

Borgess Cagers Open Tonight With Aquinas

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

The 1973-74 prep basketball season in Observerland tips-off tonight (Friday) with Bishop Borgess going against Southgate Aquinas in the opening round of a four-team Thanksgiving tourney.

Borgess plays in the 7 p.m. clash, with Catholic Central meeting U-D in the 8:30 contest. Action resumes Saturday with the losers competing at 7 p.m. and the winners at 8:30.

Coach Jim Brisky's mass of question marks will begin to be answered tonight. His Spartans are coming off a 10-11 season where they were outscored, 1401 to 1296.

"We are small and it looks like we will have to play at about 110 per cent every game to stay with the clubs in our league," said Brisky, whose Borgess club tied for fourth last season in the Catholic Double A with a 3-7 mark.

Servite won the Double A last year with 8-2 and the third place team, Divine Child, wound up capturing the state Class B championship.

Brisky has two starters and a sixth man returning to give his second season plan an experienced nucleus.

Greg Drypen at 5-11 and Dan Kelly at 5-10 are returning guards with 12 and 10 point scoring averages respectively. Both are expected to handle the "quarterbacking" chores for the Spartan cagers.

At 6-2, Mike Milosch who was the sixth man last year, will be counted on for rebounding prowess. Kirk Zell (6-3), Tom Bolger (6-2), and Phil Parker (6-1) are other names in Brisky's attack.

Borgess has a newcomer to the basketball program this year in its "all - everything kicker" Tom Birney. The 6-4 athlete is out for basketball for the first time and Brisky has high hopes for him in the rebound department.

Prospective juniors coming up are 6-0 Mark Gergel and Jim Pearce at 6-3.

"Our key is going to have to be hustle, hustle, hustle and defense, defense, defense," commented Brisky. "We will be working out of all sorts of presses and full court movements."

"We have some depth now and can gamble with the press."

Early signs show Borgess having its problems in the Double A again as Divine Child has three of five starters back as do Shrine and Servite.

Brisky is hoping that this pre-season tourney will help answer some question marks. Last year it was an eight-team tourney and Borgess lost in the opening round to Aquinas, 93-55, came back with consolation wins over Gibraltar, 66-44, and Southgate, 65-43, before losing to U-D, 56-43.

Borgess then has a layover with Shrine on tap, Nov. 30.

"Things are going to be getting better with basketball here at Borgess," finished Brisky, ready to tackle his second season as head coach.

Area Wrestling Coverage Set For Expansion

There will be a new flavor in the Observer coverage of the 1973-74 prep wrestling card.

To complement the match and invitational stories will be weekly team ratings along with individual ratings. Sports Editor Tom Donoghue will meet every week with three coaches who will be responsible for three separate areas in Observerland.

Thurston High Coach Jim Copp will be handling Redford Union, Southfield, Southfield Lathrup, Bishop Borgess and Bentley along with his Eagle squad. North Farmington head mentor Jim O'Leary will be responsible for talent information out of Farmington, Harrison, Clarenceville, Stevenson, Franklin and his Raider squad.

Expands Card

The Clarenceville instructional gymnastic program will expand its program to competitive classes for boys and girls.

Anyone interested should attend a session at the Clarenceville gymnasium, 2-3:30 p.m. on Saturdays or 7-9 p.m. on Wednesdays.

KEY TO BORGESS ATTACK will be the ball handling and "quarterbacking" of 5-11 guard Dan Kelly in the Catholic Double A basketball action. Borgess opens its '73-74 campaign tonight against Aquinas Southgate in a Thanksgiving Tourney.

Girls' Sports Equality Is Marda Benson Goal

By W. W. EDGAR

Many tantalizing problems and surprising actions have crossed her desk since Mrs. Marda Benson, mother of nine, took her seat as the lone woman member of the Plymouth Community Board of Education.

But two of them — both dealing with the athletic program for girls — have caused her more concern than all the others.

Seated in the quiet confines of a small office in the school administration building, she called attention to the fact that the girls provide approximately 50 per cent of the school population but are allocated only about five per cent of the school's athletic budget.

Even worse, she stated, girls are given little encouragement to engage in athletics and thus reach their maximum potential.

