is no admission charge.

The tent will be open from 4 p.m. to midnight Friday and from noon to midnight Saturday and Sunday, with dinner served from 5 to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Responsibility Is With Adults

EDITOR:

I implore the citizens to restore the athletic, music, and extra-curricular programs back into Plymouth's educational system. It is your responsibility to return these necessary programs back to the students.

Due to the previously defeated millage proposals, the Board of Education was left with no alternative but to cut these programs.

We are going without these programs at the expense not only of the parents, but more importantly - the students.

The students, without these programs, have lost almost all chances of scholarships toward colleges. Athletics, band, and drama scholarships will not be going to next year's graduating class; they will have nowhere to demonstrate their skills.

Try to imagine going through your senior year without homecoming, yearbook, the school play, a marching band, Friday night football and basketball games, and spring concerts. Your memories of high school are not much without those things are they?

You now tell us that we are to go without these valuable programs. You are really asking a lot of the students of Plymouth.

This community's citizens have supported its students in the past. Why are they stopping now? The situation is clear: if the voters defeat this millage proposal the students lose.

I ask you to think not only of yourselves, but of the students - who will be most affected. In the name of the students, I urge you to support the students on Aug. 20 by restoring the badly needed programs.

Numbers Not Issue In Cuts

EDITOR:

In answer to Mr. Thompson's editorial "What's Wrong With School Board Cutbacks?", he is correct in saying the number was small attending the special meeting compared to percentage of voters.

Mr. Thompson is also right in stating the percentage of students is small who are members of either the music or sports activities.

This, though, is not just an issue over elimination of music and sports. The list is long and it covers items such as student driving. Can we afford to not teach youngsters the importance of handling a car properly? Field trips for students - ask any teacher the value of these.

And, yes even the school paper which teaches the student to express an opinion may be cut.

Excluding the senior citizen, who has to live on a fixed income, and who should be eliminated from paying the tax by law, the majority in our community, it would seem, could afford the slight increase.

In all of life the percentage is small who truly participate in activities, be it school, church, local government, or service clubs. Yet these are the ones who keep the fires burning, be what it may.

True, maybe extra-curricular activities are "frosting" on the cake; but isn't that what life is all about for those who choose to be not just spectators but participants.

Area Deaths

CARMEL J. STEVENS - Services for Mrs. Stevens, 84, of 2805 Plymouth, were held in Thayer Funeral Home with the Rev. Howard F. Snell of the First United Methodist Church officiating. Burial was in Michigan Memorial Park, East Rock. Mrs. Stevens died Aug. 9 at her residence after an extended illness. She had lived in the Farmington area 10 years.

Survivors are her husband, William P., and a sister, Mrs. Nellie Stegner of Farmington Hills.

LYLE J. SWEENEY - Services for Mr. Sweeney, 82, of 2000 Plymouth, were held in Columbus, Ohio, with burial there. Mr. Sweeney died Aug. 4. He spent his early years in Plymouth where he was a restaurant employee. He was a supervisor for a Columbus construction company at the time of his death.

Survivors are his wife, Georgia; a daughter, Henrietta; four sons, Perry, Paul, James and Dennis; a brother, Lloyd of Plymouth; and four sisters, Mrs. Art Pick of Kansas, Mrs. Milton (Roberta) Orr of Michigan, Mrs. Everett (Barbara) Morgan of Livonia and Mrs. Rex (Bernie) Dye of Ontario.

SANDRA J. PHILLIPS - Services for Mrs. Phillips, 24, of East Lansing, a former Farmington resident, will be held Thursday, Aug. 16, at 2:30 a.m. in Hooley-Sundquist Funeral Home and 10 a.m. in St. Alexander Catholic Church. The Rev. Fr. James Wright will officiate. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Mrs. Phillips died Aug. 12 in a motorcycle accident. She was a beautician.

Survivors are her husband, Joseph J. Phillips Jr.; two children, Dennis M. and Jill Ann; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd R. Kin of Farmington; four brothers, Joseph Kin of South Lyons and Charles, Robert and William Kin, all of Farmington; and a sister, Theresa Kin, also of Farmington.

PAUL G. SOLTIS - Services for Mr. Soltis, 28, of 21244 Randall, Farmington Hills, will be held at 1 p.m. today (Wednesday) in Hooley-Sundquist Funeral Home with the Rev. James Wright of St. Alexander Catholic Church officiating. Burial will be in Glen Eden Cemetery. Mr. Soltis died Aug. 12 in a motorcycle accident in East Lansing. He was a bric-a-brac dealer and served with the U.S. Army in Germany two years.

Survivors are a daughter, Kimberly Lynn; his father, Albert L. Soltis, a brother, James, and two sisters, Mrs. Carol G. Soltis of New Hampshire and Mrs. Jeanette G. Soltis of Largo.

GERARD E. HERBERT - Services for Mr. Herbert, 58, of 35201 Eight Mile, Livonia, were held in St. Gerald Catholic Church, Farmington, following a vigil prayer service in Thayer Funeral Home. The Rev. Fr. James P. O'Hagan officiated. Burial was in Glen Eden Cemetery. Mr. Herbert died Aug. 9 of a heart attack. He was maintenance supervisor at the Farmington Professional Pavilion and had lived in the Livonia area 25 years.

Survivors are his wife, Evelyn; a son, Gerard Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Richard (Joan) Nagas, both of Livonia; two sisters, Mrs. Della Karaman of Dearborn and Mrs. Rita Rupp of Riverview, and two grandchildren.

WILLIAM M. KELLER - Services for Mr. Keller, 51, of 33525 Grangerston, Livonia, were held in the Harry J. Will Funeral Home with the Rev. Ronald Johnson of Augsburg Lutheran Church officiating. Burial was in Acacia Park Cemetery. Mr. Keller died suddenly Aug. 8 of a heart attack. He was sales manager for Hertha's Electronics and a member of Lions Lodge 548, F.&A.M.

Survivors are his wife, Nancy; a son, Martin Taylor; a stepdaughter, Judith Grace of Livonia; three brothers, George of Warren, Eugene of Sterling Heights and Leonard of Detroit; two sisters, Mrs. Kenneth (Shirley) Sherman of Livonia and Mrs. Robert (Patricia) Woodward of Warren, and two grandchildren.

Grote Reorganizes SC Staff

By KATHY MORAN

Completing his first administrative reorganization, Schoolcraft College President C. Nelson Grote has created a new top level position but kept the number of administrators at last year's level of 31.

Kenneth Lindner, formerly vice president of business affairs, will fill the new spot of vice president of administrative affairs and become in effect, the No. 2 man on the Livonia campus.

The long-delayed reorganization involved mostly title changes and didn't include promotions, according to Dr. Grote.

Although the number of administrators wasn't increased for financial reasons, a reshuffling of jobs and responsibilities reflects changing priorities and a look toward the college's future growth, he said.

Greater emphasis will be placed on recruitment and placement of students and the extension center in Garden City.

Dr. Grote has worked with the same administrative structure he inherited from his predecessor, Dr. Eric J. Bradner, two years ago.

His plans to change the structure after one year in office were set back because of the illness of a chief administrator and failure of the college to hire a systems analyst to study the structure and propose changes.

The change in title is the first step toward Dr. Grote's ultimate goal of shifting responsibility for day-to-day operations to his top administrators.

"I want to have as few people answering to me as possible," Dr. Grote said. "I'm attempting to reduce the number of people answering to me directly in the day-to-day operation of the college."

Although the office will now assume a broader range of responsibility, Dr. Grote said the change is not a promotion for Lindner. He said the change "legitimizes" Lindner's duties which sometimes cross department lines.

