Schools' growth less than expected

By MARIE McGEE

PLYMOUTH — Not quite as bad as first expected, but still critical enough to demand immediate attention.

That was the gist of a new school population projection report that both explains and adjusts certain miscalculations affecting future expansion in the Plymouth School District.

But even with the new, lower figures, it is estimated the district will still have to build at least one new elementary school for the next three years to keep pace with the zooming population attributed mainly to Canton Township.

That was the prediction of Wade-

Trim and Associates, a Taylor-based engineering - community planning firm that also acts as official planners and the engineers for Canton.

Wade-Trim was retained by the school district to update the figures in the Judd Report of 1972 when it became apparent that the Judd report had overestimated the school enrollment, thus putting future projections in question.

(The Judd Report takes its name from the chairman, Edmond H. Judd, who headed the citizens' group studying school facilities and finances.)

What Wade-Trim discovered was that while the 1970 Judd predictions were fairly accurate, the 1972 projection was not.

For instance, the report estimated the 1973 school enrollment at 13,000 when the actual enrollment was 11,749. The report further indicated that by 1976, there would be 19,000 school-age children while Wade-Trim figures put the number closer to 16,000.

There are a number of reasons for the miscalculations, explained Michael Manore, community planner for Wade-Trim.

One was the committee overestimated the number of single family units that would be built from 1970 to 1972 in Canton Township — where the

Thunderbird Inn fails, put on auction block

By R.T. THOMPSON

After fighting a losing financial battle for more than two years, the Thunderbird Investment Inc. will step out of the picture on April 4 when the building and land will be up for sale in the City-County building.

The sale, termed as one forced by breach of contract by Thunderbird General Manager Arthur Kobierzynski, involves more than $3.8 million in mortgages held by Investors Diversified Services.

Debts also include considerable sums owed contractors and subcontractors on the $6 million project started in November 1971.

At that time Kobierzynski and a syndicate from Missouri reached agreement for the construction of a motel - cocktail lounge complex at a total estimated cost of $6 million or more.

Work started in November 1971 but has been stopped several times since for sewer problems, acquisition of land and similar items.

The big trouble began in May 1972 when contractors called their workers off the job for lack of payment. That situation existed until the following fall when additional funds were secured and work resumed.

But only for a few months and work was interrupted again in November of 1973 for lack of dollars to meet bills.

It was about this time that Kobierzynski discovered the Missouri syndicate didn't have the finances necessary to carry on and he has been searching for new money ever since but was unable to get any group interested.

There has been very little work on the project since last August and the matter was brought to a head by an ad in the Detroit Legal News telling of the upcoming sale.

Thus one of the most pretentious motels in the area will change hands on April 4 and a new group will probably continue with plans for the 200 room motel, five stories high with banquet facilities for 1,100 in a single room, a health club, a game room on the fifth floor and parking for more than 900 cars.

For Kobierzynski it is the end of a boyhood dream, that of having his own ultra - modern motel with the finest facilities and a cocktail lounge - dining room adjacent. It was something he had been working on for years and now the dream has vanished like soap bubbles in the air.

The Thunderbird Inn, site of the plans for the super motel, was opened in 1959 by the late Walter Smith and quickly became one of suburbia's most popular eating places.

Smith was killed in an automobile accident and the Inn was taken over by Henry Halperin. Ownership changed within a year to Robert Campbell and then 12 years ago it was purchased by a trio composed of Kobierzynski, John Carlo and John Klein.

That group has owned it ever since and the Thunderbird thrived and became the place to go under the supervision of Kobierzynski.

But all of that is past history now. The Thunderbird will change hands on April 4, probably to Investors Diversified Services since it holds the huge mortgage.

In the meantime, it appears as if Kobierzynski and his associates will have charge of the Thunderbird Inn for an additional six months when the new owners take over. At least that is the thinking of Kobierzynski as he awaits the outcome of the sale.... and the end of a dream.

A DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP would have been a perfect way to cap an otherwise dismal basketball season, but the Plymouth -Canton Chiefs saw it slip away by five points when they lost to Pinckney last Saturday. That disappointment was displayed by: (from left) four -year -old Mary Parson, the Chiefette's mascot, and Cheerleaders Diane Robinson and Ann Matthews. Also in Saturday's action, Plymouth -Salem Rocks advanced to the regional tournaments playing Livonia's Franklin High School squad last night. For details on that game, see today's sports pages. (Staff photos by Tom Donoghue)

Pioneer 6th graders celebrate ethnic festival

By BOB ERICKSON

PLYMOUTH — The Harlem Globetrotters, a couple of geisha girls, a Mexican singing group, an Asian storyteller, assorted Slavs, a freckled and pigtailed hillbilly, a Karate student and a bearded Bavarian joined equally unlikely associates last week for Pioneer Middle School's first "regional ethnic festival."

The festival participants were actually the colorfully, and often outrageously, costumed teachers and sixth graders in the school's experimental interdisciplinary program.

The program, which combines the usually separate subjects of math and language development, science, social studies and the arts into a single learning situation. It is now in operation for about one fourth of the school's 250 sixth grade pupils. If it is successful, it may be expanded to include a larger segment of the school population.

For now, the 60 youngsters in the pilot program say they love it. One student, Robin Beyers, broke off her excited conversation with a white-faced, kimono-clad "geisha" to exclaim, "If they don't have it (the program) next year, I'm not coming to school... I love it."

"I wish we had it in all the grades in all the schools," another student Ken Miller announced through a mouthful of Scandinavian sweet bread.

And if the students are in love with the new teaching method, its instructional team, Midge Bearup and John Emery, are practically ecstatic.

Emery, bearded and dressed in the lederhosen, jacket and hiking boots of Germany's Bavaria, believes that the interdisciplinary program is "a little bit more like real life — you bring all of your knowledge to every situation." Real life, he said, is not segmented into social studies, math and science.

The "ethnic festival" is a clear example of the way the new program operates. Four weeks in planning, the day's activities included singing, skits, dances and demonstrations of the cultural aspects of this country's national minority groups.

Breads and cheeses from several countries were prepared by the students who learned math, consumer economics, cooking skills and weights

Crissy fund drive off to good start

PLYMOUTH — Mrs. Frances O'Connor, 15046 Robinson who along with Mrs. Marianne Heaton, 15875 Marilyn has been heading the Crissey, fundraising drive, has reason to be encouraged.

Although the ladies had intended to help in a very informal way, their efforts snowballed.

Mrs. O'Connor reported this week that close to $1,000 has come in so far. Central Middle School, students, faculty and parents, have raised more than $500. It was done through a faculty basketball game, cookie sales, canisters and other activities.

East Middle School reported to Mrs. O'Connor that its students and faculty have more than $375 for the Crisseys.

These plus the donations which Mrs. O'Connor has been handed come close to the $1,000 figure.

See story -- P. 5A

Mrs. O'Connor attributes the wide concern and interest to Crissey himself. "Fred Crissey is so well known that everybody wants to help. I think he's a rarity because he's a truly dedicated teacher."

She says she is aware of plans for other types of benefits including a walkathon and a magic show, but she has not received firm dates for these.

People are calling, writing letters, sending checks and offering to help. Mrs. O'Connor says that several who wrote said they had never met Crissey, but a youngster or friend had been one of his students at some earlier time.

How Boy Scouts help Girl Scouts' training

PLYMOUTH — Sunstroke victims are hot and sweaty, their flushed and their pulse rapid. A victim of heat shock is cold, sweaty, pale, and has a slow and weak pulse.

Because the members of Girl Scout Troop 363 can tell them apart, Steve Gerst will soon become an Eagle Scout.

Last fall Steve, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gerst, 1140 Hartsoff, needed a project that would earn him Eagle Scout recognition. Plymouth Scoutmaster William Neu suggested that he organize his fellow scouts in Troop P - 6 so that they could teach first aid. The Plymouth - Salem sophomore accepted Neu's challenge and has been coordinating first aid classes for area Girl Scouts since late November.

Under Steve's direction the scouts of P - 6 decided what subjects they should teach and in what order to go about teaching them.

The Girls of Troop 363 heard about the new instructors and volunteered to become their first pupils. The Boy Scouts, Steve, John Marsh, Gary McGee, Joe Roose, Jeff Housman, and John Sellman, conducted five one - night - a - week sessions from November to January at Isbister School. The Girl Scouts learned treatments for shock and poisoning, how to apply splints to fractures, and how to give artificial respiration.

Upon completion of the course the Girl Scouts took a comprehensive test devised and administered by Steve. "The test was easy," Steve said, "if the girls remembered everything they learned."

Recently another group of Girl Scouts put Steve's graduates to a field test by staging a car accident. Troop 363 reacted swiftly, appropriately treating the driver for shock. The girls have also used their training to put together a complete first aid kit.

Since the first group completed Steve's course other Girl Scout troops in Plymouth and Northville have contacted him requesting first aid instruction. Steve's associates divide into teams of two, taking turns running classes on the various aspects of first aid.

According to one of the P - 6 teachers, the Girl Scouts learned pretty fast, except "they kept tying granny knots instead of square knots"

Troop 363 how to put a splint on a broken leg without moving or compounding the fracture. The treatment was one of many taught by the Boy Scouts in a five week course which Steve designed for his Eagle Scout leadership project.

ANDREW R. BRODHUN

Brodhun's new bank president

One of the youngest presidents in Michigan is heading Michigan National Bank — West Metro. Andrew R. Brodhun, 34, took over the reins of the Livonia-based bank after being unanimously elected by the board of directors earlier in the day.

Brodhun, a Livonia resident, succeeds Elvin D. Dougherty, who resigned suddenly a couple of weeks ago. Brodhun had been with MNB in Detroit, where he was involved in all phases of bank operations and lending. He was a commercial loan group vice president and a member of the executive committee.

Brodhun will continue as a director of Michigan National Leasing Corp., which like the West Metro bank, is a subsidiary of Michigan National Corp., a bank holding company.

At Michigan State University, Brodhun earned his BA degree in accounting and finance. Later he served in the U.S. Navy. He joined MNB in 1965.

His memberships include Economic Club of Detroit, Western Golf Club and the Founders Society of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Esch asks U.S. limit on busing

U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch (R - Ann Arbor) took the House floor in Washington to offer a plan to limit cross-district school busing. He said it would clearly spell out congressional intent to the U.S. Supreme Court, now pondering the Detroit suburban school busing decision of Federal Judge Stephen Roth.

Esch, whose 2nd District includes Plymouth and Livonia, offered an amendment to Title I (aid to disadvantaged children) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, now being rewritten in the House Education and Labor Committee.

He said his amendment "will restrict the use of busing on the principle of the 'second closest' school."

An aide said Esch's proposal was more explicit than one passed last year under the name of Rep. William Broomfield, an Oakland County Republican. That provision said in effect there should be no busing for the purpose of achieving racial balance.

"Busing is disastrous educational policy and constitutes little more than a massive and risky experiment using children as the cutting edge," said Esch. "It is risky in my view and totally unjustified because there simply is no evidence that busing has improved educational opportunity, and there is some evidence to the contrary."

"Instead of promoting better race relations, it is resulting in more bitterness and polarization."

His amendment would limit the possibility of court-ordered busing to the "second closest school" from the residences of the affected children.

Machinery Modernized

Modern farm machinery is helping farmers to do more work than ever before, according to farm equipment engineers. Giant combines today harvest enough wheat in just one hour to make 20,000 loaves of bread while automatic bale wagons allow just one operator to stack over 3,000 bales of hay in one day.

Improved mental health care wanted

But state funding lags behind Northville's hopes

By CORINNE ABATT

With an operating budget of $15 million for this fiscal year, Dr. Richard Budd, superintendent of Northville State Hospital, feels like a man trying to drain Lake Erie with a soup ladle. It's a slow, frustrating process.

The State Legislature uses patient census as a guideline for mental hospital budgets. While this may have been appropriate a decade back, Dr. Budd explains the whole concept of care has changed.

He gives his predecessor, Dr. E. Gordon Yudashkin who recently resigned as director of the Michigan Dept. of Mental Health, credit for the change.

Labeling Yudashkin "a genius and a hard act to follow," Budd rattles off statistics to substantiate his contention of patient census being outmoded.

Budd is following the Yudashkin plan of moving patients back into the community as rapidly as possible.

In 1970 the hospital system was changed to a decentralized one. Budd says, "We run what we call a revolving door policy."

The chronic wards, where patients frequently stayed as long as 15 years, have been eliminated. Now, there are 23 units of 33 beds each. There is a team for each unit including a psychiatrist, one or two social workers, nurses, sometimes an activity therapist and a secretary. Today the average stay, including chronic patients, is just under six months. For 80 per cent of the first time admissions the average stay is 30 days or less.

The superintendent compares: "In 1966 there were 2,200 patients in Northville, now we have less than 900." The telling difference is in the number of patients treated under the new system.

He says: "We now admit 3-4,000 a year. Sure, we've reduced our bed census, but we're admitting four times as many per year. It's easier to treat chronic patients. There's no turnover. It's a nice quiet set-up, less paper work and very little activity. With high turnover our volume is increased fourfold." He says that in 1966 there were a few hundred aftercare patients in the community. "Now, we have four to five thousand outpatients and aftercare patients that we follow." He estimates this results in some 100,000 interviews during the year.

"Even if an interview is only 10 minutes long, you can figure the man hours involved. We have never been funded adequately for outpatient and aftercare activity." The more complete the aftercare, the less chance there is that the patient will need to be re-admitted.

Each patient released is followed by the unit team which took care of him at the hospital. This maintains continuity. Each unit admits between 200 and 250 patients per year and follows up on the same number with aftercare.

Budd says: "Only five per cent of the patients we take in are still with us after six years, so you see we've come down to the minimum number who live here with us permanently."

Each unit staff spends one day a week at one of three outpatient centers - Northwest Center, Cadillac Square Center or West Central Center. There are also two young adult centers, one on the west side of Detroit and one on the east.

Along with this there is the Crisis Center at Detroit General Hospital which recently came in for criticism because a young man who came for treatment waited several hours, left and was later found dead.

Northville staffs the Crisis Center. The staff screens 10,000 emergency patients a year. There are 10 beds available.

The problem as Dr. Budd sees it is too little money and too little staff for the myriad of services which are both needed and demanded.

Rising costs, and a budget which never quite covers these, are the major problem. Dr. Budd has a staff of 952 right now. Of these, 40 are psychiatrists and they are spread thin; six staff the Crisis Center, five work with patients at Wayne County General Hospital, eight are on the Northville administrative staff, leaving 21 for the units.

"I'd like to have 50," Budd says. "I should have two psychiatrists in every unit. I can use as many psychiatrists as I can hire."

But, instead of hiring more, he says, "I'm going to have to chop 40 positions to be able to live within next year's budget."

Yet, he believes that given an adequate budget, he could actually save the state money. In fact, he feels he has already done that.

In the fall of 1972, 721 patients from Wayne County General were transferred to Northville and last fall another 185. He says, "By doing this Northville is saving the state $4 million a year at a cost to the state of $200,000. It would cost the state $5 million a year to care for these 900 patients for which they gave us $200,000."

"The only way we can survive is to get most of them out, otherwise, we would be $2 million in debt."

He continues: "When the state says it is giving us $13 million a year, that's hogwash. The state recaptures the cost for all first year admissions from the county. The local community is paying for this. The state picks up to $1.8 million a year from the county for first year patients. So the state has given Northville $13 million, but it has picked up about $6 million."

