

Beverly McAninch Elected City's Mayor

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

The Plymouth City Commission has elected Beverly McAninch the second woman mayor in the city's history.

Mrs. McAninch, 47, is beginning her third year of a four-year commission term to which she was elected when finishing at the top of a field of candidates in November, 1971.

She follows Ruth Huston Whipple, who was first elected mayor on April 15, 1940.

In addition to her role as a city commissioner, Mrs. McAninch has been active in the League of Women Voters (LWV), the Huron Valley Council of the Girl Scouts and the Plymouth Community Fund.

After being instrumental in forming the Livonia LWV, Mrs. McAninch moved to Plymouth where she was one of three women to organize the Plymouth-Northville chapter of the league.

She was named one of two outstanding citizens in the Plymouth community in 1973 by the Jaycees and Jayettes.

A Cleveland native, Mrs. McAninch holds a bachelor's degree from University of Michigan and an MBA from Wayne State University.

Married to William McAninch, she is the mother of four children.

The city commission voted unanimously to tap Mrs. McAninch after the newly elected commissioners took office at the organizational meeting Monday night.

The official voting came after some 45 minutes of caucussing by the new commission members that included three separate secret ballots before a majority vote was reached.

Following Mrs. McAninch's election to the mayoral seat, Commissioner Norbert Battermann was elected mayor pro tem.

Battermann was reelected to the commission last week. Previous to that he had served on the commission to fill out two unexpired terms left by resignations.

Besides Battermann, Joe Bida, John Moehle and John Cummings were also sworn into the terms to which they were elected last week at the organizational meeting Monday.

THE JUDGE in the Joy Road-I-275 overpass dispute suit came out to Canton Township Monday morning to look over the situation. Residents and township officials told the judge the overpass was creating a safety hazard while state and county road officials said a developer-financed deceleration lane would solve the problem. Standing up on the dirt incline where Joy Road is planned to cross the expressway, Flossie Tonda, chairman of the Plymouth School District's safety committee and newly appointed Canton planning commissioner, explains the situation to Circuit Court Judge John D. O'Hair (to her left). Tom Stevenson (with glasses to Mrs. Tonda's right and rear), Frank McMurray (with notebook) and Steve Fallows (with beard) are residents of the area who have led the fight to get the overpass changed. Canton Township Fire Chief Melvin Paulun (rear) told Judge O'Hair the overpass ramp would create a safety and access problem for township fire trucks. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring).

Road Chiefs Make I-275-Joy Changes

By KATHY MORAN

Safety hazards surrounding construction of the I-275 overpass on Joy Road may be eliminated after local state and county officials reached several tentative agreements Tuesday.

A meeting was called hastily after road officials visited the overpass area on Monday and saw the concerns raised by local homeowners and Canton Township officials.

A three-hour discussion between State Highway Department representatives, Wayne County Road Commission officials, Canton Township officials and residents of Holiday Park subdivision and Deer Creek Apartments produced these results, according to road commission attorney Lawrence Schendel:

- A deceleration lane will be constructed on the south side of Joy Road and financed by the State Highway Department.

- A passing lane will be constructed on the north side of the Joy partially financed by the Highway Department and the owner of Deer Creek Apartments, although the owner hasn't officially agreed to share the cost.

- The County Road Commission staff will recommend placing a full traffic light at the entrance to Deer Creek.

- The grade of the drive coming out of Deer Creek will be improved and flattened out from an approximately seven per cent incline to approximately 4.5 per cent.

- The road commission staff will recommend placing warning signs on either side of the overpass.

- Guard rails will be constructed in various areas along Joy Road.

"I think it was a very good solution to the problem," Schendel said after the lengthy, and sometimes heated, meeting.

Canton officials and local homeowners who attended the meeting were unavailable for comment at press time.

A hearing was still scheduled before Wayne County Circuit Judge John O'Hair late Tuesday on a request by Canton officials for a court injunction to halt construction of the overpass. Schendel didn't know if the request for the injunction would be dropped at the hearing.

O'Hair was among county officials who visited the overpass site early Monday morning.

"Someone's going to get killed while we're standing around discussing who's going to pay for this," Bob Wade of Wade, Trim & Assoc. proclaimed during the morning meeting. Wade, Trim Assoc. is Canton's planning and engineering firm.

Various groups have been fighting construction of the overpass, saying the steep elevations present serious traffic hazards and pose a constant threat to drivers.

The groups are also concerned about children who have to cross Joy Road to get back and forth from Fiegel Elementary School.

The I-275 overpass was discussed at Monday's board of education meeting, and board members unanimously agreed to send a letter to state and county officials voicing their concerns over the hazards to buses created by the construction.

Supt. John Hoben assured board members that a student overpass on Joy Road which is planned by the school district won't be endangered by the I-275 construction area.

He said that footings were laid this week for the student overpass, and construction is scheduled to proceed shortly.

Community Fund Nears Drive Goal

By EDWARD WENDOVER

The 1974 Plymouth Community Fund campaign has nearly made it.

According to the area reports totaled Monday, the fund is only $4,000 short of its $194,800 goal with more contributions expected yet this week.

The big windfall for this year's drive -- as in the past -- was the industrial sector, which traditionally makes up nearly 75 per cent of the Plymouth fund's total.

But this year's industrial contributions have far exceeded their goal and have nearly made up for areas which did not meet expectations.

Ralph Brown, chairman of the industrial sector campaign, reported Monday that based on estimates from area industries, his sector would contribute $161,000 to this year's fund -- $15,000 more than expected.

At the beginning of the campaign, a dinner for industrial leaders had to be canceled for lack of interest.

In praising Brown's efforts, Leonard Evans, the fund's general chairman, said the industrial contributions reflect the "Little guys" donations.

"When you really look at it, it's the people who work there (at the industries) that are really responsible for making this go," Evans said.

"We of course get very generous gifts from the corporations themselves and it's very generous of them to help us reach the little guys."

"We're very grateful for the industries making it possible for their workers to give," Evans said.

The fund chairman also praised the efforts of the other area chairmen as well.

The following figures reflect all the area donations (goal follows in parenthesis):

- INDUSTRIAL -- $161,000 ($146,000).
- RESIDENTIAL -- $6,551 ($7,000).
- PROFESSIONAL -- $2,770 ($6,800).
- BUSINESS -- $10,318 ($18,400).
- SPECIAL GIFTS AND CLUBS -- $2,705 ($4,000).
- EDUCATIONAL -- $4,520 ($10,500).
- GOVERNMENTAL -- $1,610 ($2,100).

The area donations total about $190,000. "We've just about made it," Evans smiled.

The additional $4,000 needed to reach the goal is expected to come in before Friday when the Community Fund will hold its annual "victory dinner" at the Mayflower Meeting House at 6:30 p.m.

Rev. Robert Paul Ward of the Ann Arbor District for the Methodist Church will be the keynote speaker at that dinner.

Cyclists May Be Given Hines Drive Privacy On 4 Summer Sundays

State Rep. John Markes has asked that the first Sundays of June, July, August and September be set aside for "bike days" along Wayne County's Hines Parkway Drive.

Markes (D-Westland) made his formal request last week in a letter to the County Road Commission, whose parks division has jurisdiction over Hines Parkway.

The freshman lawmaker, who originated the idea of bike day, was optimistic about the chances the three-member road commission will agree. He hopes to have plans firmed up by January. "I'd like to see it be the first or last Sunday of the month so that people wouldn't have to remember dates," he said.

He added that the letters sent to him, to the Readers' Forum of Observer Newspapers and to the road commission itself will help make a case for more bike days such as the one enjoyed by 10,000 persons Oct. 21.

The letters to the Observer have been turned over to Markes to present to the road commission.

Markes asked for a meeting with the road commission to discuss the proposal. He expects it will come at the same time that agency receives written reports from the Wayne County sheriff's road patrol and the parks division. No date has been set.

"The verbal reports I've received are enthusiastic," Markes said. "Sheriff Bill Lucas said the road patrol welcomed the chance to build up rapport with the citizens. There were no disturbances."

"My favorite letter," Markes went on, "was from an old man who said he and his wife went down to the park to see what was going on - it was so quiet that day."

STEPHEN H. BOAK of 40785 Crabtree Lane, Plymouth, recently was appointed principal trial lawyer for the Wayne County prosecutor's office by Prosecutor William L. Cahalan. Boak has been on the staff as an assistant prosecuting attorney since 1968 and is a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School.

Cocaine Overdose Can Prove Fatal

Q. What does cocaine do to you and can I get addicted to it?

A. Cocaine is a stimulant of the CNS (central nervous system), and is addicting in a speed-like manner. Cocaine is similar to amphetamines (speed) in many ways. Tolerance (the necessity to take more and more to achieve the same effect) develops easily and high doses can cause toxic paranoid psychosis.

An overdose of cocaine can cause convulsions and death. Withdrawal from cocaine has the same symptoms as withdrawal from amphetamines - depression, fatigue, listlessness, etc.

Of the cocaine sold on the streets, half or less is pure. It is usually cut with cheap synthetics, and the cost is prohibitive. It's even more expensive than heroin.

Q. Are tranquilizers addicting? J.B., Livonia
A. Some of them are for some people. The "major" tranquilizers such as Thorazine generally don't present the problem. The "minor" tranquilizers such as Librium and Equanil (or Miltown) can be addicting.

PLYMOUTH SCHOOL BUSES will keep rolling as long as they can keep filling up at local gas stations, says Supt. John Hoben. Plymouth faced a crisis last week when the district discovered its gas reserve was almost depleted and its regular supplier, Marathon Oil Co., was unable to live up to its contract because of a strike. After 57 calls to local stations, a Gulf station in Livonia agreed to fill the buses at a price of 26 cents per gallon. Hoben promised that the buses will keep running as long as a supplier can be found but noted that two problems keep cropping up: most stations are physically too small to accommodate the buses and most have said they are more concerned about their regular customers than the buses. School Board Adopts New Attendance Policy

PLYMOUTH
The Plymouth Board of Education unanimously adopted a high school attendance policy Monday apparently designed to strengthen attendance record-keeping at the Centennial Educational Park.

The controversy which surrounded initial discussions was absent Monday when the board approved a policy which makes classroom teachers responsible for keeping track of their students.

Supt. John M. Hoben said the new policy essentially changes the "shall" to "wills" in the policy and doesn't differ much from last year's policy.

However, several board members indicated dissatisfaction with the wording of the policy and expressed an intent to discuss it with parents and teachers with a view to making changes.

Trustee Marda Benson objected to a statement that "Any student who is absent from class eight times during the year, unless for extenuating circumstances and/or pre-arranged absence as determined by the principal or his designee, may not receive credit for the course."

"What if he can pass the tests?" she asked. "I can't agree in philosophy with the whole policy. I think we need to meet later and discuss it."

Trustee Joe Gray agreed that "there's a lot of room for improvement" but said he hoped the policy would give teachers more control in the high school than previously.

"I hope it's a step in the right direction," he said.

The policy had been tabled twice after the board failed to discuss it with the Plymouth Education Assn.

(PEA) - the teachers' union. In moving to bring the policy up for discussion again, Trustee George Lawton said it was a "logical step" for the board to adopt the policy after giving the PEA time to review it.

He reminded board members that the policy can be amended if the PEA or any other group objects to the policy at a later date.

The policy states that "the classroom teacher will be responsible for maintaining the official attendance records for students enrolled in his classes and, consequently, be responsible for identifying potential attendance problems and shall contact the school, discuss the problem and seek a solution."

It spells out the steps which should be taken by teachers after noticing that a student is "excessively absent from scheduled class meetings without good and sufficient reason."

They are instructed to contact the student's parents or guardians "no later than the fourth unexcused absence." At the end of each week, teachers have to submit "cycle cut slips" indicating whether or not they have students with attendance problems.

Energy Crisis Marks End Of Era

By Philip H. Power
Publisher

About the only thing that can be said with certainty about the energy crisis is that things will get worse before they get better.

In a very real way, the President's speech last week marked the end of an era that began way back in the late 1940's. It was at that time that people began - without really realizing it - to assume that sources of energy (and the gizmos to expend it) were essentially endless. We moved into the age of the two car family (at least one of which was the gas-guzzling belchfire eight), the shirt sleeve 75 degree office, the multiple electric appliance home, the effulgent neon sign advertising economy.

Now we know better.

THE ENERGY crunch will be particularly bothersome here in the suburbs, mostly because the suburban life style is in many ways a direct byproduct of the energy-gobbling society of the last decade.

The typical suburban family lives in a free standing home, which is less efficient to heat per unit of cubic volume than an apartment or even a semi-detached house.

Dad drives to work, either downtown in Detroit or elsewhere in the suburbs, usually alone in his car. It isn't his fault that there is no mass transit available, but it's an inefficient use of gas.

Mom puts the kids on the bus to school, because with the spread out housing pattern in the suburbs it is deemed too far for them to walk. But buses use gas.

Mom then drives here and there to do her shopping and errands, because even though centers take up some of the slack, there are very few old fashioned, concentrated downtowns here in the suburbs.

Having put another 15 gallons in her car, mom drives home and turns on the dishwasher while she cleans house with the electric vacuum sweeper. More kilowatts.

When dad gets back from work, dinner is simmering in the electric skillet and the kids are playing the stereo. Then the TV set is turned on for an evening's viewing.

And so it goes. We have created in our suburbs a whole pattern of life which uses energy more profitably than any ever developed in the history of the human race.

MAYBE THE energy shortage isn't all that bad, come to think about it.

Doctors say we'll have fewer colds and sniffles if we aren't constantly walking from 75 degree homes out into the winter's cold.

If we all do a little more walking, maybe we'll have better luck coping with the two diseases which seem to accompany our present life-style: obesity and heart disease.

If the energy cost of manufacturing things goes up, maybe we'll be less inclined to accept an economy in which you buy something like a transistor radio for 10 bucks, and then wind up throwing it away after it breaks because you can't get it fixed for anything under $25.

If we get gas rationing and are forced into car pools, maybe we'll all get to know about the other guy down the street and how he feels when your kids trample through his rose garden.

I have the old fashioned feeling that we've all grown too fat and too soft in our energy-rich society. Maybe we'll all be better off with a leaner approach to life that the energy crunch will bring.

"THIS MODEL DOESN'T COME WITH A LIFETIME GUARANTEE"

Tim Richard writes

Prepare For Changes In Living

Usually, poor folks and city dwellers get hit by such social problems as unemployment, crime in the streets, air pollution.

This year, however, we in the affluent suburbs might get hurt relatively harder by "the energy crisis." Consider the very real prospect of gasoline rationing.

The inner city dweller needs a few things from the store, so he hoots it down the block to the corner grocery.

For the suburban resident, there is no corner grocery; everything is in a shopping center with a giant parking lot, and that "center" may be two or three or more miles away.

The walk to the shopping center is longer in part because suburban lots are nearly twice as big as city lots. If your walk to the shopping center takes you across that parking lot, the winter wind has more clear space to knife into you.

For many suburbanites, the walk home is all the harder because there are no sidewalks. Indeed, many suburbanites oppose sidewalks because they seek a "rural environment."

Do you begin to see the point? The point is that most of our suburbs were designed for automobiles - often for two-car families - rather than for people.

If you ration motor fuel, you reduce the availability of autos. If you need an auto to go everywhere - school, church, library, bank, store, post office, doctor's office, movies, YMCA, political meeting, hospital, social call, sewing lesson - then the lack of fuel puts a severe crimp into your standard of living.

Those weekend trips to the north country for snowmobiling? Better settle for Hines or Kensington park and tobogganing with the common herd.

Do Scott and Kevin like their mini-bikes? Great, Dad, but you may need that fuel to get to work.

Good thing you won't need that power mower and power rake until spring.

