Hogan Co-Authors Book On School Cost Accounting

By SANDRA ARMBRUSTER

You think you have trouble balancing the check book each month?

How would you like to have a budget of about $13 million and figure out how the money was spent? That's just the problem the Plymouth School District and many districts like it have.

Two educators, one from Plymouth, have written a book which they believe outlines a simple system for determining the cost of education per pupil per course.

Dr. Earl Hogan, assistant superintendent in Plymouth, has collaborated for the last two years with Dr. Phillip Snyder, school superintendent in Newbury, Ohio.

Titled "A Cost Accountability System for Public School Administrators," the book will be published in three to four months by Parker Press, a division of Prentice-Hall.

The book has three basic functions. The introduction written by Dr. Hogan explains the problem.

The next five chapters, written by Dr. Snyder, develop the procedural aspects of the personnel, organization and hours necessary to establish the system.

Finally Dr. Hogan enumerates applications, utilizations and testing of the system.

Collaboration on the book actually began two years ago when both educators were administrators in a school system in Mt. Vernon, Ohio. Dr. Hogan was superintendent and Dr. Snyder was his assistant.

At the time Dr. Hogan was interested in curriculum development and was seeking a way of pinpointing costs of various curricula, particularly vocational education.

"Between the two of us, we were able to develop a system of cost analysis that would put cost accountability into a practical concept," explained Dr. Hogan.

Dr. Snyder added that keys to the system's success are that it is clear, practical and inexpensive to implement.

A state mandated accounting system is the starting point for the system. The state system lumps costs under such areas as transportation, utilities, elementary and secondary instruction, and salaries.

While "the state's system gives no clear or easily understood picture of what a district is doing, our system comes up with meaningful statistics," continued Dr. Hogan.

By starting with a list of the subjects offered and then developing a percentage breakdown of the costs of education per school, grade, class and student, "the system shows how the money is spent in relation to what a child is taking in school," said Dr. Hogan.

This means parents would know with this system how much it costs to teach their children each subject in each school at every grade level.

For instance last year in the Newbury school system, it cost nearly $400 per student in kindergarten to teach reading for one year while the cost of recess was nearly $90 per student in kindergarten per year.

By sixth grade it cost more than $250 per student per year to teach reading and more than $80 for recess.

"This helps school boards and parents form value judgments," said Dr. Hogan, "Usually you spend the largest amount on what serves the greatest need."

Large school systems such as Detroit or even the state could computerize such a system; however, the computer cost for a system in Plymouth would be prohibitive, according to the educators.

Plymouth was chosen to

Clean Your Attic City Starts Junk Pickup

By EDWARD WENDOVER

City residents who have been putting off cleaning their attics, basements, and garages until the annual spring cleanup have run out of excuses.

The new monthly junk pickup service to be provided by the city's refuse contractor, Hayden Disposal Service, begins the week of Jan. 7.

Old refrigerators, stoves, washers, dryers, furniture and other large pieces of junk - except building materials - can go.

Homeowners are advised to put the junk out on their normal trash day.

But if the holidays, with their football games and parties, don't seem an ideal time to tackle the garage (even though your wife might think otherwise), you can put it off another month.

The "anything goes" refuse collection will be held the first full work week of each month under the new contract between the city and Hayden.

Thus in January, where the month begins on a Tuesday, junk pickup will be held beginning the following Monday.

Ken Vogras, city DPW head, advises that residents set out their junk the night before their scheduled pickup to avoid being missed.

"Rubbish which might be harmful to children or animals should be placed in suitable containers at the curb," Vogras said.

"Refrigerators and other objects with doors and lids which could trap children should be properly dealt with. Doors and lids should be securely tied or removed or latches should be destroyed to make them safe to set out at the curb."

The monthly pickups will replace the annual Spring Cleanup drive held each May and known throughout the region as "good picking grounds" for scavenging.

Many residents of surrounding communities often called The Plymouth Mail & Observer to find out the dates of Plymouth's "anything goes" collection. City residents often helped scavengers by attractively arranging used furniture on their front yards or putting notes on discarded stoves to say which burners weren't working.

Under the new two-year contract with Hayden, the monthly junk service will cost the city $2,000 a year.

LWV: 'Separate Consolidation Vote, Charter Election'

Election of charter commissioners for a consolidated Plymouth city should not be on the same ballot as the consolidation issue itself says the Plymouth - Northville League of Women Voters.

The LWV board has voted to support two separate elections with the consolidation issue appearing on a May ballot.

The State Boundary Commission has called for a consolidation election in Plymouth and Plymouth Township but has not yet determined a date or whether the election of charter commissioners should appear on the same ballot.

At the hearing before the commission, Nancy White, representing the LWV, said a May date for the consolidation election would be desirable to allow time for studying the issue and educating the public.

C'ville Blood Donors Set Red Cross History

RENEE LESNIEWITZ of Livonia was one of the first 17-year-olds to donate blood to the Red Cross. Reading the Clarenceville student's blood pressure is Red Cross Nurse Mrs. Robert Peter, R.N., of Garden.

Several students at Clarenceville Senior High School have become the Red Cross blood program's first 17-year-old blood donors in the southeastern Michigan area.

Because of a recent directive from the Committee on Standards, made up of the American Red Cross, the Federal Bureau of Biologics and the American Association of Blood Banks, and under the guidance of the Michigan Department of Health, 17-year-olds are now eligible to donate blood.

The first-time donors joined their 18-year-old classmates and faculty in voluntarily donating blood at a Red Cross bloodmobile visiting the school.

Jack Stallings, a 17-year-old from Livonia, said many of the students promoted the bloodmobile visit.

