ment they desire," the supervisor said. He added that one issue such a study should address is taxation.

Historically, unification efforts in other Michigan communities have been defeated by residents of governmental units who would face higher taxes under unification.

"Like most people today," McLaren said, "I'm not looking for a bigger tax bite.

"If a study would prove to me that any kind of unification can give me more government (and governmental services) at less or the same money I'm now paying, then I certainly wouldn't stand in the way of that becoming a reality."

McLaren said he favors the township form of government - particularly when comparing today's situation in Plymouth Township and the City of Plymouth.

"It is my personal opinion that the township form of government is closest to the people.

"It would appear (in a township) that there is a notable absence of bureauracy and all things that attach themselves to that bureauracy that render the governmental unit inaccessible to the citizens.

"I feel that the township form of government has a streamlining that in effect reduces the cost of government to the absolute minimum." McLaren

"It is not unusual for a township to administer its services at a much lower figure than...a comparable size (city) unit of government.

"The intimate town hall meeting atmosphere that prevails at the township board meetings does much to allay the dehumanizing and depersonalizing as well as formalism so rampant in other areas of big government activity.

"I feel there is a genuine responsiveness and rapport with the citizens.

"Townships have the legal latitude to provide a full range of services to the citizens, including police, fire, refuse disposal and any other desired or necessary service. These may be provided if the citizens wish to fund them, and quite generally at a lower cost than might be anticipated."

McLaren added that his feelings in support of the township form of government did not mean he opposed any unification attempts.

"I don't think because I feel this way I should close my eyes to what may be inevitable," he explained.

He smiled and posed this "academic question": "Does the township have to go in and show them (the city) how to run a government?

"If so, we'll try it."

THIS REPORT TO BE RETURNED TO THE DEPT. OF THE TREASURY

'Cat'

"CAT" IS actually a trademark of the Caterpillar Co., a major manufacturer. A "Cat" is "dozing" in the foreground while earthmoving scrapers and a crane are at work along the ridge. Scrapers are sometimes called "Turnapulls" by the unknowing, but that term is a trademark of the LeTourneau-Westinghouse Company.

'Back-Hoe'

"BACK-HOE" IS A term applied to all excavation equipment, whether operated by cable or hydraulically. It pulls a bucket toward the operator and is primarily used for excavation, although in this photo it's being used to break up ground for 'dozing and grading. This back-hoe is mounted on a Case tractor which also has a front-end loader.

«Como

These steel forms are referred to by workmen as "cans." Trucks with bathtub-like buckets carry "mud" to these sites from a central mixing plant to pour concrete columns for overpasses.

Road Jargon

Construction Crews Have Pet Names For Equipment

Most occupations have their own jargon.

Doctors have their technical terms; printers talk about picas and points and Ben Days; physicists talk a language closer to mathematics than to English.

You can hear the jargon of the highway construction men on the I-96 and I-275 freeway projects in the corridors of Haggerty and Schoolcraft roads in Farmington Hills, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford and Westland.

Actually, most of us whiz by and mutter about dust and "heavy equipment." But Bob Woodring, the Observer Newspapers' chief photographer, is the kind of fellow who stops and looks at things and sees a rugged kind of beauty in the giant machines that move earth and cement and steel.

I-96, in a rough way, will parallel the general route of old Grand River Avenue from downtown Detroit to the western edge of the Farmington community.

I-275 will run from the intersection of what are now Haggerty and Schoolcraft roads south and meet I-75 near Monroe. It will form a north-south bypass along the west side of metropolitan Detroit.

Statewide, Michigan has completed nearly 85 per cent of its 1,175 mile segment of the interstate freeway system. The entire national system will total 42,500 miles.

'Sheep's

Many years ago, flocks of sheep were herded along road constructions to help compact the soil. Later a roller with sheep-like hooves protruding was used, and it evolved into this machine.

'Terex'

This 'dozer looks like any other, but GM calls it a "Terex." The blade is still in front, but the radiator and fan for engine cooling are mounted in the rear behind the operator.

New Plaza Has 19 Businesses

A grand opening celebration is in progress for the shopping center at the corner of Six Mile and Newburg Rd. in Livonia.

Newburg Plaza, built by Troy-based developer Stuart Franekl, will house 19 businesses in more than 101.000 square feet of space. Several of the businesses have been open since spring.