Oh, but you will need some fuel for that power snowshovel. Hmmm. Well, you can just shovel the driveway and not the main walk. (By the way, have you ever noticed that most suburbanites shovel their driveways first and the sidewalk either second or not at all? That's REALLY worshipping the car!)

One good thing about being a suburbanite: Many of us have fireplaces, so we can turn down the thermostat and keep the family room warm with a fire. Trouble is, the price of firewood has gone up this year - and not any 5.5 per cent either, pal.

EDITOR:

I am a resident of Kimberly Oaks Subdivision. Recently I received a citation for failure to observe a stop sign. This I admit I was guilty of. I stop for this sign every day, but for some reason I neglected to this once.

Incidentally, this was the first ticket I have received since 1962 which was issued in Redford Township because I didn't have a light on my rear license plate. Since I drive over 25,000 miles a year, I think it shows that I try to obey the laws.

I have noticed in the past that the officers lurk on side streets and ticket our local residents for minor offenses such as five miles over the speed limit, stop signs, etc.

After "writing up" three or four of our citizens, they return to the station. This practice is all right, but where are these officers on Friday and Saturday nights when the young fellows go through these stop streets at 70 miles and more per hour?

What are they waiting for? Must someone get killed first?

I am a taxpaying citizen, and I am fed up with the way cars and motorcycles are allowed to operate from midnight till about 4 in the morning on Friday and Saturday nights.

Where are the Livonia police officers? Why is nothing done about these things? I have called the station and reported speeding through the neighborhood on several occasions, but no officers appeared on the scene.

Let's Trap Bike Thieves

EDITOR:

It's frustrating to experience the loss of a $105 bicycle, especially when it's stolen off public property with security guards patrolling the area.

On Oct. 25 at 4 p.m., my daughter and her girl friend took their bikes and went shopping to Wonderland. They parked two new bikes next to the bike rack in back of Ward's and chained them together around a post with a lock. Both bikes were less than three months old, 10-speed Schwinn's; each cost over $100. The bikes were stolen while the girls were shopping.

I learned later from the security guard at Wonderland that many bikes are stolen there regularly.

Why isn't the public advised? I wouldn't permit my daughter to leave her bike unattended had I known this.

Why can't the police set up a trap and decoy and flush the robbers out. If that many bikes are stolen, then a ring must be involved. The losses to the public must be substantial.

Maybe the newspaper can help out by publishing these facts. Especially if a list of stolen bikes and serial numbers were published, this would alert people to be aware of that particular bike

Don't Call Him 'Gullible'

EDITOR:

Re: Articles on transcendental meditation appearing Oct. 17.

It is not my favorite thing to be called gullible especially when the accusers are ill-informed and have apparently done little to alleviate their ignorance. Your Messrs. Kinsolving and Richard obviously don't know what transcendental meditation is all about, haven't devoted financial or personal time resources to find out, yet have taken the position as experts to be negatively critical.

I would suggest that if you really want to inform your readers on TM that you go to an authority in the field of psycho-physiology who has experience with TM and get his professional opinion.

In the interim, why not have Rev. Kinsolving stick to expounding opinions in his field of expertise, religion. As for Mr. Richard, an assignment on the buns rising at the local bakery would be in order.

Student Likes Mod Schedule

EDITOR:

I am a senior attending Plymouth High School, planning to graduate in June 1974. Modular scheduling began in our high school when I was a sophomore and was planned as an experiment to graduate our class under the modular scheduling program.

As of yet, no plans about keeping the modular scheduling program for next year have been made. I have attended past school board meetings about the program and understand that plans for education in the high school next year may not include the program.

As an individual participating in MS, I believe I have benefited highly in the majority of subjects I studied. At first, the system seemed a bit awkward, but after further knowledge of the program, the advantages soon took place, making full use of the program.

At board meetings last year, I heard many opinions on the subject of MS and concluded that many parents don't really have enough knowledge of the program to have the power to abolish it. Also, many of those who complained were parents of freshmen students, and I agree MS is not to the freshman's advantage.

A compromise could be made by having the program set up in such a way that it would only be offered to sophomores, juniors and seniors, and traditional scheduling would be offered to all students wishing not to participate in MS.

Modular scheduling is a very accurate and highly developed form of education which, as a whole, extends more views to students participating. The two schools, Salem and Canton, are both designed for use of MS, and many materials and programs would be wasted if the program were discontinued.

So as a student in MS, I ask you as voters, students and board members to please think twice and support our system rather than abolishing it.

Remember: You can't always be sure of a judgment until you have actually been involved with the subject. The subject is modular scheduling, which I have been deeply involved with as long as anybody and longer than most. I believe in continuing the program for the benefit of future education in our high schools.

'Watergate' At Home

EDITOR:

For those of us involved in promoting and improving citizen participation in government, this last election was especially disheartening. "Watergate" should have served as a very potent lesson in the calamities that can occur when citizens abdicate their responsibilities. Everyone claims the freedoms that our system of government affords, but few accept the responsibility implicit in that system.

The act of voting is the initial, and easiest, step in this accountability. It would be most interesting to hear the approximately 30,000 excuses for not voting in Southfield and Lathrup Village on Nov. 6.

SHIRLEY WALL
President, Southfield-Lathrup League of Women Voters

Leonard Poger writes

What Is True Market Value?

No one really likes property taxes.

They account for up to one-third of a homeowner's monthly house payment.

For senior citizens, property taxes robbed them of a substantial amount of their fixed income before a new tax rebate plan was approved recently to take effect next year.

School officials want property taxes deleted or substantially reduced because the tax distorts the quality of educational opportunities from one district to another based on the local dependence of such taxes for local support.

But a major reason for getting rid of property taxes is the basic administration of the system.

Taxes are levied on local homes, land, and buildings based on some elusive tag called "true market value."

A new controversy in Westland shows the system is bad and should be changed.

A series of published reports indicate some homes are grossly underassessed while others are substantially overassessed.

The key to the argument is just what constitutes "true market value" of a home.

The Wayne County Bureau of Taxation, which determines if the local assessor has set values based on the actual market, uses records of home sales of the past year to determine if the assessor is doing his job.

But the problem is sales records aren't an accurate barometer of what a home is worth.

For example, two homes of identical size, age, location, and design can sell for as much as $5,000 more or less. The reason is simple.

One home could have carpeting in good shape, usable refrigerator, range, and laundry room washing machine and dryer. Aside from the home, the seller is offering the home on the open market through a real estate firm and may be forced to pay mortgage "points."

Both the real estate agent's commission and the mortgage "points" are included in the purchase price.

A similar home, sold by the owner who was fortunate enough to find a buyer with a large down payment may avoid paying the real estate agent's fee and the mortgage points, which drops the potential selling price by several thousands of dollars.

If the same house is stripped, without carpeting, appliances or other extras, the price is dropped a few thousand more.

But the house is the same size and age of the first sample which will probably be sold for a much higher price.

There are also a number of other factors which have nothing to do with the house itself, like whether it is in a school district part of a federal court plan for school integration.

But a $30,000 house in one city may sell for $25,000 in another city and $35,000 a few miles away.

"True market value" is a bad way to set property assessments but that's the way it's done.

Emory Daniels Writes

Who Benefits In Local Units Sales?

The State Legislature ought to enact a law regulating land transactions between governmental units, particularly the sale of right-of-way for public roadway or sidewalks.

As things stand, a governmental unit needing right-of-way from another must negotiate a purchase price. The selling unit calls in an appraiser and makes an offer based on current market value.

For instance, a school board might have purchased land 10 years ago at $1,500 an acre. The city government within the school district needs right-of-way for a road widening.

The district appraises the land and offers to sell for $7,000 an acre. If one acre is needed, the city pays $7,000 and the school district realizes a $5,500 gain.

Or a community college which, a decade ago, buys land at $3,000 an acre offers to sell right-of-way to the county road commission for $10,000 an acre. On the surface, a $7,000 gain for the college sounds all right.

Or it could be the city government negotiating with the State Highway Commission, offering to sell right-of-way at $8,000 an acre for land it purchased a decade ago for $2,000 an acre.

In one case, the city is paying $7,000 to the school district which profits by $5,500; in the other, a county pays $10,000 to the college which profits by $7,000; and in the third, the state pays $8,000 to the city which profits by $6,000.

But what really happened is that 10 years ago taxpayers paid a total of $5,500 for land purchased by each governmental unit. A decade later, the taxpayer pays another $25,000 to buy that

Gerald Ford may well become the first man in history to have come a heartbeat away from the vice-presidency.

Guenther Returns To Business World

By W.W. EDGAR

PLYMOUTH After nearly a quarter century of shining in the public spotlight, Harold E. Guenther is stepping down.

Aside from being the head of Brilliant Products Co., with headquarters on N. Main Street, he has had time to serve on the city commission for six years, was mayor for four years (from 1967 to 1971) and has been a part of all the major activities in the city.

In fact, he has stamped himself as "the busiest man in town" and there is an adage that "if you want things done - see Harold."

Now Harold has left the city commission to attend to his business interests. From a meager beginning out in Sheridan, Wyo., where he was born, Guenther has become a force in industry to the point where his company at one time also had branches in Detroit and Puerto Rico.

Over the years, too, he developed a hobby of respecting old things and antiques. He not only lives in one of the oldest homes in Plymouth (on Holbrook) but several years ago brought back an ancient windmill from the north country and it now stands as a beacon in his yard.

Born in a family where the father was forced to travel about the country, Harold moved east and got to Mulberry, Kansas, where some of the home folks still live. He finally landed in Detroit in 1935, joined Frederick Stevens Co., dealers in foundry supplies, and remained there for 10 years.

Then in 1945, he formed an unusual company and went into business for himself.

"We had a black man named Oscar Moore, a Polish fellow named Stanley Gatzny, a Jewish fellow named Sid Schwartz and myself," he'll tell you with a smile.

To top it off, the firm started business in Hamtramck, manufacturing foundry supplies and other items dealing in metal.

By 1947 the firm was forced to change. Moore, the black man, died. And for one reason or another, both Gatzny and Schwartz moved out of the picture.

With them gone, Guenther moved to Plymouth in 1948, and the city has profited by his presence ever since.

Leasing the old building at N. Main and the railroad tracks, he continued the manufacturing business, and now the firm produces an odd assortment of equipment for the comfort of old folks.

This includes all sorts of safety devices to guide them along the halls, to aid them while in the bath tub and to help them slide along benches and the like.

"We're always on the lookout for items that will help them," Harold says. And he works closely with the hospitals both in designing and manufacturing the equipment.

Through the years, he always has had time to engage in civic affairs and take an active role in the development of the business life of the city.

As a member of the Area Planning Commission, he was instrumental in bringing several long-standing firms to the community. And he was one of the original group that formed the John Smith clothing store on Main Street.

A member of the Plymouth Rotary, he has been active in such things as the famed chicken barbecue and played a major role in the beautification of Kellogg Park. It was his idea to sell bricks in the promenade, and he played a role in preserving the old P&A Theater on Pennington Avenue before a fire next door left it in ruins.

Plymouth, "if it's good for the city, you'll find Harold Guenther involved in it."

At the moment he is one of those interested in the cleaning of Wilcox Lake and the erection of a fountain in its center. He also is lending his support to the development of "Old Village" and the unique restaurant that will be comprised of seven railroad passenger coaches on the spur of the C&O track opposite the railroad station.

Now 62 years old, he still is a dynamo, but never too busy to offer a helping hand in any worthy cause. Married on Jan. 1, 1937, he is the father of four sons, each of whom is active in the city. And their mother, Geneva, is one of the leading antique buffs in the community.

Pinball Arcade Folding Before City Ordinance

By W. W. EDGAR

PLYMOUTH

The Plymouth City Commission has been beaten to the punch.

Just a short while before the city commission was to enact an ordinance to license pinball machines the Plymouth Arcade on Fralick Street, Plymouth's only full-fledged home of the mechanical devices, has decided to close its doors at the end of the week.

"We just couldn't make it," said Mark Wilson, proprietor of the Arcade. "We aren't taking in enough money to keep going. When that happens, you have no choice but close."

Informed that he was beating the city to the punch in that a plan was afoot to license the machines, Dave Erickson, original manager of the Arcade, shrugged his shoulders and remarked:

"We weren't wanted here in the first place. We never got a break. A city tax would have forced us out anyway—so we'll just close."

According to the two managers, a weekly gross of at least $700 is needed to make a success of an arcade the size of the one on Fralick Street.

"We hit that figure only once in the two months our Arcade was open," Wilson said. "We have averaged only about half that amount—and it isn't enough."

Fund Needs Help To Localize Concerns

Residents of the Plymouth Community have always prided themselves at being sustainers of a separate, definable area.

Greater Plymouth, we have always felt, has resisted the growing tentacles of metropolitan spread that seems to have homogenized and pasteurized some of our neighboring suburbs.

Our individuality has been built on an historical socio-economic identity that is separate from the urban sprawl.

A significant example of our independence is the Plymouth Community Fund which has thus far been able to maintain a separate identity from the Detroit Fund that now includes even Northville, Livonia and Canton Township.

Each year though, the Plymouth Fund drive faces the possibility that it might have to bow under to mounting pressure and join the urban Torch Drive.

The only thing which has allowed the Plymouth Fund to carry on is the success it has met every year thus far.

In spite of the dedicated efforts of the many volunteers behind the Plymouth Fund, each year the drive's success comes down to the final hour.

It appears that the goal has again been reached for 1974 but it was not until the final week of the drive that anyone could say for sure whether the "victory" dinner scheduled for Friday night would be that or not.

If we Plymouth Community residents intend to maintain our fund's individuality and concern for our community's services, we must see to it that the dollars are donated.

A Tartar Twin

Wayne State University's Jan. 26, 1974, home basketball game with Hillsdale will be the nightcap of a twin-bill

It's easy to say, "I gave at the office" to a bellringer when you actually haven't - but that doesn't help the fund do its job.

Do you think the Detroit fund would be apt to donate part of its money to Youth Inc. in Plymouth for example? Or to the Plymouth Scouts? Or to the Plymouth YMCA?

I doubt it.

The only way our Community Fund can be effective in our community is by giving attention to the services needed just in our area.

And the fund can't do that without our help.

So the fund made it again - there were a lot of people here who didn't help it any this year. (If so it's not too late - it's never too late.)

Let's show our support for the fund that helps OUR community.

Report Cards At High School Have Changes

PLYMOUTH Production changes to new, computerized report cards will result in changes in appearance and format on report cards to be issued Thursday, during a home-room period at the end of the school day.

The most important change will consist of a record of the student's attendance in each class. Printed alongside the letter grade will be one of five comments on the student's behavior and a record of absences from that class.

Data processing services have been contracted with the Wayne County Intermediate School System. Cards will be printed and sorted at the board office.

Get Special Bird Permit

By LEM MESEE
Outdoors Writer

Holly and Bald Mountain recreation areas in Oakland County are among 15 specified game areas in which the State Dept. of Natural Resources will permit a five-month special hunting season for state-raised pheasants.

DNR's goal is to boost the pheasant harvest by 100,000 birds, although the first year's take won't run much more than 35,000.

The special season runs from Sept. 29 to March 1. To take advantage of it, you need a special permit which is free.

On a U.S. post card, print your name and address on the address side, leaving the message side blank. Put the post card in a stamped envelope addressed to: Pheasant Program, PO Drawer M, Lansing Michigan 48926.

Applications will be accepted to Feb. 16. Your permit will be stamped on the message side of the post card. Your bag limit is two birds of either sex. Normally, the areas will be closed Thursdays and Fridays, when quotas of pen-reared pheasants will be released.

Other nearby areas where the permit is good are: Gregory, in Livingston County; Sharonville, on the Washtenaw - Jackson line; Lapeer in Lapeer County and Dedford in Tuscola County.

Shore fishermen are having some luck with panfish on the Huron River at Flat Rock and Pointe Mouillee.