"When many of the teachers gave us reasons why they couldn't donate," Stallings said, "we 17-year-olds decided to do it ourselves."

The new ruling provides that 17-year-olds can now donate blood provided that they have parental consent and that a physician is present to give permission following a review of the donor's history and medical examination. Formerly the minimum age of donation was 18 years.

"It didn't hurt at all," Stallings added. "When we were through donating, the volunteers chaffered us around like we were a million bucks."

Fishing Fees Go Unchanged

LANSING Nearly 1.5 million 1974 Michigan fishing licenses are being distributed to the state's 2,800 license agencies, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

If a license is lost, license agents are authorized to issue a duplicate for 75 cents.

The fee structure will remain the same as in 1973. Residents will pay $3.25 to fish for all species except trout and salmon, which require an additional $3.25 stamp.

Senior resident fishing licenses, good for all species, will sell for 75 cents; non-resident, $6.25; seven-day non-resident, $5.25; three-day licenses, $2.25; and one-day licenses, $1.25.

Don't Leave Kids Home Alone -- Chief

By MAURIE WALKER

The heavy visiting season is here and for many parents, it means leaving the children at home while they make holiday calls.
 In view of this, Plymouth Fire Chief George Schoenneman warns, "Don't rely on Lady Luck in place of a good babysitter."
 "Never leave children alone or without proper supervision. Children left alone at home could be trapped and helpless if fire or another emergency occurred," the chief warns.

Schoenneman said studies by the National Fire Protection Assn. show that one of every four children who die in fires is alone at the time of the tragedy.

Urging all parents to take every precaution to protect their children from fire at home and at play, the chief has listed some guidelines as suggestions:

- "Give babysitters specific instructions on what to do in an emergency. These include a tour of the house, pointing out at least two escape routes from each room; orders to get the children outside the instant anyone smells smoke or gas in the house; and instructions on how to get in touch with the fire department, parents, doctor and police.
- "Keep your children, ages two and under, in constant sight and mind," Schoenneman said.
- "Teach older children how to use and respect fire.
- "Remember that children learn best by their parents' good example.
- "Keep the house free of fire hazards. The fire department will cooperate by making a fire hazard inspection on request."

 The chief also urges parents to teach children of all ages various ways to get out of the house safely in case of fire.
 "Have them learn at least two escape routes from every room, rehearse the routes until everyone knows them by heart. Also emphasize that once they are out of a burning building, they must never go back inside for any reason."

Plymouth's Y Expands Horizon

PLYMOUTH With an eye toward growth into a full facility YMCA, the Plymouth Community YMCA has officially opened its doors to neighboring Canton and Northville.

The board of directors voted formally at its last meeting to rename the facility the Canton - Northville - Plymouth YMCA.
 Existing YMCA programs already have extended into the Canton and Northville areas, Director John Schmulh said.

"Also, if this YMCA is to grow, with the eventual end being a full facility YMCA, we have to expand our programs into these areas and gain new members," he said.
 A full facility YMCA needs to have a service area of about 100,000 persons to support it, Schmulh said.

"With the new expanding service area we are close to that figure," he went on.

"Programs will continue in the Plymouth community, but we will be offering the same programs to the Canton and Northville areas, too."

"We welcome this new challenge as a means of getting support from three different communities, and it is unique in a day of 'doing one's own thing,'" he concluded.

The Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA will continue to be housed at 670 Church, Plymouth, as a central location.

First Federal announces a bargain.

On money. If you'll deposit $1000 or more in a Certificate Savings Account for just one year, you'll earn 6 1/2% annual interest, paid and compounded quarterly.*

annual interest yields an effective annual rate of 6.66%.

So ask yourself this: At times like these, when it seems like every day you're getting a little less for your money... shouldn't you take advantage of a savings program that offers you so much?

Whoever thought money would be a bargain?

*Penalty—Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawals from certificate savings accounts.

We can do more for you if you'll think First.

Wine of the Month

Champagne

New Year's Eve, or just a quiet dinner for two - this popular wine has traditionally signified a festive mood. A Monk Named Perignon, perfected the sparkling wine and showed the vintners of the district of Champagne that their soil could best produce this type of wine, a fact that has held true till today. However, many countries produce fine sparkling wines that range from sweet (like a Spumante) to extremely dry (Brut). Make tonight a festive occasion and serve champagne well chilled as a cocktail or with any food.

Move Over, Lindas And Michaels

Here Come Jennifers And Jasons

By LORAIN McCLISH

Kindergarten teachers are hereby alerted to be prepared for the Jasons and the Jennifers that will be coming into their classrooms in about five years. They are here in great numbers to replace the Debs and the Scotts of another year, and the Kathys and the Mikes before that.

When the Observer Life section editors found the Jen-nifers and the Jasons leading the 1973 birth lists and mentioned it to others, it evoked a lot of comment on the subject of names.

One of our staff members reminded us that W. Somerset Maugham once said in a short story that he felt sorry for anyone by the name of Dorothy because everyone always knew exactly how old she was.

Someone asked did we know that the astronauts were overwhelmingly juniors?

About two years ago Observing Life section editor, Margaret Miller printed what she still refers to as her "Debby Page." Every single girl who announced her engagement that week was Debby, Debi, Deborah, Debra or Deb.

A former kindergarten teacher in Southfield told us that out of 13 girls in a class some years ago, eight of them were named Linda. When she tried to switch a few of them to other classes, the teachers protested because they had enough Lindas of their own.

One girl by the name Sue, whose name hit a high in popularity 20 years ago, told us she once was dating four Mikes. Simultaneously.

But the Sues never did outrank the Kathys of that era. A check of a couple of 1973 high school year books showed that nearly one girl out of every 10 was Cathy, Kathy, Kathleen, Kay, Katie, Cathi, Kathie, Kathi, Kathryn, Catherine or Kate. All told, the Mikes, the Debbyes and the Sues ran a poor second place.