The center is built on 14 acres of land valued at more than $500,000, based on current economic factors in the Land and buildings together would add more than $1 million to the Livonia assessment rolls if the property were assessed at 50 per cent of market value, as required by state law.

Personal property in the stores would add further to the local tax income from the center.

The center was designed by Wah Yee and Associates, Southfield architects.

Construction began last year and was completed this spring. The list of current tenants includes Great Scott Supermarket, Hadley's Women's Store, Youth Fashions, Detroit Bagel, Sanders, Kings Row Fireplace Shop, Minnesota Fabrics, Peerless Cleaners, Ross Music Store and A.E.C. Hardware.

Scheduled for this fall are Elias Brothers Restaurant, Kahl Jewelers, and Transcontinental Travel Bureau. Radom Clothiers is expected to open in February 1974.

Five other tenants will be announced in the future.

The group had just begun the morning check when the stewards were notified by a trainer that his horse, entered in the final race, was not acting right and he wanted to scratch it.

This led to management cancelling the race following a conference with Racing Commissioner Shirley and security men.

The two vets discovered the five-year-old was sweating profusely and acted lethargic. Shortly after checking Wichita Charles, they found Mr. Sunman, who defeated Wichita Charles a week ago, also appeared to have been tranquilized.

Then they found Frank 'N Jesse and Ellemar, also entered in the last race, showed signs of tampering.

The bill, known as a money bill by legislators and therefore one which will have the personal attention of the governor, came to the attention of horsemen when they were made aware of the rider.

It suddenly appeared in the House and quickly passed the various barriers and became eligible for the governor's signature.

No one knows for sure how such an important act missed getting the attention of the horsemen's group. It seems those who normally scan all legislation carefully, especially those dealing with thoroughbreds and standardbreds, were attending a national meeting in New York city and had no knowledge of the impending action.

What the bill does is make it mandatory that the choice summer dates of the pacers and trotters shall go to the tracks with the above mentioned nightly average wagering.

In other words it means that Wolverine Raceway and Hazel Park Raceway are assured of all the summer dates and Northville Downs,

by BILL

The sad part of it is that most don't even realize they're doing it. How many of you readers can guess what rule in tennis is broken most often among average players?

Here are a few hints made from comparison with other sports. In baseball, the pitching mound is so many feet from home plate. The pitcher must have one foot on the "rubber" during his windup.

Can you imagine the advantage he would have if he were three feet closer to home plate?

Football has the scrimmage line. All players must be behind the line of scrimmage before the ball is snapped or else they're penalized. Basketball has the foul line. If the player in the act of shooting a foul shot steps on or over the line he loses the ball.

Hockey has its offside rules. All these rules are made to equalize the competition therefore not giving either team or player an unfair advantage.

By now you're probably aware that I'm talking about the foot-fault rule in tennis, ,the most abused and broken rule in the game. It simply states that your feet must be behind the baseline and you may not touch the court surface until after you have made contact with the ball on your service. A player who is one step inside the baseline before he strikes the ball is definitely placing his opponent at a disadvantage. He has shortened the court by at least three feet.

I've seen this rule broken by many of our top junior players who were attempting to attack and get to the volley position quickly. I've spoken to many tournament offi- the ages of nine and 10 cials who would prefer to ig- should contact Ray Goodman nore the rule because "ev- at 18381 Middle Belt in Liervone does it." Several

You can tactfully suggest to your opponent that he or she is foot-faulting, which is against the rules, and take your chances of being called a poor sport. Waukesha, Wis."

But what-the-heck, you're doing it for his own good. Make sure that you're not guilty of the same infraction. Tennis is a great game because it's played within a set of rules that each player abides by. We call a ball good young Roth score only two if it hits the line or there is any doubt, even though it costs us a point and maybe the set. But we expect no less from our opponent. I'd rather have my eyesight questioned than my integrity.

Come on out to Stevenson High School in Livonia this weekend and see the women play. It should be colorful.

Now is the time to fertilize late tomatoes with nitrogen, suggests Lee Taylor, extension horticulturist at Michigan State University.

"Fertilizing now gives plants that extra boost," he says. "Almost all plants at this stage will have little tomatoes on them and it is safe, therefore, to fertilize with high nitrogen."

The Schoolcraft College board of trustees has agreed informally to continue to support June elections for school affairs rather than switch to a November date.

Board members said "practical considerations" governed preference for June elections.

