

Planners OK Mocerri Project

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Following an oft-emotional public hearing Tuesday night, the Canton Township Planning Commission voted unanimously to approve the rezoning for the regional shopping center known as the Mocerri Project at the corner of Sheldon and Joy Roads.

The 600-some persons in the audience who, by a show of hands during the hearing, voted about 50 in favor of rezoning and the rest against, booed after the vote.

During the lengthy hearing before the vote, a majority of the many speakers opposed the rezoning.

Voting in favor of the rezoning were planning commissioners Bart Berg, Wes Kaiser, Grant Campbell, Flossie Tonda and Joe Kinnick. Bob Simmons, another planning commissioner who has stated publicly that he is in favor of the rezoning, was absent from the meeting.

Approval of the rezoning by the planning commission sends the proposal to the Wayne County Planning Commission for its recommendation which should take about a month.

A year ago, the Wayne County planners rejected the Mocerri Project citing the roads serving the area as inadequate to handle traffic for such a development.

Final determination of the rezoning rests with the township board which must approve all rezonings.

At one time in August, the proposal was thought to be dead after Mocerri withdrew his plans from consideration due to strong opposition from the community's homeowner associations.

Mocerri then came back to the township planners with a proposal to put a small, local shopping center and a larger housing development on the site.

The planning commissioners told Mocerri they preferred the regional shopping center proposal and asked him to resubmit it with some modifications such as street widening, a pedestrian overpass and protection of wooded areas on the site.

With those slight modifications, the Mocerri Project — which would be called "Canton Center Woods" — is now alive once more.

Mocerri and its rental agents have declined to discuss who the project's major tenants would be until the rezoning gets final confirmation.

In its entirety, the Mocerri Project would be larger than the neighboring Westland Shopping Center which has about 550,000 square feet of retail space.

According to Mocerri's current plans, the development at Joy and Sheldon roads would include 500,000 square feet of retail space and a 250,000 square foot recreational and office complex.

In addition to the commercial section of the project, Mocerri proposes a planned unit development of single family and multiple housing units on the remainder of the 194-acre site.

The housing development does not require a rezoning change as the commercial development on the site would.

Opposition to the project has centered around its proximity to residential areas and inadequate roads.

Some opponents to the Mocerri Project have also said they would prefer a regional shopping center in the middle of the township rather than on one of its boundaries to help give the community a stronger focal point.

Proponents of the project have said the commercial development would contribute significantly to the school district and community tax bases, particularly in comparison to the housing development which could be built there should the project be turned down.

The Canton Township Citizens Advisory Council on Land Use which met during the fall to establish a long-range land use goal for the community, argued at length over the location of a regional shopping facility in the township.

The council's final report made no recommendation about a location for such a center.

TANGER ELEMENTARY School crossing guard, Jean Bonasse, adjusts the new portable flashing light on the roof of her car in the morning darkness. The light was donated to her over the weekend by Flossie Tonda, chairman of the Plymouth Schools' safety committee.

Did crossing location contribute to accident?

"It's difficult to understand. We teach children to cross at corners. Then they set up the school crossing in the middle of the block where motorists least expect it!"

Northville Township Police Chief Ronald Nison was discussing last Friday's accident on Five Mile near Haggerty roads in which two Plymouth Township children were hit by a car while on their way to school.

"I've been trying to get a stop light installed at Five Mile - Haggerty for some time," said Nison. "Still, it is a four-way stop street with a flashing light — a much safer corner for a school crossing" than the mid-block site.

Nison said most motorists who halt at a stop sign don't expect to find a school crossing a tenth of a mile down the road.

Like many area parents, Nison feels strongly that darkness was a factor in the accident. It occurred at 8:25 a.m., more than a half-hour prior to sunrise under daylight saving time. A car driven by Steven Hall, 20, of Livonia, struck and seriously injured Kelly Goeman, 5, of 40320 Ivywood, and Nancy Nalepka, 7, of 40315 Ivywood, as they walked to Tanger Elementary School.

The children, still confined to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, were reported "doing very well" by a hospital spokesman.

Chief Nison said Hall, driver of the car, was not held but that the accident is still under investigation.

Ironically, Friday was the last day classes were to start at 8:45. School Supt. John M. Hoben had decided Thursday to start elementary classes 15 minutes later, beginning Monday, for a period of three weeks.

A report that parents would stage a protest at the school site Monday failed to materialize. Only four or five parents appeared, and they were walking their children to school.

Prior to school time Monday, Lyle Nustad of the Wayne County Road Commission and Hoben watched as children crossed Five Mile under the protection of crossing guard Jean Bonasse. Nustad said he was there to see if he could make any suggestions for the children's safety.

"Having children arrive at school in the dark is something new. We'll have to figure out what to do," he said.

Nustad said that although the road was currently posted correctly, he would recommend the installation of new, flashing school crossing warning signs.

He also told Hoben late Monday that he would ask the Michigan State Police about reducing the speed limit in front of the school from 40 mph to 25 mph.

Mrs. Bonasse agreed, saying the 40 mph limit was "too fast for this area."

Mrs. Bonasse's car, which she parks along the shoulder, carried a new portable flashing light on the roof Monday morning. It had been donated to her over the weekend by Flossie Tonda, chairman of the Plymouth safety committee.

"This may be a help. At least on coming motorists will be able to see it from a distance and hopefully will slow down," Mrs. Bonasse said.

Accident prompts another school starting time delay

By MARIE MCGEE

Effective today (Wednesday), elementary classes in Plymouth School District have a new later starting time.

The new schedule cancels one put in effect Monday and calls for elementary classes to start at 9:15 a.m. rather than 9 a.m. until Feb. 11.

Middle and senior high school starting times are unchanged.

The elementary change was the second in the district since last week when officials decided to change the starting time from 8:45 to 9 a.m.

Board members quickly made the second adjustment Monday night when several parents objected to the 9 a.m. start. Their chief argument was the accident last Friday morning in which two Tanger Elementary pupils were seriously injured.

Although there have been widespread fears for the safety of children walking to school before sunrise, Plymouth was the only Observerland school district where any child has been injured since the new beginning of daylight saving time.

Friday's accident occurred a day after school officials had decided to start classes 15 minutes later on Monday.

Asked to explain the administration rationale for starting classes 15 minutes rather than a half-hour later, Supt. John M. Hoben cited several reasons. They included the difficulty in juggling transportation schedules in which some buses make triple runs to accommodate approximately 7,000 youngsters.

"Safety problems would be greater at the end of the day," said Hoben, "since elementary students would be walking home after being bused home possibly after dark."

Arrangements for care of children whose parents both work would also be complicated, he added. Secondary students in cooperative programs would possibly lose work time, too.

Hoben said that the new starting times may create a problem at the kindergarten level. A state regulation sets the number of hours kindergartners must be in class. He said he hoped to work around the problem by possibly shaving off recess time and shortening the noon hour.

School board members asked the administration to list the possible ramifications from the later starting time in terms of the district's financial situation.

Madonna-Inkster plan to aid 'underachievers'

Madonna College of Livonia and the Inkster public schools will cooperate in a program of "Saturday Academics" to help 72 under-achieving students to improve skills and attitudes, Sister Mary Danatha, Madonna president, has announced.

The 30-week program was funded for $102,000 through the Wayne County Juvenile Facility Network program. Madonna will contribute $34,000 to the program.

Students will attend the three hour Saturday sessions at Milton School in Inkster, starting Jan. 26. All are between the ages of 11 and 16 and have been recommended for the program by middle school and high school principals and the school social worker.

Teachers will be recruited from the Inkster public schools and will receive 12 hours of credit from Madonna College for inservice training in personalized and self-paced reading techniques. Parents from the Inkster community will be among those acting as teachers' aides.

Teachers, para-professionals, and students will receive stipends for their participation in the project.

Directing the program will be Mrs. Dorothy Nash of the Madonna faculty, a reading specialist and doctoral candidate at the University of Michigan. Ronald Troyer and Sister M. Rachel of the Madonna staff will coordinate the program. Rolando Shorey is program manager for the Inkster JFN Center.

Goals of the program, according to Mrs. Nash, are to improve a student's reading skills one grade level, to improve attitudes about learning, and provide a successful experience in a school setting.

In addition, it is hoped that teachers and parents will share with others in the community the new techniques in motivation to reading achievement.

"Madonna College developed this program and submitted it to the Wayne County JFN as a continuance of our commitment to community service," said Sister M. Lauriana, dean. Sr. Lauriana is a reading specialist, having been Detroit arch-

"This type of alternative program has long been needed by students seeking a route to success," said Dr. Albert A. Ward, Inkster superintendent of schools.

Regional citizens start programs

"Think Regional," a program exploring the concepts of regionalism and problems which need regional consideration, will be aired on Channel 56 on Wednesday, Jan. 23, from 7 to 8 p.m. and followed by small group discussions in various homes and business centers.

One discussion group will be at the Observer Newspapers Inc. building, 36251 Schoolcraft at Levan, Livonia. News Editor Tim Richard will lead the discussion which is open to any interested persons.

The television program will be the first in a series of monthly programs sponsored by Regional Citizens, a group of residents from southeast Michigan who are interested in regional affairs.

The group was formed nearly a year ago by Metropolitan Fund Inc., a non-profit research corporation. Membership is open to any citizen interested in learning about metropolitan issues and contributing citizen skills to the solution.

The television forum is designed to provide regional information as well as an opportunity to participate actively in the solving of regional programs for citizens in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Livingston, St. Clair and Washtenaw Counties.

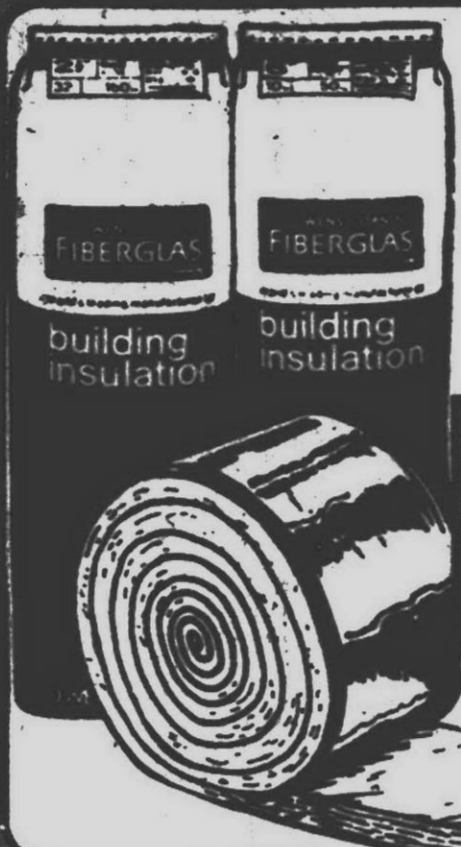

Each month a facet of the regional concept will be presented on Channel 56 including a panel discussion and telephone question and answer period.

College given $500 donation

A $500 donation from Honeywell Information Systems Inc. to Schoolcraft College was earmarked by the college board for purchase of equipment for the data processing program.

The check from Honeywell was presented by Charles E. Eichem, regional director of the field engineering division. Ted Diebel, dean of applied sciences, accepted the donation.

'Open classroom' works

EDITOR'S NOTE: Miller Elementary School is one of two elementary schools in the Plymouth school system using the "open classroom" teaching concept. The other is Isbister Elementary School.

By CORINNE ABATT

CANTON
The hundreds of visitors to Miller Elementary School probably think they are seeing something brand new. Certainly the school, sometimes called an example of open education, is a departure from the traditional, but not from the original American one room school concept. In many ways it is an updated version of the one roomer mixed with the best of the English village school concept and 20th century innovations.

Nobody knows this mixture better than principal Mrs. Shirley Spaniel, former reading specialist for the Plymouth schools whose background includes two years as a teacher in a one room school and an extended "on location" study of English village schools.

From the one room school comes the belief in cross grading. Students are placed according to achievement level rather than chronological age.

From England, Mrs. Spaniel brings the emphasis on quality. She credits the heads of several English primary schools with making her aware of the need for quality rather than quantity. "We have been so quantity oriented in the past. Now it's are you proud of what you can do rather than how much can you do?"

She stops by a display on a wall near the media center. There are mounted stories by a group of primary youngsters. The writing is reminiscent of Spenserian penmanship of bygone days. "We don't use ball point pens. We use the old fashioned dip ones with ink. Look how beautiful it is."

Miller, designed by architects Smith and Smith Associates and completed in 1972, doesn't look like a one room school. It is shaped like a two-leaf clover. There are some 22 classrooms separated into six major learning arenas on the perimeter of the lobes with offices, activity and media centers within.

Although they can be closed by a folding wall, the classrooms are usually open. Walking by and looking in gives the visitor the impression of being on a movie set.

Each class has its individual area and individual teacher. "I still like one teacher with 30 children all day," Mrs. Spaniel comments as she moved from one class area to another.

But, the ever present teacher in front of the class writing on the blackboard, is nowhere to be found. And there is no sign of technological or electronic equipment of programmed learning.

Each learning area is complete with desks for those who want them, work tables and a variety of interest centers. The centers house the displays and study materials pertaining to a particular subject which a group of students have chosen to research in depth.

One student's trip to Hawaii started a group project on the 50th state. This included a collection of authentic artifacts, exploration of the music, languages, cultural roots and economy.

A single sea shell brought in for show and tell triggered an extended study of oceanography.

Comparison shopping is a popular topic. In one classroom a complete store was set up. A grocery list was made and records kept of the prices of each item at various stores. This led into menu planning to achieve the highest nutrition for the least amount of money.

Still another group had collected more than 30 examples of newspapers from around the United States as part of a study of the news media. Stories were being carefully researched as to content source, and viewpoint.

Before the project begins, the teacher, and occasionally a capable student, will make a series of direction cards on the subject - posing questions, suggesting areas to be researched and setting goals.

Students keep a daily journal of their work which later becomes the teacher's personal record. It indicates progress, sources, the method of organization and findings. This serves as the basis for the final presentation to the whole class.

Speaking about the centers, Mrs. Spaniel says, "The key is to motivate the child - once motivated, you can't turn them off."

While there is a great deal of movement in the class, it is directed activity. All students meet with their teachers first thing in the morning to plan their day. Each decides what he will be doing at all times. The teacher aids those who can't make decisions.

"The basic philosophy of the school, and I try to stay away from the term open education, is child-centered education, taking into account the child's interests and his level of ability in reading and math."

"Our children plan their own day if they are capable...Overlying that thought is training children to be responsible for their own learning," Mrs. Spaniel comments.

"Openness is an attitude toward working with children and accepting what they are. Then the children must be open toward each other and be willing to help their fellow students. I don't believe there is one way of organizing a school and you can't totally individualize learning."

"Children must know sharing. We want our children to be responsible, to be resourceful and to learn how to learn."

Because of the many small groups involved in in-depth studies, Miller School utilizes community volunteers.

Mrs. Spaniel estimates that at any given time, 75 to 80 parent volunteers will be active in the school.

For instance, a parent who is a journalist will work with the news media group.

"Much of what we do would not be possible without parent help."

Many mothers and fathers help out with projects which involve crafts, sewing, art and cooking.

Practically all of the projects involve the basic skills of reading, writing and arithmetic. Even the Christmas cookie baking project tested skills. Ingredients had to be bought, a list tallied, costs figured, recipe books read and results analyzed as well as sampled.

Mrs. Spaniel is proud to have acquired a staff of teachers well able to cope with the school's concepts. Many have told her they could never go back to the traditional classroom regimen.

The atmosphere is unusual. The senses are almost bombarded, there is so much to see in each room. It is relaxing in that children are moving about quietly and easily. It is like a home where each member of the family is busy doing something which particularly interests him.

Long before the school opened, Mrs. Spaniel and her staff set up a behavioral management system. There is no running, children are free to use the media center for research or study when needed, but they are not to leave their areas just to wander about.

Talking is permitted, even encouraged, as long as it pertains to the subject at hand, and is not disruptive or disturbing to the others.

Mrs. Spaniel says, "It is just not normal for children to sit in one place for a long time. It's not normal for adults either. And it's not normal for children not to talk."

The 655 student body has almost reached full capacity and the community around is still growing.

OBSERVATION POINT

Will the energy crunch spell doom for suburbs?

By Philip H. Power
Publisher

Shortly after Miami crunched to that second touchdown against the Vikings, I flipped the dial over to Channel Four and found myself in the middle of NBC's annual year-end analysis and prediction public affairs show.

John Chancellor and Edward Newman predicting seemed more interesting than Allan Page and Gary Larson flailing, so I watched most of the NBC show, only occasionally dropping back to see just how far the Dolphins would run up the score.

The NBC newsmen devoted a big segment of time to the energy crisis, and at one point somebody dropped a remark about the suburbs into a throw-away line. It went something like "... of course, one of the effects of the energy crisis will be the decline of the suburbs, ..."

I SUPPOSE what the guy was getting at was the conventional notion that the suburbs are totally dependent on the automobile, with mom lugging the kids to school and doing the shopping in one car and pop driving the other car back and forth to his job downtown.

With gas in short supply and increasingly expensive and with little public transportation, suburban dependency on the private automobile will inevitably lead to decline, or at least so goes the argument.

Locally, the theory has a few cute twists, such as the notion that the auto industry will from now on be in terrible trouble, thereby hurting the income base of Detroit suburbs. Some local theorists also have been making the argument that life in the suburbs will become so uncomfortable that hordes of people will now flock to live in the inner city of Detroit, thereby solving the city's problems at the expense of the suburbs.

Join school band and see the world

If you're old enough, you will recall the enlistment plea: "Join the Navy and see the world." Supposedly the lure of going abroad at the government's expense was something to quicken the pulse of a prospective volunteer, and maybe it actually worked.

"Today, however, it could well be rephrased to read: "Join your high school band and see the world." Several Observerland high schools offer immediate proof that travel itineraries are becoming as valuable to a musical conductor as the score of a stirring overture.

In the approaching summer, Redford Union and Thurston bands will be giving concerts in Europe. Garden City East is booked for appearances in Ireland, and Garden City West has Mexico City as its destination.

Plymouth already has sent its high school symphony orchestra to Chicago this winter. Over the last four years its band has had its triumphant moments in Chicago, the University of Mississippi and Pasadena, Calif., for the Tournament of Roses parade.

Whenever expeditions like these occur, our youngsters not only have exposure to cultures outside their own area but invariably find that marching alongside, so to speak, are other units from "back home," like maybe Traverse City, Three Rivers, Sturgis or Ann Arbor.

To this writer, this has been a wonderful development in our educational pattern - and also bespeaks what I long have thought to be one of Observerland's foremost interests, namely a love of music.

Development in recent months of the Oakway and Westland Symphonies to go with the already established Plymouth Symphony offers new release to the talents that abound within our communities. But that isn't all.

Our several colleges, our myriad of pre-high school bands and orchestras, our general community support of music is a healthy thing. If nothing else, it is a subconscious acceptance of the belief that in music one finds a common language that transcends all geographic boundaries and the artificial barriers of class distinction.