When we asked a local junior high school principal for a list of student names, and explained what we wanted it for, he said we didn't have to bother counting; the Davids were going to come in first. And he was right. It was hardly a contest at all.

We gathered up a couple of 1943 high school year books to see if we could find any trends or changes and found two very significant things.

The mothers were heavy on J's when those daughters were born. Almost every other girl was Joan, Jeanne, Jane, June, Jean, Jeannette, Janet or June. (No Jans. Not a one.) And if mother didn't favor any of those for first choice, she got a J in her daughter's name by calling her Betty June or Mary Jean or Patty Jo.

Another thing significant in those year books was that for all the Bills and Bobs you know (and you know a lot of them) they all came out in print as William or Robert. Likewise, the Beths and the Bettys went formal with Elizabeth. And all the Eds (there was a pretty good representation of those too) came out with Edward, Edwin or Edgar.

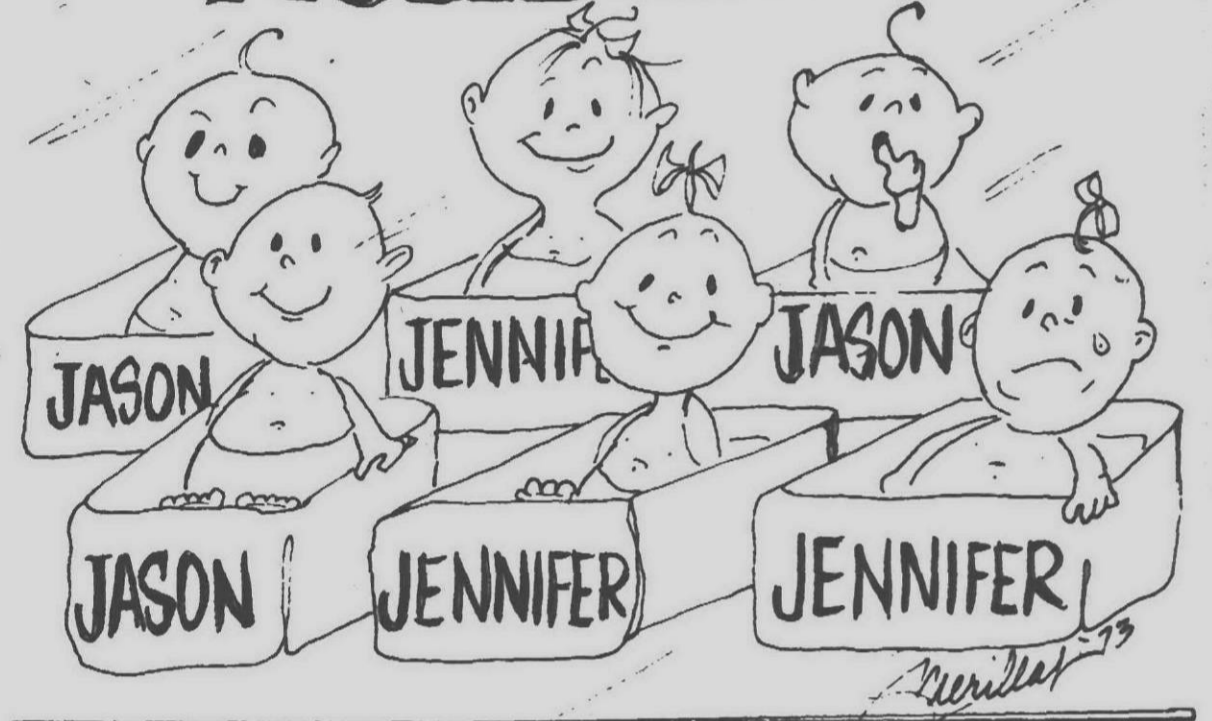

Not too long after that high school girls changed their names, or the spelling of their names, to Toni, Lori, or Vicki, but not in the year book. Nicknames turned up in great numbers in the year book only about 10 years ago.

The Marys and the Johns have held steady with hardly a rise or fall in popularity. The Bills and the Bobs have fallen off in some number over the past 50 years, but they are still hanging in there on the new birth lists.

Good luck to you, Jenny and Jason. We hope you like your name. Wear it proudly.

Livonians To Call Thailand

Sgt. Charles R. Glassmire, stationed in Thailand with the U.S. Air Force, will receive a telephone call later this week because his father-in-law was diligent on his job.

It was Martin Heiss of Livonia who saw the announcement of a contest sponsored by the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO, and relayed the word to his daughter, Nancy Glassmire, just in time for her to win a free call to her overseas serviceman.

The call is planned Dec. 29 because that is Nancy's birthday.

With her when she picks up the receiver will be the couple's 13-month-old daughter, Stephanie, and two sets of parents, Mr. and Mrs. Heiss of Lancaster Avenue, Livonia, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glassmire of Six Mile Road.

Mrs. Glassmire, who last talked to her husband soon after he arrived in Thailand nearly four months ago, was one of two in the Observer area to win calls through the CWA Local 4001 "Hi Mom" program.

She entered the contest at the last minute because her father, an employee of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., happened to see a newspaper announcement of the contest. He was scanning papers as part of his job and noticed the offer just before the time that all entries had to be in.

One quick entry and an hour and a half later, Nancy Glassmire was announced as a winner.

Sgt. Glassmire and his wife both were members of the first Stevenson High School graduating class. He was employed by General Motors Corp. before entering the Air Force in April 1971.

Mrs. Archie L. Chalmers of Carrousel Avenue, Westland, is the other local winner.