"Our budget for the athletic program is $120,000," she stated. "Of that amount, $79,500 is needed for the coaches in all the sports. Out of the remainder, $11,300 is set aside for the girls' program. And most of that is spent of developing cheerleaders, the Rockettes Chieftettes, and Water Waves — a far cry from competitive athletics."

She explained that the official budget will show the girls' athletic program is allotted 16 per cent of the budget. "But," she says, "little is spent on competition — and that when the cost of the teaching of cheerleaders, pom-pom girls and Water Waves is deducted, the amount for competitive athletics is only about five per cent — the national average."

At the moment, the girls' program consists of swimming, basketball, volleyball, tennis and track.

"They are mostly fall sports," Mrs. Benson stated, "and yet when the girls asked the school officials for dates to run a basketball tournament they were given fall dates — which meant other activities had to suffer."

She would like to see the program augmented to include cross - country, golf, softball and gymnastics.

"But every time these things are mentioned, we are told there are no facilities available. As a result, girls are not given an equal opportunity with boys for developing skills and attitudes that could help them later in life."

Admitting that she was not opposed to the development of cheerleaders, the Rockettes and the Water Waves, she is of the firm belief that a vast majority of girls would prefer to have their own teams than to cheer for another.

"And I think the girls are entitled to such an opportunity," she continued and added, "They could thrive on an inter-school program just as the boys do."

Breaking into a smile for a moment she commented, "Now don't misunderstand me. I don't think girls should play football. There are many other forms of athletics in which they could compete if given the opportunity."

One barrier girl's run into, according to Mrs. Benson, is that they engage in what can be termed non-spectator athletics — and therefore, there would be little interest and little, if any, gate receipts.

"How do they know?" Mrs. Benson asked. "They build stadiums for the boys and let the girls off with meager facilities then claim they attract little interest in their games."

One major thing that disturbs her, Mrs. Benson revealed, is the present attitude that the girls are weaker and, in some cases, labeled almost as outcasts, as early in life as the elementary grades.

She cited a case, just recently, in the track program in the elementary schools where boys were made to run 20 laps of the track, but the girls were limited to 10 laps.

Why? That's what Mrs. Benson would like to know.

"Why shouldn't the girls be allowed to run the same number as the boys and thus develop into healthy, natural womanhood? But no, just because she is a girl, she's limited in her opportunity."

"That's what is wrong with our system today and one of the reasons I become frustrated."

She cited another instance where she took one of her sons and a daughter to register for a basketball clinic.

"When we reached the desk," she said, "we were told that the boy could register, but that the girl wouldn't be permitted."

"Why?" she asked, and was told that the little girl would be the only girl registered.

"What's wrong with that?" she countered. "I am the only woman on the board of education. It doesn't make a difference there — why should it here?"

The daughter couldn't attend the clinic.

"See," she said, "even down at the elementary level the girls are pushed aside and I just can't understand that attitude."

"The thinking should be changed all along the line to give girls opportunities on a par with boys — and it should start down at the lowest level."

Mrs. Benson yearns for the day when both boys and girls can have complete interscholastic programs and thus be given equal opportunities to come up through life.

"We could do much better right now," she said.

"School officials claim we'd have trouble getting suitable instructors. But we have physical education teachers instructing cheerleaders when they could be developing the girls in athletic ability."

Reminded that it would cost a great deal of money to provide facilities and the kind of interscholastic programs she is championing, she nodded assent.

When asked where the funds would come from, Mrs. Benson struck a provocative note.

"We could take the funds from the boys athletics budget and even things up. That would be the fair way."

The she offered one final note:

"It's time we taught our girls something besides being losers. They should have the opportunity to win a place on a team of their own and not be forced to the sidelines just because they are girls."

"It's time we ignored sex — and developed our athletic programs for people."

Capture Volleyball Title

Mercy Girls Win Crown

Sporting an unbeaten season, Farmington Our Lady of Mercy High captured the first Catholic League girls volleyball championship.

After a 12-0 regular season mark, the Mercy Marlins toppled Detroit Bishop Gallagher in the title match at Marian High, 15-8 and 15-7.

Mercy chalked up its undefeated record in league play with Marian, Livonia Ladywood, Dearborn Sacred Heart, St. Agatha, Rosary, Vista Maria and Immaculata of Detroit.