All this is being done, you understand, not out of the tax dollar you pay to the

MY REACTION to all this speculation can be summed up by a loud "phooey!"

1) The gas crisis will not last forever (assuming that there is, in fact, a crisis right now, which may or may not be true.) After a while, there will be plenty of gas available.

2) Almost surely, this gas will be more expensive than it has been in the past. So? So people in the suburbs will buy smaller cars with better gas mileage, and the percentage of disposable suburban family income spent on gas will be about what it is now.

3) There will be an effective mass transit system, even in the Detroit area, after a while. The state is now financing mass transit; the auto companies are for it; SEMCOG and the liberals are pushing it. After a few years, if pop has to get downtown to work, he'll be able to do so by mass transit buses or trains.

4) Increasingly, people who live in the suburbs are working in their home town or in a nearby suburb. The notion that the suburbs are merely bedroom communities with all the employment opportunities in the central city is simply false, as anyone can see in a quick drive along I-696 or Schoolcraft Road.

5) Local suburban depression caused by an auto industry collapse? Very doubtful. Edward Cole, GM's President, said this week that the corporation was producing 25 per cent more small cars this year than last, and I suspect that's only the start. Sure there are a lot of layoffs right now, but that's because the auto companies got caught with much more production capacity in big cars than public demand now warrants. That will be straightened out in a year or so, and after that everybody who owns a gas-guzzling monster is fair target for a sales pitch to buy a small, low mileage car. Result? A vast increase in auto sales, beginning I suspect in 1975, with perhaps 60 per cent of all automobiles then on the roads economically obsolete.

IT SEEMS to me that the anti-suburb theorists, most of whom do not live in the suburbs, have made a key mistake in predicting suburban gloom and doom.

They have confused the technology which originally made the suburbs possible (good roads, cheap gas, widespread automobile ownership) with the real reasons for living in the suburbs.

These reasons include good schools, single family housing in safe neighborhoods, trees and a back yard and a de-concentrated population pattern, and the chance to rear a family away from the concrete jungle of the center city.

None of these characteristics of suburban living are dependent for their existence on cheap gas or big cars. None will be eliminated by a continued energy crunch.

The suburbs are here to stay as an important part of the American scene. Our national challenge in the days of energy shortage is not to wish the suburbs out of existence, but rather to make both suburbs and center cities into clean, safe, healthy places in which people can freely choose to live.

Just follow tv commercials and ruin your happy life

If you take them seriously, TV commercials can ruin your life.

In case you are pooh-poohing my contention that the boob tube can be a deadly phenomenon, here are some glaring examples.

Try stretching your coffee break with Juicy Fruit gum and you'll be the first gum chewer on the unemployment line.

Use "Soft and Dry" anti-perspirant, Gillette hair spray for the dry look and Pampers for your baby's dry custom fitted bottoms. The wet head may be out along with damp armpits and soggy bottoms. But it's better than having all your skin fall off.

I gave my cold to Contac and got pneumonia. I came home to the lemony freshness of Fab and my husband walked out on me.

His parting shot was, "You never give me Nyquil and tell me to get into bed. The husband on TV gets some rest and he tells his wife he couldn't do without her."

The day before, he walked into the kitchen, started sniffing the mold and mildew and used a whole can of Lysol spray. Did I walk out? I took an Excedrin for my headache, a Repoz for my nerves and kicked the dog.

For a genuine slice of life, I often watch Marcos Welby speeding to the bedside of an Indian who stubbed his toe doing a rain dance. Close on Welby's hurried trail to the reservation is Dr. Kiley on his motorcycle wearing an anxious frown.

Fadeout: Commercial. A worried mother is taking her child's temperature, preparing to dose him with Bayer's orange flavored baby aspirin. She knows darn well her doctor doesn't make house calls. And it's pretty dumb of the kid to get sick on Wednesday.

The conflict between waiting for a Welby type medic to save your life and knowing in your heart that you can't get an appointment with your own doctor for two weeks when the hearse will drop you off at his office is really traumatic.

Your mother never told you about "Ultra-Brite" toothpaste because she obviously didn't think you could ever be too appealing anyway. That shattering experience alone is enough to send a gal to the funny farm.

Many an old maid is munching her way through a case of Certs waiting for a guy to kiss her once. In the meantime, she's putting on 10 pounds a week.

Think of all the lonely spinsters in the world going up and down elevators waiting for guys to hand them a can of Alpo, hanging around laundromats expecting some dingbat to share a box of Tide and hovering around supermarkets till the tall, dark, handsome man they saw on TV comes along to take their Clorox away.

It makes me want to cry only I don't know if I should use Puffs or Kleenex. Boutique with the green and yellow flowers.

How about the young single girl who is considering marriage? What kind of a romantic image does she get out of watching the housewife cleaning her bathroom bowl, unplugging the drain stopped up with coffee grounds, dog hairs, bubble gum and smelly grease, or racing to see if she can beat her TV opponent mop the filthy kitchen floor.

Let's take the mother-to-be. She sees a smiling mother singing away while her kid squeezes the toilet paper, another romping through the woods with her exquisite daughter - while both their blond tresses bounce in the breeze and still another dancing with joy while she serves her robust kids Lipton Cup - a - Soup. Is the pregnant gal in for a shock!

TV insults, bring back good ol' radio

EDITOR:

Who wants a radio revival? I do! I was brought up on imagination and am sorry most people today cannot exercise their "mental muscle" because of the "boob tube."

The golden age of radio and all of their characters have gone by the wayside. I'm glad nostalgia is trying to make a comeback.

As a kid, I hurried to finish my paper route to listen to "Superman," "Jack Armstrong" and "Captain Midnight." I wish I had all the decoder rings, pedometers, and badges I sent away for then. It was no rip-off, but I sure made the mailman mad each day I asked him if he had a package for me. Those pieces of nostalgia are worth hundreds of dollars today.

Reviewing all the greats (one of which you forgot - Fibber McCee and Molly), what they said then parallels today! How about "Hermit's Cave"? "Grand Central Station"?

As for commercials, they were nothing as compared to tv. Talk about insulting the intelligentsia. Television has done it! You have to ride a white horse to use Ajax; you don't dare squeeze rolls of toilet paper! Did you ever see an arm pop out of a washing machine? Or how about your dog chasing a miniature horse and covered wagon through the kitchen and then disappear into the cupboard. Peanut butter is sold by a "Gay Peter Pan" that falls out of a kitchen window.

Last but not least, there is one channel that has its lead newscaster shooting up the Wild West dressed all in white and of course rides a white horse.

Give me old time radio anytime. I'm sick of all the explicit violence on tv anyway.

Shovel those walks! Kinsolving story offends

EDITOR:

Considering today's gasoline shortage, and since we are urged to reduce our driving, it seems that residents of Westland would exert extra effort to keep the sidewalks in front of their homes free of snow.

For those who do not voluntarily clean their walks, the city ordinance requiring sidewalks to be cleared with 24 hours after the snow stops should be enforced. More of us are walking instead of driving.

But since the recent snowfalls, walking has become too hazardous. About two-thirds of the sidewalks in my area (Avondale - Merriman) have not been cleared.

By the way, shoveling helps keep you warm.

Shovel snow, before freeze

EDITOR:

Detroit and suburbs have been hit with two large snowstorms within the last month (how could one forget!) The last one brought to mind a way of helping others and in the process ourselves.

If homeowners, renters, sons, daughters or whoever would shovel out the section of street in front of their homes before the snow freezes, crusts and ruts, then as two cars approach each other in the center rut, a shoveled space would be available to maneuver.

Pushing autos may be fun but very tiring (also snow shoveling, hire a young person). Now you say Ha! not me - that is a public worker's responsibility. Well, each time I pulled into a shoveled space, I mentally thanked whoever was responsible. Maybe you also have used such a space and never gave it a second thought as you drove on home, dry and comfortable and unstuck!

Also, most Livonians have side drives, yet I observe a lot of street parked cars plowed in. If the driver had pulled into the drive during the worst of the storm, I'm sure a lot of extra work would have been eliminated, not to mention hit - run accidents (freeze of Dec. 21 - 22)!

Law erodes our freedom

EDITOR:

Can I sue Ralph Nader if I have a heart attack?

Recently we leased a '74 Maverick when our family car was unavailable to us. My morning route to work includes driving an obese, elderly parent to an adult day care nursing center. I was really hit by the seat belt "thing" when I found this car could not be started without the BUZZZ unless both of us were firmly belted.

Not being able to reach across my passenger to fasten the belt, the procedure is to pull the belt to its maximum, ask the passenger to keep it taut while I dash around the car so I can grab it and fasten. But when I get around the car, the belt has slipped back a fatal six inches because the elderly parent hasn't the strength to keep it taut.

In six degree weather, I made three rear-end dashes before we finally got that belt fastened.

While this is only one isolated instance of extreme inconvenience, it illustrates my point. I'm all for seat belts and our family does buckle up. However, I feel it is wrong that our right to choose to belt or not to belt has been legislated away from us. This is another instance of Big Brother - ism which erodes away personal freedom.

I plan to write to every legislator in Michigan. Join me, anyone? FLORENCE M. CONRAD

Indians had fine Christmas

EDITOR:

Mrs. Hank Chruscial gave me your newspapers' name as a great helper in acquiring the shipment of clothes, toys and candy for our Indian mission children and grownups, too. Thank you very much for your part.

Please thank the two stores which helped and wish to remain anonymous as well as all individual donors. May God bless and reward all of you. You made the children very happy.

We delivered a large box filled with gifts on Dec. 22 and then had a Christmas party at the church on Dec. 23. At this, each child received a grocery bag filled with the smaller goodies.

The children said to thank all of you, too!

She missed chance to help

EDITOR:

Around 2 a.m. New Year's Day, I was awakened by the doorbell being rung over and over again. Because I was not expecting anyone at that hour, I did not answer it.

We have a large, windowed porch on the front of the house, and as I stood by the door, afraid to answer and wondering who was out there, I heard the person leave the outer porch, then saw him run across the yard and down the road. I looked in the direction he was running and saw two cars, one sitting crosswise in the road and the other at the ditch. To my great relief, a police car was approaching the scene.

I sat at the window and watched the police direct traffic, saw a rescue squad vehicle arrive and leave. I stayed there until two wreckers came and towed the cars away. One passed in front of the house, and I could see how badly the car was damaged.

All the while I watched, I wondered how badly anyone had been hurt. I felt very guilty (in fact, sick to my stomach) for not having answered my door and offering help. At the time, that person was frantically ringing my doorbell, he didn't know help was on its way, and I wonder what was going through his mind.

I want to say to him: "I had a chance to help a fellow man, and I let fear get in my way. I am sorry. Please forgive me."

Experts to explore cable TV questions

PLYMOUTH
what is this thing called
"Cable?"

Although franchises for cable television have been granted by the City of Plymouth and Canton Township, the unlimited possibilities and responsibilities that cable television offers are unexplored.

Cable's potential ranges far beyond mere improved video reception.

By law, cable television must provide public access stations which would probably include local programming of governmental and school board meetings, educational course work, local shopping information and more.

Those potentials for the new local medium will be discussed Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Plymouth branch of the American Assn. of University Women's general public meeting at West Middle School, Ann Arbor Trail at Sheldon Road.

A panel of four experts will discuss how cable television could affect Plymouth and Canton Township.

Speakers at the meeting will be: Howard Sharpley, president of the Michigan Cable Television Assn. (MCTA) and an executive with Alden Inc., the company which has been granted Plymouth's cable franchise; James Brian, who directs programming for Ann Arbor's cable television station and a MCTA officer; Mary Godfrey, Plymouth - Salem High School communications teacher and manager of WSDP, the high school radio station; and Charles Lowe, attorney for the City of Plymouth.

THE SENIOR CITIZENS Club of Plymouth installed its officers for the new year at its annual meeting. From left to right they are: Walter Fletcher, treasurer; Ann Haag, first vice president; Kenneth Truesdell, second vice president; Edward Groesjean, president; and Winnifred Downing, secretary.

Liquor licenses make fine local political toys

Wherever did government get the idea it should regulate and license the sale of liquor, beer and wine?

It must have been in England. On the rest of The Continent, kids sell wine on street corners like they sell Kool-Aid here.

Why did the Americans choose to continue the British licensing tradition?

Perhaps it was because those in power felt obligated to protect the people from the "menace" liquor poses, or because licensing spirits is a source of revenue (above and below the board), or because it's a good plaything on which the government can flex its muscles.

A plaything?

The licensing of spirits - we won't even get into how ludicrous the whole thing is - is one of the greatest political toys ever given to local governments.

This does not exclude the federal and state governments from the situation. They've got their hands in the grab bag too - but with the Defense Department and income taxes, they've got bigger political toys.

Not that there's anything wrong with occasional playing around by governments; it's just that after awhile, they get attached to their toys. Then they are continually searching for justification to keep toying with them.

From there it's but a short step to the situation we've got where our local governments use their allotted liquor licenses as blackmail to "mold" their communities towards a "higher" class.

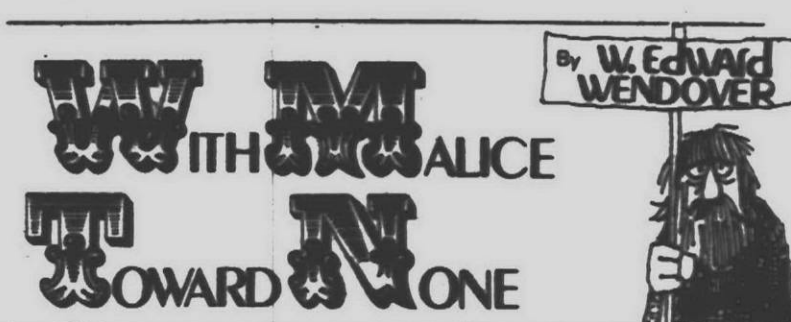

Since there are a limited number of licenses to be awarded, local governments have the tendency to sit on them until some "high" class hotel - restaurant - pub is proposed by a big developer.

That means that if you like a beer with your hot dog at the local Coney Island, you're out of luck. The liquor licenses are reserved for places where the menu starts at $6 for a bowl of chili (which Columbus recently had to pay).

It's difficult to place the blame for that kind of liquor license policy. Does it stem from local governments' desire for higher tax base (thus ritzier places) or from the state's limitation of the number of licenses?

If licenses were unlimited, maybe our city commission and township boards wouldn't be so picky about who gets them.

Take Plymouth Township for example. Where are the liquor licenses? In nice, posh places like the Hillside Inn, the Thunderbird Hilton (two licenses there), the Ann Arbor Road House (a sign on its door says, "Proper attire please").

Then there's the former Lofy license, which will now be transferred to another posh - type restaurant.

True, the township has a couple licenses allotted to bowling alleys - a small inconsistency suffered to attract the higher tax base the bowling establishments represent.

In Canton Township, which has just one license yet to give out, they've got a couple beer gardens where we common folk can feel at ease if we're not "properly attired."

The city has its Box Bar too - another place where they've never heard of a six dollar item on the menu.

But look for things to get tougher in the city now - they're going to ask for more information from applicants.

Feeling it's been stung by the long delay in getting its latest license transformed into a posh place - if such a thing can be made from the former Consumer Discount store on Forest Avenue - the city of Plymouth is revising its policy on liquor licenses.

The fine line between being tough on issuing licenses and being discriminatory about who gets them must be trod by every township board and city commission.

Asking a lot of background information about those requesting licenses isn't discriminatory but turning down someone because his proposed place isn't "high class" enough is. In Plymouth Township they just add "less desirable" applicants to the long list.

If our boards or commission wait until some developer promises pie - in - the - sky in return for a license, we're liable to end up with another Thunderbird - Hilton which has been stalled by money troubles. Management did get the liquor - license parts into operation, however.

As the big spenders push their way into the liquor license line with nothing more than an option on a piece of property and a drawing in their hands, the guy who's been operating a hot dog place for a couple years can't even get the time of day.

How special students run high school's cafe

By CORINNE ABATT

PLYMOUTH The sign on the door of the luncheon cafe in Plymouth-Canton High School says "Happy Room."

From 10:30 to 12:30 p.m. every Tuesday and Thursday, it is.

The line of teachers and administrators waiting to get into the little restaurant often stretches back into the hall. Those waiting know what's in store — a pleasant atmosphere with six or eight tables with bright red and white tablecloths, an appetizing choice of soups, fresh salads, sandwiches or entree, lively conversation and excellent service.

The neatly attired waitresses and waiters never forget to ask if you would like more coffee or ice water. They check regularly with the question, "Is everything alright?" Creme garlic dressing for the lettuce salad bowl is 10 cents extra. Italian is included in the salad price. Second and third cups of coffee are on the house.

The twice-a-week lunch program is the brainchild of Mrs. Sally DeRoo, one of two special education teachers at the school. The other is Patrick O'Donnell.

All of those working on the project are what Mrs. DeRoo and O'Donnell prefer to call "exceptional students." They are between 14 and 18 years old and each has a particular learning disability — physical, emotional or cultural.

Under the guidance of their teacher, they plan the menus, purchase and prepare the food, handle the food service and maintain the account books. Not long ago, it was decided that a dishwasher was needed. "Every one of my students could tell you exactly how many payments have been made and exactly how much we still owe," Mrs. DeRoo says.

Banners

PLYMOUTH Mrs. Grace Gordon Hay will present a program on her historical colonial banners at the January meeting of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, DAR.

Mrs. Robert Rosbolt of Plymouth will be hostess for the noon luncheon on Jan. 21.