She will be talking to her son, Michael, a specialist fifth class in the Army and stationed in Germany.

Mrs. Chalmers wasn't sure just when the call would be made but said two other sons at home, Archie, 20, and Doug, 10, would plan to be on hand and "everybody will put in their two-cent's worth."

Mrs. Chalmers saw the notice of the contest in a newspaper account and sent in her card "never dreaming I'd win."

The Chalmers have two other sons in the service. David is a Marine drill instructor stationed on Parris Island in South Carolina and Bill is with the Army at Fort Jackson, S.C. There also is a son-in-law in the Air Force.

Michael, a graduate of Franklin High School, went into the Army in 1968 and has been serving in Germany for three years.

Shiny new ice skates and trusty old ones will hit the ice Thursday, Dec. 27, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. when Girl Scouts from Livonia, Garden

City and Redford Township gather for their fifth annual ice skating party.

It will be held in the Sportsland Arena, Cherry Hill Rd. west of Newburgh Rd., Westland, and some 350 scouts are expected to attend.

GS Skating Party Tonight

MRS. NANCY GLASSMIRE of Livonia, her daughter, Stephanie, and her father, Martin Heiss of Livonia, make arrangements for a holiday call to Mrs. Glassmire's husband, Charles, in Thailand. The call was won through a contest sponsored by Local 4001 of the Communications Workers of America (AFL-CIO). (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

m. m. memos

We all may dream of a White Christmas, but 11 inches of whiteness coming all at once in the week before the big day can leave its mark on the celebration.

So everyone is going to have his own 1973 Christmas and snow memories.

For my part, I'll remember sympathy for our junior high musicians whose much-rehearsed Christmas concert was cancelled, and for our student editor who couldn't distribute the Christmas issue of the school paper.

And I won't forget right away the moment of panic when our car got firmly stuck on ice while we were on our quest for a Christmas tree. We expressed then our gratitude to the gentleman who got us unstuck, and right here I'd like to repeat those thanks.

That incident led to remembering another Big Snow Christmas of a few years ago. The white stuff piled up Christmas Eve, and the next morning I drove my little, no-snow-tire car to my parents' hilltop home in these suburbs with an abandon I don't even believe now.

This year I heard about a minister friend who on Saturday morning still had a few dozen poinsettia plants in his hallway because the church still was cold and the parking lot uncleared.

And was told about the plight of many in the snow-clogged university town near here. Seems these folks were heading for all sorts of exotic places like New Orleans and Florida and California - if they could just get their cars away from the curb so they could get to the airport.

One nice time of the days before Christmas also was sort of snow-related. Invited to a wedding, I was determined to be on time and allow for parking lot problems. So daughter and I arrived well ahead of the ceremony and enjoyed a long string of Christmas carols played by the organist. About the first time there had been in the busy season to relax and enjoy the music of Christmas.

White Christmases, I've concluded, are never dull.

USO Operations Close In Detroit

DETROIT — The USO was founded simultaneously nationally and in Detroit in 1941 shortly before the attack on Pearl Harbor and America's entrance into World War II. It was disbanded in 1947 and reorganized in 1950 when the Korean conflict broke out.

The USO was formed by six service organizations experienced in helping youth: the YMCA, YWCA, Salvation Army, National Catholic Community Service, Traveler's Aid and the Jewish Welfare Board.

Through the years, USO has provided meals, shower facilities, recreational activities and entertainment to off base military personnel stationed in the Detroit area.

After careful evaluation by United Community Services (the funding agency of the USO) it was determined that the reduced military population in the Detroit area no longer warranted continued USO operations, Broder said.

It is anticipated that the YMCA, a Torch Drive agency, will provide some services to the servicemen that were filled by USO. The USO corporation will become inactive rather than dissolved and its funds will be held in escrow by United Community Service. The inactive status will provide the possibility of immediate reactivation of USO should events of the future indicate such action. Interest collected, by funds will help offset expenses incurred by the Y.

Tasty Ideas Transform Your Leftover Turkey

When you plan your holiday dinner, it's a good idea to plan for later meals as well, and to do the shopping for them along with the festive dinner shopping.

Since turkey is usually the main feature of at least one leftover meal, here are three suggestions for interesting ways to serve leftover turkey.

One is a two-layer Turkey Cranberry Mold, which would make a perfect lunch dish. One layer is cranberry sauce mixed with a red colored gelatin, the second layer is the same cranberry sauce mixture blended with real mayonnaise, chopped cooked turkey and diced apple.

The second suggestion is molded Cranberry Fruit Salad to serve with cold sliced turkey and stuffing. For this mold you will need unflavored gelatin, oranges and apples and bottled cranberry juice. Also iceburg lettuce to serve it on and real mayonnaise as a dressing.

The third suggestion is a Turkey Fruit Salad in which holiday fruits are mixed with chopped cooked turkey and dressed with real mayonnaise.

Denise Rybski Is Bride

In a recent candlelight service in Newburg Baptist Church, Westland, Denise Annette Rybski and Charles Daniel Morgan exchanged marriage vows.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Rybski of Livonia. The bridegroom is the son of Dewey Morgan of Westland.

The Rev. Earl Anderson officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a ruffled gown of chantilly lace with a cathedral train. A diamond tiara held her five-tier veil, and she carried miniature carnations in a cascade arrangement.

Her attendants wore velvet gowns with matching ribbons in their hair and carried cascade bouquets of assorted flowers.

Rachel Rybski, maid of honor, was in deep purple. Bridesmaids Lorelei Rybski and Gloria Gorny and junior bridesmaids Rebecca Rybski and Sylvia Ann Roberts wore deep burgundy. Flower girl Venus Roberts had a pink dress.