Bass quit feeding when water temperatures drop below 50 degrees, but other species continue to bite, albeit slowly.

BELLEVILLE LAKE, which got a cleanout of rough fish and some new stocks of gamefish in recent weeks, will get something else -- a new public boating access site.

The DNR says it has a site "in excess of 10 acres" and is making preliminary studies of how to set it up. Facilities will include parking area for cars and trailers, concrete boat launching ramp and toilet facilities.

SMALL GAME hunting is reported "fair" at best through most of southeast Michigan.

That was the report last week in western Wayne County and most of Oakland County for pheasants, rabbit, woodcock and duck.

In most places, rabbit hunting was even poor because cover is still heavy.

"Put-take" pheasant hunting in the Holly Recreation Area was better, but DNR officers say hunters often expect easy kills and fail to spend enough time and effort looking for birds.

Squirrel hunters had fair success in Sumpter and Brownstown townships in Wayne County. One officer checked 136 hunters in Huron and west Brownstown townships with this luck: 41 pheasants, seven rabbits and two fox.

Oakland County waterfowl hunting is good, with many ducks and even some geese being taken. Wood duck, mallards, teal and a few bluebills are the most common species.

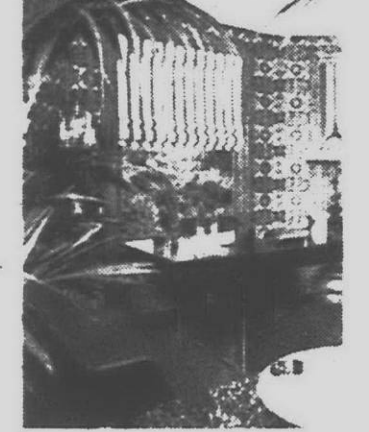

FISHING pressure is light, but some hardy anglers are still venturing forth successfully.

Cedar Island Lake in Oakland was producing limit catches of average size bluegills in shallow water on worms.

Cass Lake's Kokanee salmon are expected to be moving into the bay area about now.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Year ended June 30, 1973

Note A - Significant accounting policies

Fund classifications. The accompanying financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the balanced-fund principle of accounting and on an accrual basis. For statement purposes, the accounts of the College have been classified into six balanced-fund groups, which are described as follows:

- (1) General Fund, which shows those activities financed by student tuition and fees, annual appropriations from the State of Michigan, and property tax revenues.
- (2) Restricted Fund, which shows institutional activities financed by direct gifts and grants and other revenues which must be used for the purpose specified by the donors or Board of Trustees.
- (3) Auxiliary Activities Fund, which shows the activities of largely self-supporting enterprises operated principally to provide services to the student body, faculty, and staff.
- (4) Student Loan Fund, which shows the transactions related to loans to students.
- (5) Endowment Fund, which shows the transactions related to gifts which allow only the income thereon to be expended.
- (6) Plant Fund, which shows the transactions related to the investment in institutional properties, including indebtedness incurred in the financing thereof.

Investments. Temporary investments are stated at cost and accrued interest.

Inventories. Inventories are stated at the lower of cost or market.

Properties. Physical properties are stated at cost and expenditures for maintenance and repairs are expensed as incurred. Amounts expended directly from a fund for capital additions are included in the expenditures of such fund and are capitalized within the Plant Fund. No depreciation of properties is recorded.

Revenue recognition. Gifts and grants are not recorded until received. Restricted fund revenues are recognized only to the extent expended. All revenues received in connection with the current summer session are deferred at year-end.

Note B - Temporary investments

Temporary investments of the several funds at June 30, 1973 include $975,198 in certificates of deposit, $174,250 in savings deposit receipts, and $14,471 of accrued interest thereon.

Note C - Bonds payable

The principal and interest on bonds are payable from designated property tax levies. The College has levied a .3666 mill tax (aggregating approximately $570,000) for the year ending June 30, 1974, which together with funds on hand will be adequate to meet payments due during that year, including mandatory prepayments for the 1962 debt retirement.

The bonds are generally callable, bear interest at rates varying from 3 1/4% to 6% and mature at various dates through 1995.

Note D - Retirement plan

College contributions for the year to the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement Fund and for social security aggregated approximately $530,000.

'Waste Not, Want Not,' Is Energy Advice

By CORRINE ABATT

SOUTHFIELD
The question on which University of Michigan professors Marton S. Hilbert and Marc Ross spoke at Lawrence Tech wasn't whether there is an energy crisis, but what to do about it.

Ross is a professor of physics. Hilbert, a professor of environment and industrial health, is chairman and associate director of the Institute of Environment and Public Health.

Hilbert's answer won't to lower the standard of living to donkey and candle power, but to further technological research.

However, Hilbert didn't sanction the inexact use of energy which is at times akin to impulse buying.

Hilbert's stand against lowering the standard of living, but instead making better use of what is available and seeking ways of conserving energy, was based on the fact that the gross national product (GNP) is increasing at the same rate as consumption of power.

The U.S., with six per cent of the world's population, consumes 35 per cent of the world's power. If this seems unfair, then Hilbert cites the life expectancy here as somewhere beyond 70 compared to a maximum age of 35 from underdeveloped countries.

"Maybe," he said, speaking about life here, "There is something to the life style we have in this country."

He follows with a sort of "waste not, want not" theme in explaining his "standards of variable constancies." This means fewer across-the-board absolute rules in the area of conservation and more study of all factors and results.

"Fifty per cent of the energy produced in this country is wasted."

He questioned whether emission controls, which cause a 25 per cent loss in gas mileage, should be the same in Nevada as in Los Angeles where the smog shuts out the sun.

The opposition to construction of a power plant on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan is partly based on the effect it would have on the ecosystem, particularly fish in the immediate area where water temperature would be raised a degree or two.

"Ecology for whom?" asks Hilbert. "The fish who can swim to live two miles away or the people who will be freezing without power?"

He cited advances in science which have eradicated polio and perfected heart valve surgery. "Medical research has been charged with solving problems. We need to charge researchers to do the same for energy. I believe technology can be developed to solve the energy problems of this nation."

He listed some of the potential sources — solar power, geothermal power, thermal expansion, wind, tides and fusion.

The audience, mostly LIT students, was told by Hilbert: "We must reduce the waste of this nation by 50 per cent. It takes a crisis for us to say we really ought to get to work."

"We need to decide what kind of environment we want to live in and how much we are willing to pay for crystal clear air and land protection. We must do what is necessary for survival at a level which we as Americans choose."

Prof. Ross came up with a measure he feels is necessary. It probably won't be an immediately popular solution. He favors a rise in the price of energy.

"Energy is cheap so we use a great deal of it. The price is about the same as in 1947."

Many of the costs for research and development of new sources of energy are hidden in taxes, he maintained.

Essentially he was arguing persons have more respect for things that cost more. As an example, he wondered how many major industrial complexes and institutions would keep lights on 24 hours a day if the cost were raised, and if a men's room needs as much light as a drafting office.

An energy policy report developed by the Ford Foundation will soon be published. Ross has been involved in a segment of that research.

New energy sources present challenges, said Ross, using low-sulfur Western coal as an example. The problem of re-establishing the land after the area is mined will have to be solved.

And plutonium, a great source of energy, has toxic effects. Getting rid of that, Ross adds, is another challenge.

He mentioned more efficient use of available energy. He described using coal to make low content gas to power a turbine to create steam to run a steam turbine. Yet conversion to this rather complicated method, which makes almost total use of energy sources, probably wouldn't be installed by industry unless the present source became too costly.

While Ross favors changes in life style to conserve, car pools, turning off unneeded lights, and keeping home heat a degree or two lower, none of these, he said, is as significant as changes made by technological advances.

Sports Store Has An Unusual Touch

You might think it a bit unusual to find someone with a bachelor of science degree from a state university working behind the counter of a sports goods store.

And it would be even more surprising to find that you could walk the length and breadth of the store and not find a fishing rod, nets, or even the common fishing lures.

But that's exactly what you would find if you sauntered into the West Side Sporting Goods Shop, the latest business to be opened on South Main Street in Plymouth.

A.J. and Len Ryder, a real estate man, formed the partnership several months ago — just as an experiment.

There was only one thing missing and that's the throngs of customers to make a success of the experiment.

"We're ready to take care of them — and even supply the uniforms," A.J. stated with that far away gleam in his eye that told of his confidence that the venture would be successful.

A short course in time management for bosses and secretaries will be offered at Schoolcraft College on three consecutive Mondays beginning Nov. 19.

Dr. Donald D. Starr, senior associate of George Odiorne Assoc. of Plymouth, will teach the course from 3 to 5 p.m. in Room B-425 of the Liberal Arts building. Registration is $25 per team and can be made by contacting Dr. Starr at Odiorne's office, 711 W. Ann Arbor Trail or at the first class meeting.

An expert in time management, Dr. Starr will help bosses and their secretaries identify prime "time wasters" from their daily schedule.

The class will then discuss ways of planning ahead and using time efficiently.

The course is sponsored by Resources Inc. of Ann Arbor, an experimental "think and development" organization. Dr. Starr chairs the Ann Arbor group and has a mixed background in management and education including experience at Carnegie-Mellon in Pittsburgh, Pa., and at Oakland Community College and Detroit Institute of Technology.

In explaining his course, Dr. Starr quoted management professor Peter Drucker who said, "Time is our most critical resource; unless we manage time well we really don't manage anything at all."

Futurology -- Is It Shocking Or Useful?

By KATHY MORAN

If you are a woman and hope to be around in the next 10 to 15 years, now is the time to begin contemplating your values and alerting yourself to some of the decisions which may confront you or your daughter.

For instance, how would you feel about looking through a "human seed catalogue" and selecting your child, its hair and eye color and level of intelligence?

Or what about selecting your child from a "supermarket" of frozen embryos and then having it placed in an artificial environment where you could watch it grow from embryo to fetus to a child ready for "birth?" These questions may seem straight out of science fiction of Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World."

But it wasn't long ago that people laughed at the thought of sending a man to the moon or driving in a horseless carriage. And by not listening to warnings several years ago, man is now forced to cope with an energy shortage.

In fact, extensive research into the field of genetics may make "genetic engineering" a very real part of life in the near future. And with these possibilities confronting us, now is the time to determine just how the scientific advances should be used.

This was the message of the second program on "futurology" presented at Schoolcraft College by Sister Margaret Basso and Judy Kaitz of the Newman Center staff.

They presented a four-film program on various aspects of medical research and followed them by discussion of the resulting impact on the future of each person alive today and those yet to be born.

In all, more than 600 community residents and students viewed the films from the series "Toward the Year 2000" which were shown continuously for three days.

Their intention isn't too shock - only to alert persons to what may be awaiting them in the immediate future, said Sister Margaret and Miss Kaitz.

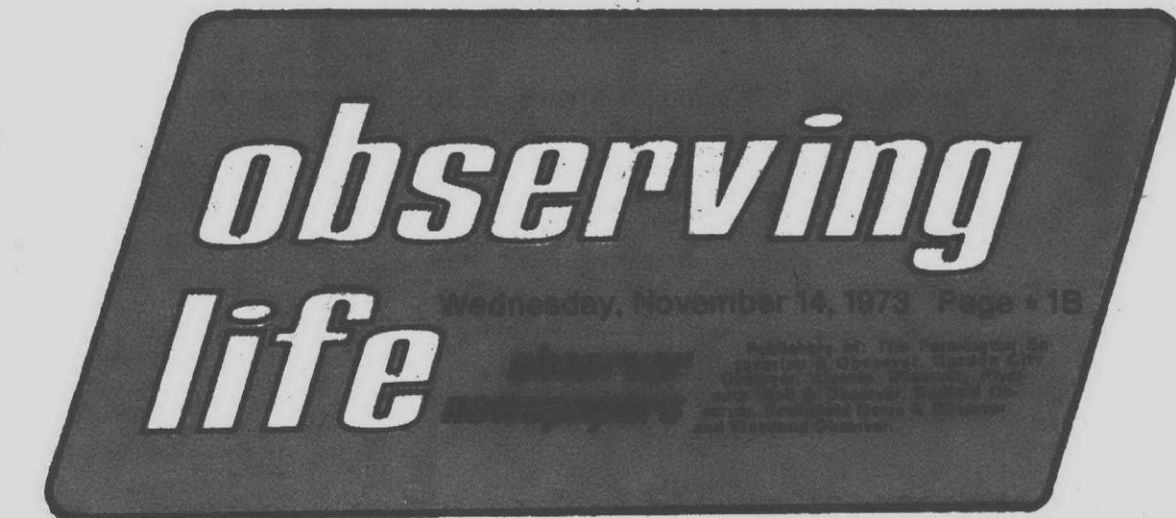

They added they are trying to "combat the idea that what happens in the future is inevitable." Instead they want to convince people that they can determine their own futures if they educate themselves today.

Also, there's the matter of alerting people to the grave consequences of not becoming involved in the decision-making process. "The decisions will be made - it's up to the public to get a voice in them," Sister Margaret said.

The field of genetic research - the study of genes which determine hereditary characteristics - is just one which was covered in the program, but it pointed out positive and negative possibilities in the future.

"This kind of research makes possible a whole spectrum of things - some desirable and some not desirable," Miss Kaitz said, cautioning that it puts scientists in a "God-like" role in determining life.

In the film "Genetics: Man the Creator," noted geneticists Dr. Kurt Hirschorn and Dr. Robert Francoeur elaborate on the desirable and not - so - desirable aspects of the study.

They hypothesize that the sperms and eggs of great men and women may be frozen and used in the years to come to produce children of the same caliber as their "parents."

And they speculate that a woman may be able to have a child after being fertilized by the sperm of her favorite actor or political figure.

Incredible though it sounds, science has discovered ways of preserving sperm and these sperm banks could be the first steps toward selective breeding.

But the film notes that this same research may have less frightening but equally astonishing results.

It might enable man to regrow certain limbs, like a salamander, by learning how to "turn on" certain genes, according to the scientists.

Scientists might also be able to prevent genetic defects and therefore retardation, mongolism, hemophilia, dwarfism and the endless list of genetic defects which are said to affect one in 18 children.

But with that comes the question of what will a mother do if her unborn child is tested and found to have genetic defects? She'll be faced with the decision whether or not to have the child.

Or will she have that decision?

It may be that people will carry their genetic map with them just as they carry their driver's license and be warned against marrying a person with a similar map which could result in "defective" children.

A potential shocker depicted is a scientific process called "cloning" which means removing the nucleus of one cell and replacing it with the nucleus of another.

Scientists have already successfully completed this process with frogs and say it may be possible with humans by the year 2000.

It's frightening, said Sister Margaret, because it means carbon copy human beings could be turned out.

"That might mean an efficient army or factory crew," she said, "but I cannot see anything good that could come of it."

"Even if we were to reproduce Einsteins, how could we be sure their intellect would be right for our time?"

The real question is who will hold the decisive power if these strides are made, the film suggested.

Who will determine whose sperm and eggs will be preserved?

Who will decide which parents can reproduce themselves and which should select their child?

The decisions will rest with those who become involved, said Sister Margaret and Miss Kaitz.

Their purpose is studying futurology is to make citizens aware of the strides being made in every field of science and technology and the need for control and a voice from the public.

The next three-day program will be in March and cover the areas of computers and cybernetics. Several futurology films will be shown and followed by discussions.

Those interested in the subject can contact the Newman House.

In the meantime, start thinking ahead toward your future.

At EMU

Livonians Present India

Livonians Lynn and Stan Golonka will join their fellow travelers to India in presenting an educators' view of that country at Eastern Michigan University Saturday.

Mrs. Golonka, who teaches at Thurston High School in Redford Township, and her husband, a teacher in the Taylor School District, are contributing a picture-filled book on the tour to the presentation for teachers beginning at 9:30 a.m. in Pierce Hall on the EMU campus.