In actuality, the change will make Lindner, No. 2 man on campus in the president's absence, Dr. Grote conceded. Formerly Dr. Robert Keene, vice president of instruction, was No. 2 in the "pecking order" when the chief administrator was off campus.

Dr. Keene's responsibilities for the instructional program remain the same under the changes.

Dr. Grote said he disagrees with the contention that since the college is an instructional institution, the chief administrator for instruction should be in charge when the president is absent.

"I think you should leave the person in charge who is

KENNETH LINDNER
No. 2 Man

most able to handle the broadest range of problems which may arise," he said.

The title change has the potential for becoming controversial because Lindner had been critically ill during the last two years, missing several months work.

The position of director of the Instructional Center in Garden City has been officially added to the administration on a part-time basis. The position was started in January on a trial basis when the center first opened.

Clay Fechter, formerly director of social science, will direct the instructional center and answer directly to Dr. Grote. He will also serve part-time as director of public and human services, a new position. It includes responsibility for law enforcement and industrial security programs.

The personnel office will answer to the business office instead of Dr. Grote under the new structure, Dr. Grote had made the office directly responsible to him during his first year when Lindner was sick and the college was involved in negotiating employee contracts.

A part-time position of director of institutional research and planning has been created and will be filled by Norman Wheeler. Wheeler will handle his former position as director of math and science on a part time basis along with the new position.

Eventually, Dr. Grote would like the institutional research position as full time office, he said.

"This is a position I identified as a priority before I ever arrived on campus," he said.

Wheeler will assist in both internal research projects, such as aiding instructors investigating new methods of teaching, and external research, such as a demographic study of the college district.

Financial aid and placement of students were formerly handled by one person, Keith Witmer, but has been split into two full time positions beginning this fall.

Witmer will handle financial aid, and Ronald Monfette, formerly director of apprenticeship, will handle student placement. Monfette's former responsibilities have been divided between an instructor and the director of technology.

Fred Petersen's position as business manager has been changed to manager of business services with responsibility for most business operations except personnel

Under the new structure, Robert Orr's position as director of physical plant will become answerable directly to Lindner rather than Petersen. Another position, manager of business and finance, has been created but won't be filled this year.

"The changes we made this year are logical, transitional steps toward our long range plan," Dr. Grote said, adding that long range changes may take several years.

"We were trying to look down the road with our binoculars and antennas to see how the college should be organized in 1974-75 or later," he said. "We had to look at where we ought to go and where we are now and determine what the steps forward should be."

"We went into this study without any preconceived ideas of eliminating or adding positions or increasing or decreasing the number of administrators."

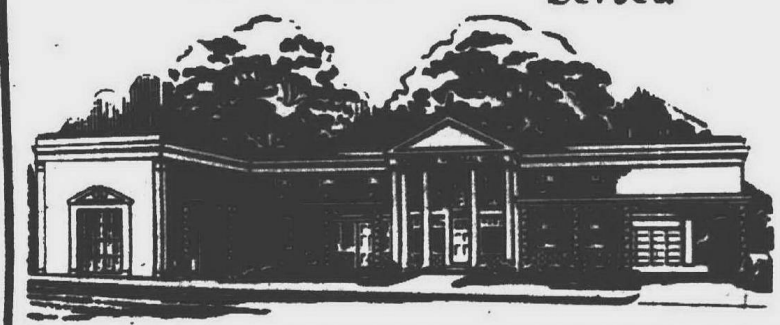

"From my point of view we were as objective as you can be and still be a part of the system."

Why Steelworkers Love Job

By STEVE BARNABY

Corroded bodies, rippling muscles, and craggy faces are the trademarks of road construction men. Underneath this tough veneer, what are these guys like?

To answer this, we went to the Jeffries Freeway project on Schoolcraft Rd. and talked with these "last of a breed" men who mold the multi-million dollar highways which keep this country moving.

They run giant earthmovers, carry 100 pound cement bags over each shoulder and, yes, even bend steel with their bare hands.

Building a stretch of highway takes the skilled hands and minds of laborers, carpenters, rod busters, cement finishers, structural workers, electricians, truck drivers and surveyors. All belonging to different unions, working for different contractors, they coordinate and put together a highway more easily than most of us put together the kid's bicycle.

Take the crew from local 425 of the Reinforced Steelworkers, working with Darin & Armstrong Construction Inc. of Livonia along the Jeffries.

These men lay the steel rods which reinforce the cement on an overpass. It takes between 40 and 200 tons of rod to complete an overpass, every foot of which is carried, wired, laid, and welded into place by these men.

Ed Hansen, 45, of 12124 Boston Post, Livonia, is foreman of his crew and talks proudly of what he learned through a three year apprenticeship program. During this time, he was taught how to read blueprints, became a certified welder, and worked in the field.

His son Steve, 21, a graduate of Stevenson High School, works on the job with his father as an apprentice.

"The hardest part of this job is coping with the weather. We might make a lot of money by the hour, but it's hard to put together a 40-hour week because of the rain," says the elder Hansen.

In his leisure time, Hansen travels around the country to square dance. He is presently the caller for the Livonia Livewire Square dancing Club. Although working year round outdoors, he has a penchant for camping.

Dick Camton, a Detroit, has been on the job for 20 years.

"I like this job," he boasts. "It's good to be outside and work. It builds up an appetite. Even a bologna sandwich tastes good after a day on the job."

Camton is one who has followed the family tradition. His father and grandfather were also reinforced steel workers.

"I like to go and bet the races at DRC. It's good fun and you win some. Of course you lose a few, too," he laughs.

Al Nagy, 14019 Denne, Livonia, a steel worker for eight years, dedicates his spare time to his family of a wife and three children. Besides fishing, umpiring, and playing softball, he coaches a Livonia little league team.

"Actually, we're not any different from anybody else. This is just a good way to make a buck," he says.

Hansen says he has come to know literally hundreds of men because of the numerous jobs on which he has worked.

These men are proud because they are free agents, able to go anywhere in the United States and work at their trades.

"That's one of the advantages of this work. You're your own man," says one.

MILT COTTRELL, of Livonia, works on the overpasses along the Jeffries Freeway. A steelworker, he lays the steel rod foundation over which cement is poured. Here he is straightening piers which are used to support the overpass. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

'Think Metric'-- LIT Course

Get ready for the metric system!

Conversion of our present measuring system already is in the planning stage at many major corporations while Congress is considering legislation which will officially change it.

Regardless, administrators and professors at the Lawrence Institute of Technology expect that the conversion will come about during the next five to 10 years because of the economic pressures of world trade.

To assist in the change-over, LIT this fall is offering a special course on how to "think metric." It is open for enrollment to anyone interested but will be directed primarily to engineering support personnel who may soon face problems in their work situations.

The metric system course, offered without college credit, will be taught on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 beginning Sept. 4 by Fay E. Gifford, of General Motors research laboratories.

Students may register now but no later than Aug. 30. Fee for the course is $30.

Further information is available from Dr. Richard E. Michel, dean of LIT's Technical Institute division. The college is at Ten Mile and Northwestern in Southfield.

CAPTAIN FRANCIS BOWKER gives some orders to Girl Scout Louise Fisher, at the wheel of the Brilliant.

KATHY FLYNN felt pretty small when she had to take a turn on the bowsprit.

SMALL BOATS were launched for trips to town when the Brilliant anchored at sunset.

m. m. memos

An old book given me by my aunt contains some of the most fascinating reading I've encountered in a long time.

It had belonged to her aunt, who received it as a birthday present by HER "affectionate aunt" in December 1867, and the pages are appropriately yellowed and brittle.

But the title is "Enquire Within For Everything," and I guess the ladies of a century ago really did. At any rate, there are 2,520 separate matters you could "enquire" about, with general topics ranging from bird - and bee-keeping through medication and minor complaints to tables of insurance.