Roy Lasiewski of Ypsilanti was best man, and the ushers were Gary King and George Savage of Westland.

The reception was held in Leight's Banquet Room in Westland. The couple will live in Westland.

Better Pet Control Hinges On Their Owners

EDITOR'S NOTE: Our animal population is soaring four times as fast as the human population, and excess animals are "put to sleep" by the thousands. This, the last of four articles, suggests what good citizens can do about it. The writer is a homemaker, graduate student at Wayne State University, and journalism intern for Observer Newspapers.

By JOAN WEAVER
Special Writer

If something like 45 per cent of the 122,000 families in Observerland have pets — If more than half are dogs and the rest mostly cats —

If, as authorities say, 90 per cent of all dog owners dutifully get annual licenses for their pets —

Then why do 18,000 animals end up each year in area animal shelters? —

And why are more than 12,000 of those "put to sleep?"

Many veterinarians and animal control officers blame Detroit. They say thousands of animals are simply dumped out in the suburbs by Detroiters and others wander across boundaries from Detroit.

An estimated 100,000 strays roam the streets of Detroit, and as with other big city problems, the suburbs receive the overflow.

Farmington veterinarian John Richardson says:

"The thousands of dogs in the inner city don't belong to anybody. They go home for a meal, then roam the streets, defecating on sidewalks, tipping over garbage cans and

Cycling To Get State Attention In Panel Talks

LANSING

Joseph Seavey, Michigan Department of Natural Resources' Recreation Services Division chief, will moderate a panel discussion entitled "Bikeways, Their Planning, Design and Operation," at a Jan. 8 bicycling symposium at the Olds Plaza Hotel in Lansing.

Those attending the symposium will listen to and participate in a number of bicycling-related discussions featuring up-to-date information on various aspects of bicycling, all intended to stimulate a positive interchange of ideas and promote cooperation and coordination among cycling enthusiasts and public and private recreation agencies.

Attending will be representatives from Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan; including government officials of varying responsibilities and members of bicycling organizations.

biting children — and often they end up on our streets."

They also end up in our shelters, our crematoriums; they get hit by our cars, starve and freeze to death.

Veterinarians, animal control officers and perhaps you have all seen cars pull up to a curb, toss out an animal, young or adult, and then speed away. There is little recourse, even if you jot down the license number and notify the proper authorities. It's almost impossible to prove, and usually the case gets thrown out of court.

Some of the possible solutions: to the multiple problems of animal population control, according to the article in Modern Veterinary Practice, by Don Mahan, include:

- The development of non-surgical contraceptives for animals.

- Higher license fees for intact animals (which Detroit has just started).

- More stringent leash laws.

Public education on pet ownership responsibilities.

- Humane euthanasia of surplus animals.

Dr. Richardson, who feels spay clinics are a financial burden on the non-petowning taxpayer, would like to see existing leash laws more conscientiously enforced.

He feels that the greatest hope for solving some of the problems lies in educating the public on the true situation and on the responsibilities of owning a pet.

Pets must be inoculated, should be spayed or neutered, and need medical care periodically. All that costs money. "There is no need to limit pet ownership to the very wealthy," Dr. Richardson says, "but people should be able to afford a pet."

If you are having trouble meeting the bills and putting groceries on the table, it might be a good rule of thumb to wait until you are more financially secure to get that little puppy or kitten that you saw in the pet shop the other day.

They are not toys to be thrown away when people tire of them. Rather, they are living creatures whose behavior, welfare, reproductive habits and good health become the responsibility of the people who take them inside their homes.

test the system because of the rapid expansion due to community growth.

Both educators estimate the cost of the system done manually at 50 man hours per $1 million in the budget. Thus, in Plymouth the cost of the system would be 650 man hours.

Dr. Snyder said that the margin of error for initial calculations is about five per cent. Later it is refined to about two per cent. "Even at five per cent, you have a basic direction. You can see where you're spending money," he explained.

"With this system we can answer the questions school boards ask," continued Dr.

Hogan. "We say here is what you're doing; is this what you want to do?"

"Community goals should fit with what you spend money on. If goals shift, then the curriculum should shift. This forces people to think that there is not an unlimited amount of money and to think of how to allocate it," Dr. Hogan said.

In Plymouth Dr. Hogan was pleased to discover that the district's spending correlates approximately with the community survey of educational goals done in 1972.

Third in a list of 15 goals itemized was development of the "three R's," reading writing and arithmetic. In Plymouth last year more than 40 per cent of the bud-et was devoted to those items.

First and second goals were, respectively, developing respect for self and others and providing for efficient spending.

While Dr. Hogan admitted that "it takes time to get people thinking this way," Dr. Snyder said that in 10 to 12 years, "with a futuristic appraisal, the state could go this way."

"It is well to work with the system in a district this size to see if it is practical with a budget this size," added Dr. Hogan.

Another possible use of the system is comparing achievement with cost which both educators recognize as a highly controversial area.

"For now we're going to replicate what we've done this year and let the board give us direction based on that," concluded Dr. Hogan.

To the Supervisor and Clerk of the Township of Plymouth, Wayne County, Michigan.

Henshaw Corrects Statement

PLYMOUTH The story in Friday's Plymouth Mail & Observer on Plymouth teachers' rejection of a contract extension contained an error.

Joe Henshaw, president of the Plymouth Education Assn. (teachers' union or PEA) incorrectly said Thursday the contract extension was opposed "by all three members of the PEA executive council."

That should be the three members of the PEA negotiating team other than the negotiator recommended rejection of the proposed contract.

Bradner Still Going 'Full Sail'

By CORINNE ABATT

LIVONIA
Dr. Eric Bradner, of Livonia, former Schoolcraft Community College president, has retired, but not dropped out.