Several dozen educators who joined in a two-month EMU-sponsored tour of India will participate in showing to other teachers various aspects of the still little-known land.

Among them are Marcella Esser, Hugh Schulkins and Sophie Gerrish of Farmington.

Purpose of the program, Mrs. Golonka said, is to help teachers develop "innovative ways to extend the culture of India into the classroom."

For their part of the presentation, the Golonkas will have a book of some 150 to 200 pictures they took during their travels.

The booklet, printed on the South Redford School District presses, is titled "Namaste," which translates "Welcome to India."

"We took over 500 pictures, trying to show a whole view of the country," Mrs. Golonka said.

The tour, which ran from June 23 to Aug. 23, was all India except for a stop in Rome on the way there. The Golonkas also visited London after the official tour was completed.

Everyone who went was involved in some kind of education work. "We had teachers of all levels from elementary to college, and representing a large number of school districts," Mrs. Golonka said.

What stood out in the minds of the Livonians was the poverty to be seen on every hand.

"It was a shocking thing to get off the big plane after we landed in Bombay and then for miles on the bus to see people sleeping on the streets," the Redford teacher added.

"It was a depressing sight," she said, "and it was the kind that kept hitting us. It's part of India, but not all of India. The country is one of such great contradictions."

For Lynn Golonka, the most pleasant part of the tour was the stay on a houseboat in the Kashmir.

It was quite a thing, she reported, to have the services of a cook and other servants who came with the houseboat, and to be able to buy necessities and luxuries from the assortment of merchants who came by in their own water taxis.

But even the stay on Lake Dal had its face of tragedy, she said.

"The area was caught in the monsoons, and when the floods came, many did not get out," she said. "We were able to leave because we had plane reservations. I don't know how many were trapped."

A FAMILY-PLANNING SLOGAN and the sacred cow - two sights common in India - are the subjects of one of several hundred pictures Lynn Golonka snapped while traveling. It's included in a booklet she prepared on the trip.

AAUW Slates Annual Auction

The Livonia branch of the American Assn. of University Women will hold its third annual "Make-It, Bake-It, Grow-It, Sew-It" auction on Tuesday, Nov. 20, at 8 p.m. in St. Paul Presbyterian Church, 25475 Five Mile, Livonia.

The Livonia members have donated baked goods, hanging plants, pine cone wreaths and decoupage articles for the auction. All proceeds will go into the fellowship fund.

Virginia Farmer, fellowship chairman of the Livonia branch, said the AAUW has 70 fellowships for women in the last year of their doctoral program. Applications are available from the AAUW Fellowship Office, 2401 Virginia Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037.

m. m. memos

Our family gained its fourth official adult a few weeks back.

The event didn't cause a great stir at the time. I guess that's because we had to delay celebration of the 18th birthday until after a vacation trip we were planning, and anyway I've been considering our college freshman pretty adult for some time.

But it turned out to be quite a birthday.

First, her school friends paid proper attention to her coming of age, and the pictures they took of the party in the school newspaper office made a good picture page for the next issue.

And then she went grocery shopping the week her parents were out of town. Since she could do so legally for the first time, she bought a couple of lottery tickets. You guessed it, she came out $25 richer.

The family was much impressed and quick to put in orders for using the million she would be winning.

Mother and Dad wanted a house in Florida, ninth grade and seventh grade sisters wanted a college education and a horse, respectively, and our university sophomore was ready to settle for a couple of John Denver records.

But our new adult has decided that maybe her best 18th birthday present is an "ish." She gets to be home midnightISH instead of at the stroke of 12.

They grow up faster all the time, but I've decided this kid knows the right way to hit 18.

Leaguers Host Latins

By MARGARET MILLER

Eight Latin American visitors who had expected to find U.S. women "cold, aloof and sophisticated" had their notions changed by the League of Women Voters members in Farmington and West Bloomfield.

The eight are scholars who participated in a five-week seminar on coordinating resources for community action, and during their swing through Detroit they stopped off for a lunchtime chat with members of the local LWV.

"They said later that the lunch was one of the things they most enjoyed about their visit to the Detroit area," said Mrs. Maria Runk, who spent quite a bit of time with the visitors because she speaks Spanish fluently.

"They had somehow come to expect the American woman to be cold -- not taking time for relationships. They were delighted to have a chance to relax with us and pleasantly surprised to learn how friendly we are."

Mrs. Runk, a Farmington resident, was one of several members of the Farmington-West Bloomfield LWV to attend the luncheon with the visitors.

It was held in the Orchard Lake home of Mrs. Maryalice Casey, a member of the local league and now president of the Michigan League of Women Voters.

This also was one of the few times the women had a chance to see an American home instead of a hotel, Mrs. Runk said, and probably was one of few visits to suburban areas.

"The women are students and they came to learn rather than be entertained," she added.

"But they let us know that our luncheon for them was one of the pleasantest parts of the trip."

Other activities the day of the luncheon included a visit to the Cranbrook Institute and a meeting with area LWV members for an explanation of league programs.

The study tour for the visitors -- 18 women in all -- was co-sponsored by the LWV overseas education fund and the U.S. State Department.

Mrs. Runk said the visiting women had some penetrating comments to make about what they saw on the American scene.

"When Planned Parenthood showed them films on contraception," she went on, "they seemed surprised that in this country we place on the woman so much of the responsibility for contraception. They thought it should be more the role of the man."

"And they were much interested in learning about our welfare programs but concerned about possible repercussions of those systems."

The Latin women came from Bolivia, Columbia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Guatemala and Peru. By profession they are teachers, social workers, businesswomen and volunteers working in community service.

Two League of Women Voter members participated in the seminar.

How To Win Members And Fill Meeting Rooms

By MARGARET MILLER

Theodore J. Milner is a gentleman who can tell clubwomen everything they always wanted - to know - about - successful - meetings - but - didn't - know - how - to - ask.

So when he visited a recent workshop sponsored by the Redford Toastmistress Club, he was full of suggestions for getting members to come to meetings, bring a friend and stay to work on a committee.

"Put a map in your meeting announcement, was one of the ideas offered by the speaker, who is associated with J. Walter Thompson Co. advertisers and has worked with Toastmistress International groups on several occasions.

"There's something about a map that makes people start planning a trip," he added.

He said a large club belongs to offers regular door prizes for meetings - usually small merchandise certificates but occasionally a "biggie like a trip."

Other gimmicks he suggested to representatives of several local clubs were cocktail napkins mailed for a party and pictures of a magnifying glass with the words "We're looking for you."

"I also like to use typewriter art for catching people's eye," Milner said. "This is quite easy to do and effective. You draw a shape with a black magic marker and put it behind the sheet of typing paper. Then you fill in with typewriter characters."

He recommended questionnaires to give club members a voice in planning programs.

"In years of promotion work," he added, "I've concluded that people want to be consulted about plans."

"Of course in many cases they wind up doing just what you wanted them to do in the first place, but it's with more enthusiasm."

Milner pointed out that his suggestions were strictly of the promotion variety.

"They may double attendance at meetings," but it's up to the club to double its membership," he said.

"Unless you are sold on a club, you can't interest anyone else."

Problem Solving Workshop Slated

Can problem solving be fun? Barbara Hoffman of Rochester and Phyllis Maistrom of Bloomfield Hills say that it can be and will co-chair an all-day workshop for men and women on "Applied Imagination" Saturday, Nov. 17.

The workshop with a $10 fee will be at the Continuum Center at Oakland University in Rochester from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. It will focus on a five-step creative problem-solving process including fact-finding, problem definition, idea-finding, solution-finding and implementation.

The purpose is to provide participants with a more systematic way of generating alternatives and arriving at better decisions on the job in organizational work or at home.

AAUW Plans Next Meeting

"Something for Everyone" will be the theme of the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women's next general meeting Thursday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in West Middle School, Plymouth.

The program will feature three simultaneous "mini-meetings," each dealing with a different interest area.

New Voices

Mr. and Mrs. Mark A. Hoagland of Livonia announce the birth of a daughter, Amy Ann, Sept. 14 in Mt. Sinai Hospital, Detroit.

Amy has a brother, Jeffrey James, 3. Her grandparents are Mrs. Walter S. Phelps of Livonia and Mr. and Mrs. Milton B. Hoagland of Troy.

She will be christened Nov. 17 wearing a handmade gown which was worn by her mother and godfather, Frank Ruser. The gown was made by a longtime family friend, Mrs. Grant Wate for her son, Dr. Craig Wate.

MRS. BRADFORD SINCOCK
(Sherril Scruggs)

St. John Church Setting For Vows

St. John Episcopal Church in Plymouth was the setting for the recent evening wedding of Plymouth residents Sherril D. Scruggs and Bradford W. Sincock.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scruggs of Lilley Road and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sincock of Betty Hill Avenue are the couple's parents.

The Rev. Robert S. Shank

officiated for the ceremony, which was followed by a reception for 200 guests in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white organza over pink with tucked bodice and lace trim. Her lace-trimmed camelot headpiece held a fingertip veil, and her flowers were white roses and daisies with baby's breath.

The attendants wore dresses of pastel gingham checks flocked in white, all made by the bride. Their picture hats matched their dresses and they carried rosebuds and daisies.

Nancy Scruggs, the bride's sister and maid of honor, was in pink. Bridesmaid Karen Sincock, sister of the bridegroom, wore blue, and small Dawn Schrader of Tecumseh had a yellow flower girl dress.

Gary Sincock was best man for his brother, and ushers were Niels Hansen, Keith Pankow and Kurt Dufort, all of Plymouth, Gerald Laskey of Livonia, and George Al-berto of Livonia.

The couple had a northern Michigan honeymoon and will live in Plymouth. Both are graduates of Plymouth High School. The new Mrs. Sincock is employed by Plymouth K-Mart and her husband works for Bathey Manufacturing Co. and attends Schoolcraft College.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory silk jersey with tiny accordion pleats at the hemline and cuff. Imported Spanish lace fashioned her full-length mantilla, and she carried sweetheart roses with stephanotis and baby's breath.

Dawna Secontine, maid of honor for her sister, wore a blue jersey gown and carried blue and yellow daisies and pink roses in a colonial bouquet.

The bridesmaids were Ardrea Gilmour, sister of the bridegroom, and Leslie Carroll of Troy.

Harvey Sell of Farmington was best man and the ushers were Robert Gilmour of Wyoming, Mich., brother of the bridegroom, and Gary Lustig of Cleveland.

The reception was held in the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club. The couple honeymooned in Florida.

It's the age of computer companies and manufacturing companies — of punch-card correspondence and mass production. And maybe that's not all bad, at least in some businesses.

When it comes to our own profession, though, we're against this modern trend. We still think of ourselves as a "people company" — a place where helping is still a personal gesture of human caring.

2 Win Happiness Awards

Mrs. Mary Spitzza of Livonia and Paul Livingston of Farmington Hills are among the 25 selected recently as winners of the 1973 Happiness Awards program for metropolitan Detroit.

They were honored at a dinner sponsored by the Number One Kiwanis Club and a group of area businessmen.

The program each year asks nominations of persons who regularly give time and energy to help others without thought of material reward.

Mrs. Spitzza, nominated by Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara, has served on the Livonia Housing Commission since its beginnings in 1963, and her efforts have contributed a great deal to development of low cost housing in Livonia.

Livingston's award came because of his involvement in helping children at the St. Vincent & Sarah Fisher home.

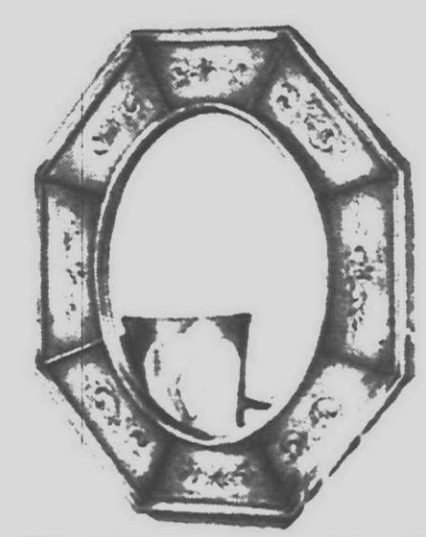

He was nominated by Sister Marie Judith, administrator of the children's home.

You know what meat prices are today and so do we. It's clearly time for some good old American ingenuity. Above is the Eckrich Blank Check. It's an invitation to try our products and at the same time save as much as you'd like—from a quarter up to a dollar—on your meat purchases this week. The offer is good on our Smokees, Smok-Y-Links, Fresh Pork Sausage, 12 oz. and 16 oz. Bologna, and our many varieties of Hot Dogs.

How much you save is up to you. But whether you save a quarter on a package of hot dogs, or take full advantage of our offer by trying four different Eckrich products and saving a dollar, you'll be saving a lot more than we could give you with just a coupon. This isn't a giant giveaway, obviously. It's nothing more than a good business move, designed to help you cut your expenses during these times of rising food prices. In doing so, you'll help us by increasing our volume. By responding to your needs, we solve our needs. You don't have to be president of the company to realize that's the best way to do business and make new friends.

IN TIMES LIKE THESE, YOU NEED A FRIEND IN THE MEAT BUSINESS.

Packaging Corp. Plant Nearly Done

By MAURIE WALKER

PLYMOUTH Less than a year after fire destroyed the Packaging Corp. of America complex on Sheldon Road, the plant is practically back in business. Although the 105,000 square foot structure won't be completed and ready for full-scale production until around the first of the year, some of the new machinery is in operation turning out corrugated shipping cartons. The new structure, which contains the plant, warehouse and offices, is constructed on the same site where the old plant stood. The Dec. 16 fire last year caused a "100 per cent" loss, Jack McFald, general manager said.

"It wasn't until last March that construction got under way. We had to start from scratch."

The firm's offices have been headquartered in trailers parked alongside the building.

"We expect to be able to move our office staff into the new building in a couple of weeks," McFald said.

The plant, when in full operation, turns out approximately 30-million square feet of shipping cartons a month which are shipped to various firms in the area.

The firm has several other plants in the country, including Detroit; Grand Rapids; Chicago; Burlington, Wis.; and Rittman, Ohio.

McFald said it was decided by the corporation to rebuild on the original site, since it already had the location and "trying to find a new spot is difficult and time consuming."

Loss from the fire, the worst in the city's history, was estimated at approximately $5 million at the time.

Starting early on the morning of Dec. 16, a Saturday, the fire burned over the entire weekend and was still smoldering several days later.

Plymouth Fire Chief George Schoenneman said at the time, that conditions under which it blazed made it difficult to fight.

"It was dangerous every minute," the chief explained, "because of the 40-mile an hour wind that carried thousands of pieces of burning paper through the air. We had to protect the entire area and kept watch over the whole city."

C&O Charged With Holding 2 Crossings

PLYMOUTH

Two complaints have been lodged against the C&O Railroad for allegedly holding up traffic at the Sheldon Rd. crossing.

Robert W. Lytle of 44443 Erik Pass, Plymouth, told police he was delayed Sunday for 16 minutes by a freight train which he said blocked traffic from 2:20 to 2:45 p.m.

On Saturday, according to a complaint filed by H.A. Carry of Redford, the crossing was delayed for 21 minutes between 2:24 and 2:45 p.m.

Gooch, Deceased, dated July 11, 1970, and for granting of administration to Kathy G. Stevens or some other suitable person as Executor. Creditors of the deceased are notified that all claims against the estate must be presented said Kathy G. Stevens at 332 Ann Street, Plymouth, Michigan and proof thereof filed with the Court on or before February 4, 1974. Schoenneman said his department received the alarm at 3:23 a.m. that Saturday "but when I reached there, flames already were shooting through three windows."

The fire was difficult to fight because of the huge rolls of paper and other combustible materials used in packaging materials for shipment.

Fire companies from Livonia, Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships were also called to help get the blaze under control.