Opening at random, I came upon such sensible tidbits as "It is asserted, and we believe with some truth, that singing is a corrective of the too common tendency of pulmonary complaints," "keeping the feet warm will prevent headaches," and "allowing children to talk incessantly is a mistake."

There was one item that may have aroused women's libbers of the day: "Moneys paid to a married woman, though for her own services, may be claimed by her husband."

There were a few reasons to be thankful I'm a housewife now instead of then. Such as:

"In winter, get the work forward by day to prevent running about at night with candles; thus you escape grease spots and the danger of fire."

"Wax may be taken out of cloth by holding a red-hot iron within an inch or two of the marks and afterwards rubbing them with a soft, clean rag." (I prefer today's iron and paper towels.)

"One flannel petticoat will wear nearly as long as two if turned with the behind part before when the front begins to wear thin."

(Guess the ladies then didn't sit down a great deal - in our time the behind seems to wear out before the before.)

And "to ascertain whether a bed needs to be aired, introduce a glass goblet between the sheets for a minute just when the warming pan is taken out; if the bed be dry, there will be only a slight cloudy appearance on the glass, but if not the damp of the bed will assume the more formidable appearance of drops, the warning of danger."

Definitely, I'm glad I'm in this century.

— MARGARET MILLER

Senior Scouts Take To Sea

Sailing, sailing, is a tradition with the Senior Girl Scouts of Mariner Troop 1176 in Redford Township.

They've been going to sea at Mystic Seaport, Conn. for more summers than anyone presently connected with the troop can count for sure.

And this year's New England delegation, which recently returned from a glorious week on the Atlantic aboard the 60-foot sailing vessel Brilliant, is as enthusiastic as any that has gone before.

Eight girls in the troop, advisor Dorothy Brown of Livonia, and Mrs. Brown's daughter, Suzanne, an alumnæ of Troop 1176, went on the trip this year.

Last summer the entire troop, 38 girls strong and filling a chartered bus, traveled to Mystic Seaport for a training sail aboard the Joseph Conrad.

Troop 1176 has been a regular participant in the sailing program sponsored for young people by the Mystic Seaport Association.

Mrs. Barbara Hall, Mrs. Brown's predecessor as advisor had sailed at Mystic when she was a girl scout in northwest Detroit. She took several groups of seniors there before Mrs. Brown took over the troop eight years ago.

"Since then," Mrs. Brown said, "we've gone every year except for a couple when we couldn't get reservations. It's one of the things the troop really looks forward to."

Sailors this year were Louise Fisher, Kathy Flynn, Judy Leith, Stephanie Hoyer, Karen Foglesong, Karen Salmento, Denise Michaels and Rene Pouget.

They took off by car July 15 and were aboard the Brilliant from July 16 to 20.

All served as crew for Capt. Francis Bowker, who has been with the Mystic Seaport program for 10 years, and Mate Jan Miles.

On board they took care of cleaning the Brilliant, raising and lowering its sails under the captain's direction, and the assorted other necessary duties on a sailing ship.

"We'd get up at six each morning," Louise said, "and a couple of girls would start to cook and a couple of others would wipe down the deck. Everyone else polished brass."

Occasionally the girls worked on cleaning salt off the outside of the hull.

They took turns in the watches aboard ship, and everyone had to spend an hour a day in the "pulpit" on the bowsprit up front.

"Kathy wasn't particularly happy about that duty, but she took her turn," Mrs. Brown said.

"This was not a new boat, so the pulpit isn't a seat like you see on the more recently-built ones. You just had to sit on the ropes, and climbing up is the bad part."

Louise had a few turns at the wheel, but because the waves were pretty high a good share of the time no one else tried that.

There was one day, they said, when the waves had the boat listing so much that water came up over their ankles. "No one was seasick, but a couple of the girls didn't show for lunch that day," said Mrs. Brown.

"And then there were times when we just sat and watched the pretty smooth water," she added. The Brilliant did have an auxiliary motor, but Capt. Bowker chose not to use it except in an emergency.

The girls did the cooking in the galley. But unlike many other Girl Scout outings, they did not plan the menu. That is the mate's job aboard ship.

"We really ate well," they agreed.

Everyone also agreed the trip was "absolutely fantastic," and that, said Mrs. Brown, was a standard reaction.

"I've never taken a girl who wished she'd stayed home," she commented.

Applications already have been sent to Mystic Seaport so that Mariner Troop 1176 can go again next year.

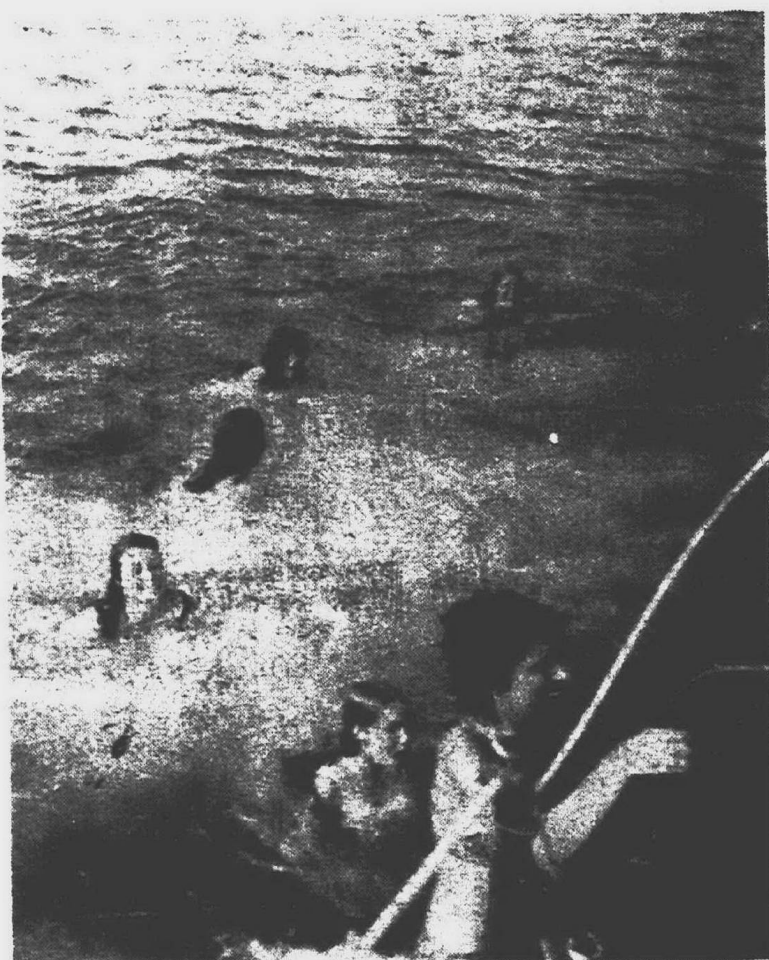

Mrs. Brown said she hopes to take groups both for the training on the Conrad and again aboard the Brilliant.

"We'll have a lot of new girls in the troop ready to take the training," she said, "and there are some who went last year and still want a chance to sail the smaller boat."

Louise also is applying to work on the staff at Mystic Seaport next summer. If she does, she's likely to meet plenty of familiar shipmates from Redford.

EVERYONE JUMPED into the Atlantic for a dip one sunny afternoon...

...BUT IT WAS colder than it looked, and they couldn't get out fast enough. (Photos taken for the Observer by Mrs. Dorothy Brown)

'I Will Speak' Is Motto

By MARGARET MILLER

George Town of Redford Township lost his voice - box and his voice and had to learn to talk all over again.