The volleyball champs were composed of: Mary Wallace of Livonia; Redford Township's Lynne Zessin; Jean Otto, Diane Wink and Karen Gilhooly of Farmington; Judea Bartos of Dearborn Heights; Ann McInerney of Southfield; Mary Anne Thompson of Orchard Lake; and Donna Sass, Sherree Dokendorf, Irene McSweeney, Mary Hammell, Vicki Koet and Lou Masko of Detroit.

Miss Sass captained the Marlin crew with Miss Thompson the co-captain.

They don't make 'em like they used to.

They don't price 'em like they used to, either.

Remember the '53 Kaiser ... the '51 Studebaker ... how about the '53 Nash Rambler ... or the 1952 Henry J? And remember their price tags? You could buy a lot of car back then for $2,500.

Today a $2,500 price tag is as rare as a Packard Clipper. That's why we offer MemberLoan car financing at AAA—to help you pay for your new '74.

And MemberLoan finance rates can help you save a few bucks—up to $100 on the average new car loan (compared to what most banks charge).

You've insured your cars at AAA for years. Why not start financing them here, too?

We want to do more for you...with MemberLoan car financing

MemberLoan is available to Auto Club members through an arrangement with two of Michigan's leading banks.

Nursing Baby Hurt By Nicotine

Q: If a mother is addicted to drugs, can her baby become addicted if the mother nurses the baby?

A: No, but there are some interesting points that your question raises.

First, no narcotics show up in the mother's milk of even addicts. Barbiturates (the active ingredient in most prescription sleeping pills) do show up in mother's milk, but not in amounts large enough to adversely affect the baby. Large amounts of alcohol ingested by a mother will show up in small and insignificant amounts.

What is rather surprising, though, is that nicotine does appear in the milk of smoking mothers. Moreover, smoking tends to suppress the production of this milk. Moreover, children born to smoking mothers tend to be punier than average, and you have something to think about.

Q: I need to get it together and I'm really scared. I heard on the radio that there's a Crisis Center I can go to. Where is it? A.H., Westland.

A: It can really be frightening not knowing where to turn when you need help and someone to talk with. The Westland Aide Crisis Center, 8068 N. Wayne Rd., is open seven days a week. Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. There's always someone there who wants to help.

For any questions you want answered, call the Livonia or Westland Aide Crisis Centers or write to Community Commission on Drug Abuse - 12555 Middle Belt, Livonia, 48150.

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR

There seems to be no stopping Bill Spargo in his bid to repeat as the metropolitan area's top average bowler of the year.

Now leading the two top leagues in the area with a mean average of 215, he went on another scoring spree this week in the Westland Classic.

Starting with a 269 game, he added a 204 in the middle and then closed with a 278 for 751 - third highest series rolled in the metropolitan section this year.

The big series not only was the best rolled at Westland, but in registering it, Spargo beat his old mark of 737.

Two other big scores were posted in the Classic, but neither one came close to Spargo. Bernie Peters had a 666 on games of 222, 233 and 211 for second place and Ron Sharples landed third with a 659 that included games of 214, 224 and 221.

While Spargo was adding to his records, Dick Preston, one of the veterans of the classics, showed the young fellows how it is done in the Garden Lanes Classic.

Dick posted a 671 to pace the entire pack and gained a 34 pin edge over Ron Brennan who had a 637.

Pat Potter moved in to take some of the top honors for the ladies in the Guys and Dolls league with a high game of 246.

More than 350 members of the Old Timers Association are expected to compete in the 43rd annual Old Timers Tournament Saturday afternoon at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park.

This event will set a new mark and establish a precedent as both the bowling and the annual banquet will be held at the same location. Bowling is scheduled at 1 p.m. with the dinner being served at 4:30 p.m.

The low average bowlers had a great time of it this week at Country Lanes.

Joe Rom, who carries a 150 average in the Loon Lake Circuit, put together games of 276, 194 and 197 for a 667. Right behind him came Bill Holbrook, of the UAW 985 league who has an average of 183. You'd never believe it, but he started with a 222, followed with a 215 and closed with a 234 for 671.

Then, to top off the week, Rose Schmidt, a substitute with a 158 average in the Forest Park League, came through with a 558 series.

Converting splits was the order of the day at Plaza Bowl.