He thinks about an impending visit from the national examining body and says, "How the hell can we meet these standards?" He flips through a book provided which outlines the standards. "Yet, at the same time we're providing the best care in the state."

After a moment of reflection he says: "We live in a different world now. In 1950 you could run a state hospital and get away with murder. In 1973 you run a state hospital like the Mayo Clinic."

This last statement doesn't come as a criticism. It is more like the impossible dream and he is gravely worried.

To meet the national standards and provide for the ever increasing demands, he has resorted to his staff.

"I have pushed my staff beyond their abilities. The turnover here is

Hearing set on walk-aways

A public meeting to discuss the problem of patient walk-aways will be held in the Northville State Hospital auditorium at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 19.

Dr. Richard Budd, hospital superintendent, called the meeting in answer to complaints from residents who live near the hospital that they are being bothered by some of the mental hospital patients who leave the grounds and knock on doors of area homes.

high. The wear and tear is terrific. We're running a pressure pot here. The pace is so much greater than anywhere else that I have trouble recruiting. For instance, the psychiatrist at the Detroit Crisis Center screens and does a complete work-up on an average of 24 patients a day.

He estimates the Crisis Center psychiatrists put in at least 60 to 70 hours a week with no overtime. He estimates his own work week at about 52 hours.

On top of these demands, as of last July, the hospital was given additional areas to service. Originally it was the west side of Detroit, Livonia, Redford Township and Plymouth. The North Woodward, Highland Park and Hamtramck areas were added, under the same budget.

In his parallel with the three wheeled car, Budd includes the computer which the state provided. It is the smallest of the line, big enough to handle day to day accounting, but none of the 85,000 pages of clinical reports done each year.

And so, with his limited budget, Dr. Budd will be cutting aftercare services as well as some 40 staff members. He estimates it will be necessary to abandon some 1,000 former patients now back in the community.

In the wake of this grim picture comes another jolt. Formerly all psychiatric patients in western Wayne County who were hospitalized for six months or more were transferred to Northville. The time has been cut to 60 days, so the influx could start anytime.

"I'm in a bind," he says wearily. "I have to cut services. We have empty wards and no money to staff them. It takes a quarter of a million to open up a new ward."

He pauses and says: "We're doing a third as much as we should be doing for patients. How long can we continue? How long can we say it's a state hospital, what can you expect?"

"Is this what society wants?"

And his final question: "How long can I ride on the personal dedication of my people?"

Youth Inc., city confer on agency's financing

By SHERRY KAHAN

PLYMOUTH — A decision to postpone a decision about city support of Youth Inc. was made Monday at a study meeting of the Plymouth City Commission.

The meeting was called to discuss Youth Inc.'s financial problems and the recent opinion of City Atty. Charles Lowe that state law prohibits cities from contributing to private organizations.

Commissioners who spoke generally favored supporting the youth center at 271 S. Main through a method that is allowed by state law — a contract for services rendered.

Concluding the discussion, City Manager Fred Yockey suggested that officials of Youth Inc. hire an attorney to prepare a contract proposal to submit to the commission in April when the city budget is prepared and when financial priorities are settled.

Despite a number of probing questions to Dale Yagiela, director of the center, Jack Bologna, its treasurer, and Eugene Stermer, president of its board of directors, commissioners sounded supportive of Youth Inc.

"The entire community feels that Youth Inc. has done a good job," said Norbert Battermann.

"I hope we can find some way to relate to the center both morally and financially," said Harold Guenther, who indicated his support for the contract procedure.

Mayor Beverly McAninch said the counseling and guidance service provided by Youth Inc. are not available elsewhere in the city.

Stating that the organization would prefer to be self-supporting, Bologna said that withdrawal of financial support from the city would be the "deathknell" of the center at the present time.

He stated that a recent state certification to permit Youth Inc. to seek funds from foundations and other similar sources was encouraging, and this would now be done.

He viewed it as a possibility that the center might try to hire out its services as consultants to other cities and towns wishing to set up organizations like Youth Inc.

Stermer expressed the opinion that the young people would favor the contract procedure. "They would appreciate the quality of adulthood in having their group responsible for a performance contract," he said.

As part of the center's presentation to the commission, Yagiela said that while Youth Inc. offers opportunities for such activities as making posters, developing pictures and playing pool and ping pong, its most important work is in connection with the problems of adolescents.

Bologna explained, "We are dealing with their personal needs, their self-concepts, goals and their desire to cooperate. By dealing with these needs we are able to prevent much negative behavior such as drug abuse, crime and poor performance in school."

PHS bands win honors once again

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth Centennial Park Symphony and Concert Bands, both top raters in their district festivals, will take part in a daylong section of the state band festival Saturday, April 27, in the Plymouth - Salem auditorium.

Both will compete with other top bands from the state in performances lasting from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Both Centennial Park bands received first division ratings of superior from all eight adjudicators who heard them perform Saturday in the district senior high band festival for schools in Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

The 94-member symphony band participated in class "AA" and the 92-member concert band entered in class "A".

"This is a superior group," commented one adjudicator. "You can all be proud of your accomplishment."

"Very artistic and affective performance," said another.

"You sight-read with more feeling than most high school bands could perform after months of work," a third wrote.

The Centennial Park bands are directed by Jim Griffith.

Carter leads PEA

PLYMOUTH — The Plymouth Education Assn. (PEA or teachers' union), because of the illness of its president, Joe Henshaw, has announced the appointment of Dolly Carter as acting president and chief spokesman.

Ms. Carter said that Henshaw is recuperating from major surgery in St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

A change in the PEA has eliminated the position of chief negotiator and has created a new committee called the Professional Negotiating Advisory Committee (PNAC).

Elected to that newly-formed committee are: Jack Birk, Bill Bartlett, Ray Dumont and Gary Hees.

Also elected in the PEA reorganization was Al Nurmi who has joined the PEA negotiating team and will serve with Ms. Carter and Candi Mair.

Memorial fund for Burnhams

CANTON — A memorial fund is being established in remembrance of the James Burnham family of four who perished in a house fire in Canton Township on Feb. 9.

The donations will be given to the fire department to use for memorial fund. Cornely of 44151 Arlington, or Mrs. Ronald Brandon of 44140 Arlington.

DEN 3 of Plymouth Cub Scout Pack 743 was honored recently as the pack's top fund-raising group. They raised $774 through candy sales. Den members are: Tim Draughton (not shown); and (from left in front), Scott Geoffrey, Norman Haygood and Joe Lyseil; (in rear) Jim Geoffrey. (Staff photo)

A LIVELY SENSE OF HUMOR and a long standing interest in sports are two of nine-year-old Joe Crissey's most notable characteristics. Joe and his parents, the Fred Crisseys of Plymouth, will be going to New York City next month for a special operation for Joe's illness, dystonia musculorum deformans. (Staff photo)

Boy faces costly operation

By CORINNE ABATT

PLYMOUTH — "For a long time," Fred Crissey of Plymouth says looking at his wife, "we felt we were walking it alone."

The understood phrase at the end of his sentence is "but not anymore." He is speaking about the events of the past several years, the discovery that their nine-year-old son, Joe, had a serious illness.

Now, instead of walking it alone, in the last month, a groundswell of support for the family has surged in the community and literally hundreds are walking with the Crisseys.

About two years ago Joe was diagnosed as having the rare dystonia musculorum deformans. But long before, the signs of trouble were evident.

Dystonia results in muscle spasms because somewhere in the mid-brain or thalamus, the message to the muscles gets garbled causing uncontrollable, painful and bizarre contortions.

Because the cause is unknown (sometimes it is hereditary, but not in Joe's case) the treatment is trial and error with rare exception. One of these is the operation which Dr. I.R. Cooper of St. Barnabas Hospital in New York City has been performing with some dramatic results.

After the years of treatment in Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor, and a meeting with another team of specialists in Cleveland, Ohio, the Crisseys, Joe included, made the decision to have the Cooper operation. Joe is scheduled for the cryogenic surgery the middle of April.

Mrs. Crissey says, "Our doctors feel that now is the time, we shouldn't wait any longer."

Dr. Cooper who perfected the technique, similar to that used on victims of Parkinson's disease, uses a cryoprobe, a slender hollow tube to inject freezing liquid nitrogen into the brain. This serves as a frozen scalpel to seal off the area of cells that are sending the garbled messages.

Joe agreed to the surgery once assured, "It won't damage my thinking ability."

During the past years only a handful of friends had been aware of the troubles and frustrations which the family was facing. Crissey says, "People knew Joe was ill, but it's never been a public thing."

Crissey, a physical education teacher at Plymouth Central Middle School continued his work plus extra coaching duties.

Joe's five brothers and sisters continued with their many academic and sports interests. Joe attended third grade at Our Lady of Good Counsel School whenever possible. His classmates helped push his wheel chair, they took notes for him and did the thousand little things which he wasn't able to manage.

But when the news of the impending surgery got around the city, Crissey says, "People have been unreal, the phone rings off the hook."

The family are still a bit awed by the support. Much of it centers around fund raising. There will have to be at least two operations, maybe more. Surgery on the left side of the brain affects the muscles on the right side of the body and vice versa. Each operation will cost about $2,000.

While his family hospitalization plan has helped in the past, it does not provide for this kind of surgery. There will be extra expenses, too. Joe and his parents will fly to New York, he would suffer on a long automobile trip. The parents will stay with Joe during the recuperation period.

Fred Crissey didn't consider cost when the decision for surgery was made. Joe's well-being was the prime consideration. Crissey says, "I just figured I'd borrow the money and it would probably put me behind the eight ball for 20 years."

Crissey describes the support from friends, neighbors, people the family hasn't seen for years or never seen as, "wonderful, really great."

He comments on the fund raising efforts in the local high schools. "These are people who are not supposed to care anymore; yet, they are the most anxious to help. It sure makes you feel better about the youth of today."

"We take turns supporting each other and you soon find out that's what marriage is for."

They think about Joe who is always in pain, who lives on Valium and Darvon and who never complains. When Joe, who was being carried by his father up a long ramp at Olympia stadium, said in his Dad's ear: "Dad if I'm too heavy for you, maybe I ought to go on a diet."

Together they admit that they have no promises of a miracle. They are optimistic on the basis of what Dr. Cooper has been able to do for other youngsters with the same illness.

Much of this is documented in Cooper's highly readable book, "The Victim is Always the Same."

It substantiates much of what the Crisseys already know. The illness is difficult to diagnose. It usually strikes children between the ages of five and 10 and these youngsters like Joe are usually very bright.

His mother says Joe is "excited and anxious about the operation. He is aware that he will be awake through it. He knows his head will be positioned with clamps so there will not be any movement. He knows he will be participating in the surgery, showing Dr. Cooper and the surgical team exactly what is happening to his muscles."

And while Joe and his parents are in New York, friends and neighbors will be watching over the rest of the family, bringing in meals and raising funds to help them through.

Fred Crissey says, "It makes you wonder about people - what they are and what they really stand for."

City must solve RR problems

Can the railroad problem ever be solved?

After all these years of talk, will anything ever be done?

There is only one place we can look to for the answer to those questions — the city commission.

The responsibility for making the recent controversy on overly delayed railroad crossings into anything more tangible than past efforts have produced lies with the commission and its administration.

This is not to say that perhaps Plymouth and Canton townships, as well as Wayne County, shouldn't join in the effort to get at least one grade separation along the C&O's arteries through our community.

But the initiative lies with the city.

No doubt the costly solution to the crossing tie-ups is contingent upon getting federal funding, and that entails miles of red tape and quadruplicate forms.

The city commission should direct its administration to start cutting through that red tape and pursue the matter until it is resolved.

At the recent public forum, sponsored jointly by the city and the C&O railroad, the first step was taken towards solving the problem. But it was only a baby step.

While the C&O may cooperate to a small degree — 15 per cent at most — in financing a grade separation, we cannot rely upon the railroad to initiate action.

It was evident from the railroad forum that the C&O will act only when it thinks its move will benefit it. The city must, through enforcing the five-minute crossing ordinance, prove to the railroad that building grade separations at major crossings is as much to its benefit as it is to the public's.

As Carl Glass, president of the Jaycees said at the forum, "If we're going to do it, solve the railroad problem, let's do it. If not, let's get off the C&O's back."

"Either do something or forget it."

The city commission should heed that message.

If we are going to tackle the problem, let's see it through to its final solution. The commission should either make good on the issue or tell its constituents they must forever put up with long trains disrupting the city.

And the longer we wait — the harder it will be.

Had the problem been dealt with when it should have been, it would have been much less painful than it is going to be at today's inflated land acquisition and construction costs.

If this city commission gets the ball rolling, they deserve to have their names suitably engraved on a bronze plaque at the base of the overpass as a tribute to their success.

But if they fail, they only join the ranks of the "also tried."

Sense And Nonsense

The Plymouth Senators hockey team has just completed another winning season and have been tops in their league for several years.

In a sport with team names like Hawks and Bruins and Wings, the Senators sort of stand out.

They chose the name in honor of their coach, Stan Smith. Carl Pursell, quite a hockey player himself.

Revive 'Plymouth' High School

By W. W. EDGAR

PLYMOUTH — As part of its golden jubilee celebration the Rotary Club of Plymouth is planning a drive to regain the identity of Plymouth High School that has been lost in the basketball hysteria in recent weeks.

Irrked by the fact that the public prints have referred to the team as "Salem" and not "Plymouth-Salem" — its official name — the Rotarians are taking action.

"We have one of the best basketball teams in years," Ralph Lorenz, one of the leaders in the move, told the Rotarians at last week's meeting, "and who is getting the credit for it? Salem."

"Plymouth is not mentioned in the headlines or seldom in the story of the games and I don't think there is a student from Salem on the team. It's about time this was changed and Rotary should start the move."

There wasn't a negative voice raised and President Kal Jabara promised the drive would get under way in earnest following the golden jubilee dinner on March 22.

Over the years the club has worked hand in hand with the high school, especially with the athletic program, and in later years with the farm promotion for the students.

The first major contribution was the installation of bleachers and lights for the old athletic field when the high school was in the city. Later Rotary paid for modernizing them.

When the move was made to the Centennial Park in Canton Township, the club helped subsidize the farm in the hope that the young students would learn that milk came from cows and not cans.

Recently the Rotarians also approved an illuminated sign to identify the farm to the passers-by at night.

Centennial Park was the brainchild of the late Russell Isbister, then superintendent of schools, who envisioned the day when the growth of the district would force the building of four high schools and provide the atmosphere of a college campus.

'School growth critical but less than expected'

majority of growth has been and will continue.

They were also wrong in projections of how many school-age children would be coming from single-family units, he continued.

Also contributing to the over-estimated projection was the assumption that there is a six month time lag between the construction of a dwelling and its actual occupancy, added Manore.

It actually amounts to seven months for single family units and 16 months in multiple housing construction, the Wade-Trim report states.

The Judd Report also made the assumption single family homes would generate 1.3 school-age children per dwelling unit when actually the figure is more like .08, Manore said. In multiples, the adjustment was from 1.27 children per dwelling down to .025.

"To test the assumption, we employed actual 1970 through 1973 building figures to project school-age population," Manore said. "We then compared the results with actual school enrollment figures. The results were startling."

For instance, Manore continued, from October, 1972 to September, 1973, there were 648 single family occupancies and 699 new multiple occupancies.

The Judd projection that followed was 1,261 new school-age children when the actual increase was only $14 for a difference of 447.

There are a number of factors that brought on a lower school population in Canton Township - and something that the Judd Report had no way of tracking, Manore believes.