Now he helps boost morale for others in the same situation and on the side tries to give kids the information that might keep them from getting into his predicament.

Town had cancer of the larynx, the part of the throat that produces the voice, and in March of 1971 underwent a laryngectomy.

"The night before the surgery was the last time I talked as others do," he said.

But he's learned to talk again - by esophageal speech that involves swallowing air through a hole in the esophagus, or windpipe, and using that organ to form the sounds.

He does it well. His esophageal speech comes out an only slightly - distorted version of the voice known before the surgery to family, friends and fellow workers in the Detroit bureau of the Associated Press.

Now retired from his AP maintenance job, Town uses his new voice a lot to help others who have had laryngectomies.

He serves as vice president of a club for laryngectomies in the metropolitan Detroit area. Its name is Anamilo (Greek for "I speak again.") He edits the club's monthly newsletter, "Let's Talk." He pays frequent visits to the learn - to - speak school operated by the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

He also has visited Ford Junior High School in Westland - and stands ready to make similar visits to other schools - to tell students why he hopes they decide against becoming smokers.

"Me, a three - pack - a - day man prior to my laryngectomy," he laughs.

Town and his wife, Kay, have just returned from a trip to Los Angeles for the 22nd annual convention of the International Association of Laryngectomies.

"Detroit's Anamilo Club was one of the originators of the IAL," he said, "and Harold Algar, president three times and the man who taught me to speak, is a member of the international board of directors."

In a recent issue of "Let's Talk," Town wrote a bit about the local club for the benefit of new members and their relatives.

"We have better than 400 members," he noted, "with about 100 actively attending our monthly meetings. Our newsletter has a circulation of approximately 600."

"We are a dedicated group wanting to aid laryngectomies in this area in any way we can. We visit people prior to their surgery and afterwards, but only with the doctor's permission."

"We try to impress that we survived and that if we could learn to talk surely they should be able to. About 75 per cent return to work, the other 25 per cent taking retirement."

"Some members speak to student nurses, explaining the low morale a person feels when he finds himself speechless immediately after the operation."

"Some speak at 'don't smoke' clinics and to high school student groups about the aggravation cigarettes can cause to your larynx."

"We try to help people talk

Women on the Go

By MARGARET MILLER
Women's Editor

She Champions Working Women

Rights of working women are a major concern for Redford Township's Millie Rowison, who has numbered herself in that group most of her adult life.

This mother of three would like to see more women who hold jobs aware of what's possible with regard to working hours, pensions, insurance and other benefits.

Recently she outlined some of her advice in remarks to a women's concerns seminar sponsored by the 17th Congressional District Women's Democratic Caucus.

Mrs. Rowison, who works as an accountant for Chrysler Local 869 of the United Auto Workers, is as interested as her employer in helping working women — and men, too — avoid long hours of compulsory overtime.

But what the UAW is trying to win at the bargaining table can also be achieved, Millie Rowison points out, in the legislative halls of Lansing.

"A bill has been introduced to place a legal limit of 40 hours a week on the amount of time an employer require a worker to be on the job," she said.

"It's House of Representatives bill 4537 and Senate Bill 136."

If people would write to their state representatives or senators now or when the Legislature reconvenes in the fall, she said, Michigan could have a law that would remove the problems of production line weariness.

"This is important for both men and women who work in factory jobs," she said.

"We are hearing too many reports that young people in the plants are finding the very long hours extremely taxing."

Limiting hours for those who want limits would go a long way to make production work satisfying for women, Mrs. Rowison said.

"I want to see it happen," she added, "because I feel so strongly that people should feel comfortable in their work, find it satisfying and take pride in what they produce."

Limitation of hours and job classifications for women — in force before the Equal Rights Amendment — were an unnecessary and unwanted restriction on women interested in supervisory jobs in factories, Mrs. Rowison said.

"It's right that men and women should have equal opportunities," she added. "But the long overtime should not be forced on workers who do not want it."

Mrs. Rowison also said

Couple Gets Medal Of Honor On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Badilas of Farmington now are proud possessors of the St. Paul medal of honor, highest honor the Greek Orthodox Church can bestow.

It was presented to them by Bishop Germanos of the Seventh Diocese on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, celebrated the last weekend in July.

Over 200 friends and relatives gathered at the dinner-dance celebration held in the Community Center of the Saints Constantine and Helen Church, Detroit.

The party was given by the couple's children, John and Helen Madias and grandchildren, Mike and Wanda Madias of Los Angeles, and Kathy, Nikki, Maritsa and Annette Madias of Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Badilas were married July 7, 1923, in Weirton, W. Va. where they lived for many years. In 1951 they moved to Detroit.

Throughout their lives they placed emphasis on church, and civic projects and they have remained active in these areas.

Mr. Badilas is a charter member of the national progressive organization AHEPA.

Mrs. Badilas is honorary president of the local philanthropic organization, Philoptochos and a charter member of the Seventh Archdiocesan District Council of the Greek Orthodox Church. She received a citation from the Greek government for her work in the Greek War Relief.

Mr. and Mrs. Badilas have both received citations from the American government for their work in Defense Bond Drives and from former Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh and Mayor Roman S. Gribbs for their contributions to the community.

Sandra Certo Is Bride

Sandra L. Certo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick A. Certo of Hillcrest Avenue, Livonia, became the bride of

MRS. RUSSELL POPP (Sandra Certo)

Russell A. Popp in a recent ceremony in St. Genevieve Catholic Church in Livonia.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Popp of Columbus, Ohio.

Officiating for the early afternoon rites was the Rev. Ferdinand Wolber, and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

She wore a white floor-length gown with long, full sleeves and lace and beading trim. Lace edged her full-length veil, and she carried a small cascade of white carnations and pink rosebuds.

Dona Certo, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pink and white dotted swiss dress and carried pink and white carnations and baby's breath. Michael Lynch of Columbus was best man, and the guests were seated by Greg O'Brien of Columbus and Nicky Certo, of Livonia, brother of the bride. Tina LaPere of Westland was flower girl and John Popp of Columbus was ring-bearer.

For the wedding and Roma Hall reception, Mrs. Certo wore an aqua floor-length dress and Mrs. Popp selected a yellow gown.

The couple will live in Farmington Hills. The new Mrs. Popp attends Michigan State University and has been employed by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Her husband studied at Ohio State University and Michigan State and has worked for Standard Oil of Indiana.

The bridesmaids were Janet Bolz of Livonia and Lisa Popp of Columbus, sister of the bridegroom.

Nielsen-Rickey Vows Spoken

Barbara Ann Nielsen became the bride of Paul Norman Rickey in an Aug. 11

MRS. PAUL RICKEY (Barbara Nielsen) ceremony in All Saints Episcopal Church, East Lansing. The couple's parents are

Mr. and Mrs. Willis L. Nielsen of Lansing and Mr. and Mrs. George Rickey of Leyte Road, Farmington.

The Rev. George Long of Lansing and the Rev. Kenneth Davis of Livonia performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore an empire waist angel skin gown with alencon lace appliques and carried stephanotis, baby's breath, white roses, blue daisy mums and ivy.

Peggy Emerson of Glenview, Ill., maid of honor, wore an empire waist gown in blue print with picture frame hat.

Bridesmaids were Vivienne Manwaring of Farmington, Paula Rickey of Southfield, Sue Hutchinson of DeWitt, Pat Mierzwa of East Lansing and Beth Hanreid of Lansing. Michele Nielsen of Lansing and Stephanie Manwaring of Farmington were flower girls.

Best man was Kenneth Rickey of Farmington and ushers were Robert Nielsen of Lansing, Louis Mika of Livonia, Dennis Miller of Hopkins and Jim Phillips of Farmington.