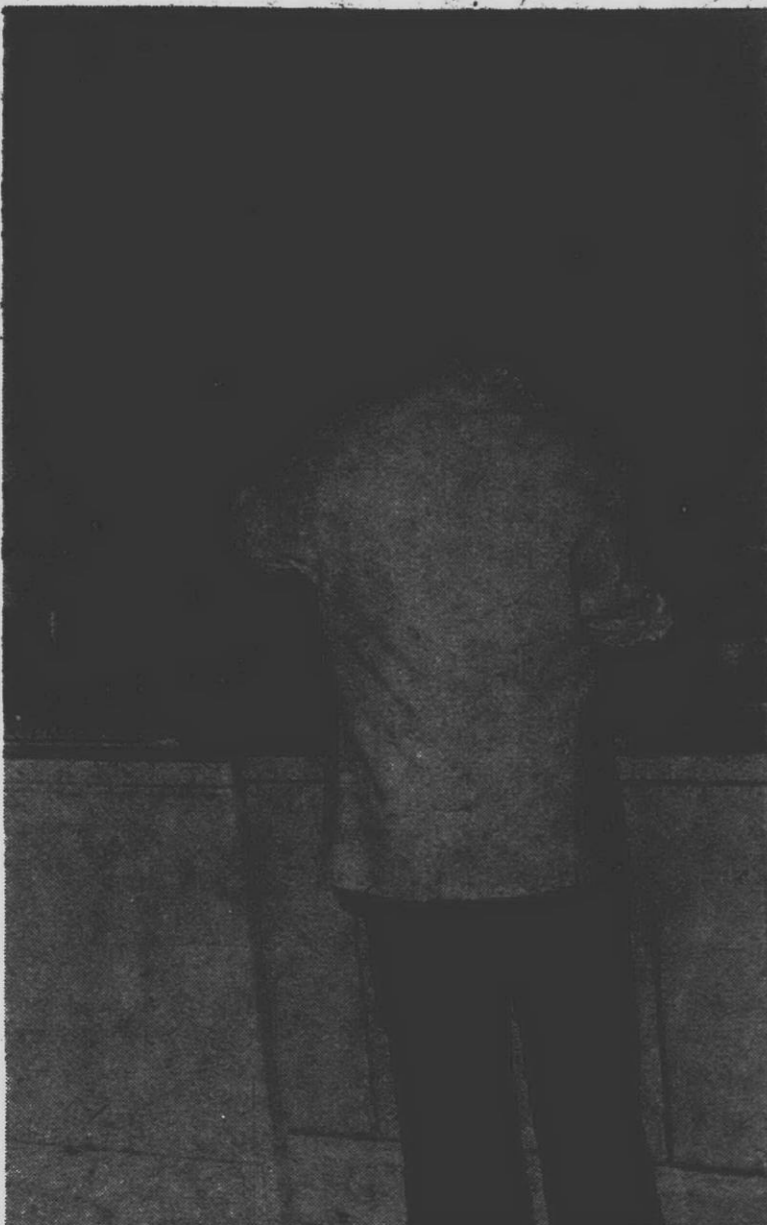

Mrs. Hay will include stories of the origin of the banners along with her descriptions. She also will have a variety of flags suitable for the coming national bicentennial available for purchase at the meeting.

AARP hosting photo talk, film

PLYMOUTH The Plymouth-Northville chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will meet Wednesday, Jan. 23, in the Plymouth Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall.

Interest groups meet at 10 a.m. with a discussion of photography by Warren Bain, a chapter member. A noon potluck luncheon will be followed by a short business meeting at 1 p.m.

A concluding program will feature a speaker from the Better Business Bureau, Mrs. Guy Kropp. She will present a film on buyer protection.

EXPERIENCE AND MRS. SALLY DEROO are the teachers in the Plymouth-Canton high school cafe. Students learn by doing all of the jobs from cook and cashier to janitor and busboy. The proof of success is in the long lines of teachers who wait patiently to get into the picturesque luncheon. (Photo by Maurie Walker)

Like the pieces of a jig saw puzzle, all of these experiences fit into a total concept which Mrs. DeRoo and O'Donnell have formulated about education for exceptional students.

For a long time both had felt that vocational training was very important for these young people, but the written and spoken word, in other words reading and talking about careers, was having very little effect.

"We both agreed we needed to do something different," O'Donnell comments.

They had a number of objectives in mind. For one, they wanted to create a situation which would build social relationships among the students themselves. Then, they wanted to give the regular classroom teachers a chance to get another perspective of the exceptional youngsters.

The reason behind that is a hope that some of them could be moved into the regular vocational education classes.

The luncheon opened early this year as a pilot project and has been picking up customers steadily ever since.

Mrs. DeRoo collapsed in a chair in O'Donnell's office at 12:45 p.m. last Tuesday. "Do you realize we just fed 57 people. There isn't a bite of food left in the place."

"We have a luncheon to cater on Thursday and we'll have to shop for everything." Until then 40 had been about average for the lunch crowd.

The two teachers plan their teaching in clusters. Students in the lunch program will be learning about food, food service, money, banking, economics and budgeting in class. It amounts to having both theory and practice.

In the meantime, O'Donnell got the green light from auto lab instructor, Timothy Gould, to have some of O'Donnell's boys in his class.

O'Donnell took the class right along with them. He worked extra hours with them, so that each week they were getting about five more hours than the rest.

This opened a whole new area and O'Donnell saw an opportunity and grabbed it. He and his group offered to take full charge of maintaining the tools and implements on the Rotary-School farm.

"All of the things we learned in the lab carried right over. As soon as we began working on the timing on the tractors or fixing the linkage on a spreader, they could see the carry over. Now, we're fixing the shed and doing some wiring."

These tie in with other vocational areas such as shop and welding.

Since the teachers first planned what at the time were avant garde techniques for teaching occupational and vocational skills for their youngsters, a lot has been happening.

Eastern Michigan University has just completed research on the same idea. The study outlines the cluster technique for 10 major career areas for exceptional students. O'Donnell is hoping the university people may pilot some of them at his school.

He and Mrs. DeRoo are also planning to do some video tapes on jobs and job training.

As he speaks of the theory behind the video tapes, Mrs. DeRoo comes into the office to tell him about the dessert which the students dreamed up for the catered luncheon — a mound of vanilla ice cream topped with strawberry sauce and a green cherry — a Christmas tree sundae.

m. m. memos

"Don't forget my jeans—I'm desperate," my daughter warned me as I was heading for a visit to her university sophomore sister who had by mistake taken an extra pair back to school after her Christmas stay at home.

I didn't forget the jeans, and her desperation was alleviated for the time being. When it comes to jeans, my desperation just goes on.

I've mentioned before, I'm sure, my problems with sizing these favorite items of wearing apparel. I also find most frustrating their short life-span.

It seems that by the time they are really suitable for regular wear, they are almost beyond it.

The ones I had to rescue from the dormitory were replacements for a pair bought only a couple of months earlier. Miraculously, they fit pretty well from the start, but began life so stiff they had to be washed several times to be wearable.

Then once they reached that state they were worn so constantly that the seams were fast wearing out, so the Christmas jeans, launched immediately into the softening program, were really needed.

Our youngest recently gave up on a beloved pair that had started the school year with her and were beautifully mellowed. She didn't mind a bit that they were frayed at the bottom and the seams split and had to be resewn every time they were washed.

What caused her to put them away sadly was the fact that she had grown enough so that the hip-huggers hugged at level lower than the hip and, when you get right down to it, didn't hug very well at all.

I guess I should consider myself lucky though, because in our family the aging of jeans is allowed to run its natural course.

I heard about one poor mother who found her son operating on the bottom hemline of his jeans with her electric blender.

Surely, he explained, she didn't expect him to be caught by his contemporaries in jeans that didn't look worn out.

How to enjoy roses in winter

BY MARGARET MILLER

Get out your scissors, flower lovers. This is one newspaper story you're sure to clip and save in a spot right next to the seed catalogues you pore over these winter days.

For the advice Mrs. Jack Wion of Livonia can offer has to do with a project you can begin right now, continue full speed ahead during the flower-filled summer months and then reap and enjoy when cold closes in again.

What's more, if you go in for rose pot-pourris as Sue Wion has done, you'll be right in step with the ecological trend back to the natural and away from the synthetic.

Mrs. Wion not only dries roses and other flowers and turns them into sweet-smelling gifts, but she also uses the flower mixture instead of perfume in a spray can to give the rooms and closets in her home a pleasant fragrance.

"It's an old-fashioned idea," she said, "but I think people are becoming more and more interested in getting away from the synthetics of today."

Rose petals, dried carefully and mixed with assorted spices, can be kept in a tightly covered container, Mrs. Wion said.

"You can take the cover off for a little while each day," she explained, "and it makes a nice fragrance. But don't leave the cover off too long, or the humidity will cause the pot-pourri to spoil."

Mrs. Wion, a member of the Federated Garden Club of Livonia, took her ideas on pot-pourris to the club's first meeting of the new year.

She had mixed pot-pourri from petals and tiny rosebuds members had helped collect, and the workshop project for the meeting was turning the mixture into sachets that will be used as Valentine's Day gifts for residents of the Ardmore Nursing Home. The garden club has sponsored several activities for the home on Farmington Road south of Eight Mile over the past year.

The sachets were made from seven-inch squares of illusion net and tied with red velvet ribbons.

Gathering the rose petals for the pot-pourri probably could start during the winter with hot-house bouquets.

Sue Wion prefers to work with garden roses just as they are opening because "the fragrance is best then."

Petals should be dried thoroughly by spreading them on a cookie sheet and leaving them in a dry place—the attic, maybe. Mrs. Wion uses her gas oven with only the pilot light going.

Other flowers can be dried, too, to give the rose pot-pourri more color without changing the fragrance much, Mrs. Wion said. She listed carnations and pinks, coreopsis, yellow marigolds, delphinium and Johnny jump-ups. "They are the miniature violas and they work out well dried whole," she added.

Mrs. Wion doesn't use white rose petals. "They turn brown, and I like to put my pot-pourri in jars," she explained. "Of course, if you are wrapping them for sachets it doesn't matter."

She also dries lemon, orange and tangerine peel to add.

Then there are the spices, of which most recipes list cinnamon sticks and whole cloves.

"Beyond that, it's a matter of taste," Mrs. Wion said. "Recipes I've seen call for nutmeg, allspice and other things. Orris root often is listed, but it's hard to get locally and I usually leave it out."

Mrs. Wion grows lavender in her garden and puts it into some of the pot-pourris she makes. "The scent is quite strong, though," she said, "so don't add it unless you like it."

All the ingredients should be stirred together about two weeks before packaging in jars or sachets.

Sue Wion made her first batch of rose pot-pourri about four years ago.

Rose pot - pourri

1 quart dried rose petals
1/2 cup dried rose buds
1 ounce orris powder
1 tablespoon ground mace
2 tablespoons whole cloves
1 vanilla bean (broken into small pieces)
1 tablespoon whole cardamon in pods (crushed)
2 sticks cinnamon (crushed)
20 drops oil of orange
Combine rose petals and rosebuds with orris. Lightly mix with hands or wooden fork and spoon in a large bowl. Blend mace, cloves, vanilla bean, cardamon and cinnamon separately and add to rose mix. Blend well. Drop orange oil over mix and stir gently. Place in jars with tight-fitting lids or double plastic bags and store unopened for at least two weeks before using.

THE NEW HOME of the YWCA of Western Wayne County is located at 26279 Michigan, between Beech-Daly and John Daly Roads in Inkster.

For Western Wayne YWCA

New home nearly ready

BY MARGARET MILLER

The YWCA of Western Wayne County will be moving soon into a roomy new building as practical and functional as its community-oriented program.

And, because costs go up and the opportunity to build in more space presented itself, the YW also is launching a campaign to raise $50,000 for finishing and furnishing.

The YW staff showed off its new home at 26279 Michigan, Inkster, to the press last Friday.

"A couple of years ago we invited you to stand in the woods and have coffee on our new site," Mrs. Corinne Vincent, executive director, reminisced after visitors had walked through three floors of meeting rooms and lounge spaces.

"Now we have the building, and we can serve you coffee again, but you notice we're still standing."

Mrs. Vincent explained that the new building, funded with a $500,000 grant from the United Foundations Capital Funds Division in 1970 and built on land purchased and paid for earlier by the Western Wayne YW, originally was designed with two stories.

"But when the construction work was started, we found we had to excavate for the heating and air-conditioning systems, so we decided then to change our plans and excavate a full basement," Mrs. Vincent added.

"Although it added to construction costs, it gives us a third more usable space, and we feel it was a good move."

The drive for additional funds, to be headed by Mrs. Mary Martini of Dearborn, will finance completion of the building interior, cabinetry and kitchen equipment, landscaping and outdoor identification, and furnishing and equipping offices, lounges and meeting rooms. A large portion of these would have been covered by the original grant except for the decision to add the basement space.

Mrs. Martini said the request for funds is a

Plymouth author

Favorite anecdotes in new book

By ELINOR GRAHAM

Elizabeth Betts Urquhart of Plymouth has had her first book published, and her friends are delighted. One of their favorite persons suddenly has become one of their favorite authors.

Little anecdotes about Betty Urquhart's childhood, as the daughter of an often-moved Methodist minister, have been a source of enjoyment over the years. Now they have been assembled in "Dig Weeds, My Son" (The Naylor Co., $4.95) soon to be available in book stores across the country.

Mrs. Urquhart received her first copy of her book Christmas Eve. The flyleaf had been autographed by all the staff members of the Texas publishing house. Since June, when her manuscript was accepted, there had been a steady exchange of correspondence, telephone calls, galley proofs etc. between Plymouth and San Antonio.

More copies arrived and the word spread, "Betty has written a book!"

Last week a group of friends in Saginaw had a get-together to honor the author. This afternoon, Mrs. Alvin Folger and Mrs. Raymond Doty are hosting a ### disease study

The Notre Dame Council 3021 of the Knights of Columbus is sponsoring a bingo game with all proceeds going toward research for retinitis pigmentosa, a genetic eye disease which leads to blindness.

The bingo game will be held Saturday, Jan. 19, at 5 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall, 35100 Van Born Rd., Wayne.

Quickie games start at 6:45 p.m. Refreshments will be available.

"meet the author" party in Mrs. Folger's home in Plymouth.

Mrs. Wayne Dunlap, a former Plymouth resident, wrote from her home near Grand Rapids, "I stayed up and read your book after I got home. I laughed so hard, the dog thought I was having a fit."

The Urquharts' nine-year-old grandson sent a note congratulating his grandmother. He said, "The part I liked best was 'Slap 'em in the face! Kick 'em in the jaw! Send 'em to the cemetery! Rah-Rah-Rah.'"

"Dig Weeds, My Son" is a family chronicle. She records her memories of growing up as a PK (preacher's kid), the 13th of a strict southern minister's 16 children.

Mrs. Urquhart chose the title because, she explains, "Papa's whole life seemed based on that idea both literally and figuratively."

Hating inactivity, he would send an idle boy to the garden to pull up weeds. Above all, she writes, he was a hard taskmaster.

Wherever they moved, although it was usually only for one year, Papa planted a garden ("with slave labor," the boys commented). Once, seeing the boys using pick-axes to break the hard Texas soil, their mother complained that they looked like convicts.

Slimnastics

WESTLAND Women worrying about their weight will have a possible solution to their problem at the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA.

The Y is offering a slimmastics class for women starting at 7 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) at the Y activities center, 827 S. Wayne, Westland.

The one-hour class includes music and dance movements to get muscles toned up, a Y spokesman said.

An 1880 philosophy graduate of the University of North Carolina, Papa entered the ministry soon after his marriage to Lillie Wadsworth, who died after giving birth to her sixth child.

Later he married Lula Frances Young, who was 19 years his junior and trained as a concert pianist. She became a successful mother for the minister's children, even though the oldest was only six years younger than she.

She had 10 children of her own, two dying in infancy. Mrs. Urquhart remembers her mother, whose gentleness and kindness complemented Papa's harshness with love and respect. Despite having to move her brood almost every year, Mama rarely complained.

The author remembers once, however, the children asked Mama what she would like for her birthday. She responded, "Just a little peace and quiet."

Far from being subdued by Papa's rigorous discipline, the children were spirited and mischievous. Whenever Papa went out of town, they enjoyed unusual freedom. The parishioners cooperated by warning them the moment Papa arrived back in town.

As adults, the children retained strong ties of family loyalty that stemmed from their childhood.

The older brothers and sisters helped the younger. Mrs.

BETTY URQUHART AUTOGRAPHS a copy of "Dig Weeds, My Son" for Mrs. Alvin Folger of Plymouth. Mrs. Urquhart's newly published book tells of her childhood as the 13th child in a Methodist minister's family of 16 PKs (preacher's kids). (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

Urquhart remembers fondly her sister, Lillie, who took her "under her wing" and saw to it that she received a degree in nursing from the University of Michigan. The children were successful in their careers as nurses, missionaries, teachers, attorneys and physicians.

The author and her businessman husband, Donald S. Urquhart, are parents of a son and grandparents of two nine-year-old boys (twins) and two girls.

Grant to expand work of cancer foundation

The Michigan Cancer Foundation has received a $361,000 contract from the National Cancer Institute to expand cancer information and reporting systems and establish communication links to local, state and national health organizations.

The National Cancer Institute is an agency of the federal government's department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

"This contract makes it possible for us to expand and refine our research, information and statistical data," said Dr. Michael J. Brennan, president of the Michigan Cancer Foundation (MCF).

MCF is a Torch Drive agency serving Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Monroe Counties.

Dr. Brennan said MCF staff will be sending the National Cancer Institute data that will be computerized on magnetic tapes. Information will be coded and in a format established for nationwide reporting.

MCF is one of a half dozen agencies in the country currently funded under this project, called the Surveillance Epidemiology and End Results (SEER) program.

The cancer registry department of the Michigan Cancer Foundation will administer the SEER project.

Some 80 hospitals in the metropolitan area will receive data on metropolitan-area cancer incidence, causes, cures and treatment results.

Of these 80 hospitals, 21 participating in a central-clearinghouse registry service, established by the Cancer Foundation in 1972, will continue to receive individualized "biostatistical analyses of 'in-house' or institutional data for use in medical staff training and clinical cancer investigations.

Quarterly computerized cancer data reports will be sent to these hospitals. The 21 participating hospitals will be able to compare their results and findings with those of leading centers throughout the nation.

"The additional information and data these 21 hospitals will receive through participation in the Cancer Foundation central registry service will enable them to provide better training for new physicians," Dr. Brennan said.

"Also, this additional data will help the hospitals meet the highest certification requirements for quality cancer care."

Dr. Brennan said the goal of the registry service is to involve all hospitals in a unified program to establish the broad data base needed for measuring the effectiveness of diagnosis, treatment and prevention of cancer.

Consolidated data can be useful in identifying high-risk patients, determining the most effective course of treatment and isolating factors which influence the spread and control of the disease.

"Accumulating data from the experiences of a large number of hospitals is crucial to documenting causes and treatment results for less common forms of the disease such as leukemia and cancer in children and young adults," Dr. Brennan said.

"The role of personal habits, life style, occupation and environment in cancer risk can't adequately be analyzed without dealing with entire populations in a regional framework."

Experienced technical staff and proper data processing and computer programming are essential to this analysis, he said.

Huffs wed 70 years

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben H. Huff, parents of Mrs. George Kazen of Plymouth, celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary Jan. 9.

Married in 1904 in Bancroft, Mich., they now make their home in Ellenton, Fla. They spent two months with Mrs. Kazen this summer, but were anxious to get back to Florida "before it snows."

Mrs. Kazen said her parents have their own home and both get about unassisted and see well. Mrs. Huff, 89, grocery shops regularly with her son, Richard Huff, also of Ellenton. The elder Mr. Huff is 93.

Two other daughters are Mrs. David J. Griffith of Northville and Mrs. Clarence Campbell of Lennon, Mich. There are 16 grandchildren, 39 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

As an introduction, "What It's Like to be an Adult Woman Student," will be offered Jan. 28, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Center for Continuing Education of Women, 330 Thompson, Ann Arbor.

The informal discussion will cover women who are returning to school or making their plans. All interested women and men are welcome.

The center has also planned three opportunities for returning to school. "Refreshing Student Skills" is arranged in cooperation with the university's reading and learning skills center to help update student reading, writing and study skills and habits.