"One obvious reason," said Manore, "is that the national birth rate has declined dramatically."

The other is the "unique local conditions that play a role in this decrease."

Amplifying on this point, Manore said Canton has become a "particularly desirable place to live" because of the prestige of the Plymouth schools and the Plymouth address.

Because of this desirability, house values are relatively high. The average cost of a single family home ranges between $40,000 and $50,000.

The characteristics of the families moving into such homes are also unique, notes Manore.

For instance, families moving into the township are generally buying their second or third home. The home they sell provides the down payment for the home they buy in Canton. The head of the household is generally in his 30s or 40s and he has a secure job, a good income and fewer school-age children.

Another startling fact is that many families moving into Canton are childless.

The last assumption checked was the technique used in the past to determine building projections.

The Judd Report assumed that each individual developer could accurately project his development schedule. Then, by simply adding the individual projections, an accurate overall projection could be made. This proved to be faulty, Manore said.

The developers contacted by the Judd committee projected that from September, 1972 to the end of 1973 they would build 1,779 single family homes and 871 multiple units.

In reality, Manore said, the number of single family units was 1,133 and multiples stood at 1,177.

"Thus, the developers appear to be much too optimistic in assessing the single family market," Manore believes.

Manore said he believes that "it is impossible to make accurate growth projections on a project - by - project basis." The Wade-Trim growth projections are made on a community-wide basis, not on an individual project basis, he said.

The Wade-Trim report also spelled out the development potential in Canton.

As of Jan. 1, there were 2,643 undeveloped lots which were available to the public, and approximately 2,311 lots will be made available in the next three years. Thus, Canton has nearly 5,000 lots which will be marketed between now and 1977.

There are 494 homes being built that will be occupied prior to the 74-75 school year, the report shows. Thus, even if 1974 should result in a decreased building rate for the area, the impact of this slowdown should not be evident until the 1975 school year, the report states.

In an overview of the impact of the growth situation, the Wade-Trim report declared "the elementary school system faces the most serious shortage."

By 1974, all elementary schools will be at capacity. In three years, there will be a need to add 1,772 spaces at total capacity.

"At least one new elementary school per year will be required if the school district is to provide adequate space for all elementary students."

Similar overcrowding is expected at the high school level. The deficit there will grow to over 900 total capacity. While it is possible to utilize some middle school facilities, the report recognizes this as only a "temporary" solution.

The Wade-Trim report coupled with a position paper by the superintendent on short and long-range goals, a building and site analysis now under way and the results of a maximum utilization study conducted last year will help the board reach a decision by April 1 on the bonding request that will appear on the June 11 ballot.

HAPPY (in basket) is coached by Millie Blackford (left) and Lois McAllister for the Business and Professional Women's Club annual fashion show. The "His and Her Easter Parade" show is at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday, March 21 in the Plymouth Community Cultural Center. Fashions at the show will be supplied by Minerva's Dunning's and John Smith clothing and modeled by BPW members and their husbands. Hair styles will be by House of Glamour. There is a $2 donation and tickets are available from any club member or from Mrs. Janet Richwine of 41701 Wilcox Rd. Proceeds go towards BPW scholarships.

Services held for Miss Amelia Gayde

PLYMOUTH — Another chapter in the 120-year-old history of Plymouth's St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran Church has closed with the death of Miss Amelia M. Gayde, last surviving child of one of its five founders.

Miss Gayde, 89, died March 7 at Martin Luther Home in South Lyon where she retired after spending a lifetime in Plymouth.

She was entombed in Riverside Mausoleum.

Miss Gayde's father, Peter, an immigrant cooper from Wuertenburg, called a meeting with four other German Lutherans on March 5, 1854, which led to the founding of the first

3 court complexes asked for Wayne out-county area

A resolution asking for three sites for out-county court complexes, which one commissioner says would kill downtown Detroit, is under study by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The full board has referred the suggestion to its public safety and judiciary committee for a recommendation. The resolution proposes that circuit and probate court branches be established on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital in Westland, in the Downriver area, and in the northwest area of the county.

Commissioner Paul Silver (D - Detroit) charges creation of three out-county court complexes would waste taxpayers' money and could "kill" downtown Detroit. He described the proposal as "irresponsible and shortsighted."

Sponsors of the resolution are commissioners Edgar Harris (D - Taylor), George Hart and John Lesinski, both Democrats from Dearborn.

In a related development, the board's general government committee recently voted unanimously to table a resolution in which Hart urges that a study be made of transferring the county seat from Detroit to western Wayne County. A unanimous vote to table usually kills a resolution.

Commissioners favoring out-county courts note that five additional circuit judges will take office next Jan. 1 and pending state legislation would add four seats to the probate court.

Backers of the resolution argue space isn't available in the City-County Building or any other public building in the vicinity, meaning the county would have to undertake a multi-million dollar construction program to house the additional judges.

The three commissioners suggest three or four circuit judges, a probate court branch, branch offices of the Friend of the Court and the County Clerk be at each out-county location. The out-county courts branch would be located at Eloise and headed by out-county presiding judges. Juries for all three branches would be selected there.

Local districts courts in Westland, Canton Township, Wayne, Van Buren Township, Sumpter and Romulus would be a part of this main branch.

Harris, Hart and Lesinski also recommended that a northwestern sub-branch be located in Livonia on Schoolcraft Road to serve Redford Township, Livonia, Plymouth and Northville. They suggested that several nearby communities could also locate their district courts in the complex, but didn't specify the communities.

The commissioners argue that "the equitable provision of public services requires that court facilities be established in western Wayne County to serve that population. Presiding Circuit Judge Joseph A. Sullivan implicitly acknowledged the equity of providing court services in western Wayne County by assigning Judge Thomas Brennan to a location in Dearborn during the interim in which a downtown courtroom is being made ready."

Silver, however, says it would cost a tremendous amount to establish four or five different locations for courts and related functions. Each site, he adds, would also need facilities for empaneling of juries, a Friend of the Court office, County Clerk's staff, prosecuting attorneys, a sheriff's court division office, and register of deeds functions that relate to probate court.

"You move out of Detroit and downtown Detroit is dead," declares Silver. "Oakland County courts were moved out of downtown Pontiac 10 years ago. This has resulted in Pontiac dying for all intents and purposes."

"The shortsightedness of some people is quite apparent because they don't realize that if the center city dies, it will have a serious negative impact — economically, culturally and otherwise — on all of the suburbs." Silver also says scattered court sites could cause confusion in determining where to try lawsuits.

The motion to table Hart's resolution suggesting relocation of the County Seat was made by Huey A. Ferguson (D - Detroit). "There has been more than enough movement out of Detroit," says Ferguson. "If the County Seat were moved, related offices in the public and private sector would follow. This would kill the plans of Mayor Coleman Young and the Detroit community to turn Detroit around and make the downtown one of the finest urban centers in the world."

Relocation of the County Seat requires a vote of the people, with the board of commissioners putting the question on the ballot.

Hart, in his resolution, noted a steady westerly shift in population density and said the majority population is expected to live west of Detroit by 1980. He suggested relocation of the County Seat by then.

Milliken's birthday parties expand to 3 observances

The seventh annual "Bill's Birthday Beefsteak," a huge birthday party for Gov. Milliken, has outgrown itself and is being expanded to three separate parties throughout the state.

On Tuesday, March 26 (Milliken's 52d birthday), the first of the 1974 Beefsteaks will be given in the Raleigh House in Southfield — the traditional location of the Beefsteak.

On March 27 an identical event will occur in the Grand Rapids Civic Auditorium and the next day the third party will be held in the Park Place Hotel in Traverse City, the governor's hometown.

Tickets are $125 per person and may be obtained by writing the Milliken Beefsteak Committee, POB 153, Belding, Mich. 49809.

Starting time is 8 p.m. with sirloin steak being the entree. The governor and his wife will be present to greet partygoers.

"The Beefsteak has grown in popularity each year," explains Jack Gibbs, committee co-chairman. Gibbs, a long supporter of Milliken and active Republican for some 15 years, is with BBDO Advertising in Detroit.

"Last year's party was so crowded that many persons literally had to sit on the floor in the hallways to eat their dinners. That's asking a bit much of someone who's paid more than $100 for a meal. Having the party in three locations should prevent that kind of overcrowding."

Casey Wondergem, committee co-chairman from Grand Rapids, says the energy crisis also played a role in the decision to have three Beefsteaks. "A significant number of partygoers have been driving down to Detroit from outstate each year just to attend the Beefsteak. By having the party in two outstate locations as well as Detroit, we think a lot of gasoline will be conserved."

Gibbs and Wondergem are being assisted in planning the parties by a contingent of workers that includes: Sheldon Smith, chairman of the Oakland County Republicans; Walker Graham, a Detroit advertising man; Wallace Riley, a prominent Detroit attorney; and Jeanette Weiss of Detroit.

The Beefsteak is a revival of a rollicking Tammy Hall practice popular in the early 1900s. Speeches and other political formalities were banned, the beer was free and plentiful, and the merrymaking became legendary.

Modern Beefsteaks retain the free beer and other aspects of casual good fun but some refinements, such as silverware for the guests instead of just napkins for greasy fingers, have been added.

Entertainment will include the Mother's Boys, a well known Detroit area Dixieland Band, and the Interlochen Jazz Quintet from the Interlochen Music Academy in Traverse City.

Consistent with Milliken's program for campaign reform now before the legislature, no state employee may solicit tickets for the dinner.

CHEVROLET'S LONG-HELD REPUTATION FOR VALUE AND ECONOMY MEANS ALL THE MORE TODAY.

20 small cars from Chevrolet, 17 of them priced under $3,000.

5 VEGAS, FROM $2380***
The lowest priced 4-cylinder car made in America.

That would be the Vega Notchback Coupe. And Vega has more than just its low price going for it. Results of recent Chevrolet fuel economy tests show an average of 29.8 miles per gallon for Vega at a steady speed of 55 miles per hour, the maximum federal speed. In simulated suburban city driving (average speed 24 mph with 1.6 stops per mile), Vega averaged 26.5 mpg. Engineers conducted the tests at our Proving Ground. Cars were Vega Hatchbacks equipped with standard engine and transmission and popular options. In all tests, cars carried the weight of two passengers. Of course the mileage you'll get depends on how and where you drive.

12 NOVAS, FROM $2647***
2-door, 3-door, and Chevy's lowest priced 4-door.

Nova was a sensible car when it was first introduced, and it's even more sensible today. Low priced, uncomplicated, solid—with the room you want plus the economy you need. Choice of thrifty 6-cylinder engine or efficient V8, a dozen different models in all. Need lots of load space? Look into the Nova Hatchback, with the big back door and the six-foot floor.

Nova 6 Coupe

3 CAMAROS, FROM $2890***
You're looking at the lowest priced car in its class.

True. At $2890, the 6-cylinder Camaro Sport Coupe is the lowest priced car in its class, and it's a mighty good-looking, good-driving car for the money. Sensibly sporty, with plenty of traditional Chevrolet value built in. Camaro is also available in V8 models, including the luxurious Type LT which has, among other things, an especially nice interior.

behind the storefronts

by Klaus P. Schierler

At the end of last month, as gasoline supplies were getting shorter and lines of motorists waiting at service stations were getting longer, I had time to reflect upon the energy shortage - mainly because I was one of those caught in line.

Why the sudden shortage, which had, until last month, bypassed Michigan, affected mainly the east coast? Answers and solutions are stymieing even experts.

The effect of the shortage on local service station dealers, however, is obvious from the many stations' shortened hours and numerous "out of gas" signs taped to pumps.

Phil Bucalo is a local station owner who doesn't have the answers either, but he is well aware how the shortage is disrupting his business. The mechanics at Phil's New-S Station in Livonia go off duty at 5 p.m. now, where they used to offer service work evenings, and the amount of gas pumped daily has been limited.

Dealers are given a monthly gasoline allocation by the oil companies, the amount of the allotment determined by a percentage of gasoline supplied in the corresponding month of 1972.

"Our allocation has been cut this month to 70 per cent of our March 1972 supply," says Phil. He compares this to the 85 per cent Shell allowed him in February.

The monthly percentage figure fluctuates with each oil company, explains Phil. He notes that Standard Oil, for example, is allotting dealers 75 per cent of their March 1972 delivery. Any predictions, Phil? "We'll just have to play it from day to day," he says.

NO PEOPLE SHORTAGE

There was no shortage in customers during Kroger's recent grand opening in Westland. More than 5,000 shoppers, or five times the number on a normal day, pushed their carts past the cash registers of the new store on Warren between Wayne and Cowan roads.

Store manager Andy Gerber notes that the opening was the most successful in Michigan Kroger history and brought the second largest crowd in Kroger's national history.

FIDELITY BANK WINNERS

Two suburban residents are anticipating some oceanside relaxation soon owing to their skill in guessing the amount of money in a jar. Leslie Rose, president of Fidelity Bank, which sponsored the contest, reports that the skillful winners are Claire Kasparian of Bloomfield Hills and Gretchen Hitch, of Birmingham.

For guessing only $1.03 less than the $2,773.50 the jar contained, Mrs. Kasparian wins first prize, a week for two in Acapulco. Mrs. Hitch will be sunning herself in Freeport as her second prize.

Regional TV forum to examine transit

A citizen television forum will explore the topic "Regional Transportation: Where from here?" on Wednesday, March 20, from 7 - 8 p.m. on Channel 56 (WTVS).

Questions to be examined include who is responsible for solving regional transportation problems, how do citizens have a voice in planning future transportation services and facilities, and the quality of the transportation system in Southeast Michigan.

A project of Regional Citizens, the program is the third in a series designed to provide information to citizens concerned about the future of the Southeastern Michigan region.

During last month's "Regional Choices" television forum, viewers were asked to rank 19 issues in regional importance. Citizens voted transportation as the number one regional issue in the metropolitan Detroit region.

The March program will include a review of the balloting, followed by a presentation from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) on regional transportation.

A panel of persons representing organizations interested in transportation will discuss points raised by the presentation plus several specific questions about the future of regional transportation in Southeast Michigan.

Citizens will be organized in homes, churches, schools and offices throughout the seven-county region to watch the program. After the program, discussion leaders will work with citizens to further explore the topic.

The subject of the May television program will deal with the second priority item on the survey - racial depolarization.

Regional Citizens is a public affairs organization formed in March 1973, as a non-profit research corporation of the Metropolitan Fund, Inc. Membership is open to any citizen interested in learning about metropolitan issues.

Volvo success to be discussed

DETROIT - The president of Volvo of America Corp. will address the Women's Economic Club of Detroit on Tuesday, March 19, on "Volvo and the U.S. - Today and Tomorrow."

Bjorn Ahlstrom, 39, president of Volvo of America, will include among his remarks plans by the Swedish auto firm for a $100 million, 100,000 unit - a year plant in Chesapeake, Va.

The luncheon will begin at 11:45 a.m. in the ballroom of the Veterans Memorial Building. Cost is $4.50 for members and $5.50 for guests. Prepaid reservations are by mail only and are due before noon Friday, March 15. Make checks payable to Women's Economic Club and mail to 606 Michigan Ave., Detroit 48226.

Presently, one out of every seven automobiles sold in the U.S. is a foreign model. Volvo, the number nine importer of cars, expects its 420 American dealers to sell 58,000 cars in 1974. By 1977, when the new plant will be in full operation, Volvo hopes to have 600 dealers selling 100,000 cars. The plant will be unionized by the UAW and be part of a 2,940 acre "New Town" development.

When our bills go down, so will yours.