For the ceremony and reception in the church, Mrs. Nielsen wore an apricot chiffon gown and Mrs. Rickey chose blue polyester.

After a honeymoon in northern Wisconsin, the couple returned to East Lansing where the bridegroom is a senior at Michigan State University.

Kenneth Baldinger Married

Kenneth Roger Baldinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baldinger of Livonia, claimed Charlotte Margaret Behrendt as his bride in a recent ceremony in Guardian Lutheran Church in Dearborn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Behrendt of Dearborn.

The Rev. T. H. Voss performed the nuptial ceremony and the Rev. Paul Waschlewsky, grandfather of the bride, gave the blessing.

The bride's gown was silk organza with venetian lace forming bodice, sleeves, cuffs and a ruffle at the hemline. She wore a fingertip three-tier illusion veil held by a headpiece of flowers and carried white carnations and yellow baby's breath.

Her attendants wore yellow dotted swiss gowns with white flocked daisies and carried baskets of white daisy mums.

Mrs. Bonnie McCracken of Detroit was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Elaine and Barbara Behrendt, sisters of the bride, Chris Baldinger, sister of the bridegroom, and Jane Ridley.

Best man was James Wilkie of Long Beach, Calif. Serving as ushers were Timothy Baldinger, brother of the bridegroom, Robert and Daniel Behrendt, brothers of the bride, and Kenneth Sell of Detroit.

Mrs. Behrendt chose a mint green polyester dress with long chiffon sleeves, and Mrs. Baldinger wore turquoise polyester with silver braid trim.

The wedding reception was held in the church parlor.

The newlyweds will live in Flushing, N.Y., where both will teach at the school of Chapel of the Redeemer. Both are graduates of Lutheran High West, Concordia Junior college in Ann Arbor and Concordia Teachers College in Seward, Neb.

Bride Makes Dress

Elaine Carol Mullins made the gown she wore when she was married to Robert Lee Quackenbush in the First United Methodist Church of Garden City.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mullins of Schaller Drive, Garden City and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Quackenbush of Mann Road, Pontiac.

The bride's gown, made with the help of a friend, Karen Craig, was white embossed cotton with empire waist and lavender trim. She carried purple orchids, and white stephanotis on a white Bible. She wore a lavalier that has been in her family four generations.

Sandra Mullins of Garden City, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore a lavender chiffon gown and carried a nosegay of lavender daisies and wild flowers.

Thomas Barnes of Pontiac was best man. Following the ceremony, a reception for the immediate family was held in Plymouth. The couple honeymooned in Florida.

Mrs. Quackenbush is a 1970 graduate of Garden City East High School and is employed by the Plymouth Rehabilitation Center. Her husband is a 1970 graduate of Pontiac Northern High School and is employed by General Motors Corp. in Pontiac.

after laryngectomy. And we have good times."

Town also reports good news — no illnesses, please — about club members and tells about new research developments that may concern them. The next issue will contain the report of a new device that involves a tiny microphone in the oral cavity to produce speech.

The esophageal speech is considered the best method, Town said. But some laryngectomees have more difficulty than others in mastering it.

There are more men than women who have the surgery, he said, but women seem to have an easier time speaking again.

"I guess it's because you can't shut them up," he suggested.

For George Town, attending the tuition-free school and working with other laryngectomees was "the greatest thing that ever happened to me — the best therapy in the world."

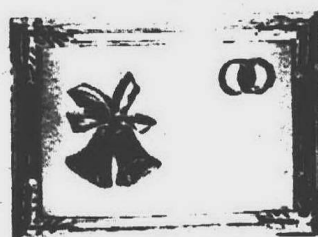

Which he considers a good reason for passing the word along.

Gardens Open For Club Tour

Grace Richardson's elegant country garden at 35960 Nine Mile Rd. in Farmington Hills will be open to the public Saturday, Aug. 18 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. as part of a garden tour sponsored by the Welcome Wagon Garden Club of West Bloomfield.

This garden, which features broad lawns dotted with unusual specimen plants such as a huge Japanese black spruce with pendulous branches and a Douglas blue concolor, also includes a beautifully landscaped swimming pool area, a secluded back yard patio and perennial garden, and a good-sized vegetable garden.

There is an unusual southern boxwood hedge, a redwood screen hung with baskets of cascading petunias, and huge pots and tubs of bright geraniums.

Other gardens on the tour include two suburban gardens in West Bloomfield and three condominium gardens in Pebblecreek on 14 Mile Rd. near Farmington Rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson's garden, 7305 Creekview in Pebblecreek is a courtyard that is a blaze of color. Shrubs and flower-filled beds surround a central patio, and there are vines and hanging baskets covering the walls and fences.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nichols, 7309 Creekview, have created a serene green garden with an Oriental theme.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brakeman, 7320 Creekview, have vegetables and herbs growing in containers on their courtyard deck.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Mularoni, 5638 Dunmore Dr. (west of Orchard Lake Rd. and south of Walnut Lake Rd.), and Mr. and Mrs. John Carroll have beautifully groomed suburban yards filled with many good landscape ideas.

At the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Messana, 3332 Parkland Drive in West Bloomfield, there will be a garden fair.

There will be an exhibit of herbs, including 35 kinds of scented geraniums, and there will be baked goods, herbs, plants, ceramic containers, metal sculpture, and a variety of other handcrafted items for sale.

Tickets, which may be purchased at any of the gardens, cost $1.50. The gardens are open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For further information, call Mrs. Aldona Kardis, general chairman of the tour.

Plans Social

Quakertown Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will have an ice cream social, Tuesday, Aug. 21, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Orvis L. Hanke, 33714 James Court, Farmington.

Guests of the chapter will be local women interested in DAR. Members will describe the work of DAR, and a genealogist will explain qualifications for membership and provide suggestions for establishing personal lineage.

It's A Boy

Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Davidson of Melvin Avenue, Westland, announce the birth of their first child, Nathan Andrew, on July 22 in Oakwood Hospital.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Davidson of Dearborn Heights and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Pickhardt of Cranston Road, Livonia.

Newlyweds Go To Hawaii

Susan L. Galsterer became the bride of Terry J. Clark in a recent ceremony in St. Lorenz Lutheran Church, Frankenmuth. The Rev. Guenther Schoepf officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lenore Galsterer of Genesee Ave., Frankenmuth. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Clark of Napier Rd., Plymouth, are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride wore a floor-length white organza gown with an empire bodice, mandarin neckline, long sleeves and an A-line skirt with attached train. She carried a cascade of daisies, baby's breath and miniature carnations.

Jill Slocum of Lansing, maid of honor, wore a long, sleeveless yellow gown and carried a basket of daisies and baby's breath. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Don Gardner of Lansing, Anne Wenzel and Charlotte Galsterer of Frankenmuth, Mrs. Gary Zellinger of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Bill Zehnder of Arlington, Va. Tracey Galsterer of Caro was flower girl.

David Clapper of Farmington was best man. Ushers were Don Gardner of Lansing, Richard, Ted, and Edward Galsterer of Frankenmuth, and John Raymond of Cheboygan.

For the ceremony and reception held at the V.F.W. in Birch Run, Mrs. Galsterer wore a salmon-colored chiffon gown and Mrs. Clark a sleeveless mint green gown.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii and will live in Farmington.

The bride received a B.S. degree in elementary education and teaches in Troy. Her husband is a Michigan State University graduate and a sales representative for the General Foods Company.

RENEE RIENAS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Rienas, of Lindsay Drive, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Renee Ellen, to Gregory Thomas Hochradel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell F. Hochradel of Monroe. The bride-elect is a 1971 graduate of Plymouth High School and a 1973 graduate of Cleary College in Ypsilanti. Her fiancé is a student at Cleary College. A Dec. 1 wedding is planned.