The plant was not in operation and no one was injured. Although fire officials spent several days probing the ashes for clues to the blaze's origin, the exact cause was never determined. Schoenneman said the sprinkling system in the building had been almost completely drained.

It was learned later the sprinkler system line into the plant had broken a few days before the fire and was in a state of repair when the blaze broke out.

At the time of the fire, McFald said the city the facility would be re-built as quickly as possible.

Today, the new structure has erased completely any signs of the destruction of a year ago.

"Everything is new in the plant, the size is the same as the old one but with a few space - saving alterations," McFald said.

One of the new features is equipment which filters the air so that no debris is thrown outside.

"It really wasn't that much time that we were out of operation," McFald said, "but when you are here every day, it certainly seems like a long time."

Moy Goes Japanese

Steak House Is Unique

By JAN WILLIAMS

It's hard to say which is most enjoyable at Moy's Japanese Steak House - the food, the drink, the atmosphere or the chef.

Taken separately, each offers something special and together they're a unique combination that makes a meal a memorable experience.

Owner Sam Moy, well-known for his Chinese restaurant in the same building at 16825 Middle Belt, says this is Michigan's first Japanese Teppan Steak House. Teppan cooking is the art of preparing dinners before your eyes on iron grills.

The dining area has a Japanese atmosphere, but more than that it has a congenial air. Customers are seated around three sides of a grill, part of which serves as a table.

Although you don't have to converse with the strangers sitting at the same table (such is the case if there are less than five in your party), the atmosphere seems to warrant it. It enables you to be a little more friendly towards your fellow human beings.

Also helping is a nice warm bottle of sake. The more you drink, the more you talk and the friendlier it gets.

There are also a variety of Japanese beers, plum wine, mixed drinks and, of course, tea.

The dinners, of which there are half a dozen to choose from, start with soup and salad. The basic choices are beef, chicken and shrimp. All include some shrimp.

The big event comes next as the chef prepares the dinner before you. Moy sponsored six chefs from Japan especially for this.

The chef at our table put on an act that beats Graham Kerr any day. His expert wielding of the knife, well-timed Karate-type chops, screams and guttural were a show in themselves.

It was an act for which he deserved applause because the result was delicious. The beef was supplemented with shrimp, Japanese vegetables, bean sprouts and rice.

You have the choice of fork or chop sticks and don't spoil it by taking the fork. There's a trick to eating with chop sticks, and after a while you'll get the hang of it.

Even if you don't, it's the kind of place you'll want to keep going back to try. After all, how many restaurants can offer memorable meals?

Players Have Good Thing Going

By JAN WILLIAMS

If you have tickets to one of the remaining performances of the Farmington Players' production of "Don't Drink the Water," you're in for an evening of good entertainment.

A special treat for newcomers is an introduction to the theater itself. The converted barn provides the informality and casualness needed to truly enjoy a performance.

In other words, you can take your shoes off and relax while a group of talented actors and actresses do all the work.

The play is a two-act comedy by Woody Allen which takes place in an American embassy somewhere behind the Iron Curtain.

In the opening scene, Father Drobney (Dennis Broadhead) explains the circumstances. Himself a refugee of the embassy for six years, he gets some company when three American tourists, mistaken as spies, seek refuge there from the police.

The ambassador has left his bungling son in charge of the embassy. The gist of the play is his handling of the situation and the relationships which develop.

Broadhead does an excellent job of setting the mood for the play. His appearances throughout the scenes continually add sparks to the fire.

Fred Bush gets double credit as director of the play and as Ambassador Magee. He scores equally well on both counts.

John Powers as Axel, the ambassador's son, can also be applauded for his efforts. He made a good bungler.

For lack of space, I can sum up performances by the cast—Ellen Rosen as Susan Hollander, Steven Zygmunt as Krojack, David McCabe as Kilroy, Greg Messer as Burns (also producer), Sal Sisto as the chef, Rusty Griffin as the Sultan and Kathy Zelter as his wife, Frances Kezerta as Countess Bordoni and Mark Sisto as the guard — as the best I've seen yet in community theater.

I deleted cast members Jim Brownold as Walter Hollander and Hope Nahstoll as Maylon Hollander, two of the tourists, because they deserve special recognition.

Acting of that caliber is rare among local theater groups and the Farmington Players should be proud to claim two members who have it.

That's not meant to disparage the rest of the group. It takes a team effort to pull off a successful venture. The Players have done it with cast and crew.

If you aren't one of the ticket holders to this sold-out performance, you've still got a chance to find out what good community theater really is. The Players have upcoming performances in February and April. So get in on a good thing.

Concert To Feature Hauenstein

Nelson Hauenstein, long the principal flutist of the Plymouth Symphony, will step to center stage as soloist in this Sunday's (Nov. 18) 4 p.m. concert.

Hauenstein and the orchestra will be heard in a concerto by Carl Nielsen, the 20th century Danish composer.

The concert will be performed in Plymouth's Salem High School, Joy Road west of Canton Center Road.

Hauenstein is associate dean and professor of flute at the University of Michigan School of Music. He is an organizer of the U-M Woodwind Quintet and Baroque Trio.

He has been heard on radio, television and on the concert stage with many Michigan orchestras and bands.

He is also prominent as an adjudicator in high school band and orchestra competitions.

The orchestra, conducted by Wayne Dunlap, will be heard in works that span the musical spectrum: "Sinfonia in B flat" by Johann Christian Bach; Symphony No. 9 ("Unfinished") by Franz Schubert; and "New England Triptych" by William Schuman.

"Triptych" is based on three early American songs — the hymns "Be Glad Then, America" and "When Jesus Wept" and "Chester," a marching song.

Tickets at $2 for adults and $1 for college students will be available at the door. K-12 students are admitted free, but sixth grade and younger students must be accompanied by an adult.

Baby-sitting by qualified girl scouts will be provided.

Senior citizens can get bus rides to the school from Tonquish Creek Manor in Plymouth.

Going on sale will be advance tickets for the Dec. 9 performance of Handel's "Messiah," featuring the Kenneth Jewell Choral.

Prices are a little higher because of the increased cost of that concert — $3 for adults and $1.50 for all students.

Area Students Will Perform

Seven area residents will be among Western Michigan University students participating in the music department's fifth annual Band Spectacular.

The event is scheduled for Friday, Nov. 16, at 8 p.m. in James W. Miller Auditorium on the WMU campus, Kalamazoo.

Area students performing in this concert will be Debbie Lewis, Bradley Weage, James Ryan, Barbara Wells and John Kitzmiller, all of Plymouth; also, Cheryl Stewart and Kathy Tollefson of Livonia.

Over 250 WMU students will perform in ensembles from the University Symphonic Band, the University Wind Ensemble, the University Jazz Lab Band and the University Marching Band.

We don't think you should have to wait around for an auto loan.

So we cut down on the red tape and traditional procedures you have to wade through when you get an auto loan from most other places.

And came up with an idea called on-the-spot loan approval. It means your loan gets approved fast.

Because all our branch managers have the authority to approve loans themselves. So you don't have to sit around while the person you're dealing with calls somebody else for approval.

We handle all our other loans quickly and efficiently, too.

Handling them any other way would just be a waste of time.

Time To Plant Roses?

Raise the question of whether to plant roses in the fall or spring at any garden club meeting and you can be sure of introducing an interesting argument.

Most authorities agree that spring is the wise planting time in very cold states where a hard winter comes early; however, elsewhere opinions are divided.

The American Association of Nurserymen takes the position that either fall or spring planting is perfectly satisfactory if weather conditions are favorable.

home & garden

They find that serious rose enthusiasts decide for themselves which season is best for their own particular situation — and many plant some rose bushes during each season.

If you are considering the question for yourself, these comments from the nursery growers and garden center operators may set your mind at ease.

At this time of the year, rose plants are freshly dug at the nursery when they are just going into their rest period — an ideal time for planting. Soil conditions in your yard or garden are probably healthy at the end of a growing season. And you probably have more time to devote to planning your roses now than at other times of the year when other gardening responsibilities demand your attention.

The roots of your rose bushes are never completely dormant, so the ones you plant now will be somewhat established and in place when the next growing season begins.

Roses planted in the fall in any but the mildest winter climates should be covered with a mound of soil until growth begins in the spring.

Further specific advice is easily obtained from the great volume of information available from the county agricultural agent or your nursery garden center operator.

Accessories Update

Are you trying to rise above ordinary landscape standards?

If so consider accessories as a means to update or add highlights to your yard, says Joe Cox, Michigan State University extension landscape architect.

Wood accessories are becoming more popular because of their natural weathering. A wood deck for example, provides more air, dries quickly, and is softer than cement or blocks. Wood sculpture or driftwood mounted for accent can add shadow as an added dimension.

Lighting fixtures can also be built from wood, though they are usually decorative shells. Sometimes they are seen hanging or in a series of vertical lightposts.

If there is a handyman around the house he can build a deacon's bench for the porch — perhaps out of an antique bedstead. This says welcome, is useful and decorative.

Household items, such as an old copper boiler, can be cleaned up and used as planters. Use a copper cleaner and apply a lacquer finish to prevent tarnish. These are often decorated with appropriate greens for the holidays.

A glacial boulder sunk one-third into the ground will give a finished look of age and stability. Two or three in a conversational grouping will look natural.

Water stones — rocks with the top hollowed out to catch water — provide an interesting view and assist wildlife with much needed water. Place the stones in a natural environment close to a shrub or evergreen. Some wildlife may use it for drinking or it could be a birdbath.

REFINISHING AN ANTIQUE may not be necessary; often a good cleaning is all that is needed. If you must refinish, shallow dents and gouges may be raised by placing a damp cloth over the area and steaming with a hot iron. For deep gouges and cracks, mix animal glue with sanding dust from the piece. Tamp it in, let dry and smooth with a razor blade. Bonasi Club Meets Tonight

A general membership meeting of the Tokiwa Bonasi Club will be held from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, in Room 302 of Central Middle School, N. Main and Church Streets.

Members will share information on plants and equipment listed in catalogues and brochures.

Membership is open throughout the year. New members may contact either Dr. Nick Sellas of 1697 Old Salem, Plymouth; or Carl Smith of 35512 W. Chicago, Livonia.

Exhaust Check Saves Lives

The entire exhaust system should be checked for leaks and corrosion in preparing a car for cold weather driving, according to auto experts. Small pinholes can be patched with kits available at auto supply stores, but large rusted areas indicate replacement is needed to guard against poisonous carbon monoxide fumes seeping into the car.

them now, while they're still dormant. And they offer the following suggestions for doing the job:

• Consider whether or not the plant really needs to be moved. Is it crowded or in a location that doesn't satisfy its requirements? Would it be more attractive or useful somewhere else?

• Take into account the size, age and condition of the plant. Small, young, healthy plants usually survive transplanting best.

• Select the new site carefully. Make sure it's a place where the plant will look good and grow well. Be sure that there's enough room both above and below the ground for the plant to spread out as it grows. Do not plant trees under overhead wires.

• When you dig up a tree or shrub, try to avoid injuring the roots. To find the right spot to dig, go out nine to 12 inches for each inch of trunk diameter. Start from the outer edge of the crown and remove soil gently until you reach the main roots. After you cut the rootball, trim and shape it. Pin burlap around the ball.

• If you can't replant immediately, keep the tree or shrub moist in a protected area. Cover it with moist peat, wet leaves, burlap or plastic.

• Dig the hole for planting a foot or two wider and as deep as the ball.

• Place the plant in the hole and position for best effect. Fill it with good soil until it's about three-quarters full. Water it well.

• After the ground settles, fill in the depression with more soil.

Gift Ideas For America's 3rd Century

Penelope Winslow planted a linden tree to celebrate her 11th birthday.

Standing beside the little sapling in the front yard of her father's new home in Plymouth, Mass. she could look some 500 paces away to the rock where the Pilgrims first set foot on this nation's soil.

Her gift has become a part of our heritage, because 200 years since its planting Penelope's linden tree still stands as a monument to America's greatness.

While Miss Winslow was making her environmental contribution in Massachusetts, another more ambitious gardening project was under way in the Virginia colony at the home of George Mason.

Jefferson called him "the wisest man of his generation," and others have referred to Mason as "the Pen of the Revolution" because his writing of the first Constitution of Virginia became the basis of our Federal Bill of Rights.

Today's visitors to Gunston Hall, the Mason estate near the nation's capital, find a magnificent 12-foot tall boxwood allée planted in about 1776 by George Mason with seedlings he imported from England.

The wondrous boxwood garden remains as his gift to his land as we approach our third century, and a symbol of George Mason's love and respect for nature's beauty.

Harvard University's Dumbarton Oaks, in Washington, D.C., was the site, in 1944, when representatives of four major world powers - Russia, China, Great Britain and the United States - met to plan the first draft of the United Nations Charter.

Perhaps the delegates walked through the stately gardens during their deliberations ... and when they did they surely stood beneath one of the oldest trees in the capital city. The majestic white oak has been a quiet sentinel in that place since its planting some 50 years before our nation's independence.

The American Association of Nurserymen is focusing attention on plantings such as these which have been a part of our nation's natural wealth throughout its history to point up the value of new planting now in observance of the approaching American bicentennial year.

"The best time to plant a tree," the men and women of the AAN say, "was a long time ago. The second best time is now."

"Decorate our nation for its birthday year," they say, "with trees along our streets, plants and shrubs in our gardens and parks, lawns and ground covers over the naked earth." And they provide a number of compelling arguments for taking these steps as we enter our third century.

Beauty, of course. Destruction of natural beauty is a disastrous by-product of our nation's material growth. According to Dr. Ilitis of the University of Wisconsin, man, who appears to be genetically programmed to the natural surroundings of green, growing landscapes, is plainly out of place in the concrete and asphalt and glass world he has created for himself.

The easiest way to strike a telling blow for beauty in our land is for people to take a hard look at their homes and neighborhoods, and if they don't like what they see, to do something about it.

The homeowner who plants a grassy front lawn and landscapes it with trees and shrubs and flowers is making war on "ugliness."

But the people of the AAN offer other, perhaps even more important reasons for every citizen to contribute nature's growing gifts for the country's bicentennial year.

In this time of great concern about the deteriorating quality of our atmosphere, the AAN reminds us of this fact: During the course of the 23,000 times we each inhale and exhale in a single day, we take in 35 pounds of oxygen - and we get it all from green plants on land and vegetation in the sea.

In addition to their manufacturing of oxygen, plants are one of nature's most efficient air purifiers. Their hairy leaf surfaces catch falling particles of dust and dirt to help curtail the steady rain of pollutants in our atmosphere.

Dramatizing the efficiency of this process, a recent research study showed the dust count on the sheltered side of a planted section to be 75 per cent lower than a similar count on the windward side.

Still another factor in our nation's environmental dilemma as it approaches its third century is the noise pollution in which we live ... a cacophony that contributes to all sorts of tension-related diseases: headaches, stomach ulcers, neuroses, mental illness, allergies, even cardiovascular and circulatory disease.

Consider this information provided by the AAN: Heavy street traffic registers an average noise level of 70 decibels. Proper landscaping can reduce that noise about 60 per cent.

Plant parts break up sound waves, change their direction and reduce their intensity. For the same reason, many modern offices are using live partitions of plant materials between work areas to effect a measurable decrease in sound volume, add beauty, and freshen the air.

With all this in mind, the people of the American Association of Nurserymen conjecture on the impact which our nation would experience if every citizen planted one tree or bush or flowering shrub as a bicentennial gift to America.

Imagine, they say, 200-million new beautifiers, air purifiers, sound mufflers, earth nourishers, water protectors all at one time to restore our diminishing riches in nature's gifts!

The need for this kind of individual action may be urgent. By 1976, the bicentennial year, estimates are that 80 per cent of America's people will live in urban areas. But recent studies reveal that one-fourth of the public trees in a typical metropolitan area that are lost every year through natural causes or because of new construction are never replaced.