You've probably noticed a rise in the cost of natural gas recently. One of the reasons for this increase is that Consumers Power Company now has to pay more for the gas it purchases and for the Canadian gas liquids it uses to make synthetic gas. As the cost of gas goes up for us, so does the overall cost of gas delivered to our customers. The increase is reflected in your bill, and is called a fuel cost adjustment. It's the fairest way we know of spreading increased energy costs equally.

and measures from shopping for and preparing the foods.

History and cultural and physical geography along with research skills were employed by each student in preparing the entertainment for the festivities. Language, music, dance and a host of other skills were enthusiastically studied by youngsters who might otherwise find the academic aspects of such subjects uninteresting.

The program appears highly successful. The youngsters enjoy, even look forward to, their studies, and the lack of discipline that too often characterizes a "free school" situation does not appear to be a problem in what Mrs. Bearup and Emery call a "modified open classroom" approach. Throughout the program, students remained attentive and happy.

Older observers might have noticed that for "readin' and writin' and rithmetic taught to the tune of a hickory stick," the handwriting is on the wall. And it's not the Palmer Method.

'Voters determine tax needs'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter was written in response to "With Fifteen Toward Home" which appeared in the March 4 Plymouth Observer & Eccentric warning Plymouth School District taxpayers to expect a "touch."

EDITOR:

"To steal; to gain by graft or bribery," the preceding definition of "touch," appears in Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary. A "tax," also defined in the same source, is a "contribution of wealth to meet public needs."

Taxpayers in Plymouth will be asked to respond to the public need by renewing the expiration of a 6.5 operating mill levy.

A realistic assumption after viewing the rise in operating costs affecting the total educational program would be that, quite probably the school board will be in need of additional millage.

The building dilemma the board has been in since its bonding issue was twice - defeated is still everpresent. They have been wrestling with the alternatives affecting this issue with the utmost caution and regard for the Plymouth taxpayer. It appears their attempt is to save the Plymouth taxpayer as much burden as possible.

READERS' FORUM

without bringing mediocrity to the Plymouth school program.

What is needed or "justified" can only be determined by the voter at the poll. The educational program in Plymouth has always been a contributing factor for establishing residence in this community. This "selling point" for the Plymouth community will only remain if the taxpayers are willing to "bear" the responsibility to see that growth does not "jeopardize" the proven prestigious position of the Plymouth school.

The teachers and their efforts have been instrumental in fostering the favorable image of the Plymouth schools, to say the least. While it is true that an early non-negotiable salary offer was rejected, teachers in Plymouth are in no way "gearing - up for a fight." Rather, teachers voiced in their rejection of that offer a mandate for contractual language reflecting their belief in the kinds of educational programs to which kids of Plymouth are entitled. Teachers in Plymouth have always prided themselves in deciding their own destiny via democratic processes and will continue to do so.

Historically Plymouth Education Assn. leaders or "officials" have always been people of the highest integrity, keenly aware of the wishes of their constituency. PEA officers are answerable to Plymouth teachers and are not "puppets" or programmed representatives of the Michigan Education Assn.

Certainly it is "difficult to know how negotiations are going to go" in these times of unprecedented inflation. Plymouth teachers will seek only that which is reasonable and fair. Teachers, as everyone else, would like to minimize the effects of inflation upon their buying power.

A "touch" smacks of soliciting funds under questionable or dishonest means. The school board's decisions will be based upon need without sensationalism.

Yes, "Taxpayers - - reach for your wallets" if you agree the needs are there.

DOLLY CARTER
Acting President
Plymouth Education Assn.

Liquor licenses are not toys

EDITOR:

I must begin by excusing my literary talent, for I am a restaurateur and not the editor of an obviously highly successful newspaper.

As a restaurateur with a liquor license on the premises, I would like to bring a bit of enlightenment to your misconstrued thoughts concerning issuance of liquor licenses.

Was it a "political toy" that our city commissioners with that made me wait nine months for a license? Or was it our police department checking my background to make sure that I didn't have a criminal record or affiliations with criminal organizations; or perhaps our city commissioners wanted to be sure that my operation would be one of pride to their city?

Your editorial suggestion of political wrongdoing has no factuality, but it does serve to put our city and township governing officials into a bad political light. They are doing their damndest to make sure that the licenses issued are assets to the community rather than detriments.

In regard to your comment of not being able to get "a beer with your hot dog at the local Coney Island," my memory may be fallible, but when granted my liquor license my entire menu consisted of sandwiches and Coney Islands, none of which exceeded $1.25 in price.

You humorously made reference in your article to a $8 bowl of chili. God hope we don't see the day!

In regard to $6 menu items, please try to comprehend my position and that of "posh places like the Hillside Inn and the Thunderbird - Hilton." We do not charge five, six, seven, or eight dollars because of the fact that we are licensees. Could you, Mr. Wendover, take a meal which cost you $2.11 in the raw product and sell it for $6 and still pay your waitress, cook, bartender, busboy, maintenance man, advertisements, heat, electricity, repairs, telephone, taxes, and insurance? Ah yes, don't forget your salary.

As one who has experienced, allow me to explain what happens when licenses are issued to "hot dog places."

Upon receiving approval of the license there is a $500 license fee to the state and costs of approximately $3000 for equipment. In order to cover the additional expense, prices must be increased. For customers to justifiably pay the increased price you must provide them with a more pleasing atmosphere, which creates another expense, which again raises prices.

According to the state liquor law you must have employees who have attained the age of 18, who command higher wages. Yes, another price raise.

The only way to avoid all of the aforementioned expenses is to have an establishment with a large enough seating capacity and a high enough volume to absorb the additional costs.

I do not agree in full with the limited license issuance, nor do I agree with all of the criteria for obtaining a license, but as in editorializing a newspaper, restrictions and controls must be placed in areas where they are necessary for the benefit of the community as a whole.

PLYMOUTH — If you can't get the students out to the farm, bring the farm to the students.

With that philosophy in mind, the "Farmyard Express" from the Plymouth School - Rotary Farm loads up chickens, ducks, pigs, lambs, rabbits, goats and other of its creatures onto its used school bus to take them on tour to Plymouth schools.

Recently this modern version of Noah's Ark visited Isbister Elementary School where the students got a Staff photographer Bob Woodring was on hand to capture the fun and prove the infallible adage that "one animal plus one child makes an excellent picture."

Youth groups lose money, interest

What to do about the youth groups and their financing has become a major problem in Plymouth, Livonia and Redford Township.

It isn't that city and township officials don't think the groups are doing an adequate job, far from it; but there is a matter of financing such programs, and the federal government is backing off from funding such projects.

There was a time when some of the funds for the youth groups came from a federal emergency employment program, but that has been dropped and may sound a death knell for the youth activities.

It was the federal funding that kept the Redford Youth Commission in operation, and now that it has been dropped there is grave danger the program will fall by the wayside.

Meetings are being held in Redford Township to see what can be done to keep the commission alive, but as of this writing it was very much in doubt.

The situation is a bit different in Plymouth and Livonia where Plymouth Youth Inc. and the Livonia Youth Inc. groups operate.

The Livonia program has been sagging for the past three or four years despite the efforts of community leaders to keep up interest.

The youths just aren't buying the entire program. They support programs they like and allow the others to wither on the vine.

There was a time a few years back when LYI dances attracted capacity crowds to the various high school gyms. Now a record hop with no big name band is just a waste of time. The youngsters just won't turn out.

Matter of fact, most appear to be more interested in going to a dance in another community to hear a band than attend a record hop in their own backyard.

There's something about the youngsters of today, the grass always looks greener somewhere else. Sometimes they find it, but just as often things would have been better at home. The big thing is to try and sell this to the juniors.

Thus the Livonia program needs financing and it needs a transfusion of some sort to revive the tired old-plan. Just what that should include is still a major mystery.

Thus there are meetings being held in Livonia for supporters of the LYI with the city council to try and resolve the predicament. It isn't going to be an easy matter, since all hands will have to agree on future steps to salvage the program. We're sure agreement isn't going to be that easy.

Plymouth is in the throes of major financial problems in the operation of the Youth Inc. program in the old Plymouth Mall and Observer building.

This is strictly a matter of dollars. The center hasn't been living within its budget and now finds itself with a deficit of several thousand dollars and no angel in sight to pick it up.

Thus at this time it appears as if all three programs may be washed out. There just aren't enough dollars to go around, and without dollars there can't be a continuation of the centers.

Strange enough both Livonia and Plymouth city fathers have been advised by their legal beagles they can't use city funds for such programs. That should sound the end. Now we'll have to wait and see what happens.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Why suburbs produce 2 top state politicians

The 1970 census showed dramatically just how explosive the thrust toward the suburbs had become. The numbers revealed that for the first time in our nation's history, more people lived in the suburbs than in urban or farm areas.

With such a massive population shift under way, it was quite clear that the suburbs — up to then badly underrepresented in state legislatures and in Congress — would make big gains in political clout quickly.

Just how big and how quickly became clear last week, when it emerged that leading candidates for the lieutenant gubernatorial nomination for both political parties were politicians from the northwest suburbs!

As you know, under Michigan's Constitution, lieutenant governor candidates are nominated by state conventions of political parties. In practice, however, the gubernatorial nominee selected in the August primary picks his running mate and the convention approves his choice.

This personalized method of selecting nominees for lieutenant governor focuses attention on the fact that today any candidate for governor must concentrate his attention on the suburbs, which is where the votes are and where many of the state's growing number of independents reside.

How better for a gubernatorial candidate to cultivate this important suburban vote than by picking a suburbanite as a running mate?

TAKE FIRST the Republican situation, which clarified considerably last week. Gov. Milliken surprised no one by announcing his candidacy; the next day, Lt. Gov. James Brickley surprised no one else by saying he didn't care to run again this year.

Among the names frequently mentioned as suitable new running mates is that of State Sen. Carl Pursell, of Plymouth. A down to earth, friendly man who does his homework, Pursell has a number of advantages going for him.

He's worked hard since his election in 1970, picking up a leadership position on the GOP side of the aisle. His position on the appropriations committee has won him a lot of friends around the state. He has been remarkably effective at getting things done, when doing so involves getting lots of differing power-groups together.

For example, he recently put together a coalition of local government types, folks from the Department of Natural Resources, and state legislators, to actually do something about pollution in Newburgh Lake, in Livonia.

For Gov. Milliken, a moderate Republican worried about post-Watergate backlash, a man with Pursell's strengths among the independent-leaning voters in the suburbs could be just the ticket.

THE DEMOCRATS find themselves needing just the same kind of suburban help, and among the names prominently mentioned is that of Livonia's Mayor Edward McNamara.

A down to earth, friendly man who does his homework, McNamara has a number of advantages going for him.

Since he upset former Livonia Mayor Harvey Moeke in 1970, McNamara has had remarkable success in settling down what had been a strife-riven city. Relations between the mayor's office and the city council, previously stormy, actually became constructive.

A large program of industrial development ballooned the city's tax base. McNamara even took the previously unheard step of cooperating with the city's schools and joined this month a coalition supporting increased school millage.

Both major Democratic gubernatorial possibilities — Sander Levin and Jerome Cavanagh — need McNamara's clout to make a Democratic suburban strategy work this fall.

Levin probably was defeated by Milliken in 1970 on the strength of the parochial issue, which turned enough normally Democratic suburban Catholics away to tip the balance in a close race. This year, with debate over abortion reform hotter than over parochialism, Levin will need McNamara's Catholic connections in the suburbs and his wide net of contacts among the state's other mayors.

Cavanagh is regarded (inaccurately) by many voters as an ultra liberal, probably because of positions he took in 1966, when he ran against former Gov. G. Mennen Williams in the senatorial primary. In a year when ultra liberals are about as respectable as fourth string Watergate defendants, Cavanagh will need McNamara's decent, middle of the road, sensibility.

REGARDLESS of which party you think of, the suburban vote is crucial. It's simply too large not to be courted, and increasingly it is becoming independent rather than tied to one party or the other.

Clout in politics has now matched weight in census data.

Political figures in Michigan must now add the suburbs to every political calculation they make.

Wrestling follows crowds out here to the $uburb$

Some of my deep-thinking colleagues, in their semi-explanatory and semi-apologetic essays on the affluence of suburbia, have found editorial solace in an assortment of undeniable statistics which demonstrate that, yes, our ranks are growing, our income per family is on the rise, and what with our addiction for good living we are spending it, as fast as we get it.

These pundits can be excused for relying on SEMCOG, SEMTA, the U.S. Census Bureau, and virtually every other bit of statistical trivia that has come from officialdom since FDR gave us the AAA, CCC, WPA et al, for the best barometer is not of their high falutin' ken.

In other words, they haven't paid attention to the simplest measuring stick of all — movement to suburbia of the hippodrome.

"Entertainment will follow the trend of the populace," Secretary Leonard McCarthy of the State Athletic Commission (our licensing body for cash-on-the-line boxing and wrestling) told me while I was tracking down one Lou Klein, an Allen Park entrepreneur whose chief possessions are a gymnasium, the 50 professional wrestlers who train there, and money.

What Klein has done, you see, is to recognize that if you have a show to put on, and it's a show that will sell, put it on where the money is if the money doesn't come downtown no more. That's why matchmaker Klein has lined up this series of dates for his wrestling stable:

March 12, Harper Woods; March 13, SS Peter & Paul; March 15, Royal Oak Dondore; March 19, Farmington; March 20, Clarenceville; March 22, Redford Union; March 23, Milford; March 25, Garden City East; March 28, Hamtramck; March 29, Huron Township; April 1, Warren; April 3, Plymouth Salem, and April 26, Thurston.

Mind you, now, what we're talking about is a list of professional wrestling cards booked strictly for the local zealots who will go to their high school gyms but who shrink in fear from a shadow downtown.

The guy ain't all dumb, and I can tell you that every wrestling promoter I've ever known from Harry Rubin, Jules Strongbow and Johnny Doyle on-down had the same knack. They can scent a buck faster than a bank president.

Klein speaks of his gladiators in the true modesty of a P. T. Barnum of yore: "The card I've scheduled for Clarenceville, Plymouth, Garden City, Redford Union and those other schools up your way should go to Madison Square Garden. They're that good."

And, my goodness, how can one doubt him when he reels off names of the elite such as The

Fred DeLano writes

Mighty Igor, Flying Fred Curry, Big Jim Lancaster, Gypsy Joe, Jerry Vettese, Little Bruiser and Heather Feather, at 349 pounds the roughest, toughest, meanest female wrestler in all this world and any other.

These and others of the hippodrome purvey their art under Klein's banner nightly throughout Michigan, Ohio and Ontario. Once upon a time they called such areas the sticks — like maybe 40 years ago when I used to watch Jumpin' Joe Savoldi throw his Notre Dame fullback-type blocks in a ring at Benton Harbor. Now they call the same areas the suburbs, but one rube's buck is as good as another. Just know how to find it, that's all.

There's a less cynical side to all this, of course. Like all his compatriots the nation over, Lou Klein is a philanthropist. He pleads guilty to starving his jocks to the point that "on a guarantee we can hardly break even," and then generously confides that a 60-40 split of the gate (the long end is his) is just about par and manages to keep the "family" out of the poor house.

"Success of each show all depends on each local co-sponsoring organization's pre-sale of tickets," admitted Lou in my confessional. And to the credit of the business acumen of our school groups, it really is for good causes that student councils and their mates are putting these money-raising shows on. We wouldn't want them to get stuck and have to eat the tab, as the saying goes.