"Retirement" he says, "is great if you have two things - enough money and a good companion. Presupposing good health, of course."

With good health, good company from his wife, Florence, and adequate income. Dr. Bradner has been going full sail, but only when he chooses to move the boat.

He looks back: "It was a chore at 55 to start to begin to build a college. There were many pressures - student unrest, partly because of the war - but fortunately I had a good board and we got the show on the road."

The show he launched has been growing steadily ever since. The community college movement got under way in Michigan less than 20 years ago. North Central in Petosky was first. Delta came along in 1958 and Schoolcraft in 1961. Now, there are 29 in the state.

In his non-dropout retirement, Dr. Bradner works as a liaison between 11 community colleges in southeastern Michigan and Eastern Michigan University. As a consultant for EMU, he visits the colleges, talks with the presidents, asking, "What can Eastern do with you to improve higher education in Michigan?"

Dr. Bradner calls it a labor of love, for that's where his heart has been for a long time, in the business of improving higher education.

Why should Eastern be interested in community colleges in this area? Dr. Bradner says that about 20 percent of the 17,000 students there are from community colleges.

This year Eastern admitted 904 from community colleges in southeastern Michigan. Most of these fill in the spaces at the junior and senior levels where others have dropped out.

Because they are the newest members of the higher education family, community colleges are still low in status. The support per student from the State Legislature is less than for other state supported colleges and universities. Recognition in their home communities has been slow in coming.

Bradner terms it "a general lack of understanding of the people in what they have in their community college."

The one exception is Traverse City, where the college receives strong support from the residents.

The situation is being rectified as more community college faculty get into the high schools and more alumni get elected to the Legislature.

Of 65,000 students in 11 community colleges, fewer than half continue beyond one year. This points up the dual roles which these institutions play. They prepare students to continue their higher education, and they offer vocational skills for getting jobs.

Of the half who stop after one year, Bradner says, "Most of these people have gotten what they want. If they find they're not adequately prepared, they'll come back."

These two functions can both be improved, Bradner says, "It calls for a stronger relationship between the vocational wing of the college and industry and the academic wing and the universities - that's the position I'm trying to establish."

Describing the growing community college movement, he draws a parallel: "It's the Mustang II of the educational world - shorter, less expensive and becoming more luxurious."

When he isn't traveling to community colleges as emissary for Eastern, Bradner and his wife may be doing some traveling on their own. They spent three months in Arizona last year and have plans for more travel next year.

Things never get dull. He is a board member of the Garden City Osteopathic Hospital, Wayne-Westland United Community Services, Walsh College and the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Each he says, "takes a little time. And then, of

DR. ERIC BRADNER

He predicts that someday the roles of state supported colleges and universities may shift. Community colleges, exclusively, will offer the first two years of work, and state universities - such as Eastern, Western, Central and Northern - will have the junior and senior classes. The University of Michigan and Michigan State will have only graduate students.

BLACK EYE
by DOC KEETH

There is just something inherently humorous about a black eye. To the beholder, not to the wearer. There are a few yaks, some ruffled feelings, and then the shiner fades away.

People in my line of work have more trouble with black eyes... the figurative type that somebody hangs onto their reputation. It takes it a long time to fade away.

The furnace repair business has such a black eye. It was put there, I am sorry to say, by some of our own business brothers. And they keep it puffy with an occasional sneaky left jab. These are the people who make a racket of the furnace repair business. The great majority of us who run an honest operation get the shiner by association.

The culprits usually are not locally owned businesses. Rather, they are flexible so they can make a quick move out of town... or else change managers easily. Their method of operation generally is to high-pressure the homeowner into a furnace inspection job. Then they tear the thing apart, and through a "snow job" or sheer high pressure sell unnecessary parts and labor at unnecessarily high prices.

Don't get me wrong. Furnace inspection and repair is necessary. But the homeowner should be in control of the situation. Nothing should be torn apart or replaced without his consent in advance.

Responsible furnace manufacturers such as Lennox... and dealers, such as Keeth Heating are trying to apply beefsteak to this industry black eye. We invite you to call us for your furnace service needs.

Tape Firm Hunch Hits Bullseye

By W.W. EDGAR

Little more than four years ago, Andre Blay, an ambitious 36-year-old resident of Mt. Clemens, figured he had obtained sufficient knowledge as an employee of the Lear Jet Corp. in Detroit, manufacturers of audio tapes, to strike out on his own.

He was confident that this knowledge, coupled with the experience he had gained several years earlier as manufacturing manager of the Corning Glass Co. in Corning, N.Y., would stand him in good stead.

So, taking Lee Nicholson, an engineer, with him, they formed the Magnetic Video Corp. with its headquarters in Farmington Hills.

Thus began one of the most fabulous stories in the industrial world in the past few years. Not only did the venture prove successful from the start, but the figures prove beyond a doubt that young Blay had the right hunch.

Starting from scratch with nine employees in September of 1969 the company has grown to the point where it now boasts 65 employees and from a $250,000 business in the first year to more than $3 million in the past 12 months.

The latest chapter in this amazing story is being written in a new 14,000 square foot facility on Inoplex Circle in Farmington Hills where more than five million tapes are expected to be produced annually.

This new facility has enabled the young firm to divide its activities - producing video tapes in the original building just off the expressway at Halstead Road and audio tape in the new building.

The audio division produces the CHARM line of recorded cover performances, music of top hits and famous artists in both the eight-track and cassette formats. They are marketed through hundreds of distributors throughout the nation with about 10 per cent of the production going to European countries.

Equipped with the latest manufacturing facilities, 240 inches of eight track can be produced each second and a 40 minute album can be taped in three seconds.