THESE NEWS ITEMS - just a sampling of a deluge of interesting stories about suburban youngsters - are important indications that despite all the griping about long hair and rock music and suspicions about different life styles, our kids are doing some pretty wonderful things these days.

The pursuit of excellence. The acceptance of sweat and diligence in this pursuit. The concern for the sick and the unfortunate. The willingness to accept challenges.

All these characterize the attitudes of young people today, and they make reading the news a pleasure rather than an exercise in ulcers.

BUT THERE WAS a dark side to this week's news of children here in the suburbs.

It was the story from Farmington that James Manrog had discovered a little baby boy abandoned in a garbage can outside the X-Way Car Wash on Grand River. Police estimate that the little boy had been dumped just a few hours after he had been born last week.

The baby, named John Doe, is doing well at Botsford General Hospital.

True, but it doesn't hide the fact that someone, just threw away a baby - a human being - into a garbage can, like a hamburger wrapper or a beer can by the side of the road.

Maybe the problem is less with the kids and more with some par-

ALL OF WHICH brings to mind the shocking story of the homosexual group in a suburb of Houston which seems to have tortured, abused and then murdered over 30 young boys.

How, everybody wondered, could such things have been going on without the police knowing? How could over 30 kids have disappeared without anxious parents blowing the whistle?

Asked about this, Houston police authorities replied that there were so many missing children reported that 30 boys more or less didn't make much difference.

This led members of this newspaper to check with local police officials about the number of kids who disappear - called missing juveniles on police reports - in our own local communities.

THE RESULTS WERE strik-

Our Children: High Accomplishment,

In Livonia in 1972, 281 boys and missing; 154 girls were reported missing; so far this year, the figures show 58 boys and 71 girls. Farmington police list 13 juveniles missing in 1972, all of whom were found: Farmington Hills showed 44 during a comparable period.

Redford Township registered 135 boys and 120 girls missing in 1972, with 59 boys-and 56 girls reported lost so far this year. Garden City had 216 runaway-missing reports in 1972, with all but three accounted for; the figures for 1973 are 166 missing and five unaccounted for. Westland police reported that all local runaways were eventually recovered or returned on their own, but that there were 526 such cases reported

Families in Plymouth reported 24 missing juveniles in 1972, of which 21 were recovered. Southfield police report that in all the history of the department only one person has not been found after being reported missing; in 1972, there were 170 missing juvenile reports filed.

What all this means is somewhat unclear. Kids may leave home in a fit of pique; only to return after a day or so; some reports of missing juveniles, police report, are filed by excessively anxious parents. Most children reported as missing eventually re-

But the base fact is clear: In 1972, a total of 1683 reports of missing juveniles was filed with police authorities in these affluent northwest suburbs. That's one very large number of children who decided to split, if only for a little while.

And it raises the question of just what kind of society are we building in which we find simultaneously such outstanding examples of achievement in some of our kids and such shocking statistics of runaways in others. It's. well worth pondering.

Only the fact that police officers haven't cracked down on violators has kept the districts courts from having more cases on the docket than at any previous period in history.

The fact that 13,800,000 bikes were sold nation-wide a year ago against 10 million cars is a major reason for the record number of violations...that and the failure of some bike riders to follow the state laws, local ordinances and generally disregard all safety road than ever before. They warn it is the responsibility of both the cyclist and the motorist to observe the rules of the road.

"Motorists should give cyclists a brake and a break," says Livonia Chief Robert Turner, "With a little cooperation we may be able to get through the big three-day holiday with a minimum of accidents.

"It is the final chance for students to have their last fling of the vacation and they must be cautioned to take greater care than ever if they plan any bike trips. We hope that all are on the list in classes after Labor Day and not on a list of fatalities or accident victims."

Turner serving as spokesman for all of the area police departments strongly recommends use of the following revised bicycle rules of the road:

(1) Obey all applicable traffic regulations, signs, signals and markings. A good rule of the thumb is to avoid congested streets and use bikeways, lanes or paths where possible.

(Inasmuch as there is a decided shortage of bikeways and lanes in Observerland, then it is advisable to ride only on roads where traffic is light).

(2) Observe all local ordinances pertaining to bicycles. Registration, and licensing, inspection, driving on sidewalks etc. are all covered by local laws. It is your responsibility to know and abide by them.

(3) Keep right, drive with traffic, not against it. Drive single file. Keep as close to the curb as practical. When riding two abreast, a sudden swerve could force you into traffic.