The first program will be Speed Reading offered in five sessions, meeting on Wednesday evenings, Jan. 23 through 30.

It will focus on increasing reading rate, comprehension and flexibility in reading different kinds of materials.

Written Communication will be offered Tuesday evenings, Feb. 5 through 26.

All sessions will be 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Reading and Learning Skills Center.

MR. AND MRS. GRANT G. FISCHER
(Bonnie Lea Bryant)

Fischer-Bryant vows are spoken

Matching gold wedding rings fashioned by the bridegroom were exchanged by Bonnie Lea Bryant and Grant G. Fischer when they repeated their marriage vows in Newburg United Methodist Church recently.

The couple had worked together to design the rings.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thomas Bryant of Golfview Drive, Livonia, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Fischer of Ridge Road, Plymouth. The Rev. William A. Ritter officiated for the candlelight ceremony.

The bride wore an ivory satin organza gown with cluny and daisy venice lace on the bodice, full skirt and long, fitted sleeves. A lace-trimmed juliet cap held her three-tier silk illusion veil.

Nanette Bryant, the bride's sister and maid of honor, wore a cranberry velvet dress with a matching juliet headpiece, and Mrs. Deborah Bechard of Montreal, the bridesmaid, was similarly dressed in green velvet. Both carried red carnations and holly leaves.

The reception for 150 guests was held in the Mayflower Meeting House, and the couple honeymooned in Europe, visiting London, Italy and Spain. They will live in Plymouth.

The new Mrs. Fischer is a 1970 graduate of Stevenson High School and will graduate this year from Schoolcraft College. Her husband graduated from Plymouth High School in 1965 and from Eastern Michigan University in 1970.

YWCA

"one-time thing" so that the new building can be best used in the shortest possible time.

The new building is not designed to house all Western Wayne YWCA programs any more than the old headquarters at 1034 Monroe, Dearborn, has done, Mrs. Vincent emphasized.

"We have a decentralized program," with programs particularly fitting the needs of the communities we serve: Livonia, Garden City, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Westland, Wayne, Inkster, Romulus and Taylor," she said.

"We intend to remain decentralized, keeping classes and meetings in local churches, community centers and homes."

"But these new facilities will permit a coming together of membership for county-wide activities."

Rites held in St. Michael

St. Michael Catholic Church in Livonia was the setting for the recent wedding of Frances Anne Campbell and Michael John Mott.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter John Campbell of West Chicago Avenue, Livonia, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle R. Mott of Dover Avenue, Livonia, are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Andrew J. Forish officiated, and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

Her bridal gown was silk crepe with a satin bodice and alencon lace and pearl trim. A matching lace-trimmed headpiece held her mantilla veil and she carried a cascade of red roses, white carnations and baby's breath tied with red velvet streamers.

Betty Lamb of Ann Arbor, the bride's cousin, was matron of honor. She wore a green satin gown printed with red velvet roses.

The bridesmaids were Cheryl Downing of Lathrup Village, Grace Mott of Livonia, sister of the bridegroom, and Lt. Janet Snyder of the U.S. Air Force.

They wore solid green satin dresses with red velvet sashes. All the attendants carried candles.

Sylvan Amos of Midland was best man. The ushers were Ronald Brevik of Detroit, William Mott of Livonia, brother of the bridegroom, and Thomas Griffiths III of Lansing.

The couple greeted 150 guests at a reception in the Knights of Columbus Hall in Garden City before leaving on a honeymoon in the Bahamas.

Retardates' home to be COC topic

At its annual meeting tonight (Wednesday), the Community Opportunities Center (COC) will discuss its projected home for retarded adults in Plymouth and plans for a similar facility in Livonia or Northville Township.

The Plymouth project, which will house about 16 retarded adults who will work in jobs in the community, has already been approved by the city and now awaits final approval by the state of Michigan.

Funds from a $35,000 house donated to the COC by a Livonia resident can be used to begin work on the Plymouth facility and the second one in this area, a COC spokesman said.

In addition to discussing these projects, the COC annual meeting will include elections of new officers. It will be held at 8 p.m. in the Cooper School Annex, Ann Arbor Trail at Middle Belt.

SC courses define women's world

Four new courses focusing on the changing roles and concerns of women will be offered by Schoolcraft College this winter.

The courses, announced by Nancy Dufour who heads the women's continuum program conducted by Schoolcraft's community services office, are "Women and the Law," "The Money-Wise Woman," "Protection Against Rape," and "Images of Women in Literature."

Two popular courses for women which were introduced last term will be repeated: "Women's Reading and Study Skills Refresher" and "Women: Joy in the Middle Years." Additional new courses which Mrs. Dufour strongly recommends for women are: "Basic Auto Maintenance" and "Self-Defense."

Registration for these courses may be completed by mail until Jan. 25 or in person at the registrar's office from Jan. 28, until the second meeting of each class. Classes will begin during the week of Feb. 18.

Tuition for persons residing within the college district is $11 per course. Courses scheduled to meet less than eight weeks have a reduced tuition rate. Out-of-district students pay double the amount specified.

"Women and the Law" will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. on eight Tuesday evenings beginning Feb. 19.

Some of the areas of law to be covered in this course include: employment laws, marriage, divorce and family laws, wills, estate and property laws and laws concerning social security, pensions, education, child care and equal rights. The course will be taught by Marie Miller, an assistant prosecuting attorney for Wayne County.

"The Money-Wise Woman" will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on four Wednesday evenings beginning Feb. 20.

Specific areas to be covered include record keeping, budgets, credit, taxes, individual net worth, balance sheet, investments and planning for retirement. It will be taught by Jean Budd, an accountant, with the assistance of speakers from the American Society of Women Accountants.

"Protection Against Rape" will meet on three Thursday evenings from 7:00-9:40 p.m. beginning Feb. 21.

It will be taught by Dorothy Gay, the recently retired former director of the women's division of the Detroit Police Department. Ms. Gay has had more than 25 years of experience in police work.

"Images of Women in Literature" will meet on 12 Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning Feb. 21.

"Women: Joy in the Middle Years" will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. on eight Thursday afternoons beginning Feb. 21. Designed to increase awareness of the physical, psychological and lifestyle changes brought about in women by the aging process, it will focus on the adjustments required of women in this society as they move away from their early role of full-time wife and mother.

"Women's Reading and Study Skills Refresher" will meet on eight Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning Feb. 20.

"Basic Auto Maintenance" will meet on eight Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning Feb. 20. "Self-Defense" will be held on sixteen Saturday afternoons from 12:30-2 p.m. beginning Feb. 23.

All of the above courses will be held on Schoolcraft's main campus at 18600 Hagerty, Livonia.

few Fiegel students. Following the ribbon cutting, Lucy Gunnarsson, former crossing guard in front of the school, leads David Eblen and Jeff Rowe across the pedestrian bridge. (Observer photos by Bob Woodring and Maurie Walker)

DAN HOUGH (center) joined the Canton Lions Club recently and thereby became the 20,000th lion in Michigan—a state record for that service organization. Hough, who lives at 38356 N. ## The Stroller:

'We have no sacred cows'

One of the first things a young fellow is told when he embarks on a career in journalism is that he will have untold opportunities to meet many interesting people in all walks of life.

Well, in a few more weeks, The Stroller will be rounding out a half century along the journalistic trails and he can not only vouch for the truth of that statement but, as he looks back, one of the most interesting characters he met along the way was the old editor who gave him his start.

He was a kindly soul, the last of the brown derby clan of the '20s. He never could be seen without the brown derby. It was his trademark. He even wore it while working at his desk.

He was shrewd in a journalistic sense and some of the lessons he taught us have lived through the years with The Stroller.

One of the things he emphasized from the start was that there should be no "sacred cows," or favorites, in the newspaper business. It was his firm belief that all news worth printing should be printed, regardless of whom it concerned.

One evening he gave us a real lesson. His son had been involved in an auto accident. When the old editor reached the office he asked what was being done with the story.

He was told that nothing had been done — that we were waiting for him.

Angered, he went to his office, wrote the story in which he severely criticized his son and returned to the city desk.

"Here," he said, "run this with a picture and place it on the front page. That will show our readers that no one is spared in printing the news."

It was a lesson The Stroller never forgot.

Another fond remembrance concerned a time when the editor wrote a scathing denunciation of the city council and a headline reading "Half the City Council is Crazy."

Naturally, the city fathers stormed the office in protest. After listening to them he told them that he would read his notes again and if an apology was deemed fit, he would gladly apologize.

The next morning when the paper appeared there was another story concerning the city council and the headline read: "Half the City Council Isn't Crazy."

That's the kind of a fellow he was — a character never to be forgotten.

Years later, The Stroller came in contact with another of these interesting editors. He was a tall, white haired fellow who was a graduate of Oberlin College and, at the time, was news editor of the Detroit Free Press.

Formally known as Hal Mitchell, he never was called anything but "Mitch." He didn't drink. He never swore. And he never chewed tobacco — a favorite habit of many in those days.

He was slow to anger. But when he became upset you could hear him mumble, "TLNI." Out of curiosity one day, after listening to him dress down a desk man and mumble "TLNI," The Stroller asked what he meant.

"Total loss and no insurance," was the reply.

Another great character whom The Stroller can never forget is Gar Wood, the millionaire speedboat king, who wouldn't drive any of his famous Miss Americas unless his two teddy bear dolls were hung on the dashboard.

One evening The Stroller was invited to the Wood home for dinner and noticed that there was an empty chair and an extra place setting.

"Who is missing?" The Stroller asked. "No one," Gar replied. "We always have an extra place just in case someone drops in. Then no one will feel embarrassed."

It was one of the most unusual customs The Stroller ever encountered.

Yep, you meet some interesting characters along the journalistic trail.

How new program helps pregnant students

By KATHY MORAN

GARDEN CITY Christmas could have been lonely for a group of teenagers from western Wayne County if it weren't for a Garden City program.

The program is for pregnant teens, both married and unmarried, from several school districts and is designed to let the students continue their educations.

The program is supported by the districts that utilize it — Garden City, Wayne, Westland, Livonia, Plymouth, Romulus, South Redford, Redford Union, Northville and Belleville.

Through the program, teens not only keep up with their studies, but they meet other girls with similar problems and form a tight-knit class.

Not long ago, a pregnant teenager was forced to quit school, pressured into giving up the child, branded socially and deserted by friends and family.

Attitudes have softened in recent years, but it's still a lonely, and sometimes traumatic, course for most girls.

The Garden City program is an attempt to alleviate some of the problems — and thus make Christmas brighter for several area girls.

The girls participate in junior high or high school classes and at the same time learn about pregnancy, childbirth, child care, nutrition and family life.

Sixty-one girls between the ages of 13 and 17 were in the program for one or two semesters after it was initiated last year, and another 27 are in it so far this year. After they have their babies, they can complete the semester in Garden City and return to their school.

Since more girls are keeping their babies, the young mothers are instructed in infant and child care. Last year, nearly half of the girls were married and almost 90 per cent kept their children.

The statistics seem to be following the trend this year. Because the program is small, it is located in classrooms in a church — First United Methodist Church at 6443 Merriman.

"Individual attention is really a significant part of our program here," says Elwin Slack, program coordinator.

Slack's responsibility is to assure that all credits earned in Garden City classes are transferable back to the girl's original district. If a student is eligible to graduate while attending classes in Garden City, he makes sure that she can.

Small classes lead to a more intimate relationship between the students and teachers, according to the two full time and one part-time teachers.

In many cases, the girls are getting personal help with their educations for the first time, and their grades improve.

"Some of the girls said they learn more here than they did before because of the individual attention," said Laureen Fitzharris, foods instructor. "I love it here because you can be more individual in your work with the girls and get to know the people you teach."

Mrs. Fitzharris helps prepare the girls for their new roles as mother, housewife and shopper through courses in nutrition, consumer education, family living, clothing and home furnishings. She also watches their lunches to make sure they are getting a proper balance of nutrients and keeps fruits, cheeses, milk and meat around to supplement their diets.

Lynn Reynolds, social studies teacher, says smaller classes make it easier to see progress in a student. The limited classes also put a greater demand on the teachers because they feel compelled to work with each student at her level, she said.

"It's more satisfying because you have more of an opportunity to take a girl from one point to another."

"Many girls in last year's program improved their grades when they returned to their own schools because they had learned study skills and took more interest in their studies."

"Some of them concentrate on their studies to say to their parents 'I want to show you I can do well and I do care about myself,'" Mrs. Fitzharris said, adding that many don't have much else to do while pregnant and ask for homework on weekends and holidays.

After the child is born, the teacher sends homework to the mothers and keeps them up on their studies through telephone calls. Nancy Lonsinger, part time teacher, said the program's size gives the teacher a chance to notice little problems — if a student needs glasses or has a reading problem. She teaches the junior high classes and deals with reading problems.

Sharing common problems, the girls form a close-knit class, the teachers said. At a recent "alumni" gathering most of last year's girls returned with their youngsters to visit their peers and teachers.

Along with the high school classes, the teens meet with four Wayne County public health nurses once a week for a class and individual sessions on pregnancy, childbirth, and child care. They take the girls to Garden City Osteopathic Hospital to see the labor and delivery rooms and have shown the girls films on childbirth. They also have provided instruction on natural childbirth for those who are interested.

Emotional problems are tackled by a social worker who visits regularly.

The girls recently made items for a bazaar and raised money for a Christmas party. The teachers kept complimenting the girls on their projects because "they don't think anything they do is worth doing," says Mrs. Fitzharris.

"A lot of the program is ego-building," Mrs. Reynolds added.

The teachers say the classes have a "family" feeling and help to boost the girls' self-esteem, prepare them for their new roles — and perhaps ease their problems.

Ms. Mayor --the woman at the city's reins

THE NEW WOMAN in city hall is Mayor Beverly McAninch who shies away from the term "women's liberationist" but is definitely interested in equal rights and equal opportunities for women. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

By KATHY MORAN

PLYMOUTH
Beverly McAninch couldn't be labeled a firebrand women's libber but she's a staunch believer in equal rights and equal opportunities for women.

She views her election as Plymouth's first woman mayor since the 1940s more as an achievement for a woman interested in local government than as a victory for the women's movement.

And despite the suspicions of male-dominated city hall, conservative Plymouth hasn't changed much in the last two months since a female -- and a "liberal" -- took over the driver's seat in city government.

"I quite frankly think that equal rights and equal opportunities exist for women to participate in the democratic process," she said. "But frankly, women haven't done as much as they should have."

The energetic mother of four speculates that a fear of losing or fear of criticism has kept many women from entering the political arena.

"I'm sure a woman would have been elected to the city commission in the last 15 years, but no one ran," she said. "I've tried to talk women who are knowledgeable and capable into running but they won't."

"I'm not sure if it's a fear of criticism for stepping out of their 'place' or a fear of losing," she said. "But even if you run and lose, it doesn't mean anything because men lose too."

Mrs. McAninch hasn't tasted defeat yet. She topped a field of male candidates in 1971 when she was first elected to the commission. Although she didn't intend to run as a woman's candidate in that election, she won female votes from women who felt it was time for a female voice in city government.

Prior to that time she was active in the League of Women Voters where she served a term as president of the Plymouth-Northville league and had been an observer at city commission meetings.

Her interest in government stems back many years when national politics was her prime concern and Eleanor Roosevelt topped her list of admired people.

But since then, she's learned that local government is where a lot of power is.

"If you really want to do something, local government is where you can make your voice heard," she said.

Many women associate city government with sewers, drains and roads, but Mrs. McAninch says it's more than that to her.

"I see more possible benefits to myself and my community through involvement in city government," she said.

She estimates that the job takes about half of her time now and says her colleagues have been especially helpful in her new job.

"I don't know what their personal feelings are, but I don't worry about it," she said.

Pound keeping dogs one week

PLYMOUTH
If your dog is picked up as a stray in Plymouth Township it is going to cost you at least $30 to get it back -- plus a wait of a week.

This is in accordance with a new state law that was approved by the Plymouth Township Trustees Monday night.

The new law reads: Neither a dealer nor a county, village or township operating a dog pound or animal shelter shall sell or otherwise dispose of a dog or cat within seven days after its acquisition.

City organizing men's slo-pitch, gals' volleyball

PLYMOUTH
The City of Plymouth parks and recreation department announces formation of two sports leagues.

An organizational meeting for a slo-pitch softball league will be Monday, Jan. 28, at 7 p.m. at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer.

The league is for men aged 18 and over who live in the city or in Plymouth Township.

An organizational meeting for a women's volleyball league will be Tuesday, Jan. 29, at 8 p.m. at Starkweather Elementary School, 550 Holbrook. A mini-clinic showing the basics of volleyball also will be presented.

ating a dog pound or animal shelter shall sell or otherwise dispose of a dog or cat within seven days after its acquisition.

If the dog or cat has a collar, license or other evidence of ownership the operator of the pound or shelter shall notify the owner in writing and disposition of the animal shall not be made within seven days of the date of mailing the notice.

The Parkview Veterinary Clinic, which is the haven for the stray dogs picked up by the officers, notified the trustees that the cost for the seven days would be $30.

said. "As far as I can see, everyone is being very cooperative. I think everyone is tested out on a new job, whether man or woman, and I seem to have passed the few tests."

As the only woman mayor in this area, Mrs. McAninch says she has had more publicity than any new officials. When called for the interview she remarked that "If I were a man, I wouldn't be getting so much publicity."

Other women have made tremendous contributions to the community without so much fanfare, she said, citing Esther Hulsing who headed the school board for several years and handled a larger budget and more tax dollars than the city managers.

Unfortunately a woman's involvement is often contingent on the attitude her husband was raised with, she said. Her husband, Bill, has always been helpful and they've raised their children to share responsibilities regardless of sex.

"But why should a woman's life depend on how her husband was brought up?" she asked. "This is why the Equal Rights Amendment is so important -- to assure that every woman has the chance to be treated properly."

Mrs. McAninch studied labor economics as an undergraduate at Wayne State University and earned a master's in business administration while working in personnel management at Wayne.

She prefers to be addressed as "Ms. Mayor" while chairing the city commission meetings but hints it's unlikely she'll pull any major upsets in city government just because of her sex.

On the other hand, she gives the impression of being an invader of tightly-controlled City Hall -- that she won't just sit quietly.

Dog gone!

PLYMOUTH

Talk about hard luck, try to match this.

Robert Goebel, 9448 Corrine, an ardent bird hunter, decided to spend the last Saturday of 1973 in quest of pheasant up in the Gregory Recreation Area.

Not only did he come home with an empty game bag, but he also lost his dog -- a three-year-old Brittany spaniel that he prized most highly.

Allen plans crafts night

PLYMOUTH

Allen Elementary School's parent-teacher organization will sponsor a mini craft night Tuesday, Jan. 22, beginning at 7 p.m.

Each participant will have a finished project which can be taken home that night.

Persons will be available to teach various crafts, including corn husk dolls, dried flower arrangements, ecology boxes, cake decoration, yarn octopus, macrame, safety pin jewelry, Hummel plaques, soap decal, rock polishing and paper tole.