Strangely, Blay explained that most of the master tapes are obtained from London, England, because they are a better tape and have a better blend of music.

He also explained that most top recording artists in America are tied with recording companies.

"We stress the best blend of music and the young, unrecognized singers for most of our tapes. The plan has proven successful."

As he looked about the large manufacturing area where tapes were spinning in all sections, Blay, a positive individual, smiled and remarked:

"We may outgrow this building within the next two years."

While the new expansion was being opened, work is going on apace in the video building in the older industrial park.

Here video tapes are made and distributed for television commercials and distributed throughout the country.

So great is the demand that a TV studio is being set up for the actual filming of the commercial and the master tape.

"We're counting on big things here," the young president commented.

Big things? The success in the past four years has been so great that the firm has gone public and its stock can be purchased over the counter. "We now have 250 stockholders," Blay commented. Present plans call for the releasing of 100 new albums by the audio division during the coming year, while the video products are finding ready markets, not only as TV commercials but as a means of instruction in our schools.

KATHY KEMPANY keeps the assembly line running. Here she is filling cassettes on three machines on the way to producing five million tapes a year. (Evert photo)

The rise of the young firm has been fantastic, and the energetic young fellow from Mt. Clemens who started it feels it is just a beginning.

Humidifier Is A Pet's Best Friend

Plant Of The Week

Your throat is parched, the furniture is creaking, the plant's wilting, the piano is out of tune, and the wallpaper is curling.

Worse yet, the cat is about to haul off and give you a swat in the ankle.

If you think the static electricity that charges your dried-out winter home is bad, just look at it from the cat's point of view.

Everytime someone reaches down to give him a loving pat on the head - zap!

So what does he know or care from static electricity? He just knows that he is on the receiving end of an almost constant barrage of zaps.

And if it doesn't stop, some human is in line for some shocking feline retribution.

As a matter of practicality, the state of a cat or dog's coat (and disposition) may give the pet owner his best and most urgent indication of the need for a portable home humidifier.

Home comfort experts explain that static electricity is one of the most common problems associated with dried-out winter air.

In the case of the cat, he becomes a conductor for the static electricity when you touch him. Just as you become a conductor when you simply walk across a carpeted floor and touch a grounded metal object, such as a lamp.

If and when this happens, you (and your pet) are among the millions who could benefit from a portable humidifier which adds moisture to the air in your home efficiently and automatically. The portable units, for example, humidify up to 3,000 square feet of living area.

With the relative humidity corrected to more comfortable levels, other household and pet problems will be reduced.

When the shock of static electricity is gone, daily grooming sessions with the cat will no longer be trauma time. His hair will no longer "follow the comb" and stand straight up in the air after brushing.

And with static electricity gone, long-haired cats and dogs will no longer sound like walking cereal boxes as they glide, snapping and crackling, across the rug.

A pet's dry skin condition will no longer be aggravated. In a too-dry environment flaking scalp can be quite a problem, especially for fur folk whose "scalp" goes from nose to toes.

Not all advantages accrue to the cat or dog. Pet owners' dispositions have been noticeably improved with the addition of an automatic humidifier. For with heightened humidity, cat and dog hair become immeasurably easier to pick up.

In a dried-out house, it may seem that faithful Fido is shedding enough to outfit another German shepherd. But that's just because you're trying to pick up the same dust and pet hair day after day.

Hair and dust particles go wafting through the arid air only to land on the same floor, table or chair before you've put away the cloth. But with the added moisture from a portable humidifier, Fido is out of the dog house and dust, hair and dirt are gone.

Experts point out that in a too-dry home pets suffer just as much as humans from the discomfort of dried out nasal passages.

But with a portable humidifier restoring needed moisture to the home atmosphere, pets as well as humans can breathe easier.

Dieffenbachia picta, also called Dumbcane, is a sturdy, thick-stemmed plant with large, oblong, pointed glabrous leaves, say Michigan State University horticulturists.

The leaves are deep green marked with cream-white bands and blotches along the lateral veins.

Subdued to fairly bright light is needed for best growth. For mere maintenance of these plants light intensity may be lower. A place near an east window is ideal. A southern exposure must be lightly shaded from direct sun.

Loamy garden soil with 1/3 part peat or humus and 1/3 part perlite or vermiculite is desirable. Keep the soil moderately moist. Dieffenbachia are heavy feeders. Apply a complete plant food once a month.

DIEFFENBACHIA PICTA

'Watch That Faucet' Is Good Advice

The extra diswashing that goes along with holiday cooking and entertaining means extra energy spent to pump, heat and treat the water you use.

You can best cut the cost, says Anne Field, extension family resource management specialist at Michigan State University, by reducing the amount of hot water you use.

"Watch that faucet!" the specialist urges. "Don't let the hot water run for rinsing. Even a trickle can pour gallons of hot water down the drain in no time."

Rinse a drainer full of dishes all at once, she suggests. Or rinse them in a separate pan or sink of water as you wash.

"The holiday season is a good time to buy yourself an energy savings in the year ahead in the form of a sink stopper, an extra dishpan or even a large bowl for rinsing," she suggests.

If your gift to yourself this year is a dishwasher, Dr. Field points out that the models with a blower to fan heated air across the dishes to dry them have a larger energy price tag than models without one.

A dishwasher uses 12-15 gallons of hot water every time it runs, Dr. Field points out. "To get the most use out of the energy used to heat that water, run the dishwasher only when you have a full load of dishes."

What Can You Do With One Brick?

What can you do with a brick - besides building a house with beauty and durability?