"This nation and our world will survive in America's third century," the people of the nursery industry claim, "if each individual can learn to know the life value of nature's gifts, just as those like Penelope Winslow, George Mason, Jefferson, and others in their time did as they planted for their country's future."

"And in the third century, as it has always been, survival will be dressed in green."

House Number Is Important

Your house number is important in house planning, says Joe Cox, Michigan State University landscape architect. Place it where it can be seen, but subtly.

It can be related to a post, fence, rock, garage, or planting. Position it where a heavy snow won't cover it. Remove tarnish periodically to make the numbers more evident.

A home handyman, using a routing tool, can rout numbers into wood or rout the wood background to leave the numbers in contrast. Wooden numbers do not need to be painted. They can match the tone of the house or can be finished with a plastic coating appropriate for wood.

Your house numbers, though blended appropriately with your home color theme, may prove to be a lifesaver in many ways. Readable numbers could help the fire department searching for the correct house number when a fire is still small enough to control. They could guide an ambulance in case of illness.

Police protection will also be assisted with sharp readable house numbers styled to fit your house and landscape.

Sports Training Aids School Administrators

By W.W. EDGAR

There was a time — not many years ago — when the educators at our institutions of higher learning scoffed at the athletic branch and looked upon the football hero as a necessary evil in campus life.

But no more. Slowly, but surely, the college athletes have been cutting heavy inroads into the administrative side of education at all levels.

The man who helped turn the tide was the late Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame coach, who always countered his critics, especially the educators, any time the team lost with the remark, "We were building character out there today."

It wasn't long until some of the other patriarchs of the gridiron fastened their stars to "character building" and gradually the student who won a letter in any branch of sports was looked upon with respect.

Years before Rockne — at Napoleon's downfall — the Duke of Wellington remarked that "The Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton"

And in our own time, at the height of his major triumph in World War II,

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, one of America's most colorful military giants credited his victory to the lessons learned on the plains at West Point.

This character building on the athletic fields has been progressing silently and slowly as the athletes are taking over in the highest places to help prepare the students for the battle of life.

How heavy are the inroads being cut?

In a recent survey it was learned that close to 100 administrative positions in Observerland school systems are held by men who engaged in athletic competition on the way to their present positions.

Of this group five are superintendents of their districts. For instance, John (Mike) Hoben of Plymouth played football at both the University of Michigan and Adrian College and has been honored by a place in the Sports Hall of Fame at Adrian.

Another who ranked high in football is Dave McDowell, superintendent at Clarenceville, who was one of "Saturday's Children," while attending Northern Michigan University.

Ron Upton, superintendent of the Livonia schools, earned his spurs at San Diego State, Pacific University and later at the University of Puget Sound. He lettered at the tackle and end positions and the lessons he learned in those combat posts fitted him for the stormy career in Livonia.

The other superintendents included Paul Shoemaker of Redford Union, who played football at Eastern Michigan University, and J.J. Rzepke, of South Redford, who played baseball and football in his undergraduate days.

This rise of athletic heroes to positions of trust may come as a surprise to many folks. But to Fritz Crisler, former coach and athletic director at the University of Michigan, it was bound to happen.

"Where would be a better place to look for a school administrator," Crisler asked, "than on the fields of athletic competition?"

"The young man who engages in athletic competition," Fritz went on, "reaches maturity in emotion much faster than the non-athletic. Therefore, he is better able to handle the problems of educating youth.

"He has learned, too, that sports is the last bastion of discipline for the youth of today. Therefore, he is better fitted to administer our educational programs."

Just how far athletics has penetrated into Observerland schools is shown in the following list of administrators who engaged in athletics on the way to their present stations:

CLARENCEVILLE — Supt. David McDowell, football; Dr. James O'Leary, basketball, track and football; Harold Humble, track; DeWayne Mutter, football; David Kramish, basketball and football.

PLYMOUTH — Supt. John Hoben, football; Tom Workman, football; Bill Brown, football; Kent Buikema, track and football; Larry Mestello, football; Robert Smith, tennis; Joseph Coraph, tennis; Carvel Bentley, tennis.

SOUTHFIELD — Asst. Supt. Dr. Ray Cole, baseball, football and track; John Reynolds, baseball; David Williams, baseball; Robert Case, football; Robert Hall, former superintendent, football.

REDFORD UNION — Supt. Paul Shoemaker, football; Assistant Supt. Robert Juhnke, football; Richard Turk, golf and football; John Rogers, football; Bob Atkins, football; Ken Deresy, football; Doug Halliday, football; Howard Craft, 1938 basketball captain at Michigan State; Carl Andrews, basketball.

GARDEN CITY — Tom Hicks, football; Philip Jameson, track and high jump record holder; Robert Matestic, ping pong; Charles DesChamps, track; Bill Hobbs, baseball, football, track and basketball; Palmer Kroh, football, basketball and baseball; James Niland, soccer.

WAYNE-WESTLAND — William Pearson, basketball; Warren Spurling, football; Ray Klay, basketball; Segras Dietrich, basketball and swimming.

LIVONIA — Supt. R.H. Upton, football; Asst. Supt. Paul Johnson; regional directors Don Friedrichs and Harry Nichols; Jack McDonald and Bill Bedell, of the central office staff; Dr. Norman Whisler, and each of the elementary principals are among the 31 members of the administration who have lettered in either high school or college sports.

Bulldog Power Shatters Franklin Perfect Dream

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

The Bulldogs bagged a Patriot.

"It was our day," exclaimed Bentley Coach Glen Goode, whose Bulldogs up-ended Franklin, 14-9, and crushed all hopes of a perfect 9-0 season for the Northwest champion.

"On this day, Bentley was a better ball club," stated Franklin Coach George Lovich whose vision of his first unbeaten season vanished with two quick Bentley touchdowns in the first quarter.

The lone remaining unbeaten club in Observerland fell to a Suburban Eight squad that mustered only a 2-5 mark in league play, finishing 4-5 overall.

"This one took a lot of sting out of those close league games we lost," added Goode. His Bulldogs fell to Belleville, 7-0; to Plymouth Salem, 18-15; to unbeaten Trenton, 14-12; to Alton Park, 14-13; and to Edsel Ford, 33-28.

"I felt that all we had to do was score twice and we had them (Franklin)," continued the Bentley coach. "We knew Franklin had had trouble scoring all season. We could have moved the ball more if needed, but those two quick scores gave us all we needed."

"There is a lot of joy around Bentley these days."

For Lovich and his Franklin 9-0 dream it was a shattering setback that knocked them out of the state rankings.

A fumble on the third play of the game gave Bentley possession on the Franklin 23. Six plays later the Bulldogs were on the board by way of the ground game. It was the first time this season that the Franklin defense had given up six points on the ground.

Eight minutes later, All-Suburban Eight quarterback Bob Wasilewski lofted a 42-yard scoring toss to Bill

Brown and for the first time this season the pressure was on the Patriot offense.

"I felt all along that we could move the ball," explained Lovich. "Mistakes and penalties at bad times really cost us. I don't believe the kids took Bentley serious or as good a team as they showed they were. They considered themselves a 9-0 club without going out and earning it."

Franklin received the opening kickoff and took control on its 20 after a boot into the end zone. Greg Battistone broke for six yards on the first offensive play but QB Larry Casey fumbled on play No. 2, Dan Reum recovering for Bentley.

With 1:02 elapsed, Bentley had its first break and possession on the 23 yard line. After an incomplete pass

Bruce Boudnek picked up eight yards and another five for a first down. Jerry Lacy moved it to the seven and on a third and goal situation, Boudnek carried it in.

Wasilewski hit Brown on a two-point conversion and with 3:18 gone, Bentley was up, 8-0.

Franklin then got as far as the 38 and 44 in its next two series with Bentley taking over on its 35.

On the first play from scrimmage, Wasilewski broke for 22 yards. Two plays later, the Bulldog "Mr. Everything" found Brown in the open down the left side-line. Brown hauled in the pass and dashed 42 yards to paydirt. The conversion attempt by Wasilewski missed and with 52 seconds showing, an 8-0 Franklin club was caught in a hole.

Franklin took the following kickoff on its 33 and five minutes later the Patriots were back in the contest. A 16-play drive was climaxed by a one-yard plunge by Dan Quinn.

Quinn's first conversion attempt was good but a Franklin penalty made Quinn try it again. This time the front Bulldog wall blocked it. This left it 14-6, midway in the second quarter.

After a Bulldog punt, Franklin had control on its 36 before Tom Duprey intercepted a Casey pass. Bentley then lost it on downs deep in Franklin territory. Casey gave it back on another fumble on his 15, with 21 seconds remaining in the half.

The Franklin defense which had given up only 45 points in its first eight games came to arms. Three of Wasilewski's passes fell incomplete and on a fourth and one play, the Patriot line smothered the Bulldog QB for a loss and the half ended.

To add salt to what seemed like only a temporary wound, Franklin presented Bentley with a statue of a bulldog during the halftime show. It was painted in Patriot colors and bore a sign that read, "To Old Man Bentley, Beaten By Their Little Sister - Franklin."

The third quarter, had to be Franklin's most time consuming three - point drive of the season.

After holding off Bentley, Franklin regained possession on its 18 with 9:45 remaining in stanza No. 3. Twenty plays and 7:17 later, Quinn split the uprights from 24 yards out and the margin was sliced to five points.

Franklin had four more chances to overcome that margin but failed.

Dean Morrison recovered a Wasilewski fumble on the Franklin 15 with 2:34 to go. A Casey pass was intercepted by Bentley's Reum with seven Patriot passes falling incomplete in the final moments.

NOT TAKING his first defeat of the '73 campaign lightly is Franklin Coach George Lovich who saw his Patriots' eight game winning streak and hopes of a perfect season vanish in a 14-9 loss to Bentley. (Observer photo)

Redford Union Batters Rival Thurston, 21-0

The Redford Township gridiron championship battle is over for another year.

"The kids never had an opportunity to gain confidence."

The confidence was there for the Thurston game.

"We came to play football and won," finished Atkins.

The 21-0 triumph increased RU's record to 6-4-2 over

Thurston and evened Atkins' personal mark to 3-3 against the Eagles.

Thurston received the opening kickoff, punted and RU fumbled it away on its 45. The Panther defense held again and RU's offense held onto the ball.

It was Glenn Sander who pounced on a Thurston fumble on their 37 that got the RU machine rolling. Tom Bogdonas broke loose for 20 yards and QB Dave Smith scored his first of two on a one yard plunge. George Willard converted and with 25 seconds remaining in the first quarter, RU was up, 7-0.

RU kicked off, and on the first play, Thurston fumbled with Panther Richard Burk picking it up on the Eagle 40. It was then time for an RU sparkle on its first play with Bogdonas scampering 38 yards on a dive play to the Thurston two.

Bogdonas then finished off what he started with a burst into the end zone. Willard converted and with 1:40 elapsed in the second quarter, it was 14-0.

After the RU defense held, the Panthers started and completed a solo offensive punch. A 69-yard march in 17 plays was capped on a one-yard spurt by QB Smith. Willard made good the point after and with 35 seconds left in the half, it was 21-0 and as far as the scorekeeper was concerned he could have gone home.

But the statistic man had to stick around to record an RU record.

Bogdonas ground out 203 yards in 29 carries to up his season output to 1,041 yards and become the first RU back to top the 1,000 mark in one season.

The 5-9, 170-pound senior also chalked up touchdown No. 8. The record setting performance was done in unusual fashion for RU as Atkins was forced to switch to a one-back offense with starting fullback Mark Cigna forced to watch the game from the sidelines after injuring his ribs a week earlier.

"Defense was the key," said Atkins whose Panthers did not allow Thurston inside their 35. "Middle guard Dave White, and linebackers Dale Long and Richard Burk played outstanding games."

RU won the first down game, 13-8, and rushed for 227 yards. Its defense held Thurston to 53 yards on the ground and 67 in the air. Eagle QB Gary D'Ascenzo, who was sacked for a minus 50 yards, hit on eight of 14 passes. RU's passing game netted 36 yards on five of nine.

PACING HIS BULLDOGS to a 14-9 upset victory over Northwest champion Franklin was Bentley quarterback Bob Wasilewski (17). Observer photo by Tom Donoghue

League Forming

A new basketball league for boys 18 and under is in the making.

State basketball chairman for the Michigan Amateur Athletic Union, Ron Hall, announced a metropolitan basketball league for boys 18 and under, who do not play for school teams, will be organized.

This league will be open to teams representing the metropolitan tri-county area. Schools, parks and recreation departments, boys clubs, YMCA's churches and all other community agencies are invited to participate.

The first meeting for the league will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 13, starting at 7 p.m. in the Michigan AAU central Office, 19158 James Couzens, just north of Seven Mile in northwest Detroit.

Plymouth Crushes Harrison, 20-12

"This has to be a rebuilding year for us, but we will still be out after each game."

This was Plymouth Salem Coach Tom Moshimer's remark at the start of the '73 football campaign after losing 16 lettermen.

Moshimer couldn't have been more right.

With a line that averaged 167 pounds both ways, football in Plymouth took an upswing. The Rocks came within one game of winning the Suburban Eight.

The finale victory over Farmington Harrison, 20-12, was a fitting way for the Rocks to close out the winning season in 10 years. It was Moshimer's best since coming to Plymouth in '67.

The Rocks scored twice in the second quarter, upped it to 20-0 in the third quarter and held on to thwart a now 4-4 Harrison crew.

Salem's 7-2 overall record tops Moshimer's best of 6-3 last year. Things haven't been easy for the Salem coach since leaving Dundee High after the '66 season with a 35-game winning streak under his belt.

Plymouth finished 1-5-2 his first year, and then followed, 4-4; 4-3-1; 4-5 and 6-3 before the '73 season.

"The kids put out with that something extra this year - something that has been lacking in Plymouth," said Moshimer. "We stress conditioning and I'll tell you what, we had more injuries at our summer camp than we had the entire season."

"I really didn't figure we would be real tough and we were picked to finish seventh in the league. But I knew after we lost to Edsel Ford we would be coming around."

After a 35-0 opening win over Bloomfield Hills Andover, Salem fell to Edsel Ford, 14-7, but bounced back to rip Bentley, Dearborn, Allen Park, Belleville and Redford Union. It was then down to Trenton (8-0) for the Sub Eight championship against state ranked No. 3 Trenton. The Rocks slipped and fell, 28-0.

But they made no mistake about capping a record season in the Harrison finale.

Salem's offense failed to click in the first quarter with Harrison mounting an attack that saw Jim Harkin's 23-yard field goal attempt hit the crossbar and fall back into the end zone.

On the first play of the second quarter, following the missed field goal attempt, Mark Kraay broke loose for 80 yards on a pitchout from QB Rick Neu. Jeff Horton converted and it was 7-0.

Salem's offense took over again and marched down field in the next series for a 54-yard drive. Doug Ward scored for Salem. Horton's conversion upped it to 14-0 and that's the way the half ended.

Gary Baker took the second half kickoff for Salem and returned it to the Harrison 41 on a 45-yard sprint.

The Rocks drove in and Neu scored on a third down QB sneak from the one to make it 20-0.

Harrison won the first down battle, 14-10, but the Rocks outtrushed the Hawks, 266 yards to 244. The aerial contest saw Plymouth hit on one of six for seven yards and Harrison two of eight for 10 yards.

Kraay led Salem with 137 yards gained in 11 carries. Thorne headed Harrison with 113 yards in 12 rushes.

"You know, I would really like a shot at Franklin or North Farmington," commented Moshimer. "This Suburban Eight has no breathers like other leagues around here."

"I knew Bentley (Suburban Eight team) would beat Franklin, I was just surprised Bentley didn't score more."