Ice Cream Social Set For Aug. 19

This year's ice cream social, sponsored annually by the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society, will be held at Pine Grove, 405 Oakland Ave., Pontiac, on Sunday, Aug. 19.

The event will take place from 1-4 p.m. in the yard of the Gov. Moses Wisner historic house and its adjoining one-room school house. Admission fee is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Ice cream, home-made cakes and lemonade are on the menu. An added attraction this year will be an old-fashioned outdoors band concert by the Franklin Band scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Funds raised at the socials are used in the ongoing restoration of the historic house and grounds, known as Pine Grove. The Greek revival home was built about 1845, is registered as a State Historic Site and is listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

Most recently the society restored the home's summer kitchen and laid out an herb garden there. These, together with the house itself, the root cellar and other out-buildings will be open to visitors in conjunction with the social.

The Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church will allow guests at the social to park in its parking lot across the street from the Wisner house.

Try Breakfast On The Beach

The morning sky turns rosy pink as the sun rises over a crystal lake. Your family, alone, has the front row seat for the spectacle. And now it's time for the finale - your treat - breakfast on the beach.

French toastwiches are a delicious way to say good morning to the world. If you like, the egg batter and syrup can be prepared ahead and refrigerated overnight in carry - along plastic containers.

First on the fire is bacon, fried in a skillet 'til it's crisp. The bread is dipped into the protein-rich milk and egg mixture, then fried in the bacon skillet until it is golden brown. Apple slices, sauteed in the bacon drippings, provide delicious texture contrast to the crisp bacon.

Meanwhile, warm the cinnamon-spiced currant syrup in a small saucepan. Drizzle this butter-based syrup over each French toastwich to give it that unique melt-in-the-mouth flavor.

What do people drink with their breakfast on the beach? An instant, hot and nourishing beverage like java-cocoa. It combines the children's favorite quick chocolate mix and the adult's preferred powdered coffee in hot milk for an instant eye-opening beverage.

FRENCH TOASTWICHES SYRUP:
1 jar (10 oz.) currant jelly (about 1 c.)
¼ c. (½ stick) butter
¼ t. cinnamon
SANDWICH:
3 slices bacon
8 apple slices
4 eggs, slightly beaten
¾ c. milk
4 t. sugar
½ t. salt
8 slices bread

To prepare Spicy Currant Syrup: In small saucepan, stir together jelly, butter and cinnamon over low heat until melted and smooth. Yield: Approximately 1 cup syrup.
Cook bacon on griddle or in skillet until crisp. Remove bacon and set aside; reserve drippings. Sauté apple slices in bacon drippings until tender. Keep warm. Combine eggs, milk, sugar and salt; dip bread in mixture. Fry in small amount bacon drippings until golden brown. To assemble sandwich: Arrange two slices bacon on slice of toast. Top with two apple slices placed side-by-side and additional slice of toast. To serve: Divide sandwiches in half and drizzle hot Spicy Currant Syrup over. Makes four sandwiches.

JAVA-COCOA
¾ c. instant chocolate flavored mix
3 T. instant coffee
¼ c. milk
Blend together cocoa and coffee; stir into hot milk.

Yield 4½ cups or six 6-ounce servings.
Note: Cocoa - coffee mixture may be prepared in advance and used for individual servings as desired. Use about two tablespoons mixture for one six-ounce serving.

Area Women Chosen For Fashion Show

Three area women have been chosen by Glamour magazine to represent Detroit as women of cultural, business or educational achievement, and to present them as being attractive as well as successful.

They are Toni Jones, a newspaper reporter; Jane Muer, a stock broker; and Mary Lee Weiden, producer of a locally shown television show.

They are making guest appearances Aug. 13 through 17 in Hudson's Northland and Westland centers as part of Glamour "Young Originals," a program of fashion and beauty shows. Various programs are scheduled from noon to 4 p.m.

Jane Muer will be in the Westland center Monday, Aug. 13 and the Northland center, Thursday, Aug. 16. Toni Jones will be in the Westland center Tuesday, Aug. 14 and the Northland center, Friday, Aug. 17. Mary Lee Weiden will be in the Northland center Wednesday, Aug. 15.

Each store will have one grand prize drawing Friday, Aug. 17. The winner will receive a make-over by experts including a wool or wool-blend coat, suit or sportswear outfit, make-over and make-up kit, and make-over hairdo.

FRESH GARDEN vegetables are given a special personality with a dressing made by combining ¼ cup mayonnaise, ¼ cup French dressing, a dash of dry mustard and ¼ cup of crumbled blue cheese.

Childbirth Film Will Be Shown

"The Story of Eric," a film demonstrating the Lamaze method of childbirth, will be shown Friday, Aug. 17, at 8 p.m., in Christus Victor Lutheran Church, 25535 Ford Road, Dearborn Heights.

Following the film, a couple who has used the Lamaze method in childbirth will be present to answer questions. A $1 donation per couple is requested.

The showing will be sponsored by the Childbirth Preparation Association, volunteer service organization of women who have used Lamaze. Classes demonstrating the method are offered in Dearborn, Taylor, Trenton, Dearborn Heights, Redford and Wyandotte. A new series of classes begins approximately every seven weeks.

Auxiliary To Hold Party

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Cpl. Edward J. Bova Post 6086, 35420 Ford, Westland, will hold a public card party Monday, Aug. 20 at 7 p.m.

There will be door and table prizes. Light refreshments will be served. There is a donation of $1.25 per person.

What's Cooking

By LARRY TRIMM

It's picnic time in Michigan and when it comes to picnic foods, ants aren't the only hazard. The potential danger of food poisoning accompanies every picnic or outdoor meal, according to the food inspection division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

To make sure your picnics are fun and not dangerous, MDA's food inspectors say, "Keep food hot, keep it cold, or don't keep it."

Foods are generally safest when stored at temperatures above 140 degrees or below 45 degrees. Germs which may cause severe gastrointestinal upsets tend to thrive in foods kept at warm temperatures and not adequately refrigerated.

Favorite foods for picnics are sandwiches, salads and fruits.

Michigan's agricultural harvest during the summer months is perfect for these foods. During July, cherries, berries, early apples and potatoes, cucumbers, lettuce, tomatoes and peppers are plentiful Michigan crops.

You can combine them in a variety of ways for delicious, nutritious treats. As a rule of thumb, always carry lots of fresh, crisp potato chips along for munching. Much of Michigan's potato crop is used for processing potato chips.

You can make sandwiches more enticing by using a variety of breads. There's white, rye, whole wheat, French, pumpernickel and many delicious seeded rolls.

For a large family outing or a friendly gathering, hero sandwiches are ideal. You can prepare them ahead of time and keep chilled until ready to serve.

Try splitting large loaves of French bread through the center, lengthwise. Spread both sides with your favorite sandwich spread and add fillings. Michigan luncheon meats, turkey or chicken slices, bits of bacon, Michigan cheeses, lettuce, sliced cucumbers, pickles, egg salad, and baked beans are good in varying combinations.

Cut into portions for easy serving.

Evaporated Milk As A Substitute

Need whipped cream, buttermilk, sour milk or sour cream on a moment's notice? Use evaporated milk, suggests Sharon Van Dyne, Michigan State University consumer marketing specialist.

A can of chilled evaporated milk makes delicious whipped cream, Mrs. Van Dyne says. Add one teaspoon lemon juice before or during whipping, to stabilize.

In recipes requiring buttermilk, substitute by adding a few drops of vinegar or lemon juice to evaporated milk.