Thus, we recommend for your cultural edification at least one look, via a pre-paid full price ticket, at no less than the greatest all-star, six-person tag team match booked nightly through the affluent, safe suburbs: one female wrestler, one midget wrestler and one normal male behemoth on each side. It's the sort of thing that can unite our galoshes and parasols society, right?

THE BIGGEST THING TO HIT THE SUBURBS IN QUITE SOME TIME

New edition surprised a few

The new Observer and Eccentric papers are now four editions old. We see improvement with each edition, but I think the staff was happy just to get the first Monday edition out on the street.

If we had it to do all over again, we probably would have introduced the new product on a Thursday instead of on a Monday.

Some of our Birmingham readers, receiving the smaller Monday publication, thought that all the new publications would be that size. They missed some of the features that traditionally had been in the Wednesday and Thursday products of the Observers and the Eccentrics.

It was surprising and disappointing to us that people sent unsigned notes criticizing the first Monday product, without giving us the time to come out with a Thursday publication. However, that is the reader's prerogative and, fortunately, was limited to few than a dozen persons.

It is frustrating, however, when notes and letters are unsigned, because we are unable to answer them.

A complaint raised in some of the letters was, "Why should the old Eccentric newspapers go twice-a-week?"

It is an interesting question because, for the last several years, we have disappointed many people and organizations when we did not have room to get their stories in the paper. Yet, at the same time we frustrated some readers by producing large papers that they were unable to get through each week.

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

By coming out twice a week, we will be able to reduce the size of the mid-week product and still get more local news into the papers each week. By coming out twice a week, we also will be able to get news out faster and avoid the problem of having to wait a whole week if a story breaks after our deadline.

The main changes are the change in name of the papers and the change of the width of the papers. The local staffs remain much the same.

The page size has been narrowed because of the newsprint shortage. But it is no narrower than the width of the Detroit metropolitan papers over the last couple of months.

The name change affects both former Observer and Eccentric readers, but the test of a community newspaper is not the name, but the coverage the paper affords. By combining our operations and coming out twice a week, we are able to add to our editorial staff and produce more local news stories each week.

I think everyone on our staff is happy that we have four publications under our belt and are striving hard with each edition to improve the product.

We are overwhelmed and gratified by the support we have received from our advertisers, which bodes well for the health and prosperity of the newspapers and allows us, in turn, to be a better group of community newspapers.

Smit helps end cold war in Lansing

JAMES W. SWISHER of Livonia has been promoted to assistant cashier as a member of the banking staff in the main Downtown Detroit office of Detroit Bank & Trust. He joined the bank in 1959 as a teller and earned a graduate certificate in commercial banking from the American Institute of Banking. Swisher belongs to a barbershop quartet association and he and wife Claudia have two daughters.

LANSING — A resolution introduced by State Rep. Raymond Smit (R - Ann Arbor) helped achieve a "temporary cease fire" in the cold war being carried on between the Michigan Historical Division of the Department of State, and the Parks Division of the Department of Natural Resources.

A DNR spokesman says the resolution introduced by Smit, whose district includes Plymouth, and Rep. Raymond Baker (R - Farmington) will hopefully result in a permanent solution to the problems.

The spokesman said Smit's continued efforts toward a solution helped bring the pressure needed for an agreement between the two divisions. The agencies have had an on - going conflict over management responsibilities for state parks.

The Smit - Baker resolution called for continued DNR supervision and management of state parks but directed the DNR to enlist the cooperation of the history division to develop appropriate historic preservation and information systems. An agreement was reached March 5 calling for essentially the same responsibility alignment as the Smit - Baker resolution. The agreement leaves the DNR responsible for operation and supervision of all state parks, including all programs and aspects within state park boundaries.

The historical division will be responsible for writing programs for historical preservation and interpretive programs which will be implemented with DNR people.

Appearance of marijuana

Q: We have received several inquiries from parents as to what marijuana looks like and if it is really possible to grow it in the home?

For those parents who would care for further information, there are pamphlets available at the Livonia Aide Crisis Center, 33110 Five Mile or at the Westland Aide Crisis Center, 8068 N. Wayne Road.

Below is a picture of a marijuana leaf which was also requested.

Impeachment advisory vote is proposed

A Wayne County Commissioner is urging a ballot proposition which would allow Wayne County voters to vote for or against impeachment proceedings for President Nixon.

George Z. Hart (D - Dearborn) suggested in a resolution submitted to the board of commissioners that the issue be placed before voters in the countywide primary election of Aug. 6.

The ballot wording, proposed by Hart, would read: "Do you favor impeachment of President Nixon by the Congress in order to provide an official proceeding in which the President may respond to questions regarding his possible involvement in matters related to the Watergate break - in and subsequent efforts to cover - up White House involvement in the break - in?"

Reuther is filing for U.S. Congress

John S. Reuther made it official today. After sounding out Democratic leaders for months, he announced he will seek his party's nomination in the 2nd Congressional District.

Reuther, 30, is the son of Victor Reuther, retired director of international affairs of the United Auto workers union, and a nephew of the late UAW President Walter Reuther.

The 2nd District seat is held by Republican Marvin Esch, a four-term incumbent from Ann Arbor. Esch is expected to seek re-election. One other candidate, Ronald Egnor of Ypsilanti, is already in the Democratic August primary.

Reuther recently resigned from Ford Motor Co., where he worked in research on the governmental affairs and planning staff, to devote full time to the congressional campaign. He had been there nearly a year. His home is in Ypsilanti.

A native of Detroit, Reuther earned a BS in industrial and labor relations at Cornell University; did graduate work in international relations at American University; and spent two years in the Soviet Union in language study and independent research.

His governmental and political experience includes: 1964, intern with Democratic Study Group in Washington; 1966 - 67, legislative aide to Sen. Birch Bayh (D - Ind.); 1967 - 68, congressional liaison for the Office of Economic Opportunity; 1968, worked on presidential campaign of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy in California; 1970, worked on Senate campaign of Edward Kennedy in Massachusetts; fall of 1970, mid-Atlantic states coordinator for presidential campaign of Sen. Bayh; 1971 - 72, directed Sen. George McGovern's presidential primary campaign in Massachusetts and was coordinator for the Minnesota campaign.

Honor Medal Award is earned by JA

Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan has earned the George Washington Honor Medal Award in the 1973 Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge awards competition.

The organization was competing in the "economic education" category, which includes programs or projects relating to the American free enterprise, risk - capital, profit and loss system.

The award was given for a presentation on the standard JA program, and also for locally produced public service TV announcements. The award will be presented at a special ceremony in April.

Recipients of this year's awards were chosen last December by a National Awards Jury of state supreme court jurists and 17 representatives of national veterans, service, civic and patriotic organizations.

The entry was a pictorial and narrative presentation of the JA program of economic education for high school students, now in its 25th year in Southeastern Michigan.

The presentation was supported by a scrapbook of newspaper clippings on the year's events and a television tape of public service spots and coverage during the program year.

JA of Southeastern Michigan has an average annual membership of more than 7,000 high school students who learn the basics of business practices through the experience of being in business for themselves.

Students meet two hours a week at one of the 27 Detroit - area JA centers. They experience the full cycle of a business concern from formation to liquidation within a period of 27 weeks.

In groups of 10 to 20, they form companies, capitalize, select, manufacture and sell a product, and then report profit or loss to stockholders. Most JA companies also pay a dividend to their stockholders.

The program is financed and supported by the business community. Executive vice - president is Edward P. Nagel and the 1973 - 74 president is Lloyd Haynes, vice - president of Michigan Bell Telephone. Ross Roy, of Ross Roy Advertising, is a founder and chairman of the board of JA in Southeastern Michigan.

Korean karate to be shown

LIVONIA — Tang Soo Do, the ancient art of karate, will be demonstrated March 14 at Madonna College in Livonia for members of the college karate class and the public.

Bill Thompson, an instructor at Madonna and the Livonia Family "Y", will demonstrate with his advanced students the kicking and punching movements which comprise this Korean method of self defense.

Thompson, a second degree black belt, has also studied Okinawan and Japanese self defense. He regards karate as two separate disciplines.

"During the 2,000 - year development of the art, emphasis was placed on emotional and spiritual control as well as on physical ability. Today, we hear more about the physical, but I consider the mental condition important to successful physical achievement."

The demonstration will begin at 7 p.m. in the Activities Center of the campus which is located at Schoolcraft and Levan.

Part of the extensive warm - up for the 14 Madonna students will be mental conditioning about the capabilities of their bodies.

MARY DUMAS (R - Livonia) met Vice President Gerald Ford while attending the National Assn. of Counties convention recently in Washington, DC, with fellow Wayne County commissioners. While there, she spoke with Congressman Marvin Esch (R - Ann Arbor) on his child development bill. She was asking about money for the county's Office of Youth Services.

BILL THOMPSON demonstrates the kicking movements which are used in Tang Soo Do, a Korean method of karate.

Baker won't run again for House

By DAN MCCOSH

The retirement of State Rep. Raymond Baker (R-Farmington) a 14-year veteran in what has been known as a solidly Republican district, has created a wave of speculation about who will run for the 64th district post.

Baker, 68, announced his decision not to run again Friday. He said his decision was based solely on his desire to spend more time with his family, and in pursuit of the leisure activities which he has always enjoyed.

His district includes Farmington and a portion of western Southfield.

He said his decision "has a whole lot more to do with fishing than with Watergate."

"I COULD almost rationalize seeking office for two more years just to avoid the appearance of stepping down out of fear," Baker said. "But my wife and family have for 14 years been devoted and understanding about the time away from them, which this job requires, and I think that's long enough."

Baker's announcement was followed quickly by the announcement Roger Walker, a Farmington insurance man, would run for the post.

Oakland County Commissioners Wilbur Brotherton and Pat Nowak are also reportedly interested. Brotherton was uncommunicative Friday.

Nowak said he would be thinking about the race, but did not know if he was in a position to cut back his full-time business activities.

While the county post is part-time, the state seat is full time.

REP. BAKER, a retired pharmacist, has devoted the past 18 years to public service, including four years on the Berkley City Council prior to being elected to the Michigan House in 1960.

A member of the house committees on conservation and recreation, as well as insurance, he was best known for his work in the conservation field.

"When I first came here we worked only a few months of the year, and I'm not sure that now we are 'full time' legislators we are accomplishing that much more," he said.

"I do believe that the imposition of definite deadlines for the introduction and passage of bills, as well as the consolidation of the committee system would result in great improvements in legislative accomplishments."

Common Cause meets March 14

Common Cause of Michigan is holding a "Coalition Meeting" on March 14, 8 p.m., in the Liberal Arts Building of Henry Ford Community College.

The local arm of the national citizens lobby has invited all groups interested in legislative reform to the meeting. More than 15 groups in the Detroit area have already accepted the invitation.

Recognizing that no one person or organization can challenge the resistance to political reform by some legislators and certain special interest groups, Common Cause believes that coordination of effort can lead to achievement of mutual goals.

David Cohen, vice president of Common Cause, will be the main speaker March 14. He will discuss specific types of state and national issues and then open the meeting to discussion.

BREAD DOUGH can be a sticky proposition, four-year-old Maureen Obert learns in one action-packed morning at the Westland Nursery, Inc. Mrs. Nancy Burdick is the mother assisting.

Fun is twice doubled

By SHERRY KAHAN

Twice the trouble, twice the fun was the way an author once described the experience of bringing up twins. If this is true then the Redford Township Cooperative Nursery School has four times the trouble and four times the fun.

Steven and Brad Peters are one of the two twin combinations attending the nursery and Keven and Alan Yost are the other. All four are three years old. All four are fraternal twins.

Every Monday and Wednesday morning they journey to Jefferson School, 26555 Westfield.

Mrs. Mary Beth Decker, the children's teacher, has trouble telling the Peters twins apart because they both have blond hair and greenish eyes.

But Alan and Kevin Yost are no problem. They don't look a bit alike.

Kevin has brown hair and brown eyes while Alan is blond with blue eyes. However, even at this tender age, the two boys have exhibited different personality characteristics. Keven is outgoing and gregarious while Alan is somewhat shy, not seeking out company as readily as his twin.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yost, decided to send them to nursery school so they would have a chance to play with other children rather than become too dependent on each other. Their mother feels they have learned a lot.

"With small children you don't get out very much to visit people and places," said Mrs. Yost, who works as a nurse at St. Mary Hospital two days a week.

"This experience seems to have been wonderful for them and they look forward to it. Among other things I think it has taught them to trust other adults."

Because it is a cooperative nursery, Mrs. Yost like the other mothers, must help out during school hours. For the other mothers this is a one or two-day-a-month job. But both Mrs. Yost and Mrs. Peters must put in double time at the nursery.

Mrs. Colette Peters enjoys the time she spends as a participating mother. She has noticed her boys act pleased when they hear she is coming. But once there, they usually ignore her.

"At first they were very cautious about going to school," she said, "but now there is no keeping them at home. I feel there is no place like it."

She has joined the children on several field trips this year, visiting an apple orchard and a Christmas display in the Lincoln Park Civic Center.

Mrs. Peters has a two-year-old son besides her twins. Carrying out the cooperative spirit even when away from school, she usually exchanges baby sitting duties with other mothers from the nursery.

One of the mothers with whom she leaves Robert is Mrs. Yost who has an 11-month-old daughter, Wendy. When Wendy Yost and Robert Peters learn to talk they will probably have a great deal to say about their older siblings.

It should be interesting to learn whether they decide it is twice the trouble or twice the fun.

MRS. COLETTE PETERS assists at the Redford Township cooperative nursery and has a carpentry session with her twins, Brad (left), and Steve. (Observer photo by Bob Woodring)

11 co-ops going in area

"Anyone interested in sending a child to a cooperative nursery next fall should register the child's name at the chosen school as soon as possible," said Mrs. Myrna Hahn of Redford Township, who is a vice-president of the Salem Cooperative Nursery in Detroit.

Like many of the other cooperative nurseries in the area, Salem holds an orientation meeting in May for prospective students at which time parents may register their three or four-year-olds for school.

Cooperative nurseries differ from other nursery schools in that they are non-profit organizations, are usually held in churches or schools and require participation from parents. For this reason their tuition is lower than other schools of this kind.

They expect a parent to work one or two days a month during school hours and also require attendance at monthly meetings. Some ask parents to spend several hours during the year on maintenance work such as painting or repairing equipment. Others want them to take on some responsibility such as fund raising, checking the children's health or acquiring food.

Despite the work involved, cooperative nursery schools are booming and many have waiting lists. Not only is the cooperative idea popular in general, but some mothers find themselves very partisan about the particular school their child attends. Some will drive long distances to allow their children to enjoy its facilities and program.

Mrs. Judy Smith and Mrs. Elaine Schultz drive from Dearborn Heights each school day to bring their children to the Livonia Nursery, Inc., held in the Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church.

Which to choose? In order for parents of this vicinity to make a sensible choice of a cooperative nursery school, the Observer & Eccentric is presenting a list of such schools, their schedules and fees. It will include those in or close to Plymouth, Livonia, Westland, Garden City, and Redford Township.

After a few years of close involvement with the editorial content of this newspaper, suddenly I find myself embroiled in its circulation, too.

Our youngest has started work on a long-awaited paper route and her mother is seeing how the other half lives.

"Did you ever stuff 65 bridal sections into 65 papers?" she asked when I telephoned home the day of the second issue of her new job.

I had to admit I had not. All I did was write parts of both those things she was stuffing.

But already I had played one small role in the delivery system. It probably would have been a large role except for the spring mud.