A small fee will be charged to cover materials and instructor's salaries. The classes are scheduled for various classrooms at Allen School, 11100 Haggerty.

If you have questions, contact Bev Stanley at 11067 Terry, Plymouth, after 4 p.m.

Concert features famous organist

Organ virtuoso Virgil Fox will be the guest soloist Sunday, Jan. 20, at 3:30 p.m. when the Detroit Symphony Orchestra offers its third Kresge "Omnibus" Family Concert of the season in Ford Auditorium.

Guido Ajmone-Marsan, winner of the first Georg Solti competition for conductors last spring, will be on the podium to conduct Beethoven's Overture to "Fidelio" and Franck's Symphony in D minor.

Fox will present an organ demonstration before a capacity afternoon audience and appear with the orchestra in Joseph Jongen's Symphonie Concertante for Organ and Orchestra, a work he last performed with the Detroit Symphony in 1960.

Formerly the organist at New York City's Riverside Church for 19 years, Fox has earned his greatest renown in the concert and recording fields. He has appeared as soloist with the nation's leading orchestras as well as having played three request recitals at the White House.

Most recently, he has combined an all-Bach program of organ music and a rear-projection light show to create "Heavy Organ," a presentation which launched what he describes as "a love affair with the youth of this country and Johann Sebastian Bach."

Italian born Guido Ajmone-Marsan will be making his Detroit Symphony conducting debut at next Sunday's concert, which is sold out.

Recommended

Although car makers have stretched oil change periods considerably, every 3,000 to 4,000 miles or two to three months is still best for a car's performance, according to auto experts. For maximum engine life, the filter also should be replaced at every oil change.

Meade directs Livonia chorus

Ed Meade, director of vocal music at Riverside High School, Dearborn Heights, is the new director of the Livonia Civic Chorus.

Meade joined the chorus prior to the Christmas season after the resignation of Robert Shusarski, who had been with the chorus since it began in 1965.

Meade is preparing the chorus for the annual spring musical, which features popular music. Singers interested in joining the chorus may attend a rehearsal, held every Thursday at 8 p.m. in Bryant Junior High School, 18000 Merriman, Livonia. Male voices are especially needed.

The chorus is open to everyone. Membership is not restricted to Livonians.

U-M sponsors classical drama

The University of Michigan's Center for Coordination of Ancient and Modern Studies, the Professional Theater Program and the Residential College will jointly sponsor four evenings of classical drama in mid-January.

Noted British puppeteer Peter Arnott will perform one man shows of Aeschylus' "Oresteia," Euripides' "Cyclops" and Marlowe's "Doctor Faustus" Jan. 16 through 19 in the Residential College Auditorium.

Dr. Arnott's special craft begins at 8 p.m. Jan. 16, with "Agamemnon," the first section of the trilogy "Oresteia." Parts two and three, "Libation Bearers" and "Eumenides" will be performed the following evening.

Friday, Jan. 18, will be devoted to Euripides' "Cyclops." Marlowe's "Doctor Faustus" will complete the series Saturday evening. All performances will take place in the Residential College Auditorium, East Quadrangle, 701 E. University, Ann Arbor.

The idea to bring Dr. Arnott to the U-M campus originated with Prof. Gerald F. Else, director of the Center for Coordination of Ancient and Modern Studies, during discussions with Richard D. Meyer, director of theater programs.

To broaden the area covered by this plan the Residential College, under the direction of Prof. Louis L. Orlin, was asked to join the project. Meyer hopes many more joint projects among various U-M departments and disciplines will result from this initial venture.

Arnott is currently professor of drama at Tufts University, Mass., teaching theater history and directing at the University Theater.

He originated "The Marionette Theater of Peter Arnott" in 1948 and toured works from a Greek and Roman repertory to schools and universities throughout Great Britain until his departure for the U.S. in 1958.

Arnott has performed in many major U.S. universities, including Harvard, Michigan, Wellesley and Amherst. He has twice toured Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Council and the Classical Association of Canada and has appeared at the Ashland Shakespeare Festival, Ashland, Ore.

Ticket sales for the U-M production begin Monday, Jan. 7, at the Professional Theater Program ticket office in the Michigan League.

Thin ice isn't nice

Snowmobiling on ice, especially during the early part of the winter season, can be dangerous, advises the Michigan Marine and Snowmobile Dealers Association.

Ice thickness for safe snowmobiling should be four inches or more. And never rely on simply a visual inspection to determine that an icy surface is safe, cautions the association.

Doorbells will ring in Livonia

Livonia residents will get a chance to win a new Chevrolet, a color television or a stereo and tape deck when their doorbells ring this weekend.

The Tudor Singers from Livonia's Frost Junior High School will be distributing a packet consisting of an introductory letter, an endorsement from Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, two tickets to a benefit concert and a return envelope.

All that's required is for the person to sign the ticket stubs and return them with one or two dollars.

The Tudor's benefit concert, set for March 23 in Livonia Mall, will help finance their summer European tour to participate in international music competition.

Dennis Wholey, of the AM Detroit Show, will be master of ceremonies for the March 23 concert.

Pa. college choir performs locally

The Thiel College Choir from Greenville, Pa., will present a concert in Plymouth Canton High School, Jan. 31, at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of Michigan Alumni of Thiel College.

Arrangements for the Thiel Choir concert are being made by Karen Mueller. For tickets contact her at 31511 Capri Terrace, Westland, or 1360 S. Main, Plymouth.

Since it was founded in 1953 by its director, Dr. Marlowe W. Johnson, the Thiel College musical organization has traveled to Europe, singing there in 1963, 1967 and 1971. The choir won international acclaim for performances in East and West Germany, Switzerland, Denmark and Holland.

Dr. Johnson, professor of music at Thiel College, received his PhD from the University of Iowa in 1968. He earned his BA degree from Concordia College and his MM from the University of Michigan.

He serves as chairman of the Thiel artist and lecture committee, which arranges for appearances of outstanding speakers and performers on campus.

MARLOWE JOHNSON

In addition to his duties as musical director, Dr. Johnson has written articles for "The Journal of Church Music," "American Choral Review," and the "A.G.O. Magazine," and has composed and arranged numerous selections.

Dr. Johnson has been listed in "Who's Who in American Education" and received a Martin Luther Fellowship from the Lutheran Brotherhood Life Insurance Society.

Praying mantis is gardeners' friend

(Reprinted from Wonderful West Virginia, December 1973 issue. The authors are Bruce Baker and James Hanson of Juneau, Alaska.)

A prehistoric creature? Well, almost.

The praying mantis is an ancient insect. The name mantis comes from a Greek word meaning a prophet or crystal-gazer. The large "praying" front legs do give this insect the look of a wise and mindful creature.

Actually though, there are numerous species of mantises in the family, mantidae, and they are related to other members of the order orthoptera such as crickets, grasshoppers, katydids, walking sticks, and even cockroaches.

While its cousins eat plants and grain foods, the mantis is a predator and eats other insects, a habit that makes it relatively useful to man.

Praying mantises can provide at least limited assistance in the control of insects that consume our garden plants; one mantis can easily destroy two or three grasshoppers in a single day.

Over the years, the mantis' peculiar habits have given it other names. Because the insect rears up on his hind legs, some people have called it a "devil-horse" or "rear-horse."

In the southern United States, some have even called the mantis a "mule killer" with the belief that the brownish fluid in its mouth can kill mules. Nothing could be more untrue. Praying mantises can be found around the world. Some species are native to southern United States. Other species have been brought over from Europe and China and fare well in some of our more northern states. Their eggs probably hitchhiked across the oceans on nursery stock imported to North America.

Fortunately, mantises introduced to this country have earned their way. Some people even buy their large egg masses from garden suppliers. Gardeners let mantises hatch in their yards hoping that, when grown up, they will help kill damaging plant-feeding insects.

Gardeners let mantises hatch in their yards hoping that, when grown up, they will help kill damaging plant-feeding insects.

The egg mass or ootheca, as it is also called, is usually fastened by the female adult to plant stems and twigs. It can contain over 200 eggs.

The young nymphs begin searching for food not long after they leave their eggs. They not only need food, but they need living, moving food.

Their excellent eyes can see a walking fly three feet away, but a resting fly next to a mantis may go unnoticed. The shape and position of the eyes and the triangular shape of the head allow the mantis to see over its shoulder.

The mantis is a careful hunter, preferring to wait for prey to come to it. A mantis may slowly stalk an insect a short distance, but seldom will he follow an insect very far. The mantis makes its movements deliberately and slowly until his prey is within reach, and then, almost faster than one can detect, the insect is caught in those large grasping or raptorial forelegs.

Praying mantises are not too particular about the kinds of insects they eat. In fact, they are cannibalistic, devouring other mantises! This characteristic makes courtship by adults risky business. Males are often killed following mating.

Although the insect moves slowly most of the time, it can travel well, for it is a strong and able flyer.

There have been some interesting stories told about the praying mantis. Most of us know that mice eat insects, and large mantises do make exceptional table fare.

A person reported a small lizard caught by a large female praying mantis.

In Texas, a woman reported large praying mantises that had grabbed tiny hummingbirds. A mantis would grasp a struggling bird and begin to eat it.

These stories are rare, and most of the time, mantises are busy feeding on the many insects of our shrubs, trees, and gardens.

Children in search of a school science project or perhaps a small pet will find that praying mantises are easy to handle. If approached from the upper or dorsal side, a mantis has difficulty grasping one's fingers with its forelegs. Mantises do, however, need living insects to survive.

Collection of egg masses where the insect is abundant is not difficult, as they can be found on plants during the winter when the leaves are absent. An egg mass can be brought indoors and placed in a roomy closed container.

More than one school class has been surprised to see dozens of young mantis nymphs trying to escape a cage.

Individual insects should be placed in separate containers. Small mantises can be fed small insects. Fruit flies are good and can be raised in a closed container with spoiling banana or a more elaborate artificial agar diet placed inside.

As the nymphs molt and grow larger, they will readily consume common houseflies. Watching the behavior of a pet mantis can provide hours of entertainment for young and old alike.

Winter attention needed

January is the time to start working on a yard you can be proud of next summer, say Michigan State University landscape architects.

Here are some of their suggestions:

• Remove any dead or dying trees. Tree removal is made easier by the absence of foliage and professional workmen are not as busy in winter. Also, there is less damage to frozen ground during tree removal.

• Plan early for spring. Decide where you want to plant and pick out ornamentals and shrubs. Mulch the planned planting area to prevent the ground from freezing as deeply thus easing the digging process.

'74 building outlook is optimistic

SOUTHFIELD
While a somewhat lower level of new housing starts is forecast into 1974, the outlook for the building materials business is good, predicts W. Michael Blumenthal, president of The Bendix Corp. of Southfield.

That optimistic prediction was made in Bendix's annual report with Blumenthal assessing progress made in the corporation's building materials division - American Forest Products.

"The company has increasingly oriented its operations toward the industrial and home remodeling markets - markets which presently account for about half of its sales and which can be expected to grow even in a period of declining new home construction," comments Blumenthal.

In 1973 American Forest Products continued to improve its position as a primary distributor of building materials for the nation's shelter market. Bendix established a distribution network of 20 building materials distribution centers. For 1974, expansion into new geographical areas and additions to the product line are planned.

home & garden

A new product with strong sales in the past year was particleboard, reaching a high level of production for both underlayment and industrial grades for uses such as furniture and cabinetry. Improved manufacturing facilities for wooden containers and millwork divisions increased the sales value of these products, including aluminum siding, rain gutters and down spouts.

A reassessment of the approach to the corrugated container market led to the conclusion that the company's efforts would be best applied in the longer-term to the distribution end of this business. By year-end, the paper and corrugated division was sold to Inland Container Corp.

During 1973, revenues of American Forest Products Corp. rose 30 per cent to a record $278 million with operating income rising by 50 per cent to $20 million.

Sales were up substantially for lumber, plywood and particleboard which are the primary products manufactured by the division.

Increased demand for these products was partly attributable to the continued high level of residential building through most of the fiscal year, says Blumenthal.

Other factors of the favorable performance of 1973 were increased or improved production facilities and the efficiencies which resulted from changes in marketing and manufacturing organization structures and management control systems.

The '73 results were achieved despite reduced availability of National Forest Service timber and the consequent higher raw materials cost, Blumenthal adds.

"The President's recent executive order to increase the timber cut on federal lands to the full sustained yield cut, particularly in Western forests, is expected to have a favorable effect on the division's long-term operations.

Resource studies were completed in '73 to help improve profits through better economic allocation of the company's timber resources. The results of this program will be applied to manufacturing operations in 1974.

Careful management of its more than 170,000 acres of California timber resources to preserve both environmental and economic values, he explains, is of prime concern of the corporation foresters.

Brothers accused of setting library fire

A 13-year-old student, who tried falsely to accuse another boy in order to collect a $300 reward, has admitted he and his brother set fire to the Clarenceville Junior High library, Livonia police say.

The student, from Farmington Hills, admitted his role in the break-in, but said his 15-year-old brother actually set the $100,000 fire.

Detective Sgt. Shirley Garrison said he and Youth Officer Larry Tilford received a call Friday from junior high Asst. Principal Michael Couchman, who said he "had a boy in my office who admits being involved in the fire and break-in."

The officers said the youth at first tried to implicate another youth "whom he had a grudge against." But they realized, upon questioning, that the first boy knew too many details not to be involved.

They talked to the second boy and found he was at home at the time of the fire, Tilford said.

"The younger brother told us he was with his brother but that his brother started the fire," Tilford added. "He said they broke into the school to get a hash pipe and some other paraphernalia that was in their locker.

"He told us he wanted to collect the $300 reward offered for arrest of the vandals."

Garrison said the youth told him he wanted to keep $300 for himself and give $100 to the school toward repair of the library. That was why he came to police with the story.

"The younger boy said his brother hated school and that was the reason he set the fire," Garrison added.

The 13-year-old youth was taken to juvenile court in Oakland County Saturday and released to his parents pending a hearing date not yet scheduled.

The 15-year-old brother was already in Oakland County Youth Home on an unrelated charge. Both are charged with breaking and entering and arson, police said.

The $300 reward "for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the fire," had been posted from three different sources.

The Livonia police department had offered $100, the school's student council $100 and the Clarenceville Board of Education had voted to offer $100.

Couchman said that in addition to adding to the reward fund, students have donated approximately 150 books to a "temporary library" that is in the process of being set up.

"The overall student effort toward aiding the library has been remarkable," Couchman said.

Professionals will evaluate methadone use

Two area professionals have been appointed to a Wayne County committee to evaluate the use of methadone in treatment of heroin addicts.

Dr. Arthur Jalkanen, dean of academic services on the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College and Dr. Ralph Rabinovitch, psychiatrist and director of research at Hawthorne Center, were appointed to the eight-member committee.

Buckling Up or Turning Down IT'S UP TO YOU

It's been proven that seat belts save lives. Yet some people still dislike using them. So it shouldn't be surprising if during the energy crisis, some people are reluctant to lower their thermostats to 68 during the day and 65 at night. Letting the other guy do it won't work...not this time. If we are to have enough fuel for everyone — everyone must realize that conservation of energy is HIS or HER responsibility.

Plymouth Salem cagers dazzle Allen Park, 78-54

A superb team defensive effort coupled with a four-man scoring binge gave Plymouth Salem an impressive 78-54 basketball victory over Allen Park. It shot the Rocks into a four way tie for first place in the Suburban Eight.

When the weekend's firing ceased, the standings showed Plymouth, Allen Park, Livonia Bentley and Dearborn knotted at 3-1 followed by Edsel Ford 2-2, Redford Union and Belleville both 1-3, and Trenton 0-4. All teams have 10 league games remaining.

Allen Park's defending champions lost possession of the top rung when the Jaguars ran into a Plymouth club that played its best basketball of the season in all departments.

The Rocks outshot the Parkers from the floor 26 goals to 20, had a 26 to 14 edge from the free throw line, led 37 to 29 in rebounds, and made only 13 turnovers.

On the attack, four Rocks combined for 70 points: Jim Ellinghausen with 20, Dave Prueter 18, and Eric Agardy and Bruce Johnson both 16.

Defensively, the same height advantage that led to domination of the boards - aided materially by the ball hawking of the guards - kept the Jaguars out of the lane, and when forced to rely on outside shooting they weren't good enough to keep pace.

Plymouth's front line of Agardy, 6-9; Ellinghausen, 6-6, and Johnson, 6-5, is not likely to be outreached by many foes this winter and between them this trio hauled in as many rebounds as the entire Allen Park club.

Ellinghausen, an eye-bugging sophomore, scored the game's first seven points. The Jaguars fought back to make it 16-16 for the quarter behind the shooting of Phil Beyer and Gregg Brighton who were to wind up as AP's scoring leaders with 17 and 14 points respectively. After that Plymouth never trailed.

The Rocks led 32-26 at the half and then, with Johnson developing a hot hand that brought four quick buckets in a row, they pushed it to 50-37 at the three-quarter mark.

Plymouth turned it into a field day in the final period when their 28 points set a high mark for any eight-minute segment so far this season.

Rock coach Fred Thomann, having settled on a starting lineup that includes only two seniors, also demonstrated his willingness to go to the bench frequently as he used 11 men - most productive of the reserves being Prueter. Overall, the Rocks are now 8-2 for the campaign and will host Redford Union Friday.

West dumps Melvindale in Tri-River race, 58-46

Chalk up one giant step for Garden City West in its march to the Tri-River basketball championship.

Chris Babler's Tigers knocked down Melvindale, 58-46, to remain unbeaten in loop action and stand at 4-0, tied for first with Riverside.

West is also sporting an overall, 7-3 record.

Cherry Hill and Melvindale follow West and Riverside in the Tri-River standings with identical two-all marks. A shakeup could be in the making Friday as Cherry Hill and Riverside battle and West travels to Southgate.

West hosts Riverside next week on Jan. 25, in what will have the making of a complete front - running slate for the Tigers.

The Tigers hit 20 of only 36 shots from the floor against Melvindale for 55 per cent. Bob Peace and Paul Tatro each popped in 13 points.

Melvindale wound up taking six more shots but hit only 18 of the 42 for 42 per cent. The real difference was at the charity line where West made good 28 of 24. Ken Kinsvater popped in six of seven while Melvindale made good only 10 of 25.

West opened with a seven for 10 first quarter to take a 17-6 lead with Scott Chidester hitting four of five from the field.

The Tigers then proceeded to score the first seven points of the second quarter and slipped ahead at the half, 31-15.

"This had to be our best defensive half of the season," commented Babler whose cagers have shutout opponents in two different quarters.

The second half belonged to Melvindale and the Cardinals won the third quarter, 14-11, and the final eight minutes, 17-16.

"Our kids just started sitting on the ball and stopped going to the basket," added the West coach. "But we managed to maintain at least a seven point margin the entire second half."

West won in rebounding, 26-10, Peace hauling in nine.

CC explains transfers

Recruiting unfounded

By FR. RICHARD ELMER, C.J.B.
Athletic Director at C.C.