(4) Watch out for drain grates, soft shoulders and other road surface hazards. Be careful of loose sand or gravel, particularly at

(5) Watch out for car doors opening or for cars pulling into

(6) Don't carry passengers or packages that interfere with your vision or control. The best rule is one person to one bike unless it's a tandem. Use baskets or luggage carriers for packages.

(7) Never hitch a ride on a truck or other vehicle.

(8) Be extremely careful at intersections, especially when making a left turn. If traffic is heavy get off and walk your bike with pedestrian traffic. (9) Use hand signals to indicate turning or stopping. (10) Protect yourself at night with the required red reflectors

(11) Ride a safe bike. Make sure your bike fits you.

(12) Drive your bike defensively; watch out for the other

SR Board Thinking Is Wrong

Even in good times, schools have troubles, and a couple of Observerland districts are treating us to examples of the wrong way to handle problems.

In South Redford, the school board is figuring out how to cut $790,000 from the current year's budget if voters on Sept. 8 again reject a three mill property tax

Now, to some extent you've got to feel sorry for the SR board. Every year the Legislature's school aid formulas give less and less to relatively rich districts, and this year SR's state aid will

Enrollment has leveled off and is even shrinking, and it's tough to cut overhead. So if the millage gets beaten, the board figures it will have to shut down three elementary schools. Which three? Well, the board hasn't made that tough decision. Unfortunately, the board seems intent on making that decision behind closed doors.

Why closed doors? Board President Richard Guergian says he's afraid advance publicity would lead to possible real estate depreciations. Honest; I'm not making that up. Redford Observer Editor Chuck Varkoly, a sober, precise fellow, heard him.

A journalistic rule of thumb is to "stick to the facts," at least in the news columns. An old pro in this business once confessed, "I've told the public more lies by sticking to the facts..." That's why newspapers have editorial pages: To get away from "facts" and tell the truth.

It's a fact that Board President Guregian says publicity could cause property value losses. It's also sheer nonsense.

The truth is that the SR board, like many in Observerland, likes secrecy and doesn't like the voters and taxpayers breathing down its neck. Evidence shows it likes to hold rehearsals and concoct rationalizations rather than confront the public like a group of adults, lay it on the line and take the knocks it will probably get.

The school boards association has a canned "line" it gives in defense of secret meetings - they're OK to discuss delicate personnel matters, labor negotiations, real estate acquisitions and the like. Well, not even that thin line of reasoning will support a secret meeting on what schools the SR board should close if the millage is beaten.

Harry Truman used to say, "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen." The SR board would be well advised and would earn more public respect if it made its tough decisions in the Tim Dyer, the new superintendent of the Wayne-Westland district, is following in the footsteps of his predecessor, Harry Howard, who was an able administrator but who had a loose tongue politically.

Dyer was unhappy that Gov. Milliken vetoed an item in the state aid act that would have brought Wayne-Westland an extra $2 million, enabling it to cut its property tax rate a bit. (Actually, WWSD won't have to raise its tax rate, as SR will; but it won't be able to cut its operating rate, which is in the neighborhood of 40 mills.)

Well, if you were superintendent in Wayne-Westland, you'd be as unhappy as Tim Dyer -- but would you call the veto "tragic"?

Very doubtful. Tragic means fatal; the hero in a Grecian or Shakespearean tragedy generally died. Tragic means catastrophic, calamitous, pathetic.

Is the governor's veto a tragedy? It's not going to require any additional millage. Milliken vetoed that item because he didn't want to mess up the budget after he and the Legislature gave us all a $380 million tax cut.

Perhaps Supt. Dyer wants the governor to save the money someplace else - like less care for our mental patients and the retarded, no improvements in prison conditions, no Applied Science Building addition for Schoolcraft College. If so, it's a reasonable point of view, whether the rest of us agree with it or not.

But "tragic"? That's verbal overkill. That's like the boy who cried "wolf" promiscuously. One of these days, the wolf may really be at the Wayne-Westland School District's door. What will Supt. Dver crv then?

EDITOR:

On behalf of the Livonia Jaycee Auxiliary, we would like to express our deep appreciation to the citizens of Livonia for their support in our Wilson Barn petition drive.

Countless individuals and organizations in our community most willingly gave many hours to circulating petitions and manning petition booths, not to mention the several thousand Livonia citizens who signed petitions.