On her first venture into home delivery, she came up several papers short of the number of houses on the route. Guess whose mother was still at the office and elected to serve as intermediary between pressroom and carrier.

But the houses involved didn't get papers for another day. I was too chicken to drive through the mud that evening, so she hoofed it the next day.

It's really due to women's lib, I guess, that we have a newspaper carrier in the family.

Our older girls, way back when, thought that delivering this paper would be a neat way to make some money, but their applications were turned down because of their sex.

Equal rights now has extended its influence to the newsboy — oops — newspaper business, so youngest sister gets the job that eluded the others.

I told her there are some advantages to being the youngest.

She says she'll let me know if I'm right after she's delivered a few more papers.

Ramsey creates 'touchable' art

Artist Ted Ramsey believes in sculpture which cannot only be touched, but can be packed up and transported.

Ramsey, University of Michigan professor of art, whose polyester piece "Trailsong" is now being shown at "All Michigan II" exhibition in the Flint Institute of Art, says he would never tell a child, "don't touch!"

Ramsey feels that tactual contact helps people to relate more closely to the meaning of his art.

He also has placed built-in sounds into some of his plastic sculptures with buttons inviting the "participant" to touch the works "in order to listen to related effects." Electronic engineer David Wright of Ann Arbor has created many of the electronic components for Ramsey's art.

Ramsey's sculptural pieces are both washable and planned for year round display indoors or outdoors. He also plans them in component sizes so that individual units of about 25 pounds each can be unbolted and transported.

Ramsey is presently working on a commission for such a work from a French art collector who is planning the sculpture as a "puzzle piece" for his garden.

His most recent polyester sculptures have been inspired by last summer's family vacation trip through the southwest. He calls these works "cloud altars" or "visual poems."

He has created them "in traditional Roman arch shapes intended to represent a universally respected form, as well as the particular open vastness of Arizona and New Mexico."

The sculptures are six feet high, but seem to float as they rest on the floor supported only on tiny triangular feet. Incorporated within each sculpture is a small symbolic collage of natural materials and objects, such as a single feather.

"In a subtle sense I find I tend to use images which relate to air in all its vastness, freedom and openness," Ramsey said.

"I fill my pieces with references to cloud forms, to airships, balloons and airplanes which are a reaction to my feeling about the whole southwest."

But these works are created in a realistic factory setting which customarily produces furniture and trailer parts. Ramsey points out that this is an increasing practice with artists today, such as Alexander Calder who works in a foundry.

Recently Ramsey's larger sculptures have involved a hired factory worker. The artist and assistant use special tools for spraying resin, and must use large booths with exhaust fans to pull away the heavy fumes. They must also wear masks and rubber gloves to protect their skin and eyes from resin and fiberglass.

Ramsey's sculptures all begin with the modelling of simple forms in clay. From this he next makes a plaster mold from which he produces a polyester or epoxy pattern which he then refines. Polyester sculpture, Ramsey explains, is essentially a gel coat of color backed up with polyester resin into which fiberglass strands are incorporated.

His sculptures have been shown at art galleries and museums throughout Michigan. He is regularly represented by the Gertrude Kasle Gallery in Detroit.

Recently he has been commissioned by the Flint schools to produce a portable work which will be taken on a tour throughout the school system for the art participation of students.

Surrealistic Film is refreshing change

By JAN WILLIAMS

"Fantastic Planet" is reminiscent of childhood days when it was great fun to trap small insects, knowing they were at your mercy.

The difference in this film is that the humans, much like the small insects, are at the mercy of giant blue beings with red eyes who very much resemble humans.

The film is animated and its surrealistic content is enough to awe Salvador Dali. It's beyond a realist's comprehension to try to describe most of the creatures.

The blue creatures are referred to as Traags and the humans, Oms. The young Traags capture the Oms and keep them as pets. They're referred to as "domesticated" Oms, while the ones running free are "savages."

The story is told from the point of view of one particular Om. His mother was killed by a Traag when he was just a baby. A young Traag girl rescued him and kept him as a pet. From her point of view, an Om was a Traag's best friend.

As the Traag grew older, however, she didn't pay as much attention to the Om and he eventually ran away. He managed to take with him a device the Traags used to educate themselves. By the way, the Traag did give him a name — Tear.

Tear joined a group of free Oms and through the device he stole, they acquired enough knowledge to escape death from the Traags.

The Traags, who periodically exterminated Oms because they were considered pests by the adults, tried a massive extermination when the Oms became a threat to them.

Some of the Oms, however, had escaped to another planet, and there discovered a way to destroy the Traags.

It eventually ended in a truce, however, because neither race wanted to be completely destroyed.

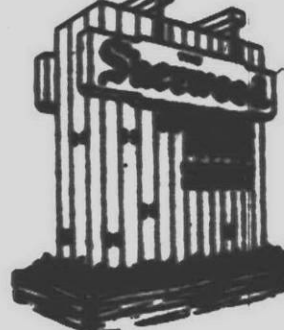

Believe it or not, the film was a winner at the Cannes Film Festival. It's a New World Production and the creation of Rene Laloux and a Franco-Czech production team.

Although it sounds like a fantasy show for kids, don't make the mistake of thinking it's a Saturday morning cartoon. It includes brutality and nudity, though not out of turn and to no great extent.

Actually, the film is sort of a refreshing change of pace for adults and the creators sure have some fantastic imagination.

Women on the Go Sales, service for Bobby

BY MARGARET MILLER

When you look at all the community services Robertina Eighmy has performed over the years, you wonder how she finds time to sell real estate.

But she does. Enough so that she has been named by Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors as its "Realtor - Associate of the Year" for 1973.

Mrs. Don Eighmy, better known as Bobbie, moved to Livonia with her husband four years ago after 20 years in Redford Township. Her business "home" is Tepee Realty, 25200 Five Mile, Redford Township, and it was in the Redford area that she has been most active in a long list of community projects.

"The things I've done have been mainly in the township," she said, and she could name Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Little League, township beautification, the YMCA, Boys Club, two libraries, PTA and church work.

But she also was active in the fund drive when St. Mary Hospital of Livonia was in its embryo stage, and just a week or so ago she was agreeing to collect in her Livonia neighborhood for one of the major charities.

"You know, I'm not sure which one," she said. "I've worked with so many. But even now, I just can't say 'no' when they need someone."

Mrs. Eighmy was entered as a candidate for the Realtor - Associate of the year award by her broker, William J. Goebel, and was selected by vote of a committee of salesmen in the WWOCB.

"I never expected to win it. I'll tell you that," she said after the vote was announced. "It's one of the highest honors a salesman can receive."

The judging is based on varied factors, including participation in local, state and national board of realtor activities as well as salesmanship and community activity.

There is a possibility of further honors.

Bobbie's name has been submitted to the Michigan Assn. of Realtors as a candidate for the state honor of Realtor - Associate of the year.

Should she win that title when the Michigan association holds its quarterly meeting in Toronto in April, she would be the second from the local area to do so. Pat McCarthy, also a Redford resident, won last year when the honor was awarded for the first time.

With the Western Wayne Oakland County Board, Bobbie Eighmy has held a number of Women's Council offices at the state level and has written and stated many educational and ethics skits at the state and national levels.

She has served on nearly all United Northwestern Realty Assn. and WWOCB committees, with most of her attention going to those that focus on education.

One major project has been the "Light the Night" program, in which realtors urged people in neighborhoods they served to cut crime by turning on porch lights at night.

"I'm sorry the energy crisis is cutting into that program," she said. "It was getting quite successful."

Mrs. Eighmy has managed successfully to balance real estate and community work with family life, perhaps because the business is a family interest.

Husband Don also works at Tepee, in fact, he was there a year ahead of her, and their son, daughter and daughter - in - law also are in the business. Bobbie has encouraged six other young people to enter real estate work, and figures she may some day be talking up the business to her three grandchildren.

Mrs. Eighmy said she always has considered community service, whether job - related or not an important part of her life.

"We take a pledge we will help the advancement of our community, and I take that pledge seriously," she said.

Which is a good share of the reason she's Realtor - Associate of the Year.

Men are victims of discrimination too, says Beebe

BY YVONNE BOILEAU
Special Writer

As chairwoman of the Michigan Woman's Commission, Lorraine Beebe concerns herself with such problems as health care for female prisoners, credit for married women, rape and even discrimination against men.

That latter, she told the Plymouth Women's Club in a talk Friday, may have something to do with the high divorce rate in this country.

"Full responsibility for home and family scares some men," Mrs. Beebe said. "Why should they have to accept it all?"

In addition to being on the Women's Commission, Mrs. Beebe also is executive director of the Michigan Consumer Council, an agency set up for consumer protection.

She also was a Republican state senator from 1967 to 1971, and in that capacity introduced the bill that established the Women's Commission.

The commission, consisting of 15 members appointed by the governor, studies women's critical problems and seeks to secure recognition for women and their accomplishments.

Critical among the needs today is better health care for women in prison, the speaker said.

"Women prisoners have serious problems and should have proper care," she said. "Some of the women locked up are pregnant."

She hopes too that something can be done about the system that at this point denies credit to married women.

"When women marry, they lose their identity," Mrs. Beebe said. "After marriage, women are dependent by law on men and are expected to play house."

"Women are brainwashed, conned and harassed from infancy. Our minds are liberated, but our bodies are in steel corsets."

Also critical, according to Mrs. Beebe, is the fact that although 40 per cent of the work force is made up of women, only six per cent of those in professional positions are women. Many women with master's degrees are ignored, she added, while men are trained.

Mrs. Beebe said the commission also is fighting the problem of rape, holding it should be listed as a felony and not as a sexual crime.

"It's an act of violence, the same as murder," she said.

She said she had talked to many rape victims and these conversations indicated they were embarrassed and felt ridiculed by the questioning to which they were subjected while the man accused was protected.

Women wanting to join committees concerned with any of these problems should contact the Michigan Woman's Commission, 230 N. Washington, Lansing.

During its meeting, the Plymouth club honored its past presidents.

One of the past presidents, Maxine Willoughby, who served from 1939 to 1941, also received a life membership. She has belonged to the group for 30 years.

Heitz - Dean vows taken March 9

Janet Marilyn Dean, of Ann Arbor became the bride of Henry C. Heitz of Ypsilanti in an early evening ceremony Saturday, March 9, in the First Presbyterian Church of Ann Arbor. The bride is the daughter of Richard M. Dean of Plymouth and Mrs. Edna M. Dean of Ann Arbor. The bridegroom's mother is Mrs. Elsie Anna Stone of San Diego. Officiating for the ceremony was the Rev. John R. Waser.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a taffeta and lace gown and a full-length veil. She carried white roses with ivy.

Energy crisis hits volunteers

"The energy shortage could raise havoc with our volunteer program," Louis J. Schult, director of community relations at Northville State Hospital, worried recently.

Those who help in the hospital on a volunteer basis already are giving of their time and energy, he said.

"Many of those in the volunteer program," he added, "are paying increased costs of gasoline and most of us here hope that should rationing occur they will get their share."

Mrs. Jean Bachelder of Plymouth, volunteer services coordinator, directs the work of more than 35 individual volunteers and 21 church groups.

Some of these, she reported, come to the hospital from as far away as Mt. Clemens and Walled Lake, making lack of gasoline a problem for them.

Others come to the hospital from Northville, Plymouth, Livonia, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Southfield and Detroit.

She helps AAUW serve a 'taste' of self - evaluation

"We're giving the Dearborn area a taste of what's going on in continuum centers like those at Oakland University and Schoolcraft College," said Mrs. Suzanne Pickering of Westland.

She was talking about the "3 for ME" series the Dearborn branch of the American Association of University Women will co-sponsor with University of Michigan extension service in Dearborn beginning Friday, March 22.

Three sessions on successive Fridays will be held from 8:45 to 11:30 a.m. in Christ Episcopal Church, Military and Cherry Hill, Dearborn.

Mrs. Pickering worked with Dr. Linz Brown, regional director for the U - M extension service, to organize the series that will include sessions on "Can't anyone hear what I'm saying?", "Why am I spinning my wheels?" and "You mean, I'm in charge?"

The program is an outgrowth of the decision to the AAUW in Dearborn to "talk about women for the first time this year," Mrs. Pickering said. "It turned out to be quite a personality-involving study," she added. "Even if you are talking about other women, you're learning about yourself."

As chairman of a study group called "Women Searching for Self," Mrs. Pickering set up a series of four lectures by U - M psychologist Mary Ellen Coulter.

"It was titled 'Yourself and Your Identity,' and the response was fantastic," she said. "Afterwards I did an evaluation and asked the women involved what further study they wanted."

"It turned out what was most wanted was a chance to be more involved in study sessions - to participate instead of just having someone talk at them."

From that grew discussions with Dr. Brown and joint planning of workshops that will involve leaders who have worked in continuum centers.

Adele Weaver of Livonia, community liaison consultant from the OU Continuum, will work with Sylvia Walworth and Judy Schneider in directing the first two sessions.

Both workshops will involve small group and pairing experiences to explore the effects of poor communication as well as group interaction to look at the problems of living with conflicting values.

In the final session, the leaders will be Dr. Janet Khan and Margaret Talburt of the University of Michigan center for continuing education of women.

That workshop will be designed to involve the individual woman in the process of influencing her own future through participation in group activities which deal with problem-solving techniques and different aspects of the decision-making process.

Anyone who never has had the experience of hearing "Tie A Yellow Ribbon" played by a handbell choir can find out how it sounds during a variety show March 15 and 16 in St.

Paul United Presbyterian Church,
27475 Five Mile, Livonia.
To be called "This is Show Biz," the production will feature all the choirs of the church and will begin at 7:30 p.m.

As their part of the event, 11 dedicated bell ringers, members of the church Handbell Choir, also will ring out "Put Your Hand In The Hand" and "The Bells of St. Mary." They are directed by Robert Zimmerman, who is a teacher of instrumental music in the Farmington school district.

The choir is the proud possessor of a set of 37 Schulmerich handbells which when played together will encompass a three - octave range.

Each member holds a bell in each hand, grasping it the way he would a small school bell. Standing in a row, one ringer is generally in charge of two notes, C and D, for example. Next to him perhaps is a bell ringer responsible for E and G.

When the music calls for his note to be played, the ringer need only give his bell a quick shake. The bells are specially made so that they will ring only once. He need not place his hand inside to control the clapper.

If a second note is needed immediately he merely gives another quick shake to produce his note.

"It is very challenging," said Mrs. Sally Benner of Redford Township, president of the Handbell Choir. "We have to know how to read music and work as a team. You are a note and you have to be on time and in rhythm. It is really fun," she added.

The bell metal is made of brass and copper, and to prevent tarnishing the choir members all wear gloves. While awaiting their note, they grasp the bell by its handle holding it upright."

The bells range in size from those with a diameter of nine inches to those with a diameter of three inches.

The handbell choir was originally made up of junior high school boys. At present its members are both men and women as well as high school boys and girls.

In addition to Mrs. Benner, the other officers of the choir are James Bigelow, vice president; Mrs. Robert Zimmerman, secretary; Alan Irvin, equipment manager; Debbie Stromberg, gloves, and John Velis and Bob Stromberg, bells.

The requiem mass of Gabriel Faure will be performed by the combined choirs and orchestra of St. Andrew Episcopal Church, 16360 Hubbard, Livonia, on Saturday, March 16, at 7 p.m.

Rev. William D. DuCharme, curate at St. Andrew.