Once again the old adage has proven true: "the pen is mightier than the sword."

Catholic Central High School believes it is time to set the record straight. In an unfortunate series of articles appearing in the Observing Sports column, C.C. and its respected basketball coach, Bernard Holowicki, have been erroneously and unfairly made the brunt of opinion allegations of "parochial recruiting habits" relative to the transfers of David Harding and David Cleary.

Aside from the fact that such allegations are wholly unfounded and without merit, the equally irrefutable fact that the allegations, innuendo and erroneous third-party conclusions published tend to adversely characterize and derogate the traditions, practices and good standing of C.C. and certain young men in the eyes of the community.

The most precious treasure an institution, like an individual, has is its good name and reputation. From its inception in 1928, Catholic Central has instilled and lived its motto: "Teach Me, Goodness, Discipline, and Knowledge."

C.C.'s avowed philosophy is to assist young men in their total development: mental, spiritual, social and physical. C.C. strives for excellence in all academic, co-curricular and extra-curricular fields.

Athletics is but a part of the C.C. experience. As with any private school, C.C. has to rely on its uniqueness and diversified program in order to continue to attract students. Indeed, the appeal of C.C. has enabled it to become a composite of young men from throughout the Metropolitan Detroit area. It has traditionally drawn students from non-contiguous geographical areas.

This year students from about 100 elementary schools, approximately one-half of which are outside the City of Detroit, enrolled at C.C.

Catholic Central has no built-in, guaranteed source of students to draw from such as do the public and parish high schools. It must rely primarily on its reputation and achievements to attract students.

Yet in the cases of the transfers of Harding and Cleary, the unfair and uninformed charge of "recruiting" has been leveled at C.C. and has sparked much debate.

Such a charge is without merit.

It is the policy of Catholic Central High School that no student enrolled in a public senior high school be approached by any representative of C.C. for the purpose of transferring to C.C., be it for athletic, academic or any other reasons.

The facts of the subject matter transfers dispositively prove this policy has not been violated.

Both Dave Cleary and his father, Dennis Cleary, categorically deny that C.C. recruited Dave in any manner. Indeed, Mr. Cleary expressed surprise over the fact that any story about his son being "recruited" by C.C. would be published without any prior attempt to get the facts from his son.

"The story embarrassed my family. It said things which weren't true," declared Cleary. He stated that he made the first overtures to C.C. concerning the possibility of his son's transfer. No C.C. official was involved in their final decision.

Similarly, Dave Harding unequivocally denied that he had been "recruited" by C.C. either. In fact, he states that at the conclusion of his 10th grade at Thurston High he approached coach Holowicki, his former gym instructor, about the possibility of transferring to C.C. and Holowicki urged him to continue at Thurston.

At the end of his first quarter in the 11th grade, his parents informed him the family was moving to Northville and he would have to decide where he wanted to go to school. In the final analysis, it was a family decision that Dave attend C.C. No C.C. official was involved in this final decision.

The facts speak for themselves. In both the Harding and Cleary cases the individuals and parents were the first to approach C.C.

C.C. and the individuals involved are in agreement that there was no "recruiting."

As between the public school principals and C.C. officials, it was determined and approved that there was no "recruiting." A letter pursuant to MHSAA Rules was signed by the parties testifying to the validity and propriety of the transfers.

The logical conclusion drawn from the foregoing is obvious. However, it is important to note that this is the first time that this forum has had the benefit of any input from the Cleary's or C.C.

Previous opinions expressed herewith were proffered without the benefit of complete information and from third parties who had no relationship to the subject matter.

As a result, opinions such as Ralph Owen of Bishop Borgess have muddled the water. Owen told C.C. representatives he was misquoted in certain respects and that he was in error relative to his remarks concerning the limited area from which Borgess attracts its students.

Misinformation proves pointless and inflammatory. It is regrettable to think that the good name of Catholic Central, earned by generations of students and teachers, would be tainted in any way by spurious and prejudicial printed opinion.

It is the desire of Catholic Central to end the controversy.

Glenn Rockets pummel GC East cagers, 71-50

Westland John Glenn started the second half of the basketball campaign in victory style.

Gordie Davis' Glenn Rockets exploded past Garden City East, 71-50, for their eighth win against three losses.

It was Glenn's second win in the Northwest loop against a 69-52 setback with a 3-0 Franklin club. For Billy Joe Young's Panthers, the 19 point beating was their third consecutive in the Northwest and sixth overall in nine outings.

East was coming off a close, 49-41, defeat against city rival Garden City West.

"This Glenn contest was a mental letdown after just missing at West," commented Young. "Glenn very methodically pulled away from us."

The early moments showed signs of East picking up the pieces where it had dropped them against West, leading 12-11. But Young was forced to pull two of his starters, Jim Gilligan and Greg Emery when they each picked up their third fouls.

Glenn then rang up 10 points to East's two and Glenn led at the end of one quarter, 21-14.

It was even up in the second stanza with both clubs popping in 14 points but East had to have the momentum.

Glenn jumped to a 35-18 margin in the second and East sounded off with 10 straight points to end the first half and slice it back to the first quarter margin at 35-28.

The Rockets pulled away in the second half, outscoring East in the third quarter, 19-12 and 17-10, in the last eight minutes.

East shot 39 per cent from the floor, 24 of 61 and Glenn hit 30 of 67 for 44 per cent, Brian Kaluzny popping in a game high of 22 points.

Kaluzny's 21 grabs and Jeff Brittain's 10 headed Glenn to a 55-34 dominance of the rebound contest. Emery hauled in 13 for East.

East hosts Oak Park Friday and Glenn meets Thurston in Northwest loop action.

Borgess tumbles, 78-65

Bishop Borgess Coach Jim Brisky got more than he bargained for when his Spartans traveled to Redford St. Mary.

First, his front line which checks in at 6-3, 6-2 and 6-1 was looking up at St. Mary's threesome of 6-10, 6-7 and 6-6.

Brisky then found everything, including the officiating working against him and Borgess fell, 78-65. It was Borgess' seventh setback against two wins and gives the Spartans a 2-3 Catholic Double A mark.

"It just seemed that everything and everybody was against us," commented Brisky. "I just couldn't believe the goal-tending calls that weren't called."

"I had more people come up to me after the game and question if we had just played a basketball game or if it was football," added the Borgess coach.

Borgess led early in the first quarter, 6-4, but fell behind at the end, 16-14. Borgess topped it off with a three for 14 shooting quarter with St. Mary jumping to a 30-22 halftime margin.

The Spartans got back to within one point midway in the third at 45-44 but St. Mary proceeded to reel off 10 points to Borgess' one and it was 54-45 after three quarters.

St. Mary continued its torrid shooting pace in the fourth and outscored Borgess in the last eight minutes, 24-20.

In shooting Borgess came up with 46 per cent, hitting on 25 of 57, with Greg Drypen popping in 19 points. St. Mary finished at 50 per cent on 34 of 68, five players breaking into double figures.

Rebounding saw Borgess fall, 44-30.

"They broke our back on the boards," added Brisky whose cagers play tonight (Wednesday) at Southgate Aquinas. "They were getting two, three and four shots at the basket almost every time they came down the court."

Members of the Schoolcraft College wrestling team, which is now ranked sixth in the country among junior and community colleges, brought back much more

The Ocelot grapplers also brought back the third place trophy from the Sunshine open wrestling tournament in Miami.

College and junior college teams from across the country participated in the open which was won by the University of Florida.

Ball State University of Muncie, Ind., took second with Larry Meyer's Schoolcraft squad next best.

"It was by far the best we've done in three years of competing in the tournament," said the Schoolcraft coach. "We have more team points and more individual place winners than ever before."

Schoolcraft accumulated its 70 point total with two second place finishes, two thirds and two fourths.

Howard Strick at 126 pounds and Mark Kast at 167 pounds were the second place finishers. Johnnie Jones at 118 pounds and heavyweight Fred Stanton captured third places. John Osestoski from Farmington High at 118 pounds and Ray Givens at 190 were Ocelot fourth place finishers.

Maurice Stewart at 177, Gary Banks at 150 and Tom Alexander at 150 pounds also scored points for the Ocelots, even though they failed to place in the top four.

Churchill survives Northville scare for 8th win

There is something about playing at Northville that Churchill basketball Coach Pat Montano is always leery of. That something almost cashed in for the Mustangs.

The No. 1 team in Observerland survived a Western Six scare and just did get by the Mustangs, 47-44.

It was Churchill's eighth victory overall against one loss and third in the loop.

"I am always afraid of going over there," commented Montano whose Chargers host Plymouth Canton

Friday. "I just can't figure out some of these officials."

"Here we are so much bigger, Northville is pressing the entire game, we were just getting hammered all the time."

"We took only two free - throws the first half and only five the second half, none the first and third quarters."

Montano admitted that he is happy just getting out of Northville with any sort of victory.

Don Forest popped in the first bucket for Churchill but Northville spurred to a 10-8 first quarter edge.

The Chargers then took off. The first six times Churchill got its hands on the ball in the second quarter, it scored five field goals. Churchill wound up, 11 of 16 in that period, Ken Landini scoring 10 and Don Braun eight points.

It was Churchill at the half, 30-19, and all signs pointed to another Charger rout.

The Chargers were held to just 10 points in the third quarter while Northville mustered nine to make it 40-28 heading into the last eight minutes.

With 19 seconds remaining,

Ed Kritch hit from the floor to put the Mustangs to within two, 46-44. Braun, who finished with 18 points then missed a free - throw opportunity for Churchill but Northville threw a pass away.

With six seconds remaining, Rich VanWagoner popped in one of two free - throws and the Chargers had survived their closest scare of the Western Six.

After Canton this Friday, Churchill is at Bentley next Tuesday and at unbeaten Waterford Mott on Jan. 25 in a Western Six showdown.

"I haven't really put the pressure on the kids since losing that tough one at Franklin," said the Churchill coach. "I am going to have to start working them now."

"I really believe that home court advantage could tell the story in the league with Mott. Churchill winds up its regular season campaign home against Mott on March 1.

"Sure Mott is quick but we are a lot bigger," finished Montano who couldn't be happier about not having to go back to Northville this season.

Oak Park scalps North, 70-62

Ken Dean is after a first. The North Farmington basketball coach, who is now in his fourth season, has failed to beat one area club.

That club is Livonia Franklin, a team that Dean's North Raiders will be up against Friday night at Franklin.

"It is always tough for any team to win at Franklin," said Dean in looking ahead and not behind at his first Northwest loss at the hands of Oak Park, 70-62. "I have lost to Franklin six times in my three years."

North surprised everyone, including Dean, in reeling off six straight wins to open the current campaign. Then came the Northwest Holiday loss to Groves.

But the now 7-2 Raiders bounced back to rip Pontiac Northern, 61-53.

The "Northwest Sleeper" then fell to sleep against the Redskins of Oak Park.

"We just got beat," stated Dean after the eight point loss to Oak Park. "We moved out of our regular press offense and should have made just the needed adjustments instead of a wholesale change."

"But we won't be caving in now," exclaimed the North coach. "These kids of mine have a lot of savvy."

"Even though we lost our first league game, we still put on our ties and walked out of the Oak Park gym with our heads high. We will suck that loss in and come back."

North held a slim, 13-12 first quarter edge over Oak Park but slipped behind at the half, 28-27, on a 20 foot shot by Willie Rankins at the buzzer.

Rankins continued his shots as he finished with a game high of 321 points followed by teammate Frank Miles with 22.

"I knew at the half that it would be a close one all the way," said Dean.

Mike Daley put North up to start the second half, 29-28, but the Redskins spurred in front, 38-33 with 5:10 remaining in the third quarter.

North again closed in and took a 45-40 lead with 1:57 left in the stanza. Oak Park fought back and again Rankins hit a desperation shot at the buzzer to put the Redskins within one heading into the last eight minutes, 45-44.

Two minutes into the final period, three straight buckets by Jim Fredericks gave North a 58-50 advantage. Oak Park called a timeout and came back with two consecutive three - point plays to slice it to 58-56.

That was all the spark the Redskins needed as they went on a rampage, outscoring North, 20-4, in the final 5:58, with the Raiders coming up with 10 of their game total 21 turnovers in that span.

Oak Park hit 10 of 21 from the floor in that quarter to compliment its eight of 14 third quarter. Twelve of Oak Park's 26 points in that final stanza came by way of the layup route, Frank Miles pumping in 12 points.

Franklin gets by Thurston, 82-79

By TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Franklin basketball Coach Bob Visser must have nightmares about playing in the Thurston High gym.

"Two seasons ago, Visser's Patriots were caught off guard in a stunning 75-60 upset and last year squeaked out a 63-61 victory.

Now with Franklin picking up steam in its attempt to dethrone John Glenn from the Northwest title seat, Visser again invaded the Thurston gym.

Visser all but grabbed his three point final margin and sprinted out of the Thurston gym, an 82-79 victory.

It was Franklin's sixth consecutive triumph against two opening defeats and the Patriots remain the lone unbeaten team in the Northwest loop with a 3-0 mark, followed by North Farmington and John Glenn with a 2-1.

"Thurston played one fantastic game," commented Visser. "They are always a factor to contend with, especially on its own court. We just couldn't shut them off."

"I didn't want to slow my kids down so we had to run with them."

For Franklin, it was its closest margin of victory yet and for Thurston it was its fifth straight setback and eighth overall in nine games.

"I was very happy with our performance except for the final score," said Thurston Coach Dan Bennett. "We were up against some pretty good odds and the kids gave a 100 per cent effort all the way."

"That second quarter was our best eight minutes of basketball this season," he said as Thurston outscored the Patriots, 27-23.

In fact, a 1-7 Thurston club won the last three quarters against the then 5-2 Franklin which a week prior had won the last three quarters against Churchill in a come from behind, 65-59 victory.

Field goal percentage had Franklin a 54 per cent victor on 31 of 57 with Thurston checking in at 42 per cent, 28 of 62.

Franklin's offensive attack was almost a two-man showing with two of the top nine scorers in Observerland taking over.

The area's No. 1 scorer Kevin Kaseta pumped in 12 of 16 from the floor and three of six from the line for 27 points. Jamie Knapp, No. 9 scorer in Observerland, hit nine of 16 from the field and seven of nine at the line for 23 points.

That left 30 points to be accounted for in Franklin's attack in six other player's columns.

Thurston sported a scoring machine in Kurt Beadle who shared game honors with Kaseta with 27 points. For Beadle it upped his nine game output to 123 points and a 13.7 average.

Franklin got off to a nine for 19 from the floor first quarter and a 24-14 lead, Kaseta hitting five of seven for 11 points.

The Patriots came back with a 10 for 13 second quarter and 23 points. Knapp scored eight but Franklin was outdone by the Eagle attack.

Thurston hit on nine of 18 tosses from the floor and Beadle popped in six buckets, to slice it to 47-41 at the half.

Visser had to start thinking about his visions.

Thurston kept up its pace, taking the third stanza, 20-18, and the last eight minutes, 18-17. But the Eagles just couldn't overcome the first quarter deficit.

The closest Thurston got was at the buzzer when Cory Rodriguez pumped in a field goal to slice it to three.

Thurston won the boarding game, 55-20, Kaseta hauling in 19 to up his eight contest output to 139. Keith Blazaitis added 12 and Knapp eight.

The front - running Patriots are now faced with three consecutive key Northwest showdowns.

It will be North Farmington at Franklin Friday. The Patriots hit the road next week for the start of a five game road trip with a Jan. 25 date at Oak Park and Feb. 1 contest at John Glenn decisive factors in the Northwest drive.

"North's loss to Oak Park wasn't a surprise," said Visser. "But we are expecting a dogfight to the finish."

Thurston and Garden City East are currently bringing up the Northwest rear with 0-3 marks. The Eagles travel to Glenn Friday.

Waterford tops Falcons, 70-66

After snapping a six game losing streak with a pair of two contest victories, Farmington slipped back into the depths of defeat.

Waterford dropped the Falcons 70-66.

It was a two all tie in quarters with Farmington winning the second and fourth periods, Waterford taking the first and third. But the Falcons couldn't make up the ground lost in the opening stanza.

Waterford sped to a 17-8 first quarter edge after Farmington had led 6-2, on two buckets by Bob Drake and a solo by Larry Cavins. Waterford then reeled off 15 points to Farmington's two to take a commanding 17-8 lead.

The Falcons fought back to win the second stanza, 16-13, and it was 30-24 at the half.

Waterford outscored Farmington, 22-17, in the third quarter and the Falcons found themselves faced with a 52-41 deficit.

The Falcons hit 10 of 15 from the floor in the quarter. Jeff Herman scored eight points and Dave Tyler six. With 10 seconds remaining, a bucket by Tyler sliced it to 68-66 but Waterford got the clincher on a long pass to Bob Foster who popped it home with seven seconds left.

Farmington outshot Waterford, percentage wise, 46 per cent on 25 of 54. Waterford hit 26 of 59 for 44 per cent.

Doug Verlee's 22 grabs paced Waterford to a 43-36 rebounding advantage. Al Byski at 6-2 headed Farmington with 15 grabs.

Southfield Lathrup bobbles away Rochester overtime clash, 75-71

The Met Suburban defending basketball champions have fallen into a hole that is going to be awful tough to get out of.

Southfield Lathrup, champions of the first year Met loop with a 10-0 mark along with an overall 20-2 record last year, tripped and fell to Rochester Adams in overtime, 75-71.

It was Lathrup's second loss in three league outings and gives the Chargers an overall record of 3-4.

What made the defeat ever so hard for Lathrup Coach Jim Kourtakis was the fact of blowing a tremendous lead.

The Chargers let a 42-26 halftime margin slip to 54-46 after three quarters only to have it tied at 69-all in regulation play. Rochester then outscored Lathrup in the extra period, 6-2.

"We probably played the finest half of basketball ever at Lathrup in that first half," commented Kourtakis. "And the score shows it."

"But the second half was just terrible. We didn't do anything right. We were throwing it away and taking all sorts of bad shots."

"We got Rochester to make 10 turnovers in the first half but only two in the second. They won the important half."

Lathrup slipped ahead after one quarter, 16-12, and exploded in the second period for 26 points. The Chargers hit 11 of 17 from the floor. John Gardner popped in seven points and Lathrup had a 42-28 margin and appeared to be ready to pull away.

Rochester bounced back in the third quarter, 20-12, and slice it to 54-46 heading into the last eight minutes.

"We were really loafing on defense," added the Lathrup coach. "Our lack of hustle paved the way for Rochester's win."

Rochester took the lead with 1 1/2 minutes remaining and it was Lathrup that sent the contest into overtime on two free - throws by Gardner to notch it at 69-all.

Rochester won the three minute overtime tip, and jumped up, 71-69. John Harding tied it up for Lathrup but Rochester took over as Lathrup committed a turnover and Adams popped in two free - throws in the closing seconds to seal the victory.

Lathrup finished with 30 of 64 from the floor for 47 per cent and Rochester hit 34 of 76 for 45 per cent.