"It might sound like I am talking out of my hat, but I know we could have stayed with any team in the area."

"It has really been a great season. The parents have given us great support and it all boils down to the players are what you win with," concluded the Salem coach.

Trenton Tops Sub 8 All-League Selections

The state's No. 3 ranked football club dashed away with top honors in the Suburban Eight All-League selections.

Trenton High, Suburban Eight champ at 7-0, captured 10 berths on the 22 man All-Suburban Eight squad. Trenton nailed down five slots on the first-team offense and five on first-team defense.

Livonia Bentley and Plymouth Salem were next on the charts with Bentley placing two on offense-one on defense and Plymouth one on offense and two on defense.

Edsel Ford and Dearborn won two first team berths with Allen Park and Belleville sporting one and Redford Union being shut out.

Bentley's first team threesome consisted of Bob Wasilewski at quarterback, Steve Akey at tackle and Bill Brown at defensive back. Plymouth's front-line contingent was headed by Jeff Waller who was first-team guard on offense and first team tackle on defense. Scott Agnew was the other Rock front-liner at linebacker.

The three Observerland schools did well in the second team balloting with Bentley and Redford Union boasting four apiece and Plymouth three.

Honorable mentions saw Bentley land six, a 5-2 Plymouth crew sport 10, and Redford Union six.

Ski Heil

By

BILL CAMERON

Such a predicament - to ski or play tennis!

It is surprising how many skiers are also avid tennis players, and vice versa. I found the best of the two worlds this past weekend at Sugar Loaf Village in Cedar, Mich. For those of you unfamiliar with the area, it is about 18 miles northwest of Traverse City.

You couldn't ask for a more complete ski area. It is all there - skiing, beautiful lodge, excellent dining room, heated outdoor swimming pool, cocktail lounge - and now four indoor tennis courts.

Frank Ball and Jim Gantner, the two major domos, have parlayed this resort into a true four seasons area. These two gentlemen have continually improved their slopes and lift facilities, added a tournament golf course and topped it off by building the "Sugar Barn" which promises to make the Traverse City area, the "Hamtramck of the North."

In order to do this they hired one of the top teaching professionals in the country, the late Jean Hoxie, June Stack. The personable Miss Stack was a former national champion and circuit player with some impressive teaching credentials.

She has taught at the Flamingo Club in Miami Beach, Montclair Country Club in New Jersey, the Meadows in San Rafael, Swim and Racquet Club in Mission Viejo and the Turtle Rock Tennis Club in Newport Beach, Calif. This all adds up to 17 years of teaching experience and she hasn't lost any enthusiasm, or any of her skills, in all those years. How many of us would work at our jobs six days a week and on our day off give our own kids lessons? That tells you what kind of person she is.

We were reminiscing about the late Mrs. Hoxie and the philosophy she attempted to instill in her players. It's called sacrifice and 100 per cent effort, something sorely lacking among many youth today. June is a true professional, interested in advancing the sport of tennis, and not of herself. She has more than 200 people in her tennis clinics, so need I say more?

If you're a ski widow, you don't have to sit around a lodge with your knitting all weekend. Grab your racket and head for Sugarloaf and have a ball.

Schoolcraft Coach Making '74 Plans

Although the 1973 Schoolcraft College cross country team posted a 3-8 record, Coach John Carroll is already looking forward to '74.

"I think there will be a major improvement in the course of one year," commented the Ocelot coach. "This season's mark wasn't all that bad when you consider the difficulties we had."

Carroll did not find out he would be coaching the harriers until two weeks prior to the season because of a coach leaving on short notice.

"We lost a couple of valuable individual runners during the span there was no coach," added Carroll. "This didn't help our program."

Bob Stewart, a sophomore, paced the Ocelots with a sixth place finish in the Eastern conference of the Michigan Community College meet for his second All-Conference in as many years.

No. 2 man was freshman Pat Osommer, a Livonia Stevenson product, who on occasions placed ahead of Stewart.

Tom Hallett, Paul Allegrina and Tom Lantto rounded out the letter-winning group.

Stevenson Digs Thorn In Churchill Collapse

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

A crushing tackle by defensive captain John Karwoski turned a losing season into a happy climax for Stevenson.

With 5:49 remaining and Stevenson and Churchill deadlocked at seven-all, Karwoski nailed Churchill quarterback Mark Roncoli in the end zone for a two-point safety. With that, another thorn had been dug into Churchill football, 9-7.

"This one helped to make it a football season," stated Stevenson Coach Jack Reardon whose Spartans won their last three games to sport a 4-5 mark. "But all said and done, we still lost five games."

"The kids simply got hungry the last three weeks and put it together," added Reardon.

This was only the second meeting ever between the two Livonia schools with Churchill taking honors last year, 13-6.

For the floundering Chargers it was their third straight setback after reeling off 15 consecutive victories.

"We were caught sleeping in this one," commented Coach Ken Kaestner, his squad winding up with a 6-3 record. "It was a simple case of the opposition being more fired up than we. Our staff attempted to instruct the kids that Stevenson was a good team but they just didn't take it to heart."

"Heck, even though they finished at 4-5, the only game they were out of was their Walled Lake Central defeat," added the Churchill coach.

"We got beat by a good club," explained Kaestner whose Chargers lost their last two games by a total of three points. Mott ended Churchill's streak in 40-7 fashion two weeks prior and Franklin nipped the Chargers, 3-2.

JACK REARDON
Topples Churchill

Defense was the name of the game with the Spartan defense coming to arms. Churchill was held to 44 yards on the ground and two yards in the air.

"Our defense was really up for this one," said the Stevenson coach. "Great attitude with the desire to win came through."

The first half was a defensive standoff with 10 of the game's 17 punts coming in that 24 minute span.

Churchill collected four of its five first downs in the half while its defense held Stevenson to just one. The Chargers got as far as the Stevenson 27 and the Spartans couldn't get past their own 46.

After two punt exchanges to start the second half, Stevenson fumbled a Dave Panzoff punt on its own two, Mike Gottshall making the recovery for Churchill.

Matt Foster failed on two attempts to penetrate the Spartan wall but Phil Lafave cracked it with 1:17 left in the third quarter. Al Leirstein converted and it was Churchill, 7-0.

Stevenson took control on its 31 after the following kickoff and the Charger defense was caught napping.

Spartan back Paul Lulek popped around left end and out-legged the Charger defense for a 68-yard score. Bob Hope tied it up with a conversion— a little over 12 minutes remaining.

"They (Stevenson) caught us flat on that play," added Kaestner.

After another exchange of punts, Charger QB Brian Kelly fumbled on a keeper play, Steve Ferrick recovering for Stevenson on the Charger 13.

But Stevenson played give-away football and a

Bruce Nichols pass was intercepted by Dan Lamarand on the next play.

Churchill took over on its six and Lafave picked up the Charger's lone first down of the second half to their 17. It was now time for Stevenson's defense to shine.

Roncoli, quarterbacking for Churchill, dropped back to pass on the first play and was nailed for a 10 yard loss to his seven. The Charger QB dropped back again on the next play, and Karwoski came thumping through to drop him in the end zone and that was the game.

"Stevenson was super-fired up," commented the Churchill coach. "Our quarterback never had a chance. They completely swarmed in, caved in our line and in two plays we lose 17 yards and a ball game."

Stevenson came back with a 33-yard pass interception touchdown run by Mark Temby that was called back because of offside. But another Roncoli pass went astray and with 3:03 remaining, Steve Ferrick picked off a pass to give Stevenson possession on the Churchill 48.

Stevenson finished with just four first downs to Churchill's five and rushed for 132 yards in 35 carries with Paul Lulek capping his prep career in starring fashion.

The 6-1, 178-pound senior, who was All Inter-Lakes his junior year, carried 24 times for 140 yards to up his season output to 916 yards, 395 coming in the last three games.

North Clobbers Falcons, 42-7

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

North Farmington clipped the wings of the Farmington Falcons, bundled them up and tucked them away for the winter.

The clash was for the city championship and the Raiders made no mistake, crushing their rivals, 42-7.

It was only a year ago that a 4-4 Farmington team stunned a 7-1 North, 27-0.

North Coach Ron Holland, who now boasts a 98-25-3 record in 15 years, wasn't about to let it happen again.

His Raiders upped their mark to 9-2-1 over Farmington High.

"I knew our defense could do the job and our offense would provide the margin," stated Holland whose Raiders lost only to Franklin in the Northwest championship clash.

The 17-0 defeat was the only thorn in a season that saw the Raider offense pile up 260 points in eight games while its defense gave up only 36 points, in recording four shutouts.

North's opening game against Pontiac Northern was cancelled because of the teacher's strike and Northern scheduled another opponent cutting North's season a week short.

"We knew our pivotal games would be Northern and Franklin," added Holland. "One gets called off and we commit 10 turnovers to lose the league crown in the others."

Holland would have a tough time deciding the importance of his defensive and offensive units. His offense averaged over 33 points per game and his defense gave up only 4.5 points a game.

North's defense gave up a total of only 76 yards net in rushing for an average of a little over nine yards per game on the ground.

Raider opponents collected 470 yards in the air with North totaling 13 pass interceptions.

The story was almost opposite at Farmington where the Falcons slipped to a 4-4 mark and have now been outscored, 180 to 129, with another rival in Harrison on tap this Saturday.

North's Brad Pease climaxed a brilliant prep career with 248 yards picked up in 33 carries, along with three touchdown romps.

The day's work upped his senior output to 1,053 yards in 163 carries and 19 touchdowns to tie a North record set by Mike Gow in '70. Gow tallied 19 times in a 1,076 yard season with nine-game slate.

Pease finished his prep career with 2,554 yards in 429 carries and 33 touchdowns in a three year span under Holland where his team compiled a 22-4 mark.

If Farmington had any ideas of another year ending upset over North, they were quickly dispelled in the game's opening drive.

North started on its 16 and with a little over six minutes gone in the first quarter, the Raiders were on the board. Quarterback Mike Daley broke loose around end for 15 yards, Jeff Lemberg converted and it was 7-0.

North's defense held Farmington and Daley returned a punt 26 yards to the Falcon 35. Pease set up his first score with a 23 yard burst, finished it off with a one yard plunge, Lemberg converted and it was 14-0 with 3:27 still remaining in the quarter.

A 38 yard dash by Daley pushed it to a three touchdown margin with only 42 seconds gone in the second quarter. Lemberg converted to make it, 21-0.

Farmington finally shattered its goose-egg. A 58 yard pass from Bob Holton to Bob Drake gave the Falcons possession on the North two. Kevin Ratliff took it in, Drake converted and that was all for Farmington's offense with its defense taking the real blunt of the Raider attack.

A 22 yard spurt by Daley set up the next North score with Pease scoring from one yard out and Lemberg making good the point after, 28-7.

North gained control again with 39 seconds remaining in the half on the Farmington 40. With one second showing, Pease broke around left end for six points and Lemberg converted to push it to 35-7 at the half.

A 25 yard punt return by Mike Seldon set up the final Raider score with Pease taking it in from one yard out and Lemberg making good the point after.

North clobbered Farmington in first downs 21 to four. The rushing game saw the Raiders grind out 451 yards while its defense kept Farmington with 49.

The air game saw North hit four of six for 66 yards and Farmington two of 10 for 65 yards. Tom Moore and Bob Patek recorded interceptions for North.

The Detroit Race Course closed out its 90-day meeting in a bang with a crowd of 11,695 sending $1,179,278 through the mutual machines.

That may not mean much to the average fan but to track management it meant a much better showing than a year ago when the big mile track had several Saturdays when the wagering was far below a million.

The final statistics show a daily average handle of $726,000, an increase of almost eight per cent over business for the same 90 days a year ago.

For that management is very happy although it couldn't express the same thought about attendance. The 90-day meeting attracted 664,066 for a daily average of 7,329.

That was some four per cent below figures for 1972 and Vice President and General Manager Dick Wilson vows things will be much better come another season.

"Probably some of the decrease was due to the earlier post time (the DRC changed from a 3:30 p.m. post to 2:30 and held to that policy for the entire meet) but we'll have to make a complete study of the situation before making decisions for 1974," he said.

"We thought patrons accepted the earlier starting time very well and are not anticipating any changes come another season. We hope to come up with promotions that that attract more customers and build thoroughbred racing back to the high standards of a few years ago. At least we're going to make a big try and already are working on some ideas for next spring."

The runners resumed action Wednesday (today) at Hazel Park and will race for 29 days until Dec. 22. Plans call for nine races daily and 10 on Saturdays with no racing on Thanksgiving Day and no Tuesday programs after Thanksgiving week.

East Panthers Tip West, 13-6

The East Panthers scored on the first play of the game and added an insurance tally in the fourth quarter to topple the Tigers, 13-6.

It was East's fifth victory against four setbacks and its third straight victory. For West it was the fourth consecutive defeat in a disappointing 4-5 season.

The first offensive play saw Joe Beczko take a 20-yard lateral from quarterback Britt Pontre and dash 70 yards. Steve Saylor converted and it was 7-0.

The programs will include a daily double, three perfectas and two trifectas.

Track management has installed additional heaters in the grandstand so patrons will enjoy balmy temperatures as they watch the daily programs.

Racing resumed at Windsor Tuesday after almost a week of darkness due to a dispute between management and the horsemen's union over the use of the single shaft sulkies.

Management insisted it would close its doors for the remainder of the season if the union persisted in its demand banning the controversial carts. An agreement was reached Sunday with track officials making their point.

And that was bad news for Leon Slavin, president and general manager of the Jackson-at-Northville meeting which set records for wagering attendance and daily double Saturday.

In fact the $434,280 wagered Friday was an all-time high for a Friday and just missed the $462,457 record set on closing night at the 1972 winter meeting.

Slavin was prepared for a record gathering Saturday and he guessed right ... there were 6,667 in the stands and the mutual machines were sizzling with a record high total of $556,600.

"Just think how much we could have handled if we were able to open the outdoor betting section east of the grandstand," he said. "We probably would have gone over $700,000."

Slavin was more than satisfied with the turnout since he also realized that the Windsor blackout had exposed the Northville facilities to a great many fans.

"Now that they know what we have to offer, perhaps those on this side of the county will decide there isn't any need of driving all the way to Windsor when there are such excellent facilities much closer here in Northville."

West fought back to score early in the fourth on a one-yard plunge by Mike Calamita to cap a 65-yard march. A two-point pass attempt by Terry Dobbs failed and East still had the lead, 7-6.

East iced the victory with five minutes remaining on a one-yard plunge by Ponte to finish a 35-yard drive.

West did win in first downs, 14-10, but fell short in the rushing game, 255 yards to 169. Beczko picked up 85 yards in two carries for East followed by Lou Willoughby with 75 yards in 15 rushes and Ponte 52 yards in eight.

U-M Grid Question Marks Answered

By W. W. EDGAR

Two big questions were answered by Michigan's Wolverines in their conquest of Illinois Saturday afternoon.

From the day the season opened there was no doubt that the team had power on offense and defense. As one rival after another was turned back, this strength came to the fore. But two questions arose.

Can the team come from behind?

Can it ride over its own mistakes? Well, the answer to the first one came just before halftime and after the Illinois had taken the lead, 6 to 0, on a pair of field goals. There were only a few moments left in the half and it was the first time Michigan had trailed an opponent. But this didn't last long.

Taking possession of the ball just past midfield, U-M went to work and with a series of passes and the favorite pitch out, the Wolverine rines went to the front. Big Ed Shuttlesworth banged his way into the end zone and Mike Lantry added the extra point.

Michigan had been challenged and met it.

The second question was answered when the Wolverines rode over six fumbles (a record number for them in a single game) and moved a step closer to the collision with Ohio State, Nov. 24.

A third question also was answered in the third period when on fourth down with two yards to go, on the Illinois 32-yard line, they not only elected to try for a first down, but used the favorite end run. Gil Chapman raced the 32 yards for a touchdown that put the game out of reach for the Illinois.