Assisting him will be the Rev. Robert S. Shank, rector of St. John Episcopal Church in Plymouth, acting as deacon; the Rev. Thomas Wilson, rector of St. John Episcopal Church in Westland, as sub - deacon, and the Rev. P.D. Jones, assisting priest at St. Andrew, who will deliver the homily.

The Rev. Kenneth G. Davis, St. Andrew rector, will read the list of memorials.

• George Lamphere, St. Andrew choirmaster, is directing the choirs and orchestra. Also participating will be Mrs. Wallace Haggard, former St. Andrew organist, who now is organist at Christ Church in Dearborn. )

This is the church's first musical offering of 1974. Last year the choirs performed Mendelssohn's "Elijah" and Handel's "Messiah."

Rev. Lindberg in Rice post

The Rev. Donna Lindberg, associate minister of Newberg United Methodist Church in Livonia since last summer, will become minister of Rice Memorial United Methodist Church in Redford Township on March 20.

She succeeds James Barnes, who has left the ministry. The 275-member congregation has been without a minister since the first of the year. Guest speakers and lay leaders have filled the pulpit.

Rev. Lindberg will be the only woman minister who is a full member of the Detroit conference of the

Dr. Fred Hubbs will be featured speaker for an evangelistic crusade scheduled by Livonia Baptist Church, 32940 Schoolcraft, Sunday, March 17, to Tuesday, March 26.

Dr. Hubbs is former executive secretary of the Baptist State Convention of Michigan and now serves as vice president of denominational public relations for John Wesley College in Orono.

He will speak each evening at 7:30 during the crusade. Hal Crane, superintendent of missions for the state convention, will direct music for the series, and nursery care will be provided for each service.

United Methodist Church and in full charge of a church

She was asked to consider the move by the UMC district superintendent late in February, and the announcement was read to both congregations Sunday, March 3.

A native of Iron Mountain in Upper Michigan, Rev. Lindberg graduated from Adrian College and Perkins Seminary, affiliated with Southern Methodist University in Texas.

Before going to Newberg to work with the Rev. William A. Ritter, she was assigned to Beverly Hills United Methodist Church and the First United Methodist Church of Port Huron.

She has led a group of young people in a work camp in Mexico and is a member of her church's commission on the status of women and the board of ministry.

Industry--and that means jobs--requires a reliable supply of electricity.

Industry must grow to provide jobs in Southeastern Michigan. And industrial expansion depends upon a reliable supply of electricity.

We must maintain our system and build new plants and electric lines to meet all electrical needs. But our costs are rising fast.

That's one of the reasons we have to ask for price increases.

You can't take electricity for granted anymore, but we'll continue to do our best to provide reliable electric service now and in the future.

Westland girls will get own softball league

MRS. JULIE LAZENBY of Westland and her daughter, Debbie, are ready with the softball equipment for the Westland Youth Athletic Association's first registration for girls. (Staff photo by Harry Mauthe)

Thanks in part to prodding by a mother who used to play field hockey in England, Westland's Youth Athletic Association is registering girls for softball leagues this year for the first time in its 15-year history.

Registration forms are available in all schools in the city, and girls from the ages of nine to 16 can find on the forms the information needed to register on Saturday, March 16, for softball competition.

Mrs. Julie Lazenby has been urging the move for several seasons, she said, because her daughter, Debbie, and a lot of other girls have been anxious to play.

"My husband, Bill, is president of the Babe Ruth League this year," she said, "and our sons Tom and Philip have enjoyed the Youth Athletic Association teams. But I think the time for girls to have a chance too is long overdue."

Mrs. Lazenby grew up in England and played field hockey on girls' teams there.

"That's one reason I feel the girls have been getting the short end of the stick here," she said.

Teams will consist of girls nine to 12, and 13 to 16. If enough sign up the age spread on a single team will be smaller.

The youth athletic association has fees ranging from $1 to $13 for participation in the program. The fee is determined by the number of family participants, and boys and girls in each family are counted together for this purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wrenn of Garden City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nina Maria, to James M. Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins of Dayton. The bride-elect is a 1973 graduate of Garden City East High School and she and her fiance both are students at Arlington Baptist School in Arlington, Texas. A June 22 wedding is planned.

Patriots (21-3) meet Kettering tomorrow

BY TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

If you aren't already a believer that this is the "Year of the Patriot" - you had better get out your red, white and blue banners and start waving.

After trailing 39 - 30 at the half, Bob Visser's Franklin Patriots completely dominated the second half - outscoring Plymouth Salem, 32 - 13, in those last 10 minutes last night to capture a state regional cage clash, 62 - 52.

And to make matters even sweeter for Visser's cagers it was Franklin's first regional basketball win ever.

The now 21 - 3 Patriots, champions of the Northwest Suburban loop, meet Waterford Kettering in the regional finale tomorrow night (Friday), tip-off slated for 8 p.m. in the Livonia Franklin gym.

A 13 game winning streak will be on the line for Visser's crew against Kettering which knocked out the Southfield Blue Jays in the regional opener, 77 - 56.

For Fred Thomann's Salem Rocks, the 10 point setback was a disappointing finish to a great season in which the Rocks won the Suburban Eight championship and carried a 17 game victory streak into the regionals.

After showing almost every sign of blowing Franklin off the court in the first half, Thomann's cagers went completely cold in the second half - sinking only two field goals and one free throw in the third quarter and only two buckets and two from the line in the fourth.

Two quick buckets by Dan Moore and Bruce Johnson got Salem off to a 4-0 lead and then with only 1:43 elapsed in the contest, Rick Neu stole a Franklin pass and drove the length of the court only to be hammered into the wall on a foul by Franklin's Ken Fry who was promptly put out of the contest.

Neu made good one charity toss and Eric Agardy tossed in a two - pointer to give Salem a 7-0 margin.

That's when Visser called a timeout and with 5:40 left in the period, Matt DeMars popped in a Franklin basket.

Midway in the quarter, Jim Ellinghausen and Agardy pushed the Salem margin to 13 - 5 and Keith Blazaitis sliced it to 13 - 7 only to have Johnson up it to 15 - 7 for Salem.

That's when the Patriots caught fire.

Kaseta hit for Franklin, and with 27 seconds remaining, Blazaitis made it 15 - 11. Eighteen seconds later, Jamie Knapp made good two of two at the charity line and all of a sudden the difference was sliced to two, 15 - 13.

With nine seconds showing on a clock that was to work against Salem, the Rocks took the ball and drove down court working for a final shot. Ellinghausen missed on an attempt. The scorers' table was in bedlam as Franklin hauled in the rebound, the clock still showing nine seconds.

The infamous Franklin clock had failed to click and after a heated debate, the officials ruled that it was Franklin's ball with five seconds remaining to play in the first quarter.

"I heard Visser say to the officials that there was still five seconds to play," commented Thomann. "Somehow or another Franklin got the ball and five seconds and wound up scoring after the quarter should have been over."

A tip-in by Blazaitis in that five second overtime notched it at 15 all after one quarter and then some.

The second stanza opened with two bucket exchanges and then the fireworks started again.

Dave Prueter was fouled for Salem on a drive and was smashed into the wall. Coach Thomann quickly jumped from the Salem bench and about 10 feet from his player was slapped with a technical foul for getting on the court.

"Anytime one of my kids goes down and especially hits the wall on a drive, I am going to be the first one out there. And what do I get for it - a technical foul."

With two minutes remaining in the first half, Salem's lead was sliced to 31 - 28 on a basket by Kaseta. The Rocks then exploded for eight points and still managed to miss four free throws in that span to carry a 39 - 30 advantage into the locker room at the half.

The second half opened with DeMars sinking a two-pointer for Franklin. Blazaitis then followed with two buckets. Kaseta made good two from the line and with just three minutes elapsed in the third stanza, DeMars pumped in another Franklin basket to give the Patriots a 40 - 39 lead.

Salem finally got on the board in the third quarter with 3:39 gone on a field goal by Ellinghausen. But the Rocks then went another two minutes without a score while Franklin danced off to a 46 - 41 lead, Kaseta hitting for four points.

A basket by Johnson and free throw by Agardy was the rest of the Salem assault in the period while Knapp hit in the final seconds to give Franklin a 48 - 44 headway going into the last eight minutes.

Field goals by Jim Bagrie and Kaseta quickly upped it to 52 - 44 but a three-point play by Agardy and basket by Prueter sliced it to 52 - 49 with 5:28 remaining.

That was to be the closest Salem could fight to as Franklin's defense forced the troublesome Rocks into turnover after turnover and Franklin reeled off seven straight points in the closing minutes to win it going away.

This makes it 10 consecutive wins for Franklin in its home gym this season against no setbacks. The last time the Patriots lost in their gym was to Detroit Murray - Wright back on March 13, 1973, a year ago to the date, in the regional opener, 70-59.

Canton district hopes shattered by Pinckney

BY TOM DONOGHUE
Sports Editor

Click...the Pinckney Pirates came up with the better performance and turned the post-season lights out for Plymouth Canton cagers.

It was Pinckney 69 and Canton 64 in the Class B state district final at Brighton High, a site where Canton Coach Casey Cavell had visions of his Chiefs bringing home a district trophy in their first year of varsity competition, minus a senior class.

"We really thought we had it going for us," commented Cavell whose Chiefs wound up 2-16 in regular season action and 2-1 in the state tourney for an overall 4-17 showing. "But it just wasn't to be."

Pinckney popped in the game's opening bucket with 1:01 elapsed but the next three minutes belonged to Canton. Dave Edwards tied it at two-all, Ron Lack scored five straight points and Edwards pumped in two field goals to make it 11 - 2 Canton with 3:31 left in the period.

The Pirates came back with two baskets and with two minutes remaining, Lack upped Canton's lead to 13 - 6.

Everything then started working against Cavell's crew as Pinckney reeled off eight straight points, the last bucket coming with three seconds left by Mike Latimer to give the Pirates a 14 - 13 advantage heading into the second quarter.

"They (Pinckney) started putting pressure on us and we went flat," added Cavell.

Canton could only come up with 10 points in the second quarter while Pinckney continued its assault with 21 points to grab a 35 - 23 margin heading into the locker room at the half.

With 1:56 remaining in the third quarter, Canton started finding itself and nudged to within seven points on two buckets by Ray Mandel, 45 - 38. Pinckney then came up with six straight points to carry a 51 - 40 lead into the final eight minutes.

It was down to Canton's ability to overcome its turnovers and slice into the margin. But the closest the Chiefs could get was at the final buzzer when a bucket by Tom Close sliced it to five points.

"Once we got behind, we were almost finished," stated Cavell.

"I can say that I am pleased with this season," said the first year Canton coach. "The kids stuck in there and sure we had our jealousy fights between players but there was always a certain group that got us through the problem."

Canton wound up hitting 26 of 57 from the floor for 47 per cent.

Even though five of the Chiefs ran off the floor without even shaking hands with the winning opposition after the loss, Cavell walked off the floor with a smile on his face - next season his roster will have seniors on it. Box score:

Franklin High can now boast a hockey winner

The "Year of the Patriot" is chugging right along with football, basketball and now hockey championship victory steam pouring from its red and blue "spirit stacks."

The man behind the No. 1 locomotive at Franklin High has to be hockey coach Paul Ferguson who in his two seasons of head whistle blower has turned the Franklin hockey program into a real winner.

"Hockey is now a winner at Franklin High," said Ferguson after his Patriots captured top billing in the fourth year Suburban prep hockey loop.

Franklin nosed out Stevenson for the title in a statistic battle as the two clubs matched records with identical 9-2-1 showings. Franklin had the next best record, allowing 24 goals in the 12 league games while Stevenson gave up 34.

Ferguson's pucksters are now the No. 1 seeded club in the Observer & Eccentric Newspaper sponsored George Gee tourney which kicks off tomorrow.

In the 1971-72 hockey season, Franklin showed all signs of folding up the tent with a 3-13-1 record.

"Fergie," the name Coach Ferguson has been tabbed with, then stepped in and got his kids to finish at 10-9-1 last year in his first attempt in Patriot territory.

Now comes the 1973-74 campaign and the Franklin coach had just five returning lettermen.

The Patriot machine started to roll as Ferguson got two junior B hockey players to return to their school team.

"The kids just thought of hockey as a losing sport at Franklin and went elsewhere to play," said Ferguson who got Tim Livesay and Bob Juntilla to return, both in their senior stints.

Five other seniors came out for the first time and all of a sudden the puck was beginning to roll.

"Hey, it has been just one fantastic year," added the coach of the Suburban loop champs. "The kids did all the work but what a push we have gotten from first year Franklin Principal Dale Collier."

"He makes it a point to be at all of our games and hey, the kids see him - he comes in the locker room after the game and talks to the kids ... congratulates them ... and he really makes the team feel like it really is part of and a meaningful facet of Franklin High."

Things haven't been all roses for Franklin as the Patriots dropped two games early in the season to Wyandotte and Churchill, both by identical 4-3 scores.

"We lost a couple of silly ones," explained Ferguson. "We gave Wyandotte three breakaway goals and just outplayed ourselves against Churchill."

Franklin then went on to win nine straight league games, twice downing defending champion Stevenson - a team that Franklin had never beaten.

"We are now the team to beat in the Gee tourney," said Ferguson whose Patriots topped Stevenson in the first round of the league schedule, 6-4, and then overcame a 3-0 deficit the second time around to win going away, 7-4.

"Stevenson Coach Gerry Goode said it was conditioning that beat him, it wasn't," said the Franklin coach. "It was three good lines of hockey players that want to win."

"You know, winning at this game is about 50 per cent ability and about 50 per cent getting up for the game...getting spirit that won't let you down."

"We have the spirit and we are going to win this tournament."

"The last time we played Stevenson, we knew we had to win to get a shot at the championship. Here we are down 3-0 at the end of one period and 4-3 after two periods."

"We go into that locker room after the second and I wasn't sure what to say. All of a sudden one of the players started clapping, a few more joined in, and all of a sudden the entire team is clapping. I then find myself clapping louder and louder and we then went out and scored four goals."

"That's winning hockey at Franklin. 'Sure we have our problems like any team. I feel it is my job to criticize my kids and their performance on the ice but there is always a player or two that feels he knows something I don't and then the two of them go at it."

"I took care of that problem. I informed the kids that if they wanted to criticize another player, I would give them a whole period on the bench to observe the player they were criticizing. I had to enforce this one during the season and it got the point across."

"Our toughest test in this Tourney will be our first game against the winner of the Bentley-Wyandotte game which should be Bentley."

"Over confidence is the one thing that could really hurt us," added the Franklin coach.

On Franklin High's final statistic sheet which Coach Ferguson made up and handed out to the players, he included a paragraph on the bottom of the page that reads, "We have finally got all our stuff together, and are playing good solid two way hockey. Now we must go back to work and get ready for the playoffs. Bentley will be our probable opponent. Don't get caught looking ahead to the finals, we have to win this one first. Confidence is one thing, over-confidence is a killer."

The paragraph goes on to say that, "We all know that we can do the job. Don't forget: (1) forecheck all you got, (2) backcheck all you got, (3) cut retaliation and dumb penalties, (4) defense don't get caught and Bentley coming up."

Yes, the "Year of the Patriot" is picking up steam and it looks like the Patriots have one more item to toss into the championship fire, a fire that is throwing out "red and blue" sparks all around the area.

Prep hockey tourney 'face-offs' tomorrow

It's hockey tourney time in the Observer & Eccentric area with prep action slated to open tomorrow night (Friday) in the first round of the Observer & Eccentric sponsored George Gee hockey tourney.