Rebounding was the key story. Lathrup was up on the boards, 21-13, at the half, but was outrebounded in the second 16 minutes, 30-14.

Ski Heil

By BILL CAMERON

Boyne Country inaugurates skiers express bus service

Anticipating a lack of gasoline for skiers, Everett Kircher, Boyne Country impresario, is at least one ski resort owner to take direct action in protecting his market.

Kircher recently announced subsidizing a skiers express bus service direct from major Michigan metropolitan areas to Boyne Country. A pilot program will bus skiers from the Oakland Mall in Troy directly to the Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands resorts.

The buses will leave at 7 p.m. with the Boyne Mountain express stopping at Boyne Mt. and three locations in Petoskey. The Boyne Highlands express will go to Petoskey first, and then directly to the Highlands resort.

Passengers not lodged directly at either the Mountain or the Highlands will be picked up at the debarkation points in Petoskey by the innkeepers they choose to patronize. The buses will pick up passengers on Saturday and Sunday morning for skiing.

The buses will depart for Detroit after skiing on Sunday, and to sweeten the joys of busing, a 50 cent discount on lift tickets is offered to all bus passengers. That's the best news I've heard for a long time. If you haven't traveled by bus before, try it. Next to train travel, it's the most relaxed way to go. You won't have to worry about weather or traffic. You can sleep going or coming. In short, it can be fun all the way around.

I beat the crowd Sunday. Wanting to watch the Super Bowl and not wanting to pay for a full-day lift ticket, I decided to go cross-country skiing instead. My friend, John Barnett, of the Viking Ski Shop, recommended Cass Benton Park in Plymouth.

And that's where I headed. If you want to get out in the fresh air and get some exercise at no expense, this is for you. I started out freezing, but within 15 minutes I was perspiring. I even found a couple of downhill runs equal to some of our local ski areas which I skied with reckless abandon. The fun part is being able to walk up the hill without side-stepping or doing the herring-bone.

You just point your skis uphill and start walking. If you've waxed properly you won't slide back. No waiting in line and no crowds.

Stevenson dunks Franklin; Churchill, GC West falter

Livonia Stevenson won the 200 yard medley relay, captured four firsts, six seconds and four thirds in topping city rival Franklin in a non-league swim match, 90-82.

Other action saw Garden City East splash by Dearborn Annapolis, 105-65;

Northville dunking Churchill in a Western Six match, 57-26; and Garden City West falling to Crestwood in a Tri-River meet, 88-84.

Mark Blanchard was a double winner for East in its Annapolis victory. Dale Swazene established a record in the 50 freestyle with a :24.0 clocking.

Waterford Mott rips Harrison

A second quarter lapse spelled defeat for Farmington Harrison in its third Western Six cage clash.

After taking an early second quarter lead over Waterford Mott, 14-13, the Hawk machine broke down and Mott exploded for 27 points while holding Harrison to nine.

A 38-19 halftime Mott margin was upped to 60-30 after three quarters and the Hawks headed for their sixth setback overall in eight games, 83-52.

Mott shot 13 for 23 from the floor in the explosive second quarter while Harrison hit on only two of nine.

"Their speed and quickness just took it to us," commented Harrison Coach Bob Sutter whose Hawks host Northville Friday.

Mott finished 34 of 76 from the floor for 44 per cent and Harrison, which had 28 fewer shots from the floor, hit 33 per cent on 16 of 48.

WL Western tops Canton, 78-70

A three minute scoring lapse cost Plymouth Canton its first varsity basketball victory ever.

The Canton Chiefs, now 0-8, failed to score a point in the final three minutes of the first half and that was all. Walled Lake Western needed to tip the Plymouth team, 78-70, in a Western Six clash.

Walled Lake slipped ahead after one quarter, 16-15 and it was nip-and-tuck in the three minutes remaining in the opening half.

That's when Western reeled off eight straight points to carry a 38-30 lead at the half.

Canton moved to within three and four points the second half but the Chiefs just couldn't put it together to overcome the first half lapse.

Both squads pumped in 18 points in the third and 22 in the fourth quarter with the first half eight point spread holding up.

Canton hit 42 per cent from the floor, Ron Lack scoring 18, Tom Close 16 and Brian Stemberger 15 for the Chiefs.

Ferndale crushes Southfield, 75-46

"We are steadily going down," commented Blue Jay head mentor Don Kaup after his Southfield cagers tumbled before Ferndale, 75-46.

"This has been such a disappointing season," he added. "Our rebounding strength just hasn't been there. I guess we will have to ride the remaining part of the season out and hope to pull some out."

Southfield was picked by many to be a contender in the Southeastern Michigan Conference with seven starters returning but the Ferndale setback was No. six in eight overall contests and third straight in the loop.

top of the league with perfect 4-0 marks.

Southfield stayed with Ferndale in the first quarter, trailing only, 15-13, after eight minutes. It was a different story as the Eagles blew Southfield off the court, 21-5, to take a commanding 36-18 lead at the half.

Ferndale went on to out-score Southfield in the third quarter, 17-11 and 22-17 in the final stanza.

Southfield was without the services of its No. 1 rebounder Dave Trowbridge and Ferndale roared to a 52-25 advantage. Ferndale hauled in 28 offensive rebounds while holding the Blue Jays to 14 offensive and 11 defensive.

"Ferndale was taking three or four shots every time it went down court while we were slapping at the elbows," said Kaup.

The shooting game was far off from the rebound battle as Ferndale hit 31 of 62 for 50 per cent and Southfield shot only 16 of 63 for 25 per cent.

The Blue Jays travel to Royal Oak Kimball on Friday.

RU dumped, 57-40

Redford Union basketball Coach Carl Andrews is having his troubles with "first quarter blues."

"You know, we haven't won a first quarter yet this season," commented Andrews after his Panthers fell to Dearborn Edsel Ford for their seventh defeat in nine attempts, 57-40. "For some reason the first quarter does us in almost every time."

Edsel Ford hustled to a 19-7 first period edge over RU and this was the game. "They came out and shot well and we didn't do a thing," added the RU coach whose Panthers invade Plymouth Salem Friday night.

RU hit only three of 12 in the first from the floor and four of 16 in the second quarter with the Ford Thunderbirds dancing to a 32-16 half-time advantage.

The Panthers did manage to win the third quarter, 12-8, but fell off stride in the final eight minute stand, 17-12.

RU's performance at the freethrow line had to run a close second to the "first quarter blues" as the Panthers converted only four of 20 along with missing on eight one - and - one situations.

Meanwhile Edsel Ford hit 11 of 24 at the charity line and 47 per cent from the floor with RU scoring 33 per cent.

Four of Andrews' starting seniors failed to notch a point in the scoring column with the RU attack falling to four juniors and one sophomore, all with six points each. Juniors Gary Kochish, Randy Aardal, Gregg Wood and Keith Meredith along with sophomore Sweeney provided the punch.

RU did manage to win the rebound game, 38-37, 6-6 Kochish hauling in 11.

Turf Tips, Quilps

By Doc Minard

With three weeks remaining of the Jackson - at - Northville winter meeting, the top contenders for spots in the $10,000 finale of the late closing pace stake series are gradually making themselves known.

Easy Tom, winner of the series in the early winter series, isn't among the competitors in the current action and neither is Zepher Q, winner of three legs, in the earlier meeting.

Thus it appeared that the nominees for the new stake wouldn't measure up to that of the late fall. However, competition has been just as keen now and in fact may even be closer with the horses more evenly matched.

For instance in Saturday's two qualifiers, a pair of relatively newcomers came out with top honors.

Those who had forgotten that diminutive Merritt Dokey is one of the better reinsmen in the area, lived to regret it when he ran Blazer Chip to a stunning triumph in the eighth race.

Blazer Chip, a five-year-old from the Frank Alexander stable of Howell, went postward at 7-1 odds and looked all the part when Dokey held it back in the field.

It seemed that Dokey was watching for Ardens Rader, choice of the bettors and a seven-length winner a week earlier, to make a bid. When Arden's Rader took off after the leaders, Dokey was close behind.

However, the Rader didn't have the late lick this time and Blazer Chip was still fourth and on the outside at the three-quarters post. Dokey took to the extreme outside and moved ahead midway through the stretch.

That's when Livonia owned Tiger Jet, famed for his belated rallies, came storming up and it was a seesaw scrap to the wire with Dokey winning by a long neck over Tom Harmer who was handling the Tiger. The time was 2:00.4 over a slow track.

Blazer Chip rewarded his backers with $16.20 for a win ticket.

In the second elimination, Kimber R Range, a four-year-old owned by Bob Wilkerson of Cassopolis, Mich., took a lead and stayed in front all the way to win in 2:09.1.

Knox Abbe, a seven-year-old owned by Deloris Rosdeler of Liberty Center, O., made a bid in the stretch but couldn't quite catch the leader.

Kimber R Range went postward at 3-1 odds and returned $8.80.

The meeting continues through the final week of the month with the championship slated for the closing Saturday, Feb. 2.

Then Northville Downs opens its 30th meeting on the following Monday and goes through the middle of March.

There'll be a few changes in the official family at that time with Harry Peterson returning as racing secretary and Tom Smith, who has handled all of the Jackson meets, becoming his chief aide.

Peterson was among the missing a year ago when business commitments in Florida kept him from handling the 'Downs winter campaign.

Mrs. Ann Butt will replace Mrs. Nancy Stefanelli as clerk of course. She served in that capacity during the Jackson - at - Northville meeting.

The judges stand will include Clair Cook, Frank Utter and Frank Meharg with Elwood McIlmurray as starter.

Earl Flora, publicity chief of Wolverine Raceway, was elected president of the Harness Horse Publicists Assn. during the winter meeting recently in Florida.

After 9 years of teaching in the Detroit Public Schools, I was forced to admit to myself that I was working more and enjoying it less. # Last quarter spurt pushes Bentley by Trenton

The next two weeks will reveal just what the Bentley High basketball team is made of.

"These next two weeks, four games... will determine our season," commented Bentley Coach John Farrar whose Bulldogs knocked off Trenton, 62-56.

It was Bentley's sixth win overall against two setbacks and third victory in the Suburban 'Eight against a one-point loss at the hands of Plymouth Salem.

Farrar's Bulldogs find themselves in a four-way tie for first in the Sub Eight. Allen Park, Plymouth Salem, Dearborn and Bentley all sport 3-1 loop records.

But the scramble is soon to be solved.

In the next two weeks, Bentley plays the three clubs it is currently tied with. It starts with Dearborn High Friday. Next Tuesday's action has the Bulldogs hosting the No. 1 team in Observ-erland in Churchill High for a key non-league clash with Allen Park on Jan. 25 and Plymouth Salem on Feb. 1 the key loop clashes.

"Of these three important league games, two wins will look good for us," added the Bentley coach. "I was really surprised at the Plymouth Salem score over Allen Park if not the end result."

Salem crushed previously unbeaten Allen Park, 78-54, while Bentley was getting by Trenton.

"This was kind of a funny game," commented Farrar on the Trenton game. "It seemed like we were behind all the way and here they are with just one win."

Trenton spurted to a 6-2 lead and led near the end of the opening quarter, 14-11. Alex Charns and Eric Bracke put Bentley up at the end of one quarter, 16-15.

The Bulldogs then jumped on Bentley in the second quarter as the Bulldogs could only muster one bucket the first five minutes. Farrar got his squad untracked as they sliced it to 20-28 at the half.

Bentley again fell behind, 42-35, as Trenton outscored the Bulldogs, 12-7. The tide changed and Bentley outscored the Trojans, 6-2, in the last two minutes of the quarter to make it 43-42 heading into the last eight minutes.

The Bulldog machine that had scored 235 points in its last three games, finally woke up and took the lead for good with 5:10 remaining on a bucket by Bracke to make it 49-46.

The Bulldogs wound up hitting seven of 11 from the floor in that quarter and outscoring Trenton, 20-13.

Bentley finished 26 of 59 from the floor for 44 per cent. Trenton shot a startling 59 per cent but took 29 shots less than Bentley making 23 of 38.

Trenton also won the rebounding game, 29-28, and in turn won the turnover contest, 19-9.

Bentley with 23 points. Trenton's Steve Deller took game honors with 27.

Bentley falls to Stevenson

Stevenson hockey power still stands high over Bentley High.

The Bulldog puckmen who have failed to beat Stevenson in the past three seasons, let a 2-0 first period lead slip away into a 6-3 defeat.

Stevenson came up with three goals in each the last two periods while the Bulldogs could only muster one in the second.

It was Stevenson's fifth Suburban loop victory against one loss and puts the Spartans in sole possession of first. Bentley slipped to second with a 4-2-1 record.

The Bulldogs are in action tonight at Ford ice rink against Franklin (8 p.m.) while Stevenson hosts Wyandotte in the Friday, 7 p.m. clash at Ford.

Bentley didn't waste any time getting on the board against Spartan netminder Curt Downs. Tom McLean flipped a shot in with only 19 seconds elapsed. Bob Wasilewski made it 2-0 with 3:22 left in the period and the Bulldogs showed signs of skating Stevenson right off the ice.

Goals by Paul Vermeesch, Jeff McDonald and Steve Hillman pushed Stevenson to a 3-2 lead in the second with a tally by Dave Manogian giving Bentley a three-all tie heading into the final 15 minutes.

With 52 seconds gone, Brian VanNorman beat Bulldog goalie Russ Brown to break the deadlock. Wally McMurray and Steve Hillman followed suit for Stevenson and the Spartans again came out with the upper hand.

The next and final shot Bentley will have at Stevenson could be in the George Gee/Observer Newspapers sponsored tourney held at the end of the season.

'Moceri Project' draws both support, opposition

PCDC supports Moceri rezoning

The Plymouth - Canton Development Commission (PCDC) has voted to support the rezoning necessary for the regional shopping center development known as the Moceri Project.

Proposed as a combination development that would include a Westland-type shopping center, offices and housing developments, the project would be built by Moceri Building Co. at Joy and Sheldon roads in Canton Township.

The PCDC is comprised of three members each from the city of Plymouth, Plymouth and Canton Townships and the Plymouth School Board which share in the commission's funding. Its goal is to encourage non-

Accountability issue resolved privately

By MARIE MCGEE

CANTON The accountability issue involving Canton Township Planning Commissioner Joseph Kinnick and Township Trustee Brian Schwall appears to have been solved quietly behind the scenes.

Supervisor Philip Dingeldey announced at the board of trustees' Jan. 7 meeting that he has talked with Kinnick over the latter's poor attendance at recent Citizens Advisory Council meetings.

Planning commissioners were automatic members of the citizens group studying land use patterns. Purpose of the study was to provide citizen input on a new master zoning plan that was eventually drafted by the township planner.

Dingeldey reported Kinnick saying he was unable to attend the weekly sessions spanning six months because of personnel problems in a tool shop business he owns.

The problem apparently has been solved, Dingeldey said, and Kinnick assured him he will attend any future special meetings the council may hold.

"If he can't, he will make other arrangements," Dingeldey quoted Kinnick as saying.

Kinnick and Schwall tangled publicly after a recent planning commission meeting when Kinnick stated that he was "not accountable to you (Schwall) or to anyone" for his poor attendance. Prior to his statement, several members of the advisory council were highly critical of Kinnick's attendance record and also that of another commissioner, Bob Padgett.

At the time, both were the newest members of the planning commission. They stood to gain the most from the informative sessions coordinated by township planner Michael Manore, argued several council members.