To make sour cream, add one tablespoon vinegar to one cup evaporated milk. For sour milk; one tablespoon vinegar, ½ cup water, ½ cup evaporated milk.

If stored properly, unopened cans of evaporated milk keep several months. Store in a cool place, below 70 degrees and above freezing.

Clean the can top with a damp cloth before opening. Once opened, refrigerate in the original container, covered. Use within four or five days.

To reserve the right to limit quantities. Prices and items subject to change without notice. Good in Wayne, Macomb & Oakland counties. Not valid in other Michigan counties. Expires 8/15/73. The Kroger Co.

Welcome Your New Neighbor, Newburgh Plaza

People who live near each other gradually get to know little things about each other. Thus, life becomes more personal, more interesting. Businesses are neighbors, too. The business of developing and building shopping centers has a definite impact on every individual's life today. A shopping center located within 3 miles of your home can definitely change your life.

If the shopping center offers an interesting mix of stores, hours can be added to your weeks. Hours that would normally be spent in shopping farther afield. If the shopping center has been developed by a good neighbor, the site has been attractively landscaped, the structure well built and pleasing to the eye. A well planned, attractive center, conveniently located can add dollars to the value of nearby homes. Good neighbor shopping centers provide an improved site for some community activities such as art shows, dog shows, maybe square dances and May-day celebrations. Sale days are fun too...if most of the stores join in for a special sale. A special sale can be a day out of the house for the mother of young children. She can shop most of the day with a lunch break in the conveniently located Elias Brothers restaurant.

This invitation is being extended to you. Come, visit Newburgh Plaza at the corner of 6 Mile and Newburgh Rd., west of Farmington Rd. Come during the Grand Opening for some extra special SPECIALS!

The TREASURE HUNT is one idea to help us get acquainted. For the first week of our GRAND OPENING, every store will have something free for shoppers. If the can of corn you select has free on it...it's yours free of charge as long as you are willing to tell us a little about yourself. Other people like to know about lucky winners. If the dress you select at Hadley's has FREE on the price tag, it is free to you for letting us get to know you. A cash register tape can make you a winner...if you are the 50th or 99th tape for the day. Whatever you bring to the check out counter at a pre-selected hour, your merchandise is FREE! This is just one of the ways Newburgh Plaza business people have of getting to know you.

We are also having a photographer to take free back-to-school color photos of your youngsters. Our photo back drop is an oversize accurate yard stick. Not only will you have the face you love recorded, but height and date will be registered...at no charge. Pick-up of your FREE photos will be at the PERRY DRUG STORE in Newburgh Plaza.

Perhaps you'd like to know something more about the stores that are opening August 16 through 26. GREAT SCOTT SUPERMARKET is the big store.

Nathan Fink, President and Board Chairman of Great Scott Supermarkets says: "We have designed our new store to provide the Livonia housewife with a one stop shopping experience. She may shop in climate controlled temperature year 'round for any item the average household may need.

"She will benefit financially through our mass merchandising and skilled buying methods which will provide her with maximum quality brand name products at the lowest price in this community," continued Fink.

"The shopper will discover specialty departments not to be found in the average store or supermarket. The delicatessen offers a wide selection of delicacies. A baked goods department features fresh and frozen breads and pastries. The meat department is the Great Scott's pride and joy. Great Scott needs no further introduction."

HADLEY'S is the store for women!

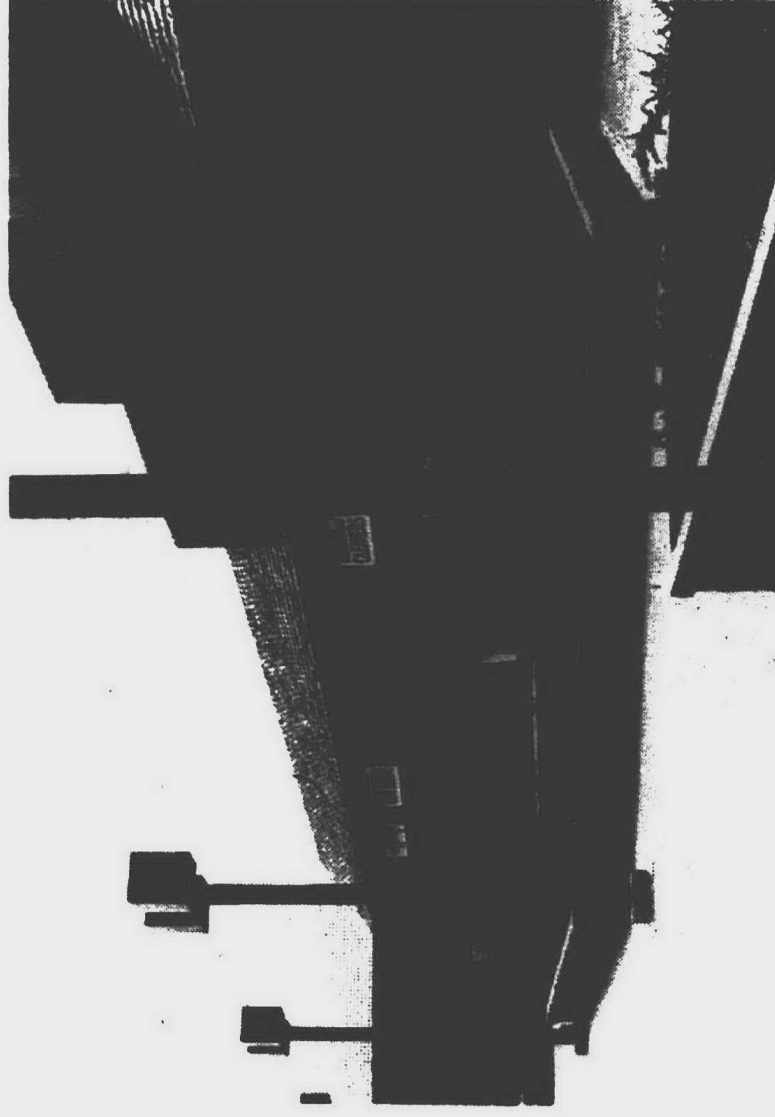

The Hadley's concept of fashion has been enthusiastically received. Offering the personalized service of a small town store, Hadley's specializes in fashion with a big city flavor, giving great selectivity at moderate prices.

A complete ready-to-wear store, Hadley's features famous names in sportswear, dresses, coats, lingerie and accessories. To assure its customers of up to the minute fashion, Hadley's team of buying experts is constantly in contact with the leading fashion markets of the country.

Hadley's, a growing chain of women's specialty stores, has opened its eighth store, in Livonia at the Newburgh Plaza Shopping Center.

YOUTH FASHIONS caters to the young crowd, infants through size 14, boys and girls! Youth Fashions carries every type of clothing for children from outerwear to underwear. You'll be happy to know that Youth Fashions carry all major national quality brands at moderate prices.

At Youth Fashions the Golden Rule applies. Sales pressure is not permitted. The young lady of today is very sophisticated and requires time to coordinate her outfits. Merchandise is fully displayed to permit self help until sales help is needed.

Large landscaped planters in the center of Newburgh Plaza and entrance to the mini-mall make for attractive sights.

"Come on in! Re-fresh

We believe fresh is the best! Take, for example, our famous double-deck big boy. Millions have...and keep on coming back for seconds! Why? Cause our big boy burgers are made with...hamburgers...and Beef! No fillers, never frozen...just the best in beef, fresh ground daily!

And the same holds true all around the menu! 100% real coffee cream! Real whole fresh strawberries in our pie! Farm-fresh eggs! Dairy fresh butter, naturally!

So for dinners or snacks, come on in! It's the really refreshing thing to do!