Marie Nadelay started it in the Bowlerettes League when she knocked over the difficult 7-10. She was so surprised with the shot that she didn't know how she did it.

But the real champion was Sam LoCasio, bowling in the Senior Citizens League. He converted two - first the 4-7-10 and then coming back to topple the 4-6-10.

This was a big week for Carol Schuke in the Ladies League at Mayflower Lanes. Carrying a 109 average, she found the range for a 222 - and went more than 100 pins over her average for the first time.

Turf Tips, Quips

By Doc Minard

This is the time of the year when the managements of the various race tracks in Michigan begin to wonder if the Racing Commissioner will ever get around to announcing allotment of dates for the following season.

True enough Commissioner Leo Shirley has until the end of November to announce the thoroughbred dates and until mid-December to let interested folks know when the trotters and pacers will race the following year, but the point is why does he have to wait until the final day to make up his mind.

It appears Shirley could have made his announcement for both types of racing as early as the first of November since there aren't that many problems.

Everyone knows the dates for the thoroughbred tracks determine when the harness meets start and end. The reason ... Wolverine Raceway uses the facilities of the Detroit Race Course and Hazel Park Raceway operates at the five-eighths mile plant on the east side.

Thus if Hazel Park runners have the early dates starting in March then it follows that Wolverine will begin at about the same time at the DRC. If the thoroughbreds open at the DRC then Hazel Park trotters will take over.

It is well known that the trotters will start in the spring at Hazel Park and the runners at DRC in 1974. The big question is how many days and nights each will receive and when.

Perhaps the biggest puzzle of all is whether the commissioner will hand out standardbred dates that will have Hazel Park and Wolverine split the much desired summer season in back-to-back campaigns.

In his role of commissioner, Shirley has the authority to dole out dates as he pleases. Naturally he has to discuss such matters with the Governor and administration in Lansing but the final decision is his and his alone.

That's why it appears like so much wasted time and effort when the Legislature passed a bill which included a rider making it mandatory for the commissioner to award back-to-back summer dates to tracks with average mutual handles of $500,000 or more. The act since has been declared unconstitutional by Attorney General Frank Kelley but those close to the situation wonder why it was necessary at all.

Did the commissioner feel he needed some support in taking the choice summer dates from Northville Downs, which pioneered mutual betting on harness racing back in 1944, and turning them over to the state's two major plants? Or was some group in the Legislature trying to tell him they wanted the back-to-back meetings during the summer?

Answers are hard to come by. All we can reiterate is that the commissioner has the power to allot dates and doesn't need any support if he wants to use the powers delegated to him.

High-Rise Plan Before Board Cayce Group Meets Nov. 27

PLYMOUTH In face of a recommendation for denial by the planning commission, the Plymouth Township Board Tuesday will consider rezoning the 40-acre plot on Plymouth Road opposite the Hillside Inn.

The development, proposed by the Shafer - Kellman -

Roth Co. on the Burroughs property, calls for nine acres of commercial zoning and the remaining 31 acres for construction of high rise structures in making its recommendation for denial.

Local Rivals To Sing Again

PLYMOUTH Regardless of the outcome of the Ohio State - Michigan football battle at Ann Arbor, it is guaranteed to bring an off-tone hue to downtown Plymouth Saturday evening.

Ohio State's small but loud and overconfident alumni corps of the community has thrown down the vocal gauntlet once again to the loyal, true-blue Wolverine graduates.

Through their brash chairman, Fred Hill, the Buckeyes have expressed willingness to carry on a mini-tradition started in 1969 calling for followers of the loser to sing the foe's fight song at 6 p.m. in the area of the Kellogg Park fountain.

Ned Stirton, lead tenor of the Michigan graybeards, assures that his troops will be on hand, but in more of a mood to listen than sing because of throats left raspy from the afternoon's victory cheers.

Mantis Eggs Hatch Resort

SOUTHFIELD
Praying mantis eggs have hatched into a "Rebel Resort" at Birney Junior High in Southfield.

"Rebel Resort" is one of the names given the outdoor laboratory at Birney, a student beautification project partly financed by the sale of praying mantis eggs.

The money-making project was used because it is believed the mantis eats aphids and other plant destroying bugs, which would help the residential gardener while beautifying the Birney grounds.