To all of you, we are truly grateful.

Scholars' Aid Gets Big Boost

LANSING Students attending Madonna. Schoolcraft Community, and Oakland Community Colleges under the state scholarship program may benefit from a bill recently -signed into law by Gov. Milli-.ken.

Maximum scholarships will be increased from $800 to $1,200.

Scholarships are available to Michigan students attending the state's independent and public colleges and universities. Monetary awards are based on the results of an annual competitive schol-arship examination and an assessment of the applicant's financial need.

Instituted by the Legislature in 1965, the state sup-ported scholarship program has assisted thousands of students. During the past academic year, approximately 13,000 public and 3,000 independent college students participated in the program.

Aid To High-Tax Schools Vetoed; State Reps Debate It

An Observer Roundu

Three Observerland school districts will miss out on a total of $914,900 in state aid as a result of Gov. Milliken's veto last week of a section of the recently-passed state school aid bill.

Most area districts will be unaffected by Milliken's three line item vetoes. Of primary importance was his rejection of a section which would have provided property tax relief for more than 40 high-millage districts.

The plan was inserted as a compromise in the House of Representatives to gain support from several suburban Detroit Democrats who threatened to withhold vital support for the Democrat-backed bill.

It would have allowed districts levying more than 30 mills for school operations to reduce their tax levies by one-fourth of the difference between their actual levy and 30 mills. To cover that revenue loss, they would be reimbursed by the state.

Wayne-Westland School District was hardest hit in the state by the veto, which will cost it $635,100 in anticipated revenue. Redford Union will lose $210,200, and Clarenceville $69,600.

In his veto message, the governor said the tax relief provision was "not consistent with the spirit of the bill." which he said "will bring quality and equality in education throughout Michigan--regardless of wealth of the district."

Milliken said the vetoed sections "could have made a mockery of the Legislature's kind of property tax relief, efforts "at equality in school and certainly vetoeing some-

"Some will complain that the veto hurt their school districts, but it is important to remember that the vetoed sections helped entire school districts while the tax relief act helps those individuals come and property taxes."

State Rep. John Markes (D-Westland), who was instrumental in working out the compromise, said he was "a bit shocked" by the gov-

College Fashions To Take Neater Look This Fall

By JAN WILLIAMS

Levis are still as much a part of Eastern Michigan University's campus as the old water tower, despite new fashion trends. And on the University of Michigan's Ann Arbor campus, "some of everything," style-wise, is still the trademark.

These are the opinions of EMU senior Jeanne Girard and U-M sophomore Nancy Moffatt regarding campus fashions for girls.

Miss Girard, 22, of Garden City, says the "super grub" look is going out on EMU's campus, but it's leaving the jeans behind.

"Students are wearing neater looking jeans-not faded ones with holes and the pockets ripped off. But they're jeans nevertheless." A couple of years ago, she says, army shirts and faded, patched-up jeans were a common campus sight.

'The only difference now is there are fewer Army shirts and fewer holes in the jeans to patch up."

And EMU girls have replaced their Army shirts with school shirts, sweaters and knit tops.

Miss Girard predicts there won't be a significant change. in this mode of dress for the coming school year. "My first year in college, girls wore skirts and dresses a lot. You don't see this much anymore. Skirts are a thing of the past." She says most guys are asclass with a dress on. "I guess they've forgotten what girls' legs look like. My boyfriend is really happy when I put on a skirt."

As for formal wear, she contends, there's no need for it on campus because "you can go just about anywhere

Handwriting is finding more and more acceptance as an indicator of personality.

That's the report of several Livonia women who have studied the subject seriously enough to be members of the American Association of

During the meeting on the campus of George Williams College at Downers Grove, Ill., they studied handwriting in connection with such matters as personnel selection, transactional analysis, "loner" personality and abnormal behavior.

Cycling Day Proposed

Some weekend afternoon this fall will find the length of Edward N. Hines Parkway aflood with local bicyclists if State Rep. John F. Markes (D-Westland) has his way.

Markes has proposed that a long portion of the winding parkway be closed to motorized traffic for a full day this fall as a gesture of support for the increasingly popular sport of bicycling.

In a letter to Michael Berry, chairman of the Wayne County Road Commission, Markes praised the "healthy recreational activitity" and proposed a full day of unfettered riding along that portion of the parkway from Ford Road in Dearborn to Newburgh Road in Livonia.