The boys section is somewhat elevated to separate it from the girls area. Youth Fashions in Livonia is the only childrens shop in Michigan to understand the young people's desire for separation of merchandise just like the adult's stores. An extensive infant department offers excellent selection. Gift wrapping and lay-away services are also available.

DETROIT BAGEL adds an irresistible touch ... how can you say no to a bagel split and toasted, smothered in cream cheese? Detroit Bagel company takes great pride in the quality of their bagels. They are convinced that you can't buy better bagels anywhere and that a life without bagels is a life only half lived! Try their bagels. One bag of Detroit Bagels and you'll be hooked.

You don't really need an introduction to SANDERS. Sanders is THE candy man for Detroit. Candy, baked goods, ice cream in a brand new shop. Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow you may diet. When the sweet tooth strikes, go to Sanders.

Service fit for a king ... merchandise worthy of a palace ... and prices which are far less than a king's ransom ... can best describe what awaits fireplace lovers old and new when they visit the KINGS ROW FIREPLACE SHOP in the Newburgh Plaza.

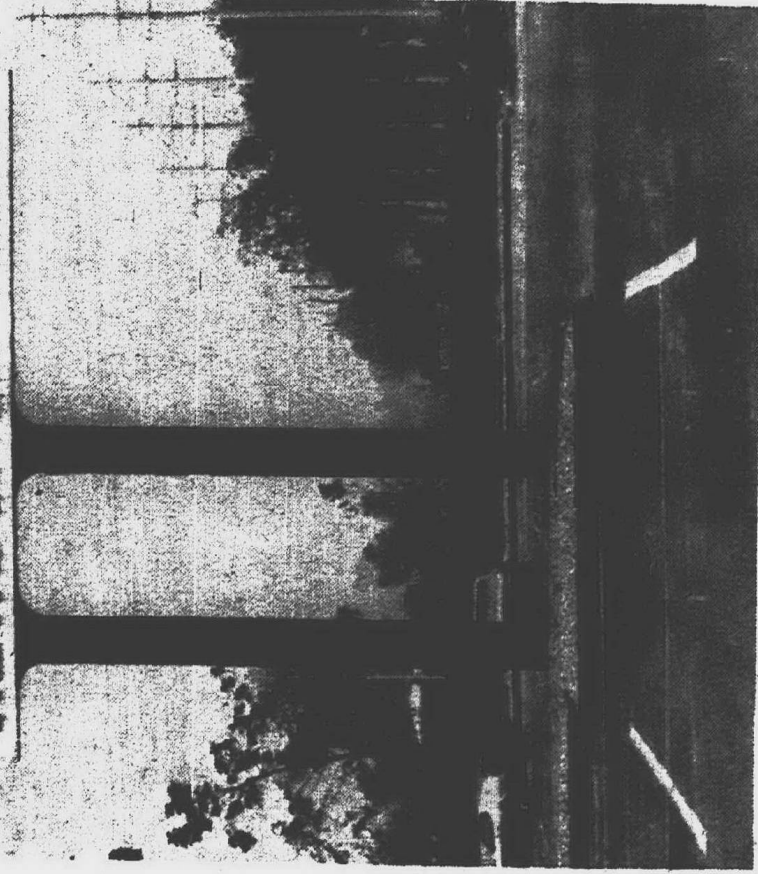

Here is your opportunity to see a full line of exquisite and completely customized fireplaces, fireplace equipment and accessories all assembled under one roof.

Thousands of objects; paintings, sculptures, terrariums, ash trays, furniture, etc., are on full display in attractive settings.

The new Kings Row Fireplace Shop in the Newburgh Plaza will feature many Grand Opening Specials, including, among others, a 10% discount on all merchandise.

You will find an assortment of fireplaces from "Ben Franklin" stoves, to the more traditional and modern fireplaces constructed of simulated brick. These fireplaces, along with those that hang from the ceiling or wall, can be adapted for electric, gas, or wood burning units. Accessories by the hundreds will suit your every mood, decor and need.

Ms Lue Nelson, manager of the Kings Row shop, will be on hand to greet you and personally answer any questions you may have.

Have you visited a Minnesota Fabric Shop lately? Or are you planning to economize with some family sewing this fall? Selection at Minnesota Fabrics simply overwhelms a shopper. Price ranges the gamut and they will have all kinds of fabrics. Plan to walk through the aisles for a quick look at their tremendous selection. Easy patterns make sewing such a snap that a walk through Minnesota Fabrics is like a trip through dreamland. Fall is a good time for sewing!

PEERLESS CLEANERS, inside the mini mall, takes great pride in their service. Arnold Zimmerman, Owner, says, "We'll do anything any other cleaner will do ... and more. After 45 years of experience in the Detroit Area, we can handle anything, fur, leather, suede. Minor repairs are included in price of cleaning." A Russian dressmaker on the premises adds convenient services in alterations and dressmaking. Peerless offers same day service at no extra charge. Peerless is the distributor for Delmar loomcrafted woven wood shades, dividers and doors.

The ROSS MUSIC STORE will carry a complete selection of Hallmark gifts and cards as well as sheet music, records, tapes and electronic products. Lorraine Harrington manages the Ross Music Store in Newburgh Plaza and sends greetings to all her friends, with an invitation to visit the store.

PERRY DRUG STORES in Newburgh Plaza is the 20th store in the fastest growing drug store chain in Michigan. There you'll find the Perry Red Coat Pharmacist who reminds you that prescriptions are the heart of Perry's business. However, Perry Drug Stores are also very popular for the complete assortment of other merchandise they offer to the public. Perry Drug Stores are open 365 days a year, until 10 p.m. each day. Visit the Perry Drug Store and your local Perry Red Coat, Joe Brody.

Do you want the inside word on an eating treat that can't be beat? ELIAS BROS. restaurant may not be open during the Newburgh Plaza Grand Opening BUT a special treasure hunt surprise will be yours as soon as they ARE open. One unnamed item on their menu will be yours free if you happen to order their Treasure Hunt Special! The Elias restaurant is almost irresistible with yummy strawberry pie, the new Hot fudge ice cream cake. Elias offers a full range menu for the entire family from eggs benedict to luscious desserts. Elias is very proud of the food quality. The foods are all fresh, not frozen. Butter is used in food preparation. Quality supervision is constant. And there has been no reduction in portion or quality in spite of increasing costs. Elias is constantly seeking new recipes or dishes to vary and improve menus. Now be honest, did you ever meet a big boy you didn't like?

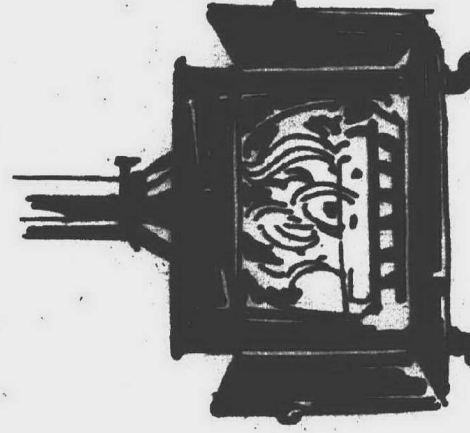

A.C.E. HARDWARE at Newburgh Plaza offers a "first" for the entire state of Michigan. A new computer cash register with an electric eye device will be in use to record goods as they are checked out. This is possible with an electronic wand that responds to the magnetically encoded price tickets on the merchandise passing through the check out stand.

The new electronic eye is expected to reduce by over half, the usual 7 seconds necessary, the time to ring up the average item. Further advantage to both customer and merchant is the almost 100% accuracy in reading price and rapid inventory calculation. A demonstration at the door will fully explain the electronic innovation. A.C.E. store in Livonia is part of a chain of 24 hardware and housewares stores.