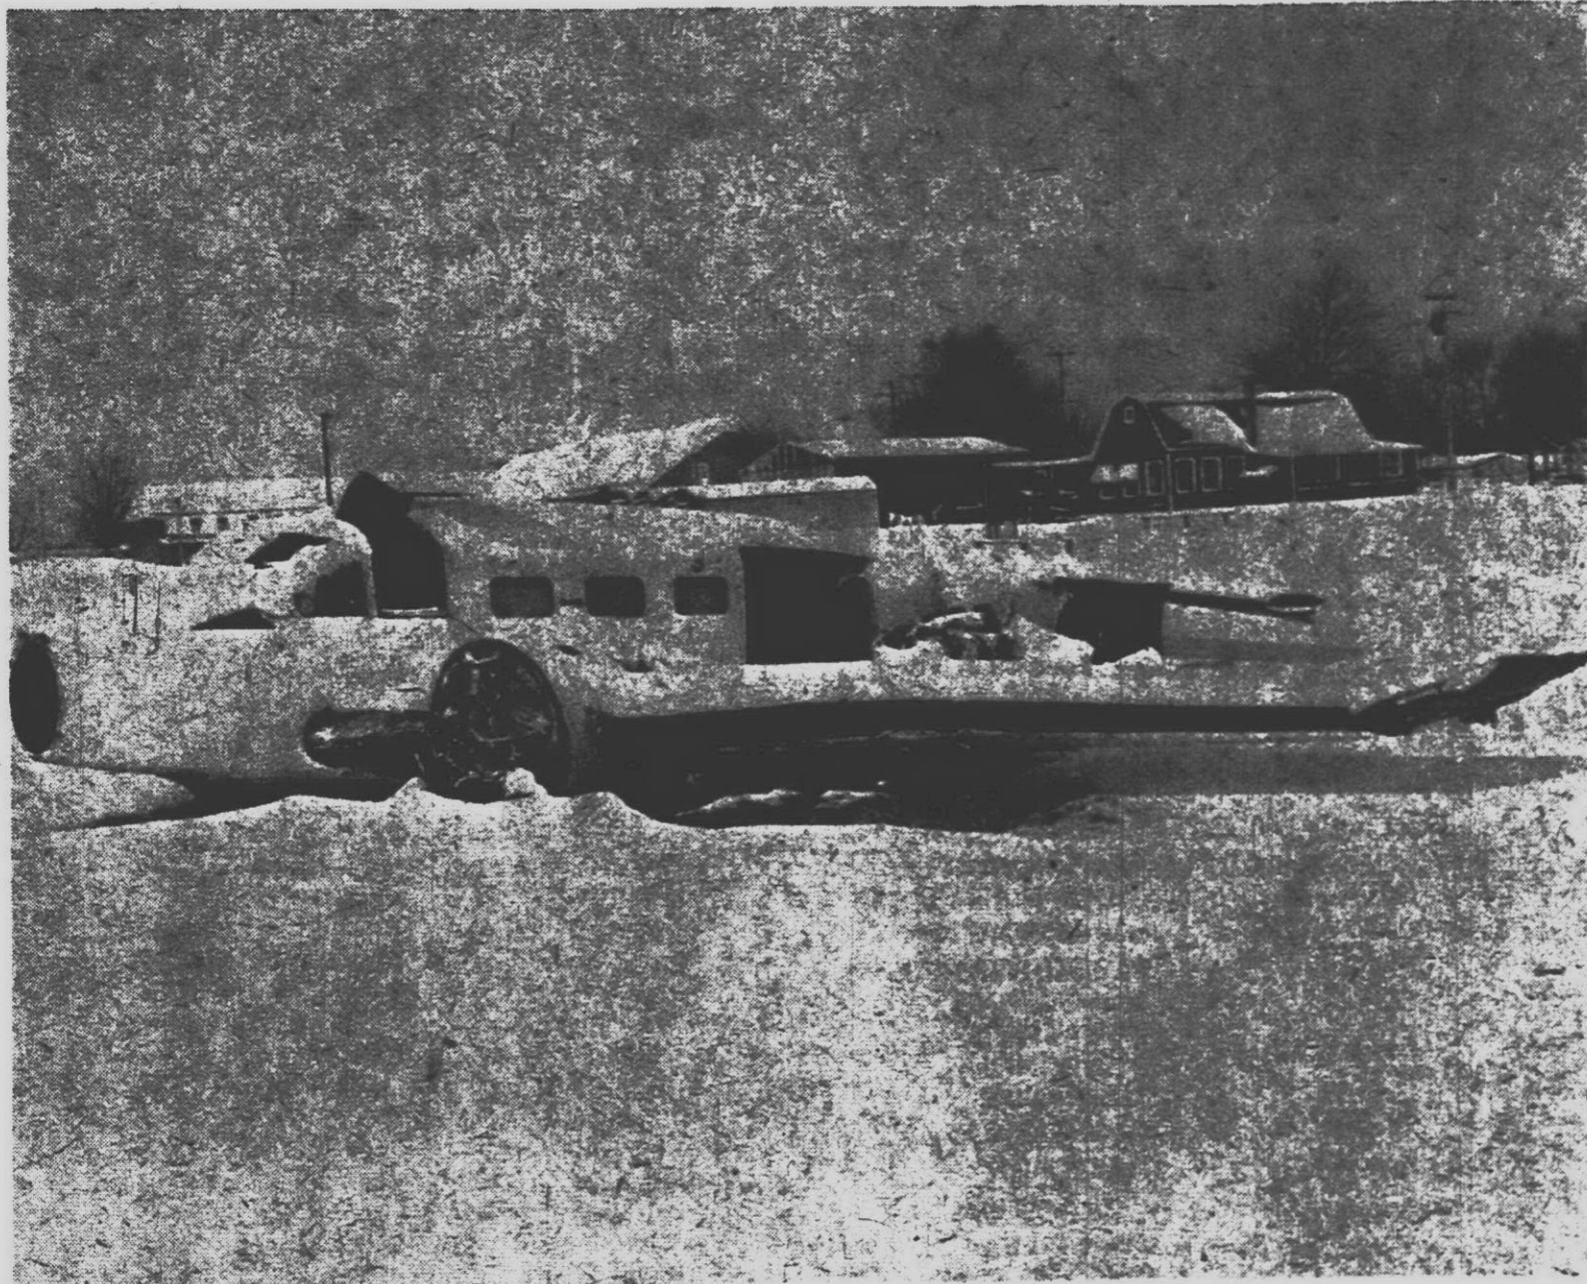

Schwall brought up the accountability statement at the board of trustees' pre-Christmas meeting and asked Dingeldey to take action.

At the outset of the advisory council's meetings, Padgett explained that he would be unable to attend them because he was enrolled in a class. He has since resigned after serving a few months on the commission.

"We'll be considering a replacement for him soon," commented Dingeldey.

Will Canton start its own police, library services?

CANTON Will Canton Township establish its own police department in the foreseeable future, possibly using $60,000 from this year's budget as seed money?

Hardly, believes Township Clerk John Flodin, when asked if the township had an alternative use in mind for the $60,000 allocated in this year's budget for police protection, if it is not used for the original purpose.

The $60,000 was placed in the budget as a contingency in the event the rumored phasing-out of the Wayne County Sheriff Road Patrol became a reality and the township has to begin paying for police protection later in the year.

Stressing that the opinion he voiced was strictly his own, the township clerk said he felt the township would "ultimately contract for police protection from the sheriff" rather than establish its own department.

He said that close scrutiny of costs "is beginning to make me favor this more and more."

"A police department is a real, big operation, requiring many dollars," he continued with verbal emphasis on the words "real big."

In any event, he said, the township certainly wouldn't "fritter away" the $60,000. What will probably happen is that the sum will be shifted for another use. It's possible, he continued, that it will become further financial support in the township's quest for a centrally located municipal complex.

In line with this thinking, Flodin disclosed that he met informally this week with Plymouth City Manager Fred Yockey, Plymouth Township Supervisor J. D. McLaren, Plymouth Librarian, Beth Simescu and county officials to discuss problems currently plaguing library operations.

To further explore the situation, township and city officials of the three communities will meet in February.

Flodin said county figures show that 42 per cent of the population served by the Plymouth library live in Canton, but only 17.5 per cent of them use the facility.

Flodin attributed this to the fact that residents make use of the facility closest to their homes. Hence, those living in the southern part of the township use the Wayne library rather than traveling to Plymouth despite the fact that the township pays $10,000 a year toward the Plymouth library.

Flodin said county officials agreed that there is merit in Canton having its own library in the proposed township hall complex.

Presently the three governmental units share in the operation of the 8,000-square foot facility located in Plymouth. The time has come, the officials agreed, that the facility must be enlarged to meet the needs of a growing population.

Whether the venture will continue to be a cooperative one or whether Canton will split from the group and "go it alone" was one of the items under discussion, Flodin said.

Canton municipal complex funds shown in new budget

CANTON While major emphasis is on upgrading the township's fire department, the budget does show a $60,000 allocation for police protection. (See related story.)

The expenditure falls in the "iffy" category, explained Township Clerk John Flodin. The money is there, he continued, to take care of any costs that could arise in the controversy over police protection now supplied by the Sheriff's Road Patrol.

County commissioners recently agreed to continue road patrols in the townships until at least August of this year.

"We hope we won't have to use it -- but it's there if we need it," said Flodin.

In presenting the budget, Supervisor Philip Dingeldey explained that previous fire department budget figures, calling for six additional firemen, were scaled down slightly when it was determined that extra manpower would not be necessary.

This occurred, said Dingeldey, when it became apparent that the proposed Warren Road fire station would not be completed in time to warrant the extra manpower.

The original $208,000 budget request was trimmed to $190,000. That figure provides for three additional firemen as well as $18,000 for services of volunteers in the event they are needed.

Under building and improvements, the budget earmarks $125,000, largely for the construction of the new fire station.

Capital equipment outlay was set at $82,500. Most of that will go toward the purchase of a $75,000 "squirt tower" fire engine that the township should receive by fall of this year. It is one of two the township has on order. A second engine of the same design will be delivered the following year for approximately the same price.

For land improvements, the township was set aside $83,834. Most of this, Flodin said, will serve as partial payment for land the township is acquiring through condemnation procedures.

The acreage is north of the Cherry Hill fire station and is destined to be part of proposed township recreation-administrative office complex (pictured earlier this year in the Plymouth Mail and Observer).

The site is adjacent to a 20-acre site the township previously acquired from a state recreational grant that helps communities develop park areas.

Salaries of all township officials did not go up, the budget shows. Other expenditures include $87,000 to continue with house-to-house rubbish pickup that was initiated last year.

The budget reveals that the township started the year with cash on hand of $288,000. Expected property tax revenues were listed as $514,000; building permits were expected to add another $80,000. Additional revenues included an estimated $148,000 in sales and use taxes and $12,000 from state shared revenue. Income from trailer park fees was envisioned at $9,000.

Windsor Park vows 'militant' fight of Moceri

CANTON A new board of directors, pledged to fight the Moceri project, was recently elected by the Windsor Park Civic Assn. of Canton Township.

Those taking office include: Carl Parsell, president; Dave Anderson, vice president; Steve Evans, secretary; Linda Pate, treasurer.

Parsell described his group as "a watch dog committee, watching and protecting the homeowners of Windsor Park and Canton Township."

He said the new policy will be both "militant and pacific."

He elaborated, "When the people are united against something like the Moceri project, then the association will be militant."

"When we have problems among the neighbors, we will be pacific."

Parsell said the group would also be both political and non-political.

"We will be non-political and keep out of party politics. But when public officials stop listening to the people, it will be our association who shall so inform the people."

He said the homeowners plan to have their own voter registration drive and educate the people on the right to recall and referendum.

Parsell referred to the fight against the Moceri development as first priority and a regular newsletter as second priority.

"Besides telling the people what we are doing, we will tell what the politicians are doing (or failing to do) on the local level and on the state level."

Objections have been focused on the location rather than the total concept.

Parsell said the association board hopes to assist other groups in organizing for the same purpose.

City names building inspector

PLYMOUTH Edgar A. Talbot, 43, of Northville, has been named Plymouth's chief building inspector replacing the late Marvin G. Hasty.

The appointment is effective Jan. 14.

Talbot has had 16 years of inspection and supervisory service with the City of Detroit and the State of Michigan. He holds a bachelor degree in business administration from Wayne State University.

"I am confident that Mr. Talbot will provide the city with a fair and efficient building inspection operation," said City Manager Fred L. Yockey in announcing the appointment.

Besides conducting new construction inspections, Talbot will reinstitute systematic inspections of rental dwellings, the city manager said, and will revamp the building and safety department's records filing system to insure accurate and up-to-date inspections and reinspections.

Other duties include serving on various licensing boards and responding to citizen appeals before the Building Board of Appeals.

The proposed project at the corner of Joy and Sheldon roads is a 60,000-square foot complex with shopping, entertainment and various kinds of housing units.

Crime war may take tax boost

A 10-year, $135-million "war against crime" in Wayne County has been proposed by the chairman of the County Board of Commissioners.

Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick proposed a county-wide spring election to offer voters the option of voting a one-mill property tax increase for a 10-year period to be used solely for public safety programs.

Eighty per cent of the $13.5 million annual revenue from the millage would be returned to the 43 cities and townships in Wayne County for use in public safety programs as determined by the local governing bodies.

FitzPatrick proposed that the funds, amounting to about $10.7 million, be distributed through a "fair share" formula based on each community's aggregate property valuation and population.

He made his proposal at a recent meeting of the board at which he was elected to his fourth consecutive one-year term as chairman.

In announcing his anti-crime plan, FitzPatrick declared:

"The mayors and councilmen of our cities and the supervisors and trustees of our townships are plagued by the glaring need for adequate police protection and more effective law enforcement."

"The citizens of our county perceive that crime is the major problem in their com-

Esch bill approved

WASHINGTON By an overwhelming margin, the House has given final approval to the Daniels-Esch bill providing localities throughout the nation with the power to administer their own job training and public employment programs.

U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch, (R-Ann Arbor) chief Republican sponsor of the Comprehensive Manpower Act, described the measure as "landmark legislation" because "it embodies for the first time in legislation passed by the Congress the manpower revenue sharing concept which is a move toward decategorization and decentralization."

The job training bill, which includes a program to help ease unemployment caused by the energy crisis, will "give officials at the state and local levels the flexibility they must have to determine the programs that best fit their needs," said Esch, whose 2nd District includes Plymouth, Northville and Livonia.

The compromise bill was hammered out in a House-Senate conference committee on which Esch and Daniels served. It represents the culmination of nearly four years' effort to consolidate the sprawling federal manpower programs.

Esch cited the bill as an example of "what can be accomplished when we overcome the adversary relationship that has existed between the White House and the Congress."

He said, "This legislation was developed with the strong cooperation of the legislative branch, the White House staff, the office of Management and Budget, the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Manpower as well as representatives of the Governor's Conference, the National Association of Counties, the mayors and those representing the labor community. It is a specific example of what can occur when all of us work together for the public good."

Esch noted, "In this act, Congress is developing the programs to meet upcoming problems in our economy. It recognizes that there will be possible major displacements in our economy within certain areas of the country directly attributable to the energy crisis. This bill will rifle funds into such localities, assisting in development of retraining programs or public employment programs to help relieve the hardships found in pockets of high unemployment."

The bill also has been given final approval by the Senate.

munities, and it is a problem that transcends political boundaries and most seriously threatens children and women and the elderly."

FitzPatrick described his plan as "a 10-year, $135-million war against crime."

One mill equals $1 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (SEV). The levy would amount to $10 a year - about 84 cents a month - on property worth $20,000 because property is assessed at half its market value. The county tax rate is now $7.07 per $1,000.

"The average property owner has an opportunity to launch a major new attack on crime at very little cost to himself under this proposal," FitzPatrick commented.

Like municipalities, he said, the county needs a means of funding criminal justice system improvements, particularly programs initiated in recent years with federal funds which soon will expire.

An estimated $5-million in such programs funded through county agencies will expire within three years, FitzPatrick said. These include the highly successful Metropolitan Narcotics Squad and the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force.

The county also faces a continuing obligation to improve county jail conditions, to provide out-county jail and court facilities, and to improve methods of dealing with youth crime, he added.

The county would retain $2.8 million of the millage revenue.

Under the "fair share" formula proposed by FitzPatrick, the amount of funds returned to a community would be governed by two factors: 1970 census population and property valuation.

One-half the redistributed funds would be returned on the population factor and one-half would be returned on the property valuation factor.

Thus, with some 2,670,000 persons in the county in 1970 and $5.3 million available for redistribution according to census, each community would receive about $2 per person per year from this half of the formula.

The other $5.3-million would be redistributed on a state equalized valuation basis equal to four-tenths of a mill of the SEV of each community.

As the SEV changes, this share of the funding would vary accordingly in each community, FitzPatrick said.

LET'S GET FRESH!

by DOC KEETH

This is not advocating uncouth actions toward the fair sex. Our crusade for today is for fresh indoor air. This should strike a responsive chord in all you stale air sufferers... all jillion of you.

Many homes today inflict stale air on their occupants simply because the heating system does not provide constant air circulation. Air settles in stuffy layers and pockets. Warm air rises and escapes out the roof at a too-rapid rate, causing high fuel bills.

The bright spot in the picture is that a good many of these homes can be "cured" easily without additional equipment. If they have a good forced air heating system, all that is needed is an adjustment for CONTINUOUS AIR CIRCULATION.

I don't mean a big, constant blast of air through your house. I mean gentle, almost imperceptible, circulation of air. It can make a world of difference in your comfort. A breath of spring in the dead of winter!

You don't exactly get this with just a twist of the wrist... but almost. Qualified heating experts can do the job in a jiffy.

That's us... qualified through experience and Lennox factory training. Call us, we will answer with glee.

Metroparks offer peak conditions for winter sports

Five Metroparks throughout southeastern Michigan offer excellent facilities for winter sports, including cross country skiing, and hills for sledding and tobogganing will even be better if additional snow falls this weekend.

Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens offers good perch fishing on the canals, boat basins, Black Creek and Lake St. Clair. Both ice rinks, one for general skating in front of the food bar and the other a hockey rink on the boat basin, are excellent. Nearby are warming shelters, restrooms and food service daily.

Stony Creek Metropark near Utica has six to 10 inches of ice on Stony Creek Lake where there are 20 or more ice fishing shanties and ice fishing is popular. There are two ice skating rinks on the lake, plus several hilly areas for tobogganing and sledding and good snow cover for cross-country skiing. Vending machine food service is offered only at the Boat Rental Building.

Kensington Metropark near

Milford has six to 10 inches of ice on Kent Lake, which has 25 or more shanties, for fishermen who want to try their luck. Cross-country skiing is popular and the special toboggan runs are in good shape.

In addition, there are several hills for sledding at the winter sports area. Ice skating is good at several rinks in front of the boat rental building, where there is food service.

Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville has excellent ice conditions on three ponds, plus wood for rinksides fires but no food service. Toboggan and sledding hills are in good shape at the group campsite area.

Willow Metropark near New Boston features excellent hills for sledding at the Chestnut Hill picnic area.

There are no parking charges at the Metroparks now since the $1 fee applies May through September. For a free Metropark guide map, write to Huron - Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 600 Woodward Avenue, Detroit 48226.

2 accused officials face court Feb. 7

Dr. Pasquale Buoniconti and Dr. Alexander Petrides, two county psychiatrists who have been accused of obtaining money under false pretenses, are scheduled to appear in Plymouth District Court on Feb. 7 for a preliminary examination.

Judge Dunbar Davis set the date after both were arraigned and released on $1,000 bond.

Dr. Petrides was charged following state and county investigations which disclosed that he held two full time public psychiatric posts for

Additionally, Dr. Petrides allegedly maintains a private practice in Livonia which is listed at 28200 W. Seven Mile.

Dr. Buoniconti, superintendent at the child center, was charged after he allegedly ordered Dr. Petrides' time cards destroyed and new ones made.

Safety act seminars are slated

Several seminars on the Occupational Safety and Health Act will be given for businessmen in January to acquaint them with the new requirements on job safety and health standards.

A four-day seminar will be offered at Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia, on Jan. 21-24. One-day seminars will also be offered on Jan. 29, at the Holiday Inn of Farmington, 38123 Ten Mile; and on Jan. 30 in Westland Shopping Center auditorium, Wayne and Warren Rds.

All the seminars are offered at no charge and will run from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Presented by the Greater Detroit Safety Council, the seminars will be conducted by staff members who are familiar with both the letter and spirit of the law.

Registration for the Madonna seminar should be mailed to the Greater Detroit Safety Council, 857 Virginia Park, Detroit 48202.

Registration for the Farmington session can be mailed to Edward J. Lane, executive director, Farmington Chamber of Commerce, 23715 Farmington Rd., Farmington 48024; and registration for the Westland session should be mailed to Sandra Weed, executive manager, Westland Chamber of Commerce, 33250 Warren Rd., Westland, 48185.

Many operators of small and medium size businesses may be in serious violation of the safety law without realizing it. The U.S. Dept. of Labor reported that just 31 per cent of the more than 31,000 businesses checked during the 12 months ending in June 1973 were in compliance with the law.

Businessmen will receive information on implementation of the law, inspection, standards, citations, penalties, state programs, special programs, record keeping, rights and responsibilities and voluntary compliance.

Kenneth Hulsing given promotion at Detroit Diesel

KENNETH L. HULSING.

Kenneth L. Hulsing of Plymouth has been named director of strategic planning, a newly created position at the Detroit Diesel Allison division of General Motors.

The former engineering director will report to James E. Knott, GM vice president and the division's general manager.

Knott, who announced the appointment, said Hulsing's responsibilities will include "coordinating plans for manufacturing diesel engines overseas. He also will coordinate a continuing study to select the best diesel engine product mix, including the possible development of powerplant alternatives."

Hulsing has been with Detroit Diesel Allison since 1942 when he joined the division as an engineering analyst.

His engineering positions include assistant director of engineering laboratories, chief application engineer, staff engineer in charge of product design and assistant director of engineering.

Hulsing was named director of engineering in 1965.

Active in community affairs, he has served the Detroit area Boy Scout Council, earning the Silver Beaver award in 1963.

The Plymouth Community School District has named an elementary school (yet to be constructed) after Hulsing and his wife, Esther, both of whom served the local school board as members and past presidents. Hulsing is also a past president of the Schoolcraft College Foundation and a former regent of the University of Michigan's scholarship committee.