The tourney, kicked off last year with Livonia Stevenson copping first season honors, opens with Churchill in action against Southfield at 7 p.m. and Bentley pitted against Wyandotte in the 9 p.m. clash. All games being played at the Ford ice rink in Livonia.

Suburban hockey loop champion Franklin will meet the winner of the Bentley - Wyandotte clash on Wednesday (March) at 9 p.m. with Stevenson taking up arms against the victor of the Churchill Southfield game in the 7 p.m. contest, also on Wednesday.

Ski Heil

By
BILL CAMERON

ST. PETERSBURG BEACH, FLA.

There's no snow here, no hills, no cold weather! Just miles and miles of white, sandy beach, glorious sunshine and 78 degree temperature. I'm sitting in a cabana watching the waves roll in from the Gulf of Mexico. The sea gulls, with their interminable chatter, glide overhead. A comfortable breeze drifts in from the west.

Now I know why thousands of people visit this land of sunshine. For the first time in my skiing career I chose a winter vacation to an area I heretofore skied away from.

As the years roll by, and the muscles seem to retain their soreness for a longer period of time, a man must face the realities of life and listen to the whisper of Mother Nature. The message I was receiving was "get away from it all - the telephone, people, business - relax."

So here I am, a beach bum!

I take my meals at the hotel; my only conversation is the social amenities directed at my waitress. The rest of the time is spent on the beach, or sleeping, or watching T.V. I've watched the sunset over the horizon and walked the lonely beaches at night. I even got up this morning to watch the sun rise!

Yesterday I went in to St. Petersburg to watch an Oldtimers baseball game. Did that bring memories out of the past - Musial, Berra, Cavaretta, Feller, Vernon, Kiner. I watched a "young 52 year old" former Pittsburgh Pirate shortstop by the name of Pete Castiglione make several plays that would make several present day shortstops blush. I hadn't seen a baseball game for years, but this one I enjoyed.

Of course no "northerner" in his right mind is going to spend more than two or three hours exposed to the sun. (That's why I'm in the cabana wearing socks!) The biggest selling product has to be sun-tan lotion and sun glasses. But it is amazing what sunshine and warm temperature can do to you. The minute I stepped off the plane at Tampa airport and stepped out of the terminal, I felt better. The air is fresh, the smell of salt water has a uniqueness all its own. I've read Solzhenitsyn's book, August 1914, which I've been trying to get at for a month; I've learned to relax again by doing absolutely nothing which requires a schedule or a set routine. I feel akin to Jonathon Livingston Seagull - I'm doing my own thing and enjoying every minute of it.

Southfield dumps Thurston

Thurston ran into a streaking Blue Jay squad and fell out of state tourney cage action - a game shy of a district championship.

It was Southfield 64, Thurston 51, in the Southfield district finale.

For Thurston it ended its longest winning string of the season, two games. The short lived streak featured state tourney victories over Detroit Redford, 77 - 66, and rival Redford Union 73 - 65.

The Eagles carried only a 3-17 mark in the meet and finished the entire campaign with a 5-18 showing, averaging 62.2 points per game while allowing opponents an average of 70.2 points a game.

Southfield is now one of the hottest clubs in the area as the district title win stretched its winning streak to nine in a now 13 - 10 season.

It was only 13 - 11 after one quarter with Southfield in the lead but the Blue Jays exploded for 21 points in the second to grab a 34 - 25 margin at the half.

Southfield all but tucked away victory in the third quarter as Thurston could only come up with eight points while the Jays reeled off 15 points to lead after three quarters, 49-33.

Dave Trowbridge at 6-4, about an inch taller than Thurston's Gary Bireta, played a low post in the clash and scored a career high of 35 points.

Area matmen cop All-State titles

Four Observerland grapplers captured All-State honors in the Class A meet at Calvin College in Grand Rapids.

Garden City West's Randy Steckroth, Thurston's Ken McLean, Farmington's Mark Churella, and Brian Chism of North Farmington placed in the top four in their weight divisions to earn the dream stripe of their letter sweaters.

Steckroth at 119 pounds placed second behind Dennis Brighton of Temperance Bedfore. Brighton pinned the Tri-River champion in 3:56.

The West senior closes out his prep career a three-time league champion in the Tri-River with a 29-8 showing.

Thurston's Ken McLean finished fourth in the state in the 170 pound division behind Merton Gabara of Alpena, Marc Kalinowski of Warren, and Marty Pietras of Walled Lake Central. McLean was All-Northwest last year as a junior but finished behind North Farmington Bill Lough this year.

McLean was 40-8 this season. North's Chism placed third in the state in the heavyweight slot and Farmington's Mark Churella lost his first match of the year in the state finale to Grandville's Mark Yerrick at 155 pounds.

Plymouth Pilgrims top Livonia Vikings, 5-2

The Plymouth Pilgrims of the Michigan Junior hockey league proved too much for the first year Livonia Vikings of the Wolverine Junior loop.

After Livonia's Nick Corden gave the Vikings a 1-0 lead in the second period, the Pilgrims slapped in two quick scores to carry a 2-1 lead into the final 20 minutes.

Plymouth then finished off what it started in the second with Wyatt Gates scoring two to complete his hat trick and the Pilgrims had made their landing in Livonia for a District Five victory.

Plymouth outshot Livonia, 52-21. Results:

Mail is 'still a bargain'

EDITOR:

On behalf of all of us in the U.S. Postal Service, I want to thank W.W. Edgar very much for brightening our day with his excellent Stroller article of Feb. 27.

Needless to say, we wholeheartedly agree that where the cost of mailing a letter is concerned, even at the increased 10 cent rate, you really get quite a lot for what you pay.

We know that most people are inclined to take their mail service for granted, and frankly we're rather proud of that fact. Although such an attitude places a particularly heavy responsibility on us, at the same time it implies a certain confidence in our service, and we would not want to have it any other way.

Most people are not aware of the fact that postage rates in the United States are substantially less burdensome for American workers than are the comparable rates for workers in most other nations. For instance, the typical American worker must work one minute and 16 seconds to match the cost of the 10 cent postage charge for a letter. In the United Kingdom and France, he would have to work two minutes and 34 seconds; in Germany and France, two minutes and 22 seconds.

We know price increases are never popular, and believe me, we wish we could have avoided the recent postage increases. But the truth is, like everyone else, we too are under severe inflationary pressures. For example, when the price of gasoline goes up one cent, it costs us an additional $3.5 million a year just to operate our postal vehicles.

We recognize the obligation we have to provide mail service at the lowest reasonable price and one of our main objectives will continue to be that of finding ways and means to hold postage rates down through greater productivity and more efficient handling methods.

You may rest assured the Stroller has earned, and forever more will carry, our indelible "stamp of approval."

More bike days asked for '74

EDITOR:

My husband and I are very much interested in more biking days like the one held in October 1973. We are avid bikers and feel that this is one of the few safe opportunities for biking in the city. Please see to it that we again have a bike day in 1974.

From our readers

Equipment is a danger

EDITOR:

I think that it is horrible that in Rosedale Gardens subdivision and in many other areas, workers start road or sewer construction and then go on strike, leaving huge and dangerous equipment in front of people's homes for months.

I think that it should be made a law that once contractors start a job they should finish and move dangerous equipment.

DOUG DOTY
Livonia

Postage up, cheer down

EDITOR:

I, too, remember, as The Stroller says, when to mail a letter it cost two cents, a post card one cent, and that included the stamped card an envelope also.

I like to send cards to convalescent home patients and hospitals. But social security, I guess I will have to not bring any cheer or love to the shut-ins.

MRS. MARY COLEMAN
Livonia

Eliminate trapping

EDITOR:

While rationalization of cruelties persists, let those who care to change inhumane trapping in Michigan support HB 5462. If trapping were eliminated until a humane trap was devised, perhaps a humane trap would come about.

If you don't do something to help eliminate cruel trapping, you are helping it to exist.

It is important that your representatives and the House conservation committee know of your stand. Remember, the animals belong to you as much as to those who wish to destroy them for sport and profit.

GOP finds it 'positive'

EDITOR:

Thank you for your excellent coverage of the 15th Congressional District's recent Lincoln day dinner for Gov. Milliken. We were particularly pleased with the editorial by Len Poger pointing out that Watergate does not necessarily mean disaster for local Republican congressional districts.

It's no secret that the Republican Party has not received much positive "press" recently, and so we are doubly delighted for your coverage and forthright editorial on our district activities.

ERNEST C. FACKLER
Chairman, Republican
15th Congressional District

Unwanted treat in store

EDITOR:

When standing in line to check out at the drugstore at the Livonia Mall, everyone gets to view all sizes and shapes of bare breasts. Today we were treated to a bare bottom. The offending magazines were spread out so no one would miss them.

I have objected to the practice and it has not changed. I do not understand why I have to view this material. Some supermarkets have little wire racks for these magazines. They are placed high so little fingers can't reach them. These racks also have a cover so some of us who do not care to view them do not have to. They are also distinctive for the convenience of purchasers.

I would be interested to know if any of your readers know of any drug store in Livonia where this material is kept behind the counter and out of sight or in racks. I would go out of my way to shop there.

ALERTING RESIDENTS of new benefits available to those 65 years or over, blind, or disabled, Judy Arnold directs the SSI - Alert program for northwestern Wayne County.

Red Cross looking for poverty types

American Red Cross has agreed to use its volunteer resources to search for possible recipients of the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program administered by the Social Security Administration.

Purpose of the SSI program is to provide a basic floor income for single persons of $100 and $240 for married couples in Michigan.

Acting as an extension of Social Security, Red Cross has accepted the responsibility of alerting and screening possible eligible persons for the benefit.

This assumption of responsibility was done at the request of the National Organization of Older Persons and the Social Security Administration. Titled "SSI - Alert," the program will be funded by the federal government.

Judy Arnold, director of SSI - Alert for northwestern Wayne County, says the program "is an organized effort to locate all persons who are 65 or older, blind or disabled, who may be eligible for SSI benefits."

She says the concept was developed to reach eligibles who cannot normally be reached through usual channels of communications.

"With assistance from community groups, churches and individual volunteers, we hope to seek out eligibles through personal contacts. Although television, radio and newspapers will help make friends and relatives aware of the new benefits, in many cases the media isn't available to the needy."

Persons may learn more about benefits by contacting her at the Social Security Office, 17500 Lahser, Detroit.

STRATFORD 74. TOTAL THEATRE.

THE IMAGINARY INVALID
KING JOHN
PERICLES

LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST
LIFE IN PARIS
(LA VIE PARISIENNE)

Stratford. It's the thrill of experiencing Shakespeare played in a unique thrust-stage theatre inspired by the Greeks and the Elizabethans. It's the fun of seeing Offenbach in all his gaiety and exuberance. It's the excitement of being involved in contemporary opera and plays at the Third Stage. It's the enjoyment of superb concerts and an International Film Festival. And it's the relaxation of a stay in an unspoiled little town surrounded by the pleasant green countryside of rural Ontario. This year, the Stratford programme is an even more involving and total experience. Pericles is one of Shakespeare's last works, a seldom-staged romance that follows a Greek prince through a series of fairy-tale adventures—revived after a triumphant success last year. Love's Labour's Lost is an early Shakespeare comedy that has come into its own in our century—loved for its richly comic characters, its fantastical language and youthful charm. Shakespeare's King John is a story of troubled kingship that rings throughout with the clamour of war. John, both King and villain, is caught up in a web of political, religious, and civil conflict which ultimately defeats him. The Imaginary Invalid by Molière is a tale of high comedy and pointed satire about an invalid who revels in his imaginary illness. The follies of both doctors and patients are mocked in this delightful proof that laughter is the best medicine. Life in Paris, a new English language version of La Vie Parisienne by Offenbach is an exuberant and joyous tribute to life in that most frivolous of all cities, Paris. Stratford 74. Total theatre. ## 'My cabin never leaks when it doesn't rain'

Into each life some rain must fall. But if the rain is coming through an old roof, chances are the forecast is for a steady downfall.

A 15-year-old roof, covered with standard shingles is a prime candidate for reroofing.

That's because roofs tend to wear uniformly and even the best roofing materials eventually fall victim to weathering. The real culprit is the sun, which causes roofing to dry out, fade and become brittle.

Wind, rain and temperature changes add to the aging process.

Signs of a weathered roof are excessive loss of protective mineral granules, cracked, curled or missing shingles, and excessive buildup of granules in the base of downspouts.

Before proceeding with a reroofing project however, the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Assn. recommends an on-the-roof inspection by a professional roofer.

The professional roofer is a good source of product information and can recommend the best way to reroof your home. There are several points to keep in mind when making a product selection.

For example, labor costs for installation of asphalt shingles tend to be the same whether the life expectancy of the shingle is 15 or 25 years. It may turn out that the better quality shingle though costlier initially, is more economical in the long run. The cost of materials and labor is amortized over a longer period of time.

Asphalt shingles often can be installed over the existing roofing without the necessity of a tearoff. Another important consideration in the selection of roofing material is its fire resistance. Asphalt shingles are manufactured to meet the Underwriters' Laboratories Class C standards or better.

Roofing with a Class C label indicates the shingles will not be ignited easily, will resist the spreading of flames over the roof area, and will not emit burning brands, which would result in new fires.

Many communities now require that new roofs meet at least the Class C standard, a regulation that has the support of such organizations as the National Fire Protection Assn. and the International Assn. of Fire Chiefs.

A NEW ROOF of heavy-textured asphalt shingles gives fresh beauty to this charming older home. Installing top-of-the-line shingles provides many years of solid weather protection, low maintenance, and fire resistance.

SC offers organic gardening

Spring is nearly here, and so is a new organic gardening class at Schoolcraft College.

The class will meet at the Newman House, south of the campus on Hagarty Road, beginning April 2. It will meet for eight weeks on Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

Developed as result of last summer's popular community gardening project, and a need for garden instruction, the course will be taught by Robert Treadway. He will be using a garden plot at the Newman House for demonstration during class sessions.

Various topics are to be included in the course: The concept of organic gardening, methods of composting, soil preparation, organic methods for pest control, use of mulch, crop selections, and literature of organic gardening.

The organic gardening class is the result of cooperative efforts between the Schoolcraft community services program and the Newman House. The classes should be convenient for individuals using one of the 300 garden plots the Newman House plans to have available on campus this year.

Individuals may register by calling the registrar's office. Tuition is $11 for residents, $22 for non-residents, and payment should be received prior to the first class session. Class size will be limited to 20 students.

Chemical may boost industry

Chemical growth regulators show promise, for major improvements in Michigan's $9 million blueberry industry, according to Dr. G. S. Howell, Michigan State University horticulturist.

"Growth regulators, such as Ethephon, that make mechanical harvesting easier would have two major benefits for blueberry producers," Howell says.

"First, the ripening period is shortened so that harvesters can gather the entire crop with fewer passes over the bushes. Second, the vibration force needed to remove the berries from their stems is reduced by 40 per cent."

By using Ethephon to ease blueberry removal, the vibration intensity of mechanical harvesters can be cut in half with a major reduction in injuries to the bushes.

We can design a pool of any size or shape to fit your needs.

For years people have been saying "Wouldn't it be wonderful to swim all year, not just when the sun shines and it's in the 80s?" We have now found the way to swim 365 days a year with no chilly evenings to send you in before your swimming desires are satisfied. Sun Fun Pool enclosure is the way to assure yourself of year-round swimming enjoyment.

Pool and enclosures on display at our office.

May we suggest to pool owners that you buy your chemicals early as there is sure to be a shortage of chlorine this year.