The project was started four years ago with the student council pledging to raise $3,000. Students from Lawrence Institute of Technology prepared the design, neighborhood residents donated shrubs and trees, and Detroit Edison donated tables and wire spoons.

The result was to take a neglected corner of the school and transfer it into a beauty spot to serve as an outdoor classroom. It is filled with trees, shrubs and flowers and can serve as a lunchroom for up to 60 persons.

It has two classrooms, one an amphitheater made from a hand-fashioned hill and the other a tiered, U-shaped, redwood, double-decked bench backed by a high planter.

A flowing fountain decorates one corner of the plot and sidewalks criss-cross the area.

Engaged in the project have been Carol Branch, school counselor; Mrs. Sue Betty Shelly, English teacher; Shakerjian, science teacher; er, and James Hildebrand, Richard Gilbert, art teacher; assistant principal.

Oriental Touches Blend East/West

Our honorable ancestors have been bringing the treasures of the East back to the Western World ever since the 1600s, so whatever style you've surrounded yourself with — antique, eclectic or ultra-modern — Chinese will be with-it and you won't have to make many changes to reorient your rooms.

Underfoot you might put a carpet trimmed with the lovely look of bamboo and rimmed by the real wood of the floor, particularly if it's parquet.

Your walls will grow more Oriental when covered with grass cloth and hung with delicate, elegant Eastern art. A large earthen pot full of feathery ferns will put new life into a forgotten corner, and force the fine flowing lines of cane backed French furniture into its full fruition as a blend of east and west.

Then, gather it all up into a bouquet of beauty with a chest.

The exquisite oriental birds, butterflies and blossoming branches surrounded by stylized flowers and geometric figures on this chic bit of chinoiserie are all hand carved and hand painted, exactly like the ones created by ancient Chinese craftsmen of the past.

The chest is part of Thomasville's "From the Four Corners" collection of imports. Each 24 x 12 x 36 inch piece is a work of art.

A focal point any place, the cabinet makes a marvelous introduction in a foyer or front hall.

To top it off bring out the brass fittings and feet of the cabinet, the nailheads on the chair with an antique, etched brass ginger jar, lightly changed into a little lamp with a prettily pleated shade.

As these small steps should show, you don't need all the wisdom of the East or all the wealth of the Emperor to have your honorable home shine in Oriental splendor.

ORIENTAL CHEST is handpainted with oriental birds, butterflies and blossoms. The chinoiserie are like those created by ancient craftsman.

Woman On The Go!

Principal Is A Lady

By MARGARET MILLER

Dr. Helen Ditzhazy of Farmington is one of three women principals of high schools in Michigan — probably the only one in a large metropolitan-area school.

Dr. Ditzhazy, for nine years assistant principal at Thurston High in South Redford, took over last June as top administrator in the 717-student Novi High School.

The spot she's in is one she aimed for, despite a climate in educational circles a few years ago that indicated reaching her goal might be impossible.

"I was a stubborn Dutchman and decided to go ahead," she said, speaking of the work on a doctorate in secondary school administration, earned from the University of Michigan in 1972 to qualify her for her post.

"I learned early I was an administrator," she added, "because I worked for more than five years as assistant manager of a university residence hall."

"And I just don't think the work of a high school principal is a man - woman thing — it's a person thing. Right now, I don't know another woman who is interested in administration, and I think that's too bad."

As an administrator, Dr. Ditzhazy considers herself a "process person."

"That means focusing on the problem and methods of solution rather than on personalities," she explained.

"You identify the problem, look for possible solutions, consider the drawbacks and advantages of each and then take the best and apply it."

As a high school administrator, Dr. Ditzhazy has found no problems with either board members or faculty, male or female.

"And none with the boy students, either," she added. "You don't have to be a husky man to handle kids one at a time. And I really like high school kids."

Helen Ditzhazy, whose son and daughter are college students now, earned her bachelor and master degrees at Michigan State University.

It was there that she helped run the residence hall

while her husband, Joseph A., was in school.

After he graduated they came to this area, and she taught home economics and then served as counselor at Thurston. She instituted the school's family living and advanced social studies programs before being named assistant principal.

In her years in that post, she saw Thurston go through major growing pains, and that's the kind of situation she now finds in Novi.