The Brick Institute of America has these suggestions:

- Place in an upright position in the toilet tank to conserve water
- Place in a lightweight outdoor planter to give it extra stability
- Set on crossbars of tripod-style barbecue to help prevent tipover
- An antique brick makes an interesting paperweight
- An old black "clinker" brick makes an artful base for an arrangement of dried flowers and seed pods

- A "cored" brick (with holes) makes a fun pen and pencil holder or candleholder
- A brick wrapped in aluminum foil makes a handy trivet for hot items placed on your patio table
- A brick makes a dandy boot-scraper for the mudroom

A brick is such a handy item around the house that it was the inspiration for a fundraising project by a parents' association of Herndon, Va. The group collected a stack of odd bricks, put up a colorful sign - and sold its wares for $1 each.

Winter Greenery From Throw-Aways

Save those citrus seeds, avocado seeds, carrot and pineapple tops you usually throw away, and plant a garden of winter-time greenery.

They make very attractive house plants - but don't expect them to grow into full-sized trees and produce fruit, says Lee Taylor, Michigan State University horticulturist.

Orange or grapefruit seeds must be planted fresh from the fruit - in any type of soil. Set the pot in a sunny window and water occasionally.

Place the top 1 1/2 inches of a carrot in a dish of moist sand. Keep the sand moist but not wet and be sure it gets plenty of light. This will produce fine, fernlike leaves.

Keep these and other plants as long as they are attractive as houseplants.

3 Flora-Tea Roses Make Debut This Spring

Years of painstaking research by the world's largest rose growers have produced a new rose plant.

Trademarked Flora-teas by Jackson and Perkins, the new plants are the progeny of hybrid teas on one side and floribundas on the other, and exhibit the best traits of each.

Like floribundas, the new roses bear an abundance of flowers but, unlike the floribunda, the flowers are large and have perfect hybrid tea form. The medium-sized, compact plants grow approximately equal in height and width, creating a flower-covered, always neat bush.

Numerous strong main canes grow from the base of each plant, branching into six to 12 individual stems, 10 to 15 inches long, each bearing a single bloom.

The Flora-teas, three of them will make their garden debut this spring.

EVENING STAR, a new Flora-tea, has one to 1½-inch buds which open to pure white, beautifully formed, high center blooms four inches or more across. The plant has dark green foliage and reaches 3½ to four feet.

VIVA'S 2½ to three-inch blooms are bright red, starting as deep red one-inch buds. The plant is four to 4½-feet high and has glossy, medium green leaves.

SUNFIRE is aptly named. The high-centered blooms are deep orange, a more striking color than either Tropicana or Zorina, its parents. The buds are ½ to ¾-inch, opening to three-inch blooms. Plant height is four feet. Foliage is light green.

Series Open To Public

A four-part course on indoor gardening will be presented by the Cranbrook Gardens Auxiliary for its members and the public at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Jan. 15, 22, 29 and Feb. 5 at Cranbrook House, 380 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills.

Special lecturer will be Dr. William H. Carlson, associate professor of horticulture at Michigan State University.

A short course for people interested in beautifying their home environment, the four lectures on indoor gardening include: "Growing structures," Jan. 15; "Soil and soil mixes," Jan. 22; "Effects of lights and temperatures on plants," Jan. 29; and "Plants that can thrive in your house," Feb. 5.

Fee for the entire series is $10 for the public; $8 for auxiliary members. For more information or to register call Cranbrook.

Dr. Carlson, who received the doctorate degree from Pennsylvania State University, is recipient of the 1968 Kenneth Post Award for Floriculture Research, the 1970 Michigan State Florist Association's grower of the year award and the 1972 honorable mention in the John A. Hannah award for extension program excellence.

Dr. Carlson also is associate editor of the American Vegetable Grower Magazine, editor of MSU's Flower Notes and a member of the Garden Writers of America Assn.

Humidity Adds To Dewy Look

The wet head may be dead, but the soft, dewy complexion is as highly sought after as always.

Beauty experts have long extolled the fair, fresh complexions of English beauties as the look to achieve.

But the British seem to have a natural advantage.

The climate of the British Isles, with its almost constant rain and comparatively high relative humidity, is credited with contributing to the dewy look.

Many American women, on the other hand, face the ravages wrought by weather and central heating.

Home comfort experts report that the relative humidity in many American homes drops to about 13 percent in the winter.

This makes them considerably drier than the Sahara Desert where the average relative humidity is about 22 percent.

With the addition of a portable home humidifier, relative humidity during normal winter temperatures can be maintained in the "comfort zone" between 35 and 40 percent.

This will not only prevent aggravation of dry skin problems, it will reduce other household dehydration worries such as dried out walls and furniture.

'Tuckpointing' Mortar Joints

Replacing crumbled mortar joints by "tuckpointing" helps maintain natural weather resistance of brick walls.

Remove crumbled or chipped mortar to a depth of ½ inch with a gouge. Wet area with garden hose to remove loose material and insure good mortar bond.

Prepare mortar using one part Portland cement, one part Type S hydrated lime and six parts sand, following manufacturer's instructions for prehydration.

Use trowel point to apply mortar tightly in thin layers until joint is filled, then tool to a smooth, concave surface.

'T WAS A day after Christmas When I looked at my car, The model was old and Had been driven too far. The inside was all ripped, The seat it was torn, The brakes didn't work And also the horn. The windshield was busted, The old clutch was broke, The gas line was clogged And so was the choke. I cried and I moaned And started to cuss, Something had to be done About my old bus. So I went to Stark Hickey And am now all aglow, It's like their ad said I got more for my dough. Now I laugh at the bumps And get mileage galore. My car looks swell And here's something more: They sold me my car On a long easy plan, My payments are low, I'm a happy man. Now my worries are over I can travel near or far, This New Year's I'm driving A Stark Hickey used car.