With these questions answered, Wolverine followers are gaining hope that history will repeat in the big stadium and the Scarlet Scourge of Ohio State will be turned back.

The daily double pool set another high with a total of $47,000.

Michigan Mack, owned and driven by Ralph Mapes of Hillsdale, and Zepher Q, from the Glen Quick stable in Ceresco, established themselves as early favorites in the early winter pacing series with easy victories in the two divisions of the stake Saturday.

Zepher Q had to come from far back after getting pinned in along the rail. Driver Quick found racing room midway through the backstretch on the second lap and sped away from competition to win by a length and a half in 2:03.4.

Michigan Mack took the lead after a quarter and dared anyone to catch him ... none did and he went under the wire with three lengths to spare in 2:03.3.

The pair will resume their duel Saturday in the second leg of the stake which ends on the final Saturday in December with a $10,000 purse in the championship.

Dearborn Throttles Canton

"It has been a real learning experience," commented Plymouth Canton gridiron Coach Jim Muneio on his Chiefs' 2-7 season after being handed a 55-14 lashing in the season finale against Dearborn.

"We (Canton staff) are far from satisfied with our first year. We should have won more than we did," added Muneio whose sophomore and junior squad finished 0-5 in the Western Six, 2-7 overall. "Some of the kids had it implanted in their minds that they just weren't good enough to beat most teams and that's the way they played."

Canton won game No. 2 of the campaign over Dearborn Heights Annapolis, 27-13, then proceeded to lose five straight league games by a total point span of 89 points before crushing Woodhaven, 34-14.

A disappointing season was then underlined with Dearborn scoring eight touchdowns to give Canton a taste of Suburban Eight competition.

Dearborn finished 1-6 in the Suburban Eight and 2-7 overall.

Canton drew first blood on the opening kickoff drive. On the first play from scrimmage, Mike Odgen broke loose for 50 yards to Dearborn's 11. Four plays later, Scott Dunagan, the lone Chief to make the All-Western team, carried it in from two yards out. Dunagan also made good a two pointer and the Chiefs were up, 8-0.

After an exchange of punts, Dearborn's Frank Yesh took the stage and put on a show that didn't stop until he chalked up 122 yards in 14 carries along with two touchdowns.

Yesh capped a 40-yard march with a 17-yard burst, made good a two-pointer and it was tied at eight-all.

Canton quarterback Tom Close then had a pass intercepted by Dearborn with full-back Mike Hanshu taking it in from five yards away. The point after was missed but Dearborn was in the driver's seat.

Then came the play that Coach Muneio labeled "the one that took us out of the game."

Chief punter Brian Stemberger had a boot blocked by Dearborn's Paul Gryzbowski. Brian Guth picked it up and carried it 17 yards for six points. A Yesh two-pointer followed and Dearborn had a 22-8 margin at the half.

A Don Veenstra to John Hallsley 38-yard scoring toss gave Dearborn a 29-8 lead early in the third quarter. A Canton fumble on its five set up the next score with Yesh plunging for a one yard score and it was 36-8.

Dearborn QB Pat Nichols sprinted in from seven yards out to make it 42-8 before Canton scored again early in the fourth.

A three-yard spurt by Ken Hammonds climaxed a 35-yard drive to slice it to 42-14. But Dearborn wasn't through. Art Nichols passed to Tim Muldowney for a 13-yard score and with one second remaining, Dearborn called a timeout and set up for its final score, a one-yard plunge by Don Eisler.

LOSING YOUR "HOMECOMING" game is enough to make any avid fan faint dead away. Actually, what happened during the half-time of Plymouth-Canton's "dedication game" was a skit on marriage where the husband fainted and the bride ran away with the preacher. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring).

Chief Ford Offers Bad Weather Tips

PLYMOUTH With cold weather here and the current emphasis on fuel conservation, engine tune-ups have become a major concern to area motorists.

Plymouth Police Chief Timothy Ford said the annual winter tune-up has become more important than ever before.

"At this time of the year," Ford said, "the best way to winterize your car is to take it to a reputable service station with instructions to take care of everything, no matter how insignificant it may seem, that has anything to do with keeping your car running and moving in cold weather."

Instead of a casual winter grease job and oil change, a complete engine tune-up, and an inspection from fan belt to tailpipe, are in order, the chief said.

"And don't forget, the sweetest running engine in town can't move you far if your wheels are spinning on snow or ice because the tread has disappeared from old tires, or you failed to have the foresight to install snow tires.

"There is no time like the present to put a set of reinforced tire chains in the trunk of your car so you will be able to go even in a severe snowstorm."

Plymouth's winter safety record is on the line every year, and that is another reason why Ford urges that a car's winter conditioning program should be complete.

The same can be said of windshield wipers, he warns.

"If the blade rubber is already brittle and streaking, a winter driver can find himself lost between here and the next corner, so far as safe driving is concerned.

"The result can be anything from stalled traffic to a tragic accident."

Boy Scouts To Launch Massive Clothing Drive For 2 Weeks Nov. 17

The Detroit Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will again conduct a council-wide holiday "Good Turn" clothing drive to help provide training and employment for handicapped men and women at the Goodwill Industries Division of League For The Handicapped-Goodwill Industries.

The drive will take place over a two-week period - from Saturday, Nov. 17, to Saturday, Dec. 1.

Considered to be one of the largest one-day clothing collection drives ever attempted, the drive will cover all of Wayne County, southern Oakland, and southern Macomb Counties. About 400 scout troops will participate and will involve an estimated 20,000 scouts, scout leaders, and other volunteer workers. This year, for the first time, there will be participation by Cub Scout packs in many of the areas.

Starting Saturday, Nov. 17, scouts will deliver "Good Turn" clothing bags to 300,000 homes in the metropolitan area. The scouts are asking that householders fill the bags with repairable clothing, shoes, and other small articles which can be repaired by handicapped workers at Goodwill Industries, and then sold in the Goodwill stores to generate funds needed to pay wages to the workers.

On Saturday, Dec. 1, the scouts will return to collect filled bags. They ask that householders have the filled bags on front porches by 10 a.m. The scouts, along with adult leaders and fathers, will then take the filled bags to trucks stationed on conveniently located school and church parking lots. At 3 p.m. the loaded trucks will go to the Goodwill Building for unloading.

A HAPPY CROWD watched entertainment at the formal grand opening of the Seven Mile Farmington Shopping Center in Livonia. Owned by the partnership of Jerry Schostak, Nat Korash and Max Madorsky, the center has 11 stores now with an eventual capacity of 15. Kmart opened there last year, and the service stores, built by Schostak Development, have been opening gradually since. An estimated 5,000 persons visited stores during the grand opening. A photo and slide presentation on the campus was prepared by John Vavrek, audio-visual technician, for the booth.

Citizens can fill out an application at the booth and get answers on transfer and career programs. They also can pick up information for mail-in registration.

"This is the first time we have offered mail registration to new applicants at the college," Dr. Donald Nichols, dean of students, said. "Special arrangements had to be made with our computer center for this service to new students."

The deadline for reserving winter classes by mail is Nov. 16. Students also can register during on-campus registration Jan. 2 to 11.

Schools Take Emergency Steps In Fuel, Gas Crisis

An Observer Roundup

In suburbia, the energy crisis is affecting local school districts most.

Several school districts fear they may have to close schools which are heated by fuel oil if they can't find backup supplies. At least one district came near to canceling bus service because its gasoline supplier is on strike.

All the districts are taking steps toward conserving on energy such as limiting lighting of buildings, lowering heat levels and limiting school vehicle usage. If problems become more severe, several are considering eliminating field trips and use of buses for athletic activities.

Here's what is happening in your school district and other local areas:

SOUTH REDFORD is reviewing alternatives but may be forced to close six buildings which are heated with fuel oil. The fuel is supplied by Marathon Oil Co. which is currently on strike.

Supt. Joseph Rzepka said the schools affected are Rogers, Mann, Ashcroft, Mason, Vandenberg and the district headquarters. He has ordered heat reduced to 68 to 72 degrees depending on the building locations.

"We don't expect to be closing any schools within the next three months," Rzepka said.

Gasoline service from Standard Oil is dependable so far but the supplier has the right to cancel its contract on 30 days notice.

LIVONIA schools were notified last week by its fuel oil supplier that deliveries would be cut by 20 per cent. Twenty of the district's 38 buildings are heated by fuel oil.

The administration has ordered temperatures cut to 68 degrees in the classrooms and recommended that the temperatures be cut to 50 degrees at 4 p.m. on school days.

Livonia has formed a Livonia Energy Resource Conservation Committee to recommend other fuel-saving measures.

Already Livonia buses are buying gas at local stations to supplement deliveries from the supplier. Gulf Oil agreed to supply the same amount of gas as it did last year during the same calendar month, but the district has needed more.

FARMINGTON may be forced to close six buildings in December, including the administration building, if administrators don't locate a heating oil source by then.

The district anticipated a shortage in the normal fuel oil this year and was in the process of converting several burners to use a heavier grade oil.

But the supply of the heavier grade also is limited and now the district is looking into using "reclaimed oil," according to business manager William Prisk.

He said that Farmington doesn't anticipate a problem getting gasoline from Standard Oil but noted that it is paying 17 cents per gallon this year compared to 12 cents last year.

SOUTHFIELD may have to close two elementary schools if it can't locate a source for fuel oil. The heating contractor notified the district that it would be unable to make additional deliveries for Lederle and Angling Road Elementary schools, the only two which are heated by fuel oil.

Assoc. Supt. William Adcock said the district is initiating an energy preservation plan but hasn't taken action yet other than to maintain furnace equipment to prevent waste and preserve gas.

Classrooms are heated at 72 degrees because the administration thinks 68 degrees is too chilly for classes.

Southfield hasn't experienced problems getting gasoline from its supplier, Gulf Oil, and Adcock says he doesn't anticipate problems.

PLYMOUTH schools faced a near-crisis last week when it was discovered the gasoline reserve was almost empty and its supplier, Marathon Oil, couldn't live up to its contract because of a strike.

After a frantic day of calling local gas stations, Tom Abbott, supervisor of purchasing, managed to locate a Livonia Gulf gas station which agreed to fill the bus tanks, at least temporarily.

Plymouth has two schools, Smith Elementary and East Middle School, which are heated by fuel oil but hasn't had difficulty obtaining the fuel so far. The fuel tanks were filled by supplier Petro Products in October.

REDFORD UNION schools are gas heated after recently completing conversion from fuel oil in several buildings.

Supt. Paul Shoemaker said he ordered the temperatures in most school buildings cut back to 68 degrees. Generally they are at 70 degrees.

Redford Union orders its gasoline for buses from Standard Oil at a price of 21.4 cents per gallon and hasn't had difficulty obtaining a sufficient supply so far. However, the company has reserved the right to cancel its contract on 30 days notice.

CLARENCEVILLE is worried about its gasoline supply since its agreement with Texaco is for 90 per cent of the number of gallons supplied two years ago.

Business Manager Ed Salisz says the district will be left short because it now has to bus students to vocational education classes in Walled Lake. He noted that Clarenceville is paying 23.5 cents per gallon this year compared to 12.5 last year.

Since all Clarenceville schools are heated by natural gas, Salisz said he sees "no problem at this point" but added that the administration has taken steps to conserve energy such as limiting lighting. Classrooms are heated at 68 to 70 degrees now compared to a steady 70 degrees prior to the shortage.

GARDEN CITY's administration announced several measures designed to conserve energy in the school district. All schools, which are heated by natural gas, will be set at 68 degrees during the day and 65 degrees at night and vacant storage areas will be set at 50 degrees.

The district imposed a 50 mile per hour speed limit on all school vehicles and stated the vehicles will be monitored closely to assure efficient use of gasoline.

It also took steps to conserve electricity by reducing hall lighting by one-half and instructing custodians to light only the areas where they are working during the evening.

Garden City also stated that other actions may be taken such as altering the student busing radius and limiting field trips to a certain radius and "critically defined purpose."

WESTLAND doesn't anticipate problems with its gasoline supply although it is paying 2.5 cents per gallon more for gas this year. Wayne-Westland schools, the third largest district in the state, uses 152,000 gallons of gasoline for its 45 buses. Gulf reserved the right to raise its prices without notification.

All schools in the district are heated by natural gas.

ORCHARD RIDGE campus of Oakland Community College has agreed to turn off the numerous gaslights that dot the Farmington Hills campus in the interest of conserving energy. The

Faxon To Talk On Ethics Bill

State Sen. Jack Faxon (D-Detroit) will talk on legislation proposed on political ethics during a meeting of the citizens group, Common Cause, Tuesday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Mercy College, 8200 W. Outer Drive, Detroit.

The meeting is open to all residents of the 17th Congressional District which includes Redford Township, Farmington, Southfield, Farmington Hills and northwest Detroit. A general meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. with Faxon's talk at 8:30 p.m. in the student activities center.

gaslights had been on 24 hours a day since the campus opened in the mid-'60s.

OAKLAND COUNTY may have to delay 13 paving projects, including one at Orchard Lake and 12 Mile in Farmington Hills, because of difficulty obtaining sufficient bituminous paving material which is a byproduct of petroleum.

"Because of the petroleum shortage, suppliers have imposed quotas on contractors," said John Grubba, road commission director. "To further complicate the problem, a strike is in progress against our principal source of bituminous material - Marathon Oil Co.

"Now that weather is becoming a critical factor in application of bituminous paving, some or all of 13 current projects may not be completed until next spring."

LIVONIA city government has taken steps to cut use of energy and formed a committee to plan for long range energy conservation.

City offices are set at 68 degrees and city cars are ordered to stay below 50 miles per hour.

MICHIGAN DEER HUNTERS will find some of their best prospects in oak forests and along oak ridges, thanks to a bumper crop of acorns, report Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologists. Acorns are important to the diet of deer as a fat-producing staple and even if snow blankets the countryside, deer should be pawing for the little nuggets in oak-wooded areas.

"People turn to the Yellow Pages when they want specific answers."

"That's what we think and that's why we list many of our special sign services in our ad," continues Mr. Loren Whitcomb, Whitcomb Sign Co., 7636 West Road, Washington. "With few exceptions, people don't have a definite idea of what they want. Quite often potential customers call and ask about items like displays, plaques, silk screen, pin striping, electrical signs, etc. We take this as a sign they're probably looking at our Yellow Pages ad. By explaining our services I feel the Yellow Pages has a definite place in our total advertising program."

"Our Yellow Pages ad outproduces all of our other advertising 3 to 1," says Mrs. Rene Clark, Country Estate Mobile Homes, Inc., 58220 W. Eight Mile Rd., Northville. "It's our best advertising investment. Since we've had our ad, our business has increased by 50%! I think some business people overlook the fact that the Yellow Pages maintains a hard-hitting and effective ad campaign of its own. But we only have to look at our results to know that the campaign is really paying off in the form of more business for us."

Mr. Hershel Stuart, Federal Hardware and Supply, 29080 Southfield Rd., Southfield recommends Yellow Pages advertising highly. "My program includes display ads in the North Woodward and East Area Directories. These ads pull in literally hundreds of calls for fireplace fixtures, resulting in sales ranging from $20 to $200. I also receive a great deal of response from our ad at the 'Hardware' heading. This ad produces both calls and walk-in business."

A lot of sales help, that's what the Yellow Pages gives Mr. Chester Podgorny, Venoy Realty Co., 32508 Michigan Ave., Wayne. "During the past 16 years we have found Yellow Pages advertising a very efficient way to attract potential real estate customers. The calls we get from the Yellow Pages are regarded as very important because these buyers are in the market now. We began with a half-page display ad. After we became established we switched to a smaller ad. However, we noticed a definite decrease in leads from the Yellow Pages and decided to return to the half-page ad we carry today."