"This school was built 10 years ago for 600 students," she said. "We had 583 students a year ago, and had figured we'd go to 680 this year. Now it's 717."

As a result of the fast population growth in Novi, an administrative committee now is working on plans for a new high school. It's hoped that it will be ready by the fall of 1976.

Dr. Ditzhazy is looking to more growth for Novi in ways other than physical. New educational programs she sees coming involve the schools working closer with the community to use its resources and add to them.

"We already have students doing some tutoring and working with new families," she said. "We hope to set up a program in which they do things like work with nursing home patients on a one-to-one basis — not taking jobs from adults in the community but helping where their help is needed."

She also sees in the high school of the future more skills and occupational training, and more cooperative programs that tie in with subjects studied in school.

Dr. Ditzhazy is an official for accrediting schools by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Last year she worked with the accreditors in Nebraska, and expects to be assigned a different state this year.

She also is looking to being responder to a paper for a North Central Association meeting next month.

The paper will be titled "Towards More Women in Educational Administration — Some Needed Reforms." This lady administrator should be well versed on that subject.

Women of all ages interested in returning to school may find out more about the big step Thursday, Nov. 29, at the second college orientation day for women on the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College.

The program will be held in the J Building, room 409. Orchard Ridge is located north of 11 Mile between Farmington Road and Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills.

In addition to a session from 9 to 11:30 a.m., there will be a 7 to 9 p.m. gathering for the benefit of women employed during the day.

Women interested in pursuing a new career or just taking some classes may learn about OCC opportunities through meetings with faculty members and women students who have returned to college.

The Orchard Ridge Woman-center, set up to help women students get the most out of their college experience, is sponsoring the day.

Baby sitting will be available during both sessions.

Don Nichols of Farmington, dean of students at Orchard Ridge OCC, will join the faculty members and students in leading the program. Also on hand will be members of the OCC classified staff, secretaries, clerks and technicians.

The orientation day will begin with free refreshments and small group meetings.

These will be followed by larger group sessions in which all will hear comments from faculty, staff and students.

Orchard Ridge faculty participants include Sarah Keidan of the political science department, Tim Koerner of the history department, Jim Orr of the individualized program learning lab, and Mary White, counselor.

'Brother Of Wind' New Breed Of Nature Film

By TIM RICHARD

Many things place "Brother of the Wind" several cuts above the usual nature and Walt Disney film.

This small company film starts with the assumption that the wolf isn't simply a demon; that he has a place in nature and deserves normal respect.

Disney gives personality to the animal who is the hero of each film, and the hero's enemies are cast in the role of villains. The death of either the hero's relatives or enemies is seen in emotional terms, as good or bad.

Not so with this loosely-knit, spectacular glimpse of an aging hermit who raises four wolf cubs after their mother is wantonly slain by a bush pilot.

John Monroe gives the cubs milk, but then he tries to teach them to hunt. The first encounters - with an elk and a raccoon - are hilariously unsuccessful.

Toward the end, however, you see the bounding youngsters throttle a muskrat, trap a young buck deer in a pincher movement, and wear down a good-sized elk. The prey is downed before your eyes. No moral judgment is made by actor or narrator. Wolves kill to eat - it's that simple.

John Monroe kills game, too, and you accept that. What you don't accept is the way the she-wolf is killed from the air and one of the half-grown cubs is pursued by a snowmobile and shot for no reason. (Funny thing: In snowmobile commercials on TV, you hear orchestral music; here, you hear the truth - a snowmobile makes a flatulent racket.)

This viewer was amused by the incredible similarities in actions and voice messages between the wolves and his own house dogs. Indeed, there's a certain black poodle of my acquaintance who could have taught the wolves a thing or two about landing a fish.

The only hokey part is the conclusion in which the wolves return to save old Monroe from an attack by a black bear. Apparently the director saw it as necessary to prove the moral of the story: Gratitude is best expressed by a free spirit - the adult, independent wolf - who returns voluntarily to aid his quasi-parent.

Is it too bloody for children? The youngsters who saw the film the night I did showed no ill effects. Take the kids, by all means. But it's not a "kids' film," so an adult can see it in comfort.

The scenery: Breath-taking - the Canadian Rockies in Alberta. It fills a lot of film time, but "Brother of the Wind" is much more than a travelogue.
